Dramatic rescue

THREE OCCUPANTS of a disabled cabin cruiser ashore safely at the conclusion of a dramatic rescue operation. One rescue craft was less fortunate, capsized, forcing rescue of its three crewmen. Firemen successfully arched lines over the disabled cruiser shown above, bringing it to shore at Half Moon Bay, Calif. (UPI)

Booze, rock to humanize U.S. Navy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, said Thursday he has authorized naval stations to establish "hard rock" music clubs and sell alcoholic drinks in barracks in an effort to humanize the Navy.

improve morale among junior officers. If they prove successful, he said, others will be set up.

Another order authorized alcoholic beverages in barracks and beer vending machines in certain bachelor quarters. "Those who drink to excess will fine themselves undergoing disciplinary action," he said. "But with the vast majority of our personnel, we will have no problem."

He told a news conference he also is trying to eliminate discrimination against blacks and to open up better jobs to the 12,000 Filipinos in the Navy, who until recently have served only as stewards.

Zumwalt said he has issued 57 "humanizing" orders, called "Z-grams," since he became chief in July.

The most recent, issued Tuesday, gives Navy officers and enlisted men greater freedom in growing beards, sideburns and mustaches and letting their hair grow long. It also liberalizes uniform regulations.

Zumwalt said most officers in command positions have accepted his departures from tradition, but about 10 per cent disapproved.

Zumwalt, 50, said his desire to humanize the Navy dates from his days as a young ensign and was strengthened during his service in Vietnam, when he was in close contact with young men.

One of Zumwalt's orders set up "hard rock" clubs at five naval stations in a pilot program to see if they would

Body found on tracks

SHOSHONE — The mangled body of a Shoshone mother was found this morning on the railroad tracks about three miles southeast of Shoshone.

Officers, including Lincoln County Sheriff Thomas (Wid) Conner and city police, were at the scene this morning and were not available to furnish details on the death.

The woman, identified as Mrs. Melba Gray, about 30 and mother of several children, had been run over by a train, but an autopsy was ordered by Lincoln County Coroner R. G. Neher to determine cause of death. Her body was to be brought to Twin Falls later today for the autopsy.

It was reported Mrs. Gray's small car was parked near the railroad tracks where it had become stuck in the mud. The car was running when her body was found.

The car reportedly was not damaged.

Mrs. Gray's children reported her missing about midnight Thursday when they found she was not in the house. The children said the door of the house was open and their mother was gone.

'Things have changed'

"It's wonderful."
"Nice."
"Different."
"Pretty."
"Lovely."
"Beautiful."
"A mess."

These are the reactions of several Twin Falls old-timers to the new downtown Twin Falls shopping mall.

Mrs. Nora Lewis, who has lived in the city of Twin Falls the past 65 years, said, "It's wonderful. I have seen lots of improvements in my time."

"It's lovely. Just lovely," says Mrs. Lulu Severns, 99-year-old resident who came to Twin Falls in 1908. She added, "We'll enjoy it more next summer."

Walter R. Priebe coming to Twin Falls in 1908, said, "It is wonderful. I hope it is a success as I liked the old Twin Falls."

John G. Sommer, who came to this area in 1905, settling in Filer, said, "It's nice. I like it. I think the fountain is very nice."

Mrs. Sue Cooper, who lived at Three Creek for 20 years before moving to Twin Falls in 1942, said, "It's wonderful. It's different."

"Pretty nice," says Wendell Gloystein, 81, who came here in 1906.

Mrs. Lora Moon Doss came to Twin Falls in 1904. She said the downtown mall is "just beautiful."

"It's pretty," says Mrs. Anne Wilson. She came here in 1905.

"A mess," says Joseph W. Adamson, who came to Twin Falls in 1901 when there were only jackrabbits and sagebrush. He said he doesn't like the "fountain."

Adamson also said he was unhappy with some of today's progress because in 1920 he leveled lava rock for Main Street, Kimberly Road and two or three other streets. "Now they have hauled it all away,"

SMILING SENIOR CITIZENS who have seen a lot of change come to their city enjoy the goings-on at Thursday's old-timers' gala in the Roundup Room. Mrs. William Van Houten, on left, all of 96 years young, and Mrs. Lulu Severns, 99, join in the merriment.

Gem mayors laud mall

TWIN FALLS — All of Idaho will salute Twin Falls today during dedication ceremonies in the downtown mall, as a delegation of 44 Idaho mayors joins other dignitaries to say "Congratulations."

The mayors are scheduled to meet at the city hall at 5:45 p. m. today for a panel discussion of urban renewal problems and solutions, spearheaded by George Michael, city engineer, and representatives of downtown businessmen and the Urban Renewal Agency.

Formal dedication of the downtown redevelopment project is scheduled at 7:30 p. m. today on the speech platform in front of the Bank of Idaho.

Short speeches are planned by Idaho Gov. Don Samuelson, Sen. Len Jordan, Rep. Orval Hansen, Grand Junction, Colo., Mayor Richard Youngerman, Robert C. Scalia and Russell H. Dawson, representing the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, and Voy Hudson, chairman of the board of the Urban Renewal Agency.

Governor-elect Cecil Andrus and Idaho Sen. Frank Church regret that they could not attend today's celebration, but each had prior commitments.

The dedication ceremony will begin with the playing of the National Anthem by the Twin Falls High School pep band, and an invocation by Msgr. Edmund Cody of the Idaho Diocese. Twin Falls Mayor Frank Feldtman will welcome the participants on behalf of the city.

The speakers will follow, each scheduled to speak no more than three minutes.

A no-host reception is scheduled for all dignitaries and officials following the dedication, at 8 p. m. in the Roundup Room.

In the event of rain or snow, the dedication will be moved to the American Legion Hall.

Bill Babcock and L. James Koutnik are coordinators of the dedication, and Holly Houfburg will serve as master of ceremonies.

On Saturday, a number of bands from Magic Valley high schools — initial estimates are that 13 to 15 schools will send their bands — will play at downtown intersections, again, weather permitting.

The drawing for the free car, and presentation of old-timer awards, is scheduled at noon in the downtown area, concluding the three-day celebration.

Climbers dangle

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (UPI)—Two veteran mountain climbers dangling 2,000 feet above the floor of Yosemite Valley waited today as rescuers inched down the sheer granite wall of El Capitan.

Nineteen expert rock mountaineers equipped with 1,000-foot nylon ropes were flown by helicopter Thursday to the 3,400-foot peak of the huge landmark for a highly technical and dangerous rescue operation.

Warren Harding, 46, and Dean Caldwell, 27, have been inching their way up an unconquered face of El Capitan known as the Wall of the Morning Light since Oct. 19.

They had hoped to scale the glacier-polished wall by Oct. 31 but, with their bedding soaked by icy rains and their rations down to some beef jerky and a few candy bars, they said Thursday they did not think they could make it.

Harding, a surveyor from Sacramento, Calif., led a three-man climbing party in 1958 to the first successful ascent of El Capitan.

Chile backs China

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—Marxist President Salvador Allende announced establishment of full relations with Havana Thursday night, breaking an Organization of American States (OAS) quarantine of Cuba.

In a national television broadcast on his ninth day in office, Allende said Chile was re-establishing diplomatic, consular, commercial and cultural relations with the Fidel Castro regime. He said the OAS sanctions were illegal and unjust.

Among the OAS states, only Mexico and Jamaica previously recognized Cuba. Mexico never complied with the quarantine and Jamaica had established the relations before becoming an OAS member.

The military governments of Peru and Bolivia have hinted they are considering ties with Cuba, but have not acted. Venezuela has also indicated it might take such a step but would do so only after consultations within the OAS.

Allende's announcement fulfilled a pledge he made while campaigning for the presidency. He said details were worked out by Foreign Minister Clodomiro Almeyda of Chile and Cuban Economy Minister Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, who headed the Cuban delegation to Allende's inauguration Nov. 3.

"Upon establishing normal relations with Cuba, the government of Chile does not ignore its obligations under international and regional treaties which it proposes to respect, carefully," Allende said.

He said, however, the OAS sanctions against Cuba were "without juridical and moral foundation" because they were not authorized under the Inter-American Mutual Defense Treaty nor approved by the U.N. Security Council.

Andrus eyes farmer need

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Correspondent
BURLEY — Idaho Governor-Elect Cecil Andrus told the state National Farmers Organization —NFO— convention here that "We need to keep the farmer in Idaho."

"If rural Idaho is destroyed or deserted," he said, "the main streets in our cities and towns also will be destroyed."

Andrus promised farmers at the meeting that after he takes office the Idaho Department of Agriculture will be available to help and work with them. "There's nothing wrong with agriculture," Andrus said, "but the low prices which farmers are getting for their crops and livestock."

"Farming," he said, "is the only segment of our society which is not organized and is still receiving 1945 prices." He said in the past farmers have not had representation in the state's government.

Andrus said the main industry in Idaho is agriculture — a fact overlooked by many in the state. He urged local chambers of commerce to take a closer look at the farming community surrounding the towns, analyze the problems of farmers.

Also speaking Thursday was Frank LaRoux, Walla Walla, Wash., former general sales manager for the United States Department of Agriculture, who charged that the government is "not doing anything for the farmer." LaRoux, author of "The Farmers' Worst Nine Years," was with the USDA during the Kennedy, Johnson and part of the Nixon administration.

Glen Uiley, Ft. Branch, Ind., senior director for the NFO, spoke on "Importance of farm income in the economy" Thursday.

He said, "We have lost in the past 20 years about $300 billion that should have come into the economy and we have substituted borrowed money, instead of earned income."

"For every dollar spent by the farm, there is a return of $7 in the economy. This is done by the fact the farmer has the same expense as the city resident, plus he has the equipment dealer, seed dealer, fertilizer, gasoline and other farm operation expenses which make a circle through the economy, thus getting the $7 return."

"New wealth in our economy is 70 per cent from the soil or farmers and 30 per cent from minerals and mining."

He said farmers are leaving the farm and moving into town to take jobs in town, causing a large percentage of the unemployment. He urged farmers to bargain in large blocs of all commodities to gain higher prices for the farmer's return.

Andrus' move-in begins

BOISE (UPI) — Members of the staff of Governor-elect Cecil Andrus began moving into the State Supreme Court Building Thursday, where Andrus will maintain offices until his inauguration.

Ron Haney, special assistant to Andrus, said the "talent search" promised by Andrus during his campaign will be conducted during the transitional period.

Haney said he expects a staff of five to man the offices. He said the $10,000 transitional fund for the governor-elect — which will be available Nov. 23 — will pay staff salaries and office expenses.

When asked whether all department heads will be replaced by Andrus, the first Democratic governor in 24 years, Haney said, "I don't really think he has reached a decision on it."

Haney said Andrus planned to assemble a committee which will make "recommendations or try to seek out qualified people for the positions that are open."

He said the committee will make several names available for each opening. He said he was uncertain how many openings would be filled, but said several posts on boards and commissions would be up for appointment within two or three months after Andrus takes over.

Jaycee convention held

BURLEY — Idaho Jaycees mid-year convention began at noon today at the Ponderosa Inn Convention Center. Registration was this afternoon and the executive board will meet at 7 p.m. At 9 p.m. a get-acquainted mixer is scheduled. Saturday at 7 a.m., there will be a leadership breakfast and speaker is Tom Risse, Washington's state Jaycee president. The general sessions will begin at 8:30 a.m. with forums throughout the morning. Luncheon at noon will feature Tim May, Utah state Jaycee president, as guest speaker.

There also will be forums Saturday afternoon, a social hour and dinner at 6 p.m. with speaker Larry Fuller, national Jaycee vice president. Also speaking will be Bernie Flaggins, Nevada state Jaycee president. Dancing will follow the dinner. Sunday at 7 a.m., a prayer breakfast is planned. Ron Bryant, Oregon's state Jaycee president, will speak, followed by general sessions. At the time the Jaycees are meeting, the Jay-C-Ettes will meet.

The nickname "Creole State" signifies that part of Louisiana's citizens are Creoles of French and Spanish descent.

Inquest sought

BURLEY — Bruce Young, Cassia County coroner, has called an inquest into the death of George Martin, 65, whose body was found Wednesday in a borrow pit near Malta.

An autopsy was performed Thursday on Martin's body, but the coroner said results will not be made public until the inquest, which will be held early next week.

Young called the inquest after conferring with Dr. B. N. Carle, Twin Falls pathologist, who performed the autopsy.

Guns, tools said taken from home

TWIN FALLS — City police were called to the mobile home residence of Charles Johnson, Caswell Trailer Court, late Thursday to investigate a report of the theft of about $2,089 in guns and tools.

Johnson told officers he did not miss the items until Thursday but they could have disappeared from one of the bedrooms of his home at various times between Nov. 6 and Nov. 12. There was no indication of a forced entry, city police reported.

Missing were 13 guns of various sizes ranging from rifles and shot guns to hand guns and including an 88 year old pistol valued at $250.

X rays' job described

TWIN FALLS — Dr. C. R. McWilliams, radiologist at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, was speaker at the regular weekly session of the Kiwanis Club at the Turf Club Thursday noon.

Introduced by Dr. Ben Katz, Kiwanis program chairman for the day, and termed "number one of the hospital team," Dr. McWilliams discussed how X-rays are made and what they do.

The advancement made in the equipment and technique was detailed by the speaker who pointed out that X rays can now be taken of minute blood vessels in various organs and three dimensional images can also be produced.

He said that the technique and equipment is now so far advanced that it is possible to lay a book on a flat surface, close it, and take a picture "of page 11."

He explained that no harm comes to the average patient through use of normal X rays. But the people who work around it must be "awfully careful." Technicians and the doctors wear leaded gloves, special aprons, carry warning badges which are read at stated times and take advantage of specially constructed walls and glass.

Much of Dr. McWilliams' discussion was in answering questions asked by Kiwanis members.

Prior to the program Bill Evans and Dick Reed announced a Ladies' night had been set for the Turf Club Nov. 23. An orchestra will provide dance music and the event will be semi-formal. The regular meeting that week will be canceled because of the evening party.

Idaho schools request of $31.3 million slated

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education decided Thursday to ask for a total of $31.3 million dollars for the 1971 - 72 school year to fund both existing programs and new programs.

The board was also told during the first of its two-day session that Idaho State University in Pocatello is now the largest institution of higher education in the state in head - count, but the University of Idaho still leads in full-time equivalency count.

The board, through the office of Higher Education, will ask for $30.4 million from the general fund for existing programs. The appropriation for the 1970 - 71 year was $25.7 million.

For new programs, the board will ask for $826,646. The total request will represent an increase of 21.3 per cent.

Governor-elect Cecil Andrus sat in during the morning sesion of the board's meeting and said during the next four years he plans to attend as many meetings as he can or have a staff member attend in his place.

Andrus said his role for the remainder of the meeting will be to "sit here with my mouth shut and my eyes and ears open."

Under a simple head-count, Idaho State University reported a fall-enrollment of 8,410, compared with the 1969 enrollment of 7,425. The figures show an increase of 13.27 per cent.

Boise State College is the second largest institution, with 8,395 students, followed by the University of Idaho with 7,558 students and Lewis-Clark with 2,279.

The full-time equivalency count takes into account the type of education — that is, graduate students account for a heavier load than undergraduates.

Under the full-time equivalency, the University of Idaho reported 8,047 students, an increase of 9.41 per cent over the 1969 figure of 7,355.

ISU reported 8,618 students, Boise State College 5,409 and Lewis-Clark 1,502.

The statistics are reached by dividing the total credit hours produced at each institution by an assumed credit-hour load per student at graduate, upper division and lower division levels.

Soviets sentence author to prison

MOSCOW (UPI) — Andrei Amalrik was convicted Thursday of slandering the state in his book "Will The Soviet Union Survive Until 1984?" and sentenced to three years in a labor camp, friends reported.

In his book, which was published in the West, Amalrik predicted war with China that would lead to the collapse of the Soviet state.

He said the Soviet Union already is "distending itself and disintegrating like sour dough," and said that sometime between 1980 and 1984 it would explode in "anarchy, violence and intense national hatred."

The sources said Amalrik, 31, was convicted by a court in Sverdlovsk of "preparing and disseminating falsehoods derogatory to the state" and specified that he be kept under a "stern regime" during his detention.

Grange master gives report

Open house Tuesday

RICHFIELD — Open house will be observed from 7 to 10 p. m. Tuesday at the Richfield LDS Ward Church. Paintings and trans-lite pictures will tell the story of Mormonism. A short film will be shown on family unity and a happier home life within the church.

Full time missionaries will attend from the Portland area, Gooding, and Twin Falls zone leaders.

The public is invited and a community welcome has been extended by Bishop Ken Dixon.

RICHFIELD — Committee reports at Richfield Grange Wednesday night were given by the master, Mrs. Eugene Alexander, and her husband who attended Pomona Grange at Dietrich.

They said the lateness of delivery of the daily newspaper was the principal concern.

Alexander also reported for the agriculture committee. He said the wheat acreage would probably be cut for the coming year. Mrs. Glen Ross told of the recent pre-election open meeting sponsored by the Grange as a public service.

National Grange at Boise was discussed with master and

Vietnam: Dead Political Issue

WASHINGTON — The long controversial Vietnam war is no longer a decisive issue in U. S. politics. That was conclusively demonstrated in the recent election. Although this immensely significant fact has been little noted by the pundits and commentators, most of them doves, it is a historic highlight of the turbulent campaign and ballot results. It is certain to have far-reaching consequences both in the U. S. and abroad. Just two short years ago the raging verbal turmoil over the war dominated the political scene. The violent dispute drove President Johnson into retirement, disastrously rent the Democratic party, and played a key role in President Nixon's election. This year the issue was the meagerest of factors — if at all. This was true in every section of the country, and all parties. Here and there a candidate, with dove views, occasionally referred to the matter — but always warily and cautiously. In no instance was an important race waged predominantly on this issue — as was widely the case in 1968. Further, leading Vietnam denouncers who spearheaded this issue two years ago, and in some instances were elected on it, stressed entirely different matters this year — law and order, unemployment, pollution, urban development, welfare, etc. The record of this extraordinary transposition is fascinating. Following are notable highlights — whose real significance has remarkably been ignored: A number of top congressional doves went down to defeat. Foremost among them Sens. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a ranking member of the Foreign Relations Committee, seeking a fourth term; Charles Goodell, R-N. Y., who flipped from a hawk in the house to a dove in the Senate; and Rep. Allard Lowenstein, D-N. Y., who in 1968 spearheaded the "dump Johnson" movement. Also the Rev. Joseph Duffy D-Conn., Democratic senatorial candidate and president of the ultra-liberal Americans for Democratic Action, and Howard Metzbaum D-O., who like Duffy was an ardent supporter of Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

Few dove candidates, and not one of any consequence, sought Sen. McCarthy's electioneering help. He did a little campaigning, but it was of no consequence and decidedly low key. The Minnesotan appeared to be more interested in publicizing his latest book of poems than in winning votes for fellow doves.

No candidate sought the aid of Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., acid-tongued chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and virulent anti-Vietnam foe. He did a little circulating in his home state, but that was all. Even that was entirely devoid of any reference to Vietnam. Fulbright electioneered solely as a Democratic partisan against the re-election of Republican Governor Winthrop Rockefeller. Despite loud talk about thousands of college students all over the country dropping their studies and rushing to work for anti-Vietnam candidates, few actually showed up — and those, in most instances, were more of a nuisance than help. Undoubtedly, when Congress reassembles later this month, die-hard doves, such as Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., Charles Percy, R-Ill., Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Reps. James O'Hara, D-Mich., Ogden Reid, R-N. Y., and Shirley Chisholm, D-N. Y., will again declaim on this issue. But it's highly unlikely much attention will be paid them. On the basis of what has transpired this year, they and other vocal doves have shot their bolt. The one-string tune they have been so insistently strumming is just about played out.

Picture Of Youth

America's "best" young people have been and are being alienated and radicalized by the war in Vietnam, the draft, harsh drug laws, the inability of the nation to solve its domestic problems of race, urban blight, pollution and so on and on.

Or so it has frequently been claimed.

If 22,000 16- to 18-year-olds are representative of America's "best" high school youths, however, the recruiters for radicalism are going to have slim pickings among the crop of leaders coming up.

The 22,000 constitute about one-third of the 62,500 students listed in the current "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Several Magic Valley students are listed in the publication.

The book, published annually by Merit Publishing Co. of Northfield, Ill., lists outstanding leaders and achievers who have been recommended by their high school principals and counselors or who have scored high in national scholarship or award contests. More than 96 per cent of those listed go on to college.

This particular 22,000 took part in a just-completed nationwide study conducted by Merit of the attitudes and opinions of student leadership in 18,000 of the 23,000 public, private and parochial schools in the country.

Students themselves compiled the questionnaire, so it is not some adult's idea of what young people should be concerned about. The questions dealt with Vietnam, drug use, national politics, minority group relations, sex, population, ecology and the whole range of current national problems.

While one in 10 of the students reported using marijuana and 22 per cent favored its use among high school students, 76 per cent said they would not use marijuana even if it were legalized and 96 per cent disapproved of the harder drugs such as LSD and heroin.

On the question of the Vietnam war, the one issue which has radicalized so many college students, 85 per cent of the high school students felt that respect for this country has suffered because of the war. Yet 72 per cent approved of President Nixon's policy of gradual troop withdrawals.

As for sex, which is supposed to be the older generation's "hang up," a large percentage failed to respond to any of the questions about sexual behavior. If youngsters are sexually liberated, says Merit, they aren't talking about it.

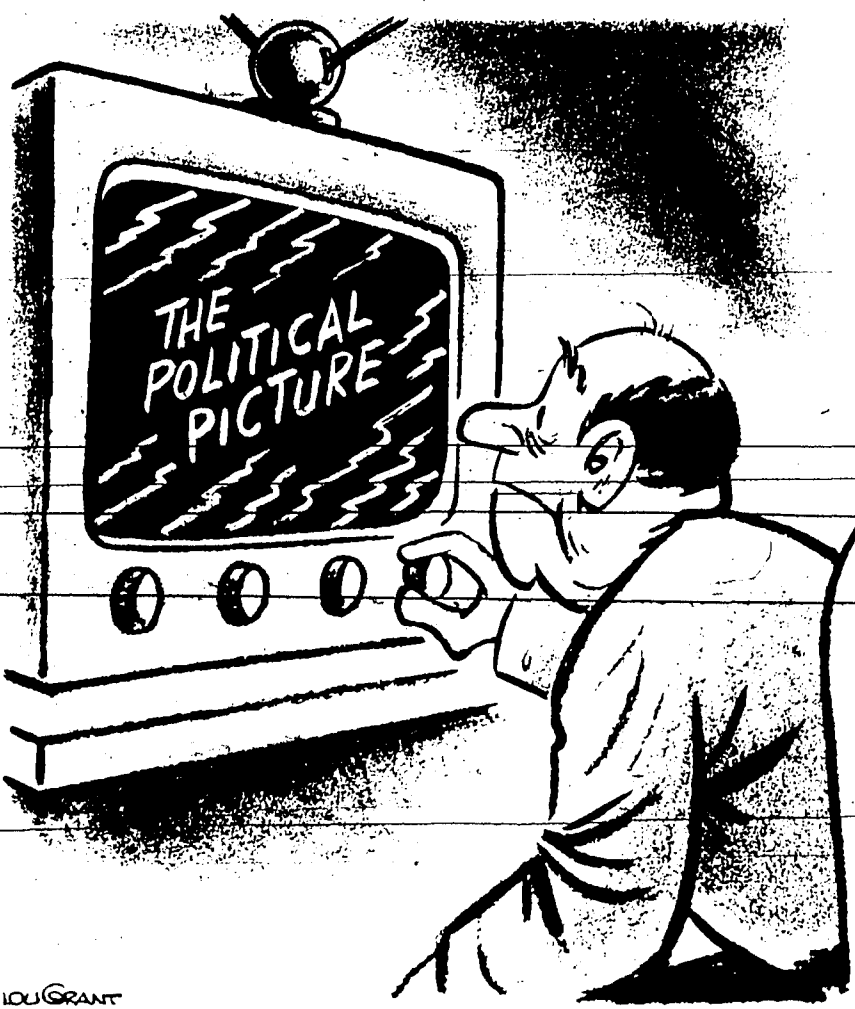

They are talking to friends, though. More than half indicated they discuss their problems with a close friend rather than a parent or brother or sister.

In sum, far from being pot-smoking, sexually liberated radicals ripe for the college campus barricades, the students revealed themselves as thoughtful, deeply concerned about the social and political crises of the day, but against violence and much more moderate than many would have us believe.

It should be emphasized that the study by no means reflects today's average high schooler because it reported only the opinions of student leaders and high achievers.

But it is the leaders who set standards and behavior patterns for the others to follow.

Anal Itching

Dear Doctor: For several years I have had a burning and itching of the rectum. I have been told it might be worms, hemorrhoids, nervous bowel, and other things I can't recall. I've taken medicines, suppositories, Tucks, and salves. I've had proctos and anosopes, upper and lower G.I. X rays. Nothing ever shows and I still have the problem. I've been tested for ova and parasites. Could you help me? —E.H.

psychiatric treatment solved the problem in a few weeks.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is removal of polyps in the nose helpful in case of a sinus condition? What type of surgery is involved? Do the polyps return after removal? —J.C.

When sinus trouble is caused by polyps interfering with drainage from the sinuses (one of several causes of sinus congestion) removal of the polyps is the logical answer.

This usually is quite simple surgery in the doctor's office. Since a polyp is a growth that rises on a small stem (quite a bit like a grape on a stem) a snare, or loop, often is used to remove it. You'll probably need a cotton packing in the nostril for a day or so, but there is no visible scarring. Polyps may or may not recur later.

For more about sinus ailments, send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for the booklet, "You Can Cure Sinus Trouble."

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can to relieve the problem, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper requesting the booklet, "How To Deal With Varicose Veins," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Allergies to food or soap also are possible — but try the cotton bit first.

For a far-out suggestion — the itching and misery could be an emotional manifestation, and unlikely as it may sound to you, I know of a case or two where

BRUCE BIOSAT

The New Politics

HONOLULU (NEA) — The 1970 elections showed once more how inexact a "science" politics is, and also that it is changing in ways different from those some of the alleged experts contend.

At the candidate level, the most astonishing result was the 700,000 - vote margin Gov. Nelson Rockefeller ran up over Arthur Goldberg, probably the most prestigious Democrat he has encountered in his four races in New York. The spread far outdid what the governor achieved in 1962 against the ineffectual Robert Morgenthau.

The simple truth is that Rockefeller has been a good governor and is virtually without equal in these times as a campaigner, while Goldberg, for all his fancy credentials, proved one of the worst politicians ever to hit the hustings.

On the issue front, the interesting thing is that the clearest factor — the unhappy state of the economy — did not bite as deeply as might have been expected.

Much is being made by the analysts of the fact that a large proportion of the blue-collar workers, presumed to be "floating" because of their disenchantment over racial pressures, campus unrest and crime, "stayed put" in the Democratic column.

But if we are actually in a recession, as countless Democrats insist we are, then the political reaction at the congressional level is mild indeed. Republicans gained two Senate seats and lost just eight (possibly a ninth) in the U.S. House.

In the 1954 mild recession under President Eisenhower, Democrats gained 19 House seats, wrested control of Congress from the GOP and picked off several governorships. In the tougher economic drop of 1958, Democrats added nearly 50 House seats, cut the Republican Senate total by 13 and reduced the GOP to a pathetic 14 governorships.

The relatively modest impact of President Nixon's economic difficulties is all the more striking when it is realized that his effective neutralization of the Vietnam war issue left the economy as the one highlighted black mark against his administration.

ART BUCHWALD

Paranoia

WASHINGTON — I am happy to report that the people of the United States are no longer in a mental depression. They are now paranoid.

The day after the election, I ran into Roundtable, who was shaking visibly.

"What's the trouble, Roundtable?" I asked.

"I don't know what's going to happen. President Nixon and Agnew said if they didn't get a majority in the Senate and the House, there would be crime in the streets, violence on the campuses and pornography in every home."

"That was just political rhetoric, Roundtable," I said.

"They didn't mean it."

"And the Democrats said if President Nixon remains in the White House, there will be a depression and all Americans will lose their jobs, their homes and their Social Security."

"You shouldn't believe everything you hear during a campaign, Roundtable. The party out of power always says the same thing."

"I don't want to die," cried Roundtable.

"You're not going to die."

"The Republicans said if they didn't win the election, President Nixon wouldn't be able to end the war in Vietnam or stand up to the Russians in the Middle East or the Cubans in the Caribbean."

"They were just trying to scare you into voting for them, Roundtable. It's part of the game plan."

"The Democrats said if they didn't win, we would all die of pollution or go bankrupt bailing out the Penn Central Railroad."

"They were scrounging for issues, Roundtable. They didn't expect you to believe them."

"Why did the President stand up on his car in San Jose?" Roundtable said.

"I don't know why. He probably thought it was a good idea."

"I know why he stood up," Roundtable said. "He stood up because he was hoping they'd stone his car."

"I don't believe it."

"Well, the chief of the San Jose police said his car wasn't stoned."

"If he said that, then there's nothing to worry about, is there?"

"No, except that the Secret Service said his car WAS stoned, and the President went on television and told everyone he was stoned, and he said if we didn't elect the candidates he supported, we could expect more of the same from the anarchists in the country."

"The President was just trying to dramatize the point that there has been a breakdown of law and order in the country and the Democrats were responsible. That's fair comment during an election year."

"The Democrats said the Republicans purposely played a bad tape of the President's speech so the people would accuse the TV media of sabotaging the Nixon Administration."

"We don't know that for a fact though, do we, Roundtable?"

"No," he sobbed, "that's the trouble. We don't know anything for a fact. I'm scared."

"Look, friend, everyone gets frightened during an election year, but in a few weeks it will all be forgotten. We'll still have violence in the streets, student unrest, unemployment, pollution and trouble with the Russians, and it won't come again until the presidential elections."

"That's why I'm scared," said Roundtable, shaking.

"How's that?"

"If this is the kind of stuff they're going to throw at us in an off-year election, what the hell are they going to do to us in 1972?"

Cars And Cycles

Few crazes have taken firmer hold in America in the last few years than motorcycling. This has been accompanied by new problems in traffic safety. Police find two contributing causes to the majority of accidents:

Motorists who drive without proper regard for the safety of those on cycles.

Cyclists who are inexperienced in handling and unfamiliar with the operation of their machines.

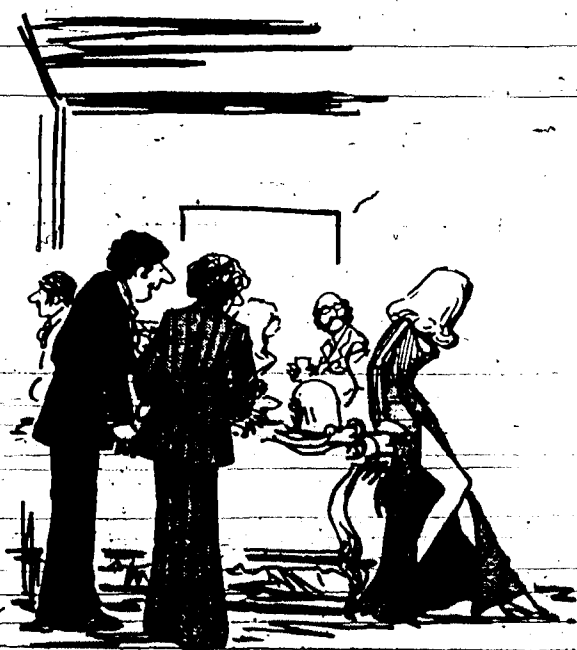

Drivers must learn to give cycles that extra measure of safe distance they require. And those who ride them must make certain they possess the necessary skills.

Property vote link pondered

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho attorney general's office asked the state Supreme Court to recall its judgement Thursday in its decision holding constitutional the property ownership requirement in general obligation bond election.

Assistant Attorney General James Hargis also asked the high court to grant the state's right to intervene in the case and, if recalling its judgement, to make application prospective only.

The unusual court proceeding came as the result of the U.S. Supreme Court's "Phoenix" decision, in which it was held voting in general obligation bond elections could not be restricted to property owners.

Hargis noted in its "Muench vs. Payne" decision the Idaho court held the restriction constitutional.

Since that time, he said, a "most drastic change has occurred" and the original Idaho decision has been rendered "ineffective."

More than a year ago the U.S. Supreme Court held in one decision voting could not be limited to property owners in revenue bond elections. Bonding attorneys declined to approve Idaho's bond elections, but the legislature — noting the Idaho Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the existing law — did not make any statutory changes.

Since that time, the "Phoenix" decision was extended to general obligation bonds. Hargis noted the appeal to the Idaho court to amend its earlier decision was past the date of appeal, but said, "The interest of finality of judgement must yield to the interest of justice."

Hargis also asked the court to allow the attorney general's office to make the request, noting while the state has no proprietary interest in the matter, the well-being of political subdivisions would directly affect the state.

To require a court test to establish the attorney general's right to enter, he said, would be "time consuming and expensive."

Attorney General Robert Robson told the court he was asking it to "cut the red tape" and "face the issue squarely."

If the Idaho court does not amend its decision, he said, the legislature is "very likely to do what they did in the last session and that is to do nothing." Dean Miller, Caldwell attorney who represented Canyon County School District No. 139 board of trustees in the original suit, asked that if the court changes its decision it be made prospective only.

He said the Caldwell bonds have been sold, part of the money had been spent, and the board was ready to call for bids within 30 days.

"These bonds were not marketable until the Meunch-Payne decision and time for appeal passed," Miller said.

Dam license denial asked

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The information chairman of the Hells Canyon Preservation Council said Thursday three conservation organizations have urged denial of a license for any dams on the Middle Snake River.

Pete Henault, a director and information chairman of the council, said the Sierra Club, the Federation of Western Outdoor Clubs, and the Idaho Alpine Club have filed a legal brief with the Federal Power Commission deploring the plan to license the dams.

The brief said the area is of "obvious national park quality" and has been designated for study as a wild river. It said "to wipe out its essence with a dam would be as unthinkable as building a freeway down the length of the mall in Washington D.C."

The brief also said the area is the only one remaining in the Northwest which still has a wealth of culture and history and remnants of Indians and early man not yet flooded out by dams.

Henault said use of the area for recreation is supported by a recent summer-long study conducted by the Idaho and Oregon Fish and Game Departments.

The brief said the power companies wanting the license claimed recreation needs would be enhanced only if Hells Canyon is drowned out.

However, it said, "the much vaunted plan proposed by the power companies for a 'great mountain country of the West' was really only a public relations gimmick, because it included no real measures for protection of any areas within the central Idaho-eastern Oregon region, but rather simply mentioned them."

Arena plans approved

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Board of Higher Education gave its approval Thursday for plans to be completed for a domed sports arena at the University of Idaho.

They approved construction of the structure on a phase basis. The first phase to be constructed will be an artificial turf playing field and 16,000 seats which should be completed by the beginning of the 1971 football season.

When the domed structure is finally completed it will house about 20,000 seats and will serve as a multi-purpose center at the university.

Earlier in the day the board gave its endorsement to a budget totalling $31.3 million for the 1971-72 school year.

The money would be used to continue existing programs and to fund new programs.

The board, through the office of higher education, will ask for $30.4 million from the general fund for existing programs. The appropriations for 1970-71 was $25.7 million.

Glen Cline, a member of the architectural firm designing the sports complex at the university, showed board members a model of the building.

On the phase program a dome would be built over the playing field at some later date.

Westerns hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three Maryland mothers of small children have filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking to prevent the showing of a television Western series on grounds its violent themes harm children.

The suit was filed Thursday against the Washington television station WTOP and several other defendants, citing the television program, "The Wild, Wild West."

Judge John J. Sirica refused a hearing on a temporary order to cancel the program. He declined to take the case under jurisdiction before the court receives a full reply from all the defendants, pointing out that the defendants were not notified of the suit until the last minute.

The women, Mary Elizabeth McGuire and Genevieve P. Connell of Chevy Chase and Margaret M. Graham of Potomac, said their suit was supported by the Foundation to Improve Television. They contended showing the program and its incidents of violence before 10 p.m. was a violation of "the constitutional rights of child viewers under the age of 18."

Spokesmen for WTOP said the station recently purchased a large number of old episodes of the show to broadcast as reruns. It is shown at 4 p.m. six days a week.

Anal Itching

Dear Doctor: For several years I have had a burning and itching of the rectum. I have been told it might be worms, hemorrhoids, nervous bowel, and other things I can't recall. I've taken medicines, suppositories, tucks, and salves. I've had proctos and anoscopies, upper and lower G.I. X rays. Nothing ever shows and I still have the problem. I've been tested for ova and parasites. Could you help me? —E.H.

Will try. After the tests you've had, at least we can pass over a lot of possibilities. But there are others. Incidentally, it's the anus, rather than the rectum, that itches.

There have been quite a few reports of people being sensitive to colored toilet tissue who solved the trouble when they used plain white.

Another possibility, which affects some people, is a matter of hygiene. Often there are folds of skin in that area in which stool material and moisture accumulate and cause irritation. Hence, a cleansing with cotton and plain water (after using tissue) often helps.

Then place a dry wad of cotton against the anal opening to keep the tissues separated and to absorb moisture. This simple method has helped more people than you might think.

Beer and other alcoholic drinks can cause such itching in some individuals. Check on that.

Allergies to food or soap also are possible — but try the cotton bit first.

For a far-out suggestion — the itching and misery could be an emotional manifestation, and unlikely as it may sound to you, I know of a case or two where psychiatric treatment solved the problem in a few weeks.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is removal of polyps in the nose helpful in case of a sinus condition? What type of surgery is involved? Do the polyps return after removal? —J.C.

When sinus trouble is caused by polyps interfering with drainage from the sinuses (one of several causes of sinus congestion) removal of the polyps is the logical answer.

This usually is quite simple surgery in the doctor's office. Since a polyp is a growth that rises on a small stem (quite a bit like a grape on a stem) a snare, or loop, often is used to remove it. You'll probably need a cotton packing in the nostril for a day or so, but there is no visible scarring. Polyps may or may not recur later.

For more about sinus ailments, send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for the booklet, "You Can Cure Sinus Trouble."

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can to relieve the problem, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper requesting the booklet, "How To Deal With Varicose Veins," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover the cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The New Politics

HONOLULU (NEA) — The 1970 elections showed once more how inexact a "science" politics is, and also that it is changing in ways different from those some of the alleged experts contend.

At the candidate level, the most astonishing result was the 700,000-vote margin Gov. Nelson Rockefeller ran up over Arthur Goldberg, probably the most prestigious Democrat he has encountered in his four years in New York. The spread far outdid what the governor achieved in 1962 against the ineffectual Robert Morgenthau.

The simple truth is that Rockefeller has been a good governor and is virtually without equal in these times as a campaigner, while Goldberg, for all his fancy credentials, proved one of the worst politicians ever to hit the hustings.

On the issue front, the interesting thing is that the clearest factor — the unhappy state of the economy — did not bite as deeply as might have been expected.

Much is being made by the analysts of the fact that a large proportion of the blue-collar workers, presumed to be "floating" because of their disenchantment over racial pressures, campus unrest and crime, "stayed put" in the Democratic column.

But if we are actually in a recession, as countless Democrats insist we are, then the political reaction at the congressional level is mild indeed. Republicans gained two Senate seats and lost just eight (possibly a ninth) in the U.S. House.

In the 1954 mild recession under President Eisenhower, Democrats gained 19 House seats, wrested control of Congress from the GOP and picked off several governorships. In the tougher economic drop of 1958, Democrats added nearly 50 House seats, cut the Republican Senate total by 13 and reduced the GOP to a pathetic 14 governorships.

The relatively modest impact of President Nixon's economic difficulties is all the more striking when it is realized that his effective neutralization of the Vietnam war issue left the economy as the one highlighted black mark against his administration.

ART BUCHWALD Paranoia

WASHINGTON — I am happy to report that the people of the United States are no longer in a mental depression. They are now paranoid.

The day after the election, I ran into Roundtable, who was shaking visibly.

"What's the trouble, Roundtable?" I asked.

"I don't know what's going to happen. President Nixon and Agnew said if they didn't get a majority in the Senate and the House, there would be crime in the streets, violence on the campuses and pornography in every home."

"That was just political rhetoric, Roundtable," I said.

"They didn't mean it."

"And the Democrats said if President Nixon remains in the White House, there will be a depression and all Americans will lose their jobs, their homes and their Social Security."

"You shouldn't believe everything you hear during a campaign, Roundtable. The party out of power always says the same thing."

"I don't want to die," cried Roundtable.

"You're not going to die."

"The Republicans said if they didn't win the election, President Nixon wouldn't be able to end the war in Vietnam or stand up to the Russians in the Middle East or the Cubans in the Caribbean."

"They were just trying to scare you into voting for them, Roundtable. It's part of the game plan."

"I know why he stood up," Roundtable said. "He stood up because he was hoping they'd stone his car."

"I don't believe it."

"Well, the chief of the San Jose police said his car wasn't stoned."

"If he said that, then there's nothing to worry about, is there?"

"No, except that the Secret Service said his car WAS stoned, and the President went on television and told everyone he was stoned, and he said if we didn't elect the candidates he supported, we could expect more of the same from the anarchists in the country."

"The President was just trying to dramatize the point that there has been a breakdown of law and order in the country and the Democrats were responsible. That's fair comment during an election year."

"The Democrats said the Republicans purposely played a bad tape of the President's speech so the people would accuse the TV media of sabotaging the Nixon Administration."

"We don't know that for a fact though, do we, Roundtable?"

"No," he sobbed, "that's the trouble. We don't know anything for a fact. I'm scared."

"Look, friend, everyone gets frightened during an election year, but in a few weeks it will all be forgotten. We'll still have violence in the streets, student unrest, unemployment, pollution and trouble with the Russians, and it won't come up again until the presidential elections."

"That's why I'm scared," said Roundtable, shaking.

"How's that?"

Cars And Cycles

Few crazes have taken firmer hold in America in the last few years than motorcycling. This has been accompanied by new problems in traffic safety. Police find two contributing causes to the majority of accidents:

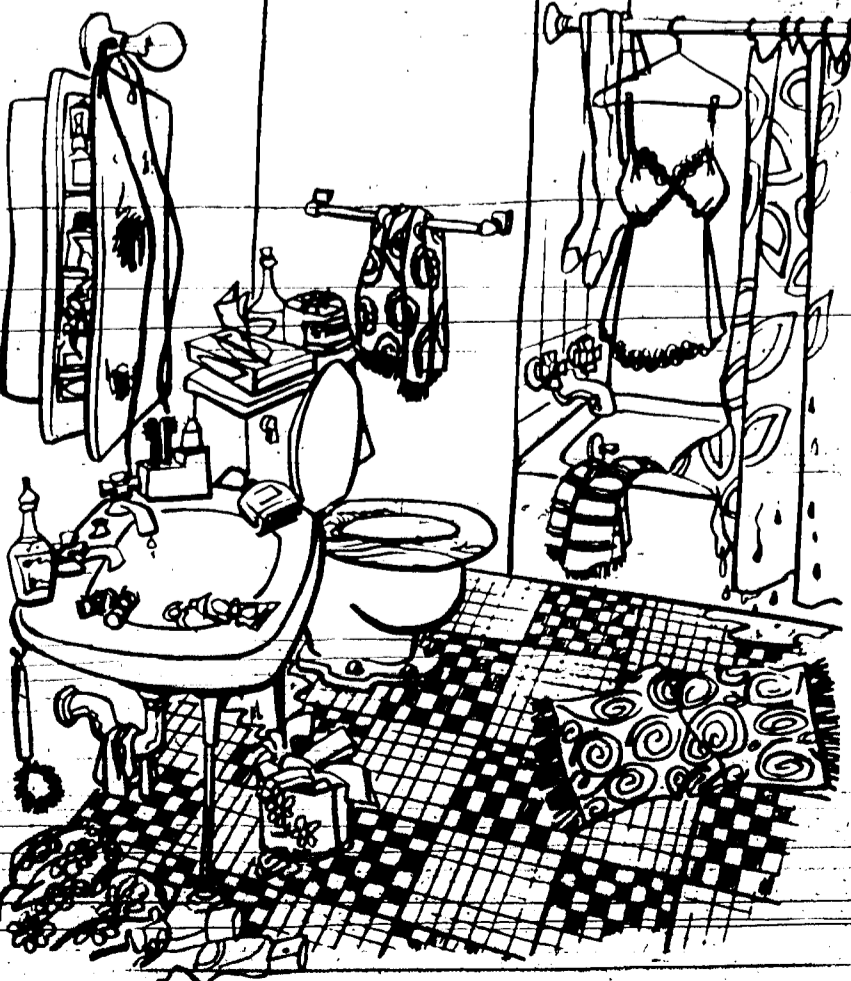

Motorists who drive without proper regard for the safety of those on cycles. Cyclists who are inexperienced in handling and unfamiliar with the operation of their machines.

Drivers must learn to give cycles that extra measure of safe distance they require. And those who ride them must make certain they possess the necessary skills.

Property vote link pondered

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho attorney general's office asked the state Supreme Court to recall its judgement Thursday in its decision holding constitutional the property ownership requirement in general obligation bond election.

Assistant Attorney General James Hargis also asked the high court to grant the state's right to intervene in the case and, if recalling its judgement, to make application prospective only.

The unusual court proceeding came as the result of the U.S. Supreme Court's "Phoenix" decision, in which it was held voting in general obligation bond elections could not be restricted to property owners.

Hargis noted in its "Muench vs. Payne" decision the Idaho court held the restriction constitutional.

Since that time, he said, a "most drastic change has occurred" and the original Idaho decision has been rendered "ineffective."

More than a year ago the U.S. Supreme Court held in one decision voting could not be limited to property owners in revenue bond elections. Bonding attorneys declined to approve Idaho's bond elections, but the legislature — noting the Idaho Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the existing law — did not make any statutory changes.

Since that time, the "Phoenix" decision was extended to general obligation bonds. Hargis noted the appeal to the Idaho court to amend its earlier decision was past the date of appeal, but said, "The interest of finality of judgement must yield to the interest of justice."

Hargis also asked the court to allow the attorney general's office to make the request, noting while the state has no proprietary interest in the matter, the well-being of political subdivisions would directly affect the state.

To require a court test to establish the attorney general's right to enter, he said, would be "time consuming and expensive."

Attorney General Robert Robson told the court he was asking it to "cut the red tape" and "face the issue squarely."

If the Idaho court does not amend its decision, he said, the legislature is "very likely to do what they did in the last session and that is to do nothing."

Dean Miller, Caldwell attorney who represented Canyon County School District No. 139 board of trustees in the original suit, asked that if the court changes its decision it be made prospective only.

He said the Caldwell bonds have been sold, part of the money had been spent, and the board was ready to call for bids within 30 days.

"These bonds were not marketable until the Muench-Payne decision and time for appeal passed," Miller said.

Arena plans approved

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Board of Higher Education gave its approval Thursday for plans to be completed for a domed sports arena at the University of Idaho.

They approved construction of the structure on a phase basis. The first phase to be constructed will be an artificial turf playing field and 16,000 seats which should be completed by the beginning of the 1971 football season.

When the domed structure is finally completed it will house about 20,000 seats and will serve as a multi-purpose center at the university.

Earlier in the day the board gave its endorsement to a budget totalling $31.3 million for the 1971-72 school year.

The money would be used to continue existing programs and to fund new programs.

The board, through the office of higher education, will ask for $30.4 million from the general fund for existing programs. The appropriations for 1970-71 was $25.7 million.

Glen Cline, a member of the architectural firm designing the sports complex at the university, showed board members a model of the building.

On the phase program a dome would be built over the playing field at some later date.

'Rock' ok'd...

CHIEF OF Naval operations, Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., said he has authorized Naval stations to establish "hard rock" music clubs and sell alcoholic drinks in barracks in an effort to humanize the navy. He said he also is trying to eliminate discrimination against blacks and to open up better jobs to the 12,000 Filipinos in the Navy. (UPI)

Westerns hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three Maryland mothers of small children have filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking to prevent the showing of a television Western series on grounds its violent themes harm children.

The suit was filed Thursday against the Washington television station WTOP and several other defendants, citing the television program, "The Wild, Wild West."

Judge John J. Sirica refused a hearing on a temporary order to cancel the program. He declined to take the case under jurisdiction before the court receives a full reply from all the defendants, pointing out that the defendants were not notified of the suit until the last minute.

The women, Mary Elizabeth McGuire and Genevieve P. Connell of Chevy Chase and Margaret M. Graham of Potomac, said their suit was supported by the Foundation to Improve Television. They contended showing the program and its incidents of violence before 10 p.m. was a violation of "the constitutional rights of child viewers under the age of 18."

Spokesmen for WTOP said the station recently purchased a large number of old episodes of the show to broadcast as reruns. It is shown at 4 p.m. six days a week.

Dam license denial asked

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The information chairman of the Hells Canyon Preservation Council said Thursday three conservation organizations have urged denial of a license for any dams on the Middle Snake River.

Pete Henault, a director and information chairman of the council, said the Sierra Club, the Federation of Western Outdoor Clubs, and the Idaho Alpine Club have filed a legal brief with the Federal Power Commission deploring the plan to license the dams.

The brief said the area is of "obvious national park quality" and has been designated for study as a wild river. It said "to wipe out its essence with a dam would be as unthinkable as building a freeway down the length of the mall in Washington D.C."

The brief also said the area is the only one remaining in the Northwest which still has a wealth of culture and history and remnants of Indians and early man not yet flooded out by dams.

Henault said use of the area for recreation is supported by a recent summer-long study conducted by the Idaho and Oregon Fish and Game Department.

The brief said the power companies wanting the license claimed recreation needs would be enhanced only if Hells Canyon is drowned out.

However, it said, "the much vaunted plan proposed by the power companies for a 'great mountain country of the West' was really only a public relations gimmick, because it included no real measures for protection of any areas within the central Idaho-eastern Oregon region, but rather simply mentioned them."

Art Forgery
The largest sculpture art forgery ever detected was an eight-foot-tall reproduction of a five-inch Greek bronze statuette of a warrior, which was in the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art for 40 years before being proved false in 1961.

Army officer questioned

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A nervous career Army officer who is a potential juror in the murder trial of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr., said under oath today he "put no value at all" on the lives of Viet Cong or their sympathizers.

Col. Lamar A. Welch, 56, was the first potential juror questioned by attorneys trying to seat a panel of at least five officers to hear the trial of Calley, charged with premeditated murder in the deaths of 102 South Vietnamese civilians in the alleged My Lai massacre on March 16, 1968.

The gray-haired, distinguished-looking Welch, who was wounded in the Battle of the Buge during World War II, said "My answer would be affirmative" when asked if he placed a different value on the lives of Viet Cong than on friendly peoples.

"I put no value at all on their lives whatsoever," said Welch, who gestured nervously and shifted in the witness stand.

Welch, who served in Vietnam in 1962 and 1963, said, "The use of terror by the Viet Cong is hard to understand—unbelievable.

"This is the most difficult we've ever put a U.S. serviceman in. When your life is in immediate danger, you don't know who to shoot," he said.

In contrast to the Viet Cong, Welch was asked his feelings about the South Vietnamese people.

"I admire them, I sympathize with them and I love them," he said.

"You asked me if I'm predisposed toward the defendant," Welch said. "I have compassion for people. It's not my nature to sit in righteous judgment on a fellow man, but I am trained to make the hard decisions."

Welch, like other prospective jurors, for nearly a year has been under a court order not to discuss the Calley case or to read, listen to or see anything dealing with the alleged massacre.

Final praise erases former snubs

PARIS (UPI) — Few world leaders have provoked more controversy or criticism in their lifetime than Charles de Gaulle. Few have been heaped with more praise or honors after their death.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt called him a "prima donna."

Britain's Winston Churchill said, "of all the crosses I had to bear the greatest was the cross of Lorraine"—a reference to the emblem of de Gaulle's World War II Free French resistance movement.

Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon all were needed in succession by de Gaulle's often infurating nationalistic policies.

Twice in four years de Gaulle vetoed British membership in the European Common Market. He feuded constantly with his Common Market partners and at one time staged a six-month boycott of the six-nation organization in order to enforce his will.

He pulled France out of the military side of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and ordered his NATO allies to remove their troops and planes from France.

Yet the death of France's "grand old man" who alternately enraged and charmed his allies, brought a near-record turnout of more than 80 heads of state and government to pay homage at his funeral.

The eulogies that have flooded into Paris since his death have been matched in recent years only by those heaped on Churchill, Dwight D.

Eisenhower and West Germany's Konrad Adenauer.

For many Europeans de Gaulle's greatest contribution was the historic reconciliation he brought about between France and Germany, ending 1,000 years of conflict between the two "traditional" enemies.

Senators flip-flop on subsidy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some Congressmen say it says, and sometimes it doesn't. That is supported by the Senate's flip-flop performance this year on the question of what kind of limitation to impose on farm subsidies. Twice the Senate addressed that question. Each time it gave a different answer. On July 8, it voted 40 to 35 to impose a $20,000-per-farm ceiling on price support payment. On Sept. 15 it rejected the same proposal by a vote of 44 to 21. Instead, in its September vote, which was the decisive one, it accepted a $55,000 per crop, per year limitation proposed by a reluctant Senate Agriculture Committee, which preferred no limitation but...

Gem Farm Bureau set for Pocatello meeting

POCATELLO—President of the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation, W. Dale Rockwood, has announced final plans for the 1971 Idaho Farm Bureau convention to be held at the Bannock Motor Inn here starting Nov. 17. "It is a privilege to invite all farm-bureau members and friends to another convention. We have outlined one of the most outstanding programs, both educational and interesting to be presented to the people engaged in agriculture," Rockwood said. "The theme of this year's convention is Marketing—Key to the Future, and we are fortunate to have some of the top speakers of the country and the state lined up to speak on related subjects," he said. Speakers for the convention include Arthur West, president of the New Jersey Farm Bureau and board member of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Al Keating, manager of the livestock division for the American Agricultural Marketing Association, and Marvin McLain, legislative director for the American Farm Bureau Federation. West will be the keynote speaker on Nov. 19 and McLain will speak at the annual dinner that evening. Also scheduled to speak is Hugh McKay, from the Teton Branch Experiment Station, who will discuss new wheat and feed grain varieties and also new research projects relating to feed grains and wheat. Forrest Severe, state ASC executive director from Boise, will give a slide presentation on the new farm program to be passed by the Senate. Rex Gerratt, state dairy commission member, will report on the commission's activities, and Andy Gribble of Ag Pro, Inc., Chattanooga, Tenn., will speak on what's ahead in dairying as it relates to facilities and construction.

Gem spud output up 5 per cent

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today production of potatoes in Idaho is expected to total 73,195,000 hundredweight, a total unchanged from the Oct. 1 forecast. The report said production at the estimated level is a record, of five per cent more than last year's production of 69,870,000 hundredweight and four per cent above the previous record crop of 1966 at 70,190,000 hundredweight. The 10 southwest counties are expected to produce 10,200,000 hundredweight and other counties will produce 62,995,000 hundredweight, according to the report.

Gymkhana set by rodeo club

TWIN FALLS — The South Side Rodeo Club, a newly formed rodeo club for young riders, is sponsoring a gymkhana Sunday at Frontier Field. The roping classes will begin at 9 a. m., including team roping, calf roping and breakaway roping. Beginning at 1 p. m. there will be pleasure classes and various game events, such as keyhole, barrel racing and goat tying. Proceeds from the gymkhana will go toward purchasing stock and equipment for the club so members can practice the various rodeo event for the 1971-72 rodeo season. All classes will be jack-potted and everyone is invited, either as participants or spectators.

Donations to ranch delivered

TWIN FALLS — I. T. (Pete) Creed reported to members of the Twin Falls Grange Wednesday night that donated food and clothing has been delivered to the Idaho Youth Ranch at Rupert. Members report that the regalia and flag, which were stolen from the Grange hall several weeks ago, have been replaced by the Grange. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Davis, who were delegates to the state Grange meeting at Lewiston, reported on activities at the conclave.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Uneasiness over the inflationary effects of the auto strike settlement kept stocks depressed as trading passed the half way mark Friday. Turnover was moderate. Declines maintained their lead over gains with 885 issues falling and 324 gaining among the 1,523 traded.

Investors believe the G.M. settlement will boost the wage price spiral, one analyst said. They believe the metal workers are going to demand the same or better.

Also contributing to the setback analysts said was the selective profit taking following recent gains. Honeywell, sliding 3 1/4, was an actively traded issue with much of it coming on a 134,900 share block off 4 at 70 traded in the morning.

National Cash Register, Columbia Broadcasting and Fannie Mae were active issues, dropping more than a point. Schick Electric fell 1/4 and Eltra Corp 3/4. Both firms will be suspended from the Big Board Nov. 23.

Losers of 2 or more included Du Pont and Superior Oil while Avon Products, McIntyre Porcupine and Polaroid lost 1 or more.

Chemicals, rails and airlines were lower, steels and aircrafts mixed.

South looked at the dummy as if it were a rattlesnake, coiled to strike at him. Then he thought to himself that he should know better than to bid a gambling slam on Friday the 13th.

After that rather sad start he decided to see if maybe Friday the 13th might not be unlucky for East and West instead of him. Was there any combination of cards that might let him collect 12 tricks?

He had two ways to go after spades that would allow him to discard dummy's losing heart but it would work out really well for him only if he could make three of his spades into winners.

Therefore, he led a trump to dummy at trick two and tried a simple spade finesse. When it worked it was a simple matter for South to discard a heart on his ace of spades and ruff his five of spades. East produced the king just as South had hoped. The next play was a second club to his own hand. When both opponents followed the second hurdle had been passed.

He ruffed his second heart and was ready in the last step of the campaign to prove that Friday the 13th was only unlucky for the defense.

He played the ace and a low diamond from dummy. East dropped the king on dummy's ace, but that did him no good since South let East's 10 hold the second diamond trick.

East was down to nothing but hearts and had to lead one of them, whereupon South ruffed in dummy and discarded his jack of diamonds to bring the slam home.

Nixon returns after chat

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon, back in Washington after a 36-hour trip to Paris that saw him exchange "pleasantries" with Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny, scheduled a meeting with Mexico's president-elect today. Nixon and Podgorny met in a brief but cordial encounter during a reception at Paris' Elysee Palace following memorial rites for Gen. Charles de Gaulle Thursday attended by more than 100 statesmen. Nixon also conferred for 41 minutes with French President Georges Pompidou—it was a "courtesy call" that included an exchange of views on the Middle East—before flying back to the United States. Nixon planned today to entertain President-elect Luis Echeverria at a private luncheon in the White House family suite starting at 1 p.m. EST.

They were expected to explore increasingly tense trade relations between the United States and Mexico in their private talks. White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon exchanged "pleasantries" with Podgorny as the two leaders minged with other guests in the gold and blue Elysee salon. They edged toward each other and shook hands, and Nixon asked Podgorny where he came from. The Soviet leader said he was from the Ukraine

New law eyed to revamp abortion

BOISE (UPI)—The 1970 Legislature will receive a proposal from the Legislative Council on Criminal Code Revision asking that abortion laws be broadened to include victims of incest and rape.

Meeting in Boise Thursday, the council adopted the proposals, but noted that any liberalizing of the laws would be contrary to the will of the people. The council said the recommendations were based on hearings conducted in Boise and Pocatello.

Most of the testimony presented at those meetings opposed liberalizing the abortion laws, but called for clarification of the existing statutes governing abortions.

Under the proposed law, a woman could receive an abortion if she were the victim of rape, provided she filed a report with the county prosecutor; was involved in an incestuous relationship; or if the pregnancy could "gravely" endanger her health.

The law would leave the final decision up to a three-man board of doctors at each hospital in the state who would make decisions following legal guidelines.

The group rejected a proposal by Rep. William Crookham, R-Caldwell, who said "Every woman should have the stewardship of her own reproductive system." He added, however, he would not vote in favor of liberalizing the law because his constituency is divided over the issue.

The law would make any person guilty of committing an illegal abortion guilty of a felony with penalty of imprisonment of up to five years and or, by a fine of no more than $5,000.

Bad story ...

DEPUTY SHERIFF in Prince Georges County, Md., is disturbed by a story line in a school library book brought home by his 9-year-old daughter. As the story goes, Sylvester the donkey turned into a stone to avoid being eaten by a lion. His parents went to a police station for help. Both officers on duty were pigs, as shown in the illustration from the book, entitled "Sylvester and the Magic Pebble," published by Windmill Books and Simon and Schuster of New York. The deputy, Donald Belcher, says he is going to sue the county's board of education to get the book taken off the library shelves. (UPI)

Sobering Arab strife takes toll of guerrillas

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The Jordanian civil war and its aftermath appear to have had a sobering effect upon the Palestinian commandos, whose leaders had come to regard themselves above individual Arab governments.

The war proved costly to the commandos in men and material and it enhanced the confidence of King Hussein's Bedouin troops, who would like to take the commandos on again should the opportunity arise. In the shaky truce between the two sides the fedayeen, as the commandos usually are called by their Arab sympathizers, constantly are being provoked by Hussein's desert forces.

Possibly by coincidence and not directly related to events in Jordan, the commandos also have been coming under new pressures from Lebanon, which ranks next to Jordan in the importance of its bases used by the commandos against Israel. Lebanese border villagers have staged protest demonstrations against commandos who use their villages as sanctuaries and the government has demanded that the commandos cease firing rockets into Israel from Lebanese soil.

The result has been a move among guerrilla leaders to shake up their organization and attempt to improve their relations with the Lebanese government.

At a meeting in Beirut presided over by Yasir Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, coordinating body of the 10 main guerrilla groups, the leaders decided their men no longer would wear uniforms and carry arms in public in Lebanon.

It also was decided to reduce the number of commando offices maintained in Lebanon's 15 refugee camps, the main sources of commando recruits, and to eliminate fund-raising by the individual groups against whom there have been charges of strong-arm tactics.

The overall effect, it was hoped, would be to tighten discipline and to re-establish the commando image as idealistic action fighters against Israel and not against other Arabs.

'Public' law firms tax free

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Internal Revenue Service (IRS), rushing its study under strong pressure, announced Thursday it would grant tax exemptions to public interest law firms under guidelines prohibiting any profit whatsoever.

"So long as within the organization, it is agreed that the litigation would be in the public interest and not for private gain, it can be classified as charitable" and tax exempt, IRS Commissioner Randolph W. Thrower said at a news conference.

Thrower said the IRS would "not pick and choose among causes" but grant exemptions if the organization itself was honestly motivated by public concern.

For example, he said, tax exempt public interest law firms might represent both sides in a court case pitting proponents of floridated water against foes of floridation.

Thrower's announcement climaxed a controversy that began October 9. At that time the IRS announced it was starting a 60-day study of whether tax exemptions should continue for public interest law firms, which frequently filed law suits in behalf of consumer and environmental causes.

Congressmen, conservationists, consumer advocates and even administration officials, including Mrs. Virginia H. Knauer, the President's adviser for consumer affairs, protested that cancellation of the tax exemptions would curtail important public service work.

Tax exemption means contributors to the law firms may deduct the gifts from their income tax, just like a contribution to a church or charity.

Record Reviews

C.P.E. Bach: Concerto in F Major for Two Pianos and Orchestra and Concerto in G Major for Organ, Strings and Continuo; Thomas Schippers, New York Philharmonic and The Vienna Baroque Ensemble (Columbia MS 7428)

Two delightful works by the lesser known of the Bachs are presented in this new Columbia album featuring the keyboard and conducting of Thomas Schippers.

Carl Phillip Emanuel Bach wrote 52 concertos for clavier and this album features the unusual Concerto for Two Pianos (Schippers Organ concerto in G Major.)

The works themselves are magnificent: the piano concerto is sublime enjoyment, and organ concerto a riddle of complexities presented in dazzling fashion.

But the real standout of the album is the work of Schippers, who is an outstanding musical artisan. His work is impeccable and unchallenged, delicate and firm.

The album is one of sheer perfection, presenting two mellow baroque works rarely recorded.

Share The Land: The Guess Who (RCA LSP 4359)

This is one of the most important albums of American rock to be released in years.

The Guess Who, who lost guitarist and writer Randy Bachman to fame and fortune, replaced him with guitarists Greg Leskiew and Kurt Winter. The group is far more versatile now, and seems just as deep and serious.

This album is brimming with excellent, varied work, all new and all good. It is not inconceivable that every tune in this album could make it to the top.

Fresh on the heels of their hit album, "American Woman," the group's wellspring of talent is even deeper and fresher this trip. Much of the writing is being done by the two new members, with pianist Burton Cummings taking a major role in the group's writing.

Although the general tone of the album remains the heavy sound in the hit single "American Woman," the quality is tempered with a bluesy "Moan For Joe," a country beauty in "Share The Land," and a hoedown in "Coming Down Off the Money Bag," and gritty blues in "Song Of The Dog."

It is difficult to pick out what is "best" in this album, for it is all excellent. But those tunes most likely to vie for hit status are "Bus Rider" (a possible exception because of profanity in the middle of the tune) and "Hand Me Down World" and "Share The Land" and "Hang On To Your Life," and "Three More Days" (which is nine minutes long.)

This album presents no new paths in music, but it will establish a mark of excellence which is going to be difficult for every American rock group to match for years to come.

Five stars.

Forum board picked

BOISE (UPI)—Names of 10 men were announced today who have agreed to serve on the board of directors and guide the formation of the new Sun Valley Forum on National Health, Inc.

Bayless Manning, dean of the Stanford Law School and incorporator of the non-profit organization, said the purpose of the forum is improvement of health and understanding of health care systems in the United States through education.

He said the forum will pursue its purpose by sponsoring lectures, institutes, conferences, symposia and "other means for the expansion and dissemination of information and ideas related to physical and mental health."

Credit code needed

BOISE (UPI)—The manager of the Idaho State Automobile Association said today if the 41st legislature adopts a uniform consumer credit code it should place a measure of responsibility for equality and warranty performance upon the lending institution as well as the seller.

Ken Miller, Boise, said in the automotive field, car purchasers are frequently faced with the inability to obtain satisfaction from either the manufacturer or the dealer on guaranties and warranties.

He said under present methods of financing the purchaser does not dare hold up a finance payment no matter how faulty the car or the repairs since to do so would be adverse to credit and might bring possible repossession.

Miller said the most disturbing part of the present system is that too often the victims are the young, the inexperienced, the timid, the low income and the unwary.

"What is needed is a code which will require the lending institution to investigate the condition of the auto being financed and become a part of any repair dissatisfaction between the seller and the buyer," Miller said.

Domestic issues set for 1972

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Wednesday the Nixon administration will start paying more attention to domestic issues in preparation for the 1972 election.

Agnew, speaking to editors and executives of the Daily News, the nation's largest newspaper, conceded that the administration's domestic record may have been at least partially responsible for 11 governorships going Democratic in last week's elections.

But the losses in the state houses were not catastrophic, Agnew said, and with "a strong domestic program, the trend may be reversed," the Daily News reported.

Agnew stressed Nixon's proposal for revenue sharing with the states. The money for such a program can come from cutting back on unnecessary and outdated federal matters. "Several times he mentioned the Housing and Urban Development Department as an area where great savings could be made," the newspaper said.

Hansen auction slated

HANSEN - Hansen School personnel are holding a community auction Wednesday, starting at 11 a.m. at the school. All proceeds from the auction will go toward the purchase and installation of lights at the football field.

Art Jones and Ferris Freestone are on the committee to raise the necessary funds for the lights. It is hoped the auction will raise the major share of the cost.

Messersmith auctioneers are donating their services at the auction. All members of the community and surrounding area are urged to contribute items to be auctioned and to attend the auction. Anyone wishing to contribute may call the school to have someone pick up the items.

The Hansen PTA will serve lunch the day of the auction.

Winners announced

TWIN FALLS - Magic Valley Duplicate Bridge Club met Wednesday afternoon at the Episcopal Church.

North and South winners were Mrs. A. J. Meeks and Mrs. John Hahn, first; Mrs. J. M. Kingsbury and Mrs. Harvey Cook, second; Mrs. Roy Hill and Mrs. Nicholas Bradic, third.

East and West winners were Mrs. M. Hogg and Mrs. M. E. Saunders, first; Mrs. J. T. Shelby and Mrs. R. R. Watson, second; and Mrs. M. J. Milton and Mrs. T. T. Greenhalgh, third.

Irish village draws tourists

BALLYVAUGHAN, Ireland (UPI)—Four years ago this was a beautiful but dying fishing village on Galway Bay in County Clare 30 miles west of Shannon Airport. Its 258 residents had little except the fish they caught and the food they grew. Hope that things would get better was in short supply.

Today, there's new income and renewed hope in the village because of Rent-an-Irish-Cottage-Company, Ltd. The regional state-Tourist Board and the Shannon Free Airport Development Company got together in 1966 to see how villages such as this one, normally bypassed by tourists and business, could be helped.

They decided to build traditional Irish cottages in scenic but economically depressed villages and offer them as "the different" vacation spot. "But we didn't want this to be a Big Brother operation," explained Vincent Tobin of the Shannon company. And that's the way the committee approached the villagers when it discussed cottages with peat burning fireplaces, big kitchens and sleeping room enough for eight people for as low as $38 per week.

"We'll help with the planning and put up about 50 per cent of the money," the villagers were told. "But you'll have to put up the rest and run the cottages from there on in."

And so it happened. In May of 1970 the villagers of Ballyvaughan found themselves the landlords of 12 such cottages and part of a locally thriving tourist business.

Business boomed from the start. Aside from the novelty of living in a traditional Irish cottage and being part of an Irish village, the tourists were near salt and fresh water fishing, beaches, golf courses—and inexpensive baby sitters if they decided to change their life style a bit and drive into Limerick for shopping or night life.

The nearby village of Corofin with its 10 fishing lakes was next on the cottage program. By the second meeting, the villagers had collected more than $7,000 and were asking "when do we get going?" It now is renting eight cottages.

By the 1972 season, officials plan to have 98 such cottages in Counties Clare, Limerick and Tipperary. Sixty are expected to be in operation by next year.

"We've been so successful in Ballyvaughan and Corofin," said Tobin, "it's difficult to cope with the bookings. One member of the Spanish parliament and his family stayed on for three months."

Perhaps more important to the Irish government than the tourist dollars generated is the possible stabilizing effect on villages which otherwise might wither away through emigration or flight to city factories.

"The people are now involved," explained Tobin. "They have committees to assist the visitors. There are hearth lighting ceremonies when they arrive. They have when and a reason for staying."

By American standards, the rent is modest. A cottage large enough to accommodate eight ranges from $98 per week in the high tourist months of July and August to $38 per week October through April.

And that includes central heating and electric kitchens. The Irish are smart enough to know just how far to go with whimsy and charm when it comes to the traveling American.

Space Firsts

Two space firsts accomplished by the Russians in 1957 were the first object orbited in space—Sputnik-1 in October—and the first animal in space—Sputnik-2 in November.

Workers strike ...

ABOUT 300 UAW pickets, largely from the General Motors Tech Center in Warren, Mich., picketed outside the Veteran's Memorial Building in downtown Detroit where the UAW's-GM Council was meeting Wednesday. The pickets were urging the GM-Council to turn down the tentative agreement between GM and the UAW. (UPI)

"Normal" winter predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Health experts predict a "normal" winter.

—The flu or pneumonia will kill more than 28,000 Americans.

—Nearly 75,000 will die of other infectious diseases.

—Heart ailments, which for unexplained reasons take their heaviest toll during winter months, will claim about 375,000 lives.

—Almost everyone will get a cold.

That forecast was made for UPI by officials at the National Institutes of Health (NIH) in the Washington suburb of Bethesda, Md., and at the Center for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta. These authorities estimate that infectious and respiratory diseases together will account for $1.7 billion worth of work time lost and 72.5 million school days missed.

Distressing as these statistics are, specialists note that the picture could be far more ominous if a nationwide flu epidemic were likely or if the diphtheria problem in San Antonio, Tex., were to spread across the country. The experts agree that neither is probable, although they believe, the San Antonio situation will worsen before it gets better.

A significant increase in fatalities from one ailment was predicted, however. Dr. Daniel I. Mullally, chief of the NIH Infectious Disease Branch, said 15,000 babies are expected to die this winter in the first year of life from a little-known respiratory virus known as RS. The RS virus, discovered slightly more than 10 years ago and occasionally implicated in mysterious crib deaths, is usually associated with bronchitis or pneumonia in infants. It begins with a fever, a cough, sore throat or runny nose. But like so many other respiratory diseases, it is difficult to spot before it spreads into the lower respiratory tract — causing more serious and sometimes fatal ailments.

A family art since 1795.

Jacob Beam sold his first barrel of Bourbon back in 1795, and began a tradition of fine Bourbon-making that's lasted for six generations. That's why we call it a 175-year-old family art.
