TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1970

TEN CENTS

CLOUDS OF MONARCH butterflies were reported by amazed St. Louis residents over the weekend. A biology professor at Washington University in St. Louis said the butterflies migrate in much the same way as birds going south in the fall. A small group of them rests in a tree at the home of O. E. Duncan in South St. Louis. Many residents in the suburb of Mehlville, where the butterflies were thickest, viewed the beautiful spectacle. (UPI)

Israel Masses Tanks, Royalists Fall Back

By United Press International
Large scale Israeli tank movements were reported today along the Jordanian border where Israeli military dispatches reported the Jordanian army retreating southward toward Amman in the face of a Syrian tank onslaught. Guerrillas reported Jordan's air force in action.

With the possibility of American intervention increasing, Egypt warned the United States against stepping in, saying this would threaten world peace. Egyptian Information Minister Mohammed Hassanein Heikal said intervention would endanger American lives even further.

A Syrian Foreign Ministry spokesman in Damascus said Syria will "violently and strongly" resist any American intervention. Almost immediately the leadership of the guerrillas warned against intervention and said all American interests in the Arab Middle East would be destroyed if Washington did intervene.

Heavy fighting resumed in Amman itself with failure of a cease-fire called by King Hussein, and Heikal said the death toll there was over 10,000. Guerrilla sources admitted 8,000 dead and said there were tens of thousands wounded.

U.S. military forces were alerted to move into try to save the 400 Americans in Jordan and the possibility of intervention seemed very real. Israel also was reported prepared to act if it felt its security threatened—and a Syrian move southward from Irbid would bring Syrian tanks close to the Israeli border.

Heikal said Egypt was trying to send a plane to Amman to rescue 100 foreign correspondents, mostly American, trapped in the Inter-Continental Hotel in the center of the city. Their hotel has been hit repeatedly in the showdown civil war between Hussein and the Palestinian guerrillas.

Hussein, faced with a battle for survival and deserted by many of his Arab allies, appealed to the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France for help. But Washington dispatches said President Nixon had not yet decided on a course of action.

Israeli dispatches were subjected to intense military censorship, but reports reached London of largescale tank movements Monday night and again today. The reports said it was uncertain whether they were deployment for possible action in Jordan.

UPI correspondent Chad Gozani, from the seashore resort of Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee, could report only that dust clouds rising on the east bank of the Jordan River marked the passage of Jordanian army convoys rolling south.

On Monday the Jordanian army had moved northward to Irbid, Jordan's second city nestled in 2,000 foot mountains 45 miles north of Amman and only 18 miles east of the cease-fire line.

The danger of the civil war embroiling other nations was clear. Israel has said repeatedly it cannot stand idly by if a revolutionary guerrilla government topples the government of King Hussein.

In a radio broadcast Monday night Israeli Maj. Gen. Haim Herzog, former chief of intelligence, said, "I don't think that Israel can sit back and view with equanimity a radical change in the borders in the area."

"Borders are sacred, and if they don't exist for the Syrians, they don't exist at all in the area," he said. "Therefore I would say developments are very serious as far as Israel is concerned." He said it would be serious if Syrian armor came down from the Irbid Heights, a development already underway.

Diplomatic efforts were underway in many areas to try to end the civil war before it explodes into a general Middle East War and today Britain asked Russia for the second time in two days to try to get Syria to call back its invasion forces.

Jerome Tax Withdrawn

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Correspondent
JEROME — The Jerome School Board Monday withdrew its request for a 2.79 emergency mill levy which was certified by county commissioners last week.

Mrs. Ella McVey, county clerk, said today a change of opinion on the state level now makes it possible for the Jerome school district to receive additional state revenue.

Jerome district fell short of the five per cent increase in average daily attendance required for state aid.

The county clerk said the state department of education has now ruled, upon legal advice, that the average daily attendance can be figured on a full term, rather than a 28-week period.

Local school officials earlier had said illness among students in the opening weeks of school this fall caused the daily attendance to fall short of the necessary figure to qualify, but since then, increased attendance, plus the new ruling on the state level, made the Jerome district eligible.

Mrs. McVey said the state school money now available makes the proposed additional mill levy unnecessary.

The extra money is needed to hire additional teachers or aides, as well as providing material and supplies.

Burley Names Panel

BURLEY — Burley city councilmen appointed a traffic safety commission at the Monday night council meeting.

Rex Stanley, city councilman, was named chairman with Police Chief Ken Barry, State Patrolman Charles Peugh, City Safety Director Charles Krumm and Garth Payne, local mortician, as members.

Councilmen adopted a resolution eliminating parking on Overland Avenue from Fifth Street to the Snake River, effective Oct. 1. The avenue, one of Burley's main north-south routes, is also Highway 27.

All department heads will hold a noon luncheon meeting the second Wednesday of each month, councilmen decided, eliminating the necessity of department chiefs attending council meetings.

Information regarding a proposed ambulance service for the Mini-Cassia area was given councilmen by a representative of the Palmer Firm, Ogden. The firm is considering having two ambulances in Burley and one in Rupert.

Councilmen also: —Heard a complaint from Ormand Burch, Burley, about loose gravel left after work done on 13th and 11th Streets. He urged use of more sand when the streets get icy.

—Heard a report from Harold Wilson, with the Klean Water Co., that his firm, which has completed tests at the lagoon in North Burley, is ready to construct a building at the site and requests electricity and water from the city.

Jerome Defender

JEROME — Phillip Becker, Gooding attorney, was hired as Jerome county public defender Monday by county commissioners here.

Becker holds similar posts for Gooding and Lincoln county, according to Mrs. Ella McVey, county clerk.

The county commission had been urged by Prosecuting Attorney S. A. Kolman to hire a defender. County commissioners had maintained the cost of a public defender could be saved if several years elapsed without a major crime occurring in the county.

Kolman had said the Dillon murder trial cost the county several times that of a public defender's salary.

Coors Ponders Malting Plant

BUHL — There has been "some thought" of constructing a malting plant for the Coors beer company in Idaho, a Coors official told members of the Buhl Chamber of Commerce during a Monday noon luncheon meeting.

Willard Hays, commodities director for the Golden, Colo. based firm, said, however, the idea is only in the discussion phase.

He and C. W. McCart, field director for Idaho operations of Coors, attended the meeting to bring area business leaders up to date on a project now underway a mile east of Buhl.

Coors has purchased an 80-acre tract there to construct a receiving station for Moravian barley being grown by Buhl area farmers for use in beer production.

Hays said his firm hopes to have the station complete in 1972. The main storage facility for Moravian barley in Magic Valley will be at Burley, where a second plot of land has been purchased for construction.

Doctors Don't Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Treasury said Monday half of 3,000 doctors who received $25,000 from the government in medicare or Medicaid payments in 1968 failed to report a "substantial" amount of income on their tax returns.

In some cases, as much as $100,000 in government payments went unreported, Meade Whitaker, tax legislative counsel for the Treasury Department, told the Senate Finance Committee. He testified for legislation to make it easier to track down doctors who cheat on their taxes.

Meade reported on preliminary audits of 3,000 doctors drawn from a list of 11,000 who had received payments of more than $25,000 in 1968 from the two government health insurance programs.

"About half of the 3,000 we audited will come up with substantial deficiencies" in reported income, he said.

"Preliminary results indicate a number of instances of substantial unreported income, including some where the omission exceeds $100,000," he said.

Second Arrested

TWIN FALLS — Lawrence L. Lang, 30-year-old Twin Falls insurance representative, was arrested in Jerome County Monday and charged with robbery in connection with the Aug. 21 armed robbery of Safeway Store in Lynwood Shopping Center.

Arrested before Police Judge Harry Turner just before 5 p. m., Lang requested a preliminary hearing and bond was set at $3,000. He was released on bond Monday. This is the second arrest in the case, following extensive investigation by Twin Falls Police Detectives.

The Aug. 21 theft amounted to $3,842.25, according to the complaint against Lang. Two men, at least one of them armed, entered the store just at closing time and forced an employe to open the safe.

3 Serious After Airplane Crash

SUN VALLEY — Three persons remained in serious condition in the Sun Valley Hospital Tuesday as a result of a light plane crash Monday afternoon about 25 miles east of here on a private landing strip.

The craft, carrying four persons, crashed on takeoff at about 3 p. m. from Twin Bridges landing strip, a privately owned field serving dude ranches in the area.

Injured were Mrs. Gordon Griffith, Los Angeles, and Raymond Clayton, Thousand Oaks, both with broken backs, and Gordon Griffith, suffering burns. Uninjured in the crash was Dick Rosiejka, Thousand Oaks. All are believed to be in their early 40's.

Witnesses said the plane crashed and burned as it took off. Identification of the pilot has not been established. The plane, a Cessna 182, was destroyed.

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency, Boise, said the plane crashed near Idaho Highway 75 between the Sun Valley resort and U. S. Highway 93 alternate. Investigating officers said one wing of the plane was found in highway 75 following the accident.

YOUNGEST RECIPIENT of a kidney in a transplant operation, William Aakland, age six weeks, rests in an incubator Monday following the operation at the University of Minnesota hospital at Minneapolis. Dr. John Najarian, surgery chief, said William was in satisfactory condition after having a defective kidney replaced with one from an unnamed 6 year old who had died. Najarian used magnifying lenses to connect the tiny arteries to William's new kidney. (UPI)

T.F. Rubbish Charge High

By LEÉ TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer
Idahoans are a trashy lot — each citizen of the state of Idaho throws out an average of 5.5 pounds of refuse each day. The collection of this vast mountain of garbage is a rapidly worsening — and costly — problem.

At $2.10 per month, Twin Falls residents will pay nearly 50 per cent more to have their trash picked up than do most citizens of Idaho.

These and other often startling conclusions have been released by the Idaho Department of Health in a monumental study of "Solid Waste Management — 1970 — Status Report and State Plan."

Written by Project Director Robert P. Olson and Project Coordinator Jerome E. Jankowski, the report indicates that Idaho faces a growing problem in its solid-waste management. With nearly 700,000 citizens adding 5½ pounds per person per day to the problem, something has to be done, the report indicates.

The project was funded by a grant from the Bureau of Solid Waste Management of the U. S. Public Health Service in 1968, as a function of the Vector Control Section of the Environmental Improvement Division. Idaho programs of solid-waste control were extensively examined, and a complete review of the environmental effects of solid waste as they relate to health, water, air, land, aesthetics, geology, topography and climate was drafted.

The report's summary concludes "refuse storage in the state is very unsatisfactory," though storage conditions vary widely. Most metal storage bins were deemed unsatisfactory from a sanitary standpoint, either because of construction faults or poor maintenance.

Even some smaller cities have twice-a-week collection service, in contrast to the once-a-week practice long used in Twin Falls. Of 14 cities over 5,000 population, five provide twice-weekly pickup, and nine collect trash once weekly. In smaller communities, from 1,000 to 5,000 population, four have trash collections twice weekly, while seven offer pickups once.

The average collection fee in 26 cities surveyed was $1.35 per month for one container at the curb. The report added that "On the basis of population served and considering twice-per-week collection in some cities, the average was about $1.50."

Twin Falls residents will pay $2.10 per month for once weekly service, beginning Oct. 1, under a new rate schedule recently enacted by the city council.

Trash-burning — at least before the ban on open burning, which went into effect on Monday — added plenty of pollution to Idaho air, according to the report. "At least 235 tons of community refuse are burned daily . . . which produces 33 tons of hydrocarbons and 18 tons of particulate matter," the report said.

Pollution of streams from refuse and other solid wastes from community disposal sites was evident at 7.5 per cent of the sites surveyed.

Forest industries added to the problem with 100 tapper burners operating at the time of the survey, of which at least half were in "very poor condition."

The estimated debris of sawmill residue and logging was estimated at more than four million tons in 1968.

Livestock — also contribute heavily to the disposal problem; in 1947, an estimated 16.7 million tons of wet manure were produced, of which 2.6 million tons had to be transported elsewhere for disposal.

In contrast, the survey found, potato processing wastes are not voluminous in terms of organic solid wastes, as most of the potato wastes are used for cattle feed.

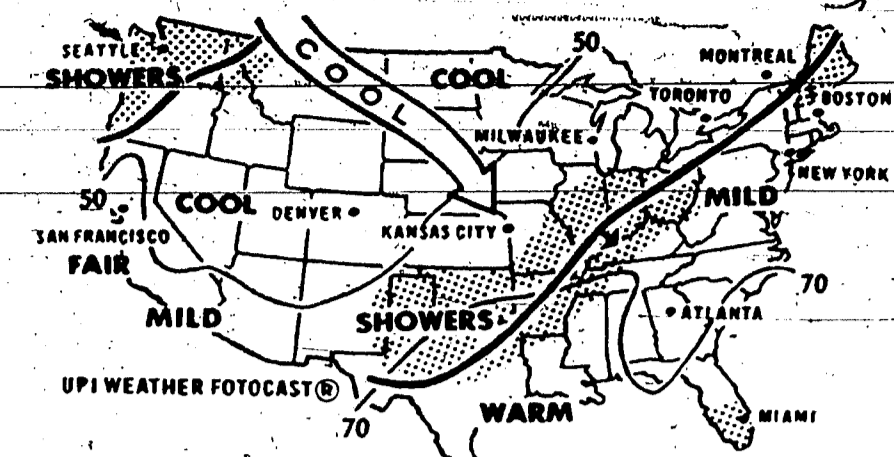

In the final analysis, the report indicates, action on both city and county levels is urgently needed. Planned action includes formation of a state advisory council on solid-waste management. Liaison with other state and federal agencies by the state Solid Waste Management Agency will be maintained.

Goals include elimination of known sources of water pollution from city or county disposal sites by the end of 1971, and elimination of major air-pollution sources by the end of 1972.

Boys Survive 'Overnighter'

MCCALL, Idaho (UPI) — Scott Davis, 60, Meridian, was found safe but a little worse for wear Monday after spending two days lost in the wilderness east of McCall. Exposure aggravated an old back injury. Davis also sprained an ankle. He was found about 12 miles south of Yellow Pine on Ditch Creek. He had been missing since Saturday afternoon when he failed to return to a hunting camp.

Tito Sees 'Collective' Party Rule

BELGRADE (UPI)—Yugoslavia's aging President Tito, who has guided his nation through a quarter-century of increasingly liberal Communist rule, says a collective leadership will replace him at the head of the government when he is gone. Tito, still hale and hearty at 78, spoke to a meeting of Zagreb social and political workers Monday night. "It is true that I have been on this post a long time and I would like to have more possibilities to deal with some other matters," he said. The announcement followed—and resembled in overall shape—Tito's 18-month-old plan for the future rule of the Communist party. Under the Yugoslav constitution, Tito now heads both party and government. But at the ninth party congress in March, 1969, he announced formation of a 14-man executive at the head of the party composed of two top-Communists from each of Yugoslavia's six republics and one each from the two autonomous provinces of Kosovo and Vojvodina. It contained the party's ranking ideological, theoretical and political minds. The new governmental unit, Tito said Monday, would be similarly composed—two or three men from each republic plus representatives from "all major social and political organizations," including the party. He rejected any speculation that such leadership might constitute return to the old Soviet-type politburo style of government. "Much has been written abroad even before this that Yugoslavia will disintegrate when I leave," Tito said in the address as quoted by the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug. "Even here at home, many combinations have been set forth as to who would take my place." Political sources have forecast such a move for months, saying that rather than risk dying in office, Tito long since had decided to step down and supervise the nation's first steps into the post-Tito era—able to intervene with still-absolute power and respect among the nation's 22 million citizens.

Manson Didn't Work

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson drove into the Spahn Ranch in a black bus in 1968 with his bizarre family and took the place over, never doing a bit of work himself. Ruby Pear, a wizened woman in her 60s, testified Monday at the Tate-LaBianca murder trial that Manson gave the orders to the few men and numerous girls who accompanied him. Miss Pearl, who was stable manager for the ranch for 20 years, said the group called themselves "The Family." She said the blind, 83-year-old, owner of the old Western movie lot let them do what they liked. Manson, 35, and three young women followers, Susan Atkins, Leslie Van Houten, and Patricia Krenwinkel, are on trial for the slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six other persons in August, 1969. The state contends they were living at the ranch when the slayings occurred. Police Sgt. William Lee testified shell casings found at the ranch were fired from the same pistol used in the slayings. Lee, a ballistics expert, previously had testified slugs taken from the bodies of three victims at the Tate estate were fired from a long-barreled revolver. Motorcycle gang member Danny DeCarlo had told the jury he saw Manson carrying a pistol similar to the one introduced in evidence by the state and that the gun was available to all members of the "Family." DeCarlo, who spent six months at the ranch, wound up his testimony Monday after cross examination in which the defense sought to establish that he was drunk so constantly he could not remember events.

All burglaries occurred in Twin Falls, officers said.

Loss in the burglaries, according to police reports, show a small amount of money and a number of household items and clothing missing, much of which has been recovered. One gun, already traced to its owner, was also recovered.

A thought for the day: Rudyard Kipling said, "Meddling with another man's folly is always thankless work."

PW Treatment Appeal Slated

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley citizens will have a chance to appeal personally to the North Vietnamese to seek humane treatment of American prisoners of war held in Southeast Asia. The request will come in the form of signed petitions from American citizens to the North Vietnamese, which will be circulated by District 6 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars this week throughout Twin Falls and elsewhere in the Magic Valley. District Commander John Price said the petitions are available at the Magic Bowl, Blacker's Appliance and Driveway Market in Twin Falls this week, which has been designated "VFW Freedom Signature Week."

The petitions obtained during the week will be forwarded to Herbert R. Rainwater, VFW commander in chief, who will seek to deliver them personally to the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris during October. "If this fails," Price said, "then Rainwater will present them to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant and ask that the world organization bring pressure on Hanoi to assure that our men are treated humanely and the sick and injured are released." More than 1,400 American fighting men are believed held as captives of the North Vietnamese, Viet Cong and other Communist forces, Price said. Ray Crandal, public relations officer for District 6, said that the petitions are being circulated by members of Twin Falls Post No. 2136.

Cash Taken From Church

KIMBERLY — A few dollars in cash and a number of postage stamps were taken sometime Sunday night in a break-in at the Kimberly Methodist Church, Twin Falls County Sheriff's officers reported. Filer Man Loses Foot in Chopper

MURTAUGH — A young Filer man who lost his foot when it became caught in a corn chopper on a farm near Murtaugh Monday afternoon is reported in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Twin Falls sheriff's deputies said Wally Pickett, 21, was working for Ralph Taylor doing custom farming on the Douglas Bailey farm 2 1/4 miles east of Murtaugh when the accident occurred about 3 p. m. Officers said the chopper was on its second swath through the corn field when it apparently became plugged. Pickett climbed to the top of the chopper to tamp the corn. His foot became caught and he was dragged partially into the machine. Pickett's foot was cut off at the ankle and he sustained serious leg injuries up to about the knee. He was rushed to the hospital by ambulance. Magic Valley ambulance personnel said they were able to stop the bleeding while en route to the hospital.

The Albatross

This year the nation's taxpayers will spend almost $18 billion to finance the $370-billion public debt.

But even though the debt has grown tremendously since World War II, its importance as a factor in the economy has actually diminished because national income has grown so rapidly during the same period.

This reassuring word comes from a banker, one of a notoriously conservative breed.

"In relation to the vitality of the economy as a whole at a particular time, the size of the national or public debt is rather incidental," says Donald C. Miller, senior vice-president of Continental Bank of Chicago.

Fundamentally, the continual growth in the size of the debt reflects the increasing role of government in American life, he points out.

We are basically a debt society. The way our system works, we seem to need a lot of debt to run on. We all want houses now or the car now, and most of us could not have them if we had to pay for them on the spot.

The government is the same way. When our tax resources do not measure up to our needs, we, as a nation, go into debt.

Unlike an individual, however, who is eventually called to account, a government can go on forever refloating its debt with new borrowing, although governments can — and have — spent themselves into bankruptcy through mismanagement.

It happened in Germany after World War I, when run-away inflation rendered money almost worthless, and it is happening in Brazil.

But our present inflation has been caused not as much by the debt itself as by the expenditures that resulted in the debt, thinks Miller.

"We are a cyclical economy and at various times it has been necessary to run a deficit. The problem has been to generate the (tax) surpluses to slow down the economy at the proper times."

What we should concentrate on now, says the banker, is doing a better job of paying-as-we-go for current programs.

Which is exactly what the President has been trying to tell Congress for the past two years.

Sky Piracy

Air travel's gravest problem is the mushrooming growth of sky piracy with the accompanying blackmail by the pirates to save the skins of other criminals.

Every nation in the world has a stake in joining in efforts to protect innocent travelers against kidnapping, murder and threats of murder, and to stamp out the heinous crimes attendant upon air piracy.

Yet the development of international law dealing with air piracy has been unconscionably slow while the criminals have redoubled their activity.

The Arab commando seizures of international planes are indeed "crimes against humanity" as charged by an Israeli official. But even more horrifying was the threat to kill the 184 people, hostages held aboard two planes in the Jordanian desert, unless the skyjackers held in Switzerland, West Germany and Britain, are released.

Swiss and West German authorities agreed to comply. Britain ignored the ultimatum and planned to proceed with the case against Leila Khaled, a woman guerrilla, captured when armed guards aboard an Israeli plane killed her male companion.

The El Al plane was the only one of four attacked, which escaped capture, causing a Palestinian guerrilla protest that the guards' presence was "a gross violation of international law." This blatant and pretentious lie offends all sense of justice.

International pilots have considered refusing to fly to or from the Middle East, pending effective steps to prevent air piracy, but this would not solve the problem.

Psychedelirium

Remember when hippie meant big in the hips,

And a trip involved travel in cars, planes and ships?

When pot was a vessel for cooking things in,

And hooked was what Grandmother's rug might have been?

When fix was a verb that meant mend or repair,

And be-in meant simply existing somewhere?

When neat meant well organized, tidy and clean,

And grass was a ground cover, normally green?

When lights and not people were switched on and off,

And the pill might have been what you took for a cough?

When camp meant to quarter outdoors in a tent,

And pop was what the weasel went?

When groovy meant furrowed with channels and hollows,

And birds were winged creatures, like robins and swallows?

When fuzz was a substance that's fluffy like lint,

And bread came from bakeries, not from the mint?

When square meant a 90-degree angled form,

And cool was a temperature not quite warm?

When roll meant a bun and rock was a stone,

And hang-up was something you did to a phone?

When chicken meant poultry and bag meant a sack

And junk, trashy cast-offs and old bric-a-brac?

When jam was preserves that you spread on your bread,

And crazy meant balmy, not right in the head?

When cat was a feline, a kitten grown up,

And tea was a liquid you drank from a cup?

When swinger was someone who swung in a swing,

And pad was a soft sort of cushiony thing?

When way out meant distant and far, far away,

And a man couldn't sue you for calling him gay?

When dig meant to shovel and spade in the dirt,

And put-on was what you would do with a shirt?

When tough described meat too unyielding to chew,

And making a scene was a rude thing to do?

Words once so sensible, sober and serious,

Are making the freak scene like psychedelirious.

It's groovy, man, groovy, but English it's not,

Methods that the language has gone straight to pot.

From ITU Review

CAIRO — The incredible folly of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's violation of the Suez Canal standstill can be understood best by quoting an exchange between him and the chief architect of the American peace plan, the resourceful Joseph Sisco, during their private talk here last spring. Now going the rounds in top government circles here, the exchange started with Nasser bluntly telling Sisco that "we do not trust you Americans" because of the long U.S.-Israel intimacy. Sisco replied plainly that the Americans had an equal difficulty trusting the Egyptians. He then added: "Test us, Mr. President, test us."

Even with that blunt invitation, Nasser and his generals, undoubtedly prodded by their Soviet allies, still stubbornly refuse to trust Washington (despite the obvious fact that the U.S. peace plan is the best thing that has happened to Nasser since the six-day war of 1967). Thus, heard from top government officials during the height of the missile crisis here was the complaint that the U.S. had not "guaranteed" Egypt against a preemptive Israeli air strike against Egyptian missile sites. The Egyptians have not forgotten that preemptive attacks took Israel to the Suez Canal twice in the past 14 years — in 1956 and in 1967. Moreover, the standstill zone on the Egyptians' side of the canal is infinitely more important to Cairo than the Israeli-held East Bank is to Jerusalem. The Egyptian side is Cairo's vital defense line. A sudden Israeli air strike knocking out the anti-aircraft missiles could once again expose the Egyptian heartland to Israeli air attacks similar to those of last winter. Finally, his decision to install new defense missiles in the forbidden zone (within 32 miles of the canal) helped Nasser show the hawks here and in other Arab lands that he has not gone soft on Israel. As seen both by Egyptian and Western politicians here, that is a political imperative to Nasser. He has already broken with the Palestine commandos. He has privately pledged his support to Jordan's King Hussein in any war with the commandos and he has expelled several hundred militant Palestinians from Egypt. Furthermore, the hawkish Algerians are threatening his close relations with the revolutionary government of Libya — in an effort to outbid Nasser for the role of top banana in the Arab world. But the real reason for Nasser's dangerous folly was distrust of the United States. This same unreasoning distrust explains why Soviet and Czechoslovakian amphibious equipment is still pouring into Alexandria for transport to the canal area from Soviet ships. Whatever the Arab militants are crying for, Nasser knows that any cross-canal attack today against the Israelis would be doomed to bloody defeat. But if the peace effort fails (a possibility ironically enhanced by Nasser's missile violations), he intends to be ready for whatever the next round brings. In short, Nasser still sees some kind of U.S.-Israel trick in the U.S. peace plan. Instead of bending over backwards to carry out his end of the bargain, thus avoiding any chance of handing Israel a legitimate reason for boycotting the New York talks, Nasser ordered his Canal Zone defense strengthened. This folly has now risked both his moral standing in the West and the vast political and diplomatic gains offered him by the peace plan.

Prodigal Educators

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Not too many American governors are willing to say much about it publicly, but a high proportion of them have come to have great distaste for the education lobby.

Generally, they find it arrogantly demanding, with little balancing sense of responsibility and accountability.

Unlike some other lobbies, the education groups are perpetually garbed in the robes of nobility. Who can be against education, especially when so much seems to be needed?

Yet the educators have a voracious appetite for money. And all too many of them, to listen to the governors, appear to feel that spending more and more of it is the answer to all their problems.

A population giant like New York State already puts about 40 per cent of its state revenues into education. Many others large and small are in the 40 to 50 per cent category, Michigan being one at the higher end of this span. The hard-pressed state of Washington, now suffering under a nine per cent unemployment rate, lays out nearly 65 per cent of all its revenues for education.

Obviously, the governors do not want to short-change schooling, which is still grossly inadequate and inequitable in countless places.

What they want from the educators is far more ingenuity in devising new ways to improve educational techniques, to get more schooling for the dollar. They also want accountability, and willingness — not often if ever shown, according to numerous governors — to submit their operations to new standards and measures which will put a better gauge than now exists on the quality of education.

A lot of outside study groups have suggested that the states ought to take over the entire burden financially in education. A good many governors favor that proposition and more probably could be convinced. The key to the idea is to have the states take over the property tax now levied at the local and county level. There is a growing conviction among the nation's governors, supported by survey after survey, that, as administered locally, the property tax is one of the chief causes of inequity in the schools.

In one large industrial state, for instance, the sums spent on schooling range from a low of $500 to a high of around $1,100 per pupil per year. The judgment is that, other factors aside, there will never be even-handed spending for education so long as petty squabbling over property tax rates goes on at the local level.

ANDREW TULLY

Lunatic Law

WASHINGTON — A month from now the Supreme Court will open hearings on Congress's lunatic law giving the vote to 18-year-olds, and I trust the Court's new makeup will not be horn-swoggled by one argument for the law offered by that eminent constitutional lawyer, Sen. Teddy Kennedy.

But I confess my trust is a fragile thing. The Court still suffers the presence of too many members of Earl Warren's judicial Mafia, and we could wind up with a ruling that eventually might prompt some adde-pated Congress to tender the vote to toddlers or, contrariwise, limit it to citizens over 40.

Kennedy's principal thrust in advocating the law, legislation for which he initiated, is the hoary cliché of "invidious discrimination." We should not deny the vote to 18-year-olds, says this youthful Blackstone, while they are considered old enough to be drafted, married, employed and taxed. He bases this argument on the equal-protection clause of the 14th Amendment, which he would stretch to a new and dangerous limit.

Very well. Forget the draft for a moment. I rise to speak for some other kids who suffer from the same "invidious discrimination" that causes a sob to rise in the Kennedy throat. I refer to the child of 17 or 16 or 15 or 14 — or even 12 in some circumstances — who is now married, employed and taxed. Indeed, I bleed also for the 10-year-old who must pay a tax on any summertime earnings over $600.

If the Kennedy argument has validity, these kids also should be given the vote. They meet all Teddy's qualifications, except that pertaining to the draft, and in this vicious world heaven only knows how long they'll be exempt from shouldering a gun in, say Outer Mongolia.

In short, the point that demolishes the Kennedy argument and that of other professional youth-lovers, is that reason demands an arbitrary constitutional threshold for the right to vote.

Although you'd never know it to judge from the nonsense mouthed by advocates of the new law, that threshold exists. Section 2 of Article 1 of the Constitution leaves the states free to fix voter qualifications. Assorted amendments have diluted some of these states' rights, of course, but the very amendment cited in Kennedy's argument incorporates 21 as the age when a citizen becomes entitled to vote.

To be specific, the 14th Amendment is also designed to reduce the representation of any state which might abridge the voting rights of its citizens over 21. Age 21 was committed to print because it was the age generally accepted by the states. Today, 46 states still set 21 as the proper minimum age for voting, and only two have a voting age as low as 18.

Supporters of the vote for 18-year-olds by Congressional fiat are fond of comparing the action with the enfranchisement of blacks and women. But they fail to remind their audiences that both blacks and women were given the vote by due process, that is by amending the Constitution, not by mere legislation.

We are told that times have changed and that young people today are better educated and "more aware." Given the antics of some of our "educated" brats on campus, this is debatable, but let it pass.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Retarded

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After I read the letter from the mother of the boy with the club foot, I thought I'd drop you a line. I agree with you: it could have been worse.

I am the mother of two retarded boys. One is trainable, the other untrainable and living in a state institution.

These boys have taught me to really love and cherish things that so many take for granted. They have taught me to better understand neighbors and complete strangers.

These boys love everybody, even ones that make fun of them. Retarded children will never bring shame to our country as so many college students do.

They really try to learn everything they possibly can and are grateful for every little thing done for them. It's too bad Mrs. S.J. hasn't learned from her son; self pity will only make an invalid of her. Well, I've let off my steam. Will be looking forward to tomorrow's column. —Mrs. M.W.

I received so many accounts of babies with club feet who, with casts and sometimes with surgery, overcame the trouble, but Mrs. M.W. provides a deeper dimension. My thanks to her.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am bothered with gas in my intestines. Do you have any way to rid me of it? —Mrs. L.S.

Maybe, maybe not. I give you this answer because you haven't given me any idea of what type of "gas" trouble you have.

You might be an air-swallower. (Air-swallowers, it seems, never believe it when first told.) Maybe you have some food allergy that bothers you. Maybe you have nervous tensions that may contribute to having a nervous colon.

Those are some of the commoner causes of "gas," but as you can see, the right way to correct one type may be the wrong way for another.

I suggest that you read my booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints," which discusses, among other things, the different types of "gas." If you still have questions after reading the booklet, I'll welcome them. You can get the booklet by mail. Send 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of Times-News.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in my middle 30s, was married to a man who did not want children, although he did not tell me this until after we were married. I have been divorced 10 years now and do not intend to marry again.

This is my question: I want to have a baby by artificial insemination and would like to know if this is a legal procedure for an unmarried woman? —W.B.

That's a legal, not a medical question, and in fairness I can only suggest that you get your answers — if there are any — from an attorney. It is my understanding that this is still pretty much a "gray area" of the law, that the legislatures haven't provided much in the way of specific rules.

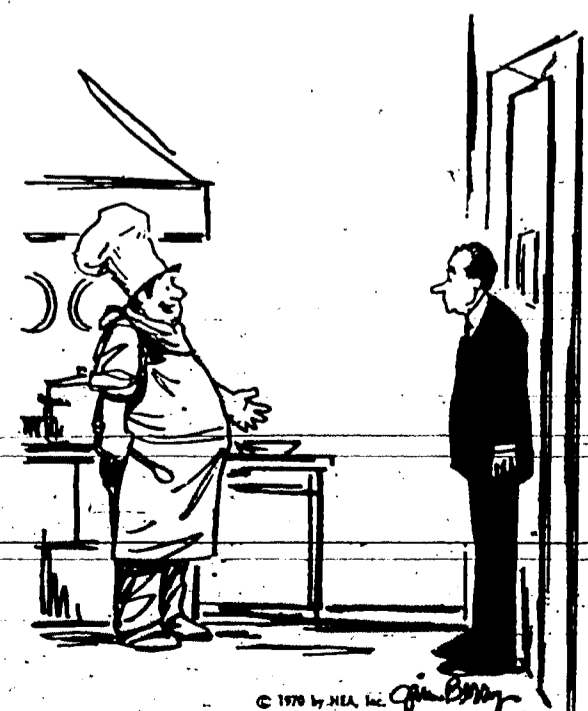

I suspect that such centers as are equipped to do artificial insemination would be reluctant to do so unless they have legal assurance that they are on safe ground.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For several years I have been taking one capsule daily of dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate for stool softening. Is there any harm in continuing this indefinitely? —E. A. L. No.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading the booklet, "The Way To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Sawtooth Action 'Dead'

POCATELLO (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen R - Idaho said Monday the Sawtooth National Park Bill will probably not be enacted during this session of Congress.

The bill, sponsored by Idaho's congressional delegation, proposes a national park to include the White Clouds area. Responding to a question about next action on the bill, Hansen said, "Our hope was to pass a recreational bill on which there was large agreement, and attach an amendment with moratorium on mining activities, to explore in more detail the final management plan that should be accomplished."

"The park proposal will then be considered after more public hearings. I would guess that this would still be the same order of priorities that will face the next congress."

Turning to the Wholesome Meat Act, the congressman said, "Many of us feel we don't need as much meat as is coming in from other countries. A great deal of meat products come in from other parts of the world."

"The purpose of my bill is to give the consumer protection against unwholesome meat. It will also provide equitable competitive conditions for the producers who produce in this country and sell in the market."

He said another purpose of his bill is to require that meat is inspected to the same standards that are required of our own livestock producers.

INVESTOR-INDUSTRIALIST William Lear holds a Lear Vapor generator — the heart of a system that he says will make the steam-powered car a reality. Lear said the engine underwent a 100-hour endurance test with "tremendously successful results." Tests show the system emits about 40 per cent less carbon monoxide and 45 per cent less oxides of nitrogen than the 1975 air pollution control requirements. (UPI)

Students Accuse Agnew

NEW YORK (UPI)—A college student accused Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Monday night in a face-to-face exchange of being a political joke whose public words made him a "precursor of violence."

Agnew in a spirited reply hit at the "disgusting permissive attitudes of people in command of college campuses." To make him a scapegoat because of these attitudes, the Vice President said, was "one of the most ridiculous charges I've ever heard."

The exchange came at the end of a 90-minute taping of a television panel show in which Agnew took on five student leaders from a group of nine. They appeared on the David Frost Show which is shown at various times around the country on week nights by Group W.

It was scheduled to appear Friday in New York and several of the other large television areas.

Until the final exchange on the show was conducted in good spirit and without acrimony, with topics ranging over many areas of student dissent and of Agnew's recent speeches.

The student who accused Agnew was Richard Silverman, president of the Associated Students of the University of Washington, who is studying for a doctorate in political science in the field of urban violence. Things had begun to heat up in the final segment of the show with talk about the Kent State campus slayings and "hardhat" construction workers activists.

Of Kent State, where four students died, Agnew said "the evidence seems to indicate the National Guard overreacted" in shooting. He said "they were not professional soldiers" and "I don't excuse what they did."

But he added it was amazing how the American people had "forgotten the precursors" of the shooting—rioting for two nights and the burning of the ROTC building the night before and cutting of the hoses of firemen who came to the blaze.

Cost Increases Viewed For Worker Insurance

BOISE (UPI) — Boise Attorney Sam Kaufman predicted Monday a 200 per cent boost in workmen's compensation insurance rates if a proposed new code is adopted by the Idaho Legislature.

The former legislator and member of the workmen's compensation advisory committee made the prediction at a hearing on the new code, conducted Monday by the legislative council committee on workmen's compensation.

The question was a proposed new workmen's compensation code drawn up this year by E.B. Smith, Boise, a former Idaho Supreme Court justice.

Representing the Idaho Self Insurers Association, Kaufman objected to the proposed code's definition of an injury. He said it would open a "Pandora's box" of compensation claims. He stated the definition is too broad and urged the committee to retain a definition "we know, we understand and we can live with."

The definition is: "Injury means any harmful change in the human organism, including an occupational disease, arising out of and in the course of employment, but does not include communicable diseases unless the risk of contracting such disease is increased by the nature of the employment."

Smith said the definition is one of the major changes the new code would make. The present law defines injury as "caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of employment."

Governors Prepare For Bus Measure

BILOXI, Miss. (UPI)—Deep South governors pushed through a rules change Monday to help pave the way for a strong anti-busing resolution at the Southern Governors Conference.

The conference, opening its two-day business session, voted without debate to amend its rules so a resolution can be adopted by a two-thirds vote instead of the three-fourths majority previously required.

Gov. John Bell Williams of Mississippi, chairman of the rules committee, said the amendment would make a difference of only one vote required for adoption of a resolution and insisted the change had no connection with any particular resolution that might be offered.

However, Williams and other anti-busing forces made it clear an attempt would be made to get the 1970 conference to take a strong stand against busing children to achieve racial balance in the schools. A similar proposal failed by only one vote in 1969 to get the required three-fourths majority.

The school situation was not among the items on the formal agenda of the meeting but Williams called it the primary "behind-the-scenes" topic.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, outgoing conference chairman, did not refer to the schools in his opening address. Instead he stressed a novel regional concept in environmental control. But he told newsmen he was "quite satisfied" the anti-busing matter would come up later.

There were indications an even stronger resolution on schools would be offered than the one defeated a year ago.

Gov. John McKeithen of Louisiana said the conference should "go further than just busing." McKeithen said busing of students was only part of the problem. He said forced assignment of pupils to achieve racial balance was the major concern. Others voiced similar views.

However, McKeithen might not be here to vote on the proposal, which likely will come up Tuesday. He left suddenly Monday afternoon to deal with racial problems erupting in Houma, La.

The rule change was adopted by a show of hands with 11 of the 14 governors present voting in favor of the modification and three not voting. Votes against the change were not called for.

Those who did not vote for the change were Govs: Marvin Mandel of Maryland, Russell Peterson of Delaware and Rockefeller, who was presiding as conference chairman.

Peterson, with Mandel concurring, said he did not believe a "voluntary association" of states should issue resolutions "without strong support by its members."

Figures released today showed Coeur d'Alene has had $2,067,309 in construction during the eight month period in 1970, up $453,791 from the same period of last year.

Flags Dip To Honor Former Idaho Governor

LEWISTON (UPI)—Flags at the Idaho Statehouse will fly at half staff as Idaho's first four-year term governor is buried at Lewis and Clark Memorial Gardens here Wednesday.

Dr. C. A. Robins, who served in the governorship from 1947-50, died here Sunday at the age of 85. He had been hospitalized almost continuously for the past several months and had suffered a series of heart attacks during the last two years.

Services for the former state legislator and governor will be at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Episcopal Church of the Nativity here with burial immediately after the services.

A native of Defiance, Iowa, Robins was graduated in 1907 from William Jewell College in Liberty, Mo. After teaching school for several years he entered Rush Medical College at the University of Chicago in 1913 and worked for The Chicago Daily News while attending medical school.

Following completion of his medical training, Robins entered the Army as a lieutenant in the Medical Corps in August, 1918.

After his discharge from the Army, Robins moved to St. Maries and opened private medical practice. He served as a general practitioner in St. Maries until he moved to Boise to begin his term as governor in 1947.

Robins served four-year terms in the state Senate from Bene-wah County from 1939 to 1946 and was majority floor leader in 1943.

In 1950 he sought the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate but was defeated by the late Herman Walker in the primary election.

Prior to his retirement in 1967, Robins was medical director at Lewiston of the North Idaho Medical Service Bureau. He also served as a physician for the state legislature.

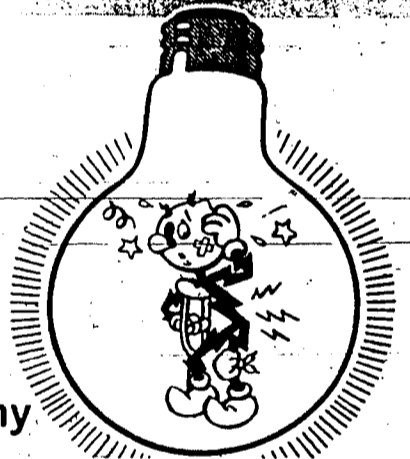

Survivors include his widow, Patricia, and three daughters.

Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, the man who succeeded Robins as governor, said in Washington, D.C. Monday, he was "first and foremost a kindly man who believed very sincerely in doing good for everybody."

Wilson's Studies Pay Off

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Flip Wilson is black, funny, bright and a television star—not necessarily in that order.

Blacks have been successful in dramatic and situation comedy shows—i.e. Bill Cosby, Diahann Carroll. But the late Nat King Cole, Leslie Uggams and Sammy Davis bombed as hosts of variety shows.

Whether they failed because of skin pigmentation or low quality shows is moot.

Wilson, a compact, dark, incisive man thinks they weren't equipped.

"The others had acts or routines," Flip said. "They were out of their bags as hosts."

"In the beginning when I decided to be an entertainer I knew I was funny. I also knew I couldn't sing or dance. I had to use words to sustain interest."

"All these years I've been preparing myself. I'm a storyteller rather than a comedian because story-tellers last longer."

Wilson read everything he could on comedy and comedians, studying the professional comics from the time he was a youngster. He learned that it took 15 years for most of them to become successful funny-men.

"I also learned to hold my club performances to 45 minutes and never do an encore," the new NBC star said.

"There's a very thin line between enough and too much with comedy."

"I discovered most comics have one quality that makes them unique."

"With Bob Hope it's timing; Jerry Lewis, dynamics; George Burns, effortlessness; W.C. Fields and Groucho Marx, control of situations; Eddie 'Rochester' Anderson and Butterfly McQueen, voice."

"There are no schools for comedians, so I attempt to use all the qualities I've seen used with success by others, but attitude is the most important thing."

Not quite.

Weekly Blood Sale Man's Only Income

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — In this capital of sleek limousines and tattered beggars, Juan Roberto Martinez lives by selling his only marketable possession—blood.

For the last three years, Martinez has sold two liters or slightly more than half a gallon of his type "O" blood a week. The 150 pesos ($12 U.S.) Martinez receives for his blood each week is his only income.

Martinez is 35 years old. "My life is a nightmare. I would not want this to happen to anybody. One does this only because of necessity. What I would want most is a good job. But after all these years I have lost all hope," he said.

Martinez' case is an extreme example of what has occurred to many residents of rural areas who have been drawn to Mexico City by the lure of money. They come rich in dreams but poor in skills.

Work for the unskilled is at a premium. Some peasants return dispirited to their homes. Others manage to exist on a few odd jobs. A few beg on street corners.

Martinez arrived here about three and a half years ago from Chihuahua, 1,000 miles north, where he was a carpenter. He got a job in a bus station.

"I did what I could," he said. "I carried packages, washed buses and ran errands. It ended when I got into a fight with one of my bosses."

Martinez searched fruitlessly for any kind of job. He was haunted by the promise he made to his wife that he would return for her and their two children, "once I had conquered the city."

Too proud to beg, Martinez began selling his blood.

Donating at the blood bank is not easy. Martinez must arrive early to ensure he will be admitted before the building's doors close at 10 a.m.

The sidewalk outside the bank is always packed with other penniless donors and members of families required by the city to give blood in partial payment for hospitalization costs.

After each donation, Martinez eats from 10 to 15 eggs to fortify himself for his next ordeal.

Martiez sends the equivalent of $4 a week to his wife. "Although I don't tell her so, I think she suspects that I have failed," he said.

'Tiger' Not Worried By Election Outcome

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The affable tiger from Chestnut Hill, "as he is sometimes described, is not concerned about the outcome.

But, as he has done in the past, he takes nothing for granted in an election campaign.

Sen. Hugh Scott holds an eminent position on the Washington scene as Republican floor leader and on occasion a congressional spokesman for the Nixon administration.

His opponent, Democrat William G. Sealer, 42, an Erie attorney, is attempting to fill the role of a giant killer and retire Scott, who will be 70 years old eight days after the Nov. 3 election. Sealer is a 10-year veteran of the state Senate and a top spokesman for his party on educational matters.

Relatively unknown statewide, Sealer has been campaigning at a fast pace since his nomination in the May primary. He has a lot of ground to make before the election.

Scott, former GOP national chairman, is a household name on the Pennsylvania ballot because of his 28 years in Washington—16 as a congressman from Philadelphia's Chestnut Hill section, and 12 years in the Senate.

Scott would like to win big in what may be his last campaign. On the state level, the Democrats have strong hopes of regaining occupancy of the governor's mansion after an absence of eight years with wealthy Philadelphia businessman Milton Shapp. But his race against Republican Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick is rated close.

The overriding issue in the gubernatorial campaign is money, caused primarily by the mounting costs of government and inability of the politically divided legislature to agree on new taxes or, as an alternative, cut spending. The legislature last year rejected Republican Gov. Raymond P. Shafer's proposed income tax, and so far has rejected his "austerity" budget for the current fiscal year.

Instead, the lawmakers passed a patchwork of taxes mainly on business, and stop-gap appropriations based on current tax yields.

Broderick maintains no income tax, or any new tax, is needed if reforms are made, such as sweeping reorganization of state government, massive cuts in expenditures, tightening of tax collections, a sharp cut in the state payroll and more federal revenue sharing with the states.

Shapp calls for total reform of the state's tax system, including imposition of a personal income tax accompanied by elimination of the state's 6 per cent sales tax on consumer items.

Costs Worry Airlines Despite Tour Records

LONDON—New records in world tourism seem likely this year, but the airlines are nevertheless worried about rising unit costs and falling unit revenue. They fear that hijacks and cholera epidemics may discourage a further expansion in travel, and they are anxious about the growing competition from cheap charter flights.

While many of the world's biggest airlines, especially the Americans, report losses and are seeking agreement on higher fares, they also want to attract passengers back from the charter operators to help fill their seats on scheduled journeys.

Package tour travel on chartered aircraft has made spectacular advances in Europe, growing tenfold in the last 10 years. It now accounts for nearly half the six million tourists who travel each year from the United Kingdom to the European continent, as one example.

Since scheduled air travel has also expanded, the tour operators argue that the vast growth of their business has not been at the expense of full-fare travel. They claim to have tapped a market which did not exist before, of people who would not in any case pay the full fare but will go for a bargain-price holiday.

Even so, the airlines cannot help seeing a potential demand for full-price seats being drawn off, and they see the danger even more in the other form of charter travel—the group membership system. A club or society can charter an aircraft, and provided it sells nearly all the seats, it can offer travel at less than the lowest economy fare.

The regular airlines have reacted to the fares competition by proposing their own arrangements for group travel and quantity price reductions, but so far they have not agreed on rates which would offer serious competition to the charterers.

Just now the big international airlines face an exceptional combination of budgetary problems. They have steadily rising running costs for wages, fuel and landing fees, greatly increased capital charges on the new jets which fall heaviest in the first years of operation, bigger insurance premium, and now the hijacking menace on which they are pressing national governments to seek agreement.

TWIN FALLS — Shirley Faye Newberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floy Newberry, Twin Falls, was married to Jim Hudson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hudson, Buhl, in rites Sept. 5 at the First United Brethren in Christ Church, Twin Falls.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert Schreckenberg of the Eastside Baptist Church before a background setting of candelabra and two large baskets of blue chrysanthemums and yellow gladioli tied with blue ribbons.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length empire-styled gown accented with a skirt of white silk and orlon shantung, a rounded neckline and long tapered sleeves. The sleeves and bodice were silk and orlon shantung covered with white net which featured a daisy design with silver threads making up the centers of the daisies. Daisy appliques highlighted the skirt front. Her silk illusion veil was held by a crown of pearls. She carried a bouquet of blue rosebuds centered with a white orchid tied with blue ribbons.

Mrs. Beverly Roberts, Boise, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor, with Elouise Skeen, Twin Falls, as bridesmaid.

Women's Civic Club Asks Council Aid

SHOSHONE — Members of the Civic Club will ask the city council for assistance in completing a previous club project to fence a dangerous area along Little Wood River at the Mary L. Gooding Park.

The project was begun several years ago when a small child who was at the park with her parents was drowned. Notice to the danger of the river was again given this summer when a 5-year-old Shoshone boy fell into the river and was rescued by an older boy who witnessed the incident.

Members will also ask the city council for a dog-leash law and for control of use of motorcycles within the city limits.

At the Friday meeting, held after a potluck dinner at the American Legion Hall, the club members voted to purchase place mat sets, note and Christmas cards and a club woman's calendar datebook for sale. Other projects of the year will be determined at the Oct. 16 meeting at the home of Mrs. Harrell Thorne. They may include such things as encouraging bringing trash from camp areas, promoting a coupon saving plan in Idaho similar to one in Oregon, whereby they may be redeemed toward kidney machines, and a possible fund-raising project.

Mrs. Alice Gerity reported on the Conservation Convocation held at Redfish Lake this week by the Idaho Federated Garden Clubs, Idaho Federated Women's Clubs and forest service, and on success of the club-sponsored flower show at the county fair. Mrs. Bertha Caldwell received the club's cash award at the flower show.

Members were reminded of an antique show Oct. 13 through 15 at the Rodeway Inn, Boise, and decided to send five delegates to the Community Improvement seminar at the College of Southern Idaho Oct. 7.

Programs for the year were reviewed by Mrs. Gerity and plans made to hold the spring luncheon at the Colonial House, Twin Falls.

Funds from the April Library Tea, $20.82, will be given to the city library, members voted. Hostesses were Mrs. Luella L. Kinsey, president; Mrs. Gerity, vice president; Mrs. Donald Runberg, secretary, and Mrs. Marvin Cole, treasurer.

EGYPTIAN FILM PROJECT — CAIRO (UPI) — The Egyptian Cinema Organization, leading film producer in the Arab world, will make six films in the next 12 months in conjunction with the Soviet Union, Jordan, Syria and Tunisia. DEAR ABBY: My sister has a beach front summer place on a lake. She also has two boys, ages 8 and 10, and two girls, 9 and 12. When the weather permits, she lets the boys play on the beach and in the water completely nude. However, she has the girls wear swimsuits.

We have two children, a boy 9 and a girl 11, who would enjoy a vacation at the lake, but I don't like this nude boy bit. My husband says I am wrong.

When I discussed it with my sister, she said it was good to bring up boys without secrets from their sisters, and I should do the same. I half jokingly asked her if she thought Dear Abby would agree with her and she bet you would because you had a pliant sense of fundamental realities. I agreed to write to you and show her your answer. I also agreed to concur with it. What do you say? MASS. MRS.

DEAR MRS.: I'm sorry to disappoint your sister, but my sense of fundamental realities isn't as "pliant" as she thinks it is. Ask your sister how come if it's "good" to bring up boys without secrets from their sisters. It isn't equally good to bring up girls without secrets from their brothers.

DEAR ABBY: You advised "NEW YORKER," who picked up a $5 bill on the street, to give her companion half, since they spotted it together and she had promised to do so. That may have been socially correct, but it was legally wrong.

I don't know how it is in other states, but in Utah, one who finds lost property and keeps it, or diverts it to his own use is subject to arrest. Found property must be turned over to the police who make an attempt to locate the owner. If after a reasonable amount of time, the owner cannot be located, the property is then turned over to the finder who then becomes the legal owner. This law is found in the larceny statutes, and is called larceny by finder.

LT. EDWIN HYMAS
POLICE DEPARTMENT, OGDEN, UTAH

DEAR LT. HYMAS: Thanks for wising up this naive columnist. There goes another long-held illusion, namely: "Finders keepers Losers weepers."

Readers hear this: The finder who becomes a keeper without first attempting to locate the loser can become not only a weeper himself, but a loser as well.

DEAR ABBY: A friend has asked my advice on a matter, and I am asking you. Six months ago this friend lost his wife of many years. He is 64. He met a widow in church. She is 60. They are planning to be married around Thanksgiving.

The lady wants a church wedding, which my friend thinks is fine, but thinks she is going overboard with the wedding plans. She wants to walk down the aisle as first-time brides do, and have her son give her away. She also wants attendants — only "a few," she says, but she would like to wear a long, white, lacey gown with a veil. My friend thinks that under the circumstances and because of their ages, the less "fuss" involved the better. He prefers a quiet church wedding with only a few of the immediate family on both sides present. Your advice is solicited. HIS FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: I'm inclined to agree with your friend. But he and his lady had better get together on a definition of "fuss" — or there is apt to be a large one.

DEAR ABBY: I laughed with tears in my eyes when I read that letter from the girl who unhooked her bra to let her pre-med boy friend give her a backrub. Many years ago, when I was a pre-med student, I used that old backrub technique. I soon learned that if I could get a girl to unhook her bra, even though she was lying on her face, I'd have no trouble after that.

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fear of a possible U.S. intervention in Jordan sent stocks lower in moderately active trading Tuesday.

As trading rounded the halfway mark, the Dow Jones industrial average was off about 3 1/2 points at 748.56. More than 750 issues declined, while 418 moved higher.

A three-hour turnover of around 7 1/2-billion shares was running a million shares behind Monday's pace.

Military sources in Mainz, Germany, said a strong American mechanized airborne force was making hasty preparations for a possible drop into Jordan.

Republican Senate leader Hugh Scott, describing the Jordanian-Palestinian guerrilla conflict as perilous, said President Nixon is "prepared to preserve the proper interests of the United States in the current Middle East crisis."

During a 2 1/2-hour meeting at the White House Scott said the President outlined what the United States is doing to meet the crisis. But the Pennsylvania senator declined to specify what the plans included.

Successful Investing Business Today

Q I retired two years ago and have the greater part of my capital in four pipeline companies' bonds. I have been told to sell because the natural gas shortage could cause my bonds to be worthless. You can imagine how this worries me. What do you advise me to do? J.R.

A) While I question the validity of this reasoning, you have violated an important rule by investing in only one industry. I would advise selling BB-rated Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line 8 1/2's of 1950 and United Gas Pipe Line 5 1/2's of 1980. The former is trading at an 8-point premium, the latter 4 points below your cost. As Pease said the prime rate cuts "signal the growing availability of money to lend."

Q About 18 months ago I made my first investment - Simplicity Pattern - on your recommendation. As a teacher of home economics your advice made good sense to me. My stock since then has dropped to the low sixties twice and reached ninety once, now being 5 points below my cost. What do you advise now? A.H.

A) I would add to shares on any temporary correction in price. Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally, but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Banks Breach Rate Cut Wall

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two big New York banks forced a major breach today in the wall of resistance to a cut in the commercial bank prime interest rate that has been under pressure since late in August.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. led the New York banks with a half-point cut to 7 1/2 per cent, followed quickly by Chemical Bank, New York Trust Co. The two banks, fifth and sixth largest in the nation, respectively, sent other New York bankers into hasty conferences and sparked a rash of similar cuts around the country.

While the prime rate cuts will make loans obtained by big business borrowers a bit cheaper, the interest rates being paid by the man on the street for automobile and personal loans aren't likely to go down, at least not as a direct result of the prime rate cuts.

However, a spillover reduction in the consumer side of the credit market can't be ruled out. An official of one New York bank said demand for car loans has weakened and an interest rate cut might be possible. The current rate on new car loans is 5 1/2 per cent, discounted and including life insurance, which works out to 12.74 per cent on a simple interest basis for a three-year loan.

Mortgage rates, like consumer loan rates, move in a separate market and are not directly or automatically affected by changes in the business prime rate.

Council Tables Burn Measures

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS — Action on two proposed ordinances regulating open burning and the burning of trash and garbage was tabled Monday night by city council members pending further information from state authorities.

Another ordinance, placed on first reading, drew protest from a local building material concern. The ordinance would require all applications for new construction or additions where commercial buildings are involved to be accompanied by a certification of licensed architect or engineer certifying the structural components meet Uniform Building Code requirements.

Warren Barry, of Volco Builders, said this would work a hardship on many builders and he felt it is not necessary where a designer is available as at his own firm. He said a small commercial addition would, if the ordinance is adopted, require services of an architect or engineer which would mean long delays and costs. He said he did not believe it would be possible to ask an architect to place his stamp of approval on someone else's plans.

Instead, Barry suggested the city's building inspection department continue the service it now performs in inspecting such buildings and when problems appear they be checked out with the city engineering staff which he said should be at the disposal of the building inspection department when needed. He noted the inspector now has authority to call for architect approval where it appears necessary.

Another ordinance, one of intent of sale on the filter plant property south of the city was passed under suspension of the rules. The city will hold a public hearing on the plans to sell the property Oct. 19. Sixty days time is required for advertising and other legal procedure before the property can be sold. It involves 15 acres of land and a two story brick structure. Wells located on the property and in use by the city for domestic water supplies will be excluded.

In other business, council members delayed action on the fire prevention code ordinance until the next meeting so a report can be heard from the fire chief, and adopted a resolution setting fees at the sanitary landfill.

The city will continue to permit the Twin Falls Housing Authority to act as collecting agency for the units and will allow a previous policy of reduced rates to cover the service. Maximum fee for a two unit dwelling will be $2.70 per month.

Action was also delayed on the appointment of a Youth Advisory Commission which has been in a planning stage for several months. The commission will be made up of responsible young persons in the community who will lend their services to city government in an advisory capacity. Mayor Frank Feldtman explained.

Payment of $26,564.52 was authorized to Lone Pine Construction Co., for final work on the airport runway. Dale Riedesel, project engineer, said this is the final payment except for the $32,000 held as retainage to be given the contractor upon acceptance of the project by the city and the federal aviation administration. Final review of the project by the FAA was scheduled for Tuesday, he said.

Councilman Paul Ostyn was asked to work on a committee to review the city employees' retirement program and make recommendations to the city as soon as possible. Presently city employees have asked for adoption of the state retirement program over the existing city retirement system.

FARM WORKERS in California have started a boycott of all lettuce not carrying the Black Eagle label of the Farm Workers Union. About 500 workers gathered for a rally following a mass at a church and then fanned out to picket stores in the San Francisco Bay area. The workers carried placards and a red flag. (UPI)

Magic Valley Monument Sanctuary Area Added

WASHINGTON, D.C. (UPI) — The addition of 2,243 acres to the Craters of the Moon National Monument near Arco is included in a bill approved Monday by the House of Representatives which designates 23 wildlife refuges in 12 states.

The measure, approved on a voice vote, would incorporate several Senate-passed bills into one law. It was returned to the Senate for further consideration.

The designation of the additional 2,243 acres to the Craters of the Moon would not have much practical effect on the operation of the Craters, which operates as a national monument under the park service, a staff member there said today.

The staff member indicated the land designated in the new bill lies to the south and east of the monument and would include the Big Southern Butte. Designation of the additional land as wilderness area and wildlife refuge means no hunting would be allowed, but since no hunting is allowed on any park service operation, this would be no change.

The bill includes deletion of 260 acres from the Monomy wilderness in Massachusetts, reduction of 400 acres from the Pelican Island wilderness in Florida as well as the addition

Airport Bid Call Rejected

HAILEY — The Blaine County Airport Commission has rejected a plan to call for bids for the leasing of the former Johnson Flying Service hangar at the Friedman Memorial Airport, Hailey.

Commission members met with representatives of Simplot Aviation Monday to discuss the lease agreement but no definite decision was made. Simplot and Valley Charters have indicated their interest in leasing the facilities to provide a second fixed base operator for the airport. Presently Sun Valley Air is operating off the airport.

Simplot Aviation proposes to rent the facilities at four cents per square foot of area per year with added rent charged at one per cent of the adjusted gross sales per month. Monthly sales would include aircraft fuels, aircraft rentals, maintenance services and all cash sales. The firm also requested two five year options of renewals.

Valley Charters proposed to rent the facilities for about $200 per month and return to the commission three cents per gallon of fuel sold. The firm stated it would not operate in competition to a fixed base operator and would lease the service and storage facilities for their aircraft. The proposal was submitted as an alternate bid to one submitted in June.

Said director of aeronautics, Chet Moulton, a member of the Blaine airport commission, agreed to meet with the attorney general to determine what action should be taken.

to the Idaho site.

But as soon as the Monomy and Pelican Island deleted land comes under requirements for federal ownership it can then be included in the authorized wilderness areas, the House committee reports.

Other wildlife refuges that would become wilderness areas, if the bill becomes law, include Bering sea, Bogoslof, Tuxedni, St. Lazarie, Hazy Island and Forrester island, all in Alaska; Three Arch Rocks and Oregon Islands, both in Oregon; Washington lands, Wash., and Petrified Forest and Mount Baldy, Ariz.

Faculty Reception Thursday

RICHFIELD — Richfield faculty members will be feted at the annual teacher's reception at 8 p.m. Thursday at the high school. The program will feature introduction of teachers, numbers by the high school speech class of V. C. Ross, and presentation of a plaque for the late Supt. F. R. Briggs. All parents and interested persons are urged to attend.

Mrs. Neil Andreason, PTA unit president, has named members of her executive board with Mrs. Kenneth Sams as hospitality chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Ward, membership; Charles Buttane, program; Mrs. Glen Ross, Mrs. S. C. Peterson, room mothers; and Neil Andreason, legislative chairman.

Board Examines Money Problems

SUN VALLEY — Finances occupied much of the discussion during this month's meeting of the Sun Valley hospital board Monday, according to Administrator Bill Hansen.

Hansen said the hospital's financial picture is a problem at this time because of salary adjustments and new additions, both in building and equipment. He noted that unusual expenditures have left the institution short for the time being to purchase supplies needed for the usual winter use.

Recently the hospital received a prefabricated 14 by 32 foot addition constructed by Regal Manufacturing Co., Twin Falls, at a cost of $5,600. The building was placed on a prepared foundation which cost about $1,000 additional. The addition is used for a consultation room, two examination rooms and will be equipped with the usual fixtures such as adequate lighting, plumbing and electrical equipment. It will be occupied by Dr. B. L. Kreilkamp who recently joined the staff at the hospital.

The building will eventually be removed, however, and replaced by a clinic expansion planned for mid-1971.

Another project in progress is the installation of two 3,000,000 BTU boilers which will furnish heat and steam for the hospital. Sun Valley Co. has provided the steam for the heat in the past but is now phasing out that operation.

The new building to house the boilers will cost $2,550 with Reynolds Construction Co., Twin Falls, the prime contractor. Boilers and pumps in the new building will cost $8,100 with the total cost of the heating plant now estimated at $15,775.

By LIZ BOLTON
Times-News Correspondent

HAILEY — Blaine county tax levies for 1970 not only adhere to the four per cent limitation established by House Bill 304 but reflect a reduction from 1969 levies, according to county commission chairman Charles Atkinson.

Atkinson told the Times-News Monday the levies were adopted by the commission under emergency procedures because of the shortness of time. The levies had to be on file with the state Monday.

This year's valuation is estimated at $15,375,000, compared with an estimated $14,142,000 last year. Tax levies are down about .5699 mills from the 1969 levy, with the total 1970 tax levy at 20.7867 mills.

Ambulance Bids Asked In Blaine

HAILEY — Bids for ambulance service for Blaine county, will be opened Oct. 12, commissioners said Monday.

Bids may be submitted to George McCoy, county clerk, to be opened at 10 a.m. that day in his office. Alternate proposals for two space ambulance and four space ambulance service are sought.

The bid shall include 24-hour service, at least one trained man, first aid and oxygen equipment, and specification of type and year of ambulance.

The commissioners explained that a trained man is one experienced in first aid and life-saving techniques. Keith Bird is presently operating the ambulance in the county.

Housing Group Meets

SUN VALLEY — Members of the Pacific Northwest region of the National Association of Housing and Development Organization began gathering in Sun Valley today for a three-day meeting which opens there Wednesday.

Larry Harper of the Twin Falls Housing Authority said there were 310 delegates already registered. A registration of about 400 is expected.

Meeting with NAHRO members will be officials from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and other federal officials.

Oscar Peterson, administrator of the new regional HUD office at Seattle, is expected to attend as are Eneas Kane, Washington, D.C., president of the national NAHRO; Robert Maffin, Washington, D.C., executive director of the national association, and William Y. Nishimura, Pacific Northwest president from Seattle, Wash.

Local officials attending the biennial meeting will be James Kelsch and Evan Robertson, director and assistant director of the Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency, and Harper.

The program, Harper said, will embrace all phases of community development including codes, urban renewal and housing. Other related federal programs such as No. 235 home ownership program for low income people and No. 238 rent subsidy program, will be explored.

Committee members will meet in November.

Range Use Unit Meets

CHALLIS (UPI) — Bud Nelson, Challis, president of the Morgan Creek Cattle Association, said today the Idaho Range Use Coordinating Committee met in Challis to tour areas and observe range and wildlife use.

He said the Challis and Salmon National Forests were observed. The range use committee successfully established projects involving wildlife, range, and watershed problems in the Oakley Public Lands areas.

Bud Purdy, Picabo, range use coordinating committee chairman, said the committee is interested in assisting ranchers, sportsmen, state and federal agencies to bring beneficial improvement examination of this area's grazing allotments.

Purpose of the meeting, Kelsch said, is for directors and staff members of housing and urban renewal agencies in the Pacific Northwest to discuss programs in which they are involved. Some recommendations on federal legislation regarding their agencies are expected to evolve from the meeting, he said.

Building Report Offered

TWIN FALLS — A progress report on two buildings currently under construction on the College of Southern Idaho campus was presented to trustees Monday night during a regular board meeting.

Ed Peterson, architect with CTA, architects, engineers and planners, said by October 1 the dormitory and "commons" should be 80 per cent complete. Contract time on the two projects calls for a late November completion date. The commons is a multi-use structure containing a student union, library and administration facilities.

Trustees noted that CSI's mill levy this year is down from $8.240 to $8.198, one of the several taxing units in the county to reduce its levy.

T.F. Firm Selected

TWIN FALLS — Congressman Orval Hansen announced today that Globe Seed and Feed Co. of Twin Falls has been awarded a $14,750 contract from the Bureau of Land Management.

Hansen said the contract is for the purchase of grass and miscellaneous seed for the BLM district in Cassia County and for districts in Nevada, Oregon and Utah.

Meeting Cancelled

RICHFIELD — A meeting planned for Wednesday in Richfield has been cancelled because of the inability of the featured guest, Gov. Don Samuelson, to attend.

The governor telephoned area Republican leader Grant Stevens Monday to cancel the engagement. Stevens said the governor will be attending the funeral of Dr. C. A. Robins, former governor, who died Sunday. The governor, Stevens said, indicated the luncheon meeting will be rescheduled in late October.

Ketchum Sewer Rates Set

KETCHUM — Sewer pipe installation in Ketchum is in the final stages of completion and Ketchum City Council members Monday night adopted a final sewer rate ordinance and a second comprehensive sewer ordinance.

Considering a single family dwelling as the standard equivalent connection the rate ordinance calls for a charge of $2 per month per connection. On file in the city office is a list of computations of equivalent connections for the various types of businesses and other sewer users.

The comprehensive ordinance regulates and administers the city's system and stipulates the board of appraisers comprised of the mayor, city clerk and engineer be responsible for the sewer rate adjustment with the approval of the city council.

The monthly rates will finance operation of the newly constructed sewage treatment plant south of the city.

Hansen Water Board Names Hansen Head

HANSEN — W. D. Wiseman was appointed president of the Hansen Sewer and Water Improvement Association at the meeting of the group Monday night.

He fills the vacancy created by the death of Vergil Ball, former mayor. Harold Mill Jr. was named vice president and Ralph Simmons continues as secretary. Robert L. Perkins was appointed a director of the association.

Members decided that no call for Roto-Rooter service will be answered until it is definitely ascertained that the sewage blockage is in the main line. Sewer connections from the house to the main line are the responsibility of the property owner, councilmen emphasized.

Two association members, Ralph Simmons and Earl Tridle, will attend the next city council meeting and recommend that FHA money left from the sewer construction be used to finish the new city well.

Wiseman was instructed to check into cost of purchasing new sewer cleaning equipment.

Short talks were given by the Rev. Mr. Thompson in response, Albert Pelley church lay leader, and Mrs. C. M. Pridmore, church school supervisor. A musical number was presented by Tommy, Jamie, and Teri Peterson with Mrs. Pridmore as piano accompanist.

Litter, Noise Rules Passed

SUN VALLEY — Residents of Sun Valley now have four more ordinances on the city books, all of which were passed during the Monday meeting of the city council.

Clerk Clayton Stewart said the council adopted ordinances which deal with litter, noise, and dogs in the city limits. With the action, it will be unlawful for persons to throw or dispose of litter in any public place. Included in the provisions are hand bills.

It is also unlawful to produce loud and unusual noises within the city or to allow dogs to run at large without licenses. The ordinances also set provisions for non-commercial kennel licensing and set penalties for failure to abide by any of the new provisions.

Failure to comply will result in a misdemeanor charge and appropriate penalties.

Stewart also said a study of the city's finances has been ordered to determine the possibility of establishing new departments within the city government structure. The future plans include fire department and police protection. The study should be finished by July, he said.

Intrepid Leading 2-0; Committee Upholds Protest

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—The race committee of the New York Yacht Club deliberated four hours Monday and then rocked the America's Cup competition by disqualifying Gretel II of Australia in Sunday's race for bumping at the start and awarded the victory to American defender Intrepid.

The decision gave Intrepid, which lost Sunday's race to Gretel by 1 minute, 7 seconds, a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series for yachting's coveted trophy with the third race coming up Tuesday. It also touched off anger and unhappiness among the Australian crew.

"Intrepid executed what is known as barging—forcing a passage," said Visser. "And if we get caught in a situation like that again, we'll go home."

The race committee, after four hours of deliberation, upheld Intrepid's protest that Gretel II was guilty of a rule infringement relating to starting procedure and rights of way.

The disqualification ruling was not without precedent. The U.S. boat, Defender, lost the second race in 1895 to Valkyrie II, but was awarded the event when the British yacht shattered Defender's main mast after they crossed the starting line.

Contrary to the 1970 race committee's set of facts and relevancy of the rule it cited, Visser claimed Intrepid had violated a different standard which established Gretel's right after the starting signal, and that he had a photograph to prove it.

"A windward yacht must keep clear of a leeward yacht," Visser said, "and a yacht clear astern shall keep clear of the yacht clear ahead. Intrepid's actions were contrary to the rule."

Visser said he knows his race rules and began reciting, word for word, those rules he claimed Intrepid violated and the ones which the NYCC decided Gretel was guilty of violating.

in 1962 and this may be the last year he contests the bottomless cup.

"Naturally, I'm disappointed over the decision," Packer said.

A's Vida Blue Throws No-Hitter

OAKLAND (UPI)—Rookie lefthander Vida Blue, deprived of a no-hitter only 10 days ago, pitched hitless ball against the Minnesota Twins Monday night in a 6-0 victory by the Oakland A's.

Blue, making only his fourth start of the year, had pitched a one-hitter against the Kansas City Royals on Sept. 11, giving up a single with two out in the eighth inning.

He retired the first 11 Twins he faced before walking Harmon Killebrew in the fourth inning.

The 21-year-old former high school football star from Mansfield, La., needed brilliant defensive help from shortstop Bert Campaneris and third baseman Sal Bando to protect the no-hitter.

In the fifth inning, Campaneris made a leaping, backhanded stab of George Mitterwald's two-out line drive. In the eighth, Mitterwald slapped a hard grounder off the glove of Bando, who recovered in time to nip the Twins' catcher at first.

Record Attempt Delayed

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (UPI)—Speed runs of the Blue Flame rocket car were stopped Monday because of damaged injector nozzles and repairs were expected to take another full day.

Earlier Monday, driver Gary Gabelich made two runs through the time clocks and averaged from 426 miles per hour to a top speed of 440 m.p.h.

"We're just not getting the thrust out of the engine," the 30-year-old driver said.

He noted the pencil-shaped car was using 30 seconds to burn a fuel payload that should normally be used in just 20 seconds.

Project manager Dean Dietrich said the damage was probably done Thursday when the Blue Flame first moved under its own power. At that time it emitted a loud boom and a shock wave which apparently damaged the injectors.

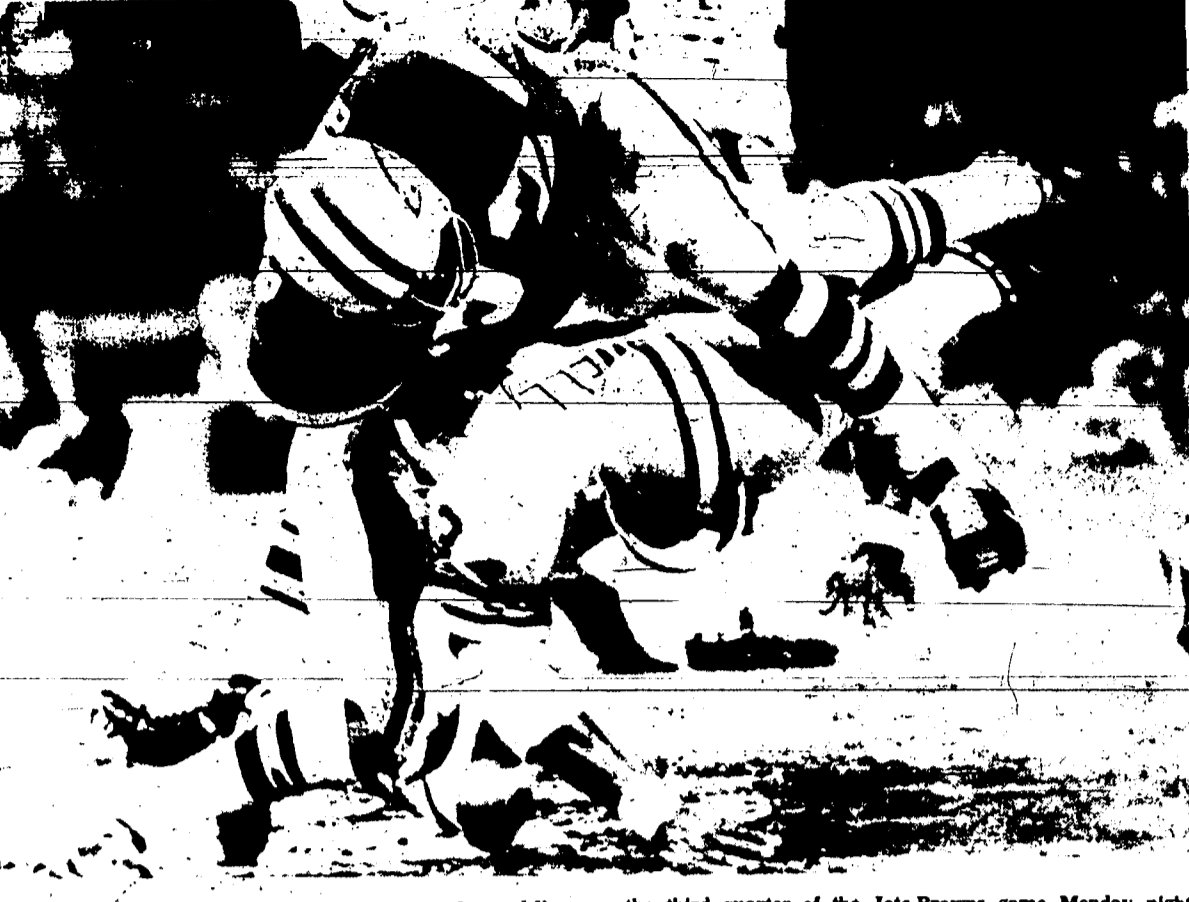

Dietrich said the reverberating blast was caused by a fuel mixture that was too potent for the rocket engine.

Before the damaged engine was detected Monday, the Blue Flame shook off rough track conditions and threatening skies to make the two passes through the running mile.

The Long Beach, Calif., driver, who is nursing what he termed a "Utah cold," expressed complete confidence in the narrow rocket car.

The Flame is here to challenge the world land speed record of 600.601 m.p.h. set in 1965, and will be working towards that speed gradually.

"I wish they'd do it after lunch," the 30-year-old driver said following his second rocket ride on the salt.

85,703 See Nelsen, Browns Drop New York Jets 31-21

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Homer Jones raced 96 yards with the second half kickoff and Bill Nelsen hit on 12 of 27 passes good for 145 yards including one touchdown to lead the Cleveland Browns to a 31-21 victory over the New York Jets Monday night before a standing room crowd of 85,703, the largest in the Browns' history.

The Browns took advantage of New York mistakes to score twice in the first quarter. A Jet player, the Browns took the ball from their own 45-yard line and marched 55 yards in nine plays, with Nelsen hitting Gary Collins for the final eight yards.

The big play in the drive was a 21-yard screen pass to Bo Scott that gave the Browns a first down on the New York 10.

The Browns then covered 84 yards in 11 plays, with Bo Scott plugging over from two yards out with 36 seconds left in the first quarter, to run the score to 14-0. Two pass interference calls, good for 34 yards, hurt the Jets.

The Jets took the Browns kickoff and rolled 61 yards in eight plays, with Emert Johnson getting the first Jet touchdown from two yards out. Matt Snell, who carried 16 times for 108 yards during the game, lugged the ball three times for 21 yards during the drive.

The Jets again moved to the Browns 31-yard line with Namath hitting George Sauer for gains of 17 and 40 yards, but Brown defensive back Walt Summer intercepted on the five-yard line. Another interception of a Namath pass, a leaping catch by Jim Houston, stopped the Jets in midfield with 2:10 left in the half.

Jones made it 21-7 with his long touchdown jaunt but the Jets came right back as Namath connected on four-of-five passes good for 62 yards and Boozer climaxed the 80-yard 10 play drive by going over from the ten-yard line.

Don Cockroft booted a 27-yard field goal for the Browns in the third quarter.

Namath, who finished the night with 19 of 31 passes good for 302 yards, got the Jets rolling, passing four times for 135 yards, including a brilliant 67-yard touchdown run as Nebraska fought 13-point favorite USC to a 21-21 standstill.

80 yards with the final 33 going to Sauer and a touchdown with 3:22 left in the game.

Linebacker Bill Andrews chucked off a final Jet rally and iced the game for the Browns with 35 seconds left, picking off a Namath pass and rigger 25 yards for the final touchdown.

Andrews interception was the third suffered by Namath.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Joe Orduna has recovered. If you don't believe it, ask Southern California's football team.

Reinstated

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Veteran forward Bill Bridges of the Atlanta Hawks was suspended briefly from the team by coach Richie Guerin Monday, but was reinstated two hours later following a meeting with Guerin.

Guerin announced the suspension from the Hawks' training camp shortly after 11 a.m. He said Bridges was suspended indefinitely and removed as team captain for his "unbecoming" attitude.

A team spokesman said Bridges left the camp and returned to the team's motel from where he called Guerin.

Sixkiller Is Back of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Quarterback Sonny Sixkiller of Washington, an unusually poised sophomore with an unusually picturesque name, was chosen Monday as the Pacific-8 Conference offensive player of the week.

Sixkiller, only 19, fired three touchdown passes and erased a 20-year-old school total offense record last weekend while leading the Huskies to a season opening 42-16 conquest of Michigan State.

The full-blooded Cherokee Indian, originally from Oklahoma, completed 16 of 35 passes for 276 yards, including touchdown strikes of 59, five and 37 yards.

Texas Gains Top Ranking Ahead Of Buckeyes, Lions

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Texas Longhorns, last year's national college champion, got a head start on this year's title, leading Ohio State by 70 points in the first week's balloting by the United Press International coaches board.

Texas, which defeated California 56-15 behind fullback Steve Worster's three-touchdown outburst in a season-opener, picked up 341 points, including 22 first place votes, from the 35 coaches on the board while Ohio State, which opens this week against Texas A&M, got 271 points and 11 No. 1 ballots.

Only three other teams—Stanford (2-0), Southern California (1-0-1) and Missouri (1-0)—received first place votes. Stanford was edged for third place by a single point, in the balloting by Penn State (1-0). State had 202 points, Stanford 201.

Southern Cal, which had its record blemished by a tie against Nebraska last week, was fifth with 191, and Missouri sixth at 162.

The rest of the top 10 included Mississippi (1-0) with 156 points, Nebraska (1-0-1) at 147, Notre Dame (1-0) at 136 and Michigan (1-0) at 47.

Houston led off the second 10 with 36 points, followed by UCLA 17, Oklahoma 16, Tennessee 12, Florida 9, Purdue and Colorado with 6 apiece, Arkansas had five, and Auburn, Washington and West Virginia all with three.

Dunne Ready To Play

POCATELLO (UPI) — Idaho State all-conference defensive end Steve Mandelkow will apparently be back in his starting position for Saturday's Minidome dedication at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

He was removed from the University of Tulsa game halfway through the first quarter when he took an elbow in the throat. X-rays showed no crack in the larynx so he was cleared to work out Tuesday.

Apparently all but one of those on the injured list will be able to take the field against Nevada. The exception is halfback Steve Proniewych who is out with a severely bruised thigh muscle. He will be held out until the Oct. 3 Idaho game.

Those back-in-action include all Big Sky quarterback Jerry Dunne, middle linebacker-Ras Cattolico. Despite Dunne's readiness to play, sophomore Tom Lee's fine passing performance against Tulsa earned him the nod as starting quarterback this week.

Investigation Starting On Charges by Black Athletes

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Chancellor John E. Corbally of Syracuse University announced Monday a trustee-faculty-student committee will investigate charges of racial discrimination on the part of the university's athletic department and other matters raised by black athletes in a "statement of expectations" issued last week.

At the same time, a statement by Corbally said it was not considered advisable at this time to return eight suspended black players to the football squad.

The statement of expectations was submitted to Corbally's office last Thursday, the day the suspended black players signed a statement of commitment, indicating they would like to be reinstated.

Houston. "The concerns expressed by this statement of the black athletes, primarily the allegations of discrimination on the part of the athletic department, have been dealt with the Syracuse and Onondaga County Human Rights Commission," Corbally said. "Nevertheless, the continuing concern of the black athletes leaves me, with support of the athletic department and the football coaching staff, to appoint a trustee-faculty-student committee to thoroughly review their allegations."

Corbally said the committee members will be announced on Wednesday and he will ask them to meet immediately and work "on a tight-time schedule." He said he wanted the committee to prepare "a comprehensive public report as soon as possible."

The Negro players first boycotted football practice last spring to draw attention to their complaints of racial discrimination on the Syracuse team. The eight were suspended by veteran coach Floyd "Ben" Schwartzwalder and, after several days in August of trying to find a basis of peace between the players and coaching staff, the suspensions were made permanent on the first day of fall practice.

Schwartzwalder, who has produced such outstanding black players as Jim Brown, Heisman Trophy winner Ernie Davis, Floyd Little and Jim Nance in his 22 years at the helm of Syracuse, admitted last week that the loss of the eight would hurt the Orange, both offensively and defensively.

The "expectations" as issued by the blacks included: 1-There should be black professionals and other personnel hired on the athletic department of Syracuse University and in the coaching staff on all levels.

2-There should be a full-scale investigation into charges of racial discrimination in Syracuse

University athletics by the vice provost for minority affairs, and the results of this investigation should be reported to the Syracuse University community by the beginning of the second semester.

3-An advisory committee, appointed by the chancellor with the approval of the black athletes, should develop a monitoring system to assure that the participation of black players is commensurate with their skills and talents. Persons on the advisory committee should be drawn from local community groups and black athletic alumni.

4-The university should undertake immediate steps to fulfill the requirements of items No. 2 and 3 of the conciliation recommendations of the Syracuse and Onondaga Human Rights Commission.

A&M's James Didn't See Miracle Score

It was one of those typically steamy nights in Baton Rouge. More than 60,000 persons were noisily expressing themselves like they always do in Tiger Stadium, rising to a crescendo that probably could be heard in the northern outskirts of New Orleans.

It was as good a place for a miracle as any, so Lex James and Hugh McElroy pulled one off.

That James to McElroy 73-yard touchdown pass with 13 seconds to go that beat LSU 20-18 last Saturday sent shock waves through the Southwest Conference, and earned James United Press International conference back of the week honors.

Seldom has a group of youngsters risen from such depression to the heights of happiness so suddenly.

But James, a plucky sophomore who reminds one more and more of Texas Longhorn-ex James Street, tells it best. LSU had just gone ahead 15-13, and A&M was trying to get back on top.

"On that set of downs after LSU scored we were third and ten deep in our end and we tried two passes. But we couldn't get anything going. It seemed like that was it. The people in the stands started to get up and go.

"Everybody was dejected, what with us going ahead 13-12 and them making that fantastic drive. Everybody was down. A few people were going up and down the sidelines saying we could still do it, but I felt bad, and everybody felt bad."

LSU took over deep in A&M's end of the field and promptly kicked another field goal, boosting the score to 18-13, and with the clock dying the Aggies got one last chance.

"The coach gave Brad Dusek (the Aggies tailback) this play," James said. "Homer May was the primary receiver. When I went back I saw Hugh running in back of Homer, and I said, 'Well, here goes.' It was just a desperation thing. Then I got knocked down and didn't see Hugh catch it."

McElroy did catch it. He took it out of the hands of an LSU defender and outraced another defensive back to the goal line.

"I got up," James said, "and saw Hugh going for the score. I didn't really realize what had happened. Everybody was going wild. Coach (Gene) Stallings ran halfway onto the field. I had to lead him off."

"And in the dressing room he was so happy. He was crying and he told us how proud he was."

The Aggies giant upset did not begin to take shape until the second half.

"In the first half we just played terrible," James said. "LSU has a terrific front line. But in the second half we found this pattern—a circle pattern to the split end or the split back. It was continuously open.

"On that long drive of 90 yards or so where we kicked our field goal that is all we ran."

Last Saturday was James' first trip to Tiger Stadium, a legendary burying ground for visiting teams.

"That is all I've heard all summer about how Tiger Stadium was and all those people there," he said. "But after that pass I looked up in the stands and I didn't see anything but a bunch of Aggies cheering."

McKay Not Happy With Tie

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Coach John McKay was less than happy Monday with the performance of his University of Southern California football team in its tie with Nebraska.

"We didn't play very well," McKay told the Southern California Football Writers luncheon. "Nebraska proved itself a real solid team, maybe not a great one, but solid."

"Coach Bob Devaney thinks this is his best Nebraska team and offensively it is much better than last year with Joe Orduna playing. He made a helluva run when he broke loose for 67 yards to score."

There were two controversial plays in the game—one when a Trojan touchdown was called back in the first half on a holding penalty and the other on the final play of the game when USC end Sam Dickerson was swarmed under as he tried to catch a pass.

Coach Tom Prothro said his UCLA Bruins made less mistakes against Pittsburgh than it had the previous week but had a hard time beating one of the best Pitt teams he has seen in years.

"I thought our team showed a lack of concern in the first half," Prothro comment. "I don't know if we played well, but if we can win on the road it's always pleasing."

Prothro said Pitt was aided in the first half when the UCLA receivers dropped six of Dennis Dummit's passes. But the coach was pleased with the outstanding performances of flanker Reggie Echols and running back Art Sims, who was chosen University Player of the Week by the writers.

"Sims, who barely played for two seasons because of injuries, had a real fine game and his being honored is an excellent choice," Prothro said.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Willie Mays hit his 28th homer and two singles, driving in four runs Monday night to propel the San Francisco Giants to a 7-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Juan Marichal blanked the Dodgers on six hits, getting his first shutout in what has been a poor season for him. The big right hander, laid low early in the season by penicillin poisoning, improved his record to 12-10.

Missouri Loop May Add NMS

DALLAS (UPI) — Officials of the Missouri Valley Conference announced Monday an inspection team would be sent to New Mexico State University next month as part of the school's attempt to join the conference.

New Mexico State had applied for membership last June. The inspection team will go to Las Cruces for three days beginning Oct. 4.

Conference officials said New Mexico State had requested the inspection team to come to the school to look over its athletic program and conduct a study of its academic standards.

The team's report will be submitted to conference members for study. A special meeting could be called to vote on the school's possible admittance to the conference, or the matter could wait until the conference's next regularly scheduled meeting in January.

The far flung conference is in the process of expanding, and has already taken in one new member this year—West Texas State.

Those making the trip to Las Cruces next month include Dr. John Dratz, faculty representative from Tulsa University; Dean Orville Nohndruff, faculty representative from Bradley University, Dr. Leland Johnson, faculty representative from Drake University, Tulsa athletic director Glen Dobbs and conference commissioner Dewitt Weaver.

Reds Top Houston By 2-0

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Don Gullett, Clay Carroll and Wayne Granger teamed up on a four-hitter Monday night while pitching the Cincinnati Reds to a 2-0 victory over the Houston Astros.

Gullett, the Reds' 19-year old rookie lefty, picked up his fourth victory in six decisions by blanking the Astros on two hits during the first five innings while striking out six and walking one.

The Reds took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Tommy Holms singled and came home on Bobby Tolán's double off loser Ken Forsch.

Detroit Sets Title Fight

DETROIT (UPI) — Detroiters will get a chance to see their first heavyweight championship bout in 19 years when light heavyweight champion Bob Foster tries to take the heavyweight title from Joe Frazier on Nov. 18.

"We're going to be in shape and come out smoking," said a spokesman for Foster, who won his light heavyweight championship in 1968 and has lost only four times in his 47 professional fights.

Although "Foster's the hardest puncher we've come up against," according to Frazier's manager, Yancy Yank Durham, the 26-year-old former Olympic heavyweight champion appeared unconcerned Monday at a news conference to announce details of the fight at Cobo Arena.

The match could put Frazier, a Philadelphia native, in line for possible fight with Cassius Clay.

Opening lead—♦ 3

Alan Truscott, the bridge editor of the New York Times, has just written a book entitled "Practical Bridge."

His theme is that the winner at bridge isn't the man who performs most brilliantly but rather the man who makes the fewest mistakes.

Today's hand illustrates the mistakes of not looking ahead at your first turn to bid.

When this hand was played in a "New York" tournament some players made the mistake of opening one club or one heart instead of one no-trump. This left them a hopeless problem at their second turn. Some jumped unsoundly; they reached game. Others underbid and wound up at one no-trump.

shows a normal Stayman response to a one-no-trump opening followed by a jump to three no-trump by responder.

Three no-trump makes easily with careful play. South wins the diamond lead in his hand and returns the suit. West's best play is to duck, whereupon the time for care has arrived.

South can count four hearts, three diamonds and a club but he can't afford to go after his third diamond immediately. If he does that West can set up his fifth diamond and the defense will be able to collect two diamonds, two spades and a club. Instead, South should simply lead his queen of clubs or a low club toward dummy's jack. If West takes the king and clears the diamonds, South will have set up a second club trick to go with the three diamonds and four hearts. All other lines of defense are equally futile and South has his game.

LOVE AND WAR... History records the case of an affectionate gentleman who always liked to sleep with his wife's head on his arm. Unfortunately, as his wife went to sleep, so did his arm. Therefore, he prevailed upon a bedding maker to manufacture a mattress with a special groove in it wherein he could comfortably fit his arm. Only one of these imaginative mattresses was ever turned out, however. Was no demand for more. Our Love and War man thinks that's sad.

THE AVERAGE National Football League player stays in the game four years, seven months... DID I TELL YOU the name "Henry" means "boss at home"?... IT'S AGAINST THE LAW to carry a sleeping bag on a New York City subway.

OPEN QUESTION - What's the difference between a clairvoyant and a psychic?

AMONG SUICIDES nationwide, just about one in 10 now is between the ages of 18 and 24. Such a proportion in that age bracket is higher than it used to be. A lot higher... WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE played the ghost in his "Hamlet." He also acted as paymaster for this theatrical troupe. Our Language Man says that's why even today we say of payday it's when "the ghost walks."

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "Why, pray, do those pill producers stuff cotton in the tops of aspirin bottles?" A. 1. To keep the aspirin from rattling around and busting up during shipment. 2. To absorb moisture so the aspirin won't get fat and fuzzy. That's a guess... Q. "What was the first song Bing Crosby ever recorded?" A. Something called "I've Got the Girl." Just 44 years ago. You say you never heard it? Neither have I.

PERSONAL NOTIONS - No painter was ever satisfied with his self-portrait... NEVER MET a trombone player I didn't like... A WOMAN WHO keeps family photos in her livingroom generally is a good cook... MOST BEAUTIFUL of the feminine dresses is the sari of India... A PENNED DOG always barks louder than a dog turned loose.

AGED ACROBAT - Next time your granddad complains he is no longer as sure-footed as once he was, remind him of the great Ivy Baldwin. What endurance! At the age of 82, Mr. Baldwin stretched a 635-foot wire over South Boulder Canyon at Eldorado Springs, Colo., and walked across. True, he did not match his similar performance 41 years earlier, at which time he stood on his head in the middle. But as old Sam Johnson said about the dancing dog, the wonder is not that he did it imperfectly, but that he did it at all. That's right, at age 82.

RAPID REPLY - Yes, sir, three out of four hospitalized U.S. soldiers in Vietnam are sick, not wounded.

Take Great Care In Mail Orders

By PETER WEAVER
When you order something through the mail, you expect to get what you paid for. After all, the post office will protect you — right?
Wrong. The post office has no legal authority to help get a refund when you send away for something and all that comes back is your canceled check. "Anyone using the mail system to buy merchandise," says Edwin A. Sundquist, chief of fraud section, New York post office, "does so at his own risk."
In dollar terms, how big is this risk? Last year more than $40 billion worth of goods and services were ordered through the mail. It's estimated that as much as $400 million worth of these orders were never properly filled.
That's a lot of money dropped in the old mailbox, and it really bothers the legitimate mail-order companies who do a conscientious job filling orders. These companies know that buying through the mail can be a great convenience. For some consumers, such as the elderly and infirm, it's a necessity.
The legitimate companies also know that once a consumer gets burned by not getting a product that was paid for in advance, he or she will probably never buy through the mail again.

What can be done about this mess?
First and foremost, the post office needs its regulatory power expanded to cover civil as well as criminal complaints. As it stands now, the post office has to prove that a mail-order company has "fraudulent intent" when it does not send out the product you ordered.
"If they just deliver a certain number of the orders," says Charles A. Miller, assistant chief inspector in Washington, "it's almost impossible to prove fraud." Even when they have the evidence, it takes years to get a conviction.
In talking with people in the business — postal inspectors and some of the mail-order houses — I learned that there might be a way to make buying through the mail less like a lottery. A new law is needed which would require that mail-order companies have a federal registration number.
Only those mail-order companies that required payment in advance would need to register. Those who send goods on approval of "bill me later" plans would not have to go through the registration process.
If a company insisted on payment in advance, then it would have to spell out its size, names of officers and financial background in a registration disclosure form. The company would then get a number which would have to be printed on every ad it placed in newspapers, magazines and in its direct-mail pitches.
When nondelivery complaints were received, the post office would advise the registered company to take action on the complaints or face loss of the registration number and, subsequently, an interruption of sales.
Proposed legislation along these lines is now being seriously considered by staff members of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Growers' Class Set On Rules

HEYBURN — All potato growers of South Central Idaho, especially those holding 1970 pre-season contracts, are invited to attend a pre-harvest school on inspection procedures.
Sponsored by the Potato Growers of Idaho, the session is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday in the inspection department of the J.R. Simplot Co. at Heyburn.
Supervisors of federal and state inspection services, along with other persons connected with the inspection process, will be on hand to answer questions.

Transport Test Dated

McCALL, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Motor Transport Association is scheduled to meet in McCall Thursday through Saturday to discuss research and test larger transport trucks and trailers.
Managing director Ollie M. Arbelvide, Boise, said Sunday other topics for seminar sessions will include controls for vehicle noise and emissions, and speakers from the U. S. Department of Transportation will discuss rules, regulations and interpretations concerning highway transportation.
Some 300 persons are expected to attend the meeting at Shore Lodge.

Meanwhile, there are some steps you can take now to make sure you get something back for money sent off in the mail:

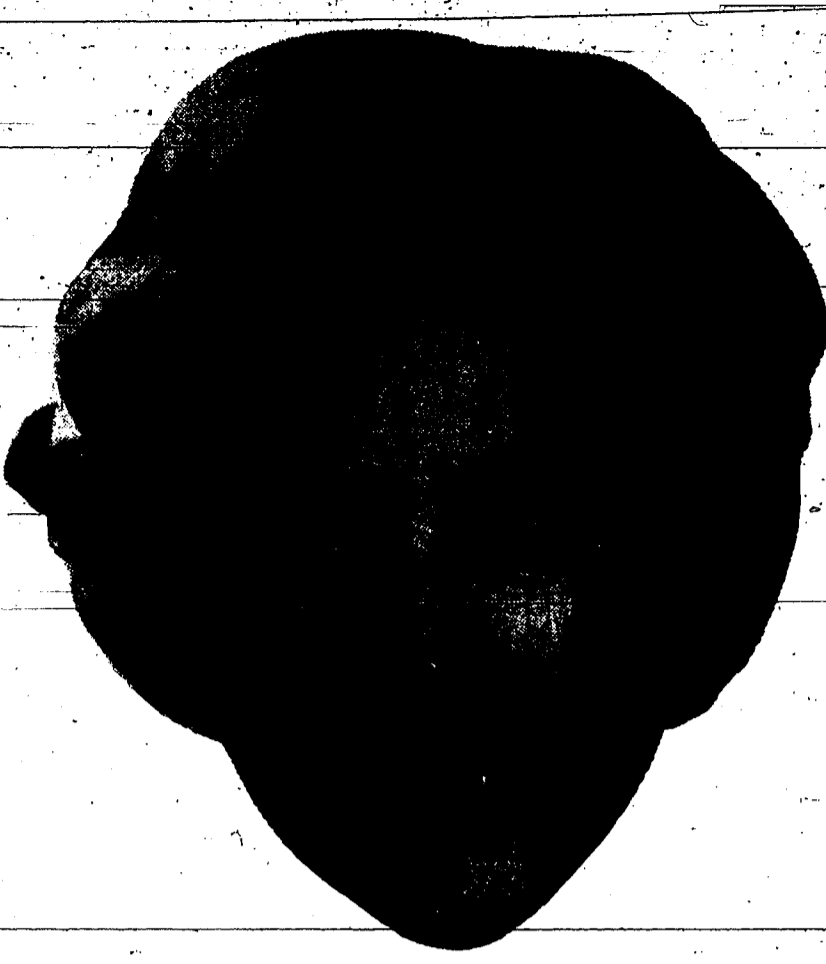

CHECK THE OFFER: If you do not know the mail-order house, ask around to see if a friend or neighbor has had good luck with the outfit. You can also check with the Direct Mail Advertising Assn., 230 Park Ave., New York, N. Y. 10017. This organization has 1,600 mail-order firms it can vouch for.

USE CREDIT CARDS: If the mail-order company permits use of your credit card number (American Express, bank cards, Diners) you have a degree of protection. When you do not receive your order, you do have to pay your total credit card bill (including the missing order) but you can send in a documented complaint to the card company's "customer service" department.
The card company then sends a "charge back" to the mail-order house, so you can be reimbursed. Card companies can't force mail-order houses to comply but nine times out of 10 you get your money back.

Optimism Poses New Problems For Nixon Aides

By STEWART HENSLEY
UPI Diplomatic Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration, in its anxiety to convince voters of the effectiveness of its foreign policy, apparently stirred up more optimism than was warranted on a couple of major fronts.

High officials now acknowledge that they are forced to deal with a certain amount of euphoria, both at home and among some U.S. friends abroad, because of overstating the positive and understating the negative in both Europe and the Middle East.

For months, it has been an article of faith among officials conducting White House and State Department briefings that a major preoccupation with Red China by the Soviet Union was going to make it easier to deal with on matters in Europe and the Middle East.

The thesis developed at numerous high-level sessions was that Moscow was anxious to ease tensions and achieve more stability on the western and southern fronts because of the necessity to deal with its huge geographical and ideological enemy of the East.

True, officials occasionally threw in a small warning to the effect that it might not be completely smooth sailing in nuclear arms limitation, European security and the Middle East. But the major emphasis was placed on the probability of great progress.

Now officials face the task of bringing the picture into better focus.

For example, on Aug. 14 a White House official said he was "extremely optimistic" about the possibility of getting an agreement with Russia to limit strategic nuclear weapons. Last week the same official acknowledged that he now was only "cautiously optimistic" and was not at all certain how the negotiations would turn out.

The administration's mood has changed drastically since President Nixon told newsmen last May he felt confident to predict agreement on a nuclear arms limitation, and subsequently said he expected it this fall.

In the Middle East, administration officials are smarting under criticism that they were naive in taking Russia at its word when the Kremlin promised to see that Egypt observed the terms of the Aug. 7 ceasefire and standstill agreement.

Officials have been denying this for a week, contending that they did not place any faith in Russia's promise — but were counting on the strong pressures for peace on both sides of the Israeli-Arab conflict to bring the situation to a peaceful solution eventually.

The U.S. contention is that Russian-supported Egyptian violations so far have not tipped the strategic military balance against Israel. They acknowledge, however, that the fact the standstill was violated almost immediately, with Russian complicity, has cast doubt on how much faith they can place on Russian assurances in other matters.

Optimistic administration assessments of the progress of "Vietnamization" in Southeast Asia so far have not been disproved, although the Nixon position does not lack for critics.

The moment of truth may come within the next six months. The evidence indicates that Hanoi plans to greatly intensify infiltration of men and equipment southward into Cambodia after the dry season begins in October.

Try New Ideas To Keep Young

BY ROGERS FRANKLIN
Retirement Counselor

I learned a valuable lesson the other night: you stop feeling young and start growing old the day you won't try anything new. It happened this way. A maiden-lady friend of Mrs. Franklin's had just returned from Europe and was describing her adventures. Some of them sounded so trying I couldn't help feeling smug that my wife and I had stayed home in comfortable, steady surroundings.

My mind wandered, but I came back to reality when she said "... and I'm taking you to that avant-garde show tonight!"

Now, I've always admired this lady's adventurous spirit. If she wants to go to foreign countries and see off-beat plays that's her business — why drag me into it? But to avoid being called a "fuddy-duddy," I decided to go along for the evening.

I almost wished I hadn't when I learned we were going to a bohemian section of the adjoining town, and would eat at a restaurant that served Argentinean and Italian food (I found later that this combination isn't too unusual — lots of Italians settled in Argentina). I admit I approached the menu gingerly, finally picking a familiar Italian dish. The adventurous lady talked my wife into a dish that had squid in it — it wasn't half bad.

When it came to dessert, I decided to try something unusual, so I ordered a combination of sweet potato jelly and cheese! Was I surprised at the sharpness and sweetness blending wonderfully!

Feeling better, we headed toward the theater. My spirits dampened somewhat when I saw it was in a basement and it was a bit dark and dingy. But as my eyes became accustomed to the half light, I noticed several middle-aged couples in the audience, and even some our age.

Relaxing a bit, I settled back to see what would happen on stage. The show was a cabaret-type performance, with skits, songs, and rhymes in the old vaudeville-style. But while there were touches of the old, there was much more that was new. The songs and skits covered a wide range: about bulls and statues, men and women, war, peace, old age, love, life. The acts were haunting, stirring — at times so funny we all laughed out loud.

I could see how the music and action complemented the words, and I was surprised to feel depths of emotion I thought I'd forgotten. I can't say I understood or appreciated everything on stage I saw that night, but I was again surprised when I impulsively bought the album of the whole show (it was on sale in the lobby).

Since that evening, Mrs. Franklin and I have listened to the album several times, understanding the words and music even better. The funny thing is, we feel younger just to recount that adventurous evening — what with the interesting food and the stimulating live theatre and actors.

I don't know whether sweet-potato-and-cheese dessert or cabaret-singing will do it for you, but I discovered that night that finding something new is one good way to keep us from getting old.

Rep. McClure Leads Panel On Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, Monday was named ranking Republican on the House subcommittee on mines and mining, replacing Rep. Laurence J. Burton, R-Utah.

Burton resigned because of the demands of his campaign for the Senate.

Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., senior Republican on the parent Interior Committee, made the announcement of McClure's appointment.

Gas Rate Boost Predicted

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson told a news conference Monday that court-ordered breakup of El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Pacific Northwest Pipeline Co. could boost Pacific Northwest gas rates by $10 million.

Samuelson expressed serious concern about the U.S. Supreme Court ruling, saying it could result in severe reduction in economic growth and employment opportunities.

"In fact, there is a real threat that some jobs now available through industries within our area may well be reduced," Samuelson said.

He said there has been talk — but nothing more than that so far — of a conference of the governors of Idaho, Washington and Oregon and their respective public utilities commissions on the question.

But he said perhaps the only recourse available to the states is action by the Congress to preserve the present system, approved by the Federal Power Commission 13 years ago.

To this end, he said, president Ralph Wickberg of the Idaho Public Utilities Commission left for Washington, D.C., today to look into prospects for action. He said Wickberg will return later in the week and perhaps the picture will be clearer by then.

In June of 1969, the court ordered El Paso to sell Pacific Northwest Pipeline for cash to a new company. This past June the court rejected petitions by 19 participants in the antitrust case for reconsideration of the breakup order.

Estimating annual natural gas rates in the Northwest will go up as much as $10 million if the court ruling is implemented. Samuelson said Idaho's share of the increased cost will be about one-fourth of that.

Meantime, Samuelson announced plans for the 1970 Republican governors conference which will be held at Sun Valley Dec. 12-15.

He said the present 32 Republican governors and the four GOP territorial governors are expected to attend. While both the President and vice president have been invited, he said, whether they will attend will not be known for security reasons until and if they come out to Idaho.

Samuelson said that John O. McMurray, Boise insurance man and former GOP state chairman, will be overall chairman of arrangements for the convention. He will be assisted by 14 other categorical chairmen.

Indians Mimicked By Many

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Indians are "in" this year, but it does them little good, Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., said today. "People are dressing like them. There's a rush to do good to them. So far, most Indians can see little favorable results of all this new attention," Harris said in prepared testimony for the Senate subcommittee on Indian affairs.

The subcommittee had before it bills introduced in response to President Nixon's July message on Indian affairs. Now, Congress must move the bills ahead so some good come of the effort, Harris said.

Time is running out in this session for the bills to be passed but whatever work is done should enable congress to move more quickly in its 92nd session next January, Harris said.

He traced the efforts of preceding administrations and said they showed "the proposals, support which is bipartisan and, more importantly, emanates from members of the Indian community themselves."

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel also backed the two bills before the subcommittee. They would tend to emphasize the human side of Indians' problems, he said, and to stress a growing independence among Indians.

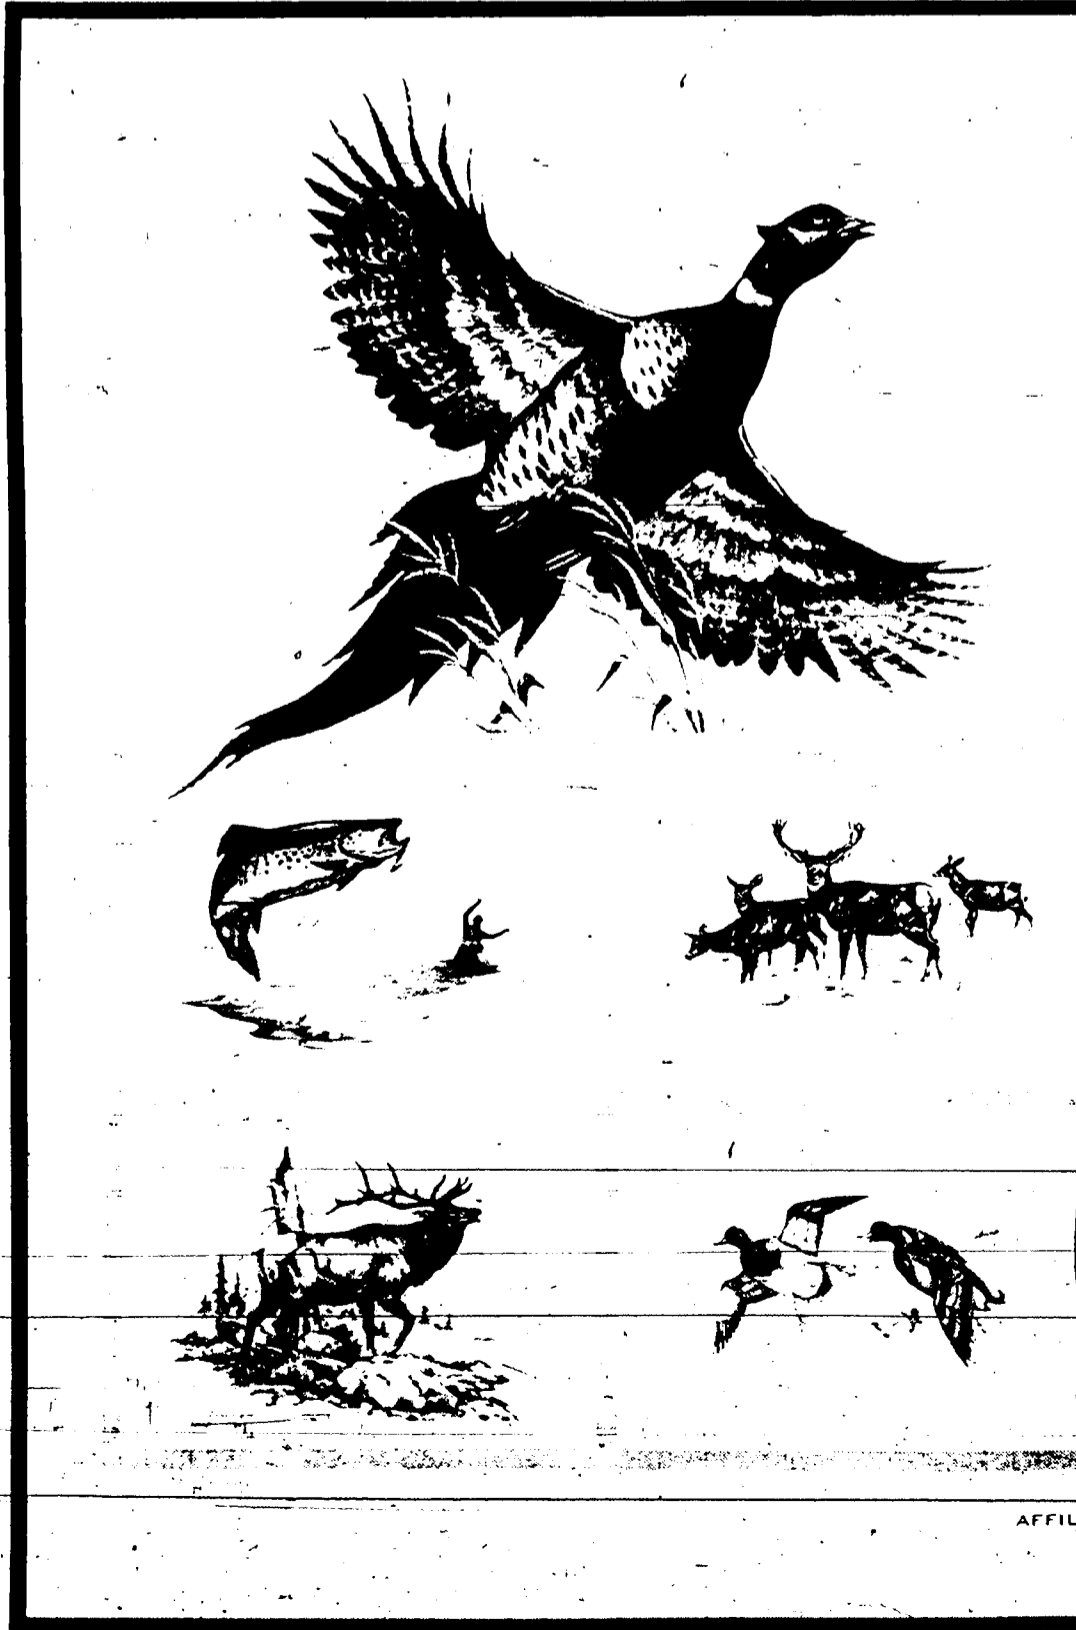

The subcommittee chairman, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., asked Hickel if the Interior Department could not already name lawyers to represent Indians, even where the interests expose a conflict within the federal government.

Hickel had Harrison Loesch, whose job covers Indian affairs in the Interior Department, reply.

"It is my understanding the secretary of interior does not have the right to have attorneys represent tribes in situations adverse to the federal government," Loesch said.

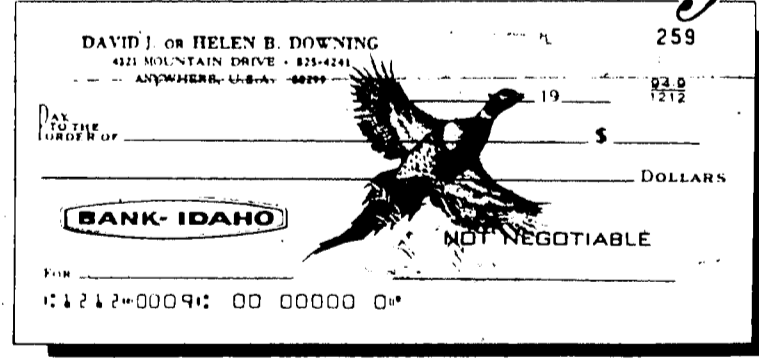

"That of course really exposes the raw edge of the need for this legal authority, doesn't it?" McGovern asked, and Loesch agreed.

Upgrading Indian affairs within the Interior Department will mean nothing without other measures, Harris said. Thus, he said, the bill for the counsel authority could be extremely significant — giving Indians a stronger legal voice.
