Pope escapes assassin's knife thrust

MANILA (UPI)—A Bolivian artist disguised as a priest tried to stab Pope Paul VI with a foot-long knife today. Aides threw themselves in front of the pontiff, subdued the assailant and the uninjured Pope went ahead with a full day of activities.

The assailant, Benjamin Mendoza y Amor, 35, was arrested and police said he would be charged with attempted murder. He was quoted as saying: "I want to eliminate the Pope because he is the symbol of superstition and hypocrisy. I don't believe in ideology or religion."

Although the Pope was not hurt, the attack and his extremely heavy schedule took its toll. Tonight, in a speech at the presidential palace, the Pope looked tired and slurred his words. He had been on the go for more than 32 hours with only brief catnaps on the plane from Rome to Manila via Iran and East Pakistan.

The attack came moments after the 73-year-old Pope stepped from his jetliner at Manila International Airport to begin an historic tour of Asian and Pacific lands.

The Pope proceeded almost as if the incident had not happened, receiving the cheers of one million persons as he drove to downtown Manila for talks with President Ferdinand E. Marcos—one of the heroes of the aborted attack on the Pope.

Aides said Marcos, the Pope's private secretary, Msgr. Pasquale Macchi, and an English missionary bishop, Msgr. Anthony D. Galvin, played the key roles in keeping the Pope out of harm's way.

Macchi threw himself on the assailant and prevented him from reaching the Pope. Marcos parried Mendoza's knife with a karate chop. Galvin, a 51-year-old 200-pounder, wrestled Mendoza away into the arms of security police who collared him and hustled him off to jail.

Mendoza was cut in the scuffling and some stains of blood splattered the Pope's white robes. Cardinal Stephen Kim of South Korea received a small cut on one arm from Mendoza's knife, a wavy-bladed dagger known as a kris.

Witnesses said the Pope was startled but regained his composure quickly and went on with the welcoming ceremony. Speaking 10 hours later at the end of a long and arduous day, the frail Pope called for a more equitable distribution of wealth in the Philippines where 90 per cent of the nation's riches are possessed by 10 per cent of the population.

He made no references to the airport attack.

Indians bury rock

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (UPI)—Two dozen American Indians, some in native dress, buried Plymouth Rock under mounds of sand Thursday, took over the Mayflower II and flipped over a Thanksgiving table laden with turkeys and pies, saying they would not eat "white man's food."

About 200 Indians from across the country, including Alcatraz Island, had gathered at the site of the Pilgrims' landing 350 years ago to protest the treatment Indians received at the hands of white settlers. They met first in front of a statue of Massasoit, the leader of the Wampanoag tribe, which lived in the Plymouth area during the time of the pilgrims.

Afterward, they moved down to Plymouth Rock and covered it with sand as one Indian proclaimed, "A curse on this rock." Then they headed for the Mayflower, a replica of the ship that brought the pilgrims to America.

Heart fails Ulbricht

BERLIN (UPI)—East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht had a mild heart attack Saturday, West German sources said today.

The sources said Ulbricht, 77, became sick after visiting Leipzig for the installation of a new party leader there. The sources said reports reaching the West indicated Ulbricht was not in a grave condition.

The Neues Deutschland, official party newspaper, announced today postponement of Ulbricht's trip to Romania early next month. It gave no reason for the postponement.

Nixon rejects tax hike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Although he is faced with a third straight annual deficit, President Nixon virtually has ruled out any request for new or higher taxes in the budget he will send to Congress in January.

"The prospects for a new tax proposal for revenue purposes are not very great," a high administration official explained. "You don't want to raise taxes in the middle of a slack economic period."

Without a major tax increase, Nixon's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 is almost certain to be out of balance. A deficit, possibly as high as $15 billion, is assured for the current fiscal year which ends June 30. The previous fiscal year, the first of Nixon's term, ended with a deficit of $2.8 billion.

In an effort to hold spending as close as possible to income, Nixon has ordered his Office of Management and Budget (OMB) to keep a tight rein on expenditures.

Administration sources said the Treasury Department has prepared a list of possible budget-balancing tax measures, including boosts in income and excise taxes, a value-added levy and postponement of scheduled reductions included in the 1969 Tax Reform Act. But Nixon decided that economic and political considerations both pointed to no new taxes next year, the sources said.

The President may decide to resubmit to Congress a proposed tax on the lead in gasoline and could suggest reform of inheritance and gift taxes, officials said.

Plane pancakes near Kimberly

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

KIMBERLY — Investigation into a Thanksgiving night plane crash that claimed the life of a North Dakota pilot southeast of here, was being made today by Federal Aviation Agency representatives.

Sheriff Paul Corder, who investigated the accident Thursday night, said Gene Benedict Kastner, 35, Garrison, N. D., was apparently killed instantly when his light plane pancaked into a pasture southeast of here during a snowstorm.

While cause of the accident is still under investigation, Sheriff Corder said it may have been mechanical failure or icing of the plane.

The crash was reported at 5:44 p. m., five miles south and one mile east of Kimberly in a pasture between the Stricker and Presnell ranches.

An autopsy ordered by County

Coroner Cloyce Edwards and performed early Friday verified the pilot died of multiple injuries. Edwards said there was grease on the pilot's hands indicating he may have been working on the plane.

Sheriff Corder said the pilot, alone in the craft, was not thrown out although parts of the plane were scattered over three nearby fields. He said it appeared the plane had hit the ground while in an upside-down position.

Witnesses in the area said they saw the craft go into a spin and one witness said the motor was dead while another reported it appeared to be "wide open."

Bob Presnell, who reported the accident, said it appeared the craft was in a tailspin as it went down. He said it was growing dark and snowing when he saw the low-flying plane was in trouble.

The pilot was reported en route from his home in Garrison to Reno, Nev., where his wife resided. Sheriff's officers said the wife and several other relatives were en route to Twin Falls today.

FAA officials reported the pilot had been in radio contact with the Salt Lake City center via relay from the Burley FAA station about 15 minutes before he crashed and the message indicated he was planning to land at the Twin Falls airport.

Sheriff Corder said the plane, a four-place Piper Comanche, was flattened to about 18 inches by the impact and it was necessary to tear away the fuselage with a wrecker to recover the body.

At the direction of Civil Aeronautics Director Chet Moulton and FAA officials, Sheriff Corder posted a guard at the site Thursday night. Ray Porter, Kimberly, stood by until this morning when FAA officials and sheriff's officers resumed the investigation.

Pancaked . . .

FLATTENED WRECKAGE of a Piper Comanche four-place plane which crashed southeast of Kimberly Thanksgiving night in a snowstorm is shown here. Pilot of the plane, Gene B. Kastner, 35, Garrison, N. D., the lone occupant, was killed instantly, officers said.

Egypt balks

By United Press International
Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad said today Egypt will refuse to extend the Middle East cease-fire past Feb. 3 if Israel tries to stall in the peace talks with U.N. negotiator Gunnar V. Jarring.

"Egypt will not accept a new extension of the cease-fire unless we are convinced that Israel's talks with Jarring are proceeding seriously," Riad said in an interview with the mss circulation Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar.

Riad predicted Israel would resume talks shortly before the Feb. 3 cease-fire expiration date and then stall while the United States proposed a cease-fire extension.

Military officials in Cairo said Egypt's armed forces remained on full alert today because of an Israeli military buildup along the Suez Canal. The officials said there were fears of a preemptive strike into Egypt.

Strike charges muted at Buhl

By LORAYNE SMITH
Times-News Staff Writer

BUHL — A settlement has been reached over an important side issue in the prolonged Carter Packing Co. strike here, the Times-News learned today.

The National Labor Relations Board approved today an informal agreement worked out earlier between striking Meat Cutters and the firm management concerning union charges of unfair labor practices.

The agreement has been signed by Ronald Carter, Boise, legal counsel for the firm, and Paul Mals, Nampa, secretary-treasurer of Local 368 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters. The union brought the charges of unfair labor practices against Mel Carter after the strike began last Sept. 3 in a dispute over wages and dues checkoff system. He was charged with refusal to bargain in good faith and allegedly made statements he "never would sign a union contract."

Harold Chile, NLRB official, Seattle, said his agency investigated the case and "found there was reasonable belief that the violation had occurred," but the settlement was worked out between the two sides.

If Carter lives up to provisions of the agreement, which include the stipulation he will not threaten any employee with lockout and will not threaten to stall or otherwise delay bargaining, the NLRB will close the case after 60 days, Chile said.

The firm's president must not bypass the local bargaining agent, Union No. 368, by presenting contract proposals directly to the employees and he must not threaten any of his employees with discharge for participating in a lawful strike.

The strike began last Sept. 3 when employees walked out over a wage dispute. Since then Carter has hired some 15 men and kept the meat packing plant in operation.

Hickel will speak out on firing

WASHINGTON (UPI) Walter J. Hickel, abruptly dismissed by President Nixon from his post as Interior Secretary, has promised to speak out next week on his ouster.

Nixon fired the 51-year-old former governor of Alaska Wednesday night in what was described as the most abrupt dismissal of a cabinet officer since April, 1952, when President Harry S. Truman fired Attorney General J. Howard McGrath in a dispute over a corruption investigation within the Truman administration.

Nixon notified Hickel of his decision in a 25-minute meeting at the White House. Hickel went to the White House believing he was to attend a budget meeting. A spokesman for Nixon said the President took the action because the two men did not have "mutual confidence."

Nixon nominated Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, the Republican National Chairman, to succeed Hickel. Morton is not expected to take office until early next year. His appointment must be confirmed by the Senate.

It had been rumored for some time that Hickel was on his way out. In May, at the time of the U.S. incursion into Cambodia, Hickel angered the President with a letter urging Nixon to pay more attention to the demands of youthful protesters. The letter was leaked to the press.

Hickel also complained cabinet officers had difficulty seeing the President. Hickel made only a brief statement to reporters after his dismissal, saying "I had to do it my way." He spent Thanksgiving in seclusion with his family at their suburban Maryland home but agreed to speak Wednesday to the National Press Club. Hickel said he would "be wide open for any questions at that time."

One source said Nixon had agreed not to say anything bad about Hickel in the future. Hickel was a controversial appointee. He was quoted in 1969 as saying he did not favor "conservation for conservation's sake." Some of those who criticized him that time, however, later praised him for his performance on conservation.

"It turns out he had a great instinct for what was right and the guts to act on his convictions," Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said. Nelson had voted against confirmation.

Hickel had won praise from conservationists for his handling of the Santa Barbara channel oil spill and his opposition to the Florida Everglades jet pipeline and to an expensive oil port through his native Alaska.

"The President was remarkably patient with Mr. Hickel," said Rep. Sam Steiger, R-Ariz. "I would have fired him a long time ago."

Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., said the firing showed the administration "either cannot or will not tolerate even the slightest display of independence."

Morton, 56, was in London when he learned of his nomination for Hickel's job. He praised Hickel for giving "a new dimension to solving problems facing this country."

Regional Obituaries

Joseph A. Roe: WENDELL - Joseph Albert Roe, 77, died Thursday at St. Benedict's Nursing Home, Jerome, of a long illness.

He was born March 21, 1893, at Imperial, Neb., and spent his boyhood there, attending a one room school. On May 1, 1913, he married Eva Long at Holyoke, Colo. They homesteaded at Phillips, Colo., and after making final proof, he moved back to Nebraska where he farmed until 1937.

At that time he moved to Idaho because of the dust bowl and bought and sold livestock in the Twin Falls area until November, 1957, when he bought a farm in Jerome. He farmed there until illness forced him to retire.

In November, 1968, he moved to Wendell.

Survivors include his widow, Wendell; one son, Joseph Albert Roe Jr.; one daughter, Mrs. Connie Faye Muller, Wendell; seven grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren; four sisters, Mrs. Victor (Frances) Woodell, Lexington, Neb.; Mrs. Goldia Schamel, Imperial, Neb.; Mrs. V. W. (Katy), Steele, Oxnard, Calif.; and Mrs. Ross (Agnes) Prather, Temple City, Calif.; two brothers, W. H. Roe, Warden, Mont., and Glen Roe, Wendell.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p. m. Sunday at the Leeper Mortuary. Requiem mass will be celebrated at 10 a. m. Monday at St. Anthony Catholic Church, Wendell, with Father Patrick Sirnon as celebrant. Final rites will be held at the Wendell cemetery. Friends may call at Leeper Mortuary Saturday and Sunday and until time of services Monday.

Mrs. Crandall: BOISE - Mrs. Shirley Crandall, wife of Robert R. Crandall, former Twin Falls resident, died Wednesday in Boise.

She was born May 24, 1929, in Boise, and married Robert Crandall in 1968. Survivors include, in addition to her husband, one daughter, Orofino, and three sons, Tony Obenchain, Tim Obenchain and Terry Obenchain, all Boise; one stepson, Robbie Crandall, Boise; and one grandson.

Rosary at 8 p. m. Monday at Alden-Waggoner chapel, Boise, and requiem mass at 10 a. m. Tuesday at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Final rites will be in Dry Creek Cemetery, Boise.

Senate vote coming on consumer damage suits

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Senate is expected to vote next week on a bill that would permit a single consumer or a group to sue a business concern on behalf of all persons who purchased an allegedly defective product.

The Nixon administration opposes the legislation. Its spokesmen contend unrestricted filing of suits would clog the courts, already overburdened with huge backlogs of cases. The administration favors an alternate proposal which would permit such suits only after the Justice Department or the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has ruled that the company involved has misrepresented or failed to stand behind warranties or guarantees.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said Thursday he disagreed with the administration position.

"I just cannot understand why an administration which claims to be committed to private initiative and opposed to big government and federal intervention should be so determined to hamstring citizens who seek only a guarantee of their day in court," Bayh said.

Bayh said the allowing of "class action" suits against retailers and manufacturers would most benefit middle-income Americans. The very poor, he said, can get help from the Office of Economic Opporportunity's legal services program, while the rich generally do not bother to press consumer complaints in court.

Bayh said that while most states have laws to grant relief from consumer fraud, the protection frequently is illusory.

"It is impractical - and usually impossible - for the average consumer to go to court to protect his interests," Bayh said.

"When each claim is relatively small, the lawyer's fee will usually exceed the expected recovery."

The net result is that consumer suits are extraordinarily rare and the unscrupulous manufacturer stands a good chance of keeping the rewards from illegal or deceptive activity."

Bayh is a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which approved the bill.

Popes escape violence

VATICAN CITY (UPI) - The last Pope believed to have died a violent death was Lajo X, the renaissance Pope who patronized the painter Raphael.

Lajo, the son of Lorenzo de Medici the Magnificent, died in 1521. Some contemporaries attributed his death to poisoning, although several historians believe the real cause of death was malaria.

The last Pope known to have died a violent death was Lucius II, fatally wounded in 1145 while besieging Rome, which had been occupied by his domestic enemies.

In all, 31 Popes - not counting Lajo - are more or less reliably reported to have died violent deaths. They include St. Peter, who according to tradition was martyred in Rome in 64 or 67 A.D., and all of his first 14 successors, who are listed in church annals as martyrs.

However, the circumstances of their deaths are generally confused and obscure.

The other 16 were killed in personal and power struggles of the Middle Ages by means ranging from poison to strangling.

2 Viet days without deaths

SAIGON (UPI) - The U.S. Command said today no Americans were killed in action in Vietnam in the 48 hours ended at midnight Thursday. It was the second such two-day period without combat deaths in the war zone this month.

U.S. military spokesmen said no combat actions had been reported 12 hours after the midnight Thursday death-free period. The Command said there had been eight 24-hour spans this year when no GIs died in ground actions in Vietnam.

Field reports said South Vietnamese troops killed more than 100 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in scattered fighting Thursday and early today.

Three Americans were wounded Thursday when their OH6 observation helicopter was shot down near Pleiku, 222 miles northeast of Saigon. The U.S. Command said 4,131 helicopters have now been destroyed in the war.

Communications from Phnom Penh said Viet Cong units carried out a sustained mortar attack Thursday against Srang, 20 miles south of the Cambodian capital, and blocked Cambodian troops advancing on the Communist-occupied town of Puok. Lt. Col. Am Rong, official Cambodian military spokesman, said the attacks against Srang were the heaviest in four days. Srang is on a vital infiltration route from the Kirirom mountains to Phnom Penh.

Violent winter storm wrecks 3 light planes

Three light airplanes, tiny specks of metal with droning engines, flew into the teeth of a winter storm sweeping across Utah and Idaho. Today, five persons are dead and four injured, their planes shattered by the violence of the elements.

In an uncanny coincidence, the three planes were struck down within 36 hours of each other separated by only a few hundred miles.

The five dead were flying in two different airplanes, both Piper Comanche single-engine aircraft. One was flying from California with four passengers; the other from North Dakota with only the pilot.

Both were wrecked in southern Idaho, as the pilots desperately fought heavy clouds, swirling snow and high winds. The wreckage of one is scattered on a mountainside, where it will lie forever. The other lies shattered in a farmer's field.

The third was a twin-engine Beechcraft carrying four passengers from El Paso, Texas to Salt Lake City. It too was overwhelmed by the storm, developed engine trouble and was forced to lower altitudes. While apparently attempting a landing in Utah's Lisbon Valley, 30 miles north of Monticello, a wingtip struck a high voltage power line.

One passenger was hospitalized for possible back injuries, and three others were treated for minor injuries and released.

A search party found the wreckage of the first to go down — carrying the Californians. A search was started Wednesday afternoon when the plane failed to arrive in Billings, Mont., after take-off from Salt Lake City.

Two hunters on the north side of Bear Lake had reported hearing an airplane engine, followed by an explosion and a cloud of smoke billowing up through the fog and snow.

The wreck was reached Thursday morning. A red scarf hanging in a tree led the party to the scene.

The dead were identified as the pilot, Howard Williams; his son Chuck and the son's wife Rhonda; and a Miss Joan Westfall, all of Fresno.

Authorities said the plane was apparently lost in the storm and smashed into the mountainside at flying speed, exploding on impact. It will reportedly be impossible to bring the wreckage out.

The Utah wreck happened Thursday morning in full view of witnesses who said the distressed craft made a few passes over a copper plant, and on the third pass, struck the power line.

J.R. Chase, 54, was reported in satisfactory condition in San Juan County Hospital. His wife, Marjorie, 50; his daughter, Marjorie Bibian, 33, and the pilot, Ron Wisner, 38, all of El Paso were the others aboard.

The final tragedy took the life of Gene Benedict Kastner, 40, Garrison, N.D. A witness near the crash site said he saw the plane in a tailspin.

Law officers searched the area for several hours before finding the wreckage. Parts of the plane were scattered in surrounding fields.

The plane was reportedly en route from North Dakota to Elko, Nev., when it came down six miles west of Kimberly, Idaho.

Taxpayers find voice

BOISE (UPI)—Several Boiseans are banding together as the "Taxpayers Voice Committee" in an effort to obtain tax relief, especially from property levies.

E.N. Eichhorn, vice chairman of the committee, said the organization is planning a public meeting next week in an effort to gain membership.

"The thing that hit with an impact is the real estate tax that is just coming out now," Eichhorn said. "That is the thing which will be the factor to get the people together."

He said his committee is recommending property owners pay their ad valorem taxes under protest.

Committee plans, he said, include examination of possible methods of obtaining tax relief and taking such action as necessary to accomplish that purpose.

Among the activities will be: — Examination and investigation of tax levies and practices to determine if relief can be obtained through the courts.

— Organization of taxpayers to present their views and grievances to legislators and to taxing bodies and agencies.

— Investigations and examinations into the feasibility of recall elections where deemed justified.

— Exploration of methods of obtaining tax relief by determining if all existing tax levies are legal levies.

— Exploration of the possibility of recovering of tax money if collected illegally.

When the committee was formed earlier this week a six-man board of directors was chosen. The chairman is Lucian W. Hawk. Other directors include Ted Alexander, Gene Winchester, Myron Orr, and Fern Hrdlicka.

Fake rabbi nabs pair in holdup

NEW YORK (UPI)—An undercover policeman posing as a rabbi nabbed two muggers early today in the East Village when they allegedly pulled a knife and demanded his money.

Patrolman James O'Shea, the undercover policeman, was standing at a corner when he was approached by the alleged muggers, identified as Raymond Preston, 27 and Charles Segars, 24, both of Manhattan.

O'Shea said they pulled out a knife, and demanded money. O'Shea identified himself as a policeman, signaled for another policeman in a nearby radio car and apprehended the suspects, according to police. Both men were charged with robbery.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The mayor of a large city in Communist eastern Europe was talking to a U.S. diplomat in the mayor's office. What with our immense world lead in the new technologies — and especially in computers. With amazing candor, the mayor correctly characterized that lead as growing and as putting the rest of the world — but most particularly the Communist countries — at a deepening disadvantage. His responses were a mixture of admiration, wonderment and very serious concern. He could not see how his country, in concert with other Iron Curtain lands and the Soviet Union itself, could do anything but fall farther and farther behind the United States. It was plain, too, that the mayor regards high development in computers and related knowledge devices as critical to any kind of hopeful approach by men — irrespective of ideology — to the smothering problems that are already upon us or can be foreseen. My conversations in Europe this summer suggest that the Red mayor has plenty of company both behind and on this side of the Iron Curtain. And some of our thoughtful writers, like Peter Drucker and Zbigniew Brzezinski, have recently penned books which focus intensely on the "knowledge explosion" and our preeminent role in it. Of course, neither the Soviet Union nor its satellites can openly acknowledge the yawning gap separating us from them in this field. Indeed, in an unsurprising effort at putdown, the Kremlin gave to one Z. Yuryev, in the youth-oriented magazine, Komsomolskaya, the task of attacking Brzezinski. Comrade Yuryev's sputtering barrage failed totally. The facts are incredible. We operate some 80 per cent of all the computers in the world. By probably no coincidence, it is estimated that America has originated about 80 per cent of all scientific and technical discoveries in the last few decades. We have a big advantage in the use of potent lasers, and the International Atomic Energy Agency says that by 1975 we will most likely be using more nuclear power for peaceful purposes than the next 11 most populous nations combined. U.S. computers in use here may have gone past 70,000 in number. Defense, space and the Atomic Energy Commission account for only about 10 per cent of this total. Russia's public embarrassment is understandable — its non-military computer total is estimated at somewhere between 2,000 and 3,500 (as of 1966), roughly the same as the number in much less populous Japan or West Germany or even the United Kingdom. What seemed to stagger the eastern European mayor was not just this gross disparity of numbers. He showed a sophisticated awareness of our swift advancement to higher "generations" of computers, and found this the hardest thing to swallow. We have plunged heavily into the "third generation," meaning we are producing and using computers whose miniaturized circuitry is so complex that a given device may pour out millions upon millions of calculations in small fractions of a second. Drucker, in his celebrated book, "The Age of Discontinuity," figures this country will need one million new computer programmers in the next 15 years, not to mention another 500,000 systems engineers and designers and other specialists drawing on the computer's output. There is no use trying to stop all this. Radicals' bombs have smashed a few computers but they are not even a ripple on the tide. As we can see, the Reds don't want to stop us but to catch up. We are in this realm the envy of the globe. This makes new political and psychological problems for us abroad. Yet, notwithstanding foreign and domestic critics' blasts against the huge force of our technologies, Brzezinski echoes practical leaders everywhere when he says, in "Between Two Ages," that "the United States is the innovative and creative society of today. The science explosion he finds "the most rapidly expanding aspect of our entire reality." What we need, I suggest, is a way of sharing it with other peoples more fully, and a way of mastering its vast effects as we never did those of the simpler, cruder industrial revolution.

Running Downhill

The Interstate Commerce Commission, which has the responsibility of regulating the nation's railroads in the public interest, says the railroads are facing "economic strangulation." This is no exaggeration. Witness a decline of 71 per cent in profits in the last year. Poor management and hobbling regulation are part of the problem. Other facets are the inroads of competition from airlines, automobiles and trucks. Some of the difficulty is traceable to inflation. Featherbedding and exorbitant wage settlements add to the burden the limping railroads carry. Nearly a third of them are losing money. Five are bankrupt — the giant Penn Central, the Lehigh Valley, the Central of New Jersey, the New Haven and the Boston and Maine. The ICC has been notoriously slow to grant relief to the railroads, either in higher rates or in reduction of schedules. Recent freight increases of eight per cent in the East and West and six per cent in the South surely will not be sufficient to reverse the rails' downturn. Too little and too late characterize ICC handling of many problems besetting the roads. Now the government is preparing to back into the railroads' operations. President Nixon has signed the law creating the National Railroad Passenger Corporation, which will take over May 1 a big share of the task of rescuing passenger trains, a well-nigh hopeless assignment even with the help of substantial government subsidies paid out of tax revenues. The most optimistic observers do not expect the infusion of government cash and management to make losing passenger operations profitable in less than three to five years. Freight operations are in trouble, too, but are ignored by the new government corporation. Penn Central is trying to find a way out of the red with massive efforts to eliminate duplication of effort, provide better service and cut costs. Layoffs, retirements and transfers are expected to be major but alone will not be enough to pull the Penn Central out of bankruptcy. Another big obstacle on the road ahead is the fact that the rail unions are set to call a strike Dec. 11 for substantial pay raises — more than the 37 per cent over three years recommended by a presidential panel. Railroads haul about half the manufactured products of the nation and heroic steps must be taken to preserve the service at a viable level. Nationalization, far from heroic, runs counter to the government's turnover of the postal service and the socialistic experiments of other countries. It seems logical for the ICC to give the railroads a chance by approving rates that are realistic in today's market and to permit them to cut out or cut down operations which are losing money.

 German Panzers

WASHINGTON — Germany's once devastatingly redoubtable panzers are again cutting a wide swath across Europe. This time the powerful tanks are scoring their victories in the armament business. The 40-ton Leopard panzer, produced by the Krauss Maffei Co., Munich, is sweeping out-selling France's AMX-30 in the booming weapons sales scramble. Virtually all of the NATO allies are buying the Leopard in preference to the AMX-30. As a consequence, Leopard sales have soared from $33.1 million in 1965, when the formidable tank was put on the market, to more than $150 million this year. Last year's sales were $129.2 million. So far, total NATO purchases of the Leopard are 3,508 — at $328,000 per panzer. That's the number bought by West Germany, Holland, Belgium and Norway. In addition, these and other NATO allies have ordered thousands more of this powerful tank, as follows: Germany, 2,325; Holland 451; Belgium 370; Norway 84, Italy 800. It is also expected Denmark will soon join the Leopard club. Its armor specialists have recommended that 120 of the panzers be bought. The Leopard's manifest superiority over the AMX-30 in a number of important operational respects is responsible for its sweeping preference by the NATO allies. Foremost among these determining factors, in addition to a low streamlined silhouette and exceptionally resistant armor, are: The panzer is armed with the British 105-mm gun that is also standard equipment of Britain's highly regarded Centurion tank and the U. S. MBT-60 tank, generally rated as the most modern and powerful main battle tank. This uniformity of weapon is of crucial importance to NATO military authorities. In contrast, the French AMX-30 is armed with a French gun that requires different ammunition. The Leopard is powered with an 830-hp engine as against one of 720-hp of the French tank. This gives the panzer considerably more speed and range than the AMX-30. In addition, the Leopard engine can be removed for replacement or repairs in 20 minutes — through an ingenious system of spring clamps. In contrast, the AMX-30 engine requires 45 minutes to an hour to do the same thing. Makers of the panzer proudly claim, "Its engine can be changed quicker than the engine of a Volkswagen". Despite the Leopard's more powerful and speedier engine, it reportedly uses no more fuel than the AMX-30. This is a particularly important combat factor. Around 30 Leopards a month are being produced by the Krauss Maffei Co., a subsidiary of the Friederich Flick Group, which previously made only railroad locomotives. Since introduction of the panzer in 1965, the concern's sales have increased 143 per cent. Badillo ran unsuccessfully for mayor of New York last year, which might have been perceived as a hint that he has his befuddled moments — but on to the present. Earlier this month he was elected to represent the city's Congressional district which is made up of parts of the boroughs of Queens, Manhattan and the Bronx. He thus will become the first Puerto Rican in Congress with a vote. And so, less than two weeks later, Badillo journeyed to Puerto Rico, where he was born 41 years ago in the town of Caguas, and received a tumultuous welcome. So far so good. It's great, I guess, to be a hero on your native heath. But when the cries of greeting had died down, Badillo announced that the main purpose of his visit was to consult with Puerto Rican government leaders on how he could help them push Congressional legislation vital to the island. He went on to say he had the only constituency with more than three million people covering a distance of 1600 miles. He was referring to the 2.7 million people in Puerto Rico and the residents of New York's 21st district. In short, Badillo could hardly wait to identify himself as part of an untidy national phenomenon. He joined the ranks of those curious politicians who run for office regularly on a platform of being black, Irish, Polish, Italian or Lower Slobovian. Indeed, he went them one better. He travelled 1600 miles to promise a people who had nothing to do with his election that he was their boy. It was as if the late Bobby Kennedy, having been elected a U. S. Senator from New York, had hurried back to his native Massachusetts to assure his former neighbors of his enduring fealty. Or if Transportation Secretary John Volpe were to fly off to Italy to promise Rome a new subway system. Badillo, of course does not represent Puerto Rico, any more than he represents Nigeria. His constituency does include a large percentage of Puerto Rican immigrants but it also is home to other ethnic peoples, including even some native-born Americans. It seems to me Badillo should be talking about legislation "vital" to the voters in Manhattan, Queens and the Bronx who elected him to Congress. But there he was in San Juan, complaining that Puerto Rico was not getting its "fair share" of Federal funds. He also objected to proposals to give residents of Puerto Rico a smaller participation in the family-assistance welfare program now before Congress than that proposed for the nation as a whole. "I will do everything I can to see that Puerto Rico shares equally," Badillo promised. It is true that the only voice from Puerto Rico in Congress is the island's Resident Commissioner, Jorge Luis Cordova, and that he has no vote in the House. And it is true that there is much poverty on the island. However, I do wish that Herman Badillo, as a new man in town, would resist the temptation to cover so much ground. There is a lot of poverty in his district, too, most of it among Puerto Ricans. Badillo will have his hands full trying to do something for those people, without — as it were — also running for governor of Puerto Rico.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.
 Orange Juice

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You gave the right answer to the mother whose son seemed to have a cold all the time—that he should be checked for an allergy. My grandson was the same way, had a runny nose and never got over what seemed to be a cold. Finally he was checked for allergy and was found to be allergic to orange juice, which he drank like water. After stopping that, both his nose and complexion cleared up.—Mrs. J.S. Thanks for the object lesson in what is, too often, an overlooked answer to the "chronic cold." A word of warning. Orange juice isn't a very common offender, but that's the insidious thing about allergy: the most innocent items can affect some people. Egg, milk, green vegetables, wheat, strawberries, all sorts of ordinarily good foods can be allergens for some unfortunate individuals. So can ordinary house dust, flowers and other plants.

animal danders, metals, soaps, perfumes—you name it. Hunt long enough and you'll probably find somebody who is allergic to it. Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 23, married with two children. I developed varicose veins while carrying my children but they have become worse since, and my doctor is considering stripping the veins. I am taking four pills a day to reduce inflammation of the veins. I am terribly frightened of this operation. Members of my family also have varicose veins but they are older. Please advise if there is anything else that can be done?—Mrs. R. S. Main question is why you are so "terribly frightened" over having the veins stripped. It is anything but a dangerous procedure. At your mention of the veins being inflamed, I would, instead, be afraid not to have them stripped out, because that inflammation could develop into phlebitis, or contribute to leg ulcers, or even carry the risk of blood clots.

MR. SPECTATOR
 Floating Down The River

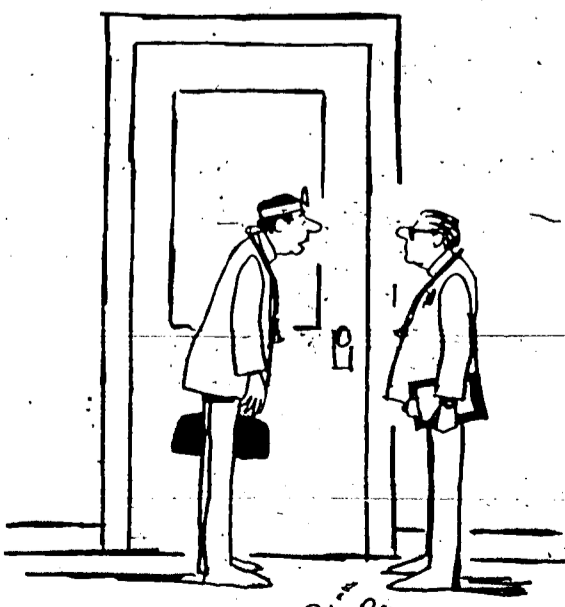

This is a little story of government thinking which we dug out of a public relations release from the Western Railroad Association. And to set the stage let us say that the railroad publication is being discontinued after this final issue — apparently because of a cutback in available funds. But back to the bulletin and the little story we have in mind. It seems that the Army Corps of Engineers predicts that more than $75 million will be saved in shipping costs each year on the new Arkansas Verdigris waterway system. But building the new $1.2 billion waterway, serving 440 miles in Arkansas and Oklahoma, was more costly than the Panama Canal and the St. Lawrence Seaway combined. In order to save $75 million, the railroad publication points out, taxpayers are being required to provide a subsidy of more than $6 for each ton of freight shipped. Freight alone is expected to reach 13.5 million tons within 10 years, the Army Engineers predict. This volume of traffic, the railroad publication points out, is the equivalent of less than three freight trains in each direction daily. The cost of operating the waterway over a period of 50 years is estimated at $1.4 billion. If the cost of building it is amortized over a 50 year span at only 4 per cent interest, taxpayers will have to pay $1.2 billion in interest charges. And then comes the clincher, which Mrs. Spectator would like to have you consider: Taxpayers (the railroad publication says) would be far ahead in actual savings if they would pay the total rail freight bill for all shippers along the waterway. The actual cost would be much less. So there you have it. We are told in this particular case it would be cheaper to pay all freight charges for all individuals using the project than to build and finance the project itself! WATER OR LAND Intrepid sailors in small boats tackling the vast reaches of the Atlantic and Pacific may be proving that ancient travelers could have settled in various parts of the world in a like manner, but did they? The continental drift theory, which has received much corroborative evidence in recent years, could doom the whole theory that vast stretches of water were the paths crossed by prehistoric explorers. If the continents all were vaguely connected at some point in the past, chances are the antecedents of the American Indians, the Australian aborigines and others were nomads who simply walked across vast stretches of land, not sailors who spent weeks or months traversing water to they knew not where. ANDREW TULLY

 He's Confused

WASHINGTON — So far as can be learned from his record, Rep-elect Herman Badillo of New York City enjoys both political and personal respectability, and so it is disheartening to discover that he is a touch confused about his allegiances. Badillo ran unsuccessfully for mayor of New York last year, which might have been perceived as a hint that he has his befuddled moments — but on to the present. Earlier this month he was elected to represent the city's Congressional district which is made up of parts of the boroughs of Queens, Manhattan and the Bronx. ## Pope escapes assassin

The President (Marcos) parried the dagger and pushed the pope backwards as presidential security agency close-in agents pounced upon him. There are small drops of blood on his 'Holiness' left sleeve but he was believed not hurt. The assassin's hand must have been cut while his weapon was being taken away from him.

Other eyewitness reports aid the pontiff's personal secretary, Msgr. Pasquale Macchi, leaped in front of Mendoza and threw both arms around him, while Marcos and several other persons, including Bishop Anthony Dennis Calvin of Borneo, stepped in to help. Mendoza got to within three feet of Pope Paul, but not close enough to strike him, they said.

Mendoza had managed to slip up close to the Pope during the welcoming crush despite strong security precautions. The stocky, crew-cut Bolivian, speaking in heavily accented English, was heard telling interrogators "I don't believe in ideology or religion, only in mankind. I'm not a Communist, I am a socialist." Mendoza, when he was being taken away just after the stabbing attempt, screamed, "I want to liberate." He was carrying 121 pesos—about $20. The incident occurred just minutes after the Pope's white and yellow jetliner—the Vatican colors—touched down at Manila Airport. He had made brief stops in Tehran and Dacca, East Pakistan, on the way. His stop at Dacca was to express his sorrow for the suffering there because of the cyclone and tidal wave two weeks ago.

TORONTO (UPI)—The pilot and the first officer of an Air Canada DC8 that crashed July 5, killing 109 persons, had different views on landing. The first officer repeatedly apologized to the captain, in taped conversation released by a federal inquiry Thursday.

Lawyers representing the estates of the dead crewmen had asked that the tape recording not be made public, but Justice Hugh Gibson, head of the inquiry, ruled it should be released.

The flight originated at Montreal and was to make a stop at Toronto and continue to Los Angeles. Twenty-seven of the victims were Americans, most of them from California.

The tape gives the first indication of trouble about four minutes before the crash, or 30 minutes and 28.5 seconds into the 32-minute, 39-second tape, when Capt. Peter Hamilton shouted, "No, no, no!" First Officer Donald Rowland almost immediately, "Sorry, oh sorry, Pete." Rowland's apologies were repeated several times after.

The conversation came as the jet went into a sudden descent about 60 feet above the runway.

Two seconds later, according to the tape transcript, "noise of impact" was heard. This was the heavy landing made by the plane which ripped away the right outboard engine and ripped a small hole in the fuel tank, spilling out fuel.

The plane then made a takeoff, but three other explosions tore away the inboard right engine and the wing tip and the plane crashed into a field, three miles from the airport.

The inquiry was told that the disagreement was over the deployment of the "spoiler" system—wing flaps used for braking on the ground. Rowland, inquiry counsel B. J. MacKinnon said, preferred deploying them in the landing approach while Hamilton liked waiting until touch-down.

After the hard landing, Rowland said, "Sorry, Pete," and the second officer then reported loss of the number four engine generator. Hamilton reported the engine was lost and, after learning fuel was spilled, at 31 minutes and 46 seconds into the tape, he said, "Okay, cut number four."

Rowland: "Number four?" Hamilton: "Yeah."

Rowland: "Okay, number three."

Hamilton: "No, number four."

Rowland: "Sorry, number three is jammed too."

At 32:02, Hamilton: "Number three is jammed too."

Rowland: "Is it?"

At 32:10, Hamilton: "The whole thing is jammed."

The crackling sound of fire is heard on the tape.

At 32:13, Rowland: "What was that? What happened there, Pete?"

Hamilton: "That's number four. Something's happened" (deletion).

Rowland: "Oh, look! We've got a — a —"

At 32:23, Rowland, very loudly: "Pete, sorry."

At 32:24, another explosion shook the plane.

At 32:26, the control tower: "six-two-one (the flight number), the status of your aircraft, please."

Then the sound of metal tearing and breaking up.

At 32:28, Hamilton: "We've got an explosion."

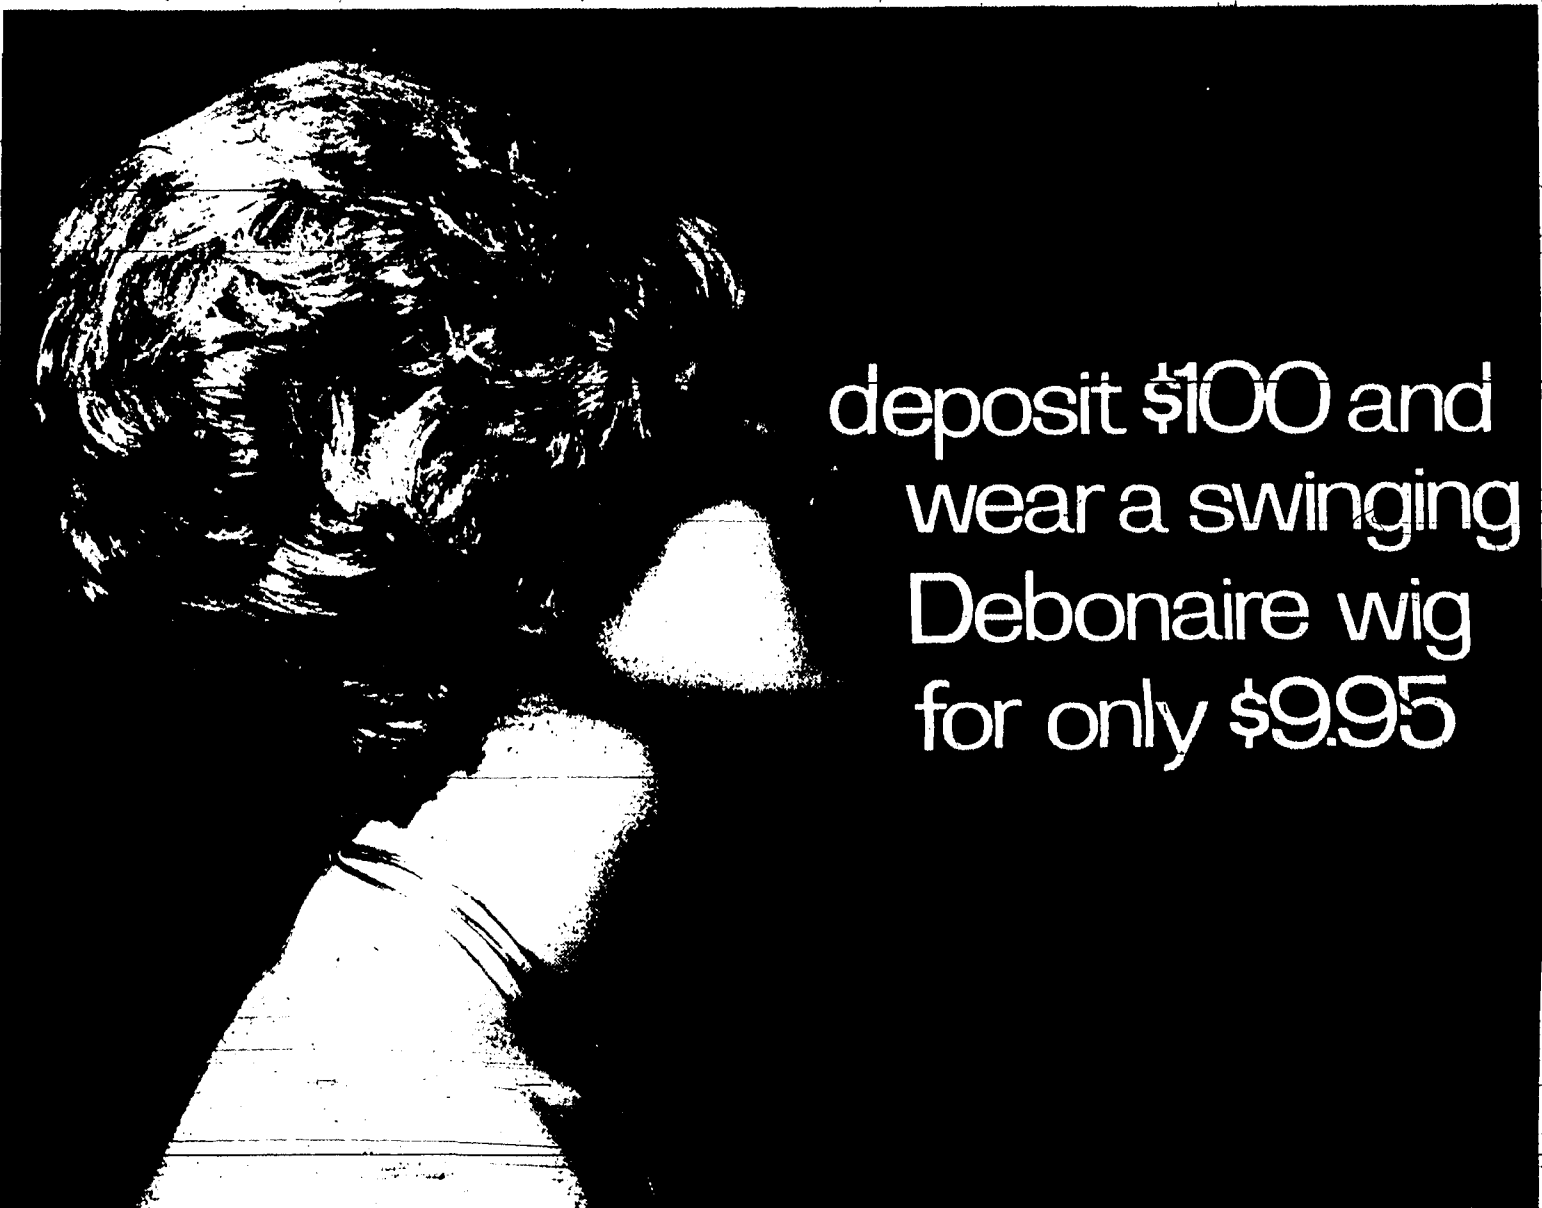

At 32:30, an unidentified voice: "Oh look! We've got flame. (pause). Oh, gosh ..."

At 32:35, another unidentified voice: "We've lost a wing."

That was the last that could be deciphered. The plane crashed four seconds later.

Judge's story of trial ready

CHICAGO (UPI)—U.S. District Court Judge Julius J. Hoffman will add his recollections to already stated testimony in the "Chicago Seven" trial jury controversy.

Court upholds report

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A federal judge Wednesday refused to nullify a special state grand jury's report and indictments in last spring's disorders in which four Kent State University students were shot to death by National Guardsmen.

U.S. District Court Judge William K. Thomas told attorney Gerald Messerman, representing 32 Kent professors who filed suit against the jury's findings, that voiding the jury's report would depend on evidence the 25 persons indicted could not get a fair trial. Those indicted included Kent students, former students and one faculty member. The 32 professors who filed suit included Sociology Prof. Thomas Lough, the faculty member indicted on charges of inciting to riot. Thomas consolidated the professors' suit with one filed by nine students.

Hoffman, at the close of a special court hearing to determine if the trial jury was coerced into rendering a compromise verdict, said Wednesday he will make public his recollections today. However, the judge said he would answer no questions about the matter. Hoffman said he planned to finish his reading of the trial transcript containing the testimony of the 12 jurors and six federal deputy marshals who took the stand during the current hearing ordered by the U.S. 7th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The judge said Wednesday his account of the controversial messages allegedly sent to the jurors during their deliberations last February would be entered into the court record at a hearing Friday morning. Defense attorneys contended that Hoffman, by the messages, might have coerced the jurors into a compromise of convicting five of the seven defendants of crossing state lines to incite a riot, but acquitting two others. None was convicted of conspiracy. "I haven't had an opportunity to study the transcript of the hearing," Hoffman said. "But I will in all probability avail myself of the opportunity to give my recollections."

'Misuse' could halt PW data

NEW YORK (UPI)—An antiwar leader warned Wednesday North Vietnam might cut off information about U.S. prisoners of war if the Defense Department "misuses" that information.

Mrs. Cora Weiss, an official of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in North Vietnam, accused Defense Secretary Melvin E. Laird of lying and misusing information the committee had obtained in defending last week's raid on a POW camp. The Pentagon had said it had "unofficial, uncorroborated reports" that 22 Americans have died while being held prisoner by Hanoi.

Mrs. Weiss, a long-time antiwar leader, said her committee had given information about the 22 dead servicemen to the State Department. But she said it did not say they had died in captivity nor did it know how they died. "Laird deliberately lied and deliberately misused information to attempt to justify an act of war," Mrs. Weiss said. She said the committee has finally been getting answers from North Vietnam to questions pressed by the U.S. government, by peace groups and by relatives of missing men.

Jury finds man guilty

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (UPI)—A jury convicted a 20-year-old Wyoming man of a reduced charge of manslaughter today in the cannibal killing of a welfare worker despite the testimony of the killer's friend that he alone was guilty of the crime. The jury of seven men and five women returned the verdict against Harry Alan Stroup of Sheridan at 1:30 a.m. after two days of deliberations. The trial, considered by observers to be the most sensational in Montana history, was highlighted by the testimony of Stanley Dean Baker, 22, also of Sheridan, who claimed that he alone was responsible for the death last July 11 of James Schlosser of Roundup, Mont. Baker had pleaded guilty of first-degree murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment. He said he killed Schlosser, ate his heart, and threw his dismembered body into the Yellowstone River. Authorities found the scene of the slaying spattered with blood, flesh, teeth and bone fragments. It was located near the bank of the Yellowstone about four miles north of Gardiner. Stroup and Baker were picked up in California's Big Sur area, driving Schlosser's car several days after the slaying. Baker also is wanted in California for a San Francisco slaying in which the victim's ear was cut off.

Criticism of aged cardinals stirs storm of controversy

ROME (UPI)—Two cardinals barred from any future role in governing the Roman-Catholic Church because of age hit back today at Pope Paul VI. One implied the pontiff was a sick man.

French Cardinal Eugene Tisserant, 86, dean of the 127-man College of Cardinals, said in a French television interview it was "public knowledge" the Pope was so feeble or ill eight days ago that aides had to help him from his weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica.

Nurse won't get leave without pay

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Air Force has taken the position that "pregnancy is not an emergency," so Capt. Susan Struck, an unmarried nurse expecting a baby Saturday, will not get leave without pay.

American Civil Liberties Union attorneys representing the nurse told the court they were willing to make an agreement with the Air Force for leave without pay for Miss Struck pending final disposition of the case, but the Air Force refused.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard F. Locke delivered the Air Force position Wednesday in a written statement. The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last week ordered attorneys to report whether they could work out a leave arrangement for the nurse to have her baby.

Capt. Struck is fighting a discharge order by the Air Force, but the Circuit Court has delayed a decision on it because it is "concerned about awkwardness" if it allowed the discharge and later reversed the action in final hearings.

FBI will contest ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation has decided to contest a District of Columbia local court's ruling that it could not circulate the record of a defendant in a criminal case who was mistakenly arrested and subsequently exonerated. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, petitioned for transfer of the case from the district's Court of General Sessions to the U.S. District Court.

Judge Harry T. Alexander ordered records involving Roland R. Penney expunged when the District of Columbia corporation counsel chose not to prosecute because Penney had been mistakenly arrested on a charge of assaulting a police officer.

Davis sentenced for four murders

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)—A grinning Bobby Augustus Davis was formally sentenced to die in the gas chamber Wednesday for murder of four California highway patrolmen. Forty of the victims' fellow officers watched in silence.

"This defendant," the judge said, "during the trial showed no remorse. This defendant, if released on the streets, from what this court has heard in this trial, could well kill again."

Davis, 29, was found guilty last week of the April 6 murders of the four patrolmen in a shootout at a Saugus all-night diner.

Davis' partner, Jack W. Twinning, 38, shot himself to death rather than face capture. Davis was captured in a stolen camper truck.

Judge L. Thaxton Harson, in pronouncing the death sentence, said if the U.S. Supreme Court should ever find the death penalty unconstitutional and reduce Davis' sentence to four counts of life imprisonment, then those sentences "shall run consecutively."

The four murders were the worst such incident in the patrol's history.

Red China Soviets seek areas of agreement

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst When Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin made his surprise visit to Peking in September, 1969, he proposed to Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai they seek out areas where they might agree rather than those where they could not.

Kosygin proposal has become the premise of their dealings with each other. Late this month a new Chinese ambassador presented his credentials in Moscow after similar action by the Russians in Peking.

The two had withdrawn their ambassadors in 1966. Other events in November included the signing of a new trade agreement between the two and a warmer than usual message from Peking to Moscow congratulating the Soviet Union on the 53rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Dipstick test for poison

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Two biochemists have developed a "dipstick test" for lead poisoning, a major cause of deaths and brain damage in young children, it was disclosed Wednesday.

After a decade of deteriorating relations, in which war seemed a distinct likelihood, the two sides are attempting to avoid a major confrontation, it is apparent also that both are keeping their powder dry.

The Soviets are reported to have at least 35 divisions along the border and to be capable of launching an offensive with either conventional or nuclear weapons.

Dr. Lester Hankin and Kenneth Hanson of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station here described the test in the December issue of Clinical Pediatrics. Parents place a dipstick in the child's urine sample, let it dry and mail it to a laboratory where it is analyzed for presence of an acid produced by lead poisoning.

It was not back to the good old days of 1959 when trade between the two came to more than $2 billion, nor was it back to early 1969 when bloody border clashes along their 5,000-mile borders brought relations to their lowest point.

The Chinese also have been building up their conventional forces and are said to be nearly ready with at least a handful of missiles in the 1,500 to 2,000-mile range.

Lead poisoning—the third leading threat to children aged 1 to 6—usually is caused by children chewing on leaded paint on toys or paint chips. It is especially prevalent in areas of deteriorating housing where peeling paint is an inviting hazard.

It was shortly after the Kosygin visit that the two began their border talks which Field testing of the dipstick method was carried out last summer in Hartford and was "highly successful," Hankin said.

Utah woman charged on neglect

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A Salt Lake area woman, whose home was described by authorities as "deplorable," will stand trial Dec. 7 in West Jordan for alleged child neglect and failure to remove refuse from her property.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius. On this day in history: In 1901 the U.S. War Department authorized creation of the Army War College to instruct commissioned officers.

She is Edna Willadcan Snyder, 31, of 3348 Sue St., the mother of four girls and two boys, all ranging in age from 4 to 11.

The youngsters are in the Salt Lake County Detention Center where they were placed following a hearing in Second District Juvenile Court.

In 1945 President Truman named General George Marshall Special Representative to China.

Previous testing for lead poisoning had required taking of a blood sample.

Mrs. Snyder pleaded innocent Wednesday to the two charges which arose after Salt Lake County Sheriff's Deputy Brent Van Roosendaal investigated conditions at the home.

The corporation, a registered bank holding company, is the largest banking organization in Utah with total deposits of $508 million, 30 per cent of the total deposits in the state.

Smallest living creature with a backbone is a tiny fish of the Philippines named the dwarf pygmy goby, which measures slightly over 1/4-inch in length.

The deputy said he was alerted to the situation by a private investigator. He termed the condition of the house as "deplorable."

New bank in Utah okayed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Reserve Board announced Wednesday it has approved, by a 4-3 vote, the application of First Security Corp. Salt Lake City, Utah, to establish a new bank in Springville, Utah.

The corporation, a registered bank holding company, is the largest banking organization in Utah with total deposits of $508 million, 30 per cent of the total deposits in the state.

Sun Valley solves most transportation problems

SUN VALLEY, Idaho — Sun Valley, the hard-to-get-to, and therefore exclusive resort, has this year solved most of its transportation problems. Whether this will be a blessing in the long run or not remains to be seen. But this is definitely the year to ski Sun Valley.

Air West has the answer to the problem of commercial flying for Sun Valley skiers. This airline will have seven jets on weekends and four on week days bringing skiers from Los Angeles, and the Northwest to Twin Falls with Sun Valley buses meeting all planes. The jets connect at Salt Lake City with through flights on United, Frontier, Texas International, Western and American from the East and South.

Commuter planes operate from Salt Lake and Boise to the Sun Valley-Hailey airport so that a skier in a hurry from the East coast can take the smaller planes on Sun Valley Air, Trans Magic and Key, and be in Sun Valley in five hours. However, under winter flying conditions the jets into Twin Falls offer the best guarantee of arrival without a hold-over. Twin Falls is less than an hour-and-a-half away by a fast, safe road that has no mountains to cross.

Boise is also a gateway to Sun Valley and there are non-stop flights from Denver, Seattle, Chicago and San Francisco and through flights from New York, Boston and Los Angeles. These connect with the Sun Valley Air commuter line or Hertz rental cars are available.

For corporate jets and private planes, greatly improved Sun Valley-Hailey airport now has an excellent hard-topped runway, 6500 feet long. From this runway corporate jets are taking off with full loads of fuel, which was not possible before. There is plenty of tiedown space for both corporate and private jets. Bill Otley, executive secretary of National Pilots association, which held a fall Fly-In to Sun Valley, September 24-27, said that because of the excellence of this mountain airport his association was considering making the Fly-In an annual event. The airport has the great advantage for the pilot inexperienced in mountain flying, of being at the edge of the Sawtooth mountains, not in the range. It can be easily reached from any part of the country without flying over 10,000 feet.

Fairfield club sets snow fete

FAIRFIELD — With snow at the higher elevations, local snowmobilers are tuning up their vehicles in anticipation of a busy winter. Members of the High Mountain Snowmobilers club have plans in the making for a series of events. Topping the list will be a W.S.A. race tentatively set for Feb. 14.

Other races and fun days will be held during the snow season. The chamber of commerce and others cooperated last year in providing trophies and other needs for the races.

Officers for the club this year include Floyd Crandall, president; Fred Mackey, vice president; Mrs. Don Ivie, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Jack Exon, public relations. Russell Pate and Sid Byram and Phil Becker of Gooding are on the board of directors. The club was organized last year and enjoyed a lot of activity last winter.

Some of the members competed at West Yellowstone and in cross country races.

Compact snow machine

TWIN FALLS — "The compact snowmobile is the real news in the snowmobile industry this year," said Robert B. Curl of Curl Manufacturing Co., Inc., Twin Falls.

It's the compact machine without frills, but with the design components of a regular-sized snowmobile for safety and performance.

One of the unique compacts now on display is the new '71 Ski-Doo Elan introduced by Bombardier, Ltd.

The Elan has 12-hp Rotax engine, all steel frame, tilt forward fiberglass cowl, deep profile 15-inch wide track, storage compartment, and front and rear bumpers, features normally associated only with full-size machines.

Two prime features of the new Elan are its light weight, only 246 pounds. The machine comes with electric start as an option.

IN THE GALA ROOM

JIM ROBERTS

(Tenor with Lawrence Welk)

A tenor with considerable professional experience, youthful Jim Roberts one day in 1955 made up his mind to establish contact with Lawrence Welk, with the hope of joining his musical troupe. Jim hired himself to the Aragon Ballroom in Pacific Ocean Park, California, introduced himself to the maestro, sang a number or two, was hired on the spot, and went to work that night.

That's the story of how Lawrence and Jim got together — and of how a young man from Madisonville, Kentucky, sang his way to national fame subsequently, when Lawrence Welk and his Champagne Music Makers went on television, coast to coast, on the ABC-TV network.

Born in Madisonville, Jim and his folks moved to Pontiac, Michigan, while he was still quite young. He sang with the high school glee club, took violin lessons, and then spent two and one-half years in the Army, serving in Guam and the Philippine Islands.

Jim also has appeared in numerous shows produced by the Los Angeles Civic Light Opera Association, and prior to his joining Lawrence Welk's Champagne Music Makers, had appeared in featured roles at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles, in such hits as "Girl Crazy," "Desert Song," "Rio Rita," "Finian's Rainbow" and "Song of Norway."

Winter driving more than good snow tires

NEW YORK — "There's more to winter driving than good snow tires, sand in the trunk, and getting up five minutes earlier to warm up the car," says Piero Sierra, vice president of Pirelli Tire Corp. "The cautious winter driver," he says, "will both arrange to have his car winterized and," he emphasizes, "thoroughly familiarize himself with the 'components of safety' — the parts of his car which must be in top running condition to weather the vagaries of winter."

broken links. Use radial snow tires for maximum safety.

- (4) Battery. Check and charge if necessary. Have cables examined for worn, broken links.
- (5) Pulley belts. Inspect, adjust and replace as needed.
- (6) Lubrication. Lubricate car to remove dirt, dust and moisture from moving parts.
- (7) Cooling system. Drain and flush. Install proper thermostat and antifreeze. Check heater hoses and radiator.

No soot

SUN VALLEY — When the Sun Valley resort opens for its seventh year of operation under Bill Janss, Dec. 12, it will be entirely heated by electricity and the smoke stack that blacked the snow with soot will be a thing of the past as it was removed this summer.

Tremors felt

MIGNANO MONTELUONGO, Italy (UPI) — A total of 35 more earth-tremors rocked this hillside village in central Italy Wednesday, raising to 643 the number of tremors recorded here in the past eight weeks. The tremors, which scientists have been unable to explain, caused some panic Wednesday among residents of nearby hamlets. Most of the 3,457 persons who resided in Mignano Montelungo have left the village since the tremors began Sept. 28.

In 1969, statistics show that more than 50 per cent of the 81,310,000 auto breakdowns occurred during the three winter months. Winter driving is dangerous.

To aid motorists in preparing for Mother Nature's erratic moods over the weeks ahead, Pirelli Tire Corp. provides the following checklist which, it says, "should be heeded by anyone who drives a car."

Herewith, the recommendations:

- (1) Tune up. Check condenser and plugs, ignition system and points.
- (2) Carburetor. Have it checked and cleaned. Adjust the automatic choke.
- (3) Snow tires. Mount after inspection for cuts and bruises. Check tire chains for worn and

Idaho's budget requests up $45 million

BOISE (UPI) — Budget requests made public Wednesday by Gov. Don Samuelson show general fund requests for fiscal 1972 are approximately $45 million more than estimated revenue.

Requests from public education totaled $106.6 million, or approximately 70 per cent of the total requests.

Of the total, $60.3 was requested for public schools; $34.5 million for higher education; and the remaining $11.8 million for services such as vocational education, vocational rehabilitation, the School for the Deaf and Blind at Gooding, and the Youth Training Center at St. Anthony, the State Library and "miscellaneous educational activities."

In 1969-70, planned expenditures for public education totaled $44 million. Jack Holley, state budget director, said includes approximately $3 million for public kindergartens and approximately $10 million for a hike in teachers' salaries.

In 1969-70, high education appropriations totaled $28.9 million. Holley said the higher figure for the institutions of higher education included salary and wage increases.

The Department of Public Assistance asked for $13.7 million, or 8.5 per cent of the total requests. Holley said in 1969-70 public assistance had $9.2 million.

The Department of Public Health requested $12.0 million, or eight per cent of the total general fund requests. During the last fiscal year the department had $10.8 million.

The general fund budget request of the Department of Administrative Services for fiscal 1972 totaled $1,472,887 million. New costs included in the 1972 request included $45,262 for the director of administrative services and $87,161 for administration in the Management Services Division.

The department came under attack by Gov. elect Cecil Andrus during his gubernatorial campaign.

Gov. Don Samuelson, discussing the budget requests Wednesday, said requests from administrative services were broken down for the first time. "These are things you can't do away with," Samuelson said, noting the requests included costs of "washing windows and maintaining the Statehouse."

To do away with the department, Samuelson said, would be to return to an "antiquated" system.

The budget request from the Building Services Division totaled $628,585, which Samuelson said would do away with the rentals charged on state buildings.

However, the governor said, the legislature may not approve of the change since the federal government pays part of the rent on the buildings.

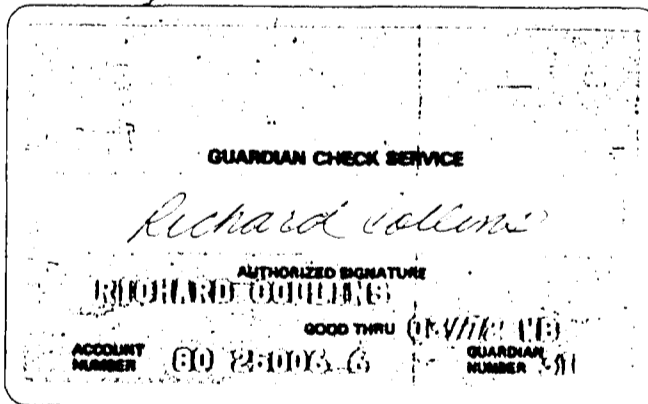

Other agency requests, for both 1972 and estimated appropriations for 1969-70, included:

- Legislative council, $135,384 from $102,905;
- Governor, $437,500 from $394,979;
- Lieutenant Governor, $36,000 from $23,390;
- Attorney General, $673,515 from $262,305;
- Secretary of State, $171,453 from $151,240;
- State Treasurer, $114,269

from $93,268; State Auditor, $382,627 from $310,206;

- Accounting and Data Processing Committee, $280,434 from $100,009. Holley noted the committee spent $182,155 during the first half of the 1969-71 biennium;
- Commerce and Development Department, $634,512 from $254,835;
- Commission for the Blind, $100,274 from $61,721;
- Special Services Department (combining the authority of the Office of Aging and Office of Economic Opportunity), $99,320 from $55,742;
- Water Resource Board, $2,060,800 from $580,533. Holley said the increase included a request for $1.5 million for its loan program;
- Public lands, $2,612,280 from $1,392,862;
- Parks, $2,531,595 from $982,922, which Holley said included an increase in funds for capital outlay;
- Pharmacy and drug commission, $244,849 from $81,084. Holley said increases included higher figures for capital outlay and salaries and wages;
- Mine Inspector, $104,545 from $80,532;
- Agriculture, $1,230,467 from $883,340;

If you were Santa Claus, and each year, Christmas shopping made you a big grouch, what would you do?

Get a Christmas Card.

Christmas shopping B.B. (Before Bankard) was enough to make even Santa grouchy.

Waiting in line at the cash register while someone fumbled for suitable identification to cash a check.

Worrying about whether you (or your wife) were overdrawing your checking account.

Bankard ends all that. With Bankard you have instant identification . . . check cashing privileges virtually everywhere . . . 'unbounceable checks' thanks to Credit Reserve . . . and the ability to 'write yourself a loan.'

Bankard. The Christmas Card.

Homesteads barred from Valley lands

SHOSHONE — About one million acres of public domain land in the Bureau of Land Management's Shoshone District has been closed to homesteading, desert entry and sale under certain conditions through classification for multiple use management.

William L. Mathews, state BLM director, said the classification was made under the Classification and Multiple Use Act of 1964, identifying public domain lands suitable for continued multiple use.

| BlaineCamasCassiaGoodingJeromeLincolnMinidokaTwin Falls | <h2>Magic Valley</h2> Friday, November 27, 1970 |
|---|--|

Mathews said the lands involved are located in Blaine, Camas, Elmore, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln and Minidoka Counties.

A hearing on the proposed reclassification was held at Shoshone on July 21. As a result, 42,367 acres was removed from the proposed classification.

That land, including some which has potential for desert entry, lies within several counties with major blocks north of Bliss and southeast of Jerome, Mathews said.

Within the area retained for multiple use classification is 2,818 acres in 23 sites having public recreation value, Mathews said. Those sites are closed to location under mining laws.

Sale of the lands classed for multiple use is prohibited as isolated tracts or under "rough and mountainous" provisions, Mathews said.

However, he said, lands may be classified for disposal if conditions change and indicate the land is better suited for private ownership. Mathews said the lands remain available for state and private exchanges and for selection by the state.

Idaho routes slick

BOISE (UPI)—New snow fell on northern Idaho roads today, making them slick for travel, while accumulated snow and ice elsewhere made driving hazardous at higher elevations of the state.

Minidoka insignia sought

RUPERT — Minidoka County Historical Society is conducting a contest to design an emblem for the organization.

Bill Whitton, spokesman for the society, said the person submitting the winning entry will receive a $25 savings bond. Second award will be a one year membership in the society.

Entries will be judged on originality, neatness and apleness of thought, Whitton said.

Entries are to be submitted by Jan. 8, 1971 and may be sent to Whitton at 710 South D St., Rupert, or given to any other society board member.

Prizes will be awarded at the general membership meeting of the society Jan. 22 at Minidoka.

Designs should deal with the history of Minidoka County, Whitton said.

Icy highways cause wrecks

TWIN FALLS — Two persons suffered minor injuries in accidents on icy highways in Twin Falls County Thanksgiving night.

State Trooper Don Hiebert said one accident occurred nine miles south of Rogerson on U. S. Highway 93 about 11 p. m.

Weldon Bastain, 38, Las Vegas, Nev., suffered back and leg injuries and was treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and released. He was a passenger in a vehicle driven by Grant S. Truman, 38, Las Vegas. The vehicle skidded about 310 feet before going into a borrow pit. The driver and his son, Clay Truman, 16, and a pet dog escaped injury.

Mrs. Bonnie King Hellwig, 37, Castleford, suffered minor injuries about 9:15 p. m. nine miles east of Buhl on U. S. Highway 30 when her vehicle skidded from the highway and crashed into a utility pole. Her two passengers, Elaine Hellwig, 8, and Brad Hellwig, 12, were uninjured.

Building blows up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Robinson, 36, was walking down East 146th Street in the Bronx late Thursday night and stopped in front of a building to light a cigarette.

When he struck the match, the building blew up. Fire officials said leaking gas had accumulated in the building and the match triggered the explosion in the vacant structure.

Robinson was hospitalized with severe facial and hand burns.

Fort Hall payments proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho's congressional delegation introduced legislation Wednesday to provide for payment of Idaho's Fort Hall Reservation.

The payment would serve as a first installment on settlement of a $15.7 million judgement awarded in 1968 by the Indian Claims Commission for claims filed by Shoshone tribes in Idaho, Wyoming and Utah.

Aid needed

BOISE (UPI)—State Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes said today that passage of a 1970 federal-aid highway act before the 91st Congress adjourns this year is imperative to Idaho's highway programs.

New federal legislation for administering the highway trust fund and other highway programs is required biennially. Thus, federal-aid legislation must be enacted by this session, he said, if the trust fund and the federal-aid highway program are to be continued beyond next June 30.

Mathes said any new bill now most likely will be a composite of HR 19504 and S 4418. Both of these bills relate to federal-aid highway legislation but have widely divergent provisions.

Drug charges dismissed

MC CALL, Idaho (UPI) — Charges have been dropped against six Idaho youth for illegal possession of marijuana on grounds evidence obtained was done through improper search and seizure.

Justice of the Peace Jack Settin granted a motion from three defense attorneys who asked for suppression of evidence during a preliminary hearing.

Those arrested Nov. 7 in a trailer south of Mc Call were John Schinzer, 18, Richard Banks, 19, Michael Banks, 21, and Michael Wallace, 20, all of Mc Call, and Jerold Strickland, 21, and Charles Warren Farmer, 19, both Nyssa.

The youths were originally charged with trespass and a hearing was scheduled for the second week in December on that count.

Railroad ordered to pay

POCATELLO (UPI) — The sum of $140,000 has been awarded to the plaintiff in a lawsuit brought against the Union Pacific Railroad.

The verdict was delivered Wednesday afternoon in the case of Richard Murray, 47, Pocatello, against the railroad. The trial started Monday in sixth district court before Judge Arthur Oliver. Murray had asked for $359,000 in total damages from an accident in June 1969.

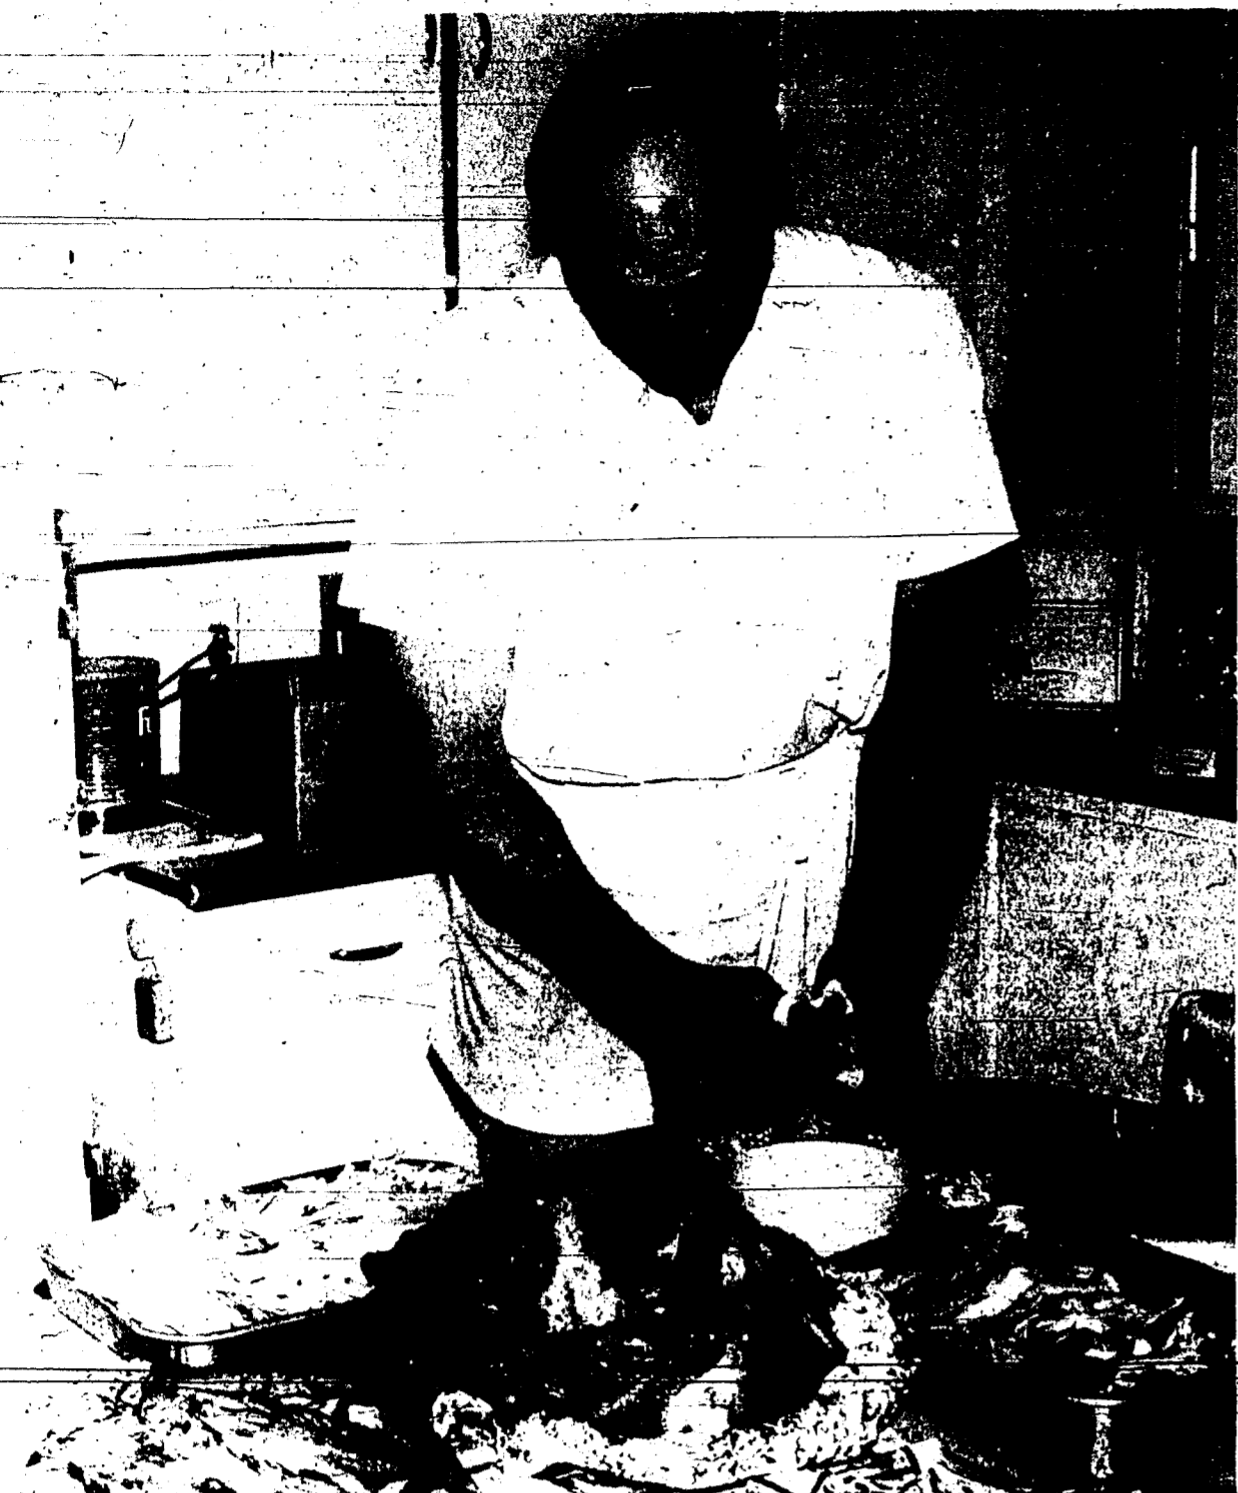

Murray was reportedly knocked off a boxcar and his toes mashed, causing amputation. A doctor testified earlier that Murray could not return to his occupation as a brakeman. The jury of 12 deliberated until 3 p. m. before reaching the verdict.

Dines in Twin Falls . . .

ENTERTAINER Jim Roberts, tenor with the Lawrence Walk show, left, accepted an invitation to join Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reston, Twin Falls, for dinner Thanksgiving Day. Reston, right, extended the invitation to Roberts, who is currently appearing at Jackpot, Nev.

Arrangements were completed today for Roberts to sing during services at two Twin Falls churches on Sunday. Roberts offered to sing during 11 a. m. services at the First United Presbyterian Church and at the First United Methodist church.

Ready for carving . . .

BRUCE BLACK a volunteer worker for the Salvation Army Corps in Twin Falls, prepares a tasty Thanksgiving dinner which was served to about 50 needy persons Thursday afternoon. The corps serves free meals to all who ask and are truly without food or shelter. A number of beds are available at the corps shelter on Main Avenue West, and many other services are provided through the corps headquarters and church at 802 Second Ave. N.

Rampton voices 'some concern' over Morton's interior views

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah Gov. Calvin L. Rampton said Wednesday he is disappointed Hickel is leaving his post as Interior Secretary, and has "some concern" over the appointment of Rogers C. B. Morton, a Democrat, said.

"Mr. Hickel and I have been good friends and although he has never been out here to visit, he has always received me very courteously and devoted himself to our problems," Rampton, a Democrat, said.

President Nixon fired Walter J. Hickel Wednesday night because of a lack of "mutual confidence." He named Rogers C. B. Morton, former chairman of the national Republican Committee, to the post.

"I don't argue with the President's right to appoint his cabinet," Rampton said, "but I have some concern whether Mr. Morton is familiar with the West. And of course the major work of that department — though not all of it — is concerned with the West."

Morton, who will have to be confirmed by Congress before assuming his new post, is from Maryland.

Germans flee freighter

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Four East Germans, including two physicians and a scientist, jumped off a Cuba-bound freighter today and were picked up by a charter boat hired by the brother of one of the jumpers.

The four, not immediately identified, jumped off the freighter Volker F. Reunoschaft — a combination cruiser-freighter — at American Shoals eight miles off nearby Big Pine Key.

The jumpers were picked up almost immediately by a 22-foot outboard chartered by Eric Bley — brother of one of the jumpers. The charter boat was skippered by Capt. Bob Lowe, a well-known Keys fishing guide.

The four jumped over the side of the ship at 7:30 a. m.

An eyewitness, who asked not to be identified, reported the freighter, registered in East Germany, slowed down, made a 180-degree turn, but continued on toward Ruba after the jumpers were picked up by the waiting charter boat.

Land trade eyed

BOISE (UPI) — The State Land Department is considering a trade of four sections of state-owned land in the Sawtooth Valley to the U.S. Forest Service.

A spokesman for the department said the agency currently is negotiating with Forest Service officials about the possibility of trading the four scattered sections to the federal government for other federal lands.

However, Assistant State Land Commissioner Ralph Sampson said any decision on a land trade would have to be made by the Land Board. He added that any trade probably is some distance from reality.

The four parcels of state land all are adjacent to U.S. 93. One is just northeast of Alturas Lake and another is just south of the Sawtooth Valley ranger station. Another is southeast of Little Redfish Lake and the other is just east of Stanley.

A number of private individuals have applied to buy the land but the Land Board has turned them down.

Yule messages resume

SAIGON (UPI) — Hanoi Radio resumed its annual broadcasts today of Christmas messages from American prisoners of war to their families in the United States.

It said the first message was from Navy Cmdr. Robert James Schweitzer of Lemoore Naval Air Station, Calif., who has been a prisoner since his plane was shot down over North Vietnam in January, 1968.

The message to Schweitzer's wife, Gwen, and children, Carl and Ann, said:

"As Christmas approaches, I am much like Ebenezer Scrooge, envisioning Christmas past, Christmas present and Christmas future. But here the resemblance ends, for my thoughts are happy ones.

"Christmas past are warm, nostalgic times of my boyhood, with the folks and friends, or our early years together, Gwen, and of our most recent happy Christmases with you boys; pleasing poignant memories.

"Christmas present is about to unfold. Our camp choir is rehearsing. We will have Christmas dinner. You may send me an 11-pound package this year.

"But much more important, I know that you all are safe and that our people are slowly but surely insisting that the meaning of Christ's birth and that of peace on Earth, good will toward men be actively pursued, not just talked about.

"That is why Christmases future will be the brightest and happiest of all. We will be together again with our family and friends in a peaceful world. We will have learned to have loved one another as Jesus has taught us. These Christmases will come with time and our concerted effort.

"My love to our family and friends. My deepest love to you. Have a very merry Christmas. Love, Dad."

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell parents what to look for in their children to know for sure whether they are on drugs or not. We are worried sick over this.

ILLINOIS PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: That's a tall order. Insofar as marijuana is concerned, it is practically impossible to identify a user by his appearance or behavior.

If one is on barbiturates ["downers," sleeping pills, tranquilizers, pain killers, etc.] the following symptoms could be present: The tendency to sleep more than usual, drowsiness, inattentiveness, slurred speech, lack of coordination. The withdrawal symptoms are vomiting, tremors and diarrhea. [Unfortunately, these are also symptoms for any number of illnesses.]

One who is on amphetamines ["uppers," speed, bennies, methadine or diet pills] will appear hyperactive, exhilarated and talkative. His speech will be rapid and he may shift abruptly from one subject to another. He is apt to be short-tempered, irritable and snappish. He will also suffer a loss of appetite.

Those who use hallucinogenic drugs [LSD, mescaline, psilocybin] are not identifiable, unless of course they are on a bad "trip" and begin to behave irrationally. [Some become "wild" and fear they are going insane.]

The paraphernalia will vary, depending upon what drugs are being used. For heroin or some forms of "speed," a hypodermic needle, eye dropper, syringe, matches and spoon are usually stashed away. "Grass" [marijuana] looks much like ordinary tobacco, only a darkish green, and when smoked, smells like burning leaves. Kids usually buy raw grass and roll their own in cigaret papers.

Almost all adolescents who are hooked on drugs will spend a great deal of time alone in their room, or away from home. They are usually always broke and borrowing money. You may notice that many of their prized possessions have disappeared. An addict will sell anything [tape recorder, musical instruments, radio, television, even his automobile] in order to support his habit—which can run into several hundreds of dollars a day, if he is hooked on heroin. Many resort to stealing.

But parents, far more important than knowing the "symptoms"—is knowing your child! Get involved with your children at an early age. Encourage open and frank dialog with them. Know their doubts, their fears, their frustrations, ambitions and beliefs. I cannot express too emphatically the importance of listening to your children. Even if you violently disagree with their "far out" philosophies, listen anyway. Then try, really try, to understand them.

Most kids have given up trying to talk with their parents because they know from experience if they express views contrary to those held by their parents it will mean a fight. And kids never win. Once young people know that their parents will actually listen, and will not punish, ridicule or put them down for their beliefs, they will begin to talk freely and honestly.

If I could give today's parents some advice, it would be to let your child know that he can come to you with anything without being made to feel guilty or ashamed. I would urge parents not to over-react or label their child a "dope fiend" if they learn that he has experimented with pot or drugs. Not all drug users are "hooked." [And let's be fair, we adults have our "drugs," too.]

Most adults are surprisingly ignorant about drug abuse. But they need not be ashamed of their initial ignorance because the drug culture is relatively new. However, they need not remain ignorant. Each community has organizations eager to educate parents, as well as to help young people who are in trouble with drugs. If there is a local branch of your National Institute of Mental Health, get in touch with them. They have movies, literature and informed speakers which are yours for the asking. Also, inquire at your church. Many young clergymen are doing a wonderful job. And so is your County Medical Society, as well as your family doctor.

Parents should familiarize themselves with the present laws on drug possession and use, and become active in groups which would change those laws, if indeed they feel the laws need changing.

Young people who are able to talk frankly and freely with their parents are not likely to blow their minds on drugs. Drugs are an escape. For kids, it's usually an escape from lack of understanding and the hard-to-swallow hypocrites at home.

Gooding Junior Miss pageant will feature 20 contestants

GOODING — The Gooding County Junior-Miss Pageant will be held this Saturday according to the Gooding Jaycee Pageant committee, with 20 young ladies from Gooding, Wendell and Hagerman participating. These junior misses will be competing for a $200 scholarship and an expense-paid trip to the state Junior Miss Pageant to be held in Moscow in February.

Gooding Jaycee president, Mike Reed, extends an invitation to each and every Gooding County resident to attend the pageant at the Frahm Junior High School Gymnasium at 8 p.m.

Each Junior Miss contestant has her own interests and ambitions, which are varied and exciting, as the list below indicates.

Diane Rogers, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rogers, Gooding, lists her activities as Drill Team, drama club and French Club. She is employed as a swimming instructor by the city of Gooding. Her career choice is to be a secretary after attending Ricks College. For her talent in the pageant she will present a dance.

Cheri Scanlon, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Scanlon, Gooding, lists as some of her activities attending the Girls' State this past summer, student body treasurer, Honor Society, Job's Daughters, Pep Club, concert band and Ski Club. She is undecided as to which college she will attend but she hopes to become a medical laboratory technician. As her talent for the pageant, Miss Scanlon will play a selection on the piano.

Cindi LaCroix, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold LaCroix, Gooding, is a member of the Honor Society, Pep Club, Drama Club and Student Council. Miss La Croix will enroll at either Idaho State University or the University of Idaho next fall and major in secondary education. Her talent presentation will be a twirling routine.

Connie Glauner, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Glauner, Gooding, is the honored queen of Job's Daughters Bethel No. 13. She is a member of the Drill Team, Pep Club and a 4-H member. She is also undecided as to the college or university she will attend. Her career ambition is to become a home economics teacher. Miss Glauner will present a dance for the talent portion of the pageant.

Marlene Varin, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Varin, Gooding, lists as her activities the Drill Team, Rodeo Club, Student Council and student body secretary. Miss Varin will enroll at the University of Idaho and major in elementary education. Miss Varin will do a dance as her talent.

Mary Jean Lyon, 17, daughter of Mrs. Deloris Lyon, Gooding, is a member of the National Honor Society, Pep Club, Drama Club and Future Nurses of America. Miss Lyon plans to attend the University of Idaho, majoring in sociology. After graduation she would like to become a social worker. Miss Lyon will present a reading as her talent presentation for the pageant.

Peggy Schubert, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Schubert, Gooding, is a member of the National Honor Society, Drama Club, Job's Daughters and is senior class secretary.

She plans to enroll at the University of Idaho, majoring in psychology and later to become a high school counselor. Singing will be her talent presentation.

Holly McCombs, 17, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Alan McCombs, Gooding, is a Varsity cheerleader, a member of Job's Daughters, Ski Club, a 4-H member and drama club. Her future plans include attending Boise State College to further her education in the biological sciences. Her talent for the pageant will be a dance.

Susan Boring, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Boring, Gooding, is a member of the National Honor Society, Pep Club, band and student council. After graduation from Gooding High School she plans to enroll at Idaho State University to study nursing. Miss Boring will present a reading for the talent portion of the pageant.

Karen Johnson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Johnson, Gooding, lists as some of her activities, Drama Club, Ski Club, and National Honor Society. She is Girls' League president and a member of Job's Daughters. She plans to attend the University of Idaho, majoring in elementary education. Miss Johnson has selected a reading for her talent.

Marva Lee Dixon, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Dixon, Gooding, participates in the Drill Team, student council and as a cheerleader. She plans to attend Ricks College, majoring in special education for the physically handicapped. Miss Dixon will sing as her talent presentation.

Janet Conrad, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Conrad, Gooding, is a varsity cheerleader and she was homecoming queen this year. She also is a member of the Ski Club and French Club. She plans to attend Ricks College and major in physical education. As her talent she will present a pom pom routine.

Karen Barton, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barton, Hagerman, takes part in the Drill Team, Pep Club and she is serving as student body treasurer. She is also a member of the National Honor Society. She will attend Brigham Young University and major in accounting. Miss Barton will play a piano solo for her talent presentation. Jo Ann Berry, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Berry, Hagerman, lists among her many activities the annual editor, district president for the FHA, delegate to Girls' State and National Honor Society. She will enroll at Boise State College, majoring in home economics. Miss Berry will sing as her talent presentation for the pageant.

Barbra Laca, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Patterson, Hagerman, is a member of the National Honor Society, Drill Team, annual staff and she is the student director of the band. Miss Laca will present a clarinet solo as her talent.

Debi Gilbert, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gilbert, Wendell, lists as some of her activities the Pep Club, annual editor, student body secretary and FHA. Miss Gilbert will attend Fort Wright College, Spokane, Wash., where she will major in journalism. She will give a reading for her talent presentation.

Loy Ann Casper, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Casper, Wendell, lists as some of her activities the National Honor Society, Pep Band, paper staff and Pep Club. She will enroll at Ricks College this next fall and then hopes to become an airline stewardess. Miss Casper will present a clarinet solo as her talent for the pageant.

Vikki Pepper, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Pepper, Wendell, is a member of the Drill Team, paper staff, Science Club and she is also drum majorette. Miss Pepper will enroll at Boise State College, majoring in English literature. Later she hopes to become a teacher. Miss Pepper will present a reading for her talent presentation.

Christine Bertus, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Bertus, Wendell, takes part in the Pep Club, National Honor Society, and is senior class secretary. Miss Bertus is as yet undecided as to the college or university she wants to attend. She states that she is interested in the art field. Miss Bertus will present a piano solo for her talent in the pageant.

Patty Scheel, 17, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Scheel, Wendell, takes part in the Pep Club, FHA, pep band and the Drill Team. She was also a delegate to Girls' State this past summer.

First Civic Symphony concert of season gets excellent review

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — Del Slaughter and his musicians have been busy people this past week. And Twin Falls is much the richer for their efforts. Wednesday night's Civic Symphony concert provided a fitting climax to a musical season, and a glorious introduction to the holiday season.

The Civic Symphony presented a varied program featuring the nimble fingers of pianist Lowell Farr in Chopin's difficult but hauntingly beautiful Piano Concerto No. 2 in F Minor, written in four movements.

The program began with the Overture to "Iphigenia in Aulis" by Christoph Willibald Gluck, a German composer who was born in 1714 in Germany, trained in Italian opera, and died in Vienna in 1787. His Overture provided a good introduction to the skillful string section, and featured a rhythmic bass viol part.

Beethoven's Symphony No. 1 in C Major, written in four parts, further developed the talents of the various orchestral sections. The evening seemed to belong largely to the strings — at least the first portion of the program. The violins, violas and cellos, again backed up by the two basses, danced and sang in beautiful harmony throughout.

The percussion section, as always, offered a haunting counterpoint, particularly in the "Menuetto" of Beethoven's Symphony.

Following a brief intermission, Pianist Lowell Farr took the limelight in Chopin's Concerto, in three movements. Chopin's F Minor Concerto was actually the first to have been written by the famed composer, during the winter of 1829-30, though it was published several years later.

The Concerto includes a variety of exquisite piano interludes which could stand by themselves as etudes, preludes or other short works. The first movement, "Maestoso," features a number of brilliant passages both by the pianist and by the accompanying orchestra, which weaves in and out of the piano passages.

Chopin's second movement, "Larghetto," has aptly been ranked as one of the composer's greatest. Inspired by a young voice student with whom Chopin was madly in love, the "Larghetto" is a sensuous, romantic number which could well stand by itself as an epic piece of music.

The final movement, "Allegro vivace," carries an intricate melody which moves throughout the orchestra and is picked up by the pianist repeatedly. Tricky timing between the pianist and orchestra tests all to the limit, and the result Wednesday night was harmonious and lovely to behold. The audience called the pianist, Lowell Farr, back for several curtain calls following his appearance.

The orchestra's final number, an unusual Russian series of vignettes called "The Comedians," by Dmitri Kabalevsky, thrilled one and all with a variety of fast and slow, loud and soft, sprightly and danceable music. Again the percussion section came to the fore, particularly in the "Gallop" and the "Gavotte," as well as the Prologue.

To single out individual musicians above others would be both unfair and impossible; all deserve hearty applause for their long rehearsals and their devotion to the cause of presenting fine music to the public. All are volunteers; all spend many long hours in practicing while maintaining homes and jobs.

It would be fitting, perhaps, to commend the Civic Symphony and their director, Del Slaughter, by name and instrument. Playing violins are Mrs. Julienne Slaughter, Mrs. Kay Nally, Ernest Moss, Mrs. Claire Theener, Martha Vontz, Mrs. Jean Sutcliffe, Mrs. Elaine Mitchell, Mrs. Mary Baun, Mrs. Marion Adkins, Linda Slaughter, Sue Coleman, Julie Carroll and Ken Stokes.

Violas are played by Mrs. Lorayne Smith, Venessa Ryall, Patricia DeGlee, and Cathy Dudley; while cello players include Mrs. Helen Coier, Ruth Norris, Karen Schow, Susan Heitz, Chris Blastock, and Marsha True.

Bass artists include Roger Graefe and Julie Cannon; flutes, JoAnn Vincent and Marieta Bastian; oboe, Janie Vincent; clarinets, Larry Standley, Lawrence Curtis and Scott Jensen; bassoons, Deon Pettygrove and Richard Arrington; French horns, Charles Ratcliffe, Dave Hamilton, Randy Hoffmaster and Grant Salisbury; trumpets, Richard Youree and John Morris; trombones, Dwight Tucker and Mark Herzinger; percussion, David Follingstad and Walt Sinclair, and piano, Mrs. Margaret Vincent.

The only disappointment to the evening was a moderately sized audience which seemed rather unappreciative for the fine quality of music offered. It would seem to this reviewer that at least a standing ovation was in order at the conclusion of the fine concert. Instead, conductor Del Slaughter was called back for two curtain calls and no more.

However, the concert was most pleasurable and the results showed a tremendous amount of work on the part of the musicians. Magic Valley is indeed fortunate to have so many people devoted to fine music.

Local lodge activities announced

TWIN FALLS — Activities for the Women of the Moose were announced when members met Tuesday evening in regular session at the Moose Home.

A family potluck dinner is set for Dec. 4; the children's Christmas party at 6 p.m. Dec. 13, and a pancake supper Dec. 9. Pro tem officers were Mrs. Tom Novacek, junior graduate regent; Mrs. George Long, junior regent; Mrs. Paul McCollum, chaplain, and Mrs. Virgil Malone, assistant guide; Mrs. May Meader, sentinel, and Mrs. W. W. Holmgren, argus.

Guests were Mrs. Novacek, Mrs. Joe Komadoski, Mrs. Emil Wavra and Mrs. Larry S. Davis, all members of the Buhl Women of the Moose, and Mrs. Jess Smith.

During the social hour after the meeting with members of the Loyal Order of Moose, the groups presented Mr. and Mrs. Novacek a gift in honor of their wedding anniversary. Members of the library committee served refreshments.

Gold wings make T.F. miss 'girl of all seasons'

TWIN FALLS — Pan American stewardess Sonya Balleisen, Twin Falls, is a girl for all seasons.

When she leaves on a flight she might take along a hula skirt, a fur parka, or a stylish tweed suit for a day of shopping in London or Paris.

Circulating Sonya is based in Seattle, Wash., and Pan Am's Jet Clippers take her north to Fairbanks, Alaska, across the Pacific to the sun-gilded resort islands of Hawaii, and over the North Pole to London. The sun never sets on her travels.

Recently the modish, green-eyed brunette won her gold wings at the International Stewardess College in Miami, and on her first assignment traveled to Europe on a 747 giant jet transport which carries 362 passengers.

The new stewardess is the daughter of attorney and Mrs. Robert N. W. Balleisen, 1410 9th Ave. E. She has been a regular summer park director in her hometown.

Already a seasoned traveler, Miss Balleisen spent her college junior year studying in Europe. She is a 1970 graduate of Lewis and Clark College, Portland, Ore., majored in education, was a member of Junior Honorary and a resident assistant.

third club. He makes his best play, which is to lead a spade, and your correct play is the six-spot. If you look at the cards, you will see that West will have to play the queen in order to keep dummy's nine from winning the trick and your king and jack of spades will both be good. Suppose that East held the spade queen and West the 10? The 10 would force dummy's ace and you would have to try the spade finesse. Suppose that West held both queen and 10 and East the club queen? Then you would be set, in spite of your best efforts.

TODAY'S QUESTION
 You do bid three no-trump. West and North pass and East doubles. What do you do now?
 Answer Tomorrow

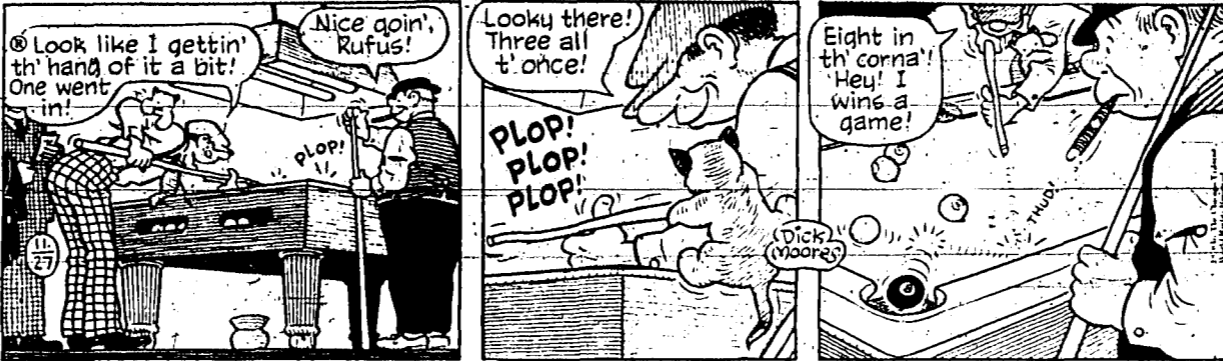

Here is another hand taken from Victor Mollo's book, "How Good Is Your Bridge?" We have filled in the East and West hands that are not shown in the book.

If you want to get the most enjoyment out of this article, just look at the North-South cards. Study how to play the hand after West starts by leading three rounds of diamonds, you trump the third and draw trumps with two leads.

There is no sure play but there is a best line. It consists of playing out the ace, king and jack of clubs. This gives you the chance of picking up the queen if West holds it but, if West holds the queen of clubs, your play turns out to be sure-fire. West will have to lead a spade up to your king-jack-six and you won't lose a spade trick.

Since this is a problem, it turns out that East wins the

Huge natural reservoir lies under Gem desert

By RONALD B. SCOTT
BOISE (UPI) — Between Idaho Falls and Twin Falls, Idaho, lies about 200 miles of desert broken only by the fertile lands near the Snake River.

Underneath this barren land — called the Snake Plain — is a gigantic natural reservoir which stretches from north of Idaho Falls to the Thousand Springs area near Twin Falls. The water in the aquifer, if used properly, could turn the desert into productive farmland, provide water for cities in Idaho and water for fish management projects. If controlled improperly, this massive reservoir could be turned into a cesspool and its economic value and life — sustaining potential could be lost.

Currently the Idaho Water Resources Board, Department of Water Administration, Department of Health and the U.S. Geological Survey and Bureau of Reclamation have projects underway on the aquifer to develop its potential. Will Burnham of the USGS describes the aquifer as heavily saturated porous rock and soil beneath the surfaces of the plain. The movement of the aquifer, which empties primarily at Thousand Springs, is a percolation type movement. He said it takes water that enters the aquifer near Idaho Falls an estimated 100 years to reach Thousand Springs.

About 50 per cent of the water in the aquifer comes from natural sources, such as the Big Lost River and Little Lost River on the Snake Plain. The other 50 per cent is added by percolation into the aquifer from irrigation of the land and from waste water disposal wells used to drain unused irrigation water from the fields.

Burnham said the aquifer, in

“... All projects to be accomplished in the future must rely on water from the aquifer.”

addition to discharging at Thousand Springs, makes discharges into the Snake River near American Falls and at a few other points. The question he said his department, and others concerned with management of the aquifer, want to answer is the total capacity of the aquifer. He said “One thing makes this so difficult is that we really don’t understand how the water makes way into the aquifer. Some water from drainage wells may be discharging directly into the system, while water from other wells percolates through the earth for several hundred feet before reaching the aquifer.”

The unknowns present problems in control of disposal wells because no maximum or minimum depths can be set. At some points it is only a few hundred feet below the surface while at other points it may be up to a thousand feet below the plain. Dr. Robert Lee, director of the Department of Water Resources, said at the present time his agency is attempting to determine the characteristics of the aquifer to determine if artificial recharge is feasible. He said “All the surface water under current management practices, in a dry year, is totally committed for future development. Therefore all projects to be accomplished in the future must rely on water from the aquifer.” He said his agency is charged with the responsibility of designing the overall master plan for use of the aquifer and to incorporate in that plan the needs and meanings of all potential uses of the aquifer. Right now, according to R. Keith Higginson, director of the Department of Water Administration, few ground water regulations exist. He said household and domestic wells do not require permits — and noted that even though it is illegal to construct waste disposal wells on the aquifer, enforcement of the regulation is extremely difficult. The drill hole for a waste well is no different than one drilled for domestic purposes.

But he said, before strict enforcement can be asked by the state, the water agencies dealing with the aquifer must determine its characteristics. “We must know for certain that the water quality is being deteriorated by waste disposal practices. It is possible much of the impurities in waste water is filtered out as the water percolates through the soil. But it is just as likely, in some cases, waste water is injected directly into the system through deep waste wells.” For more than 100 years municipalities, private homes and farms along the aquifer have dumped raw sewage and other waste materials down wells into the aquifer. The sewage always went away and the farmer was never forced to dig another well. Then the farmer probably never thought that in the process he was contaminating a great water resource. Fortunately pollutants, as far as it can be determined, have not affected the ground water seriously — yet. The quality of water, according to Higginson, is of a higher quality than water found above ground. But as the number of waste wells drilled into the aquifer increase and pumps remove more water from the aquifer, the quality as well as the quantity of the water could deteriorate and it is possible at some time in the future this entire resource could be lost to the state.

Preservation and controlled use of this resource is the main aim of the agencies involved in water control in the state. Already discussions and tests are being made to determine if artificially recharging the aquifer with spring run-off waters is feasible. But even that program presents the possibility that artificial injection could lower the water quality or could destroy the ecology of the aquifer.

Islands fail Medicaid rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government audit disclosed Tuesday that 12 states and the Virgin Islands do not meet federal Medicaid regulations in paying for drugs for welfare recipients.

The disclosure came in a Government Accounting Office (GAO) report on Medicaid drug programs in the Cleveland and Akron areas of Ohio. In the report to Congress, Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats said Ohio and the other states continued to use a policy of paying for drugs on a cost plus percentage-of-cost basis which is prohibited by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

In January, 1969, HEW issued regulations requiring that states pay for welfare drugs on either a cost plus dispensing fee or reasonable customary charge to the public basis.

The GAO said Ohio continued its policy of paying for drugs with prices equal to the prevailing wholesale cost in the state plus 50 per cent of the cost.

The GAO said the policy “has the effect of encouraging pharmacies to dispense higher cost drugs.”

In addition to Ohio, the GAO said its review showed six jurisdictions — Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virgin Islands, Washington and West Virginia — permitted markups ranging from 33 1-3 per cent to 66-2-3 per cent, and six others — Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Nevada, Oregon and Utah — permitted markups of 30 to 50 per cent, as well as dispensing fees ranging from 45 cents to $1.30 per prescription.

It added a letter from HEW in August, 1970, indicated Ohio, Kansas, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Nevada, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Washington had adopted or planned to adopt policies to conform with HEW regulations of drug payments. The report said HEW advised that Connecticut, Illinois, Utah, West Virginia and the Virgin Islands “were working with the HEW regional offices to bring their payment policies into conformity with the regulations.”

HEW said it would follow up periodically on the actions promised by the 12 states and the Virgin Islands.

New use

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Old glass bottles and jars will soon be a valuable source of raw materials for industry.

Says Richard L. Cheney, executive director of the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, Inc.: “Crushed waste glass may constitute as much as 30 per cent or more of the ingredients needed to make new bottles. Furthermore, uses for old glass bottles have been found in the road building and home construction industries.”

Cairo eyes canal bank

By United Press International
Military officials in Cairo said today-Egypt has evidence of a massive Israeli military buildup along the Suez Canal and Egyptian armed forces have been placed on a maximum alert.

The sources said there were fears that Israel might try a pre-emptive strike across the canal, similar to that launched in June 1967 which touched off the Six-Day Arab-Israeli War.

The sources said there was “documented” evidence that the Israeli buildup included movements of troops, tanks and artillery. They did not say how the information was received but Israel charged earlier in the week that Egyptian warplanes had flown over the Israeli-held East Bank.

The Suez Canal and other Arab-Israeli front lines have been quiet since Aug. 7 when a 90-day U.S.-sponsored cease-fire went into effect. The cease-fire was extended another 90 days and is scheduled to run out now on Feb. 5.

While some Egyptian officials expressed concern over the possibility of an Israeli attack, others said they still expected Israel will return to the Middle East peace talks under the supervision of U.N. Mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

The Egyptian officials said resumption of the talks would come within the next few weeks as a result of American pressures on Israel. Israel boycotted the talks because of the standstill terms of the U.S. cease-fire agreement. But there have been indications recently that it was considering returning to the conference table.

Tree cut sites set in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The Bureau of Land Management will allow Christmas tree cutting on federal lands in Utah next month in six sites throughout the Beehive state.

State BLM Director Robert D. Nielson said 2,500 Utahns took advantage of the offer last year and, to facilitate the like number expected this year, BLM employees will be stationed in the selected areas to issue free permits.

The closest areas for cutting, however, is located 60 miles from Salt Lake City, and only pine trees will be allowed to be harvested, Nielson said.

He added that the BLM issues free permits, at one tree per family, for personal use only. Persons wanting to cut trees for resale must make special arrangements with BLM district offices to buy trees.

Locations of cutting areas and dates for harvesting can be obtained from BLM offices, Nielson said.

Air taxi service owner claims firm 'scapegoat' in WSU crash

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The president of Golden Eagle Aviation Co. says his air taxi service is being made a scapegoat in the charter plane crash that killed 31 Wichita State University football players, coaches and boosters.

National Transportation Safety Board examiner H. G. Moorhead Wednesday refused to renew the license of Golden Eagle, which provided crewmen for the plane that crashed on the side of a Colorado mountain Oct. 2. Golden Eagle plans to appeal the ruling.

Moorhead said the Federal Aviation Administration was correct in revoking Golden Eagle's air taxi license four days after the crash.

Moorhead said evidence presented during four days of testimony showed Golden Eagle operated the plane without having a proper license to do so.

Golden Eagle had argued it only furnished the crewmen, and that the university operated the plane and leased the plane from another firm, Aero Data Link.

“I think we have been a victim of the regulations, and have been used as a scapegoat,” said Ron Skipper, president of Golden Eagle. He called FAA regulations “too ambiguous” and “not fair to FAA employees or to the people who have to operate under them.”

Moorhead said Golden Eagle operated planes larger than those permitted by its license, used a pilot who lacked a valid medical certificate and flew an airplane which was not airworthy and was overweight by 2,900 pounds.

“We will appeal to the Pandemonium Palace on the Po-mac,” said J. C. Jopling, co-counsel for Golden Eagle, referring to the five-member NTSB board in Washington.

Moorhead said Golden Eagle officials “certainly appeared to me to be good men and they had good service under their (air mail delivery) contract.”

“They just took on a bigger job than they had been certificated for,” he said. “That doesn’t necessarily mean they couldn’t handle it.”

Moorhead’s ruling was in agreement with FAA contentions

Golden Eagle’s association with Aero Data Link was merely a “facade” designed to skirt FAA regulations requiring a “very expensive” license for operating large airplanes such as the Martin 404 that crashed. Moorhead said Aero Data Link was of “doubtful validity.”

Revocation of the firm’s air taxi license effectively puts Golden Eagle out of business, halting its air mail delivery service in six states under a $600,000-a-year Post Office contract.
