Hearings Set For Salmon Tract Project

Senators Join In Drawing Up Plans

WASHINGTON (Special) — Sens. Frank Church and Len B. Jordan announced today that public hearings will be held Aug. 3 on their legislation to authorize construction of the proposed $51.7 million Salmon Falls Reclamation Project.

The hearings will be held at 10 a. m. in Washington before the Water and Power Sub-Committee of the Senate Interior Committee.

At the same time, Sen. Church and Sen. Jordan announced the Bureau of Reclamation feasibility studies on the project have been completed and sent to Congress.

The feasibility studies show a favorable benefit-to-cost ratio and the bureau has recommended the project be constructed.

Under the legislation introduced by Church and Jordan, more than 180,000 acre foot of water from the Snake River would be used to provide 180,000 additional water supplies for 50,000 acres of presently irrigated land, plus water for more than 14,000 acres of land not now irrigated.

Located south of the Snake River, the Salmon Falls project extends roughly from Salmon Falls Reservoir near Rogerson to near the Milner Dam.

Church and Jordan both noted the people of the area have been faced with water shortages for years and the project offers the only hope of developing a full water supply.

The two senators said anyone wishing to testify on the project at the Aug. 3 hearings should contact the Senate Interior Committee, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20510.

Troops To Remain In S. Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has a secret agreement not to withdraw American soldiers from South Korea so long as South Korean troops are fighting in South Vietnam, according to a former South Korean-Defense Ministry official.

Paul B. Park, former deputy defense minister, said South Korea agreed to send 45,000 soldiers to South Vietnam on condition no U.S. forces would be withdrawn from South Korea.

"That agreement is not verbal. It is in writing and I know that for a fact," Park told UPI.

"Now let us see if the United States will honor its word," Park said, responding to reports the United States wants to withdraw some of the estimated 60,000 U.S. troops now stationed in South Korea.

Park is chairman of the policy council of the opposition New-Democratic party in the South Korean Congress.

President Blamed In Jail Use

PARIS (UPI) — The Viet Cong said today President Nixon has supplied advisers and money to help South Vietnam maintain "inhuman jail systems" while talking about peace in Indochina.

Dinh Ba Thinh, the Viet Cong's acting head negotiator, made the accusation at the 74th session of the Vietnam peace talks.

"International public opinion, including that of the United States, is extremely indignant over the inhuman jail system of the American and puppet regime in South Vietnam, especially the tiger cages of Poulo Condor (on Con Son Island) which we have often condemned," Thinh said.

Several U.S. congressmen said they saw what they described as inhuman conditions in the prison when they visited it recently.

"While Nixon keeps extolling the idea of 'a just peace' for the South Vietnamese population, he has supplied dozens of advisers — and hundreds of thousands of dollars for these prisons," Thinh said. "The only means to put an end to the suffering of the South Vietnamese population is to withdraw totally all American troops from South Vietnam and drop the Thieu-Ky administration, which is an American tool for repression and terror."

Ireland Ready For Parades

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Militant Protestants stacked rubbish in the streets for bonfires and brought out their orange sashes today in preparation for Monday's parade to celebrate a battle victory over Roman Catholics nearly 300 years ago.

Two smaller Protestant parades went off without serious trouble Wednesday night except for what police described as one minor rock-throwing incident. No one was hurt.

British troops, part of the 11,000 on alert through Northern Ireland, blocked entrances to Roman Catholic areas with trucks and armored cars and helicopters hovered over the parade routes to try to spot trouble.

American Party In T.F. Meet

The American Party will hold an executive committee meeting here Saturday to discuss fund raising and organizational matters.

The meeting will also include setting a date and place for a state central committee meeting. The central committee will fill vacancies on the party's ticket.

Two candidates certified for the Aug. 4 primary election ballot from the American Party are Joel Anderson; Pocatello, second district congressman, and A. Lane Blomquist, St. Anthony, for state superintendent or public administrator.

Wallace Hill, Boise, was chosen June 13 as the party's candidate for governor, but he was not certified for the primary ballot. Hill said he planned to seek certification for the general election ballot, but State Chairman Earl Manchester, Boise, said the central committee may pick a different candidate later.

Death Of Eight Blamed On Pill

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Oral contraceptives have been cited by the Utah State Medical Examiners as contributing to the deaths of eight Utah women over the past three years.

Dr. James T. Weston said Wednesday the women died from lung blood clots "associated with the sustained use of oral contraceptives."

He added that pulmonary embolism — blood clots blocking blood vessels in the lungs — has increased considerably since the pill's introduction.

All eight deaths occurred in women under 30, he said, who had no other apparent reason to be stricken with the ailment.

While he admitted he could not pin down a direct "cause and effect" relationship between the pill and blood clots, Dr. Weston said there appeared to be some kind of connection.

Nixon Adds 2 Agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today proposed creation of two new federal agencies to control pollution and coordinate research and exploration in the oceans.

The President said the proposals represented "a profound commitment to the rescue of our national environment and the preservation of the earth — as a place both habitable by and hospitable to man."

The President's plan, transmitted to Congress today, would create an independent agency, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), to set and enforce antipollution standards and an agency in the Commerce Department, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) coordinate research on the actions of the oceans and atmosphere now spread over several departments.

The President's proposed reorganization will go into effect within 60 days unless Congress disapproves.

The President said he was departing from his normal aversion to adding the proliferation of new federal agencies in order to tighten control on pollution and to better focus research into the interacting aspects of the oceans and atmosphere.

The EPA will bring together in a single organization the major federal pollution control programs now spread over the Departments of Health, Education and Welfare, Interior, Agriculture and such independent agencies as the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Main Republican was in "satisfactory" condition today, a spokesman at Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center said. Mrs. Smith was expected to be hospitalized for about two weeks.

She suffered from what doctors described as "a congenital dislocation" of the hip for several years, forcing her to rely on a small electric cart to get around the Capitol.

New York (UPI) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, 72, the only woman in the Senate, underwent surgery Wednesday for removal of her arthritic right hip and received a plastic and metal hip bone and leg joint in its place.

Soviets Seen As Not Favoring War

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union believes no current international issue, including the Middle East, is worth going to war with the West, a study published by the Royal Institute of International Affairs said today.

The study said the use of Soviet forces in trouble spots such as the Middle East is part of a policy to enable Moscow to pursue an active global foreign policy while limiting the West's freedom of action in critical areas.

"Basically, the Soviet Union, however, has always left herself a tactical loophole through which to escape from the commitments whose risks become too high," the study said. "So far no issue has appeared which is worth a war with the West."

Charges of first degree kidnapping have been filed against Thomas Laird Twiford II, 19, and an unnamed juvenile who are now being held in Cassia County on charges of assault with a deadly weapon and grand larceny. Peace Plans For Amman

AMMAN (UPI) — King Hussein in the fight against Israel. Four Arab nations helped mediate the settlement, Egypt, Libya, the Sudan and Algeria, and were said by the Palestinian and guerrilla troops from Amman, where they fought a bitter three-day battle in June. Palestinian sources disclosed details of the pact Wednesday. The official announcement was expected today and the 16-point settlement during three weeks of negotiations between the army and guerrilla and commandos, contained 16 points, including one calling for the virtual demilitarization of the capital to reduce the possibility of more army-guerrilla clashes.

This point was said to call for the removal of guerrilla bases and heavy guns from the city, along with all regular army units. Civilian militiamen and antiaircraft guns and crews would remain to guard against Israeli attack.

The plan had no provision concerning the Palestinian refugees camps in Amman housing about 70,000 persons, many of whom fought for the guerrillas in the three days of fighting in June that killed an estimated 1,000 persons in the capital.

Political analysts said Hussein appeared to have fared well in the agreement, for the points include no mention of blanket freedom for the guerrillas despite the reported promise by the four mediators. This is what the fighting in June was about.

Closure Placed On White Clouds Area

ODDEN (Special To The Times-News) — A Forest Service closure has been placed on the use of crawler tractors and other mechanized earth-moving equipment on National Forest lands within the White Cloud Peaks area on the Challis and Sawtooth National Forests. The closure, which became effective on July 8, applies to all National Forest lands except designated roads. Normal modes of travel and presently authorized uses of the Forest are unaffected by the closure.

This closure action was taken and announced jointly by Forest Supervisor G. W. Carlson of the Challis National Forest, Challis, and Supervisor E. A. Fournier, Sawtooth National Forest, Twin Falls, pursuant to 36 CFR 251.25 (Secretary of Agriculture Regulation U-6). The closure will remain in effect until further notice.

In making this announcement, the Supervisors emphasized that the White Cloud Peaks area contains a wide variety of important resources and the scenery is of exceptionally high quality. Forest Service studies are underway to identify management alternatives and provide specific recommendations for future land management decisions, for this area.

The Forest Supervisors pointed out that this closure will not affect operations on any already established valid mining claim which is accessible to a road designated in the closure order or otherwise accessible to the claimant without crossing National Forest land. Any miner who is unable to do required assessment work on such a claim may apply for a waiver of the assessment requirement at the Land Manager's Office, Bureau of Land Management, in Boise.

General, Officers Are Lost

SAIGON (UPI) — The commanding general of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and six subordinates have been missing for two days in a helicopter crash, military spokesmen said today.

Scores of American aircraft were aloft searching for them.

The U.S. Command simultaneously announced 81 American servicemen died in Indochina last week, the lowest weekly GI death toll in more than three and a half years.

Spokesmen said Maj. Gen. George W. Casey's helicopter, presumed to have crashed, was last seen at 10:10 a.m. Tuesday (10:10 p.m. EDT, Monday) as Casey flew to visit wounded men of his division in South Vietnam.

Military spokesmen did not pinpoint the locale of the search for security reasons. Casey, 46, of North Scituate, Mass., maintained his headquarters at Phuoc Vinh, 36 miles north of Saigon.

There are large U.S. Army medical facilities in Saigon and at Long Binh, 17 miles northeast of Saigon, where his wounded men might have been hospitalized.

The U.S. Command was believed to have withheld information on Casey's disappearance for security reasons.

Also aboard Casey's helicopter and listed as missing were Capt. John A. Hottel III, of St. Bethlehem, Tenn., Casey's aide; 1st Lt. William F. Michel, of Monroe, Mich., the pilot; Sgt. Maj. Kenneth W. Cooper, of Colorado Springs, Colo., the sergeant major of the division; Spec. 4 William L. Christenson of St. Paul, Minn., door gunner; Spec. 4 Ronald F. Fuller, of Providence, R.I., crew chief; and Capt. 4 Vernon K. Smolik, of Garfield Heights, Ohio, Casey's stenographer.

Unarmed Youth Aid In Asbury

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (UPI) — Unarmed black youth patrols and state police maintained peace in the violence-scarred streets of this resort community today while Negro leaders canvassed West Side ghetto residents on city government reactions to their 20 demands.

Approximately 300 black leaders met five hours Wednesday with Mayor Joseph P. Mallice to discuss the demands which included a proposal to grant amnesty to the 225 persons arrested during three nights of violence in which 160 were injured and damage was estimated at more than $1 million.

No serious incidents were reported Wednesday as the black youths acted as a buffer between ghetto residents and police in an effort to end the violence. Only 12 arrests were reported during the day.

Black leaders were slated to meet again with Mallice today. Although none of the official decisions on the black demands was revealed, Mallice and black leaders such as Willy Ham expressed optimism. "We feel encouraged by it," Ham said of the meeting.

Other key demands included establishment of a civilian police review board and withdrawal of all state police and outside policemen from the community.

Police Chief Thomas Smith, a black, said he was "cautiously optimistic" that serious disorders may have ended in the resort community of 22,000 persons.

State police announced earlier Wednesday, Maj. Harold Grant, head of the Criminal Investigation Bureau, would lead an investigation into shootings Tuesday that resulted in 45 persons being wounded, four seriously.

Volunteer Army Is Expected

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr said Wednesday it would be "very difficult" to raise a volunteer army today, but predicted it will work in the future.

He based the comment on current unfavorable opinions against the military in the country, but said, "If we increase the economic attractiveness of the military and combat law divisive and bitter period, the volunteer army will be practical."

He also predicted that if the U.S. Supreme Court allows conscientious objection to specific wars, the draft system will no longer be able to function.

"The animosities between those willing to serve and those unwilling would destroy the system," Tarr said.

The director said he does not expect a large increase in the number of applicants, conscientious objectors as a result of the Supreme Court decision to grant the status of other than religious objectors, but he said the number of requests will be high.

He also noted that new guidelines for conscientious objectors are being debated through a study of training.

Evel Plans 'Jet-Powered' Snake Canyon Jump

Evel Knievel still likes the Snake River canyon, especially the awesome gorge in the vicinity of Twin Falls. He still wants to jump it on a motor-cycle, he told a news conference in Seattle recently.

Mr. Knievel had planned to jump across the Snake River canyon near the Perrine Memorial bridge some time ago. He toured the area and made elaborate plans, but then later canceled the project.

Now he wants to try jumping the canyon in the vicinity of the Falls—either Shoshone or Twin Falls, he told the news conference. He claimed he or his backers had acquired land near the Falls for construction of a giant "launching pad"—including an acceleration ramp a quarter of a mile long and a 100-foot takeoff ramp.

Mr. Knievel said construction on the project was scheduled to start next Wednesday. But a survey of area property owners that for the present at least no lease has been signed and there are no known negotiations for either lease or purchase of land by Mr. Knievel.

His plans call for him to use a giant "bullet-shaped" motor-cycle with tailfins powered by a 2,000-pound-thrust steam engine, which will propel him across the canyon at jet speeds—leaving the ramp at 240 miles per hour, he would gain speed until he reached approximately 340 miles in mid-flight, he said.

An aircraft-like ejection system, he told the news conference, would shoot him away from the cycle high above the ground—at least 600 feet away, and huge parachutes would lower both himself and the cycle to the ground; hopefully

Scout 'Cabaret' Scheduled Aug. 5

BURLEY — Enrl Nightingale, radio commentator and author, will be the featured speaker for the 1970 Cabaret Internationale of the Snake River Area Boy Scout Council, scheduled for Aug. 15 at the Ponderosa Inn in Burley.

The Cabaret will begin early in the afternoon with a golf tournament. A Little Theatre Production will run periodically through the afternoon, and later toward the evening, a fashion show will be presented.

Danny O'Neil, star and host of "One in a Million," will entertain at the dinner. Joe Higgins, the controversial "sheriff" of the television commercials, will be a featured guest, along with Larry Jackson, former major league baseball star, and Maj. Gen. Thomas Marchbanks, chief of the Air Force Reserves, from Washington, D.C.

George Forscher of Burley, chairman of the 1970 Cabaret, has been commended by Dr. Paul Heuston, president of the Snake River Council, as presenting "a great program for us last year. We are pleased that he has consented to give our 1970 Cabaret his direction. We are anticipating a large crowd for this $100-per-couple affair and have designed the program to appeal to all interests."

The Cabaret Internationale will be open to the public and tickets can be purchased from the Twin Falls Boy Scout Office, 164 Main Ave. N., or from local Boy Scout leaders in Magic Valley communities.

How To Run A Railroad

WASHINGTON — It's hard for the ordinary citizen to understand why a $7-billion corporation such as the Penn Central Railroad could declare bankruptcy.

As everyone knows, the Larchmont, Saginaw and Tallahassee Railroad was one of the most profitable in the country. It specialized in bringing coals to New Castle, Penn.

investing in new equipment, buying a chocolate cake mix factory. This was followed by the purchase of a late, big company, which was followed by the takeover of a malpractice insurance company.

and would be happy to improve the service and install new equipment, but we need the money for a sulphur mining project we've just taken a lease on in Canada.

Oil Fever

Is the bloom off the Alaskan oil boom? For awhile, yes.

The enthusiasm and high hopes for quick riches resulting from discovery of vast oil deposits in Prudhoe Bay off the North Slope of Alaska have been dampened by practicality and Americans' new sense of ecology.

Two years ago it was thought that work on an 800-mile pipeline would begin as soon as permits to cross federal land were obtained and construction equipment and supplies brought in.

Alaskan businessmen and entrepreneurs used reserves and obtained loans to get into position to take advantage of the boom that was expected to follow the July, 1968, announcement that one of the largest petroleum deposits in the world had been found in Prudhoe Bay on the Beaufort Sea in the Arctic Circle. Up to 10 billion barrels of oil — with much more nearby — lay waiting for extraction.

Alaskan construction companies borrowed heavily to buy equipment that they would need to build the 48-inch pipeline and adjacent road from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez on the southern Alaska coast. Workers began to immigrate, anticipating big overtime pay checks.

Then obstacles arose — or rather, consideration was given to obstacles that had been there all along. Biggest one: Alaska's unusual environmental feature — permafrost.

Permafrost is a ground condition in which particles of soil and rock are suspended in ice that never melts. The three major oil companies which united to form Trans-Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS) planned to buy their pipeline in it. The danger in that plan, conservationists and the Department of the Interior soon pointed out, was that 500,000 gallons of oil heated to 180 degrees in every mile of pipe would most likely melt the permafrost around the pipeline, causing the pipe to shift, sag and break. The potential for almost irreversible ecological damage was frightening. Conservationists obtained an injunction that stopped construction — by preventing issuance of permits.

Added to the outcry raised by conservationists and headed by Interior Secretary Walter Hickel (himself an Alaskan-made millionaire) came objections from the tiny Yukon River community of Stevens Village, which obtained a federal injunction against the pipeline by claiming it crossed lands which belonged to the villagers.

TAPS organizers also failed to gauge the length of time it would take congressional committees to exempt federal lands from a 1969 freeze on their use. After congressional committees finally gave this approval in December, 1969, five months later than TAPS had anticipated, the Department of the Interior still had to say O.K.

As yet, it hasn't, because TAPS still has not assured the department that the pipeline can be built so as to avoid oil-spilling breaks. (Besides the permafrost complication, there is another from earthquakes — the pipeline would cross three seismic zones and its southern end would be at the center of the disastrous 1964 earthquake.)

Above-ground pipelines create other problems (such as possible refusal of migrating moose to cross, thus depriving people on the other side who depend on moose for food and skins), and shipping the oil by tanker could be too expensive and impractical because of ice.

So investors and construction companies are faced with loans coming due and cash reserves depleted, and many who hoped to find steady and profitable employment in an oil-primed economy are without work. Unemployment this spring rose to 13.6 per cent, not including the state's native population, an increase of 5.5 per cent over 1969.

All in not gloom, however. The State of Alaska took in $900 million in leases last September, more money than it had budgeted in all 10 previous years of statehood. This money draws $45,000 interest each day. Secretary Hickel — who plans to return to Alaska someday — says the pipeline will be built, but he doesn't want the state to gain now and pay later by destruction of the geographical assets and animal stocks that make it the last outpost of unspoiled America.

Eventually, the oil will come coursing southward and Alaskans will see the bloom back on their boom. That may be no present consolation for unemployed workers and worried businessmen, but in the long run, it's the way best suited to Alaska's long-range future.

MR. SPECTATOR

A New Adventure

Vigorous exercise isn't for everyone. While a lot of people are trying it today, almost as many are giving it up. After a bout or two with jogging, calisthenics or bicycling, about all most participants have gained is a red face, loss of breath and aching muscles.

Now comes aerobics, known as walking in simpler times. This is something most people can do, though they may be conditioned to wheels. The legs contain some powerful muscles and with a little practice they can be made to carry the body beyond the back yard.

At $6.75 it is more expensive than the usual run-of-the-mill publications printed by the Government Printing Office, but the catalog of federal domestic assistance could become a best seller in this age of the handout.

money, advice or services to individuals, organizations or state and local governmental bodies. The compendium not only lists the programs, but describes each in some detail.

Some 57 federal departments and agencies contributed their official surveys to the catalog, which was compiled by the Office of Economic Opportunity. The catalog is a tongue-in-cheek victory for Rep. William V. Roth Jr., Delaware Republican, who has been promoting such a listing for several years.

One of the most interesting pages in the 1,033-page catalog is the index. It shows vividly the many overlapping activities of federal agencies. "Aid to education," for instance, is cross referenced to 330 programs administered by 26 agencies. Even "environmental improvement" already has garnered 61 separate programs under six agencies.

Federal officials who are realistically interested in streamlining government should make a point of reading this volume. There's enough meat in its pages to keep an army busy printing, consolidating and eliminating duplication and waste for years.

ANDREW TULLY Hug And Kiss

WASHINGTON — Fourth of July, 1970, is over — but the nausaeas lingers on. Not from any gastronomic excess, but from the doctrinaire bilge served up by the wet pants liberals to the explain why they couldn't really, you know, give their country an old-fashioned hug and kiss.

and Agnew for allegedly dividing the country could write such words. "Bring us together, indeed!" Obviously, Raspberry was not about to bring himself together with the hardhats (whose chief sin seems to be that they work for a living) or the conservatives.

Most of the ideological offal was aimed at the Bob Hope-Billy Graham-Walt Disney celebration in this schizophrenic handout, but the sick-making drivel was mouthed wherever people gathered to salute the Fourth. Its gist was that a genuine, bottled-in-bond, sobbing liberal had nowhere to go because patriotism has become the property of the rightists, you know.

Or as Raspberry put it, "worse." Could this bright young man really have intended to convey the message that conservatives are evil? Apparently a writer does not drag in the phrase "or worse" in discussing a host of cherubim. At best, he was saying that because some of the celebrators were conservatives with whose views he disagreed, he was copping out. This is weird stuff from a "liberal" who is always demanding that people be permitted to think what they please. (That kind of "liberal," of course, generally means people who think as he does, but I had thought better of Bill Raspberry.)

Locally, an emetic was served up by Bill Raspberry, Negro columnist for the Washington Post, and it sizzled me because young Raspberry's writings in the past have always made such realistic sense. Perhaps his liberal pals got after him. Whatever the reason, he really blew this one.

But Raspberry's worst goof was in his admission of something — I have always suspected of the wet pants set. He wrote that it was easy for supporters of the Nixon administration to take part in the official celebration of the Fourth, whereas his "liberal" brothers were hesitant "to declare their love of America lest they appear to support policies with which they disagree profoundly. So they place no flag deals on their windshields."

Hostile questioning in last October's hearings ignored all such benefits. When the transcripts were made public in April, the Lag government was appalled that a secret agreement made in good faith with Washington had been revealed to the world. Indeed, in short, patriotism is possible only if an American happens to agree with the administration in power. I cannot read Raspberry's mind, but he seems to be saying that the Hope-Graham-Pitney celebration would have met his ideological standards had it been sponsored by a Kennedy — or a G. G. McCarthy — or a Johnny Lindsey — and Eldridge Cleaver as master of ceremonies, maybe?

Baby Died

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We recently had a death in our family, a baby boy 11 weeks old. He died due to suffocation and we have heard that there is a disorder which causes babies to die when they are nine to twelve weeks old. It is called thymus and is inherited. We would like to know more about this. — Mrs. R.

about visiting newborn babies.) In other instances — brain disorders, including meningitis and hemorrhages, have been found. Net significance: these sudden deaths, which usually occur under the age of 16 weeks, are sad and numerous, and efforts are being made to prevent them — but no single cause is responsible and no single preventive is in sight at present.

These are tragic deaths and there are from 10,000 to 20,000 like that one every year in the United States alone.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Wanting to become a vegetarian, I am curious about finding a suggested diet. The iron and protein content of meat, fish, and fowl seem fairly easy to substitute, but various people for one reason or another have tried to discourage me from joining this sect. Any information would be appreciated. — D. M.

They are called variously the "sudden death syndrome," "crib deaths," or "cot deaths," and a great deal of effort is going into the study of them. There is no single answer. Many years ago, most of them were attributed to "smothering," but this is pretty much discounted now. Even a blanket falling over a baby's face will not shut off enough air to be fatal.

The protein is the important element. If the sect you have in mind permits eggs, they are rich in protein. So is cheese. Milk has some. Fair quantities can be extracted from nuts, soy beans, and a few similar vegetables.

Later the theory was advanced that a disorder of the thymus gland was responsible but this idea also has been discarded, because detailed post-mortem examinations are revealing more tangible causes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What does the word trapeziocarpometacarpal mean in relation to arthritis? — Mrs. T. F.

One is infection, and this is highest from about November to March — the time when the common cold and related respiratory ailments are most prevalent.

That torque-twister refers to the bones of the wrist and long bones of the hand or hands.

What can be a relatively minor affliction to an adult or to a larger child can be devastating to an infant. Such infections can cause swelling of the throat and larynx, and since the airways are so small in a baby, it doesn't take much swelling to obstruct breathing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Should certain foods be avoided in controlling rheumatoid arthritis? — Mrs. H. H.

Various forms of pneumonitis are being identified in the lungs of other babies — they haven't yet acquired the strength and resistance to fight off such infections. Further, such infections can develop with such speed in a very small baby that death can occur even though the child has not appeared to be ill, or at least only faintly so, a few hours earlier.

No, diet has no bearing on it — except that you will be much more comfortable if you avoid overweight.

Candidate For Top Court Plans 'Quiet' Campaign

Will S. Defenbach, Boise, a candidate for the Idaho Supreme Court, stopped in Twin Falls in the course of his campaign.

Defenbach, a Republican, said that he hopes to convince the voters he is qualified for the post, but he does not wish to press any controversial issues involving the court.

He said he has become familiar with many aspects of Idaho law as a result of service in the state Senate, as a practicing lawyer, specializing in taxation and probate matters, as a deputy prosecuting attorney of Latah County, as an assistant state attorney general, and as a member of the Idaho Industrial Accident Board of which he is now chairman.

WILL S. DEFENBACH

It is my wish, in addition to serving as an impartial judge, to do everything I can to maintain and build up public respect for the Idaho judiciary system as well as the entire legal profession," he said.

Defenbach is a native of Lewiston and is married to the daughter of former Supreme Court Judge Paul Hyatt. He received degrees in accounting and law at the University of Idaho at Moscow and practiced law both at Moscow and Boise.

He has served as director of the inheritance tax division of the state tax collector's office and as legal counsel to the state commissioner of law enforcement. He was elected to the Idaho Senate in 1968 and has been a member of the Idaho Industrial Accident Board since Jan. 2, 1968.

Ravenscroft Asks Revision In Code

GOODING — Vernon Ravenscroft, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, has called for a revision in the Idaho municipal code to provide for an initiative and referendum proceedings in the matter of major annexation proposals.

The Gooding county state legislator made the proposal in an address Tuesday night in Lewiston Orchards, an area recently annexed to the city of Lewiston over protests of residents in the annexation area.

Noting other annexations around the state have also brought court action and strenuous protests, Mr. Ravenscroft said it is already required in the case of major school district consolidations involving more than 10 square miles to have a referendum vote to gain approval of areas involved.

"We have protected county consolidation questions in our constitution with the rights of an election and it is only logical annexation involving the future of hundreds of citizens, their property rights and the public services they will support that we guarantee the stabilizing protection of a vote by the people," the candidate said.

Mr. Ravenscroft said legislative proposals to alter city annexation procedures were introduced in the past session of the Idaho legislature but they did not get out of the committee to which they were referred.

Czech Jokes Comment On Red Policy

PRAGUE (UPI) — A story making the rounds here says that the Czechoslovak furniture industry has begun making nuptial beds to fit three persons because, "Lenin is always with us."

There are many such cynical "jokes" being whispered these days. Experts on Communist affairs say the number of jokes in circulation reflects the political situation of a country. The more jokes, the worse the situation. If this is so, the situation in Czechoslovakia must be pretty bad.

The Lenin story certainly has a basis in fact. Lenin portraits look down from house walls, they are displayed in shop windows. The Alcron Hotel, much favored by Western businessmen and tourists, features a bust of Lenin in its lounge.

The political atmosphere in Prague this second summer since the 1968 Soviet bloc invasion can only be described as apathetic.

The Czechs, apart from their cynical jokes, appear to want nothing much except to be left alone to live their lives. Posters everywhere remind them of Moscow's presence. One seen all over the city says, "With the Soviet Union forever and never otherwise."

Shop windows are fuller than a year ago. French and Italian dresses, Spanish olives, Yugoslav knitwear, Swiss and Austrian chocolates are plentiful. But there are many things still lacking, such as veal and pork, bed and table linens, perfumes and cosmetics.

There is a price freeze, but Czechs complain that many factories, in order to get around the tight price controls, have stopped producing popularly priced goods and have concentrated on more expensive wares.

Wages are still low. The average Czech earns about 2,000 crowns ($130) a month. A pair of shoes, against this, cost 220 crowns ($13). An Italian dress sells for about 600 crowns ($39).

The country's money is, nevertheless, firmer than a year or so ago. The non-convertible Czech crown, on the bank of inflation last year, is somewhat stronger. Economists give as one reason the ban on Czechoslovak travel to the West. Czech tourists used to smuggle crowns out of the country and sell them to Western banks on a job to finance their trips.

Class Has Reunion At Wendell

WENDELL — The graduating class of 1960 held their 10 year reunion with a banquet Saturday evening at the Lincoln Inn, Gooding, with LaRon Smith acting as master of ceremonies. Carolyn Woodruff gave the opening invocation.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Herschell Lamb. Short talks were given by Mr. Lamb, class advisor and Dr. James Schell, class president. The class prophecy was read by Clydene and Roland Ruby.

Mr. Fred Dixon was recognized as having traveled the farthest. He came from Germany where he is currently stationed. Other prizes were presented to Maurice Whitmore, LaRon Smith, James Scheel, Mr. and Mrs. Denny Woodruff and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Ruby.

On Sunday a picnic was held at the Wendell Park catered by the ladies of the Wendell Grange. A tour was taken through the high school building.

During a business meeting, class members voted to have a 15-year reunion. Appointed to the reunion committee were Gary Broadshaw, Clydene and Roland Ruby, Laura Small, LaRon Smith, Joan Webster, and Lollita Wilson.

It's a good idea to give the family dog a good workout before taking him on a long car trip so that he'll sleep during the ride.

T.F. Orders 22 Lights

An order for an additional 22 street lights in Twin Falls for the newly annexed areas to the northwest and several "dark spots" within the city was being prepared Tuesday by City Manager Jean Miller.

Mr. Miller informed the Idaho Power Co. the order would be forthcoming for the area which is now officially annexed, the deadline for legal appeal having passed. Another area will be considered at a later date since the deadline is not yet definitely established.

Mr. Miller said at the same time the order is placed, Idaho Power Co. will be reminded to replace some 35 intersection lights in the older parts of the city where lights are out or not functioning.

Under the contract with the city, the power utility is required to replace and maintain all street lights and provide energy and service for a regular monthly fee.

Today's Market And Financial Report

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI)—The market was in forward gear Thursday for the second day in a row.

At the midway mark advances topped declines by more than 3-to-1 in moderately active trading. Analysts said much of the demand was carried over from Wednesday's healthy close, but they also noted that Wall Street took hope that interest rates have peaked.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, was ahead 1.41 per cent on 1,481 issues on the tape. Of these, 969 gained and 279 backed off.

The Dow Jones Industrial average was up about 8 points after being up around 8 points in the first hour.

A three-hour turnover of about 84-million shares was well ahead of Wednesday's pace.

Northwest Airlines was today's most active issue. It traded a block of 1,028,000 shares at 14 1/4, off 1/4, making it the second largest block traded in the history of the New York Stock Exchange. The biggest was a block of 1,153,700 shares of Alcan Aluminum on Oct. 31, 1967.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

I am considering the purchase of 150 shares of Montana Power Co. What is the growth potential for this stock and do you consider it a good income holding?—T.F.

—Having all your eggs in one basket, so to speak, is never a wise plan, regardless of the merits of the particular investment vehicle. You should give serious thought to spreading some of your capital to a fund with different investment goals and methods in order to spread your risk.

Keystone Growth Common Stock Fund Series S-3 has had for the first five months of 1970, an average of all funds. Net asset value declined in the respective periods 14 per cent and 21 per cent while the average of all growth funds dropped 16 per cent and 28 per cent.

Construction plans call for expenditures of $125 million in the 1970-1975 period. Although additional financing will be required to complete the projected construction program, sale of equity securities is not contemplated. Montana Power's earnings are expected to grow at a 6 per cent annual rate. However, continuing operations carried on by a subsidiary could be an important factor in upgrading this growth rate in the future.

Ancient Structure Was Oedipus' Home

THEBES, Greece (UPI)—Archaeologists here may have found the home of Oedipus, the Greek king reputed to have murdered his father and married his mother.

Spyros Marinatos, dean of Greek archeologists, said the more than 3,000-year-old building "is probably the palace of the ruling dynasty of Mycenaean Thebes. This would make it the palace of Oedipus, Creon and Antigone."

Marinatos, inspector general of Greek antiquities since 1937, estimated the two-story edifice, apparently destroyed by fire, was built between 1300 and 1250 B.C., the century in which he said Oedipus and Creon ruled as kings of the Mycenaeans.

Marinatos has no doubt that Oedipus, his daughter Antigone or her uncle Creon actually existed.

"All the legends refer to real people," he said. "The ancient marked time by identifying heroes with their legends as the centuries passed."

In legend, Oedipus was the son of Laius and Creon's sister Jocasta, King and Queen of Thebes. Abandoned by his parents at birth because of an oracle's prophecy he would kill them and raised by the King of Corinth, he eventually returned to Thebes where he unwittingly slew his father and married his mother.

Psychiatrist says a man has an Oedipus complex when he is obsessively attached to his mother.

The palace came to light when workers digging the foundations of an office building in this town of 16,000 inhabitants 30 miles northwest of Athens, came up against an ancient wall.

Governor Predicts Surplus

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson said Tuesday he would predict a surplus at the end of this biennium close to $1 million to $1 1/2 million.

Samuelson made his statement when asked about reports State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon had predicted a $12 million surplus by the end of the biennium, June 30, 1971.

"I think that's wonderful if it is," Samuelson said. "That means Idaho's economy is moving ahead faster than we had anticipated."

However, he said, some of the "top people" of the state were already working on the problem and he did not feel it would be as high as $12 million.

Mrs. Moon, however, said her prediction arose out of a "misunderstanding."

Tuesday Miss Moon and State Auditor Joe R. Williams released a joint report which noted Idaho had $9,844,740 remaining in the general fund as of June 30, the end of the fiscal year. The report also showed that two years ago, June 30, 1969, there had been $13,833,225 remaining in the general fund and that at the end of the 1967-68 biennium there was a $10 million surplus.

"If everything were the same, it would indicate your surplus would be $12 million," Miss Moon said Wednesday. "But the revenue would have to be exactly the same and the expenditures would have to be exactly the same for this two year period compared to the last biennium. And I know the expenditures have changed because of additional appropriations by the legislature."

"I don't feel at this time it would be meaningful to predict the surplus," she added.

Limit Set On Farmer Subsidies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted Wednesday to impose a $20,000 limit on federal subsidies a farmer may receive each year for any crop and to nearly triple the amount the government spends on lowering the cost of food for poor families.

In a 40-35 roll call vote that caught the Senate's once-potent farm bloc off guard, the $20,000 ceiling was approved to apply to crops planted during the 12-month period that started July 1. The proposal must pass the House before it goes to President Nixon for final action, and many observers doubted the House would go along.

But by a one-sided vote of 52 to 15, the Senate rejected a proposal by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, a non-smoking Mormon, which would have cut out all government support programs for tobacco, an expenditure estimated at $72 million a year.

Bodies Sought In Car Tragedy

MARBLE, Colo. (UPI) — Searchers stretched nets across the frigid and swollen Crystal River Wednesday, hoping to trap the bodies of three of nine persons who were drowned when a pickup truck plunged into the stream Monday evening.

Two bodies were recovered Wednesday afternoon. Four were found Tuesday. Three persons survived the accident when the four-wheel drive pickup truck slipped from a muddy mountain trail.

The two bodies found Wednesday were not immediately identified.

Dr. T. Tacher Robinson, 41, was listed in good condition Wednesday in a Glenwood Springs, Colo., hospital. His 9-year-old son, Borob, was also in good condition and a hospital spokesman said Margaret Caron, 17, of Oakbrook Terrace, Ill., was in "fairly good condition."

Authorities said Amos Caron, 62, and his wife Lucille, 58, the parents of Margaret Caron; Larry Watts, 22, Snowmass, Colo.; and two other Robinson children, George, 2, and Andrew, were still missing Wednesday.

Searchers Tuesday recovered the bodies of Robinson's wife, Robin, 25; his youngest son, Sam, 7 months; and two other Caron daughters, Theresa, 15, and Barbara, 24.

The Colorado State Patrol said Wednesday about 30 searchers from the Colorado Rescue Association were using probing poles in the river, fed by melting snow, in an attempt to find the missing persons.

The nets were stretched across the turbulent stream to keep the bodies from being washed downstream.

Robinson said he had driven over the pass late Monday afternoon in the four-wheel drive vehicle he had picked up earlier in the day.

He said he was headed back toward the summit when the vehicle "spilled out of gear" and plunged some 200 feet into the river. He said it was raining at the time.

Last year, according to sources in Illinois, another Robinson child, Martin, 13, was

Salmon Closed To All Motors

BOISE (UPI) — The Middle Fork Salmon River's Wild and Scenic Area has been closed to all types of motor vehicles, according to Bill Roznyek, recreation staff officer of the Boise National Forest.

Roznyek said the forest service will begin issuing violation notices on both the Boise and Challis National Forests Saturday.

He said the reason for the closure was to keep the area in its wild and primitive state as much as possible and to eliminate the "sounds and smells of civilization."

Defense Asks For Open Trial

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (UPI) — A defense attorney said Wednesday the Army is trying to show that a Green Beret doctor "staged" his home to make it appear an intruder killed his wife and two children.

Bernard Segal of Philadelphia also charged that Military Police "botched" their investigation into the stabbing deaths of the wife and two daughters of Capt. Jeffrey MacDonald.

He said the defense will ask the U.S. Court of Military Appeals in Washington Thursday to open the Ft. Bragg hearing to the public. It is closed to newsmen and spectators at the order of the hearing officer.

Segal, president of the American Bar Association, said the Army is trying to convince the hearing officer through testimony that an overturned coffee table in the house could not have fallen where it was found, but had to be placed in the overturned position.

Segal said he was attacking the Army's case by drawing statements from Military Police witnesses that photographs taken of the scene by Military Police did not accurately reflect the condition of the MacDonald apartment at the time the bodies were found.

Segal said Sgt. Richard Tevere of the Military Police said under cross examination Wednesday that he found the telephone in the master bedroom with the receiver off the cradle, lying on the bureau.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Eugene and I have been happily married for 26 years, but like everyone else, I have a problem. His snoring!

I don't know whether he's snoring louder lately, or if my tolerance is wearing thin, but it's gotten so bad, I can't get a decent night's sleep—especially if Eugene has had a few drinks during the evening, then he snores like a mountain lion!

I have asked him gently to please stop snoring, nudged him, and rolled him over, which helps temporarily, then he starts in again.

Last night it was so bad, I woke him up and asked him to please go sleep in the spare room. He went, but he was very angry. The next morning we had a few words about it. Eugene said I was very selfish for waking him up and asking HIM to go to the other room. He said that since he was sleeping soundly, and I was up, I should have gone to the spare room to sleep. I say that since HE was creating the disturbance, HE should have gone. What do you say?

PAM

DEAR PAM: I say Eugene was right.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-age housewife with two teen-age children who make the honor roll regularly. I keep a nine-room house clean, but not immaculate. I sew all my own clothes and my daughter's, too. (I've even taught her to sew.)

My children and I attend church regularly, and we have a host of friends whom I treat "think well" of.

My husband, who is an only child, is hard-working, capable and provides adequately. He is also well-liked. These are the assets. Now here are a few of the liabilities:

I am about five pounds overweight. I am graying in the temples. I have only a high school education. I dislike my mother-in-law intensely because she makes me feel dumb, dirty, and inferior. Now, tell me, how can you like someone who makes you feel dumb, dirty, and inferior?

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Your first two "liabilities" strike me as being somewhat trivial. (It's no big deal to get rid of five pounds and a few gray hairs.) And if your limited education is causing you to feel "dumb," you can become better informed by reading. Forget about your mother-in-law. No one can make you feel "dumb, dirty, and inferior" unless you think you might deserve it.

DEAR ABBY: So many people have written to you to complain because they sent a gift "six months ago," and they didn't receive a thank-you for it.

Why don't these people call up (or write) to the person they sent it to and find out if the gift was ever received? If they did get it and were slow in sending a "thank you," they deserve to be embarrassed.

There is always a chance that the gift was not received. I work in the department of the postoffice whose packages are undeliverable because the address has "fallen" off, or become smudged and cannot be read. And there is no return address on the package. Also, when a package is returned to the store because it cannot be delivered, the card will read, "From Uncle Ted and Aunt Mary," and the store has no way of knowing WHO bought it.

Please tell readers to put their full names and address INSIDE every gift, and not to sit around for 6 months wondering if the gift they sent ever got there. HELPFUL

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GOING CRAZY" IN SIOUX CITY, Ia.: Tell him you married him for better or worse—but not for LUNCH!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

'Moonlight Construction' Vexes Italian Government

ROME (UPI)—Light beams from cars parked in a half circle in a field on the outskirts of Rome showed men where to build.

They hammered and sawed and nailed together the frame of a make-shift, floorless shack in minutes. Then they put on the roof.

Work stopped. Women and children moved in, carrying worn and battered belongings and furniture. Then the men resumed building.

By dawn, another family had a home—and Roman officials had another headache.

The roof was the important thing. Once it was up, an ancient law protected anyone living under it from summary eviction.

Moonlight construction is no fly-by-night industry in Rome. City officials estimate 30,000 unlicensed buildings, ranging from slum shacks to multi-story apartment blocks, have gone up since 1955.

Now official Rome is fighting back, but so far without much success. Bureaucracy and judicial bankruptcy give unlicensed builders and their customers a tremendous advantage.

The man given the giant-sized job of tearing down what amounts to an illegal city within the city is Antonio Pala, a 42-year-old civil servant who raised a storm two summers ago when he banned cars from Piazza Navona and other beloved squares.

Since he took over as municipal housing director eight months ago, Pala has signed 1,700 demolition orders. None has been carried out. The reason is a bureaucratic labyrinth that requires signatures by 17 different civil servants before demolition orders are legal. The process takes months.

Further, Pala has only 20 employees, five of them men disabled in World War II, to look for building violations in an area measuring 15 million square feet.

Also working against Pala is the fact few Romans report illegal construction, especially in slum settlements where poor and illiterate newcomers are forced to go.

Greek Cleric Healthy

By JOHN RIGGS

ATHENS (UPI)—The recent recovery to good health of Patriarch Athenagoras and his return to Istanbul as the senior Greek Orthodox prelate has put an end to some agonizing speculation on a possible successor.

The 84-year-old churchman flew to Vienna in April for treatment after medical experts said they feared he was suffering from cancer. It developed this was not the case, but while he was undergoing treatment there was some hectic behind-the-scenes activity in Athens, Istanbul and New York to put forward candidates to succeed him.

Athenagoras served 18 years as archbishop of the United States before his election to the ecumenical throne in 1966. His election came at a time when Greece and Turkey were boosting their anti-Communist stances through such American political programs as the Truman Doctrine and the Marshall Plan.

Subsequent political events, however, especially the thorny problem of Cyprus, has made the position of the patriarchate in Istanbul more difficult than at any time in nearly half a century.

This Greek-Turkish congregation has dwindled over the years from a quarter of a million to about 20,000, with reductions especially acute since the anti-Greek riots in Istanbul in 1955 and the Greek-Turkish confrontations over Cyprus from 1964 to 1967.

Lack Of Poetry Writing Is A 'Shock'

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Spending of shocking situations, do you realize that it is almost impossible for anyone in this country to make a living by writing poetry?

A big majority of our major poets, and almost all of the minor ones, are forced to seek other employment in order to keep body and soul together.

Many of them take jobs that are degrading and dispiriting. Such as teaching English to college freshmen.

One famous poet, Eugene McCarthy, has even gone so far as to moonlight as a U.S. senator.

And what, pray thee, is the reason for this distressing state of affairs? Are our poets shiftless, lacking in talent and generally unworthy of patronage?

Nay, sire, our poets are diligent, brilliant and deserving. They have been brought into their present plight by unfair foreign competition.

The United States presently has no restrictions on the importation of poetry. Consequently, the country is being flooded with verses from abroad.

In a word, U.S. poets are in the same boat with the U.S. textile, shoe, glass, steel and electronic component industries, which are beseeching Congress for import relief.

In most cases, the type of protection being sought takes the form of import quotas. So let me be the first to advocate that Congress impose quotas on import poetry.

It will be argued, of course, that American poetry should have to stand on its own merits in the marketplace alongside the stanzas from the world's other poetry-producing regions.

But free trade proponents tend to overlook the fact that U.S. poets are caught in a frightful cost-price squeeze.

Jugs of wine, loaves of bread, garret rent, stubby pencils, scratchpads and other items used in the production of poetry have become increasingly expensive.

Meanwhile, thanks to the availability of cheaply composed foreign verse, royalties from a small volume of poems still average about $1.39.

In England, for example, the cost per canto of inspired daktyl is 37.8 per cent below composition costs in America.

I'll concede that imported pentameters have a certain amount of snob appeal, but for everyday, commonsensical, down-to-earth spondees and trochees, you can't beat good of American poetry, by jingo.

Negro Educator 'Keeps Cool'

By ROBERT BERG
EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—His trials and tribulations have been many, but in his first six months as president of Michigan State University, Clifton Wharton Jr. has managed to keep his cool.

The pressures on the president of any modern college are intense at best, but the pressure on Wharton is something special because he is the first Negro to head a major American university.

When asked to sum up his impressions of the job, he grinned and said, "Well, it's different."

"I've had the works—demonstrations, sit-ins, student riots—there's been everything you could conceive of," he said. "We even have had one wildcat strike."

"This is one of the most total jobs I've ever run across. You are on demand at all times for every conceivable kind of decision."

"It can be the power plant one day, a student disruption the next, labor negotiations the third, curriculum reform the fourth. Every day has a minimum of two major or minor crises."

The fact that he is black, Wharton concedes, has affected his actions somewhat.

"I've been more deliberate and more cautious than I would normally be," he said. "This is not because I don't want to share their shoulders, as long as the laws have been made by Congress, and because of the pressure people have been putting on those who feel the Delta Queen should be kept for what she is."

make a mistake, but because I know there is a tendency to examine everything that I say and do with a microscope. "And in fact, sometimes some of the reactions I get, especially the negative ones, are, I suspect, in part a reflection of this."

"There are a large number of people—though by no means a majority, I know—who would like nothing better than to see me not do so well. And therefore they are quick to find something they can point to and say, 'See, I knew it.'"

"But as time passes this doesn't have as big an effect. I think people now are not quite as prone to examine—or overexamine—my actions. And I'm also more aware of the pitfalls problem areas and so forth."

Wharton, 43, is the son of America's first Negro career diplomat and ambassador. The elder Wharton was in the foreign service for 40 years until his retirement in 1964. His posts included ambassador to Romania and to Norway. He now lives in New York.

At the time he was named president of MSU, Wharton Jr. was vice president of the Agricultural Development Council Inc. of New York, a private nonprofit organization founded by John D. Rockefeller III.

When he took over at MSU in January, he was viewed with suspicion by many of the school's 1,000 black students. They suspected he might be too establishment-oriented. But so far there has been no break between them. A steady communications link has been set up.

"I DON'T know what the ultimate result will be in terms of relationship," he said. "There are bound to be problems. But I have worked with black students and black faculty to avoid an adversary relationship—and I think they have, too. That doesn't mean they have compromised their position, because they haven't done that even a little bit."

One of the accomplishments of this teamwork has been establishment of an off-campus black cultural center. This was done, Wharton stressed, "without presenting me with a list of demands."

Wharton also has worked at getting to know the other 40,000 students on campus. He and his wife have made a series of unpublicized visits to dormitories and student organizations.

'Tootenanny' Draws Riverboatmen

SISTERVILLE, W.Va. (UPI)—If you're not a riverboat man you probably haven't the vaguest idea what a "tootenanny" is. Could be you're not even worried about the fate of the Delta Queen.

Well, the "tootenanny" is the creation of the Son and Daughters of Pioneer Rivermen (SDPR) and the world's fourth and only tootenanny was held here this June.

At a tootenanny you toot steamboat whistles and talk about the good old Mark Twain days of steamboats on the river and what a shame it is that the federal government wants to retire the Delta Queen, an old paddlewheel which is regarded as a last link with the steamboat age and which, according to federal regulations, is unsafe.

Mrs. Catherine Romley is curator of the Campus Marietta Museum in nearby Marietta, it's a crime that many of the Ohio, a project of the Ohio Historical Society. She is also a steamboat woman and Delta steamer defender. "Because of that silly rule about her neddling a steel superstructure," Mrs. Romley said, "the steamboat era will end. She's a beautiful thing and it's a shame that many of the Ohio legislators feel as if it's putting a tremendous responsibility on

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (UPI) — A seventh inning Magic Valley error cost the Cowboys 4 to 3 defeat at the hands of the Great Falls Giants Wednesday.

Orioles Nip N.Y. 9-8 In 7-Homer Slugfest

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Don Buford hit a two-run, bases-loaded single with two out in the ninth inning Wednesday night to drive the Baltimore Orioles to a dramatic 9-8 victory over the New York Yankees in a wild game featuring seven homers.

Buford, who had three hits, singled on an 8-2 pitch after losing pitcher Lindy McDaniel struck out the two previous batters — pinch-hitters Terry Crowley and Elrod Hendricks — with the bases loaded, while protecting an 8-7 lead.

Frank Robinson led off the inning with his second home run on McDaniel's first pitch of the inning to cut the deficit to 8-7 and singles by Brooks Robinson and Dave Johnson and Andy Etchebarren's walk loaded the bases.

After the two strikeouts, Buford swung and missed on McDaniel's first two pitches before grounding the single to right that hit eluded first baseman John Ellis. Johnson easily beat Jim Lytle's throw from right for the winning run with a head first slide.

France Surprises With 56-50 Lead In Dual Meet With U.S.

PARIS (UPI) — Ken Swenson of Kansas State and Wisconsin University's Mark Winor finished one two in the 800 meter run Wednesday, but the U.S. fared badly in the sprint and distance events as France took a 56-50 lead in a dual track meet, the first between the two nations.

Swenson was clocked in one minute, 47.5 seconds, 1.2 seconds slower than his best personal time this year. Winor was right on Swenson's heels as he finished a tick back in 1:47.8.

The event, however, was the only individual running triumph for the Americans. They won the discus and pole vault in the field events. The U.S. was given an additional two points when the disqualification of an American was overruled in the 400 meter relay.

Meier Takes Early Lead In Public Links

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ted Meier, a member of the National Junior College championship golf team, shot his best round ever on his home course, rugged Dubsroad at Cog Hill Wednesday, to lead the first round of the 'Common Peoples' golf tournament, the National Public Links, with a three under par 69.

Meier's round left him one stroke in front of Ray Arino, 23, a driving range operator from Sacramento, Calif., who was the only other player in the field of 150 to break par on the 6,856-yard course.

Meier, 19, a sophomore who attends Miami-Dade North Junior College, never before shot better than a 75 on the Cog Hill course, which he regards as his home course since he lives in nearby Joliet.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Maury Wills, who has been sidelined with a foot injury, cracked a two-out, two-run pinch-hit double to spark a five-run ninth-inning rally Wednesday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers came from behind to whip the Houston Astros, 6-5, for their seventh straight triumph.

Deceptive Bid Bamboozles Mate

When Jackie showed just one king, Sonny decided to settle for a small spade slam on the theory that Jackie might well have a weakish four-card spade suit.

"Then came mullin on the good ship Blackwood, Jackie bid six-trump!"

As an yonno can see by looking at all the cards, six-trump is the maximum spot, provided a diamond isn't opened, but a diamond was opened. So if you can figure the reason why the diamond was led?

The last was rather an unfair question. It seems that the bidding had taken some time and East proceeded to lead the queen of hearts out of turn.

Sonny might well have put down the dummy quickly but he asked, "Do you know your rights?"

Jackie asked, "Can I call a lead?" and, upon being informed that she could, promptly said to West, "Lead a diamond!"

Here is another Sonny and Jackie-hand on the subject of Blackwood.

Jackie's one-spade opening was made because she never opened one no-trump. She did open four-card spade suits. Sonny's two-diamond response was typical Moynihan. When point 8 is in the hand, somewhere in spades, Sonny wanted to stop a possible disastrous diamond opening.

Jackie's two-no-trump rebid shook Sonny a trifle. Most husbands do tremble a trifle when their wife bids no-trump and Sonny was a real trembler. Still, Sonny assumed that it showed extra values and was off toward a slam. He bid four no-trump and five no-trump.

CARD Sense

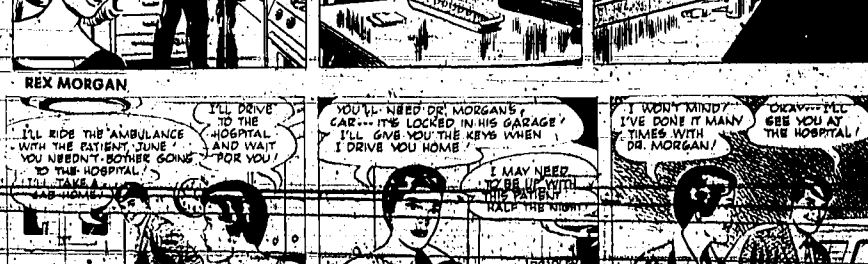

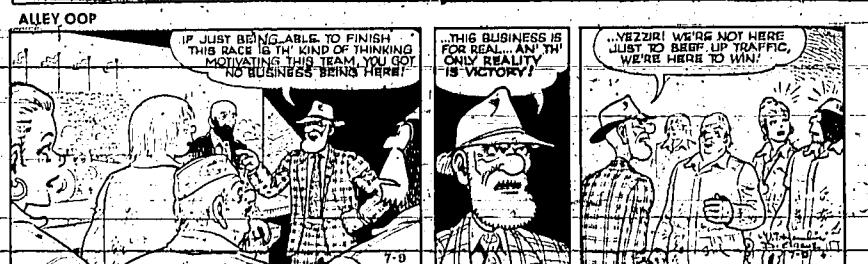

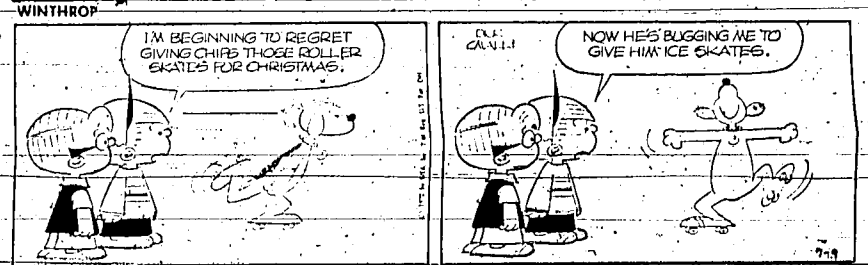

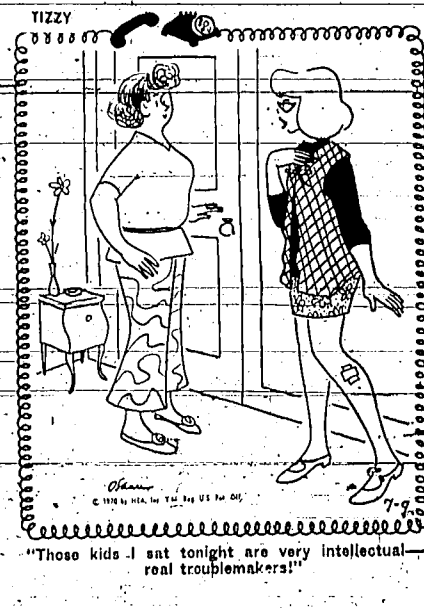

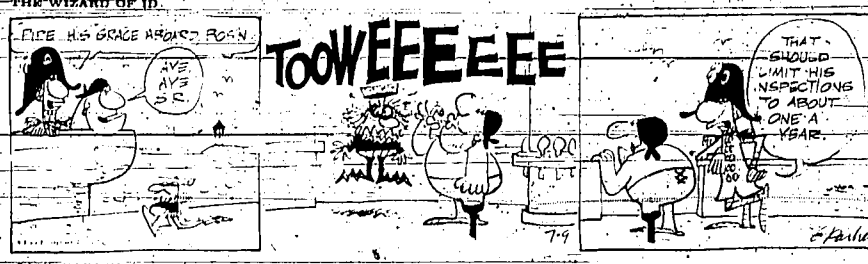

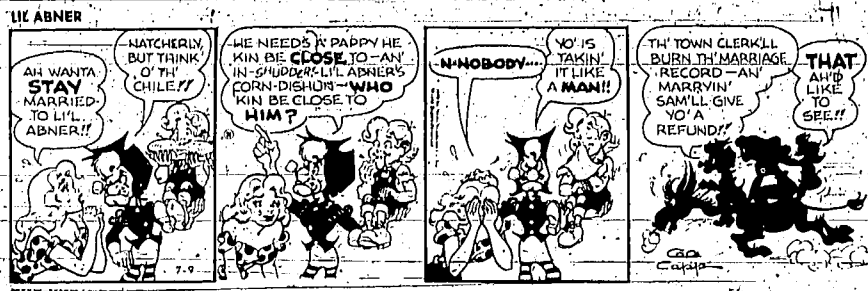

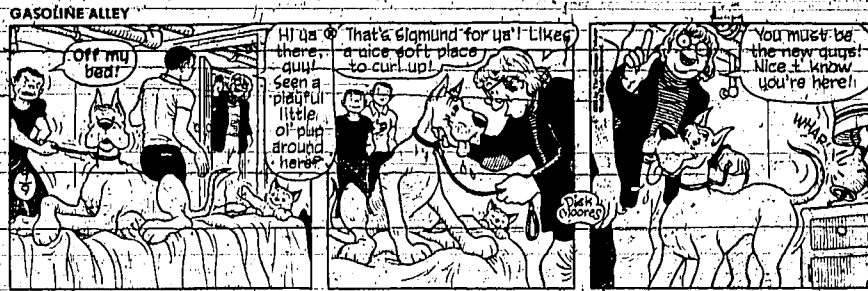

Q-The bidding has been: West: North: East: South: 2 ♠ 3 ♦ Pass? You, South hold: ♠ 2 ♥ A K 6 4 ♦ Q 8 7 2 ♣ K J 9 7 What do you do now?

A-We favor a pass slightly but would not criticize four diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of passing East has bid three-spades over your partner's three diamonds. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow.

PASS IT ON by L.M. Boyd

DIVORCE - A man who gets a divorce is apt to remarry sooner than a woman who gets a divorce. Why is that? The matrimonial statisticians say it's a fact. Another fact, they say, is a man who gets one divorce is more apt to get several than a woman who gets one divorce.

THOSE HOUSEKEEPING SPECIALISTS contend any woman who takes more than five minutes to make a bed is doing it wrong. If INEBRIATE means drunk, what does ebriate mean? Likewise drunk, says our Language man. STUDENTS WHO type spell better than students who DON'T. Much better. Tetsu who that. PATIENCE, PATIENCE, just 15 more years before Halley's Comet flies by again. THE PERPETUAL BINGO PLAYER is most likely a wife with little love for her husband, says a psychiatrist.

SHOCKS - Now I know why woodpeckers don't get headaches. They've got shock absorbers between their beaks and brains. A birdwatcher told me that. Interesting. Lot of animals have shock-absorbers. Elephants, for instance. At the tops of their feet. A soft cartilage that gentles the impact and evenly spreads the weight.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q "You say all the horses in the Kentucky Derby are three-year-olds, right?" A Officially, Gotta be a little tricky, however. All thoroughbreds are given an official birthday of January 1, regardless of when they're actually foaled. So some of the Derby runners are considerably older than others. Q "Are birth control pills tax deductible?" A. Only if they don't work. I'm told.

TWENTY YEARS AGO only about 100 daily newspapers nationwide printed horoscope columns. Now approximately 1,200 dailies do so. Our Planet man, who is on vacation, told me that. IT'S WHITE IF it reflects as much as 80 per cent of the light. It's black if it reflects no more than 5 per cent. So say the scientists.

CONSIDER THIS - We get confused about the why of things. Take a robin chirping on a limb. That's no love song. It's a warning. To other robins to keep their distance. Take the rattling of a diamond tack. That's no warning, at least not primarily. It's a mating signal. Whereby the snake can find the object of his affection in the season of romance.

THAT ENTERPRISE in which a man is most apt to have a woman for a boss is in the department store business. SIR FRANCIS BACON was just one of several who defined a wife as the young man's mistress, the middle-aged man's companion and the old man's nurse.
