Snow greets jet

TWIN FALLS — Hughes Air West's first night jet flight and a snowstorm arrived at the city's county airport at the same time Sunday evening, but there was no problem.

The initial night jet into Twin Falls from Seattle touched down at 8:40 p.m. More than 100 spectators were on hand to witness the first night landing of a commercial jet at the local field. There were 14 passengers leaving the plane here. The near-sellout flight departed on time for Salt Lake City and Los Angeles.

At 9:15 p.m. the first night jet from Los Angeles touched down, also on time. It continued on to Boise and Seattle after 10 passengers deboarded here.

The night jets will continue to land here regularly in addition to the daytime jet at 1:45 p.m. from Los Angeles and Salt Lake and a daytime jet at 4:15 p.m. from Seattle and Boise. Jets into Twin Falls are DC-9 planes of 100-passenger capacity.

Effective in mid-December, officials said, there will be two more regularly scheduled jets landing at Twin Falls on Saturdays only to take care of the heavy passenger loads booked for Sun Valley's learn-to-ski weeks.

Detroit Police battle Panthers

DETROIT (UPI) — Two Detroit policemen noticed a disturbance Saturday night at Myrtle and 14 streets, where Black Panthers were selling literature. They moved in to break it up and nighttime violence erupted.

Eight hours later, one policeman lay shot to death, another was wounded, four police cars had burned and 15 young persons were in custody after keeping police from barricaded Panther headquarters for eight hours.

Acting Mayor Mel Ravitz said the city had been lucky. It could have been "the showdown—a holocaust," but for police restraint and the efforts of community leaders, he said.

Sunday, the seven men and slight women, all between the ages of 17 and 21, were arraigned on charges of first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder.

They stood silent and pleas of innocent were entered for them.

A hearing was set for Friday. The first two policemen said a scuffle developed when they tried to disperse a crowd around Black Panthers selling their literature. They called for help.

About 100 policemen poured into the area, inhabited by low-income whites, blacks and Puerto Ricans. One of them, Patrolman Marshall Emerson, was shot in the hand and another patrolman, Glenn E. Smith, 26, fell with a fatal gunshot wound in the head.

Police surrounded the building from which the gunfire apparently came and blocked off the area. Police Commissioner John Nichols established a command post in an armored car stationed nearby.

Rather than try to shoot their way into the barricaded building, police enlisted the help of black community leaders and public officials, including state Rep. James Del Rio, to try to talk the inhabitants into surrendering.

S. Viets thrust into Cambodia

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese Command said today government troops have launched a new 6,000-man drive against Viet Cong and North Vietnamese sanctuaries in Cambodia with the end of monsoon rains.

Reports from Thailand said six persons, including three Americans, were killed in the explosion of an U.S. helicopter near the Thai-Lao border.

South Vietnamese spokesmen said the government's 5th Infantry Division began the new drive Sunday near Snuol, 100 miles east of Phnom Penh. The city was nearly destroyed last spring in the big American and South Vietnamese campaign into Cambodia.

Reports had circulated in Saigon for a week the South Vietnamese were preparing to move large numbers of troops back into Cambodia as soon as the rice paddy country across the border dried out enough to permit transfer of heavy equipment. The idea was to clear Viet Cong and North Vietnamese concentrations that had built up since the lull in fighting there.

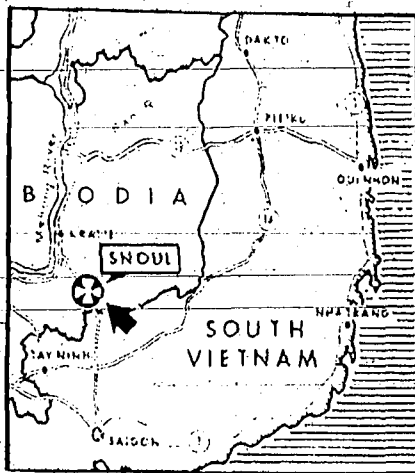

The new operation brought to 17,500 the number of South Vietnamese troops in Cambodia.

U.S. sources said one American was killed and eight wounded Sunday when a truck accompanying a mine-sweeping patrol set off a mine near Hue, 390 miles northeast of Saigon.

Viet Cong gunners bombarded a Vietnamese regional forces militia outpost and a nearby hamlet in Binh Dinh Province, 295 miles northeast of Saigon Sunday. The 30 rounds of 60mm and 82mm mortar rounds killed three militiamen and wounded four other troops and 30 civilians.

Reports from provincial officials in Thailand said an American helicopter belonging to Air America, the charter agency which works for the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) exploded and crashed in a rice field Sunday in Pichit Province.

The area is near the Laotian border. Those killed included three Americans and three Laotians, the provincial reports said. The U.S. Embassy in Bangkok and the Air America spokesman in Bangkok had no details.

4 shot while hunting

GOODING — Two hunters received minor injuries Sunday when they were both accidentally shot by a hunting companion.

Two others were wounded in separate accidents. Gooding County Deputy Sheriff Jim Burke said Louis Jacob Hendrix, La Crescenta, Calif., fired a shot at a pheasant while John Hollifield, Gooding, and Harry A. Cohen, Twin Falls, were in the line of fire. Cohen was struck in the forehead and left ear and Hollifield was struck in the hip. They were taken to Gooding Memorial Hospital for treatment.

The accident, Burke said, occurred about about 9 a.m. Sunday in rural Gooding County.

Two other hunters were taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Saturday for treatment of wounds received in hunting accidents.

Admitted to Magic Valley Memorial hospital for surgery on an injury in the left foot was Carl Joslin, 17, Twin Falls. His condition was listed as good Monday.

Calvin Milam, 15, Twin Falls, was taken to the hospital Saturday morning for treatment of a gunshot wound to the left leg. He was not admitted.

Solon asks 'read draft'

WILDER (UPI) — State Sen. Phil Batt, R-Wilder, has urged Idahoans to read the revised constitution before voting rather than taking "the word of prejudiced editors, large taxpayers advocates, or lame duck politicians such as myself."

Governor sets visit

TWIN FALLS — Gov. and Mrs. Don Samuelson will make a final pre-election visit to Magic Valley Friday in a noon luncheon meeting at the Turf Club.

Ray Lincoln, luncheon chairman, said the governor will address delegates and answer questions on all current election issues during informal discussion following the address.

Sponsored by the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee, the luncheon is open to voters of all parties, Lincoln said, and will feature other prominent state candidates and local candidates. U.S. Rep. Orval Hansen and Mrs. Hansen are also scheduled to attend.

Lanting endorses re-draft

TWIN FALLS — More flexibility under the proposed constitution revision would not mean the Idaho legislature would move to abolish county offices, William Lanting, state representative from Legislative District 24, said here today.

Lanting, speaker of the house, and veteran Twin Falls County legislator, said he feels the proposed revisions in the outdated Idaho Constitution are greatly needed and the new document is a major improvement.

Lanting said his endorsement of the proposed revision is a matter of public record through his vote in the legislature.

"We had some of the best minds in the state working on this," he said, "and they have been delving into it the past five to six years in contrast to the reported 30 days in which the original document was drawn up."

instances the legislature is given more power, but he added, no legislator, who must go back to the people for a vote of confidence—at election-time—would act to abolish a county office or county boundary line if he did not have the full support of the people.

"For example," he said, "there has been an effort to move the driver's license testing program to the state level rather than in the counties but the people do not support this and it has not been accomplished."

"If the legislators are not the people, who are they?" he asked, adding the present constitution will now allow the legislators to "lower the voting age even if the people favor it. Under the new constitution this could be done and the legislators would obviously follow the wishes of the Idaho public on this and other issues, he said.

Honored . . .

CRITIC of President Nixon's economic policies, Professor Paul A. Samuelson was named recipient of the Nobel economics prize. (UPI)

Critic wins Nobel

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Prof. Paul A. Samuelson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) a critic of President Nixon's economic policies, was awarded the 1970 Nobel Prize for Economy today.

The Swedish Academy of Science said Samuelson, 55, won the $78,400 award because "by his many contributions (he) has done more than any other contemporary economist to raise the level of scientific analysis in economic theory."

Samuelson's textbook on economics has sold more than a million copies in 12 languages. His latest criticism of the Nixon administration's economic policies came Sunday in a Boston radio interview when he blamed the administration for failing to create new jobs for persons being turned out of dying industries.

"The combination of winding down the war and the aerospace industry while at the same time trying to fight inflation is hurting and . . . hurting bad," Samuelson said in a radio interview on WBEI's "Bay State Forum."

Women set for panels

BOISE (UPI) — Democratic gubernatorial nominee Cecil Andrus said Sunday if elected he would appoint a woman to every commission and agency where it is appropriate.

He said one need only look to the religious organizations, the league of women voters, the vote rockers, the American Association of University Women and other groups to understand how many talented and effective women are in Idaho.

Soviets protest flight

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government today protested "The Violation" of the Soviet state border by a U.S. military plane and said it was a result of the General military activity of the United States in areas adjoining the Soviet Union.

An official announcement said the Soviet government has lodged a protest with the government of the United States in connection with the violation of the USSR state border by an American military plane on Oct. 21.

The reference was to a U.S. military plane which strayed across the border from Turkey on that date. Two American Army Generals, an Army major pilot and a Turkish colonel aboard the plane have been held in Yerevan, near the frontier.

The protest, the Tass news agency said, reminded the Nixon administration that "in the past three years alone there were more than 10 unlawful violations of the USSR air space."

"Violations of the USSR's air space by American planes happen by no means because of some chance, concurrency of circumstance, but are a result of the general military activity of the United States in areas adjoining the Soviet Union," it said.

Mormons hit movie link

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints throughout Idaho Monday took issue with a filmed endorsement of Gov. Don Samuelson which focuses momentarily on a picture of David O. McKay, the late president of the Mormon Church.

The picture is shown at the end of a filmed endorsement by Clair B. Johnson, president of the Boise stake of the church. The film was shot in Johnson's business office and Johnson said inclusion of the picture is "entirely incidental. I'm sure it wasn't intended. The picture is part of my office furnishings. It just happened to be picked up by the camera."

Dick Hughes, a member of the governor's staff, expressed surprise at the shot. "Are you sure it's a picture of President McKay? I thought it was the president of Mr. Johnson's insurance firm."

Johnson said the church encourages its members to take stands on political issues — however the church never endorses one particular candidate of political party.

Church press secretary Henry A. Smith, Salt Lake City, said the Mormon Church "absolutely" does not have a policy of encouraging stake presidents to endorse political candidates. If they take a stand they do it as individuals, not as stake presidents, he added.

Johnson said, "I don't think my endorsement will encourage my members of my stake to vote for Gov. Samuelson. I'm sure his staff asked for the endorsement because I'm a Boise businessman, not because of my church position."

A member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Boise said, "It's never made the news, but including the picture of David McKay, a former church president, in the film is a church endorsement."

Montreal's mayor re-elected despite long kidnap crisis

MONTREAL (UPI)—Jean Drapeau, who called his opponents soft on separatism and suspended active campaigning during the worst of Montreal's three-week kidnap crisis, Sunday won landslide reelection to a fifth term as mayor of Canada's largest city.

"This is a clear demonstration that there is no place in Montreal for the false prophets, the false messiahs," Drapeau exulted.

In the largest voter turnout in the city's history, Drapeau received more than 92 per cent of the popular vote, and all 52 City Council seats were filled by candidates from his Civic party.

Police guarded polling places, and combat-garbed army troops still stood watch over public officials and buildings against the threat of fresh terrorism by the Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ).

FLQ gunmen three weeks ago kidnaped British diplomat James R. Cross, whose fate still was unknown today. They kidnaped and strangled to death Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

The federal government responded by calling out the army and invoking the emergency war powers suspending civil rights for the first time in peacetime in Canada plunging the nation into its gravest domestic crisis. The FLQ separatists want Quebec an independent Socialist nation.

Drapeau, mayor for 13 of the past 16 years, won a fifth term. The landslide vote for his party meant that "the citizens of Montreal have demonstrated they are 100 per cent behind the three governments—federal, provincial and municipal—and they will never follow those who want to split us apart," Drapeau said.

Sawyer's expenses 'covered'

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (UPI)—The Bingham County Republican Central Committee has reimbursed the state director of administrative services for $61.40 expenses incurred while addressing a rally in Blackfoot.

Joe Stewart, a member of the county central committee, said the group had planned to reimburse Director Edward W. Sawyer from the start but somehow "something got mixed up."

He said the central committee paid Sawyer's bill after members saw a fuss kicked up in the news media over it.

Sawyer hit the headlines last week when he attempted to collect the expense money from the state.

Accountants in the office of Auditor Joe R. Williams questioned whether a political trip was a justifiable expense to the taxpayer and chief accountant Chester Graham took the matter to the Board of Examiners, Republican Gov. Don Samuelson, Sawyer's boss and chairman of the board Examiners, promptly ruled out the claim as unjustified.

Leary plans travel

BEIRUT (UPI)—Fugitive American LSD champion Timothy Leary plans to travel to Syria and Jordan after his stay in Lebanon, sources close to the former Harvard lecturer said today.

Leary spent most of the day refusing to take calls in one of the two rooms his entourage has taken at $46 a day in the St. Georges Hotel on Beirut's swank waterfront.

However, an aide said Leary would give a news conference tonight.

Sources close to Leary said he wanted to study the Palestinian-resistance movement and hoped to travel to Damascus and Amman. But guerrilla sources in Beirut refused to comment on the fugitive professor's clandestine arrival from Algiers or to confirm they had been in contact with him.

Leary arrived late Sunday aboard a scheduled flight from Cairo. He is accompanied by his wife, Rosemary; Jennifer Dohrn, whose sister, Bernardine, is one of the 10 most wanted persons in the United States; the national chairman of the Black Panthers in New York, Martin Kenner, and "Field Marshal" Don Cox of the Panthers' eight-man Algerian staff.

Wid gets GI exams

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—David Eisenhower, son of a West Pointer and grandson of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, today began a series of examinations and routine indoctrination classes at Navy Officer Candidates School (OCS).

The 22-year-old Amherst College graduate, who is married to President Nixon's younger daughter, Julie, reported to OCS at the Newport Naval Base Saturday. He was assigned to Oscar Company, a 25-man unit in a class of about 220.

He secured his uniforms, got a haircut—Navy regulations allow hair up to 2 1/4 inches—and settled in over the weekend. Exams and indoctrination sessions were scheduled for this week.

If Eisenhower, son of John Eisenhower, former Army officer who is U.S. Ambassador to Belgium, completes the 18-week OCS course, he will be commissioned an ensign.

Love... death, both very delicate emotions for man to experience

Yet, love and death usually find us the least prepared to cope with them. That is why today's modern family plans ahead for most of its basic financial needs . . . one of which should be the early selection of an appropriate cemetery property when we are able to make the right decision.

Early selection of a cemetery property makes a good financial investment, not only because of rising costs, but it will eliminate a large expense to the family at the time of need.

Consider these advantages now while you are financially and emotionally able. Consult your family, and let us help you select a modern cemetery property of complete satisfaction to everyone.

Proposals win employe awards

TWIN FALLS — Recognition for U. S. Forest Service employes whose "better ideas" have helped improve various operations of the federal agency was announced today by Sawtooth National Forest Supervisor Ed Fornier.

Awards of $50 each were given Joseph R. Kinsella, formerly on the Sawtooth and now on the Bridger National Forest, and Richard B. Anderson, Halley ranger, for their suggestion on revising sagebrush control programs.

Employe suggestion awards of $100 each were presented to Phil Cloward, Darrell Smith, Bill Williams and Gary Smithley for their combined proposals for projecting studies on timber harvests.

Their suggestion involved the use of slides, projected one over another to give administrative officers an idea of what an area would look like under various timber cutting programs such as clear cut which provides the best timber removal program but often creates erosion or water shed problems.

Smithley is former ranger at Fairfield, now on the Salmon Forest. The three others are all attached to the local supervisor's office.

MRS. PAULINE THOMAS — Ketchum has been chosen for inclusion in the 1969 and 1970 editions of "Outstanding Young Women of America." She is supervisor of the Data Processing office at Sun Valley. She and her husband, Ike, have four children.

Feed slated

GOODING — Annual "pig" feed will be sponsored by the Gooding Masonic Lodge at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Masonic Temple.

All area Masons are invited. Roast pig will be featured. Albert B. Lawrason, King Hill, newly appointed district deputy grand master, will be honored guest.

The Gooding County Republican Central Committee to run for county coroner unopposed. Douglas O. Smith received a qualified number.

Unopposed are Andrew James, Democrat, for prosecuting attorney; Doris Robertson, Republican, for treasurer, and Wesley Trounson, Republican, assessor.

DINNER SET

KIMBERLY — The W.S.C.S. of the Kimberly United Methodist Church will serve a turkey dinner Wednesday from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Kimberly church dining hall. The dinner is an annual event.

Gooding voters will have 5 contests in Nov. 3 election

GOODING — Gooding County voters will have five contests in the Nov. 3 election.

They are posts of state senator and representative, clerk, and county commissioner from districts 1 and 3.

Democratic incumbent, Don Fredericksen, senator from District-22, which includes Camas, Gooding and Jerome counties, is opposing Lee Barron, Corral, a political newcomer to the GOP-ranks. Fredericksen, a veteran legislator, has served on the finance, transportation, defense, fish and game and agricultural committees. Barron, a rancher, is a past president of the Fairfield Chamber of Commerce, a 32nd degree Mason, past state chairman of the Idaho Young Republican Federation, and a graduate of the University of Idaho.

Democratic incumbent, Vernon Ravenscroft, representative District 22-A, completing his fourth consecutive term in the state Legislature, is a lifetime resident of the area and an owner of a small business and has served on the revenue and taxation, resources and conservation, education and transportation committees. He is opposing Ken Bradshaw, Wendell, a Republican, and newcomer to local politics.

A native Idahoan, Bradshaw has served on the board of directors of two major organizations and was on the Wendell City Council for four years.

Ben Glauner, Democratic incumbent, with 12 years experience as county commissioner is opposing Ralph Faulkner, on the GOP ticket. Faulkner, a sheep and cattle rancher, is making his first bid for elective office. He has served on the highway and cemetery boards and is on the American Falls water board.

Glauner, a resident of the Gooding County for 35 years, has served on the fair and rodeo boards.

Clyde Petersen, Republican incumbent, Wendell area, is opposed by Nelson King, a Democratic write-in candidate.

Petersen is completing his first term of office and has been active planning future growth of the Gooding County area. He is a member of the Wood River Steering Commission, past chairman of the Gooding County Planning Commission and a past state representative from the county.

King is running for his first elective office but is not new to public service as he has served on many governing boards and worked with a variety of youth groups. He is experienced in all phases of farming and has experience handling public funds.

Sibyl Stevens, incumbent Democrat, is completing her third term as Gooding county clerk and auditor. She is a native Idahoan and began her business career in 1943 at the Wendell National Bank where she became educated in banking operations. She has served as president of the Idaho Association of County Auditors, on the executive board of the state association of commissioners and clerks, and on the executive board of the state association of elected county officials.

Mrs. Robert L. (Moe) Burden is opposing Miss Stevens for the office on the GOP ticket. She has had 28 years experience in accounting, bookkeeping and payroll departments. She has been a Gooding resident for 11 years. She is treasurer of the Gooding BPW club, past president of the Gooding Credit Club, Gooding County chairman of the American Cancer Society for two years and belongs to the Lady Elks at Gooding.

Nixon prepares blitz

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon grabbed a few hours of rest at his mountain retreat today, preparing for a final campaign blitz billed as his most intense effort yet to win Republican votes in next week's election.

Nixon spent the night at Camp David and planned to return to the White House for a morning meeting with Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu.

The President had two busy days lined up before turning virtually full attention to the election. He planned to leave Tuesday evening on a weeklong campaign stint that will take him to Florida, Texas, Illinois, Nebraska, Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and California.

In all Nixon will have hit 22 states by election day in one of the most comprehensive off-year election campaigns ever undertaken by a president. He will wind up this last campaign at his San Clemente, Calif., home, where he will stay until after the election.

Nixon helicoptered to Camp David Sunday afternoon after a busy day in which he spoke with six heads of state during separate meetings at the White House.

Included in the meetings were Archbishop Makarios, President of Cyprus; Gen. Yahya Khan, president of Pakistan; C. K. Yen, vice president and prime minister of the Republic of China; Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia; Cheng Heng, chief of state of Cambodia, and President Demetrio B. Lakas of Panama.

At 45-minute intervals starting at 10 a.m. EST Sunday, the statemen swept up to the White House in police-escorted limousines and were ushered into Nixon's Oval Office. The six leaders were among the 31 chiefs of state who attended a United Nations anniversary dinner Nixon hosted Saturday night in the White House.

A presidential spokesman said Nixon, in his meeting with Yen, said the United States would continue its support for Nationalist China, and for the nation's continuing membership in the United Nations.

The spokesman also said the Cambodian chief, Cheng, thanked Nixon "in very warm terms for the timely and effective support that the United States has extended to Cambodia."

Future of plan probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency said Saturday that an experiment 22,300 miles out in space may enormously expand and simplify communications on earth.

This possibility is suggested by results from the "millimeter wave experiment" aboard the Applications Technology Satellite-5 launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) Aug. 12, 1969.

NASA said it may be able to "open up the extremely overcrowded microwave band," and thus make available for communications, frequencies in the region above 10 billion cycles per second.

Millimeter wave frequencies, NASA said, make it possible to reduce the size of receiving antennas and also the size and weight of components.

Montreal's mayor re-elected despite long kidnap crisis

MONTREAL (UPI)—Jean Drapeau, who called his opponents soft on separatists and suspended active campaigning during the worst of Montreal's three-week kidnap crisis, Sunday won landslide re-election to a fifth term as mayor of Canada's largest city.

"This is a clear demonstration that there is no place in Montreal for the false prophets, the false messiahs," Drapeau exulted.

In the largest voter turnout in the city's history, Drapeau received more than 62 per cent of the popular vote, and all 52 City Council seats were filled by candidates from his Civic Party.

Police guarded polling places, and combat-garbed army troops still stood watch over public officials and buildings against the threat of fresh terrorism by the Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ).

FLQ gunmen three weeks ago kidnaped British diplomat James R. Cross, whose fate still was unknown today, then kidnaped and strangled to death Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

The federal government responded by calling out the army and involving the emergency war powers suspending civil rights for the first time in peacetime in Canada plunging the nation into its gravest domestic crisis. The FLQ separatists want Quebec an independent Socialist nation.

Drapeau, mayor for 13 of the past 16 years, won a fifth term. The landslide vote for his party meant that "the citizens of Montreal have demonstrated they are 100 per cent behind the three governments—federal, provincial and municipal—and they will never follow those who want to split us apart," Drapeau said.

Sawyer's expenses 'covered'

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (UPI)—The Bingham County Republican Central Committee has reimbursed the state director of administrative services for $81.40 expenses incurred while addressing a rally in Blackfoot.

Joe Stewart, a member of the county central committee, said the group had planned to reimburse Director Edward W. Sawyer from the start but somehow "something got mixed up."

He said the central committee paid Sawyer's bill after members saw a fuss kicked up in the news media over it.

Sawyer hit the headlines last week when he attempted to collect the expense money from the state.

Accountants in the office of Auditor Joe R. Williams questioned whether a political trip was a justifiable expense to the taxpayer and chief accountant Chester Graham took the matter to the Board of Examiners.

Republican Gov. Don Samuelson, Sawyer's boss and chairman of the board Examiners, promptly ruled out the claim as unjustified.

Leary plans travel

BEIRUT (UPI)—Fugitive American LSD champion Timothy Leary plans to travel to Syria and Jordan after his stay in Lebanon, sources close to the former Harvard lecturer said today.

Leary spent most of the day refusing to take calls in one of the two rooms his entourage has taken at $46 a day in the St. Georges Hotel on Beirut's swank waterfront.

However, an aide said Leary would give a news conference tonight.

Sources close to Leary said he wanted to study the Palestinian resistance movement and hoped to travel to Damascus and Amman. But guerrilla sources in Beirut refused to comment on the fugitive professor's clandestine arrival from Algiers or to confirm they had been in contact with him.

Leary arrived late Sunday aboard a scheduled flight from Cairo. He is accompanied by his wife, Rosemary; Jennifer Dohrr, whose sister, Bernadine, is one of the 10 most wanted persons in the United States; the national chairman of the Black Panthers in New York, Martin Kenner; and "Field-Marshal" Don Cox of the Panthers' eight-man Algerian staff.

Kenneth Schenk Funeral Services
RUPERT—Kenneth Schenk, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schenk, Rupert, was killed Friday night in an auto accident near Cascade.

He was born March 12, 1949, in Pocatello and attended school in Pioneer, Washington junior high school and Minico high school. He married Suzan McMillon, of Rupert, Nov. 28, 1969, in Rupert. He was a member of the Paul Congregational Church. While in high school he was a member of the "M" club, an honorary club for school athletes. He was district wrestling champion for three years and state wrestling champion in 1968 while he was a senior.

He was also active in football and track and was voted most preferred man by the senior class girls. He held the office of sentinel in the FFA in 1966. At the time of his death he was a senior at the University of Idaho, Moscow, majoring in agriculture education and had just completed four weeks of student teaching. He had worked on his parents' farm during the summers but last year attended summer school.

Surviving are his wife and parents, a sister, Mrs. Gary (Sharon) Kraus, Rupert; a niece and a nephew, maternal grandmother, Mrs. Carolina Ketterling, Rupert; and paternal grandfather, Gottlieb Schenk, Rupert.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Paul Congregational Church with Rev. Everett H. Gardner, Rupert Methodist Church, officiating. Final rights will be in the Rupert Cemetery. Friends may call Tuesday afternoon and evening and Wednesday morning until time of services at Walk Mortuary.

Ollie Waddell
WENDELL—Mrs. Ollie Lee Waddell, 77, died of a lingering illness Sunday morning at Magic Valley Manor.

She was born Aug. 7, 1893, in Greenup County, Ky. She attended school there and was married to Doc Waddell March 28, 1912, at Dayton, Ky. The couple later moved to Portsmouth, Ohio. Mrs. Waddell moved to Wendell about three years ago to live with her daughter.

She was a member of the Christian Church, Portsmouth.

Surviving are three daughters, Mr. LeRoy (Louella) Schrenk, Wendell; Mrs. Harry (Anna) French, Louisville, Ky.; and Mrs. Gilberta Wallace, Louisville; two brothers, Clarence Brown, Portsmouth, and William Lands, Washington Court House, Ohio, 14 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Three sons, a daughter, three brothers and five sisters preceded her in death.

Private graveside services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Wendell Cemetery by Rev. John Steppert. Friends may call Monday evening, Tuesday and until time of services Wednesday at Leeper Mortuary, Wendell.

Officer's testimony pondered
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The judge in the Tate-Lablancia murder trial was expected to rule today on the admissibility of testimony of a police officer concerning cult leader Charles Manson.

Sgt. Sidney J. Nuckles Jr. testified with the jury out of the courtroom last week that Manson denied March 3 that he had ever been at the estate of slain actress Sharon Tate prior to the August 1969 killings.

The officer said Manson made the statement at a meeting attended by the 35-year-old defendant, a defense attorney, a deputy district attorney and himself.

The same day with the jury still absent, Manson admitted from the witness stand that he had visited the estate where Miss Tate and four others were shot or stabbed to death.

Manson estimated he had been at the residence five or six times but insisted, "I've never been in the house."

The prosecution has suggested Manson masterminded the slayings because a previous occupant of the house, Terry Malcher, son of Doris Day, rejected recordings Manson wanted to put on the market.

Proposals win employe awards

TWIN FALLS — Recognition for U. S. Forest Service employes whose "better ideas" have helped improve various operations of the federal agency was announced today by Sawtooth National Forest Supervisor Ed Fornier.

Awards of $50 each were given Joseph R. Kinsella, formerly on the Sawtooth and now on the Bridger National Forest, and Richard B. Anderson, Hillely ranger, for their suggestion on reviving agebrush control programs.

Employees suggested awards of $100 each were presented Phil Cloward, Darrell Smith, Bill Williams and Gary Smithy for their combined proposals for projecting studies on timber harvests.

Their suggestion involved the use of slides, projected one over another to give administrative officers an idea of what an area would look like under various timber cutting programs such as clear cut which provides the best timber removal program but often creates erosion or water shed problems.

Smithy is former ranger at Fairfield, now on the Salmon Forest. The three others are all attached to the local supervisor's office.

MRS. PAULINE THOMAS

Kelchum has been chosen for inclusion in the 1969 and 1970 editions of "Outstanding Young Women of America." She is supervisor of the Data Processing office at Sun Valley. She and her husband, Ike, have four children.

Gooding voters will have 5 contests in Nov. 3 election

GOODING — Gooding County voters will have five contests in the Nov. 3 election.

They are posts of state senator and representative, clerk, and county commissioner from districts 1 and 3.

Democratic incumbent, Don Fredericksen, senator from District 22, which includes Cantas, Gooding and Jerome counties, is opposing Lee Barron, Corral, a political newcomer to the GOP ranks. Fredericksen, a veteran legislator, has served on the finance, transportation, defense, fish and game and agricultural committees. Barron, a rancher, is a past president of the Fairfield Chamber of Commerce, a 32nd degree Mason, past state chairman of the Idaho Young Republican Federation, and a graduate of the University of Idaho.

Democratic incumbent, Vernon Ravenscroft, representative District 22-A, completing his fourth consecutive term in the state legislature, is a lifetime resident of the area and an owner of a small business and has served on the revenue and taxation, resources and conservation, education and transportation committees. He is opposing Ken Bradshaw, Wendell, a Republican and newcomer to local politics.

A native Idahoan, Bradshaw has served on the board of directors of two major organization and was on the Wendell City Council for four years.

Ben Glauner, Democratic incumbent, with 12 years experience as county commissioner is opposing Ralph Faulkner on the GOP ticket. Faulkner, a sheep and cattle rancher, is making his first bid for elective office. He has served on the highway and cemetery boards and is on the American Falls water board.

Glauner, a resident of the Gooding County for 35 years, has served on the fair and rodeo boards.

Clyde Petersen, Republican incumbent, Wendell area, is opposed by Nelson King, a Democratic write-in candidate.

Petersen is completing his first term of office and has been active planning future growth of the Gooding County area. He is a member of the Wood River Steering Commission, past chairman of the Gooding County Planning Commission and a past state representative from the county.

King is running for his first elective office but is not new to public service as he has served on many governing boards and worked with a variety of youth

COMMENT

Mr. Nixon

St. Louis Post-Dispatch Though many of the critical elements remain to be spelled out, President Nixon's Indochina peace plan as announced Wednesday night embraces in principle significant and welcome changes in his position.

If those changes are translated into specific negotiating instructions at Paris, and if he prevents their erosion by resistance from Saigon, he offers real grounds for hope that doors may at last be opened to peace. It would be a bitter tragedy indeed if statesmanlike proposals introduced at the peak of an election campaign shrank to a restatement of irreconcilable positions behind closed doors at the peace talks.

Mr. Nixon is now ready, and he says Saigon is ready, to accept the kind of cease-fire in place which he has opposed heretofore. He is ready for immediate negotiations on the terms by which all combat including bombing would halt, and all forces would remain in the positions they now occupy. He suggests supervision by international observers, and guarantees against any buildup of outside forces. If as reported he makes this offer against the advice of the Pentagon, that is the best thing to be said about it.

A cease-fire would be unattainable, of course, except as part of a negotiating process whose framework made possible a compromise political settlement. Here too there are important changes in Mr. Nixon's position. For the first time he offers as part of a settlement to withdraw by agreed timetable all American troops, not just the combat forces which represent about half of the U. S. commitment. He calls for a settlement which reflects the existing balance of forces in South Vietnam, and promises to abide by the outcome of the political process thus set in motion.

At this point the plan becomes a trifle murky. Does Mr. Nixon still insist that the Thieu-Ky regime remain intact and in control of the political process he says he will accept? Without a Saigon government which wants a compromise political settlement there will not be one, and the Thieu-Ky regime as now constituted cannot qualify as such. Yet it is notable that Mr. Nixon omitted his usual verbiage about not imposing a government, which means imposing the one headed by Thieu-Ky. What he did not say on this crucial element may or may not be significant, but one can hope.

The proposal for an all-Indochina peace conference to seek an integral settlement covering Laos and Cambodia as well as Vietnam is constructive. The President does not say so, but it would have to include China as well as Russia and the other Geneva powers. His statement that the essentials of the Geneva agreements of 1954 remain valid as a basis for settlement could mean, and we hope it does, acceptance of the principle of military neutrality for all of Indochina, the indispensable condition of an agreement.

If Mr. Nixon is genuinely willing to abandon this country's 16-year effort to secure a military base in Indochina, a historic turning point in American policy has been reached.

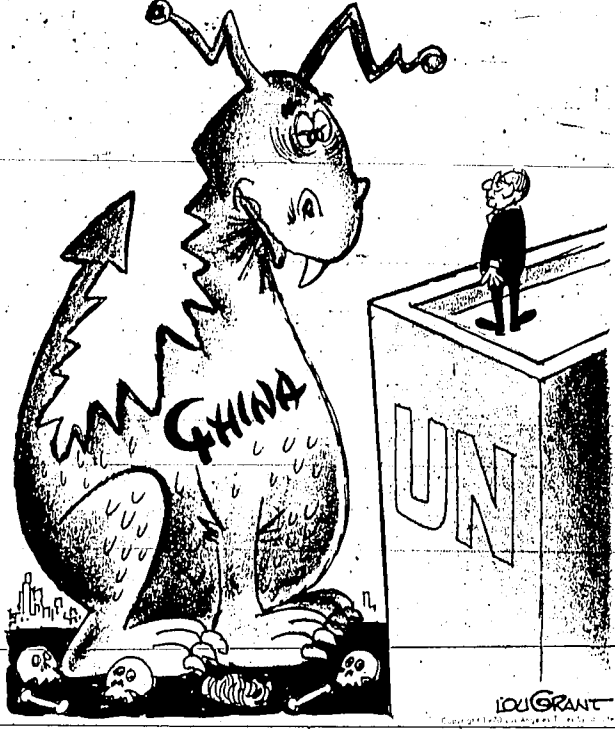

How the all-Indochina peace conference would be related to the Paris peace talks is unclear. Mr. Nixon seems to suggest continuing the Paris talks while simultaneously organizing the larger negotiation. It is possible to envision the Paris talks arranging a military armistice covering the cease-fire, withdrawal of troops and exchange of prisoners, followed by negotiations for a political settlement in a reconvened Geneva conference. The President urges immediate and unconditional return of prisoners; the Communists now offer to negotiate on prisoners prior to final withdrawal of troops. There should be room for accommodation here.

On the whole, Mr. Nixon's statement was sober, responsible, constructive and free from the inflammatory rhetoric of the past. We commend him on it. If final judgment must be reserved it is only because, in previous administrations as well as this one, stirring peace promises at election time have so often been followed by a dismal descent into the old military stalemate thereafter.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — This reporter has had long private talks recently with Mr. Do Quang Giai (pronounced Zhai), whom some Americans refer to as the "Senator Fulbright of South Vietnam." Like Fulbright, Giai is chairman of his country's Senate Foreign Relations Committee. And he's a leading and vocal political opponent of his country's president and his administration. (Actually, Giai is the deputy chief of the major opposition bloc in the Senate. But there the similarity ends: Giai is violently anti-Hanoi. He is a vice-president of South Vietnam's anti-Communist League. Though he's willing to give the vote and the privilege of running for office to South Vietnam's Communists if they pledge themselves to renounce force, he firmly believes the Communists will not be willing to lay down their arms and live in peace. Giai thinks President Nixon's disengagement policy is well-conceived and well-carried out. Now there are several reasons why Giai does not see eye to eye with his American counterpart, Fulbright. For one, three of Giai's sons, nationalist guerrillas in the war for independence against France, were killed by Ho Chi Minh's Communists. They were not killed in battle but during a period of truce at a time when the Communists and nationalists were allies. One son made the mistake of advocating continued resistance to the French during a period when Ho secretly had allied himself with Paris (while publicly proclaiming unity with nationalists and war against the "foreign colonizer") in order to use French arms and French help to destroy the nationalists. The Communists preferred destroying the revolution if the revolution would not mean a Communist-run government. Another son was picked up and jailed by the Communists, also during the truce. So far as Giai was able to find out, he was never charged with a crime. But he was killed in prison. A third son disappeared in the interior of North Vietnam. Giai, after persistent searching, discovered that this son, too, had been murdered by the Communists. For how can these men trust a coalition? Or how can other men trust a coalition, knowing of these experiences? Can one honestly say the men in Hanoi have changed? Is there evidence of this? And if there is no evidence, then how is lasting peace to be achieved except by helping the South Vietnamese to build themselves politically and economically to a point where the war winds down simply because the Communists do not have the strength to force their will?

When one listens to Giai talk in his quiet voice, one sees the obvious personal modesty and sincerity and thinks of the troubles he and others who have tried to work with the Communists have been through. It is difficult to see how the Paris talks could reach any agreement which has any hope of succeeding. For how can these men trust a coalition? Or how can other men trust a coalition, knowing of these experiences? Can one honestly say the men in Hanoi have changed? Is there evidence of this? And if there is no evidence, then how is lasting peace to be achieved except by helping the South Vietnamese to build themselves politically and economically to a point where the war winds down simply because the Communists do not have the strength to force their will?

"CANADA SAYS I'M HOUSEBROKEN"

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Penicillin

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For some time I have taken penicillin for colds and viruses. Four years ago I had a rheumatic fever attack, and was in the hospital and took penicillin daily.

Last winter I went to the hospital with a virus and was given a penicillin shot. I had a very bad penicillin reaction. I want to know why this happened. Is it because my system has too much penicillin in it? If so, will it gradually go away so I can again take penicillin? What will happen if I do take more penicillin? — Mrs. T. F. Folks with penicillin reactions have my sympathy, but I have no patience with anyone who gives anybody penicillin for a virus. Penicillin does not affect viruses.

Nearly all colds are from viruses. The only excuse for giving penicillin for a cold is if a secondary, bacterial infection follows the cold. Penicillin attacks bacteria but not viruses. When you had rheumatic fever, which is a dangerous illness caused by bacteria (streptococcus), there was very good reason for giving you penicillin. Somewhere along the way you became sensitized by penicillin. That's about the same as becoming allergic, and the next time you had penicillin, along came the reaction. The difference is that some (not all) penicillin reactions can be very serious indeed, even fatal.

These reactions, to which a certain proportion of people become subject, are an excellent reason for not using penicillin except for good reason. If you hadn't spent years taking penicillin "for colds," it is quite possible that you would not have become sensitive to it, or at any rate possibly not so soon. This is not a matter of your system having "too much penicillin in it." You have become sensitized to it, and you will remain so. It will not "gradually go away." From now on, you must avoid penicillin, even in small amounts, and by all means tell any doctor you see that you have had a penicillin reaction, so he won't give you any more of it. If you have another reaction, it will be as bad as the first one.

Empysemata can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How To Control Emphysema," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK On Albert Gore

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The economic cloud so suddenly darkening once-glowing Republican hopes across the nation is what makes effective a flyer mailed out last week to 160,000 Tennessee labor-union families and handed out to thousands of other workers at non-union plant gates.

The flyer, produced by the Tennessee AFL-CIO, charges that the Chattanooga candy company owned by the family of Rep. William Brock improperly attempted to bar unions from its plant. "No working person can afford union-buster Brock in the U. S. Senate," it concludes. "Protect your job, your family, your union."

Only a few weeks ago, such political propaganda would have had little effect on blue-collar workers massively defecting to Republican Brock against a liberal Democratic Senator, Albert Gore. What has changed is the economy. Accelerating job layoffs since the beginning of October have suddenly revived bread-and-butter issues such as "union-busting."

The result: Albert Gore, given up for dead last summer when he barely squeaked through the Democratic primary, is a possibility for resurrection. Private polls of a week ago showed Gore some eight percentage points behind Brock, still a formidable lead but shrank to half its size of a month earlier.

The national significance of Gore's having any chance of riding the worsening economy to victory can scarcely be underestimated. If the once-certain triumph in Tennessee is in doubt, national prospects for significant Republican gains Nov. 3 must be written off.

The irony is that even loyal Democratic supporters concede Tennessee has been moving rightward during the 1960s and that Gore's Southern liberalism is an anachronistic here. Moreover, Tennessee's Republican party is the strongest in the old Confederacy, having won control of the state House of Representatives in 1968. Therefore, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew scarcely seemed to be taking a chance when he designated Gore Senatorial target No. 1.

Brock is still likely to win. But the fact that old liberal Gore even has a chance in these closing days of the campaign uncovers some harsh facts of life for Republicans: that un-deviating conservatism is

ANDREW TULLY Square In Me

WASHINGTON — It is not quite time to compare baseball favorably with the Salvation Army as an institution for good, but something good occurred in that sometime sport at the conclusion of an exercise presumptuously referred to as the World Series.

(World Series? Any sandlot team in Japan could clobber the pathetic Washington Senators, whose multimillionaire boss, Robert Short, is now pleading that the taxpayers subsidize his collection of ham-handed louts.) What happened is that when Baltimore finally defeated Cincinnati for the championship of the continental United States, everybody involved was seized by an attack of class. The Orioles couldn't find enough nice things to say about the Red, even acknowledging that things might have been different had Cincinnati's pitching staff been at full strength. For their part, the Reds publicly were almost ecstatic in their praise of the "great" Baltimore club, especially that vacuum cleaner at third base trademarked Brooks Robinson.

It is the square in me, I suppose, but I was moved by the tribute paid by the Reds' Sparky Anderson, to his opposite number, Earl Weaver. Said Anderson, on an unusual visit to the victors' clubhouse, "Weaver did a great job. I think it's criminal he wasn't named the major-league manager of the year." And then, "The Orioles conducted themselves like gentlemen. It was an honor to play them."

Some readers will argue that to comment on a baseball tournament is reaching too far for a Washington columnist. Obviously, I dissent. A lot of things go into the making of the people of this country, and although I reject baseball's claim to special privilege as a kind of institutionalized Thomas a Kempis, it is indeed a fact that seldom the surest road to victory and that the "mild" economic recession of 1970 may prove a horrible blight, stunting the party's growth.

this game of rounders has a remarkable impact on kids. For better or for worse, the tads are inclined to pick their heroes from the professional baseball world. Too often, this is for worse. I should not like a son of mine to model himself after the pitcher, Denny McLain, who may have proved himself the greediest and most ill-mannered player of all time. A player named Richie Allen — long ago was dropped from my pin-up gallery for his boorishness and foul-mouthed, paranoid abuse of his peers.

Whole teams sometimes have left a bad taste in the national mouth. After the umpires stole the World Series for the New York Mets last year, they turned arrogant and outish in pursuit of extra-curricular loot and jeered openly at the inefficiency of the losing Orioles. Well, it's a money-grubbing business and I suppose we should not expect better manners from semi-illiterate ball players than are exhibited by bankers, stockbrokers and politicians. That perhaps is the point of this essay — that kudos are in order when a ball club does show a touch of grace.

To encase it in a nutshell, the Orioles and Reds have struck a blow for those who argue that athletics helps to build character. That this premise is suspect in so many quarters where the art of jackstrappery is practiced should not make a kind word for certain of these athletes illegal. Baseball may not save us from our rapid descent into national boorishness, but people like Sparky Anderson and Earl Weaver have done their part. Enduring their grace under pressure, I find myself comparing baseball favorably with tennis, a sport long hailed as the polliest of athletic endeavors but which in reality is the cattiest.

BERRY'S WORLD

"This is AWFUL! Junior's living in a hippie commune and it says he's from an upper-middle-class family instead of an UPPER-CLASS family!"

The High View

THE LEWISTON TRIBUNE There is reason to believe that husbands everywhere would take a less dim view of women's liberation if that movement would help to solve a problem that's almost universal. It's the matter of 40th birthdays.

For some reason that's never been clearly explained publicly, a woman's 40th birthday is an awesome thing. And there seems no foolproof way for a man to help a woman observe the event. For example, a fellow named Jack Goodman of Toronto, Canada, decided the other day to honor his wife. He rented the rear windows of 25 taxis for signs reading, "Happy Birthday Carol Goodman on your 40th birthday. Love, Jack."

Her reaction: "My God, it's not my birthday! I have two more days to enjoy being 39!" Thus did another husbandly effort at being Mr. Nice Guy go right down the drain.

With women's liberationists helping, it might be possible to do with female 40th birthdays what this nation long since did to 13th floors in hotels: Go right past them, as if they weren't there. Then, women could move happily from an anxious but sprightly 39 directly into the serenity of a matronly 41.

Egypt forces new Mid-East debate

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Egypt forced the U.N. General Assembly into another full debate on the Middle East today despite U.S. fears it could torpedo efforts to reopen Arab-Israeli talks.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad was to lead off the debate, which became the first order of business following the U.N.'s 10-day 25th anniversary celebrations. The General Assembly was to open at 11:30 EST.

There was the possibility backstage consultations might bring postponement of the start of the debate for a day or two. The United States and Britain, although not publicly opposing the Arab demand for the debate, privately have expressed fears a diplomatic disaster could result from the charges and countercharges.

Lt. Calley to take statements

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. William Calley, accused of murdering 102 South Vietnamese civilians in the alleged My Lai massacre, left Ft. Benning late Sunday for Saigon to take depositions for possible use in his "life or death" court martial.

Calley was accompanied by Maj. Kenneth Raby, his military defense counsel, and Capt. John Partin, assistant prosecuting attorney, on the flight to Vietnam, which an army spokesman said normally takes "about 24 hours." However, there was no itinerary available, the spokesman said.

Calley's attorneys were granted permission in a preliminary hearing to interview prospective witnesses in Vietnam. Military law permits Calley to be present when such statements are taken.

The South Vietnamese government earlier had declined to allow the witnesses to come to the United States for the trial.

Calley, a 27-year-old native of Miami, has been ordered to stand a capital court-martial and could receive the death penalty on conviction.

Calley was a platoon leader of the Americal Division in the My Lai area on March 16, 1968 when the alleged massacre took place. His court-martial has been postponed twice. No new date has been set.

Calley was the only one of the dozen Army men accused in the purported incident who faces possible death on conviction.

30 cars derailed

FARMERS, Ky. (UPI)—Some 30 cars carrying highly inflammable cargo derailed from a Chesapeake and Ohio railroad (C&O) train Sunday, several of them erupting in flames.

This community's 400 residents were evacuated from their homes.

Firemen tirelessly fought the flames in several box cars and one tank car. Two tank cars containing liquid petroleum were close to the burning ones, according to police.

Several firemen suffered minor burns. They were treated at Morehead hospital for minor burns and released.

Hoover 'paper tiger'

ALGIERS (UPI)—Black Panther Eldridge B. Cleaver says the escape of Timothy F. Leary from the United States shows FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover is a "paper tiger."

Cleaver, in an interview with UPI Sunday, also accused U.S. authorities of trying to sabotage his movement's work abroad. Cleaver is "information minister" for the Black Panthers and has been living in Algiers for a year.

Leary, an ex-Harvard lecturer and hallucinatory drug advocate who escaped from a California prison Sept. 13, turned up in Algiers with his wife last week. He flew to Beirut Sunday and Cleaver said he was going on to Jordan to study the Palestinian Liberation Movement.

Cleaver, speaking at his Black Panther hilltop headquarters in the residential Al Bir district, declined to reveal how Leary reached Algiers. "All I can say is that I received a phone call at home from my office saying Prof. Leary had arrived. This simply shows that Jack (J. Edgar) Hoover and his FBI is a paper tiger."

He said Leary would not join the Black Panthers but "we have quite a bit of common ground, and I am satisfied he will give a positive contribution to strengthening our position."

Cleaver also said "U.S. authorities have been trying by every means to sabotage my work," but he declined to give details.

In the interview, Cleaver also declined to identify a "Miss Dohrn" who arrived in Algiers and accompanied Leary to Beirut. Bernardine Rao Dohrn, 28, is a leading Weatherman and on the FBI's most wanted list. Her sister, Jennifer, is not wanted for any crime.

Plans to introduce Leary and Miss Dohrn at a press conference last week failed when the Algerian government banned the gathering. Cleaver said that Algeria had granted Leary political asylum, but there was no confirmation from the government.

Leary arrives

BEIRUT (UPI)—Timothy F. Leary, the hallucinatory drug advocate who escaped from the Chino, Calif., prison Sept. 13 arrived in Beirut Sunday, possibly on his way to Jordan to study the Palestine Liberation Movement.

Leary arrived on a plane from Cairo accompanied by a Negro and a white girl. His companions were not identified and the trio disappeared after leaving the airport.

Nursing homes in spotlight

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. David H. Pryor, D-Ark., says a national forum he sponsored last week to spotlight nursing home problems was the turning point in his campaign against what he regards as a national scandal.

"The response has been magnificent. Letters have been pouring in here from across the nation," Pryor said in an interview. Before the forum he had complained about the problem for months without success.

"I was just reading a letter from a lady in New Jersey who went out to visit her 95-year-old mother in a nursing home," Pryor said. "She found they had moved her to another home because her Medicare had run out. People just don't know who to turn to in situations like that."

Pryor introduced legislation earlier this year asking for a congressional investigation of the nursing home industry. But it got nowhere and he now is considering repeating his forum on a regional basis, to build up public support. "If I can find some means to finance them,"

Newspaper backs Andrus

BOISE (UPI)—Democratic gubernatorial candidate Cecil Andrus received Sunday the endorsement of the Idaho Statesman newspaper, which in the past consistently gave the nod to the Republican party.

The lead editorial said Andrus was the better choice for the office since he consistently supported adequate funding for education and supported the 1966 sales tax. He supports public school kindergartens, and he voted to convert Boise State College to a state institution.

The paper said Andrus had indicated he is concerned about the over-reliance on property taxation in financing local government, and he has taken a position against further tax increases at the state level.

The editorial statement said the major education issues of the past decade were the sales tax and the funds—it would provide for schools. "Andrus recognizes that one of the primary purposes of the sales tax revenue was to ease the burden of property taxation," the Statesman said, "and Samuelson's statements indicated he has not recognized it."

The paper said it would have supported a Republican candidate if that person had a record that could be upheld. The editorial stated, "In this case we feel that the question of better leadership for Idaho must come first, no matter what the party preference of the voters."

In other statements endorsing state candidates, the Statesman said W. Anthony Park would do a better job as attorney general than incumbent Robert Robson.

Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy was endorsed because, he the editorial stated, neither of his opponents could match his knowledge of state government, and he could probably work well with Andrus, if he is elected.

Superintendent of public instruction D.F. Engelking received the nod as did incumbent state auditor Joe T. Williams and state treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon.

Nixon meets Romanian

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon met today with President Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania on the eve of the start of an intensive final week of campaigning for Republican candidates in the Nov. 3 election.

Refreshed after a night at Camp David, the presidential retreat near Thurmont, Md., Nixon met with Ceausescu in the last of a series of meetings with world leaders.

Heads of state came to Washington Saturday night for a Nixon dinner in observance of the 25th anniversary of the United Nations. The President talked with many of them Saturday night and then held conferences with a half dozen of them Sunday.

Crash said inevitable

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—At the altitude at which the Wichita State University chartered airplane was flying it was impossible for it to escape its crash which killed 30 persons including 13 members of the school's football team.

Edward Gaydos, chief of the aircraft performance section of the Federal Aviation Administration, was the second to last witness to testify at a four-day hearing which ended Saturday into the crash of the Martin 404.

Once the plane was in the valley, there were three options available to pilot Danny Eugene Crocker and copilot Ronald G. Skipper, Gaydos told the National Transportation Safety Board (NTSB) inquiry panel.

The options were: To make a right bank up a dry gulch to the top of the Continental Divide; make a left bank over Loveland Pass; or make a 180-degree turn.

One-by-one he ruled out the options as a means for the aircraft to escape the valley.

The plane was 2 1/2 miles from the divide and would have had to climb 1,700 feet to top it, he said. Its climb rate was only 240 feet per mile which means the plane would have crashed 1,000 feet below the summit when it reached the Divide.

The distance to Loveland Pass was 1.75 miles and the amount of climb needed was 1,000. The same rate of climb would have brought about a crash somewhere around 480 feet below the summit, he said.

A 180-degree turn would have been impossible because the plane couldn't have maintained sufficient speed to make such a turn in the 3,000-foot wide valley, Gaydos said.

South's growth rapid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new interpretation of the 1970 census figures has revealed that the south—long considered a poverty region—outstripped the rest of the country during the last decade in rate of industrial growth and in income and education gains.

A Census Bureau staff worker told UPI the change was "fantastic." The revelation resulted from work done by statistical researchers at the Census Bureau who were pulling together fresh material for a speech last week by Census Director George H. Brown.

"A century after the Civil War, the decade of the '60s was a turning point in our history for the South," Brown told an international conference on population priorities at the University of North Carolina.

Perhaps the most revealing finding was that for the first time since the 1870s more people migrated into the South during the past decade than migrated from the South to other regions.

"Between 1940 and 1950 the South lost over 2 million persons through the net effect of migration," Brown said, "and between 1950 and 1960 1.5 million were lost."

Nixon plans trip

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — President Nixon will come to Utah next Saturday to throw the full weight of his office behind the senatorial aspirations of Rep. Laurence J. Burton, R-Utah.

Sketchy details of the President's visit were released Friday by Burton and they confirmed rumors that had been circulating since the President's last visit here, July 24, that he would return for a purely political visit on behalf of Burton.

Burton said the President will arrive in Salt Lake City in the evening of Oct. 31, apparently on the return trip to Washington, D.C., from Southern California, and will deliver a "major address" about 7:30 p.m. mdt in the 15,000-seat special events center at the University of Utah.

The White House in Washington, D.C. earlier announced that the President would speak in Anaheim, Calif., Friday night after several days of campaigning on behalf of Republican candidates in the Nov. 3 general election.

Burton also said a public rally will be held for the President when he arrives at Salt Lake City International Airport but further details of Nixon's visit to be announced later.

President Nixon's last visit here, which was billed largely as non-political, was on July 24 when he visited with the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and attended the final night of the Days of '47 Rodeo in the Salt Palace.

At that time, Burton, who is running for the U. S. Senate seat held for two terms by Frank E. Moss, indicated the President would return for a purely political visit before the general election.

The President is the biggest gun of an arsenal of weaponry that Burton has trained on Moss in his attempt to wrest the U.S. Senate seat away from the Republicans.

Just this week, the President's eldest daughter, Tricia, visited Burton and Ogden and campaigned for Burton and late last month, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew campaigned here with a hard-hitting speech that tried to link Moss with the "radicals" of the "eastern establishment."

Close race seen

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — There are no clear-cut favorites as Tennessee's superheated campaign for senator and governor go down to the wire.

Senate liberal Albert Gore is battling his political life against hawkish Rep. William Hooker Jr., making his second try for the governorship, is emmeshed in an equally tough fight against Republican Winfield Dunn.

Policies of the Nixon administration figure in both contests, particularly those concerning the Vietnam War, Tennessee Valley Authority electricity rates and inflation.

Hooker, 40, an attorney-businessman from Nashville, with ties with the Kennedys, and Brock, 39, an heir to a Chattanooga candy fortune and an adamant Nixon advocate, appeared to have healthy leads early in the campaigns.

But Gore through constant espousal of his philosophy of populism and Dunn by his well-organized efforts to throttle Hooker with a pincer movement from East Tennessee and West Tennessee have certainly narrowed the perhaps closed the gap.

The 82-year-old Gore, a leading critic of Nixon's war policies, has been campaigning hard for more than a year in this politically changing border state where Republicans now control the other U.S. Senate seat, four of the nine seats in Congress, and the lower House of the state legislature.

Lead curbed in gas

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Most of the large oil companies have introduced nonleaded or low-lead gasoline in their major marketing areas.

The move followed demands by government and the public to cut down on pollution-contributing exhaust from automobiles. Now, however, there is a fear of more damaging health hazards from the new fuel.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines, in a recent research report, said "fuel alterations from leaded to unleaded changed emission characteristics so that the pollution effect was increased by as much as 25 per cent."

The Oil and Gas Journal, trade publication of the oil industry, said unleaded fuel could "very well pose new and serious health problems."

It added, "Getting the lead out alone won't end the smog problem."

Lead in motor fuel is used to combat ingredients that cause an engine to knock. It also boosts the octane rating enough to provide smoother running and better mileage.

If lead antiknocks are not used, the Oil and Gas Journal said, "gasoline will contain greater concentrations of aromatics. Effects of these exhaust materials have not yet been determined, but they could very well pose new and serious health problems."

There are other dangers, too, researchers say. Recent studies continue to argue removing lead is not the answer.

"Neither tetraethyl lead or nalogene-containing scavengers of lead have any detectable effect on the smog-forming potential of automobile exhaust," said a study by the Midwest Research Institute.

That study said eliminating the lead from gasoline will not reduce the amount of photochemical smog formed from auto exhaust, but may increase it.

Demos seek new power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The contest for control of the Senate involves more than just the management of the Nixon legislative program on one side of the Capitol. Control also carries the power to undertake or head off congressional investigations, which can be potent political weapons to damage the occupant of the White House.

political investigations led to the resignation in 1958 of Sherman Adams, then President Dwight D. Eisenhower's chief deputy in the White House. While denying that he had done anything wrong in accepting favors from Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine who was in trouble with government agencies, Adams said he was quitting to avoid hurting the administration and Republicans running for office that year.

In their drive to continue domination of the Senate, Democrats are well aware that they may want to use this congressional power during the second half of President Nixon's term.

Putting an investigation together usually requires staff examination of tips alleging wrongdoing or mismanagement, an eager committee chairman and encouragement from his party leaders in the senate.

Republican pressure for Adams' resignation intensified after the defeat of Sen. Frederick G. Payne, who had accepted favors from the same Boston businessman, in Maine's last election two months ahead of those in other states. Payne lost to a relatively obscure Democrat, Edmund S. Muskie, now the front-running prospect for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Senate committees also have opened hearings to photographers and television news cameras whenever a majority of the committee so voted. The House finally adopted the same rule just before Congress adjourned this month.

Another House investigation with political reverberations sent Algor Hiss, a former State Department official, to prison for perjury for denying participation in Communist activities. That 1948 Republican inquiry provided the flight deck for the political takeoff of a freshman congressman named Richard M. Nixon.

"Eggonomy" in Beefamato casserole

Editors on the search for economy and good nutrition in food markets found a new answer in Beefamato, a drink that beefs up economy cooking. Introduced at the Duffy-Mott press session, this ruddy blend of beef broth and tomato juice had appeal as a drink with a plus.

It also scored as the flavorful liquid for economy dishes such as an egg and rice casserole poached in the beef-tomato drink. (Editors tasted this in a mini-version made with quail eggs.)

The new drink follows the success of Clamato, clam and tomato blend first introduced at Food Editors Conference two years ago. Beefamato is a winning flavor blend, familiar to home cooks who have combined beef broth and tomato juice for a clear broth of unusual appeal. Excellent chilled and poured from the quart bottle, 16-ounce can, or individual container, the Beefamato also scored as a cooking ingredient. Home economists for Duffy-Mott Co. pointed out that this offered an inexpensive source for beef flavor in thrifty main dishes.

There were other new products in the group of "Food for New Life Style with Nutritional Plus" — ten new Snack Pack products, fruits and puddings in easy-opening, easy-to-spoon-from jars, handy to tuck into lunch boxes or serve for snacks. New flavored cider, too, with cinnamon added. . . a new harvest for shoppers.

ADD FLAVOR and nutrition to a one-dish meal of rice and eggs. Cook them in ruddy Beefamato, a savory blend of tomato and beef broth.

EGG AND RICE BEEFAMATO CASSEROLE:
2 tablespoons oil
1/4 cup diced green pepper
2 tablespoons minced onion
1 cup uncooked rice
1 can (16 ounce) Beefamato
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 eggs
1 lb. Cheddar cheese, grated
Heat oil in a shallow 1-1/2 quart casserole or deep 9-inch skillet with a cover. Cook green pepper and onion until soft. Add rice and cook, stirring until lightly golden. Add Beefamato and salt. Bring to a boil, cover and reduce heat. Cook for 20 minutes. Uncover and make four hollows at top of rice.

BETTY CANARY

Strike Blow for Mothers' Lib

By BETTY CANARY

Cooler weather brings on the queries of young mothers who face the prospect of being trapped within four cozy walls. They are asking, "Is this all there is?"

For the young mother who spends most of her waking hours cleaning shoe polish off the basement walls as she sighs, "Thank heavens, he didn't spray it in his eyes!" all I can tell her is — no, this isn't all there is. There's the mess little Susan made on the bathroom sink with the striped toothpaste, and, as soon as you've finished that up, you'll notice the garbage on the kitchen floor.

Most of these women are careful to mention how very much they do love their children. After all, they know any mother who doesn't whoop with delight over the prospect of spending 24 solid hours a day trapped inside the house with preschoolers is regarded with suspicion. They know that in this country "young motherhood" is considered an exalted position — one preceded in honor only by a Girl Scout holding a piece of apple pie while she salutes the flag.

However, the important thing is learning how to live into OLD motherhood and how to reach that point in life with a mind reasonably intact.

I see no reason to waste time giving tips, such as how to lock up the toothpaste or how to set the garbage on top of the refrigerator. They already know these things. They also know kids who can pick locks designed to mystify Houdini and kids who can push chairs and stand on them and make a bigger mess by spilling garbage on themselves as well as the floor.

I can't tell them the most successful old mothers I know got that way by thinking of themselves almost as often as they thought of others. They didn't survive by being soft. They may have looked soft on the outside, but, inside, they're strung together with piano wire. They didn't find time, they made time for themselves, even if, at first, it was only an hour a day. (You can always hire a sitter for an hour. Take the money from the grocery budget and list it under Food for Thought.) The successful woman learns early on that making herself into a blotter for the family is not the key to a long or happy life.

I'll admit it is easier to play the rôle of Woman as Blotter. You begin by soaking up your husband's thoughts instead of thinking on your own. Continue by letting the children's interests rub off on you instead of pursuing your own interests. During the early years as a W.A.S. you'll have a sense of purpose, what with being so useful. After awhile, however, one is likely to become a worn-out, frayed, blue, smudged sort of female without any identity to call her own.

Trailer safety

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Highway Safety Bureau has proposed new standards to provide safer towing of trailers by vehicles using ball and socket type hitches. The regulations would become effective Jan. 1, 1972.

In a companion consumer information regulation, the bureau would require manufacturers of passenger cars to provide information on trailer towing performance. "A passenger car pulling a trailer is four times more likely to be involved in an accident than one that is not," the bureau says.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am 40 and well established in the college teaching profession, married and have two children. My wife and I were childhood sweethearts. We are active in church and community affairs. Ours is a truly good marriage except for one thing: Our sex life has gradually come to a standstill. We have talked about it, especially in the light of my being more fit, vigorous and energetic than most men my age. She says she cannot help it — the spark just isn't there anymore. It's not menopause either.

Otherwise we are compatible. We hardly ever argue and we never fight. We still say to each other, "I love you," and we really mean it.

I recently met a woman of beauty and breeding. I am positive that this woman would be my mistress if I asked her to. Why should I not allow such an alliance to develop?

ABOUT TO JUMP

DEAR ABOUT: Because your "solution" would present more problems than the problem itself. You say yours is a truly good marriage — and you "love" each other. Have you insisted that your wife see her doctor to find out what's new in the "spark-reviving" department? (Or are you accepting her inaffirmance in order to justify taking up with someone else?) Also, this woman of "beauty and breeding" must have feelings, which might lead her to becoming emotionally involved with you. Then what?

You boast of being more energetic and vigorous than most men your age. How about showing some real manliness and strength and sticking to your marriage vows? Isn't that what you would expect your wife to do if your batteries went dead?

DEAR ABBY: When we were married, a friend gave us a nice wedding gift. When she discovered it was a duplicate of one we had already received, she offered to take it back and exchange it for something else. She even asked me what I needed, and I told her.

Several months passed and no sign of a gift. Then I ran into this person accidentally, and she immediately remembered that she hadn't replaced the gift. She apologized all over the place saying she had "forgotten." Again she asked me what I needed, and again I told her.

Well, it's been over a year now, and still no gift! I suppose she "forgot" again. Should I remind her?

STILL WAITING

DEAR STILL: No. Look at it this way. You started with no gift from her, and you still have no gift. So you aren't out anything.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old girl who has just learned that I must have dentures. I have already accepted this fact so that isn't my problem. I carry insurance which will pay for my dentures, but my problem is that there is a real big mouth in our insurance department and I am sure she will tell everybody in the office that I am getting false teeth.

I would almost rather pay for them myself. Is there a solution?

DEAR FALSIES: Oddly enough, some big mouths also have big hearts, so why not "confide" in her and appeal to her sense of honor and kindness? I'll bet she rises to the occasion and keeps her mouth shut. (P. S. If at age 24, I were told I had to have dentures, I would check with the best dentist in town, and maybe two dentists just to be sure. The better the dentist, the harder he will try to save teeth.)

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 68766, Los Angeles, Cal. 90066. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

FIREMEN WAGE a vain battle to save the Shrine of the San Juan Catholic Church, San Juan, Texas, from a blaze which erupted when a small plane crashed into the roof of the main

S. Carolina campaign based on racial appeals

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI)—Albert Watson officially opened his campaign for governor with the televised declaration: "The majority of our people must decide the future of our state." The message to South Carolina's 75 per cent white electorate was clear.

Watson, a congressman closely allied with Sen. Strom Thurmond—and who has the tenuous support of President Nixon—is counting on the race issue to make him South Carolina's first Republican governor in 97 years.

His Democratic opponent—and the candidate who probably has a slight edge going into the final week of the campaign—is Lt. Gov. John C. West, a skilled but colorless politician known across the state as a racial moderate.

West is running basically the same kind of campaign conducted by South Carolina's last three governors—Ernest F. Hollings, now a U.S. senator; Donald Russell, now a federal judge, and Robert E. McNair, the incumbent prohibited by law to succeed himself.

None dwell on race, although this state has a ratio of one white for every two blacks, second only to Mississippi's nearly one-to-one. Once elected, the governors carefully nurtured an image of moderation and were proud that South Carolina had little racial strife compared with other Deep South states.

The television program in which Watson started his campaign last month included films of black rioters clashing with police in Watts and Washington.

"Are we going to be ruled by the bloc?" Watson asks as the film rolls. "See what happened in Watts and in the nation's capital."

The Greenville News, which usually backs local Republican candidates, promptly branded Watson's appeal as "racist to a disturbing degree." Greenville's Republican mayor, R. Cooper White, refused to appear at a Watson rally, charging his campaign was "polarizing the state."

Watson denied the accusation but, after showing the film for one week, withdrew it. The commercial that replaced it shows Watson backers attacking West for supporting Hubert Humphrey for President in 1968 and for making a speech at a dinner honoring NAACP leader Roy Wilkins.

By contrast, West opened his campaign with the statement: "I will not by word or deed or action do anything to inflame or polarize class against class, rich against poor, color against color."

But West did make one pitch for the segregationist vote. The stocky, white-haired lieutenant governor surprised many backers by loudly denouncing federal pressures for "social experimentation" in South Carolina's colleges.

Nixon pushes capital project

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The story goes that during his inaugural parade, John F. Kennedy commented that Pennsylvania Avenue looked shabby. He soon appointed a council to do something about it.

A few weeks ago Richard M. Nixon, confessing privately that he had strolled on Pennsylvania very few times during his many years of public life in Washington, took a little tour to see what has changed since Kennedy became appalled at the situation nearly 10 years ago.

Nixon quickly concluded not enough had been done, and ordered: "Let's get going with the project."

What Kennedy started, and Nixon is now pushing, is a grand scheme to spruce up America's most famous avenue—the 1.2 mile northwesterly stretch of Pennsylvania Avenue connecting the Capitol and the White House.

Others have had the same notion, starting with Pierre L'Enfant in the 1870s. Now the goal of Nixon and the avenue's biggest zealot—nationally known architect Nathaniel A. Owings—is to get the street ready for America's Bicentennial celebration in 1976.

There are big hurdles. Enabling legislation is stalled in the House Interior Committee. Some downtown businessmen claim the plan is a $100 million bonanza and would take away some of the main shopping areas of the nation's capital's predominantly black population.

The Indiana-born Owings, often controversial and always flamboyant, designed the Chase-Manhattan Bank Building in New York and the 100-story John Hancock Building in Chicago. He lives in California's Big Sur country.

He served as chairman both of Kennedy's Pennsylvania Avenue Council and the President's temporary commission that succeeded it. The panel's grand plan—unmistakable bears his imprimatur.

"I don't believe in the modern idea of tearing things down," Owings says. "Things that are old or seemingly out of place can be like a rifle on a beautiful woman's cheek."

And so Pennsylvania Avenue may become a sort of collage of American history—a little old, a little new, a little ordinary, a little extraordinary. The most striking changes at the ends of the avenue would be a crescent-shaped reflecting pool at the foot of Capitol Hill and a "national square" near the White House.

Midway, "a great educational spine" would stretch from the Hirshhorn Art Gallery to the federal City College—a two-block wide, 15-block long shaft running north and south across Pennsylvania Avenue.

Interspersed would be several new buildings, restored townhouses and shops, sidewalks of old brick lined with sycamore and linden trees, and the present complex of federal buildings.

The National Square is one of the most controversial parts of the plan.

Owings says it would give the capital a plaza at last in the tradition of Trafalgar Square in London and the town squares of New England and the middle west.

The National Square would serve as a reception ground and gateway for White House tourists, Owings says, and would open up space around the Treasury Building, which he calls "a delicate jewel."

Some people have suggested tearing down the treasury because it blocks the view between the Capitol and the White House. But Owings says the treasury is a very necessary buffer between the White House and the rest of Pennsylvania Avenue.

The National Square would be about the size of two football fields, with trees, a lot of concrete and a fountain. The south half would be the present Pershing Square. The north half would be on space now occupied by the Washington and Willard Hotels, which would have to be torn down. The "Willard" closed some time ago.

Queen cuts lavish entertaining

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth hasn't had a raise from Parliament and isn't likely to get one until there is a thorough inquiry into royal finances. So she is cutting expenses.

One of the items being pruned is the lavish official entertaining the monarch usually does between now and the Christmas season.

Neither the queen nor the household stress that this is being done. It is all very low key. But sources close to the royal family made clear some time ago that inflation strikes the castle as well as the cottage.

The queen still draws the salary more properly called the Civil List—granted her when she ascended the throne in 1952. This is 475,000 pounds sterling, or $1,148,000. All but 60,000 pounds, $144,000—the queen's "privy purse"—goes for royal household salaries and expenses.

Minnesota has nation's most successful regional orchestra

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—The much-touted American cultural explosion may be fading out in some sections of the country, but not in the twin cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Cultural centers, museums, music schools and symphony orchestras across the nation are feeling the economic pinch due to overambitious expansion during a decade of inflation with the arts. Cutbacks are the order of the day and some institutions, such as the New England Conservatory, face extinction.

Support of the arts by the public and the business community necessary to sustain cultural ferment appears to be more durable in the upper Midwest than elsewhere. The friendly rivalry of cities that face each other across the Mississippi River was a healthy factor in building this support over the years.

The Minnesota Orchestra, formerly the Minneapolis Symphony, has just added a 20-concert series in St. Paul to its two regular Minneapolis series totaling 30 concerts, plus a score of young people's concerts attended by 85,000 students annually. More than 80 concerts in some 35 communities in the Minnesota-Wisconsin-Iowa-Dakotas region will bring the orchestra's audience to a total of 450,000 persons this season.

The Minnesota is the nation's most successful regional orchestra with a tradition of touring that goes back to 1907 when it played Duluth, Moorhead and Grand Forks. It is one of several twin cities institutions that serve a large population area.

The Walker Art Center in Minneapolis, famed for its exhibitions of contemporary art, will reopen next May in a handsome new museum building. The center adjoins that nationally renowned Tyrone Guthrie Theater which has just added a large rehearsal room. The theater houses the seven-year-old Minnesota Theater Company which also performs at the Arts and Science Center in St. Paul where the St. Paul Opera Association has its home.

The Minnesota Theater Company is one of the nation's few successful repertory companies and has performed coast-to-coast. It sponsors an experimental theater, one of several small theatrical ventures in the twin cities, and an Intern program for high school and college drama students. Earlier this month it presented the world premiere of the only known drama by Aleksandr I. Solzhenitsyn, the suppressed Russian author who won the 1970 Nobel Prize for literature.

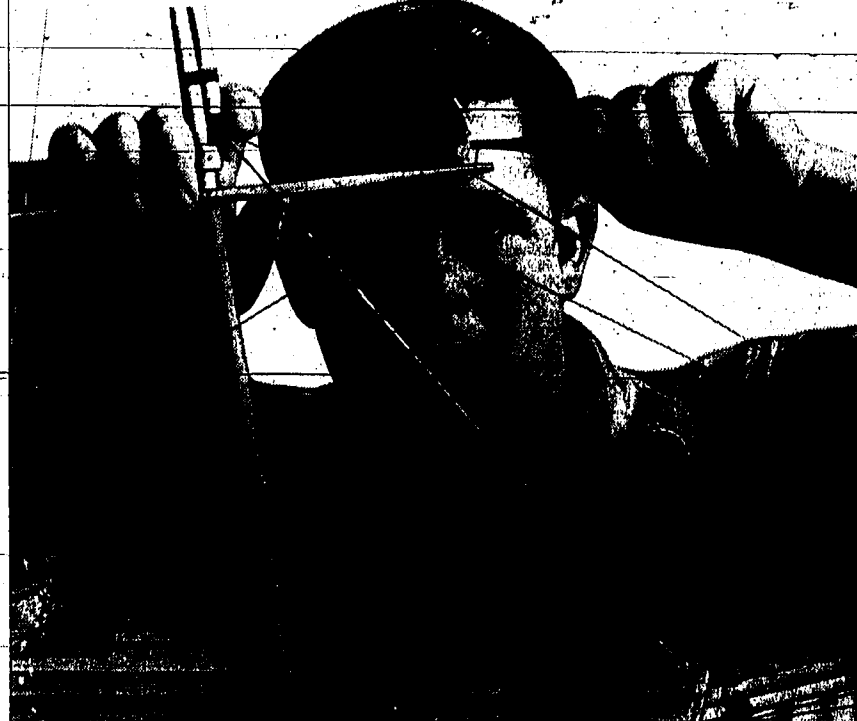

The Minneapolis Institute of Arts is planning to expand its overcrowded gallery facilities for the first time since 1927 so that more of its select collection, one of the nation's best, can be exhibited. The architect will be Kenzo Tange, who was in charge of the overall design of the Osaka World's Fair, Expo 70.

Add to this the concert programs of the University of Minnesota and smaller colleges in the area and you have a picture of one of the busiest cultural regions in the country. Unlike cities which are in the process of decentralizing, downtown Minneapolis and St. Paul are experiencing a building boom which would not be possible if they were sick at heart.

"Things go on in the center of town here," commented Charles C. Fullmer, director of development for the Minnesota Orchestra. "The cities are very much alive and the people are extremely civic minded. More than 200 corporations and businesses are contributing members of the orchestra and provide 65 per cent of the orchestra's financial support."

The new St. Paul Symphony series was made possible by the College of St. Catherine, a 1,300-student institution which has made the auditorium of its just completed, $5.4 million fine arts center available to the Minnesota orchestra.

Old Crow begins with men who love to work with their hands.

The formula that gives Old Crow its special character begins with Robert Landon Curry. It's up to him to mix the exact measures of corn, barley and rye that go into each batch of our country Bourbon.

The first scientific way of distilling Bourbon was invented by Dr. James Crow back in 1835. But giving our Bourbon a handcrafted taste is still an art.

"Between my job at Old Crow and my woodshop at home," says Curry, "there's hardly a time in the day when I'm not working with my hands."

Bob Curry calls on the same craftsmanship making this sailing ship-weathervane as he does mixing grain at our distillery. Over the years, craftsmanship like this has made Old Crow America's best-tasting Bourbon.

Sailing ship-weathervane hull is made by gluing 3 pieces of wood in a "sandwich."

Cut sail from sheet copper. Paint or let it weather naturally.

Make wind direction letters. And now it's getting on toward Old Crow time.

6,300 state legislators will influence politics in decade

WASHINGTON (UPI)—More than 6,300 state legislators, to be elected Nov. 3 from the bottom of the ballot will influence the direction of American politics for the next decade.

Most of them are unknown outside of their home states. Many are unknown within their own districts.

Forty-five states will elect legislators next month. These lawmakers and their counterparts in the five states not holding legislative elections this year will fix the boundaries of congressional and state legislative districts to fit 1970 census figures.

This is the first census since the Supreme Court began to issue its one-man, one-vote decisions in 1961. Previously, it was common for legislatures to ignore mandates for reapportionment after a census. When they did write redistricting bills, the legislators were most interested in protecting seats held by themselves, their friends and fellow members of their political parties.

The trend of the Supreme Court decisions has been toward requiring almost exact equality of population in districts for the election of state legislators and members of the U.S. House of Representatives. The decisions have drastically limited the power of the legislatures to be arbitrary or careless in reapportionment.

But the court has not (at least, not yet) interfered with the power to gerrymander—to shape a district in the form of a salamander, an octopus or an hourglass—for the benefit of the party controlling the legislature.

The court decisions will compel more congressional and legislative redistricting than was ever anticipated after any earlier census.

Hence, the national political parties have been more interested than ever before in winning control of legislatures. Despite the requirement for population equality, the shaping of party control of the national House of Representatives.

A Democratic legislature can shift a Republican area into a safe Republican district and move a Democratic area into a competitive district to improve Democratic chances of dialoging a Republican incumbent. A Republican legislature can do the same for the benefit of the GOP.

After the 1968 elections, Republicans and Democrats each controlled both houses of the legislature in 20 states. Each controlled one of two houses in eight other states.

Minnesota legislative candidates do not run under national party labels and Nebraska's one-house legislature is elected on a nonpartisan basis.

Governors can veto reapportionment bills and legislatures can override vetoes. From a partisan viewpoint, the ideal situation is to have the governor and his party in control of both houses of the legislature in a state.

NEW DELHI (UPI)—A member of the Indian parliament Saturday had a broken American alarm clock delivered to U.S. Ambassador Kenneth Keating who failed to see off Prime Minister Indira Gandhi when she flew to New York because he reportedly overslept.

The oversight caused a stir in the Indian press. The clock gift was the brainchild of M. Sandhi, a leader of the Fighting People's party in parliament. He enclosed a critical letter in the gift package which was delivered to the U.S. Embassy by a woman vendor.

Keating, 70-year-old former U.S. senator from New York, was not at the airport last Tuesday when Mrs. Gandhi took off for New York to attend the commemorative session of the United Nations General Assembly. Reports said he had overslept and was planning action against an embassy employee who failed to wake him up on time.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—When Yvonne DeCarlo made her starring debut a quarter century ago movie actresses were expected to be as full bodied as they were talented.

Today Yvonne is playing a fading movie star in "The Seven Minutes," still well-rounded and more gifted as a performer than in the earlier days.

Her first picture was with Alan Ladd in "This Gun for Hire," but it was "Salome, Where She Danced" that stamped Yvonne as a girl to be ogled.

Two members added to staff of Sawtooth Forest Service

TWIN FALLS — Two new members of the Sawtooth National Forest Service staff were announced Friday by Don Parker, personnel.

Tom Pestotnik, engineer, will transfer to Twin Falls effective Monday to head the engineering staff for the Sawtooth Forest. He succeeds Dick Hahn who transferred to Washington, D.C., several months ago.

Pestotnik graduated in civil engineering from Iowa State University in 1963. He and his wife, Carol, have a small son, Scott, and will make their home in Twin Falls in the immediate future. He joined the forest service in the division of engineering, Washington, D.C., in June, 1963, and remained there for two years, moving to the regional offices of the eastern region in Milwaukee, Wis., in June, 1965.

After approximately one year there, he transferred to the Clark National Forest, Rolla, Miss., from April, 1966, until January, 1968, at which time he returned to the eastern regional headquarters, moving in August, 1968, to the Intermountain region, Ogden, where he has remained until his present appointment.

The other new staff member is Larry Weeks who will become Fairfield District Ranger, succeeding Garry Smithley. He comes to the Sawtooth from the Loa District of the Fish Lake National Forest where he has been ranger since 1965.

Weeks is married and he and his wife, Geraldine, have six children, Dobra, Roland, Marla, Cheryl, John and Rebecca. He graduated with a BS degree from Utah State University, Logan, in 1961, and served as forester on the Payette National Forest in Idaho from June, 1962 to May, 1963, and on the New Meadows Ranger District until January, 1964.

He also served on the Logan District, Cache National Forest before going to the Loa District. Weeks and his family are in the process of moving to Fairfield to make their home.

Fair Wood River Area resource meet set

TWIN FALLS — Voters of Twin Falls County will be able to meet with state and county candidates anytime from 7 to 10 p.m. tonight in the Robert Stuart Junior High School.

The League of Women Voters sponsored candidate fair will feature a brief program and introduction of all candidates, followed by open sessions in which voters may chat with candidates and ask questions of individuals or their representatives.

They may also pick up candidate literature from the various "booths." The program will be broadcast from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. over KTFI radio station.

SHOSHONE — The Wood River Resource Area meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Oct. 29 at the courthouse, Shoshone.

Plans on possible improvements in the big game winter range will be discussed as well as how it be needed improvements might be accomplished, reports Leo Sont-ten, Kolt conservationist here. The forest service, Bureau of Land Management and Idaho Fish and Game Department are working on the project.

The Department of Planning and Community Affairs will also discuss regional planning and HUD-701 planning grants with the planning program.

Don G. Fredericksen, Gooding, chairman of the Wood River Resource Area, announces Fred Baugh, forest service; Don Savaria and Dale Turnipseed, Idaho Fish and Game department, will attend the Oct. 29 meeting to assist with the planning program.

T.F. man elected to post

TWIN FALLS — David R. Mead has been elected to a two-year term on the USO National Council. It was announced today by Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., national USO chairman.

Mead will serve until Sept. 30, 1972 in his current appointment. Firestone said that Mead joins other USO National Council members from throughout the world who represent a powerful source of leadership that enables USO to translate its goals on a local level on behalf of those back home who remember their sons and daughters in the armed forces around the world.

Mead, active in military reserve, is employed by the Idaho First National Bank, Twin Falls.

Victory claimed on park

TWIN FALLS — Morden E. Wells, Democratic candidate for congress, speaking here Monday, claimed victory for all the people of Idaho on the controversial Sawtooth National Park issue.

Wells said our present congressman, the sponsor of the controversial park bill (HR 18500), has conceded on KMYT television that a national park is not necessary to protect the primitive area.

"This is a major victory in our efforts to prevent further federal encroachment on the rights of Idaho citizens," Wells said.

Wells said that Sen. Jordan summed up his feelings on the park over the weekend when Jordan said that "Idaho must not allow honey-tonk conditions to develop in the Sawtooths."

Gem horsemen take top honors at Jerome

JEROME — Two Georgetown, Idaho, horsemen walked away with top honors in the annual Idaho Cutting Horse Association championships here, officials announced today.

The two saddle trophies donated for the open and novice were held Saturday in Jerome at the Storey training stables. Clark won the novice competition riding Holey Pudge, to take the saddle donated by Club 83, Jackpot, Nev., and Kunz classes were won by Don Clark and Dean Kunz, both Georgetown. Cutting events rode Vernal Soaks for the open

Candidate meetings planned

HAILEY — Candidates of Blaine County will be available to meet with voters at 8 p.m. tonight in the Hailey Junior High School, in a public meeting sponsored by the Hailey-Bellevue PTA.

They will also attend a public meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at St. Charles' Parish Hall in Hailey sponsored by the Altar Society. Officials report all state legislative candidates and county candidates will attend.

On Wednesday, Democratic candidates will be shaking more hands and answering more questions during a Democratic party sponsored coffee hour at 8 p.m. in the Bellevue IOOF hall.

Winter
ADVANCE WARNING that winter is on the way came from the weatherman today when Twin Falls residents found they not only had to scrape frost from their windshields but a bit of snow as well. Kay Maybee digs out the windshield scraper before driving to work.

Gooding slates Thursday concert

GOODING — Gooding Junior High School musicians will present a concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Frahm Junior High School gymnasium featuring a wide range of music from Bach to boogie-woogie.

Featured will be soloists and seventh and eighth grade musicians in their first concert of the season. The public is invited. There will be a nominal admission fee.

Snow causes crash

HAILEY — One man was still hospitalized today as a result of an accident late Saturday during a severe snowstorm in the Stanley Lake area.

In good condition in Sun Valley Hospital was Julius Miller, 67, Boise, driver of a pickup. His vehicle collided with another truck driven by John Jones, Jr., 44, Hagerman. Damage to the Jones truck was estimated at $900 and the pickup was demolished.

The collision occurred at the intersection of the Stanley Lake road and Idaho Highway 21 at 6:30 p.m. Idaho State Patrolman Gene Bolton investigated.

Mountain Snowfall harbinger of winter

TWIN FALLS — A last minute reminder on anti-freeze and snow tires was issued today by the weather man with snow ranging from 1 to 3 inches total in the Magic and Wood River valleys and surrounding mountain area.

A total of 11 inches of snow is reported today on the ground at Galena with U.S. Highway 83 over Galena's summit open as a result of Highway crews working through most of the weekend. About two inches of this fell Sunday night.

Hailey has four inches on the ground while Ketchum and Sun Valley report nine inches total depth with about two inches new.

Galena also reported a low temperature of two degrees for early Monday morning.

Deer hunters in the South Hills area found about eight inches of snow at the Magic Mountain Ski area and some 10 inches of snow on Deadline Ridge.

Weather bureau officials at Kimberly reported Fairfield with about two inches of snow reported a temperature reading of 10 degrees while most areas towns had readings of 28 to 32 degrees and snow traces.

In the eastern part of the state, Rigby reported one and one-half inches of snow and West Yellowstone, Mont., received six inches Sunday night.

County clerk's office busy place as court reform nears

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS — About the busiest place in any county these days is the office of the county clerk, auditor and recorder, say area county officials.

Much of the preparation for the court reform is now underway in county clerks' offices and they are preparing for the handling of probate and justice court files and fee collections in addition to those of district courts already in their charge.

Absentee voting is now underway, requiring the time of one employee in larger counties. Other preparations are being made for the Nov. 3 elections, Harold Lancaster, local clerk reports. He said in addition to preparing sample ballots, delivering election supplies and voting machines, and organizing election workers, his and other clerks' offices in the state have been sent copies of public information on the proposed constitution revision and the legislators' salary issues which will be on the ballot in November.

Lancaster said in Twin Falls County at least, these material items are available in his own office and those of other county officials. Approximately 20,000 pieces of information have been mailed by the clerk's office at the direction of the secretary of state.

This is also the time of year the clerks' offices are extending tax levies to the tax rolls and in Twin Falls County there are two full-time district judges with both courts in session at this time.

Burley sets GOP banquet

BURLEY — An estimated 300 Republicans are expected to attend a banquet honoring Governor Don Samuelson tonight, it is announced by James H. Repp, chairman.

Sponsored by the Cassia County Republican Central Committee, the event will be held at the Ponderosa Inn starting with a social hour at 7 p.m. and a dinner at 8:15 p.m.

Gov. Samuelson will speak on campaign issues and various other candidates, including Cong. Orval Hansen, are expected to attend.

State PTA convention to hear national aide

BURLEY — Mrs. William C. Balsinger, Washington, D.C., chairman of Human Relations of the National PTA, will be the guest speaker during the Idaho State PTA Convention Wednesday through Friday at the Ponderosa Inn Convention Center.

Mrs. Balsinger previously served on the National PTA Board of Managers as national secretary and as president of the Washington, D.C. Congress of Parents and Teachers. She has served on a various special committees of the National PTA and now is a member of the committees on busing and national bylaws.

Aside from her PTA activities, Mrs. Balsinger is a member of the coordinating council for an American Education Week observance, the National Committee for Support of the Public Schools, and chairman of the public education committee, Washington Metropolitan Region, National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Mrs. Balsinger will address the Idaho State PTA Convention assembly at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, according to Mrs. Keith Amende, Albion, general chairman of the convention.

The convention will open Wednesday at 9 a.m. with a board of managers meeting which will take up the day. Registration will open at 3 p.m. Wednesday and at 8 p.m. a reception is planned.

The general assembly will open at 9 a.m. Thursday with voting and registration, followed by business meeting. Mrs. Hope Kading will serve as the symposium moderator during the luncheon. Workshops will be held during the afternoon on various topics.

Life Membership dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. Thursday followed by a panel discussion on "Rights and Responsibilities of Youth."

General session will continue Friday at 9 a.m. followed by Mrs. Geri Plumb, president speaking to the group. Panel discussions and committee reports will be heard throughout the day.

Paul Gets Labor Camp

CONSTRUCTION IS UNDERWAY in Paul on what will be one of the state's most modern labor camp facilities. Construction began immediately after the groundbreaking ceremonies with a three-banded shovel manned by Clyde Greenwell, County FWA supervisor; Mayor Harold Wilson of Paul, and Don Wipder, state FHA director, State legislators and other county officials also inspected the site Friday prior Monday's arrival of heavy earth moving equipment. The project is financed by the Farmers Home Administration and will include 80 new living units.

Edwards, Jewell compete

(Editor's note: This is the second of six releases providing information on contested political races in Twin Falls County. The material was gathered in response to questionnaires from the League of Women Voters of Twin Falls. The candidate's own words are used. Today — biographical information on county coroner candidates.)

Cloyce O. Edwards, Republican incumbent, and Herman Jewell, Democrat, both of Twin Falls seek the post of county coroner.

Edwards, 38, attended grammar and high school, specialized law enforcement training school, Idaho Law Enforcement Academy, Idaho State College Burglary Investigation Training School, Civil Defense Management, University of Idaho.

Edwards lists his occupation as owner and operator of Magic Valley Ambulance Service, and Twin Falls county coroner.

Jewell, age 63, attended grade schools in Sullivan, Ind., and Pontiac, Mich; high school, Sullivan, Ind.; Idaho State University, Pocatello; two years Trade and Technical, some night schooling.

Jewell lists his occupation as self-employed office machine service in lower Magic Valley, principally Twin Falls County.

Edwards lists his experience as Twin Falls City police department, detective division; 7 years; operator of Magic Valley Ambulance Service for three and a half years; Twin Falls County Coroner two years and U. S. military service two years.

Jewell lists his experience as, "Have dealt with public all my life. Had some first aid training, have been 4-H leader, member and Leaders Council president. Am charter and incorporator member of Idaho Tax Equity Association, its first state vice president, and presently secretary-treasurer of Twin Falls County unit."

Royalty causes romantic gossip

LONDON. (UPI) — Crown Prince Carl Gustaf of Sweden is in London and so is Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth. And if you think this doesn't add up to hopes and hints of royal romance you don't know the latest gossip in court circles.

Tall, blond Carl Gustaf is 24. Tall, blonde Anne is 20. When the prince is 25 next April he will become eligible under Swedish law to reign as king. Everyone's thoughts in the Swedish court will then turn, if they haven't already, to whom he will choose as his queen.

Anne is now of marriageable age. As a member of the greatest ruling dynasty still functioning she could not be more eligible for the crown of a queen.

The big question these days, when even royalty marries for love, is whether the young people like each other enough for marriage. Royal gossips feel that two attractive people of the same exalted social stratum thrown into each other's company for any length of time have a good chance of falling in love, or at least of recognizing that they belong together.

In addition Carl Gustaf will see his relatives—the royal families of Britain and Sweden are related and both Carl Gustaf and Anne are descendants of Queen Victoria—formally and informally. Queen Elizabeth is giving a lunch for him at Buckingham Palace which will be more of a formal occasion.

He is also a close friend of Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, who has stayed with him at Stockholm's Royal Palace.

Carl Gustaf and Anne have met many times on his private visits to London and have always seemed happy in each other's company. Both are expert riders, both like sailing and swimming and winter sports and the Swedish prince is a good dancer, one of Anne's favorite pastimes.

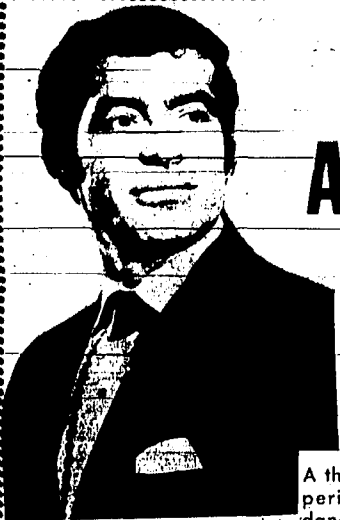

He has another plus in his favor in the eyes of the gossips. He's a naval man like Prince Phillip and Anne has always been close to her father.

Brown's defense buries Dolphins in 28-0 shutout

MIAMI (UPI) — Cleveland erupted for two touchdowns in a minute and 12 seconds in the second quarter Sunday and rolled up to hand the Miami Dolphins their first shutout in three years 28-0.

It was the first shutout for Miami since San Diego blanked the Dolphins 24-0 in 1967.

Cleveland's Bill Nelse, playing with fragile knees but well-protected by the Brown line, broke open the ball game with a 13-yard throw to Bo Scott that climaxed a 75-yard march through a shaky Miami defense near the end of the second quarter.

A minute and 12 seconds later, Dale Lindsey grabbed off a Bob Griese pass in the flats, and sped untouched 56 yards down the sidelines to put Cleveland firmly in command.

In the third quarter, the Browns went 66 yards on Nelsen's passes to Scott and Chip Glass and the line rushes of Reese Morrison — who replaced injured Leroy Kelley — and a touchdown throw for 21 yards to Gary Collins.

Nelsen moved the team 58 yards in the final quarter and sent reserve Randy Minnlear into the end zone from a yard out for the final touchdown.

Dot Cockroft kicked all four Cleveland conversions.

The victory keeps Cleveland at the top of the Central Division and gives the Browns a 4-2 record coming off last week's loss to Detroit.

The Dolphins, newcomers of Oakland and the New York Jets earlier and riding a four-game win streak going into the game, got moving only once, early in the first quarter. Griese directed the Miami line to the Cleveland 25-yard line, but a bobbed pass from center disrupted Garo Yepremian's field goal try.

Cowboys surprise Chiefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Two eye-popping touchdown plays, a 47-yard run by rookie Duane Thomas and an 89-yard pass from Craig Morton to Dallas Hayes, propelled the Dallas Cowboys to a 27-16 victory Sunday over the Kansas City Chiefs.

The triumph moved Dallas into a tie with St. Louis for the lead in the Eastern Division of National Football Conference.

Thomas, who also scored another touchdown on a one-yard run, broke up the middle early in the third quarter on a draw play after Mel Renfro intercepted a Len Dawson pass.

That gave the Cowboys a 20-10 lead and, on Dallas' next possession, Morton uncorked the bomb to Hayes. It came on a third-and-23 situation and Hayes worked free behind the Chiefs' Emmitt Thomas and Jim Kearney.

The turning point literally came at the opening up-off as the Lakers sped to a 12-0 advantage before the Central Conference doormats could score.

The Cavaliers connected on only one of the first 13 shots and the closest they got in the contest was at 28-21 late in the first quarter.

Chamberlain, Lakers win by 123-96

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Will Chamberlain sank 24 points and hauled down 26 rebounds Sunday night as the Los Angeles Lakers toyed with Cleveland, sending the expansion Cavaliers down to their seventh straight defeat with a 123-96.

The turning point literally came at the opening up-off as the Lakers sped to a 12-0 advantage before the Central Conference doormats could score.

Chargers rally, tie Oilers 31-31

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Lance Alworth leaped between two defenders and then sped 32 yards into the end zone to complete an 80-yard pass play from Marty Domres with 3:46 left to give the San Diego Chargers a 31-31 tie with the Houston Oilers Sunday.

Following a missed Houston field goal, Domres faded back

Cardinals upset by Tarkenton

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fran Tarkenton throw five touchdown passes, including three in the first half, when he completed all 10 passes he attempted, to lead the New York Giants to a 35-17 upset victory Sunday over the St. Louis Cardinals.

period as Tarkenton, who set a personal high as a Giant — with the five TD passes, directed touchdown drives of 70, 67 and 82 yards the first three times the Giants had the ball.

He climaxed the drives with touchdown passes of three yards to Aaron Thomas, 41 yards to Bob Tucker, and 13 yards to Clifton McNeil as the Giants enjoyed a 28-10 halftime lead.

Tucker, a rookie tight end, caught a 17-yard TD pass early in the fourth period to clinch an 84-yard drive. Don Herrmann caught a six-yard pass from Tarkenton late in the game that Ron Johnson set up with a 60-yard kickoff return.

After going 10-for-10 for 211 yards in the first half, he played a more conservative brand of ball in the second half and wound up throwing only eight passes — and completing five. He was 15 for 18 for 280 yards in the game.

down passes to Charlie Taylor Sunday as the Redskins rolled over the injury-plagued Cincinnati Bengals, 20-0.

The Redskins' defensive effort featured three fumble recoveries and a pass interception that blunted Cincinnati's attack. It was the first Washington shutout since Nov. 15, 1964 when the Skins blanked the Pittsburgh Steelers, 30-0.

Helping out Jurgensen and Taylor was Larry Brown, who carried for 110 yards in 22 tries — the fourth time he has gone the 100-yard mark this season.

The Redskins took a 10-0 lead in the first period on Jurgensen's 10-yard touchdown pass to Taylor and Curt Knight's 10-yard field goal.

Jurgensen's scoring pass capped an 80-yard Washington drive that was helped by a 34-yard interference call against Cincinnati's Lemar Parrish.

LATE IN THE first period, John Hoffman grabbed a fumble by Cincinnati's Jeff Phillips and Knight booted his three-pointer.

Knight kicked another field goal from 30 yards out early in the final quarter.

Stefa replaced Griese in the final quarter, but couldn't get the Dolphins moving either.

The 35-year-old veteran from Tacoma, Wash., created a three-way tie at the end of regulation play when he sank a three foot floby punt on the 18th green.

Sill, who dropped off the tour in January after cracking a couple of ribs in a bathroom accident at the San Diego Open, took his biggest check of the year — $30,000 — for winning the Kaiser. It was his first tourney victory since the 1969 Milwaukee Open and it boosted his 1970 earnings to $57,110.

Trailing 31-31 late in the third quarter, the Chargers replaced John Tindl with Domres. A 24-yard pass interference call gave San Diego the ball on Houston's seven and Russ Smith ran for his second touchdown of the game from the three to plays left to narrow the margin to 31-21.

Mike Mercer kicked a 45-yard field goal in the fourth quarter and the Domres to Alworth pass clinched the tie.

Jerry Rhyme, making his first start for the Oilers in place of the injured Charley Johnson, threw two touchdown passes and ran for a third.

Rhyme completed 21 of 36 passes, for 260 yards but was not able to break the tie in the last-minute drive following the interception.

The Chargers' first touchdown also came as a result of Alworth leaping between two defenders. He took a 44-yard pass from Hadl in the second quarter to put the ball on Houston's 26. Face mask and interference penalties moved the ball to the six and Smith cracked four yards over left guard for the Chargers' first score two plays later.

Houston jumped off to a 7-0 lead in the second quarter when a 36-yard pass interference call put the ball on San Diego's 29. Mike Richardson ran two yards for the touchdown seven plays later.

The Chargers tied it 14-14 with 1:49 left in the first half as Moore was penalized 30 yards for interference. The call put the ball on Houston's three and Hadl passed to Willie Frazier for the score on the next play.

Roy Gerch booted an 18-yard field goal with seven seconds left to give Houston a 17-14 halftime lead.

Bulls whip Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Bob Love scored 30 points and his teammates ruled the boards as the Chicago Bulls downed the expansion Portland Trail Blazers 131-116 Sunday night.

Seven-foot Tom Boerwinkle pulled down 18 rebounds to lead the Bulls to a 76-53 advantage on the boards.

Portland, which lost its third straight, scored three more field goals, but Chicago went 43 to 53 from the foul line to the Trail Blazers' 22 of 30.

Jim Fox, who shared playing time at center with Boerwinkle, contributed 13 rebounds and 18 points for the winners, while John Baum had 20 points and guard Bob Weiss had 19.

Rockets win in overtime

DENVER (UPI) — The Denver Rockets used a balanced scoring attack paced by the fine rebounding and clutch plays of Byron Beck to edge the Indiana Pacers 122-110 in overtime Sunday night in American Basketball Association play.

As they have done in their last three games the Rockets made up for the loss of star Spencer Haywood by dividing scoring chores between Beck's game high 37 points, Larry Cannon's 29 points, Don Sidle's 28 points and Ralph Simpson's 21. Beck also snared a game high 29 rebounds to dominate the boards.

The game was tied 12 times and was 112-112 at the end of regulation play when Indiana's Roger Brown missed a closing shot.

Still claims tourney

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Ken Sill, fighting his way back from an early year injury, sank a two-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole Sunday to beat Lee Trevino and Bert Yancey and win the $150,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

The 35-year-old veteran from Tacoma, Wash., created a three-way tie at the end of regulation play when he sank a three foot floby punt on the 18th green.

Unitas, Colts top Pats 27-3

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts' defense frustrated Boston quarterback Joe Kapp and Johnny Unitas three times Sunday, giving the Colts a 27-3 victory and first place in the American Football Conference Eastern Division.

and Billy Newsome, stymied Kapp who outgained Unitas, but mostly on numerous short passes.

Unitas threw touchdowns to Roy Jefferson, rookie Jack Matland and 13-year veteran Jimmy Orr who had been on the bench all season.

The victory put Baltimore at 5-1 and gave it sole possession of first place after Miami's 28-0 loss to Cleveland.

Unitas broke open the game with two minutes left in the first half, leading the Colts 79 yards after safety Tom Curtis picked off a Kapp pass at his own 15 and lateralled to Tom Maxwell who was brought down at the 21.

The key play in that drive was a 42-yard pass to tight end John Mackey who juggled the ball at midfield and ran to the Patriots' 24. Four plays later, Unitas hit Jefferson in the end zone corner to make it 17-3 at half-time.

49ers whip Broncos 19-14

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Bruce Gossett booted a 25-yard field goal, his third of four in the game, midway through the third period Sunday to boost

San Francisco to a comeback 19-14 over the Denver Broncos. Trailing 14-8 at the half, the Forty Niners scored a quick touchdown on the fifth play of the third period when John Brodie hit rookie John Isenbarger with a 61-yard bomb. Isenbarger, a 205-pound back from Indiana, came out of the backfield all alone, caught the ball in the flat, and sidestepped two defensive backs on his scoring run to narrow the Denver lead to one point.

Gossett's game-winning three-pointer five plays later.

Gossett also added a 13-yard field goal for the only scoring of the final period. In addition, he kicked field goals of 16 and 10 yards in the first and second quarters for the only Forty Niner scoring of the opening half.

The victory gave San Francisco a 4-1 record in the western division of the National Football Conference. Denver, which lost only to Oakland in five previous games, is now 4-2 in the western division of the American Football Conference.

Floyd Little's 80-yard touchdown burst late in the first period propelled the underdog Broncos to an eight-point lead at intermission. Like marched the Broncos 74 yards to their score early in the second period, capped by his 10-yard flip to Willis Crenshaw in the end zone.

Like hit the wide receiver Al Enson with passes of 15, 17, and 6 during the Broncos' final TD march.

Denver eight in the first period after Brodie hit banker Gene Washington with a 45-yard pass down the right sideline, but the Forty Niners had to settle for Gossett's first three-pointer.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wayne Patrick scored on a three-yard run with 6:23 left to play Sunday to give the Buffalo Bills a 10-6 victory over the injury-riddled New York Jets, who Farmer put the Bears on the Lion four in the second quarter when he beat Barney and gathered in a 60-yard Concanon pass.

the only points the Lions had been able to put on the board were on Errol Mann field goals of 43 and 40 yards. Mann added another of 31 yards in the fourth quarter after the issue had been decided.

The victory stretched the Lions record to 5-1 and gave them at least temporary possession of the NFL's Central Division, pending the outcome of Monday night's Los Angeles Rams-Minnesota Vikings contest. For the Bears, it was their fourth straight defeat after two early season victories.

Still it was the Bears' best game of the season and they might well have won it but for their own mistakes — giving up three interceptions and one lost fumble. The Lions capitalized on the bobbles and struck hardest when Bobby Joe Green got off a rare bad punt which travelled just 20 yards to the Lions 48.

Munson moved the ball to the Bears 17, mainly on ripping runs by workhorse Alie Taylor. Then, under a heavy rush, Munson saw McCulloch deep in the end zone and hit him perfectly.

Dick Gordon put the Bears ahead for much of the game when he drifted behind Lam Barney in the first quarter and took in a 53-yard touchdown bomb from Jack Concanon.

But it was another Bear receiver, rookie George Farmer out of UCLA, playing his second game as a pro, who intercepted a Fred Carr which put the ball on the Eagle's 33 set up the second. Eight plays later Donny Anderson plunged three yards for the touchdown.

heavyweight title" against Jorj Quarry Monday night in a 15-round fight. Gov. Lester Maddox has called Monday a day of mourning for the state, but Clay says, "Mourning? I don't know what that word means. It's my day of rejuvenation, but if he wants to say it's a day of mourning I'm not gonna criticize him. He's saying what he believes, and I respect his beliefs just like I would hope people respect mine."

Oakland defeats Pittsburgh

OAKLAND (UPI) — Rookie tight end Ray Chester pulled down three touchdown passes, two from ageless George Blanda, to vault the Oakland Raiders to a 31-14 National Football League victory Sunday over Pittsburgh.

Chester, an impressive No. 1 draft choice from Morgan State, opened scoring on a 37-yard pass from Daryle Lamoni and then caught two more from the 43-year-old Blanda after Lamoni had left the game with a minor back injury. The victory ran Oakland's record in the American Conference West to 3-2 and left the Steelers at 2-4 in the conference's Central Division.

Lamoni strained his lower back on an incomplete pass attempt and left the game late in the first quarter. Pittsburgh battled back to tie it 7-7 but Blanda put the contest out of reach with a sharp second quarter performance for a 24-7 lead at intermission.

77-yard run paces Falcons

ATLANTA (UPI) — Safetyman Tom McCauley broke open a tight defensive duel Sunday with a 77-yard punt return, the longest in Atlanta's football history, to spark the Falcons to a 32-14 victory over the New Orleans Saints.

The Falcons held a 12-7 lead thanks to their longest-ever field goal, a 49-yard kick by Kenny Vinyard before McCauley took in a Julian Fagan punt at the Atlanta 23 yard line and with a couple of good blocks went the distance to score.

That was not only 51 yards longer than any previous Falcon punt return but also the first time that Atlanta had over scored by that means. A 15-yard field goal late in the first period by Vinyard and a one-yard leap by Harmon Wages late in the second had given the Falcons a 9-0 halftime lead. But the Saints, unable to get any offense going in the first half, drove 76 yards after the second half kickoff and cut the gap to 9-7 on a 30-yard touchdown pass from Eddie Hargett to Dan Abramowicz.

3 tie for LPGA title

HOUSTON (UPI) — Veteran Marilyn Smith, playing the best golf of her 21-year career, birdied two of the last four holes Sunday to tie Sandra Haynie and Judy Rankin for the championship of the $17,500 Women's Charities Open Tournament, each with two-under-par-21.

The three will meet Monday in a sudden-death playoff, the first time in the history of the women's tour that players have been held over to the next day for a sudden-death playoff.

At this point, South made the brilliantly deceptive discard of the six of spades.

Oswald: "Without this little bit of flimflam, the chances are that West would have found the club shift. As it was, West just led his fourth heart to dummy's 10. This time, South shot a lone club, knocked out East's ace of spades and made the rest of the tricks."

Jim: "East was bitterly critical of his partner's failure to lead a club. He pointed out that, unless he, East, held the club king, there would be no way to defeat the three-no-trump contract."

Oswald: "East was just about right on that point but I have to charge most of the blame to East. East had a nice play of the king of clubs when he got in with the king of spades. He could count two spades and two hearts, so that the club would be enough to set the contract."

NIGHTWEAR - Already reported were the percentages of American women who sleep in pajamas, nightgowns and nothing. Unreported were what American men sleep in exactly. Let's fix that. Latest surveys indicate 28 per cent of the men sleep raw, 22 per cent sleep in their underwear, 18 per cent sleep in their pajama bottoms or tops only, and approximately 30 per cent sleep in full pajamas. If you tally the foregoing, you'll find they add up to 98 per cent. Just 2 per cent of the American men sleep in "other." Hobnailed boots, knitted caps, shorty gowns, overalls, nightshirts, whatnot.

HOW MUCH NEWS do you get on a half hour TV news show? Just 22 1/2 minutes' worth... NOW IT HAS COME to pass that more than half of all the musical instruments sold nationwide are guitars... AM TOLD the Chinatown at Carson City, Nev., is the only place in the world where there's a two-story outhouse.

BEST TIME TO SPRAY bugs is around 4 p.m. Why is a mystery, but the little beasts are more susceptible to chemical killers at that time of day. Or so the science boys say they recently discovered... AMONG "NUMBERS" on whiskey bottle bottoms, you'll usually find either the letter D or the letter R. An authority on liquor tells me the D stands for Distilled and the R means Rectified. "I wouldn't drink the stuff if it isn't stamped with the D," says he.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "Has a commercial airliner ever crashed because the pilot was drunk?" A. No record of any such case... Q. "How many whales are killed every year now?" A. Maybe 60,000... Q. "Where's California's oldest winery?" A. At Mission San Gabriel near Los Angeles... Q. "Can a wildcat catch a jackrabbit?" A. Not in a race. A coyote eventually can, though... Q. "Didn't the World War II brides from Italy outnumber the war brides from France?" A. Just barely.

CONSIDER THIS - Here's a medical fellow who contends all of us human folk harbor an innate fear of getting hit in the midsection. This is why babies ought not be put down on their backs, says he. It makes them nervous. They're only comfortable when their soft waists are unexposed. He goes so far as to say babies left on their backs are apt to become neurotic in their later years, given to unreasonable anxieties that could lead to drink, drugs and unbridled wild notions. Interesting. Might be something to it, although possibly not much.

OPEN QUESTION - How do you account for the fact that few good poker players are good bridge players and vice versa?

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L. M. Boyd, P. O. Box 99058, Seattle, Wash. 98199.

Angry mayor...

MAYOR SAM SCHWARTZKOPF of Lincoln, Neb., objected to a recent UPI story from London that adultery is practiced to a "significant extent" in Lincoln. The Mayor said the report was a "discredit" to the city. (UPI)

'New towns' fail to offer solution to overpopulation

NEW YORK (UPI) —Are new towns the answer to our problem cities?

Not really, according to the builder of one new town.

Patrick J. Cusick, Jr. is general manager of Litchfield Park, a new town of 75,000 people rising near Phoenix, Ariz. He says existing cities represent a huge investment in roads, sewers, utilities and buildings plus a priceless history and culture much too valuable to simply discard.

He believes slums and gray areas must be rebuilt or rehabilitated to capitalize on the existing framework of city facilities and services.

Instead of replacing old towns Cusick sets a double role for new towns like Litchfield Park: Litchfield Park occupies 12,000 acres of open farmland, 16 miles west of central Phoenix. When completed, 12 villages will surround a central core of stores, office buildings, cultural facilities, and commercial enterprises—a city of 75,000 with a "downtown" and nearby residential areas. All homes are walking distance to schools, stores and recreational centers. Though the number of jobs in Litchfield Park will be equal to the wage earners there, it is expected that only about half the town's resident workers will find jobs there. The rest will travel to nearby jobs or to Phoenix, with an equal number of workers in Litchfield Park coming from those places each day.

Israel taxes amount to an estimated 41.2 per cent of the GNP. Sweden's are 40.8. The United States ranks 14th, with 28.3 per cent. Defense spending accounts for about half of this year's $3.2 billion national budget and 30 per cent of the GNP. The United States spends 10 per cent of its GNP on defense.

Israel tax load heavy

By ZANDER HOLLANDER. JERUSALEM (UPI)—Soviet missiles in Egypt have yet to prove they can stop the Israeli air force but there is no question of their impact on the Israeli taxpayer.

The missiles have helped make him the most heavily taxed in the world.

He acquired that unenviable distinction in August when Parliament responded to Defense Minister Moshe Dayan's emergency request for more money to buy the jets, electronic devices and other weaponry to deal with the missile threat.

It enacted a supplementary defense budget, with tax increases to pay for it, that pushed Israel past Sweden into first place in world rankings of tax burden in proportion to the gross national product (GNP). The GNP is the annual total value of a country's goods and services.

Israel taxes amount to an estimated 41.2 per cent of the GNP. Sweden's are 40.8. The United States ranks 14th, with 28.3 per cent.

Defense spending accounts for about half of this year's $3.2 billion national budget and 30 per cent of the GNP. The United States spends 10 per cent of its GNP on defense.

"Taxes are horrible. I can't buy a new car," said Amos Idelson, 35, a Tel Aviv bank executive. "But," he concluded with what has become almost a national slogan on taxes, "if you want to live you've got to pay."

Idelson is married, with two children. The fate of his $371 monthly paycheck—a very good salary for egalitarian Israel, where cabinet ministers do not earn much more—illustrates the taxpayer's plight.

He winds up with $323. The other 44 per cent vanishes in income tax, an additional defense levy, compulsory purchase of defense bonds—to be repaid with four per cent interest in 10 years—social security and war damage insurance.

Income tax is heavily progressive, biting much harder in higher income brackets.

An unskilled laborer with a wife and two children who earns $143 a month loses less than 10 per cent to the revenue commissioner. A bank president earning $1,430 loses 64 per cent.

The revenue commissioner takes 81 per cent of any monthly earnings over $771.

Then there are indirect taxes—sales tax, fuel tax, tobacco and alcohol tax, property tax, automobile tax, foreign travel tax, customs duties and dozens of other levies and fees.

Many are designed to discourage spending on imports, so precious foreign exchange can be saved for the arms Israel must buy abroad. For instance the sales tax on caviar, German sausages and other imported delicacies runs to 200 per cent.

Amos Idelson would have to scrape together $5,314 for a Volkswagen automobile—two thirds of that taxes.

A "luxury" car such as a Chevrolet Impala would cost about $11,000, three quarters of it taxes.

Israeli officials concede small-scale tax cheating is widespread.

"But by and large we think our taxpayers are among the best in the world," said David Bar-Haim, information director of the state Revenue Administration.

Spacemen confer...

Power slogan heard

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The theme of Sen. Hugh Scott's campaign revolves around this slogan:

"The most powerful senator Pennsylvania has ever had."

The gist of the slogan is clear—that Scott, because of his 28 years in Congress, wields considerable political muscle for the good of Pennsylvania.

Also, from his seat as Senate Republican leader, Scott has the "ready ear" of President Nixon.

Some Scott strategists warn that "complacency and over-confidence" pose a bigger threat to Scott's re-election to a third term than Democrat William G. Seiler, his opponent in the Nov. 3 election.

Seiler, 42, is a 10-year veteran of the Pennsylvania state Senate. He has campaigned vigorously to overcome an identity gap with the state's more than 5-million voters.

He has covered the state from end to end on a "limited budget" in an attempt to reach as many voters as possible.

The state's gubernatorial race has developed only mild interest. The main issue has been a fiscal crisis facing Pennsylvania.

Democrats feel they have a good chance to put wealthy Philadelphia businessman Milton Shapp, 57, in the Statehouse and end eight years of GOP rule. Most opinion polls rate the gubernatorial race close.

Shapp's opponent is state Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick, 55, a tall handsome politician who has virtually divorced himself from the politics of Gov. Raymond P. Shafer.

A GOP-sponsored poll taken late last month gave Shapp 44.3 per cent of the vote and Broderick 40.1 per cent. The poll showed 15.6 per cent of the electorate undecided.
