7 Youngsters Dead As Bus Slides Off Slippery Highway

By VINCENT LIPARI
ALLENTOWN, Pa. (UPI)—"Slippery when wet," said the diamond-shaped yellow road sign alongside Interstate 76 between the little Pennsylvania towns of New Smithville and Grinnville. It was raining shortly before 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Carolyn Stottler, who lives one mile past the sign along the highway on what she called a bad curve, said "We have one or two accidents a month—every time it rains a little bit."

When she "heard a tremendous crash while I was ironing I knew it must be another accident. But when I ran outside I sure wasn't prepared to see what I did."

The blue and white bus, chartered by the plush Hillside School Day Camp for Jewish children at Lawrence, N.Y., a wealthy New York suburb, was filled with 61 persons—two drivers, 10 counselors and 49 boys and girls 11 and 12 years old on an overnight outing to the Pennsylvania Dutch country.

Moving along Interstate 76, the bus failed to negotiate the curve by Mrs. Stottler's house, spun on the wet highway, ripped through eight guardrails, and plunged 50 feet down the shale embankment, turning over repeatedly and coming to rest on its side.

The impact split the bus, popping the windows. Children were hurled out the openings, screaming.

Pennsylvania state Trooper Robert Clarkson, off-duty at a local gas station when he heard of the crash, was the first policeman on the scene.

"There were children on top of the bus, on the embankment, in the bus, lying about in the grass and in the creek. There was just no place to start."

Seven of the children died in the crash. Fifty-two others aboard the bus were injured, several critically.

Clarkson said motorists stopped to help, but "there was a larger number of people who didn't help. They stood by and watched and took pictures."

"But until the other policemen got there the motorists and truckers were a great deal of help. They tried to comfort the children, to stop the bleeding with towels and plunkets. Some wore bleeding very badly."

He said the truckers brought hydraulic jacks to help lift the bus—so rescue crews could reach the children trapped beneath the vehicle.

"The last girl that they got out that was alive was pinned under the bus," he said. "I understand she had lost a leg. Most of the kids who were pinned under the bus were dead."

"The kids were all screaming and crying. Most of them were in shock."

When word of the accident reached the school, parents rushed to the modern brick and glass building. Some were crying, some near hysteria. Others sat in stricken silence.

Strike In England Closes 40 Ports

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Edward Heath summoned his cabinet today to draft emergency measures and authorize the possible use of troops in the first national seaports shutdown in 44 years.

Britain's 47,000 longshoremen struck all the country's 40 ports Wednesday for the first time since the 1928 general strike. They did so to back an 80 per cent pay hike demand after rejecting an employers' offer of about 7 per cent.

Jack Jones, leader of the Transport and General Workers Union which represents 85 per cent of the longshoremen, said "we are prepared for a long strike."

George Tonge, chairman of the National Port Employers' Association-Executive, said all talks are off so long as the strike continues.

Faced with its first major crisis—and possible disastrous repercussions on the country's lifeblood export trade, the new Conservative party government moved quickly to keep vital supplies moving.

The cabinet's emergency committee met at the House of Commons Wednesday evening to discuss possible action. It was reporting to the full cabinet at 10:15 Downing St. this morning.

Only if there seems no chance of an early settlement, officials said, will the government proclaim a state of emergency and take special powers under it to ration key commodities, use troops for unloading vital food supplies and adopt other crisis measures.

Resort Defenders Retreat

By ROBERT KAYLOR
PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian troops rushed to an ammunition depot at Klong Vok today to fend off a costly counterattack against guerrilla soldiers who seized the mountaintop resort village Saturday.

A military spokesman who announced the retreat disclosed that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese units attacked a government ammunition depot at Long Vok, 30 miles north of Phnom Penh, this morning and fighting was continuing at last report.

Rate Increase Hearing Starts

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Public Utilities Commission resumed hearings Wednesday on Idaho Power Company's application for a rate increase.

The utility contends increased revenue is needed if earnings are to be sufficient to attract capital for financing expansion of the firm's generating and distributing capacity.

The commission said it hopes to conclude hearings this week. It has spent more than five weeks hearing testimony, interrupting it to handle other business from time to time.

Nixon Expects Better Times

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is optimistic the nation's sagging economy will pick up later this year despite a continuing dip in the closely watched index of industrial production.

The president received decidedly optimistic reports from seven of his top economic strategists during a late afternoon meeting Wednesday. Afterwards White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Reagan said Nixon is "very optimistic about the economic outlook, plus Labor Secretary James P. Hodgson, Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans and White House counselor Robert A. Mayo to discuss business conditions. The quadrumvirate Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns, Secretary David M. Stockman and Deputy Secretary of the Council of Economic Advisors

Testimony Given In Panther Trial

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—A witness in the kidnap murder trial of Black Panther Lonnie McCluscas testified she saw Alex Rackley taken from Panther headquarters by the defendant.

Toward the end of Wednesday's testimony, Loretta Luckes, who pleaded guilty to conspiracy and kidnaping in the case, said she was at the home of Warren Kimbro, a fellow Panther, and she saw Rackley and McCluscas there. The house served as the Panther headquarters.

She testified pots of boiling water were in the kitchen and said she saw McCluscas, with blood stains on his white pants take the water from the kitchen down to the basement.

Kidnap Reward At $16,500

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—The father of kidnaped Laurie Murningham says a $16,500 reward will go to anyone, including the kidnaper, who brings about his daughter's safe return.

"If the person who abducted Laurie releases her and turns himself into the police, the reward would become his legal defense fund or rehabilitation fund, or it could be paid to his family," said former Lansing Mayor Max E. Murningham.

Murningham made another televised plea Wednesday for the return of his pretty, blonde 18-year-old daughter, kidnaped a week ago during the holdup of a gift shop where she was a summer clerk.

The gunman pistol-whipped the owner of Gullagher's Gift Shop, stole $60 and abducted the girl. Neither had been seen since.

Although 885 tips had been turned in to police by Wednesday afternoon, Police Chief Donald Husty said, "We're not finding the pieces of the puzzle at all."

Shot Kills Sleeping Infant

NEW YORK (UPI)—A shot fired through the first-floor window of a Bronx apartment early today killed Oswald Vargas, 3, asleep in his crib.

Police later arrested a neighbor, Ruben Rodriguez, 30. Detectives said Rodriguez fired his 30-30 rifle from his third-floor apartment across the street when he thought he heard an intruder. They said he dropped the rifle out the window after firing. Rodriguez was charged with homicide.

The child was shot in the back while he slept. He was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Suspended Worker Kills Three

By EDWARD S. LECHTIZIN
DETROIT (UPI)—An Army veteran, angry at being suspended from a Chrysler Corp. axle plant only a month after leaving the unemployment rolls, returned to the factory two hours later and killed three workers with an M-1.

One of the victims was the foreman he felt was responsible for the disciplinary action, witnesses said.

James Johnson Jr., 35, carrying an M1 he had smuggled into the plant, walked around the factory and yelling "Get the hell out of my way," fired between 8 and 13 shots while running down the narrow corridors between conveyor belts, parts bins and machinery, police said.

He found his first victim, Hugh Jones, 44, the foreman who had sent Johnson home for refusing to obey an order, in the brake shoe department. Johnson fired several shots from the semiautomatic weapon, police said, and Jones, a Chrysler employe for 23 years, fell dead in front of a time clock.

"I was standing right there watching him when he shot this guy (Jones) five times," said Edward Kasey, 31, who was standing about 40 feet away. He was standing right over him, pumping bullets into him."

Johnson, witnesses said, then ran down an aisle, turned to the left and shot his second victim, Gary Hinz, 32, another foreman, who died in the midst of bins of brake shoes.

The next fatal shooting, that of Joseph Kewalick, 45, who was standing next to a welding machine, followed a struggle for the weapon between Johnson and an unidentified worker who was yelling "Get the gun."

Three other workers in that section of the Eddon Avenue plant suffered minor injuries to a head, a hand and a leg as the range of fire, plant officials said M. J. Ellis, a job setter, said he heard noise, turned around and "saw this guy with a gun and I ducked. That's what most of the other fellows did."

A United Auto Workers shop steward, Johnny Moffet, 33, said he captured Johnson after the weapon ran out of ammunition and Johnson tried to leave the plant. Plant security men forced Johnson over to police, who held him for investigation of murder.

Johnson's sister, Marva, 23, said her brother, an Army veteran and former employe of the city of Detroit, purchased a .30-caliber M-1 in 1964, "for protection" because burglars had broken into his home several times.

Fire

WILLARD, Utah (UPI)—A chartered bus carrying 49 teenagers from New York and New Jersey caught fire on U.S. 89-81 near here Wednesday and was nearly destroyed. None of the passengers was injured.

Police said the bus, which was chartered by the Educational Tour of America, had been stopped on the roadway by driver Villeneuve-Fernand, 58, Montreal, Canada, for repair of a flat tire.

Fault Line Will Not Hurt Utah

HUNTSVILLE, Utah (UPI)—An ancient fault line located near Pine View Dam in northern Utah poses no serious landslide threat but is potentially dangerous, a Utah Geological Survey geologist said Wednesday.

Bruce Kalliser, who toured the area earlier this month, said the fault is presently inactive and probably would never move again.

The potential slide area is located about one mile east of the dam, above State Highway 162 and north of the narrow neck of the reservoir.

In a previous dispatch, United Press International erroneously reported that a landslide would likely occur as early as next year or the following.

Kalliser said the fault, which has weakened rock structures above the reservoir on the north side, is not a "normal fault" but a "thrust fault," or one that is horizontal rather than vertical.

Great Earthquake Damage Expected

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The next great earthquake in the San Francisco Bay area will kill an "inestimable" number of persons and cause property damage in excess of $30 billion, a state legislative committee predicts.

The legislature's Joint Committee on Seismic Safety told a news conference Wednesday there would be damage from Santa Rosa to Hollister, that several high-rise buildings would topple and that some dams would break.

Committeemen noted that major quakes can be expected every 60 to 100 years, although they can not yet be accurately predicted.

The San Francisco quake of 1906, the most damaging to a city in United States' history, was followed by a three-day fire, and resulted in 452 deaths and a property loss of $500 million.

Sen. Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose, the committee chairman, said his group would develop a program to minimize the

Comedian

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Movie comedian Harold Lloyd was reported in good condition at St. John's Hospital today following a kidney operation.

Lloyd, 76, entered the hospital late last week.

The comedian, who appeared in 300 films from the silent era of the 1920s through the beginning of talking pictures in the 1930s, made lenseless horn-rimmed spectacles a film comedy staple. He has been in semiretirement for several years.

effects of future quakes along the San Andreas Fault.

He predicted recommendations would include restrictions on land use, since quakes strike hardest at structures on filled land.

Cambodia Thrust Was Aid

SAIGON (UPI)—The chief of staff of the U.S. Army, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, said today the Allied thrust into Cambodia has robbed the Communist command of any ability to mount a major offensive in the Southern half of the Vietnam War zone.

"The enemy does have the capability in the Northern areas," the former commander of American troops in Vietnam told a news conference upon concluding a five-day inspection visit. "Whether he will or not, I don't know."

Westmoreland said "the decision to move into the enemy sanctuaries in Cambodia... is one of the most significant benchmarks in the history of this conflict. It had and continues to have a profound effect on the security of the (Mekong) Delta and of the III Corps area (around Saigon)."

"I don't believe it is conceivable that the Communists have the strength to launch a major offensive in the Saigon area, the III Corps area or the delta," he said. The areas he mentioned compose the Southern half of South Vietnam.

As for the northern half, Allied headquarters has said it expects a guerrilla offensive there since the area borders Laos and was not fully affected by the Cambodian incursion.

"The enemy has dispatched his forces" fighting in Cambodia and Laos," Westmoreland asserted. "It would be difficult to concentrate his forces, but he can do this."

This was the four-star general's first visit to the war zone since he turned over the Vietnam command in 1968 to Gen. Creighton W. Abrams.

"I am quite encouraged by what I've seen," he said, citing a "trend that has been going on in the progress of the so-called Vietnamization Program coinciding with the American disengagement."

S. Korean Officials Protest

SEOUL (UPI)—The South Korean National Assembly voted its unanimous opposition today a U.S. troop reduction in Korea "in view of the ever increasing danger of a renewed armed attack from the North."

The assembly adopted a resolution addressed to the United States saying the proposed withdrawal of 20,000 of the 64,000 American troops in South Korea would "invite the bellicosity of the North-Korean puppet regime."

The resolution said the present level of U.S. forces was necessary "in view of the ever increasing danger of a renewed armed attack from the North and of the fact that the North Korean Communists, while insidiously concentrating all their efforts on strengthening their armed forces, have been intensifying provocative actions on an effort to communize the entire nation by force during the years of the 1970s."

Korean Defense Minister Jung Nae-huk and U.S. Deputy Defense Secretary David M. Packard will meet in Hanoi, next week to discuss the issue.

The assembly said the United States had promised when South Korea sent troops to Vietnam it would modernize and augment the South Korean army's equipment and would build up the country's military supply industry.

"The United States of America should materialize its promise before taking any steps of the reduction plan, its repeated pledges made in 1966," the assembly said.

Utah Bid For Roads Refused

By ELMER W. LAMMI
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate refused Wednesday to permit the state of Utah to build roads within the Canyonlands National Park and the Glen Canyon National Recreation Area.

The proposal by Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, was rejected by a vote of 41 to 37 before the senate approved bills to expand the national park and to authorize the new recreation area in southeastern Utah. The other bills were approved on a voice vote.

The Bennett amendment was opposed by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, who said he was sure the roads would be built by the National Park Service at a savings of $41.6 million for Utah.

Bennett supported the bills by his democratic colleague but said he feared the 100 miles of roads would not be built if the state were not given authority to build and maintain them.

The rejected amendments would have authorized the state to build a 106-mile road from a point near Glen Canyon Dam to Bullfrog Basin, and a 60-mile road from Hite to a point near Moab.

Chairman Alan Bible, D-Nev., of the Senate national parks subcommittee, urged Senate opposition to the Bennett amendments, and said the National Park Service had a "strong mandate" to build the roads.

Plea Made To Save "Clouds"

An appeal for salvation of the White Clouds area from mining activities was heard Wednesday by Twin Falls Rotarians in a program presented by Ernest E. Day, Boise Rotarian and a member of the Board of the National Wildlife Federation. Stated plans of the mining companies, he said, are that they would remove some 20,000 tons of overburden per day if they start actual operation at the site at the base of Castle Peak.

This, Mr. Day said, would create a hole as large as Anderson Ranch Dam in the 15 or 20 years they anticipate the ore will last, leaving a "Lake Samuelson," as he termed it, a mile-and-one-half long. The name of the lake was a reference to Gov. Don Samuelson's statements in support of the mining company efforts.

Mr. Day accompanied his talk with a series of slides of the area, which he called a "magic carpet trip across the White Clouds."

The White Clouds area is south of the Salmon River between Stanley and Clayton, and lies between U.S. Highway 93 through Sawtooth Valley and the East Fork of the Salmon River.

NEW OFFICERS OF THE Twin Falls Rotary Club

Crisis

The railroad industry seems to be engaged in a game of "Can You Top This Crisis?"

federal government's inconclusive experience in an earlier effort, in 1963, are not encouraging to hopes of a settlement.

With A Moral

A California woman recently found a rattlesnake in a flower box. In the modern fashion, she notified the police.

Some people, and this includes Lawrence O'Brien, the Democratic national chairman, suggest that we are spending far too great a proportion of our tax income on defense and defense-related activities.

Moral: If we don't do things for ourselves, we'll pay dearly in money to have them done for us, and never mind the time delay between arising need and final action.

MR. SPECTATOR

Is It Killing Us?

How many of us do not complain at some point or another during the scorching days this time of year that the heat is killing us?

In fact, among natural hazards summer heat is second only to its exact opposite, extreme cold of winter, as a death cause, exceeding the toll of lightning, hurricanes, tornadoes, floods and earthquakes.

AN AMERICAN

Heads up, an American is passing by! That's what I want people to say when I go to a foreign country. Being an American is being able to be free. Not free to burn the flag, burn draft cards, or to riot, but free to practice what we preach, the Seven Freedoms.

Cuba's Fidel Castro shook up his cabinet by replacing the head of the sugar industry and the minister of education. It's obvious why Fidel's sugar man got the ax — not enough sugar.

Freeing Jimmy?

WASHINGTON — In what Congressional committee aides describe as a "highly unusual" call, the Justice Department telephoned both House and Senate Labor Committees recently to check progress of a bill that would deny imprisoned James Hoffa the legal right to run for reelection of the Teamsters Union — thereby easing the way toward his release from jail.

The House Labor Committee has not even held hearings. A footnote: Journalist Clark Mollenhoff, whose investigative reporting helped put Hoffa behind bars, has told friends that the possibility of Hoffa's release is one reason among many others why he quit as a White House aide.

ANDREW TULLY

Doing It Bad

WASHINGTON — Whether he wants me or not, I stand foursquare with Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., who is trying to tell us that the government is doing something else bad to the people who own this country — namely, us.

Ervin, who may be the nation's no. 1 expert on the Constitution, is disturbed vocally and in print over a nasty situation in which Federal cops and security and intelligence agencies have compiled a mountain of computerized files on hundreds of thousands of law-abiding Americans.

standards I long ago should have been stowed away in some gamey horsebox, there to have my fingernails yanked out, one by one, and my kidneys mangled with a rubber hose. Scanning the guidelines, I have all but decided to dress up like a reator, steal John Mitchell's passport and hump it to Canada.

Persons who seek to "embarrass" officials protected by the Secret Service; those who "insist upon personally contacting high government officials for the purpose of redress of imaginary grievances, etc."

Weakness

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes myasthenia gravis and at what age? Is there any known cure? Do drugs wear off and become ineffectual?

Is it better to exercise to the limit of endurance or to rest? If the respiratory tract is affected, will a person probably choke to death or is the heart more likely to fail first? — N.W.

Myasthenia gravis is a difficult disorder of the functioning of muscles. Basically it is a defect in the transmission of nerve impulses. These impulses do not reach the muscle fibers adequately. As a result, muscle weakness is the chief symptom — a "sleepy expression," due to drooping of the eyelids, often is the first visible symptom. Anyway, extreme fatigue occurs from muscular activity.

The cause of the disease is not known. In older men, it has been theorized that a disorder of the thymus gland is involved. However, results from removal of the thymus had not been consistent. (Some reports indicate that the disease is easier to control in women under 40 if the thymus is removed.)

be remembered that, if the disease becomes more pronounced, the drugs may not be able to cope as adequately with it.

Dosage is adjusted to give the most desirable results, but it may have to be increased in the event of infection.

The degree of muscle weakness, in conjunction with the degree of effectiveness of the drugs; will determine one's endurance. Fatigue lessons with rest; hence pushing oneself to maximum activity is not in order.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Some friends were recently compelled to wear safety glasses while on the job. Can these weaken the eyes of people who have never worn glasses of any kind? The glasses are a nuisance to people who have never worn glasses. — B.O.

BERRY'S WORLD

Let me get it straight, General! We've turned the corner in Vietnam, or here in the Pentagon hallway?

treasurer of the club's real estate board, and Mrs. Marjorie Hawes, chairman of the real estate board. The funds came from the club's real estate and trust fund. Interested in civic affairs and young people, the club also is giving $100 to Harbor House and $100 to the Governor's Heritage of Wheels program sponsored by Mrs. Don Samuelson.

"Mystery In The Market"

The Lighter Side
By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) —
As the consumer protection measures pending in Congress is a bill to require food processors to stamp freshness dates on their packages where everyone can read them.
At present, the date when a product becomes too old to be sold is printed in code.
Supermarket clerks decipher the code and supposedly remove the product from the shelf when it passes the freshness date.
But if a stale product remained on the counter, the customers would never know it.
At least not until they got home and tasted the stuff. For the only way consumers can determine the relative freshness of food products is by breaking the code.
Examine it closely and you will find that this situation has all the elements—mystery, intrigue, etc.—of high melodrama.
The first publisher who brings out a book titled "I Was a Cryptographer for the A&P" probably will make a fortune.
Or, if you prefer movie thrillers, here's a scenario I've been working on:
The scene is the code room of the Maltese Falcon supermarket. Bertie Flunker, chief cryptographer, who closely resembles the late Peter Lorre, is routinely stamping code numbers on kumquats, which closely resemble the late Sidney Greenstreet.
Suddenly the secret panels open and into the room bursts Jonathan Flanksteak, head butcher, who closely resembles the late Humphrey Bogart.
"Flunker!" he gasps.
"Someone has broken our brisket code!"
"God, man!" Flunker ex-claims, blanching. "You must be mistaken. What aroused your suspicions?"
"I put a batch of August briskets in the meat counter, carefully covered by July briskets, whose freshness date expires in two weeks. They look identical in the clear plastic packages. But the customers pushed aside the July briskets to get at the August briskets.
That wouldn't have happened if they didn't know the code."
Flunker gives a low whistle.
"Sounds fishy, all right. Any clues?"
"It has almost got to be an inside job, I think you had better call in counter-intelligence."
"Right. Where is counterintelligence located?"
"On aisle 3 next to the canned fruit."
Well, I don't want to give the whole plot away, but I'll give you a hint. Keep your eye on the nude checker who closely resembles Raquel Welch.

After War Was Over
The War of 1812 Battle of New Orleans was fought after a peace treaty had been signed. Gen. Jackson's riflemen turned back a force of British regulars, saving the Mississippi Valley from invasion. The battle occurred two weeks after the treaty had been signed, but the news had not reached the Gulf Region.

Child Development Center Sets Class

The Twin Falls Child Development Center will be holding a two-week seminar for volunteer workers from July 20 through Aug. 3, Director Paul Burnett said Wednesday.
The seminar will give the workers an inside view of the agency and how it works. It also will help workers understand child growth and behavior and techniques used in dealing with handicapped people. The seminar will be under the direction of psychologist Fred McCabe, and classes will be conducted by the staff.
The staff of the center has begun evaluating case records of children with impaired adaptive behavior and will begin therapy when the center opens Aug. 3. These children are mentally, physically or emotionally impaired and need professional aid to overcome their problems.
Case studies are prepared by all staff members, with each member adding the knowledge obtained from his field of study.
In September the staff members will go into public schools in eight counties, upon the school's request, to screen out children with hearing, speech, psychological and educational problems, Mr. Burnett said.

U.S. Artist Is Recuperating

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass. (UPI) —Famed American artist Thomas Hart Benton is recuperating at Martha's Vineyard Hospital after suffering a heart attack at his summer home on this resort island.
Benton, 81, of Kansas City, suffered the attack July 5 at his summer home in Chilmark, one of six towns on the island.
A hospital spokesman said today Benton was "much improved" and was expected to remain in bed "a few days more."

Gold was discovered in Australia in 1851.

Swims Adriatic
VENICE, Italy (UPI) — Fulvio Bergamini, 27, finished swim- ming the 74 miles between Trieste and Venice Sunday in 33 hours and 27 minutes. He was accompanied by boats tooting their horns. Bergamini ate 70 eggs, 6 1/2 pounds of steak, 13 pounds of soup, gallons of tea and a dish of spaghetti during rest stops in the water.

First Atom Bomb Explosion Recalled

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a first-person account of the world's first nuclear explosion, set off at Alamogordo, N.M., July 16, 1945. Dr. George B. Kistiakowsky, now known as "Abbi" and James Lawrence, Professor of Chemistry at Harvard University, was chief of the explosives division of the Los Alamos Laboratory of the Manhattan Project which developed the first atomic bomb. Years later he became science adviser to President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

By DR. G. B. KISTIAKOWSKY
As Told To:
Cathy Press International

...the conference was over. Dr. (Donald) Hornig (now president of Brown University) since he was responsible for the electrical firing unit for the explosive part of the bomb, was the man who actually fired the fatal button. I had nothing more to do so I got outside the bunker, frankly not believing that the bomb would be as powerful as it actually was.

We really had no idea. The whole thing was such a wild experiment in those days. I had dark glasses. I was worried, of course, that the flash would be very bright. It was just before sunrise... so I stood with dark glasses over my eyes and looking away from the bomb.

The flash from the bomb illuminated the desert and the surrounding mountains so brilliantly that it actually blinded me for probably five or 10 seconds. The flash was incredible, even compared to the brightest noontime sunlight.

When my eyesight recovered, I could see this enormous mushroom rising up from the point of explosion and a violent glow filling the sky. The sound came only a minute later. It wasn't really a sound. It was just a sudden blast as if a gust of a hurricane hit me.

I think all of us realized that it was a very, very momentous event and that the whole balance of military power shifted from conventional weapons into a new area. But I don't think many of us thought that only 25 years later we would have a situation where the two superpowers of the world continue to be engaged in an absolutely ruthless, interminable nuclear arms race controlled, really, only by their economic resources.

I think all of us realized that it was a very, very momentous event and that the whole balance of military power shifted from conventional weapons into a new area. But I don't think many of us thought that only 25 years later we would have a situation where the two superpowers of the world continue to be engaged in an absolutely ruthless, interminable nuclear arms race controlled, really, only by their economic resources.

When my eyesight recovered, I could see this enormous mushroom rising up from the point of explosion and a violent glow filling the sky. The sound came only a minute later. It wasn't really a sound. It was just a sudden blast as if a gust of a hurricane hit me.

DISPLAYING A FEW examples of his hobby is Robert Gillespie, who builds scale airplanes, but operates them by remote control.

He's Skilled And Remains On Ground

Flying is strictly a hobby for Robert Gillespie of Twin Falls. At an altitude of 300 to 1000 feet, this skilled pilot from the ground, can maneuver his aircraft into loops and rolls at a speed less than 60 mph.

Mr. Gillespie flies a true scale air coupe with a wing span of 60 inches which took him approximately four months to build from a kit that contained nothing more than a bunch of lumber. It's got electric motor, receiver, servos, and a remote control transmitter, also assembled by Mr. Gillespie, which regulates the throttle, rudders and wheel of the plane.

His hobby is his life. He flies on Sundays at McCall with a group of model plane enthusiasts. In trying out maneuvers together, they play "follow the leader" which is about as daring as it gets, said Mr. Gillespie. He pointed out that each model displayed a colored flag to identify it. Being a pilot, he is a close-minded person. "If this hobby is so interesting, why don't you try it?" he said. "When you're doing this, you're not doing anything else. It's just a hobby, not a job."

Good Grammar Better Than Taste Of Cigarette

By RICK DEBROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—I was watching the All-Star baseball game on NBC-TV Tuesday evening, and on came the cigarette commercial that makes me cringe in embarrassment for the infatuation behind it.

You know the one I mean—the one that tells you that this particular butt tastes good "like a cigarette should."

In its latest heavy-handed mockery of the English language, the commercials have some healthy physical specimens jokingly intimidate the apparently educated types while moronically asking them whether they would rather have good grammar or good taste.

The good taste being referred to, of course, has nothing to do with the tone and atmosphere of the commercials, which are common and gross in their celebration of coarse values.

No, the taste that the commercials refer to is the taste of the cigarette. And, in the interests of fair reporting, I smoked several of these cigarettes to see if they were such an aphrodisiac that they could make one discard good grammar all for the love of a puff.

Frankly, I have had proper grammar and good taste in my hand, but I have never had both at the same time. I know a good grammarian and a good taste, but I have never had both at the same time. I know a good grammarian and a good taste, but I have never had both at the same time.

East Germany Now Controls Site Of Historic Potsdam Conference

BERLIN (UPI)—East German school children look in awe now upon the round table where U.S. President Harry S. Truman, Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin and British Prime Ministers Winston S. Churchill and Clement Attlee sat during the 1945 Potsdam conference. The aims and results of the conference, as the children hear it from their Communist guides, is not necessarily the way the Western allies would see it. But the site is an historic one, and the children are awed and solemn when they see it. Small American, Soviet and British flags are in the center of the table, and others hang from the walls in the main conference room in the Hohenzollerns' Cecilienhof-Palace in Potsdam's New Park. The rooms in which the three victorious powers held their "Berlin conference"—Potsdam lies only 17 miles south and west of Berlin and that was the conference's official name—have been converted into a museum by the East German government. Civic classes of East German schools visit often, as do older tourists. At the July 17-Aug. 2 conference 25 years ago, postwar problems were discussed, ranging from the treatment of defeated Nazi Germany, to United Nations membership, to disposal of Romanian oil equipment and other matters. But what was to be done about Germany was the main topic. This Aug. 2, the 25th anniversary of the signing of the Potsdam agreement, a monument will be unveiled in the palace to commemorate the liberation of the German people from "fascism" and the "historic contribution of the Soviet Union." But the palace, built in the style of an English major house during World War I by Crown Prince Wilhelm, already is a monument to Soviet aims in Germany. As East German school children will tell you, quoting their guides, Truman entered the conference with plans to dismember defeated Germany. But Stalin opposed this, saying, "Not the German people but the German government caused the war. The people must not suffer for the Nazi government's deeds." The children also are told that the Western allies split Germany and blocked implementation of the Potsdam agreement's provisions on de-

Nazification and demilitarization. This is a favorite theme of the East Germans and the Russians when they discuss the German problem. In fact, the Western allies after the war strictly enforced the Potsdam agreement's provision "to destroy the National Socialist party and its affiliated and supervised organizations, to dissolve all Nazi institutions, to ensure that they are not revived in any form, and to prevent all Nazi and militarist activity and propaganda." And the Russians formed their paramilitary East German police alert units (Beretschatten)—the nucleus of the East German armed forces—long before the West German army was established. But as with most agreements, you can read into Potsdam anything you want to. The Communists often assert that the Western allies have forfeited their right to occupy Berlin because of their alleged violations of the Potsdam agreement. But the word "Berlin" is not even mentioned in the agreement. It is contained only in the agreement's heading—"Protocol of the proceedings of the Berlin conference." The joint occupation of Berlin and the city's division into sectors were not decided at Potsdam but at Yalta in February, 1945, and at wartime meetings in London. "The Western powers blocked the Potsdam agreement's plans for German unification," say the guides as they stand next to a photograph of Attlee, Truman and Stalin taken at the end of the conference. But listen to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, who headed the American occupation regime in Germany, on this: "It soon became apparent that the Soviet government interpreted the (Potsdam) decisions very differently than did the British and American governments." "The Russians wanted to create conditions that would provide opportunity for Communist penetration and domination of German political life and economic resources." "We had struggled for understanding among the four occupying powers and found that it would result only from acceptance of the Soviet will to dominate Germany." Clay wrote in Decision in Germany, his account of his four years as head of American military government from 1945 to 1949. The Potsdam hope that there would be four-power administration of Germany never was realized. The dream ended on March 30, 1948, when Gen. Vasily Sokolovsky, the Russian military governor, set the stage for the Berlin blockade by walking out of the Control Council, the supreme occupation council. He never returned. For almost all practical purposes the Potsdam agreement is as dead as the Control Council. But it still is cited frequently on one major international matter—the Polish-German border. At Potsdam the final seal of approval was placed on the division of Germany into the zones which four years later led to the establishment of two states—the Western "Federal Republic of Germany" and the Eastern "German Democratic Republic."

But Potsdam also stripped Germany of ancient German territory. Russia annexed the northern half of East Prussia, including the capital of Koenigsberg, now renamed Kaliningrad. Poland got the rest of East Prussia and all German territory east of the Oder and Neisse Rivers. This included part of Brandenburg, most of Pomerania and all of Silesia. With regard to Poland's western frontier the West was confronted with a Russian fait accompli at Potsdam. At the Yalta conference President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Churchill had agreed to cede Russia all Polish territory east of the Curzon line. They also agreed that Poland would be compensated for the loss with German territory.

Anniversary Recalls Famous Art Forger

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UPI)—When "Hans van Meegeren" was arrested after the end of the Nazi occupation of Holland and charged with selling old masters to Germany, his defense provoked widespread disbelief.

He said the paintings he sold—certified by experts as genuine masterpieces by the 17th century Dutch masters Johannes Vermeer and Pieter de Hooch—were fakes that he had painted himself.

He added another sensation. He was, he said, the man who had painted "The Men of Emmaus," another verified masterpiece by Vermeer "discovered" in Holland a few years before the war, bought for 550,000 guilders, (then $292,000) by the Dutch Rembrandt Society and the subject of international interest at a special exhibition.

The art world of 1945—this is the 25th anniversary year of van Meegeren's arrest—was stunned by the revelations that emerged from his prison cell. He said he had begun his career of art forgery because he had failed to find recognition under his own name and wanted to show he was the equal of the old masters.

Still unconvinced, the art experts demanded proof. Officials in charge of the investigation allowed van Meegeren to return to his mansion on one of the Amsterdam canals to paint a "Vermeer" under the eyes of six witnesses sworn in by the court. Two months later van Meegeren put the finishing touch to "Jesus in the Temple," so much in the style of Vermeer that it convinced the watchers he could really have painted the six "Vermeers" and two "Pieter de Hoochs" he works of art.

Next to van Meegeren, the limelight fell on Dr. P.B. Coremans of Belgium. As prewar director of the central laboratories of the Belgian state museums, he had expressed doubts about the authenticity of "The Men of Emmaus."

Coremans, as chairman of the court appointed committee of experts, explained in detail how the committee concluded van Meegeren was right in claiming he faked them all.

At the trial, van Meegeren paid Coremans this compliment: "Your work is excellent. It is phenomenal. Due to bending them while they were your method of investigation, falsification of paintings in the future will become impossible. What you did, was even better than painting the Men of Emmaus."

He also said the signatures were the most difficult part of the fakes since they had to be right at the first effort.

He said he had worked for five years on this process. "It took hold of me in such a way I had to go on after the Men of Emmaus. And had to ask high prices, since otherwise the painting would have been judged false immediately."

The court sentenced him to one year in prison. Soon after the trial, van Meegeren became ill and was taken to a mental hospital where he died two months later, aged 58.

9-Year-Old Girl's Drawing Is Now Mural On Brewery's Wall

NEW YORK (UPI)—Robin Rock is nine years old, stands four feet, seven inches tall, weighs 89 pounds and is in love with a policeman.

She not only wears her heart on her sleeve for "one of New York's—Pinet—she has it emblazoned as a signed 40 x 60-foot mural in oils on the side of a building facing a busy Brooklyn street.

The king-sized mural evolved from a drawing assignment given to 20 classes at a public school in Brooklyn. The assignment was for 550 children to make their own crayon drawing conceptions of a "Safety in the Streets" theme.

Robin's work was titled "Always Obey Regulations From a Policeman." It depicts two children being guided by a "walk-wait" flasher street sign and a whistle-toting policeman at an intersection.

One youngster is shown declaring, "I love a policeman," with her companion registering an emphatic "Me, too!"

Rheingold Breweries, adjacent to the school, arranged to present $25 U.S. Savings Bonds to the students producing the three best drawings, judged by the school's art department and the local P.T.A. It also agreed to reproduce one of the winning efforts in oils in 40 x 60-foot size on the wall of a brewery-owned building.

It marked the second time the brewery has reproduced a neighborhood youngster's crayon drawing to mural size.

The 11th sign of the zodiac is Aquarius, the Water Carrier.

'BRITAIN'S MOST DANGEROUS MAN'

Powell Imperils Conservative Unity

By TOM CULLEN

LONDON—(NEA)—Enoch Powell, 58, Conservative member of Parliament, enjoys the reputation of being the most dangerous man in Britain.

It is Powell who introduced the explosive issue of racism into British politics, his critics contend. In the recent general election campaign, he repeatedly warned his countrymen that Britain's 1.5 million colored immigrants constitute "a threat of division, violence and bloodshed of American dimensions."

Dangerous or not, Powell is certainly the most fascinating of British politicians, making his party leader, Prime Minister Edward Heath, appear colorless by comparison.

Powell is, in fact, the chief thorn in Heath's side.

Heath, however, is troubled more by Powell's stand on the European Common Market than by his racist views. Powell is unalterably opposed to Britain's entry into the Common Market and in coming months is expected to sway a large section of Conservative opinion to his way of thinking.

With negotiations for Britain's entry already under way in Luxembourg, Powell's stand could embarrass the Heath government considerably. Worse, it could lead to serious disagreement among Conservative members of Parliament at a time when Heath's majority in the House of Commons is only 30.

The possibility of Heath being forced to call an early election, in effect asking the country to decide the Common Market issue, cannot be ruled out if the Powellite rebellion persists.

Powell, who is MP for Wolverhampton in the industrial North, opposes entry into the Common Market because, he says, it will mean a loss of British sovereignty and will hit the British housewife with higher food prices.

Like the racial issue, the question of whether Britain should join the Market's six Continental countries contains enough high-octane emotional controversy to fire the British public, particularly in the hands of someone as skillful as Powell.

For Powell is a demagogue as well as a fanatic. He is also a man of deep learning.

Dusty Black Blizzard

By ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA—UPI
Farmers called it the "black blizzard." It was one of the worst continuing dust storms in the nation's history and it created what has come to be known as "The Dust Bowl."
The "black blizzard" began 36 years ago, one of America's great disasters. For days on end the dust spread misery to millions throughout the drought-stricken western plains. There is a lesson in this for those fighting today's abuse of nature by man—Man-made desert conditions, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, created the dust storms.
The mammoth dust cloud measured 1.3 million square miles. Some of the dust came from desert-like areas, but it also came from what once had been considered farmland.
Thousands of acres in the plains states were too arid for sustained crop production. But the settlers gambled and natural grass was stripped by plows or torn by the hooves of cattle. Soil which had been building for centuries was depleted within a few years. Then came a "long stretch" without rain.
The drought was bad enough. In Missouri the pastures were bone dry. Farmers cropped trees so the cattle could eat the leaves. But while the drought was difficult, the dust was impossible.

A vast area, which included parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Texas and New Mexico, became the Dust Bowl. Soil from the region was whipped into the air day after day in 1934.
On a single day experts estimated that 300 million tons of rich top soil was lifted by the winds from the dust bowl. In places where there had been farmsteads there were sand dunes. The dust, like snow, drifted fence-high in North Dakota dust drifts blocked roads.
One Kansas wheat farmer, describing the "black blizzard," wrote that it "begins to blow with only a slight breeze, the wind increases its velocity until it is blowing at 40 to 50 miles an hour. Soon everything is moving—the land is blowing, the very sun is blotted out."
Little could survive in the gritty hell. Crops perished. Tending of livestock was out of the question. Then the people left.
There was an exodus from the dust desert, such as this nation had never seen. Families which could trace their claim to the pioneer days became migratory. Highways were cluttered with vehicles carrying all the possessions the refugees could pile aboard. Between 1935 and 1939 California alone received 350,000 "Dust Bowl" farmers.

Soil experts estimated that in the 1930s more than 9 million acres of good land was virtually destroyed by wind erosion. Almost 50 million more acres suffered serious damage.
"Coming in the midst of the great depression, the dust storm disaster pushed millions into poverty. Much of the nation had been knocked to its knees.
Then began an unprecedented campaign to salvage the nation's resources. In the spring of 1933, the Civilian Conservation Corps was created. The government enlisted 300,000 needy young men in the fight to restore the land. The forest service planted a shelter-belt of more than 200 million trees. Soil conservation rules were put into effect. Grazing on public lands was regulated.
Slowly, the devastated lands were made livable again. But the loss—measured in either dollars or misery—could never be erased.

White House Is Looking For Good Rock Band

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House has asked a rock band which will perform for Britain's Prince, Charles and Princess Anne to leave out their hit song containing the lines: "I don't need your war machines. I don't need your ghetto scenes."
The group is called The Guess Who, one of Canada's most popular, and the selection in question is titled "American Woman."
Helen Smith, press relations director for First Lady Pat Nixon, said the band had been asked to delete the song from its repertoire "as a matter of taste."
The Guess Who will play for an outdoor dance for the royal visitors at the White House Friday evening, along with an American rock group—Gary Puckett and the Union Gap.

18-Year-Olds Probably Cannot Vote In Idaho

By LINDY HIGH
BOISE (UPI)—Attorney General Robert Robson said today he does not have the authority to give 18-year-olds the vote in Idaho state elections and said he would hesitate to allow the youths to vote in federal elections at this time.
"I personally favor letting the 18-year-olds vote, but our Legislature didn't favor it when it had the bill before it," Robson said. "I'm not going to substitute my judgment for theirs."
U.S. Attorney General John N. Mitchell announced he had told states they have three weeks to assure the government of 18-year-olds will be given the right to vote under the new lower voting age law signed by President Nixon. Mitchell said those states not giving the assurance—and those states not responding—will face federal lawsuits.
Robson said neither his office or the office of the governor had been contacted. He added, however, it was his personal opinion "Congress cannot dictate to the state as to what voting qualifications will be in the state elections."
Robson said under Idaho's statutes the minimum voting age is 21. He said until that statute is overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court, the State Supreme Court or the State Legislature, he could not simply disregard existing statutes.

Robson said Mitchell was "asking for somebody to say no so he can get a test suit. He only is interested in one out of 50."
The lawsuit would go to the government a court test of the new lower voting age law. Mitchell said a court test could come before Aug. 30 if the lower age and on the requirement that states suspend literacy or "good character" requirements for voters.
Robson said Idaho not only does not have either literacy or "good character" requirements, but added the state will allow non-residents to vote in elections for President and Vice-President.
Robson said he would hesitate to allow the 18-year-olds to vote for federal officers until the constitutionality is settled.

Do Unto Others
BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—The chief attorney for the Louisiana Revenue Department has admitted to a committee investigating Mafia influence in the state that he did not file income tax returns for 1968 and 1969. Attorney Emmett Baton told the committee he owed the government nearly $200 for the two years but "I just was busy and didn't get around to offering the returns."

Washington Window

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives will have a new speaker in 1971, but there is no certainty that much else will change in what has been called "the institutionalized-insurrection."

House Democratic leader Carl Albert, Okla., is almost sure to succeed retiring Speaker John W. McCormack if his party retains control in the elections this fall. If the Republicans win the House, GOP leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., will have a virtual lock on the job.

Albert and Ford are different from McCormack and from each other. They are men of different generations, different regions, different political traditions and different personal traits.

But both prospective speakers share something with McCormack: They are "Housemen" — politicians who have subordinated the ambition to reach higher in politics to devote themselves to what is commonly regarded as the lesser of the two houses of Congress. They are fiercely defensive about the House and view with skepticism any ideas for changing the way it goes about its business.

Part of this is because they have experienced first hand the difficulties of trying to lead a group of 435 men and women, each responsible to a different group of citizens and each convinced that his or her solution to world and national problems is foolproof.

House rules and procedures are admittedly restrictive — the seniority system and strict limits on debate are two examples — but even so the membership sometimes "runs away" from its leadership. Albert and Ford could be expected to regard any sharp movement toward more democratic operation of the House as an invitation to chaos. They might be willing to make small changes, but thorough reform seems unlikely.

But there is something else either man would inherit from McCormack that would make it hard to change the House. McCormack was not a strong leader in his own right. He got his authority more from the "old bulls" of the House — committee chairmen and senior members — than from the short-termers who make up the bulk of the membership.

Under McCormack, especially since the Republicans captured the White House, committee chairmen have really become the powerful "Barons" described by Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., in his critical book, "House out of Order."

Under either speaker Albert or Ford, House committee chairmen are not likely to easily give up the power they gathered during the McCormack regime, although GOP control would give Ford the extra authority of speaking for President Nixon.

Joey Bishop Is Returning To Club Dates, Won't Do Talk Show Again

By VERNON SCOTT
UPIHollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—After two years and eight months as a talk show host on the air from 11:30 p.m. to 1 a.m., comedian Joey Bishop says he finds himself doing a show at home for himself.

Resting since the show left the air last November, Joey says, "I spend my time making picket signs for Jane Fonda."

"I don't miss the show but every night from 11:30 to 1 in the morning I automatically start talking or interviewing my dog."

"If I tell a funny joke or say something clever during the day I say to myself it must be 11:30 at night somewhere in the world."

Growing serious, Bishop said he wouldn't consider doing another talk show because there is nothing new he would have to contribute to the format.

"Those shows should be like the old town hall meetings. But that sort of thing wouldn't sustain because the number of people you can offend is overwhelming."

"To be successful," Joey added, "you have to do more than put celebrities on the air to get a rating."

Bishop will abstain video for the next few months. Beginning July 23, Joey hits the road, returning to club dates, which made him famous in the first place.

The tour will occupy five months of three and four-week stands.

"These are very short hops," Joey said. "I'll fly directly from one to the other in some cases. In other instances I can spend a few days at home between engagements."

It's been four years since Bishop has played a series of club dates. He isn't, however, disturbed about it.

"Look forward to an eyeball-to-eyeball meeting with a live audience."

Chet Moulton Gets National Air Hoñor

An Idaho aviation leader, Chet Moulton, director of Idaho's Department of Aeronautics, has been selected by the editors of "Flying" Magazine as "General Aviation Man of The Year."

Honored for his "many important contributions to safer and more pleasant flying in his state and for his 21 years of dedicated service to general aviation," Mr. Moulton was presented a large plaque by Robert Parke, editor and publisher of "Flying" during an air show in Reading, Pa.

Mr. Parke listed among the accomplishments considered in selecting the award winner were: Mr. Moulton's organization of the country's first state-sponsored search and rescue unit; promoting legislation calling for aerial-hazard and rough-terrain markers; the first state-supported airport courtesy cards; free helovms for pilots and his continuing airport construction program.

Through Mr. Moulton's efforts, the "airport in a day" construction projects have increased small community and resort landing strips from 30 to 469.

He served during World War II as a U.S. Air Force flight instructor and was appointed in 1946 as Idaho Aeronautics Director, a post he has held since that time. In 1967 he was selected outstanding state employe of Idaho.

Political Backing By Sinatra Is Significant

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Frank Sinatra's announcement of his support for California Gov. Ronald Reagan in the November campaign against California Assemblyman Jess Unruh is more significant than it sounds. Sinatra, a lifelong Democrat—whose mother was a party functionary in New Jersey—switched to Republican Reagan last week.

His announcement was greeted by a "so what?" response from Democratic Bigwigs, intimating that Sinatra's move was of little or no consequence.

Wrong. The singer's support of Reagan, whatever his reasons—and there are several themes from which to choose—could hurt Unruh's campaign in its most vital spot, the pocketbook.

Hollywood power has become an ever-growing element in national politics and especially in California campaigns.

While Sinatra's announcement and subsequent campaigning may not encourage any citizen to switch his vote, his participation in rallies, dinners, television shows and personal appearances will bring out crowds.

The crowds, in turn, will be donating money or buying dinners to support Sinatra's choice of candidate.

Moreover, Frank Sinatra has as many friends as anyone in Hollywood. Should he call on them, he could fill any stage with more celebrities than an Academy Award night.

There is no means of determining how much the singer raised on behalf of the late John F. Kennedy's campaign. But it was substantial enough that he escorted the new president's wife, Jackie, to the inaugural ball in 1961.

Assemblyman Unruh has said that he does not have the financial resources of Gov. Reagan. His party will trail the GOP in money for campaign newspaper advertising, billboards, television, radio and fund-raising events at which small and large contributors are made.

In addition to asking friends to help him campaign, Sinatra's involvement very possibly will still some Hollywood voices that might otherwise have spoken out for Unruh.

No matter how curious or difficult it may be for the layman to comprehend, Frank Sinatra is a powerful man in Hollywood.

He has bailed friends out of financial trouble, renewed careers, hired down-and-outers, given generously to the charities of acquaintances. His appearance at a dinner party or public event ensures success.

His support of Gov. Reagan is a boon to the GOP in California. It will not enhance the prospect of Assemblyman Unruh and the Democrats of California.

Forty Painters Do Good Deed

NEW YORK (UPI)—Forty members of a painters' union gave up their usual Saturday off to paint a building for retarded children.

The members of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America gave a workshop of the Association for the Help of Retarded Children every day and noticed how badly it needed painting.

They decided they could give the retardates a brighter outlook by donating a day of their time and the supplies to refurbish the building.

TIEDE reports:

Antismokers Switch Rather Than Fight

By TOM TIEDE

NEW YORK (NEA) — You are sitting in front of your television set, sucking a 100mm, filter-tip menthol, and the man of the screen announces that cigarette smoke contains tar, nicotine, hydrogen cyanide, nitrogen dioxide, acrolein, aldehydes, phenols and carcinogens, whose combined effect can kill you.

You get nervous. And well you should.

Trouble is, though, many smokers subjected to the anti-smoking commercials get so nervous their response is counterproductive. They become so worried they relieve the anxiety by—you guessed it—lighting up another 100mm.

(This discouraging paradox has been observed in repeated surveys. Says a spokesman for the American Cancer Society: "We've gone as far as we dare trying to scare people out of smoking. By now, everyone knows the dangers. So it's no good just bawling them over the head.")

Instead, the fight against tobacco is taking a new and more subtle direction, appealing to ego rather than emotions.

Milton Robertson, of the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, explains it:

"Smoking has always had a romantic, sophisticated image. Like Humphrey Bogart taking a long drag just before a love scene with Lauren Bacall. We want to destroy this illusion and make smoking out to be an ugly, socially unacceptable drag."

Robertson directs the radio-television office of the TB Association. His job is to come up with punchy, appealing commercials that will make puff a "four-letter" word.

Some examples: A guy at breakfast opens his morning paper and knocks his ashes into his coffee; a woman playing bridge drops her cigarette into the lemon meringue pie; a lovely young mother feeding her baby absent-mindedly crushes her cigarette into the child's cereal spoon.

"The thing is to make people laugh at the habit," says Robertson, "and at the same time make them think about how stupid it is. We'd like to reverse decades of thinking about smoking. We'd like to turn it from a mature thing into an immature thing. We'd like to reach a time where:

if a guy lights up in a crowded cafe, other patrons will make him feel like a crude, imposing bum."

Antismoking officials believe their campaign has already put smokers on the defensive and point to these developments as evidence:

Some print shops report sales of "No Smoking" signs have increased substantially in the past few months; airline companies are setting aside "no smoking" sections in the new 747 jumbo jet; the federal government is seriously considering a tobacco ban on interstate transit; three pro hockey teams banned spectator smoking at home games last season; legislation is pending in several states to stiffen penalties for violators of smoking laws; several television personalities have refused sponsorship by tobacco companies; many businesses have removed ashtrays from their office-waiting-rooms; a few companies have even offered cash bonuses to employees who give up smoking.

One Cancer Society official, himself a smoker, says the force of this trend was brought home to him recently when he lit up a cigar in a Chicago haberdashery. "Someone handed me a printed card. It read: 'If you want to kill yourself, go ahead. But do it somewhere else. No smoking!'"

Encouraging as all these actions are to misocapnists (tobacco haters), they do not mean unqualified success for the campaign to change the smoking image. In the critical area of youth, the campaign is failing utterly. The rate of smoking among 14-18-year-olds has jumped alarmingly in the last year.

Nevertheless, the campaign is moving into higher gear, and authorities are optimistic. Per capita cigarette consumption is at its lowest point (11.1 per day per person) in a dozen years. And the National Clearing House for Smoking and Health estimates that two to three million people a year are quitting.

"We hope," Robertson says, "that we can make smoking as noxious to the public as spitting in the street. Years ago, it was very popular to spit in the street. Then we found out it transmitted tuberculosis. So we started a campaign to make spitting ugly, unhealthy and unpopular. We succeeded. I think we'll do the same with smoking."

Geisha Girls Seek Social Security

By SADA O IWASHITA
TOKYO (UPI)—The life of a Geisha girl in Japan can be very nice. But what if she becomes ill, or age withers her beauty? Then who takes care of the Geisha?

All this being the case, Japan's famed Geisha girls are lobbying to be included in the state's social security benefits. Somehow, intentionally or otherwise, drafters of Japan's social security law managed to exclude the Geisha from every benefit.

included their wives in parties, and Geishas are professional entertainers to provide feminine companionship during drinking and eating parties. Geishas are trained to sing classic and modern Japanese songs, play the samisen (a three-stringed instrument plucked with an ivory plectrum), tell jokes, play finger and hand games with guests, and discreetly keep secrets of state and business which might come to their ears. In the old days, girls were selected in childhood to be trained as Geishas. Nowadays some girls go into the profession after they enter their teens and consequently lack the traditional depth of classical training. Geishas never have been prostitutes, but most of them were prepared to become mistresses of men with money. Geishas belong to a master who runs a sort of Geisha stable. Restaurants call for Geishas to serve and entertain dinner parties held in private rooms with guests seated on tatami (straw floor mats). Kikuya said recruiting new girls into the profession would be easier if the government would assure them future security.

Indian Squaw Believed 'Inventor' Of Syrup

One of the better known Geisha house owners in Japan, Kikuya (her professional name) thinks this is unjust. "Geisha houses do not pay any pension to girls who retire," she said in an interview. "Nobody cares for them when they get ill. They have to pay doctor bills. A Geisha has no income if she cannot work or retires. If we can offer fringe benefits they will be happier." Geishas (the word translates literally "art girl") are women who serve as hostesses at Japanese dinner parties. Traditionally, Japanese men never ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Just in case you've ever wondered how maple syrup was discovered, the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets tells an old tale about an Indian squaw and her husband. "The squaw, so the story goes, left her cooking pot under a tree where her brave was napping so that when he awoke he would take the hint and go to the spring and fetch water.

But the brave, angered because getting water was a chore for women, drove his tomahawk into the tree in a fit of temper and walked away. The tree happened to be a maple, so sap ran into the pot. The next morning the squaw found the pot, thought it was filled with water, and boiled it over her fire. As evaporation took place, she found she had made a sweet syrup. Anyway, that's how the story goes.

HONG KONG (UPI)—Tuberculosis remains the No. 1 infectious disease problem in this British colony of 4 million persons. Statistics released by the Medical and Health Department for the week ended May 23 showed 192 cases of tuberculosis out of a total of 270 cases of 12 types of infectious diseases.

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks were sharply higher in moderate volume at the market Thursday, with most of the demand stemming from some better-than-expected second quarter earnings reports.

Outboard Marine Corp. was the day's most active issue as a result of a block of 170,000 shares changing hands at 13 1/4. Salmson Brothers & Hutler handled both sides of the transaction for institutions.

Other stocks on the active list included National Cash Register down 2 1/4 in 110,000 shares, Col Industries of 1 1/4 on 81,000 shares, Litho up 1/4 on 67,000 shares, Ronn Selection Trust off 1/4 on 67,100 shares, and Gulf Oil 1/4 higher on 57,700 shares.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, the blue chip barometer, rose 12.05 to 723.71.

The UPI market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a gain of 1.10 per cent on 1,478 issues, averaging the top of 500 pointed higher and 293 declined.

A three-hour turnover of 7,600,000 shares compared with 5,400,000 shares at a similar period Wednesday.

Q—We understand there are some unusual rules to observe when buying Japanese stocks. Can you enlighten us?—T.O.

A—I presume you're referring to the U.S. interest equalization tax on foreign investments and the Japanese government's validation requirement. These technicalities need concern you if you confine your purchases to stocks which trade here through American Depository Receipts (ADRs). Some 20 of these are currently available; their trading levels take into account the U.S. tax (11.25 per cent) and the shares available fall within the 20 per cent limit imposed by Japan's Finance Ministry on foreign investment in any one company.

If you buy shares on a Japanese exchange from a Japanese owners you must add to their cost the U.S. tax and have them properly validated. Ordinarily a validation certificate is given to the foreign buyer when the shares are delivered. But if heavy trading shows an increase of foreign buyers the validation certificate must be secured in advance and may even be withheld. All told, wouldn't it be simpler to stock the ADRs?

Q—My investment club purchased Photon at 13. Is this stock worthy of averaging down for long-term growth potential?—R.F.

A—Management at Photon continues to be cautiously optimistic about financial results for 1970. A profit was earned in the first quarter—a period when the firm usually operates at break-even levels at best. Since the company began the year with a record $2 million-plus backlog, sales for the first half should be at an all-time high. Moreover, earnings are expected to exceed the $521,288 or 13 cents a share reported for the first six months of 1969.

Company products—the Fontmaster 532 is enjoying strong demand and the new 7700 Typographic-Peripherals Printer has thus far been well accepted. The latter represents Photon's first entry into the computer accessory field. Receivables have been reduced to around the $1 million level. And the $2.5 million wildcard patent suit award from Eltra Corp. enhances prospects. Speculative shares should be retained but not added to.

New Trial Panel Asked

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A new panel of 48 prospective jurors was called into the Tate murder trial courtroom Wednesday to be drawn upon in picking the six alternates who must be selected before opening statements can begin.

The new venire brought to 199 the total number of citizens who have been summoned for possible duty in the case against Charles Manson and three codefendants in seven slayings of the Sharon Tate and Leno LaBianca homes a year ago.

The 12 regular jurors, sworn in Tuesday, were to be locked up in hotel rooms Wednesday night—the beginning of a sequestration expected to last more than three months. They are being isolated to prevent their exposure to publicity during the trial. The picking of the alternates was as tedious a proceeding as selecting the regular jury, which took a month. The prospective alternates were ushered one by one into the chambers of Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older for questioning on their suitability for serving. A number were dismissed immediately because of the expected personal hardship of being locked up so long. The judge and lawyers also questioned them about whether they were unalterably opposed to capital punishment. It was not believed the prosecution's opening statement would be made at least until the same time late next week.

Auto Workers Make The Rounds

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers opened the 1970 round-of-contract talks with General Motors Corp. Wednesday and began presenting demands that could ease the auto industry more than $3 billion over the next three years. Leonard Woodcock, president of the UAW, and Earl Bramblett, GM vice president in charge of personnel, expressed hope that a settlement could be worked out without a strike. Woodcock said he hoped "we can reach a noninflammatory, equitable settlement and can do it without a strike."

for the benefit of our employees, the consumer and the entire American community," he said. Woodcock indicated the UAW considers restoration of the pre-1967 cost-of-living formula a top issue. He refused to say whether it might be a strike issue. Flanked by his team of negotiators, Woodcock arrived at the GM building in mid-morning, shook hands with Bramblett and promised his presentation of the union's position papers would be completed quicker than ever before. He will repeat the performance Thursday at Ford Motor Co. and Friday at Chrysler Corp. Bramblett said the company negotiators would begin presenting counter proposals next week, the earliest in recent auto talks that the company has come up with a counter proposal. Once the preliminaries are completed, the union and company bargainers will begin the arduous task of reaching agreement on new, three-year contracts to replace the old pacts, which expire at midnight Sept. 14. Their efforts will affect some 700,000 workers in the auto industry and set a basic pattern for many contracts in related industries. GM, the world's largest manufacturer with 395,000 UAW employees, was asked to pay more than half the tab in wages and fringe benefits that would be added to a payroll which totaled $4.24 billion in 1969. The union's demands included a "substantial" pay hike, restoration of the old formula to figure cost-of-living increases on a quarterly basis rather than annually, and a $500-a-month pension for all workers with 30 years, regardless of age.

"We will do everything possible to achieve that end," he said. "It would be the greatest contribution we can make to our sorely troubled country." Bramblett, pointing out that the average GM hourly employe already is in the top one-third earning group in the nation, called on both sides to "accept the fact that we have a far greater community of interest than of conflict." "Now is the time for us to concentrate our collective efforts on our mutual problems and the entire American community," he said. Woodcock indicated the UAW considers restoration of the pre-1967 cost-of-living formula a top issue. He refused to say whether it might be a strike issue. Flanked by his team of negotiators, Woodcock arrived at the GM building in mid-morning, shook hands with Bramblett and promised his presentation of the union's position papers would be completed quicker than ever before. He will repeat the performance Thursday at Ford Motor

The Quail Creek fire in southwestern Oregon spread to 2,600 acres Wednesday, but state and federal firefighting agencies continued to hope they could contain it by nightfall. By late this morning, the fire had burned across 450 acres of the Siskiyou National Forest and 2,150 acres of state-protected land, including Bureau of Land Management area, along the Rogue River northeast of Gold Beach. The state-protected sections were 75 per cent contained by fire trails, and a Forest Service spokesman said its firefighters had 6,000 feet of machine-bullt line constructed and holding at 11 a.m., and 1,100-foot-of-hand-bullt line constructed and holding. John Grove, fire staff officer for the Forest Service, said 2,000 feet of line remained to be constructed and "it will be late today if we do" get it built.

Other experience with youth and with camping include being a Girl Scout Cadette leader for the past three years, a unit

Crackdown Urged On Vandalism

HAILEY — A crackdown on vandalism at the Blaine County schools is urged by Supt. Vernon Exner.

Meeting with the school board this week, Mr. Exner said that eight windows broken earlier this year at the Halley Junior High School have been repaired, but three more, including a large door window at the school were broken again over the weekend.

Mr. Exner reported that all teaching assignments for the 1970-71 school year have been filled with the exception of a principal at the Ketchum Ernest Hemingway School, and a math teacher at the Carey School.

Clifford Vaughn, in charge of the school transportation system, reported on the difficulty in finding bus drivers for the coming year.

Survivor Of Crash Goes Home

William Parnicky, 49, Grant Pass, Ore., who survived a light plane crash June 27 near Shoshone was released Wednesday from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where he has been under treatment since the accident.

His wife, 48, died at the scene of the crash. Investigating officers said the Cessna 182 four-place plane hit a tree shortly before it went down.

Voting Machines Are Readied For Use In Aug. 4 Election

Two representatives of Automatic Voting Machines Inc., arrived in Twin Falls this week and were busy Thursday programming the 90 automatic voting machines to be used in Twin Falls County in the coming primary and general elections.

County representatives are working with the company officials in the programming to learn the workings of the voting machines so they will be able to program the equipment for future elections.

T.F. Man To Attend National Conclave

Juan Menchaca, Idaho styles director for the Idaho Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association, will leave Saturday for Chicago to participate in the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists annual convention.

Convention headquarters will be at the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Drug Case Hearing Is Scheduled

HAILEY — Six Ketchum residents charged with illegal possession of marijuana appeared Wednesday afternoon before Probate Judge Bill Grant for a preliminary hearing.

The six were arrested by Blaine county sheriff Orville Drexler and are free on their own recognizance. Judge Grant continued the proceedings until Friday when he will hear a defense motion to suppress evidence.

The six are represented by George Kitecland, public defender.

Mr. Menchaca will be representing Idaho in a contest Wednesday on the current trend and when he returns he will demonstrate and show the new trend to local association members.

Darlene Richie, Boise, state president, will be attending the convention also, along with Mrs. Dan Bonemine, Boise, who will be modeling the winning costume and hairstyle which placed first in the state during contests between the various affiliates.

Girl Falls From Burley Milk Truck

BURLEY — Paula Arroya, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Arroya, Route 1, Burley, was treated and released at Cassia Memorial Hospital Tuesday afternoon.

The girl apparently climbed on to a Youngs Dairy Truck when it was stopped near the child's home and when the vehicle started moving she either jumped or fell off the truck.

Jerry Sowers, driver of the truck, told sheriff's officers he never saw the child. Mrs. Glenna Whitaker, Burley, notified the sheriff's office.

Campers wishing to attend resident camp should also register as soon as possible.

Hearing Is Set Again On Traffic

Response to a Twin Falls City request for another hearing on the redesign of North Five Points intersection in Twin Falls is expected sometime next week, City Manager Jenn Millar said Thursday.

He said he understands a meeting of the Department of Highways board of directors will be held Monday and Tuesday and during that time it is expected the board will review the city's request for another hearing.

A hearing was held in April in which most of the comments were against any proposed changes at the intersection. Since that time, the city says, many residents have indicated they were not aware of the hearing and would like an opportunity to support an improved traffic pattern at the intersection.

Following the April hearing, the highway board announced because of opposition they would withdraw plans for improving the traffic pattern and use funds earmarked for this project elsewhere in the state. Mr. Millar said the intersection is of major concern to the city and it is hoped the department will reconsider, with support from local residents, and improve the five-point intersection which includes two U.S. highways and one state highway at this time.

Declo Man Cited After Accident

BURLEY — Gerald D. Miller, 19, Star Route, Declo, was cited for inattentive driving following a one car accident at 1:05 a.m. Wednesday six miles east of Burley on U. S. 30 South.

Miller was driving a 1968 Mustang east and reportedly dozed at the wheel when he hit loose gravel and lost control of the vehicle which went into the borrowpit. It struck a telephone pole and then continued on into a beet field for 130 feet. The beet field was owned by Horace Coltrin, Burley.

Bids Opened

At least four firms had indicated plans to bid for the Twin Falls city sanitation service contract, city officials reported Thursday morning.

Five firms had taken out specifications for the opening scheduled for 4 p.m. Thursday afternoon, City Manager Jenn Millar reported. He said this included two out-of-state firms, one of them the current contractor, and three Idaho contractors.

Reports Given For Shoshone Chamber

HANSEN — The body of Paul M. Palmer, 28, Twin Falls and Oswego, Kan., was recovered about 1:30 p. m. from the Main Line Canal south of Hansen.

Mr. Palmer, an employe of the Twin Falls Canal Co., drowned about 10:30 a. m. when he attempted to swim across the canal.

Sheriff's officers said Mr. Palmer was a member of a mowing crew which was working on the canal. A cable stretched across the stream apparently had broken and Mr. Palmer attempted to swim across to reeling the cable between two pieces of heavy equipment which were pulled a drag bucket in the canal.

As he was nearly to the opposite side, he apparently developed a cramp and disappeared from sight. Another workman, Arthur Rathbun, jumped into the canal to assist the victim, but was unable to locate him.

Divers from Twin Falls, Harlan Fillmore and Norman (Butch) Fillmore, were called to the scene, but were unable to locate the body. A large hook was then dug in the canal and hooked the cable. The body, still attached to the cable and a rope, was found at the bottom of the canal about 100 feet down from where it disappeared.

Assisting officers and divers were employes of the canal company and area residents.

Mr. Palmer's body is at Reynolds Mortuary. His wife is reported to be living in Kansas and his mother in Oklahoma.

DRIVER FINED — WENDELL — Ernie Sites pleaded guilty to charges of reckless driving when he appeared in Wendell Police Court before Judge G. D. Pierce and was fined $75, $25 of which was suspended, and his driver's license revoked for 25 days.

SHOSHONE — Eight families are seeking permission to transfer elementary students to Dietrich or Gooding schools this fall.

Action on the matter is pending discussion with the school attorney, trustees reported today.

Trustees decided to discontinue participation in vocational training for local high school students at the College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls.

For the past two years, five local youths have been given vocational training at CSI at an expense of $60 per year for each boy. This year the cost has risen to $300 per student because of the increased number of staff members at the college.

Trustees pointed out since the larger amount has not been included in the Shoshone school budget, the program must be discontinued.

Other action, trustees hired Mrs. Lawrence Rands as assistant cook at the Lincoln elementary school. The quarterly school lunch report given by Mrs. Frank Lequerica was approved.

Trustees decided to discuss with teachers a proposal by the state superintendent's association whereby most school employes would be covered by one health insurance program.

Supt. Kenneth Crothers was instructed to accept bids from local oil distributors for the supply of fuel oil this year.

The resignation of Mrs. Charles (Sue) Borden, high school commercial teacher, was accepted. Teaching applications were reviewed but no contracts offered at this time. A vacancy exists in the sixth grade and in the high school commercial department, Supt. Crothers said.

Next Tuesday will be annual Father-Son day at the Kiwanis meeting. The annual fish fry is set for Aug. 6 and will be sponsored by the Buhl Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Dayley collaborated in the work with Mrs. John Swindle, who wrote the script

Mayor Ellwood Werry reminded members of the sewer bond election to be held Aug. 11. City voters must approve the bond issue before state and federal funds will be received.

Federal funds amounting to 50 per cent of the cost and state funds of 25 per cent are available. The sewer line will run to the property of the residence.

Ed Coombs, new manager of Lincoln Valley Park, reported that the new gazebo was ready. Guests were Mrs. Reed and Cliff Thorne.

Leo Senter of the Soil Conservation Office, announced a Shoshone Resource tour to be conducted in Lincoln and Gooding Counties, July 30. Those interested in taking the tour may board at 8 A.M. July 7 at the Shoshone courthouse. The tour will end at the Snake River Trout Farm where R. A. Erkins will host the evening meal. Mr. Senter also noted that $60 will be given by the Soil Conservation to help finance the cost of prizes for the art contest which is held in conjunction with the 4-H Fair.

Congested parking at the post office was discussed. Sidewalks and oil surface on the street will be completed this year with the hope that it will relieve the parking problem. Harrell Immediate project of the members is to finish the Lincoln County 4-H Fair, August 7-8, a success. Improvement project was to promote more variety in the children's races.

J.R. Churchman, chairman of the July 4 event, stated that the fireworks were more interesting, better coordinated and lasted only forty-five minutes, resulting in a better program than in other years.

Members felt that attendance at the Jamboree, July 12, was more nearly three thousand or more rather than the previously reported 1100. It was noted that for a time the Matthews Nursing Home was empty as all residents of the home attended the jamboree. Howard Adkins, chairman of the jamboree, made the report.

NEW LEADVILLE GALLERY in Ketchum housed in the former Our Lady of the Snows Catholic church, across from Giacometti Square, has all types of art. Included are original and and watercolors by regionalists, a collection of English antiques, an international selection of signed, original graphics, accessories and posters. The owner of the gallery, Mrs. Marya Davies Lewis, San Francisco, has completely redecorated the building, and antique furniture is placed throughout the gallery. The gallery is open from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily.

SHOSHONE — Several Shoshone residents, including Vic Boxuto, O.J. Harris, Carl Schuppenies, Leo Senter and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hill, have voiced protests against tax assessments on their new homes.

The taxpayers met with the Lincoln County commissioners, who were sitting as a tax equalization board to hear complaints. No action was taken at the time of the protests.

In other commission business, quarterly reports were heard on receipts from PROBATE Judge E. H. Wilson, totalling $464; Sheriff Thomas W. Connor, for $41.84; and County Auditor Luella Kinsey, for $1,123.95.

SHOSHONE — Reports of the July 4 celebration and of the Old Time Fiddlers Jamboree were heard at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday noon at the Manhattan Cafe.

Members emphasized their appreciation to those responsible for the success of the events. Special thanks were expressed to the Lincolnettes, who were in charge of the parade. July 4, Ted Goers, electrician, was commended for his work at the Old Time Fiddlers Jamboree and T.V. Strunk was cited for much time and work spent on the platform built under the shelter provided for the entertainers.

Washington Miss, Qualls Exchange Nuptial Vows

Susan Lorraine Daggett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Daggett, Dayton, Wash., and Kelly Neal Qualls, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Qualls, Twin Falls, were married in a double ring ceremony June 6 at the First Central Christian Church, Walla Walla, Wash.

Rev. Jasper Haven performed the morning ceremony, and music was provided by Mickey Mood, organist.

The bride wore a mint green A-line dress which featured a scooped neckline with short puffed sleeves. It was enhanced with a white orchid corsage and set off by white gloves and a white trimmed hat.

Mrs. Gene Schmitt, Pilot Rock, Ore., was her sister's matron of honor. Archie Quesnell, Twin Falls, was best man.

A reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents. The three-tiered wedding cake, with yellow and white decorations, was cut and served by Robyn Robins and Mary Kay Richter, friends of the bride. Mickey Mead, a friend of the bride, served the punch.

Special out-of-town guests were Jeff Youtz, Jim Astorquia, Doug Lee, Carmen Turner, Yresa May and Mr. and Mrs. John Qualls, all Twin Falls.

After a honeymoon trip to Spokane, Wash., the couple will reside at 109 E. Whitman, Dayton, Wash., where the bridegroom is employed by Green Giant Co., until they return to Walla Walla Community college next fall.

THE CHAPMAN ROOT HOME, located on Dollar Road in Sun Valley, will be among the homes shown during the Aug. 8 tour sponsored by the Ketchum-

Sun Valley Community Library Board. The ultra-modern home offers 3,600 square feet of living area and is situated on four lots.

Root Home Will Be Shown At Aug. 8 Tour Of Homes

KETCHUM — One of the special highlights of the Aug. 8 Tour of Homes, sponsored by the Ketchum-Sun Valley Community Library Board, will be a newly completed ultra-modern home owned by Mr. and Mrs. Chapman Root.

The enormous two story, three bedroom home offers 3,600 square feet of living area on Dollar Road in Sun Valley. Situated on four lots, the home is styled with bleached rough sawn cedar on the outside, and natural rough sawn cedar inside. A huge seven-foot wide fireplace adorns one wall in the family room which has several doors opening onto a patio. Built into the patio is a barbecue pit. The fireplace is of natural riverstone, which adds to the natural affect of the home.

Countertops in the kitchen are of rough stone from Challis, and the flooring is all of used brick. All electric, forced air heat is supplied in cold weather by four furnaces.

Of special interest is the fact that no interior lights have been supplied—in the master bathroom. Light for the room is obtained through two skylights there.

Outside overhangs, essential to the country of the snow, are all built in to give the illusion that there are none, and electric snow melting equipment has been built into all steps and walkways surrounding the home.

Neil Wright, Ketchum, was architect for the home which was built by Custom Homes, with Andy Scherthanner and John Adams as builders. Interior decorating was done by L'Harrison Furniture Co., Twin Falls, and Bob Lee did the landscaping.

The tour will be held from 1 to 5 p. m. Aug. 8, board members said, with more details to be announced later.

Carol Hanks Reveals Troth

BURLEY — Mr. and Mrs. Thend James Hanks announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Carol, to Wesley Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Wilson, all Burley.

Miss Hanks is a graduate of Utah State University, Logan and has been teaching in Murray, Utah. She served an LDS Mission in Southwest Britain.

Mr. Wilson recently completed his military service in Vietnam. He has fulfilled an LDS Mission in Southwest Britain.

The couple plans a July 30 wedding in the Idaho Falls LDS Temple. After their marriage, they plan to reside in Provo, where the bridegroom will continue his education at Brigham Young University.

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why people go to a movie and then afterwards tell everybody how filthy and disgusting it was!

Movies are rated, so they surely must know what kind of movie they are buying a ticket to see. They know in advance whether there will be nude scenes or rough language, so if that sort of thing offends them, why don't they stay home? Right or wrong?

DEAR SICK: You're right of course. (Such movies are rarely as "good" as expected—and by that I mean as "bad" as the viewer hoped they'd be.)

DEAR ABBY: We have a long-haired son. He is of age and was married in college. He wrote and asked if he could bring his bride to our home until he finds suitable work. We feel that his hair style is hurting his chances of getting a job. One prospective employer said he'd hire him if he cut his hair and shaved off his beard. Our son refused on the grounds that he didn't want to compromise his principles.

Abby, should we welcome him home with his bride when he has that attitude? We are undecided. We want to help him, but we don't want to go along with something we feel is hindering him. We don't support this long hair look and feel it may be a long stay at home if the hair stays. Please advise?

MONTANA PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: If you really want to help your son, don't offer him bread with a hook in it. Let him bring his bride home to you, but don't tell him how to comb his hair. Also, a man who's old enough to shave is old enough to decide whether he WANTS to or not. If your son is actually unemployable because of his hair, he'll find out—which is the best way to learn.

DEAR ABBY: I resent your remark, "Save your Confederate money, the south will rise again. Maybe." What do you mean, "Maybe?" The south IS rising again! And now!

If you Yankees would realize the war is over and accept the south back into the Union, instead of continuing to chastise it, this good ole U. S. A. would be a far better place in which to live.

Why don't you bleeding hearts start demanding that the "laws of the land" be applied equally to all sections of the country instead of just the south?

Well, it sure is strange, but in 99 per cent of the cases, it is the Yankee who brings up the subject of the Civil War. Also, the majority of the visitors coming to Richmond, Va., to learn more about the Civil War history are Yankees. Don't get me wrong, I'm glad to see all those Yankees invading Richmond to spend their American dollars here. We can sure use them. Especially if you are ever going to rise over the likes of you.

Very truly yours,
X. M.: Richmond, Va.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady who wrote saying her husband loved to buy her clothes but had terrible taste.

I, too, used to have this problem, but rather than hurt his feelings, I gently steered him away from dresses, coats and clothes to be worn in public to nightgowns and lounging attire, and he can be as wild and extravagant as he wants to be. I am genuinely happy as I would never spend that much money on a nightgown, and he now feels that it takes a special talent to buy sexy, expensive clothes to be worn "just for him."

This way, everybody wins. And why hurt feelings when you don't have 'em?

Beauty Salons Forbidden In Cairo

By RAYMOND WILKINSON
CAIRO (UPI)—Women who visit beauty salons are sinners who face eternal damnation, according to some religious leaders here.

Egyptians have responded by flocking to the hairdresser in record numbers.

"It's forbidden, forbidden, a thousand times forbidden, for a woman to go to the hairdresser," said Sheikh Badr El Metwalli Abdel Basit, dean of the college of Islamic law at Al Azhar University here.

"Nonsense," 21-year-old Zinat Said commented as she waited her turn in a crowded downtown salon. "Warnings or no warnings I will continue to have my hair done."

According to Sheikh Abdel Basit's version of Islam, it is forbidden for a man to touch a woman other than his wife, even her hair. The woman in turn should not show a stranger her hair, much less allow him to touch it.

"God has also forbidden women to display their beauty before persons other than their husbands," Sheikh Abdel Basit intoned.

He insisted a hairdresser is, in fact, deceiving the community because, "he is giving women an appearance other than that which God created."

Sheikh Zakaria El Bardosy, professor of Islamic law at Ein Shams University here, takes a different line.

According to the Sheikh's interpretation, a woman is allowed to have a hair-do but only if the hairdresser is a woman. She cannot have a male hairdresser.

It is also forbidden for a woman to remove facial hair or apply makeup. Women who do will be cursed by God, according to the Sheikh. Hair dye also is taboo because "it hides God's creation."

He does make a concession. "Wigs are not forbidden," the Sheikh said. "They are no more than headgear and do not alter the woman's true appearance."

Interestingly enough, Sand Labib, director of programs at Egypt's state owned television service, recently ordered all women announcers to stop wearing wigs or false eyelashes on the air.

Labib said the wigs distracted viewers. The order was issued because the network is currently having difficulty replacing a stream of young female announcers who have been successfully wooed by male suitors after appearing on television.

Women and hairdressers are unperturbed by the warnings, according to Abdel Said Hussein, whose clients include the wives of government ministers and foreign diplomats.

"I'm earning an honest living. I don't feel evil when I touch a woman's hair—it's all in the mind and I'm not dirty minded," he said.

"We should not apply the Koran blindly," said Laila Hussein (no relation), a manicurist. "It also says you shouldn't show your face to anyone except your husband, but we do. We shouldn't show our legs, but girls wear miniskirts."

"At this rate everything we do is taboo and we are all damned," she said.

The great debate about skirt lengths no longer seems to be haunting Paris' designer or customers. The mini is out. The most important skirt length is at mid-calf.

Karla Paxton, Pippitt Marry In Lutheran Rites

Karla Jean Paxton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Paxton, became the bride of Dale Eugene Pippitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Pippitt, all Twin Falls, in rites June 13 at Immanuel Lutheran Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of organza over peau de sole, accented with appliqued Chantilly lace and tiny seed pearls on the bodice and the sheer sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion was accented by tiny seed pearls on the lace headpiece. She carried a cascading bouquet of orchid carnations and white chrysanthemums centered with an orchid.

Kelly Mulder, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and Janet Dougherty was the bridesmaid. Flower girl was Heidi Cantfield.

Jero Montague served as best man, with Ronald Pippitt and John Paxton serving as groomsmen. Michael Adamson was ringbearer.

Music at the wedding was provided by Ruth Heller, soloist, accompanied by Debbie Heller.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parish hall. The bride's table was covered with a floor-length nylon organza cloth over deep purple. The wedding cake was cut and served by Myrna Strom and Sandi Molham, sisters of the bridegroom. Marjorie Adamson and Shirley Mulder, aunts of the bride served coffee and punch. Jean Pippitt was in charge of the guest book. Doris Paxton, assisted by Mary Ann Robertson and Martha Pippitt, was in charge of the gift table.

Special guests were the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Mary Mulder and Mrs. S. Canfield. Other guests attended from Twin Falls, Buhl, Filer, Gooding, Jerome, Kimberly, Rupert, Nampa and Mountain Home; Madras, Ore.; Othello and Seattle, Wash., and Lawrence, Kan.

After a honeymoon trip, the couple will reside in Twin Falls until fall when they will return to the University of Kansas in Lawrence.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner in their home for the family and wedding party.

U.S. Leading West Germans In Dual Meet

STUTTGART, Germany (UPI)—A young and inexperienced U.S. track and field team took a 50-48 lead over West Germany Wednesday night in their seventh dual meeting. American girls won only one of six events and trailed 25-37. Germany's bright moment occurred when Josef Schwarz reached 27 feet 4-3/4 inches in his sixth and final long jump to tie the European mark held by Russia's Igor Ter-Ovseyan. The distance is the world's best this season.

Lamar Lundy Will Retire, Say Chargers

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI)—Defensive end Lamar Lundy has been forced out of football by knee trouble, the San Diego Chargers said at the opening of their rookie camp Wednesday.

Lundy, who played 13 seasons as a standout lineman with the Los Angeles Rams, will retire. "He gave it a great fight," San Diego General Manager Sid Gillman said, "but the doctors said his knee still is not strong enough to allow him to continue to play."

Lundy, 35, was traded to the Chargers this year. He underwent knee surgery after the 1968 season and played only briefly last year. Since joining the Chargers, he had worked hard on a rehabilitation program.

"There was no finer player and there is no finer person than Lamar Lundy," Gillman said. "We know he will make an outstanding executive in whatever field he chooses to enter."

Lundy had the longest tenure of any player in Ram history. He holds the pro football record for a lineman returning three interceptions for touchdowns.

Carlos Lost To Eagles For 6 Weeks

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—John Carlos, the Olympic champion sprinter who is trying to become a press-catcher with the Philadelphia Eagles, was sidelined for at least six weeks Wednesday with a knee injury.

Carlos injured the knee while running during a light workout at Franklin Field, a team spokesman said.

Dr. James E. Nixon, team physician, said he will operate on Carlos on Thursday in Graduate Hospital here to repair a torn medial collateral ligament in the right knee.

Nixon said Carlos will not be able to resume practice for at least six weeks.

Carlos, drafted 15th by the Eagles although he never played college football, signed his contract two weeks ago and began workouts at Franklin Field July 1, running pass patterns and learning catching techniques.

He was working out Tuesday morning with John Carson, the Eagles assistant personnel director, when suddenly he felt his knee snap. He had it checked Wednesday and the doctor diagnosed the ligament tear.

Dow Jones Meet Worth $300,000

CLIFTON, N.J. (UPI)—Dow Jones, which deals with massive financial figures as a Wall Street reporting firm, is staging golf's richest tournament Aug. 27-30—the $300,000 Dow Jones Open.

The $60,000 purse to the winner is tops in history for actual prize money in a 72-hole tournament but, accustomed as they are to simplifying matters, the boys who figure out the Dow Jones stock index, prefer it this way.

The winner will be "paid" approximately $215 per stroke if he clinches the victory without a sudden death playoff. Second place finisher will earn $125 per stroke (third place $75, fourth place $50, fifth $40 and sixth $25 per stroke).

The figures are based on scoring records of four previous Thunderbird Classics played over the par 72 Upper Montclair Country Club course, scene of the Dow Jones.

Average winning score was 278.25. Second place average was 280 with 283 for third, 282.50 for fourth, 284 for fifth and 284.50 for sixth.

The first built casting lure was patented in 1848 by Julio T. Buel in Wiltchell, N.Y.

Ralph Boston, former U.S. Olympic champion and world record holder in the long jump, made the winner's presentation to Schwarz.

American men captured six of 10 events, scoring sweeps three times. The Germans had four victories, among them two doubles victories.

The only record performance on the American side came in the women's 100-meter hurdles when Pat Johnson of Renton, Wash., clocked 13.3 seconds in losing to Germany's Heide Rosendahl.

Marlie Hallins of Chicago, who finished third held the old U.S. mark of 33.4.

The stressless U.S. team was superior in the sprints and hurdles, while the Germans had the edge in the long distance races. The teams were equal in field events.

American winners were Ben Vaughan, who clocked a wind-aided 10.0 seconds for 100 meters, John Smith with 45.1 in the 400 meters, and the sprint relay team-timed in 39.3 seconds.

Ralph Mann won the 400 meter hurdles in 49.3 seconds. American team captain Bill Skinner tossed the javelin 291 feet 10 inches and Sam Carruthers had the other U.S. win when he soared 17 feet 3 inches in the pole vault.

U.S. double victories came in the pole vault, 100 meters and 400 meters.

The Germans, cheered on by a partisan crowd of 15,000 on a chilly and cool night at Stuttgart's Neckar Stadium, set several West German records to give the United States their toughest competition in the two nations' meetings.

U.S. head coach Leroy Walker said after the day's events that he expected his team to take the lead, but warned that Germany's strongest events would come on the second day.

West Germany's Juergen May, the world record holder over 1,000 meters, easily won the 1,500 meters, clocking 3:40.7 minutes to beat AAU mile champion Howell Michael of William and Mary College.

The German duo of May and Hubert Stecher outran the Americans in a great tactical race. Stecher set a pace for the 1,000 meters with May on his heels. Then May stormed away with none of the opposition able to keep up.

He finished 15 yards ahead of Michael, who passed teammate Jerry Van Dyke, on the home stretch, while Stecher dropped far behind. Intermediate times were 56.5 for 400 meters, 1:50.1 for 800 meters, 2:31.6 for 1,200 meters.

AAU champion John Smith and his UCLA teammate Wayne Collette scored a double victory for the United States in the 400 meters, but had to go all out to beat Germany's Thomas Jordan.

The German was clearly ahead entering the home stretch but faded and was caught by both Americans about 20 yards from the tape. Smith's winning time was 45.1 seconds.

Pentathlon Lead Held By Richards

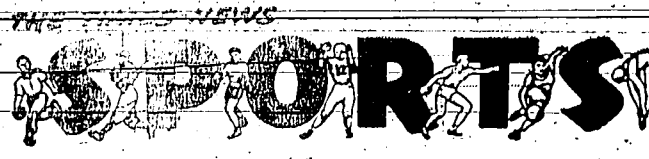

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—First Lt. Chuck Richards of Tacoma, Wash., maintained his lead Wednesday in the U.S. Modern Pentathlon national championships after completing the running event.

Richards was ninth in the 4,000 meter with a time of 14:14.4 and now has 5,046 points over all.

Capt. Loren Drum moved into second place in the national major after finishing fifth in the run with a time of 13:52.4. Drum leads Dr. Bob Beck of San Antonio, who dropped to third after running the Port San Houston course in 15:17.5 for 13th position in the grueling event.

The big story of the day was the phenomenal performance, turned in by Spencer O'Christie of Eugene, Ore. O'Christie, a former Oklahoma State track star, ran the 4,000 meter cross country course in 12:32.5 to move into fifth place in total points.

CONSTRUCTION WILL BEGIN July 16 on the University of Idaho's first complete track and field facility — shown here in the drawing, located at — which received final approval

Collision Puts Rose On 'Doubtful' List

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Pete Rose, All-Star shortstop of the Cincinnati Reds, was taken to Christ Hospital here after the game for X-rays but doctors said he received only a bruised shoulder. A stiff arm was about his only memento of the game.

But the young Cleveland catcher said he felt "all right" after a bruised leg muscle, the cause of a collision at home plate late Wednesday night. "I was talked about for years," Rose said, "but I had no doubt about it."

Rose, the National League's two-time batting champ, barreled into Cleveland Indians catcher Ray Fosse in the 12th inning of the All-Star contest to beat a throw to the plate and score the winning run in the 10th inning.

Both trainer and team physician have checked Rose and say he has a bruised shoulder, said Reds Manager Sparky Anderson. "We won't know for sure Thursday whether he'll be able to play," Rose's leg coach said in a press conference. "I had no doubt about it."

Rose, who played in six of the Red's clubhouse, said he had no doubt about it. "I had no doubt about it," Rose said. "I had no doubt about it."

Knocked Out Of Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Two favorites were knocked out of contention Wednesday in the first round of match play in the 1970 Trans-Mississippi Golf Tournament at Oklahoma City Golf and Country Club.

Qualification co-medalist Bruce Ashworth, who will be a senior at Houston University, lost to Purdue senior Fred Clark, 21, of West Lafayette, Ind., 4 and 3. Ashworth, 20, from Las Vegas, Nev., shot a 67 Tuesday for a two-round qualification mark of 13 and a tie with Joe Luman, Jr., of Greensboro, N.C.

Wednesday's second upset saw Ed Updegraff, 46, of Tucson, Ariz., defeated 4 and 2 by George Haines, Jr., 28, of Far Hills, N.J. Updegraff was runner-up in the 1969 Trans-Miss and a former Walker Cupper.

Haines, 1969 New Jersey state amateur champion, shot a 6-under-par on the 16 holes for the low card of the day. Updegraff's 2-under was the second best effort in the 64-man championship.

Two rounds-of-match-play were scheduled Thursday to cut the field for the eight-man quarter-finals Friday. A single round was set for Saturday with the 36-hole final to be played Sunday.

Defending champion Allen Miller, 21, of Pensacola, Fla., and NCAA champion John Mahaffey of Houston, Tex., were scheduled Thursday to cut the field for the quarter-finals Friday. A single round was set for Saturday with the 36-hole final to be played Sunday.

College All-Stars End 1-Day Strike; To Resume Drills

CHICAGO (UPI)—College All-Star football players Wednesday night ended a one-day strike and report for practice Thursday to continue preparation for their game with the National Football League champions, the Kansas City Chiefs.

The action to end the strike, in which the players had refused to report for practice to show their support for the National Football League Player's Association in its dispute with club owners, came at a meeting which was attended by all-star coach Otto Graham.

"We have decided that we have accomplished what we decided to accomplish by striking one day in backing up the player's association," All-Star spokesman Steve Tannen said, "but we also felt duty to the people who are helped by its charities so we felt it best to resume practice."

"We recognize that the All Stars need more time than Kansas City to train before the game," said John Mackey spokesman for the Player's Association in New York. Mackey said the decision was made jointly Wednesday night by the NFL Player's Association and the All Stars to return to organized camps. By walking out of camp Wednesday the All Stars demonstrated that all football players support the National Football League Player's Association, he said.

"There is no difference between a rookie and a veteran," Mackey said. "Now we are all football players together, fighting for what we believe is right." The All Stars voted Tuesday night to boycott organized practice sessions in a meeting in which they heard from Detroit Lion defensive lineman Alex Karras, representing the player's association. Graham told the squad that practice on schedule at 9:00 A.M. Thursday and that he hoped the players also would report.

would be an entry. That would give him a chance to try the diamond finesse and, if it worked, he would have his 10th trick.

He ruffed the second club, cashed the ace and king of trumps and ace of diamonds, entered dummy with that nine of trumps, lost the diamond-finesse and was down one.

We have no objection to the finesse. It is a fine play but it is only 50-50. South should have made his contract without it. He should have played one round of trumps to start his campaign and then continue by playing ace and another heart. When he got in next, he should have led out his last heart. This would set up dummy's six of hearts as a winner. He could get there with the nine of trumps and discard his jack of diamonds.

Of course, suits don't have to break 3-3, but if hearts failed to break he would still have been able to try the finesse.

PASS IT ON
by L.M. Boyd

SURVEYS SHOW one-half of all the girls who are engaged now were engaged to somebody else before... ON THE AVERAGE nationwide, a good restaurant spends about 40 per cent of its gross for food... NOT ONLY can a trained porpoise throw a football 50 feet, but it can throw a perfect spiral.

CONSIDER THIS -- Only 28 per cent of the women who receive obscene telephone calls immediately hang up. But 37 per cent of those women talk back, argue, make a big whoop-de-do. And 65 per cent just listen in silence. How the telephone company folk found this out I don't know, but they claim such to be the case. They further claim some of the women who get unspeakable calls are tantalized with such 'curiosity' they date the callers. That's doubtful. But maybe so.

AM-ASKED HOW many pearls a single oyster can turn out. No limit maybe. Not so long ago a grower in Japan reported finding more than 100 pearls in one oyster... INCIDENTALLY, ever see a mouse dance? That is, to music? Neither have I. But, teaching mice to dance is said to be a common hobby among Japanese children now.

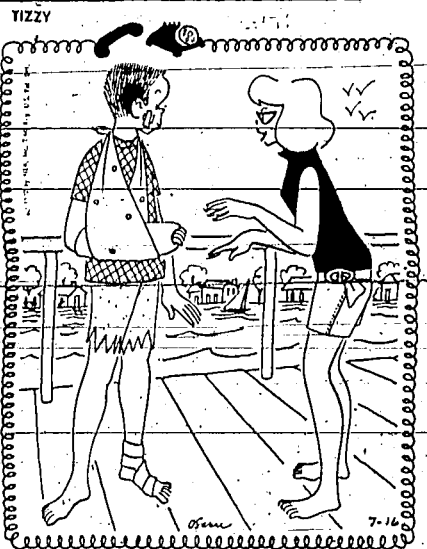

CUSTOMER SERVICE -- Q. "Exactly which of the colleges are in the Ivy League?" A. That would be Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Penn, Columbia, Cornell, Brown and Dartmouth. Officially, they're called themselves the Ivy Group, not the Ivy League, since 1954... Q. "How much can a student, graduating with an engineering degree, expect to get this year?" A. Average starting pay runs $872 a month now.

NO NEWS -- Battered children -- you've heard about them. Youngsters whose parents or keepers beat them black and blue. For no comprehensible reason. Let's not get too deep on this topic. It's pretty profound. Only news I have to report is no news which is odd news. That is, in equal measure, the parents of these children are of the rich and of the poor, of all religions, of every ethnic group. Nobody yet has been able to find a common denominator among them.

GIVEN APPROPRIATE training, a Leo girl generally makes an excellent handicraft artist, says our Planet man... IF MEN FRIGHTEN you, young lady, what you suffer from is androphobia... WHAT'S A GROWNUP sardine called? A pilchard, says our Language man.

RAPID REPLY -- Yes, sir; average family around here now makes about $9,000. Ten years ago it was $5,620. Twenty years ago it was $3,519.

Chopin: Concerto No. 1 in E Minor: Van Cliburn, Eugene Ormandy conducting The Philadelphia Orchestra (RCA LSD 3147)

Van Cliburn and Eugene Ormandy combine talents to present a relaxed but very enjoyable Chopin concerto on this new Red Seal release. Van Cliburn's approach to Chopin is a little more leisurely than some of the more dynamic interpreters of the genius of the piano, like Emil Gilels.

Van Cliburn's approach is at times a little more enjoyable than Gilels, who has a tendency to slush away through passages that Van Cliburn treats with more delicacy and care.

The concerto is one of the most beautiful instrumental creations ever written, for piano or any other instrument. It requires technical mastery of great capacity, and is strikingly beautiful in its nationalistic character.

This "soft" rendition by Van Cliburn and Ormandy doesn't detract one iota from the beauty of the concerto, and even enhances its quietly beautiful passages.

New Music For Horns: The Horn Club of Los Angeles (Angel-9-36035)

Four new compositions and four old compositions make up this unusual classical package from Angel.

The four new compositions are horn pieces by Gunther Schuller, William Kraft, Alec Wilder and Roger Johnson. The old pieces are works by Lassus, Palestrina, Victoria and Rossini.

The new works first: Schuller's piece is a moderately subdued work in typically avant garde Schuller fashion, using full polytonal interplay of horns, entitled "Lines & Contrasts For 10 Horns."

Wildor's "Ninet for Brass" is more contemporary in structure, and at times reaches the almost jazz stage in form and texture. It is more palatable than Schuller's work, and features more lively horn work.

Kraft's work is "Gates: Collage No. 1," and it features a broadly shifting pattern of horns, which is quite often dissonant because it is based on a series of "musical games."

Johnson's "Suite For Six Horns" is the most formally structured and most identifiable work in the lot, since it is patterned after more traditionally acceptable musical terms. It is a subdued and mellow piece, deep and challenging.

The remaining works are short numbers ranging from baroque to romantic works, which provide interesting counterpoint to their modern associate works.

The Horn Club of Los Angeles is composed of professional horn players from throughout Southern California, all dedicated to the promotion of the horn as a state art.

The Sound of the Mozart Piano: Jorg Demus, Norman Shelton, Pianists (RCA VICS-105)

The delicate lightness of two pianos which date from the period of Mozart's life, and which sound like his pianos sounded, provide even deeper insights into the man's music.

The instruments are two Walters, built in 1785 and 1795, and their light tonal characteristics provide beautiful new sounds to Mozart's music.

The deep, lush modern piano sound hides much of Mozart's work, you'll discover.

The program includes Sonata in D for Two Pianos, Variations on "Ah, vous dirai je mama," Fantasy on D Minor, and Andante and Variations for Four Hands.

A delightful album!

Sugarloaf (Liberty LST 7640)

This excellent Denver group makes an awful lot of very inventive music in its first album.

But their popularity's spread is going to have to be largely by word of mouth, for it's unlikely you'll hear the group on radio.

The reason is that their music is too long for air play, even though it's definitely good enough for radio and a lot better than most new groups you'll hear audition on radio.

There is only one piece in the album under five minutes long, and four of the numbers are more than six minutes long. But what's there for the ear is delightfully well done.

Chris Kristofferson (Munich SLP 18159)

Country song writer and singer Kris Kristofferson sings an album of his work, which is an amalgamation of country and folk.

Three stars.

The group grooves on the very capable organ work of Jerry Corbetta, and most of the tunes' structures are built around the organ.

There are several very good tunes in the album, most notably "Green Eyed Lady" and "West of Tomorrow" (both written by Corbetta) and "Things Gonna Change Some," a very fine jazz rock tune.

There's some very funky jazz organ work in "Gold and the Blues" and some classical organ statements in "Back Doors Man."

The group should get out on the tour circuit to spread its message of good music.

Four stars.

In a Wild Sanctuary: Heaver & Kruse (Warner Bros. 1850)

Combining the forces of Moog, organ, flute and earth, this album is a strange sensory experience.

It is beautiful. It is at times music. It is interesting. It is a creative, intriguing work of art. Paul Beaver and Berndt Krause work on Moog and organ, and get instrumental help from Bud Shank on flute, Howard Roberts on guitar, and Mill Holland on tabla, drums, congas, tambourines, and cymbals. Additionally, there are extraneous sounds of street and zoo used as sound effects. (They are the least effective, also.)

What is uncommonly interesting about the album is the creative use of Moog and organ as complimentary instruments.

The best tunes in the album, from an auditory and musical standpoint, are "Another Part of Time" and "Salute to the Vanishing Bald Eagle" and "Sanctuary."

The album is a Moog freak's must, and not bad for the uninitiated, either.

Four stars.

Fairport Convention (Columbia SD 8024)

Fairport Convention fans, beguiled by the group's soft folk sounds, aren't going to be happy with the new Fairport Convention.

It has lost that light delicate touch that marked the group when singer Sandy Denny was the vocal mainstay of the group. She has been replaced by Judy Dyble, who is an excellent singer but doesn't measure up to the appeal of Miss Denny.

Also gone is drummer Dave Mattacks.

New in the new Fairport Convention is Ian MacDonald, lead vocalist and harp; Miss Dyble, vocals, autoharp, recorder and piano; and Martin Lamble, drums and violin.

The group's singing is harsher and the group's playing is louder and less appealing.

There are moments in the album when the quality of the music approaches that of the old Fairport, but the moments are far apart and the prime tone of the album is far less appealing than the old group.

This group may find an audience all its own, however, for it is not bad. It's just that the old group was so good.

Three stars.

WITH NO PRESIDENTIAL race to monopolize national attention, Congress and the governorships are spotlighted in election '70. Of the 34 Senate seats at stake this year, 24 are now held by Democrats, nine by Republicans and one by an independent. The minority Republicans are shooting for a net gain of seven seats to take control. In the House, with all 435 seats up, the magic number is 31. Republicans now hold 32 of the 435 governorships, with 25 up for re-election this year. Ten Democratic governorships are at stake.
