Guinea claims repulse of Portuguese attacks

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) — Conakry Radio said Portuguese-led mercenaries attempted a second invasion of Guinea before dawn today but were beaten back by government forces.

Toure, who has led Guinea since its independence from France in 1958, called on the United Nations to send airborne forces to help repel the invasion. But the U.N. Security Council, after a debate that lasted into early today, decided instead to send a mission to

Guinea to investigate the charges. The Portuguese government denied charges it was involved in the operation as "not having the slightest base." A spokesman in Lisbon said "Portugal already has enough problems created on the frontiers by her neighbors in the African territories to have any interest in seeking others." Guinea, with 3.5 million people in an area of 95,000 square miles on Africa's west coast, is bordered on the north by Portuguese Guinea. There are frequent border incidents between the two nations. Conakry Radio, monitored at this African capital 600 miles northwest of Conakry, Guinea, said "All points of resistance have been overcome and (Guinean) militants in uniform effectively control the whole city and have taken the necessary dispositions in case of a new attack." The radio broadcasts gave no details of the fighting in the sprawling, humid seaport capital city but said "numbers" of mercenaries were captured. Toure went on the radio himself early Sunday to announce the invasion. He said in the broadcast: "People of Guinea, since this morning at 3 a.m. you are the victims of an aggression. Your capital, Conakry, is attacked by imperialist forces, foreign warships are anchored in your territorial waters."

U.N. probes invasion

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The U.N. Security Council voted in an emergency session early today to send a mission to Africa to investigate Guinea's charges that Portuguese forces invaded its territory. The council demanded an end to the attack against Guinea, but avoided any identification of the forces as Portuguese. Portugal denied involvement. The vote came shortly after midnight after four hours of backstage maneuvering. Secretary General Thant and Security Council President George J. Tomeh of Syria consulted today on the details of establishing the mission. The council, in unanimously passing an Afro-Asian resolution calling for establishment of the mission, ignored Guinea's request for a contingent of U.N. troops to assist in driving the remaining foreign troops from its territory. The United Nations has no standby peacekeeping force, and council members were at any rate reluctant to get involved in such an operation with a full investigation.

U.S. cites Red buildup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials said today North Vietnam has undertaken what appears to be a major effort to reinforce and supply its troops in Cambodia and South Vietnam. The conclusion here was that the effort is designed to build Hanoi's troop strength for operations early in 1971 when planned withdrawals bring U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam to about half the 535,000 Americans who once were there. These officials acknowledged the U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam during the weekend were prompted in large part by the desire to inflict enough damage to make it clear to Hanoi that the United States would not tolerate any considerable buildup in North Vietnamese forces in the Laos-South Vietnam battle area.

Although Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Saturday the raids were primarily in retaliation for the shooting down nine days earlier of an unarmed U.S. reconnaissance plane over North Vietnam, he later added the United States had the right to protect "pilots flying missions associated with interdiction of North Vietnamese military supplies throughout Southern Laos moving toward South Vietnam." Official sources said the Nixon administration had become concerned after finding that North Vietnamese infiltration southward along the Ho Chi Minh trail last month was running three to four times the rate it had been in October of 1969. Intelligence sources said

Cars slide on roads

By RUTH MILLER Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — Extremely slick road conditions Sunday night and early today caused a rash of accidents. Magic Valley Ambulance service said the Buhl and Twin Falls ambulances had taken 16 people to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and Twin Falls Clinic by 10:30 a.m. Monday. All but four of the injured people were hurt in vehicle accidents. The others were injured when they slipped and fell on icy sidewalks, ambulance personnel said. Mr. s. Harry (Irene) Drake, 78, Twin Falls, was seriously injured about 5:45 p.m. Sunday when a car driven by her husband slammed into the rear of an Idaho State Police car which was stopped at the edge of U.S. Highway 30 investigating another accident. Drake, 79, is in good condition. In the police car when it was struck were officer George Blackburn and Ellen Jo Gavin, who was involved in the first accident.

Capt. Dean Bennett said Blackburn's red light was operating and when Drake saw the vehicle he apparently applied his brakes and slid into the police car. Injured in an accident just moments later was Mrs. Ruth Senften, 61, Buhl, whose sedan hit a patch of black ice on a bridge on the Pole Line Road northwest of Twin Falls. Her vehicle slid across the bridge and struck a utility pole. She is in good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. About 10:30 a.m. Monday a vehicle being brought in from an accident south of Twin Falls slid and came loose from the wrecker towing it and ran into the northwest corner of the Times-News building, damaging the brick structure and the front of the vehicle. Two buses in the Hansen district were unable to complete their rounds Monday morning. Bus drivers said the roads were so icy they were unable to negotiate an S curve south of Hansen.

Blaine taxes mailed

HAILEY — Taxpayers in Blaine County got their property tax bills this week. Levies for the city of Ketchum, the Carey Fire Protection District, Picabo Cemetery District and Blaine County School District bond interest were all higher than last year. A new levy was added, for the Big Wood River Flood Control District. Other taxing units were able to drop their mill levies slightly — even though the total amount of money raised in many cases was increased.

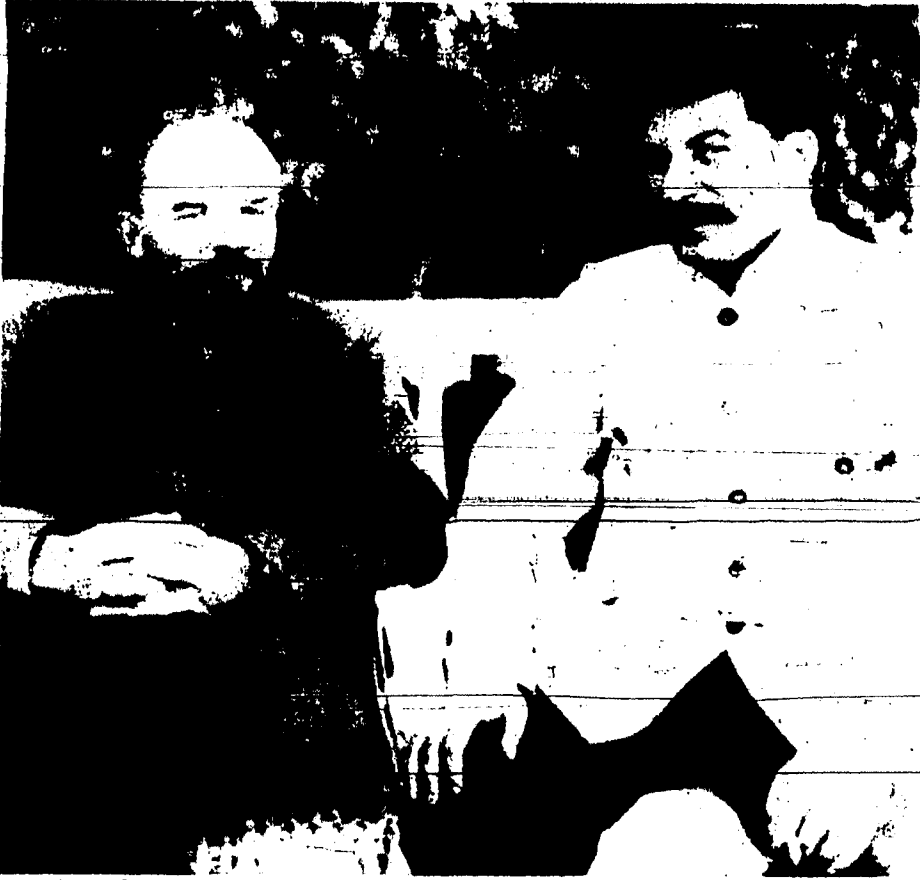

A taxpayer living in Ketchum for instance, finds his total tax levy at $10.39 per $100 assessed valuation, an increase of 27 cents over last year. In contrast, Hailey residents pay 54 cents per $100 assessed valuation less than last year — paying a total of $9.46 per $100. But because of the increase in the assessment ratio from 17.33 to 17.5 per cent of market value, the assessed valuation of a $10,000 home would be raised about 1 per cent, from $1,733 to $1,750. That home would cost the taxpayer $165.41 in Hailey; $181.82 in Ketchum. This compares with $173.30 last year at Hailey, and $174.40 last year in Ketchum.

New levies for individual taxing bodies in the county, listed with last year's levy in parentheses, are: Hailey, 3.1901 (3.618); Bellevue, 2.5645 (2.567); Ketchum, 4.127 (3.761); Sun Valley, 6.688 (4.7980); Carey Fire Protection District, .398 (.395); Ketchum Rural Fire Department, .3688 (.5242); and Carey Flood Control District, .2296 (.2876). Ketchum Cemetery District, .1588 (1.600); Picabo Cemetery District, .1335 (1.300); Blaine School Maintenance and Operation, 2.8037, (2.9485); School Bond Interest Levy, .7796 (.7786).

Disaster help said too little Dacca, East Pakistan (UPI) — Relief operations showed improvement today but fell far short of the level necessary to relieve the suffering of millions of survivors in East Pakistan's cyclone disaster zone. The United States doubled its original commitment of four large helicopters and said four more were en route along with 50 patrol boats and 147 soldiers to help dispense blankets, rice, sugar, powdered milk and baby food. After a slow start, Pakistan army, navy and air force units joined foreign assistance on a larger scale Sunday. The Pakistan army, which has 40,000 troops stationed in East Pakistan, had been under heavy criticism for not acting faster to aid the stricken area. American officials based in Dacca estimated two million to three million people lived in the path of the cyclone and tidal waves that roared in from the Bay of Bengal Nov. 12, and nearly all the survivors need food, clothing and shelter. It is estimated as many as 800,000 may have died.

N. Viets protest bombing

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnam and the Viet Cong announced today they will boycott this week's 93rd session of the Vietnam peace talks to protest U.S. air raids on North Vietnam. The talks this week are scheduled for Wednesday because the usual Thursday meeting day falls on the American Thanksgiving holiday. Xuan Thuy, the chief North Vietnamese negotiator, called a news conference to announce the boycott — the second one called in protest by the Communists. Thuy, who announced he also was speaking for the Viet Cong, demanded that the next session be held on Dec. 3. Both Hanoi and the Viet Cong delegations had angrily announced the American bombing raids as "an act of war of extreme gravity" and said they were bound to affect the negotiations. They boycotted the talks last May 7 to protest similar U.S. air action. And when President Nixon did not immediately name a senior diplomat to the talks following the resignation of Henry Cabot Lodge the leaders of the Communist delegations stayed away for weeks, although lower ranking officials attended. Thuy in an interview in the Communist line Rome newspaper Paese Sera, said, "We consider the U.S. bombings of Nov. 21 as an act of war of extreme gravity... the fact they began at 2:30 a.m. when the people were asleep clearly confirms that the United States intended to strike at civilians in the framework of a premeditated plan."

Khrushchev book dissects heroes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Josef Stalin is depicted as a sick man living in constant fear of assassination during his last years in an excerpt of what purportedly were former Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's written memoirs. Khrushchev, deposed in 1964, said if Stalin were alive today he would vote he "be brought to trial and punished for his crimes," even though he attributed much of his rise to power to the dictator and his wife, a former classmate. Stalin died in 1953. Life magazine, which insists the memoirs are authentic, published the first of four installments, "Life with Khrushchev," Sunday. It was taken from a forthcoming book, "Khrushchev Remembers" to be published by Little, Brown and Co. Svetlana Alliluyeva, Stalin's daughter who is now Mrs. William Wesley Peters; was contacted by The New York Times Sunday and said she found many of the incidents written in Life of which she had personal knowledge were either confused or false. She is the only witness of the events reported now living in the West. Khrushchev, 76 and reportedly suffering from heart ailment, called the reminiscences a "fabrication" in a letter dated Nov. 10 and released a week ago by the Tass news agency. Neither Life nor Little, Brown has revealed the source of the information.

"Stalin's pretensions to a very special role in our history are well-founded," Khrushchev wrote, and "in everything about Stalin's personality there was something admirable and correct, as well as something savage. Nevertheless, if he were alive today I would vote that he should be brought to trial and punished for his crimes," Khrushchev said, according to Life. The Life memoirs depict Stalin as a fan of U.S. Western movies, but Mrs. Peters told The Times in a telephone interview she regularly attended private movie showings with her father and could never remember his having seen a single cowboy movie.

Israeli aides squabble

By United Press International
Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and Foreign Minister Abba Eban are in sharp disagreement over the conditions for returning to Middle East peace talks, Israeli political sources said today.

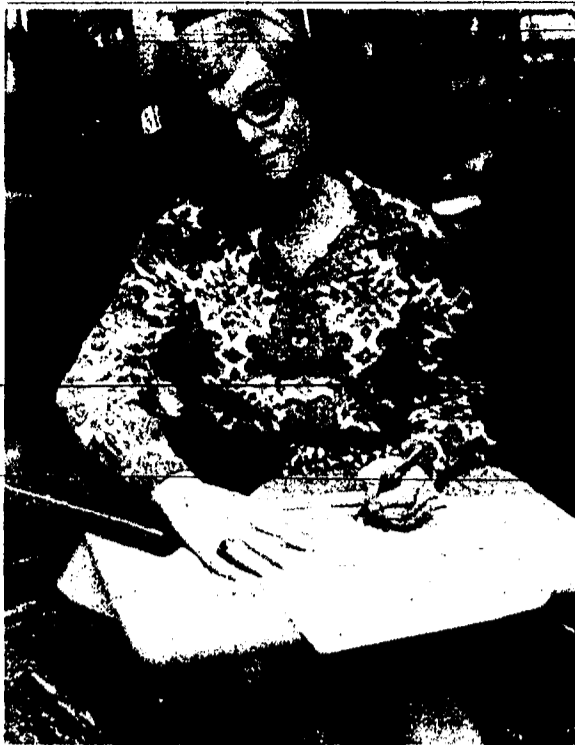

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahran said Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad had protested against reconnaissance flights by American U2 planes along the Suez Canal in meeting with U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers in his recent trip to New York.

The newspaper said it assumed the aerial photos were being passed to Israel. "In other words, the United States is performing a spying operation in Israel's favor," it said.

In Amman, the Arab Truce Commission said a Jordanian security man was killed in a fresh outbreak of fighting. The commission said one of its military patrols was fired on by a machine gun from close range while investigating the existence of a security forces checkpoint in Amman.

The commission said this "led to the death of one of the security force." It did not explain how the man was killed. It said it was trying to identify the attackers so they could be handed over to the authorities.

The Egyptian Middle East News Agency said in a dispatch from Damascus that Egypt and Syria would hold a summit conference within the next few days.

Answer . . .

A new word "cremains" has been coined to refer to the ashes which remain following cremation. Three types of disposal are available:

1. They may be placed in a niche in a Columbarium, a building perpetually maintained for this purpose, or they may be kept at home.
2. The cremains may be buried in a family cemetery plot, in a church yard, in yard adjacent to the family home, or any other place, with the consent of the property owner.
3. They may be scattered in the mountains or sprinkled over a lake, or a stream or in the ocean.

When the time comes we will make the required arrangements for the disposition of the cremains in keeping with the wishes of the family.

Ditch-like rills on moon now believed deep fissures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Those ditch-like rills on the lunar surface, once thought to be dry river beds, actually may be deep fissures partially filled with rubble. And grinding shifts in the sides of those cracks could explain the mystery of moonquakes.

This twin theory advanced Wednesday by Dr. Gary Latham of New York's Lamont Geological Laboratory, was one of several new insights about Earth's nearest neighbor

The package is stable-planted firmly at one spot on the lunar surface—rather than mobile, as is the remote control moon crawler the Soviets unveiled Tuesday. Scientists said the package still is sending back signals to Earth as it enters its second year of operation today.

The presentation was planned long before the unmanned Soviet robot began crawling and the unmanned Luna 16 flight returned a chunk of the moon to Russia in September; but the scientists took the opportunity to stress the added accomplishments made possible by men who explored the moon and set up delicate instruments that could hardly have been erected by remote control.

In addition to Latham's theory, the scientists said the Apollo 12 science package also had produced evidence that:

—The moon is frozen all the way to its core, rather than molten in the center as some geologists had believed.

—Whiffs of thin gas packing intense energy speed across the lunar surface twice a month, near lunar sunrise and sunset, to form a temporary ionosphere over the moon. The origin of these gas particles remains unknown.

—Lumps of magnetized rocks stud the moon, forming local magnetic fields. One of these, discovered near the Apollo 12 landing site by the science station, had a strength 1,000 times weaker than earth's magnetic field and may be a pool of magnetized lava that cooled and hardened 3.5 billion years ago.

A Warning On Red Economy

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some aspects of the rumblings and dissatisfactions now being reported in the Soviet Union have the most profound implications for future U.S. foreign policy.

For the evidence now suggests that whatever gains the Russians may make now in the Middle East or Latin America, time may well be on the side of the United States — provided we can hold the peace.

This is not to infer that Moscow faces a revolution, there is no evidence here to support such a view. Nor is there any indication of a shakeup that would seriously cripple the USSR.

What is significant is that some of Russia's top physical scientists have begun to seriously question the ability of the Soviet Union under present conditions to compete economically with the United States over the long run.

The appeal of three prominent Soviet scientists to their government has been much publicized in recent days. What hasn't been widely reported are some highly significant details in a letter these three men — A. D. Sakharov, V. F. Turchin and R.

A. Medvedev — wrote in March this year to the top hierarchy of the Soviet Union.

Some of their comments on economic conditions (and the economic outlook) in Russia are especially revealing:

"Comparing our economy with the economy of the United States, we see that our economy lags not only in quantitative but also — which is sadder of all — in qualitative respects.

"The newer and more revolutionary an aspect of an economy is, the greater is the gap between the United States and ourselves. We surpass America in the mining of coal, but we lag behind in oil drilling, lag very much behind in gas drilling and in the production of electric power, hopelessly behind in chemistry and infinitely behind in computer technology.

"The latter is particularly pertinent for the introduction of computers in the national economy is of crucial importance for fundamentally changing the entire face of the production system and of world culture. This phenomenon has secondarily been called the second industrial revolution. Incidentally, our total inventory of computers is hundreds of times smaller than that of the United States, and as regards the use of computers in the economy, here the gap is so wide that it is impossible to measure it.

"We simply live in another epoch.

"Things are no better in the field of scientific and engineering discoveries. No one feels that the importance of our role is growing. On the contrary. At the end of the 1950s our economy was the first to launch a sputnik, and it sent a man into space. But at the end of the 1960s we lost our lead, and the first men to land on the moon were American.

"This fact is just one of many that shows the fundamental and growing scientific and technological gap between our country and the developed countries of the West.

"A decisive factor in the comparison of economic systems is labor productivity, and here the situation is worst of all. Our productivity of labor, as before, remains many times lower than in the developed capitalist countries, and its growth has drastically slowed. Our situation is seen to be especially serious when compared with leading capitalist countries, in particular the United States.

"Bureaucracy, a formalistic attitude toward the job and lack of initiative are growing in the work of scientific and science-technological organizations . . .

"It is common knowledge that there is a chronically grave situation in agriculture, especially in cattle breeding.

"Especially alarming for the future of the country is the slowdown in the development of education. In fact, our general expenditures in education of all types are less than those of the United States and are growing at a slower rate . . ."

In speaking of the United States and other Western capitalist nations, the letter writers say "by introducing into the national economy elements of state regulation and planning, these countries have rid themselves of the destructive crises which earlier plagued capitalist economies. The widespread introduction of the economy of automation and computer technology assures a rapid growth of the productivity of labor, which in turn enables certain social difficulties and contradictions to be partially overcome (as, for example, establishing unemployment benefits, shortening the working day.)"

These men are not advocating an overthrow of communism. They are loyal socialists who want to perfect the system.

But if these highly intelligent, topflight, knowledgeable scientists are right about the current economic and scientific trends in the Soviet Union, certainly in any free competition the Soviet Union will never "bury" the United States economically or outinfluence the free nations in the underdeveloped world. (They will only control those neighbors they can dominate militarily.)

If the Soviet Union continues to lag scientifically and economically (however dramatic her occasional successes), inevitably those failures must eventually become clear for all to read. When that day comes the Communist prestige (and influence) will begin to wane in Latin America, Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

COMMENT

Public's Business?

Lewiston Morning Tribune

The intent of Congress in passing the Environmental Policy Act of 1969 was just what conservationists assumed it to be — to insure that the environmental effects of federal agencies' decisions will be understood before those decisions are made, and understood not only by the agency chiefs but by the public. Thus the Nixon administration's decision to keep those impact reports secret during the decision-making process is a clear violation of congressional intent.

Members of the Sierra Club and other conservation groups are understandably chagrined as well as startled by the administration's statement last week that it can withhold the results of environmental impact studies until the decisions they influence have been made and announced. The danger of such a procedure has been acknowledged by the administration's own environmental watchdog, Chairman Russell E. Train of the President's Council on Environmental Quality. Train told a reporter the environmental impact study could become a mere formality and he said there already is a tendency to prepare the required report AFTER the decision which it should affect has been made. Then where does the public come in? The council's legal officer, Tim Atkeson, said "the public's involvement comes by disclosure of the thing at the end of the process." The public gets a retrospective look, Atkeson said, which would enable it to comment the next time the same decision must be made. That can hardly be called the public participation that Congress envisioned when it required that the environmental studies "shall be made available to the President, the Council on Environmental Quality, and to the public."

If the President intends to perform on the many promises he has made to fight for a quality environment, he will reverse this decision and require his administrators to do as Congress ordered.

Medical Excitement

There's much excitement on medicine's newest frontier. We know now that you are run by electricity; we are learning how to regulate it — and you.

The new focus of medical science is on electrophysiology. The potential is almost too exciting for a layman to anticipate.

Case Western Reserve University is now using electrical impulses to treat backache, sclerosis — and to minimize the pain from terminal cancer.

Generations of medical scientists have preoccupied themselves with chemotherapy, expecting eventually to find a pill for every ill.

For the most part they ignored the fact that electricity "makes you run."

When we want to check your brain waves, we do it with an electroencephalograph.

When we want to check your heart function, we do it with an electrocardiograph.

Electricity is generated in your body by the movement of muscles.

There is an iridescent glow surrounding your body which can be seen on a Kilner screen. It disappears when you die.

There is so much electricity in human blood that we can harness it, use it to run a motor!

This latest breakthrough was a byproduct of research in laboratories in Great Neck, N.Y., where scientists are seeking to build a mechanical heart for installation in humans.

On their way to that objective they learned that they can submerge two tiny electrodes in a beaker of human blood and electricity flows therefrom.

Tentatively, they deduce that the chemical interaction between the oxygen and the glucose in the blood is what generates electricity.

This, by the way, is the same laboratory which created the fuel cells for our Apollo spacecraft.

And now, and hear this, the electric current thus generated is measurable in microwatts and is sufficient to power an artificial heart — yet.

If I had nine lives and no great contrary compulsion, certainly I would give one of those lives to helping research this almost unexplored medical frontier: electrophysiology.

In years past some quacks have peddled worthless electrical gadgets which promised to cure this or that, so responsible medical scientists are disinclined to speculate publicly about the potential of this new science, but it is thrilling to be in their company when they talk privately about it.

Today, pain relief, Tomorrow, who knows what? Love and hate may be traceable to that aura which surrounds you. Perhaps, when the youngsters say "You turn me on," they are closer to an explanation for physical attraction than we have realized.

WASHINGTON — In Washington, government and politics also are affected by the ambience of the genteel hash houses to which our leaders repair between and after hours. Policy decisions are subject in particular to how many and what kind of alcoholic beverages are consumed during these determinedly happy intermissions.

Thus it is consistent with coverage of the nation's cosmic issues to say a few hundred words about a practice lately adopted by saloons which serve food, of a sort, with their booze. These watering places advertise "all the drinks you can drink with dinner" for the price of the meal.

Perusing these come-ons, I find my emotions as mixed as the cocktails favored by aging maiden aunts. One part of me views with alarm, the other reacts with a well-bred sneer in behalf of the tipping giants I have encountered in a merry lifetime spent in the company of journalists and politicians. Either way I look at it, this new gimmick seems to offer evidence of a weakening of the nation's moral fiber.

For instance, I am not sure I want my hirelings in government to while away their after-hours in emporiums, however elegant, that in effect give away their spirits gratis. Most politicians, even those achieving a measure of statesmanship, are determined free loaders. (The name of Winston Churchill comes instantly to mind.) They will drink any hooch that is free, even if that tippie has been distilled from bay rum and sauterne. Most of them already are superior practitioners of the elbow-bending art, and I shudder to think of the consequences in Cairo that might accrue from a gay evening spent alternately lurching and slumping in one of these benevolent grog shops.

A martini or two before dinner is a capital and gracious thing. It causes a man to think kinder thoughts about his neighbor, and even his in-laws. But when a gaggle of policy makers are trying to decide whether to declare war on Trinidad, I do not wish them to be exposed to a place where alcohol flows without charge.

On the other hand, there is a suspicion — which whelped the aforementioned sneer — that the free-drink houses are playing it safe, and know it. That is to say, they are aware that people — even politicians and newspapermen — are not the classic guzzlers of old, and that therefore they can with impunity let the boys have at the popskull.

Only what seems a few short years ago, these saloon keepers would not have dared throw down such a challenge. In that bygone day, men were not merely men but colossi, firmly belled against the bar. They entered saloons to drink, not to sip a Dubonnet over a chessboard or make small talk with a girl.

Old, long-buried friends come to mind who would have plunged the free-drink joints into instant bankruptcy. Bob Ruark counted the day misspent when he failed to polish off a fifth of Scotch, and the justly revered Ernie Pyle was not referring to a dry cereal in World War II press camps when he called his "Breakfast of Champions" the three fingers of raw gin he ingested upon arising. Columnist Heywood Brown and Doug Gilbert, drama critic for the old New York World-Telegram, kept their desk drawers stocked with expensive schnapps against ailments of the soul.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain what toxemia of pregnancy means. After delivery of the baby (stillborn), what can be done to clear up the condition? Swelling, eye weakness, and general weakness were the symptoms, plus awful itching.

I'm always very, very tired, vision is impaired and they took approximately 50 pounds of water from me at the hospital. — Mrs. W. K.

Toxemia of pregnancy is a group of complications peculiar to pregnancy. Its cause is not known but its pattern is — and steps should be taken to control it at the earliest possible moment, both for the baby's sake and the mother's.

That is one of the most important reasons for early and continued care during pregnancy, a vital reason why it is wrong to notify the doctor only toward the latter part of pregnancy.

The principal characteristics of toxemia are salt retention in the system, which in turn causes accumulation of water and a rapid weight gain, elevated blood pressure;

albumin in the urine; visual disturbances; and an urticaria or itching of the skin. You've had them all.

The good thing is that all these symptoms subside after delivery of the baby, although it may take a number of weeks. Ordinarily there are, then, no after-effects. If such conditions as high blood pressure and albumin in the urine persist, it is concluded they are the consequences of some disorder that existed before the pregnancy. And should be treated, of course.

Toxemia of pregnancy is seen chiefly in first pregnancies, or twin pregnancies. There seems to be a family tendency toward the problem. When a woman has had toxemia, there is a tendency to have trouble with later pregnancies, so they should have particularly close medical attention, right from the start of a future pregnancy.

You didn't say, Mrs. W. K., how long it has been since your pregnancy. If in a short time your fatigue does not correct itself, some further examination would be in order.

What Is Allende?

Idaho State Journal

Chile's new president, Salvador Allende, is a Marxist who came to power on a Marxist-Leninist program. But that doesn't make him a Communist. Confused? The distinctions are fine ones that exist mostly in the eye of the beholder. It's reminiscent of the semantic grief that Fidel Castro caused journalists in his early days in power.

Castro's true loyalties even seemed to perplex Soviet Premier Khrushchev who, as late as Sept. 7, 1961, said: "As far as we know, Castro is not a member of the Communist Party. He is just a revolutionary and patriot of his country." Fidel helped clarify things on Dec. 2, 1961, when he told his people that he would lead Cuba down the path to communism and said of himself: "I am a Marxist-Leninist and will be one until the day I die."

Chile's Allende promised on Nov. 5 that his new government would create "a republic of the working class" in that country. Allende's failure to join the Communist Party would disqualify him in the eyes of purists from being called a capital "c" Communist. Even the conservative National Review so far describes Allende (Oct. 6, 1970) as a "Marxist-Leninist." But it would take only a misstep or two — like expropriation of the $900 million in U.S. private investments in Chile — to escalate the epithet. What it adds up to is that the difference between a Marxist and a Communist often is the difference between theory and practice. The U.S. will be keeping a wary eye on Mr. Allende.

Great Man's Wife

Christian Science Monitor

In no way was Charles de Gaulle more essentially French than in his family life. And the role played by his wife, Yvonne, was typical of the self-effacing loyalty of the French woman.

Throughout the extraordinary events of his career, Madame de Gaulle was his faithful companion, but deliberately kept in the background. She has epitomized the highest qualities of womanhood as wife, mother, and homemaker.

During World War II she had to set up house in England — in what for her was a strange land with an unfamiliar language. Later the simple country home at Colombey-les-deux-Eglises became the center of the de Gaulle family life, even during the 11 years that the General was President of France.

Whether in the splendor of the Elysee Palace or in the simplicity of Colombey, Madame de Gaulle was equally efficient as mistress of the house and home manager.

"You're running France, I'm running the house," she is once said to have told her husband.

At Colombey she and the General shared such unpretentious pleasures as taking a country walk or watching television.

There is something particularly heart-warming about de Gaulle's devotion to his family, and the part that Madame de Gaulle played in the great man's life.

Probate code update asked

BOISE (UPI) — The Legislative Council Committee on probate code revision Saturday voted to recommend to the legislature that Idaho's statutes be brought into conformance with the uniform probate code accepted by the American Bar Association.

The committee accepted a draft written by Phillip Peterson, University of Idaho, and rejected another proposal by Boise attorney Charles Blanton.

An eight man advisory group, which included attorneys, probate judges and a representative of a title company, voted 7-1 to accept Blanton's proposal.

Blanton's proposal would have left unchanged many of the current procedures, although eliminating some procedural steps.

The committee, composed of Sens. Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise,

Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise and Nels Solberg, D-Grangeville, and Reps. E. G. Jenkins, R-Nampa, Margot Tregoining, D-Wardner, and Melvin Hammond, D-Rexburg, accepted the draft by Peterson.

The chairman of the committee, Mrs. Klein, who is also an attorney, said the crux of the problem was that in many cases one-fifth of an estate is spent in legal fees to obtain it.

Mrs. Klein said contrary to many beliefs that inherited money is a "windfall," she said when the widow or widower is involved, the inheritance is counted upon.

New board holds meet

BOISE (UPI) — The newly created advisory board on medical education held its first meeting here today to elect officers and discuss future programs.

Dr. Donald Kline, executive director of higher education, said the board would discuss its function in relation to other health facilities, consider the problem of the nursing shortage in many parts of Idaho, discuss an agreement with the University of Missouri for training in veterinary medicine, and discuss agreements with states outside the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education which would help provide for training not available in Idaho.

The board includes five physicians, a representative of the Idaho Nursing Association, a representative of the Idaho Hospital Association and a representative of the Idaho Hospital Association and a representative of each of the three senior institutions for higher education in the state. Kline serves as an ex-officio member.

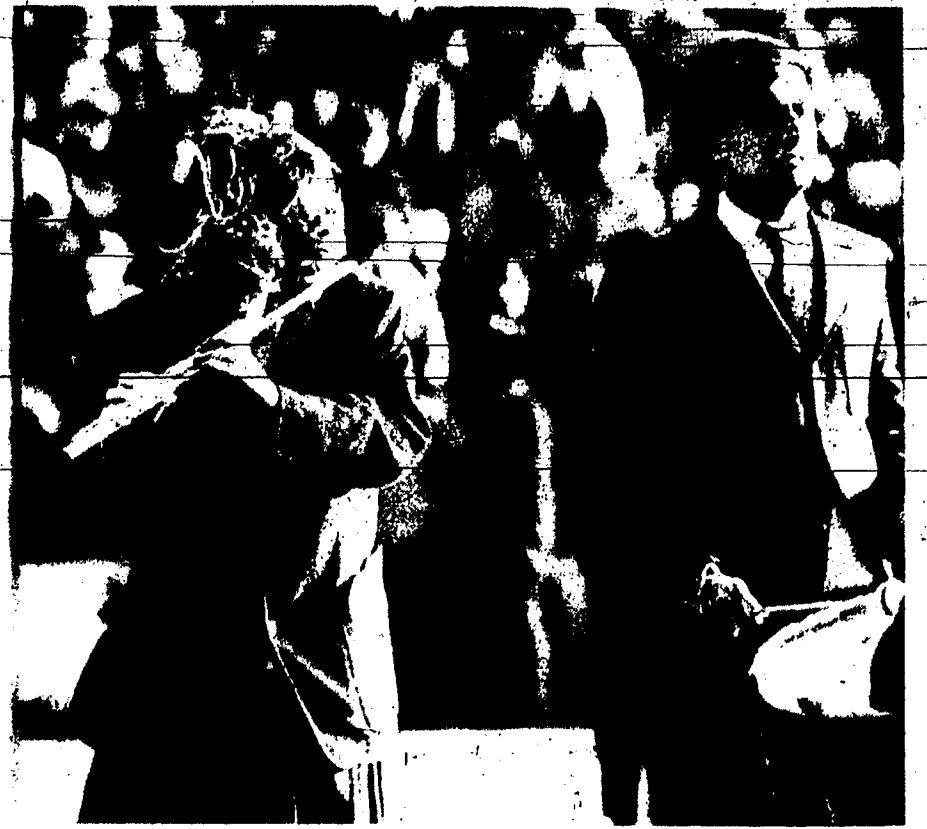

BOISE (UPI) — The retiring commissioner of the public assistance department, Bill Child, said President Nixon's welfare proposal is returning people to self-support.

Child said Saturday the bill before the U.S. Senate has come to be known as the 'welfare' program in that it requires all recipients of family welfare payments to register with the labor department for training and placement in jobs.

He said, "It seems to me that the approach to problems of welfare does not lie in welfare legislation, but lies somewhere in the contractual relationship between the government and the private sector of our nation."

He said jobs have to be created in the private sector to accommodate the unemployed and underemployed in America.

Earlier in the week Child sent his resignation to Gov. Don Samuelson — the resignation becomes effective Dec. 31. Child has served as commissioner since 1947.

U of I president asks new teaching approach

BOISE (UPI) — The president of the University of Idaho told the Idaho Press Club Saturday educators need to take a new look at their approach to teaching if they are to keep up with the knowledge explosion.

Dr. Ernest Hartung, speaking at the annual banquet of the press club in the Rodeway Inn in Boise, said educators must break away from the traditional "four year lock step" in higher education.

He said the knowledge explosion has made some information taught to students in college obsolete even before the student graduates.

He said the trend now is to encourage students to continue with their education outside the college discipline or returning to college for graduate work.

"Common currency" credits, that would allow students to transfer from one school to another without losing credits, is another need of education, Hartung said.

"The feeling of elitism that prevails among faculties is somewhat scandalous in this matter." He outlined the need for colleges to accept equivalency tests so the student would not be required to duplicate learning he has received on an informal basis.

Only what seems a few short years ago, these saloon keepers would not have dared throw down such a challenge. In that bygone day, men were not merely men but colossi, firmly belted against the bar. They belted saloons to drink, not to sip a Dubonnet over a chessboard or make small talk with a girl.
Old, long-buried friends come to mind who would have plunged the free-drink joints into instant bankruptcy. Bob Ruark counted the day misspent when he failed to polish off a fifth of Scotch, and the justly revered Ernie Pyle was not referring to a dry cereal in World War II press camps when he called his "Breakfast of Champions" the three fingers of raw gin he ingested upon arising. Columnist Heywood Broun and Doug Gilbert, drama critic for the old New York World-Telegram, kept their desk drawers stocked with expensive schnapps against ailments of the soul.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain what toxemia of pregnancy means. After delivery of the baby (stillborn), what can be done to clear up the condition? Swelling, eye weakness, and general weakness were the symptoms, plus awful itching.
I'm always very, very tired, vision is impaired and they took approximately 50 pounds of water from me at the hospital. — Mrs. W. K.
Toxemia of pregnancy is a group of complications peculiar to pregnancy. Its cause is not known but its pattern is — and steps should be taken to control it at the earliest possible moment, both for the baby's sake and the mother's.
That is one of the most important reasons for early and continued care during pregnancy, a vital reason why it is wrong to notify the doctor only toward the latter part of pregnancy.
The principal characteristics of toxemia are salt retention in the system, which in turn causes accumulation of water and a rapid weight gain; elevated blood pressure;

albumin in the urine; visual disturbances; and an urticaria or itching of the skin. You've had them all.
The good thing is that all these symptoms subside after delivery of the baby, although it may take a number of weeks. Ordinarily there are, then, no after-effects. If such conditions as high blood pressure and albumin in the urine persist, it is concluded they are the consequences of some disorder that existed before the pregnancy. And should be treated, of course.
Toxemia of pregnancy is seen chiefly in first pregnancies, or twin pregnancies. There seems to be a family tendency toward the problem. When a woman has had toxemia, there is a tendency to have trouble with later pregnancies, so they should have particularly close medical attention, right from the start of a future pregnancy.
You didn't say, Mrs. W. K., how long it has been since your pregnancy. If in a short time your fatigue does not correct itself, some further examination would be in order.

Probate code update asked

BOISE (UPI) — The Legislative Council Committee on probate code revision Saturday voted to recommend to the legislature that Idaho's statutes be brought into conformance with the uniform probate code accepted by the American Bar Association.

The committee accepted a draft written by Phillip Peterson, University of Idaho, and rejected another proposal by Boise attorney Charles Blanton.

An eight man advisory group, which included attorneys, probate judges and a representative of a title company, voted 7-1 to accept Blanton's proposal.

Blanton's proposal would have left unchanged many of the current procedures, although eliminating some procedural steps.

The committee, composed of Sens. Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise,

Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise and Nels Solberg, D-Grangeville, and Reps. E. G. Jenkins, R-Nampa, Margot Tregoining, D-Wardner, and Melvin Hammond, D-Rexburg, accepted the draft by Peterson.

The chairman of the committee, Mrs. Klein, who is also an attorney, said the crux of the problem was that in many cases one-fifth of an estate is spent in legal fees to obtain it.

Mrs. Klein said contrary to many beliefs that inherited money is a "windfall," she said when the widow or widower is involved, the inheritance is counted upon.

Welfare aide OKs proposal

New board holds meet

BOISE (UPI) — The newly created advisory board on medical education held its first meeting here today to elect officers and discuss future programs.

Dr. Donald Kline, executive director of higher education, said the board would discuss its function in relation to other health facilities, consider the problem of the nursing shortage in many parts of Idaho, discuss an agreement with the University of Missouri for training in veterinary medicine, and discuss agreements with states outside the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education which would help provide for training not available in Idaho.

The board includes five physicians, a representative of the Idaho Nursing Association, a representative of the Idaho Hospital Association and a representative of the Idaho Hospital Association and a representative of each of the three senior institutions for higher education in the state. Kline serves as an ex-officio member.

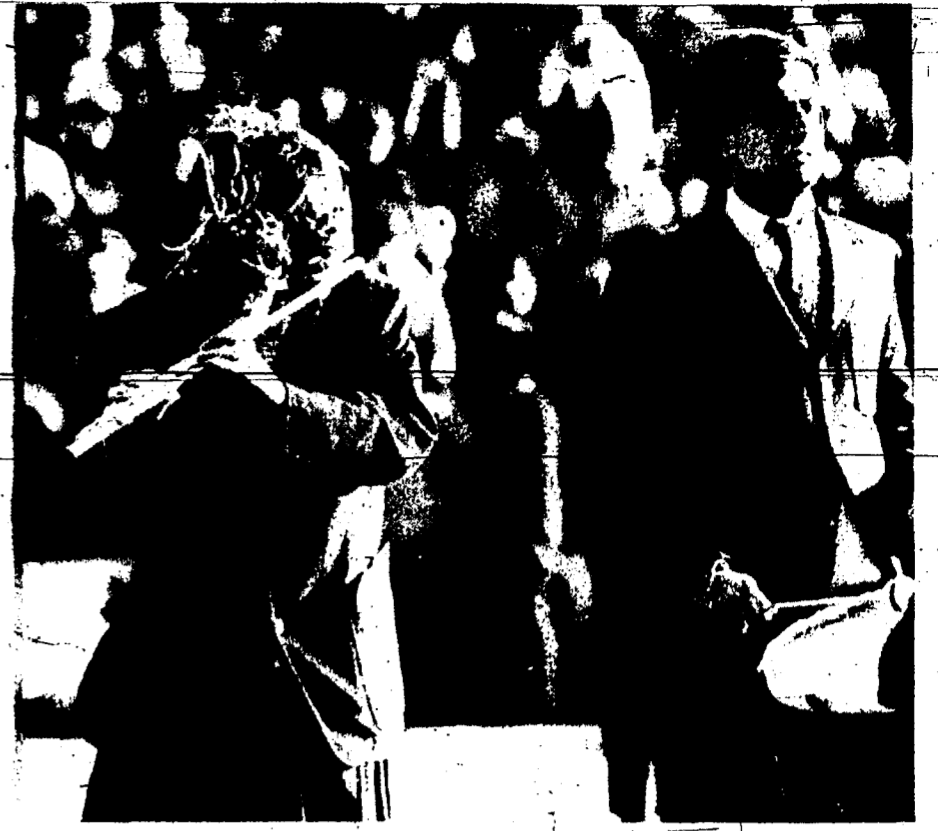

BOISE (UPI) — The retiring commissioner of the public assistance department, Bill Child, said President Nixon's welfare proposal is returning people to self-support.

Child said Saturday the bill before the U.S. Senate "has come to be known as the 'workfare' program in that it requires all recipients of family welfare payments to register with the labor department for training and placement in jobs."

He said, "It seems to me that the approach to problems of welfare does not lie in welfare legislation, but lies somewhere in the contractual relationship between the government and the private sector of our nation."

He said jobs have to be created in the private sector to accommodate the unemployed and underemployed in America.

Earlier in the week Child sent his resignation to Gov. Don Samuelson — the resignation becomes effective Dec. 31. Child has served as commissioner since 1947.

U of I president asks new teaching approach

BOISE (UPI) — The president of the University of Idaho told the Idaho Press Club Saturday educators need to take a new look at their approach to teaching if they are to keep up with the knowledge explosion.

Dr. Ernest Hartung, speaking at the annual banquet of the press club in the Rodeway Inn in Boise, said educators must break away from the traditional "four year lock step" in higher education.

He said the knowledge explosion has made some information taught to students in college obsolete even before the student graduates.

He said the trend now is to encourage students to continue with their education outside the college discipline or returning to college for graduate work.

"Common currency" credits, that would allow students to transfer from one school to another without losing credits, is another need of education, Hartung said.

"The feeling of elitism that prevails among faculties is somewhat scandalous in this matter."

He outlined the need for colleges to accept equivalency tests so the student would not be required to duplicate learning he has received on an informal basis.

JIM ROBERTS
(Tenor with Lawrence Welk)

A tenor with considerable professional experience, youthful Jim Roberts one day in 1955 made up his mind to establish contact with Lawrence Welk, with the hope of joining his musical troupe. Jim hired himself to the Aragon Ballroom in Pacific Ocean Park, California, introduced himself to the maestro, sang a number or two, was hired on the spot, and went to work that night.

That's the story of how Lawrence and Jim got together — and of how a young man from Madisonville, Kentucky, sang his way to national fame subsequently, when Lawrence Welk and his Champagne Music Makers went on television, coast to coast, on the ABC-TV network.

Born in Madisonville, Jim and his folks moved to Pontiac, Michigan, while he was still quite young. He sang with the high school glee club, took violin lessons, and then spent two and one-half years in the Army, serving in Guam and the Philippine Islands.

Jim also has appeared in numerous shows produced by the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Association, and prior to his joining Lawrence Welk's Champagne Music Makers, had appeared in featured roles at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles, in such hits as "Girl Crazy," "Desert Song," "Rio Rita," "Finian's Rainbow" and "Song of Norway."

'Redmen' say vows broken

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—Today, as in 1838, many American Indians believe their "great white father" speaks with a forked tongue.

It was in 1838 that thousands of what historians call the most civilized of those first natives of the North American continent were herded like cattle along the "Trail of Tears" from deep in Georgia and Florida to Indian territory.

That part of what is now east-central Oklahoma was given to the five civilized nations "because no one else wanted it," Indian leaders say today.

The area is still the capital of those tribes—the Cherokee, Choctaw, Chickasaw, Creek and Seminole.

Despite the promises of happy hunting grounds and a place to live in peace, leaders of the American Indian say their great white father hasn't done well for his red-skinned sons.

"In general, the Indian has been pushed backward," is the accusation of W. W. Keeler, chief of the Cherokee nation who also is chairman and chief executive officer of Phillips Petroleum Co., and thus one of the stronger voices of his people.

Congress tried in the 1950's to "free" the Indians by terminating federal responsibility, but this effort has left Keeler unimpressed.

"As I view it," he said in an interview, "during this period it was not generally recognized that freeing the Indians . . . by termination wasn't really freeing the Indians because up to that time the Bureau of Indian Affairs had only been involved as a custodian for Indian property and had done nothing in connection with the development of Indians to stand on their own feet."

Keeler called the termination moves "dismal failures" and added, "this is no different than what would happen to any white man's children if he never gave them a chance to develop responsibility or failed to assist them in this development. The Indians were not prepared nor trained to look after their own affairs."

Keeler said the backwards push appeared to turn around when the "government recognized two substantial and significant points. First, if the Indians were to be developed to handle their own affairs, then government would have to take all of those steps calculated to train the Indians or develop the human resources and not just be a custodian. Also, that Indians had to be consulted on any program in which they were involved, if the program was to be successful. There has been a long record of Indians having programs fostered upon them without ever knowing, and in many instances understanding, what was happening until it actually happened.

"With the history of losses that Indians have had from government, they were naturally suspicious and indifferent when a well intended program was shoved down their throat," Keeler said.

It is still a matter of great controversy that state governments allowed white settlers to encroach upon the Indian and take from him huge tracts of land. As Keeler and other Indian spokesmen see it, Georgia, Mississippi and Alabama allowed its non-Indian citizens to all but steal the land out from under the red man. Now the government, for example, wants to pay the Seminole tribes 47 cents an acre for land they had owned and that sold in the 1820's for $1 and $1.25 an acre.

Many claims are pending between the federal government and Indian tribes, most of them being appealed again and again by the tribes.

The government has cut from $5 million to $192,000 one claim made by the Seminoles.

"The government is charging them for envelopes, paper and pens supposedly used during the (Trail of Tears) move," said Bill Wantland, attorney general for the Seminole nation. "Most of them could not write in the first half of the 19th century."

Keeler feels the Indian Claims Act is a help in the Indian campaign for a redress of wrongs.

"It did two things which heretofore had been obstacles to equitable consideration of Indian claims," he said. "First, it outlawed the statute of limitations and second, it brought a new principle of law of fair and honorable dealing."

Keeler had a word of caution for the Indian himself in these days of violent protest.

"One thing that I do feel can hurt the future of the Indians and cause reversal of the trend is the great number of whites who are involved in trying to promote militancy among Indians."

"I served on the Rights and Liberties of the American Indian Commission," he said, and "just as I feel that extremes have apparently become the order of the day with the black race in its efforts to obtain long overdue equal opportunities,

Time bomb Rage mounts as nationalism rises

By United Press International
Palestinian commandos have seized world attention by hijacking jetliners and terrorizing hostages. French-Canadian extremists demanding a "free Quebec" have kidnaped and killed. Uruguayan Tupamaros kill and rob banks.

There are other dissident national movements around the world—in Africa, in Europe, in Asia and in Latin America. Some are potentially explosive. Others employ the tactic of nonviolence.

Many of these dissidents have the backing of Mao Tse-tung, who believes "wars of national liberation" will win the world for Communism. The Chinese Communists have aided such groups throughout Southeast Asia, have intervened in half a dozen African nations and supplied AK47 automatic rifles to Arab guerrillas.

There also are underground ideological movements, some of which try to capitalize on nationalist sentiments. In South America, for instance, Latin pride is used as a weapon to whip up hatred against the United States.

The political climate throughout Latin America is restless these days, and leftist extremist groups have blossomed in several nations.

All want to change the existing political structures, but none has indicated a desire to transcend national boundaries.

The most prominent Latin American terrorist organization is Uruguay's Movement for National Liberation — better known as the Tupamaros.

The Tupamaros are named after a Peruvian chief, Tupac Ameru, who organized an Inca rebellion against the Spaniards in 1780. After Tupac Ameru was defeated, the Spanish tore him apart with four horses pulling in different directions at the same time.

The present-day Tupamaros are urban guerrillas who use a variety of terror tactics in a move to overthrow President Jorge Pacheco Areco's administration in Uruguay and install a revolutionary regime along the lines of the Communist government in Cuba headed by Premier Fidel Castro. One American has been slain at the hands of the Tupamaros; another is a hostage facing possible execution.

In Africa, the seeds for trouble were sown in the ear of colonial exploitation. Guerrillas are fighting for independence in Portuguese Angola and Mozambique and in Ethiopia insurgents are trying to wrest the northern coastal province of Eritrea from the government and incorporate it into what they call "the Arab motherland."

The Ethiopian rebels, known as the Eritrean Liberation Front (ELF), enjoy Communist and Arab support and have headquarters in Syria, the most militant nation of the Arab world. The ELF claims its 8,000 guerrillas have successfully pinned down Emperor Haile Selassie's 40,000-man American-trained army.

Eritrea was an Italian colony until World War II. The United Nations handed it over to Ethiopia in 1953.

The ELF has taken credit for bomb and hijack attempts on Ethiopian airliners in West Germany and Pakistan. Emperor Selassie decorated an airline guard who shot and killed two ELF guerrillas in an attempt to hijack a Boeing 707 over Spain last year.

In the Sudan, Ethiopia's nextdoor neighbor, guerrilla forces hold areas of three southern provinces in a move for a separate state.

The guerrillas claim to represent 5 million Christian—mostly Catholic—Negroes in the southern Sudan. They want to secede from the Moslem northern Sudan and form a nation to be known as "Azania."

Southerners and northerners in the Sudan have been fighting a little noticed war for the past 15 years. Casualties are believed to have been heavy, but there is no firm count.

In the former French colony of Chad neighboring the Sudan, an insurgent movement appears to be gaining momentum in its campaign against the government. The rebels, who fight under the banner of the National Front for the Liberation of Chad, accuse the government of nepotism, mismanagement of public funds, extortion of taxes by dishonest administrators and perpetuation of French colonialism under the guise of independence.

The rebellion began in 1966. France has sent 2,500 foreign legionnaires to Chad to help crush the revolt. Blood has been shed. More violence is feared, particularly if France goes through with plans to withdraw all French troops by next year and turn the fighting over solely to the 21,700-man Chadian army.

Europe, the hotbed for nationalist movements in the chaotic years immediately preceding World War I, is perhaps the least volatile of any continent now. But Bulgaria has not abandoned its campaign to obtain 25,000 square miles of rugged Yugoslavian mountain country known as Macedonia. The territorial claim is an incredibly emotional issue with roots going back hundreds of years.

Bulgaria sided with Germany in both world wars, solely because the Germans promised to give it Macedonia. Macedonia is now one of the Yugoslav republics.

Bulgarians said the people who live in Macedonia are Bulgarians. Yugoslavs say they are separate, that Macedonian is a special language.

Transylvania has long been a sore point between two other Communist nations—Hungary and Romania. Although part of Romania, the rolling area has 700,000 ethnic Hungarians and it was in Hungary for 1,000 years.

The Palestinian guerrillas are not alone in the Middle East in their drive to obtain land they believe to have been stripped from them illegally. The Kurdish minority in northern Iraq has been fighting an intermittent antigovernment war since March of 1961.

The Kurds, who claim 15 million tribesmen, seek establishment of an autonomous state. The war presumably ended with an accord on March 11, 1970, between Kurdish leaders under Mulla Mustafa Barzani and President Ibrahim Al-Bakr. It promised the Kurds autonomy in areas where they are a majority. But there has been dispute over these areas, and the big sticking point is Kirkuk, strategic center of the great northern Iraqi oilfields.

In Asia, the Chinese Communists have all but snuffed out the dissident movements that once flourished among minority groups there. Those with any steam left are based abroad and their hopes of revival in China grow slimmer each year.

The best known of these groups, perhaps, is the band of Tibetan rebels still loyal to the exiled Dalai Lama—the Buddhist "god king" of the Himalayan land who fled to India in 1959 when Communist Chinese troops crushed a revolt by his followers.

The Dalai Lama keeps his movement alive with regular appeals to the United Nations and by keeping in touch with clandestine supporters remaining in Tibet.

Unconfirmed reports that originate in India and other Himalayan border areas indicate some armed resistance is still being conducted by the Dalai Lama's followers.

In Indonesia, there are the dissident Ambonese, a group which made headlines last August when some members raided the Indonesian ambassador's villa in the Netherlands and killed a Dutch policeman.

The Ambonese are a separate ethnic group from the Javanese, who dominate Indonesian life and supplied most of the colonial troops in the former Dutch East Indies.

In addition, the Indonesian government faces the threat of a separatist movement among the Papuan tribesmen of West Irian—Indonesian New Guinea. They have staged uprisings against Indonesian rule several times in the past five years.

The Papuan revolts are normally short. The tribesmen fight with bows and arrows and stone axes, no match for Indonesian army paratroopers armed with automatic weapons and supported by warplanes.

The Philippines, Asia's only Christian nation, has a rather weak Moslem independence movement headed by Datu Chieftain Udtog Matalam, the former governor of Cotabato province in the southern part of the island republic.

To date, no responsible government official has taken Matalam seriously.

By DONALD E. MULLEN
United Press International
The year 1620 was a tough one for the small band of religious nonconformists who had turned their backs on the Elizabethan establishment and set out for the wilds of North America to set up their own spiritual commune.

Their main trouble was that they weren't sure where they were going. They didn't find a decent spot to settle until Dec. 11, 1620, after exploring the length of Cape Cod.

A scouting party finally found a small harbor on the mainland. One place along the shoreline, cut by a small creek, once had been a thriving Indian community (the Indians had been wiped out in an epidemic that swept the Massachusetts coastline a few years earlier).

The land was fertile and could be defended, and on Dec. 16 the Mayflower set sail from what is now Provincetown and anchored off the chosen site of Plymouth. On Jan. 4, 1621. The approximately 400 Pilgrims, many sick with scurvy and suffering from the winter cold, began building a common house.

Then came the struggle to stay alive. More than half of them died the first few months, including their leader, Governor John Carver.

But the rest, with the help of Indians with whom they formed a treaty, built homes and a fort, explored the coastline (discovering Boston Harbor and regretting their original choice), planted crops and hunted game.

By the autumn of 1621 things were looking up. William Bradford, who was elected governor of the colony after the death of Carver, described that harvest time in his famous journal:

"They began now to gather in the small harvest they had, and to fit up their houses and dwellings against winter, being all well recovered in health and strength and had all things in good plenty.

"For as some were thus employed in affairs abroad, others were exercised in fishing, about cod and bass and other fish, of which they took good store, of which every family had their portion.

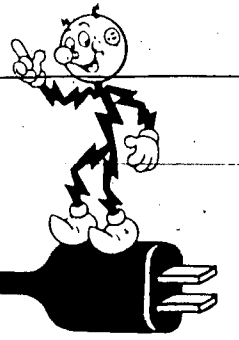

All summer there was no want, and now began to come in store of fowl, as winter approached, of which this place did abound when they came first (but afterward decreased by degrees); And besides waterfowl there was great store of wild turkeys, of which they took many; besides venison, etc.

"Besides, they had about a peck of meal a week to a person, or now since harvest, Indian corn to that proportion. Which made many afterward write so largely of their plenty here to their friends in England, which were not feigned but true reports." One such letter was written on Dec. 11, 1621, by 25-year-old Edward Winslow, and sent back to England on the second ship

Appearance set for pianist

TWIN FALLS — Lowell Farr, pianist, will be guest artist for the first concert by the Magic Valley Symphony Orchestra Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the CSI Fine Arts Center. He will play "F Minor Concerto," known as No. 2, by Frederic Chopin, with orchestral accompaniment. Del Slaughter is the conductor of the orchestra.

Farr is a native of Pocatello, and it was there and in Salt Lake City that he received his early training. After completing his preliminary studies, Farr spent two years in Paris, France. There he studied at the Paris Conservatory with Nadia Boulanger. While in Paris he was quickly recognized as another in the line of that interesting species of phenomenon — the artist with a special affinity for impressionistic music. His performances of Debussy and Ravel were recognized as definitive, and this music has, ever since, formed an important part of his repertoire. Critics in the French capital have recognized him as a "specialist in tone-painting."

Upon his return to the United States, Farr embarked upon a busy career of teaching and performing. He has appeared in concert throughout the U.S., and has enjoyed the acclaim of critics, great enthusiasm from his audiences, and warm affection from his fellow artists. His versatility has carried him to many areas of musical life, and he has been heard as soloist, with orchestra, and as collaborating artist with many notable musicians of the day. After completing a tour of European musical capitals, critics commented on "the fresh spirit of his performances," "poetic sensitivity," and the "special interest of his musical conceptions."

As a Fulbright Scholar in Germany for three years, Farr performed with notable success in many musical centers of the continent, including Amsterdam, Brussels, London, and was invited by the Spanish government to participate in a six-week festival of Spanish music in Santiago de Compostella. Upon his return to the U.S. he served as a member of the screening panel for Fulbright applicants, and for two years served as chairman of the committee. He attended the Tchaikowsky International Competition in Moscow in 1966 as the accompanist for several of the American entrants, and upon his return performed before President and Mrs. Johnson and an invited audience with all of the American prize winners. Farr is a member of the faculty in the University of Utah Department of Music, where he teaches private piano and a class in accompanying. He is currently working on his doctorate at the university. Two days a week he teaches at Brigham Young University. Mrs. Farr (Naomi), a lyric soprano who teaches voice at the university, is a former community concert artist. While she was concertizing, her husband was her accompanist. The Farris have appeared in concert in Paris, as well as in the U.S., and were among an elite group of musicians chosen to perform in Tanglewood with the contemporary composer, Aaron Copeland. They will be appearing together in May with the Utah Symphony. Their daughter is a ballerina, who studies and makes her home in Los Angeles.

The "F Minor Concerto" by Chopin was actually the first to have been written by Chopin, and he himself introduced it in Warsaw in 1830. It consists of exquisite pianistic interludes which could stand independently as an etude, prelude, nocturne, or mazurka. The first movement includes brilliant passage-work suggestive of Chopin's later etudes. The last movement has a melody with echoes of a mazurka. The high point of the entire work is the Larghetto, possibly one of the greatest pages written by Chopin. It is sensuous and romantic, in the vein of Chopin's greatest nocturnes.

Selections by the orchestra will include the overture "Iphigenie en Aulide," by Christoph Willibald Gluck; "First Symphony" by Beethoven — the movements of which are Adagio molto; allegro con brio; Andante cantabile con moto; Minuetto e allegro molto vivace; Adagio; and allegro molto e vivace; and the "Comedians," by Dmitri Kabalevsky.

Comprising this suite are prologue, gallop, march, waltz, pantomime, intermezzo; little lyrical scene, gavotte, scherzo and epilogue.

Families will be admitted to the concert on patron tickets. General admission tickets will be on sale at Helen's Record Shop in the Masoner Music Center and at the Warner Music Co. in downtown Twin Falls, and at the Sullivan Music Co. in Lynwood. No tickets will be available at the door the night of the concert.

Dr. Spock warns parents against playfulness

NEW YORK — Dr. Benjamin Spock had a word of advice today for adults who delight in tickling, teasing and playfully tossing babies up in the air. "Don't," said the renowned pediatrician in a magazine article just released.

"Play of this intensity is overstimulating and unhealthy," Dr. Spock wrote in his monthly column for Redbook magazine. "One gentle tickle a day should be sufficient — and no tossing in the air at all."

Dr. Spock admonished parents who favor this type of play, "Imagine what it would be like to have a giant ten times your size (1,600 pounds) repeatedly throw you up to a ceiling way above his head or pin you down and tickle you again and again. The fact that you couldn't help shrieking or laughing wouldn't prove that you were really enjoying yourself and wanted more."

Fathers are most often guilty of teasing their children, Dr. Spock contended. He explained, "Men take a lot of kidding throughout their lives, and unless they are unusually loving and secure they take it out on others, even on their children, usually without any conscious awareness of what they are doing."

Lib demonstration slated

NEW YORK (UPI)—Remember the Women's Liberation Movement? Recall the sounds of fury it generated across the nation last Aug. 26, the 50th anniversary of the day men gave American women the vote?

Relative silence from the liberation drum-beaters between then and now might lead you to believe the movement and the cries for "liberation now" were a flash in the pan.

"Not so," answers Betty Friedan, women's strike coordinator and founder of the National Organization for Women (NOW).

The voice of the liberationists will be heard again in New York state Dec. 12 when the women demonstrate to call attention to its twin causes of free abortions on demand and government-operated child care facilities for working mothers.

The drum beaters will sound their militant tempo sometime later in the nation's capital, according to Mrs. Friedan. "We will demonstrate in Washington," she said, "for passage in the Senate of the equality rights amendment."

She said the "liberation now" women also will demonstrate to demand that the White House Conference on Children give serious attention to the government's financing and training of personnel for a nationwide network of childcare centers for all mothers, not just those who hold jobs.

Mrs. Friedan said that she herself has been overwhelmed with invitations to speak on the women's movement since the Aug. 26 strike. She can't accept them all.

She judges from the turnout at these speaking engagements that interest in the women's movement is growing, not diminishing.

"While 300 to 400 are predicted as the turnout, frequently 1,000 or more show up at these speaking events," she said. "And there are many men, which may be surprising to some people."

"Women's groups of all kinds are signing up," Mrs. Friedan said. "We are getting young women and black groups, women from all kinds of organizations ranging from the American Red Cross to the Junior League."

Filer class has dinner

FILER — The Challenge Class of the First Baptist Church held a progressive dinner Thursday evening.

Members went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morgan for juice. Canapes were served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lauren Butts; salad at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Price Holloway; main course at the church served by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Peterson, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tucker.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Johnson served coffee and dessert and Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Abel were in charge of the evening devotional service.

Civic Club lists projects for year

SHOSHONE — Some of the projects of the year for Shoshone Civic club were decided upon at the Friday afternoon meeting held at the Manhattan cafe.

A cash donation was made to the Idaho Federated Women's club project for presentation of educational TV programs dealing with drug abuse, means of promoting respect and understanding of the policeman's roll among small children through an educational program, and a better-lighting project for the court house lawn and area were among the projects outlined.

The group voted to pay the $10 dues needed to sponsor a Blue Bird group led by Mrs. Ivan Hopkins.

Mrs. Hopkins reported on a district workshop where a color book educational project on the policeman subject was introduced by the Soda Springs club's work. The books can be printed at 40 cents each, with respective community names substituted where the Soda Springs name is encribed. Mrs. Hopkins will visit the grade school to determine if such a project is desired here.

The District IFWC meeting will be held at Rupert in April and Shoshone club will handle the memorial service.

Mrs. R.G. Neher and Mrs. Ormer Spook were appointed by Mrs. Luella Kinsey, president, to meet with the county commissioners regarding the lighting project.

Report was made that individual contributions had been made to the Melba Gray family Memorial fund during the Thursday night canvass of Shoshone by the Beta club of the high school.

Mrs. Alice Gerity reported on the sale of note cards, planners and club woman's placemat, stating the newly ordered material had arrived.

Luncheon held at Richfield

RICHFIELD — Mrs. Lester Johansen was hostess to the North End Club Thursday with a luncheon preceding the meeting. Mrs. Robert Bottoms, Idaho Falls, was an out of town member present.

A remembrance card was signed for Mrs. Gene Cox, a recent surgery patient. Mrs. C. F. Chatfield received the club prize, and Mrs. Myrtle Riley was a club guest.

Plans were made for the Dec. 12 gentlemen's evening dinner and card party at the home of Mrs. Theo Ollieu. Mrs. Ray Appell, club president was named to purchase prizes.

The Dec. 3 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Bill Brown with officers to be elected.

Aluminum kettles can be brightened by rubbing with vinegar or lemon juice.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years! Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet (that needs no prescription). Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is not as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: You said, "When it comes to babies crying in church, apply the rules of baseball. Three strikes and out!" Sounds more like W. C. Fields to me. ("Anyone who hates dogs and children can't be all bad.")

Preaching in a church without children is, to me, somewhat akin to preaching in the catacombs or in some other graveyard. You are doing a fine job, Abby. But please stay off the theology kick. People can find enough excuses for not coming to church (and bringing their children) without using you for an excuse.

REV. RICHARD Y. ROSEMAN
REDEEMER LUTHERAN CHURCH
BARTOW, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: Children in church? Even when they cry and are restless? Why not? Where else do they belong? One of my fondest memories is of the Sunday a child escaped his parents, ran down the aisle and climbed into my lap during the choral anthem. The parents were embarrassed. I was thrilled!

Bring those children and come to church!
REV. WILLIAM B. GARNER
PAYSON, ARIZ.

DEAR ABBY: When a child continues to cry in church and the parent makes no effort to remove him, the parent should consider these facts. A minister works for days preparing a sermon. Dedicated musicians spend hours inspiring choir and organ music. Hundreds of adults make an effort and some come long distances seeking strength and direction for their lives. The never-to-be-repeated moment is at hand. Then, all is lost because a steadily crying baby is permitted to dominate the service, distracting people from the message, causing them to seethe inwardly.

Obviously the baby is unhappy and getting nothing from the service, neither is the parent who struggles to contain him. Then why not honor the child's wishes and remove him? He will be grateful. And so will everyone else.

REV. JOHN MASON
FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH
BEAVER DAM, WIS.

DEAR ABBY: I have been a minister in the Presbyterian church for the past 46 years and I think the only way children can learn how to act in church is to be brought there. If a baby cries and has to be carried out by the mother, my sympathy goes with her for I know she is embarrassed. Adults who are so nervous and high strung that they cannot endure a few moments of distraction, ought to be in a psychopathic ward in a hospital. I say, God bless all mothers who bring babies to church.

REV. M. L. BAKER, MARSHALL, TEX.

DEAR ABBY: I would rather have more crying babies in my church and fewer crying teen-agers and parents in my office.

JAMES A. DeLONG, LUTHERAN PASTOR
TYRONE, PENN.

DEAR ABBY: Count this clergyman as one who welcomes children in church. You say, "Three times and out?" Maybe you should stretch it to: "Four bawls and a walk." Children are not to be tolerated or ignored. Just included in worship.

EDWARD R. ROWLEY JR.
SOUTHMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
DAYTONA BEACH, FLA.

DEAR ABBY: I learned to preach in a seminary with many small children in attendance. We had no nursery, only a sanctuary. The experience taught me to be more patient with those parents who may not have possessed all the social graces and refinement bestowed upon the saints. But they were trying. And if I must stand in judgment of any man's heart or action, I will judge him by what he attempts to achieve, rather than by what he accomplishes.

GERALD F. HARRIS, METHODIST MINISTER
AUBURN, N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: Our Bishop has a sign in his office I think is quite good. It says, "Promises, like crying babies, should be carried out."

ANOTHER MORMON
SPRING VALLEY, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: A baby crying in church never disturbs me when I preach, but the one thing I can hardly stand is to hear a sharp report of a mother snacking her little one in God's house.

AN IDAHO INDIAN, Mrs. Lamada Means, on left, of Fort Hall, presently on Alcatraz Island as one of the Indians who have occupied the former federal prison for a year, displays a model of "Thunderbird University," a "free Indian university" planned for the island by the Indians. In the background is the Alcatraz lighthouse, now partially painted red by the Indians, and, next to it, the fire-ravaged former home of the Alcatraz warden. (UPI)

Endangered eagles stir effort to save species

FRIDAY HARBOR, Wash. (UPI)—Charles Nash and other concerned residents and authorities of the San Juan Islands in Northern Puget Sound have a mission—to save the area's eagles, hawks and falcons from extinction.

The eagles particularly, are in danger from destruction of their habitat and predators armed with guns.

The islands, about 60 miles northwest of Seattle, are one of the few places in the United States outside of Alaska where eagles still dwell. But the once populous flocks are down to about 40 permanent resident eagles and perhaps that many transients.

Nash, Friday Harbor's 48-year-old, postmaster and a member of the Audubon Society, says the 1970 bird count in the archipelago turned up only five golden eagle nests and 15 aeries of the northern bald eagle, which is America's official symbol.

"Once they nested all over the islands wherever they could find a tall snag," Nash explained. "I've even seen them dive bomb branches to break them for nest building."

"But, of course, as man moves in, the eagles move out. That aspect is bad enough. But when thoughtless persons start shooting the birds just because they are targets, it is time something was done to save them. It is just pure maliciousness."

"It also is a trap. The eagles and hawks that get shot are those that can get along with man around. The ones that stay far away, that don't get shot, are losing their habitat."

Last year the carcasses of three adult eagles were found under a log on a beach. Obviously, Nash said, they had been hidden after being shot. During the past year about a dozen eagles have been found shot to death. "We have no way of knowing how many dead birds were not found," he added.

Two birds, a bald and a golden eagle, were found wounded and nursed back to health by Marvin Sharpe, a National Park Service official. One was healed after eight weeks of care and released the first week of October. The less severely wounded bird was released earlier.

Carl R. Stoddard, the supervisor of the San Juan Island National Historical Park, came up with the idea of establishing a sanctuary.

Backed by Sharpe and Nash as well as other islanders, Stoddard drew up a request asking island county commissioners to make the entire county—its land and its waters—a sanctuary for all raptors—eagles, hawks, ospreys and falcons. He listed 14 species of raptors alive in the islands.

He declared it was a "unique privilege and responsibility" of the islanders to provide the habitat and the home for "the last remnant of the northern bald eagle."

Nash said that persons from as far away as Chile and Vietnam have "expressed interest and support for our work."

The Friday Harbor Journal, a weekly, began a fund to provide rewards for the arrest and conviction of any person accused of the federal offense of shooting a bird of prey on San Juan Island.

Many of the dead eagles have been found at Cattle Point on San Juan Island. That is a place where the rabbit hunters go for sports and the eagles and hawks go for food.

The rabbits were brought to San Juan Island many years ago from Australia, and being rabbits they multiplied rapidly. In turn they attracted birds of prey.

There are more than enough rabbits for both the birds and the human hunters.

While the bald eagle prefers fish, he will eat rabbit carrion. The golden eagle seems to have a taste for live rabbit and seldom eats fish.

Andrus names panel

BOISE (UPI)—Governor-elect Cecil Andrus wants an "on the nose" estimate of state revenues for next year and said he is appointing a committee of six to come up with the figure.

Speaking to newsmen Friday, Andrus said the study will be based on what revenues can reasonably be expected to accrue to the state from present taxes. None of the proposed taxes will be included, he said.

Andrus wants the report from the committee no later than Dec. 10 or 15 so he can use the figures in working out the executive budget for presentation to the legislature in January.

None of the committee members were named, but Andrus said they would not be leaning "to the conservative or liberal side," and would concern themselves only with factual indications of income.

Expressing concern over the high rate of unemployment in north Idaho, Andrus said that factor is going to have a definite impact on state revenues. He forecast no immediate improvement in the situation.

Andrus said he will include a new column of figures showing just how much money it will take to continue services at their present level. He indicated the Department of Administrative Services is one area where the state can save money, and said studies are underway with that in mind.

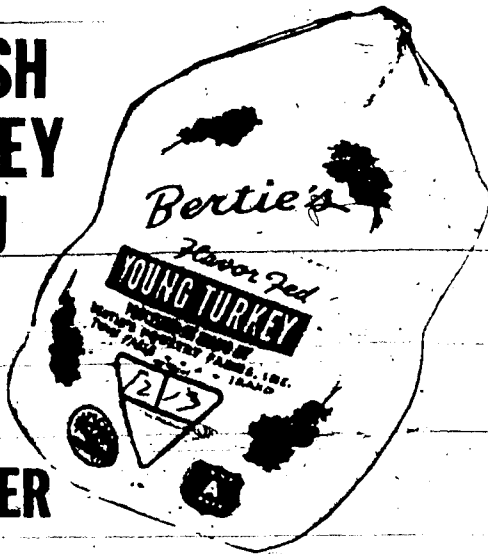

As yet, Andrus said, he has not received a computer print-out of agency budget requests for the forthcoming fiscal year. Gov. Don Samuelson was supposed to receive his copy Friday and promised to get one to Andrus by Wednesday.

Student found on hunting trip

FAIRFIELD — A Caldwell college student was able to look back on a narrow escape today after he was found in the Willow Creek area north of here at about 11 p.m. Saturday by the Soldier Mountain Search and Rescue group.

Larry Weeks, Fairfield forest ranger, said John Hodder, about 20, was hunting with a group of Jerome hunters when he began tracking a wounded elk. He followed the trail up Buttercup Mountain and dropped into the Willow Creek area and had gone another four miles to where he was found. Members of the Soldier Mountain search and rescue group were called out about 8 p.m. and searched until 11 p.m. when they found the missing man.

Ranger Weeks said Hodder had dug a hole into a snowbank for shelter but would probably have suffered frostbite or frozen to death if he had not been found before daylight.

With Ranger Weeks when the missing hunter was found was Stan Frostensen. They estimated Hodder was about six miles from his hunting camp. Weeks said he was not suitably dressed for the snow covered area, especially for the night time temperatures. He had no boots and was wearing low shoes and a light jacket.

A four-wheel unit was used to reach the Butter Cup Mountain area where the hunter was lost. Others who participated in the search from about 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. included Bob Martin and Jack Lee of the U.S. Forest Service and Doug Hallowell, Boyd Eklund, Gordon Schmidt and Tom Spackman.

Puppets tell story . . .

STORY HOURS have resumed at the Twin Falls Public Library and this year will be held for individual age groups rather than all youngsters together. Here Mrs. Duan Hunt, Filer, conducts the first pre-school story hour, using hand puppets to tell the stories for the youngsters. Mothers also met with library officials to discuss their ideas of how the story hours can be tailored to youngsters' needs.

Fairfield man hurt in unusual accident

FAIRFIELD — Don Bauscher, 55, well known Fairfield area hay dealer was reported improved but still in serious condition today in the Sun Valley Hospital after suffering a gun shot wound in the chest in a traffic accident.

Mrs. Bauscher said her husband had gone hunting Saturday in the Deer Creek area northeast of Fairfield with a companion, John Lawrence. The two men separated as Bauscher dropped Lawrence off and was to meet him on the other side of the mountain. When Bauscher failed to keep the appointment, Lawrence walked down the road and discovered the four-wheel unit Bauscher was driving had rolled down a grade.

When the vehicle rolled, a rifle in the cab discharged, sending a bullet into the man's chest. Mrs. Bauscher said it narrowly missed the man's heart.

Because of the location of the accident the injured man was not brought to the hospital until about 7:30 p.m. It was necessary to send another four-wheel unit into the area to bring the injured man to where the ambulance was able to drive. Otto Florence, Jr., Twin Falls, drove to the scene and helped remove the injured man from the overturned vehicle.

Mrs. Bauscher estimated her husband was injured about 1:30 p.m.

Youths escape injury

TWIN FALLS — Seven teenagers escaped with minor cuts and bruises in a two car head-on accident Sunday afternoon on the snow covered Rock Creek Canyon road.

Sheriff's officers who investigated said a vehicle driven by Ronnie Gerald Taylor, 17, Twin Falls, was coming down the canyon grade and another driven by Harold Mike Miller, 19, Hansen, was going up the canyon and because of the icy road the vehicle coming down was unable to stop or to avoid the collision. Four passengers in the Miller vehicle suffered cuts and bruises. Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at $950.

Shooting victim released

CASTLEFORD — A young man who was accidentally shot about noon Sunday at his home in Castleford was released after treatment at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Twin Falls County sheriff's officers said Ray Crosby, 23, and Mike Condie, 23, were leaving their house after loading shells Sunday. Condie was carrying both guns, they said, and when he turned to close the door, one of the guns, discharged and pellets from a 12 gauge Browning automatic shotgun went into Crosby's left side and left leg. Officers said pellets ricocheted off a concrete step and particles of the step also struck Crosby.

Holiday toll figured at 770

CHICAGO (UPI)—From 670 to 770 Americans will die in traffic accidents over the four-day Thanksgiving holiday weekend, the National Safety Council has estimated.

Howard Pyle, NSC president, said last year 696 Americans died on the nation's highways during the Thanksgiving holiday.

"Only the driving public can prevent this carnage from being repeated this year," Pyle said.

From 29,000 to 34,000 persons will be injured in highway accidents over the 102-hour weekend that begins at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends midnight Sunday, the council estimated.

However, Pyle said, "Traffic deaths thus far this year number about a thousand fewer than the total for the same period last year."

Credit Women install

BURLEY — Officers for the Burley Credit Women's International Club were installed Saturday during a candlelight ceremony at Nelson's Cafe.

Officers installed include Mrs. Joan Krieger, second vice president; Mrs. Dean Draper, secretary, and Mrs. Pauline Reeder, treasurer.

Mrs. Ralph Butters, immediate past president, gave the welcome, and Mrs. Derald Mabe, a past president, was installing officer.

Pins were presented to retiring officers by Mrs. Butters.

A smorgasbord dinner was held, with guests attending from Pocatello and Burley, with husbands of members as special guests.

Lincoln taxes up

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County taxpayers are paying more this year.

The tax levy for a person living in Shoshone totalled 11.954 mills this year, up from 11.31 last year. In addition, each piece of property was assessed at a higher rate than last year as the county moved toward the 20 per cent assessment ratio decreed by law.

Thus a $10,000 home in Shoshone would be assessed at 17 per cent of its market value this year, or $1,700, compared to 16 1/2 per cent or $1,650 last year.

The combination of higher levies and higher assessment ratios drove the tax bill for that $10,000 house up from $186.72 last year to $203.22 this year.

Individual taxing units in the county levied the following taxes this year (followed by last year's levy in parentheses):

Shoshone, 4.44 (3.90); Richfield, 4.34 (3.70); Dietrich, 2.85 (3.00); Shoshone-Highway District, 1.00 (1.00); Richfield Highway District, 1.94 (1.90); Dietrich Highway District, 1.00 (1.05); and Kimama Highway District, 1.025 (1.06).

Gooding School District, 4.44 (3.00); Shoshone School District, 2.591 (3.60); Richfield School District, 3.942 (3.95); Jerome School District, 3.68 (4.07); Dietrich School District, 3.93 (4.10); Richfield Cemetery District, .10 (.095); and Lincoln County Cemetery District, .093 (.095).

Lincoln Fair Board, .055 (.050); Wood River Fire Protection District, .412 (.42); Richfield Fire Protection District, .595 (.80); Richfield Library District, .16 (.15); and Livestock Disease Control and Brand Inspection, .50.

Titles listed for writers contest

TWIN FALLS — "Ticked Pink" and "If Only —" are the titles set for the next assigned title contest for Idaho Writers' League members, as announced by Jewel Von Ins at the meeting Saturday at the Idaho Power Auditorium.

Members and the guest, Mrs. Louzella Stephens, responded to roll call with short poems on "gratitude."

In the state contest, Frances Harris received honorable mention for her article, "The Isolationism of Senator Borah"; this was reported by Ethlyn Walkington who attended the state convention of Idaho Writers' League held in connection with the state conference on Arts and Humanities in Boise. Mrs. Walkington also reported on the analysis and criticism of two poems by Dr. John Nydegger, professor at Lewis-Clark Normal School, Lewiston, and on the talk of the writing of western stories by Dwight Newton, featured speaker at the state convention, author of 47 novels and creator of successful television series.

The Twin Falls Writers' League Christmas party was set for December 19, a no-host luncheon at the Rogerson, to be followed by gift exchange and program at the home of Mrs. Von Ins, vice president.

Publications were reported by Pearl Campbell, an article on Christmas wall decorations in the North Side News; Sudie Hager, poem, "Incredible Harvest," in Incredible Idaho; and May Burkhart, three poems in Wood River Journal.

Junior Miss selection set

TWIN FALLS — Selection of a 1971 Junior Miss for Twin Falls will be made Saturday night with seven young women competing for the honors and the right to represent the city next year in the Idaho pageant.

Sponsored by the Jaycees, the local pageant will be held in the CSI Fine Arts Building at 7:30 p.m. with the winner to receive a $150 scholarship and $50 in cash as well as a pant suit for her wardrobe. She will represent this area in the state pageant next spring in Moscow.

First runner up will receive a $50 scholarship as will the second runner up. Trophies will be awarded all of the contestants.

Seeking the title are Jo

Vincent, Filer; Lillah Thornock and Janice Cook, both Twin Falls; Linda Elliot, Kimberly, and Debbie Lancaster, Mary Ann Hildreth and Fredrica Wheeler, all Hansen.

All of the contestants are seniors in their respective high schools and will be judged on the basis of a personal interview, their scholastic standing, poise, personal appearance, physical fitness and creative and performing arts.

Serving as choreographer for the pageant is Mrs. Willa Dean Nielson, a dance instructor, Twin Falls.

Judges will be Mrs. Joe Hackney, Mrs. Norma Herzinger, Brad Hickerson, Roy Stotten and Dean Gibson, all Twin Falls.

Student gets all A's

RICHFIELD — Mark Dixon, a senior, was the only local high school student with all A grades for the second six week grading period, Supt. Neil Andreason announced today.

Others on the high honor roll were Peggy Ralls, senior; Charlotte Davis, junior, and Mickey Holland, sophomore. Honors went to Cathie Robinson and Chris King,

Students on the honorable mention list were Ann Wellhausen and Christine Jones, juniors; Steve Bowers, DeAnn Dixon and Nick Hubbsmith, sophomores; and Marie Hubbsmith, Cheryl Hlatt and Craig King, freshmen.

Acquitted sergeant "loves his uniform"

FT. HOOD, Tex. (UPI)—S.Sgt. David Mitchell, his right hand smoothing the two neat rows of Army medals clipped to his green wool Army tunic, said Saturday he wants to be a soldier for life.

"I love this uniform," said the man acquitted the day before of assault with intent to murder charges at the nation's first My Lai massacre trial. "I wouldn't do anything to discredit it."

A panel of seven Army officers, six of them Vietnam veterans, deliberated six hours and 50 minutes Friday night, then declared Mitchell not guilty in connection with the sweep by U.S. combat troops through the South Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai March 16, 1968.

When the verdict was read, Mitchell, 30, of St. Francisville, La., snapped to attention and faced the two colonels, three captains and two lieutenants who decided his fate. He then saluted crisply.

"I volunteered for the Army because I wanted to be a soldier," said Mitchell, his hair neatly trimmed and wearing a wisp of a mustache.

"That's the life I chose for myself. I thought it was a great organization then, and since I've been acquitted I think it's an even greater organization. I'm going to stay and make the Army my career."

Mitchell, married and the father of an 11-month-old daughter, enlisted 10 years ago and re-enlisted in 1968 in Vietnam. His present enlistment expires in 1974.

"I thank everyone who prayed for me," he said, smiling, when he was declared not guilty of slaughtering 30 Vietnamese civilians. "And that was the whole nation. Now I know it's a great Army."

Mitchell, the son of a Baptist preacher, said he planned to go home to Louisiana to rest with his family after the past 11 months of strain since he first was charged by the Army.

Ossie Brown, a civilian lawyer from Baton Rouge, La., and Mitchell's attorney, said the sergeant does not plan to testify at any other My Lai court-martials, including the Ft. Benning, Ga., trial of his Vietnam commander, Lt. William L. Calley Jr. Seventeen men, ranging from general to buck private, face massacre charges.

Brown said in his final arguments at Mitchell's court-martial that the My Lai massacre was fabricated by his persons who want to ruin the military.

Rating probed

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Salt Lake County Merit Service Commission is investigating a complaint of tampering with a deputy sheriff's performance rating.

A report originally rated Deputy Parley Blight with a 90, but the score was changed to a 79, according to L. Ray Gardner, attorney for the deputy.

Gardner said, "There is a phantom operating in the this report. The sheriff's office cannot tolerate this type of activity."

Merit Service commissioners Frank Pennock, Dr. Leslie B. White and Joseph Mazuran agreed the report had been changed, but were unable to fix the blame.

'Obedient moonchild'

MOSCOW (UPI)—A top Soviet space official compared Russia's moon buggy Saturday to an obedient child who has just learned to walk and is ready to go on to bigger and better things.

The official said Lunokhod 1 transmits panoramic pictures which are used by earthbound controllers in "plotting" its path over the Sea of Rains.

All-men Gridiron Club bills ladies

WHITESULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI)—The women's rights movement scored an advance Saturday when two congresswomen won top billing at the winter dinner of the all-male Gridiron Club.

Reps. Martha Griffiths, D-Mich., and Margaret Heckler, R-Mass., were the principal speakers at the black-tie affair of the dining club of Washington newspapermen, marking the first time women have ever actively participated in the club's evening of political satire.

Both women have been active in urging enactment of an equal rights for women amendment to the Constitution in this session of Congress.

Additionally, for only the fifth time in the club's 85-year history, wives of members and guests attended the dinner and the evening of political spoofery that features the event.

The sids in which club members performed took good-natured note of the demands of women as well as poking fun at political and government figures who were in the audience.

Gridiron President Jack

Steele, managing editor of the Scripps-Howard newspaper alliance, commented in his opening remarks that these are "revolutionary times" for both women and politicians.

He said the club was looking forward to the day when "we can look back on the Women's Lib as the DAR of the 1970's."

Of the election results, Steele remarked: "With friends like the president and vice president, the Republican party doesn't need many enemies."

A club member portraying Mrs. Mitchell sang to the tune of "I'm Just A Girl Who Can't Say No" the following refrain: "I'm just a gal who can't keep still — talkin's my favorite sport;—I always say such outrageous things—thing that I hadn't ort."

Notre Dame accepts bid for Cotton Bowl clash

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Notre Dame Sunday formally accepted an invitation to return to the Cotton Bowl classic Jan. 1 to meet either Texas or Arkansas.

"Our players felt that the Cotton Bowl offered a good opportunity to play in a game that could possibly decide this year's national champion," said Irish coach Ara Parseghian. "If Texas repeats as the Southwest conference representative, the outcome of the game could well determine the national title."

Notre Dame players voted to accept the Cotton Bowl bid instead of a similar one from the Orange Bowl.

Parseghian said the decision to accept the Cotton Bowl instead of the Orange Bowl was not an easy one.

Vikings clinch share of title, edge Packers 10-3

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Clinton Jones smashed one yard for a third quarter touchdown to give the Minnesota Vikings a 10-3 victory over Green Bay, clinching a share of the Central Division title.

Green Bay Quarterback Bart Starr promptly rallied the Packers back until he suffered an injured right knee with 8:05 to play when tackled by blitzing linebacker Lonnie Warwick.

Wilt Chamberlain poured in 31 points and Jerry West added 26 Sunday night as the Los Angeles Lakers connected on 18 of the first 22 points in the third quarter to turn a seven-point halftime lead into a 149-124 rout of the Seattle SuperSonics.

Table with 4 columns: Stat, Green Bay, Minnesota. Rows include First downs, Rushing yardage, Passing yardage, etc.

Jones' score broke a 3-3 tie, the result of second quarter field goals by the Vikings' Fred Cox and Green Bay's Dale Livingston.

All but one of the eight Lakers who played hit in double figures as Los Angeles scored its season high in points.

Alcindor, Bucks top Portland

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Lew Alcindor scored 30 points and grabbed 26 rebounds Sunday night to spark the Milwaukee Bucks to their 14th straight victory, 125-104, over the Portland Trail Blazers.

The Bucks started slowly and trailed 31-28 after the first period. Guard Lucius Allen sank a layin and 12-foot jumper late in the second period to break a 46-46 tie and boost the Bucks into an insurmountable 50-46 lead.

Reserve forward Fred Hetzle aided the Laker cause with 21 points, Happy Hairston hit for 22, and Gail Goodrich, Jim McMillian and Willie McCarter each had 14 apiece.

East may not get selection

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Because Penn State isn't interested and West Virginia isn't wanted, the East probably will be shut out of the bowls this season for the first time in five years.

The Nittany Lions, 7-3, rejected a bid from the Peach Bowl Saturday, then challenged Dartmouth, the undefeated Ivy League champion, to a showdown for the Lambert Trophy that was just as quickly spurned as a "publicity stunt."

West Virginia, favored to beat Maryland this week and finish 8-3, doesn't figure highly on the selection lists of the two bowl games still without teams—the Peach and the Liberty—although the Mountaineers have said they would go anywhere they're invited.

Smith gains second round

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Third seeded Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., reached the second round of the $35,200 Stockholm Open indoor tennis championship Sunday with a 6-1, 6-2 straight set victory over Tom Gorman of Seattle Wash.

Young Ray Barth of San Diego, Calif., failed to advance as the hippie-styled South South African Ray Moore won a 7-5, 6-2, one-hour duel.

Coach Joe Paterno of Penn State issued the challenge to Dartmouth after the Lions whipped Pitt 35-15 for their fifth straight victory.

Browns topple Oilers

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Quarterback Bill Nelsen, returned to a starting role Sunday, connected on 10 of 22 passes good for 229 yards and three touchdowns and an alert Cleveland defense intercepted three passes as the Browns snapped a three-game losing streak by scoring a 28-14 decision over the Houston Oilers.

Lions stop 49er streak, win 28-7

DETROIT (UPI)—Young Greg Landry, making only his second start of the season, upstaged the conference's leading passer by firing three touchdown passes Saturday as the Detroit Lions snapped a four-game San Francisco winning streak with a 28-7 win over the Forty Niners.

Detroit's third-year quarterback from Massachusetts fired one scoring strike of 19 yards to tight end Charlie Sanders, another of 23 to wide receiver Larry Walton and wound up his fine afternoon with an 18-yard hit to Earl McCullough.

Table with 4 columns: Stat, SF, Det. Rows include First downs, Rushing yardage, Passing yardage, etc.

Miami throttles Baltimore 34-17

MIAMI (UPI)—Bob Griese ran a 15-yard touchdown on a quarterback draw Sunday and threw touchdown passes of 27 and 51 yards to power the Miami Dolphins to a 34-17 upset of the Baltimore Colts.

Miami scored the first touchdown of the game when safety Jake Scott thrilled 67,699 Orange Bowl fans by taking a Jim O'Brien punt on the run at the 23, cutting up the middle, veering to the right sideline and going into the end zone untouched with 8:10 left in the first period.

New York defeats Pats 17-3

NEW YORK (UPI)—George Nock scored two second half touchdowns Sunday to give the New York Jets a 17-3 victory over Boston, which handed the Patriots their ninth successive loss.

Bakken's late field goal lets Cardinals deadlock K.C. 6-6

OAKLAND (UPI)—For the fifth time of the 1970 season Sunday, George Blanda was the Oakland hero, this time booting a game-winning 16-yard field goal with seven seconds left to play as the Raiders held on to first place in their division race with a 20-17 victory over the San Diego Chargers.

Mike Mercer, a former Raider, kicked an 11-yard field goal with 4:46 left to tie the score at 17-17 and the Raiders then marched all the way to the 7-1/2-yard line before calling on Blanda once again.

In four other games this year, the 43-year-old Blanda, oldest player in football history, engineered three victories and a tie.

His kick Sunday gave the raiders a 6-2-2 record and gave them a full-game lead over Kansas City in the AFC West race. The loss evened San Diego's record at 4-2 and dropped the Chargers two full games behind Oakland.

Blanda kicked an 18-yard field goal before Mercer's FG to put the Raiders ahead 17-14 in the first five seconds of the last quarter.

Charlie Smith, who helped set up Blanda's winning field goal by picking up 36 yards in four carries, scored the two Oakland touchdowns on bursts of three and one yards.

Smith's first TD was set up by a 24-yard pass from Daryle Lamomca to Fred Biletnikoff and the same pair provided the big play before Smith's second TD with a 43-yard hookup.

Gary Garrison scored the two San Diego touchdowns on 5 and 15-yard passes from John Hadl.

The Oakland defense, which has bailed the club out time and again this season, did it again, twice shutting off Hadl when it seemed the San Diego quarterback would take the Chargers in for a score and a third time forced a field goal try after the Chargers couldn't punch it across in three tries from the four yard line.

Garrison's and Smith's initial touchdowns left the teams deadlocked 7-7 at the half.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Pete Liske threw two touchdown passes and skillfully guided Denver to a 31-6 victory over New Orleans Sunday, ending a four-game Bronco losing streak.

Liske, a third-year quarterback from Penn State, celebrated his return to a starting job by throwing a six-yard touchdown pass to Al Denson and a three-yard scoring pass to Jim Whalen, both in the last two minutes of the first half.

Replacing injured Steve Tensi, Liske completed 15 of 26 passes for 262 yards before going out with seven minutes remaining in the game. He started the Saint downfall in the closing minutes of the second half by completing a 74-yard pass to Bill Van Heusen.

Denver scored its other touchdowns on a four-yard sprint by Bob Anderson in the third period and on a three-yard run by Floyd Little with 3:36 left in the game.

Soccer style kicker Bobby Howfield from England booted a 35-yard field goal to stretch Denver's lead to 24-6 midway in the third period.

At that point many of the 66,837 New Orleans fans, some of the most loyal in pro football, began booing the fatter Saints.

Jackson has knee surgery

CHICAGO (UPI) — Randy Jackson, the Chicago Bears offensive tackle, underwent knee surgery Sunday night to correct a ligament injury suffered in Sunday's game with the Buffalo Bills.

Jackson was the fourth player the Bears have lost for the season to knee surgery. Team physician Dr. Theodore Fox said Jackson "should be able to play next year but he will definitely miss the remaining four games."

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Jim Bakken kicked a 14-yard field goal with 1:49 remaining Sunday, pulling the St. Louis Cardinals into a 6-6 tie with the Kansas City Chiefs.

Stenerud had a chance to win the game for the Chiefs, but his 55-yarder with 27 seconds to go fell just short.

Bakken's tying field goal was set up by a 71-yard drive. Big play was a 22-yard pass from Jim Hart to Roy Shivers for a first down at the Kansas City seven. The Chiefs stiffened there, however, forcing the field goal.

A crowd of 50,711 sat in 27-degree temperatures as the two teams traveled up and down the field only to come up empty-handed.

The Chiefs botched field goal attempts of 53 and 28 yards in the fourth quarter. One was short and the other failed when holder Len Dawson got a bad

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—Frank Card and Bobby Verga scored 56 points between them to lead the Carolina Cougars to a 108-92 American Basketball Association victory over the New York Nets Sunday night.

The Cougars led 53-35 with 1:30 left in the second quarter and finished the half with a 53-39 lead. Verga scored nine points and Card eight in the Cougars' second-quarter spurt.

The Nets managed to cut the lead after intermission to 64-55 on the hot shooting of Jim Ard with 6:20 left in the third quarter.

Rams' defense keys 17-7 win

Thomas, Cowboys explode past Washington 45-21

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Rookie Duane Thomas ran for three touchdowns and fellow rookie Mark Washington exploded for another on a 100-yard kickoff return Sunday to snap the Dallas Cowboys out of their doldrums with a 45-21 victory over the Washington Redskins. The defense played its role, too, with two key Dallas touchdowns stemming from fumble recoveries.

Thomas, filling in for the injured Calvin Hill, was four yards for the touchdown. Again in the second period, Ricky Harris fumbled on a punt return and the Cowboys' Cliff Harris recovered on the Washington 27. Morton immediately hit Lance Rentzel for the score.

Surging Bengals crush Steelers

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The late-coming Cincinnati Bengals parlayed the 119-yard rushing total of Paul Robinson, the two-touchdown passing of Virgil Carter and four pass interceptions into their third straight victory Sunday, a 34-7 romp over the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Carter passed to Bob Trumpy for a 53-yard touchdown in the third quarter, winged a five yard scoring pass to Eric Crabtree in the final period and ran five yards for Cincinnati's first touchdown.

Robinson, in his best game in two seasons, scored Cincinnati's third touchdown on a 15-yard sweep around left end and churned out all 53 yards in the Bengals' first scoring drive.

Pros defeat ailing Denver

DENVER (UPI)—Steve Jones made good for 21 points and his Memphis teammates grabbed 84 rebounds Sunday night as the Pros downed the ailing Denver Rockets 141-121.

Denver kept up with the Tennessee team throughout the first half, closing out at 57-51, but the Pros returned to the floor in the third period to establish a 20 point lead which they maintained throughout most of the final two periods.

The Rockets could only manage 48 rebounds during the night.

Sunday's game was a double-edges defeat for the Rockets who had hoped to settle with Memphis for an earlier Pros win, 102-94, and because Denver scored a solid win Friday night over New York.

U.N. envoy? ...

PRESIDENTIAL ADVISER Daniel P. Moynihan will be named U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, according to a report released in the Boston Evening Globe. Moynihan, a Democrat, would succeed Charles W. Yost in the U. N. post. (UPI)

Beirut college doesn't change

NEW YORK (UPI)—The President of the American University of Beirut, the pre-eminent university in the Middle East, says he does not believe the pressures of Arab nationalism will change the essential character of the institution.

Dr. Samuel B. Kirkwood, 63, who has served as president of the university for the last nine years, said he was disturbed by newspaper and television reports depicting his campus as a training ground for Arab guerrillas. In an interview here, he said some of his 4,000 students probably are members of Arab guerrilla groups, but only as an extra-curricular activity.

university, which was founded by American missionaries more than a century ago. There have been only a few student strikes in recent years, mainly because of outside events such as the Israeli raid on the Beirut Airport.

Kirkwood mentioned with pride the university's illustrious Arab alumni and numerous scientific, engineering and agricultural contributions made by the American University in recent years. These include a protein-rich diet supplement, a new strain of wheat for arid climates, and a glass fiber which can replace expensive steel rods in poured concrete buildings.

Two Palestinian liberation leaders—popular front leader George Habbash and airline hijacker Leila Khaled—are alumni of the university. Kirkwood said they were remembered as good students but "what they become after they graduate is something else."

"We're not teaching a course in Palestinian guerrilla movements," he said. "We don't teach guerrilla sociology, we teach sociology. The students recognize the university as nonpolitical and they respect it. They have never demanded political clubs on campus and we do not have them."

Arab resentment against America's pro-Israeli foreign policy does not carry over to the university, which receives some financial help from the U.S. government and a great deal from American foundations, Kirkwood said. He explained that Arab students "are entirely able to separate American individuals from the policies of their government."

"We can have educational political discussions on campus without having political rallies," he said. "American students who attend the university have no particular problems because of U.S. government policy. But you must remember that the regional political problem is engulfing, and the university community is a perfect reflection of regional feeling."

Seventy per cent of the student body comes from Arab nations and about 70 per cent of the faculty is Arab, according to the president of the Building homes may be easier next year

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Most experts now agree that 1971 will be a better year for home building than was 1970. More houses will be produced and, with mortgage money more plentiful, they will be easier to buy. In most areas, they will also be somewhat more expensive. The National Association of Home Builders estimates that 1,750,000 new homes will be started next year, an increase of about 20 per cent over this year. Woodward Kingman, president of the Government National Mortgage Association, predicted that mortgage funds will be considerably easier to obtain than they were during most of 1970 and the final months of 1969. But Kingman, whose association is an agency of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, forecast only slight declines in average interest rates. He said "the backlog of demand for long term money" will keep the cost high. After the "tight money" slump which hit the housing industry in early 1969, the outlook for 1971 must be classed as "good." The question is whether it is good enough. Congress in 1968 set a goal of 26 million new or rehabilitated houses within 10 years. Production in 1969 and 1970, the first two years of that 10-year period, has fallen far below the pace needed to meet the goal. Even if predictions of more than 1.7 million units for 1971 hold true, the rate will be below the rate needed to meet the goal.

In setting the 26 million goal, Congress decided that the number was needed to fulfill the promise of a suitable home in a decent neighborhood for all Americans. That promise was written into law in 1949 but it has never been kept. The Home Builders Association estimates construction of homes and apartments will average 1.85 million units a year for the first five years of the decade of the 70s. Mobile home shipments will add another 390,000 homes a year during that five years.

Scandi-transplant, a unit embracing hospitals in key medical centers. Initiative in the life-saving swap was taken by Dr. Felming Kissmeyer, a chief surgeon of Aarhus City Hospital. His direct international contacts between Scandinavian hospitals in the first months resulted in 35 successful transplants. In Denmark, Norway and Sweden there are some 250 chronic kidney patients awaiting transplants. Scandi-transplant has them all catalogued. When the opportunity for a transplant arises, the national clearing house — Dr. Kissmeyer's hospital in Aarhus — is consulted after the tissue has been classified. Besides Dr. Kissmeyer's own hospital, clearing houses have been set up at Oslo's Ullevaal Hospital, Gotheborg's Sahlgrenska Hospital and with the Red Cross in Helsinki, where no single hospital is involved. When a laboratory has an expired donor, the recipient judged as the best prospective match takes priority. If qualifications are equal, the patient nearest the donor or the one with seniority on the waiting list gets the nod. Scandi-transplant's joint catalog of kidney patients speeds selection of the recipient, while a local air taxi company is frequently pressed into operation to get the transplant on the move.

Countries help with transplant

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — A young Swede was killed in an automobile accident outside the west coast city of Gotheborg early one Sunday morning this summer.

By noontime his kidneys were functioning normally in a Dane lying in the emergency ward of a hospital in Aarhus in Northwestern Denmark.

The achievement marked the debut of a new twist in Scandinavian cooperation — Scandi-transplant, a unit embracing hospitals in key medical centers.

Amendment on prayer proposed

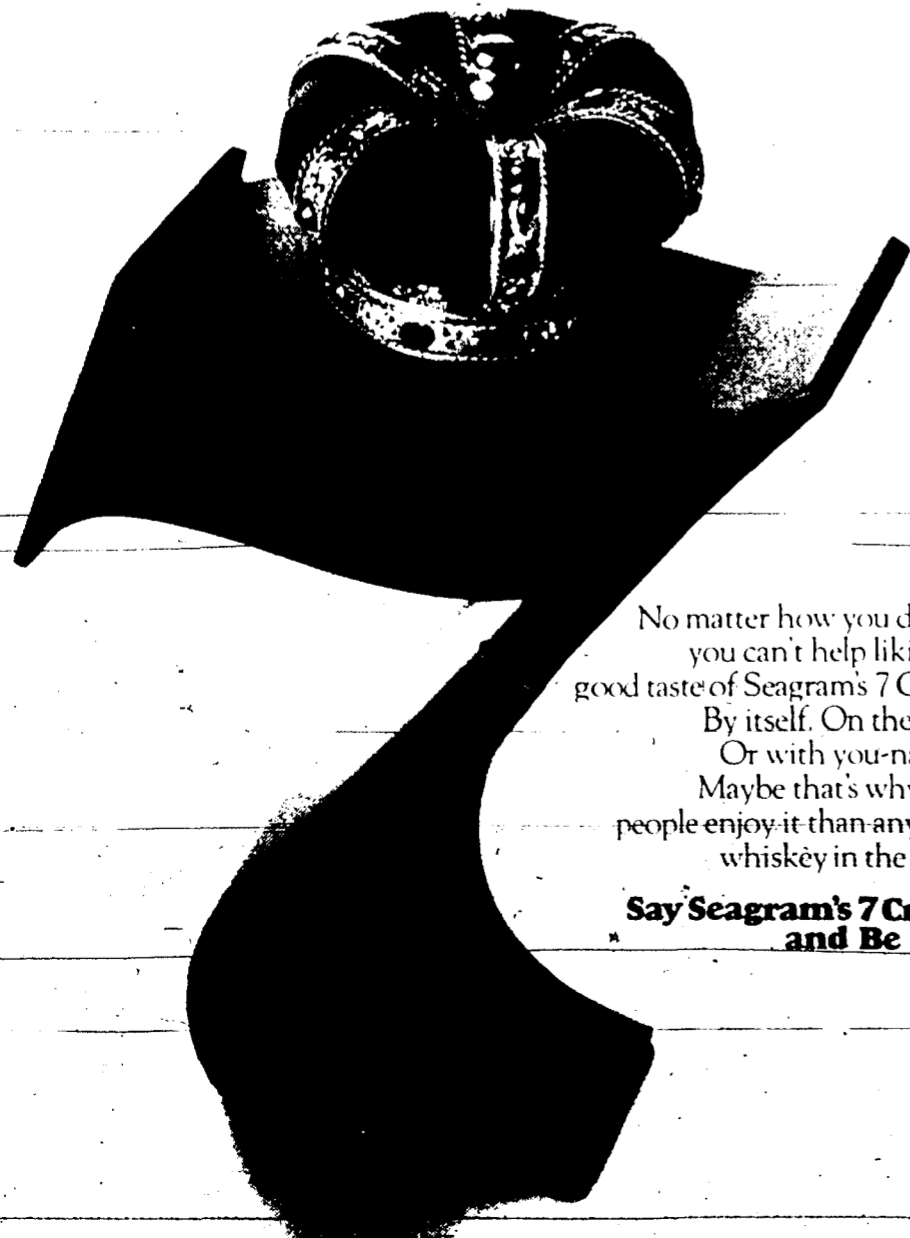

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Support for a constitutional amendment allowing voluntary prayer in Utah's public schools has been voiced by the Utah School Boards Association. Association members also endorsed a school administration request for an increase to $16.6 million by the legislature in public education funds. They overwhelmingly threw their approval towards the prayer issue during a Friday meeting, but board representatives exhibited an air of pessimism on the money subject.
