Nixon fires Hickel, taps Rogers Morton

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon fired Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel Wednesday night because of a lack of "mutual confidence" and announced he would nominate Republican National Chairman Rogers C.B. Morton as his successor.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Hickel was summoned to the White House where Nixon "requested the resignation and accepted it" immediately during a 25-minute meeting.

Ziegler gave no specific presidential complaints about Hickel, but the plain-spoken, self-made millionaire from Alaska has been in hot water with the White House since he sided publicly with protesting college students following the U.S. intervention in Cambodia last May.

Hickel had said previously that the only way he would leave the cabinet would be for Nixon to fire him. The White House announcement came less than 24 hours after Hickel said on a CBS television interview: "If I go away, I'm going away with an arrow in my heart and not a bullet in my back."

Morton, 56, Hickel's proposed successor, is a four-term Republican Congressman from Maryland's Eastern Shore who was Nixon's floor manager during the 1968 Republican National Convention in Miami Beach. He succeeded Ray Bliss as GOP National Chairman when Nixon took office.

There was general agreement on Capitol Hill that Morton's nomination would be easily approved by the Senate. He is widely liked by both Democrats and Republicans.

Morton had been reported unhappy in recent months over his lack of political pull at the White House, where Murray Chotiner, an oldtime Nixon political strategist, played an important role in the recent mid-term election campaign.

Morton, too, is said to have expressed interest in the Interior Department—a position for which he was considered when Nixon made his original appointments.

Snowmobile curbs begin

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — The U. S. Forest Service announced Wednesday Magic Mountain Ski area will be closed to snow machines this winter.

And Twin Falls County officials announced Wednesday a crackdown on illegal use of the machines in the South Hills area.

Robert Hoag, recreation staff officer for the Sawtooth National Forest, said an order has been received giving Forest Supervisor Ed Fournier authority to post a closure at the Magic Mountain Ski Area.

The prohibition, Hoag said, will be placed in effect for the remainder of this season to prohibit machines from operating on areas designated for skiing and in areas surrounding the resort.

Enforcement of the closure will be enforced by forest service officials, he said.

Sheriff Paul Corder and county Commission Chairman Heber Loughmiller said beginning Thanksgiving Day one deputy will be stationed in the South Hills area to enforce existing state laws governing snow machine operation.

A second deputy will be stationed in the area on weekends, Corder said.

Corder said many complaints had been received that the machines are being operated on the Rock Creek Canyon road and that many machines were not licensed.

Corder said citations will be issued to any operator not complying with the laws.

Corder appealed to snow machine operators to comply and encourage fellow operators to comply.

He said increasing use of snow machines in many areas has caused problems that are growing out of control.

Corder said state law requires all machines be licensed annually by Nov. 1. New machines must be licensed within 15 days of purchase.

He said use of the machines is prohibited on public roadways unless the roadways are closed to vehicular traffic.

He said machine operators are responsible for damage to trees shrubbery or other property. He said cattlemen have reported fences cut by careless snowmachine operators. In addition, he said, summer-home burglaries have been committed using the machines.

Snow machine violations are misdemeanors, Corder said, punishable by fines up to $100 and/or jail sentences of up to 90 days.

Aspirin most effective

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Medical experts have indicated that plain old aspirin is still a better buy than the millions of dollars' worth of fancy remedies sold yearly to relieve aches, pains and common colds.

Over and over in detailed testimony before a Senate subcommittee this week, the message was the same: No matter how it is dressed up, inexpensive aspirin is the most effective ingredient in costly over-the-counter medicines.

And, half a dozen doctors testified, sometimes it is the only ingredient that works at all.

Witnesses indicated that aspirin—the yardstick against which similar pain-killers are judged—is about the best mild analgesic available for home and hospital use.

They also testified that popular antihistamine cold tablets do nothing to cure colds at all—that it's the decongestants and aspirin added to them that dry up runny noses and ease aching heads.

"Carefully performed and fully controlled studies show that antihistamines (alone) neither shorten the duration or reduce the severity of the common cold," said Dr. Philip A. Norman, associate professor of medicine at Johns Hopkins University.

As for aspirin, Dr. William T. Beaver of Georgetown University in Washington indicated it works just as well as buffered and APC compounds available over the counter and, in standard doses, as well as codeine and similar prescription pain-killers.

Nixon vows POW relief

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has promised to do everything possible diplomatically "and in other ways" to free American prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

Nixon's statement came Wednesday as he decorated four members of the commando team that raided the Son Tay prison camp last weekend in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue prisoners.

Administration spokesmen also spent much of the day Wednesday answering the questions of congressmen about the raid. Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., blocked a Senate resolution praising the commandos because he said it might be construed as Senate approval of Nixon's war policies.

In a White House ceremony, attended by several wives of American prisoners, Nixon praised the commandos for their "incomparable efficiency and bravery."

"There was a mission of mercy—a chance to rescue some fellow Americans being held under barbaric conditions in North Vietnam," he said.

Although the camp had already been evacuated, Nixon said the rescue raid was "a message that the prisoners of war have not been forgotten and we will do everything we can at the diplomatic table and in other ways to bring them home."

Air Force Brig. Gen. Leroy J. Manor of Morrisville, N.Y., commander of the overall operation, was given the Distinguished Service Medal. Army Col. Arthur D. Simons, the guerrilla warfare expert from New York who led the actual landing, and Army Sgt. 1 C. Tyrone J. Adderly of Philadelphia received the Distinguished Service Cross. T. Sgt. Leroy M. Wright of Little Falls, Minn., received the Air Force Cross.

Skeleton hints lost continent

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI)—A well preserved skeleton of a cynodont believed to be 200 million years old has been found 350 miles from the south pole by U.S. antarctic program scientists, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The 10-inch long skeleton, found Nov. 10 by a member of the Institute of Polar Studies of Ohio State University, was considered an important link in scientists' efforts to prove the existence of a lost supercontinent.

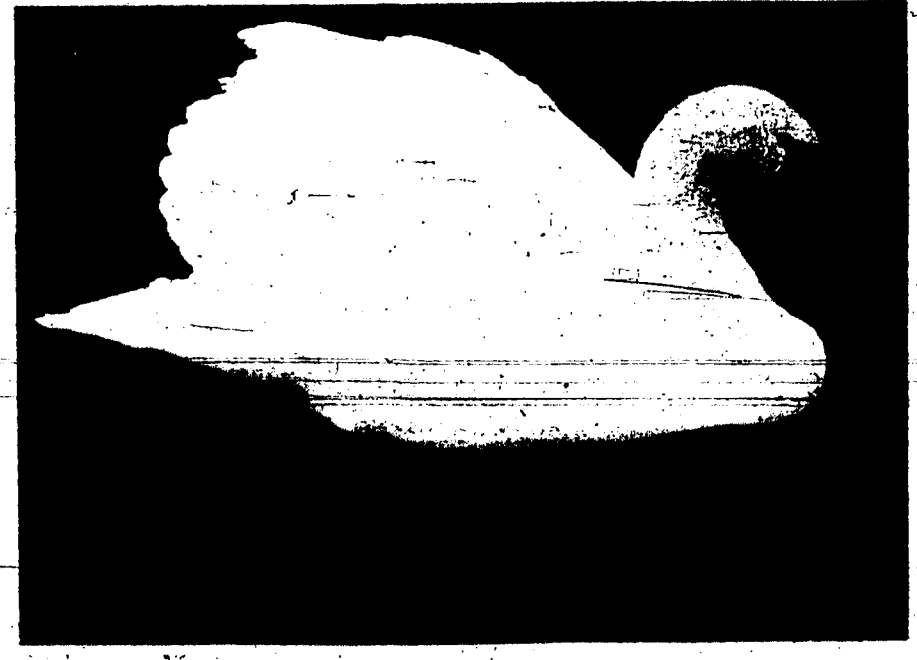

Cynodonts were four-legged carnivorous reptiles with dog-like teeth. They ranged in size from a litter larger than a rat to about the size of a wolf.

Dr. David H. Elliot, leader of a team of paleontologists and geologists of the institute, said the team has found various bones and fossils which could help scientists establish the existence of Gendwanaland.

Mrs. Nixon heads relief

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today announced formation of a Pakistan relief committee to funnel voluntary contributions to the victims of the Nov. 13 cyclone in East Pakistan.

Mrs. Nixon will serve as honorary chairman of the group, which will be headed by Robert M. Murphy, chairman of Corning Glass International.

Fowl weather...

UNRUFFLED to all outward appearances by a three-day spell of rain is this swan, gliding across the drizzle-dampened surface of a pond at Sunset Memorial Park. Rainfall Wednesday totaled .83 of an inch, boosting November's total to 1.86 inches.

Nixon to cut excises

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration has struck a deal with the auto and telephone industries to allow a slow death for excise taxes—but House taxwriters are betting it will stick.

A high Treasury official said the administration agreed to ask for no further extensions of excise taxes if Congress approves a slow, rather than fast, phaseout of the taxes.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved the plan for a phaseout by 1982 after voting Wednesday to continue the existing 10-per cent telephone and 7 per cent sales taxes, paid by consumers, for another two years. Without congressional action, the present schedule calls for a reduction of both taxes to 5 per cent Jan. 1.

Reds deny POW deaths

PARIS (UPI)—A North Vietnamese spokesman denied today that 17 U.S. servicemen had died of ill treatment in North Vietnam's prisoner of war camps as charged by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Nguyen Thanh Le, the spokesman for Hanoi's delegation to the Vietnam peace talks, added that even after the recent U.S. bombing raids North Vietnam will continue to treat U.S. captives well.

"We have always practiced a policy of humanitarian treatment," Le told a news conference. "Some pilots have died in their cockpits after being hit by anti-aircraft fire, from wounds suffered in their planes or when their parachutes failed to open."

He said that other pilots not seriously hurt have recovered "thanks to our good medical treatment."

Le indicated that Hanoi was not prepared to confirm Laird's statement that U.S. commandos landed by helicopter on North Vietnamese soil on Nov. 21 in a vain attempt to rescue American prisoners.

Le refused to discuss the raid during the one-hour conference, repeating over and over "we have always rejected and unmasked all allegations by Mr. Laird."

Le limited himself to charges that the U.S. bombing raids on Nov. 21 and 22 killed 49 North Vietnamese and wounded 40 others.

The North Vietnamese spokesman sidestepped other questions, saying that all details on the U.S. raids were contained in official Hanoi statements.

North Vietnamese radio monitored in Saigon claimed again that a "number" of captured American pilots were wounded in last weekend's raid. The broadcasts revived speculation that the 40-man commando team that landed in the Son Tay POW compound may have missed cells where the Americans were being held by several hundred yards or less.

Spokesmen in Saigon refused to comment on the broadcast in keeping with normal U.S. policy.

Police raid Panthers

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Police crept into the New Orleans Black Panther headquarters early today, wounded a woman occupant in a short exchange of gunfire and made six arrests.

The surprise raid came only hours after local Panther leader Harold Holmes and 24 companions who had commandeered a housing project Oct. 15 in defiance of city officials were arrested at a road block.

Police said actress Jane Fonda unwittingly helped them make the earlier arrests because she supplied the militants with four rental cars so they could attend a Washington, D.C., convention. She rented the cars during her Tuesday visit to New Orleans, and thereby tipped off police about the trip.

At 1:30 a.m. CST today Police Chief Clarence Giarrusso led a dozen officers on what a police spokesman called a "highly secretive" raid of the headquarters.

They were met by a woman who, they said, fired a shot over their heads. A policeman returned the fire and wounded the woman, not seriously. She was able to walk into Charity Hospital.

Giarrusso, after the Wednesday arrests of Holmes and 24 others, said as far as he knew all the Panthers had withdrawn from the Desire Housing Project. "Apparently it's solved," he said. "As far as I'm concerned it is."

Still on job . . .

HUD SECRETARY George Romney said in a news conference he intends to stay in President Nixon's Cabinet and has no indication the President wants him to leave or switch jobs. In response to questions about reports he might be replaced as head of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Romney said he had "the distinct understanding the President has no desire to see me leave the government or cabinet." (UPI)

Morton vows U.S. cleanup

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rogers C.B. Morton, the man picked by President Nixon to take up at the Interior Department where Walter Hickel abruptly left off, says his mission will be to mobilize Americans in a push for a cleaner environment.

Morton, who will leave his present job as Republican national chairman and congressman from Maryland, greeted his new job with unabashed enthusiasm. It was known for some time that he longed for the appointment.

Morton made it clear in a statement issued through the Republican National Committee that his prime concern would be "cleaning up our environment and protecting our great natural resources." But he gave no hint initially on one key point: will he continue Hickel's get-tough policy with industrial polluters, particularly oil companies, some of which have been the object of court suits initiated by Hickel.

There were hints by some congressmen that Hickel's downfall came partly because he stepped on the toes of the oil men.

But Morton made a point in his prepared statement of praising Hickel who he described as "capable," for "giving a new dimension to solving problems facing this country."

Morton never has been known publicly as a leader in the fight for a cleaner environment, but in some quiet ways he has given an indication of his concern.

Described as an avid outdoorsman, he has traveled through much of the American West on camping trips. He was a member of the House Interior Committee for his first three terms as a congressman.

As a member of that committee, he specialized in the problems of U.S. trust territories and in better management systems for natural resources.

Morton is a popular man among his colleagues in Congress. There is little doubt he will be confirmed by the Senate, although he is expected to undergo sharp questioning about his connection with two major firms—Pillsbury Inc. and Atlas Chemical Co., one of the largest producers of explosives in the nation. He is a member of the board of directors of both companies.

Auto catches on fire

JEROME — An Oregon couple's car caught fire Thursday morning just west of the U.S. Highway 93-Interstate 80N junction in Jerome County, Idaho State Police said.

Officers said the car, driven by Duane Hanson ran out of gas about 6:30 a.m. When Hanson attempted to start the car the engine became flooded and caught fire.

A Jerome fire truck responded to the blaze, officers said, and after the fire was extinguished the car was towed to Jerome. Officers said Mr. and Mrs. Hanson apparently were moving, since their vehicle was towing a rental trailer.

Searchers seek plane wreckage

PARIS, Idaho (UPI)—Searchers left at daybreak today to comb the rugged mountains of Southeast Idaho for the wreckage of a light plane believed to be carrying four Californians.

The apparent crash was noticed Wednesday morning by two deer hunters five miles west of St. Charles, Idaho, according to Bear Lake County Sheriff O.E. Monson.

The hunters—Paul Long of San Leandro, Calif., and Dale Brown of Vallejo, Calif.—told authorities they heard a noise that sounded like a plane crashing and then saw billowing smoke rising from the trees.

A light aircraft, affiliated with the Industrial Leasing Corp., Fresno, Calif., is thought to be the one that crashed, Monson said. It was enroute from Salt Lake City to Billings, Mont., by way of Jackson, Wyo., but it had not arrived at its destination by the expected time of 11:33 a.m.

Believed in the missing plane were the pilot, Howard Williams of Fresno, his wife and son, and a female passenger named Joan, last name unknown.

However, Monson said it has not been officially determined that the downed craft is the one carrying the Williams party. Their plane had left Fresno Tuesday.

Searchers were unable to get to the scene by late Wednesday afternoon, and authorities decided to wait until this morning before resuming the trek.

Germ agents 'stockpiled'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One year after President Nixon renounced use of biological weapons, the United States still is stockpiling lethal germ warfare agents with a "business as usual attitude," Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, D-N.Y., said Wednesday.

"I am fully aware that the wheels of government turn slowly, but a year is long enough for the military to begin destroying these living horrors," said McCarthy, who led protests last year against U.S. development of chemical and biological weapons.

"No steps have been taken to eliminate the vast stockpiles of toxins and agents which cause tularemia, Q fever, anthrax and Venezuelan encephalitis which continue to be stored at Pine Bluff, Ark.," he told the House.

In renouncing germ warfare, even in retaliation for an enemy attack, Nixon ordered the Defense Department Nov. 25, 1969, to destroy all stockpiles of biological weapons. The Pentagon said later that the job might take as long as a year.

Prisoner killed in gunbattle

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—Benjamin Walker, 30, of Cleveland, one of seven prisoners escaped from a Cleveland jail, was shot to death today in a gunbattle between police and four men in the city's east side.

Police said David Donaldson, 18, of Cleveland, also one of the seven was wounded but escaped capture.

Police arrested the two other men, identified as Eugene Brooks and Leo Clayton, members of a Cleveland Black Panther group. They were charged with shooting with intent to kill.

Reds seize power unit

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—The Cambodian command said today North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces had seized a Yugoslav-built power station at Kirirom dam on embattled Highway 4 linking Phnom Penh to the sea.
 Communiques from Saigon said two Americans were wounded and a third missing in the shooting down of an Army OH6light observation helicopter near Hue, 390 miles north-northeast of Saigon.
 The Cambodian command said the captured power station was 60 miles south-southwest of Phnom Penh but that it would not affect the capital's power supply. It was seized Wednesday.

"The station used to supply Phnom Penh but the wire pylons (towers) have been down for about two months and the power stations in Phnom Penh can provide sufficient electricity for the city," said Col. Am Rong, the Cambodian official military spokesman.
 The power station was built several years ago through aid from Yugoslavia and erected by technicians sent by the government of President Tito.
 Am Rong also reported Communist attacks early Wednesday against Cambodian forces at Takeo and Srang, south and southeast of Phnom Penh.

That Manpower Bill Is A Sleeper

WASHINGTON — That multi-billion dollar federal manpower-training and job creating bill passed overwhelmingly by the House is a "sleeper" that was hastily put together late at night by a few legislators, and no one really knows the exact contents of the 72-page measure.

Says Mrs. Green, a 16-year congressional veteran and forthright liberal and labor supporter: "Few of us are really familiar with the bill's provisions, and those of us who are still cannot honestly testify as to what exactly it will do. The bill is a 'sleeper.' It is the work of a small group of congressmen, Labor Department officials and committee staffers who literally put it together in the middle of the night and finished at 3:30 in the morning. "There are parts and pieces and bits of six or seven manpower-training programs put in this 72-page bill. No one except the two or three members who worked on the bill had an opportunity even to read it to find out what was in it. Yet the measure calls for the expenditure of billions of dollars and will affect the lives of millions of people." The bill as passed by the House, 275 to 80 in rejecting a motion to recommit it, calls for an expenditure of $7.5 billion over a three-year period to train workers and create "public service" jobs for hard-core unemployed. Last summer, the Senate approved legislation for the same purposes, but with a $11.2 billion price tag. These varying bills are now in conference between the two chambers. They are virtually certain to bring out legislation acceptable to both with a likely compromise figure of around $9 billion.

programs and 34 auxiliary services, with widespread duplication and overlapping. Of the programs administered by the Labor Department this year, we are spending $2.5 billion and doing that at a time of high unemployment. "So it is obvious that reform and reorganization are vitally needed. But this bill doesn't do it. Although decreasing the number of authorities which deliver manpower programs, it increases duplication of services and thus further adds to the frustration of individuals seeking help."

A Time For It

Contrary to popular American belief, Thanksgiving is neither strictly nor originally American.

Festivals of gratitude for the harvest are the custom in much of the world today, and as far as man's study of himself has been able to burrow into the past there are evidences of similar observances. Thanksgiving is, in fact, something of a common denominator of successive and varied human cultures, a universal recognition of man as a part of and dependent upon nature.

For our western civilization, as with so much else, the tradition goes back to the Greeks, who annually celebrated a nine-day festival in honor of Demeter, goddess of agriculture. And then, as now, eating well was the order of the day. From Greece, as was the usual route, the practice spread to Rome and thence down through the medieval centuries, in various forms, to our own day.

Even in this country, there is more to the story than the familiar Pilgrims-and-Indians version. It was not only in New England that colonists gave thanks. In Virginia, for example, they say a harvest celebration occurred a year preceding the celebrated Massachusetts feast of 1621.

But if the history of this occasion is considerably more ancient, and complicated than our usual version of it, the observance has come to have a very special American meaning within the context of our own history and development as a people.

This goes back to the very beginnings of these shores. Much more than routine expressions of public gratitude for harvest bounty, the first Thanksgivings — American style — were victory celebrations, respites in what were in truth life-and-death struggles with a new and harsh environment.

They were testimonials to the ability of men of purpose to survive in the face of immense odds and demonstrations of the community as well as strength in diversity of the new nation to be.

Thanksgiving was rather casually observed through the early years of the Republic until Abraham Lincoln "nationalized" it during the dark days of the Civil War to meet a new need for a sense of national community and purpose.

In the more than a century since, this uniquely American significance has broadened and deepened until today Thanksgiving stands as the most American of holidays, a testimonial to all that is best in the American past and a reaffirmation of the American purpose.

A two-color ad in Aviation Week & Space technology magazine announces the introduction of the "TU-154, the flexible tri-jet airliner of the 1970's, ready for worldwide export."

The ad continues: "Whether it carried 160 or 60 passengers, whether it flies 3,300 or 300 miles, the TU-154 keeps airlines profitable."

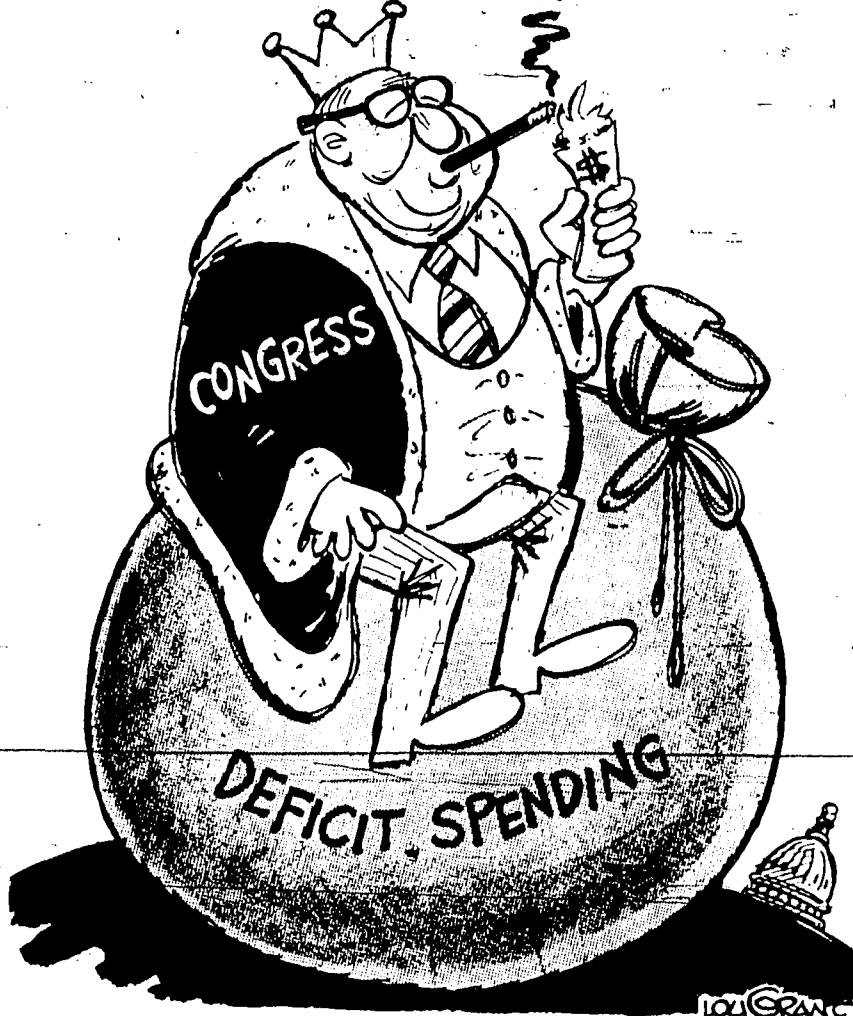

And at the bottom: "For more detailed information, please apply to V-O AVIAEXPORT, 22-34 Smolenskaya-Sennaya Sq., Moscow, U.S.S.R."

What's this? The Soviets advertising in a decadent Western journal? Appealing to the profit motive?

A certain Mr. Khrushchev once said that communism would bury us (economically speaking). Evidently his successors are not above trying to do it with our own capitalistic shovels.

Praise Robt. Nix

WASHINGTON — Rep. Robert Nix, D-Pa., deserves a salute or at least an approving nod for his approach to the current controversy over a White House commission's report saying that pornography is good for what ails the average grownup. It is Nix's position that the commission majority is putting on airs by implying that its study is the only scientific evidence dealing with obscenity. Therefore, as chairman of a House subcommittee on Postal Operations, Nix is putting together a record composed of the views of an assortment of psychiatrists and sociologists who disagree with the commission's findings.

Those findings, which the White House has repudiated, urge the repeal of obscenity laws applying to consenting adults, while placing new limits on the sales of dirty stuff to young people. I found particularly pertinent the testimony of one of the subcommittee's first witnesses, Dr. Natalie Shainess, a psychiatrist who lectures at the Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York. She put an unerring finger on a point that has mostly been ignored by the various instant experts of the culture racket, to wit, that big money is involved in the issue.

Dr. Shainess came out against "polluting... the environment of the mind (by) yielding to essentially psychopathic business interests, who have much at stake." She was reminding us that the most vigorous lobbyists for legalizing the peddling of smut, and thus making it respectable, are those in the amusement and publishing fields who would lose their dirty shirts if they were forced to go underground.

Indeed, psychopathic seems a bland euphemism for those sleazy creeps who have discovered the profit in filth. A psychopath is defined as a person who is mentally ill or unstable. I have no doubt that those toiling in the overripe vineyards of pornography are mentally ill, but they are also just as criminal as the bum that robs, rapes and kills.

Criminals have a curious code by which the common lawbreaker is constrained to look down on kidnaping as the lowest of crimes, perpetrated by vicious jerks who have slipped beyond the underworld's pale. Since smut eventually is aimed at converting young people, despite all the boobish drivel about providing peepholes only for adults, I offer a resolution creating a new criminal law for those who make a living at this trade. I suspect no self-respecting safe cracker would be caught dead in the company of such human sewers.

A new book by a former attorney general seeks to discredit FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Well, people have been sticking pins in Hoover for as long as I can remember, and none has yet drawn blood. Why do they try?

When Ramsay Clark was attorney general for a couple of years, technically he was Hoover's "superior." He could not shove Hoover around; nobody could. So now Clark has written a book accusing the director of "self-centered concern for his own reputation," as if that were bad!

The book purports to "reveal" that there was conflict between Hoover and former Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

Lightweight Ramsay Clark should fight in his own class. I guess he knows that now. Instead of temporizing or denying the book's allegations of "conflict," Director Hoover affirms that there most certainly was "conflict" between himself and those others.

Sparing the deceased a recapitulation of some of Kennedy's conduct while in that office, the director relates only professional differences. For example, Kennedy wanted to lower FBI employment standards in order to bring in more Negro agents. Hoover refused.

"I told him, 'Bobby, I have no prejudices. The FBI has Negro agents, Indian agents, Chinese agents — all kinds of agents. Anyone who can meet the qualifications can have a job. But I will not lower those qualifications.'" And he didn't.

As for Clark, Hoover says, "He was the worst of all the attorneys general I have seen... a jellyfish... a softy... likely to flip-flop on any issue."

seeking a national following which might propel him to national political prominence in 1972, he should never have gone lion hunting with a peashooter.

About his charge that Director Hoover is concerned "for his own reputation": YOU BET HE IS!

Forsaking all others, the FBI is his religion, his wife, his life. When Hoover took over as director 45 years ago, the FBI was a crummy conglomeration of political rejects. Within three years, he cleaned out the quisits and established the standards which have become tradition.

In all those years, no taint of scandal has touched the FBI. No FBI agent ever used threats or violence to get a confession. None ever misbehaved on duty and the few whose conduct off duty was unbecoming were summarily dismissed.

Clark's accusation is not new. Three generations of liberals have accused Hoover of being a "dictator."

If by that they mean he runs the FBI with an uncompromising hand — he sure does. Be glad he does.

Despite the sensitive nature of his files — which include something about almost everybody, which could be used for diabolical blackmail or nefarious political purpose — Director Hoover has preserved the sanctity of those files against generations of the worst bad people the world has been able to produce.

There were times when Hoover stood, almost alone, between them and us.

J. Edgar Hoover will continue to be feared by the Panthers on the left and the Klan on the right — and the overall underworld — and by lightweights who will always be outclassed as long as he is around.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Why Marry?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 24, became engaged to a lovely girl, 20. I had never met her, and we traveled there for the engagement party.

The girl was just wonderful to us — but the day of the party I didn't see her at all. (We had stayed at her home at her father's insistence.)

She locked herself in her room all day, not even leaving it to eat. I tried to talk to her and she said she just wanted to be alone.

I mentioned this depression to her father who said she had been depressed since her mother's death some months before, and that she is under a doctor's care for a breakdown she had three years earlier. The father said she had schizophrenia.

The same night, in front of all the guests, she said she had decided against the engagement but that she loves my son dearly.

I asked my son to forget about her immediately, but he insists he loves her and she was just upset with all the excitement.

The following week she decided she wanted to be married immediately, and they had taken out a license and had blood tests. Now she doesn't see him at all and said she doesn't intend to get married and leave her home and family.

The last time my son called me, he said she would change her mind again and they would be married before the license expires. Please send me all the literature you have on schizophrenia. —Mrs. G.R.

You'd have quite a freight bill if I sent you the section of my library on mental illness. But please don't take this as a facetious remark, for your son has a serious problem.

When the girl has had a "breakdown," and is still under a doctor's care (a psychiatrist, no doubt) for three years, she's more than "just upset with all the excitement."

I have much respect for the girl's father, since he told you frankly that his daughter has schizophrenia. I suspect that he insisted that you stay at his house on purpose — so you and your son would see what the situation is. It must have been a hard choice for him to make. He must be a man of sensitive integrity.

The fact is that schizophrenia is one of the most difficult of emotional, or shall we say mental, illnesses to treat.

Schizophrenics can be lovely people, can be highly intelligent, but they are struggling with emotional problems that are most baffling, to themselves as well as to others.

I might quarrel with the suggestion that your son "forget her immediately." She's obviously a nice person. But there's a difference between remaining friends with a person and marrying.

There are people — many of them — who are referred to technically by the term, "a walking schiz." That is, schizophrenic, but able to get along if protected from emotional pressure.

These people, like anyone else, want friendship and understanding. (So, in this case, does her father, I dare say.)

It might be unkind for your son just to walk out of her life, but in the longer view, it might be even more unkind to her if your son married her in a moment when she was willing. Marrying — and leaving home — might be more pressure than she could tolerate.

Spring Is Coming

Hope springs eternal in the human breast. And that's just about all that keeps us going through these winters.

We know, of course, that thousands of people like to ski and to ice skate and to ride snowmobiles. But we don't. So it comes to be a day by day deal in which, as we go to bed, we tell ourselves that we're one day closer to spring!

We hope this doesn't make everyone angry with us but that's the way we feel about it and, like has been said, you can't cheat an honest man. Se we are honest! See you next spring!

A BIG THANKS

We received a letter from a Werner Berge the other day. He is pastor of the Boulevard Baptist Church at 1061 Boulevard in West Hartford, Conn. Seems as though he was out this way years ago and connected with Sun Valley when it was a naval hospital. He was a staffer — because he points out that Twin Falls was one of the places he and many other fellows would visit on week-ends off.

But let's pass his entire letter on to you to read:

"Twenty-five years ago I was one of many others that visited Twin Falls on our week-ends off from duty at Sun Valley, which was a naval hospital at the time. At this Thanksgiving season as I pause to reflect upon God's goodness to me through the years I am mindful of the kindness and generous hospitality which was showered upon me by the people of the City of Twin Falls.

"I am especially thankful to the people of the First Baptist Church and their open hearts and open homes. In particular, the late Tom Roberts, Sr., and his wife, presently Mrs. Ivan Waring who opened their home and were so generous and kind.

"Their warm friendship and delicious dinners, not only for myself but for five other sailors, will never be forgotten.

"Although 25 years has quickly slipped by, the wonderful memories of all the kind expressions of love is fresh and precious today and will remain so for the rest of my life. May the Lord richly bless you all."

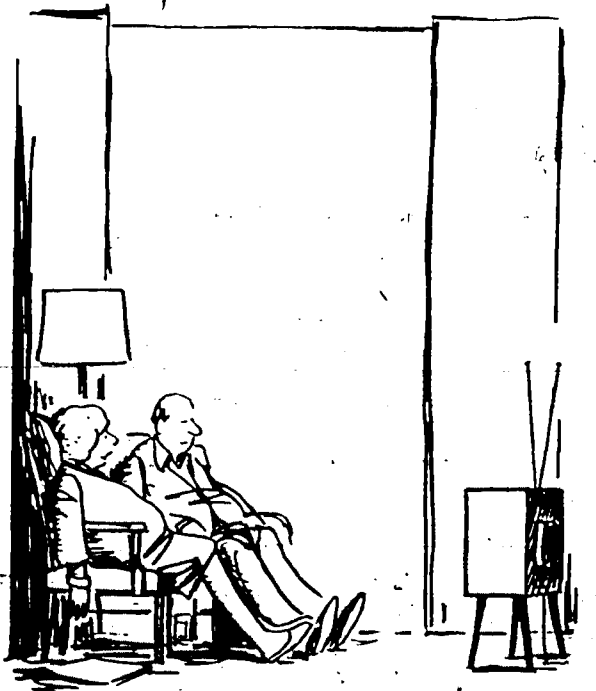

HELP NEEDED

Received a note from Jean Price at 733-3847 saying that the war in Vietnam is producing a new generation of veterans needing our support. She says one of the best ways of giving that support is by joining the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. If your son, husband, brother, father or grandfather is an honorably discharged campaign medal service veteran, you are probably eligible to join. So why not give her a call?

While we feast, 500 will starve

News Of Record

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

During the time you'll be at table today, eating your Thanksgiving dinner, about 500 human beings will die of starvation.

Their deaths won't be due to any sudden onset of famine. The World Health Organization reports that people are dying of malnutrition at that rate every hour of every day of every week of the year.

Few people would admit, even to themselves, that they are indifferent to the suffering of others. Yet most of us achieve a large degree of complacency about world hunger—for the simple reason that we really can't quite conceive what it's like to starve.

We may have learned from reducing diets or religious fasts a little about the physical and psychological distress that accompanies unsatisfied hunger. But to be hungry voluntarily for a short time is one thing. To be condemned to perpetual, unrelieved hunger is an altogether different type of experience, with which we who are well fed (or overfed) cannot identify, even in imagination.

"It takes weeks, months, not only hours or days, to realize what kind of merciless consuming—killer—hunger is," says Antonio Rogolino, a writer who learned about starvation first hand, as a street urchin in Sicily during World War II.

Writing in the weekly Catholic magazine Our Sunday Visitor, Rogolino points out that the gradual emaciation of a starving body is accompanied by a psychological breakdown.

"The starving person will be easily disturbed by noises and petty irritations. He will be indifferent to the troubles of others and become quarrelsome, very often violent."

"In the last stages of starvation, mothers may steal food from their babies; fathers from their growing sons. Murder is easily committed even by good people. Man becomes a dreadful animal whose lower instincts are unleashed in an attempt to survive."

It is, literally, a hell of a way to die.

So what can you as one individual do about it?

You can remember that "It's better to light one candle than to curse the darkness." You cannot solve the whole problem of world hunger, but you can unlimber your check-writing hand right now and send a hefty Thanksgiving contribution to CARE, Inc., 660 First Avenue, New York, N.Y., 10016.

CARE has been shipping food to hungry people in other countries for 25 years. It has never been touched by any breath of scandal. It will use your money wisely and efficiently. Through mass purchases of low-cost, high-nutrition foods, and by relying heavily on the foods available free from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's hoard of surplus farm commodities, CARE manages to deliver $5.77 worth of help for every dollar you contribute.

CARE isn't the only channel through which you can help to feed the hungry. There are several estimable relief organizations operated by religious bodies—Church World Service, Catholic Relief Services, Lutheran World Relief, and others. Any one of them will be happy to help you invite a few unseen guests to your Thanksgiving dinner.

The purple sea urchin, found in great numbers along the Oregon coast, is the preferred research specimen for marine biologists.

My Lai testimony requested

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A group of congressmen urged Wednesday that secret congressional testimony concerning the alleged My Lai massacre be turned over to the Ft. Benning military tribunal hearing the court-martial of 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr.

The recommendation by 17 House Democrats was in keeping with the aims of the trial judge, Col. Red W. Kennedy, who vastly widened the scope of the trial last week by ruling "the entire transaction at My Lai has got to be disclosed in these proceedings."

Calley's two weeks old court-martial recessed for a long Thanksgiving holiday Tuesday after hearing 21 prosecution witnesses. Only one witness to date has placed Calley in My Lai on March 16, 1968—the day he is accused of killing, or ordering killed, 102 South Vietnamese civilians—and none of the witnesses has directly linked Calley with the alleged slaughter.

Rep. F. Edward Herbert, D-La., chairman of a special House Armed Services special subcommittee that conducted a close door investigation into the alleged massacre last July, has steadfastly refused to release a transcript of the hearings. He has contended that to do so would be a breach of faith with those who felt they were testifying in secret, and would perhaps sap the effectiveness of such hearings in the future.

Rep. Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y., leader of the group which called for airing the transcript, argued, however, that withholding the secret testimony would be harmful not only to Calley "but to the honor of the United States if the public believed that a congressional committee was intentionally withholding evidence so as to whitewash an alleged horrible violation of the rules of law which govern even in war."

Judge Kennedy ruled that both prosecution and defense could query witnesses on cross examination about all events at My Lai.

Highway maps readied

BOISE (UPI)—The public information office of the Idaho Department of Highways said today work is well underway on the official 1971 state highway map.

Bill Harvey, public information director, said by law the Highway Department is charged with preparing the guide annually.

He said in an attempt to provide the traveler with as much help as possible the 1971 map will include over 100 revisions. It will show detailed maps of Idaho's 612-mile interstate highway system, along with interchanges, access, rest areas and other features.

He said delivery from Rand McNally and Co. is expected about the middle of January.

TWIN FALLS—Appointment of new superintendents at Idaho Power Company's Twin Falls and Shoshone Falls plants was announced today by the utility.

O. B. Hutton has been assigned to the Twin Falls plant and J. L. Titmus to the Shoshone Falls plant, according to T. R. Helkes, superintendent of power.

Hutton, formerly an operator at Thousand Springs, succeeds

Calvin O. Kysar, Jr., who has been named assistant superintendent of the American Falls plant.

Titmus, chief operator at Upper Salmon since 1957, takes over from R. E. Neyman, who transfers to Upper Salmon as assistant superintendent.

Hutton, a veteran of 23 years' service with Idaho Power, began his career as a utilityman at the Swan Falls plant.

He later worked as an oiler and operator at Shoshone Falls, Malad, Swan Falls and Upper Salmon before serving a tour of duty as an operator and assistant dispatcher at the company's Ontario, substation in the early 1950's.

Returning to the power plant department in 1956, Hutton was assigned to Thousand Springs as an operator.

Titmus, who observed his 30th anniversary with Idaho Power earlier this year, has spent his entire career in plant maintenance-operation.

Starting as a laborer, he worked in various capacities at the now-retired Barber plant and at Swan Falls, until he became an oiler on the Shoshone Falls operating crew in 1942.

Titmus was a Shoshone Falls operator when he was promoted to chief operator at Upper Salmon in 1957.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wholesale prices declined by 0.2 per cent this month, indicating relief might be on the way from the worst inflation in 20 years, the Labor Department reported today.

The price dip cheered Nixon administration economists only a day after they were jolted by a report that the consumer price index—the closely-watched gauge of the average family's cost of living—took the sharpest jump in six months in October.

President Nixon plans to point an accusing finger next week at several labor unions which he believes have aggravated inflation by negotiating big wage increases for their members.

An administration official who often participates in economic strategy sessions said Nixon was convinced excessive wage increases in some industries had kept consumer prices soaring despite a general business slowdown and the highest level of unemployment in almost seven years.

Besides the drop in wholesale price index for November, government economists welcomed as good news another new report today. The commerce department announced that a composite index of eight "leading indicators"—business statistics which usually foreshadow future changes in the overall economy—rose by 0.8 per cent last month, the first increase since July.

The composite report could mean that the slumping economy is about to turn up. Four of the eight indicators rose and four fell in October but the department's statistical formula produced a rise in the overall index.

The Labor Department's wholesale price report was labeled preliminary and is subject to change on the basis of more complete information. It showed a 0.9 per cent decline in wholesale prices for farm products and a 0.1 per cent dip in costs of processed foods and feeds.

Prices of industrial commodities, considered by most economists to be more indicative of general inflationary pressures, were listed as unchanged this month—the first time since June, 1969, that they did not increase.

Ceiling sought on spending

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Gov. Calvin L. Rampton said today he will ask the 1971 Utah Legislature to limit political campaign spending for each of Utah's congressional candidates to about $100,000.

"I have a bill in the course of preparation which would limit the campaign expense for the two U.S. senators, U.S. representatives and the governor of Utah to 25 cents per each vote cast in the previous election," Rampton said.

Speaking at his monthly televised news conference on KUED, Rampton added "this would come to about $100,000 for each candidate." He added that enforcement of this will require strict regulation.

"The bill would provide that no television station, radio station, newspaper or billboard company could accept political advertisements without permission of the candidate," he said.

Rampton said that each of the news media would then be required to report their earnings from political advertisements. This total would then be compared with the expense claim reported by each candidate.

Cancer trigger found

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Cancer researchers think they have found a body chemical that turns normal cells cancerous—and have discovered a way to defeat the cancer-causing process with drugs. The discovery's greatest promise would be in the treatment of leukemia. No cure is known for leukemia, a cancer of the blood-forming tissues that is expected to kill 15,000 persons next year and to afflict 19,000 others, many of them children. Researchers normally wary of overstating their advances are frankly excited about the discovery presented earlier this month at a scientific meeting in Paris and explained in Washington Tuesday by the National Cancer Institute. "Our scientists believe this is a very important development and certainly one that needs to be followed up," said James F. Kieley, spokesman for the institute. "Our people are going ahead on the assumption this enzyme is related to leukemia. We have to put in 'if.' If they can prevent the enzyme from doing what it did to cause the cancer, there would be no cancer." At the very least, discovery of the enzyme is another link in the growing research chain of evidence blaming "cancer on viruses." "Because this enzyme seems always present in RNA tumor viruses of animals, its discovery in the cells of human beings with leukemia is considered to be good supportive evidence that viruses are associated with cancers in man," the statement said.

Textiles caught in squeeze

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI)—The American textile industry is caught in a vise of drooping economy and soaring imports, and the worker is getting squeezed out.

Latest U.S. Department of Labor statistics show nationwide textile employment in the past year dropped from 991,000 to 945,000, a decrease of 4.7 per cent. The unemployed ranks swelled by 10,000 in October alone.

At least 41 textile plants have shut down in the past six months, and hundreds more have gone on reduced schedules, giving employees fewer hours to work, hence smaller paychecks.

Nearly 18,000 workers in the Carolinas-Virginia textile belt have been caught in the squeeze since September, 1969. By states, the layoffs affected 10,000 in North Carolina—the largest textile producer—7,000 in South Carolina and about 1,000 in Virginia.

Although textile unemployment is still below the national average of 5.6 per cent for all workers, the figure does not take into account the reduced income of those still on the job. "We have been on short time and reduced hours at practically all of our plants," said Tom George, a public relations manager for Dan River, Inc. "When you go on short time, you're getting less money."

Dan River, primarily an apparel producer, has been hurt by imports because the bulk of foreign-made goods introduced to the United States is cheap apparel. Despite the encroachment of import textiles and textile goods, nobody in the industry will say that's the cause of all ills. But at the same time, it is generally agreed that the cheap foreign-made products are having a serious impact.

Iva's had half dozen homes in her 18 years

By RUTH MILLER
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — Iva Paterson is 18 years old. She's had six homes in those few short years.

She is — or was, until she turned 18 recently — a foster child. From the time Iva was 13 and taken from her natural home she has been under the child protective act.

Iva's is an unusual case. She's been far more successful than most foster children — but because she adapted easily to each new situation doesn't mean she was any less in need than hundreds of other children and teen-agers in Idaho.

Iva came from Payette to the Twin Falls area, where the Department of Public Assistance in Twin Falls County has placed her in foster homes.

Iva is the kind of girl local DPA officials are glad to have the press interview. They have other cases which are far less successful and other children which cause far more problems for their foster parents.

According to Dave Humphrey, local director for DPA, there is now a "critical need for foster homes for teen-agers." He said there are 61 children in the county now in foster homes and about 20 of them are teen-agers. Another 15 teen-agers are in temporary foster care, which Humphrey says is not desirable.

Iva says "people are scared to death of teen-agers — they're afraid to take us in." Humphrey says children under the child protective act are not delinquent — "their only crime is that they have no home."

He acknowledges that many foster children are more difficult to deal with than other children. Most are removed from their homes because of neglect or abuse. And, because of this, he said, they need special understanding and care.

Andrus stresses schools

BOISE (UPI)—Governor-elect Cecil Andrus told 100 persons gathered at Fairmont Junior High School Tuesday night education in the state has to be a priority item.

He said he advocates property tax relief at the local level with more funding of education from the state level.

He said due to a Supreme Court ruling tax equalization could continue for 12 more years.

He added that homes should not be taxed at the same rate as income producing property and called a proposed property tax on automobiles, which would take into consideration the number of miles each automobile travels during a year, as one of the most regressive forms of taxation "you could come up with."

The California Gold Rush began when gold was discovered at Sutter's Mill on the American River Jan. 24, 1848.

Twin Falls County now has 55 foster homes licensed in the county, but Humphrey said the number of children needing to be placed is constantly growing and more homes are needed.

The main criteria for being a good foster parent is "concern," Humphrey said. "We're not too worried about income or age," he said. "Many senior citizens make excellent foster parents," he said. "They have time to be concerned."

Most of the rules governing foster homes are there for health reasons, Humphrey said. The DPA pays $65 per month to foster parents for each child in their custody. Clothing and medical costs are paid over and above the $65, he said, "but people do not make money by taking care of foster children."

Kent Henderson, case worker for the DPA, said a typical child needing placement at this time is a girl identified as "Susie." "Susie" has been permanently removed from her home, where she suffered parental abuse, Henderson said. She is now 13 and has been in foster care for two years. She will need foster care until she reaches the legal age of 18. "She is well behaved, but has a problem meeting people and making friends," Henderson said.

He and other case workers said foster parents should not expect too much of children placed in their homes. Many children, Henderson said, "have never been taught any of the social graces. They don't know how to eat properly, clean their rooms, have consideration for other people. When we place a child out of a deprived situation into a middle class household, they cannot immediately be turned into middle class citizens," he said.

"We feel lucky if our foster children graduate from high school, but many foster parents expect their children to go on through college and this seldom happens," the case workers said. "Those first few years of development are just too critical."

"I've had foster homes fall apart because children placed in them would not say a simple thank you. It isn't that they're not grateful," Henderson said, "they just don't know any better."

Iva, whose most recent home has been with the Harold Kinsey family in Twin Falls, has joined the Women's Air Force and leaves this week for training in Texas.

Iva said she has been happy in each of her foster homes. She said the age of the foster parents she has had has necessitated some adjustment on her part.

Older foster parents aren't as interested in school activities as those who are younger, she said.

In each home she has had, Iva said, she and her new parents have come to a quick understanding over what each expects of the other.

"Most of all," she said, "we need to feel that we are individuals and must retain our own characteristics while adjusting to the personality of a new family."

Right now Iva's biggest problem in life is losing two pounds before she weighs in with the WAF — and she hates to leave home, because even though she's had four homes in Twin Falls, it's still home.

Humphrey said anyone interested in applying for the foster parent home program should call Mrs. Erma Shropshire at the at the Twin Falls DPA office.

Nixon free lunch goal nearly met

WASHINGTON — The Nixon administration came close to its pledged goal to provide free or token-priced school lunches to 6.6 million needy children by Thanksgiving Day, 1970, according to assistant agriculture secretary Richard E. Lyng.

But Lyng has conceded that the Agriculture Department's drive to expand free and token-priced lunch servings has not yet reached its ultimate goal of providing aid to every needy school child.

Department experts currently estimate that between seven and eight million children from needy families will be eligible for the free or low-priced lunches under new federal "need" standards which take effect in January. Lyng said state and local school authorities are cooperating enthusiastically in federal efforts to expand aid to needy children, adding that "We'll be feeding substantially all needy children very soon."

There has been considerable confusion during the past year over the exact nature of President Nixon's promise to get lunch aid to needy children by this Thanksgiving. Last Christmas, a presidential aide who said he was speaking for Nixon pledged that "The 6.6 million needy children will get a free school lunch program by Thanksgiving, 1970."

At the time the pledge was made, administration officials were estimating that only 6.6 million children would be eligible. Since then, however, they have revised their estimates of need upward. Lyng's comments in an interview indicated that the administration hoped to reach 6.6 million children, but had no hope of fulfilling the full-coverage part of the promise before early next year, at the soonest.

Lyng said firm estimates of the number of children receiving free or token-priced lunches as of today will not be available for about a month. But he said a preliminary report indicated the number of children receiving such aid rose from 4.3 million in September to 5.3 million in October.

"The pace is accelerating even more this month, so we think we'll come fairly close to 6.6 million by Thanksgiving. We may well achieve it," Lyng said.

Dismissal bid receives study

TWIN FALLS — A motion to dismiss was taken under advisement Wednesday afternoon in the case of Vernon Almon, charged with embezzlement of an automobile.

Almon, who was returned a few weeks ago from Florida, is charged with embezzling an automobile from National Rental Car in Twin Falls. He leased the car here in September, 1969.

Public defender Rudy Barbas moved to dismiss the case on grounds the crime actually was not committed in Idaho, but in California, where the car later was recovered.

Prosecutor Robert Galley, on the other hand, argued that at least a portion of the crime was committed in Idaho, hence Idaho does have jurisdiction in the case.

Judge Harry Turner took the motion under advisement and gave no indication when he would decide if Almon should be bound over to district court.

Nixon lauds TV star for efforts

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon has sent congratulations to "Captain Kangaroo" for providing wholesome television entertainment for children for 15 years, it was announced Wednesday. Addressed to Bob Keeshan, star of the CBS television series, Nixon's letter said "Captain Kangaroo" was not only a favorite of the nation's children but also of "all discriminating parents concerned with the quality of shows their children watch."

Offer set building price

BOISE (UPI)—Chairman Rulon Swenson of the Ada County commissioners says an offer submitted by another prospective-buyer established the $600,000 purchase price for the Arts and Commerce Building.

The county's decision to buy the building, located across the street from the Ada County Courthouse, for $600,000 was questioned when it was learned appraisers put the value considerably below the purchase price. Swenson said the $450,000 suggested fair market value of the building did not take into consideration its location near the courthouse.

Mind Your Money

By PETER WEAVER
 Q. In your article "Breaking the Food Code System" you stated that at least one major supermarket chain will try dating foods plainly. I would like to know what chain or chains you had in mind.

We are teaching low-income consumers to read the codes. It is often inconvenient or expensive for these consumers to return stale items to the store. They can least afford to absorb the losses. —Mrs. T.H.C., United Planning Organization, Consumer Action Program, Washington, D.C.

A. Jewell Food Stores, a midwestern chain of 259 stores, is now giving customers "code books" with information needed to interpret various codes. Food departments have signs explaining how certain codes work and, in some cases, products have dates in plain English.

Safeway, a national chain with 1,900 stores, is testing open dating with its own brands in a limited market area. Ralph's Supermarket chain of 62 stores in Southern California is putting "not to be sold after (date)" tags on its own brand of foods. Giant Food, an eastern chain with 93 stores, is working on an open-dating formula that can be used throughout an entire store.

All this started within the past few weeks and will surely grow to include more chains and independent stores. Readers who hear of local stores switching to plain English "throwaway" dates, please let me know. I'll print the names.

Q. I'm a quadriplegic (paralyzed arms and legs). Is there any special kind of telephone that could be installed for a reasonable price that would enable me to make and receive calls? —L.R., Miami, Fla.

A. Your telephone company will install a special phone with a series of touch buttons, a microswitch and a flexible arm receiver. You can tap the microswitch to get a dial tone. The whole set will cost $4.25 a month extra.

If you are a veteran, you can get more information on special communication and transportation systems for the handicapped by writing: Prosthetic and Sensory Aid Service, Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C.

Q. Two years ago we purchased a new, automatic washer-dryer. We have no complaints with the unit but lime deposits have to be cleaned out of the lines every six to 12 months at $20 a throw.

We are on city water. Is there anything that can be done to prevent lime deposits in the future? —Mrs. R.W., Utica, Ohio.

A. According to metallurgists, the lime deposits are the result of electrolytic action between different types of metals used in your water pipes. In older houses, lead and steel lines were used at first. Then copper piping was added later on.

You can go on paying $20 every six months to a year to have the lines cleaned or you might consider having old lead and steel piping replaced with copper. The cost may not be prohibitive. Get estimates from two contractors.

Q. I have a continuous problem with peeling and blistering paint on the outside of my clapboard house. What is the difference between vinyl and aluminum siding? Do they have to be painted? Do they warp the wood? —C.J.O., Derby, Conn.

A. Both vinyl and aluminum siding are competitively priced. You can dent aluminum siding. You can't dent vinyl. No matter what salesmen tell you, both types of siding have to be painted from time to time. Neither type, if properly installed, should cause the wood to warp. Get two or three reliable contractors to give estimates on both types of siding.

New potato grades set next year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The agriculture Department Tuesday announced a series of changes in federal grade standards for potatoes.

The revisions — which will not take effect until September, 1971 — include a new limit of 8 per cent total defects on potatoes graded U.S. No. 1. At present, No. 1 grade potatoes may include up to 11 per cent total defects.

Other changes, officials said, include tighter requirements or cleanliness in the various grades.

The department, bowing to protests from farmers and shippers, abandoned several other proposals — originally advanced more than a year ago — for tighter potato standards. Among the proposals which were dropped was one which would have imposed minimum size requirements or No. 1 grade potatoes.

Spokesmen said the new regulations will provide four separate grades instead of the three now used.

The new grades include: U.S. Extra No. 1 (replacing the present U.S. Fancy); U.S. No. 1; U.S. No. 2; and U.S. Commercial. The Agriculture Department had originally planned to drop the commercial grade, but decided to retain it because of protests from trade sources.

Defects allowed under the new standards will range from 5 per cent for U.S. Extra No. 1 to 20 per cent for U.S. Commercial.

Officials said the new rules also set size limits for packers who wish to voluntarily label potatoes of any grade as "medium" or "large." Experts added that most fresh potatoes on retail markets are either government inspected or sold under packer labels which use the federal grades.

BURLEY — A total of 900 stock cows and 60 bulls were sold at a special sale conducted by the Burley Livestock Commission Company on Saturday.

Stock cows and calves were sold for $290 to $310 per pair; stock cows and real top cows, $230 to $260 per head; Charolais breeding bulls, $750 to $910 per head; Whiteface Canadian bulls, $620 to $800 per head; Whiteface Montana bulls, $400 to $600 per head, and black bulls, $500 to $650 per head.

Zinc deficiency in area common

KIMBERLY — Zinc deficiency is common in bean plants grown on southern Idaho's calcareous soils.

Land leveling, which brings to the surface a highly calcareous subsoil low in available zinc, intensifies the problem. High manure or phosphate fertilization, such as might be practiced for sugarbeets, seems to intensify the zinc deficiency symptoms in beans.

Bean varieties grown in southern Idaho vary in sensitivity to zinc deficiency and in zinc deficiency symptoms. While many varieties become yellow or chlorotic, some appear almost normal but are small.

In order to identify the variety response to zinc deficiencies, researchers at the Agricultural Research Service at the Snake River Conservation Research Center, Kimberly, began an investigation several years ago into the problem. Soil Chemist, J.W. Brown, now retired, and Dr. G.E. Leggett, research soil scientist, evaluated the zinc deficiency sensitivity differences of a number of bean varieties.

Ten bean varieties were tentatively separated into three groups according to sensitivity to zinc deficiency. All the plants were harvested at late bloom stage and analyzed for total zinc in the plant top.

Where no zinc was added, the varieties Top Crop, Yellow Eye, Red Kidney, and Pinto appeared almost normal throughout the experiment. When compared with the zinc fertilized counterparts, however, they were definitely smaller and a lighter green color. Zinc deficient plants averaged 44 per cent as much dry matter as the zinc fertilized plants for those varieties.

Golden Gem, Red Mexican, and Idelight all exhibited moderately severe symptoms and yielded only 33 to 37 per cent of that for the zinc fertilized plants on a dry weight basis.

Great Northern, Seaway, and Sanilac were the most sensitive of the 10 varieties used. They developed severe symptoms and in some cases the second trifoliolate leaves failed to enlarge. Dry weight of the zinc deficient plants in this group ranged from 19 to 32 per cent of that for the zinc fertilized plants.

The results of zinc uptake and zinc deficiency symptoms were obtained for a total of 21 bean varieties grown in the greenhouse.

The study indicates that bean varieties do differ in sensitivity to zinc deficiency and in the characteristic symptoms.

Cassia cleared

BURLEY — J. Wayne Cole, Cassia County extension agent received a certificate from the U.S. Department of Agriculture certifying Cassia County as bovine brucellosis-free.

The certificate was presented to Cassia County commissioners by Mr. Cole. The commissioners include John Clark, Oakley, chairman; J. Weldon Beck, Burley, and Orvil Beecher, Elba.

There are some 669 herds in Cassia County totaling over 31,000 head which have been tested for bovine brucellosis, reported Cole.

A county is re-certified every five years by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Grangers draft highway protest

KING HILL — King Hill Grangers are drafting a protest to the Idaho Highway Board concerning the hazardous west entrance and exit to Interstate 80N four miles east of town.

The protest follows the most recent accident at the site where two truck drivers were hurt this past weekend.

Members discussed the way resolutions were handled at the National Grange session in Boise, when they met Tuesday night. Seven local members received the seventh degree at the national meet.

Mrs. Joel Young, lecturer, gave a reading and reports were given on the Boise gathering. Carl Anderson said 1,641 persons received the seventh degree, including Gov. Don Samuelson, member of Pierce Park Grange.

Mrs. Horace Lipe, women's activity chairman, reported Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Greer assisted for several hours at the room at the Hotel Boise where the national prize winning sewing articles were displayed.

Not in Bible

The word Christmas is not mentioned in the Bible. It is a celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ and the name Christmas came about in later years as a contraction of the term "Mass of Christ."

Eggs drop

BOISE — Egg production in Idaho during October totaled 16 million eggs, a million under the same month in 1969. The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said the 856,000 layers on hand during October was about the same as a year ago. The monthly laying rate was 1,817 eggs from each 100 layers, compared with 1,928 a year ago.

Showers, cooler tomorrow

Magic Valley, Twin Falls and vicinity, Northside, Burley-Rupert area: Partly cloudy tonight with small chance of a few snow showers over mountain vicinity. Increasing clouds becoming cloudy with occasional rain or snow likely Friday. Snow level near four thousand feet. Highs in the low 40s. Lows in upper 20s. Probability of precipitation 50 per cent tonight and 70 per cent Friday. Outlook for Saturday, little change except colder. Camas Prairie, Hailey and lower Wood River Valley: Same as Magic Valley except temperatures. Highs in 30s, lows near 20. Weak surface and upper level ridging will be over southern Idaho and east central Oregon tonight. This will give us a little break in the weather. Partly cloudy skies and only a few snow showers over the mountains will be the order. However, the next surface cold frontal system and a strong upper level trough off the north-west Pacific Coast will move southeastward to cause increasing cloudiness again late this evening. It will become cloudy again with occasional rain or snow by Friday. Snow level will be near four thousand feet. High temperatures were in the 40s and low 50s yesterday and will be in the mid 30s to mid 40s the next day or so. Lows were mostly in the 30s this morning and will be in the 20s Friday morning. Twenty-four hour precipitation totals were generally light, less than one-tenth of an inch over the area except over southeast Idaho where totals ran from about one quarter to one-half of an inch. It should be a good weekend for skiing with new snow and colder temperatures.

Beef market gains composure

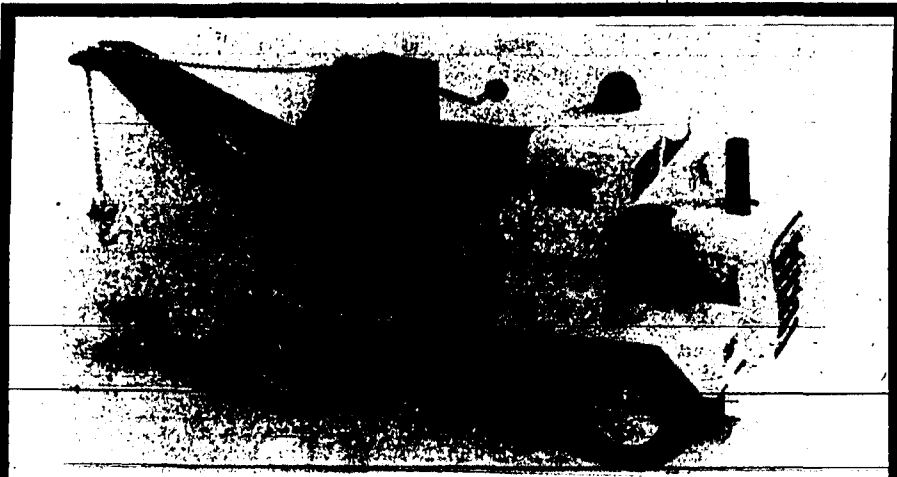

DENVER — After establishing new lows early in a typically sluggish pre-holiday week, the market regained some composure in the week ending Nov. 20. Prices on the beef market were steady to slightly higher by late week while fed prices were mostly steady. The best demand and money continues to be on lighter weight cattle and lighter chain weight carcasses. Several strikes continue to plague the industry, particularly on the West Coast where Los Angeles packers are still being struck. Pork supplies continue to run extremely high; poultry supplies appear to be down a little each week. Feeder cattle prices are basically steady with continued pressure on the heavier ones that need to go right into feedlots.

SLAUGHTER CATTLE — Movement was relatively slow this week after big trading last week. Purchases would compete directly with traditional holiday poultry and pork products. General price ranges on average choice steers in the country at late week were as follows: 26.00-27.00 in Montana; 27.00-28.00 in Washington-Oregon; 28.00-29.00 in California with the top in the northern part of the state; 27.00-27.50 in Arizona; 26.50-27.00 in Colorado, the Panhandle, Kansas and Iowa; 26.50-27.25 in Nebraska; and 28.00-28.50 in the eastern Cornbelt. The overall supply situation appears to be improving somewhat with continued orderly marketings of fed cattle over the country. DRESSED BEEF — Prices were sharply weaker early in the week then posted some recovery. The West Coast situation is unchanged; due to seasonal beef movement this week has been relatively slow. Nonetheless, channels are relatively clear and beef does not appear to be backing up. General price ranges quoted on major markets at late week for choice 600-700 weight carcasses on a carlot basis were as follows: 47.00 in Los Angeles and steady on shipped-in beef; 44.50 for an extreme top in Omaha on a few loads of beef shipped to the West Coast; 44.50 and steady in Chicago; and 46.00-46.50 and steady to 50 cents higher in New York. Slaughter levels are running above year ago levels at present for both cattle and hogs. Pork loin prices continue under pressure at about $40.00 on light loins in Chicago. FEEDER CATTLE — Light weight feeders and calves traded on a basically steady market. Feeder classes saw moderate strength in scattered areas. While light weight calves advanced as much as 1.00 in the same areas. While light weight calves advanced as much as 1.00 in the same areas. Buyers continue to apply downward pressures on heavy weight feeders, with some softening of prices resulting. General price ranges on choice feeder steers including ranch and auction sales were: 700-800 weight, 26.00-30.00; 600-700, 28.00-33.00; 500-600, 31.00-36.00.

Christmas tree tags available

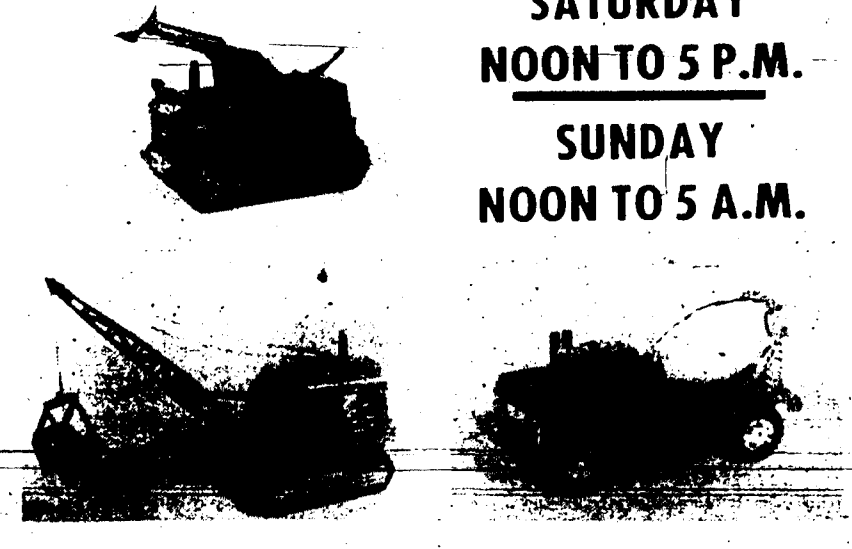

CHALLIS — Forest supervisor Wes Carlson of the Challis National Forest announces that Christmas tree tags for personal use are now available at the ranger district offices. These offices are located at Stanley, Clayton, Challis, Mackay, and May. They are open from 8 a. m. to noon and 1 p. m. to 5 p. m., Monday through Friday. The tags sell for $1 each and entitle the buyer to one tree up to eight feet in height. If a buyer desires a larger tree, the charge is $1 plus 20 cents per lineal foot for all lengths over eight feet. The tag must be attached to the trunk of the tree prior to transporting the tree from the cutting area. Cutting of Christmas trees is a management tool used by the forest service to thin thick stands of young trees. Thinning of these stands reduces the competition of the remaining trees for water, air, light, and nutrients in the soil, thus, producing larger trees for sawtimber or poles in a shorter time. Because cutting Christmas trees is of primary importance in producing and maintaining a strong healthy stand of trees for the future and is part of the management of our National Forests, the following rules are to be observed: Cut the tree close to the ground. Do not cut a tree near a road. Do not cut a tree along side of a stream. Inquire at the nearest forest ranger's office when purchasing Christmas tree tags for areas open to cutting, and the latest road conditions, Carlson said.

Eating cuts life

BOSTON (UPI) — A prominent pediatrician believes the eating habits of America's infants may be producing a race of fat, lazy people with shortened life expectancy.

Dr. John D. Crawford cites studies of mice and rats to back up his feelings, although he admits the evidence is inconclusive.

But, he said, there has been enough research to make him wonder if this country is "building obsolescence into its infants the way manufacturers build it into automobiles."

Dr. Crawford is the chief of the Children's Service's Metabolic-Endocrine Unit at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. He said he questions the practice of "having an infant gobble up his formula to produce a better looking growth chart."

He cited studies where the offspring of two female rats were mixed to eliminate any bias from inherited or prenatal factors.

The infant rats were randomly grouped, with a group of about 18 in one cage and two or three in another.

The larger group had to struggle among themselves to get at the mother's milk and thus their diet was restricted, but the smaller group "lived in the lap of luxury" and had all the milk they wanted.

After weaning, the "luxury" group was a little bigger than the rats in the larger group. All were then placed in separate cages and given as much food as they wanted.

Woodrow Wilson earned a doctorate in 1886 from Johns Hopkins University, where he studied history and politics.

Guard duties said pleasure by governor

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson says one of the foremost and most-appreciated associations he has enjoyed the past four years has been his close continuing contact with the National Guard.

General George Bennett he has been "honored" to serve as commander in chief of the National Guard and Air National Guard. He said they are recognized nationally for their exceptional efficiency and versatile abilities.

Red interest ignored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Increased international support for admission of Communist China to the United Nations ignores somewhat the question of whether Peking actually would be interested in joining the world organization.

Numerous diplomats have predicted that by the end of 1971 or at the latest 1972, Communist China will gain sufficient votes to be admitted to membership. However, on the basis of its official statements over the past 10 years, it would seem that Peking would refuse to join the club without a number of changes, which are unlikely to be made.

As recently as June 27, Premier Chou En-lai in a tribute to former President Sukarno of Indonesia said: "He declared Indonesia's withdrawal from the United Nations organization and exposed the United Nations as having been reduced to something controlled and manipulated by a few big powers."

Last April Peking's official New China News Agency, blasting U.N. recognition of the anti Communist government of Premier Lon Nol in Cambodia said: "This proves once again that the United Nations is nothing but a tool dominated and used by U.S. imperialism to interfere in and commit aggression against other countries."

A year ago, the official Peking publication on People's Daily said that "frankly speaking, the Chinese people are not at all interested in joining the United Nations," which it described as "a stock exchange for the United States and the Soviet Union to strike political bargains, and an organ to serve the U.S. policies of aggression and war."

West and among the nonaligned nations contend that such statements represent only China's bitterness at continued exclusion from the U.N.

Fire takes 9 lives

CHICAGO (UPI) — Flames raced through an apartment building in Chicago's near northside nightclub district Wednesday, trapping some residents and forcing others to jump from windows. At least nine persons were killed.

Firemen said they were searching for a man feared to be the tenth victim. All the victims were believed to be Mexican-Americans. Three of them were children.

Fire officials said flames broke out about 5 a.m. in the first floor stairwell of the building, which houses La Margarita Cafe on the ground floor and 30 apartments on the second and third floors. The fire apparently spread up the stairwell, cutting off the main exits.

Joint facility study planned

TWIN FALLS — Application for $6,000 in federal funds for a feasibility and architects' study of joint law enforcement facilities for Twin Falls city and county was authorized here Wednesday.

county and one city representative will be named to serve as co-directors for the project.

The planning funds are now available on a 90 per cent federal, 10 per cent local matching basis. It was agreed Wednesday by county and city officials each would provide half of the local $600 required.

County and city officials said they would rather move more slowly on the project and have a full feasibility plan made before taking definite steps toward construction, Milnar said.

Tentatively, the city and county representatives are looking toward a $800,000 complex which would provide building space for county and city law enforcement agencies and a county jail. Milnar said these portions of the building would probably be separate quarters but in the same building. An area for communications and training programs which could be utilized by both agencies would also be included.

Milnar said discussions indicate the agencies will work toward completion of an architect study in 1971, looking toward construction in 1972 if the two agencies decide to go ahead with the project.

Under court reform there will be no need for city detention facilities as all cases will be handled through one court system with no city police court and all jail sentences in the county jail.

Milnar said the committee will begin making arrangements for an architect to conduct the study. This will cover financing, facility needs, size and type of structure, site and the general composition of the facility needed for the joint services.

He said it is felt such a facility can eliminate some of the duplications in the law enforcement operations of the county and city and thus save some tax money for those who are paying taxes to support either the county or the county and city operations.

Another meeting will be held at 8 a.m. Dec. 9, Milnar said, when Finlayson will again return to discuss preparations for the planning study.

Galley says drug data misleading

TWIN FALLS — People don't understand all they know about some things, says Robert Galley, Twin Falls County prosecuting attorney.

Galley said he has received an anonymous letter accusing him of trying to get a defendant free on a drug charge.

"Apparently the person attended the preliminary hearing or read the account in the newspaper but doesn't understand what took place," Galley said.

He noted this is typical of the public's poor understanding of court proceedings.

The letter stated, "We were amazed at a prosecutor who apparently tried to get a dope peddler freed on a technicality such as the wrong code number. Several people that I know would like to know the truth about that 'deal', hanky panky maybe?"

"What good is it for our law to catch these criminals just to have them promptly released?" the letter asked.

Galley said the letter, signed "Disgusted," came in connection with the Douglas Cunningham preliminary hearing on charges of unlawful sale of an "enumerated drug."

"For the information of the public," Galley said, "an enumerated drug is defined in Idaho law as one of those most commonly abused among those giving hallucinatory effects. In some states they are defined as dangerous drugs.

"Enumerated drugs can only be obtained by prescription with the exception of LSD which is not legal even under prescription. Such drugs may legally be in the possession of a physician, drug wholesaler, manufacturer or druggist. Violation of this state code, involving sale or possession, brings a five year sentence and/or $5,000 fine.

"Another statute covers prescription drugs not enumerated under the law and penalty for selling or possession of such drugs is less severe," he said.

In the case mentioned in the letter, Galley said, the complaint against the defendant stated "enumerated" drugs but quoted the state code for the prescription drugs. The complaint was prepared at the police department, he said.

Galley noted he moved to have the code number in the complaint amended to coincide with the information which is allowable and a routine practice during preliminary hearings. He said he did not move for any dismissal but has and will continue to press for a conviction in the case.

A move for dismissal was made by the defense and denied by the court, he noted.

Galley said many confusing views exist on drug matters and he noted persons may not even give away "enumerated" drugs without violating the law and he said stringent enforcement would mean letting a friend have a medication prescribed for a similar ailment would be illegal.

Galley said he would welcome the unidentified letter writer or others who might have a question about the case or other court actions to visit his office to discuss the matter.

Activity halted

TWIN FALLS — The wet Thanksgiving weather Magic Valley residents are experiencing has halted almost all farming activity, except cattle feeding.

Due to the recent rain storms in the valley, this year will go down in history as one of the wettest. According to U. S. Weather Bureau statistics, since Jan. 1, there has been 12.28 inches of precipitation, compared to 4.87 in 1969.

A weather bureau spokesman said so far this month 1.86 inches of moisture was recorded. In the past 24 hours .53 of an inch has fallen in the Twin Falls area.

Accident injures 3 at Jerome

JEROME — Three persons were treated at St. Benedict's Hospital Wednesday night and released after being involved in a two-car accident on South Lincoln Street.

Kenneth LeRoy Schmier, 27, Twin Falls, was driver of a car which collided with a vehicle driven by David Eldon Handy, 16, Jerome, police said.

The Hardy youth who was alone in his vehicle, and two passengers in the Schmier car were taken to the hospital. They were Mrs. Calvin Nix, 52, Jerome, and Tina Marie Chigbrow, 7, Twin Falls. Her twin sister, Lori, was not injured.

The car Schmier was driving is owned by Donald Lee Chigbrow, Twin Falls. Police said the Hardy youth apparently did not see the other car and pulled onto South Lincoln in front of it.

Money bids high

By LINDY HIGH

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson revealed Wednesday general fund budget requests from state agencies for fiscal 1972 total $180.8 million — approximately $45 million more than estimated revenue.

Of the total, Samuelson told a news conference, education asked for the lions' share — $106.6 million, or approximately 70 per cent of the general fund budget requests.

The Department of Public Assistance requested $13.7 million, or 8.5 per cent of the total, while the Department of Public Health requested $12.9 million, or eight per cent of the total.

Estimated revenue for the 1972 fiscal year is $114,279,431. Individual income taxes are estimated at $46.8 million; sales tax at $35.2 million; corporate income tax at $12.3 million and the remainder will come from other sources.

Samuelson, who will leave office Jan. 4, the day Cecil Andrus is inaugurated, said he had no suggestions concerning the revenue deficiency — and areas to chop.

However, he said, he would predict a one-cent additional sales tax, which he said would bring $11 million, or a $15 million increase in taxes "one way or another."

"I didn't make the promises he did," Samuelson said, referring to statements made by Andrus during his gubernatorial campaign.

"I'm not going to do the same thing that happened to me four years ago."

In 1966, shortly before he left office, then Gov. Robert E. Smylie submitted budget recommendations. Samuelson eventually presented to the legislature in 1967 a total budget figure of $152.6 million, which contained no breakdown. Legislators turned to Smylie's budget as a guide when making appropriations.

Samuelson, however, noted Andrus has "money and staff" with which to work on a budget presentation.

Samuelson noted Andrus had talked about "changing priorities" during the election campaign, but asked, "What priorities would you change in education? I think it's a matter of giving each a reasonable increase, whatever the legislature decides it can afford."

Samuelson noted health, education and welfare requests total $133.2 million, or 82.8 per cent of the total. Remaining agencies have asked for $27.8 million. The governor said the percentages were "nearly identical to the percentages of total appropriations made in support of these departments during 1969-71 biennium."

Legislators in the 41st session will, for the first time, appropriate state monies on a single-year basis. In the past funds have been appropriated on a biennial basis, although the lawmakers have been able to spend surplus funds in off-years.

A total of $226 million was appropriated for the 1969-71 biennium.

Jack Holley, state budget director, estimated single-year breakdowns at $105 million for 1969-70 and $116 million for 1970-71, the current fiscal year.

"With estimated revenue at $115 million for the next fiscal year and budget requests at $60.8 million, it makes it very important for the governor-elect and the legislature to determine the exact needs of the state," Holley said.

Holley, noting estimated revenues for fiscal year 1972 are approximately $1 million below funds spent in 1970-71, said "the reason, of course, is that we had roughly a $17 million surplus, as I recall."

Samuelson, too, referred to past expenditures of surplus funds and noted "I tried to get the legislature two years ago to keep from spending the surplus on recurring items because I knew this would happen."

"There was surplus money spent on non-recurring expenditures to the tune of about $9 million," Samuelson added.

Samuelson said copies of the budget book, a massive 597 page computer print-out, had been delivered to Andrus, to legislators on the finance and appropriations committees, and to newsmen.

Taking federal funds into account, the total of all budget requests for fiscal year 1971 is $395,879,023.

Shields alarm system works

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho students found out to their soggy dismay Wednesday morning that the fire-alarm system in the Shields Academic Building works as designed.

It sounds an alarm . . . even during a rainstorm.

The unpremeditated "fire alarm" wasn't scheduled, but it proved that all the elements of the alarm system are in working order, according to dean of students David Perkins . . . except the students. Few instructors and fewer students knew what all the racket was when the bells sounded.

However, the building was eventually cleared as a precaution.

It all started with an apparently malfunctioning hot-water heater in Shields. The water heater overheated, popping a safety valve; rushing steam heat into a heat-detector device nearby; the detector reacted as it was instructed to do and set off the alarms. It also alerted the Twin Falls Fire Department, which sent two trucks and six firemen to the college.

But there was no damage evident; students gratefully returned to the shelter of Shields and instructors collected their scattered thoughts.

The alarm was the first time the bells have sounded in Shields, Perkins said. "It all proved that everything is in working order," he added.

Only once before in the short life of the college has a fire-alarm sounded, he recalled. Last summer, a light pole on the campus was accidentally knocked over, and alarms in the Fine Arts Building were triggered.

Wendell man 'fair' after shot

WENDELL — Edward Robinson, Wendell, is reported in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls, with a gunshot wound.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Burke said Robinson was accidentally shot about 8 a.m. Wednesday in the Wendell area. Burke said DeWayne Gudry, Wendell, was taking a shotgun from the rack in a pickup truck when it discharged.

The blast went through the pickup door and some of the shot struck Robinson in the neck.

He was taken to St. Benedict's Hospital, Jerome, and later transferred to Twin Falls.

Hepatitis cases eyed

TWIN FALLS — Acting Director Jim Ingalls of the South Central Idaho Health District said Wednesday there have been four cases of hepatitis reported in the Wendell area in the past two months and the health department has taken measures aimed at halting any further spread.

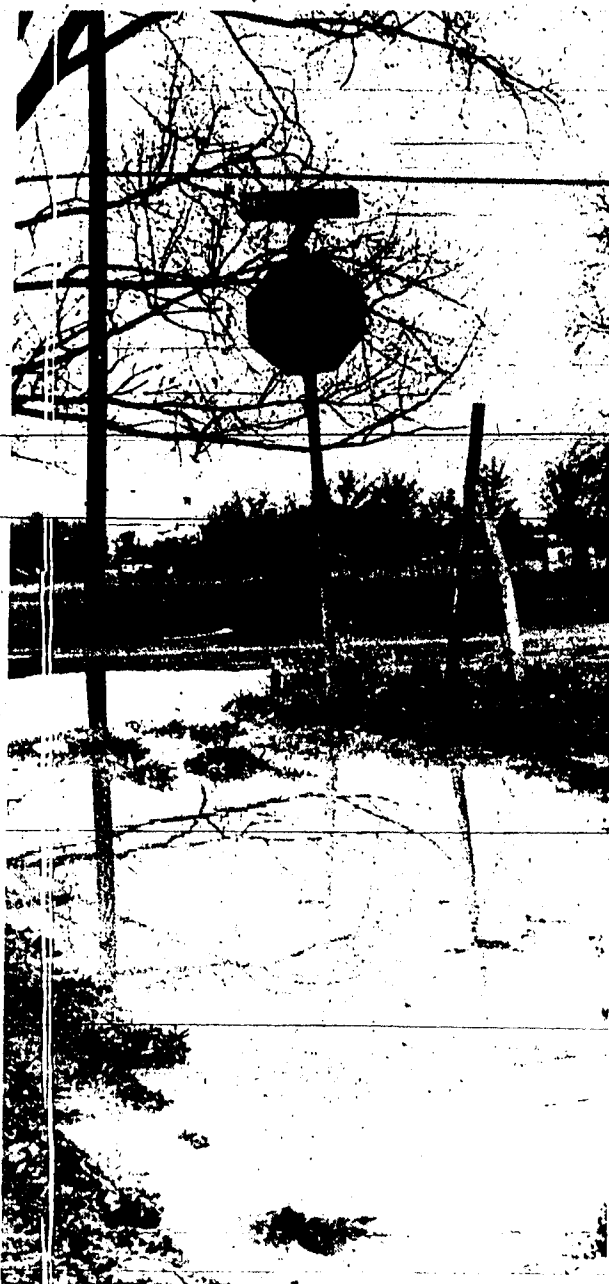

He said in connection with a state report about increased hepatitis cases, the Wendell outbreak as yet is not alarming. Doctors, Ingalls said, are watching the area closely and have advised the families of the four cases on proper precautions to prevent further spread.

Source of the illness is almost impossible to find, Ingalls said, as the disease is easily spread through contact.

All children have been instructed through the schools to be careful about cleanliness and to make certain they wash their hands frequently and especially before eating.

Ingalls said every few years an outbreak will begin in some locality and is usually held to that area. Two years ago, he said some 16 cases were reported in the Twin Falls area.

Autumn artistry . . .

Youth charged after mishap

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls teenager was charged with leaving the scene of an accident late Wednesday following a one-car wreck at Addison Avenue East and Maurice Street North, Twin Falls Police report.

Officers said a car driven by Steven Rayburn, 14, apparently was attempting to turn from Addison East onto Maurice North when it struck a concrete pillar on the corner about 9:30 p. m.

When officers arrived the car had left the scene, but one of the passengers was in a nearby house receiving first aid treatment. Officers said Hyrum Morrison, 16, was taken by ambulance to the hospital. He was treated and released.

Rayburn, officers said, came to the house while they were questioning the injured youth. The car which he was driving was parked at his residence on Juniper Street.

Other passengers in the car were Brenda Butler, 13, Chris Gietzen, 15, and Steven Sorenson, 15.

Rayburn also was charged with driving without a driver's license.

Testing . . .

THE NEW "COMMONS" at the College of Southern Idaho is almost completed, with occupancy anticipated by the second semester, beginning Jan. 11, 1971. A technician from the Northwest Engineering Corp., Portland, tests air flow at one of the many heating-and-cooling registers in the library section of the building which will also house the college dining hall and snack bar as well as administration offices, the student union and bookstore.

Unions charged on race

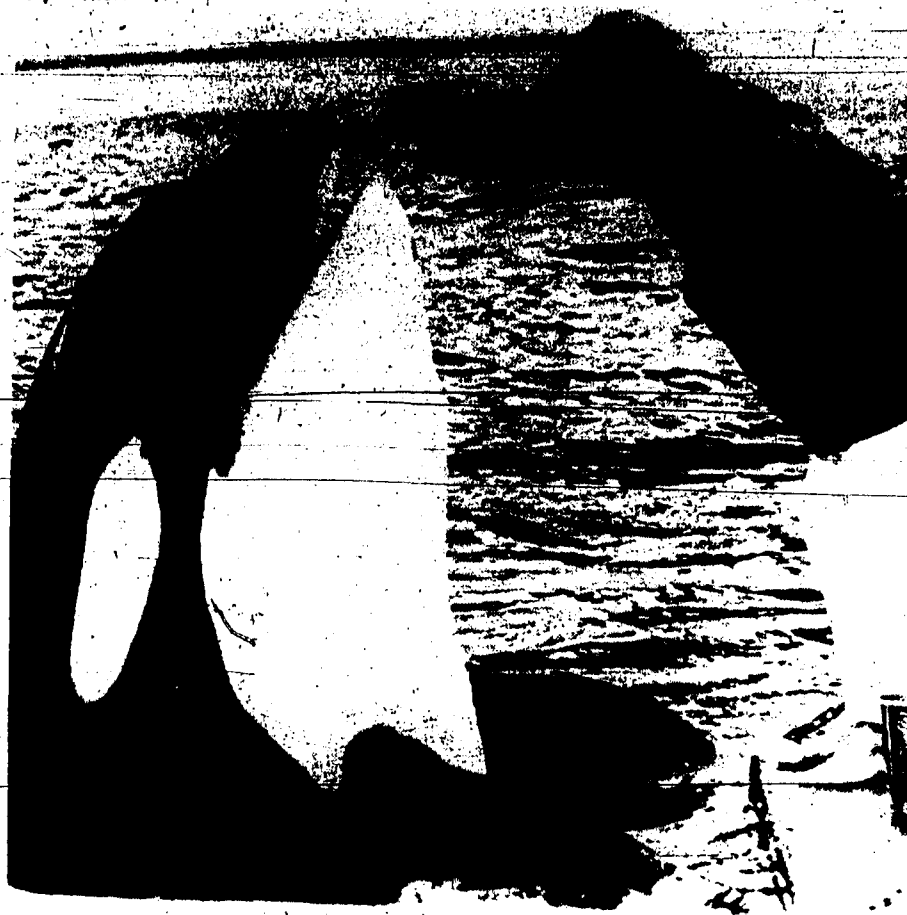

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department filed suit Wednesday against two carpenters union locals accused of excluding Negroes from membership and of going on strike when blacks were hired on construction projects.

The action was filed in U.S. District Court for Eastern Illinois in East St. Louis, Ill. It was announced in Washington by Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

The government accused Locals 169 and 480 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the Tri-County Illinois Carpenters District Council with violation of civil rights laws, the two locals both operate in the East St. Louis area.

The government charged the defendants "have pursued and continue to pursue a policy and practice of discriminating against Negroes on account of their race with respect to employment opportunities in the carpenter trade."

The government asked for an order prohibiting the locals from continuing to discriminate.

Car dealers draw complaints

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) said Wednesday an analysis showed that consumers complain about new and used car dealers more than any other business.

The car dealers were followed in numbers of complaints by real estate dealers, mail order houses and radio-TV repair shops. FTC Chairman Miles W. Kirkpatrick reported at a news conference on the breakdown of 8,800 complaints reported to consumer protection coordinating committees in Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and San Francisco during a six-month period running through October.

The car dealers were cited for vehicle failure to perform on guarantees; the real estate dealers for truth-in-lending violations; the mail order houses for failure to deliver merchandise that had been paid for; and radio-TV repairmen for defective work or services.

Viet Cong turns down U.S. proposal

SAIGON (UPI)—The Viet Cong's clandestine radio issued a rejection Wednesday night of what it called President Nixon's proposal for an extended cease-fire in Indochina from Christmas through the Lunar New Year observance next Jan. 26.

There has been no public announcement of such a cease-fire proposal by the United States. The U.S. State Department in Washington said reports of any such proposal were "unfounded," and a spokesman for the Viet Cong delegation at the peace talks in Paris said he had no information of such a proposal.

The Viet Cong radio, believed to be broadcasting from the jungles of northeastern Cambodia, referred repeatedly to "the Nixon proposal" in its comment on a cease-fire. It said the Viet Cong would accept shorter cease-fire periods during the holiday period but not one of 32 days as it said Nixon had proposed.

It said the alleged proposal by Nixon was a "clever psychological plan to exploit the customs, beliefs, sentimentality and just aspirations of our people," the "American people and other peoples."

AEC officials don't regard waste disposal water threat

By RONALD B. SCOTT
BOISE (UPI) — Officials at the National Reactor Testing Station near Idaho Falls don't consider burying of solid wastes or dumping of liquid wastes into the Snake Plain aquifer a threat to the water supply.

However, a report published by the Federal Water Quality Administration, and subscribed to by the Idaho Department of Health, sees disposal methods of the NRTS as real threats to the water supply and the health of residents drawing their water from this huge body of water which underlies the Snake Plain.

A spokesman for the NRTS said there is no evidence that chemical or low-level radioactive wastes, which are discharged into the aquifer, have moved from the area covered by the NRTS. However, Dr.

from the NRTS because it is a federal installation and not governed by the state standards. NRTS officials say they are meeting state standards of water quality.

The study conducted by the water quality agency released early this fall, shows that chemical and radioactive wastes "have degraded the ground water beneath the NRTS."

The report also disputes tests run outside the NRTS area which allegedly shows pollutants have not yet migrated outside the station. "There is no information available to show whether the waste from disposal operations at the NRTS have yet migrated beyond the boundary of the station."

The report also said chemical wastes are discharged into ponds, then directly into the aquifer through deep disposal ture the quake-resistant vaults, the possibility still exists that the tanks could develop leaks and water could be contaminated by radioactive material before draining into the aquifer.

NRTS officials said preventive measures are being undertaken and said salt mines in Kansas are being investigated as a possible permanent burial site for the "hot" wastes. The salt mines proved their quality as a burial ground of highly-radioactive wastes in the early 1960s when fuel elements from the engineering test reactor at the NRTS were stored in the mines on an experimental basis. Final implementation of this project will possibly take 10 years. NRTS officials said plan must be drawn up, approved, and money must be allocated by Congress for the project.

The NRTS also has other improvements underway in its disposal methods, including treatment of tritium, a radio-active form of hydrogen, which is already being disposed of in the aquifer in safe concentrations, according to water quality standards.

A $1.4 million project to design and construct a facility that would provide additional backup measures was awarded last month. Completion of the design will be completed by July 1, 1971.

Another facility, consisting of an ion exchange, facility, was put into operation last month. According to an NRTS spokesman, the facility further minimizes the potency of radioactive wastes emitted from the chemical processing plant, a major facility at the NRTS.

In addition, a 400 by 150 foot asphalt pad has been constructed at the burial grounds for Radio wastes recently shipped to the NRTS from the Rocky Flats Plant, Colorado, which was damaged by fire in May, 1969. The area is diked off and has brim around it preventing water, if a flood or heavy rainfall ever occurred, from entering the storage area and becoming contaminated by the wastes. The final step in the project calls for a mound of earth on top of the asphalt base so that water would be forced to percolate to the aquifer in areas away from the burial ground.

The water quality study conducted by the Federal Water Quality Administration also suggested that NRTS abandon its use of disposal wells that discharge directly into the aquifer, and the elimination of seepage ponds for disposal of chemical wastes and the improvement of some sanitary waste treatment systems.

NRTS officials consider the use of waste wells not harmful to public health and have said the huge amounts of water in the aquifer renders the wastes harmless before the water migrates beyond the boundaries of the station.

Ground water quality studies have indicated that tritium pollution can only be detected within a five-mile area of the disposal wells. Officials say because of the 12-year-half life of tritium and dilution by the water, all traces of the material are decayed-off before the water moves to segments of the Snake Plain aquifer beyond the boundaries of the NRTS.

The water quality report, indicated, however, that a broader definition of pollution is needed at the NRTS which should include any avoidable deterioration of the water quality.

It was also noted that the NRTS conducts no monitoring of the ground water for chemical pollutants and the only monitoring devices currently in operation are designed to monitor only radioactive content of the water.

However, the NRTS subscribes to its belief that wastes it discharges into the aquifer are not harmful for human consumption: Drinking water for the entire installation is drawn from the aquifer directly beneath the facility. Dr. Carver noted that water quality monitoring device are installed at all of the drinking water wells—apparently, according to the report; these devices only monitor radioactive content.

In a report issued in October, the Atomic Energy Commission denied that chemical and radioactive wastes from the NRTS are seriously polluting the ground water. Extensive monitoring for two decades show that there is no immediate or future threat to the water supply, the report said.

In that same rebuttal of the findings of the federal water quality study, the AEC said some revisions are needed and were underway at the station.

Dr. Carver noted that the plutonium wastes that are stored at the NRTS have a half-life of 24,000 years. If they were left as they are, radioactivity would still remain some 500,000 years from now. However the amounts of that material, in actual quantity, is small.

Radioactive wastes "have degraded ground water beneath NRTS ..."

Terrell Carver, director of the Idaho Health Department, said NRTS, and U.S. Geological Survey employees who work for the NRTS, are the only ones who conduct ground water quality studies on water outside the NRTS.

He said the state of Idaho is not in a position, financially or technically, to conduct such tests to see if the NRTS is meeting the state's water quality standards.

Carver noted a difficulty in controlling waste emissions wells. Sanitary wastes are discharged into a tile drain system, then to sewage treatment lagoons and seepage pits before disposal into the aquifer through waste wells.

The report also noted the practice of burying "hot" or highly radioactive materials in stainless steel vaults beneath the ground directly above the aquifer. Many have questioned the advisability of such practices.

Investigation will be made on Haywood pacts

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A federal judge Wednesday refused to take any further action in the Spencer Haywood-Denver Rockets-All Pro Management basketball legal hassle until he gets some expert advice concerning the contracts Haywood has signed.

Judge Warren J. Ferguson said here he will appoint a "special legal master", preferably one versed in athletic contracts, to investigate the contracts Haywood has signed with the Rockets, All Pro Management and Al Ross, head of All Pro.

Haywood currently is under suspension from the Rockets and has not played since the exhibition season when he broke a bone in his left hand. There reportedly were serious rifts between him and the Rockets' owners.

In a news conference this week, Haywood told reporters he left the Rockets because he "had been cheated" in his reported $1.9 million contract. He called the $1.9 million a "ghostly" figure. He also said there were racial overtones that made him unhappy.

In court Wednesday, Haywood said, "I'm supposed to be the best—I get $47,000." Other basketball stars are reportedly under contract for more than $200,000 a year, according to Haywood.

Haywood was the most valuable player in the American Basketball Association last season.

During the court proceedings in which the judge was expected to make a ruling on a preliminary injunction which would bar Ross from any further contract negotiations concerning Haywood, the judge turned to Haywood and said, "Don't you know what they're doing to you? You've got a contract with All Pro for 25 per cent. You didn't know that."

The judge then refused to order the injunction but left in effect a temporary restraining order that prevents Ross and All Pro from negotiation for Haywood. The restraining order was asked by the Rockets when they felt Haywood was getting "poor advice."

In requesting that the special legal counsel be brought in, Ferguson asked for these specific answers:

—Whether Haywood's contract with the Rockets is fair and equitable to Haywood.

—Whether his contract with Ross is fair and equitable to Haywood.

—Whether his contract with All Pro management is fair and equitable to Haywood.

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Elvin Hayes scored 12 of his 48 points and Stu Lantz 15 of his 30 points during a 40-21 third-period drive which enabled the San Diego Rockets to defeat the Cincinnati Royals, 138-120, Wednesday night in a National Basketball Association game.

The drive, led by Hayes and Lantz, pulled the Rockets to a 98-75 lead at the end of the third period and the Royals never threatened thereafter.

The Royals took an early nine point lead in the first period but San Diego tied the score midway through the second period and went on to a 58-54 halftime lead.

Nate Archibald and Tom Van Arsdale shared scoring honors for Cincinnati with 21 points each.

Hayes led all rebounders with 22 and the Rockets outrebounded the Royals 67-38.

scene when Haywood was negotiating endorsement contracts. Later, when Haywood brought it to Ross' attention that he felt he was getting "cheated, in his Rockets contract, Ross agreed to act as his legal counsel. He signed for a 10 per cent contract with the super star.

Haywood, meanwhile, already has signed a contract with All Pro for 25 per cent of all his income aside from that as a pro basketball player.

THE TIMES-NEWS

Weather will keep scores down in Heritage tourney

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI)—The $100,000 Heritage golf classic, first major stop on the PGA tour since the Sahara Invitational four weeks ago, began today with the golfers hoping the weatherman called it right when he forecast a warming trend.

It was so cold in Wednesday's pro-am—22 degrees on this coastal island at the scheduled tee-off time—that play was delayed for 2 1/2 hours and limited to only nine holes.

However, the evidently more hardy golfers in the $30,000 Sea Pines Open, which began Wednesday at a neighboring course, got in their full 18 holes with Hubert Green and Bob Barbarossa, a pair of newcomers to the PGA circuit, grabbing a one-stroke lead with 5-under-par 67s.

"I'd really figured that the winner would be down in the mid 20s this year, the course expected to improve that much," said Jack Nicklaus, who helped design the Harbour Town course where the Heritage is being played.

"But I didn't count on the weather. The deep freeze took the nap off the greens, leaving them fast as lightning and the fairways are dormant. Now it looks like the winning score will be just as high as last year."

Arnold Palmer won the first Heritage last year with a 283, the first victory in more than a year for the aging superstar who then won the very next at Hollywood, Fla., with a 270.

As good as those 67s by Green and Barbarossa were, Nicklaus did even better Wednesday. After winning the pro-am with a front nine 30, he was one of the few Heritage entries to go the full 18—and wound up with a 64. Palmer didn't even bother to turn in his card.

Nicklaus got $250 for winning the pro-am and now, with $140,536 so far this year, $6,836 less than front-running Billy Casper who is not playing here, could become the year's leading money winner with a third-place finish in the Heritage.

There are 100 entries in the Heritage classic, 99 pros and amateur Steve Melnyk. There are 144 lesser pros and amateurs in the Sea Pines Open but that field will be cut in half at the end of today's second round.

In the Sea Pines Open, Bill Wright started the day in third place after shooting a 68

Wednesday while Carl Lohren, James Dent and Larry Sears all had 69s in the opening round.

Hart and McCauley head team

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—Two quarterbacks—Leo Hart of Duke and Wake Forest's Larry Russell—were named to the All-Atlantic Coast Conference team Wednesday by conference sports writers.

But only two players—North Carolina tailback Don McCauley and Duke wide receiver Wes Chesson—were named in all 83 ballots cast.

Duke quarterback Hart missed unanimous selection by only two ballots.

Conference champion Wake Forest placed six men on the 23-player team 11 offensive players, 11 defenders and one kicker.

Celtics drop Portland

BOSTON (UPI)—Captain John Havlicek scored 32 points and Jo Jo White scored 12 of the team's last 14 points Wednesday as the Boston Celtics beat the Portland Trail Blazers 122-115.

In an earlier game at Boston Garden, the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Buffalo Braves 99-92.

Scores

- ABA: Indiana 101, Virginia 100; Texas 132, Memphis 101; Pittsburgh 99, New York 98; Carolina 95, Utah 94; Kentucky 153, Denver 138.

FSU and Houston battle

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Florida State and Houston, a couple of high-scoring outfits, clash Thursday night in a nationally televised game with only pride at stake. The outcome promises no bowl overtures.

Florida State lost three of its first five games, then won its next five, including Saturday's 33-7 rout of Kansas State. The FSU offense has clicked for an average of 23.3 points per game, while allowing just over two touchdowns a game.

Houston (6-3) boasts an explosive triple option attack that has chalked up an average of 24.5 points per outing and Cougar defenders also have held opponents to about two TD's a game.

Both teams had trouble at the outset this season before settling on a quarterback who rallied his team magnificently.

In Florida State's case, it was Tommy Warren. Warren became the starter with the Seminoles reeling at 2-3. They didn't lose after Warren took over.

Gary Mullins, who had a knee operation in the spring, moved to the fore as Houston's quarterback after the Cougars had dropped their first two games. They won six of the next seven.

Verga shot beats Stars

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Bob Verga, on the strategy of two back-to-back time outs, sank a three-point goal with two seconds left to give Carolina a 95-94 victory over Utah in an American Basketball Association game Wednesday.

With four seconds left on the clock, Carolina called time out after Utah had made a basket, giving it a 94-92 lead. Coach Bones McKinney instructed the Cougars to call a second time out immediately after the ball was thrown in bounds from under the basket—before another second had elapsed—so they could then take the ball inbounds from the sidelines halfway up the court.

The second time the ball was thrown in, Verga took it in front of the Cougar bench and let fly with his game-winning shot in front of the three-point line.

Taylor fired from TCU job

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI)—Fred Taylor, head football coach at Texas Christian University since 1967, was fired Wednesday by the university effective after the Horned Frogs' final game Saturday at home against Southern Methodist.

The announcement was made by TCU's athletic director Abe Martin. No successor was named.

Modell lashes at Bengals' Brown

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Cleveland Browns owner Art Modell fired back at his former coach, Paul Brown, Wednesday, and said Brown failed to win "even one conference title" in his last five years at Cleveland. vk Brown, now coach and general manager of the Cincinnati Bengals, in recent weeks has been critical of Modell, trades made by Cleveland, and professional football owners in general.

Modell eight years ago fired Brown and Brown apparently has not forgotten. The Bengals defeated the Browns twice in three outings this season, including one exhibition game.

"I think it proper to point out that somebody must have been doing something right with the Browns in the last seven years," said Modell. "Over that period we have won one world, three divisional and four conference championships.

"Our overall won-lost record is among the three or four best in all of professional football," said Modell. "And judging from our attendance, I might add that fans here must enjoy what they are seeing."

"My memory also tells me that in Mr. Brown's last five seasons in Cleveland, his team failed to win even one conference title while a team headed by another so-called non-professional, Mr. Welling-Mara of the New York Giants, won four championships," said Modell.

HAILEY — With six key men lost to graduation and only two men returning—over six feet—Wood River coach Bill Bowman may find it hard to improve on last season's 14-11 record. But the Wolverines seem to find ways to win basketball games somehow—especially late in the season when everything rides on the tournaments.

Wood River, lost just about everybody; Daryl Jaeger, now playing for the College of Southern Idaho, Rick Aldinger, Al Miller, Denny Patterson, Mike Kimball, and Rick Thompson.

Five lettermen return, the key men being 6-3 Walt Haemmerle, a senior, and senior forward Tim Brown, 6-2. There lies all the board strength, because the other forward, Ed Bowlden, is just 5-11. Bowlden is a senior.

Bowman will go with letter winners Greg Exner and Jeff Isom in the backcourt. Both men are fast and will give the Wolverines some breaking speed. Exner is 5-9, and Isom, brother of the graduated Buddy Isom is 5-5.

Coming up from the junior varsity are Pete Gutches, 6-0 senior forward; David Nelson, 6-0 senior center; Kim Krofts, 6-0 junior forward; Ken Uhrig, 5-10 junior guard; Raine Swainston, 5-9 junior guard; Steve Bird, 6-0 junior forward; and Buck Peak Jr., 5-10 junior forward.

Wood River opens by hosting Butte of Arco in a weekend series, playing single games next Friday and Saturday nights. The remainder of the Wolverines' schedule: Dec. 11, Salmon at Wood River; Dec. 19, Wendell at Wood River; Jan. 2, Wood River at Shoshone.

Jan. 8, Jerome at Wood River; Jan. 9, Wood River at Salmon; Jan. 15, Wood River at Glenns Ferry; Jan. 16, Gooding at Wood River; Jan. 22, Wood River at Wendell; Jan. 23, Buhl at Wood River; Jan. 29, Shoshone at Wood River; Jan. 30, Wood River at Filer; Feb. 5, Wood River at Jerome; Feb. 12, Wood River at Gooding; Feb. 13, Glenns Ferry at Wood River; Feb. 19, Wood River at Buhl, and Feb. 20, Wood River at Filer.

Nate breaks Warrior mark

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Nate Thurmond pumped in only 10 points Wednesday night but they were enough as the 6-11 center tied the San Francisco club's scoring record of 8,014 points as the Warriors defeated the Cleveland Cavaliers, 108-99.

Former Idaho star takes over contender in Gooding

GOODING — Former University of Idaho backcourt star Jim Thacker takes over the Gooding Senators this year, and things look good. So good, in fact, that the Senators are a favorite in the SCIC and Big Six basketball races.

The big reason for such optimism about a club that finished with an overall 12-8 mark last year is big Frank Frahn — just a junior. Krahn, 6-7, flashed occasional brilliance last season at times and was steady all year, averaging right around 20 points a game and 15 rebounds.

The big guy, who started as a freshman for the Senators two years ago, should be one of the top scorers and rebounders in the Valley. He'll be helped out on the front line, by Gary Gorrell, a good 6-4, 205-pound jumper who can be tough on the boards. Gorrell, a junior, and Doug Reinke, a 6-2 junior forward, join Krahn underneath.

Thacker, himself a small, quick ballhandler and outside shooting specialist when he was with the Vandals, can appreciate Jeff LaCroix. LaCroix, a 5-11 junior, will anchor the backcourt and is the best ballhandler on the club. He wasn't a consistent shooter last year but the Senators' offense will be geared to its big men anyway this season.

Monte Funkhouser, a transfer student, John Gibbons, and Joe Sagers, all seniors, will fight for the other guard spot and the starter will probably be the one who can come up with a touch from the outside — something Gooding lacked last year.

Help from the junior varsity comes from juniors Paul Sliman, 5-7 guard; Joe Daniels, 6-2 forward; Mike Becker, 6-1 postman; Rod Thomas, 6-8 forward, and Troy Hurd, 5-8 guard.

The Senators open next Friday by hosting Aberdeen, then travel to Bishop Kelly in Boise the next night to take on the Knights. Gooding's schedule: Dec. 4 — Aberdeen; Dec. 5 — Bishop Kelly; Dec. 11 — Mountain at Mountain Home; Dec. 12 — Valley at Gooding; Dec. 19 — Glens Ferry, at Gooding; Jan. 2 — Buhl at Gooding; Jan. 8 — Filer at Gooding; Jan. 9 — Jerome at Jerome; Jan. 15 — Shoshone at Shoshone; Jan. 16 — Wood River at Hailey; Jan. 22 — Glens Ferry at Glens Ferry; Jan. 23 — Mountain Home at Gooding; Jan. 29 — Wendell at Gooding; Jan. 30 — Buhl at Buhl.

Feb. 5 — Filer at Filer; Feb. 6 — Jerome at Gooding; Feb. 12 — Wood River at Gooding; Feb. 13 — Shoshone at Gooding, and Feb. 19 — Wendell at Wendell.

Shorter takes crown

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI)—Frank Shorter, clad in women's parity hose to keep his legs warm in 20-degree temperature; Wednesday won the U.S. Track and Field Federation cross-country championship in 29:01.3, a new record for the Pennsylvania State University course.

Shorter, along with his teammates from the Florida Track and Field Club, donned the panty hose before he began the six-mile run over the wind-lashed Penn State golf course.

"This had to be the coldest weather I've ever run in," Shorter said. "My biggest problem was that my lungs kept icing up. I found it hard to get my breath. My lungs kept getting tight inside."

John Bednarski of the University of Texas at El Paso finished second, just 7-10ths of a second behind Shorter. Donald Walsh of Villanova finished third followed by Greg Fredericks of Penn State and Jack Bacfielder of the Florida Track Club, the defending champion.

Shorter eclipsed the time of 29:35 set by Bachelor last year over the Penn State course. Bachelor, whose time last year also was a record, was running with a heavily taped injured left ankle.

Bachelor's fifth place finish enabled the Florida club to win the team championship with 36 points. Villanova was second followed by the University of Texas at El Paso.

Size underneath and speed return for Buhl Indians

BUHL — The Buhl Indians lost their two best scorers to graduation, but returning this season is a host of big men, speed in the backcourt, and some bench depth coming up from the Junior Varsity. Coach Rod Hohnhorst could have a darkhorse contender for the South Central Idaho championship.

The Indians, who open next Friday night at Glens Ferry, lost their first six games last year, then came on like gangbusters after knocking off Gooding in an early game, ending the season 14-12.

Top shooters Ralph Keeney and Jim Anderson are gone, but the returnees can do more than fill up the holes. Returning lettermen include Steve Meier, a 6-5 senior center who improved game by game last season; Bob Anderson, 6-2 senior forward, and John Muirhead, 5-11 senior forward. Muirhead could be a big scorer for the Indians and is probably the best pure shooter on the club.

In the backcourt Hohnhorst will call on Mahlon Hammerquist, a heady 5-9 senior who could be counted on last year in tough situations. Tim Hudson, an all-league safety in football, will man the other backcourt post. Hudson, a good outside shooter at times, is a 5-9 senior. Steve Hopkins, a 6-0 senior, can be used a swing man and will see quite a bit of time in the backcourt.

Buhl's JV hopefuls include Kendall Meier, Steve's younger brother who stands 6-6. Craig Saunders, a 6-5 junior forward and Greg Owen, a 6-2 junior forward, add depth underneath. Guard prospects include Joel Watson, 6-0 junior, and Kim Dunlap, 6-0 junior.

The Indians' schedule: Dec. 4 — Glens Ferry at Ferry; Dec. 5 — Wendell at Wendell; Dec. 11 — Aberdeen at Buhl; Dec. 12 — Emmett at Buhl; Dec. 18 — Wendell at Buhl; Dec. 19 — Emmett at Emmett; Jan. 2 —

Gooding at Gooding; Jan. 9 — Filer at Filer; Jan. 15 — Valley at Buhl; Jan. 16 — Buhl at Jerome; Jan. 23 — Wood River at Hailey; Jan. 26 — Burley at Buhl; Jan. 29 — Valley at Eden;

Hornets seeking title encore

OKALEY — Neal Wyatt, who assisted Gary Swan last season, inherits an Oakley Hornet team that went 25-1 last year, took the Magic Valley Conference title, then went on to win the state A-4 Tournament in Burley. An encore is not out of the question.

The Hornets, who begin the season next Friday by hosting North Gem, are again strong contenders for the Magic Valley Conference crown. Although top scorer Kim Martindale, Steve McLaws, Bub Poulton, and Bryan Crafton were lost to graduation, the returnees are formidable.

Randy Hardy, 6-4 senior center, is a consistent 20s scorer and will be the big man underneath, along with 6-3 senior Lynn Simmons. Keith Adams, 5-10 senior guard with two years' experience in the backcourt, is the big man back at guard.

Dutch Robinson, 6-1 senior and clutch shooter all year last season for the champions, mans one corner post, while David Baker, 5-11 senior, will be the other forward. David Egbert, 5-9, will see guard duty and adds bench strength.

Other prospects include Raymond Severe, 5-7 junior guard; Jim Burch, 6-0 junior forward; Wayne Mullen, 5-10 junior forward, and Larry Palmer, 5-11 junior forward.

Oakley's schedule: Dec. 4 — North Gem at Oakley; Dec. 12 — Malad at Oakley; Dec. 18 — Malad at Malad; Dec. 19 — Shoshone at Oakley; Dec. 22 — Ferry at Ferry; Dec. 29 — Kimberly at Oakley; Jan. 5 —

Jan. 30 — Gooding at Buhl; Feb. 5 — Glens Ferry at Buhl; Feb. 6 — Filer at Buhl; Feb. 13 — Burley at Burley; Feb. 19 — Wood River at Buhl; Feb. 20, Jerome at Buhl.

West claimed his double wasn't really bad. He pointed out that if he had opened a diamond, South would have gone down one trick, but East was unimpressed. The bridge player who takes action on every hand is an exciting partner, but not the sort we want when the chips are down: A winning player must learn to pass and take the worst of it on occasion.

West was one of those exciting players. He held five points opposite an opening no-trump and was not going to let that "devil South" preempt him out of his profit.

His double of three clubs rang out like a clarion. North and East passed happily. North, because he had some apparent support for his partner; East because he had a maximum no-trump with two aces and two kings.

South passed because he had no place to go.

West had a problem about his lead and he solved it as poorly as possible. He led the deuce of spades! South wasted no time making his doubled contract. He dis-

by L.M. Boyd

A POLICE STATISTICIAN contends about 40 per cent of the patrolmen in this country hold down second jobs... IF EVERYBODY in the world lived in Texas, they'd go about 16 persons to the acre... Or so say the population experts... THOSE AUTHORITIES who analyze political campaigns have dug up the odd fact that somebody in a crowd of 100 people coughs every two-and-a-half minutes.

WIVES WHO WORK out rarely take their jobs home with them. Husbands frequently do so. But husbands rarely take their home-life troubles to the office. Yet working wives are apt to do that. When a wife appears to be all shook up on the job, what's responsible almost invariably is something that happened elsewhere. But when a husband gets disturbed at work, the cause is usually right there. Such is the claim of a personnel expert.

OPEN QUESTION - Isn't "supercede" the only word in English that ends in "cede"?

NO WONDER IT'S the musical on Broadway that's most apt to make money. If the original cast also tapes an album, those records almost always turn more profit than the show itself... WHAT DOMESTICATED ANIMAL retains the most wild instincts? I mean, what such animal most readily returns to its original pattern of life if tossed into the wilderness? Absolutely correct, sir. The housecat.

AT HAND IS a letter from a client who takes our Love and War man to task for referring so frequently to the romantic attractions of beautiful girls. The mature public does not dwell on such thoughts, this writer contends. Is that right? Okay, say you get to know somebody who wears a skirt and whose lips give you considerable pleasure. Who is that party? Your first thought was of a Scottish bagpipe player, wasn't it. Liarwise, of course.

CUSTOMER SERVICE- Q. "How much does it cost to feed an astronaut in flight?" A. Anywhere from $150 to $300 per day. That has been the price tag so far... Q. "Is it true elephants fight by trying to bite off each other's tails?" A. The females do that. The males go for the kill with their tusks.

WHICH BRINGS UP: How do you get down off an elephant? A client suggests the foregoing rhetorical question is the world's oldest riddle. Maybe so. What all oldesters know that youngsters may not yet know, possibly, is you don't get down off an elephant, but off a duck, and I only repeat this peculiar little thing because it is part of our ancient heritage.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 99068, Seattle, Wash. 98199

Ghetto project launched

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Eighty junior high school students from a black ghetto area go under an educational microscope in a pilot project designed to help change rising patterns of juvenile delinquency.

The students, 60 boys and 20 girls from Benjamin Franklin Junior High, are the subjects of a program called Behavioral Evolution Through Achievement Management (BETAM) the project will be conducted by the San Francisco Unified School District and the YMCA and YWCA units in the Fillmore District where the school is located.

Statistics and information gained during the nine-month project also will be made available to the San Francisco County Juvenile Court Division, said the director, Ray Williams.

The main thrust of the project is to "keep these kids out of jail," said Al Silverstein, of the San Francisco Unified School District. He said the students chosen for the project will be classified as juvenile delinquents because of their past histories or showing signs of becoming delinquent.

BEAM will have a two-pronged approach: Behavioral modification techniques to improve reading skills, and group dynamic sessions to strengthen individual ego structures and social skills.

"Statistics show that there is a strong correlation between kids who cannot read and juvenile delinquents," Williams said.

Working to improve students' reading capabilities is not new. The use of a "reward system" in the BEAM project is unique, however. The "reward system" simply means officials will use money to motivate the students to reach certain reading achievements.

Silverstein said about $2 per week for each student will be earmarked for the reading program. He said money will be used because the "reward system" in behavioral modification is based on a "reward" that the student is willing to work to attain.

"You must use something on their standard of values," Silverstein said, "and these kids think in terms of money." Project Director Williams said the "reward system" is a new approach for teaching reading, and he was not sure of what the results would be.

"What we may wind up with is delinquents who can read," Williams said.

The second major component of BEAM will involve the human relations group meetings, or "encounter" type sessions. Silverstein said trained group leaders will guide the twice-weekly sessions, where the student will "confront himself and his peers with many of his social and personal problems."

Silverstein said the sessions are based on the hypothesis that the selected students are experiencing conflict with family, teachers, and other authority figures, and the conflict would provide motivation for change.

New approach

MURRAY, Ky. (UPI) — A rationally known expert on alcohol education—Dr. Gerald Globetti—heads a program being set up at Murray State University which is one of a kind in the nation. The purpose of the pilot program is to demonstrate the feasibility of an inter-disciplinary approach to train individuals on the college level to use objective information about alcohol in their chosen careers.

The letter to John Keefe from Orme Lewis Jr., deputy assistant secretary of the interior, assured him "we will not permit any agency in this department to take any action in any state which may infringe on private rights or which may derogate established private land titles."

Petrie, however, said while the letters were correct the property "owners" had never received clear title to the lands.

"If a property owner has private rights to committed land, he still doesn't have a government patent on the land," he said.

The earth's magnetic poles have reversed places at least seven times in the past 3 million years.

Rites planned . . .

EVERY CITY has a character like Robert Schafer, shown in this photo with his dog, Rags, a ragged bearded man who sold trinkets and flowers in downtown Detroit. He died Nov. 17, and his body laid unclaimed for several days in the Wayne County morgue. Several people who knew him then moved to meet legal requirements and arrange a simple funeral. (UPI)

Plats filed in federal land claim

BOISE (UPI) — Plats of two townships in St. Anthony were filed with the Bureau of Land Management Boise land office today as the first step in the federal claim to "omitted lands" along the Snake River.

The townships—which include seven businesses and some 40 residences in St. Anthony—are claimed as federal lands. The lands were included in a second survey designed to allow the federal government to claim lands omitted from the original survey in the late 1800s.

Some 200 persons attended a public hearing in St. Anthony Tuesday night, hosted by the BLM, to learn how they may go about getting clear title to land which in many cases the persons involved believe they already own.

Curtis Taylor, acting land office manager, said the plats were officially filed "in the absence of any protests."

Under the omitted lands act, the secretary of interior is given authority to sell the lands involved or retain them as necessary.

All-black jury votes to convict

RIDGELAND, S.C. (UPI) — The first all-black jury in the history of Jasper County Tuesday acquitted Ben Chaney, younger brother of slain civil rights worker James Chaney, in the slaying of a white storekeeper.

But the jury of seven men and five women, during two hours and 13 minutes of deliberation, convicted Chaney's companion, Martin Routrell, 15, of murder but recommended mercy. The verdict carries an automatic life sentence.

Chaney, 17, and Routrell were charged with the shooting death of John R. Bazemore, 46, May 16.

The state presented 10 witnesses, including one who said Chaney waited in a car while Routrell and a third youth, Linzy Lee Thompson, 19, went into the store to steal a shotgun. Routrell was charged with the actual shooting.

Chaney, who also is charged with armed robbery and larceny in connection with the incident, was taken back to the county jail along with Routrell. Both youths also are wanted for questioning in connection with three slayings in Florida.

Chaney and Routrell were driving a car loaded with numerous automatic weapons and knives when they were arrested. Authorities said the car belonged to two Florida Atlantic University coeds who were murdered earlier. The two youths are suspects in that case and in the death of a Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., insurance salesman.

BLM would retain independent appraisers to decide the fair market value of the lands.

Under the Omitted Lands Act, the land now claimed by the federal government is to be sold at fair market value exclusive of any improvements made on the property.

Brownell said those persons who have been using the land are free to apply to buy it back again. He said those persons are also allowed to object to the appraised price, but said they must be able to enter new evidence which would support their claims.

BLM spokesmen appearing before the standing-room only crowd blamed Congress for the situation. Congress approved the Omitted Lands Act of 1962, authorizing the secretary of interior to dispose of the lands.

Richard H. Petrie, Idaho Falls district manager for the BLM, suggested persons questioning the process return to Congress to get the situation changed.

Merrill Rose, mayor of St. Anthony, drew a round of applause when he noted residents living in the area are in most cases elderly persons.

"You come here saying you want to help, so why not give these people a clear title to their land?" Rose suggested.

Also discussed during the meeting were letters sent to John Keefe, Idaho Falls, by the Department of Interior in response to Keefe's questions on disposition of omitted lands.

Keefe and his brother, Clyde Keefe, former St. Anthony mayor, have land now claimed by the federal government. Clyde Keefe bought the old St. Anthony Hospital from the city in 1959 for $20,000, but has been informed the land is now part of the omitted lands.

The letter to John Keefe from Orme Lewis Jr., deputy assistant secretary of the interior, assured him "we will not permit any agency in this department to take any action in any state which may infringe on private rights or which may derogate established private land titles."

Petrie, however, said while the letters were correct the property "owners" had never received clear title to the lands.

"If a property owner has private rights to committed land, he still doesn't have a government patent on the land," he said.

The earth's magnetic poles have reversed places at least seven times in the past 3 million years.

Dear Abby

DEAR READERS: Today is the day to reflect and give special thanks for our blessings. My personal blessings are many. May I share with you a few letters for which I am extremely thankful.

Happy Thanksgiving! ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Your short-lived "romance" is over. Your newly found sweetheart, Sol Shecter, died on August 3, prematurely, at the tender age of 86. I say "tender age" because Sol was perennially young, and he argued and fought and made up and kissed like a young boy because he had his big two-cents in everything, nothing daunted him, and we loved him for his "joie-de-vivre."

So, why am I telling you this? Because I want you to know that in the short period you corresponded with him, I wish you could have seen the glow you brought to his eyes in the last stages of his terminal illness—how he chirped around with pride when he discovered (or was informed) that you had alluded to him (who else?) in one of your columns, and how we had to make extra copies of the correspondence that went on between you two, so he could show it around with a huff and a puff.

You brought this little, old, endearing, effervescent man a few extra hours of happiness. Abby, and surely just rewards must come to a person like yourself who, despite the pressures of your professional life, can take the time to respond to another human heart.

HELEN SCHAPS (MRS. S.)
PARK VIEW HOME, CHICAGO, ILL.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 69-year-old man who has been around quite a bit and have always been able to take care of my own problems, so what am I writing to you for?

To say God bless you, and thank you from the bottom of my heart for your column in the Las Vegas Review-Journal yesterday.

You see, I have been a very sick man for the last three years. I had to give up all enjoyable activities, am on a very strict diet and I live in constant pain. I had not smiled or laughed for three years. Then I read your column (I never miss it) and two letters, one right after the other, struck me so funny, I burst right out laughing. I laughed for one hour—until the tears ran down my face, then I called up a friend and asked her to go dancing. And Abby, we went, and had a wonderful time.

She asked, "What happened to you? Did your doctor give you a new pain-killer or what?" I said, "No, laughter is the best medicine and Dear Abby wrote the prescription." Then I showed her your column, and we both laughed for the rest of the evening.

How can I thank you? DICK SULMAN

DEAR DICK: You just did!

DEAR ABBY: This is a fan letter—the first I've ever written to anyone.

Of course, I have my problems, but who doesn't? I have a fat, lazy stepson who is 28, won't hold a job and thinks his Dad owes him a living. Then there's my daughter in law who thinks I'm made of money. I solved that by telling her to get lost.

I've just enjoyed your column in the Austin, Tex., evening paper so much I had to tell you.

How about that Italian lady with the Irish husband who put an ad in the paper saying, "Marie, Come Home, the Dog Misses You." What a wonderful sense of humor.

My husband is half Irish and that sounds like something he would do. And I'd love it.

Your column makes my day. Thanks for making my happy life happier. M. P. IN-AUSTIN

Altrusa Club honorees announced

TWIN FALLS — Two Altrusa "Girls of the Month" honored recently by the local Altrusa Club, were announced today by Mrs. Miriam Depew.

Linda Baun, a senior at Twin Falls High School, was named September "Girl of the Month," and Vicki Bair, a junior, was named October "Girl of the Month."

During high school she has belonged to Kappa-Y, Pep Club, Student Council, Drill Team, Girls' League and is a senior council representative. Vicki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Bair, is a member of Girls' League, French Club, and a tentative member for Nu Alpha Theta. She is secretary of the French Club and attends the First Assembly of God Church.

Carolyn plans to attend Willamette University, Salem, Ore., working toward a degree in law.

A special guest for the Altrusa's January meeting will be Cindy Tews, November "Girl of the Month."

The concert is titled "The Fantastic Sounds of Eddie Baxter" and is sponsored by Garth's Music. The organ music will be played on a Lowrey organ.

Baxter will show how an amateur-musician can utilize the musical engineering genius of today. There are 37 million "amateur" musicians in America, an amateur being defined by the American Musical Conference as anyone who plays a musical instrument six or more times a year or who is receiving instrumental instruction.

The amateur, with more leisure time and an awakening desire to "participate" in a musical experience, has caused a boom in the entire musical industry.

Baxter will demonstrate why the electronic organ is a favorite instrument of many amateur musicians when he runs the gamut from a mellow bank of trombones — that serenade "The Girl From Ipanema" to thunder and lightning that accompany "Stormy Weather."

Without once repeating his effects, he can offer the warmth of harp and oboe, add exotic touches to "Stella by Starlight" and a cacophony of sounds including birds, monkeys and tropical noises punctuating "Nightingale." In "Street of Dreams," and entire string section materializes.

At first, listeners will think Baxter has an extra sound technician. Few musicians can play so many notes so fast. The explanation, is another engineering marvel, Lowrey Automatic Orchestra Control.

The Baxter performance promises to provide some new musical thrills for organ enthusiasts as well as some completely new sounds for the uninitiated. Certain to be included on the program are excerpts from the performer's newest Dot album which includes such durables as "Misty," "I Left My Heart in

All state agents win trip

TWIN FALLS — Allstate agents, Grant Gillette and wife, Norma, Twin Falls, and Steve Ottley and wife, Joyce and Norm Sigmon and wife, Vera, Burley-Rupert, just returned from a four-day trip to Seattle, Wash., and Harrison Hot Springs, British Columbia.

The trip was the result of their efforts in the Allstate Insurance Co.'s Life Insurance sales in the Idaho - Oregon - Washington - Alaska region in competition with more than 400 other Allstate agents.

While in Seattle, they toured the newly completed regional office, where all insurance accounts of the four states are serviced, and then went on to the Hot Springs Resort at the south end of Harrison Lake in British Columbia.

Staphylococci, mighty mites

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Staphylococci germs, commonly referred to as "staph," are so common that they can be regarded as a normal part of our environment. They inhabit nose, throat, skin, clothing, and furniture. We touch and inhale billions of them every day.

Normally, these bacteria do not cause disease. It's only when skin is abraded, cut or burned that they are likely to invade the affected area and cause infection.

Some people are more susceptible than others. The bacteria attack particularly when one's resistance is low, diet inadequate, or living conditions unsanitary.

Staphylococci bacteria multiply at an amazing rate. Bolls, styes, impetigo, and food poisoning are some of the diseases that may be staph-caused.

Staph is resistant to many drugs. However, fortunately new synthetic penicillins have been developed which fight stubborn staph — and win.

A publication on the subject suggests that the battle against staph will be won "not so much by the efforts of modern science, as by the individual effort each of us expends." At home, good housekeeping and good personal hygiene are among our best weapons in this fight.

One procedure many hospitals use that is very adaptable to the home, is to keep hands as germ-free as possible. An antibacterial skin cleanser such as pHisoHex is particularly effective against the "resident staph" not removed by ordinary cleansing methods. This antibacterial wash reduces the colonization of bacteria on the skin.

It is advisable for every member of the family to wash hands before preparing, serving, or consuming food, after dusting or cleaning, and especially after coming into contact with anyone who has an infection.

Women's liberation very much alive in France

PARIS (UPI)—So European women are more passive than U.S. Females? Don't live the difference, because women's lib is alive in France.

Four hundred women and girls from around the nation will march in their midis and maxis into a conference hall at Versailles near Paris Friday for a three-day congress on how they see their station in life, their hopes, problems and solution.

The congress, organized by the women's magazine Elle, is the first such gathering in France.

Whether only a loud minority or the majority of French females think they should be liberated will be known on the eve of the congress when the results of a nation-wide questionnaire by the magazine are disclosed Tuesday.

Meanwhile, committees named by the magazine in 22 cities have been conducting roundtable discussions among women as a warm-up to the congress. The results have been headlined in newspapers from Lille to Nice and featured on radio. And they firmly indicate the French girl of 1970 no longer is the legendary coquette drenched in Chanel No. 5 who wants only to obediently ply males with amour and cuisine.

In Rouen some women at the roundtable thought ladigs should "live with resignation and dignity" in their inferior place. But they were outnumbered by reformers who said society must give all members equal rights, despite the differences between men and women.

The Rouen woman complained that when it comes to jobs "the game isn't equal for men and women." Others said economic independence "should be the key to a just social situation, and demanded the government pay women salaries to rear children because "Maternity is productive." The mother gives to the country future consumers and producers."

One right the Rouen girls insisted upon was the right "to choose whether to have children, to marry or to work."

The roundtable participants in Lille complained women's magazines treat women "as women, wives and mothers, but never just as persons."

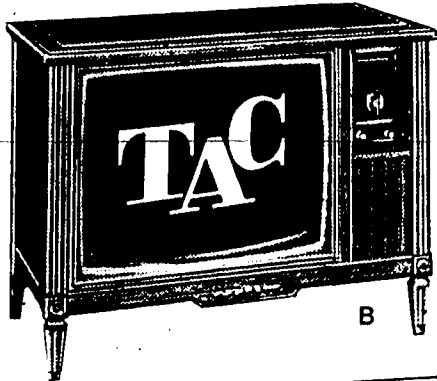

In Dijon, girls agreed that "we have the desire and need to work." The Grenoble women discussed why "women who work appear to be more satisfied with life than those who always remain housewives." They demanded free nurseries so more married women can work.

The French government has taken note of the budding movement. Jacques Baunel, a secretary of state attacked to Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas' office, has promised the government would create the first women's information center to help them find professions and skills and to explain to them their legal rights and relations with the government.

Book Review

By ELAINE NESBITT
Twin Falls Public Library
"The Hunt for the Czar" by Guy Richards is the story of an amazing hunt began in 1918 to unravel the true fate of the family of Nicolas and Alexandria.
History books tell us that Czar Nicolas II and his family were murdered at Etakerinberg, Siberia, on the night of July 16, 1918. From the very moment of the Romanovs' disappearance, a contest for the world's belief was launched by two disciples of thought.

One was embodied by the stories of Joseph Lasiers, who contended there had been no mass murders of the Romanovs. The other was embodied by the dispatches of Robert Wilson and the later "findings" of Judge Nicolas A. Sokalov's investigation. In the twenties and early thirties, it was a matter of opinion as to which side held the edge around the world. But as the thirties turned into the forties, and the forties into the fifties, and no Czar or Czarevich out of the underground, there was no question which side had the edge.

Then five years ago, a Romanov tinge began to show up in a complicated and fascinating story—the Michael Goleniewski espionage case. Whatever happened to the Russian Imperial family was at the very heart of the case. Was he—as he claimed to be, Alex Nicholaevick Romanov, the supposedly long dead son and heir of Czar Nicholas II?
What really happened to the Romanovs? Why have they never claimed their huge fortune? Is this the reason the other surviving Romanovs never recognized the pretenders because of a supposed conspiracy with the banks in the matter of the fortune? Is there a hidden contest for the Romanov inheritance? Is the Russian Orthodox Church outside Russia (and-or) in Mother Russia allied with one of the Romanov factions in a plan to share the money that would be their due because Nicholas was head of the Church?

Mr. Richards gives a comprehensive list of those to whom he is indebted in writing his book.

Behavior patterns reviewed

NEW YORK (UPI)—In polite society, you break your bread or roll instead of chomping it whole.

You may think you do it to keep from looking ugly or to keep your cheeks from bulging with a portion that's too large. Maybe so, but you also do it in the fashion of a habit started among nobility during the medieval era.

Mrs. Esther B. Aresty says that fashion at bread-eating time prevailed in the 16th century out of consideration for others. In this instance, the "others" were the poor of the time.

It was custom to collect the table leftovers for them at the end of a meal. And it was good manners to leave some bread at meal's end.

Mrs. Aresty, of Trenton, N.J., is the author of "The Best Behavior" (Simon and Schuster), a new book that traces the course of good manners from antiquity to the present.

Through history and in the present, Mrs. Aresty said "consideration for others" still is the basis of civilized behavior.

Health sleuths conduct survey

NEW YORK (UPI)—When you're under psychological stress do your hands tremble or sweat? Or do you react by having nightmares, fainting spells, or heart palpitations? As part of the on-going National Health Survey, Uncle Sam's health sleuths asked a selected cross-section of Americans questions along those lines. They analyze the answers in a new report, "Selected Symptoms of Psychological Distress." The symptoms investigated included nervousness, inertia, insomnia, trembling hands, nightmares, perspiring hands, fainting, headaches, dizziness, heart palpitations, nervous breakdowns or feelings of an impending breakdown. Women, interestingly, had significantly higher rates than men for every symptom. Some 86 of every 100 women and 89 of every 100 men reported at least one symptom. The symptom with the greatest sex difference was nervousness with 71 per cent of the women and 45 per cent of the men responding "Yes," according to the report. Older persons had higher rates for nervous breakdown, insomnia, dizziness, and heart palpitations. Rates for impending nervous breakdowns were generally higher among the 25- to 54-year age group. Age was not significantly related to inertia, trembling hands, nightmares, or fainting. The investigators also analyzed symptoms according to education. They found a higher symptom rate than expected occurred for the less educated compared with the more educated groups. They also reported a general trend for higher symptom rates with lower income. Among white men and women, higher rates with lower income were noted with regard to nervous breakdown and heart palpitations. It was found that the never-married groups tended to have lower symptom rates than any other group. Women, at least when it comes to psychological stress, apparently, indeed, are the weaker sex. Even in the check on palpitating hearts, more women than men said they are bothered frequently by their hearts "beating hard."

Green is the color most commonly seen in the aurora borealis or northern lights. When the light is especially strong, pale or even deep red is also visible toward the poles.

Beauty hint

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — If puffiness under the eyes is one of your beauty problems, famed make-up authority Max Factor suggests the following simple remedy.

Stroke on a darker tone of foundation make-up than you normally use to the puffed area. A cream type, such as UltraLucent Whipped Creme Make-Up, is ideal. Blend it at the edges to carefully avoid any lines of demarcation. Then apply your normal base.

If necessary, touch-up the under-eye area with the darker tone. Pat on powder right up to the roots of the lower lashes for a matte finish, since any greasy highlight only emphasizes the puffiness. Shadow your eyes with the latest gleaming iridescent tones and apply a pair of Fashion Lashes chosen from the exciting new Peak-A-Boo Lash Collection featuring four luscious styles in all.

T.F. counselor overcomes man-sized problems

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — Sherman Bellwood had a problem — a man-sized problem that few people have to face. How he solved his problem is an epic story of heroism.

Sherm Bellwood, son of Judge and Mrs. Sherman J. Bellwood, Rupert, was faced with the shattering prospect of spending

SHERM BELLWOOD

New to old

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You can step from your airplanes right into 18th century Georgia at this northeast Georgia city's airport. The terminal building is a farmhouse which was moved from the backwoods of Oglethorpe County to a site adjoining the runway.

the rest of his life in a wheelchair at the age of 21 — the age when a young man's dreams are being realized; when an active, busy future lies just ahead.

But Sherm's future at the age of 21 was bleak indeed — a future of pain, of multiple hospitalizations, and of being unable to move without effort. His plans, instead of an active career free of restraint, had to be reoriented and re-examined. Even house-hunting became a tedious search for the right door width and the proper room orientation and no basements, please.

Sherm found his career, with the Vocational Rehabilitation Service in Twin Falls. He found his home in Twin Falls. And he found himself.

It all started back in 1965, while Sherm was attending the University of Idaho at Moscow. Three years of university life went by without undue trouble; then came his senior year — his final year; his graduation year. It was not to be.

In September, 1965, just before classes started, a car wreck brought an end to everything; it almost brought an end to Sherman Bellwood. He walked out to the car that day near Moscow. He hasn't walked since.

Multiple fractures. Multiple injuries. Multiple operations. And no end to pain . . . the physical pain and the mental anguish. Paraplegics such as Sherm face emotional pain that usually makes the physical problems seem small indeed.

When the fractures healed; when the operations ceased for a time; when the outpatient clinic became Sherm's "second home" instead of the surgical suite, then the next step began. A life must be rebuilt. A career must be found.

Sherm recalls . . . and admits . . . that he was far from a model patient during those long months in the hospitals and afterward. Depression set in; deep-set depression that negated all efforts to cheer him up or bring him out of his lethargy; out of his despondency.

Then, anger. Anger at life, at himself, at whatever. And bitterness . . . common with cripples. Sherm can admit it all now. But not then. He had a long way to go. A long way up and a long way back.

And Sherm came back. Back to college and back to life. He tried a term at the University of Washington, but it didn't work out. For one thing, he lacked a clear-cut objective while attending the college. Another accident, involving a bath and water too hot for his insensitive leg nerves, resulted in severe burns and a "staph" infection.

Back home, Sherm tried various kinds of jobs: Office work, bill collecting, serving as consultant to the Idaho Department of Employment. But the college dream remained, and he re-entered the University of Idaho in September, 1968.

This time, it worked; in August, of this year, Sherm completed requirements for a bachelor of science degree. His vocational armor included a secondary-level teaching certificate, qualifying him to teach biological sciences in Idaho high schools.

However, personal counseling posed a continuing challenge. His training and his experience — especially the personal tragedy he was overcoming daily — qualified him for a position with the Vocational Rehabilitation Service.

And Twin Falls gained both a new citizen and an enthusiastic counselor when Sherman Bellwood was assigned to the local office of "Rehab."

Living in a wheelchair, unable to get about without your wheels, can in itself be a shattering experience. All of life is affected; from getting up in the morning, which requires nearly two hours of effort, to simple activities of living that most people take for granted; life becomes a series of problems and obstacles to be overcome.

Driving a car, for instance. When you're bound to a wheelchair, you don't just "hop in the car and drive off;" you plan every move in advance. Sherm's car uses hand controls entirely, principally to avoid the problem of spasticity, common to paraplegics. Though he could conceivably use his feet on the brakes, the spastic tendency, which could produce uncontrollable leg movements, makes this too hazardous.

Even the car's heater is a hazard. Since his damaged leg nerves can not record heat and cold correctly, he could suffer a serious burn even from a car heater. He keeps the heater control on "defrost" to deflect the heat from his legs.

Finally, dealing with "normies," as Sherm describes people who are unimpaired and often unaware of the problems he faces, requires an adjusted attitude. Patience, understanding and at times a thick skin, are essential. A disabled person must understand others rather than expect others to "understand" him and his problems.

Counseling appeals strongly to Sherm; especially the chance to help others who are handicapped in various ways.

"It's challenging work; stimulating and rewarding," he said. "I wouldn't recommend my 'curriculum' even in the slightest way to anybody else; but I'll wager I've had vocational training equalled by few counselors — both formal and informal.

"I hope to be a career counselor," Sherm Bellwood concluded.

Sawtooth yule tree permits available now

TWIN FALLS — Permits for Christmas tree cutting in the Twin Falls Ranger District of the Sawtooth National Forest are now being issued at the district office in Twin Falls at 1525 Addison Ave. E.

Ranger Lewis Munson announced the permits will be sold until Dec. 15 if permits are still available at that time. However, trees may be cut until Christmas on a first come, first served basis, he said.

No permits will be issued at the district ranger station in Rock Creek Canyon.

Two cutting areas are open this year. These include the Fourth Fork of Rock Creek on the road turning southwest above the new lift at Magic Mountain and below the ranger station, and in the Elk Creek and Walstrom Hollow area. This is nine miles above the canyon boundary on the left side of the canyon for vehicles traveling up the canyon grade. A sign, "Christmas trees" will be located in cutting area.

Munson said persons may not cut trees within 500 feet of any campground, summer home or other improvement and only Alpine fir or lodge pole pine trees may be cut. No trees taller than eight feet may be cut, with topping of larger trees prohibited.

Munson said tags required on all trees cut in the area will be available from the Twin Falls office Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Each permit fee is $1 for one tree.

Navy to select 1,700 scholarship winners

TWIN FALLS — The Navy will choose 1,700 young men for its NROTC College Scholarship program, according to local Navy Recruiters.

Deadline for application, they said, is Dec. 1. Applicants must take either the American College Test or the Scholastic Aptitude test prior to Dec. 31, 1970; arrange with the appropriate testing agency for submission of their scores to the NROTC program, and apply for the NROTC College Scholarship Program by Dec. 1, 1970, in accordance with the 1971 bulletin of information.

Brochures and application blanks for this program may be obtained from the Navy recruiting office in Twin Falls. Those wishing to obtain information should call Dean Getchell at the station.

Trade measure hassle growing

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The trade bill limiting U.S. imports still is a long way from President Nixon's desk, but the controversy it has aroused is worldwide and growing hotter by the day.

Reactions as to its effects on world trade vary from the word "catastrophic" applied to it by the head of the French Exporters Federation to the "well balanced" label placed upon it by its sponsor, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

Since even the most astute of world economists frequently disagree in their interpretations of cause and effect, it is unfortunately true that the full effect of the Mills proposal cannot be judged until put into practice. And it is equally unfortunate that legislation capable of altering the entire course of world trade should have its genesis in a quarrel which originated between the United States and Japan and should have been settled by them in the first place.

That they have resumed their negotiations belatedly only lends emphasis to the melancholy nature of the controversy.

In the beginning the issue centered upon U.S. demands that the Japanese voluntarily restrict textile exports to the United States, running at about $500 million annually. The Japanese refused.

If the worst were to occur, it is estimated that that $1.9 billion in market exports, including automobiles, could be hurt.

Outside the Common Market countries and Japan there also were sharply expressed anger and fears. Spain provided a case in point.

Spanish Foreign Minister Gregorio Lopez Bravo pointed out that Spain traditionally buys more from the United States than she sells. He declared that if Spanish exports are hurt by the Mills bill, Spain would take every step possible to cut her imports in half.

The gap in what Spain sells to the United States and what the United States buys is expected this year to come to more than $400 million.

Other critics of the legislation have predicted that rather than helping the U.S. economy, it will instead produce increased unemployment.

Certain it is that the critics are crying before they are hurt. The bill might be blocked in the Senate. The President might veto it.

Or it might be as Mills himself says, that the restrictions would come to no more than $300-million out of total U.S. imports of $40 billion.

Not so sure . . .

'Britain first' policy proclaimed by Heath

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath has proclaimed a "Britain first" foreign policy as one of his major goals.

Some British commentators already are comparing it to the "independent" policies pursued for 11 years by the late French President Charles de Gaulle which brought him into constant conflict with the United States and his other allies.

Others have predicted it may mean less dependence on the United States than during former Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party administration.

Heath first hinted at his "Britain first" doctrine in a speech to his Conservative party's rank-and-file convention at Blackpool Oct. 10. In it he called for "gaining freedom of maneuver for British diplomacy" overseas and "an end to the years of retreat."

"We are determined," he said, "to establish the reputation of Britain once again, a reputation as a firm defender of her own interests and the skillful and persistent partner of all those who are working for a lasting peace."

Heath carried this doctrine a stage further in his speech at London's Guildhall Nov. 16 when he proclaimed "The time has come to establish clearly and unmistakably that British policies are determined by British interests."

Cyclist socked

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Safety officials report that the motorcyclist is injured or killed in 90 per cent of motorcycle-automobile collisions, and the automobile driver is usually at fault.

Seedling orders accepted

TWIN FALLS — The forestry nursery, University of Idaho, is taking orders now for spring delivery of seedling trees.

Order blanks and assistance in planning farm tree plantings are available at the county extension offices throughout the area, says Twin Falls County Extension Agent, Donald Youtz.

Vernon Burlison, extension forester, said the seedlings are available to anyone in Idaho who lives outside city limits. Seedlings may be used for forest, windbreak or Christmas tree plantings. They may not be used for ornamental purposes.

The tiny trees are available in species suitable for every area of the state. The order blank lists species by area, so you know which ones to order.

The cost goes down as the number ordered goes up. Price for the minimum order of 100 is $4.00; price for lots of 1,000 is $21, except golden willow hybrid poplar and blue spruce, which are 4 cents each regardless of the number ordered.

Price of trees includes delivery to county extension offices. Orders are filled on a first come, first served basis and trees are delivered in the spring when weather favors planting.

Society publishes new atlas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Don't ask the National Geographic Society where the lowest point of land in Antarctica is. Nobody knows.

If they had, however, you'd be sure to find out about it in the just published revised third edition of the National Geographic Atlas of the World, a work the society justly describes as "monumental."

The first edition of the Atlas came out in 1963. This third edition reflects the National Geographic's determination to keep the big book up to date.

It answers thousands of questions that might occur to you about the earth and its peoples. Such as, how deep is the ocean? What does the earth weigh? Where is the wettest (or driest) spot on the globe? What is the youngest nation?

One reason the Geographic felt bound to revise its Atlas again is that there are 19 more independent nations than there were in 1963, bringing the total to 143.

The Atlas tells you, if you read the textual descriptions, a lot more about these nations than can be conveyed by maps. Example: The people of Nauru enjoy one of the highest living standards in the Pacific thanks to rich phosphate deposits on their little isle.
