TOKYO (UPI)—Communist China announced today it will supply military aid to help the government-in-exile of deposed Cambodian Prince Norodom Sihanouk fight "U.S. imperialism" in Cambodia.

The announcement from the official New China News Agency (NCNA) monitored in Tokyo said the aid treaty was signed Monday in Peking but did not reveal the nature of the military assistance.

China has provided small arms, communications equipment, field equipment and rice for North Vietnamese and Viet cong forces. Sihanouk received aid from China before he was overthrown March 18 and much of the Cambodian army still is armed with Chinese AK47 rifles.

The announcement also said Peking provided a loan to Sihanouk's government in May. The amount and terms were not disclosed.

The NCNA dispatch said: "In order to support the Cambodian people in their just war against U.S. imperialism and its lackey, the Lon Nol clique, and to further strengthen the profound traditional friendship between the peoples of China and Cambodia, the government of the People's Republic of China and the royal government of National Union of Cambodia signed in Peking today (Monday) an agreement on providing gratuitous military aid by China to Cambodia in 1970."

Lon Nol heads the Cambodian government formed when Sihanouk was ousted.

The agreement was signed by Huang Yung Sheng, chief of the general staff of Communist China's army, and Gen. Duong Sim Ol, minister of military equipment and armament for Sihanouk's forces.

Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai and Sihanouk's prime minister in exile, Penn Nouth, attended the ceremony, NCNA said.

Sihanouk, in answer to written questions by the mass circulation newspaper Asahi Shimbun of Japan, said he would remain in Peking a while longer before "moving" his government-in-exile to Cambodia.

Home Starts Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Home building increased sharply in July with the number of privately owned construction projects being started climbing to the highest level in 17 months, the Commerce Department reported Monday.

The Department said housing starts were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.58 million units last month, up from the June rate of 1.37 million and higher than the 4.32 million rate recorded a year ago.

The July figure was the highest since February, 1969. It was the first time since June, 1969, that housing starts exceeded the mark for the comparable month a year earlier.

U.S. Hits Idaho Vote Age Limit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Government filed Supreme Court test suits Monday against Arizona and Idaho seeking compliance by all states with the 18-year-old vote, literacy test ban and residency requirements of the 1970 Voting Rights Act.

The Justice Department sought an expedited hearing on the law, which President Nixon considers unconstitutional, but did not ask the court to meet in special session prior to its Oct. 5 fall session. Only 24 states said they would comply with the 18-year-old vote. Georgia and Kentucky have it now.

The government asked the Court to speed consideration of the cases and requested an interim order to permit illiterate persons to register so that they may be eligible to vote in the Nov. 3 general election.

Oregon and Texas have already filed suits in the High Court against the Federal Government challenging the constitutionality of the 18-year-old vote. Indiana, Nebraska and North Carolina also have said they would not comply with the law.

The law gives 18-year-olds the vote after Dec. 31, 1970, shortens residency requirements for voting in Presidential elections and orders suspended as of last June 22 literacy tests in 14 states.

Indiana, Idaho and North Carolina—with respect to the 61 counties not covered by the 1965 voting rights act—said they would not comply with the literacy ban while New Hampshire was listed by the Justice Department as "doubtful" over this aspect of the law.

The literacy requirement is the most pressing at the moment because of this fall's elections.

The suit against Arizona covers 18-year-old voters and suspension of the State's literacy tests. The Idaho suits deal with 18-year-old voters and the State's residency requirements.

The associations involved, in addition to Nysaa - Nampa, are the Idaho Beet Growers, Lower Snake River Growers, Owyhee Beet Growers and Utah Beet Growers.

Another Nysaa - Nampa director, Lester Allen, said this is the second time the associations have aimed for "an early contract."

He said, "We tried it several years ago, but this time we'll have a good chance of succeeding."

Robert Van Horne, district manager of Amalgamated, termed the contract proposed by the growers as "rather costly to the company."

He said, "We still hope to reach an early agreement in order to facilitate fall preparations and advance financial arrangements."

Defense Department officials said the policy actually has been in effect since 1966 when military lawyers decided civilian laws would not apply to military hospitals, under new legislation. But the clarification is being made now because some hospitals still believed they had to follow local laws, officials said.

Dr. Louis M. Rousselet, assistant defense secretary for health and environment, issued a memorandum May 20 that "surgical sterilization procedures may be performed on eligible beneficiaries in military facilities in accordance with sound medical practice, subject to the availability of space and facilities and the capabilities of the medical staff. Neither state laws nor local medical practices will be a factor in making these determinations."

July 18 he issued an additional policy statement saying abortions should be allowed "when medically indicated or for reasons involving mental health."

An even stronger statement was issued recently saying state or local laws on the subjects were not to be followed.

Killer Shipment Scuttled

ABOARD THE USS HARTLEY (UPI)—A U.S. Navy scuttle team boarded the rusted hulk of the nerve gas ship S.S. Le Baron Russell Briggs Tuesday and opened its valves, sinking the Liberty ship and its deadly 67-ton cargo to the bottom of the sea.

The scuttle team boarded the vessel at 9:33 a.m. and completed the opening of the valves by 11:45 a.m. The ship was expected to take between three and five hours to sink below the surface of the sea at the dumping site 282 miles off Cape Kennedy.

Once the old Liberty ship disappeared below the surface, it was estimated it would take only 10 minutes for its 16,000-foot plunge to the ocean bottom.

First aboard the rusting ship were three Army chemical experts from the Edgewood Arsenal. They had been transferred from a Coast Guard cutter to a whale boat and then to the old ship.

The scuttling crew reported it found in good health the six white rabbits which traveled aboard the hulk on its two-day voyage from Sunny Point, N.C. The rabbits were aboard to serve as a warning of gas leaks among the cargo of gas rockets.

As the 28-year-old ship containing 418 concrete vaults of deadly but unusable nerve gas rockets began to sink, USS Hartley, a destroyer escort serving as command vessel of the flotilla, prepared to collect water samples to determine if there were any mishaps, such as breaking up of the vaults from water pressure.

The Hartley planned to remain at the burial scene throughout the sinking to chart the final resting place of the gas, to collect the water samples being released when the Briggs settled on the bottom.

Special safeguards were taken to allay fears of some that the intense pressure of the three-mile ocean depth might rupture the concrete containers and let loose the lethal gas in a sudden burst or cause the gas rockets inside to explode.

Army authorities insisted that even if that happened, there would be no danger to human life.

The water samples obtained in bottles will be taken to a Naval laboratory at Mayport, Fla., for a check after the disposal is completed.

During court hearings at which it successfully defended its disposal plan against efforts to block it, the Army said there would be more danger from allowing the deteriorating and unstable rockets in the coffins to remain above ground.

Idaho, would contain certain "allowable" pollutants such as fires for the preparation of food and for recreational purposes, for control of fire hazards such as weeds, training fires for fire fighters and flares or warning flames.

In low density areas of fewer than 100 homes-per-square-mile, fires could be used for the disposal of trash and rubbish.

City trash dumpgrounds would be permitted to burn tree trunks and cuttings under the solid waste control programs on certain days about twice per year.

Burning of junk cars in preparation for baling would be prohibited after Dec. 31.

TWIN FALLS — There isn't too much demand for old filter plants, but Twin Falls city has one for sale.

The sale, to be scheduled following appraisal, will exclude wells on the property now used to provide supplemental water for the city system.

Since the new pumping station was built on Harrison Street and the city began using water from Alpheus Creek in Snake River Canyon north of the city, the old filter plant has not been used.

City council members Monday night authorized the city manager to negotiate for appraisal prior to sale of the property south of town. The property includes 15 acres of land and the old brick two-story filter plant building.

The building was erected and put into use in 1918. It contains four large filter beds and facilities for drawing water from the Twin Falls Canal-Columbia canal to discharge it to the reservoir.

Fed Eases Credit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Reserve Board has loosened slightly its bank reserve requirements, freeing about $350 million which could be used for loans to home buyers and financially hard-pressed states and local governments.

The board Monday cut from 6 to 5 per cent the funds which banks must hold to back time deposits in excess of $5 million.

This reserve requirement determines the amount of money banks must keep either as cash in their vaults or in noninterest accounts with the Federal Reserve to back their deposits.

Reserve funds are frozen and cannot be loaned or invested.

The move was the first change in the reserve requirement since April 17, 1969. Left unchanged were the 3 per cent reserve for savings accounts and time deposits of up to $5 million, and the reserve of between 12.5 per cent and 17.5 per cent on checking accounts.

A bank with $10 million in time deposits will be required to maintain a reserve of $400,000 when the new rule takes effect Oct. 1. Under the old regulation the requirement was $450,000 on the same deposits.

Escapée Captured

BURLEY — Another youth escapee from St. Anthony has been captured — this time by Burley police.

James Kennedy, 16, Burley, was held today for St. Anthony officials by Burley police. Kennedy was the 16th captured of 17 who escaped last week from the St. Anthony training school.

Burley police spotted the youth on the corner of 14th Street and Elba Avenue.

Gem OK's Rail Hike

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission said today it had approved a joint application from Burlington Northern, Inc., and the Union Pacific Railroad Co. for a railroad fare increase for Idaho intrastate traffic.

The PUC said the proposed increases in passenger fares were requested to help offset increased costs incurred since 1963.

The increases, which will become effective Sept. 1, concur with a similar increase application pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Purchase Plan Dies

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate refused Monday to vote new controls on the way the Defense Department contracts for new weapons despite critics' charges that the new Pentagon "buy before you buy" policy was only public relations gimmickry.

The senate easily defeated on a 43-22 vote an amendment to the $19.2 billion military procurement bill which would have required the Pentagon to submit a report to Congress on testing and research of a system before funds can be used to begin production.

Citing cost increases of $23 billion on 38 major systems, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said "given the billions in overruns, this amendment is only half a step."

Citing Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's "buy before you buy" program, Proxmire said, "I look the Pentagon at its word" and introduced the amendment.

Laird's opposition to the amendment drew criticism from Proxmire and Sen. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

"The only explanation, Fulbright said, was that opponents of the amendment 'don't really believe that the Defense Department is going to carry out the policy.'"

U.S. Orders Abortions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon has told hospitals on all U.S. military bases they must perform abortions and sterilizations, when necessary, regardless of state or local laws.

It said only military personnel, active or retired, and their families, plus civilian defense employees and the dependents of deceased servicemen would be eligible for the services.

Most states have laws which either prohibit or severely limit abortions, but only two have laws against surgical sterilization. Laws on the two subjects vary around the world.

Defense Department officials said the policy actually has been in effect since 1966 when military lawyers decided civilian laws would not apply to military hospitals, under new legislation. But the clarification is being made now because some hospitals still believed they had to follow local laws, officials said.

Dr. Louis M. Rousselet, assistant defense secretary for health and environment, issued a memorandum May 20 that "surgical sterilization procedures may be performed on eligible beneficiaries in military facilities in accordance with

July 18 he issued an additional policy statement saying abortions should be allowed "when medically indicated or for reasons involving mental health."

An even stronger statement was issued recently saying state or local laws on the subjects were not to be followed.

Any eligible woman may quality for an abortion if two doctors, or one doctor and one psychiatrist, agree the operation is necessary.

"There are no other restrictions," one official said. "Marital status is not a factor. Anyone can get these or other family planning services as long as he or she meets the requirements of the policy."

The Pentagon said family planning counseling and such aids as birth control pills are given free at the base hospitals. There is a charge of $7.75 a day for hospitalization involving abortion or sterilization.

Mountain Bell Installs 4 Millionth Telephone

CAIDWELL—Mountain Bell today installed its four millionth telephone in a new science building at the College of Idaho in Caldwell.

Special ceremonies were held and Robert K. Timothy, Mountain Bell president, called the ultra-modern science center an ideal setting for the commemorative installation, because it symbolizes the parallel advancement of education, science and the telephone industry in the West.

He cited the four millionth telephone as a "tribute to the growth of Mountain Bell, the College of Idaho and this great area where we are both privileged to serve."

The four millionth telephone, a dark brown desk model, has a special plate on the handset with the date and place of installation. It bears the number 459-5501 and is part of a new Centrex dialing system just completed at the college.

In a luncheon speech at the Downtowner Motor Inn in Boise, Timothy said the ceremony must not be viewed as an isolated event but as a symbol of Mountain Bell's entry into the new age which has swept the country, bringing with it a questioning of values, an emphasis on change, and a concern for human beings.

Installation of the four millionth set comes 91 years after telephone service arrived in what is now Mountain Bell operating territory.

Mountain Bell was formed in 1911 from the consolidation of a group of pioneer telephone companies. At the time there were 160,000 telephones in service and now there are 250,000 telephones in Idaho alone.

Japan Closing Doors To Defectors

WASHINGTON — The Japanese government is secretly pressuring Western countries taking part in the widely fanfare Expo '70 to refuse to grant political asylum to Iron Curtain defectors.

They did — to their grievous sorrow. Several days later the young Czech women were on a Russian ship bound for Vladivostok, huge Soviet port and naval base on the Sea of Japan at the southern tip of eastern Siberia.

Japan's secret policy of going to great lengths to avoid "defection incidents." That's the inside reason why a Russian defector had to practically turn to a European country for refuge.

Giulio Apolignovich Kakauridze, 33-year-old electrical engineer from the Republic of Georgia, was one of a party of several hundred Soviet visitors to Expo '70. The day before their ship was to return to Vladivostok, he appeared at the U.S. embassy in Tokyo and pleaded for political asylum. He was told that couldn't be granted. After desperately canvassing a number of Western embassies, he finally got help from a Scandinavian country.

Previously, a Cuban sailor had the same bitter experience. He too appealed to the U.S. embassy for asylum to no avail, and finally was able to escape Castro's terror rule through the compassion of a European nation.

New Russian Strategy

Russia's new interest in relaxing world tensions, instead of promoting them, is raising fresh hopes for peace.

All is quiet along the Suez front, a non-aggression treaty between Russia and Germany promises greater European tranquility, and American withdrawal from Vietnam is continuing without creating a power vacuum inviting fresh aggression by the North Vietnamese.

These developments lend weight to the statement of Premier Kosygin that the Soviet Union is striving to strengthen peace in the direction of a relaxation of tensions.

"Our policy," he said, "is to promote a detente in the world; to eliminate current armed conflicts and do our utmost to prevent the reappearance of conflicts between nations."

This is precisely the long-held position of the United States. There would be cause for rejoicing were it not for the mistrust that still exists between the superpowers.

Kosygin, for instance, said Russia was trying to do everything possible to end the war in Indochina "which was unleashed and which is being waged by American Imperialists," and that the United States remains the major obstacle to settlement.

Kosygin called for "a political solution of the problem, with strict respect for the rights of peoples of Indochina to settle their affairs without foreign interference." Again, he echoes the position of the United States and conveniently overlooks Russia's "to the aggression of the North Vietnamese and the North's initial violation of Cambodia's neutrality, which is continuing.

Kosygin's professed desire to resolve the arms limitation problem is matched by our own.

Obviously, grave problems remain in the Middle East and Indochinese spheres. Cooperation between the Soviet Union and the United States, within the framework of the United Nations, could go far to work out acceptable solutions.

But Kosygin's view is that stable peace in the Middle East is possible solely on the condition of the full withdrawal of Israeli troops from the occupied Arab territories runs counter to Israel's insistence — and ours — that Israel's right to exist must be recognized by the Arabs.

Use of Russian planes on mercy flights to the Peruvian earthquake area last month to collect radar and photo-intelligence data about North American coastal areas also is a straw in the wind blowing against Kosygin's announced policy.

The United States should pursue every hope for peace but it should never relax its vigilance or go ahead with unilateral reduction in armaments while Russia continues its buildup.

Maybe It Won't Stick

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Fatty Tumors

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard about fatty tumors. Would you explain what they are? Can a person have more than one at a time? Are they painful? In what part of the body do they mostly come? Mrs. R.K.

A fatty tumor is a growth of fatty tissues, just as a wart is a growth of surface tissues. Therefore, fatty tumors (also called lipomas) most commonly occur just below the surface of the body, because that is where we naturally have a layer of fat.

Sometimes a person has only one; occasionally someone may have several of them, and they can occur in virtually any part of the body.

Painful? No, unless they become infected (which occasionally happens) or they are so located or reach such size that they exert pressure in some sensitive region. Ordinarily not painful, though.

While like any tissue one of them might become cancerous, this is very uncommon, so fatty tumors cannot be rated as dangerous. In many instances they remain small and can be ignored. But if they become so large as to be a nuisance or disfiguring, they can be readily removed by surgery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've had hemorrhoids for 15 years, and had uncomfortable periods. I may go six months without problems, however. I am 56. Is there any age period at which surgery would not be successful? Is the hemorrhoid area subject to malignancy? —W.H.

There is no special age bracket for hemorrhoid surgery, and 56 certainly is not too old, assuming that you are in tolerable health otherwise.

Over the years I've noticed that his condition, more than any other I can think of, is one that people struggle along with for years until they finally come to the conclusion that salves and "half-measures" won't cure the trouble. The operation is no fun, I grant, but afterward most people wonder why they waited so long. A certain amount of after-care is absolutely essential, so I urge you, in advance, to read my booklet.

"The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." Send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

As to your last question, yes, the hemorrhoid area is subject to cancer. This always should be suspected when there is bleeding. Cancer is not related to the hemorrhoids themselves, and not all bleeding is a sign of cancer, but cancer should be suspected until proved otherwise.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I run a small grocery store and a lady comes in two and three times a week and buys cheap starch. I asked her what she does with it all and she said she had been eating it all her life. Will it kill her? —Mrs. S.

No. There's nothing inherently harmful in starch. It's just another form of carbohydrate pretty much like macaroni or other starchy foods.

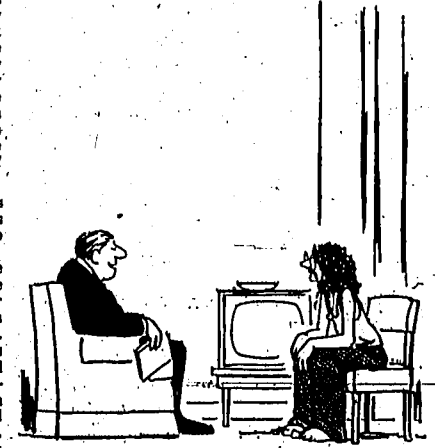

The principal danger that these starch-eaters (and there are lots of them) run is that all the starch will make them fat, or that they will eat so much of it they neglect other types of food, such as protein or foods containing necessary vitamins or minerals. Many have an anemia and are lacking other food essentials obtained in a balanced diet.

Note to Mrs. A.P.: You certainly have your problems — but lying and alcoholism are not inherited traits, which is something to be thankful for.

Are you having a gall bladder problem? To find out how the gall bladder works and what types of trouble to look for send for Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "You and Your Gall Bladder." Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson is interested in all his readers' questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column, but because of the great number received daily, he regrets that he cannot answer individual letters.

BERRY'S WORLD

"So...you want to be a 'weatherman,' eh? TV or SDS?"

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Nixon's Northern Problem

WASHINGTON — A remarkable series of statewide private polls taken this spring and summer suggest that President Nixon, gaining strength in the South but declining in the vote-rich industrial North, can win the popular vote in 1972 but lose the electoral vote — and the Presidency.

nationwide poll, agreeing substantially with public surveys by Louis Harris, shows Mr. Nixon running markedly better today than he did against Humphrey: Nixon, 42 percent; Muskie, 35; George C. Wallace, 9; undecided, 11.

ART BUCHWALD

No Paradise

The state surveys, conducted by pollster Oliver Quayle, show surprising strength for Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine against Mr. Nixon in areas indispensable for a Republican Presidential victory. Were the election held now, Quayle found, Muskie would beat Mr. Nixon in the essential states of Illinois and Ohio plus the banner state of Delaware.

TAHITI — At first glance Tahiti and the surrounding islands live up to their reputation as being an earthlike paradise. But after a week you notice many things wrong.

One is amazed to see men without coats and ties in restaurants and bars. A tourist can't help wondering what on earth the missionaries have been doing all these years.

It's sad to report but Tahiti lacks many of the refinements that Americans are used to. For example, during the 10 days we spent in Polynesia there was not one smog alert. I kept inquiring about smog, but only got blank stares from the natives. The simple souls didn't even know what smog was, which shows you how far behind the times the Polynesians still are.

I am sorry to report that when you leave the main island of Papeete, there is no television. The only entertainment available on Bora Bora and Moorea and Raiatea is provided by the natives who sing and dance until early hours of the morning.

Another thing that struck me was the fact that none of the dancers out here are topless. The Tahitian dancers prefer to wear bras to going bare, and an American tourist can make a fortune selling photos of Los Angeles go-go dancers to the natives, who are shocked that we allow our women to dance with nothing on.

It's hard to believe that any civilization can survive without Johnny Carson or Laugh In, but somehow the Tahitians manage to do it.

It takes a few days for an American to get used to dancers wearing bras, but after awhile you stop staring and it doesn't bother you at all.

At the same time, you can see the effects the lack of television has had on the natives. They have no idea which detergent contains the most active ingredients; they don't know which shampoo will add luster to their hair. They have no clue as to what works faster than aspirin, and they don't even know what mouth wash to use when someone accuses them of bad breath.

One of the things that strikes you about Tahiti is the noise, which is deafening. The wind blowing through the palm trees, the surf crashing against the coral and the constant flapping of the sails in the breeze is more than a person can stand. It's no wonder after a few days of this that a person longs for the quiet and solitude of New York City or Cleveland.

The only thing the Tahitians have going for them, as far as we could tell, is that there is no generation gap. A young man does not argue with his father when he's told he can't borrow the outrigger canoe. A young girl must be in her hut by 10 o'clock at night.

Another thing that hits you is the lack of formality in clothing. The women out here are not even conscious that the midriff is now in fashion and they are still wearing their sarongs above the knees. They also insist on wearing flowers in their hair.

Evil Days For Corps

One of the few banners that remained flying after the walls of Camelot crumbled was that of the Peace Corps.

Launched in 1961 by President John F. Kennedy as a means of utilizing the energy and idealism of youth, as well as the skills of age, to wage peace through self-help programs among the poor of developing nations, the corps reached its peak enrollment of 13,000 in 1964.

Since then it has steadily fallen out of favor, not only among some foreign nations but at home among the young men who once formed its backbone.

The number of volunteers serving overseas is down to 8,600. Applications have dropped 58 per cent since 1964. Peace Corps recruiters have been barred from some campuses, putting them in a class with representatives from the military services and Dow Chemical Company.

There is an organization called the National Student Volunteers, which claims to speak for 10 per cent of the 30,000 volunteers who have served in the corps since its inception and which calls for the outright abolition of the corps.

Why? Because, says the CRV, the Peace Corps "supports the status quo in the countries to which it sends volunteers, gives legitimacy to the local power structure which invited it... (and) provides an illusion of progress by helping to coax out of an obsolete and inadequate politico-economic system some token social projects."

In other words, the Peace Corps is not doing what it was never intended to do — subvert or revolutionize the governments of those countries in which it serves.

Such neutrality may have been an unrealistic goal from the beginning, especially when so many of the social ills the Peace Corps has attempted to alleviate are the very product of "obsolete and inadequate politico-economic systems." But it is the only policy under which the corps could possibly have coaxed into being whatever reforms it has been able to coax.

This, apparently, is not good enough for thousands of disillusioned veterans of the corps.

Yet is a safe bet that at the same time that they demand an end to the Peace Corps because of its ineffectiveness in changing the status quo in foreign lands, out of the other side of their mouths, they condemn the United States for its meddling in the affairs of sovereign nations.

Revenge Not Answer

Like airplane hijacking, the growing popularity among South American revolutionaries of kidnaping foreign diplomats and holding them for ransom is a deadly development in our modern world to which there is no obvious solution.

Failure of the government of Uruguay to meet the demand of guerrillas of Tupamaros, in release of political prisoners allegedly held as political prisoners — led to the murder of Dan A. Mitrione, chief U. S. police adviser in Uruguay. His death is the latest in a lengthening list of casualties which includes a number of American and other foreign personnel killed or wounded while resisting their abductors.

An alternative to outright refusal to give in to the kidnapers is suggested by the threat of a right-wing Uruguayan organization to kill 50 Tupamaros for every hostage they kill. While possibly appealing to the instinct for revenge, this would only serve to escalate the terror.

At this point there seems no satisfactory answer to this problem. We can only hope that this latest fad of the fanatics is not eventually imported to those shores.

It is much too early for conclusive Presidential polling, of course. Moreover, Muskie has not yet been tested as a Presidential prospect. For instance, his statements supporting student dissenters, putting him on the wrong side of the nation's most passionate issue, can be used against him. Nevertheless, in Quayle's statewide trial heats, Muskie is the only Democrat who seriously challenges the President. That's partly caused by greater national exposure but is also evidence that Muskie, a Polish Catholic, cuts into the Northern ethnic vote that partially defected from Humphrey in 1968. Quayle's current unpublished

Robson Ponders U. S. Suit

BOISE (UPI)—Attorney General Robert Robson said Monday he has mixed emotions about the federal suit against the state of Idaho to comply with the 18-year-old voting law.

Monday the federal government filed suit in the Supreme Court asking that Arizona and Idaho be required to comply with the act as prescribed by U. S. Attorney General Mitchell.

Robson said, "It's an important point that is involved, and what we got here is whether the 14th amendment to the U. S. Constitution can be used to create a statute by Congress, which will in effect amend the Constitution of the United States."

The attorney general said his argument has not been over giving the young people the right to vote, but with the process by which the government wants to legalize the statute.

He said, "I think the principle is rather important. It has been interpreted that I am against the 18-year-old vote which is not so. I think that of all the higher administration officials in Idaho I am the one that is most in favor of it."

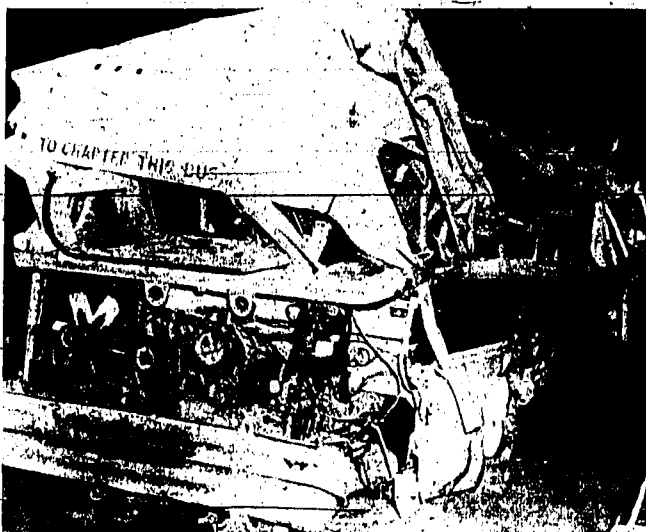

He continued, "I think the criteria around the country is when the young people reach 18 they are adults and they are the young men, of draft age. I feel this is a standard we are out to apply, but it is only my personal opinion."

He said, "I think it is important how this law will come into effect. It's a $64-dollar question since it doesn't even come into effect until Jan. 1, 1971. As a lawyer it gives me the opportunity to debate the constitutional question. It's up to me to uphold the state constitution if and whenever I can."

He said the voting case has to be an original suit to be tried in the U. S. Supreme Court. He said, "This is a unique when original suits are filed in the Supreme Court. Jurisdiction is rather limited. It is of some historical significance."

Robson said, "I would suspect that the cases filed on this, including those involving Arizona, Oregon and Texas will be consolidated as one, since the issues will be exactly the same."

The attorney general said he had not received word from Washington on the filing of the suit against Idaho. He said he expected the suit would have been filed last Friday, since he received a telephone call last Thursday night. He said he had expected some word from the federal government Monday.

Screams Testimony Scheduled I-Ton Sputnik Shot to Venus

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Tate murder trial moves today from the 18-day testimony of eyewitness Linda Kasabian to further prosecution testimony about screams the night of the slayings and four young persons washing blood from their hands.

The prosecution was expected to follow Mrs. Kasabian with three witnesses in chronological order in the killings.

First was a man who headed a group of campers in the hills and heard the screams at the home of actress Sharon Tate the night she and four others were killed.

Second was an elderly couple who saw the "Manson Family" members using their hose. The state contends the family members were washing blood from the crimes off of their hands and clothing.

Third was the man who owned the white Ford allegedly used by cult members the night of the Tate slayings and the killings the next night of grocer Leno LaBlanca and his wife.

In her little girl's voice, Mrs. Kasabian said Monday she did not feel she was an angel but that in her heart she believed perhaps God sent her to tell the truth about the slayings.

Under redirect examination from Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi she was asked if Manson ever talked about the devil.

MOSCOW (UPI)—A one-ton unmanned Sputnik packed with radio and electronic gear sped toward Venus today in a continuation of an exploratory mission that ended in failure or mystery on the last four tries.

Venus 7, the latest Soviet entry in the interplanetary space race, blasted off early Monday and was in good operating condition over a present trajectory, the official Tass news agency said. Initial speed was about 9,000 miles per hour.

Four of the previous six Venus exploration probes by the Soviet Union went aloft in pairs a few days apart. The Soviets, secretive as usual about the latest launch, did not indicate if a Venus 8 will join Venus 7 within a few days.

The launch came less than two months after the triumphant completion of the last Soviet space shot, the two-man Soyuz 9 mission that orbited earth for nearly 17 days and set a record for human space endurance.

The Venus 7 mission shifted attention away from the sphere of manned orbital and moon flights to the less spectacular second arena of space competition with the United States—unmanned deep space shots.

The Soviets did not announce whether Venus 7 would attempt to land on Venus, earth's nearest neighboring planet, or pass closely as the earliest Soviet shots and all American shots did.

"The new station is to continue studies of the planet and its atmosphere as well as of interplanetary space."

Flood Victims Get N. Irish Aid

BEIFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—The Northern Ireland Cabinet in emergency session Monday approved cash grants to help repair damage from weekend floods that joined Roman Catholics, Protestants and British troops in a clean-up alliance.

Twelve hours of steady rain, heaviest in decades in the province, sent the river Lagan overflowing and caused $2.4 million in damage—but united the warring factions in violence-torn Northern Ireland.

The Cabinet did not say how much in cash grants would be allocated. But Cabinet members said help also would go to residents for drying out houses, clothing, carpets, furnishings and furniture inundated in the rain.

Home Minister Robert Porter and Development Minister Brian Faulkner made personal tours of the worst hit areas and gave first-hand reports to the Cabinet.

The Cabinet commended flood victims for the "courageous way they faced up to their misfortunes."

A Belfast newspaper, the Telegraph, said it would donate $4,800 to flood victims—money it had earmarked for a banquet in September to mark its centenary.

Protestants and Catholics ignored their sectarian differences to work with their common adversaries, British troops, to clear away the foot-deep mud left in thousands of homes. Less than one week ago, the troops had been forbidden to walk the streets alone for fear of being attacked by the warring religious factions. Where they spat at Saturday, the soldiers were a welcome sight Monday.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Joe and I are engaged to be married soon. He's intelligent, treats me good and I'm sure he loves me. However, we have this one argument every time any of my family calls, comes over or invites us to their home. Joe can't stand them, and he makes it obvious.

If he comes over and they are already here, the room gets silent and the atmosphere becomes tense as soon as he walks in the door. My family knows Joe doesn't like them.

He won't go to their house unless practically dragged by the hair, and when he does, he never talks. Joe is a shy person to begin with, but after two years, don't you think it's time he felt a little more at ease with them?

I make an effort to get along with everybody in HIS family, and there are a few I don't care for.

Abby, how can I get him to accept my family like I've accepted his? This really bothers me. JOE'S FIANCEE

DEAR FIANCEE: Joe may be "intelligent," but he has a lot of growing up to do. Any grown man who refuses to make an effort to be at least "pleasant" to his fiancée's family shows himself to be immature. He may be "naturally shy," but that's no excuse for rudeness. And if you're a sensitive girl who likes to see a lot of her family, you'd better recognize a "king-sized threat" to your marriage before it engulfs you.

DEAR ABBY: There is a young woman in our crowd who makes a habit of caressing the hand of the gentleman who is lighting her cigaret. In fact, I have observed that when she wants attention she will put a cigaret in her mouth and helplessly look around for a light until someone notices her.

I really wouldn't mind so much, but she does this to my husband. I trust my husband, Abby, but I don't trust her. How should I react to this tricky little maneuver without appearing jealous? And what do you suppose she's after? GREEN EYES

DEAR GREEN: She's probably after a cheap thrill. Don't let it throw you. You have the boufire. She's getting only the sparks.

DEAR ABBY: I was startled to discover some love letters from several men to my wife's closest friend. I thought my wife was merely secreting them for her until further discovery forced me to conclude that these extramarital games must be "contagious." Secreted in the same place was a large cache of birth control pills with my wife's name on the prescription. My wife should have no use for these pills since I have had a vasectomy 10 years ago when we both decided our family was complete.

When I asked her for an explanation, I was told I needed "psychiatric" help to cure me of snooping and to help me accept this changing world.

She did offer me an "excuse" for the pills. (They weren't necessarily for "birth control"—her doctor prescribed them for another reason.)

Do you think I am square to object to her continued close friendship with this woman friend? SUSPICIOUS IN HOUSTON

DEAR SUSPICIOUS: Square, no. Fighting a losing battle, yes. It's hard to know who's corrupting whom—if indeed extramarital games are contagious. But women, like men, choose their own friends for their own reasons, which is their privilege.

Eden Sets Bid Opening

EDEN — Bids will be opened Aug. 28 at 8 p. m. at the Eden city offices for the construction of a sewer project for the community.

The project involves construction of sewer lines and a lagoon treatment facility for the city of Eden. Hledesol and Straubhar, Twin Falls, are consulting engineers for the project.

In addition to the one cell lagoon, about 4.4 acres in size, with inlet and transfer structures, landscaping and roadway, the project also includes 1,000 feet of 10-inch outfall sewer pipe; 3,950 feet of eight-inch main line sewer pipe, 17,850 feet of eight-inch collector sewer pipe and about 3,400 feet of six-inch and four-inch connecting sewer lines to homes and other structures, all complete with manholes and appurtenances.

Residents of Eden approved a bond issue in the amount of $165,000 earlier this year by a large majority. Total cost of the project including engineering, land purchase, legal fees and other incidental items is expected to reach about $170,000, engineers report.

Land for the lagoon has been purchased from Vernon Lance just north of Eden. This is the first sewer system for the town of Eden and will also serve some of the adjacent rural properties.

KEYS TO NEW motorcycle are turned over to Jim Milton, Twin Falls police officer, by Nyle Smith of Blasius Motors. The vehicle is being donated by the local firm for use during downtown reconstruction and will enable a traffic officer to get around other vehicles and clear up traffic problems. Looking on are Police Chief Frank Barnett; Mayor Frank Feldman, and Harold Blasius, from left.

Listed Fair

WENDELL — Bill Powell, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Powell, who was seriously injured in a truck-motorcycle accident on Highway 25 near Wendell on Aug. 2, is reported in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

The Powell youth is reported to be much improved.

T.F. Now Has Cycle Policemen

TWIN FALLS — Motorcycle police officers in Twin Falls will soon be a common sight in downtown alleys.

Blasius Motor Co., 1806 Kimberly Rd., Monday turned over the keys to a Honda 350 standard motorcycle to the city, a donation to help patrol traffic during the downtown reconstruction period.

Alleys on either side of Main Avenue and Shoshone Street are carrying heavy traffic loads, officers pointed out, and patrol cars are too large to use in keeping the routes clear.

Chief of Police Frank Barnett said an officer on the motorcycle will be able to get around other traffic it needed and to keep alleys open and free of parked vehicles.

Chief Barnett said one full shift will be maintained daily, during business hours.

Democrat, Republican Units Elect

HAILEY — Blaine County's Democratic and Republican central committees met recently in separate reorganizational sessions.

Bill House, Hailey, was named chairman of the Republican group, to replace Bud Purdy, Picabo, who was not seeking another term. Others elected include George Kneeland, Ketchum, who will serve another term as state committeeman; Mary Bolter, Hailey, who was elected over Nevada Storde, Carey, for state committeewoman, and Steve Bolter, Hailey, finance chairman, to replace Jane Kneeland, Ketchum, who was precinct committeewoman during the primary election.

The group has tentatively agreed to meet Aug. 27 to discuss a candidate for the assessor position on the republican ballot in November.

Democrats meeting elected Mrs. Betty Lavery, Ketchum, chairman, to replace Ronda Hunt, Carey, who was appointed to fill the Carey precinct committeeman's post. Mr. Hunt will also serve as legislative district chairman.

Stanley Homeowners Favor Recreation Plan

STANLEY — Another organization, aimed at fighting a National Park concept for the scenic Sawtooth region, was announced Tuesday by a group of property owners in Stanley Basin and Sawtooth Valley.

The Stanley Basin Home Owners Association was formed during the past weekend in Stanley, representing some 50 privately owned homes scattered throughout the Sawtooth Valley.

Home owners voiced unanimous support of a National Recreation Area concept in their area and served notice they will be heard Aug. 26 at a public hearing in Sun Valley.

Mrs. A. R. Miller, Kimberly, was elected president and other officers are Jerry Funderburg, Stanley, vice president; Mrs. Boyd Ellis, Ketchum, secretary, and A. R. Miller, Kimberly, treasurer. Mr. Funderburg was named official spokesman for the group at the Aug. 26 public hearing.

"Our major concern," Mrs. Miller said, "is to retain private ownership of the existing small amount of Idaho not already owned or controlled as public lands. We feel the Recreation Area concept will afford the necessary controls to protect and preserve the natural beauty and permit a continuation of the multiple use practice so necessary for the general economy which would be handled under Forest Service supervision without more federal controls, costs and burdens."

Sawtooth City Petition Filed

SAWTOOTH CITY — A petition which officially formed Sawtooth City north of Ketchum was filed Monday with the Blaine County Recorder.

The filing came about a week after expected and only after erasing two snags which boosted of the proposal encountered in preparing for the filing.

Ted Schiermeier, Twin Falls, who has been spearheading the project, left Twin Falls a week ago Monday to file the petition, but when he got to Hailey, he could not find the document signed by about 25 landowners in the Smiley Creek area. About a day later, he found the petition, but then learned all the signatures had to be notarized.

A new petition was passed among the people who own property in the area and the names of 21 landowners signing it were notarized.

Schiermeier filed the petition Monday in Hailey and with the filing, the incorporated city of Sawtooth City is now a reality. The area is near the site of the old mining town of Sawtooth City. Primary reason for-

The association will meet again in Lower Stanley at 10:30 a.m. Saturday ming the city is to give landowners an organized voice in blocking the national parks proposal.

A meet will be held later this month at Sawtooth City to select village board members, Schiermeier said.

T.F. to Increase Sanitation Fees

TWIN FALLS — Residents of Twin Falls may as well prepare for the fact sanitation fees will be costing more in the future.

City Manager Jean Milar has asked the city council members to keep in mind future ordinances will be needed for new sanitation fee rates, upgrading of the fire prevention code and for annexation of the new subdivision known as the Shoshone Acres Sub Division No. 5.

Under the new sanitation collection contract, purchase of a new sanitary land fill site and city operation of this site, Mr. Milar said, costs for monthly fees for garbage haul within the city will have to go up. Preliminary calculations indicate costs will rise about 40 per cent.

Injures Back

JEROME — Jerry Towell, janitor at Frontier Theater, injured his back when he fell down a flight of stairs at the theater Monday afternoon.

Jerome Police Department spokesman said a rumor that Towell was shot is unfounded.

Towell is reported in very good condition at St. Benedict's hospital.

Livestock Judging Opens Blaine Fair

4-H horses will be entered from 1 to 8 p.m. Wednesday for the horse show which begins at 8

Classes participating include juniors, aged 10 years to 12 years; intermediate, 13 years to 14 years; and seniors, 15 years and over. Both boys and girls are eligible for the competition which will include halter, western pleasure, reigning, quality and fitting and showing events.

Judging begins Thursday on 4-H and FFA projects. B. C. Ross, Richfield, will be the judge, and will also grade all open class entries that day. Friday, Bill Priest, Jerome — Extension agent, will judge livestock quality, and fitting and showing for 4-H and FFA livestock.

This year's junior jamboree gets under way at 7:30 p.m. Friday and is open to all county youngsters aged 10 to 16 years.

Mrs. Tuff Baldo, Carey, is chairman and is assisted by Art Pine, Ketchum, and Jimmie Deboard, Hailey. Events include the seven barrel race, cloverleaf, flag race, walk and lead race and the rescue race.

On Saturday, open livestock judging will be in the form of jackpot, wherein the audience participates. The judging event will be from 9 until 11 a.m., followed by a newly-added chuckwagon dinner under the direction of Lowell Mecham, Carey, 4-H council president.

Serving will be from 11 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. at the Carey school lunchroom across the highway from the fairgrounds, according to Mrs. Boyd Martin, chief planner. Mrs. Martin will be assisted in the cooking of the meal by Mary Hunt and Mary Peterson, both Carey.

The menu for the initial affair will include barbecue lamb, baked beans, potato and green salads, watermelon and rolls. The lamb is donated by Veli Simpson and Luis Cenarrusa, both Carey. Other foods are donated by 4-H parents, and the meal will be free of charge to the public. About 200 individuals are expected to be served.

The annual 4-H and FFA fair stock sale will follow the meal at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, with the Jim Messersmith Auction Service, Ewin Falls, volunteering the auctioneering services. This year's fair event will conclude Saturday night by the annual rodeo at 7:30 p.m. and the dance at 8:30 p.m.

Ketchum's Tax Increase Okayed

KETCHUM — Idaho State Tax Commission have approved a petition by the city of Ketchum to increase 1970 tax expenditures by 32.361 per cent over the 1969 figure, despite the four per cent limitation set by House Bill 304.

Ketchum city attorney, Steve Bolter, told the councilmen Monday night with the approval, the city can legally operate on the adopted budget of $107,578 compared with $83,869 permitted by the bill.

In its directive to the city, the tax commission noted the increase was granted as the city has experienced "substantial population growth since 1965 as well as a marked increase in building and tourist activity. The corresponding requirements for increased personnel facilities and municipal services particularly in law enforcement, sewer system, snow removal and recreation facilities have followed."

The commission also agreed the city can expect additional population growth in the future which requires planning and zoning now to cope with the problem. The increased budget figure also will help fund the replacement of Warm Springs bridge.

Ketchum's assessed evaluation for 1970 is $2,573,929. In other council business, the group granted a planning ordinance variance to L'Herisson Furniture. The firm had requested permission to provide only seven parking spaces with the new store to be constructed adjacent to the Giacobbi Square, instead of the required 12 spaces for his floor space.

No written or oral protests were heard during the public meeting although a representative of the Giacobbi Square appeared after the meeting and asked that his protest be entered in the record. He contended the variance is unfair and should not be allowed to set precedence for future developers in the area as he has provided ample for his customers and felt the spaces may be used by the other firms.

Mary Pichon, Ketchum trailer court operator, requested the council change the zoning on two acres of her five-acre tract. The two acres is zoned limited residential, while the trailer park area adjacent to it, is zoned mobile home. She asked the zoning be changed so she can develop the land which she did not feel was suitable for home sites.

Her comments were referred to the planning and zoning commission.

Building permits to Stan Neely for an A-frame dwelling, to Merritt Shotwell, Twin Falls, for an addition to his home, and to Sun Valley Co., for a two-cinder block restroom restrooms at the foot of Baldy Mountain, were also approved by the council.

lasting through Nov. 27. Christmas vacation will begin 2:30 p.m. Dec. 23, and end Jan. 3. Easter vacation starts April 9 with school dismissing at 2:30 p.m. on Thursday.

Traffic Precautions OK'd for 2 Schools

TWIN FALLS — Recommendations of the Twin Falls City Highway and Traffic Safety Commission for protection of pedestrian traffic at the Lincoln and Bickel Schools, were unanimously adopted Monday night by City Council members.

The proposals for handling young pedestrians at the two schools because of relocation of U. S. Highway 30 to Second Avenue East and North, include maintaining a 25 mile per hour speed limit, installation of yellow flasher lights, painting crosswalks at major intersections and warning signs on the streets approaching the crosswalks are among preparations being made for the coming school year.

George Staudacher, assistant superintendent, said Tuesday the school district has already completed construction of cyclone fencing around the school play yards fronting the street. He said in general the recommendations of the traffic safety commission follow the requests of the school district in the matter.

The school had recommended 15 mile per hour zones in front of the schools and a cross walk in mid-block at Lincoln School. On the advice of the Department of Highway's engineers, the city adopted the flat 25 mile per hour speed throughout the street and established the crosswalks at the intersection, agreeing motorists would be more accustomed to looking for crossings in the intersections.

City Manager Jean Milar said the school district would be responsible for fencing, the city for installation of flasher lights and the state for the painting of crosswalks.

As to crossing guards, Police Chief Frank Barnett said, he does not feel the city police department can give constant crossing guard protection because of the nature of police requirements on emergency matters and investigations. He said when available, officers will be assigned to assist and a new motorcycle acquired this week will alternate at the two schools.

Mr. Barnett said he is now more concerned about the children crossing Main Avenue a block away from the schools after they scatter. There is now two-way traffic there, he noted while Second Avenue has only west bound traffic and will have motorist warnings and organized crossing procedure.

In other Monday night business, city officials approved the low bids received for tires, coal, gasoline and anti-freeze. Successful bidders were: Intermountain Fuel Co., for coal; Consolidated Petroleum and Chemical Co., for anti-freeze; American Oil Co., for gasoline; Kendrick Oil for burner and diesel oil, and United Oil Co. for tires.

Ordinances for the adoption of five uniform building codes were placed on second reading and city officials adjourned the Monday night meeting until Tuesday, Sept. 8, because the next regular meeting would fall on Labor Day.

Jamboree Feature Of Cassia Fair

BURLEY — Bonnie Owens is one of the entertainers scheduled on the fourth annual Country-Western Jamboree beginning at 8 p.m. Wednesday the first evening of the Cassia County Fair and Rodeo.

The couple are the parents of two sons, Marty and Noel, and two daughters Dana and Kellie, all at home.

The Country Western Jamboree is again being sponsored by the Burley Exchange Club. Tickets are now on sale in a booth in downtown Burley. There are three classes of seating, grandstand reserved, special stage section and bleacher.

2 Escape Injury in Accident

HAGERMAN — A wheelchair patient and his wife escaped serious injury recently when the 1970 Buick he was operating went out of control at the north Hagerman city limits and crashed into a power pole and fire hydrant.

James P. Cain, Milwaukee, Ore., 45, owner and driver of the Buick, lost control of the car as he was entering the city of Hagerman from the north. The car turned completely around on Highway 30, striking a large utility power pole and fire hydrant, breaking the hydrant.

Jim Burke, Gooding County deputy sheriff, who investigated the accident, estimated the car's speed at the time of the accident at 20-40 75 miles an hour.

South drew trumps with four leads and led a second heart. West played the seven and, after long thought, South went up with dummy's king. East produced the ace and South had to lose two diamonds and another heart for down two.

"How could I tell?" asked South. "West had stuck in a vulnerable two-club overcall. He just had to have the ace of hearts."

It was likely that West held the ace of hearts, but that didn't justify South's play. It was all a matter of that last chance.

South was not going to make his contract if his king of hearts held. He would make that trick but would still have to lose two diamonds and the ace of hearts. His only chance to make the contract was to play dummy's 10 and knock out the ace. Not much of a chance but the only one he had.

What do you do now?
A—Pass. You can't hurt four spades unless your partner can double it. If he has any defense at all he will do just that.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of doubling, West has bid four spades and your partner has four no-trump. What do you do now?
Answer Tomorrow

In the old days, we used to read of the Last-Chance Saloon. Today it is the last-chance filling station. At bridge, there are many last-chance situations. It didn't always pay to take a drink at the Last-Chance Saloon but it is mighty good policy at the bridge table to avail yourself of that last chance.

West opened the king of clubs and continued the suit. If he had shifted to a diamond, there would be no story but West did continue clubs. South ruffed and led a heart toward dummy. West played the four, dummy the queen and East the nine.

East's duck was a good play. He was going to have to play his ace next but, if his partner held the jack, East had hopes of something good happening.

MOST RELAXING mental image you can dream up, it's said, is slanting rain. Sleep specialists suggest insomniacs envision same when trying to doze off. . . . COMMONEST psychosomatic ailment among professional singers is laryngitis. Among professional wrestlers it's skin rash.

CONSIDER THIS - Among those believers in reincarnation is a feminine subscriber who would like to return to this earth as a baby robin. Writes she: "To learn to fly in the wind! To learn to sing on a branch! How wondrous! Might be all right, at that. Still, it's not for me. The average baby robin eats 14 feet of earthworms every day. That's out."

OPEN QUESTION - Why is it mental patients rarely get headaches?

VALUE NOW OF the average shoplifted item is $29. THAT AGE AT which an inventor is most apt to file his first patent is 46. A NEWBORN BABY blue whale gains about 10 pounds per hour.

LOVE AND WAR - "When I was young," writes a lone lady now in retirement, "I always assumed I'd marry it never occurred to me that I wouldn't. Then one day when I was 29 - and keeping company with a milk-truck driver in Boise - I asked the young man why he didn't propose to me. He laughed and said, 'Come on, for the same reason nobody else ever proposed to you. You're not the marrying kind.' And suddenly - I believed him completely. That was the moment I stopped being a single girl and became a spinster, her outlook. Since that day, I've always known I wouldn't marry. It has never occurred to me, not even once that I would."

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "Do the Japanese take their vacations in the summer like we do?" A. That they do. Mostly in August. . . . Q. "Will zebras breed in captivity?" A. Almost never, and who can blame them? . . . Q. "What's the world's best-selling gin?" A. Gordon's.

HOW MANY FIRST names can you mind that spell the same way backwards as forwards? Start with Nan, Otto, Bob and Lil. Have I left out any? . . . NOTHING ODD ABOUT the fact that Sioux City is in Iowa. What's odd is South Sioux City is in Nebraska and North Sioux City is in South Dakota. . . . AM ASKED the origin of that word "hick." Originally, it was Manhattan nomenclature for any resident of Hickville, N.Y.

HOUSEHOLD HINT - What, you say whenever you paint anything outdoors, every gnat in the neighborhood lands on your damp handwork? That's easy to fix. Mix an ounce of camphor with each gallon of paint.

Cowboys Cop Third In Row From Ogden

Babieracki Hit Lets League Leaders Take Extra-Inning 9-8 Win

Pinch hitting Stan Babieracki drove in the winning run in the bottom of the 10th inning with a single over an in-drawn outfield Monday night to lift the Magic Valley Cowboys past Ogden 9-8 and into a two-game lead in the Pioneer League.

The teams meet for the finale of the four-game series at 7 p.m. Tuesday and the Cowboys will remain at home Wednesday to begin a four-game stand with the Billings Mustangs. Wednesday will be family night, the entire family admitted for $1.50, and Thursday is Ladies night and Friday is "guaranteed win night." In the Friday game, if the Cowboys don't win those attending will be admitted free to Saturday's finale. Magic Valley has nine home games remaining.

Babieracki's hit culminated a game that saw the Cowboys on the ropes three times but shoddy fielding and wild pitching gave the home club new chances. Tom Glendon, Ogden's third hurler, started the 10th by walking Ernie Pedersen and hit Marco Monge on a pitch. His pickoff throw to second went wild and set the stage for Babieracki's blow.

But the biggest present came in the bottom of the ninth, Ogden carrying an 8-7 lead thanks to an RBI single by Joe Daniels in the top of the frame. Jack Pierce opened that with a hit and then came three walks to force in the tying run.

Four errors and two hits gave Cowboys a 3-0 lead in the second before Ogden broke a two-game slump with power for six runs in the third. John Hughes cracked a three-run homer. Jim Kirk another worth two and Dennis Haren got a solo shot to give Ogden a 6-3 lead. But in the bottom of the frame, Pierce singled in one run and rode in ahead of Tom Cox who drilled a wrongfield homer.

The Cowboys got an unearned run in the fifth, which Ogden nullified to tie the game in the seventh when Dewey Forry singled in Elmer Mixon.

Thomsen 7 Shots Back In Pro-Youth Tourney

OKLAHOMA CITY — Jeff Thomsen of Twin Falls, who finished sixth in the nation last year, shot an 81 Monday in the first round of the 36-hole tournament portion of the American Pro-Youth Classic at Twin Hills Country Club.

T.F. To Face Coeur d'Alene At State Meet

LEWISTON — The district champion Twin Falls Legion team opens the American Legion state championships Wednesday at noon against the district one winner — Coeur d'Alene.

Lewiston, which has built a winning legion tradition unmatched in Idaho, carried a 58-15 mark into the four-day event and is the big favorite.

The double-elimination format calls for a game Sunday if the journey undefeated is spilled Saturday night. The teams are fighting for a berth in the regional meet in Washington.

Twin Falls will go with ace Wayne Graham against Coeur d'Alene. Graham, a lefty who depends mostly on a curveball, has been the most consistent pitcher for Brown, who can also count on Darrell Groves, Kevin Nelson, and Randy McCoy.

Dealers Also Unhappy About Manufacturers

A Chicago appliance dealer asks: "Why don't you write something about the raw deals we're getting from manufacturers? We're consumers, too."

Most of us think such people as auto and appliance dealers are in direct cahoots with manufacturers in trying to avoid or evade our product and service gripes. We don't realize that the majority of independent dealers today are locked in warranty and price battles with manufacturers that would make the average consumer complaint pale by comparison.

Why don't the dealers tell us what's going on? Maybe we could join forces. "If we told our customers what's REALLY going on," says a New Jersey automobile dealer, "nobody would want to buy anything."

What is going on? To find out, I talked with several independent dealers and with two of their associations—National Automobile Dealers Assn. and National Appliance, Radio and TV Dealers Assn. Here's where the action is:

—POOR QUALITY: Auto dealers claim cars are coming to them from the plants in deplorable condition. Bolts are missing, soft-drink bottles are sometimes welded inside door panels and parts are either missing or ready to fall off.

Appliance dealers say TV sets, refrigerators and other expensive products often will not work when they are uncrated. Many are damaged en route and dealers, not manufacturers, have to pay.

—PRICE SUBSIDIES: Both auto and appliance dealers say some manufacturers give discount prices to special customers, making the consumer pay considerably more when the products are purchased through a dealer.

Buildors and apartment owners, for example, are given special "direct sale" prices by manufacturers. In many cases, when something goes wrong with these specially priced appliances, the local dealer gets stuck with warranty repairs with little or no reimbursement for labor costs. The consumer eventually pays for this.

Auto manufacturers have been giving kickbacks or subsidies to the big car rental fleets. Not price per car is often $200 below what the dealer has to pay the manufacturer. Consumers are charged more to make up for this price differential, dealers claim. Dealers report that GM and Ford have stopped the fleet subsidies but Chrysler is continuing.

—PARTS MESS: Auto and appliance dealers both claim manufacturers are falling behind on parts supplies. Delays of two weeks or more are commonplace. For such vital things as refrigerators and air-conditioners, says one dealer, "this waiting for parts can be devastating to customers leave you."

—FULL-LINE FORCING: Drugstore, shoestore, clothing and appliance dealers say some manufacturers with hot sales items in such things as baby equipment and women's clothing tell the dealer he has to take the "full line" of products or all the odd sizes in order to sell the products and sizes he wants.

This is a violation of the antitrust laws and forces the consumer to pay more to make up for the loss on the unwanted goods.

So, where do you fit in? You can start talking with dealers. Most of them are so sure at manufacturers these days they might level with you.

You can find out which lines are in trouble on parts and warranty claims. A good dealer (especially the owner of the place) can be a valuable friend. He can tell you where to find the right man in the manufacturer's regional offices for quick action on complaints.

Complaints registered by both kinds of consumers — you, the dealer — can bring results. Whirlpool and Philco are reimbursing dealers for full warranty costs. Westinghouse, RCA and, shortly, Sylvania will do the same. Motorola just announced a big warranty reimbursement benefit for dealers who carry its Qansar TV. Previously, most manufacturers paid no labor costs and dealers tended to drag their feet on warranty work. These reimbursement plans are a major breakthrough. Hunt up a good dealer.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The space agency plans to orbit a pair of bullfrogs and a British military communications satellite Wednesday in separate shots 11 minutes apart from its two Atlantic Coast rocket bases.

The frogs are scheduled for launch on a small scout rocket from Wallops Island, Va., at 8 a.m. EDT, and the radio relay spacecraft will be fired from here at 8:11 a.m. on a larger Delta rocket.

Accompanying the miniature biological laboratory carrying the frogs will be a small radiation and meteoroid monitoring spacecraft. The two satellites will separate after reaching orbit.

The frogs will be studied for five days in orbit to see how their inner ear vestibular system, which influences vision and balance, is affected by weightlessness and alternate periods of artificial gravity.

The frogs' inner ear organs are similar to those in man. Scientists hope the experiment will tell more about the disorientation that has occurred in men and animals in the absence of gravity.

The two frogs will be housed in a water-filled centrifuge making up the heart of the 282-pound spacecraft. After the biological experiments are completed, the frogs will be asphyxiated by the buildup of carbon dioxide and the removal of oxygen. The satellite will not be recovered.

The 43-pound satellite accompanying the biological spacecraft will test new instruments designed to measure the radiation and meteoroids encountered by future manned spaceships.

The communications satellite scheduled for launch from Cape Kennedy is the second of two in the British Skynet radio system linking Great Britain with its ships and bases east of the Suez Canal.

The first Skynet was launched by a space agency Delta rocket last November and is now operating in a stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the Indian Ocean. The second satellite will serve as a spare in a similar orbit.

Forest Fire Out

CODY, Wyo. (UPI) — Three hundred fire fighters have brought under control a fire in the Shoshone National Forest after the blaze burned about 1,000 acres of thick timber in 48 hours. The fire was termed by forest officials as the worst in the forest in four years. Two watershed experts have been sent to evaluate damage and plan measures to control the spring runoff. Forest officials believed the fire started from an unwatched campfire.

Roosevelt Was First

Franklin D. Roosevelt was the first U.S. president to broadcast in a foreign language. On Nov. 7, 1942, he addressed the French people in their own language from Washington D.C., at the same time that the American Army was taking part in the invasion of French territorial possessions in Africa.
