British Reject Hijack Demands

'Hostage ...'

By United Press International
Britain held out alone today against Arab guerrilla demands it free imprisoned Palestinian commandos in return for release of two hijacked jetliners and more than 200 passengers in them. West Germany and Switzerland said they would comply with the guerrilla ultimatum.

day they would comply with demands of the guerrillas who threatened to blow up the Trans World Airlines (TWA) 499 and the Swissair DC8 and the 200 occupants of the planes.

The big jets were parked at a little-used military airfield in the desert 26 miles north of Amman. They were surrounded by tanks, heavy artillery and Arab guerrillas with machine guns.

The guerrillas said both planes had been loaded with explosives wired for quick detonation in the event any attempt was made to approach them.

The Palestinian guerrillas late Monday released 116 women and children from the planes and took them to an Amman hotel for the night. But 60 women and children were turned back to the TWQ plane after identifying themselves as Jews.

The two airliners were among four seized by Arab guerrillas Sunday over Western Europe. One, a Pan American World Airways 747, was blown up on the ground in Cairo after 171 passengers were cleared from the plane. An Israeli El Al jet arrived in London after a guard thwarted an attempt to hijack the plane in a gunbattle that killed one guerrilla.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) gave the governments involved until 10 p.m. EDT Wednesday to comply.

In Geneva, the international committee for the Red Cross said it had sent a special delegation to Amman to help local Red Crescent officials negotiate an exchange.

The guerrillas demanded release of:

-Lella Khaled, 23, a Palestinian guerrilla who helped hijack a TWA jet to Damascus on Aug. 29, 1969. She was subdued by passengers in a foiled attempted seizure of an El Al jet to London Sunday.

-Mohammed Haidid, 28; Abdel Rahman Saleh, 21, and Mohammed El Hafi, 24, held in West German jails awaiting trial for a Feb. 10 grenade attack on an El Al Airline bus at Munich Airport.

-Abu el Heiga, 24; Ibrahim Tawfik Yousek, 34, and Armana Dagher, 22, jailed in an attack against an El Al jet at Kloten Airport in Zurich Feb. 18, 1969.

MOTHER OF CONDEMNED ASSASSIN Sirhan Sirhan, Mary Sirhan, is supported by another son, as she tells newsmen that she is "shocked" at a report that Arab guerrillas had demanded her son's release in exchange for the freedom of hostages being held aboard hijacked jets in Jordan. (UPI)

THE HIJACKED Trans World Airlines jet, left, and a Swissair jet, sit on the desert "revolutionary airstrip" near Amman, Jordan. Palestine guerrillas freed 120 women and children from the two airliners on Monday, but held about 200 men inside the planes, packed the craft with explosives and threatened to blow up the planes and all the hostages unless all ransom demands were met. (UPI)

T. F. Fair Judging Begins

FILER — Fair judging began early today in advance of Wednesday's grand opening of the Twin Falls County Fair.

The fair will be opened officially at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday with a flag-raising ceremony, but early activity was in full swing with judging in dairy cattle, swine and poultry divisions, along with antique displays.

4-H horse exhibits were judged throughout the day, with western pleasure and working classes in the afternoon.

This morning judges began selecting the best sheep, produce, home arts, kitchen and pantry exhibits and also opened judging in the youth building displays. Junior gardening, a new division last year which has shown considerable growth this year, was to be judged at 4 p. m.

As a result of today's judging, first day fairgoers will be able to see the grand champion and blue ribbon winners in most fair divisions. Judging will continue through Wednesday in many buildings.

Highlight of the Wednesday activity will include the Idaho Hereford show and claiming classes and a free cowboy picnic at noon at the grounds. Gov. Don Samuelson will attend the picnic as will some of the country's leading livestock breeders, champion cowboys and some self-styled cowhands from around the local area.

"For the next four days, the county fairgrounds in Filer will be one of the most thickly populated places in southern Idaho, according to fair board members. Hundreds of exhibitors and concession operators who have been hard at work preparing for the event during the past week will be joined by thousands of spectators.

Opening of the Reg Kester rodeo will be Wednesday at 8 p.

m. when the first group of the country's top ranking cowboys will be seen in competition.

Fair officials said today there are still some good reserved seats available for opening night.

Through Saturday fans can attend special afternoon and early evening entertainment at no extra charge to those already on the grounds.

On Wednesday, the Hoosier Hot Shots will perform at 2 p. m. A special pre-rodeo show at 7 p. m. will feature a parade of 4-H beef champions, 4-H winners, band music and a riding club drill.

Hazelton Ex-Mayor Rites Set

CLINTON WATSON

HAZELTON — Funeral services for former Hazelton Mayor Clinton Watson, 60, who died Saturday afternoon of a heart attack, will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at White Mortuary Chapel, Twin Falls.

Final rites will be at Sunset Memorial Park. Friends may call Tuesday and until 2 p. m. Wednesday at the mortuary. Mr. Watson was stricken while driving his car on Highway 25 west of the Murtaugh Road intersection.

He served as mayor of Hazelton from 1961 to 1967. He also served on the city council for four years.

During his tenure as mayor, Hazelton streets were named and houses were numbered, new mercury lights were installed, a second water well was drilled for the city, an addition was made to the city hall to house a fire truck, streets were paved and chlorination of water was planned.

Mr. Watson owned an automotive repair business since 1934 and owned and operated Hazelton school buses for several years, selling that operation in 1952.

He bought and operated transit city buses in Twin Falls for a year and a half.

Airport Security Bolstered

LONDON (UPI)—European airports, stunned by the hijacking Sunday of four planes, tightened security measures against terrorists Monday and an International Airline Pilots Association appealed for a boycott on airline service to countries harboring hijackers.

The pilots group, the International Federation of Airline Pilots' Associations, also called a meeting of its five-man governing board for Tuesday in London to discuss proposals for the introduction of armed guards on aircraft and possibly for arming pilots.

(In Hong Kong, the Director of the International Air Transport Association, an association of major international airlines, said IATA would take appropriate action if the International Civil Aviation Organization did not abide by an agreement reached at a meeting in Montreal last June on hijacking. He did not elaborate.

"If those members do not stick to the agreement reached at the meeting, IATA will have to make a decision of what to do in the next 24 hours," said the Director, Knut Hammarskjold.

(Hammarskjold, whose brother the late United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold was killed in a plane crash, also disclosed the IATA had approached certain governments. But he said he could not reveal what was discussed with them.

"We have taken the unusual step to contact a few governments directly and the governments which we have been in touch with before and they know exactly what it is about," he said.

Allies Advance To Break Siege

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The Cambodian command said today 4,000 government troops have launched the biggest operation of the Cambodian campaign in a drive to break the 56-day Communist siege on Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of Phnom Penh.

Field reports said the troops encountered no major opposition in pushing north from Skoun, 35 miles north of the capital, Monday night and today.

Kompong Thom, a transportation and communications center of 10,000 persons, has been encircled nearly two months and the target for almost daily shelling by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces nearby.

"This is the largest Cambodian offensive operation of the war to date," a Cambodian officer said of the drive.

Besides the Cambodian army drive on Kompong Thom, South Vietnamese forces were reported active in the Cambodian Parrot's Beak section. Field reports from Saigon said South Vietnamese infantrymen supported by air strikes and artillery killed 21 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in two clashes near Svay Rieng, 65 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. South Vietnamese losses were placed at three killed and seven wounded. News of the drive was withheld until after the troops left Skoun and one Cambodian officer said it was "the best secret we have had in the war."

Two American VC10 observation planes accompanied the Cambodian troops as they pushed up Highway 6 toward Kompong Thom and a shadow gunship made several attacks against Viet Cong encampments with 20mm cannon and rockets.

Much of the Cambodian force was composed of troops recently returned from special training in South Vietnam and many had American equipment although they carried Communist-made AK47 automatic rifles.

Communiques from Saigon said Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces attacked a U.S. patrol on the northern coast of Vietnam and the resulting fighting left three Americans dead and nine wounded.

Military spokesmen said troops of the 173rd Airborne Brigade and a rifle unit Monday afternoon were attacked 295 miles northeast of Saigon and 13 miles southeast of Bong Son. One Communist soldier was killed.

Extradition Attempt Due In Stabbing Case

TWIN FALLS — A man arrested in West Virginia on a warrant from Twin Falls has refused to waive extradition and authorities here say they will attempt to extradite the man, accused of assault with a deadly weapon.

David Friel, 27, Twin Falls, is accused of the May 20, 1970, stabbing of D. A. Garlinghouse, also Twin Falls.

Officers here were notified by authorities in Marlinton, W. Va., that Friel was taken into custody there Saturday. The stabbing took place at a residence on Fourth Avenue West when Garlinghouse chased a man, alleged to be Friel, who had entered the house and ran from the scene with a baby belonging to Mrs. Bonnie Cox. Garlinghouse located the child on a lawn and when he leaned over to pick up the baby he was stabbed, receiving minor wounds in the back, officers said.

Fair Buses

FILER — Buses between Twin Falls and Filer will run as usual during the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo, Harold Hove, fair board president said today.

Buses leave the Twin Falls Greyhound depot at 9 a. m., noon, 3, 5, and 7 p. m. all four days. They return from Filer at 9:30 a. m. and 12:30, 5:30 and 7:30 p. m.

There also will be late buses from Filer to Twin Falls up until 12:30 a. m., but there will be no pickup in Twin Falls after 7 p. m.

Arabs Get Secrets

CAIRO (UPI)—Egyptian authorities have seized secret documents of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in the wreckage of the Pan American World Airways 747 jet blown up by Palestinian guerrillas at Cairo Airport early Monday, the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said today.

The newspaper said the documents contained NATO's next year's budget and this year's problems.

The Cairo public prosecutor decided to keep the documents among the papers seized in the wreckage of the plane and refused permission to any Pan American official to reach the wrecked aircraft, Al-Ahram said.

Inflation Threatens Free World

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The International Monetary Fund says the stability of the world's money system is threatened by U. S. inflation. It hinted the Nixon administration should get tough with business and labor leaders to check rising prices.

The IMF, in its annual report, said U.S. inflation had spread economic trouble to most non-Communist countries. It placed America's inflation problems at the top of the world economic priority list.

The IMF works to stabilize the value of money. It often makes loans to countries having trouble protecting the soundness of their currency.

The IMF was critical of the Nixon administration's efforts to check inflation.

"At this juncture, the domestic stabilization plan developed by the (U.S.) authorities early in 1969 is clearly behind schedule in slowing the pace of price and cost increases and, at the same time, it has had a more severe impact on the real economy than was hoped for," the report said.

The IMF noted that U.S. prices increased at an annual rate of 5.5 per cent during the first half of this year, the worst inflation since the Korean War, while unemployment reached a five-year high of 5 per cent.

"The importance of arresting the U.S. inflationary spiral and restoring price and cost stability can hardly be exaggerated," the report said. "At stake are the checking of the inflationary trend on a worldwide basis, the long-run stability and efficiency of the U.S. economy, the much-needed strengthening of the U.S. balance of payments and the sound functioning of the International Monetary System."

IMF Managing Director Pierre-Paul Schweitzer issued the report in advance of the fund's annual meeting, scheduled to begin Sept. 21 in Copenhagen.

Israel Rejects Pullout

By United Press International
Premier Golda Meir vowed Monday night Israel never will withdraw from the Suez Canal front until there is peace in the Middle East, regardless of what Egypt does.

In the United Nations, Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah Monday told U. N. middle East Envoy Gunnar V. Jarring Israel temporarily was pulling out of the peace talks because of alleged cease-fire violations by Egypt.

The Israelis contend Egypt has moved Soviet-built anti-aircraft missiles closer to the canal in the 31-mile standstill zone in violation of terms of the 90-day truce which began Aug. 7.

Mrs. Meir, in an interview with the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) taped in Tel Aviv, said it did not matter what happened in Egypt.

"Israel is not going to be driven away from any point where it is until there's peace, so no matter what happens on the other side of the canal, we're not going to run away from the canal," she said.

She denied the Middle East might explode into a war of the major powers.

If the free world makes a stand, and if Russia will know that the free world is prepared to defend its freedom and independence, there won't be a war."

In Amman, shooting erupted between Jordanian troops and Palestinian guerrillas for the eighth consecutive day today with reports of mortar fire near the luxurious Intercontinental Hotel. The clashes broke out after King Hussein announced Jordanian acceptance of the Mideast cease-fire and resumption of the peace talks.

The Arab guerrillas have never accepted the truce and said they were pledged to sabotage all efforts to reach a political settlement of the struggle.

U. S. Viet Strength Dips

SAIGON (UPI) — American troop strength in Vietnam last week dipped below 400,000 men for the first time since early 1967, the U.S. military command said Monday. The Air Force at the same time announced major cutbacks in its operations in the war zone.

U.S. military spokesmen said 399,500 American servicemen were on duty as of last Thursday, a reduction of 2,800 men from the previous week. It was the lowest strength figure since the week ending Jan. 14, 1967 when 398,400 Americans were here.

Spokesmen said a total of 74,900 men had been removed from Vietnam so far this year and another 14,870 would leave by Oct. 16 under President Nixon's "phase four" redeployment program.

This would reduce U.S. troop strength to 394,000 men from a peak of 543,400 reached on April 30, 1969.

The troop figures released by the U.S. command, however, do not include 48,000 American airmen in Thailand or the estimated 60,000 Navy men offshore on aircraft carriers and other war ships.

The U.S. Seventh Air Force officially announced Monday it will cease operating from the Tuy Hoa Air Base on the coast 240 miles northeast of Saigon by Oct. 16. The move affects about 2,900 girmen and some 100 jet aircraft.

The base will be turned over to the U.S. Army, spokesmen said. They said four F100 Superstreak squadrons would return to the United States and a fifth would be deactivated.

571 Dead In Traffic

By United Press International
The nation's Labor Day weekend traffic death toll today passed the National Safety Council's low estimate of 570 deaths.

The council had estimated between 570 and 670 persons would die in traffic during the 78-hour weekend which began 6 p. m. local time Friday and ended midnight Monday.

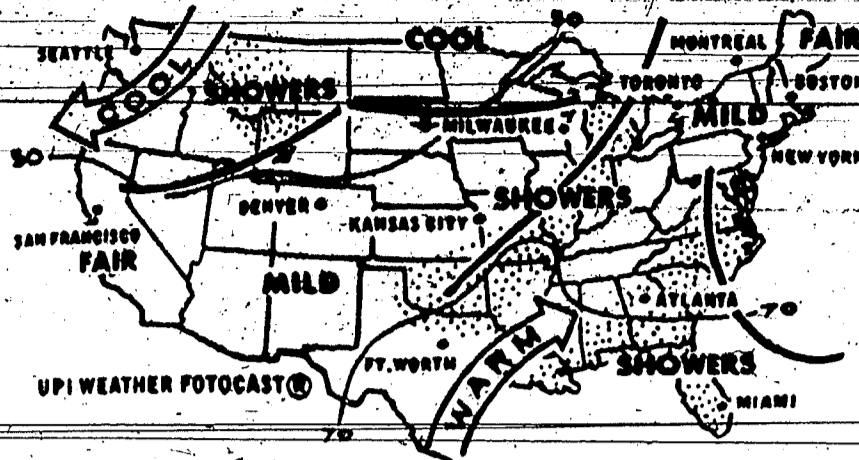

A breakdown of accidental deaths:
Traffic 571
Drownings 78
Planes 21
Miscellaneous 50
Total 720

California led the states with 61 traffic deaths. Texas had 41, Michigan 24, Virginia 23, Florida and New Jersey 20 each and Ohio, Georgia and Wisconsin 19 each.

Army Chief Says Fall Attack Due

TOKYO (UPI) - Army chief of staff Gen. William Westmoreland, fresh from a visit to South Vietnam, said Monday Communist forces were preparing for a "main effort" in Cambodia this fall after the moonsoon rains pass.

"The enemy is now having to reorient his line of communications and move it west of the Mekong River," Westmoreland said at a news conference.

Lewiston Man Killed By Power

LEWISTON (UPI) - Cleo L. Scott, 49, Lewiston, died Monday morning as the result of electrocution while working on a 12,000 volt power sub station at Potlatch Forest Inc. here.

Westmoreland said the Allied intervention in Cambodia had taken considerable pressure off the South Vietnamese government.

He said the Communists' main emphasis now is on overthrowing the Cambodian government of Premier Lon Nol.

Westmoreland said the Allied Cambodian operation had taken the pressure off the third and fourth military regions of South Vietnam which lie in the southern part of the country.

Guerrilla units within the country are still operating, but in a weekend condition, the General added.

Westmoreland said his latest visit to South Vietnam has left him much encouraged about the situation. He said Vietnamese leaders had told him they feel U. S. troops can be reduced to 280,000 men by May 1 as ordered by President Nixon, without jeopardizing the security of their country.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged Monday that a new domestic airlines practice of rounding off fares upward to the nearest dollar is illegal and unfair to consumers.

Strike Warning Issued

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) - British labor unions warned the Conservative Party government Monday to think again about planned anti-strike laws.

Top labor leaders said the unions should use the strike weapon only "intelligently and sparingly." But they said union-management relations in Britain will be "as smooth or rough as the government wants to make them."

Telethon Nets MD $5 Million

NEW YORK (UPI) - The annual Jerry Lewis telethon for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America ended Monday night after raising a record $5,093,385.

The telethon, which began Sunday night and concluded at 6:30 P.M. Monday, surpassed the goal of $4-million set by Lewis and sought by the scores of movie, television, stage and sports personalities who appeared on the nationally telecast program.

The $4-million mark had been reached after 18 hours of the 20-hour show, when a spokesman said $4,139,014 had been pledged.

A hamburger restaurant chain donated half of Monday's profits, as it has since the telethon's inception in 1966.

The chain gave $19,000, according to Carl Wets, head of the organization.

Sinatra Crime Link Probed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—In the ensuing squabble, the district attorney has issued an invitation to Frank Sinatra to have "a little talk" about the singer's possible underworld connections.

The invitation came Monday in the wake of Sinatra's latest donnybrook with a Las Vegas casino executive. Sinatra flew to Palm Springs, Calif. Sunday and canceled further appearances at Caesars Palace Hotel after arguing with Executive Vice-President Sanford Waterman over gambling credit in a high stakes baccarat game.

where he sang in the early days, who started him on his way and his friendships with the underworld."

In Los Angeles, a representative for Sinatra, Jim Mahoney, said, "I think it ironic that a gun was pulled on Sinatra and when all is said and done he appears to be the heavy."

"Many of the accusations and alleged remarks out of Las Vegas are ridiculous."

"I'm fed up with these accusations. Nobody in our organization is running for reelection."

Sheriff Ralph Lamb served notice Sinatra would have to toe the line if the singer returns to work in Las Vegas.

"Waterman was booked," Lamb said, "and if Sinatra comes back to town, he's coming downtown to get a work card and if he gives me any trouble, he's going to jail."

"I'm tired of him intimidating waiters, waitresses, starting fires and throwing pies. He gets away with too much. He's through picking on little people in this town. Why the owners of the hotels put up with this is what I plan to find out."

One witness said the argument began after Sinatra started playing baccarat for $8,000 a hand and asked Waterman, 66, to up the limit to $18,000. Waterman refused because Sinatra wanted to play on credit.

Black Militants Honor Holiday

By United Press International

Black organizations held conventions in three cities over the Labor Day weekend and their solutions for black problems were as divergent as their sites.

Richard Hatcher, mayor of Gary, Ind., told the first annual Congress of African Peoples in Atlanta that Congress may provide "some answers, some ways and means by which black people may not only become mayors of major American cities" but may also redefine political jurisdictions.

But the Black Panther Convention in Philadelphia indicated it had little faith in the U.S. Constitution and made plans to draft a proposed new constitution "through which we can express our revolutionary spirit."

At Mobile, Ala., Roy Innis, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, told CORE's 25th annual leadership conference that forced integration is ineffective as a means of obtaining equal status in society. He said total integration would "doom" blacks to be "perpetually in the minority... in a country that is run by majority rule."

Also speaking in Mobile, to a local civil rights group, the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), pledged his commitment to total integration as a remedy for the "cancerous ills" of America.

"I am here to serve notice on white racist America that it will never again be like it was," Abernathy said.

Poet Lerol Jones told the Congress of African Peoples, which drew 2,300 blacks from 33 countries, that he foresees African peoples around the world "united into a single political instrument capable of dealing with international issues for Africans everywhere in the world as well as in cities."

Georgia legislator Julian Bond called the conference "a spiritual coming home" and said it would "have an effect on black people... throughout the world."

White businessmen were excluded from the meetings of the conference, but open news conferences were held later.

Strikes Halt School in Many Areas

By United Press International

Teachers strikes kept school from opening today in several Illinois communities and in Nashua, N.H. Philadelphia's 350,000 students were not expected to go to school Thursday, the first day of scheduled classes.

Tentative contracts were being voted on today in two Massachusetts communities, Worcester and Melrose. Teachers in Boston said they would return to classrooms today and decide whether to show up for the first day of classes Thursday.

In Illinois, teachers strikes went into their second week at East St. Louis, Eldorado and Galatia as most of the state's students returned from the Labor Day holiday. Teachers in Rockford, Collinsville and Bloomington were expected back today after spending last week on strike.

Eighty-eight per cent of the 290 members of the Urbana (Ill.) Teachers Association voted Monday night to accept a starting salary of $7,400 and return to work. Ratification was expected today by teachers in the Chicago suburb of Mount Prospect, where negotiators agreed on a base salary of $7,500 Monday. But teachers in Joliet and East Moline, Ill., warned they might strike soon if negotiations remained stalled.

Teachers in Nashua, N.H., went on strike a week ago.

Officers' Promotions Announced

TWIN FALLS — New personnel changes within the Idaho State Police have resulted in the promotion of a local officer and the promotion and reassignment of another.

Sgt. Calvin Bernard of the District 4 headquarters office in Twin Falls has received a promotion to lieutenant. Former Lt. Dean Bennett was promoted last month to captain in charge of the district headquarters.

Cpl. Ron Eggleston will be promoted to sergeant and transferred to Coeur d'Alene on October 1. He will be replaced by Col. Ralph Sifford, who will be promoted to sergeant and transferred from Plummer to Twin Falls effective October 1.

The promotions were announced by Supt. Clark Hand of the Idaho State Police. The personnel changes were recommended in a study of the state organization, and will allow three supervisory officers, a captain, lieutenant and sergeant, to be assigned to each district, rather than a lieutenant and sergeant as before, Hand said.

The Time Bomb

A commonsense view of the political time bomb inherent in continued fiscal irresponsibility on the part of Congress should make every voter realize that this fall's off-year election is far more crucial than most such elections.

The Democratic-controlled Congress has continued to increase federal spending over the budget despite the fact that President Nixon's $220.8 billion budget for 1971 was the largest in our history.

While Democratic leaders in Congress contend they actually have reduced budgetary items and are merely trying to put national priorities in better focus, the hard fact is that continued deficit spending will increase inflation, hurt our national economy, cause increased taxes, and increase interest payments on the money we owe.

Rep. Lawrence G. Williams, Pennsylvania Republican, is stating no narrow partisan view when he calls attention to the fact that "even with no increased spending, the interest on our national debt will be $30 billion annually by fiscal year 1973." And bear in mind that that fiscal year begins July 31, 1972.

"We must reduce federal spending and start paying off our debt if our nation is to survive," Williams warns.

Efforts are being made to reduce wasteful programs and abuses of programs but these efforts must be doubled.

Think what $30 billion a year, destined for interest, could accomplish for a cleaner environment, better housing, medical care and the elimination of hunger, if only we get rid of the debt and interest burden.

If estimates that more than $70 billion will have to be spent on a five-year program to give us clean air and water for our survival are correct, a good place to begin is with a national effort to cut the interest load and apply some of that money to this infinitely better purpose.

Surrender Plan

The Paris peace talks would move happily to a conclusion, in the view of Senator J. William Fulbright, if President Nixon would pledge complete withdrawal of all military forces by a specific date. If this isn't surrender, what is it?

Such a reversal of American policy would lead to "an honorably negotiated settlement," the Arkansas Democrat insists, although such a conclusion would enable North Vietnam simply to overrun South Vietnam, unless the administration policy of Vietnamization is a success.

And Senator George McGovern maintains the South Vietnamese have not built a strong army!

Fulbright's timing for a televised "reply to the President" could hardly have been worse. The chief Hanoi negotiator has returned to Paris and promised to resume peace negotiations with Ambassador David Bruce, who has been awaiting him.

If the North Vietnamese believe Fulbright's arguments weaken our determination, they will remain obdurate rather than negotiate a settlement the South Vietnamese can live with.

The small coterie of Senate doves, led by Fulbright and McGovern, cannot claim exclusive ownership of the desire for peace. Their present policies, contrary to those of the administration, might be more believable had they not supported past policies which led the nation to the present troubled situation.

On the other hand, it is clear that President Nixon has made great progress in winding down the war.

MR. SPECTATOR

The Name Is J. Hill

If Mr. Spectator had to make a list of all the "nice" and "substantial" citizens in Magic Valley the name of J. Hill, Twin Falls' musician-businessman would have to be right up at the top.

He was featured in a mini-concert of favorite tunes for members of the Twin Falls Kiwanis club at the last meeting. He played the organ and the piano and you could see that the program was really going over.

But aside from his musical capabilities Mr. Hill is blessed with a great sense of humor. Not only can he take it but he can dish it out.

Like his first statement to Kiwanis members (he belongs to the club):

"I started to play the piano because I needed the money," he said, "and I am still playing it because I need the money."

There are a lot of guys who do things for money but in the case of J. Hill we have a sneaking hunch that he does most of his playing because he just likes to play. He can sense that people enjoy good music and he does his part to provide it.

In addition he leads his talents toward backing more community projects than a lot of our citizens do.

What makes him "J." so great is that he is entirely disregarding the fact he cannot see. Talking to him, watching him maneuver around with the aid of his faithful dog, watching his expression of interest in making he has never let it really bother him!

And humor! He has offered to blindfold Mr. Spectator and to lead him around Twin Falls for half a day — letting the dog do most of the leading.

Mr. Spectator will probably never accept this offer. He may be crazy but he just cannot live that dangerously.

We will just take "J.'s" word that there is nothing to it!

RECÍPE NEEDED

Norma Hertzinger, the Times-News society editor, received a note from Mrs. Dave Anderst and she passed it on to Mr. Spectator in the hopes of getting the gal an answer.

Seems as though Mrs. Anderst wants to find someone who would send her a recipe for the old-fashioned way to put up Dills — in a crock. She says these are the kind you can leave in the crock all winter and take out when you need them.

So if any of Mr. Spectator's readers knows about how to do this, why not drop a line to Mrs. Dave Anderst, Route Two, Box 82, Hazelton, 83335.

WASHINGTON — The predicament now facing the President's Commission on Campus Unrest was pointed up when a worried young public official paid a quiet visit to the commission's offices in Washington.

The visitor was Mayor William D. Dyke of Madison, Wis., a 40-year-old Republican who has confronted carefully escalated violence pouring out of the University of Wisconsin in his city of 280,000 ever since his election in 1969. Without fanfare, Dyke conferred with the commission chairman, former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, and top commission staffers.

Dyke's story, backed up by stacks of documentary evidence, simply could not have been believed a few years ago. The bombing of the Army Mathematics Research Center on the Wisconsin campus Aug. 24 was no isolated incident but the culmination of a full year of guerrilla warfare on the university by a radical army — armed and trained — of students, non-student "street people," teaching assistants, and some full-fledged faculty members. Furthermore, there is hard intelligence of rising violence ahead when the university resumes classes this month.

What made the mayor's visit so significant was the commission's de-emphasis of this well-planned student revolution in its public hearings. Whether or not those hearings displayed a pro-student bias (vigorously denied by Scranton), it is undeniable that they did not probe deeply into campus revolutionary activities.

Actually, preliminary drafts of the commission's report take a hard line against nihilistic violence. But that raises the commission's real predicament: can it credibly oppose such violence while being sympathetic generally to student dissent and protest?

It was just such apprehension of a permissive line by the commission that led Mayor Dyke, in Washington ostensibly to confer with Justice Department officials about the crisis of law-and-order in Madison, to slip over to the commission for a visit with Scranton.

According to commission sources, Scranton and Dyke discussed only the Wisconsin situation and not the question of commission recommendations. If they had been discussed, however, it is doubtful that Scranton would have been congenial to Dyke's proposed recommendations: new legal authority for police to deal with campus mobs; the restoration of the now politicized university as an educational center; return of university-imposed discipline on students, even to the point of reestablishing curfews and dormitory regulations.

Such a hard line could scarcely be further removed from the commission's tone until now. The portion of the Washington hearings reproduced on television had such a strong pro-student tone that the commission received a pleasant feedback from the campus. That, say some commission staffers privately, was the commission's undoing.

Since then, the commission has seemed to play for cheers from the campus.

Commission hearings in Los Angeles particularly galled some state officials there. The commission heard at length from representatives of the University of California, whose many campuses have been hives of student agitation.

But neither state college system, relatively free from violence, not the junior college network, almost entirely trouble-free, where heard from. The shock of blood and debris at Madison hit commission members hard. A two-man investigating team left Washington for Madison the same day that Dyke arrived here. Nevertheless, all signs point to the commission's attempting to separate violence of the Wisconsin variety from supposedly legitimate dissent.

"Will the Real Boss Stand Up?"

PAUL HARVEY

Historically, tribal leaders perpetuated their own leadership by promising protection from outsiders.

Each nation's leaders have pointed to real or imagined threats from other nations in order to keep the homefolks bunched.

We don't need an artificial catalyst any more.

The enemy is within the gates now.

The menace of pollution, malignant inflation, internal crime and internal combustion will unite us behind leadership — if it is strong leadership.

Armies of marching men are going out of style.

But as we bring our sons home and concentrate on resolving acute homefront problems, how do we keep the Red Bear at arms' length until we are sure he is housebroken?

Here's how: from launch pads under the sea — launch pads which we keep moving so no enemy can know where they will be — we aim nuclear missiles at our enemies' gizzard.

Last month off the coast of Florida a long-distance Poseidon missile was fired from a submerged submarine — flawlessly.

That 34-foot missile equipped with multiple warheads has a reach of 6,400 miles. By early next year our Navy will have 16 such rockets deployed somewhere under the seven seas.

Within reach of any place on this earth.

Since this gives our Navy a larger share of our nation's fist-in-the-face responsibility — and since there is much intramural jealousy among the branches of our armed forces — you can expect the Army and Air Force to be less than enthusiastic about this new emphasis.

But the Nixon Administration is committed to a numerical reduction in our combined uniformed armed forces from 3.5 million to 2.5 million men.

We will offset a reduction in manpower with increased firepower.

And the hundreds of thousands of American troops and aircraft which we have maintained on rented bases around the perimeters of Russia and Red China can be phased down and out within a year.

This practice of maintaining American troops on foreign soil is costly in more than one way. The dollars spent supporting those troops enjoy no two-way circulation. They go overseas to stay.

And frequently we have to bribe our allies in other ways for access to those bases.

Soon, with 16 — eventually with 31 — Polaris submarines converted to carry the new super-Poseidon missile, there should be no need for far-flung land bases.

ANDREW TULLY

They're Angry

(Editor's Note: Andrew Tully is on vacation. Today's guest writer is Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind.)

WASHINGTON — Middle Americans, who constitute a majority of the voting population, may or may not be characterized as "silent" as we enter the decade of the 1970s.

But they are clearly — in a word — angry.

The fringe rebellion given form in the Wallace movement of the 60s was the first sure sign of alienation of a large segment of the people who have paid the freight for building the most advanced society in the history of civilization.

This fringe rebellion has now passed into a stage of confusion, frustration and lack of trust in political leadership of any color or stripe.

They may still be silent, but they are struggling for a voice. And the articulation process is not only interesting to watch, but full of foreboding for the course of events during the coming decade.

Let us trace briefly the cause of the current alienation.

Labor theorist Gus Tyler recently pointed out the classic contradiction in face and public mythology that sparks the current mood of middle Americans.

Since World War II, real income (after taxes and inflation) for the lower one-fifth of the spectrum, that is the very poor, has increased 4 per cent.

Real income for the top fifth of the spectrum has increased over 40 per cent.

Real income for the middle three-fifths has dropped slightly leaving the wage-earners of America, who have been sold "progress" for 25 years as the way to patriotic self-fulfillment, worse off than they were in 1947. As the alienation movement among middle Americans matures, more and more common denominators are found between this alienation movement and frustrations of both the black and the young Americans.

Perceiving a political structure that appears to care more for its own perpetuation than for any real service on behalf of constituents, the wage earning taxpayer views a panorama of contradiction.

We are told that unemployment is in the national interest. We are assured that we can get out of Vietnam by getting into Cambodia. Our most educated young people sometimes show their learning the least.

We face both depression and inflation simultaneously. We watch our national wealth and our national debt increase at the same time.

Our majorities think the minorities are running the country. Our minorities think the country is running them.

We have the most representative government in the world, yet feel that someone else is running our lives. We are the most powerful nation in the world, yet desperately go about trying to shore up imagined "weaknesses."

We elected a President to "bring us together" and have seen the most concerted era of divisiveness in the history of our nation.

Amid this disarray we hear the cry for better and more assertive public leadership. But this approach to the problem again treats only surface issues. Americans have never had a problem resurrecting leaders to articulate a well-defined and persuasive public position.

When citizens of this nation reach a consensus on which direction they desire their nation to move, they won't have any difficulty locating a driver for the bus.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Infection?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a yeast infection of the vagina and have had spells off and on for 25 years. I have had different doctors but none have given me much on what causes it. Could I have had diabetes all this time and not know it?

Could a husband harbor this infection for long periods of time, and the wife get it back? What treatment do men have when they need to be treated for it? — Mrs. H.M.B.

There are several types of vaginitis, caused by different kinds of organisms. Therefore, as a starting point, are you sure it is a yeast infection?

I'm not necessarily implying that it isn't. Yeast infection is fairly common in diabetics but can affect others, too. Since you don't know whether you have diabetes, blood sugar tests would give the answer. Why go on wondering?

However, a more recurrent type of vaginitis (and you say yours has been recurring for 25 years) is caused by a parasite, the trichomonas. That can be harbored by the husband. It may not bother him — probably won't. But the wife can get rid of the parasite, only to get it again repeatedly from the husband who, all too often, insists that he having no trouble and doesn't need treatment.

Treatment of the husband is the same as that for the wife: the drug Flagyl, taken by mouth, over a period of 10 days, is usually quite effective.

The trichomonas, if the husband is harboring it, can be identified in a urine sample, so I suggest that he be checked.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor is very busy and I hesitate to ask a lot of questions, so I am writing hoping you have booklet on cystitis. — S.M.B.

Since cystitis is bladder infection, what you want is the booklet, "Your Kidneys: Facts You Need to Know," which discusses kidney and related problems, including bladder trouble. Send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am able to stick to a bland diet without too much trouble, but there are times when I crave a carbonated drink such as root beer or lemon soda. Would this be terribly detrimental? My ulcer is healed but I still have a hiatal hernia. — C.F.K.

No, I don't think an occasional drink of pop would hurt you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you think a warm vinegar and water douche once a week will clear up a discolored vaginal discharge with a slight odor? My husband is in Vietnam and I don't have relations, and can't imagine what could cause it. — Mrs. W.S.

No, I don't think any home remedy, including the vinegar, is likely to do much good, if any at all.

A variety of yeasts, germs, and other organisms cause these discharges, and all of them can be acquired perfectly innocently (although some can be transmitted via sexual contact as well).

These ailments, go by the name of vaginitis, as distinguished from the so-called venereal diseases.

As a general truism, home remedies are a complete waste of time because, for one thing, you first have to know what type of organism is causing the trouble. My advice is to go to a gynecologist.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Thosteson's helpful booklet, "How To Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

BERRY'S WORLD

"It's true, Honorable Chairman! There is a cult of people in America that goes around reciting quotations from Spiro Agnew!"

PRESIDENT NIXON and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, enjoy a laugh just prior to a White House dinner for 200 labor leaders. The dinner is the first such presidential gesture to organized labor on Labor Day. (UPI)

Nixon Toasts Labor Leaders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican President Nixon and usually Democratic labor leaders toasted each other Monday night at an informal White House dinner marked by cordiality.

Nixon praised AFL-CIO President George Meany for his support of the administration's foreign policy and Meany, who just last week blasted Nixon for his economic policies, said Nixon was no different than any other president, regardless of party—he wanted to do what was best for the American people.

Reviewing his relations with presidents dating back to Franklin D. Roosevelt, Meany blurted, "... and let me tell you, Franklin Roosevelt, he was just as tricky a politician as anyone who bore the name of 'Tricky Dick' could be, and let me tell you, Lyndon (Johnson) was no slouch at politics."

Nixon and the guests broke into laughter, and Meany continued with praise of Nixon as "dedicated to the preservation of (the American way) of life." His toast ended the dinner.

Meany headed a list of 70 national union leaders and their wives invited to spend Labor Day evening with the President in his effort to improve Republican relations with organized labor which nearly defeated him in 1968.

The continued attacks of Meany and the other union officials on the Nixon administration's economic and other domestic policies were brushed aside for the evening as Meany and the President traded compliments over champagne toasts in the East Room.

The two men instead emphasized their major point of agreement—the President's policies in Southeast Asia and other parts of the world to defend freedom.

The dinner was the first time any president had invited labor leaders to the White House on Labor Day. It was followed by a torchlight-military marching and music ceremony on the south lawn, attended also by officials and employees of the Labor Department and labor unions with headquarters in Washington, along with their wives and children. The outdoor crowd of 4,000 persons sat in specially constructed bleachers as high as some football stadiums.

Nixon, in his toast, said Meany had supported both Democratic and Republican presidents when he believed "that served the interests of freedom, that kind of freedom which is so essential if a strong, free labor movement is to survive."

Parachutist Leaps From Royal Gorge

CANYON CITY, Colo. (UPI) — The car drove up on the Royal Gorge Bridge, 1,121 feet above the Arkansas River, and two men stepped out. One began grinding away with a movie camera while the other leaped over the side.

After falling 150 feet from the world's highest suspension bridge, a parachute blossomed open and the man floated to the bottom. He rode the incline railway car to the top and then drove off with his friend.

"I think he was a professional, a sky diver or something," said Joe Chapman, president of the Royal Gorge Co. "He evidently knew what he was doing."

Chapman said the performance "was done without our knowledge or permission" and no one even got the name of the man who leaped over the side of the 880-foot wide gorge. "It was quite a thing to see while on the way to work," said John Martinko, a university student who works in a cafeteria at the end of the bridge. "We thought they were just going to take pictures of the man in the parachute rigging."

The car, a white station wagon bearing Tulsa, Okla., license plates and driven by a woman, stopped on the middle of the bridge and the two men got out, Martinko said. The man in the parachute harness then leaped over a 34-foot wire fence.

"He had to be pretty much of a professional," Martinko said. "He didn't drift too much but appeared to be controlling his flight toward the end."

The chutist landed on a flat ledge about 100 yards wide and about 200 feet above the river. While he folded up his chute, his companion—who filmed the entire descent—rode a rail car to the bottom and they both returned together.

Guitarist Commended By Critic

The Things I Used To Do: Guitar Slim. (Specialty SPS 3212)

He's been dead for more than a decade, yet his work is still incredibly fresh and vibrant.

He has inspired literally hundreds of young blues musicians to copy the fantastic guitar stylings he brought from the Mississippi deltas.

He sings with intense emotionalism, telling the troubles of his mind. He sings with a fine, full, rich and rough blues voice.

This album contains some of his finest work, for there is not much of his work recorded. His first recordings were made in the early 1950's, and his first with Specialty were in 1953. He died in 1959 at the age of 33.

He had a hit record with another unknown bluesman in 1954, when he and a young pianist named Ray Charles recorded "The Things That I Used To Do," which was the best selling blues record of the year, and was at the top of the Billboard chart for six full weeks, the first R&B tune to hit the top that hard.

This album contains some of the finest examples of his work, including some tunes, which never have been released before.

Four stars.

Carswell Faces Test In Primary

By United Press International Political novice G. Harold Carswell of Florida and old pro Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas faced stiff challenges today as eight states held primary elections.

Carswell, the former appeals court judge whose nomination to the Supreme Court was rejected by the Senate, has been involved in a bitter campaign for the Republican nomination to the Senate against eight-term Rep. William C. Cramer.

Faubus, former six-term governor of Arkansas, sought the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in a runoff against attorney Dale Bumpers. Faubus was the front-runner in the eight-man primary, but failed to gain a clear majority.

Also holding primaries today were Arizona, Colorado, New Hampshire, Utah, Wisconsin and Vermont. Georgia holds a primary Wednesday.

In Florida, Cramer leaned heavily on his authorship of an antibusing amendment to the 1964 Civil Rights Act while Carswell blasted the "ultra-liberals" in the Senate. They were running for the seat vacated by the retirement of Sen. Spessard L. Holland, a Democrat.

Running for the Democratic senatorial nomination are former Gov. Farris Bryant, speaker Fred Schultz of the Florida House, state Sen. Lawton Chiles and Alcee Hastings. The issue, again, is forced busing, and all are against it except Hastings, a Negro.

In the Florida gubernatorial primary, Gov. Claude Kirk faced drugstore chain operator Jack Eckerd. The Democratic nomination was sought by State Attorney General Earl Fritch, Dade County (Miami) Mayor Chuck Hall and two state senators.

In Arkansas, the issue is whether Faubus or Bumpers has done the most to fight busing. Faubus charged Bumpers was a "flaming liberal" who had the support of Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

Faubus said Monday he had learned there was a plot to assassinate him within 30 days if he won the nomination.

The winner will face Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Arizona—Gov. Jack Williams and Sen. Paul Fannin are unopposed for the GOP nominations and are favored to win reelection. Three Democrats are running for governor. The Democratic Senate race is between Phoenix shopping center owner Sam Grossman, Dr. John Kruglick and H.L. Kelly.

Light Vote Eyed In Utah Primary

By WILLIAM J. STANFIELD By United Press International A light turnout of voters is expected Tuesday in Utah's primary which has only one contest approaching statewide interest.

In that race, two Democrats with more personal and political similarities than differences are pitted against each other for their party's nomination for the U.S. House of Representatives from the 22-county, largely rural First District.

Pre-primary estimates of voter turnout range from 70,000 to 110,000, or from 10 to 20 per cent of the voter registration. The polls open at 7 a.m. MDT and close at 8 p.m.

Pitted against each other in the First Congressional District Democratic race are J. Keith Melville, 48, a political science professor at Brigham Young University, and K. Gunn McKay, 45, a former state legislator and Gov. Calvin L. Rampton's administrative assistant for the past two years.

Their low-key campaigns have been directed more against the national Republican administration and the district's Republican nominee than against each other.

Both have attacked the Nixon administration's economic policies, both are opposed to the Viet Nam war, both favor the vote for 18-year-olds and both have called for a shift in national priorities with new guidelines.

Each of the two candidates comes from a pioneer Mormon family with rural roots and each has nine children. Melville is a native of Bountiful. McKay was born in Ogden and grew up in Huntsville, his present home. The two men were equally popular with delegates to the party's statewide nominating convention in July. McKay drew 318 votes and Melville 294.

The winner of Tuesday's Democratic primary contest will run in November against Richard Richards, an Ogden attorney and former state chairman of the Republican Party. For the past two years, Richards, has been on the staff of the National Republican Party in Washington, D.C.

Also in the November election is American Independent Party candidate Daniel L. Worthington, a political-unknown from Woods Cross.

The First Congressional seat was vacated this year by four-term congressman Laurence J. Burton, a Republican, who is running against Democrat Frank E. Moss who is seeking his third term.

Another American Independent Party candidate, Clyde Freeman, also is in the November senatorial race.

Neither Moss nor Burton face any opposition in Tuesday's primary nor is there any contest in either party in the state's other congressional district, represented for four terms by Rep. Eherman P. Lloyd, R-Utah; Lloyd will be opposed in November by political novice A.H. Nance, a railroad executive.

Voters also will decide Tuesday about two dozen primary contests among the 83 state legislature posts up for election this year and also will settle dozens of primary contests for county offices.

Wallace Asks Defiance Of Court School Order

By United Press International George C. Wallace told Alabama parents to defy a federal court and send their children to public schools of their choice.

Mobile, the state's largest school district, begins a new TERM Wednesday under a federal desegregation plan requiring massive student transfers.

Wallace, the Democratic nominee for governor, addressed about 6,000 persons at Mobile Monday night and said, "If I were you on school day, I would exercise my freedom of choice." But he urged them to act in a "peaceful manner."

GOVERNOR Ronald Reagan tells a news conference that he expects to contact both President Nixon and the state department to discuss the reported demands of Arab guerrillas for the safety of passengers aboard hijacked airliners. The news conference originally was called only to discuss his re-election plans. (UPI)

Officials of six of Jackson's 15 private schools said attendance this fall has jumped from 500 to 5,000 over last fall.

At Winston-Salem, N.C., William F. Maready, chairman of the school board, pulled one of his children from a public school and enrolled her in a private academy to prevent her being bused across town for desegregation purposes.

The federal desegregation plan for Winston-Salem requires the busing of more than 2,000 elementary students.

Opposition to busing to eliminate racial imbalance surfaced Monday in the North. In Providence, R.I., about 100 parents, both black and white, said they would demonstrate against the city's busing proposals. They said they would sit in classrooms to be integrated Wednesday and send their children to the schools to which they were assigned before the busing plan was announced.

Mrs. Louise Day Hicks, the outspoken candidate for Congress in Massachusetts, said she would file a bill in the state legislature to repeal the state's racial imbalance law, passed in 1965.

It cuts off state aid to schools which have more than 50 per cent nonwhite enrollment, and Mrs. Hicks says this destroys the neighborhood school system.

Schools in North Carolina's largest district, Charlotte-Mecklenburg, opens Wednesday under a controversial federal desegregation plan calling for the busing of about 20,000 of the district's 82,000 students. The Charlotte appeal of the plan is one of the cases combined by the Supreme Court for its Oct.

12 hearing on the issues of racial balance and busing in public schools.

Martha Says 'War Stinks!'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Martha Mitchell said today the Vietnam war "stinks" and if it weren't for Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., "We'd be out of it."

The outspoken wife of Attorney general John N. Mitchell made the blunt comment about Fulbright, whose re-election campaign she once threatened to defeat, during a flight with the presidential party back to Washington.

In a give-and-take with newsmen aboard Air Force One, she was asked half-jokingly, "What do you think of the Vietnam war?"

"It stinks," she replied, and added, "If it weren't for Fulbright we'd be out of it."

"If this country would stick together... if everyone felt a common cause in Vietnam, we would have been out 16 months ago and it makes me so mad I can't see straight."

She said she felt Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was opposing the war because "he wants to promote himself." An Arkansas native, Mrs. Mitchell said, "We shouldn't have gotten into the war in the first place. The Nixon administration inherited it and they're trying their best to get out of it."

"Nobody likes war. I realize this is an unpopular war but if someone in Congress would take a few months out and say 'Let's get together,' it would be over... if we Americans can stick together under a common cause as we have in past wars we would have been out of Southeast Asia a helluva long time ago. What we need is a united America. We need something that would bring us together, not separate us."

Mitchell walked into press section of the plane later and was asked if he'd like to know what his wife had just said. "Heavens no," he answered, "I'd jump straight out of the window."

Dog Leads Police To Murder Suspect

CRESTON, B.C. (UPI) — A Royal Canadian Mounted Police posse, led by a German Shepherd who bowled over the fugitive, Sunday captured a bearded, barefoot lumberjack wanted for slaying eight persons, six of them children.

The dog, Count, knocked over burly Dale Merle Nelson, 31, a 5-foot-11, 220-pound former mental patient who police said had spent the night before the killing spree strumming a guitar and drinking in a Creston hotel.

The Mounties burst through heavy brush after the dog and arrested Nelson, who allegedly had shot and killed the eighth victim, a young girl he had taken as a hostage. They gave no reason for Nelson's alleged rampage.

The killings started Saturday, the RCMP said, when Nelson shot and stabbed Mrs. Shirley Wasyk, 30, and then killed her daughter, Tracy, 7, with a homemade butcher knife. Alex Wasyk, a lumberman, was away from home.

Girl Hijacker Lauds Revolt

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Leila Khaled, the attractive 23-year-old girl hijacker now detained in London, was asked by a newsmen in Beirut recently if she was engaged.

"I'm engaged to the revolution," she replied.

Where there has been action by the Palestinians, Leila has usually been there. Leila, dark and round-faced, slipped out of the college-girl routine of dates, dancing and studies at the American University of Beirut early in 1969.

She emerged spectacularly on the international scene as leader of the Palestinian team which hijacked a Trans World Airlines plane to Damascus, Syria, from Europe in August 1969. Leila took over at 30,000 feet and broadcast a message to the world via the plane's radio.

Palestinians occasionally would point her out in Amman or at guerrilla training camps on the outskirts of Beirut where, dressed in olive green fatigues and toting a kalachnikov sub-machinegun, she put squads of women and girls through their paces.

It was nearly a year before Leila reappeared in public in Amman during the fighting of June, 1970, when an estimated 1,000 were killed or wounded in clashes between guerrillas and the Jordanian Army.

Sunday, when she tried her second hijack and failed, the western world remembered the girl who pirated a TWA airplane to Syria 13 months ago, renaming it en route "Front 707."

"So if I had gone along with the original concept it would have been a cop-out. Audiences would have felt cheated. 'The fact that my wife did the scene without clothes doesn't make her unfaithful,' Smith said, not without logic.

"Some people can't understand how you can love someone and have them appear in the nude in a movie. Nudity is a state of mind. I'd much rather have my wife doing a nude scene which is not erotic, than have her do a kissing scene fully clothed where there was some personal meaning to it."

Marine Jets Idled

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States will cut its air attack strength in South Vietnam's northern quarter by about one-fourth by deactivating three squadrons of marine fighter-bombers, the U.S. command announced Sunday.

Military spokesmen said two squadrons of supersonic F4 Phantom based at Chu Lai airfield, 335 miles northeast of Saigon, and one squadron of A6 Intruder subsonic all-weather bombers based at Da Nang, 35 miles to the north, were deactivated Friday. They will leave for the United States later in September, spokesmen said.

The withdrawal involves 25 Phantoms, eight Intruders and 1,130 men, spokesmen said. For security reasons the spokesmen could not say exactly how many attack planes remain in military region I, South Vietnam's five northernmost provinces. But they said one group of Marine fighters and a wing of Air Force planes remain. Under normal circumstances that would total about 100 planes.

Withdrawal of the units comes at a time when the bulk of military activity in South Vietnam is centered on the northern quarter. It is the only region of the country where Communist supply lines were not seriously affected by the allied push into Cambodia last May and June.

The squadrons are the first combat air units to be withdrawn from the northern quarter. One squadron of Marine photo-reconnaissance Phantoms was pulled out last July 15, and two ground squadrons involved in maintenance operations were withdrawn Aug. 11, spokesmen said.

The two Phantom squadrons had been in Vietnam since 1967, and the Intruders had been here since late 1966, the spokesmen said.

The company had announced it was reopening, but the union voted not to return to work. Violence erupted at the reopening. Three vehicles were overturned and police arrested two strikers.

The company then obtained a restraining order limiting picketing.

Sniper Kills Guard

MACON, Ga. (UPI) — A guard at the strikebound Armstrong Cork Co. was killed by a sniper today as he stood outside the plant. Police used bloodhounds in a search of nearby woods for the killer.

Officers said Donald Stacey, 24, of Macon, an employee of the Palmetto State Detective Agency, was killed by shots around 5:30 a. m. EDT.

Two pickets were on duty at a nearby entrance at the time, police said, but added they were not believed involved in the incident.

The plant reopened last Thursday after closing down three months ago during a stalemate in negotiations with Local 461 of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum workers Union for a new contract.

August Marked Start Of Air Extortion Bids

By United Press International extortions, with one the pressure-sensitive bomb" he claimed to have placed in a flight from Seattle to Anchorage with 125 persons aboard. The ransom was paid and the aircraft carefully made its way back to Seattle where it landed without incident. No bomb was found, but a Western Airlines official said at the time, "it was the only thing we could do to protect the safety of the passengers and our employees." The second attempt was made Aug. 23 when a caller said he would blow up a Pan American flight from San Francisco to Hawaii unless he were paid $100,000. Pan Am decided that the call was a hoax and refused to pay, but a company spokesman made clear that this might not always be the case. "I can't say that this would be our policy every time," the spokesman said. "We handled that case on its own merits. We decided that it was a hoax, and it was." Pan Am did make it appear it was carrying out the extortionist's instructions, however.

Teamster Head Asks Critic Ouster

SALINE, Mich. (UPI)—Acting Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons today called on the American working man to vote out of office "those who try to make organized labor the scapegoat for all of our national ills." The American labor movement, Fitzsimmons said, must also welcome the youth of the nation into the fight to solve the problems of war, high prices, inflation and national unrest over many issues. Fitzsimmons, who took over as acting head of the 1.6 million-member union when Hoffa was imprisoned for jury tampering, said the nation's domestic ills won't be solved until the Vietnam War is ended. "We can help impoverished nations. But we cannot be the world police force."

Colleges Give Stern Warnings Of Expected Student Conduct

By THOMAS CORPORA United Press International

Some American colleges and universities are making a special effort this year to inform their students of rules of conduct on campus, but most seem to be handling the matter routinely. Although differing from school to school, most codes of conduct include rules on disruption of classes and speakers, access to buildings, behavior at demonstrations, possession of firearms and explosives and drugs. The codes, many new or recently revived and others going back several years, deal explicitly with what constitutes grounds for suspension or expulsion.

The board of regents of West Virginia's public institutions was one of those groups that decided on a special method of informing students of the strict code it adopted during the summer. The regents ordered that the code be distributed to each student during registration and required that the students sign a statement saying they had received a copy of it.

Brigham Young University, a Mormon school, mails its two-year old code to both students and their parents each year. The code, one of the strongest in the nation, includes chastity and a total prohibition against coffee, tea, alcohol and tobacco. At Hunter College, part of the City University of New York, President Jacqueline Wexler sent 85,000 letters to students, faculty, staff and alumni. The letters included a copy of the student conduct rules adopted by the Board of Higher Education for the entire 17-campus system. At other colleges in the system—City College of New York, for instance—the rules were printed in the college catalogue which many, if not all, students receive. On other campuses in the system the rules were published in student newspapers. Special provisions were made by the board of trustees of the four Connecticut state colleges, which mailed letters giving the rules and disciplinary measures to about 30,000 students, faculty and employees. At Yale University, a private institution at New Haven, Conn., the first section of the student guidebook was rewritten, giving the rules and listing which infractions could result in suspension or expulsion. The guidebooks will be passed out to all students entering Yale in the fall. Most colleges and universities have had written rules of conduct for a number of years and those are routinely passed on to students at registration, often in student handbooks, guidebooks, or newspapers, or during freshmen orientations. Sometimes they are mailed as part of a regular package of materials to entering students.

Substitute Warm Heart for Hard Head, Prelate Advises

By LOUIS CASSELS UPI Religion Writer

Welfare reform moves slowly and uncertainly through Congress, a prominent Roman Catholic prelate said this week, because too many Americans are trying to be hard-headed when they should be warm-hearted.

Msgr. Lawrence J. Corcoran, secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, appeared before the Senate Finance Committee to appeal for passage of the administration's "Family Assistance Act of 1970."

This measure, which would effect the first major overhaul of the nation's welfare programs since 1935, has been approved by the House, but faces an uncertain future in the Senate Finance Committee. Msgr. Corcoran said a distortion of basic moral values is evident in the attitude taken by a large part of the public and many members of Congress toward welfare reform. "There has been great concern over the small percentage of persons who might receive welfare benefits and perhaps not be truly in need," he observed. "Yet very little concern is being shown for the millions who genuinely need help and aren't getting it." There are about 25 million people in the United States today who qualify as poor by the government's official yardstick, which holds that a family of four is living in poverty if it has an income of less than about $3,553 a year. The income figure is higher for some urban areas and lower for some rural localities. Only 40 per cent of these poor people are being helped by existing welfare programs, which restrict eligibility for public assistance to persons who fall into certain defined categories. The largest group excluded from aid are the so-called "working poor" who are employed full or part-time at jobs that earn them incomes below the poverty level. The pending legislation would bring most of these folks under the protection of the program by providing a federally guaranteed basic income of $1,600 a year for a family of four, plus food stamps, regardless of why it is needy. States would be encouraged to supplement this sum, and the federal government would pay 30 per cent of an additional grant authorized by a state, up to the poverty level. Msgr. Corcoran told the senators that the grants in most states "probably will still be inadequate" under this system, but at least it represents "significant progress."

Vatican Okays Virginity Rites

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican authorized bishops today to give special consecration to laywomen taking a personal vow of virginity. The ruling, described by the Vatican as a gesture of "esteem for women," placed virgins living in the world on a religious level very similar to that of cloistered nuns. "Both nuns and women living in the world can be admitted to virgin consecration," the Latin-language decree read. It said the requirements for consecration of laywomen were:

- "That they were never married and never publicly or obviously lived in a state contrary of chastity."
- "That through their age, their wisdom and their commonly recognized good behavior they give reason to trust that they will persevere in a chaste life, dedicated to the service of the church and of their neighbors."
- "That they are admitted to consecration by the bishop of their diocese."

"The promulgation of this rite ... is an act of esteem for woman, whose dignity is sometimes assailed by society, dominated as it often is by myths of vulgar hedonism," a Vatican press release said.

Kathy Anderson, Stover Wed

TWIN FALLS — Kathy Ann Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted L. Anderson, and Paul Edmond Stover Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Stover Sr., all Twin Falls, were united in marriage during a candlelight service Aug. 22 at the Twin Falls First Christian Church.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Henry J. Gernhardt Sr. before a brass arch of candles, flanked by brass candelabra. An arrangement of yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums, tied with mint-green bows, highlighted each candelabra. An altar bouquet of yellow gladioli and chrysanthemums completed the setting.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a self-designed empire-styled dress of Maltese lace and delustered satin. The front panel, belt and back bow were of uncovered satin and the remainder of the gown, including the stand-up collar and long fitted sleeves, featured an overlay of lace. The train and sleeves were edged with scalloped applique lace. Her floor-length veil of bridal illusion was held by an original headpiece, fashioned from the lace and satin from her dress and accented with small seed pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of yellow and white roses.

Claire Marie Emerson, Twin Falls, was maid of honor, with Diane Evans, Logan, and Ellen Anderson, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids.

Don MacKay and Rick Mendini, cousins of the bridegroom, were candlelighters.

John Astorquia, Twin Falls, served as best man, with Leonard Anderson, brother of the bride, and Paul Evans, fraternity brother of the bridegroom, serving as ushers. The organist, Ruth Stutzman, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Richard Fouk.

The reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the church social hall where the bride's colors of mint green and yellow were carried out in the refreshments and decorations.

The bride's table was covered with a white organza cloth with a ruffled skirt and accented with clusters of yellow satin roses. It was centered with a white tiered wedding cake which featured kissing angels between the layers and feather doves on top. The cake, made by Mrs. Uba Allen, was encircled with greenery and yellow flowers.

Guests were registered by

MR. AND MRS. PAUL EDMOND STOVER JR. (Shig Morita photo)

Bernie Barton, longtime friend of the bride. As each person signed the book he was given a favor from the bride and bridegroom.

Guests were seated at small tables covered with lace over yellow and centered with white wicker baskets of yellow flowers and doves, tied with green bows. The centerpieces, as well as the favors, were made by Mrs. John Baisch.

The bride and bridegroom cut the first piece of cake with a cake server given to them by a friend of the bridegroom's mother and used at her wedding. The cake was cut and served by Susanne Baisch and Marilyn Stapleton, cousin of the bride. General Howa and Barbara Edwards Prestige poured punch and Chris Whittemore, cousin of the bridegroom, served coffee.

Special guests included Mrs. Selma Stover, Whitesville, W. Va., and Mrs. Henry Mendini, Buhl, grandmothers of the bridegroom; Mrs. Katherine Bonning, Ketchum, grandmother of the bride; Emile Scholz, Oakland, Calif., great-uncle of the bride, and the Gordon Anderson family, Arcadia, Calif., uncle, aunt and cousins of the bride. Other guests attended from Utah, Caldwell, Nampa, Boise, Halley, Idaho Falls, Pocatello, Rigby, Buhl, Kimberly and Filer.

After a honeymoon trip to Lake Tahoe, the couple returned to their home in Logan, where the bridegroom will continue teaching and coaching at Logan Junior High School and the bride will be a senior at Utah State University.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Colonial House Aug. 21. The bride was honored at pre-nuptial showers hosted by Mrs. Jim Schmidt, cousin of the bride, Mrs. Larry Dahmer and women of the Church of the Brethren.

Miss Blodgett, Hollifield Recite Vows

HANSEN — Before a setting of large baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums accented with greenery and tied with white satin bows, Carol Jean Blodgett and Terry Gene Hollifield were united in marriage.

Rev. William Heiss performed the evening ceremony Aug. 22 at the Valley Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Rex Blodgett, Moses Lake, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Hollifield, Hansen, are parents of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length Bridal Original gown of silk pique. The full cuffs, scooped neckline and high waistline were accented with French lace laced with satin ribbon. A high mantilla held the floor-length illusions which were also edged with lace. She carried a garden basket filled with dainty white roses, carnations and fine greenery. As her jewelry, the bride wore a birthstone ring of alexandrite, a gift from the bridegroom.

Serving as maid of honor was Karen Clements, sorority sister of the bride. Nancy Hollifield, sister of the bridegroom, and Ellen Montgomery, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Dick St. Clair, a fraternity brother, and Dave Blodgett were ushers.

Organ music was played by Tom Holter, Jerome. Fred Burkhalter was soloist.

A reception was held after the ceremony. The bride's color scheme of summer green continued in the decorations. The table was skirted with green satin and draped with green chiffon held by nosegays of fresh garden flowers. It was centered with a three-tiered, heart-shaped cake, topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom standing beneath lace-trimmed bells. Lime green candles in silver candelabra enhanced the decor.

The cake was cut by Mrs. A. W. Niece and Mrs. Robert Whittemore. Punch was served by Mrs. Gene McIntyre and Mrs. Robert Bolter poured coffee.

Special guests were Mrs. Anna Hollifield and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Barnard, grandparents of the bridegroom.

An open house buffet was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Montgomery, uncle and aunt of the bride, also entertained many guests at their home.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bridegroom's parents, was held at the Turf Club. A bride's luncheon was held at the Rogerson Restaurant, and hosted by the bridegroom's mother. A shower was given by the sorority sisters of the bride in Moscow and a coffee hour was held for the bride in Idaho Falls.

The bride and bridegroom are both cum laude graduates of the University of Idaho.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley and on through Washington, the couple will reside in Moscow, where the bridegroom will finish his law degree at the University of Idaho.

Senior High School Girls Invited to Participate

Area high schools have been invited to enroll their senior girls in competition for $110,000 in college scholarships, it has been announced.

General Mills, sponsor of the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow — only national scholarship program exclusively for high school senior girls — said letters have been sent to schools throughout the country, inviting them to participate in the 17th annual search.

Designed to "stress the breadth and depth of knowledge and attitudes which the American homemaker must have to fulfill her roles effectively," the Search program touches all high school curricula and "covers the full, broad scope of homemaking today," General Mills said.

A 50-minute written knowledge and attitude examination, to be administered Dec. 1 by all participating schools, will provide the basis for scholarship awards. Following grading of the test by Science Research Associates, Chicago, which also prepares the examination and is responsible for selection of school, state and national winners, a Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow will be chosen for each school. She will receive a specially designed award and her test paper will be entered in judging for state scholarships. State Homemakers of Tomorrow receive $1,500 educational grants from General Mills, with their schools awarded a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica. Second-ranking girls in each state and the District of Columbia receive $500 scholarships.

Next April, the State Homemakers of Tomorrow, each accompanied by a faculty adviser, will join for an expense-paid educational tour of Washington, D.C., and Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Climax of the event will be announcement of the 1971 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow. Chosen from the state winners on the basis of such factors as original test score and personal observation and interviews during the tour, she will receive an increase in her scholarship to $5,000.

Runners-up will also be chosen and will have their scholarships raised to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000.

A record 646,041 senior girls in 15,040 high schools were enrolled in the 1970 Search, bringing total enrollment during the 16-year history of the program to more than seven million young women. Scholarship awards total approximately $1 1/4 million.

Notice!

The Times-News finds an increasing number of stories appropriate for its women's pages. Because of the premium on available space, stories must be selected on the basis of currency.

All stories pertaining to the women's pages must be brought to the Times-News no later than two days after the meeting to be considered for publication.

Wedding pictures and stories must be in within two weeks of the wedding. As in the past, a $5 fee will be charged for two-column wedding pictures and a $2.50 fee for engagement pictures.

DEAR ABBY: We are in our fifties and our children are married, so there are just the two of us home.

A few weeks ago, while I was on a short business trip, my wife exchanged our large double bed for twin beds. I didn't raise any objections at the time, but now I wish I had.

After having slept like two spoons for more than 30 years, I didn't realize it would make such a big difference in our lives. There is something about sleeping together that seems to generate a feeling of security and reassurance, and makes life's daily problems easier to cope with.

What infuriates me is that my wife seems pleased with the new arrangement. I often go to bed so angry I have trouble falling asleep. She drops right off and sleeps like a log.

I haven't made a big deal out of it, but I have complained mildly a couple of times. I'm sure if I insisted on going back to the double bed she'd agree, but what would I gain if she did it against her wishes? Maybe you can suggest something.

DEAR CHEATED: Make a "big deal" out of it, because as far as you're concerned, it is a big deal. If you don't tell her how you feel, she won't know. [She may be flattered.] On the other hand, you may snore, hog the bed, yank the bed clothes. Talk it out and settle it. Don't just lie there, full of resentment, and feeling "cheated."

DEAR ABBY: I recently had a party at my home. My parents fully approved of it, in fact it was my mother's idea. As I had hoped, many of my friends showed up. But so did a lot of kids who were not my friends, and also a lot of kids I didn't even know. It was this uninvited group that brought beer, obstructed traffic in front of our house, littered the neighbor's yard with beer cans, and finally caused the police to come to quiet the disturbance.

Now my parents blame me for the trouble caused by that rowdy gang, and I am now grounded at night. But worst of all I have lost my parents' trust and respect. What can I do? GROUNDED IN WHEATON, MD.

DEAR GROUNDED: If your parents are holding you responsible for the misconduct of uninvited hoodlums who forced their way into your home, then they are being unreasonable. But, if you made the rowdy gang welcome when they showed up uninvited, you deserve to be grounded. It's too late now, but the police should have been called as soon as those crashers showed up and refused to leave.

DEAR ABBY: I have a thoughtful mother in law who is also very generous, but listen to this: Whenever she sends me a gift for any occasion (even Christmas) she sends the gift, with the sales slip enclosed, the price tags right on the gift, saying if I want to take it back and exchange it, it will be easier.

This doesn't seem like a gift. It's more like a donation. Don't you think part of the thrill of getting a gift is having it come all nicely gift-wrapped? DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: This is one for the "you can't win" department. Your mother in law is thoughtful, generous and practical. And you are lucky! [What do you want? Egg in your beer?]

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the letter from "SHOOK IN MONTANA" who had never heard of a shower being given for the groom: My husband's friends gave him a "bath." The host sent invitations reading, "Mable had a shower, let's give Lou a bath," and each guest brought a tool. They had a lot of fun, and the tools were very welcome.

BUHL — Wedding vows recited Aug. 22, united in marriage Patricia Ann White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. White; Buhl, and Michael Thomas Vincent Carson, Pocatello, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Carson, San Jose, Calif.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Malachy McNeill at the Buhl Catholic Church before a background of baskets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white peau de sole with a chiffon overskirt. The lace bodice was fashioned with a scooped neckline and long fitted sleeves of lace scalloped at the wrists. Her train of lace and chiffon fell from the empire waistline which was accented with a band of peau de sole and chiffon with a bow at the back.

Her elbow-length veil was held with lace petals enhanced with tiny seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of miniature white roses backed with blue net, hearts and satin streamers. She carried a handkerchief which belonged to her great-great-grandmother.

Maid of honor was Catherine White, sister of the bride. Mrs. Larry McGee, Boise, was bridesmaid and June White, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Theresa White, Boise, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Playing the traditional wedding music was Theresa Probasco, Twin Falls.

Serving as best man was Timothy Carney, Boise. Ushers were Danny Palmer, San Jose, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and K. C. Lloyd, Pocatello.

Mrs. Danny Palmer, San Jose, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book at the reception held in the multi-purpose hall of the church. Eleanor Butler, Robin Lamb, Bette Jo Watson, Boise, cousin of the bride, and Marian Carson, San Jose, sister of the bridegroom, were in charge of the gifts.

The bride's table was covered with a lace tablecloth over blue, centered with a four-tiered wedding cake. On top of the cake was a miniature bride and bridegroom under an arch of white roses and lilies of the Valley. Blue hearts and bells and scalloped fillgree accented each of the square tiers and yellow carnations and greenery encircled the base of the cake. Crystal candelabra with lighted blue tapers completed the table decorations.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Joe White, Boise, and Mrs. Robert Hall, Long Beach, Calif., aunts of the bride. Mrs. Del White, Boise, cousin of the bride, served punch and Mona Freeman, Buhl, poured coffee. Out-of-town guests attended from San Jose and Long Beach, Calif., Boise, Pocatello and Twin Falls.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley and Stanley, the couple reside in Pocatello. A lingerie shower honoring the

Fashions Lend Themselves to '70s "Free Expression"

You're sexy, zany, cute, sporty, sophisticated, fiery, elegant — you're a woman. You clothe yourself in fashions that express your moods at particular times, and change your fashion image whenever the spirit moves you. This seasons fashions, particularly pants, lend themselves beautifully to free expression. So... let your imagination run wild with fall's freshest offerings, especially created for the new liberated you!

Begin your exploration in sportive Spanish style, choose an attenuated waistcoat and needle slim buttoned blouses, or softly striped flair leg slacks with neat matador bolero. When tempted by the great outdoors, go country casual in tunics with a tweedy look over cuffed slacks or tailored stove-pipers teamed to a fragile flowered blouse. Knickers go kicky and the very newest sport teeny baby prints appear as sleek solids teamed to scallop print tailored shirts. There's also a mood for military neatly expressed in a casual hip-riding battle jacket and matched button front slacks.

Fabric houses such as Cone Mills are as adaptable to change as the women they style for and fill their dealers with such fabrics as corduroy in marvelous chunky wales, adorable pin whale baby prints and sleek, velvety looking solids. All washable and easy to care for. John Wolf senses softness and offers brilliant solid and striped chenilles, European look acrylics and femininely interpreted crepe shirtings, adding an easy, fluid touch to sportswear.

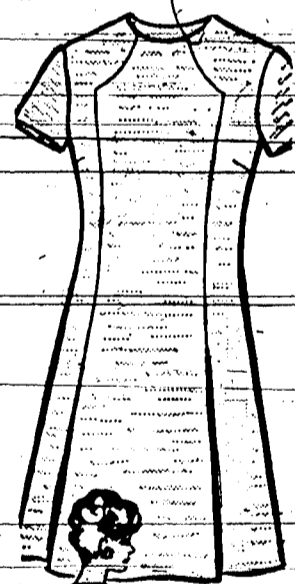

Accessories are an excellent way to individualize your special outfit. Caps and scarves by Betmar interpret the hand made crochet look in lovely jewel tones. Shoes fill a myriad of moods and go strapped, buckled, buttoned in great new collections by Nina and Latinas. Wrap up your hair and waist in earthy suede and leather strips by Ruza Creations and show the world the new liberated you.

Shoshone Miss Is Bride Of 2,500 Teen-Agers

John Arrate

Attend Laurel Meet

SHOSHONE — Christina Guerricabeitia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Guerricabeitia, Shoshone, became the bride of John Arrate, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benito Arrate, Spain, in a ceremony at St. Peter's Catholic Church Aug. 22.

Rev. Father Santos Recalde performed the double ring ceremony before the altar decorated with orange gladioli and white chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white bridal gown accented with a shoulder-length Spanish mantilla. She wore a rose gold cross belonging to an aunt. Her bridal bouquet, of white carnations and white roses, was shaped like a heart.

A cousin, Alicia Eden, was bridesmaid and the bridegroom's brother, Ignacio Arrate, was best man. Robert and Thomas Haddock were altar boys.

Mrs. Claude Chess was organist and Mrs. Reid Newby was soloist.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall after the ceremony. The three-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table, flanked with orange blossoms.

Mrs. Joe Lete served the cake. Punch was poured by Mrs. Michael Urrutia, with Mrs. Bernard Guenechea pouring coffee.

The gift table was handled by Gloria Faught, the bride's sister, and registering the guests was Mrs. Darwin E. Fata.

Depot Grill, Twin Falls, catered the wedding supper.

The couple will return to their home in Emmett after a month's wedding trip to Spain.

Shower Held

SHOSHONE — A baby shower was given for Michael John Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wallace, Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Keith. Mrs. Everett Kidner and Mrs. Hardy Thompson were co-hostesses.

The color theme followed was yellow and white. Refreshments were served and a social hour held. A special guest was the baby's great-grandmother, Mrs. L.L. Magoffin. There were 15 other guests present.

PROVO, Utah — More than 2,500 spirited teen-agers were returning to their homes in the U.S. and Canada this weekend after helping make the first Laurel Conference in the history of the LDS Church a roaring success.

The girls attending the five-day conference took positive stances on current social issues, stressing the importance of obeying laws and supporting duly-elected leaders, as well as becoming involved in problems affecting their teen-age group.

The girls are the 16 and 17 year-old girls age group of the church's youth program, enrolled in its Young Women's Mutual Improvement Association (YWMA).

Among the Magic Valley girls participating in the conference were Vicki Burby, Joy Felton, Charlene Stout, Joyce Thompson, Marilyn Van Noy, Barbara Watts, Esther Mauss, Sandra Casperson, Caren Crane, Laura Jo Darrington, Debra Hutcheson, Machel Wiser and Charlene Casperson.

Award Given

RICHFIELD — Mrs. Lyle Deeds won the August hair styling award as best loser of the month for the Richfield Diet Does It unit of T.O.P.S. Mrs. W.T. Flavel received the treasure chest gift for the week.

POLLY'S POINTERS Discarded Bicycle Basket Makes Milk, Bread Rack

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Ruth, whose plastic raincoat needs shoulder seam repair, should use plastic tape made for repairing children's swimming pools. It works fine, is easy to apply and is water-repellent. Just pull off backing and stick it on. —MRS. W.

DEAR POLLY — Ruth could buy plastic, clothlike tape to repair her raincoat seam. This tape comes in many colors, but transparent can be used. Use a width that will cover the seam. I would apply this inside and outside the coat to make it more secure. —MRS. A. G.

DEAR POLLY — A handy rack for milk and bread deliveries can be made by attaching a discarded bicycle basket next to the back door. This is also handy for holding packages while you unlock the door. —JEFF

DEAR POLLY — I use a plastic clothespin bag as a litter bag in my car. I snap a clothespin on the bag and when I turn on car headlights during the day I snap this clothespin on the ignition key. I never forget and leave the lights on while parked. —CLAUDEAN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I have been lengthening my dresses as ordered by the fashion czars. Previously they had been shortened with ironed-on hem tape. I warned it with the iron and on some dresses it pulled right off. On others a fine line of adhesive remains. Can someone tell me how to remove this? MRS. G. E.

DEAR POLLY — When baking sugar cookies, use a juice can, with both ends cut out, as a cutter. Before removing can from each cookie, sprinkle sugar through open end to keep it on the cookie. When I need more rack space for cooling cakes, I use inverted muffin tins. —LOIS

Import Cars Hit Italy

TURIN (UPI)—Italy's automobile industry, dominated by the huge Fiat Co. in Turin, has been hit by a foreign car invasion worse than the one in the United States.

But the cause is quite different in Italy. Take the case of Aldo Zambulli. The 33-year old paint shop owner in Rome took $2,870 to a Fiat dealer early this summer and tried to buy a car. Zambulli was told he would have to wait until September. He bought a Ford.

All of a sudden, Italy, in the most prosperous era of her history, seems to be full of Aldo Zambullis wanting to buy Fiats, Lancias or Alfa-Romeos, and they can't.

So they are buying French Simcas controlled by Chrysler, German Opels controlled by General Motors, British Fords or Japanese cars. Imports of cars into Italy jumped 39 per cent to about 25 per cent of the domestic market in Italy last year, compared with the 16.5 per cent imported cars have grabbed of the U.S. market.

Fiat has seen its share of the Italian market drop from 70 to 60 per cent. Its output, which dropped 80,000 cars in 1969 to under 1.3 million, was down another 98,000 for the first half of this year.

Experts say the demand for new cars is so great in Italy that "the market outlook is so bright it glows in the dark."

So what's stopping Fiat and the other Italian makers from satisfying that demand?

One cause is a raw material shortage. Italy's auto industry has to import practically all materials. All the Italians put into the automobile is engineering skill and design creativity. Another cause is reduction of tariffs inside the European Common Market. Fiat, Alfa-Romeo, Lancia, etc., cannot have as much tariff protection as formerly against French and German cars. Another is pressure from the government to keep auto exports high to earn foreign exchange for Italy.

But experts agree that all these are less important than strikes and other social-political growing pains besetting Italian industry.

Strikes have slashed Fiat's production dramatically. Of the 1.3 million cars the company made in 1969, it sold 583,000 abroad. Fiat hopes to open two new plants by 1972 and Alfa-Romeo plans a new factory with a capacity of 300,000 cars a year.

Meanwhile, Italians buy foreign cars, and Fiat and Alfa-Romeo dealers worry.

Hudson's Bay Traps at 300

LONDON (UPI)—The Hudson's Bay Company, which once held royal title to 1.5 million square miles of North America, is 300 years old and still selling those beaver skins.

It remains the world's largest fur trading company although it is no longer "true and absolute Lord and Proprietor" of all that land.

Headquarters in London since Charles II granted it a Royal Charter on May 2, 1670, the Hudson's Bay Company has had to give way to British tax pressures.

On May 28, 1970, the Governor and company of adventurers of England trading into Hudson's Bay" officially shifted headquarters to Winnipeg, Canada.

Sir Winston Churchill was once a Grand Seigneur of the Hudson's Bay Company, credited in the history books with helping to open up and develop the North American continent. Only the company's sales rooms remain in London and it is there that the 300th anniversary was marked with a special exhibition depicting its history.

The Hudson's Bay Company explorers ranged as far as America's Pacific Northwest. But today its holdings are entirely in Canada.

More than 98 per cent of the company's 15,000 employees work in Canada, where Hudson's Bay Company general stores and wholesale tobacco distribution are major sources of income.

Fur remains the company's backbone. It handles more than 6 million pelts each trading season.

The furs brought back by the ketch Nonsuch on the 1669 voyage that proved the worth of such a trade venture were sold at auction for about $20,000 in the money of that time.

Last February, Hudson's Bay Company sold almost $3 million worth of furs in one auction.

Beaver skins still rank high among the furs sold.

The popularity of beaver fur hats in the 17th century motivated the exploration of North America by the Hudson's Bay traders.

The diarist Samuel Pepys recorded that such a hat in the 1670s cost the then-princely sum of about $10. Today, the cost would be about $125.

Traffic Nightmarish In Johannesburg Rush

JOHANNESBURG (UPI)—Screeching brakes and tinkling glass are prevalent night sounds in Johannesburg. Traffic accidents have become a major headache in South Africa's largest city.

Visitors to Johannesburg often say the city's drivers seem to have a death wish behind the wheel—when they are not caught in the cross-city crawl where speeds of only half a mile per hour are common.

They speed. They are too quick to take chances, they are impatient, they signal right and then turn left. So the visitors say.

Johannesburg drivers dispute such observations but many admit to be in the running for the title of "Tastest Finger on the Reef." This refers to the time lag between a traffic light turning green and the driver behind honking his horn. It is a popular game.

The Department of Statistics said 494 persons died in traffic accidents in Johannesburg during 1969. It said 6,606 persons died in road accidents throughout the country during the same year.

The accident problem is not confined to major cities like Johannesburg with its population of 1.1 million.

Its scope is best reflected by a comparison with 1968 traffic fatality figures for Britain, which has the most densely used roads in Europe—one vehicle on every 75 feet of 203,000 miles of roadway.

During 1968 Britain recorded 6,810 traffic deaths. An average of 19 persons died on its roads each day.

In the first six months of 1970 an average of 17 persons died daily in South African road accidents. In 1969 the figure was about 20 a day.

J. P. Mamber, president of the South African Automobile Association, said the overall cost of the country's 1969 traffic accidents involving fatalities—5,928 of them—was some $844 million.

South Africa has become so complacent about automobile accidents that the daily crashes involving human deaths seldom make headlines anymore. But newspapers related in detail the recent accident in which a truck carrying racing pigeons was involved in a collision. At least 39 pigeons were killed and 12 of them injured, the newspapers reported. They quoted pigeon fanciers as saying the other 6,000 birds in the truck suffered shock and could not race again for at least three weeks.

The driver of the truck, an African, suffered a concussion.

There are about 1.8 million motor vehicles in South Africa—nearly half the motor vehicles on all of the African continent. They are driven on 15,000 miles of surfaced roads and 100,000 miles of unsurfaced roadways.

Britain has 14.3 million cars on its 203,900 miles of roads.

Few persons in Johannesburg own cars that are not dented by clumsy parking or minor accidents. A comic strip called "T.J." after Johannesburg's license registration letters lampoons fast drivers in the daily press.

Mounted Police Stage Comeback

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (UPI)—Mounted police may be making a comeback.

This is the opinion of Denis Ayres of the U.S. Park Service Police who is training rangers in Yosemite national park how to control crowds from horseback.

"Back east in the metropolitan areas the horse is being used more and more," he said. "New York City has 300 mounted patrolmen out daily. For years in police work the horse went down in popularity, but now everybody is screaming for them."

He said a horseman can move into traffic jams more easily than men in cruisers and the mounted policeman has a better vantage point for surveying a situation than the man in a car or the foot patrolman.

And he thinks the horse is a valuable public relations asset.

While incidents involving objects thrown at police cars are increasing, he said few such cases involve police on mounts.

Old Wives' Tales Still Touch Eyes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ophthalmology has made great strides in the detection and treatment of eye disorders and countless words have been written about them, yet there are many popular misconceptions about the eyes, says a specialist.

One, according to Dr. Robert H. Pfeiffer, consultant in ophthalmology to the Society for Visual Care, is that eyes can be damaged by overuse. Not so, says Pfeiffer, adding that the conductive elements essential to sight are not working any harder when reading than when gazing out the window.

Another misconception, he says, is that the child with perfect eyesight is the best student. The myopic (nearsighted) child, he says, may achieve greater academic success and have greater reading ability.

Pfeiffer lists other popular beliefs he says are not supported by the facts: Children will outgrow cross eyes.

False: In some cases, the crossed eyes (when the eye turns in) can improve with age. In most cases, however, where the eyes turn out, they will become worse with time unless proper treatment is instituted. —Glasses will change the eyes and make them progressively worse.

False: This belief arises where there is loss of accommodation, usually between the ages of 40 and 50 years. The condition will progress with or without eyeglasses.

Hoffman, Hermiston, Ore., herdman for the Stone Hereford Ranch. This bull is a grandson of T. T. MCK Commander 82, currently the leading Hereford bull of the American Hereford Assn., in carcass and feedlot judging.

State Hereford Show Included In Twin Falls Fair Activities

FILER — There's a whole new aspect in beef cattle displays, at the Twin Falls County Fair this year. For the first time in Idaho, a state Hereford show will be featured in conjunction with the county fair exhibits. There will also be the first world's claiming class for bulls and an open to the world fat steer show and carcass judging event.

Herschel Boydston, chairman of the state show, said 120 of the top bulls around the country have been consigned and most have already arrived for the Hereford show which begins Wednesday at 8:30 a. m. and continues until 3 p. m.

The first time any county fair has featured such an event, this will be one of the highlights of the livestock activities this year and probably will continue as part of the county's future fairs. Boydston said. Floyd Morrison, Murtaugh, livestock division superintendent, said it may also mean Twin Falls County's 1971 fair will include the big national-roving Hereford Show of the American Hereford Association. This event has been offered the county and if brought here it will be the first time it has been shown this far west. It would bring some 400 to 500 top exhibits from around the country.

Sponsored by the Idaho State Hereford Assn., this year's show will feature a number of special awards and trophies. Competition will include top Herefords from all parts of Idaho as well as Oregon, Montana and Utah. One of the top entries is from the national champion-producing Stone Hereford Ranch, Hermiston, Ore. This breeder has entered 14 bulls including one which has been selected to enter the "20-Grand Sale" held annually at Kansas City in which the entries are judged by some 1,000 persons attending the event and the 20 top entries are then sold at record prices. Stone entries have been selected a number of times for the national event.

Something new, not only for Twin Falls County, but the first time on a world-wide basis, is the claiming class in which 21 outstanding Hereford bulls are being offered. These are divided into price classes of $500, $600, $700 and $800 with a jackpot from entries of four per cent on the claiming price of each bull going to the top selling animals. The buyer not only gets the bull of his choice but he takes all of the trophies and awards the animal has won.

Morrison said interest in the beef cattle division of the fair has reached an all-time high this year.

"This kind of activity is good for our local cattle industry. Events of this type give the breeder an opportunity to see what kind of bulls the commercial cattleman here wants," he said.

Among those at the fairgrounds Tuesday to watch the start of judging was Joann Sellman, Watrous, N. M., secretary of the American Junior Hereford Assn. Miss Sellman said she was especially proud of the many top junior exhibitors who will be competing in junior events as well as open competition in the Twin Falls County event.

Homecoming Slated At Declo Saturday

DECLO — Final plans are under way for the Declo Homecoming events Saturday sponsored by the Declo Alumni Association.

The first event will get under way at 1:30 p. m. the football game between Declo and Hagerman at the Budge Field, Burley.

The displays in the various room at the Declo school will be open from 3:30 to 7 p. m. which will be also a good time to renew acquaintances with old friends and former classmates.

A buffet banquet will be served at 7 p. m. in the Declo LDS Church by the Declo Kiwanis Club. Following the banquet Harold (Hank) Anderson, a former Declo resident, will entertain the group with a magic act.

A short business meeting will be conducted by Denton Darrington, president of the Declo Alumni Association. Other officers are Mrs. Mavis Matthews, vice president; Mrs. Mary Lou Kelsey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Elaine Anderson, recording secretary, and LeRoy Darrington, director.

The homecoming dance will begin at 9:30 p. m. in the Declo gymnasium.

Benson Seeking Post at Jerome

JEROME — A former Idaho attorney general Frank L. Benson, Jerome, reported today he will be a candidate for Jerome county prosecuting attorney on the Democratic ticket, creating a three-way race in the Nov. 3 general election.

Benson, who served in the state post from 1959 to 1963, said he has accepted the endorsement of the Democratic central committee. He has been in private law practice in Jerome the past five years. After he was defeated in the primary election for re-nomination as attorney general in 1962, he made an unsuccessful bid for supreme court justice.

Benson will oppose S. A. Kolman, Republican incumbent who is seeking re-election, and Gene Fredericksen, Jerome, who announced last week he will seek the county attorney post as an independent candidate on the basis of write-in BURLEY — The Mini-Cassia Community Concert Association annual membership drive opened today and will run through Friday, officers of the association report.

Headquarters for the drive are at Wood Music Center, 1214 Overland Ave., and the phone number is 678-7537.

Four concerts are planned for this year and admittance to the concerts is by membership only. This week's membership drive is the only opportunity offered for joining the association.

Concerts planned will include the Robert Decormier Folk Singers, and the Music of Don Shirley, the accomplished pianist with his instrumental ensemble. The remaining two concerts will be selected at the close of the membership drive.

Volunteer workers will be calling on residents to offer membership in the association. Persons not contacted who are interested in joining the association are invited to phone the Reminder, the Flower Pot, Guys and Dolls or Wood Music, all Burley; or the Music Shop or the Lantern Boutique, both Rupert.

Winners Listed for Rodeo

KETCHUM — The first four-wheel-drive "rodeo" ever held in Ketchum over the weekend attracted 50 drivers from as far away as Portland, Ore., and at least 500 spectators.

Merchandise prizes were donated by Ketchum Drug; gift certificates were given winners by Jeep Sales Corp., and cash awards were distributed from entry fees.

In Saturday's slalom event, the best driver overall was Dr. Max Thompson of Ketchum; second was David Freer, Boise, and third best overall was Max Castle, Ontario, Ore. Individual slalom classifications and winners included Class A, Castle, first, and Rex Zollinger, Ogden, Utah, second; Class B, Freer, first, and E. W. Landvatter, Aberdeen, second; Class C, Dr. Thompson, first and Dean Grebb, Portland, second, and Class D, John Sawak, Ketchum, first, and Dick Ellis, Boise, second.

In distance hill climbing, Zollinger was judged best overall driver; Castle was second, and Jerry Castonguay, Portland, was third. In Class A, Zollinger and Castle ranked first and second; Class B, Don Drake, address unknown, was first, and Ron Bishop of Hagerman, second; Class C, Castonguay, first; and Dr. Thompson, second; Class D, Ellis, first, and Jerry Dickard, first, second.

In the timed hill climb event, Pinkie Stane, Ketchum, ranked first; Freer was second and Bishop was third. Class A in the timed event saw Pinkie Stane the only winner, taking first; Class B, Freer, first; Bishop, second; Class C, Castonguay, first; Dr. Thompson, second; Class D, Ellis, first; Terry Malarkey, Sun Valley, second.

In the quarter-mile dash, Freer was best overall; Dr. Thompson, second, and Castonguay, third. Class A, no entrants; Class B, Freer, first; Landvatter, second; Class C, Dr. Thompson, first; Castonguay, second.

In Sunday's events, closed oval, Rick Short, Ketchum, was first; Delbert Ware, Boise, second; D. R. Schnitker, Gooding, third. There were no Class A entrants. In Class B, John Barrutia, Boise, was first and Dale Werper, Ontario, Ore., came in second; Class C, Short, first; Ware, second, and Castonguay, third; Class D, Schnitker, first; Ellis, second, and Dickard, third.

In Sunday's cross-country race, V-6 division, Ed Lytle, Ketchum, was first; Freer, second, and Werner, third. In the four-and-six-cylinder division, Castonguay was first; Short, second, and Dr. Thompson, third.

Highway Status Studied

JEROME — A meeting is planned soon with state highway department officials and Jerome county highway personnel regarding a proposal for the county to assume maintenance of the stretch of Interstate 80N which will open soon between Bliss and King Hill.

State highway officials in Boise today explained the new nine-mile stretch which is nearing completion still does not meet federal regulations yet to open as an Interstate.

So they are asking the Jerome Highway district to assume responsibility so the new section can be opened for public use.

Once all the standards are met, with completed work, the stretch will again revert to federal highway status.

Owner of Auto Nabs Suspect

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man was arrested late Monday in connection with the theft of a car stereo unit and was scheduled to be arraigned today on a charge of first degree burglary.

Twin Falls Police said James Balles, 19, was taken into custody by Howard Lanny Parks, owner of the stereo and the car from which the stereo allegedly was stolen.

Balles remained in the city jail in lieu of posting bond.

Cardinal Cushing Resigns

BOSTON (UPI) — Pope Paul VI today accepted the resignation of Cardinal Richard J. Cushing, the son of an Irish immigrant blacksmith who became a prince of the Roman Catholic Church, as archbishop of Boston.

"I'm too weak and too old to carry on," said the cardinal, an intimate friend of the Kennedy family. The resignation was accepted two weeks and a day after Cushing turned 75.

The Pope appointed Bishop Humberto S. Medeiros as Cushing's successor. Medeiros has been bishop of Brownsville, Tex.

Boston-born Cushing, one of the leading church liberals in the United States, turned 75 last month. The Pope four years ago recommended that bishops offer their resignation to him when they reach that age.

Cushing had held the Boston post since 1944.

Medeiros, 55, is a native of the Portuguese Azores. He has been bishop of Brownsville since 1966.

New Constitution Drafted For U.S.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — A non-profit research organization has developed a new model for a U.S. Constitution which would radically change the present one, a document it describes as "primitive in the extreme."

The 10,000-word, 11-article model Constitution was drafted by Rexford G. Tugwell, political scientist and Professor Emeritus of Columbia University and once a member of President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "Brains Trust" of advisors. He wrote it after more than six years of meetings and consultations with staff members and fellows at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions and experts in many fields.

Among innovations, it recommends a single nine-year term for Presidents and the grouping of states into "Republics" as political subdivisions.

The model Constitution, appearing in the latest issue of the Center magazine, offers a number of changes, that its authors believe are more relevant to a modern democratic society.

Burley Drive-in Opens

BURLEY — The New Dairy Queen at 2200 Overland Ave., is now open for business. A grand opening this fall is in the planning stages, according to Mrs. Alice Haycock, manager.

The brick structure has 2,900 square feet and includes a black-topped parking lot which will handle 44 cars. The Dairy Queen is a franchise name and is one of over 4,000 Dairy Queen's throughout the globe.

The building in Burley is one of the new type designed and being introduced by Dairy Queen, Reno, Nev., has a building similar to the new building constructed here.

There are no car hops. Customers drive in and can order from their cars by a two-way address system or can park their cars and come inside, order, and serve themselves. Booths inside will handle 68 persons.

Employed at the new Dairy Queen besides Mrs. Haycock, are 20 girls, mainly high school students, eight working each shift.

The Dairy Queen is open from 10 a. m. to 11 p. m. Monday Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; 10 a. m. to midnight on Friday and Saturday; and 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. on Sunday.

Also located on the north side of the Dairy Queen are self-service gas pumps which are open at 8 a. m. during the week and close the same hours as the cafe.

Mrs. Haycock attended a two weeks' training session in Minneapolis, Minn., prior to the opening of the Dairy Queen.

NEW BRICK STRUCTURE at 2200 Overland Avenue, Burley, houses the Dairy Queen which is now open for business. Mrs. Alice Haycock, manager, said a grand opening is planned for later this fall. The building is similar to a new one built in Reno, Nev., by the Dairy Queen chain. Some 20 girls are employed at the drive-in.

Burley Boy Treated In Mishap

BURLEY — A Burley boy was treated and released from Cassia Memorial Hospital Monday afternoon following a car-bicycle accident east of Burley.

Idaho State Police said Ricky Clark was injured when struck by a car-bicycle drive-in by Karen E. Hall, 28, Burley. The bicycle and the car both were traveling west on U. S. Highway 30 about six miles from Burley.

The accident still is under investigation.

Minton Dismisses Charges

BOISE (UPI) — State Commerce Secretary Albert E. Minton dismissed without comment Monday a young campaign worker's charge of attempted intimidation.

"I don't attach any significance to it," Minton said, declining comment on a letter to the editor (of the Idaho Statesman) by Patrick Kurdy, a senior at Capital High School.

Kurdy wrote that Minton confronted him and another Capital High student while they were putting up posters for Cecil Andrus, Democratic nominee for governor, demanding to know their names.

He said Minton at one point walked around to the front of his truck and wrote down the license number. He said the state official — an appointee of Republican Gov. Don Samuelson — discussed the campaign with the boys for about 45 minutes.

"Mr. Minton labeled Cecil Andrus with several names, none of which bear repeating, and all of which do not have enough merit to warrant a reply," Kurdy wrote.

In his letter, Kurdy asked why Minton acted as he did — trying to learn the names of the two boys.

"Was it merely an attempt to intimidate two teen-age campaign workers, or was it for fear of the possible loss of your job?" the youth asked.

Minton, whose most recent performance was staged before a congressional subcommittee at the Sun Valley Opera House, declined comment on the letter. He said he wrote a reply "but for some reason it was not printed."

"The reason was that on the envelope it was marked 'personal and confidential' in capital letters so we assumed he didn't want it printed," said Ken Robinson, editorial page editor.

Kurdy said the incident occurred on Bonbus Basin Road in Boise during early August and after the primary election. He said Minton pulled up in a large car, lowered the window and "hotly" demanded the names of the boys.

"He didn't make any serious threats," Kurdy said in an interview, "but he did kind of scare us because he did come on awfully strong."

"We said, 'Please tell us why, when he asked for our names and he said, 'I was just interested. Didn't you know that you're not supposed to be putting up signs on a telephone pole?'"

"We hadn't put up our signs yet and there were Samuelson signs on all the poles," Kurdy said.

He said they spoke for a few moments and then Minton ran around his truck to get the license number. He said he and his companion asked Minton why he was acting this way.

"We asked would he rather we'd be out destroying public or private property instead of just sticking up for a man we believed would do a good job of running the State of Idaho," Kurdy said.

"After that it cooled down an awful lot then we started talking about what he was doing in the White Clouds. He mentioned he was sticking up for going into the White Clouds."

"He also mentioned he was going to Sun Valley for a hearing," Kurdy said. "At this time I didn't have any idea it would turn out like it did (with a subcommittee chairman gaveling Minton down)."

Kurdy told Minton the main reason he was campaigning for Andrus was the Democratic nominee's stand on ecology.

"He asked if we realized politicians sometimes say something and don't mean it," Kurdy said. "He said preserving the White Clouds doesn't mean a thing when a politician says this because the federal government controls it."

Pigeon Fancier Has Flock Of 250

By LASZLO K. DOMJAN ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Dr. Samuel Peavey is a man who knows and loves his pigeons.

Some pigeons, he says, are excellent delicacies. Others are meant to be bred toward perfection.

Peavey, a professor of education at the University of Louisville (Ky.) likes pigeons so much, he keeps about 250 of them in the double garage of his home in Louisville.

"It's a hobby that's been with me since I was seven years old," he said. "A person should have a hobby that he can take with him throughout his life — something that he doesn't outgrow."

Peavey is president of the National Pigeon Association, which has headquarters in Watertown, Wis.

He was in town to attend the first convention of a yet-nonexistent group called the "American Pigeon Fanciers Coordinating Council."

The council, if it gets organized, would be a loose federation of such organizations as the American Pigeon Club, United Pigeon Fanciers, International Pigeon Fanciers, United National Federation of Racing Pigeons and Peavey's own group.

Peavey estimates that there are "roughly one million" pigeon fanciers in the United States.

His National Pigeon Association has a membership of nearly 1,000, he said. The group stresses pigeon breeding for exhibition purposes, and regularly sponsors pigeon exhibitions.

"It's an unending challenge to keep trying to improve the standards of excellence and breed pigeons toward perfection, which, of course, can never be attained," Peavey said.

"Through breeding of pigeons, you can perform genetic miracles. Pigeons are extremely easy to cross breed and you can get pretty birds of magnificent colors or you can get funny looking ones."

Not all pigeon fanciers are interested in breeding or exhibiting the birds, however.

"By far the largest groups of pigeon fanciers are the racing pigeon organizations," Peavey said.

Whereas he has paid $100 or even $200 for a well-bred pigeon, Peavey said racing pigeons sometimes command prices of "thousands of dollars."

Pigeons are also raised to be served as "one of the finest tasting meats that can be found," he said.

And, of course, there is a pigeon-breeding industry which raises the birds simply as pets for people who don't like to race, cross-breed or eat bird meat.

Peavey doesn't defend those street pigeons that are a nuisance in many cities.

"Street pigeons should be controlled, but this does not mean that all pigeons are bad," he said.

Gains for natural gas

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — Of America's three major fuels, natural gas made the greatest increase in use during recent decades, according to a geological survey conducted under direction of the Illinois State Department of Registration and Education.

The Gas Supply Manufacturers Association says the survey also revealed that while energy consumption from all sources grew 82 per cent in a 10-year period, gas consumption rose 324 per cent.

Mistake Seen in Plane Explosion

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The Pan American jumbo jet blown up in Cairo may have become the major victim of Sunday's four airliner hijackings by mistake, airport officials said today.

They said they believed the giant jet was never included in the original plans.

They said they believed it was hijacked only after two suspicious, swarthy male passengers were not allowed to board an El Al flight leaving Amsterdam for New York.

Two Arab guerrillas, a man and a woman, tried to hijack the El Al flight which landed in London.

"Two dark-skinned passengers, of whom we were suspicious, were not allowed to board the El Al flight from Amsterdam," an airline official said today. "What we did not know then was that the two other guerrillas were already aboard."

"Our information is that these two passengers then boarded the jumbo and subsequently it was hijacked and destroyed. At the moment we cannot prove they were the hijackers beyond all reasonable doubt. But we are pretty sure we are right. The jumbo was hit by mischance."

UAW Claims Offer 'Doubles' Foes

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers union says its price-for-a-contract settlement with the big three auto makers is "more than double" the initial wage offer made by the companies last week. That translates to a more than $1.20 increase per hour.

UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser put the "more than double" figure on the wage demands Sunday following a series of subcommittee negotiations at Chrysler Corp., one of the two strike targets selected by the union if no agreement is reached by midnight, Sept. 14. Only eight days of bargaining remain before the deadline.

Nudes Vie For Title of Beauty Queen

FRELTON, Ont. (UPI) — It was a beauty contest like any other beauty contest except the finalist wore no clothes.

The "Miss Nude World" pageant may sound exciting to some but I was there and I was not impressed. When you've seen one group of 1,000 naked people, you've seen them all.

The non-nudist jury picked as "Miss Nude World" Miss Ronda Lee Stallan, a 21-year-old Toronto bookkeeper, who stands 5'11" in her unstockinged feet, weighs 110 pounds, and measures 36-24-36.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock, appearing on national television from Washington a few hours earlier Sunday, said a strike in the auto industry would be "bad for the country." He said he hoped a settlement could be reached before the deadline. He refused to put a dollar figure on the wage increase demand, but said the union's demands were "well within" the range of settlements reached earlier in other industries. He cited the Teamsters union, which settled for $1.85 hourly wage increases over three years plus fringe benefits, and the New York Times printers union, which won a 41 per cent increase.

There were more Mrs. than Misses in the Miss Nude World contest with 10 of the finalists being married women. Their husbands are nudists too and were present at the judging.

Phosphate Firms Seek To Save Mining Sites

Runnersup to Miss Stallan were Mrs. Barbara Uldricks, 27, a mother of four from Burlington, Ont., and Mrs. Annette Greef of Hamilton, Ont.

Asked if she was embarrassed, Miss Ruth Newberg of Hamilton, Ont., replied, "No, you have nothing to hide when you're a nudist."

Miss Stallan won two trophies topped by nude female figures, one of carved wood and the other of gold-finish metal, a trip to Florida for two, and some clothing.

SODA SPRINGS, Idaho (UPI) — Ken Dittmer, minerals staff assistant for the Caribou Forest, said Sunday four phosphate firms and the Caribou National Forest are trying to restore surface mining sites.

He said the Forest Service called a meeting in 1965 and asked phosphate industrialists if they would be interested in doing studies on methods of rehabilitating mining sites.

J. R. Stimpert, Monsanto, FMC Corp., and El Paso Natural Gas have been doing some 716 test plots at the sites.

Murphy Holds Off Challenge To Win Hartford Tourney

WEATHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI)—Bob Murphy, setting a sizzling pace too hard to follow in the first three rounds, held off a challenge by veteran Paul Harney to win the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open by four strokes with a 17-under par 267 that gave him his best score as a pro and his first tourney win since 1968.

Murphy, who shot three successive rounds of 66, had a 2-under par 69, as he beat Harney, of Sutton, Mass., to capture the $20,000 first prize and earn a Cadillac automobile. Harney, an occasional player on the tour, had a final 67 for a 271 total and Tom Weiskopf carded a 67 to win third money at 272.

Steve Opperman of Newark, Calif., who trailed Murphy by four strokes going into the final round, finished with a par 71 for an 11-under 273. He was tied with Jimmy Grant, the hometown favorite who fired a second round 64 and shot a 69 Monday.

Tied at 274 were PGA champion Dave Stockton, who had a final 66, and dapper Doug Sanders, who fired a 68. Bunched at 275 were first round leader Pete Brown, Dean Beman, Horneras Blancas, Billy Maxwell and Grier Jones.

At 276 were defending champion Bob Lunn, with a one-under-par 70; Charles Coody, who had the tourney low of 63 in the second round; Rocky Thompson; Bob Goalby; Mike Hill, Jim Jaleson and Chuck Courtney.

Murphy's score was one short of the GHO record of 266 and his 267 equalled the 1970 low 72-hole score for the tournament record set by Dave Hill in the Memphis Open.

The Brooklyn Irishman's 17-under-par equalled most strokes under par set by Lunn at the Citrus Invitational this year and tied by Gary Player in the Greensboro Open.

Among a group at 277 were Citrus Open winner Bob Stone, Monsanto Open champ Dick Lotz, Lee Graham, Bunky Henry, Lew Elder, Dave Marr and Bert Greene. Former U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino had a 70 to tie Herb Hooper at 278, six under par.

Paul Moran, the first round co-leader who has been on the tour just 19 months, ended with a 279. Another opening round leader, Jim Colbert, had a 281. Murphy and Harney, playing head to head in the last two rounds, parred the first hole.

Harney, wearing a four-leaf clover on his jersey, birdied the par five second hole to get within five shots of Murphy. Both parred the next three holes, but Murphy went six ahead with a birdie on the sixth. They matched birds on the seventh and finished the front nine with 33's.

Lightning Kills 2 In Prep Drill

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—A bolt of lightning, flashing without warning out of gathering clouds, struck a high school football team huddling on a practice field Monday, killing two players and knocking down a field full of other players and spectators.

Twenty players besides the two fatally injured by the lightning were treated at hospitals, mostly for minor injuries. One remained in poor condition.

The lightning struck during a scrimmage of the all-black team at the predominantly Negro Gibbs High School on St. Petersburg's south side. It was not raining at the time of the thunderclap flash, shortly before noon, but clouds were gathering.

"There was no warning," said head coach and athletic director Al Campbell, one of those treated. "Usually we leave the field when lightning threatens."

The fatally injured were identified as Vincent Williams, 16, a 6-foot, 11-inch, 165-pound sophomore quarterback, and 6-foot-2, 210-pound Robert Newton, a tackle on both offense and defense, also in his teens. Bruce Chapman, 16, was reported in poor condition at a hospital following the lightning strike. Admitted for treatment but then released from the hospital were assistant coach Herbert P. Dixon, 27, Eugene Rose, 16, and Glenn Davis, another player.

"We were practicing when a dark cloud came overhead. The offensive unit was in the huddle," said Campbell.

"I heard a loud clapping noise. Everybody was knocked down—the players, the coaches and the spectators. I rushed to my car and called the fire and police department," Campbell said he has a telephone in his car.

"I went back on the field and began giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation," Campbell continued.

St. Petersburg policeman David Kaufman said that when he arrived he found players and spectators sprawled over the field. He began showing some of the players how to give mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to their felled buddies.

Jenkins, who was officiating at the scrimmage, said, "I heard flashes 'way out in the distance, like it was on the Gulf beaches (about 10 miles distant). Then, boom. It brought both my jaws together. I just threw up my hands. I heard the coach say, 'Hit the ground.' Then someone yelled, 'Come see about Robert.'"

There were about 2,600 spectators at the Labor Day workout.

Both Allison and Yarborough went out of the race in the last 50 miles and Baker coasted home in his Dodge a lap ahead of Bobby Isaac, also in a Dodge.

Baker averaged 128.817 mph hour to take the win in the race. Yarborough, who led for 35 laps, went out on lap 331 when he tried to catch Baker on the third turn. His car ended up on the inside guardrail and he was sent to the hospital for observation. Yarborough was not believed to be injured.

Allison, from Hueytown, Ala., went out 15 laps later when he hit the wall for the second time in the day.

In third place was Pete Hamilton of Dedham, Mass.

David Pearson of Spartanburg finished fourth and Richard Petty came in fifth. Pearson, who started in the pole position, had trouble all day with the second turn and never really challenged.

Baker, from Charlotte, N.C., first grabbed the lead from Yarborough on the 233rd lap but lost it on the next lap.

After several more exchanges, Yarborough lost the lead for good on the 251st lap and it was Baker's race. Baker gave up the lead briefly to Isaac during a pit stop but quickly regained it to go in for the win.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Distinctive, an 18-1 outsider, broke on top and led the rest of the way to win the second running of the $116,800 Governor Nicolls Stakes at Belmont Park before a Labor Day crowd of 65,028.

Ridden by Walter Blum, the 4-year-old son of Never Bend-Precious Lady was a half length in front of Hydrologist at the end of the 1-3 mile test for 3-year-olds and up. Plymouth was a similar margin behind in third place, with Personality, the 5-2 favorite, finishing fifth.

Put on unconditional waivers were: defensive tackle Bob Liggett, linebacker Ceasar Belser, cornerback Fred Barry, defensive end Robert Hews, wide receiver Clyde Glosson, center Mike Orland, center Jack Rudnay, cornerback David Hadley, running back Mickey McCarty, and defensive end Gene Trosch.

Butler, who was sent down Aug. 9, was 1-1 with a 2.5 earned run average at Omaha. The 23-year-old pitcher posted a 3-11 record with Kansas City, but has been hampered most of the season by a sore elbow.

Auto toll in Italy.

ROME (UPI)—More than 90,000 Italians were killed and more than 2 million injured in 3,140,000 traffic accidents during the 1960s, according to statistics. Over the same period, 11 million new driving licenses were issued.

Ashe And Smith Cop Victories

FORESTHILLS, N.Y. (UPI)—Arthur Ashe repeated his 1968 New York Mets picked up a game on both Pittsburgh and Chicago in the light National League East race Monday by sweeping a doubleheader from the Montreal Expos 5-4 and 5-1.

Ashe, the seventh-seed from Gum Spring, Va., beat Okker to win the inaugural U.S. Open two years ago, but as a pure amateur he had to stand by and watch Okker pick up the winning prize of $14,000. The 27-year-old Ashe now is a registered player and thus is eligible for this year's $20,000 jackpot.

Smith, who never before made it as far as the quarterfinals in a major open tournament, finally earned that distinction by beating Australian veteran Roy Emerson for the first time, 6-4, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4. The 14th-seeded Smith, from Pasadena, Calif., made good use of his six inch height advantage in subduing Emerson, the No. 5 seed.

Second-seeded John Newcombe of Australia enjoyed an easy ride to the quarterfinals, blasting 16th-seeded Clark Graebner of New York, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2. Newcombe, the Wimbledon champion, meets Ashe in the quarterfinals.

Margaret Smith Court continued her march toward completing the grand slam by routing Aussie Pat Faulkner, 6-0, 6-2, to move into the women's quarterfinals. This was only the first time in three matches here that the veteran Australian player lost as many as two games in one set.

$155,883 Won In Race

ONTARIO, Calif. (UPI)—Jim McElreath's two-second victory in Sunday's first California 500 was worth $150,000 plus $5,883 in merchandise. U.S. Auto Club officials revealed Monday.

After being showed tapes of the inaugural race at the $25.5 million Ontario Motor Speedway, the crew chief for runner-up Art Pollard withdrew a protest of McElreath's win before a crowd of 180,223.

Clint Brawner claimed Sunday that Pollard finished one lap in front of the winner from Arlington, Tex.

USAC officials said Pollard, from Medford, Ore., earned $77,900 while Dick Simon of Salt Lake City collected $47,500 for finishing third.

Al Unser, the Indianapolis 500 champion from Albuquerque, N.M., who apparently had the California 500 locked up, took home $56,450, 442,250 of which was in-lap money.

Unser led 166 of the 186 laps he was in the race before dropping out with a broken blower blade with 14 laps to go. There was one change in Mopday's official standings. Jim Malloy of Denver was moved to 11th from 12th, changing places with Carl Williams of Grandview, Mo.

Peter Revson of New York, who was fifth behind Gordon Johncock of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., was credited with completing 199 laps instead of the full 200.

Mets Sweep Expos, Gain Game On Leaders In Hectic Chase

Cubs Split With Pirates

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Ron Santo hit two home runs and Billy Williams and Ferguson Jenkins one each to give the Chicago Cubs a 9-2 victory over Pittsburgh and a doubleheader split Monday after the Pirates won the opener 8-3 behind two homers and a double by Richie Hebner. Santo hit his 22nd homer of the year to snap a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning of the second game.

12 Put On Waiver List

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Coach Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs said he put 12 Chiefs on waivers Monday. The move put the World Champions four men below the required 44-man roster limitation imposed by the National Football League for this date.

Waived injured by Stram were cornerback Goldie Sellers and guard Remi Prudhomme.

Put on unconditional waivers were: defensive tackle Bob Liggett, linebacker Ceasar Belser, cornerback Fred Barry, defensive end Robert Hews, wide receiver Clyde Glosson, center Mike Orland, center Jack Rudnay, cornerback David Hadley, running back Mickey McCarty, and defensive end Gene Trosch.

Butler Called By K.C. Club

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Lefthander Bill Butler was recalled Monday by the Kansas City Royals from Omaha of the American Association.

Butler, who was sent down Aug. 9, was 1-1 with a 2.5 earned run average at Omaha. The 23-year-old pitcher posted a 3-11 record with Kansas City, but has been hampered most of the season by a sore elbow.
