

6 contests in county

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS — Voters in the county will have to decide six races on the county level in the Tuesday election in which campaigning has been relatively quiet during the past few weeks.

County officials and party leaders say they hope for a big turnout at the polls but will not be surprised if the vote is relatively light. Major interest for Twin Falls County voters seems to center on the gubernatorial race and on the constitution amendment question. Both Gov. Don Samuelson, Republican seeking reelection, and his Democratic opponent, Cecil Andrus, paid visits to the county Friday in a final campaign push for area votes. Both returned to the Boise Valley where they will conclude their pre-election efforts today.

On constitution revision, many area individuals and organizations have voiced strong support of equally strong opposition. Those favoring the issue feel it provides more safeguards to Idaho rights and goes a long way in streamlining and modernizing the original document.

Opponents say it treats ground water rights, gives the legislature too much power and threatens government at the county level.

The county races include the two legislative districts.

In District 24, incumbent Republican state representative William Lanting and William Roberts are opposed by Jack L. Clough, Democrat. Two of the three will be elected. A similar situation exists in District 23, where Jack D.

Claiborn and Ray Lincoln, Republican incumbents, are opposed by R. Les-Williamson.

Races also include the county commission posts.

Incumbent Republican Chairman Heber Loughmiller is opposed by a former commission chairman and Democrat, Russell (Bud) Larsen for the third District seat. The First District seat being vacated by Morris W. Carlson is sought by Republican Merle Leonard and Democrat Ed Lierman.

Another race is for prosecuting attorney where two new candidates are seeking the post.

Golden Bennett, Democrat, opposes Leon Smith, Republican who unseated incumbent Robert Galley in the primary election.

A race is also on for the office of county coroner with Herman R. Jewell, Democrat, opposing incumbent Republican, Cloyce Edwards.

Balls will open Tuesday at 8 a.m. in the 48 precincts. Again on Tuesday county residents will cast their ballot by mechanical means, taking only about 30 seconds per voter.

Several precincts will be handled in the same building and election officials who received training for the primary will be serving in the general election and will be able to assist voters who may have difficulty in understanding the automatic voting equipment.

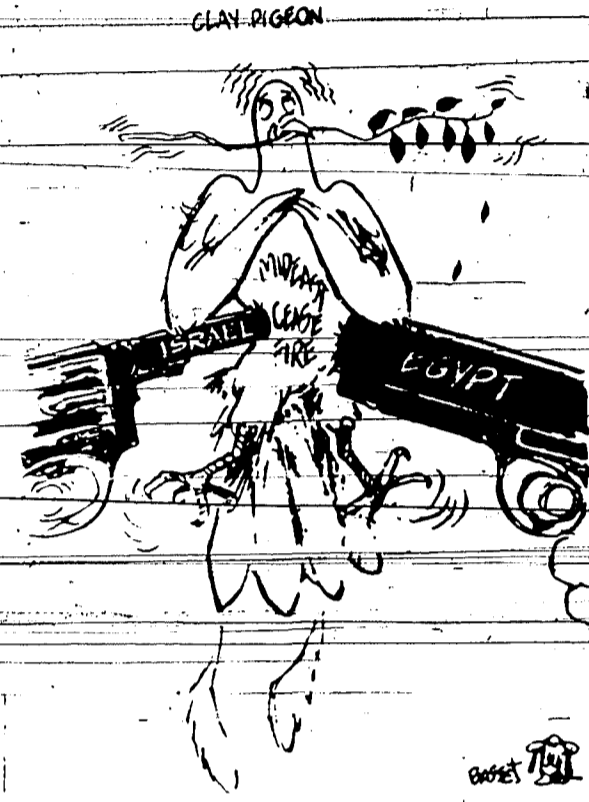

Polls close at 9 p.m. and within a few minutes after the final voter leaves the polls, the vote tally will be on its way to election headquarters in the Twin Falls county clerk's office.

Wordy war in Mideast

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Two draft resolutions have been proposed in a U.N. General Assembly embroiled in a war of words over the Middle East.

Debate centered around a 19-nation draft resolution submitted by the Afro-Asian countries and Yugoslavia calling for Israel to withdraw from all Arab territories occupied during the June, 1967, war as a precondition for peace. The draft also seeks resumption of the indirect peace negotiations mediated by U.N. special envoy Gunnar V. Jarring.

A counter-proposal authored by the United States requests at least a three-month extension of the 90-day cease-fire set to expire Thursday and emphasizes the need for an atmosphere of confidence to inspire reopening of the Jarring talks. The U.S. resolution has found little if any support among the delegations.

The Middle East debate requested by Egypt entered its fifth day today with 10 speakers firmly listed to appear at the rostrum and nine others scheduled tentatively in what promised to be another long session. Four Arab nations were set to address the assembly: Mauritania, Yemen, Libya and Kuwait. Great Britain was to take the floor late in the day.

A vote was not expected until Wednesday as U.N. diplomats awaited the results of Tuesday's U.S. elections. Reports circulated that a new U.S. move toward solving the Middle East crisis could be expected after the elections, its boldness dependent on how strongly the electorate backed Nixon administration policy.

Egyptian officials said today any extension of the Middle East cease-fire due to expire Thursday should include provisions to reopen peace talks. Otherwise, they said, continuing the cease-fire "would be an exercise in futility."

Pope Paul VI said Sunday the cease-fire must be extended, otherwise the struggle between Israel and its Arab neighbors could become "more serious," perhaps involving powers other than the nations directly involved in a trial of force.

The Pope, in his regular Sunday blessing from his balcony overlooking St. Peter's Square, said "The whole world watches with trepidation and has more than ever the need to be comforted in the hope of a peace reached by way of reason and negotiations."

Egyptian officials, in welcoming the pontiff's remarks, said "We appreciate the Pope's concern about the Middle East situation and his desire to see the cease-fire extended, which we share."

"But Cairo sticks to its view already expressed by President (Anwar) Sadat that any extension should hold the promise of reactivation of Jarring's peace mission, otherwise it would be an exercise in futility."

Greene elected unit head

TWIN FALLS — Michael Greene, 27, was named president of the U.S. Trout Farmers Association at the close of its annual meeting Saturday in Sacramento, Calif.

Greene, who is part of the management team of Blue Lakes Trout Co. and Greene's Trout Farm of Twin Falls, had completed a term as treasurer of the national organization.

Ted Eastman, Buhl, is immediate past president of the association.

More than 200 members attended the three-day meeting, according to Clay Robinson, Salt Lake City, executive manager of the association.

Discussed during the meeting was the use of ultraviolet treatment for water purification and a newly approved usage of terramycin for treating fish. The federal government has approved the new treatment, Robinson said.

Hunt cause of blast

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Law enforcement officers searched along the Idaho-Washington border south of here today for the cause of an explosion Sunday night in the vicinity of Uniontown Wash.

Lewiston, Idaho, police officers said they received calls from residents reporting they heard a mid-air explosion north of the city about midnight Sunday. The explosion was also reported at Moscow and sheriff's deputies were sent to see if the cause could be located.

No trace of any debris from a possible explosion has been found although pilots flying over the area shortly after midnight reported they saw fires on the ground.

Nixon continues policy defense

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon today carried his crusade against "thugs and hoodlums" of the violent left into the eye of the hardest-fought off-year political campaign in the nation's history. He also defended his economic policies against "scare tactics" of the Democrats.

The GOP National Committee purchased half-hour segments on all three major television networks tonight to broadcast tapes of Nixon's address Saturday in Phoenix, Ariz., in which he charged that appeasement and permissiveness rather than repression and the Vietnam War has fostered a breed of "haters" who threatened the country.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew soured the other major theme of the final Republican sally when he emerged Sunday from a two-hour meeting with Nixon and charged Democratic candidates with distorting facts about the economy and raising unwarranted fears that the "country is heading into a recession or a depression or something worse."

"This is nothing more than the tactic of the big lie and the American people should know about it," he said. His remarks were aimed at blunting Democratic charges that administration policies were fostering inflation and unemployment. This is one of the more vulnerable areas for the Republicans.

The most recent figures show

4.5 million people, or 5.5 per cent of the work force, out of work and the economy growing at a rate of a 1.4 per cent annually, substantially below the four per cent growth rate considered normal by most economists.

Agnew shrugged off a question about Democratic charges that both he and Nixon were guilty of using fear tactics on the issue of lawlessness by pointing to the incident Thursday night in which the President's limousine was stoned by an angry crowd of anti-war demonstrators in San Jose, Calif.

Arkansas inmates seize 4

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (UPI) — Armed inmates of an isolation unit called "the hole" seized four guards early today and threatened to kill them unless they were provided safe passage to freedom.

The prisoners had "at least two guns and a dozen rounds of ammunition," prison Superintendent Bill Sted said but "We have no intention of giving in to their demands."

The inmates involved, between ages 17 and 20, asked for an automobile filled with gasoline and clearance through the front gate of the 16,000-acre prison farm about 90 miles southeast of Little Rock.

"Of course, we're not going to give it to them," said Robert Sarver, Arkansas correction commissioner.

Insurance rate before council

TWIN FALLS — Business facing city council members tonight includes a report on the Survey and Rating Bureau insurance rate study and recommendations for Twin Falls and a possible agreement with the Twin Falls Highway District for improvement of Harrison Street.

The Survey and Rating Bureau has completed a review of insurance rates in Twin Falls in comparison with fire prevention equipment and resources. This will be reviewed in detail with the city council in the 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall.

Certain recommendations which could help lower fire insurance rates for residents and businessmen of the community will also be discussed.

Members of the Twin Falls Highway District and city manager Jean Miller have been meeting to work out an agreement for reconstruction and improvement of Harrison Street north of the Harrison School. An agreement for this project will be presented for council approval.

A resolution providing for county road markers will be presented and council members are scheduled to meet with the local union of the International Fire Fighters Association, to discuss salary and work benefits.

Routing reports and license applications will be heard and discussions on bids for a compressor unit for the fire department and new parking meters for Main Avenue are also scheduled.

Murder charge filed after airport attack

KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI) — Police today charged with murder a man who drove an airport van into a reception line for Polish President Marian Spychalski shouting "Death to Communists!" Four people, including the Polish deputy foreign minister, were killed.

Karachi police identified the man as airport ground crewman Feroz Mohammad. They said he was a member of the right wing Pakistan International Airlines Corporation Union.

Witnesses said Feroz shouted "Death to Communists" just before the heavy iron-plated van rammed into the official reception line at 20 miles per hour and again as police dragged him from the cab after the van came to a stop against an airport retaining fence.

Police said Feroz was off duty when he entered the diesel vehicle near the plane which had brought Spychalski to Karachi from Lahore on the fourth day of a five-day official visit to Pakistan. They said he made a U-turn with the truck as Spychalski descended the gangway and then when the president was on the tarmac made a run at the reception line.

The truck hit the lined-up dignitaries and dragged three of the bodies to the fence after the impact.

Spychalski and his wife were not hit, but were knocked to the ground in the ensuing confusion. Dead were Polish Deputy Foreign Minister Zygrid Wolniak, considered a rising star in Polish hierarchy, Pakistan Deputy Intelligence Chief Chaudhri Mohammad, and two photographers, Mohammad Ashraf and Mohammad Yasim.

Eight persons were injured, none seriously.

Spychalski cut short his visit to Pakistan and left for Poland four hours later. The Polish president and his wife appeared shaken by the incident.

Power line kills 4

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Four men were electrocuted this morning when a construction conveyor belt they were pushing came in contact with a 7,200 volt electric power line.

Police Chief J. C. Hall said the men, all employees of the Stroupe Sheet Metal Co., were pushing a trailer carrying the conveyor belt out of the company lot when the accident occurred.

The victims, all from Asheville, were identified as James Belton, Donald Davis, Jerry Burton and James Wells.

The accident, police said, occurred about 8 a.m.

Mobs use new arms

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Mobs in this city rent with violence for more than two years have added a new weapon to their arsenal — home-made bombs filled with nails.

Col. Ian Menell, commander of the Royal Marines, said Sunday the new tactics spelled "out-and-out vicious warfare now." Two soldiers were wounded by the nail bombs.

New trouble erupted Thursday but the deployment of extra troops reduced the conflict to scattered incidents by Saturday night. There were only several minor incidents Sunday night, army spokesmen said. Forty-one soldiers were wounded in the outbursts, they said.

Commuter run ends in Cuba

MIAMI (UPI) — A swarthy Mexican-American waving an automatic pistol and shouting "this is a Chicano operation" commandeered a United Airlines commuter flight from San Diego, to Los Angeles and ordered it flown to Cuba early today, telling the crew he did not care about the lives of himself or his two children who were on board.

The 727 jetliner returned to this country about 7:30 a.m. with its crew of six and the 65 remaining passengers after spending several hours in Havana.

The plane was on a 20-minute flight from San Diego to Los Angeles late Sunday night when the hijacker burst into the Sisters obey, save lives

ST. LAURENT-DU-PONT, France (UPI)—Sisters Chantal and Colette Peroni lived because they obeyed their parents. Christian Bevilard died because he wanted to keep his hair long.

But for most of those at the "5-7" dancehall early Sunday morning it was chance whether they were among the handful who escaped or were listed among the 142 killed when the structure suddenly became an inferno.

The youths, mostly between the ages of 17 and 21, had come to hear "The Storm," an up-and-coming Paris rock group. Then the cardboard and plastic trimmings caught fire.

A huge flame leaped into the air and suddenly plunged down to the main floor like a whirlwind, said Joelle Dondey, a cashier in the hall. "Everybody was screaming, screaming, and suddenly nothing more except the sound of the sirens of the firemen arriving."

Barman Jacques Tranchant, who escaped through a door behind the bar, said "There was panic everywhere. People were running and yelling and the band continued to play."

Members of "The Storm" were among the dead. Chantal, 17, and Colette, 18, were there with friends. "But at 1:30 we decided to go home as we promised our parents," said Chantal. "Because of that and because we know our way around the hall we are alive now." They were near the exit when the fire started and made it out. Most of their friends, still inside, died.

Firemen and survivors said most of those inside died because they could not get out. Emergency exits were bolted and nailed over; a turnstile at the main entrance turned only one way—in.

The doors were locked to keep out gate crashers who had no tickets.

"One hundred and forty-two young boys and girls ... have known an atrocious end, prisoners of an inferno, because three owners of an "in" club near Grenoble had a phobia of freeloaders," the newspaper Figaro said today.

Most of the bodies, horribly burned, were found piled up against the bolted exits.

The bodies were laid out today in a local gymnasium in rows of bleached-wood coffins. Officials refused to allow many relatives to see the bodies, but tried to identify them by belt buckles, rings, any pieces of identification not incinerated.

Agreement reached

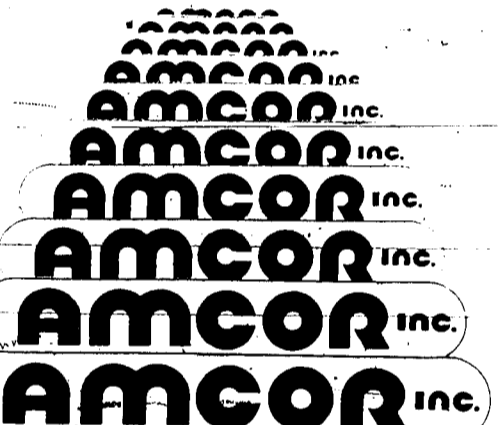

NEW YORK (UPI)—Negotiations for the Newspaper Guild and The New York Times and Daily News reached agreement on a new three-year contract early today just hours before a threatened walkout.

Terms of the package were not announced pending ratification meetings by union units from the two papers "in a week or so," Jack Deegan, union secretary-treasurer, said. The guild had said it would strike one of the two morning papers at 6 a.m. (EST) if there was no agreement. Guild officials said the choice would be determined by the unsolved issues at the papers.

Railroad report in error

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Penn Central Railroad officials gave Congress "a highly misleading picture" of the firm's finances before it was reorganized by a federal court, the chairman of the House Banking Committee has charged.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Texas, said Sunday officers of the railroad had told a Senate committee last August a diversification program Penn Central carried out was a financial success.

However, Patman said, the program, which involved the acquiring of control of a pipe line company and three real estate investment and development firms, drained at least $175 million from Penn Central's resources and "contributed significantly" to the railroad's "ultimate financial collapse."

"It would appear that the railroad might have realized a greater rate of return by simply investing this money in improving the railroad, rather than venturing into real estate developments," Patman said. The Penn Central now is being run by a four-man board of trustees appointed by a federal court.

The House committee will release additional reports on the railroad in the coming weeks, Patman said. He said they would include inquiry into "possible conflict of interest situations involving officers and directors of Penn Central in their personal financial transactions."

Railroad officials have testified the firm realized a $146 million return over five years from the four non-railroad companies.

Ecuadorian general released unharmed

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)—Air Force commander-in-chief Gen. Cesar Rohon Sandoval was released unharmed Sunday six days after he was kidnaped, the Defense Ministry said.

Defense Minister Jorge Acosta Velasco said Rohon Sandoval was at an air force base near Quito. "The general is well and later an official communique on the circumstances of the incident he was involved in will be issued," he added.

Rohon Sandoval was abducted from his car Tuesday while driving in a Quito suburb. The government offered a $40,000 reward for information on the kidnaping.

Little was known of the reasons for the general's abduction despite a roundup of opponents of the regime of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra. The number of persons jailed was undisclosed.

Sources close to the military said the general was released by his abductors Wednesday in a mountainous area about 60 miles northwest of Quito when they saw military patrols approaching.

The sources said Rohon Sandoval had trekked through the region in attempts to find a populated area and eventually was picked up by a truck driver who took him to Cotacola, a town several miles north of Quito. He took a bus to the air base from there, the sources said.

They said the kidnapers had veiled or painted their faces and Rohon Sandoval was unable to identify them.

Truman was napping in assassination attempt

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Harry S. Truman was napping after lunch on Nov. 1, 1950, when two Puerto Rican nationalists walked up to Blair House, then his temporary residence.

At precisely 2:20 p.m. on that unseasonably warm day, Oscar Collazo, 36, and Giselto Torresola, 25, pulled out guns and tried to shoot their way into the stately mansion where the first family was living while the White House, across Pennsylvania Avenue, was being renovated.

The shots awakened the President and he darted to a window, clad only in his underwear. "Get back, get back," a guard shouted from the street below. Truman ducked.

Moments later Torresola and a White House police officer lay mortally wounded on Pennsylvania Avenue. Collazo and two other policemen also were shot but recovered.

The assassination attempt was carried out in conjunction with a general uprising that began two days earlier in Puerto Rico by the Nationalist Party under leadership of Pedro Albizu Campos.

By the time it ended, 31 persons had been killed in the island revolt, which included an attack on the governor's palace, an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate Gov. Luis Munoz Marin and a siege of municipal police stations all over Puerto Rico.

At his trial early in 1951, Collazo testified that he had hatched the plan to assassinate Truman on Oct. 31 to draw attention to the nationalist rebellion in Puerto Rico.

He is one of the recognized leaders in Congress in early childhood legislation and a co-author of the Comprehensive Child Development Act and Drug Abuse Education Act. He also serves on the key House Administration Committee.

A BACKGROUND OF SERVICE AND LEADERSHIP

Before being elected to Congress two years ago, Orval Hansen served ten years in both houses of the Idaho Legislature. He served as house majority leader and wrote some of the state's landmark laws.

Now age 44, Orval was born at Firth and was raised on a farm in Bonneville County. He graduated from Idaho Falls High School and was elected state president of the Future Farmers of America, earned the American Farmer Degree and won the Idaho Star Farmer Award. He served the Navy in the Pacific in World War II.

Will American Bases Be Reduced?

WASHINGTON — President Richard Nixon, that tough and veteran Communist fighter, now is seriously considering the phasing-out of a number of American military bases around the world as a unilateral gesture to the Soviet Union.

More significantly, they have broached to the Society Union through conversations with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and the Russian ambassador, Anatoly Dobrynin.

Called the "important questions" of continued U.S. military activity in Vietnam and the continued maintenance of American bases abroad.

As one source put it, "The President was telling Gromyko that he was in a mood to dare the Soviets to do some serious business in the peace department."

As in the Middle-East cease-fire, which the Russians violated by moving new missiles into the Suez area, Richard Nixon apparently is willing to assume that Moscow would reciprocate as one of the principals in a gentleman's agreement.

be exercised to be of any real importance. Millions of people on this earth have never had this opportunity. They have never participated in a free election.

Alaska Oil

Some disappointing news for romantics.

All those glowing hopes for the imminent realization of an age-old dream — the opening of the fabled Northwest Passage to commerce — are going back on the shelf, at least for awhile.

The oil company, Humble, which financed the trail-blazing voyage of the combination tanker-icebreaker Manhattan last fall, now says it is suspending further efforts to develop the sea route across the top of the continent as a means of moving Alaskan oil to market.

While the decision to put the Northwest Passage back on ice may dash great expectations in some quarters, it at least has the advantage of also taking the heat off several potentially sticky questions raised by prospects of ships in any considerable number plying the frigid channels off Canada's northern coasts, primarily the question of jurisdiction.

Ottawa has already laid claim by extending its territorial water limit to 12 miles, effectively taking in the passage but drawing a demurrer from Washington which, for good reasons of national economics in this case, declines to go along with national encroachments on the high seas beyond the traditional three-mile limit.

Not the least part of Ottawa's concern has been the protection of the Arctic environment. Tanker traffic would mean pollution, possibly oil leaks which could have disastrous effects.

Ironically, however, as it turns out, it is economics rather than ecology which is now blocking the passage. To build the huge tankers (250,000-tons and up) envisaged in U. S. Shipyards, as required by federal law for ships engaged in domestic trade, would be so costly — estimates run up to $80 million per tanker — that the economic advantage of moving Alaskan oil by water vanishes.

The result is increased emphasis on the projected pipeline that would cut 800 miles across Alaska from Prudhoe Bay in the heart of the North Slope oil fields to ice-free Port Valdez east of Anchorage, from where oil would be moved to market by conventional tankers.

Plans for the pipeline are well advanced, with pipe already stockpiled along the surveyed route. But again there are fears for the environment. Slicing through the northern tundra to lay the pipe, conservationists say, could cause far-reaching and possibly irreparable damage to the Alaskan landscape and wildlife.

So again it comes down to a question of ecology vs. economics. And if experience is any guide, economics is likely to win again.

Buyers for high fashion department stores, the names of which you'd recognize, are returning to manufacturers large shipments of long skirts.

Have fashion's tyrannical dictators finally been overthrown? The long skirts are proving a financial disaster for fashion designers.

Women's Wear Daily, the long-time bible of that business, has tried for three years to lower hemlines. When the first sales push failed, WWD redoubled its efforts — then multiplied its efforts — persisting, insisting, finally demanding that you do as they say.

You haven't yet. For the ankle-length maxiskirt, rigor mortis has set in. The midskirt — or the "longuette" as WWD prefers to call it — remains alive but mostly only for sports skirts and topsuits. That's not the big switch which the fashion industry requires for its periodic rejuvenation.

Women's Wear Daily no longer even pretends to be a journal of fashion "news"; the publication, desperately seeking to recover its own fumble and bail out all the manufacturers whom it misled, editorializes with words and pictures in issue after issue in favor of the longuette. But they cannot make it the "in thing" for the average woman to wear a dress that makes her appear 10 years older than she is.

The result is near disaster on Seventh Avenue. I stand aside in the big debate: it's not my business. Further, right now women generally are demonstrating in this and other considerations — that they are tired of being told what to do and think and wear and drink.

Some styles are more or less flattering on some shapes and sizes and ages, and women will no longer be convinced otherwise by the bony models in WWD. Department store salespeople dare to rebel at the risk of their jobs, but they are rebelling.

There are no simple solutions, no quick remedies, no one single group of American youth, no one single issue, no one institution associated with youth dissent. There is a general doubting and questioning of traditional values and expected behaviors.

political wars. Asked in Burbank why he didn't debate the frustrated Unruh, Reagan replied: "That's just a campaign stratagem. Four years ago I drove Pat Brown crazy demanding that he debate me. Now, with Unruh, my game plan calls for saying let him get his own audience." He denies the old one about his being the example par excellence of the "packaged candidate" on television. Says the governor: "You're in everyone's living room, stating your case. These TV spots — they're me."

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — California's Gov. Ronald Reagan at 59 has lost none of the wit, charm and skill which made him a new political star in 1966, but there's a chance he may not beat his 1970 rival, Jess Unruh, as badly as most forecasters have been saying. The common talk is Reagan by 900,000 to 1,000,000 with some polls showing percentages that translate to still higher margins. But one seasoned Republican strategist thinks this is giddy stuff. A talented observer notes, too, that registration favoring Democrats is up 400,000, that Unruh doesn't bear the scars of office as Edmund (Pat) Brown did in 1966, and that in the June primary Unruh ran strong in Los Angeles blue-collar sectors presumably disturbed by the violence Reagan uses so shrewdly as a campaign gambit.

Better than anybody on the hustings anywhere, Reagan can still gun out the jokes, give his listeners a buoyant charge, even disarm persistent hecklers. He is the master performer. But the verbal dance-about of the uncertain freshmen challenger are largely gone. The man today is seasoned and sobered by four years of problems in office and a far-out 1968 bid for the presidency.

Just as common as his wit now is a seeming rough candor, belittling the veteran of the Democratic votes critical.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Nosedrops

Dear Dr. Thosteson — Can nose spray be habit-forming? I use it every year because it is the only thing that relieves my stuffed-up nose in the hay fever season.

But after several years it has become a habit with me. What can I do to break it? — J.D.

Dear Doctor: Can nosedrops be harmful to a child? The doctor has told me not to let my daughter have them, but she gets so stuffed up with a cold that she can't breathe, and gets panicky. I've tried not giving them to her, but she cries and that makes it worse. — W.J.

I'm not about to concern nosedrops and nose sprays out of hand, but they aren't as simple as most people think. You can get in trouble with them unless you understand something about them.

Technically, these are "decongestants." They give temporary relief but they do not cure. The effect is temporary. Indeed, once the effect has worn off, the congestion may actually be more severe than it was before.

This last is because of a "rebound" effect. Congestion occurs basically because a virus (occasionally some other type of germ) is inflaming the nasal passages. Nature produces mucus to combat the irritation. When you use chemical means to subdue the flow of mucus, once the chemical effect wears off, nature often increases the flow to make up for it.

Some nose-throat specialists say that "the nosedrop habit" can create chronic irritation when overdone, and issue quite sharp warnings. I'm inclined to be a little more tolerant — if, that is, people will just keep in mind that such drops and sprays should be used briefly.

When you get to the point of feeling that you have to have them in the house all the time, then I would say that's the time to quit them altogether. They aren't "habit-forming" in the sense of being addictive, but some people become so dependent upon them that they use them at the merest sniffle of hope they will "ward off a cold," which they won't.

We have the instance today.

of a child who cares if she doesn't get nosedrops. In time of real need, perhaps the doctor would approve use of a spray. But only in real need. And anyway, hot compresses or a hot, wet washcloth held against the nose and face may give as much relief as any chemical means.

(Incidentally, that's a trick a lot of people don't seem to have heard about, so try it for a stuffed-up nose, aching sinuses, or a nose that is sore and raw from a cold.)

In the matter of hay fever, I can see why drops or sprays would be worthwhile during the worst of the season. Switching to an antihistamine preparation, taken by mouth, toward end of the season, may help break the congestive cycle.

I don't say not to use these products, but I do say to use them in limited fashion.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have ugly spider veins on my legs and would like to use a cosmetic cream or liquid to cover them, but am afraid some of these products may not be safe. Is it alright to use? — S.S.

That's probably the best way of handling spider veins, unless you just ignore them. To the best of my knowledge, all of the standard brand creams are safe. There are several, and I don't like to play favorites among them.

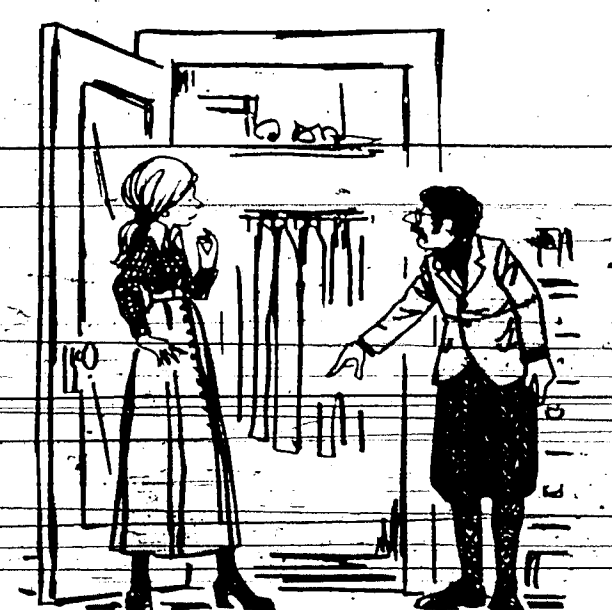

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could polyps in the uterus become cancerous? — Mrs. G.L.

Yes, they can, but that is not the same as saying that they necessarily will.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Auto talks go on

DETROIT (UPI)—Nobody really knows what's happening in the bargaining suite on the fifth floor of the General Motors Building except the five men who are trying to work out a new three-year national contract for the striking United Auto Workers.

Because of a "news blackout" imposed by GM and the UAW, there is never any indication whether significant progress is being made in the negotiators' attempts to end the 7-week old dispute which has idled some 400,000 workers.

Sunday, UAW President Leonard Woodcock and Irving Bluestone, the other co-director of the union's GM Department, gave restless reporters and cameramen the slip after a three-hour bargaining session, which a UAW source described as "intensive."

During the day, however, television crews managed to get Woodcock and Bluestone, as well as their GM counterparts Earl Bramblett, George B. Morris Jr. and Victor M. Zink, on film.

The only time any announcements are made is when there are new settlements on the local level. Sunday there were none, leaving 91 local bargaining units in the United States without agreements.

Local plant settlements are considered the key to reaching final terms on the national contract.

Jet's return delayed

MIAMI (UPI)—A National Airlines DC8, hijacked by a Cuban Friday night, was detained in Havana more than 20 hours before being allowed to return to Miami Saturday night.

There was no official explanation for the long delay, but Capt. Carl Greenwood, the pilot, said "There was evidently something (at the Havana airport) they didn't want us to see."

The plane, carrying 43 passengers and a crew of seven, landed at Jose Marti Airport at 11:36 p.m. Friday. The occupants were kept waiting until 1 a.m. Saturday and then taken to a hotel.

The airliner was allowed to take off from Havana Saturday night and it arrived at Miami International Airport at 7:32 p.m.

The hijacker was identified on the passenger list as L. Rosas. He boarded the flight, originating in Miami and eventually destined for San Francisco, with his pregnant wife and five small children. Their ticket destination was Tampa, Fla.

But the man drew a gun on stewardess Terry Martindale and forced her into the cockpit, where he told Greenwood, "Havana, Havana. I want no trouble. I speak very little English."

The man was disarmed by Cuban authorities in Havana, and he and his family left the plane.

Manson to stand

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Charles Manson almost certainly will be a witness at the Tate murder trial during the defense case which will get under way this week.

The state was expected to rest its case late today after calling the last of 81 witnesses in a trial which already has consumed four and one-half months.

The final scheduled prosecution witness was Dianne Lake, 17, a member of the Manson "family" for almost two years, who was expected to relate alleged conversations she overheard concerning the killings at the Sharon Tate and Leno LaBianca homes in August, 1969.

Her testimony was expected to center largely on the part defendant Leslie Van Houten played in the slayings.

A source close to the defense told UPI Manson, 35, definitely wants to be a witness, but that it is expected the three young female defendants will not testify.

The defense case is expected to require about a month with Manson probably the final witness of 15 to 30 to be called.

Vote rush nears end

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Candidates scrambled for votes today on the eve of elections to choose between Democrats stressing pocketbook issues and Republicans taking a hard line on law and order.

About 57 million people will vote Tuesday to fill 35 seats in the 100-member Senate, all 435 House seats, 35 of the 50 governorships and thousands of other state and local offices.

Political surveys and polls on the weekend before the election gave little comfort to the GOP. They indicated Republicans must win nearly all of the close races to command the Senate in January. The GOP needs a net gain of seven seats.

The surveys indicated little change in the lineup of the House, where the Republicans need a net gain of 29 seats to win control.

In a joint television appearance Sunday, Republican National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton and his Democratic counterpart, Lawrence F. O'Brien, both predicted their parties would win the Senate.

O'Brien also accused the Republicans of avoiding the real issues of 1970 by ignoring increases in unemployment, rising prices and high interest rates.

But after a conference with Nixon at San Clemente, Calif., Sunday, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Democrats were using "the big lie" to create unjustified fear of recession or depression.

"The Democrats are using the kind of fear or scare tactics they continuously accuse me of using," Agnew told reporters.

O'Brien and other Democratic leaders have charged the GOP with a campaign based on the "politics of fear" in an attempt to blame Democrats for outbreaks of violence.

Both the President and O'Brien appeared in purchased time slots between the halves of a televised football game

Sunday. Nixon said it was time to answer dissenters who engaged in violence and "for the great silent majority to stand up and be counted."

O'Brien said traveling campaigners had suggested that his party condoned violence and extremism. Recalling the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy and of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, he said Democrats know about violence and abhor it.

In the elections Tuesday, the Democrats are defending 25 Senate seats and the Republicans only 10. In the Statehouses, 24 Republican and only 11 Democratic governorships are at stake.

Officer abducted

BEIRUT (UPI)—Four armed men kidnapped a former Syrian intelligence officer on a Beirut street and the government asked Palestine guerrilla help in finding him, police said today.

The former officer, Khalil Mustafa Breiz, and another man were abducted when a parked car in front of a local hotel Sunday, police said. The second man was released a short time afterwards.

Police said investigation indicated Breiz had been involved in a disagreement with the guerrilla movement in Jordan shortly before the September civil war and fled to Beirut.

Breiz, the author of two books on the Syrian fighting in the Golan Heights, served as an intelligence officer for five years before he was dismissed in a shakeup in the Syrian army, police said.

The largest pool, which measures 80 by 75 feet and ranges from six to 14.5 feet in depth, will be used for NCAA and AAU swimming and diving meets, water ballet shows, water polo events and for classes in advanced swimming, scuba diving and water safety.

The smaller pool measures 35 by 75 feet and has a maximum depth of four feet. It is designed for teaching beginning swimming.

Utah contract loss probed

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — "I became concerned when I learned that Murdock of Utah was being dropped from the continuing manufacture of rocket tail fin assembly under circumstances which seemed to be in direct contradiction to a presidential directive designed to keep a broad industry base in defense procurement and aiding surplus or depressed labor markets. Our entire Wasatch Front qualifies under the presidential directive."

Murdock has been involved in the manufacture of rocket tail fin assemblies which are a part of 2.75 inch rockets being used in Vietnam.

Chamber backs sidewalk work

SHOSHONE — Plans to promote repair and replacement of sidewalks in downtown Shoshone along with new curbing on South Railroad Street were made by the Chamber of Commerce, reports Myron D. Johnson, acting vice-president.

Mrs. Robert Gaskill, Mrs. Clarence Magoffin, Mrs. Reid Newby and Mrs. William Trumble, a special committee working on investigation for the project, stated the new portion of Highway 26 will be done next year, from five miles west of Shoshone to join north and south Highway 93 into town.

With new curbing, the women stated, balance of the sidewalks could be renewed to get rid of broken and cracked places and to improve the appearance of the street.

The new highway will cut two feet from the present width of the sidewalk.

The committee reports that District Highway Engineer Howard Johnson said if the work is done by the contractor who gets the highway bid, it

At present there are no advisory committee members from the northwest.

NOT COMFORT—SHORTAGE

LONDON (UPI) — Uniformed doorkeepers at the House of Commons have been informed their traditional stiff-fronted shirts with serew-in studs and wing collars are to be replaced with soft shirts and collars—but not for comfort's sake.

Today is Monday, Nov. 2, the 306th day of 1970.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Scorpio.

In 1920 a Pittsburgh radio station (KDKA) began the first regular schedule of broadcasting by reporting returns from the presidential election.

In 1948 President Harry Truman and Vice President Alben Barkley were elected after political "experts" predicted they would lose.

In 1962 President Kennedy announced the Soviet missile bases in Cuba were being dismantled.

A thought for today: British Statesman Winston Churchill said, "If we open a quarrel between the past and the present, we shall find out that we have lost the future."

Doctors Report Way That Relieves Itching, Pain Of Swollen Hemorrhoidal Tissues

First Applications Give Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases. There's a most effective medication that gives prompt relief for hours from such hemorrhoidal discomfort and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by the inflammation. Thoughtful...

INFLATION is a "legacy of preceding Democratic administrations," Treasury Undersecretary Charles E. Walker told a press conference in counterattacking criticism of economic policies of Nixon administration. He claimed the present administration is starting to cure the nation's economic ills. (UPI)

Demos may gain statehouse seats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican governors now outnumber Democrats, 32 to 18, but this lopsided margin may be whittled down somewhat after Tuesday's elections.

Thirty-five of the 50 states will elect governors and a net gain of three or four Democrats now appears likely, according to poll findings and estimates of political experts in the various states.

Republicans are expected to hold governorships in the two most populous states, California and New York, but the GOP is in trouble in Pennsylvania and Ohio, and possibly Michigan—all among the big industrial states that are prized as bases of political power.

Furthermore, Republican officials are no longer confident of achieving a gain of governorships in the South and they are braced for a net loss in the Midlands and the West.

To help offset the losses, Republicans expect to make inroads in Statehouses of the six New England states, now evenly split 3-3.

Here is how the governor races look in all regions of the country:

East: Despite early signs of weakness, Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York is favored to win a fourth four-year term against Arthur J. Goldberg, Democrat Liberal candidate. In Pennsylvania, where Republican Gov. Raymond P. Shafer is ineligible to succeed himself, millionaire Philadelphia industrialist Milton J. Shapp, the Democrat, appears to be ahead of the Republican nominee, Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick. In New England, Republicans expect to hold Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont. They stand an even chance to take Maine and Connecticut, and Republican Herbert F. Desimone has an outside chance of unseating Gov. Frank Licht in Rhode Island.

Memphis dentist Winfield Dunn, running against Democrat John J. Hooker Jr., may be the first GOP governor elected in Tennessee in 50 years. But in Florida, Republican Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. is now rated the underdog against Ruben Askew. Republicans also are worried about Arkansas Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's prospects against Dale Bumbers, who upset former Gov.

Traffic Courts

Steve F. Gomez, 21, Rupert was fined $150 by Burley Police Judge Roland E. Willis for reckless driving and $150 for leaving the scene of an accident.

M & K Trucking Co., Burley forfeited $5 in Burley Police Court for improper parking.

Linda Hogg, 15, Burley was fined $10 for expired license plates.

Rodolfo Hill, 33, Burley was fined $5 for improper parking.

Reed E. Watterson, 16, Burley was fined $15 for stop sign violation.

Sarah A. Adams, 30, Heyburn was fined $10 for expired license plates.

Orval Faubus in the Democratic primary. In South Carolina and Texas, where the GOP is making its major bids to elect governors for the first time since Reconstruction their outlook is less than favorable. GOP Rep. Albert Watson is battling John V. West in South Carolina and Paul Eggers is the Republican challenger to Gov. Preston E. Smith in Texas. In Alabama, George C. Wallace faces no Republican opposition in his bid to return to office on the Democratic ticket.

Midwest: A state scandal has almost wrecked Republican chances in Ohio, where GOP state Auditor Roger Cloud is facing former Rep. John J. Gilligan. Republican Gov. William G. Milliken of Michigan, who appeared safe a few weeks ago, is now being crowded by state Sen. Sander Levin. The General Motors strike may be a factor in Levin's favor. Democrats are conceded chances ranging from fair to good to win Republican-held governorships in Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin and to keep power in Kansas.

West: Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California is rated a certain winner over Assemblyman Jess Unruh. Reagan campaigners are reported shooting for a margin of 1.2 million votes. Democrats could displace Republican governors in Idaho, New Mexico, Oregon and Alaska while possibly losing Hawaii.

Capacity crowd attends Music Club ball

By NORMA HERZINGER

Women's Editor

TWIN FALLS — The Blue Lakes Country Club was alive with activity Friday night when the Twin Falls Music Club sponsored its fifth annual Scholarship Ball.

The capacity crowd, the largest ever to support the ball, enjoyed the delightful show tunes presented by Mary Walker, Gene Mildon, Marty Mead and Roger Vincent, accompanied by Doris Youtz, Margaret Vincent and Roger Graefe. The program presented by these well-known and talented people started off with "Aquarius" from "Hair," and included selections from "Cabaret" and "Promises, Promises" taken from "The Apartment," and concluded with selections from "Marr from Lamanch," with Vincent as spokesman for the group.

The ball began with a cocktail hour at 7 p. m., with guests greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Driscoll and Mrs. S. W. Smith, and ushers, Rene LaGrone, Julie Hove and Sue Johnson, with Mrs. Louis Thorson taking tickets and Chris Blastock checking coats. Mrs. Smith is president of the Twin Falls Music Club, an affiliate of the National Federation of Music Clubs, and Mrs. Driscoll was general chairman of the more than successful event.

After the dinner and program, guests danced to the music of Hap Miller's Sun Valley Orchestra. It was interesting to note, when the orchestra started playing its first song, the dance floor was filled to capacity. It was also interesting to note the beautiful attire worn by the women. With such an open controversy on dress lengths these days, it's difficult to say what is in style and what isn't. But, some wore long flowing gowns, some street-length ensembles, some minis and some elegant pant suits — but no midis.

The dinner tables were centered with unique lighted candles made by Mrs. Ray Fite. The candles were a great conversation piece for the guests as they were decorated with autumn leaves embedded in wax and all accented with a music symbol.

Those assisting Mrs. Driscoll with ball preparations were Mrs. Mead, Mrs. Emmett Harrison and Mrs. Thorson, with Stephen Johnson, John Robinette and Greg Blastock parking cars for ball guests.

All proceeds from the event will go to assist Magic Valley young people to further their abilities in music education.

Big success . . .

CANDID SHOTS taken by Dan Johnson during the fifth annual Twin Falls Music Club's Scholarship Ball show various phases of the event. The ball was held at the Blue Lakes Country Club Friday night, with Mrs. Thomas Driscoll as general chairman. The program featured Broadway musical selections and guests danced to the music of Hap Miller's Sun Valley Orchestra. All proceeds from the ball will go for music scholarships for Magic Valley young people.

DEAR ABBY: I know a woman just like "TIRED" who wrote to say she was careful not to be too receptive to her husband's "hello" while she was preparing dinner, or she'd never get the dinner on the table.

I know her husband, too. I have been his mistress for the last four years.

She served him beautiful meals and kept his house immaculately clean, washed and ironed his clothes, but she totally ignored his emotional needs.

I am a lousy cook and a worse housekeeper, but I lavish love on this wonderful affectionate man like mad.

Next week his divorce will be final, after which we will be married. (His wife still can't understand what she did wrong, altho he has tried for 15 years to tell her.)

So tell that lady to put the dinner in the warming oven, and the coffee on "simmer," and to give that man of hers a welcome-home kiss that will land them both on the moon.

THE OTHER WOMAN

DEAR ABBY: I am "TIRED," too. I am tired of having a husband who does not want to jump into bed with me. He is in his early 50's and I am in my early 40's. I am tired of crying myself to sleep at night, tired of never being hugged or kissed, tired of never being told that I am loved, tired of being lonely, so tired in fact that I have even considered suicide.

Our marriage is being held together "because of the children." Tell "TIRED" to thank her lucky stars that she is married to such a marvelous romantic louse who wants to rush her into the bedroom the minute he gets home. And if she's "too tired," she should take a nap before he comes home and be prepared.

TIRED IN AKRON

DEAR ABBY: This is for "TIRED," the wife who doesn't dare to give her husband too warm a welcome when he comes home from work for fear he might make love to her.

Don't worry. His present mood will not last long. He will soon tire of cold fish and he'll not bother you at all, which I am sure you will find a welcome relief. Love seldom flourishes where the "Touch Me Not" flower grows.

Perhaps some other woman will be the recipient of his affection, after you are divorced. Then you can relax, unmolested in your blessed singleness, and he will be her problem.

On the other hand, if you've inhibited him sufficiently to have made him unable to express his feelings to another woman, you'll be stuck with him, but his ardor will cool with time, so you'll be safe.

You say, "He gets his share of affection." I'd like to hear HIS side of it.

FROSTBITTEN

DEAR ABBY: My heart bleeds for "TIRED," who's careful not to give her husband a kiss when he comes home from work, lest he lead her right into the bedroom and her dinner will get cold.

I say, what's wrong with having dessert before dinner? My trouble is just the opposite of hers. My hero comes home with only dinner on his mind. And he doesn't think of anything else afterwards, either.

That lady should thank her lucky stars her husband still has a pen for her. Tell her I'll be happy to trade with her.

Measuring political coattails big project

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the election post-mortem exercises after the voting Tuesday will attempt to measure political coattails.

First to be checked will be the more than 20 states where President Nixon has openly campaigned and the more than 30 where Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has appeared.

Democratic efforts have been more often limited to single states. But in advance of the elections, Republicans were showing a healthy respect for former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's coattail to help fellow Democrats in Minnesota where he is the nominee to return to the Senate.

There is an old cliché in politics that the president "stakes his prestige" by campaigning for candidates of his party in years in which the presidency is not at stake. There is not much evidence to support the theory that a president is gambling with his political resources by such campaigning.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, a popular president, did some limited campaigning in the 1954 mid-term election year with indifferent results. His party lost control of Congress in 1954 and failed to regain it when Eisenhower won re-election by a landslide in 1956. His popularity just failed to rub off on Republican candidates.

A seasoned student and practitioner of politics, Nixon knows that a president's coattail is notoriously short in these mid-term elections. His was also very short in 1968 when he won the presidency but the Democrats retained control of Congress.

Excluding "non-political" appearances, the President has visited 21 states in October. Of these, only North Carolina has a contest for neither a Senate seat nor a governorship. In the others, 20 have Senate contests this year and 14 have elections for both senators and governors.

Along with payment of some political obligations, Nixon was concentrating on the administration's chief political goal of 1970—to gain the seven seats needed to control the Senate next year.

Humphrey has spent the campaign period in Minnesota, running for the seat of retiring Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. He is expected to win by a margin which may help a Democrat win the governorship now held by a Republican, and Democratic candidates to unseat one or two Republicans in the House.

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson has limited his political appearances to Texas, where the GOP is trying to win a Senate seat and the governorship now held by a Democrat.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, now the strongest prospect for the 1972 Democratic Presidential nomination, has stayed in Maine since Oct. 1 to campaign for re-election. Previously he had appeared in 20 states this year and prepared radio or television tapes for candidates in about 10 other states.

Muskie's following is expected to help re-elect one Maine Democratic House Member, who might otherwise be vulnerable. But there are doubts that it will save Democratic Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis.

Senate Democratic Whip Edward M. Kennedy, who has said he will not be a candidate for the 1972 presidential nomina-

Burley chamber elects

BURLEY—The Burley Chamber of Commerce board of directors has elected Grant Fillmore, Jay Schofield, first vice-president and George Forscheier, second vice-president.

They will take office Jan. 1. The directors voted to have the brochure "People, Land and Water" printed for the third time. The brochure will be revised and a few changes will be made. The directors also reported the brochure will be available for convention use to be placed on display but will not be available to be placed in packets given at conventions.

Palmer Saterstrom reported he is working on a brochure which will feature convention facilities available in Burley. Cafe owners and motel owners who wish to be featured in this brochure are asked to contact the chamber office or Saterstrom.

Ernest Blauer, current president, announced plans are about complete for the chamber's annual dinner which has been combined with Farmer's night banquet set for Nov. 19 at Ponderosa Inn.

Robert Hilliard is chairman of the event. A farmer from the area and a business man will be honored during the banquet.

Dale Shelby and LaDell Handy will share the honors as Cassia County Grassman of the Year.

Assisting Hilliard with arrangements are Ed Elliott, Charles Hendricks, Don Chisholm, Forscheier, and Blauer.

Sister M. Thomas More, OSF, Holy Family College, Manitowoc, Wis., will be the guest speaker during the chamber dinner.

Secret outposts kept in Morocco

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States has secretly maintained two naval communication facilities in Morocco since 1963 and now has a 1,700-man U.S. military force there exposed—in the words of the State Department—as a "hostage to fortune."

Senate testimony made public Saturday also disclosed that Morocco has received $728 million in U.S. military and economic aid since it declared independence seven years ago. The military aid included 21 F5 jet fighter planes.

The existence of the Moroccan communications facilities and the presence of U.S. advisers and technicians, was officially confirmed by administration officials for the first time in a transcript released by the Senate foreign relations subcommittee on national commitments. The United States has maintained in the past that it closed all of its facilities in Morocco after the North African nation declared its independence from France.

"What we have done again is get ourselves involved in a country where we are half in and half out and the Soviet Union is half in and half out," said Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and chairman of the subcommittee.

The Soviets have technicians in Morocco and are providing economic and military aid, including construction of a dam and power plant as the two supergiants compete head-to-head for influence in the Arab kingdom.

David D. Newsom, assistant secretary of state for African Affairs, said the United States has no commitment to defend Morocco, either from internal subversion or outside aggression from its eastern neighbor, Algeria.

"But you have 3,400 Americans there (including families), 1,700 military personnel," Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., asserted. "If any trouble broke out, under the new theory of the State Department, the President has authority to do anything he chooses to protect the lives of his troops, so he could move in 500,000 men or 100,000, whatever he thinks necessary."

"In this case," Newsom answered, "we have a hostage to fortune wherever we may have American citizens."

"That is right," said Fulbright.

Symington contended the United States would be forced to intervene if the communications facilities were threatened. The naval communications facilities are at Sidi Yahia and Bouknadel, located 20 and 10 miles respectively from the Kenitra Air Station. These three facilities—all under command of the Moroccan government—form a triangular U.S. military complex.

The stations provide a communications link to the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Koreans crack down

SEOUL (UPI)—Whether it is a reproduction of a masterpiece of art or not, displaying a nude picture for commercial purposes can constitute a crime in South Korea, according to the country's Supreme Court.

The supreme court Friday upheld a lower court's decision to fine a safety match manufacturer and a printer for violation of the anti-pornography law for making and selling match boxes with reproductions of "The Naked Maja" by Francisco de Goya printed on them.

Nuclear curbs interest Reds

HELSINKI (UPI)—The Soviet Union "still means to do business" with the United States on nuclear arms curbs, despite chilled Russian-American relations, a ranking Communist diplomat said Saturday.

The Kremlin posture was reported on the eve of a new round of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) due to open here Monday.

The diplomat indicated, however, that the forthcoming talks will show that the Russians are in no hurry to make firm commitments on what President Nixon once termed one of the most important issues of modern times. The SALT talks, which opened in Helsinki a year ago and continued in Vienna through last summer, are intended to produce an agreed limitation by the super powers of offensive and defensive nuclear missiles. Failure is held certain to unleash a new, deadly nuclear arms race at astronomical cost.

The fact that the salt talks are continuing despite recent strains in Russo-American relations is regarded by diplomatic officials as a hopeful sign.

Penn statehouse race draws votes

By LLOYD D. ROCHELLE
United Press International
A hotly contested race for the statehouse may draw Pennsylvania voters to the polls Tuesday, despite confusing fiscal issues and an apparent easy victory for a U.S. Senate incumbent.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott, 69, the pipe-smoking Philadelphian who has been in Congress 28 years, should have no trouble winning his third six-year Senate term. His challenger is Democratic state Sen. William G. Sesler, 42, an Erie attorney who has suffered from an identity gap with the electorate.

But the gubernatorial race between Democrat Milton Shapp, 58, millionaire Philadelphia industrialist, and Republican Lt. Gov. Raymond J. Broderick, 55, is rated a tossup. Although some public opinion polls give Shapp an edge in his bid to end the eight-year GOP occupancy of the statehouse, observers believe this race is "unpopular" because of an estimated 30 per cent of undecided voters, enough to tip the scales either way. Also, the confusion of the voters over the issues may result in an unusually light turnout at the polls in a gubernatorial year, possibly below the 70 per cent mark.

Scott, a one time GOP national chairman and considered a moderate-liberal, reportedly wants a big victory in what could be his last statewide race before he hangs up his political gloves. Such a win would also enhance his chances of retaining his Senate GOP leadership post in the next Congress.

A victory for Shapp, who made his fortune in the electronics field, would give him several firsts. He would be the first member of the Jewish faith to win the governorship. He also would be the first Democrat to make it to the executive mansion after successfully bucking his own party's hierarchy to win the nomination. —leats he accomplished in 1966 and again in this year's primary.

Broderick, a Philadelphia attorney, was a political unknown when he was tapped four years ago to be the running mate of Gov. Raymond P. Shafer. He was put on the second spot to replace the late Attorney General Walter E. Alessandrini, who was killed in a plane crash during a campaign trip.

Early in the Shafer administration Broderick broke with the front office over the governor's unsuccessful drive for a state income tax to solve the state's fiscal problems.

The rhetoric and issues in the gubernatorial race have centered on the state's critical money problems.

Due to failure of the politically-divided legislature to face up to new taxes or cut state spending, the commonwealth faces a revenue gap of at least $300 million to run state government for the last four months of the current fiscal year ending next June 30.

Rail passenger firm created by President

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon Friday signed legislation creating a national railroad passengers corporation to own and operate a network of intercity passenger trains. The measure, which is expected to relieve the nation's railroads of responsibility for handling such traffic, permits railroads to turn over their unprofitable passenger routes to the new corporation, provided they buy stock in the new federal venture.

The amount of stock must be equivalent to a percentage of their passenger losses.

The Western White House announced signing of the bill through a statement handed newsmen. The President made no comment on it.

Railroads wishing to abandon their passenger service must pay the corporation the least of three amounts:

—Half of the fully distributed passenger deficit of the railroad for 1969.

—100 per cent of the avoidable loss of all intercity passenger service operated by the railroad during 1969.

—200 per cent of the avoidable loss of intercity passenger service operated over routes between points of the railroad's basic system during 1969.

In return, the railroad would receive common stock in the new corporation equivalent to the payment made.

Railroads which decline to turn over their passenger service to the new corporation would be prohibited for five years from discontinuing any part of the service.

The secretary of transportation is required by the legislation to submit to Congress and Interstate Commerce Commission within 30 days his preliminary recommendations for the basic passenger network.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)

Richard M. Nixon the politician skillfully blended the fiber of Richard Nixon the President into a rousing speech before 8,000 Utahns Saturday night at the Salt Lake Tabernacle.

It was the last appearance that I will be making during the campaign of 1970, Nixon told the jammed-packed audience.

And then, filled with nostalgia, he looked around the 103-year-old Mormon Tabernacle and commented, he was glad "it is taking place in this historic room."

It was in the tabernacle that he campaigned for the presidency, in the Beehive State Nixon said and now, "this is the first time I have come here as President of the United States."

The Salt Lake City appearance capped a four-state stumping Saturday that carried him through Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah. It climaxed a 22-state tour that saw Nixon travel approximately 10,000 miles in search of support of Republican candidates in the Tuesday election.

For Nixon, who has faced scores of hostile, chanting audiences, the Utah appearance had overtones of tranquility—of a people who had come to hear their President speak.

Time for living

By ROGERS FRANKLIN

Retirement Counselor

You may recall that about a year ago I wrote that many of us are moving into mobile homes. About two months ago I gave the helpful hints of an experienced mobile-home owner, and I ended up by saying: "I'm sure you saved our readers some headaches as well as time and money."

Now the point I want to make — right now — is that I'm not "plugging" this way of life. My two columns were only to report on some pros and cons and offer you the firsthand experience of a fellow retiree.

I've had a lot of response from those columns, some from folks who take exception to what I wrote. Here's one typical reaction; he asked that I withhold his name, and I'm also eliminating other names and places.

"Dear Mr. Franklin:

"I've read your articles on mobile-home living, and believe me, they're for the birds. I've lived in a mobile home for over four years now and can tell you a few things your readers should hear.

"In my state you can't move into a decent court unless you buy your mobile home from the owner. Do you know what it actually costs to live in a mobile? It's not what anyone could call cheap living. We moved into this court four years ago at $28 a month for lot rent. Now we pay a base rent of $50 a month. We were paying $3 a month for children under five and $10 a month for each school age child. Now it's $6 a month for pre-schoolers and $20 to $25 a month for school kids. The owner also charges for dogs, cats, and other things.

"Do you realize what it is to pay more per month for a little piece of land than you pay for your mobile home? Last year the people in our park tried to take the owner to court. We even had the town behind us, but we failed. Meanwhile, we've been trying for one-and-a-half years to sell our 12-by-60-foot 1968 mobile home for $4,000. This includes many extras such as shed, awning, etc. But the owner has the final say on who ever buys our home, and he hasn't okayed one yet. He always finds excuses; the newest was that he doesn't want any more kids (discrimination); yet I see he lets people with kids move right in. Just now, a couple showed up from Kansas with an 18-month-old daughter. They're next door to us. He doesn't oppose children if their parents buy their new mobile homes from him.

"I could go on and on but I doubt if it will do any good. For all I know, the way you've been boosting mobile homes you're on his (the owner's) side. I think people should at least be warned.

Well, sir, if your experiences are valid, then readers have been warned. No doubt others have had similar experiences, while others have had good experiences. I guess it all boils down to the fact that no matter where and how any of us live, you're going to have some pad with the good. One thing we do know — no one way of life is ideal for all.

—In every case, no matter what you do or pick, somebody once said it in Latin a few centuries ago: "Let the Buyer Beware."

Nixon fibers blend well

The half-hour talk was punctuated just three times, by a lone dissenter who shouted "fascist" and "imperialist" at key points.

Nixon, who Thursday faced rock throwing "haters" in San Jose, Calif., was not ruffled.

He drew heavy applause as he scoured extremists and drew a two-minute standing ovation when he termed persons "super-hypocrites of our time" who stand with a peace sign in one hand "and carry a brick in the other."

These violent few, said Nixon, are not representative of the youth of a nation. The "violent radical few are neither the monopoly of today and they will not be the leaders of this country," he said.

"I believe in American youth. You should believe in American youth." The majority of them want change but they feel it must be a peaceful change, he said.

Nixon heartily endorsed the candidacy of Rep. Laurence J. Burton, R-Utah for the U.S. Senate.

Burton is challenging the seat of incumbent Democratic Sen. Frank E. Moss.

"You have two good men running for the Senate in Utah," he conceded.

His evaluation of Moss differed from that of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew who told a Salt Lake City audience two months ago that Moss was "the western chairman of the Eastern liberal establishment."

But, the question is Nixon said: "In the next two years do you want a President who keeps his promises?"

In order to keep his 1968 campaign pledges, Nixon said, he needs more support in the Senate.

Speaking with traditional Nixon gestures—quick moving hands, raising and lowering to make a needed point—he enumerated three areas the nation must make headway under his administration.

They are:

—A workable peace plan for Indochina. "Never in the history of this century have the American people had a full generation of peace."

He had presented a peace plan, Nixon added, and now he needs support in the Senate to implement it.

"Let's end this war so that we can have a generation of peace," he added.

—Secondly, "I promised we would reform the institutions of government," Nixon said. As an example, he scored governmental welfare programs that make "it possible for a man not to work and get food..."

—Lastly, peace in the home must be strived for. Many of the problems with today's youth can be traced to permissiveness in the home.

Shoplift seminar at Burley

BURLEY — The Burley Chamber of Commerce and the Burley Merchants Association are co-sponsoring a seminar on "Shoplifting and Bad Checks" at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Ponderosa Inn Convention Center.

The program will include short films on the two subjects, produced and shown by the Small Business Administration. Vic Goertzen, Small Business Administration representative, states that the films have been acclaimed throughout the nation and have played a major role in reducing shoplifting and writing of bad checks. Mr. Goertzen will bring the films to Burley from the Boise office.

William Parsons, local attorney, and member of the chamber's board of directors, will speak to the group regarding steps to be taken in apprehending a suspect on the premises of a business. On hand, also, to answer questions will be Sheriff Ray G. Mitchell and Chief of Police, Ken Barry. "Due to the increase in these two offenses at this time of year, it is imperative that all employers and their employees be in attendance in order to reduce these crimes in the various places of business. "We also want the shopping public to be aware that something is being done to curtail this threat to business," stated Lloyd Blackmer and Dean Draper of the Merchants Association.

Politics highlight past week

By C. W. ORR

United Press International President Nixon went politicking this week as the campaign drew to a close and Tuesday's election approached.

The President stumped for candidates in Florida, Texas, Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska and California with the hope of gaining control of the U.S. Senate—if not by a Republican majority at least with help from conservative Democrats.

At some appearances, Nixon was jeered by young people. At San Jose, Calif., demonstrators threw eggs, rocks and bottles at him in the most disorderly protest he has faced as Chief Executive.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew campaigned in the South. He pledged the administration's support of neighborhood schools.

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., whom Agnew has criticized as a "radical liberal," decided to keep running. There was speculation Goodell would support his Democratic opponent, Rep. Richard Ottinger, rather than see Conservative James L. Buckley, the White House favorite, win.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad, in a U.N. General Assembly debate on the Mideast—the first since the 1967 war—urged that Israel be forced to withdraw from occupied Arab territory. Foreign Minister Abba Eban of Israel responded by calling for Egypt to pull back missiles from the cease-fire line before negotiations resume. A Cairo newspaper said Egypt was willing to extend the cease-fire in the Mideast for two months.

The United States demanded that Russia return an Army plane, two U.S. Army generals, a major and a Turkish colonel who strayed into Soviet Armenia a week earlier. The State Department called their detention a violation of the consular convention with the United States.

The United States and the Soviet Union agreed to develop systems so spaceships of both nations could dock with one another.

Kremlin keeping hard line policy

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst

Hard line: Among British government ministers, one clear thought emerged from Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's visit to London. That was the Kremlin has not intention of rushing into any major accords with the West in coming months. Some diplomats believe Moscow is now awaiting the outcome of next spring's Communist party congress before taking action on key international issues.

Air pollution: French Defense Minister Michel Debre's insistence that his parliamentary constituency of Bordeaux become the new base for a French-German pilot training program, despite its notoriously bad flying weather, could upset plans for joint French-German development of a jet trainer.

The Germans want to train on the Mediterranean coast with its almost permanent sunshine. How the question is resolved could determine the future of the West German pilot training program at Shepherd Field, Tex.

Papacy and Red China: Pope Paul is expected to continue seeking an accommodation with Communist China through discreet diplomatic feelers rather than attempting a specific appeal for a renewal of contacts during his forthcoming visit to Southeast Asia. To attempt the latter would be to risk a repetition of the stony silence which greeted his last such appeal in 1967.

The logical place for the Pope to make an appeal to the Communist Chinese would be Hong Kong. But he is scheduled only to celebrate mass during his short stay there. Furthermore, he recently appointed a new diplomatic representative to Nationalist China, a move scarcely calculated to make the Peking government receptive to a papal appeal.

Aftermath of storm: A long, painful process of rehabilitation faces about 500,000 Filipinos whose houses and farmsteads were totally destroyed or severely damaged by two typhoons which visited upon the country its worst post-war disaster. In the Bicol Peninsula south of Manila, 80 per cent of the coconut trees were destroyed. Officials estimate it will take about five years for trees to be replanted and to bear fruit. In the interim, thousands of coconut farmers and their families will have to subsist on relief aid, with no guarantee they won't be wiped out again by weather even before the five years are up.

FBI says fire order 'assumed'

NEW YORK (UPI)—An FBI investigation into the killings of four students May 4 at Kent State University in Ohio contradicts a grand jury report that said National Guardsmen fired their weapons in a belief they were in danger, the New York Times said today.

A 35-page summary by the Justice Department of the FBI investigation said most of the guardsmen who fired did not say they had done so because they believed their lives were in danger, the Times reported. "Rather, they generally simply state that they fired after they heard others fire or because, after the shooting began, they assumed an order to fire in the air had been given," the Times quoted the summary.

An Ohio State grand jury found on Oct. 16 that the guardsmen were not subject to criminal prosecution because they fired under the belief that otherwise they would be injured. The jury, however, did indict 25 persons—students, former students and faculty members.

The Justice Department report said there is "some reason to believe that the claim by the National Guard that their lives were endangered by the students was fabricated subsequent to the event," according to the Times. Six guardsmen said "pointedly that the lives of the members of the guard were not in danger and that it was not a shooting situation."

The FBI study, like the President's Commission on Campus Unrest, determined there was no evidence of the presence of a sniper, the Times reported, and that the troops still had some tear gas supplies.

The FBI also found that rock-throwing was not as great just before the weapons were fired as it had been earlier. Only one guardsman was injured enough to require treatment and he was hit by a rock some 10 to 15 minutes before the fatal shooting, the report said.

The summary said the guard force was not surrounded by students and that the troops could have continued toward the commons, an open area that is the center of the campus.

The FBI inquiry found that two of the students who were killed were in the front of the taunting crowd. One, Jeffrey Miller, had made obscene gestures at the troops and the other, Allison Krause, had shouted obscenities, the Times said the summary reported. Three other students who were shot had taunted the troops and two others probably were encouraging students to throw stones, the Justice Department believes. Six persons shot probably were mere spectators. Nine persons were wounded by gunfire besides the four killed.

Oil geologist says drill scars erased

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Geologist Sankey Blanton says he can guarantee that oil companies today are making every effort to meet mounting energy demands without leaving scars on the environment.

Blanton, senior geologist in Sun Oil Co.'s key areas region, returned recently from a field trip to the North Slope of Alaska.

The area Blanton worked extends from the Canadian border westward to the Canning River and from the Arctic Ocean south to the Continental Divide in the Romanof Mountains. It's a rugged range on the south, dropping to an almost flat, moss-covered tundra northward to the Arctic Ocean.

Blanton denies complaints by conservation and ecology groups that oil companies are a menace to the ecology. He refutes charges that tracks left in tundra areas by seismic vehicles will not grow over within a hundred years, and the geologists in the area take every humanly possible precaution to preserve the environment.

"Oil companies are getting the blame," he said, "but much of the littering in northern Alaska is really material left by the federal government from as far back as 25 to 30 years — in connection with abandoned military installations and with naval petroleum reserve No. 4 when exploration for it was in progress."

Government officials not only are very strict about leaving debris around, but also specify that wild animals which endanger the camp must be reported to state and federal wildlife agencies.

Blanton says a factor that contributes to the expensive operations being carried on in Alaska is the "extreme caution to prevent any disturbance to the ecology."

Blanton, 47, says there is a variety of problems encountered during surveys of the Alaskan oil fields.

Idahoans asked to protest Hanoi's POW treatment

By MARJORIE LIERMAN, Times-News Correspondent
FILER — "The American Legion and Auxiliary are asking 100,000 Idaho citizens to write to Hanoi protesting the holding and the treatment of American prisoners," stated Max Hanson, Boise, national vice commander of the western area, to American Legion and Auxiliary members at the Fifth District convention held Sunday in the Filer American Legion Hall. Stating that the holding of American soldiers is in violation of the Geneva Conference Treaty, Hanson said the letters should be sent to congressmen with the request that the number and content of the letters be placed in the Congressional Record. Hanson added that the national American Legion commander, as well as President Richard Nixon, have both shown much interest in the proposal and that the President has appointed a special blue ribbon committee to investigate and make recommendations how to handle it. Both the legion and the auxiliary placed the letter-writing as their main project of the convention which had begun with a one o'clock banquet for which Don McDonald, Eden, Fifth District adjutant, was toastmaster.

The two groups held separate business meetings. Art Tattersall, Eden, Fifth District commander, directed the legion meeting. LeRoy Lebsack, Paul, Fifth District sergeant-at-arms, advanced the colors, and Paul Brown, Filer, department chairman of finance, led the prayer.

Guests introduced included Hanson; Dan McClintock, Nampa, department commander; Lou Babb, Boise, department adjutant; Lebsack, area B vice commander; Eldon Aston, Malad, department rehabilitation chairman; and Don McDonald, Eden, Fifth District adjutant.

In his report on department activities and problems, Babb urged Vietnam War veterans to join the American Legion to protect their legislative entitlements.

Mrs. Paul Brown, Filer, welcomed members and guests of the auxiliary, and Christina Petersen, Twin Falls, responded. Mrs. Milton Hanson, Filer, led the prayer, and Alton Buckley, Filer, sergeant-at-arms, advanced the colors. Mrs. Joyce Harding, Filer, sang the National Anthem.

Mrs. Clifford Smith, Rigby, state department president, was guest speaker, and Mrs. Rex McClain, Eden, district president, and Faye Thomas, Malad, state department vice president, also spoke.

Reports were given by Emma Lebsack, Americanism; Lena McClain, community service; Mrs. Brown, constitution and bylaws, and education and scholarships; Maxine Watkins Girls' State; junior auxiliary, Janice Shepherd; Betty Morton, legislative; Alta McDonald, child welfare; Lois Matheny, national security; Fern Olive Price, rehabilitation; Mary Shepherd, membership, and Ann Spence, secretary-treasurer.

Spectacular scenic view ...

OUTDOOR WRITER, Virils Fischer, left, pauses with Jim Moorhead of the Challis National Forest recreation staff, to enjoy the view from high in the White Cloud mountains. In the background is the spectacular rock formation known as the Chinese Wall. Fischer is planning an article about the current White Cloud study.

Outdoor writer plans White Clouds article

TWIN FALLS — Scenic White Cloud Mountains, much in dispute by mining and conservation interests in recent months, may come in for some more national publicity. Sawtooth National Forest officials said here today. Well-known outdoor writer, Virils Fischer, spent several days in the area this fall, forest officials said, and is planning an article on the present evaluation study being conducted in the area. Art Selin, Sawtooth National Forest, who is participating in the study said teams have largely completed field studies and their reports should be completed within the near future. Fischer, no stranger to the Sawtooth Mountain ranges has previously written of the area in several outdoor publications. He is, in addition to his writings on the outdoors and recreation, secretary of the Nevada Wildlife Federation and a member of the board of directors, American Forestry Association. He is also a veteran mountaineer and climber, Selin said.

Agnew's limousine has expired license plates

By DICK HIGH, Times-News Associate Editor

BOISE — Vice President Spiro Agnew rode to the political rally winding up Idaho's 1970 election campaign Saturday in a car with expired license plates. Newsmen who covered Agnew's visit to Boise noted the plate on the limousine — which was equipped with bullet-proof glass — was in need of renewal. There was some opposition to the vice president's speech, expressed by seven hecklers who walked out at the end. One of the group shouted profanity but the exclamation was muffled. Attired in wide-brimmed felt hats and wearing long hair, the group also booed occasionally during Agnew's speech, but the dissonance was usually drowned out by the applause of the Republican faithful. The turnout, estimated at less than 2,000, filled the Capital-High School gymnasium only to about two-thirds capacity. The handful of hecklers was kept in line by sheriff's officers, secret service men and plainclothesmen. Police officers were stationed in the balconies around the gymnasium, watching closely for signs of disruption. A group patrolling outside was mounted on horseback.

Seaman, buddies save woman after accident

TWIN FALLS — A sailor from Twin Falls who is stationed at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, was involved this month in the rescue of a woman motorist whose car plunged off a Hawaiian highway and sank upside down in a stream, according to a newspaper clipping received by his parents. Machinists Mate 3-C Donald L. Stearns, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Donald L. Stearns Sr., Twin Falls, was on board a bus which was following Mrs. Ferne Fegley's car when it was forced off the highway by a passing motorist, according to a story in the Honolulu Advertiser. Stearns and two other Navy men searched for the car and reported sighting the taillights shining through about five feet of water. Stearns and Machinists Mate Fireman Mike J. McCurdy dove into the stream, opened the closed car and found the woman in the back seat. The sailors pulled the woman from the car and took her to a bridge support where Fire Control Technician 3-C Bob D. Dale helped raise the unconscious woman to a concrete piling. Stearns administered mouth to mouth resuscitation. The Advertiser article quotes Stearns as saying, "It was the first time I ever had any use for it." Stearns is a 1967 graduate of Twin Falls High School and has been in the Navy for about a year and a half.

Audit completed on Gooding investments

GOODING — An audit of the county courthouse insurance investments account has been completed at the request of Shyl Stevens, county clerk-auditor. The firm of Carrico and Oakley made the audit after rumors were circulated that Miss Stevens, who is seeking reelection, had taken the funds for her personal use. Miss Stevens said, "The audit proves that the funds have been carefully and accurately handled during the highest possible rate of interest and properly deposited in the Gooding County treasury. She said, "every possible means has been exhausted by a small group of Gooding County people to desecrate my character and undermine my integrity." "This audit report, which is available at my office for anyone to look at, clears the record," she said.

Airlifted

BOISE (UPI) — Stanley Buzzini, 36, Boise, was taken to St. Alphonsus hospital Sunday evening after he was shot in the left leg in an accident near the Boise Cascade logging camp. Ada County Sheriff Deputy Alex Winn said the man was airlifted from the scene of the accident by the Mast Helicopter Service from Mountain Home Air Force Base. The camp is located near the confluence of the Filer and Boise Rivers.

BUHL — Brian Fritz, 9, who was accidentally shot in both feet Saturday afternoon, is reported in improved condition today at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Fire destroys Kimberly spud cellar-warehouse KIMBERLY — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a potato cellar-warehouse here about midnight Saturday, according to Edwin Gill, chief of the volunteer fire department. Gill said the alarm was received shortly after midnight, and when firemen and equipment arrived, the potato cellar portion of the building already was engulfed in flames. A large force of volunteers battled for several hours to keep the flames from spreading.

Bank, McCulloch Funeral Home, Paulson's Jewelry, Fred's Sporting Goods and other stores were damaged by BB guns, police said. Metal garbage containers were rolled from alleys into streets. Streets were blocked in several areas of Burley and there were incidents of straw fires in streets. There also were numerous reports of egg and tomato throwing, police said. In Twin Falls, broken windows at the high school was the only damage reported. John Lawrence, high school principal, told officers Sunday he found three windows, two on the east side and one on the north, had been broken at the school. Damage was estimated at $120. Officers said no apparent entry had been made, and investigation is continuing. Several "fight" reports were received, but officers said most turned out to be large congregations of pranksters who were dispersed. Additional officers including the entire detective force of the Twin Falls Police Department remained on duty Saturday night and early Sunday morning. Officers said although there was a lot of activity there was a relatively small degree of damage. Jerome observed what was probably the quietest Halloween in the valley. Chief C.H. Puntney said the police department received no calls Saturday night and it was "probably the calmest Halloween" he has experienced in 14 years of police work. Rupert also observed a fairly quiet night, with activity there confined to incidents of egg and tomato throwing.

Revision questions?

Halloween events confined to egg, tomato throwing

TWIN FALLS — Halloween activity in most Magic Valley cities was confined to egg and tomato throwing and little destruction, except at Burley and Twin Falls where windows were broken. In Burley, the hardest hit, a plate glass window was broken at city hall and windows at Brookman Auto Sales were broken. Windows at First Security Bank, Cassia National Bank, McCulloch Funeral Home, Paulson's Jewelry, Fred's Sporting Goods and other stores were damaged by BB guns, police said. Metal garbage containers were rolled from alleys into streets. Moderate turnout expected in Idaho's balloting

BOISE (UPI) — A light to moderate voter turnout is predicted for Tuesday's general election even though the state faces one of its closest elections for governor in years. Predictions ranged from a low of 240,000 by State Auditor Joe R. Williams to a high of 282,000 by Secretary of State Pete T. Conarrusa. The record was 300,450 in 1960. Republican Gov. Don Samuelson puts his record on the line in a whisker-close race against Democrat Cecil Andrus. Samuelson defeated Andrus by 10,842 votes in a four-way race four years ago. Samuelson contends he has charted a careful course for state government the past four years, avoiding the shoals of tax increases. Andrus contends his policies have forced property taxes up at the local level. More dramatic is the difference in viewpoints held by the two candidates on the question of mining in the White Clouds area. Andrus favors preservation of the area while Samuelson wants to permit mining provided the miners restore the area afterward. Of the 10 statewide or congressional races on the ballot Tuesday there are two other hotly-contested races in Idaho: a non-partisan battle for Supreme Court justice and a political battle for attorney general.

Incumbent Clay V. Spear, an appointee, faces chairman Will S. Deffenbach of the Industrial accident board in a runoff election for the Supreme Court. They were the top vote-getters in the Aug. 4 non-partisan race of four for the post. Republican incumbent Robert M. Robson, an appointee, is confronted with a strong bid from Democrat W. Anthony (Tony) Park in the contest for attorney general. Should a Democrat win either this race or the one for governor the Democrats could take control of the state land board. Besides these races, there are two races for congress, six-five other races for statehouse offices, 105 races for legislative seats, plus county races. Five ballots will be put before the voters Tuesday. All the political candidates will be placed on one of them. On another will be the two Supreme Court candidates. On still another will be two proposed amendments to the present constitution. On the fourth will be a legislative pay initiative. And on the fifth will be the proposed revised constitution. Other major races on the ballot and the candidates are: Lieutenant governor — Republican incumbent Jack M. Murphy; Democrat Paul Boyd;

American Party Wallace Hitt, Secretary of State — Republican incumbent appointee Pete T. Conarrusa and Democrat Winston Benson. Auditor — Democrat incumbent Joe R. Williams and Republican Charles (Jack) Holley. Treasurer — Democrat incumbent Marjorie Ruth Moon and Republican Wallace Conolly. Superintendent of public instruction — Democrat incumbent D. F. Engelking; Republican Gilbert T. McKinlay, and American Party A. Lane Blanchard. Congress, First District — Republican incumbent James A. McClure and Democrat Wm. J. Brauner. Congress, second district — Republican incumbent Orval Hansen; Democrat Marden Wells; American Party Joel Anderson, and write-in Independent Marianne Condon.

Cassia Contests Outlined

BURLEY — Voters in Cassia County will find on Tuesday's ballot a contest for state Senator and state Representative.

On the Republican ticket Joe Preston is seeking re-election for state senator. Opposing Preston is Robert (Bob) Saxvik on the Democratic ticket.

In 1968, Preston was elected to the Idaho Senate and has served on the Finance Committee and the Senate Education Committee. He has served two terms in the House of Representatives in 1965 and 1967 and was chairman of Revenue and Taxation committee. Preston owns and operates an insurance and real estate agency in Burley and he resides in Declo.

Saxvik is a newcomer to the political field, filing to fill a vacancy on the ballot after the primary election. He is vice president and manager of KBAR radio station and has held this position since 1962. Saxvik has served as president of the Burley Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Idaho State Broadcasters Association and is president-elect of the 6,000-member Idaho Golf Association. He served as chairman of the 1963 county-wide territorial Centennial Celebration and has served on the Cassia County Educational Advisory Committee and is listed in Marquis "Who's Who in the West."

J. Vard Chatburn, Albion, is seeking re-election for state Representative District 25 (all of Cassia County) and Ernest A. Hale is seeking the other seat in the House of Representatives. Both Chatburn and Hale are on the Republican ticket.

Clarence A. Parr, a Democrat, is seeking one of the two seats in the House of Representatives from Cassia County.

Only two Republicans in the House of Representatives have more seniority than Chatburn. He is the second-ranking member of the State Affairs Committee and co-chairman of the Legislative Council Timber Tax Study Committee and has served on the Education Committee for three terms. Chatburn is a farmer and rancher and in 1964 was named Idaho Grassman of the Year. He has been active in local community affairs, serving 12 years on the Albion Highway Board and has been a director of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association and Sawtooth Forest Advisory Council.

Hale, a new entrant in the political arena, is a lifetime resident of Cassia County and presently resides in Burley. He is self-employed as a quarry operator.

Parr, who filed after the primary election last August, has served on the University of Idaho Agricultural Consulting Council and the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce Farm City Committee. He participated in the Greater Boise Chamber of Commerce, first annual Farm Forum in February, 1970. For two years he served as president of Potato Growers of Idaho, Inc. He is a farmer in the Idaho area and resides in Burley.

Presently Mr. Parr is serving as vice-president of National Potato Council, Washington, D.C. Parr was the only Idahoan invited by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to President Lyndon B. Johnson's second Annual Rural Life Conference held in Washington, D.C.

All other candidates on the ballot are on the Republican ticket and are running unopposed, including Frank B. Kearns, recorder, auditor and clerk of the District Court; J. Weldon Beck, county commissioner, First District, Burley; Orvil E. Beecher, Elba, county commissioner, Third District; Shirley Povlsen, county treasurer; Gordon S. Nielson, prosecuting attorney; Calvin G. Heiner, county assessor; and Leslie G. Fillmore, coroner.

Saxvik and Parr are the only candidates on the Democratic ticket for a county office.

Road Query Posed

BURLEY — Cassia County voters going to the polls on Tuesday will decide whether or not the secondary road system in the county should be changed.

On the ballot will be the question, "For the purpose of administering the secondary road system of Cassia County, shall the County Commissioners divide the entire county into highway districts covering the entire county secondary road system?"

A "Yes" vote on this proposal will mean the voter favors the 92 miles of roads controlled by the county commissioners being absorbed into the highway districts presently established.

A "No" vote would mean the voter favors the present system whereby the county retains control of the unorganized roads and the present districts are left as is.

Record Reviews

..... EXCELLENT VERY GOOD
... GOOD ... FAIR ... POOR

Mozart: Piano Sonata in D Major, Piano Sonata in A Minor, and Rondo in A Minor, Vladimir Ashkenazy, pianist (London CS 5649)

The two sonatas in this album are among the finest of the two dozen piano sonatas Mozart composed.

He composed most of his piano sonatas before the age of 23, and wrote only a few thereafter. This album presents the last of the first series he composed, and the very last he ever composed. They are remarkably mature examples of Mozart's art, taking into consideration that during Mozart's lifetime the piano was still undergoing constant changes as it also matured.

Piano Sonata in A Minor (K.310) was written during the summer of 1787, the first of five he composed while visiting Paris with his mother.

It has been described as "tragic" because Mozart was concerned about his dying mother's health. But the composition is not a moody or depressive composition.

If the circumstances of its composition were different, it is likely the description of the work would also vary. Sonata in D Major (K.576) was written in 1789, and reflects the maturity and wisdom of those intervening years. It was the last piano sonata he completed, and is considered among the finest he ever composed.

The Rondo in A Minor is an exceedingly restrained and beautiful work, composed in 1786 while Mozart was in Vienna. It is based on a theme by J.S. Bach, and is a stately, elegant work.

Ashkenazy's artistry in this album is excellent. He is never overbearing or pushy. His technique is delicate and restrained, velvety and lush. Three very beautiful piano works by Mozart and Ashkenazy.

Schumann: Piano Concerto in A Minor, Waldscenen: Wilhelm Backhaus, piano, Gunter Wand conducting the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra (London STS 15099)

Schumann's Piano Concerto in A Minor and his beautiful solo work, "Woodland Scenes" receive masterful treatment from pianist Wilhelm Backhaus in this new London release.

The piano concerto, although a controversy among musicologists for years, is a popular favorite, standing behind some of the massive giants of piano concertos.

While it can't rank with Beethoven or Brahms, it nevertheless ranks high in the hearts of music lovers. The dynamic qualities of the work are rarely matched in other piano concertos which receive greater adulation and esteem.

The work is filled with truly lovely melodies woven through some titanically constructed piano passages. Musicologists for years have argued the concerto is weak because of the lack of orchestration, but few listeners seem to mind.

The "Woodland Scenes" is a nine part solo piano poem painting a changing scenario of forest scenes, telling the story of a hunt.

A seldom recorded work, it is given sensitive treatment by Backhaus. The quality of the recording varies from superb on the solo "Waldscenen" to a slightly diminished sound quality on the piano concerto, where the orchestra seems just a little too distant.

Eric Quincey Tate (Cottillon SD 9025)

This new group is worth a long, hard look and listening by the broad rock musical audience.

They've got a special appeal and a good clean sound, which is like a combination of jazz and country rock.

They are definite, broad elements of country in the music, and with the backing of the Dixie Flyers and Memphis Horns on nearly every cut, there's a definite jazz rock flavor.

The group also gets help from Tony Joe White and Tommy Carlisle in the album, which doesn't hurt any either.

The members of the group are not named on the jacket, nor is it really evident whether Eric Quincey White is the lead member of the group or merely the name of the group.

But whatever is lacking in information about the group is made up for in their music.

They make a sweet sound, full of nice quiet touches, a mellow and subdued series of tunes, with strong but underplayed lead singing.

All their work is original, and it's evident from the craftsmanship of the album that the group takes special care of its work. From the sound of the album, the group consists of organ, guitar, bass and drums, but there is extensive horn work from the Flyers and the Horns.

Worth a listen, because they're comers.

Four stars.

Mylon (Cottillon SD 9026)

It's all gospel rock, and it's very well done.

Mylon is Mylon LaFebre, guitarist, vocalist and writer for the group. But the group is an entity. Everybody pitches in. There are five young men in the group, and all of them are writing.

The work in the album is all original, and it's highly original. Some of it is excellent.

The group gets gospel soul choral backing throughout the album from Merry Clayton (who else?) and three of her soul sisters.

As if not to leave any doubt about the essence of their music, our heroes were photographed in front of a church (front of the album) and in a church (back of the album).

One listen to "Old Gospel Ship" would have told anybody with normal hearing what the music was all about.

There are 12 tunes in the album, about three or four more than normal, almost all of them aimed toward religion: "Sunday School Blues" and "Sweet Peace Within" and "Peace Begins Within" among the titles.

The music is very good, despite the somewhat limited confines of the musical spectrum Mylon has chosen. And it rocks, despite the religious aspects of the music.

It's a refreshingly different musical approach for a rock group, and the music is enjoyable.

Four stars.

Linkup plans pushed

HOUSTON (UPI)—American and Soviet space scientists are working on plans to link up a United States spacecraft with a Russian craft in orbit.

The language barrier presents no great problem, says Robert Gilruth, manned space center director, but 12 major mechanical problems will have to be worked out, the most serious of which is the difference in cabin pressure between the two crafts.

Gilruth and Caldwell C. Johnson, chief of the spacecraft design office at the Space Center, returned from a Moscow meeting earlier this week to begin detailed plans for a future international docking.

Gilruth said Friday the leaders of the two countries did not discuss reasons for the docking, but he assumed it would be for emergency rescue, and-or scientific purposes.

Scientists at the Moscow meeting listed such problems as development of compatible instruments to measure range and closing speed, shock absorption, alignments of objects, nomenclature and signs and the dynamics of docking.

Gilruth said Russians and Americans could meet in space without being well versed in each other's flight procedures. He said language would be a minor problem "because the number of words used in docking would not be great."

Another meeting is scheduled for next month and officials will exchange more data at that time. Three committees are to begin meeting next March to work out specifics.

VETERAN San Francisco crime reporter Paul Avery received this threatening Halloween card from the mysterious "Zodiac killer" who claims to have slain 13 people in that area. Poor quarter reports still stream out

NEW YORK (UPI)—A steady stream of poor third quarter financial statements from many of the nation's largest corporations, including General Motors, U. S. Steel, and Bethlehem Steel, along with some unsettling economic news provided sellers with plenty of ammunition on Wall Street this week.

But the downturn was cushioned by persistent speculation that the Federal Reserve Board (Fed) soon would cut the discount rate — that charged member commercial banks — which has been at a record 6 per cent since August 1969.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index finished with a loss of 0.52 at 83.25; the New York Stock Exchange Common Stock Index dipped 0.36 to 45.28; and the Dow Jones Industrial Average, a blue chip barometer, was off 3.77 at 755.61.

Of the 1,786 issues crossing the tape, declines outscored advances, 1,071 to 546. There were 50 new lows set, 37 new highs.

Turnover for the five-days aggregated 50,524,710 shares, down slightly from 41,151,090 shares a week earlier, but well below the 62,885,500 shares traded during the year ago period.

Dr. Henry Kaufman, partner and economist, Salomon Brothers, said the Fed probably will reduce its discount rate soon, and the commercial banks will follow with another cut in the prime rate. The prime rate, which was cut to 7½ per cent from 8 per cent in September, is that which commercial banks charge their most credit-worthy customers.

16-point surge carries Giants past Jets 19-10

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Giants scored 16 points on just six plays within a span of 1:54 of the third period Sunday to defeat the New York Jets, 19-10, and hand their cross-town rivals their fifth successive loss.

The Giants, who won their fourth straight game, trailed 7-3 at halftime, but began their comeback early in the third period when they tackled Jets fullback Chuck Mercein in the end zone for a safety. Less than two minutes later, Fran Tarkenton threw touchdown passes of nine yards to Bob Tucker and 11 to Clifton McNeil for the decisive points.

The Jets, a 10-point underdog, scored first on an eight-yard touchdown pass from Al Woodall to George Nock and got a 31-yard field goal from Jim Turner in the third period. However, they could not overcome the Giants' third quarter rally.

The Jets, playing without their entire first string backfield, got a strong showing from the defensive unit, but oddly enough it was a successful

CLEVELAND (UPI)—San Diego turned two Cleveland fumbles into touchdowns and quarterback John Hadl, who connected on 13 of 20 passes for 201 yards, led Lance Alworth with a 44-yard scoring pass to defeat the New York Jets, 19-10, and hand their cross-town rivals their fifth successive loss.

The Jets, a 10-point underdog, scored first on an eight-yard touchdown pass from Al Woodall to George Nock and got a 31-yard field goal from Jim Turner in the third period. However, they could not overcome the Giants' third quarter rally.

Broncos stopped Dunne

BOISE (UPI)—Boise State football coach Tony Knap said early last week "no team can stop Jerry Dunne—we just hope to slow him down a little."

Saturday night Knap's Broncos proved him wrong as they virtually stopped Dunne, presented a spectacular defense and whipped Idaho State University 24-3 in the Midweek.

The BSC defense held Dunne to only 123 yards passing—his average had been well over 200 yards for the season—and intercepted four of his passes.

From the opening minutes, it was all BSC's game as the Broncos ran the score to 10-3 at halftime relying on a 33-yard field goal by Eric Guthrie and a touchdown by Ross Wright.

ISU got its score off the toe of Louie Hurst who laced a 33-yard boot between the uprights midway through the second quarter.

ISU coach Ed Cavanaugh said "Boise deserves all the credit. They just outplayed us. Their defense was rugged and they were up for this game."

He singled out Wally Buono for special honors. "His punting was fantastic." It was indeed—Buono booted six punts for a 51.6 average, breaking his old Big Sky Conference record, set earlier this season, of 50.9.

Cavanaugh said the key play of the game was a roughing the kicker penalty called against ISU. He said Hurst had returned the ball to BSC's 25-yard line, but the call gave BSC possession of the ball—an automatic first down and kept the Broncos on their way to the first touchdown of the game.

Prior to the game, Cavanaugh said "BSC is an extremely well coached team, offensively they execute sharply. The biggest test for us will be—can we move the ball against them."

And that was the tale Saturday—ISU couldn't muster an offense. Boise presented a tough defense and put together its best offense of the season. It was the third straight win over ISU for the Broncos.

Don Cockcroft kicked a field goal of 19 yards in the first quarter to give the Browns' 3-0 lead. Mercer's other field goals was from 37 and 12 yards out.

The Chargers then took a Cleveland punt on the Browns' 45 and it took Hadl only five plays to move the Chargers to their third touchdown, with Brad Hubbard going over from the one with 9:47 left in the third quarter.

Deep back Jim Tolbert picked off a Nelsen pass on the San Diego one-yard line with 2:36 left in the third quarter and returned to the 21 from where Hadl moved his team to the Browns' 28. Mike Mercer then booted the first of his two fourth-period field goals from the 37.

Jim Mitchell. But Turner, a third-year wide receiver who played his college ball at California Poly, took the ensuing kickoff at the Chicago six yard line and after shaking off several tacklers, first at the 30 and again at midfield, cut to the left sidelines and outran the remaining defenders to score the go-ahead touchdown with 2:22 left in the third period.

Unbeaten Utah tops Rockets

DENVER (UPI)—Wayne Hightower and Austin Robbins each poured in 32 points to spur the undefeated Utah Stars to their sixth victory here Sunday over the faltering Denver Rockets.

Robbins and Zelmo Beatty also shared game high rebounding scores for the Stars, 18 each. Utah is now 6-0 and Denver 2-7.

Denver was paced by Larry Rannon's 32 points and Danny Hester's 16 rebounds. But normally potent Byron Beck and Don Sidle hit only four points each and the Rocket attack could not compensate for the loss.

Denver tied it up 99-99 with 6:29 left in the fourth quarter. Then in three minutes and 19 seconds the Stars ran up an 11 point lead on three Don Freeman baskets, three by Hightower and a Robbins layin while only Lonnie Wright could score for Denver.

71 gives Player meet win

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI)—Gary Player celebrated his 35th birthday Sunday with a one-under-par 71 that gave him one-stroke victory at 282 in the $28,000 Dunlop International golf tournament.

Sharing second place, a shot further back, were Lee Trevino of the U.S., Kel Nagle of Australia and Bill Brask, a 22-year-old American who came here to gain experience.

Brask fired a 70 which included four birdies, Trevino had a 71 and Nagle finished with a 72.

Player clinched the victory on a magnificent shot with a five iron from the tee on the par three 17th hole. The ball came to rest only six inches from the cup and left him with a tap-in for the sixth birdie of his round.

"It's a funny thing about that shot on the 17th," said the South African. "Actually I didn't hit it all that well but it took a good bounce," he said.

Player's check for $4,590 comes on top of the $3,350 he picked up for winning the Australian Open golf tournament for a record sixth time last week in Melbourne.

Arnold Palmer made a disastrous start when he took four putts for a bogey at the first and finished with a 73 to share 11th place in the tourney.

Rookie Terry Bradshaw again will start at quarterback for Pittsburgh although he still has not lived up to his preseason promise. Coach Chuck Noll said he believed Bradshaw's play in last week's 31-14 loss to Oakland was his best day, and said Bradshaw has been improving each week.

The Bengals (1-5), who lost Greg Cook for the year with an injury, will go with Virgil Carter. Cincinnati has been beset by injuries against a murderous early-season schedule that included games with Oakland, Detroit and Kansas City.

Moved Down in Rank Although it is among the best-known mountains in America, Pikes Peak ranks only 59th in altitude among U.S. peaks. It is 14,110 feet high and was 42nd in rank before Alaska became a state.

South might have tried two hearts but the chances are that he would pass. East would open a diamond and reasonable defense would hold South to six tricks. Oswald: "Two hearts works out much better. West will probably open a trump but no lead except a spade will make much difference in the result. South should go after the clubs. Eventually, he will trump dummy's third club to set the last two clubs up for discards and will wind up losing just four tricks. Against a spade lead, he will do one trick better."

Jim: "All this shows the value of finding a four-four major-suit fit in the early stages of the bidding."

What do you do now? A—Bid one spade. With only two hearts, it is inadvisable to double.

TODAY'S QUESTION West passes and your partner raises you to two spades. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

Oswald: "There are experts who never open four-card major suits and others who open them rather indiscriminately. We favor the five-card major suit but we don't go all the way. We open a four-card spade suit once or twice a year and a four-card heart suit somewhat more frequently, but we want our partners to treat our major suit openings as five-carders."

Jim: "Today's hand illustrates a four-card major suit opening bid in Jacoby Modern. We don't like to open bid three-card diamond suits or any two-card club suit, so we fall back on a four-card major this time."

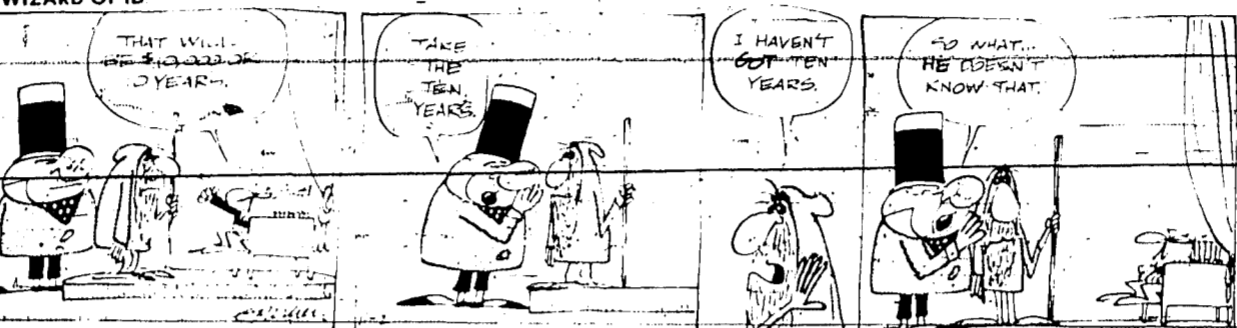

Oswald: "The main point of interest here is that we open one heart, not one spade. It is easier for our partner to bid a four-card spade suit when we open one heart. It is difficult for him to show hearts if we open

IF YOUR BUTCHER calls that fish a horse mackerel, bear in mind it's a tuna... PECULIAR THING about those towns named Mount Vernon. Almost half are county seats... FITY THAT "Malaria" isn't a girl's name instead of a disease. Beautiful word... IN BERLIN, GERMANY, a man can get a police permit to dance with another man, if such be his desire... DID I TELL YOU it requires about 12 gallons of water to take a shower?

LOVE AND WAR - Occasionally you find a husband who snores just to keep his wife awake. Or so contends a New York medical fellow. He cites the case of an English professor who admits he wasn't sure his wife loved him. Said professor snored considerably, it was determined. But after his divorce and subsequent remarriage to a more affectionate sort of girlfriend, the snoring dropped off. It is the doctor's claim the professor snored during his first marriage with a vengeance.

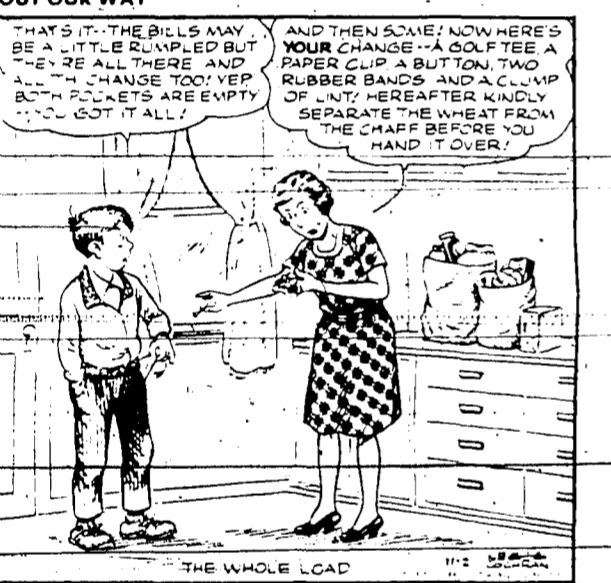

AS TO THE WHEREABOUTS of the world's longest street, here's a client from Cleveland, Ohio, who says that city's Euclid Avenue merits the title. On the theory it runs all the way to Boston "Will you accept that?" DON'T BELIEVE it has been proved yet, but a growing number of doctors think that surgery called the vasectomy tends to make a fellow more domineering, more aggressive, more impatient.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "Did you say the name of that device to keep milk fresh until delivery...udder, is the only word in English that begins with the letters ud? What about udal, udits, udgo and udometer?" A. Right you are. To name a few. Never should have repeated the mistake in the first place, but technical difficulties prevented me from fixing it sooner. Sorry. Which incidentally calls to mind the tale about the lady golfer who wildly hooked a tee shot into a cow. Shook up somewhat, said sport ran to the farmer and said, "I'm so sorry, I guess I've killed-your cow. Can I replace her?" The farmer shook his head doubtfully and said, "I don't know. How many gallons a day do you give?" Enough of that.

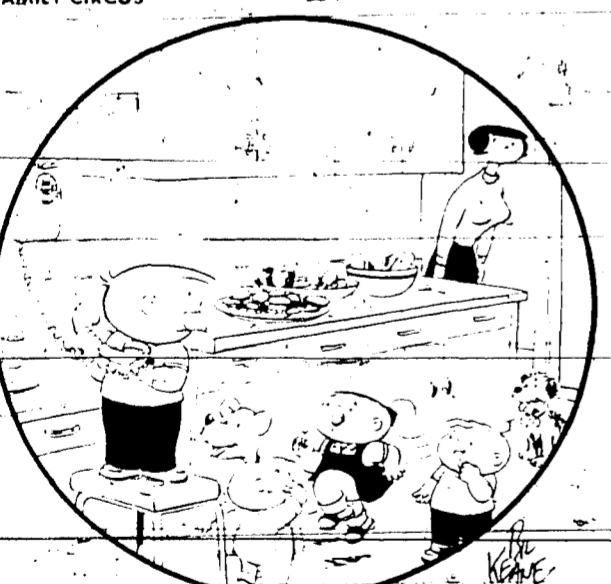

IT'S REPORTED male zoo keepers know for certain whether a crocodile is male or female until such time as said crocodile lays eggs, if ever... THE AVERAGE 15-year-old girl will grow no more than a fraction of an inch taller. The average 15-year-old boy will grow another three inches, about... IN THE NEXT couple of months those Christmas tree harvesters will cut down one tree for every four-and-a-half people nationwide.

House leaders state why voting important

EDITOR'S NOTE: Both sides have been preaching that the outcome of the voting on the makeup of the new Congress is vital to the nation's immediate future. UPI asked the Democratic and Republican leaders of the House of Representatives to explain why. Following are excerpts of their viewpoints.

By REP. CARL ALBERT House Democratic Leader (Written for UPI) Unfortunately it is popular in some quarters today to disclaim allegiance to either political party, falling back on the lame excuse that "it doesn't really make any difference."

party in Congress has been particularly strong at this crucial point in history when domestic crises abound and a Republican administration has met those crises with the same tried policies that have characterized past Republican administrations, resulting in economic slowdown, lack of national growth, high unemployment and a pronounced shortage of programs for people.

actions urgently requested by President Nixon since he took office 21 months ago. This Democrat Congress has completed action on only 45. Give us a Republican majority in the next Congress and we'll finish the job.

Democratic administrations have been times of advancement of social progress while Republican administrations are largely typified by coasting along, maintaining the status quo. To Democrats, change is challenge; to Republicans, change is a nightmare.

Democrats in Congress have acted strongly not just to meet the crises of current times—unemployment, inflation, a failing educational system, crime on the streets, environmental pollution—but to project into the future and take such action today as may be needed to forestall comparable crises in the years ahead.

Checks and balances we need, but checkmates and deadlocks we do not. President Nixon or any President is entitled to at least two years with a working majority of his own party in Congress before his performance and his programs can be fairly judged by the people.

There are about 2,000 varieties of shrimp, says the National Geographic. In sun, we need a Republican Congress to give the American people a better break than they've been getting for the last 15 years and to give President Nixon a fighting chance instead of a running fight for the next two years.

REA's Kole took a somewhat different tack. He accused the postal department of "playing with taxpayers' money" and said if it intended to compete with private carriers, the department should be compelled to cut costs and operate at a profit and to file tariffs with the Interstate Commerce Commission. He also accused the postal department of trying to skim the cream off the market in small sized packages, leaving the private firms to handle the cumbersome parcels, and of seeking air express rates for itself up to three times as high as the Civil Aeronautics Board will allow private carriers.

Swagger trademark of man who achieved aim of stars

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Gene Barry's confident swagger on television is the product of an insecure man who once aimed for the stars and made it.

Barry, who headlines "The Name of the Game" in its third year on the tube, no longer is gripped by insecurity. He is rich, getting richer and good at what he does.

Still, he attributes the self-confidence on the screen to the self-doubts he had as a struggling young actor.

"I remember I spent $41 for a suit in New York City on the easy payment plan for my screen test at Paramount many years ago," he said. "I got the part in a picture titled '19 Elevado Street.'"

The recollection of that suit and his own economic straits led to Barry being selected recently as one of somebody's (or everybody's) list of 10 best-dressed men on (or off) television.

"Now I'm sick of the clothes horse bit and look forward to shirt-sleeve scenes in the show," said the impeccably dressed actor.

But it is neither wardrobe nor superlative acting talent which has seen Barry through three series, the two previous being "Bat Masterson" and "Burke's Law."

Partly by accident and partly by design, Barry is possessed of three qualities that make him a successful television actor:

1. Strong facial features.
2. An imposing voice.
3. A flair for the dramatic gesture.

These elements can be found in other successful television stars: Raymond Burr, Lorne Greene, Jim Arness, Efrem Zimbalist Jr. and Robert Young.

"Those actors who lack one or two of the three elements rarely succeed in a series and soon drop from sight."

"People who see my show tell me they believe me in the characterization," Barry said.

"I suppose I have the necessary qualities, but they aren't valuable only to actors. They could be used off-stage in politics or industry. Maybe I'm in the wrong business."

"I like playing a winner, but I find myself doing many of the same things week after week," Barry said. "That's why, when this series is over, I'd love to go to New York and do a play—to let the acting juices flow. Work myself up to a pitch every night."

"If not, then a movie with a role that is completely different from anything I've ever done. I want to play a slob with a beard and baggy clothes. Maybe I'll have to co-produce it myself."

Barry, his confidence intact, is prepared to move on.

PRIVATE WAR

VIENNA (UPI)—Four rival Gypsy families fought a private war Sunday in front of some 4,000 Viennese who had come to watch a horse race.

The Gypsies, fighting with iron sticks and pistols, intruded the fashionable Freudenu Race Course while quarreling over best places to sell handmade carpets, police said.

The Gypsies had to be hospitalized and 14—including eight women—were arrested.

Confiscated crock studied

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—An earthenware crock device marketed by a man who said it will cure heart diseases, cancer and arthritis, is being examined by radiology personnel at the University of Utah.

The woman said radiated water from the crock cures a person and after a period of time, if she is not satisfied, the "full purchase price" is to be paid back.

Sgt. Don Lyman of the Salt Lake Police Robbery and Burco Detail, said two Medical Center doctors who examined the crock reported it has no curative faculties. Further studies were being conducted to determine if long-range exposure to the radiated water might be harmful, Lyman said.

He said the two-foot-high crock with an attached spigot can be purchased in an earthenware store for $8.40.

The cure-all crock has a bell shaped container, however, which is suspended from the lid into the center of the vessel. It reportedly contains a radiation material which emits "radon" rays into water in the jug.

The average temperature in California's Death Valley during July is 102 degrees.
