Hijackers Delay Death Deadline

By United Press International
Palestinian guerrillas today extended the deadline for the release of Arabs held in European and Israeli jails until Saturday night, but renewed threats of action against the three jetliners and 298 passengers they are holding as called Dawson's Field but renamed Revolutionary Airstrip by the guerrillas, with medical supplies, sanitary equipment, tents and baby supplies. And in Turkey, the United States assembled six C130 planes for the evacuation of the hostages in the event they are released. The planes are only about an hour's flight from Amman and can move at any time. British Royal Air Force planes also were at the ready on Cyprus, awaiting any call for airlifting supplies or people.

A three-man International Red Cross negotiating team won the 72-hour deadline delay because of its inability to meet with the guerrillas to discuss terms. Fighting in Amman between Jordanian army forces and the guerrillas kept the negotiators apart.

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine which carried out the hijackings, said in a communique issued in Amman today that "in response to the Red Cross appeal the PFLP decided to extend the deadline another 72 hours," which would take it to 10 p.m. EDT Saturday.

The communique added: "The United States and England have to understand that their attitude is not in favor of the safety of the passengers of the three aircraft."

It did not elaborate as to what the U.S. and British "attitude" was.

In the meantime, the three planes and 298 men, women and children aboard them remained on a dusty airstrip in the Jordanian desert 45 miles northeast of Amman, surrounded by Palestinian guerrillas demanding the release of seven of their fellows from European jails.

The guerrillas also are asking for the release of an undisclosed number of Arabs held in Israeli jails.

Two of the planes, a TWA 707 and a Swissair DC7, were hijacked Sunday, while a British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) VC10 was pirated Wednesday. There were 184 persons still aboard the TWQ and Swissair planes and BOAC in London said there were 114 persons aboard its jetliner.

Another 166 women and children aboard the TWA and Swissair planes were allowed to go to Amman Monday, but have remained in a hotel there ever since with sporadic fighting between Jordanian army forces and the guerrillas raging in the streets outside.

Mrs. Lita Ungar of Scarsdale, N.Y., said "my husband is still in the Swissair plane. Some of us are saying it is maybe safer there than it is here."

The Red Cross said it was flying a second medical team to the desert airstrip, originally

Teachers Send Pupils Home

By United Press International
Philadelphia's 290,000 public school children were on an extended vacation today because of a teachers' strike. So were thousands of children across the nation as teachers kept school boards working on "rhythmic — higher-pay demands."

Nearly 96,000 Michigan students stayed out of school as 4,500 teachers across the state were on strike. Teachers strikes also were in progress in Toledo, Ohio; Hammond, Ind.; Niagara Falls, N.Y.; Nashua, N.H.; East St. Louis, Ill.; and at least six Connecticut cities.

Today was to have been opening day for Philadelphia school children, but the school board ordered the city's 270 public schools closed until a settlement was reached with the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers over a new contract. The union called the board's closing of schools a lockout. In Michigan, 96,000 students and 4,500 teachers were out of classes Wednesday. The state's ninth-largest city, Kalamazoo, had 1,070 teachers and 19,000 students absent. The Michigan Education Association reported Wednesday five districts had reached contract agreements, leaving 70 districts without contracts.

About 2,500 teachers struck the Toledo school system Wednesday, the first day of school for 81,000 students, to enforce their demand for pay raises.

Up to 35 per cent of Niagara Falls' 1,000 teachers struck Wednesday in defiance of a court order but most classes were opened to the 17,000 students.

Strikes closed schools in the Connecticut cities of Bristol and Milford and classes were let out early in Middletown.

12,000 Throng to T.F. Fair

FILER — Fairgoers began arriving early today for what is usually the largest day at the Twin Falls County Fair — Twin Falls Day.

Wednesday's opening day drew an average crowd of about 12,000 persons, but first night attendance at the rodeo with its new cement grandstand was reported high.

Wednesday saw a full day of judging events and 4-H and FFA classes, as well as Hereford Cattle show and open class of horses. Quarter horse events opened today, followed by more FFA and 4-H classes.

Afternoon activities include the Angus show, the shorthorn show and the junior Angus show in the arena. The Charolais cattle show will be held Friday morning.

Debbie Howard, Murtaugh, received the grand champion 4-H beef fitting and showing trophy in judging which preceded the rodeo. Steve Ewing, Buhl, won the reserve champion trophy.

Wednesday's rodeo was well received despite cool weather. Special events during the rodeo included introduction of Gov. and Mrs. Don Samuelson who rode through the grounds in a convertible. Gubernatorial candidate Cecil Andrus also appeared.

A special tribute was given Grover Davis, who observed his 85th birthday Wednesday, and was proclaimed "Grand Old Man of the Fair and Rodeo" for his 54 years of perfect attendance.

Carolyn Harvey, Twin Falls, reigning Miss Rodeo Idaho and the 17 queen contestants who are competing for this year's title were introduced.

Christine Vincent, Miss Rodeo America, was a special guest. First night rodeo results include Bareback riding — Royce Smith, high with 69 points; Duane Sorenson, 64, and Neal Arave, 62.

Norman Schmitker won the wild cow milking event. Calf roping — Arnold Harrage, with a time of 13.8 seconds; Jerry Kale, 14.5; and Lowell Taylor, 14.9.

Saddle bronc riding — Mel Hyland and Doug Brown tied with 70 points each; Roy Rodewald, second, with 69, and Dave Hart, third, 67. Steer wrestling — George Juker, 5.5 seconds; D. J. Smith, 5.6, and Elmer Nettleton, 5.7.

Girls barrel racing — Peggy Jo Koll and Linda Ottun, tied with a low time of 18.4 seconds. A three-way tie resulted between Carla Anderson, Diane Fender and Karen Greenough, 18.8. LaRae Monroe, was third with 19 seconds.

Steer wrestling, second section — Dave Hart, 5.3; Jim Woodworth, 7.98, and Stan Weatherly, 13.5. Brahma bull riding — Jack Kelley, high with 69 points; J. C. Davis, 67, and Vickey Cox and Larry Davis, tied with 65 points.

Jerome Recreation Levy Asked

JEROME — Jerome Chamber of Commerce members Wednesday voted support to a proposal by local sportsmen for a half mill levy to develop a recreation area south of town along the Snake River owned by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Mac Ambrose, spokesman for the sportsmen, told chamber members he will meet with Jerome county commissioners Monday to ask for the half mill levy to provide funds which would be matched with federal funds for development of both fishing and boating facilities.

Known as the former Scott property, the site was acquired by the state fish and game department several years ago and has several small fishing ponds back from the river. The area, five miles south and one and one-half miles west of Jerome, has been mostly used by duck hunters.

Ambrose noted that development of the recreation facilities, if the levy is approved, would mean opening of the area for much wider use.

TRANSPORTATION
Secretary John Volpe told a Senate subcommittee the nation faces "a total transportation crisis" and urged Americans to learn to walk. "The American People have forgotten the Dear Lord gave us a pair of legs," he said. (UPI)

10 Million Kick Habit

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—The total number of Americans who have kicked the cigarette habit has risen 10 million since 1966, says Dr. Daniel Horn, director of the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health.

Cambodians Lift Siege

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A mile-long troop-laden gunboat convoy swept up the flood-swollen Stung Sen River in a surprise attack that broke the 60-day Communist siege of Kompong Thom, the Cambodian command said today.

Military spokesmen said the river force struck Wednesday night while Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attention was focused on the 4,000-man Cambodian task force pushing slowly toward Kompong Thom from the south.

The spokesmen said it left Kompong Thom "wide open" for a "lightning" thrust from the west-southwest by the gunboats.

The task force, which made up the biggest operation of the Cambodian campaign, was still 38 miles south of Kompong Thom on Highway 6 when the river units attacked.

Kompong Thom is a city of 18,000 persons 9 miles north of Phnom Penh and not only is a provincial capital but an important transportation and communications center. Viet Cong and North Vietnamese units have shelled the city almost daily for two months. The 4,000-man task force edging northward toward Kompong Thom has covered nine miles in three days, the spokesman said. The troops and supply vehicles have been held back by Communist obstacles blocking the narrow asphalt roadway and blown-up bridges. There has been almost no contact with the Communists.

"Deep inside, I honestly believe the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese are doing everything they can to avoid meeting the Cambodian army on the battlefield," the spokesman said.

Premier Lon Nol went on nationwide radio Wednesday night and said, "after six months of fighting, one thing is clear: The Viet Cong cannot win in Cambodia."

T.F. Stepfather's Bond Set in Death

TWIN FALLS — Gerry Lewellyn, 30, Twin Falls, charged with involuntary manslaughter in the death of his 22-month-old step-son, requested preliminary hearing Wednesday afternoon when he was arraigned in Twin Falls Police Court.

Judge Harry Turner set bond at $2,000 and Lewellyn was transferred to the county jail where he is in custody in lieu of posting bond. The firm of Rayborn, Rayborn, Webb and Pike, public defenders, was appointed to represent the accused man.

No date for the preliminary hearing has been set.

Lewellyn's step-son, Shawn Stone, died September 7 at a Boise hospital where he was transferred after being hospitalized in Twin Falls.

An autopsy performed in Boise revealed the child died from brain damage from head wounds.

A court order was signed Wednesday by Probate Judge Eugene McCoy placing a second stepson, 6, under care of the department of public assistance.

N. Viets Predict Parley Deadlock

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam and the Viet Cong said today the war will go on and the Paris peace talks will remain deadlocked until the United States completely changes its Vietnamese policies.

North Vietnamese delegate Xuan Thuy and his Viet Cong colleague Nguyen Van Tien told American and South Vietnamese negotiators the Nixon administration is trying to negotiate from strength only and merely trying to extend the war in Indochina.

Reducing sharply the length of his statement from an average of 10 pages to three, the Hanoi delegate told American Ambassador David K. E. Bruce: "The Vietnamese people will never let the United States implement neocolonialism in South Vietnam and are resolute to unite with the other Indochinese peoples to defeat the U.S. maneuver of expanding the war of aggression in this part of the world.

"It is time that the United States changes its policy and shows good faith in these negotiations."

The Viet Cong delegate echoed Thuy's statement at today's 82nd negotiating session whose atmosphere was as bleak as the rainy weather enveloping Paris.

Diplomatic observers said the sharp reduction of the length of Thuy's statement pointed up to Hanoi's refusal to make concessions, and was an additional hint that North Vietnam and the Viet Cong wanted Washington to make the next move.

Gem Cave Aides Science

POCATELLO (UPI) — A cave near Idaho Falls which was an animal carnivore trap for thousands of years and the site of a prohibition era moonshine operation is believed to be a significant paleontological discovery. Dr. John A. White, curator in vertebrate paleontology and professor of biology at Idaho State University, said the ancient animal bones found in the cave could serve as a "virgin" point of comparison to determine relative pollution levels long ago and now of such substances as lead and strontium. "The cave is an important find on the national level," Dr. White said.

Zoo Gets Grizzly

POCATELLO (UPI) — The Pocatello City Zoo will soon have its own masher-in-residence in the form of a 300-pound female grizzly bear believed to have mauled two men from Pennsylvania recently in Yellowstone Park. Zookeeper Demar Day arrived in Yellowstone to claim the hefty beauty. He says the bear will be added to the zoo's collection of intermountain area wild animals.

Maddox Eyes Late Vote

By WILLIAM O. TOME
ATLANTA (UPI)—Gov. Lester Maddox banked on straggling returns today to give him a no-runoff victory for lieutenant governor in Georgia's Democratic primary and wealthy peanut farmer Jimmy Carter held similar hopes in the race for governor.
 With about 40 per cent of the state's 2,040 precincts still to be counted, Maddox and Carter both were just short of the 50.1 per cent of the vote necessary to eliminate a runoff with their nearest challengers.
 Maddox, barred by state law from succeeding himself and seeking to retain a power base as lieutenant governor, and Carter both drew heavily from rural areas which comprised the bulk of the uncounted vote. Making his second bid for the governorship, Carter was a mild surprise as the leader in the nine-man Democratic field. Former Gov. Carl E. Sanders, who preceded Maddox as governor, was considered the favorite with Carter his strongest opponent.
 Former television newsman

Hal Suit staged the biggest upset of the state's first two-party primary by winning the Republican nomination for governor over Comptroller General Jimmy Bentley, a former aide of Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga. Bentley defected from the Democratic party two years ago. Superior Court Judge Jephtha Tanksley ran a poor third in the contest. With 1,283 of 2,049 precincts reporting, Maddox had 246,631 votes, or 48.7 per cent, to 178,143 votes for runnerup George T. Smith, the incumbent lieutenant governor, in a four-man field.

 As international trustee he will be responsible for counseling the Montana and Rocky Mountain Circle K districts.

Antique Exhibit Proves Popular

FILER—A trip through the antique building of the Twin Falls County Fair is well worth the while of all those attending the fair.
 This year, the selection of entries is outstanding and the superintendents have been arranged so they can be closely viewed by all the spectators. People are bringing in priceless objects this year such as the Limoges trinket box which is a piece of the famous White House china used in the White House during the Harding administration and contains the presidential seal. When Dwight Eisenhower was president, his wife, Marmie, was searching for pieces of it to complete her collection. The trinket box was brought to the fair by Dr. Ellis Knight, Twin Falls.
 Mrs. Edith Leeper, Filer, entered a McKinley-Roosevelt umbrella which was one of those given as favors during the election campaign in 1900. McKinley was re-elected president that year and was serving his second term when he was assassinated and Roosevelt became president. Another unusual entry is an exquisite Turkish wedding dress, hand-embroidered in gold threads on silk and more than 100 years old. It was brought to the fair by Charles Clark, Rupert.
 Part of the clock collection of Janet and Mike Feller, Burley, is proving popular with spectators, especially a green marble-mantel set which consists of a clock holding a large bronze statue and a matching pair of brass and bronze candelabras.
 A French wag-on-the-wall clock, circa 1730, also causes much comment.
 Men are showing a great deal of interest in the many gun collections on display. One collection includes a Moroccan Snaphaunce rifle used by the Arabs in the desert while riding horseback over 175 years ago.

Anderson Will Hear

TWIN FALLS—Sixth Judicial District Judge Gus Carr Anderson has been assigned to hear the Twin Falls County case against former Justice of the Peace Karl R. (Jack) Lewis, Buhl, charged with three counts of misuse of public funds.
 James May, attorney for Lewis, said Thursday the case has been reassigned to Judge Anderson of Pocatello but no date has been set.
 The trial was moved from Twin Falls to Emmett when local judges disqualified themselves. Last week the trial began in Third District court before Judge Gilbert Norris.
 Because of a news release covering a suit brought by Lewis, seeking $521,500 in damages against one of the witnesses, Elmer W. Wilson, an auditor, Judge Norris dismissed the jury and disqualified himself to hear the matter.

Andrus Rates Farms First

FILER—Democratic gubernatorial candidate Cecil Andrus, visiting the Twin Falls County Fair today, told farmers and other fair goers it is time the state administration recognizes that agriculture is the number one industry in Idaho.
 "Idaho must have a commissioner of agriculture who represents the farmer, not special interests," Andrus said.
 The Democratic contender said the day has come when the family farm unit must be strengthened or face an irreversible deterioration.
 "More than the farm is at stake," he said. "When the family operation ceases the implement dealers, drugstores and community markets of nearby towns and cities go out of business."
 Speaking earlier at Aberdeen, Andrus urged a chamber of commerce gathering especially the farmers, to take an active part in all freight and power rate increase hearings around the state.

 "The state of Idaho under the present administration and the state department of agriculture have not represented the farmer at any rate hearing," the Democratic candidate said.
 The four-term state senator

Turned Over

TWIN FALLS—A Twin Falls youth arrested here earlier this week for being absent without leave was turned over to military police Wednesday afternoon.
 Ted W. Pope, 17, was arrested by Twin Falls Police and was jailed until his release Wednesday. Officers said he had been AWOL from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station for about two weeks.

A Memorial

The 25th anniversary of the Japanese surrender in World War II was quite properly, much observed around the nation a few days ago.

Little notice was taken of the 25th anniversary of an event which was the sequel to the first and which was to prove to be fully as significant.

August 14, 1945, marked the ending of a war; Aug. 30, 1945, marked the beginning of the building of a peace. It was on the latter day that Gen. Douglas MacArthur landed at Atsugi air base near Tokyo.

To this one man was handed a war-devastated nation of 90 million to do with virtually as he wished. Probably no man in history ever wielded such absolute power. Certainly no man ever exercised such power so wisely.

Helped by the peculiar psychology of the Japanese, who accepted conquest as resolutely as they had attempted to conquer others — Mac Arthur imposed sweeping reforms which revolutionized Japanese life.

He instituted a land reform program, one of the most successful ever undertaken, liberating peasants from their rural landlords and giving them their own property.

He transformed Japan's ancient divine emperor into a constitutional monarch and, for the first time, a human being.

He presented Japan with a written constitution which gave her a parliament-cabinet government patterned on European lines and established in law an array of civil liberties that went beyond even the U.S. Bill of Rights.

For instance, Japanese women were given legal equality; the right of unions was affirmed; the right of teachers to voice their opinions was recognized, and war was banned except in self-defense.

Japan today, with one of the smallest defense budgets in the world, is the third largest industrial nation and is out-Yankeeing the Yankees in many global markets.

MacArthur cannot be credited with this prosperity, of course. The energetic Japanese had something to do with it.

The best memorial to MacArthur — and to the nation which produced him — lies in the fact that Japan has never amended his constitution.

To Be Free

Freedom of speech and expression, including a choice of one's own dress and grooming, the wearing of buttons or emblems or the carrying of picket signs on school property.

Freedom of the press, including the right to publish or distribute literature on school grounds.

Freedom of assembly and association, including the right to join and to urge others to join any organization.

Freedom of petition, including the right to petition against public agencies, governing boards and school administrations.

Freedom of peaceful dissent without repression by administrators or teachers.

Freedom of... But stop already.

If the foregoing reads like the demands of some militant college campus organization, read on.

They are the main points of a resolution adopted at the national convention of the American Federation of Teachers in Pittsburgh the other day. The above-listed freedoms, the resolution urges, should be accorded every high school student, and presumably grade school and kindergarten students, too.

In other business, the delegates representing the 200,000-teacher-strong AFT recommended that all locals seek through collective bargaining to establish a teaching load of no more than 20 children to a classroom and restrict classroom hours to no more than 20 per week.

If the student "Bill of Rights" goes into effect, the AFT could get more than it plans to bargain for.

With the kids busy publishing and distributing literature, parading with picket signs, promoting various organizations and petitioning sundry agencies, classroom students and classroom hours might well eventually approach zero.

Sallie Pyle, who lives at 520 First Avenue East, Jerome, fired us a bit of creative-writing adopted from the work of the Fox College Creative Writing Class at Evergreen Park, Ill., and printed in the magazine "Sunshine."

The title of the piece is "My Domain" and we thought perhaps you would like to share it with Mr. Spectator, so here goes:

"In my domain there are many arts—as many as there are deliberate, specialized activities in which one may engage. Someone knows and practices the art of basket-weaving, of tuning a piano, or even hitting a home run.

"In my libraries are more books than were printed in the entire history of the world, up until the 19th Century.

"I have forest preserves and parks greater than most of the kingdoms of ancient, medieval, yes even modern times.

"I have hundreds of species of animals and birds in my domain. Canadian Honkers arrive every fall in gigantic formation, by the thousands. In my southern preserves are the most beautiful of birds—an extravaganza of color. I have trees growing in my forests that that were growing when Christ walked the Earth. I have glaciers sliding down to the seas that have been for millions of years. I have thousands of miles of rivers and seashores; countless beautiful lakes and waterfalls; and mountains of forests.

"My holdings overlook the giants of industry, education and commerce—millions of fertile square miles, wheatlands, coal mines and steel plants.

"My domain stretches from the rockbound coasts of Maine, past the sunny strands of California, to the golden beaches of Waikiki; from frozen tundras of Alaska to steaming Florida Everglades.

"The vast majority of my people are industrious, upright, honest and hard-working. They have the qualities and characteristics that have made my domain the greatest in the world.

"You should see my western wonderlands—the home of the geyser, the glacier, and Grand Canyon. You should feel the abysmal loneliness of Padre Island and visit Arkansas Pass—the home of the whooping crane. Stand with me in the Alamo, ride through Cumberland Gap, visit Valley Forge and Independence Hall. Weep with me at the foot of Lincoln's Monument. Proudly watch the guard in measured step eternally honoring the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

"Come visit my domain. Make yourself at home, treat it as though it were you own—because it is, you know!"

"GOD BLESS AMERICA."

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For five long years, the Vietnam war has been for many Americans the great excuse, the prime reason we were not easing racial strife, solving a wide range of urban problems, making domestic society work better overall. It's time we stopped this nonsense.

First off, as I have pointed out in numerical detail often before, our expenditures for education, health, welfare and a variety of other social purposes have for the most part soared steadily to new heights even as we prosecuted the war.

Secondly, if war cost miraculously dropped to zero tomorrow, the demand for additional outlays for established social goals is already so great that the so-called "peace dividend" would be devoured in a flash.

This assumes, of course, that Congress suddenly relieved of voting war expenses would in fact choose to devote the released sums wholly to meeting the added demand. The history of Congress in socially troubled postwar periods is not encouraging on this score.

The truth is that both young and adult Americans have been using the Vietnam war as an alibi for avoiding the hard tasks of social change.

No nation can call itself great, resourceful, imaginative, genuinely concerned if it convinces itself it can do just one big thing at a time. It is the mark of the small mind, and of limited national vision, to suggest we cannot go adventuring in space or casting our powerful influence abroad while we are attacking the deprivations of the black urban ghetto, the shortcomings of our schools, the insufficiency of U.S. health care.

We have actually been doing all these things at once — and not for the first time, either. When World War II was over, we discovered that our civilian economy had been maintained at a very comfortable level even as we supported 12-million men under arms.

Admittedly, we have not solved all the huge domestic problems, but we have lifted millions out of poverty, brought reasonably adequate health care to millions of oldsters who never had it before, added countless young people to the high school and college rosters.

To the extent that immense difficulties persist, we have learned that more mass infusions of money may not provide the answer.

Here's where the vaunted brainpower of our "idealistic" young people ought to come into play. In some admirable instances it has, but where radicals and slightly lesser militants have set the tone, it has not.

To listen to them, you'd think we couldn't clean a stream, pick up a beer can, rebuild a burned-out ghetto, improve a school curriculum or get an old lady a crutch so long as one soldier remains in Vietnam.

The evidence is strong that if Vietnam had not come along, the disaffected would have found something else to justify the cry for destruction of "the system" and immediate installation of the millennium.

Largely forgotten is the fact that for long months in late 1968 and early 1969, Vietnam was little heard of on the campuses and "black studies" were the big cause of unrest.

THE WALLS ARE CLOSING IN

In The Dark

WASHINGTON (NEA) — What really disturbs U.S. defense officials about the latest Soviet SS-11 ballistic missile tests in the Pacific is that, despite our careful monitoring, it has been impossible for American military missile experts to determine whether the multiple warheads on these missiles can be independently guided to separate targets.

It has been determined, quite easily of course, that each of the two SS-11s fired over a 5,700-mile range on Aug. 21 had three warheads.

But the crucial point is whether the three warheads fire in sort of a shotgun effect on one target, or whether each of the three can be guided to separate and distinct targets which may be miles apart.

For shotgun-type missiles are missiles with a wide scatter range — and just that (however powerful they may be).

But missiles with three separately targeted warheads are, in reality, three missiles. If each warhead is sufficiently accurate, the missile can do incredibly more selective damage to enemy defenses.

The United States in the MIRV (multiple independently targeted vehicles) has this ability.

We do not know whether the Soviet Union has or not. We do not have this information for the SS-11s, nor do we have it for the larger SS-9s.

But this knowledge is of major importance to the current arms talks with Moscow. If there is to be any meaningful agreement, then we must know as much as possible about what the Soviet Union has.

Otherwise, U.S. negotiators might agree to a treaty which would put this country in an unfortunate defense position, with awful long-range results for the future security of America and the West. It could lead rather quickly to particularly unhappy consequences for small independent nations.

At a time when the administration and Congress are both attempting to pare the defense budget, it is essential to be certain what the Soviet Union has and what it does not have. If the Russian pace of effective research and development is less than we now calculate, this could make some defense cuts possible that are not considered possible with our present state of knowledge. What this missile problem illustrates is that the future security of this country (and the ability to hold defense spending down to what is absolutely necessary for that defense) depends on increasing the quality of U.S. intelligence gathering. Running in the dark is very expensive and can be fully dangerous.

ANDREW TULLY

On Pollution

(Editor's Note: Mr. Tully is on vacation. Today's guest writer is Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash.)

WASHINGTON — In a world torn by nationalism, it is not surprising that we have been slow to recognize the international dimensions of a problem that causes us major concern here in the United States: the problem of pollution.

The futility of taking corrective environmental action only with a single country has been demonstrated recently in Sweden, for example. That nation was among the first to recognize the dangers of DDT and actually banned the use of DDT altogether. Yet Swedish scientists now report that concentrations of DDT in Northern Sweden are increasing, not decreasing as they expected. The explanation: DDT used in other countries drifts through the atmosphere and settles on Swedish soil—as well as on the soil of every other nation.

The global DDT problem is one of many that have forced scientists to take a world view of the environment. So have the 100 million tons of oil that are dumped into the world's oceans each year. So has the steady build-up of carbon dioxide in the earth's atmosphere. If these and other problems are to be dealt with, it is obvious that we will have to put aside national differences and begin to achieve international environmental cooperation.

There are many other reasons for undertaking an international effort to curb pollution. One of these is that most environmental problems are common to many nations and that cooperation between nations on such problems can lead to faster solutions for everyone.

Take the mercury crisis. As long ago as 1953, Japan learned the hard way that mercury pollution can kill human beings and marine life. Sweden banned the use of mercury in the mid-1950s. Yet not until this year did the United States take action to deal with the mercury crisis—for the simple reason that few people in this country were familiar with the Japanese and Swedish experience.

During the years that it took for this knowledge to be communicated between countries, at least 10 per cent of our inland waters were needlessly contaminated with mercury.

Fortunately, most international organizations are now working to deal with the pollution problem. But these organizations are political in nature, do not include all nations of the world, and are limited in the scope of their environmental activity. They cannot perform one vital function that must be undertaken immediately: the gathering and dissemination of environmental information to all nations, regardless of their ideologies or foreign and domestic policies.

I have introduced legislation in the United States Senate to fill this basic void in the international environmental effort. My bill aims at the creation of a World Environmental data, gathering and disseminating such information to all nations. Institute scientists would also do research on global pollution problems, such as pollution of the oceans and the atmosphere. Forty senators have joined me in co-sponsoring this legislation.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Blood Pressure

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My sister is only 28 and her blood pressure gets up to 240 over 120. The doctor has had her in the hospital for tests but has been unable to find the cause. She has lost part of the sight of one eye because of the pressure. Is there any way to find out what can be done for her? —P.W.

For a young woman of that age, pressure should be nearer 120-80 rather than 240-120.

In moderately elevated pressures, controlling anxieties, obesity, and excessive salt intake are the terms in which we think. But in severe cases, and particularly in a young patient, other causes must be considered.

One, not unusual in younger folk, is a constriction of the aorta, or main artery leading from the heart (called coarctation of the aorta). This causes elevated pressure in arms, lower in the legs, the reverse of the normal situation. It is correctable by surgery.

Kidney disorders also can cause hypertension in the young. Nephritis is one. Usually there is swelling, and albumin and signs of blood in the urine. Polycystic kidneys may be involved. Physiological anomalies or constriction of the artery to the kidney can also be a cause, correctable by surgery.

Glandular disorders can be causes — highly overactive thyroid, or a tumor of the adrenal glands. Also a tumor which excretes a substance called aldosterone, which raises blood pressure. This is not common, but does occur, and the removal of the tumor results in a return to normal blood pressure.

Severe and extensive hardening of the arteries can cause high blood pressure, but your sister is too young for this.

There are even more causes of high blood pressure, such as systemic lupus erythematosus, but to list all the possibilities probably isn't to the point here.

Note that a number of the possible causes already noted can be treated effectively by surgery — and of course should be. Hospitalization in an institution equipped for special studies (a university hospital, or a medical center for example) would be the obvious way to track down rarer causes, for the average hospital may not have such sophisticated facilities.

The human system cannot tolerate extremely high blood pressure without something giving way — kidney failure, heart failure, stroke, or others. Your sister's loss of vision is an example.

It is no disgrace for the average physician, with average hospital facilities, to be unable to identify some of these unusual causes of elevated blood pressure. Your doctor should be asked to have consultation with doctors at one of these larger institutions when he is unable to pinpoint the problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it unusual for a T.U.R. to be indicated several years after one has had a suprapubic operation for prostate trouble? —S.J.

It is not common, but sometimes needed. After a suprapubic operation (that is, through the abdominal wall) there is a possibility that some residual prostatic tissue may enlarge and cause an obstruction. This could require a T.U.R., (transurethral resection, or removal of the tissue through the urethra).

Note to S.S.R.: The book you inquired about is called "How to Live Happily with Diabetes," and I think it is excellent. It is by Blair Holcomb, M.D., and is available from Barkerbrook Press, 15833 N.E. Rose Park Way, Portland, Oregon 97230. It costs $3.95.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for his booklet, "The Pesky Prostate," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a blood test for diabetes two hours after eating shows 120, is that normal or do you have diabetes? — Mrs. C.D.

It's a borderline level and not diagnostic. You should have a sugar tolerance test, over a period of three hours, to show the pattern of your blood sugar level — its rise and fall.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Panel Asks Funds For Gem Schools

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Board of Education gave its approval to increasing the department of education's budget by more than $15 million during the next fiscal year.

Concluding its monthly two-day meeting in Boise, the board approved the recommendation made by assistant superintendent of public instruction Harold Farley. Farley noted the increases included a $3 million dollar projection in case a state-wide kindergarten program is enacted by the legislature.

The largest increase came in teacher salaries; an increase of more than $7 million. Also included was a $1.4 million increase to cover the loss of student fees, which were recently held to be unconstitutional.

The total budget request came to $109,023,549 and does not include $40 million provided by the endowment program.

Attorney General Robert Robson encouraged the board to adopt a state-wide code of conduct for university students. He said the differences between codes at Idaho's institutions of higher education are providing breeding grounds for dissent.

He added the student should be treated the same way at all of the state's colleges and universities. Robson says the legal process should be spelled out.

Most of the college presidents disagreed with Robson and noted the codes of conduct that exist at the colleges are similar, but have parts which are needed only by that particular school.

Idaho State University President William E. Davis said from the talk here today the college campus seems to be a place of open-law violations. However, our university only faces about 10 to 12 serious law violations in any year. "That would make it an exemplary community when compared to any its size."

In other action: — University of Idaho President Ernest Hartung said construction is underway on an addition to the school's golf course. He said the $55,000 addition is being funded entirely by student fees. Presently only $35,000 will be expended and the remaining $20,000 will be spent when funds are provided he added. The board also rejected a settlement request from the architectural firm of Culler, Gale and Martelle. The firm is asking the university to pay $33,000 for a change in the design of the new swimming complex at the school. The company charges that the school is getting a better building than the one called for in the specifications. The board turned it down noting that it was the firm's mistake to begin with.

Carmakers 'Stalling' Into Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock says the automakers are "stalling into a strike" when the contracts expire at midnight Monday.

Woodcock visited strike targets General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp. Wednesday in an effort to "get things moving" to avert a walkout. But, he said, "unless something radical changes," the automakers are stalling themselves into a strike.

Woodcock said he planned to stay at his office today, pending further developments. There was speculation a second industry offer would be forthcoming.

The UAW is asking a "substantial" wage increase, a return to unlimited cost-of-living increases, retirement at 30 years experience at $500 a month regardless of age, improved insurance and a dental care program. The companies first offered a 7.5 per cent wage increase the first year and 3 per cent in the next two years and an improved pension plan.

The union rejected the offer and both sides remained far apart. The Detroit Free Press reported today the bargainers were 66 cents an hour apart on wages during the first year of the contract.

Court Delays Porno Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting with the knowledge, and perhaps the approval, of the White House, a smut fighter who was President Nixon's sole appointee to the Presidential Commission on Pornography has won a court order blocking publication of the commission's liberal report.

With the help of a lawyer who aided actress Loretta Young in keeping her old film clips out of the movie Myra Breckenridge, commission member Charles H. Keating Jr. of Cincinnati obtained the temporary order Wednesday in federal court.

He said he and six others on the 18-member commission were opposed to portions of the commission's report—including a finding pornography laws should be relaxed and that obscene material does not cause deviant behavior or sex crimes.

Asking if the Nixon administration supported his move, Keating reminded reporters he was Nixon's only appointee to the commission formed by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Pollution Controls Planned

POCATELLO (UPI) — The J.R. Simplot Co. Minerals and Chemical Division announced Wednesday it is installing air pollution control devices on phosphorous plants in Pocatello.

Jack Smith, director of process engineering, said the new device is called a "brink mist eliminator" and is being installed at a cost of $65,000 per device.

When the project is completed, it will eliminate about 90 per cent of the dense white plume now emitted from the plants. He said the eliminator will filter the impurities through fiberglass pads.

Parents 'Bus' Students

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Mrs. Mary Boyce, a black mother who lives in North Charlotte, drove her son 11 miles across town Wednesday to put him in a school in South Charlotte.

During the trip, she probably passed Mrs. Rhoda Ballantyne, a white mother who was driving her daughter from their South Charlotte home to a school near Mrs. Boyce's home.

The two children in the future will ride buses daily to each other's neighborhoods under a massive, long-distance busing plan which went into effect in North Carolina's largest school system.

Students in four grades in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg system attending 90-minute orientation sessions on the first day Wednesday, and the rest are to attend similar meetings today and Friday.

Seven telephone bomb threats were reported at Charlotte schools Wednesday, but officials reported 80 per cent of the high school students and 81 per cent of the junior high students expected showed up at the schools.

The plan adopted by the district under federal court orders was designed to create a balance of 70 per cent whites and 30 per cent blacks in each school.

At Jackson, Miss., around 100 white and black parents picketed one elementary school in protest against an integration plan that sent their children to schools outside their neighborhood.

MRS. LILLIAN BARTON Wendell, was given special honor Tuesday evening during the Star of the West, Order of Eastern Star, meeting for outstanding service to the chapter and her community. She taught school in Gooding County for more than 40 years. She soon will move to Nampa.

RR Unions Delay Strike Deadline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With five extra days of breathing time, government mediators today began the task of settling the third major rail strike crisis of the Nixon administration. They were given little chance of success.

The unions agreed Wednesday to postpone a strike deadline until 12:01 a.m. Tuesday. It had been set for 12:01 a.m. today.

Negotiators for the nation's railroads and the four unions which represent nearly 500,000 of the carriers' 600,000 workers — planned to meet with federal mediators at 10 a.m. EDT at the Statler Hilton Hotel.

The major issue is wages. The unions demanded increases of more than 40 per cent over three years and the railroads said they couldn't afford it.

"They are still a long way from consummating an agreement," Assistant Labor Secretary W. J. Usery Jr. said Wednesday when he announced postponement of the strike deadline.

President Nixon has been forced to use the powers of the Railway Labor Act to postpone for 60 days two other strike threats — disputes involving work rule changes for four shopcraft unions and the issue of whether firemen should be used on diesel engines.

Usery, a former union official who is the government's top mediator in the dispute, said the White House was being "kept constantly advised" of the talks, but he refused to say if the President had decided to intervene if no agreement could be reached to head off a strike.

But Usery appeared relieved by the strike deadline extension and said, "We feel an emergency board is not the answer."

Discrimination Complaint Filed

BOISE (UPI) — A Mountain Home Air Force Base sergeant and his wife have filed racial discrimination complaints in housing with the Office of Housing and Urban Development in San Francisco.

Sgt. and Mrs. Mike Eaglan (Eaglan is a Negro and his wife is caucasian) have named Mrs. William Axtell and Mrs. Ruben Waters, both of whom own rental property, in the complaint. The couple said in an interview in Boise Wednesday they have received threatening phone calls since the complaint was filed.

The Eaglans said the complaints were filed in San Francisco because there is no Elmore County Human Rights Commission.

School Car 'Pools' Can Bring Lawsuits

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series of informative articles appearing from time to time in the Times-News on the subject "Mind Your Money." Today's topic: Beware of legal pitfalls in car pools.)

By PETER WEAVER
If you are in any kind of a school car pool situation or are contemplating getting into one — watch it. You just might be laying yourself wide open to a devastating lawsuit or, even worse, you might be putting your child in a dangerous position with an unknown driver and car.

Check Plan Drafted

TWIN FALLS — It's kind of like a chain letter. It can only work if everyone involved does his part. But unlike a chain letter, it is not designed to reap huge profits or unusual collections for those involved. It's designed to save Twin Falls business men money and trouble. It's the Twin Falls Police Department check warning system.

Tim Qualls, captain of detectives, said the detective division currently is attempting to reach by mail all businesses located within the city limits. Sometime this month nearly every business will receive a letter, explaining the check warning system and inviting participation on the volunteer unit. Capt. Qualls said, however, because of the number of new businesses in Twin Falls, some probably will not receive letters. Those who do not should write the detective division, furnishing the department with the name of the business and telephone number. Capt. Qualls emphasized that unlike the state warning system, the local service is completely free. Currently there are 82 Twin Falls businesses participating in the program. When the police department is notified of a worthless check being passed, it notifies the first five businesses on the listing of members. Personnel at those businesses then notify five businesses each and the process repeats itself.

until, hopefully, all participants have been warned. Since many check artists may try to pass a number of phony drafts in the same town, time is important in getting the word out to merchants, and the chain reaction warning is the best and fastest route which local officers have found. Capt. Qualls said the process not only is of great value in alerting businesses to protect themselves, but it also has assisted in the capture of check bouncers.

Auto safety advocate Annmarie Shelness says: "We take too much for granted when we assume that every car-pool mother is automatically a good driver and that her vehicle is well maintained and safe." Mrs. Shelness is co-author of the American Academy of Pediatrics' report "How Safe Is Pupil Transportation?" She suggests that members of car pools have a meeting to decide the minimum insurance each driver should have and what safety standards should be set up to protect the children. Working-through-schools would be ideal. To get an outline for these meetings, I talked with two of the biggest auto insurers (State Farm and Allstate). Here are the points the experts say you should consider:

LIABILITY: If anyone reimburses a driver for expenses on a regular basis, there could be trouble. Usually, a car pool driver cannot be successfully sued by parents of children who were killed or injured in an accident unless there's gross negligence, such as drunken driving, willfully running a red light or knowingly driving with faulty brakes. When a passenger pays, however, a court might declare that he or she was not covered by "guest passenger" statutes and the driver could be sued whether there was evidence of gross negligence or not. Check any kind of reimbursement plan with your insurance company. Also, if a car pool driver hits a child in a school parking lot, there's no "guest passenger" protection and a suit is possible.

COVERAGE: You should have a minimum of $100,000 liability insurance to cover an individual's claim and $300,000 to cover total claims for all passengers. If you have the minimum $10,000-$20,000 required by many states, it would cost roughly $20 a year more to get the added coverage. You should have a minimum $5,000 medical payments coverage which costs around $12 a year. This pays medical bills without any lawsuit. It's also wise to get "uninsured motorist" coverage to protect yourself and passengers against the irresponsible "other driver" without insurance. It varies around the country but all this will cost from $30 to $40 more a year in added insurance premiums. You might offset it by getting $100 deductible collision coverage instead of $50 deductible. It's not uncommon these days to see courts handing down auto injury judgments of well over $100,000. Driving in a car pool increases your exposure to this kind of judgment. You need to be covered. Having the extra insurance also protects you, your family and friends when you're not car pooling.

Viet War Prisoners' Plight Still Unknown

By DAVID J. OESTREICHER
United Press International
The plight of American prisoners in North Vietnam is unique in the annals of modern war. Their number is unknown except to their captors, few from the outside world have seen them and their chances for freedom in the foreseeable future are dim.

They have been referred to as "the forgotten men" in the halls of Congress in Washington and as "war criminals" in the Communist capitals of Hanoi, Peking and Moscow. Some have been in custody for more than six years—longer than any American captured in other wars in which U.S. troops have fought on foreign soil. They are largely incommunicado. Brief, relatively uninformative letters trickle from time to time out of Hanoi to loved ones in the United States. Relatives write regularly, rarely knowing if their messages are delivered and read. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says there is "clear evidence that North Vietnam has violated even the most fundamental standards of human decency" in the treatment of the prisoners. There have been first hand reports of cruelty but these have been contradicted in part by some of the handful of outsiders who have visited prison camps in Hanoi.

"Elegance" for Hairstyles

By United Press International — "Gentle elegance" is the term the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association uses to describe the look of hair for fall. Fundamentally, the new styles emphasize the small head look. In the front view, the hair is dressed softly around the face, or away from it, but always giving a close to the head look. From the sides, most styles have a rise at the crown, or a billowing effect of soft waves at the nape.

Decisions

Whether you decide to wear micro, mini, midi, or maxi, the important thing to remember is that each length is a completely different look. Each must be worn properly, with the right accessories in the right proportions to the style.

DEAR ABBY: Why can't women be as broadminded as men? I really love my wife, Abby. We've been married 15 years and she's doing a super job with our home and children, but now she's letting a small incident she happened to see make a difference in our lives.

Now, you're a businesswoman, Abby, and you know how hard it is to keep a good secretary. Mine has been with me for five years and she does a great job. She's always on time, she's efficient and the price is right.

Well, last week my wife happened by my office and she saw me with my arms around my secretary. I've made friendly gestures like this for some time to show my appreciation to her, but my wife is mad, and she doesn't even want to speak to my secretary again.

Abby, will you please say something in your column about how hard a good secretary is to find? My wife may see it, and understand. TROUBLED IN TUCSON

DEAR TROUBLED: A good television repair man is also hard to find! I mean one who comes immediately when you call him, has all the parts you need right with him, repairs the set and quotes a price that is right. How would you like to come home and see your wife "showing her appreciation" by patting her arms around him?

You will find "sympathy" under "S" in the dictionary. Mister. And next time you want to show your "appreciation," try money.

DEAR ABBY: About those two young men in Canada whom the landlady suspected were gay. Isn't it strange that we can kill another man legally, but we aren't permitted to love each other? GERRY

DEAR GERRY: Yes, and ironic, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am absolutely furious! My husband is Irish and I'm Italian, so naturally we fight a lot.

Last week we had one of our famous fights and I walked out on him. (I went to my mother's, and he knew where I was.)

Well, the crazy fool put an ad in the local newspaper. "MARIE, PLEASE COME HOME THE DOG MISSES YOU!"

Everybody in town saw it, and I'm now the laughingstock of the community. What is your opinion of such a low-down trick? And what should I do? MARIE

DEAR MARIE: I think it's hilarious. Go home to that witty Irishman before some other woman grabs him.

DEAR ABBY: Our family uses a fine doctor who has been a good friend to the family for years, but he has a nurse-receptionist working for him who is really the limit. She tells things about patients she has no business telling. I know this for a fact, because while I was waiting for my mother this receptionist sure gave me an earful! When, if I had had a tape recording of what she told me about some of the patients, I think she could have sued.

Now, I like this doctor and so does my whole family, but I don't like that nurse. She is evil! My husband said to tell the doctor, but I'm afraid he might not like to hear it because he's had this nurse working for him for a long time and he trusts her.

What would you do? PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I'd tell the doctor. Even doctors' nurses get sick.

And she sounds sick to me.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90028. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Sharon Malone, Dingman Wed

TWIN FALLS — Wedding vows recited Aug. 29 at the Immanuel Lutheran Church, united in marriage Sharon Patricia Malone, Jerome, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Malone and Michael Dingman, Twin Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Dingman.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harold Iden before an altar enhanced with tangerine-colored gladioli and candelabra decorated with greenery and bows. The pew decorations feature gladioli and bows.

Cheryl Erse played the traditional wedding music and Carson Wong was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Bridal Original gown fashioned with an empire A-line that featured a cotton Venise shamrock lace bodice with a square neckline and short sleeves. Accent was on the deep shamrock lace bordered hemline and removable chapel train. Her veil was an alencon lace forward, pearl and crystal trim, that held her cathedral-length train of nylon illusion.

She carried a colonial-style bouquet of apricot-colored gladioli and stephanotis centered with two Phalaenopsis orchids. She carried a borrowed handkerchief and wore a turquoise and pearl pin that belong to the bridegroom's great-grandmother. Her fireopal and diamond necklace was a gift from the bridegroom. Debbie Malone, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, with Marg Pharris and Jan Meeks as bridesmaids. Pam Hegler and Tammy Malone, sister of the bride, were candlelighters.

Ron Barry was best man, with Pat Dingman, brother of the bridegroom, and Dean Rappleye as ushers.

Lisa Thibault was flower girl and Darwin Malone was ringbearer.

Sandra Shepherd was in charge of the guest book. In charge of the gift table were Bonnie Honstead, Jenny Van Slyke, Carmen Haddock and Shelly Davis.

The bride's table was covered with lace and centered with silver candelabra, a wedding present from the bride's father. The wedding cake was a four-tiered white cake decorated with apricot-colored flowers and green leaves. It was topped with a silver Marriage-in-Christ symbol, also used by Mrs. Cindy Fuller, sister of the bride.

Randi Cole, Cascade, and Pam Payne, Troy, cut and served the cake, and Sue Billington and Paula Remaley poured.

Special out-of-town guests included Ron Malone and Arlene McGuire, Challis; Mr. and Mrs. E. Cunningham, Mrs. David E. Barry and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hodge, all Burley; Mrs. Orlean Buck, Idaho Falls; Charles Warren Knox and Jenny Van Slyke, both Caldwell; Pam Payne, Troy; Randi Cole, Cascade; Mr. and Mrs. Rich Anthony, Elko; Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Fowler, Blackfoot; Carmen Haddock, Shoshone; Mrs. Rob Fuller, and Laurie

High Noon Nuptials Performed

KIMBERLY — A high noon wedding Aug. 29 united in marriage Kristi Ann Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Claiborn, Kimberly, and Robert H. Schinbine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schinbine, Paso Robles, Calif.

The First United Methodist Church, Twin Falls, was the setting for the double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Herbert Morris, before an altar decorated with large baskets of blue and yellow chrysanthemums and daisies accented with blue satin bows. Behind the flowers were two two-tiered candelabra and one arched candelabra accented with blue and yellow flower arrangements.

The aisle was decorated with white wrought iron candelabra with flowers and satin bows at the front and blue satin bows on the pews.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Bridal Original gown of organza, styled in an empire line. The bodice sleeves and scalloped hemline of the detachable train was of fine Venise lace. An organdy cluster forward, lace and pearl trimmed, held her three-tiered veil of English nylon illusion.

Her only jewelry was small pearl earrings. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath.

Kimberly Nelson, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, with Beverly Claiborn, sister-in-law of the bride; Lynn Muirheid, cousin of the bride; Margaret DuMont, and Barbara Lessey as bridesmaids. Bill Schinbine was his brother's best man and ushers were Robert Ross, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Kirk Claiborn, Rand Claiborn and Scot Nelson, brothers of the bride.

Scott Claiborn and Karl Nelson, brother and sister of the bride, were candlelighters. Linda Tally was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Dorothy Gibson, organist.

The reception was held at the Blue Lakes Country Club, with Mrs. Jack Claiborn Sr., grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. Irene Fox playing background music.

The bride's table was covered with ecru lace over yellow, accented with yellow satin ribbon. The bride's cake was Falls, Washington, California, baked and decorated by Mrs. Vern Schutte.

It was a two-tiered cake, with the top layer being heart-shaped, tinted a pale blue and accented with yellow roses and silver leaves. Champagne glasses, inverted with roses inside, separated the tiers and wedding bells adorned the top of the cake.

Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. W. F. Muirheid, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. E. L. Cull, grandmother of the bride. Seated at the guest book was Lori Claiborn, sister of the bride.

Guests attended from Twin Falls, Washington, California, Washington, D.C., and Chicago, Ill.

The couple took a short honeymoon trip to Sun Valley, Colo.

Court Orders Fall Vote on Constitution

BOISE (UPI) — A divided Idaho Supreme Court upheld the validity Wednesday of putting a proposed new constitution directly before the people at the next general election.

In a 3-2 decision written by Justice Allan G. Shepard, the high tribunal reversed Fourth District Judge Marion J. Rallister who earlier ruled the revised constitution must go through a convention first.

Callister had held the revision unconstitutional and enjoined Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa from putting it on the Nov. 3 general election ballot for approval or rejection by the voters.

Drafted by a special commission created by the legislature and the product of four years' work, the revision was challenged on procedural grounds by Raymond L. Smith.

Smith contended the measure must be put before a convention first but Shepard ruled the method prescribed for revision in the present constitution is not exclusive.

"History is replete with examples of constitutions being proposed by methods not specifically authorized by then existing organic law which were later submitted to and approved by the people and are in existence as constitutions," Shepard wrote.

"Our own Idaho constitution came into being in this fashion," Shepard said if the court were to accept Smith's argument that the people have the right to revise the constitution only through calling of an authorized convention, "then we must also recognize that the will of the people may be then frustrated by the legislature since the legislature could refuse to call a convention."

"Such theory is contrary to the fundamental concept of our Republican and representative form of government wherein the legislative branch of government is elected by the people to represent them and put forward their desires and needs in the form of legislative action.

"The legislature has by express resolution deemed the calling of a constitutional convention unnecessary," Shepard wrote. "The work and the result of the work of the commission has been widely publicized through the press and the medium of public hearings.

"The legislature approved the proposed new constitution and by the same vote directed that it be submitted directly to the people for approval or rejection.

"We retain our faith in our people and their intelligence for being informed in matters of their government," he said. "There will be the final determination as it should be ideally in all matters of their government."

Justices Henry McQuade and Charles R. Donaldson concurred in the majority opinion. They indicated other opinions, presumably dissenting, may follow.

Iver J. Longetieg, attorney for Smith, said he would not rule out the possibility of a petition for re-hearing in the case, but added he would have to confer with Boise attorney Samuel Kaufman before making a decision. Kaufman represented the "Citizens for the Protection of Idaho's Constitution" as amicus curiae (friend of the court) in the case.

Longetieg will have 20 days in which to petition for re-hearing. Howard F. Manly, Boise attorney on special assignment to represent Cenarrusa, said he was pleased with the decision, adding, "I think the people as the sovereign body have the ultimate right to choose whether they can reform their government and the only way they can do that is to approve or reject the constitution which is submitted to them."

Cenarrusa said he had asked the attorney general's office to study the "supreme Court opinion in an effort to determine how many times the proposed revision should be published.

He said the present constitution calls for publication of any constitutional change at least six consecutive times in at least one general circulation newspaper in each county.

The Senate joint resolution, however, called for publication of the proposal not less than twice nor more than six times.

Cenarrusa said work had already begun on a pamphlet which will show the existing constitution alongside the proposed revision "so the people can get a good look at both of them."

TWO DIGNITARIES at the first day of the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo Wednesday afternoon were Gov. Don Samuelson, top photo, putting on cowboy hat given to him by Randy Pentz, manager of Clark Hereford Ranch, Buhl, and Democratic candidate for governor, Cecil Andrus, bottom photo, who spoke briefly to stockmen. ## Home Park Bid Planned Today

TWIN FALLS — Approval of a plan to construct a new mobile home park on farm property southeast of the city will be asked by Lynn Hempleman when members of the Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission meet today at 8:30 p.m. in the judicial building.

Hempleman said he plans construction of sewage treatment facilities on the same property but distant from the mobile area. Future plans could also include a nine-hole golf course, he said.

Hempleman told the Times-News the proposed park would be three miles south and one east of the Motorvu-Cinema corner. He said plans have been drawn by Riedesel and Straubhar, consulting engineers.

Initial construction will call for completion of 24 lots, all facing east. Each will have a square footage of 16,000 feet. Plans call for addition of another 30 lots later. Each unit will have a 100-foot lawn area, he said, and mowing will be done by the developers. All utilities will be underground.

Burley Library Chosen

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Cong. Orval Hansen announced today he has designated the Burley Public Library as a U.S. government depository for the second congressional district.

This makes the library eligible to receive a copy of all publications of the U. S. government, except for a few required for strictly official administrative and those classified for national security.

Cong. Hansen said two depository libraries are permitted in each congressional district and two for the state at large, designated by senators.

"Not only the city of Burley but the entire surrounding area will benefit from access to these government publications," the official said.

Other depository libraries are located at Idaho State University, Pocatello; Ricks College library, Rexburg; College of Idaho, Caldwell; University of Idaho, Moscow; Boise State College Library; Boise Public and Idaho State Law Library, Boise.

HAGERMAN — More than 250 Veterans of Foreign Wars members and their families are expected to attend the District 6 VFW barbecue Sunday at Thousand Springs Park, reports Ray T. Crandal, district public relations officer.

Vietnam veterans and their families are especially invited to attend, he said. The barbecue begins at noon and persons attending are asked to bring a covered dish and table service.

Hospital Work Bids Received

TWIN FALLS — An apparent low bid of $204,000 was submitted Wednesday by a Twin Falls concern, Home Plumbing and Heating Co., for air conditioning of patient rooms at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Bids were opened by Architect Robert L. Hamill, Jr., during a meeting at the Twin Falls County Commissioners' office. Also attending were hospital officials.

Hamill, of the firm of Cline, Smull, Hamill, Shaw and Associates, Boise, said the low figure as well as that of the second low bidder were within cost estimates of the designers.

Second apparent low bid was $210,600 submitted by Detweiler Plumbing and Heating. Both firms listed Shotwell Inc., Twin Falls, as electrical subcontractor. Two other firms submitted bids. They were A and B Plumbing and Heating, $235,907, and Drake Plumbing and Heating, $240,218.

Bids included two alternates which can be deducted from the base bid if necessary for economic purposes. Home Plumbing bid $12,000 deductible if portions of the hospital other than patient areas are removed from the air conditioning system, and $3,000 if a metal building for new incinerator equipment is not included.

Hamill said more than 200 days working time is being allowed as hospital officials hope the contractor will wait until all material is on hand before tearing into building walls and plaster. He said the contractor is required to use a dust screen while working and probably no more than two rooms will need to be vacated any one time during the work. The project is to be completed before hot weather next summer.

In addition to installing air conditioning equipment, remodeling is included for linen chute areas and an incinerator building, designed to eliminate air pollution.

Hospital board members will meet Monday night to review bids and make a recommendation on awarding the contract to county commissioners.

Burley Policeman Hurt When Cycle Hits Cow

BURLEY — Two Burley policemen found themselves on the opposite side of the accident report form when one of them was injured when his motorcycle struck a cow Tuesday evening.

William H. Marsh, 24, Burley, was released following treatment at Cassia Memorial Hospital for an injured shoulder. Marsh was thrown from his 1968 Kawasaki motorcycle when it struck a cow about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday three miles south of Elba on the Elba-Almo highway.

Tire Hits Truck at Fairfield

FAIRFIELD — A Ford Pickup truck owned by County Treasurer Loy Vanskike received damage estimated at $200 after it was struck by a tire and wheel which came off a passing truck.

Vanskike said the truck was parked in the yard of his home about one half mile west of here on Highway 68. Sometime Tuesday morning a tire and wheel came off a passing truck, rolled through a corner of the Wendell Mill yard, jumped a fence, went through a ditch, broke a three-board panel fence and hit the top of his truck above the door.

The errant tire then bounced to the garage roof which is about 14 feet in the air, then went 75 feet across the yard to a lumber pile where it stopped.

The community is invited to attend this reception. New teachers in the system are Patricia Hafen, second grade; Dorothea Moore, fourth grade; Lynn Lindsey, math and science; Bob Chapman, social studies and head coach; and Carolyn Langford, home economics.

Kenneth Black is the new superintendent.

Probé Ordered

RUPERT — Judge Sherman Bellwood Wednesday ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Jesse Salinas, 20, Rupert, who pleaded guilty to aggravated assault.

He was previously charged with lewd conduct with a minor girl, but upon request of Emil Pike, Twin Falls attorney, the charge was reduced.

ONE OF THE youngest exhibitors at the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo is Kris Noh, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Noh, Rogerson. Here she hugs the 1,000-pound Angus steer she taught to lead as a calf. Kris spends most of her time at the fair taking care of the steer.

Buhl To Change Main Street Parking

By PAULINE DAY
Times-News Correspondent

BUHL — Buhl will reduce the angle of parking on three blocks of Main Street to gain 48-inches of additional space for the traffic right of way.

City councilmen Tuesday night accepted a modified parking plan submitted by Buhl businessmen in response to a request by the city for a plan to alleviate parking problems in the main district.

The plan will eliminate three parking spaces in each block on each side of the street, but the businessmen pointed out the alternative — conversion to parallel parking — would have meant the loss of some 38 parking places in the three blocks between Ninth Avenue and 12th Avenue.

Councilmen also requested motorists to park their vehicles properly within the confines of the regulated parking areas. Employees of downtown businesses are asked to refrain from parking in places ordinarily used for customers, and owners of campers and trucks with high sides are asked to park on Broadway Avenue in areas where parallel parking is in force.

In other business, the council: — Issued a call for bids for seal coating for approximately 20,000 square yards of city streets with the asphalt to be furnished by the contractor and applied at a rate of 3-10 gallons per square yard with the work to be finished by Sept. 30. Bids will be accepted until Sept. 18.

— Issued card and pool table licenses to J. C. Faux, dog business as Gibbs Cigar Store, for eight card tables and five pool tables; Sunset Bowl for one pool table; Lonella McCandless, doing business as the Alibi for one pool table, and June Sherrill doing business as the Cellar Club for one pool table.

— Reinvested $20,000 in U. S. Treasury bills at a cost of $19,685.37 with a yield of 8.15 percent maturing Nov. 27, 1970.

— Issued building permits to Bill

Eaves, 1508 Main, construct addition to residence, $1,000; Jack Joelin, 909 Broadway, cement floor of storage shed and build patio, $100; Ken Patterson, 130 Broadway, install door on side of building, $450; Ernest Amerò, 128 Paysee, construct storage building, $250; Signs, Inc., install a sign at Car City, 905 Broadway, $1,000; Ray Grubbs, 229 14th Ave., construct additions to residence, $1,000; Clyde R. Mills, 629 7th Avenue, reshingle roof, $87; Kenneth Gibson, 1620 Poplar, reshingle roof, $150; C. E. Carré, 818 Alken, reroof residence, $70, and A. L. Rouse, 121 8th Ave.,

Truck Damaged Near Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Several hundred dollars damage resulted to a 1969 Ford pickup truck driven by Curtis H. Peterson, Jerome, when it left the highway and overturned in the borrow pit three miles south of Shoshone on U.S. Highway 89 at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. A camper trailer behind the pickup was still on the road and did not overturn. No one was injured. Cause of the accident was not included on the report filed Wednesday by Sheriff Thomas W. Costner.

Ely's Asking Bid Started in '30s

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Bridge score table with columns for North, South, East, West and various card suits and scores.

thing. That is what his partner can do about the club suit.

South has a very strong opening bid... 16 high-card points and two good five-card suits.

His jump to five hearts is a clear request to partner to go to six if he can handle the second round of clubs.

If West doesn't open a club South will make all the tricks but West does open his suit and does take the first two tricks.

In some respects Ely Culbertson was way ahead of his time back in the early '30s.

One of his greatest brain children was the "Asking Bid"

This bid was so far ahead of its day that no one wanted to use it back in the '30s.

Specifically, an "Asking Bid" inquires about his partner's holding in some suit.

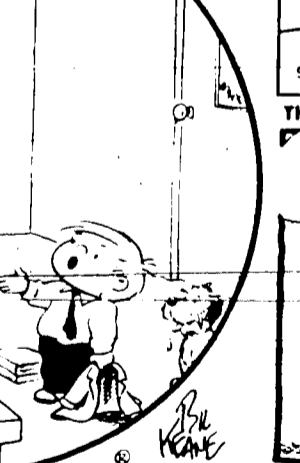

North has a mighty fine hand opposite an opening bid that improves considerably when his partner gets around to bidding the heart suit.

Our policy.

The Chicago Mercantile Exchange isn't an insurance company. But we do have a policy. This is it: we believe that a farmer or feeder who knows how much his crops or livestock will bring when they're ready for market is running his operation on a more businesslike basis than one who takes his chances on the cash market.

By utilizing a futures contract, you can ascertain your selling price months in advance. Armed with this knowledge, you can make more intelligent long-range plans.

There's another important benefit. Because you have a bona fide contract, a bank can generally loan you more money on your business prospects. This money can go into the expansion of your business.

And, ultimately, as more and more farmers and livestock producers have learned, a business prospers more when it knows where it is going than it does by taking unnecessary risks.

We provide futures markets in live cattle, live hogs, Idaho potatoes, frozen pork bellies, boneless beef, fresh and frozen eggs, hams, turkeys and other commodities.

You owe it to your operation to find out all you can about futures trading.

We'll be happy to send you information. Just write to us at the address below:
