Smog Hides Bridge

SMOG-BLANKETING the Snake River canyon obscures the Perrine Bridge north of Twin Falls in this view, taken this morning. The haze, which has cut visibility, is a result of stagnant air trapped by a temperature inversion over Idaho. The weather bureau said that dust, smoke and other pollutants are suspended in the air, causing the smog.

OEO Reports Local CAA Centers Fail

BY LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls and Burley neighborhood centers operated by the South Central Community Action Agency were called worthless by a federal OEO survey team.

The two neighborhood centers "do not seem to be directing their efforts towards the issues of poverty but rather patchwork problems that exist. The data collected and recorded indicates little done in referrals to other agencies. The councils for the neighborhood centers are not functioning effectively or making any meaningful contribution."

The survey was taken last July, CAA executive director Larry Mack said in reply; and work has been done toward improving some of the areas criticized.

The OEO regional headquarters in Seattle found administration of the CAA in "relatively good order."

But the two neighborhood centers reportedly are not providing any measurable contribution in assisting the poor or getting them out of poverty," according to the review.

Idaho Temperatures

Increasing Smoke and Haze

Magic Valley, Twin Falls and vicinity, Northside, Burley, Rupert, are...
Mostly sunny today and Saturday. Increasing smoke and haze...
High temperatures 75 to 85 both days. Low tonight 35 to 45. Light winds today and tonight. Probability of rainfall near zero through Saturday. Outlook for Sunday little change.

Camas Prairie, Hainley and lower Wood River Valley...
Same as Magic Valley except high temperatures in the 70s today and Saturday. Low tonight 25 to 35.

Weather synopsis:
A stagnant high pressure system is again settling down over nearly all the northwestern states. While this will continue to produce mostly fair skies and pleasant fall temperatures over southern Idaho, and eastern Oregon, it will also allow smoke and dust and other air pollutants to accumulate under strong temperature inversion aloft. Therefore it would seem that burning should be held to a minimum during the next few days. Winds increased only slightly yesterday and any improvement in the air pollution potential was only temporary. Winds will be mostly less than 10 miles per hour tonight. Afternoon temperatures will climb only a few degrees in the lower valleys today, but will tend to be around 5 degrees higher in the higher elevations. Maximums through the weekend will range through the 70s and lower 80s. The nights will be moderately cool with lows mostly in the 30s and lower 40s in the agricultural valleys. Lows in the high valleys will dip into the 20s.

There is no major storm activity in sight.

Andrus Hits Tax Foulup

SPokane (UPI) — Cecil Andrus, Democratic candidate for governor, said here Thursday the reason property taxes were increasing in the state was that the state government has failed to properly fund education.

Andrus, on a flying tour through northern Idaho, told a news conference here, "The state residents were led to believe in 1965 when we passed the income tax that this would take the burden of funding off the property taxpayer."

"But it hasn't," Andrus said. "Too much of the money has gone into administration and now departments."

The Democratic gubernatorial candidate called education the key to a healthier and more abundant economy in the state.

"Idaho has yet to make that supreme effort to make certain that educational opportunity is available to all," he said.

Andrus said it falls far short because Idaho ranks 38th among the states in per capita expenditures by states for all education.

According to National Education Association figures, Andrus said, Idaho was the lowest in expenditures of the Northwest states in 1968, the latest statistics available.

He said the figures showed Idaho spent $105.81 per student in 1968, compared with $133.32 in Montana, $185.24 for Washington and $205.45 for Utah.

Andrus proposed that more state funds be allocated to education in order to increase state support of all levels of education—and thereby help reduce the property tax burden at the local level.

"We desperately need the adequate financing that was promised when the sales tax was enacted in 1965; not the percentage that the present administration is allocating," Andrus said.

"If we continue," he warned, "to give tax revenues away for non-priority items, we will see a further deterioration of education in Idaho at all levels."

Andrus reiterated his charge that the reason the counties were not mailing off the property tax assessments for the coming year was "politically motivated."

The counties have until late November to release the information to the public but Andrus wants the tax notices sent out before the Nov. 3 election.

"He claims it will disprove the contention by Gov. Don Samuelson that taxes have not increased in the state during his administration."

Benefit Increase Proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee tentatively voted Thursday to give the nation's elderly a 70 per cent across-the-board increase in Social Security benefits with a minimum payment of $100 a month.

The proposed increase, effective Jan. 1, 1971, would go to 28.3 million Americans on Social Security and would come on top of a 15 per cent increase which went into effect last January.

Both the across-the-board increase and the boost in the minimum passed by relatively narrow margins, but there was no indication the committee would reverse itself before final adoption of a Social Security bill.

The House earlier this year passed legislation which would provide a 5 per cent across-the-board increase plus an automatic 3 per cent boost any time the cost of living went up that much.

Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., made the motion to double the across-the-board increase and the 10 per cent figure was approved 85-74.

Then, Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., proposed the 100 a month minimum, beating Harris, who had intended to recommend 90, to the punch. Long's motion was approved 74-74.

The present minimum is 60 and the House-passed bill would provide a minimum of 87.20.

The Senate last year approved a $100 minimum but it was eliminated in a Senate-House conference.

Long estimated that the two increases — across-the-board and the minimum — would cost about $3.7 billion a year.

Nixon, Tito in Accord

BELGRADE (UPI) — President Nixon and Yugoslav President Tito agreed Thursday that "further patient efforts" are needed to defuse the Middle East conflict. But in nearly two hours of talks, they failed to reach full understanding on how peace can be achieved.

Nixon and the 78-year-old Communist ruler discussed their mutual concern over the "very grave and delicate situation" in the Middle East and other world flashpoints on the final day of Nixon's visit to Yugoslavia, the first by an American President.

The formal ceremonies came to a close Thursday night with a state dinner hosted by Nixon that featured Colorado roast prime rib and a performance by the U.S. Marine Band.

Nixon flies to Madrid, Spain, Friday, the third nation on his itinerary in a nine-day European tour designed to emphasize the American presence in the Mediterranean in the face of growing "Soviet involvement" there.

Nixon combined private talks with public exposure Thursday. He shook hands with crowds in Belgrade and flew to Zagreb, capital of the Yugoslav republic of Croatia, for a train-awep drive in an open car along streets lined with an estimated 100,000 persons huddled under umbrellas. Then he drove through hills to Tito's birthplace in the village of Kurnovac 22 miles northwest of Zagreb.

As on Wednesday, the crowds at Nixon's various stops were large and friendly, and Tito told Nixon at one point, "We can get people to come out. But you know, Mr. President, you cannot get them to smile or show the warmth that they have here."

White House officials said Nixon, in his talks with Tito, asked advice on how to get Middle East peace talks resumed despite the confusion caused by the death of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. He also stressed that the aim is to let the peoples of the Middle East live their own lives, without foreign interference.

Yugoslav officials described the talks held at the imposing modern Federal Executive Building in New Belgrade as "mutually beneficial."

Kramer Speaks To Lions

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Constitution is not revised as much as it is updated, Doug Kramer, Twin Falls attorney and member of the Constitutional Revision Commission of Idaho, told the local Lions Club Wednesday.

"The commission and the legislature have preserved every good feature in our present constitution and only changed those provisions which are archaic, bigoted and simply out of date."

He said the revision commission and legislature are not attempting to represent that this was the greatest document ever written, but it is the result of five years of concentrated study with its total aim being the preservation of personal and human rights and the re-establishment of power in the state.

"Our present constitution, like most other state constitutions, was in reality dictated by the U.S. Congress as a condition of being admitted to statehood. As a result, the Congress in 1889 really demagogued that the states have no rights and Congress has all rights. The result is well known today and if the people will approve the proposed updated constitution, maybe the states can once again assume the position they should have in our republic," Kramer said.

Pandemonium Hits Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson began singing "The old grey mare, she ain't what she used to be" and three female codefendants at the Tate murder trial loudly called the judge "a woman."

After 15 weeks of decorous behavior by the "Manson family" defendants, the Sharon Tate-LaBianca murder trial erupted into pandemonium Thursday and all four were ordered taken from the courtroom while the jury looked on in amazement.

Even Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi got involved and he was fined $50 for contempt of court.

Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older was prepared, if necessary, to carry on the trial with the defendants confined in other rooms and listening to the proceedings by loudspeaker.

Older was backed up by a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that a defendant may be removed from the courtroom if his behavior becomes disruptive and makes orderly procedure impossible.

The outburst came near the conclusion of testimony by ranch hand Juan Flynn, who lived with the "family" for more than a year. Flynn was telling how Manson "programmed" his girls to forget their past lives and their parents.

Flynn, a Purple Heart Vietnam War veteran, said Manson gained control over the girls by having them engage in lesbian sex acts and unnatural relations with men.

Flynn was on the witness stand late Thursday when Manson burst into the refrain of "The Old Grey Mare," Judge Older's wife was seated in the front row of spectator seats.

Older warned Manson that unless he became silent he would have to remove him from the courtroom.

"You'll have to order me to stop living," Manson said.

"You're just a woman, judge,"

Safety Measures Sought for Jets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Transportation Safety Board has asked for new safety restrictions for the engines used on the Boeing 747 jumbo jets to lessen the danger of fire and explosions.

The board urged the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) Thursday to order steps to cool the Pratt & Whitney engines, including mandatory use of "water injection." The board does not have the power to order the restrictions itself.

The board noted that an American Airlines 747 was forced to return to San Francisco Sept. 18 when an engine exploded and caught fire very soon after takeoff, and an Air France 747 bound from Montreal to Paris on Aug. 17 had to land at New York with the same problem.

In a letter to FAA Administrator John H. Shaffer, the board expressed its concern "of the potentially catastrophic results" of 747 engine failures.

The water injection system would cool the engine turbine and also increase engine thrust to permit faster takeoff. However, the added weight of the water — up to 26,000 pounds for 747 — could reduce the airliner's permitted passenger load and cut profits from the flight.

The board also advised the FAA to require an improved turbine blade in the engines.

The recommendations were the latest in a series dealing with the 747, a 345-passenger jetliner that made its first flight last January. In August, the FAA ordered a limited X-ray inspection of the plane's engines following the explosion and fire aboard the Air France jet.

Consumer Inaction Explained

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Free-trade advocates said Thursday that fear of losing financial support from labor unions had kept consumer lobbyists from proposing a bill which would limit textiles and shoe imports.

Erma Angelino, executive director of the Consumers Federation of America, acknowledged the CFA had taken no position on the measure. But she denied any labor influence.

The AFL-CIO supports the bill on grounds it would preserve American jobs. Virginia H. Knauer, President Nixon's consumer affairs adviser, said the legislation would increase prices and reduce competition. She called it "the most significant anti-consumer legislation now in the Congress."

Favoritism Accusation Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John G. Tower, a conservative and paymaster for the Republican senatorial campaign committee, today denied he was playing ideological favorites with GOP money.

Seeking to soothe ruffled Republican liberals, Tower said "no ideological considerations" figured in the allocation by the committee of campaign funds for GOP senatorial candidates.

The Texas emphatically denied he was using control of the committee and its purse to collect advance pledges from the candidates in support of a bid by Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas for the post of Senate Republican leader.

"The allegation that I was electioneering for Dole is totally false," Tower said in response to a question about reports circulating in the Senate. "We never place any strings on assistance we give a candidate."

The issue was raised among Senate Republicans by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, who confronted Tower with an accounting of the committee's distribution of money through Sept. 1. Tower was not present at the meeting.

The chart showed a wide discrepancy in the amounts provided — incumbent senators and also showed only five of 24 GOP challengers for seats now held by Democrats received money.

The Hatfield accounting did not include allocations made by the committee since Sept. 1. Candidates have received contributions since then.

Although Hatfield insisted he was not charging Tower with an ideological preference in distributing the money, but only trying to find Tower's criteria for disbursement, the figures indicated a preference for conservatives.

As of Sept. 1, for instance, Sen. George Murphy of California had received $31,007 and Sen. Ralph T. Smith of Illinois was $37,204. Both are considered Two-type conservatives.

By contrast, Sen. Charles E. Goodell, in a bitter three-way fight for election in New York, received only $3,611.

An even sharper contrast was presented in the $72,079 provided Rep. George Bush, Tower's fellow Texas and the GOP senatorial candidate.

Building Values Increase

TWIN FALLS — Building permits issued by the Twin Falls city clerk's office for September totaled $177,320 in structural values, city clerk Constance Leiser reported today.

She said there were 10 permits issued, compared with 26 for September, 1969. Four of these were issued for new dwellings and represented a total structural value of $74,500.

Other new construction was covered in three permits representing $19,000 in value. There were four additions and alterations for $76,000 and eight repairs and improvements for $6,920.

The 1970 September building total in Twin Falls compares with $157,320 for the same month a year ago.

School Bus Law Struck Down

BUFFALO (UPI) — A New York state law which banned busing of children to achieve racial integration in schools has been struck down by a three-judge federal panel.

The law, passed by the legislature in 1969 and since copied by five southern states, had been challenged by Donald R. Tice of Buffalo, state president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Judges John O. Henderson, Harold P. Burke and Paul R. Hayes in a unanimous decision issued Thursday, held that the law violates the "equal protection" clause of the 14th Amendment to the United States Constitution. The court ordered the state not to enforce it.

Mrs. Joan Coon, who defended the law for the state attorney general's office, said in Albany the state probably will appeal Thursday's ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court, where six busing cases already are scheduled to be argued Oct. 12.

"We need to get a definitive ruling on the question of segregation by housing patterns," she said. "Until now the Supreme Court has refused to take jurisdiction in this type of case."

The law said, "No student shall be assigned or compelled to attend any school on account of race, creed, color or national origin, or for the purpose of achieving equality in attendance ... of persons of one or more particular races."

The court's decision said the legislature had acted "to make it more difficult for racial minorities to achieve goals that are in their interest."

"The statute thus operates to disadvantage of minority, a racial minority, in the political process. There can be no sufficient justification supporting the necessity of such a course of action."

Police Attack Bill Offered

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In an effort to halt the recent wave of bombings, killings and assaults of law enforcement officers, Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, has introduced legislation providing federal assistance to local law enforcement agencies to apprehend attackers.

Hansen said the bill makes it a federal offense to kill or conspire to kill or to feloniously assault a local officer or fireman engaged in the performance of his official duties.

"State and local authorities are frequently without sufficient capability to apprehend today's highly mobile criminals," Hansen said. "The federal government, with its experience, resources and facilities can and should help in apprehension."

Hansen noted that the bill enables the federal government to provide prompt assistance with investigation of murder, felonious assault, or conspiracy, "but it lets the state involved try the perpetrators of the crime after apprehension, and thus is not an attempt to take jurisdiction away from the states and municipalities."

Hansen said during the period from 1960 through 1969 there were 561 law enforcement officers feloniously murdered while protecting life and property.

"Last year alone there were 35,202 assaults on police officers with 11,040 resulting in injury; 86 police officers were killed, a 34 per cent increase over 1968."

Sewer Project Aid Requested

BURLEY — The Burley City Council voted Wednesday to apply for federal and state funds in the amount of $72,000 for a sewer project.

The project would handle the path lagoon, which has become inadequate due to extensive commercial and private building on the north side of the Snake River, the council said.

The estimated cost of the project would be $95,000, with the city to pay about $23,000. Federal and state funds would cover the remaining cost. The $23,000 could be handled in the city budget for fiscal 1971, the council said, thus eliminating the need for a bond election.

The engineering firm also presented two alternative plans to the council, which would be studied, but the council said they believed the first plan would be accepted.

Signals Show Preference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House signals directed at New York state can be interpreted "only one way — President Nixon prefers James L. Buckley, Conservative party senatorial nominee, to the Republican incumbent, Sen. Charles E. Goodell."

His preference could be based on political philosophy or, more probably, on political reality.

Goodell has been one of the most conspicuous critics of Nixon administration policies from within the GOP. Readings of the campaign outlook in New York indicate he is running a weak third behind Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, the Democratic nominee, and Buckley.

Republican campaign managers virtually had written off Goodell's chances of winning even before the indirect White House intrusion into the New York campaign.

But if Buckley can overtake Ottinger by the Nov. 3 election, the White House can count on another vote for Republican control of the Senate — should the GOP pick up enough Senate seats — and on support on key issues where it has drawn opposition from Goodell.

The stir began a week ago when White House spokesmen answered questions from newsmen by saying the President had taken no stand on the New York race because Goodell had asked that there be no administration involvement in the campaign. They refused to amplify the explanation when asked when Goodell had ever said he did not want the Nixon's endorsement.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew did involve the administration Wednesday by telling a television interviewer in North Dakota that Goodell had left the GOP and joined the "radical liberal" foes of the administration. Agnew did not endorse Buckley.

Republican National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton, wined but went ahead with plans for a trip to Syracuse, N.Y., to give Goodell "the blessing of the national party organization, which is supposed to support all Republican nominees."

Morton suggested Wednesday Agnew was "speaking his own mind" in comments about Goodell. But Murray Chotiner, White House political strategist, said he did not know how any vice president could be thought to be "merely speaking for himself" in remarks about Goodell.

Youth Meet Scheduled

TWIN FALLS — A special youth meeting is planned at the First Church of the Nazarene in Twin Falls, to begin at 7 p.m. Sunday, according to Pastor Joe Chastlain.

The meeting is scheduled as a result of a "protest march" by about 15 to 20 young people who marched down the aisles of the church at the beginning of the Sunday morning service, carrying picket signs protesting "empty pews, absenteeism and pessimism" among church members, Chastlain said.

The public is invited to Sunday's youth service.

Candidates Slate Workman Tuesday Visits

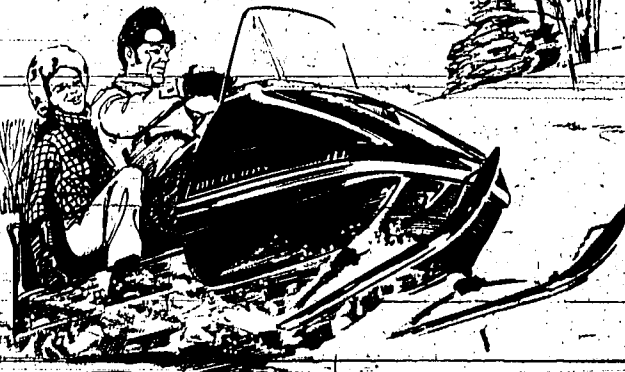

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Education Association in cooperation with the Regional Education Association, has arranged to "meet the candidates" night from 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday at O'Leary Junior High School auditorium.

N. L. (Duke) Wisteman, vice president of the Twin Falls unit, said Cecil Andrus, Democratic candidate for governor, has confirmed he will be here. He said Gov. Don Samuelson also has indicated he will attend, but other commitments may force him to send a representative in his place.

Also attending will be state legislative candidates Rep. Ray Lincoln, Rep. William Roberts and Sen. John Barker, all Republicans, and Jack Clough and Les Williamson Democratic candidates for state representative.

Doc Keller, superintendent of schools, said if enough interest is shown, one or more classes will be given in the field desired. Those who are unable to attend the meeting but are interested should call Keller at 894-4321.

(Editor's Note: This is the last of three related articles.) WASHINGTON (NEA) Americans like to think of themselves as a "caring" people, guided steadily by humanitarian impulse...

We have a long history as a people neglectful of our social responsibilities, and for all our fine talk and the high visibility we now give our social problems, we are still neglectful.

arguments so thin you could demollish them with a single burst of real public concern. Our prisons, too, are another disgrace. A society, the saying goes, gets the crime it deserves.

Another Voice

A major study of the extent to which student unrest has filtered down to the precollege level has been completed.

The majority of junior and senior high school students consider their schools "basically undemocratic," reports a study just released by Teachers College of Columbia University.

While other studies have focused on students who led or participated in protest activities, this one is the first to look at the student "silent majority" — those who have never taken part in demonstrations or disruptions.

It involved a sample of almost 7,000 junior and senior high school students in the greater New York and Philadelphia areas and included suburban as well as urban schools.

Vietnam or social injustice are not the issues bothering students but rather the questions of school governance, individual rights and curriculum.

In disputes over these issues, students see the conflicts terminated (not resolved) by authority figures about 55 per cent of the time and by negotiation between students and authorities only about 17 per cent of the time.

"The great majority of students are angry, frustrated, increasingly alienated by school," says Alan F. Westin, professor of public law and government at Columbia and one of the principal investigators in the study, in what seems an extreme extrapolation of the data.

"Our schools are now educating millions of students who are not forming an allegiance to the democratic political system simply because they do not experience such a democratic system in their daily lives in schools," he says, and then proceeds to offer the reported feelings of the "silent majority" as an explanation for the actions of a noisy minority.

"When currents of frustration such as these are running through our school," says Westin, "we should not be surprised that withdrawal through drugs or revolutionary attacks on school and society are the commitments so many students are making."

Fortunately, the majority of students seem to have more sense than those who analyze them, or they would not be the "silent majority" which attends classes and obeys the rules, albeit grumblingly.

Any upcoming generation which did not kick against the restraints imposed by its elders and which did not think it could do a better job of running things than the preceding generation would not be worth the ink it would take to write "Failed" on its report card.

It is a fact, however, that today's youth are more aware of the world — a different world from that of their parents — are more critical of arbitrary rules and prescribed studies and more impatient with the long probationary period of adolescence than their parents were (though their parents somehow managed to survive an even more authoritarian education with their faith in democratic institutions intact).

But it is to be hoped that the majority of students have enough intelligence to realize that a special society within society like a school cannot be equated with national system of self-government or that a principal or teacher hired by a school board is not the same as a popularly elected president or congressman.

If Westin is right in his diagnosis, if more and more students are committing themselves to drugs or revolution or are becoming disenchanted with our democratic political system simply because they do not experience the same system in school, this suggests such a want of elementary wisdom in youth that the future of the Republic may be hopeless no matter how much "democracy" is injected into the schools.

MR. SPECTATOR

Standing Downwind?

Apparently you never want to get downwind when strolling through the Halls of Ivy out at the College of Southern Idaho.

If you do you might just be off-landed.

What makes Mr. Spectator think so? Well, it's a little article that appeared in the recent issue of the school newspaper and, inasmuch as it appears in a newspaper, it just has to be true.

Seems as though the students have a chance to get something for nothing. Jack Sims, the article related, is besieged by some 300 gift packages of "assorted goodies" such as deodorant, soap, and many other personal items.

They can be had, it was pointed out, just for the asking. There are separate packages for boys and girls. The only requirements needed to get the soap and deodorant "survival kits" are that "you are a student and you will fill out a simple card."

But hid in the last sentence is the "body" of the story — and it proves that you remain upwind when in the halls of CSI.

When the article informed the students that the packages were for free and that they contained soap and deodorant, this observation was slipped in by the writer.

ABOUT HUNTERS

Mr. Spectator received a note from an old friend who didn't sign his name. But we know! However, we will not tell who he is but his thought is a good one, he's a retired farmer who has been interested in history and what have you and his initials are E.H.

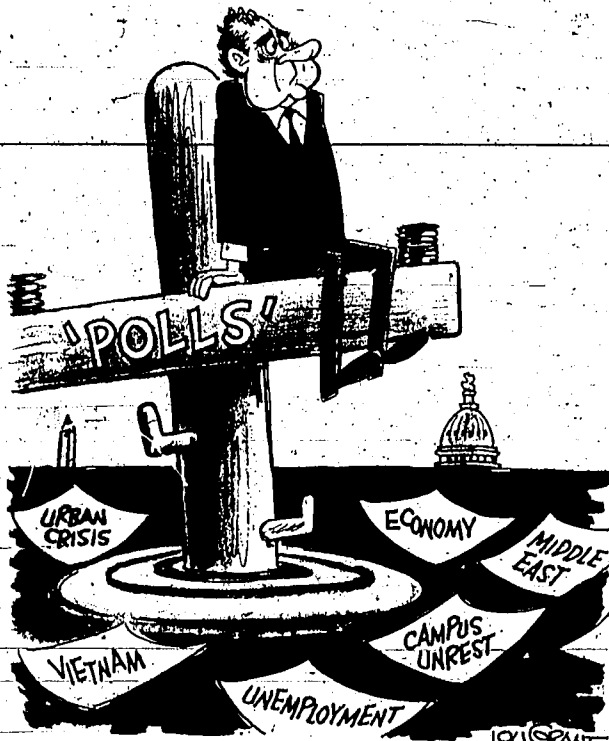

Taking it from there, he sent a note that in the interest of Mr. Spectator's many farmer friends he would like to pass along the thought that pheasant hunting will soon be in full swing. He continues that what this old world needs is more hunters who know the difference between a pheasant and a banta chicken.

"Out our way," he wrote, "I feel we have furnished our hunter friends almost as many banta chickens as pheasants. They do taste good, though, and that's for sure."

The delusion is easily fed. We rush to the aid of disaster victims anywhere. We deluge hospitals to supply blood to tragic victims of shoot-outs, riots, or desperate illnesses. We labor frantically to rescue men trapped in mines or little girls who tumble into wells.

No one should question the genuineness of this behavior. But it is not the unending if unspectacular kind of caring we need to match our self-image.

TROUBLE IN RIVER CITY

PAUL HARVEY

The Future Goes

The fastest airplane in the world is about to be born away from home.

The United States, since Wilbur and Orville Wright, has showed the world the way up.

Now the future is about to get away from us — second-place nations are about to become first, not by "trying harder" but simply because squabbling American scientists and politicians are haranguing when they ought to be hustling.

If we do not build a supersonic plane, what is it going to cost you?

Britain and France are right now flight-testing an airliner that flies faster than the speed of sound. Russia has been flight-testing one since 1968.

Yet the U.S. Congress has not yet appropriated money even to begin construction of one of our own.

The White House has asked for $200 million with which to build the first two. That's a lot of money.

But these $200 million will circulate and recirculate through the economies of Seattle and Wichita and 40 states where there are parts suppliers.

These dollars would hold together a first-string team of scientific specialists and generate jobs for American workers.

And besides all the money eventually $1.3 billion, which the government will have to spend getting this plane into production — will be a loan which will be paid back to the government by the time the 300th such plane is completed.

The House bill of Congress has voted "yes" but it was close. The Senate will vote soon. Congress has heard all the arguments of those opposed.

"Too much noise."

The SST will not crack the sound barrier over inhabited land areas; this is for convenient transportation across oceans and over the poles.

moisture than one cumulus cloud.

And there is the customary election-year oratory about how we should spend our money on poor people instead of on rich airplane manufacturers. This really does not deserve a rebuttal except that some people do swallow such obvious vote bait.

The overriding considerations

ANDREW TULLY

Marching Order

WASHINGTON — Findings of the most recent Harris Poll help to explain the marching orders President Nixon has given to Vice President Agnew in the current congressional campaign.

These orders call upon Agnew constantly to remind the electorate of past Democratic wickedness and to ask rhetorically whether the "peepul" are dumb enough to want more of the same. While it would be an exaggeration to say that all Republicans are running scared, the politician in Nixon has acknowledged that administration candidates could be in trouble if they campaign only on the Nixon record.

Now the Harris Poll has revealed precisely what Richard Nixon has known all along. That is that the so-called pocketbook issue is frighteningly real, and that Democratic candidates have been scoring points in their attacks on the President's failure to check inflation or even control it.

In the Harris Poll, Nixon suffered his lowest rating on the question of how well he was doing in keeping down the cost of living. Only 19 per cent of those interviewed said he was doing all right; a whopping 70 per cent voted thumbs down on his efforts. Moreover, between July and late August, Nixon's standing on "keeping the economy healthy" dropped from 37 to 31 per cent — a startling shrinkage in a period of only 50 days.

are simply these. Flying faster may or may not be progress but it is inevitable. The debate is academic.

We will have and use supersonic planes. We will have the pollution and the noise and the airport congestion.

The only question is whether we will buy them from Britain and France or from Russia or build them ourselves.

ANDREW TULLY

Marching Order

The Democrats have a hot issue here, because there isn't much the President can do between now and November to conquer inflation. His opposition also can't lick its chops over the poll's showing that the percentage of the public which believes Nixon "inspires confidence" has plummeted from 40 per cent to 35 per cent.

So Nixon, via Spiro Agnew, has taken the only course open to him. He is hammering away at the multi-faceted theme that the Republicans inherited all the nation's troubles from the Democrats — which is true. He is asking the voters whether, in all fairness, they really expected any President to cure all these troubles hatched by nine years of Democratic rule in 18 short months.

Could any President have stopped the Vietnam War in 18 months? he asks. Could any President halt inflation, make the streets safe, achieve racial peace, curb or mollify the campus rioters — in 18 short months?

The answer, in all fairness, probably is no to all these questions. But Nixon is politician enough to know that in posing them he is yet grasping on dangerous ground. For the fact is that he proposed to do all these things. It matters not that he never said he'd do them overnight. His oratory, including his "revelation" that he had a "plan" to end the war, sounded like a pledge that he would achieve instant recovery.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Emphysema

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you say something about emphysema? Is there a cure, and what can be done for relief?

I don't smoke and I thought that was the cause of emphysema — smoking, I mean. I am 74 and my doctor says it is natural for old folks, but he didn't give me any medication. I'd cough a great deal, but it seems to be all in my throat. — Mrs. L. B.

No, smoking isn't the only cause of emphysema by any means although it is one of the commonest contributors to that trouble, and anyone with emphysema who smokes is making his trouble worse.

I don't know as we can say that emphysema is "natural" in older folks, but it can develop from any of a number of causes. Infections of the lungs, various irritants of the lungs, and the processes of aging in some, all can play a part. Emphysema used to be regarded as a disease of people in such professions as glass-blowing, but I suspect that more than that was involved.

Anyways, emphysema is a matter of the small air cells of the lungs breaking down: Originally, the lungs are a spongy mass, with countless tiny pockets, much like a line sponge. When you exhale, a lot of air (and carbon dioxide) is expelled. They fresh air is drawn into the many little air pockets.

Emphysema involves a breaking down of these small air pockets, into a smaller number of larger pockets. There is less surface to absorb oxygen. There is less ability to expel air and dioxide. More "stale air" simply stays in the lungs.

Bronchitis, in varying degrees, is a frequent companion of emphysema. That, or asthma, or a cold, or anything that "interferes" with free breathing, makes the trouble worse.

There isn't any cure for emphysema. The lung tissues have been altered. If there is a great deal of phlegm in the throat to "breath" away, your doctor can give medication that will loosen the phlegm, but there's nothing he can do to cure the basic trouble.

Learning to breathe more deeply and efficiently will help. In some cases, positive pressure machines or the use of oxygen periodically, may be required.

But with or without these aids, it is only good sense to be as careful as possible to avoid flu, colds, or other respiratory ailments. You can't avoid them all, but in the "cold season," be wary of crowds and try to stay away from people who have colds.

Finally, flu shots can't prevent all flu, and certainly can't guard against colds, but a flu shot each autumn, and an extra one if flu epidemics threaten, can be a very valuable precaution.

You doubtless will be interested in my booklet, "How to Control Emphysema." For a copy send 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson care of this newspaper.

Note to Mrs. G.K.: No, neither vitamins nor hormones nor any combination of them will prevent or retard either cataracts or glaucoma.

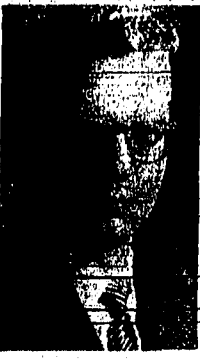

Hemorrhoids can be cured if troubled with fissures, fistulas, itching, and other rectal problems, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper requesting a copy of the booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Moon Water Eyed

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—By landing within driving range of a deep gorge and steep mountains, Apollo 15's astronauts next summer may collect some of the oldest and newest rocks on the moon and find out whether water carved the strange lunar canyons.

But to get there, veteran Apollo pilot David R. Scott and rookie James B. Irwin will have to descend over the 8,000-foot tall Apennine mountains and drop on a lunar plain just short of the half-mile wide canyon.

It will be the fourth and toughest lunar landing yet attempted by Apollo astronauts, and it promises to yield the most scientific results.

The landing area, named Hadley-Apennines, was selected Thursday by the space agency. It is 465 miles north of the equator and on the eastern rim of the Great Sea of Rains basin.

Scott, Irwin and command module pilot Alfred M. Worden are scheduled to set out on their ambitious expedition July 25. The shot will follow by six months the Jan. 31 launch of Apollo 14 astronauts Alan B. Shepard, Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell.

Apollo 15 will be the first to carry a four-wheeled moon car to the lunar surface. It will be equipped with a color television camera and will enable Scott and Irwin to explore up to 40 miles of the moon's landscape, televising the view "live" back to earth.

The canyon at the Apollo 15 landing site is called Hadley Rille: it is at least 600 feet deep and 60 miles long and resembles an arroyo of the southwestern United States.

Some scientists have suggested it was carved by water ages ago, but the more prevalent idea is that it was caused by volcanic activity, resulting either from erosion from volcanic ash or a fluidic lava, or from the collapse of tubes that fed lava to the surface.

Go-Ahead Seen For Dredges

GRANGEVILLE (UPI) — All that remains for a group to begin dredge mining on Allison Creek which drains into the South Fork of the Clearwater River is for the firm to submit plans for restoration of the affected area.

Wednesday, a hearing on the application by Old Channel Piers, Inc., Grangeville, to dredge a 10-acre site was held by the State Land Department and no one appeared in opposition to the plan.

In all 11 persons appeared at the hearing after which the company deposited its $10,000 bond to assure the area would be restored. However, before it can begin operations it must submit its restoration plans to the state and board and receive its approval.

A-Site Flaring Resumption Set

GRAND VALLEY, Colo. (UPI) — Engineers at the Project Hutton Nuclear test site, hopeful they have conquered problems that have caused a series of delays, will resume flaring or burning of natural gas from the well Saturday. Spokesmen said gas from the well, carved out underground in the Rockies 13 months ago by a 20-million nuclear blast, would be burned for a period of up to 24 hours.

Flaring operation will be conducted to make sure the well is cleaned out before calibration flaring starts," said Atomic Energy Commission spokesman Dave Miller. The calibration tests will determine the amount of radioactivity which is released and its dispersal pattern.

Samuelson Hit for Statements

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — A spokesman for the Idaho Environmental Council accused Gov. Don Samuelson Thursday of making "false statements" to support his stand on strip mining in the White Clouds.

Peter Henault, chairman of the council's streams protection committee, took Samuelson to task for stating in Idaho Falls Wednesday that the proposed mining would not even be in the White Clouds.

He said that statement "is completely false and makes us wonder about his reasons for making such a statement." Until now, Henault said, the council has respected Samuelson's defense of mining in the area even though strongly disagreeing with him — feeling Samuelson was honest and sincere in his position.

HARRY AND MARY HICKS, PROPRIETORS OF Magic Valley Christian Supply, 762 Main Ave. N., plan a grand opening this week after their third move since acquiring the business two years ago.

Third Location Opening Planned

TWIN FALLS — Moving to a new location is a chore for anyone, but when a business firm has to move twice within two years, it becomes a problem.

However, in the case of Mary and Harry Hicks, owners of Magic Valley Christian Supply, 762 Main Ave. N., their moving around has resulted in a store that is three times as large as their first outlet in the old Perrine Hotel.

Mrs. and Mrs. Hicks acquired the business from Harden Young one month before the Perrine Hotel was torn down. They moved into a second location on Shoshone Street, but were recently forced to move again when the downtown reconstruction project demolished their place of business.

Magic Valley Christian Supply offers a wide variety of religious books, pamphlets and related literature, and the owners have added a stock of sacred music in sheet music and recorded form. They have also expanded their paperback offerings in church-related literature.

In addition, Hicks also frames pictures for a growing list of customers — though some of his long-time customers haven't yet found the firm in their new location, he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Hicks plan an opening today and Saturday of this week at their new location — which they hope will last for a while.

Andrus To Visit In Hailey

HAILEY — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Cecil Andrus will be keynote speaker for a Blaine County Democratic rally and dinner at 8 p.m. Friday at the Hiawatha Hotel.

Lloyd Walker, Twin Falls, will be master of ceremonies for the $5 dinner. Also expected to attend are Vernon Ravenscroft, Tuttle, state representative; Paul Boyd, representative; Paul Boyd, Boise, candidate for United States Congress; Maclean Parks Moon, treasurer; Tony Ruck, attorney general; and Oscar Arstein, state senator for District 21, and Floyd Kilgus, state representative, District 21-A.

County candidates also will attend and the public is invited.

Protest Brings Charges

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls woman whom school officials said "violently objected" to her daughter being sent home from school to change clothes was arrested Wednesday by police on a complaint signed by Carl Snow, principal at O'Leary Junior High School.

George Staudaher, assistant superintendent, said Geraldine Butler was arrested for disorderly conduct. He said the woman used "foul, obscene, vulgar language in front of a secretary and students."

Mrs. Butler's daughter, a 16-year-old student at O'Leary, Staudaher said, appeared in school Wednesday wearing a see-through blouse. He said the blouse was not in accordance with the school system's dress code which stipulates apparel must be in "good taste."

Mrs. Butler entered a plea of not guilty when she was arraigned late Wednesday before Police Judge Harry Turner. She paid a $75 bond later in the day and has been released from custody pending further court action.

Nearly 1,200 students from the two counties are expected to participate in the field trips over a four-day period which ends Friday.

"But we can't make money remodeling a farmhouse."

"I'm not trading three years of egg money for a pigsty. Not today, not tomorrow, never." Kathy exploded. "And I don't care if it's insulated, ventilated, state-of-the-art and painted purple."

J. B. was telling his wife about some of the wine facilities he'd seen on a tour. He hadn't actually suggested that they use her special savings account to build one.

Borrowing for a better home is commonplace. He was surprised to learn that one out of every five long-term loans written by the local Land Bank association is made to remodel or build a farm home.

So J. B. and Kathy compromised. The same carpenters who remodeled the house built an efficient, new farrowing building. And the Land Bank provided most of the money, following repayments carefully to J. B.'s anticipated farm income.

Interest will vary with money costs.

J. B., who thinks we're on the high side of the interest rate cycle, is pleased with the Land Bank's new Variable Interest Rate feature. That means the interest rate he pays will rise and fall with the overall costs of money. What could be fairer than that?

Land Bank borrowers have other important benefits, too. They always get money at lowest possible cost, because the Land Bank has a direct pipeline to the nation's money market. Like prepayment privileges, without penalty.

Idaho Climate Creates Disease-Free Refuge

TWIN FALLS — Idaho has become a disease-free refuge for an $18.5 million bean industry, thanks to its semi-arid climate and a control program being carried out by the Idaho Department of Agriculture, bean seed companies and growers.

According to state plant pathologist Clyde Butcher, Twin Falls, the control program, includes field and window inspections, serology (lab tests which confirm suspected infection), seed treatment and, perhaps most importantly, a quarantine against importation of bean seed into Idaho from east of the continental divide or "foreign countries."

The program is particularly significant since it is the first effective control carried out against a plant disease anywhere in the U. S. The disease, known as halo blight, literally chased the seed bean industry from one state to another.

The control program is responsible for keeping the industry in Idaho. The state provides about 85 per cent of this country's garden bean seed and also a large portion of the seed used in the production of dry, edible beans.

Much of the credit goes to Butcher, an outspoken advocate of the program and upon whose shoulders fall the responsibility for the program, including the unpleasant task of informing a farmer that his beans must be destroyed. But the program became a smashing success and Butcher's relentlessness was vindicated.

In 1965, the year the program was instituted, halo blight symptoms were identified on bean plants in 389 fields, involving 5,855 acres.

"Approximately one-half of these fields were discovered during the growing season and the balance were found through observations of the dry pods in the window," Butcher claimed. "They were destroyed by plowing under or by burning."

Butcher pointed out that the costs involved in these control measures were considerable. "Aside from the expense of both public and private research, a number of seed companies sustained severe financial losses due to lost sales, lost seed, costs of inspections, disinfectants and seed treatment," Butcher said.

"In 1965, an estimated loss of about $400,000 was largely paid for by Idaho bean growers through a grower cooperative — the South Central Idaho Bacterial Blight Control Association — and the U. S. Department of Agriculture's federal crop insurance program."

Thus, the die was cast. The new program had to deliver what it promised — effective control — and a significant amount of progress toward that control had to be demonstrated soon.

The Idaho bean industry got a glimpse of how effective the program could be the following year. In 1966, a total of 46,800 acres was inspected by the state agriculture department and the Idaho Crop Improvement Association.

Halo blight was found in the 105 fields involving 1,171, or 2.5 per cent of the total acreage. The previous year, almost 10 per cent of the crop was infested. In 1967, the disease was found in 824 acres — about 2.4 per cent of the 38,000 acres inspected.

1968 was the payoff. That was the year the value of the program was proven beyond a shadow of a doubt and silenced the many critics and disbelievers, that was the year that 34,312 acres were inspected and not one field, not one acre, not even a single plant was found to be infested. The effectiveness of the control program was further demonstrated by fact that the growing season had been quite rainy — perfect weather conditions for the expression of the disease.

"We whipped the weather and everything else that year," Butcher recalls, "but we are finding that we have become complacent — and this attitude is just as dangerous to the bean seed crop as a wet, humid summer."

In 1969, 36 acres were found to be infested and were destroyed. But, a mere 36 acres was nothing to be alarmed about. Field inspections during the 1970 growing season turned up 112 acres of the disease. Butcher blamed most of the those acres — 78 of them — on out of state seed stock. "The next thing we have to do is establish a better control on bean seed brought into Idaho," Butcher stated.

Noting that the bacteria is persistent, and can be carried from one field to another by machinery, animals or man, Butcher conceded that the disease will never be completely eradicated. "But we do have one helluva control on it now."

Butcher is assisted in the program by 18 inspectors in southeastern Idaho and tree in western Idaho. Eighteen of the 22 man force are temporary, seasonal employees. The inspectors also check the fields for other diseases and pests, such as Brown Spot disease and Mexican bean beetle.

Some incidence of Brown Spot disease was found in 1965 but not since. Since it can be a serious threat to the commercial bean industry, Butcher and his inspectors must constantly watch for signs of this disease.

Thanks to the control program, Idaho grown bean seed is the only bean seed accepted by Australia and New Zealand, with the exception of some grown in Monterey county, Calif., which has a similar control program. Those two foreign markets import more than 350,000 pounds of bean seed.

European markets are now switching to Idaho bean seed as they can no longer depend upon getting disease-free seed from South Africa, despite the fact that the African beans are considerably cheaper.

Total exports of bean seed from Idaho last year amounted to 1,345,842 pounds. That will produce a lot of garden beans.

Handling Causes Cracks in Spuds

TWIN FALLS — Handling is the most important factor that causes "thumb nail cracks" in potatoes, Walter C. Sparks, storage scientist of the University of Idaho agricultural branch experiment station at Aberdeen, says in a leaflet just published by the college.

Twin-Falls County agent, Donald Youtz, says the publication is available at his office or any county agent's office. The leaflet discusses causes of the cracks and suggests means of reducing them.

"In recent years the co-summer has become much more critical of quality of products she purchase," Sparks said, "Anything that detracts from appearance reduces sales appeal. One of the defects found to detract from appearance of various lots of Idaho Russet Burbank potatoes on the retail market is the thumb nail crack."

Water Levels Dropping

BOISE (UPI) — Well water levels are continuing to drop in the Raft River critical groundwater area of southeastern Idaho, according to the State Department of Water Administration.

Director R. Keith Higginson said his department and the U.S. Geological Survey have issued a report documenting declines of up to five feet per year in the 235-square-mile area east of Burley since drilling of wells was halted in 1963.

The basin's usable water yield is estimated in the report at 140,000 acre feet per year. In 1960, agricultural crops used an estimated 160,000 acre feet.

Higginson said 1,000 bore-fee left the basin as surface runoff and 80,000 acre feet as subsurface runoff.

Hunting Ban Asked On Birds

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Audubon Society says Woodcocks are so full of DDT that eating them may be hazardous to human health.

Charles H. Callison, society executive vice president, said Wednesday he sent letters to Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson and Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, saying he recommended a ban on hunting the bird, sometimes called a "timberdoodle," along the Atlantic flyway.

Callison said Canada banned all hunting of the bird recently when tests showed they averaged 65 parts of DDT per million. Both Canadian and United States governments permit only 7 parts a million in the fat of hogs, cattle and sheep. One of the birds tested contained 773 parts a million, he said.

Water Plan Study Termed Challenge

DENVER (UPI) — U.S. Reclamation Commissioner Ellis L. Armstrong said Wednesday the Western United States Water Plan Study — a massive project studying 11 states — would prove to be "the challenge of our lives."

The study, scheduled for completion by 1977, is designed to produce an inventory of available water supplies and future water requirements for the West — one of the fastest growing areas of the nation.

The plan covers most of the area from the Rocky Mountains west and includes Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

The final report when issued to Congress will set forth means of meeting the area's water requirements with emphasis on improving the quality of life and the total environment.

Armstrong told water leaders from the Western states and from 17 federal agencies the project was "unprecedented in terms of the geographic coverage, contemplated and in the level of water, and land resource planning required."

He pledged the federal-state and federal-agency cooperation would consider all options responsible to the needs of individual states, are workable and publicly acceptable.

The study will be under the direct supervision of Armstrong and of James Smith, assistant secretary of the interior.

Support Bill Studied

Land Bill Clears Hurdle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate-House conference committee is close to agreement on a major new three-year farm support bill, congressional sources reported Wednesday.

Members emerging from the panel's sixth day of negotiations stressed, however, that tentative agreements on new support and surplus control programs for cotton, wheat and feed grains still contained several crucial gaps.

Failure to agree on any of the still-unsettled items — such as the number of cotton acres eligible for price support payments — could block agreement on the entire package, one member said.

The conferees are reconciling differences between House and Senate bills which were identical on one key point — each included a $55,000 per crop limit on support payments to big producers of cotton, wheat and feed grains.

Washington Elm Stood Near the Senate Wing

The Washington elm stood near the Senate wing of the U.S. Capitol until 1948. The first president is said to have stood under it repeatedly as a favorite spot to watch the construction of the Capitol.

Goal Same, Leader Says

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—President Joseph Fielding Smith told officers and members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Relief Society their purpose has not changed in 138 years.

Addressing the General Session of the Relief Society's annual conference, the church president told the women their mission has remained "to relieve the poor and save souls."

Joseph Smith, founder-prophet of the LDS Church, organized the women's auxiliary in 1842. President Smith and Marlon G. Romney and Thomas S. Monson, general authorities and members of the Council of Twelve Apostles, gave messages to the women's group Wednesday afternoon in the historic Women's Tabernacle.

Smith said the church and its gospel is "family centered and it must be based in the family." He told the women that the family unit is the most important to the church.

"It is here we receive our greatest and most important training as we seek to create for ourselves eternal family units patterned after the family of God our father."

"We are in training in our mortal families to operate eternal families in a state of glorious exaltation. We must bring up our children in light and in truth, setting for them an example of righteous living, and also teaching them the truths of the gospel."

He also is training in our mortal families to operate eternal families in a state of glorious exaltation. We must bring up our children in light and in truth, setting for them an example of righteous living, and also teaching them the truths of the gospel."

He urged the women, as mothers, to shelter their offspring from the sins and evils of the world and so guide and lead them that they will choose "proper companions and marry in the house of the Lord."

Along the same line Elder Romney said he is convinced the family is the most sacred and important institution in our society.

Romney said "the Relief Society has a divine charge to respond to drastic changes taking place in the patterns of family life."

He indicated the family unit in America is being undermined by the substitution of permissiveness for authority.

RELIGION

Society Conducts Seasonal Social

SHOSHONE—The fall social for the LDS Relief Society Tuesday afternoon featured presentation of the coming year's work by the officers and teachers.

Mrs. M. J. Dille, president, gave the welcome address, and reviewed a brief history of the society, since its beginning over 100 years ago.

Teachers, who introduced the material, were Mrs. Perry Hadlock, spiritual living; Mrs. Joe Rasmussen, social relations; Mrs. Burton Thorne, cultural refinement; Mrs. LaMar Duffin for Mrs. Frank Garrett, homemaking; Mrs. Ward Rawson, visiting teacher leader.

Mrs. Dennis Ambrus sang "My Task," accompanied by Mrs. Larry Keeney, and Mrs. Harrol Thorne gave a musical reading.

A display table for each lesson was set up by the teachers. Weekly classes will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Graham Defends 'Rock'

BY LOUIS CASSELLS
UPI Religion Writer

Young people who favor long hair and rock music have a staunch defender in a person many of them may regard as a super-square.

His evangelist Billy Graham. "I think it's ridiculous for parents to engage in bitter battles with their children over the haircut issue," Agramah told UPI in an interview.

"Long hair or short hair is a matter of personal taste, not a basic moral question. We shouldn't judge a person by how he chooses to wear his hair."

"My grandfather had a beard down to his chest and a moustache and very long hair. His whole face looked hairy. But he was one of the most wonderful Christian men I ever knew. Hairiness was the style 75 years ago—and we're obviously going back to that style now."

Graham wears his own graying hair fairly long—down to the collar. If he's had a recent haircut, over the collar if he's been too busy to get to the barber.

The Baptist evangelist, who has five children of his own, also suggested that parents listen to the lyrics of rock songs before entering a blanket condemnation of contemporary youth's favorite music.

"My wife and I bought a bunch of rock records and sat down to listen to them. We had to listen quite a long time before our ears got attuned to them so we could understand the lyrics."

"I was frankly surprised to find that a lot of rock music is deeply religious. Not necessarily religious in the sense of referring explicitly to God or Christ. But they're asking in these songs, 'What is the purpose of my life?' 'Where did I come from?' 'Where am I going?' and those are religious questions."

Graham said it is a serious judgment on church, home and adult society in general that so many young people have despaired of finding answers to their deepest questions about life and death.

"We are educating their minds but letting their spirits starve," he said.

Clergymen Must Forget Conventions

The labor movement, like the Church, is part of the American Establishment. Surrounded by large memberships, endowed with billions of dollars, welcomed at the White House and the bank, the labor movement can safely ignore the poor, the black and the deprived. In other days it struggled bravely for economic justice and a broad application of brotherhood in the Republic.

The slighted, beaten and put-down laborer, whether he be in the mines, the mill or the lumber camp, could look to courageous union leaders for attention and support. In some ranks of the Christian community he heard those who were alarmed at injustice and enraged with poverty. While the Church was generally absent from the picket line or the boycott, it did produce some able spokesmen and public leaders who supported legislation favorable to unions and the working family.

Much of the Christian's concern for labor (which bordered on idealism of farming and agriculture) was directly related to the life of Christ and the laboring disciples. Jesus moved easily among the laboring peasants, the road builders and shepherds and fishermen. That the Christian faith should always be at home with such people and their aspirations should be no surprise today. Many within the missionary movement, such as David Livingstone and Wilfred Grenfell, spoke of a salvation that reached the whole man—his physical health, his civil rights, his just wages and his eternal redemption.

When Robert E. Speer wrote his report on overseas work, he noted some activities of certain "Christian" commercial organizations in the Far East. In one instance he printed part of an annual report that especially burned him:

"The profits of _____ factory surpassed $1 million. For the past two years it has been running night and day with scarcely any intermission. The number employed is 2,500 and the following is the wage table per day:

"Men—15-20 cents. Boys above 15 yrs., 10-15 cents. Girls above 15 yrs., 5-10 cents. Small boys and girls under 10 years, 3-10 cents.

"The working hours are from 5:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. No meals are provided by the factory.

"It will be seen that the company is in an exceptionally favorable position with an abundant supply of cheap labor to draw from. The annual profits have exceeded the total capital on at least three occasions."

(From "What Are Missions For"—Robert E. Speer)

It is true that his reporting covered the harsh days of 1930-1940. Yet there are millions of people in this country this year who do not share in the fruits of their labor or the wealth of this vast country. The migrant labor community has been ignored and abused. Hundreds of thousands of youngsters do not receive even marginal medical or educational services—yet their families provide the manpower that puts the fruit and vegetables on our tables.

You can't ever talk about salvation without seeing the whole person.

The labor unions and churches need to forget their buildings and pension funds and Miami conventions for awhile and give direction and energy to those forgotten laboring people. Jesus was one of them and you can't serve Him without looking after his people.

Richfield Group Conducts Social

RICHFIELD—Richfield Relief Society opening social was under the direction of the recently released presidency. They are Mrs. Mark Jaynes, Mrs. F. M. Crowther, Mrs. Joe Bowers, and Mrs. Ralph Riley, Jr. They were hostesses at a luncheon preceding the meeting. The tables were decorated by Mrs. Clifford Ward and Mrs. Loyd Lee using tin towers and fruit.

Mrs. Jaynes honored the 24 Richfield visiting teachers with a tribute reading taken from the Relief Society manual. Mrs. Ernest D. Reynolds, a newcomer, to Richfield, presented guitar and vocal selections.

A teacher's preview of the coming year's lessons included talks by Mrs. Lucy Wilson, visiting teacher instruction; Mrs. Clive Capps, spiritual living from the "Pearl of Great Price"; Mrs. Clifford Dayley, homemaking with "Education for Living for a Lovelier You"; Mrs. Crowther for Mrs. Lee; ample sewing lessons for workdays; Mrs. Martin Allred, social relations, and Mrs. Joe Bowers, cultural refinement, "Ideals of Womanhood in Relation to Home and the Family."

Mrs. Mark Bowers, now Relief Society president, addressed the group with Mrs. Lee Binkerhoff welcomed as a new resident.

IN THIS AGE OF rapid construction, when tall office buildings seem to sprout from the ground like mushrooms, it boggles the mind to encounter a building that has been under construction for 83 years and still is unfinished. The slow-rising edifice is the Cathedral of the Church of St. Peter and St. Paul, better known to many as Washington Cathedral. Because of the outpoken sermons delivered from its pulpit by Dean Francis B. Sayre Jr., pictured amid the construction debris, it has come to symbolize the prophetic role of American churches. (UPI)

Fall Retreat Planned

WENDELL—Rev. John Stoppert, Wendell, announces the fall retreat and general meeting of Kendall Presbytery will begin at 7 p.m. Oct. 6 in the Challenger Inn at Sun Valley. Clergy and lay delegates from churches in the Presbytery will meet through Oct. 8 to transact business and plan programs for the judicatory. Rev. David Crawford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Soda Springs, will moderate all business sessions.

Joint Services Planned

FILER—A three-denominational joint baptismal service will be observed at 8 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist church in Filer for candidates from the United Missionary, United Methodist and Baptist churches.

Rev. Roy Watson, pastor of the First Baptist church, will baptize candidates from his congregation. Rev. Joseph John will baptize candidates from the United Missionary, and Rev. Elam Anderson will baptize an entire family from the United Methodist church.

This union service is unique for several years, Rev. Anderson said, as it is the first time in the ministry of any of the three pastors that they have united in such a service and the first time Rev. Anderson has baptized an entire family at one time.

The three ministers also will present special musical selections.

Rite Sunday

WENDELL—The United Presbyterian Church of Wendell will observe World Wide Communion Sunday with holy communion on Sunday, Oct. 4, during the morning worship hour. All members and friends of the parish are urged to attend.

On the first Sunday of October more Christians celebrate the Lord's Supper than on any other Sunday of the year, according to Rev. John Stoppert.

League Visits

FILER—The Clover Walthers League members were guests of the Jerome Walthers League Sunday evening in Jerome. A social evening featured singing with recreation led by a foreign exchange student from West Germany who illustrated games from his homeland.

Board Bars Homes

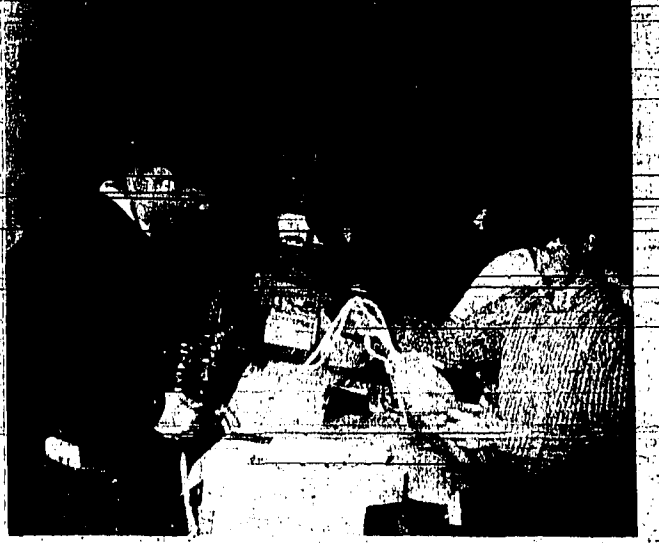

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Board unanimously denied a petition for rezoning of an 80-acre area south of the city for a trailer lot after a public hearing Thursday night in the Judicial Annex.

Lynn Hempleman of Twin Falls had petitioned for the zoning to allow him to construct a 100-unit mobile home park and nine hole golf course on 80 acres of land three miles south and two east of East Five Points.

A sizable delegation of residents in the area voiced objections to the proposal, claiming that the addition of 100 families in the 80 acres would be an unwelcome intrusion.

Bob Urle and Hempleman spoke in favor of the project, saying that the planned park and golf course would be designed to minimize any possible problems. A $30,000 sewage disposal unit would be constructed on the property to handle sanitation and a large well would provide all necessary water, Hempleman said.

Hempleman said he will appeal the decision to the Twin Falls County board of commissioners, who announced that they will conduct their public hearing at 11 a.m. Monday in the court house.

THE INTERACT CLUB of Twin Falls High School, a service organization, packed gift bags for servicemen in Vietnam at a club meeting Wednesday night at the school. They used green denim bags which had been sewn together by Red Cross volunteers. The packaging was part of the Red Cross "Shop Early Program 70" effort for servicemen, and included 25 packages of combs, nail clippers, pencils, pens, bars of soap, poly bags, playing cards, writing tablets and envelopes for letters. The supplies were purchased from Gem State Paper Co., Pennywise Drug and Sav-Mor Drug. In addition, items were donated free of charge by Joe Clements Oil Co., which gave pens; Idaho Beef Council, pencils, and the Farm Service Center of U.S. Steel Corp. pencils and notebooks.

Porno Report Ripped

JEROME — Recommendations of the Presidential Commission on Obscenity and Pornography were attacked here today by S. A. Kolman, Jerome County prosecuting attorney and Republican candidate for reelection.

Kolman said the commission's majority report noted adult censorship laws are ineffective "and unwarranted," and I sharply disagree.

He said in his disagreement with this part of the report, he is thinking of the Idaho definition of adult which applies to 18 and older.

At the age of 18, Kolman said, young men and women are looking for a purpose and commitment in life and should be finding inspiration in something other than obscene and pornographic films, books and pictures.

Kolman said however, he does agree with one phase of the report which stated: public display of photographs of obscene material, where persons of all ages can view it, should be prohibited.

"I think our Idaho statutes are excellent in principal and are aimed at the protection of youth and children. News releases indicate the majority report of the presidential commission also recommended legislation to prohibit public display of obscene pictures and their sale to youth. With this I agree wholeheartedly," Kolman said.

He said there is no law against the showing of films which are given "X" ratings by the film industry, only that under Idaho law advertising material if it includes obscene and pornographic material, cannot be displayed publicly for persons of all ages.

"My only feeling in this matter is we work hard to assist the youth of our communities in worthwhile goals, and displays and circulation of this type of material is certainly not uplifting but rather it drags them down and leaves them with no pride in their communities and country," the Jerome prosecuting attorney said.

commission is taking towards reducing the availability of narcotics and other dangerous drugs in the state.

Other findings of the report, which also surveyed the use of tobacco and alcohol among the students were:

—More than 55 per cent of those responding admitted using tobacco at least once, while 62 per cent admitted to having used alcohol. In both instances the number using each more than 10 times dropped to 25.2 per cent for tobacco and 26.9 per cent for alcohol.

—Seven per cent of the respondents said they had used inhalants; 7.8 per cent amphetamines; 5.9 per cent barbiturates; and 4.8 per cent said they had used LSD and other hallucinogens at least once.

—Most students began using alcohol, tobacco and inhalants during the junior high school years. Grades 9-12 appear to be the time when amphetamines, barbiturates, hallucinogens and heroin are introduced to the students.

Tobacco use increased through grade 11, but decreased thereafter. Marijuana and other drugs followed a similar pattern.

Drug Availability, Use Reported High

BOISE (UPI) — In a report on drug use among Idaho's junior and senior high school students, 38.1 per cent said they knew sources for obtaining marijuana, while 19 per cent said they knew how to obtain heroin.

Even more alarming, Gov. Don Samuelson said in releasing the report, is that three per cent of the students surveyed, or 1,454 youths, said they had used heroin at least once.

The survey, included responses taken from students in grades 7-12 last May. The governor said 68,147 students participated in the study.

The report showed 88.3 per cent of the students had never used marijuana, while 97.1 per cent had never used heroin. Of the 7,369 students who tried marijuana, only 2,187 said they had used it more than 10 times.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction D.F. Engalking said the survey was conducted to determine future needs for drug education programs in the state. He said "We want a solid foundation based on facts, not emotionalism."

The survey, conducted by the Department of Education and the Law Enforcement Planning Commission, was patterned after a survey conducted in Utah last year.

Director of the Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission, Robert C. Arneson, said the report is, but one step his using increasing joblessness as a campaign issue. The Nixon administration has conceded that it is a troublesome situation.

The jobs rate for men aged 20 to 34 jumped from 8.5 per cent in August to 11 per cent in September, the highest it has been since July, 1961.

The rate for men 25 years and older was unchanged at 3 per cent, but unemployment among teenagers climbed from 15.9 per cent in August to 16.8 per cent in September.

Single Bids Received On Meters

TWIN FALLS — One bid was received by city officials Thursday afternoon in the purchase of 85 new parking meters for Main Avenue in the amount of $4,850.

City Manager Jean Millar said the bid appears acceptable. It is from Starline Equipment Co. Boise, but will be taken under consideration for final acceptance or denial by city council members at the Monday meeting.

The meters, similar to those now in use on off-street parking areas of downtown Twin Falls, come in assorted colors and Millar said he would meet with the architect in charge of downtown design and have him select a suitable color.

Judge Considers Angling Lawsuit

HAILEY — Fifth district Judge Charles Scoggin Thursday afternoon took under advisement testimony given during a two and one-half day trial to determine the navigability of Silver Creek.

Counsel for the defense, Ed Benoit, Twin Falls, representing the Picabo Livestock Co., rested his case Thursday and Judge Scoggin ordered briefs be submitted from both attorneys before a decision is reached.

Ed Hepp, Ketchum, is representing the Southern Idaho Fish and Game Association, plaintiffs in the case. The association brought the action seeking a judgment to the effect that fishing on Silver Creek from within the high water mark of the stream should be public.

Testifying Thursday were Leonard Miller, Twin Falls, who was a final witness for the plaintiffs; James Davies, Ketchum; Charles Larkin and Bud Purdy, both Picabo, all landowners along the stream, and Reid Newby, Shoshone, watermaster for the area.

Purdy, president of the livestock company, said the value of his ranch would be substantially decreased if the public were allowed to use his property. Larkin told of fishermen driving vehicles across his newly planted lawn near Silver Creek and the burning of portions of pre-cut lumber for his home which was used for a campfire.

Newby testified that Silver Creek was not navigable where it joins the Little Wood River because of the rapids there.

First Day's Runs Please Manager

TWIN FALLS — If first day operations are an indication, Twin Falls residents about have no complaints with the new sanitation service, City Manager Jean Millar said today.

Parks and Sons' new compactor-trucks made their first routine of the city Thursday, completing garbage collections by 2:30 p.m. a full two hours ahead of normal, he said. The new trucks are larger and with the latest compactor equipment are able to handle collections with two trips each to the new sanitary land fill while former trucks made three trips, the manager explained.

Millar also announced the city has received a report from the Soil Conservation Service on the new sanitary land fill, confirming its adaptability to this use and to restoration of grazing in the area.

The soil samples and report were made by Charles Chase, SCSS, Gooding, under the direction of the local office. In the report the conservation specialist also recommends seeding methods and the use of six pounds per acre of grass seed in the restoration program. As an area is trenched, filled and covered, it will be reseeded by the city to restore it for later grazing use by land owner Ellis Fuller.

SHOSHONE — Magic Reservoir had 87,700 acre feet of water Thursday, compared to 88,300 feet a year ago, according to Leon Griev, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co.

There will be no more irrigation water coming from the reservoir beginning Monday, American Falls Reservoir contained 807,000 acre feet Thursday, compared to 297,000 last year.

Water in the Milner-Gooding Canal will be turned off Oct. 10. Stock water will be available until cold weather causes freezing of maintenance requires water shut-off, Griev said.

Unemployed Rate Soars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The unemployment rate soared to 3.5 per cent of the national labor force last month, the highest level in nearly seven years, the government reported today.

The increase of 0.4 per cent over August brought the total of jobless Americans to 4.3 million. Most of the September increase occurred among men and September. After Labor Day, many young people give up the search for work to return to school.

The September bump to the highest level since January, 1964, had been expected by government economists. The administration has predicted an uptick in over-all business activity coupled with less inflation.

It was the last government report on the employment picture before the congressional elections. Democrats have been

Ketchum Lodge Sold

KETCHUM — Ketchum's Charlatans Motor Lodge changed hands Wednesday when sale papers were signed by Charles Alderson, original owner, and Mick Orr, buyer.

Orr, who has moved to the Ketchum area from Oyster Bay, N.Y., said he has purchased the 38-unit lodge as well as the original Sun Valley shopping center building to the west of it.

No immediate plans have been made for use of the vacant building but Orr said it should be in use within a year. There are no immediate plans for expansion of the motor lodge.

The amount of the transaction was not disclosed.

New managers for the motor lodge will be Mr. and Mrs. John Burke, but all other employees will remain.

Long-Running Cases Before Court

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court will decide two long-contested cases when it convenes here next week at the Kootenai County courthouse.

The older of the two legal hassles stems from the Jan. 15, 1964, dismissal of a local school district teacher, John Helms.

Helms, appealing a district court decision by Judge Der Cogswell two years ago, seeks a response from defendants which include the Coeur d'Alene school district, the state of Idaho through its superintendent of public instruction, Leo Heiman, former Worley School District superintendent, and the co-ordinating Idaho and National Education Associations.

The suit was filed by Helms when he claimed he was wrongfully discharged from a teaching position and that the State Department of Instruction wrongfully refused reinstatement.

him as an elementary school teacher.

The district court found Helms' claims to be unsupported so he appealed to the Supreme Court, claiming the district court made several procedural errors during the course of the trial.

In the second of the two long standing cases, Charley Cutler, 21, Sandpoint, will appeal another decision in Judge Cogswell's court.

The original suit alleged Cutler, then 17, was the driver of a vehicle that collided with a vehicle being driven by RAY SHERRILL, Sandpoint, on Oct. 1, 1967.

and the state charged Cutler with manslaughter and four other lesser offenses.

A first trial resulted in a verdict of guilty without gross negligence, but a new trial was conducted and it resulted in the same verdict. It is this verdict that Cutler is appealing to the high court.

Eight other cases are scheduled for the calendar which begins Monday.

Griffin Appointed

BELLEVUE — Bellevue, Idaho's only charter city, has a new alderman.

Ralph Griffin, who previously served for 10 years in the post, Thursday night was appointed to complete the term of Bill Hekman, who resigned because he is employed in Mackay and cannot attend council meetings.

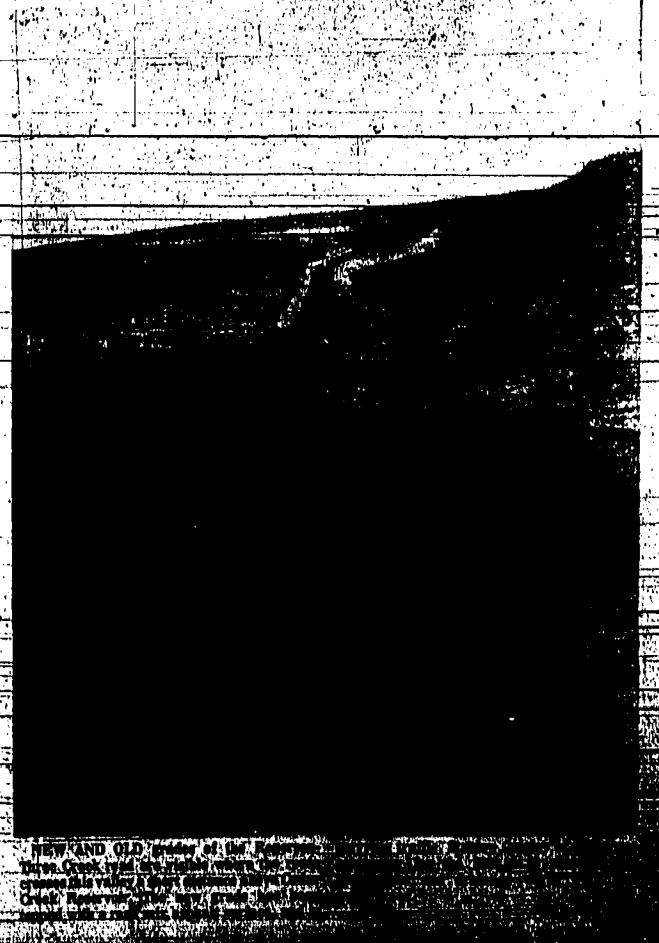

The appointment is effective immediately. Griffin is employed by the Blaine County road and bridge crew. He has served on the council eight years ago.

Councilmen decided to wait until spring to decide on whether to call the streets again. Contractors' estimates for the project is $10,000.

Stayman Rule With Weak Hand

When the hand was played, West made his best lead of a low heart. East won and returned the suit. A third heart lead let South in. He played ace-king and another spade to pull with his last trump.

Now he led ace-king and another diamond. At this point, he should have returned dummy and led a club to go down, but South had a better idea. He let West hold the trick.

West led his last diamond and was allowed to hold that trick also. This forced him to play a club up to South's king and South made his contract.

What would have happened if South had to reply with two diamonds? North would have bid two spades and in JACOBY MODERN that two-spade bid is every bit as much a sign-off as an immediate two-spade response would have been.

North doesn't like no-trump at all and is justified in his dislike. South would probably be two down at that contract.

He prefers two spades and in some Stayman forms he would bid two spades. He wouldn't quite make it, but he would come close. He could complain about the bad luck of the trump break and the misplacement of the ace of clubs.

TWIN FALLS — Job's Daughters of Bethel No. 56, Twin Falls, held a dinner and special meeting at the Masonic Temple Wednesday evening honoring the official visit of Mrs. Helen Barclay, Coeur d'Alene, grand guardian.

Other special guests were Lennie Williams, Opportunity, Wash., associate supreme guardian; Mrs. Erma Scott, Twin Falls, vice grand guardian; and Art Wadsworth, grand inner guard of Twin Falls.

A luncheon was held for the grand guardian in the Hogerson Hotel Colonial Room, with council members attending. A work and talk session was held in the afternoon for all Bethel members, with Mrs. Barclay conducting. At the evening meeting introductions were conducted by Sheryl Westbrook, honored guest, with all guests receiving special recognition.

Initiation was exemplified for six candidates. Mrs. Barclay gave a talk and presented the honored queen in a "Book of Verse." Williams presented Miss Westbrook, a charm and presented Kathy Thomson, Grand Bethel honored queen, a picture of the supreme guardian and associate supreme guardian and welcomed the new initiates with an impressive speech.

Williams, a retired lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army, is making an official tour of Job's Daughters Bethels through many states, including Idaho, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Arizona, Oklahoma, Louisiana,

DEAR ABBY: We are in the process of raising four children, and have asked ourselves a thousand times, "Why are we doing it?" The only conclusion we can come to is that we didn't know any better than to have had them in the first place, and obviously we had rocks in our heads for ever thinking we wanted to be parents.

It's the most thankless job in the world. If every young couple would stop and ask themselves why they want children, and answer the question honestly, 9 out of 10 wouldn't have any.

After being a mother for more than 10 years, I honestly can't think of one good reason anyone would choose to be a mother.

MICHIGAN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If the truth were known (and there is no way of getting an honest count), the number of children who were really "wanted" would probably be shockingly low. Many young couples want "a baby" without considering the headaches of rearing a child. You say, "Parenthood is the most thankless job in the world," as tho' a child should "thank" his parents for having had him. Children do not ask to be born, and they don't owe anyone (mother included) "thanks."

Parents become parents (or should) because they want children, but they should first seriously consider the responsibilities that go with parenthood. In answer to your question: YOU are raising four children because you had them.

DEAR ABBY: This problem concerns my bachelor brother, age 24. He is in the Navy. Last year he lived with a married woman (I'll call her Mary) for a while. Mary was separated from her husband. Shortly thereafter, Mary wrote and told my brother she was pregnant, and was divorcing her husband. Mary then telephoned my parents to inform them of the situation. Naturally they were upset.

Mary had the baby and my brother went to visit her to see if the baby resembled him as he wasn't sure the baby was his.

He came home and said the baby looked like him but he didn't want to marry Mary. He found out that she had had a child out of wedlock before her marriage and had given it away.

My brother asked my parents if they would take Mary's newborn baby rather than have it given away to strangers. They flatly refused saying they wouldn't be around forever.

My question: What legal obligations does my brother have to Mary and her new baby—if any? Please don't mention real names or cities.

BROTHER'S KEEPER, 1070

DEAR KEEPER: Your brother needs a "keeper," but he needs a good lawyer even more. Even tho' the baby "looks" like him, it may not be his. And if Mary was still legally married at the time of the baby's birth, the baby is legally her husband's, not your brother's. A man who is in the mess your brother is in needs a good attorney to advise him of his "rights" as well as obligations. And if he ever gets out of this one he should never go ashore without the chaplain.

DEAR READERS: I am continually receiving letters from readers who ask, "How can you give advice to parents on rearing children when you are an old maid yourself?" Or "The lady next door told me that the picture you use with your column was taken around World War I." Others have asked, "Are you married? Have you ever been divorced? Do you have any children?"

I have on numerous occasions answered those questions in my column, but for those who apparently still do not know, I offer my vital statistics:

Abigail Van Buren is the pen name of my own choosing. I was born on the 4th of July in 1914. I am married to the same man since 1939. We have two grown offspring—a boy for you and a girl for me. The picture that appears with my column is a new one. It's a passport picture. I've never had plastic surgery, but I'm not saying I never will.

I stand five feet nothing and weigh 100 pounds and was raised on Iowa corn. (No remarks, please.)

Any more questions? SINCERELY, ABBY

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 89700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90065. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

The meeting will feature the sale of variety items with proceeds to go to the home and elections will be held during the business meeting. A representative will be present to give a talk on the Good Shepherd Home, a home for retarded children operated by the Lutheran churches and located at Terra Bella, Calif.

A report was given on Goodwill for Good Shepherd—a tea and sale of baked goods and handiwork held Sunday at St. John's Lutheran Church in Buhl. Mrs. Henry Tvet and Mrs. Leona Griffiths were chairmen of the project.

The evening devotional service was given by Rev. Henry Tvet, Buhl. Mrs. Robert Adolph, Hagerman, was hostess.

Johnson Wins Bat Title in Season Finale

With Purdue Jinx Broken, Irish Aim At Michigan State

By STEVE SMILANICH UPI Sports Writer

Third-ranked Notre Dame, having snapped a jinx at the expense of Purdue, visits East Lansing, Mich., Saturday hoping to snap another negative streak against troublesome Michigan State.

The Irish, who broke a three-game losing streak to Purdue by walloping the Bolleermakers 48-0 last Saturday, haven't won a game at Spartan Stadium since 1949. And the memory lingers of 1968 when the Spartans upset a Terry Hanratty-Jim Seymour outfit, 21-17.

Notre Dame has visited Spartan Stadium nine times since their 34-21 victory in 1949 and the best the Irish have done is the 10-10 in 1968. The Irish-Spartan contest is one of several interesting matchups Saturday involving the nation's ranked teams.

Top-ranked Ohio State, playing at home for the second straight week, hosts Duke while No. 2 Texas is also at home against 13th-ranked UCLA.

Big game in the Southeast sends Alabama against Mississippi Saturday night at Jackson, Miss., in a game to be televised nationally by ABC-TV. The game will start at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

Fourth-ranked Southern California is also at home for its Pacific Eight Conference opener Saturday night against Oregon State and unbeaten Stanford hosts Purdue.

Other games involving the nation's powers sends sixth-ranked Nebraska to Minnesota, seventh-rated Colorado, upset victor over Penn State last week, to Kansas State, No. 9 Michigan against Texas A&M at Ann Arbor and 10th ranked Air Force Academy at home against Colorado State University.

Elsewhere, 15th ranked Arizona State plays at Wyoming, Penn State looks to rebound against Wisconsin, 17th ranked West Virginia goes for its fourth straight against Indiana and 20th ranked San Diego State hosts Brigham Young University.

Notre Dame, unbeaten in two starts, is favored by 10 against Michigan State. If Joe Theismann and Tom Gatewood can duplicate last year's showing against the Spartans, Michigan State could be in for a long afternoon.

Last year Theismann and Gatewood blossomed into an effective combination, the Notre Dame quarterback completing 20 of 33 passes for 204 yards and Gatewood of 10 receptions for 158 yards in a 42-28 Notre Dame victory.

Theismann will have to be wary of a Michigan State defense that intercepted eight passes last Saturday against Washington State.

Coach Ara Parseghian, who noted "there were a lot of frustrations expressed out there" against Purdue, isn't underestimating the Spartans. "They always manage to give us a tough time," said Parseghian of the Spartans.

Ohio State, a 56-13 victor over Texas A&M last Saturday, is a heavy favorite to win the Duke.

Old Miss is a four point pick over Alabama but the Rebels will need another superlative performance from Archie Manning to get by the Crimson Tide.

In last year's TV thriller between the two teams Alabama won 33-32 even though Manning accounted for 840 yards total offense.

Baltimore Rates as Favorite Over Injury-Ridden Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)

The Minnesota Twins are not in top shape going into Saturday's American League championship series with Baltimore, and oddsmakers have made the Orioles favorites in the best-of-five playoff.

But the Twins' spirits are high, and they don't think of themselves as underdogs. After all, they point out, they won seven of twelve regular-season games from Baltimore.

Beman Ties Record to Open Azalea Tourney

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI)

Sandy-haired Deano Beman shot a record-tying eight-under-par 63 Thursday for a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $60,000 Azalea open golf tournament.

The Bethesda, Md., golfer's 30-32 round tied the course record at Cape Fear Country Club, but Beman said he didn't consider his round spectacular and noted he missed three birdie putts of five feet or less.

Tied at two strokes back with six-under-par 65 were young George Johnson of Atlanta and Wilf Homeniuk of Winnipeg, Canada. Homeniuk started out with six straight birdies but finished with 12 straight pars.

Five players finished another stroke away with 66. They are veterans Al Balding of Canada and Joe Campbell of Knoxville, Tenn., Cesar Sanudo of El Cajon, Calif., Bobby Mitchell of Danville, Va., and Martin Roestnik, Deventer, Holland.

Beman started out with three consecutive birdies on the front nine, then rolled in a 15-footer at the fifth hole for another. Another birdie came with a seven foot putt at number six, and after another 12-footer at nine, he turned in a 30 score on the front nine.

Beman's only birdies on the back nine came on the 12th hole, where he made a six footer and at 15, where his chip for an angle from just off the fringe lipped the cup and stopped a couple of inches away.

"It wasn't the best round I ever had, but it was an easy 63," said Beman. "It wasn't one of those kind where you knock it in all the way across the green or chip it in or anything like that."

Seven golfers were bunched at 67 and another 15 shot 68s, including Mason Rudolph, who won at Green Island last week.

Defending champion Dale Douglass was in a clump of 13 players at 69 after scoring bogies on the last two holes.

Beman, playing his second round ever at Cape Fear, never got off the fairway, and acknowledged that with a bit of luck, he might have broken the course record.

His last chance for the record came at the 18th hole, where a 15-footer that would have broken the club mark curled away at the last instant.

But Beman was pleased anyway. He said he's always been a slow starter in tournaments.

"It wasn't the best round I ever had," he said. "He was staying on the fairway, but his drives were not spectacularly long."

"I don't think the people watching considered it spectacular because it wasn't until you started adding it up," he said.

They have a good team and they have a good team," said Jim Perry, a 24-game winner who will duel another 24-game winner—Mike Cuellar—in Saturday's opener.

"After you've played all summer, it's just another game. I won't go in there feeling any different than any other ball game."

The Twins have the home field advantage for the first two games and Perry feels they must win at least one of those two to win the playoffs.

For the year, the Twins were 4-2 against Baltimore here and 4-2 in Baltimore.

The Twins' biggest problem, the last couple of months has been Harrison Kilbrow, last year's most valuable player who has not hit a home run since Sept. 11.

But still Kilbrow has 41 homers for the season and 113 runs batted in. He is getting his swing back in the groove, according to manager Bill Rigney.

Kilbrow, characteristically non-committal, says "I feel pretty well and just hope a few of those balls start dropping in. The Orioles are a fine team; I hope we can get off to a quick start against them."

Besides Kilbrow's slump, the Twins' largest problem is Rod Carew.

"The gifted second baseman, defending league batting champion, was hitting .376 when he was injured in Milwaukee June 22. He has been at bat only half-a-dozen times the past week and without a hit.

His leg injury is healing slowly but the does not have the speed and range to play second base.

Aside from that, Rich Reese, the regular first baseman against righthanded pitching, pulled a hamstring muscle and did not play the last two games.

The Twins do have a few things going for them: —Relievers Ron Perranoski (a league record of 34 saves) and Stan Williams (nine straight victories in one stretch);

—Tony Oliva, who hit .325, with 204 hits, driving in a personal high 107 runs with 23 homers;

—Cesar Tovar, whose bunt single in the final game gave him an even .300 average; an ideal backstop man who led the club with 110 runs scored and stole 30 bases.

Tailless Canine The schipperke, a dog of the Netherlands and Belgium related to the chow, is generally born tailless. Ordinarily, it does not weigh more than 10 pounds.

The current Tiger manager's $35,000 two-year contract runs out at the conclusion of Thursday's game, with the Cleveland Indians and Martin expected to sign a contract for two or three years and perhaps $5,000 more annually.

The new Detroit manager-to-be has served this season as a broadcaster with the Minnesota Twins after serving as their manager for one season.

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Under pressure, Alex Johnson collected two singles in three times at bat to win the American League batting title by .003 over Boston's Carl Yastrzemski Thursday night but the California Angels had to go into the 13th inning before pinchhitter Mel Queen singled home Billy Cowan with the run that gave them a 5-4 win over the Chicago White Sox.

Johnson beat out a hit behind third base on the first pitch in the fifth inning to capture the crown with a .328 average. Yastrzemski, who finished the season Wednesday, had led going into the game at .326.

The controversial Angels outfielder was removed from the game after his 105-foot hit. He had batted out as the leadoff hitter in the first inning, but then singled to right in the third.

After he was lifted, Johnson seemed surprised and explained, "somebody told me I needed three hits to win the title."

The stocky slugger said also that this was his "biggest individual achievement in baseball" and that the silver championship bat "will be something elegant for my trophy case."

With the White Sox trailing 3-0 in an anticlimax to Johnson's performance, Walt Williams hit a three-run homer with two out.

In the bottom of the 13th, Mickey Rivera walked with one out, scored the tying run on pinchhitter Cowan's double and an error at the plate. Queen followed an intentional walk to Chico Rutz by singling over the drawn in Bob Matias in right field with one out.

Rudy May picked up his seventh victory against 13 defeats while the loss went to Jim Magnuson, 1-5.

SPORT FANS! BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By BILL WORKMAN

Of all the pro football teams which one do you think has finished in first place the most different years?

Answer the Cleveland Browns. They've finished in first place 17 different seasons.

And, of all the pro football teams today in the National and American Football leagues, which ones have NEVER finished in first place in their divisions of the end of any season?

Answer: Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Atlanta, New Orleans, Denver, Miami and Cincinnati.

Here's a riddle one from pro football... Do you know a team could win only ONE game all season and still finish in first place? How is this possible? A National or American Football league team with 1 win and 13 ties in a 14-game schedule, for example, would win the title over a team that won 13 games and lost 1 because the league goes by percentage only—and the team with 1 win, 0 losses and 13 ties would have a 100 percent win (1st don't count) while the team with 13 wins and 1 loss would have a percentage of 92% and would finish second.

Poor Time To Ponder Direct Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Filibusters, by their nature, are deadening and anyone who doesn't believe it ought to have to cover one.

But there is a queer logic in the system that permits unlimited, endless, dragging on in the Senate. It was demonstrated when a group of senators talked to apparent death a constitutional amendment to reform the Electoral College system.

Both friend and foe of the amendment considered it most fundamental change in the American method of electing presidents that has ever reached a vote in Congress.

It was brought to the floor at the worst conceivable time for methodical and considerate debate—in the middle of a headlong rush for adjournment and in an election campaign when attendance is often spotty.

It is difficult enough for ordinary bills to be considered under such circumstances. But a change in the Constitution is something else.

The amendment in question has vast implications for the American political system. It would eliminate the Electoral College system—under which all of a state's electoral votes usually are cast for the frontrunner even if he carried a state by only one vote. It would substitute direct, popular election.

The driving force behind the amendment was the fear that a third party candidate would deadlock the Electoral College, and prevent anyone from getting a majority, and force

Finch Assails 'Games'

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Presidential counselor Robert Finch believes public figures who "play games" with presidential commissions do a disservice to the dedicated work of the commission.

He praised the Seranton Commission on Campus Direct report here Wednesday and suggested many of the politicians who criticized the report had read only part of it.

"They ought to withhold their judgment until they've seen the whole package," he said.

One of the report's critics has been Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, but Finch would not be pinned down as to whether or not he considered Agnew's comments in the area of those he felt were game-playing.

But should it ever be in order to impose closure—debate-limitation—on a constitutional amendment? The Senate was envisioned by the framers of the Constitution as a deliberative body of thinkers and prophets. But with a third of the members often gone, and others occupied with other matters in an adjournment and political-campaign period, there was not a great deal of deliberating and prophesying.

Perhaps it might prove to young people, as Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., suggested, that the system sorely needs changing.

Perhaps, instead, it will prove that the system of Franklin and Adams and Jefferson should be changed with great care.

BOISE, (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson told a news conference Thursday he wants responsibility for enforcement of narcotics laws taken from the Board of Pharmacy and put under the attorney general.

That way, Samuelson said, the state could utilize all of its law enforcement officers in the fight against drug abuse.

While he did not accuse the board of falling to cooperate with other law enforcement agencies, he did say it would be easier to coordinate activities if the authority were placed elsewhere.

Samuelson also said he felt more money should be spent on investigation of narcotics abuse because "the lifeblood of the nation" is involved in the problem.

"We seem to still have problems of falling to cooperate with other law enforcement agencies," he said. "It's of concern to me."

"We are hamstringing by having law enforcement of narcotics into the Department of Pharmacy," he said.

He said he planned to make recommendations for changes to the next session of the Legislature.

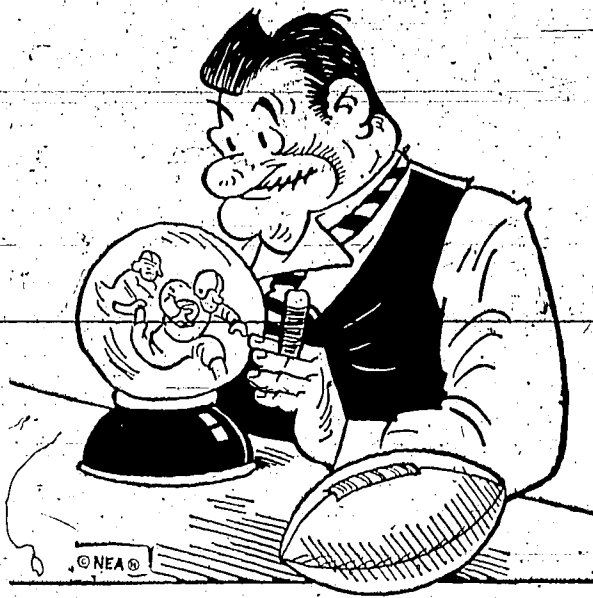

Meantime, Samuelson described as "assinine" a charge by his opponent, Democrat Cecil Andrus, that he may have encouraged some counties to hold back property tax notices until after the election.

"That's one of the most assinine statements I've ever heard anybody make," Samuelson said. "Can you imagine me going to the county commissioners and asking them to withhold them?"

Miniature Auto Races Planned at Y

TWIN FALLS — Big time auto racing on a miniature scale is coming to Twin Falls.

Chet Bartlett, YMCA executive director, said the new program is open to all youngsters up to 15 years of age and will begin Oct. 8. Registration is now open.

Johnny Lightning 500 raceway equipment will be used, Bartlett said. The Magic Valley YMCA is one of more than 900 in the country taking part in the program.

Competition begins locally and will escalate up through city wide, region wide and finally to national meets.

Bartlett said the large tracks and miniature cars are donated to the YMCAs around the country by Topper Corp., Elizabeth, N. J. The same company is furnishing all prizes including the grand prize for the national racing champion, an all-expense trip to the Indianapolis 500 Memorial Day Classic. He fully will accompany him for the 1971 race.

"The YMCA has always tried to build its programs and services around the needs and interests of the people it serves," Bartlett said, "and all youngsters are interested in auto racing."

The new program is open to all YMCA members under 15 years of age. There is no registration fee for members.

Local competition will be in four stages, Bartlett said. School competition will be held with winners from various schools competing for the city title. City winners will compete for regional honors and all city winners in the northwestern states will be racing on the same day, for selection of regional winners. Results will be mailed to the National Council of YMCAs where results will be compared and a winner named. Regional winners will be announced sometime in May. Trophies will be awarded on a local basis.

Bartlett reminded parents no child is denied YMCA membership because of inability to pay and those with questions concerning this and other programs should call the local YM-YWCA office.

U.S. Vows Saigon Support

PARIS (UPI)—U.S. negotiator David K. E. Bruce, on the eve of his departure for consultations with President Nixon, told the Communist Vietnamese Thursday the United States will not abandon the present Saigon leadership in return for an early peace in Vietnam.

Probing Communist intentions for the last time before conferring with Nixon in Ireland Sunday, Bruce told the Hanoi and Viet Cong negotiators at the 68th session of the Vietnam peace talks their demands for the overthrow of the ruling triumvirate of South Vietnam were "unreasonable."

"It is equally unacceptable for your side to demand, as a precondition to serious negotiation, the removal of the leaders of a government which you agreed would be a participant in these meetings," Bruce said.

"Although official spokesmen for both North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations later characterized the American stand as a "projection" of the latest Communist proposals, both U.S. and Saigon officials refused to use the word "projection" to describe their position.

Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, chief negotiator and foreign minister of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government, said all they heard from Bruce Thursday "was his old scratched record, playing the same old tune."

Merging from the three and one-half hour session of the deadlocked conference, Bruce told newsmen:

"It was the same as usual, no departure from the statements and discourse that we've heard before and no clarification from the other side about their proposals, which we'd asked for."

The proposals, submitted by Mme. Binh Sept. 17 as an eight-point "peace initiative," offered the United States a cease-fire and immediate discussion of the release of American prisoners in return for a declaration the United States will pull all its troops out of South Vietnam by next June 30 and will remove the three top leaders of the Saigon government—President Nguyen Van Thieu, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, and Prime Minister Tran Thieu Kham.

Only then, she said, would the Communists stop shooting and get down to negotiating with the Saigon government on the political future of the country.

Council Clears Plan For Pocatello Center

BOISE (UPI)—The Permanent Building Fund Council approved final plans today and authorized contracts on the $503,000 human resources center in Pocatello subject to collection of local funds.

Dr. Terrell O. Carver, state health administrator, said the first phase of the building utilized approximately $225,000 in state funds, $35,000 from local sources and the remainder from federal construction. The building will be located on the Idaho State University campus.

Carver said the facility would provide intensive diagnostic and day-care training services to mentally retarded or disturbed persons in an eight-county area but said live-in facilities on a short term basis would be included in a later phase of the building.

"One thing we don't want to do is go into a long-term custodial type of care situation," Carver said. "For that we have the Nampa State School and Hospital."

The goal of the center, outlined in a statement distributed to the council, is "rehabilitation and restoration to as near a normal life as possible." Carver said similar centers are at Idaho Falls, Twin Falls and Lewiston and said one also was planned for Coeur d'Alene.

When asked how many persons the center would service, Carver said it was "like Parkinson's law."

"The more people you have to provide this kind of service, the more people there are to use it."

"We've been talking about mental health and mental retardation for so long in this state I've forgotten how long it's been," Carver said. "That fact that we don't always have facilities for them is the most disturbing."

"Maybe it doesn't seem to be a problem because no one has provided the treatment and they're still locked up in asylums," he said, when asked whether mental retardation and health problems are on the increase.

The council also approved final funding for 10 residential cottages at the Nampa State School. Dr. John Marks the legislature had appropriated $240,000 toward construction costs and said the remaining $5,000 needed could be taken from institutional funds for repair and maintenance.

The council authorized Boise State College to go to contract for a $380,000 swimming pool as part of the new athletic complex. Dr. John Barnes, president of BSC, said the funds for the pool, originally eliminated from complex plans, became available from "excellent investments" of the student fees for building.

When asked whether students would resent paying $50 of the $100 student fee for buildings, Barnes said he had discussed the situation with student leaders and added students "would be most unhappy if they had to use these funds to build a classroom."

The Council also authorized the College of Southern Idaho to go to contract on the $350,000 vocational technical building.

Soldiers' Home Site Limited to Park Use

BOISE (UPI)—The Permanent Building Fund Council turned over to the attorney general's office Thursday a lease binding the city of Boise until 1977 to use Old Soldiers' Home property for park purposes only.

The lease was disclosed two days after the Idaho Supreme Court upheld a lower court decision which allowed Boise and Ada County the right to take possession of the property for an extension to Curtis Road.

The lease, signed by Boise Mayor Jay Amyn Sept. 1, 1967, provided the city could use the land only for purposes of establishing and maintaining recreation facilities and "all existing trees and turf shall be maintained and preserved in the condition in which they now exist."

James McClary, chairman of the council, said in his opinion the city would be "violating their own lease with what the city is planning to do."

After a new Soldiers Home was built the state leased two sections of the land to Boise City for park purposes. The county and city exercised the rights of eminent domain to acquire the property on Highway 44 for the road extension and that position was upheld by Fourth District Judge Merlin S. Young.

The state appealed to the Supreme Court, contending the lower court lacked jurisdiction over the matter. The state also maintained the Idaho statutes reserved to the legislature the right to determine the status of the property.

The high court ruled the lower court had correctly interpreted the language of the 1936 session laws and held the legislature did not withhold the property from eminent domain condemnation.

The lease held the only improvements that could be made on the property by the city — with the exception of sprinklers, storage facilities, restrooms and fireplaces — could be done only with the approval of the Department of Public Works.
