

LDS Tax Exemption Appeal Is Denied

Bannock County Ruling Hits At Church Farms

POCATELLO (UPI)—An appeal to Idaho's attorney general loomed Saturday after the Bannock County Commission turned down an application for tax exemptions on farms owned by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. By a 2-1 decision, the commission, which includes two Mormon bishops, voted to deny the application made by Mark Clark, an attorney for the LDS welfare farms in the county. The commission said they would favor an exemption for the farms if it is called for by Idaho law. But they said that decision should be made by the Idaho attorney general.

Clark charged the commission with being derelict in its duty by not deciding the issue. Several weeks ago Bingham County commissioners in Blackfoot made a similar decision. Idaho law calls for exemptions for revenue producing agencies owned by benevolent groups. Commissioner Boyd Henderson, who voted in favor of the church application, said the welfare farms are organized to help the poor off the welfare rolls of the state and local governments. He said the farms are not maintaining themselves and noted that constant donations are required to maintain them.

James Abbott, who also is a bishop in the church, and Commissioner Vern Powell maintained that it was an issue that should be decided by state officials rather than the county commission. One of the outcomes of the case could affect similar operations throughout Idaho. According to LDS Church officials, most local stakes of the church own farms that provide work and money to support the church welfare program. In addition, the decision could well affect the operation of the church owned Deseret Industries which also provides work and clothing for needy church members in Idaho. Previously the Deseret Industries have been allowed to operate as a non-profit corporation.

Personnel at the Catterall Port of Entry said trucks would not be able to travel on the road until at least Sunday, but car and pickup truck traffic was stopped for only about an hour until temporary repairs could be made.

The Power County Sheriff's office report the washout was caused from heavy rains Friday in foothills in the surrounding area which swelled Fall Creek and overflowed onto the highway. East-bound traffic was being rerouted through Snowville, Utah, and on highway 37 back to American Falls. Some west-bound traffic also was being rerouted on this route, but where possible, was traveling via Shoshone and Arco.

Authorities are searching for 16-year-old Michelle DeTillot, Twin Falls, who was picked up at her home about 9 p.m. Friday and has not been seen since. Miss DeTillot was last seen in an "old green car" in downtown Twin Falls. The girl is five-feet tall, weighs 100 pounds and has short, dark, brown hair and brown eyes. She was wearing a pink long sleeved shirt and blue, red, yellow and white vertical striped trousers, brown loafers with a gold buckle and was carrying a brown natural suede tote bag. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George DeTillot.

Anyone who has seen Miss DeTillot or knows of her whereabouts is asked to contact the Twin Falls Police Department. 9 Youths Killed In SF Crash

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Nine young people were killed and three critically injured Saturday on an approach to the Golden Gate Bridge when a new sports car going 100 miles an hour crossed a dividing line and crashed head-on into a car jammed with teenagers. It was the worst two-car crash in San Francisco history. A runaway truck killed seven in 1955. Sgt. Ralph Anderson of the California Highway Patrol said a Porsche convertible traveling a little more than 100 miles an hour collided with a red Mustang somehow crumpled with eight or nine people. The impact crushed the Porsche, shooting its rear engine 272 feet away. The Mustang was collapsed like an accordion. Bodies were so scattered it was impossible for officers to be certain which had been in each car. One body, a witness said, was "pated" to the side of the Porsche. The highway patrol said the Porsche, so new it only had a temporary license, was driven by Robert Symons, 26, an accountant. He was accompanied by at least two girls, both medical secretaries. Teenagers in the Mustang, driven by Albert F. Urrea, 19, were so numerous it seemed impossible for so many to have been crammed into the small car. The tragedy was so stunning the National Transportation Board announced in Washington it was sending a special investigator to the scene. One of several ambulances removing victims collided en route to a hospital with another car, but the ambulance driver just kept going. The driver of the car, William G. Patterson, 26, said he thought he heard a siren. "I had a green light and suddenly in front of me was an ambulance. Besides Symons and Urrea, others dead in the bridge accident, all from the San Francisco area, were Deborah Abraham, 16, Carol F. Alamsa, 17, Alana Suzanne Lee, 18, Donna Spanos, 17, Samuel Adama Jr., 19, Mary D. Dougherty, 22, and Karin L. Feldman, 23. The injured, all teenagers, were identified as Carl Campbell, Lawrence Lucas and John Simer.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United Auto Workers Saturday joined six conservation groups in urging Congress to set air pollution control standards so tough they would banish the internal combustion engine from autos within the next five years. In a letter delivered to members of the Senate, the organizations proposed a clean air plan they said "would guarantee every American a safer, cleaner atmosphere by 1975." They called the air pollution control bill already passed by the House "pitifully weak" and said rival proposals of the Nixon administration and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, also were less than "the minimum provisions acceptable."

The letter was dispatched by conservation groups ranging from the old and established National Audubon Society to the newly organized Zero Population Growth. Other signing the letter were the Sierra Club, Environmental Action, Friends of the Earth, the Wilderness Society and the big auto union. The proposal called for the government to declare that by 1975, cars would be required to keep their exhaust systems in that from the steam-powered Rankine-Cycle Engine. "This engine is presently feasible and has emission characteristics which are much lower than the internal combustion engine can ever hope to achieve," the report said. It complained that present pollution control standards are ineffective because they are "based on the assumption that the internal combustion engine is here to stay and that control will be limited to the capacities of that engine." Less sweeping proposals called for: Government agencies and owners of large fleets of cars to purchase autos, beginning with the 1971 model year, which can SAIGON (UPI)—Police Saturday fired tear gas to disperse about 1,000 peace demonstrators led by Episcopal Bishop Paul Moore of New York in an attempted march on the U.S. Embassy, and arrested about 25 persons. Four American newsmen were briefly detained. The march followed a peace rally sponsored by a four-nation group called "The Fellowship for Reconciliation." About 20 Americans, Australians, New Zealanders and Dutchmen, who said they represented the U.S. National Student Association and several world religious organizations, were joined in the march by an estimated 1,000 Vietnamese. Marchers, led by the Americans and Australians, carried banners reading "peace now" and "we condemn the corrupt, unjust and dictatorial government of President Thieu." Charles Palmer, president of the U.S. Student Association, told the rally "the present Vietnamese government would not survive if the United States withdrew its support." He said he would return to the United States and ask the U.S. government to stop backing President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Irish Protestants Parade In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Protestant drum beats, a sound detested by Catholics, boomed throughout Northern Ireland Saturday night as tempers mounted over a battle fought 280 years ago. The government banned all sales of alcohol on Monday in a move to prevent bloodshed when Protestant Orangemen take to the streets in giant parades celebrating victory over the Catholics at the Battle of the Boyne. A task force of 18,000 British troops and policemen stood by to keep the peace. Protestant parades began Saturday with a minor march by 150 Orangemen following a fire and drum band outside Belfast. The parade, organized by supporters of the militant Protestant leader, Ian Paisley, passed without incident. In Belfast, troops held two armored water cannon trucks in readiness to deal with possible clashes of the kind that have killed 10 persons and wounded hundreds in two weekends of rioting. The government announced a ban on all pubs and clubs selling drink Monday and in the three hours left before closing time Saturday, thousands rushed to buy stocks. "This will impose some hardship on the population," a government spokesman said. "But it is a step toward peace and order." An Orange Order spokesman said he regretted the government ban but added that drink would be given away from several booths set up at Elnaghly Field, terminating point for the Orange parade in Belfast.

Heard

Children start school these days with a big advantage. They already know how to list (over) the alphabet—T and V.

In addition to performing other tasks, the car has been determined to be the seat of the sense of balance. Physicians learn, age learned that instructions of the inner ear seemed to affect a person's balance. More recent experiments have shown that loud noises piped into the ears of a totally deaf person can actually make him dizzy.

As most young parents know, when the baby finally falls asleep, it's usually time to get up.

Although the familiar audiometer test is still used to find the nature and extent of a hearing loss, the newer "fitting evaluation" is now used to determine which hearing aid will offer the best help for each person's problem. MAICO's "Pre-fitting" is one of the best of the hearing aid fitting instruments made by the pioneer in hearing test instruments. We use it exclusively to insure that each customer will have the best in hearing help. Ask us to show it to you next time you stop in.

Dinah Shore

Dinah's Place Reflects Her Tasteful Warmth

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD (NEWS) Dinah's place is sunny, friendly, "glib" and filled with spirited, thought-provoking and laugh-making conversation. Her new NBC-TV Series, Dinah's Place, will follow suit.

Dinah Shore, looking prettier, younger and more in than she did a decade ago when she was Queen of Television, is wearing white slacks, a purple blouse and a smile because someone had remarked that her living room may be one of the prettiest ever seen.

The room, in beige and green, with Fritelli and Chagall paintings on the walls, opens into a breakfast room with a huge window rising cathedral-high and permitting a view of gardens, flowers, a swimming pool and Dinah's precious tennis court.

"My sister cried when she saw this house four years ago," Dinah says. "She thought I had gone bananas when I bought it."

Indeed, the house had navy blue walls and didn't look as it now does.

"We gutted the house and made lots of changes. Actually it was built around stereo speakers, which my sister says is the ultimate in decadence. See those guys and she points outside the huge window—they have the speakers in them."

She rises and straightens two pictures on the wall. "I think there must have been an earthquake around here. Anyway, after I moved in, the kitchen couldn't be used because there was so much in it, there was no hot or cold water, the carpetlayers were still at work and the bricklayers were still finishing the patio. But there was lovely step-a-music floating dreamily through the house and gardens. My sister was so upset over that."

Dinah smiles. "Want to hear the pay-off? The stereo wasn't worth for me. I don't get on with things that are mechanical. That will be a whole thing on me since women should be liberated from their fears of mechanical things."

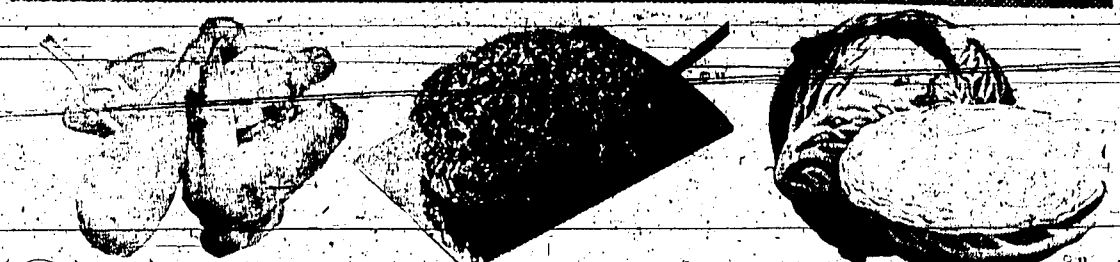

For the series, which premieres on Aug. 3 on NBC-TV, replacing "I Like It That Way," a replica of Dinah's home is being built in the studio. "The idea of the series is to illustrate what is being discussed, cooking in the kitchen, seeing in a catch-all room, discussion in the living room, and in the bedroom—the lifting of a gown."

Dinah says she doesn't really know what brought her back to TV beyond the fact that her good friend, former and present producer Henry Jaffe, cajoled her into it.

There will be name guests and Dinah will sing, but there will also be people who do things and accomplish things. With Dinah there is never any lack of conversation. She comes from a family where there was always a perpetual contest to see who could read the most, she speaks knowledgeably on many subjects, including politics.

"I'm a conservative, liberal," she says.

Two Genets

In 1793, one Citizen Genet, envoy from the revolutionary government of France, got into hot water with President Washington for attempting to involve neutral America in France's squabble with Britain and was invited to leave.

More recently, a latter-day Frenchman with the same name came to the no-longer neutral and isolated America to observe and comment. To the inevitable charge that foreigners have no business meddling in another country's affairs, writer Jean Genet counters that he is only doing what America is doing all over the world.

What Genet sees in America disturbs him and what he sees is racism. He is disturbed by the relative lack of outcry when two black students were killed by police at Jackson State College in Augusta compared to the nationwide turmoil that followed the shooting of four whites at Kent State.

He is disturbed by what he considers the persecution of the Black Panther party, in particular the impending trial of party chairman Bobby Seale on a charge of conspiring to murder a fellow Black Panther.

Writing in the Panthers' weekly newspaper recently, Genet lamented the absence of an Emile Zola to cry "J'accuse" against the courts of this country and exhorted students to "leave your classrooms in order to carry the word across America in favor of Bobby Seale and against racism. The life of Bobby Seale, the existence of the Black Panther party come first — ahead of your diplomats."

It has been said on high authority that no black man, least of all a Black Panther, can get a fair trial in America. Regrettably, there are enough precedents in history to make that statement more than libelous prattle. But a black man can get a fairer trial in America today than at any time in the past. And so can a white man.

Socialist Eugene Debs was sentenced to 10 years in prison under the 1917 Espionage Act, not for committing treason or violence or even advocating it, but simply for speaking out against America's involvement in World War I. And talking about injustice, a few years earlier, France had its Dreyfus affair in which an innocent man was tried not as a man but as a Jew. Neither the Debs nor the Dreyfus trial could take place in either country today, or if it did could result in other than a verdict of "Not Guilty."

What everybody, including Genet, conveniently ignores, is that a body was found in a swamp in Connecticut. It was once a man and its name was Alex Rackley.

What those who cry for justice for Bobby Seale really mean by "justice" is not a fair trial but no trial at all.

What then about justice for Alex Rackley? He did not mutilate and torture and tie himself up and then drag his own corpse into that swamp.

The authorities have found the evidence against Seale, including testimony from ex-Panthers, strong enough to warrant an indictment. Surely among those who have taken up his banner there are lawyers who can ably defend him, who can insure that his rights are protected and that the proceedings are impeccable, and others to keep the glare of publicity on this case and expose its fraud, if it is a fraud as they allege.

But even as those who have charged Seale must accept his complete exoneration if he is not proven guilty beyond a shadow of a doubt, those who defend him must likewise accept — if they are truly devoted to justice — an adverse decision if that is what a jury rules.

One thing is certain, and that is that nothing resembling justice can come out of demonstrations in the streets and slogan-spouting and hysteria and threats.

The first Genet knew this when the regime that appointed him was deposed and its successor ordered him back to France. Rather than let him face the guillotine, Washington allowed him to stay in this country, where he eventually became a citizen.

Perhaps the modern Genet will also stay long enough to discover that America is not such a bad place after all.

MR. SPECTATOR

Kitchen Engineer

The housewife of 1970 finds knowledge of a different variety than that possessed by a housewife of a former era necessary for smooth operation of the home. She must, in fact, be something of an engineer.

So many and varied are mechanical conveniences, improvements and gadgets that a woman who is not mechanically minded can really get things jammed up. If she pushes the wrong button, or shifts into reverse when full speed ahead is indicated, something is bound to happen.

The old-fashioned cook who knew how many "pinches" of this and that to add to whatever she was making for best results, would be amazed if turned loose in a modern kitchen.

Today's women are bright by whatever tests they are rated. But when an attempt is made to evaluate them as kitchen engineers, no mere mule is competent to give them even preliminary tests. But there is no denying the fact that the jungle of mechanical equipment that is the modern kitchen was designed by men.

Perhaps they intentionally tried to fill the culinary department with contraptions the average man would be unable to master. If so, they succeeded admirably. The kitchen today is strictly a sphere of operations for the Kitchen Engineer.

WATERED DOWN

In the 1930s, gentlemen were arrested for swimming in public with their chests bare.

At the peace rally in Washington, D.C. the other day, young gentlemen and ladies cavorted wholly unclothed in the reflecting pool in front of the Washington Monument. Police looked on benignly.

These same blithe spirits then turn around and complain that this society is becoming more and more repressive.

But to go in half a lifetime from bathing shirts for men to mixed nude bathing in the center of the national capital would seem to represent some kind of progress.

A Bloodbath Is Feared

WASHINGTON — Whether a bloodbath would ensue or not in the wake of a hasty U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam, many Vietnamese officials have been conditioned to expect a bloody aftermath of Communist takeover.

That is one assessment of a study, commissioned for the Pentagon's advanced research projects agency by the RAND Corporation. It goes on to suggest that such apprehensions of South Vietnamese leaders have serious implications for the future stability and morale in South Vietnam.

The study, which is getting close attention at the Capitol as well as the Pentagon, is not classified, but it is based largely on confidential captured documents. It was written for RAND by Stephen T. Hosmer, a former Air Force intelligence officer who is a senior RAND staff member.

Entitled, "Viet. Cong. Repression and Its Implications for the Future," the study addresses itself to the full range of repressive actions employed by the Communists against South Vietnamese, in civilian and military life, from the central government down to the hamlet level. It is specifically with the much-debated question of whether a bloodbath would follow a Communist takeover in the South.

Like other appraisals of the same subject, the study cites as "possible" precedents the execution of thousands of North Vietnamese during the so-called land reform campaign of 1953-56, and the murder of South Vietnamese civilians by Hanoi during the 25-day occupation of that city in the 1968 Tet offensive. The study also notes that certain government officials, many military officers, police officials and security chiefs, down to the village level, are already marked for reprisal on captured Communist blacklists. "Clearly," it says, "the conduct of the South Vietnamese officials and military, if it is on the battlefield or at the negotiating table, and the degree to which the people of Vietnam are prepared to continue resisting the Communists will be greatly influenced by the South Vietnamese perception of the threat of repression in the event of a Communist victory."

The study says there is every reason to believe that a wide range of government officials, civilian and military, "have very pessimistic expectations as to their ultimate fate should a Communist regime come to power in South Vietnam."

From such past events as the "land reform" campaign and from more recent experience, many civilians and military officials are convinced "that they would become the victims of a major bloodbath if the Communists were to assume power."

"This is not to say that such a bloodbath is certain to occur in the event of a Communist rise to power. But it is clear that many in the South would expect one," the study says.

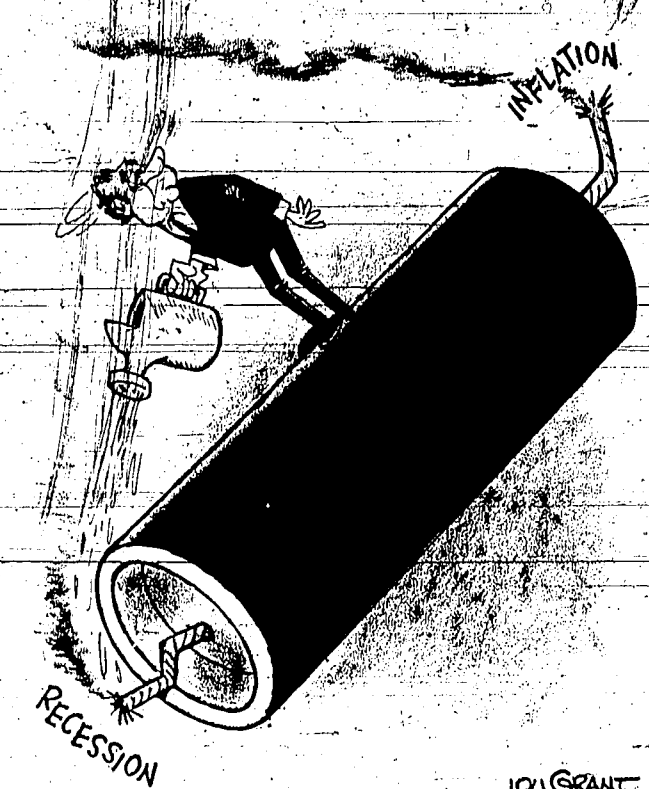

"The existence of such perceptions may explain, in part," the study says, "why the current GVN (government of Vietnam) leaders are so adamantly opposed to any coalition government. Simply put, they are extremely reluctant to share power with those whom they believe to be their mortal enemies. "These fears also suggest that, in any attempt at a negotiated settlement, GVN officials may manifest an overriding concern for ensuring their own physical security and that of their families."

"Finally, perceptions such as the above bear directly on the problem of maintaining the cohesion and morale of South Vietnam during the negotiations," the study says, adding that the Viet Cong often offer targets of their repression a chance to win clemency by turnout activity.

The study also suggests that any negotiated cease-fire arrangement in Vietnam should specifically forbid assassination, abductions and the like, and make it clear that all incidents of that sort would be considered violations of a cease-fire agreement.

On the speculative question of whether a bloodbath would necessarily follow a Communist rise to power, the study suggests that the method of takeover might be a controlling factor. It notes, for example, that Viet Cong doctrine calls for breaking down government control through violence.

Success Spoils

WASHINGTON — Despite everything you hear about the Government, there still is plenty of money around for projects. The only trouble is, you can't get the money if you have a plan that works. You must have one that no one is quite sure about.

A vice president of a university system in the Northeast told me about this the other day when he applied for money for a program to run summer schools for students who needed extra help to get into college. He told me the meeting went something like this:

"Now Mr. Haas, from our records it appears that you're applying for a grant of $500,000 to run a summer school project for students hoping to keep up in college this fall."

"That's correct. We did it last year, and it was tremendously successful. We only had a crop-out rate of 6 per cent."

"There is no way you can condone young people running from this war; they are breaking the law. But you sure can sympathize with them; we have been drafting them to fight and punishing them when they do."

"Oh, dear no. Then this is not a pilot project."

"No, it's not. We know it works."

"What a shame."

"What do you mean what a shame?"

"Well, if this were a pilot project the government would be happy to finance it. We'd be very interested in knowing what could come of it. But we can't very well give money to something that's been proven, can we?"

"Why the hell not?"

"Mr. Haas, we're very willing to fund any educational program, providing it's a pilot. But we can't throw money away on things that work. Congress would have a fit."

"I still don't understand why."

"I'm trying to explain it to you. The government has no trouble getting money from Congress for study programs. It doesn't matter how much it costs to study a program; we can get the funds. But once we ask for money for a program that has been proven successful, Congress will be committed to it, and nobody wants that, do they?"

"Suppose that I request the money for a study project. Could I get it then?"

"But you already told me that it had worked last summer. There's no sense having a study of it, if it works."

"I'm not trying to be difficult, but this is a very important project. We are taking in people this year who are going to find it tough sledding to keep up in the fall unless they have some remedial work."

"It's not our fault that your program worked last summer, Mr. Haas. Had it failed, we would have given you a blank check to try it a different way. But we're not here to dole out taxpayers' money for programs that have succeeded."

"Just the other day a superintendent of a public system in the Midwest tried a visual-reading program for his state which turned into a disaster. The machines didn't work, the teachers couldn't handle them and the students lost interest after the first five minutes."

"Did we cut him off? We did not. We gave him another $10 million to find out why he failed. And we're ready to pour in another $10 million if he doesn't come up with answers. The whole department is excited by the failure."

"Is there any possible way of getting the $500,000 knowing what you know about my program?"

"I hardly think so, Mr. Haas. You've made a mess of things as it is. Our motto in the government is 'Nothing fails like success.'"

No Painless War

Has it occurred to you something more than a paradoxical that when a foot soldier invades an enemy village and shoots the villagers — we call martial law?

When an airman bombs an enemy village, killing villagers, we pin a medal on him.

It's just such two-faced hypocrisy which has tended to make today's enlightened young people disrespectful of their leaders and disdainful of this pulled-punches war.

There is a very interesting question on its way to the U.S. Supreme Court. The Massachusetts Legislature passed and the governor has signed "a law against the Vietnam war."

They meant business. This bill says the federal government may not send Massachusetts servicemen into this kind of war and if passed the state house by a lopsided 127 to 62 and the senate by 29 to 9.

Thus that state has challenged the federal government's constitutional authority to wage undeclared wars.

The new state law became effective this month. The Massachusetts attorney general is now obligated to defend any Massachusetts serviceman who wants to sit out this war.

I expect the Supreme Court will give hurry-up consideration to this challenge, will rule promptly on the constitutionality of the Massachusetts law.

Proponents of this law concede that our President — as Commander-in-Chief — does have and must have emergency police to meet emergency situations.

But they contend that Vietnam is not a police action and is not an emergency, that it is an extended war without a declaration of war and, thus, unconstitutional.

Whatever the high court's decree, Massachusetts lawmakers have thus ventilated the indignation and indignation of a lot of Americans who have no respect for dead-end, no-win wars and cannot comprehend why our government continues — even for a little while — to perpetuate this war.

And the Massachusetts action raises an interesting possibility that the Vietnamese war, by Supreme Court decree, might be labeled a war that the President might have to ask the Congress for a declaration of war in order to pursue this commitment and that Congress in an election year — might refuse.

It's possible our President might welcome that way out. And let's let the court clarify this other question: How come we can bomb an enemy village

ANDREW TULY

The Increase

WASHINGTON — Predicted for months, the bad news is now an acknowledged fact: President Nixon's dollars-and-cents men have added the last sum down to the last decimal point in the administration's tax-increase program.

Nixon's proposals, calling for billions in individual income tax and estate tax, will be aimed at enactment by Congress in 1971. The President, as one official put it, "is simply facing the fact that the government needs more money."

In fact, he may ask for more this year. If his proposed $1.6 billion tax on leaded gasoline is rejected on the Hill, a not unlikely eventuality in light of the muscle wielded by the oil lobby.

A 6 per cent increase in basic tax rates on individual income is the meat of the Nixon program. He also almost surely will ask that Congress postpone or cancel the increase to $650 (from $625) of income tax exemptions, scheduled to become effective next Jan. 1.

He will ask Capital Hill to postpone for a year the scheduled income tax deduction from 10 per cent (to a maximum deduction of $1000) to 13 per cent in 1971.

Excise taxes to be increased, if Nixon has his way, will be those on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages. He also would like to revive the so-called luxury taxes on jewelry, furs, leather goods and toiletries which were repealed, for some insane reason, in 1965.

There is no suggestion that taxes on business will be increased. Nixon's experts claim there isn't enough revenue, only hope that Casper Weinberger will have something to say about this dreary program aimed at providing new incentives for capital investment. In all this gloom, there could be a ray of sunshine for the individual taxpayer. He has an ally in the new deputy director of the new Office of Management and Budget headed by George F. Shultz. This possible friend is named Casper Weinberger.

Remember that name because he sounds like a phenomenon. Breaking with budget tradition, Weinberger comes right out and says there is nothing inevitable about the trend of increasing government expenditures. He thinks his job is to reduce spending, bless him.

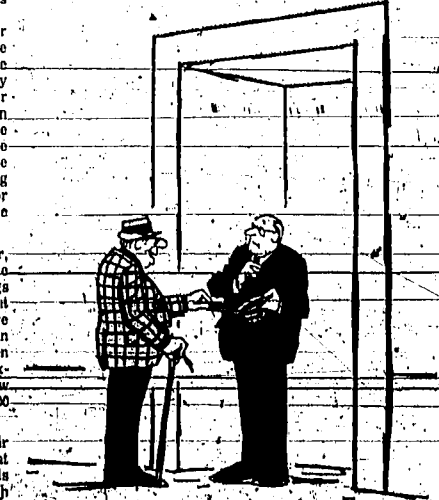

Specifically, Weinberger rejects the notion that the money now being spent on the war in Vietnam automatically will be channeled into other Federal programs, notably in the social legislation field. He considers presumptuous the virtually unquestioned premise that total Federal spending must continue to rise, after peace in order to finance domestic needs.

Why not, asks Weinberger, adopt the "perfectly reasonable alternative" of using savings from the end-of-the-war-to-cut taxes and thereby provide more money for private spending in the domestic field? He even believes he can cut expenditures after the war, below the current level of about $200 billion a year.

What they are saying in their smug way, of course, is that bigger is not better. Inflation is inevitable, no matter how high taxes climb. Working stiffs can't do anything about it. Casper Weinberger will have something to say about this dreary program aimed at providing new in-

BERRY'S WORLD

"Harry, it's just too bad you didn't get out of the market and into playing the polls when I did!"

CODE SHEETS FOR NEW court reform system fees and fines which will be collected for all courts in the county auditors' offices are inspected here by Twin Falls County Auditor Harold Lancaster and Fifth Judicial District Judge Theron W. Ward. Mr. Lancaster, left, authored the system with the help of the local judge and it has now been adopted state wide under Supreme Court Rule.

Church Expresses Opposition

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—The national Episcopal Church collection for student strikers is being opposed by the Connecticut Episcopal diocese and a Thomaston church.

A "special voluntary offering to be taken throughout the church on the third Sunday of September for the support of student 'strike' activities" was recommended last May by the National Executive Council of the Episcopal Church.

The state executive council, however, recommended July 9 that parishes and missions in the diocese not take part in the offering. The council praised "the work of peaceful students and young persons and said the national council was not speaking for the church as a whole."

Officials of Trinity Church in Thomaston expressed "unanimous opposition" to the national council's move.

"Financial boycott will be our answer to such irresponsibility in high places and we call upon others to do likewise," said the churchmen.

In an open letter to the Rev. John E. Hines, national presiding bishop, the officials said it was obvious from past experience that such an offering would go to "extremist groups," usually on the far left of the political spectrum.

Courts Get New Cash Control

A coded accounting and cash control system for receiving court fees and fines under the new Idaho court reform system slated for 1971 has been adopted by the Idaho Supreme Court on a state-wide basis.

The system was developed and blue-printed by Twin Falls County Clerk-Auditor Harold Lancaster and Fifth Judicial District Judge Theron Ward. Mr. Lancaster began working on the system shortly after the court reform was adopted as the move required a new cash register for his office.

The special code was designed to be used as the keyboard of the cash register now being manufactured for Twin Falls County. After the system was devised, Judge Ward, who worked with Mr. Lancaster in determining the types of fees to be collected and their divisions, submitted the system to the Supreme Court's executive officer. Mr. Lancaster also presented it during a meeting of the Idaho County Clerks' Association. In both cases the system proved popular.

Judge Ward said Friday it was discussed at the recent judicial meeting in Sun Valley and the Idaho Supreme Court at that time announced that unless there were objections they would adopt it as a court rule. Judge Ward said court officials were most enthusiastic about the system and by about Sept. 1 it is expected to be listed in the high court's rules.

Mr. Lancaster said in larger counties adoption of the code system will mean the saving of at least two full-time employees.

By pushing a letter and number key on the cash register, as shown on the code list, the register will automatically ring up the fee and divide it as required by state law with the proper percentages going to the state, city and county.

There are 14 separate ways in which fees are divided after collection, Mr. Lancaster explained, and the code system automatically makes the split as the money is collected.

A list of the code letters and numbers will be kept in each office and daily balance sheets will also be rung up to show the total day's revenue and the various categories.

This system will mean that the county's records will be kept as the collections progress and that a complete report will be available for the Supreme Court as required by law. It will eliminate the tedious task of accounting and tabulating total receipts.

Judge Ward said one of the major advantages is that counties not using cash registers, but doing manual accounting can achieve the same time saving program by following the code sheets as collections are received.

By the statewide adoption of the Twin Falls County System, the Supreme Court will be assured of a uniform reporting system and can tell at a glance how much money was collected and for what source without having to tabulate each county separately according to an individual system.

By following codes listed on the large sheets which will be posted in the court offices and at the cash register, the system is so simplified that even new employees will be able to follow it.

An example, Mr. Lancaster said, would be a $13 filing fee on a petition for adoption. Rung up under the proper letter and figure shown on the list, the $13 would automatically show on the cash register tape, as nothing for the Idaho Code Fund, $7—for the Judges Retirement Fund and $3 each for the state general fund and county current expenses for the total $13. The auditor's tape would record the amount and the code number and by glancing at the code on the posted cards distribution is apparent.

The special cash control system also makes an automatic journal sheet of each day's transactions, eliminating more manual bookwork.

"It was a rather fast change, but what a difference!" So say the Harris family about their switch to electric heat. "The big difference is that the heat is more sufficient," says Mr. Harris. Mystic Decries 'Rare' Faculties

UTRECHT, Holland (UPI)—Gerard Croiset is a clairvoyant, of he's psychic, or he has extra sensory perception—or something.

By whatever name it is called, this 60-year-old Hollander has become renowned in many parts of the world as a man who "sees" or "senses" things ordinary mortals do not.

He has been in great demand as a finder of lost children, by "sensing" or "seeing" what might have happened to them or where they might be.

He says he has been asked to use his psychic senses to find some 500 missing children and he figures he has helped locate about 400 lost, strayed or abducted.

Croiset does not claim supernatural powers and discourages the idea that he has them.

"I say it like this," he told a UPI reporter. "We human beings are in contact with our fellow humans whether we are conscious of the fact. I am no wonder man. I am different, perhaps, only in my ability to tune in on other people on the proper frequency and make contact with them."

Croiset has been called in unofficially on crimes all over the world. In some of his cases, ranging from murders to plane crashes, he has been praised for his efforts. In some he has drawn a blank such as the kidnapping of rancher-financier Olivero Lara Boreo in Colombia and the disappearance of Mrs. Muriel McKay, wife of a British newspaper executive in London.

"I had no conscious feeling I was on the right track in those cases," he said.

"Croiset takes no fees for these 'special cases' whether or not he is able to produce a result. His main source of income is his work locally as a 'natural healer.'"

Newspaper offices in Holland, especially those of such worldwide agencies as UPI, are accustomed to getting urgent messages from abroad asking how Croiset can be reached for advice on how to locate a missing millionaire or a child or to help solve a murder case.

In addition, letters arrive frequently at his home at Wilton zwiligerstraat (William the Silent Street) forwarded by the post office which has learned to deal with mail simply addressed to "Gerard Croiset, the Netherlands."

And people call in person, some to scoff, some to seek help. One of those who came as a skeptic, author Jack Harrison Pollock, wrote "Croiset the Clairvoyant" in which he refers to him as "The Miracle Man of Holland" and "The Man Who Mystifies Europe."

Croiset found his alleged powers early in life. When he was 15, he says, he "saw" his father fall down in Amsterdam while he was himself on a farm miles away. He hurried to Amsterdam and arrived to find his father had lived two hours earlier.

Later Croiset ran a fruit and vegetable shop. He was able to give tips to his Dutch Resistance Movement. Soon after the war—in 1946—he met Prof. Wilhelm H.C. Tenhaeff, director of the pioneer Parapsychology Institute at the University of Utrecht who has intensively studied him ever since.

Tenhaeff had Croiset submit to tests by scientists of other European nations and in the United States. Prof. Hans Bender of the Parapsychology Research Center at Freiburg University in Germany was quoted as calling him "the most remarkable subject I ever tested."

Croiset has something he calls "The Chair Test" which he has performed repeatedly before expert witnesses and asserted under "the most exacting scientific conditions. This consists of describing in detail before a meeting takes place the person who will sit in a seat number chosen at random by a disinterested party.

Miss Jorgensen Compares Roles

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Because almost everyone is either male or female, it is difficult to obtain a truly unbiased opinion of the Women's Liberation Movement.

I think you will agree, however, that if anyone is qualified to render a completely impartial judgment, that person is Christine Jorgensen.

So when Miss Jorgensen came to town this week for the local premier of "Christine," a movie based on her biography, I solicited her comment on the controversy.

Miss Jorgensen, is, of course, one of the few people ever to view such an issue from both sides. Now 44, she has divided her time equally between the sexes.

Perhaps for this reason, her view of women's lib is almost neutral.

"I never found that women weren't liberated," she said when I introduced the subject.

"This being the conventional male viewpoint, I assumed that Miss Jorgensen was predominantly influenced by the first part of her life, which she spent as a male.

But later on she asserted that "it's more difficult being a woman." Which is the conventional viewpoint, and which would indicate that she was predominantly influenced by the second part of her life, which she has spent as a female.

Despite the difficulty, however, Miss Jorgensen does not regret the celebrated transsexual operations and hormone treatments she underwent in the early 1950's.

In an Old Maid "I certainly don't feel subjugated in any way, shape or form," she said. "And I'm an old maid."

Miss Jorgensen went on to say that "if I had been married for a couple of years, I might be ready to join Women's Lib." But then she added that "no happily married woman wants to be liberated."

And by this time I was having some difficulty figuring out where Miss Jorgensen stood.

"There's an art to being a woman," she continued. "Some of it might be lost if a woman tries to compete on equal terms with men."

"She also said she disagreed with the Women's Lib contention that sex symbol manifestations such as beauty contests are degrading.

On balance, then, I would say that in the battle of the sexes, Miss Jorgensen would make a pretty good referee.

Police End Film Orgy By Youths

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Police acting on complaints from parents of teenagers raided a West Philadelphia house used as a movie studio Thursday night and took into custody 45 persons, including 30 under-18 boys and girls, 17 to 21 years old making "stag" movies.

Police said two men had guns and served as "enforcers" if the "actors" blanked at performing for the cameras.

Raiders said every room in the large house was occupied by young boys and girls, all nude, or in various stages of undress.

The 30 youngsters were released after questioning. Fifteen, including two brothers who operated the house as headquarters of International Triangle Productions Corp., were held on various charges.

Police said the house, which they said was a large supplier of stag films, was placed under surveillance six weeks ago after a flood of complaints from parents of teenagers drawn to the house by a newspaper-ad calling for aspirants to a movie or modeling career.

Once the applicants stepped inside, police said, they were asked to participate in sexual scenes and if they refused, the enforcers appeared with a show of weapons and ordered the show to go on.

Day-Care Benefit Set

Proceeds from the premiere showing of the movie "Paint Your Wagon," starring Lee Marvin and Clint Eastwood, will be donated to the Community Action Day Care Center by the Orpheum Theater.

The premiere is scheduled July 29. The movie, filmed largely in Baker, Ore., is right off its roadshow engagement, according to the Orpheum.

Lee Marvin adds another dimension to his movie career in "Paint Your Wagon" as he bursts into song for the first time on the screen, as an irascible prospector born under a "wand'rin' star."

The story of "Paint Your Wagon," an Alun Jay Lerner production, tells the tale of the California gold rush of 1849, presented with all of its original excitement and scenic grandeur plus the contagious music of that spectacular era. Every detail was painstakingly researched to preserve authenticity, and the producers searched for three months for a mountain valley as raw and untouched as those which greeted the eyes of the gold-rushers.

The locale was finally placed in the Willowa National Forest of Oregon, northeast of Baker. Another three months was devoted after the filming to restoring the area to its original primitive state.

The proceeds, over the guarantee for the film producers, will be donated towards the continuation of the Day Care Center, as another in the summer-long series of fundraising events through which the center hopes to continue in operation.

Tickets for the production of "Paint Your Wagon" will be available at Twin Falls merchants in advance, and at the door at the time of showing. There will also be a drawing during the intermission for a number of prizes.

Pro-America Fete Cost U.S. $68,770

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The big pro-America rally here July 4 cost taxpayers $68,770, about $14,000 less than November's antiwar demonstration, the National Park Service said Friday.

Park Service figures show that $37,000 of the total July 4 cost went to pay for police for the rally that drew an estimated 350,000 persons at the Washington Monument.

By comparison, the services said it cost $83,450 to handle an estimated 250,000 persons during the November demonstration. Of that, $50,800 was for police.

The July 4 costs also included $17,000 for preparations, $4,010 to clean up afterwards, $5,000 to rent, comfort stations and $1,700 to repair damage to public property.

The Park Service said it cost $11,000 to replace and repair property plants and turf damaged during the November demonstration and $11,150 to rent comfort stations.

Floyd Hough, a Park Service auditor, said that since about $48,000 is covered in the budget for the annual July 4 fireworks display here—several public agencies share the cost of the fireworks—the National Park Service had to dip into its contingency reserves for the other $22,000.

A spokesman said the Honor America Day Committee covered much of the added costs to this year's celebration, including the stage, scaffolding, towers, lights, sound system, scenery and increased expense of the fireworks display.

Since antiwar demonstrations cannot be forecast by the government ahead of time, Hough said, the antiwar cost of the November demonstration and all the others before and since have to come out of the reserves.

Hough said the Park Service will have to ask for additional funds from Congress in the next budget to take into account the added cost of possible future demonstrations.

The board met in Salmon and some members planned a jet boat trip Friday down the main Salmon to learn of recreational needs first hand. They were to meet with local sportsman, businessmen and guides during the field inspection.

The statement noted the board was responsible for water resource planning in the state, and set the late 1970s for the completion of a state water plan that will be given to the Legislative and executive branches of government, as well as to the general public.

The statement said the plan would make "sound, objective decisions concerning the future of Idaho's water and related land resources."

"The board will view objectively all comments by interested agencies and individuals concerned with development of water resources of Idaho and attempt to work towards a solution that will minimize conflicts associated with the use of water resources," the statement said.

The board also invited active participation from environmental agencies and individual groups during the formulation of the water plan.

In other action, the board: Received an application for a water development loan from Leo Masters, Boise, for construction of a reservoir in high valley above Banks, Idaho, for a recreational site. The board authorized its staff to investigate the proposal.

Verl King, assistant staff director for development, presented a progress report on the Southwest Idaho Development Project, and said approximately 188,000 acres of land in the Mountain Home area were considered suitable for development under sprinkler irrigation.

The board discussed the possibility of the corps of engineers constructing the Garden Valley Dam on the South Fork of the Payette River as part of a cooperative effort among the board, the corps and the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation to further the proposed Southwest Idaho Development project.

The board authorized water board Director Dr. Robert R. Lee to send letters to Idaho's congressional delegation asking for views and recommendations on the matter.

And Franklin Jones, Boise, president of the Idaho Wildlife Association; Jeff Wilson, Marsing, secretary of the Owyhee Cattlemen's Association; and Bill Meiners, Boise, district manager of the Bureau of Land Management, presented a three-part program on the cooperative program proposed for Owyhee County. Plans call for extensive watershed control, range management and cooperation to improve land and water resources in the area.

Artist To Display Her Work

Ann Sullivan, an artist from Dallas, Texas, is visiting in Twin Falls and will exhibit her batik wall hangings and watercolor paintings July 10, 13 and 14 at the YMCA-YWCA building on Elizabeth Boulevard.

A member of the Southwestern Watercolor Society, the Dallas Art Education Association and the Texas Fine Arts Association, Mrs. Sullivan started experimenting with the batik process only recently. Batik is an ancient art which originated in Indonesia centuries ago.

Mrs. Sullivan will be at the "Y" building Tuesday between 2 and 4 p.m. to give a watercolor demonstration. The public is invited to view the exhibit between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. and attend the demonstration on Tuesday.

Hikers To Visit Idaho

Southern Idaho, including the Twin Falls area, has been selected as the primary hiking area for the summer trip of the Minneapolis Hiking Club, Rep. Orval Hansen said Saturday. Club officials said they had selected Idaho for their hiking trip because of the beauty and excitement of the mountain areas, and for the friendliness of Idahoans, Rep. Hansen said he was told.

"All contacts with Idaho people have been so kind, helpful and considerate," the officials told the Congressman. While in the Twin Falls area in mid July, they will visit the Trout Ranch, Thousand Springs, and Craters of the Moon. Sun Valley will host the group for two days while they hike in the surrounding mountains and prepare for the goal of their trip—the Sawtooth Mountains of the Stanley Basin Area. Redfish Lake will serve as their base camp for these excursions.

Before leaving Idaho they will travel north, spending several days in McCall, Moscow, Coeur d'Alene and Lewiston. Hansen said the co-leader of the group reported that they had selected Idaho as the location for this year's trip.

'Clean' Theater Closes

DETROIT (UPI)—A downtown "clean movie" theater operated by two Roman Catholic priests to show family movies has been closed for lack of patronage.

The priests said Thursday the two-month experiment at the Music Hall Theater had been called off because they were unable to take in the needed $4,200 a week to keep the theater open.

The Rev. Richard J. Ward and the Rev. John E. Nader were charging $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children and elderly persons to try to answer parishioner complaints there were no inexpensive downtown movies for family viewing.

The program began with a double bill of W.C. Fields comedies, progressed through "Romeo and Juliet" and "Thoroughly Modern Millie" and closed with "Four Clowns." "Gone With the Wind" was to have opened today.

Water Panel Asks Work On Ecology

SALMON, Idaho (UPI)—The Idaho Water Resource Board adopted an environmental policy statement Thursday which said members recognized the need for a quality environment to be maintained for the benefit and enjoyment of the citizens of Idaho.

The board met in Salmon and some members planned a jet boat trip Friday down the main Salmon to learn of recreational needs first hand. They were to meet with local sportsman, businessmen and guides during the field inspection.

The statement noted the board was responsible for water resource planning in the state, and set the late 1970s for the completion of a state water plan that will be given to the Legislative and executive branches of government, as well as to the general public.

The statement said the plan would make "sound, objective decisions concerning the future of Idaho's water and related land resources."

"The board will view objectively all comments by interested agencies and individuals concerned with development of water resources of Idaho and attempt to work towards a solution that will minimize conflicts associated with the use of water resources," the statement said.

The board also invited active participation from environmental agencies and individual groups during the formulation of the water plan.

Solons Vote To Repeal Gulf Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For the second time in less than a month, the Senate voted Friday to repeal the Gulf of Tonkin resolution, used by the Johnson administration as the legal basis for expanding the Vietnam War.

Nearly six years after Congress enthusiastically approved it in 1964, the Senate adopted a concurrent resolution killing the resolution. The vote was 57 to 5.

On June 24, the Senate added a repeal as an amendment to the controversial Foreign Military Sales Act which is now in conference between Senate and House negotiators. The vote at that time was 61 to 10.

BEING A "BIRDBRAIN" IS FUN, especially when the bird happens to be your own friend. Bonnie Boyer, 11, of Bloomington, Minn., found "Chirp," the robin about 2 1/2 weeks ago, a refugee from the nest. Bonnie fed the bird worms and he gained strength enough to fly. Evidently "Chirp" likes it on Bonnie's head, because that is his official perch these days. Who says there's no room at the top? Rabbi William Sandberg performed the ceremony in a multi-colored flower setting. The aisle was decorated with flowers, enhanced by a rope of garlands between each one. Greenery and multi-colored flowers were also on the gazebo.

Given in marriage, by Edward Starin, Seattle, Wash., a family friend, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white organza, embroidered with peau d'ange lace, fashioned in an empire-styling with short sleeves, a high collar and a detachable train made of silk and satin embroidered with the same lace. The matching lace veil was a floor-length mantilla.

She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses, stephanotis and baby's-breath. Maid-of-honor was Deborah Rangen, the bridegroom's sister, Sharon Teitel, Fresno, Calif., was bridesmaid, and Jan Rangen, the bridegroom's sister, was junior bridesmaid. Deborah Greenberg, Richland, Wash., was flower girl.

Christopher Rangen, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were William Russell, Los Angeles, and Jess Greenberg, Richland, Wash.

DEAR ABBY: I am the young mother of a beautiful baby girl. She is so sweet and perfect, except for one thing. Her feet are shaped like little fish. The doctor says she will be able to walk just fine, but it is very embarrassing because all the neighbor women think I am some kind of "weirdo" to have given birth to a baby with "fish feet."

One night my sister was looking at my baby's feet, and she went into some kind of a trance. She went outside and prayed to the moon for many hours. She is no weirdo either, but she said the baby's fish-shaped feet had some strange "power."

Can this be so? God help me if I have borne some kind of witch. I never was one to believe in witchcraft or things like that, but now I'm not so sure. Why else such feet on my baby? And feet that could put my sister in a trance?

Maybe all it means is that my child will grow up to be a fine swimmer! Please put my mind at ease. Being a mother yourself, you know how well.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Ask your baby's doctor for an explanation of your baby's "fish-shaped" feet. (They could be "webbed"—an abnormality which surgery can fix.) The "trance" your sister went into could be a "spell" unrelated to your baby's feet. Don't worry another moment. Seek the answers from your doctor right away.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor visits us every night. It doesn't matter if we have company or not, she comes over anyway.

Last Saturday night we had company, so she rang the bell and said, "I see you have company." Then she walks right in and sits herself down.

My husband and I like a little privacy, but she doesn't seem to care. She is a widow and we hate to hurt her feelings, but we would like to be alone once in a while. Must we entertain this woman when we have company? Please advise.

TIED

DEAR TIED: Yes, you must entertain this woman when you have company and also when you don't. If she invites herself over and is hard to feel welcome. Your alternative is to ask her to please call to find out if she should come over. But then if you had the courage to do that, you wouldn't have written to me. There are no easy ways to protect one's self against unwanted and unwelcome drop-inners. If you can't TELL 'em, you've got to put up with 'em.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old widow with 12 nice children, from 13 to 33. I met this very nice, kind gentleman a year ago. Roy is a widower from another state. He has two sons, 11 and 12. Every weekend Roy comes to see his. The problem is he stays in his boys' My home is barely big enough for me and my children, and he still at home. I have a half bed where I sleep, so I have been asking Roy's sons to stay with my parents who live near me.

They are old and ailing and my sister and her husband and their five small children live with them, so it is very crowded there, too. Besides, Roy's boys are sassy and mean and they destroy everything they get their hands on. Even Roy can't make them mind.

My whole family is on me about Roy's sons staying with the folks every weekend.

I once hinted to Roy to please leave his boys with some of his people (he has more relatives than I have), but he paid no attention to the hint, and every week-end he comes and drops the boys off at my parents' place. Abby, I hate to hurt Roy's feelings as he is really nice to me, and a widow with nine at home doesn't have many chances. What should I do?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO: Be glad you've gotten from Roy to company every week-end. But the truth is your family is imposing Roy's hard-to-handle boys on them. Call him and TELL him you cannot accommodate his sons every week-end, and if he wants to see you, he will have to make other arrangements for them.

DEMONSTRATING ACTING TECHNIQUES with music. Helen Laird, guest lecturer at the College of Southern Idaho, reads the lines to "A Green-Dog." Miss Laird is an associate professor of voice and soprano-in-residence at the College Conservatory of Music, University of Cincinnati.

Helen Laird Is CSI Lecturer

By showing extreme agony on face, flinging left arm straight out behind, placing right hand on head and tilting head backward and to the left, anyone can demonstrate opera gesture 22. Gesture 22, along with a book of opera gestures, is leaving the stage," said Helen Laird, guest lecturer at the College of Southern Idaho. Miss Laird is an associate professor of voice and soprano-in-residence at the College Conservatory of Music, University of Cincinnati.

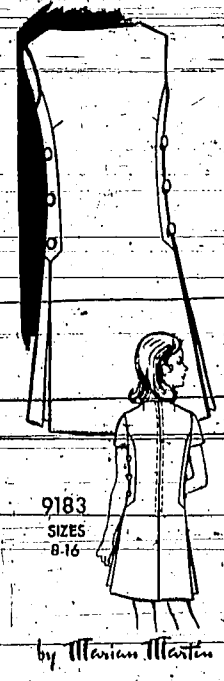

"No longer will opera singers demonstrate movements without meaning. As in drama, expressing emotion is as important to the opera singer as it is to the actor," said Miss Laird. Miss Laird works extensively in the music field and is enthusiastic about her teaching. She believes that anyone who enjoys music should develop her skill and not abandon music if she does not reach the highest goal. She believes there is an over-emphasis in preparing singers for performing. It is as important to learn to enjoy music as to express it. Singers should get a broad scope of music before choosing a speciality," she noted. While working in Europe as a permanent resident in opera, Miss Laird sang over 60 parts in 800 performances. Constantly rehearsing to do the best job possible, Miss Laird was surprised when a friend remarked to her mother: "It's fine if Helen does and do for a living." Miss Laird enjoys popular music as well as opera music and Pamela Myers, one of her students, is appearing in the Broadway Musical, "Company." During the workshop, held July 8, 10, 16, 22 and 23, Miss Laird hopes her students will develop further understanding of music and performing.

Should Note Mannerisms

Every country has unwritten rules of etiquette that make life interesting for the traveler, and a piece as exotic and intriguing as India is certainly no exception.

No matter what mother taught you, eating with your fingers is not only acceptable, it's perfectly proper—at least in India. While the visitor will find cutlery available in many restaurants since the really Westernized Indians do prefer fork and knife, indulge in the traditional and you'll enjoy your visit much more. Just remember, fingers are favored over forks.

In the northern sections of the country, only the tips of the fingers touch the food while in the south, more of the hand including the palm may be used. The visitor can ignore regional preferences, however, as long as he picks the right hand only.

Nothing is quite so valuable to the tourist in India as a camera to record all the once-in-a-lifetime sights. Very often the colorfully dressed people are as interesting to the camera-buff as the temples, lakes and mountains. Indians, of course, value their privacy like anyone else, so be sure to ask permission before you click your camera.

If you are lucky enough to be invited into an Indian home, as travelers occasionally are, never question the absence of female members of the household. In many traditional homes, it's simply not proper for a lady to chit chat with casual company.

When one Indian man meets another, each may lift his hands up to the chin with palms folded in a traditional greeting. Westerners are not expected to follow suit for the handshake is universally understood.

It's always agreeable to learn a few words of the country's language, and as expected, "shukriya" (please) and "shukreyaa" (thank you) will take the visitor a long way. If you have trouble crossing the language barrier, a thank you in your own tongue will be perfectly "atcha". That's A-O-K in Hindi.

When storing winter boots brush loose dirt and sand from the inside first. Then wash off the outside with a sudsy sponge, rinse, and dry thoroughly. Clip pairs together with a spring clothespin, and store.

Exchange Nuptial Vows

Diana Rae Higginbotham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Higginbotham, Twin Falls, became the bride of Dan Ray Pope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene L. Pope, Twin Falls, in a candlelight service June 19 at the First United Methodist Church, Twin Falls.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Keith R. Maxwell before an altar flanked with beauty baskets of yellow gladiol accented with greenery and large yellow bows. Gold candelabra held white tapers and yellow bows marked the pew in the center aisle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an A-line gown of rayon organza enhanced with pearls and scalloped Chantilly lace. The gown featured an oval neckline, long sleeves of lace and a redingote with a scalloped front. The lace cage effect swept into a waltz chapel train.

A bandeau of lace flowers and satin leaves held her elbow-length tiered veil of English silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses with white satin ribbon streamers. She carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her grandmother Higginbotham.

Pat Heughins, Twin Falls, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Jamey Gathings, Twin Falls, and Debbie Fenich, Boise, cousin of the bride. Lori Quinn was flower girl, and Roger Higginbotham, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

length flounce of organza. It was centered with a three-tiered square cake decorated with white bells, pale yellow flowers and gold leaves, and topped with three bells enhanced with net and flowers in a lilies-of-the-valley archway. Bell-shaped cakes bearing the names of the bridal couple flanked the large cake. Mrs. Reuben Lierman made the cakes.

The table holding the coffee and punch service and the quartet tables at which the guests were seated all carried out the bell and lilies-of-the-valley motif matching the top of the cake. Pat Newberry decorated the tables.

Mrs. Jack Windsor, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Jack Pope served the cake. Mrs. Bill Higginbotham, aunt of the bride, served coffee and Mrs. Frank E. Lovring Jr. poured punch.

Kay Von Weller was in charge of the guest book and Susan Olson, Julia Heughins, Jolene Heughins and Darin Marker received the gifts.

Special out-of-town guests included Mrs. Charles Von Weller, Kay Darby and Don Von Weller, all Silverton, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Fenich and daughter, Boise; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Higginbotham and family, Wendell, and Mrs. Agnes Higginbotham, Wendell.

Mrs. Gary Daniel, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Tom Gormley, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the Harkins residence. The two-tiered wedding cake was decorated with blue roses and centered with white wedding bells.

Choosing the right lipstick should be given careful thought, according to famed beauty authority Max Factor. When making your selection, the first thing you should concern yourself with is choosing a creamy-textured formula which will glide on easily.

This will keep the lips looking and feeling smoothly supple and lovely. Next, make sure to pick the color which will most flatter your skin. Bad choices are orange lipstick if your skin is sallow, red if you're pale, beige or similar tones if you're coloring is mousey, and whitish or pale shades with a spotty complexion.

Other than that, let your own taste be your guide within the dictates of the latest fashion colors. Max Factor's Ultra-lucent Whipped Creme Lipstick offers a selection of 12 exquisite fashion shades that are rich in pampering protectives and rich concentrates.

The light, creamy texture treats the lips to precious moisturizers all day long, giving them a shiny softness that won't rub off.

DAV Auxiliary District
Officers Are Installed

New officers were installed at the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary District No. 3 meeting held in conjunction with the regular DAV Auxiliary meeting recently, at the DAV Hall.

The installation of new officers by Mrs. Knight include commander, Mrs. Ethel Hilling, Burley; senior vice commander, Mrs. Mae Gardiski, Twin Falls; junior vice commander, Mrs. Elita Reed, Burley; chaplain, Mrs. Arthur Patterson, Twin Falls; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Stone, Twin Falls; adjutant, Mrs. Frank Horejs, Twin Falls; and conductress, Mrs. Carl Sutterfield, Twin Falls. The remaining officers will be appointed from Burley by the new commander.

Mrs. Addie Radakovich conducted the regular business meeting. The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Arthur Patterson and Mrs. Ruthland Christensen led the flag salute. Flag Day tea was discussed, followed by a talk on the Idaho Youth Ranch, Rupert, by Mrs. Ruth Slavers, community chairman.

Mrs. Frank Horejs was installed during the Flag Day tea as chaplain for 1971 and Mrs. Patterson was elected department chaplain for 1970-71 during the recent department. A discussion concerning the Department Convention at Coeur d'Alene was held, after which an announcement was made that the auxiliary birthday party will be at 11 a. m. July 28 at the country home of Mrs. T. M. Knight. Mrs. Mae Gardiski will bake the cake and a gift exchange will be held. The annual picnic will be held in August.

Mrs. Horejs presented a gift from the auxiliary to Mrs. Mary Anderson and Mrs. Elizabeth Havens in appreciation for auxiliary help.

The auxiliary joined the chapter to observe the presentation of plaques by Commander Arthur Patterson to T. M. Knight, World War I veteran and charter member, and to Frank Horejs, World War I veteran and adjutant treasurer for 18 years.

Mrs. Knight gave Mrs. E. J. Rayborn a plaque to present to Mr. Rayborn, a World War I veteran and charter member, who has been ill.

After the meeting the chapters joined the units for refreshments. To celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Havens, Mrs. Stone baked a birthday cake and Mrs. Radakovich furnished ice cream.

Water Safety Rules Listed

Don't Scrub Oily Complexion

One of the temptations for the woman who has problems with her complexion is to wash and wash — and wash again. It's an unsatisfactory thing to do because oil-producing glands that are naturally over-active are only encouraged to pour out more and more oil after a warm water scrubbing.

Careful cleansing is essential but it's far wiser to cleanse with a dissolving-type, lemon cleansing milk that affords quick, efficient results in removing greasy accumulations and stale make-up from the skin. Whenever possible, use Lemon Jelvyn Cleansing Milk to cleanse more often than just night and morning. Follow up with a brief patting of Lemon Jelvyn Skin Freshener.

Sprinkle the freshener on a cotton pad and flip it over your complexion to help refine the pores, improve skin texture and discourage the formation of excess-oil on the skin surface. Even a particularly oily complexion needs the protection of a moist tropical fluid smoothed over the skin before make-up is applied. This 'Isotonic fluid, Oil of Olay, tends to correct the unfavorable functioning of the skin because it assists in balancing the oil and moisture content of the surface cells. It helps your make-up stay on longer and is ideal for use as a night-time moisturizer. Even an oily skin is apt to be troubled with character lines.

Sunshine, by the way, is one of the allies of a greasy skin.

Life preservers aren't always found aboard ships. During this summer's swimming fun, a child's best life preserver can be his parents, said Dr. Albert H. Domm, medical director for the western home office of the Prudential Insurance Co. and leading child safety spokesman.

Parents can safeguard their children against serious swimming accidents by teaching them water safety rules.

To prevent summer fun from being cut short, Dr. Domm suggests parents check to see that they and their children remember these water safety rules:

1. Beginners should swim near the shallow end of the pool.
2. Swimmers should have adequate supervision in the water.
3. Children should be taught to respect water, not fear it; fear leads to panic, respect dictates caution.
4. Don't swim around or underneath the diving board.
5. Look before diving; be alert for shallow water and obstacles.
6. Avoid horse-play.
7. Walk, don't run, around the pool.

For the July 4 week workers chose an independence theme including flag making in arts and craft classes and history of the country covered in afternoon programs. For the past week youngsters have held Hula Hoop and Frisbee events and contests. Next week will be Hawaiian time in Twin Falls with south sea programs, special Hawaiian picnics and a study of the people and customs of that state.

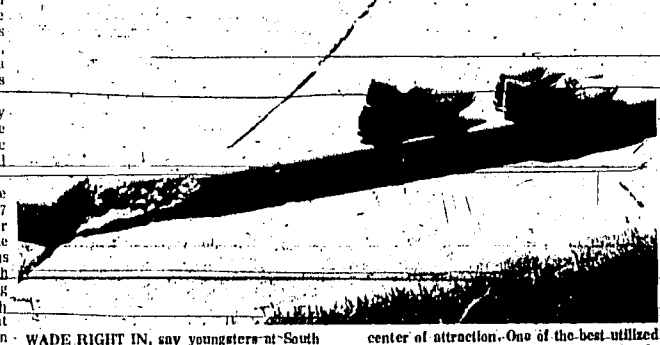

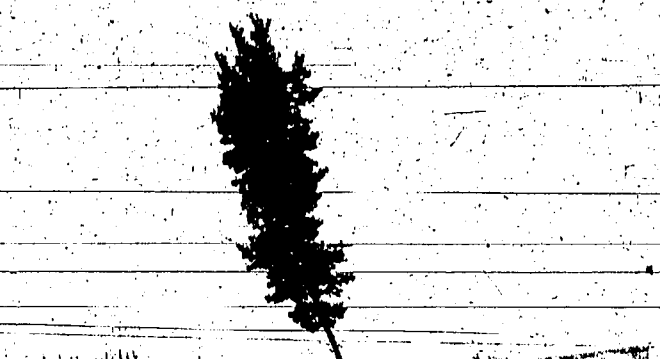

For the week beginning July 20, "fitness is fun" will be the theme with emphasis athletic activities and exercises as well as fun through sports.

Magic Valley Case Dismissed On Lack Of Witnesses

Failure to produce a material witness in the state's case against Robert Francis, 33, twin Falls, resulted in the charges being dismissed and in what Robert Galley, county prosecutor, called a "slap in the face to our system of law enforcement."

Francis was arrested last January on charges brought by his wife — three counts of aggravated assault and one count of assault with a deadly weapon. Mrs. Sharon Francis alleged in the complaints that her husband had beaten both her and her son, Douglas Harshbarger, 12, and had threatened her with a gun.

Mrs. Francis refused to testify Wednesday when she was called to the stand, and authorities have been unable to locate the Harshbarger child. They were the only material witnesses in the case. Mr. Galley said he was "disappointed at the failure of the complaining witness (Mrs. Francis) to accept her civic duty and testify." There also was the severity of the beatings to take into consideration, he said.

"I am disgusted at the manner in which she behaved and withheld, or caused to be withheld, her son from testifying," he said. Mr. Galley charged that the child had been spirited out of the county and was being hidden away by friends or relatives of Mrs. Francis.

Mrs. Francis was found in contempt of court for her failure to testify and was sentenced to two days in the county jail by Judge James Cunningham. She was released Friday just prior to re-arresting of court.

Mr. Galley entered a motion that Mrs. Francis be placed back on the stand and a new contempt of court charge be placed against her if she still refused to testify. Judge Cunningham denied the motion. "I think I've gone about as far as I care to with Mrs. Francis," he said.

Mr. Galley then entered a motion that the case be dismissed on grounds of failure to show proof. "Under the circumstances there is no alternative," he said.

Francis was remanded back to the custody of the sheriff. He is being detained on other charges.

Demolition of the 100 Block of Main Avenue West and North from Shoshone Street to Socon Street West and North, will begin the first week in August, according to John Roper, chairman of the Downtown Coordinating Committee.

In a statement to be delivered to downtown merchants on Monday, Mr. Roper and the committee point out that the demolition portion of the first two blocks in the downtown redevelopment project has been completed on schedule, despite inclement weather, including heavy rains.

"Perhaps on a brighter note," Mr. Roper said, "the contractor reports that the week of July 13 will see reconstruction started in the First Security Bank block. Reconstruction will begin with installation of the underground storm drains, electrical conduit and irrigation pipe, with sidewalks, curbs and gutters to follow."

Merchants may want to reconstruct their entrances to match the mall, Mr. Roper added.

"To ease the shortage of parking during the reconstruction, the city is hurriedly preparing new parking lots on areas cleared by Urban Renewal. The lots, complete with a temporary surface and parking meters, should be ready for use in about a week. In a further effort to alleviate parking congestion, Roy Hudson, chairman of the Urban Renewal Agency, hopes all the downtown merchants will continue to encourage and participate in employee car pools. He also suggests that employees and management be urged to park in areas on the periphery of the downtown area," the statement said.

Shoppers who are cooperating by using rear entrances to business firms have earned the appreciation of the City Manager's office, the contractor and the retail merchants association. Merchants are urged to "continue encouraging use of rear entrances by looking their front doors and by using signs to direct shoppers."

A number of special events and drawings are scheduled throughout the months of construction ahead, including the annual "Crazy Daze" event, Mr. Roper said.

HAILEY — Smokey the Bear took his familiar post on Highway 93 at the southern entrance to Hailey recently to warn travelers of the area fire danger.

Charges Filed In Jerome

JEROME — Charges of illegal possession have been filed against a 16-year-old Jerome mother, Pros. Atty. S.A. Kohlman said Saturday. He said legal action against three other youths are pending further investigation by Jerome police, who found 45 packets of high-quality marijuana in the apartment of the young mother last month. The marijuana was valued at $675.

Criminal complaints were filed earlier against Bill Windsor and Dennis Jacobs, both Twin Falls, and Annette Hess Perma, Jerome, alleging the three encouraged children to come under the provision of the Youth Rehabilitation Act. The three pleaded innocent to the charges before Probate Judge Russell C. Shand and are free on $150 bond each. Mr. Kohlman said the original complaint also included charges of illegal consumption of beer, but the attorney said Saturday the charges have been amended to omit mention of beer.

They are now charged with supplying cigarettes to minors and violation of city curfew hours.

Two other youths, both minors, also are charged with violation of city curfew hours and consumption of cigarettes. Charges of illegal consumption of beer have been dropped against these two also, Mr. Kohlman said.

An application for $500,000 for the construction of improved joint City and County law enforcement facilities has been sent to the State of Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission, said City Manager Jean Miller.

This sum will include the purchase of equipment, the training of personnel, and the construction of offices, courtrooms, storage rooms, communication rooms, class rooms, and regional detention facilities.

Approximately 145,000 people in the Fifth Judicial District are served by the present facilities, but the facilities are able to handle only 216 people.

Case Dismissed On Lack Of Witnesses

Failure to produce a material witness in the state's case against Robert Francis, 33, Twin Falls, resulted in the charges being dismissed and in what Robert Galley, county prosecutor, called a "slap in the face to our system of law enforcement."

Francis was arrested last January on charges brought by his wife — three counts of aggravated assault and one count of assault with a deadly weapon. Mrs. Sharon Francis alleged in the complaints that her husband had beaten both her and her son, Douglas Harshbarger, 12, and had threatened her with a gun.

Mrs. Francis refused to testify Wednesday when she was called to the stand, and authorities have been unable to locate the Harshbarger child. They were the only material witnesses in the case. Mr. Galley said he was "disappointed at the failure of the complaining witness (Mrs. Francis) to accept her civic duty and testify. There also was the severity of the beatings to take into consideration, he said.

"I am disgusted at the manner in which she behaved and withheld, or caused to be withheld, her son from testifying," he said. Mr. Galley charged that the child had been spirited out of the county and was being hidden away by friends or relatives of Mrs. Francis.

Mrs. Francis was found in contempt of court for her failure to testify and was sentenced to two days in the county jail by Judge James Cunningham. She was released Friday just prior to reconvening of court.

Mr. Galley entered a motion that Mrs. Francis be placed back on the stand and a new contempt of court charge be placed against her if she still refused to testify. Judge Cunningham denied the motion. "I think I've gone about as far as I care to with Mrs. Francis," he said.

Mr. Galley then entered a motion that the case be dismissed on grounds of failure to show proof. "Under the circumstances there is no alternative," he said.

Francis was remanded back to the custody of the sheriff. He is being detained on other charges.

Murtaugh Explained To Rupert C. Of C.

RUPERT — Operation of the Civil Air Patrol was explained to members of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday by Col. Don Chesman, Idaho wing staff training officer.

Col. Chesman, who was introduced by George Falkner, program chairman, served during World War II and has managed several airports since that time.

He said a current project of the group is to inform the public of this available service, which is a volunteer group; although they receive a federal cooperation and are subsidized for authorized missions.

Benefit Opens Theatre Season

SUN VALLEY — The annual benefit of the Sun Valley Theatre will open Thursday night at Sun Valley with the presentation of two comedies by Chekov.

The two one-act plays are entitled, "The Wedding," in which the wife's repertory company participates, and "The Marriage Proposal," by three pros, Sue Galligan, II, Paul Kliss and Aldrich Bowley, producer-director of the Buhl-centred theatre. These are farces of old Russia.

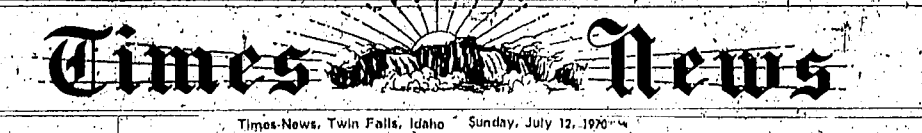

The initial performance, dated for 8:30 p. m. (Thursday) on the lawn of the Opera House, will be given as a benefit for the Sun Valley Hospital. Tickets are on sale at the Sun Valley Lodge, lobby information desk and also may be purchased at the box office.

The troupe will perform at Sun Valley each Thursday and Friday through Aug. 28, in addition to appearances in several other parts of Magic Valley and the Gem State.

The Sun Valley schedule includes the Chekov farces each Thursday at 8:30 p. m. with James Thurber's delightful "Thirteen Clocks" at 4 p. m. and Sheridan's seldom-seen satire, "The Critic," at 8:30 p. m. each Friday.

Other Magic Valley appearances this season include Saturday, July 18, at Fairfield; July 20-22 at Buhl; July 27 at Goodly; Aug. 1 and 22 at Burley and Aug. 8 at Twin Falls. In addition, the repertory theatre will appear Aug. 3-5 at Redfish Lake, as well as in Boise, Wallace, McCall, Payette and Preston. Beside the Bowlers, Mr. Kliss and Sue Galligan, the troupe includes scholarship students from Connecticut, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, California, Oregon, Arizona and Idaho. The group has been granted a staff apprenticeship from the Federation of Rocky Mountain States. This $500 stipend, to be matched by the non-profit organization, has been awarded to David Stifel, Aurora, Colo.

Car Burns But Driver Uninjured

RUPERT — Joe Phillips, 22, Rupert, escaped injury when the 1970 Chevrolet he was driving slid off a county road and caught fire Thursday night.

Deputy Sheriff Wes Woodall said Mr. Phillips was traveling east on 100 South when he crossed a canal bank when he noticed a pickup truck coming toward him in the center of the road. He pulled to the right to avoid a collision and the Phillips slid into a canal bank, but did not go into the water.

Sparks from below the dashboard ignited, caused the car to catch fire. Rupert firemen were called, but were unable to save the car which was demolished.

Theme Noted — "Involvement Now" will be the primary theme of newly elected president of Lions International, Dr. Robert D. McCullough, Tulsa, Okla., during his 1970-71 presidential year.

The largest humanitarian service organization throughout the world, Lions International is best known for its aid to the blind and sight conservation activities.

Demolition of the 100 Block of Main Avenue West and North, from Shoshone Street to Second Street West and North, will begin the first week in August, according to John Roper, chairman of the Downtown Coordinating Committee.

In a statement to be delivered to downtown merchants on Monday, Mr. Roper and the committee point out that the demolition portion of the first two blocks in the downtown redevelopment project has been completed on schedule, despite inclement weather, including heavy rains.

"Perhaps on a brighter note," Mr. Roper said, "the contractor reports that the week of July 13 will see reconstruction started in the First Security Bank block. Reconstruction will begin with installation of the underground storm drains, electrical conduit and irrigation pipe, with sidewalks, curbs and gutters to follow."

Merchants may want to reconstruct their entrances to match the mall, Mr. Roper added.

To ease the shortage of parking during the reconstruction, the city is hurriedly preparing new parking lots on areas cleared by Urban Renewal. The lots, complete with a temporary surface and parking meters, should be ready for use in about a week.

In a further effort to alleviate parking congestion, Roy Hudson, chairman of the Urban Renewal Agency, hopes all the downtown merchants will continue to encourage and participate in employe car pools. He also suggests that employees and management be urged to park in areas on the periphery of the downtown area," the statement said.

Shoppers who are cooperating by using rear entrances to business firms have earned the appreciation of the "City Manager's office," the contractor and the retail merchants association. "Merchants are urged to continue encouraging use of rear entrances by locking their front doors and by using signs to direct shoppers."

A number of social events and drawings are scheduled throughout the months of construction ahead, including the annual "Crazy Daze" event, Mr. Roper said.

Antique Car Show Set Today In T.F.

Members of the Gooding Regional Group of the Horseless Carriage Club of America will be able to satisfy the curiosity of modern day auto enthusiasts and bring back some memories for old timers with a special car show today at Sears parking lot in Twin Falls.

The second annual car show and swap meet will be open throughout the day, beginning as early as 8 a. m. and will feature about 50 antique cars from Idaho and adjoining states.

In addition there will be an old steam engine in operation on the lot and a display of early day automobile engine will be operating.

Prizes will be given away, including merchandise gifts and savings bonds. The swap meet will feature items for trade and sale for the special interest of those engaged in restoring old cars.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to visit the show and inspect the old cars firsthand.

Meet Set

The 14th annual convention of the Idaho Music Teachers Association (IMTA) will be held July 18 at Rexburg with registration at 9:30 a. m. and sessions beginning at 10 a. m. in the Little Theater of Manning Center on the Ricks College campus.

The activities at the convention are expanded to include vocal, instrumental music and musical subjects.

Smokey The Bear Warns Travelers About Fires

HALLEY — Smokey the Bear took his familiar post on Highway 93 at the southern entrance to Halley recently to warn travelers of the area fire danger.

The bear, designed by Ralph Harris in 1942, has taken the same post since then to tell of the level of fire danger in the Sawtooth Forest Area in both the Halley and Ketchum districts, as north as Galena Summit.

The rating is changed as the fire conditions change, and Dick Anderson, ranger, at Halley said the danger will vary from low to moderate for about another two weeks, at which time it will probably become more severe. August is usually the worst month for fire danger in the area, he added.

The general district fire guard and standby fire crew members are responsible for changing the rating, with information from the fire weather station at Ketchum.

Civil Air Patrol Functions Explained To Rupert C. Of C.

RUPERT — Operation of the Civil Air Patrol was explained to members of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday by Col. Don Chesman, Idaho wing staff training officer.

Col. Chesman, who was introduced by George Falkner, program chairman, served during World War II and has managed several airports since that time.

He said a current project of the group is to inform the public of this available service, which is a volunteer group; although they receive a federal cooperation and are subsidized for authorized missions.

Last year members used $43,000 out of their own pockets for search and rescue operations in Idaho, according to the speaker. The group consists of 230 members, 150 of whom are pilots, 250 cadets, 100 pilots-in-training and 100 ground crew members.

The group is a national organization, with regional headquarters in Boise, Idaho, and an auxiliary of the Civil Air Patrol in each of the 48 states.

They are authorized to perform search and rescue missions during the day in the Mini-Columbia. According to Col. Chesman, the group is unable to do of missions where the victim is already dead. On all legal search and rescue missions, he said the victims are presumed alive and lost.

Equipment of the group includes 104 private planes and one corporate plane; 45 four-wheel drive vehicles with 30 of this amount owned by the Air Patrol; 30 to 30 boats; several hundred snow shoes and some snowmobiles. Idaho has four groups or regions and 50 long range radio stations.

Anyone wishing information on this service may contact George Forschler, Hans Forschler, Ed Morgan or George Falkner, all local leaders.

THE FORMER FULLER residence at 225 3rd St. N., Twin Falls, has to make way for progress. It is being moved off the lot to allow additional parking space for First Federal Savings and Loan, as a part of their expansion program. The 50-by-125-foot parking lot will be completed by Aug. 1.

Hansen Asks Easier Travel For Aged

Idaho Rep. Orval Hansen has introduced legislation in the House which would permit people 65 years of age or older to use air transportation at reduced rates on a space-available basis.

Hansen, who in May held three Senior Citizens Seminars in Idaho to determine the needs of the elderly, said that one of their primary concerns is the rising cost of transportation. He explained that his bill would permit the older segment of our population to use the special low standby fares now in effect for young people and students.

"Older people are generally on a fixed income, and one which frequently allows for no expenditures for air travel at standard-fare levels," the Congressman said. "Accordingly, such trips will be foregone unless special provision is made to make them possible."

Hansen added that senior citizens have worked for many years and now have an abundance of leisure time, perhaps for the first time. "Their children and friends are often located in distant places, and reduced travel costs would make it worthwhile to see them occasionally."

The bill has been referred to the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Firestone Charged With Deception

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission charged Friday that Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., the nation's second largest tire manufacturer, had made false or deceptive advertising claims about its tires' prices and safety.

The commission made final a proposed complaint against the company issued Dec. 21 and gave Firestone 30 days to respond before a trial examiner begins public hearings Aug. 17.

Firestone issued a statement denying all the FTC's allegations. "We believe that the advertising allegations are based on FTC conclusions and interpretations only and not on facts," the company said.

The FTC complaint charged that Firestone had falsely advertised that its tires were significantly reduced from regular prices. It also disputed claims that its tires were free of any manufacturing defects and would be safe under all conditions of use.

The commission complained that Firestone had not established in adequate scientific tests, as claimed, that its Super Sports Wide Oval tires could stop any car 25 per cent faster under typical road and weather conditions than any other manufacturer's tires of a particular construction.

Furthermore, the FTC charged that Firestone's use of the name "Safety Champion" created a false impression of unique construction or of performance features making that line of tires safer than others.

"Firestone has consistently complied with FTC guidelines concerning the advertising of tires at store prices," the company said.

"As for the charges having to do with safety issues, they simply show that the commission's lack of knowledge and experience on the subjects of tires and tire safety.

"Firestone has not misrepresented through advertising the quality standards which it meets or exceeds in building tires," it said. "Firestone expects to demonstrate to the commission that its accusations and assumptions are not well founded."

Firestone, of Akron, Ohio, had $2.2 billion in sales and assets of $2.01 billion in 1969, second only to Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

English is the richest language in the world, with some 800,000 words. Despite this fact, The World Almanac notes that the speaking vocabulary of well-educated Americans is only about 5,000 words. Experts doubt if any one person has an active vocabulary of 60,000 words, a mere 7.5 per cent of the entire English language.

Book Review

BY KATHRYN GALLOWAY
FOR WOMEN ONLY!
"Shivering Sands" is a new novel by the modern mistress of romantic suspense, Victoria Holt. Here is another novel that will take you away from the noise of the washer, dryer, dishwasher, garbage disposal, and the kitchen machinery that makes a slave of today's housewife.

You will be on the coast of Kent at a great estate. You will walk through this beautiful country with a young widow, Caroline Verlaime, who has come as a music teacher hoping to find the cause of her sister, Roma's, disappearance.

You could care less whether lunch is ready, if it even crosses your mind as the novel unfolds. Renmont, the oldest son, accidentally (?) shot by his younger brother, seems to be the center of this novel.

You will meet Sir William, rapacious owner of the estate, his overly devoted housekeeper, Mrs. Lincroft and Napier, who shot the brother he tried to emulate. There are also Miss Verlaime's pupils: an heiress, Edith, Sir Williams ward; Alice, daughter of Mrs. Lincroft; and Allegra, whose ancestry is gypsy.

There is enacted in these halls a story of mystery, suspense, despair, murder and romance, as the true identity of the characters is disclosed.

You close your book having spent a lovely, lovely time in another world and thank the author for another delightful novel "Shivering Sands."

'Pink Ladies' Of Burley Plan Charity Show With TV Stars

BURLEY — The Pink Ladies of Casita Memorial Hospital have announced their plans for a charity show July 17 at the Ponderosa Inn with a cast of well-known television stars.

Jimmy Roberts, a popular tenor from Pontiac, Mich. and Madisonville, Ky., and a vocalist on the Lawrence Welk Show, will sing many favorite tunes. Roberts made up his mind one day in 1955 to establish contact with Lawrence Welk in the hope of joining Welk's musical troupe. He went to the Aragon Ballroom in the Pacific Ocean Park, introduced himself to the maestro, auditioned, was hired on the spot, and went to work that night. Since then, Roberts has become one of Welk's featured stars.

Before joining the Chain-pango Music-Makers, Roberts had considerable professional experience in such productions as "Desert Song", "Finian's Rainbow", "Ho-Ho" and

JIMMY ROBERTS

"Song of Norway", Arthur Duncan, the tap dancer on the Lawrence Welk Show will also entertain for the Pink Ladies in Burley.

Mr. Duncan's greatest talent was brought to the attention of Mr. Welk as a result of being spotted by Sam Lutz, personnel manager for Welk, when Duncan was playing an engagement in the Basin Street style and learning new ones. In 1959, Duncan decided to take six months to explore show business as a full-time career. A 10-day engagement in Australia with the Jimmy Rodgers troupe resulted in a five-year tour of Europe, where he performed on TV and in clubs in London, Paris, Carlo, Beirut and resorts in the Swiss Alps.

Other television stars to appear are Johnny Whittaker, who plays the part of Jody on "Family Affair" and Randy Whittle, who had the part of Jerry "Van Dyke's" son on "My Mother the Car".

The two red-headed, freckled faced youngsters are cousins. Johnny Whittaker, 11, is already a veteran actor with more than eight years of varied professional experience to his credit. In private life he leads a normal life as can be expected for a young star. He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Whittaker, and his seven brothers and sisters in the San Fernando Valley.

When he is working, Johnnie has a private tutor; otherwise, he attends a public school near his home. Like most other 11 year old boys, he enjoys playing baseball, and whenever possible, participates in the Boy Scout program.

Randy Whipple, 11, started at the age of four doing commercials. He has gained experience in TV commercials in the past seven years, and has appeared for three years as the "little boy next door" on ABC's Ozzie and Harriet Show. Recently he has made guest appearances on the Danny Kaye, Red Skelton, Giff from Uncle, Family Affair and To Rome with Love shows.

In addition to acting, Randy Whipple enjoys playing kickball, bike riding and swimming. He is an active Boy Scout and recently received his Second Class badge. He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Whipple and has four brothers and one sister.

The Grand Land Singers, a chorus and band group who joined these same actors at a recent White House production, will also be on the program.

Proceeds will be used by the Pink Ladies for their charitable projects, including new equipment for the new additions planned for the Casita Memorial Hospital.

Tickets are available from all Pink Ladies at $12.50 each which includes a steak dinner and the evening of entertainment. Tickets are also available at Thriftway-Drug Store, Burley.

Sanders, Nicklaus Face British Playoff

Sanders Blows 2-Foot Putt On 18th; Trevino Collapses Into Third

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—Flamboyant Doug Sanders blew a chance to win the British Open golf championship in regulation play Saturday by missing a two-foot putt on the last hole which left him tied at 283 with former winner Jack Nicklaus, forcing a Sunday playoff between the two Americans.

an 18-hole playoff to decide the 1970 titleholder. Nicklaus and Sanders both posted final round one-over-par 73s over the windy 6,951 yard, par-72 Old Course at St. Andrews to overtake Leo Trevino of El Paso, Tex., leader after the second and third rounds who soared to a 77 in the final round. Trevino wound up with a 285, tied for the runnerup spot with Harold Henning of South Africa, who had a 73.

Defending champion Tony Jacklin of England, this year's U.S. Open champ, finished with a 76, his worst round of the tournament, and wound up at 285. Next best finish by an American was the 290 by Arnold Palmer, who finished with a final round of 74. Billy Casper of Bonita, Calif., had a final round 75 and wound up at 293, same as Argentine Roberto DeVicenzo, 1967 British Open winner.

Wadkins Rallies For Western Amateur Win

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Lanny Wadkins, a junior at Wake Forest, spotted Charlie Borner the first two holes at Wichita Country Club Saturday and then stormed back for a 4 and 2 victory and the 68th Western Amateur Golf championship. Wadkins, runnerup in the recent NCAA tournament, followed the same pattern against 24-year-old Borner, a physical education teacher in a North Platte, Neb., elementary school, as he did in three previous matches. He three-putted the first green and lost to Borner's one-putt par. Borner then birdied No. 2 and went two-up. "I was really worried," admitted Wadkins, a speech major at Wake Forest. "I just couldn't seem to get going at the start of any of my matches." Wadkins started back on the third hole. He made an 18-foot birdie putt to erase his deficit in half. On the 325-yard No. 5 he put his approach shot three feet from the cup and made his birdie to square the match. Borner was three yards short of the green with his third shot on the par-5 ninth hole. Wadkins reached it in regulation and two-putted for a par to go ahead to stay. "Borner was short getting on No. 2 for a bogey and go two down. The key shot came on No. 12. Borner was on in two while Wadkins was over the green. Wadkins pitched in within 10 feet and made the putt to have the hole. "That was a big hole for him and it kept him in the match," said Borner afterwards. "I was ready to cut his lead to one and it made a big difference. "I think that was the big shot," agreed Wadkins. "It kept me in great shape and it was the first big putt I had all day and it felt great." Borner put his second shot into a creek on No. 14 and conceded to go three down. He took another penalty on No. 16 when his third shot stopped six inches from a large tree and that ended the match. Wadkins was one under par for the day and Borner was four over. Wadkins had a tougher time in Saturday morning's semifinal match against medalist Tom Kite, University of Texas star, winning 1-up on the 20th hole. Borner defeated NCAA champion John Mahaffey, University of Houston, 2-up.

Wadkins left the gate open when he bogied the 16th. He tried desperately but to no avail to recoup by 17 and 18. At the 17th, the road hole, a magnificent second shot to the light green guarded at the back by a road of gravel and shingle left him an eight footer, but his putt lipped the cup. He then almost drove the 18th but charged past with a putt from the fairway in front of the green and missed a birdie putt coming back. Trevino had a nightmare front nine and saw his two stroke lead dwindle to a three stroke deficit at the turn. He lost four strokes on the outward run and Nicklaus picked up one with three birdies against a couple of bogies. Sanders cut a stroke off par twice on the way out but lost the advantage each time to turn one behind Nicklaus. Henning started the final round four strokes behind the leader and shot a one over 73 with halves of 37-36. A birdie in the 16th gave him a three-under total and a tie with Trevino. Attendance figures for the week were a record 75,035, which easily beat the previous week of 51,000 at Carnoustie.

Truck Driver Risch Claims Public Links

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bob Risch, a truck driver and golf course starter from Gardena, Calif., coasted to the National Public Links golf championship Saturday with a final round 70, four over par, and a 72-hole total of 293, five over par. He is the 15th Californian to win the crown in the 45 year history of the tourney. It was Risch's fifth tournament win of the year and he almost had it wrapped up after three rounds since he held a five stroke lead over his closest challenger, Mike Zimmerman, of Kettering, Ohio at that point. Paired with Zimmerman for the final round, Risch tried "to play the golf course" and held that strategy until the last three holes until Zimmerman pulled within three strokes. "He made a super putt on 16 to cut my lead to three," Risch said, "and then I started thinking about playing him. But he bogeyed the next one to take a little of the pressure off." Risch, 22, took some of the pressure off Zimmerman early in the final round when he got a triple bogey six on the par three second hole, hitting into the sand around the green three times and finally missing a two foot putt. But Zimmerman was erratic off the tee and bogeyed three holes himself as both reached the turn in 39, three over par.

McDowell Sets Down Sox For Indians 3-1

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Buddy Bradford's two-run homer and a solo shot by Grag Nettles helped Sam McDowell to his 13th victory of the season Saturday as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3-1. McDowell struck out eight batters to give him 183 for the season and the major league lead in strikeouts. Bradford gave McDowell all the runs he needed in the second inning when the 25-year-old center fielder drilled his fourth homer of the year into the left field stands following a walk to Chuck Clinton. Orioles 6, Tigers 5

DETROIT (UPI)—Terry Crowley, subbing for the injured Frank Robinson, snapped a 4-1 tie with a two-run homer in the eighth inning Saturday and lifted the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-5 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Crowley's homer, his second of the season, was the third two-run shot of the game for the Orioles and helped Mike Cuellar to his 11th victory of the season. Cuellar, who belted one of the Orioles' homers, was relieved in the eighth when the Tigers scored once, but reliever Pete Richert came on to strike out pinch-hitter Ike Brown with the tying run on third to preserve the victory. The loss went to Joe Nickro, although it was Darryl Patterson who gave up the homer to Crowley. Nickro was relieved when he walked Brooks Robinson to open the ninth and Crowley was the first man to face Patterson. Baltimore AB: ... Detroit AB: ...

Colorado Springs, Colo. Political Unrest Halts Hockey Plan

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—Political strife in Czechoslovakia has been blamed for the cancellation of the proposed first annual World Cup Ice Hockey Tournament at the Broadmoor World Arena Dec. 26-31. The decision to call off the meet was announced Friday by the president of the resort hotel, W. Thayer Tytt, after he was notified of the withdrawal of the Czechoslovakian golf team from next month's World Senior Golf Championships. Tytt and the Czechoslovakian Golf Federation called him that the seniors team would not be able to play in the tournament because they could not obtain necessary visas to play in the U.S. The team has been touring Europe this summer. The cancelled hockey meet would have pitted North America's two best teams, the U.S. and Canada, against the European champion and runner-up, Russia and Czechoslovakia. The World Senior Golf is to be played at the Broadmoor golf course Aug. 22-28.

A's 11, Brewers 1

All-Star Game Scheduled Tuesday Night

American Loop Hopes To Snap Seven Year National Loop Mastery

CINCINNATI (UPI)—The beleaguered American League, winner of only one of the 13 All-Star games played in the '60s, will be bidding to snap a National League streak of seven straight victories Tuesday night in the 41st classic at Cincinnati's new Riverfront Stadium.

This game, featuring starting lineups picked by over two million fans in computerized balloting, will give the national television audience a good chance to see Cincinnati's new Astro turf field with the surface even in the infield. The Reds have been playing in the stadium only two weeks and workmen are still putting the finishing touches on it.

The fans picked their old favorites, ignoring the current averages and only two of the National League's top ten hitters and three in the American League were named to the starting lineup.

The two managers—Bill Rodgers of the New York Mets and Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles—will be getting their first chance to manage in an

All-Star game and they named the pitchers and the rest of the teams. All-Star games are nothing new to Hodges, who batted .333 in six of them as a player but Weaver never even played in the majors, much less an All-Star game. He was a coach last year.

Weaver is expected to start his ace—right-hander Jim Palmer—against the National League starting lineup of seven right-handers and switch-hitter Don Kessinger. "I'll be Palmer's first All-Star appearance and he'll have three days rest since he last worked on Friday night."

Porsche Wins 6-Hour Manufacturer's Crown

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI)—Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez and his rookie co-driver, Leo Kinnunen of Finland, won the six-hour endurance race for the world manufacturer's championship in a Porsche Saturday.

Another Porsche finished fourth drive by Vic Elford of England and Denis Hulme of New Zealand. In fifth was the second team Ferrari driven by Jackie Ickx of Belgium and Peter Shetty of Switzerland.

Porsches finished 1-2 in the race with Jo Siffert of Switzerland and Brian Redman of England in the second German car. Porsches now have won eight of the nine races held in the 10-race championship series.

The winning car covered 708.4 miles in the six-hour race at an average speed of 117.81 miles an hour.

"It was an easy drive," Rodriguez said. "The first two Porsches just alternated in the lead. One of us would take over every time the other stopped for gas or to change drivers."

In third, well behind the two Porsches, was the Ferrari of Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., and Ignazio Giunti of Italy.

His teammate, who speaks no English, flashed the victory sign and grinned broadly. An interpreter said that Kinnunen gave Rodriguez all the credit for the victory.

Blue Lakes Tops Hillcrest 47-21 In First Match

Blue Lakes Country Club took the first part of its home-and-home match with Hillcrest of Boise Saturday with a 47-21 decision. A rematch is set Sept. 12 at Hillcrest, with times and pairings to be arranged through the pro shop.

It was the fourth win of the season for the Mexican-Finnish combination in the German car. One of the other Porsche cars have won every race except the Sebring 12-hour this year.

Low gross winners in the match were John Hewitt of Hillcrest with a 73; and John Thompson of Hillcrest with a 70. Al Westergren of Blue Lakes was the net winner with a 63 total, with Blue Lakes' Bob Hatting taking second with a 66. Jack Claborn, Gordon Edgar, and Dick Serpa had 67s for a 3-way tie for third.

Earlier, Hulme won pole position for Sunday's 200-mile Canadian American championship.

Pistol Pete Arrested On Drunk Charge

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Former Louisiana State University All-American basketball player "Pistol Pete" Maravich was arrested Saturday and charged with public drunkenness and disorderly conduct by using profane language, police said.

Hulme, in a McLaren, was just a shade faster than his teammate, Dan Gurney of Santa Ana, Calif., whose top speed was 131.00.

Maravich, 21, told officers he was in Knoxville to attend the University of Tennessee sports clinic.

Police said he was released Saturday afternoon after posting $80 bond. A city court hearing was set for 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Maravich was a three-year All-American at LSU and signed a reported $2 million contract with the Atlanta Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

Officers said they arrested Maravich, son of LSU basketball coach Press Maravich, at Dale Avenue and Fort Sanders Street. They gave no other details of the arrest.

The N.L. might not need any other pitchers but Hodges picked five more—Jim Merritt of Cincinnati, Claude Osteen of Los Angeles, Gaylor Perry of Minnesota (the brother of Minnesota's Jim Perry), and two relievers—Joe Hoerner of St. Louis and Hoyt Wilhelm of Atlanta.

The starters will be the players picked by the fans except for American League second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, who is injured. Weaver took his own second baseman, Dave Johnson to replace him.

The McLaren team has dominated Can-Am racing during the past two years and is after its 17th consecutive series victory.

Gurney won the first two Can-Am races in Canada, and, according to team strategy, it's Hulme's turn to win this time.

That was supposed to be the strategy of St. Jovite two weeks ago but Hulme's car was not able to finish and Gurney went on to take the race.

JIM BLANDFORD JEFF THOMSEN

Both seniors to be at Twin Falls High School, won berths in the national junior pro-proxy tournament Friday at Boise. Blandford won the event with 147 over the Crane Creek Country Club course while Thomsen was third at 154. Thomsen finished sixth in the national meet last year.

Blandford And Thomsen Win National Berths

BOISE—Jim Blandford and Jeff Thomsen, the holdovers members of the Twin Falls High School state championship golf team, won berths in the national pro-proxy Friday by finishing in the top four in the state.

Playing the rugged Crane Creek Country Club course, Blandford shot 75-72 for a pace setting 147 and a four-shot lead over runner-up Paul Lodge of Nampa. Thomsen, who finished sixth in this event nationally a year ago, followed up a near disaster 80 with a two-over 74 Friday to nail down third spot and move ahead of Dave

Vicki Mallea Defeats Susan Davis For Idaho Women's Amateur Win

POCATELLO—18-year-old Vicki Mallea of Nampa overcame a pair of early double bogies in the final round to shade Twin Falls' Susan Davis by nine strokes Friday and win her third straight Idaho Women's Amateur title.

Women's Amateur golf crown. Miss Mallea finished with a 54-hole total of 236, while Miss Davis, who shot 245 in the 1970 state championship high school team; ended at 245—shooting a final round 86.

The Nampa miss, with a five-over 81 in Friday's round, added five strokes to her narrow 4-shot lead over Miss Davis which she held at the start of the final day.

Miss Mallea took bogies at number four and number five, but rallied with a birdie on the seventh and went the rest of the way in two-over style—easily outdistancing Miss Davis, who couldn't take advantage of the leader's early slide.

Final championship flight standings: Vicki Mallea, Nampa 74-81-81-236; Susan Davis, Twin Falls 86-75-86-245; Kari Voyce, Boise 86-87-82-245; Virginia Urdjhem, Twin Falls 85-87-87-259; Beverly Dolven, Pocatello 86-90-89-265; Rose Okerstrom, Idaho Falls 89-88-85-265; Rose Dobson, Idaho Falls 88-87-91-268; Lynn Tigert, Soda Springs 87-88-91-266.

Beman Grabs Share Of Lead At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Dean Beman of Bethesda, Md., charged into a tie for the lead in the $110,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament Saturday, firing a four under par 68 to go into the final round tied with scrambling second round leader Don Massengale, Massengale, Jackboro, Tex.

Beman had more than his share of problems during the Saturday round—falling as far as three strokes behind at times and registering a two-over par 38 on the first nine. But he rallied on the final holes to finish with a 70 and a 54-hole total of 207.

One stroke behind Massengale and Beman was Jerry Heard, a second year pro from Visalia, Calif., and in fourth at 209—seven strokes under par—was Terry Dill of Austin, Tex.

Miss Davis—who graduated this year—was in the seventh and went the rest of the way in two-over style—easily outdistancing Miss Davis, who couldn't take advantage of the leader's early slide.

Boise's Kari Voyce shot 82 Friday for a 255 total and third place in the championship flight, while Twin Falls' Virginia Urdjhem—a three-time winner of the event—had a final round 87 for 259 and fourth place.

USGA Junior Meet Has Record Small Field

Only nine juniors—a record low for the event—will participate in the Idaho qualifications Tuesday for a berth in the national USGA junior golf tournament, reports Max Brown state chairman.

The event, slated for 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Twin Falls Municipal course, has attracted the top juniors—those who have not attained their 18th birthday anniversaries. But due to the small field, the state will have only one berth available in the national meet, slated July 28-Aug. 1 at the Athens Country Club in Athens, Ga.

Jackie Gasser of Twin Falls copped second in the first flight with a 54-hole score of 282—five shots behind Grace Garvin.

Valiant Is Upset In Cup Time Trial

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—Intrepid upset favored Valiant Saturday in the third race of the observation trials for the Americas Cup.

In a second race, Wentherly, considered a trial horse for the new, more advanced 12-meter yachts, upset "Heritage" by a space of two minutes and two seconds.

The field will be headed by two men with good local knowledge, Jim Blandford, who won the state pro-proxy title Friday in Boise, and Jeff Thomsen, who also qualified for the national pro-proxy and finished sixth in that meet's national finals last week.

Blandford, having a fine spring, also won the Class A high school state tournament medalist plus state title at the Fred Lodge of Caldwell, who won the Burley Lions junior title earlier this month, and Dave Molitor who was the high school state B medalist a year ago. Those two also won berths in the national pro-proxy this past week.

Bairings and tee-off times for Tuesday include 10 a.m. David Wagner, Twin Falls; Patrick McGowan, Ontario; and Dave Molitor, Boise; 10:08 a.m. Jim Blandford, Twin Falls; Steff Brandt, Pocatello, and Jeff Rodwell, Caldwell and 10:16 Jeff Thomsen, Twin Falls; Paul Lodge, Caldwell, and Gary Van Baumgartner, Pocatello.

A pro-junior tourney is scheduled for money but there will be no pro-am team prizes to comply with the new NCAA amateur rules.

Intrepid and Valiant were underlined in the first two trial races and Saturday's competition was expected to give some indication of who would represent the United States in the Americas Cup races this fall.

Intrepid finished the 23.9 mile course two minutes and 14 seconds ahead of Valiant.

Also in the field is Paul Lodge of Caldwell, who won the Burley Lions junior title earlier this month, and Dave Molitor who was the high school state B medalist a year ago. Those two also won berths in the national

The weather for the trial races was hazy, but clear, with winds of eight to 10 knots. Thursday and Friday the observation trials were cancelled because of heavy fog.

The selection committee of the New York Yacht Club, which will eventually decide on the U.S. representative, decided to hold another observation race Sunday.

Dodgers Trim Magic Valley In 10-7 Win

Cowboys' Rally In Ninth Falls Short; Teams Meet Again At 4 p.m. Sunday

Nageleisen Leads In 4 League Categories

Magic Valley outfielder Jim Nageleisen leads or shares the lead in four offensive categories and Cowboy second baseman Chico Ruiz needs the club in batting according to statistics from William J. Weiss.

Nageleisen leads the Pioneer League in runs, is tied for the doubles and stolen bases lead, and has drawn a loop-leading 14 free passes.

Ruiz, who joined the club just recently, was hitting at a .571 clip after nine games, but had just 14 official at bats.

Cowboy pitcher Jim Lindenberg, with an ERA of 0.00 and a 2-0 mark, tops the club's pitchers. Gary Hagen has a 1.80 ERA mark and Ed Bogacki is at 3.00.

Nageleisen, batting .302, and Mark Mengo, with a .368 average, lead the regulars in the plate. Big Jack Pierce is hitting at a .350 clip after a hot home stand.

The Ogden Dodgers staggered the Magic Valley Cowboys with five runs in the second and third innings Saturday night and from then on the teams traded runs until the visitors natted down a 10-7 decision.

They will meet again at 4 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday before the Dodgers leave town. Caldwell will follow them in for the second and last time in the season Tuesday for a three-day stand that will include a doubleheader — making up an earlier rainout — at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Both games will be seven innings in length.

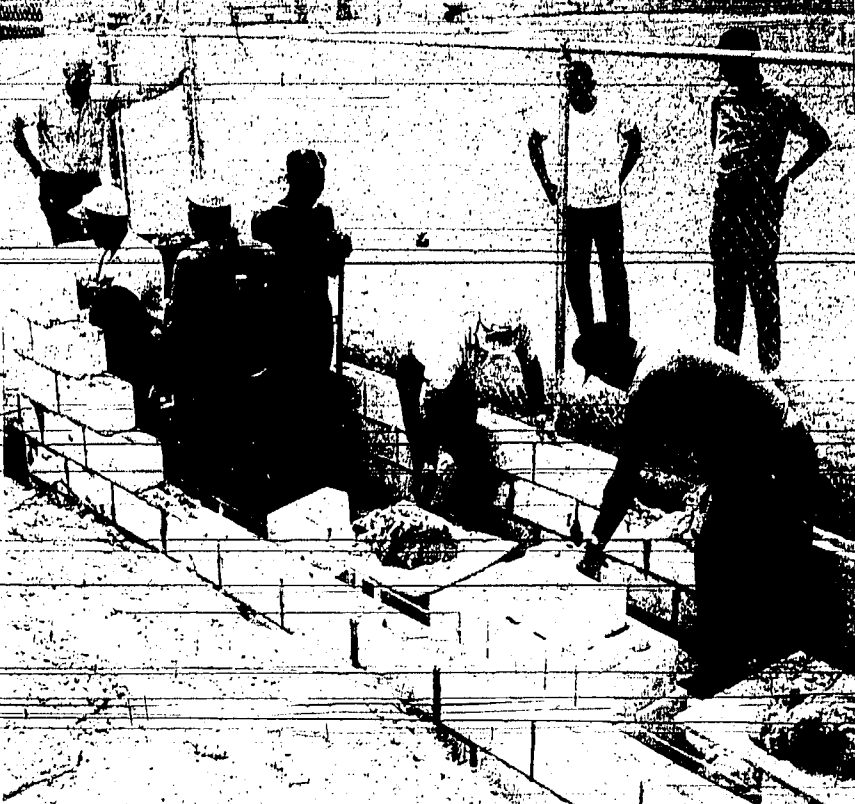

Ogden's victory could be traced to the stout relief pitching of Tom Clark. He entered the game with one out in the first inning, gave up a run-scoring single to Jack Pierce and then throttled the Cowboys bats with only two walks over the next five innings.

The Cowboys played without Jim Nageleisen who had to report for an Army Reserve weekend in Kentucky. He is slated to rejoin the club Monday night.

Ogden got a run in the first inning on a ground out before the Cowboys got their only lead of the night. Nelson Cann led off with a walk and after one went out, Mark Mengo drew a pass. Pierce singled home Cann and he and Mengo then executed a double steal for a 2-1 lead.

It lasted quick. Dennis Hagen opened the second with a walk and Tom Corder lived on an error while two others fanned. A walk to the pitcher loaded the bases and Nixon and Jenkins followed with run-scoring hits. Doney-Forry unladen a two-run homer the third and for the next several innings the teams dinked each other with one-run punches.

In the last of the ninth, with two away, Cann got his second hit of the night and went to third when Ruiz doubled. Mengo then belted a long drive off the scoreboard that went for a ground-rule double and two runs. But he died there on a game-closing strikeout.

INSTALLING DUGOUTS to round out completion of the new softball diamonds at Harman Park started Saturday morning by a volunteer work crew from the slawpich teams. The dugouts should be completed within a week and well in advance of the district and state tournaments scheduled for Twin Falls next month.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To ACC Head Weaver

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—James H. Weaver, commissioner of the Atlantic Coast Conference, died unexpectedly Saturday morning of a heart attack in his room at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Weaver, 67, was chairman of the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Commissioners Association. The Western Athletic Conference was host for the parlay.

A WAC spokesman said Weaver died in his room at about 6:30 a.m. The spokesman said Weaver's body would be sent to Greensboro, N.C., sometime Saturday. Funeral services were set for 5 p.m. Sunday in Greensboro, he said.

Pleasure Seeker Cops Hollywood Park Cup

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Pleasure Seeker brought West with only one goal in mind, raced to victory by better than three lengths Saturday in the 31st running of the $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup at Hollywood Park.

The Kentucky-bred winner was brought to California in May to point for the Gold Cup and justified the confidence of his owners by capturing the richest race in the West.

Front-running Neurologo held on for second and T.V. Commercial was third in the field of seven as the favored battle pulled up with leg trouble midway through the race.

Pleasure Seeker ran the mile and a quarter in the excellent time of 1:59 2/5, although most of his races have been at middle distances.

Carrying 114 pounds, Pleasure Seeker was kept close to the pace by jockey Laffit Pincay Jr. and responded in the stretch to win by three and a half lengths.

As expected, Neurologo went to the front when the field broke out of the gate. By the time the horses reached the first turn, Neurologo was two and a half lengths in the lead. Fignonera, the defending champion, took out after Neurologo while Pleasure Seeker dropped into third place when the field reached the turn. Going down the backstretch, Neurologo continued to hold his lead and Pleasure Seeker stayed on the rail in third place. It was not until the horses rounded the second turn that Pincay called on Pleasure Seeker to make his move.

The 4-year-old son of Ambiorix responded gamely and took the lead at the head of the stretch. By that time, Baffle was being pulled up and Neurologo held on to finish second. Neurologo was a length and a half in front of the third place T.V. Commercial. Maker was fourth.

Veteran Cardwell Sold To Atlanta By N.Y. Mets

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Mets sold veteran pitcher Don Cardwell to the Atlanta Braves Saturday night for an undisclosed sum of cash.

Cardwell, who compiled an 8-10 record last year for the Mets, has an 0-2 record this season. He has appeared in 16 games, starting only one, and has a 6.48 ERA.

Cardwell has given up 31 hits and 19 runs in 25 innings of pitching.

Cardwell was obtained by the Mets on Dec. 6, 1968, from Pittsburgh with Don Bosch for Dennis Ribant and Gary Kolb. Cardwell was 20-32 in the last three seasons. He first came to the majors in 1957 with the Phillies and also pitched for the Pirates before coming to the Mets. He has a 100-137 lifetime record.

Cardwell's departure doesn't leave an opening in the Met roster because Denny Fralja was called up when Nolan Ryan went on his two-week military tour and Ryan will return next week.

City Basketball Clinic Will Begin Action On Monday

The annual two-week basketball clinic, conducted by College of Southern Idaho Coach Jerry Hale, will begin at 6 p.m. Monday at the Twin Falls High School gymnasium, announced Chad Browning, city recreation director.

Browning said boys ranging from completion of the fourth grade through college level should attend the first night registration. Starting Tuesday the group will be divided by age and report at different times during the evening for instruction.

Dodgers Activate Ted Sizemore

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday night reactivated second baseman Ted Sizemore, last year's National League Rookie of the Year who has been in the disabled list since June 12 because of a pulled leg muscle.

The return of Sizemore, who is hitting .255, puts the Dodgers at the 25-player limit. Outfielder Bill Russell and third baseman Bill Sudakis are on two weeks military duty.

Mississippi Tourney To Start Monday

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Allen Miller of Pensacola, Fla., Monday begins a week-long battle in defense of his Trans-Mississippi Golf Championship at Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club.

Miller, 21, a 1969 Walker Cup team member, is one of 183 golfers seeking the prestigious amateur title on the 6,765-yard, par 71 golf course. They bring with them most of the top amateur titles in the United States, plus the 1970 Mexican amateur championship.

Veteran Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., runner-up to the 27-year-old Miller in 1969, will be trying to go all the way this time. Updegraff is a former Walker Cupper and many-time winner of the Western Amateur and other titles.

The golfers will play 36 holes of medal play Monday and Tuesday to qualify for match play rounds beginning Wednesday. The 36-hole finals for the championship are scheduled next Sunday.

Seniors and juniors will compete in medal play all the way, however.

Young Ben Crenshaw, the 18-year-old better from Austin, Tex., who kept his cool while big name money players blew up at the U.S. Open in Augusta, Minn., this year is in the field. Crenshaw finished in a tie for low amateur honors in the Open with John Mahaffey of Greenville, Tex., who also just entered.

Mahaffey was a 1969 first-time all-American golfer and winner of the 1970 NCAA title.

Tony Roche Raps Laver In Irish Open

DUBLIN (UPI)—Tony Roche needed only 40 minutes Saturday to defeat fellow Australian Rod Laver, 6-3, 6-1 and win the men's singles title of the Irish Open Lawn Tennis Championships.

Roche, the No. 2 seed, earned a service break in the sixth game when Laver double faulted. In the second set, he moved out to a 4-0 lead before the top-seeded Laver, troubled by the gusty winds, began to show life.

Blitz Nips Varsity To Win City Tournament

Blitz Beer stepped for four runs in the top of the sixth inning Saturday afternoon to defeat Varsity Barbershop 4-3 and claim the title in the Twin Falls city slowpitch softball tournament.

The Blitz flurry nipped the upset hopes of Varsity which ousted pre-tourney favored Turf Club 6-5 in the loser bracket semi-finals earlier.

Varsity jumped into a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the fourth when Rick Gailey lived on an error and Larry Malone walked. Lichti singled in both. But in the top of the sixth, Duane Schaeberger lived on an error and Matt Horner singled him home. Two runs scored when Hartruff's single was error on the first hop in the outfield and the ball couldn't be retrieved in time. Gary Peterson Dick Rees and Gary Ayers followed with singles to score the comeback tally.

Varsity came back with a strong bid in the sixth. Gailey opened with a hit and Lichti's grounder was error. Tupper singled to load the bases with one away but Blitz steadied to preserve its margin.

Varsity got a misjudged fly ball homer from Malone in the first inning to take the lead on Turf Club and moved ahead 5-1 in the second on three straight Turf club miscues and a hit. After Turf Club rallied into a tie, Varsity won it when a man lived on an error and Tupper blooped a single into left field.

In Friday night's action, Royal Lounge ousted OK Tire 7-6 and Turf Club ousted nemesis Osco-Buttery 12-3. Blitz topped Varsity 13-1 in the semi-finals before Turf Club came back to eliminate Royal Lounge 13-1.

Loop Players Pick McCovey Over Allen

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—If the major league players had picked the All-Star teams instead of the fans, their selections would have differed at only four of the 16 starting positions, the Sporting News reported Saturday.

The national sports weekly polled the players according to the system used by the commissioner's office before the vote was given to the fans this year. Ballots were received from 266 players in the American League and 262 in the National League.

The starting lineups the players would have named are:

For the American League: C, Bill Freehan, Tigers; 1B, Boog Powell, Orioles; 2B, Rod Carew, Twins; 3B, Harmon Killebrew, Twins; SS, Luis Aparicio, White Sox; OF, Frank Robinson, Orioles; OF, Tony Oliva, Twins; OF, Frank Howard, Senators.

For the National League: C, Johnny Bench, Reds; 1B, Willie McCovey, Giants; 2B, Glenn Beckert, Cubs; 3B, Tony Perez, Reds; SS, Dennis Menke, Astros; OF, Hank Aaron, Braves; OF, Rico Carty, Braves; OF, Roberto Clemente, Pirates.

The players differed from the fans only on starting position in the American League, picking Oliver over Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox, who was the public choice. Yastrzemski was not even close to the players' voting finishing ninth among the A.L. outfielders.

Giants Dietz Spiked In Game

HOUSTON (UPI)—Catcher Dick Dietz of the San Francisco Giants, who was named to the National League All-Star team for the first time, was forced to leave Saturday night's game with the Houston Astros after being spiked on the big toe of his left foot.

Astro pitcher Larry Dierker stepped on Dietz when he scored in the second inning.

The severity of the injury was not immediately determined. It is not yet known whether Dietz will be able to play in Tuesday night's all-star game.

Dietz was leading the Giants with a .332 average.

Karen Moe Sets World Record, Spitz Wins In Santa Clara Swim Meet

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI)—Karen Moe, a relative unknown from Orinda, Calif., pulled the surprise of the Santa Clara International swim meet Saturday by striking a world record in the Women's 200 meter butterfly.

Miss Moe, only 17, splashed a 2:26.87 and eclipsed the former world mark held by Eda Kok of Holland since 1967. The old mark was 2:28.0.

"I had no idea I was going that fast," Miss Moe said. "This is the first big victory I've ever had."

Miss Moe surprised a crowd of 500 by giving favorite Lynn Colella of Tacoma, Wash., a tough battle all the way into the final lap. She grew stronger down the stretch and said later that she sped up toward the end because Miss Colella was pressing her.

"I was really conscious of the clock," she said. "I was just trying to stay up with Lynn. She's so good. I knew I was going to do a pretty good race."

The blonde is entering her senior year at Orinda's Miramonte High School. She has been training with the Aquabears of Orinda for seven years but she never had won a national or tournament title until setting her world record.

The world mark was the first of its kind during the prestigious three-day tournament, which attracted 700 athletes from 17 nations. Twenty world records had fallen during the three previous years of the annual meet.

Miss Moe's time was five seconds better than her previous best and also gave her the American mark, over Miss Colella's old standard of 2:21.6.

Miss Colella remained a gritty competitor to the finish, ending just a second behind Miss Moe in 2:21.83.

Debbie Meyer, three-time Olympic gold medalist, had to burst strongly down the stretch to overtake Yoshiaki Nishigawa of Japan in the women's 400 meter individual medley.

Miss Meyer was timed in 5:12.21 and Miss Nishigawa established a Japanese record with her runnerup clocking of 5:13.03.

Olympian Mark Spitz of Indiana University saved face after an upset loss to freestyler Dave Edgar one day earlier. Spitz won the men's 200 meter butterfly, the event in which he holds the world mark, in 2:07.84.

In remaining women's events, Sandra Bucha of Hinesdale, Ill., accomplished a minor upset by winning the 200 meter freestyle in 2:17.20.

Kayo Hall of Tacoma, Wash., narrowly defeated Japan's Yukiko Gohshi in the 100 meter backstroke in 1:07.52.

In other men's events, Mike Stamm of San Diego, Calif., won an evenly contested 100 meter backstroke in 1:00.65.

Tom McBreen of San Mateo, Calif., took the 200 meter freestyle in 1:56.99, and Steve Power of Sacramento, Calif., triumphed in the 400 meter medley in 4:45.49.

Voting Machines Now On Display In County

In the 1968 primary election in Twin Falls county 27,000 ballots were printed but this August only 90 will be needed.

It isn't that there are any less voters in the county, says Clerk and Auditor Harold Lancaster, but this is one of many shortcuts the county will be taking thanks to the purchase of their 90 voting machines.

Ready for use for the first time on Aug. 4, the machines are now on public display throughout banks in the county and during the week of July 20, they will be displayed in supermarkets with all voters invited to get acquainted with the machines and to actually make a trial vote so they will be familiar with the process before they walk into the polls on Aug. 4.

Mrs. Charles Wagner, voter service chairman for the Twin Falls League of Women Voters, and her organization membership will conduct demonstrations and will be available to answer questions and show voters how to cast their ballots. Mr. Lancaster said machines are now available for public inspection and use in all banks in the county and persons are not only welcome to try them out but are urged to do so.

"Actually it is easier to vote by machine than to use a paper ballot," he said, "but some voters may need to become familiar with the machines before they cast a genuine ballot."

The machines now on display have all been programmed exactly as they will for a primary election although fictitious candidates are used rather than those who will actually appear on the Aug. 4 ballot.

Beginning July 20, a similarly programmed machine will go on display in Twin Falls supper markets.

League of Women Voters members will be available from 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. to answer questions, demonstrate the machine and actually show the voter how to cast a ballot. Mr. Lancaster said the schedule will be July 20 at Buttrick's in the Blue Lakes Shopping Center; July 21 at Safeways in Lynwood; July 22 at Albertson's; July 23 at Shelby's and July 24 at Swenson's South Park store.

Mr. Lancaster said sample ballots, printed to match the face of the voting machines will be available in the near future. Only absentee ballots will follow the old ballot style, he said.

In addition to the banks in Twin Falls, Buhl, Filer and Kimberly, the Black Warehouse at Castleford will also have a display machine.

The law provides anyone who is not able to understand the voting machines may take someone of his own choosing into the polls with him to assist.

In addition to the saving in printing costs, the machines will pay for themselves over a period of a few years by a saving in election costs and time. While 522 election officials are required in Twin Falls county under the previous system, there will be only 192 with the voting machines. At a salary of $8 to $11 per worker for regular time this will be a considerable saving, with 336 less workers.

Election officials are also allowed $1 per hour with a maximum of $17 for time beyond their regular work schedule. When recounting is necessary in a certain precinct to balance the poll books, Mr. Lancaster said, this often goes the maximum for all workers. Now it will take only about 10 seconds to tabulate the vote, one of the major and most time-consuming jobs election workers previously faced. This will be the greatest value of the machines, Mr. Lancaster said, in that the count will be complete, accurate and immediately available with the turn of a crank, seconds after the last voter walks from the poll.

The Automatic Voting Machine Co., has designed the machines adopted here as there can be no spoiled ballots and no duplication vote in which a voter can accidentally vote for two candidates for the same office.

Voters can even change their minds, and during demonstrations League of Women Voters will explain this procedure and give out pamphlets explaining the machine and how it operates.

Mr. Lancaster noted Twin Falls county is the first in the state to go automatic in their election procedure and other counties will be looking to Twin Falls in August with plans to follow suit if local officials and voters are satisfied with the new system.

'Smart Money' Bolsters Market

By HOWARD LUXENBERG
UPI-Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—"Smart money" finally may have returned to the market.

This was the jubilation of many analysts last week they groped for excuses to explain the stock market's recovery in the final three days of the week after a stiff pounding on Monday and Tuesday.

Smart money—investive investors—usually comes to the market when the market is minimal.

"You can't put your finger on it, but there appeared to be an overnight change in investor sentiment," one analyst remarked. He said that the change may have been a speculation that the Federal Reserve Board's continuation of the nation's monetary affairs soon may move to make money more available; and a feeling that Washington has broken the back of inflation.

Dr. Thomas G. Wick, a University of Michigan economist, said there are signs the rate of inflation is slowing and he predicted the stock market would rise above the 100 level.

Several Magic Valley students have received scholarship awards for the fall semester, which begins the week of Aug. 24 and ends with Christmas vacation on Dec. 22 at Boise State College.

(on the Dow) by September or October.

"Other factors which provided late support for the market were Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's assertion that the United States will beat the peace proposal for the Middle East, a better tone in the bond market, and a bright earnings statement by General Electric Co., the nation's largest manufacturer of electrical and electronic equipment.

GE reported second quarter earnings of $1.06 versus $1.01 a year ago. This apparently was interpreted by traders as a sign that earnings for the June quarter in general may not be as poor as expected. GE's stock advanced with a gain of 3/4% to 47 1/2.

The expectation of a quarterly earnings had been a major depressant on Wall Street early in the week.

Alan R. Shaw, director of market research of Harris, Upham & Co., said a good part of the recent selling reflected vagueness and uncertainty over quarterly earnings. He added "if it gets to the point where earnings aren't as bad as the market has been telling us we could have quite a snapback."

Newton Zinder, analyst for E.F. Hutton & Co., said "if we get a few more pleasant surprises (again referring to GE) this could have a powerful effect on the market's near-term trend."

Zinder said, however, he feels the "key development" in the financial arena has been the strength in the bond market. He said it has been widely felt that the bond market would have to bottom out before we could look for the stock market to follow.

Zinder added there is some evidence of a bottoming out phase in bonds, and for this reason, he believes some completely unexpected change in the market's holding above its late May lows has been recently enhanced.

The Dow Jones industrial average, off about 20 points through the first two sessions, finished with a gain of 10.26 to 700.10. The barometer of 30 selected blue-chips hit its low for the year on May 26, when it slumped 10.20 to 631.16.

The UPI maritime indicator climbed 0.78 to 65.12, while the New York Stock Exchange index of common stocks registered a gain of 0.00 to 49.54.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index picked up 1.65 to 74.87.

Of the 1,751 issues crossing the tape, 898 advanced, 820 retreated. There were 12 new highs set, 407 lows.

Turnover swelled to 53,781,529 shares from 35,134,210 during the previous holiday abbreviated week, and also was above the 40,800,150 shares traded in the year ago period.

Northwest Airlines was far the week's most active issue as a result of a block of 1,020,000 shares traded at 14 1/2. It finished 15% lower at a total turnover of 1,255,800 shares.

The big trade was the second largest block in the history of the New York Stock Exchange, topped off by a block of 1,153,700 share of Alcan Aluminum on Oct. 31, 1967.

Salomon Brothers & Hutzler, which handled the big Northwest block, said it was crossed for more than one institutional seller, and multiple institutions at buyers.

Nasser Ends Lull In Red Parley

MOSCOW (UPI)—Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser resumed discussion of Middle East policy with the ruling Soviet troika Saturday, ending a 10-day lull in their talks as Russia accused the United States of giving Israel potential nuclear weapons.

Nasser conferred in the Kremlin with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet Communist party general secretary, in the official, Tass news agency said.

Nasser last met with all three Soviet leaders July 1.

The conference Saturday went on for hours "in an atmosphere of cordiality and complete mutual understanding," Tass said.

The four leaders dwelled upon bilateral relations and "particularly the situation in the Middle East," it said.

Authoritative Middle East sources told United Press International "two areas were under discussion specifically—a common diplomatic policy and Nasser's requests for more SAM-3 antiracraft missiles, MIG-21 jet fighter-bombers and military manpower.

Church Aides Told To Act On Issues

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—The general minister and president of the 1.4-million member Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) told the church's general board Saturday that the church has a mandate to deal with "the crucial issues of human life."

Dr. A. Dale Brink of Indianapolis, Ind., spoke at the opening session of the board's four-day annual meeting.

"Within the (next) year the church has had to face the issues arising out of the black manifesto, the continuing war in Vietnam, the acceleration of urban and suburban ghettos, a crescendo of urban over population of the world, and the Cambodian crisis," Brink said.

"Polarization of attitudes and actions around issues threatens church, nation and world with new and deepened divisions. Every aspect and dimension of the church's life has been affected."

Pilot Escapes Plane Crash In South Idaho

MARSHING, Idaho (UPI)—A small jet aircraft, owned by the Federal Aviation Administration, crashed four miles west of Marshing into Friday night.

A spokesman for the FAA said today exact cause of the crash was still under investigation. The spokesman said the craft was a Lockheed jet star piloted by F.R. Keen. The pilot was not injured in the crash-landing.

Federal and Idaho officials were at the scene of the crash today. The plane was en route from Palm Springs, Calif. to Boise.

Forum Rules Gooding Mayor Complains About Twin Falls Policy

Editor, Times-News:

As a resident of Gooding, Idaho, I cannot help but be amused at the dispute going on in Twin Falls over the so-called Five Points North Project.

It's most interesting to me that the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and Urban Renewal Program officials, together with a well-known Twin Falls Futures Unlimited, and together with the hotel keepers association "and others" support this project.

It is not unusual to see Twin Falls, with its big-city greed, attempting to get everything for Twin Falls. But, why can't Twin Falls be as reasonable and gracious as other communities in this state?

Forum letters must be concerned with topics of general interest and must be of a reasonable length.

The editors of the Times-News reserve the right to refuse publication if, in their opinion, the subject matter is of a libelous nature, is not in good taste or is repetitious and has previously been thoroughly covered in the forum.

All letters must bear the signature and address of the writer. The name of the writer will appear when published unless there is a personal request that it be withheld and the reason for such a request stated. This request will then be considered by the editors and it will either be granted or the letter will be returned to the writer.

Employers Notified Of New Law

Thousands of employers in the Pacific-Northwest have been alerted to federal wage garnishment restrictions by the Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Effective July 1, provisions of Title III of the Consumer Credit Protection Act limits the amount of an employee's wages which can be garnished and prohibits discharge of an employee because of garnishment for any one debt.

Local offices of the Division in Alaska, Idaho, Oregon and Washington are sources of information for employers and employees alike. Penalties for violation include a year's imprisonment, and $1,000 fine or both.

It is hoped that the new garnishment restrictions will discourage ill-advised extensions of credit, reduce the number of personal bankruptcies and ease the pressure on welfare rolls.

Writers Told To Be Fair In Comments

PARK CITY, Utah (UPI)—The nation's broadcast editorial writers were urged Friday to use their power "responsibly" and to support Nixon administration policies "when you feel it is justified to do so."

Herb Klein, the President's director of communications, issued the plea at the National Broadcast Editorial Conference here.

"We said an opportunity was at hand for the editorial broadcasters to improve communications with the White House by referring editorials of national issues to his office after they are presented."

This would not be an attempt to impose government regulations or control, Klein said, but might serve to improve communications between the writers and various agencies in the federal government.

Klein said the federal agency could, in turn, direct the editorials to the specific government agencies to which they might refer.

Responding to a broadcaster's question, Klein said he was not advocating that the industry serve as a "reassuring agent" to the public for the Nixon administration but when editorialists felt the administration was right they should say so.

Westmoreland Returns To Viet Zone

SAIGON (UPI)—Gen. William C. Westmoreland returned to his old command Saturday for the first time since becoming U.S. Army chief of staff and said he wanted to see first hand how the Vietnamization program was going.

The four-star general, who spent 4 1/2 years as commander of the U.S. expeditionary force, planned talks with high-level U.S. and South Vietnamese officials and visits with American troops in the field.

Westmoreland moved to Washington last year and was replaced here by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, who is currently recuperating from gall bladder surgery at a hospital in Japan.

Bishop Will Return Home After Ordeal In Red Prison

HONG KONG (UPI)—Bishop James Edward Walsh, a 79-year-old American missionary, freed after 12 years' imprisonment in Communist China, will return to his Maryland hometown after he has fully recovered, the Rev. Mario Marazzi, director of the Catholic center said Saturday night.

The Roman Catholic priest of the Maryknoll Fathers was taken by ambulance to our Lady of Maryknoll Hospital after he crossed the border into Hong Kong Friday, tired but looking healthy.

Bishop Walsh was arrested by the Communist Chinese government on Oct. 18, 1958, and was sentenced to 20 years in jail on spy charges.

The Rev. Marazzi said Bishop Walsh will hold a press conference some time next week when he will be feeling stronger.

He is now resting in the hospital. After he has fully recovered, he will be going back to the United States. He will first visit the headquarters of the Maryknoll Fathers in New York and then go to Cumberland, Md., his hometown," the Rev. Marazzi said.

"Because of his age he definitely will not be working when he goes back, although many people would like to see him reciting Mass," he said.

The Rev. John Sullivan, regional superior of the Maryknoll Fathers in Hong Kong, said he expected Bishop Walsh to leave the hospital within two weeks.

Earlier Saturday the Bishop received his first Holy Communion in bed after his 12 years in prison.

Since Oct. 3, 1969, Communist Chinese authorities have freed

Britons Face Shutdown Of Shipping

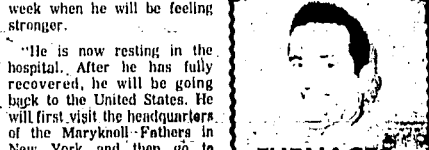

LONDON (UPI)—The government moved in Saturday in a last ditch effort to head off Britain's first national ports shutdown in 44 years starting next Tuesday.

Robert Carr, secretary for employment and productivity, met leaders of labor unions representing Britain's 47,000 longshoremen. They have served notice of a nationwide walkout Tuesday to back a claim for an 80 per cent pay hike.

Carr, stepping in personally for the first time, met union leaders at the request of Vic Feather, general secretary of the 8,500,000-member Trades Union Congress (TUC), Britain's equivalent of the AFL-CIO in the United States.

Feather appealed to Carr to meet personally with union leaders after he himself had conferred for 90 minutes with them at TUC headquarters.

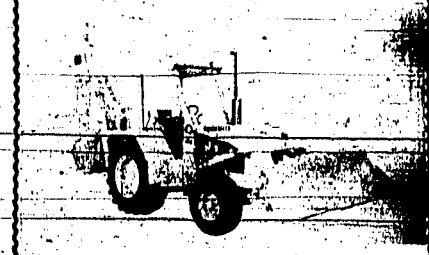

Prime Minister Edward Heath was remaining on the sidelines of the crisis for the time being. But government sources said that if the crisis worsens, he will summon his cabinet quickly next week.

Nothing from the standpoint of getting the rubber over with. Many rubber bridge players would simply sprout their hand and claim four-odd-at-trick three.

Now, suppose that you like overtricks. Maybe you are a duplicate player, in a rubber bridge game for a change. Maybe you are scoring rubbers to the nearest 100 and an overtrick will be worth an extra 100 points. Or, what is most likely, you are a very good player who knows that West would never pass as dealer when not vulnerable if he holds ace-king-ace.

Now, you lead dummy's jack of hearts as soon as you have drawn trumps. If East is smart, he may see that you're trying for an extra trick. Otherwise he will play a low heart. Now, you rise with your king and have the rest.

You have risked nothing if your analysis is correct.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

An Alabama correspondent wants to know when it is good policy to risk your contract for an overtrick in a rubber bridge game. The answer to that one is "never" modified to "hardly ever" if we are cross-questioned.

West opens the king of clubs, continues with the ace and shifts to a trump. You win in your hand and play a second trump to dummy. Trumps are now accounted for—and you can run off dummy's four diamonds to leave yourself with just one heart. Now you can lead the jack of hearts from dummy and, if East holds the ace and plays low, you will score an overtrick. If he plays the ace as he should, you will still make your contract.

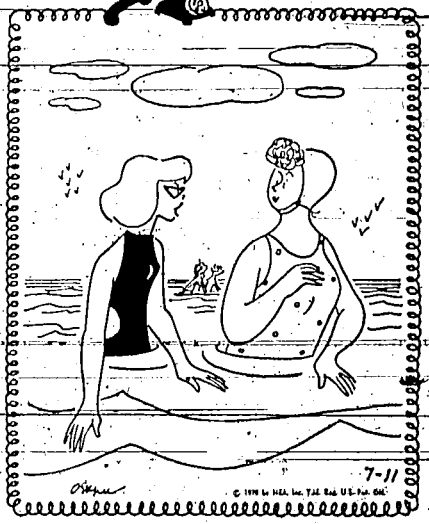

What's wrong with that in a rubber bridge game?

LOVE AND WAR—Takes a young woman who's contemplating matrimony. You can bet she'll spend considerable time analyzing the nature of her future mother-in-law. But you can further bet she'll spend almost no time at all analyzing the nature of her future father-in-law. That is a common peculiarity in the thinking of brides-to-be, says our Love and War man. No matter how much influence the father of the groom had upon the boy, the bride tends to ignore the old man. What she scrutinizes at great length only is the influence of the lady's mother.

WHERE WOULD YOU go to find the largest known colony of orangutans in the world? Try Atlanta, Ga. That's right... WOULD'NT THINK SO to look at it, but a pilsner beer glass is always bigger around the top than it is tall... YOUR HEARING IS keenest at the age of 10, say the medical men. Thereafter, you start to lose it, however slowly.

CONSIDER THIS—If an auto stalls at an intersection, the men in cars thereabouts are far more apt to honk their horns than the women drivers. Furthermore, if the stalled machine happens to be an old model rather than a spiffy new one, the honking is likely to be doubled. University researchers found this out.

CUSTOMER SERVICE—What's the national flower of the United States? We have none such, sorry to report. This country is the only nation in the world without one, incidentally... Q. "Do termites eat live trees?" A. No, sir, green wood kills them... Q. "How many languages were spoken among the North American Indians when Columbus first showed up?" A. About 500.

ON THE AVERAGE that girls who graduates from college this year with a Business Administration degree can expect to start work at $682 a month... THE FIRST WORDS ever written in smoke by an airplane in the sky were "The Daily Mail... Over London... Just 48 years ago" were your ground then... REPEATED STUDIES have proved those high school students voted most likely to succeed are those high school students who in later years were indeed the most successful.

HISTORY—Maybe you've heard the Air Force adage: "There are old pilots and bold pilots—but there are no old bold pilots." A pilot asks who originated that. Cannot name the author, but research reveals it first cropped up on a sign over a flight room door at San Angelo, Tex.

RAPID REPLY—Yes, sir, despite what the temperatures hereabouts might indicate, the earth is millions of miles farther from the sun in July than in December.

IN IT GOES, half of an old car body. This one of 2,000 such lifts made by the heavy crane equipment of JAY Huddleston last week on the county dumpgrounds south of Filer. Watching the operation are the Twin Falls County Commissioners, Hoher Loughmiller, William Chancey and Morris W. Carlson from left. The baler is shown open ready to smash the car body as it closes down.

OUT IT COMES, a neatly baled bundle of metal. The entire half of a car has been crushed and packed into a bale not much larger than a standard hay bale and is now removed from the scene. As one car body goes into the baler the previous one is taken out and ready for shipment to market. Twin Falls County commissioners are pushing the baling program on all county dump grounds and urging persons to take car bodies on their property to the area where the baler is operating.

Solons Display 'Talent'

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (UPI)—Gov. William T. Cahill has asked President Nixon to declare the Rio-Hondo West Side ghetto area of this seaside resort a "major disaster area." Cahill sent a telegram to the President Thursday after touring the scene of three days of violence that resulted in at least 160 injuries, 225 arrests and property damage unofficially estimated at up to $4 million.

Earlier, 20 tons of emergency food supplies were shipped here from New York City at the request of community welfare authorities. The food supplies were provided by the U.S. Agriculture Department.

Black youth patrols and state police have helped maintain peace in the ghetto area during the past two days. Law enforcement officers from surrounding areas, called for support duty, were relieved Thursday, but some 200 state troopers remained. City officials and Negro leaders who met to discuss 20 black demands including amnesty for those arrested, were scheduled to meet again today. No announcement was made of talk results Thursday. A modified 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew was in effect.

Cahill said his request to Nixon, if approved, would make the city eligible for temporary housing, unemployment assistance, reinstatement of public facilities and debris clearance from public and private property.

WHAT A POOR GOAT has to go through for the Idaho Fish and Game Department's transplant program is shown during the unusual live trapping of the rugged mountain goats. Rubber casing covers the silletto horns to prevent injury to the goat and handlers and tape blindfolds the animal during the move. Jerry Chappata, left, Detroit, director of a weekly television broadcast, helps Ray Rogers, Coeur d'Alene, regional game biologist, Idaho Fish and Game Department with the project.

Live Trapping Of Goats Reported

BY JIM HUMBIIRD
A recent news item from the Idaho Fish and Game Department reports three young mountain goats have been live-trapped on Snow Peak and transplanted from the North Fork of the Clearwater River drainage to a site in Black's Canyon about 50 miles from Idaho Falls, and some 30 miles from a similar transplant last year to Pallasda Creek. More news from the same source says sportsmen who successfully complete in the public drawing, July 24, in Blaine for five permits in controlled Mountain Goat Hunt No. 618 in the Seven Devils Mountains of the Snake River drainage will be hunting animals that were transplanted from Snow Peak and Black Mountain in the Clearwater. Records of the department show a total of 17 mountain goats were transplanted to that area. The first release of eight goats in 1962 was made up of four females, two males and two kids, while the 1964 shipment had five females, two males and two kids.

Transplanted big game animals of just about all species, save moose, have provided additional hunting opportunities through the years in Idaho, just as upland game birds and fish have given greater sport to scattergunners and anglers.

For example, two fine California bighorn sheep were bagged by two controlled hunt permit holders in some of the roughest country in Idaho last year between the mouth of Battle Creek and Deep Creek on the East Fork of the Owyhee River in the southwestern corner of the state. Here deep gorges and box canyons with steep lava-rock walled gashes knit across the high desert plateau. A second controlled hunt, with five permits, will be held in the same area this year. A small herd of elk near Magic Reservoir will be hunted for the second consecutive year this fall by permit only in part of Unit 52 (west of highway). These animals and their offspring were parlayed from 36 elk moved from the deep snow country of Warm Springs near Sun Valley during the severe winter of 1965. A public housing project is encroaching on historic winter range of these elk. During the critical phase of that winter, a decision was made by game management workers of the Idaho Fish and Game Department to live-trap some of the animals and move them to better winter range near Magic Reservoir. Animals remaining on the Warm Springs winter range could then survive on available feed, since there would be fewer mouths to feed. But the elk transplanted to Magic Reservoir stayed on, establishing a small non-migratory herd of elk on the rolling sagebrush and grass plains. Fifteen controlled hunt permits were issued last year, and the same number for this season. Other elk populations, started years ago with animals transplanted from Yellowstone-Jackson Hole, are those in Owyhee County, where a general two-day hunting season is scheduled (Units 40-41), and the Pocatello Game Preserve (Unit 70), where controlled hunting generally is allowed but not this year.

The second largest elk trophy ever bagged in Idaho, and the sixth largest in the world according to Boone and Crockett Club standards) was shot in Owyhee County on South Mountain by Cecil Coonts of Wilder.

There have been numerous elk transplants in various parts of the state. Nearly 700 elk were transplanted from Yellowstone-Teton areas and released in Idaho from 1915 through 1940 at the following sites: Arrowrock Dam (Boise-Elmore counties); Pocatello (Bannock County); Bayhill Creek (Shoshone County); Grizzly Flats (Kootenai County); Hope (Bonner County); Herrick (Shoshone County); Kollong (Shoshone County); Owyhee County.

This new blood, also from the Yellowstone-Jackson Hole stocks two decades and more ago, helped build up Idaho's nucleus herds to the largest on this continent. For example, about 1880 a summary of the state's wildlife resources described elk in south Idaho as "represented by 25 animals and undoubtedly headed for extinction." The upswing came with the dense stands of deciduous brush and grasses following logging and wildfires in the early days. Elk depend on browse plants in winter, but can use grass and other soft plants when available better than deer.

The new mountain goat hunting area (Unit 18, Hells Canyon) probably contains some of the roughest terrain in the Gem State. Also called the Seven Devils Area, it lies between famed Hells Canyon of the Snake River and Salmon River drainage. Rugged mountains up to 9,000 feet elevation separate basins containing about 40 alpine lakes, some of them choice trout fishing. A road from Riggin penetrates the area 17 miles to the east, providing access to trails 112 and 101, where they meet at the Seven Devils Guard Station. Trails 112, 114-A, and 101 form a loop around 25 lakes in the northern part of the area. Short spur trails to the lakes are marked by signs. Horse feed generally is scarce.

The southern approach road, about 20 miles from Caprum or Bear, goes to Black Lake.

Money Box

From H. L. H., Twin Falls: I have a $50 bill, 1928 Series A, and in the upper left hand corner it says, "Redeemable in gold on demand at the United States Treasury or in gold or lawful money at any Federal Reserve Bank. Signed W. O. Woods, Treasurer of the United States and A. W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury. Would like to know if this bill is a gold certificate or is valuable to a collector and where I can find a buyer.

Answer: Your note is not a gold certificate. All the Federal Reserve Districts issued these notes after the gold certificates and they are still circulating. You do not say what district it comes from, nor what condition it is in. There are 12 Federal Reserve Districts, identified by the first 12 letters of the alphabet on this note, and around the letter in the left hand side of the note it will tell you where the note is from. The condition is very important, since collectors do not collect old paper money which is torn or folded.

The notes of this series sell from $75 to $85 if in Very Fine or Extremely Fine condition. If very much worn, it is worth only face value. If you will drop me a card with your name on it, I will attempt to put you in touch with someone who might be interested in purchasing it. Gold Certificates have a yellow back, or a yellow seal on them.

From D. D., Twin Falls: I have a number of two dollar bills as follows. 1928-D, 1928-D, 1928-F, 1928-G, 1953, 1963. What is their value? Who would I sell them to?

Answer: Again — I have no way of knowing what condition these notes are in. Paper money must be in extremely fine condition before collectors want it — except of course for the very rare notes. The government has quit making two dollar bills but they are not scarce, and dealers have many of them in uncirculated condition — especially the late ones.

If your notes are extremely fine or better: The 1928 is worth about $20, the 1928-D, $12, the 1928-F, $7, the 1928-G, $5, the 1953, $3.50, and the 1963, about $1.

From R. A. H., Burley, Idaho: I have a very funny looking banknote I would like to find out about. It is on flimsy paper, and across one end the word "TWO". There are some women standing in the center, and beneath them it says "State Bank at Morris". The word "TWO" is in the lower right hand corner, with an angle above it. The date is written on it in ink, but very faded. Also, there is some other writing on it. Above the angle is also the word "TWO". Can you tell me anything about this? What is its value?

Answer: You have what is called a "Broken Bank Note." Before the Civil War, a great many banks sprang up and they all printed their own money. Since they had no backing for this money, they rapidly went broke. There were hundreds of these banks and a lot of the notes still exist. They are collected by many people because of their interesting vignettes (pictures) and some of them are real beauties. However, their value is small. Your note comes from Morristown, New Jersey. The value, if in extremely fine condition, is about $3.

Boy Scouts Take Hike

SHOSHONE — There may be some foot sore and weary Boy Scouts in Shoshone next week when members of Troop 58 return from a 50-mile pack trip into the White Clouds Area.

Under the leadership of Dan Gillette and adult advisor, Theron Anderson, the troop left during the past week by automobile for fourth of July Creek between Alturas and Red Fish Lakes. From here they were to drive another 11 miles on a side road and from there they planned to take off on foot carrying "back packs" with provisions for a 50-mile walk.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR MARTHA MITCHELL, wife of Attorney General John Mitchell

Is it true that you are planning a tour of college campuses, during which you will talk to the students about current problems?—Mrs. K.L., Atlantic City, N.J.

● It is not true. I have always been interested in the problems of students and will continue to be interested. However, as wife of the Attorney General, I could not make such a tour. At no time did I ever tell a writer that I planned a tour of college campuses.

FOR DR. MURRAY S. HILM, entomologist

How deadly is the bite of the black widow spider?—Conrad Fiorello, Brooklyn, N.Y.

● A survey of black widow bites reported in the U.S. between 1926 and 1943 reported that 5 percent of untreated victims died. The nerve-affecting venom of the black widow is 15 times more potent than that of the rattlesnake. Fortunately, the spider injects far less venom than the rattlesnake.

FOR MIKE SHANNON, St. Louis Cardinals

What have you found to be the toughest play to make since moving to third base? How have you learned to make it with consistent success?—Dennis Belcher, Jonesboro, Ill.

● Coming in on a bunt, I learned the play by constant hours of practice.

FOR JO ANNE WORLEY, of tv's "Laugh-In"

Where did you get that booming voice I hear on "Laugh-In"?—Mrs. D.L., Waco, Texas

● I guess my loud voice came from calling pigs and cows when I lived on a farm in Indiana. One thing about it: people respond to you immediately.

FOR DON SAMUELSON, Governor of Idaho

Is it true that Idaho is the only state over which a foreign flag has never flown?—Mrs. Clara Hill, Langdon, N.D.

● No nation owned the Oregon country before the southern portion (of which Idaho is a part) became part of the United States in 1846. Oregon and Washington share with Idaho this distinction of never having been under a foreign flag.

FOR ROBERT D. MORAN,

Administrator, Wage and Hour Division, U.S. Dept. of Labor

What should I do if I feel I have been discriminated against in getting a job because I am over 40 years old?—Mr. J. R., Los Angeles, Calif.

● The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 protects persons between 40 and 65 years of age from arbitrary age discrimination in employment by employers, employment agencies, and labor organizations. It prohibits discrimination based on age in hiring, discharge, promotion, and other conditions of employment. Any man or woman in the protected age bracket who feels he has been discriminated against should contact the Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Department of Labor by mail, telephone, or personal visit. Offices are listed in the telephone directory under Department of Labor in the U.S. Government section.

FOR ROBERT W. HAACK,

president, New York Stock Exchange

What has been the biggest money-making stock in the Exchange's history?—Del Latcepi, Huron, Wash.

● It is impossible to determine the biggest money-maker out of all the thousands of stocks that have been listed on the New York Stock Exchange since its founding in 1792. Appreciation, stock splits, cash, and stock dividends all relate to total earnings. Over the years, of course, a number of stocks listed on the Exchange have appreciated enormously in value. One stock, for example, has gone up from 1 1/2 to an incredible 115 in a 10-year period.

New Cancer Test This year it is finally possible that most of the 42,000 new cases of uterine cancer occurring each year can be detected early enough to reduce deaths dramatically. This form of cancer is potentially one of the most curable but, until now, not easily detectable. An Alabama gynecologist, Dr. L. Clark Gravelle, Jr., of Birmingham, has devised a detection method, called the Gravelle Jet Washer, which can be conveniently used in an ordinary pelvic examination in the doctor's office, without surgery. Test results can be known within a day. A dis-in Lausanne, Switzerland, which is held only once every 25 years. Then the city of Zurich bought it to grace a lakefront area. But what's it all about? FAMILY Weekly got some answers direct from the Swiss Tourist Office: "The interpretation of its meaning is 'a mockery of today's technology.' When Eureka first arrived, the citizens of Zurich reacted with 'frightening'—a disgrace," as well as approval: 'wonderful; shows initiative.' By now, however, most everyone has learned to love it." Perhaps the most succinct comment came from the caretaker-guard who oils it and switches it on: "Noisy."

Collar It Correctly Used properly the flea collar is a great boon, but improperly used, both you and your dog may suffer, according to "Gaines Dog Research Progress." Some animals develop slight skin redness or even lesions. Some humans develop a mild poison-ivy type rash after close contact with pets wearing flea collars. Tips: check your pet's skin the first few days of collar-wearing. Don't fasten it too tightly. Don't wrap it around twice, solely intending to be "doubly sure."

Lori, from Chatsworth, Calif., where she ranked first in her senior class of 800, sums up her philo-

Bobby Sherman? Ask a Teen-Ager

Youngsters know all about this actor-singer—from his love of animals to his shoe size

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

Not long ago, Scholastic Magazine conducted a poll asking student readers what three Americans, past and present, they admired most.

Surprisingly, the name Bobby Sherman cropped up as No. 1, out-ranking U.S. Presidents, social leaders, and other newsmakers.

Since the name Bobby Sherman had but the slightest familiarity as the Jeremy, one of the stars of the now-defunct television series "Here Come the Brides," I couldn't understand such adulation.

When I mentioned it to my family, my 14-year-old daughter all but accused me of heresy. Her report read: 1. He's a nice guy. A real "winner," as they say. 2. He's an actor. 3. He has been on several different tv shows, usually musical shows. 4. He's going with a girl named Patti. 5. He has three albums out. 6. He loves animals. 7. He's little. 8. He wears size 8½ shoes.

With this rather fragmentary information, I went to see Bobby at a modern home high in the hills above the Sunset Strip, overlooking Los Angeles, Beverly Hills, and the ocean. It belonged to Bobby's manager, Ward Sylvester.

Bobby, born 24 years ago in Santa Monica, Calif., turned out to be a long-haired, neat, pleasant, and well-versed young man who easily and self-assuredly discussed himself, music, or any subject that came up.

To start with, he elaborated on the points made by my daughter. As far as being a "winner," he said: "My success is due to some very groovy people I've been associated with, both on 'Shindig,' which I did for two and half years for ABC-TV, and 'Here Come the Brides.' Most of all, I attribute it to the kids who bought my records and sent in all the fan mail."

As for the albums, his manager pointed out that he has earned three gold records, "Little Woman," "La, La, La," and "Easy Come, Easy Go," and a gold album—"Bobby Sherman." He has also broken concert attendance records across the country.

Typical was a concert at Disneyland that was attended by up many screaming teen-agers that tables had to be piled up on top of one another for Bobby to stand on so that he wouldn't be crushed in the melee. Even so, after 80 youngsters had been injured, a second performance had to be announced.

Bobby agreed that he loves animals. He does wear shoes size 8½. He's five feet, nine inches, which isn't all that short. As for "Patti," he appeared in a photo layout with her in a fan magazine a couple of years ago and hasn't seen her since.

"That's how rumors start," he said, adding that he's neither in love with her nor any other girl and has no plans to get married for the time being because he feels that, at this stage of his career, he could not devote enough time to marriage.

Looking back at what influenced his career most, Sherman notes that he does not come from a musical family. "My father owns a dairy. When I first decided I wanted to go into show business, both my parents said that if that was my goal, they'd back me 100 percent."

Bobby always had the bug for performing. In high school, he played in the dance band. (He plays 10 instruments—drums, trumpet, guitar, bass, French horn, trombone, piano, organ, sitar, and harmonica.) When he finished high school, he wasn't convinced he could make a career in show business and enrolled in Peirce Junior College.

One day, a girl he was dating asked him to go to a party to which she'd been invited by Sal Mineo and Natalie Wood. "Jane Fonda and a lot of other celebrities were there as well. There were a few guys from my high-school dance band who had formed their own little group. They said, 'Come on—we don't have a singer. Do a couple of numbers.' I did, and we just clicked. The next day I got a phone call from Billy Belasco, who became my first agent. He introduced me to the producer of 'Shindig,' and after I auditioned for him, I was signed for 26 shows." He was on his way.

Other than his 1962 Rolls-Royce, there is no pretentiousness in Sherman's life. He lives in a comfortably but simply furnished one-bedroom apartment in Hollywood, has a maid who comes in once a week, and does his own cooking. "I can survive on one meal a day—dinner. Cooking is my way of relaxing."

Bobby, who feels he has limitations as a singer, wants to be recognized and respected as an actor. Between his regular tv series, he made a number of guest appearances on shows such as "Honey West," "The Monkees," and "The FBI."

"I've done a lot of studying, but I like the on-camera education best. It has been a good break that till now, I've never had to carry a show and have been working with some great pros. I've learned a lot from the crews and the casts, enough to know what a long way I still have to go as an actor. But that's what I want to be—a good actor."

Tricia Nixon Speaks

Tricia Nixon looked at me and her stormy blue eyes shot angry sparks. "I'm distressed that what I thought was a private conversation was being used as publicity."

The scene was a quiet corner of the State Dining Room. Across the room her father was shaking hands with guests who had come to the White House for Sunday religious services. In the center of the room were long tables heaped with breakfast cakes and rolls. But Tricia wasn't having any. She was not hungry. She was, instead, glad to get a few things off her chest relating to the image that Finch College girls had given her as an aloof girl who didn't know what was going on outside her window and didn't bother to look.

"Of course, I'm intensely interested in what my generation feels about Cambodia and other things. It's just that I feel there are better ways to get a point across than to shout slogans—that's the easy way."

But the 24-year-old daughter of the President of the U.S. wants it known that she did know what was going on, that she does look outside the White House windows, that she feels strongly about peace, but that she also happens to agree with her father's viewpoint on the need to wipe out the enemy supplies in the Cambodian sanctuaries.

"But nobody asks how it's going," she said, shaking her head sadly. "As you see, it has been going well. But not once do students ask about it."

Tricia told how she had received a phone call from two Finch girls who had come to Washington not long ago to demonstrate against American involvement in Cambodia. They were the only two persons of the 100,000 college demonstrators who tried to see her. She invited them into the White House and exchanged views.

"But I was hurt to see they used it as publicity. (They held a press conference immediately on leaving here.) I thought it was understood that it was private. Not only that, but they closed their ears and told only their side to the press.

Most damaging was their appraisal of Tricia as "hostile" and someone who hides herself away in an ivory tower, so to speak, and who is so callous that she would not report their thinking to the President.

"Yes, I did tell my father about our conversation," Tricia assured me. "Of course I did." Then she made her big point regarding how she feels college students should make themselves felt and heard. "You can write your Congressman, write pamphlets, write letters to newspaper editors, and appear on tv panel shows."

As to whether Congressmen pay attention to what youth wants to know and to be known, Tricia is sure of this from personal experience. "When I was a junior, I worked that summer for Sen. George Murphy of California, and my principal job was to open mail. Even if we only sent a form letter in answer, we kept careful count of what the writers were thinking and whether they were for or against the Senator's policies."

Though Tricia smiles easily and enjoys very much the closeness of the First Family's life at the White House, there is a certain sadness and poignancy about her when she reflects that she has not been understood by the public and especially the country's youth.

For one thing, she has been given such nicknames as "Little Princess," "Alice in Wonderland," and "Little Miss Muffet," which do not sit too well. The former started out as a gag by her sister Julie, but Tricia feels it has gone too far. Tricia does not want to be set apart or viewed, as mentioned, as "that girl in the ivory tower." True, she does wear Princess-like dresses, flowing ribbons, and bows under the chin, but she feels strongly that she is dressing properly for a small girl. She is only five feet, two inches and weighs 92 pounds. She feels she would look out of character in sophisticated clothes.

The fact that she favors pink in dress and décor also is pointed out as being "girlish." But after all, didn't Jacqueline Kennedy favor pink, too—to the extent that one shade of it was even named for her. Actually, Tricia wears other colors as often as she does pink.

Tricia's life breaks easily into two parts—the official and the private. The private she keeps very private and even secret. The public part she cooperates in fully and seems to relish. Especially if children are involved.

A recent ground-breaking ceremony is a case in point. She arrived early, waited patiently for her part in the program, and afterward stood around signing autographs.

But when it comes to answering personal questions, Tricia does not hesitate to say, "I'm sorry, that's my private life." Reporters who try to follow her around must scurry to see for themselves whether a young man slipping away in the background is Ed Cox or John Finger, Jr.

Edward Finch Cox is the one who made headlines when a columnist reported the President and Mrs. Nixon were opposed to Tricia's marrying him because he wasn't "really special" like David Eisenhower but just "an ordinary nice boy."

Friends of the Coxes went on record in a hurry to point out that the Harvard law student was not just an ordinary boy but a direct descendant of Robert R. Livingston, who helped draw up the Declaration of Independence and administered the Oath of Office to another President—George Washington! His only crime, they maintained, laughingly, was that he had joined "Nader's Raiders," young liberals who help Ralph Nader poke into Government to see whether the consumer is being adequately protected.

Mrs. Nixon, when she saw the column, said, "I never heard of such a crazy thing. I approve of all her friends."

Even Tricia broke her vow of privacy to comment, in the presence of this reporter. "It didn't brighten my day. I don't mind reading articles when they are true, but when they are fallacious, that's another story."

But again she lowered the curtain of secrecy and would not tell whether it was Ed Cox who would be attending her next party. "That's my private life," she said softly.

John Finger, Jr. is a New York University law student, who used to have the inside track with Tricia before Cox came on the scene. But Tricia and he still are good friends. They met some years ago. John's mother is prominent and was a great fund-raiser for Nixon in the 1968 election.

Young Cox met Tricia through

his mother, the very social Anne Finch Cox, who arranged for her son to escort Tricia to the International Debutante Ball. That was when the Nixons moved to New York, after the President's unsuccessful California gubernatorial race.

Tricia is just as secretive about girl friends. It is known that she likes to have them come and visit her at the White House and stay for lunch, but they are not identified to the press.

"I don't want them to feel uncomfortable," she says. She even feels that way about the little children she tutors as a volunteer of the Urban Service League. They come and they go at the White House, but not even their names are revealed. "I don't want them over to feel they are being exploited for publicity," Tricia explains. But she does admit that through her three little grade schoolers she is learning a lot about life in the ghettos.

Because she enjoys privacy so much, Tricia does not feel at all "lonely" when she is in the seclusion of the White House mansion. She enjoys her own company. Reads a lot—magazines, books, and newspapers. Collects porcelain—both animals and human figures. Reads her mail—she gets 150 letters a week.

There is a great tenderness in Tricia, which keeps her from wanting to hurt anyone's feelings. Even when her sister Julie called mid-lengths "ugly" and "dowdy," Tricia, who agreed, refused to use harsh words. And once, in defense of those who wear mini-mini dresses—which she also dislikes and never has worn—she said, "I don't think that's important. Just so long as people are clean and well-combed, it doesn't matter."

In spite of the image that Tricia has acquired as a "plastic type" girl, easily swayed, and a "yes" girl to her parents—this is far from true. Often her parents wish she would say "yes" more often. Frequently, she turns down their invitations to attend social functions or church services there and insists on a life of her own.

Even her views on Vietnam and Cambodia, those closest to her agree, stem not from the fact that she particularly wants to agree with her father but because he has truly convinced her that his policies are right. Father and daughter have many long conversations and arguments about politics and policies. And Tricia, as a history major, is able to quote him chapter and verse.

The President often seeks Tricia's opinion on things at bedtime and, in fact, a Nixon tradition is to throw open a current problem of the day and let each person around the table take a crack at solving it or suggesting a policy. The President encourages everyone to offer his own views, but he also uses his own powers of persuasion sometimes to try to make them change their minds.

President and Mrs. Nixon are driven in golf cart by Tricia on California visit.

Tricia's trip to the British Isles for the Investiture of Prince Charles was one of the highlights of her life, and she enjoys talking of it. "I'm a great Anglophile. The investiture was a once-in-a-lifetime experience. I had such a wonderful seat and watched all of Prince Charles' expressions as he became Prince of Wales and felt I almost knew him."

But so modest and low-key did Tricia play her visit that she did not actually get to meet Prince Charles. But that will be corrected this week when the Prince comes with his sister, Princess Anne, for a visit with Tricia at the White House. But this does not have romantic meaning to Tricia. As she puts it, "Prince Charles is my sister's age." But when pressed, she adds, "Of course, it is possible to be attracted to a boy younger than yourself."

Julie could be said to be Tricia's best friend. Tricia suffers when her younger sister cannot be with the family at holidays. The quiet and slightly introverted Tricia, everyone agrees, is closer to her father, and Julie, who is more extroverted, is closer to her mother.

Tricia feels not a pang about her younger sister marrying first and kids by saying, "I'm not old enough to get married." But when she is serious, she adds, "A person just knows when she's ready for marriage." In Tricia's case, that could be any time and without warning and may even be announced as this goes to press. But the White House press aides shrug and say, "There's nothing in the wind."

But for now, Tricia claims to be perfectly content with her life in the White House as long as it doesn't impinge too much on her privacy. Even so, she doesn't complain about it as Lynda Bird Johnson did or play tricks to escape the Secret Service as Luci Johnson did.

No, Tricia contenta herself with trying to escape recognition or notice when she travels around town or to visit friends in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston. And she gets a big kick out of that.

"Being a President's daughter is just like life," Tricia says. "It has its advantages and its disadvantages. You have to work to have privacy. You really don't have a life of your own, but that's little compared with the positive aspects."

Deep Fried Chicken

Chicken to be deep fried may be precooked in simmering salted water (enough to just cover chicken) in a tightly covered saucepan for 15 to 20 min., depending upon size of pieces. Chicken is then removed from broth, drained, and patted dry. After dipping in batter (see Batter-Fried Chicken), pieces are fried, one layer at a time, in cooking oil heated to 360°F. (the deep fryer or kettle should be $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ full of hot oil). When well browned on all sides, 5 to 7 min. of frying, the pieces are removed from oil and drained on absorbent paper. Temperature of oil should be 360°F. before adding more chicken.

Oven Fried Chicken

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter or margarine
2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in pieces
A seasoned flour blend (your choice); see recipe for Fried Chicken

1. Put butter or margarine into a large, shallow baking pan and set in a 425°F. oven until melted.
2. Meanwhile, mix ingredients for seasoned flour in a shallow bowl or pan; blend well. Coat the chicken pieces generously with the mixture.
3. Remove pan with melted fat from oven and place chicken pieces, skin side down, in one layer in the pan. Return pan to oven and cook about 30 min. Turn pieces over and cook about 15 to 30 min., or until the chicken is tender and browned.

Deep Fried Chicken

Chicken to be deep fried may be precooked in simmering salted water (enough to just cover chicken) in a tightly covered autoclan for 15 to 20 min., depending upon size of pieces. Chicken is then removed from broth, drained, and patted dry. After dipping in batter (see Batter-Fried Chicken), pieces are fried, one-layer-at-a-time, in cooking oil heated to 360°F. (the deep fryer or kettle should be $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{3}{4}$ full of hot oil). When well browned on all sides, 5 to 7 min. of frying, the pieces are removed from oil and drained on absorbent paper. Temperature of oil should be 360°F. before adding more chicken.

Favorite Fried Chicken

Fat for frying
2 broiler-fryer chickens, cut in pieces
1 cup biscuit mix
1 teaspoon tarragon leaves, crushed
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon seasoned salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon seasoned pepper
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon garlic powder
Evaporated milk (undiluted)

1. See recipe for Fried Chicken, step 1.
2. Combine biscuit mix with the dry seasonings in a shallow bowl or pan; blend well. Dip the chicken into evaporated milk and then coat with the seasoned biscuit mix. Beginning with meaty pieces, put chicken, skin side down, in hot fat in skillet; turn to brown.
3. See recipe for Fried Chicken, steps 3 and 4. About 8 servings

Orange-Batter-Fried Chicken

2. Add chicken pieces and brown over medium heat, turning to cook evenly. Meanwhile, combine pancake mix and orange peel; blend well. Mix orange juice with the egg and beat until blended. Add to dry ingredients and beat until batter is smooth. When chicken is tender, remove from fat; drain on absorbent paper. Season with salt and dip pieces into the batter.
3. See recipe for Batter Fried Chicken, steps 3 and 4.

About 8 servings

Lemon-Flavored Chicken

Follow recipe for Oven Fried Chicken; do not melt butter in pan. Dip uncoated chicken pieces into a mixture of $\frac{1}{4}$ cup melted butter or margarine, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup all-purpose oil, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon seasoned salt, and $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon Tabasco, then coat pieces with flour. Look What's Happened

An extensive national survey shows this once-maligned figure is taking on a happy new image

If you know any good mother-in-law jokes, you may have to revise the punch lines now because the old jokes may not be true any more.

It used to be when people complained about "mother-in-law trouble" they were usually justified. Some mothers-in-law earned the reputation for interfering, being possessive or demanding, or maybe all three.

Now, however, in a never-before-published survey, the Family Service Association of America, which has more than 300 member agencies in 271 cities here and abroad, has come up with some exciting new in-law data.

"It's clear that not all mother-in-law troubles are caused by mothers-in-law," says the FSAA.

"Instead, a significant part is unintentionally caused by the younger members of the family who assume that mothers-in-law are unpleasant people who probably deserve to be distrusted. A set idea like that," they insist, "is a definite irritant—and a long way from the truth."

The FSAA's new study indicates the old-fashioned, stereotyped mother-in-law has to a large extent disappeared. In her place, they have discovered a new kind, one who often labors to build rather than destroy her children's marriages.

"Yet," concludes the FSAA, "there's one puzzling fact. Though mothers-in-law as a group really are changing their behavior, too few other people are noticing and reacting to what's happening."

That's why the agency is anxious to pass on its findings. They may help to prevent many kinds of mother-in-law friction in the future.

To draw together its information, the FSAA headquarters in New York sent specially compiled mother-in-law questionnaires to selected member agencies in various cities all across the United States.

Promptly, the director of a Wisconsin agency wrote back: "I really hadn't thought too much about it before. But now that you mention it, I am happy to report that we agree: mothers-in-law are changing, and for the better."

The story of Mrs. Frank Hildin, myrs a California researcher, is typical. When her husband died, Mrs. Hildin moved to an attractive garden apartment. Unlike most mothers-in-law of other generations, she could continue to pay her bills with the good amount of life insurance left by her husband, plus survivor's pension from his company, and his Social Security payments. Also, new attitudes on the part of society during the last 30 years made it possible for her as an older woman to seek a job outside her home if she wanted. With all this financial support, she managed nicely and did not have to depend on her children as women of the past were usually forced to do.

In fact, when her son was automated out of his job and lost four months trying to find another, Mrs. Hildin was able to lend the young couple money at no interest for their mortgage payments.

The "new" mother-in-law has activities of her own, no need to sit, unwelcome, on the fringe of family activities.

QUIPS AND QUOTES

When a young lady looked down at the puddle at a curb and wondered how she was going to cross it, a man walked up to her, took off his coat, and gracefully spread it over the puddle for the woman to walk on.

She was enthralled. "Are you some kind of knight in shining armor?" she asked. "No," was the reply: "I'm some kind of nut in a muddy coat." —Robert Brown

"What have you to say about this?" asked his father.

The president of a large corporation was making his yearly swing around the country to visit the company's various plants, and at one he found some eager-beaver plant manager had assembled all of the executives, down to junior grade, in a large room to greet the boss. Just as the president stepped into the room, the enthusiastic plant manager jumped up and proudly gave him an introduction far more appropriate than the visitor wished. "Gentlemen," he exclaimed, "we're indeed fortunate today—we have the latest dope from the head office!" —Dan Bennett

"My husband's casual pat on the cheek turned into a tender caress."

“As he had so many times lately. Fred came into the kitchen and greeted me with a casual touch on the cheek. Then I felt his hand linger longer than usual — and suddenly he was caressing my cheek! I had to say, ‘Don’t... the children are watching.’ This was the day after I first treated myself — and my skin — to Renaissance Turtle Oil. 99

Mrs. F. P., Congers, N. Y.

What brought something new into this woman's life? Surely not just the new product she discovered. More important was her realization of the effect the years had had on her skin... and her life. And the decision to do something about it.

It's true, isn't it, that we live so closely with our own skin that we don't take notice of what's happening to it until it's too late. Gradually, over the years, the softness that was so inviting disappears. The suppleness that makes you seem so yielding vanishes.

No wonder certain types of women (reported on in the New York Times of February 6th, 1969) spend thousands of dollars to try and keep their skins soft to the touch, youthfully fresh. (And their husbands probably pay the price gladly!)

No wonder cosmeticians have been searching for years for a simple, inexpensive way to restore the skin's youthful vigor. For a formula that would make dry, rough, flaking skin soft and smooth again, combat the effect of the years, the damage done by soap and sun, heat and wind.

Found! Hidden Under the Hard Shell of a Sea Turtle

All the while the answer was there. Hidden under the hard shell of a sea turtle. The revolutionary skin softener they sought.

Refined over and over, concentrated in a dainty pink creme that vanishes gracelessly in an instant, new Renaissance Turtle Oil Creme does the impossible. It not only vanishes roughness, dryness, flakiness, it makes your skin look and feel as moist and dewy soft as a teenager's. This is the first time you use it! Then, in succeeding days, your face — even your hands, knees, elbows, every and any part of your body — takes on an irresistible vibrancy, a subtle yielding quality that shouts, "Touch me!"

That's because Renaissance Turtle Oil Creme is not like any lotion, potion or cream that you have ever used. By emollient, lubricating and moisturizing action it seems to wipe away, the effect of years, wipe away dry, rough, coarse, flaky skin. It's as though your skin was a plant and Renaissance Turtle Oil Creme the fresh, clear water it needs to survive.

Youthfully Soft Skin

Or Your $3.00 Back by Western Union!

Now we don't expect — or want you — to take our word for this. Or even to be satisfied by the experiences of the thousands of women who have put Renaissance Turtle Oil Creme to the test. No. We are introducing our Turtle Oil Creme on an absolutely no-risk basis and will WIRE your money back by Western Union if you're not completely satisfied with the results the first time you use it.

You must see your skin youthfully lovely. Rough, dry, flaky areas must have disappeared completely — everywhere: Crow's feet, frown lines, wrinkles must be softened and appreciably less noticeable. Most important, and more intimate, the dramatic change in your skin should make a corresponding change in your life. You must feel more desirable. Feel new tenderness in his touch. Or send us a collect Western Union telegram and your money will be wired back immediately.

All Aboard for a Vacation Cruise

Getting under way on vacation cruise

With all of today's emphasis on air travel, it's no wonder many think of a vacation trip by ship as something reminiscent of bygone days.

But actually, ship cruises are enjoying a revival.

Timid travelers, at first nervous about spending their "entire vacation afloat," soon realize that cruises have nothing in common with the mental image so many have of foggy ocean days, rough seas, and boredom.

Actually, today's ocean voyager is more likely to "trip out" in floating diacothèques, gorge himself on delectable meals, swim both in indoor and outdoor pools, or engage in a myriad of activities available on board:

Best of all, the ships of today are products of modern technology. They have special stabilizing fins to help you forget the waves, special lookout centers for the nautical type. There are de luxe staterooms (some with floor-to-ceiling windows), bars, lounges, and walkways which afford impressive views of the sea.

With the growth of popular air travel to Europe, the big ship lines such as Cunard, French Line, and North German Lloyd have gone into the cruise business. For example, the new Queen Elizabeth II makes holiday-time cruises to the West Indies. The Norwegian American Line has a North Cape-Northern Europe cruise to such places as Ireland, Norway, Russia, and Germany.

For those who prefer Southern Europe, the S.S. Rotterdam, a member of the Holland-American fleet, starts at New York and travels to the Mediterranean, with stops in the Caribbean and in South America.

The most popular cruises, however, are geared to "fine-weather" areas such as the Caribbean and the Pacific.

It was with this foreknowledge that my family—wife Dabby, Randy, 17, Matt, 15, Heidi, 13, and I set out to enjoy a cruise vacation. Living on the West Coast, we felt it easier to travel aboard one of the many cruise ships whose voyage would begin in Los Angeles, literally in our own back yard. We decided to travel to Mexico aboard the S.S. Princess Carla, one of the two Princess Cruise ships.

When a family of five contemplates spending 12 days together, their ship-board environment is no small consideration. On board, one of the first things we noticed was that the Carla did more than simply provide food for her passengers. She treated them to gourmet dishes.

Between meals, there were countless activities: deck tennis, skeet shooting, the traditional shuffleboard, bingo, even slot machines!

A camaraderie among the ship's passengers developed almost immediately. There were people of all ages on board, from the very young to retired couples, a goodly number of newlyweds, and lots of single passengers who brought the romantic side of our crew to light.

Nor are the passengers' activities limited to the ship. Most cruises are aimed at allowing voyagers ample time in foreign ports of call.

On our cruise, we visited Puerto Vallarta, recently discovered by the jet set. It has not lost its isolated atmosphere, however, and remains a tiny, picturesque village surrounded by hundreds of miles of wilderness and jungle. Large green iguanas (it was the movie location for "Night of the Iguana.") are still among the town's most prominent curiosity.

A short launch trip up the Talayta Inlet brought us to Talpa, with its thatched huts and rustic isolation. Here we divided our time between the sandy shore of a luke-warm lagoon—and a trek through an old Indian village.

Our last stop aboard the Carla was Mazatlan, an active fishing village up the coast from Acapulco. It was a good place to shop (far less expensive than Acapulco), to fish, and, if you were in the mood, to see a bullfight. After all the land touring, it was a pleasure to get back on board and enjoy the cruise home.

Cruises are within the reach of most travelers. On our cruise, cabins (including all meals and activities) ranged from $395 for an inside cabin to $1,325 for a super-de-luxe suite with living room and two baths.

During a six-months period, there are more than 370 different cruise sailings listed from U.S. ports. Prices range from $175 aboard the Bergensfjord, a Norwegian cruise ship sailing to the Caribbean, to about $3,310 for a world cruise aboard the S.S. President Roosevelt!

When considering a cruise, you can pick and choose from an almost unlimited number of itineraries. Pack up your sea bags, gather your family, and cruise to faraway shores.

Whether you are under 65 and have regular hospital insurance—or over 65 and eligible for Medicare—it will pay you to read the facts about the American Republic® Direct Cash Plan.

Discover how you could go to the hospital and come out with money "left over."

What if you should wake up to find yourself flat on your back in a hospital bed—and be there for weeks or even months? Think of all the things that $2,000 or $8,000 or $13,000 in extra spendable cash, over and above your hospital insurance, could mean.

Cash to make mortgage payments. Cash to buy food. Cash to meet car payments—pay for child care—buy gasoline—buy school clothes.

The American Republic® Direct Cash Plan can pay you badly needed cash every week you are in the hospital, for up to a full year.

This service of American® is designed to go hand-in-hand with Medicare—or any other health insurance you may now have.

Now pays up to $262.50 a week!

Protection under the American Republic Direct Cash Plan is available in individual protection "units." Each unit pays you $62.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $7.50 a day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to illness OR accident... as much as $13,687.50 for a full year if you have the "5-Unit" Plan.

And best of all, no matter which Plan you choose, you get all these advantages:

• Cash is paid direct to you. It is yours to spend any way you please... and it's tax-free.

• It is LifeGuarded® Protection. This means it is Guaranteed Renewable. It can be yours for life as long as you make timely payment of your current premium. It can NEVER be cancelled by the Company because of age, health or number of claims. The Company can change applicable table of premium rates.

• Pays in addition to any other insurance carried with American Republic or any other company. Even pays in addition to Workmen's Compensation, Medicare or any group plan.

• You are covered during any hospital confinement for any accident sustained after your policy is issued, and for any sickness that first manifests itself after 30 days from the date of issue. Unless, of course, your hospital care is due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work, or when you are in a U.S. Government or Veterans Hospital.

• NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION, regardless of your age—and there is NO AGE LIMIT.

Protection That PAYS

According to latest 5-year figures, American Republic returned a greater percent of premium dollars to policyholders in claim benefits than any of the other Top 40 insurance companies offering individual accident and health insurance.
