

Mideast Shooting Withers

By United Press International
King Hussein and guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat today issued cease-fire orders to all their troops and announced they had reached an agreement to end the nine-day-old Jordanian civil war, Amman radio said.

The agreement was reached in a meeting between Arafat and Sudanese Premier Maj. Gen. Jaafar El-Numeiry, who was sent to Amman by a 10-nation Arab summit conference in Cairo to mediate the conflict.

The formal agreement came shortly after Field Marshal Habes Al-Majali, commander-in-chief of the Jordanian armed forces, had announced a 24-hour cease-fire in response to an appeal by the International Red Cross.

Details of the Hussein-Guerrilla agreement were not spelled out, but Hussein had asked earlier that the Palestinian guerrillas quit Jordan's cities for frontline positions on the 1967 cease-fire lines. The guerrillas rejected this when the proposal was first made.

King Hussein read a statement over Amman radio ordering an immediate cease-fire by all his troops and Numeiry read a statement which he said was signed by Arafat calling on the guerrillas

Troops Free 15 Hostages

BEIRUT (UPI)—The Jordanian army announced today it had freed 15 of the 54 hostages held by Palestinian guerrillas who hijacked and blew up three airliners. But all of the American hostages were still missing.

There were 38 Americans among the 39 hostages still unaccounted for, but the State Department said Thursday it had unconfirmed reports that one American, TWA Capt. Carrola Woods of Harrodsburg, Ky., had escaped and hoped to fly out of Amman aboard a U.S. evacuation plane.

Most of the 414 were released but 54 were held after all three airliners were destroyed. Whereabouts of the remaining Americans simply was not known. Palestinian guerrillas said all of the hostages had been moved into the "liberated area" of northern Jordan, but the Jordanian army apparently found the 15 in the Amman area.

The statement on release of the 15 was made by Field Marshal Habes Al-Majali, the Jordanian chief-of-staff, who said, "the Jordanian armed forces managed to liberate a number of foreign hostages at 10:30 a.m. (4:30 a.m. EDT) today."

Rupert Firms Sued

RUPERT — The U. S. Department of Labor has filed suit against Daniel Howarth of Rupert and three tire dealers, charging them with violating the federal wage-hour laws.

The suit, filed in U. S. District Court in Boise, charges the defendants with violating the minimum wage, overtime, record-keeping and shipment provisions of the federal law. The government suit asked the court to enjoin them from further violations, and demands payment of back wages.

The three firms named in the suit are engaged in the selling and recapping of tires, the suit says.

Buhl Walkout Cuts Profits

By PAULINE DAY
Times-News Correspondent
BUHL—The head of Carter Packing plant said today he "will be a little harder to deal with at the negotiating table Tuesday "because the three-week-old strike called by 22 workers in his plant has eliminated one-third of his profit."

Mel Carter, noting the fall months are the main profit season in the meat packing business, estimated Friday he had lost one-third of the season's profit because of slowed operations. He reported he has hired eight men, three of them experienced meat cutters, since the strike began and "we're slowly building up a crew and killing more cattle." He added the killing operations had slowed, however, because of inexperienced workers.

The meat packing firm slaughters, cuts and bones cattle, preparing the meat for packaging. Carter said he was "surprised at the tactics being used by the striking workers."

He had been forced to hire an armed guard to be on duty evenings and whenever the plant is not in operation because

Balloonists Still Lost

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Coast Guard spokesman reported today it has no idea what chances for survival for the three balloonists missing in the North Atlantic since Monday.

Two U.S. Coast Guard cutters, 11 American planes and one Canadian plane are involved in the search of 50,000 miles. The Coast Guard said it would continue the search at least through today.

The search was hampered Thursday by fog that reduced the visibility to virtually nothing.

Who wants to be governor? In Idaho two men — Don Samuelson and Cecil Andrus — are planning on holding-down that job for the next four years.

To determine just what they are thinking about county, state and national issues, what they considered important and not important and just how they stood on the "issues," they were interviewed in Boise by O.A. (Gus) Kelker, Times-News editor.

Each man was asked the same questions but neither will know what the other said until they read Sunday's Times-News.

For this exclusive story, which contains a few surprises, why not join the two candidates as they read Sunday's Times-News to find out what the other fellow said?

Death Hearing Secret

TWIN FALLS — Newsmen and other spectators were requested to leave the courtroom this morning before the first witness in the case of the state versus Gerry Lewellyn had been called.

Judge Harry Turner complied with a motion made by defense attorney Rudolf Barchas to hold a closed court. Barchas' request he said, was based on "the nature of the case."

Lewellyn, 30, is charged with involuntary manslaughter in the death of his 22-month old stepson, Shawn Stone. Lewellyn was charged September 9, a week after the child died of head injuries at a Boise hospital.

At least four witnesses, all milling around the hallway of the police station, probably will be called during the preliminary hearing as the state attempts to show cause why Lewellyn should be bound over to stand trial in district court.

Convict Kills 2 Policemen

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI)—An escaped convict who shot two policemen and then held three hostages aboard a sailboat in Island waters off Stuart surrendered early today to the U.S. Coast Guard.

The suspect was identified by Canadian police as William L. Olenik, 26, who escaped from the William Head Penitentiary here Sept. 7.

Chief Petty Officer T. E. Anderson, who negotiated with the suspect, said that the hostages "apparently all are unharmed."

Olenik wounded two Victoria officers, during a robbery Thursday, authorities said, and then grabbed three hostages during a wild chase to the sea.

Olenik crashed through two police road blocks and fired repeatedly at officers, police said.

He then commandeered a 20-foot sailboat at a nearby dock. As Coast Guard vessels and Royal Canadian Mounted Police boats surrounded the tiny vessel, Olenik released one hostage who boarded the cutter Point Richmond to relay conditions for the bandit's surrender.

These included that he be turned over to a U.S. marshal and be provided with a U.S. lawyer.

Reds Build Cuban Sub Base

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department said today it had evidence that Russia has started construction of a submarine base in Cuba.

Asked if the base might be intended to support missile-carrying Soviet nuclear submarines stationed in the Western Hemisphere, a spokesman said: "We can't rule out that possibility."

The announcement was made by Jerry W. Friedheim, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs.

"We know that the activity is in progress," he said. "We cannot assess the Soviet intention."

The "activity" cited has included towing of three heavy barges into the harbor at Cien Fuegos. That is where the suspected base is being built.

Asked if the barges could be assembled into a floating drydock, Friedheim said, "We know what the barges are, but I am not at liberty to tell you."

He said there are now four Soviet ships—including a submarine tender—in the harbor at Cien Fuegos. Several other Soviet ships were reported in the general area.

After the United States stationed missile-carrying submarines in European waters, bases to support the subs were established at Holy Loch, Scotland, and later at Rota, Spain.

ABM 'Limited'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House-Senate conference committee has agreed to limit expansion of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system to only two more sites, giving foes of the ABM their first limited victory in a two-year fight against the defensive missiles.

The committee refused to permit the Nixon administration to begin work on four additional sites—one in the Northeast, one in the Northwest, one in the Michigan-Ohio area and one in the nation's capital. The exact sites were never announced.

The committee report, if adopted by both Houses, would restrict Safeguard expansion to sites at Whiteman AFB, Mo., and Warren AFB, Wyo. Two other sites were approved previously — at Malmstrom AFB, Mont., and Grand Forks AFB, N.D.

The house will take up the committee report Tuesday.

The plan, in effect, would limit the Safeguard ABM to defending America's long range nuclear missiles from a surprise Soviet attack. The conferees barred expansion of the system into a nationwide network aimed at defending a "light" Red Chinese attack against the general population.

Magistrates Due

JEROME — Action should be taken here tonight to select magistrates for Magic Valley counties.

Heber Loughmiller, Twin Falls county commission chairman and member of the magistrate's commission, said a decision is definitely expected in the meeting tonight.

Magistrate commission members will make their recommendations to the judges of the local district who must unanimously endorse those finally named to the positions. There will be one magistrate in each county of the district except Twin Falls where two are to be selected.

In Twin Falls county seven persons applied for the two positions. All but one are attorneys.

Members of the Fifth District Bar Assn., have for some time been on record urging appointment of attorneys where possible.

However, no personal endorsements of candidates have been made by the lawyers in Twin Falls County according to attorney John Redholt.

House OK's No-Knock Drug Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House overwhelmingly approved President Nixon's drug abuse bill Thursday after upholding a bitterly fought "no knock" provision that would allow federal agents to break into homes unannounced to seize evidence. The bill, a key measure in Nixon's anti-crime package, was expected to win early acceptance by the Senate, which passed a similar but more limited bill several months ago. The House vote was 341 to 6. Both bills would provide stiffer penalties for pushers, including a possible life sentence for those involved in organized crime, but would reduce the punishment for first offense possession of any drug from a felony to a misdemeanor. The "no knock" provision would allow narcotics agents with warrants to enter private premises unannounced if they felt there was danger of evidence being destroyed or risk to their lives. Administration forces beat back an attempt to kill the "no knock" provision on a 119-60 nonrecord vote. Another controversial proposal that was added to the bill on the floor would allow judges to impose an additional 25-year prison sentence on "special dangerous offenders" convicted of drug violations. The sentence, which could be imposed on the basis of evidence the defendant would not be allowed to contest, was termed an unconstitutional infringement of individual rights by opponents. The administration-backed amendment was adopted on a nonrecord vote of 147 to 61. The house rejected by voice vote an attempt by the House Select Committee on Crime to amend the bill to give the Attorney General authority to limit production of amphetamines or "pep pills." The House bill would double most penalties for drug pushers. It also would provide $165 million over three years to expand rehabilitation programs and authorize $6 million for the hiring of 300 additional agents by the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. None of these provisions is in the Senate bill.

Ford Stops Solon Leases

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Ford Motor Co., prompted by a Senate Ethics Committee admonition to legislators, announced Thursday it is abandoning its practice of leasing Lincoln Continentals and other luxury model cars to favored members of Congress at heavily discounted rates. The practice was first disclosed by United Press International Aug. 3. It was learned that 16 House members and at least 24 senators, including some sitting on committees dealing directly with legislation affecting the automobile industry, leased cars from Ford and Chrysler at cut rates.

Power Shortage Eases

By United Press International
The Eastern seaboard power shortage eased Thursday, although voltage rationing remained in effect in the Middle Atlantic states and consumers continued to use electricity sparingly. Five per cent cuts in voltage were the rule throughout the affected area which reached from upstate New York to the Carolinas and into western Pennsylvania. An unseasonable heat wave which soared into the 90s Tuesday and Wednesday moderated slightly, reducing the power drain of air conditioners, but the weather bureau said the end of the scorcher was not yet in sight. Temperatures of 85 to 90 were predicted through Friday. Power purchases from New England and the Midwest bolstered reserves in the needy power pools. Voluntary cutbacks by industrial commercial and home users were reported throughout the area and won praise from federal officials. George A. Lincoln, director of President Nixon's Office of Preparedness, said the "outstanding cooperation" of the public had prevented the worst power crisis in four years from deteriorating into a blackout situation such as that experienced in the Northeast in 1965. Power was restored to several New York City neighborhoods which were selectively blacked out Wednesday and the five per cent voltage cut was imposed instead of the eight per cent required on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Rubella Clinics Open Monday

TWIN FALLS—Rubella clinics will be conducted Monday and Tuesday in Twin Falls County, Mrs. Robert E. Norris, Kimberly, county clinic coordinator, reminded residents today.

Open to all youngsters, the clinics will utilize the new air jet injection method rather than the old-fashioned and unpleasant needles.

Mrs. Norris said it is especially important for pre-school children to receive the immunization shots. The "Rubella" campaign is designed to protect against the disease causing birth defects if contacted by expectant mothers.

Other clinics for youngsters begin Tuesday, a.m. These will be held in Lincoln, Washington, St. Edwards and Bickel schools in Twin Falls and at the Buhl and Kimberly grade schools. On Tuesday at 1 p.m. the clinics will be held in the morningside and Harrison schools in Twin Falls and in the Filer grade school building.

THE CLOVER LEAF CHEESE Factory, now on the Sandmeyer Ranch near Buhl, looked like this when this photograph was taken in 1919. The business started earlier and was the first such factory in Magic Valley. The original building still stands

Discipline Panel Organized at CSI

TWIN FALLS — A disciplinary committee which will sit in review on all cases of discipline infraction at the College of Southern Idaho has been approved by the student senate.

The committee, composed of five faculty members and five students, will hear all cases which students request it to hear.

Jack Sims, member of the committee, said the board will make recommendations to the administration on cases involving discipline problems. He said, however, the board may be a discipline committee in name only. Last year's discipline committee heard no cases.

Faculty members of the committee are Jerry Meyerhoeffer, Janis Mittlieder, Wesley Dobbs, Dr. Don Stephenson and Sims.

Student members are Doug Tremaine, Jenny Petersen, Kathy Fenwick, Daja Postichal and the vocational representative to be elected October 1 and 2.

Art Class Commences

TWIN FALLS—Grade school students wishing to enroll in a special art class at the College of Southern Idaho must register before the first class Saturday morning.

Michael Green, CSI art instructor, said the special program will offer youngsters studies in clay modeling, painting, drawing, paint making and most of all in the use of self expression in these fields.

Open to youngsters from 7 to 12 years of age, the classes will open at 9 a.m. each Saturday in the Art Building on the corner of North Washington St., and Falls Avenue. Youngsters from 10 through 12 years of age will attend at 9 a.m. for two hours with the 7, 8, and 9 year olds attending at 11 a.m. for one hour. Fee for the 10 week program is $15 per student which covers all material and equipment.

Sunday Tour Attracts Big Group

BUHL — One of the year's largest turnouts is expected Sunday when members of the Twin Falls County Historical Society, traveling by chartered bus, tour historical sites in this area, it is announced by Earl Peck, president.

Peck said areas visited will include the Sinking Canyon, the Ed Vogel collection of antique steam engines and farm equipment, the Ted Sandmeyer ranch, site of the first cheese factory in this area, the Snake River Fish Hatchery and the

Idaho Power Co. station nearby. The bus will leave the Robert Stuart Junior High School parking lot in Twin Falls at 9 a.m., the Fairway Shopping Center in Filer at 9:30 a.m. and the Shelby Market lot in Buhl at 9:40 a.m. Members should bring their own sack lunch which will be eaten during the Idaho Power Co. stop.

Pair Fined

TWIN FALLS — Two men were sentenced and fined in Twin Falls Probate Court Thursday afternoon on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Klonie Ben Millard, Bountiful, Utah, was fined $175 and $5 costs and given a 30-day jail sentence by Judge Eugene McCoy after being found guilty by the court.

A similar fine was ordered for Lawrence Edward Oliver, Filer, although Judge McCoy suspended the jail sentence.

John Tyler was the first U.S. vice-president elevated to the presidency through the death of a chief executive.

Agency By-Law Changes Asked

TWIN FALLS—Three by-law changes were proposed Thursday night when the Twin Falls County Community Action Agency met at the Episcopal Church.

One, involving only Twin Falls County, proposed that two members of the board's personnel committee work with the director, Larry Mack, in hiring anyone at the administrative level.

The other two, which will be proposed to the South Central Community Action Agency at a meeting next Thursday, involve board members. It was proposed when vacancies of board members appear on the SCCAA board, these positions be filled as soon as possible by the county involved. Mack said there are only four SCCAA meetings yearly, and previously the SCCAA board had to fill vacancies on its board. Because of the length of time between meetings, the Twin Falls County unit feels it might be more effective if the counties involved fill the posts.

The other policy change proposed was that the number of meetings which can be missed consecutively before SCCAA board members be removed be changed from three to two.

At next Thursday's SCCAA board meeting at 8 p.m. at the Twin Falls County Judicial Building, a four-member team for Region 10 will present an evaluation of programs conducted by the SCCAA. Mack said the evaluations were made last July.

A new member to the Twin Falls board, Frank Rodriguez, was appointed Thursday night. He and the other seven members were all in attendance. Six of the local members belong to the SCCAA board of directors.

Optimists are sponsoring their first bicycle "rodeo" at noon Saturday at Lincoln Field. Bicyclists whose two-wheelers pass a safety inspection will be given an inspection decal, similar to the automotive markers.

Bicycle Rodeo Saturday

TWIN FALLS—A "first ever" bicycle rodeo is scheduled Saturday noon at Lincoln Field, sponsored by the Twin Falls Optimist Club.

Lyman Davis, representing the club, said the club is sponsoring the event in the interest of bicycle safety. Prizes and ribbons will be given winners in the various events of the rodeo, including speed contests and traversing an obstacle course. A free bicycle, donated by Tempo, is the grand prize in the competition, Davis said.

The bicycles will be inspected by Twin Falls police officers, and a decal of merit will be given properly equipped two-wheelers. All youngsters are invited to attend.

Pesticide Danger Traced For Club

SHOSHONE—"What happens to pesticides after they are used in our environment? Will they come back to get us?"

These were the questions left with members of the Rotary club Wednesday noon by Dr. Fred Tanaka, who works at one of the government's newest laboratories at the University of North Dakota, Fargo.

Dr. Tanaka graduated from Shoshone High School in 1955, received his Ph.D. in 1966 from Oregon State University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Tanaka, Shoshone.

Myron D. Johnson, assistant county civil defense director, told the club members about the facilities within the county, giving data on the provisions at the new highway office building civil defense quarters and two caves in the county that are prepared for emergency use.

He said the main concern of leaders here now is the fact there are not enough trained personnel, and he announced a special training school in Boise later this fall when instructions would be given to any who desire to attend.

Ladies Day will be observed at the next Wednesday noon luncheon with Gov. Don Samuelson to attend.

Club Hears Historic Mint Tale

TWIN FALLS — "How To Make Money" was the interesting subject discussed at the Thursday noon meeting of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club.

It was in the form of a slide show presented by Howard Hickson, former curator of the exhibits at the Carson City (Nev.) Mint and now director of the Northeast Nevada Museum at Elko. The show detailed historic aspects of the mint that made the first silver dollars in 1870 and struck the last coins in 1893. The museum now occupies the original mint building.

Prior to the program, two new members were inducted by former president Armour Anderson. The new members are Dr. Steve Lincoln, a Twin Falls dentist, and Al Koehn, a Twin Falls businessman and owner of the Fountain-Service Co.

President Gene Hull presided for the final time of his term of office. Dr. James Taylor, president for 1970-71, will preside at next Thursday's meeting.

Attend Meet

TWIN FALLS — Earl R. Stansell, manager of the Southern Idaho Production Credit Association R. W. Stuart, and Larry Lickley, assistant managers, and Curtis L. Wilkins, a Burley branch manager, are attending a four-state PCA Managers' Conference in Spokane, Wash. The conference closes today.

It Smacks Of Sour Grapes

WASHINGTON — There was much more than worry about "family financial needs" behind Senator Mark Hatfield's hints that he may not seek a second term in 1972. Real reason for this carefully planted trial balloon — to sound out voter reaction back home — was deep concern about his reelection chances. As of now they are extremely clouded — to put it mildly.

The mod dapper Oregon Republican is deeply in trouble with a large and powerful element of his party. Hatfield's militant dovishness and persistent opposition to administration policies and proposals has not only put him in hot water with the White House, but aroused the furious ire of GOP leaders and their followers in the state. He has been deluged with castigating mail and warnings of bitter opposition when his term expires two years hence. It is an open secret that ambitious Republicans already are eyeing his seat and seriously considering challenging him in the primary. In 1966, Hatfield ran for the Senate as the incumbent governor. He won't have that hefty advantage in 1972. But he definitely will have a raging party split that could be fatal. One thing the ardent anti-Vietnam dove and outspoken liberal is certain of is a tough primary fight — and apparently Hatfield doesn't much relish that expensive, arduous and highly uncertain prospect. So he is looking around for possible alternatives. In effect, his intimations about quitting politics are notice that he is available for job offers — preferably a good paying university presidency or head of a well-heeled tax exempt foundation. In Hatfield's self-penned biography in the Congressional Record he notes that he is an educator by profession and possessor of "20 honorary degrees." There is a hollow sound to Hatfield's plaint that he is having a hard time to make do with his $42,500 senatorial salary — plus another $28,000 he admits making in lecture fees last year. That $70,500 is more than he ever made before — in public or private life. Further, the $70,500 isn't the whole story by far. In addition to his $42,500 salary, Hatfield also gets another $300,000 for clerical hire, telephone and telegraph, six trips to and from Oregon, free mail and various other perquisites and accommodations, among them a handsomely furnished five-room office suite in Washington and another commodious office with a staff in Oregon.

Hatfield denies he has a private fund raised by wealthy liberal friends and admirers. He admits one of the former is a member of his staff as a dollar-a-year man. It is also a fact that not long after he came to the Senate it was disclosed that "friends" were raising a $100,000 fund to pay for extra staff and other expenses. At that time Hatfield was actively harboring vice presidential aspirations. When the fund plan came to light, public reaction in Oregon was very critical. Hatfield hastily announced the scheme was being dropped. Similarly, he denied he was preparing to bolt the Republican party when he issued a blast at President Nixon last June. Hatfield charged the President was gravely jeopardizing the future of the GOP with his "Southern strategy" and warned that he "could be dumped." This startling bluntness immediately raised conjectures in political quarters that the liberal Oregonian was getting set to switch to the Democrats — as former Senator Wayne Morse, another Oregon militant, did years ago. But Hatfield emphatically denied that. He insisted he intended to remain in the GOP, although admitting his anti-administration record and denunciations made his reelection as a Republican very uncertain. "If I had to run today," said Hatfield, "I would be in a lot of trouble."

Too Many Oars

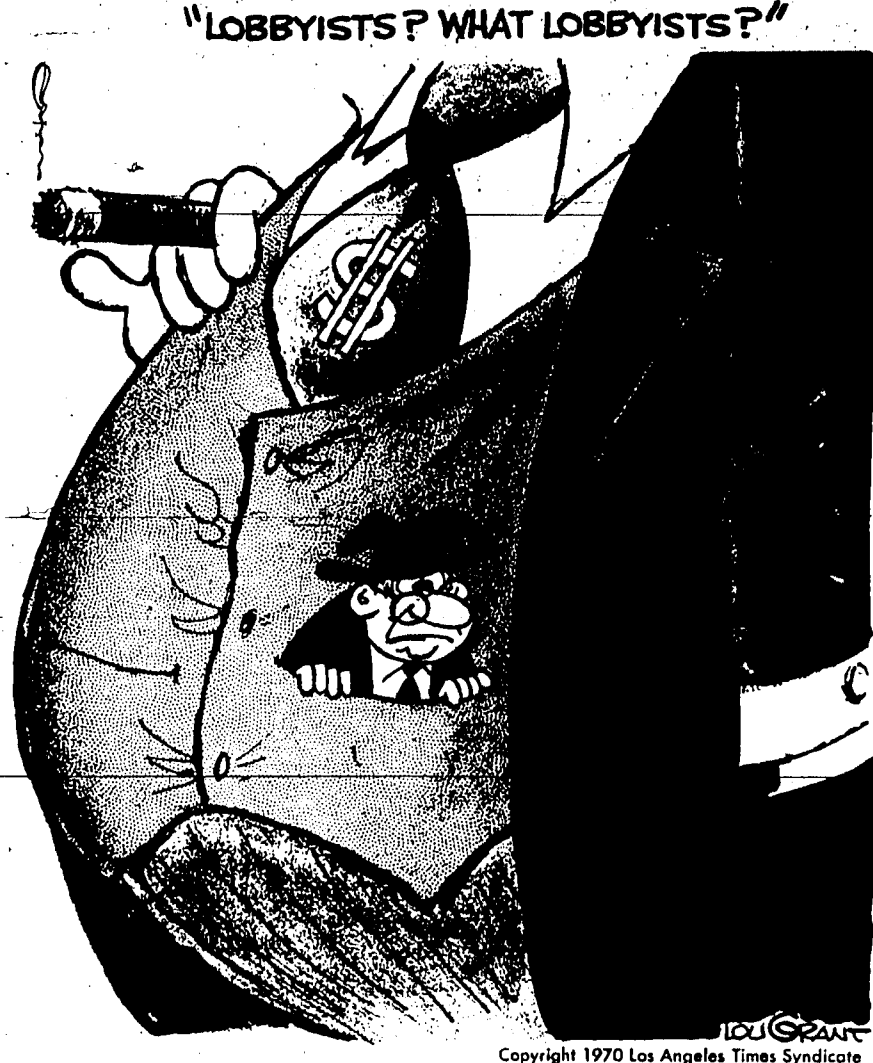

Like the marsh-dwelling Hydra which Hercules slew, pollution solution for Lake Erie keeps growing new heads. So many, in fact, that two directors in Ohio's Department of Natural Resources have called for less study and more action. Bounded by four states (New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio) and the Canadian province of Ontario, polluted but definitely not-dead Lake Erie is now being studied by: Six international agencies and organizations, 16 Canadian federal agencies, Ontario, all four states and numerous private groups. Perhaps, as in mythology, what is needed is someone or something with a sword in one hand and a firebrand in the other. Or at least a co-ordinated plan and the legal power to implement it.

Signs Of Times

Now that the downtown improvement work has reached the point where the average individual can see what is planned, most of the objections voiced at previous times have fallen aside. One which seems to persist, however, involves signs which now hang out over the sidewalks to mark the various places of business. There are a lot of people, including some of the merchants in the downtown area, who think that overhanging signs should be eliminated in that improved area and that flush-with-the-building signs should replace them. When a group of local businessmen flew to California a couple of years ago to view improved downtown areas in the San Francisco bay area, they were most impressed with the Los Altos project. There, with a winding street with rest benches, shade trees and fountains, all overhanging signs had been eliminated. Looking down the street it appeared more like a park than a business area. We admit it was rather difficult for a stranger, for instance, to pick out shoe store or a drug store without a little walking or asking, but natives said it was pleasing — without the overhead signs — and that was the way they liked it. In Twin Falls, perhaps, this pleasing project might well be adopted at a future date. Right now, though, it looks like the confusing wilderness of store signs will remain. But like one member of the improvement committee said: "if the trees grow fast enough the signs might be all covered up."

PAUL HARVEY

Fact Or Fiction?

This is a rotten little war. We're way offside on the other side of the world defending an unwinnable situation and it's shameful, but little wonder, that Americans in uniform — soldiers and marines — are going over the hill, running away, more than 200 a day. But the most disgraceful aspect of this nasty situation is the way we are bringing some of our fighting men to trial for killing the enemy. How much of the so-called massacre at My Lai was fact and how much was fiction?

A new book called "My Lai 4" has been written by Seymour Hersh. Hersh has a Pulitzer Prize for writing. I'd say his words might influence a jury. He quotes from a nameless GI's letter to a nameless newspaper which he purports to print as fact and I quote: "The huts were thatched palm leaves. Each one has a dried mud bunker inside. These bunkers are to protect the families. Kind of like air-raid shelters. My unit commanders, chose to think that these bunkers are offensive so every hut we find that has a bunker we are ordered to burn to the ground. "When the ten helicopters landed this morning in the midst of these huts and six men jumped out of each chopper we were firing the moment we hit the ground. We fired into all the huts we could. "Today a buddy of mine called 'La dai,' meaning 'come here,' into a hut and an old man came out. My buddy told the old man to get away from the hut and then threw a hand grenade in. "As he pulled the pin the old man got excited and started jabbering and running toward my buddy and the hut. A GI stopped the old man with a football tackle just as my buddy threw the grenade. After he threw it and was running for cover we heard a baby crying from inside the shelter. There was nothing we could do. After the explosion we found the mother, two children and an almost newborn baby." That is from a new book purporting to be a factual account of an incident in this war. Now I will read from "Once an Eagle," a book of fiction about a fictitious Southeast Asian war written before the My Lai incident and published in 1968. Page 763: "The sweep was moving quickly through the huts now. A soldier just ahead called 'La dai, la dai' and a bent old man with a white beard came out of the hut. The soldier motioned him away, slipped a grenade from his belt and pulled the pin and lobbed the grenade into the hut. The old man shouted something and started back toward the hut. Krisler caught him around the waist and flung him to the ground. At that instant there came the thin, choked squalling of a baby from the hut. The explosion was sharp and violent. The small bodies were mangled. Two children and the mother and a baby." I leave it to you.

ANDREW TULLY

Running In '72

WASHINGTON — A delightful pachyderm of a man named Richard Scammon, who is known well only in a few select households, may have convinced Sen. Teddy Kennedy — by remote control, as it were — to run for President after all in 1972. Scammon is not a politician, nor even a Kennedy intimate. He does not aspire to the role of kingmaker. He is a former director of the U.S. Census, who with a former Lyndon Johnson aide, Ben Wattenberg, has written a book on the psyche of the American voter titled "The Real Majority." Kennedy read the book and found it fascinating. Discussing it with various people, including Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, he has expressed the conclusion that the book's findings constitute persuasive testimony that no potential Democratic candidate should be counted out of the 1972 race. In effect, he has been saying that he should be included among those potential candidates. What Kennedy found particularly beguiling about the book was the authors' suggestion that if the Democrats nominate a moderate two years hence the contest could be decided on the basis of a candidate's personality. It is hardly news that Teddy felt he could have beaten Richard Nixon in 1968 on that basis. And after four years of presiding over a conflict-torn country, the Nixon personality will be put to its sternest test ever. Among the Kennedys, modesty has always yielded to realism. Obviously, then, Teddy Kennedy must figure that a Kennedy would win a contest of personalities with Richard Nixon, so long as he projected a moderate image. In the Kennedy camp, Teddy's task in building such an image is considered relatively easy. In the first place, except for the late Bobby, the Kennedys have never leaned to the left. In many ways, John Kennedy was more conservative than Richard Nixon. Teddy himself has flirted with assorted militant groups, white and black, but he has never committed himself in the fashion of say, New York's Sen. Charles Goodell or Sen. Gene McCarthy, or even Mayor John Lindsay. Moreover, in recent months Teddy has started to cut even these tenuous ties with the way-out crowd. He has warned the Democratic party — as the Scammon-Wattenberg book does — to be leery of putting its political money on a coalition of the black, the poor, the intellectuals and the socially alienated. He wants the party to patch up its differences with the hard hats, meaning the labor unions. In careful, modern, Kennedy language he has come out for law and order.

Kennedy is not building this image to give aid and comfort to his reelection campaign in Massachusetts this fall. He'll win in a breeze over a Republican candidate who is referred to with gentle humor by Bay State politicians as "Spaulding Who?" He is admittedly looking ahead to 1972 when — he has decided — he will run for the White House if conditions are right. Teddy's fresh look at '72 was the only reason the Kennedy clan turned thumbs down on brother-in-law Sargent Shriver's attempt to run for governor of Maryland. In effect, the clan told Shriver "Down boy, we don't want the political landscape cluttered up with a lot of relatives in 1972." Shriver is unhappy, but he accepts the fact of life which says that the Kennedy name comes first in tribal politicking.

A Wrong Way

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What harm can a person do making a child eat? The father has four children, aged 3 to 8, fills their plates heaping full, like he does his own plate, and makes them eat every bite, and I mean makes them eat it. I have protested, and I can't begin to eat what he makes them eat. He says if you make them eat a big plateful, they won't be coming in the house in an hour's time asking for cookies and stuff. It makes me sick, to see them trying to eat all he gives them. If they don't eat he takes a belt to them. — W.F.M.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a mongoloid son. He is 15 and his I.Q. is in the 50s. Is there any research on this? Are they still working on it? What are they doing? Can they prevent other women from having mongoloid children? — Mrs. B.R. Indeed yes, research is going on, but it is dreadfully difficult to find a clue as to what causes mongolism. It has been established that mongoloids have an extra chromosome — 47 instead of the normal 46. Some believe that instead of this being truly an extra chromosome, it is a case of one chromosome being broken, in some way, into two. This does not provide us with any means of preventing it from occurring. Not yet, anyway. Much of the painstaking research covers generations — trying to trace whether any hereditary pattern is involved. Other studies are trying to determine whether there is a relationship to any disease or other condition. Research that we currently read about — creating parts of chromosomes in laboratories, for one example — may in the long run prove to be vital information in understanding mongolism and ultimately doing something about it. My answer, then, is: much study, no sensational "breakthroughs" so far.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a man of 78 and troubled with a continuous noise in my right ear. Is there any relief known? Sometimes it stops for a day or

MR. SPECTATOR

The Golden Egg?

Women's chant for equal rights has reached Magic Valley. The complaints reaching Mr. Spectator are not coming from the gals who want equal pay for equal jobs, or who want to dig ditches or run heavy construction equipment, or get out of cooking breakfast for the old man. No, sir, the complaints are directed at the actions of the great, big television industry.

dividual effort from which no intelligent, refined man who views things as they really are would seek to exclude them. "These occupations in no way injuriously affect the qualities admired by the other sex. They may and ought to be made as remunerative to women as to men now engaged in them."

GIVEAWAY DEPT:

Why? Because, the women complain, if you don't like football then you just have nothing to watch on TV during the long weekend. On Saturday there is a college football game broadcast. Then on Sunday, most of the day, you can tune in two or three professional games. This goes on from around noon or before to long after dark. And now, to set things off, comes Monday night and another televised pro-football game. In Magic Valley it gets underway at 7 p. m. and runs until at least 10 p. m. That's three hours out of the prime television viewing time. Like we said, a bunch of the gals are up in arms about the whole thing. And, personally, we are of the opinion (although we like football) that too much of it may prove to be the wrong thing. By saturating the networks each weekend with football and football and football it might be a case of killing the goose that laid the golden egg!

CLOSING THE GAP

And, speaking of the gals, Mr. Spectator ran across a reprint of an interesting article that appeared in the Scientific American. The date was September, 1870. So read on: "The question of what women can do and what they cannot do well is one that has been much debated of late, and it is safe to say the facts and arguments laid before the public in the course of the discussion have done much to shake the belief, once so universal, that women are adapted to doing nothing well but the domestic duties of the household. "There is a great variety of occupations which women have begun to claim as field for in-

Time was when Europe was a pleasant land of few highways and many byways, where the chief mode of transportation for the typical person was a bicycle. Many persons even hiked where they wanted to go. All this began to change as affluence began to set in. First motorcycles and motorscooters began to appear and multiply. Then Europeans began to acquire the real status symbol, the automobile, in large numbers. The end is not in sight. Suddenly Europe has awakened to the probability that, with a population larger than the U.S. in one-third the area, it is moving rapidly toward a monumental traffic jam.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon reportedly has settled on the men he will nominate to run the new U.S. Postal Service. They include a rancher, a former professor, a labor-management consultant and the heads of several businesses.

One of the nine he will ask the Senate to approve for the service's board of governors is Frederick Kappel, board chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Corp., congressional sources said. Kappel headed a commission which proposed turning the post office over to a nonprofit government-chartered corporation.

Under the law setting up the new independent postal system, the governors will run the operation—with the exception of rate settings—as much like a private business as possible. The law requires the new system be self supporting.

Governor Predicts Growth

ST. MARIES (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson predicted Thursday a continued steady growth in the Idaho economy to match or surpass that of the past four years.

Samuelson said recently compiled economic growth statistics show a strong growth trend in the state, adding, "orderly development is the key to our future, the key to creating more jobs and payrolls and opportunities, the key to holding our younger citizens in Idaho."

The governor said personal income during his administration had risen from $1.77 billion in 1967 to $1.87 billion in 1968 and said last year it topped the $2 billion mark for the first time. He said last year per capita income in Idaho reached $2,857, up from $2,259 in 1967.

The governor said capital investment, which totaled nearly a billion dollars since 1967, was due to new and expanded industry, which he said was "vital to broaden the tax base of the state of Idaho and to provide jobs for our young people."

Wednesday evening Samuelson appeared in Rupert at a "meet your candidate dinner" and told the 200 persons attending the event a report in a national magazine in 1969 said Idaho's per capita tax had gone down one-half of one per cent while other states had raised their taxes as much as 10 per cent.

He said the tax relief came from tax reductions on prescription drugs, oleomargarine, the phaseout of the inventory tax and a relief in property taxes for senior citizens.

Others appearing with Samuelson in Rupert included Louise Shaddock, administrative assistant to Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, Attorney General Robert Robson, who is running for re-election, and Republican candidates Gilbert McKinlay for superintendent of public instruction and Jack Holly for state auditor.

Robson urged those present to read the old constitution and the revised constitution before going to the polls in November.

He said the existing constitution, which was drawn up in two weeks, was now "inadequate to the needs of Idaho."

Holley told the group Idaho is operating on an outdated system, a manual system adopted in 1943. He said the present system did not allow the auditor's office to see how, where or why money allotted to the 143 state departments was spent.

U.S. Considers Red Peace Offer

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce's pledge to give consideration to the latest Communist proposal at the peace talks despite South Vietnamese condemnation of it was an effort to maintain prospects for further exchanges, diplomatic sources said today.

Bruce said at Thursday's 85th session of the talks he saw nothing new in the Communist offer but would give it serious attention. Pham Dang Lam, Bruce's South Vietnamese colleague, called it unacceptable.

Diplomatic sources said Bruce's reaction was an attempt to hold open discussions on major political and military issues before the stalled conference. Communist diplomats have said any outright rejection of the Viet Cong proposal by Washington would bring a total impasse.

In spite of the more flexible approach by Bruce, reaction of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese delegates was anger.

Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, Viet Cong foreign minister, said after Thursday's meeting Bruce had a "completely negative attitude." Xuan Thuy of North Vietnam indicated he hoped the Americans would reconsider and accept the plan.

Madame Biny offered a Communist cease-fire and talks on the release of U.S. prisoners of war in exchange for an American promise to withdraw all troops from South Vietnam by June 30, 1971.

The proposal also suggested formation of a provisional coalition cabinet from all factions with exclusion of only three persons of the present Saigon regime — President Nguyen Van Thieu, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Premier Tran Thien Khiem.

American delegation officials emphasized Bruce did not reject the Viet Cong plan formally. "We are studying the matter further and giving it serious attention," Bruce told Madame Binh.

But Bruce make it clear the United States would never agree to any solution amounting to imposition of a coalition through outside pressure.

Youth Shot

MERIDIAN (UPI) — A 15-year-old Meridian High School student was shot and killed Thursday afternoon while he and three other boys were examining a .22 caliber pistol in the school's parking lot.

Police identified the victim as Charles A. Clegg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Clegg, Meridian.

Meridian police say the youths were inside a car in the parking lot looking at the weapon when it accidentally discharged striking young Clegg in the chest.

The companions of the victim drove him to the office of Dr. Lee Pulley, who pronounced him dead on arrival.

Court Clerk In New Post

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Tax Commission announced Thursday Martin Huff, 53, former clerk of the Idaho Supreme Court, had been appointed legal counsel for the commission.

Huff resigned as clerk of the Supreme Court Sept. 1 after serving in that position over four years. Prior to being clerk, Huff had been Ada County prosecutor, a member of the legal division for the Idaho State Highway Department, and in private practice in Moscow, Idaho.

Idaho, Washington Officials Discuss 2-State 'Airshed'

SPOKANE, Wash., (UPI) — Hearings on two federal "airsheds" straddling the Idaho-Washington border went off as scheduled here Thursday, despite cries from area officials that they had insufficient time to prepare their cases.

The two airsheds, or interstate air quality control regions, as the federal government calls them, involve the Spokane-Coeur d'Alene area and the Lewiston-Clarkson area to the south.

Official notification of the hearings, which assistant commissioner for the national air pollution control commission, Doyle J. Borchers, referred to as "consultations," ranged anywhere from seven to ten days prior to the hearings.

The meetings were to discuss the boundaries of the proposed regions. The federal plan calls for the Spokane-Coeur d'Alene region to encompass Spokane County in Washington and Benewah, Kootenai and Shoshone Counties in Idaho. The Lewiston-Clarkson region would cover Nez Perce and Latah Counties in Idaho and Asotin and Whitman Counties in Washington.

Total time for the two meetings was about six hours. Requests by officials of Idaho and Washington as well as other local governmental units for a 30-day extension to allow study of the proposal were denied by Borchers.

"Because of the time element involved, I cannot and will not leave the record open," Borchers said. However, he told the representatives they had 30 days from the date the meeting was published in the federal record, Sept. 12, in which to submit additional written statements to the commission.

Other than comments from Peter W. Hildebrand, Redmond, of the Washington State Department of Ecology, and Perry Warner, Soda Springs, Idaho, of the Idaho Air Pollution Control Commission, all the states were getting along nicely without federal intervention, most of the comments were about the inclusion or exclusion of other counties.

Earl Mc Clellan, Plummer, Idaho, supervisor of the Benedwah County soil and water conservation district, said he felt his county did not belong to the region because it was rural and did not have the pollution problems the other counties had.

Borchers said, "it is equally important that we protect the clean areas as that we clean up the other areas. An air region gives protection to people on either side of the fence, or county line."

Gem Aide Eyes Comparison Of Old, New Constitutions

BOISE (UPI) — Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa has scheduled a meeting for today to attempt to determine the best method of comparing the existing constitution with the proposed revised constitution.

Cenarrusa said Thursday he would meet with Raymond Givens, chairman of the revision commission and former Idaho Supreme Court Justice, and Susan Berman of the Legislative Council.

The revision will be published the last three weeks in October in 55 Idaho newspapers at a cost of approximately $50,000. Cenarrusa must also publish the comparison of the old and new documents which he will distribute to all county courthouses in addition to city halls and Chambers of Commerce in towns remotely situated from county seats. Cenarrusa said he will order 75,000 copies of the 73-page comparison, or roughly one for every four registered voters. He says because of the time factor involved, it would have been better to place the proposed revisions before the electorate two years from now to allow more preparation time.

Two members of his staff, Margaret Landy and Ron Stephens, said the basic problem was that of indexing. A commentary originally written by the legislative council then edited by the revision commission and the chairman of the legislative committees on the revision provides one link between the two documents.

But according to Miss Landy an index is also needed so persons wishing to find a specific subject could locate it rapidly. She said there already is a 45-page index of the present constitution, which does not include amendments, and said it would be easier to index the proposed revisions by section and article, rather than by subject.

Stephens added, "it doesn't make a whole lot of sense financially to reproduce the existing index. You'd have a larger index than commentary." The commentary refers from the new constitution to the old and notes other areas where the subject may be located, but Miss Landy said it may be necessary to read the entire document to find all references to one subject.

Line Job Contract Awarded

TWIN FALLS—Contracts for placement of nearly two miles of underground conduit were awarded to the J.A. Clawson Construction Co. of Twin Falls by Mountain Bell, K.G. Mann, district manager announced today.

Work will begin this week in Gooding on a three and one half block job that will go east from the telephone office for two blocks then west for about a block and a half. It was anticipated this job will take approximately two weeks to complete at a cost of $18,000.

Two areas in Twin Falls, the first on Addison East from Blair Drive to a point just past Eastland will be receiving the underground facilities. This section will begin in early October at a cost of $15,000 and be followed by a placement of a mile of conduit between Falls Avenue and Pole Line Road on Blue Lake Blvd. N. This section will cost over $70,000 and will provide additional telephone service made necessary by the expanding requirements of business in the area involved.

The three projects will allow enough room for growth and also will provide space for the eventual transfer of overhead lines to the underground facilities, Mann concluded.

Famine Wins in Amman

AMMAN (UPI)—King Hussein's troops battled on with Yasser Arafat's guerrillas today. Famine appeared the only sure victor in Amman.

Artillery shells smashed buildings and machine gun fire clattered down the streets of this crumbling capital in its eighth day of civil war.

I stuck my head up to a shattered window in the Inter-Continental Hotel to survey the damage. I got a surprise. I saw civilians, refugees braving the shell fire in a search for food.

They came to the hotel to escape starvation. We could give them little. They told of the terror in the ruined cities. Families huddled and praying in basements. The hunger.

Terror took other forms. An Englishman—he declined to give his name—dodged a burst of machine gun fire and ran in with a report of seeing a teenage girl hit in the head with rocket while sitting inside her house.

I looked down in the valley behind the hotel. Some call it the valley of death—recollected rifles, mortars and rockets wrecked one building after another.

In the early days in the battle for Amman we saw families—mother, father and children—sitting on the porches of those houses in the valley, taking in the sun and the war.

Today I saw no one. Just houses going down. And smoke. Between the shell bursts I could hear a dog yelping in pain just below the hotel.

It yelped, then moaned, and its noise disappeared from the background music to civil war.

A Jordanian officer came to the hotel Wednesday night to brief newsmen. He said army troops controlled most of Amman. He said a few "guerrilla pockets" remained. Army officers have been using these same phrases since Sunday in their briefings.

Outside the troops went after the guerrilla pockets. Today they hurled artillery and machine gun fire at a building in the Jebel Wehdeh area for two hours. Their targets: A guerrilla sniper.

To move in the streets during curfew is to jaywalk with death. The army has reissued its warning soldiers will shoot to kill anyone caught out.

A curtain-being moved could draw artillery fire. The Englishman could testify to that.

"This young girl was hit two days ago," he said. "Her sister and her grandmother were in hysterics and shouting for help. But it was impossible for anyone to get near the house to help."

"Eventually the army came in a Red Crescent armored car and took the girl away in a blanket. The other young girl left. The old woman is now alone."

NEW MOBILE PRINTER automatically receives police radio calls and prints them on a roll of paper at the rate of 80 words per minute so that a patrolman does not miss any messages while he is away from his car. (UPI)

'X' Ads Halted

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Desert News announced today it will no longer publish advertisements for X and R rated movies after Oct. 15.

E. Earl Hawkes, Desert News publisher and general manager, said the decision to ban the advertisements was prompted by "the steady moral deterioration of the movies produced under the industry's own rating system."

AFL-CIO President George Meany, appearing before the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee Thursday gave unequivocal endorsement to legislation to set up comprehensive health insurance protection for all Americans to reverse what was described as a "shocking decline" in standards. (UPI)

Labor Supports Medi-Insurance

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Organized labor gave unequivocal endorsement Wednesday to legislation to set up comprehensive health insurance protection for all Americans to reverse what was described as a "shocking decline" in standards.

One day after the Nixon administration attacked national health insurance as unworkable, too costly and a risky break with the past, George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, gave it top priority among domestic issues before Congress.

In prepared testimony for the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, Meany said labor did not realistically expect final action this year but that the need for a national health plan was so urgent that delay beyond 1971 should not be tolerated.

"The growing failure of America's health system to meet the needs of the American people, and the consequent shocking decline in America's standards of health, compared to other nations of the world, make that unmistakably clear," Meany said.

He said several pending bills in Congress would serve to "control the runaway cost inflation of medical care," with each containing particularly worthwhile features that might be combined.

He said the American Medical Association, longtime foe of national health insurance, was on record with a "historic break" in its position by advocating federal funding of health services in an AMA-backed "medicare" bill.

But Meany accused the AMA of being "selfish, short-sighted and profoundly wrong" in its approach. He charged that the organization was seeking nothing more than "federal subsidies of the existing system, as if there were nothing wrong that couldn't be cured by putting more money in the hands of the AMA's constituents."

Script Screens Drug Addicts

NEW YORK (UPI)—The handwriting may be on the wall, almost literally, for drug addicts applying for jobs.

A handwriting test for both narcotic addiction and alcoholism has been turned up recently, according to Dr. Michael Pace of the Psychographical Center at Hicksville, Long Island, N.Y. And that's encouraging news for business firms which lose several billion dollars a year in the pilferage, absenteeism, costly errors and general inefficiency associated with drug addiction.

The marijuana user applying for a job is tougher to spot than the alcoholic, just as he is on the job. While the alcoholic shows signs of wear and tear, the pot smoker may appear perfectly normal.

Once the addict is discovered, getting rid of him legally may be troublesome. And the outlook for rehabilitation of addicted employees is discouraging up to now.

Attorney General John Mitchell has estimated that about 2 1/2 per cent of all industrial and office workers use drugs. A Chicago publication, Industrial News Letter, says three out of four factories in the United States have some kind of narcotic problem.

So the businessman tries not to hire an addict if he can avoid it. This often entails expensive investigation and a routine urinalysis, the most reliable test and the one most likely to stand up in court if dismissal or refusal to hire results in a lawsuit.

But the urinalysis route has two drawbacks. It won't detect the marijuana user. And even if it does turn up traces of quinine, used often to cut heroin, amphetamines and other drugs, they may not be conclusive proof. Anyone who drinks gin and tonic also has traces of quinine in his urine.

While Pace's handwriting tests so far have not been accepted as legal evidence in court, they do give the prospective employer a guideline.

"It has the great advantage of not invading privacy," said Pace. "All workers and applicants must write and you needn't take special samples for detection purposes." Like the urinalysis, though, it is of no practical use in detecting addiction to marijuana only.

Despite the existence of urinalysis and handwriting tests, a security officer for Western Electric Co. in Los Angeles says the undercover agent is the surest way of handling narcotics problems in factories. He uncovers the pushers as well as the addicts.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a man in my sixties who should know the score, but fear I am about to be taken. Please don't laugh.

After a long illness, my beloved wife of more than 40 years passed on to her reward, and after she had been gone only a few months, I was besieged by all the stray widows and old maids for miles around.

The first one to knock on my door was a very proper old widow from my church. She brought me a daily parade of casseroles, cakes, cookies, etc. So when she asked me to chauffeur her to her cousin's funeral 200 miles away, I gladly agreed in order to reciprocate for her kindness to me. She said her car was in the shop. Since she intended to remain a few days, I arranged to stay with an old friend nearby. All was perfectly proper.

Well, last Sunday, she waited for me after church and insisted we talk privately. She had tears in her eyes, so I sat in her car (which I later learned had never been in the shop) and she told me that her neighbors had seen her getting into my car with her suitcase, and they noted that she had been gone for several days, and her reputation would be ruined if I didn't marry her!

Abby, she is a kind old soul, but she is about the last woman I would care to marry if I had marriage in mind, which I do not.

I don't want to damage her reputation, but I certainly don't want marriage with her. How do I get out of this without being misunderstood? TRAPPED IN OHIO

DEAR TRAPPED: You just pat her on the hand and say, "Madame, the evil minds and clacking tongues of busybodies shall not decide my destiny—nor yours. Let us see no more of each other from this day on, and prove the rascals wrong." Then run like blazes!

DEAR ABBY: A while back you had a letter from a wife whose husband never called her when he knew he had to work late. His excuse: "I don't want to appear henpecked."

Well, I don't blame him. I wouldn't want my husband to appear henpecked either, but here is how one smart man solved that problem:

He said, "If a man says, 'I have to call my wife,' he gives the impression that he's henpecked, and if he doesn't report in to his wife she will chew him out when he gets home. But if he says, 'I want to call my wife,' that makes him look like he is the boss, and he does only what he wants to do."

Puts a whole different light on it, doesn't it? GABBY

DEAR GABBY: Yup. And thanks for enlightening a lot of men who could use it.

DEAR ABBY: I just turned 20 and I thought free love was okay. I got a venereal disease twice and it cost me my right to bear children the last time, because I had to have a hysterectomy. Some price to pay for being the most popular girl around.

The guys will tell you there is nothing wrong with them and then you find out too late there was. I suppose some guys don't know they have a disease, but any guy who goes from strange girl to strange girl should know there is a chance he is infected.

MRS. JOHN L. STOLZ

Karen Orr, Stolz Exchange Promise

TWIN FALLS — Karen Anne Orr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill H. Orr, Twin Falls, became the bride of John L. Stolz, son of Col. and Mrs. John J. Stolz, Colorado Springs, Colo., in an afternoon ceremony Sept. 12 at the Twin Falls Episcopal Church of the Ascension.

Rev. John Wallace performed the double ring ceremony before a candle-lit altar. At the end of the ceremony, the couple lit a wedding candle. Gold veils of pink gladioli and white and pink chrysanthemums were placed on each side of the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white gown of silk organza over peau de soie. French alencon lace and seed pearls were applied to the full skirt and were used to accent the scalloped neckline of the fitted bodice. A chapel train, attached at the mid-back with a bow, was edged with matching alencon lace. Her veil was held by a tiara studded with seed pearls. She carried a Rainbow Girl Bible topped with pink rosebuds, pink carnations and ivy.

The organist, Mrs. Richard Chilcote, played the traditional wedding music.

Lorraine Molsen, Filer, was maid of honor, with Mark Stolz, brother of the bridegroom, serving as best man. Guests were ushered by Michael Glenn.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the fireside room of the church. The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table encircled with pink flowers and ivy. A pink rosebud corsage topped the cake. A cherub holding a nosegay of white felt flowers and pink bows added to the decorations. The cake was baked and decorated by Ann Leonardson.

Mrs. Michael Glenn, Twin Falls, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Donald Ransom, Filer, poured coffee and Kathie Helfrecht, Twin Falls, assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Leonardson presided at the punch bowl. Ann Leonardson, Twin Falls, registered guests.

Special out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's parents from Colorado Springs, and his grandmother, Mrs. Stella Stolz, Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Addressing the Thursday luncheon was Norman Watson, acting assistant secretary for renewal and housing management, HUD, who said, "The goals of urban renewal as it relates to project relocation are clear. The charter membership went on sale at the close of the Historical Society's meeting, and J. Grant Fillmore, Burley, purchased the first $5 family charter membership.

Area medical doctors and school officials will be asked to assist in the program, Schlender said.

The basic program consists of three one-hour seminars, with discussions, and films. Schlender noted the purpose of the program is not to moralize or preach to the students but to be purely educational.

"There will be no terrorizing students with films, such as those used to deter students from smoking which depicts an actual lung operation," he explained.

Miss Baxter had stopped for another vehicle in front of her car, which was making a left-hand turn.

Maier struck the rear of the Baxter vehicle, and was thrown off the motorcycle, landing in the street in the southbound lane of traffic. A car driven by Hilda L. Parish, 45, of Burley, ran over Maier's legs, police said. The fact that Mrs. Parish was driving a small imported car probably prevented more serious injuries to the youth, police said.

Today's Market And Financial Report

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI)—Volume on the New York Stock Exchange was at a near-record pace...

The three-hour volume of 13,350,000 was up from the 12,450,000 shares traded in a comparable period Thursday.

However, the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips was up only 0.41 and among the 1,552 issues traded, advances outpaced declines, 708 to 534.

Analysts generally attributed the small increase in the Dow and the heavy volume to a search for more speculative issues by institutions.

Pirates Blank Expos 7-0; Cubs Top Cards, Tie Mets

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Luke Walker, who came out of the bullpen to become Pittsburgh's leading starter, pitched a seven-hit shutout for his fifth straight victory as the Pirates blasted the Montreal Expos, 8-0, Thursday night to move two and a half games ahead of the second place Mets in the National League East.

It was the eighth victory in 11 decisions for Walker since he joined the starting rotation Aug. 5 and raised his record for the season to 15-6.

Gene Alley paced a 15-hit assault against four Montreal pitchers with three hits, including a triple and four runs batted in.

The Pirates, who reduced their magic number for clinching the division title to five, got Walker all the runs he needed in the second inning when they bunched four straight hits for three runs off losing pitcher Steve Renko.

With one out, Bob Robertson lined a double down the right field line, Manny Sanguillen singled through the middle for a run, Richie Hebner doubled to right to score another and Alley blooped a hit to center for the third run.

Pittsburgh scored again off Renko in the fifth when Dave Cash singled to right with one out and Al Oliver followed with a line drive double off the centerfield fence.

In the sixth, the Pirates greeted reliever John Strohmayer with singles by Sanguillen, Hebner and Alley for one run, and Cash singled with two out for another.

They got two more in the seventh on Robertson's single error and Alley's triple.

Magic Number Is Five But Bucs Won't Count

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The magic number is five, but the Pirates aren't counting.

Bob Moose, who will start for Pittsburgh Friday night the opener of a three game series against the New York Mets, said he was not even aware that the Pirates could wrap up the Eastern Division title this weekend.

"If everything goes right, we're going to get a few runs and we'll be okay," Moose said. "This game tonight was the one we needed."

Asked if he thought the Pirates could clinch the title before they go to St. Louis for their final three games next week, Moose said, "That would be nice, but I haven't given it a thought."

Shortstop Gene Alley, who contributed three hits and four runs batted in in Thursday night's 8-0 victory over Montreal, said he still wasn't satisfied with himself.

St. Louis (UPI)—Southwest Ken Holtzman, aided by a second inning homer by Joe Pepitone, kept the Chicago Cubs in the thick of the National League's East Division pennant race Thursday night by stopping the St. Louis Cardinals on seven hits in a 7-1 victory.

The triumph boosted the Cubs into a flat-footed tie with the New York Mets in second place. Both teams have 81-74 records and are two and one-half games behind the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Holtzman, boosting his record to 17-11, gave up a run in the first inning but got even when Pepitone bled his 24th homer in the second. From that point on Holtzman was in complete control of the Cardinals.

The Cubs broke the tie in the sixth when they scored four runs. Glenn Beckert started the inning by working Mike Torrez for a walk. Tomny Davis then singled with one out, sending Beckert to third, and Beckert scored the go-ahead run when Ron Santo grounded into a force play.

Jim Hickman followed with a double to score Santo and Pepitone was intentionally walked. Hundley then singled to left, scoring Hickman, and Pepitone came home when Lou Brock threw the ball into the stands attempting to cut down Hickman at the plate.

Nelsen Says Viks Don't Miss Kapp

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Cleveland Browns Quarterback Bill Nelsen said Thursday the Minnesota Vikings would be better off this season without Joe Kapp, the holdout quarterback.

"It's better for Minnesota if he stays out," said Nelsen. "If he says he wants to come back, they'd probably have to take him."

"Then after awhile, should Gary Coozzo play a bad game, there'd be pressure to bench him in favor of Kapp," said Nelsen.

Nelsen said two first string quarterbacks would divide any team.

Nelsen said Cleveland rookie signal caller Mike Phipps will be the "Browns quarterback in the future."

"He has some things to learn," said Nelsen. "But I wish I had his two healthy legs. And his strong arm."

"I just hope he doesn't learn too fast," said Nelsen.

Judge Sees Early End To Cage Row

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—A federal judge Thursday promised a quick ruling in the legal battle over veteran National Basketball Association (NBA) forward Ray Scott, who has contracts with two teams in as many leagues.

The Buffalo Braves of the NBA told Judge Richard Kellam they had a contract with Scott before he signed one with the Virginia Squires of the rival American Basketball Association (ABA) earlier this month.

The Braves want Kellam to stop Scott from playing with anyone but them until a hearing is held and the issue settled.

The Braves got Scott from the Baltimore Bullets earlier this year in the expansion draft. They said Scott brought a three-year contract with him, including the past season.

The Squires contended the Braves contract stipulates one year only in two different clauses and since the team did not mail the contract to Scott before Sept. 1 and enforce the renewal clause, the veteran player was a free agent.

Buffalo said the one-year stipulation was a "typographical error", that the contract was "for three years" and Scott knew it.

Clay Applies For New York Ring License

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cassius Clay applied Thursday for a license to box in the state of New York, and the athletic commission indicated formal approval will come on Monday to clear the way for the deposed heavyweight champion to reclaim the title.

Clay's license was suspended and his title taken away 3 1/2 years ago when he refused to be inducted into the Army. Clay, who is free on bail while his draft evasion conviction is being appealed, has not fought since he defeated Zora Folley in Madison Square Garden on March 22, 1968, but only last week a federal judge called the suspension "arbitrary and unreasonable" and ordered the commission to license him again.

Net Gals Make Break Complete

HOUSTON (UPI)—The women tennis stars who bolted the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association to play in this week's Virginia Slims Invitational Tournament plan to make their break with the USLTA permanent and form their own tennis tour, Billie Jean King said Thursday.

She said they hoped to start the tour with a series of tournaments on the West Coast, Texas, Boston and in Florida next January and February. These would be in Seattle, Honolulu, San Francisco, Long Beach and Los Angeles, Houston, Dallas, Boston and somewhere in Florida.

Then she said there are six tournaments on the Caribbean tour where Marlboro already has offered a $10,000 bonus to the winner. She said other plans are not firm yet.

She said she hoped the men players would join them and they could work out a circuit similar to the men's pro golf tour.

Eight women revolted Wednesday because the USLTA would not sanction the Virginia Slims Tournament if it paid the $5,000 prize money it was offering. The sponsors offered to pay the money as expenses, but the women said they did not want the money under the table and decided to become contract pros.

Happy Fella Takes Brown Jug, Nips Co-Favorite in 3 Heats

DELAWARE, Ohio (UPI)—Most Happy Fella won the $100,000 little brown jug classic at the Delaware County fairgrounds here Thursday by nipping Columbia George by a neck in a time of 1:57 3/5 in the deciding third-heat of the race.

Most Happy Fella, the 5-2 pre-race favorite, won the opening heat in 1:57 1/5, in front of Columbia George by three-fourths lengths. Columbia George was in command in the second heat, although he finished only one-half length ahead of Most Happy Fella in 1:57 3/5.

In the third-heat, in which only seven of the 11 original starters went to the post, Columbia George held the lead from just after the quarter pole until Most Happy Fella caught him in the stretch.

Stanley Dancer, who owns, trains and drives the champion, said the third heat was a "perfect trip all the way. It couldn't have been better if we had drawn him out."

Dancer, who Wednesday sold his bay Son of Meadow Skipper to Blue Chips Farms, Walkkill, N. Y., for $1 million, collected $53,392.03 for his day's work Thursday. The sale is effective Jan. 1, 1971.

Columbia George, owned by Dr. George Smith, Byram,

Conn., earned $23,225.53 for finishing third, first and second in the three heats.

In the first heat, it was all Columbia George. Dancer took his colt to the front for good shortly after the half-mile pole and came into the stretch with a two-length lead over Ferric Hanover, which finished second.

Columbia George, starting in the second tier of horses in the first heat, began to make his move near the three-quarter pole but was four horses wide and driver Roland Deaulieu came into the stretch five lengths behind Most Happy Fella.

Deaulieu took charge of the second heat early, grabbing the lead away from Leander Lobell, driven by Curly Smart, before the horses made their first trip around the half-mile track.

Smart made a run at Columbia George shortly before reaching the three-quarter pole but could not quite catch him. Smart's move, however, forced Dancer to take Most Happy Fella three wide in his attempt to narrow the gap on Columbia George.

Greene Shoots Five-Under 65 To Lead in Green Island Open

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI)—The hot sun of his native Georgia was just what the doctor ordered for Bert Greene Thursday as he shot a five-under-par 65 for the first round lead in the Green Island Open golf tournament.

Greene, who is bothered by buritis in his left shoulder when the weather is cold and wet, posted his score early in the day and it withstood the threat of fellow Georgian Bunky Henry and Harry Toscano, a "rabbit" from New Castle, Pa.

Toscano bogeyed the final hole after hitting his drive into the trees and finished with a 66 to tie Australian Bob Stanton for the No. 2 spot.

Henry also bogeyed the last hole for a 67, which matched veteran Tommy Jacobs' score.

Greene, still seeking his first tour win, knocked in a 35-footer on the first hole to get his adrenalin rolling and he finished with seven birdies and two bogeys for one of the "best rounds by far I've had this year."

front side and added a 34 on the back nine which stood up for second place until Toscano finished late with matching 33s.

Rodriguez Gonzales Decisions

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Luis Manuel Rodriguez pounded out an unanimous 12-round decision over Puerto Rico's Jose "Monon" Gonzales in Convention Hall Thursday night for what the promoters billed as the Latin American middleweight championship.

Rodriguez, a Cuban who lives in Miami, thus avenged his July 30 defeat at the hands of Gonzales in San Juan. Rodriguez weighed 161 1/2 and Gonzales 163 1/2.

There were no knockdowns, but the crowd of 4,000 cheered loudly as Rodriguez took charge in the ninth round, scoring at will with left jabs that set up Gonzales for a series of right crosses to the head.

Rodriguez, who admits to being 33, was mobbed by joyous supporters in the ring after the fight and shouted that he was ready to fight middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy "any time, any place."

Referee Cy Godfried scored the fight 60-48 and the two judges had it 59-50 and 58-54, all for Rodriguez.

The victory raised Rodriguez' record to 107 wins against nine losses. Gonzales' five-match winning streak was snapped and his record went to 40-16-2.

Colbert got the Padres rolling when he led off the second inning with his 35th homer, which stacked Roberts to a 1-0 lead.

The Padres got two more runs in the sixth when Gaston singled, went to third on Colbert's third straight hit and scored on a sacrifice fly by Ed Spiezio.

Padres Pin Shutout On Braves

ATLANTA (UPI)—Nate Colbert and Clarence Gaston blasted solo homers to back Dave Roberts' six-hit pitching Thursday night as the San Diego Padres blanked the Atlanta Braves for the second straight night, 5-0.

SPORT FANS!

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By BILL WORKMAN

What were the five greatest football games ever played?

A sports writer recently took a survey to find out — in the opinion of experts from coast-to-coast. And here are the five games they picked:

1. Notre Dame vs. Army 13 in 1913. This game was picked because of its historical importance. This one game more than any other, proved the value of the forward pass in football.
2. Illinois 39, Michigan 14, 1924. The game when Red Grange made runs of 95, 65, 55 and 40 yards each for 4 touchdowns in the 1st quarter. This is voted the greatest individual performance of all time.
3. 1925 Rose Bowl. The classic meeting of football's most famous backfield (Notre Dame's Four Horsemen) and the man some call the greatest single back in history (Stanford's Ernie Nevers).
4. 1940 National League title game (Beas 73, Redskins 0). This game was picked because it helped establish the modern T-formation, and because many say the Bears — that day — were the most perfect football team ever seen on a field.
5. 1958 NFL title game (Colts 23, Giants 17 in overtime). The experts said this was the most exciting big game ever played.

You probably have some favorite games yourself that you'd rank among the five greatest of all-time, but these are the ones the experts picked, and we thought you'd enjoy reading it.

Did you know that the show room floor and parts department floor have now been poured for the new building for Bill Workman Ford, Inc. located across from the Holiday Inn on Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

THE TRUE OLD-STYLE KENTUCKY BOURBON

St. Benedict's Priory Offers Varied Courses

TWIN FALLS — St. Benedict's Student Center and Priory is again offering religious and adult education courses during the coming months.

Father Simeon notes the need for deepening and more fully understanding the Catholic faith becomes more apparent to all as time passes. These courses are being planned and designed to meet these needs by students and Catholic adults of the area.

The Benedictines who own and operate the Priory urge all adults and students at the College of Southern Idaho and in the community to attend.

The Monday night course, which begins Oct. 12 at 8, will be on "Theology of the Sacraments." This is a program of instruction concerning the sacraments of the church with a strong emphasis upon the necessity, place and efficacy of the sacraments in the daily life of the Christian. Tuesday night class begins at 8 on Oct. 6 and will be on "Convert Instruction and Basic Catholicism." This course is designed for those who may be contemplating conversion to Catholicism and also for those who may be interested in basic Catholic teaching.

The Friday night class will commence on Oct. 16 at 8 and will be on the "Old Testament Scripture Themes." This course is designed to acquaint those attending with the Old Testament in order to better understand the New Testament and the place of Sacred Scripture in the Liturgy.

These various class programs will continue once each week for one hour on the designated nights and will continue for about 20 weeks. Those who have attended one or the other of these classes last year should alternate and take the other class offered this fall.

A nominal fee will be asked for those attending the Monday or Friday night classes.

RELIGION

Harbor House Land Donated

TWIN FALLS — Our Savior Lutheran Church voted to donate a portion of land to Harbor House.

At a special meeting called for that purpose, the congregation voted to give a piece of property approximately 345 by 150 feet to Harbor House. This land is a part of the property Our Savior Lutheran congregation plans to use in the near future for a new church facility. The donated land is located on the corner of the extension of Fillmore Street and Caswell Avenue.

Several factors motivated the congregation to consider the donation. This congregation believes it should be involved in the community in which most of the members live. The Harbor House provides a much needed agency in this community, and they needed property on which to build a permanent facility for doing their work.

The Harbor House is one of many ways the people of Twin Falls can show a response to God's generous love. Our Savior Lutheran Church has chosen this means to show this responsive love. Much more will need to be done for Harbor House, and for the youth it seeks to serve.

REV. WILLIS BLAIR has assumed the pastorate of First Baptist church at Burley. He comes from Pittsburg, Calif. A native of Texas, he was graduated from the Golden Gate Baptist Seminary, Mill Valley, Calif., and has served churches in Texas and California.

Covenant Players Booked

TWIN FALLS — The Kalros unit of Covenant Players will be appearing at the Twin Falls First Baptist Church Sunday at 8 p. m., states Rev. James B. Hughes.

The group is on its third tour through Southern Idaho and this is the second appearance at the local church.

Charles M. Tanner, Presbyterian elder and Hollywood screen-writer, founded the nonsectarian Covenant Players with a small troupe. Based at Encino, Calif., units now tour throughout the United States each year.

Plays range from one- to three-minute "stingers" to drama 45 minutes or longer in length. Not the traditional "inspirational" drama, the plays are thought-provoking, often have surprise endings and are directed toward recognition of Christian values in personal and social situations.

This will be the only appearance of the Covenant Players in Magic Valley on this tour. The public is invited. An offering will defray expenses of the evening.

Training Session Planned

WENDELL — Rev. John Steppert of the United Presbyterian Church, Wendell, announces all Wendell Church School teachers are invited to attend a teacher training meeting at the First Presbyterian Church sponsored by the Christian Education Committee of Kendall Presbytery at 3 p. m. on Sunday.

Persons teaching grades one through eight are especially asked to attend. The workshop will be broken into three time divisions. During the first 30 minutes the theological background of the new Christian Faith and Action Curriculum will be previewed. The next hour will be devoted to developing skills in unit planning.

The remainder of the day will be spent learning and viewing the various arts and crafts which will be utilized for unit planning.

Fall Workshop Plans Prepared by Deanery

BUHL — The fall workshop of the South Central Deanery was held in the Immaculate Conception School with members attending from Twin Falls, Rupert, Halley, Shoshone, Jerome, Gooding, Wendell and Buhl.

A coffee hour, in charge of the Buhl members, followed the morning registration. Mrs. Frank Kulik, vice president of the Buhl Council of Catholic Women, gave the welcome address. Father Bernard McBride, Jerome, was guest speaker and spoke on the theme, "Our educational mission — communicating Christ to all." The workshop was conducted by commission chairman including Mrs. Lewis Logasz, Shoshone; Mrs. Robert Harney and Mrs. Kenneth Walker, Twin Falls; Mrs. Pat Hamilton, Mrs. John Crawford, Mrs. Tom Teppen and Mrs. Robert Erkins, Buhl.

Following the workshop, the business meeting was conducted by the deanery president, Mrs. Frank Karel. Deanery reports were given by Mrs. Robert Kulik, secretary; Mrs. Henry Eggleston, treasurer; Mrs. Harold Traxler, historian; Mrs. William Last, Jerome, and Mrs. Logasz.

The state president, Mrs. Neal Clabby, Welter, spoke to the group. The meeting was closed with mass by Father Malachi McNeil, Buhl. A salad bar luncheon was served at noon by the Rebekah Lodge.

Nepalese Mission Studied

RICHFIELD — "Mission to Nepal" was the Richfield WSCS program topic at the Tuesday meeting held at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Riley, unit president.

She also was program chairman assisted by Mrs. Joe Seward, Mrs. Eugene Alexander, Mrs. C.M. Pridmore, and Mrs. Albert Pelley, who also presented the devotions.

Approval was given for purchasing new drapes for the Methodist Church sanctuary. Pillow cases were ordered for work on bazaars articles.

Mrs. Blanche Fiveland, former resident now of Union, Ore. was a guest. Mrs. Pelley, Mrs. Riley, and Mrs. Alexander are members of the program committee for the new year which started Sept. 1.

Concert Scheduled

TWIN FALLS — "Something to Sing About" is the title of a concert to be presented Sunday evening in the Lynwood Chapel by eight teen-aged members of the church.

According to Rev. D.L. Mikel, there will be inspirational songs and readings by the individual members as well as group novelty numbers and instrumental music. The public is invited.

Workshop Set

TWIN FALLS — A teachers' workshop, sponsored by the Kendall Presbytery, will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday in the Twin Falls First Presbyterian Church.

Christian Community Program Set By YMCA

TWIN FALLS — The YMCA is offering a new program for young adults this fall, aimed at a study and practice of Christian community.

Chet Bartlett, Y executive director, will guide a leadership team which will include Rev. Leslie Brown, pastor of Valley Christian Church, and Clara Stockton of the Y staff. The group will be limited to 12 to 15 persons. The meeting time will be arranged in connection with those interested in participating. The group will meet each week for at least two hours and continue for a ten week period. At that point the progress of the group will be evaluated and future plans will be based on the groups desires.

"In today's society most of us do not have an opportunity to experience Christian community," Bartlett pointed out. "We find ourselves caught up in so many pressures that we tend to operate from a foundation of fear rather than one of trust and love."

The Koinonia Fellowship is planned with the needs of young adults in mind but we will welcome all interested.

Speaker Announced

TWIN FALLS — Rev. Paul Graham, Huntington College, Huntington, Ind., will address the 7 p. m. Sunday service at the First United Brethren Church, Twin Falls.

He will show slides of the college which is a denominational school for the United Brethren in Christ Church.

Lesson Listed

TWIN FALLS — The reality of God's spiritual creation implies the unreality of material beliefs about the universe and man, according to the lesson-sermon to be read Sunday at 11 a. m. in the Twin Falls Christian Science Church.

Consultant Pays Visit At Wendell

WENDELL — Rev. Wesley Baker, consultant to synods and presbyteries with the Commission on Ecumenical Missions and Relations of the United Presbyterian Church, spoke to a group of 50 area churchmen at the Wendell Presbyterian Church on Sunday.

He discussed two of the most exciting things happening in the church today — the ecumenical movement and the humanitarian direction the church is taking. He said that he felt the reason for the decline in giving and membership in this country can be attributed to our "great affluence and rising standard of living."

In such oppressed countries as Africa and Korea, the church is experiencing tremendous strides in growth, he added.

Rev. Baker will leave for the Far East on Oct. 5, and plans to spend six weeks visiting Hong Kong, India, Korea, Japan, Vietnam and maybe China. He has been commissioned to make the trip to gather information pertaining to the programs for self-development of peoples the church is sponsoring.

Jubilee Planned

TWIN FALLS — A music jubilee is being planned for 8 p. m. Saturday in the First United Brethren Church, Twin Falls.

Various churches and musical groups will be performing. There will be a mixed quartet, soloists, duets and musical instrumental numbers. Highlighting the event will be numbers by Dean Ecker, Kimberly, who has traveled extensively in the entertainment field of country western and gospel music.

Featured on the electric organ and the piano will be Lenny Anderson, known professionally as Lenny Dean. The mixed quartet will consist of Lenny and Ronnie Anderson and Del and Penny Storey. Duet will be presented by Mrs. Joe Daddocks and Mrs. Mabel Parrott. Other specials from other churches also are planned. The public is invited.

Promotion Set

FILER — Promotion Sunday will be observed Oct. 4 at Peace Lutheran Church and Clover Lutheran Church with special services and musical numbers by Sunday School children.

ALC RESTRUCTURING MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A sweeping reorganization of The American Lutheran Church will be taken up by the church's fifth general convention in San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 21-27.

The proposed overhaul of structural and operating procedures, based on a study begun in 1965, covers every level of activity from local parish to operation of the national offices in Minneapolis. At the congregational level, it advocates team ministries, federated parishes in communities, and expanded ecumenical relationships.

KNIGHTS INCORPORATED NEW YORK (UPI) — The Sovereign Order of the Knights of the Holy Sepulchre, oldest religious knighthood in Christianity, has been incorporated in the United States.

Lenny Dean Featured At Service

TWIN FALLS — Lenny Dean, former night club performer in Nevada, will be speaking and playing the electric organ at 8 p. m. Sunday in the First United Brethren Church, Twin Falls. Lenny has been a professional musician since his teens. He was raised in a preacher's home and made his way to the top of the list on electric organ and piano artists in the West Coast nightclub world.

This spring after a near-fatal accident in an experimental man-carrying kite, he dedicated his life to Christ and the preaching of the gospel. Featured prior to Lenny Sunday evening will be a mixed quartet.

All-Night Prayers Planned

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls First Church of the Nazarene is having another all-night prayer, beginning Saturday evening.

Pastor Joe Chastain says everyone is welcome and anyone may call in requests for prayers with no obligation.

Rev. Chastain will speak Sunday morning on the three commands of God. Music will be furnished by the Men's Quartet.

A guest speaker from the Gideons will fill the pulpit Sunday evening. An accordion solo will be presented by Bobby Roach and Mrs. Robert Stokesberry will sing a solo. A special meeting for Sunday School teachers will be held at 7 p. m. Saturday.

Use Safety Play In Rough Going

A more careful player will note that diamonds don't always divide 3-2. He may try to insure his small slam by ducking a diamond at trick two. East will win and, if East returns a spade, heart or club, South will be able to make his slam in spite of the bad diamond break. If East leads a diamond right back, things won't be quite so happy. South won't be able to collect three club tricks.

This is the time to wear both suspenders and a belt. South must give up any thought of seven and must go after six by cashing his king and queen of clubs and then ducking a diamond to East.

After this supersafety play, there will be no way to keep South from scoring three clubs, five diamonds, two hearts, two spades and game, slam and rubber.

Teacher Disputes ISU Prof

BURLEY — A Burley High School teacher has offered to debate with an Idaho State University educator over his contention that a teacher surplus would allow colleges to concentrate on "quality instead of quantity."

Dahl W. Reed, Burley, Thursday took issue with a statement made by Dr. Loren Scott, chairman of the department of professional preparation at ISU, carried in the Sept. 18 issue of the Times-News.

Dr. Scott was quoted as saying he was not ready to concede there is actually a teacher surplus, but if it really exists it will make it possible for colleges of education to concentrate on quality.

"As an alumnus of ISU I am becoming increasingly hostile and belligerent to the ridiculous accusations made by various groups and individuals who have established themselves as the masterful judges of public schools in Idaho," Reed said, noting that he was "surprised to learn upon reading Dr. Scott's news release that Idaho schools are staffed with near cadavers."

The Burley teacher said "a few years ago we were told that all good, capable teachers were leaving Idaho to go to states which offered higher salaries, leaving the implication that only the fregs of the profession remained in Idaho."

"Now you imply that the classrooms of Idaho are staffed by a bunch of incompetent idiots. I question and challenge the validity of these criticisms leveled by anyone who has not spent a number of years in either the elementary or secondary public schools in Idaho," Reed added.

Candidates Training For Trials

TWIN FALLS — Two College of Southern Idaho cheerleaders elected last spring are training coeds who will be vying for the four remaining positions to be filled next month.

Becky Howard, Hazelton, and Debbie Johnson, Twin Falls, both sophomores, attended a National College Athletic Association workshop earlier this month at Santa Barbara, Calif., and are passing on pointers learned there to cheerleading candidates.

The student senate will select the cheerleaders. Faculty adviser to the 1970-71 squad is Janice Mitterer.

Youths Address Burley Soroptimist Meeting

BURLEY — Guest speakers during the Burley Soroptimist Club meeting Wednesday included Jan Hoffbuhr, named Girl of the Month by the club, and Chad Wilkinson, a 1970 high school graduate.

Miss Hoffbuhr, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hoffbuhr of Burley. She is a senior at Burley High School. She gave a brief review of her school activities, including membership in the Steperettes, a marching group; Bel Cantos choir, student government, and her tasks as student body secretary and as delegate to Girls' State.

She said her plans for the future include college, where she will major in education. She hopes to become a counselor or do social work.

Wilkinson discussed the values of "DECA," the distributive education program in the high school, in which he was an officer for two years. He said the main goal of DECA is to develop appreciation of and respect for education. He told of contests which included laying out of advertisements, preparing displays, using various kinds of merchandise, sales speeches, operating office machines and conducting political campaigns.

It was announced that Founder's Day will be honored Oct. 14. Each member was asked to donate 49 pennies for the occasion.

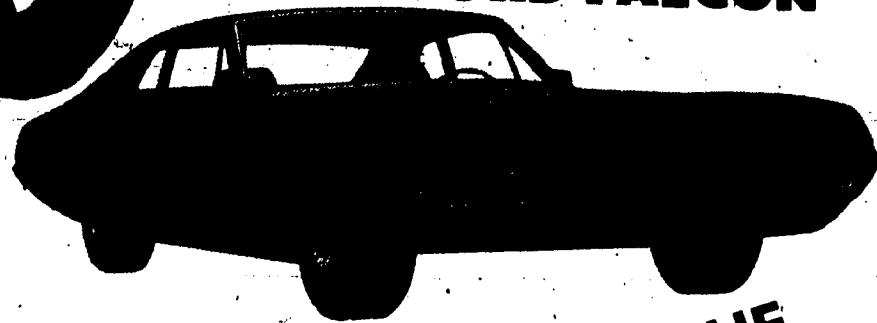

Members were reminded of the state Soroptimist meeting Oct. 18 at Idaho Falls.

TOP CARCASS in the Open to the World Fat Steer Carcass Contest is examined by Richard Brooks, Hazelton, second from right, who raised and fed the black Angus steer for the contest. His steer's carcass outclassed 106 others in the contest. Looking on are Carl Houfberg, manager of the Mule Shoe Bar Ranch, Hammett, breeder of the steer; Ken Topholm, Wall's Northwest Livestock Supply, who awarded a silver trophy to Richard; Richard, and Bill Swan, Rogerson, president of Producers Livestock Marketing Association, sponsor of the contest. Richard also received a $150 check from Producers for having the grand champion carcass.

Hazelton Steer Wins Area Carcass Contest

TWIN FALLS — A 980-pound Angus steer, raised and fed by Richard Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brooks, Hazelton, had the top carcass of the Open to the World Fat Steer Carcass Contest.

For having the grand champion, Richard received a $150 cash award from Producers Livestock Marketing Association, Jerome and Salt Lake City, and a silver award from Wall's Northwest Livestock Supply.

This black Angus steer was bred by the Mule Shoe Bar Ranch, Hammett. It is interesting to note that Richard, his three brothers, Sidney, Harold and Glenn and Deanne Scott, also Hazelton, took a black Angus steer to Portland last fall for the Pacific International Livestock Expo and placed second at the steer show. This winning steer also was a Mule Shoe Bar Ranch steer.

The Brooks family entered four steers, all Angus, in the carcass show and all four were in the top ten. Harold's steer placed fifth in the carcass event with his father's steer placing ninth and Glenn's steer was 10th. Both Glenn and his father's steers were bred by the Mule Shoe Bar Ranch.

Reserve champion carcass was a red Angus, raised and fed by Wayne Ingram, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ingram, Filer.

This steer was bred by Dr. Richard Stapp, Gooding.

For placing second in the contest, Wayne received a $100 check from Producers Livestock Marketing Association and a silver award from Allison Feed Mill, Filer.

Wayne also received a trophy from the 71 Livestock Association for having the ggrand champion junior show carcass.

Third place carcass was a Charolais cross steer owned by Bruce Billington, Twin Falls. Bruce received a $50 cash award from Club 93, Jackpot.

The fourth top carcass also was a Charolais cross steer and it was owned by Greg Hull, Twin Falls. He received a $30 cash award from Amalgamated Sugar Co.

Three steers, an Angus-Hereford cross, owned by Ja Y Gibbs, Kimberly; and two Charolais cross steers, owned by Shella Green, Carey, and Mike Freeman, Wendell, tied for sixth, seventh and eighth places.

Shella's and Mike's steers were the grand champions of Blaine and Gooding County Fairs.

The 107 carcasses entered in this contest were graded by Raymond Kaufman, assistant main station supervisor, grading branch, USDA, Denver, and Otto Florence Jr., general manager of Independent Meat Co. Assisting them was Dave Metzger, Gooding, USDA meat inspector. On foot judge was Dr. Harlan D. Ritchie, associate professor of animal husbandry at Michigan State University.

Complete results of the carcass show have been mailed to the cosignors of all steers, states Herschel Boydston, Twin Falls, head, agricultural department, College of Southern Idaho, and show chairman.

Other sponsors of the carcass contest were Globe Feed and Seed, Molyneux Machinery Co., and Twin Falls Feed and Ice

“Best Balanced” Describes Winner

TWIN FALLS — The No. 1 carcass in the Open to the World Fat Steer Carcass Contest is “the best balanced carcass I have seen.”

This was the comment of Raymond Kaufman, Denver, assistant main station supervisor, grading branch, USDA, one of the official graders who graded the 107 carcasses in the contest.

Kaufman said this one, an Angus steer raised and fed by Richard Brooks, Hazelton, was by far the top of the group.

Otto Florence Jr., general manager of Independent Meat Co., and who helped Kaufman grade the carcasses, related Kaufman's comments.

Otto said Kaufman commented “It had top conformation, prime quality of meat and even cover of backfat.” Kaufman also noted the meat was well marbled and evenly distributed.

Otto said this is the type of meat the average consumer wants today anywhere in the nation. He said any top restaurant or supermarket would take this carcass immediately as it is desirable.

The No. 2 carcass, a red Angus owned by Wayne

Ingram, Filer, was just as good as the top carcass with the exception of the meat quality. Kaufman noted on the grading worksheet the meat was slightly soft, thus costing a point or two, which resulted in placing of second place.

Steer Winners Listed

FILER — Results from the open fat steer class at the Twin Falls County Fair have been announced by the fair board office. The prizes were presented by the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co.

In the 950 to 1000 pound class, Deanne Scott placed first and second; Lila Chadwick, third; Harold Brooks, fourth; Bob Scott, fifth, and Richard Brooks, sixth.

In the 1,005 to 1,050 pound class: Nonpariel Angus, first; John Hays, second; Shella Green, third; Doug Scott, fourth; Mike Freeman, fifth, and Glenn Brooks, sixth.

In the 1,055 pounds and over: Alzola Brothers, first; Mac's Herefords, second; Yago Ranch, third; Jack Messersmith, fourth; Greg Hull, fifth, and Clay Harrison, sixth.

The Alzola Brothers, Greenmere, Idaho, received grand champion rosette and also received the grand champion silver award, with Mac's Herefords, receiving reserve grand champion.

In the junior division 4-H and FFA fat steer class, Lila Chadwick received the grand champion rosette, and Greg Hull, the purple ribbon.

Increase

WASHINGTON — Look for a big increase in slaughter and sharply lower hog prices in first half of 1971 if hog producers carry out their plans to have 17 per cent more sows farrowing this year, reports the USDA.

The larger fall crop in prospect is an extension of the production increase that got under way earlier this year. By fall, pork supplies will be up and hog prices well below last year.

Northwest Forage Lacks Selenium

KIMBERLY — Some forage in the northwest states contains insufficient selenium to meet the needs of animals.

Some plants in the northern great plains and elsewhere contain such high concentrations of selenium that it is toxic to grazing animals. Nevertheless, animals require extremely small amounts of selenium for normal nutrition. Inadequate amounts of selenium in feed results in various nutritional disorders depending upon the kind of animal.

White muscle disease occurs in cattle and sheep as a result of selenium deficiency. Yearly losses from this nutritional disorder in Idaho and the northwest may be in the millions of dollars.

The disorder affects calves and lambs by weakening certain muscles. Heart muscles are the most commonly affected and animals die suddenly from heart failure. In other instances, forequarters, hindquarters or throat muscles may be affected. As a result, mobility and eating may be hampered.

Research at the USDA, Snake River Conservation Research Center at Kimberly, has delineated areas throughout the northwest where forage and hay crops contain insufficient or inadequate amounts of selenium for normal animal nutrition.

The Green Thumb

by GEORGE ABRAHAM

Starting pachysandra: We recently told our readers that if you take cuttings from a pachysandra patch, put them in a glass jar (green) with water, they'll not only make good greenery indoors, but will root faster.

A reader writes: "There are easier ways to start Japanese spurge of pachysandra. Select a shaded spot which can be kept damp and will not be allowed to dry out. Fill a one by two-foot space two inches deep with 50-50 mixture of builder's sand and peatmoss. Dip the cuttings in Rootone and place in rows four inches apart, one inch apart in the row. These will root in three to four weeks if taken when new top growth is near maturity, say June.

"This same method can be used to root them in place, and no transplanting required. Just plant in trenches six inches apart both ways. Planting will fill in completely in three years. A balanced plant food (used for lawns) is beneficial after they've rooted. Liquid plant food (23-19-17) is helpful."

Scarlet runner bean: You can eat the scarlet runner bean seed any time. A reader tells us that when fully developed and dried, the bean seed makes excellent beans for succotash, brown and mealy when combined with corn and a bit of salt pork. Good eating, she says.

Dutch elm disease: Any cure for Dutch elm disease which has ravaged our elms? Not yet, but if a firm known as Elm Research Institute has its say the fight against the disease will be won.

Let's face it, as of today there is no control for the disease which now kills about 1,000,000 trees a year. As you know, elm disease is caused by a fungus, carried by the elm-bark beetle, that plugs the tree's circulatory system. Ever since the disease hit the U. S. in early 1930's, every cure has failed.

Frantic, home owners have tried all sorts of crazy cures such as driving galvanized nails into trunks, injecting turpentine, magnesium sulfate, etc. in trunks and roots — to no avail. One hope for elm lovers is the USDA's efforts to cross the disease-prone American elm with the hardy Siberian elm. The new progeny lacks the grace of the stately American elm.

The other hope is to produce a nontoxic repellent that can be injected into the tree or sprayed on the bark, to ward off the beetles.

If you're looking for more information on what's being done to save the stately elm, write to the Elm Research Institute, 60 West Prospect St. Waldwick, N. Jersey 07463.

Geranium problems: A reader writes: "Last spring I purchased 100 red geraniums in several lots within a period of three weeks. Plants were fed, watered and cared for. Still they didn't do too well. Being curious, we dug up a few and found that whoever started them had wrapped the root in what appears to be a nylon net. We had the job of digging up all the geraniums and removing the netting. We bought others without the netting and they did fine. Those with the netting came along but I'm wondering what the netting was for?"

The netting you speak of is part of what is called a Jiffy-7 pellet, used for starting geraniums and other plants. These are highly compressed pellets about one-fourth inch thick, but when the florist soaked them in water they swelled in minutes into a cylinder one and three-fourths inch in diameter and about two and one-half inch high. The growing medium is enclosed in the plastic net that holds the cylindrical shape. All the florist did was to put the geranium cutting into the top hole in the pellet.

Roots continue to grow right through the net which eventually disintegrates. I doubt if the net really slowed down the growth of the geranium, since hundreds of gardeners and florists swear by these new Jiffy-7 pellets. I feel some other factor was involved.

Friday, September 25, 1970
Question of the week: R. D. of Twin Falls: "Last fall I had a fine show of large golden-orange dahlias. I stored the roots and separated them in spring, planted the tubers when they started to sprout. What happened? This summer they came up white. Why didn't I get the same color as last year?"
—Gladiolus, like chrysanthemums, often "change" colors like yours did. Actually, the plants didn't revert to white as you think. For some reason your golden-orange dahlias died or rotted and the remaining dahlias from your mixtures, being more vigorous, survived. It is true, that many new varieties originate by means of mutation, nature's own process for making new plants.

The gene for color is altered (no one knows why) and you get color changes. This occurs in Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 5 nature with all plants. For example, the Starking apple came from a mutation in only one branch of the delicious variety of apples. The famous gladiolus Picardy, grown by thousands, has produced many color changes or spots. In your case, the outcropping of white blossoms was not due to mutation, or change, but to disease killing off the orange-blossom dahlias.

B. F. of King Hill: "In our local laundrymat I noticed an elderly gentlemen collecting all those empty plastic bottles. I was curious and asked him what he did with them. He said he used them to grow tomato and melon plants. It seems that he punctures a hole (about size of a kidney bean) in the bottom of each. Then he buries each bottle next to a tomato or other plant set in the garden.

"What'll he do if the market falls apart?"

Jim's dad gets a kick out of telling how he started farming on a shoestring. Good health, a quarter section of land, a cooperative wife and a team of horses.

But there've been 45 years of inflation since Dad started. Inflation in everything except price of the cash crop Jim raises.

No wonder Jim borrows money occasionally. And Dad understood, most of the time.

One loan performs four jobs.

But this last deal was too much for his dad. Jim had acted like a kid with a Christmas catalog, and used a Land Bank loan to buy everything. New 4-wheel drive tractor, new machine shed and shop building, 100 acres south of the road, plus leveling 40 acres just behind the house.

"Jim thinks things are tough now. Suppose they get worse. I've seen times when you couldn't find a buyer for the crop. Try to make mortgage payments then," Dad said.

Jim had talked about these problems with the men at the Land Bank. They can't predict the future either. But they are enthusiastic about agriculture's long-term prospects.

Land Bank knows local conditions.

The Land Bank association is local, Jim knows. Its management will be aware of unfavorable market conditions, if they occur.

The Land Bank, owned and controlled by farmers like Jim, has an important new policy to protect its borrowers. It's Variable Interest Rate. Now, when conditions warrant, borrowers will have their cost of money reduced. Important protection, since most experts think interest rates are currently on the high side of the cycle.

Prepayment privilege with no penalty.

Prepayment privilege is another Land Bank benefit. The borrower can repay all or part of his loan in advance, without penalty.

Need long-term credit for agriculture? There's an understanding Land Bank car nearby.

Gooding, Filer Win Contest

TWIN FALLS — The Gooding and Filer FFA chapters recently topped the West Magic FFA District's livestock judging contest held at Filer.

Members of the top team were Jim Arkoosh, Eddy Bilbao and Dean Tschannen. The high individual was Dick Griff, Filer.

Second place team was the Filer team, consisting of Griff, Clyde Schroeder and Mike Velly. Members of the third place team, from Twin Falls, were Mark Carney, Sam Florence and Bob Billington.

The next district contest will be Oct. 15 at Fairfield. It will be on soils and will begin at 2 p. m.

New district officers were elected at the recent district meet. They include Jeff Davis, Twin Falls, president; Larry Kerner, Shoshone, vice president; Durl Messner, Kimberly, secretary; Tom Harris, Wendell, treasurer; Dick Bennett, Hagerman, reporter, and Mitch Barnes, Jerome, sentinel.

Grange Honors Mother, Son

KING HILL — Mrs. John Groefsema, Mountain Home, received a 50-year membership pin and her son, Harvey Groefsema, a 25-year pin at the Mariposa Grange meeting Monday night at the IOOF hall in Mountain Home.

Ermil Jerome, former state master, made the presentations. He spoke about the national convention which will be held in Boise Nov. 9-15. This is only the second time the national meeting has been held in Idaho, he said.

HIGH INDIVIDUAL in the recent West Magic FFA District livestock judging is Dick Griff, Filer. Here he poses with the trophy he received for placing high in the contest.

New Bridge Constructed

RICHFIELD — A new bridge is being constructed at Riverwood Ranch, south Richfield, to replace the 50 year-old structure which collapsed under a farm load of hay this summer.

Sluder Construction Co. is building the bridge, with heavy railroad timbers purchased from Darrell Hobdey of Bliss, and heavy planks moved to the site by Rupert Goicoechea, Riverwood ranch foreman, from Hailey.

The new bridge will also be used as an access road by employees of the Big Wood Canal Co. over Little Wood River. The bridge is approximately 30 feet wide. The former bridge was used extensively for all but the heaviest equipment on the Dietrich canal bridge control project in the desert area south of Richfield.

Idaho Grangers Plan for Meet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert W. Frederick, legislative director of the National Grange, said 1971 policies and programs will be determined Nov. 9-17 when the Grange holds its annual session in Boise, Idaho.

The meeting, the first time since 1933 that the Grange has met in Idaho, will be hosted by the Idaho State Grange under W. E. Adams, Meridian. Gov. Don Samuelson will be guest speaker at a Nov. 8 dinner at the Hotel Boise.

Frederick said there will be over 500 resolutions discussed at the session, including problems and solutions pertaining to pesticides, trade, economic development of rural America, family assistance programs and waterway users tax.

Frederick said the 7,000 local Granges throughout the 38 states would submit resolutions at state meetings and, if approved, would be taken by the master of state Grange to the national session as the policy of that state.

Other agenda items include selection of the 1970 national Grange young couple of the year and national Grange prince and princess, announcement of the grant award winner of the 1970 national Grange Cotton sewing contest, art and photo exhibits, talent finals and needlework exhibits.

Probe on Meat Gets Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has approved legislation to require inspection of all imported livestock products, Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, announced Tuesday.

Jordan said frozen meats will be inspected after thawing.

"Imported meat products presently are permitted to come into the United States and move freely in interstate commerce if the plant producing them has inspection deemed equivalent to federal inspection," Jordan said.

"Recent congressional hearings, however, have pointed out that this 'equal to' objective is not being met.

"We must take all necessary steps to assure that imported meat meets the same standards we have established for meats produced and processed domestically," he said.

"This bill will provide the Department of Agriculture with the necessary authority to achieve that objective."

Meantime, Jordan announced the Senate has approved a bill to amend and extend for five years the Library Services Construction act of 1970.

Prospects Good

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Utah Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced potato yield prospects in Utah, as reported by growers on Sept. 1, were generally favorable.

The forecast of 1.02 million hundredweight is down 23 per cent from last year, as southwest area growers indicate frequent rains during August caused blight in some fields.

Northern area harvest of early variety potatoes is nearly complete at this time.

Production prospects of all three late season fruits are below last year according to the service.

Low production forecasts for apples, peaches and pears are attributed to frost damage, poor pollination, wind, hail and disease.

Apple production, forecast at 32 million pounds, is of 24 per cent from last season. The 13 million pound peach forecast is down 13 per cent from 1969, and pear production is expected to drop 18 per cent from last year to 4,500 tons.

Utah cattlemen have a fairly good outlook for the fall months as the state's ranges continue to produce adequate feed and Utah stock water is listed as generally adequate.

Cattle and Calves have obtained adequate feed so far to maintain them in good condition.

Lincoln County ASC Elects Aides

SHOSHONE — Richard Ward, Lincoln county farmer from Kimama area, was named to the Lincoln County Agricultural Stabilization Committee by delegates to the ASC County Convention, held Tuesday, at the Shoshone ASCS office.

The delegates also selected Eugene Alexander and Wayne Sorensen as chairman and vice-chairman of the three-member county committee, and named Walter Bowman, Dietrich, and Charles Hisaw, Kimama, first and second alternate committeemen.

Mr. Ward, who was vice-chairman of the community committee in the Kimama area, will no longer serve in this capacity since being elected to the county committee. Lenard J. Thompson, first alternate to the committee in the Kimama area, will become a regular member to the committee.

Eugene Alexander is beginning his 26th year as a member of the county committee. He has a farm in the Marley area at Richfield. Mr. Sorensen has a cattle operation in the Shoshone area and begins his second year on the committee. He has served several years on the Shoshone ASC community committee, before being elected to the county committee last year.

The county ASC committee is responsible for local administration of government farm programs such as acreage allotments and bases, price support for eligible crops, wool incentive program payments, and conservation cost-sharing on agricultural lands.

Heat Pump Takes Warmth From Air In Unique Home

TWIN FALLS — Alex Brehm's unique all-electric home uses electricity in a different way to heat a most attractive four-bedroom home, with a furnace known as a "heat pump" which in effect "pumps" heat from the air.

The home, at 589 Butte Drive in Canyon Crest subdivision, was built for Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wetzel, and features an open layout with an easy traffic pattern that lends itself to comfortable living. A used-brick exterior, oversize garage and large flower court greet the visitor, and an unusual carved-wood front door hints at the luxury inside.

An entryway of quarry tile leads visitors past a wrought-iron gate which guards the stairs to the basement. Fully carpeted and draped, the formal living room with a white brick fireplace is exquisite. The formal dining room is just a few steps from the U-shaped kitchen which features a comfortable dinette area.

Solid oak cabinets in the kitchen blend into the furnishings perfectly.

The home includes three "powder rooms," including a full bath just off the master bedroom with unusual black-and-white vinyl wallpaper, a half-bath and a three-quarters bath.

In the ample basement, a large family room, well-equipped half-bath and bar for entertaining, along with a large walk-in storage closet for liquor or what-have-you speaks of parties and fun. The downstairs bedroom is just off the family room.

A Lennox heat pump takes residual heat from the surrounding air, condenses it and uses it to heat the house — even at below-freezing temperatures. At about 20 degrees outside temperature, a heating coil kicks in to add heat, and at zero, two coils are used; but otherwise, no artificial heat is needed.

Home-Building Pace Expected To Soar

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Commerce Department predicts the pace of home building next year will be the brisker since 1968 as the housing industry climbs out of the "tight money" slump of 1969 and 1970.

The department forecasts that construction will be started next year on 1,535,000 conventionally built units, up about 15 per cent from the 1,335,000 predicted for this year.

If the forecast hits the target, 1971 housing production would be near the level of the three best years of the 1960s, when 1,642,000 units were started in 1963, 1,562,000 in 1964 and 1,548,000 in 1968.

But home building will still lag behind the pace needed to meet the goal of 26 million new or rehabilitated housing units in the 10 years from 1968 to 1978.

The government says the goal must be met if the world's richest nation is to provide a decent home for all its citizens, a still unfulfilled promise made more than 20 years ago.

The housing industry went into a slump in the spring of 1969 after the Federal Reserve

Board voted to put a tight lid on the supply of money and credit in an effort to control inflation.

New homes were started at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of about 1.9 million units in January, 1969. But the rate fell to a low of 1 million units last January. The recovery began this spring and pushed the annual rate to 1.5 million units in July.

Commerce predicted a total of 1,335,000 units would be started this year, down 11 per cent from 1969's total of 1,500,000.

The National Association of Home Builders was more optimistic than the government about 1971's prospects. The association's chief economist, Michael Sumichrast, predicted 1,600,000 units will be started next year.

In addition to the conventionally-built homes, Commerce predicted a total of 450,000 mobile homes will be manufactured next year. That would be up 6 per cent from this year but is more than double the mobile home production recorded just five years earlier.

The Nixon administration earlier this year rewrote the 26 million housing goal to include mobile homes. However, even including mobile homes, the goal appears increasingly difficult to reach.

If the Commerce Department forecasts of housing production are borne out this year and next year, it will mean that 5,658,000 units, including mobile homes, will have been produced in the first three years of the target decade.

To reach the goal of 26 million units by 1978, construction would have to average almost 3 million units annually for seven years. That is about 50 per cent more than the best years on record.

ATTRACTIVE LIGHTING fixtures are included in Alex Brehm's "Conquistador" home at 589 Butte Drive, one of a number of homes featured in the 1970 Parade of Homes. This chandelier-style fixture highlights a sizeable dining area just off the roomy kitchen.

"The Melanie"

"THE MELANIE," by Leo Bastian of Key Building and Lighting Center, offers gracious living in a well-designed home. The living-dining-room "ell" stretches across the rear of the house for 43 feet, separated by an open stairway which leads to a large playroom which in turn features a beautiful rock fireplace. The kitchen features I-XL cupboards and electric appliances. Beautiful lighting throughout the house highlights the roomy look of the all-electric home with no-flame heating and plentiful insulation. The Melanie is located at 736 Green Acres Drive, north of the crowded city, just off of Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Proper Windows Deemed Key To Home Comfort

TWIN FALLS — Looked at the windows in your home lately? Ever inspect the windows in a home you're planning to buy (or build)?

You should, according to Leo

Bastian of Key Building and Lighting Center, on North Blue Lakes Boulevard. He's an experienced home-builder and designer, and has definite ideas about how homes should be built.

Most people ignore the windows in a new home — "if they look good and tight, they forget them," Bastian said recently. However, the windows are the key to comfort and economy in any home; if they let drafts in, they also let heat out.

Double-pane windows, sealed to provide an air-tight seal between the panes of glass, are the only kind to use in any new home, according to Bastian, who insists on only the best in his homes.

Oregon Tradition Continues

In the heart of the rich Willamette Valley on what was part of one of the first homesteads in Oregon, a tradition continues today that was begun in 1865; the manufacture of Flint Ridge Fine Furniture. R. Veal and Son, a firm owned and operated by the Veal family since 1885, is the West's oldest furniture-manufacturing company.

In the beginning when the factory's power came from a waterwheel on the Willamette River, the principal product was the rawhide chair. Pioneers brought the originals across the plains early in the 1800's. Light in weight yet strong and durable, the popularity of the chairs spread quickly. Prospectors carried them in their packs, miners had them in their cabins, and there was hardly a frontier home without one.

If there are any genuine Northwest "antiques" these stalwart chairs would have to be counted among them. In fact a great many of the originals are still in service today, — refinished perhaps, but as solid and substantial as the day Robert Veal made them.

Now covering five acres, the Veal plant is almost totally self-contained. Each department is deliberately small so that every operation can be closely supervised. The firm even operates their own sawmill so that even such matters as the selection of which logs are chosen for use in the furniture is carefully controlled. The plant is a rare combination of old and new.

Old skills and traditionally fine workmanship have been carefully preserved together with modern technology and improved machinery. Each finished piece of furniture is still a work of superior craftsmanship in the finest American tradition.

Today's Flint Ridge Fine Furniture is designed by a Westerner for Western living, and built for generations of use. In appearance it reflects the grace and charm so typical of traditional Colonial furniture from that colorful period in American history. It is ageless in design, for whether purchased in a complete set, or a piece at a time over a period of years, so long as Americans cherish Colonial furniture, Flint Ridge will be "in style".

All large surface areas are made of scientifically bonded birch panels. In the company's tradition of catering to Northwest needs as well as tastes, the furniture is built to withstand Northwest climates, be they warm and dry or cool and damp. This is one brand which will never warp, twist or split as less expensive construction has a marked tendency to do.

The veneer used is cut from hardy stands of Oregon birch and oak — the finest available.

INTRICATELY CARVED entry door highlights the unusual decor of Alex Brehm's "Conquistador" at 589 Butte Drive. A glass panel backs up the "spindles" in the upper portion of the door, giving the householder a glimpse of his visitors before opening the door.

All solid wood used is made from choice logs selected with expert judgment gained through years of experience. The lumber cut in Veal's own sawmill is seasoned and dried under close supervision in order to control and maintain perfect quality from the birth of each piece of Flint Ridge.

Every piece of Flint Ridge has a rich warm patina made possible only through meticulous old fashioned finishing. Ten individual finishing processes bring out the depth and beauty of the delicate grain so characteristic of the fine woods used. There is no mass production here. Each piece is individually finished by men skilled in their craft.

The stain used is oil, and it is applied only to those pieces which pass careful inspection. It dries slowly, penetrating deeply into the wood, and gives a color which will not fade or change in sunlight as readily as other more superficial stains are prone to do. The special stain finish is more durable, yet mellower than ordinary lacquer. It is baked on and does not scratch as easily. Yet it is so hard, it is impervious to even such common spills as nail polish remover. Decades of Flint Ridge owners think there is no finer finish.

Listed in the latest catalog is the firm's first really new introduction in many, many years — Spanish dining room furniture, rich in color, elegant in design and functional in purpose.

'The Francine'

LEO BASTIAN'S "Francine", at 722 Green Acres Drive, complements the new housing area off of Blue Lakes Boulevard North with a long-and-low home that offers a simplicity of design which blends into any setting. Three bedrooms, two baths and a utility room, all on one floor, provide comfortable one-level living.

The floor plan permits an easy flow of traffic while a large separate living room offers quiet privacy. Sculptured oak cabinets by I-XL highlight the Mediterranean styling of the home. An attractive family room features a large fireplace and sliding glass doors to a backyard patio. Many luxury items are included in the Francine, including marble vanity countertops in the bathrooms, attractive shower facilities and new and different medicine cabinets. As are the majority of the homes built by Leo Bastian, owner of Key Building and Lighting Center, the Francine features all-electric heating throughout.

Would You Pay $16,000 For A Bed?

Would you spend $16,000 for a bed?

Most homemakers wouldn't, although several years ago, the wife of a newly-elected president of an African nation reportedly spent this much on a good bedstead that caught her fancy in a London shop. (P.S. Her husband is no longer in office.)

But a growing number of quality-conscious homemakers will spend from $250 to $450 for a good mattress and box spring set, which represents a substantial jump from the $79 mattress that was regarded as tops two years ago.

So reports Joseph L. Carman III, president of Spring Air Northwest, Tacoma, Wash., a leading bedding manufacturer. He notes that growing affluence and a desire for "the best money can buy" are responsible for the increased demand for higher-priced bedding.

"As people's income rises, so do their tastes and their desire for comfort and luxury," he reported. "While a budget-priced double bed may have been suitable when a couple was first married, today that same couple wants something better."

This is reflected in the fact that they probably now live in a bigger, more expensive house; spend more on furniture, including a good bedroom set; and are increasingly conscious of the role that a good night's sleep plays in their physical health and mental outlook.

Back in 1953, the price of a

Odd Creature

The sea potato, also known as the heart urchin, burrows itself into the ocean floor, stretches its vacuumlike legs up through the sandy bottom to suck up food, then draws its legs back down through the sand.

top mattress was $79, which is exactly what it was two years ago, until consumers "began to seek out something more luxurious," Carman noted. "At first, there was some disbelief that people would accept a higher priced mattress, but no longer."

One indication of the trend came in the willingness of homemakers to pay extra for queen-size (60-inch wide) and king size (76-inch wide) bedding. Another factor was the added appeal given by fancier tickings, included brocades and damasks, that replaced the drab striped covers once common.

"Most manufacturers now start their top-of-the-line models at $89 for a twin or full size-mattress or box-spring," Carman reported. "Above that point, the price increases in line with the added features, more expensive ticking, and detailed tailoring."

An example of the trend toward deluxe higher-priced bedding is the Majestic Back Supporter by Spring Air. Suggested retail prices are $250 for a twin or full-size set; $320 for a queen-size set; and $450 for a king-size set.

"One easily visible difference is the cover or ticking of the mattress," Carman said. "On the Majestic, this is a multi-color Tapestry Damask that looks expensive and is. The ticking is quilted to a double layer of Dacron and urethane foam for the greatest degree of surface comfort."

Other models in the Back Supporter line began as low as $89.95, and all include the exclusive Karr innerspring construction which provides a comfortable surface with firm inner support. Foam rubber models are also available.

"But perhaps the convincing argument for really luxurious bedding is the low cost when spread out over the guaranteed life of the mattress," Carman said. "On the $450 Majestic Back Supporter set, which has a guarantee of 20 years, the cost per night is 6 cents."

Use Care in Selling

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
NEW YORK (UPI) —If you're putting your home on the market—take some tips from the experts.

Homequity, Inc., is a company which helps thousands of transferred executives with their real estate problems, under contract with their employers.

Homequity purchases a relocating employee's home, at appraised fair market value, making available to him immediately his full equity in cash and thereby giving him mobility for finding a new home.

With its guarantee to purchase the home at a specified price, Homequity also gives the employee a 30-day option of attempting to sell his home himself, if he thinks he can realize a higher price than the appraised value. If he succeeds, Homequity assumes the details of the sale and advances the employee his equity plus anything gained from the higher sale price.

For those individuals attempting to sell their own homes, John Huggins, vice president of marketing for the nationwide real estate firm, has the following suggestions—good for any would-be seller:

—Get as much earnest money or down payment as you can for a binder—cash, certified check, ordinary check (which should be cashed promptly), or other cash equivalent. Be skeptical of promissory notes. This initial deposit should be forfeitable to you if the buyer fails to perform. This is your best protection against a "weak" buyer. If he can't or won't produce a respectable sum in cash or its equivalent, forfeitable in case he defaults, beware!

—Establish deadlines—specific dates—on or before which each contingency must be completed by the buyer; the sooner the better. A firm commitment for a loan should not take more than about 15 days (30 for an FHA loan, 45 with a VA loan), and closing should occur within another 15 days after that (possibly 30 for VA.). Cash or assumption sales without new financing usually can be closed within 15 or 20 days total.

—Avoid offers which are contingent upon the sale of other property by the buyer. Your agreement should require any such buyer to sell his other property at a stated price—which you have good reason to think he can do—within the time you allow him to do it (normally 30-60 days at most). Otherwise, he can tie up your home for extended periods while he attempts to get too high a price for the other property. In this situation, always reserve the right to sell to another buyer at any time, unless he commits himself immediately in writing to the more favorable terms you can get from the second purchaser.

—An exact real estate broker's commission should be payable only when and if title passes or upon willful default by the seller, and not otherwise.

—Do not accept responsibility for any vague or poorly defined "closing costs." Put an upper dollar limit on any necessary items which cannot be accurately determined until later, especially "discount points" on financing. Insist that the purchaser pay his full share.

—The agreement should show that the buyer has inspected the premises, is satisfied with the condition "as is," and you should make no representations or warranties as to condition.

—If you allow the buyer to take over your present mortgage, be sure that he will "formally assume and agree to pay" the loan, that the total sale price is fixed regardless of what the loan balance may be at the closing, and that he will reimburse you for all monies being held by the mortgagee for payment of taxes, or insurance (the "escrow" or "impounds" account), if any.

—Make no special or unusual concessions to the purchaser.

'The Spacemaster'

"THE SPACEMASTER," by Wills, Inc., offers plenty of space and luxury appointments throughout. The home is located on Princeton Avenue, at the corner of Locust Street North, and is one of two Wills homes featured in the 1970 Parade of Homes.

'Spacemaster' Offers Space For Fine Living

TWIN FALLS — One of the most luxurious homes on display in the 1970 Parade of Homes is "The Spacemaster," by Wills, Inc., at 1503 Princeton. The Spacemaster features space and comfortable living on a large corner lot that is a treat to the eye of the beholder.

The home is heated by a gas furnace with an attached air-conditioning unit to ease those hot summer days. A unique feature is that all utilities, including electric lines, are underground; there are no overhead wires to mar the scenery.

A spacious two-car carport offers plenty of storage space, with a "sun-switched" yard light operated by an electric "eye" which turns itself on at dusk. The covered entry walkway provides all-weather carport access, while the attractive front entrance door invites one and all to come and visit.

Three large bedrooms feature family-sized wardrobe closets, while wall-to-wall carpeting in the bedrooms, as well as the living room and hall prevent chilled feet during winter nighttime excursions around the house.

Wood paneling and white-brick fireplace highlight the spacious family room, speaking of comfortable living the year around.

Other features of the Spacemaster include an open kitchen area with pass-through cupboards into the dining area, kitchen cabinets with a stained birch finish and a built-in electric range and dishwasher.

Laundry facilities can be provided in a convenient hideaway space, while a quick-recovery hot-water heater insures plenty of water.

The master bedroom has the comfort of an adjoining half-bath with shower.

Finally, storm windows throughout prevent winter winds from whistling through and make for truly cozy living.

Air-Powered 'Hammer' Speeds Work

TWIN FALLS — Want to pound a nail in a hurry? Use compressed air!

That's the technique used by Regal Homes, whose factory is located 4½ miles east of Twin Falls on Kimberly Road, and a quarter-mile south. Regal builds homes in a hurry, on a unique assembly-line system, and can't waste time in hammering.

Lyle Frazier, general manager of Regal, pointed out that the air-powered "hammers" can pound a 16-penny nail through a two-by-four plank in a split second with great accuracy — and with no pound marks which are frequently the result of missing the nail with a hammer.

The air guns are made in a wide variety of sizes, and handle a wide variety of nails, from brads used in plywood to the larger nails. The nails are loaded into the device in a "cartridge" fashion.

'The Medalist'

A MODEST HOME is "The Medalist" by Regal Homes, located at the Regal plant just east of Kimberly and a quarter-mile south of Kimberly Road. The home is shown in a typical setting on the foundation. "The Medalist" features three large bedrooms, including a 12-by-12 foot master bedroom. Built for comfortable living, Regal's second entry in the 1970 Parade of Homes also features the unique asset of portability. It is constructed on Regal's assembly line and taken by flatbed truck — in two sections — to the buyer's own lot and placed on his foundation. "The Medalist" is constructed to go over a full basement, though a Regal home may be built for foundation only.

A COMPACT COMBINATION gas furnace and air conditioner takes little space in "The Spacemaster" home by Wills, Inc., at 1503 Princeton Drive. The hose leading from the air conditioner carries the condensate outside to a compressor and condenser at the side of the house.

'The Mountain-Dweller'

The Rustic Look

A MOST UNUSUAL HOME is Regal Homes' "Mountain Dweller," designed to be "at home" in a wide variety of settings, ranging from a mountainside to a suburban setting. The structure is built to order by Regal on a massive assembly line at the Regal factory just east of Kimberly.

Unusual Home Featured

Assembly-Line Homes? Easy!

TWIN FALLS — For a home with the "rustic look," the "Mountain Dweller," built by Regal Homes, fills the bill to perfection.

The Mountain Dweller was designed by Lyle Frazier of Regal to fit into any setting — rural, mountainous, lakeside or most anywhere. It can serve as a fishermen's cabin, as a resort hideaway or as a comfortable family dwelling.

The Mountain Dweller features two bedrooms and two complete baths, one on each end of the angular structure. The roomy kitchen, spacious living room and cozy dining nook are more centrally located, separating the bedrooms.

The Mountain Dweller is built of stained-wood planking to accentuate the rustic effect, in contrast to many of the other homes in the 1970 Twin Falls Parade of Homes. Porches both front and rear allow the occupants to enjoy the evening breezes while watching for the fish to rise, or to relax before heading for bed.

The Mountain Dweller is electrically heated, eliminating the need for additional fuel supplies.

The dwelling can be built on order by Regal and will be trucked to the owner's foundation anywhere within 300 miles at no extra cost.

The average Oregon family consumes more than a ton of dairy products a year.

TWIN FALLS — Problem: Build homes to order; build them with sturdy construction — but build them so they can be transported wherever the owner desires. But don't build them as mobile homes.

This sizeable assignment has been met with perfection by Regal Homes, Inc., located 4½ miles east of Twin Falls on the Kimberly Road, then a quarter-mile south — just west of Kimberly a ways, you might say.

Regal Homes — has inaugurated a brand-new — for this area, anyway — method of building homes: On an assembly line. The homes, built to the specific orders of the customer are put together in a cavernous factory on an unusual assembly line — actually moved along on the line by floating on a cushion of compressed air.

The homes are built in two equal sections; all interior walls, flooring, insulation, and the like put carefully in place during the assembly. Lyle

Frazier, general manager of Regal, said an average home could be constructed in "about a week" after the order is received, if all goes well and if the customer is in a hurry.

After construction, the homes will be trucked in the two sections anywhere within 300 miles by Regal as a part of the purchase contract, and placed on the buyer's foundation. The two sections are joined together in a weatherproof joint which is so tight that "you can't tell where they were joined together," Frazier said.

Homes can be built to go over full basements or over no-basement foundations, depending on the buyer's needs, Frazier said.

Lots of Earthquakes
Of the 50,000 earthquakes that occur annually over the earth, about 100 are large enough to produce substantial destruction if they are centered near inhabited areas, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Furniture Industry Grows In Northwest

When one thinks of Northwest industries, visions of airplanes and tall timber frequently come to mind.

There are many other industries here however, including one modest giant which quietly goes about its business of making life in "God's Country" more gracious and comfortable for those who call the Pacific Northwest home. The giant is the furniture manufacturing industry.

His "heart" is in the Portland area, where 12 of the 13 Oregon furniture manufacturers, most of them 'gigantic' in their own right are located. Portland is home to such renowned firms as B. P. John, the largest furniture manufacturing company west of the Mississippi, Portland Furniture Manufacturing — makers of the famous Biltwell Furniture, Barker, Fashioncraft, Sealy Mattress, Tempo, Sterling and Rose City Upholstery.

Other Oregon furniture producers are Leonetti Furniture, a young but thriving firm already a major producer of contemporary upholstered furniture, and R. Veal and Sons, Albany, Oregon, the oldest furniture manufacturer in the West.

This interesting company traces their history back nearly a century to a man named Robert Veal, whose 'Western ladderback' chairs with rawhide seats were the dream of nearly every woman who survived the rigors of the Oregon Trail. There was hardly a pioneer home without at least one of the sturdy chairs.

Robert Veal's descendants still produce the ever popular ladderbacks, plus an equally beautiful line of Colonial furniture which ranks among the finest of its type in the nation. The giant's "Head" is in the Puget Sound region of Washington, with more "giants" located in both Seattle, Tacoma, and the suburbs connecting them.

Seattle claims such names as Haroldson Industries, Magnuson Furniture, Northwestern Furniture, and such bright young brands as Magna Design, Barton Wood Products, Brandrud Manufacturing (suppliers of the beautiful furnishings in the Seattle Space Needle), Foremost Furniture, and to the south in Kent, Lynch Furniture.

Tacoma, home of the Evergreen State's largest aggregate of furniture manufacturers, boasts Spring Air Northwest, Educator's Manufacturing Co., Junior Line Furniture, Northwest Chair Co., Holy Corp., Serta Mattress and another of the very old furniture makers, Slyter Chair — now under the direction of Trebe Maule, grandson of the founder.

This distinguished executive is following in his grandfather's footsteps in another area too. His grandfather was founder of the Northwest Furniture Manufacturers' Association. Maule is 1970 NWFMA president — the first 'second-generation' president in the group's history.

The actual contributions this industry makes and has made over the years, is far more than just furniture. The Portland and Tacoma firms, for instance, were a one time among those cities' biggest employers. Furnishing the Northwest was big business, and it took big companies employing a great many men to do the job. The industry and the population grew together, and both have come of age here now.

Sofa, Love Seat Group Offered

One of the new introductions by Leonetti Furniture is the Juan Carlos sofa and love-seat group.

Repeating a simple pedestal spindle, the new corner sectional arrangement states a style theme that is echoed in the cut of the back cushions, and can be carried out in many ways in tables and accessories.

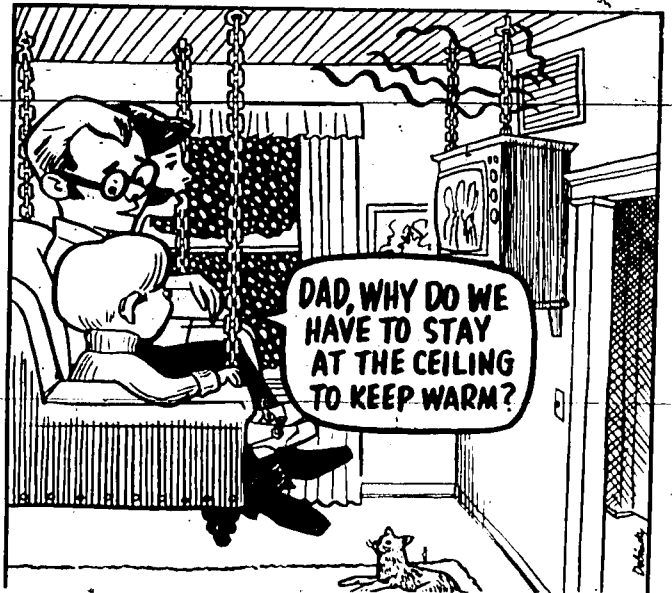

The understated sofa style was designed to blend, not clash, with today's generally richly detailed table groups.

The wood is finished as slightly-distressed dark oak. New fabrics shown on the group are all hand quilted, blending brighter color like gold, sunset orange, or red with olives in a bold spanish design. A complete assortment of over 100 fabrics are available.

Suitable accent chairs in correlated velvet fabrics are included in the group accessory pieces.

'The Futura'

A SMALLER HOME, the "Futura" by Wells, Inc., offers economy and comfort in a well-laid-out design with three bedrooms and large bathroom, along with basement room for two more bedrooms and another bath, which could be constructed in future years. A large living room and sizeable kitchen-dining room combination testify to the family-oriented planning that went into the home. A compact but efficient gas furnace provides even heat, while the small size of the furnace saves space in the roomy basement. Plentiful insulation in walls and ceiling, plus storm windows and doors will save fuel bills. Electrical features include a 52-gallon quick-recovery hot-water heater, built-in electric range, wiring for a clothes drier, and underground service facilities. The home is located at North Locust and Princeton in north Twin Falls.

A LIGHT, AIRY KITCHEN with ample cupboard space on both sides of the double-compartment sink is one of the many features of "The Futura," by Wells, Inc., at 817 Locust St. N. The kitchen faces west in this model, including even, non-glare lighting from the sky in the morning hours. Spacious counter space on both sides of the sink smooth the job of cooking and serving for the housewife.

FAREWELL BACKACHES
If your home is equipped with a hydronic (modern hot water) home heating system, it may be worthwhile to investigate adding automatic snow melting, advises the National Better Heating-Cooling Council. Furniture Buyers Turn To Imports

Today's customer of upholstered furniture is buying more imported fabrics than ever before. Fred Leonetti, president of Leonetti Furniture, revealed the results of a just completed national survey that shows that imported upholstery fabrics now account for five per cent of all the fabrics used.

In the Pacific Northwest, Leonetti noted that Belgium velvets were the largest category being used, with strong and growing demand since they recently became available on sofas selling for less than $400.

The traditional colors of olive and gold are very popular in the imports, but new colors of gold and black, and mixtures of white, olive and blue are also being more widely used by the more fashion and color-conscious consumer.

Leonetti, who returned from Europe in September, revealed that his firm will introduce several new imports at the winter furniture markets. One particular fabric, although the most expensive Leonetti has ever used on a large scale, will be featured on a large crescent shaped sofa to sell for less than $400.

Another import will introduce a new Mediterranean group where both sofa and loveseat will sell for less than $500.

"More travel by people is affecting the furniture they purchase" declared F. Richard Leonetti, sales manager of Leonetti Furniture.

comfortable living with three bedrooms and a bath and a half. Heated by electricity, via ceiling cables, the Montclair has earned the Gold Medallion as an all-electric home. A spacious front yard and capacious back yard allow a wide variety in landscaping.

A FIREPLACE in the basement family or party room highlights nighttime and weekend fun in Alex Brehm's "Conquistador" on Butte Drive. The used-brick design of the fireplace creates an air of informal, pleasant living; while the roomy storage space on either side of the fireplace suggests a variety of uses.

BRIDGE GENERATION GAP

One way for parents to bridge the generation gap with their teen-agers, advises the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, is to modernize their heating systems with hydronic (modern hot water) baseboard heating. If they find they still have a problem communicating, at least they'll be more comfortable in their misery.

CONTACT CONTRACTOR

If you plan any type of home improvement this year, remember that adding heat will make it livable all year long. Most important, advises the National Better Heating-Cooling Council, consult a heating contractor. He will know how to balance the heat so that you will be most comfortable.

Snoring Proves Perennial Problem

Have you ever awakened suddenly during the night for no apparent reason? If so, it might have been your own snoring that woke you up!

Experts at the Serta Sleep Center (Snore Division) who have been investigating the phenomenon of snoring tell us that even while you sleep, your hearing continues to function. It's possible to snore loudly enough to wake yourself up . . . then once you're awake, the snoring stops and you can't figure out why you woke up!

But don't feel badly, for snoring is a universal problem. One out of every eight people is a snorer — or about 25 million people in the United States alone! And the Serta Sleep Center says, this includes the ladies. Yes, many women snore — but they're quite sensitive about it and are usually mortally offended if their spouses accuse them.

If snoring is a problem in your household, you may be interested in learning some facts about this problem. According to the Serta Sleep Center, snoring occurs in the deepest part of sleep when you are most relaxed. So, if your partner is snoring, he or she is probably enjoying the most restful part of the night's sleep. What a shame to wake him up!

Snoring, by the way, is not harmful or unhealthy. It is caused by a vibration in the soft palate and other soft structures in the nose and throat in response to the in and outflow of air. Sometimes snoring can occur due to a tonsil, adenoid or nasal irregularity, in which case a physician should be consulted.

Actually, snoring is a bit like the weather — everybody talks about it, but nobody does much about it. However, Americans seem to be eternally optimistic — for over 300 snore-curtailling devices have been registered, according to the United States Patent Office. Through the years anti-snoring methods — both patented and unpatented — have included avoiding alcohol before retiring; doing breathing exercises to help the snorer regain proper neuromuscular control of the tongue, soft palate and jaws and wearing a metal collar to extend the neck.

Devices also have been invented that alter the shape of the mouth to prevent the tongue from falling into a snoring position. From the time of the American Revolution we have this tip: sew a hairbrush or other hard object to the back of the snorer's nightshirt. This hopefully prevents him or her from resuming the favorite snoring position, of sleeping on the back.

Benjamin Harrison, 29th U.S. president, was the grandson of William Henry Harrison, 9th president.

And one mid-19th century sage soberly advised that if a snorer would go to sleep nightly balancing a feather on his nose, he would be cured for sure.

There really doesn't seem to be any sure cure for the snoring problem — other than separate bedrooms. But the one best way to avoid the problem is for the non-snorer to make every effort to fall asleep before the snorer — with cotton in the ears!

And the sure way to induce sleep quickly, the Serta sleep experts say, is to make certain your mattress offers the right combination of comfort and support. An old, tired, lumpy mattress is not snore-proof! Pleasant dreams!
