Troops alerted before marxist's inauguration

Elected . . .
DR. SALVADORE ALLENDE, the Marxist Socialist, will be confirmed President of Chile Saturday. (UPI)

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Troops with shoot-to-kill orders today enforced martial law imposed in a nationwide effort to find gunmen who wounded Chile's army commander in an apparent attempt to keep Marxist Salvador Allende from becoming president Saturday.

Gen. Rene Schneider, shot three times Thursday morning on his way to his office, took a turn for the worse Thursday night. He was in critical condition.

"The government will not cease in its obligation to find and punish those responsible for this criminal attack," said President Eduardo Frei in a television and radio address Thursday night, announcing imposition of martial law.

Troops patrolled cities and towns from the Atacama Desert on the north to the mountains on the south with authority to make summary arrests, search homes without warrants, censor information media and to shoot to kill any person who does not approach to be identified when challenged.

Schneider was shot only 48 hours before Congress was due to proclaim Allende the Western Hemisphere's first freely elected Marxist president.

In Santiago, Gen. Camilo Valenzuela ordered a nightly curfew from midnight to 6 a.m. and forbade nighttime traffic of private automobiles except for ambulances and other emergency vehicles. Valenzuela appealed to families to keep their children away from windows and off balconies lest they be shot by nervous troops on patrol and threatened to close down any newspaper or radio station contributing to disturbance of public order or creation of panic.

Congress must ratify the Sept. 4 election victory of Allende since he did not win an absolute majority of 51 per cent of the vote.

The nations Marxist Left factions blamed what they called "ultrarightists" and operatives of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) for the attempt to kill Schneider.

Political police were investigating that and another possibility—that Schneider was shot by army men disaffected at his permitting what they said was contact between the army general staff and representatives of Allende.

Red groundfire downs 2 American helicopters

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command today reported the loss of two American helicopters to Communist groundfire in Vietnam. Viet Cong units ambushed a Cambodian convoy on a part of Highway 4 southwest of Phnom Penh which the Cambodian Command had declared safe.

American military spokesmen said three crewmen were wounded Wednesday when a UH1 Huey helicopter was shot down over jungles 241 miles northeast of Saigon. Another Huey was hit Thursday 126 miles southwest of Saigon and five miles from the Cambodian border. The crew escaped.

The U.S. Command also reported a Viet Cong ambush of a U.S. engineer unit repairing a highway 111 miles northeast of Saigon Thursday. One American was killed and four wounded in the attack on Highway 20 which links Saigon with the Central Highlands resort of Dalat.

the Viet Cong appeared to be letting civilians automobiles pass while opening fire on any military vehicles on Highway 4, closed for up to eight days at a time by the Viet Cong in recent weeks.

The attack on the Cambodian convoy near Trapeang Kraleng resulted in four Cambodian troops wounded, besides three Cambodian troops killed. A Cambodian major with the convoy "somehow escaped without injury and was not captured," military spokesmen said.

Attorneys' associations announced

BOISE (UPI)—Formation of a Criminal Defense Attorneys' Association in Idaho's third and fourth judicial districts was announced Thursday by temporary President T. J. Jones Jr.

The primary purpose of the organization is for the education and self-improvement of the interested counsel by meeting together at least once a month and discussing problems of common interest or by having programs and speakers relative to criminal defense matters.

It also was suggested, Jones said, "that we establish a brief bank, to make available the benefit of research of various criminal matters to the members of the association."

Vice President hits 'dash to center'

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Thursday Democratic liberals Hubert Humphrey, Edward M. Kennedy and George McGovern have taken "a mad dash to the political center" on the issue of law and order.

"All this sudden posturing against crime and disruptive demonstration I have tried to show up for what it is—a frightened, mad dash to the political center seeking a temporary storm shelter to hide out from the electoral tornado bearing down on them," Agnew said.

Agnew, moving from the chill rain of Cedar Rapids, Iowa to the sunshine of Tucson boosting Republican candidates, denounced his favorite target—that "little band of radicals in Washington . . . frustrating the will of a new majority of the American people."

Agnew spent the night here and was scheduled to fly today to Hartford, Conn.

He said that men like Sens. Kennedy of Massachusetts and McGovern of South Dakota, and former Vice President Humphrey "now suddenly take the hard line against the riotous conduct which their inflammatory rhetoric excused and indirectly invited."

Agnew also accused the Democrats, in their response to the increase in the price index Wednesday, of jumping on a "one month wobble to try to panic the electorate."

Wage proposals explained

JEROME — Idaho State Employees Association Executive Director Bob Stelling, explained to a group of Magic Valley legislators and candidates for legislative offices the ISEA proposals for salary increases for state employees at a dinner meeting Wednesday night in Jerome.

Stelling explained to the group Idaho's personnel commission director, George Murphy and the state department of employment conducted a survey of 56 state government positions that showed state employees are paid up to 20 per cent less than comparable employees in private industry in Idaho. "This is believed to be the first comprehensive wage and salary survey that has been performed by the personnel commission," he said.

"We want to get state employees on a prevailing rate with private industry. A conservative estimate of the cost would be $2.1 million. This would not be a straight across the board raise. Only employees who are not now being paid on a prevailing rate would receive the increase ranging from 5 to 15 per cent.

"Our interest is to get to the prevailing rates, not above and not below it. If we can accomplish this with the help of the legislators I feel we could greatly reduce the turnover of state employees which runs about 55 per cent in Idaho or nearly 250 employees changing per month. This of course costs the state a great deal of money," he said.

The official told legislators in his opinion the state also needs some position control for different state departments to limit the number of employees the head of that department can hire. In this way, he said, the state can control his hiring more people just to boost his budget from state funds. This has happened in a number of cases, he said, and is hurting present employees, by limiting the amount of money each should be earning.

Stelling also mentioned the possibility of cutting the salaries of those state employees who are now being paid more than the prevailing rate.

This only concerns a very few state employees and must be looked into further, the executive director said.

Club youth work aided

TWIN FALLS — The late O. P. Duvall, former probate judge, attorney and Kiwanis club member and official, has bequeathed $1,000 to the local Kiwanis Club for use as members of the board see fit in connection with the youth activity program.

Announcement of the gift was made by Dr. James L. Taylor, club president, during the regular luncheon at the Turf Club Thursday. The late Mr. Duvall, at his death, was the last surviving charter member of the club here. He had held all offices in the club and had also served as lieutenant governor and governor of the Utah-Idaho district.

and the then Boise Junior College prior to entering professional sports. He was a pitcher four times during the All-Star games. Jackson recalled that the second game he pitched in his professional career, while playing for the Boise Pilots, was against the Twin Falls Cowboys — a game he lost.

He was introduced by Guy Belcher, program chairman. Members of the Kiwanis Club's mid-league football team were guests at the session. They were introduced by Stan Snow, Kiwanis member and coach.

New member inducted was the Rev. L. P. Jones, new pastor of the First Christian Church.

Speaker at the luncheon was Larry Jackson, Boise, publication relations executive for Boise-Cascade and former big-league pitcher with the St. Louis Cardinals, the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Phillies. He played professional ball for 18 years and retired from the sport two years ago. He is a native of Boise and played for Boise High School

Driver classes slated in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — Driver rehabilitation classes open to all persons with a driver's license, will open Monday at 7 p. m. in the O'Leary Junior High School in Room 119, Leo Wright, instructor, announced today.

He said the classes, sponsored by the National Safety Council, will be under the direction of himself and Gordon Smith, local driver-trainer instructors. In addition to persons who have signed up for the program through the department of law enforcement, Boise, anyone in the local area interested in polishing his or her driving skills is welcome to enroll, Wright said.

With winter weather and increased driving hazards it is important driver errors be eliminated. Training during a special program will instruct motorists in understanding situations which lead to accidents and acting in emergencies to control these situations.

Wright said the program will include four class sessions of two and one-half hours each and drivers who enroll will be attending all four class sessions. Dates and times for these will be set following the Monday night class.

Wright said many of the persons taking the course are there because of poor driving records and at the recommendation of traffic courts. Many others, he said, are simply conscientious drivers who wish to improve their driving records and help cut down the chances of traffic accidents and fatalities on the highways.

T.F. man invited to meet

TWIN FALLS — Robert F. Tidd, karate expert and teacher and holder of the second degree black belt in the sport, has been invited to referee the United States Martial Arts Championship at Memphis, Tenn., on Nov. 21.

Tidd is the only native Idahoan to hold the second degree black belt and is one of three in Idaho to be designated at that level. He has been interested in the sport for 15 years and at the present time, teaches classes at the O'Leary Junior High School and Lincoln school in Twin Falls; the College of Idaho at Caldwell and the Nazarene College at Nampa. He will instruct a class at the College of Southern Idaho starting next January.

The invitation to referee the national tourney was received from Kang Rhee, karate master and tournament director.

2 men face charge

TWIN FALLS — Two drivers were charged with driving while intoxicated early today after accidents in residential Twin Falls, according to Twin Falls Police.

Police said the first accident occurred at 12:52 a. m. when a 1964 sedan driven by Clinton Junior Kerr, 23, Kimberly, collided with the rear end of a 1965 model car parked on Second Avenue North and owned by Arlene Ezell. The Ezell vehicle then crashed into a 1966 model car owned by Mary Lou Weaver.

Kerr and his passenger, Robert N. Dalton, 26, both were taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Kerr was treated and released and Dalton is reported in good condition today. Extensive damage occurred to the vehicles involved, police said.

Kerr was released on $200 bond posted on the drunk driving charge.

The second accident occurred at 1:02 a. m. in the 100 block of Quincy Street when a 1958 sedan driven by LaVerne D. Dunlap, 38, struck the rear of a parked car owned by Robert Cox. Officers allege vehicle then left the scene and was located a short time later in the 300 block of Quincy Street. Neither the driver nor her passenger, LeRoy Loyd, 38, was injured. Mrs. Dunlap, who was charged with drunk driving and leaving the scene of an accident, was released on a combined bond of $400. Court appearances are pending for both drivers.

Bean suit due jury

TWIN FALLS — A $450,000 damage suit being tried for two weeks in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls was expected to go to the jury about noon today, Judge Theron Ward said.

The case was completed Thursday except for closing arguments by attorneys representing the three firms involved. Arguments and instructions to the jury, which Judge Ward said he was to deliver was all that remained to be done.

The case, filed by Shields, a Buhl partnership warehouse and speed firm, against Morton Chemical Co., a division of Morton International, Inc. and C.K. Brown and Associates, Twin Falls, involves seed beans sold and distributed throughout the western states by Shields'

Jerome

Eden, Hazelton get radio funds

JEROME — Jerome County Prosecuting Attorney S. A. Kolman announced that word has been received from the Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission that Eden and Hazelton have been awarded $333 each in federal funds and $105 each in state funds to be applied toward purchase of car radios for town marshals.

Kolman said the Jerome police last year received funds from the state commission for portable radios. Kolman, who is city attorney for Eden and Hazelton, said the funds were awarded under the federal omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968. He said the radios and accompanying equipment would be ordered from the state communications department in Boise.

"This is a wonderful step forward for law enforcement in Jerome County," Kolman said.

Town marshals of Eden and Hazelton will be able to radio the sheriff's office in Jerome, state police at Hollister, a Jerome ambulance service and the Jerome police department as well as maintaining radio communication between the towns, Kolman said.

Frequencies have been assigned by the Idaho State Police.

Drug abuse film slated

EDEN-HAZELTON — Pot, Rock and Revolution will be the topic of the guest speaker, Jim Payton, at the Valley PTA at 8 p. m. Monday in the Valley High School library.

Payton will show a film and give a commentary on drug abuse. Parents and interested children are urged to attend. The budget will be presented.

Jerome Boosters schedule dance

JEROME — The Jerome Tigers Booster Club will hold a dance Saturday at the Jerome Elks Lodge, with music provided from 9 to 12 p. m. by Al Devrier and his quintet, to be sponsored by the Sun Valley musicians local. It was announced at the club meeting Wednesday.

The club will also sponsor a breakfast meeting Oct. 30 at 7 a. m. at Wood's Cafe in Jerome, according to Ted Diehl, club president. "It will be a send-off breakfast for the cross-country team which will be heading for the state meet at Mountain Home," Diehl said.

All Booster members, their wives and parents of the team members are invited to attend. Other plans were announced

Jerome GOP head challenges Demos

JEROME — Clair Ricketts, chairman of the Jerome County Republican Party, challenged Cecil Andrus and the Democratic Party to "deal with voters of Idaho and to stop telling half-truths."

Ricketts said in a recent radio advertisement Andrus accused Gov. Don Samuelson of "refusing to meet or talk to potato growers who went to Boise to see him." Ricketts said the truth is "he told them he would sit down and talk to their leaders or representatives any time they wanted to talk."

Ricketts asked, "What could he have accomplished by trying to reason with a roomful of hostile potato growers?"

"He is telling the farmer that he is for 100 per cent parity and favors legislation to that effect," Ricketts said. "The truth is, the governor of this state or the legislature have no power to set parity; that power belongs to the U. S. Congress. But Cecil Andrus would have you believe he could do it if elected."

Ricketts continued, "Andrus blames Gov. Samuelson for high property taxes and said he was trying to keep tax notices from going out until after the election. The truth in this is that the power to levy taxes on both personal and real property rest with our county commissioners."

"As for keeping tax notices from going out until after the election, the law states that the auditor's office has until the first Monday in November, which is the day before this year's election, to deliver the tax rolls to the treasurer's office, where the tax notices are made up and mailed."

Ricketts said "The fact is, Samuelson's administration has passed two bills; one calling for budget requests to be made in dollars and cents, and the '304 Bill' both which protect the taxpayer from increased taxes due to increased valuation."

"Andrus would like you to believe that the commissioner of agriculture is a culprit for the poor prices Idaho farmers have received for their crops when he should be studying up to find out what the duties and authorities of the commissioner of agriculture really are under present law."

Ricketts concluded, "Andrus in a recent speech deplored the lower per-capita income of Idahoans of $2,900 per year. What he failed to say is that the per-capita income has increased almost $400 under the Samuelson administration which puts us near the top of the list in that department."

legislative representative, also spoke on the revision. Officers for the coming year were nominated.

Hanoi's Dilemma In Cambodia

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Persistent reports from contacts in several Far East countries suggest that Hanoi is in real trouble in Cambodia.

Cambodia, its armies face continuous battles from the rear which eat up hard-to-come-by ammunition, arms and supplies...

The North Vietnamese, even with Prince Sihanouk's help, have not attracted more than a handful of men with top level leadership experience...

Reshaping NATO

Washington is on the side of the British plan, both because it is no longer deemed desirable that large numbers of American troops be assigned to the four corners of the world...

Members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization appear to be approaching a decision on replacing some American contributions to NATO by greater European support.

An alternate plan under discussion might offset the problem of troop contributions. It is for the European members to make larger contributions to improving the armaments available to NATO.

For a quarter of a century, the United States has been the dominant force in NATO, both in terms of manpower directly assigned to the alliance and in financial contributions.

If the NATO members decide it is not feasible for them to supply a larger manpower force, presumably they would be required to help update the alliance's defensive capabilities through modern weaponry.

The Nixon administration has made it clear it wants this imbalance corrected. Specifically, the NATO members must assign the costs of NATO in manpower, armaments and funds more equitably.

West Germany, with a present force of 460,000 men, is reluctant to add additional manpower. But Bonn is willing to contribute to an improved arsenal.

How to do so is the question still to be resolved. The West Germans would like to increase payments to the U.S., providing American troops remain in Europe in substantial numbers.

Between them, the NATO partners can devise a fairer distribution of responsibilities than now exists.

Why go to the moon again when we have so many problems here on earth? has been asked frequently.

Dr. Fred Hoyle, a noted British astronomer, predicted years ago, once men saw the earth from space, "a new idea, as powerful as any in history, will be let loose"

In many ways, this has been unfortunate.

Space programs accomplished something which previously only war could bring about—an intensive and extended mobilization of a nation's brainpower and resources toward a clearly defined goal.

Not only have thousands of the best scientific personnel in the nation been put out of work and thousands of workers idled as space contracts ran out, but the proliferation of "spinoff" benefits from research engineering and equipment development has been slowed.

Ironically, the very concern about ecology that has resulted in some of this turning-away from space is a result of space flights. As

To list all the practical benefits of aerospace research would take more space than is available here.

Election Polls

WASHINGTON — With political campaigning at its peak and congressional elections less than two weeks away, the season of the pollsters is fully upon us.

Now each political claim is buttressed by at least one poll. More often than not, at this stage of the game, new polls are being compared with old polls, and the results are being examined for new pointers.

Some of the "polls" are simply straw votes — a collection of views gathered at random — and sometimes they have a history of reliability. Some of the polls are meticulously conducted, in a carefully selected voter sample, to minimize the chance of error.

For example, it has been rather widely reported that Arthur J. Goldberg, the former Supreme Court Justice, would not have been nominated as the Democratic candidate for governor of New York, if an early poll last winter had not shown him running well ahead of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller at that time.

At its climax, the season of the pollster can be pretty confusing. Here are some tests which can be applied to published polls and to candidate claims of political polling successes.

larger number of interviews, but large numbers do not guarantee accurate results.

The five per cent error (plus or minus) which pollsters estimate in interviewing 500 carefully selected individuals is reduced by only one percentage point to four per cent, by doubling the number of selected interviews to 1,000.

When did the polling take place? Occasionally an interval of a few weeks between polling and publishing can make data with respect to opinions about a candidate obsolete.

How were the people selected for polling? The professional pollsters say the people polled should be selected in accordance with a probability sampling so that the sample polled will reflect the mathematical probability of the total electorate involved.

During our present recession, every newspaper and most store windows display "help wanted" signs, but the jobs remain unfilled because it pays so well to remain jobless.

In California, where a high percentage of citizens is receiving some form of government aid, a state legislator is suggesting a "revolutionary" proposal. State Senator Jack Schrade says habitual welfare recipients should be denied the right to vote.

Now, his proposal merely sounds revolutionary. Actually, in Colonial America this was the policy. In the beginning of our nation only taxpayers were allowed to vote.

True, many Americans are already so addicted that they would continue on the dole and to hook with the vote—but at least those would lose their clout in our state and national capitals and politicians then could safely start talking about welfare as becoming an addictive narcotic.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

About Fat

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been trying to go on a diet but I always seem to eat even more and break the diet.

My parents say I'm too young to go on diet pills. Do you think I could get them or do you agree with my parents? Can you do a certain kind of exercise to lose weight and not go on a diet?

Got any other suggestions? Please agree with me on the pills. That's about my only hope. — C. C.

I read you loud and clear. You eat too much, even when "on a diet," and you want to lose weight. You want to do it any way you can — bar one. You don't want to stop eating too much.

And you want me — sight unseen — to agree with you on pills. Yet you haven't even told me what kind of pills.

There is no pill that will make a person lose weight and yet go on eating without limit, except for certain powerful drugs which, soon or late, take their toll in health. A discouraging number of deaths have been traced to some of the more virulent kinds.

So, no, I won't recommend pills for you.

I will say that you can reduce if you want to, but if you don't have what it takes to stop overeating, I'm sure you don't have what it takes to reduce by sheer exercise. Exercise alone won't do it; it must be taken along with a restricted food intake.

So, please stop dreaming and get down to realities.

Folks are inclined to resent having doctors tell them that some ailment or other is really "all in their heads," but quite often it is the truth. This includes getting fat.

Some are compulsive eaters — they eat because of an emotional urge, not because they need food. Others eat too much because since childhood they have been brought up on fattening foods, and just can't comprehend any other way of eating. But they can — and must — learn that they can feel better and look better by learning to substitute non-fattening foods for fattening ones.

I have a suspicion, further, that some people get fat because of a dietary deficiency of some sort. Yes, that's right. There's a condition called "nicia," which impels some people to eat odd things, sometimes items that carry extra calories.

Sometimes these people are found to be anemic, so eating these things is a subconscious urge to make up for something they are lacking — but they don't know what.

I suspect that some people overeat (especially too much fat, sugar, and starch, which are fattening if eaten in excess) when they may be lacking adequate iron or some other nutrient. So I say that a properly balanced diet should be part of any reducing plan and is a necessity in some.

Please think over these thoughts — and if you are serious enough about reducing to go at it the right way, send me your booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing." It includes sample diets, lists of low- and high-calorie foods, various tips and tricks on how to stay on a diet. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of Times-News, for a copy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: With a fungus condition under a toenail causing the upper half of the nail to become detached, would one see a podiatrist or a dermatologist? — Mrs. A. S. F. Either.

Dear Doctor: I had Paget's disease of the breast. Is it anything like Paget's disease of the bone? — R. W. G.

No. Despite the identical names, they are unrelated diseases.

FBI seeks ex-mechanic

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—Federal Bureau of Investigation agents joined the search today for an auto mechanic "who dropped out and entered the hippie-style life" and is charged with the complicated, single-handed slaying of five persons.

Peter Chang, Santa Cruz County district attorney, announced late Thursday that a warrant had been issued for John Linley Frazier. Chang declared that "on the present evidence we are seeking one person" in the killing of Dr. Victor Ohta, his wife, two sons and secretary.

Asked how one man could have bound five persons, blindfolded them and then shot them beside a swimming pool Chang replied: "It sounds ridiculous, but it's possible that it happened."

Information leading to the warrant came from hippies in this wooded and hilly community, Chang said. He explained the FBI was called on a warrant charging unlawful flight to escape prosecution.

Frazier, 24, had lived in a cabin near the $300,000 Ohta mansion until two days before the Monday slayings. He has a criminal record and was released by the California Youth Authority in 1965.

The suspect—also known as Pascal, his mother's present name—was described as a "white, male American with brownish hair, combed to one side and reaching his collar."

His wife who last saw him when he left the cabin recalled he was wearing a three-quarter inch board, a beige straw hat with a wide brim with red, white and blue band, a green coat, dark trousers, which might have been jeans, and ankle high moccasins.

The wife, whom the district attorney did not name, was quoted as saying that when he left the cabin, he had a pistol in his waistband, a backpack of food for several days, expensive binoculars and a book on Tarot. Tarot is a medieval method of telling fortunes with playing cards. The names of Tarot cards were signed to a note left by the killer under a windshield wiper of Dr. Ohta's Rolls Royce outside the hilltop mansion which had been set on fire.

The name declared "World War 3," opposed materialism and vowed death to those who "outrage the environment."

Sheriff's deputies have determined that .38 and .22 caliber pistols were used in the killings and an unnamed friend of Frazier's told detectives the hunted man owned a .38 caliber Smith & Weston revolver.

One of Dr. Ohta's two surviving daughters said there had been a .22 pistol in the house which overlooks the Pacific Ocean.

Another unnamed friend told police Frazier had said he had been in the Ohta house where he had taken a pair of binoculars.

Victims in the shooting were Dr. Ohta, 47, a Japanese-American eye surgeon; his wife, Virginia, 41; their sons, Victor Taggart, 11, and Richard Derrick, 12; and his secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Cadwallader, 38.

Police said the big hippie community in the communes that dot the wooded country hereabouts was cooperating in the search for Frazier, who was not a popular figure with hippies.

In nearby Santa Clara County, deputies said they could find no connection between the Ohta deaths and the shooting of a gas station attendant near Saratoga.

Auto strikers' fund runs low

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers Union, within two or three weeks of draining a $120 million strike fund to its last reserves, has moved to assess the union's 900,000 working members to support the 38-day strike against General Motors Corp.

The UAW's ruling International Executive Board (IEB) met here Thursday and indicated it will ask a special financial convention Saturday to boost dues to nonstriking members. Sources said the increase was likely to be $10 monthly and raise an extra $9 million a month.

The union is currently paying out about $14 million a week in strike benefits to 350,000 who struck GM at midnight, Sept. 14, and some others lured by the strike. Union estimates indicate the fund will provide strike benefits for another two or three weeks, not counting reserves for payment of health and life insurance premiums.

The extra assessment would cover only the insurance premiums.

Pickets up at markets

BOISE (UPI)—Pickets went up in front of most Boise groceries Thursday as strikers continued to press their demands against employers in four Idaho cities.

In addition charges were filed against employer representatives. State Labor Commissioner W.L. Robinson said he has heard nothing from either side in the strike, but his offer to intercede still stands.

A representative of the Retail Store Clerks Union Local 1614, Jim Kerns, accused members of the multi-employer bargaining unit of "physically threatening, coercing and intimidating union members. He said the union has filed charges with the National Labor-Relations Board on behalf of union members.

Pickets went up at most retail groceries in Boise, Nampa, Mountain Home and Payette. Prior to Thursday strikers were only picketing Buttrays. Kerns said this was done to "advise the general public of the true status of the strike."

Tom Hazard, the principal spokesman for the Idaho Employers Council, the Boise-based bargaining unit for the store operators, was reported in Oregon on some long-scheduled negotiations there. George Ganz, a member of the staff, said employers have run into a few problems Thursday in connection with the strike.

"The problems I speak of are some of the union people who want to know what they should be doing to get a re-vote because a large number would like to have a re-vote," Ganz said.

He said the way pickets have been set up it appears the strikers are picketing against stores not involved in the strike. Apparently some strikers have been marching in front of more than one store in shopping centers in the area.

Ganz expressed surprise at the union's charge of threats, coercion and intimidation and the report of charges being filed with the NLRB. He said the news report was the first he had heard of the situation.

Boise Cascade earnings drop

BOISE (UPI)—Boise Cascade Corp. today reported net earnings of $11,750,000, or 38 cents per share for the third quarter of 1970, down 48 percent from the same period a year ago.

The report released by the firm showed earnings of $22.3 million, or 73 cents a share for the same period a year ago. The announcement was made by William M. Agee, vice president of finance for the company.

He said that while many parts of the company's business had turned in good performances, the depressed economy's effect upon housing and building materials had been extremely adverse.

He said "One bright spot in the housing picture is the strong performance of our manufactured homes operation during the past three months. All plants manufacturing Kingsberry homes during the past three months are now at peak capacity and the demand is increasing."

Artist plans show Sunday

Ready to show . . .

BONNIE KEIM, Hulen Meadows, Ketchum, puts final touch on painting to be shown at her home Sunday. It is a portrayal of a Navajo Indian girl wearing tribe's traditional velvet blouse.

By LIZ BOLTON
Times-News Correspondent
KETCHUM — Wood River Valley is a haven for artists and Bonnie Keim, Hulen Meadows; is one of the best to have settled here to express her talent.
Having been born with a love of art, Mrs. Keim especially enjoys portraying Indians, a people she grew up with in South Dakota. Her first attempts at painting were on available pieces of weathered wood or odd rocks. They were all her family could afford.
This self-styled artist learned to draw as soon as she learned to write and now enjoys the convenience of a 15 by 10 foot studio in her Hulen Meadows home.
The studio will be open for the public to view about 30 of her recent works from 1 to 9 p.m. Sunday. On display for the third annual open house will be Indians, western life, wildlife, and Indian sandpaintings, which she was doing long before she moved to the valley about 13 years ago.

Because she was reared near a Sioux Indian reservation, her favorite subject is Indians and a portrait of their life. Books on the subject crowd her bookcase. She is particular about correct detail of traditional dress and customs. Because of her attention to detail, the U.S. Department of Interior has recognized her ability by asking for a photographic collection of the Indian paintings for reference purposes. She has portrayed Nez Perce, Sioux, Navajo, Apache, Pend Oreille, Cree, and Blood Indians.

Mrs. Keim began commercial work about 14 years ago and has worked strictly on commission this past year as her work has been so much in demand. She works mostly in oils and has done magazine and newspaper work in black and white and at times is busy with poster work.
One of her greatest recognitions was the portrayal in oils in 1968 of the Kid Curry $100,000 train robbery of the Great Northern No. 3 near Wagner, Mont., July 3, 1901. The painting was reproduced in color post card form and has proven popular. In 1969, Mrs. Keim purchased the painting, back and sold it to an art collector in Kansas. She plans to depict the western history of the Ketchum area through use of the ore wagons soon.

Paintings done by the local artist are distributed in nearby every state and locally are on display in the Ketchum First Security Bank, the Casa Del Sol, and other spots throughout town.
A life size oil painting of Chief Joseph is also hanging in the Hinawatha Hotel, Hailey, and was on display at Herrott's gallery, Twin Falls, at one time.
Mrs. Keim's first art show was in 1955 in Nebraska, where her "Ruins of Manila," which now hangs in her living room, took second place in the state fair. Recently, she has been invited to exhibit in Great Falls, Kallispell, both Montana, and Lewiston and Boise, but has been so busy working she has not had the time.

She is also included in the Directory of Idaho Artists and Craftsmen, Boise, where slides of some of her paintings are displayed.
The black bear is the only big game animal originally found in all 48 of the continental United States.

Reproduction Prohibited
Colored illustrations of U.S. postage stamps, whether or not canceled, are prohibited. Federal law prohibiting such color reproductions carries a possible criminal penalty of 15 years in prison, a $5,000 fine, or both.

Projects approved

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Law Enforcement Planning Commission approved Wednesday statewide law enforcement projects totaling $1,100,000 for fiscal year 1971.

The plan will be submitted to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration for final consideration.

Richard Hughes, Boise, commission chairman, said the total represents the amount of federal money Idaho is expected to get under the Omnibus Crime and Safe Streets Act.

He said a total of $7,285,170 worth of projects were submitted by various law enforcement agencies in the state. The figure was trimmed to $1.2 million by actions of the three regional law enforcement planning commissions and the commission's staff.

Local law enforcement departments, courts, corrections and juvenile delinquency projects totaled $891,750 and state requests totaled $207,250.

Assault hearing delayed

TWIN FALLS — A preliminary hearing for a Twin Falls man charged with assault with a deadly weapon has been continued for two weeks, by Police Judge Harry Turner.

Robert Geller, county prosecutor, requested the delay Wednesday on grounds "about half" of his witnesses are out of town.

The case involves David J. Friebl, 27, who was returned Oct. 1 from West Virginia to stand charges in Twin Falls.

He is accused of stabbing D. A. Garlinghouse in the back late last spring. Garlinghouse received minor injuries when he was attacked from behind. Friebl remains in custody at the Twin Falls County Jail in lieu of posting $3,000 bond.

Training sessions conclude

TWIN FALLS — Hugh Speight, investigator with the department of law enforcement, U. S. Forest Service, regional office, Ogden, Utah, concluded a three day training session in Twin Falls for forest service personnel Thursday.

Attending are rangers, staff personnel and others from the Sawtooth, Challis, Humboldt, Bridger and Teton National forests of Idaho, Nevada, and Wyoming.

Sessions covering the responsibility and authority of forest personnel in law enforcement fields ended today. Training programs are being held in the Twin Falls city hall.

Sawtooth flights attacked

TWIN FALLS — Marden E. Wells, Democrat—candidate for Congress from Idaho's Second District, charged Thursday that the five Congressmen, including Orval Hansen, who took their wives into the Sawtooth primitive area early in September "did so at taxpayer's expense."

"The incumbent Congressman," Wells said, "told the Times-News on Sept. 27 that the helicopters used to transport the wives into the area for an overnight stay did not constitute an expense for the government because the planes had been rented by a government agency on a daily basis."

Wells said that this explanation was made when the Times-News in an editorial questioned the validity of the tour on the grounds that it sounded like a "vacation jaunt."

"It is true that the forest service has the helicopters on contract with the Interstate Helicopters, Inc. for $50 a day on a standby basis."

"But what Cong. Hansen failed to point out is that the contract also calls for a $90 an hour charge whenever the machines are used. So, all the time that the Congressmen, their staff members and wives were playing in the Sawtooths, the taxpayers were picking up the tab at $90 an hour," Wells said.

Wells also pointed out that the Times-News quoted Hansen as saying that the hearing (at Sun Valley on the proposed national park) would not have been held unless some members of the committee could have brought their wives.

"If this is true," Wells said, "then it shows just how little interest the Congressmen had in conducting a legitimate hearing."

Younger men lead

BOISE (UPI) — The director of statistical services for the State Department of Education said Wednesday just under half the superintendents serving Idaho's 106 operating high schools are 45 years old or younger.

Allen P. Jeffries said the ages of 662 superintendents range from 27 to 45, with the highest number — 27 — in the age 35 to 40 category. He said 17 of the superintendents are age 60 or over.

Hansen says restoring environment rates high

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, told constituents in Twin Falls Thursday that "restoring the purity of our air, our water and our living environment will be high on the list of national priorities when the new Congress meets in January."

Flag presented . . .
JOHN BLAYE, student body president of Twin Falls High School, receives a United States flag which flew over the nation's capitol from Rep. Orval Hansen Thursday.

Rep. Hansen toured the Twin Falls area, appeared briefly at the Kiwanis Club luncheon at the Turf Club, and presented a flag at Twin Falls High School in a campaign swing through the area. He plans to return on Oct. 30, when Gov. Don Samuelson tours the Magic Valley in a one-day caravan.

Rep. Hansen commented that pollution is a "battle we simply cannot afford to lose. After more than two centuries of industrial development, the nation is faced with polluted streams, dirty air, despoiled landscapes, eroded shorelines, junkyards and decaying cities."

Rep. Hansen is co-sponsor of a legislative package that would implement President Nixon's 37-point program to clean up air and water pollution. These bills call for action in several major categories, including water and air pollution control, solid-waste management, parklands and public recreation.

"Because of the urgent need for effective federal legislation we will push to complete action on these bills early in the next Congress," he said.

Rep. Hansen also called for prompt Congressional approval of legislation recommended by President Nixon to deal with the recent rash of bombings and terrorism.

"Since the middle of 1969, we have seen an unprecedented wave of explosive bombings across the nation. During the last 18 months there have been approximately 4,300 bombings, 1,400 attempts to bomb and over 35,000 threats to bomb," Rep. Hansen added.

"President Nixon has sent to Congress two bills designed to deal with this menace," he said. "One bill would broaden the scope and increase the penalties under existing federal laws which prohibit the transport of explosives across state lines for illegal purposes. A second bill would make explosive materials less accessible to criminal elements by regulating the importation, manufacture, sale and storage of explosives."

Rep. Hansen returned to Eastern Idaho following his Magic Valley appearance, planning to swing through Preston, Paris, Montpelier and Suda Springs today.

ENTHUSIASTIC YOUNG READERS may be even more enthusiastic in the future because of the "new look" in the Twin Falls Public Library children's department. Open house at the newly remodeled and redecorated facility was attended

Precincts hold 'key' vote roles

TWIN FALLS — League of Women Voters from Twin Falls will again be serving as "key precinct" reporters for the American Broadcasting Co. national election coverage Nov. 3.

Two "key" precincts have been selected in Twin Falls County. One is Filler first precinct, voting at the Filler High School. Mrs. Bill Morrison will man the polling place as the ABC "key" reporter.

Another selected precinct is Twin Falls Precinct 3, voting in the county courthouse annex. Mrs. Jerry Shano will be the reporter here. Precincts

Camas ballots list 5 races

FAIRFIELD — Camas County voters will have five contests in the Nov. 3 election.

There is competition for posts of state senator and representative, county assessor and county commissioner—in both the first and third districts.

Incumbent Don G. Fredericksen is opposed in his bid for re-election as state senator for District 22 by Charles Leo Barron, Republican. The incumbent, a Gooding cattleman, has served many terms. Barron, son of former state senator Lloyd Barron, has been active in GOP circles.

Incumbent state Rep. Vernon F. Ravenscroft, Democrat, is opposed by Republican Ken Bradshaw, a Wendell businessman and newcomer in the political field. Ravenscroft replaced Joe McCarter as candidate for the state post after McCarter was appointed state Democratic party chairman. Ravenscroft was defeated in the primary where he sought the gubernatorial nomination.

On the county level, assessor Edward V. Rangan, Democrat, is opposed by Lylo Huffer, Republican. Rangan was appointed to fill an unexpired term and then was elected at the last general election. The GOP contender, an Idaho native and World War II veteran, is active in the American Legion and currently is grade school custodian.

Dwight Osborne, former district legislative chairman for the GOP, is opposed in the race for first district commissioner by William H. Wilson, who received write-in votes in the August primary. Both are farmers in Camas prairie.

Earl Wilson, Corral farmer and cattleman, who has served as commissioner in the third district for many years, is opposed for re-election by John K. Humphreys, Corral farmer. Humphreys was drafted by the Republican party to run for the post after receiving 15 write-in votes in the primary.

Unopposed candidates include Estelle Vaught, Republican incumbent, for clerk; Robert G. Newhouse, Republican, prosecuting attorney; and Loy L. Vanakke, Democrat, incumbent treasurer.

Camas county is divided into two precincts. Persons living west of main street in Fairfield vote in the Camas county courthouse while those east of Main street vote at the American Legion Hall.

Court hearing slated for holdup suspects

TWIN FALLS — A Police Court. The hearing, scheduled to start at 10 a.m., has been set for Lawrence Lang, 31, and Terry Hartley, 23. Twin Falls Police

Corneal surgery performed

BOISE (UPI)—Eye surgeons performed the first corneal transplant in Idaho at St. Alphonsus Hospital Wednesday. The Idaho Daily Statesman reported today.

The paper said the patient was an unidentified 61-year-old man. It said the hospital recently obtained the necessary equipment from the Idaho-Oregon Lions Sight Foundation.

St. Alphonsus has been designated the center for eye surgery under recent consolidation of services between that hospital and St. Luke's, the story said.

The patient, who had suffered loss of vision several years ago from corneal scarring secondary to corneal ulcers, was reported recovering satisfactorily.

The eyes for the transplant were obtained through the Lions Eye Bank network in Seattle, the newspaper said.

Almo home destroyed

ALMO — The home of Ida J. Cahoon was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon. The blaze was believed to have started in the attic, either from the oil furnace or defective wiring.

Only a few pieces of furniture were salvaged. Mrs. Cahoon said her son, Arlie Cahoon and Bert Tracy were on the place at the time, but were unable to get help. They noticed the smoke and attempted to enter the burning house, but the heavy smoke drove them out.

have charged them with robbing the Safeway store in the Lynwood Shopping Center and escaping with $3,842.25.

Police said the robbery occurred about closing time on Aug. 21, when two men, at least one of whom arrived, forced store employees to lie on the floor while the assistant manager opened the safe.

Hartley was arrested Sept. 3 after an intensive investigation by local officers. Lang was taken into custody 18 days later. Both are free on bond.

Snow falls over area Delegate pick due

SHOSHONE — Richfield, Hiley and Shoshone each had one inch of snow this morning with three inches at Fairfield, according to the district highway office here.

It was Richfield's first snowfall of the season and snow was still falling at midmorning. Rain was reported in the Burley, Rupert and Twin Falls areas.

CASTLEFORD — Delegates to the Idaho Parent-Teacher Association convention will be chosen by the Castleford PTA at a meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the high school.

Mrs. Lynn Johnson, president, said youth from the community will present a musical program.

School visited . . .

Realtors list goals for 1971

BLISS — A membership of 1,000 for 1971 is the goal of the Idaho Association of Realtors, Jack Osgood, Boise, executive vice president, told the North Side Board of Realtors at a meeting at the Oxbow cafe here Wednesday night.

A report was given by James Muffley, Gooding, on the proposed landlord lien law which will be presented at the next legislative session.

A film was shown by E.Z. Thayer, Hagerman. At the Nov. 11 meeting to be held at the Manhattan Cafe, Shoshone, a taped speech by the president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards will be heard.

John LeMoine, Hagerman, was host for the October meeting.

Sawtooth issue views divergent

BOISE (UPI)—As you might suspect, the three candidates for Congress from Idaho's Second District do not quite see eye to eye on the Sawtooth-White Clouds recreation area and park controversy.

Their views range from incumbent Rep. Orval Hansen's endorsement of the recreation area and national park proposals to Joel Anderson's belief in multiple use to Mardon Wells' preference for state control.

Hansen, 43, a lawyer in private life, is seeking his second term in Congress from the Second District. Prior to his election to Congress, he served four terms in the Idaho House of Representatives and one in the State Senate. A Republican, he is from Idaho Falls.

Wells, 51, is the Democratic nominee for the office. He is a Roberts farmer and is state president of the National Farmers Organization.

Anderson, 32, a Pocatello businessman running for office on the American Party ticket, ran for Congress two years ago on the American Independent Party ticket. He said although he once again is a candidate this year he is not campaigning.

As Hansen sees it, the two highest priority needs in central Idaho "are to prevent the deterioration of the Sawtooth Valley . . . which will result from the planned, sprawling, honky-tonk development . . . (and) . . . to protect the White Clouds Peaks area from destructive mining and prospecting practices."

"In order to accomplish these purposes and to protect the unique scenic and recreation values in the area we need the kind of federally-sponsored development and regulation that will protect these values," Hansen said.

"This can be accomplished by the creation, initially, of a national recreation area that would preserve private ownership and maintain the grazing character of the ranch land and permit limited logging and mining to the extent that it does not interfere with the principle recreation function," he said.

"The high country, with exceptional scenic values, does not lend itself to multiple use and can be adequately protected either by a recreational area or national park status."

Wells said protection is needed to prevent "any destruction of resources or environmental things such as would be done by open strip mining."

"If we can handle this we ought at least to be given a chance to handle this under 'state and local conditions,'" Wells said. "If we can't then put it under federal control but I'd like to keep the federal government out. If we can."

"We need to protect the grazing rights and other rights already established in all the areas."

Anderson's approach was not quite the same.

"I like the statement Governor (Don) Samuelson made the other day that we don't need to increase taxes. What we need to do in Idaho is increase income," Anderson said. "In one way I tend to be in favor of using our natural resources but with restrictions on damage and what they do to our terrain."

"Just to say we use the Sawtooth range for nothing but recreation I don't think we can get that way about it," he said.

"I think the two can fit together."

All three candidates consider the Vietnam War one of the three top problems facing the nation today but two of them — Hansen and Wells — put the domestic economy ahead of it.

Control of inflation is the biggest problem confronting the nation, according to Hansen. He said his solution will require a combination of "fiscal restraints and monetary policy" — limitations on federal spending, a balanced federal budget, and "an orderly conversion from what has been a wartime economy to a peacetime economy."

Wells sees the domestic economy as the top-rated problem and he said the solution to that would be to "make the money a little more available (and) get the interest rates lowered to small business."

Anderson didn't mention the economy during his interview but hit out instead at the nation's "involvement in foreign affairs where I don't feel we really have the interests of the United States at heart."

"I honestly feel a lot of our politicians are only politicians just out for their own benefit and many are selling the United States down the river,"

he said. "Treaties and agreements with Russia — they talk like these agreements are so important when any student of history at all should know an agreement with Russia isn't worth two cents. I don't care what it is about."

He said the politicians are "just snowing the public" and he said the Vietnam War is a good example of this. He said that "at one time I would have advocated we win the war and go in there and fight it but I think I would learn more toward getting out of there now."

Hansen said he feels restoration of peace in Southeast Asia is a key problem and to solve it suggests continuing the President's policy of "withdrawing American troops and building up the capacity of the South Vietnamese to defend themselves and at the same time exploring every possible avenue that might lead to negotiated settlement."

Wells said the United States needs "to get our commitments out of the Far East as rapidly as possible." He said any further military commitments "should be on a basis of win and not a police action."

"I think in all foreign commitments we should ask our-foreign allies to stand on their own feet and we should serve in an advisory capacity," Wells said.

Both Anderson and Wells mentioned social unrest among the nation's "criginal problems. Anderson said it "goes back all the way to the basic problem — the politicians are trying to make us believe things that just aren't so," Wells said. "We need to give consideration to those people who feel like they're being oppressed and are not part of the established part of our society."

Hansen listed the "environmental crisis" among the top three problems in the United States today and said his solution "will require effective federal leadership, a partnership effort by state and local government, by private industry and by the citizens."

"The federal role should be one of defining acceptable standards of air and water quality, conducting programs of research and development to improve the technology necessary to clean up pollution, and provide for efficient waste disposal and financial assistance to state and local governments in their own efforts to clean up pollution," Hansen said.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Keep Child Occupied With Her Own Projects

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Donna's worried letter about her inactive eight-year-old. Since they live in a rural area, many more outdoor activities are possible. Give her a small patch of ground for her own vegetable garden and let her sell the produce for spending money. It is fun to watch things grow and she can be taught easily to tend her little plot.

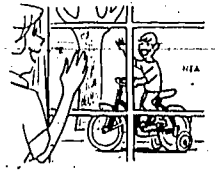

Why not let her have a farm-type pet, or pets, to raise and care for? Ducks are fun if space and finances are limited. Of course, a pony would be ideal for exercise and encouragement to get outdoors.

Put a table under a shade tree and plan some quiet activities such as coloring books, modeling clay, watercolor painting, jewelry making, etc. Also make arrangements to pick up some other little girl once a week to spend the day and share in these activities. And, finally, what is wrong with unplugging the TV and forbidding its use in the daytime?—ANNA

DEAR POLLY and DONNA—Ever hear about WORK? It is great exercise and almost a necessity for building a responsible citizen these days. I would not dream of allowing my children to watch all the television they want or to eat any time they want. They may have a SMALL snack in midmorning and midafternoon but they certainly do not do as they please. I have four boys, the oldest five, and believe me, he knows what work is. It is fun. He waters and feeds the dog and rabbits, pulls weeds for the rabbits, gathers eggs, empties trash and finds a job well done is rewarding. For play, he rides a bike. He is seldom in the house during the day when the weather is good. Only one hour of daytime TV is allowed and that is a kiddie show in the afternoon. After supper, if the boys are not too tired, we all watch some television.

May I suggest that Donna turn off that TV. When the little girl asks what she can do, give her a chore—teach her responsibility and then reward her with praise. You are doing her no favor letting her do just as she wants.—SON-DRA

DEAR POLLY—The many answers for Donna, whose eight-year-old only enjoys eating and watching TV, boiled down to teaching responsibility, helping, companionship and praise for jobs well done. I am sure Donna will appreciate all your good wishes and suggestions.—POLLY

Bank adopts pants suit

By United Press International
The National Bank of North America has included the pants suit in its new fall wardrobe which has been designed for the staff of over 600 women tellers. Besides the pants suit, the fall collection of career apparel features a midcalf dress which zips open from the hemlines to reveal as little or as much leg as desired. A jacket, dress, and skirts round out the ensemble, making it possible for a girl to choose from 12 different combinations on any given day.

DEAR ABBY: I accidentally happened on a sure-fire cure for the hiccups. It doesn't involve any gadgets, it's just an idea. I have used it on my family and friends and it never fails.

I have read up on cures for hiccups in medical books and there is nothing like my idea mentioned. [They suggest breathing into a paper sack, sipping sugar water very slowly and holding your breath. How silly can you get?] With these methods, the hiccups might go away for a minute or two, but they come right back. My hiccup cure takes only 25 seconds and they are gone for good.

Question: Can I sell my cure to anyone? If so, how? Should I advertise in the magazines next to athlete's foot and trusses?

I suppose I could give my idea away for free, but darn it, Abby, everybody is getting paid for ideas these days and I think mine is worth a couple of dollars as hiccups can be a nuisance. I am sure businessmen and people in the field of entertainment would give a lot to get rid of hiccups in 25 seconds.

What advice have you for men? HICCUPS CURER

DEAR CURER: Hiccups can be more than a nuisance. If they persist for hours, days or weeks, hiccups can be a serious medical problem. A sure-fire cure for hiccups would be a valuable contribution to the world. Discuss your cure with a reputable physician. He may not cough up a way to make you rich, but, I promise you, if you have the cure you think you have, it will make you famous.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 20 years to a serviceman and have traveled around and lived in many different cities. I have worked most of the time and have never gotten very friendly with neighbors until we moved to this city two years ago. I have a very close friend now who is a neighbor of mine. She's a divorcee. My husband is presently overseas so this neighbor and I are together a lot.

We heard from a friend [who is willing to go to court and testify if we want her to] that someone we know said that this neighbor and I have a romantic "thing" going between us. The person who started that story is supposed to be a good Christian.

Of course it is vicious gossip, but we are told it is all over town. I would like to know the best way to handle it.

DEAR BOILING: If I were you, I would forget it. People of quality do not believe such stories, so why should you become upset over something which has no more meaning than the barking dogs?

DEAR ABBY: I have a relative who lives in an old age-home. I invited her to my home for lunch, and knowing that she has five friends at the home, I told her to bring them along for lunch. She did.

The following day I discovered that two sets of sterling silver salt and pepper shakers I had used on my table were missing.

I had never seen any of these five ladies before and there were no other strangers around at the time.

These little articles were a wedding gift of long ago and were precious to me. Would you advise me to mention this to my relative?

DEAR ANXIOUS: Yes.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BUREAU CHIEF": I agree with your husband. While there may not have been one evil or out-of-the-way thought in your head, or in the head of the businessmen who invited you to his hotel with your bathing suit to lunch and swim while you talked business, you should have requested a more businesslike setting. Particularly since you have never met the man before.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 4700, Los Angeles, CA. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Halloween tidbits

Here are some little tidbits concerning Halloween from Hallmark Cards including legends, decorations, customs and parties.

PUMPKIN LEGEND
The tradition of displaying jack-o-lanterns at Halloween started centuries ago in Ireland, according to Flora Mears, who designs seasonal decorations for Hallmark Cards. An Irishman named Jack O-Grady, so the story goes, could not enter Heaven because of his miserly nature, and then was turned out of Hell on Halloween night for tricking the devil. Since then, says the myth, Jack has wandered the earth with his lantern, appearing to human eyes only at Halloween.

HALLOWEEN DECORATIONS
Homes in England and Wales are decorated at Halloween not only with pumpkins, but with corn, leaves, grain, fruits, nuts, potatoes and cabbages. Jeanette Lee, art director of Hallmark Cards, says that the custom goes back to ancient Druid harvest festivals, and even before that to the Roman autumn feast of Pomona, goddess of the orchard.

WITCHES AND CATS
Ghosts, rattling skeletons and witches on broomsticks became part of Halloween celebrations during the Middle Ages, when superstition was rife. But, according to Flora Mears of Hallmark Cards, black cats were associated with Halloween years earlier. Druid priests in ancient France and Britain worshipped Samhain, the God of Death, on Halloween night. The Druids believed black cats were sacred, since they embodied the souls of people whom Samhain had punished.

COURTSHIP CUSTOMS
Who will you marry? The time to find out is on Halloween night, according to art director Jeanette Lee of Hallmark Cards. In Britain, says Miss Lee, girls put chestnuts inscribed with their boy friends' names beside a bonfire. Those that burn evenly are good marital prospects. The ones that pop and burst indicate frivolous flirts. To find a future spouse's initial, Miss Lee suggests following this old European Halloween custom: peel an apple in one continuous spiral, throw it over the left shoulder and the peel will take a form suggesting the first letter of prospective male's name.

SPOOKY PARTIES
The centuries-old festival of Halloween is second only to Christmas as an occasion for children's parties, according to Flora Mears, who designs party goods for Hallmark Cards in Kansas City. A successful Halloween party, says Miss Mears, should have everyone in costume, dim lighting, plenty of "spooky" decorations and facilities on hand for games like apple-bobbing and blind man's buff. To save clean-up chores, Miss Mears suggests using paper party table settings appropriate to the season.

Visions of 1969's debacle plague Cards in preparing for Sunday's Giant battle

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer
Charley Winner has visions of a championship this year. He also has memories of a cold Sunday last December.
Winner's St. Louis Cardinals have been the surprise of the National Football Conference Eastern Division. The Cardinals have won four of five games, losing only their opener to Los Angeles, and are perched on top of their division.

Bomb explodes at rites

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A bomb exploded outside a church Thursday as mourners, including 300 policemen and Mayor Joseph Alioto, gathered for the funeral of a police officer killed in a shootout with a bank robber.

No one was injured when the explosive device, planted in shrubbery about 3 feet from the front door of St. Brendan's Catholic Church, went off with a blast which shook the church and surrounding houses.

Some mourners, police and reporters had already started filing into the church, walking a few feet from the bomb, when the explosion occurred at 9:47 a.m.

The funeral cortege for Patrolman Harold L. Hamilton, 32, shot to death at a Wells Fargo branch bank Monday, was on its way from the funeral home for the services, scheduled at 10 a.m.

"It sounded like a terrible bomb," said a teacher at St. Brendan's School next door. Across the street, Mrs. Edna Peters, said the explosion shook her house.

The blast discolored the front of the stucco-faced, church, built in California mission style with a red tile roof and barred windows, but did no serious damage.

Police and firemen swarmed over the building and sealed off the area. Policemen discounted reports by a resident of "two men" seen fleeing the site and said they believed the bomb was a timed device which had been planted hours earlier.

"We're going to make another fast search of the building and then go ahead with the funeral to show these bums they can't scare us out," said Alioto, his voice shaking with anger.

He blamed the explosion on a "psychotic crew" of terrorists. "We're going to stop this nonsense," he said.

Hamilton was fatally shot in a gun battle with a robbery suspect identified as James Sanchez, 27, Monday at a branch of the Wells Fargo bank after a $605 robbery.

He was the seventh policeman killed this year in the line of duty in the San Francisco Bay area and the fourth in San Francisco itself.

David breaks tradition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Eisenhower breaks with his family tradition of Army service when he enters Naval Officers School Saturday at Newport, R. I.

His grandfather, the late Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, was mainly responsible for steering David into the Navy. The former President did so in the knowledge that his grandson did not want to undertake a lifetime military career.

The general and David's father, John Eisenhower, also a West Pointer, advised David while in college that the Navy "was better for a married man not inclined on a military career."

Agnew on another campaign tour

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, grimly fending off noisy and persistent heckling, charged Thursday "a little band of unwilling men" has been dominating Congress and frustrating the will of the American majority.

Starting a new cross-country campaign tour, the vice president clashed with as vocal a group of hecklers as he has faced in his campaign to bolster Republican ranks in Congress.

Agnew glared at the youthful protesters as they shouted "peace now, peace now" and "remember Kent State," their clamor at times almost equalling the volume of the cheers of the vice president's supporters in the crowd of about 800 persons.

At times Agnew stopped speaking until the heckling subsided. At other times his words were drowned out by the chants.

Several times he responded directly to the hecklers. Once, referring sarcastically to their "peace" placards, he said: "I appreciate your support very much but your signs speak with a forked tongue."

"In the last six weeks I have been moving quietly about the country, suggesting softly to American voters that the time has come to rid Congress of the radical liberalism that is deliberately and consciously frustrating the mandate the American people gave President Nixon in the fall of 1969," Agnew said.

"Respect for America, respect for law, respect for the dollars you earn—that's what this administration has been fighting for," he said. "And who has been fighting us every step of the way? A little band of unwilling men who dominate the opposition Congress."

"Will a little band of radical liberals in Washington, with no constituency but each other, succeed in frustrating the will of the new majority of the American people?" he asked.

"Or will that majority, its membership no longer silent, its cause just, its strength increasing, rise up and reject the men blocking the way to progress and prosperity?"

Speaking in an airport hangar during a heavy, cold rain, Agnew applied his "Radical" label to Rep. John C. Culver, one of two Democrats in the Iowa congressional delegation, and endorsed the candidacy of Republican Cole McMartin, a broadest newsmen.

"Any television newscaster who gets my endorsement has got to be quite a guy," he said. It was an obvious reference to his frequent differences with some news commentators.

My Lai trial postponed

FT. HOOD, Tex. (UPI)—The start of defense testimony in the My Lai massacre court-martial of S. Sgt. David Mitchell was delayed again Thursday—this time by the sudden illness of Ossie Brown, Mitchell's civilian lawyer.

The court-martial was postponed until Monday. An ambulance picked up Brown at a Killdeer, Tex., motel near Ft. Hood and took him to the Scott and White Hospital in Temple, Tex. at Ft. Hood

Picket lines extended

BOISE (UPI)—Striking members of the Retail Store Clerks Union extended their picket lines to "lock out" grocery stores in four cities today and filed charges against employer representatives.

Meantime, State Labor Commissioner W.L. Robinson said he had heard nothing further from either side regarding his offer Wednesday to intercede in the labor dispute. But he said he would renew the offer to both.

Jim Kerns, a representative of Union Local 1614, accused members of the multi-employer bargaining unit of "physically" threatening, coercing and intimidating his members. He said that because of this the union has filed charges with the National Labor Relations Board on behalf of the union members.

At the same time, he said, the union has put pickets on other retail grocery stores

Brown was reported to be suffering from a severe ear infection.

"He is in the emergency room now," said a doctor at the hospital. "It doesn't involve any sort of accident."

Capt. James Bowditch, Mitchell's military lawyer, confirmed that Lt. William Calley, most prominent of the My Lai defendants, has been subpoenaed as a defense witness. Calley is charged with murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians.

Calley was Mitchell's platoon leader when their unit allegedly swept through My Lai village March 16, 1968.

The prosecution caught the defense by surprise Tuesday when it rested its case against Mitchell after calling only three witnesses. Brown got a recess until 12:30 p.m. today to prepare his defense.

That recess was extended to Monday because of Brown's illness.

Outdoor magazine backs Cecil Andrus

BOISE (UPI)—Clare Conley, editor of Field and Stream magazine and a former Idahoan, Thursday announced his endorsement of Cecil Andrus for governor of Idaho.

Conley told a news conference the next issue of his magazine will come out for Andrus, the Democratic nominee, over incumbent Republican Don Samuelson.

In making his announcement, Conley expressed "deep concern over the future of Idaho's resources if current 'development-any-cost' philosophy continues."

"After many conferences with Cecil Andrus I'm convinced that the future of Idaho will be better served if he is elected governor," Conley said.

He said that if federal land trends continue as the past year indicates and the governorship of Idaho is not changed, "the door will be opened in Idaho to heavy overuse of timber and mining resources at the expense of the individual."
