Rail clerks ignore court, press strike

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Railway clerks ignored government orders today and shut down the nation's trains as the peak of the Christmas mailing season neared. Three smaller unions ordered their men back on the job.

Picket... STRIKING RAIL WORKER, Bob Simmons, member of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks union, pickets near the Twin Falls depot of the Union Pacific Railroad. About 25 to 35 workers are reported to be on strike in the Twin Falls area, pending settlement of the national railroad strike.

T.F. rail yard quiet

TWIN FALLS — Local railroad transportation remained at a standstill at 11 a. m. today in Twin Falls pending settlement of the nationwide railroad strike which reportedly involves about 20 to 25 workers in Twin Falls.

Progress cited in Hughes hassle

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—A state official attempting to settle the battle over Howard Hughes' multimillion-dollar Las Vegas interests says "reasonable progress" has been made and a secret meeting today "hopefully... will result in a final settlement."

The Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks (BRAC), whose 200,000 rail members handle baggage and sell tickets, said it was refusing to comply with a federal judge's 3 a.m. EST back-to-work order. BRAC pickets were on the lines throughout the nation. A critical question was whether members of the other three unions—the United Transportation Union (UTU), the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and a dining car employees union—would cross the picket lines. Altogether 425,000 union members are involved.

The strike forced 600,000 big city commuters to find other ways to and from the job. The postal service stopped accepting parcel post packages for destinations more than 300 miles away. The Big Three automakers cut back shifts in several cities.

The strike began at 12:01 a.m. to back up union demands for bigger pay raises than a White House board had recommended or the railroads had offered.

Fifty-nine minutes later, Congress completed passage of a bill ordering a halt to the strike and giving rail workers a 13 1/2 per cent pay increase. The pay provision was unprecedented in the memory of congressional observers.

President Nixon signed the legislation at 2:10 a.m. and said he expected workers "immediately to return to work and their leaders to return to the bargaining table."

And at 3:17 a.m., in his suburban home, U.S. District Judge John H. Pratt responded to industry pleas and issued a 10-day temporary restraining order against the unions on the basis that the new law had been violated.

In Chicago, the nation's rail hub, 110,000 commuters sought other ways to work. In St. Louis, the nation's second-largest rail center, Missouri Pacific said the UTU and the Maintenance of Way Employees Union were removing pickets in Chicago, New Orleans, St. Louis and the Gulf Coast.

A key question, then, was how the other union members would respond to the pickets. A spokesman for the three unions said: "We don't tell a person to cross or not to cross a picket line."

The White House left little doubt it was prepared to take action if workers refused. Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said the administration would take unspecified action to force the workers to return to work if the strike did not end today.

Hodgson earlier said the administration would consider using troops to move the trains, but said Wednesday in answer to a question, "we have no plan to use them."

Four unions representing 425,000 rail workers who were disgruntled over lack of a pay increase after working almost a year without a contract, ignored administration pleas and last-minute intervention efforts by Congress to stage the massive walkout. As the strike began, Congress was in the process of adopting final legislation that ordered the strike delayed until March 1 and gave workers an 11.5 per cent pay increase.

Rail service was halted nationwide, stranding passengers and freight, leaving 600,000 commuters to find other ways to work and raising the possibility of industrial shut-downs and severe unemployment if the strike continued.

Shortly after President Nixon signed the legislation into law at 2:10 a.m. EST, U.S. District Judge John H. Pratt of Chevy Chase, Md., at the request of the railroads, issued a 10-day temporary restraining order against the unions on the basis that the new law had been violated.

Strikebound... HOPPER, GRAIN and gondola cars stand in the Twin Falls yards today, idled by the nationwide rail strike. Until the strike ends, no trains will roll down the clear track at center.

Train halt clogs cities

NEW YORK (UPI)—Nearly 250,000 metropolitan area train commuters jammed subway and bus facilities to the limit today and swelled highway traffic on the first day of the national rail strike.

Most made it to work but few were on time. A citywide taxi strike added to frustrations. A dockworkers strike ended, however, but commerce and industry was immediately threatened by the rail strike which could delay land shipments.

"Subway business is about double, but they're all good natured about the situation," said Dominick de Prizio, a harried assistant station supervisor at a Bronx subway terminal.

"These people are just glad they've got a way to get to work." But there was anger, too. A subway rider in Queens who declined to be identified mapped: "Get Nixon and Rockefeller down here. They don't give a damn about the public."

A visitor from Rio de Janeiro, John Peter Daniel, described the transportation morass as "awful" and expressed surprise that the rail unions were allowed to "get away with" a strike.

"In Brazil, they would have the army running the trains," he said. Crowding was most notable on buses, which already were bearing the brunt of a six-day old taxi strike affecting some 800,000 cab users.

Suburban Westchester County and New Jersey bus lines pressed extra equipment and men into service to ease the strain.

The Long Island Railroad with its unenviable reputation for delays and discomforts was not affected by the strike but had to dump Manhattan-bound passengers in the borough of Queens because it could not use struck Pennsylvania station facilities.

About 1,000 Long Island passengers were forced to hike a half-mile on tracks to reach the street when rerouted trains stacked up outside Long Island City, creating 45 minute delays. Train officials blamed the jam-up on Penn Central workers who failed to leave signals open at the Manhattan end of the track when they walked off their jobs.

Calley 'under orders' By H. D. QUIGG PT. BUNNING, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. William L. Calley's defense attorney told a six-officer military court today that Calley took his platoon into the Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai under orders that "every living thing in that area be killed."

'Quake strikes Ecuador

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—A violent earthquake struck the jungled Peru-Ecuador border area late Wednesday, inflicting widespread damage in an area devastated by a killer earthquake on May 31.

First reports were that 13 persons were known dead in this earthquake and that many others were injured. The Peruvian National Institute of Geophysics said the quake had a force of 7.5 on the Richter scale of 10 and was centered in the Ecuadorian area of Guayaquil about 50 miles north of the Peruvian city of Tumbes.

Reports from the Peruvian city of Sullana said at least 12 persons were killed there and "a great number of persons" were injured. (Earlier in Quito, Ecuadorian authorities said at least one person was killed in a border village and several persons were hurt.)

The quake was recorded at 11:35 p.m. EST by the University of California seismological station in Berkeley where technicians said it had a force of between 7.2 and 7.6 on the Richter scale.

Sullana is about 25 miles north of the cotton growing center of Piura where reports said the Colonial cathedral was badly damaged.

Reports from towns and villages in Ecuador said there was a general panic when the quake struck, and most people ran into the streets. At Aronillas, near the frontier with Peru, a woman was killed when the roof of a movie theater fell in. In the area of Tumbes and Piura, there was some damage, officials reported.

Calley 'under orders'

Calley earlier said the administration would consider using troops to move the trains, but said Wednesday in answer to a question, "we have no plan to use them."

Four unions representing 425,000 rail workers who were disgruntled over lack of a pay increase after working almost a year without a contract, ignored administration pleas and last-minute intervention efforts by Congress to stage the massive walkout. As the strike began, Congress was in the process of adopting final legislation that ordered the strike delayed until March 1 and gave workers an 11.5 per cent pay increase.

Rail service was halted nationwide, stranding passengers and freight, leaving 600,000 commuters to find other ways to work and raising the possibility of industrial shut-downs and severe unemployment if the strike continued.

N. Ireland blacked out

LONDON (UPI)—Power cuts caused by an electrical workers' slowdown today forced Northern Ireland to shut down nearly all its industry, idling 100,000 workers.

The slowdown, in its fourth day, has cut off electricity to just about everybody in Britain, Wales and Northern Ireland at various times. Even Queen Elizabeth II had to take tea by candlelight. Parliament met by candlelight Wednesday.

Remotely by electrical union leaders to allow their pay disputes to be settled by arbitration gave little hope for an early end to the crippling power cuts that brought growing chaos to the British economy.

Advance aides arrive Friday

TWIN FALLS — About 30 of the nearly 100 newsmen covering the Republican Governor's Conference at Sun Valley Saturday will arrive here by jet Friday at 1:45 p. m.

Bill Powell, airport commission member in charge of security arrangements at the Twin Falls City-County Airport, said five governors are also expected on the initial flight but officials had not released the names of the executives.

All the 32 Republican statehouse occupants will arrive here. Most will arrive on scheduled airlines with the exception of four or five coming in private jets.

The governors will be taken from the local airport to Sun Valley in automobiles furnished by car dealers. The uniforms for the project is being donated by American Oil Co.

Security at the field here will be "tight" with members of the sheriff's department under the direction of Sheriff Paul Cordar in charge, and city police with Chief Frank Earnest in charge. Most of the governors will come into Twin Falls Saturday. A complete list of arrival times is expected to be available Friday.

Kidnap victim sacrifice asked

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Richard G. Kleindienst, the No. 2 man at the Justice Department, says the way to "handle kidnappings by political terrorists is to sacrifice the victim, if need be, rather than make a deal—provided the victim is someone other than the President or vice president and their families."

Kleindienst, a deputy attorney general, was asked to give an interview with UPI today as the nation's political climate was dominated by reports that a kidnaping had taken place in Latin America.

Strike hits N.Y. harbor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sixteen thousand longshoremen shut down the Port of New York Wednesday with a wildcat walkout that added to the labor problems of this city in the fifth day of a taxi strike.

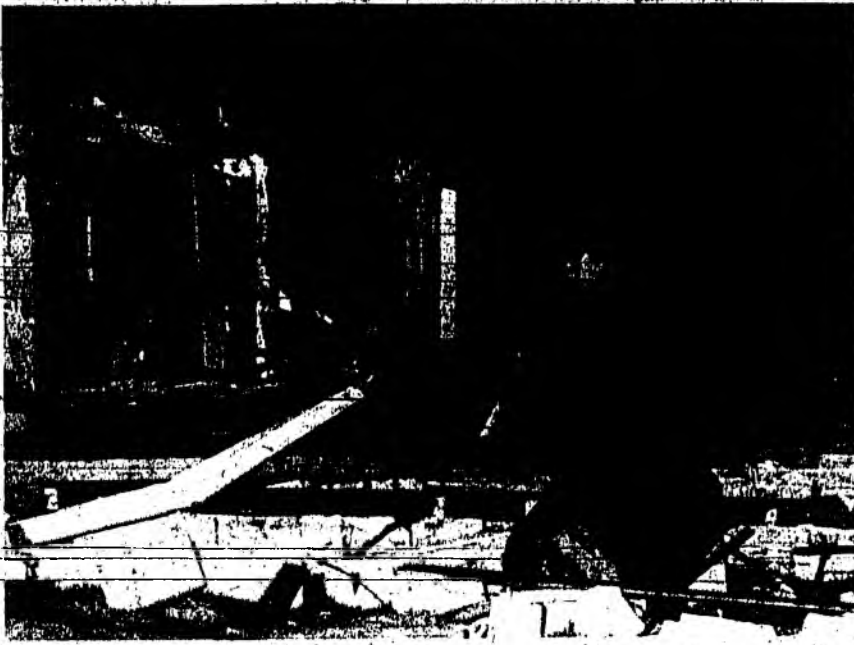

With no cabs in the streets and no shipping in the harbor, New Yorkers also were threatened by the crippling consequences of a midnight national railroad strike that could hit hard at the country's largest commuting populace.

The longshoremen's surprise work stoppage came after weeks of dissatisfaction between them and shipping interests, which make up the New York Shipping Association. The workers claim the shippers are $4.7 million in arrears in payments to the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) pension fund and $2.5 million behind in payments to the welfare fund.

Although there was not a cargo ship moving in the harbor, the West Indian cruise ships Homeric and Victoria had no difficulty in docking and the Nieuw Amsterdam sailed for the Caribbean at noon Wednesday with a scheduled cruise—lines said—personnel and the crew handled the situation "with a minimum of difficulty."

The walkout affected 57 ships in New York and the New Jersey docks in Port Newark, Hoboken, and Port Elizabeth. An ILA spokesman said the action did not have the sanction of the union, nor did the union know how long it would last.

No negotiations were scheduled in the strike of 36,000 fleet cab drivers which began last Friday midnight. The strike members of the Taxi Drivers' Union are seeking $175-a-week in pay to bring them into parity with city bus drivers. The average cabbie has been earning about $150 with tips. Fleet owners have been reluctant to grant a hike without city council action on a fare increase to cover the costs.

Irish opposition hits crackdown

DUBLIN (UPI)—Opposition deputies today in another angry protest against Premier Jack Lynch's imposition of emergency powers to jail suspected extremists without a trial.

They were also angry because Lynch refused to disclose details of what he called an armed conspiracy to carry out political kidnappings, robberies and perhaps murder. He said the plot threatened the republic.

Before order was restored and the house returned to financial discussions, another Labor member was suspended. Three others were suspended in similar outbursts Wednesday, including party leader Brendan Corish.

The expelled today was Conor Cruise O'Brien, former United Nations administrator in the Congo and the leading intellectual of the Labor Party. He was suspended for four days for defying a ruling by the speaker against discussing the government's Dec. 4 statement proclaiming the fall without trial measures.

Opposition deputies Wednesday demanded clarification of the statement but Lynch refused on grounds the lives of police informants would be endangered.

An uproar broke out in Parliament then and Speaker Cormic Brannin was forced to adjourn the house.

Outside Parliament, civil rights militant Bernard Devlin, 23, a member of the British Parliament, called on a crowd of students to begin a "class war" against Lynch and his government.

Other protest demonstrations were staged by Sinn Fein, the political arm of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), and the Civil Liberties Association.

Distant parcel shipments embargoed by Post Office

By BONNIE BAIRD-JONES, Times-News Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS—All first class and airmail service will continue as usual and all classes of mail, including Christmas parcels, will be accepted here for nine state areas of the Pacific northwest and three Canadian provinces, Twin Falls acting postmaster Lloyd Libert said today.

He said U. S. Postmaster General Winton Blount advises intraregional mail will travel along already established truck star routes and will not be affected by the railroad strike-embargo if traveling within the states of Idaho, Alaska, Utah, Montana, Washington, Oregon, Colorado, Nevada, Wyoming and British Columbia and the Territories and Yukon Northwest.

Libert said in addition air mail and first class mail is being accepted for all areas.

Not being accepted at the local post office are parcels and lower classes of mail outside the northwestern area. Libert said parcels going to other states than those listed should be held by the mailer until the embargo is lifted.

As soon as it is lifted, he said, all mail will immediately be accepted and there will be no need to wait for orders from the postmaster general.

Libert said the strike condition will also mean a cut in the junior substitutes who are cut from the staff as the need decreases. He said if the strike continues it will lessen the local

U.S. asks prisoner exchange

PARIS (UPI)—The United States and South Vietnam today renewed President Nixon's offer to exchange all Communist war prisoners in South Vietnam for the American and allied prisoners held in North Vietnam and proposed daily talks beginning Friday to discuss the issue.

Mmo. Nguyen Thi Binh immediately checkmated the offer by saying the Communists would discuss the prisoner offer only if the United States would announce an unconditional troop withdrawal. Then she got down to the weekly business of criticizing the Nixon administration's war policies.

U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce and South Vietnamese chief negotiator Pham Dang Lam repeated the Nixon exchange offer but this time they urged immediate, specific action. Bruce said the exchange would be particularly fitting during the holiday season.

Madame Binh, a tiny figure dressed in the traditional Vietnamese—black satin trousers, also dampened the hopes of Washington officials that the Communists would show interest in Nixon's cease-fire proposal of Oct. 7.

She said the Communists would observe a cease-fire only after the United States agrees to withdraw its troops by June 30, 1971, and to scuttle the present Saigon administration in favor of a coalition government that would include Communists.

Cosmetics linked to allergies

CHICAGO (UPI)—Preservatives used in some cosmetics and other perishable products may cause severe, protracted allergies, a skin specialist has reported.

Dr. William Schorr of the Marshallfield, Wts. Clinic, presented his report Wednesday to the convention of the American Academy of Dermatologists.

Schorr stressed that only a small minority of persons appeared affected by the preservatives.

But for those he said, switching from one brand to another provided no relief because the same preservative was used.

Schorr said it is difficult to establish which chemical may be responsible for the allergies, since the formulas of such products are secret.

"They don't come under the Food and Drug Act; they're protected by patents, although many firms have been willing to tell me confidentially whether or not a certain chemical was included in their products," Schorr said.

The dermatologist stressed such preservatives were causing no epidemic of allergies.

IEA eyes new law priorities

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Education Association will hold a special fall delegate assembly Saturday to consider legislative priorities and goals for the 1971 session of the legislature.

Wayne York, executive secretary of the IEA, said Wednesday one of the "principal items" for discussion will be the professional negotiations proposals.

Following summer-long discussions, York said, representatives of the IEA and of the trustees initiated a tentative agreement, but it was voted down during the trustees meeting in Coeur d'Alene and replaced by a new proposal.

"Our intent will be to present the original bill to our delegate assembly for approval," York said. "It is our hope the delegates will approve it and then we will urge and support the law in passing it to the legislature."

York said the morning session at CAPITOL HIGH 228801 will be devoted to a series of reports and presentation of resolutions.

U.S. grant aids Gem job effort

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Department of Special Services announced a federal grant of $171,850 Wednesday which will be used to continue Operation Mainstream through June of 1971.

The grant was made through the U.S. Department of Labor.

Herbert Whitworth, director of the department, said the Mainstream Program has been successfully providing work experience for the poor and unemployed since July 1.

Solons uncertain about drug plans

Editors note: This is the tenth of several dispatches dealing with the problems that may confront the 41st session of the Idaho Legislature, Today: Drug abuse.)

BY LINDY HIGH

BOISE (UPI) — Most Idaho legislators appear to feel drug abuse is a problem in Idaho and that the responsibility for enforcement of drug laws be retained with the State Board of Pharmacy.

At the same time, however, legislators responding to a UPI questionnaire on problems of drug abuse, appeared uncertain about the methadone, or synthetic drug, treatment of drug users.

Gov. Don Samuelson, who will leave office Jan. 4, has recommended shifting the responsibility for enforcing Idaho's drug laws from the Board of Pharmacy to the Department of Law Enforcement.

Proposal Backed

Some legislators agreed with the proposal. Sen. Richard Egbert, D-Tonahill, opted for law enforcement with the Department of Health cooperating in investigation and laboratory work.

Sen. Robert Kavon, R-Parley, also chose law enforcement, although he suggested retaining the Board of Pharmacy in a "professional advisory capacity."

The greater portion of legislators, however, favored keeping the responsibility with the Board of Pharmacy and one unidentified lawmaker even called for more authority for the board.

Legislators described the drug abuse problem as "serious, grave and great," although Rep. Steve Antone, R-Rupert, said the problem is "certainly not out of control."

To combat the menace, educators appeared to favor stricter enforcement of existing laws and a strong back-up program to educate Idaho's youth to the problems.

Rep. John Edwards, R-Council, noted education is the "most important part" of any anti-drug campaign, while Sen. John Mix, D-Moscow, called for an educational program in the elementary and junior high schools.

Rep. Edward Rice, R-Boise, urged "strict enforcement and tightening of supply sources," and Sen. Fisher Ellsworth, R-Twin Falls, said he wanted "strict enforcement of present laws and increased penalties for pushers."

Antone said the major problem in Idaho lies in "getting convictions of drug pushers."

The methadone treatment, supported by the Board of Health, received some support from lawmakers, but most appeared in need of more study.

Edwards, a physician, said methadone and educational programs could be used to combat the problems, but Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, said the real need is to educate our young people to the hazard.

Another lawmaker, who declined to be identified, said the methadone system is a "reasonable and less painful method of cure."

Ellsworth noted the methadone program has the endorsement of most doctors.

T.F. Snowmobile signup continuing, aide says

TWIN FALLS — Snowmobile registration is continuing, county officials report, with numerous $5 registrations having been sold during the past few weeks.

The registrations expire Oct. 31 each year, the Motor Vehicle Division, Department of Law Enforcement, reports and new current registrations of black on yellow must be displayed on all machines used anywhere in the state.

Dealers who are required to register machines for demonstration or rental use are charged $10 for the first registration and $3 for each additional set of stickers or plates.

Deputies of the Twin Falls sheriff's office are continuing to check machines in the South Hills for valid registration and other compliance and Sheriff Paul Corder said nearly all machine operators are complying with the regulations.

Enforcement department officials say 60 per cent of the registration revenue goes to county treasurers for credit to county snowmobile funds for development and improvement of snowmobile facilities.

Another 40 per cent goes to the state treasurer for credit to the search and rescue fund and the remaining 10 per cent is used for maintenance of a state central snowmobile registration file.

Department records show there were 297 dealers issued 900 stickers or plates in 1969-70 and 8,571 privately owned machines registered in the state. Funds included $21,427.50 collected from registrations allocated to county funds; $17,142 to the search and rescue fund and $4,285.50 for the motor vehicle fund.

In Twin Falls County approximately $350 was received last year for local snowmobile facilities. Plans have been made to utilize the money for graveling a new parking area in the South Hills at the snowmobile recreation area.

Trends developed in senate

BOISE (UPI) — State Sen. Wayne Kidwell, newly elected majority leader of the senate, Tuesday said several significant trends developed in the organizational session of the 41st Idaho Legislature.

He said the senate reduced the number of standing committees and says this is a definite indication the legislators have recognized the need to economize in legislative procedures in response to the attitude of the people of Idaho to cut back unnecessary expenditures.

U.S. diaper industry $2.5 billion business

NEW YORK (UPI) — American mothers spend more time changing diapers than the entire U.S. auto industry spends making cars, even in a banner Detroit year, according to one busy statistician at the Scott Paper Company.

The diaper business booms along in bull or bear market, because the demand always is there. And mothers see to it that the demand is satisfied.

As a result, the diaper industry has become a $2.5 billion business.

business, or a market penetration of 9 per cent.

Diapers were an important part of our $781.5 million sales picture in 1969, and we're advertising heavily for an ever bigger push in years to come," said a Scott official.

Disposable diaper sales in Europe almost equal the American market. Ninety per cent of the Swedish mothers switched to throwaways. The Benelux countries are 90 per cent converted. England, where Scott disposables are called "Tuffy-Tails Nappies," has been slower to come around to the convenience of it all.

Once a product starts moving domestically, the statisticians and researchers get busy measuring possible foreign markets. Multi-national consumption is the big key to growth.

They found little encouragement in Russia. The Soviets never have manufactured or bought a diaper in their history. It has been a Russian tradition, dating from the time of the Czars, to wrap babies in cloth from head to foot — like miniature mummies. So Mother Russia swaddles its babies.

Japan is another weak market area. Babies in that country are toilet-trained at four or five months.

Magic Valley's Home Newspaper

THURSDAY, December 10, 1970... Official City and County Newspaper... Member of Audit Bureau of Circulation and UPI

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Two respected political analysts I have talked to recently believe that President Nixon may have the U.S. share in the Vietnam war well wound down in the next two years...

ballotting behavior, it is suggested, would be affected only if Nixon reversed course or if events interrupted or seriously slowed our pullout.

stretch-out of troop withdrawals over more than two years contributes to voters' discount of the issue. This leaves the troubled state of the U.S. economy as the most publicized 1970 issue that may still be around to plague the President two years hence.

Despite much clamor to the contrary, there is no convincing evidence that the state of the economy had deep impact on the 1970 results nationwide. The Republicans' small Senate gains and modest House losses belie arguments of heavy effect.

started, it doesn't look that bad to voters. If the war is wound down and the economy bettered, and these analysts' judgments are sound on the diminished effect of these issues, then what could the 1972 race turn on?

"DON'T TELL ME -- LET ME GUESS"

A Suggestion

Recently we called for the resignation of Roland Wilber as Republican Party State Chairman because of poor leadership during the recent election and even prior to that time.

Mr. Wilber could have submitted his resignation when the Republican Central Committee met in Twin Falls last week. He did not. It could be until the spring of 1972, when the general assembly meets, before he might be replaced.

When the suggestion was made that the State Chairman resign it was not without a lot of thought being given to his possible successor.

Along this line we point out it has been years and years since a Republican state chairman has come from the Magic Valley and we think it is about time one does.

Two Magic Valley residents, both prominent men in their respective fields and both very active in the Republican party, come to mind when a chairman from this area is discussed.

These two are Douglas D. Kramer, a Twin Falls attorney, and James H. Roper, a Burley businessman. Both men are natives of Idaho. Mr. Kramer was born and raised in Fairfield. Mr. Roper was born and raised in Burley. Both are well educated individuals, both respected in party circles and both active in politics.

Both men are county chairmen in their respective counties. Both have worked their way up the ranks from precinct committeemen.

There has been a lot of blood on Republican hands in Idaho ever since Don Samuelson defeated Bob Smylie. The time for new leadership in the party structure is now here and either Mr. Kramer or Mr. Roper could do the job of reorganization.

We urge Republicans to take advantage of the opportunity now afforded them while there is still time. We urge them to insist that Mr. Wilber resign. We recommend that Mr. Kramer or Mr. Roper be considered for the post.

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Post-Hickel Carnage

WASHINGTON — A glittering example of why an unwholesome malaise is now spreading through top levels of the Nixon administration is the heavy-handed way the White House fired six top Interior Department officials following Secretary Walter Hickel's dismissal.

GS-17 level ($22,800 a year), guaranteeing him regular Civil Service job security. As a result, White House aides (one of whom privately informed Holley before Malek's arrival at the department that Holley had nothing to worry about) are falling all over themselves to conceal Malek's mistake. They have now offered Holley other jobs.

either, and he may be wrong in clearing the Berrigans. But his very proper point is that the way to settle this untidy mess is to have the priests testify before a grand jury. That, to use some of J. Edgar Hoover's kind of language, is the American Way.

A telephone call from the White House to Interior Undersecretary Fred J. Russell on Nov. 20 hatched the secret plot. Informed by that phone call that Hickel's ouster was imminent, Russell made his final recommendations on who else should be axed. The list was longer than the six subsequently fired.

ANDREW TULLY

J. Edgar Hoover

Having submitted his list, Russell slipped out of town for a long Thanksgiving Day weekend. He next surfaced with a transcontinental telephone to Interior Deputy Undersecretary William Rogers on the morning of Nov. 27. That call ordered Rogers to prepare his office for temporary occupancy by White House personnel chief Frederic V. Malek, designated by Ehrlichman, as the executioner.

WASHINGTON — A Justice Department source who usually knows what's going on in the citizens' law and order factory reported today that Atty. Gen. John Mitchell had "chided" FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover for naming two imprisoned Roman Catholic priests as leaders of a bombing-kidnaping plot.

As a newspaperman I have known, worked with and respected Hoover for more than 20 years. I still respect him, both as the man who made an honest woman of the FBI and as a superb policeman. But the kindest thing that can be said about his casual remarks at that Senate hearing is that they were unworthy of the man and his record. They do NOT reflect the integrity and straight-shooting of the J. Edgar Hoover I have known. They are indeed the kind of remarks one would expect from a shoeless sheriff.

In the background was clear evidence of poor administrative practices within Interior and bitter feuds between ranking officials. The swelling anger of Undersecretary Russell that Hickel and some of his aides had deliberately ignored him ever since his appointment last April 9 was also a factor.

Hoover told a Senate subcommittee that the Revs. Daniel and Philip Berrigan, a couple of confused clergymen now serving time for destroying draft records, were the principal commanders of a conspiracy to bomb underground power lines and kidnap an unnamed high government official. Other sources said the official involved is Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's top advisor on national security matters. Both Berrigans have denied the charge, as have leaders of the anti-war East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives, composed of Roman Catholic priests, nuns and laymen.

Against today's background of violence and from what has been learned from authoritative and trustworthy sources, there can be no doubt that some kind of loosely organized conspiracy is afoot to raise hell with the nation's peace. All of those bombings and killings cannot be mere spur-of-the-moment jobs.

There was, in short, good reason for a bit of judicious housecleaning following the firing of Hickel.

Rep. William Anderson, D-Tenn., also has a point. He visited the Berrigans in the Federal pen at Danbury, Conn., the other day and after a two-hour conversation said he was confirmed in his initial belief that "they are not plotters, that they're not involved in any alleged possibly very violent act."

But the government's job, and especially Hoover's, is to seek out evidence, prepare it with care, and then take it into the courts provided for its examination. The government's job, and especially Hoover's, positively is NOT to lightly toss around charges involving priests, or even some vicious career criminal.

But in his haste to clean out dead wood, Malek struck not with a scalpel but with a bludgeon, spreading terror through one department, alarming others, and vastly complicating the job of incoming Secretary Rogers Morton.

Anderson is not a legal judge of some of his biographers.

Morover, Malek was so poorly briefed on the men he fired that in one case he broke a Federal law. Among the six removed by Malek's bludgeon on Nov. 27 was Thomas Holley, a Hickel assistant and director of the department's Congressional affairs. Holley had a temporary Schedule C political appointment as a GS-17 ($30,000 a year), which exempted him from Civil Service protection. Malek fired him effective at once (although he did offer him 30 days' pay).

But Malek failed to check Holley's personnel file, thus missing the vital fact that he also holds a permanent Civil Service job classification at the

As Hoover's boss, nominally at least, the Attorney General should be the first to come out against prosecution by innuendo, which is what the FBI director committed in a Senate hearing.

Hoover will be 76 on New Year's Day. That's pretty old even for a man who has always kept himself in tip-top shape. It is also an age at which a human being's judgment can be considered suspect, bordering on the decrepit, and J. Edgar Hoover is not divine, notwithstanding the fulsome prose of some of his biographers.

MR. SPECTATOR

Jeffries And Johnson

Leave it to Ray Holmes, the sportsman-oilman, to be the one to come up with something interesting. The other day he handed us several papers and said he had found them someplace or other — the attic or the roof or some such place.

Just for the ladies we might point out there was a big sale going on at the Denver Dry Goods Co.

You could get Cambric drawers with five-inch ruffles of Indian linen finished with narrow tucks and hem for just 48 cents. (For our younger readers — a drawer is a pair of underpants).

Actually, where he found them is not really important. It is nice to look at them, though, because his "find" is composed of several pages of The Denver Post of Sunday, May 29, 1910.

Or you could get a Nainsook corset cover, with a round neck and daintily trimmed with Val lace insertion, beading and edge for only 39 cents.

Before we tell you of one of the interesting stories, let us first tell you about the price of the paper. The guarantee was that it would be "delivered anywhere on earth for 15 cents a week." Now that the price has been established, let's carry on.

Or you could get a hall clock for $9.95, a hall tree for $10.75, a solid mahogany music cabinet for $15, a davenport bed for $15.75, a chiffonier for $10.75, a parlor stand for $2.56.

Our eyes drifted to the sports pages and on one of them was a big story from San Francisco telling of the announcement that Tex Rickard would be the third man in the ring at the Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson fight. Rickard also just happened to be the promoter of the fight.

Next time you are in Denver, why not do a little shopping. We understand the Denver Dry Goods is still in business and who knows, they might have some of this stuff left over!

Of course the fight is history. Jeffries was the "white hope" in the contest and he succeeded in gaining the heavyweight championship from Johnson. We really do not know if Rickard actually ended up as referee because this story was out before the fight.

FRESH FLEA We picked this up out of the O'Leary Cub News, from the O'Leary Junior High School in Twin Falls: A funny creature is the flea, It's hard to tell he from she, But she can tell And so can he.

Many of you readers will remember Tex Rickard. He was the fellow who struck it rich in the Nevada gold fields and, although I remember he was manager for Jack Dempsey in the early days, I did not know he was mixed up in the Jeffries-Johnson contest. Shows how you can learn things from old newspapers. And these Ray Holmes found and which are 60 years old are no exception.

Organizations of Black people are really nothing new. We ran across this notice in the Frankford (Marshall County) Kansas Weekly Review, a newspaper dated February 21, 1896. The announcement: "Attention: All members of the Afro-American Club are requested to be present at the next meeting at the U. B. E. Hall (night at 7:30 p. m.) T. A. Hickman, corresponding secretary."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

About The Itch

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is pruritus? Cause? Cure? Do you have a home remedy to suggest? —Mrs. L.B.J.

Pruritus (pronounced "pru-rit-us") is a technical term for itch, and itching is a simple affliction with a multitude of causes.

An itch is irritation of the nerve ends in the skin. If the outer layer of skin is not there — as with a scraped knee or a burn — there is pain but no itching. Of course, everybody has an itch once in a while. Usually you scratch it, and that's it. But when itching is severe and an ordinary little scratch won't correct it, you have to start looking farther for the cause and the cure. If you scratch so much that you damage the skin and cause bleeding — that's it's past due time to get medical help. Don't wait any longer! Such scratching can lead to infection, and then you'll have two problems instead of one.

But to get to causes: they are too numerous to list completely, but common ones are allergy, fungus infections, skin disorders, systemic diseases (such as diabetes, blood disorders, kidney disease, and diseases involving jaundice), too dry skin, lice, poor hygiene.

cessarily dry skin may develop and cause generalized itching. Too frequent bathing makes it worse. Keeping clean is fine, of course, but with a dry skin, baths can be overdone. Moist skin lotions are helpful in such cases.

I may or may not have touched on your particular type of pruritus, Mrs. L.B.J., but I trust that I've given you at least a clue. There are so many kinds of itching that I can't be very specific without knowing which particular form is bothering you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you give me any information on a drug called Aptabase? I understand this is supposed to help people with a drinking problem. How successful is it, and is it available in drug stores? —W.J. It is a useful drug, and a powerful one, but not a surefire cure for drinking problems. Properly used, it helps. Improperly used, it's a waste of time and money. And can be dangerous.

When a patient is taking the drug, any use of alcohol will make him sick as a dog (however sick a dog gets). For the person sincerely trying to quit drinking, this drug is a great help if he has occasional weak moments when he is tempted — because he knows what will happen if he gives in and takes a drink.

The weak link in the chain is that not all patients are really sincere. Secretly or otherwise, they start taking the drug so they can sneak a drink. That means the ball game is lost. It must be added that the drug is too powerful for it to be given to a patient without his knowledge. Therefore, you can't get it in a drug store unless you have a prescription.

With older people, especially Hoover's, is to seek out evidence, prepare it with care, and then take it into the courts provided for its examination. The government's job, and especially Hoover's, positively is NOT to lightly toss around charges involving priests, or even some vicious career criminal.

Kidnaped U.S. agricultural envoy tells of imprisonment

MONTEVIDEO (UPI) — On the outskirts of the American agricultural expert Claude L. Fly, held captive by Tupamaros terrorists for four months, said Wednesday night he is "virtually suspended in time and space" in a small cell.

In a typewritten letter delivered to United Press International in Montevideo by his leftist kidnapers, Fly apparently was authentic, as he begged to "be free to pursue my professional work and to be with my family."

The 85-year-old still, expert from Fort Collins, Colo., was kidnapped from his laboratory

3 die as train hits car

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — Three persons were killed and another was injured late Wednesday when a car in which they were riding was rammed broadside by a train at the Utlick Road crossing in Caldwell.

Dead are Mrs. Margaret Katherine Reigle, 36, and her two daughters Gayle, 15, and Sharon, 16, all Caldwell. The father, Eugene Reigle, 46, is listed in fair condition at Caldwell Memorial Hospital.

The impact hurled the vehicle some 200 feet away from the tracks into a swamp area, throwing all four passengers out, then burst into flames, Halle said.

"We don't know who was driving the car and probably never will," he said. "It was a real mess — it looked like a pile of junk. I don't know how the man survived."

Halle said the crossing is not equipped with warning signals and said the car was approaching at an angle that would have made it difficult for the driver to spot the train.

The crossing is located at the city limits of Caldwell. Halle noted that the city has regulations regarding train's speed within the city, but said he was unsure of exactly what they are. He said Parls has not been cited in connection with the accident.

The deaths boosted the Idaho traffic fatality toll for the year to 307 compared to 317 for the same date a year ago.

$1.5 million set for flood control

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, said Wednesday the Senate had approved authorization for a $1.5 million flood control program on Placer Creek at Wallace. Jordan said the approval was part of voice vote passage of the Onibus Rivers and Harbors Bill, which authorized a total of $519.8 million for flood control and multiple-purpose civil works projects.

He said the project will protect the Wallace area from overbank flooding by construction of a 5,000-foot concrete channel to confine Placer Creek. The channel will run from the mouth of the creek through Wallace, reducing the physical threat to human life and disease hazard caused by damage to sewer and water systems.

Processing spud waste massive daily chore

BURLEY — Turning out 500 to 750 tons of processed potatoes every working day is a big project, and handling the waste products is equally massive, according to Mel Alagor, corporate environmental official for the J.R. Simplot Co. Simplot produces one million to 1.5 million pounds of potato products every day — 500 to 750 tons. Their new secondary treatment facility, announced Tuesday, was outlined by Alagor at a news conference.

The major item in the complex waste-treatment process will be a huge aeration pond 450 by 300 feet — 135,000 square feet — in size and 12 to 16 feet deep, holding 80 million gallons of water. A cluster of 12 to 14 aerators will agitate the effluent from the primary settling pond, adding oxygen which is essential for the work of the aerobic bacteria in converting the waste products to harmless solids.

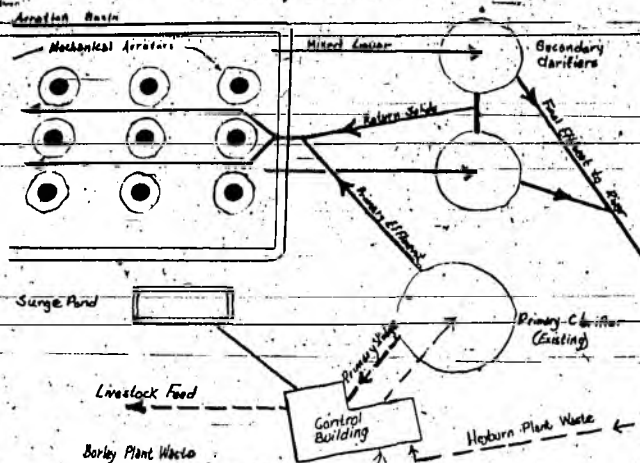

A surge pond will be included in the event of an overflow from the aeration pond.

From the aeration pond, the waste will be piped to a secondary clarifier for further settling and clarifying, and will then go to the Snake River for disposal. Alagor said the complete process will remove at least 95 per cent of the in-pollutant waste — well in excess of Idaho Health Department standards.

Primary engineering was started last spring on the treatment plant, Alagor said; yet delivery of the aerators will whereby liquid waste water is recirculated through the plant, saving water and removing more of the waste products. The new treatment facility will be constructed on part of a 125-acre tract of land owned by Simplot north of the railroad and east of Burley.

Initial digging is expected to begin next week, depending on the weather.

Spending reported

BOISE (UPI) — State agencies have spent a total of $33,812,540 so far this biennium, State Auditor Joe R. Williams reported Wednesday. Williams said that from the start of the biennium through Sept. 30, the state spent $483,65,841 from special funds and $70,857,399 from the general fund.

For the month of November, the state spent $30,833,451. Of this amount, $28,166,333 came from special funds and $4,769,118 from the general fund, Williams said.

Junior ski coaching clinic slated Sunday

RUPERT — Coaches of junior ski racing teams, from throughout the Intermountain region, will be attending a coaching clinic at Pomerelle Ski area Sunday, Dec. 13.

Phil West, resort manager, said Bob Aulry, Park City, West, and chairman of the Intermountain Division Coaches Association, will conduct the one day session. He said it is one of two scheduled in the Intermountain area this year, the first having been held in November at Solitude in Utah.

This will offer the last opportunity for new, inexperienced or even the experienced coaches to get together for assistance in coaching techniques and updating their knowledge of racing.

West said the day's agenda will cover course setting, equipment, electrical timing, course preparation, and video tape use.

All coaches and interested persons in the division are invited to attend, West said, and he added there have already been a number of coaching clinics from the Pocatello area.

Registration begins at 9 a.m. and the on-the-hill and class sessions begin at 10 a.m. and continue through 4 p.m. Basically the clinic is designed to improve the skills and knowledge of the inexperienced

Hairless monkeys aid study

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bald monkeys are helping scientists learn why some young men lose hair.

Dr. William Montagna, head of the Oregon Primate Research Center in Beaverton, Ore., reported progress today in the center's research to the American Academy of Dermatologists Convention.

Montagna, a primatologist, said it is important to understand that baldness in young men does not involve hair loss but a shrinking of the follicle size that mimics the aging process where real baldness occurs.

"Although they appear to be the same process they are not. In aging there is a destruction of follicles, in premature baldness the hair size decreases — it may become several times smaller than the original hair," he said.

Montagna said research into baldness had been handicapped for many years for lack of an animal model to study, but experiments with monkeys from India showed a link between male sex hormones and baldness.

Montagna said the male sex hormones seem to have something to do with the shriveling of the follicles, but that scientists must still determine differences in the topography of the human scalp and what energy is required for protein synthesis in the breakdown of follicles.

Refugee warned captain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Latvian refugee aboard a Coast Guard ship when a Lithuanian seaman tried to defect says he told the American commander not to hand the man back to the Soviets because that would condemn him to death, or Siberia.

Robert M. Brizeo, president of the New Bedford, Mass., Seafood Producers Association, told a congressional subcommittee Tuesday what he saw Nov. 23 when the man tried to defect but was given back to the Soviets.

Brizeo, who fled his homeland in 1944 after Soviet occupation, was on the Coast Guard cutter Vigilant off Martha's Vineyard to participate in fishing talks with the Soviets.

He said the Vigilant's captain, Cmdr. Ralph W. Eutatis, told him his superiors in Boston had ordered him to let the Russians have the seaman, Simas-Kudrka.

Communication lack said unrest key

TWIN FALLS — Lack of communication causes much of the campus violence, Bill Isly, student president of Idaho State University, Escalante, told the Twin Falls Rotary Club Wednesday.

Isly said a "scholarship" person of 20 years ago. The ISU student president said that the people who are seen leading demonstrations are not the real student leaders but are a minority among the students.

In order to end a "bull-by-horn" distrust of students, a strong student government is needed, Isly said. A strong student government can get answers to questions and work effectively with faculty members to establish campus rules and regulations, he said.

Jail finance study starts

TWIN FALLS — Machinery was set in motion here Wednesday for financing a feasibility study on joint law enforcement facilities for Twin Falls city and county departments.

City Manager Jean Milar said members of the city council and county commissioner with William Chancey, commissioner, and Tom Nalset, councilman, as co-chairmen, met to take initial steps for application for federal money.

The local committee is seeking $5,176 in federal money with $376 in local matching funds, shared by the city and county, for a study on a proposed new building for housing city police and fire departments, the county sheriff's office and a new jail.

Federal funds are available and both local governmental agencies have pledged matching funds. The next step in the project, Milar said, will be to invite interested architectural firms for interviews. The committee will then make a recommendation to the city council and county commissioners for hiring a firm to conduct the study.

Milar said professional services, such as architect work, do not require bids. The feasibility study will be made preliminary to actual building plans and should provide governing agencies an idea of building costs, site selection and what the new complex should include.

Jury rules man guilty

TWIN FALLS — A Fifth District Court jury found Harman Gallegos, Ogden, Utah, guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol during a trial held before Judge James Cunningham Wednesday.

Gallegos had appealed a guilty decision from Twin Falls Justice Court. A six member jury upheld the lower court decision and Judge Cunningham sentenced Gallegos to 10 days in the county jail and $100 fine plus $5 court costs. Execution of sentence was delayed until Dec. 28.

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — East heightened this year's need.

Another Western Wheat Association official, Richard Baum, executive vice president, said WWA sees a continued increase in the export of U.S. wheat to Japan. Japan last year became the world's largest buyer.

"We believe that both Indian and Pakistan will continue to need import wheat to about last year's levels to maintain their per capita consumption while building desired food grains reserves."

Woodward added that adverse weather in other wheat producing areas, such as Argentina, Eastern Europe and the Middle

T.F. farm bureau committees named

TWIN FALLS — Committee chairmen were appointed during a meeting of the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau Tuesday evening by Clyde Vanuudeln, filer, president.

Named were Monroe Hays, membership; Charles Harris, tax and state affairs; Marion Pendergraft, resolutions; Dee Pendergraft, young farmers and ranchers; Mrs. Crystal Vanuudeln, political education, and Laurence Kalbfleisch, local affairs.

Commodity chairmen are Hugo Meyers, field crops; and Dick Stafford, livestock. Mrs. Minnie Thleme and Mrs. Alice Hine were named banquet chairmen.

It was announced the annual banquet will be held on Jan. 23 with the place to be announced later.

Hays said the membership drive will begin shortly after Christmas.

Beets in G.F. area totaled

GLENN'S FERRY — Farmers delivered 43,333 tons of sugar beets to the Glenn Ferry station, officials of the Amalgamated Sugar Co. reported Wednesday.

Company officials said the beets were grown on 1,784 acres for an average yield of 24.28 tons of beets per acre.

In the Elwythe district, including Grandview, Hammett, King Hill and Glenn's Ferry, beet growers raised slightly more than 250,000 tons of beets with an average yield of about 10 tons an acre, sugar company officials said.

Record production in 1971 foreseen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers may produce a record-breaking volume of wheat and other livestock products during the coming year, although the picture is clouded somewhat by the after effects of 1970 corn blight attacks, Agriculture Department economists say.

The forecast came in a publication updating earlier government reports on livestock numbers and the relationship between livestock and supplies of animal feeds.

The data showed that the number of "grain-consuming animal units" — a statistical method of summing up such varied species as cattle, sheep, and chickens into standard units consuming fixed volumes of grain — rose 3 per cent in the year ending Sept. 30, 1970, to a new all-time record of 117.5 million units.

The year which began Oct. 1, experts added, could show a further increase in animal units — perhaps as much as 4 per cent — depending on how farmers react to the cutback in feed supplies and increase in feed prices produced by southern corn leaf blight.

"Several unanswered but basic problems may affect 1970: How did the blight affect feeding quality of the 1970 (corn) crop? With livestock feed, price ratios less favorable, can we anticipate lighter slaughter weights, lower milk production, and production cuts for broilers, turkeys and eggs?" The report said.

But in spite of all the uncertainties, agriculture department officials added in a statement that:

Intersection light sought

KING HILL — Members of the King Hill Grange asked officers of that organization to send a letter to the Idaho Department of Highways asking for a light at an intersection in King Hill near the port of entry.

The request was made at a Grange meeting Tuesday after an executive committee report stated that a protest had been filed with highway officials concerning the abrupt turn at the end of the present interstate 80 route south of King Hill.

Market Review

Idaho Magic Valley Weather

National Temperatures

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market was higher in moderately active trading after more than three hours Thursday.

Shortly before 1:15 p.m., the Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips was up more than 4 1/2 points at 89.76. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was ahead 0.44 at 89.93, and advanced topped 2,616.74, 735 to 475, on 1,550 issues crossing the tape.

A three-hour turnover of 8,900,000 shares compared with 7,800,000 shares traded at a comparable level Wednesday.

A break in the nationwide rail strike, which began at mid-night, appeared to buoy investors, although in general the market was responding to expectations of improved economic conditions next year.

Three of the four striking rail unions ordered their men back to work. But the biggest, the clerks, continued to defy a Federal judge's back-to-work order.

White House sources said President Nixon is preparing an executive order in case goods must be moved by means other than the railroads.

Fair to partly cloudy Friday

Magic Valley, Twin Falls and vicinity, Northside, Burley, near noon.

Mostly fair tonight and early Friday. Some increasing clouds Friday. Decreasing winds. Highs mostly 40s Friday. Overnight lows 17 to 27. Probability of measurable precipitation 10 per cent or less through Friday.

Outlook for Saturday mostly cloudy with chance of showers.

Forecast for Friday, Saturday and the lower Wood River Valley:

Some forecast for Magic Valley except temperatures. Highs mostly 30s. Overnight lows 5 to 15.

Synopsis:

A new Pacific cold front is approaching the Washington Coast but is not expected to affect southern Idaho until Friday when increasing clouds are expected here with a chance of a few showers late Friday or Friday night mostly over the mountains. Southern Idaho will probably only get some high clouds by Friday evening but should become mostly cloudy Friday night and Saturday.

With a small high pressure center moving into the northern Intermountain region, light winds and a stable air mass will combine to restrict the dispersal of pollutants. This should be noticeable primarily in the southwestern valleys as a hazy or smoky looking restriction to visibility. The condition will be short lived as the approaching front will increase the surface wind speeds enough later tonight to blow it away.

Precipitation amounts in the past several days have been generous in all areas and many areas above four thousand feet have a good snow cover which will retard daytime warming. The long range outlook through the weekend indicates cloudy skies and a chance of showers.

There are an estimated 3.2 million white-tail deer in Texas.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) Could you suggest a few long-term—growth—stocks? K.S.Q. I have $15,000 available for investment. What growth stocks would you recommend? W. L.

A) Although this column answers specific questions from readers, frequently the advice given has broader applications. I find that since the beginning of September 13th long-term growth stocks have been recommended. For the more conservative investor five growth stocks with moderate to generous dividends were suggested for purchase. These were: General Foods, Gulf of Alaska, H. J. Heinz, Mobil Oil and Philip Morris. A second group of six fast growth companies, all recommended as buys, included: American Hospital Supply, Crown Cork & Seal, Dr. Pepper, Eli Lilly, Chas. Pfizer and...

Boise flag conviction overturned

BOISE (UPI)—Fourth District Judge W.E. Smith has reversed the Municipal Court conviction of a Boise man accused of flag desecration last Feb. 14.

In overturning the conviction of Michael Dean Phelan, 22, operator of a shop known as "The Source," the judge said parts of Idaho's flag statute are too broad and violate free speech.

Phelan was convicted last June 5 by Jon N. Wyman, assistant Boise city magistrate, of flag desecration for selling flag decals overlaid with a peace symbol.

Wyman fined Phelan $50, suspending $25 of it. Smith ordered Phelan's discharge and exoneration of his $50 bond.

In handing down his ruling, Smith said that Idaho's 1966 flag statute is so broad it would bar even patriotic displays.

Phelan is guilty of flag desecration, Smith said, then so are persons who will sell lunch boxes with stars on them, motorists who carry bumper stickers with the words "God bless America," and producers of political campaign material with representations of flags.

Draft cases studied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court today called up cases from New York and California designed to test whether a draft registrant may claim to be a conscientious objector specifically because of the Vietnam War.

Federal District Court Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr. of Boston has already ruled the answer is "yes." But the Supreme Court last term dismissed the government's appeal from that ruling on a legal technicality.

This term the justices, with a full nine-man bench, will address themselves to the subject again. Unlike Wyzanski, the trial judges in the New York and California cases ruled against the attempted objectors.

The young men are Guy Porter Gillette, sentenced to two years in jail for refusing to report for induction, and Louis A. Negre, who attempted unsuccessfully to claim conscientious objection while at the Army Personnel Center in Oakland.

Blonde goes to prison

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—Blonde Erika Ossen-driver, who gave up her striptease act to spy for Communist Hungary, was sentenced today to 18 months in jail for her less than successful career that included stealing a telephone book and a manual of Army clothes.

Because the burom divorcee, 32, already served 11 months in jail the court took off the sentence and suspended the rest, allowing her to go free. She said she would stay in Glessen, 30 miles north of here, although she was evicted from her apartment during the trial. "I don't want to harm nobody," she said in broken English when freed.

Emergency funds sought by aeronautics board

By LINDY HIGH BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho State Board of Aeronautics voted Wednesday to ask for an emergency appropriation from the general fund to give Pocatello $157,893 for work on its airport.

Robert Huntley, chairman of the Pocatello Airport Board, told the board Pocatello was in a "great crisis" for 1971, and said the requested funds were needed in order to get federal aid.

If the funds are not granted, Huntley said, the city will be faced with either making no improvements at the airport or backing out of construction of a new terminal, which has already gone to contract.

At the same time, Huntley suggested four ways of gaining revenue for airports, some of which have already been considered by the Revenue and Taxation Committee of the Idaho Legislature.

His suggestions included: — An ad valorem or property tax on airlines, which he said would revert to the general fund. In 1968, he said, such a tax would have raised about $123,000.

— A gas tax for fuel on commercial airlines.

— A two per cent tax on gross receipts.

of the airlines." Huntley told the board the city will spend approximately $2.3 million during an eight-year project for improvement at the airport, including a $950,000 terminal building.

Chet Moulton, state aeronautics director, said someone must go before the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee to defend the request and said one of the first questions asked will be to "pinpoint your one-shot deals."

Huntley said he felt the Pocatello delegation, if necessary, could offer assurances they would not return to ask for more money.

the problem with the city City Council and said it would agree to a one-time request.

However, he said, "I think we should keep in mind the city not only has a plan but has a record of implementing its plans."

During 1971, Moas said, the city must spend approximately $395,000 on work at the airport terminal, including roads, paving and sidewalks.

Charles Moas, Pocatello city manager, said he had discussed

Military plans "hotline"

SAIGON (UPI)—The American Division today announced it plans to set up a "hotline" for rapid communication between lower ranking blacks and high command authorities on racial issues and differences.

The announcement followed a spontaneous demonstration by about 40 black soldiers who marched more than one mile to the commanding general's office in the division headquarters at Chu Lai, 335 miles north of Saigon.

The soldiers, mostly troops from the 4th and 25th Infantry Divisions who were transferred to the American when their units were withdrawn, complained about being reassigned to the field.

American spokesman said the black troopers in the Nov. 23 demonstration asked to see and were given an interview with Brig. Gen. Roy Atterbury, the assistant division commanding officer, the spokesman said.

Nixon gets medallion on trash

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine (UPI)—A gold-plated medallion honoring the 300th anniversary of "America's No. 1 Trash Pile" was sent to Washington today for presentation to President Nixon.

Edward Mayor, president of the Kennebunkport Dump Association, said it was mailed to Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, who has agreed to make the presentation.

The antilitter group struck 500 bronze medallions last summer in honor of the tricentennial of the founding of the dump. The race among the KDA's official symbol—a flower sticking from a tin can—was "300th Anniversary of America's Number One Dump" on the back.

Diplomat raps press action

LONDON (UPI)—British diplomat James Cross criticized the press Wednesday for printing speculation about letters he wrote while a hostage in Canada. He said it caused him "four rough days" and could have endangered his life.

"It really made me mad when you people (newsmen) suggested these (letters) were my thoughts," the 49-year-old British trade commissioner told a news conference nearly a week after his release.

"Of course the letters — except those to my wife — were dictated to me," he said. "The letters to my wife were personal, but even those were changed by my kidnapers. All others ... were dictated to me by them."

Cross, who returned to London Saturday evening, said he intentionally misspelled several words in the letters — including placing two n's in "question" — to indicate to the world that he was writing under duress.

"I really felt angry at the press actually telling my captors what I was trying to do ... this sort of speculation gave me four rough days," he said. "A sense of hostility built up between me and my kidnapers because they thought I was trying to trick them."

"Journalists have a responsibility to the man in there ... he's the loneliest man in the world," Cross said. "Speculation like that may cost him his life in some circumstances."

Looking thin but rested in a freshly pressed gray suit, white shirt and red tie, Cross smiled at the more than 80 newsmen present.

Typical Gem activities set for GOP governors, wives

SUN VALLEY — Republican governors and their wives from throughout the nation will be offered activities which are "typically Idahoan" during the four-day conference which opens here Saturday.

One of the special "different" things will be a sleigh ride to Trill Creek Cabin Sunday night, which is often done for Sun Valley guests. But Sunday night the sleighs will stop to allow the state executives to watch a torchlight parade of skiers on Dollar Mountain.

This event is an annual Christmas Eve feature at the resort, but because of the early snow, a similar parade is being held for benefit of the governors. An "early bird" reception is planned Saturday night in the lodge dining room.

The GOP governors, their wives, news representatives, and conference guests will have several opportunities to mingle, socially, as several receptions are planned. The first is 2 to 4 p. m. Sunday at the Leadville Art Gallery in Ketchum.

Sunday's schedule opens with a press coffee hour in the Walnut Room and church services of different faiths available to guests. A staff meeting is planned for 8 p. m., followed by another reception in the Harriman Cottage in Sun Valley, with press secretaries' reception at 7 p. m.

Monday, while their husbands settle down to business, wives will visit the Leadville Art Gallery and then return to the lodge dining room for luncheon and a fashion show as guests of Mrs. Ruby Samuelson, Idaho's first lady.

Mrs. Samuelson has been actively involved in planning for special events at the conference and says she wants to limit formal events to a few. Interesting things typically "Idahoan" and leave most of the women's time free for relaxation or doing whatever they wish.

The governors will hold another business session Monday afternoon in the Continental Room which is being prepared now for the 500 persons expected for a reception there from 6:30 to 8 p. m.

The filming of a TV special by Peggy Fleming, Olympic figure skating champion, is expected to be going on sometime during the governors' conference, so guests can view the 1968 gold medal winner's artistry.

The building at the resort's skating rink has been transformed into a glittering pink and gold structure and the ice painted in bright colors and designs in preparation for the

A state dinner Tuesday evening will climax the conference, and Sun Valley officials are preparing for 420 guests for this event.

7 paying days left for taxes

TWIN FALLS — There are only seven payment-making days left until tax deadline for real property owners, Twin Falls County Treasurer Ruth K. Jones reminded county residents today.

Dec. 20 is the deadline for payment of real property tax bills. Mail payments should be postmarked on or before Dec. 20.

The treasurer said payments have been coming in slowly thus far but her staff anticipates a heavy influx throughout next week.

This year's real property tax bill in Twin Falls County amounts to a total $5,387,097.22, Mrs. Jones said. This represents an increased revenue of $344,357.38 over last year due to new property, improvements and revaluation.

In addition this year the county treasurer's office in Idaho are charged with the responsibility of collecting personal property taxes which have previously been paid to the county assessors.

"This adds another $433,625.00 to be collected by the treasurer's office staff. Mrs. Jones said this is down about $20,000 from last year due largely to the phase out of inventory taxes which are collected on the personal tax rolls.

Notices were mailed out on Nov. 20, and Mrs. Jones said if persons who are required to pay taxes in the county have not received notices they should call the treasurer's office. Personal taxes also constitute mobile homes, travel trailers, livestock, machinery, trout, chinchilla, lumber, lumber products and other inventories and equipment such as office furniture and business equipment in rented building space.

Venus brilliant

TWIN FALLS — On a clear day, the morning star is an eye-catcher.

Currently, the morning star is the planet Venus. A brilliant white ball, it hangs low in the eastern sky, drawing the attention of people who are out before sunrise.

As the morning star, Venus is often mistaken for a satellite or an unidentified flying object.

That happened again shortly after 7 a. m. today, when a caller asked the Times-News if the bright light in the east was a satellite or some other object.

Registration begins at 8 a. m. Friday at the Rogerson Hotel. About 150 representatives of involved groups are expected to attend. Private individuals who wish to register may do so.

Patching resumes at T.F. airport

TWIN FALLS — Another portion of the main runway at the Twin Falls City-County Airport was dug up and replaced today with an emergency "patch" permitting the field to again be open to all traffic starting at 7 p. m.

Harry Morricks, airport manager, said the runway measured about 38 by 250 feet. It was almost identical in size to a patch put in Tuesday. Crews could not work Wednesday because of unfavorable weather.

The work today started at 8 a. m. with the Beymer Paving Co. furnishing the special hot mix.

"It is probable the main runway will have to be closed again in the near future to permit more large area patching," Morricks said.

"Meanwhile we will continue with the small patching. There is absolutely no danger in use of the runway to any traffic including the Air West jets."

He explained the older portion of the main runway, built 23 years ago, is breaking up because of weather and heavy planes. The work being done now is only of a temporary nature to keep the runway in use until next spring or early summer when it will be necessary to replace some 5,000 feet of runway.

Meanwhile, officials of Air West said all scheduled flights would be resumed Friday afternoon.

Additional samples to be used in the study.

City Council members authorized the planning study last summer, following a preliminary report from the same firm in which Reynolds advised it would be feasible to tie in several industries of Twin Falls with the city system and provide a single secondary standard of treatment. The city and several industries now operate with primary treatment

Sewage plant reports filed

TWIN FALLS — Status reports on a study begun last fall by the engineering firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield, Boise, on the conversion of the Twin Falls sewage treatment plant to secondary standards was presented Wednesday.

Earl Reynolds and J. Michael Angus, professional engineers, met with City Manager Jean Millar to discuss the planning study. They indicated collection of information is well along and that various samples must be taken at various times of the year to check peak loads of industrial and municipal discharge.

Reynolds said another meeting is planned early in January with the city council to report purposes.

The engineers were collecting additional samples and setting up equipment for collection of Constructed and put into service in 1961, the city's treatment facility in Snake River Canyon will continue to function but will be expanded Millar said, to meet more rigid standards required by the Idaho Department of Health.

He said the addition of more filters, tanks and other equipment will be necessary to meet secondary standards.

After a late start Wednesday morning, the remainder of the day was spent hearing testimony from prosecution witnesses. It is believed the state will call at least two more witnesses before resting its case.

On Aug. 21, two men, at least one of them armed, entered the Safeway store and escaped with $2,842.25. Lang and Hartley were arrested by Twin Falls Police in September. They are both free on bond.

Statement ban asked by lawyer

BUHL — An attorney for strikeboard Carter Meat Packing Co. has requested that company officials not be called for public statements regarding progress of negotiations.

Ronald G. Carter, Boise, the company's attorney, said in a letter to the Times-News that he alone would speak for the firm.

"I do respectfully request and demand that if you desire information, you contact the undersigned and I will be happy to supply you whatever appears to be proper news on the subject."

Mr. Carter, president of the firm, had provided most of the progress reports available to the press because there are no Magic Valley representatives of the striking Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen authorized to make public statements.

The attorney said the news "must be handled carefully to avoid unnecessary complications growing out of personal or heated statements made by either side."

"Please do not contact Carter Packing Company directly," the attorney said.

Hansen dog law still pending

HANSEN — An ordinance controlling behavior of dogs has not yet been adopted by the Hansen City Council, mayor Allen Bourm said today.

Although the third reading of the proposed ordinance which prohibits dogs from running at large was held at the council meeting Monday night, councilmen did not vote on the law because two residents appeared to object.

Arthur Mitchell, former city marshal, and James Hopkins, told councilmen that it is illegal to transport impounded dogs out of the city for care.

It was reported after the Monday night meeting that dogs would be impounded in Twin Falls, but since the question of legality has been raised, councilmen will check with Emil Pike, Twin Falls, city attorney.

The ordinance does not state that dogs must be on a leash, but simply under voice control at all times, Bob Perkins, city clerk, said.

In an earlier story, the Times-News reported the law was passed. The Times-News regrets the error.

T.F. firm low bidder Grocery robbery hearing continues

TWIN FALLS — Neilson and Miller Construction Co. of Twin Falls was the apparent low bidder for a construction project in Twin Falls County, the Idaho Department of Highways said today.

The firm's bid of $252,651 was submitted for 6.1 miles of road mix pavement and seal coat on the Murtaugh Loop. Two other firms submitted bids.

Bids on the project were opened in Boise Tuesday by highway department officials.

The hearing for Terry Hartley, 24, and Lawrence Lang, 30, both Twin Falls, began on Oct. 29, but was continued until Wednesday by motion of defense attorneys.

After a late start Wednesday morning, the remainder of the day was spent hearing testimony from prosecution witnesses. It is believed the state will call at least two more witnesses before resting its case.

On Aug. 21, two men, at least one of them armed, entered the Safeway store and escaped with $2,842.25. Lang and Hartley were arrested by Twin Falls Police in September. They are both free on bond.

Railroad officials said funds will be made on portions of tickets unused because of the strike.

They are Jordan's Market, Clover Farm Market, Tony's Lounge, The Club, The Moon and Jasper's.

Hronek said strike allotments for workers have not been determined yet, but noted that normally allotments are based on the worker's seniority and salary. "Whatever the case it isn't very much," he said.

He discounts the possibility the National Guard could keep the trains operating on a regular basis, and said the Guard will probably be used on a limited basis.

"Our national president, C.L. Dennis, had told President Nixon on union members could be organized to work in cases of emergency or national security."

Hronek noted that in the past the BRAC has gone on strike in its history, however he noted the union has honored other railway union picket lines. He said probably other railway workers unions will honor the picket lines during this strike.

While the walkout only affects directly 2,700 railroad employees in the state, farmers, industrialists, car dealers and students are just some of the many people who will share the burden of the strike.

Even before the strike began Wednesday, market quotations for onions and potatoes in the state fluctuated greatly due to the uncertainty over the strike.

Protests broke out with the strike began, were ordered to discontinue by police officers.

Herschel Bailey, Superintendent of the Idaho Division of the Union Pacific Railroad, said livestock, foodstuffs and other perishable goods will either be delivered or kept safe throughout the strike.

A ticket agent at the Boise Union Pacific Railroad Depot said he has received no reservations for trains leaving Boise Thursday. He said no trains are planned to terminate in Boise.

Getting ready... PREDICTIONS OF SEVERE winter weather do not worry the Twin Falls Highway District crews. Last year they spent 18 consecutive days plowing snow, most of it in the South Hills area, and many other periods of shorter duration.

Ready this year are several blade and dozer operators and the giant of the Twin Falls Highway District yard, the rotary. Crews working to put the big snow machine in shape include Fred Anderson, Herb Mingo and Glenn Jacobs, operators, and Don Bradley, from left.

Land use meeting start set Friday

TWIN FALLS — A two day meeting which will include talks by representatives of nearly every agency in the state involved in land use begins Friday in Twin Falls, according to Charles Case, Gooding, president of the R. N. Irving Chapter, Soil Conservation Society of America.

Case's organization and the Idaho Association of Commissioners and Clerks, Association of Idaho Cities, League of Women Voters, Idaho Planning and Community Affairs Agency and the Idaho Association of Soil Conservation Districts are jointly sponsoring the land use policy symposium.

Case said there is heavy competition for land today between agriculture, recreation, industry, transportation and city growth and that nearly everyone has "something to say" about how land should be used.

Out of the symposium will possibly come ideas in an approach to land use planning for Idaho and a determination of what kind of priorities should be set.

Speakers Friday will include Wayne Pritchard, national director of the SCSA, Ankeny, Iowa; Dr. Lyle Stafford of the College of Idaho, Caldwell; Howard Tankersley, development specialist with the extension service; John Martin, Idaho Land Law Review Commission; Ed Slurmerman, executive director of the Magic of Hawaii travelers look forward to vacation "beach time"

TWIN FALLS — Travelers of the Twin Falls Times-News "Magic of Hawaii" tour, via Pan-American World Airways to Honolulu, will be looking forward to what Hawaii residents fondly refer to as "beach time."

In Hawaii, it's not a case of going to the beach. It's a case of which beach. When vacationers pack up for a picnic or a day in the surf, they can drive in any direction and wind up on white coral beaches or black lava sand. More than 50 beach parks rim the island of Oahu (Honolulu) alone.

Hawaii visitors who explore the beaches soon discover that some are excellent for surfing (average water temperature: 69 degrees), others are better for fishing, several are regular community gathering spots and all are kept clean and tidy. By bus or rental car, vacationers may go to an extinct crater beside the sea and swim in a bay of jade green ocean water shaded by palm trees. They may go torch fishing on the reef of Waialeale Beach, or go camping on the public beach at Waianalo.

Some of the beaches looking like pure Polynesia have modern conveniences tucked away in the palm groves: fresh water faucets, showers, rest rooms, barbecue grills.

Hanalei Bay, in the seaside extinct crater, is one of the best-equipped spots close to the city of Honolulu. It is an island favorite for all-day outings.

Vacationers who prefer the sophisticated rather than the rustic in beach life probably will not stray far from famous Waikiki. And there is more of it this year than ever before. Also it's a better beach than when ancient Hawaiian kings holidayed there. Science has moved in on Mother Nature. With new piers and concrete cylinders, engineers have changed ocean currents to keep yards of gleaming white sandfill over the old coral patches. The swimming and sunbathing area has more than doubled.

The local group of travelers will be leaving Twin Falls Feb. 15 and returning Feb. 23, with Norma Herzinger, Times-News society editor, as tour hostess. Further information concerning the tour can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Herzinger of Magic Carpet Travels.

Waikiki Beach

DIAMOND HEAD volcano, framed by palms, is still a favorite scene for "Aloha State" visitors. Swimming, surfing and beaching are good any day of the year at these world-famous coral sands.

The couple will be married Dec. 28 at the Richfield LDS Church.

Civitan

initiates

TWIN FALLS — The Civitan Club initiated nine new members and made plans for its annual holiday fruitcake sale at its meeting Monday at the Holiday Inn.

New members include Paul Polindexter, who was reinstated as a member; Dr. Stephen R. Lincoln, Austin L. Hall, Lloyd J. Peterson, Dale Taute, Thomas R. Burnikel, Kon Farr, Larry C. Brose and Ralph Hass.

Civitan members are selling fruitcakes at $1.25 per pound throughout the holiday season as a fund raising effort. The proceeds are used for a number of civic projects, including citizenship awards, scholarships, youth seminars and support of the Twin Falls Harbor House.

R.L. Burnikel, chairman of the project, said the members will be located in the downtown area.

Snowmobilers plan search

TWIN FALLS — Plans were made during a Monday night meeting of the Magic Valley Snowmobilers to organize a search and rescue patrol with the help of the sheriff's office, the Civil Air Patrol and the U.S. Forest Service.

Anyone interested in joining contact Ron Cogswell, 733-6637. Red Cross first aid lessons also will be given beginning about Jan. 1.

Lou Munson reported the Diamondfield Jack snow play parking area will be angle parking, instead of parallel parking to allow more room for vehicles.

Deputy sheriff Ike Klador asked the group to help patrol the area and also reminded snowmobilers attending the meeting that licenses are due for this year.

A membership committee was appointed. Any snowmobile owner wishing to join the group can contact Nohh Oliver, 733-5697, or Gary Nelson, 733-4395.

Plans are being made for group rides in January.

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy, 15 years old. There is this one girl in my school who is constantly calling me. One night I counted, and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. she called me 18 times. And to top it off, she lives across the street and she keeps running over here to see me. I can't stand her.

My folks can't stand her either. When she rings our bell and they open the door, she walks right in and starts searching thru the house until she finds me.

I have told her about a million times to please leave me alone and my folks have told her twice, but she keeps right on. If you print this, it might help.

DEAR SICK: Don't count on it. Pushy girls who are not discouraged by the spoken word are less likely to be discouraged by newspaper. She is obviously immune to insults, so you might have to get an unlisted telephone number and a watchdog for your front door. Or, maybe your mother will get "sick" enough of her to tell her mother.

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a man who was married before and had three children. When Al (not his right name) and his wife divorced, he gave up his children completely. His "ex" married again and her new husband adopted those three children. They now bear his name, he supports them and Al is glad to be rid of the responsibility.

My problem is my new mother in law. She insists that the children Al gave up are still her grandchildren. She continues to see them and is always buying things for them. This just burns me up.

I would like to know if my mother in law is still a grandmother to Al's children when he himself is no longer their legal father?

DEAR BURNED: Al's mother is—and always will be—the "biological" (or "natural") grandmother to Al's children. And Al will always be their "natural" father. Don't fight it.

DEAR ABBY: Any mother who has to push a grocery cart with three kids under six years old hanging onto her like my sympathy. And if one of her kids acts up and she gives his car a twist, I wouldn't blame her. I would say, "That poor woman has probably reached the end of her patience and I know exactly how she feels."

A mother can't win. If her kids misbehave in public and she punishes them, they yell bloody murder and onlookers are horrified. If they misbehave and she doesn't punish them because she doesn't want a scene, someone is sure to say, "Why doesn't she do something with those brats?"

Also, you can't go by how much screaming a child does. If I give my 3-year-old a little tap on the shoulder in public, he puts up a howl like I'm beating him to death. It's his way of attracting attention and making me look like a mean mother. Like I said, Abby, a mother just can't win.

DEAR ABBY: I am no women's lib nut, but three cheers for you for telling Walter's wife to send her guy to the showers to cool him off. If she had turned him away in bed that would be another matter, but she said their marriage never lacked for love, so if she doesn't want the big boob in the bathtub with her, what's his beef? Today's men are spoiled rotten. They think a woman should be so thrilled to have a man who is still breathing, she should agree to anything. NUT!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69760, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Dr. and Mrs. Moellmer speak

ALBION — Getting used to the idea that white people were very much in the minority was one of the experiences of Dr. and Mrs. O. A. Moellmer, who recently returned to their home here after spending two and one-half years in South America.

A retired Rupert physician, Dr. Moellmer served with the Peace Corps in British Guiana, where he was in charge of all health care for Peace Corps volunteers. He worked as a volunteer in the public hospital and Mrs. Moellmer worked in the medical library at the hospital.

They explained about medical and hospital facilities there and of some of the diseases the people suffer which are unheard of in this country at a meeting of the Albion Four Leaf Clover Club.

British Guiana was freed from British rule in March of this year and now is an independent country with a population and area about equal to the state of Idaho.

Dr. Moellmer said the children were quite fascinated with his white hair, which seemed unusual to them.

Mrs. Galie Mahoney and Mrs. Lillie Obershaw were in charge of the program. It was reported that overgrown trees have been planted by the City Council around the park and other areas in town. This project was requested by the club.

BOISE (UPI)—It appears the administrators of management services, building services and communications in the Department of Administrative Services are protected by the Personnel Commission.

At least that was the opinion Wednesday of Assistant Attorney General James R. Hargis. In a letter to Edward W. Sawyer, director of administrative services, Hargis said the posts are not department head positions appointed by and serving at the pleasure of the governor. However, he said the governor's approval is required when the director of administrative services appoints persons to those positions when a vacancy occurs.

He said he could find no exemptions specifically for the three jobs from laws which otherwise would put them under the protective cover of the Personnel Commission.

Candlelight for meals fashion around Britain

LONDON (UPI)—Electricity cuts blacked out one quarter of Britain today, the third day of a "by-the-book" wage slowdown that forced millions of Britons—including Queen Elizabeth—to have breakfast or take tea by candlelight.

The big switchoff began at 6:45 a.m. as Britons rose and peered through cold-fogged windows at a day which began with temperatures below freezing in many places. As they flicked on lights, stoves and heaters, they brought on the first power cuts.

The power loss also affected Fleet Street. London's newspaper row, and forced use of auxiliary equator.

Press International's European headquarters. Electricity officials said one quarter of the country had been blacked out by 8 a.m. and estimated that as much as 20 percent more of the nation's power supply would be cut during the day.

Men and women driving to work in London found themselves trapped in traffic jams. Lights stayed red, or green or didn't work at all.

With colder weather forecast today, increasing the demand for heat, the outlook was bleak, the officials said. They said the rotated blackouts would continue until late evening.

Despite the urgent appeals to conserve electricity, some large stores in London and other cities continued to keep Christmas display lights on. A Leeds central electricity-generating board spokesman said some stores looked "like a bloody festival."

Only a bright moon provided illumination Tuesday night in many areas. City drivers who usually use only their parking lights at night switched on their headlights. Candlelights flickered in restaurant and home windows. The Army sent emergency generators to hospitals. London TV transmitters went dead for 30 minutes.

It was the worst power blackout in Britain since the fuel crisis of 1947.

CSI faces Casper, BYU weekend battles

Nationally-ranked JC teams clash Friday in feature of twin bill

Two undefeated and as yet untested nationally ranked basketball teams who rather think of themselves as defensive conscious collide at the CSI gym Friday night when College of Southern Idaho meets Casper, Wyo., junior college in the feature of a college doubleheader. In fact, the Eagles will get two of their biggest tests of the entire season as they follow up the clash with Casper by meeting the Brigham Young University frosh Saturday night.

With action starting at 7 p.m., Boise State frosh meet BYU frosh with CSI going against Casper Friday night. On Saturday, Boise and Casper play while CSI meets BYU. Casper brings impressive credentials into the game. It returns two starters from last year's fourth-place national team and boasts a couple of great freshmen. Casper led the nation last year in defense, allowing less than 66 points per game while CSI would up 11th, four points worse.

"The coach from Powell (Wyo., who played here twice last week) has seen Casper, and he believes we will have a chance of beating them. I don't think he believes we can," reports CSI Coach Jerry Hale.

"Casper has a 5-8 freshman center who, I'm told, is quicker than (Tim) Bassett. I don't believe that but if he is he will be something. Then they have a 6-1 high school all-American guard who is a great one-on-one player. They like to clear a side and let him work for the crumple or shot. Matching him up with (Vic) Kelly will make it very interesting."

"They return Stewart, he's about 6-8 and 240 pounds; and the 6-5 boy who played high post for them last year and did a fine job in the national tournament," Coach Hale completed his scouting report.

"They are very anxious to come down here and play us because they haven't been tested. We're anxious for them to come in."

BYU reports it has three of its brightest guard prospects in its illustrious history and, which has about come to be known as usual, a 7-foot center. The young Cougars will be taking their first inter-collegiate bow against Boise State but has beaten an all-star team of EXVU players three times, scoring over 100 points each outing.

The guard are 6-1 Doug Richards, 5-7 Bill Anderson and 6-2 Grig Clawson. The seven-footer is Steve Lackey from Sacramento. BYU is weakest, it appears at forward but has good height in one spot in 6-7 Greg Snow. The other position is held by 6-3 1/2 Jim Drury.

"BYU is always a strong frosh team with good balance and talent. If they say they have two of their best guards, then I'd say they will be strong. They usually are among the three or four strongest teams we play in a season and playing them the night after meeting Casper will put a real test on our team."

well and in the second half every one passed extremely well."

Coach Hale said the key to the weekend would be defense. "We know that Casper works hard defensively and does a great job with it. BYU usually plays a zone defense and with a seven-footer inside could cover a lot of floor. We'll have to make sure that our defense keeps us close enough to win."

Duke cans coach for 6-5 year

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI)—Tom Harp was fired as Duke University's head football coach Wednesday less than a month after the Blue Devils completed their first winning season in five years.

A recommendation by the university's athletic council that Harp's contract be terminated was accepted by Terry Sanford, the university's president.

"The council declared its decisions had been made after an intensive study of Duke's intercollegiate program and that it arrived at its conclusion only with deep regret," a university statement said.

Harp, 42, a native of Barnesville, Ohio, and a graduate of Muskingum College, became Duke's head coach prior to the 1966 season following five years as head coach at Cornell.

During Harp's five years at Duke, the Blue Devils won 22 games, lost 22 and tied one. Duke's first winning season under Harp was this fall, when the Blue Devils won six and lost five.

Panel finds basis for race complaint

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—A special committee reported Wednesday it found "real, chronic" racism in the Syracuse University athletic department, but said it was mostly unintentional and common to American athletics in general.

The 12-member group recommended reinstatement of eight black football players suspended from the team for a boycott last spring to demand a black assistant coach.

The group also recommended Chancellor John E. Corbally Jr. "use his power to eliminate all racist practices which either overtly or covertly threaten minority groups."

Corbally withheld comment pending a news conference on Thursday.

Head football coach Floyd "Ben" Schwartzwalder had said previously he preferred not to comment.

The faculty student-administration committee heard 40 witnesses in its 10-week study of the racial dispute. When the black athletes and the administration failed to reach an accord, the eight, including ground gainer Al Newton, stayed off the squad this season.

The panel said the school should attempt to have them "red shirted" to make them eligible to play another year.

The committee found there was some substance to black players complaints of name-calling and harassment, but said it could not substantiate charges of discrimination in medical treatment, team position, discipline, academic advisement or recruiting.

WBA lifts Foster's title for failure to meet contenders

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The World Boxing Association (WBA) stripped Bob Foster of his light-heavyweight championship Wednesday, claiming Foster's manager reneged on his agreement for a title defense and had consistently failed to defend his title against top-rated contenders.

Promoter says boxer has fight

HOUSTON (UPI)—Promoter Earl Gilliam said Wednesday night he had a contract with Bob Foster's manager offering a world light-heavyweight championship fight to Jimmy Dupree in Houston Feb. 17.

Foster's light-heavyweight title was lifted earlier Wednesday by the World Boxing Association on charges that Foster reneged on an agreement to defend his title by Dec.

17. Gilliam said the contract bearing the signature of Lou Viscusi, Foster's manager, was mailed special delivery airmail Dec. 2 to Al Braverman, Dupree's manager, and to Bill Brennan, president of the WBA. Brennan made the announcement of the WBA's decision to revoke Foster's title.

"I have not heard a word from either one and I've been trying to reach both of them (Braverman and Brennan) on the telephone for five days," Gilliam said. Gilliam is a close friend of Viscusi.

Gilliam said the contract called for a guarantee of $100,000 for Foster and $2,500 for Dupree, the No. 1 challenger in WBA ratings. It also included transportation and hotel expenses for Dupree and two others, but the challenger would not receive a percentage of the gate.

WBA President Bill Brennan said Foster's manager, Lou Viscusi, agreed Aug. 10 that Foster would defend his title against the top contender in his division within 90 days after his heavyweight championship fight with Joe Frazier last month, but never made good on the promise.

"Foster won the light heavyweight title on May 24, 1968, and he has not defended it against the world's No. 1 or leading contender since that time," said Brennan, who also serves as secretary of the Virginia Athletic Commission.

"This has added stragulation to the light heavyweight division and has deprived leading contenders of the opportunity to compete for the world's title."

"This latest flouting of WBA rules and directives completes a long cycle of scheming contempt for rules of the sport of boxing and of those who have sought to be helpful to both Foster and his manager."

Brennan said the WBA would soon announce the "procedures of competition" for selecting a successor.

Brennan said Viscusi met with the WBA's executive committee in Montreal on Aug. 10 and, "at that time ... agreed to post a forfeit with the WBA guaranteeing that Foster would defend his light heavyweight title against the No. 1 rated contender within 90 days following a proposed heavyweight title match between Foster and Joe Frazier."

"The WBA agreed to this arrangement," Brennan said, "and advised Viscusi that his agreement, as requested by him, must be fulfilled, otherwise it would become necessary for the WBA to withdraw recognition of Foster as the world's light-heavyweight champion."

"As of this date, Viscusi and Foster have not lived up to their commitment and pledge."

Tulane arrives at bowl site

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—After a fogbound morning in New Orleans, the Tulane University football squad arrived here Wednesday afternoon to join the festivities that will end Saturday when the underdog Green Wave meets Colorado in the 12th annual Liberty Bowl football game.

The team's arrival was originally scheduled for 11 a.m. but was delayed more than three hours by fog at New Orleans that cut visibility to an eighth of a mile and the ceiling to 100 feet.

A spokesman for Eastern Airlines said the chartered 727 jet circled New Orleans for an hour and a half at one point, awaiting authorization to land and pick up the squad.

Big Ten OKs play in NIT

CHICAGO (UPI)—Big Ten faculty representatives and athletic directors tentatively approved Wednesday competition by conference basketball teams in the post-season National Invitational Tournament.

The action must be reaffirmed at the next conference meeting, scheduled in early March of 1971, and if final approval is voted at that time, Big Ten teams would be eligible to play in the next NIT event, which would begin 10 days later.

Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed emphasized that the action did not guarantee that one or more conference teams would play in the NIT.

Japan eyes sweep of first Olympic medals

BANGKOK, (UPI)—Japan has high hopes of sweeping all five medals at stake Thursday on the first day of the track and field competition of the sixth Asian games.

The medals are in men's high jump and 5,000 meters and women's discus, long jump and 500 meter relay.

Japanese experts added the women's long jump to the list of gold medals expected when they learned that the world's fastest woman, Chi Cheng of Nationalist China, would not compete in the long jump and the pentathlon for fear that she may worsen her injured left leg.

Miss Chi won the gold medal in the long jump four years ago with an Asian Games record of 19 feet, 6 1/4 inches, but she pulled a muscle in her left leg doing so and was compelled to retire from competition after leading in three events, the 80 meter hurdles, the high jump and shotput. In the pentathlon, she appeared to be an easy winner of a second gold medal but forfeited it to Michiko Omoto of Japan.

Miss Chi will be the center of attraction when she runs in the trial heats of the women's 100 meters Wednesday. She holds the world record in the 100 and 200 meters and the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Hidokiko Tomizawa, 24, a graduate of Juntendo University who has cleared 7-1 3/4, is favored to win the men's high jump with teammate, Kuniyoshi Sugioaka, 28, his chief rival. Sugioaka's best height has been 7-1.

NOTE A THEORIST writes: "How wonderful it would be if all of these United States were equal!" Interesting notion. Not so certain, however, it would be wonderful. If such were the case, Hawaii would wind up with about 5,000 square miles of permafrost and Florida could only claim 150 miles of coastline. Merchants' hopes high

NEW YORK (UPI)—Merchants across the country anticipate reasonably Merry Christmas sales because Americans traditionally loosen purses during the Yule season, even when times are tough.

That faith is being justified to some extent, according to a survey by United Press International. It indicates the Christmas shopping season is off to a good start in most areas, but not everywhere. In cities such as Seattle and Wichita, hard hit by defense industry cutbacks, merchants expect a grim season.

Nationally, about the best hoped for is to equal or slightly better last year's dollar sales.

Considering the 5 per cent inflation of money for the year, that actually translates into a slight decrease in the physical volume of goods going over the Christmas counters.

Only the toymakers seem genuinely jubilant. They report no slowdown in their phenomenal growth over the last decade. So it looks as if the youngsters will fare well even if a few aunts and uncles get lopped off the shopping list because of the current recession.

Restrained shopping warriors, cast rather clearly in the Yule catalogues leading department stores and mail order houses sent out early in the fall. They were less lavish than in recent years and contained fewer unusual and expensive items. However, one Cleveland store advertised a $700 rabbit skin bedspread.

It's likely to be an unusual Yule season in another respect. Conscious of misery caused by unemployment and social tensions, many prestige stores are trying to avoid the image of conspicuous or ostentatious spending. Ed Marcus of Neiman-Marcus in Dallas, a store noted for past flamboyance, said, "We're accepting the fact that the public attitude on extravagance has changed."

And the management of Bonwit Teller, a de luxe Fifth Avenue store in New York, said, "We want to avoid things that look frivolous."

Volunteers won't work in Vietnam

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI)—Curia W. Tarr, director of the U.S. Selective Service System, said today he agreed with the servicemen he has been talking to here who say that an all-volunteer armed force in Vietnam would be impossible.

Tarr met newsmen briefly after interviewing six members of a U.S. Marine reconnaissance platoon here. He already has talked with sailors on aircraft carriers off the Vietnamese coast and Army troops at the Americal Division headquarters in Chu Lai.

Tarr said he has been asking servicemen questions to prepare for a congressional hearing on the draft system.

Police seek missing victim

NASHVILLE, Ind. (UPI)—Police who had thought Clarence Roberts died in a garage fire at his home Nov. 18 now are looking for him. Laboratory tests say the charred body found in the ruins was not Roberts.

An initial investigation based on possessions found on the body had identified the victim as Roberts, 52, described as a troubled businessman who carried $800,000 in life insurance.

Meanwhile, a fire inspector said arson caused the blaze which raged through the garage at the Roberts' home along Indiana 135 three miles north of here.

The earlier examination of the burned garage and body revealed the presence of a Masonic ring belonging to Roberts. The charred body also matched the general description of Roberts, although his wedding ring was missing. However, state police said Tuesday the victim could not have been Roberts, based on blood analyses taken from the dead man and compared with those from other members of his family.

Roberts reportedly was last seen by his wife, Geneva, and son, Lore, 21, about two hours before the fire.

Benefit boost passes Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee voted Wednesday to boost Social Security taxes by $2.5 billion next year and by additional billions in future years to pay for one of the biggest increases in benefits in history.

Then by a 12-5 vote the committee submitted to the Senate for debate next week a catchall bill which also would impose trade restrictions, change the nation's welfare laws and introduce a new government health insurance program for people facing "catastrophic" medical expenses.

The measure faces a murky future in a Senate that is scheduled to quit work only four days after the bill reaches the floor for debate on Tuesday.

Efforts will be made to strip from it the trade provisions to impose quotas on imports of shoes, oil and textiles and to put into it a liberalized version of President Nixon's welfare reform plan, which he has called the most important domestic proposal to face Congress since the New Deal.

A number of senators privately predicted that nothing in the measure would survive the debate except the Social Security increases, which range from 10 to 66 per cent and would mean higher benefits for 26 million Americans effective in January but not payable until April.

The committee voted to raise the maximum Social Security tax, payable by employers and their workers, from the present $374.40 a year to $488 in 1971. The maximum tax would steadily rise until it reached $684 a year in 1986 and thereafter.

The benefit increases in the bill will cost an estimated $8.5 billion a year and the plan for "catastrophic" insurance would cost $2.2 billion. The insurance program would not become effective until 1972.

The difference between what the bill would raise through tax increases and what it would spend through benefit increases would be made up by dipping into the surplus in the Social Security trust fund, which is now estimated at $5 billion.

Award winner

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — University of California experts in agricultural economics have won three of the seven top awards presented for writing and research this year by the American Agricultural Economics Association.

Two of the awards went to agricultural economists on the Berkeley campus and the third to an expert on the Davis campus.

The awards bolstered the university's dominant position in agricultural economics in the United States.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department told the Supreme Court today that respecting the right of conscientious objection "to unintended and impractical lengths" could kill the exemption for draftees entirely.

Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold said if the system can't be administered fairly, Congress might end the practice despite the fact it has worked well throughout U.S. history.

The court is hearing test cases from New York and California to determine whether a draft registrant may claim conscientious objection specifically to the Vietnam War.

New York attorney Conrad J. Lynn urged the court to permit such "selective" conscientious objection or else to rule the entire draft law unconstitutional as an infringement on religious freedom.

Lynn represented Guy Porter Gillette, sentenced to two years in prison for refusing induction. Gillette's views were based on humanism.

"This man became convinced as he lived through the events vicariously every day (of the Vietnam War)," Lynn said.

He told the justices that political factors could properly contribute to a registrant's total moral commitment.

Griswold told the court that refusal to serve in a particular foreign war could lead to even more particularized objections such as to the composition of Allied forces or refusal to serve in combat on Saturday or Sunday.

Other possibilities could be visualized for other areas of
