TEN CENTS

Gem Latins Stage March

BOISE (UPI) — More than 200 Mexican-American farm laborers marched on the Capitol Sunday demanding respect for their people. Laborers from camps in Caldwell and Nampa in the Treasure Valley gathered in Julia Davis Park to march and let growers and government officials know they want free elections to choose representatives to negotiate their demands.

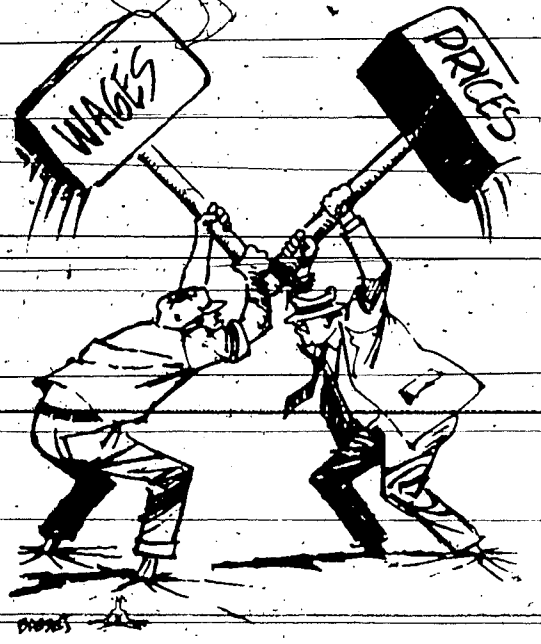

Local 7853 Farm Worker Union Representative Nick Jones said, "The laborers are asking for respect, to be treated like human beings. They want increased wages, sanitary facilities in the fields, coffee breaks and seniority so their jobs can't be taken away from them. One of the most important demands is for medical programs. I know of some families who have sick children, and they can't receive help because they can't pay the bills. The hospitals refuse to take them as patients."

Sihanouk Admits N. Viets

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk has admitted for the first time that North Vietnamese troops are operating inside Cambodia. He appealed to the people to support them, the Cambodian military command said today. Communiques from Saigon said a U.S. Air Force F-105 Thunderchief jet exchanged fire with a North Vietnamese anti-aircraft battery that fired on the U.S. plane over Laos. The Cambodian command disclosed a transcript of a broadcast over Sihanouk's new exile government radio station Aug. 28. Sihanouk was ousted as Cambodian chief of state March 18 and established a government in exile in Peking. "You probably notice that North Vietnamese troops are operating inside Cambodia," the broadcast said. "We want you to understand this so you will support them."

It was the first time any official of the exiled Sihanouk government had acknowledged the presence of North Vietnamese troops either in Cambodia or South Vietnam. U.S. officials in Phnom Penh expressed surprise but said the broadcast appeared authentic. The broadcast reportedly said the North Vietnamese "are not our traditional enemies any longer" and were in Cambodia "to help us overthrow the traitors." Battlefront action was light across Cambodia and South Vietnam. The U.S. command said a U.S. F-105 jet "conducted protective reaction" (opened fire) when a North Vietnamese anti-aircraft gun battery fired on it. The incident occurred inside North Vietnam Saturday night in an area 21 miles southwest of Dong Hoi and five miles from the Laotian border. Dong Hoi is 18 miles northwest of the western edge of the demilitarized zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams. The American jet was not hit.

Labor Day

Nixon Fetes Labor Leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon wooed about 200 of the nation's labor leaders — many unfriendly to his administration — and their wives at a festive White House dinner on this Labor Day evening, which for many American workers is an unhappy one. There are one million more workers unemployed this year than on Labor Day 1969 — a total of four million — and it takes $13.57 to buy what $10 would purchase in 1957-59. That comparison was $12.93 last year. Auto workers are engaged in contract negotiations that could lead to a strike against General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. — where 500,000 workers are employed — at midnight Sept. 14. The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics also reports that while prices have increased 5 per cent over Labor Day 1969, the average wage of rank-and-file production workers rose only 2.8 per cent in that time. Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson acknowledged in his Labor Day statement that

Guerrillas Battle in Streets

By United Press International
Palestinian guerrillas today attacked Amman's radio and television stations and battled Jordanian security forces in the streets of the capital of the Arab Kingdom. A Jordanian spokesman reported the kidnapping two days ago of a U.S. soldier. In Jerusalem, Israel charged Egypt with continued violations of the Middle East cease-fire.

Close Call

TWIN FALLS — Capt. Jack Dempsey of Twin Falls found enemy fire too close for comfort during a recent engagement in Vietnam. According to a military publication of the U.S. Fifth Infantry, "Tropic Lightning News," Dempsey, the commander of Alfa Company, First Battalion, had moved into a jungle clearing when his troops were pinned down by enemy fire. Dempsey, like other members of his unit carried hand grenades on his web gear. To his disbelief, an enemy round ripped through one of his grenades, slicing it in half. There was no explosion. Capt. Dempsey said similar bizarre accidents were commonplace.

Israel Dumps Talks

By United Press International
Israel announced Sunday it will boycott the Middle East peace talks until Egypt withdraws the Soviet missiles the Israelis charge were moved into the Suez Canal zone in violation of the Aug. 7 cease-fire. The decision was reached at a meeting in Jerusalem of Premier Golda Meir and was seen as a victory for Defense Minister Moshe Dayan over more moderate ministers.

The U.S. State Department in Washington had "no comment" but Department officials privately voiced disappointment at the boycott decision. The officials said, however, they did not regard the decision as a permanent disruption of the talks and expressed hope the discussions would be resumed later this month. The State Department last Tuesday had confirmed some of the Israeli charges but had urged the talks under the auspices of the United Nations be resumed. In Cairo, officials said the Israeli decision came as no surprise to the Egyptian Government. Some viewed the announcement from Jerusalem as another step toward what they say will be a preemptive strike against the Egyptian missile bases near the Suez Canal. The Israeli cabinet's decision was announced by a Government spokesman in Jerusalem, reading from the text of a written statement. "So long as the cease-fire agreement is not observed in full by Egypt, Israel cannot participate in the Jarring talks," the spokesman said. The Arab-Israeli talks were being held under the supervision of U.N. Special mediator Gunnar V. Jarring. The spokesman added, however, that Israel's acceptance of the U.S. peace initiative, providing for a 90-day cease-fire and peace talks, remained valid.

Hijacks

Arab Guerrillas Grab 3 Jets, 4th Try Fails

By United Press International
Arab guerrillas hijacked four jetliners almost simultaneously over Europe Sunday and forced three of them to the Middle East. The guerrillas blew up one of the jets — a $23 million Pan American World Airways 747 — at Cairo today after releasing the 171 passengers and crewmen, who ran for their lives.

Those responsible for this conspiracy against air-travelers of the world have caused a wave of rage and resentment. They gained more attention than attention by this wanton act of destruction," he said. The seizure of the four big jets — carrying more than 600 persons was the most ever in a single day. All four were bound ultimately for New York. Minutes after the Pan Am jumbo jet landed at Cairo, four explosions ripped through the plane. Flames licked the length of the plane and up its six-story tall.

PALESTINIAN GUERRILLAS have demanded that British authorities release Leila Khalid (shown in a 1969 photo after an earlier hijacking), the girl who was seized during an attempted hijacking Sunday. (UPI)

One of the four hijackings was foiled in a gunbattle in which a hijacker was killed as an Israeli El Al jet neared London. His woman accomplice was captured after her confederate pulled the pin on a grenade which failed to explode. The other two jets — a Swissair DC8 and a Trans World Airways (TWA) 707 landed safely at a military airstrip in the desert 13 miles north of Amman, Jordan.

A burst of machinegun fire reverberated through the night, but it was unclear who fired the rounds or from which direction they came. Later, several passengers and crewmen told what happened aboard the big plane. John Ferruggio, 47, of Boston, flight director of the 747, said: "Just as we left Brussels, two very smartly dressed youths who said they were from the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine walked up to the cockpit. They were both armed with grenades and a gun."

By United Press International
The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) said it was responsible for coordinating the hijackings and gave 72-hour ultimatums to Britain and Switzerland to release guerrillas held by the two nations. The Swiss cabinet met today on the demand that the Swiss release three guerrillas imprisoned for an attack on an Israeli jet at Zurich Feb. 18, 1968.

The guerrillas demanded Britain free the woman captured in Sunday's attempt to hijack an El Al plane. She was identified as Leila Khalid, 23, a Palestinian Arab. Miss Khalid was subdued as she grasped a grenade in each hand. Her accomplice pulled a pin on a grenade but the grenade failed to explode. The hijacker had shot and wounded an Israeli security agent aboard the jet before the agent returned the fire, fatally wounding the hijacker.

U.S. Education Office Asks School Money Redistribution

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Office of Education asked Congress Sunday to revise and possibly quadruple distribution of $1 billion a year to prevent wealthy school districts from getting "a disproportionate share" of Federal aid.

and less where needs are measurably less." The aid to needy children program was set up under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Some 16,400 school districts are receiving Title I funds this year and are spending most of the money for reading programs.

that ultimately the procedures could be transferred to poorer districts. "There would seem to be a conflict since the richer districts would benefit initially if this program were expanded, but the poor districts would benefit more in the long run," the spokesman said.

favors wealthier states that provide more financial support for their schools. "As a result of these expenditure patterns, the poor child in a low expenditure (POOR) district finds himself disadvantaged in at least four ways," the agency said. "He and his family are poor; his school is poor; his school district receives proportionately fewer Title I dollars with which to provide special services, and he receives a smaller share of those Title I dollars."

The agency said about 30 per cent of the children now benefiting from the money are not considered educationally deprived. The Office of Education in its first national evaluation of the program established in 1965, said the proposed changes would "provide greater per pupil financial support where needs are measurably greater

The proposed changes would provide additional money, at least doubling the allocation, to school districts "impacted" with poor children. They would also earmark more money to expand "quality" programs that are working. A spokesman said Sunday the quality programs generally are in the wealthier districts, but

The report to Congress was based on a survey of spending patterns in 465 public school districts in the 1967-68 academic year.

BYSTANDERS PULL Carol Anne Vecchie from her swamped car after she struck a pole while backing up near San Francisco's Golden Gate marina. The car's transmission was jammed in a forward gear and the vehicle slammed through a guard rail into the bay. Miss Vecchie was taken to a hospital with a possible concussion. (UPI)

Solons List Travel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., in a re-election fight, has made four trans-continental trips to his home state in the past year on Senate Interior Committee business. These trips are in addition to those provided by law—now twelve a year—Jackson also took 10 of these. The record of Jackson's taxpayer-financed travel was revealed in Senate expense records for the fiscal year which ended last June 30. Sen. Gordon Allott, the senior GOP member from Colorado, went to his home state twice on committee business. And like Jackson, he found no such business in any other state. The practice of finding official business in their home state is by no means limited to members of the Interior Committee. But members of that unit, western dominated, have further to travel and thus their official trips cost the taxpayers more. Other members of the Interior Committee who found home-state investigations to make included Sens. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska; Alan Bible, D-Nev.; Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.; Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., and Frank E. Moss, D-Utah. Other western senators who go to their home states on official business for other committees included Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M.; Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo.; Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex.; Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev.; James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo. Expense account vouchers showed Jackson's travel to Washington cost $4,463.06. One trip to Alaska by Stevens cost $1,252.69. Cannon made two trips for the Commerce Committee to Albuquerque, N.M., and Pasco Wash. — with stops at Reno and Las Vegas at a cost of $894.80. The records indicated that Bible made two trips on Interior Committee business that took him to Reno as well as to Spokane and Denver costing $917.95.

DICK L. HAHN

Engineer For Forest Transferred

TWIN FALLS — Dick L. Hahn, chief engineer for the Sawtooth National Forest since 1966, has been promoted and will be transferred to the Division of Engineering, branch of Consultation and Standards, Washington D.C. The promotion was announced by Sawtooth Supervisor Ed Fournier, Twin Falls. Hahn began his career with the Forest Service in 1960 on the Salmon National forest in Idaho. He also served on the Dixie National forest in Utah and on the Caribou in 1963 until coming to the Sawtooth. A veteran of the U.S. Navy he served from 1951 to 1955 and received his civil engineering degree from the University of Nebraska in 1960. His wife, Coletta, and their children, Mitchell and Neal will join him in Washington D.C. later this fall.

Battlefields Of Politics Delineated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There are two battlefields in the political 1970s: Social issues and economics. "The party and the candidate that can best occupy the center ground of the two battlefields will win the presidency." That is the theme of a new book, "The Real Majority" (Coward-McCann, publishers), written by the nation's best-known election expert, Richard M. Scammon, the former White House speech writer. Ben J. Wattenberg. They advised Democrats to divorce their social programs from the image of being soft on crime and permissiveness by pegging to crack down on lawbreakers while helping the poor and the disadvantaged. They tell Republicans the opposition party to each of the authors to move toward the liberal side on bread and butter issues and project the image of "an activist, problem-solving government." The parties having done that, they write, the 1972 election will be decided on personalities.

Battle For Short Hours Is Old One

By Encyclopaedia Britannica—UPI

"Whether you work by the piece.
"Or work by the day,
"Decreasing the hours
"Increases the pay."

That jingle expressed the views of a group of "radicals" who about 100 years ago were making demands then considered outrageous. As the nation celebrates another Labor Day this Sept. 7 it offers occasion to consider the life and hard times of one of these radicals—Ira Steward, leader of the movement for an eight-hour work day. The battle for shorter hours, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica researchers, began almost with the formation of labor unions. For years men had worked from sunup to sundown, or longer, and change came hard. For example, in 1791 Philadelphia carpenters resolved that a day's work should not exceed 12 hours. American workers of 1850 put in an average workday of 11.5 hours. In 1860 the average was down to an 11-hour day. Three years later Steward began his then radical crusade. Steward, born March 10, 1831, at New London, Conn., was at 19 an apprentice machinist in Boston under the 12-hour system. He began agitating for shorter hours and was fired because of his "peculiar views." It was in the autumn of 1863, at a machinists' convention in Boston, that Steward secured passage of a resolution that, for the first time, demanded an eight-hour labor law. From that moment Steward and the eight-hour movement became one. He crusaded and campaigned and became obsessed with the idea. He lectured and badgered and, in a heavy style, wrote of the laboring man's fate, as in this description of an "average mechanic" of 100 years ago in an American city: "His labor commences at half-past four in the morning and does not cease until half-past seven p.m. How many newspapers or books can be read? What time has he to visit or receive visits? To take baths? To write letters? ... What is his opinion good for? ... His life is work ... He is debased by excessive toil. He is almost without hope!" Steward preached that workers need not fear a wage reduction under an eight-hour day because a reduction of hours, if general, would actually increase wages. This doctrine was described by one historian as "nearly as revolutionary as that of Karl Marx." Steward sought legislation, reasoning that an eight-hour law would be superior to trade union action because it would cause weaker workers to increase their wants and demand higher wages. Other unions joined the machinists in this cause. The organization that later became the American Federation of Labor resolved that after May 1, 1886, workers should refuse to work more than eight hours per day. This action started the "May Day" labor tradition but did little else. The fight for the eight-hour day was carried through the decades but it wasn't until the World War I period that the eight-hour day became standard on U.S. railroads and in mines and factories. Steward, meanwhile, ran into bad luck. In 1878, while the crusade was at its height, his wife died. He was "completely unnerved."

Congress Faces Lengthy Sessions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Although congressional leaders privately are about ready to write off key parts of President Nixon's legislative program, they plan day and night sessions beyond the November elections and possibly until Christmas to clear a backlog of "must legislation."

Included are measures to increase Social Security checks, extension of telephone and automobile excise taxes, another pay raise for government workers, and authorization for an expanded Anti-Ballistic Missile (ABM) system. Likely to get lost in the rush are such major Nixon proposals as some or all of his proposed major reform of the federal welfare program, an extra tax on leaded gasoline and new curbs on imports. Current senate leadership plans are to hold members in daily day and night sessions until the latter part of October. A campaign recess will be called then to last until a week or so after the election, and the resumed session will probably drag on into late December. House members tend to blame delay on the Senate, which spent seven weeks voting to get out of Cambodia and not to go back; and six weeks on other antiwar or antimilitary amendments; and which now expects to spend the next two or three weeks on the house-passed Electoral College amendment.

15 Listed Missing In Arizona Storm

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — At least 15 persons were dead or missing in the wake of a violent weekend storm in Arizona and Utah which forced hundreds of persons from their homes and stranded holiday travelers.

The storm was blamed for the flooding of McElmo Wash, just north of the Arizona boundary near Aneth, Utah, where two persons were missing and presumed drowned.

The bodies of five unidentified persons were found Sunday in swollen Tonto and Christopher Creeks near Payson, northeast of Phoenix. Authorities said an undetermined number of persons, as many as a dozen, were missing.

"We simply have no idea how many people are missing," said Sheriff's Deputy C. B. Haught of Payson. "We have no way of determining how many cars or people were swept away because there were so many campers in the area over the holiday. We receive more reports of missing persons every hour."

Blast Kills Bomber

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — The Twin Cities area had suffered seven bombings in 38 days, including one which did extensive damage to a massive, old federal building. None had caused loss of life.

The eighth blast came in the early hours Sunday. It killed the man who apparently was carrying the explosive down a residential street.

The explosion also "ramshackled" one house, did serious damage to two others, wrecked two cars and caused other damage over a four-block area.

No bystanders, however, suffered serious injuries.

"Now we need to know where he came from, where he was going, and who he was," Joe Rusinko, deputy chief of detectives, said late Sunday.

Officials of the Hennepin County medical examiner's office said they believed the victim was a black male wearing a black silk shirt, black beret, blue jeans and size 9½ loafers. His body literally was blown to bits and fragments were recovered from an area of at least one block.

The bomb exploded on the sidewalk in front of the home of Mrs. Sophia Mae Mosby. The house is one of the two-story, deteriorating frame structures fronting a freeway that carries traffic into the downtown loop.

Rusinko said he believed Sunday's blast was related to the others. "I'm sure there's some loose tie," he said.

As to the identity of the victim, police said, "We have damn little to identify."

Mrs. Mosby, surveying her wrecked home, said she was glad to be alive. A one-week-old baby was cut by flying glass but not seriously injured.

"My house is ramshackled. I can't figure out how anybody could do it," she said. "I think it was an accident. There are still bits of body—still some fragments—in the yard. It's dreadful."

COMMENT Pollution

sewage treatment device.)

There are no restrictions on water disposal by boaters in Idaho, according to a summary published by Boating magazine.

It isn't easy to figure out the answer.

The number of boaters is growing dramatically, but more important is the kind of boats they're using.

The pollution problem has increased correspondingly. Whereas we might characterize the waste disposal methods on the earlier boats as primitive, the new craft feature a complete head (not toilet, please).

Anyway, it's a growing problem, this matter of water pollution by boaters, for most toilets have discharged untreated sewage into the water.

According to Boating magazine, Kentucky has the strongest regulation, which may be summarized thus:

Heads with overboard discharge must be sealed or otherwise rendered inoperable.

The head must be equipped with a holding tank, incinerator or a device properly treating effluent before discharge.

Enforcement is by inspection and by withholding of registration until the boat owner complies. (The Coast Guard is disputing the legality, under the Federal Boating Act of 1958, of denying registration to a toilet-equipped boat because it does not have a state-approved

As for states around Idaho, Utah requires a holding tank, Montana is about as tough as Kentucky, except on sealing of old lines and withholding of registration.

The Oregon view raises two important questions which boaters have asked in reply to charges that they're causing a lot of pollution.

First, what good is it to operate a holding tank (as airplanes do) when there are not too many on-shore facilities for emptying them?

Second, what is the point of refraining from dumping sewage into a river, holding it in a tank instead, emptying the tank into a city sewer system on shore, only to have the city discharge the sewage back into the river?

The answer here is, of course, that this is a ridiculous way of a voiding pollution unless the city has good sewage treatment facilities.

Right now boaters are at a stage of dealing with the problem which is familiar, because we have seen it where cities, industries and others are concerned.

Some are saying, "It really isn't so bad."

Others are declaring, "The main solution of the holding tank just transfers the problem elsewhere, so it's pointless."

A few are adding: "We admit there's a problem, but the solution is too complicated, too expensive."

And then some of them, including the editor of Boating, are facing up to the problem and declaring that while the matter is complicated, boaters are morally obligated to do their part in reducing overall pollution of our environment.

Who owns the oceans, and who is going to exploit them? The much-argued sinking of nerve-gas containers 282 miles off Cape Kennedy is the small item stirring the larger controversy.

A United Nations convention in 1964 extended national sovereignty over the continental shelf — or submerged coastal lands — to a depth of 656 feet.

Accomplishment

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Supporters of the United Nations do have problems, especially when trying to explain the accomplishments of the world organization.

As chairman of the Conference on Trade and Development, Asante was giving something of a pep talk to the delegates.

"The failures of the United Nations," he said, "have been procured by so many of its achievements are often not fully recorded. In the economic and social sphere, a lot has been done of develops.

The end result could be the "Balkanization" of the ocean into separate national domains. There needs to be worldwide agreement on sovereignty — and an international agency to regulate exploitation of the seas.

So far, no exploitation agreement has been nailed down. But highly skilled uses of the ocean — mining, fishing, farming — are in the offing.

which we can be proud. In the social sphere, to give only one example, the status of women has been so advanced that it is now hardly possible to distinguish between a man and a woman by what they wear.

Perhaps there was a language problem. Or the ambassador may have been thinking of the colorful robes worn in his country.

The UN is in enough trouble without that.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Through the optimistic news reports on progress in the arms talks with Moscow have been based on deliberate leaks by high U. S. officials, it can be stated confidently that there is absolutely no basis as yet for assuming a meaningful agreement can be reached (or that one cannot be reached, for that matter).

Therefore, U.S. officials do not expect a treaty. They think it will contain no provisions for on-site inspection. They expect it will talk of limitations in the most general way.

bans on these developments are unlikely. It is, however, not clear why they hold to these opinions — since the Russians have been so non-committal one way or another, as they themselves point out.

Martha's Vineyard

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass. — Each person celebrated Women's Liberation Day last Wednesday in her own way, and even on a beautiful island such as Martha's Vineyard the women protested in their fashion.

I hadn't even realized it was Women's Liberation Day until I got to the tennis court and my wife said at the start of a doubles game "I'm not going to serve today."

"What do mean you're not going to serve? You have to serve."

"I'm sick and tired of serving all the time," she said.

"But if you don't serve, we can't play."

"Aha," she said. "That's the first time you've even acknowledged that my serving meant something."

"I've always admired your serve," I said. "You serve very well."

"Well I'm not serving today. You can serve for the both of us."

I looked hopelessly across the net at the Stryons who were in a serious argument.

"You ready?" I asked.

"Rose says she's not going to serve today," Stron yelled.

"Then it dawned on me it was Women's Liberation Day. I glanced at the other courts. None of the wives was serving."

"Rose says I have to serve for her," Stron yelled. "She says all the women on the island have pledged not to serve today. They're sick and tired of being oppressed on the tennis court."

"All right," I said. "We'll serve for them if it means that much."

"We also want child-care centers on Martha's Vineyard," my wife said. "We're fed up with taking care of our children all day long."

opportunity in jobs. "You've got it," Stron said.

The game began grimly. I served to Rose who hit it out.

"Male chauvinist!" she screamed. Stron hit a smashing ball past my wife's ear, and my wife yelled "Sexist!"

Despite their cursing, the women played extremely well. We discovered later that the Martha's Vineyard chapter of Women's Lib had advised all women playing tennis on Wednesday to pretend the tennis ball was their husband's

Postal Reform

(Editor's Note: Mr. Tully is on vacation. Today's guest writer is Winton M. Blount, Postmaster General of the United States)

WASHINGTON — The long-awaited postal reform legislation is now a reality, and the first steps can be taken on the road to a revitalized Postal Service.

But the U. S. mail is one of the world's major enterprises and it has been going downhill for many decades. It will take time to turn it around.

The Postal Reorganization Act of 1970 signed by the President does not bring the new United States Postal Service into being immediately, but requires that the changeover to the new service take place within one year.

Much of the process of reorganizing what presently constitutes the U. S. Post Office Department from other agencies of the Government. Our real estate, physical plant, and facilities have to be separated from the General Services Administration.

"I'm not going to play the back court," my wife said, "unless women have equal head. It seemed to improve every woman's game.

Styron and I had to serve the entire three sets of tennis, and when we walked off the courts the women were fresh as daisies.

"I want you to know," my wife said that evening as we were retiring, "I'm not a fanatic about Women's Lib. I'm prepared to fulfill my wifely duties."

"That's very decent of you," I said. "But it really doesn't matter because I'm too bushed from serving."

have to be shifted. We must assume from the Congress the responsibility for financial operations. No longer will our funds come through the appropriations process, but from our own postal revenues and new buildings and equipment.

These functions, plus a substantial number of new ones, must be assumed by the new Postal Service.

I don't want to leave an impression that progress towards reform will be suspended in this transition period. It will not. The Department already has instituted a number of substantive reforms designed to increase speed of mail delivery and save money.

A new mail processing system taking maximum advantage of time differentials in the handling of long distance mail has been instituted. This system will save a projected $27 million in the present fiscal year.

The Nationwide Bulk Mail Network, designed to handle bulk mail entirely separate from letter mail, is under intensive analysis. This will permit mechanization and processing uniquely adapted to particular types of mail. If proven feasible, it will improve speed of parcel post handling and save an estimated $300 million annually by fiscal year 1975.

Morning Sickness

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am about three months pregnant and am wondering what causes "morning sickness" (although not necessarily always in the morning).

Some mornings I am sick and throw up, and other days I feel fine. I hope you don't think this is a ridiculous question. —Mrs. J. G. C.

Your question is not ridiculous at all, and medicine has been trying to find the answer for a long time. Only, unfortunately, we don't have any positive answers, despite a lot of observations.

Some degree of nausea is experienced by perhaps about 50 percent of pregnant women. While it needn't always be in the morning, it happens often enough then to make "morning sickness" a pretty good name for it.

We note that it is much more prevalent in nervous, high-strung women and also among those who have a sensitive or "nervous" stomach.

Anxiety may be a major factor. In some cases, resentment at the pregnancy may be involved. Both these emotions — anxiety and resentment — are common stomach-upsetters. That doesn't however, explain why morning sickness usually is a temporary matter and disappears later in the pregnancy.

Maybe getting used to the idea of being pregnant has something to do with it.

The classical preventive, still as effective as anything known, is to keep a few crackers or pieces of dry bread beside your bed. Nibbling on this before you get up frequently averts the nausea and lets you eat breakfast normally. Small feedings of carbohydrate during the day also help.

Medication is rarely necessary, and in any event not desirable this early in pregnancy.

These nausea attacks usually start occurring about the end of the first month of pregnancy and will last something like three or four weeks. They are one of the presumptive signs of pregnancy, in fact.

If vomiting persists, however, it may be a sign of trouble — toxemia of pregnancy — which is serious and demands prompt treatment.

But most women adjust to minor waves of nausea without any special treatment.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About three years ago I had a light stroke with no apparent bad effects except that I have had a weak and unsteady feeling all through my body, especially in the legs.

My doctor has been giving me blood pressure pills which I take every day. I am inclined to believe that the medication is making me weak instead of the ailment. Could this be possible? — Mrs. K.M.D.

Yes, quite possible. Mention the symptoms to your doctor to see whether any change in medication might be advisable.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am diabetic. I have ingrown toenails and was thinking of having the nails removed from the large toes. The kind of work I do, I am on my feet 48 hours a week, and wonder if having the operation would hinder me in any way. — Mrs. E.R.

Toes can be pretty tender for some days after the whole nail has been removed. In your case, you'd better discuss in advance with the doctor or podiatrist to learn how much will have to be done and how much time you might have to take off. (As a diabetic, you are wise in having professional care for your feet. Precautions must be taken against infection.)

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, "Diabetes—The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Thosteson regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible uses readers' questions in his column.

Utahns Battle Liquor

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A pledge to continue the battle against liquor by the drink sales in Utah was approved by the American Council of Alcohol Problems here at the conclusion of a four-day meet.

A second resolution warned that liberalization of liquor laws "will result in demands for the legalization of the sale of marijuana."

The council, representing state organizations engaged in the fight against alcohol abuse, concluded its four-day conference here Thursday at the Hotel Utah.

William N. Plymat, Des

Molnes, Iowa, warned against liquor-by-the-drink because of its adverse effects on society.

"Experience has shown where such sales have been made legal, consumption greatly increases with a similar increase in multitudes of social problems," he said.

Plymat added, "It's not strictly a Mormon against non-Mormon issue. There are many denominations against it."

Other resolutions adopted by the organization included:

- A detailed study of the effects of alcohol on human beings by the surgeon general of the United States.

Continuation of bans on Sunday sale of alcoholic beverages believed to increase consumption and social problems.

That the legal drinking age be held at 21 years old.

Special studies on the relationship to the number of liquor outlets in poverty areas and the amount of crime and violence in that area.

- Continued educational efforts by safety officials against driving while intoxicated.
- Banning of radio and television advertising of alcoholic beverages.
- Educate youth to the dangers of alcohol.

CONSTRUCTION was started this weekend on the expansion of Dutch's Furniture. The renovation will consist of an addition of 1500 square feet, according to "Dutch" Standley. The construction is expected to be finished by October 1.

A MARIJUANA PLANT growing wild in front of the Stee Real Estate Office in Denver, Colo., is examined by Denver police officer Ed Boyer. The company, who recently moved into the offices, found the wild plant while caring for the lawn in front of the building. Boyer uprooted the plant after he was called in on the case. (UPI)

Political Parties Plan Campaigns

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The political parties are heading into the final two months of the 1970 contest for control of Congress with preliminary indications that the Democrats will retain majorities in the House and Senate.

But campaign managers for both parties still are uneasy.

Democratic professionals worry that disorder on campuses and elsewhere will help Republican candidates because the GOP has projected a clearer image as the party of law and order. They also are troubled by a shortage of campaign money and a party organization weakened by loss of the White House and major governorships.

candidate in 56 or 57 of the 435 Congressional districts. Only five of their candidates will be unopposed.

Both sides regard incumbency as a major plus for their candidates. The Republicans have 22 "open seats" for which the incumbents are not candidates and the Democrats have 18.

Twelve Republicans in the House are candidates for the Senate. Four others ran for governorships, two of them losing in primaries.

Two Democrats in the House were nominated for the Senate and one for a governorship. Two were defeated as candidates for senatorial nominations.

Republicans fear that some recent favorable economic signs are coming too late to help counter voter unrest over inflation. And they know that the party out of power normally gains congressional seats in off-year elections when the presidency is not at stake.

Retirements, deaths and defeats in primaries account for the other seats where incumbents are not running.

In the senate, nine of the 10 Republicans whose terms are expiring are candidates for reelection. Twenty of the 25 Democrats are running again under the party label. Two are retiring; Sens. Harry F. Byrd Jr., D-Va., and Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., was unseated in a primary.

The party in power has lost an average of 37 House and 4 Senate seats in the 36 years since the House was enlarged to its present size of 435 members.

Democrats begin staking their claim to the Senate by saying they can unseat four or five Republican senators. Those incumbents are Sens. Charles E. Goodell, N.Y., George Murphy, Calif., Ralph T. Smith, Ill., Winston L. Prouty, Vt., and possibly Theodore F. Stevens, Alaska.

The Democrats must defend 25 Senate seats this year and the Republicans only 10. A pickup of 7 Senate seats to give Republicans control of the 100-member Senate is the Nixon administration's chief political goal this year.

But the Democrats are worried about keeping the seats now held by Dodd and Sens. Albert Gore, Tenn.; Howard W. Cannon, Nev.; Frank E. Moss, Utah; Gale W. McGee, Wyo.; Spessard L. Holland, Fla., and Stephen M. Young, Ohio. Holland and Young are retiring.

Republican spokesmen persist in saying that a net gain of seven Senate seats is possible, even probable, and point to states where they can expect to displace Democrats. Democratic assessments of the Senate outlook range from an even break to a Republican pickup of only two or three seats.

Other major Republican targets include Democratic Sens. Harrison A. Williams Jr., N.J.; Quentin N. Burdick, N.D.; Vance Hartke, Ind.; Joseph D. Tydings, Md.; Joseph M. Montoya, N.M., and the Texas seat of Yarborough.

Despite occasional bombast in speeches about the House outlook, GOP leaders have no realistic hope of gaining the 29 seats needed to control that chamber. All 435 seats are at stake.

If the Democrats unseat three or four Republican senators, the GOP would need to win 10 or 11 seats now held by Democrats to control the senate in 1971.

A private Republican estimate is that there could be a swing of as many as 20 seats either way but that current readings indicate a GOP loss of at least a few seats.

The GOP will go into the Nov. 3 elections with no

African Leaders Meet

By JOHN PLATTER
LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — Leaders from the "third world" have journeyed here to refashion the concept of nonalignment.

Their presence in this landlocked central African state, the closest they can get to the frontline in the African confrontation between black and white, also insures the racial issue priority at this third nonaligned summit.

Today foreign ministers from the 64 invited nations begin preparing for a two-day heads of state meeting to be opened by Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda on Tuesday.

The gallery of personages attending is impressive. They come from Europe, the Middle East, the Caribbean, Africa, the Indian subcontinent and Southeast Asia. They have little in common except their proclaimed independence from the big powers, but the talk will be cordial and their differences mostly ignored.

The bombast and invective, diplomats say, will be saved for the white-run regimes just a few hundred miles to the south, and Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith's seat of government in Salisbury is barely 300 miles away.

Yugoslavia's President Tito, Communist "grand old man" of the movement since he organized the first summit in Belgrade in 1961, Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, who hosted the second in Cairo in 1964, Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie and Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi are among leaders present to help revive and define nonalignment.

At the preparatory meeting of foreign ministers in neighboring Dar Es Salaam in April, President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania urged the uncommitted nations to forget problems of "power" and "military alliances" and turn instead toward intensifying economic cooperation among themselves which alone could guarantee independence from bigger power blocs and prevent "bullying" of the poor and weak.

Southeast Asia and the Middle East are also on the agenda, and with the South Africa issue, these three subjects will take up most of the conference.

Although nonalignment first was a policy of noninvolvement by uncommitted nations to shield themselves from the crossfire between great powers, diplomats say on all three political questions the summit will adopt definite and partial planks.

At the earlier preparatory sessions, demands were made for the withdrawal of "foreign powers" in Southeast Asia, and similar resolutions aimed at the United States were expected to be passed here.

Over the opposition of several African delegations, the earlier April meeting also condemned Israel for continued occupation in conquered territory. However, some diplomats say they believe some Arab representatives may want to keep cool any debate on the Middle East during the current peace efforts.

But the presence of more militant Arab delegations from Algeria, Iraq and Syria could mean the summit will receive attacking statements.

The setting for these deliberations is splendid and glittering. Zambia has spent a reported $9.6 million on building and furnishing a new VIP village and conference hall and equipping it with all the attendant paraphernalia necessary for a gathering of this size.

Some of the equipment, ironically, has had to come from South Africa, quickest and cheapest suppliers of some essentials.

PETER TOWNSEND, LEAFING through a copy of his new book, "Duel of Eagles," at his suite in London's Park Lane Hotel, broke his long silence about his romance with Princess Margaret, who had announced in 1956 that she would not marry the Royal Air Force group captain. The romance was billed as the "romance of the 1950s." (UPI)

Voters Ponder Unrest

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Campus unrest is an issue in the New Hampshire primary Tuesday.

Meldrim Thomson, a conservative and hardliner on student demonstrations, is trying to topple incumbent Gov. Walter Peterson in the Republican balloting.

The two-day GOP gubernatorial rivalry takes top billing in this state where Republicans outnumber Democrats 162,000 to 102,000.

But the Democrats are putting up a scrap for governor with three candidates, including Mayor Dennis J. Sullivan of Nashua, the state's second largest city.

The other two Democrats are Roger J. Crowley, former state commissioner of resources and economic development, and Charles F. Whittemore, former state health and welfare commissioner.

New Hampshire's two Republican congressmen, Reps. Louis C. Wyman and James C. Cleveland, are unopposed and are regarded likely winners for re-election in November.

In Wyman's congressional district, the Democratic challengers are Michael Dombroski, a University of New Hampshire graduate student and war critic; Chester E. Merrow, former GOP congressman turned Democrat; and William F. Horan, hospital worker and part-time student who says that only volunteers should be sent to fight in Indochina.

Two Democrats are battling in Cleveland's district. They are Dartmouth College instructor Edward W. Gude and Franklin Mayor Eugene S. Daniell, who has tried three times in vain to win a major political office.

In the GOP gubernatorial tilt, Thomson has pitched his campaign at conservatives fed up with campus upheavals, protests and inflation.

Thomson also zeroed in on new residents moving in from neighboring Massachusetts to escape that state's high taxes. Thomson pledged to keep New Hampshire the only state with neither sales nor income tax.

Peterson, who ended the unprecedented six-year reign of Democratic Gov. John W. King, compiled a strong legislative record in a special session he called this year.

But Peterson's attention was distracted by the appearance of three members of the Chicago 7 — Abbie Hoffman, Jerry Rubin and David Dellinger — at the University of New Hampshire last May, just after the Kent State University slayings in Ohio.

Peterson stayed low during their appearance, but he kept state police and National Guardsmen available in case of trouble. There was none.

Thomson contended the three should have been barred from speaking and tried unsuccessfully to spur interest in a special legislative session to crack down on student unrest.

Peterson organized a citizen's task force during his first year in office to review the state's operation and come up with recommendations for a special legislative session. He got the 424-member legislature, third largest representative body in the English-speaking world, to go along with most of his programs.

When Peterson announced his candidacy in July, he said the prime issue in his campaign would be William Loeb, publisher of the Manchester Union Leader, the state's largest newspaper. Loeb is a Thomson supporter.

If Thomson topples Peterson he will be the first candidate to deny an incumbent a second term in office since Huntly Spaulding upset Gov. John Winant 44 years ago.

Colleges Face Trouble

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's college campuses are in for another round of trouble this season according to the consensus among students and educators.

How violent that trouble will be, what will be its catalyst and how the universities will deal with it are the variables.

UPI reporters interviewed people on 72 campuses in 31 states to determine the outlook for a renewal of the violence that dominated many campuses the past school year.

One of the gravest forecasts was issued by Eugene Klingman, assistant vice chancellor for student affairs at the University of Wisconsin:

"We can't communicate with them (the trouble-causers). What we are hearing is that there will probably not be the degree of mass confrontations we've had in the past, but the tactic will be hit-and-run, by a small, hard core group of very dedicated people whose tactic will be destruction."

The Madison, Wis., campus already has experienced that sort of thing, in the Aug. 24 bombing of an Army mathematics research center.

Robert Perrin, vice president for university relations at Michigan State University, said, "It would be foolish for anybody to try to predict what will happen. But we know of no outstanding issues that would provide any excuse for violent action this fall."

An administrator at Wayne State University in Detroit, who asked that his name not be used, responded: "We are optimistic of chances of campus peace in the upcoming school year. However, student concern over the war in Vietnam continues and the fall election campaign could provide other causes for militants."

A spokesman at Rice University in Texas: "There is a better chance for peace. Violence has already peaked and proved to be ineffective."

A University of Rhode Island dean who preferred to remain anonymous said President Nixon's actions in the coming months will be a crucial factor in whether there will be unrest on his campus.

An anonymous administrator at Bowdoin College in Maine said: "Our problems will have to be resolved within the context of national and international problems."

"In a sense, colleges are helpless to control campus peace. If the current trend toward de-escalation of the Vietnam war is reversed, it could be disastrous to college peace."

Law Charges Man Menaced Mrs. Onassis

LONDON (UPI)—An electronics engineer accused of sending a letter threatening to kidnap or murder Mrs. Aristotle Onassis was ordered Friday to stand trial at London's Old Bailey.

John William Humphreys, 58, was ordered held in custody until the next court session at the criminal court which begins Tuesday.

In addition to the charge of sending the letter threatening Mrs. Onassis, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, Humphreys was accused of demanding more than $3 million from Onassis' London insurance broker as an alternative to kidnaping the Greek shipping magnate or his wife.

He also was charged with "obtaining by dishonest deception" a Rolls Royce Silver Shadow worth $22,040.

Show goes on

FRANKLIN, Pa. (UPI)—A leading mining machinery firm here didn't let a truckers strike in Cleveland prevent it from exhibiting its equipment to the American Mining Congress convention. It airlifted the trade show here instead.

After setting up its equipment display in a plant storage area, Joy Manufacturing Company chartered a DC-3 to go with its own executive aircraft and initiated an 80-mile shuttle service. Plant secretaries, dressed up in miners hats for identification, served as hostesses to guide arriving groups from the local airport to the plant by car and bus.

White House Flag Flown At All Times

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon Friday ordered that the American flag be displayed at the White House at all times, night and day, except in bad weather.

At the First Lady's suggestion, Nixon amended the rules whereby the flag is flown only from sunrise to sunset under the universal custom.

Actually, the flag has been illuminated and flown at night since Aug. 18. The First Lady's press secretary Connie Stuart said that Mrs. Nixon had noticed that other monuments in Washington display the flag in the evening, particularly when she has flown by helicopter, and thought it would be a nice idea for the White House.

In making the patriotic gesture, Nixon said the "White House is a house that belongs to all the people and as the home of the President and his family symbolizes the love of home and family that characterizes" the American people.

Red Rumors Warn Travel to Grow

Foreign News Commentary By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

Window on the World: Sweet Talk: The East Germans are spreading rumors that East Germany is about to restore the right of 2.1 million Berliners to visit East Berlin at any time and to restore telephone communications between the two halves of the city, cut since 1962. But Berlin Mayor Klaus Schuetz suspects a Communist maneuver and he is warning Berliners against heeding the rumors pending concrete negotiations. Seeing, he says, will be believing.

closely to Paris, the dozen or so nations likely to attend the summit are expected to take their cue from France, which is currently South Africa's best arms supplier and has never respected United Nations calls for a boycott against the South African government.

Next Step for Moscow: With agreement in the bag on a nonaggression arrangement with the Bonn government, Moscow now plans to push for the admission to the United Nations of both East and West Germany. This is expected to happen when the U.N. general assembly meets in New York next month.

Political Stand-In: Opposition politicians in the Philippines are concerned lest the ruling Nacionalista party put up the beauty queen wife of President Ferdinand E. Marcos as its candidate. Marcos himself cannot run for a third term and has gone on record he will not run again even if this constitutional prohibition is amended. Mrs. Imelda R. Marcos has been more than sufficiently exposed to the Philippine political scene and might have a better-than-even chance against any opposing candidate if backed by Marcos party and its resources. It would not be the first time a wife acted as a political stand-in, as witness recent history in Alabama.

Foot-Dragging: Diplomats in Paris predict French-speaking African nations will drag their feet on the Organization of African Unity (OAU) summit in Addis Ababa to apply pressure on white southern Africa. Economically and culturally linked

Miss Lauderback, Standlee Marry in Local Ceremony

TWIN FALLS — Jamie Lauderback, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lauderback, became the bride of Marvin D. Standlee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Standlee, Jerome.

The double ring rites were performed in the First Presbyterian Church, Twin Falls, before a background of candelabra and arrangements of white gladioli and pompon chrysanthemums. Dr. Robert C. Harvey officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown fashioned in an empire style of peau de soie with Chantilly lace forming the bodice and sleeves. A chapel-length train of Chantilly lace extended from the waist. Her shoulder-length veil cascaded from a headpiece trimmed with Chantilly lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli and Abbey roses.

Patty Lauderback, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Deana Fretener, Sandy Ambrose and Sally Hulbert. Barbara Farr, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Tony Sabala, friend of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Gerald Luther, Rodney Bolish and Ruben Fletcher. Ushers were J.R. Burns and Alfred Shewmaker. Tom Lauderback and Rocky Mason were taper lighters.

Joyce Guyer was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Allen at the organ.

A reception was held in the Fireside Lounge of the church. The bride's table was decorated with jace and centered with a three-tiered, wedding cake decorated with apricot-colored roses and topped with two white satin wedding bells. Circling the cake were apricot gladioli and fern. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Carl Mason.

Mrs. Mason cut and served the cake. Mrs. John Lorain and Mrs. Lloyd Hann served punch and coffee.

Jean Nuttle attended the guest book. Cheri Knapp and Mary Anderson were in charge of the gifts.

The couple took a wedding trip to Canada and Yellowstone National Park and are now residing in Jerome.

Special guests were grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Flanagan, Hamilton, Mont.; Mrs. John Dowling, Hamilton, and Mrs. Leonard Burnett, Missoula, Mont.; great-aunts of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Flanagan, Missoula, uncle and aunt of the bride. Other out-of-town guests attended from Boise, Ogden, Spokane, Rupert, Idaho Falls, Jerome and Filer.

The bride was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower hosted by Mrs. John Lorain. The parents of the bridegroom hosted a wedding rehearsal supper in the Colonial Room at the Rogerson.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Do adults have another "divine" right that we teen-agers are denied?

For the past year, my mother has told the entire family that my father can't keep up with her in the love department. She further states that since he is out of town a lot she needs someone who can keep up with her.

Recently, to the knowledge of everybody except my father, she has found someone who can "keep up with her." When I questioned her about the early hours she was keeping, she replied, "Your father is probably doing the same thing." (The latter I could neither prove nor disprove.)

My question is twofold: First, why do adults feel they have a right to sex when teen-agers are told it is taboo? It seems to me that if you can abstain from sex when you are young, why can't you give up a little of your sex when your lifelong mate starts slowing down? It also seems to me that sex outside of marriage is worse than sex before marriage. My second question: Should my father be filled in?

A WORRIED SON

DEAR SON: Don't put all adults in the same bag. Not all adults feel they "have a right to sex outside marriage." It's "taboo" and they know it. And no, your father should not be "filled in." (But the holes in your mother's head should be.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a daughter who met a boy six months ago and she really fell for him. She is 19 and he is 22. He isn't working now and he's not even looking. He keeps saying the jobs he wants won't pay him enough money. In the meantime he borrows from my daughter, eats every meal at my table and his clothes are washed in my machine. He says marriage will come "later." And my daughter looks at him like he's a "god," and she calls this "love."

Would I be wrong to ask this boy what his intentions are?

HEARTSICK MOM

DEAR MOM: You can ask him, but I think I can give you a more accurate answer. His intentions are to eat at your table, have his clothes washed in your machine, and freeload off you and your daughter as long as you let him.

DEAR ABBY: I am a "domestic" and work for a family. Will you please tell me if you think it's right or proper for the lady you work for to introduce her friends to you as "Mrs. John Smith," and then say to them, "And this is 'our Marybelle,'" just like I didn't have a last name? I think it's time we had a little respect.

VERY MAD

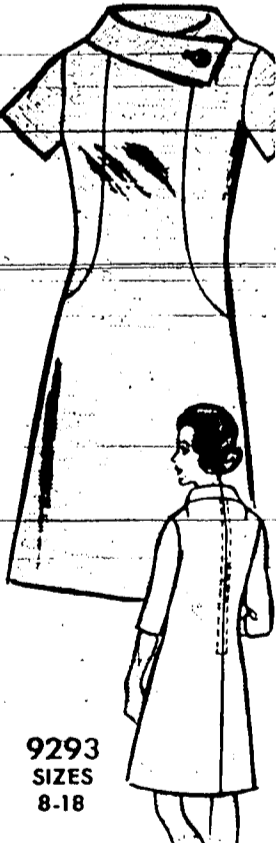

DEAR VERY: I doubt if your employer meant any disrespect, only affection, which outranks respect any day in my book. But if you object, ask your employer to please call you "Mrs."

DEAR ABBY: That nurse who wears her white uniform and white shoes on the street complained because strangers would approach her while she was waiting for a bus and ask her medical questions. Well, she doesn't have very much imagination. When somebody spots my white uniform and white shoes and asks me what's good for an upset stomach, I say, "I wish I could help you, but I only work in a delicatessen."

MARIE

Curve of Flattery Children's Books Feature Something New

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every mother knows books are wonderful for little children.

The older ones read them. The younger ones learn just from looking at their pictures. Some children also eat them, which is all right with the mother who is delighted to see her little feeding problem eat something, anything.

There also, of course, are the children who use books to hit their small siblings over the head but that is a different category.

Now there's something new children can do with books — smell them.

That's the idea behind the "Golden Fragrance" line of books now in the works, with the first book, "The Sweet Smell of Christmas" (Golden Press, Western Publishing Co., $2.95) already on the market.

The publisher says this is the first such book — a "smelling" book, the natural successor to all the "talking" books on the bookshelves.

The story line is about a bear family getting ready for Christmas in typical little kid style. The difference is in the six paper strips attached to six drawings.

Scratch a strip — or rub it hard with your finger, for that matter — and you can smell the appropriate aroma. There's apple pie, pine tree, candy cane, gingerbread boy, hot chocolate and Christmas orange.

Actually, the strips have been used before in advertisements for martinis, among other things, which may say something about our society.

The firm that devised the micro-encapsulation process that makes all this sniffing possible is the 3M company, a spokesman for which said that tiny microscopic capsules of concentrated scent were coated onto paper. They are so small that 200 would fit around a human hair and a half million of them covers every square inch of paper.

Water Study Asked

BOISE (UPI) — Dr. Robert Lee, Boise, director of the Idaho Water Resource Board said Saturday his agency is seeking a comprehensive study of water development in the Upper Snake River Basin to begin in fiscal 1972.

He said in a letter to Gerald A. Jayne, president of the Idaho Environmental Council, his agency would welcome the support and participation of Idaho individuals and groups such as the IEC.

Lee's letter followed requests by the IEC for a study of planned water impoundments in the Snake River Basin.

He said, a review of the proposed budget amounts clearly illustrates the emphasis that would be given in the study effort to environmental considerations since a major portion of the budget amounts are for those agencies primarily concerned with environmental matters.

In answer to other suggestions advanced by the council, Lee said the need for a study of economic and sociological effects of existing dams is recognized and supported by the resource board.

He supported information on future need projections for all resource uses in a long-term public value framework.

CHARTER MEMBERS of the Filer Wranglerettes who will be taking part in the ladies riding group's horse show this week during the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo are Mrs. Rex Reed, Mrs. Roger Vincent, mounted on horse, and Mrs. Neal Allen. The three also are modeling some of the riding outfits the group has worn during the past 10 years. The show will be held on Saturday, the final day of the county fair.

Filer Wranglerettes Note 10th Anniversary

FILER — "Ten years ago we formed a club to give our members a chance to get away from homes and families for a short time each week and back to horseback riding which we all loved. Now, ten years later, many of us are still riding and some have teen-age daughters in the club."

A charter member of the club, Mrs. Rex Reed, recently made this statement on the 10th anniversary of the Filer Wranglerettes, a club formed in 1960 and more popular than ever 10 years later.

The feminine riders who attended the first meeting, May 1960, at the Filer High School were not all wives and mothers. Some of the 23 charter members were single girls 14 years of age or more. All shared a love of horses and riding which is what prompted the club in the first place.

Mrs. Neal Allen was elected first president; Mrs. Gene Lind, the former Karen Kalbfleisch, vice president; Mrs. Roger Vincent, secretary-treasurer, and Mr. Allen was named drill master.

The group has been active in many local events each summer. It has paraded at Ketchum Wagon Days, the Snake River Stampede, Elko Silver Dollar Days, Buhl Sagebrush Days, the Twin Falls County Fair, and many other fairs, parades and Western celebrations. The club recently brought home first place trophy won at the Jerome Fair.

Mr. Allen served as drill master a number of years. Other drill leaders have been Rex Reed, Jim Vickers, Maurice Dunlap, Mrs. Allen, and Mrs. Floyd Owens, Twin Falls, present drill mistress.

The club has sponsored the annual free horse show the last day of the Twin Falls County Fair for the last eight years and will do so again this year's fair, Sept. 9-12. Membership has kept around the 24 mark. There is usually a waiting list of new members wanting to join and when there is a vacancy, tryouts are held to fill the membership. A member who wishes to remain in the club but finds she may not be able to ride for a year or two, may be classified inactive, with the right to be reinstated as an active member when she wishes.

Although the group decided on the name "Filer Wranglerettes", members come from Buhl and Twin Falls as well as Filer.

The first riding outfits chosen by the group were colorful white and turquoise ones. Outfit changes through the years have included red and white outfits complete with lace-trimmed hats, a "South of the Border" outfit complete with ponchos, and others. This year the ladies wear striking ensembles of hot pink bell-bottoms with matching vests, frilly shirts, white hats and boots.

The group has sponsored benefits and was instrumental in organizing the Filer Junior Riding Club. Several of their members have been rodeo queen contestants. The last several years the group has operated a concession stand at the Arabian Horse Show at the fairgrounds, and also presented the trophies and ribbons to show winners.

This year's president is Mrs. Eldon Grosshans, Filer, who also is custodian of the scrapbook. Mrs. Ed Paladine, Twin Falls, is vice president; Mrs. Jack Bishop, Buhl, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Floyd Owens, drill master.

Goopy Mess!

TWIN FALLS — Police in Twin Falls are investigating a "sticky problem" reported Sunday morning.

Officers said Clayne Cooper, Emmett, returned to his car which was parked in the city parking lot on Second Avenue

East about 10:30 a.m. Sunday, and discovered a gallon of concrete adhesive had been poured on the hood of his new car.

Officers said the glue is of the type being used in the downtown mall construction.

CORE Leader Raps Integration Policy

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—Roy Innis, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), charged Sunday that President Nixon—with the assistance of blacks pushing integration—has arrived at a "king of do nothing, don't make-any-waves solution to the school problem."

Innis says the effect is "to leave blacks in some kind of limbo, a settlement of blacks in suspended animation."

The bearded, 36-year-old CORE director told UPI that in return for the southern vote, Nixon gave southerners the schools and "put the blacks back in educational bondage."

"Blacks are again being sold out in the integration program.

T.F. Fair, Rodeo Get Under Way Wednesday

By MARJORIE LIERMAN Times-News Correspondent

FILER — All roads lead to the fair! At least, this week all roads will lead to the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds where the 44th annual fair and rodeo will have its four-day run, complete with all the entertainment and attractions of other years, plus premieres of a new grandstand, first state Hereford show, new special awards and premiums in most departments, new afternoon entertainment and others.

The fair will officially get under way on Wednesday with the American Flag raising, a special ceremony which will be held at 8 a.m. and the lowering at 5 p.m. each day. Fair board members hope fairgoers will make an effort to be on hand to witness these patriotic rites to prove they "care about the greatest country in the world".

Old favorites returning will be the Ray Cammack Shows on the midway which were so well received last year, and the nightly rodeo featuring the fine stock of Reg Kesler. Pre-rodeo entertainment will be featured each evening and the final Saturday performance will be climaxed with the crowning of Miss Rodeo Idaho.

Exhibitors in some departments began bringing articles as early as Saturday noon. The home arts and antique departments were open for entries from noon to 5 p.m. that day and again on Sunday.

In the dog house, all entries were completed by late Saturday. Several new breeds are scheduled for exhibit in this department, as well as the best in well-known breeds.

Open-Pit Mining Problem

SODA SPRINGS, Idaho (UPI) — In southeastern Idaho four phosphate firms and the Caribou National Forest Office are trying to do something about the problem of restoring surface mining or "open-pit" sites.

Ken Dittmer, minerals staff assistant for the Caribou Forest, said the forest service called a meeting five years ago with representatives of the phosphate industry and asked if they would be interested in entering a cooperative study on methods of rehabilitating mining sites.

J.R. Simplot, Monsanto, FMC Corp. and El Paso Natural Gas said yes. Since then about 716 test plots have been established at the mines.

Dittmer said, "We've concentrated revegetation efforts and studies on the overburden areas. I'd say it would be feasible to rehabilitate probably 70 per cent of an open-pit mining area."

The four mining companies reportedly put up some money each year for purchasing trees while the forest service furnishes technical direction and the manpower that gets the seeds into the ground.

He said the companies have begun to take some initiative on their own to use some of the information learned and enter into reclamation programs.

Monsanto, Simplot and El Paso have initiated formal budgeted reclamation programs, independent of the cooperative study, at their phosphate mines.

Saturday also saw the closing of entries in the Future Farmers of America department, as well as the horse, swine, sheep, poultry, dairy and beef cattle classes. With the exception of horses, these will be judged on Tuesday.

The Twin Falls Fair is considered by many to be "county fair" at its best. It has kept its country flavor with its outstanding exhibits of farm produce, the original elements which made up the first fairs in the country. Visitors from out-of-state comment on the "homey and friendly" quality which the fair has retained.

Entertainment and interests are on hand for everyone, no matter what age. The youth exhibits, the 4-H and FFA Club entries, the livestock, dog show, art and antique exhibits, flowers, hobbies, cooking and sewing exhibits — they're all there.

Fairgoers will find the hours filled with free entertainment from the many livestock shows in the morning to excellent afternoon performances. Space has been made under the shade trees for people to sit and listen to the internationally famous Hoosier Hot Shots or in the bleachers where they may watch jamborees and riding events and a special Wranglerette horse show on Saturday.

The fair board maintains a well-equipped Red Cross first aid station on the grounds with experienced personnel on hand to administer to any accident or injury.

Concession stands both outside and inside the midway will serve meals as well as all the delicacies which help make up a holiday. Picnic tables are available for those wishing to hold a family picnic on the grounds.

And what better place can you find to meet old friends you haven't seen since the fair last year? You're in no hurry to get home so there's plenty of time to stop and visit. Most stores and schools are closing for a day to give employees and students of each area a chance to attend the fair.

It's your fair and it's there waiting for you. Come and see it!

Angus Awards

FILER — Angus breeders of Magic Valley will award a trophy to the champion and reserve champion Angus steer in the Open to the World Steer Show at the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo.

Kesler Top Rodeo Producer

FILER — Reg Kesler, 48, Rosemary, Alberta, Canada, three times all-around Canadian world champion, is becoming a celebrated rodeo producer throughout the western United States.

This stock contractor, who knows what is expected of a great bronc, has set out to have the greatest bucking horses he can find for his string, and he is succeeding in an amazing fashion.

Reg is again the rodeo producer for the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo, scheduled next week here.

For a number of years, the caliber of his stock was celebrated in Canada, but for the past six years, Kesler's fame has grown in Montana, parts of Wyoming, Idaho, Texas and Oklahoma.

From spring until late fall, Kesler Rodeo Inc., has a contract to fulfill almost every weekend. Kesler's huge stock trucks cross the Canadian border dozens of times a season.

The late Leo Cremer, rodeo impresario of Big Timber, Mont., approached Reg one time when he was a young man. Leo wanted to buy a fine bucking horse the Canadian champion owned. Cremer reportedly offered a good price and couldn't believe it when Reg turned him down. "Did you hear me correctly?"

asked the surprised stock contractor. "I heard you Mr. Cremer," said Reg. "You just keep your money and I'll keep my bronc. Someday I plan to have as fine a bunch of bucking stock as you do." The older man looked at the resolute young man and replied: "Son, I believe you do."

Kesler's plan is reality today, although it took several years for him to build up his rodeo string.

"Excellent care keeps my horses and bulls from aging fast," says Reg. "Look at Hat Rack Year in and year out he gives stupendous performance and he looks and acts the same as he did six years ago."

The same is true for One More Chance, a horse Kesler saw heading for the canners and gave him just that — one more chance.

In 1968, Kesler's saddle bronc, Suntas, was named bucking horse of the year in Canada and was taken to the National Finals Rodeo in Oklahoma City along with the superb Hardtwist, which Shawn Davis rode to win the sixth go-around with a score of 76 points.

There are cowboys who will remember Kesler's stock. Shawn Davis, Whitehall, Mont., three times world champion in the saddle bronc riding, has been latched off Rodeo News and Freddy on more than one occasion.

Benny Reynolds, Dillon, Mont., 1961 world champion all-around cowboy, has been beaten by Three Bars. The list of cowboys this mare has defeated has made her almost a legend in her own time.

The bronc named Hat Rack threw Ron Raymond at the National Finals when it was held in Los Angeles.

Reg runs about 300 head of stock on his large spread at Rosemary. He supplies rodeo stock as far north as Ft. St. John in northern British Columbia and as far south as the Mexican border.

RODEO PRODUCER for the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo next week in Filer will again be Reg Kesler, Rosemary, Alberta, Canada. He will bring some of his top rodeo stock for the four nights of rodeo at the Twin Falls County fairgrounds in the new rodeo arena.

Lowman Leads Magic Valley Amateur

Steady Veteran Cards One-Over 69 As Wind Buckles Closest Foes

Veteran Don Lowman, who has never won this title, toured the Twin Falls Municipal golf course with a one-over par 69 Sunday to grab a two-shot lead in the annual Magic Valley golf tournament.

Lowman shot steady golf, picking up two bogeys and a birdie on the front side and matching par with seven pars, a bogey and a bird on the back. That gave him a two-shot lead over 16-year-old Jeff Thomsen, state amateur champion, who followed his opening two-under 66 with a 73 and first-day leader Jim Blandford, another high school senior who carded a three-under 65 Saturday, soared to a 75. He remained three shots out of the lead.

Basically, Lowman was the only one among the leaders who avoided a big fluctuation between the first and second rounds. Phil McRoberts, who one putted 11 greens Saturday to claim third place at 67, tacked a 77 on Sunday and fell seven shots off the pace. The defending champion, Dr. Chick Cutler, saw his game fall apart on the final three holes as he wound up with a 74 and 12 shots out of first.

Lowman came back to win the 10-man elimination derby by defeating McRoberts on the last hole with a par. McRoberts made a great recovery third shot to get a chance at a six-foot putt but it slid past and Lowman dropped his par putt easily. Jeff Thomsen took third place, although he was four-over par. McRoberts provided an oddity when he three-putted from 18 inches but still stayed in.

In flight action, Keith Peterson of Pocatello hung on to his first-flight lead with a 144, eight shots over his opening par round. Frank Barrows and Bert Bender moved to within two shots at 146 while Dick Reed carded his second straight 74 for stay in fourth. Randy Call and Harvey Schlagenhaut had 150s for fifth.

Duke Whitehead continued to dominate the second round as he lodged a 145 two-day total to take a five-shot lead over Steve Neilsen. Don Hulbert was at 151 and Jess Lowman and Bill Dewald had 154s.

In the third flight, young Mike Thorpe posted a five-stroke lead at 150 against 155 for F. Nelson and Gary Duncan. Kevin Packard was at 166 while Ralph Conant sparked with a 77 to get back into contention along with John One-Note of Sun Valley at 158.

The fourth flight remained tight with Blaine Sessions taking over the lead at 155 while first-day leader Gordon Crockett dropped into a second-place tie with B. Flint. Hob Bowen moved into fourth spot while D. Kenaga, Tom Simmons and Merlin Judkins were tied at 162.

Jeff Ballantyne, following up an opening 75 with an 82, took the fifth flight lead as first-round leader Gary Jenkins skied to an 89 and wound up tied six shots off the pace with John Carlton. B. Wright was in fourth at 165 and Knudsen had a 166 for fifth.

Clemente To Enter Hospital

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Robert Clemente will enter Presbyterian Hospital Sunday night and be placed in traction for a sprained lower back which he injured Friday night swinging at a pitch. Club physician Dr. Joseph Feingold said, "it (the injury) hadn't gotten any better and we felt he had to be placed in traction and receive physiotherapy to reduce the muscle spasm." The Pirates are hoping that Clemente's stay in the hospital won't be a long one as they attempt to hold their first place lead in the National League East. Meanwhile, Bob Robertson will stay in the lineup at first base and Al Oliver will continue to play in right field, according to Manager Danny Murtha. The last time Clemente sustained a neck injury, the Pirates won eight of 13 games with Robertson and Oliver driving in key runs.

Tovar, Twins Tip Angels For Sweep

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Little Cesar Tovar smashed a two-run homer in the third inning and doubled in another run in the seventh Sunday as the Minnesota Twins blanked the California Angels 3-1.

The victory gave the Twins a sweep of the three-game series and enabled the Western division leaders to widen their gap to six games over the Angels. As a consolation, California went over the million mark in attendance for the fourth time in the five-year history of Anaheim stadium.

The 5-foot-9 Tovar was the sparkplug of the series, collecting seven hits, scoring four runs and stealing four bases.

Sox 9, Orioles 8

BOSTON (UPI)—Reliever Pete Richter wild pitched home the winning run in the last of the 11th Sunday to give the Boston Red Sox a 9-8 victory over Baltimore after the Orioles blew a six-run lead. Tony Conigliaro scored easily from third without even drawing a throw on the wild pitch after he was hit by a Richter pitch, moved to third on rico Petrocelli's double and waited while George Scott was walked intentionally to load the bases.

Schiawe Tops Jockeys Going Into Last Day

RUPERT — Dave Schiawe of Albion held his lead in the jockey championships and the runner-up jockey, Dave Wheeler, rode Carnie Z to a win in the featured 10th race Sunday as Rupert Pari-Mutuel racing headed into its last day.

The final session began today at 2 p.m. Saturday night the crowd was 1000 instead of the previously reported 100. Sunday 1100 attended in good weather and pushed $6,892 through the windows.

Lamonica, Raiders Drop 49ers 31-17

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Daryle Lamonica threw two touchdown passes to favorite target Warren Wells as the Oakland Raiders took advantage of San Francisco mistakes Sunday to rout the Forty Niners 31-17.

The victory was the second in five exhibition games for the Raiders while the Forty Niners suffered their third loss compared to one victory.

The Raiders moved in front, 3-0, on a 41-yard field goal by George Blanda in the third minute of the game and led all the way. They were ahead 24-0 in the third quarter until the Forty Niners finally scored on a 38-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett, who earlier missed two attempts and had two others blocked.

Dave Grayson intercepted a pass by John Brodie in the second minute of the second quarter and ran it 36 yards to give Oakland a 10-0 lead. With about a minute left in the second quarter, rookie Preston Riley fumbled a punt on a fair catch, Don Highsmith recovered it and three plays later Lamonica flipped four yards to MONZA, Italy (UPI)—Clay Regazzoni of Switzerland drove a Ferrari 312B to his first Grand Prix victory Sunday in the 41st Italian Grand Prix, scarred by the death of Austria's Jochen Rindt Saturday.

The curly-haired Swiss shattered the overall record time and equalled the lap record to beat second place Jackie Stewart of Scotland and third place Jean Pierre Beltoise.

Regazzoni's average speed was 148.125 mph and he completed 234.5-mile course in one hour, 39 minutes, 6.8 seconds. His best lap for the 3.5-mile track was 1:25.2 to equal Beltoise's 1969 mark.

Only nine of the 20 starters managed to finish with mechanical difficulties taking a heavy toll.

Soviets Take Games After U.S. Collapse

TURIN, Italy (UPI)—The Soviet Union glided to the team championship over the United States at the sixth World University Games Sunday following the collapse of the American track team.

The Soviets edged the Americans 76-72 in the gold medal department at the games to take the unofficial team title. East Germany, with two gold medals on the final day of competition, came in third.

The Soviet contingent at the games—a sort of kid brother to the Olympics—took the lead Saturday in the track competition and strengthened it with an upset basketball win over the Americans 78-71 Saturday night.

In the basketball finals, the Soviets outshot and outbounded the Americans to stop the U.S. team's last efforts in a bitter contest that came close to erupting into a fist-fight on two occasions. Larry James and the U.S. 1,600 meter relay team got America's only gold medals on the final day of the competition.

James won the 400 meter hurdles in 50.2 seconds and the relay team set a new games record of 3:03.3 minutes in winning its event. They were only the second and third American gold medals in the track and field competition.

The Soviet Union gold medals in the final day, came in the 5,000 meter race, by Nikolai Puklakov, the women's 400 meter relay and Valentin Gavrilov in the high jump. The Soviet team captured five gold medals Saturday, including the basketball final, to grab the team lead from the Americans.

Cubs-Mets Tilt Called

CHICAGO (UPI)—Sunday's game between the second place Chicago Cubs and the third place New York Mets in the National League's Eastern Division was cancelled after a wait of two hours and 54 minutes in an almost constant drizzle.

General manager John Holland of the Cubs and Bob Scheffing of the Mets agreed that the game, which must be played in New York, should be played on Sept. 28.

bertson system of 1931 wasn't much by modern standards but it was ahead of the Official System played by Lenz and the old timers.

Jim: "I know both sides used honor tricks rather than point count and that must have been a handicap to both sides."

Oswald: "It was far more of a handicap to Lenz than to Ely. Ely used honor tricks with considerable variation. Lenz followed them implicitly. Here is one of Sidney's good hands. He played dummy's coupe of clubs and promptly dropped his queen under Ely's king."

Jim: "That play was his only real chance for the contract. It allowed him to finesse against East's jack of clubs later on so as to be able to discard a loser on the club ace."

Oswald: "It was an expert play. Sidney was a fine player and dropped his queen without batting an eye."

PASS IT ON

by L.M. Boyd

YOUNG LADY, the matrimonial experts say the odds run three to one your husband will overlook your birthday and two to one he'll forget your anniversary... AM ASKED EXACTLY what a city editor does. Now that's a little difficult to explain, but if his wife did it, you'd call it nagging... IT'S THE FIRST-BORN SON who's the most ambitious, say the psychologists. The first-born daughter, they say, is usually the most intelligent.

CONSIDER THIS - Now the electronics boys have come up with a sound machine that can reproduce any voice ever recorded. Wait, not just reproduce. But make said voice say or sing whatever the operator wants to hear. For instance, this tricky machine could give you Johnny Cash's voice singing opera. Or Enrico Caruso's voice singing rock. It could give you Leonid Brezhnev's voice calling for all-out war. Or Mao Tse-tung's voice ordering his people to lay down their arms. Remarkable weapon, what?

OPEN QUESTION - What's the difference between reincarnation and transmigration?

OUR LOVE AND WAR MAN says he finds himself in agreement with the old who wrote, "A man admires the woman who makes him think, but he keeps away from her. He likes the woman who flatters him..." SO YOU THINK your baby is going to grow up to be a real bright article, do you? Sorry about that, dad. It has been determined that nobody, not even a father, can predict the subsequent intelligence of child less than two years old.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q "Is it true Lora Byron's hobby was sailing paper boats?" A That was Percy Shelley. He was a nut about it. Made hundreds of little toy boats and sailed them every time he got a chance. Byron's hobby was girls. He collected a lock of hair from every young lady he romanced, and that collection, still in existence, is enormous. Byron also kept a written record of his girls, rating the performance of each. What a stinker! However, I suppose that was better than sailing paper boats.

THOSE WHO KNOW him report Ernie Banks has never been known to utter a swear word... LOOK, FOR A midnight snack, what's wrong with a minced clam sardine? NOTE A MEDICAL FELLOW claims yogurt is bad for the eyesight. That's hard to believe... WHY IS IT the Scorpio woman tends to be so sensitive about her weight? Our Planet man is baffled. NATIONWIDE only one person in 50 gets no dental cavities whatsoever.

RAPID REPLY - No, sir, five times as many men as women murder people and three times as many men as women get murdered.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 90008, Seattle, Wash. 98199 (c) 1970, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Rockefeller Seeks Record

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is trying to set a modern record which eluded another Republican just four years ago. If he wins and completes a fourth four-year term, he will have served longer than any state executive since the first governor of New York, George Clinton, who held the job 21 years.

The modern record for tenure is 15 years, held by the late Albert C. Ritchie, governor of Maryland from 1920 to 1935.

More recently, four governors have served for 12 years—Thomas E. Dewey of New York, 1943-54; G. Merwin Williams of Michigan, 1949-61; Orval Faubus of Arkansas, 1955-66; and Robert E. Smylie of Idaho, 1954-66.

near the end of Madison's first term.

Nelson Rockefeller was elected governor of New York first in 1958, a gloomy year for Republicans in most states. He was reelected in 1962 and 1966.

In Colorado this year, another governor is trying to add his name to the list of those with long tenure. Gov. John A. Love is a candidate for a third four-year term.

Governorships are now supposed to be thankless jobs in which no one can satisfy voters who want more services and are unwilling to pay more taxes. But in 35 states electing governors this year, 24 incumbents are seeking reelection and six are ineligible for another term. Only five are departing voluntarily.

IT'S BEEN A LONG, hot holiday weekend for some travelers, particularly these irritated motorists, who stand by their stalled, overheated cars along the Long Island Expressway at the beginning of the long weekend. A hazy Empire State Building is seen in the background as a reminder of the sweltering New York City weather they'd like to escape. (UPI)

Witness Allowed To Tell Of Gun

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A jury Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older ruled Hendricks was capable of testifying.

Hendricks, who was charged with burglary in a juvenile court action in Ventura County, said he had been sent to the state hospital "to find out why I do the things I do when I'm on the streets and about my hangup with guns."

Hendricks was expected to begin his testimony before the jury when the trial resumes next Thursday.

Honey varies in taste and color, from crystal clear to keep amber. The lighter colored honeys usually are mild and the darkest honeys strongly flavored.

Utah Seeks Action in Film Case

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Attorney General Vernon B. Romney has petitioned the U.S. District Court for permission to intervene in a Utah obscenity case.

The case involves the exhibiting of the x-rated movie, "Beyond the Valley of the Dolls" through the National General Corp. and NGC Theater Corp. against the cities of Salt Lake and Provo.

Romney has been an outspoken advocate of the right of local communities to protect their own moral and cultural standards. In his petition, the attorney general said, "Utah is vitally concerned in the enforcement of all its laws and the statutes referred to in this case."

After four years out of office, Faubus is a candidate for a seventh two-year term. If he wins the Democratic runoff primary in Arkansas Sept. 8, he will be matched Nov. 3 against Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, candidate for a third term, who is younger brother of the governor of New York.

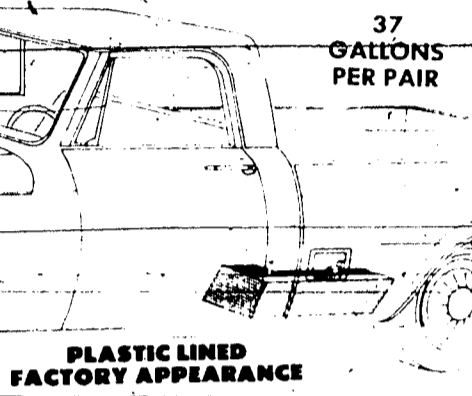

Smylie was a candidate for a fourth four-year term in Idaho in 1966, but failed to win renomination in the Republican primary.

Facts assembled for Smylie at that time showed only 16 governors had served 10 years or longer since the Declaration of Independence.

After independence, George Clinton served as governor of New York from 1777 to 1795. He held the office again from 1801 to 1804, when he was elected vice president for Thomas Jefferson's second term. He also was elected vice president with James Madison and died
