Nixon Asked To Call Campus 'Cease Fire'

BY ARNOLD SAWISLAK
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's Commission on Campus Unrest pleaded Saturday for a "national cease-fire" among students, police and politicians and urged Nixon himself to lead the way.

In what it termed the most important of a long list of recommendations to stop violence and disruption the commission said:

"Only the President has the platform and prestige to urge all Americans, at once, to step back from the battlelines into which they are forming. Only the President, by example and instruction, can effectively calm the rhetoric of both public officials and protestors whose words in the past have too often helped further divide the country, rather than reunite it." The commission denounced violence in any quarter and proposed that anyone who uses violence be charged and punished as criminals, but said dissent and disagreement short of violence absolutely had to be protected.

Former Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania, the commission chairman, presented the report without public ceremony to the President just 15 weeks after Nixon called for recommendations to avoid further disturbances of the type that disrupted U.S. campuses after the United States' Cambodia incursion April 30.

After seeing Nixon, Scranton was asked about the President's moral and political leadership in healing the divisions described in the commission's report.

"Since the episodes of last spring, there has not been the kind of leadership needed to bring about the kind of reconciliation that we're talking about," Scranton replied.

He said he did not think the president or his administration shared the commission's deep belief in the need for urgent action to repair these divisions, which he said are "far more compelling and are growing far faster than most Americans realize."

The commission said the Indochina War, racism and the colleges themselves were responsible for student unrest.

In its charge to Nixon, the panel said:

"Nothing is more important than an end to the war in Indochina. Disaffected students see the war as a symbol of moral crisis in the nation which, in their eyes, deprives even law of its legitimacy."

Nixon made no public statement about the report, which ran 359 typewritten pages, but was quoted by aides as telling Scranton not to worry if the document was controversial.

"I don't want a bunch of intellectual eunuchs around here."

The commission said there was a "crisis of violence" and another of "understanding."

"Students who bomb and burn are criminals. Police and National Guardsmen who needlessly shoot or assault students are criminals."

"All who applaud these criminal acts share in their evil."

We must declare a national cease-fire.

"A nation driven to use the weapons of war upon its youth is a nation on the edge of chaos," it said. "A nation that has lost the allegiance of part of its youth is a nation that has lost part of its future."

The 10-member panel made clear it had no sympathy for "a small minority of politically extreme students and faculty members and a small group of dedicated agitators who are bent on destruction of the university through violence in order to gain their own political ends."

"Perpetrators of violence must be identified, removed from the university as swiftly as possible and prosecuted vigorously by the appropriate agencies of law enforcement," it said.

Speaking to the President, the report urged him not only to end the Indochina War but to "renew the national commitment to full social justice and to be aware of increasing charges of repression."

"We recommend to him that he takes steps to see to it that the words and deeds of government do not encourage belief in these charges," the commission said.

"We recommend that the President seek to convince public officials and protestors alike that divisive and insulting rhetoric is dangerous. In the current political campaign and throughout the years ahead, the President should insist that no one play irresponsible politics with the issue of 'campus unrest.'"

The commission also proposed:

Nixon should call "a series of national meetings designed to foster understanding among those who are now divided."

The government should offer "greatly increased financial aid for black colleges and universities" and formerly all-white schools should step up minority student recruitment.

The government should enact "strict controls of the sale, transfer and possession of explosive materials" to meet the increasing threats of arson and bombing.

Police and guardsmen should carry rifles and shotguns on campuses only when there is sniping or armed resistance. Guardsmen need more and better training to cope with civil disorders as well as special non-lethal weapons and protective equipment.

Universities should make clear to students what kind of conduct will not be permitted, and should waste no time calling police when violence erupts.

CHAIRMAN of the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, William Scranton, presents the commission's report to President Nixon at the White House Saturday. (UPI)

Arabs Free Hostages

By United Press International
 Palestinian guerrillas announced Saturday they would free the remaining 38 hostages from three airliners hijacked earlier this month, and Jordan's military governor later announced 32 of them had been received by the Jordanian army. All the hostages are American.

The brief announcement by Marshal Habes Al-Majali on Amman radio made no mention of the fate of the other six hostages, and there was no further statement by the guerrillas.

The 32 Americans "are now under the protection of Jordanian armed forces," Majali said in the announcement.

An earlier statement by the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP), the Marxist guerrilla group that hijacked the planes Sept. 6 and 9, said all of the 38 hostages remaining would be released through the Egyptian embassy in Amman and turned over to International Red Cross representatives in the Jordanian capital.

The other six hostages apparently remained in the custody of the guerrillas.

About the same time Majali made his announcement in Amman, a group of 16 others who had been among the hostages before being freed earlier in the week arrived in London aboard a British Royal Air Force (RAF) plane. Relatives waiting to greet them at London airport applauded as the eight Britons, six Swiss and two Germans disembarked.

The 16 expressed varied descriptions of their feelings during their confinement, first in a large house and later in small quarters in Amman. But they all said they were well treated.

"We were sure we would get back alive, but we did not know when," said Capt. Fritz Schreiber, who was the pilot of a Swissair DC8 hijacked Sept. 6. He described the guerrillas as "very friendly."

But John Lindsay, the second officer of a British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) VC10 hijacked Sept. 9, felt differently.

Hassles 'Delay' Sawtooth Action

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
 Times-News Elder
 TWIN FALLS — Idaho Rep. Orval Hansen sees little hope of an early agreement on a national park or a national recreational area in the White Clouds-Sawtooth Mountains.

The snag, he says, is "bias and prejudice."

In a telephone interview from his Washington offices Saturday, he said he is "particularly disappointed at some of the accusations of bias and prejudice that have been directed" at members of the House subcommittee on parks and recreation. The panel held a hearing at Sun Valley in August.

"It has been a long hard struggle to get committee hearings in Idaho in order to move some legislation before further delays result in irreparable injury to the Sawtooth Valley and the White Cloud Peaks," he said.

"I am hopeful that as a result of these hearings we can find a formula on which enough people will agree to permit prompt action in the next Congress."

"In view of the sharp differences and the acrimony which have developed, however, I am not optimistic about the prospects for reaching early agreement."

Rep. Hansen was contacted following a wave of unfavorable public reaction to the methods used in holding the Sun Valley hearing.

The Times-News, which had been editorially critical on this score, also had been critical of an air-ground inspection of the area made by committee members and their staff the members the day before the Sun Valley hearing.

The Times-News had said members of the press were not invited to go on this tour because "so many staff members wanted to go" and "there was no room" while, in fact, seven wives of Congressmen and staff members made the trip.

During the telephone interview, Rep. Hansen was asked to comment on these charges.

"I read the editorial with a great deal of interest and believe that I can shed some light on the situation which prompted the editorial," he said.

First, arrangements for the trip were made by the forest service and that he "fully supports them" in their decision.

"I believe the tour around the area, even though it had to be limited to one day, was essential to give the members of the committee some understanding of the nature of the area that is the subject of the various bills pending before the committee," Hansen said.

He said he understood the helicopters were paid for on a daily basis and that since the helicopters were required for the tour "it is doubtful that anything could have been saved by eliminating the brief trips that were required in connection with the part in which the wives participated."

"It is true that the space available for these limited periods could have been provided for members of the press rather than the wives. However, in view of the nature of the tour, which was not calculated to generate a great deal of news, and in view of the fact that many members of the press are familiar with the area the committee members flew over, it would appear to me that the inclusion of wives in a part of the activities was quite popular," he said.

He said he would disagree that the trip was a "vacation jaunt."

"The members who brought their wives did so at considerable personal expense," he said. "The wives were required to travel by commercial plane and none of their expenses were reimbursed by the committee."

"I was there, obviously, because the hearings were in my district. Not being a member of the committee, none of my expenses were paid."

He said he brought his wife from Washington at a cost of $400, paid by him personally.

The Congressman said he was certain the committee members gained much information as a result of the trip. He said committee members were not required to hold such a hearing and that they did so because of personal feelings toward Rep. James McClure, a committee member, and himself.

"I hope that these efforts are not undermined by some of the arguments that have developed since the hearings," he said.

More than 300 witnesses showed up for the one-day hearing, making it impossible for many to testify personally. There was also a hassle when the committee chairman cut short the testimony of Al Minton, speaking for Gov. Samuelson.

Committee members, since the hearing, have been bombarded with letters, principally from those against the national park concept. At the hearing, from the testimony, it was evident that a great majority favored the national recreation area concept which would have the forest service administer the program.

At the present time the matter cannot come to a head until the next Congress because of a decision by committee chairman Rep. Wayne Aspinall not to report bills at this session. The proposal to create a national park had been introduced in legislation sponsored by all four members of Coeur d'Alene, and Frank Pitts, 44, Boise.

2,000 Cars Ablaze . . .

WHAT LOOKED LIKE a huge range fire at the west edge of Twin Falls Friday afternoon was 2,000 old autos being burned by the Jansson Wrecking service prior to "hauling." After the cars are burned, their hulks are crushed into bales and shipped to a steel firm in Ogden for re-processing.

Ky Visit Canceled

By PETER A. GASKELL
 PARIS (UPI)—South Vietnamese President Nguyen Cao Ky decided against attending an Oct. 3 "March for Victory" rally in Washington because he had been told by both Americans and South Vietnamese his presence "would create certain trouble."

Ky disclosed his change of mind in a CBS "Face the Nation" television interview taped before the arrival here at midday of Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's advisor on national security affairs. The interview is scheduled to be broadcast in the United States at 11:30 a.m. EDT Sunday.

"To say that the Nixon administration tried hard to discourage me to come to Washington the 3rd (of October) is not quite true," Ky said.

"But I received advices from the American side and from our Vietnamese people in Washington telling me that my presence during the rally would create certain trouble."

Death Toll

By United Press International
 The deaths of two more persons in separate accidents raised Idaho's 1970 traffic-toll not to report bills at this session. The proposal to create a national park had been introduced in legislation sponsored by all four members of Coeur d'Alene, and Frank Pitts, 44, Boise.

Hospital Aid Bid Reduced

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Advisory Council on hospital construction voted here Friday to drastically cut the funds it seeks after noting federal cutbacks were eminent.
The council recommended allocation of only $220,000 to the State Board of Health compared with a recommendation last year that it receive more than $1 million.
The Advisory Board also recommended $173,000 for Cassia Memorial Hospital, and $48,000 to construct a public safety building in Bingham County.
Mercy Hospital in Nampa is slated to receive $32,000 from leftover 1970 funds.
Action was withheld on requests from Bonner, Blaine and Elmore counties because of the uncertainty of Idaho's share of the federal funds which could range anywhere from $231,000 to $900,000 for the 1971 fiscal year.
These counties also told the council the legality of the status of the state's bonding laws presented a problem also.

L.A. Homes Carbonized In Inferno

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The first known fatality turned up Saturday in a series of disastrous fires that caused millions of dollars in property damage in suburban areas of this sprawling city.
Refugee centers were set up to take care of hundreds of persons left homeless by the flames which erupted Friday and raged uncontrolled at midday Saturday in at least three areas.
Numerous persons suffered minor burns and smoke inhalation as hundreds of firemen battled the blaze which destroyed at least 150 homes, many in the $60,000 price range in the exclusive Malibu area including homes owned by many movie stars.
The first fatality was reported by police Saturday afternoon in the San Fernando Valley where blocks of homes were consumed by flames.
A body was found in an open field a mile north of San Fernando Mission Road along De Soto Avenue. The person apparently succumbed to injuries while fleeing flames. There was no immediate identification.
In the immediate Los Angeles area two major fires erupted Friday in areas only 25-30 miles from downtown along the Pacific Ocean in and around Malibu and on the other side of the Santa Monica mountains in the San Fernando Valley.

Stargazer Foresaw Robbery

CHICAGO (UPI) — Laurie Brady saw it in the stars.
Miss Brady, an astrologer who wrote a column for Chicago Today newspaper, said her own forecasts indicated about a month ago that she was being watched and might be the victim of a robbery.
She even rented a safety deposit box at Lake Point Tower, the luxury lakeshore apartment building where she lives with her husband, Harvey Gershejn.
But she said she didn't have time to put her jewels in the safety box before thieves took an estimated $250,000 in jewelry, furs and cash from the Gershejns' 47th floor apartment early Saturday.
Miss Brady said she was doing astrological readings at a birthday party in suburban Highland Park at the time of the robbery. Her husband discovered the theft when he returned from a business trip out of town.

Manson Tore Hair

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson was pulled by his hair from beneath the floorboards of a building at the Spain Ranch a week after the Tate murders and dragged to a police van by sheriff's deputies.
The arrest of Manson and 28 other members of his "family" was not made in connection with the Tate-LaBianca case but in a roundup involving auto theft, a deputy sheriff testified Friday at the murder trial.
The prosecution was attempting to show that the 35-year-old Manson was trying to hide from police because he thought they had linked him to the slayings.
Defense lawyer Irving Kanarek cross-examined Deputy Sheriff Donald Dunlap and brought out that 40 armed deputies were approaching the building where Manson was living. Kanarek suggested that anyone would hide under those circumstances.

Tardy Recovery

KINGSLAND, Tex. (UPI) — Llano County Sheriff Gale Ligon does not know how the body of a 44-year-old woman got into Lake Lyndon Baines Johnson but he strongly suspects it was no accident. The woman had been missing five years.
"We don't know yet if there was foul play; we'll just have to wait for a report from Austin," Ligon said Friday night.
"But from evidence at the scene, it looked as if the car had been deliberately pushed or driven into the water."
Former President Lyndon B. Johnson has frequently boated in the lake, which is near his ranch and which was named for him.
The lake is being partly drained for a hydroelectric project. As the water sank below the 25-foot level, it exposed a sunken automobile in which was the skeleton of Mrs. Charlene Frances Sigler of Kingsland.
Mrs. Sigler had been missing since June 2, 1965, when she left Kingsland for her son's graduation from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth.
Mrs. Sigler and her husband operated a motel at Kingsland. The son attended TCU because Mrs. Sigler had lived in Fort Worth from 1942 until about two months before her disappearance.
The skeleton was removed from the rusted automobile, identified through papers on it and sent to the Department of Public Safety Crime Laboratory in Austin, the state capital.
The son Mrs. Sigler wanted to see graduated, Wayne Brown, said she was missing a week before he learned about it.
"The way we found out about it, I sent her a birthday card and her husband, (Fred Sigler) called and said, 'Isn't she up there?'" Brown said. "And we started checking. The family worked almost day and night for two years, even in Austin, but nothing came of it."
O is the chemical symbol for Oxygen.

Memorial Plaque Presented At Richfield School Event

RICHFIELD — Richfield's school faculty was honored at the annual teacher reception Thursday night which featured presentation of a memorial plaque.

Mrs. L. E. Browning, fifth grade teacher, was given a standing ovation after Supt. Neil Andreason announced she had more years of teaching service than any other faculty member. She is now starting her 43rd year of teaching.

Other teachers introduced were Mrs. Max Behr, Mrs. Edna Bell, Mrs. Clarence Lemmon, Mrs. Frances Priestad, Mrs. Melvin Pope, Walter Thoresen, Mrs. W. T.

Filvel, principal, all grade school.

High School faculty includes Gary Kessler, Merrill Beyeler, James Thomas, Charles Buttane, V. C. Ross, Mrs. L. T. Sanders.

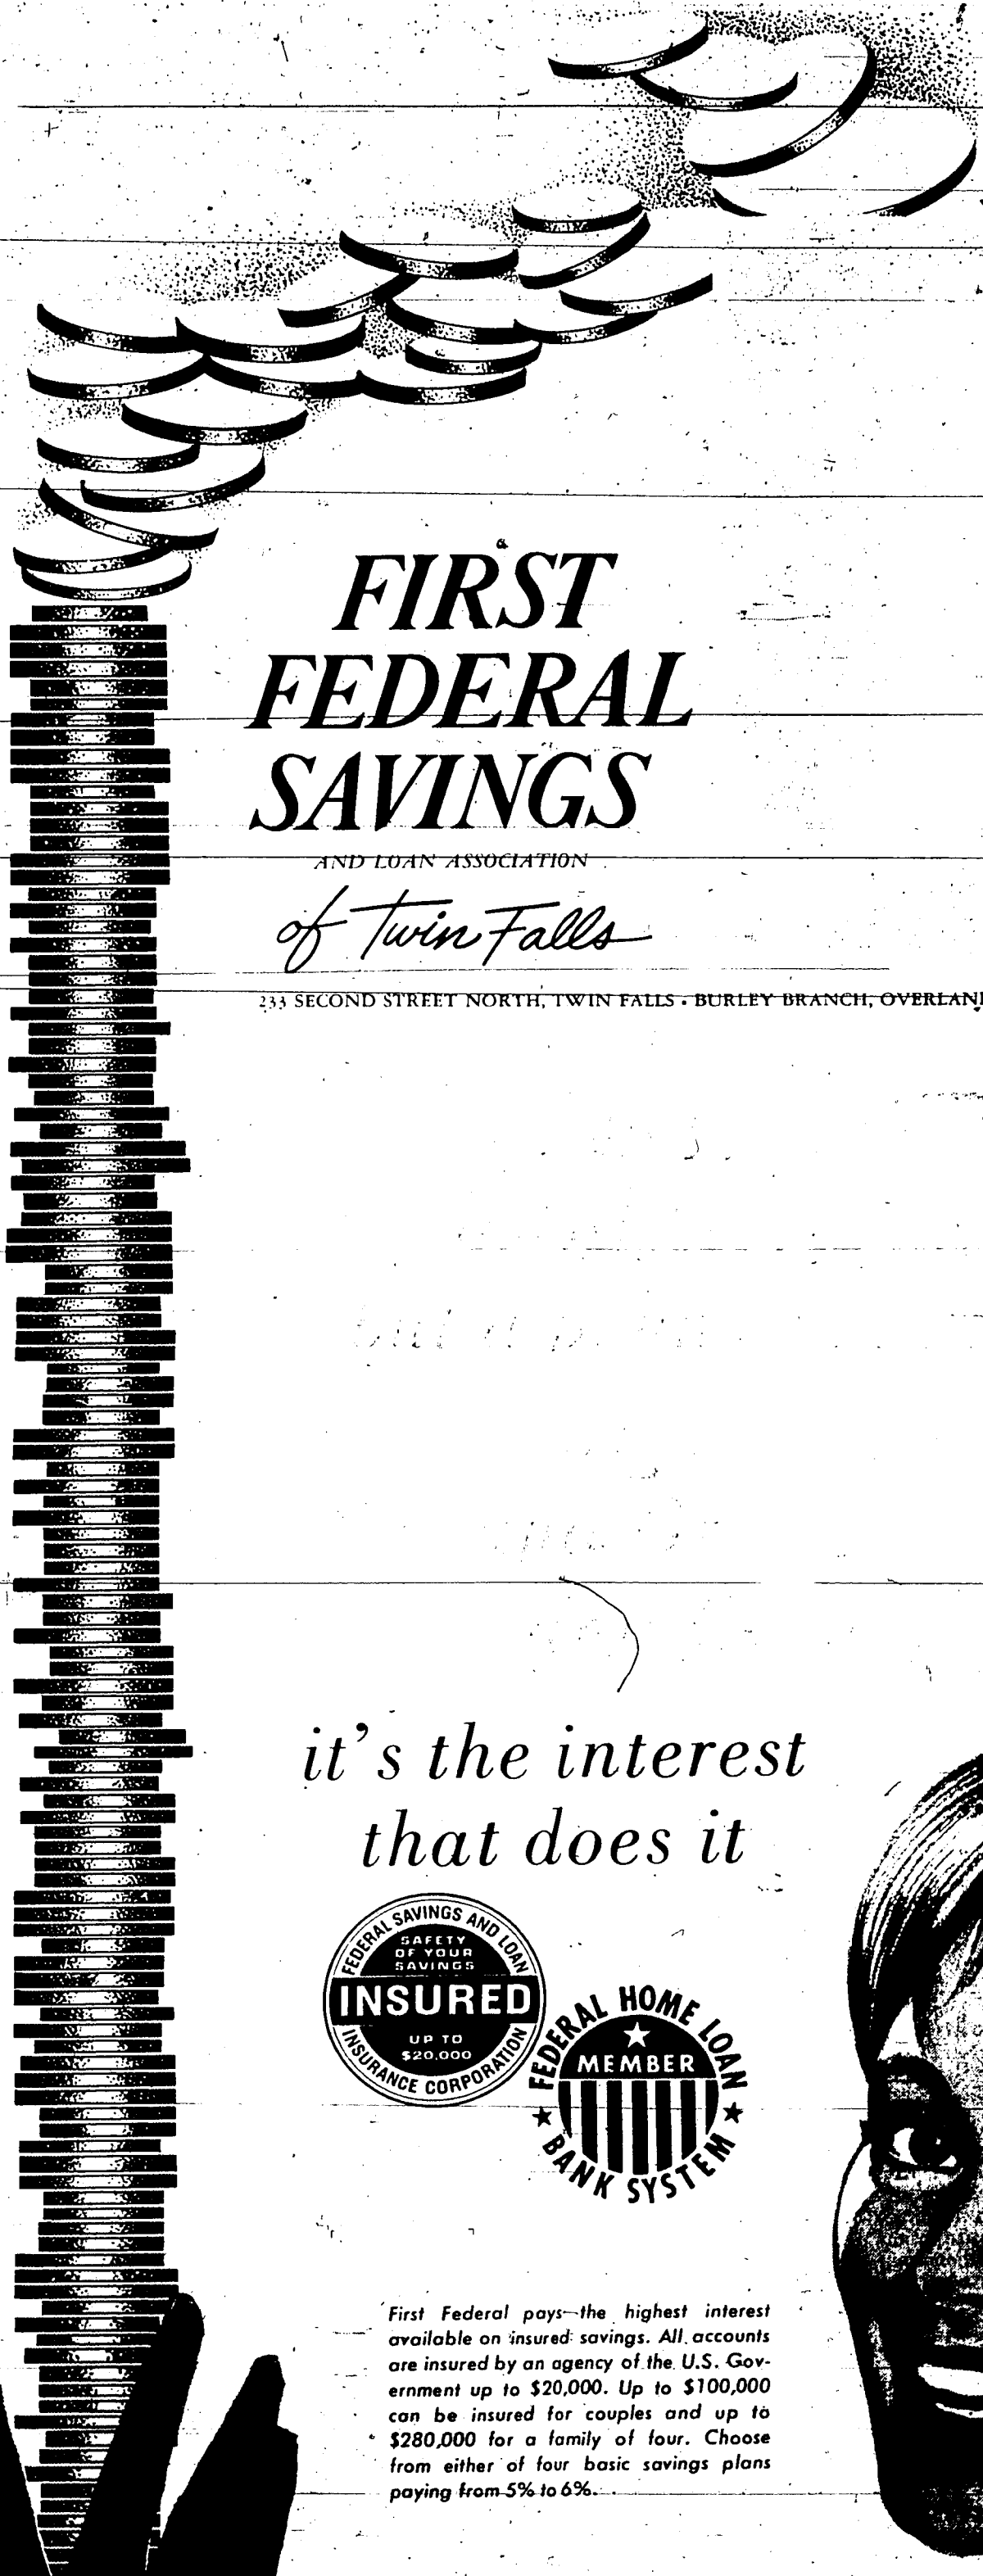

Presentation of the plaque in memory of the late Supt. F. R. Briggs was made by Supt. Andreason. The plaque was accepted by Mr. and Mrs. Gary Hubsmith, Burley, son-in-law and daughter of the former superintendent. It was purchased by Richfield teachers, and former teachers, many of whom attended the meeting.

The program included speeches by two students, Carol

Lyn Sanders, who spoke on "Communication Comparison of British and American Speech Terms" and George Orr, who spoke on "Preparing for College or Social Needs." He said teachers should discuss controversial issues.

Room decorations of sprayed wheat bouquets were made by the home furnishing class of Mrs. Sanders, assisted by Mrs. Donald Walker.

Mrs. Andreason, new PTA president, welcomed the group and the treasurer, Mrs. Dave Kennon, reported $309 to start the year.

Clinging To Its Power

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A few days ago this reporter received a letter from a Vietnamese friend who in his younger days was a guerrilla fighting for Vietnamese independence against the French and now is a prominent civilian close to many of the top men in the Saigon government. He is an independent, however, in his thinking. And he does not hesitate to criticize. This letter is part of a continuing discussion between us which has been going on now for more than six years. What follows, of course, are excerpts: "I think that President Nixon was right when he ordered the strike into Cambodia. It helped and helps us to deal with the (Viet Cong) sanctuaries, but we have to face with another problem—the Cambodian guerrilla. Just now, it's not a threat for the Lon Nol government, but I think that—and you will agree with me—the Communists are building their political underground and from that they can lead a guerrilla war against the Lon Nol government as they did in 1960 in South Vietnam against the Diem regime. "And to face with this guerrilla problem, the Communist-Cambodian guerrilla, the Cambodia government has to do alone with his own troops and not with the Vietnamese of Thai troops. The 'Cambodianization' has to begin right now and not one or two years further. This is the lesson from the Vietnamization which had to be done in 1963 and not in 1969 or 1970. "I agree with you that the Vietnamese army is built up along the U.S. lines. Before, it was built up along the French lines. This army is too expensive for a small country like Vietnam with 17 million inhabitants. It was a wrong thing (we) fight the war without strategy, but only with classical tactics (ignoring the political, psychological and economic aspects). "You are questioning about what we are doing effectively to prevent the Communist political underground rebuilding. I don't know what you are doing in the American side, but I think that, in the Vietnamese side, we are doing nothing. I agree strongly that we have to improve the political parties in Vietnam, especially to develop two major political parties as the constitution foresees. But I think that with a military regime, we can't reach that aim, because the generals don't have any confidence in the political force; they only have confidence in the army, in the guns and munitions and not in the political and psychological weapons. They also fear to lose power. (Therefore) it's difficult to build up a nationalist political strength to face the Communist political underground (in order to win) the guerrilla war. "After the Communist Tet offensive in 1968, President Thieu took the initiative to form a large front with six most important political parties in Vietnam. It was a great hope for the nation; but after that he did not give any attention to that front which is now quite ignored for its inactivity. "The military situation is good now, but the economic (situation) is worse. The cost of living rises sharply. The public servants do not get paid enough to live on. How can the soldiers fight in the battlefield when they know that their families are 'hungry'? The situation in the public services is as follows: The administrative officials in different grades do not want to work for the government; they want to quit, and if they cannot quit, they work only one or two hours per day instead of eight. They find another job in town to make money to provide to the needs of their families. And so. "I don't want to (talk) about corruption because I think that it is ridiculous to charge someone who is hungry and who tries to make some money illegally. Besides, it's more ridiculous to charge insignificant policemen while (higher ups) are corrupt with impunity. "The salary problem is the most important one that the government has to deal with to improve the morale of the troops and the civil servants which are two pillars of the regime. But I think this is not enough to improve the political situation of President Thieu. He has to be supported not only by the army and the civil servants but by a strong political party or front, because masses (the people) can not be organized by the administration, but by the political parties. It's always a wrong thing in fighting the Communists to depend solely on the army and the administration. You must (draw in) the masses, the people (in order to win). "In sum, the political situation is still worst and I think that we must do something to improve this. I agree with you that the Communists are in bad shape now and we must turn the occasion to account before they can improve their situation."

Wings Away

With traffic deaths on the highways of Idaho showing a continual gain, it was to be expected that an all-out campaign to deduce the carnage would be undertaken but this is not the case.

While back, possibly as far back as a year or more, Gov. Samuelson came out with an ambitious program calling for the use of state police in airplanes flying parallel to our main highways and reporting sighted traffic violations to officers on the ground. Then it was quietly discontinued. Why?

Could it be that the hue and cry of most everyone for less expenditure in government was a cause for discontinuation of this program? If that was the reason then such reasoning was in error.

Spotting traffic violations from the air is a proven method of reducing highway mishaps. Several states are resorting to "eyes in the sky" and Kentucky is one of them. In an article in September's FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, the deputy director of that state's police force said the plan is really working. State police pilots use 15-watt two-way radios to converse with their uniformed counterparts on the ground while circling overhead at altitudes of 1,000 feet or more. Often they report several traffic violations simultaneously.

During a recent patrol above one of Kentucky's most heavily traveled interstate highways, seven offenders were clocked at speeds reaching 100 miles an hour. Flagged down and arrested by a single ground unit in less than 20 minutes, two of these drivers were so drunk they were unable to get out of their cars unassisted.

Although still a curiosity to some people, the air patrol has been accepted in Kentucky and it is getting the job done.

So if Idaho's efforts along this line were halted because of fund cuts then someone made a serious error.

Today's highway traffic in Idaho is so dangerous to so many people that everything possible should be done to pin down the scores of violators who are now getting away with murder.

And we mean just what we say—murder!

MR. SPECTATOR

It's My Paper

I gave the world a dime tonight for a copy of the newspaper. They can divide it up amongst their employes any way they wish.

Now for the dime I gave them tonight, I expect to get a newspaper with all of the local news, all of the state news, all of the national news and all of the international news. And I want every bit of it to be fresh.

For the dime I gave them, I want at least 10 local pictures of news events and people who made the news. I want pictures of accidents, fires, meetings, plays, basketball games.

Because I gave them my dime, I want to know the latest things about District 3 School Board, City Council, County Commissioners, the state legislature, the governor, the U. S. Congress, the President, and the war in Vietnam. I also expect them to tell me who died in the last 24 hours.

I want to read about what my church is doing and when.

I want to know what those guys in Washington are doing with my tax money. I want them to tell me about the Apollo and moon exploration programs, who has the H-bomb, and whether the Nazi Party is really coming back in Germany.

I want them to cover every high school football and basketball game in this area, and every play, every ladies' tea, wedding and anniversary celebration. It makes no difference that there are dozens of schools in their circulation area; I expect their reporters to be there and cover them, because I just gave them a dime.

I want to read as much about Democrats as I do Republicans, and just as much about Protestants as I do Catholics and Jews.

If I get drunk and have a wreck, I don't want them to print my name in the paper. I have a friend who is getting a divorce and they can leave that out too.

I want to see for myself if the prices at Ferguson's are cheaper than the ones at City Market. I want to know where I can buy a good second hand car, what's playing at the movies and the latest stock market prices.

Just because I don't have too much education, I don't want them to think they can take advantage of me. It doesn't make any difference if I don't do anything for my schools, church or city government; I pay my taxes and I just gave them a dime and I want my name in the paper.

I want to make sure that they understand one more thing. Just because they might do all of the things I've already asked, I don't want them to think that they can deliver my paper any way they want. I want that paper delivered right to my front door. I want it rolled or folded neatly and it had better not be late either. I eat at 5 p. m. and I want that paper there when I sit down to eat.

Next week I'm going to start my own business, and I want a news item and a picture about it. No, I don't expect to take any advertising with them; if they run the news story and picture about my opening I won't need any advertising. After all, I just gave them a dime for that lousy sheet, and for a dime that's MY newspaper.

(Spectator's Note: This is reprinted, in part, from an article which appeared in Editor and Publisher and which was authored by one Robert U. Brown)

Kremlin's Move

MOSCOW — The most ominous political element in the Soviet-Egyptian decision to violate the Suez Canal standstill is the Kremlin's dangerous misreading of President Nixon. One widely-accepted explanation here of these gross violations (all but privately admitted by Moscow) is that Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser sought and gained the consent of the Kremlin to reinforce his Suez air defenses as a condition of accepting the U. S. peace plan.

But that explanation rests on the wholly false Soviet premise that President Nixon was already so deeply committed to his peace plan that not only would he himself excuse the violations but would also compel Israel to do the same.

Thus, the fiction that Mr. Nixon has the same kind of satellite control over Prime Minister Golda Meir's government that Moscow has, say, over Bulgaria is a rigid tenet of Soviet foreign policy in the Middle East (not to mention the fiction that the American President can be toyed with). In this tortured Soviet logic of how the U. S. — Israeli power equation really works, the U. S., by validating Israel's claim of violations, became the sinner and Moscow the saint in the ugly battle over the peace plan.

But the Soviet misreading of Mr. Nixon goes farther. Russian experts here are now actually hinting that Egypt's reinforcement of its Suez Canal air defenses played into U. S. hands by ruling out all possibility of an Israeli preemptive attack against the missile sites after the Aug. 7 cease-fire took effect.

"Israel recognizes only military strength," one such expert told us. "If you are right about all these violations, it should help you because now Israel will have to behave."

Considering the strong tone of U. S. Ambassador Jacob Beam's missile protest to the Soviet government, this Alice-in-Wonderland attitude is dangerous in the extreme.

Beam forcefully warned Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Kuznetsov on Aug. 22 that the Soviet government would be making a most serious miscalculation if it took the U. S. protest lightly. The foreign office kissed off Beam's protest as much ado about nothing.

An Aging Tad

WASHINGTON — To an aging tad who was raised on the erudite insanities of S. J. Perelman, it is sad to learn that this Swiftian surgeon, who so deftly carved up American society, is moving to London next month, never to return to his native heath.

To paraphrase Heywood Broun's epitaph of William Bolitho, there goes the most brilliant satirist of our time. Perelman will live on — I hope until he adds at least another 34 years to his present 66 — but the American essayist will be dead. Living in England, he cannot be expected to hold us up to cogent ridicule. His scalpel will lose its cutting edge in Albion's civilized dampness.

Perelman denies he is leaving because "it's volcano time in this country" but his denial comes under the heading of common courtesy to his countrymen. To a New York Times reporter, he went on to make it obvious that he had become afflicted with a low threshold of tolerance for the "insanity and violence" that permeate the American scene. He spoke of symptoms of jingoism and rampant political fatuousness, and complained that Americans cultivate manners that "are scant on oomph."

Sadly, these are the words of a man who is not leaving his country, but fleeing it. Because we can ill spare S. J. Perelman, his indictment of what has happened to the country surely will be received with tolerance by all but the myopic, professional patriots among us. Although I deplore his departure — his decision to cop-out — old times' sake persuades my heart, if not my brain, to cry out that I don't blame him.

Moreover, Perelman unerringly has put his finger on why he will settle in London. "The obvious good manners and consideration of people there toward each other may be only selfish," he said, "but it's good enough for me."

It should be good enough for anyone — what Perelman calls "a far more rational society than our own." Ten years ago we might have challenged his statement, but today even the most loyal among us cannot say the same for our own society. Nevertheless, I must cavil with an idol's chapter-and-verse citation of America's ills. He says he is disaffected with our political climate "all the way down from the co-author of the Mundt-Nixon bill — I won't specify which sponsor I mean — to every hardhat and redneck in this country."

Come now, Perelman, is that all you're disaffected with? It is hard to believe that a man who speaks so highly of good manners is not also disaffected by the rioters and loudmouths — on campus and street who not only converse but orate in four-letter words, perhaps the most unpardonable violation of good manners. Surely sir, your farewell address should have touched on the manners of those who urinate and defecate in public.

Have all those public bombings, some of them fatal to human beings, gone unnoticed in your survey of the new ambience in which we live? You have a perfect right to find Richard Nixon and the hardhats unattractive under the law of freedom of politics, but you have left your indictment incomplete. By omission, do you intend that the Abbie Hoffmans should stand alongside the rational and considerate Britons?

I plead for one more farewell address, sir, in which you will cross the t's and dot the i's of your true bill. Better still, don't run away. Stay with us; stay and fight as Swift and Dickens did.

That Magic?

Kennedy coattails are not doing very well on their own. So far each Democrat identified with the J.F.K. Administration, testing his personal political wings, has flopped.

Is the magic gone? Pierre Salinger was White House press secretary during the Kennedy Administration. In 1964, when he asked Californians to elect him to the Senate, they refused.

Kennedy O'Donnell, close Kennedy associate, ran for governor of Massachusetts in 1966, was defeated. Sargent Shriver, the in-law closest to the Kennedy coterie, resigned as our ambassador to France to return home to try to get the state of Maryland to elect him governor — and couldn't even get the nomination.

Then last June, Ted Sorensen sought nomination for senator in New York's primary. Sorensen had been a White House aide, adviser and speechwriter for the late President Kennedy. Seeking political office he ran third in a four-man race. Will Sen. Edward Kennedy fare better in his try for reelection in November or might Massachusetts have become disenchanted with him, also? In 1964 he was elected with a majority of 1.13 million votes. While under the shadow of the Chappaquiddick tragedy, he asked Massachusetts voters whether he should seek reelection. His office reported an overwhelmingly affirmative response.

The Boston Record American conducted a street poll, reported six-out-of-ten persons would not hold the personal incident against Kennedy.

There is more at stake than Kennedy's Senate seat. Another whopping endorsement by Massachusetts voters would propel Ted Kennedy back into the national limelight.

To run "against" him, Massachusetts Republicans have nominated Josiah A. Spaulding.

Spaulding, 47, looks like a beardless Peter Nero. He's the closest thing the Republicans could come up with to look and walk and talk like Kennedy.

Like Kennedy, Spaulding vigorously opposed the Cambodian invasion. Like Kennedy, he's a lawyer, member of the bars in New York, Massachusetts and Washington, D.C.

Spaulding has never held elective office. He favors an all-volunteer Army.

Mrs. Spaulding is a direct descendant of Alexander Hamilton.

Aviation Pioneer Speaks

BY LIZ BOLTON
Times-News Correspondent
SUN VALLEY — About 100 pilot members of the National Pilot's Association concluded today a three-day Holiday Fly-In here.

Grover Loening, inventor of the flying boat and member of Aviation's Hall of Fame, addressed the group Saturday night.

The 83-year-old aviation pioneer told the group that if "we can just make privately desired, fast, useful aircraft into an air vehicle with less area limitations, less noise, less down grading, more utility and more acceptance, we would really be at the threshold of a new vehicle era, almost as pregnant with possibilities as was the automobile era 70 years ago."

The three broad areas of recent aviation development, he said, are general utility and business aspects, the military development, and air commerce.

"Airlines in the near future will be as much threatened by private air vehicle development as were inter-urban trolleys and finally railroads by the development of motor cars, buses and trucks," he warned.

Loening, who won the first master's degree in aeronautics ever granted in this country, who joined Orville Wright in 1913 as his assistant and factory manager, autographed copies of his latest book, "Take Off into Greatness."

Friday and Saturday mornings the pilots took breakfast rides to Big Creek, Johnson Creek, Stanley and Smiley Creek, as well as surrounding areas of interest. Pilots from California, Montana, Washington, Michigan, Idaho, Illinois, Oregon, Massachusetts, Florida, Washington, D.C., Texas, Pennsylvania, and Missouri, participated.

William Otley, executive director of NPA, Washington, D.C., addressed the opening luncheon meeting Friday. He advocated creation of a workable system to "sanitize the air", making it less crowded with aircraft at any particular spot for safety purposes.

Investing Class Open At College

TWIN FALLS — A continuation of the two basic investment classes held at CSI last year by John Hunt, Boise, member of the New York Stock Exchange, is scheduled for Tuesday when the first of a 12-session course begins in Room 118 of the Shields Academic building at CSI.

A book recommended for the course is available at the CSI book store in the vocational school on Kimberly road. Registration will be held at the first class meeting and the fee is $12.

Anyone with a working knowledge of investments and the stock market should receive valuable information from this course, reports Marvin Glascock, at CSI, Ext. 63, who may be contacted for further information.

Bank Names Manager

GLENNS FERRY — Glenn Heidenreich, former executive vice president of the Idaho State Bank at Glens Ferry, has been named manager of the Idaho Bank and Trust firm's new office in Lewiston.

The Lewiston operation must begin in a mobile trailer, Heidenreich said, while plans are completed.

University Fee Practices Hit

BOISE (UPI) — Fees charged resident students at the University of Idaho have increased 319 per cent the past 10 years while the number of such students has increased only 44 per cent, it was reported Friday.

Legislative Auditor James A. Defenbach made the comparison in his report to the Fiscal-Budget Committee on an audit on the university's business office.

"In 1959-60, 3,634 resident students paid fees totaling $454,340," he said. "Within a period of 10 years, these totals increased to 5,235 and $1,586,820 respectively."

He said the major increase in fees can be attributed to the need for funds to finance these activities — athletic facilities construction $407,625; Wallace Complex bond redemption, $101,315; college of education building, $54,350; intramural, $65,220; Student union alterations, $32,610; classroom bond, $202,636; suspense account (sales tax) $10,870, and student ID cards, $5,435.

Additionally, Defenbach reported, the bulk of "profits" from the university bookstore have been spent on parking areas for student cars.

Sen. Arthur Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, said he thought the practice of building classrooms and other buildings with student fees was discontinued. He said if the legislature eventually does not appropriate enough money for a law school he supposes those attending should be charged a fee.

Defenbach's report noted that some students objected to the bookstore making a profit and that these profits were spent on parking areas.

Bursar J. W. Watts questioned whether the legislature would be willing to appropriate tax money to pay for student-car parking lots.

Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Malad, co-chairman of the committee, suggested perhaps the joint Finance Appropriations Committee invite students to attend some of its session next winter. "Where do we stop with the establishment and where do we start with the students?" Palmer asked.

Officer Named for Appeal By Ousted Idaho Inspector

BOISE (UPI)—George Murphy, director of Idaho's Personnel Commission, said Friday Dr. C.H. Kennedy's appeal from his dismissal as chief of meat inspection units will be heard by Dick Weston, hearing officer. Kennedy asked for the hearing after he was dismissed by Commissioner of Agriculture Stanley I. Trenhaile for being absent without leave from the office on three dates in August. Kennedy said he was ill one day, was in court on another to attend a hearing on his contempt of court suit filed against Trenhaile and on the third date had a doctor's appointment in Caldwell. Murphy said the hearing before the officer was the usual procedure in such cases. He said Weston would make "findings of fact" and would recommend to the Personnel Commission a decision. Murphy said the commission would either accept of change Weston's decision. If rejected, he said, the commission will have the option to call for a full re-hearing or ask attorneys for each side to present their arguments. Once a decision is reached, Murphy said, the only avenue of appeal would be to the courts. No hearing date was set.

Arts Center Funds Went for Administration Costs

BOISE (UPI)—More than half the money donated for a Performing Arts Center at the University of Idaho has been spent on administrative expenses, a performance audit of the business office showed today.

In the same report, Legislative Auditor James A. Defenbach told the Legislative Fiscal-Budget Committee that $100,000 in university funds has sat dormant for more than five years in a checking account of a Moscow bank.

Additionally, the audit report said the administrative-financial vice president of the university has been hamstrung in performing his duties and some changes must be made.

Members of the State Board of Regents authorized the organization and implementation of the fund for the Performing Arts Center (FPAC) at the university in April of 1967.

"The primary goal of FPAC was to create or obtain a center whereby the cultural life of the campus, community, state and nation would be enhanced," the audit report said.

"University records indicate that short-term monetary goals approximated $2 million and that long-range plans totaled approximately $4 million which would provide for the Performing Arts Center, an outdoor theatre, a museum and an art gallery.

"You will note that this $100,000 account has been inactive for over five years," Defenbach said. "We fail to understand the reasoning behind this decision and feel that the $100,000 should be in an income-producing activity."

"Furthermore, we question the reasoning behind the business office's decision to include an open demand account within the classification of investment in bonds.

"We think that regardless of the original motives behind the deposit of $100,000 in an inactive checking account, the university administration should make immediate plans to close the account and invest the funds."

"He said that although there is no way to determine the exact amount of interest which has been lost a conservative estimate would put it at between this year, the report said, a total of $406,529 was donated for the Performing Arts Center. This amounted to 28 per cent of what a special consultant had projected for that period. Not only was the consultant—American City Bureau-Beaver Associates—overly enthusiastic in projecting receipts, the report said, but it missed the target of expenditures, too.

Anticipated expenditures for the period were $169,057. Actual expenditures amounted to $245,355.

Of the disbursements from the FPAC from March 1, 1967 through April 30, 1970, the report listed $39,205.23 for payroll and employee benefits; $5,992.21 for furniture and equipment; $11,423.67 for equipment rental; $1,916.03 for office supplies; $30,608.87 for printing; $9,144.04 for artwork; $3,077.19 for advertising; $5,240.05 for postage; $1,569.44 for telephone and telegraph; $28,345.88 for travel and hospitality; $1,222.19 for office alterations; $1,610.69 for general administration; $98,750 for the consultant; $4,060.29 for "five per cent allocated to alumni, and $3,117.30 for interest expense.

In another finding, the auditor said the university's financial reports were misleading in at least one respect. He referred to an account entitled "Investment-in-bonds."

He said there is $349,000 listed as invested in this account.

"Actually, $249,000 is invested in bonds and the remaining $100,000 is deposited in a demand checking account at the Moscow branch of the Bank of Idaho," the report said.

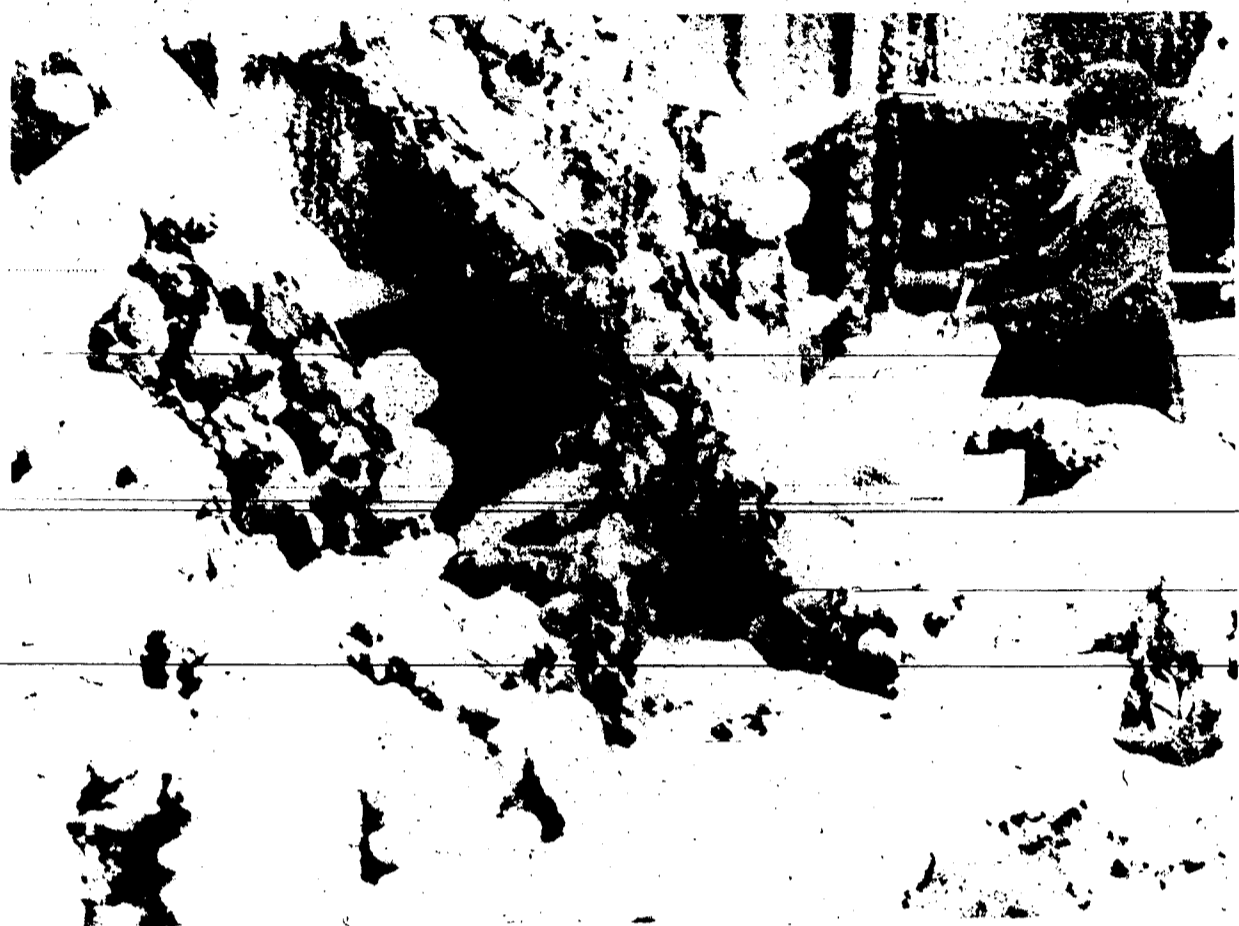

"We take exception to the apparent misrepresentation with regard to the 'investment in bonds' account."

The report said $29,000 was deposited in the demand account on May 21, 1965, another $12,000 on June 10, 1965 and $59,000 on June 29, 1965.

As to the problems confronting the administrative-financial vice president at the university, Defenbach said the responsibilities of fiscal agent have drifted from him to the business manager.

"As a result it is apparent to us that the current business manager of the university has more direct authority over financial policy and procedures within the university than does the administrative-financial vice president," he said.

Defenbach said the officer's authority should be strengthened or split into two separate jobs.

Military Guards Ride Jets Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The first specially trained military guards will start riding commercial airliners within a week with orders to shoot hijackers only as a last resort to save the lives of passengers, Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe said Friday.

"We will take all the steps that can be taken without shooting," he said, "but if it comes to the lives of 200 Americans or a hijacker, there is no doubt about what we will do."

Volpe spoke at a news conference after he and Attorney General John N. Mitchell signed an agreement setting forth responsibilities of the Justice and Transportation Departments in air hijacking situations.

The agreement gives the Federal Aviation Administration authority when a hijacked plane is in the air or in motion for takeoff or landing. The FBI will be in command when the plane is on the ground.

Volpe said FBI agents and U.S. marshals deputized by the FAA will be joined by the end of next week by the first contingent of military air marshals to be trained at Ft. Dix N.J., to take over the security operation.

Formal training at Ft. Dix will begin Monday for the first of 800 military guards. The entire force will be guarding flights by Nov. 1.

Unlike the 200 civilian guards already on the job, the military agents will not be deputized as U.S. marshals with powers of search and arrest. Government sources said the military men will, in effect, have to rely on the power of "citizen's arrest" to stop hijackers.

Volpe and retired Lt. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis Jr., newly appointed director of civil aviation security, who attended the signing ceremony in Mitchell's office, stressed the government will concentrate on trying

U.S. Said Falling Behind Other Nations in Housing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A member of the Senate committee which controls housing legislation says the United States is falling behind other industrial nations in providing new homes for its citizens. He calls this "a national disgrace."

Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., called for a major new effort to close "the housing gap." Williams is a member of the housing subcommittee of the Banking and Currency Committee.

"The United States is falling far behind other nations in providing better housing," Williams said. "For example, last year the U. S. built 7.69 new housing units per 1,000 residents. By way of contrast, Sweden built 13.43 units per thousand, Japan built 11.89, the Soviet Union built 9.80, the Netherlands built 9.63 and France built 8.23.

Last year, of course, was a time of the "tight money" home building slump. But that now appears to be easing and both the government and the housing industry expect things to get better in the next year. Williams said the Federal Reserve, which decided to fight inflation last year by putting a tight lid on the supply of money and credit, could do the same thing again and again.

"It is possible that we may have a series of credit crunches throughout the 1970s where housing once again becomes the whipping boy in the fight against inflation," Williams said. "Unless we revise our current methods for carrying out economic policy, I am afraid that the housing industry is in for more of the same.

"I can see no inherent reason why the housing industry must take a nose dive every two or three years. We certainly would not tolerate a depression in our general economy every third year.

"Since government itself creates most of the instability in housing starts, it has an added responsibility to undo at least some of the damage it causes."

Williams chided President Nixon for refusing to use a new law authorizing him to ration credit to help the housing industry. Williams said the law, if invoked, would "divert scarce credit from less essential uses into fund-starved areas such as

Valley Traffic Courts

Vera P. Osterhout, 51, Burley, and Alfred N. Knight, 76, Burley, were fined $15 each by Burley Police Judge Roland E. Willis for failure to yield the right of way. Osterhout also was fined $10 for no driver's license.

Also fined by Judge Willis were Gary G. Coleman, 29, Burley, $16, speeding; Lawrence P. Carter, 18, Rupert, $15, making an improper turn; Cecil R. Powers, 46, Burley, $15, following too closely, and Frances D. Ramero, 21, Heyburn, $40 for driving on a suspended driver's license.

President Warren G. Harding was the first U.S. chief executive to visit Alaska and Canada during his term of office.

housing."

"Those who have market power will get the credit regardless of cost," he said. "A large corporation can deduct half of the interest on its income tax and pass the other half to the consumer in the form of higher prices. However, the homebuyer does not have anyone to pass the cost on to."

"It is somewhat of a paradox that during a period of tight money, middle income housing is cut back the hardest. For example, in 1969 middle income housing under $25,000 was cut 18 per cent. On the other hand, the sale of homes priced over $34,000 actually increased 23 per cent and the construction of federally-assisted housing for low income families nearly doubled in fiscal year 1969.

"In other words, we have been building more housing for the rich and the poor but the middle income families have been caught in a squeeze through no fault of their own."

Book Review

Volume About Hiroshima Said "Compelling"

BY MARY ALICE FLORENCE
Twin Falls Public Library

"Return to Hiroshima" is a new book in the Youth Room of the Library. It is the kind of book that you pick up to look at the pictures and then find yourself compelled to read the complete text.

Betty Jean Lifton went to Hiroshima with her husband, Robert Jay Lifton, who was studying the psychological effects of the bomb on the survivors. She persuaded the Japanese photographer, Eikoh Mosoe, to help her tell the story of Hiroshima in book form.

"Return to Hiroshima" can serve as an intriguing history lesson for the young. But how much do we who lived through that period of history really know of Hiroshima? Do you remember that seventy-eight thousand people are known to have been killed by the bomb? Estimates go as high as two hundred thousand or more. Did you know that, even after twenty-five years, cases of leukemia and cancer of the thyroid, cataracts and related eye conditions in the survivors are known to be specifically related to radiation? For the survivors, A-Bomb disease has become as much an emotional disease as a physical one. There is never an end to anxiety. Today Hiroshima is a modern metropolis. Mrs. Lifton says the city center reminds one of parts of Tokyo or even certain European cities.

Most of the five hundred thousand population are outsiders who swarmed in from other places after the war to take advantage of frontier conditions. These newcomers give Hiroshima its energy. The live in the present and for the future. They do not seem to remember the past.

But Mrs. Lifton seeks out the survivors in her book. She interviews these people and tells the personal story of their survival during the attack and the days that followed. She portrays to her readers the felling of these brave people with compassion and dignity.

Eikoh Mosoe's pictures convey these same qualities. Really fine black and white photographs can be far more dramatic than color pictures, and Mosoe's work certainly bears this out. His picture of the Atomic Dome is beautiful—yet it is a ghostly structure to remind us of a horrible past. It links the past and the present in an uneasy alliance. It leaves us (as does the whole "Return to Hiroshima" asking: "But what of the future?"

Money Box

By Frank Schell

From I. T. Jerome: I have a small, shiny coin (like silver) which has a large cross on one side, the date 1931 and the word "Osterreich" around the cross. On the other side a large "5" and under it, the word "groschen". Can you tell me where this coin is from and what its value might be?

Answer: You have a standard "5 groschen" piece of Austria. This coin was issued under the republic from 1931 to 1938. 100 of these "groschen" equal one "schilling", which is about equivalent to four cents in United States money. The coin you have brings about twenty cents from a collector, if it is brand new.

From D. R. L. Twin Falls: I have a coin I would like to find out about. It is real dark in appearance, about the size of our nickel. There is a lion on one side and around the lion it says "Republika Cechoslovenska". On the other side is what looks like an ox-yoke and under it is a "2" in a circle. The date on it is 1925. Is it a valuable coin? Where is it from?

Answer: The coin is not valuable, although fairly scarce. Collector value, if new, is about $1.00. The coin is from Czechoslovakia and the denomination is 2 Haleru which is equal to "1 korona", but has no value on the international exchange. It is obsolete coinage, and was made from zinc, the same material which was used to coat the 1943 cent of the United States. The black color is from oxidation.

From P. R., Burley: In a coin paper the other day I saw an ad for some "Hawaiian money". Did the Island of Hawaii have its own money? Since it is a state of the United States, how does it happen to have its own money, if there is true "Hawaiian" money? My friends and I would like to know about this.

Answer: Evidently you and your friends are young collectors. Hawaii did not become a state until 1959, although about 1898 it came under the protection of the United States government. From 1791 until 1894 Hawaii was a kingdom, in 1847 there was some copper coinage minted. This coin bears the likeness of King Kamehameha III, and is fairly valuable. A very fine specimen brings about $50. In 1883, under King Kalakaua I, ten cent pieces, quarters, halves and one dollar pieces were issued. All of these coins are worth considerably more than face value in the better conditions. The dollar is especially scarce and sometimes brings as much as $100 a copy, when the condition is right.

Answer: Your coin is the 50 Ore piece of Sweden, issued under the rule of Gustaf V, who reigned from 1907 to 1950. It is made from nickel and bronze. Value in collector's view is about sixty cents, in very fine condition. Exchange value is about two tenths of a cent.

The column is still interested in any merchant's tokens which our readers might have. We are especially interested in tokens from Idaho, but also want those from Utah and Nevada, and other surrounding states. We will be glad to trade Indian Head cents for any tokens we can use.

Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o The Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Cassia Clinic Planned

BURLEY — A clinic to "Rub Out Rubella" in Cassia County has been set for Monday and Tuesday at Burley Junior High School, according to Mrs. Norman Smyer, Declo, Cassia County coordinator.

A massive campaign in Cassia County is estimated to immunize about 4,300 children. Pre-school children are to receive their inoculations between 6 and 8 p.m. Monday and grades one through six will receive vaccinations throughout the two days after being bused into Burley from the various schools in the county.

A donation of 50 cents is asked for each child vaccinated but those who do not have the amount will be given the vaccination free, reported Mrs. Smyer.

Dr. Leslie Fillmore, local physician, will direct the Cassia County Clinic, assisted by Lola Boyce, nurse coordinator; Barbara Rodgers, volunteer coordinator; Jack Holland, pharmaceutical coordinator, and Carolyn Barnes, financial chairman.

Energy Store Dwindles

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Could it happen to the United States as it did to Japan in the 1940's? The nation's energy resources structure is tumbling. That is not the view of an alarmist nor of an oil industry looking for higher prices. It is a documented staff report of the Federal Power Commission (FPC).

The United States is using 14.4 million barrels of petroleum products per day. That is an increase of 50 per cent over 1958, and it is expected to increase by 56 per cent in the next 10 years. Seventy-five per cent of the nation's energy is supplied by oil and gas.

During the final stages of World War II, much of Japan's forces were grounded because they did not have fuel for ships and aircraft.

The Arab-Israeli conflict made itself felt in Japan with domestic needs soaring yearly and dependence on imports at a peak.

Now the Communist world is beginning to overtake its problems of self-sufficiency in the petroleum market. The American Association of Petroleum Geologists (AAPG) says Communist China has become nearly self-sufficient with total proved, plus probable reserves, and production showing tremendous gains.

Poland has an active petroleum industry; new discoveries in Hungary are reversing its dependence on imported oil and gas; Yugoslavia's oil industry is growing on all fronts; Bulgaria is in a long-range program expected to double its output by 1990, and the Russian oil industry is booming.

Kenneth H. Crandall, former president of the AAPG, says the U.S. oil industry has found itself in a paradoxical situation. "The nation's requirements for petroleum products continues its steady escalation, and since new discoveries are not keeping up with rising production, this is resulting in rapid use of our excess producing capacity," Crandall said.

He agrees there is enough crude oil and natural gas beneath U.S. soil and "future discovery potential of the U.S. remains very high."

Campaign misjudgments and failure to keep political fences in repair were regarded as a more common cause of defeat. One factor was "Potomac fever," the affliction of incumbents who feel they need not worry about their districts after they have been elected and re-elected. Each of the defeated House members had served between 6 and 14 terms.

Some of the challengers outsmarted the more experienced incumbents by exploiting modern campaign techniques.

Here are assessments from UPI bureaus of factors contributing to the defeat of incumbents:

TEXAS—Yarborough, 66, a senator since he won a special election in 1957, was beaten by former Rep. Lloyd M. Benson Jr., 49, a conservative in a state where Democrats are more conservative than the national party. Benson hit Yarborough's strong opposition to the war and his votes against two Southern Supreme Court nominees and a proposed constitutional amendment to permit prayer in schools. He also hammered at what he called Yarborough's "spend, spend" philosophy. Benson conducted a well-financed television campaign, and Yarborough seems to have fallen behind before he realized he was in trouble.

MASSACHUSETTS — Rep. Philip J. Philbin, 72, 14-term Democrat, was defeated by the Rev. Robert F. Drinan, 49, a Jesuit priest and antiwar candidate on leave from his job as dean of Boston College law school. Philbin, who did not campaign energetically, had backed away from his hawkish stand on the war but not enough to change his image. Drinan's organization used more than 3,500 volunteers to canvass nearly 40,000 homes for with road builders. Illness benched Fallon during part of the campaign. The black population of the district is growing, causing an exodus of whites who belonged to political clubs that once were a source of Fallon strength.

OHIO —Rep. Michael A. Feighan, 66, a 14-term Democrat backed by the party organization, was beaten by James V. Stanton, 38, president of the Cleveland City Council.

and antiwar candidate. Sarbanes concentrated his attacks on Fallon's support of the Vietnam War and associations with road builders.

NEW YORK —Reps. Adam Clayton Powell Jr., with 12 terms, Leonard Farbstein, seven terms, and Jacob H. Gilbert, six terms, were defeated in the Democratic primary. All failed to do much, if any campaigning. Gilbert lost to Rep. James H. Scheuer, who ran from the same district because of reapportionment. The three winners all were endorsed by peace movement organizations.

MARYLAND —Rep. George H. Fallon, 68, a 13-term and chairman of the House Public Works Committee, lost to Paul Sarbanes, 37, state legislator

10 Congressmen Tried Coasting in Primary . . .

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ten members of Congress who thought they could coast to re-election were defeated in the morning after party primaries this year to learn they were losers. Age vs. youth, lack of political campaigning and the Vietnam War were common factors in their defeats.

The war cut both ways. Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex., the only senator defeated in a primary, is a dove. Some of the nine losing House members—eight Democrats and one Republican—were beaten by candidates who took a more aggressive stand against the war.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield sought for the second time Friday to shut off debate and bring to a vote a proposed constitutional amendment calling for direct popular elections of presidents.

Mansfield filed another petition for cloture, which will be voted on at 1 p.m. EDT Tuesday. If it is approved by a two-thirds majority, the Senate would then be free to vote on the proposal amendment, which has already been approved by the House.

Debate on the proposal, sponsored in the Senate by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., has tied up senators since Sept. 7. On his first try to stop the talk, Mansfield's cloture petition was defeated on a 54-36 vote—six votes short of a two-thirds majority.

The debate, a parliamentary filibuster, although not in the classical sense of the word, is led by Southerners who believe the one-man, one-vote concept would give large populous states excessive electoral powers in national elections.

The amendment, supported by the Nixon administration, would abolish the Electoral College in which each state has electoral votes equal to its total number of senators and representatives in congress.

Instead, presidents and vice presidents would be elected in direct balloting. If a slate failed to win a 40 per cent plurality, there would be a runoff between the two highest.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—On Oct. 15, schools in the suburban Hazelwood district will close because voters have failed four times to pass a school tax levy. The district has 25,000 students.

"Many of the kids are quite bitter," Laurence Fuqua, principal of the senior high school, said. "They don't want to have to come back to finish up next year."

"They can't understand why people who had their education paid for aren't willing to pay for theirs," he said. "They can't believe people could place more value on a new motorboat or car than on an education."

The schools opened Sept. 1 on schedule even though a levy had not been passed. The Board of Education said the schools would have to close Oct. 15 if a levy were not passed by then. No more money.

Tuesday, voters again rejected a $5.54 levy and $3.2 million bond issue for classroom construction. At an open meeting, the board decided to refer the levy proposition Nov. 5 and close the 22 schools Oct. 15.

The board specifically scheduled the special election in hopes statutory amendments dealing with school levy problems will be passed in the Nov. 3 general election.

Proposed tax rates have received simple majorities in previous Hazelwood elections but have never broken the two-thirds barrier.

Fuqua said many parents still don't believe the schools will close. They think the board is just bluffing.

However: "My taxes increased $70 last year," one father said. "This year they would increase $72 more if the levy is passed."

Operation Lenore Hits Snag

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—It seemed a great idea at the outset—to run Lenore Romney against Democratic Sen. Phillip A. Hart of Michigan.

First, there was her name. Her husband, George, had made it a political touchstone for Michigan Republicans during three winning campaigns for governor.

And there was Lenore Romney in her own right. A vivacious, attractive woman

(she gave up a movie career for marriage), she had proven herself a valuable political asset as she threw herself into her husband's campaigns.

So everything seemed to figure when GOP leaders picked Mrs. Romney early this year as their "consensus candidate" for the Senate. Hart, by winning two senatorial elections, had to be rated a popular vote getter. But this year, with voters concerned over Vietnam, law and order and campus violence, it appeared he could be had or at least stoutly challenged.

Right from the beginning, however, Operation Lenore ran into trouble. At this late stage of the campaign, unless the polls are far off base, Hart appears comfortably on his way to a third term.

No Votes Close Schools

The fact is that Michigan politicians, and voters, seem far more interested in a race for the governorship loaded with emotionally charged issues.

Democratic state Sen. Sander Levin, a scholarly sort from suburban Detroit, started far behind but is making a contest of his run against Gov. William G. Milliken, who moved up from lieutenant governor when George Romney went to Washington.

Milliken is probably still ahead, but polls indicated Levin is coming up fast. High feelings over such issues as state aid to nonpublic schools, the United Auto Workers strike against General Motors Corp., and the campus unrest could decide the race.

As for Mrs. Romney, the party leaders had trouble getting her through the state convention and then she was almost beaten in the primary by a maverick, conservative state legislator.

She has since campaigned at a nonstop pace without appearing to make appreciable progress. Hart, reputed to be among the inner circle of senatorial decision makers, has maintained a low key, gentlemanly campaign approach and has felt comfortable enough much of the time to stay in Washington for congressional sessions rather than beat the bushes back home.

The latest poll by the respected Market Opinion Research of Detroit showed grounds for Hart's confidence—a whopping lead of 37 per cent.

THREE TEACHERS PER classroom is not standard practice, but often the case under a new experimental type team teaching system now underway at O'Leary Junior High School. Richard Chilcote, left, works with overhead projector equipment, while student teacher Harry Myers puts key ideas on the blackboard, and Carl Shaner, at right, gives some attention to an individual student. The experiment is conducted in ninth grade social studies classes.

Trio Tests Team Teaching

TWIN FALLS — Team teaching has come to the O'Leary Junior High School on a test basis. From early indications there may be more of this type of instruction in the future in the local school district.

Three junior high school instructors, including a student teacher from the University of Idaho are enthused about their experimental program and a visit to the class would indicate the students not only enjoy it but are making progress in their education.

The team teaching program involves ninth grade social studies and is currently conducted by Carl Shaner, Richard Chilcote and Harry Myers, student teacher. With about 30 students per classroom, the three utilize teaching aids such as audio-visual equipment for small groups, the class as a whole or for one individual student.

With three instructors, one may be working in another room with a group while two assist in the other classroom or all three frequently work together. With the three instructors available, each may work on a specialized phase of the current study, thus improving his own teaching methods and contributing something special to the program.

Carl Snow, school principal, and Norman Wiseman, vice principal, are watching the program with interest. Working on the principle that two — or in this case three — heads are better than one, the system provides new teaching roles and broader class evaluation.

Members of the local team meet constantly to define and evaluate their new teaching roles with respect to large groups, small groups and independent study, Wiseman explains.

"If teaching methods are the same as in a conventional classroom, then team teaching cannot be more effective," he said.

Under the conventional method the teachers lecture, present demonstrations and test about one half of their time. Most of the remaining time teachers conduct oral quizzes and supervise study, Wiseman explains.

With two or three teachers sharing the responsibilities, the students can be exposed to more of what suits their purposes, he added.

Local teachers and administrators say there is always a danger of "band wagon" adoption of a new system as a panacea for educational problems but in O'Leary officials are aware that progress is slow.

"One must be careful not to infer all things must change," Wiseman said. "We have learned much from experiences in the past and we feel many practices in use in the school now and in the past are just as effective today as they were years ago," he said.

Intercepting Foe Impossible

By FRED PARKER
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—"All we can do is detect them. We cannot destroy them."

The scene: The war room of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD). The speaker: Lt. Gen. Thomas K. McGehee, commander of the U.S. Air Force Aerospace Defense Command.

"We have 250 interceptor aircraft (on active duty) which are 10 years old," McGehee said. "The Russians have 3,000. We are now aware of new Soviet bombers which may frustrate the capabilities of our existing interceptors."

"At the present time, we do not have a system which will destroy ballistic missiles."

Deep inside nearby Cheyenne Mountain, workmen prepare one of three unused chambers of this continent's air defense system control center for the antiballistic missile system under discussion in Congress.

But even the Cheyenne Mountain complex, possibly the world's most solid fortress, is not invulnerable.

"Man is capable of destroying anything man constructs," McGehee said. "A direct nuclear hit with enough megatonnage would knock us out of business."

For the layman first visiting NORAD, it is inconceivable. Solid granite 2,500 feet thick shelters the three-story steel capsules resting on huge coil springs. Double steel doors two feet thick and as big as a house seal the tunnel system off from the outside world.

"We have supplies here for total self-subsistence for 30 days," a briefing officer said. "There is enough air inside the mountain to last six days, and after that we can readmit outside air and filter out any radioactivity."

Canadian—U. S. Effort
Code names on various display boards in the center

enunciate the grim nature of the work. It was "condition 5" of "fadeout" the day we were there. The numbers decrease to "1" which is called "cocked pistol" when the exercise is a drill. Under actual conditions, it's called "condition one." That's what it reached in the Cuban missile crisis. The next step is war.

A mile or so away the 10-story memorial to peace-loving Will Rogers juts into the sky from the side of Cheyenne Mountain. Only a hut and a sentry booth mark the yawning entrance to the NORAD complex.

Nobody enters except under the tightest security conditions. Troops from two nations, Canada and the United States man the complex. U. S. Air Force General Seth J. McKee serves as commander in chief of NORAD. Canadian Forces Lt. Gen. Edwin M. Reyno is the deputy commander.

NORAD's mission embraces three basic functions: detect, identify and—if necessary—destroy.

Three surveillance systems feed information into the combat operations center. These are manned; bomber reports and Distant Early Warning (DEW) line radar reports; Ballistic Missile Warning (BMEWS) and satellite detection.

Identification is maintained through use of Air Defense Identification Zone (ADIZ) and interceptors when necessary.

NORAD hopes for destruction of an enemy attack through a defense in depth.

Spiro Swats Spock Line

By LANCE G. HERDEGEN
MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Friday night blamed an age of permissiveness, exemplified by Dr. Benjamin Spock's books on raising children, as being responsible for much of the alienation and disorder in the nation today.

"Before we can properly address ourselves to any national issue, each one of us must address himself to this personal issue: How can we reestablish a sense of discipline in our thinking?" Agnew said.

"Discipline is a harsh word," he said. "But my friends, there is no greater need in the American body politic today than the need for discipline. During the past generation, a philosophy of permissiveness has permeated American life."

"In our schools, the ability to adjust became more important than the ability to excel," Agnew said. "In our courts, the rights of the accused became more important than the rights of the victims."

In his prepared remarks, the vice president continued. "In our legislatures, the temptation to spend exceeded the willingness to tax. In our culture, the need to protect free expression overrode the need to restrain bad taste and outrageous vulgarity."

"In our society, the need to escape was exalted and the need to cope was demeaned."

Within the past generation, Agnew said, parents often turned to Dr. Spock's book on raising children when their child came to the dinner table wearing dirty clothes, and with dirty hands and uncombed hair.

Noting that the book has sold more than 25 million copies, Agnew then quoted: "As usual, you have to compromise. Overlook some of his less irritating bad habits, realizing that they are not permanent." the thing to be carefully avoided according to the book, was "bossiness," Agnew said.

"Who do you suppose is to blame when, 10 years later, that child comes home from college and sits down at the table with dirty, bare feet and a disorderly faceful of hair?"

Agnew said he did not go along with those who would absolve an individual from the consequences of his actions and blamed "society" for every wrongful act.

MATT FRANTZ is his name — pickpocket is his game, if his father, Dr. Arthur Frantz, doesn't get wise.

Rigorous Dilettante Schedule Preceded by Social Gathering

BY NORMA HERZINGER

Women's Editor

TWIN FALLS — In layman's terms when you speak of a "character" you are usually referring to a member of a play cast or an individual showing a definite distinctness about him (the life-of-the-party type) — but only at a Dilettante party could you find the term correct in both instances.

Magic Valley residents affiliated with the Dilettantes gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Breckenridge recently to renew old acquaintances and make new ones — and to get the ball rolling for this season's production, "Oliver."

The party originated outside for dinner and games, but the minute Hank Wills sat down at the piano, everyone moved indoors and spent the rest of the afternoon singing show tunes familiar to all.

Shop talk occurs at any social gathering, however, and this one was no exception, especially when it got around to the number of cast members needed for the forthcoming production. With tryouts set for Nov. 7 and 8 at O'Leary Junior High School, (7 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday) 32 boys, six girls, six men, four women and 16 to 20 chorus members will be needed.

Brad Hickerson is the director of the group, with Mark Golay serving as choreographer; Tom Driscoll, business manager, and Mrs. Breckenridge, president.

Cast members needed include Oliver Twist, a workhouse boy about 13 years-of-age; Fagin, an elderly receiver who runs a training academy for pickpockets; the Artful Dodger, Fagin's brightest pupil; Bill Sykes, a villain in his prime; Nancy, 23 year old graduate of Fagin's Academy and Bill's doxy; Bet, a 13-year-old lass in Fagin's establishment who idolizes Nancy; Mr. Bumble, a large, pompous man of 55; Mrs. Corney, a sharp-tongued, domineering widow of 50 who serves as the workhouse mistress; Mr. Brownlow, an old gentleman of wealth and breeding; Mr. Sowerberry, the undertaker; Mrs. Sowerberry, his wife and overseer; Charlotte, their young daughter; Noah Claypole, the undertaker's apprentice; Dr. Grimwig, the doctor, and Mrs. Bedwin, the Brownlow housekeeper.

Other cast members will include Fagin's boys, six or eight boys ranging in age from 14 to 18; workhouse boys, 20 boys 8 to 16 years-of-age; pauper assistants, who are employed in the workhouse; Bow Street runners, street vendors and crowd, and eight young dancers.

HOSTESS, Mrs. John Breckenridge, chats with the Dilettante director, Brad Hickerson.

GUESTS VISITING after lunch include Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Curtis, center back. Curtis is the new music director at CSI and will direct the orchestra for "Oliver."

and Mrs. John Breckenridge. The group has chosen "Oliver" as its production this year, with tryouts set for Nov. 7 and 8 at O'Leary Junior High School.

Brad Hickerson is the group's director, with Mark Golay serving as choreographer; Tom Driscoll, business manager, and Mrs. Breckenridge, president.

Performances are scheduled for March 5, 6 and 7 and March 11, 12 and 13 at the CSI Fine Arts Center Auditorium.

MRS. SUSANN SCHOLL, 321 6th Avenue West, Twin Falls, has been named lucky winner of one-half of a 4-H beef in the downtown merchants' recent series of promotional contests. Jack Sears, manager of Bamber Furniture is shown presenting Mrs. Scholl with the "pot to cook it in". It took several days to contact Mrs. Scholl to inform her of the good fortune because she was busy at the Twin Falls County Fair Grounds collecting her display of antiques and two blue ribbons. This week the merchants' association will announce the winner of a "weekend in Sun Valley" and $100 in cash for spending money. Next big giveaway will feature the Buick Opel Kadett. Coupon entry blanks may be obtained at any downtown merchant participating in the program and everyone is invited to enter as many times as they wish. ### Beauty Hint Treat your complexion to a beauty boost, suggests famed make-up authority Max Factor, in order to prepare it for the coming season's newest and most attractive looks of fashion. Whether you bathe in the evening or morning hours, generously apply Moisturizing Cleansing Cream and allow it to remain on during your bath or shower.

 The warmth of the water and air will assist in its effective absorption and penetration. Carefully tissue it off, dispelling dirt and grime, and splash on cooling and refreshing skin freshener to completely remove all excess cream and oil.
 Before applying your make-up, add a protective veil of Moisture Essence Under Make-Up Lotion to guard against skin dryness all day long. Be certain to remove every trace of make-up at the end of each day and apply a nighttime beauty aid, such as Moisture Essence Night Cream, which lubricates and softens the skin as it returns lost moisture to your complexion.

Yoga Classes Scheduled By Local YWCA Hemlines Give Legs Important Status

TWIN FALLS — Yoga classes at the YWCA will begin Oct. 1, with Mrs. Eva McBride, Burley, as instructor. Mrs. McBride is an ardent Yogi and has a background of 15 years experience. She has studied under the supervision of several famous Yogis in California.

Breathing and stretching is the basis for Yoga. It is an art of posture coupled with deep rhythmic breathing. The purpose is not muscular development but spine flexibility and elasticity of the muscles.

Yoga is for everyone. It is a challenge and is fun. You can practice it in your own home without manual equipment.

Anyone interested in the class may call the YWCA for additional information. There will be an evening and an afternoon class.

The battle of the hemline has given legs a new status and stockings a new perspective.

No matter where the hemline ends, legs come through in design, color and texture.

"The fact is," says Arlene Zohn, Hanes Fashion Coordinator, "your legs are now the starting point of your fashion look. Experiment with color and have a wardrobe of leg styles to change moods."

Opagues kickoff fall in a wide range of colors from contemporary shades like Pale Indigo and Lotus Wine to earthy Temple Moss and Malabar Brown. Moving into action with mad irrelevance, the clear colors of Ghandi Red and Ruby. And Black, always an all-time favorite, is as strong as ever.

For an all-in-one elongated leg look, wear a wine midi skirt, slit from hem to thigh to reveal Lotus Wine opaques. Or a green and rust midi coat takes either Jasper Green or Terraotta panty hose depending on the mood and lifestyle for the day.

Menswear rib and swinging overall squares are the newest in textures. Fun is Rib Cage which can be worn for daytime or evening with shirt dresses or velvet knickers. And, Times Square, an open texture is so distinctive that it will go the evening route with flouncy or slim side slit skirts.

New Book Tells of World's "Most Extravagant Couple"

NEW YORK (UPI)—A couple of young marrieds in the international jet set are reported to have squeaked through their first nuptial year on a personal-expense budget of $384,615.38 a week.

"Right now Mr. and Mrs. Aristotle Socrates Onassis are spending more money than any couple on earth," writes Fred Sparks. "Their personal expenditures are running at the rate of $20 million annually."

"Ari is spending incredible sums to maintain himself and his spouse in a style that would have aroused the envy of the czars of Russia."

"And Jackie, who was never known to pinch her pennies, is buying every available goody at such a rate that, when we stack up how she lives alongside the way that Cleopatra, who was no slouch, used to live, we can only conclude that by comparison Cleopatra was a welfare case."

Even at that rate of spending, Sparks advises in a new book, "There is no need to worry about the Onassises—they are not dipping into capital."

The book, "The $20,000,000 Honeymoon" (Bernard Geis), tells of money outlay and personal events in the first marital year of the Greek shipping magnate and the widow of President John F. Kennedy.

Sparks says that from shipping alone, Onassis makes an estimated $50 million a year but that he has income from several other industries plus a huge portfolio of stocks. Financial observers, he adds, have stated that if Onassis liquidated all his holdings he would be worth from $500 million to $1 billion.

The kingpin item on the accounting list for that first year is the husband's shower of jewelry alone on Jackie: $5 (good grief) million.

When Mrs. Onassis' mother returned to New York from the wedding, the author says, a friend saw this figure in the newspapers and told her: "You haven't lost a daughter—you've gained a diamond mine."

TWIN FALLS — Janis Victor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Victor, Twin Falls, became the bride of Hal Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bailey in rites Sept. 10 at the Salt Lake City L.D.S. Temple. Elder LeRoy Buckmiller officiated at the double ring ceremony.

After the ceremony, the bridegroom's parents hosted a luncheon on the skyroom of the Hotel Utah for family and friends.

A reception was held the following evening at the Twin Falls LDS Stake Center.

The wedding party greeted guests before a backdrop of white nylon Austrian curtain with a gold lame valance and gold carpet to the receiving line.

There were cherubs on pedestals holding arrangements of large white chrysanthemums and flowering trees flanking the setting.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of Angel Glow silk. The fitted bodice was accented with a mandarin lace neckline and long puffed sleeves with wide cuff detail. The bell-type skirt featured a detachable train. The gown was trimmed in Venise lace and adorned with a lace and beaded motif. Her mantilla veil was trimmed with matching Venise lace.

Small Wedding Popular

What is a wedding?

Traditionalists say it's a church ceremony with bride in flowing white gown and groom in tuxedo, usually followed by a reception that includes dinner, dancing and merry-making by a multitude of friends and family.

Today, weddings appear to be changing in a revolutionary way regarding size, settings and fashion. They are smaller, with the ceremony being the focal point and the parties being subdued or avoided entirely.

Weddings take place in haunted houses, castles, in the air, under the sea and in other unique places.

Wedding gowns, too, have given way to pants-suits, mini-dresses, see-through outfits, and original mod fashions.

A recent study of married and single women conducted for the toiletries division of the Gillette Co. shows the small wedding gaining in popularity.

More than 60 per cent of the respondents said they preferred a small wedding, with a simple ceremony and small reception.

Diverse reasons were given for not wanting a large wedding. Almost 44 per cent of the women said a large wedding was too expensive, 22 per cent cited the pre-planning as too nerve-racking, and 16 per cent said the "pomp and circumstance" detracted from the true meaning of the ceremony. Another 10 per cent felt the money was wasted — they'd rather spend it on home furnishings or an exciting honeymoon trip.

Predictably, small weddings were favored more by married women, or those brides-to-be who had been married before.

Unique ceremonies got a strong vote. Example: one girl was planning an outdoor wedding in an Arabian tent.

Another girl's choice of wedding locations ranged from the city park where she met her beau, to a yacht in the Gulf of Mexico — similar to one she hopes they'll own some day.

Other locations mentioned by survey respondents were: on the roof of a skyscraper, in a cave, in the basket of a balloon and even in a rowboat on a quiet country lake.

Married women were quick to offer tips for prospective brides. Many mentioned that brides often forget the small but important arrangements that must be made between betrothal and marriage.

Early planning is a "must." Invitations, wedding dresses, and other items have to be purchased months in advance of the wedding in order to be delivered on time.

A checklist was cited as one of the most important items a girl should prepare and use in getting ready for her wedding. Making such a list in timetable form not only helps with the planning schedule, but also insures against forgetting to arrange any important segments of the wedding, no matter how minute.

Personal care, too, was repeatedly mentioned as vastly important to the future bride. Adequate sleep, balanced diet, and increased health and beauty care cannot be ignored.

"No Smoking" Signs Visible

Many physicians are now displaying a discreet but clearly visible sign reading "No Smoking" in their waiting rooms for the comfort of patients who suffer from the effects of allergies. Hay fever is the most common allergy. Tobacco smoke and other air contaminants worsen its symptoms.

During the height of the hay fever "season," the hay fever victim sneezes profusely, and can be recognized by his red eyes that itch, his runny, stuffed-up nose, and sinuses that may plug up painfully.

Today, physicians usually employ three-part therapy for hay fever sufferers: avoidance of the offending substance when possible; desensitization injections, helpful for many persons; and a medication containing an antihistamine to combat the allergic reaction.

In the last 30 years, the uterine cancer death rate has been cut by 60 percent, thanks mainly to the Pap test for early detection and to improved treatment. Similar results can be achieved for other forms of cancer. Give to your American Cancer Society.

Ornamental Metal Goes Modern

Ornamental metal has gone modern. The handrailing of this very contemporary stairway, for example, with its gracefully sweeping curve, is accented with a decorative yet simple pattern of stock ornamental castings called treillage. The treillage is malleable iron, and the handrail moulding is an easy-to-apply polyvinyl extrusion which lends an attractive color accent.

Note how the treillage pattern is repeated at the entranceway for a "total look." The openness and airiness of the pattern contributes to the feeling of spaciousness created by the uncluttered foyer and floating staircase.

Although scroll patterns and ornate floral designs are still very popular for a more traditional setting, a great variety of simple, contemporary patterns are available for use in modern residences as railings, screens and space dividers, to name just a few applications.

The treillage pattern shown here is called "Amsterdam" and is manufactured by Julius Blum and Co. Inc., Carlstadt, N. J. Blum, who has originated many treillage designs and developed markets for them, has a complete line of both contemporary and traditional treillage patterns. Additional information may be obtained from local interior designers or metal fabricators.

MODERN ALL THE WAY. The handrailing of this contemporary stairway, with its gracefully sweeping curve, is accented with a decorative, yet simple, pattern of stock ornamental castings.

Midi Fad Is "Doomsville"

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—California designer Mr. Blackwell says the American woman is not confused by the midi length—she is absolutely hostile to it.

"It's my belief that the midi has created the greatest disaster the fashion industry has ever known," Blackwell told editors covering the California Fashion Creators annual press week here.

"The American woman is not confused about it. She is hostile. She does not want it. If the midi is a total trend in the couture business, we're headed for Doomsville. If it makes it, remember what I look like because I may be back on the vaudeville circuit next year,"

It is only the fabric that combines fresh elegance with functional, rhythmic grace and soft pliant wearability necessary for today's total fashion look, says the president of the National Shoe Labor Association. Fabric shoes range from sporty contemporary boots in a ruffled, textured vinyl to broad-based mannik and velvet

A new concept in fashion provides a way to achieve the "boot look" coordinating feet, legs and long, often harmoniously in contrast without actually wearing boots. Inspired by the fashion debut of the mid Betty Currie, Footery for Burlington presents party hose in colors dyed to match fall and winter shoe colors.

Warning

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) warned Thursday that some imported women's chenille berets, a current fashion fad, sometimes burst into flames.

The FTC said it was issuing "a general warning about the potential hazards" of the berets because so many brands appear to be dangerously flammable.

The commission said it was working with importers to pull the products off the market but feared many would still be available.

The commission said most of the berets are made of acrylic, rayon and cotton, although wool and nylon sometimes are used. It said these fabric berets were "particularly hazardous" because they "burn with great intensity, release a large amount of heat and are extremely difficult to extinguish."

The FTC said it issued its statement as "a general warning" and was not implying that the companies had violated federal law.

His skirt lengths for spring 1971 were just below the knee or at mid-knee—"the length that never should have left fashion," he said.

U.S. Fashion Designers Can't Make Up Their Minds

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—California fashion designers couldn't make up their minds Wednesday whether the midi was the last word or a dead horse.

"Our bag is to survive, and it's always been a jungle in ready-to-wear," said Stan Hirsh, whose medium-priced garments are designed by Michael Calderon.

"When it comes down to the line, that buyer in Omaha, she's buying parts." Most of the designers were showing skirts near the knee or just below it. There were lots of midi skirts—but that was by no means the only length. Every line was heavily laced with pants suits.

Hirsh flatly said he felt the midi length was dead. On the other hand, other designers praised the longer look.

Georgia Bullock said, "I think it's high time our skirts were longer. It's not going to take long for the customer to accept it and feel out of it if she is still wearing the old short skirt."

"Let's face it," said Helen Bass, whose designs are intended for the woman with a matronly figure, "when the mini was in, not everybody was wearing clothes as short as some young girls. Clothes are longer. That's a fact. Mrs. America is going to bring her

TV Violence Researched

NEW YORK (UPI)—On television, the kids see a lynching or a shoot-out.

They view a knock-down brawl complete with humans sprawled on the bayroom's sawdust floor. You know it's make-believe. But what about the children? What kind of impact does the violence have on them?

The question, a large one, hasn't really been answered in a scientific way. And that's one reason Uncle Sam is spending $1 million on 23 unusual studies—all aimed at answering the question.

The National Institute of Mental Health is coordinating the research project involving 23 separate investigations.

At the University of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyo., investigators will probe the effects of televised violence of dreaming. The sleep patterns of pre-adolescent boys will be studied for two nights after half of them view a television film with violent content and the other half see nonviolent films.

Polygraphical records of these sleep patterns will be compared with the children's verbal reports of their dream content. The investigators have developed content-analysis scales for identifying hostility and anxiety.

IN THE LYNWOOD

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old happily married woman. My problem is my brother who is 19. Rick was the "favorite" and always knew how to get what he wanted. Mother waited on him hand and foot, and dad gave him money for just breathing. He was spoiled rotten. For his 16th birthday the folks gave him an expensive car, although his grades were barely passing.

Rick didn't qualify for one of the better schools, so dad pulled some strings and got him into a junior college. He flunked out and came home. Now my parents have decided to wash their hands of him. My father says a psychiatrist friend of his advised him to "throw Rick out and let him sink or swim."

Rick has taken up with some "way out" characters. I'm sure they're going the drug route. Rick has a lot of good in him and I can't stand to see him ruin his life. I want to offer Rick a home with my husband and me. My folks say if I take Rick in they will never speak to me again—that bailing him out now will only convince him that someone will always come to his rescue. I need your help. RICK'S SIS

DEAR SIS: A spoiled child makes an emotionally crippled adult. Your parents, the well-intentioned, "crippled" Rick, and now they're blaming him because he can't walk straight. I don't know what kind of a psychiatrist would advise a sink or swim solution for a young man who has never been taught to swim.

Take Rick on the condition that he gets a job, tries to straighten himself out and becomes a contributing member of society. And if your folks never speak to you again, it will be their loss.

DEAR ABBY: I'd like to offer some advice to "PESTERED IN SUMMER," whose gabby neighbor leans over the fence and talks a blue streak: Instead of a higher fence, plant a New Dawn rambler rose. It grows fast, has vicious thorns, and beautiful pale pink roses all summer long. Cuttings start readily when planted under glass jars. You could soon have the whole fence covered. Your neighbor won't lean long on those thorns, and the foliage will soon obstruct the view. MRS. L. W. R., CLARINGTON, OHIO

DEAR MRS. R.: Now that's what I call "saying it with flowers."

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl with a problem. I have a whole collection of dolls. Some are old and some are new, but they are all in excellent condition. I have doll houses and clothes—lots of them.

My father says I am too old for dolls and he wants me to give them away. I realize I am too old to play with dolls, Abby, but I still like to comb their hair and look at them once in a while. I was thinking I might even want to keep them for my children when I get married. Is that so dumb? I am really very much attached to these dolls. I can't help it. I've had some of them for years.

My father says my dolls and doll houses take up valuable room, but you should see all the junk he has just sitting around.

How can I explain to my parents that I want to keep my dolls? CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

DEAR CONFIDENTIALLY: I don't know how many dolls you have, but perhaps there are some you could give away to little girls who have no dolls at all. Why not keep those dolls you are especially "attached to," and give away the rest? And don't be ashamed of "playing" with dolls at your age. Doll collectors come in all ages.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Indispensable Describes
"Feel Rights"

The fashion thinking of many well-dressed women starts with the "indispensable" — those rare finds that look so right, feel so right; that a woman knows they are right, no matter what the occasion.

These are the clothes to live in, and often, what makes them so livable is the fabric. The newest "indispensables" are a case in point: smooth, rich-feeling fabrics of Creslan acrylic fiber play a major role in giving many of the new fashions their versatility and comfort. These fabrics tailor beautifully, and keep their shape in wrinkle-free fashion, no matter what.

Dresses, pants, jackets, tunics — and outfits that combine them — have all been styled in the new fabrics. There are crisp-looking woven fabrics as well as creamy knits: for individuality is as basic to this clothes-creed as versatility. The women who seek the "indispensables" want their clothes to be as free-wheeling as they are.

MR. AND MRS. STEPHEN A. KING

Deborah Swainston, King
Wed in Richfield Ceremony

RICHFIELD — Deborah Renea Swainston became the bride of Stephen Alan King in a double ring ceremony Sept. 19 at the Richfield LDS Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Swainston and King is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel King, all Richfield.

Bishop Ken Dixon performed the marriage in the church chapel. Vows were exchanged with the bride and groom standing before an arch entwined with white fern and red feather flowers with green accents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon eyelet embroidery over white satin. Wide cuff bands held the full nylon sleeves and the rounded neckline of the bodice was enhanced with a string of pearls belonging to the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Arvin Pounder, Richfield. She also wore a pearl and ruby ring that had belonged to her great-grandmother.

Her fingertip veil of triple-tiered illusion was held by a cluster of daisies. She carried a cascade bouquet of red and white roses tied with white streamers.

Mrs. Gaylen Swainston, Hagerman, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and Teresa King, sister of the bridegroom, Boise, was maid of honor.

John Paulson, Pocatello, served as best man. Ushers were Richard Eggarsdorf, Boise, cousin of the bridegroom, and Raine Swainston, Ketchum, and Kelly Swainston, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Melvin Pope was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. L. T. Sanders. Mrs. W. T. Flavel and Mrs. Lyle Deeds sang a duet, with Mrs. Kenneth Johnson as accompanist. Mrs. Johnson was organist for the traditional wedding music.

A reception was held in the LDS Cultural Hall, with the couple greeting guests while standing under the bridal arch.

Decorations in the hall carried out the bride's red and white color scheme. The three-tiered white wedding cake was displayed on a table covered with white lace. Red roses decorated the cake and red net clusters for the tiers separated by Grecian pillars. The cake was topped with miniature figurines featuring a sailor and his bride. Red punch bowls and red net arrangements centered with white doves completed the table decor.

Cake and punch were served by Mrs. Nyle Swainston, Mrs. Ross Swainston, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Morris Swainston, a cousin. Mrs. Michael Swainston, Ketchum, attended the guest book. She was seated at a table covered with white lace, accented with an elaborate red net heart holding a white dove.

Guests were served at small tables covered in white and centered with white ruffled net hearts enhanced with red feather flowers and tied with gold wedding rings.

The gift tables were attended by Rhonda Swainston, Jenea Swainston, cousins of the bride, and Ann King, Joyce Ward, Julie Haws, Rexburg, and Peggy Ralls, assisted with serving.

Mrs. Emily Firebaugh, Shoshone, grandmother of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Swainston and Mr. and Mrs. Arvin Pounder, grandparents of the bride, were special guests.

The couple took a wedding trip to Oakland, Calif., where they will reside while he is stationed at the Navy Air Station, Alameda, Calif.

The bride was given a pre-nuptial shower by Rena King and Mrs. Charles Sluder at the King home.

Official
Of Nutrition

James P. McFarland, board chairman and chief executive officer of General Mills, Inc., said today that increased consumer interest in nutrition is encouraging and urged support of voluntary nutritional guidelines if established and published by the federal government.

McFarland, in testimony given in Washington, D. C., before the Democratic Study Group's Consumer and Food and Agriculture Task Force, also urged the government to continue and expand its studies on hunger and malnutrition and cited the need for an intensified and coordinated nutritional education program by both the public and private sectors of the nation.

In his remarks, McFarland pointed out that selective fortification of basic foodstuffs has long been a part of industry practice. He said, "The addition of iodine to table salt has reduced the incidence of goiter tremendously, the use of Vitamin D milk has proved very successful in cutting down the incidence of rickets and the addition of niacin to flour and bread has virtually eliminated pellagra in the United States."

McFarland told his audience that the indiscriminate fortification of food can be overdone. "Industry, science and government," he said, "must work together to make certain that in attempting to improve the health of our consumers through fortification we do not endanger their health or so increase the cost of the products that we make them unavailable to those who likely have the most need of them."

Women's Lib Assists Men

NEW YORK (UPI) — All you males, relax about this Women's Liberation Movement. And prepare to find yourselves emancipated one day soon.

"Women's Lib is related to Man's Lib," says Dr. Ernest Dichter, head of the Institute for Motivational Research, an agency that probes behavior.

When Women's Lib matures, men, too, will be able to escape their stereotypes, according to Dr. Dichter's pronouncements on the subject.

In "Findings," the Institute's newsletter, Dr. Dichter says men escaping their stereotype role — (strong, silent types), will cook, wear fragrances, knit, cry and do other womanly things. Some men already do these things, so it's not such a giant step.

What it all will mean for advertisers, according to Dr. Dichter, is change.

What's out: the stereotypes of the dominant male and the weak, domestic female. Also nixed: the boob type of male always outwitted by his wife or boss. This type, typified by Dagwood in the comic strip, always makes a mess of things when left alone with the household and children.

"It might be an interesting change if the opposite were shown — that he does an excellent job and introduces his own innovations," Dr. Dichter noted.

"When Lib women talk about equality between the sexes, they're really objecting to the artificiality of the correct roles for men and women which have been the standard for generations — and perpetuated by advertising."

Dr. Dichter traces unrest among women to rising educational levels. The woman with a sheepskin resents, for example, learning shorthand first to get a job. Most educated males don't have to go this route. But that's not all.

"The educated housewife feels she will go crazy at home with only a three-year old and a vacuum cleaner for company... with her schooling wasted," Dr. Dichter observed.

COMPARING THE TYPICAL "western" hat with the Bobby's hat are, from left, Keith Hughes, Florrie Whan and Ian Whan, all Sunderland, England, and Mrs. Lynn B. Kerr, 187 Wirsching St., Twin Falls. The English guests are visiting at the Kerr home en route to Salt Lake City for the October LDS Conference. They, along with 188 other LDS members from England, flew by chartered plane to the Utah area primarily for the conference and to visit friends in the United States.

Beauty Hint

If you are one of the many women who are ashamed of the condition of their hands, famed beauty-fashion authority Max Factor suggests you relieve their roughened, reddened and chapped appearance with a planned program of effective hand care.

After every soap and water washing, apply the rich, deep-penetrating Swedish Formula Hand Creme which helps replenish lost, vital moisturizers. While working in the kitchen whether performing "wet" chores or preparing foods that stain, always wear rubber gloves to protect your hands and nails.

If a manicure is on your agenda when this work is completed, help prepare the nails for it by placing some oil-soaked cotton in the tips of the gloves. If you're a gardener, wear protective gloves to save your hands from the rough scrubbing which would otherwise be necessary to remove "ground-in dirt."

To help cure ragged cuticles and hangnails and keep your hands moist during the night, apply Swedish Formula just before retiring and wear lightweight cotton gloves to keep the cream on your hands and off your bed linens.

ABC TV's Dan August Receives Critical Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — ABC-TV's "Dan August," a new police series, turned up Wednesday night, dealing with a detective lieutenant who wears elegant turtleneck shirts and sharp trousers that probably cost half of a cop's weekly salary. The rest of the hour premiere was just as believable.

What is even more unbelievable, however, is the way the three networks have programmed the late Wednesday night time slot that includes "Dan August." For this one-hour period now includes three network police series, all competing against each other: CBS-TV's "Hawaii Five-O," NBC-TV's "Four-in-One: McCloud" and now "Dan August."

As the new television year starts, "Hawaii Five-O" is the frontrunner, having scored strongly in the ratings last season. And "Dan August" is, at least on the basis of quality, hardly likely to cause anyone to compare it with the better cops and robbers entries that come to mind, such as "The Untouchables." Wednesday's premiere contained not a single original thought, not a single memorable device. It is straight out of the sausage factory.

Burt Reynolds portrays "Dan August," resembling Marlon Brando slightly in looks, and positively in no other way. In the opener, he investigates the murder of an auto racer who was a very unpopular character. After going through an assortment of stereotyped suspects, he finds the killer, and I can't imagine anyone giving a hoot — except maybe for admirers of Reynolds' trousers, which are almost as tight as those worn by Tom Jones.

Joan Makes Bold Appearance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ted Kennedy's wife Joan figured she made a mistake last year wearing a mini dress to the White House. So Tuesday she went there in a midi. With a baby blue bra visible underneath a see-through lace blouse.

"I wanted to undo the error," said Joan, her blonde hair falling below her shoulders, but this time the sensation among First Lady Pat Nixon's luncheon guests was no more subdued.

"How do you like that?" snorted Rep. Margaret Heckler, a Republican from the Kennedy's home state of Massachusetts, who met reporters after the luncheon.

When asked how she liked Mrs. Kennedy's outfit, Mrs. Heckler smiled and replied, "No comment."

Like the short, low-cut cocktail dress that brought gasps from guests at a White House reception for members of Congress last year, Mrs. Kennedy's leather midi dress Tuesday was in silver. She also wore knee-high black boots.

Mrs. Kennedy admitted that her latest costume aroused comments from a few of her friends. "They tease me about it," she said.

The outfit is one of two of three midis she has bought, and she has a long coat to go with it. Like many other American women, her feeling is that "I'm not sure of them yet."

LOOKING FOR A GARAGE SALE? See today's Want Ads for a complete listing.

But, she said with a smile, "I thought I'd give it a try."

Most of the other guests at Tuesday's luncheon for Mrs. Ferdinand Marcos, wife of the Philippines president, shunned midis. "They're HORRIBLE," SAID Rita Hauser, U.S. representative on the U.N. Human Rights Commission.

Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who wore a black suit and hat, said she always wore her skirts just below the knee and will continue to do so.

Mrs. Kennedy said she planned to model a longer hemline when she appears with her husband, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., in a home state "fall foliage parade" in a couple of weeks, and would take their two children campaigning so "they can see what their mommy and daddy do when they are away."

Mrs. Nixon, who wore an aquamarine jersey dress at mid-calf, didn't blink an eye when Mrs. Kennedy went down the receiving line.

Women, the First Lady said, "are going to wear what they want this year, and not conform to designers' dictates. It's more fun that way."

TEAM OF TRACTORS pulls a 300 foot length of anchor chain to which segments of rail are welded, across grazing lands to eliminate sagebrush. The modern version of sagebrush "grubbing" is underway in the Wine Cup area of the Twin Falls

Ranger District, Sawtooth National Forest and may lead to similar programs in other areas. Ground methods of this type comply with air pollution control programs which frown on spray killing of brush.

Sagebrush Grubbing In Style Again With Modern Touches

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — Sagebrush grubbing is as old as the earliest land uses and in Twin Falls County it is now coming back in style with some modern techniques added.

Because of the current push for air pollution control, U.S. Forest Service officials are looking for new brush killing methods other than aerial and ground spray which has been used almost exclusively in recent years.

An experiment is now underway on the Twin Falls Ranger District south of Twin Falls, reverting to heavy equipment and a "grubbing" type system which is uprooting giant sagebrush to make way for reseeding and hopefully a new strong stand of grass.

companied by the Twin Falls County Board of Commissioners, inspected the project his week.

Work at the present time involves 630 acres of sheep range allotment on the south end of the ranger district. Two large D-8 tractors are under lease by the forest service for the work. Each is attached to one end of a 300-foot section of anchor chain to which about 18 inch sections of rail have been attached. As the two cats pull the chain across the brush it twists and pulls out the sage, generally roots and all. Munson said the equipment covers each area twice which seems to result in a satisfactory removal of brush. Areas are then hand seeded with a mixture of alfalfa and grass seeds. The forest service is conducting the work with the assistance and cooperation of the Noh Sheep

Co., whose livestock graze this particular area. Laird Noh told county commissioners the company has sheep in the vicinity now and his herder is doing the seeding during spare time. The land user provides the seed and labor for reseeding.

Known as the Wine Cup project, it was located in varying terrain to serve as a test for further brush clearing in other areas of the forest if it proves workable.

Equipment and the two workers are covering about 60 to 100 acres per day and Ranger Munson said cost of the project will be held to about $5 per acre with this method.

"One thing about it," he told county officials, "we don't worry about vandalism or anyone stealing the chain."

Each link with rail attached weighs 90 lbs., and the 300 foot length weighs about 15 tons. In manipulating it the two heavy equipment operators find they must turn at a specific angle or it will kink and cause a complete tie-up in operations. Because of the weight and pull of the chain the upper tractor frequently cuts a groove in the hillside when the equipment works on an incline, leaving a pattern of stripes in the area worked.

County commissioners inspected other parts of the district including the approximately six miles of new road in Rock Creek Canyon, a new ski lift under construction at Magic Mountain, timber management programs and the old Magic Burn in the Shoshone Basin Area which occurred in 1966 and which is now re-established as prime grazing land.

CORE OF ANCHOR CHAIN forms this sagebrush removal equipment coming back in style. Inspecting the chain, sections of heavy rail and the sagebrush and dirt it collects while

Margery's Not Prejudiced

ALTADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Actually, Margery Sweetland has no prejudices against men. Some of her best friends are men—including her husband of 18 months and the security guard at the bank where she is assistant vice president and manager.

But all the other employees of the U.S. National Bank branch here are women, and it's been that way since Mrs. Sweetland became the boss a year ago. "We don't have a large turnover," she explained in an interview, "and I couldn't see firing one of the girls just to have a man around. If an opening should arise, and a qualified man apply, I'd certainly consider his application. I'm not a women's liberationist, you know."

However, Mrs. Sweetland is well satisfied with her all-girl team of 13 employees. Business at the bank has been increasing between 7 and 10 per cent a month, and she thinks her girls are the reason why. "We're a neighborhood branch," she says. "We try to give personalized service. Our girls get to know the depositors."

NATO Force Reduction Decision Coming Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Within the next few weeks, President Nixon must make a crucial decision on whether to reduce the size of the U.S. troop commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

It's a tough one. America's European allies are exerting powerful pressures against any cuts, while a strong bloc in Congress is demanding significant reductions.

Vital to any decision is a clear assessment of Russian intention. So American and European diplomats and military planners are busily trying to figure out just what the Russians are up to.

In recent weeks they have made what appear to be a number of moves aimed at relaxing tensions in Europe.

None of the NATO partners wants to do anything which might reverse his promising trend, but all are looking closely for hidden Russian motives.

If, for example, the Russian gestures were a result of recognition of NATO determination to maintain the status quo indefinitely, any unilateral U.S. withdrawal, no matter how small, could upset the apple cart.

On the other hand, the Soviet Union is prepared to undertake a genuine easing of tensions in Europe, moving from its new nonaggression pact with West Germany to even more meaningful efforts at disengagement, the number of U.S. troops stationed there would become of only secondary importance and have little or no impact on future events.

Diplomatic, military and congressional experts who are attempting to solve the problem are under pressure from two approaching deadlines: the NATO ministerial meeting Dec. 10, at which force levels for the coming year are to be announced, and the federal budget, which must be ready for submission to Congress in early January.

But the experts are still at odds on the question. Favoring a continuation of the status quo for at least one more year is an alignment which includes the State Department and the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the Defense Department.

Arguing for reductions are International Security Agency (ISA) planners in the Pentagon and a sizable bipartisan bloc in Congress.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield is prime mover and spokesman for the latter group. He first called in 1963 for reducing U.S. strength in NATO unless the European partners met their own group quotas.

Three years later, in June, 1966, he made a major speech demanding "substantial" U.S. troop reductions and introduced a resolution demanding the return to the United States of all the 75,000 troops and dependents then living in France, plus an additional 10 per cent of the U.S. troops in West Germany.

His proposal stirred furious opposition in western Europe and among U.S. diplomats and military planners, and Mansfield has never tried to press it through Congress. However, he told UPI his proposal "still stands."

"I have been holding back on it to see what the administration would do on their own," he explained.

He added that "conditions are looking up" for troop reductions because of the recent Russo-German nonaggression treaty, and other indications that Germany is seeking an accommodation with the Communist bloc.

Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee would go even further than Mansfield has proposed. He recently described the U.S. troop contribution to NATO as a "symbol," and said he sees no reason for maintaining more than 50,000 American troops in Europe as a token presence.

The ISA experts, popularly known as the Pentagon's "think tank," mostly agree with his view. They feel the original force levels of NATO were formulated during an era when there was a very real possibility of Soviet aggression in Europe.

The forces never were large enough to fight a long-term war, but were intended only to provide a respectable holding action while additional forces were mobilized.

Total NATO combat and support forces in Europe's key center region (West Germany, Belgium, the Netherlands and France) range between 600,000 and 700,000, including five French divisions not now under NATO control but presumably on Nato's side in the event of war.

Idaho Upland Bird Hunting Calls For Stamina, Skills

By MARTEL MORACHE, Supervisor Conservation Education

A man and his dog can have a challenging range of upland bird hunting in Idaho. However, it does require knowledge, experience, stamina and motivation. And, this opportunity is available more than an entire month ahead of the big push on the bread-and-butter species, the ringnecked pheasant.

A case in point was the third week of September, 1969, which was the opening on all upland birds except pheasant last year. I had planned well in advance for a week's big game hunting in the prime elk range of northern Idaho. But compelling personal considerations made it advisable to remain close to home. Plans were changed and the emphasis was placed on upland bird shooting. For many years I had wished to do this, always showing bird hunting aside for early season big game hunting. I have personalized incidents here as a means of showing anyone the wonderful variety of Idaho upland game bird hunting.

The season was kicked off with a couple of hunting buddies by heading into sage grouse country of western Owyhee County, one hundred or so miles south of the state capital. This high desert plateau country has some of the finest sage grouse range remaining in Idaho. Rain just prior to the opening had scattered the birds. They were no longer on the meadows, so had taken wing. I stood in one spot and shot three birds, and while the dog was retrieving we detected a perfect arrowhead at my feet. This was the ancient hunting territory of the Paiute Indians.

Late Monday morning, after switching Brittanies (alternating dogs in hot weather hunting is good practice), I headed for the Boise Front. This is a range of sage and grass-covered foothills, twenty minutes north of town. Chukar and Hungarian partridge were today's targets. It was a very hot afternoon and the birds were shaded up close to water. Four hours later an exhausted dog and a sweating hunter had a mixed bag of 12 birds.

Tuesday (switching dogs again) we headed for the high country near timberline. This is blue grouse country. This bird has an unusual life history cycle. The hens rear their broods at lower elevations and migrate during the early fall to the highest ridge tops to winter. The adult males precede the broods. I decided on some of the high ridge country dividing the South and Middle Forks of the Boise River, 70 miles north of town. The elevation exceeded 8,500 feet.

Taking off from road's end, it was a steady hour's climb to top out on the ridge trail. Sure enough, the dog began flushing an occasional blue grouse male. When these big birds launch themselves downhill, you only have time to point and shoot.

We flushed 12 or 14 birds in two hours actual hunting time, limiting out in good shape. The view from the top of a mountain range is always spectacular. This day was no exception as we headed back down the ridge trail just at sunset.

After a five-hour drive Wednesday, we were in combination sage and sharptail grouse country near Blackfoot Reservoir in eastern Idaho. The sharptail favors grassy cover, along with sagebrush stands. This rolling hill country with elevations to 7,000 feet, meets the sharptail's living requirements. This bird has felt the heavy hand of man changing his environment more so than any other upland bird species. The remaining huntable sharptail populations are found only in certain areas of eastern Idaho. Before sundown, we had a mixed limit of sharptail and sage grouse.

Thursday before returning to Boise, we tried another blue grouse session south of Soda Springs. This bird has an undeniable attraction. This time we were hunting at elevations in excess of 9,000 feet. The Grand Teton was clearly visible to the east from this tremendous overlook. Hunting close together and working the dogs fairly tight, we had our birds in three hours.

Friday was set aside to regroup and gear up for what was thought would be the toughest go — looking for the wily Merriam's wild turkey. This was only the second general season in the state's history. This huntable population resulted from turkey plants in the early sixties.

Consequently, most Idahoans are novice turkey hunters, and I was no exception. We headed for the Riggins country, 160 miles north of Boise. We had hunted here last year and my partner had some foresight into turkey behavior.

For an hour before daylight we climbed into the precipitous ridge country of a tributary to the main Salmon River. The turkeys had been seen using the lower elevations during the course of the summer. Then we began working out the heads of several brushy draws just as you would hunt big game animals. This means a lot of binocular work. We jumped mule deer and were flushing ruffed grouse frequently.

As we approached the site of last year's hunt, we noticed three hunters one-half mile below us, carefully glassing over the ridge and initiating a stalk. Hurrying to the top of the draw we made it in time to see 50-odd turkeys coming single-file, straight up the draw, one-fourth mile away. This was a sight to see. We were pinned down in the open flat on our backs to avoid detection.

The three other hunters were closing in from the left and could see the turkeys were out-distancing them. They opened fire as the birds were about 70 yards from us. My hunting buddy was able to scratch one down with a 12-gauge Magnum. Then all hell broke loose — turkeys scattered in all directions, running and flying. I made the tactical error of trying to close the gap on one running up hill. It was no contest. At this point, two other hunters came up the bottom of the draw on horseback, pushing turkeys back up. I hurried back to intercept these, but again not in time.

Now, I began to wonder how on earth a person could be this close to 50 wild turkeys and not get a decent shot.

Several turkeys were frequently in good rifle range. I had no rifle this year. Also, birds had sought refuge in large hawthorne thickets. The dog that had been left behind would have been invaluable. While I was musing over the situation, a young tom came running back over the hill and flew into a large yellow pine, 200 yards away. These birds evidently felt particularly secure in this area.

Almost simultaneously my partner called out that he was pushing a turkey down the draw toward me. The turkey in the tree froze at the sound of his voice and focused his attention toward him. This gave me an opportunity to crawl through the hawthorne thicket into shotgun range and bring the bird down.

Clearly etched in my mind was the tremendous ground speed and flight capability of the big birds, not to mention their keen eyesight. Next year, a small bore rifle and a good brush dog will be included.

Later that afternoon, we headed for a ridge top nearby picking up a limit of ruffed and blue grouse. Heading home, I was reflecting back on the week's hunt and wondering where the old Idaho could be. An upland bird hunter has such an exhilarating, quality experience. Hunting a wide variety of upland bird species in spectacular surroundings from high deserts to the top of the mountain ranges is unforgettable, and we hadn't even touched the quail hunting!

Warner Romps For 3 Scores In First Win

IDAHO FALLS — Robert Warner, rounding into health after an early leg injury, exploded on touchdown runs of 59, 52 and six yards Friday night to point the Twin Falls Bruins to their first victory of the year — a 28-7 decision over Idaho Falls.

The Bruins dominated the Tigers throughout and showed a couple different changes. Junior Kevin Nelson guided Twin Falls to all four scores, replacing classmate Jerry Barbour for the first time this year. Alan Scherbinski, who got the other touchdown, showed some power running and Kevin Call, used a fullback for usual starter Rich Borah, out with a shoulder ailment, blocked well and caught three passes.

But the defense probably was the big thing as it dominated the pass-conscious Tigers. Idaho Falls completed 15 of 32 passes but all were of the short variety. Senior Rocky Reece picked off two and Ward got another. Overall, Twin Falls piled up 419 yards — 113 in the air — in the air — and saw one 70-yard romp by Scherbinski and a long pass to Joe Swope nullified by penalties. Idaho Falls got 249 yards, most of them in the second half when Coach Norm Thomas had the rare opportunity to clear the bench.

Warner's first two touchdowns came in the opening period and shoved Twin Falls out of reach. The first was for 59 yards and the second 52, both on dive plays. In the second period Scherbinski staged a pretty blend of broken field and power running to get in from the 18 yard line and Warner wound up scoring in the third with his six-yard drive.

Twin Falls lost another chance in the fourth quarter on a quarterback-center exchange fumble at the Idaho Falls one-foot line.

Idaho Falls' lone tally came in the last period when Bill Combo threw a 12-yard pass to Bruce Roberts.

DIVING for an interception, Hansen's Greg Moore was unable to come up with the ball during action against Murtaugh Friday afternoon. The ball was deflected off the hands of Murtaugh's Mark Howard (44), the intended receiver, but fell incomplete. Hansen won the game 22-12.

Punt Return In Last 2 Minutes Nets 12-7 Win

RUPERT — A 48-yard punt return by Roger Timmons with 1:10 left in the game lifted the Caldwell Cougars past the Minico Spartans 14-7 Friday night.

Timmons' jaunt came just 90 seconds after the Spartans, nursing a 7-6 lead for two quarters, had weathered a missed field goal from the 11-yard line. It was the first Southern Idaho Conference win for the junior-laden Cougars, while luckless Minico fell for the third straight time — all in the last minute or two.

Minico struck first, picking up a fumble on the fourth play of the game at the Cougar 42-yard line. A 15-yard penalty sent the Spartans to the 27 and on the next play Jerry Groesbeck burst off tackle and scored easily. Stan Moncur booted the extra point.

From then on Minico had to rely on its defense as the offense could mount little punch. The Spartans were held to only four yards in the second quarter, which meant Caldwell had the ball most of the time.

But Minico's defense held up well and it wasn't until a fumble, recovered by Phil Fouts at the Spartan 34, that Caldwell was able to get loose. The touchdown drive — helped by a 12-yard penalty — last seven plays and it came on a fourth and three situation. Timmons squirmed in on a quarterback sneak but Minico arose to halt the two-point try.

Shoshone Overpowers Kimberly

SHOSHONE — Shoshone completely containing Kimberly's speed-gear attack — shrugged off a slow first quarter and broke Mike Swain loose for three touchdowns Friday night to batter the Bulldogs 32-0.

The tough Indians were pushed down to their own three-yard-line in the opening minutes, but a pair of five-yard penalties stopped the drive and the first quarter ended scoreless.

Shoshone got its first TD early in the second period when Gary Burkett capped a long drive with a four-yard plunge. The extra-point kick was blocked, and the Indians couldn't score again until Jack Soloaga ran in from the eight yard line midway through the second period.

Kimberly took over and ate up most of the first half with another long march, but Shoshone held and got its second touchdown with Jack Soloaga running in from the eight. The Indians made it 19-0 at the half by scoring on the last play just as the gun sounded — Jim Pagaoga hitting Swain for 35 yards.

The Indians made it 25-0 on a nifty run by Swain in the third period. He started from the 15 on a sweep, cut back, and maneuvered into the end zone for the TD. Johnny Urrutia set up the last Shoshone score with a pass interception — Swain getting the final 20 yards on a pass from Pagaoga.

The Bulldogs — going with the shotgun formation in the second half — couldn't give Rod Rudolph enough time to pass and the Indians' strong rush proved the difference on defense.

Reese and Castleford Drop Declo

CASTLEFORD — Lynn Reese broke up a scoreless defensive battle with a short touchdown plunge to cap a grinding 60-yard march Friday night as the Castleford Wolves dropped Declo 12-0.

Castleford, now 3-1 on the season, muffed a golden opportunity in the first quarter when it drove inside the 10-yard line of the Hornets and fumbled. Declo got inside the Wolf 10 in the first half, but ran out of downs.

Reese finally broke the ice with his run, before Larry Reese passed to Dave Easterday for a clinching TD halfway through the final period.

Bruins Win Boise City Run Test

BOISE — Paced by junior Stan Doten's eight-place finish, the Twin Falls Bruins won the Boise City invitational cross country title Friday by defeating 19 teams.

The big rivalry again was between Twin Falls and Jerome with the Tigers finishing second. It squared the season match at two-two between the two schools and left both as likely contenders for the state cross country titles next month. They run in different divisions.

The individual winner was Walker of Burns, Ore., who outlasted Kelley of Borah. Doten was the top Magic Valley runner with his eighth-place finish, just ahead of Jerome's Van Hoozer. Jerome's Suter came in 14th but was followed by the Bruin bunch of Jack Cooper in 15th, Bob Billington 17, Bruce Cooper 18 and Darrel Groves 21st.

Twin Falls wound up with 79 points followed by Jerome at 96, Boise 119, Highland 143, Mountain Home 148, Ontario 158 and Borah 165.

In the javayee division, sophomore Jim Kennedy led all individuals and paced Twin Falls to an easy decision. Again Jerome was second, trailing the young Bruins 32-73.

Many of the same teams are expected to run in the Jerome invitational Friday afternoon.

G. F. Erupts To Defeat Valley 45-18

GLENN'S FERRY — Glenns Ferry broke open a tight 13-12 ballgame with a touchdown late in the first half and turned loose its big, speedy backfield in the second half to wear down Valley 45-18 Friday night.

The Pilots — smarting from an upset loss last week to Gooding — scored on the fourth play of the game as Rich Brown broke loose for 59 yards off tackle. Bob Shrum kicked the extra-point for a 7-0 lead. Glenns Ferry came right back minutes later and made it 13-0 as Bob Shrum passed to Rich Brown from 24 yards out.

Valley's Larry Richman trimmed that to 13-6 late in the opening period when he fired a 35-yard TD strike to Kim Gergen. The pass for two points failed, but the Vikings got another touchdown when Richman hit Dan Steward for a 10-yard strike. Just before the half Rich Harder upped Ferry's lead to 21-12 with a 3-yard plunge before another conversion pass from Shrum to Brown.

Glenns Ferry drove down on the second-half kickoff and Bob Shrum capped it with a TD from the eight, then on the next series little Ernie Revere picked off a deflected Valley pass and romped 16 yards for another score and a 33-12 Pilots' lead.

Rich Brown went 27 yards for another touchdown in the third period before Richman went 12 yards for the last Viking points. Harder wrapped up the scoring late in the game when he bolted in from the 27.

Hansen Outlasts Murtaugh by 22-12

HANSEN — The Hansen Huskies stumped Murtaugh with two quick touchdown passes in the first quarter but needed a last-quarter score to clinch a 22-12 decision over arch-rival Murtaugh Friday afternoon.

The game was only six minutes old before the passing combination of Greg Moore to Lynn Pearson had victimized Murtaugh for scoring plays covering 40 and six yards. Moore rolled out for the double two-point conversion.

Hansen's offense began slowing, however, in the second quarter when Walt Freestone turned loose on a 57-yard run — only to fumble at the end of it at the Murtaugh 10. Murtaugh, thoroughly dominated by Hansen's defense in the first half, started coming back in the third quarter. The Devils got a break when they recovered a fumble at the Huskie 23 three plays into the second half. After getting one first down, Greg Stanger flipped a five-yard scoring strike to Wayne DeGeorgia. But Hansen stopped the two-point try to stay two touchdowns in front.

Meeks-to-Campbell Pass Duo Sparks Jerome Past Tigers

JEROME — Jim Meeks hit Roger Campbell with two explosive touchdown bombs in the first quarter and Rick Thomason rambled 70 yards with an intercepted pass late in the third quarter Friday night as the Jerome Tigers beat Mountain Home 26-14.

While Mountain Home was having trouble mounting any kind of attack in the first 24 minutes under quarterback Dave McAbee, Jerome moved the ball well and Meeks' play-action passes found Campbell completely wide open both times.

The Tigers took the opening kickoff and scored first when Clay Stone broke into the clear on the Mountain Home 32 — caught the entire secondary standing still — and rolled in. Stone plunged over for the two-point conversion.

On the second play of the next Jerome series, from the Tigers' 43, Meeks faked to a back, rolled to his right, and found Campbell standing all alone with nobody within 20 yards. He had to stop for the pass but had plenty of room and got the 57-yard TD. The run for two points failed.

It was here that Mountain Home mounted its only drive of the first half, aided by a pair of major penalties, but Roy Hillier broke up a fourth-down pass from the Jerome 10-yard-line by McAbee.

The Tigers took over and three plays later Meeks and Campbell ran the same pass play — this time Campbell caught it in full strike — and it clicked for 75 yards and a 20-0 lead with 16 seconds left in the first quarter.

Immediately after the kickoff the teams traded possession on a Hansen fumble and then a pass interception. Hansen punted after that and Murtaugh mounted a 70-yard drive for its second score. Stanger's 23-yard run plus a 15-yard penalty got most of the yardage before Stanger threw a 10-yard touchdown strike to John Flynn. The conversion pass was dropped.

After that Hansen had seemingly a dozen chances to tuck it away. Hansen recovered a fumble at the Devil 21 but lost that on a pass interception. On the next series the Huskies tumbled and lost the ball at the Murtaugh eight — but the Devils fumbled it right back at the 13. Murtaugh held four plays there but again on the next play Hansen's Jerry Gunter intercepted a Devil pass and return it to Murtaugh four. Freestone finally ended all doubt by slamming up the middle for the clinching touchdown.

Undefeated Musers Rip Richfield 40-8

RICHFIELD — Mike Gill and Shane Sweet paced a powerful Camas County ground game Friday afternoon as the Musers defeated Richfield 40-8.

Gill carried 18 times for 137 yards and a 7.6 average while Sweet got five yards a crack in the 250-yard display. Quarterback Dave Coates passed for 125 more.

The Musers scored twice in the first period. Gill got the first TD on a 30-yard run and Coates romped 20 for the second score. Gill broke loose for 33 yards and another touchdown in the second quarter to run the score to 18-0 before Richfield got on the board with a 1-yard Paulsen plunge. King ran over the extra points.

Camas County wrapped it up in the third period with two more TDs. Sweet running it in from six and 25 yards out. Coates passed to Vanskike for the two-point conversion on the second score for a 32-8 lead.

Freshman Wayne Osborn scored the last touchdown for Camas when he broke loose from the 20. Brother Lyndon Osborn got the two-pointer.

Defensive standouts for the Musers in the game were guards Greg Sokersein and Dave Prock, who accounted for 26 tackles between them.

Wolverines And Filer Tie at 6-6

HAILEY — Wood River and Filer fought to a battle of defenses Friday afternoon, ending in a 6-6 draw after the Wildcats ensured the tie with a touchdown late in the third period.

Wood River, again experiencing offensive woes, failed to move the ball consistently but a big factor in that was 105 yards assessed in penalties.

The Wolverines and Filer mostly kept it between the 20-yard-lines. Wood River's only TD came in the first quarter — the only period the club threatened at all — when Greg Exner tallied from the two. The kick failed. Earlier Wood River had driven down to scoring territory at the outset, but came away empty.

Buhl Hits Late, Tops Gooding

GOODING — The Buhl Indians struck for two touchdowns in the final four minutes to break away from the Gooding Senators 18-6 and post their first victory of the year.

After a scoreless first quarter, Gooding got a break when Corey Youtz scooped up an Indian fumble at the 35-yard line and ran it 10 yards to the Buhl 25. The Senators ground down to the one-yard line before Gary Gorrell sneaked in for a 6-0 lead that lasted a long time.

Buhl stayed behind until late in the third quarter when it put together a 50-yard march that culminated in a one-yard quarterback sneak by Ben Allen.

The deadlock remained until midway through the final period when Buhl intercepted a Gooding pass. With 3:50 remaining, Allen scored on another sneak but the conversion kick was blocked.

Gooding then had to start gambling and gave up possession on a fourth down try near midfield. Seconds later John Muirhead shoved the Indians out of reach with a 30-yard sprint around end.

Gooding managed only one other scoring threat, the first-half clock running out with the Senators on the Buhl 10-yard line.

Wood River Runners Win Pair

GOODING — Wood River took both divisions of a cross-country meet at Gooding State Friday afternoon, placing one man first in the varsity run and using depth to win the JV race.

The Wolverines totaled 36 points to 39 for runner-up Twin Falls in the JV race; Gooding State had 45. Richfield's only runner, David Ross, finished 12th.

Wood River won the varsity division with 27 points, Burley had 34, and Twin Falls — most of its squad at Boise for the Boise Invitational — ended with 67.

Ward of Wood River, with a 13 minutes flat time, was the winner in the varsity division. Swigert of Wood River was second; Waymont of Burley third; Davids of Burley fourth; Miller of Twin Falls fifth, and Kidd of Burley sixth.

McCalley of Gooding State took the JV event, with a 14:22 time. Brad Scheele of Twin Falls was second, followed by Olmstead of Twin Falls; Charleton, Wood River; Bell, Wood River; Jefferson, Wood River; Hunter, Gooding State; Van Leuven, Gooding State; Lawley, Twin Falls, and Dixon, Wood River.

ISU Rips Nevada; UOP Rallies by Idaho

Bengals Coast To 572 Yards, 64-34 Victory

POCATELLO — Indoor football debuted in Idaho Saturday night in a point explosion that carried the Idaho State Bengals to an easy 64-34 romp over University of Nevada at Las Vegas. The victory ended a string of five straight defeats — stretching over two years.

Senior quarterback Tim Dunne, a surprise starter after ISU had announced sophomore Tom Lee would start, ignited a point avalanche right from the start. But Las Vegas found ISU a little leaky in the secondary and hit a few passes for long yardage. In fact, Las Vegas managed to take the lead at 17-before Dunne hurriedly whipped the Bengals into complete control.

Idaho State took the lead on an all-time school record when three plays into the second quarter Dunne hit junior college transfer Ken Warren for 92 yards. Warren took the ball on the 30 and outspurred two defenders for the final 70 yards.

For awhile it appeared the winner would be the team that had the ball last. Idaho State took the first punt of the night on a 12-yard return to the Nevada 42. Jackson opened with a 17-yard romp up the middle and minutes later, on fourth and one, Dunne rolled out for the score. Louie Hurst of Bellevue converted.

But that lasted quickly. On the second play after the kickoff Don Kennedy threw a 57-yard bomb to Nat Hawkins to the ISU 13 and the same combination tied it up on the next play. ISU had to punt after the kickoff. Wally Buono putting it out on the Nevada one. But Las Vegas went 99 yards from there, getting three first downs and then a Kennedy to Don Brown 49-yard bomb carried to the ISU one. Gilchrist went in from there for a short-lived 14-7 Nevada lead.

Carlis Harris' long return of the kickoff started ISU again and with 1:40 left in the first quarter, Dunne flicked a 10-yard scoring strike to Harris. The 92-yard touchdown bomb came shortly after Nevada missed a 50-yard field goal to end the first period. On the ensuing kickoff, Las Vegas fumbled and Don Taylor recovered at midfield. Six plays later Jackson ripped 15 yards up the middle for the score but this time the kick was blocked.

Jackson scored from three yards out with 3:05 left in the half and seconds later Rhett Sherman's pass interception set up another touchdown. Dunne, showing no problem with his ankle, romped 45 yards on a rollout, and on the next play, getting a key block from Warren, went 15 for the touchdown.

Nevada also fumbled the next kickoff with a 20-yard pass to Tom Ude getting another touchdown with 22 seconds left.

But that was time enough. Kennedy hit two long passes in a row to roll Nevada to the ISU one-foot line and on the last play of the half Gilchrist bulled in for the score, then added a two-point conversion for a 47-22 halftime score.

Scott Cryder, Idaho's first 14-foot vaulter and two time junior college national champ, missed out on a good trip this fall because of his summer job. Cryder worked at Newport Beach and didn't have time or facilities to vault. The AAU invited him to go along to a meet in Barcelona, Spain, but he had to decline. However, he promises he'll be ready when the next call comes.

Blue Lakes Women Hold Golf Meet

Only one stroke separated the top three teams in the Blue Lakes Women's invitational tournament Friday.

The team of Ruth Jenkins, Grace Thompson, Mackie Thiel and Jean Rountree carved out an 88 total in the best ball team affair to claim the title over 27 holes. Tied for second at 89 were the teams of Connie Everton, Ruby Stone, Pat White and Gwen Gale and Mildred Soran, Beth Shields, Maggie Sonner and Roberta Parrish.

Three nine-hole lap prizes were awarded. The first went to Ina Soran, Kathleen Erb, Evelyn Christofferson and Esther Toher with a 31. The second, at 28, went to Ruth Carpenter, Marilyn Toews, Martha Holcomb and Edith McAtte, and the third, also at 28, was won by Jan Jones, Phyllis Burkhalter, Carolyn Stuart and Elva Felton.

USC Racks up 660 Yards in Smashing Past Iowa by 48-0

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—Southern California, displaying the offensive strength that has carried the Trojans to their No. 5 national ranking, rolled over Iowa with ease Saturday, 48-0.

The Trojans employed Coach John McKay's ball-control offense to perfection, smothering the Hawkeyes with a 660-yard offensive attack. They scored on seven of the 11 times they had possession, and five of eight times in the first half, when the Trojans ran up a 34-0 lead.

Quarterback Jimmy Jones ran over two touchdowns from one and eight yards out and tossed a scoring strike to Bob Chandler for nine yards.

Tailback Clarence Davis, who rambled for 151 yards in 17 carries, scored an eight-yard touchdown in the second quarter and did not play at all in the second half.

Second string quarterback Mike Rae, who played most of the second half along with the second offensive unit, went over from four yards out to complete Southern Cal's first half effort.

Lou Harris and Rod McNeill ended the Trojans' scoring on runs of one and four yards.

Iowa staged its only scoring threat in the fourth quarter when it drove from its 20 to the Southern Cal four yard line before being stopped on three consecutive running plays.

Mississippi Nips Kentucky

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—Archie Manning hurled two touchdown passes to split end Floyd Franks Saturday to guide Mississippi to a 20-17 decision over Kentucky in the Southeastern Conference opener for both teams.

Manning hit Franks on scoring passes of 50 and 15 yards but had trouble moving the ball in the second half against a rugged Wildcat defense. Tailback Bob Knight raced 48 yards on a punt return for the other Rebel touchdown.

Alabama Routs Florida 46-15

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Alabama blended the devastating running of tailback Johnny Musso with a ferocious defense that clamped a lid on Florida's running attack and continually harassed passing whiz John Reeves Saturday to fire the Crimson Tide into a 46-15 rout of the previously unbeaten Gators.

Reaves, who holds a fistful of Southeastern Conference records, managed to complete 24 of 44 passes for 238 yards, but the pressing Alabama defenders repeatedly threw him for losses and often forced him to hurry his throws. Conference rushing leader Tommy Durrance was held to only 54 yards. His mates lost so heavily on the ground that Florida ended up with just 41 yards rushing.

N.C. State Ties S.C. 7-7

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—Winless North Carolina State came up with a tough defense Saturday and capitalized on fumbles and interceptions to hold heavily-favored South Carolina to a 7-7 tie.

Wingback Pat Kenney found a big hole in the South Carolina line with 4:25 left in the first period and ran untouched 29 yards for North Carolina State's score with Mike Charon adding the extra point.

held Iowa to 23 yards in the air and 190 on the ground, while the Trojans rolled up 506 yards rushing and 154 passing.

Davis was the leading ground gainer, despite sitting out the second half. Sam Cunningham collected 87 yards in seven carries and Jones had 33 in three. For Iowa, fullback Tim Sullivan gained 59 yards in 17 carries.

Oklahoma Staters Stun Houston 26-17

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI)—Flanker Dick Graham raced 85 yards with a Houston kickoff for one touchdown and hauled in a pass for another Saturday to spark Oklahoma State to a 26-17 upset victory over the 11th-ranked Cougars.

Cowboy signal-caller Tony Pounds scored on a 43-yard run and tossed touchdown aeriels of 16 and five yards to Graham and split end Hermann Eben, who set a new school record of 10 TD pass receptions in a career.

All of Houston's scoring came in the first half, with Carlos Lopez' 43-yard field goal giving the Cougars a 3-0 first quarter lead. Tommy Moizek bolted over from the six to end a 62-yard, six-play drive and fullback Ted Heiskell drove over from the one to cut the Cougars' halftime deficit to 20-17.

Oklahoma State, loser to Arkansas and Mississippi State in its first two games, employed a stout pass defense to repeatedly bat down aeriels inches in front of intended receivers. The Cowboys intercepted three passes.

Wildcats Coast by Parsons

OGDEN, Utah (UPI)—Weber State came to life late in a dull game Saturday night defeating Parsons College 29-3.

The Wildcats stayed on the ground during the first half to grind out three slow, methodical touchdowns, while an aggressive defensive held Parsons to a single field goal.

The most spectacular play of the game was a 60-yard punt return for a touchdown by second string quarterback Dale Magers, with less than four minutes left in the game.

Parsons' only score came midway in the second period after Weber's defense dropped Larry Park for a three-yard loss on the Wildcat seven. Frank Repass booted a 27-yard field goal. The Fairfield, Iowa, team was never able to penetrate past the Weber 30-yard line during the remainder of the game.

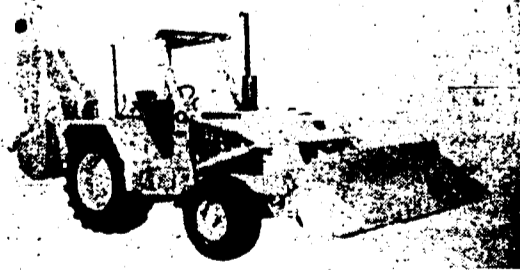

Dr. Darrell W. Brock, director, Idaho State Health Laboratory, said the samples were part of the first 300 analyzed this fall by the materials testing reactor at the National Reactor Testing Station near Arco.

Brock said the mercury traces found were in quantities not considered harmful to man. Earlier, results of testing of pheasants were released and as a result Idahoans were urged to eat only one meal per week of pheasant. Brock said the human blood samples tested were something of a mystery for State Health Department officials since eight samples were taken from fish and game employees who said they had eaten pheasant within the past 12 months and eight other samples who had not eaten pheasant during the past year.

The eight samples reporting mercury traces were divided evenly between the two groups — the pheasant eaters had four and the non-pheasant eaters had four.

Pacific Uses Bomb in Final Four Minutes to Grab 17-10 Decision

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)—John Read literally bombed the Idaho Vandals with long passes Saturday as the University of the Pacific won a strongly contested football game here 17-10.

Read threw bombs of 65 and 59 yards for the former going to split end Roger Coleman for what proved to be the winning margin.

The latter aerial, to flanker-back Honor Jackson set up Pacific's first touchdown just before the end of the first half. Jackson picked the ball off the hand of two Idaho defenders and galloped to the 15-yard line before being dragged down.

Three plays later, Read hit running back Dave Brigham on an eight-yard scoring strike. Idaho scored on the fourth play from scrimmage as Fred Riley popped off right tackle, cut back to his left and out-raced four Tiger defenders for a 60-yard tally.

Brigham's catch tied the score 7-7 at the inter mission.

The third quarter was scoreless.

Early in the final period, Idaho's Ricardo Castillo booted a 25-yard field goal which turned out to be the Vandal's final tally. Idaho held the 10-7 advantage until the three minute mark when Read hit Coleman between two defenders and the speed end flashed into the endzone untouched.

Mark Pash's 23-yard field goal with just under two minutes remaining, proved to be frosting on the cake.

Jackson was the big gainer for the contest, picking up 121 yards on six catches. However, all this came in the first half as sophomore cornerback Kelly Courage kept the bigger Jackson covered like a blanket for the final 30 minutes.

Read completed 17 of 38 passing attempts for 271 yards and the two touchdowns. He also had two passes picked off by Vandal defenders.

Irish Whip Purdue 48-0

By ED SAINSBURY
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Notre Dame's sure-handed split end, Tom Gatewood, hauled in 12 passes, one of them a school record, from Joe Theismann and scored three touchdowns, tying a Notre Dame high, in a 48-0 rout Saturday of Purdue. It was the most one-sided decision in their 42-game football series. Gatewood, a junior from Baltimore, Md., fell only one short of equaling the Notre Dame record of 13 pass receptions set by Jim Seymour against the Bollermakers in 1966. Seymour gained 276 yards on his receptions and Gatewood wound up with 196.

UTEP Miners Strike Early, Down Punchless BYU 17-0

A-State Smothers K-State

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI)—Arizona State capitalized on Kansas State errors for two touchdowns late in the first half and added two more in the third quarter to launch a 35-13 inter-sectional football win over the Wildcats Saturday night.

The Wildcats, without all-big-8-conference quarterback Len Dickey, went scoreless until late in the game when Henry Hawthorne bolted over from the two to climax a 62-yard drive. Forty-five yards of the drive came as the result of Arizona State's penalties.

Dickey, suffering from a bruised rib cage, came in only to hold for the extra point, kicked by his understudy Matt Arreguin.

Dickey's Arizona State counterpart, Joe Spagnola, broke the school career total offense record getting 300 yards in the game for a total of 3,295, 10 yards more than the previous mark set by Wilford White in 1947-50.

The Sun Devils had been in Kansas State territory only twice and had not penetrated inside the 25 until their first touchdown drive, set up when Bob Davenport chased Arreguin back to his own 47 and forced a fumble.

Mike Fanucci recovered on the 39 and from there the Devils marched to paydirt in 10 plays with quarterback Joe Spagnola sneaking in from the one.

UCLA Nips Northwestern

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dennis Dummit threw a 53-yard, fourth down touchdown pass to end Terry Vernoy with 2:39 to play Saturday night as UCLA came from behind in the final period for a 12-7 victory over a stubborn Northwestern football team.

Northwestern's quarterback Maurie Daigneau ran over a first-period touchdown and defensive back Jack Dustin broke up a two-point conversion attempt by UCLA in the third period to leave the Wildcats holding a 7-6 lead with less than three minutes to play.

The Bruins were stopped on their own 47 for three plays before Dummit tofted the ball 30 yards in the air to Vernoy, who caught it on the Northwestern 20 between two defenders and raced into the end zone.

The ability of the Wildcats to capitalize on a ball turnover led to the Northwestern touchdown in the first period.

Midway through the opening quarter, a Dummit pass bounced off receiver Reggie Echols and was intercepted by linebacker John Voorhees. The Wildcats then marched 56 yards with Daigneau scoring from the nine on a keeper.

Bill Planisek kicked the conversion that almost won the game for the Big Ten team.

Held in check until late in the third period, UCLA drove 80 yards in 10 plays. Dummit completed three passes on the drive, the longest a 38-yard throw to Bob Christiansen. Summit scored from the one.

The Bruins then went for a two-point conversion pass from Dummit to Christiansen that was broken up in the end-zone by Dustin.

UCLA had numerous scoring opportunities. On the sequence before the final touchdown, the Bruins gained possession on Northwestern's 13 on a fumble recovery but failed on a 20-yard field goal attempt.

But UCLA held the Wildcats and forced them to punt before the winning touchdown play on the desperation pass.

Dummit completed 14 of 34 passes for 207 yards while Daigneau made 8 of 20 for 52 yards. Northwestern's Mike Adame carried the ball 26 times for 73 yards while Arhut Sims gained 67 yards on 19 carries for UCLA.

It was the unbeaten Bruins' third victory, all of them second-half come-from-behind wins.

Colorado Ends Penn State Skein

Fumbles, Interceptions Keep Buffs Easily in Command in 41-13 Win

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI)—The University of Colorado, scoring just 85 seconds into the game, upset third-ranked Penn State 41 to 13 Saturday and snapped the Nittany Lions' 23-game winning streak.

The Lions had been unbeaten in 31 games before meeting the 16th-ranked Buffaloes. Colorado easily handled the rugged offense and defense of the Lions.

Colorado had 23 first downs to 19 for the Lions and gained 406 yards compared to just 290 for Penn State. Both teams lost three fumbles and both had two passes intercepted.

Turnovers—both fumbles and interceptions in crucial moments—crippled the Lions' normally potent attack. Senior quarterback Jim Bratten guided the Big Eight Buffaloes three quarters, building up a 34-7 lead before being replaced by Paul Arendt. Arendt passed for one touchdown 17 yards to Rick Kay in the fourth quarter.

Wide receiver Clifford Branch opened the second half with a 97-yard kickoff return.

Penn State, fresh from a 55-7 drubbing of Navy last week, presented Colorado a prime scoring opportunity when quarterback Mike Cooper tossed an interception to Colorado safety Pat Murphy only five seconds into the game.

Bratten struck quickly in the confusion, passing to wide receiver Steve DalPorto at the Penn State 22 and then sending running back Ron Rieger over right guard for seven more yards.

Marv Whitaker gained 11 yards to the Penn three and two plays later John Tarver took a pitchout a yard into the end zone. That set the pattern for the game.

Penn State scored in the second quarter after linebacker Jack Ham recovered a Rieger fumble on Colorado's 17. Five plays later Cooper sent hard-running Franco Harris up the middle for a six yard touchdown.

Number two quarterback Bob Parsons—taking over from Cooper in the fourth quarter—passed three yards to split end Greg Edmonds to end Penn State's scoring. An attempted run on the extra points failed.

Colorado kicker Dave Haney kicked field goals of 35 and 48 yards, shattering his career record of 37 yards. He kicked five extra points.

Bratten hit 9 of 19 passes for 117 yards, no touchdowns and two interceptions. Cooper hit 7 of 16 for 75 yards and also threw two interceptions. Lydell Mitchell led Penn State in rushing with 74 yards while Tarver had 64 for Colorado.

Texas Tops Tech in Last Half by 35-13

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—No. 1 Texas, its offense performing at a sluggish rate for two quarters, got a needed spark from halfbacks Billy Dale and Jim Bertelsen Saturday night to whip Texas Tech 35-13 and extend the nation's longest winning streak to 22 games.

Bertelsen scored twice in the second half from four yards out after a strong Texas defense had halted the upset-minded Red Raiders twice inside the Longhorn 30.

The 22 straight victories, dating back to early in the 1968 season, tied a Southwest Conference record and combined with Penn State's 41-13 loss to Colorado Saturday established the Longhorn streak as the longest in the land.

Quarterback Eddie Phillips scored on a 17-yard run, fullback Steve Worster contributed a three-yard scoring blast and halfback Billy Dale scampered for nine yards to round out Texas' scoring.

The Raiders held Texas scoreless in the second quarter during a catchup attempt and scored themselves on drives of 72 yards in nine plays and 58 yards in three plays. Texas led 14-13 at halftime.

Phillips led the Texas offense with 127 yards rushing on 18 carries and hit 6 of 15 passes for 90 yards. The Longhorns amassed a total offense of 522 yards while holding Texas Tech to only 241 total offensive yards.

Napper hit 4 of 14 passes for 51 yards and McCutchen led the ground game with 63 yards on 15 carries.

LSU Stops Rice in 24-0 Romp

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Louisiana State used a methodical ground attack led by Tommy Casanova and Arthur Cantrelle Saturday night to easily roll over Rice University 24-0.

LSU took a two-touchdown first half lead on one yard runs by Casanova and Cantrelle. Kicking specialist Mark Lumpkin scored five points with a 44-yard field goal and two conversions.

Quarterback Buddy Lee passed six yards to Jay Michaelson in the fourth quarter and Lumpkin kicked the extra point to wrap up the scoring for the Bengals.

A fourth quarter drive by Rice to the LSU 12 petered out when the Tiger defense blocked a pass from Owls quarterback Phillip Wood.

Lumpkin's field goal and three conversions set an LSU record for points scored by a kicker, boosting his career total to 118. Doug Moreau, who graduated in 1965, held the old record of 117.

A 33-yard pass from Bert Jones to Andy Hamilton in the first quarter placed the Tigers on the Rice three. Casanova dived through the middle, for one yard and the first touchdown of the game.

LSU jacked the score up in the second period on a one-yard run by Cantrelle after the Tigers got in scoring position by moving 53 yards on 10 plays.

Cal Skips to 56-14 Rout Of Indiana

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Substitute quarterback Dave Penhall flipped touchdown passes of 38 and 34 yards and scored on an option run Saturday to spark California to a 56-14 rout of Indiana.

The victory was Cal's first after two losses while Indiana absorbed its second straight defeat against intersectional foes. The Bears, humbled 56-15 by Texas last week, tallied their most points since 1947 when they beat Montana 60-14.

Penhall, a 185-pound senior who took over at the end of the scoreless first period, twisted 19 yards on an option and heaved a 34-yard TD pass to flanker Steve Sweeney to highlight a 24-point second period nor the Bears.

Penhall also tossed a 38-yard scoring pass to Jim Fraser in the fourth quarter.

After being blanked in the first two periods, Indiana tallied midway through the third period when halfback Rick Thompson sped 53 yards around right end. On the third play of the last period, third string quarterback Mike Hezeman heaved a 51-yard pass to Glen Scolnik to set up Hank Pogue's seven-yard TD burst.

An aroused Bear defense, embarrassed by allowing 87 points in losses to Oregon and Texas, handcuffed the Hoosiers in the first half. Defensive end Steve Reece and interior lineman O.Z. White anchored a hard charging line that limited the Hoosiers to only three first downs and 18 net yards, 16 of them by passes, in the first half.

Gym To Be Open For Basketball

Chad Browning, city recreation director, announces the O'Leary junior high school gymnasium will be available for open basketball play starting Tuesday evening.

Browning said the gym would be open and supervised from 7 to 9:30 p.m. each Tuesday through Nov. 10.

Arkansas Rolls Over Tulsa 49-7

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI)—Second string tailback Jon Richardson scored two touchdowns and the Arkansas Razorbacks rolled up 522 yards in total offense Saturday to beat Tulsa 49-7.

Richardson replaced top Arkansas running back Bill Burnett who sustained a slight shoulder separation in the second quarter but not before Burnett scored a touchdown on a five-yard run. Quarterback Bill Montgomery hit split end Chuck Dicus with a 12-yard pass to paydirt and led Tulsa 14-7 at the half.

A 21-point third quarter with Richardson's two scores and a six-point quarterback keeper by Montgomery put the game out of reach. Second string quarterback Joe Ferguson set up two more Arkansas touchdowns in the final period with 11 completions in 15 throws. Mike Saint scored both touchdowns on three-yard runs.

But the Indians came out of their lethargy quickly early in the third period. Eric Cross returned the second half kickoff 58 yards and Hillary Shockely scored from the one with little more than a minute gone.

The next time Stanford got the ball it moved 80 yards in 12 plays with a touchdown coming on an eight yard pass from Plunkett to Randy Vataha.

Oregon closed it to 12-10 when sopho quarterback Dan Fouts hit end Greg Specht from 10 yards out, but Reg Sanderson of Stanford returned the next kickoff 82 yards to the Oregon 18 and Plunkett ran it over from 15 yards out.

STARTING THE UPSET, University of Colorado's Bob Masten (82) dives into the end zone for the Buffaloes' first touchdown against Penn State Saturday afternoon. Bruce Bamson (30), Gary Gray (10) and Mike Smith try to stop the play. Colorado won 41-13. (UPI telephoto)

Michigan Erases 3-0 Deficit To Overhaul Washington 17-3

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Halfback Preston Henry scored touchdowns on runs of eight and 30 yards Saturday to lead Michigan to a 17-3 victory over Washington before 57,500 disappointed fans.

Henry, a junior, did not play in the first half which was dominated by Washington's Sonny Sixkiller who completed 13 of 21 passes in the first 30 minutes for a total of 117 yards.

The Michigan defensive line got to Sixkiller in the second half, hammering the sophomore quarterback repeatedly for huge losses.

Washington took a 3-0 lead midway in the first period on a 35-yard field goal by Steve Wiezbowski, and the Husky lead stood up until Dana Cain booted a 39-yard field goal for the Wolverines with 8:07 remaining in the third period.

Then Michigan went to work. The Wolverines stopped Sixkiller on two successive quarterback sneak attempts to pickup a first down on the Husky 49 and took control of the ball.

Don Moorhead, Michigan's veteran signal caller, worked the Wolverines down to Washington's 8-yard line and then pitched out to Henry who roared around right end into the end zone.

Michigan's stalwart defense throttled every Husky attempt to come back, and the offensive unit capitalized on a Washington error in the fourth period to set up Henry's second touchdown.

The Huskies had forced Michigan to punt from their own 38, but the Huskies were penalized 15 yards for holding and Michigan kept the ball.

Stanford Shatters Ducks 33-10

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—Jim Plunkett, overcoming a shaky first half, threw three touchdown passes and scored once on a run Saturday in a record breaking performance to lead fourth-ranked Stanford to a 33-10 victory over Oregon in a Pacific-8 football game.

Plunkett, only 9-25 in the first half when Stanford trailed, became the Pacific 8's most prolific touchdown passer in history. His three scoring passes gave him 39 for his career, breaking the old mark of 37 set by Bob Berry of Oregon.

Ken Woody's 36-yard field goal early in the second period gave Oregon a 3-0 lead. Stanford did not move inside the Oregon 38 in the first two periods.

But the Indians came out of their lethargy quickly early in the third period. Eric Cross returned the second half kickoff 58 yards and Hillary Shockely scored from the one with little more than a minute gone.

The next time Stanford got the ball it moved 80 yards in 12 plays with a touchdown coming on an eight yard pass from Plunkett to Randy Vataha.

Oregon closed it to 12-10 when sopho quarterback Dan Fouts hit end Greg Specht from 10 yards out, but Reg Sanderson of Stanford returned the next kickoff 82 yards to the Oregon 18 and Plunkett ran it over from 15 yards out.

Keino Breaks Commonwealth Distance Mark

LEICESTER, England (UPI)—Olympian Kipchoge Keino of Kenya beat off the strong challenge of England's Phil Banning and set a British Commonwealth record in the 2,000 meters race in five minutes, 5.2 seconds.

He outclassed three British runners with an immaculate display of front running and stormed home alone after thwarting dodged Banning in the last lap.

Iowa State Trounces Rams 37-6

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—George Amundson and Dean Carlson, alternating for three periods at quarterback, each figured in two touchdowns Saturday as Iowa State crushed Colorado State, 37-6.

The two signal callers led a statistically unimpressive offensive attack that found the Cyclones holding only a 63-yard rushing advantage and trailing in the passing category 92-261. But a strong Iowa State defense held the Rams scoreless until late in the fourth quarter and picked off four key passes deep in Cyclone territory.

Amundson slammed over from the one-yard line for the Cyclones' first touchdown, then yielded to Carlson who plunged from eight yards to give Iowa State a 14-0 lead.

Carlson also set up a 31-yard scoring pass play to Dave McCurry that boosted Iowa State to a 23-0 halftime advantage.

Reggie Schoemake, whose accurate toe accounted for four extra points during the non-conference battle, booted a 48-yard field goal in the first half. The kick tied a school record for distance and also tied a school record for the most field goals in a season—five—with only two games under his belt.

The highlight of the second half was an 84-yard pass pick off and scoring run by Jeff Allen. The Cyclones' other touchdown came on a two-yard smash by Amundson.

Field Goals Let Deacons Nip Seminoles

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—Barefooted Frank Fontes kicked four field goals soccer-style Saturday night to help an otherwise sluggish Florida State team to a 19-14 victory over winless Wake Forest.

Fontes, the smallest man on the Seminole squad at 5-6 and 155 pounds, broke a school record with his four boots, longest of which was from 47 yards, while the others were from distances of 39, 22 and 37 yards. Fontes missed four others.

AMES, Iowa (UPI)—George Amundson and Dean Carlson, alternating for three periods at quarterback, each figured in two touchdowns Saturday as Iowa State crushed Colorado State, 37-6.

The two signal callers led a statistically unimpressive offensive attack that found the Cyclones holding only a 63-yard rushing advantage and trailing in the passing category 92-261. # Two Gem Candidates, One Voice

The Questions

GOV. DON SAMUELSON

- (1) — Of all the reasons you may have, what is the paramount one that motivates your desire to be governor. In other words, why do you want the job?
- (2) — In campaigning over the state do you like to meet with individuals, small groups or large crowds?
- (3) — What one issue should concern the citizens of Idaho most in this election?
- (4) — Are you personally for or against a national park in the Sawtooth-White Clouds area? If not for a park, would you favor a national recreation area?
- (5) — Are you satisfied with the way President Nixon is handling the war in Vietnam?
- (6) — The draft law expires in about eight months. Would you recommend it be continued or would you favor start of an all-volunteer force?
- (7) — Are you for or against the proposed new Constitution for Idaho? If for it, what would be considered a specific benefit? If against it, why?
- (8) — Do you plan to offer any new major legislation for consideration of the legislators after you take office?
- (9) — Does Idaho have a pollution problem? If your answer is yes, then what is it and how do you propose to deal with it?
- (10) — Do you think enough is being done taxwise for support of education in Idaho?
- (11) — If more tax money is needed, would you favor a broader base tax or would you favor a hike in income and property taxes?
- (12) — Confronted with major riots on an Idaho campus, would you favor calling the national guard or would you favor leaving the decisions up to local authorities?

CECIL D. ANDRUS

PENCIL SKETCHES of Gov. Don Samuelson and Cecil D. Andrus by Judy Reeder, Times-News staff artist.

BY O.A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor

If both interviews could have been carried on at the same time it would almost have sounded like the same man talking with two voices.

It wasn't that Gov. Don Samuelson, who seeks to succeed himself as chief executive for Idaho, or Cecil D. Andrus, the Democratic hopeful who would take over that spot for the next four years, didn't have answers to a dozen questions I put to them in Boise — it was just that the answers in many instances showed little difference, if any, between them.

Each man had a list of the questions before the interviews. This would enable them to form their answers prior to the questioning. In other words, it would represent their true — and not snap — thinking.

Neither Gov. Samuelson nor Andrus had any way of knowing how either answered the questions. Andrus was interviewed in his campaign headquarters in the Boise Hotel. The governor was interviewed in his office at the state house. Each interview — both on the same day — took up about an hour in time.

Until they read this story neither will know how the other answered any of the dozen questions asked.

Both Andrus and Gov. Samuelson were cooperative, both granted as much time as was required in each interview and both gave their personal views in a direct manner. The interviews were conducted without interference (with the possible exception of a telephone ringing or a door opening) and there were no so-called "ghost writers." The answers came direct from each individual.

So here the voters of Idaho are just more than a month away from the general election and there are few issues Andrus or Samuelson really disagree on.

The campaign to date over Magic Valley has been a quiet one and it bids to continue that way right up to Nov. 3 unless someone explodes a bomb. There is really no indication that there will be any "dirty politics." At least neither of the gubernatorial candidates showed any desire of making anything but a straight-forward appeal to the voters with emphasis put on shaking as many hands and talking to as many people as possible.

They don't see eye-to-eye on some things but they speak with one voice in others.

First, each was asked just why he wanted to be governor. What was the motivation behind his desire?

Gov. Samuelson said he wanted to serve because he was concerned "about my country."

"I am concerned about pollution and environment, about fish and game management, about land management. I feel that we need to work with all of our county, state and federal agencies to correct many of our problems in a business-like way before they become any worse.

"It is a tremendous challenge and I have never felt that I had the right to criticize unless I personally tried to help correct it," the governor said.

To this same question, Andrus said he "has seen many things I felt should be done for the people of Idaho."

"One thing that disturbs me is that for too many years a special few have had control of state government and it is now time that the people have representation. Before I leave this old earth I'd like to have personal feelings that I have contributed something to the betterment of our people and our state. I want state government returned to the people," Andrus said.

About meeting with people, Andrus said he liked to meet with individuals because "I can talk with them about their individual problems. This is not always possible to do, so I really do not hesitate to meet with any number of people, either large or small crowds.

"As an example, when the farmers came to Boise had I been governor I would have met with all of them on the statehouse steps and then would have invited them or their leaders into my office if they desired private discussions," he said.

Gov. Samuelson said that it really didn't matter to him — he had no real preference, were the words he used — whether he met with individuals or crowds. He said he felt equally at home in either case and was willing to carry on discussions in either situation.

Answering question three — what issue should concern the citizens of Idaho most in this election — Gov. Samuelson said it really involved several. He said he was, and the voters and citizens should be, concerned with money inflation, increased costs of government and taxes.

Andrus said the "one" issue has to be "people." He said he meant how they live, how they work, how they are taxed, how we spend the tax money and how we educate our children.

"The overriding feature would be on spending the tax dollar and the tremendous increase in the cost of state government during the current administration.

"The cost of state government has risen from $1.8 million to $4.9 million in three and one-half short years. This is a matter of official record in the budget books and the records of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho," Andrus said.

In answer to the "touchy" national park question, Mr. Andrus said he was "opposed to the destruction of the White Clouds by surface mining."

"My primary concern is for protection of this high altitude alpine area," he said. "I endorse the national park and recreation area concept as the only means under existing law to protect the White Clouds and Sawtooth Mountain area. The controversy resolves around boundaries and these should be set to protect this high altitude area but not so large as to interfere with grazing, recreation, hunting and fishing, selective timber cutting and other beneficial uses, including church camp sites in the lower valley areas."

Gov. Samuelson said he was against a national park in the White Clouds-Sawtooth Valley area.

"I have always opposed a park in that area and I have supported a national recreation area from the start. I see no reason to change my mind now because I think it is the best thing for that area and for the state as a whole," Gov. Samuelson said.

As to whether President Nixon was "doing a job" in Vietnam, Gov. Samuelson said he backed the President's steps and "I believe he is doing an outstanding job."

Andrus said he agreed "with the objective of getting our men out of Vietnam."

"I hope he (President Nixon) can step up the timetable to get them out because the longer we stay there the more American lives we will lose.

"We have many problems at home and with the financial burden of the war demanding more than $100 million a day, we cannot solve the problems of urban areas, the pollution problem, highway construction, hospitals, schools and vocational education facilities so badly needed at home," Andrus said.

Answering the question pertaining to a possible volunteer armed force for the United States, Andrus said "I prefer an all-volunteer force but if the draft is necessary to meet the manpower requirements I would like to see a way that will enable young men to plan their future and not be faced with a five or six year period of uncertainty."

Gov. Samuelson said he would favor "the start of an all-volunteer force if at all possible." He added that such a force, however, would necessarily call for higher wages for those volunteering in order to meet competition from other fields.

Voters will have the opportunity to vote "yes" or "no" on a new Constitution Nov. 3. Samuelson did not say whether he, personally, would vote for or against it.

"I am still studying the proposed new Constitution," Gov. Samuelson said, "and I urge everyone else to do the same. I have suggested study groups in every neighborhood in every area of the state avail themselves of copies of the proposal and then study them. Then I would let every individual decide for himself whether it was good or bad.

"This is one of the most important votes an individual can participate in and they need to inform themselves before they make their final decision," Gov. Samuelson said.

Andrus said that "the people" will have the question before them in November and that he will abide by that decision.

"I personally will vote for it because it is an improvement," Andrus said. "However, there are some problem areas in the new document that the next legislature should look at if the people approve the new Constitution."

Concerning new major legislation he might consider should he take office, Andrus said that he would urge enactment of public supported kindergarten legislation. He would introduce legislation to abolish the department of administrative services which he described as "one which functions on duplications, increased expenditures and wanton waste."

Andrus said he would also ask for an increase in state appropriation levels for public education in order to reduce the burden on the property taxpayer at the local level.

"In my administration the representation will be by departments," Andrus said. "I mean, for instance, that the department of agriculture will represent the farmers and the ranchers and not the special few."

Gov. Samuelson said he has plans to offer new — and major — legislation to the next legislature.

"Right now I cannot detail it," Gov. Samuelson said. "The various department heads are checking for needed legislation at the present time and it will come to my desk by Dec. 1. It will then be prepared for presentation to the legislature."

Answering the question on pollution problems the governor said that "Idaho has had pollution problems ever since its inception and will be confronted with more and new problems as long as man inhabits the state."

"We have made great strides in correcting many of our problems," Gov. Samuelson said. "This has taken place over the last 10 years. Deadlines have been set to correct air and water pollution problems in our state. Deadlines have also been set to correct solid waste and natural degradation problems through such agencies as the soil conservation service." Andrus said that "water pollution is the most critical."

"Recognizing there is pollution at all levels — municipal, private and industrial — there must be integrity involved between business and government. Pollution levels must be arrested.

"I believe much of this can be accomplished under existing law if we have an administration that is willing to admit to the problem and meet it head on," he said.

Concerning education, he said too much of the support is coming from the local property tax base. He asserted that when the sales tax was passed the citizens were assured this would cure the "ills of education."

"It could have and it should have but it has not because too much of the revenue has been bled off for other purposes such as increased growth in administrative levels of government," Andrus said.

Gov. Samuelson, on the subject of education, said "there are only six states in the United States that tax themselves more for state and local government — including education — than do the good people of Idaho."

"Actually the line is very thin between Idaho and the other states. Approximately 70 per cent of our general fund tax dollar is spent for education. I feel that we should compliment the tax payers of Idaho on the job they are doing," the governor said.

As to how he would raise taxes if more money was needed, Gov. Samuelson said "I would prefer to work to broaden the tax base by encouraging business and industry to expand and grow."

"We should help them find new markets for their products and thus raise the per capita income of our people. This would in turn generate more sales tax, income tax and other sources of revenue that contribute to our general fund budgets.

"I would not propose to raise any of the taxes," Gov. Samuelson said.

Andrus said that no tax raise was necessary because "we have revenue within our existing tax base if it is expended wisely on a priority basis."

The question of possible use of the national guard in case of college or university disturbances was introduced and Andrus said that "I have respect for and confidence in local authorities — both law enforcement and college officials."

"In the past they have demonstrated their ability to handle any situation.

"However, if the situation became critical I would not hesitate to call out the Idaho National Guard. But I point out that most of our college students are there to get an education," Andrus said.

Gov. Samuelson discussed possible guard action by pointing out that "three years ago" he brought all of "our law enforcement people together and prepared a plan."

"At that time we obtained supplies and equipment to handle any kind of an emergency that could take place in Idaho. We are prepared to follow the dictates of our state laws and Constitution to protect life and property in our state."

During the interviews, both the governor and Andrus said they had heavy travel schedules between now and the general election that will see them visiting all parts of the state.

ago. In those days, the bonus for a vulnerable grand slam was 2,250 points and he wanted it. He jumped to seven spades and put it up to West to figure out what to lead.

West thought awhile and opened the unbid suit, whereupon South ran off 13 tricks.

John Emery of Dallas had a similar problem in the Vanderbilt Cup some 15 years back and made the same bid Jacoby had made with the same delightful result. That is, delightful for the bidder. West was not happy.

Truscott's North also bid seven spades. As Alan points out, he made a deliberate overbid and again it worked. It looks as if this type of hand is just bad for the defenders.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Bridge problems tend to repeat themselves. Here is a hand from Alan Truscott's book that shows North faced with the same problem that faced Oswald Jacoby some 35 years back. Look at the North hand. You have opened one club. East, who is not vulnerable, has jumped to four hearts. Your partner has bid four spades and West has gone to five hearts.

You feel rather certain that your partner will be able to make seven spades if you can discourage a heart lead. How do you go about it? Do you just bid five spades? Do you jump to six? Do you try a fake cue-bid of six hearts?

Oswald Jacoby had this same problem in a rubber bridge game about 35 years

CARD Sense

The bidding has been:

|      |       |      |       |
|------|-------|------|-------|
| West | North | East | South |
| Pass | 2♦    | Pass | 1♦    |
| Pass | 3♣    | Pass | 2♥    |
| Pass | 4♠    | Pass | 3NT   |

You, South, hold:

AK876 W K J 3 2 Q 4 1 0 2

What do you do now?

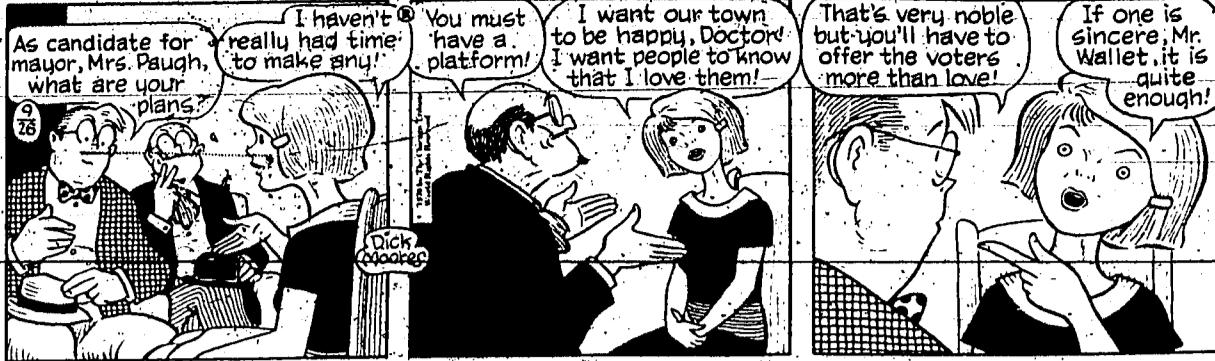

A—Pass. Your partner is suggesting slam possibilities and undoubtedly indicating a singleton heart. This doesn't improve your hand any.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three clubs your partner has bid two no-trump over your two hearts. What do you do now?

PASS IT ON
by L.M. Boyd

...LOVE AND WAR—Mrs. Theresa Vaughan was her name. Or one of her names. At the age of 24, she was put on trial in Shaftfield, England, on charges of bigamy. At which time she confessed; she had married 61 different men without benefit of intervening divorce. In only five years. All right, how did she manage that? It's common knowledge few women get more than three matrimonial proposals in their lifetime. Our Love and War man is baffled.

GET IT RIGHT—"You say no man killed by lightning saw the bolt that killed him. How many of the afore-described victims did you interview to arrive at this assinine conclusion, you idiot?" So writes a skeptical customer. Look, lightning paralyzes. And it travels so much faster than the nerve impulses that the science boys still insist nobody hit by it ever saw same. An idiot, am I? This correspondent never should have said that! Patience, patience. Somehow somewhere sometime, I'll get him.

RICH AND RICHER—Myster, do you discuss your investments with your wife? Nevermind, it's just a rhetorical question preliminary to reporting the results of a sizable study on the matter. Surveytakers checked out 1,450 couples, each of whom owned corporate stock. They found the husbands and wives who talked it over before investing were considerably richer than the husbands and wives who did not.

MRS. BLACK—That former childstar once known as Shirley Temple says she likes to watch doctors operate on people. First surgery buff I ever ran across. When she was 14, she says, a young soldier asked her to be with him while his leg was being amputated, so she held his hand throughout the operation. Since then, she reports she has witnessed numerous performances in surgical theaters. What she likes best, she says, are the gall bladder operations, because the colors are so beautiful.

HOME—In that dandy ditty, "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen," where is said home? Did you say Ireland? Wrong. Germany is where Thomas Westendorf, the composer of that number, promised therein to take his wife. Why that song always turns up in Gaelic musical programs is a mystery.

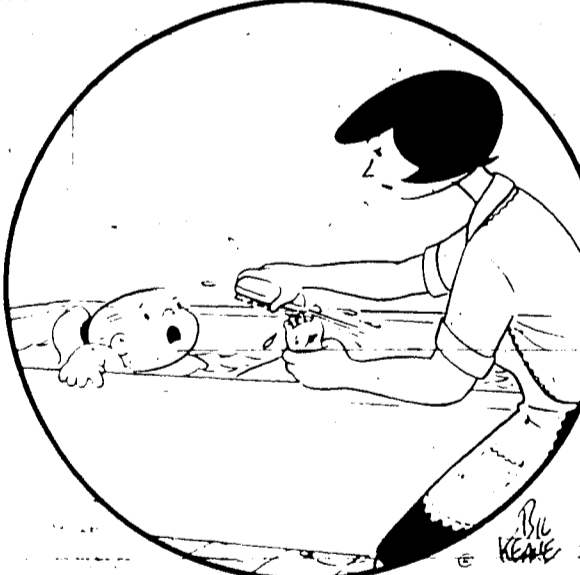

CRAVINGS—If you find yourself craving a chocolate bar, a hot dog or a handful of peanuts, consider this. A study by one Dr. William Kaufman indicates these are the three delicacies most often devoured by people when they feel sorry for themselves. He checked out the food compulsions of 1,200 citizens to gather the foregoing data. Interesting. Recall another study wherein researchers learned that the digestible most often craved by the soldier fresh back from combat is a glass of milk.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 99068, Seattle, Wash. 98199 (c) 1970, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

THE SCRIPT CALLED for French actor Luc Meranda to crash the $40,000 custom Ferrari and then beat a hasty retreat as the car was rigged to burst into flames. But as Meranda fled the car suddenly exploded with unexpected force during filming of Cinema Center's "The 24 Hours of Le Mans," starring Steve McQueen. He finds himself flying through the air and finally, at bottom, lies stunned as car burns in background. He escaped with minor abrasions. (UPI)

IMF Wants No Changes

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — A weeklong joint conference of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) and the World Bank ended Friday with finance ministers and central bank governors from 116 nations agreeing to bar any major changes in the world monetary system. There was a consensus in favor of further study of some increased flexibility in exchange rates but radical modifications were rejected. No resolutions were passed during the conference. Its primary purpose was to provide a public forum for the rich and poor countries to air their views on current financial, economic and trade issues. COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Owners of Copenhagen sex clubs Friday reported a sudden boom in business coinciding with the conference here of finance ministers and government bankers from 116 nations. A spokesman for Club Venus, which claims to have the most pornographic live show in town, said patronage had been up almost 100 per cent during the week-long meeting that ended Friday. The club charges $16 in admission and membership fees for its hour-long live sex show. The spokesman said the reason he knew conference delegates had visited the club was that several forgot to remove their convention name tags. "Let them be anonymous, especially as the names they gave contrasted strongly with the ones written on their membership cards," he said.

ISU Dedicates New Facilities

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — The first of more than $6 million in educational facilities at Idaho State University was dedicated Friday by university president William E. Davis. Davis will follow the ceremony at the Life Science Complex with the dedication Saturday night of the ISU Mini-dome arena. The $3.5-million Life Science center was named after the late Dr. Laurence Gale, acting president of the Idaho State University in 1964. In his dedicatory address Davis said, "It is very appropriate that this center is named after Larry. He was instrumental in formulating the long range plans for the center." Davis added, "This is the biggest and most expensive academic building erected on the campus. It represents the largest combination of state and federal monies for a single structure at ISU." Mrs. Joyce Gale was the guest of honor at the morning ceremony. Gale died in 1968 at the age of 42, while on a hunting trip in the West Yellowstone, Mont., area. At that time he was vice-president of the University of Montana. The center's five buildings house the departments of housing, biology, micro-biology and speech, pathology and audiology. Saturday night Davis, a former football player, will start the dedication ceremonies at ISU's $2.8 million covered sports arena by kicking off a special football at 7:30 p.m. Poised to receive the kick will be ISU student body President Bill Isley, Mini dome manager Mike King and 1969-70 student body President Scott McClure. Gov. Don Samuelson, State Board of Education members and ISU trustees will be special guests at the ceremony and the football game between ISU and University of Nevada at Las Vegas.

Murder Witness Had LSD Overdose

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A young woman witness for the prosecution at the Tate murder trial testified Friday that she was given an overdose of LSD which produced such a violent reaction that she had to be taken to the psychiatric ward of a hospital. Barbara Hoyt, 18, who had told earlier of overhearing a conversation by one of the members of the "Manson Family" admitting the killing of actress Sharon Tate, said that the incident involving the LSD occurred at the beginning of the month in Honolulu. During cross-examination, Miss Hoyt had made a brief mention of being in a "mental hospital," and Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi immediately went into that point again today. Miss Hoyt said that she stayed overnight in the psychiatric ward of Queens Hospital in Honolulu. "How did you happen to wind up in the psychiatric ward of a hospital?" Bugliosi asked. "From an overdose of acid (LSD)." "Did you take the overdose voluntarily?" "No." "Was it given to you by someone else?" "Yes." "Were you near death?" The defense objected to that question as calling for an expert conclusion and the objection was upheld. Although she did not testify to any further details of the incident in court, Miss Hoyt previously told the district attorney's office privately that she had gone to Hawaii with another female member of the "family," and that the girl had put the LSD into food which she gave to Miss Hoyt. Her testimony preceded the expected appearance on the stand of the only member of "Family" to defy the hippie cult leader successfully. "San Francisco had only 450 residents one year before the gold rush of 1848-49."

Wyoming Studies Proposal

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — The Associated Students of the University of Wyoming may consider a new resolution concerning participation with Brigham Young University at its Tuesday night meeting. Student Senator David Blevins has drafted a resolution but is now working on revisions, said Bob Archuleta, ASUW president. The ASUW has already passed a resolution asking that no disciplinary actions be taken against students who find participation in intercollegiate activities with BYU against their moral principles. That resolution was presented to the university athletic board, which did not discuss it at its most recent meeting. J.E. Geraud, vice president for student affairs at Wyoming, wrote Archuleta after receiving the resolution that the school views "the voluntary enrollment by a university student in any organization of activity as the choice of the student, who assumes the responsibility for meeting the requirements involved for continued participation." Archuleta said the new resolution "concerns some possible solution to the feeling that some people have about BYU so we can avoid a conflict when we participate with them." He said he felt the intent of the first resolution may have been misconstrued.

Librarian Talks at T.F. Meet

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Susan Cornwell, consultant at Idaho State Library, Boise, was guest speaker at the Twin Falls Altrusa Club meeting Thursday evening at the home of Virginia Beneroff. Mrs. Cornwell spoke on the library's program for visually handicapped and elderly persons and displayed a machine used to assist blind individuals in turning book pages as well as cassettes and other helpful machines. A discussion was held on the rummage sale slated Oct. 2 and 3 at the Elks building. It was announced a Greek dinner will be held Tuesday evening at the home of Marie Sanders, Jerome. After dinner, members will work on Christmas decorations for Harbor House.

Hansen Selects Queen

HANSEN — Deanna Dalrymple was chosen as queen at the homecoming festivities highlighted Friday afternoon at halftime at the football game between Murtaugh and Hansen, which Hansen won 22 to 12. Debra Butler was first runner-up and Sandra Fredrickson was second runner-up. Deanna was the junior candidate, Debra, freshman, and Sandra, a senior. There were no sophomore candidates. The junior class float, "Huskie Heaven, No Place for Devils," was also the winning float. The senior class float, a TNT bomb, "To Murtaugh with Love," was second. The sophomore float was "Stew Them Up," with a large kettle theme, and the freshman float, "Land of the Defeated," featured a coffin with a football helmeted figure among tombstones. The senior float featured a huge husky among clouds with a halo over his head and wings. Coach Gordon Hogan lead the parade on a cycle with oversized tires, and assistant coach, Robert Sherman, rode an undersized small-tired vehicle, during the noon hour Friday. During game intermission the drill team presented a patriotic theme drill dressed in white uniforms with red and blue accessories. The festivities were culminated in a dance Friday night at the schoolhouse.

DEAR POLLY—To start driving a nail into anything with the least finger damage place the nail between the teeth of a comb and then hold the comb instead of the nail.—MARIAN

YOU HOLD THE NAIL! I'M AFRAID I'LL DAMAGE THE COMB!

DEAR POLLY—When driving on a gray or foggy day, the car is more visible to others if the headlights are on. I always feared I would forget to turn them off when I parked. Now I keep a large paper clip on my dashboard. As I turn the headlights on during the day, I slip this clip on my ignition key. When I remove the key, the clip is a reminder to turn off the lights.—A LADY DRIVER

DEAR POLLY—I paint empty metal adhesive bandage boxes with bright colors, for my little ones to use as crayon boxes at home or school. They do not crush, and the crayons are not as likely to break. Put the child's name on the box and also the word "crayon," and they're very attractive.—D. M. S.

DEAR POLLY—To remove crayon marks from tile floors, I use the cloth my children use to wipe off their chalk board. It removes even the hardest-to-get-off colors. I slowly rub the chalk-covered cloth over the marks a few times, and the floor is spotless, without scratching the wax or the floor.—MRS. C. L. F.

DEAR POLLY—After making a very high angel food cake, I cracked my plastic cake cover. My husband suggested putting the cake in his plastic hat box, and that did the trick. I plan to buy such a box just for cakes, as there is always plenty of room. Also, I think this would be great for storing cookies.—HELEN

I HAVE A GREAT PLACE I CAN PUT THE CAKE!

DEAR POLLY—When putting pictures into a photo album, put a tiny piece of rolled gummed plastic tape on the back of the picture to hold it straight while putting the corners on. Be sure to note dates and even names on the backs of the pictures. It is so easy to forget!—JULIA

WHO PUT PLASTIC TAPE OVER MY MOTHER'S MOUTH?

DEAR POLLY—To those who have discovered the virtues of panty hose, yet are discouraged by the heels wearing out due to the roughened condition of the feet, I suggest wearing "footlets" beneath the panty hose. I had tried everything—cold cream, olive oil—you name it. THIS works, is not uncomfortable and is sure to cut hosiery bills.

The word "Polly" has become a household word in our little community. In the event I miss a Pointer I am sure to hear about it from a friend or relative, or even on the golf course, where I swing a fairly mean club at the youthful age of 70.—MARGUERITE

This letter from someone who will surely never grow old in spirit was like a shot in the arm to me. Thank you, Marguerite.—POLLY

Ask Them Yourself

FOR NEIL ARMSTRONG, astronaut

Who is the originator of these most famous words: "We came in Peace for all Mankind, the first step by man on the moon?"

—Michael T. Parren, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● The phrase was formulated by several NASA officials and cannot be attributed to any one in particular. It is part of the inscription on the nine-by-seven and five-eighths-inch stainless steel plaque that was attached to the landing gear of the Apollo II lunar module, Eagle, to remain on the lunar surface as a testimony to man's first landing on the moon.

FOR ADM. WILLIAM J. MARSHALL, president, Bourbon Institute of America

Why do they call it bourbon?—Mrs. Betty Wolfe, Wilmington, Mass.

● Bourbon was first made in the United States in 1789 by a Baptist Minister, Elijah Craig. The Rev. Craig's plant was located in Bourbon County in what was the western part of the State of Virginia.

FOR BARBRA STREISAND

How do you keep your fingernails so long without breaking them?—Janice Donato, San Pedro, Calif.

● I pray a lot. But they break like everybody else's. I'm more fortunate, I suppose, than many women, as I don't do many dishes or other housework,

FOR ROSEY CRIER,

tv's "Daniel Boone" show
Are you the same man who took the gun from Sirhan B. Sirhan the night Robert Kennedy was shot?—Shirley Hill, Medien, Tenn.

● Yes. I wrestled him to the ground that night.

FOR SEN. MILTON R. YOUNG, N.D.

What is the total of the new Federal budget?—John Newman, Indianapolis, Ind.

● The administrative budget for fiscal year 1971, including expenditures from trust funds such as the Social Security fund, totals $218 billion. The administrative budget for fiscal year 1970 was the largest one prior to the fiscal 1971 budget. It totaled $209 billion.

FOR MARLO THOMAS

Do you include maxi and midi skirts in your wardrobe? I never see you wear them on "That Girl."—Joan Van Sequelt, Park Ridge, N.J.

● This season I will be wearing several hemlines about seven inches from the floor and also about 15 inches from the floor and also minis with very high over-the-knee boots.

FOR MAYOR JOHN LINDSAY,

New York City
What question is most frequently asked of you, and what do you answer?—A. S. Kravits, Forest Hills, N.Y.

● The question I have been asked most is, "Is New York City governable?" What makes this question so difficult is that the answer must be 'yes.' But no matter how formidable the problems of governing this immense city become, we cannot give up. So, the answer I always give is "Yes, New York City is governable, and each day we try to make this government work a little better."

FOR CHARLES FEENEY, president, National Baseball League

How many baseballs are used in the average major league ball game? Also what disposition is made of the many baseballs discarded by the umpires?—T.C., Empey, Waterloo, Iowa

● Approximately six-dozen baseballs are used in the average Major League game. The balls discarded by the umpires are used in batting practice and given away to amateur baseball organizations.

Want to ask a famous person a question? You can through this column, and we'll get the answer from the prominent person you designate. Send question, preferably on a post card, to Ask Them Yourself, Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We cannot acknowledge questions, but $5 will be paid for each one used.

What in the World!

UN Volunteer Corps Would you like to devote your talents to a worldwide humanitarian cause? To live and work in a foreign country teamed with dedicated colleagues from nations you may only have read about? Then get ready for mid-1971. That's when the United Nations will get their UN Volunteers program underway, headed by America's former Marshall Plan administrator, Paul G. Hoffman, now of the UN Development Program. FAMILY WEEKLY went to the UN for some advance information: Volunteers will be "an international group sharing their skills with developing countries which request aid." They must be over 21, men or women, in excellent health, able to exist on very small allowances—and most important (unlike our somewhat similar Peace Corps) be experienced specialists in a technical field such as engineering, agriculture, or medicine. When the time comes for applications, announcements will be made through "existing national or international volunteer bodies."

UN's Paul G. Hoffman

For Big Shavers Many men would scoff at a lesson in something they do at least once a day. But according to the Men's Fashion Association, most razor shavers need advice: For the close, painless shave, MFA suggests four steps: 1- Use really hot (120°) water for lather-

Pointers for close shavers

ing. If brush is preferred, to aerosol, it must be thick and full. 2- Wet razor with hot water. Never push down (that's guaranteed to draw blood). Shave with grain of beard. 3- For a special-occasion close shave, repeat, but against the grain this time. 4- Rinse with cool water, pat dry and close pores with after-shave lotion. (There isn't any step 5, but it could be: find someone who will appreciate the handiwork.)

A "Common" Danger Partly because of the success of the campaign to immunize against rubella (German measles), many parents have forgotten that "common" measles is also a threat. It also requires another vaccine. (That's the measles to which old-time doctors once suggested exposing all the children in the family and neighborhood, to get it over with at an early age.) Common measles is 100 percent more prevalent now than last year, according to Dow Rx Pharmaceuticals, developers of the Schwarz-strain one-injection vaccine. Furthermore, statistics indicate that 50 children will actually die from this "ordinary" form of measles this year while 165 will suffer mental retardation. The irony is that in West Africa, an American AID program has virtually eliminated the disease. PRECAUTION: Check with your family doctor: has your child had both vaccinations?

IS IT TRUE that insurance companies and airlines are secretly investigating use of "astrological charts to predict plane crashes? What about the reports that NASA has transmitted messages to test the use of ESP for astronauts? The books offered on this page reveal many such astonishing accounts. Today the evidence of psychic phenomena is too great for thinking men to ignore. For example, did you know that The Institute of Parapsychology has more than 14,000 case studies of extra-sensory experiences on file? And startling prophecies by Edgar Cayce, Jeane Dixon, Maurice Woodruff, Daniel Logan and Gerard Croiset have come true!

JULIET MILLS:

New Star in a Star-Studded Family

An important tv role has brought this young actress to the U.S. from her native England

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

Angeles this year is because Juliet is having her father do a guest shot on her show. "It will be great fun," giggled Juliet. "I can hardly wait!"

She insists that if she had her life to live over again, she would not change any of it. "The first year of my marriage was the very happiest," she says. "I would not have changed my decision to marry so young." Nor would she change the way her career developed. Juliet was married to American songwriter Russell Alquest in 1961 when she was 18, but separated two years later.

When Juliet was six, she was so used to rubbing shoulders with such actor friends of her parents as Laurence Olivier and other top stars that she wasn't intimidated when she accompanied her parents to her first Command Performance and was asked to give a bouquet to Princess Elizabeth, now Queen of England.

At 14, while still attending a Swiss finishing school, she appeared in "Alice Through the Looking Glass" at London's Chelsea Palace during her Christmas holiday. Not long after, Miss Mills was selected to star in "Five Finger Exercise," directed by Sir John Gielgud. She appeared in the play for 18 months in London and then went to New York, where the play had a nine-month run on Broadway.

She admits to being lonely at times, but not often. "Americans are so marvelous about taking you in," she complained. "And besides, Sean keeps bringing in all sorts of people to keep me company! He's also quite willful," she added, "and sometimes we may head on! When that happens, I have to be very sure I am right before I tell him on. Otherwise I end up having my back down. I never have to punish him physically. A good talking to is much more effective."

Although she's sorry she is not married, and that her marriage didn't work out, she insists, quietly, "A broken marriage is better than living with a co-promise. It isn't honest to just endure. And saying you do so just for the child's sake is ridiculous. The child knows it is better to break off and rent good friends."

Juliet is not impressed with herself even though she is now recognized as a star and sought out by autograph hunters. When we lunched together recently, she kept swiveling her head to see the famous people who came in the restaurant, and nearly fell out of her chair to get a glimpse of Lee Marvin as he strode past to sit at a table right behind her.

Juliet Mills ~~does~~ enjoy her success. "Stage actresses are notoriously undervalued," she explained. "It is so nice not to worry about that now. In fact, my father insisted I take the series because if it proved successful, I could buy him an island for Christmas!" ♦

One of the most appealing immigrants to this country is Juliet Mills, a pert actress whose blonde hair is natural and whose figure is neatly designed.

Miss Mills is here from England, playing the young "nanny" on ABC-TV's "Nanny and the Professor," which has just begun its second season. It's not a surprising line of work to find her in, since she's a member of a famous acting family. Her father is John Mills, and her mother, Mary, and sister, Hayley, are prominent performers.

Having had such a flying start in her profession, it might seem surprising that Juliet had not become known to American audiences before now. She explains:

"I simply wasn't in the right place at the right time. My father always told us, 'Remember that there is always someone around who can do your part just as well as you. If you are there at the right time, you are the one who gets to do it. It's just timing.'"

Of course, there are always exceptions to prove the rule, and Juliet's advent in an American TV series is a prime example. When producer David Gerber put out a call in London for pretty young girls to try out for the nanny role, friends of Juliet's heard of it and urged her to try. She was both surprised and pleased when she was selected.

When nothing seemed to happen with the initial effort, Juliet returned to London and starred in a revival of

"She Stoops to Conquer," which turned out to be a big hit.

Nine months later, Gerber got word the network would finance a second pilot. He rushed to London and had to plunk down enough money to release Juliet from the play for a week. To her dismay, Juliet found she was the only member of the original cast held over for the second try. Once again, as soon as she'd made the pilot, she flew back to London, and returned to the play.

But not for long. Soon Gerber was back in London, buying her out of the play once more since the network had decided to put "Nanny and the Professor" on the air immediately. "I had only four days to pack!" Juliet exclaimed. No easy task for a woman with a six-year-old son (Sean), a nanny, two cats, and an apartment full of beautiful and cherished antiques.

Getting together on holidays has always been a tradition with Juliet's family. Christmas, especially. As long as she can remember, no matter where her father was on location for a film, at Christmas time his present to them was to fly everyone and their gifts to wherever he was. "I've seen some fascinating parts of the world thanks to these trips," beamed Juliet.

This coming Christmas, the Mills family will gather at Juliet's house in Cheviot Hills, about two minutes from the 20th Century-Fox studios, where the series is shot, and ironically, right next door to the house they use for the location house in "Nanny and the Professor." # I'm Looking Forward to My Second 50 Years!

By SLOAN WILSON

Author of "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit," "A Sense of Values," and other books

I've just become 50 years old. I am aware that plenty of people don't think that's ancient, but the half-century mark still seems rather scary to me. No one who is half a hundred years old can pretend to be young.

In 10 years, a period of time which now seems short, I shall be 60, and people may start calling me a senior citizen. In moments of panic I think of myself sitting on a bench all day nodding in the sun, or following a bit of advice offered by a newspaper column written for retired people in Florida. If you get bored with gardening and reading, the columnist said, try buying a big ball of string, tangling it up, and straightening it out again. No! Please, children, keep that ball of string away from me! I'm not ready for it yet.

To comfort myself in the shadow of my approaching seniority, I find myself thinking a lot about a few men and women who have grown old in years but never in mind or spirit. From their lives I have deduced 10 rules about staying young at heart, which I hope will help me to emulate them in the years ahead.

I doubt if Picasso, for instance, spends much time deliberately tangling up balls of twine, nor does Edward Steichen, the photographer who did the classic book, "The Family of Man," and who continues to put life and love on film while he is well into his eighties.

There are old friends and relatives I look to for inspiration, as well as those public figures I have never met. From all the people whose youthful spirit I admire, I have learned the first two rules on my list: (1) Never stop working as long as you can move; and (2) Stick to a kind of work you love, and if you cannot find such work, invent it.

Down here in Florida where I came four years ago to work, not to retire, I see many examples of old people who turn from leisure to labor that they enjoy. I have seen retired men and women start dress shops, plant orange groves, and hire themselves out as seamstresses, carpenters, or gardeners. These are the ones who really seem to be enjoying their "golden years."

Three women in my own family have gone into their eighties or beyond without a day of idleness. Until she died at the age of 96, my grandmother made herself a kind of information center for all her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. While she was alive we all knew what anyone remotely related to us was doing, and those of us who were away at school or in the armed forces got cookies or applesauce cake once a month in addition to the newsletter.

My own mother has a different plan. At the age of 83, she now teaches English to the wives of foreign diplomats. Ladies from Japan, Iran, and various European countries are referred to her by some agency and go tramping up to her apartment in New York City. There they get drilled in rules of grammar the way I used to be. My mother does not get paid in money for her services, but her rooms are full of beautiful little vases and ivory carvings that her pupils have sent from their homelands.

Three years ago when my mother observed her 80th birthday, she unwittingly offered me a lesson which became the third entry in my list of directions for staying young at heart. After luncheon in a restaurant with my youngest daughter, who is also her youngest grandchild, we visited a park. Jessica was then three years old, and she started walking along a low curbing, holding her arms out as though she were doing a balancing act on a tightrope. To my astonishment, my 80-year-old mother, who had always been a woman of imposing dignity, started to copy her, and for half an hour they played follow-the-leader all over the park.

"I haven't had so much fun in years," Mother said. "I hope I never forget how to play, even if I do look ridiculous doing it."

Never forget how to play—that is the rule I have written to follow the two rules about the importance of work. A psychiatrist, by the name of Giòrgio Lolli recently phrased it another way. In a book entitled Tuned In or Turned Off, he writes, "We must see—and even better, experience—the importance of creative immaturity in our lives." He was writing advice for teen-agers, but I think middle-aged people need it more.

Play, of course, means different things to different people. For me it means sailing a boat, which I've learned to do pretty well, or dancing, which I do miserably, but which I enjoy more than I did when I was young and concerned with dignity. If my dreams could come true, I would sail to the island of Bimini on my 80th birthday and spend the evening dancing to native music with my wife and children, as we did last Christmas. Perhaps that's a foolish hope, but I shall cling to it with my last breath.

The next few rules on my list were unwittingly given to me by a wonderful old character actress by the name of Zamah Cunningham. I met Zamah when she was in her mid-seventies. Despite the fact that she had recently suffered a stroke, she was continuing her career and had just contracted to play a part which proved her last, that of an old woman riding on a bus with Steve McQueen in "Baby the Rain Must Fall."

While waiting for this call to Hollywood, she was living in a small New York apartment with one partially paralyzed leg propped up on a chair. Her living room was always crowded with visitors of all ages.

"How does she manage to be so popular?" I asked my wife Betty, who had known her for years.

Betty said, "People need her."

"In what way? Does she lend them money?"

"I think Zamah gave most of her money away years ago. She offers something else."

"What?"

"It's hard to define," Betty said with a smile. "Listen to her for awhile. You'll find out."

I did listen whenever I could during the remaining years of Zamah's life, and I did find out, but her gift is still difficult to define. In more than 60 years of touring the world as an actress, Zamah had learned a great deal about people. She knew that some of them drink too much; she knew that some are less than honorable when dealing with love or money, and that a lot of human beings care mostly about themselves. There was not one sentimental bone in her body, if sentimentality is taken to mean sugar-coating the facts. The epitome of her power to love people was perhaps reached when she told me she adored one old woman simply because she was so mean.

Other people told me that Zamah, even when she was barely able to walk, ran errands for this "mean old woman" who lived upstairs in the same apartment building. Often she went up to chat with her "so she'd have somebody to cuss at."

Zamah's memory serves to remind me that sentimentality is an insult to humanity, for it implies that reality is not worth affection, and that lies are necessary to make people lovable. The old people I admire, such as Picasso and the other public figures who have endured with such vitality, are notably unsentimental, and so are the old people I admire in my private life. While in her eighties, Betty's grandmother would occasionally swear like a trooper when she felt that somebody was treating her in a condescending manner.

Those who grow old successfully do not have to pretend that life is all sweet, and continue to enjoy a little bitter lemon with their tea. Because of this, the fourth rule I am writing for myself is, "In case of sentimentality, go find some mean people to talk with."

But that rule inspires its opposite, just as the rules about work did. A person who determines not to be sentimental is in grave danger of becoming cynical, and that is a mistake Zamah Cunningham never made. If she had been nothing but a bitter, cynical old woman, her telephone would not have been ringing.

Once when a friend asked Zamah how she had survived on Broadway, in

A famed author offers ten wise rules to help you avoid the shoals and backwaters of later life

Last Christmas we danced on the beach on the island of Bimini . . . I hope I can do that when I am 80.

Bob Burg

Hollywood, and on endless road tours for 60 years without ever seeming to develop the bitterness that overcomes so many young actresses, she said, "Whenever you become cynical about a person, try to think what he has suffered and what he is trying to be." That, then, is my fifth rule.

Zamah had another great strength: even when very ill, she showed no fear of death. That is a characteristic of all the old people I admire, the ability to approach the end of life as though death were a theory which might still be disproved. "The older I get, the less I fear death," Zamah once said to me. "Remember that the years are like money—the more you spend, the less you have to lose."

That is my sixth rule, and like the others, it inspires its opposite: Take care of yourself, for although it is wrong to fear death, it is worse to court it.

The seven rules I have compiled so far seem to me to be fairly good sailing directions for a person getting ready to embark on the second half-century of life; but while reviewing them, I realized that they lack the most important ingredient of all for me because they all could be practiced by a man or woman living alone.

It is a personal peculiarity perhaps, but without a loving wife, I could find no joy in work or play. My wife Betty is the most giving person I ever met; but at 50, I am old enough to realize that no man has a loving wife for long unless he conducts himself in such a way that he deserves her. To my seven rules, therefore, I add my eighth: Never forget that the love of a good mate has to be earned every day.

That rule may seem a breach of my own vow against sentimentality, but it is true that people of any age seem old to me the instant they start caring more about their work, their hobbies, their children, or their possessions than about the persons to whom they are married. People who, for one reason or another, are left alone seem old to me if they don't get busy and do something to rectify their solitude.

The sight of husbands and wives who have fallen out of communication with one another is sad at any age. Recently my wife and I went to a party given by a wealthy couple who did not talk to each other during the entire evening. His sole topic of conversation was his boat, which she candidly said she hated. Her only subject was their large house, which she loved to show off.

That lady was only about 45, but as far as I could see, she might as well have been 100. Thinking about her, I found my ninth rule: Even work, play, or love itself can become a bore if you lose your sense of humor.

My 10th rule comes from hard experience at trying to follow directions. It is: don't get discouraged when you find yourself breaking all the rules. Pick yourself up and start over again.

Those, then, are the 10 rules I am going to try to observe as I start my second half-hundred years on the planet

Earth. I find that they go together more as a prayer than as a list of self-directed orders, because no one could presume to achieve such virtues with nothing but his own efforts. This prayer to be memorized on a 50th birthday might go something like this:

"Please let me continue to work as long as I can move. Let me always be able to find or invent a kind of work I love. Let me never forget how to play, even if I occasionally look ridiculous. Let me love without sentimentality; and if I ever get cynical, let me understand what people have suffered and what they want to be, as well as what they are. Let me remember that the older I get, the less I have to fear death, for most of my years have already been spent; but never let me waste a minute of life. Please allow me to live in such a way that I deserve the love of my spouse. Despite these earnest resolves, please don't let me lose my sense of humor, and don't let me get so discouraged that I stop trying when I fail to be as good as I hope to be." ♦

Mrs. Smith was talking to a neighbor's small son. Suddenly she asked how his little baby sister was getting along.

"And can she talk yet?" queried Mrs. Smith.

"No, ma'am," replied the youngster. "She has her teeth but words haven't come in yet."

At a house party the gay blade kept pestering a cute girl. Finally he suggested, "Let's play post office."

"I have a better idea," said the girl. "How about playing Building and Loan?"

"Building and Loan?" he asked. "How do you play that?"

Mrs. Edler had been going to her church regularly for the past 50 years. She was quite famous for the enthusiasm with which she sang the hymns.

Then her daughter married a young man of a different faith. She went to visit them for the first time and went with them to church. However, she sat silently through the entire church service.

On the way home the son-in-law said, "Mother, I know you like to sing—but today you didn't sing a note. What was the trouble?"

"Well," said Mother Edler, "I guess it's because I'm signed on another network."

Six-year-old Sheila was giving her mother every conceivable reason why she should not go to school one day. Finally, after reasoning with the child to no avail, the mother stated: "Why, Sheila, don't you know that if you don't go to school, your daddy would have to go to jail?"

The youngster pondered this unexpected statement for a moment, then asked, "For how long?"

Smooth away skin dryness

At last there is a means for every woman to capture the bloom of youthful loveliness. Oil of Olay can bring new life and smoothness to your skin and help stop wrinkle-dryness.

Too often a woman's perfect beauty is marred by the formation of tiny lines and wrinkles. These wrinkles are really "river-beds" of dry cells caused by the plasma colloids (the water carriers of the skin) drying out through the passage of time and the drying effect of exposure to wind and weather. Oil of Olay is a unique preparation which has the proper balance of moisture and oil to help prevent such tiny lines and wrinkle-dryness.

For true complexion loveliness smooth a film of beautifying Oil of Olay over the complexion each day before making up and again at night before retiring. Pay particular attention to the dry skin areas, such as the neck and around the eyes, by anointing them with a generous supply of this tropical moist oil.

Ask your druggist for beautifying Oil of Olay.

After finishing his dinner, a restaurant patron said to the

An Instant Decorating Idea:

Add a Headboard!

Chances are, unless you live in a townhouse or 18th-century mansion, the room you sleep in is a fairly pedestrian, boxlike affair.

But a good-looking headboard could save the day! Until a few years ago, home style-setters, with the exception of a coterie of brass-bedstead buffs, considered headboards out of fashion. Today we're witnessing a marvelous explosion of assorted sizes, shapes, and colors in headboards, one of which could turn an ordinary bedroom into a princely chamber.

Styles, similar to these, from elegant country-French to contemporary are ready to trigger a decorating scheme or work handsomely with treasured furnishings you may now have.

Then add this decorating ingredient: combine fresh, no-iron linens and coordinated blankets (instead of the usual bedspread) with a careful eye to extending compatible color and design and, voila, you've made a dramatic statement of personality in the most private room in your home! ♦

Romantic country-French headboard with half canopy, of sturdy ash hardwood, works out an interesting liaison with striking plaid, no-iron sheets and contrasting blanket. Headboard comes in many finishes, with or without hand-painted floral design. It's from Dixon Powdermaker.

Classic latticework headboard, exquisitely wrought, has center rosette as highlight. It is crafted of naturally distressed oak and is also available in a painted finish. From Thomasville.

A case for contemporary aesthetics is made here in a gleaming, beautifully grained pecan-finished headboard of selected veneers and hardwoods. It is available in all of the standard widths. By Bassett.

Try a Freighter Voyage

By REG CLARK

Freighter travel is the least known of all forms of vacation travel.

You hear all sorts of stories about it. Some say passengers live in private-yacht style in luxury quarters, eating gourmet meals at the Captain's table, served by deft stewards.

Others report that the ships are rusty old buckets, the food strictly hash-house, with an occasional cockroach in the soup and the service nonexistent.

The truth is probably somewhere between these extremes. But certainly freighter travel, whatever its hardships, is a rewarding experience.

The history of freighter travel goes back several hundreds of years, to a time when ships were built with a few extra cabins designed to carry the owners, traders accompanying their goods, or friends of the owners. When not in use for these purposes, the space was sold to travelers. Merchant ships being built today still have extra cabins, and on most ships they are available to the general public. The number of passengers carried varies depending on ships' size and design, from two to perhaps 40.

The day of the romantic "tramp steamer" is nearly over, at least so far as passengers are concerned. In the early days ships sailed when and where they could find a cargo, often not returning to their home port for years. It was possible then to make a deal with the captain for passage to his next port, or to pay a flat fee per day and stay with the ship wherever it might go.

Nowadays, most ships operate over fixed trade routes, calling at specified ports and returning to their starting point, making some unscheduled stops along the way according

The only thing that can be said with certainty about freighter travel is that it is a most uncertain method. The ships are usually scheduled to sail at "approximate" times and to arrive at a destination on an "estimated" day. The actual schedule depends on many factors—weather, cargo, availability of longshoremen, and mechanical failures.

Freighter docks are usually miles from anywhere, and often in unsavory neighborhoods. Once arrived at the dock, the passenger picks his way through warehouses, around moving equipment and up a steep gangplank to get on board. And he probably will have to carry his own luggage. Everything about freighter travel is a gamble, which, of course, adds to the adventure.

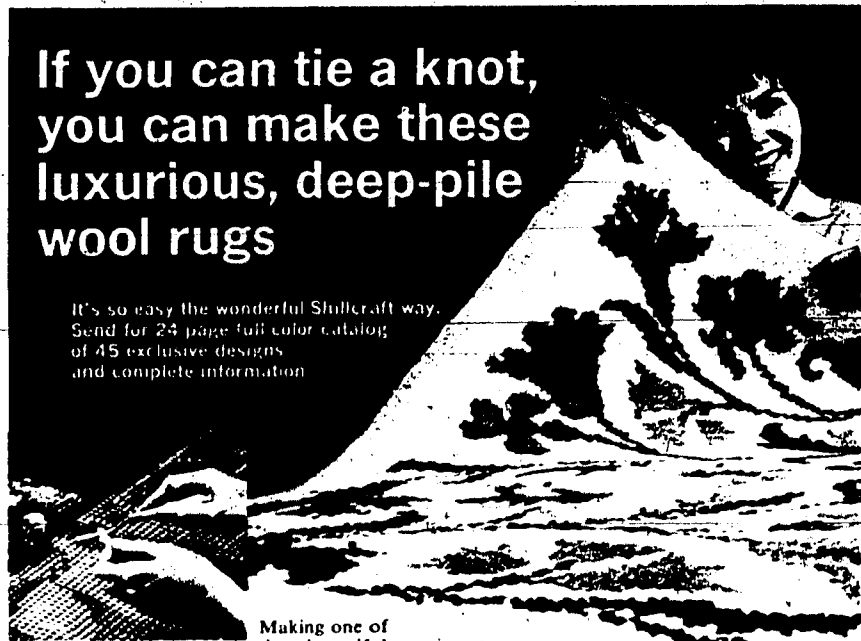

Voyages are of anywhere from five days to six-month trips around the world. Costs vary, too, depending upon length of voyage and class of ship—a low $8 per day to a high of $40 per day per person. There are quite often no doctors on board, but crews are trained in first aid. There is no organized entertainment on board freighters. The ship can usually be used as a hotel while in ports. Casual dress on board is the style for this casual way of traveling. Food, also, depends upon nationality and class of the ship. Be prepared for anything. Seasickness is common because freighters are built low, without stabilizers, and passengers really feel the movement of the sea.

How can you find out what trips are available and what ships are like? There are two freighter directories published in the United States: Ford's "FREIGHTER TRAVEL GUIDEBOOK," P.O. Box 505, Woodland Hills, Calif. 91364; and "TRAVEL ROUTES AROUND THE WORLD," Harian Publications, Greenlawn, N.Y. 11740. Harian also publishes "TODAY'S OUTSTANDING BUYS IN FREIGHTER TRAVEL," "FREIGHTER TRAVEL NEWS," Box 504, Newport, Ore. 97365, prints a monthly eight-page news-letter containing first-person accounts of freighter-travel trips, describing the ships, food, service, and cost.

Plan far in advance, though, because freighter travel is popular and passage is sometimes booked more than a year in advance. ♦

YOUR CHILD MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS 1 OUT OF 3 DOES.

Fidgeting, loss of sleep and a tormenting itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W Tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First - a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work - kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge - small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

Can 'Sesame

Creative staff for "Sesame Street" discusses upcoming script. They are (l. to r.) David Connell, producer; Jon Stone, writer; Dr. Edward Palmer, research director.

By MILTON LOUNSBERRY

There's a famous expression in show business: after a performer had strenuously completed his biggest and best number for an audition, the casting director looked up and said, "O.K., but whatta ya do for an encore?"

Tv's "Sesame Street," the educational-entertainment series for preschoolers that begins its second year Nov. 9, is in that same position.

Practically everyone, from critics to parents to the children themselves, hailed the show as an undisputed hit during its premiere season last year. It is telecast over more than 250 stations, most of them noncommercial, educational outlets. It is designed to stimulate the intelligence and social growth of children three to five through story readings, adult-child discussions, puppet dramas, film clips and cartoonlike animations. Principal targets are youngsters who could be considered "disadvantaged" or who live in "inner-city" or ghetto areas. "Sesame Street" is produced by the independent Children's Television Workshop.

Joan Ganz Cooney, the production company's president, (seen on today's cover surrounded by "Muppet" friends), says the curriculum will be expanded with new production features aimed at preparation for reading, emphasis on letter sounds; more advanced number skills; a more comprehensive approach to reasoning and problem-solving, and the teaching of English vocabulary to Spanish-speaking children.

"This year the Workshop will increase its efforts to reach inner-city children," says Mrs. Cooney. "It was determined long before 'Sesame Street' went on the air that the children who needed a show like ours most critically were those in poor families. Most of these children are black or members of Spanish-speaking families, and we built in special appeals to them.

"Now we are launching major promotion efforts in 15 to 20 larger cities to expand our viewing audience in areas where it can be most useful." If middle-class grade schoolers, high-school students, college kids, and even a smattering of adults dig "Sesame Street" along the way, that's a double-plus!

According to executive producer David D. Connell (formerly of the long-run kiddie tv show, "Captain Kangaroo"), "We learned a lot from our first year on the air. For one thing, we found we underestimated the ability of the average four-year-old. We tried to teach him to count from one to 10. We learned we could easily go to 20.

"During research and testing, we learned the preschoolers can even understand the concept of a foreign language. We hope to introduce some simple Spanish now."

"Very little is taken for granted on the show," asserts Dr. Edward L. Palmer, research director for Children's Television Workshop. "It is an experiment in public broadcasting, preschool instruction, film and television production, formative research and evaluation, and the use of professional audience-building techniques."

"Sesame Street's" cast of adults, headed by Bob McGrath, Matt Robinson, and Loretta Long, will be back again this year. Will Lee plays Mr. Hooper, owner of the neighborhood candy store. The fanciful "Muppets," created and executed by Jim Henson, include the popular Oscar the Grouch and Big Bird. This year's line-up of guest stars will include Flip Wilson, Alan Arkin, Andy Williams, Harry

'Street' Top Itself?

The big-hit educational tv series for preschoolers will shortly begin its second season

Belafonte, Diahann Carroll, Pete Seeger, and Lucille Ball.

The big question before "Sesame Street" was ever aired was Can Television Really Teach? But an overriding question was—should it? Speaking before the U.S. Senate Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity in Washington in July, Mrs. Cooney presented some rather startling statistics that should answer the latter question.

"Preschool children watch tv on the average of eight hours a day. In other words, watching tv is a full-time job for them. By the time the preschooler enters school, he will have watched 4,000 hours of television. By the time he graduates from high school, he will have logged 15,000 hours before the tv set. Meanwhile, he will have spent only 18,000 hours in school."

That tv really can teach is no longer in question to Doctor Palmer, who says, "We're confident that it can. We currently have an independent testing agency—Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N.J.—interviewing some 1,200 youngsters from Boston, Philadelphia, Durham, N.C., and Phoenix, both black and white children, aged three to five, and from various income levels. The results of the survey will tell us how well children in general have responded to the show and how much they have learned as a result of watching it."

"A year ago," says David Connell, "our future ended in June, 1970. Now, we see an indefinite future, and we're thinking about a second program designed for older children. We hope to come up with a good reading program completely separate from 'Sesame Street.' We are also working on international shows—particularly a Latin American version with one in Spanish and one in Portuguese. We'd like to obtain a Federal cable franchise, which could be the beginning of a children's network."

Funded by the Carnegie Corporation, the Ford Foundation, and the United States Office of Education, the Children's Television Workshop has an impressive board of advisers, including eminent educators and psychiatrists. There is a board of trustees headed by Lloyd N. Morrisett, president of the Markle Foundation, also a sponsor of the series.

Said Morrisett recently, "One season, no matter how successful, is only a beginning in harnessing the power of television to the purpose of education. We believe that this new structure (the independent production company) will better enable the Workshop to fulfill its commitment to provide programs that are entertaining and educational."

If this is true, "Sesame Street" may become the only act in show business that, for an encore, can do the whole show all over again and just possibly bring down the house. ♦

NATIONALLY ADVERTISED
AT $9.95

Imagine! The belt with the very same principle that has already been tried, proven and enthusiastically endorsed by thousands, is now available for a limited time only at $3.95.

"IS YOUR GUARANTEE UNCONDITIONAL?"

A mere 15 or 20 minutes a day... morning or evening... for three short days in a row, WILL TAKE FROM 1 TO 3 INCHES OFF YOUR WAIST OR YOUR MONEY WILL BE PROMPTLY REFUNDED. We can make this unconditional guarantee because we know it works!

NO 'MAGIC'—BASED ON SOUND PRINCIPLE

Just fit and buckle the clear, vinyl hollow belt around your waist, right against your skin. Inflate it with the attached tube until it is snugly tight. A slight twist of the tube holds the belt inflated. Instantly, the heat of your body is captured and held inside the belt, and the soothing warmth stays as long as the belt is on. Then perform the few simple isometric-like body movements illustrated on the chart we include. You'll feel your muscles tensing and working against the warm pressure of the belt. Body-building experts have been using this successful technique for years. Then relax. That's right... for the next 15 minutes or so, you relax... finish that book, or phone a friend... the rest is up to the warm belt. Remove the belt and already your waist feels tighter and firmer. Repeat this for the next two days. If you have not shed from 1 to 3 inches after 3 days, return the belt and we'll refund you every penny you paid for it.

"HOW LONG AFTER DO I USE THE BELT?"

This depends on how many inches you want to lose. It is recommended that you use the belt for a few minutes a day, two or three times a week, until your desired inch loss is complete. But hurry, order now. This special sale price of $3.95 is for a limited time only. (Limit: TWO per family, please.) One size fits all.

Breakfast boosters: golden brown corn fritters with sausage links, bacon, and maple-blended syrup.

■ Don't overlook the importance of breakfast. It should provide one-fourth to one-third of the day's food requirements. Citrus juices, enriched cereals, bread, eggs or meat, and milk all provide essential nutrients for an adequate breakfast. Here are some attractive recipes, utilizing these essential elements, to enhance your breakfast menus.

Corn Fritters

Fat for frying

- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen sweet whole kernel corn, thawed
- Milk
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 teaspoon cooking or salad oil

1. Fill a large skillet with fat to one half its depth and heat the fat to 365°F. while preparing the fritter batter.
  2. Sift flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt together into a bowl and make a well in center; set aside.
  3. Drain the thawed corn and measure liquid. Add enough milk for ½ cup. Set aside. Chop the corn and add to beaten eggs, oil, and the liquid mixture. Mix well.
  4. Add to dry ingredients and stir until just blended. Drop batter by teaspoonfuls into the hot fat. Fry uncrowded 3 to 4 min., or until golden brown, turning once.
  5. Remove fritters with a slotted spoon and drain over fat for a few seconds before removing to absorbent paper. Serve hot with maple-blended syrup. About 2 doz. fritters
- Note: If desired, mix 2 or 3 tablespoons prepared baconlike pieces (a soy protein product) into fritter batter before frying.
