U.S. Asks Reduced Arsenals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has offered a limited disarmament proposal to the Soviet Union that would freeze or reduce the size of the two nations' missile systems, informed sources said Saturday.

The sources said Gerard C. Smith, the chief U.S. disarmament negotiator delivered the proposal Friday at an one and one half hour meeting with the Soviet delegation at the U.S. Embassy in Vienna. The two nations are engaged in Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT).

According to the sources the proposal included these elements:

The two nations would agree to an overall numerical limitation on strategic launching systems, which are composed of land missiles and sea-based missiles and strategic bombers. Within this limitation a quota would be placed on the size of the Soviet fleet of the giant SS9 missile or any comparable missile that might be developed by either side.

The two nations would limit their antimissile defense systems, possibly by allowing them to encircle only Moscow and Washington. (The United States in 1969 authorized building of two ABM sites, in North Dakota and Montana.)

Police Say Woman Hid Booty

A Twin Falls woman was arrested late Friday by Twin Falls Police and charged with a violation of the youth rehabilitation act.

Police charge that Mrs. Barbara Lauri, 38, violated the act by allowing juveniles to hide 27 bottles of liquor in the basement of her home on Spruce Street. The liquor was taken in a burglary at the Turf Club in Twin Falls on June 8.

Two youths, both 14, were not related to Mrs. Lauri. They were subsequently arrested in connection with the burglary. Juvenile petitions were filed on them in probate court and each was placed on 18 months probation after 30-day jail sentences were suspended.

Officers charge that one of Mrs. Lauri's sons was involved in disposal of the stolen goods. The charge against Mrs. Lauri is aiding, causing or encouraging a child to come within the purview of the youth rehabilitation act.

Utah Acclaims Nixons

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The 122nd anniversary of the first Mormon pioneers into the Salt Lake Valley was highlighted here Friday with a visit from President and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon and their daughter Tricia.

Tanned and looking well—if a little tired from a cross-country junket—Nixon told a crowd of 20,000 enthusiastic on-lookers:

"The spirit that took those men to the Moon, the spirit that came here 123 years ago, that kind of spirit has built the greatest country on this Earth."

Mrs. Nixon, dressed in light blue, and Tricia, wearing a pink dress with matching ribbon in her hair, stood demurely by as the President took advantage of the visit to meet briefly with leaders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, catch a portion of the big Days of '47 rodeo and pump up the political stock of local GOP candidates.

It was the old political war-horse's kind of crowd that jammed a full city block in front of the LDS Church Office Building in downtown Salt Lake City. Spontaneous cheers rose repeatedly as he reminisced about his past visits to the Utah capital and about his hopes for a better America.

"We in America know we are not perfect," he said. "We in America know we have problems, but the kind of spirit in this state is the spirit that built America."

The big rally was slightly marred by an estimated 200 protesters in the crowd, but they were kept well under con-

Docks Plugged

LONDON (UPI)—The British government kept troops out of the country's strikebound ports and held back action to control food prices Saturday in preparation for new peace moves next week.

Britain's 47,000 longshoremen pushed their strike in support of an 80 per cent wage hike into its 11th day.

Robert Carr, secretary for employment and productivity in the government, said that as soon as the court's findings are published he will call the two sides to his office for the first negotiations since the strike began July 15.

Officials said the government has decided it is not worth risking a chance for settlement by using troops or moving to fix prices in the next 72 hours.

But they said if the peace hopes collapse, the country is likely to face a prolonged strike and the government will use its emergency powers. These include the use of troops in the docks and setting food prices, which already have begun to soar.

Bankrupt Railroad Reported Profit

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Penn Central Co. reported a profit of $4.4 million last year while in fact it lost $95 million. Fortune Magazine said Sunday.

In a 9,000-word article based on three months' research, Fortune accused Penn Central's management and directors of using a "unique" bookkeeping system in recent years and of paying $100 million in dividends while the company was suffering heavy losses.

In Philadelphia, W. A. Lashley, Penn Central Vice President for Public Relations, said the company would have no immediate comment on the article but may comment later.

"Our financial people are not seen the article, and we are not prepared to comment on it," Lashley said.

Fortune said that in 1968 the Penn Central's bookkeeping converted a real loss into a "profit" of $87 million.

Among the practices cited by the magazine were carrying reportedly uncollectible bills as normal income, charging normal expenses such as wages, maintenance and phase-out costs to capital accounts instead of operating costs; and selling assets of the bankrupt railroad at inflated prices to the non-railroad subsidiary, the Pennsylvania Co., for cash to bolster the profit and loss account.

The price tag is unknown, and we are now ill-equipped to handle the problem. It really isn't that we don't know what is wrong and how to eliminate it.

From the church building, he journeyed in the presidential limousine two blocks to the rodeo. Nixon stood in the open car and waved both hands at onlookers jammed along the streets.

The Nixons received a standing ovation from 15,000 persons

Mideast Invasion Revealed

CAIRO (UPI)—The semi-official Middle East News Agency (MENA) said Saturday 5,000 European and African mercenaries planned to invade Libya if an anti-government coup attempt, backed by a major Western power, had succeeded. MENA did not identify the foreign power by name but hinted it was the United States.

The dispatch said the mercenaries, including veterans of the Congo war, were massed in neighboring Chad. It said they planned to attack Libya's oil fields from the air if Libyan Premier Col. Muammar Khadafi refused to surrender.

"This would have given foreign powers the opportunity to interfere and create another Biafra in Libya," the agency said.

Khadafi announced last Friday that his government had uncovered the plot and would soon send 11 conspirators to trial.

MENA said weapons were bought for the mercenaries in Europe under the supervision of the United States Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). They included machineguns, automatic rifles, antitank and antiaircraft guns, as well as the internationally banned dumdum bullets, it said.

The agency also said the United States was planning to postpone the withdrawal of its troops from Wheelus Airbase until the plot proved successful. The pull-out was completed in June.

The base, named for a Dutch town where the division fought in World War II, is located about 30 miles west of the former royal capital of Hue and is southeast of the former base Riepord.

The division's 3rd Brigade abandoned Riepord Thursday after a 23-day siege in which 81 Americans were killed and 345 wounded.

The Communists apparently have designated Veghel as the next objective in the jungle area between Hue and the Laotian border, a key region for infiltration, spokesmen said. The Communist buildup was noted particularly in the area just west of Veghel between the base and the A Shau Valley.

In other areas of Indochina, spokesmen reported a major battle in Laos in which a Laotian battalion commander was killed, the accidental wounding of 14 Americans in South Vietnam by a misfired rocket and the loss of four helicopters in which two Americans were killed and two wounded.

In Phnom Penh, a government source reported a shooting incident between a unit of South Vietnamese troops and Cambodian mercenaries attached to the government army.

Israel OKs Peace Plan

By United Press International
Israel will accept America's Middle East peace plan, but only on condition there is an unconditional cease fire coupled with guarantees the Egyptians and Russians will not use it to beef up Suez Canal air defenses, authoritative Israeli political sources said Saturday night.

The sources said, Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and her cabinet would meet Sunday to approve the final form of Israel's stand on the plan, which has already been accepted by Egypt. The plan calls for a ceasefire until Oct. 1, and resumption of negotiations among Egypt, Jordan and Israel under auspices of U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring.

The sources said the Israeli acceptance of the U.S. peace plan was worked out after new assurances of Israel's safety by President Nixon were delivered to the Israeli ambassador in Washington and relayed to Mrs. Meir. Mrs. Meir and cabinet ministers belonging to her political party met Saturday night at her residence here.

Meantime Israeli warplanes strafed across the Suez Canal Saturday for the 65th consecutive day of bombing Egyptian front line positions, and Cairo said its planes shot down one Israeli Skyhawk. There was ground fighting on other fronts. There were those other major Mideast developments:

—Informed sources in Amman said Jordan would probably announce acceptance of the U.S. peace proposals within 24 hours, and sources in Cairo said Syria also has endorsed the move. President Nasser accepted for Egypt on Thursday.

—Some cabinet members in Jerusalem called publicly for rejection of the American peace plan. But Mrs. Meir met with U.S. Ambassador Walworth Barbour for 90 minutes Friday at Barbour's request.

Bombs Rain on Advancing Reds

SAIGON (UPI)—American B52 Stratofortresses bombed Communist forces moving into position Saturday for an assault on a U.S. artillery base 18 miles from the Riepord outpost that was abandoned two days ago.

K.S. Military command spokesmen said the air strike was flown about four miles west of the 101st Airborne Division's artillery base Veghel in South Vietnam's northern quarter.

The base, named for a Dutch town where the division fought in World War II, is located about 30 miles west of the former royal capital of Hue and is southeast of the former base Riepord.

Exchequer Gets Head

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Edward Heath named Anthony Barber, 50, the man who masterminded the Conservative party's recent upset victory in the general elections, to be Britain's new chancellor of the exchequer Saturday.

Barber succeeded Ian MacLeod, 56, who died Monday night of a heart attack, after less than a month in office.

Barber held the honorary post of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in the month-old Conservative cabinet. His actual job was that of European affairs minister and head of the British delegation at the Common Market membership negotiations in Brussels.

Barber also was chairman of the Conservative party and was widely credited with organizing its victory in the June 18 general election. Officials said he is giving up his party post.

Waste Water Cleanup?

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor
Within ten years Idaho farmers will not be permitted to pollute the state's waterways with silty waste water.

According to Attorney General Robert Robson, the task of looking pollution will come to rest on all segments of society — including farmers who have hitherto been bypassed by the environmentalists.

"We are only about 10 years away from prohibiting farmers from putting silt in the river and I can say that right out," the attorney general said in an interview while in Magic Valley on his campaign for re-election.

The Republican explained there will be something required of farmers to end the silt problem. He said no one knew for sure right now how the problem would be handled but that "you can bet" it will be handled and at additional cost to those who grow what we eat.

But it is that we don't have the people or the dollars to do the job.

"It's a real serious problem and we are doing what we can as fast as we can. We have to take these problems one at a time. But all of us had better realize that there will be a price tag on it."

"To be perfectly frank, we just can't kill the goose that laid our golden egg. Strict enforcement would cut out the livelihood of many people. We could close some businesses right now in Idaho with the laws we have. But what about the workmen who would lose their jobs? What about their families?" he said.

"It is a value judgment and it is very hard to make." During the interview he discussed the White Cloud controversy and indicated his belief that it is not as dangerous as it is set up to be.

"I wonder if it is the problem it has been set up to be," he said.

"It (development of mining in the area) will cause some pollution and it will leave a scar but it will not be one that is incurable. When the mining is through it will not be the same in that area but the area will still be there even if in another usable form and it will always be available for recreational use," he said.

He expressed the opinion that we should "take care of the people here now and they will find a way to solve the problems left in us as we are gradually solving ours."

"We were logging for 100 years and it took that long for us to find that we should plant a tree for every one we cut. It took us that long to wake up."

"This situation as it exists today could create a real wilderness. The beauty is locked it all up."

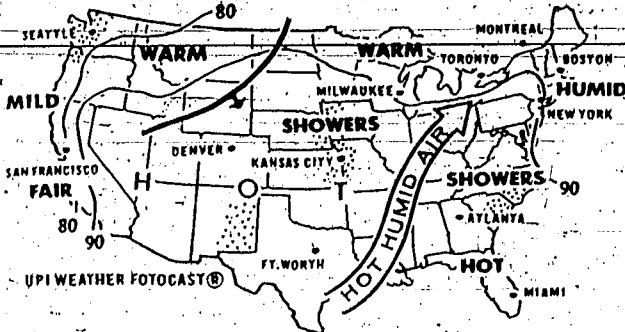

"We are just going to have to live with some problems because they cannot be solved," he said.

"The price tag is unknown, and we are now ill-equipped to handle the problem. It really isn't that we don't know what is wrong and how to eliminate it."

Airline Pilots Face Job Loss

In TWS Drop

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Trans World Airlines will lay off 200 pilots throughout the nation by Oct. 1 because of reduced air travel and a leveling off of the airline's expansion.

Tom Graybill, chief pilot in TWA's Kansas City center, confirmed Friday that 75 pilots will be laid off by Sept. 1 and another 125 by Oct. 1. Included are 18 pilots in Kansas City, which normally has 600 to 700 pilots.

Graybill said TWA is leveling off an expansion program that began 10 years ago. As a result, he said, the airline's pilot training program is tapering off and pilots who have been tied up in training are now being freed to return to flight crews as regular pilots.

Graybill said he did not know the exact number of pilots laid off in each of the airline's five other centers: New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Construction on Pole Line Bridge has been completed and load restrictions will be removed to accommodate all legal loads, Twin Falls District Engineer Keith Anderson said today.

Cracked beams were reinforced under the direction of a bridge contractor, but additional work is scheduled, he said.

Refinishing the bridge surface will be undertaken by the highway district, and should be completed this fall, Mr. Anderson said.

Sorry

Talent Guide Productions wishes to apologize on behalf of the Cowalls to the people of Twin Falls for being unable to appear in the Tempo Store, Friday, July 17, for autographs.

While setting up their equipment in the ball park, they were accidentally locked inside. Once the error was corrected, it was too near showtime for them to make the appearance.

Prisoner Walks Out

A prisoner on trustee duty walked away from the Twin Falls Police Station about noon Friday.

Ray Benally, 38, was arrested Thursday afternoon and shortly before noon Friday was found guilty and assessed a $30 fine and $5 costs. In lieu of paying the fine he was serving a seven day jail sentence.

He was put on trustee duty and was supposed to have been sweeping and mopping floors, emptying waste baskets and tidying up the station.

Instead, he walked out the door unnoticed and hasn't been seen since.

No Progress

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—"When the first settlers arrived in early California," Gov. Ronald Reagan said Thursday at roll-out ceremonies of a new tri-let, "they found half-naked savages smoking the leaves of a native plant."

"You can still see the same thing on Sunset Boulevard every Saturday night," the governor added.

Mr. Kennedy, the Canadian peak named in honor of John F. Kennedy, is 13,095 feet high.

While attending college she was employed by Ross Journey Advertising Agency and Ted Nagata Advertising Co., and for the past two years served as art director for Utechic, a student engineering publication. She won the best of show award at a final University Photo Exhibit.

While serving in the Peace Corps Miss Adamson will see many of the islands previously visited by her father and grandfather. "Robert C. Adamson served in the Pacific area during World War II and during the same period J. W. Adamson was with Morrison-Knudson on Wake Island.

Idaho Political Races Heat Up as Test Nears

By United Press International
As the primary election campaign goes into its final week tomorrow, candidates for gubernatorial spots continued to stump hard and heavy hoping to sway the last few votes their way.

All three Democrats were at work Friday with Vernon Ravenscroft speaking to a Boise State College government class and then later to the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

He told the government class he favors a state-wide kindergarten program and thinks funds should be 100 percent financed by the state.

Later at the Jaycees, he said pollution abatement can be more effective if state officials concentrate on cleaning up areas under their direct charge.

He noted that the ultimate decision on the White Clouds will be made by federal authorities. He said the only role Idaho officials will play in the wilderness area development is through its influence.

Ravenscroft thinks the governor should be concerned more about the areas he has control over, such as the Snake River where Ravenscroft claims soluble starch is being dumped into the river by food processing plants.

He said much pollution is seeping into the state's streams and lakes from recreational home sites. He also charged that construction of highways and flood control projects are, in some cases, damaging the ecology of the streams.

Meanwhile one of his primary opponents, Cecil D. Andrus, said the National Reactor Testing Station in eastern Idaho could become a national waste disposal research center.

He said every effort should be made to put the materials testing reactor back into use. He says it is a tremendous research tool that can accomplish a job for the state. He said it would provide the state with a first-class research role.

Andrus continued his fight against what he terms "non-priority spending in state government." Andrus said a kindergarten can be supported by state funds, on the state's present tax basis, to fund kindergartens if priority spending is practiced.

He said the program would provide all Idaho children with equal opportunity to get a good education before beginning the first grade.

Lloyd Walker, another Democratic hopeful, snipped at a decision by the Samuelson administration to lease a warehouse from a state representative without first offering the lease for bid.

Walker said, in connection with the $300,000 contract granted to the State Representative Fred Bagley for use of a warehouse by the Liquor Control Commission, "the state might well have saved a great deal of money if other investors had been given a chance to bid."

Fire Center Opened

BOISE (UPI) — More than 300 persons were on hand Saturday for the dedication of the $3 million Boise Interagency Fire Center located east of the Boise Airport.

Attending the services were George P. Cressman, director of the U.S. Weather Bureau; Edward P. Cliff, chief of the U.S. Forest Service, Department of Agriculture; Boyd L. Rasmussen, director of the bureau of land management; Gov. Don Samuelson; and Boise Mayor Jay Amick.

Cressman told the crowd which gathered at the modern center, the center puts fire weather specialists in an "eye-to-eye contact" with the forest service and the bureau of land management.

"We now have an ideal situation to enable bringing weather influences into the decision making process with respect to control of forest fires."

He said the physical plant of the weather bureau at the center is "one of the finest in the nation."

"POKE" Larry Burgess of Laramie, Wyo. found his nose poked into the arena during saddle-bronc event during the Cheyenne Frontier Days Celebration. (UPI)

Rampton Confirms Snub

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Democratic Gov. Calvin L. Rampton confirmed Saturday that the White House never formally notified him of President Richard M. Nixon's intention to visit Salt Lake City.

The President arrived at Salt Lake International Airport for a three-hour stop-over on his way to California Friday evening, accompanied by Mrs. Nixon and daughter Tricia.

Although formal protocol dictates that governors be notified by the White House of impending presidential visits, Rampton went to the airport anyway, to greet Nixon.

Newsmen asked the governor Saturday if reports that he was denied a place in the Presidential motorcade to downtown Salt Lake were true.

"I wouldn't say I was denied permission, because I didn't ask for permission, and did not particularly want to. However, no room was offered to me."

The governor spoke briefly with the President when he alighted from Air Force One. But he said, "When I got to the airport, I was treated very courteously and was told that

Sunday, July 26, 1970 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho
I and not Mrs. Rampton could go out and greet the President as he got off the plane, which I did."
No reason was given for the exclusion of Mrs. Rampton from the area of the plane, nor did clear who the person was who forbade the governor's wife to approach.

Wallace Stung

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama's Democratic Executive Committee handed Gov. Nominate George C. Wallace a stinging setback Saturday, passing a rule prohibiting him from running for president on the Democratic ticket in Alabama again in 1972.

A loyalist faction of the 111-member committee, which was chosen in the May primary election, was in clear control as the group held a two-day organizational session. Negroes are present on the committee for the first time, 13 blacks having been elected this year.

Wallace captured the state's electoral votes from Alabama in 1968 under the Democratic banner, but the committee voted 69-28 to prevent that from happening again.

The new rule stipulates that nominees for presidential election be selected by the executive committee, and that they must sign a loyalty oath pledging support for the national party's presidential and vice presidential candidates.

In the past, Democratic electors in Alabama were chosen in the party primary.

The loyalists also pushed through a rule altering the method for choosing delegates to the Democratic National Convention in the future.

Under its provisions, 75 percent of the delegates will be picked in the primary, and the remainder will be selected by the elected members.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

"Miracle" Looks West

POZNAN, POLAND (NEA) — The part of Poland I looked at, which lay directly in the Soviet armies' path to Berlin, struck me as a kind of shabby miracle of recovery. Probably few lands in the world's history have been so ravaged by war. The Poles say 40 per cent of their national wealth was wiped out. Two-thirds of their industrial plants were leveled or incapacitated.

One in every five Poles lost his life. It was a nation of rubble. The great war even destroyed an eighth of Poland's forest land. The visitor can see for himself that the country has been substantially "rebuilt." Yet somehow much of what I saw did not look rebuilt. And that impression comes only in part from the Poles' conscious goal of restoring historic structures in their old image.

The truth is, parts of western Poland have been raised up anew from almost nothing, yet manage to look 25 to 50 years behind the times, even as the Polish government makes great claims for progress in these zones (surely legitimate claims in some considerable measure). Even the claimed restoration is, of course, not exactly complete. Warsaw, once more a city of more than one million people after the Nazis flattened it into a sprawling graveyard of broken stone and crushed bodies, still has its display of ruined buildings. Around Wroclaw (once German Breslau) stand huge piles of memory-stirring rubble. The seeming contradiction I noted touches the people as well as the restored houses, factories, churches and civic landmarks.

By contrast with fled East Germany, the touted high spot in Russia's eastern satellite world, Poland appears far more alive and vigorous. The Poles are out on the country roads, in foot or stride motorcycles and, now and then, in cars.

When I walked Poznan's ancient city square at noon on a work day, there lay beneath the visible bustle a sense of the strong continuity in the life of these people whose nation so often over the centuries has been overrun or menaced. I felt this most when I walked into a lavishly ornamented baroque Catholic church and there caught a moment which a master painter of earlier times would surely have placed on canvas. An old woman in black, her white hair, pale face and thin-rimmed glasses captured by a streaming bright sun, sat quietly thumbing through a small prayer book. Oblivious to all else, her beautiful presence spoke for young and old, for human life that endures war and lesser trouble and goes on.

Hope Eternal

For almost as long as we've been hearing of the great wrongs committed by man in his use and abuse of the environment, we've also been hearing of miraculous schemes to correct the damage and possibly even to turning it to our advantage.

The mortality rate of ecological miracles appears to be very high, however. So far few if any of the brilliant schemes for reversing pollution processes, solving our mounting waste problems or restoring squandered resources have managed that essential leap from theory to practice.

Nevertheless, all efforts along this line are to be welcomed. After all, sheer volume and the law of averages alone ought to yield a few successes.

Among current reports from the ecological research front, there is one of some promise from Pennsylvania State University which deals with not one but two wrongs — the wastelands created by strip-mining and the pollution effect of sewage treated but then discharged by sanitation plants to find its way into rivers and lakes, accelerating algae growth and the aging processes of water bodies. Strip-mining, the profitable practice of scraping off shrubbery and topsoil for quick extraction of subsurface minerals, primarily coal, has had a blighting effect on wide areas of a number of eastern and midwestern states. Even where there have been subsequent efforts to mask the scars, most often as required by law, the soil used for fill is too poor and the quick-growth vegetation too scrubby to come anywhere near repairing the damage.

In the Penn. State experiments, however, test beds of dirt and rock debris from strip-mining have been seeded and then sprayed regularly with waste water and sludge produced by ordinary sewage treatment processes. Grass and trees have sprouted and flourished, while in untreated control beds nothing has come up.

There is still a long way to go between experiment and practice, and no guarantee this scheme will succeed in leaping the gap, unlike so many others.

But it just may be that here is a case where two wrongs can be made into a right.

MR. SPECTATOR

Peek-A-Boo

See the little guy standing up in this picture? We don't rightly know what he's called — a gopher, ground squirrel or perhaps even prairie dog — but he's smarter than Mr. Spectator.

Other day, up in the Stanley Basin - Sawtooth Valley country — at the side of Little Redfish Lake to be exact — we suddenly saw this fellow standing up beside his hole. We watched him for quite a spell from our observation point in the camper.

Then, we decided on a picture. It was late afternoon, the light was a little weak, but it was calm and clear so we thought we'd take a chance. Camera in hand, we sneaked out the camper door but the smart little fellow spotted us and down the hole he went.

So we squatted down, took a beam on the hole, squinting through the camera lens, and waited. Every few minutes the little one would peek up to see where we were, then go down in the hole again.

Minutes passed, about 20 of them, and Mr. Spectator realized something was happening. He was being eaten alive by mosquitos! But he stuck to his post.

Finally, after more than 20 minutes had passed, curiosity got the best of the little one and he emerged from his hole and sat bolt upright, looking our way. From behind the camera in front of our face we must have looked startling

We gave a low, soft whistle. He "spoke" in a sort of a little bark. This went on for about a minute and we started snapping away — all the time "talking" to our little friend and getting an answer.

So his picture — one of them — is at the head of this column today. We are not just sure what our little friend was "talking" about but we have an idea that one of his utterances must have been something like "wonder how crazy that guy sitting out there being devoured by mosquitos!"

It just had to be something like that, even though we are practically certain a picture like this (with conversation) must be worth at least the 300-odd bites we received!

PAUL HARVEY

Hostility Less?

Some Americans, after a generation of Communist intransigence and hostility, are unwilling to believe that Russia could be anything other than our arch-enemy, now and forevermore.

Wouldn't it be something if the war clouds should start breaking up in the East, if the dove of peace should fly our way from a roost along the Volga? Is Russia mellowing?

A year ago this July, addressing the Supreme Soviet in Moscow, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko said the Soviet government "favors the development of good relations with the United States."

The Western world shook its head in disbelief and shrugged off this surprising overture as oratory intended to intimidate Red China.

But then Leonid Brezhnev, Communist Party chief, discussed his country's lagging labor productivity, poor economic management and shortages of consumer goods, and talked of "basic changes in the Soviet system," hinting at an amalgamation of communism and capitalism.

The volume of Soviet imports from the United States has multiplied 165 times in the past 14 years. At the same time, what Russia exports to us has barely doubled.

Words which sound conciliatory are one thing, but these figures are solid evidence of easier East-West relations.

And there is other evidence: Since the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia promised and actively sought world revolution, free nations have sought to hold their red bear at arm's length.

Today Russia is asking the next session of the U.N. General Assembly to adopt a resolution forbidding the acquisition of foreign territory "by any nation."

Probably Russia intended to use this resolution against Israel in the Middle East, but nonetheless expressed a willingness to let it apply to "any nation."

Also at the so-called SALT talks (the strategic arms limitation talks), the Russians seem genuinely to be seeking political — rather than military — solutions.

Institute of Strategic Studies was first to report a "second revolution" in Russia, beginning in 1953 with the death of Stalin. He wrote, remarkably enough, that the year 1970 would see what he called "a peaceful revolution by a managerial and educated class against the rigid grip of the Communist state."

And now, I see Russia's deputy foreign minister visiting with India's prime minister in quest of a new peace formula for Southeast Asia.

In this, I can imagine the Russians torn between tradition and moderation.

Seeking to decide whether they should help the United States out of this trap or keep us bleeding a while longer.

RAY CROMLEY

Nuclear Area

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A leading national newspaper recently commented: "We all had hoped that since the Soviet Union has gained nuclear parity with the United States it would now be content to move toward something of a detente. In the Middle East, the Soviet seems to be moving instead toward increasingly adventurous attempts to expand their political and military influence."

Now the surprising thing is that so many men and women should have supposed that as the Soviet Union moved toward nuclear-missile parity it would become less adventurous.

Though this theory has long been held by some vociferous senators, writers and professors, the history of Moscow foreign and military policy suggests the opposite.

From the end of World War II to 1949, the United States had a monopoly on the atom bomb. In 1946 the Soviet Union made a cautious, tentative thrust into northern Iran. But when President Truman told Russia these troops must leave, Moscow kicked up no fuss, its troops left.

In 1948 when Western Europe was so weak politically and economically that many thought much of the region might fall to communism (thus the Marshall Plan), the Russians attempted the Berlin blockade. But (with our nuclear monopoly) peaceful countermeasures were sufficient to break that blockade.

In 1949 the Soviet Union developed the A-Bomb. The Russian-backed invasion of South Korea followed.

developed the "H-bomb." A buildup of Soviet nuclear forces went on for the next several years.

In 1956 the Hungarian revolt was put down with a ruthless disregard for world opinion and human rights.

In 1957, the Soviet Union developed the ICBM and for the next several years pushed missile development. Soviet confidence was strengthened by President Kennedy's apparent lack of will in the Bay of Pigs incident and by his lack of response to the building of the Berlin Wall, which made prisoners of the East Germans. The Soviet adventure, known as the Cuban missile crisis followed. It was aborted because of U.S. nuclear-missile superiority and Kennedy's firmness.

More recently, the Soviet nuclear build-up has been followed by adventurism in the Middle East and military repression in Czechoslovakia. The Soviet actions also followed a long period of demonstrations of disunity within the United States. These were described recently by Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman as affecting our reliability as an ally. He said this feeling was shared along the length and breadth of Asia. If this is so, presumably this sentiment has been noted by Moscow.

The presidential will demonstrated in the attack on the North Vietnamese military bases in Cambodia was in large effect nullified by the demonstrations of internal dissension which followed in the Senate

DON'T LET IT CUT INTO YOURS

ANDREW TULLY

Petulant Amazons

WASHINGTON — As a citizen who has attended the heart-break that overwhelms the female-better when a horse in which she has invested $2 runs out of the money, I recognize some of the ladies now organizing picket lines for the nationwide women's strike Aug. 28.

For, among other grievances, these "modern" Lystratras are preparing lambrets for grocery tycoons and other purveyors of consumer goods who run merchandising contests and lure unwary females to overspend by offering three cents off the regular price of detergents.

I recognize these girls, I say, because they are the losers.

They are living evidence that there is a greater fury than that suffered by a woman scorned. It is the rage of the tomato who has discovered she can't have it both ways.

I hold no particular grief for the soulless corporations whose very efficiency chills the soul of the average, comparatively feeble, male. As businessmen they seek the same fast buck coveted by the used-car salesmen, the TV peddlers and the morticians. In the spirit of red-blooded American free enterprise, they embrace gimmickry in order to wring the last nickel out of the buyer, even as the purportedly more spiritual literature gets that last 1/2 of 1 per cent from the porcine publisher.

But I flunk the ladies for not realizing the inevitable result of their adventures in seeking something for nothing. To wit, they get taken.

Any male who ever has tempted fate by escorting a female to the racetrack could have warned the bargain-seekers. There is nothing more unreasoning than the fury that suffuses the average girl when her horse runs dead last.

Fortwith, she confronts her protector with the accusation that he had purposely withheld the intelligence that the goat possessed only three sound legs and had been out all night with the boys.

It is much the same when a lady encounters the cues practiced by our merchant princes. Once, a rather nice girl of my intimate acquaintance spent her spare time pasting what were called "Bonus Bingo" coupons in a booklet, the while happily contemplating a future graced with Dior creations and new electric toasters. There were even hints that an errant buck would be left over to purchase a fifth of birch beer for the master of the house.

As it must to 99.9 per cent of contest participants, denouement duly paid its call. "Incredulity was swiftly replaced by the hot-fury to which Hell is such a poor second. "Why, they're nothing but crooks!" screamed the victim. "Why didn't you tell me?"

For such reasons, it is perilous to set oneself up as judge and jury on the campaign by the various women's liberation outfits to rid the nation of these promotions. I suspect a loaf of bread or a joint of marijuana costs more when the merchant perforce must double as a Las Vegas stockman, because few storekeepers roll out of a passion for altruism or a desire to bring happiness to a rose-covered cottage.

But at the risk of being torn limb from limb by a posse of petulant Amazons, I suggest that the female has only herself to blame. She is to blame because she is born with a burning desire to pit herself against the gods of chance.

Maybe the girls will make their point this time, but history is against them. After all, it was not Lot who looked back, but his wife.

BERRY'S WORLD

"The success of my diet is a combination of LOW calories and HIGH will!"

Hearings Prodded Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The chairman of a Senate committee investigating school desegregation in the South believes its hearings have forced the Nixon administration to move faster against racial discrimination in education.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., a persistent critic of the administration's school desegregation policy, sees some "signs of hope" and "I think the reason it is changing is we are putting pressure on them."

Mondale, head of the Senate Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity, made the observations last week while briefing reporters on an unpublished "field trip" he made to three Southern localities. He asked that his comments not be published until Sunday.

The senator said the President and his top advisers still have an "erratic policy" on school desegregation but that the so-called "Southern strategy" has been found wanting.

"I personally believe that for the first 18 months the administration's domestic policy was a consistent Southern strategy," Mondale said. "I believe now, for political reasons, it is beginning to have doubts."

Mondale said he was encouraged particularly by two developments within the last two weeks. Internal Revenue Service's announcement that it will not longer grant tax exempt status to private segregated schools and the Justice Department's decision to send a federal task force to the south this fall to monitor implementation of desegregation plans.

"Both of these decisions, if actively enforced, are vitally important to the attainment of quality integrated education," he said.

These two developments prompted Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., to say in a Senate speech that Nixon could lose the 1972 election if he adopts "anti-South" policies recommended by "ultra liberal advisers."

Mondale insisted these actions were a direct result of his committee's summer-long series of hearings on the school desegregation situation. The hearings will continue this week, with testimony scheduled Tuesday by two former directors of the Health, Education and Welfare department's civil rights division, Mrs. Ruby Martin and Leon E. Panetta. HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson is on tap to testify on Friday.

Mondale said his recent field trip to Prattville, Ala., Homer, La., and Uvalde, Tex., led him to conclude that the administration's school desegregation policy is encountering white resistance, whatever its intent might be.

"This visit confirmed in my opinion all the things we have been hearing in testimony—discrimination and oppression of minority groups appears blatant and widespread," he said.

Mine Safety Neglect Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Coal miners' "black lung" disease was described Saturday as a symptom of a century-old problem of neglect that a profiteering industry, a self-serving miners' union and influence-ridden government agencies have done little to correct.

That was the conclusion of James Davitt McAteer, who led a group of West Virginia University law students in an 18-month investigation of mine safety that was supported by consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

"Perhaps the most disturbing thing is its (the industry's) rapacious impact, the fact that it takes out so much more than it puts in," McAteer said.

He told a news conference the problem has been compounded by President Nixon's "calculated inifference" toward strong enforcement of the 1969 Coal Mine Safety Act.

"The problem of mine safety is very much caught up in the history of influence of mine operators in state government," McAteer said. West Virginia has become, in effect, a "colony" run by mining companies, he said.

Bomb Rips S.L. Sheriff's Car

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A homemade bomb with the power of six hand grenades demolished the patrol car of a deputy sheriff Saturday.

Another device, also described as "built by an expert," was found undetonated near the deputy's nearby private automobile.

Capt. N.D. "Pete" Hayward, chief of detectives for the Salt Lake County sheriff's office, linked the bombs to his recent investigation into burglary and robbery rings.

The explosion occurred at 2:20 a.m. (MDT) while Hayward and his family were at home. No one was hurt.

"I expected this," Hayward said, "but when they start messing around with my wife and family, they've bitten off more than they can chew."

Hayward said that the bombs, put in soft drink cans, were well constructed, and "built by an expert."

Bounty Posted On Russ Ships

FORT BRAGG, Calif. (UPI)—A grocer and other irate citizens offered a $1,658.50 reward Saturday to anyone capturing a Russian fishing trawler inside the 12-mile limit along the Northern California coast.

Jack Azevedo, who hoped his offer might tempt a "soldier of fortune," accused "weak-kneed and cowardly" officials in Washington of allowing repeated violations of territorial waters by a fleet of 17 Soviet trawlers.

But North Coast fishermen, whose boats are about 40 feet long, said trying to bring in one of the 300-foot trawlers would be "like a flea trying to arrest an elephant."

And the U.S. Coast Guard warned that only its officers can legally board foreign vessels inside territorial waters during peace time.

Azevedo, 36, who moved here seven months ago to operate a grocery store, said he'd be happy to pay the Coast Guard if they hauled a violator into Yolo Harbor at Fort Bragg.

"The reward is growing all the time," he added, "and if it gets big enough maybe some soldier of fortune will bring one of those Russian boats in."

The reward, which started at $150, was swelled by donations to $1,658.50 Saturday, including $40 put up by Azevedo himself. It was actually proffered by an informal organization called "American Workers for Americans" which has two members — Azevedo and a fisherman's wife.

The grocer said his quarrel was with the federal government, specifically the State Department, which he accused of preventing the Coast Guard from doing its job.

He said the Soviet fleet was ruling Northern California fishing grounds because their tight-meshed nets don't allow small, young fish to escape.

Airliner Hijacked

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Four men armed with pistols and bombs hijacked an Aerovias de Mexico DC9 jetliner Saturday on a flight from the resort city of Acapulco and forced the pilot to fly to Cuba.

A spokesman for the government-owned airline said 28 of the 27 passengers aboard were Americans, but he was unable to furnish identifications. There were four crew members.

The plane made a brief refueling stop at its original destination here before continuing to Havana.

Cancer in Finland

HELSINKI (UPI)—Cancer kills 7,500 Finns annually, says the Cancer Research Institute. The institute says every fifth Finn out of the country's 5 million population could expect to have some form of cancer during a lifetime.

Italian Eyes Rule

ROME (UPI)—Emilio Colombo, a chief architect of the Italian economic "miracle," agreed Saturday to try to form a new government that would end a 20-day-old national crisis.

The 50-year-old Christian Democrat and six-time Treasury Minister agreed during a brief meeting with President Giuseppe Saragat, who only two hours before completed a one-day round of political consultations.

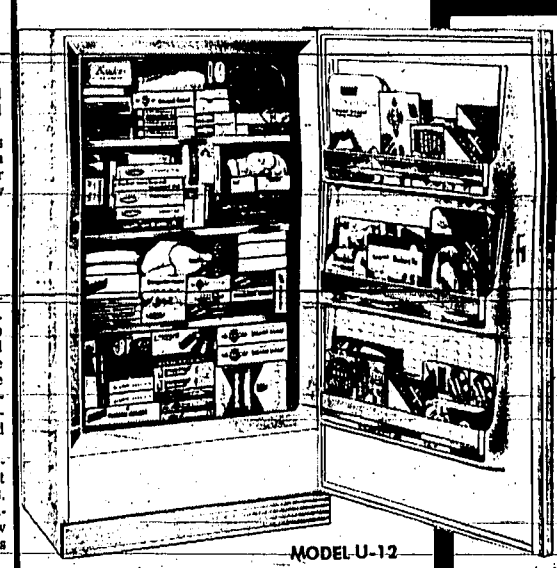

Although he has long been a national political power, this was the first time Colombo had been asked to form a government and lead it as Premier. Saragat summoned Colombo to the Quirinale Presidential Palace to ask him to make another effort at reviving the coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists, Unitarian Socialists and Republicans that had ruled for seven years.

Success would mean formation of the 32nd government since the fall of fascism in 1943. Failure could mean a Presidential decision to call new national elections three years ahead of schedule.

Bomber Slays Executive

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—An apparent witness to the placing of the bomb that killed the president of Continental Telephone Corp., Saturday told police he saw a broad-shouldered man over 25 dressed in a business suit sitting in the 1968 Fleetwood-Cadillac 30 minutes before it exploded.

Phillip J. Lucier, 49, was killed when a bomb exploded as he started the auto.

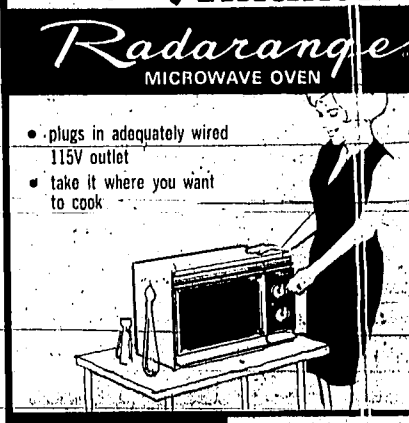

The headquarters of Continental—the third largest telephone utility in the nation—are only a few blocks from the scene of the bombing.

The company announced that a $25,000 reward was being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the killing.

The witness, who asked that his name not be used, told police he was looking for a parking place on the lot where Lucier's car was parked when he saw the man.

"I came about two car-lengths behind the Cadillac," the man said. "I saw a man in the driver's seat. The door of the car was open slightly and the man's foot was outside. I thought he was going to leave. After a few minutes I guessed the man was waiting for someone."

4 Vie for Idaho Education Post

By United Press International
With the only contest in the Republican party, the four candidates for superintendent of public instruction have been conducting a two-key campaign this summer. Republicans nominated H. Louis Hooban, Mullan, and Gilbert McKinlay, Rexburg, for the post. Incumbent Democrat Delbert F. Engelsing is seeking his fourth term in the office, while A. Layne Blanchard, a St. Anthony junior high teacher, is the nominee of the American party. Hooban, at 27 the youngest of the candidates, is a counselor at Mullan High School. He was the first to announce his intentions to run for the office and picked up his petitions from the office of the secretary of state more than a year ago. A graduate of Caldwell High School and Idaho State University, where he received his masters degree in guidance and counseling, Hooban said he opposes eliminating the state superintendent job as an elective position. Controls Lands Noting the superintendent of public instruction is a member of the State Land Board, Hooban said if removed from the ballot the superintendent would also be removed from the Land Board, which controls state school lands given to Idaho by the federal government upon admittance as a state. Hooban has also expressed his belief the state should get the "most out of every tax dollar" and to publicize his economy-minded approach he has been distributing book marks with his campaign slogans to emphasize the double use. During his acceptance speech at the Republican convention in Burley, Hooban said he realized the United States was the "Best educated country in the world" and said he wanted Idaho to be the "best of the 50 states." McKinlay, who holds a master of education degree from Brigham Young University in educational administration, was a principal in Rexburg before he was appointed school psychologist and counselor for the district. He has come out strongly in favor of vocational schools, adding, "because only about 20 per cent of our young people go to college, I think we should offer more specialized vocational training at the high school level." McKinlay has also asked for communication between the home and the school, between the state and the school district, adding the state superintendent could help bridge the gap "by familiarizing himself with the districts and their needs and by offering more help and leadership to the local school districts." Engelsing, who has held the $12,500 per year office for three terms, has been traveling about the state by automobile, but faces no opposition in the primary. A strong advocate of public kindergartens, Engelsing feels the kindergarten program should not be mandatory but should be available "to make it possible for all to go and not just those who can afford to go to private kindergartens — kids in rural as well as metropolitan areas." Engelsing has also undertaken a reorganization study of the massive department of education, with plans to modernize it. Task Force Engelsing has also been working closely with the task force on education, and said his interests coincide with the areas being studied by the group. These include professional negotiations, public school appropriations, area vocational schools, data-processing, environmental education, kindergarten and school formula. Engelsing has urged that the school foundation formula be expanded to include the public kindergarten program. Blanchard, a teacher in Fremont County junior and senior high schools for 10 years, said his attitude has been developed through experience. Blanchard said he opposes a movement to create compulsory kindergartens in public schools, and said while parents should have the privilege of sending their children to a pre-school situation if they so desire the family unit should not be broken up before children are 6 years of age. Blanchard has also questioned the need for compulsory education to the age of 16, noting the age often creates a discipline problem for high school teachers. "We have drifted too far from the idea that education is a privilege rather than an obligation," he added.

On this day in history: In 1847, Liberia, the only sovereign Negro democracy in Africa, was declared a republic. In 1941, Gen. Douglas MacArthur was named Commander of the United States Forces in the Philippines. In 1945, the USS Indianapolis headed for Saigon with atom bombs to be dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in Japan. In 1967, four days of racial rioting in Detroit ended with 36 dead. A thought for the day: George Bernard Shaw said, "The test of a man or woman's breeding is how they behave in a quarrel."

County Fair Atmosphere Sets Pace

BY CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Correspondent

FILER — Despite the high winds and the threat of rain, more than 550 persons turned out for the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital's annual picnic, held at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds at Filer. The colorful "County Fair" theme provided adequate entertainment for all attending.

The picnic was for hospital employees which included the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, medical staff, hospital board members and county commissioners and their families.

This year's outing was appropriately themed, with employees entering exhibits in various categories including art, sewing, knitting, ceramics, flowers, antiques and handicraft. The displays were judged by members of the unit auxiliary, with first, second and third-place ribbons awarded.

Games for the children were also provided with a "County Carnival" theme, with Sam Austin, Twin Falls, student nurse at the hospital, taking a dunking in a large tub of cold water each time the bullseye was hit.

Fortune telling was provided for those interested in learning what the future held for them. Winnie Rudolph read the cards and Ellen Beachell, affiliated with the dietary department at the hospital, read the tea leaves.

After dinner, everyone enjoyed playing games, with some very nice gifts awarded the winners.

Women of the auxiliary were on hand with their money tree project. According to Mrs. David Marrs, finance chairman for the project, anyone interested in participating in the project can contact the hospital; Mrs. Jack Stephens, president of the auxiliary, or Mrs. Clyde Smith, co-chairman of finance.

BARBARA ALLEN from the hospital's dietary department serves a cold drink to Peggy Stanfield, a member of the picnic committee, during the recent "County Fair" social hosted by employees of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Basque Feast Is Tremendous Success

BY LIZ BOLTON
Times-News Correspondent

SUN VALLEY — An initial benefit Basque feast here recently drew a much larger crowd than expected, with more than 500 individuals served and about $2,100 raised for the playground equipment at the Ernest Hemingway School, Ketchum.

Planned under the auspices of the Ernest Hemingway School Fund Committee, Jack Brown, chairman, the feast was served at the Trail Creek Cabin, with facilities donated by Sun Valley. In addition to volunteers from the committee, many Basque volunteers were on hand to serve and help with other meal arrangements. Gloria Butta, famous Sun Valley Basque cook, who years ago used to prepare Basque feasts regularly, came out of retirement briefly to oversee the arrangements.

It was originally hoped at least 300 individuals would turn out for the meal of lamb, ham, Basque rice, green salad, potato and macaroni salads. An added attraction for the guests was the appearance of Peggy Fleming who is in the traditional wine. Lamb for the meal was donated by John Breckenridge, Twin Falls; Peto Conarussa and John Peavey and her company were released Jan. 22. Miss Fleming and Dennis Burkes, Flat Top, Bill Mallory, Halley, donated the bread. To raise additional funds, one of the donated lambs was sold, initially going to Chuck Atkinson for $275. Mr. Atkinson returned the lamb which was then auctioned to Dorothy Bayerle for $100. The lamb was returned a second time to be auctioned to Al Kriever for $110. Mr. Kriever retained the animal.

An added attraction for the guests was the appearance of Peggy Fleming who is in the traditional wine. Lamb for the meal was donated by John Breckenridge, Twin Falls; Peto Conarussa and John Peavey and her company were released Jan. 22. Miss Fleming and Dennis Burkes, Flat Top, Bill Mallory, Halley, donated who is writing the commentary for the show, which will actually be filmed in September and December, with preliminary shots being taken this month.

Some 40 young Boise dancers, known as the Olnakari Dancers, entertained with various Basque selections. They were accompanied by Jimmy Jausoro on the accordion and Domingo Ansoategui in the background. Both men are from Boise, and also played for public dancing. The Olnakari dancers represented Idaho at the Seattle World's Fair, the New York World's Fair and the Smithsonian Festival in Washington, D.C.

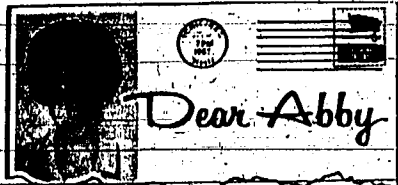

AWAITING INSTRUCTIONS to begin serving various dishes at the recent Basque feast at Sun Valley are, from left, Vanessa Sabala, Valerie Sabala, Kim Laragon and Lynn Bird. More than 500 persons were served during the gathering, with guests attending from throughout Southern Idaho.

DRESSED IN TRADITIONAL Basque outfits are background music played by Jimmy Jausoro and the Olnakari Dancers as they entertained during the recent Basque feast. The dancers, a group of 40 young Boise people, are accompanied by Domingo Ansoategui. Approximately $2,000 was realized from the event to help provide playground equipment at the Ernest Hemingway School in Ketchum.

SPECIAL ENTERTAINMENT was provided by the Olnakari Dancers during the benefit Basque social at Trail Creek Cabin. The dancers have represented Idaho during several national events including the Seattle World's Fair, the New York World's Fair and the Smithsonian Festival in Washington, D.C. DEAR ABBY: Recently you had a letter from a young wife whose husband was offered a better job in another state. She was reluctant to leave her mother as she was an only child, and you advised her to move with her husband.

Abby, I realize that a woman's first duty is to her husband, but why must money and position come before one's parents who have spent the best years of their lives raising their children in the hope that in their later years they will have someone to visit them and comfort them?

When children move hundreds of miles from their parents, visiting is a financial burden and also an inconvenience. What's the use of having children if all you have to do look forward to is a visit from them every year or two?

It seems as though the society doesn't think family love is important anymore. It's the almighty dollar that counts.

CLOSE TO MOTHER

DEAR CLOSE: You say you realize that a woman's first duty is to her husband. You're right. But if he must move in order to accept a better job in another state, there is more than "the almighty dollar" involved. His sense of accomplishment and confidence in his ability to succeed and climb higher is at stake. The wife who asks him to stay where he is and pass up promotion because she wants to stay close to her parents is doing her husband a tremendous disservice.

It's nice, I agree, when parents can have their children near to visit them and comfort them in their old age, but that is not the reason parents raise children. [And if it is, it shouldn't be.]

DEAR ABBY: I have a complaint which I certainly hope you will give a little publicity to because I am sure others have the same complaint. It's the utter and complete thoughtlessness with which some people select retirement gifts.

Example: My sister has just retired, and some of her co-workers tilted and asked me for "suggestions" for a gift for her. I said, "She is moving into a mobile home and is getting rid of a lot of things, so why don't you give her a gift certificate and let her buy what she wants? (My sister had just given her daughter all her china, stemware and silver, and she kept only one set of dishes and a set of stainless steel to use in her limited quarters.)"

So what did her co-workers give her? A set of china (108 pieces!) and a huge silver tray, inscribed, "Best wishes for a long and happy life. The employees of..." She has to stand the tray on the floor as there is no cupboard large enough to hold it. The dishes she is considering taking to a gift exchange place.

ALSO RETIRED

DEAR ALSO: I can understand some well-meaning co-workers selecting an inappropriate gift, but when they go to the trouble of asking there is no excuse for such colossal gifts.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished cleaning up after a family dinner, and for once I am not "beat."

We have one son who has been married for 10 years. He and his wife (and her parents) have eaten at my home so many times I couldn't begin to count them.

My husband and I have eaten at my son's home twice, and at her parents' home twice.

Tonight, I did not lay the table as usual with my nice china, sterling, crystal, and linen. I used sturdy paper plates, plastic cups and my everyday stainless.

Eyebrows were raised, but I got compliments on my food as usual. I might add that my daughter-in-law and her mother are both fabulous cooks, but they cannot be bothered to have guests.

What a job to throw out those paper plates, plastic cups and paper napkins!

NOT TOO LATE, SMART

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Odds Improving on Proposed "Liberation" Amendment

By RAY MOSELEY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some day, men may be clustered outside induction centers, waving goodbye to wives and girlfriends as they go off to the Army.

West Point might have to build a dormitory for women cadets.

Men may be able to draw child support and alimony payments from their former wives.

Women who are "protected" by some states from working night hours or lifting heavy weights on the job may find these restrictions abolished and more jobs opened to them as a result.

REP. MARTHA GRIFFITHS (shown in a 1969 file photo), D-Mich., a prime sponsor of a proposed Constitutional amendment for women's rights, says, "I think it will pass. Passage of the amendment might mean women would be drafted into the Army, men's colleges would have to accept women and men would be allowed to collect alimony and child-support payments from their divorced wives. (UPI telephoto)

This might sound like a women's liberation dream, but it could come to pass if Rep. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., has her way and her odds are improving.

Mrs. Griffiths is sponsor of a proposed constitutional amendment which reads: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex. Congress and the several states shall have power within their respective jurisdictions to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

For 47 years the amendment has languished in the House Judiciary Committee. Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., the 82-year-old chairman of the committee who came to Congress in the same year it was first introduced, looks with horror on the prospect of its passage.

Enactment would mean years and years of litigation and years of turmoil, uncertainty and confusion, he says.

But Mrs. Griffiths has collected 216 signatures, a necessary majority, on a petition to take the proposal out of committee. She plans to force a vote on the petition Aug. 10, and if that carries as expected, she hopes that same day to muster the two-thirds vote needed for adoption by the House. "I think it will pass," she said.

In the Senate, a constitutional amendments subcommittee has scheduled a vote on the same proposal Thursday and "more than enough" votes are assured for passage, a committee source said. Seventy-nine senators, well above the necessary two-thirds, are co-sponsoring it.

If Congress adopts the proposal, it will have to be ratified by three-fourths of the states to become part of the Constitution.

Historical Film Could Lead to Major Documentary

By HELEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pat Nixon's staff director, Connie Stuart, may not write a book when her White House days are over, but she will have enough historical film for a major documentary.

When the First Lady is making a public appearance and newswomen are scurrying to keep up with the events Mrs. Stuart is always spotted running around with her movie camera.

This happened in Peru, where Mrs. Nixon hit her stride as a lady of mercy helping deliver emergency supplies to earthquake victims.

It also is true in Washington when the President's wife makes a personal appearance.

White House staff members rarely start out their jobs with the intention of writing books or making movies, but eventually it gets to them. They are watching history in the making. Fame and fortune could await them when their White House days are over.

Even Lady Bird Johnson, who insisted during her five years as First Lady that she was only tape recording her memoirs almost nightly "for my grandchildren," will have a book on the stands before Christmas.

It is all to the good. History is the story of people, which is why there is so much interest in first families, and their impact on society. Historians outside the circle must go to the daily newspapers, mostly, to get the facts and the perspective.

Mrs. Nixon says she keeps only an appointment book and jots down notes. Some hope she too will record her personal

Dandruff Can Be Serious

Although dandruff is considered more of an unsightly nuisance than a disease by many persons, when neglected it can lead to a scalling scalp infection, inflammation of the eyelids, or an ear-infection. According to an article for pharmacists from which this information was gleaned, treatment for dandruff can be as simple as washing hair and scalp. However, an effective dandruff shampoo should be substituted for a plain one. "A problem with many is that they do not maintain treatment," the article notes. Habitual use of the shampoo is necessary to control the condition. A dermatologist may prescribe special therapy for stubborn cases. But, for the usual case, "a pleasant shampoo containing the proven-effective sulfur and other medications will give the continuous control needed."

(A number of effective dandruff shampoos which contain sulfur can be used as a "regular" shampoo after the condition clears. One of these, phisoDan, also contains an antibacterial agent which provides an invisible barrier to scalp infection, which becomes increasingly effective with regular use.)

Half of the people who enter a drug store have dandruff, according to the article. In buying meals, learn to recognize both the inspection mark—a circle—and the grade mark—a shield. The inspection mark tells you that the meat is clean and wholesome and the grade mark tells you the quality of the meat.

Fake Furs Will Top List For Winter Coats

In the big back-to-school coat debate, mothers traditionally stand firm for warmth and quality while kids hold out for zingy colors and snappy styling.

But this year—with fabulous fake furs reaching an unexcelled peak in terms of durability, good design and modest prices—the confrontation at Generation Gap has collapsed and the two camps are as one. Or just about.

Even with almost an entire animal kingdom to choose from, the one coat question left on the family front may be "who wears what?"

Does Jane go to kindergarten in curly lamb or creamy shearling?

Does Dick make points on the playground in thick cinchilla or rugged raccoon?

And will big sister fare best in alluring lynx or rich itech?

Playing cards have been taxed in the United States since 1894, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Negro Congressman Is McCall's Guest Columnist

NEW YORK — The country's first Negro congressman asserted today that in politics "being black is much less of a drawback than being female."

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, writing as guest columnist in the current issue of McCall's just released, explained that during her political career, she has "faced undisguised hostility because of my sex."

"Being the first black woman elected to Congress has made me some kind of phenomenon," the New York Democrat said. "There are nine other blacks in Congress; there are ten other women. I was the first to overcome both handicaps at once. Of the two handicaps, being black is much less of a drawback than being female."

Mrs. Chisholm continued, "that there is prejudice against women is an idea that still strikes nearly all men — and, I am afraid, most women — as bizarre."

"Part of the problem is that women in America are much more brainwashed and content with their roles as second-class citizens than blacks ever were," she wrote in McCall's.

"When a bright young woman graduate starts looking for a job, why is the first question always: 'Can you type?' A history of prejudice lies behind that question. Why are women thought of as secretaries, not administrators? Librarians and teachers, but not doctors and lawyers? Because they are thought of as different — and inferior. The happy homemaker

Former T.F. Resident Finds Dual Roles Very Challenging

JUNEAU — Mrs. Deena Williams Henkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Williams, 2087 Maple Ave., Twin Falls, fills a dual role — that of a wife and a lady engineer.

Mrs. Henkins says she feels nothing unusual about fitting the two roles, even though "engineer" sounds so masculine. She is staff sanitary engineer for Alaska's Division of Environmental Health, Department of Health and Welfare, in Juneau, and is married to Dale Henkins, state highway geologist.

Careerwise she says the main difference between an engineering wife and any other wife is that it is perhaps harder to advance professionally.

According to Mrs. Henkins, women can't expect to get into processing engineering positions such as oil, chemical and pulp concerns, because she doubts if they would be accepted and sometimes there is heavy handling to do.

Mrs. Henkins, who was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1963, investigates water and oil pollution and handles correspondence on these subjects. "All oil pollution is not on water; some is on land," she noted.

Although she was born in California, Mrs. Henkins' childhood was divided between California and Idaho. She showed an interest in home life the day she was graduated from the University of Idaho as a Sigma Tau, engineering scholastic honorary, with a B.S. degree in chemical engineering. On that day she married Dale Henkins, lifelong resident of Douglas, Alaska.

MRS. DALE HENKINS former Twin Falls resident, is a lady engineer for Alaska's Division of Environmental Health, Department of Health and Welfare. She works with water and oil pollution. Mrs. Henkins is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Williams, 2076 Maple Ave., Twin Falls.

Critics Rate Slack Styling

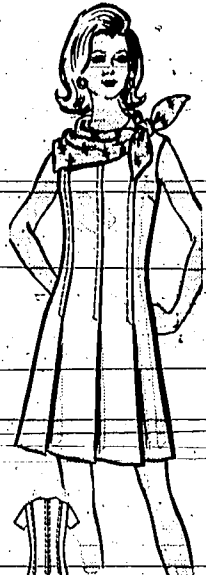

Campus fashion critics have rated the new movies "Slack Styling for Fall '70" both "S" and "W".

While "S" will continue with flare, much of the fashion activity for Fall '70 is moving up to the waist (W).

"The modified flare bottom must be considered basic styling for slacks on campus for fall," said Burton B. Ruby, president of Jaymar-Ruby, the nation's largest manufacturers of quality dress slacks. "The silhouette of the slacks will remain the same while waistband detailing will draw much of the attention."

Magic Valley Girls Attend Sessions On Camperships

As sessions begin at Camp Tawakani July 27, several girls will have the privilege of attending through campership money. A portion of this is from individuals in the community, and the remainder is derived from the Charm School, a joint effort of the Junior Club of Twin Falls and the Magic Valley Council of Camp Fire Girls.

In this way a number of girls who could not otherwise attend camp may enjoy the advantages of a well-supervised vacation in the mountains, combining education with fun and friendship.

Another Charm School is being planned this fall, to be held on Saturdays from Oct. 17 to Nov. 21 at the Idaho Power Auditorium. The two organizations combine their efforts to provide instruction for teen-age girls in the valley, on such subjects as posture, hair and skin care, dress, accessories, personality improvement and etiquette. The Camp Fire office provides secretarial work and materials, and coordinating assistance, and the Junior Club members are the instructors.

This year the general chairman will be Mrs. Max Euteneier. Camp Fire coordinator is Mrs. Dorothy Peavoy, field director for the Magic Valley Council. Publicity chairman will be Mrs. Michael Greene.

Further details regarding the next Charm School will be announced.

secretary, Faye Wegener, president, Eva Schrank, Idona Wanman, Mae Herron, reporter, and Maria Smith, who has been a member of the club since 1925.

July Breakfast Hosted By Local Addison Avenue Club

Crisp cinnamon rolls and a platter of assorted fresh fruit, served with hot coffee, added the finishing touch to a lovely morning breakfast for members of the Addison Avenue Club.

Flower arrangements of pink and white chrysanthemums decorated the brightly colored tables.

Faye Wegener, president of the club, hosted the breakfast on the patio of her home, and Emily Claiborne, club secretary; Norma Walker, historian; Mae Herron, reporter; Idona Wanman, Eva Schrank, Maria Smith, and Winnie McGuire were among those attending.

Mrs. Wegener surprised the members by making artificial pansy bouquets out of cloth and pipe cleaners and placing them on the tables for her guests.

The Addison Avenue Club is one of the oldest clubs in Twin Falls. Organized in 1923, the club consisted of members who lived in the vicinity of Addison Avenue East. Since that time, many have moved away from the avenue, but have chosen to remain as members.

Although the club is a small one, the service it has given the community has been great. During the years the club has been organized, the members have made donations to many organizations in both money and time. Donations have been made to the Boise Children's Home, to the Idaho Youth Ranch, to Special Education services and aid has been given to many needy families, and the Red Cross and Cancer drives.

Each meeting is hosted by a member of the club and is held in her home. The hostess prepares the program, which is educational or inspirational, and may include crafts, book reviews, slides or games.

The motto of the club continues to be its first concern, and that is to "help one another."

TOPS Members Record Loss

RICHFIELD — Richfield Diet Does Club recorded a weight loss of 25½ pounds for the past week, with 10 members weighing in. Mrs. Ross Swainston was best loser of the week for a treasure chest gift.

Mrs. George Young was crowned queen, with Mrs. Loyd Lee officiating in the ceremony as runner-up. Mrs. Lee also received the month's hairstyling award. Mrs. Young modeled some of her larger size clothing for the members and pictures were taken.

Mrs. Carl Riley and Mrs. Lee were named leaders of a new three-month weight losing contest.

Death of "Mini" Recorded in Spain

MADRID (UPI) — Spain's fall-winter 1970 fashion show this weekend tolled the death of the mini and rang in the new year's mini and maxi.

Gone was the irreverent mini-skirt for good, it seemed. Eleven designers in three days of parades forecast a severe future world of long boots, de-sack coats, military collars, trousers and capes.

When legs grudgingly were given the light of day, it was through dark, flocked stockings at best.

This season's look would have delighted women at the turn of the century. Belts stretched high and wide for narrow, narrow waists, clothes were sculptured to thin, tall bodies. This was the only shape catered to by the designers. No other figure would be able to carry off elegantly a style given over to long skirts, tight bodices, and trousers that often belted out to a Gauchio, Russian or Turkish bagginess.

The austere military morning, however, reverted to the romanticism of the 1830s and 1940s for evening. Some described it as a Salvation Army look for day and one favored by the merry widows of opera for night time.

Black, relieved by organza, embroidered, appliqued flowers and low necklines, was decreed a vintal for the dinner hour this season. Bright blouses were allowed occasionally, but preferably long-sleeved.

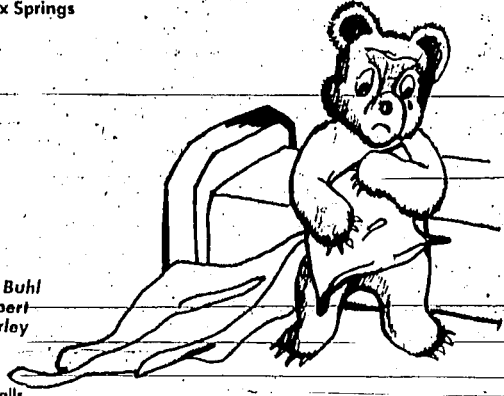

Serious browns, beiges, brandies, fir and bottle-greens always with plenty of black.

John Clark, Oakley, was chef for the event, which also drew an estimated 800 persons. Horse racing and a morning program also were included in the Oakley celebration. Principal celebrations were staged at Hagerman, Carey and Oakley.

School Problem Aired

BURLEY — "Cassia county is behind Mindoka county has moved ahead of Cassia in its school improvement because of basic differences in approach," Earl Carlson, former Burley High School principal told Rotarians here this week. He resigned recently to become principal of the new West Junior High school in Mindoka County. The school official pointed out that the failure of school officials to follow the recommendations of the study committee two years was an error and the change of superintendents at that time was a mistake, since a lapse in direction ensued.

Queen judges were Howard Haslam, Bliss; Doug Wood, Gooding; and Gooding Co. sheriff, Earl Brown. A capacity group attended the afternoon rodeo which is rated as one of the outstanding amateur rodeos in the area. Bucking stock is furnished by Ralph Steven, Meridian, and is noted for its exceptional bucking abilities. Other stock was furnished by Wood's Echo Springs Ranch, Bliss. Winners in the saddle bronc riding were Larry Robinson, Gooding, first, and Larry Brown, Gooding, second. Mike Morrison, Buhl, placed first in the bare back riding with Steve Gottrell, Gooding, first and Steve Shepherd, Jerome, second in the bull riding.

A contest is planned between the BLM and State Highway personnel, to determine which employees have the greatest participation in the drawing. Results will be determined on percentage of the total number of employees and those participating.

During that night it was reported that joint events between the clubs would be held when possible.

Each polling place is to have at least one voting machine.

Population Loss Noted

SHOSHONE — Census figures from the Census bureau show Shoshone lost 14.8 per cent of its population, dropping from 1418 in 1960 to 1206 in 1970. Lincoln county dropped in population from 3,886 in 1960 to 2,670 in 1970. The report also shows that there are 65 cities in Idaho with over a 1,000 population. Towns near Shoshone also suffered a loss, the report shows. Gooding dropped from 2,760 to 2,524; Jerome from 4,761 to 4,158; and Wendell, 1,232 to 1,105. Halley however, grew from 1,185 in 1960 to 1,398 in 1970. Lincoln county's population in 1900 was 1,784; in 1910, 12,676; in 1920, 3,446; in 1930, 3,242; in 1940, 4,230; in 1950, 4,256; in 1960, 3,888, and now, 1970, 2,670.

Mishap Brings Citation

RUPERT — Citations will result from a two-vehicle accident at 10:30 p. m. Friday on Highway 27 near 300 S in Hoyburn, officers said. Olin C. Williams, 62, Burley, will be cited for drunk driving and failure to yield the right of way after the 1953 Dodge pickup truck he was driving, collided with a 1968 Oldsmobile driven by Gaylon Hondo, 18, Burley. Deputy Sheriff Wes Woodall, said Mr. Williams was traveling south on Highway 27 and turned left in front of the Hondo car which was going north. The deputy said Mr. Hondo applied his brakes and his car skidded 100 feet. The vehicles collided 10 feet over the center line on the northbound lane, the deputy said. Both men were taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital, Burley, where Mr. Hondo was treated and released. Mr. Williams was admitted but was expected to be released Saturday afternoon. Bath vehicles were demolished.

Water on Road Upsets Area Truck

RUPERT — Walter C. Roberts, 25, Burley, was reported in good condition Saturday at Cassia Memorial Hospital, Burley, after his pickup truck went out of control in six inches of water and overturned on the Ridgeway Road, three miles south of Interstate 80 Thursday night. State Patrolman Dean Holloway cited Mr. Roberts for failure to have his vehicle registered. Both the driver, and his passenger, Wes Roberts, 23, Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., were thrown from the 1955 Chevrolet pickup truck after it skidded in the water and overturned in a ditch. The passenger was treated and released.

Caravan Slated In Area

SHOSHONE — A caravan for Vernon Havenacrot, Tuttle, Democratic candidate for nomination for governor, and a motorecade of young people will be in Shoshone Tuesday, sometime during the afternoon. The motorecade will leave Wendell, go to Hagerman, Bliss, be in Gooding at noon, then on to Fairfield, Bellevue, Halley, Ketchum and Shoshone, to attend a rally at Jerome that night.

Theatre Sets Gooding Plays

GOODING — Two one-act comedies by Chekov will be presented at 8:30 p. m. Monday at the Gooding Livestock Commission sales ring by the Antique Festival Theatre. The performance of the repertory theatre in Gooding is sponsored by the Mental Health Association and children under 10 will be admitted free. The plays are entitled "The Marriage Proposal" and "The Wedding."

House Burns On K. H. Ranch

KING HILL — A two-bedroom house on the north boundary of the Knox Pitchfork was destroyed by fire of unknown cause Friday afternoon. Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, owner, credited the Glenns Ferry volunteer fire department with keeping the blaze spreading to nearby buildings. An employe on the ranch, Adam Tarango, was asleep in the house, but was awakened by the fire. It was not known if he had been smoking. Power lines were damaged by the blaze, and BLM crews also assisted at the scene.

Shoshone Urged to Okay Bond Vote

SHOSHONE — "Every citizen has to be concerned with water pollution and there is no way to avoid the cost. Either we put up with the future costly consequences of pollution or we accept the present costs. There is no other choice." Mayor Werry made the statement this week in connection with the $500,000 bond election set for Aug. 11 to provide local funds for a proposed sewer system for the city of Shoshone. Since the bond issue is for revenue bonds, the fee is paid monthly by users and there is no property tax assessment. The disposal pond, lifts and pressure pipes are eligible for federal and state funds, he said. Estimate of that cost is $204,000 and an outright grant from state and federal will amount to 75 per cent of the amount or $213,477. State funds will be available now that were not available last March when the revenue bond election failed by about 16 votes. Last March the cost per household was set at $8 per month, for the repayment plan of the revenue bonds. With the state funds, Mr. Werry said, this may be reduced but no actual figure can be given at this time. Another change that will be favorable to business men is the fact that the city council has adopted a new system for business places, rather than the meter basis set in March. Using 4,000 gallons of water as a basis for one unit charge, which would be the same charge as per household, the city would then add additional amount equivalent to one-half the water bill of that month. For example, if a water bill by the meter were $12.22 the sewer charge would be $6 plus $6.22 for a total of $12.22, assuming the unit charge were to remain at $8 or less, if the unit charge is reduced. The mayor explained that monthly rates will be no more than is necessary to repay the bond issue and maintain the system, and under the new set-up for business houses, there can be no possible complaint of favoritism, the amount of water used being the basis of charges in all surrounding towns. Also, last spring the plans were to bring the sewer lines to the nearest alley for home and business owners. Now the city plans to bring the lines so that each property owner can connect at the edge of his property, which will be considerably a reduction in cost of connections. There will be a fee of $5 for connections for funds to repay street damage caused by the sewer line construction. After six months, however, the fee will be increased to $10 and a $100 charge for new homes or business buildings after the sewer is constructed. Property owners can do their own ditch digging, if possible, to save money. The law requires that voters must approve the bond issue in order to be eligible for the grant of money. Shoshone is now high on the priority list, but this priority would be lost if the election does not carry at the Aug. 11 election.

Interstate Highway Proves Deer Herd Death Trap

By JIM HUMBERD
Idaho Fish-Game Department

Getting hung up on a fence and fatally-trapped is a tragic and wasteful way for deer to die. Such waste is commonplace during the twice-a-year migration: from summer to winter range, and vice versa, on the Sublett-Black Pine game management units lying adjacent Interstate Highway 80-N, which runs northwest from Snowville, Utah, to Interstate Highway 15 just east of Burley, Idaho.

One section of Interstate 80-N cuts directly across a historic mule deer migration route, bisecting summer and winter ranges. Deer summering in the Sublett unit must cross the interstate highway somehow to reach wintering grounds in the Black Pine unit, with most animals moving between Sweetzer and Juniper interchanges. The last reliable estimate was calculated at nearly 2,000 animals in this migratory-herd.

The interstate highway imposes two separate barriers for deer. One is the fence, which parallels the entire length of the freeway on both sides. It is here deer literally get hung up, usually fatally. Not all animals have trouble with this obstacle. Size and physical condition determine whether a particular deer will get over or not. The fence has a bottom strand of barb wire which stretches directly above the ground, preventing fawns from crawling under.

This is followed by mesh netting and then three more strands of barb wire on top. Even adult deer in good condition have trouble negotiating this barrier.

Deer that jump or otherwise get over or through the fence find another obstacle. They instinctively are most wary of an old road. Even when they bound in characteristic pogo-slick fashion from the fence to the surfaced road, they usually stop before cautiously venturing out on black-top. Sometimes they tear our pelvic muscles when their sharp hoofs slide out from under them on the hard slick surface and they land "spread eagle". This type of accident is not uncommon when deer go out on ice and apparently can happen when they cross any slick surface, such as oil.

The new interstate, completed last year to save a few minutes of driving time and to avoid a heavier snow belt on Black Pine Mountain, definitely is affecting the migratory deer herd adversely. Forty-one animals died as a result of the highway, not counting 11 unborn fetuses. The animals killed this spring, in relationship to those killed last fall, amount to about 37 percent of those killed last fall and about 25 percent of the total killed on the interstate. Whether this pattern will be repeated or not is not known, but the fawn crop undoubtedly will have trouble again negotiating the frontage fence.

As travelers and truckers become more familiar with this route, traffic is going to increase along with accidents and deer losses. The crossing aids, as constructed earlier (cattle guards which did not exclude deer) and ramps were not used at all by any of the deer crossing during the spring migration.

It appears there are presently only two courses of action to take, neither of which will completely eliminate the problem.

First would be to modify the fences that would permit the deer to cross more readily. This could result in less time the animal would spend on the Interstate, somewhat reducing the chances of being hit by a vehicle. The hazards of an auto-deer collision must be considered, and a system of warning devices for motorists may have to be installed.

Second, and the less desirable, would be to construct the fence in such a way animals could not cross, thus eliminating the vehicle accident problem, but which would eliminate the migration of deer to wintering areas. If this migration is blocked, it is doubtful the deer could survive the deep snow and unavailable food supply at the crossing area. The results would be a drastic rapid reduction of this deer-herd.

Either way, we are faced with a problem of deer losses as a result of the new Interstate. The possibility of constructing overpasses and underpasses has been considered, but the high costs involved in such construction and the possibility deer would not utilize them leaves some doubt in their feasibility.

Any way you look at it, the future of this migration is not good.

Firms Deny Lack of Nutrients in Dry Cereals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major breakfast cereal manufacturers have denied the allegations of an independent food researcher that their products are "almost devoid" of essential nutrients.

The major manufacturers — General Mills, General Foods, the Kellogg Co., and Quaker Oats — issued statements quoting their own experts and attacking the standards used by Robert J. Choate in ranking the nutritive value of the top 50 cereals. Choate told a Senate consumer-subcommittee Thursday that 40 of the 60 products, including the most advertised brands, were full of "empty calories" and almost useless nutritionally.

Chairman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mary Lou Burg of West Bend, Wis., recently named vice chairman of the Democratic National Committee, says she plans to try to persuade women to take a more active part in seeking public office.

"If we had more women in politics," she told a news conference Tuesday, "we might not be faced with the war in Vietnam."

Pro-Cuban Diplomats Provide Biggest Puzzle

BY WILLIAM GIANDONI
Latin American Editor
Copley News Service

CUBAN PREMIER Fidel Castro and then-Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev first embraced at the opening session of the U.N. General Assembly Aug. 20, 1960. Although Castro kept his own Communist beliefs an official secret until December, 1961, Cuba was even then receiving Soviet military and financial assistance — and still is.

Even harder to understand than U.S. students cutting sugarcane in Cuba are the statesmen and diplomats who are plumping for resumption of relations with Fidel Castro's dictatorship.

The students can be pardoned. None of them is old enough to have known Cuba before it was surrendered to Castro and the Communists 11 years ago.

None of them is likely to learn the truth. For the most part, the only readable books about Cuba under Castro seem to be those written by authors who, at least at the time of writing, sympathized with the Castro revolution. If they subsequently changed their minds and reached the conclusion that Castro was not really doing Cuba any good, their writings sound much like attempts to apologize for having led their readers astray in the first place. And excuses never make very good reading.

The students, who think in terms of "oligarchies," of "imperialist exploitation," of U.S. "domination of Latin America," know no better.

But it is a different matter with the Latin statesmen who are so anxious to rekindle relations with Communist Cuba. Chilean Foreign Minister Gabriel Valdes, Venezuelan President Rafael Caldera, Prime Minister Eric Williams of Trinidad-Tobago, Bolivian President Gen. Alfredo Ovando and the others, reached the age of reason years ago.

They know how Castro masterminded the sneak attack on the Moncada barracks in Santiago in 1953 that gave his 25th of July Movement its name.

They cannot have forgotten that Castro managed to be at a safe distance when the shooting broke out.

They recall that five years earlier, in 1948, he was one of the young mobsters who participated in the "Bogalazo," the violent attempt to break up the inter-American foreign ministers' meeting in the Colombian capital.

They certainly recall Castro's marathon broadcast the night of Dec. 1 and early morning of Dec. 2, 1961, in which he proclaimed that "I am a Marxist-Leninist and I will be until the last day of my life."

And they must remember his confession then that he hid his Communist leanings from the Cuban people because to have revealed that he considered himself a Marxist would have alienated the Cuban masses as well as the bourgeois.

But that is not all.

Just four years ago, in 1966, when Castro was in good voice and had nothing better to talk about he would castigate Chilean President Eduardo Frei as a "reactionary" and a "coward" and heap abuse on the Chilean Christian Democrats "revolution in liberty."

Three years ago, Gen. Ovando, then boss of the Bolivian military, was readying special forces for the fight against a Cuban-trained guerrilla group led personally by Ernesto "Che" Guevara, the adventurer who wrote the book on "Guerrilla Warfare" after the Cuban revolution. Presumably Ovando concurred in the order that Guevara be shot the day after his capture in October, 1967.

Two years ago, as Venezuela prepared for national elections, one of the government's very real concerns was the possibility that Cuban-inspired guerrillas again would seek to disrupt the balloting.

Venezuela is the country whose charges that Castro-Communists were behind an invasion attempt led to Cuba's exclusion from the Organization of American States.

A month ago, "black power" advocates, who profess faith in the Castro-Cuban example, were girding themselves for revolutionary outbursts like that which occurred in Trinidad-Tobago, where Eric Williams and his government are both black and in power.

Not strangely, the Latin government that should know Castro best, that of Mexico, the only American republic that refused to go along with the hemispheric majority and break its ties with the Cuban dictatorship, has stayed out of the controversy over resumption of relations.

Cuba has been a headache for Mexico.

Mexico knows that Cuban-trained agitators have been behind some of the more serious attempts to disrupt the prolonged political stability of which it is so proud.

With all that in mind, the ones who seem to make least sense are the Americans — the professional diplomats, the men in Congress and the others who have adopted a pro-Castro stance.

They choose to overlook the fact that Castro has based his career on hatred of the United States.

To hear Castro tell it, there is nothing bad in Latin America that cannot be blamed on the United States. U.S. "domination" of Latin America, Castro says, is the first cause of the hemisphere's problems. Yet, in the next breath, Castro blames the shortages that exist in Cuba on the U.S. refusal to have anything to do with his country.

While Castro-Cuba's apologists are proclaiming that Cuba is no longer trying to export revolution, the Havana-based, Castro-sponsored

Organization of Latin American Solidarity is distributing its "mini-manual" on urban guerrilla warfare; Castro is declaring for all to hear that he will resume formal relations only with those countries that publicly repent their past anti-Communist stand; and Castro is saying that Cuba never will deny its support to any revolutionary movement that seeks to throw off the "imperialist yoke."

Bring on Top Barrel Racers—We're Ready

Twenty young women from the Magic Valley area were afforded a rare opportunity this week as the nation's top barrel racing champions arrived to stage a two-day clinic that is certain to trim a few seconds from winning times around the valley during the remainder of the season.

Sammy Thurman, Raymond, Calif., 1965 world champion and a consistent member of the "top ten" women barrel racers in the nation, and her partner, Nelda Carmichael, Chino, Calif., spent Tuesday and Wednesday in an intensive training session at Frontier Field schooling the 20 young women in their own perfected techniques.

While this was the first such clinic ever offered here, plans are already underway for another to be held early next summer, probably late May or early June.

During the first day, girls enrolled in the clinic ran the barrels in their own method and were timed. Barrel locations were permanently marked and a second run at the close of the two day's work showed, almost without exception, the girls had cut anywhere from a few fractions of a second up to 10 seconds from their time.

The whole story isn't told in the times, says Mrs. Thurman. All of the girls and their horses had gained greatly in other ways. Split second timing of cues from rider to horse, position of the rider in the turns and other items agreed by the two experts are expected to

ANXIOUS TO TRY NEW SKILLS, 14 of the 20 girls who participated in a two-day barrel racing clinic competed in a jackpot event on the final day. Coached by two of the top women barrel racers in the nation, the young women expect to be taking a bit more of the prize money in competition this summer and fall in Magic Valley. Enrollment represented nearly all of Magic Valley and while some of the girls were not yet 16, some were also married women. In front of the group are Sammy Thurman, left and Nelda Carmichael; right. Young lady in the center lost her horse to an ankle injury from too much effort in a turn but stayed for the remainder of the session.

IMPROVED STYLE of Carla Anderson is shown as she cuts around a barrel at high speed. Like most of the girls in the clinic, she shaved seconds of time from her run.

result in some better barrel racing contests here this fall.

Many times the girl was given pointers on better use of the good qualities of her horse and often the girl was told how to bring her horse up to her own rating. When necessary, either Sammy or Nelda would mount the girl's horse to show her how the horse would perform at its best.

After working individually with the girls and horses, the second day of the clinic featured a jackpot race to mark improvement of the girls and to see how they would perform under pressure of competing for money.

Karen Jones, Piler, won the jackpot in which 14 girls competed. An award for the most improved rider went to Loretta Conrad, Burley.

Nelda and Sammy sandwiched the local clinic in between several others and a busy rodeo season for themselves because of their admiration for Leroy Gibbs, Wendell. Both have used horses from his Quarter Horse blood lines and say these animals are held in highest regard among California riders.

In addition to winning the 1965 world championship, Sammy Thurman is the only woman to remain in the nation's top ten since competition began on a national level some 10 years ago. She has done this on three different horses, the talent is largely her own.

Nelda, also consistently a top member, is a former California champion. The two have just finished clinics in New York State and in Canada and will go on to Oklahoma and many other areas before the season ends.

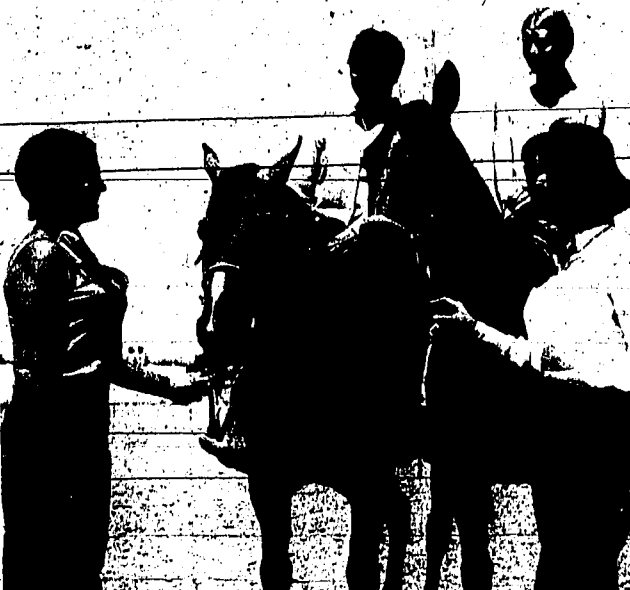

"We formed our partnership two years ago," says Nelda, a former grade school teacher turned full-time barrel racer. "I studied Sammy's style and techniques and she found I was picking up things she didn't know she was doing. We decided other girls could benefit through combined efforts and we formed a partnership."

"I handle the organization and Sammy does the larger share of the riding and training," she adds.

"Rodeoing is an important part of the lives of both girls. In addition to their own interests, both are married to top ranking rodeo performers in the country.

"We enjoy the clinics as much as the girls," Sammy commented. "There's a lot of satisfaction when a girl from one of our clinics wins a championship or top money."

Early Idaho History Recorded In Hailey Museum Collection

By LIZ BOLTON
Times-News Correspondent
HAILEY — Blaine County's Historical Museum on Main Street in Hailey is replete with memories for the old-timers and history for the newcomer and no age group could walk away unimpressed.

The museum first opened its doors May 15, 1964, after two years of work by the county's historical society and is housed in a building that carries as much history as any of its contents. The building was constructed in 1881 and first used as a liquor dispensary. Later it was remodeled and used as a school. Commencement exercises for the first Hailey High School graduating class were held there in 1899, with five girls receiving diplomas.

It was next used as a public meeting place, and was a popular dance hall in that era. Known as the armory during the days of the Spanish-American war, the building was used as a meeting place for the National Guard. It was the town's only movie house, at the time John Bunny was the children's idol.

The building was owned for many years by the Friedman Company and used as a storeroom before being donated to the city of Hailey by Lucile Friedman and her brother, Leon, for use as a museum.

With $500 initially donated to the museum by the city of Hailey, society members were able to remodel the interior of the stucco building, and public and private contributions have helped finance the operation. A nominal fee is also charged to visitors.

Among items of interest is a complete collection of political items of Joseph W. Fuld, which is one of the largest in the United States. The display was donated several years ago and was then valued by Mr. Fuld at $10,000. Included are campaign buttons and banners, political photos and histories.

The first telephone switchboard in the Territory of Idaho which went into use Oct. 1, 1885, is found in the museum as is an old-timer telephone nearby. Antique kitchen appliances, clothing ensembles representative of period fashions, coffee mill, hand butter churn, and a combination gambling chair and table as well as slot machines, are also found there.

Among the newer items is a display of ore, including a large piece of lead and silver ore given to the museum by the Federal Resources Corporation, Bellevue. The rock weighs 120 pounds and is valued at $146. A buggy, donated by Mrs. Maude Thamm, is also new. The buggy was originally purchased in 1893 by Frank Parsons of the Hailey First National Bank, and was bought from him by the late Ben Thamm, long time Blaine county auditor and recorder. Mr. Thamm often used the buggy with shafts, pulled by a single horse.

Dr. Robert H. Wright has donated a mounted Golden Eagle and Chinese Ring Neck Pheasant, as well as an old model X-Ray machine.

A wedding gown, a genuine foot warmer, a large display of arrowheads from Joe Glahn, Bellevue, a 60-year-old vacuum cleaner, and a high Wood River trout captured years ago and stuffed, are displayed for public inspection.

While a display case remains open awaiting memoirs of Ernest Hemmingway, another case is replete with photos and works of internationally famous poet Ezra Pound. In addition to an autographed photo of the poet, pictures of him as a child with his mother, and of his mother and father in later life, as well as one of the home in which he was born over 80 years ago in Hailey, are visible. His daughter, Princess Mary deRacheurety, Italy, contributed the photos.

For those interested, there is also a cigar cutter manufactured by Whitaker and Dallas, Salt Lake City, on display. The cutter is activated by a heavy coil and spring, and whirs viciously when lifted from the counter. A replica of an early day ore wagon used by the Wood River miners, carved from wood and assembled by the late Lawrence Lilla, Gannett farmer, is on display. A pot-bellied cast iron stove from Piceabo, once a miner's supply source, has been converted from hand-sawed wood to gas as a means of heating the museum. The stove had been used to heat the old Kilpatrick store in Piceabo.

A guillotine-type cheese-cutter, an old time professional pressing iron used in the old Gerald Snider tailoring shop, a filing cabinet from Berwyn Burke, and a century-old goblet commonly used between 1776 and 1876, also attract visitor's attention.

The goblet was molded in three separate pieces and assembled. It takes its place near a similar-aged gold leaf tea set, from Leslie Cline.

Though not in keeping with history of the county, the museum also offers, for public inspection, a petrified mastodon tusk from a large prehistoric mammoth which resembled an elephant and was an inhabitant of the earth about a million years ago.

Added in recent years was a hand carved miniature jerk line freight wagon with ten hand carved horses, given by Mrs. Lawrence Lilla. The five teams of horses are pulling two freight wagons and a water wagon.

A complete World War I uniform including rifle and field gear adds to the spirit of the two-room museum, as does a flag that draped the coffin of Samuel Werry, the first WW I casualty of Blaine County. The first street arch light in Bellevue takes its place on a nearby wall, and the front of the Hailey post office from 1910 to 1938 is displayed in the corner.

The post office front, complete with cage and post office boxes moved from Hailey to the Gannett before joining the museum display.

Giving the feeling of "being there then" are the several recreated scenes at the museum. From the sitting room complete with old china hutch filled with dishes, rocking chairs, uni-brellas, marble clock, vacuum cleaner, old Edison phonograph with tube records, photographs, and an organ; the visitor moves to the kitchen with antique coal cook stove and pans, table and lamp, cupboard and flour and sugar dispenser, sink, and high chair which makes down into a stroller affair.

From here is the school room, complete with wooden apple for the teacher and the original hand bell that was at the Hailey Elementary school in 1882. Maps hanging on the wall above the old pump organ add to the atmosphere with the old wooden desks and bench, topped with antique books. The sitting room features a cradle which originally belonged to Governor Frank Gooding of Idaho, and later to Senator I. E. Rockwell, Bellevue. From the Rockwell's, the cradle became the property of Libby McCoy, who gave it to her daughter to be given to the museum. Hand operated sewing machines are found with old clothing, and a high feather fan adorning the wall.

In the work room are numerous old tools, including the horse drawn plow and tea cutter, an 1885 saddle, an 1895 lawn mower, and a hitching block. A high bell from the Hailey Grade School, dated 1886, stands ready at the back of the room.

Some 1700 visitors from across the country go through the museum yearly, with an even larger number expected this year.

EVEN THE SIGN at the Blaine County Museum reflects the purpose of the building. Preserved above the sign is an ox yoke made and used by Ed Franklin, pioneer Hailey-Ketchum area resident.

FIRST TELEPHONE SWITCHBOARD to reach the Territory of Idaho arrived in Hailey Oct. 1, 1885, and is still there. Now it is on display as one of the exhibits of the Blaine County Historical Society Museum in Hailey. On the wall at far right is an old hand crank telephone, similar to those used at about the same time. Old times recall telephone service was a lot more intensive in those days when the operator knew most of the callers and found time to visit with most of them.

AUTHENTIC DISPLAY COUNTER was given the Blaine County museum by Lucile Friedman. It once was used in a grocery store in Hailey and was later found stored in the Friedman warehouse when the building was donated to the Historical Society. As a museum by Lucile Friedman and her brother, Leon. Some of the nuts and bolts have been preserved in the display but the many things such as the counter and were in the bins when discovered.

Law Agencies Defended by Local Man

Editor, Times-News: In last week's public forum, Shiron Francis was seeking help for a mentally disturbed person. Some five months before she was seeking help for herself and her son so she could get away from this so-called mentally disturbed person. The only one she could turn to was her local law enforcement agency. And when she turned to them she got the help she asked for. She was the one who signed three complaints to have this man put in jail and brought before the Court. And then when it came to testify she was the one who refused to testify. She speaks of "civic duty," but she doesn't know the meaning of the word. Her civic duty is to testify and let the courts and the qualified physician decide if this man is mentally disturbed. She said and I quote, "The law enforcement system of Twin Falls needs a (slap-in-the-face)." I say the law enforcement agency did their job and she let them down.

It's Up, Up and Away, for T.F. Firemen on Practice Day

DEPENDING ON HIS fellow firemen, Clare Harkins ascends a 50-foot ladder. The dome climb on the ladder supported by four post-men and four men holding onto the ladder is used in fires where ladders cannot be leaned against a wall or where the fire may be in the interior roof section in the middle of a room.

UP YOU GO while fellow firemen stand below and offer encouragement and-or a little good natured ribbing. Fred Webb makes a practice climb on a 50-foot ladder, one of 108 feet of movable ladder carried on the Twin Falls Fire Department's ladder truck which also is equipped with an 85-foot hydraulically-operated ladder.

Blazes or Not, Firemen Manage To Keep Busy

As of July 1, Twin Falls Firemen had answered 142 alarms, an average of less than one a day, but spare time is not all pool shooting, card playing and TV watching for the men of the city's fire department. Practice makes perfect, and the men spend hours doing just that — practicing, practicing, practicing. Sometimes they practice for things which are needed only rarely in Twin Falls fires, such as jumping into life nets and operating the ladder truck. But, the point is, it could happen, and just like the National Guard, the fire department must "be ready." One of the more memorable fires in which the department's 85-foot hydraulically operated ladder truck played an important role was the Rogerson Hotel fire a few years ago. Among the 142 alarms which the department has answered this year have been false alarms, smoke investigations, standbys and real fires, including business, residence, wood and trash fires. Each alarm is treated as just that, however, and trucks and men are ever ready to rush to the scene. The department has four pumper trucks, two downtown and two on the Falls Avenue No. 2 station. One of those is not manned, but is on standby. Also housed at the downtown No. 1 station is the ladder truck. Other practices undertaken by the firemen are the laying out of lines and pumping from hydrants and ditches, smoke mask drills, ventilation drills, forcible entry and proper use of hose handling, ladder climbing, evacuation, etc. Some of this is carried out through classroom type instruction, rather than drills. The department also stands by when abandoned houses are burned intentionally. However, members of the department are not allowed to set these fires and they are there only to keep the fires burning at safe rates and to keep them from spreading. Each man is responsible for his personal equipment and must make daily (when on shift) checks of the equipment, a precaution which can save his life. A driver is assigned to each truck and it and all the equipment carried on the truck is his responsibility. About two weeks ago a thorough check of the department's approximate two miles of hose was completed. The special pressure testing resulted in the repair or replacement of 8 or 10 bad links. According to Bobby Bopp, assistant fire chief, getting equipment cleaned up, back into order and repaired, may take as long as a week after a fire of the caliber of the Rogerson blaze.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Whatever else Daniel Patrick Moynihan is doing over there in the White House, he does seem to have set back the style of federal prose about 70 years. The Nixon administration's Democrat in residence, now wearing the impressive title of counselor to the President, has been described in the past as a man whose manner faintly recalls the era of Edward VII in Great Britain when the 20th century was new. It is more than Moynihan's languid and elegant personal presence that evokes the post-Victorian period. Not infrequently (to appropriate one of the counselor's favorite paired negatives), that's the way he comes on in print. Recently, he wrote a profatory statement for the report of something called the National Goals Research Staff. Since the report, says Moynihan, favors, along with parental exhortations like this, firm states no goals in more than 200 pages, the counselor's overture stands out with the conspicuousness of a one-minute speech in the U.S. Senate. For those who own their head, tracking in the literary dust bowl of official Washington, the appearance of a Moynihan statement can bring on acute symptoms of cultural shock — even delusions of grandeur. Listen: "Great efforts can and do lead to great disasters. A law of proportionality obtains in the affairs of man. He who would make no little plans must expect to make no small mistakes." That ain't the Bureau of the Budget talking, baby. Moynihan and "ain't?" Listen again: "A 19th century American saying held that 'it's not ignorance that hurts so much as knowing all these things that ain't so.' We have been more than a little hurt, of late, by that phenomenon, and this too has deepened the sense of underachievement, or even of failure, that is much to be encountered at this moment." The counselor also loves his illustrative supporting quotes. In the statement mentioned, he opens with a "Well, Whitman, moves on to paraphrase James Madison and Alexis de Tocqueville and gives a low bow and a long quote to Richard Nixon. Where will it all end — or as Moynihan would have it: "Consider the implications." Will Moynihan leave his Edwardian mark on federal literature? Maybe, but certainly not on its clarity of vision. For as Moynihan himself says, "This may or may not be a cyclical process."

Waste Disposal Wells No Problem

Investigation by the State Health Department of the illegal use of some waste disposal wells resulting in pollution of ground water apparently does not affect Twin Falls and surrounding counties. Magic Valley has given no evidence of water pollution due to waste disposal wells, according to Dr. Luther Thompson, district health department medical director, although testing of ground water by the State Health Department in certain parts of Idaho has indicated contamination. "We have no proof of water contamination," he said, "but neither do we have any adequate studies in this area."

Money Box

By Frank Schell

From L. J. Buhl, Idaho: Dear Sir: We have some silver dollars we would like to sell. Where could we find what they are really worth?

Answer: Silver dollars are not scarce. There are millions of them, mostly being held by collectors — and many, many thousands held by dealers. The dates which were scarce before the big boom hit the cartwheel are still scarce — and the dollars which were not hard to get are still easy to secure. The only difference is they must be obtained from a collector, an accumulator or a dealer now — instead of from the bank.

Values of silver dollars are hard to define. Scarce dates are worth a lot over face value — but the condition is all important and if they are well worn, they do not have much more value than an uncirculated dollar of a date which is easy to find.

It's hard for me to explain condition in this column. Grading coins is an exact job, and even after you learn how to grade them, another collector or dealer might disagree with you. However, there are certain rules followed by collectors, and the Grading Book by Brown and Dunn is usually followed by most collectors.

Silver dollars are now worth about $1.75 in silver — so they should bring no less than that. Some dealers will pay $2.00, if the coins are near uncirculated. Others will pay more, especially for certain dates, but in every case the prices are based on condition — then scarcity.

I hesitate to try to tell you where to find their true value. You can take them to any dealer, and he will make you an offer. You should inform yourself, first, of about what you can expect to get — depending on condition and date — so that you will have a fairly good idea of whether you are receiving value from them. Whitman's Blue Book will give you a fair idea of what dealer's are paying.

Any of the current coin papers will also list buying prices — but again, these are based on condition, and the offer might be reduced if the dealer does not agree with your diagnosis of condition. However, I would suggest you write one of the advertisers — and start negotiations with him. Pick a dealer who displays the letters "ANA" and "RCDA" with his ad. If he belongs to the American Numismatic Association and the Registered Coin Dealers Association, he will give you an accurate idea of your dollars' value.

From D. A., Twin Falls, Idaho: I have a coin, or token, which is made of copper. On one side is a ship, sailing, and around it, the words "Half Penny Token" and under the ship, "Upper Canada". On the back it says, "Commercial Change" and there are two shovels with the handles crossed, over an anvil. The date is 1820. What can you tell me about this coin. Is it valuable?

Answer: The piece you have is a token. About 1820, Upper Canada issued a great many of these tokens, and they were accepted as money, although most of them came from private individuals — grocers, ale-houses and so on.

None of the tokens was legal, but they were used extensively. Your particular token appears in a number of varieties.

They are worth from $1.25 up to about $8.00 — the latter only if the token is absolutely uncirculated. Many of them in circulated, or worn, condition are around — and peculiarly enough — found in Idaho in quite large numbers.

(The column is still searching for merchant's tokens — trade checks — and would appreciate hearing from readers who have them or know of others who may have them. We will trade Indian Head cents for trade tokens if you are a collector here's your chance to get some of the old Indian Heads.) Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o The Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Highway Funding Gives Taxpayer Top Returns

BOISE — One of the places in which the taxpayer is likely to get his money's worth is in highway construction, Idaho Department of Highways officials say.

In 1969 there were 5,109 highway and bridge projects in the United States built through federal funding programs. This represented $5.1 billion and included a number of major construction projects in the gem state.

Projects allocated to various states across the nation increased 20 per cent in numbers and 42 per cent in total dollar value over 1968.

Seventeen per cent of the contracts awarded were in amounts less than $50,000 while another 30 per cent came in the $100,000-and-below bracket.

In the federal-aid program, the states select and design the projects to be built, award the contracts and supervise the construction subject to the Bureau of Public Roads review, approval and control.

Idaho Highway officials say the Federal share of interstate construction is 90 per cent while primary and secondary highway projects come in for 50 per cent federal funds, derived from taxes levied on highway users.

Garden of Eden
Most scholars agree that the garden of Eden was somewhere in the vicinity of the Tigris-Euphrates Valley. Some locate it about 100 miles north of Baghdad; others believe it was located on the site of the sacred city of Eridu in Babylonia near the Persian Gulf.

Magna Cops Intermountain AAU Title

Powerful Pirate Swim Team Outlasts Kearns And Boise Y In Meet

Magna, Utah's Pirate Swim team dominated the Intermountain AAU Swimming Championships here Saturday — displaying a host of standouts in a meet that was dominated by individual performance.

with 711, with Kearns trailing for third and Idaho Falls took fourth. BYU took fifth and Twin Falls ended eighth behind Nampa with 182 points.

By LARRY HOVEY Times-News Sports Editor

University of Idaho tennis Coach Ron Stephenson, who started in Burley and graduated from Twin Falls High, has gone international in his recruiting and, to put it rather mildly, is more than pleasantly surprised with the result.

Twin Falls, led by Chris Bell in the 15-17 and open boys, went over the hundred mark and enjoyed its best showing in several meets. Dehoney, who will attend Idaho State on a swimming scholarship this fall, took the prestigious 100-yard open freestyle in a duel with Utah state champ Craig Jones of the Pirates. Dehoney was clocked in 1:01 flat. Earlier Jones had bested Dehoney in the fly.

Bell, still the top local swimmer, had a great meet — winning the 100 breast stroke in a battle with Webster of BYU and Killpack of the Pirates; and the 50-yard fly in another duel with Mike Killpack.

Carlene Schuler of Twin Falls took a second in the 100 freestyle, behind Sally Lerow of Kearns, who won it with a time of 1:00.1. Miss Lerow was a slink-off as she won the 200 freestyle and the 50-yard fly. Miss Schuler took third in that one.

Magna's Kuida — Lisa and Robin, completely dominated the championships. Robin took the girls 100 open butterfly, the 200 open freestyle, the girls 100-yard open-freestyle and the 200 individual medley.

Lisa won the 13-14 girls 50-yard butterfly event, the 200-yard individual medley, the 100-yard backstroke and got third in the breaststroke.

The Killpacks of Magna again won a big share of the events, with Mike holding a pair of firsts and Chris a pair of firsts.

Ogden's Raible Defeat Caldwell

OGDEN, Utah — Ogden pitcher Bruce Raible struck out 11 Caldwell batters Saturday night enroute to a 6-2 Pioneer League victory here.

The victory gave the Dodgers a three-game sweep of their series with Caldwell. Raible gave up only two runs, one an unearned run in the fourth inning and another in the seventh.

The Dodgers, meanwhile, collected two doubles, a triple and six singles to put together eight runs for the victory.

The Dodgers scored three runs in the fourth, two runs on Tom Corder's double and a third on a sacrifice fly by Paul Barnes. The Dodgers added a single run in the fifth and three more in the sixth inning, aided by four walks and a double by Ednor Mixon.

Forward Gal Wins Sorority Stakes

OCEANPORT, N.J. (UPI) — Forward Gal projected herself into the 2-year-old filly spotlight at Monmouth Park Saturday with an impressive come-from-behind victory in the $105,110 Florida Stakes at six furlongs.

The Florida-bred daughter of Ntive Charger-Forward Unbent Unity Hall in the stretch to win by two lengths. Decolt, who had her win streak snapped at six two weeks ago when she was beaten by Unity Hall in the Blue-Hon-at-Delaware-Park, was a length behind in third place after leading until the top of the stretch.

Forward-Gal, ridden by Frank Annelli, captured her first major race and took down first money of $43,068 after stepping the colts down in 1:11 3-5.

The winner had finished second to Decolt in the Colleen at Monmouth last month.

Starless U.S. Team Falls To Russians

LENINGRAD (UPI) — The American Track and Field team wondered today what might have happened if some of its missing veterans had made the trip.

Russia's seasoned and powerful squad in a two-day battle, Thursday and Friday gave the young and starless Americans one of the worst trouncings in the 10-year history of the dual meets. Competing before 25,000 appreciative fans in Lenin Stadium the Soviets won overall by 200-173, and they carried both the male and female divisions by 122-114 and 78-60, respectively.

Not since Kiev, 1965, have the Americans done so poorly.

The U.S. men now have lost twice in the 10 meets and the Soviets chalked up their fourth overall win. The pattern in the past was for the Soviet Union's women to win by a landslide while powerful American men counterbalanced to give the Yank teams the overall victories. This year, however, too many U.S. record holders and Olympic veterans stayed home.

And the U.S. team likes to think it would have come out on top had absent stars like Randy Matson in the shot put, Bob Seaygren in pole vault, Miller Jim Ryan or triple jumper Bob Beamon been present and in form.

Packard, Carrico Lead Net, Gross Divisions Of Gooding Tournament

GOODING — Jim Packard of Twin Falls turned in an even pair 70 Saturday to lead in the gross division while George Carrico, playing his home course, posted a net 64 to lead in that category at the midpoint of the annual Gooding Amateur Golf Tournament.

The tournament is going under a new format this year with the top places in net and gross receiving merchandise prizes instead of the previous use of flights.

Packard, who just graduated from Twin Falls High School, had a two-shot lead over Porter Ingram and Charles Cosgriff, both of Twin Falls. They had 72s. Jack Rice and Jay Scanlon of Gooding were tied for fourth with 73s.

Buford's Homer Lifts Orioles Over Twins

ST. PAUL, MINN. (UPI)—Don Buford's two-run homer with Dick Hall aboard and one out in the eighth inning snapped a 4-4 tie and paced the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-5 victory over the Minnesota Twins Saturday before the second largest local crowd of the season.

A crowd of 34,588 paid and 7010 knotholders saw Buford connect for his 300-dot homer, off reliever Tom Hall after Dick Hall beat out a grounder to short for a single.

The Orioles had taken a 2-0 lead in the first when Buford was hit a pitch, went to second on a passed ball and scored when starter Bill Zapp threw wild to first on Paul Blair's bunt.

The win was the Brewers' second in a row over the Red Sox and assured them of an edge in the season series. The Brewers lead seven games to five with only tomorrow's game remaining.

The Brewers scored three runs in the first with four consecutive hits off Mike Nagy.

The Pruner Is American Cap Winner

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ogden Phipps' The Pruner, given a perfect ride by Braulio Baeza, moved in front at the 16th pole Saturday to easily capture the $100,000 American Derby at Arlington Park, the only $100,000 race for three-year-olds on the grass in the United States this year.

The Pruner, winning for the fourth time in the last six starts, was timed at 1:47 4/5 for the mile and 1-8th distance, only 2-5 of a second slower than the track record.

Corn Off the Cob, the even money favorite of the crowd of 25,766, carried top weight of 125 lbs. and was ridden by jockey Eddie Belmonte. But he never ran better than third in the chase and wound up dead last in the eight-horse field.

The Pruner, a 2-1 second choice and carrying 117 lbs., returned $6.20, $3.80 and $3.00, while Robin's Bug, ridden by Leroy Moyers was 114 lbs. paid $6.80 to place and $4.20, Coalton Cat, ridden by Carlos Marquez with 112 lbs was third and returned $4.20.

The Pruner never was worse than fourth in the full tour of the race-track and Baeza kept him on the rail all the way along the course. Moving on the inside he took over third place with a half a mile to go and although he was pinched off briefly, heading into the stretch, Baeza got him clear and when he had only Robin's Bug to beat, he came off the rail to take over the lead and move away at the finish.

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UPI)—Thy Jane Bastanchury, a 22-year-old Whittier, Calif., native with the big swing, became the 10th woman to win two successive Women's Western Amateur golf championships Saturday by defeating Mrs. Shirley Donners, of Belvedere, Ill., 10 and 8.

The victory margin was the second largest in women's western-golf championship history.

DENVER (UPI)—The American Basketball Association's players' association received formal recognition from the ABA at the final meeting of the ABAPA, spokesmen said Saturday.

Larry Jones, formerly of the Denver Rockets and now with the Miami Floridians, jointly announced the recognition with Wendell Cherry, president of the ABA owners association, and Earl Foreman, chairman of the players-relations negotiations committee.

Foreman heads the Washington Caps team while Cherry owns the Kentucky Colonels.

The owners agreed in the pact to recognize the ABAPA as the sole and exclusive bargaining agent between the players and the team owners.

The league also agreed to a pension plan for the players which would be retroactive to the beginning of the association.

NFL Owners and Players End Meetings Without Agreement; All-Star Game OK

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The National Football League owners and players broke off their separate meetings Saturday night after six-hour sessions and said they would continue the meetings at 10:30 a.m. EDT Sunday.

Both sides remained closed-mouthed as to what took place at the meetings, but the fact that both sides are still at an impasse means that beginning Sunday an official lockout of training camps will have transpired. All training camps were to have opened by Sunday, but owners have forbidden veterans to report to camp until the negotiations have been resolved.

The two sides met separately Saturday with federal mediators jumping back and forth between the two meetings.

"We're exploring problems and trying to understand each other," said Gilbert Seldin, one of the two federal mediators.

The players met for two hours Saturday morning, then met for another six hours in the afternoon. The owners were supposed to meet at 11 a.m. but did not appear until 2 p.m.

Neither side had any comment as to what was discussed at the meetings.

Ernie Wright of the Cincinnati Bengals and Ken Bowman of the Green Bay Packers represented the players association in the meeting with the negotiators. John Mackey, president of the association, did not make an appearance the entire day.

Wright brought out the only smile of the day when he told reporters, "If it's your humble duty to ask questions, it's our humble duty to say nothing."

Player advisors simply reverted to the standard "no comment" when asked where Mackey spent the morning. Jesse Phillips of the Bengals joined the players for the afternoon session as an observer.

The Association relented Friday night and agreed to permit the Kansas City Chiefs to begin practice for next Friday night in college All-Star game in Chicago.

The question was raised whether the owners liked the possibility of practice being delayed to the point where the teams might be compelled to open their season with the possibility of as little as two weeks of workout behind them.

"There is the structure of six weeks of training before the season. Such an occurrence, say a little as two weeks of practice, would not follow the normal structure. I don't know I would have to make a decision if I had my 'druthers'—I'd but then I don't always get my 'druthers'." Smith said.

Bench Slams 30th Homer As Cincinnati Tops St. Louis

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Johnny Bench slammed a three-run homer in the first inning and the Cincinnati Reds went on to a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday night to stretch their lead over the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers to 12 1/2 games in the National League West.

A wild crowd of 49,223 saw Tony Cloninger pick up his third victory in five decisions while turning in his third straight impressive outing since moving into the starting rotation.

Cloninger limited the Cards to seven hits before departing with one out in the eighth inning and Don Gullett and Clay Carroll teamed up to blank the Cards the rest of the way. The save, his 10th of the season went to Carroll.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Don Money singled home a run in the fourth inning and ignited a six-run fifth inning with a two-run double Saturday night to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-2 victory over the San Diego Padres.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Ron Cook, his first in the major leagues as a starter, although he needed relief help from Larry Dierker who gave up three hits in the last 3-1-3 innings.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Phil Niekro allowed two hits—both by Billy Williams—and Hank Aaron hit the 500th homer of his career Saturday as the Atlanta Braves defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6-0.

Niekro, who has beaten the Cubs four consecutive times this season, didn't give up a hit until Williams singled with two out in the fourth. Williams also singled leading off the seventh while Niekro was protecting a 2-0 lead.

Ferguson Jenkins shut out the Braves until the sixth when Felix Millan singled with one out and Aaron followed with his 20th homer—of—the season. Aaron got a "life" when a fan stood up and caught his foul during the third base line as catcher Randy Hundley reached into the stands to make the putout.

The victory boosted the Expos into fifth place in the National League's Eastern Division, one-half game ahead of the sagging St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards were the NL's two-time defending champions when the Expos were formed in 1969.

Fairly's second home run with the bases-loaded this season highlighted the six-run fourth inning which broke a 4-4 deadlock.

Bobby Wine walked and singled by Carl Morton, Marv Stachis and Jim Gosger accounted for a run. Rusty Staub walked and Fairly connected for his 11th home run of the season as Montreal went ahead 6-4. Mack Jones followed with his 13th home run of the year to make the score 10-4.

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Bob Watson and Denis Menke each drove in three runs as the Houston Astros rocked the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-4, Saturday, ending a three-game Pirate win streak.

Stewart Nips Keino In 5,000 To End Commonwealth Games

By MIKE HUGHES
BINBURGH, Scotland (UPI)—Scottishman Stewart won the showcase 5,000 meter race Saturday in an exciting windup to the British Commonwealth Games marked by a threatened black power demonstration that failed to take place and false reports of threats on the life of Kenya's Kipchoge Keino.

Queen Elizabeth II officially closed the Games after Stewart beat fellow Scotman Jan McCafferty and Keino in what may rank as one of the finest 5,000 meter races of all time. Stewart, gun-tester from Birmingham, won in a European and Games record time of 13 minutes, 22.8 seconds, to add the Commonwealth title to the European crown he won at Athens last year. McCafferty finished second in 13:25.4 with Keino clocking 13:27.5 for the bronze medal.

England won the overall team title with 84 medals to 82 for Australia, but the Aussies accumulated more gold medals, at the bell. He strode away, taking Keino and McCafferty with him and tested the Kenyan with a burst down the back straight.

Keino challenged on the last bend but Stewart held him off and as they entered the stretch and the Kenyan was done for and passed by McCafferty.

Now it was everyone for himself as the two Scots closed their way forward. McCafferty got almost even 60 meters out, but Stewart kicked again to go through the tape about a meter clear.

A Simple Check For Black Cards

Table with bridge bidding information: NORTH, WEST (D), EAST, SOUTH, and various card counts and suits.

"You just threw game out of the window," replied the Professor. "You could be pretty sure that West had started with five hearts and six diamonds, so that he could only hold two black cards. If they were a both clubs, you were doomed to lose a trump trick in any event. If one were a club and the other a spade you would be correct to try a trump finesse. But you could have found out that West held two spades without any risk at all, if you had really wanted to.

"Come to your hand with the ace of hearts and lead a low club. If West follows, you will then take the spade finesse. West won't follow, so you will know enough to just play out high trumps."

"Suppose West ruffs?" asked the Student. "In that case, he has merely ruffed your losing club."

GASOLINE ALLEY

PASS IT ON by L.M. Boyd

FACES - Does your right eye look exactly like your left eye in reverse, young lady? If not, that's good news maybe. A medical scholar contends any girl whose eyes don't quite match in all probability has a fascinating personality. Such a girl, he says, tends to have two sides to her nature as well as to her appearance. For instance, she is apt to be hot tempered at one time, but exceedingly gentle at another. Possibly you already know the most intriguing faces are usually the least symmetrical.

BOSS - Say two dogs are walking towards one another. One starts to wag his tail slowly. That doesn't necessarily mean a fight. But if the other one also starts to wag his tail slowly that does indeed mean they'll fight. Definitely. Or so a canine expert says. The slow tail-wag, he contends, is a dog's declaration he intends to be boss.

HAIR TODAY, GONE TOMORROW - That some baldness is hereditary no doubt you know. But were you aware it is through the mother's side of the family, not the father's, that such is inherited? So if your dad or his dad is bald, young fellow, don't worry. That doesn't mean you'll lose your hair. But if your mother's father is bald, or his father before him, then maybe, just maybe.

BODY ODOR - What a fellow eats has much to do with how he smells. Garlic, alcohol and coffee, for instance, taint the perspiration in a most distinctive manner. A animal trainer's have to be particularly conscious of this, it's said. If a lion tamer were to change his diet drastically, he thus would change his characteristic odor, too. That would be dangerous. Because the lion recognizes the master mostly by sense of smell, and if said master slipped into the cage emitting unfamiliar fragrances, said lion might just take a swat at him.

LOVE AND WAR - Any single girl who wants to elicit proposals from 30-year-old marriageable males might consider this. Her chances are twice as great if he's a widower than if he's a never-married man. They're three times as great if he has been divorced.

MRS. TREE - The eldest daughter marries first. That's the role in India's orthodox Hindu families. So what if daughter No. 2 gets a proposal before daughter No. 1? Nothing to it, the family swiftly marries daughter No. 1 to a tree. Daughter No. 2 then marries her man. And daughter No. 1 subsequently divorces her tree. Unless, that is, she was inadvertently married either to a poplar or a teak. Those trees are sacred. And any girl married to one of them would not be allowed a divorce.

Until we get those new go-through cards, we will have to struggle along with the inferences we can get from the ones we see in our hand and dummy and from the bidding and early play.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued with the ace and another in response to his partner's echo.

The Student ruffed with dummy's jack of trumps. After long thought, he led the five of spades and finessed the nine. West took his 10 spot and, since there was no way for the Student to avoid the loss of a club, he was down one.

The Student noticed a frown of disapproval on the Professor's face and asked what he had done wrong.

Navy Scientists Bolster Theory Of 'Big Bang'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three Navy scientists today reported evidence supporting a theory—the universe in which we live was created by a "big bang" 10 or 12 billion years ago.

The evidence was derived from an X-ray survey of Centaurus A, a gigantic galaxy of stars and superheated gases which lies in space about 782.4 million billion miles from our home galaxy, the Milky Way.

Astronomers are torn between two theories of creation. One says that in the beginning all the matter and energy in the universe was, for a second in time, confined in a single "primordial atom" at a temperature greater than 10,000 million degrees.

It blew up, creating the expanding universe in which matter has since condensed into the forms now manifest in planets, stars, and the grand assemblages called galaxies.

The other theory says creation is continuous, without beginning or end. This is the steady-state universe in which matter is somehow being created as just the right rate—one atom per century in a volume the size of the Empire State Building—to keep the whole shebang expanding at the observed speeds.

The new evidence supporting the big bang concept was reported in this week's Science magazine by Dr. Herbert Friedman, superintendent and chief scientist of the Naval Research Laboratory's E. O. Hulbert Center for Space Research, and E. T. Byram and Dr. T. A. Chubb of the lab's rocket astronomy group.

About five years ago, other scientists with extremely sensitive "listening" devices had discovered a strange background radiation which appears to fill all space in all directions. Checking fact against theory, they attributed it to "the afterglow" of the original fireball of creation.

Discovery of this diffuse "afterglow" radiation strongly supported the big bang theory against the steady-state concept. But a while back some rocket and balloon experiments appeared to indicate background infrared radiation much greater than that predicted by the big bang theory. This was upsetting for those who hoped they had settled the creation issue.

As Britain's Prof. J. B. S. Haldane once remarked: "The universe is not only stranger than we imagine, it is stranger than we can imagine."

Book Review

BY BETH A. DICKSON

Twin Falls Public Library

Want to make a sourdough starter? Cook a moose? Smoke a fish? Make jerky, pemmican, or hermit cake?

Then "The Old-Fashioned Dutch Oven Cookbook" by Don Holm is for you. Hailed as "one of the most efficient cooking devices ever developed," the Dutch oven is neither an oven nor an invention of the Dutch, but "a culinary dream machine that can make the clumsiest tenderfoot look like a cow country Escott."

When John Colter of Yellowstone fame died, listed among his effects sold was: "A John Simpson One Dutch oven, $4.00.

The equivalent then of a week's pay. Today, you still pay about the same price, but earn it in a couple of hours or less. The Dutch oven was then a centenarian in American cookery. Manufactured in New England, these heavy cast iron utensils were bought in large quantities by traders from Holland for barter with Indians and settlers. That is where the "Dutch" came from. Paul Revere is said to have perfected a standard pattern for this true child of necessity which evolved from the need for an outdoor portable kitchen.

Basques adopted and adapted it, and became so proficient in its use that it became part of their tradition. A Dutch oven accompanied Lewis and Clark up the Mississippi, across the Bitterroots, down the mighty Columbia, and back home. It is part and parcel of our heritage. Mr. Holm maintains it may yet "save the aurburn stomach from the peril of modern tribal rites, such as patio cookouts, and ruining good food over an open combustion of coal tar." He speaks with the authority of more than a thousand published articles and stories on the outdoors and years as wildlife editor of the Portland Oregonian.

Mr. Holm has dedicated his book to "camp cooks everywhere" with an eye to preserving the old cookery arts and "authentic trail recipes of the pioneers.

The book gives tips on cooking game and wild fowl; such recipes as soured moose, woodchuck potroast, oven-fried squirrel, frog's legs, cariboo stew, camp scrounger, chuck-wagon tongue. There are two full chapters on breads - one on sourdough. Four basic cooking methods are explained: pot-roast, pan-roast, hole-in-the-ground, and deep fat fry. There's a host of recipes to prove the author's contention that if it can be cooked, anyone can cook it dually in a Dutch oven.

Gooding Youth Cited in Crash

GOODING — Donald R. Murray, 16, 565 Locke Ave., Gooding, was cited for failure to have his vehicle in good working order after the steering wheel came off as he was driving at the corner of Roosevelt Avenue and Oregon Street, sending the car out of control and into a power pole.

None of the passengers was injured. They included LeAnne Murray, 10, and her baby daughter; Saul Cook, 14; Jody Winter, 13; Clay Collins, 13, and Jim Collins, 14, all Gooding.

Damage was estimated at $250 to the Murray car.

want ads will do it!

It's amazing what one family can accumulate in a few short years.

If you don't think the above scene is typical of your household, think for a minute of the many items you possess which have ceased to be needed or used in your daily life.

What was once a necessity or a source of leisure-time activity suddenly becomes stored away in that "out of sight -- out of mind" recess of your life.

Yet you have good money invested in these items and they possess many years of usefulness for some other family.

Want it all sold? Want Ads will do it! Just dial 733-0931 to place a low-cost Want Ad which tells the public about the items you'd like to exchange for cash. Once you've placed your call, the sale is on!

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—I find naturally curly hair is a problem. After washing mine, I put a stocking over my head. It takes longer for the hair to dry but it certainly helps to straighten it.—M. J.

DEAR POLLY—I use a potato washer for mixing stiff cookie batter and then work with a table fork for easier and better mixing.—MRS. K. F. W.

DEAR POLLY—Nut shells are great for holding artificial flowers in place in a vase. Fill vase about half-full with shells.—MRS. A. D.

DEAR POLLY—To give myself a more professional-looking manicure with nice cuticles, I soak my fingers in a small amount of warmed olive oil (can be an inexpensive brand) for about five minutes—once daily for a week. It really works.—RANDA

DEAR POLLY—Mix some sand in the paint when painting your front and back porches, and you are not so likely to slip when it rains.—D. S.

DEAR POLLY—File with your winter footwear: When sidewalks are very slippery, pull a pair of thick socks over boots. Traction is marvelous, and is almost comparable to suction cups.—ROSE

I HAVE NO SHAMPOOING PROBLEMS!

CAN I HELP? I'LL EAT THE NUTS!

DEAR POLLY—I put a bit of cologne in my portable home humidifier, and the scent comes out with the spray to give the house a nice odor.—MRS. R. F.

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—An empty egg carton is wonderful for keeping pins, needles, thumbtacks and other small sewing items separated, yet together.—CHERYL

DEAR POLLY—I find it very handy to slip the legs of my boys' pants on a sleeve board when mending. The patches can be conveniently pinned and then ironed on, stitched by hand, or basted for machine sewing.—DORIS

DEAR POLLY—I had a problem with the newspaper being exposed to rain before it was brought in. I made a holder for it by removing both ends from a large fruit juice can, painted it to match the house and fastened it to the porch railing with heavy cord. Have had many comments on my invention.—M. R. D.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR HERBERT THOMPSON, Press Secretary to Vice President Agnew

Mr. Agnew seems to be quite politically different from Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York. Yet he once was pushing Mr. Rockefeller for the Presidency. Why?—R.J.L., Utica, N.Y.

● Mr. Agnew never thought Governor Rockefeller was an "liberal" as some of his critics in the party did. He admired the Governor's administrative abilities, and when he (Agnew) was Governor of Maryland, he used some of the procedures Mr. Rockefeller had used in New York State.

FOR GEORGE P. CRESSMAN, director, U.S. Weather Bureau

Where and when was the heaviest rainfall recorded in the U.S.P.—George H. Bowen, Nokomis, Fla.

● During an extraordinary cloudburst at Unionville, Md., July 4, 1956, 1.23 inches of rain was recorded in one minute (3:23 p.m. 3:24 p.m.). This set a new world record for rainfall intensity.

FOR DR. MARIE A. HINRICH, American Medical Association

During the summer months, many articles warn against prolonged exposure to the sun and its harmful results. Just how much exposure is too much?—Karen Morris, San Luis Obispo, Calif.

● We could not answer your question because the limits of safety for prolonged exposure to sunlight must take into account some other factors such as the time of year, altitude, time of day, and skin characteristics. We suggest that this would be best determined by conference with your physician.

FOR LOUIS R. BRUCE, Commissioner of Indian Affairs

Do we have a statue of an Indian on top of our national Capitol?—Irene Rohr, Devils Lake, N. D.

● The bronze statue atop the Capitol in Washington, D.C., is not an Indian, but many are under the impression it is. The figure, known as the Statue of Freedom, is that of a woman clad in flowing draperies with her right hand resting upon the hilt of a sheathed sword and her left hand holding a wreath and grasping a shield.

FOR CURT COWDY, network sportscaster

When was the first baseball game televised, and who played?—Mrs. H.P. Janssen, Branford, S.D.

● In the spring of 1935 a baseball game between Princeton and Columbia Universities was televised at Columbia in New York.

FOR MAE WEST

If a movie is made of your life, and you do not star in it, whom could you imagine for the title role?—R.D., Lancaster, Pa.

● In order that it be done properly I would have to do it myself. My millions of fans have always demanded the Mae West!

FOR ALDEN BARBER, Chief Scout Executive, Boy Scouts of America

Has a former Boy Scout ever become a President of the United States?—Mrs. Betty Harbers, Pueblo, Colo.

● Yes. John F. Kennedy was a Boy Scout in Troop 2, Bronxville, New York, from 1929 to 1931. Although many other Presidents have been active adult Scout leaders, President Kennedy is the only one to have had scouting experience.

FOR JIMINABORS

Is it true that you call your mother in Alabama every night?—Lou McDonald, Tuscumbia, Ala.

● We don't have any special arrangement. I call her to tell her something or ask her something, and she does the same. So do my two sisters who have families of their own in Alabama.

Flying in to new camping areas ously inaccessible areas of the U.S. The Fly In/Camp Out program of Camp America has a new program which combines air travel and fully equipped camper rentals. Pioneered by Eastern Air Lines, a reservation can now be placed with any major airline or travel agent for the combination. Arriving at their destination airport, the camping families have the option of following a preplanned itinerary or going off on their own. The campers, ranging from $250-per-week motor homes to $135-mini-vans, are all equipped with built-in stoves, ovens, sinks, water supply, refrigerator, dinette, storage areas, and toilet facilities. And for the adventurous folk who don't want to be burdened with their own gear, Camp America will even supply bedding, utensils, and maps and guides.

Create a Time Island. Do you come home from work "dead tired?" It may not be more rest you need but more exercise. As psychoanalyst Dr. Erika Freeman reminded a gathering of the Family Fitness Council (in cooperation with Sears), "Motivation to keep fit is necessary to start but insufficient to keep going. It must become a recuperating habit." One of the best and fastest ways to establish the habit is to give exercise a "time island" of its own (meaning a time interval devoted to a specific activity such as a coffee break—which has the psychological effect of getting away from it). Another aid is having a "gadget" such as an exercise machine because it reminds you to start. Then—the habit takes over. Once it is established, physical fitness produces a look of "totally infectious radiance," thus making the exercise habit very hard to break.

Closest Tips. When putting a seldom-worn hat away on the closet shelf, turn the brim up all the way around to keep the hat in better shape for the next wearing. And for the wrinkled suits hanging therein, try a dampened turkish towel, wrung out and draped over a hanger overnight. It can supply enough moisture to help remove some of the wrinkles.

Peaceful Shoot-Out. Some 700 shotgun marksmen from throughout the U.S., Canada, and parts of Europe will begin gathering in Savannah, Ga., this week for the opening on Saturday, Aug. 1, of the World Championship Skeet Shoot. In skeet, participants fire from eight different stations around a semi-circle at clay targets propelled across their line of vision. At Savannah, male, female, junior, and senior contestants will compete in events for 410, 28, 20, and 12-gauge shotguns. Some $20,000 in prize money will be distributed. Officials say this one may be the biggest world skeet event yet held.

NEW CHAIRMAN OF THE JOINT CHIEFS DECLARES:

"Downgrading the Military Will Weaken Us"

By WILLIAM O'NEILL

Joint Chiefs of Staff include (l. to r.) Gen. John B. Ryan, Air Force Chief of Staff; Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, former Chief of Naval Operations and newly appointed Chairman; Gen. Earle Wheeler, retiring Chairman; Gen. William Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff, and Gen. Leonard F. Chapman, Commandant of the Marine Corps. Not shown is Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt, Jr., new Chief of Naval Operations.

Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, 58, became Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on July 2. He is the second Navy man to hold this position. The other was Admiral Arthur W. Radford, who retired in 1957. Admiral Moorer granted FAMILY WEEKLY this exclusive interview shortly after his appointment to his important new post.

Q: What do you see as the greatest problem facing you as Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff?

A: I'm very much concerned with a problem facing our country which has a great bearing on the morale of our young people in the armed forces. I'm disturbed by the general attitude of some persons—particularly as expressed in the press in terms of cartoons and so on—that has the effect of degrading the serviceman. There are roughly three million young Americans in uniform today—a uniform that is a new-found target for groups that deal in discredit. This concerns me deeply.

Q: Is this something that has to be tackled by the Joint Chiefs, the government, or by the press?

A: It confronts us all, for it poses dilemmas and dangers for everyone in the United States. The biggest danger is the effect it can have on our young people, who see these slurs on military service and start to wonder whether they want a career in the military. And if this reaches the point where we do not get the very highest type young men, the best-qualified young men, to seek military careers, then by 1980, 1990, and 2000, we're going to be faced with a "leadership gap," which will significantly weaken our country.

Q: Why do you think this situation has arisen? Isn't it because of disagreement over the war in Indochina?

A: That's a big part of it, of course. This conflict against a ruthless foe in Southeast Asia has been described as immoral, unnecessary, and unjust. I happen to believe that these descriptions are more appropriately applied to militant communism—the militant communism our servicemen overseas are facing and coping with. The objective of our Government in this conflict is simple: to stop the aggressive spread of communism.

Q: Do you feel that the press is being unfair?

A: Not intentionally, no. It's always been the nature of things that something bad that happens, because it is the exception, is more likely to be deemed newsworthy than something good. Unfortunately, this means that the good things that happen, and the progress brought about by good people who work hard, observe the law, and raise God-fearing families, are being given short shrift in favor of a small minority who advocate, and sometimes produce, dissension and destruction. They aren't typical of the American people, and it's important to keep this in mind. Pessimism has a bad characteristic, even a dangerous characteristic, in that it can be self-creating. It would be a tragedy if the United States were to sell its capability and determination short in these crucial times through negative thinking.

Q: Do you think that this might happen?

A: There is always that risk, but let me make it clear that I personally am not a pessimist. I've worn the uniform for 41 years, and because I know that the sort of attitude we are seeing today is a kind of recurring cycle, I'm pretty thick-skinned. It goes on all the time with our country's military forces. At some point, everyone is for you, then everyone seems to be against you. It has been a part of our history.

Q: Then together you feel the critical mood will pass. What do you think will have to be done to bring about a change?

A: Well, I hope and believe that it is a passing phase—because we have much more going for us than many people seem to realize or appreciate. We hear a lot just now about demonstrations and noisy protesters. I think it's time we made some noise of our own about what I like to call the Quiet Generation—which includes members of our armed forces—who are not prone to seizing the stage, an act that has become the hallmark of some of their contemporaries.

The youth of this country are holding the line against a determined foe, and they are containing the spread of communism. They are meeting it head-on in Vietnam, and they are the heart of the deterrent forces we have elsewhere. By any standard of history, no soldier, sailor, or airman ever faced more of a challenge.

In spite of what I would define as a negative minority attitude, our servicemen overseas have performed with courage and a great professionalism, and I'd like to see them receive some of the recognition and attention that is being misdirected elsewhere.

This is what I mean by saying that, at the moment, many people are get-

Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, the new Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff:

SUPPORT OUR G BRING THEM HOME, NOW!

Adm. Moorer says protest marches degrade GI's, but morale is still high.

...ing only a distorted image that needs to be corrected. And I think it's time we stopped calling the Government "they" all the time, as though it were our enemy, and remembered that we—the people—are the Government and quit berating the alleged existence of a so-called evil military-industrial complex.

Q: But it was former President Eisenhower, back in 1961, who warned of the danger that might arise from a military-industrial complex. Do you think we have, in fact, such a complex today?

A: President Eisenhower's fine speech, which enjoined us to remain strong against a hostile and determined enemy has been quoted entirely out of context. As a result, the phrase "military-industrial complex" has become so loaded with warped connotations that it has become a semantic trap. In my opinion, if we didn't have close cooperation between industry and Government, we would not have the capability we now possess to use the advancements of science for the over-all benefit of our country. An outstanding example of this is our successful landing of men on the moon.

Q: Is the dissent at home and the difficulties of the war in Southeast Asia having an adverse effect on morale among servicemen?
A: They are concerned, of course. A man in uniform wants and needs the support of the people at home. But I have visited our servicemen in Vietnam, in Europe, and at bases in the United States, and their morale remains high. They know that although bad news and controversy may attract the headlines, the majority are behind them.

As I've said before, I know that "good news is no news" on many of the mass-media's events yardstick, since it may not capture the public's attention. But though we have seen a number of stories about American servicemen who choose to absent themselves without leave, giving the impression that our military morale is suspect, here are some facts that didn't make the news: less than five percent of American servicemen ever go absent without leave—or A.W.O.L.—less than one-tenth of one percent of our men in uniform have sought asylum in Sweden; yet more than 73,000 military personnel have volunteered for second or subsequent duty tours in Vietnam.

Q: You are taking office when the United States is engaged in essentially a land war, which the President has pledged will be scaled down. Do you foresee a smaller role for the Navy?

A: No, for a number of reasons. The United States is an island that sits between two oceans. This makes us a maritime nation. During our lifetime, we have had free use of the seas for so long that the average American citizen takes it for granted. But this is not the case. The Russians have seen how use of the sea by the United States—and her allies—has facilitated our military, economic, and political viability. They know that in four major wars and on several lesser occasions we have projected U.S. power through the seas.

These lessons have not been lost. The Soviet Union has set out to build the world's largest and best navy. They see it as a means of exerting economic pressure and establishing a worldwide presence.

We are embarked on an overdue program of shipbuilding to modernize our Navy—many of our vessels have been active since World War II. We are moving more of our nuclear deterrent to sea, aboard nuclear submarines for wider dispersal.

Q: Defense costs have been the subject of growing criticism in Congress and out. Do you think you will get from the Congress the funds you need, or will there be some belt-tightening?

A: There already has been substantial belt-tightening. For instance, the Navy has inactivated many ships and aircraft squadrons and curtailed several modernization programs. Large numbers of reservists have been granted early discharges as an oceanomy measure. Similar stops have been taken in the other services. Also, the number of military bases here and abroad is being reduced.

It's worth bearing in mind that the $71.8 billion Department of Defense budget for fiscal 1971 represents 34.6 of Federal spending, while in 1960 it was $43 billion—which was 46 percent of Government spending. So despite a costly war and the increasing costs of more technically advanced weapons systems, our investment in national security today is actually 11.4 percent smaller than it was during a time of relative peace.

Proposed defense spending will take seven percent of our Gross National Product in fiscal 1971—or about three percent less than the percentage Americans spend annually on all forms of insurance. So despite the hue and cry, we are making very major cuts, and I believe Congress is aware of this.

Q: There is speculation that the decision to enter Cambodia was a high-water mark for the Joint Chiefs, and that their influence in decision-making may never be as strong again. Do you think this is the case?

A: I do not. You should remember that the Joint Chiefs of Staff recommend various courses of action to our civilian superiors. We do not make policy, approve budgets, or approve force levels. I confess to being less than happy when I read accounts that the military has done this wrong or that wrong. It shouldn't be necessary to say it again, but we are advisers; we make the recommendations, not the decisions.

Under the U.S. Constitution we have civilian control of our military forces, and, consequently, decisions are made by the civilian leaders in the executive and legislative branches of our Government. Speaking for myself and the other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, we fully support this concept which is inherent in a democracy. We wouldn't have it any other way. ♦

It will be easy to get drives that will put you and your friends. Aerodynamically designed to help prevent lateral spins that cause the hooks and slices that ruin your game, the tee actually cups your ball (see illustration). When your club hits your tee, all the power behind your club goes into the ball. Best yet, no matter where the club connects, the power goes behind the ball... it's getting it away faster, straighter, you don't hit the ball dead on center... but no matter... with the Tru-Drive tee you still will get a terrific shot.

How Sharp a Shopper Are You?

QUIZ

This true-false quiz might separate the savers from the losers when it comes to shopping

Most of us shop for something every day. And we probably consider ourselves fairly knowledgeable in the fine art of tracking down a bargain or reading a label or getting a good buy on certain products. This true-false quiz will test your skill in what every keen-eyed shopper knows—or ought to know.

1. All cuts of meat are graded.
2. If an advertisement gives a "list price" or the manufacturer's "suggested price," you can be sure that this is the actual price of the item.
3. A sweater that is labeled "full-fashioned" means that the garment was knitted in a special way.
4. When buying kitchen pots and pans, it's better to purchase them in sets rather than individually.
5. A wise parent should frequently allow a child with a picky appetite to help shop for his own foods.
6. You can't judge a transistor radio by the number of transistors it has.
7. Lower grades of meat have more fat to the pound than the expensive cuts.
8. A good shopper always buys large or economy-size cans and packages of food.
9. The words "League" or "Professional" on a piece of sports equipment mean that the equipment was made according to official rules of the sport.
10. The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) specifies that white eggs and brown eggs must be cartoned separately because of the difference in their nutritional value.

ANSWERS

1. False. Meat grading is a voluntary service provided by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service to meat packers and others who request and pay for the grading.

2. False. Some manufacturers set high "list" or "suggested" prices on their merchandise so that retailers can offer greater "bargains" by selling items for less.

3. True. Full-fashioned means that the sweater was knit to shape.

4. False. Every pot and pan has its own uses, and your best bet is to purchase each one separately according to your requirements.

5. True. A child with a picky appetite has more interest in food if he's allowed to make some of his own selections at the market.

6. True. Some big sets have only 10 transistors, and smaller sets, claiming many transistors, may have dummy connections.

7. False. The more expensive cuts have a higher proportion of fat to the pound, which makes them taste better, although there is less lean meat.

8. True. For the large family, this is definitely true, although a single person or couple may save by buying the smaller cans or packages.

9. False. The word "Official," not "Professional," means the equipment was made according to official rules of the sport.

10. False. The color of an egg has nothing to do with its nutritional value. In some sections of the country, brown eggs are valued over white eggs or vice versa.

The Promise of Skin Beauty —from Lemons

The beautifying properties of lemons have been recognized for centuries. Women knew even way back in ancient times that the pure juices of the lemon could accomplish wonders in softening, smoothing and clearing their complexions, and could bring the golden-bright look of shimmery sunshine to their hair when used as a rinse.

Today, women are rediscovering this most valuable of nature's gifts to feminine loveliness—and utilizing all the remarkable beautifying properties of lemons in the easy-to-use form of a skin freshener.

Lemon Jelvyn Skin Freshener is exceptional in its ability to promote a smooth, fine-grained texture because it stimulates the circulation and helps melt out clogging grime and impurities that cause blemishes and sallow complexions. This unique lemon lotion encourages the natural "flaking" processes of skin cells at the most propitious time, when they outgrow their usefulness. The old, clinging, complexion-dulling particles of scarf skin are gently coaxed away by the mild, tingling lemon freshener, so that new cells can take their place and the wonderful beauty of a fresh, radiantly clear complexion can be fully admired.

The natural toning and invigorating qualities of lemons become immediately appreciable when Lemon Jelvyn Freshener is applied to your skin with a cotton pad, for the complexion benefits in every way from these clearing, bracing properties that bring a soft, fine bloom to your skin.

Because this luxury freshener helps discourage an over-zealous oil flow and aids also in clearing the skin of blemish-inducing impurities, it is invaluable to the teenage complexion as well as those complexions with an inherent tendency to be oily in character.

Lemon Jelvyn Freshener is used by the world's most beautiful women for skin beauty and is ideal for quick cleansing or to prevent a greasy shine developing on the nose. In America it is obtainable from druggists.

MICHAEL COLE:

Out of Tune and Outspoken

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

Michael Cole, one of the three youthful stars of "Mod Squad," is a paradox. He's Establishment and anti-Establishment at the same time. He's young and he's old—at 28. He's been married, divorced, starved, jailed, loved, and neglected. Yet he holds no one but himself responsible for what he was, what he is, and what he will become.

Along with Peggy Lipton and Clarence Williams, Michael helps policeman Tighe Andrews solve all sorts of problems on the weekly ABC-TV show. Yet he points out heatedly, "We don't work for the Los Angeles Police Department! The series has nothing to do with that. The moment I feel like a cop, I'll quit. In the show, Peggy, Clarence, and I are working with a man who is in the police department. I'm not 'Dudley Doright.' I hate it when ABC says we're three cops—one white, one black, one girl. The main reason for the success of the show is the relationship among us."

His feelings were so strong that he almost talked himself out of getting the part in the first place. "Originally the inclusion of guns, cop cars, and all that nonsense was discussed. When I had this first interview with Aaron Spelling, the producer of the show, I ranted and raved and did a lot of screaming against such a concept—and probably made quite a fool of myself—until he explained what he felt the show was really about."

Cole could have some reason for dithering the law. "When I was 15, I ran away from home, and got into trouble. (He wouldn't explain what the trouble was.) The police picked me up. I got in trouble with the police a couple of other times, too. But I was never put away for any length of time."

Cole thinks he ran away from home because of a terrible insecurity within himself. "I simply wasn't comfortable with whatever I did because I didn't contribute anything worthwhile to anybody, including myself. Yet I can't blame anyone for what happened. Not my mother who loved me. Not my brother. Not my teacher. Not even my stepfather, although we didn't get along at first. We did eventually. I simply felt unfulfilled and without purpose. But I'll never forget the day my mother came all the way from home in Madison, Wis., to get me out of jail. She cried. I knew then that what I'd done was very wrong."

Michael didn't like school, although his grades were quite good, and he excelled in competitive sports. "I quit when I was 15. It was the worst decision I ever made. Education is everything. I wish I had more of it." Michael never caught up with his schooling. "I was too busy running around at night, drinking, and going out with the chicks."

He worked in a pizza parlor, as a dishwasher. He was a bartender and handy man in a theatre workshop. The job he liked best was in a bookstore. "I would read periodically," he recalled, "and I still do. Except my tastes have changed. For a while, I was interested in nothing but comics. After a while, I learned to enjoy poetry. I'd read it primarily to see whether I could understand it. When I did, I felt I'd accomplished something."

When he was 19, Michael left home with a friend and headed for the West Coast. "We wound up in San Francisco, but not until after this ding-a-ling friend of mine blew all the money we had gambling in Las Vegas. Luckily, I had a little stashed away in my shoe. When we got to San Francisco, we had the names of some cats who we could stay with until I got a job in a bookstore again, and my buddy started to work for an insurance company."

Michael became interested in acting after he moved to Los Angeles and attended a Little Theatre performance. He felt he could do as well as the actors he watched and enrolled at Etalio Harmon's workshop, which he still attends once in a while. He studied with her for two years before he tried out for his first acting job. He survived during this time in a vagabond existence of odd jobs.

"Miss Harmon helped me get an agent and my first job," Michael recalled. "A featured role in the pilot film for ABC's 'The Felony Squad.'" Although the original format was canceled, casting directors saw it, and before long Michael had his chance to play in "Gunsmoke," "Run For Your Life," and two motion pictures—Arch Oboler's "The Bubble" and "Chuka," with Rod Taylor, before becoming Peter Cochran of "The Mod Squad."

When conversing with Michael, you have to be careful because he can fly off the handle rather easily. Certain subjects are tabu, even though once in a while he slips into them of his own accord. Among them is his own father, whom he can't remember, and his stepfather, whom he hated at first but then learned to like.

He also won't discuss the woman he married at a very young age, nor his two children, a boy and a girl he no longer sees, and to whose support he doesn't contribute for reasons known best to himself. He does admit, however, that he supports his mother and two sisters (he also has an older brother), for whom he bought a house in the San Fernando Valley, while he remains in a small apartment in Laurel Canyon.

Michael insists he has no idea about money. He has a business manager and an agent to invest for him. "If it weren't for them, I'd probably put any extra money in an old shoe box. I was so broke for so long, I simply couldn't hold on to money once I got it. And I trust those people."

He claims money doesn't matter to him as long as he can live fairly comfortably, which includes his one luxury, a silver-gray Jaguar. Yet a few days before we met, he'd gone to Hawaii to look after three parcels of real estate he owns there, including one that contains a successful hotel.

Michael's constant tension is apparent in the way he walks, talks, and thinks. But he doesn't believe in drugs. Nor does he believe in rebellion for the sake of rebellion or, in spite of his earlier outburst about playing a cop on tv, of hating cops simply because they are cops. "You can't lock them all up in one group. I hate some of them, but I also know a lot of honest-to-goodness cops who devote their lives to their work."

Michael is both aware and disturbed by what's going on today. "There are too many problems which seem to have no solution. I am scared because I don't have an understanding of so many things that are going on."

What does Michael want out of life? "To be involved," he says. On the other hand, asked about his personal future, he insists, "I never think about it. Sometimes I don't even care. It all depends upon the mood I am in." ♦

Arthritis Cholesterol

New Discovery Reveals A Common Cause

TASTY FRESH FOOD DIET BRINGS HELP FOR BOTH

New scientific studies show how cholesterol and fat choke the arteries only when eaten in aged and stored form as in bacon or ham; but are harmless when FRESH as in beef or shell eggs. Cholesterol and fat slowly dry and harden like paint when aged in many stored foods and can form deposits only when changed in this way. This tested research finding comes as a welcome surprise, at last solving the agonizing riddle of choked arteries and cholesterol.

Recently published in booklet form, these findings also cast new light on the arthritis problem. A network of fine arteries in the membrane and porous bone around the joint nourishes the moving parts. When these arteries are choked by hardened fatty materials from stored foods, the joints are starved and arthritis develops. Fully explained in the new booklet (third edition) with large clear drawings—shows the beautiful self-repairing natural design of our joints, and how we hurt them with the wrong food and drink.

Best of all, it is shown that powerful natural forces in our bodies gradually attack and remove non-living matter. It has long been known that these natural cleaning forces cleared fatty deposits and choked arteries in prisoners fed scanty diets in wartime Europe. Now we have the bountiful and tasty fresh food diet to obtain the same natural cleaning action without hardship, by avoiding only the deposit-forming stored foods. Far from a hardening diet, people are saying they have never eaten so well, or cooked as easily.

Now you can read all about it in a new easily understood booklet through which

QUIPS AND QUOTES

A girl who had just accepted her first teaching job was spending most of her salary for new clothes. Her father urged her to put the money into a savings account instead, arguing that thrift is a virtue. The girl insisted that clothes make the woman.

When the discussion reached a stalemate, she turned to her brother and asked, "What do you think I should do—put my money into clothes or put it into a savings account?"

Came his quick reply, "Put it into whichever draws the most interest."

Little Willie was a holy terror, and Dad was going to punish him for his latest escapade.

Then Mama intervened, pleading, "Don't punish him this time; wait until he does it again."

Dad countered with, "But suppose he never does it again?"

When Harry returned to the office looking tanned and rested, his secretary asked about his vacation. "Well," he replied, "a friend of mine invited me up to his hunting lodge—a quiet, secluded place. No night life, no parties, not a woman within a 100 miles."

"Did you enjoy yourself?" the secretary asked.
"Yes," Harry replied, "I didn't go."

THROW AWAY YOUR OLD SPARK PLUGS!
 AND SAVE UP TO $100 A YEAR!

NEW JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS

can spark your engine up to 30 more horse power and 5 more miles per gallon! using only your regular gas!
AND-THEY'RE GUARANTEED FOR THE LIFE OF YOUR CAR!

JET-FIRE IGNITERS KEEP ENGINES YOUNG-AND-STRONG!

Instead of the weak, unreliable spark that accompanies the aging of ordinary spark plugs... Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters... prevent fouling... prevent perfect combustion every time... actually improve the belt's conductivity... replace Jet-Fire Igniter.

WHY CONVENTIONAL SPARK PLUGS ARE OBSOLETE!
 Even after only 100 miles of driving... conventional spark plugs turn to... eroded... with... begin to burn away... spark... wider gap to explode the combustion... in the cylinder... becomes lost and lost patches... 'miss' and the plug foul even more... and leave... You can't understand why your gas mileage is so poor... Before you know it, your mechanic tells you you need a new set of plugs... And your engine has gone old long before its time!

Pat. No. 2,899,545

ONLY JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS PROVE WITH THIS EXCLUSIVE 4-WAY GUARANTEE!

1. GUARANTEED to perform for the life of your car for 200,000 miles (without cleaning, servicing, or replacing)
2. GUARANTEED to increase mileage-per-gallon of gas on your regular gas!
3. GUARANTEED to increase your working horsepower, increase engine RPM's!
4. GUARANTEED to improve ease and reliability of starting!

When you install Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters, you say "goodbye" forever to spark plug problems! They deliver sure-fire performance... month after month... but any kind of driving! It's all a matter of design!

By their very design, conventional spark plugs must deteriorate in use. Each time your cylinders fire, they erode the electrodes of your spark plug... comes less efficient... "hot" high-compression engines, plus often "cook out" in a few months of hard use.

Designed for Sure-Fire Ignition!
 Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters' patented design eliminates this problem before it starts! The electrodes are solid, not wire or filaments that burn away! The firing tip is a semiconductor... constant width of flame! You get the same reliable ignition every time... your engine never 'hesitates' and runs-down by slow starting... What's more, Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters make your engine run more powerfully and efficiently... you have in your car right now. And you can prove it for yourself!

"On-the-Level" Driving Test Proves Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters Give us 30 More Horsepower out of Your Gas!

When you receive your set of Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters, make this "before-and-after" test yourself... on your car.

1. Run your car until the engine is fully warmed up.
2. Stop on a perfectly level stretch of road.
3. Put the car in Drive (1st gear with manual transmission) and see exactly what the car will do with your foot off the gas (let the car coast).
4. Turn your car around... the plugs, and screw Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters into the plug sockets, following the simple directions (in 10 minutes).
5. Drive your car... the car... you feel faster! It feels as if you're off the gas! Now you'll see it will be a faster... faster when reaching the gas pedal! In case you're not sure, Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters increase engine RPM's by 100-200 at high speeds, the increase will actually be 300 to 350 RPM!

Right then and there, you can adjust the idling screw to cut down off your gas flow and your gas consumption. Now your Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters have been installed to save you money before you've even driven a single mile!

How to Get Even More Savings!
 Want even greater efficiency and economy? Make your air-to-gas mixture leaner. With Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters, your engine can perform at full power and efficiency on a 15:1 ratio instead of the conventional 16:1. You or your mechanic can make this simple adjustment in a minute. Then watch how you can get 10... 20... 30... even 50 extra miles on a tankful of gas!

Your engine is finally able to produce all the horsepower it was designed for! Up to 30 more horsepower of acceleration, climbing power, and passing power! And... it uses less gas than ever while producing this extra power!

Forget About Replacement or Adjustments!
 Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters have no spark gap... so they never need adjustment! They "scavenge" themselves every time they fire! Igniters, so they never need cleaning or servicing! Because they have a semiconductor glass-enclosed tip, carbon build-up usually improves conductivity... carries even more of the jet flame into the cylinder... for even more horsepower! They can't foul up... conventional plugs do. That's why they're guaranteed for the life of your car (up to 200,000 miles). Guaranteed to keep right on saving you money by running your engine at maximum power, on a minimum of gas!

Both the Navy and the Air Force have already approved Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters for jet engine use. It's only logical to expect the sooner or later, it will be adopted by the automotive designer who borrows a good idea from the aerospace industry... and copies his most advanced engine with Jet Igniters. Like these. But you needn't wait... because you can install a set in your car right now. Simply mail the coupon with the make and model of your car, and we'll rush you a set with full instructions.

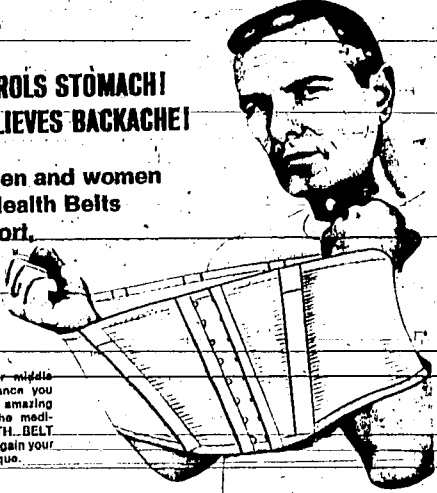

ACROSS THE U.S.A., USERS REPORT AMAZING RESULTS WITH JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS!
 "I installed Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters in my 1960 Chevrolet with a 300 engine. Immediately I noticed a great difference in performance and economy... automatically gained 3 1/2 miles per gallon!"
 "I own a 1958 Buick Wildcat... it cost him $48.00 for mileage... Chevrolet with a 151 engine... I told him about Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters... and he bought a set... and has run them 700 miles and says they are wonderful. He wants another set to give his 1958 Buick...
