TEN CENTS

26 Reach U.S.

ROME (UPI) — Twenty-six Americans held as airplane hijack hostages for three weeks by Arab guerrillas arrived today in Rome en route home and were greeted by President Nixon, who interrupted his official visit to Italy to see them.

The 26 including Capt. Carroll D. Woods of Kansas City, pilot of the hijacked TWA plane, flew here from Nicosia, Cyprus, aboard a special TWA plane. Six others were flying home on a plane chartered by CBS and six others were still in Amman.

As they flew home, nations involved in the hijacking of three planes with a total of 414 persons aboard began the process of freeing Arab commandos and others whose freedom was demanded by the guerrillas as ransom.

Britain announced it probably would free Leila Khaled, involved in an abortive attempt to hijack an El Al Israeli plane.

Diplomatic sources in Tel Aviv said Israel is likely to release two Algerian security officers and 10 Lebanese soldiers. West Germany and Switzerland were discussing releasing the three commandos held in each country.

Newsmen were not allowed to go out to the plane when it landed in Rome but some of the 21 men and five women came out to talk to reporters and photographers.

One said the plane was preparing for takeoff for New York when passengers and crew members learned Nixon was arriving to see them.

Nixon, accompanied by Premier Emilio Colombo, arrived aboard a U.S. military helicopter and immediately went to the plane to chat with passengers.

The presidential visit apparently caught most persons at the Leonardo da Vinci Airport by surprise. Few passengers or airport personnel seemed aware Nixon was at the airport.

Nixon Visits Pope

ROME (UPI)—President Nixon personally greeted freed American airliner hostages and met with Pope Paul VI today at the start of a European visit underscoring his desire to keep the peace and a strong U.S. influence in the Mediterranean.

The Vatican meeting came after Nixon interrupted his schedule of talks with Italian leaders to go to Rome International Airport where he welcomed 26 Americans freed after three weeks in Arab guerrilla captivity in Jordan.

The hostages, who had arrived from Nicosia, Cyprus, an hour earlier, were preparing to take off for New York City when Nixon's military helicopter landed at the end of the main runway.

Nixon walked over to the Trans World Airlines jet to meet the passengers, some of whom were standing on the runway. He was accompanied by Italian Premier Emilio Colombo.

Arabs Sign Treaty

By United Press International King Hussein, Palestinian guerrilla commander Yasser Arafat and other Arab world leaders Sunday signed a 14-point agreement in Cairo to end the Jordanian civil war. The pact represented major compromises by both sides.

The agreement came as the international implications of the crisis eased with the release of 38 American hijack hostages the guerrillas had held for 21 days. Thirty-two of them flew home Sunday via Cyprus, telling how they were nearly killed in the crossfire raging around a camp near Amman where they were being held.

The agreement calls for the release of all prisoners by both sides with security to be maintained under a civilian administration.

Some of the Americans said an Arab mob spat at them and screamed insults as they were driven through the streets of Amman.

The city of Irbid, Jordan's second largest, is to return to government control under the terms of the agreement. It had been seized by the guerrillas in the first days of the nine-day war.

First shots in the fighting were fired Sept. 17. Hussein and Arafat agreed to a ceasefire last Friday but fighting was reported after that. Dispatches Sunday, even as the Arab chiefs met in Cairo, told of new fighting in and around Amman.

The agreement pledged both sides to "the continued activity of commando action" and for Jordan's "support (of) the Palestine revolution."

Both sides also agreed to the creation of a committee to be headed by Tunisian Premier Bahi Ladgham and include one member appointed by Hussein and another appointed by Arafat to implement the pact.

Hussein agreed to reestablish civilian rule in Jordan and the guerrillas pledged to "respect the nations sovereignty in line with the law." But one clause exempted the guerrillas on the last point by permitting "necessary exceptions for commando action."

The House Armed Services subcommittee on antisubmarine warfare said budget restrictions should be eased so the fleet and NATO defense operations in the Mediterranean can be bolstered.

The committee made a six-day visit to the area earlier this month. President Nixon planned to visit the fleet starting this evening.

The subcommittee also recommended the United States agree to Israel's recent request for $800 million in arms aid during the next two years. It said Israel should be admitted to NATO if it wishes.

The subcommittee said the 6th Fleet's state of readiness has been impaired by cutbacks in flying and steaming time imposed for budgetary reasons. Because of the restrictions, aircraft carriers must sit at anchor much of the time, "a very dangerous situation in the present circumstances," the report said.

This leads to crews getting rusty from lack of proper exercise together, and it also gives the impression that the United States—having once sailed high and wide across the Mediterranean—is now content to let the Russians take over most of the operations in that ocean," it said.

The subcommittee urged a buildup in the antisubmarine warfare capability of the 6th Fleet and NATO, stationing of more U.S. planes at shore stations for possible use on carriers and a strengthening of NATO air and naval defenses throughout southern Europe.

The subcommittee, which spent two days in Israel, said it was essential the United States provide that country prompt arms assistance, particularly F4 Phantom jets, A4 Skyhawks, electronic gear, M60 tanks, bombs and ammunition.

Cuban Base 'Grave'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said Sunday that if the Soviets are actually building a submarine base in Cuba, the United States will not be able to bluff them into pulling out as was done by President John F. Kennedy in the 1962 missile crisis.

SEN. WILLIAM FULBRIGHT warned that the threat posed by a Russian submarine base in Cuba is so grave that the U.S. dares not rely on "bluff" for its resolution. (UPI)

Fulbright, Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said reports that the Russians may be building a nuclear sub base at Cienfuegos on Cuba's south coast were still "inconclusive." He added that stories of this sort surface every time the Senate considers a military appropriations bill.

Balloon Search Cancelled

But if the base is being built, Fulbright said it was a "dangerous situation" that "calls for diplomacy and not bluff."

NEW YORK (UPI)—The formal search for three balloonists who ditched in the North Atlantic last week has ended. It will not be resumed unless some trace of the two men and a woman or of their 80-foot-tall balloon is sighted.

He made his remarks on a television interview (Issues and Answers—ABC).

The Coast Guard suspended the search indefinitely Saturday. It had begun last Monday when the balloon reported it was falling into the water southeast of Newfoundland. The balloonists—Rodney Anderson, 32, a New York commodities broker; his wife Pamela, 28, a television actress; and Malcolm Brighton, 32, an aeronautical engineer from Farnham, England—had hoped to make the first free balloon trip to Europe.

"I would like to keep them out of the Caribbean," Fulbright said. But he said times have changed since October, 1962, when President Kennedy imposed a naval quarantine of Cuba and forced Russian ships carrying long-range missiles to Cuba to turn back.

The search covered 50,000 square miles of ocean, but nothing significant was found. There was no radio contact after the balloon reported it was falling.

It was possible at that time to bluff them. I doubt it is possible now," he said. Besides, Fulbright noted that the United States maintains bases with nuclear weapons near Russia's borders.

The solution, he said, is to pursue the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), the negotiations in Paris and on the Middle East, and try to revive the influence of the United Nations.

"If we do not, if we allow this thing to deteriorate, they will build bases and we will build bases until there probably will be a real confrontation," he said.

Fulbright said President Nixon's current European trip, especially his two-day visit to ships of the 6th Fleet, should not be viewed as a veiled threat to the Russians of U.S. military might in the Mediterranean.

The itinerary actually strikes a political compromise he said.

Pollution Suit Meet Scheduled

BOISE — Attorney General Robert M. Robson said today he expects to meet in Boise Wednesday with an attorney of Amalgamated Sugar Co., for further negotiations on a possible settlement in the court action brought against that firm.

The action was filed several months ago by the Idaho Department of Health charging the sugar processing firm in Twin Falls with pollution of Rock Creek and Snake River. Robson said he talked with the firm's attorney in Ogden Friday and legal representatives from there should be in Boise Wednesday for further effort to reach an agreement which can be stipulated to by both parties and filed with the district court in Twin Falls.

Amalgamated now has a large settling pond under construction and is making other provisions for the current fall processing run.

Urban Renewal Hits Tax Base

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News Staff Writer TWIN FALLS — Total assessed valuation of property in Twin Falls County rose less than $700,000 this year. Based on previous years, many taxing units anticipated it would increase to two million dollars.

As for Twin Falls, he said similar reviews have been made annually and some reductions were made here, too. Under the Urban Renewal project, the Urban Renewal agency purchases the property and removes the building and the entire value is removed from county tax rolls. Where the original owner retains the property, but the building is demolished, there is a major tax loss.

Asked why the slowing in the growth in assessed property values, assessor Clifford Thompson cited new influences. Economic factors include urban renewal programs.

Review of all property values in Twin Falls county, now under contract to the Edwards Appraisal Co., is now under way to re-establish accurate market values.

For the past several years assessed valuation has fluctuated, but generally has increased.

This reappraisal was ordered by the legislature which gave counties five years to complete the county-wide study reappraising one-fifth of the properties each year. At the end of the five years the program will be repeated to keep assessed values in line with current market values.

This year the assessed valuation reached $56.8 million, compared to $56.1 million in 1969. Figures for the past five years include: 1968, $53.5 million; 1967, $54.3 million; 1966, $52.9 million, and 1965, $48.4 million.

Don Edwards, a professional appraiser, formerly with the Twin Falls county assessor's office and more recently with the Idaho Tax Commission, is well qualified to review county properties, Thompson said.

For a period of years, Thompson says, the county office has attempted to determine property values on as accurate a basis as possible. This has meant lowering of assessed values where business buildings are suddenly vacated and not producing income or maintaining value.

Another law the counties are forced to follow is the annual increase of tax ratio. The 1969 Twin Falls county taxes were assessed on a basis of 15.25 per cent of the cash value. The 1970 taxes will be based on 15.50 per cent of the cash value. This will increase annually until 1982 when the ratio reaches a full 20 per cent where it is to remain.

Generally, property values reflect economic conditions and this is true at present, he said.

Thompson said a review of properties in a four-block area of downtown Buhl resulted in sizable reductions in property values for tax purposes there. About $1 million was cut from

'No Drugs' In Death

SEATTLE (UPI)—The father of Seattle rock star Jimi Hendrix said Saturday reports that his son died of an overdose of drugs were erroneous.
"No drugs were involved," James Hendrix said after arriving back here from New York. "It was just an accident."
Hendrix died Sept. 18 in London, and friends of the late pop star said he had taken sleeping pills the night before he fell into a fatal coma.
An autopsy report on the singer's death is scheduled to be released in London later this week.

Shopper's Search

BOSTON (UPI)—The arrest of Stanley R. Bond in connection with a bank robbery that ended in the killing of a Boston policeman narrowed the search for a group some officials consider "revolutionaries."
The case widened with other charges filed over the weekend. Bond, 26, of Cambridge, was arrested Sunday in Grand Junction, Colo., aboard a United Airlines jet ready to take off. The FBI said Bond tried to draw a loaded pistol from a pocket but was overpowered, arrested, and charged with interstate flight to avoid prosecution.
Patrolman Walter A. Schroeder, the officer killed in the $26,000 robbery of the Brighton branch of the State Street Bank and Trust Co., was to be buried today.
Police still searched the area along the Massachusetts-New Hampshire border for William M. Gilday, 41, who has managed to elude a vast police dragnet for four days.
Susan Saxe, 20, of Albany, N.Y., and Katherine A. Power, 21, of Denver, were still free. They were thought to have flown to the West Coast. Money bags and articles of clothing have been found in a waste basket at Logan International Airport.
A fifth suspect, Robert Valeri, 21, of Somerville, was arrested at his home Wednesday, 12 hours after the robbery. The FBI said he implicated the other four.

Police Decree

Police Commissioner Edmund McNamara decried the bank robbers as "damned radicals, damned revolutionaries" and said he thought investigation would lead to militant campus groups.

AEC Faces Pollution Court Test

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Conservationists disclosed plans today for a court fight aimed at dragging the reluctant Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) into the fight against thermal pollution.
If successful, the proposed action could affect significantly nearly all the 92 nuclear power plants now planned or being built. Twelve of them will be situated on the Great Lakes, current battleground in the pollution controversy.
The AEC grants construction permits and licenses for nuclear plants, but insists it has no authority even to consider whether a plant will pollute the water, unless radioactivity is involved.
The conservationists' lawyer, Myron M. Cherry of Chicago, said he would contend in court that a new federal law requires AEC consideration of environmental factors.
The law, effective last Jan. 1, is called the National Environmental Policy Act. It declares all federal agencies and programs must work in line with the national goal of a clean environment. The AEC, however, contends the law does not affect its responsibilities.
Cherry said the test case would involve the new $128 million Palisades nuclear power plant on the Lake Michigan shoreline near South Haven, Mich.
The plant still is idle, with its license application before the atomic safety and licensing board, an AEC arm.

Yale Head Tenure Renewed

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Yale University, after an unprecedented canvass of student, faculty and alumni opinion, has decided to renew Kingman Brewster Jr.'s tenure as president of the university, it was announced Sunday.
The Yale Corporation—the university's board of trustees—announced it had unanimously decided to ask Brewster to continue in his post and that the president had accepted.
The six-month review of Brewster's tenure was undertaken at the president's request and was conducted by a special committee headed by William McChesney Martin, former Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and William P. Bundy, former Assistant Secretary of State for East Asia and Pacific Affairs.
The committee conducted interviews with "faculty, students, officers and alumni... and outside parties having an interest or basis for judgement," the Yale Corporation said in making the announcement.
These interviews reflected "remarkable and widespread" support for Brewster's leadership. Brewster, who is widely credited with keeping the peace at Yale during a spring of student strikes and campus unrest and during a May Day weekend support rally for Black Panthers on trial in New Haven, had called for the review in a speech to students in September, 1969.

Strong Democratic Tide Felt Across Gem State

TWIN FALLS — A surging tide of Democratic feeling throughout Idaho by voters "who are saying a loud 'No' to the Samuelson administration was described Friday night by Paul S. Boyd, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, in Twin Falls.

Appearing as guest speaker at an eight-county Democratic gathering at the Holiday Inn, Boyd declared response around Idaho to the Democratic campaign this fall "is reassuring to say the least." The state's voters, he said, are "saying a loud 'No' to my question, 'Is this (the Samuelson administration) the kind of government you want?"

No matter how you look at it, agriculture and taxes are priority issues in the fall campaign, along with education and streamlining of the state government, Boyd told the Democrats. He declared the present administration is built on a flock of agencies and commissions which are piling up government costs at a record rate.

"Under Gov. Samuelson's guidance," he said, "cost of state government has grown from under $2 million to over $4 million for administration alone."

He predicted many of the agencies could be combined to operate at a lower cost, with fewer personnel and yet could still do a more effective job for the Idaho taxpayer. Boyd, a former Buhl resident, said education is one of the state's largest costs; but he asked "Do we get our dollar's worth under present educational financing?"

Boyd said Idahoans voted for the sales tax in the belief it would be used for education and would give the taxpayer some relief in other fields. Instead, a diversion of the sales tax receipts has left the situation much as it was before the tax was enacted.

"I would like to see the sales tax put back where it was supposed to go when I voted for it," he declared.

Boyd said he has another personal goal — a three-point program to guide the youth of the state away from the "drug culture." He said leadership through the home, church and educational institutions must be provided to accomplish this much-needed victory.

The planning session attracted Democratic party leaders and candidates from eight southern Idaho counties, including Twin Falls, Jerome, Cassia, Lincoln, Camas, Blaine, Minidoka and Gooding. Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuttle, and State Sen. Don Fredericksen, Gooding, were among the candidates present.

The Democrats discussed the proposed Constitutional revision and other issues in the Nov. 3 election, but took no stand on any issue, according to Vincent Smazal, Twin Falls, County Democratic chairman.

Classroom Addition Now Open

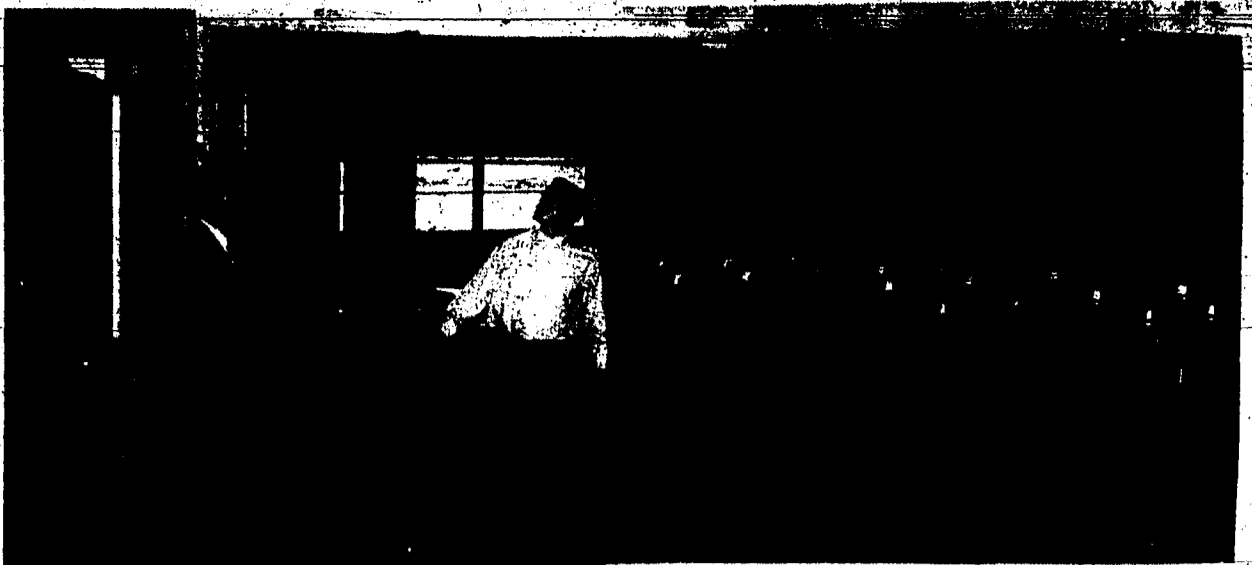

TWIN FALLS — One of the most unusual schoolroom designs in the state was put into fulltime use today as the "pod" opened at Twin Falls High School.

The six-sided "pod" provides five additional classrooms which can be used in a variety of ways, giving additional classroom space to be utilized as a lecture hall, movie "studio" or any of a number of other uses.

Completion of the construction was delayed more than a month due to delays in shipment of window frames and other steelwork because of an East Coast labor dispute. In the interim, classes have been doubled up, and some classes have met in the school library.

Custodians moved furniture into the "pod" Friday, and classes began today for the first time. Pastel-colored seat-desks, large windows and unusual lighting which includes fluorescent lights above each chalkboard, make the new classrooms pleasant work areas. In addition, the new construction is fully carpeted in a variety of pleasing colors.

Dr. Ernest H. Ragland, superintendent of schools, said the electricians were not able to complete their work, but a "tie line" to the school's main electrical service entry will provide power for the time being. The work will be completed during the teachers' institute holiday in October, when the electrical power can be completely cut off to allow the link-up.

The cut-off of power, however, forced postponement of a scheduled football game. The Twin Falls-Nampa game, originally scheduled for Friday during the institute, will be moved to Saturday, to give the electricians ample time to finish their work, Dr. Ragland said today.

Electoral Vote Crisis Nears

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A showdown comes in the Senate Tuesday in the battle to abolish the Electoral College and substitute direct popular election of Presidents.

But the outlook for mustering a two-thirds majority vote required to break the anti-change filibuster was dim.

The effort fell short by six votes, 54 to 36, in the first attempt and Senate absenteeism clouds the prospect for success in the second attempt to impose cloture.

The amendment provides for a runoff in the event no presidential candidate wins 40 per cent of the votes in the first round.

Welfare Reform Aired

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After stalling since April, the Senate Finance Committee reluctantly comes to grips this week with President Nixon's $4 billion Welfare Reform bill.

A variety of alternatives — including a vehement demand from Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., that the President's program be junked — face the committee when it meets Tuesday.

Also awaiting action is a Social Security bill boosting benefits 5 per cent and everyone in the Capitol is convinced that bill must pass before Congress can quit for the year.

Social Security, with a constituency of 26 million people, one out of eight Americans, a high percentage of whom dutifully vote in every election, has tremendous political potency.

Three of the 10 Democrats and six of the seven Republicans on the committee have expressed misgivings bordering on hostility about the President's welfare reforms, called the family assistance plan.

They object to its price, to its reach, bringing federal checks to 25 million Americans, and to what they consider its incentives for welfare recipients to shun employment.

But their dilemma is that if they send a Social Security bill to the Senate floor and scrap welfare reforms, someone is certain to try to tack the welfare bill onto the Social Security bill. The committee then will have lost effective control of its own legislation.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, Mich.,

the Republican whip, has said he will adopt that tactic.

The administration counts at least 60 Senate votes for its proposal. Its problem has been in trying to free the bill from the committee's grasp.

Further complicating the committee's considerations is the considerable business community opposition to an important feature in the House-passed Social Security bill.

The bill provides that benefits will go up by 3 per cent whenever the cost of living rises by that much. To pay for this, the bill permits the tax base—the amount of earnings on which both employees and employers are taxed—to increase.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce estimates the wage base, now $7,800, would reach $9,600

A House Judiciary subcommittee evidently is about to state that it has been unable to find evidence warranting impeachment of Justice William O. Douglas...

The point is that nobody so far has produced anything to justify impeachment.

Thus the Ford charges are totally inadequate for so serious a proceeding as impeachment, and Chairman Celler indicates that his Judiciary group, after first 90 days and then 60 days of trying, found nothing else.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (NEA) — Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine has found a nice, loosepated style that suits a man who has put himself on the long trail that leads toward the next Democratic presidential nomination.

On a short swing into northeastern Pennsylvania to lend a hand to Milton Shapp, his party's nominee for governor this year, Muskie performed with easy, confident grace though practically nothing went according to exact plan.

hour before getting off. En route to Philadelphia to get Shapp, Muskie wanted to change his shirt and shave. When he found there was no water aboard, he boomed out with a laugh: "I may have to shave with Coke!"

At Scranton, indeed, Muskie was so engulfed with noisy politicians that he gave up trying to talk after three or four minutes. Borne on a tide of local leaders and candidates, he popped into a paneled hotel room to satisfy their clamor for group pictures.

There is nothing especially striking about this outside operation, or his two-week national tour for other candidates before he settles into Maine to bid for a whopping reelection victory.

"I'VE GOT HIM RIGHT UNDER MY THUMB... SORT OF"

Copyright 1970 Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Amid the shoving and hollering (everybody seemed to be named Eddie), Muskie and Shapp were photographed in rigid postures that would have fit an album from the 1890s.

The room's burden of smoke and alcoholic fumes gave the senator's antipollution proposals fresh urgency. Advocates of the "new politics" would have been horrified at this standard replay of the old.

Yet, while he stretched his long legs comfortably as the carnival and chaos of modern campaigning swirled about him, Muskie plainly had his eye on serious business.

At his elbow was a thick black book of loose-leaf sheets laying

The point is that it is being done, and that this kind of gearing up gives him the same kind of lead in organization for 1972 that he enjoys in the public opinion polls. And, moreover, it is just as much the "old politics" as was that high-decibel hotel scene in Scranton.

Big Ed Muskie, as in 1968 talking a lot about his immigrant Polish father (the tailor) and openly viewing his own climb to prominence as one proof this country has the makings for necessary change in a troubled era, has no real rivals yet in playing the game the way a man must to win.

Pap Test

The value of a periodic Pap test is becoming more widely recognized as time goes on, and that's good, but just in the interests of precision, let's tell where the name comes from.

Reason I mention it is that so many people, going by sound, call it a "pab" test, or a "pabt," or even a Pabst test, confusing it, I suppose, with a famous brewery.

It's just plain "Pap," short for Papanicolaou, as the test was developed by the late Dr. George Papanicolaou.

Its main use is hunting for early signs of cancer of the cervix — the cervix being the entrance or "neck" of the womb or uterus. This used to be the foremost type of cancer among women.

The Pap test involves collecting some of the fluid or moisture scraped from the cervix. This is a "smear." It is bound to contain a substantial number of loose cells, which are then studied under a microscope.

Cancer is, basically, a matter of cells "going crazy." They multiply too fast, and the cells also are no longer normal in shape and size. The cancer "grows" as the cells multiply in number.

With the Pap test, it is possible to detect cancer by finding just a few abnormal, or cancerous, cells long before the cancer has grown in size, or can be detected in any other fashion. And that, of course, is what makes it so valuable: it catches cancers early, when there is every likelihood of curing it by surgery, or sometimes by radiation.

The test, we should remember, is not 100 percent accurate — but it comes very close to it. When a Pap test looks suspicious, then a biopsy — removal and examination of tiny bits of actual tissue — gives a definite answer.

Since the Pap technique is rapid and quite simple, it is an ideal method of "screening" for possible cancer of the cervix. Having the test done once a year, or sometimes twice a year, is saving a great many lives.

One question I hear is whether a Pap test is advisable after a hysterectomy (after the uterus has been removed). The answer varies. In former years, sometimes the uterus was removed but the cervix left in place. In such cases, continuing the Pap test is wise.

But when, as is more common now, the cervix has been removed along with the uterus, the likelihood of cancer is greatly diminished. Thus many physicians discontinue Pap smear tests in such circumstances, while others feel that it is worth continuing, even though the risk of cancer has become more remote.

Another common question: is the test only for cancer? Primarily, yes, but it can also give useful information as to hormone levels and sometimes other matters. Mainly, it is to detect cancer. Taking the test is painless.

Nixon Enhanced

WASHINGTON — A few days before the New York State primary election last June, President Nixon brushed off a visitor's suggestion that "Kennedyism" seemed poised to make a comeback "with all those Kennedy intimates running for public office."

"I doubt it," said Nixon. "It all depends on the candidates themselves. They won't win merely because they used to work for a Kennedy."

The President's reputation as a political expert since has been enhanced. Shortly after that White House conversation, John Kennedy's closest adviser, Ted Sorensen, finished a badly beaten third in New York's Democratic senatorial primary. In last week's Massachusetts primary for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, another John Kennedy aide, Kenneth O'Donnell, also took clobbering — after having lost out for the same job in the primary four years ago.

Back in 1964, President Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, was beaten for the U. S. Senate by Sen. George Murphy. And the first Kennedy ally to fall this year was the celebrated astronaut, John H. Glenn Jr., who lost the Democratic senatorial nomination in Ohio to a political unknown, Howard K. Metzenbaum, despite Glenn's celebrity and his close ties with the Kennedy family.

To be sure, Kennedyism had a winner in Adam Walinsky who won the Democratic nomination for Attorney General in New York. But unlike the other candidates, Walinsky — a former speech writer for Bobby Kennedy — played down his palship with Bobby and concentrated on the issues. Today he is a decided underdog in the November election.

In short, as Nixon remarked, a candidate is on his own. No matter who he knows, he must radiate his own believability and competence.

Minnesota's Democratic primary for the senatorial nomination provided another lesson along these lines. Former Vice-President Hubert Humphrey soundly whipped a young, black, New Left intellectual who was hailed by his supporters as in the Bobby Kennedy image. The 31-year-old Negro, Earl

D. Craig, Jr., in the "peace" candidate in a year in which peace has won new popularity. He was backed by the Americans for Democratic Action, which Humphrey helped

The Whitewash

WASHINGTON — The special House Judiciary subcommittee's long dawdling investigation of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is in the throes of another strange interlude.

At a secret meeting the committee's staff submitted a report that was a complete whitewash of the ultra-liberal and militantly dovish jurist. The document, prepared at the behest of Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the full subcommittee and the full Judiciary Committee, was to be approved by the former and then issued as its official findings.

Celler is a long-time warm partisan of Douglas. As previously disclosed in this column, Celler was against probing the jurist's financial and other extrajudicial operations and ties. But when 116 Republican and Democratic congressmen endorsed a resolution by Rep. Louis Wyman, R-N.H., for an investigation by an independent committee, Celler abruptly shifted course.

With the handwriting on the wall, the octogenarian hurriedly resorted to a diversionary maneuver and announced the appointment of a special judiciary subcommittee to do the job — with him and his handpicked staff in charge.

Celler's scheme to ram through, at the secret meeting, a staff-written report whitewashing Douglas was blocked by Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich.

Hutchinson was the only Republican present. Only three of the five sub-committeemen were on hand. The other two were Celler and Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., who is closely allied to Celler. Rep. William McCullough, R-Ohio, and Byron Rogers, D-Fla., were absent — the former due to illness, the latter to a closely contested primary in which he was narrowly defeated. Hutchinson vigorously assailed the Celler-inspired staff report on two grounds: The findings merely echoes the views and arguments of Douglas's attorney, former Federal Judge Simon Rifkind, N.Y., that a judge can be impeached only on charges directly relating to his judicial activities. In two long memorandums to the committee, Rifkind contended the accusations against Douglas had no connection with his official duties and therefore were irrelevant as a basis for impeachment proceedings. Rifkind's thesis was hotly disputed in two detailed briefs submitted by Republican House Leader Gerald Ford, Mich. He cited numerous precedents upholding his position.

It was not the function of Celler's handpicked staff to prepare findings. That was the sole responsibility of the subcommittee. The staff's job was to uncover facts and to search out information. Hutchinson insisted the secret report be extensively revised and rewritten.

Celler, faced with the threat of a row that was certain to become known, backed down. He agreed to Hutchinson's demand that the staff report be stripped of its pro-Douglas conclusions and otherwise modified.

How soon that will be done and to what extent remains to be seen.

Chairman Celler set no date for another meeting. He rarely does. His usual practice is to telephone committeemen that he is convening a session in a few hours.

All of the meetings are secret. Not only are newsmen not informed of them, but they are held in closely guarded privacy.

series of brush fires in Southern California history. In the Malibu area near Los Angeles, the Newhall-Malibu fire which started four days ago, blackened 110,000 acres and destroyed 161 homes, some worth $125,000. Smoke billowed up to 2,000 feet in the air and was visible 30 miles away.

Officials said much of the available manpower was ordered to the Los Angeles blazes, hampering efforts to control the other fires. After four days of flames, the toll stood at three dead, at least 20 firemen seriously injured, more than 400,000 acres charred, hundreds of homes destroyed, hundreds of others damaged and millions of dollars in property damage.

Church Fears Viet 'Residual Forces'

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, claimed victory Saturday for himself and his fellow doves in reversing the nation's goals and policy in Vietnam. Now, he said, they must combat proposals to keep a 50,000-man "residual" force in that country.

tary (Stanley) Resor said that 'Vietnamization' of the war was ahead of schedule, thus revealing there is a timetable in existence about which Saigon would have to know.

The only argument now, he said, is over when to withdraw from Vietnam, not whether to quit the battlefield without a victory. "The truth is that even the hawks have lost their fervor for this senseless war," Church said. "How often these days one hears the remark, 'of course, I think we should have stayed out of Vietnam in the first place, but now that we are there...'"

Church said President Nguyen Van Thieu has gotten that message, too, and is now pressing hard for retaining a 50,000-man American military force in Vietnam to "guarantee the peace."

Politicos Reject TV Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Placing a limit on television campaign spending seemed like a good idea in Congress but now that the idea has reached the states, enthusiasm has waned. A UPI nationwide survey indicates that candidates in most states simply have no intention at present to curb their campaign broadcasting expenses in line with a bill passed last Wednesday by the Senate.

There is logic behind the reluctance of local candidates. The bill is now before President Nixon and there is reason to believe he doesn't like it — at least in its present form. There is even talk of a veto. If the President does sign the measure, however, it would take effect less than a month before November's general elections. And any requirement to curtail campaign advertising campaigns in the home stretch would throw dozens of campaigns into a tailspin.

Other blazes were reported in Orange, Riverside, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties. A 40-acre blaze in the small city of Pomona destroyed 16 homes and charred 40 acres before it was controlled Sunday. Gov. Ronald Reagan declared the fire affected areas of Los Angeles, Ventura and San Diego counties disaster areas.

Taxpayers, Radicals Said Allied

BOISE (UPI) — Nampa attorney Robert Smith told members of the Idaho Mental Health Association Saturday that violent students and irate Idaho taxpayers are on the same side. He said the student activists and adult taxpayers are victims of a "supra-institutionalized" society. The meeting luncheon climaxed the second day of the association's annual convention.

Another tentative gentleman's agreement is in effect in Oregon's gubernatorial race. Democratic challenger, State Treasurer Robert Straub, proposed to Republican Gov. Tom McCall that they honor the 7 cent rule for broadcast time and hold other expenses to a 1 cent a vote limit. The combined total would be about $114,000. McCall said it was a fine idea but has made no promises.

White House Strains to Show Nixons' Homey Home Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: There appears to be a concerted effort at the White House to give Americans new insight into the homey, close-knit private life of the First Family, a source of constant public curiosity.

What is it like when the work day is done and the Nixons gather by themselves in the cheerful, sunny-yellow family quarters of the white mausoleum?

To Mrs. Nixon, "It's fun... you don't know what fun we have as a family."

Chatting with newswomen recently, Mrs. Nixon told of some of the behind-the-scenes activities when official chores are done.

She said that she and the President often have their friends in for dinner. The minute documentary film on "Ike" that will be shown to visitors at the Eisenhower Library.

After dinner with Mrs. Eisenhower, the family and friends gathered in the White House theater to view the Eisenhower movie and also to enjoy an oldie, "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," in a relaxed atmosphere.

The President and Mrs. Nixon exhibit togetherness in public, but it is definitely on the reserve side in comparison to that of President Johnson, who freely demonstrated strong affection for his wife Lady Bird in public. The Johnson's daughter, Lynda Bird, used to come home from college classes and rush into the East Room—ceremony or no—and give her daddy a big kiss.

Now 'Chaika Cleans White' At Russian State Laundry

MOSCOW (UPI) — "Chaika chistit cheesto, chistit bystro" reads the headline. It means "Chaika cleans white, cleans fast."

What's remarkable about that is it is an ad in a Moscow newspaper and that Chaika is a state-owned laundry corporation.

It's a symbol of a change in the Soviet scheme of things. Slowly Soviet authorities have been leaking small doses of advertising into the mass media for some time. Television viewers see ads for such things as state insurance and one of Moscow's newspapers prints appeals for apartment exchanges.

That Moscow residents like the trend is apparent. One of the capital's best-selling newspapers is an advertising sheet published weekly as an eight-page tabloid supplement to Vechernaya Moskva (Evening Moscow). It offers not only such Madison Avenue-style slogans as "cleans white, cleans fast," but provides Muscovites with their own personal want-ad columns.

The supplement comes out each Wednesday morning and is invariably a sell-out before noon at two kopecks (two cents) per copy. The Chaika ad was a full-page black and white promotion in a recent issue.

Not every advertiser has gotten the hang of the technique. In the same edition another laundry billed itself as Laundry No. 19 and headlined its ad for a new home-delivery service, "contract is signed."

But other advertisers display a developing talent for the catchy. "The weather is the barometer of four moods" said one department store blurb. It went on to observe that "a raincoat in our days is not a luxury but a necessary and useful thing."

"To the sea by trolleycar" read another ad, this one for swimming classes at a "watersports palace" which promised salt water indistinguishable from that at the classiest Black Sea resorts.

Prices are never mentioned. Neither is the cost of advertising space to prospective clients.

A large section of the personal columns is taken up by persons offering country homes — "dachas" — for sale. Although the land belongs to the state, or more properly to "the people," citizens may build their own homes upon plots and may sell them so long as it is a one-shot affair and not a profit-making business gambit.

Other ads reflect the consumer shortages and desires of the citizens.

"I'll buy a motor for a Moskvich car," read a recent one. "I'll buy a tape recorder," said another.

Possibly the most intriguing ads are those placed by official agencies. "The all-knowing Moscow Enquiry Bureau" for example, offers telephone subscribers what may be the world's most complete information service.

GOP Once Ruled Senate Roost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It last happened so long ago that only one Republican senator, the venerable George D. Aiken of Vermont, has experienced the pleasure and the power.

Not in 16 years has a GOP senator ruled over a committee, responded to the title of "Mr. Chairman," gavelled a hearing to order or guided a bill to passage.

Since 1955, the Senate has been controlled by the Democrats. They have chaired every committee and subcommittee while their GOP counterparts have played second banana.

As the 1970 off-year elections draw near, Republicans are making their biggest push to gain control of the Senate. To do so, they must gain a net of seven seats, giving them a 50-50 split with the Democrats.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew would provide the controlling vote.

With victory come the prized chairmanships. Republican senators have coveted for so long. A Republican take-over would mean some major shifts in the positions of chairmen and in the directions they could lead their committees. It would install the first woman chairman of a major committee in Senate history; provide a staunch opponent of the antiballistic missile system (ABM) to oversee military affairs; fiscal conservatives to preside over the finance and banking committees; a midwesterner to guide farm programs, and a brand-new rackets buster.

Who would take over? In the Senate, ascendancy is based on seniority—and nothing else—so the ranking GOP members on each committee would automatically move into the chairmanships.

Of them all, only Aiken has been around long enough to have held a chairmanship in the GOP-controlled 1953-54 Congress. Others were farther down in the pecking order and a good many were not even in the Senate at that time.

Aiken was chairman of the Agriculture Committee 16 years ago and could reclaim that post on the basis of his continued seniority. But the 78-year-old Vermont also is ranking Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee and it appears certain he would choose that more prestigious post.

A transition from Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who has held the foreign relations post longer than any other senator, to Aiken, would not signal any dramatic shift. It would be more of a subtle change, in both style and direction.

Fulbright, strident, outspoken and aggressive, has vigorously and constantly challenged the Johnson and Nixon administration policies in Vietnam. Aiken shares many of Fulbright's concerns about Vietnam policy. But, although plagued by doubts about Vietnamization, he still feels it can succeed if Nixon is not entrapped in an extended war in Indochina.

Ranked on a par and in frequent jurisdictional strife with the Foreign Relations Committee is the Armed Services Committee, now chaired by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss. Stennis, who has held the post only two years, would be succeeded by

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, who would become the first woman to head a Senate committee. No one questions her military expertise nor her ability to put the heat on the Pentagon.

While Stennis and Mrs. Smith tend to ride tandem on most military issues — certainly outside the confines of closed-door meetings—they come down on opposite sides of the ABM controversy. Stennis supports the administration on the ABM. Mrs. Smith has fought it at every step.

Mrs. Smith and Aiken, close personal friends of long standing, might heal the breach between the two committees. Fulbright and Stennis frequently have been at each other's throats.

If the Republicans take over the Senate, two westerners with impeccable conservative credentials would take over the committees that deal with economic policy.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, a former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, would have his choice of the finance or the banking committees. Indications are he would pick the finance committee, where he now ranks second to Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, a maverick who is retiring.

That would leave the banking chairmanship to Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, a second-term who was not in the Senate the last time Republicans held a majority. Bennett would succeed Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana and Tower would take the chair now held by Sen. John J. Sparkman of

Synthetic Turf Lauded

NEW YORK (UPI) — The midskirt turns out to be heady news for the nation's hatmakers.

"This is the most favorable hat selling climate that has blown our way in a decade," said Maybelle F. Hall, commentator at a millinery exhibit to show off what buyers have stocked for you-for fall and winter.

"With skirts longer, a hat is a necessity to make the new generation of clothes work," Miss Hall continued.

She then reviewed the fashion news appearing in newspapers and magazines in recent months showing how hat and midi go hand in hand in clothes coordination. Even the hard hats have their scene, she quipped.

"The customers are ready," she told the retailer representatives. "Are you?" — a question asked at the fashion show staged by a trade and promotion organization.

Miss Hall said one way to get women into hats was to put the hats where the clothes are; not stuck off separately. In the pantsuits section of a store, put hats that go with pantsuits, for instance.

As for styles, the look for fall included the whole range of brims—snap brims, gauchos, western, fedora, swagger, musketeer, bowler and some in fur that come so far down over the face little more than chin shows.

Running counter to the brim was a revival of the 1930s types, the brimless cloches and helmets that hug the head and hide the ears but give the brow wide exposure. These come for both day and evening in felt, leather and knits.

One group of chapeaux, called "fun and feathers" featured mostly evening wear with plenty of glitter.

Politicos Run for Sheriff

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Who is running for sheriff?

In the political debate of 1970, Republican National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton finds self-appointed sheriffs among prominent Democrats he says were formerly too tolerant of violence in America.

"Republican candidates this fall, from senator on down, are running for sheriff," said Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic nominee for senator in Illinois. "They are running against kids and kooks, Communists and crime."

Republican leaders are happy now that they have found what seems to be a cutting issue. They can blame the Democrats for encouraging violence by a "permissive" attitude and can hope the soft-on-crime issue will overshadow economic issues which appear to be favoring the Democrats.

The Democrats have been upset and thrown on the defensive. They would prefer to pound on economic issues and blame the Nixon administration for unemployment, high prices and high interest rates.

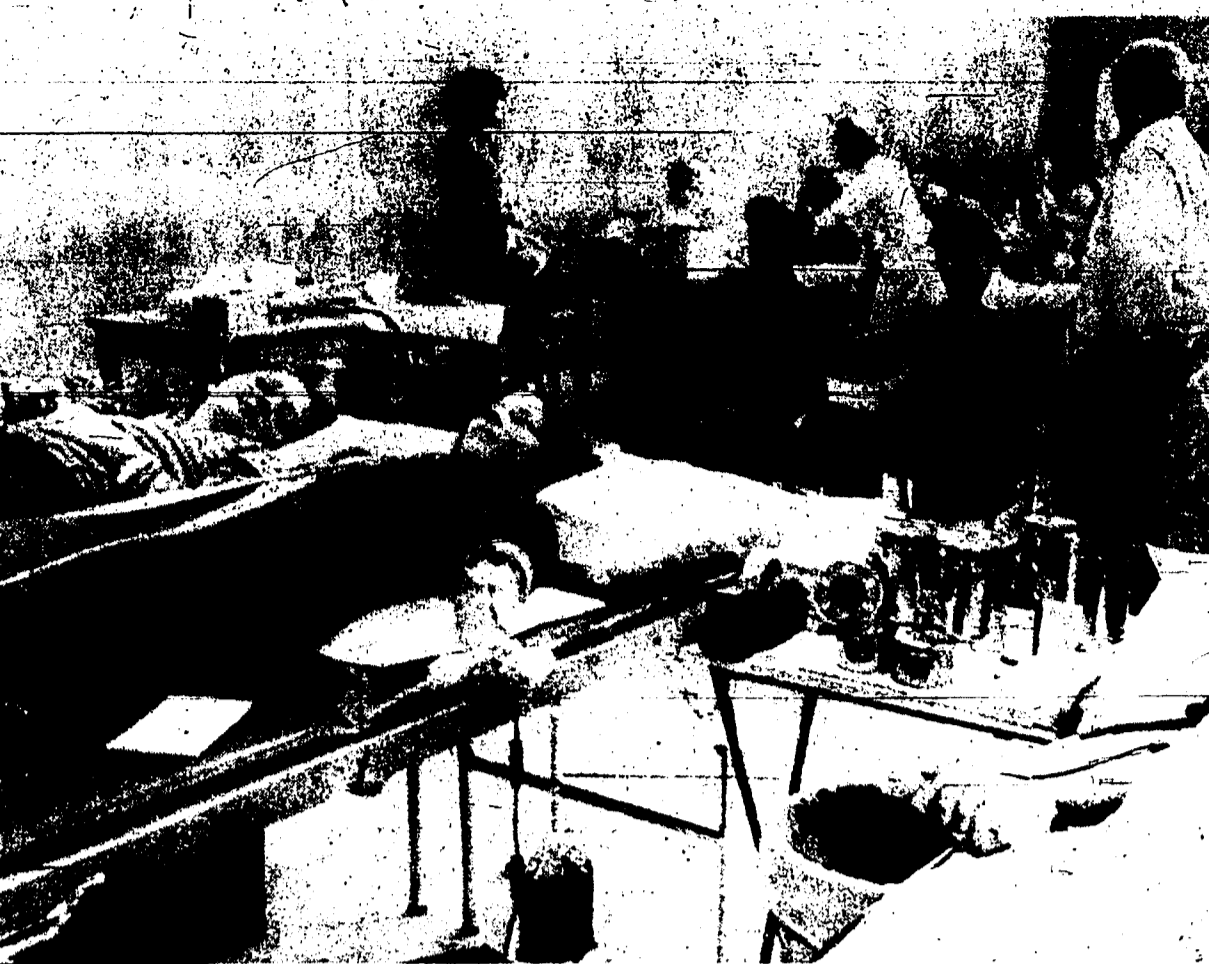

In the Republican National Committee's weekly publication Sept. 21, Morton pointed to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as "a classic example of a prominent Democrat who was soft on law and order but who now has pinned on the sheriff's badge and become an election-eye enforcer."

Morton also mentioned former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, now Democratic nominee for Senator in Minnesota, as "another one who has suddenly seen the light."

Stevenson argued during a Washington visit Sept. 22 that the GOP had decided "demagoguery is good politics this year."

"Not since 1952 has there been such a calculated political pandering to our fears, our prejudices and our divisions," he said. "In 1952 'soft on communism' was the political bludgeon. Today it's 'soft on crime.'"

In 1952, Stevenson was serving in the Marines and his father was governor of Illinois and a candidate destined for defeat as the Democratic nominee for the presidency.

Stanford President Picked

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University has named as its seventh president, Richard W. Lyman, a historian who says "universities cannot lurch forward from one confrontation to another as we have been doing in the past half-decade."

Narried by trustees Thursday, Lyman is 46, a Phi Beta Kappa at Swarthmore College who earned a doctorate at Harvard University and has been acting president here since chemist Kenneth Pitzer resigned after a year of campus disorders. Confrontations must end, he says, "because the direction will cease to be forward and... because society will find alternative institutions to do its highest level of thinking for it if universities cannot maintain enough peace for that kind of thinking to proceed."

Vitamin Seen As Smog Cure

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI)—A research firm here has made a discovery it thinks may lead to increasing the life expectancy of smog-ridden city dwellers.

Early results from experiments being conducted at Batelle-Northwest indicate that Vitamin E may prevent respiratory diseases caused by air pollution.

"Laboratory tests on rats show that those fortified with Vitamin E live twice as long as the unfortified rats in an atmosphere which simulates smog concentrations like those found over Los Angeles or Tokyo on a bad day," Dr. D. B. Menzel, nutrition and food technology manager, reported.

Rats which had not received Vitamin E died within an average of eight days of continuous exposure to an atmosphere containing one part per million of ozone.

"Los Angeles has recorded up to .9 parts per million of ozone on a bad day," Menzel said.

"This research suggests a definite protective effect of fat antioxidants, such as Vitamin E, against biological damage by photochemical air pollutants such as ozone and nitrogen dioxide," Menzel explained.

Although he warned "before anyone leaps out and buys Vitamin E he should consult a physician," Menzel said there are no known hazards to taking Vitamin E, in whatever doses. He added that at present the vitamin, which is found in most fresh vegetables and wheat germ, is not considered an essential nutrient for man.

He stressed that the substances would not cure "respiratory cripples" but that they could prevent diseases such as emphysema and edema, which research has shown can be caused in animals by air pollutants.

He said the foul air causes an "oxidative breakdown" of the lung which he compared to butter becoming rancid. "Just as when a bubblegum balloon has a weak point it will rupture at that point, so will the tiny air sacs in the lung," said Menzel.

Menzel said that if man was only worried about respiratory diseases he would eat lots of saturated fats. "But since a large quantity of saturated fats leads to cardiovascular diseases," he said, the researchers were forced to look for a better answer.

Although Menzel said the ultimate solution must be to rid the environment of pollution, the discovery "may ameliorate what is one of the most rapidly rising disease syndromes in the world's urban areas."

Hussein Faces Dilemma

By United Press International
Hussein's Dilemma:

Western diplomats are deeply pessimistic about the long term outlook for King Hussein of Jordan. They say he will be blamed throughout the Arab world for the bloodshed in the war with Palestinian guerrillas and is unlikely to command any loyalty in the future with the Palestinians who comprise about 50 per cent of Jordan's population. Hussein has also earned the lasting hatred of the left-leaning Arab governments in Syria and Iraq.

Weapons and South Africa:
The British government has asked South Africa for a "shopping list" of weapons South Africa would like if Britain lifts its arms sales embargo. But political sources say no firm decision by Britain is likely before early next year. The conservative government in London has announced its intention of resuming sales of weapons to South Africa, a nation where whites govern despite the fact that most of the people are black.

Wilson's Strategy:
Former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson is expected to try to block any disruptive post mortem at the Labor party's annual conference opening at Blackpool today into the reasons for the party's defeat in the general elections last June. His main aim is to plan for a Labor comeback rather than to reshuffle old quarrels.

For 1971, Pontiac announces the best selection of automobiles... since automobiles.

1. The First Grand Ville. A completely new Pontiac that never existed before. A luxury car with a sensible price. The most luxurious Pontiac ever. The softest seats. The richest upholstery. The most distinctive appointments. More head room. More shoulder room. As much rear-seat leg room in the 2-door hardtop as in most 4-doors. Twice the money won't buy a smoother, quieter ride. Compare for yourself. It starts with a wider Wide-Track. A new suspension. And some new ways to marry body to chassis. Sensational. Even response is luxurious. The steering is variable-ratio power. The brakes are power with front discs. The power is a 455-cubic-inch V-8 that performs on low-lead or no-lead fuel.

2. Firebird Esprit. Our 1971 Firebird Esprit will be making a few new waves. It couples the handling of a sports car with the smooth ride of a big car. Molded foam front seats. A new process we discovered. They won't lump. So they stay comfortable for the life of the car. Front disc brakes and more. A dent-resistant Endura front end. Long-wearing, bias-belted tires. A 350-cubic-inch V-8 (low-lead or no-lead fuel). Knit vinyl upholstery. All standard.

3. GTO. Legendary. But we made it better. In honor of our enthusiast fans. New scoops that really scoop. Order them functional with a new 455-CID H.O. V-8. Which is also very efficient on the new no-lead or low-lead gasolines. Lower exhaust emissions. Plus longer life for spark plugs, exhaust system and other engine components. If no- or low-lead gas isn't available, use any leaded regular-grade gas with a research octane number of at least 91. The new Endura front end fights back. It looks like painted steel metal but isn't. Much tougher. It resists dings, dents, chips. Won't rust. The power train's tough, too. 400-CID V-8. Dual exhausts. A Hurst-shifted 3-speed transmission (order a 4-speed if you prefer).

4. Grand Prix. Until now, no new car ever started out a classic. The look of a classic. An all-new front end. Classic. A sensational new sculptured rear end. Equally so. A new cockpit interior that puts every new control and gauge at fingertip command. There's more to a classic than ogling. It has to move. Grand Prix has a 400-cubic-inch V-8. Power brakes, front discs. Variable-ratio power steering. An available 455 V-8. Grand Prix moves. A new maintenance-free battery. It never needs water. And it holds a higher power reserve throughout its life. Standard on Grand Prix "S" model.

White House Strains to Show Nixons' Homey Home Life

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: There appears to be a concerted effort at the White House to give Americans new insight into the homey, close-knit private life of the First Family, a source of constant public curiosity.

What is it like when the work day is done and the Nixons gather by themselves in the cheerful, sunny-yellow family quarters of the white mausoleum?

To Mrs. Nixon, "It's fun... you don't know what fun we have as a family."

Chatting with newswomen recently, Mrs. Nixon told of some of the behind-the-scenes activities when official chores are done.

She said that she and the President often have their friends in for dinner. The friends a lot of times include top presidential staff members and wives who have become close to them through the years in an uphill battle to get to the White House.

Mrs. Nixon said these friends include Lucy Winchester, a social secretary who got a reprieve one night by being invited upstairs to dinner free of any responsibility for arranging the party.

"She said it was great," laughed Mrs. Nixon. "No fuss, no muss."

The Nixons always enjoy Mamie Eisenhower as a house guest. "She just loves the young folks," said the First Lady.

When the widow of President Eisenhower arrived recently after visiting her husband's grave in Abilene, Kan., she brought along with her a 28-minute documentary film on "Ike" that will be shown to visitors at the Eisenhower Library.

After dinner with Mrs. Eisenhower, the family and friends gathered in the White House theater to view the Eisenhower movie and also to enjoy an 'oldie,' "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," in a relaxed atmosphere.

The President and Mrs. Nixon exhibit togetherness in public, but it is definitely on the reserve side in comparison to that of President Johnson, who freely demonstrated strong affection for his wife Lady Bird in public. The Johnson's daughter, Lynda Bird, used to come home from college classes and rush into the East Room—ceremony or no—and give her daddy a big kiss.

Now 'Chaika Cleans White' At Russian State Laundry

MOSCOW (UPI) — "Chaika chistit cheesto, chistit bystro" reads the headline. It means "Chaika cleans white, cleans fast."

What's remarkable about that is it is an ad in a Moscow newspaper and that Chaika is a state-owned laundry corporation.

It's a symbol of a change in the Soviet scheme of things. Slowly Soviet authorities have been leaking small doses of advertising into the mass media for some time. Television viewers see ads for such things as state insurance and one of Moscow's newspapers prints appeals for apartment exchanges.

That Moscow residents like the trend is apparent. One of the capital's best-selling newspapers is an advertising sheet published weekly as an eight-page tabloid supplement to Vechernaya Moskva (Evening Moscow). It offers not only such Madison Avenue-style slogans as "cleans white, cleans fast," but provides Muscovites with their own personal want-ad columns.

The supplement comes out each Wednesday morning and is invariably a sell-out before noon at two kopecks (two cents) per copy. The Chaika ad was a full-page black and white promotion in a recent issue.

Not every advertiser has gotten the hang of the technique. In the same edition another laundry billed itself as Laundry No. 19 and headlined its ad for a new home-delivery service, "contract is signed."

But other advertisers display a developing talent for the catchy. "The weather is the barometer of four moods" said one department store blurb. It went on to observe that "a raincoat in our days is not a luxury but a necessary and useful thing."

"To the sea by trolley" read another ad, this one for swimming classes at a "water-sports palace" which promised salt water indistinguishable from that at the classiest Black Sea resorts.

Prices are never mentioned. Neither is the cost of advertising space to prospective clients.

A large section of the personal columns is taken up by persons offering country homes — "dachas" — for sale. Although the land belongs to the state, or more properly to "the people," citizens may build their own homes upon plots and may sell them so long as it is a one-shot affair and not a profit-making business gambit.

Other ads reflect the consumer shortages and desires of the citizens.

"I'll buy a motor for a Moskvich car," read a recent one. "I'll buy a tape recorder," said another.

Possibly the most intriguing ads are those placed by official agencies. "The all-knowing Moscow Enquiry Bureau," for example, offers telephone subscribers what may be the world's most complete information service.

Synthetic Turf Lauded

NEW YORK (UPI)—The midskirt turns out to be heady news for the nation's hatmakers.

"This is the most favorable hat selling climate that has blown our way in a decade," said Maybelle F. Hall, commentator at a millinery exhibit to show off what buyers have stocked for you for fall and winter.

"With skirts longer, a hat is a necessity to make the new generation of clothes work," Miss Hall continued.

She then reviewed the fashion news appearing in newspapers and magazines in recent months showing how hat and midi go hand in hand in clothes coordination. Even the hard hats have their scene, she quipped.

"The customers are ready," she told the retailer representatives. "Are you?"—a question asked at the fashion show staged by a trade and promotion organization.

Miss Hall said one way to get women into hats was to put the hats where the clothes are, not stuck off separately. In the pantsuits section of a store, put hats that go with pantsuits, for instance.

As for styles, the look for fall included the whole range of brims—snap brims, gaucho, western, fedora, swagger, musketeer, bowler and some in fur that come so far down over the face little more than chin shaws.

Running counter to the brim was a revival of the 1930s types, the brimless cloches and helmets that hug the head and hide the ears but give the brow wide exposure. These come for both day and evening in felt, leather and knits.

One group of chapeaux, called "fun and feathers" featured mostly evening wear with plenty of glitter.

GOP Once Ruled Senate Roost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It last happened so long ago that only one Republican senator, the venerable George D. Aiken of Vermont, has experienced the pleasure and the power.

Not in 16 years has a GOP senator ruled over a committee, responded to the title of "Mr. Chairman," gavelled a hearing to order or guided a bill to passage.

Since 1955, the Senate has been controlled by the Democrats. They have chaired every committee and subcommittee while their GOP counterparts have played second banana.

As the 1970 off-year elections draw near, Republicans are making their biggest push to gain control of the Senate. To do so, they must gain a net of seven seats, giving them a 50-50 split with the Democrats. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew would provide the controlling vote.

With victory come the prized chairmanships Republican senators have coveted for so long. A Republican take-over would mean some major shifts in the positions of chairmen and in the directions they could lead their committees. It would install the first woman chairman of a major committee in Senate history; provide a staunch opponent of the antiballistic missile system (ABM) to oversee military affairs; fiscal conservatives to preside over the finance and banking committees; a midwesterner to guide farm programs, and a brand-new racketeer buster.

Who would take over? In the Senate, ascendancy is based on seniority—and nothing else—so the ranking GOP members on each committee would automatically move into the chairmanships.

Of them all, only Aiken has been around long enough to have held a chairmanship in the GOP-controlled 1953-54 Congress. Others were farther down in the pecking order and a good many were not even in the Senate at that time.

Aiken was chairman of the Agriculture Committee 16 years ago and could reclaim that post on the basis of his continued seniority. But the 78-year-old Vermont also is ranking Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee and it appears certain he would choose that more prestigious post.

A transition from Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., who has held the foreign relations post longer than any other senator, to Aiken, would not signal any dramatic shift. It would be more of a subtle change, in both style and direction.

Fulbright, strident, outspoken and aggressive, has vigorously and constantly challenged the Johnson and Nixon administration policies in Vietnam. Aiken shares many of Fulbright's concerns about Vietnam policy. But, although plagued by doubts about Vietnamization, he still feels it can succeed if Nixon is not entangled in an extended war in Indochina.

Ranked on a par and in frequent jurisdictional strife with the Foreign Relations Committee is the Armed Services Committee, now chaired by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss. Stennis, who has held the post only two years, would be succeeded by

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, who would become the first woman to head a Senate committee. No one questions her military expertise nor her ability to put the heat on the Pentagon.

While Stennis and Mrs. Smith tend to ride tandem on most military issues—certainly outside the confines of closed-door meetings—they come down on opposite sides of the ABM controversy. Stennis supports the administration on the ABM. Mrs. Smith has fought it at every step.

Mrs. Smith and Aiken, close personal friends of long standing, might heal the breach between the two committees. Fulbright and Stennis frequently have been at each other's throats.

If the Republicans take over the Senate, two westerners with impeccable conservative credentials would take over the committees that deal with economic policy.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, a former president of the National Association of Manufacturers, would have his choice of the finance or the banking committees. Indications are he would pick the finance committee, where he now ranks second to Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, a maverick who is retiring.

That would leave the banking chairmanship to Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, a second-termer who was not in the Senate the last time Republicans held a majority. Bennett would succeed Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana and Tower would take the chair now held by Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama.

The least noticeable changes would probably come on the Labor and Judiciary Committees.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York would step in as head of the Labor Committee, which also handles education, public welfare and some veterans' legislation. He is considered every bit as liberal as the current chairman, Sen. Ralph Yarborough of Texas.

Sen. Roman Hruska of Nebraska—up for reelection but virtually conceded easy victory—would succeed Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi as chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Although not aligned with Eastland on civil rights (he cast a crucial vote to halt an anti-rights filibuster in 1964), Hruska tends to side with southerners and GOP conservatives on crime and gun legislation and has a reputation for protecting the interests of big business.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, seriously ill at present, is the top-ranked Republican on the Government Operations Committee. If he cannot take an active role, the job if not the title could fall to Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois. It could be the break Percy needs to come out of the limbo which has enveloped him since his aborted 1968 attempt to become Nixon's vice president. This would be especially true if he took over the permanent investigating subcommittee, which made Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas a household word as a racket-buster.

Politicos Run for Sheriff

By RAYMOND LAHR
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Who is running for sheriff?
 In the political debate of 1970, Republican National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton finds self-appointed sheriffs among prominent Democrats he says were formerly too tolerant of violence in America.

"Republican candidates this fall, from senator on down, are running for sheriff," said Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic nominee for senator in Illinois. "They are running against kids and kooks, Communists and crime."

In the Republican National Committee's weekly publication Sept. 21, Morton pointed to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as "a classic example of a prominent Democrat who was soft on law and order but who now has pinned on the sheriff's badge and become an election-even enforcer."

Morton also mentioned former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, now Democratic nominee for Senator in Minnesota, as "another one who has suddenly seen the light."

Stevenson argued during a Washington visit Sept. 22 that the GOP had decided "demagoguery is good politics this year."

"Not since 1952 has there been such a calculated political pandering to our fears, our prejudices and our divisions," he said. "In 1952 'soft on communism' was the political bludgeon. Today it's 'soft on crime.'"

In 1952, Stevenson was serving in the Marines and his father was governor of Illinois and a candidate destined for defeat as the Democratic nominee for the presidency.

Hussein has also earned the lasting hatred of the left-leaning Arab governments in Syria and Iraq.

Weapons and South Africa:
 The British government has asked South Africa for a "shopping list" of weapons South Africa would like if Britain lifts its arms sales embargo. But political sources say no firm decision by Britain is likely before early next year. The conservative government in London has announced its intention of resuming sales of weapons to South Africa, a nation where whites govern despite the fact that most of the people are black.

Wilson's Strategy:
 Former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson is expected to try to block any disruptive post mortem at the Labor party's annual conference opening at Blackpool today into the reasons for the party's defeat in the general elections last June. His main aim is to plan for a Labor comeback rather than to rehash old quarrels.

Vitamin Seen As Smog Cure

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI)—A research firm here has made a discovery it thinks may lead to increasing the life expectancy of smog-ridden city dwellers.

Early results from experiments being conducted at Batelle-Northwest indicate that Vitamin E may prevent respiratory diseases caused by air pollution.

"Laboratory tests on rats show that those fortified with Vitamin E live twice as long as the unfortified rats in an atmosphere which simulates smog concentrations like those found over Los Angeles or Tokyo on a bad day," Dr. D. B. Menzel, nutrition and food technology manager, reported.

Rats which had not received Vitamin E died within an average of eight days of continuous exposure to an atmosphere containing one part per million of ozone.

"Los Angeles has recorded up to .9 parts per million of ozone on a bad day," Menzel said.

"This research suggests a definite protective effect of fat antioxidants, such as Vitamin E, against biological damage by photochemical air pollutants such as ozone and nitrogen dioxide," Menzel explained.

Although he warned "before anyone leaps out and buys Vitamin E he should consult a physician," Menzel said there are no known hazards to taking Vitamin E, in whatever doses. He added that at present the vitamin, which is found in most fresh vegetables and wheat germ, is not considered an essential nutrient for man.

He stressed that the substances would not cure "respiratory cripples" but that they could prevent diseases such as emphysema and edema, which research has shown can be caused in animals by air pollutants.

He said the foul air causes an "oxidative breakdown" of the lung which he compared to butter becoming rancid. "Just as when a bubblegum balloon has a weak point it will rupture at that point, so will the tiny air sacs in the lung," said Menzel.

Menzel said that if man was only worried about respiratory diseases he would eat lots of saturated fats. "But since a large quantity of saturated fats leads to cardiovascular diseases," he said, the researchers were forced to look for a better answer.

Although Menzel said the ultimate solution must be to rid the environment of pollution, the discovery "may ameliorate what is one of the most rapidly rising disease syndromes in the world's urban areas."

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Stanford University has named as its seventh president, Richard W. Lyman, a historian who says "universities cannot lurch forward from one confrontation to another as we have been doing in the past half-decade . . ."

For 1971, Pontiac announces the best selection of automobiles... since automobiles.

- 1. The First Grand Ville. A completely new Pontiac that never existed before. A luxury car with a sensible price. The most luxurious Pontiac ever. The softest seats. The richest upholstery. The most distinctive appointments. More head room. More shoulder room. A much rear-seat leg room in the 2-door hardtop as in most 4-doors. Twice the money won't buy a smoother, quieter ride. Compare for yourself. It starts with a wider Wide-Track. A new suspension. And some new ways to marry body to chassis. Sensational. Even response is luxurious. The steering is variable-ratio power. The brakes are power with front discs. The power is a 455-cubic-inch V-8 that performs on low-lead or no-lead fuel.
- 2. Firebird Esprit. Out, 1971 Firebird Esprit will be making a few new waves. It couples the handling of a sports car with the smooth ride of a big car. Molded foam front seats. A new process we discovered. They won't lump. So they stay comfortable for the life of the car. Front disc brakes and more. A dent-resistant Endura front end. Long-wearing, bias-belted tires. A 350-cubic-inch V-8 (low-lead or no-lead fuel). Knit vinyl upholstery. All standard.
- 3. GTO. Legendary. But we made it better. In honor of our enthusiast fans. New scoops that really scoop. Order them functional with a new 455-CID H.O. V-8. Which is also very efficient on the new no-lead or low-lead gasolines. Lower exhaust emissions. Plus longer life for spark plugs, exhaust system and other engine components. If no- or low-lead gas isn't available, use any leaded regular-grade gas with a research octane number of at least 91. The new Endura front end fights back. It looks like painted sheet metal but isn't. Much tougher. It resists dings, dents, chips. Won't rust. The power train's tough, too. 400-CID V-8. Dual exhausts. A Hurst-shifted 3-speed transmission (order a 4-speed if you prefer).
- 4. Grand Prix. Until now, no new car ever started out a classic. The look of a classic. An all-new front end. Classic. A sensational new sculptured rear end. Equally so. A new cockpit interior that puts every new control and gauge at fingertip command. There's more to a classic than ogling. It has to move. Grand Prix has a 400-cubic-inch V-8. Power brakes, front discs. Variable-ratio power steering. An available 455 V-8. Grand Prix moves. A new maintenance-free battery. It never needs water. And it holds a higher power reserve throughout its life. Standard on Grand Prix "SJ" model.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Simple arithmetic can help shoppers get the best buy in rib roasts, says W. Edmund Tyler, an expert with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Consumer and Marketing Service. A 7-inch cut usually sells for a lower price per pound than a 5-inch cut — the measurements being based on the length of the rib bone. Tyler said a roast with longer bones may be more expensive because it contains more waste fat and bone than a 5-inch cut of equal thickness.

NAN LARSEN

Nan Larsen, Rasmussen Name Date

TWIN FALLS — December wedding plans are announced for Nan Larsen, daughter of Mrs. A. E. Larsen and the late Mr. A. E. (Ted) Larsen, Twin Falls, and Steven Rasmussen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rulon Rasmussen, Phoenix, Ariz.

Miss Larsen is a graduate of Brigham Young University, Provo, and is employed as librarian at Springville Junior High School, Springville, Utah. Mr. Rasmussen fulfilled a Danish mission for the LDS Church and is a student in business management at Brigham Young University.

The couple will be married Dec. 18 at the Salt Lake City LDS Temple.

DEAR ABBY: I am a church organist who has been intending to write to you about church music for some time, but what happened yesterday was the last straw.

A bride-to-be requested that I play "Aquarius" and "Let the Sunshine In" at her wedding. Naturally, being a conscientious church musician, I refused. She complained to the pastor who brought the matter before the church council. Believe it or not, the pastor and council agreed with her!

Now, don't get me wrong. I have nothing against the two songs mentioned above, but they have no place in a worship service, which is what a wedding is. It's bad enough when we have to play the traditional wedding marches by Wagner and Mendelssohn, or those sentimental love songs such as "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me," but I think when they approved "Aquarius" and "Let the Sunshine In," they hit rock bottom.

Thousands of serious church musicians will thank you for printing this. And if you do, please use my real name because I would like for people to know where I stand.

Very truly yours,
THOMAS L. SCHECK, ORGANIST
ST. JOHN'S UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST
MANSFIELD, OHIO

DEAR ORGANIST: It might interest you to know that "rock bottom" was hit a few years ago when another organist wrote to tell me that she had been requested to play "What Kind of Fool Am I" at a church wedding. And she played it.

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago my beloved husband died suddenly of a heart attack. We had been happily married for 40 years. He was 63 when he died.

Soon after his funeral I visited his grave and saw a vase of fresh flowers there. I asked friends and relatives if they had put them there. No one I asked had. On several other occasions I visited his grave. Again, fresh flowers, with no sign of the giver. I have no idea who is doing this as we were a very happy couple. My husband was always home nights with me, so I doubt that he was seeing someone else.

I wrote a note, thanking the unknown donor for the lovely flowers and asking her to please identify herself, and I put this note under the vase. On my next visit, there were fresh flowers, and my note was gone.

I have visited the cemetery at all hours hoping to run into this person, but thus far, I've seen no one.

I am just heartsick over this, but have kept it to myself. Losing my husband was difficult enough to bear without this added burden. Can you help me, Abby? NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Don't let your imagination run wild. The unknown flower donor need not be a woman with whom your husband was romantically linked. It could be a devoted, but shy person—possibly a man. Or even someone who admired your husband from afar, or one whom your husband did not even know. Don't torture yourself with frequent visits to his grave. Stay away. And most important, retain those memories of a faithful husband.

DEAR ABBY: I want to tell your readers what will power can do. A year and a half ago, I weighed 326 pounds, and today I weigh 179, and I'm still going down.

I have been eating everything I want, but only 1,000 calories a day. If I can do it, anybody can! I love eating next to God and mankind. I feel like a new woman, I look 25 years younger and am 100 per cent easier to get along with. I lost the last 40 pounds after I joined TOPS.

I hope to be down to 155 by the end of the year. I am absolutely bursting with joy and want to tell the world that will power pays off. CAROLINE IN MARENGO, OHIO

DEAR CAROLINE: Congratulations! Your letter could inspire others who are planning to go on a diet "tomorrow" to start today.

DEAR ABBY: Between Syracuse, N. Y., and Auburn, on the New York State thruway there is a sign which says, "Watch Out for Deer." Some clown added "Abby" after "Deer." Evidently the vandals know you, too.

Very truly yours,
C. R. VAN WAGENEN

Dear Sue Letter Termed Keepsake

TWIN FALLS — While to servicemen away from home a "Dear John" letter means trouble on the home front, to the wife of a serviceman a "Dear Sue" letter received recently was a joy to behold and a keepsake to treasure.

Sue is Mrs. David A. McClusky, the wife of Capt. David McClusky, son of Dr. and Mrs. David A. McClusky of Twin Falls. Capt. McClusky has been stationed with the Air Force Southern Communications Area at Oklahoma City, Okla. He left recently, to become a physician (the Air Force news release didn't say where), and his co-workers at Tinker Air Force Base sent a commendatory letter to Mrs. McClusky, the former Sue-Ellis, Twin-Falls. Starting "Dear Sue," the letter commented that although "It is the accepted policy today for most of us to be quick to criticize people and things for what we do not like," and frequently "we fail to express our feelings properly when we see greatness in people", that "we are not going to let this happen."

"Will Rogers once said that he never met a man he didn't like," the letter continued. "He was a great Oklahoman and a great American, even though he didn't know much about Idaho potatoes. You are married to a man that has similar traits and we never met a man who didn't like him!"

Mrs. McClusky herself was commended for helping her husband achieve success in his Air Force career. "You are a great inspiration to a great guy," she was told.

War Called "Point of Honor"

Jordan. The army was outraged Jordan's people divided almost evenly into two camps, one supporting the army and the Bedouins of the desert who make up most of it, the other backing the Palestinians.

PARTICIPATING in a multiple listing tour of homes in the Burley-Rupert area Friday were, from left, Otis Orton, Mrs. J. Hutchison, L. B. Jardine, Nita Hopkins, Ruby Edmons and Clifford Nutting. The tour, directed by Otis Orton of Orton Realty, was held to acquaint the realtors with the homes on the multiple listings and also served as an educational training session.

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—A week before the Jordanian Civil War began, King Hussein raced in a bodyguard's car from his Homme Palace down the road to Amman to intercept a column of Jordanian army tanks en route to the capital for a showdown with the Palestinian guerrillas.

Skirting around a tank in the rear which tried to block him, he pulled up in front of the column and stopped it. A brassiere was dangling from the radio antenna of one tank.

"Why is that there?" the king demanded, pointing with his swagger stick.

"Because, sir, you have turned us into women," replied the army lieutenant standing in the turret.

Hussein, to whom the army is devoted, persuaded the tank column to return to its base that day. He wanted moderation in dealing with the Palestinian guerrillas, even though they were working to undermine his control of Jordan and at the same time ridiculing his 60,000-man army.

But on Thursday, Sept. 17, his army moved against the guerrillas. And the Jordanian Civil War began in earnest.

For the Jordanian army, it was a point of honor.

The Jordanian army fought against Israel in the wars of 1948, 1956 and 1967, and the Israelis themselves said Jordanian troops fought better than any other Arabs. But the guerrillas laughed at Hussein's army, calling his Bedouin troops "paper tigers."

Despite the rivalry, however, civil war was unthinkable within the Arab alignment against Israel. There had been 10 attempts to assassinate Hussein, but outright war between his army and the guerrillas was hardly a possibility as late as 1968.

Then came Karameh. That dusty Jordan River village was unknown to all but a few of Jordan's 2 million citizens. But it had become a mecca for the more warlike of around 700,000 Palestinian refugees. One of them, Yasser Arafat, made it his base of guerrilla organizations.

On March 21, 1968 Israeli helicopters swirled down on Karameh. The Israelis killed guerrillas, captured others and blew up buildings. But the Israelis met unexpectedly stiff opposition from Hussein's army.

Arafat, however organized his propaganda and proclaimed the battle of Karameh a decisive guerrilla victory. The army's role was ignored. Thus, the legend of the "Fedayeen" (Arabic for "Men of Sacrifice") was born. Palestinians flocked to join Arafat's Al Fatah guerrillas. Arab governments and businessmen offered money.

Then Hussein became the only other Arab leader to join President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt in backing the American plan for talks on Middle East peace. It was launched Aug. 7 with a cease-

Comparison of Proposal Slated

BOISE (UPI) — A decision on contents of the comparison between Idaho's existing and revised constitution was reached Friday at a meeting in the office of Raymond Givens, chairman of the Constitutional Revision Commission.

Birthday Observed By Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI quietly celebrated his 73rd birthday Saturday working on church papers and preparing for talks with President Nixon about world peace.

Vatican officials said there were no special observances of the pontiff's birthday and he spent much of the day at his desk as usual. They said he worked on church affairs and was briefed by aides about the situation in Jordan, which he said in a speech Wednesday could bring "incalculable catastrophes" for mankind.

Nixon, who arrives in Rome Sunday night on a tour of the strategic Mediterranean area, was scheduled to call on the pontiff Monday afternoon. Vatican sources said Pope Paul was anxious to discuss Indochina peace prospects and the Middle East crisis with the President.

The visit will be Nixon's fifth meeting with Pope Paul, and his second since he became president. He called on the Pope during a similar European tour March 2, 1969.

Vatican sources said Pope Paul was expected to urge Nixon to continue his efforts for a peace settlement in the Middle East.

White Eyes Black Collegiate Needs

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — Dr. E. Clayton Calhoun, who is resigning as the only white president of a Negro college, regards black colleges as the nation's first priority.

"More and more the black youth is being pushed toward the options of the streets by the slow and meager response to the needs of black schools," Calhoun said.

The veteran educator has headed Paine College, a predominantly black liberal arts school with about 700 enrollment, for the past 14 years. His resignation will become effective the end of this year.

However, the 57-year-old Georgia native said he plans to keep in close touch with Negro schools through work with the United Methodist Church which, along with the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church, operates Paine.

Calhoun told a recent meeting of Negro college leaders in Chicago that he was resigning and his colleagues "almost without exception advised me against it."

However, he said, "This platform needs to be yielded to a black man." All his predecessors in the 87-year history of Paine had been white, Calhoun said. "Given these particular times... and the attitude of some young blacks who tune me out," a black president is a necessity.

He said he felt black colleges were treated in a "condescending" fashion by both foundations and the federal government when it comes to making higher education grants.

Too often, Calhoun said, presidents of black schools have to use the "hat in hand" approach to obtain funds and "I think America is not really dealing with what in fact is its first priority."

He said condescension also crops up in handling black students at predominantly white colleges and universities, including "turning over to them decisions which are not granted to other students, treating them as exceptional cases."

"I think there is a realism in some black colleges that is not in all white colleges," he said, describing some of the predominantly white schools as "terribly paternalistic" in their attitude toward Negro students.

Calhoun said many black colleges are possibly ahead of Question ...

Under what circumstances must a Federal Estate Tax Notice be filed?

Answer ...

If an executor or administrator does not qualify within two months after the decedent's death, a notice must be filed by any person in actual or constructive possession of property included in the decedent's gross estate.

The notice must be filed within two months after the decedent's death, except that, if an executor or administrator qualified within such period the notice may be filed within two months after his qualification. A Federal Estate Tax Return is due fifteen months from the date of the decedent's death.

Oswald: "Over the years Standard American bidding has remained the best method for the average player. At the same time, it has become some sort of conglomerate where the basic rules are indefinite and the most usable innovations have not been added."

Jim: "Just take the minimum requirements for an opening bid. Read any two basic books and you will find a hodgepodge of rules involving position at the table, vulnerability, defense tricks and possibly the signs of the Zodiac."

Oswald: "In presenting JACOBY MODERN to our readers we start by cutting thru all these complications. A hand either qualifies as an opening bid or it doesn't qualify."

Jim: "The first step is to use the standard 4-3-2-1 point-count table with the standard additions of three points for a void, two points for a singleton and one point for a doubleton. Then we come to a Jacoby extra that is already used in Standard American. For purposes of opening the bidding in a suit you subtract one point for 4-3-3-3 distribution. This is most important. 4-3-3-3 hands just don't produce as well as they should, in suit contracts."

Oswald: "This brings us to our simple rule for a minimum opening bid. Open any hand with 12 or more high-card points in any position at the table, vulnerable or not vulnerable, EXCEPT hands with 12-13 high-card points and 4-3-3-3 distribution."

Jim: "Today's hand would be passed out in JACOBY MODERN. North and South each hold 13 high-card points with 4-3-3-3 distribution. When actually played, South opened the bidding and wound up going down two tricks at three no-trump. He did make one no-trump, but there was no way to stop there once the bidding was opened."

gentsman! I called on Catherine Paugh, housewife!
Yes, gentlemen!
I am not prone to over-confidence, but I can state flatly that Mrs. Paugh presents no threat whatsoever!
She is a neophyte, a babe in the woods, a lamb ready to be led to slaughter!

PASS IT ON

by L.M. Boyd

WHEN A MARRIED COUPLE is childless, the medical-fellows contend, the chances run two to one the blameless responsibility lies with the woman, bless her bones... WIVES WHO GRADUATE from college are more apt to wind up on a payroll than wives who do not graduate from college, and that is a fact, peculiarly enough... THE SECOND MOST LIKELY PLACE in the world for a single American girl to find a potential husband is the Panama Canal Zone, it's now said.

LOVE AND WAR — Once a swinger, always a swinger. Such is what one matrimonial counselor maintains. It's a common notion that an amorous bachelor, who horses around considerably before marriage, tends to get such adventuring out of his system. But that's not right, evidently. This expert says his studies show the single playboy is exactly the same cutup who is most apt to stray after the wedding. Our Love and War man is analyzing that claim, too

CUSTOMER SERVICE — Q "Would you kindly give us actress Julie Harris's age, old boy?" A. Certainly not, sir, if she had not already made public knowledge of the fact she's 44. To do so would be indelicate, ungallant and dirty pool... Q "Anybody ever figure out how much a car owner pays on the average everytime he takes it into the shop for repairs?" A. Just about $42 a whack now

AM ASKED HOW long the medical profession has been aware of allergies. Quite some time. At least 2,000 years, anyway. It was none other than Physician No. 1, Dr. Hippocrates, who wrote, "There are some men whose bodies are incompatible with cheese." WHO REMEMBERS the old Packard cars? Everybody, just about. All right, back in 1902 an accessory Packard offered its customers was an ammonia gun. To spray discouragement at dogs that nipped tires.

OPEN QUESTION — Any truth to the claim that brown eggs have more food value than white eggs?

CONSIDER THIS — Believe I've been relying too heavily on the pollsters. Much too heavily. For instance, they've repeatedly run surveys in New York City to ask the citizenry thereabouts to name their favorite newspapers. Extrapolated results indicate about 3,500,000 people say they prefer the New York Times while approximately 700,000 claim to choose the Daily News. But circulation figures show just about the reverse must be true. Odd, what?
