Gooding taxes up

GOODING — A $10,000 Gooding house will cost about $52 more in property taxes this year than last — an increase of 36 per cent.

Tax notices mailed last week show taxes on the $10,000 home in Gooding totaling $196.13 this year, compared to $144.09 last year.

Doris Robertson, county treasurer, said the year's collections will total about $1.51 million this year, compared to $1.33 million in 1969.

The tax collections are up but the total county assessed valuation is down slightly at $7,250,614 this year compared to $7,268,963 last year.

This year the county will assess at 13.75 per cent of the true cash value. That is one-half one per cent more than last year, and is working toward the 20 per cent figure required of all counties by 1982.

Nearly all levies for municipalities, highway and school districts and other taxing units in the county are up this year, and there are additional state levies included in the county statements.

Residents of Gooding County will feel the pinch from some major improvements including a new school, a new courthouse and a new hospital. The county's portion of these items must be paid for through local taxes.

Residents of the city of Gooding, for example, who paid

$10.92 per each $100 of assessed valuation last year, will be paying 12.83 this year. City taxes in Gooding are up no more than the four per cent limitation House Bill 304 will allow. The Gooding city levy is up from $4,566 in 1969 to $4.89 this year.

But the Gooding School District levy jumped from $3,0591 in 1969 to $4,662 this year. The levy for operation of county government is up from $2,593 to $2,678 per $100 of assessed valuation.

Elsewhere in the county the property owner's cost per $100 of assessed valuation this year and last year in that order shows: Wendell, $13.106 and $12.09; Hagerman, $11.706 and $11.490; Bliss, $9.687 and $8.43.

School district levies this year compared to last year are: Gooding, $4,6621 and $3,0591; Wendell, $4,6138 and $4,0593; Orchard Valley, $4,2138 and $3,6598; Hagerman, $3,4617 and $3,4096; Bliss, $4,6873 and $3,6312; Jerome, $3,4116 and $3,6312; and Buhl, $3,9117 and $3,8585.

Municipality tax levies for 1970 and 1969 show: Gooding, $4.89 and $4.566; Wendell, $4.75 and $4.40; Hagerman, $4.24 and $4.10; Bliss, $1.95 and $1.00.

Highway districts show: Gooding, $654 and .61; Bliss, 1.1379 and 1.10; Hagerman, 1.7676 and .75; West Point, .7944 and .75; and Wendell, .95 and .95.

Jerome tax bills higher

JEROME — Jerome county taxpayers will be paying slightly higher taxes this year, according to the tax notices they have just received.

Owner of a $10,000 home living in the city of Jerome will pay $184.96, compared to $182.31 last year.

A Jerome resident will pay $11.98 per $100 of assessed valuation compared to $12.16 last year.

This year's assessment ratio has been hiked from 15 per cent to 15.4 per cent, according to Howard Jeppson, assessor. The decrease in the mill levies, reflected in the amount per $100 of assessed valuation, and the .4 increase in assessment ratio nearly cancel each other, accounting for the slight increase.

Mill levies, compared to last years, are:

City of Jerome, 4.6828 and 4.7752; City of Edna, 4 mills and 3.891; City of Hazelton, 4.351 and 4.488; Jerome Fire District, .1683 and .1744; First Segregation Fire District, .25 and .2586; West End Fire District, .317 and .333.

The county levy this year is 1.8619 compared to 1.8122 last year. American Falls Reservoir District .09 and .10 compared to .113 and .125; Jerome Irrigation District remains at .10 and the Eden Irrigation District also is the same this year, .06.

Hazelton Cemetery District levy is .0525, compared to .0522; Jerome Highway District .978 and 1.0712; Good Roads Highway District, 1.043 and 1.0581; Hillsdale Highway District, .9715 and .974.

Jerome School District No. 261 levy is 3.60 compared to 3.66 last year; Valley School District is 3.242, and 3.25 last year; Lincoln County School District 3.612 and 3.5715 and Mindoka School District 3.31, 4.521 and 4.6944.

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Melvin Laird holds photo of model of Son Tay prison compound raided by U.S. forces this past weekend near Hanoi. Testifying before Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Laird denied breakdown in intelligence and said only cameras "that can see through roofs of buildings" could have warned that raid for American prisoners would be fruitless. (UPI)

Flare-up

Jordan troops fire on guerrilla nests

By United Press International Jordanian army troops attacked Arab guerrilla positions north of Jerash with mortars and heavy machine guns today, a guerrilla spokesman said in Beirut.

The spokesman said the attack started at 7:30 a.m. at Sagrat el-Asfour on the main highway linking Jerash and Irbid, and was continuing more than five hours later. He said the guerrillas were returning the fire.

"The forces of the hiring authority are still continuing their criminal plans which are aimed at crushing our pioneer revolution," he said.

The clash is the first reported flareup in North Jordan for a week, though there has been recent fighting in Amman.

In Amman, palace sources said today that King Hussein will promote the Arab viewpoint on the Middle East situation next month in visits to Washington, London, Paris and Bonn.

The sources said before leaving on his trip to the Western capitals Hussein will go to Egypt and Saudi Arabia. Palestinian guerrilla sources said a meeting opening in Amman today with the goal of uniting 11 major guerrilla organizations under one command would probably last several days.

The unity congress was called by the Central Committee of the Palestinian Liberation Organization. The sources said the group was expected to reject Hussein's suggestion for an Arab summit meeting to consider the possibility of a separate Palestinian state.

RRs OK wage plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's railroad have agreed to accept a labor contract settlement proposed by a White House panel, including a 37 per cent wage increase. The unions immediately rejected the surprise railroad move.

The uncompromising union position increased the probability of a nationwide strike Dec. 11, one day after the end of a cooling off period called by President Nixon.

Nixon knew POW odds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon was fully aware that American captives might have been moved from the prison camp at Son Tay before he ordered Saturday's raid on it, but he decided to take the chance.

Sources close to the President said today that although the helicopter-borne commando attack on the POW camp 40 miles west of Hanoi failed to rescue any prisoners, Nixon feels it was a successful venture.

According to the sources, the President approved the operation for three main reasons:

—Since diplomatic efforts to secure the prisoners' release have so far been unsuccessful, he wanted to demonstrate their wives and families that "we will not let them be forgotten."

—He wanted to demonstrate to the prisoners themselves that the U.S. government still is working for their release. He felt such a dramatic raid would spread through the "pipeline" and furnish a spark of hope to desperate men.

—He hoped enough sympathy would be generated by accounts of any prisoners freed in the raids to mobilize public opinion throughout the world and force Hanoi to give more humane treatment to those left behind.

There are at least 350 and as many as 1,500 Americans being held prisoner at several locations in North Vietnam.

More POW strikes seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says he will continue to push every possible means to free American war prisoners held by North Vietnam, presumably including more raids like the unsuccessful weekend attempt which struck at Hanoi's doorstep.

Laird made the statement Tuesday during a nationally televised appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in which he detailed the extensive planning and thinking behind the dramatic but fruitless mission.

Both Laird and Secretary of State William P. Rogers were scheduled to testify today in a hearing of the House Foreign Affairs Committee concerning foreign aid, and it was presumed they would be questioned about the raid.

"The risk was worth it. This shows we care." The prisoners — perhaps 1,500 of them — go through risks themselves every day just by being prisoners, Laird told the committee Tuesday.

"We could not ignore the fact that our men were dying in captivity," he said. The Pentagon said Tuesday it has received the names of 17 prisoners who have died in captivity. The first six were received through "unofficial sources" Nov. 13, and the other 11 were received Monday.

Laird said the raid's planners had "the best intelligence we could possibly have had." He conceded that none of the intelligence available, however, included actual pictures of American prisoners in the camp 23 miles outside Hanoi.

"We can never be certain of the safety and well-being of our men," Laird said. As for more raids, he added:

"I intend to recommend every possible avenue or approach necessary for these prisoners to be free men."

"Well, that's not according to our game plan!"

Agnew blames data

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Tuesday the raid for American prisoners near Hanoi during the weekend failed because of "faulty intelligence."

Agnew's comment on the failure of the mission was in apparent conflict with Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, who said in Washington that there was no intelligence breakdown.

Questioned by newsmen at International Airport as he left for a Thanksgiving holiday in Palm Springs, Calif., Agnew said of the mission:

"Well, obviously it wasn't successful, as you know, because of faulty intelligence."

However, Laird, appearing before a nationally televised hearing of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Tuesday the mission was executed with "100 per cent excellence," and only a "camera that can see through roofs of buildings" could have warned U.S. officials the raid would be fruitless.

Gravediggers begin burials

DACCA (UPI) — Soldiers and hired gravediggers moved into coastal areas today in a massive operation to bury tens of thousands of bodies still strewn across East Pakistan two weeks after a killer cyclone and tidal wave.

A government spokesman said the military-civilian teams already had buried thousands of disease-infected human bodies and animal carcasses in an attempt to save one million survivors precariously clinging to life in the region.

U.S. supplies and soldiers played a major role in relief efforts. Two American jets loaded with 150,000 pounds of canned goods and survival biscuits arrived Tuesday, the 13th and 14th plane loads of U.S. relief goods to reach the region.

Fifty U.S. assault boats were on the way to the coastal area to help move relief supplies to hard-to-reach areas. Four American helicopters already were carrying supplies to survivors.

Pakistani President Yahya Khan flew to the disaster area today to oversee rescue work.

"I am satisfied with the relief operation," he said before leaving Dhacca. "I want to be more satisfied after going to the devastation areas."

Where's Thanksgiving?

Typical pre-Thanksgiving display

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — Whatever happened to Thanksgiving?

A survey of local stores indicates, ironically, that the farm-based region has permitted Christmas to gobble up the major harvest holiday.

Although many families are planning to observe the holiday in traditional fashion, it is already "Christmas" in most area stores.

A tour of Main Avenue here revealed only three businesses now feature Thanksgiving displays. Two of these do so in conjunction with sale of Thanksgiving cards and table decorations.

The other hold-out against an early Christmas, a furniture store, displays window decals of cornstalks and pumpkins.

Nearly all other stores have Christmas window decorations and holiday trimmings. Most stores reportedly have already received much or all of their Christmas inventory.

Several store managers said Tuesday that it is the customer, anxious to do his shopping early to avoid crowds, who causes the stores to advance the Christmas season. Several merchants said the Christmas holiday arrived with the completion of the downtown mall.

A tour of stores Tuesday afternoon indicated shopping has not yet reached the seasonal peak. Several managers said customers are being attracted by evening shopping hours.

Rev. Robert Hughes, president of the Twin Falls Ministerial Association, said Tuesday he sees no conflict between the two holidays. He said families can still give traditional observance to Thanksgiving even though they may have completed Christmas shopping.

He said many churches will participate in a joint Thanksgiving program at 10:30 Thursday at the Episcopal Church of the Ascension in Twin Falls.

Nixon to blame unions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon specifically will point an accusing finger next week at several labor unions he believes have aggravated inflation by negotiating exorbitant wage increases for their members.

A high administration official who often participates in economic strategy sessions said the President is convinced that excessive wage increases in some industries have kept prices soaring despite a general business slump and the highest unemployment in almost seven years.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Tuesday the President planned to be tougher and more specific than he has ever been in denouncing inflationary wage and price increases.

The administration is scheduled to issue its second "inflation alert" soon, probably Monday. Nixon also plans to speak about the economy Dec. 4 in New York before the National Association of Manufacturers. He could use either of those occasions for a lecture on wage and price increases.

Administration sources indicated the President probably will criticize business as well as labor although he believes wage boosts now are the most important causes of inflation.

The official, who declined to be identified by name, said he expects Nixon to single out the Teamsters Union and some building trades craft unions for demanding, and getting, "unreasonable" wage increases.

The official said the President may not mention the United Auto Workers Union's new contract with General Motors.

Hara-kiri...

INTERNATIONALLY known Japanese novelist Yukio Mishima is shown speaking to soldiers shortly before he committed hara-kiri. Police said he led a group of sword-swinging fanatics into the Army building, made a speech, and then killed himself. Mishima and his followers were protesting corruption in government and the lack of preservation of Japanese culture. (UPI)

Author protests with own death

TOKYO (UPI)—Rightwing author Yukio Mishima led a group of four sword-swinging youths in an attack on a Japanese army base today and then committed hara-kiri in the commandant's office. One of his followers made certain Mishima was dead by beheading him.

The world-famous author, known in the United States for his book "The Man Who Burned the Golden Temple," urged soldiers to seize power in the name of the emperor. "Self defense forces, be yourselves!" he shouted in a speech to about 1,500 soldiers.

After his speech, Mishima, 45, went into the commandant's office, where the group was holding the base commander hostage, and committed the traditional Japanese suicide—hara-kiri—by plunging a Japanese military sword into his stomach. A member of the right-wing society he had founded, called Tatenokai, used a Samurai sword to decapitate him. It was not known whether Mishima already was dead when beheaded.

One of the youths, Hissho Morita, 25, also committed hara-kiri in the commandant's office and he, too, was decapitated.

By Japanese standards it was an aristocratic suicide since Mishima was helped only after he had carried out the traditional act of plunging the sword into his stomach and slashing it across and upward in a rough L shape.

Mishima and four Tatenokai members, brandishing swords, charged into the base and demanded an interview with the commander, Lt. Gen. Katetoshi Masuda. They slashed at soldiers who tried to bar their way, wounding eight of them, and entered Masuda's office, where they seized him and tied him to a chair.

Mishima ordered Masuda's fellow officers to collect the soldiers on the base, threatening to kill the general if they refused. After some 1,500 soldiers had been rounded up, the author made a 10-minute speech from the balcony of the general's office, urging them to overthrow the corrupt government in the name of the emperor.

Planes collide, kill 14

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. Command said today an American spotter plane collided with a South Vietnamese troop-carrying helicopter over the Mekong Delta, killing 14 persons, including four Americans.

Military spokesmen in Phnom Penh said it was quiet throughout Cambodia after 15 days of fighting which a government spokesman called the strongest offensive by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese since July.

Allied spokesmen said the in-flight collision occurred Tuesday west of Can Tho, 75 miles southwest of Saigon. It involved a single-engine RU6 Beaver observation plane and UH1 Huey helicopter. Three Americans aboard the RU6 and a U.S. adviser aboard the UH1 were killed. Nine Vietnamese troops and a child aboard the helicopter were killed.

Military spokesmen said another U.S. Army UH1 helicopter was shot down by Viet Cong ground fire in Quang Ngai Province on the northern coast Monday. The crew escaped injury.

South Vietnamese militamen killed 52 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in two operations Tuesday in the Mekong Delta. The regional force (RF) troops suffered three men killed in the fighting.

South Vietnamese regular troops killed 34 Communist troops in scattered clashes in South Vietnam's northern quarter while U.S. helicopter gunship crews killed 13 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in two engagements.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said today "there is no particular enemy activity" in Cambodia.

But North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units held a key mountain pass on Highway 4 about 60 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, most of Highway 7 connecting Skoun with Kompung Cham, northeast of the capital, and the town of Puok, 15 miles northwest of the ruins of Angkor Wat.

The Cambodian High Command said the Cambodian army had substantially reinforced embattled Kompung Cham, 45 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, with a river flotilla. The arrival of the convoy at Cambodia's third largest city had been delayed two days because of a Viet Cong ambush at Pearn Chikang on the Mekong River en route to Kompung Cham. Four Cambodian troops were killed and 53 were wounded in the attack.

Groups ask toy safety

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Two consumers groups said they would file suit today to force the government to use its authority to get hazardous toys off the market before Christmas.

The Consumers Union (CU) and Children's Foundation, two nonprofit organizations, said at a news conference last week the suit would be filed if they failed to receive a favorable response to their petition to have certain toys banned from the market.

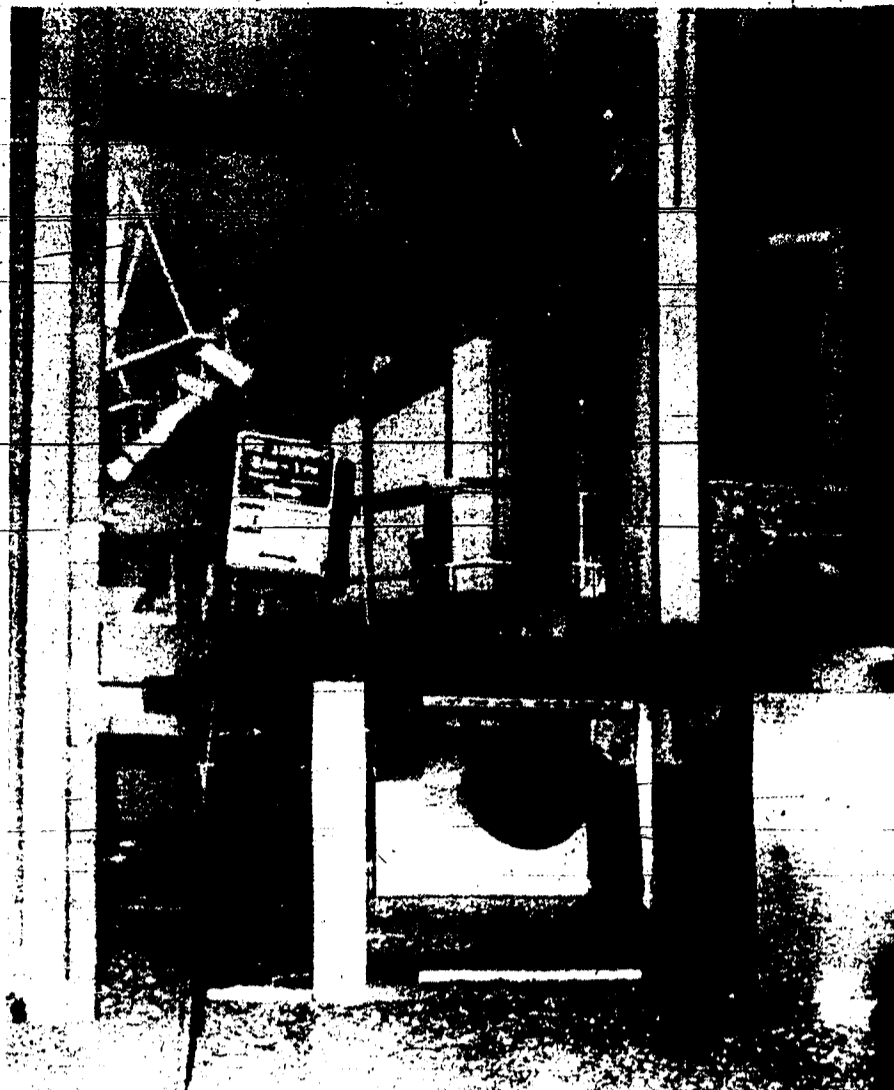

Morris Kaplan, technical director for CU, said Tuesday the suit now was necessary because of the Health, Education and Welfare Department's "callous response to the formal petition."

After Kaplan demonstrated eight toys he said were hazardous at a news conference last Wednesday, the Food and Drug Administration which is charged with enforcing the Child Protection and Toy Safety Act of 1969, announced that it found "no compelling reason" to declare any toys an "imminent hazard."

The "imminent hazard" provision in the act enables the government to ban toys from the market immediately and discuss its action later.

The FDA on Nov. 17 gave the manufacturers of four toys—three of which were among the eight CU cited—15 days to respond to its proposal to ban the toys, but chose not to use the "imminent hazard" provision. Subsequent legal steps probably would mean no action would be taken before Christmas.

Bomb rips Saigon terminal

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong terrorists set off a bomb outside the Saigon railroad station today, wounding three Vietnamese civilians and an American GI. Battlefields in Vietnam and Cambodia were relatively quiet.

The U.S. Command reported 14 persons killed, including four Americans in the in-flight collision of an American spotter plane and a South Vietnamese troop-carrying helicopter over the Mekong Delta.

American military spokesmen also reported one U.S. GI was killed Tuesday in a clash in Long Khanh Province northeast of Saigon. No major fighting was reported in South Vietnam today.

Much of downtown Saigon was rocked in the predawn darkness by a blast outside the railroad terminal next to the Saigon central marketplace. The American GI injured was a U.S. military policeman whose motorcycle was overturned.

Guinea invasion probed

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI)—A U.N. fact-finding team flew to Guinea today to investigate charges that Portuguese invaders are trying to overthrow the Marxist government of President Ahmed Sekou Toure. Toure said in a radio broadcast from Conakry Tuesday, monitored in Abidjan, that invasion forces had been launched three times in the past three days from submarines off the West African coast but had been beaten back each time.

He accused the big powers of encouraging the attacks, which he said were "made by mercenaries sent by Portugal, by not demanding that the Portuguese withdraw the warships."

The U.N. Security Council resolution establishing the five-nation investigating mission did not mention Portugal but called for the withdrawal of all foreign troops from Guinea. Portugal has denied any connection with the invasion.

Toure said his army captured some Portuguese who were carrying plans calling for the invaders "to occupy Conakry entirely and to isolate it from the rest of Africa."

(In Lagos, Nigerian strongman Gen. Yakubu Gowon sent Toure a message of support offering "any assistance that you may ask for, military or otherwise." Guinea's ambassador to Nigeria, Ousmane Square, told newsmen "Guinea needs Nigerian troops for many reasons. One of these is the fact that the present struggle is for all Africa.")

Toure said the reason no one had seen the submarines was that they remained submerged during the day.

"You are not able to see them because they are submarines but one knows they are there at night because they bombard us," he said. "It also is very foggy in November in Guinea and the visibility is practically nil."

Medicare expense said below guess

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Medicare spent less than it had expected to on elderly hospital patients this year for the first time since the program started in 1967, the Social Security Administration said today. Medicare officials credited the $371 million savings to tighter control of the health insurance program for the aged in previous years, hospital and nursing home spendings always were greater than estimates—sometimes 5 to 11 per cent more. "It looks like tightened administration in the third year of Medicare is paying off," a Social Security spokesman told UPI. "There was more strict surveillance and enforcement of Medicare guidelines and reviewing of bills to be sure that they were properly paid." Medicare had estimated spending $5.1 billion for hospital payments but actually spent $4.8 billion in the year ending June 30.

Cannibal trial reconvenes

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (UPI)—The seven-man, five-woman jury hearing the case of a Sheridan, Wyo., man charged in a cannibal slaying reconvened today after deliberating the case late Tuesday night and early today.

The jury hearing the case of Harry Stroup was locked up at about 1 a. m. today and was expected to reconvene at 9 a. m. to continue deliberations. Stroup is charged with the mutilation slaying of James Michael Schlosser of Roundup, Mont., whose body was found in the Yellowstone River near Gardiner, Mont. The heart and various other parts of the body were missing.

Casual job search solves major CSI problem

TWIN FALLS — A casual "search for a job" in the Magic Valley has brought a highly qualified instructor to the College of Southern Idaho, and solved a problem of long standing for CSI President Dr. James L. Taylor.

Mrs. Judith Roberts was named director of the yet-to-be-developed two-year nursing program by CSI trustees in their November meeting, ending a lengthy search for a nursing program director.

Mrs. Roberts sort of wandered into the program, almost by chance, but her qualifications were just what the college needs—a college education leading to a master of arts degree; experience in teaching nursing at Brigham Young University and a stint as director of the licensed practical nurses program at the University of Montana, Bozeman.

She came to the Magic Valley with her husband, who as a fish biologist, was seeking a position with a private fish hatchery after working with the government. He was retained by a new hatchery in the Hagerman Valley, and Mr. and Mrs. Roberts moved to the area recently.

"I was just looking for a job in my line of work," Mrs. Roberts said. She contacted hospitals in the valley, including Gooding and Jerome. At St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome, Sister Mary Agnes, director of nurses, told her of the CSI search.

As director of the new program, Mrs. Roberts will be responsible for developing the two-year series of courses almost "from scratch," though the college is currently operating an LPN program under the vocational-technical school. The new program will qualify students to take the state exams leading toward a registered nurse's (RN) license.

To help her in developing the course, Mrs. Roberts has named an advisory committee of experts in all fields involving nursing. Committee members include Mrs. Irene Oliver, administrator of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital; Mrs. Lucille Pimental, director of nurses, and Mrs. Nancy Churchman, head nurse, both at Magic Valley Memorial; Dr. B. N. Carle, hospital pathologist; Dr. Ben E. Katz, pediatrician; Dr. Francis H. Fox, ophthalmologist; Dr. John M. McKain, CSI physician; Wayne

The new nursing director drafted a comprehensive guide for her committee, listing her goals and aims in developing the program. "The field of nursing needs large numbers of personnel with varying kinds and amounts of educational preparation; in order to fulfill all the functions involved in its service to society," she said in her outline.

"The associate degree program in nursing, established as an integral part of a community or junior college, a senior college or a university, provides a means of correlating the philosophy and standards of nursing education with those of general education."

The advisory committee has been given a number of tasks, including evaluating the need for the program, helping to gain public acceptance after the need is established, and determining if facilities are available for teaching, among others.

Students in the nursing program may be able to work in local physicians' offices and at the hospital to gain valuable work experience during their classwork. The program may get under way next June for the summer term, if all materials can be gathered and arrangements made. If for some reason the June goal is not met, the program can definitely begin next fall, Mrs. Roberts said.

Lawrence attends session

TWIN FALLS — John Lawrence, principal of Twin Falls High School, is attending a conference of the Idaho Association of Student Councils this week at the College of Idaho, Caldwell.

Lawrence is one of two advisers for the association, which is an organization of the governing bodies of public high schools in Idaho. A delegation of Twin Falls students, including Larry Anderson, Doug Bland, Brian Katz, Carolyn Rhodes and Ellen Toolson, accompanied Lawrence.

Frank Clark, principal of Lewiston High School, is the other state adviser for the IASC, and Steve Cuddy of Lewiston is president. Lawrence and Chris Jensen, a Pocatello student, have been in charge of coordinating arrangements for the Caldwell meeting.

It's Saigon's Newest Crisis

WASHINGTON — Despite the South Vietnamese government, the reforms are not being made and may now be delayed until after next September's national election. Immediately at issue is the refusal of President Nguyen Van Thieu's regime to impose a realistic rate of exchange between the vastly overvalued Vietnamese piastre and the American dollar.

But beyond that is the more far-reaching question of whether Saigon can prove itself capable of governing an economically viable country, as Washington continues withdrawal of U. S. troops and plans future reductions in the dollar aid that now finances most of South Vietnam's essential imports. At stake, in short, is the economic and fiscal side of Vietnamization — the Nixon policy that has worked brilliantly on the military side.

The reforms being pressed by the Nixon White House go beyond currency devaluation, which alone would yield the government probably more than $100 million a year in anti-inflationary piastre revenues (piastres that now finance well-entrenched graft and corruption).

Also badly needed is a realistic system of taxes on land and agricultural products to replace the shockingly inadequate tax system now in effect.

A major reason President Nixon dispatched George Schultz, powerful boss of the Office of Management and Budget, to Saigon last September was to make a personal study of riotous inflation and poor economic management within the Thieu government. Schultz's study was credited with persuading the Thieu regime to make a stab at reforms.

But even before Schultz's economic mission, a memorandum had been drafted by Henry Kissinger's NSC staff strongly recommending that the present arbitrary exchange rate of 128 piastres per dollar (governing most non-military transactions) be replaced by a realistic flexible rate. As of today that rate would be around 350 piastres per dollar.

Thus, politically-favored importers who now finance their foreign purchases with dollars bought from the Thieu government at the highly profitable rate of one dollar for 128 piastres — and who then sell their imports at the actual rate of some 350 piastres per dollar value — would be automatically eliminated.

More important, the government would then receive the full value of piastres for dollars sold to importers, or the equivalent of between $100 million and $150 million more than today. That, in turn, would reduce dependence on highly inflationary printing-press money.

The trouble with this eminently sensible NSC staff recommendation, as seen by Saigon, is that it would terminate the lucrative system of graft between importers and politicians financed by the lush rewards of the two-price system.

In truth, this system has become an engine of vast profits for importers.

Experts here are convinced that the Thieu government will not disturb this profitably corrupt relationship between politicians and importers until after next year's presidential election unless forced by Washington.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Tetanus Shot

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About how often and when should tetanus shots be given? I got a small puncture wound from a thorn while working in my back yard. It didn't bleed.

My doctor said if I had had a tetanus injection in the last four or five years, I didn't need one. After talking to friends, I find that doctors have different schedules. What do you think?—E.J.

Tetanus toxoid (tetanus shots) have proved to be longer lasting than was once believed. I can't quarrel with the fact that we used to recommend them at relatively frequent intervals. The idea was to play safe.

The passage of time, however, has indicated that protection lasts longer than we had realized.

The accepted schedule now is this:

A series of inoculations at the age of 3, 4 and 5 months, to establish the original immunity. Again at 12 to 14 years, to bring protection up to maximum. And after that, a booster at 10-year intervals.

This, however, is not an utterly rigid schedule, by any means. There is no harm done by having them more frequently — and particularly in case of a "dirty" wound. Your thorn puncture was not that.

The decision depends on clinical judgment: the circumstances under which the wound was suffered, the type and extent of the wound, the question of whether foreign matter, and what kind, has been driven into the wound.

For a simple wound, if the patient had had a booster within five years, I wouldn't consider another inoculation necessary.

If say seven or eight years had elapsed, give an injection on grounds that a booster would be due in another couple of years; why not give it now and get it over with?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: As most of us are aware, sleeping pills, taken to excess, can put one to sleep permanently. Isn't it true that weak, elderly people should not take sleeping pills, and half or just one in case of pain? In my opinion, they are not as harmless as it sounds on TV. What is your advice?—G.S.

Much as I'm worried by the current craze of drug-taking, I think you go too far in the other direction.

The drug store sleeping potions — the advertised kinds — are safe when taken in amounts specified on the packages. In excess of recommended dosage — harmful.

Stronger ones, as may be prescribed by your doctor, are safe — if taken according to his instructions.

A sleeping pill to help a person relax and get some needed rest is a very useful thing. It does NOT require pain as a prerequisite for taking one. The rest they produce is the important reason for their use.

To learn of the many factors that can be involved in the treatment of hiatal hernia, which concerns the esophagus, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of his booklet, "Hiatal Hernia and Eight Ways to Combat It," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

New Leader Needed

Now that the dust has settled and the election results have been certified, it becomes apparent that the Republican party in Idaho is in need of a new state organization and the place to start is to replace Roland Wilber as state chairman.

When he was first named as chairman there were rampant rumors that he was not the right man. His leadership through the recent election has proved the accuracy of these rumors. The rumors are now truths.

His leadership was weak at the best and was one of the reasons Governor Samuelson was defeated. There were other reasons, of course. Among them was the utter lack of backing by some of the leading Republican legislators, including several in the Twin Falls area, and the split from the party by several persons who were former GOP leaders.

Now the need is a state chairman capable of getting the GOP organization in shape so it will be a strong, united organization. This can be accomplished without asking—or even permitting—any of the dissenters to return to posts of leadership.

Governor Samuelson was not all bad, as some of these people would have you believe. It is interesting to note Samuelson was winner in 29 counties of the state and Andrus in only 15. And one county gave Samuelson an unheard of 89.5 per cent of the total votes cast.

We believe the attitude of party leadership contributed as much to Governor Samuelson's defeat as anything else. We believe that in their frantic haste to cut him down they have also severed their own connections with the rank-and-file Republican. These voters—party members—will not trust such leadership the second time around.

So now is the time to replace that leadership and to let the others who "botted" the party know they need not return.

With this task performed, the results two years from now will show at the polls. And four years from now a Republican could be in the Statehouse.

MR. SPECTATOR

Do You Have It?

Have you any serum uric acid in your blood? Mr. Spectator would like to point out that if you have then it might be you are high in ambition and achievement.

Researchers—those people who try to find out why everything is so and so and, as a result, come up with some peculiar findings now and then—now tell us that evidence is pointing this way.

And what is serum uric acid? Well, Mr. Spectator didn't know either so he got out the old family doctor book (you know, the one with all the pictures) and found it was a factor in gout, which was defined as the ancient ailment of prominent men. Actually we didn't know any more about serum uric acid after we looked it up but we'll have to get on with this revealing information before we run out of space.

Actually the researchers say they don't really know. But they do admit knowing that:

(1) Uric acid shows a positive association with grades and achievement and participation in activities among high school and college students.

(2) Among college professors the characteristics which lead to outstanding performance—drive, leadership and pushing of self—are positively associated with serum urate levels.

(3) Men in higher status occupations have higher acid levels.

It has also been found that environmental stress has an effect on uric acid levels in the blood. Men had higher levels when they were about to lose their jobs than later, when they had become established in new jobs.

On the other hand, men with high uric acid levels appear to thrive under pressure and have a strong sense of direction and self-involvement.

Thus the chicken or egg question—which comes first—acid or ambition?

Mr. Spectator suggests that when we find this out perhaps we could package the stuff and then you could read the label and be sure of what we are getting.

Now back to our original question what is serum uric acid?

NOTE DEPARTMENT

Received a note from Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Foster of Star Route Three, Thermopolis, Wyoming. They said while they were enroute from Portland, Oregon to their home they stopped at a rest area on Nov. 5 and found a duffel bag that someone had lost. They said they looked through the bag in an attempt to find out the owner but the only clue was a scrap of newspaper with the Times-News on it. That's all the identification there was.

If anyone lost such a bag then write to the Fosters and tell them what was in it and what it looked like and we are sure you will get it back.

This is also, Mr. Spectator points out, a good example of why you should put a slip of paper or a card with your name and address on it in every carrying case, suitcase or what-have-you that you own. Then if it gets away from you you might get it back pronto!

GIVEAWAY DEPT.

We have more puppies than we can handle, so will give away three black-and-white and two brown-and-white pups. They are loveable, large pups, and will make good watch dogs. They are especially fond of children. Call Mrs. Stammerjohn anytime at 324-2286 in Jerome.

APPEAL OF CHALLENGE

As the English Channel crossing season was ending, a New York City patrolman swam from France to England in 14 hours and 14 minutes. The distance is 22 miles.

What made the feat of the policeman, Tom Hetzel, unique was that it occurred nine months after a police surgeon told him he would never swim again. The surgeon operated on an arm injured in a previous channel crossing attempt.

WASHINGTON — Sworn testimony that Justice William O. Douglas was given $5,000 to issue an order permitting a convicted physician to continue practicing is in the hands of congressmen seeking his impeachment.

The sensational allegation was made in the Superior Court, Los Angeles, on September 11, 1964, in a proceedings on revoking the doctor's bail.

Tobias Coskey, attorney and part owner of a medical building, is quoted in the official transcript (page 110) as follows:

"He said, 'Now, this decision that I told you about,' he said, 'is going to be handed down in the next day or so.' He said, 'I contacted Mr. Wiring, I think he said, Friday or Saturday, and he assured me that we would have this decision. He says, 'You know, I told you that I paid $7,500 in,' and he said, 'Justice Douglas was reached with the $5,000 and I know the decision will be favorable.'"

According to Coskey's sworn testimony, this statement was made by Dr. Jerome Rehman, the convicted physician, at a meeting in the quarters he occupied. Also reportedly present was Miss Leone Van Lanigan, another co-owner of the property. Reason for the meeting, Coskey stated, was to obtain "unpaid rent or possession of the premises."

Rehman was represented in the Superior Court proceedings by A. L. Wirin, leading militant liberal, attorney of the local American Civil Liberties Union, and long-time friend of Justice Douglas. Wirin obtained an order from Douglas permitting Rehman to continue treating patients while his appeal was pending.

The physician and other defendants, were convicted on conspiracy to violate California criminal statutes after a 10-month trial. The presiding judge initially refused to grant bail on the ground "Rehman constituted a danger to the community so long as he held his license to practice medicine." Rehman thereupon surrendered his license and bail was allowed.

Rehman then retained Wirin to appeal the trial court's right to keep him from practicing. But the judge was upheld by other California courts.

Thereupon Wirin went to his old friend Douglas, vacationing in Oregon, and without a public hearing or the knowledge of the Los Angeles district attorney, got an order overriding this ban.

Following is what Deputy District Attorney Charles Sheldon says about this astonishing action in a report:

"On August 10, 1964, Supreme Court Justice Douglas signed an order that the state court order fixing bail pending appeal be stayed insofar as it would result in the surrender of the petitioner's license to practice medicine in the State of California. The People of the State of California were not

Oil Advice

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's action in launching a major investigation into the increase in crude oil prices by Gulf and Atlantic Richfield was significant to administration insiders because it seemed to indicate the President at last was disillusioned with the bad advice of his top counselors on how to handle the economy.

This advice has been bad, beyond doubt. Spurning both wage and price controls and jawboning, White House economists led by Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, sold Nixon on the proposition that a laissez-faire approach would reap benefits from both business and labor.

That is to say, the advisers' premise was that business and labor leaders would be so grateful for a governmental policy of non-interference they would take the path of anti-inflation moderation. It hasn't worked, as the inflationary General Motors strike settlement so starkly revealed. The workers got pay increases averaging about 10 per cent a year for three years, and GM's prices will be boosted. So much for the President's social courting of the AFL-CIO's George Meany and assorted corporation tycoons.

Nixon should have followed his own instincts. More than six months ago, those instincts told him his non-interference policy wasn't working and that some tough jawboning was in order. But McCracken and Co. persuaded him to stay his hand.

Even now, with that oil price investigation underway, there is no assurance that the White House will seek to influence private price and wage decisions. Official spokesmen keep emphasizing that oil is a special case because the government partly regulates its supply through import controls. But the chances are fair to good that the President will assume a more activist role in the wage-price mess.

At any rate, the consumer can take some comfort from the fact given notice by either the U. S. Supreme Court or counsel for Dr. Rehman of the time or place of that hearing. We had no knowledge of the hearing from any other source and accordingly did not appear. We desired to appear and would have appeared if we had been given notice."

that the oil price probe is the first action of its kind taken by the Nixon administration. True, the government has moved in the coal and lumber fields in matters affecting supply, but it had never heretofore reacted to a specific price increase.

It also may be significant that the President reached way back for a means of justifying the investigation. This would be the provision of the oil import proclamation of 1952 — never before used — which says: "In the event prices of crude oil or derivatives should be increased... surveillance shall include a determination as to whether such increase or increases are necessary to accomplish the national security objectives..."

On this one, Nixon obviously was determined to do something. Unlike President Johnson, he was not yet prepared to check price increases (as LBJ did in the steel and aluminum industries) by public denunciation or private pressure. But administration insiders see his action in the oil case as a warning that jawboning could be next on the program.

The President may be acting in a too-little-too-late fashion, but the blame is not his alone. His attempt to cope with inflation by restricting government spending and curbing the money supply has had a constructive effect on inflation. Inflation has run at an annual rate as high as 6 per cent; the Consumer Price Index for the third quarter showed a 4.2 per cent increase on an annual basis. But his policies have been sabotaged time and again by wage settlements.

The GM pact will cost about $2 billion, and the cost will come out of the public's pocket in the form of higher prices for automobiles. This will lead to further demands for wage increases — in steel, for example — from workers who now don't have the extra money to buy costlier cars. And so on infinitum — unless Richard Nixon, who was not born yesterday, tells his advisers to get lost and starts punching.

Outburst disrupts death probe

MONTREAL (UPI) — Lisa Rose, screaming that she had been tortured while naked in jail, Tuesday forced an adjournment until Dec. 1 of the inquest into the death of Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte.

"I refuse to testify as a protest against the injustice of investigators who have beaten me several times while I was completely nude," the pale young woman shouted.

Pickup proposals accepted

TWIN FALLS — Bids were accepted Tuesday by Twin Falls County commission members for the purchase of two pickup trucks.

Low bid for a three-quarter pickup was that of Magic Valley International in the amount of $3,043, including a trade-in. A half-ton pickup was purchased from Ace Hansen Chevrolet Co., for $2,220 including trade-in. Also bidding on the vehicles was Bob Reese Motor Co.

All firms are from Twin Falls. Both vehicles will be used in the county weed department and the department budgeted for the vehicles in the 1970 budget.

Teacher from Declo at session

DECLO — Jane Pardeu, a teacher at Dedo High School, is attending the National Study Conference on Accountability in Education this week at Washington, D. C., as a representative of the Cassia County Education Association.

The conference, sponsored by the Association of Classroom Teachers, an arm of the National Education Association, is being attended by 60 selected teachers from throughout the nation. The conference will deal with the problem of classroom responsibility on the part of the teachers.

GOP women nominate officers

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Robert (Helen) Stradley has been nominated for the post of president of the Twin Falls County Republican Women organization.

Other nominations made at a meeting at the Rogerson Hotel Monday afternoon included Mrs. Roy (Sarah) Painter, vice-president; Mrs. Jack D. (Donna) Scott, secretary, and Mrs. Kenneth (Helen) Marshall, treasurer.

The election will be during the December meeting, the date of which will be announced. Mrs. Mike Felton holds the office of president at the present time and presided Monday.

Communion services Thursday

TWIN FALLS — The Episcopal Church of Ascension will be the host congregation for an interdenominational communion service at 10:30 a. m. Thanksgiving Day.

Ministers of four Twin Falls churches will be leading in the service, and the community is invited to participate in the worship. The Lord's Supper will be offered to all communicants of any Christian denomination.

Rev. James B. Hughes, pastor of First Baptist Church, will preach the Thanksgiving sermon. Other participating ministers will include Rev. John M. Wallace, host pastor; Rev. Leslie C. Brown, Valley Christian Church; Rev. Charles E. Graves, First Baptist Church, and Rev. Edgar E. Toeva, First United Presbyterian Church.

Thanksgiving offerings of canned goods and cash will be received for emergency needs of persons in the community.

Shattering experience ...

TWIN FALLS POLICE officer James Mildon is shown inspecting damage done to the Norge Cleaning Village, 556 Main Ave. N., in Twin Falls Tuesday when a car slammed into the double-glass doors of the building. Officers said about $850 structural damage was done when a car driven by Mrs. Doris Sykora, 25, hit the building. They said the two door glasses and a large plate glass window were broken.

Hepatitis cases erupt in Idaho

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Department of Health said Tuesday there have been numerous localized outbreaks of infectious hepatitis throughout southern Idaho in recent days.

Cases have been diagnosed in Wendell, near Grandview, Emmett and the small community of Letha, near Emmett. Dr. John Mather, director of preventative medicine, said the outbreaks appear to be isolated and noted a common carrier has not been identified.

The department has taken steps to attempt to halt the spread of the disease. Included have been inoculations with gamma globulin and intensive health education in the affected areas.

A large ranching and cattle feeding operation near Grandview has also taken steps to correct a sewage disposal situation which may have led to the outbreak of the disease in persons living on that property.

Mather said the public can protect itself from the disease by practicing proper personal hygiene and proper sewage disposal.

Giant job

Classes dismissed

TWIN FALLS — It's "turkey time" for the 6,086 students in Twin Falls School District No. 411, who were dismissed early today for the four-day Thanksgiving vacation.

Classes will resume on Monday at 9 a. m.

The Christmas vacation begins officially at 3 p. m. Dec. 23 with early dismissal of classes, and ends with classes resuming at the usual time on Jan. 4, 1971.

Idaho Falls, Vallejo officials inspect mall

TWIN FALLS — Two additional cities, Vallejo, Calif., and Idaho Falls, sent representatives to Twin Falls Tuesday to inspect the new downtown project.

Walter Bobotek, city planner, Vallejo, arrived Tuesday morning to confer with city engineer George Michaels after a member of the city council there visited Twin Falls during the hunting season and inspected the then under construction project. Bobotek told the local engineer the city of-official had been so impressed with Twin Falls' program he asked the council to authorize a visit by the planner.

Michaels said Bobotek was most concerned with the planning and financing of the project here and any changes the city would make if it were to do the project over again.

Delegates from Idaho Falls who met with James Kelsch, Urban Renewal Agency director, consisted largely of merchants in an area bordering on the redevelopment district of Idaho Falls.

The group, along with the Vallejo visitor, attended a luncheon meeting with Urban Renewal Agency and Twin Falls Futures representatives to discuss planning. Michaels said the Idaho Falls city engineering department is directing design of the program there with the advisory assistance of a landscape architect. He said work there is now in the planning stage.

Election implications governors' subject

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — The implications of the 1970 general elections will be a major topic for discussion when Republican governors gather in Sun Valley Dec. 12-15 for their annual convention.

The chairman of the GOP Governors Association, Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, Pennsylvania, said the 1970 elections "opened the door on a politically-explosive decade."

National Republican Party Chairman Rogers C.B. Morton will discuss the Nov. 3 election and will offer opinions on what he sees in the future of the party. Kevin Phillips, a nationally syndicated columnist, and political analyst Samuel Lubell will discuss "People and Issues" during the morning session panel of Dec. 15 meetings.

Dec. 14, Jerry Wurf, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, and Leon E. Hickman, former executive vice president of the Aluminum Company of America, will be members of a panel on public employment.

Three representatives of the news media, Mrs. Katherine Graham, president of the Washington Post Co.; Henry Luce III, publisher of Time Magazine; and William Sheehan, vice president and director will participate in a panel discussion.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Is there any way a married couple can get rid of a three-week-old baby girl legally. We have a six-year-old daughter and we wanted a baby boy so bad we prayed for one. I even used the alkaline-acidity method which was supposed to insure us positively of getting a boy, but I had a girl instead. All during my pregnancy I watched my diet and did all the things the doctor told me to do so I would have a healthy son, and when I had this baby girl I felt so betrayed and cheated.

I hate her. I do her laundry, and feed her, and keep her clean because she didn't ask to be born and that is the least I can do for her, but I will never love her.

I guess she knows she's not wanted. She screams every minute. If I am lucky, she may scream so hard she will choke herself to death.

I considered doing away with myself, but my six-year-old needs me. I also considered doing away with this baby, but I don't want to go to jail. My husband blames me for getting pregnant, but I was so sure I would have a boy. Don't tell me that I will learn to love this baby. The only way I will love her is if she is gone.

I am 27 and my husband is 35. He deserves some kind of sex life, but I just can't accommodate him knowing I might have another girl. Does this make any sense to you at all. Please tell me what to do.

UNHAPPY IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR UNHAPPY: Since your husband shares your feelings about the baby, together you should go to your doctor and tell him exactly what you have told me.

He will help you place your baby in a home where it will be loved and wanted. I urge you not to wait another day. And please write to me again and let me know the outcome.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 15 years old and she wants to quit school and get married. She is a good student and has another three years to go before she graduates, but she insists she doesn't need a high school diploma. The fellow is a nice enough kid, but he's not 21 yet and he is going to be out of the country for a year.

I also try to point out to my daughter the number of teen-age marriages that break up, but she says that won't happen to her.

I wish that girl of mine would stay in school. I never got a high school diploma and it has held me back all my life. When I try to tell her this, it goes in one ear and out the other.

Maybe you can explain it better to her than I can. Please try. Thanking you, I remain,
HER FATHER

DEAR FATHER: You've explained it very well, but if you want me to second the motion, I say, "Heaven can wait. Graduate!"

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the gentleman who didn't tip the strolling musicians in a restaurant, may I add a few words to "No Patsy," who defended the man's not tipping.

When I go out with a man for the first time, I can't help but notice what kind of a tipper he is. I store this information with the rest of my impressions of the man.

This one clue to the man's generosity (or lack of it) doesn't necessarily keep me from enjoying the man or becoming further involved with him, but I will say this: In dating well over 100 men since my divorce, I have observed that every man who has been cheap about tipping has expected more from others (especially his women) than he has been willing to give of himself.

American Legion appeals to Idahoans

RICHFIELD — An appeal to all Americans to take part in a massive letter writing campaign for benefit of American prisoners of war in Vietnam is announced by the Richfield American Legion.

It is estimated there are 1,600 American servicemen held prisoner or missing. The American Legion is working with the National League of Families of Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia in trying to help our prisoners and get information.

Servicemen who have escaped say the only thing that matters to the Red leaders is public opinion. It is believed letters will have more weight with the Communists than anything else. Clubs, churches and all groups of people or individuals are asked to help get out 100,000 letters from Idaho.

Address letters to North Vietnam Embassy, Paris, France. Air mail postage is 20 cents.

"A sample letter could be addressed to Your Excellency and state that the writer is deeply disturbed about conditions under which American and Allied servicemen are being held prisoner by the North Vietnamese," Legion officials note. "Request their help to influence observance of the provisions of the Geneva Convention. Ask for the release of wounded and sick prisoners immediately, and a list of all prisoners be given to the American Forces. Prison camps should be inspected by a neutral agency and a free flow of letters should be allowed. Medical aid should be stressed for the prisoners. Requests should be made in the name of humanity," they stated.

No Richfield serviceman is presently a prisoner that is known, but all Richfield residents are urged to support this cause.

Resolution passed by area PTA

BELLEVUE — A resolution requesting financial assistance from the Blaine County school boards for blinds and drapes for both the Bellevue Elementary and the Hailey Junior High schools was passed when the Bellevue-Hailey PTA met here Monday night.

The group decided both schools need blinds for most classrooms as well as drapes for both multi-purpose rooms. Total estimated cost is $560. If the school will purchase the blinds and drapes, the PTA will purchase needed equipment for the individual classrooms.

Among the items considered are projectors, screens and cassette recorders. Barbara Nyblad was appointed spokesman to appear with other interested parents at the school board meeting Dec. 14.

Money for the PTA project will be raised through the sale of assorted candies and Christmas candles. It is anticipated $575 will be raised this year, officers said.

Representatives of the Wood River Jay-C - Ettes described their group's statewide mental retardation program and said a special education is under way at the Ketchum grade school. Linda Plumer said more than $80 was raised in the area recently through special coffee day projects when restaurants donated coffee and patrons contributed to the retardation program.

The PTA group also heard a recording of testimony by ex-drug addict, John Jimenez. In the discussion which followed, principal Claude Ballard said the major problem at the grade school is there is no drug education media with which the younger students can relate. All films on the subject deal with older youths, he said.

Merchants luncheon set Dec. 3

JEROME — Women of the Calvary Episcopal Guild are planning a merchant's luncheon and bazaar at the Parish Hall Dec. 3.

The luncheon will be served from 11:30 to 1:30 p.m. The hours are planned so local merchants will be able to have their lunch that day at the Parish Hall.

Tickets will be available at the door and the public is invited. In conjunction with the luncheon, guild members are holding a Christmas bazaar, featuring hand crocheted items, hand made candles, home cooked foods and other gift items made by members.

The hours of the bazaar are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

DUFF GUESTS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Howard Duff will play a guest role in an episode of the "Immoral" series.

NOVEL-BREAKFAST

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—A breakfast does not have to be traditional to be delicious, says a nutrition and foods specialist. Ethel Diederichsen of the University of Nebraska Extension Service said a breakfast menu of hamburger, fruit and milk is just as nutritious as bacon and eggs. Every person who has to get out of bed in the morning needs to remember that a non-conformist breakfast is better than no breakfast at all she said.

Valley Briefs

HAILEY — The 1970 annual Rotarun Ski Club sale is slated from noon to 5 p.m. Dec. 5, according to Rita Hogg, chairman. Mrs. Hogg said items will be received and marked from 8 to 11:30 a.m. that day. Unsold items may be claimed and setting up will be done between 5 and 6 p.m. All items not picked up will be regarded as donated to the Ski Club.

TWIN FALLS — The regular meeting of the Twin Falls Grange on Wednesday has been canceled because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday, according to Kenneth Poe, a member of the organization's executive committee.

TWIN FALLS — An oldtime dance will be held at 8 p. m. Saturday at the Twin Falls Moose Hall.

Proceeds reported

HAILEY — The Rotarun Ski Club earned $290 during the initial turkey shoot at the newly installed trap shoot at the ski area Sunday.

Bill House and Dick Anderson, co-chairmen, said over 100 marksmen turned out for the fund-raising event, and nearly $300 in prizes were awarded. Given to the best shots were 270 pounds of turkeys, 10 hams, and 204 pounds of slab-bacon.

Proceeds will be used for the Rotarun general fund, to help defray the cost of getting the area ready for this ski season. The initial event was considered a success but chairmen are uncertain when another one will be scheduled.

The trap shoot is open for public use, with arrangements to be made through the ski club.

TWIN FALLS — Steven Blaye, son of Mrs. Julien Blaye and the late Julien Blaye, has been elected freshman class president and Forensic League vice president at the University of San Diego. Steven's brother, John Blaye, is student-body president at Twin Falls High School.

TWIN FALLS — Frank Young, director of admissions at the University of Idaho, Moscow, will meet with high school seniors from Twin Falls and Kumberly on Wednesday, Dec. 2, at Twin Falls High School. Young will offer the pupils an inside look at the university.

RICHFIELD — The Richfield LDS Ward Gold and Green Ball will be held Friday night at the LDS Cultural Hall with music by Dale Platt's orchestra, Twin Falls. Theme of the dance is "Close to You." Merrill Beyeler, MIA superintendent, and Mrs. Grant Flavel, YWMA leader, are in charge of arrangements.

TWIN FALLS — Golden Age Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the DAV Hall. Dancing and card playing will be held after the business meeting. A sack lunch will be featured.

TWIN FALLS — The Monday afternoon Duplicate Bridge Club met at 1 p.m. North and South winners were Mrs. H.G. Munyon and Mrs. Roy Hill, first; Mrs. F.F. Jensen and Mrs. H.D. Fitzpatrick, second; Mrs. Earen Ealer and Mrs. Pearl Stoddard, third; Mrs. Gus Averett and Mrs. Howard Ward, fourth. East and West winners were Mrs. H.G. Lash and Mrs. B.E. Standlee tied for first with Mrs. Horace I. Holmes and Mrs. A.W. Schrank; Mrs. Gene Carpenter and Mrs. Jack Stephens, third; Mrs. W. H. Newcomer and Mrs. R.J. Skeem, fourth.

Couple wed in Nuptial Mass

TWIN FALLS — Jacqueline Ann Powlus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Powlus, became the bride of Peter Patrick McLinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. McLinn, in a Nuptial Mass Nov. 14 at St. Benedict's Priory.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Simeon Van DeVoord, OSB, with Bryan Powlus and Brent Powlus, twin brothers of the bride, as altar boys. The altar was decorated with a cathedral basket of white gladioli and lavender chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Joanne Cubit was organist.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of alencon lace, featuring a sabrina neckline and lily point sleeves, with mother-of-pearl iridescents on the neckline and bordering the cathedral train. She wore a three-tiered shoulder-length veil of bridal illusion held by a cluster of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of lavender chrysanthemums and white carnations enhanced with an orchid in the center and white satin streamers.

She wore a pendant necklace, a gift from the bridegroom, and a ring worn by her mother and grandmother at their weddings.

Maid of honor was Andrea Briggs, with Cathy Lang and Diane Richter as bridesmaids. Flower girl was Carleen McLinn, sister of the bridegroom.

Bill Smith was best man, with Joseph Powlus and Michael Powlus, brothers of the bride, as ushers. Chuckie Powlus, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mrs. Leon Wright, Pocatello, sister of the bridegroom, registered the guests, with Virginia Smith and Rebecca Meunier in charge of gifts.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the Priory, with Mrs. Virgil Lang and Mrs. Charles Powlus, aunt and sister-in-law of the bride, serving cake. Mrs. Harvey Meunier, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Wayne Buckendorf served coffee and punch.

The bride's table was covered with white lace accented with lavender organdy.

The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with lavender flowers and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath a trellis trimmed with seed pearls. A memory candle, accented with lavender flowers at the base, was placed at the end of the table.

Special guests were Mrs. Edith Harding, paternal grandmother; Andrew C. Lang, maternal grandfather, and Charles Powlus and family, brother of the bride home on leave from Huntsville, Ala. Other guests attended from Boise, Pocatello, Eden and Filer.

After a honeymoon trip to Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore., the couple will reside in Twin Falls until the bridegroom completes his flight training.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, with dinner catered by Leo Soran. The bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. Virgil Lang, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Frank Newberry.

DOES fete 2 members

BURLEY — Members of the DOES Lodge No. 206 gave special tribute to two members during their regular meeting Monday night at the lodge hall.

Receiving one - dozen long-stemmed red roses each were Mrs. Helene Coffey, who served as recent general chairman of the district DOES convention hosted by the Burley group, and Mrs. Wayne Rogers, president of the local lodge.

Mrs. Eddie Albert made the presentations on behalf of lodge members.

The business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Rogers. Mrs. Benny Sprague, ways and means chairman, announced the bazaar will be held at noon Dec. 1 at the Elks Lodge Hall. All members are asked to bring their items next Monday night to be displayed and priced.

Bill McGill, owner of the Flower Pot, demonstrated how to make a Christmas arrangement using a large candle, fruit, greenery and a bird.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Val Geirisch and Mrs. Victoria Hubbard.

Leftovers?

BRASLIA (UPI) — Brazil's national dish is the feijoada, a thick casserole of black beans, pork, sausage, bacon, dried meat, or anything else left in the kitchen.

But Education Minister Jarbas Passarinho held that students at the University of Brasilia were perfectly right to protest when one student found a live frog — the size of a matchbox — in his feijoada.

The university's dining hall manager was ordered to maintain "higher sanitary standards."

Richfield Library adds books

RICHFIELD — New books for the Richfield Public Library are announced by Mrs. Ken Dixon, librarian. Gift books include a set of 24 volumes called "Builders of America" from the Twin Falls Public Library, and "Food From Farm to Home" by Walter, a gift from the County Farm Bureau.

Newly purchased books for the library are "Across Five Aprils" by Irene Hunt; "The Incredible Journey," Sheila Burnford; "King of the Wind" Marguerite Henry; "Sounder" by William Armstrong; "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Harriet Beecher Stowe. These books were purchased as juvenile fiction.

Juvenile non-fiction books are "Sampler of American Songs," Maynie Krythe; "Famous British Women Novelists," North Smaridge.

Adult non-fiction books are "To Live Again," Catherine Marshall; "The Last Hero, Charles A. Lindbergh," Walter Rose; and "The Magic of Walking," Aaron Sussman and Ruth Goode.

The Richfield Library will be closed Thursday.

Zoning commissioner is AAUW speaker

BURLEY — The American Association of University Women met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. K.E. Lowe, with Lawrence Boldt, Rupert, zoning administrator for Minidoka County, as featured speaker.

Boldt noted the commission was established in that county in 1966. He discussed zoning for small towns and counties and reported all counties in Idaho will be rezoned within two years. County commissioners can set up zoning or the zoning can be set up by a resolution or voting ballot, he stated.

Thaw holiday turkey sensible, safe way

MOSCOW — The safest way to thaw a turkey is in the refrigerator, according to Dr. John Barnhart, acting head of the food science and technology department at the University of Idaho.

"Birds thawed at just above the freezing point are the least likely to become contaminated by bacteria. The much - too - common practice of thawing a turkey at room temperature is just what harmful bacteria like. Bacteria which can cause food poisoning thrive between 40 and 140 degrees Fahrenheit," Barnhart said.

However, if space in the refrigerator is limited, along with time, birds may be thawed under cold running water — 1½ to 3 hours depending on size. "We're not trying to frighten people, but it is a fact that 67 per cent of food poisoning in the U.S. is caused by bacterial infections. More careful attention to food preparation habits and personal sanitation while preparing foods can eliminate much of the danger," Barnhart stated.

Major bacteria culprits are staphylococcus, CLOSTRIDIUM PERFRINGENS, and salmonella. Staphylococcus is transferred to foods by humans during preparation, while the other two forms can be carried by foods themselves.

Following are additional tips on avoiding bacteria buildup: Arrange meal schedules so that the turkey goes into the oven almost immediately after thawing . . . and onto the table immediately after cooking.

Don't use the same utensils or containers for both raw and cooked foods without first washing them thoroughly. Hands, knives and cutting boards can be major transmitters of bacteria between foods.

Don't stuff the turkey the night before. The dressing will stay warm even in the refrigerator and temperatures will be favorable for bacterial growth. Also, don't partially cook the turkey to save time just before the meal. This practice also puts the bird in the 40 to 140 degree range which bacteria like.

Be especially careful of dressings and gravies. These items should go directly from cooking temperatures in excess of 140 degrees to the table.

Naturally foods will cool somewhat during the meal and immediately after the meal is over. However, be sure you don't leave foods at room temperatures for more than two hours. Large amounts of leftover gravy, dressing and other slow - to - cool foods should be spread shallowly in pans and placed in the refrigerator. After they have cooled, they can be put in more convenient containers for storage.

New school features 'freedom' Lawyers warned on questioning

BOISE (UPI) — A supporter of the Boise Free School said Tuesday the object of the program is to provide an environment in which young and old can "learn to learn."

Charles Cook, 23, a director of research at I. E. Johnson and Associates, and a mathematics teacher at the Free School, told the Idaho Press Club the project began six months ago as an experiment. He said anyone can attend the courses offered. The classes are taught by businessmen, professional workers, teachers, housewives and anyone who volunteers.

The school began with five courses which included drama, religion, communications, art and music which "unfortunately failed" due to lack of facilities, and an encounter group which eventually evolved into a steering committee.

With membership down from 60 to 10 three months ago, Cook said, another meeting was called and at that time approximately 300 persons indicated interest in the program.

He said the school began for the second time with 20 courses, including one on brush survival. The instructor, Cook said, "was temporarily lost in the wilds of Nevada and if he comes back we'll assume he's qualified to teach the course."

Cook said if professors are not equipped "there's a very direct feedback. Nobody comes. I wonder whether public schools would last six months if students came only when they were excited."

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Connecticut Superior Court Judge Harold R. Mulvey has asked lawyers in the trial of Black Panthers Bobby G. Seale and Mrs. Ericka Huggins not to ask prospective jurors questions that invite rejection. Some questions "almost invite these people to give such an answer that they will be excused from jury duty . . . they don't want to sit on this case," Mulvey told the lawyers Tuesday. Thirty-eight of the 50 new prospective jurors brought into the court this week were dismissed Tuesday, bringing to 136 the number who have been excused since the trial began a week ago. The questioning resumed today. Mulvey said he would adjourn the trial at 1 p.m. EST for a five-day Thanksgiving holiday break. Only two persons, a black man and a white, have been seated since the selection process started. Two of those excused Tuesday were women who said they were "afraid of what they (the Panthers) might do to me."

Council probes hospital needs

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — Dr. Myrick Pullen, state mental health director, was asked Tuesday to develop a plan to explore closing medical wards in both state mental hospitals.

Mrs. Norma Buchanan Idaho Falls, chairman of the Mental Health Advisory Council, made the request during the group's meeting at State Hospital South in Blackfoot.

Pullen said a recent survey of medical wards showed the majority of patients were over 65 and had long-term physical problems and did not need medical treatment.

He said if those patients over 65 who are covered by Medicare are treated elsewhere, there is a question whether the state can afford to keep the remainder in state hospitals. Pullen said the patients could be placed in nursing homes or general hospitals and they money saved could be used to provide more efficient psychiatric services.

However, he said, the hospitals could retain emergency wards for patient care. If the wards could not be closed, he said, an alternative would be to place the medical patients in one state hospital.

Members also discussed transfer of the youth rehabilitation service to the State Board of Education from the Department of Health.

Winston Taylor, superintendent of the Youth Training Center at St. Anthony, declined to discuss what services could be transferred, but added, "There seems to be a lack of facilities for children in this state."

Czechs, Germans to talk

ROME (UPI) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt said today the Bonn government plans to start negotiations in the winter for a treaty normalizing relations with neighboring Czechoslovakia.

Brandt made the announcement in a news conference at the end of a two-day official visit during which he briefed Italian leaders on his "new ostpolitik, or policy toward the Communist East."

Brandt also told the news conference he plans to visit Warsaw Dec. 6-8 to sign a similar treaty just concluded with Poland.

The chancellor said he also hoped to find out soon what subjects can be usefully discussed with Communist East Germany.

He said State Secretaries Egon Bahr of West Germany and Michael Kohl of East Germany will meet in East Berlin Friday and "I expect that after that we will know more than today about what might possibly be discussed."

Query reply doubted

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI) — One of the six officers of the Calley court-martial board scribbled a question for the final pre-holiday witness, a former helicopter pilot, and the judge read it aloud.

The juror wanted to know where the pilot had taken 10 Vietnamese men, women, and children he had evacuated from a bunker in which they had been hiding during an American infantry sweep of My Lai hamlet.

"When we had them far enough from the village that they would be safe, we had them get off," replied Lt. Jerry R. Culverhouse, now a faculty officer at Ft. Eustis, Va.

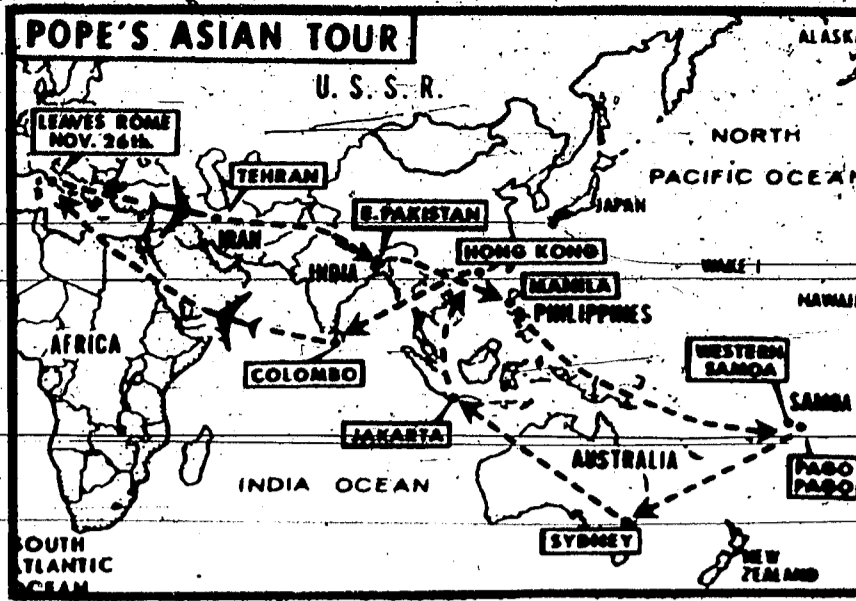

He did not explain what he wanted them safe from. An American Army company had gone through the hamlet without receiving hostile fire, nearly a score of witnesses have testified. Culverhouse testified he saw more than 100 Vietnamese bodies piled in a ditch in which their blood made the irrigation water run red.

Culverhouse said that on one pass he made at a 50-foot height over the ditch he heard a burst from a light automatic weapon and looked down and saw an American sergeant who "appeared to be firing" into it. The sergeant's weapon was pointed at the ditch and was "still up near the shoulder."

Culverhouse was the last witness Tuesday, and the trial was recessed for a week, until midday next Tuesday.

Brian W. Livingston, 27, of Killeen, Tex., a former helicopter section leader who was at My Lai, testified Tuesday that gunships from another American aerial battalion had made a run down the highway south of the city and that he saw dead Vietnamese bodies there.

Spec. Calvin D. Hodde, 22, now at Ft. Hood, Tex., testified he flew as a helicopter crew chief at My Lai and that when he first arrived there were bodies "lying all around." He said his ship started circling to see if the troops needed any help, "and then we realized what was happening."

Governors to review voting

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — Republican governors will discuss the implications of the 1970 general elections when they hold their conference here Dec. 12-15.

Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican Governors Association, said the 1970 elections "opened the door on a politically-explosive decade."

"We hope our December meeting will lead to new insights about the people and issues," he said.

Rogers C. B. Morton, Republican national chairman, will discuss the Nov. 3 election and describe what he sees ahead for Republican governors and other key members of the GOP.

Syndicated columnist Kevin Phillips and political analyst Samuel Labell will discuss "People and Issues" during the morning panel Dec. 15. Phillips was a special assistant to President Nixon's 1968 campaign manager, John Mitchell, and Labell, author of "The Hidden Crisis in American Politics," has developed a systematic technique of interviewing voters in strategic areas of the country.

Members of the panel on public employment scheduled for Dec. 14 are Jerry Wurf, president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, and Leon E. Hickman, former executive vice president of the Aluminum Company of America. Hickman is currently ALCOA director.

Also on Dec. 14, three management representatives from the news media will take part in a panel discussion. They are Mrs. Katherine Graham, president of the Washington Post Company; Henry Luce III, publisher of Time Magazine; and William Sheehan, vice president and director of television news for the American Broadcasting System.

Sad ceremony

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Six identical silver-gray caskets, containing the remains of six Marshall University football players who could not be identified positively after a fiery crash that killed 75 persons, were lowered Tuesday into a common grave.

"Our lives will never be the same," Dr. Alfred P. Walker, a Methodist minister, told 2,500 persons who attended a funeral service for the six young men. "They dare not be."

Child saved from death in commune

WAGONER, Okla. (UPI) — County officers say they have rescued a 2-year-old child from the subfreezing cold of a ramshackle farmhouse being used as a commune by a small group of hippies.

Wagoner County deputies and two volunteer women found the child, two teen-age boys and a teen-age girl Tuesday, huddling in the house with blankets draped over them.

Underground pollution cure sought

RECORD C. STUART
News of Servicemen

BOISE (UPI) — To adequately arrest pollution of the Snake Plain aquifer strict state regulations and the cooperation of farmers, industrialists and city leaders will be needed.

That is the consensus of several reports dealing with pollution in the aquifer and the possible solutions to the problem.

Don E. Abegglen, an engineering graduate student at the University of Idaho, in writing his masters degree thesis, concludes there are several feasible ways for elimination of wastes without dumping them into the aquifer.

He said the most obvious solution to contamination of the aquifer from drain wells is a scheme that allows the individual or municipal drain user to use the wastes for constructive purposes.

Re-use of the waste water, after adequate treatment, by humans is the most constructive method, Abegglen said, however, the costs of such a project severely limits its feasibility.

The most acceptable alternative to drain wells is a conventional soil absorption system. He noted for such a program to be effective the area must be underlain with at least five feet of soil. The layer of soil would filter out most impurities before the waste water entered existing ground water supplies.

Another solution is a municipal sewage system for all residents of the plain. Abegglen said even though costs would be high it would be warranted by the threat continued use of waste wells poses to public health.

He said under certain hydrologic conditions the use of drain wells may be acceptable if the following conditions exist:

— The bottom of the drain well is far enough above the water table that purification takes place before waste water hits the aquifer. This would require an accurate mapping of the sub-surface terrain of the area and statutory limits on well depths.

— If a low permeability, unfractured stratum lie between the bottom of the drain well and the water.

— And in an area where there are no wells, including abandoned wells, which penetrate the strata above the water table near proposed drain wells.

"These methods should only be used as a last resort, after all other methods of disposing of wastes have been exhausted," he wrote.

In a report compiled for the Idaho Bureau of Mines, Moscow, by Roy E. Williams, Douglas E. Eier, and Alfred T. Wallace, all from the University of Idaho, it was noted that the potential re-use of water exists in many towns of the Snake Plain region.

The report concluded that re-use of waste water for irrigation is safe if properly controlled and used under proper hydrologic conditions. Thereport noted where ground water is close to the surface, re-use of waste water is not recommended. But generally speaking, the areas of the Snake Plain are suitable for re-use programs.

The study showed that fertilizer value of domestic waste water could be worth as much as $18 per acre foot. Re-use of the water, before it enters streams or ground water, eliminates nutrients contained in the water which feeds damaging aquatic life in rivers and sub-surface water.

R. Keith Higginson, director of the Department of Water Administration, said the time has arrived when water rights should be established on ground water. Establishment of rights would bring state control and the authority to prevent pollution of the water supply.

In addition there is the popular sentiment that waters of the Snake Plain aquifer, or any other body of water, aren't the exclusive property of users, but rather are the property of the state and should be regulated with the interests of the state in mind.

It is possible, though not highly probable, that at some future date, the water of the aquifer could be used to provide drinking water for large segments of Idaho's, or another state's population. If it has deteriorated to a point beyond reclamation, the lives of people who live outside the Snake Plain will be affected.

Water experts are convinced that a state-wide study of the present and future water needs of the state is in order. The study should include accurate projections of the future water needs of farmers, industrialists and private citizens.

"With the abilities of computers to accurately forecast future conditions, it seems odd that an accurate forecast of the future water conditions can't be made," one water official said.

Abegglen said that this type of forecast may be the only way to convince complacent users of the aquifer that the time to correct pollution is now, before the water deteriorates beyond its saving point. In the long run, he said, it is more expensive to clean a water supply after it has been contaminated than to prevent contamination in the first place.

A health official added, "with all the evidences of pollution presented to us through the media, we can see the ultimate results of pollution. Yet with all these evidences before us, there are still those who balk at preventive action because Idaho's situation has not yet reached the critical stage."

BUHL — Record C. Stuart has enlisted in the U. S. Army, according to the Army Recruiting Service.

He has been assigned to Ft. Lewis, Wash., for basic training, and will then be assigned to an airborne division on his request.

Head Start gets boost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration has promised a group of angry Head Start parents it will urge Congress to appropriate enough money to prevent cutbacks in the popular program.

Head Start needs an estimated $350 million to maintain its present program level — $11 million more than President Nixon requested for the current fiscal year.

During a meeting Monday punctuated with shouts and accusations from protesters, administration officials also promised to accept advice from a national parent policy board on how to run Head Start.

The assurances came from the administration's three top officials associated with the program for needy preschool children: Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson, Poverty Director Donald Rumsfeld, and Office of Child Development Director Dr. Edward F. Zigler.

"We will urge that the conference between the House and the Senate comes out with enough money to carry forward the program without any cuts for this year," Richardson said.

Head Start provides educational, social, and medical services for needy children aged 3 to 6.

Shaw judge ousted

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Louisiana Supreme Court accused Judge Edward Haggerty Jr. of heavy drinking, gambling, absenteeism and associating with underworld characters and ordered him removed from the Orleans Criminal District Court bench Monday.

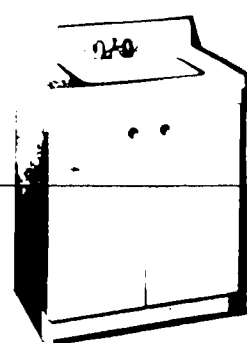

Haggerty presided at the conspiracy trial of Clay Shaw, the New Orleans businessman accused of taking part in a plot to kill President John F. Kennedy.

The high court voted 6-1 to remove Haggerty. The ruling said he engaged in "willful and intentional" misconduct which brought disgrace on the judiciary. Haggerty's attorneys have 13 days to apply for a rehearing on the order.

The judge was arrested Dec. 17 at a motel party and charged with obscenity, soliciting for prostitution and resisting arrest. Haggerty was acquitted of the charges.

The removal ruling came on a recommendation by the Louisiana Judiciary Commission, which said Haggerty's conduct disgraced the judiciary.

Rock Creek watershed granted high priority

TWIN FALLS — The Rock Creek Watershed Project, now in the preliminary planning stage, holds a top priority with the state Soil Conservation Service for planning and is being moved ahead as rapidly as possible.

This was reported today by delegates to the State Soil Conservation Convention in Boise over the weekend. About 20 local persons from the six organizations sponsoring the proposed project met with the state director of watershed programs, Creighton Gilbert and state watershed planner, Forest Closser, to discuss the project's status.

Heber Loughmiller, county commission chairman, said today the state officials indicated they would be collecting final data for the preliminary plan report within about two months.

Clarence Hedrick, area conservationist, SCS, Twin Falls, said delegates were well pleased with the agency's attitude about the project and the fact they plan a full determination on all factors of the study before presenting the feasibility report to the local sponsoring organizations.

Hedrick said the state officials noted while the project is not a large one it is of vital importance to the entire county because of its involvement with pollution control, expanded recreational developments, flood control and irrigation benefits.

Hedrick said the local delegation was urged by the state officials to go ahead with the overall county resource planning study and it was noted the study and watershed project are so closely connected the influence of one will have great impact on the other.

State officials said they felt the resources afforded by Rock Creek, especially in recreation and ecology for the county are almost unlimited and must be protected as a leading county resource.

State authorities also indicated they do not feel the project is worthy of extensive study and they warned against undertaking anything on a halfway basis or going ahead if there are any indications it is not feasible.

The feasibility of the project will be incorporated in the preliminary report which is the next step in the project, Hedrick said.

Further, he said, the SCS spokesmen said they do not wish to present any proposal to the people which they cannot support, but they indicated they will make every effort to complete studies as soon as possible.

Iowan to speak at Burley meet

BURLEY — Roy Keppy, Davenport, Iowa, president of the National Pork Producers' Council, will be one of the speakers at the annual meeting of Idaho Swine Producers at the Ponderosa Inn, Dec. 14 and 15. The program was announced today by J. Carl James, Blackfoot, president.

Keppy will address a banquet and, at another session, discuss selection of breeding stock and management. James said

Keppy, a commercial producer, is one of the most successful showmen in the business.

Paul Gorham, Eli Lilly Company, will give a talk on use of antibiotics in disease control.

A demonstration of cooking pork will be conducted by a 4-H girl with the assistance of Carolyn Barnes, extension home economist, Burley.

Directors will consider changes in by-laws regarding election of board members.

Gem state spud crop ad topic

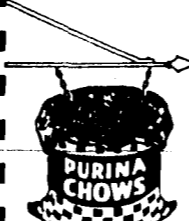

MURTAUGH — Idaho's 1970 potato crop is being featured in advertisements in the November issues of three national consumer magazines, according to Jack Allred, Murtaugh, member of the Idaho Potato Commission.

Allred said the ads, which feature Idaho potatoes served Italian style, are running in Good Housekeeping, Family Circle and Woman's Day. The three magazines have a combined circulation of more than 57 million.

The commission's 1970-71 advertising campaign, which also reaches tradespeople through 12 industry publications, is helping to sell one of the finest crops of potatoes Idaho has ever produced, Allred said.

Male polar bears may weigh over 1,000 pounds and measure more than 9 feet in length.

Sugar firm makes first '70 payment

IDAHO FALLS — Utah Idaho Sugar Co. has mailed to farmers in Idaho, Utah, Washington and Oregon checks totaling $20,495,739 as the initial payment on their 1970 crop of sugar beets.

Sugar beet growers have a participating contract with the company and this will receive additional payments as the sugar from the crop is sold.

The checks mailed were the initial payment on 1,597,065 tons of sugar beets which had been delivered to the company by October 31 in Washington and Oregon and by November 5 in Idaho and Utah. The initial payment on beets delivered after those dates will be made in a few weeks. It is expected the total initial payment will be $29,339,000.

Checks mailed to Idaho growers totaled $7,156,151. Payments are based on sugar content and on net returns from sugar sold.

Her favors please . . .

PATTY MARIE SCHRENK, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Schrenk, Wendell, has discovered at an early age that there is joy in giving as she presents a Thanksgiving favor to George Weidner, guest at Magic Valley Manor. Patty has become well acquainted with guests there while visiting her grandmother, the late Mrs. Ollie Waddell, who died several weeks ago. Mrs. Schrenk spent every mealtime with her mother and Patty often accompanied her. At Halloween Patty presented each of the guests treats and they were so delighted, she has spent the past 10 days preparing a Thanksgiving treat, with the help of both her parents.

Oldtime fires in Wendell recalled

By MYRTLE SCHRENK
Times-News Correspondent
WENDELL — Recollections of past fires which have made local history highlighted a farewell ceremony honoring E. E. Parr for his 20 years of service as fire chief of the Wendell rural and city Fire Departments.

One of the oldest guests was Court West, Wendell, who served as fire chief from 1926 to 1935.

The Wendell fire department was organized Nov. 14, 1913, and consisted of a Eureka hose and hose cart, purchased for $481. The equipment was housed in a small structure behind the city hall.

Oldtimers recalled the fire alarm was a large iron ring on which a sledge was used. Four fire plugs were installed to service the entire town.

Fires at the hold Mye hotel, located at the present site of Parr's Food Center, and another at a residence in the northeast part of town made the townspeople realize that the outstanding feature of the fire department at that time was that fires were nearly over before firemen arrived.

William Pyne, editor of the former Wendell Irrigatorist at that time, wrote, "One noticeable feature of the fire was the fact the hose cart arrived on the scene after the fire had practically burned out. This emphasizes the need for better fire apparatus for the town and better organization for handling a fire when one starts."

In 1915 the S. M. Garrison residence on East Avenue A was destroyed by fire with a loss of more than $3,000 and the family barely escaped with its life. Editor Pyne again criticized the town for its lack of fire protection.

Wendell's splendidly equipped fire department arrived in time to view the ash pile left by the flames," he wrote.

In March, 1916, records show the women of Wendell planned a firemen's dance to raise funds to equip the newly created fire department with boots, helmets and other equipment necessary for containing fire. The old fashioned "grand fireman's ball" with the ladies acting as hostesses began about this time.

In May that year Wendell experienced a disaster when the oldest landmark in the town, the E. J. Parr building on the corner of Idaho and Avenue A was destroyed by fire. The building housed a meat market, F. W. Chapman Real Estate office, Glen Jenkins barber shop and an apartment which had several roomers.

Oldtimers recall the building was doomed from the start. The hose was frozen and the chemical tank failed to work. It was only the heroic effort on the part of firemen and other local residents which saved the adjoining buildings from going up in flames.

In 1930 a Cadillac, purchased by the department from R. D. Bradshaw, was remodeled into a fire truck with a pump. Later that year the station site at 160 West Ave. A was purchased and the small buildings housing the fire equipment moved to that location. Extra lots were purchased and the addition of one room was approved.

Arrangements were made with the telephone office operator to sound the fire alarm. West recalled this arrangement continued through 1936.

In June, 1933, ten men were listed as members of the department. On May 5, 1937, Maurice Jamison became fire chief, serving until 1950 when Parr was appointed with A. E. Neistad as assistant and Bill Von Weller as captain.

The fire ordinance for Wendell, passed in 1937, is still in effect, although it has had many alterations and additions. A 1939 model American LaFrance truck with 95 horse power engine, purchased in 1938, is still in use with a 700 gallon tank added.

The Wendell Rural Fire Department was organized June 12, 1944, under state law.

In 1953 the Tuttle district was acquired by the department and now the rural fire district consists of about 112 square miles. Officials said that since they have equipment necessary to leave a standby unit in the area they accept all reasonable calls for assistance.

Others honored in addition to Parr were Al Meistad, Bill Bunn and Ed Comstock, all of whom had served 20 years with the volunteer department.

George Wahler presented the four honored guests with a gold engraved plaque, depicting their years of service, and a token gift.

Fire Chief Parr was also presented with a camera. Arrangements for the event were under the direction of the Ladies auxiliary, with Mrs. Roy Mason and Mrs. George Benson as chairmen.

Former firemen introduced by Charles Irelon, master of ceremonies, included Ralph Fink, Rupert, Roy Irons and Ray Turner, both Boise; Ed Novacek, Buhl; Merle Terry, Bellevue, and Herman Higgenbotham, Twin Falls.

News Of Servicemen

WENDELL — Army Private Dan C. Eaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Eaton, has been assigned to Company A, 185th Battalion, Fifth Brigade at the training center at Ft. Knox, Ky. He will remain there for the next two months studying the fundamental skills of military activities including firing live ammunition under simulated combat conditions and learning protective measures and first aid for chemical biological and radiological attacks.

Wendell Union rites set tonight

WENDELL — Members of the Wendell Methodist and Presbyterian churches will join together for a Union Thanksgiving service on Wednesday.

The special service will begin at 7:30 p. m. at the Presbyterian Church with Rev. Woodrow Harris of the Methodist Church delivering a Thanksgiving message entitled "I Wonder."

The adult Methodist choir will provide a selection of special music, says Rev. Harris.

The offering received at this service will be added to the Christian churches sign fund. Rev. John Steppert related that the signs will be erected soon and located along the west and south approaches to Wendell announcing to motorists what Christian churches are available in the city.

Woman becomes home craftsman

WENDELL — From quilt making, textile painting, and novelty items, Mildred Wert of Wendell has become a home craftsman.

A charter member of the Hobby Club in the Orchard Valley area, she opened a small gift shop in her home three years ago. She now supplies other hobbyists in the area with materials.

Originally Mrs. Wert had not intended her hobby to provide more than self satisfaction but there were so many objects she wanted to make that her house overflowed. At present is highly optimistic about the formation of a marketing association for homecrafts.

Although she works in all mediums, her favorite is plaster and resin plastics. The resin became popular a number of years ago. Enthusiasts scoured old dumping areas for colored glass which was baked and run through a food chopper to fashion plaques from. A pattern was laid out with different colors of glass then resin added and the material and catalyst was added as a hardening agent creating a hard glasslike finish.

Mrs. Wert now creates unique end tables, paper weights, book ends, and many other items from this medium.

Other materials that she has worked with are chenille, velvet, cold ceramics, forged kitchen foil and the newest is called mod-podge. "This medium makes a simple print resemble a work by one of the masters," she said.

Work displayed of area woman

WENDELL — Mrs. Barbara Gardner, Hagerman, is featured as Artist of the Month and her oil paintings are on display at The Idaho First National Bank of Wendell. The group includes small landscapes, still life and some really fine florals.

Mrs. Gardner has 20 years experience teaching art in the Gooding Junior High School and fifth and sixth grades and in the Bliss Junior High School. She has returned to painting seriously since her retirement five years ago.

She states she is mainly a self-taught artist but has recently studied under Lee K. Parkinson of Ogden, Utah.

Her work has won awards at the Gooding County Fair, and she has exhibited at Fritchman's Gallery in Boise; the Antique Festival Theatre in Buhl; The Crimson Steer in Reno and presently at the Village Inn in Boise.

Counseling tries to learn person's limits, abilities

WENDELL — According to Dick Thomas, counselor for the Wendell schools, relates that counseling is that facet of the curriculum which attempts to learn the limits and abilities of the person.

Of the many tools in counseling, testing is one of the most important. Testing can reveal the profile of achievement, intelligence, vocational choice necessary to make pupils into useful citizens.

"The mysticism that surrounds counseling and guidance is overwhelming. To know yourself is the main objective of the of this specialization," Thomas said. He said counselors are neither psychologists nor psychiatrists but work with similar potentials. Seeking vocations to match abilities, attempting to solve personal problems and conflicts, using individual and group introduction as a facet, counseling tends to aid the person to find suitable acceptance in society and modifications of behavior to fit moves.

Thomas said, "Wendell has a comprehensive testing program in grades one through 12. Profiles are kept on each student. This testing process is a learning device for each pupil. Colleges use the testing profiles for placement and some employers survey the value of future employees by test scores. About half of the guidance effort involves testing and the other half is devoted to personal counseling of students."

Teachers do a great deal of counseling and without their aid, the program would be useless. Teachers and counselors work on an integrated team and support each other's efforts, he said. Often, the full needs of each individual cannot be met in a classroom situation.

Council supports multiple land use

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor
BURLLEY — Formation of the Idaho Public Lands Resource Council, dedicated to the support of multiple use of the public resources contained on public lands in Idaho, was accomplished here Tuesday afternoon. Backers of the new organization, to be incorporated under the laws of Idaho, vowed to "react to statements of single use or non-use oriented groups." Although plans to create a national park in broad areas of the White Clouds, Sawtooth and Boulder Mountains were not "officially" mentioned, there was no doubt but that such plans would be fought by council officials and members. The park discussion during the session at the Ponderosa Inn was informal.

Heading the council as chairman is Vern Ravenscroft, Tuttle, state representative for District 22-A. He has been outspoken against a national park — but for a national recreation area — and testified to this effect before the recent congressional committee hearing at Sun Valley. Vice-chairman is Clayton Hurlless, of Clayton, while secretary-treasurer is Shepard Quate, Pocatello. The three officers were elected to the posts as were eight board members. Three other board members, to represent specific groups, will be selected.

Board members picked Tuesday were Clayton Hurlless, Clayton, representing timber interests; Lawrence Bradbury, Challis, representing grazing; Al Teske, Boise, mining; Son Don Fredericksen, District 22, Gooding, representing water users; Grey Andrist, Boise, official of the Idaho Outdoor Association, organized sportsmen; Jerry Nicholson, Obisidian, recreational home owners; Dick Snyder, Ketchum, general recreation; Bob Tucker, Twin Falls, co-owner of Redfish Lake Lodge, commercial recreation. The remaining three posts — general agriculture, church and institutions and political subdivisions — will be filled by the board.

In accepting the chairmanship, Rep. Ravenscroft said "as long as I am chairman no position will be taken on anything until we know what we are talking about." But once a decision has been made, he commented, it will be backed "right down the line." The by-laws, as adopted, will permit any interested person, firm, corporation or body politic to become a member if agreeing to comply and abide by the bylaws.

Actually, the new officers said, the organization will be an association of associations "all dedicated to a united effort to travel the way we decide to go." Thirty people from over the state attended the organizational meeting. A previous session was held recently in Pocatello. As adopted by the organizers, the statement of purpose declares members will use "any prudent and ethical means to inform the people of the state of Idaho or elsewhere of the ultimate value of the multiple use concept as it pertains to all aspects of their lives."

In addition, other "purpose statements" contend: (1) To diligently espouse harmony within our own organization in order to assure a united front — recognizing that a diversity of our own interest could contribute to fractionalization unless all participants lay aside old inter-industry conflicts and consider differences of opinions on solid physical facts. (2) To refrain from partisan politics, but to influence, circulate or support the views of any elected or appointed representative whose actions may be advantageous to the goals of the organization. (3) To analyze facts and circumstances and take positions relevant to governmental decisions or actions. "In this new organization it is the general understanding that we will be talking about the use and not the abuse of basic resources," Rep. Ravenscroft said.

Warning...
APPEARING along highways in the Magic Valley are signs similar to this, advising travellers that the route is being patrolled by aircraft. Idaho State Police said the aerial patrol follows Idaho 25, U. S. 20-26-30 and Interstate 80 between Boise and Burley.

Valley routes on air patrol

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Police Aircraft Patrol, recommended by the Idaho Traffic Safety commission, will begin full operation following a training program started Monday. Idaho State Police Training Officer Capt. Ervin Dunn, Boise, said Pilot Donald A. Stock, Coeur d'Alene, was working with troopers who will be patrolling highways between Boise and Burley during the pilot program. Training sessions include equipping the Cessna 172 aircraft with a two-way radio for communication with ground troopers, coordination of apprehension methods and conducting of test runs. ISP Supt. I. Clark Hand said the aircraft patrol would continue for two months in an attempt to prove this type of enforcement can reduce highway traffic accidents.

Christine Eames Minidoka miss

By NELLIE STEPHENS
Times-News Correspondent
RUPERT — Christine Eames, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garth Eames, was named Junior Miss for Minidoka County at the annual pageant Tuesday night at the Minico High School auditorium. Millie Biggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Biggs, was first runnerup and Janet Douglass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nephi Douglass, was second runnerup. Both girls are from Rupert. They were chosen from a field of 17 contestants. The Miss Congeniality award was shared by Pam MacKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coy MacKenzie, and Christine Eames, the Junior Miss. George McDonald and Don Elliott served as master of ceremonies. Alan Hale played background music. Judges were Hugh Coats, Pocatello; Robert Hamblen, Burley; Barbara Brown, former Miss Idaho, also Burley; Mrs. Fran Tanner, Hansen, CSI instructor; Adell Thompson, dean of women at CSI, Twin Falls. The candidates were assisted by Delores Couch, Heyburn, on physical fitness, and Donna Reddecopp, personality and charm aspects. Larry Edgar was chairman of the event, sponsored by the Rupert Jaycees.

Reservoir district vote set

TWIN FALLS — Two directors of the American Falls Reservoir District No. 1 will be elected on Dec. 8. Candidates seeking re-election are Frank W. Graves, Bliss, in Precinct 4, and Russell Woolley, Jerome, in Precinct 2. Polls will be open from 1 to 7 p.m. in Precinct 5, with voting at the Twin Falls County courthouse. Carryover members of the board are Tom Olmstead, Twin Falls; Merle E. Leonard, Filer; Dale Depew, Wendell; John M. Barker, Buhl, and Armin Schroeder, American Falls.

High wind, moisture cut power

TWIN FALLS — Excessive moisture and high winds caused problems for some power customers and some overtime hours for power company crews Tuesday night and early today. James Johnstone, maintenance superintendent for Idaho Power Co., said the major problem centered in the Blue Gulch area in the west end of

Hospital directors selected

TWIN FALLS — Six appointments to the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board were announced Tuesday by Heber Loughmiller, chairman of the Twin Falls County commissioners. Mrs. James Shields, Buhl, was named to serve two years to complete the unexpired term of Charles D. Hiatt who resigned last summer. Ralph Assendrup, Filer, replaces Alva Parrott, whose term has expired and will serve three years. Reappointed to three year terms are William C. Davis, and Robert Stephan, Twin Falls and Clarence Hollifield and W. D. Wiseman, Hansen.

Minidoka meet set

RUPERT — Minidoka County Historical Society will meet Friday at 8 p. m. in the district court room at the courthouse for an open forum discussion, Bill Whitton, spokesman for the society, said today. Mart O'Donnell, Harvey, Hollinger, and Bob Nelson will lead the discussion about early days in Minidoka County. Any person with information to contribute about the subject may take part.

Number two

SINGAPORE (UPI) — Singapore now is second only to Japan in Asia in the number of motor vehicles, with a total of 282,374 as of Aug. 31. The ratio is one vehicle to every eight Singaporeans. There are about 1,200 miles of road in the republic. Officials also discussed building permits under the city's new zoning ordinance and reported on the increasing number of mobile homes being located in the city. Nelson King requested permission to move a pump house and the matter was taken under advisement.

Filer students assist needy

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Correspondent
FILER — Most elementary schools have a special Thanksgiving week collection to help needy or underprivileged people and the Filer Elementary School was no exception. What was exceptional was the amount raised by the students at the school, according to Bill Heaps, principal, who said this year's amount far outdid that of any previous years. Using many kinds of fundraising methods — including candy sales, baked good sales, used toy sales, basketball games and wrestling matches, the school raised the sum of $541.39 which is to be sent to the Children's Home, Boise. A rather unusual feature of the basketball games and wrestling matches was the fact the players and wrestlers paid to be allowed to participate, as well as the spectators who paid to watch. Some students solicited funds from civic-minded people. Of the total amount, $489 was collected by the seventh and eighth grades who held contests among the various classrooms with the winning team to be given a party by the losers. Lee Bartlett's class, the winners, will be entertained at a special party Wednesday afternoon.

For multiple use...
THREE OFFICIALS of the newly organized Idaho Public Lands Resource Council were elected at a meeting held at the Ponderosa Inn in Burley Tuesday afternoon. From the left they are Rep. Vern Ravenscroft, Tuttle, chairman; Clayton Hurlless, Clayton, vice-chairman, and Shepard Quate, Pocatello, secretary-treasurer. The organization is dedicated to the multiple use concept of public lands in the state.

Cassia school trustee zone changes due state unit study

BURLEY — Cassia County school trustees are preparing to mail plans of the proposed changes in the school district trustee zones to the state board of education. Supt. Harold Blauer said the information must be at the state office by Dec. 12 but the state board will not act on it until the January meeting. The proposed plans would rearrange the county-wide district's five trustee zones to follow the political precinct borders. Declo, Malta, Albion, Elba and Almo would be included in one trustee zone, with the Oakley zone enlarged to include Parsons, Pella, Unity and View. The remaining three zones would be divided among the Burley city and rural areas. Trustees also: Authorized Supt. Blauer and administrators Horace Coltrin, Lovell Turner and E. S. Miller to attend a meeting Dec. 6-9 in Portland. Approved the Head Start budget for the 1971 school year. It now has to be approved by the Seattle office. Approved use of a bus for the Burley junior high school seminary students for a trip to Pocatello. Decided to advertise the sale of four school buses.

Gray fund growing

SHOSHONE — The Melba Gray family memorial fund has now grown to $1,713.60, Myron D. Johnson, acting chamber of commerce president, said today. The money is being accepted for the six children of Mrs. Gray, who was murdered Nov. 12. Johnson said chamber officials are investigating the best method of handling the money and probably will set up a savings account with a committee designated to approve the disbursements. Setting up a trust fund is too expensive, Johnson said bank officials have advised. In other business at Tuesday's chamber meeting, dates were set for Christmas activities. Santa Claus will appear to visit children on Dec. 12 with a free movie planned and the annual election dinner is scheduled for Dec. 14. The Shoshone chamber will purchase the street decorations previously used by the city of Twin Falls, Johnson said.

Death data received

JEROME — The FBI in Washington, D. C., has sent verification they have received information on the Reuben Stohler murder case, Sheriff James B. (Pat) Burns said today. But other than the knowledge the federal agents are studying the evidence sent to them, there are no new developments in the two-month-old slaying. Stohler's body was found in the basement of his farm home Sept. 14 and was last seen alive Sept. 11. His car was found in Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 1 and evidence gathered by officials there was sent to the Twin Falls police department which assisted in the case.

Foreigners

SEOUL (UPI) — A total of 43,487 foreigners, including 31,732 Chinese, 6,863 Americans and 1,256 Japanese are living in South Korea, according to the latest official tabulation. The figures do not include U.S. servicemen stationed here. Lloyd F. Barron, Fairfield, state highway board member, said the project includes roadway construction, a 204-foot steel and concrete bridge, roadmix pavement and sealcoating. The project will be supervised by Howard Johnson, Shoshone, district highway engineer. Work is to be completed within 110 days after the successful bidder receives orders to begin the project.

Addition starts...
CONSTRUCTION BEGAN Tuesday on a new addition for the Twin Falls City-County Airport terminal building to facilitate handling of airline baggage. The new 1,000 square foot addition, under contract to Arrington Brothers, will be added to the east end of the building, shown here. Lobby area will also be increased to meet growing air transportation demands from the local field.

Jim Plunkett named as Heisman Trophy winner

NEW YORK (UPI)—Quarterback Jim Plunkett of Stanford, the most prolific passer in college football history, Tuesday was named the winner of the Heisman Trophy as the outstanding player in the nation this season. The 6-foot, 3-inch, 204-pound Plunkett, considered by pro scouts to be the No. 1 prospect among this year's outstanding crop of senior quarterbacks, received 510 first-place votes and 2,229 points in a balloting of 1,059 electors from coast to coast.

Two other quarterbacks, Joe Theismann of Notre Dame and Archie Manning of Mississippi, finished second and third, respectively. Theismann, who set single season and career total offense marks at Notre Dame, received 242 first-place votes and 1,410 points while Manning, who established Southeastern Conference single season and career total offense records, had 138 first-place votes and 849 points.

Running back Steve Worster of Texas finished fourth with 398 points and quarterback Rex Kern of Ohio State was fifth with 188 points. Rounding out the top 10 were quarterback Pat Sullivan of Auburn, defensive back Jack Tatum of Ohio State, flanker Ernie Jennings of Air Force, running back Don McCauley of North Carolina and quarterback Lynn Dickey of Kansas State.

Plunkett, the first Stanford player ever to win the Heisman trophy, set an NCAA single season total offense record of 2,898 yards and also broke the NCAA career total offense mark with 7,887 yards. In 11 games this season he passed for 2,715 yards and 18 touchdowns while completing 53.4 per cent of his passes.

The son of blind Mexican-Irish parents, Plunkett actually was eligible for the pro draft last year.

Plunkett's big goal was Rose Bowl, not Heisman

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jim Plunkett Tuesday called the Heisman Trophy "the greatest honor a college player can receive" and said the award should be "an inspiration to the Mexican-American community."

"I worked out with John Brodie (San Francisco quarterback) a little this summer and he coached me in the spring two years ago. I like to think I can perform under any situation I like to play under pressure. Whether things turn out best is questionable."

Plunkett, the Stanford quarterback who was voted the award Tuesday, said the Heisman was not his goal this year.

Colorado accepts Liberty Bowl bid

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Colorado accepted a bid Tuesday to return to the Liberty Bowl Dec. 12 to meet an unnamed opponent. The Buffaloes, who defeated Alabama in last year's Liberty Bowl 47-33, convinced the selection committee with their 49-19 rout of Sugar Bowl-bound Air Force Saturday. The stunning upset ran Colorado's record to 6-4.

Racing legend to go USAC

ATLANTA (UPI)—Cale Yarborough, a racing legend, Tuesday announced he would no longer race on the stock car circuit and would compete instead for the United States Auto Club (USAC) national championship.

Tim Treadwell III, chairman of the bowl selection committee, said the Buffs' opponent likely will be named after games this weekend. Under consideration are North Carolina, Florida, Louisiana State and—should the Liberty Bowl want to wait that long—the loser of the Dec. 5 clash between Texas and Arkansas.

Yarborough, 30, of Tunnsville, S.C., disclosed he had signed with veteran USAC car owner Gene White.

Treadwell said the committee was "extremely pleased" to be able to invite Colorado again. "Early in the season we were amazed how easily they defeated Penn State on national television and their recent impressive victory over the Air Force convinced us that Colorado is one of the finest football teams in America," Treadwell said.

Appearing with White, Yarborough said he thought of making the switch for years and began talking seriously with White a year ago.

This will be the fifth bowl trip for Colorado in its 80-year history of football and the third since Eddie Crowder became head coach in 1963.

"I think it's the best move I've ever made," the blond driver declared.

The Buffaloes beat Clemson in the 1956 Orange Bowl, lost to LSU in the 1961 Orange Bowl, defeated Miami in the Bluebonnet Bowl in 1967 and won the Liberty Bowl last year.

Yarborough said he hated to leave stock car racing. The stock driver won 14 major races on the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) circuit and earned $449,959 in prize money.

But Yarborough indicated he thought the NASCAR circuit was losing support and popularity.

"I'm sure stock car racing will be going down in the next year or so," he said. "I hope it will come back up again."

"Staying in school will help me in the long run," he said. Confirming his future plans, Plunkett said he wants to play pro football and doesn't look beyond that.

"I would like to play for the Forty-Niners, but that seems out of the question the way they're going," he said. "I'll go with whoever takes me and I want to play, not sit. You have certain apprehensions about the pros, not that I can't play, but will I play right away. I don't want to sit. I want to play."

Plunkett said he thought the award might add financial worth, but added: "I don't put a price tag on myself. I don't have an agent and I don't know what I'm going to ask for. I feel I can play in the pros right away."

Ralston praises winner

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Coach John Ralston of Stanford University said Tuesday that quarterback Jim Plunkett deserved the Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding college football player.

"Gosh, Jim has done so very much," Ralston said after the announcement of Plunkett's victory in the Heisman voting. "He's performed to the utmost of our expectations in the 31 consecutive games he has started for Stanford as quarterback."

"No single individual could have contributed more to the success of the team. He was deserving of this highest honor. I'm sure I'm talking for all his teammates, coaches, fellow students and alumni who take great pride in his achievement."

Ralston, who coached pro quarterback Bill Munson of the Detroit Lions when he was at Utah State, said Plunkett was the best signal-caller he has coached.

"We predict a bright future for Jim Plunkett," the coach said. "Not only in what he's accomplished, but what he will continue to do. I know he's interested in playing pro ball."

Plunkett and his Stanford teammates start workouts Dec. 12 for their New Year's day battle in the Rose Bowl with Big Ten champ Ohio State.

Stallings to remain coach

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Dr. Jack K. Williams, president of Texas A&M University, ended speculation about the immediate future of Gene Stallings Tuesday by announcing Stallings would be coaching the Aggie football team once again in 1971.

Rumors of Stallings' possible departure from A&M had been circulating as the Aggies losing streak—which has now reached eight games—grew longer.

A&M has one game yet to play this season—its annual Thanksgiving Day battle with No. 1 Texas.

Dallas and Packers meet

DALLAS (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers and Dallas Cowboys, who once were the kings of their respective National Football League domains, collide in a national television feature Thursday with both facing do-or-die elimination status in this year's hectic NFL scramble.

Both are suffering also-ran status in their division and if they are to entertain any hopes of making it into the National Conference Playoffs as the "wild card," or best second-place team, they cannot afford to lose another game.

Plunkett heads AFCA team

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett of Stanford headed the Kodak All America football team named Tuesday by the American Football Coaches Association.

A total of 24 players were named by nearly 1,000 voting members of the Coaches Association.

Plunkett, the 6-foot 3-inch, 204 pound passing whiz of Rose Bowl-bound Stanford, beat out Joe Theismann of Notre Dame for the quarterback post.

Rounding out the Kodak backfield are running backs Steve Worster of Texas and Don McCauley of North Carolina along with flanker back Chuck Dicus of Arkansas.

Dicus, along with center Chip Kell of Tennessee, defensive back Jack Tatum and defensive tackle Jim Stillwagon of Ohio State and offensive tackle Bobby Wuensch of Texas, was named to the Kodak team for the second straight year.

Murray Bowden of Dartmouth, the first Ivy League player named in several years, earned one of the four linebacking spots while the coaches also named Bill McClard of Arkansas as the kicking specialist. McClard booted a 60-yard field goal in the Razorbacks' game against Southern Methodist.

The Kodak All America team:

- Offense: Ends Tom Gattwood, Notre Dame and Ernie Jennings, Air Force; Tackles Dan Dierdorf, Michigan and Bobby Wuensch, Texas; Guard Larry D'Nardo, Notre Dame and Bob Newton, Nebraska; Center Chip Kell, Tennessee; Quarterback Jim Plunkett, Stanford; Running backs Steve Worster, Texas and Don McCauley, North Carolina; Flanker Chuck Dicus, Arkansas; Kicker Bill McClard, Arkansas.
- Defense: Ends Bill Atwell, Texas and Charlie Weaver, Southern California; Tackles Ross Beeson, Georgia Tech and Jim Stillwagon, Ohio State; Linebackers Murray Bowden, Dartmouth, Mike Anderson, Louisiana State, Jack Ham, Penn State and Marty Huff, Michigan; Backs Dick Hall, South Carolina; Tom Casanova, Louisiana State; Jack Tatum, Ohio State and Larry Williamson, Auburn.

Top seeds advance in meet

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—The top players advanced in the $35,200 Stockholm Open indoor tennis championships Tuesday, but both Arthur Ashe of Gurn Spring, Va., and Ken Rosewall of Australia had to fight all the way before gaining the second round.

Ashe, top-seeded in the tournament which is the last of the ILTF Grand Prix events, was in serious trouble in the second set against Ray Moore of South Africa before winning 6-3, 8-6 while Rosewall had to use all his experience before he overcame Czech Jan Kodes.

The Aussie veteran won 6-3, 6-4 and expressed his confidence afterwards.

"The first match in every tournament is always difficult and I am satisfied with how things went against Kodes," Rosewall said.

Ashe was not particularly happy with his play and agreed with Rosewall about first round difficulties.

"Neither I nor Ray Moore played well. My serves were bad and I made too many mistakes to be satisfied. But I think this will be better in the second round," Ashe said.

"I still have a chance to get second prize in the Grand Prix competition, but I have to reach a higher place here than Rosewall," Ashe said.

Dartmouth nabs scoring defense title

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dartmouth, winner of the Lambert Trophy as the best major college football team in the East, clinched the scoring defense title by shutting out Penn, 28-0 Saturday, according to statistics released Tuesday by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

The Indians, who finished the season with a 9-0 record that included six shutouts, held their opponents to just 4.7 points per game. Dartmouth thus became the first Eastern team to win a scoring defense title since Army did it in 1950 and the first team ever from the Ivy League to lead the nation in this department.

Toledo (11-0) leads in total defense, allowing 185.8 yards per game, and in pass defense, permitting 77.8 yards per game. Louisiana State is far ahead in rushing defense with a 49.6 per game average.

South Dakota's John Roning selected as new Big Sky chief

BOISE, Idaho (UPI)—John Roning, currently Director of Athletics at the University of South Dakota at Vermillion, Tuesday was named the new commissioner of the Big Sky Athletic Conference.

The announcement was made by Dr. Ernest W. Hartung, president of the University of Idaho and chairman of the Big Sky Conference presidents.

Roning, former head coach at Utah State and later head coach at Denver University, succeeds Jack Friel, who has held the commissioner's job for the past eight years. He will take office July 1.

Friel, who is 72, has asked to be relieved of his position.

Upon Friel's retirement, the Big Sky headquarters will be moved from Pullman, Wash., where it has been since the conference was formed. Speculation places the new headquarters either here or in Salt Lake City.

Roning, 59, is married and has two children.

Villanova protest switches finish

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI)—A review of motion picture films 24 hours after the finish of the 32nd annual NCAA cross country race flipped the apparent team finishing order Tuesday and handed the championship to Villanova University.

Following a written protest, Villanova edged Oregon University by one-point, 85-86 in the race held Monday.

Meet director John Randolph said that as Villanova runner

Lef Nagy came across the finish line in 62nd position in the pack of more than 800 runners, a man in front of him fell. Nagy was held back momentarily, and several other finishers loped by him. Nagy was handed a card showing he finished 67th.

The preliminary outcome of the team standings reflected the No. 67 finish for the Villanova runner, and dropped Villanova's team score to 88, two points behind Oregon.

Randolph said "the films clearly show the error. They got out of order after the finish line."

The adjusted team score, with Nagy moved up to 62nd, gave Villanova the edge it needed to claim its fourth national cross country title in five years.

The individual honor Monday were won by Oregon sophomore Steve Prefontaine, who toured the six-mile Kingsmill Plantation course in a record 28:00.2.

Houston, Rice end big feud

HOUSTON (UPI)—Speculation that the University of Houston was headed for membership in the Southwest Conference began again Monday with the announcement that the biggest feud in Texas athletics had ended.

Rice University and the University of Houston, those two old South Houston institutions who have never met in a regular-season athletic contest, revealed Monday they would meet on a basketball court Jan. 8, 1972.

"This shows a pretty good relationship," said A.M. Bale, assistant athletic director at Rice. But he would comment no further that the game might mean Houston would soon be entering the conference.

What the game did mean, however, was an ending to the icy feelings between the two schools.

Bonavena arrives in N.Y.

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Argentine strongman Oscar "Ringo" Bonavena, still sporting curly locks despite a 90-day suspension in his conservative homeland, arrives in New York Wednesday to train for a Dec. 7 fight with Cassius Clay at Madison Square Garden.

Bonavena was scheduled to arrive at John F. Kennedy airport at 7 a.m. est.

The man who calls himself the "White Hope" of Argentina to take the heavyweight championship away from Joe Frazier will train at Grossingers in New York State. On Dec. 3, he will go to New York City for final preparations.

Bonavena appeared on television Tuesday and his hair was still long despite a 90-day suspension and warning by the Argentine boxing Commission earlier this month. He has ignored the commission's demands to trim his locks.

Munson AL's top rookie

NEW YORK (UPI)—Thurman Munson, one of the New York Yankees' hopes of the future, became an authentic star of today Tuesday when he was named the American League's Rookie of the Year in a landslide vote conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Munson, a 23-year-old catcher who was given the No. 1 job behind the plate last spring by manager Ralph Houk and then went out and hit .302 in his first full major league season, received all but one of the 24 votes cast by a committee comprised of two baseball writers from each American League city. Roy Foster, the Cleveland Indians' long-ball hitting outfielder, was awarded the only other vote.

"It's a very happy feeling to win the award," Munson said from his home in Canton, Ohio, "but I can't say I was surprised. I knew I was in the running for it. I'm lucky to be Rookie of the Year and I'm happy that I am."

Calvin regains ABA lead

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mack Calvin of the Floridians has regained his lead from John Brisker of the Pittsburgh Condors in the extremely tight American Basketball Association scoring race.

Calvin had scored 546 points in 19 games through Sunday for a per game average of 28.74, while Brisker showed 533 points in 19 games for an average of 28.05.

Four other players were averaging better than 25 points to remain close in contention. Dan Issel of Kentucky was at 25.65, followed by Charlie Scott of Virginia (25.42), Don Freeman of Utah (25.21) and Larry Jones of the Floridians (25.15).

Indiana's Mel Daniels maintained the rebounding lead he has enjoyed since the beginning of the season, but he was being pressed by Mike Lewis of Pittsburgh. Lewis, who had played in three more games than Daniels, actually had more total rebounds, 331-299, but Daniels had an average of 16.61 to Lewis' 15.76.

Arkansas State takes over top spot from Tampa

NEW YORK (UPI)—Arkansas State is back on top again. The Indians, displaced from the No. 1 ranking a month ago by Tampa, regained it today after finishing their season at 10-0 while Tampa was ousted by Vanderbilt.

Arkansas State, a 27-3 victor over Southern Illinois Saturday, had 17 first place votes and 291 points from the 31 members of the 35-man United Press International Board of Coaches who participated in today's balloting.

A-State puts 8 on WAC squad

DENVER (UPI)—Arizona State, headed for a post-season game in the "Peach Bowl," dominated the Western Athletic Conference coaches' all-conference team, announced Tuesday by WAC headquarters.

Arizona State placed eight players on the first team, led by unanimous choice J. D. Hill, a split end. Quarterback Joe Spagnola, the WAC total offense leader, missed being a unanimous choice by just one vote.

WAC commissioner Wiles Hallock, in announcing the team selections, said every team in the conference placed at least one player on the first team.

New Mexico and Utah each landed four players on the squad, Brigham Young had three selections, Texas-El Paso had two and Arizona, Colorado State and Wyoming had one each.

Milwaukee streak hits 15

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Milwaukee Bucks, led by Lew Alcindor who scored 37 points, came from behind in a 34 point final period Tuesday night to beat the Chicago Bulls 117-108 and run their winning streak to 15 games.

Hill, Scarber, and defensive back Norm Thompson and kicker Marv Bateman of Utah were the only unanimous choices.

Other Arizona State first team selections included offensive guard Gary Venturo, center Mike Tomco, defensive end Junior Ah You, defensive tackle Bob Davidson and defensive back Windport Hall.

The Bulls, never trailed until less than nine minutes remained in the game and the score was tied only twice at 2-2 and 65-65. But with 8:48 remaining Oscar Robertson scored a layup to give the Bucks a 90-89 advantage and they never got behind again.

Utah tight end Dale Nosworthy and tackle Gordon Jolly of Utah, tackle Ken Serck of Brigham Young and Texas-El Paso guard Lewis Brooks completed the offensive unit.

Alcindor dropped 14 field goals and nine of 12 free throw attempts before he fouled out with 1:21 left in the game. Robertson scored 24 and Jon McGlocklin 22 for Milwaukee.

End Gene Marck of Texas-El Paso, tackle Gerald Meyer and back Chris Farasopoulos of Brigham Young, linebacker Houston Ross and back Jay Morrison of New Mexico, linebacker Mark Arneson of Arizona and linebacker Tom Gorman of Wyoming completed the defensive set.

Reed hits 10,000 plateau

NEW YORK (UPI)—Walt Frazier scored 33 points and Willis Reed reached the 10,000 point mark with 23 Tuesday night as the New York Knicks defeated the Atlanta Hawks 128-119 to offset a 40-point performance by Hawk rookie Pete Maravich.

It was probably fitting that Henry and McCutcheon tied for the halfback position. McCutcheon set the WAC sophomore rushing record last year with 797 yards. Henry broke that record this year with 829 yards.

Reed, in his seventh season, joined 16 other active players to reach the 10,000 point plateau as he went one above that mark. Reed is returning from a three game layoff caused by tendonitis in the left knee. The Knicks had lost two of three during his absence.

After trailing by as much as 14 points in the first period, 36-22, San Diego roared back on the shooting of Hayes and Siegfried who finished with 28 points each.

Maravich was hottest in the second and fourth quarters as the former LSU All American Pistol Pete got 12 in the second quarter and 18 in the fourth, with some fantastic shots that had even his own teammates clutching their heads in amazement.

The Condors, playing without high scoring John Brisker, trailed by one point 96-95 entering the fourth quarter but the Texas offense melted and Pittsburgh roared to a 9-point advantage with 5:31 left in the game.

Buffalo beats Suns 112-106

Utah coasts past Denver

DENVER (UPI)—The Utah Stars, aided with outside shooting by George Stone, spurted past a Denver Rockets comeback Tuesday night to win 115-102.

The Stars, on top of the Western Division of the American Basketball Association, led all the way. The Rockets regained their composure in the final period to tie it 81-81, but it didn't last.

Denver's efforts hampered as Stone kept hitting from outside. He had 16 points for the night. Leading the scoring was Utah's Merv Jackson with 27. High scorer for the Rockets was Larry Cannon, dropping in for 25.

Utah coasted to a 107-90 victory over the Denver Rockets Tuesday night.

Utah's offense was led by center Gene Marck, who scored 28 points, and forward Dale Nosworthy, who had 22 points and 11 rebounds.

Utah's defense was anchored by tackle Ken Serck, who had 18 points and 11 rebounds, and forward Gordon Jolly, who had 15 points and 11 rebounds.

Unitas signs pact

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Baltimore Colt quarterback John Unitas, 37, Tuesday confirmed that he has signed a contract calling for three more years as a player and guaranteeing him employment in an undecided capacity with the Colts for the next ten years.

Unitas did not disclose the amount of the 13-year pact. "The new contract calls for three more years of playing, or if for some reason, I get hurt, or don't want to play, then I'm free to retire," Unitas said.

Unitas negotiates his contracts personally with Colt owner Carroll Rosenbloom. His last three-year contract called for a reported $100,000 a year.

Negotiations on the new contract began last July, and the deal was not signed until last week—meaning Unitas played most of this season without a contract. Unitas said the talks were progressing smoothly and he felt no need to hurry.

"If I don't work, I don't get paid," Unitas said of the new contract. He added that the position he held when he retires has not been determined. He indicated it will probably be in the front office, instead of as a coach. He said he was willing to learn the business from the ground up.

Warriors trim 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors handed Philadelphia its fourth consecutive defeat, 104-96, Tuesday night and ended an eight-game losing streak against the 76ers.

Jeff Mullin's 28 points and Jerry Lucas' 23 paced San Francisco to its first victory over the 76ers since Feb. 19, 1969. The 76ers won the remaining game in the 1968-69 season, all six games last year and their only meeting this season, before Tuesday night's game.

The Warriors' defense forced Philadelphia into a 5-for-21 third period shooting effort, limiting the 76ers to 17 points—their lowest quarter of the season.

Meanwhile, the Warriors, led by Nate Thurmond, soared from a 52-47 halftime deficit into a 78-69 lead. The 76ers went the final 3:26 of the third period and 52 seconds of the final quarter without a score.

Bullets win by 156-104

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore Bullets broke into a comfortable 44-28 first quarter lead and set a Civic Center scoring record with a lopsided 156-104 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers Tuesday night.

Jack Marin led the charge, getting 21 of his 25 points to spark an 84-50 halftime lead. The Bullets, 13-9, held their four game lead in the Central Division and got 24 points from Gus Johnson and 23 more from sub forward John Tresvant.

The Bullets tied a club record for most points in a game. They had scored 156 March 1, 1968 against San Diego.

Marinero can become first Ivy League rushing champ

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cornell junior Ed Marinero has a lead that's almost insurmountable as he tries to become the first major-college rushing champion from the East since 1938 and the first ever from the Ivy League.

The last major-college rushing champion from the East was Fordham's Len Eshmont. Marinero's final average in this week's rankings by National Collegiate Sports Services is 158.3 yards per game—which places him behind only San Francisco's Ollie Matson (174.0) and USC's O. J. Simpson (170.9) on the all-time list.

The 6-foot-3, 210-pound tallback from New Milford, N.J., churned for 203 yards in 47 carries Saturday as Cornell defeated Princeton, 6-3, to practically wrap up the rushing championship. Marinero rushed for 1,425 yards this year, breaking his school record of 1,409 set last year.

North Carolina senior Don McCauley, runner-up to Marinero in rushing average with 156.4 yards, gained a major-college season high of 279 yards Saturday in the Tar Heels' 59-34 victory over Duke. That gave McCauley 1,720 yards in 11 games this season, shattering Simpson's record—set in 10 games in 1968—of 1,709 yards. Boston College's Fred Willis and Cincinnati's Steve Cowan need an incredible 515 and 588 yards, respectively, to surpass

Lions, Raiders battle Thursday

DETROIT (UPI)—When the Oakland Raiders play the Detroit Lions Thanksgiving Day, it will mark the first time they've ventured on to the turf of a National Conference team.

The Raiders have played and defeated three clubs with National Football League backgrounds but all were at home. Oakland, leading the Western Division of the American Conference with a 6-2-2 record, crunched Washington 34-20 on national television in their only game with an NFC team.

The Raiders knocked off Pittsburgh, 31-14, and Cleveland, 23-20, two teams which switched from the old NFL when the two leagues merged this season. Detroit just defeated San Francisco, 28-7, and is suddenly back—in the running for a playoff berth with a 6-4 record. Los Angeles, at 6-3-1, currently has the best mark among second place teams in the AFC. The Lions had dropped three in a row after a 5-1 start and the Raiders will be the third of four consecutive games Detroit has against teams which lead their division.

Both clubs suspended their usual day off Monday to have light workouts as they cram preparations into three days. The Raiders worked out Tuesday then flew to Detroit for their final practice and a period of adjustment to the time change.

"We'd like to take a couple of hours off just to think about just what has happened in our game with the (San Diego) Chargers," Oakland Coach John Madden said, "but because we're playing the Lions on Thursday, we get about 10 minutes off."

also knew that his hand did not represent any defensive tricks at all against his opponents, but he decided to gamble that the five-heart contract could be beaten. Lou led the king of spades. This lead is against all standard practice. You are supposed to lead fourth best from a suit headed by king-nothing. Of course, Lou knew this, but he also knew that it might be important to be able to lead to the second trick from his own hand. Hence, he played the king of spades, looked over dummy, and shifted to the 10 of clubs. This gave East two club tricks and North and South headaches.

The beginner and the expert have one thing in common. They both tend to make unusual plays. The beginner makes his because he doesn't know any better, the expert because he has some sound reason.

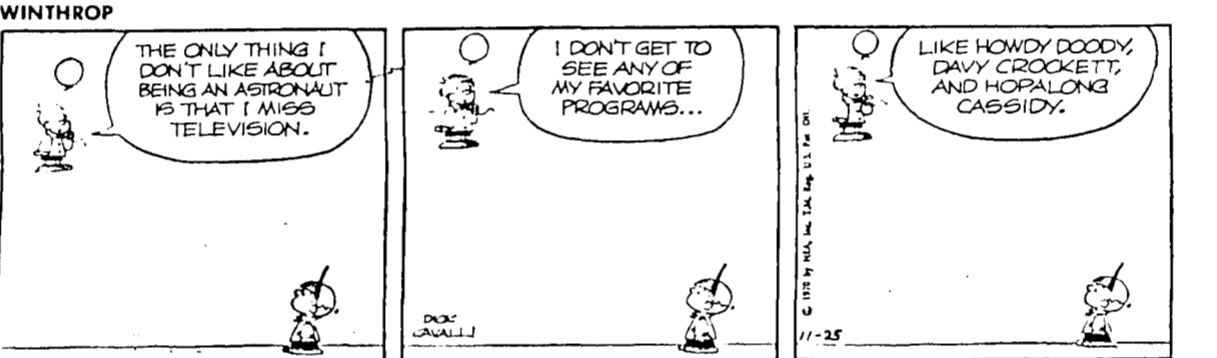

East was tempted to go to five spades over North's five-heart bid. He wasn't vulnerable and five spades wouldn't be hurt. On the other hand, East didn't expect to make five spades and he felt there was some chance to defeat five hearts. He was looking at two aces and two aces usually represent two defensive tricks.

Further more, West was Lou Mathe. Lou is one of the great players and East wanted to leave the final decision about a five-spade call to his partner. Mathe knew that five spades wouldn't make. He

A—Just bid four spades. Slam is very unlikely. If you feel that you must try for a slam, bid four diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding three spades your partner has bid one no-trump after West passes. What do you do now?

WHEN A TOP EXECUTIVE gets knocked off his job, he is apt to start horsing around. That is, with some woman. Madam Available. Probably some woman he doesn't care anything about. By "apt to," I mean it happens frequently enough to look like a pattern. The great-hearted board of directors takes a casual vote. And suddenly the old boy in the walnut suite on the top floor finds himself riding the elevator down; stiff as stone and infinitely empty, his lips white, his jaws damp, his eyes frosted. Pretty soon, if he falls into the aforementioned pattern, he'll phone that felicitous female. And like a patient consigned to hot salt bath, he thus begins the rehabilitation. Fortunately, our Love and War man says the trauma is usually temporary and the recovery swift.

OPEN QUESTION - Where in the Bible, if anywhere, does it state a "few" is "eight"?

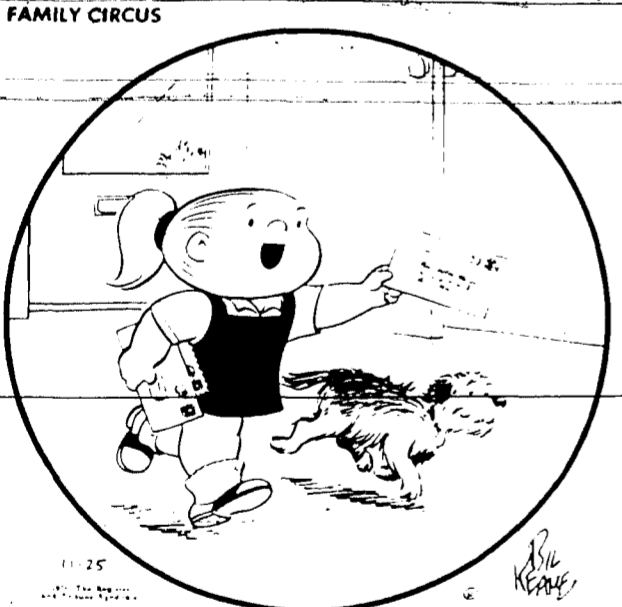

THE NO. 1 REASON dropouts quit classes is they "hate school." The No. 2 reason is they "were flunking." The No. 3 reason is they "got kicked out." Or so say the surveytakers. ALREADY TOLD YOU some auto insurance companies regard editors as bad risks. Other professionals likewise labeled by such firms include Army officers, beauticians and ministers.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "What makes some potatoes turn green?" A. Light. It produces something called solanine. If you eat enough of it, you'll go to bed with the miserables. Back during Ireland's potato famine, a lady cook who worked for a wealthy family took home several sacks of leftover potato peelings, all exceedingly green. Boiled down, they killed her husband. That was why the Society for the Prevention of Unwholesome Diet, known as SPUD, campaigned so mightily against potatoes.

A FIFTH OF the Nation's stockholders never bought any stocks, they just inherited them. ELEPHANTS get stomachaches when the temperature drops near freezing, did you know that? POLLSTERS CLAIM only one college student in five now thinks marijuana is more dangerous than liquor.

NOTE A DEPARTMENT STORE executive remarks wrathfully he doesn't know how his business can survive, what with so many shoplifters. Don't know, either. Big businesses buy up little businesses, and the population swells. To paraphrase Sir Winston, never before in history have so many swiped so much from so few. This sad practice boosts prices, costs us a lot. At any rate, the what brings to mind is the punishment for petty thievery in old Germany. Such felons were tossed into iron cages, moulted like tops in public places, and passersby were called upon to spin said cages until the prisoners got sick.

Building costs probed

BOISE (UPI)—Ada County commissioners have agreed to pay $600,000 for an office building...

In a byline story, reporter Jerry Gilliland said the building was sold as a 60-year-old apartment building...

He said the structure, now known as the Arts and Commerce Building, has been extensively remodeled since then.

Located just south of the Ada County Courthouse in the 500 block of Jefferson Street, the building was purchased earlier this month for use primarily as courtrooms.

Chairman Rulon Swensen of the Ada County commissioners said the commission hired "three disinterested persons" to appraise the building.

William Fenwick, one of the three appraisers hired by the commissioners, however, said they came up with a figure of $475,000 and not $600,000.

An appraiser for the Ada County assessors office said a three-man team from that office set the value of the building and adjacent parking lot at $325,000 in May of 1969.

"We told them (the commissioners) we felt $400,000 might be a reasonable price for the property and they might be able to afford to speculate at $450,000," the official said, asking his name not be revealed.

"Its present rental income wouldn't support more than a $325,000 or $350,000 price now. Maybe in the next three or four years you could get more rent than you do now."

Swensen said the county Board of Equalization, which is composed of the county commissioners, boosted the assessors appraisal to $437,500 last July.

He added that "We had to pay more for location because we needed it for court space." He also said he felt the county assessor's figure was under what it should have been.

Bad news . . .

HOPES FOR speedy end to inflationary spiral were dashed Tuesday when Joel Popkin, assistant commissioner for the Bureau of Labor Statistics, shown here, reported living costs jumped by six-tenths of one per cent during October. The increase was the highest since April and put consumer prices 5.9 per cent higher than this time a year ago. (UPI)

Thanksgiving thought: 'We've survived awhile'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The calendar says it is time again for national Thanksgiving.

So what's there to be thankful for? The war's still going on, prices are rising, a lot of people are out of work, the nation is sorely divided, and you can't walk the streets at night without risking a knock in the head.

But that's not the whole story. There are other things—equally true and a lot more cheerful—that can be said about our time and our society. And Thanksgiving Day is a good time to reflect on some of the good things that have happened to us.

To begin with, we're still here. Twenty-five years have gone by since men learned how to destroy entire cities with atomic bombs.

Throughout that period, pessimists have been forecasting the imminent demise of civilization. But the often-predicted holocaust has not occurred. We have survived the most perilous quarter-century in human history.

And the danger of nuclear war, though it continues to hang over the world, seems to be lessening rather than growing with each passing year.

Then there's another global disaster whose non-occurrence we should celebrate. Ten years ago, many experts on nutrition were warning that population growth was outstripping food production in the undeveloped countries at a rate that would bring about unprecedented famine, beginning in the 1970's. Well, that hasn't happened.

The world's population still is growing much too fast and desperately needs to be brought under control. But a "green revolution" by agricultural scientists has achieved almost miraculous results in raising the food output of countries such as India, and has averted, at least for a time, the mass starvation which once seemed inevitable.

Our ability to feel thankful depends on whether we look at the doughnut or the hole. We can be depressed by the knowledge that more people are smoking marijuana. Or we can take cheer from a recent report that some 13 million Americans have kicked the tobacco habit since 1966. We can be heartsick that the toll of American boys killed in Vietnam has passed the 44,000 mark. Or we can rejoice that weekly casualty figures are now only about a fourth as great as they were just a couple of years ago.

Even in the realm of politics, we can find things to celebrate this Thanksgiving Day. The recent election campaign was not conducted on a very high level by either party. Republicans appealed to the public's fears of crime and student unrest; Democrats appealed to the public's fear of an economic depression.

But the voters would not be stampeded in either direction. In state after state, they split their tickets, voting for the man rather than the label. They almost invariably chose moderates over extremists when that option was presented to them.

Pope to visit

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI will visit East Pakistan briefly Friday to express his concern for victims of a cyclone and tidal wave which killed hundreds of thousands of persons, the Vatican said Tuesday.

A one-hour stopover at a late hour was all the Pope managed to squeeze into the schedule of a previously arranged nine-day tour of Asia and the Pacific.

It will be 1:15 a.m. Friday in Dacca when the Pope's airliner touches down at the airport of the East Pakistan capital. The Vatican announcement did not say what the Pontiff would do during the stopover, but its brief duration and the time of the day seemed to rule out any inspection of the disaster area.

Judge shot five times

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI)—A city judge was critically wounded by five pistol shots Tuesday when he answered an early morning knock at his door. Police said they were studying court records to determine if he was assaulted by a disgruntled defendant. James N. Colasanto, 64, judge of Alexandria Municipal Court, was struck in the chest, arms and legs by bullets which authorities said were fired by a white man who neighbors saw flee in a late model car. No motive was determined. Investigators, however, said they were surveying Colasanto's recent cases to learn if some angry litigant might have tried to murder the judge. Colasanto is one of two municipal court judges who try traffic cases, general misdemeanors and hear civil cases involving up to $3,000.

Police said the gunman knocked at the door of the Colasanto home, situated in one of the city's better residential sections, about 7 a.m. EST. When the judge answered the door, they said, the man apparently opened fire without explanation. Colasanto's wife and 20-year-old son were in the house at the time, but did not witness the shooting. They ran downstairs and found the judge slumped to one knee on the front lawn.

'Commons' at CSI...

A "WALL OF GLASS" highlights the attractive design of the new multipurpose building at the College of Southern Idaho, known to students as the "Commons." The second floor, as seen above, will house the college library, giving a floor-to-ceiling view of the campus both to the east and west. Ground floor rooms will house administration offices, also with glass-paneled walls, and the student union and bookstore on the north end of the building.

Aviation firm advised not to use big planes, FAA says

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—A Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) official testified Monday he advised Golden Eagle Aviation Co. not to associate its name with large aircraft—such as the Martin 404 that crashed in the Colorado Rockies Oct. 2, killing 31 persons—because Golden Eagle was not licensed to operate such aircraft.

Oklahoma City regional office of the FAA, testified on the third day of a National Transportation Safety Board hearing on Golden Eagle's request for reinstatement of its air taxi license. The license was suspended following the Martin 404 crash, in which Wichita State University football players, coaches, and boosters were killed.

The Martin 404 is a 40,000-pound aircraft, and Golden Eagle was only licensed to operate commercial planes up to 12,500 pounds.

There was nothing to prohibit them from operating as pilots in aircraft they are certificated in, but they should never associate the name Golden Eagle in connection with the operation of larger aircraft," Hanson said.

Holiday vacation due CSI students

TWIN FALLS — Classes will be dismissed Thursday and Friday at the College of Southern Idaho for the Thanksgiving vacation.

Activities on the college campus this week include the Magic Valley Civic Symphony concert Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Fine Arts Auditorium, featuring pianist Lowell Farr, and Saturday evening's Junior Miss Pageant, scheduled to start at 6 p. m. in the auditorium.

semester starts Jan. 11, 1971. The government has been trying to show that Golden Eagle and Aero Data Link were in fact identical, and that Aero Data Link existed only on paper.

Pinger testified he conducted his business out of the Oklahoma City offices of Golden Eagle. He also said he signed blank checks and blank contracts in the name of Aero Data Link and then turned them over to Golden Eagle officials.

Yule mailing deadlines near for parcels going distance

TWIN FALLS — It's that time again—though Thanksgiving is just around the corner, Christmas mailing deadlines are fast approaching.

Tuesday — is the recommended mailing deadline for Christmas parcels going to distant states in the east or south.

Center slates second program

TWIN FALLS — The problem of caring for handicapped children has been recognized by the Twin Falls Child Development Center not only in its continuing program of training, but also in a training program for volunteers who wish to work with youngsters on a part-time basis.

Referring to the national "Try to Remember" musical theme on holiday mailings, Libert said postal patrons should "try to remember" that early mailing of holiday cards and packages would help insure good postal service to all during the post office rush season.

Libert said other recommended deadlines include Dec. 10, for yuletide cards going east and south; Dec. 11 for parcels for nearby areas, and Dec. 15 for Christmas cards for nearby areas.

DOWNTOWN AND LYNWOOD

Mercury Comet adds more to the car. Dart and Valiant add more to the price.

Mercury Comet, the better small car, found seven important ways to make a better 4-door than the higher-priced Dart or Valiant.

- 1. Little luxuries that mean a lot.
When we sell you a Mercury Comet we don't charge you extra to put in all the finishing touches. Comet gives you:
Thick carpeting. Rich cloth-and-vinyl upholstery. Foam-padded front seats. Bright wheel lip moldings. Lighted front ashtray. Deluxe steering wheel.
Things Dart and Valiant charge extra for.
- 2. More roominess where it counts most.
Anybody who buys a 4-door car obviously cares about people riding in the back. So does Comet.
A full 36.0 inches of rear leg room when the front seat is all the way back. That's more than you'll find in either Dart or Valiant.
More, in fact, than in much larger 4-door sedans like Buick Skylark, Olds Cutlass and Pontiac LeMans.
Of course, we haven't forgotten about the front seat passengers. The Comet 4-door has as much front headroom as a Chrysler Imperial 4-door hardtop.
- 3. Comet 4-door is priced $174 less than Dart. $116 less than Valiant. $2276* is the base price for a Comet 4-door. That's with the standard 170 cu. in. "6".
Equip Comet with the 200 cu. in. "6" (larger than Dart's or Valiant's standard) and it's still less.
- 4. Move up to America's lowest-priced V-8's.
This Comet with the 302 cu. in. V-8 turns out to be the lowest-priced 4-door V-8 in America.
Comet is also the lowest-priced 2-door V-8.
And some V-8 it is. Gets you quickly up to turnpike speeds. Even lets you haul a fair size trailer.
- 5. The more options you order, the better the comparison. In a V-8, Comet puts in a 3-speed automatic transmission (the same kind you get in the big Mercury Monterey) for less than Dart or Valiant.
Vinyl roof is less. Power steering is less. AM radio is less. Deluxe wheel covers and whitewalls are less on Comet. It all adds up.
- 6. Genuine small-car economy.
Comet's economical engine and light weight (194 and 259 pounds less than Valiant and Dart) make for great gas mileage.
About 22 miles on a gallon.
According to our tests under simulated city-suburban conditions.
- 7. Simple servicing reduces maintenance costs. Comet is such a simple, easy-to-fix machine, there are 53 jobs you could easily do yourself. We even offer a Do-It-Yourself Manual.
Dart and Valiant don't.
It takes better ideas to make better cars. Mercury makes better cars—to buy, rent or lease.
A better idea for safety: Buckle up!

Mercury. Better ideas make better cars.
