First Killing Frost

FAIRFIELD — Camas County's first killing frost struck Monday morning when temperatures dipped to 14 degrees, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

Weather Bureau spokesman said this low temperature compares with 18 degrees the same date last year. Sunday's low was 26 degrees.

Soldier Mountain received a light snow Sunday, but soon melted off. Other high mountain peaks also received a light covering.

Arab Hijack Victims Come Home

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—A Trans World Airlines 707 left today for New York with 97 passengers from the hijacked TWA aircraft and four TWA officials. Most were women and children who had lost their passports and were worried because they were separated from their husbands and fathers.

Since most of the former hostages had no passports or other documents, the U.S. Embassy here prepared an authorized list of passengers to be used as a group travel document.

"We have cabled the list of passengers to immigration authorities in New York and they are prepared for them," an embassy spokesman said before the plane left.

As they were getting ready for the last leg of the trip home, most of the women seemed sad, worried and, despite a good night's sleep, still tired.

As they left the Nicosia airport lounge to embark on the plane some of the women were crying.

"Have you heard anything about our men?" asked Winifred Burnett of Albuquerque, N.M., wiping her eyes. "T. T. Thomas Thornton (Mr. Burnett) is such a nice man. They all call him doc. I hope the negotiations come through. Everybody says we have been brainwashed. We have not. We have been treated nice, and we are sure no evil will happen to our men who are still hostages."

Most of the 97 women and children are American citizens. They spent Sunday preparing for their departure or trying to get in touch with their families in the United States.

Tug Hits Bridge, Explodes

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (UPI)—An ocean going tug pushing three barges apparently loaded with fuel oil hit the Intracoastal Waterway Bridge Sunday night and exploded, engulfing the bridge in flames.

Four persons were burned, two seriously, and one man was missing. No identifications were available.

Fireboats from local oil companies and the Sabine Pass Coast Guard fought the fire on the south side of the bridge and land units from the Port Arthur fire department fought the fire on the bridge.

"They can't get to the south side from the land. That's where the barge apparently hit. The fire boats are fighting the barge and tug fire there," said Chief Robert Rhoads of the Sabine Pass Coast Guard.

"People on land are fighting the bridge fire, the utility boats are helping out there too," he said.

Two of the burned men were under intensive care at the Port Arthur Hospital. The other two were not seriously burned.

The missing man was thought to be the operator of the drawbridge, whose compartment was located on the south side of the bridge, in the middle of the flames.

The fire was put out in about an hour and a half. The fire boats continued to pour water on the steel superstructure of the bridge to cool it off.

Aide Denies Highway Fund Bias

BOISE — The head of Idaho's Department of Highways denied Saturday charges made by Twin Falls Mayor that the Magic Valley area has not had its fair share of state highway construction.

State Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes said "It is my evaluation that Twin Falls and the Magic Valley area have been extremely well represented on the Highway board."

Mayor Frank Feldman of Twin Falls said Sept. 3 the State Highway Board should be enlarged from three to five members to permit local representation.

Feldman said restructuring the board to include an area representative would increase the local share of the state highway dollar.

Noting former State Sen.

Lloyd Barron, Fairfield, currently represents the board administrative district of which Magic Valley is a part, Mathes pointed out during the five years from 1965 to 1969, the department's continuing statewide highway improvement program in District 2 accounted for more than 30 million dollars.

Two-thirds of this sum was for work on the Interstate Highway System because the major portion of federal-aid funds is currently assigned to that system by Congress.

Among the other improvement projects in the area was the completion of the Hansen Bridge on State Highway 50, at a cost of $1.2 million and relocation of 4.2 miles of State Highway 50 from just north of Kimberly to the Hansen bridge, at a cost of $860,000.

'Birth' Denied

GENEVA (UPI)—Red-faced International Red Cross officials said Sunday they blundered in announcing last Thursday the birth of a child to a young American woman among hijacked jetliner passengers in the Jordanian desert.

They said they "have no explanation" for the message from Red Cross delegates in Amman which announced the birth of the "hijack baby." The report was false.

Red Cross embarrassment was compounded even further by the message Red Cross President Marcel Naville sent to the alleged mother.

"I don't know your name and I don't know the sex of your baby even, but I want to wish you well," Naville said. He also asked delegates in Jordan to try and find some flowers for the "mother."

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said today the chances of peace in the Middle East were receding day by day because of continued Egyptian violations of the cease-fire and Arab guerrilla air piracy.

Speaking to a news conference in Tel Aviv, Eban defended the mass arrests of suspected Arab guerrillas and sympathizers in Israeli-occupied territory over the weekend. He denied they were being held as hostages and denounced the "gangsters and murderers" holding hijacked airline passengers in Jordan.

In Jordan, a four-member "mediation" committee sought to restore the cease-fire between Palestinian guerrillas and the Jordan army. The guerrillas and soldiers fought two heavy clashes Sunday night near Irbid, 42 miles north of Amman, breaking a truce agreement reached only two days earlier.

The guerrillas said 12 commandos and two soldiers were killed.

In Amman Sunday night, a spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) said a 1,200-man Iraqi army unit based in north Jordan was placed under the general commands of the Palestine Liberation Army (PLA). He gave no details.

The PLA is the "regular" and "official" army of the Palestine movement and has contingents stationed in the main Arab countries under the command of officers of those nations.

In his speech, Eban said "day by day, including today, there is growing evidence of Egypt's massive buildup along the Suez Canal."

"The chances of peace are receding and have receded in the past few weeks," he said. "The wholesale arraignment of the Egyptians in tearing up the cease-fire agreement certainly diminished our hopes for peace."

Referring to the series of hijackings by Arab guerrillas last week, Eban said "the hijackers and saboteurs are an international plague—we are living in an age of air piracy."

Israel withdrew from the peace talks in New York last week and said it would not return until Egypt withdraws the Soviet-made missiles the Israelis charged were moved closer to the Suez Canal in violation of the cease-fire.

With the peace-seeking mission of U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring temporarily suspended, the Big Four ambassadors scheduled their 43rd meeting in New York today in their search for a political settlement of the Middle East crisis.

Centenarian Dies

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Mary Gestring Beck, one of Twin Falls County's oldest residents, died at the age of 102 Sunday at Hazel Del Manor where she lived since coming to Twin Falls.

Mrs. Beck was born June 5, 1868 near Tell City, Ind. Her parents traveled by boat down the Ohio River more than 100 years ago. They settled on a small farm in southern Indiana. She came to this area in 1957 to reside near her son, J. William Beck.

She was one of three centenarians known to reside in Twin Falls. Other are Mrs. Amelia Dunning, Hazel Del Manor, and H.C. Gettert, 189 Buchanan St.

Other work on the State Highway system in recent years include work on Addison Avenue West in Twin Falls, on Shoshone and Washington Streets South in Twin Falls, improvement on Highway 93 from the Nevada state line to Highway 30, resurfacing of Highway 30 from Twin Falls to Filer and improvement of Second Avenue, Main Street and Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Major projects currently under contract include the Filer to Cedar crossing near Buhl, at a cost of $1,645,000 and the section of Interstate 80N between Wendell and Jerome, at a cost of $6,820,000.

"It is easy to forget or overlook major improvements of recent years when there is so much remaining to be done," Mathes said.

The state engineer noted the highway board has repeatedly pointed out that needed highway improvements statewide continue to move ahead of funding. The backlog of such needs, now at more than 650 million dollars, is increasing at a rate of some seven million dollars annually.

He said a specific case is the Perrine Bridge project in Twin Falls. Total cost for the steel-arch bridge which has been recommended is estimated at about 6.5 million dollars. This represents about 75 per cent of the entire funding available for improvements to primary highway systems in Idaho for one year, Mathes added.

Woman Hurt In Bus Wreck

TWIN FALLS — A young Buhl woman was seriously injured early today when her car and a school bus collided on U.S. Highway 30 about two miles west of Twin Falls.

The bus, owned by Memorial Lutheran School, was starting on its rounds about 7:40 a.m. There were no children on board.

Idaho State Police said the driver of the GMC bus, Linda Mae Taylor, 23, Twin Falls, was traveling west when she apparently failed to see the car operated by Marjorie L. Miller, 19, Buhl. The bus apparently made a left turn in front of the east-bound 1963 Ford operated by Miss Ward and the two vehicles collided.

Officers said the front end of the Ford struck the right front side of the bus, demolishing the car and causing several hundred dollars damage to the bus.

Miss Ward was taken by ambulance to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where she was treated for extensive head injuries. Her condition is listed as fair.

The bus driver received a minor cut on her ankle.

Stab Details Said Sketchy

TWIN FALLS — Details surrounding the stabbing of a Twin Falls man early Sunday are sketchy, according to Twin Falls police.

Officers said Jim Boyd, accompanied by a friend, came to the police station about 1:30 a.m. Sunday to report an attack upon Boyd.

The only information officers were able to obtain is that Boyd was stabbed twice in the chest and cut on the nose by a sharp instrument during an altercation in the city.

Boyd was treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and released. He told officers he did not know who attacked him.

Fair Victim Still Critical

TWIN FALLS — A carnival worker injured at the county fair last week when a high-ride struck him on the head remained in critical condition today at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Sheriff Paul Corder said the man has been positively identified as Thomas William Sherwood, about 45, Troy, Ill. He said members of the injured man's family are in Twin Falls.

HAVING BEEN held as hostages aboard one of the hijacked jetliners at Dawson's Field didn't stop these children from enjoying play with top airplanes after their release at the Intercontinental Hotel in Amman, Jordan, Saturday. Eric, far left, and Phillip Joseph, far right, are from Hartford, Conn., Gabriella Stabile, next to Eric, is from New South Wales, and Suzie and Bernie Smug are from Rochester, N.Y. (UPI)

Midi for Pat

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The mini-midi fashion controversy has hit the First Family.

There, in a White House receiving line after Sunday church services, stood Pat Nixon, in a pale green jersey dress that reached mid-calf.

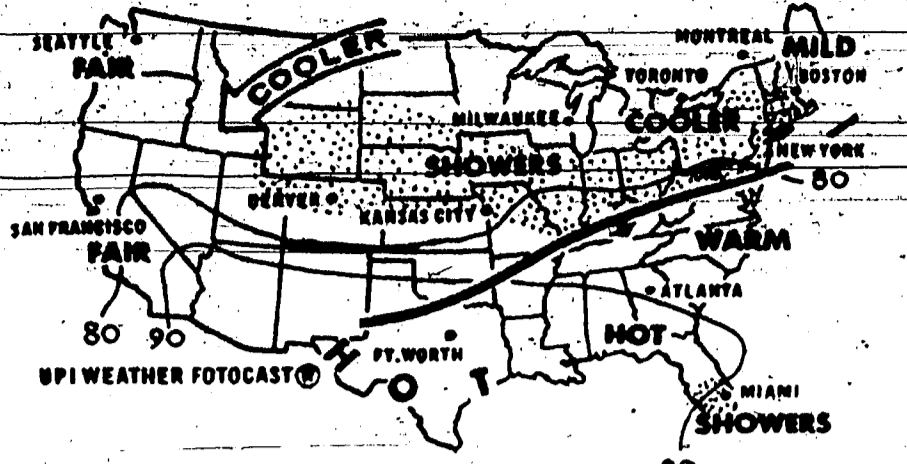

Nearby stood her daughter Julie, wearing a black and yellow print dress whose hem ended four inches above the knee. Julie, 22, says she will keep her skirts high because her husband David doesn't like the longer look.

The Nixon's other daughter, Tricia, who might have cast the deciding fashion vote, was away for the weekend.

CENTENARIAN MARY BECK, shown here on her 100th birthday anniversary, died Sunday in a local rest home at the age of 102. A resident here since 1957, she was one of the area's oldest residents.

DURING MONDAY, shower activity will occur from the mid-Rockies, eastward through the mid plains, mid Mississippi Valley, the Ohio Valley and into most of the northeast section. Showers and thunderstorms will also be indicated in southern Florida. Clear to partly cloudy, elsewhere. Cooler conditions will be expected in the Rockies, northern plains and the northeast. No major change over the remainder of the nation. (UPI)

Today it was 27 set on Sept. 9, 1946. Other readings around the state this morning for the most part are clear but eastern counties earlier during the night had some cloudiness and radar echoes showed a few rain or snow showers in the southeast corner of the state. Idaho Falls had some snow yesterday and a thunderstorm there.

Jury Probe Set For Kent Deaths

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI)—A 15-member special Grand Jury was to be impaneled Monday to investigate the fatal shooting of four students in a confrontation with Ohio National Guard troops last spring at Kent State University. The jury was expected to tour the campus Monday and witnesses were to begin testimony behind closed doors Tuesday. Attorney Robert L. Balyest, of Lima, Ohio, was named special counsel to handle the investigation. Balyest and five other attorneys worked full-time the last several weeks preparing for the investigation conferring with Attorney General Paul W. Brown once a week. Brown expects the jury will be in session for about a month, returning indictments along with its report.

called to testify behind locked doors. Judge Edwin W. Jones of Portage County Common Pleas Court told attorneys and courthouse attorneys they could not make public statements while the investigation is under way. He also banned cameras and recording devices from the courthouse. The evidence to be submitted to the jury included a 10,000-page FBI report with several thousand photographs taken at the campus during the four-day disorders. A Justice Department summary memorandum indicates six guardsmen could be held on criminal charges. The jury was expected to finish its investigation by returning indictments along with its report.

Maddox To Nixon: Stay Out

ATLANTA (UPI)—Vowing to "meet you on the political battlefield," Gov. Lester Maddox wired President Nixon and four Republican governors Sunday asking them to stay out of Georgia politics. Maddox, who won the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor last week, sent the telegrams after hearing reports that the White House had promised to send GOP emissaries to help Georgia Republicans in the general election. "If you do come," Maddox said to Nixon, "I beg of you to spend two days with me." The Governor said he wanted to tell the Administration how the "federal police state" had caused Georgia to lose "millions of dollars in investments because of closed schools."

Hippies Kidnap Realtor
By MATHIS CHAZANOV
BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—A Berkeley real estate man told police Sunday he was kidnaped from his office at gunpoint by three "hippie types" and held captive for three days in a rustic mountain cabin. Jack C. Setzer, 43, who disappeared Wednesday night while working at his office, turned up Saturday night in Susanville, a small town 200 miles northeast of here in the Sierra Nevada. Setzer is immediate past president of the Berkeley Board of Realtors and its frequent spokesman in disputes with anti-landlord groups who have staged rent strikes in the university city. An anonymous call to police after his disappearance raised the possibility he was kidnaped by left-wing radicals involved in the tenants' movement. "But Eitzer said his abductors specifically said that it wasn't part of the tenants' union dispute," He said their motive was "still up to conjecture, although the police department and I have an idea—but it's just an idea." He refused to elaborate. Police detectives, who drove Setzer back from Susanville and then questioned him, indicated they had some doubts about his story because no ransom had been sought and because "no one has made any political hay" out of the abduction. Setzer told police three men assaulted him at his office, forced him into the back seat of an old, four-door sedan, then told him to get down on the floorboards. "They didn't have to force me," Setzer said in an interview after returning to his home in nearby Lafayette. "I did what they told me. I saw one pistol." He said the three men, whom he described as long-haired "street people" but clean shaven and "very neat" drove for four or five hours first over freeways and then on a rough gravel road—to a rustic cabin. He was held inside for three days, he said, eating "onion sandwiches" and talking with his captors. He said they made no demands for a ransom. Setzer said he was treated well, allowed to eat and sleep and was not physically abused.

Suspect Gets Own Trial
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—More than a year after the Sharon Tate murders and nine months after he was indicted for them, Charles "Tex" Watson is back in California, but he won't be tried with other members of the "Manson Family." Watson appeared in Superior Court here Saturday, dressed in a neat business suit and his once long hair cropped short. Judge George M. Dell ordered the 24-year-old man held without bail and set his formal arraignment for Sept. 28. Watson was indicted by the County Grand Jury last December along with cult leader Charles Manson, Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten, who have been on trial here for the murders since June 15th. Watson's lawyer successfully delayed his extradition here until this week, when Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black refused a further stay. As a result, Watson will be tried separately from the rest of the clan, with most of the same witnesses in the current trial recalled to testify against him. Linda Kasabian, the state's star witness in the Manson trial, said it was Watson who led members of the family to the "Tate residence on Manson's orders, and that Watson was also present the following night when Rosemary and Leno LaBianca were killed. She also testified that Watson fired the shots which killed Stephen Parent, 18, in Miss Tate's driveway, and that he repeatedly stabbed Voityck Frykowski as he lay bleeding and dying on the actress' lawn.

Family Aid OK Forecast
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Presidential Adviser Daniel P. Moynihan predicted Sunday that the Senate would pass the Nixon Administration's family assistance welfare plan. He said the rush of Congress to adjourn before elections and the campaign speeches of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew were no obstacles. "The President is very confident that there is at least 60 votes for this on the floor of the Senate," said Moynihan, Nixon's domestic affairs counselor and architect of the bill. Moynihan made his comments during a television interview (Face the Nation—CBS). "The question now is not so much the votes as the clock," Moynihan said. "Time is running out. You can be beaten by the clock when Congress is coming to a close."

Monetary Revision Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The executive directors of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) Sunday rejected proposals for the major revisions of the world's currency exchange system but suggested additional study of some less sweeping suggestions. The report was made public in advance of the IMF's annual meeting which begins Sept. 21 in Copenhagen. Any change in the system by which one national currency can be exchanged for another would have to be approved by the full membership. The directors said three proposals to tie exchange values more closely to the international purchasing power of the currency were ruled out because they would cause more problems than they would solve. Rejected were: —A system of freely fluctuating exchange rates based on laws of supply and demand. —A plan permitting greater variations in value—above or below the fixed "par" value. —A method for automatically readjusting par values on the basis of a mathematical formula.

Few GOP Members Targets

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro Agnew's attack on "radical liberals" who "applaud our enemies and castigate our friends" will include a "Republican or two."

Agnew, who is on a six-state campaign tour on behalf of Republican candidates, relaxed in this desert resort Sunday, as the house guest of Bob Hope. Monday he travels to Las Vegas, Nev.

Agnew Saturday refused to identify the seven or eight "radical liberals" in the U.S. Senate who have been his top but anonymous targets in recent speeches.

"I want to keep your interest alive," Agnew told newsmen.

Although Agnew did not specifically name him, Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., appeared to be one of the targets. Goodell has been a strong critic of the Vietnam War and is involved in a tough, three-way re-election campaign.

Agnew said the Goodell "has requested that neither President-Nixon nor I appear in New York for him or anyone else."

Nevada Democrats have criticized Agnew's plans to speak on behalf of Senate candidate William Raggio. They charged that Gov. Paul Laxalt is giving state employees time off "on a command performance basis" to greet Agnew Monday.

The Governor's office said it had informed heads of state departments they should inform workers they could leave their jobs for one hour to attend Agnew's arrival.

Expo 70 Closes Run With Music, Dancing

OSAKA, Japan (UPI)—The Japanese closed Expo 70 Sunday in a brilliant flash of color with Geisha girls dancing, drums booming and trumpets blaring.

Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, Crown Prince Akhito and Crown Princess Michiko took part in the closing ceremonies in Festival Plaza, center of the 815-acre world's fair.

"I am convinced that this exhibition, while manifesting Asian characteristics as the first world exposition in Asia, has truly served as a place for global dialogues," Sato said during the ceremony.

Nine thousand invited guests attended the ceremony, and the rails of the huge plaza were lined nine deep with Japanese who clapped their hands and joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Afterwards, a parade of brass bands and hostesses wearing traditional costumes wound its way through the jam-packed fair site. Hostesses threw cherry blossoms, the symbol of Expo, to the crowd.

Expo 70 proved to be the most successful world's fair in history, shattering all attendance records and producing a profit of nearly $30 million.

The total attendance over its six month run is expected to total about 64.5 million, nearly 15 million more than the 50 million figure that was predicted before the fair opened.

Storm Dies In Mexican Mountains

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Hurricane Ella, which formed quickly in the Gulf and sent thousands of Texas coastal residents fleeing inland, beat herself out over northern Mexico mountains Sunday.

The Weather Bureau said Ella's winds were only 35 miles per hour Sunday. She had slammed inland early Saturday, on the Mexico Gulf Coast at La Pesca, a small fishing village, with 111 mile an hour winds.

Remnants of the storm blew over south Texas, kicking up winds estimated at 40 miles an hour at Brownsville, and dropping so much rain that the Weather Bureau warned of possible flooding.

There were no reports of damage or casualties in the storm.

Soviet Satirist Out Of Cell After Term

MOSCOW (UPI)—Satirist Yuli Daniel resumed life as a Soviet-style free man Sunday—out of prison but barred from Moscow and separated from his wife, who has been exiled to Siberia.

Friends of the writer said he left Vladimir Prison about 100 miles east of Moscow Saturday upon completion of his five-year sentence and went directly to Kaluga, a Russian provincial town where he has been ordered to live.

"I'm tired, tired, and I'll have to relax for awhile," the friends quoted Daniel as saying.

Daniel and Novelist Andrei Sinyavsky, both now 44, were co-defendants at a 1966 trial that aroused worldwide indignation over the issue of intellectual freedom as opposed to state security.

The Soviets accused both of damaging national interests by writing "slandorous concoctions" about Soviet life and smuggling them to the West for publication.

Delegate To Return

PARIS (UPI)—Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, head of the Viet Cong delegation at the Vietnam peace talks, will return to Paris today after a three-month absence, Viet Cong officials announced.

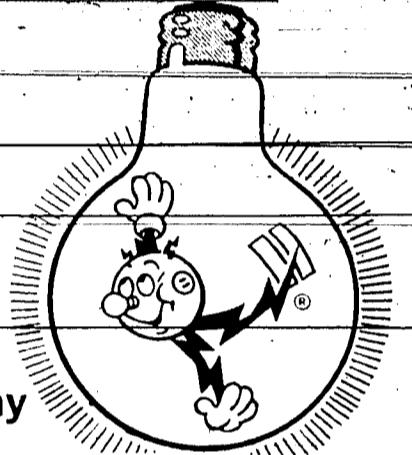

The officials declined to say whether Mme. Binh would retake her place at the conference table at Thursday's scheduled 84th session of the stalemated 19-month-old talks.

Mme. Binh's return will follow nearly three weeks after that of North Vietnam's chief negotiator.

WILL BANKAMERICARD SPOIL TOM LAYMAN?

Probably not.

Because BankAmericard doesn't go to just anybody. Banks know what's what and who's who. They try to send BankAmericard only to people who will use it sensibly.

But hold on.

What if BankAmericard spoils Tom Layman? What if he kicks his standards overboard? What if he starts spending like Diamond Jim? Not very likely.

Credit lines established by commercial banks serve as a protection for both the bank and the customer. Banks are exercising due care and are not encouraging excessive spending. And, like all good BankAmericard customers Tom Layman exercises his own care. He uses BankAmericard the way he uses money.

Saigon Land Reform

WASHINGTON — The South Vietnamese government's ambitious program of land reform, making steady and impressive progress, is about a month ahead of schedule.

That is the appraisal of attorney Roy L. Prosterman, principal architect of the "Land-to-the-Tiller" program which was pushed through the Saigon legislature early this year by the President Nguyen Van Thieu. Prosterman has been in town to follow up on the plan.

If he is correct, and many South Vietnamese peasants are headed for a newly fruitful harvest late this year, that fact could be a vital important buttress for the Thieu government. It would also bolster U.S. hopes for a stable government in Saigon.

Prosterman, a 34-year-old land law expert who is now a professor at the University of Washington Law School, was a member of the Stanford Research Institute task-force which studied the South Vietnamese economy in 1967. He was instrumental in selling the idea of land reforms, here and in Saigon.

His reform proposals were incorporated in the law which was ultimately signed by President Thieu. It is designed to transfer ownership of some three million acres of land from a small group of landlords to the Vietnamese tenant farmers who actually farm the land.

About a million South Vietnamese families — some six million of that country's 17 million population — are dependent on tenant farming. Some of those farm families are already getting title to their family-size plots.

The Thieu government plans to distribute about half a million acres of land, under the "Land-to-the-Tiller" program by the end of this year. Former landlords get a 20 per cent cash down payment and the balance in eight-year bonds.

Prosterman believes, however, that the effect of the program on the South Vietnamese peasantry is reaching well beyond those farmers, a couple of hundred thousand of them, who will officially get title to their farms. That is because of actions previously taken by Thieu in anticipation of the new law.

For more than a year, the government has been distributing its government-owned properties to tenant farmers. More than 100,000 farmers have now taken title to more than 300,000 acres once owned by the government.

Thieu has also ended rent payments by tenants pending the receipt of ownership title by tenants. In early 1969 he ordered an occupancy "freeze" guaranteeing tenant farmers the right to stay on farms which they would ultimately own.

Reports here indicate that these government edicts have been well publicized and that tenants are, in general, occupying their farms rent-free while they make application for formal title and await realization of an old Vietnamese proverb, "He should own the land who rubs it between his hands each season."

In Asia the Communists have often championed the cause of land reform. It may be an index of the success of the "Land-to-the-Tiller" program that it has come under sharp attack from the Vietcong.

Communist propaganda broadcasts have stepped up their criticism of the government's land reform efforts. There have also been reports that Vietcong raiders, indoctrinating hamlet and village leaders during nocturnal forays, have focused on land reform as a government trick.

We reported from Vietnam in April that U. S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker had termed the land reform program there the most extensive and revolutionary of which he was aware in a long diplomatic career. At that time, however, other U. S. officials told us privately that they were anxious to see how the program would be administered by the Thieu government.

Now the reports which reach Prosterman are that the land distribution process is being well handled. Spot surveys, still incomplete, will give a better reading, but he is inclined to believe that the often criticized Thieu government is performing well in this respect.

Thumb Sucking

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would make an 18-year-old girl suck her thumb? My daughter is breaking my heart. She seems to do it when she is nervous and tired.

I have tried to talk to her, but she cries whenever I say anything, so I've tried to ignore it. She won't see a doctor, so I don't know how to help her.

She's a perfect lady in all ways, but I know this habit will hurt her if her friends or boyfriend found out. Maybe you can tell me what to do. — C.M. Don't tell me she has just acquired the habit. It isn't the first such case I've heard of, though.

I can agree that it will probably cause her some grief if her contemporaries find out, but there are several things in your letter that make me wonder whether there isn't more to this than meets the eye.

For one thing, I can't see any reason why she should cry when you talk to her about this — unless, as I suspect, she is under some considerable emotional pressures of some sort.

Even the fact that she's "a perfect lady" might have some significance. Either by upbringing or by natural inclination she may have spent her 18 years being such a perfect lady that she swallows all her resentments and tries to ignore her disappointments.

Instead of finding some other way of venting her frustrations and unhappinesses — and everybody has some — she resorts to thumb-sucking and tears.

This is one type of situation in which I think some psychological or psychiatric counseling can be an excellent investment for the future. No, I'm not saying she is mentally unbalanced! But I do suspect that she is neurotic and needs some skilled counsel on how to achieve a happier outlook on life.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a person is taking pills for a water condition, how much water should be consumed in a day? — Mrs. R.

You mean, I am sure, diuretics, taken to increase the amount of water expelled by the body — to get rid of swelling caused by fluid accumulating in the tissues.

The answer is that, unless your doctor specifically orders you to reduce your fluid intake, just be governed by thirst. When thirsty, drink some water.

When fluid accumulates in the tissues, you can't correct it by a "drying out" process. The body still needs a substantial amount of water every day. A large proportion of the body is water. You need a flow of water through the kidneys to wash away wastes. You lose water by perspiring and with every breath you expel.

The excess water in the tissues isn't doing you any good. Quite the reverse. So you want to get rid of that. But that does not change the fact that you need a continuing flow of water through the body.

Remember also that you get a lot of water other than that which you drink in the form of plain water. Fruits and vegetables contain a lot of water, not to mention tea, coffee, milk, soups, and so on.

Thirst is the best guide to how much water to drink.

Back From The Dead

The Marine corporal from Muskogee, Okla., on night patrol in Vietnam triggered a booby trap, shrapnel hit his femoral artery and his jugular vein. A medical corpsman in the field pronounced him "dead."

After six hours in the morgue, they were zipping Cpl. Bob Madewell's remains in a canvas bag for shipment home — when he managed to make a sound. Rushed into surgery, he survived.

Medical science cannot yet answer to its own satisfaction two very basic questions: When does life begin — and end?

In recent months, a premature baby girl was delivered in Corpus Christie, Texas, declared stillborn. In an ambulance on the way to the funeral home the infant began breathing.

In Nottingham, England, undertakers put Douglas Gordon in a coffin before they noticed his lips moving.

Mrs. Kim Nevitt lay on a mortuary slab in Liverpool, England, with a death tag around her wrist when a mortuary attendant noticed a tear rolling down her cheek. She recovered.

At our Air Force Academy in Colorado, Cadet Bill Emmer was impaled by a javelin. His breathing stopped. His heart stopped. He was "clinically dead." He recovered.

At Eglin Air Force Base in Florida a civil engineer took 12,000 volts from a transformer on which he was working. Ed Bonney, "technically dead," was revived.

All these and more instances have crossed my desk within recent months, attesting to the inadequacy of our accepted definitions of life and death.

How many other "mistakes" have been buried?

The necessity for uniform criteria is more urgent now since organ transplants and new abortion laws.

At the recent American Medical Assn. convention in Chicago doctors struggled anew with the problem and again failed to agree on a solution.

Traditionally and legally, one is dead when his heart stops beating. But too many irrefutable examples contradict that.

Some physicians will decree death only when the brain waves cease. Yet brain waves are not measurable in the human fetus until the eighth week and some doctors believe life begins with the first instant of conception.

Thus the AMA was unable to agree on either ethical or moral guidelines for its own members. Intimidated by the threat of

The Peace Move

WASHINGTON — A week after a group of Senators urged President Nixon to emphasize a comprehensive standstill cease-fire at the Vietnamese peace talks in Paris, it is possible to report that the initiative came by way of the Soviet Union and India.

The story of this initiative is enunciated unequivocally by White House sources — unequivocally and with cautious enthusiasm. Their attitude, naturally, is that a cease-fire has a good chance if it has Moscow's backing, with the not inconsiderable adherence of "neutral" New Delhi. Nor are they disturbed about public efforts to shoot down the proposal by both the Saigon and Hanoi regimes.

In a nutshell, the position of these Presidential sources is that a cease-fire now has become a distinct possibility in the reasonably near future.

Behind this new optimism is the tale of two cities — Moscow and New Delhi. Through regular diplomatic channels the Soviet Union two weeks ago dropped the hint to Washington that the North Vietnamese might be interested in changing their mind and accepting a cease-fire "under the proper conditions." At about the same time, Indian spokesmen privately informed the State Department that President Thieu was under tremendous pressure from peace advocates within his own government to accept a truce.

Nobody will say so out loud, but the suspicion is strong that this intelligence was leaked to Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.), who took the lead in organizing the new cease-fire overture.

Lending support to this suspicion is the fact that the Jackson proposal was endorsed by an unusual mixture of hawks and doves, including such politically divergent legislators as Sens. Jack Javits (R-N.Y.), Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), Birch Bayh (D-Ind.), and Robert Dole (R-Kans.).

As one State Department type put it, "All these senators knew, or suspected, that Scoop Jackson knew something."

There was also the circumstance that the proposal is in line with President Nixon's approach to the Paris peace talks. Nixon has always been willing to discuss a cease-fire, and in the words of Press Secretary Ron Ziegler, the senators' proposal is "generally consistent with the United States position."

And then, of course, there is always the aspect of political gimmickery. The President must be aware that any serious effort to achieve a cease-fire, with all its complications, requires strong bipartisan support on Capitol Hill.

It is generally agreed that the Soviet Union's participation in cease-fire discussions is of enormous significance. Although talking tough publicly, Moscow has always favored a settlement in Vietnam as a means of scoring points against Communist China, whose influence in Southeast Asia is a matter of grave concern to the Russians. And Hanoi can be expected to listen at least to Moscow's argument if only because the Soviets have more money available for economic aid to North Vietnam than Peking is willing to offer.

Meanwhile, official sources say that India is using its influence to round up support for a cease-fire from the governments of Laos, Thailand and Cambodia.

The big problem remains the implementation of Jackson and Co.'s proposal for international supervision of the cease-fire.

Cooperation

Idaho State Journal

Among the facts which surfaced in the wake of Councilman Perry Swisher's allegations that drug sales are widespread among minority groups and others in Pocatello are these: that arrests are difficult because it is necessary to make a "buy", which obviously is difficult for a local police officer to do, and that cooperation between law enforcement agencies is not what it could be.

Bingham County and Blackfoot authorities disclosed in a recent Journal interview they have the same problems in fighting illegal sales of drugs.

In order to catch someone selling the stuff, it usually is necessary to bring in an undercover state agent, who may pose as a hippie type with beard and appropriate garb. Even when that tactic succeeds, resulting in an arrest, there is no guarantee that conviction will follow. Pocatello Police Chief John Perkins has found through hard experience that only airtight cases will stand up through intimidation of witnesses, delays in court and evasive legal tactics. Unless the trap is perfectly laid, with marked and identifiable money paid the drug seller, and the drugs promptly and authoritatively identified as illegal, there is little likelihood of conviction.

So it is one thing to know that drugs are being sold, and quite another to put an effective stop to the practice by arrest and conviction. It is one more priority item for the next legislature to consider — addition of several undercover agents to assist local police in the war on drugs.

In the meantime, it still is possible for local authorities to make headway — especially if there is close cooperation as apparently exists in Bingham County.

In Pocatello, we are not so sure of such cooperation. In the flap which followed Swisher's allegations, for instance, Chief Perkins raised a valid question. Why put all the heat on the city police force, when the sheriff is the chief law enforcement officer in the county? The obvious answer is that most drug sales, like other violations, occur within the city and local police traditionally bear responsibility for dealing with infractions within city limits. This should not deter county officers from turning their attention to the problem, which they occasionally do, but the fact is that the two local law enforcement agencies operate virtually independently of each other. That usually means the sheriff's officers don't worry about municipal crime.

City Police are not "soft" on East Side crime. Perkins points out that continuing pressure has resulted in cutting arrests for public drunkenness and related offenses from 2,000 per year a decade ago to about 700 per year now. It was city police, with help of a state undercover agent, who arrested eight persons early this year on charges of selling drugs.

So the important thing is to keep the heat on. It is recognized that difficulties exist, but it also should be recognized they can be overcome.

When what the President is saying and what he is doing.

Mr. Nixon continues to insist that his administration is not going to be as nasty in pressing for integration as his predecessors. He says he will depend on the common sense and cooperation of white southerners rather than on heavy federal force.

But that force is being applied and appears to be succeeding.

Scholar's Life

Christian Science Monitor

A CBS-TV reporter after surveying the wreckage of the University of Wisconsin's math and physics center, said that if the bombers had sought to end research at the center, they had failed. Research was being taken up elsewhere on campus.

A New York Times reporter, however, came away with a different story. Not only had valuable computer and atom accelerator equipment been lost, and years of research hopelessly scrambled. Worse, the bomb, which was of astonishing physical force, bore an emotional impact even greater. Fear, sadness had come over the professors and graduate researchers. Something lapsed in the hearts of many of them with the blast — confidence in the university, any university, as a place for serious scholarship.

The truth may well lie in both an optimistic and a pessimistic direction. We find it hard to believe that the impulse to study and reflect and experiment can long be frustrated. It is a fundamental instinct in the scholar, and ineradicable.

Yet it is also true that the concussive effect of revolutionary radicalism can so madden, confuse, and enervate the university world, that an intellectual dark age could set in.

Is it worth it all, many scholars are beginning to ask.

What has come of the hours and days and months of talk, deliberation, the endless rapping among faculty and administration and students since the Free Speech Movement, back in 1964, brought the current obsessive introspectiveness to the campus?

Phrases being used to describe the campus on the threshold of the fall semester are like these: "Explosive campus year seen" (referring to the mood of the National Student Association assembly last week in St. Paul, Minn.); "Use of colleges as battleground" ((What a ranking American sociologist deplored about the use of the campus by politicizers to work changes in war, urban, race problems).

What, we must ask, is a university for?

Not for studying life's problems in isolation, to be sure.

But neither is it to be used as a fulcrum for intimidation, with radicals bearing down on one side, and the repressive elements of society pressing down on the other, both threatening to drive the free university into the ground.

Frankly, the university has in part brought much of this on itself. It has been duped into identifying itself both as ultimate repository of political wisdom, and as moral crucible of the nation.

This hubris may prove more than it can bear.

Nixon Acts

Lewiston (Ida.) Tribune

The Nixon administration, which blow hot and cold on equalizing opportunity in America, is currently blowing very hot indeed. More school integration is being accomplished this fall than under any previous administration. And that development, while far from popular in the South, is causing less of a stir there than more modest efforts in the past.

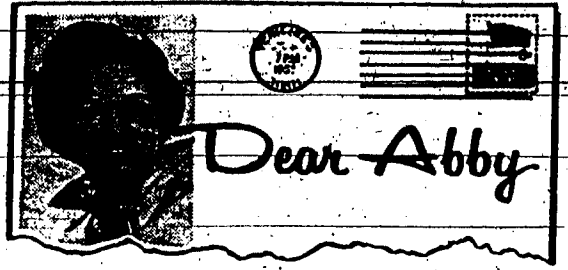

The paradox is probably best explained by the difference bet-

DEAR ABBY: A while back a grown man wrote in saying he liked to chew on rubber objects as it relaxed him. Then someone caught him chewing on a rubber duck and he was embarrassed. Well, tell him not to be ashamed as my husband is the best in the world and he has a similar peculiarity.

When our daughter was a baby, I found her pacifier in our bed. I thought it had dropped out of her mouth while she was in our bed, but later I found the pacifier in the drawer of our nightstand table, and I couldn't for the life of me figure out how it got there.

Then one morning I woke up early and saw my husband sound asleep with the pacifier in his mouth! We had a good laugh over it, and that evening when I fixed the baby's bottle I jokingly asked him if he wanted a bottle, too. He said yes, so I fixed him one.

He loved it, so I kept fixing him a bottle right along with the baby's. I took the baby off the bottle when she was 14 months old, but my husband still has one every night, and he is 37. Please don't use our name as my husband is well-known here. He works on the Space Program. Thank you.
HAPPY WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Give my regards to your husband. He is out of this world. And so are you.

DEAR ABBY: You did this office a tremendous disservice when you came out with the statement, "Slacks are now acceptable for afternoon wear almost everywhere."

In our Board of Realtors, numbering in the hundreds, only one woman wears slacks in the office and to show property, and the rest of us wish she wouldn't. This gal has a big broad fanny.

I personally think slacks should be manufactured to size none only. Any woman who needs a bigger size should take a good look at herself in a rearview mirror.

PROFESSIONAL WOMAN

DEAR WOMAN: Aren't you forgetting that many women wear slacks—not so much for "looks"—but for comfort and practicality? We all can't be size nine.

DEAR ABBY: I had a brief affair with an employee. She is considerably younger than I. We are both married. She, not I, broke it up and I am still very hurt about it.

She is now having an affair with a young fellow employee and I am sure she knows that I am aware of it. The problem is that lately her work has been so poor that she deserves to be fired, but I'm afraid if I fired her she would think it was because she broke up with me and now has somebody else. How now, brown cow?
WAITING

DEAR WAITING: What are you waiting for? Warn her that if she doesn't shape up you will have to ship her out. But be honest with yourself. If she hadn't broken up with you and taken up with the other fellow, would her incompetence cause you to fire her?

DEAR ABBY: No problem here, I just wanted you to know that your name was mentioned in court the other day.

While I was in traffic court, the lady ahead of me said to the judge, "I was speeding because my husband has been running around with another woman and I wanted to get home before he could leave." The judge's amusing reply, "Sorry, lady. Pay the fine, and go home and write to Dear Abby."

Jill Peterson, Nelson Wed in LDS Temple Rites

JEROME — Jill Peterson, daughter of Mrs. Clifton U. Peterson, Jerome, and Bruce Nelson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Nelson Sr., Great Falls, Mont., were united in marriage Aug. 28.

The Salt Lake City LDS Temple was the setting for the double ring ceremony. The matching rings featured Alaskan-gold nuggets. The couple was accompanied to the Temple by their parents and 40 other relatives and friends.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a luncheon at the Chuck Arama in Salt Lake City after the wedding where relatives and friends joined the wedding party. They were honored at a garden reception at the home of the bride's mother, 818 E. Ave. B., Jerome.

For the reception, the bride wore a white crepe pants suit trimmed with Venise lace featuring a mandarin collar, which she designed and made. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of daisies, chrysanthemums and roses, accented with mint-green bows and streamers.

The bride's attendants were Karin Owens, cousin of the bride, Sacramento, Calif., and Michele Nelson, sister of the bridegroom, Great Falls, Mont. Groomsmen were Dennis Coxford and Terry Holmes, Great Falls.

The bride's gift to her attendants was a book written by the bridegroom's cousin, "Secrets of a Happy LDS."

The bride's table was covered with an ivory lace cloth over a pink-ruffled skirt. It was centered with a white tiered wedding cake which featured angels around the layers and a cherub on top draped with pink icing to match the pink roses on the cake.

The cake sat on a reflecting round mirror encircled with Lilies of the Valley. The table was decorated with candles and a bouquet of mixed flowers. Ella Robinson baked the cake and decorated the table.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a red cloth and centered with an elaborately adorned and decorated turkey. Ham, hors d'oeuvres, canapes, cream puffs and bridegroom's cake completed the table. Leo Soran catered the food.

Guests were served at large family-style tables covered with red cloths and centered with arrangements of mixed flowers carrying out the old fashioned theme. The arrangements were flanked by red hurricane candle lights that matched the red lanterns surrounding the patio. The tables were placed under and around a weeping willow tree. A wagon wheel entwined with large sunflowers added to the casualness of the reception.

Jack Morley was host. Mrs. Roy Backman, Santa Maria, Calif., aunt of the bride, poured punch and presided at the bride's table. Mrs. Jack Morley and Mrs. William Lucchesi, Orangevale, Calif., aunt of the bride, presided and served at the bridegroom's table.

Michele Nelson was in charge of the guest register. Mrs. Donald Daw and Mrs. John Butters were in charge of the gifts. Gift carriers were Kristin Peterson and Noelle Nelson. Mrs. Norman Herzinger, Twin Falls, played traditional organ background music.

The bride was honored at a kitchen shower hosted by Mrs. Leroy Craig, and at a personal shower given by Mrs. Jack Morley and Mrs. Bert Scott.

The bridegroom's parents hosted an open house Sept. 12 in Great Falls.

The couple is honeymooning in Sun Valley and Canada.

The bridegroom will be associated with his father in real estate, land development, insurance and recreational ranches. They will reside in Great Falls.

Special out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Roy Backman and family, Santa Maria, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lucchesi and family, Orangevale, Calif., and Mrs. Minerva Molen, grandmother of the bridegroom.

Other guests attended from Montana, California, Utah, Twin Falls, Burley, Hagerman, Malta and Jerome.

Heyburn Couple Feted On 50th Wedding Anniversary

HEYBURN — Mr. and Mrs. James F. Wilcox, Heyburn, were honored for their Golden Wedding Anniversary with an open house Saturday at the Heyburn LDS Cultural Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox were married Oct. 6, 1920, in the Salt Lake LDS Temple, and are the parents of six children, one of whom died in 1960. They have 22 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Sponsoring the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilcox, New York City, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilcox, Farmington, Utah; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jones, Tacoma, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Holm, Burley; S.Sgt. and Mrs. Max Wilcox, Mountain Home, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Wilcox, Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. Wilcox was born Nov. 12, 1893, at Woods Cross, Utah, and came to Heyburn in 1920 where he farmed with a brother, Paul. He fulfilled an LDS central states mission between 1916-18. After his marriage to Blanche Warner, the couple settled at Heyburn. He worked for the railroad nine years and for the sugar company several years. He retired in 1963 as custodian of Heyburn Schools after serving 23 years. He has been ill the past two years because of a heart ailment.

Mrs. Wilcox was born Dec. 7, 1899, at Antimony, Utah, and lived under pioneer conditions. Her family lived in a log house without electricity. The family came to Idaho in 1903 and settled on a ranch northwest of Oakley. They later moved to Marion and then her father homesteaded on the Minidoka Project at Heyburn starting the fall of 1907.

The school children walked to school or used horse and buggy. When weather conditions were too bad, they would use a sleigh to go to school.

Mrs. Wilcox has been active in both church and civic activities and has served many years with MIA youth. She says her heart is still with youth. This is apparent in the attractive yard she keeps up, complete with animal lawn figures.

She served as the first cook for the first PTA-sponsored school lunch program at Heyburn and cooked on what was referred to as the "big black monster." Her kitchen and food was always rated the "most popular" place in the Heyburn School.

She worked at Shelly's Processing Plant, Burley, before her retirement in 1962, and has spent her time since then rock collecting and keeping her yard attractive.

Lincoln Meeting Planned

SHOSHONE — The Lincoln County Farm Bureau annual election dinner will be held at 7:30 p. m. Oct. 20 at the Manhattan cafe, officers report after their meeting Thursday night at the court house, Shoshone.

The dinner menu is chicken fried steak. There will be a special speaker and entertainment, to be announced later.

The Lincoln County Farm Bureau will purchase 12 books, "Food", a story of the farm, from farm to home, especially written for children ages 8-14. This is an American Farm Bureau education program. These books will be given to the Dietrich, Shoshone and Richfield school, Shoshone and Richfield city libraries.

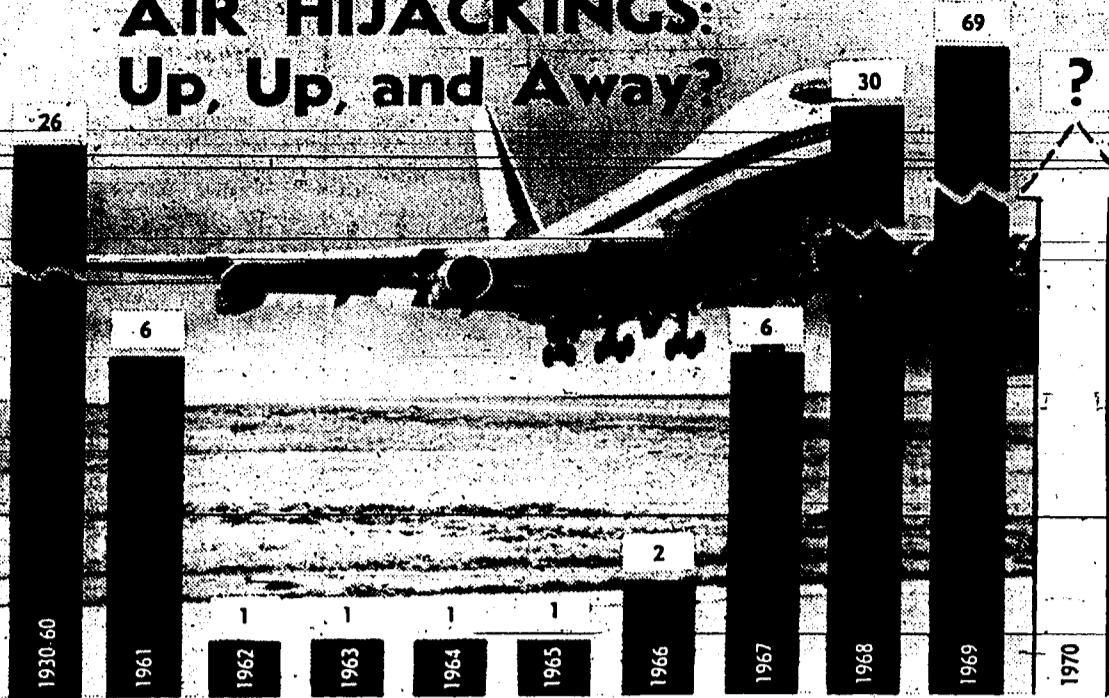

Farm Bureau cook books have also been ordered for those in the district wanting them.

Mrs. Ervin Braun announced Lincoln county had surpassed the 1970 membership quota by one with a total of 123 family members. The county has made the quota or better for a number of years now and this year all eight counties in District three either met or exceeded their quotas, according to information from the state.

Robert Sexton, District Three fieldman, gave information on the Marketing Association in Idaho, particularly concerning livestock. He also reported a new system begins immediately in secretarial reports from the County Farm Bureau to the State.

The next meeting will be Oct. 1.

AIR HIJACKINGS: Up, Up, and Away?

Plane hijackings are not a recent development. Federal Aviation Administration air piracy records go back 40 years, almost to the beginning of commercial aviation. But the current increase is alarmingly steep. With the four Mideast seizures, the 1970 total reached 43. In addition to the United States, 31 countries—including Egypt, the Soviet Union and Cuba—have had planes seized over the years.

Project Replacing Hammer, Saw In Home Building Pushed Ahead

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Confident that it has overcome a spring and summer of neighborhood opposition, the government is pushing ahead with a project in eight communities that is intended to substitute modern technology for the hammer, saw and copper pipe method of building homes.

Construction is to begin soon on housing "prototypes" which Secretary George Romney of the Department of Housing and Urban Development is counting on to meet the worst shortage of homes since World War II. Harold B. Finger, assistant HUD secretary for research and technology, said in an interview that the first of about 1,500 prototypes should be completed in 10 to 15 months.

People will begin living in the homes as soon as they are finished.

Romney calls the project Operation Breakthrough because its aim is to smash old-fashioned concepts and methods which have produced a severe lack of skilled labor, building materials, land and money for housing and have made home construction a slow and expensive process.

The first two barriers encountered by the government had nothing to do with technology our outmoded local building codes. In several of the target communities, opposition from local residents was bitter and Congress cut the money planned for the campaign by almost half.

Local protests were founded mostly in fears that Operation Breakthrough would produce low-cost "public housing" to attract poor and black tenants and would depress property values.

55 Receive Aid

POCATELLO — Fifty-five Magic Valley students are among the 240 students entering Idaho State University this month to receive scholarships.

Gooding; Jeffrey Tupper, Hagerman, and Betty Brookshier, Hansen.

They include Deanne Kowitz, Patricia Blair, Rick Bollar, Carol Fetzer, Richard Roemer, Richard Schafer, Karen Short, Randy Shufeldt and Sara Stonecker, all Minico High School.

Enrollment Decreases

RICHFIELD — Enrollment in the Richfield school system has decreased from last year, according to Supt. Neil Anderson.

He said as of Friday there were 181 in the system, which is a decrease of 11 from last spring. When school opened this fall there were 24 fewer students, but new students moving into the community have increased the pupil load to 181.

Larry Judd, Raft River; Patricia Baumann, Ann Freeman, Deborah Guthrie and Ellis Johnson, all Shoshone; Anita Hamlett, Shauna Jensen, John Moore, Sherie Nelson, Regina Teasley and Gregory Wills; all Twin Falls; Bill Eaton and Carolyn Tronson, both Wendell; Mary Sproule, Hailey.

Susan Barron, Dennis Bennett, Steven Fawcett, Annette Gomez, Teresa Kambrick, Carol Meier, Phillip Quigley and Douglas Snow, all Buhl; Jerri Alphin, Mary Clark, Robert Cox, Curtis Nielson, Pamela Pollard, Mary Seymour, Darwin Silcock, Guy Weech, Nancy West, Diana Wildman, Lois Wilson and Julie Thompson, all Burley.

John Harman, Norman Jones, Rebecca Meunier, John Richel and Patricia Summerfield, College of Southern Idaho; Janice Ockerman and Florence Wernette, both Filer; Shawnee Bishop, Cathy Boring and Jean Henderson, all

Tankers To Grow In Size

NEW YORK (UPI)—The day ultimately will come when residents of the Eastern United States will be dependent for oil carried by tankers much too big for existing harbors, says President Edward Quirin of Frederic R. Harris, Inc.

"That means we will have to have offshore unloading depots of some kind," said Quirin, whose company has designed mammoth tanker terminals at Bantry Bay, Ireland; in Kuwait; at Kharg Island, Iran; Algeiras, Spain; Come-By-Chance, Newfoundland; Point Tupper, Nova Scotia, and Okinawa. Harris is a division of planning Research Corp.

"The supertankers being built now in the 400,000-500,000 ton range draw more than 80 feet of water when fully loaded, and you can scarcely count on 60 feet of water in the deepest harbors of the U.S. Atlantic Coast," Quirin explained.

He doesn't expect the need to bring oil to the U.S. Atlantic Coast in such giant tankers to come suddenly or even quickly. But the problem of bringing Alaskan oil to the Atlantic Coast may hasten the decision, he said.

Esso's success in forcing the Northwest Passage with the tanker Manhattan did not settle the question of how to bring oil from Alaska.

Quirin said the Manhattan's voyages did show that to haul oil through the Arctic from Alaska economically and safely a tanker must be huge and fast, probably too big to enter any U.S. Atlantic harbor.

Quirin and Jerome Fisher, his executive vice president, said opposition to further extensive dredging operations on the Atlantic Coast is rising. People and business leaders are too concerned about the ecology.

Committee Calls Meet

SHOSHONE — A special meeting of the Lincoln-Blaine Pomona Grange resolutions committee will be held along with subordinate grange masters at 8:30 p. m. on Sunday, Sept. 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Barney, north Shoshone.

Resolutions will be prepared to send to the state grange, to be considered at the state grange meeting to be held the last week of October at Lewiston.

Chicanos Quit Class Frequently

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A group of Mexican-American leaders told the President's Commission on Campus Unrest Saturday that up to 80 per cent of all Chicano students drop out before they finish high school.

If they do graduate, said Don Morales of Washington, D.C., they often have become "anglicized and docile and have lost their sense of 'la raza' (the race)."

"Gringo-like," added Carlos Rene Guerra of San Antonio, Tex.

Morales, an official with the Office for Civil Rights in the Department of Health Education and Welfare, and Guerra, national chairman of MAYO (Mexican-American Youth Organization), were among five leaders who taped their views this week for presentation to the President's commission.

All requested the commission to look into alleged discrimination against Mexican-American ("Chicano") students in U.S. elementary secondary schools.

Juergo Gonzalez, staff member of the Senate's Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity, said there are two million Spanish surname students in public schools in the southwest. The median educational attainment, for a white student is 10.7 grades; for the blacks, 8.7 grades; and for the Chicano, 6.2 grades, he said.

Conservation Session Opens

STANLEY — About 80 conservationists at Redfish Lake were expected today to center their attention on "Architects of Our Environment" in conjunction with the second annual Conservation Convocation for Idaho Women today through Wednesday.

The workshop, sponsored jointly by the Idaho Federation of Garden Clubs and the Idaho

Federation of Women's Clubs, in cooperation with the USDA, Intermountain and northern regions Forest Service, opened with panel discussions of women — architects of our environment.

Tony Horn, Boise, extension horticulturalist, acted as moderator with panelists Mrs. Orville Breneman, Salmon conservation chairman, DAR-

Helen Lucke, Gooding, BPW, past state president; Mrs. Donald Ovbee, Boise, environmental quality chairman, LWV, and Mrs. James B. Uckham, Idaho Falls, AAUW president.

Louise Shaddock, executive secretary to Cong. Orval Hansen, was also scheduled to address the group today on national legislation and environment. Other speakers include Clement Eaton, manager, Clearwater Power Co., on "Industry — Architect of Our Environment" and LeRoy Brady, chief landscape engineer, Idaho Highway Department, on "The Environment of Highways."

Tuesday the women will take a field trip to Yankee Fork, where they will study historic sights and a museum and spawning beds. That evening Ralph Gisco, Sawtooth Valley Forest Ranger, will speak on wilderness management.

Donna Parson, director, Snake River Regional Studies Center, College of Idaho, will be Wednesday's concluding speaker.

Problems In Forest Area Seen

KETCHUM — Problems of the Ketchum ranger district, Sawtooth National forest, ranging from "hippie" type groups camping in unimproved areas to old and decaying trees in picnic and camp sites were reviewed by forest advisory board members in a two-day forest tour, Friday and Saturday.

John Combs, Ketchum district ranger, discussed problems on the first day's tour of his district. A two hour discussion session was held at the Ketchum ranger station Friday morning to explain various phases of a White Clouds, Boulder and Pioneer Mountains inventory study now underway.

Don Nebeker, coordinator for the inventory study, discussed various aspects including biological and non-biological inventories, soil and water studies, historical, scenic and recreation aspects. Art Selin reported on historical and recreational phases of the study.

Based on the extensive study and inventory, Nebeker said, recommendations for management planning and future development will be made.

First stop on the tour Friday was the Boundary campgrounds north of Ketchum. Here cottonwood trees which provide most of the shade are aged and in many cases decaying. Problem confronting the district ranger and Sawtooth officials is whether or not the popular area should be closed for a period of a few years to restore trees and other plant cover in the area.

Another stop of the tour was at Corral Creek just above Sun Valley where large group camping has been underway most of the summer. Future control and handling of such groups was discussed by advisory board members. It was noted the group, probably planning to return, had left behind many articles and equipment items but had apparently been away for more than a week.

Tour members spent Friday night camping in the White Cloud area and were continuing their tour Saturday through the White Cloud mountains, ending their field inspection late Saturday.

North Vietnamese Stall Cambodians' Advance

By FRANK FROSCH
PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist forces stalled the biggest Cambodian army offensive of the war today, hitting the government troops with rockets and mortars in the city of Tang Kouk, 52 miles north of Phnom Penh.

Brig. Gen. Neak Sam told UPI his troops in the city sustained more than 100 casualties in fighting, which lasted from 8:20 p.m. Sunday until dawn today. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong also cut the eight-battalion Cambodian task force's vital supply line from the capital by blowing up a 20-foot concrete bridge on Highway 6 behind the troops.

The government forces, driving toward Kompong Thom 28 miles further north, fought at Tang Kouk all day Sunday, but by dusk they were unable to take the village center. It was then the Communists broke loose with mortars and rockets.

Air strikes were used to back the Cambodian offensive.

In South Vietnam, Communist forces attacked government infantrymen outside combat base O'Reilly under a barrage of hundreds of mortar rounds, but were driven off after an hour of heavy fighting, government military spokesmen said today.

Col. Nguyen Van Diem, commander of the 1st South Vietnamese Infantry Division, said O'Reilly will be held until the fall monsoon rains reach the area. He said the artillery base 390 miles north of Saigon and 12 miles east of Laos would be closed late this month or early in October.

A battalion of Communist troops was within three miles of O'Reilly, which has been under heavy pressure since July 1. Although the government troops around the base received hundreds of rounds of mortar fire Sunday and early Monday, the base itself received only two rounds, UPI correspondent Robert E. Sullivan reported.

WENDELL — Roger Brown, Wendell resident and businessman, is rated as a generous blood donor, according to Mrs. Mary Holsinger, Red Cross Blood Bank chairman of the Wendell area.

She says little did he realize that the 14 pints of blood donated by him over the years would be an investment in the future. Brown suffered a heart attack three years ago which permanently injured the right coronary artery. The left coronary artery is rapidly closing, requiring an artery transplant. Brown is to have open heart surgery in Salt Lake City, at the LDS Hospital on Tuesday, the day before the blood drawing at Wendell.

Brown said, "During the years that I donated blood at various blood drawing in the area, I had no idea that some day the 14 pints donated by me would be required for my own heart surgery. Some 14 donors will donate free of charge, in Salt Lake City, so that fresh blood will be available the next day for my surgery."

The place is the Wendell American Legion Hall from 11 p.m. through 3 p.m. and plan to register as a donor in this most worthwhile program. Many donors who have given over the years are now past the age limit of 65 and can no longer give. Eighteen year olds are now permitted to give without their parents' permission said Mrs. Holsinger.

The blood donated for Brown means a return to normal activities. He reports he expects to remain in the hospital for 10 days and after a reasonable time will resume normal activities.

Fair Gate May Reach High Mark

FILER — Attendance records at the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo at Filer last week are expected to top the all-time high set last year.

Final tabulations of the 1970 show have not been completed, according to Harold O. Hove, fair board chairman, but it is expected when merchants turn in results of a promotion featuring free fair tickets, the attendance mark will be between 54,000 and 55,000.

Twin Falls Day on Thursday, Hove said, was the largest attendance day in history. The rodeo on the final night sold out and several hundred were turned away at the gate.

Hove said the most impressive aspect of this year's event was the "reaction of all the people involved in the fair and those attending it."

Exhibitors and others were at the fair grounds Sunday cleaning up. Hove said it probably will be Tuesday before all remains of the 1970 show are gone from the fair grounds.

Zone Shift For Court Approved

TWIN FALLS — Approval of a zone change on 77.9 acres of land north of Twin Falls for trailer court development was voted unanimously Monday morning by Twin Falls County Commissioners.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Williams, owners of the land on Pole Line Road had requested a zone change from agriculture to residential agriculture to allow for development of the mobile home park.

Williams said the first portion of the land is already under development and the first mobile homes will be moving in in the near future.

Passer-By Sees Theft In Progress

TWIN FALLS — A passer-by observed a theft in progress at a Twin Falls jewelry firm early today and alerted officers.

Twin Falls Police said the witness observed a man attempting to break the front window of Sterling Jewelry Co., 115 Shoshone St. S., with rocks. After several attempts failed, the burglar threw a brick through the glass, grabbed eight watches from a window display and made his escape before officers arrived.

The burglary occurred about 12:05 a.m.

Juries Lean to Plaintiffs, College Aide's Study Shows

SUN VALLEY — "The average juror enters the jury box with a strong predisposition in favor of the plaintiff or claimant in a damage suit."

"This predisposition I believe exists," he said, "is unfortunate in that in most cases insurance companies make a big effort to settle out of court. When an insurance company defends a case in court, I believe it is usually because someone is trying to get money he is not legitimately entitled to. It is the duty of the defense counsel to prevent this happening," he added.

That is the contention of Prof. Thomas F. Stoton, Department of Behavioral Sciences, Huntington College, Montgomery, Ala., who was opening speaker for the two day joint meeting of the Oregon and Idaho Association of Defense Counselors which concluded here Saturday.

Prof. Stoton addressed the gathering of about 70 defense counselors concerning psychological factors influential in jury trials. He has researched juror motivation, liability and accident insurance premiums today are due to people feeling they can get more than they are entitled to.

Attorneys must consider three motivation factors in preparing a case in order to influence jurors to bring in verdicts based on law and evidence, rather than sentiments and sympathy. Those factors include the tendency for jurors to identify with the injured party rather than the person who injured him regardless of who was at fault; the fact that people have erroneously been led to believe that insurance companies try to avoid their honest obligations; and the fact that the injured party can be made the object of sympathy, arousing the jurors' emotions so that often they disregard law and evidence in rendering a verdict.

"It is against the public interest for excessive payments to be made to the claimants because it necessarily pushes the insurance rates up so that people who most need the insurance find the rates too high for them to pay," Stoton said.

Saturday afternoon seminars dealt with various functions or departments of the Civil Air Patrol. In the final general assembly reports were given on the seminar sessions including civil defense, safety, communications, materiel, emergency services, aerospace education, senior and cadet training and operations.

Rupert Man Advances To CAP Wing Command

BURLEY — Lt. Col. George W. Falkner, Rupert, became the new commander of the Idaho Wing, Civil Air Patrol, at the annual conference of the Rocky Mountain region here Saturday.

He received the wing commander's stick from Col. George P. A. Forschler, former commander, during a concluding dinner meeting.

Lt. Col. Falkner has 15 years of service with the CAP, holds several awards and decorations, and served 20 months overseas with the U.S. Army in 1944-46. He maintains a real estate agency at Rupert. CAP units from Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Utah and Wyoming were represented at the conference.

Lt. Col. Kenneth Rosecrans, Oakley, was master of ceremonies for the dinner. Special musical entertainment was a selection of songs by the Bel Cantos Choir, Burley High School, directed by Elden Wood. Cadet speakers were John Selstrom and Greg Perry, both Boulder, Colo. They told of their experiences as exchange cadets in foreign countries this summer. Selstrom was in Portugal and Perry was in England.

Col. Richard D. Law, Commander of Rocky Mountain Region presented the Colorado Wing the safety award; Idaho Wing, public relations; Utah Wing, communications; Utah Wing, materiel award, and Idaho wing, extension service award.

A plaque was presented to Col. Donald E. Hale, Burley, for appreciation of past services. Brig. Gen. Richard N. Ellis, USAF, national commander CAP-USAF, read a letter from Maine Wing commander and presented a bag of Maine potatoes to Col. Forschler, former commander, Idaho Wing.

Maj. Leon B. Hines received the Flying Cross from Gen. Ellis for services recently in Viet Nam.

Gen. Ellis also presented engraved plaques to Colorado Wing and Utah Wing for competition tests; the Billy Mitchell Awards went to Calvin J. Johnson, Meridian, and Stanley Trummel, Burley, both cadets; the Amelia Earhart Award went to Glen Kober, Burley, also a cadet; Col. Donald J. Chisman, national senior member award; Col. Don Hale, district service; and Col. Forschler, retiring commander of Idaho Wing.

Col. Forschler spoke briefly, stating, "Civil Air Patrol members are dedicated people and it is an organization dedicated to helping young people."

Speaking briefly, Col. Falkner said "CAP gives its members a deep feeling of satisfaction of a job completed during happy situations and sad times." He extended congratulations to the wings in the Region who had won awards and invited all wings and officials to visit Idaho again.

Sunday morning Protestant church services were conducted by Lt. Col. Robert Schreckenberg, Idaho wing chaplain.

Saturday afternoon seminars dealt with various functions or departments of the Civil Air Patrol. In the final general assembly reports were given on the seminar sessions including civil defense, safety, communications, materiel, emergency services, aerospace education, senior and cadet training and operations.

3 Pressure Putts Give Nicklaus World Series

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus, faced with collapse after blowing a three-stroke lead, came up with three brilliant putts in a row Sunday to save a $50,000 victory in the World Series of Golf by three strokes with a 36-hole final score of 136.

The victory boosted to $201,000 the amount that Nicklaus has won in various tournaments on the Firestone Country Club course in the last nine years.

That gave the 35-year-old Ohioan his fourth triumph in nine years that this tournament has brought together the winners of the year's four major golf championships.

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Idaho Vandals were letting some of the wounds heal here today after Saturday's 45-7 lacing at the hands of Air Force but head coach Don Robbins said things weren't as dark as appearances.

Nicklaus, who earned his berth in this tournament by winning the British Open championship, started the day with a three-stroke lead over Stockton as a result of a 66 in Saturday's first round.

Williams singled home Don Kessinger with two out in the bottom of the ninth Sunday to give the Chicago Cubs a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and move them to within one game of the National League Eastern Division leaders.

But Nicklaus ran into some wild shooting in the front nine, bogeying four holes against only one birdie, Stockton, of Westlake, Calif., caught up with him at the end of eight holes by birding the first and the eighth.

Two-run rally in a game the Cubs had all but lost. Steve Blass was within one out of recording his 10th triumph, when centerfielder Matty Alou dropped a fly ball hit by Willie Smith for a two-base error.

On the 13th, he canned a 15-footer for a birdie three and then came right back on the 14th with a 17-footer for another 33.

Williams, who had failed to hit in three trips to the plate, singled sharply to left center scoring Kessinger with the winning run.

That did it—although Nicklaus added icing to the cake with another birdie on the 17th with a 15-foot putt.

When you play a ballclub that has only one five-yard penalty, no interceptions, and no fumbles, and scores on every one we make, then you're up against a tough ball club," Robbins said.

Casper, shooting the best round of the day, reached the turn in par 35 and then birdied the 11th and 17th holes to catch Stockton. Stockton parred all of the last nine holes.

Cubs Rally Past Pittsburgh 3-2

CHICAGO (UPI)—Billy Williams singled home Don Kessinger with two out in the bottom of the ninth Sunday to give the Chicago Cubs a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and move them to within one game of the National League Eastern Division leaders.

Williams' single climaxed a two-run rally in a game the Cubs had all but lost. Steve Blass was within one out of recording his 10th triumph, when centerfielder Matty Alou dropped a fly ball hit by Willie Smith for a two-base error.

Ken Rudolph, who ran for Smith, scored the tying run when Kessinger hit the first pitch into right field for a single. Glenn Beckert singled sharply to left and Blass was replaced by George Brunet.

Williams, who had failed to hit in three trips to the plate, singled sharply to left center scoring Kessinger with the winning run.

Before a crowd of some 25,000 fans, including the entire Air Force general staff, Parker proved his ability by throwing 15 for 28 which totaled 174 yards. Adding to the Falcon attack, however, were the Vandal's touchdowns, which cost them four touchdowns.

GOODING — Bill Malmstrom of Boise outdistanced a pair of challengers for the men's gross championship and Ortha Hall of Mountain Home emerged the women's winner Sunday afternoon in the 18-hole wrap-up of the Gooding Senior Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Hall kept her first-day lead and won away from Iris Averett of Twin Falls with a 173. Mrs. Averett carded a 180, ahead of Melba Aslett of Ketchum's 186 and Edie Miller of Boise's 187.

In the men's net division, Virgil Cross of Burley took it by a shot over Perce Hall of Mountain Home. Cross had a 130. Doyle Clark of Mountain Home was right behind with a 132 and Dale Smith of Twin Falls and Curley Bird of Mountain Home followed with 134 and 136 respectively.

Faye Wallace of McCall was the women's net champion with a two-day 128. Pansy Jensen of McCall ended 12 shots back with 132, Olga Davidson of Boise had 140, Helen Pitman of McCall 141, and Opal Johnson of Boise 144.

The highlight of the annual affair came Saturday night with a banquet honoring Bob Lyons and a dance afterwards. Lyons has been instrumental over the years in putting the tournament on. This year's meet attracted over 100 senior golfers.

TONY DEAN CAPTURES CAN-AM
GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Tony Dean pushed the smallest car in the race—a Porsche 908—past the wreckage of the favorites Sunday to win the road Atlanta Canadian-American Challenge Cup race and topple the vaunted team McLaren.

The two streaking orange cars of team McLaren collapsed on the brutal, hilly course and the vaunted "vacuum cleaner" Chaparral failed to sustain its vacuum. It was their first loss in 20 starts.

"It's impossible," gasped Dean. Only 11 of the 31 cars that started the seventh race in the Can-Am series finished it. Dave Causey finished second in a Lola, Lothar Motschenbacher third in a McLaren M12 and Oscar Kovalevskiy fourth in a McLaren.

Dean's average speed was 103.45 mph—only 3 mph slower than his fastest qualifying lap. Philadelphia's only touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Spike Jones, the Oilers' punter, fumbled a snap from center and Bo Burris picked the ball up and ran 30 yards into the end zone.

Cup Final To Start Tuesday
NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—More than 20,000 visitors began crowding into Newport Sunday as certain time drew near on what was expected to be the most exciting series in the 119-year history of the America's Cup.

A spectator fleet of some 2,000 yachts are expected to carry the sailing enthusiasts to the 24.3 mile America's Cup course off Newport.

The Australian challenger Gretel II could offer a stern test for America's Cup defender Intrepid, but the U.S. 12-meter yacht, skippered by Bill Ficker, is favored in the best of seven series.

This year's series marks the third challenge by Australia. In 1962 Gretel I won one race as she lost four straight to Intrepid, which is defending the "old mug" for the second straight time. Veteran race observers say Gretel II, skippered by Jim Hardy, should be the underdogs, but that the Australians are apt to make this year's series a hard fought battle.

Rosewall, Court Gain Open Crowns

ROSEWALL, N.Y. (UPI)—Rosewall, now 35, reached the semifinals on an 18-year-old in 1953 and three years later won here for the first time by beating Lew Hoad. Bill Tilden was 38 years old when he won U.S. crown in 1929.

The sudden death of the breaker, in effect here for the first time ever in a major championship, proved the decisive factor for Rosewall.

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Jim Fregosi tripled in one run and scored the other on a groundout in the first inning Sunday as the California Angels defeated the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1 to snap a nine game losing streak.

Tom Murphy started for the Angels and recorded his first win since Aug. 17. After dropping six decisions in a row, the victory improved his record to 14-12.

His winner's purse of $30,000 was the biggest ever in a regular tennis tournament. Mrs. Court, physically bigger than the 5-7 Rosewall and quite probably the best of her sex ever to play this game, overcame second set jitters to beat little Rosemary Casals, 6-2, 2-6, 6-1, in the women's final for her fourth Forest Hills championship. She thus became only the second woman to win the world's four major championships—the Australian, French, English and American—in the same year.

Johnson, who completed 13 of 22 passes in the game, connected with Jerry LeVias for an 8-yard touchdown midway through the first period and then set up a short scoring plunge by Hoyle Granger with a 17-yard completion to LeVias.

Joe Dawkins scored on a 9-yard run in the second period to stake the Oilers to a 20-0 halftime lead. Philadelphia's only touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Spike Jones, the Oilers' punter, fumbled a snap from center and Bo Burris picked the ball up and ran 30 yards into the end zone.

Oswald: "His honor trick range was 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 which translated into 15-19 points. There was no way to find a 4-4 major fit in those days so Willard took Hal right to game. He won the heart lead, played three rounds of spades stopping in dummy and led the jack of clubs. East's king lost to his ace. His next plays were the king of diamonds and a diamond to dummy's 10. East who had discarded a heart on the third spade won. East did not see what was about to happen to him and led his last heart."

Jim: "I can see, Hal won in dummy, cashed the last spade and watched East squirm."

Oswald: "East made his best discard—a low club. Hal cashed the ace of diamonds to shed his last heart and boldly finessed against the club 10 to wind up with six no-trump and a top score."

LOVE AND WAR — Best marriage is most apt to result when the fellow and the girl fall in love at the same time. Unfortunately, this does not often happen. What does often happen is the girl falls first; then the fellow. Less frequently, the fellow falls first, then the girl. Or so says our Love and War man. He further says the fact the girl usually engineers the marriage proposal does not necessarily mean she is first to fall in love. Some girls make a hobby of constructing marriage proposals like model airplanes.

MAIN REASON you don't see many pet monkeys hereabouts is monkeys can't be housebroken... AND YOU MAY CONSIDER yourself a seasoned citizen, too, if you can recall the time when all the hearsees were Packards... TALLEST WOMEN in the country on the average are the Californians... NOT MANY PEOPLE realize that peacocks don't lay eggs, not many, not many... LAWREN SAY a woman almost never murders her husband for money unless she is directed by another man.

CUSTOMER SERVICE — Q. "What's the fastest anybody ever went on roller skates?" A. Just a shade under 26 mph. At least so far as the record shows... Q. "How often nowadays can the hog ranchers arrange to have a sow throw a litter of pigs?" A. Four maybe five times a year.

"DID YOU REALIZE newspaper has a warp and a woof?" writes Carl Snyder. "You can tear a newspaper vertically in almost a straight line, but it's nearly impossible to do so horizontally. Try it" ... DURING THE NEXT 60 seconds, approximately 2,000 people in this country will dial the wrong number. No, not just yours and mine. They dial everybody's, the savages.

PHILOSOPHY I — Among the Hindus of India, the word "kal" means both "yesterday" and "tomorrow" and the word "parson" means both "day before yesterday" and the "day after tomorrow." Interesting. Too deep for me, however. To come to understand there's so little difference between past and future, that's pretty profound. Nice notion for the quaint philosopher. But how can a westerner comprehend it? He can't, maybe. I am a petty, pushy, paunchy fellow, who would kill a cow in her tracks if I were hungry, and still this prejudice clings, this manic consolation, this middle-aged hope, this visceral conviction that the slow yesterday was different, goodbye to it and godspeed, but oh the quick tomorrow will be something else at last.

OPEN QUESTION — What's the plural of snafu?

WORLD'S BRIGHTEST BEACON is atop Chicago's Playboy Building... ONLY ONE BIBLE in 10 is bought by a man... IN ENGLAND the preferred tailors are Swedes.

It's amazing what one family can accumulate in a few short years.

If you don't think the above scene is typical of your household, think for a minute of the many items you possess which have ceased to be needed or used in your daily life.

What was once a necessity or a source of leisure-time activity suddenly becomes stored away in that "out of sight -- out of mind" recess of your life.

Yet you have good money invested in these items and they possess many years of usefulness for some other family.

Want it all sold? Want Ads will do it! Just dial 733-0931 to place a low-cost Want Ad which tells the public about the items you'd like to exchange for cash. Once you've placed your call, the sale is on!

Increased Support Apparent For Nixon Anti-Crime Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, who has complained repeatedly of inaction on his crime bills, appears likely to win passage of his chief proposals before Congress adjourns this year.

They include bills to provide for broad attacks on organized crime, the growing narcotics problem, terrorist bombings in the cities, and mailings of obscene materials, as well as a bill to provide grants to states and municipalities for law enforcement programs.

But some of the bills may be drastically amended, and about half of the President's 13-point program has no chance of passage.

The battle over the crime bills has been a long one and has aroused some strong emotions. Nixon made "law and order" a major issue of his 1968 election campaign, but civil libertarians have bitterly assailed some of his crime proposals as repressive and unconstitutional.

Among the most controversial measures have been so-called "no knock" provisions allowing police with warrants to enter residences without notice in certain cases, and "preventive detention" of criminal suspects in cases where judges feel they might commit more crimes if released on trial.

Both of these provisions are in the District of Columbia Crime Bill, the only administration proposal which has so far become law. Congress passed the bill in July.

All other presidential crime bills, except the one to provide state and local law enforcement grants, have passed the Senate and are awaiting House action.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the House Judiciary Committee has jurisdiction over most of the bills and he has strong reservations about some of them. He intends to see that some are amended, and to let others die.

Celler said he plans a "crash program" to get the organized crime bill through a judiciary subcommittee this week and the full committee the following week.

Celler said he may attack antibombing legislation to the crime bill. "The bombing bill has some controversial features, and if it causes too many problems with the crime bill, we will tackle it separately afterward," he said.

The antibombing proposal is actually two bills which will be combined: One providing stiffer penalties for bombings and the other intended to control explosives sales.

Elderly Man Rams Squads

OREGON CITY, Ore. (UPI) — A 64-year-old Idaho man was hospitalized for observation Sunday after he led police from six law enforcement agencies on a 40-minute, high speed chase from Milwaukie, Ore., to Portland and then to Oregon City.

Milwaukie police identified the man as Byron M. Norell, Nampa, Idaho.

During the chase, which reached speeds of over 80 miles per hour, eight police cars were damaged. Officers said Norell rammed his car into the police vehicles when they tried to halt him.

The chase began in Milwaukie when a man, identified as Norell's son, called police saying his father was apparently having a mental breakdown. An ambulance was sent to the home with a police car to cover.

As the police car approached, however, the elder Norell drove away, nearly crashing into the officer's car.

Norell headed north into Portland where the chase was joined by units of the Portland Police Department. He then turned south and drove toward Oregon City, about 15 miles away.

As Norell drove south on highway 99, units from the state police, Clackamas County Sheriff's Department, Gladstone City Police and Oregon City Police Departments joined the chase.

He was finally halted at 12:13 p.m. when his vehicle crashed into a police car that had been parked in his way as a roadblock in Oregon City. The police car was completely wrecked.

Officers reported at least four civilian cars were also damaged during the chase but there were no injuries in any of the collisions.

Timothy Leary Flees Prison

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Dr. Timothy Leary, the drug-promoting guru of the psychedelic generation, walked away Sunday from a minimum security prison where he was serving a sentence for marijuana possession.

Leary, 49, disappeared during the night from California Men's Colony West, located four miles west of here on State Highway 1—the "hippie highway" which leads north to the Big Sur region.

"He left alone and no force was used," reported Watch Commander Quentin Heer. "He was not seen leaving and we don't know what direction he went. We have heard nothing about him since the escape."

Leary left the prison on foot, wearing his blue denim prisoner's shirt and pants and a blue pullover sweater. The minimum security prison midway between Los Angeles and San Francisco is surrounded only by a chain link fence.

An all-points bulletin was issued after guards discovered him missing during a bed check shortly after midnight. He was seen two hours earlier, Heer said.

The FBI was also notified of the escape. Leary faced a 10-year federal prison term for illegal importation of marijuana from Mexico in 1965.

He was serving a six months to 10 year term for possession of marijuana. Leary, his wife and son were arrested on Dec. 26, 1968, in Laguna Beach for possession of marijuana and LSD after their station wagon was searched by an officer who said he smelled marijuana inside.

Leary, a former member of the Harvard faculty, was an early experimenter with LSD who became known as the "high priest" of the drug culture.

U of I ROTC Changes

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — The Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) program at the University of Idaho is being changed, Col. Paul Fletcher, professor of military science, said Saturday.

He said the changes are in response to challenges from students. Major changes will take place in leadership and management.

He said, "leadership techniques formerly used by the traditional spit and polish commander will not work with the education soldier."

"He said it is possible that commissioned officers from ROTC will be in charge of units of college graduates, and authoritarian leadership methods won't work with this kind of group."

Under the new program, freshmen cadets will not drill during fall semester, and sophomore cadets will be excused from drill periods when they achieve a certain score in practical testing.

Fletcher said that close-order drill will be de-emphasized under the program.

DRUG ADVOCATE Timothy Leary Escaped from a Minimum Security Prison near San Luis Obispo, Calif., early Sunday. He had been serving a six-month to 10-year sentence for possession of marijuana. (UPI)

Corpsmen Thanked

MARSING, Idaho (UPI) — Three hundred Marsing, Idaho, residents said "Thank You" Saturday to Job Corps Center men for building the Marsing Island Park and buildings.

Improvements totaling $107,000 were made by the Corpsmen during the last five years on the Marsing side of the Snake River below the highway 95 bridge.

J.M. Kovis, center director, said the park area had been filled in, and contained sewer and water facilities. He said the development of the Marsing Island Park was programmed for five years.

Nader Assails 'Hunt'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader said Sunday he believes General Motors now is conducting "a witch hunt" to trace the source of information on which he based new charges that the Corvair is unsafe.

"If the past is any indication, the top officials of General Motors will try to blame the lower echelon personnel in order to escape responsibility," Nader said in a UPI interview.

Although Nader said he could not identify his sources, he described them as people "within and without General Motors who have finally realized they cannot in professional conscience take part in further suppression ... of tests which can save lives and limbs throughout the country."

Moreover, said Nader, "There'll be more disclosures and more candor and more professional responsibility exerted at all levels ... and General Motors will not be able to conduct a successful witch hunt and heap the blame on those who simply took orders from the top officials."

"In a letter last week to Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe, Nader charged that test information kept secret in GM's own files showed that the Corvair — a rear-engine compact built until 1969 by Chevrolet — was unstable and overturned at speeds as low as 28 miles an hour. On Sunday he estimated that 600,000 of the Corvairs now on the road suffer from this "very severe" instability problem.
