Christmas rites set

Special Christmas Eve and Christmas Day services will be celebrated throughout Magic Valley as Christian congregations mark the birth of Jesus.

In Twin Falls, special candlelight communion services have been scheduled at 7:30 p. m. today in the First United Methodist Church and at 11 p. m. in the First Presbyterian Church. Several college students will take part in the Presbyterian service.

At the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Twin Falls, a carol and prayer service is planned for the whole family at 7:30 p. m. today. The accent of this service will be on children.

The midnight service at the Episcopal Church will begin at 11:30 p. m. today, preceded by carol singing. This is the traditional holy communion service, notes Rev. John Wallace. Then at 10 a. m. Friday another service of communion and carols is planned.

Today at 4:30 p. m. over KTFI radio, the St. Edward's Catholic Church senior choir will have a program of Christmas carols, under the direction of Roger Graefe. Organist will be Mrs. Joann Cubit.

At 11:30 p. m. today, St. Edward's will celebrate midnight mass with Magr. Edmund Cody as celebrant and assisting him will be Father Spruto. The choir also will have a concert of Christmas carols at that time.

Christmas Eve ceremonies at St. Benedict's Student Center and Priory will commence at 11:30 p. m. with the public recitation of the Christmas morning prayer of the church, followed by a Christmas light service at 11:45 p. m.

At 11:55, there will be the blessing and lighting of the yule tree with the midnight mass following. On Christmas Day, only one mass will be celebrated, at 8 a. m.

A candlelight communion service is scheduled at 8 p. m. today in the Jerome First United Methodist Church. At 9:30 p. m. holy communion will be celebrated in the Jerome Episcopal Church with Rev. John Wallace officiating.

St. Jerome's Catholic Church, Jerome, will have high mass sung at midnight with Rev. Father Bernard McBride as celebrant. Christmas Day mass will be at 8 and 10 a. m. and on Sunday the continental breakfast will be held following both masses.

St. John's Lutheran Church, Jerome, plans candlelight communion services at 7:30 p. m. today and Christmas worship will be at 11 a. m. Friday with Rev. Thomas Burton presiding. The church's New Year's Eve communion service will be held at 7:30 p. m. Dec. 31.

The St. James Episcopal Church will hold communion services at 8 p. m. today in Burley.

At Rupert, the Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church will have special services at 11 p. m. today and on Christmas Day a holy communion service at 10 a. m.

The Rupert Methodist Church plans a 10:30 p. m. Christmas Eve candlelight service and Sunday the youth of the church will present the worship services.

At 7 p. m. Christmas Eve mass will be celebrated at the Rupert Catholic church and one at midnight. Christmas caroling will precede the midnight mass. On Christmas Day at 9 and 11 a. m. the church is planning Spanish masses.

THOUSANDS of children throughout Magic Valley will not sleep difficult tonight as the hours drag into morning, but conscious of Santa's footsteps on the roof and fireplace hearth. Many will attend church services commemorating the birth of Jesus.

Look, it's that once-a-year light at the end of the tunnel, again!

8-inch gas line breaks

By LEE TREMAINE
Times News Staff Writer.
HANSEN—Standard Oil Co. repair crews completed patching an eight-inch automotive gasoline pipeline that ruptured southeast of here Tuesday, spilling an estimated 100,000 gallons of gasoline into a farmer's irrigation ditch.

Early Tuesday Joe Fralay of Hansen noticed a "strong smell of gas" discovered gasoline in his ditches, and notified sheriff's officers. Investigation showed the underground rupture of the Boise-Salt Lake City line.

Officers notified Standard Oil Co. of Salt Lake City, owners of the line.

The pipeline, buried about 10 feet beneath the ground sought of Hansen, ruptured "for an unknown reason" Tuesday, according to Standard Oil spokesmen in Salt Lake City.

The flow of gas was shut off immediately, but the gas in the line continued to flood the area for a short time, according to Standard Oil spokesmen.

Sheriff's deputy Ron Wyatt said there was "no danger" to homes in the area. The gas was confined by the irrigation ditches, Wyatt said.

The Farm Service, Inc., center of Kimberly donated three tanker trucks which used "about 25,000 gallons of water" to flush out the ditches. Other Standard Oil trucks pumped up much of the loose gasoline and water to reduce the fire danger.

A repair crew from the Salt Lake City Standard Oil refinery completed replacement of a 10-foot section of the pipe today. Bob Gass of Farm Service, Inc., said "at least 100,000 gallons" of gasoline were lost in the pipeline rupture, but Standard Oil spokesmen in Salt Lake City refused to confirm the estimate.

Nation's product declines

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Commerce Department says that for the first time since the recession year of 1958 the U. S. real gross national product dropped this year.

The department's Office of Business Economics said Wednesday the total national product would be lower than the $727.1 billion recorded in 1969. The estimate was expressed in terms of the buying power of the dollar in 1958 to eliminate the effect of inflation.

The report said it was "certain" production in the final three months of this year would be down from output in the third quarter.

The effects of the United Auto Workers strike against General Motors were blamed for the decline between the two quarters.

The gross national product measures the value of the economy's entire output of goods and services. Adjustments to eliminate the effects of inflation result in figures that are called the "real GNP."

Most economists consider the real GNP to be the most basic measure of the overall economy.

A drop in the figure for a full year almost always means the economy is in a recession although the Nixon administration has carefully avoided attaching that label to the current business slump.

Manger scene wins contest

TWIN FALLS — The Manger Scene, complete with Manger, the three Wise men and a camel won first prize for Alvan Cooley in the annual Times-News and Idaho Power Co. Christmas Lighting Contest.

The scene is on the lawn in front of the Cooley home at 707 Northview Drive. Partly animated and life-size, it was picked by the three judges as the best of all those entered in the contest. First place award of $50 will be mailed to the winner, sponsors announce.

Second award worth $40 went to Donald W. Lamberti, 244 DuBois. The display features a tall arched framed Christmas Card bearing the words "Wisemen Still Seek Him."

The $25 third prize will go to Mr. and Mrs. B. L. DeWeese at 535 Madison; fourth and $15 to Janet Otterstetter of 652 North Washington.

Honorable mention awards of $5 went to Frank DeLuca, 120 Tenth Ave. N., and Dan Nielsen, 527 Polk St.

Special judges for the contest were Mrs. George (Shirley) Thorpe, Mrs. Harry (Billie) Brown and Mrs. Dutch (Vivian) Standley. The three women spent several hours Tuesday evening inspecting all entries in the contest. They were driven around the city by J. W. (Wes)

Coryell, division sales manager of Idaho Power Co.

The judges said the lighted Christmas displays were more numerous this year than during the past several years. Several displays, not entered in the contest, would have had good chances of winning one of the awards, they said.

All award checks will be mailed to the winners by the first of next week.

Postman arrested

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls Post Office worker who allegedly took a contribution being mailed to the Muscular Dystrophy Association has been arraigned in Boise on charges of theft of mails.

Kelth C. Granbury, 37, Twin Falls, was taken into custody by Spokane and Boise postal inspectors Saturday and arraigned before the U. S. commissioner.

The U. S. attorney's office in Boise reported the arrest and charges today. It said the alleged theft occurred the week before Granbury's arrest.

Head Start allocation shrunken 7 stockmen get honors

TWIN FALLS — A smaller $235,450 federal grant has been approved to finance a 12-month Head Start program for the South Central Community Action Agency, Sen. Frank Church said Wednesday.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department grant would allow the SCCAA to provide Head Start classes to 235 children in Cassia and Twin Falls counties and an additional 20 children each in day care centers in Twin Falls, Cassia and Jerome counties.

The $235,450 allocation represents a 7.5 per cent cutback in Head Start funds which has been applied nationwide. The cutback will eliminate the regular half-day summer Head Start program, and will force elimination of the Murlough Head Start classes, Mrs. Kaster said.

The program will serve about 75 fewer children under the abbreviated funding, she explained.

However, the CAA board tentatively plans to operate a 20-child day-care center in Jerome in place of the summer program. This day-care program will operate for "about eight months" during the school year, Mrs. Kaster said.

TWIN FALLS — Seven stockmen have been named honorees to the Southern Idaho Livestock Industry Hall of Fame, raising to 70 the number of men honored since 1960.

Honorees are Thane Lancaster, Filer; John W. Jones, Sr., Hagerman; E. R. (Ed) Kelsey, Burley; Manning Patterson, Gooding, and the Alzola brothers — Jim, Frosty and Arsen — all of Mountain Home.

The installation banquet on Feb. 15 celebrates the stockmen's contributions to the livestock industry in Magic Valley.

Lancaster is one of the outstanding quarter horse breeders in the western states. He is an approved judge by both the American Quarter Horse Association and the American Horse Show Association. He is a partner of the Parker-Lancaster Sales Co., and manager and co-owner of the Magic Valley Stallion Station of Filer. He started horse training at the age of 15, was self-employed at that age. At that time he received $25 a month for each horse trained.

Kelsey has been active in the purebred ram business since 1917. At that time he purchased 30 head of purebred Hampshire ewes. His first consignment of rams was in 1918 at the Filer fairgrounds. He still enters the Filer sale.

Jones, born in South Wales, became self-supporting at the age of 14, working for a lawyer in his native country. Later he delivered milk, went to night school and sang in the famed Welsh Choir at St. Paul's Cathedral.

He came to the United States in 1903 and worked as a cook and general funker at mining camps in North Idaho. He came to Hagerman in 1906. He became interested in the sheep industry.

He owns land in Camas, Gooding and Custer counties and bought the home ranch in 1936. He was for many years a member of the Predator Animal Control Board. He has held posts in the Idaho Woolgrowers Association, and served for 24 years on the Hagerman School Board. He is now retired.

War winds down in holiday truce

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. and South Vietnamese forces began a 24-hour cease-fire Christmas Eve, 17 hours after the Communists started a three-day holiday truce. Communist forces killed two Americans and wounded three others in an assault on a northern outpost early today less than one hour before they began their cease-fire, U.S. military spokesmen said. At the same time, the weekly casualty toll released today showed U.S. war deaths dropped to their lowest point in more than five years.

Shortly before the 24-hour U.S. and South Vietnamese holiday truce was to begin, only the one incident involving U.S. forces had been reported. But the South Vietnamese command said there had been two violations by the Communists of their unilateral three-day stand-down. One government militiaman was killed in the fighting, the officials reported.

The 72-hour Communist truce began at 1 a.m. Saigon time (noon EST Wednesday). The cease-fire was the 17th of the Indochina conflict since 1963.

U.S. military spokesmen said a reconnaissance team of the Americal division came under small arms and hand grenade fire just after midnight near Duc Pho, 307 miles, north-northeast of Saigon. The brief attack cost the unit of the 11th Brigade two dead and three wounded. Communist losses were not determined, the spokesmen said.

South Vietnamese casualties last week were 266 dead and 886 wounded while Communist losses were placed at 1,404 dead.

Stockmen selected for hall

(Continued from Page 1) In 1953 he purchased 1,100 acres of sage brush land which he cleared and planted to create wheat and rye. The area was fenced and cattle, in which he became interested in 1948, were rotated on this land. This operation resulted in his being selected as Cassia County Grassman of the Year for 1943. He was instrumental in organization of the Deelo Light and Power Co. He was born in Springville, Utah, and came to Idaho in 1914. Patterson was born in Palmyra, Ill., and moved with members of his family to Gooding in 1912. Raised in the depression years, he stayed on his father's farm, ran a few sheep in a community band, raised hogs, chickens and milked cows. During that time the two men formed a partnership, which he later purchased. Today he and his son run 2,300 head of sheep and 150 head of cattle. He owns 820 acres of irrigated farm land in Gooding and Lincoln counties, 900 acres of dry farmland in Carnas County and 2,400 acres of pastureland in Gooding and Carnas counties. He is a former member of the Forest Advisory Board and is currently on the board of the Southern Idaho Production Credit Association. The Alzola brothers were born and raised in Mountain Home. Their parents came to the United States from Spain. In 1946 the three boys purchased the present ranch located in Owyhee County in the Grasmere area. Later other land and permits were acquired and today they are running 700 mother cows, 400 yearlings and 50 horses in a two-state operation. They now have 7,000 acres of deeded land, 2,560 acres of state leases, with 1,000 head of BLM permits in the Boise grazing district and 860 head of forest permit on the Humboldt National Forest in Elko County, Nevada. All the brothers are active in cattle associations.

Foundation aids CSI

TWIN FALLS — The First Security Foundation of Salt Lake City, Utah, an affiliate of the Idaho First Security Bank, has provided $500 for scholarships and books at the College of Southern Idaho, in a continuing yearly program. Kenneth Newman, vice president of the First Security Bank and manager of the Twin Falls office, said the foundation will provide $400 for two $200 scholarships to be awarded to students who are majoring in banking and finance. The winners are to be selected from the freshman class, with the scholarships applied toward their tuition the following year, Newman said. The foundation is providing $100 for purchase of financial and economic books, services and periodicals, for the college library. The books are to be selected by the business department faculty. The foundation stipulates that the books purchased by the grant are to be identified as provided by the bank. Dr. James L. Taylor, president of the College of Southern Idaho, received the funds on behalf of the college.

Oregon man jailed after street fight

SHOSHONE — William Eugene Donnelly, 50, Ashland, Ore., is being held in the Lincoln County Jail pending arraignment on a charge of resisting arrest and "possibly other charges," according to Police Chief Bill Anderson. Donnelly was arrested after a fight with Anderson and Sheriff Thomas Conner about 4:30 p. m. Wednesday. Donnelly locked himself in a car on North Rail Street and threatened officers with a loaded .30-30 rifle. "You'd better back off or I'll use it," Donnelly said. Approaching from either side of the car, the officers knocked the locks from the car doors, opened the doors, reached in and seized the rifle. Donnelly was pulled from the car but fought with Anderson and Conner in the street for about five minutes before the officers subdued him. The car occupied by Donnelly was reported stolen from Glenna Ferry, by his former wife, on Thursday, the chief said. Shoshone officers were watching for the car to appear in Shoshone, after being notified the auto was headed that way, Anderson said.

SHOSHONE — Members of Magic Grange held the annual Christmas party at the Grange Hall Tuesday night. Lawrence Tews, master, gave the welcome address. Oscar Kerner, lecturer, was in charge of the program. Christmas poems and readings were given by Janet Fought, Tanya Kerner, Donna Kerner, Branda Kerner, David Kerner and L. E. Campbell and Kathleen Kerner. Heather Tews played a piano solo and the group sang Christmas carols. Santa Claus brought treats.

Christmas project completed

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Magic Valley Chapter, Telephone Co. Pioneers, completed their annual Christmas project Wednesday when they delivered gifts to the Wood River Convalescent Home in Shoshone. George Hunter and Iona Hutton, co-chairmen of the project said normally they provide a holiday food basket for a needy family, but this year decided to provide hand made slippers and a box of home made candy for each of the patients in the Shoshone nursing home. Ten members worked on the project, Mrs. Hunter said, and 26 patients received gifts. The co-chairmen expressed thanks to the members who assisted in the project.

Holiday ski prospects excellent

TWIN FALLS — Vacationing students will find good skiing during the holidays and a variety with all ski resorts in full operation on a daily basis. In the Halley area, Rotarun will be open daily beginning the day after Christmas. A special ski school of two hour classes per day starts Dec. 28, for three consecutive days. Ralph Claco, head of the Rotarun ski school, said the program is for beginners only. The area reports plenty of deep snow and night skiing is offered each Tuesday and Thursday nights beginning Jan. 5. There is a total snow depth of 36 inches. Pomerelle reports a total of 50 inches at the top of the ski runs with 42 at the bottom and a trace of new snow Wednesday night. The area will operate daily through Jan. 8 beginning Dec. 28. Weather was clear Thursday with a 25 mile per hour wind at the top. All runs are packed with excellent skiing and the road is reported very good, although snow tires are always recommended.

Magic Mountain, also operating on a daily basis, received four inches of new powder Wednesday night on a packed base of about 40 to 52 inches covering ski slopes. All facilities including ski school classes for all ages and abilities will be held daily at the area. A bus will leave each morning at 9 a. m. from Lynwood Shopping Center.

Soldier Mountain has 80 inches of snow at the top of the ski lift and 38 at the bottom with a six inch new snowfall Wednesday night. Skiing is reported excellent and the road has a broken snow floor but is good. Temperatures this morning were 15 degrees with weather clear and slightly windy.

Soldier Mountain's new double chair lift and other facilities will be operating daily beginning Saturday.

Astronomical Art

If money really is tight, somebody ought to let the art world in on it. Auctions at galleries in the United States and abroad are regularly generating whopping prices.

Recently, sale of 50 pieces of modern American art drew as much as a million dollars at a New York auction and at a German sale pop art ranged upward into six figures.

With that kind of money established for contemporary put-ons, no wonder the value of the old masters is growing correspondingly.

At the moment, the record auction price is $5,440,000 with which a New York gallery acquired a Velazquez portrait, more than doubling the old record of $2.3 million for Rembrandt's "Aristotle Contemplating the Bust of Homer."

Art thus continues to be a good investment, not only as an ego-satisfier but also as a hedge against inflation. And at least, in the case of the old masters, you know that the artist isn't laughing all the way to the bank.

And may all of you have a Very Merry Christmas. There will be no Times-News Christmas Day — so we will see you Dec. 27 once again.

ROBERT ALLEN AND JOHN GOLDSMITH

Sisk Is Leading

WASHINGTON — A Californian born and reared in Texas has the inside track to be the next Democratic leader of the House, and former Vice President Humphrey's prospects of regaining his one-time committee assignments are only chancy.

Rep. B.F. Sisk, 60, of Fresno, Calif., is definitely out in front in the backstage scramble to succeed Democratic Floor Leader Albert Thomas, Okla., when he becomes speaker next month. Although Sisk entered the contest only recently, he has already outdistanced a number of earlier aspirants.

Foremost among them are Democratic Whip Hale Boggs, La., who nominally is in line to step up to the Floor Leadership, but has lost ground to Sisk after a promising start; Rep. Morris Udall, Ariz., and James O'Hara, Mich., who are running with backing of the liberal Democratic Study Group — which sometimes exercises balance-of-power influence on close House issues.

In the hot behind-the-scenes fray over the floor leadership the Study Group is divided over Udall and O'Hara. Ultra-liberal members are favoring O'Hara; older and more moderate DSGers are backing Udall.

Some senior Study Group leaders are urging a compromise. They are proposing the faction unite behind a dark horse candidate — Rep. Melvin Price, Ill., 24-year congressional veteran and a senior member of two key committees — Armed Services and Joint Atomic Energy. Whether anything comes of this move is conjectural. One reason is that Sisk has strong supporters in the Study Group. Significance of Sisk's growing strength is his backing in major House elements. Southerners are favoring him because of his Texas background; the same holds true for westerners; and members from northern industrial states like him because he has a good record on important legislation they have sought.

In brief, he is a middle of the road moderate who is generally rated by colleagues as able and personally popular. Hale Boggs has little backing in the West and North, and lately has lost some Southern support. Udall and O'Hara are controversial even in their own liberal ranks, particularly O'Hara — who is abrasive and considered "pushy."

All this is working to Sisk's advantage, and knowledgeable insiders regard him as the most likely successor to the Democratic floor leadership. There is Senate precedent for giving a former vice president the committee seats he once held as a member of the chamber.

Senate Democrats did that when former Vice President Alben Barkley, Ky., was re-elected to the Senate. He was given vacancies on Foreign Relations and several other important committees on which he had once sat. However, his previous committee seniority was not restored; in each instance he went at the bottom of the list. But he did get back his old committee places.

This was done as a matter of "sentiment," of personal affection and regard for a widely popular and respected party leader.

That is not likely to be repeated in Humphrey's case; at least not on the prestigious Foreign Relations Committee — where there will be one Democratic vacancy in the new Congress that convenes early next month.

Inside reason is that too many ambitious White House aspirants are after this choice prize.

They include Sens. Edmund Muskie, Me.; George McGovern, S.D.; Birch Bayh, Ind.; Harold Hughes, Iowa, and Edward Kennedy, Mass. — who is secretly running despite coy disclaimers.

Under Senate rules, all have seniority over Humphrey. The three terms he served in the Senate before becoming vice president don't count. Seniority is based on consecutive service. So when it comes to committee assignments, Humphrey is in the position of having no more seniority than other new members.

The matter will be decided by the Democratic Steering Committee, headed by Floor Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont. He says he is keeping hands off the backstage hassle — which also is no help to Humphrey. The late Alben Barkley got a big boost from then-Senate Floor Leader Lyndon Johnson, Tex.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We have read that carrying oxygen in a car is of no value, and may be dangerous.

This troubles us because we often take trips on the desert and elsewhere far from hospitals; and carry oxygen containers that are good for two hours. One of us takes digitalis and Perilate every day for heart trouble, and thought this a good precaution. —T.Y.

I would differ with what you read, because oxygen (with a breathing mask and tube) can indeed be helpful to someone with heart trouble, particularly one subject to bouts of heart failure or angina pectoris. It may take only a few breaths of oxygen to get such a person past the worst of the trouble.

Pure oxygen, of course, has to be handled with good judgment. Normally, air has only a certain amount of oxygen. You may have seen laboratory experiments showing how combustion is different in a bottle of pure oxygen, as compared to plain air.

A toothpick, lighted and blown out, so only a tiny and fast-dying spark remains, will burst into furious flame when placed in a bottle of oxygen. A piece of iron wire will burn briskly, throwing off a barrage of sparks, in pure oxygen.

So smoking in the car would be hazardous — but I assume, you know that. Indeed, I would presume that, if someone in the car needed some whiffs of oxygen, you would stop the car.

Widely used, an emergency supply of oxygen in the car makes sense, and would not be dangerous.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a hysterectomy a year ago. I was 39. I have mild hot flashes and my doctor doesn't think it is necessary for me to have any hormones. My friend said if I don't have them I will have hardening of the arteries very young. What do you think? —Mrs. L.D.

It is known that women, prior to menopause, are much less likely than men to have heart attacks. Later in life, things pretty much even off.

It is a theory — but only a theory — that female hormones cause this difference. There could be many other explanations.

Some doctors, indeed, feel that hormones are being given much too freely and indiscriminately.

In view of what we now know and what we do not know, my feeling is that it is sensible to give hormones to allay severe hot flashes, but that if a woman does not have any flashes, or has only mild ones, it is an indication that her natural hormone supply is adequate for her needs — so why give more?

A mild tranquilizer or sedative often is enough to control minimal hot flashes.

In short, I think your doctor makes sense; I think your friend is jumping to conclusions which are not warranted.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My nose stops up while I am asleep and I wake up at least four times a night. After I get up and around my nose is wide open and I do not have any trouble until I go back to bed. Can it be sinus trouble? Bad nerves? Poor circulation? —I've tried everything. —W.K.

It doesn't sound like any of the things you suggested. But what about allergy? An allergy to feathers is not particularly unusual. Or even dust from the bed clothes.

If it happens to be the feathers, you can get a pillow cover that will be air tight and prevent dust from the feathers getting out. If it's a double bed, get covers for both pillows.)

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In regard to your article about the baby born with one club foot, our son was born in 1916 with two club feet, and toes wore down as well as in.

After six months of plaster casts they cut above the heels and on the inside of the feet but didn't cut deep enough. Then we took him to the University Hospital and they cut the same places only deeper.

When I brought him home, the doctor said to let him walk in his socks or sandals, that putting his weight on his feet flat down was to finish the cure, which it did.

When he was 3, I entered him in a better baby contest, and out of 3,500 babies, he was one of 52 picked as 100 per cent.

His feet have never given him any trouble except that they tire a little soon. —Mrs. B.H.V.

I hope that worried mother sees this letter. It is one of several letters I received about correcting severe club foot.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is iodized salt? Is it a salt substitute? My diet requires no regular salt but does not exclude salt substitutes. —W.L.

Sorry, but no, you must use iodized salt. It is regular table salt with a very tiny amount of potassium iodide added, the purpose being to prevent goiter from a lack of iodine.

Note to L.M.: When you've tried that hard, and your boyfriend still keeps drinking, you might as well admit that he isn't going to change until he sees sufficient reason (trouble, that is!) to realize he has to. Even "a few beers" are inviting disaster when liver damage already has occurred.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any way to get rid of moles on the arms and legs? —J.M.

No — do it yourself method, but they can be readily removed by your doctor or by a dermatologist.

Dr. Thosteson is happy to receive readers' questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column. However, due to the great volume of mail received daily, he regrets he cannot answer letters individually.

Guard killed in Utah

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (UPI)—A veteran guard was killed and partially buried under a pile of grain early Wednesday while guarding 11 inmates at the state prison's dairy farm.

Two missing prisoners who had been assigned to the dairy farm as minimum security risks were apprehended in a taxicab two hours after the guard's body was found and were taken to Salt Lake County jail pending investigation of the slaying.

The dead guard was identified as Don Wagstaff, 56, of American Fork, Wagstaff, married and the father of two children, had been a guard at the prison since 1957.

Warden John W. Turner said Wagstaff was the first officer killed at the prison since 1965. Wagstaff's body was found by another guard, George Roseman, about 6:30 a.m. in a granary on the farm. Wagstaff's feet were bound with rope and his body was partially buried under grain.

Lt. Lee Krobe of the sheriff's office, who investigated the killing, said it appeared Wagstaff had been bludgeoned to death.

Two hours later, sheriff's deputies stopped a taxicab at 36th south and Sixth West and arrested the missing escapees, Ronald K. Kirby, 28, of Monticello, Calif., and Oklahoma, and Ricky Archuleta, 25, of Ogden.

Neither offered any resistance when they were arrested. Warden Turner said Kirby was serving a five-to-life sentence, for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit robbery and entered the prison May, 1967. Archuleta was admitted December, 1968, on a sentence of one to 20 years for second degree burglary.

Turner said Archuleta was scheduled for a hearing in December, 1971, to determine if he could be released on parole. Turner said the two escapees were among six inmates who were awakened at 4 a.m. and taken by Wagstaff to the dairy farm to milk cows and process milk.

Another five inmates were taken to the dairy farm at 5 a.m. to be guarded by Wagstaff. Turner said it was unusual to have one guard overseeing 11 prisoners. He said as many as 15 to 20 prisoners can be supervised by one guard.

Kirby and Archuleta were spotted in the northbound taxicab by Deputy Bernard Hain at about 4th south and Redwood road. He notified the sheriff's dispatchers and additional cars converged on the scene.

Plans made for 2 inaugural balls

BOISE (UPI)—The executive vice president of the Greater Boise Chamber of Commerce said Wednesday the organization hopes to put the two inaugural balls Jan. 4 for "somewhere in the neighborhood of $18,000."

Robert B. McGinnis said approximately 3,700 persons must purchase tickets at $5 per person to make ends meet.

James Davidson, president of the Boise Chamber, said the dances has "almost doubled" due to several last minute changes including requests from Governor-elect Cecil Andrus that some invitations be re-printed, that two identical dances be held, and that everyone purchase tickets.

In the past, one dance has been held, some free tickets were distributed and other persons had to pay for the tickets.

This year, Andrus directed that no free tickets be issued and that the cost of the ticket be reduced from $10 to $5.

Andrus also asked that two dances be held, making that each one be identical. Dances are scheduled at the Boise High School gymnasium and at the Boise State College gymnasium, and a grand march will be held at each dance.

Andrus also rejected "plain" invitations which were to be mailed to persons over the state and ordered that deluxe invitations, originally limited to 500, be printed and sent to everyone. He also had the invitations imprinted with the state seal at his own expense.

Davidson noted the chamber had planned and paid for the ball for several years "and all of a sudden we find we are not doing things right. It is our ball and we should be allowed to run it. We want to cooperate, but this is getting out of hand."

McGinnis said the original budget — for one ball — was roughly $8,000, but said the total package this year will be approximately $18,000.

"Should there be any profits — last time we made a small profit for the first time in the history of our participation — we'll be using it for community work," McGinnis said. "If there's a loss, we'll have to absorb it."

McGinnis said the chamber sponsors the dance to "welcome Idaho's official family" and "to give Boise an opportunity to show off a little bit to its elected officials."

Japanese talks suspended

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Negotiations between the United States and Japan aimed at drafting voluntary restraints on Japanese textile shipments to this country have been suspended, Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans said Wednesday.

"American industry does not feel that the negotiations are pursuing the kind of formula that is workable," Stans explained to a group of newsmen.

Stans said he met with American textile makers Monday night and was told a draft agreement then under discussion was not acceptable.

Although he said the talks were suspended as a result of the industry position, Stans denied that American textile makers hold veto power in the talks. He predicted that the discussions would resume within a few weeks.

Stans said the plan to which the American industry objected called for "specific limits" on some categories of textile imports but included no limitations on others.

Fund asked by church

JEROME — The United Pentecostal Church in Jerome is participating in the annual Christmas-for-Christ fundraising drive throughout the denomination in the U. S. and Canada.

Each family is challenged to contribute all or a major part of the money they would normally spend on gifts, trees, ornaments and decorations, so that new churches can be established in at least 30 large cities.

Prisoners stop work over hair

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (UPI)—Prisoners at the Washington State Penitentiary here remained locked in their cells Wednesday in the second day of a work stoppage at the prison over the wearing of long hair, mustaches and beards.

Warden Bob Rhay said the situation "remains the same" and it would be "difficult speculation as to when it will change."

"It's certainly not a relaxed situation," he said.

Tuesday morning, prisoners stopped work at their jobs in the climax to an apparently long-brewing dispute over the wearing of hair on their heads and faces.

Rhay said the reason the men were kept shorn was to be able to identify them.

He maintains his 360 member staff must be able to identify every prisoner and that requires clean shaven faces and reasonable hair length.

"This is not a democracy here," Rhay said. "We've got 1,389 men we have to keep track of."

Ruling may require 3 ballots for Idaho

BOISE (UPI)—Secretary of State Peter Cenarrusa said Tuesday the U.S. Supreme Court decision allowing 18-year-olds to vote in presidential and congressional elections may require three ballots in Idaho's 1972 election.

The high court's decision also said residency requirements for voting in presidential elections shall be no more than 30 days. Presently, Idaho requires 90 days for the federal offices, and in all other elections the residency is six months.

Idaho's minimum voting age of 21 will apply to state and local elections until changed by constitutional amendment.

Cenarrusa said in 1972 persons between 18 and 21 and residents of Idaho for 30 days and less than six months will receive a special ballot for presidential and vice president only. Those between 18 and 21 who have lived in Idaho for six months or more probably will vote another special ballot for congressional and senatorial offices.

Qualified electors over 21 would vote on a regular ballot, which combines presidential, congressional and state and local candidates.

In every war in the Revolution, Tennessee has supplied two or three times as many volunteers as were called for by the federal government.

In 1865 six men, most of them veterans of the Confederate Army, organized a secret fraternal society in Pulaski, Tenn., known as the Ku-Klux-Klan. In 1942 Adm. ## Pickup in sales forecast

CHICAGO — "The worst is now over and better times are ahead." That is the cheerful advice from Arthur M. Wood, president of Sears and Roebuck, Co., who anticipates a "moderate pickup" in retail sales during the first three months of 1971, followed by "accelerated" sales gains later in the spring.

Suspicious police...

POLICE armed with shotguns force four men out of a car and up against the wall of a Baltimore city bank, only to find out they were regular bank customers. Police became suspicious after noticing the men sat outside the bank each week when an armored truck delivered money. It turned out they were merely waiting for the bank to open in order to cash paychecks after working all night. (UPI)

Chavez out of prison

SALINAS, Calif. (UPI)— Cesar Chavez will spend Christmas outside of the "damp and leaky" prison where he has spent 20 days for defying a judge's order to halt a boycott against a Big Salinas Valley lettuce grower. About 400 persons, many of whom had participated in a vigil outside the prison since Chavez was sentenced, greeted him Wednesday night when he was freed. They then went to Mass to celebrate his release. The state Supreme Court in San Francisco ruled earlier Wednesday that the soft-spoken labor leader be removed from prison until the court can hold a hearing into his appeal of the contempt charges. "Needless to say, I'm extremely happy with the decision of the Supreme Court," Chavez told the crowd. "I'm well and fit and was treated very kindly by deputy sheriffs. I made a lot of friends inside." "This jail reminds me of a lot of the labor camps—damp and leaky. I would suggest to the citizens of Monterey County to build a new jail." Chavez, head of the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, was ordered jailed by Monterey County Superior Court Judge Gordon Campbell after he refused to obey the judge's injunction against a boycott effort aimed at grower Bud Antle, who said he has a long-standing contract with the Teamsters' union.

Solons request barley inclusion

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Idaho congressmen, Sens. Frank Church and Len Jordan, and Rep. Orval Hansen, Wednesday appealed to Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin to review his department's decision to exclude barley from the 1971 federal feed grain program. Citing information from the Idaho Wheat Growers Association, the three congressmen in a joint letter, said the proposed exclusion of barley from the program will deny Idaho growers options which are available to grain producers in other parts of the country.

The congressmen said the department's action places Idaho growers at a disadvantage in competing in the market with other grains. The letter said because of the proposed exclusion of barley, growers could lose both substantial federal support payments as well as the option to substitute barley production for wheat production. The delegation asked Hardin to give "serious consideration to an overall review of your department's decision to exclude barley."

Angela said roughed

ANGELA DAVIS, a black militant's arraigned on the charges of conspiracy, kidnap and murder. The charges were filed in court as she appeared before a judge in New York City. (UPI)

Angela said roughed

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI)— A lawyer for Angela Davis says the black activist was "man-handled" on a secret flight here from New York City to stand trial for murder, kidnaping and conspiracy. She also complained she had not been informed in advance of transfer plans. Margaret Burnham, a New York City attorney, made the charges Wednesday as Miss Davis appeared briefly in court and gave a clenched fist salute. Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire agreed to postpone arraignment until Jan. 6 so Miss Davis could retain California lawyers. Miss Burnham and John Abt, another New York City lawyer, acted as "courtesy" counsel for the former UCLA philosophy instructor Wednesday. Miss Burnham described Miss Davis' flight on a National Guard plane as "tiring and harrowing." She said the 20-year-old avowed Communist told her she had been "manhandled" in the move after she lost her court bids to fight extradition. Neither Miss Burnham nor Abt, who handled much of her appeal action, was notified in advance of plans to transfer her. McGuire issued a blanket gag rule forbidding attorneys and witnesses from making virtually any statements about the case to news media. Charges against Miss Davis are based on the allegation that she supplied the four guns used in the shootout.

League urges redraft

BOISE (UPI)—The League of Women Voters is urging state legislators to resubmit the proposed Idaho revised Constitution to the voters, it was announced Wednesday. In a letter containing an analysis of the 1970 vote on the revision and recommendations for further action on modernizing the document was sent to all Idaho legislators Wednesday.

Mrs. Clifford Dobbler, president of the league, said "lack of time was the decisive factor in the defeat of the revised constitution in the past election according to reports from local leagues. "The voters needed more time to study and compare the proposed revised constitution in order to permit them to make a well-considered decision."

She said in spite of the defeat of the revision nearly 75,000 Idahoans approved the revision and "thousands more have indicated they now recognize the need for a revision even if they were not ready to approve a revised constitution in 1970." She said it is difficult to find a single problem facing the state that does not "ultimately find its source in the present constitution. Adoption of the revised constitution would permit the citizens of Idaho to directly attack those problems and would make Idaho a more effective partner in the federal-state relationship."

Idaho leaders celebrate

BOISE (UPI)— Idaho's elected officials have varied plans for the Christmas holiday, but all indicated they will be spending the day with family and friends. Gov. and Mrs. Don Samuelson will travel to Burley to stay with their daughter, Mrs. Douglas Foth, her husband, and their two daughters. The Samuelson's son, Steve, will also join the group. Governor-elect Cecil Andrus and his wife plan to remain in Boise and celebrate Christmas with their family. Lieutenant Governor Jack Murphy has gone to his home town of Shoshone and will return after the first of the year. The Murphy's daughter Maureen will be married in Shoshone Dec. 30.

Secretary of State Pete Conrussa and his wife will fly to their ranch at Carey, and will spend Christmas with Mrs. Conrussa's parents. They will be joined by their son Joe, a commercial pilot and instructor. State Auditor Joe R. Williams will remain in Boise, where he will be joined by four of his seven children and two grandchildren. Attorney General Robert Robson and his wife will travel to Coeur d'Alene to spend the holidays with Robson's parents.

Nuclear site problems aired

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)— Oregon has asked the U.S. Department of Interior to assign a task force to study nuclear plant siting problems in the Mid-Columbia Basin area involving portions of five northeast Oregon counties. Gov. Tom McCall told his Nuclear Development Coordinating Committee Tuesday he will not designate the area as a nuclear park until a seven-point research program has been completed. "It would be an ignorant act," the governor said. "For me as a layman to say this area should be a nuclear park. There is not enough information available."

The Columbia-Blue Mountain Resource Conservation and Development Project has endorsed the nuclear park concept and wants the governor to designate the area as such. The basin includes portions of Wasco, Gilliam, Morrow and Umatilla Counties up to an elevation of 1,200 feet. Promoters in that region hope to attract a nuclear power plant on the banks of the Columbia. They propose to use the waste water for irrigating thousands of acres of arid land, and developing new agricultural production. Larry Wilkenson, the governor's nuclear coordinator, said he hopes preliminary studies of the area can be completed by June 1.

Workers get respite

OROFINO (UPI)— About 500 men working at Dworshak Dam near here have been given an unexpectedly long Christmas holiday because of the malfunction of a piece of machinery vital to construction of the facility. Construction at the dam was shut down Tuesday afternoon until Jan. 4 because of a malfunction in an underground rock crusher. This makes the third time in as many weeks that operations at the construction project on the north fork of the Clearwater River have been curtailed. Earlier this month two wildcat strikes slowed work on the dam: Concrete pouring at the structure was halted at 2 p.m. Tuesday due to the breakdown in the equipment used to make material for the concrete.

Bethlehem sealed off

BETHLEHEM, Israeli-occupied Jordan (UPI)—Israeli troops sealed off Bethlehem today to guard against terrorist attacks on Christmas pilgrims visiting the birthplace of Jesus Christ. Despite the precautions, the Suez Canal cease-fire made the Holy Land mood more peaceful than any Christmas since the 1967 Middle East war. Roads to this city of 30,000

Vessel goes down

JAKARTA (UPI)— A 60-ton service vessel bringing 44 foreign and Indonesian offshore oil workers home for Christmas capsized and sank early today in a collision in the Java Sea with 26 dead or missing. Eighteen persons were rescued and 14 bodies had been recovered by late afternoon. The 12 others missing were feared drowned in the disaster area 30 miles northeast of Jakarta harbor. A spokesman for the U.S. embassy reported six Americans were aboard the boat, the Northern Star, and three had been rescued.

Gifts of TV tapes

CHICAGO (UPI) — By Christmas, 1971, Santa may find requests for a new type of record player showing up in his mailbag — one that plays back the television shows you missed.

The player uses enclosed tape reels much like those now used on sound cassette recorders. It is designed to make child's play out of controlling what is shown on the home television screen.

If Johnny or Mary prefers the Flintstones to Captain Kangaroo, or vice versa, all that is needed is a cassette recording of his or her favorite inserted into the top of a player and the press of a button.

If they want to see the program — or part of the program — again, it will take just another push of a button.

When accompanied by a separate video recording machine, the kids can even watch their programs at the same time Mom and Dad record the programs they want to watch after the youngsters are in bed.

At least one manufacturer, Sony Corp. of Japan, says it has the technological ability to put the players and recorders on the market now. But Sony's representatives said during a recent demonstration here that it is holding back pending an agreement with other manufacturers on standardization of cassettes. The hope is that video cassettes would be as interchangeable as those on sound recorders.

Congressmen seeking to change seniority tradition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House members have discovered that seniority is a matter neither of law, holy writ, nor even a rule of the Congress. It is a tradition, and they are fixing to amend it a little at least.

This means that after January, survival alone will not guarantee a lawmaker's ascendance to the seats of the mighty. In picking the committee chairman who run the House, such previously irrelevant matters as health, age, ability and common sense may be considered along with unbroken service.

The key word there is "may." Mostly the old bulls who have been around longest are assured re-election to the chairmanships they have acquired merely by getting re-elected every two years and outlasting their fellows (to an average age last under 70).

But both Democrats and Republicans have devised machinery by which it is made not only possible but respectable for any member to challenge these crucial top committee assignments.

Opinions differ as to whether the recommended reform is enough for a system that has been blamed by some critics for most of the ills of Congress. But most members agree that it is all the House is ready to buy.

The separate Democratic and Republican plans were drafted by special committees on which, naturally, senior members were well represented. That of course made sense if the idea was to come up with something the two party caucuses would approve.

Republicans, under the chairmanship of Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr., R-N.Y., devised what the new citizens lobby, common cause, views as the better-of-the-two-plans. Under it, the party's committee on Servicemen committees will bring in its recommended slate of committee assignments, just as usual, except that it will be advised that in each case the member nominated as ranking minority member "need not be the member with the longest consecutive service on that committee."

Each such nomination will be subject to an automatic and secret vote by all party members. If any nominee flunks, the committee on committees will nominate somebody else.

Under the Democratic plan, as devised by a group headed by Rep. Julia Butler Hansen D-Wash., the recommendation of the party's committee on committees (which would "not necessarily follow seniority") could be challenged not only as to the chairman but as to any lesser assignment.

However, it would be up to some gutsy member (or maybe one who has already outraged the establishment and has nothing further to lose) to rise in caucus and challenge the choice. Nine others equally courageous would be needed to second his contest. Only there after could a secret ballot be had.

Sony said it expects to have its machines on the market for education, industry, government and related fields by the fall of 1971, and to the general public shortly thereafter.

Representatives said they are aiming at a price tag of about $400 for the player and $100 to $150 for the recorder, which would play or record in either color or black and white. They said the initial price would be higher.

Recording systems such as Sony's, which uses magnetic tape, are just one of the varieties which could be made available to customers in a year.

Energy and environment explained

TWIN FALLS — The compatibility of resource development, energy and environment was outlined Wednesday for the Twin Falls Rotary Club by Albert Carlson, Boise, president of the Idaho Power Co.

Carlson said it seems logical that Americans should develop resources in a manner which will result in the most economic utilization with the least disturbance to the natural environment. This is where the utilization of energy enters the picture.

Carlson then directed most of his comments to the increased utilization of the "cleanest and most versatile of all energy forms — electric energy."

"In our country most of the energy we use comes from coal, gas, oil and falling water," Carlson said, "and more recently the atom. Our job in the electric utility industry is to take these raw forms of energy and to upgrade them to a more convenient, clean and flexible form — electricity. Our industry has been doing this to a greater and greater degree."

Carlson said it is interesting to note that in spite of the fact that electricity provides over 20 per cent of the energy in this country, it contributes only 11.6 per cent of the pollution. He said, "In the next five years the U.S. will be facing serious energy crises in many areas. Severe shortages are developing in coal, oil and natural gas, and as a result, electric power generation will inevitably be affected."

"It is unfortunate but true that most of the developing shortages are a result of unrealistic regulatory decisions, small but vocal dissident groups voicing opposition to almost every new energy development, and last, but not least, political considerations — all of which have resulted in unrealistic and unreasonable delays in energy development.

"Because of our (Idaho Power) present hydro energy source and our ownership of substantial coal reserves in Wyoming, our company has built or has under construction ample generating facilities to meet all of our present and projected load requirements through 1978.

"Our construction program is well under way, and we have no foreseeable delays which would result in electric energy shortages in the area, we serve," he said.

Carlson noted several examples of electric energy helping to improve the environment. He said in Washington a new car crusher designed to compress junked autos into compact packages of scrap steel for reuse is powered by a 5,000 horsepower electric motor.

"Another illustration is the effective reduction of water pollution which will require a large expansion in sewage treatment facilities. A secondary sewage treatment plant to serve a population of 90,000 requires one-half million kilowatt-hours per year," he said.

These are just two of many ways electricity is helping to reduce pollution, Carlson said. Also speaking to club members was Rick Benfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Benfield, Twin Falls, who is studying to be a minister in Los Angeles.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago my father divorced my mother to marry a woman he had been seeing for two years. This is a small town, so everybody knew about it. My brother and I (then in high school), my mother, and even my father and the other woman suffered from the talk.

Now, three years later, I am older and (I hope) wiser, and I now look back on the ordeal as a valuable, if painful, learning experience. My brother and I have spent a lot of time with my father and his wife, and altho we were prepared to hate her, we cannot hate a woman who has made our father so happy. I can't recall that mother ever made dad smile or laugh. She picked at him, and belittled him constantly. He could never do anything to please her.

Dad's present wife treats him with such kindness and love, he has never known such happiness.

I love my mother, and do not condone what my father did to her, but now I can understand why he did it.

LEARNED A LESSON

DEAR LEARNED: I hope you remember that valuable "learning experience" and apply it to your own marriage one day.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible for a woman to love and despise her husband at the same time?

I am married to a good and faithful man whom I love with all my heart, but every time he gets with other people he thinks he has to be the center of things, so he entertains the folks with dirty jokes. He doesn't care if there are young people or ladies present, he goes right ahead and uses shocking language to amuse the crowd. His code is, "Anything for a laugh."

I am afraid that one of these days some decent man will take offense at some of the vulgar things my husband says in the presence of ladies, and will sock him. (I almost wish he would. My talking has done no good.)

Otherwise, he is such a kind and charming man. Vulgarity is his only vice. What is wrong with him? And how can I help him?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: First, I'll tell you what I think is "wrong" with him. He is insecure and is trying desperately to be liked. He mistakes the laughter his vulgarity evokes for "acceptance." (Many laugh more out of embarrassment than enjoyment.) You can help him by telling him with loving kindness that he is too good a man to sink so low in order to get attention.

DEAR ABBY: An extremely attractive young woman came to work here recently, and she has us all completely bewildered.

She is fashionably dressed, has a great figure, is intelligent, but she has a mustache! She's a brunette, which makes matters worse.

When I first met her I almost told her she had a "smudge" under her nose, then I realized it was hair! Is there a subtle way to tell her it ruins her appearance?

No one here can imagine how an otherwise worldly, stylish, well-groomed woman can go around looking like that. Another mystery. She is married!

OFFICE GANG

DEAR GANG: There is no "subtle" way to tell a lady she has a mustache. She's probably aware of it and doesn't think it detracts from her appearance. And there is just an outside chance that her husband likes it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BIG BEN: If it's "honeymoon salad" you're interested in, first get the lettuce together, then ask the tomato.

Mrs. Held Nowby, Shoshone, was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Connie Harris, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a pantsuit. The top was of white crushed velvet with rolled collar and long bell sleeves. Her net veil, caught with a crown of flowers, was floor-length.

She wore an opal and pearl ring, which belonged to her great-grandmother. Her bridal bouquet was a spray of yellow and orange carnations.

Mrs. Judy Smith, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Best man was the bride's brother, Fred Silva.

Judges uphold rulings

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — School principals who stick by their guns when students challenge their regulations in court will find judges upholding their school rules, says a leading school solicitor.

William Fearen, past president of the Pennsylvania School Board Solicitors Association, challenges the widely held view that recent court decisions have eliminated school's powers over student dress and speech.

Fearen, at a Pennsylvania School Boards convention here, said his studies have convinced him courts will uphold a school principal who "stands by his regulations," even if the judge thinks the rules are wrong.

He cited a federal case in the South where a school district prohibited students from wearing beards.

"The courts thought this rule was nonsense, but the judges would not substitute their judgment for the school board's," Fearen said.

Sorority has gift exchange

HEYBURN — The Alpha Delta Kappa teachers' sorority held its Christmas party and gift exchange Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Durfee, Heyburn.

Dynamite fished out

HAILEY — A fishing expedition earlier this week turned out to be successful for Blaine County Sheriff Orville Drexler and David Iyle, part-time Hailey city policeman.

The two fished several hundred sticks of dynamite from the Big Wood River above Ketchum, Sheriff Drexler said today. He said he was notified of the dynamite Monday by an individual who thought at first it was dead fish, but on second glance discovered to be dynamite.

Drexler said he and Iyle, who used a wetsuit, spent Monday and Tuesday fishing out the dynamite.

"I don't know for sure where it (the dynamite) came from," Sheriff Drexler said. "The sticks could have possibly been stolen or someone could have had an excess and decided to take the easy way out in disposing of them."

Drexler said dynamite which has soaked in water is no longer dangerous.

He said dynamite has been reported stolen from several places this fall in the area and said he is checking into this matter to see if there is any connection.

Also, he said, he is checking the possibility the dynamite is connected with the blast that has occurred this fall in the Hailey-Ketchum area.

The reported blast occurred at a headgate on the Fox Acres Ranch Reservoir, on Clearley Creek, two miles east of Hailey.

Lana's day set

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Don Samuelson Wednesday asked all Idahoans to honor Miss Rodeo America, Lana Dee Brackenbury Monday and proclaimed the day as "Lana Brackenbury Day in the Gem State."

Miss Brackenbury, the Idaho Miss Rodeo from Jerome, won the national title last month during a pageant in Las Vegas. Samuelson said "I ask all citizens in Idaho to join in appreciation and a salute of respect and affection for Miss Rodeo America."

Special services tonight

Christmas-Eve services will be held at 7 p. m. in the Jerome First Christian Church.

The annual Christmas Eve carols and candlelighting will be held at 7:30 p. m. in the Jerome First United Methodist Church and the public is invited.

Rev. John Garrabrandt, pastor of the church, said each worshiper will be given a printed souvenir order of worship and candle to be lighted at the climax of the service.

Student recognition day will be observed by the Jerome Methodist Church Sunday at the 11:10 a. m. service. Taking part will be Betty Clubb, University of Idaho; Rosella Miller, Stevon-Henager Business College; Rick Otto, Jerome senior high school, and James Wiseman, Jerome junior high school.

The Burley Methodist Church will have a candlelight communion service at 8 p. m. today with special music by the junior and adult choirs. Narrating the event will be Rev. George Trobough. This service will be broadcast over KBAR radio station.

Also at 8 p. m. today, the Burley First Christian Church will observe a candlelight communion service.

Zion Lutheran Church will have its Christmas Eve service at 7:30 p. m. with children participating. Special services also are planned for 9:30 a. m. Friday.

The Catholic Church in Burley will have a midnight mass today and masses will be celebrated at 9 and 11 a. m. Friday.

The most magical time in all the year — Christmas Eve — is tonight and children in Magic Valley join the young, and young in heart, and the rest of the world in anticipation.

Whether Santa Claus visits after the children are asleep, leaving his bounty under the tree to be pounced on with glee Christmas morning, or gifts are opened Christmas Eve, the big day has a way of "sneaking up" on adults, busy with shopping, cooking and gift wrapping, and of seeming to never come for the youngsters.

Wary merchants and clerks will draw sighs of relief as stores close early tonight and employees anticipate the Christmas weekend with their families. All-state and county offices will be closed and in many towns some local businesses, such as clothing stores or car dealers, also will be closed Saturday.

Open house is slated from 5 to 8 p. m. today at the Burley Elks Lodge No. 1384, with gifts to be given to the needy.

In all communities, church programs have presented the Nativity story in word and song last Sunday and many with extra programs during the past few days. Christmas Eve services are also planned in many churches, with Catholic, Lutheran, Episcopal and some other Protestant churches having either midnight masses or candlelight services earlier in the evening.

While Christmas in America is traditionally a day for gathering with families, relatives and friends, it is also a lonely time for many. The Salvation Army serves this need with its annual Christmas dinner at 7 p. m. Friday at the Salvation Army Shelter in Twin Falls.

Winter sports enthusiasts will be flocking to the ski areas and mountains for snowmobiling over the weekend. New snow is reported throughout the valley with excellent skiing conditions on the slopes.

All ski areas in Magic Valley will be closed Christmas day, except Sun Valley, but all will be open from Saturday on throughout the holiday vacation.

For those of less athletic interests, a drive to view the Christmas lights in their own or neighboring communities is a pleasant addition to the Christmas season.

One of the most outstanding lighting displays throughout the valley is that of George Byard, former Shoshone resident, who now lives on Interstate 80 near Gooding. He has extensive lights and a winter scene of snow men in his yard which have drawn comments from passing motorists.

Wendell reports winners

WENDELL — Gertrude McClasick is the first place winner of the Wendell Christmas lighting contest, with a religious theme. "Upon a Midnight Clear." She will receive a $25 cash prize.

Fred McCloud placed second with Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer; Bob Burks, third with a lighted peace symbol; Ron Koll, fourth place for the most original lighting, and Bill Parfitt.

Honorable mention went to Bob Simerly, Tom Smith and Arnold Runyon.

The contest was sponsored by the Wendell Chamber of Commerce under the direction of Woodrow Harris and Myrtle Schrenk. About 50 displays were considered by the judges.

Aid given

BURLEY — Officers of the Burley Elks Lodge and their wives will distribute food boxes for 55 needy families in the area tonight under the direction of Charles Shaddock, leading knight.

Gifts and the food boxes were packed by lodge officers after "outstanding achievement in fostering the finest ideals of the acting profession."

Honored

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Gregory Peck received the Screen Actors Guild Annual Award for "outstanding achievement in fostering the finest ideals of the acting profession."

Peck's acceptance speech was broadcast on television.

Peck, who has won an Oscar, a Golden Globe and a BAFTA, is the first actor to receive the award since it was created in 1954.

The award is presented to the actor who is judged to have made the most significant contribution to the art of acting during the past year.

Union leaders impound votes

NAMPA — Amalgamated Meat Cutters union officials have impounded all ballots taken Monday evening on a proposal to raise funds for striking meat cutters.

J. Paul Mals, secretary-treasurer of Local 568, which has chapters throughout southern Idaho, including Magic Valley, told the Times-News that the union's executive board has decided to impound the ballots and has decided not to count them.

It had been reported earlier in Twin Falls that union members at Sudd and Gooding had voted against the proposal, an apparent break in the secrecy of the ballot.

Mals said that union members "throughout the nation" have responded to the union's appeal for financial assistance.

"Checks and pledges are coming in from throughout the nation in amounts far beyond our expectations," Mals said.

"In view of this, and the fact that it has been brought to our attention that the assessment resolution would cause undue hardships on some of our members," the balloting was invalidated, Mals said.

The union local will propose a carefully worded "new election" which would reduce the assessment on the members, Mals said.

12 highway projects planned during 1971

SHOSHONE — Federal primary and secondary road programs for Idaho in the coming year, listed today by the Idaho Board of Highway Directors, shows 12 of the 83 projects of the state will be located in District 2 with headquarters in Shoshone.

The second district covers a 10-county area from the Nevada and Utah state lines north through Custer County. Most of the 12 projects are located in the southern half of the district with one lone project, five miles of U. S. 93 A in the vicinity of Willow Creek Summit in Custer County, in the northern portion. This is classified as safety improvement, a federal project and consists of widening and paving.

Other district programs include five interstate projects. Plans call for construction of 7 miles of Interstate 80N between Tuttle and Wendell, which will extend the existing interstate structure by seven miles to the northwest. Another Interstate 80N project involves improvements at the junction with Interstate 15W in Jerome County to Idaho Highway 50 in Twin Falls County. This is also classed as a safety improvement.

Landscaping of I-80N in the vicinity of the Burley interchange involves another project.

Two projects on I-15W are scheduled in the Raft River area. One involves new pavement from the present Junction of J-80N to Raft River and the other is a safety improvement program in the same area.

On the state secondary and primary system projects in addition to the Custer County one include 5.2 miles west of Shoshone on Idaho Highway 28; 10.6 miles of Idaho Highway 24 east from Dietrich; the West Five-Points intersection improvement on U. S. 93-30 in Twin Falls; improvement on Idaho Highway 74 south of Twin Falls at the airport road intersection; 20 miles of paving on Idaho Highway 27 from Oakley to Burley, and bridge and culvert improvements between Burley and Rupert.

In the third district between Twin Falls and Boise I-80N will have two projects including a rest area at Mountain Home and 18.8 miles of new grading and structures between Idaho Highway 68 and Hammett on the east. Highway 68 from a point eight miles north of Mountain Home is slated for a 6 mile improvement including widening and paving running to the north.

District 4, in the Lewiston area, has only eight projects this year with the second district slated for 12 and other districts ranging from 14 to 18 projects depending on size, location and highway needs.

Board members point out this year the road building program in Idaho will cost about $48-million with an estimated $20-million allocated to Interstate highway system improvement and expansion and another $18-million estimated in needs for the primary and secondary road system projects.

Since bids have not been let for the 1971 program, figures are only engineering cost estimates.

Interstate crash hurts 3 persons

BURLEY — Three persons were hospitalized early today, two of them here and one in Twin Falls as a result of an accident involving a truck and semi-trailer, a police car and passenger car on Interstate 80N.

State police were still at the scene late this morning with divers and crane equipment attempting to remove a large truck from the Ridgeway Canal.

Driver of the truck, William Carlyle, 28, Denver, Colo., told officers he swerved in an attempt to miss a small foreign car which was changing lanes and lost control of the truck. It left the interstate, went into the divider area and then plunged into the canal in about three feet of water.

Carlyle was being treated for minor injuries and exposure at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital in Twin Falls.

He was taken from the scene to a service station and notified state police who returned to the scene to investigate the accident. At the scene another vehicle, driven by Lance R. Wulrich, 26, Malad, a navy man on leave, crashed into the unoccupied state police vehicle.

Wulrich and a passenger, Marilyn K. Wilhite, 21, Malad, were hospitalized in Casia Memorial Hospital. Both were listed in good condition and hospital attendants said they would probably be released later in the day.

Airport funds bid examined

TWIN FALLS — Procedure for applying for federal funds for improvement of the old portion of the main runway at the Twin Falls City-County airport was reviewed at a meeting here Wednesday with Nance Early, Salt Lake City, FAA official.

Jean Milfar, city manager, said he, Dale Riedesel, engineer, Harry Merrick, airport manager, and George Michaels, city engineer, met with Early, Federal Aviation Administration engineer in charge of the southern Idaho area, to discuss funds available under federal programs.

Milfar said plans discussed included funding a work program for the summer of 1971 to resurface and improve the old portion of the runway and to resurface apron and taxi areas. He said specifications for airport runways are constantly changing because of the increasing size and changing operations of aircraft. Local plans also call for revising the elevation at the west end of the runway.

Federal funds are available on a basis of up to 70 per cent federal and 30 per cent local, depending on the type of project, but average about 55 per cent federal and 45 per cent local for area plans, Milfar said.

Real meaning of yule lies in Christ's gift

By KENNETH C. HEMPLE, PASTOR
Tyler Street Baptist Church
and thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall save his people from their sins." Matthew 1:21.

Sometime back one of the big city newspapers carried a story in which a woman made the comment "they are even trying to put religion into Christmas." Yet, there are many like her that do not know the real meaning of Christmas. Our text declares that when Jesus would be born, he would come to do something for mankind that would be God's most priceless gift to the human race. Before Jesus was ever born, God said He would send His Son, born of a woman, to redeem men and to make them sons of God. Picture the humble stable where the Christ child was born, with the shadow of the cross over it. For how could the Son of God have redeemed us had he not died for us.

Today, we think of Christmas only as the birthday of Christ, but God would have us to realize that he grew up and went to the cross to pay the price for man's sin. (1 Peter 2:24) He further wanted us to realize that because of the resurrection that this same Jesus would come again. (Acts 1:11)

It would seem significant that Christ who was born nearly 2,000 years ago, would make His second appearance in the not too distant future. There is little given in scripture telling of His birth compared to the many passages that tell of His second coming. Could it be that as the shepherds and the wise men came and worshipped the Christ child in the past, that in the near future the Christian world will once again fall in its knees and worship the King of Kings when He comes again. The real meaning of Christ to the Christian is found in the fact that because of accepting Christ as personal Saviour, we have received the forgiveness of sins, (John 1:12), and have thus found God's gift to be a real thing in our lives and in our homes. Make Christmas more than festivity, gifts and parties. Let Christ have a part in your life and home. One of the greatest joys a family could have this Christmas is to celebrate the day knowing that this year has been different because they know Christ as their personal savior.

No wonder the Apostle Paul said, "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift." 2 Corth. 9:15.
A little child,
A little star,
A stable rude,
The door ajar,
Yet in that place,
So crude, forlorn,
The hope of all
The World was born.

Australian cheese making techniques said ahead U.S.

LOGAN - In some ways, New Zealand and Australia have cheese manufacturing techniques which are ahead of those of the United States.

Dr. C. Aronson Ernstrom, head of department of food science and industries, Utah State University, expressed this opinion upon returning from a recent five-week stay in the two countries.

He visited New Zealand for three weeks as consultant for the New Zealand Rennet Company. Then he spent two weeks in Australia, where he led a discussion at the Eighteenth International Dairy Congress in Sydney.

In these countries, he observed some labor-saving mechanical processes that can greatly speed up the manufacturing of cheddar cheese.

Dr. Ernstrom said, "The Australians are perfecting machines and mechanical processes which are superior to current United States methods for manufacturing cheddar cheese."

Canal meet set

Forage use on Challis forest area said excellent

MACKAY - This past year was an excellent forage season on the Mackay ranger district of the Challis National Forest, state's Glade Quiller, range conservationist.

Quiller said this was due to above normal summer precipitation. Permittances on several allotments were given extended grazing seasons and livestock left the forest in good condition on all allotments.

Quiller said the ranger district supplied forage for 3,335 head of cattle, 10,720 sheep and an estimated 735 head of horses during 1970.

The cattle, owned by 51 cattlemen, grazed on 13 allotments and the sheep, owned by eight sheepmen, grazed on nine allotments. The horse use was made district-wide, mostly for recreation purposes.

Quiller said a review of grazing records from 1960 to the present shows cattle numbers

Idaho's dry bean production up 10%

BOISE - Commercial dry beans produced in Idaho during 1970 totaled 1,974 million hundredweight, a 10 per cent drop from 2,170 million hundredweight in 1969, according to State Agriculture Director Jerry Fielder.

The reporting service notes Idaho growers harvested 105,000 acres, 6,000 above 1969. Yield per acre was 1,883 pounds, compared to 1,820 last year.

The commercial class breakdown revealed a 24 per cent increase for pintos, 18 per cent rise for pinks, a 15 per cent drop for great northern and a slight decrease for small reds.

Pintos, the leading variety produced in Idaho, totaled 984,000 hundredweight - as compared with 707,000 hundredweight a year ago. The production of pinks was 409,000 hundredweight in 1970 compared with 348,000 hundredweight in 1969.

Production of garden seed beans in Idaho for 1970 was 386,000 hundredweight as compared with 38,500 hundredweight for 1969.

The per acre yield of the 1970 crop at 1,760 pounds compares with 1,460 pounds a year ago.

Livestock income unchanged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) - There was little or no improvement in net incomes of California farmers during 1970, according to State Agriculture Director Jerry Fielder.

Fielder made the observation Monday in reporting that California crop production this year totaled a record high 11.1 million tons up three per cent from 1969.

But he said rising production costs offset most of the crop gains and thus wiped out any chance of a significant increase in net farm income.

"Rising production costs," he said, "coupled with higher wages and interest costs, and the large amounts of capital required to mechanize our specialty crops continue to place many of our producers in a critical financial squeeze."

Fielder said growers achieved all-time high totals in the production of sugar beets, plums, prunes, broiler chickens and dairy products. He said the navel orange harvest was the largest since the 1944-45 season and the state's wheat crop was the largest in almost 70 years.

But he said production of cotton was below average for the second straight year mainly because of insects and disease.

Deep pit cage house described for layers

CHICAGO - An effective, economical system of housing laying chickens in a deep pit cage laying house was described at the 1970 winter meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers (ASAE) in the Sherman House, Chicago.

Charles W. Klitridge, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Maine, Orono, said the system developed in Maine works especially well in colder climates, where it is difficult to handle manure during the winter months because of cold temperature and snow accumulation.

"With the deep pit manure handling system, manure can be removed at yearly or two-year intervals," he explained. "The manure can be handled with the conventional manure handling equipment since the manure during its storage in the pit dries to a moisture content of approximately 50 per cent. Less weight and bulk need to be handled as compared with liquid or fresh manure."

"Odors which are present during the cleanout period are practically nonexistent during the storage period. Most crop farmers are much more interested in securing manure from a deep pit than from other manure handling systems. The partially dried manure lends itself to complete drying for feed or fertilizer."

The "Maine Deep Pit Cage Laying House" consists of a conventional laying structure over a manure pit approximately eight feet deep. A wood floor is constructed below the cages with "appropriate openings for the manure to drop into the pit area."

The poultry house usually is built on a site which slopes enough so that the ground at one end of the building is at the lower floor level and the other is at the upper floor level, with doors at the lower end of the house to permit entering the pit area.

The manure usually is removed between flocks of birds, Klitridge said, although some poultrymen have removed it while the birds are still housed. "Most of the deep pit cage laying houses in Maine are four rows wide, triple deck" with a full stair step, he said. Three brown egg birds usually are housed in each 12 by 18-inch cage. A service area, with egg room usually is constructed into one end of the building.

Although the cost of the deep pit cage laying house is more than the conventional floor system by "approximately 10 per cent, or 30 to 40 cents per square foot," Klitridge pointed out that the cost of removing manure from cage laying houses is considerably less with a deep pit handling system as compared with conventional systems. "The yearly saving using the deep pit will soon pay for the additional cost of the construction of the deep pit cage house," he said.

One of the biggest problems in the deep pit cage laying system is leakage of water into the pit after a supply of manure has been accumulated, but Klitridge said that "with proper construction, selection of equipment, and location of the building, the deep pit will remain dry."

Crooks-led Bruins claim 58-49 victory over Tigers

IDAHO FALLS—Twin Falls Bruins put four men in double scoring figures, getting a big boost from fromman Gerry Crooks, Wednesday night to drop the Idaho Falls Tigers 58-49 and break a modest two-game winning streak. Twin Falls led throughout the game although Idaho Falls turned loose a full-court press that belted a 13-point Bruin lead to three in the third period before the Bruins could meet the challenge. Crooks, a 6-3 senior, was pressed into starting service on short notice as 6-6 Kurt Standley sprained an ankle just prior to the game and was unable to compete. Crooks hit the first point of the night for Twin Falls and turned in a fine 13 for 14 performance at the free throw line.

His shooting buoyed Twin Falls' early shooting as the Bruins outscored Idaho Falls only one from the field but converted on 28 of 37 free throw chances to mount the big difference.

Idaho Falls used a 1-2-2 zone against the Bruins but Twin Falls picked it apart and moved inside it repeatedly. Meanwhile, the Bruins guard scoring regained its touch after last week's slump with Mike Crandall hitting 19 and Walt Sinclair adding 12.

Twin Falls took a 30-30 halftime advantage and stretched that 44-14 early in the third period when Idaho Falls decided to go with the press. The action shook the Bruins but the Tigers never quite up. In the final period Idaho Falls held to go ball hawking, resulting in several fouls. Twin Falls his well during that stretch with Crooks again leading the way with eight for eight.

Twin Falls sophomores racked up another victory, easily picking up the preliminary.

Wickel hits 31 as Trojans cop Dietrich holiday crown

DIETRICH—Wickel staged a 31-point scoring display Wednesday night to lead the Raft River Trojans past the Dietrich Blue Devils 72-58 and into their second holiday tournament title in as many weeks. Earlier, the Bliss Bears paced by the late scoring of Ray Tachmann and Leo, came from behind in the final period to top the Twin Falls Juniors 58-53 for the consolation honors.

Wickel turned loose an assortment of inside turn-around and jump shots to nullify the press of the Dietrich team. Raft River, which nipped the 61-60 Saturday night for the Declo tourney honors, jumped in front 20-10 in the first eight minutes and that just about told the story.

By halftime the Trojans were on top 37-28 and over the second half the Devils could cut the deficit to 10 points only on a couple of occasions. Wickel's scoring was well balanced, hitting 7, 9, 7, and 8 in the respective quarters.

Bliss put together a 21-point fourth quarter to erase a six and seven-point margin Twin Falls held through the middle periods. After the teams tied at 14-all in the first post, Twin Falls moved ahead 27-20 and 42-37 at the next two quarter stops.

Late Taylor shot lets Idaho nip Washington

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Idaho Vandals nipped the University of Washington 71-70 in college basketball Wednesday night when Malcolm Taylor's 10-foot jump shot with just three seconds left.

Washington led the Vandals 70-67 with just 50 seconds left. With 40 seconds to go, Taylor tipped in a field goal from underneath to make it 70-69.

John Nelson hauled in a rebound with 10 seconds left and the Vandals called timeout. On the in-bound play, Idaho let the clock run to three seconds and Taylor then dropped in the winning goal.

Taylor led the winners with 21 points and Donn Beano added 14. Steve Hawes of the losers took game honors with 27 points and Lewis Nelson added 18. Hawes hauled in 17 rebounds.

40 named to NFC's all-stars

NEW YORK (UPI)—Veterans Morlyn Olsen of the Los Angeles Rams and Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants head a 40-man delegation of All-Stars who will represent the National Football Conference in the Pro Bowl Jan. 24 against the American Football Conference.

George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears and president of the NFL, announced Wednesday the players selected by the 13 conference coaches, who were not allowed to vote for members of their own squad.

Olsen, who has played in this annual post-season game in each of his nine seasons in the NFL, leads an experienced defensive corps that includes Bob Lilly of the Dallas Cowboys, Larry Wilson of the St. Louis Cardinals, Willie Wood of the Green Bay Packers, David Jones of the Rams, Mel Renfro of the Cowboys and Dick Butkus of the Bears.

Tarkenton will be making his sixth Pro Bowl appearance and will be joined on the offense by veterans Jackie Smith of the Cardinals, Bob Brown of the Rams and John Brodie of the San Francisco Forty Niners.

Other offensive stars selected were: Gale Gillingham and Carroll Dale of the Packers, Dick Gordon of the Bears, Gene Washington and Dave Osborn of the Minnesota Vikings, Gene Washington of the Forty Niners, Charlie Sanders and Ed Flanagan of the Detroit Lions, Charlie Cowan and Tom Mack of the Rams, Ernie McMillan and MacArthur Lane of the Cardinals, John Niland of the Cowboys, Len Hauss and Larry Brown of the Redskins and Ron Johnson of the Giants.

Barry, Nets swamp Condors

WEST HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI)—Rick Barry scored 41 points for the second straight game Wednesday night to snap a New York three-game losing streak and lead the Nets to a 116-95 victory over the Pittsburgh Condors.

Barry tallied 18 points in the first half, but the Nets still trailed, 52-50. Bill Melchioni scored 10 points in the third quarter as New York went in front, 81-78.

In the fourth quarter, Barry led a 16-6 spurt with seven points to put the Nets on top 87-84 with 7:40 left. New York increased its lead to more than 20 points as the Condors failed to score for almost six minutes.

Picks coach

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Bennie Ellender, who coached Arkansas State to the small college football championship and a Pecan Bowl victory this season, will become the head football coach at Tulane University.

The announcement from Tulane was expected today. Ellender, 45, will succeed Jim Pittman who resigned last week to become head coach at Texas Christian University.

Sojourner led all scorers with 25 points, pulled down 18 rebounds and blocked 10 Bulldog shots in the effort. Fresno placed five players in double figures in the battle, Forward Jerry Pender tallied 22 to lead the fray.

The score traded hands up until about three minutes before the half, when Weber went ahead 30-28.

Weber slowly widened the margin in the second stanza, until Fresno's leading scorers fouled out, including center Bob Gurns and guard Clarence Metcalf with 8:04 left to play. The consistent scoring of Phil Johnson's Wildcats pushed the home team to its comfortable 14-point margin.

Minico builds up early lead, rolls to 79-57 decision over Burley

RUPERT — The Minico Spartans, still smarting from a 67-49 overtime loss to Bonnaville Monday, rebounded at the expense of arch-rival Burley Wednesday night for a 79-57 non-conference victory. The game was close only in the opening minutes when Minico managed a 6-4 score. Then Rulon Barlow hit twice and John Fennell went underneath for another field goal to help explode the Spartans into a 22-12 first-quarter edge.

Burley, holding a 15-point halftime lead, outlasted a Minico second-half rally to claim the preliminary 43-37.

Passers to dominate pro draft

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Paul Bixler, veteran director of player personnel of the Cleveland Browns, said Wednesday 1970 was truly the year of the quarterback in college football and feels at least 10 of them will go early in the pro draft.

The professional football draft will be held Jan. 28-29 and teams in need of a quarterback will have a lot to select from, said Bixler. He said the top three prospects are Archie Manning of Mississippi, Jim Plunkett of Stanford and Lynn Dickey of Kansas State.

Manning is the most elusive of the three. He can run and he still has a gun for an arm," said Bixler. "Plunkett and Dickey are pro-style back up passers. They all have great arms.

Maryland coach Lefty Driesell, who claimed South Carolina's John Ribcock hit him in the mouth, had suggested any player seen throwing punches be suspended for "two or three games."

Burley opened the game trying to front Minico's big men underneath but the Spartans showed patience against the play and when opportunity presented itself used the overthrow to get inside.

The Spartans, after building up the 10-point first period lead, pushed in front by 14 at halftime and early in the third quarter mounted a 22-point margin. Burley flurried back late in the period to 14 again but in the final quarter Minico just pushed slowly and inexorably away.

CSI climbs to seventh in national J.C. rankings

The College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles, riding a 10-0 record, climbed from 18th to seventh in the national junior college ratings this week — but, ironically, still couldn't get past Casper, Wyo., a team they defeated by 20 points.

The Eagles and Casper were tied for seventh, CSI making the biggest jump of the week as the top four places remained the same and Ferrum Va., the team which nipped CSI by one in the opening game of last year's national tournament, jumping ahead of Casper from sixth to fifth.

Vicennes, Ind., the defending national titlist, remained No. 1, getting eight out of a possible 19 first-place votes. San Jacinto, Tex., stayed in second with its 14-0 mark with Robert Morris, Pa., third. Brovard, Fla., was fourth, followed by Ferrum Va., and Kilgore, the team that topped CSI in the last game of the national meet, moving into sixth.

After CSI and Casper, ninth went to Martin College, Tenn., and Hutchinson, Kan., 8-2, was 10th. Arizona Western is team which just might end up playing in this area in the inter-regional playoff next spring, made its first appearance, claiming 20th. CSI ranking is the highest yet for the school, eighth being the previous best.

Now spread across the country for the Christmas and semester break, the Eagles won't taste action again until Jan. 6, when they open a four-day, three-game home stand. They will play Idaho State frosh Jan. 6 and follow on Jan. 8 with University of Idaho frosh and Jan. 9 with Utah frosh. Jan. 11 Treasure Valley Community College of Ontario comes in with what is reported to be one of its best clubs ever.

Despite the 10-0 ranking, Coach Jerry Hale cautions against any over optimism in returning to the national tournament this spring. "North Idaho is a fine ball club and without (Ralph) Palomar they would have beaten us," he said of the club's last outing in Coeur d'Alene. "They run patterns very well and shot well from the outside against us. Ralph took it to them underneath or we would have been in real trouble."

Coach Hale pointed out the regionals will be played in Coeur d'Alene this year. He added Treasure Valley is a bit shorter than CSI "but they have some boys who can knock the eye out of the bucket."

And going a step further, if necessary, he pointed out the regional champion will have to play the winner of the Arizona-New Mexico region for the right to go to nationals. "I am acquainted with some of the boys Arizona Western has playing for it and they are fine ball players. I'm kind of guessing that they will be the favorite down there. But if they don't win it, the team that comes up this way for the inter-regional is going to be a tough ball club."

Brodie beats Page for UPI's pro player of year honors

NEW YORK (UPI) — San Francisco's John Brodie and Minnesota's Alan Page, who will be colliding Sunday at Metropolitan Stadium in Minnesota, finished 1-2 in the balloting for the United Press International National Football Conference "Player of the Year" in 1970.

Brodie became the fifth consecutive quarterback to win the award in voting by 39 sportswriters and broadcasters from the 13 NFC cities. The San Francisco quarterback received 12 votes to seven for Page while 10 other players received one or two votes each.

San Francisco plays Minnesota Sunday in an NFC playoff game in which Brodie will be trying to pass over the rush of the Minnesota front four, paced by the charging and Carl Eller.

Brodie is the third player from San Francisco to win the award since it was inaugurated in 1953. Joe Perry in 1954 and Y.A. Tittle in 1957 were the other two.

The last time a running back took the award was in 1965 when Jimmy Brown of the Cleveland Browns received the accolade. Since then the winners have been Bart Starr of Green Bay in 1966, John Unitas of Baltimore in 1967, Earl Morrall of Baltimore in 1968, Roman Gabriel of Los Angeles in 1969.

Brodie led the Forty Niners to their first division title in the 25-year history of the franchise when he threw three touchdown passes in the regular season finale against Oakland last Sunday to nail down the crown.

The performance climaxed the best season of Brodie's career as he hit an 223 passes for 378 yards, for a 59 completion percentage. He had only 10 passes intercepted and gained an average of 7.9 yards per pass.

Brodie, in his 14th season, was ranked as the fourth best active passer in the NFC and eighth on the all-time list when the 1970 season began. He has thrown 300 or more passes every season since 1962, except in 1963 when he was injured and missed 11 games.

49ers and Brodie cop 2 firsts

NEW YORK (UPI) — San Francisco fans cheered two "firsts" today and both could be traced to John Brodie's rifle arm.

The Forty-Niners won their first title since gaining a franchise when San Francisco captured the National Football Conference's Western Division crown last Sunday. Enroute, Brodie gained his first passing title in 14 seasons as a pro.

Brodie led in two of the four rating categories — 34 touchdowns and a 2.8 interception percentage. He was second in the other two — a 69.0 passing percentage and 7.78 average yards gained per pass.

Larry Brown of Washington set a Redskins rushing record of 1,125 yards and it was enough to make him the National Football League's leading ground gainer this season.

Dick Gordon of the Chicago Bears was the NFC's top pass receiver with 71 catches for 1,026 yards and 13 touchdowns, while Fred Cox, Minnesota's kicking specialist, captured the scoring title with 125 points. Cox booted 35 extra points and 30 field goals for his total.

Touch of old and new keys playoff battles

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

Pro football's third—and final season this year opens Saturday with a touch of the old, a touch of the new, a few familiar faces and quite a few unknowns.

After a six-game exhibition schedule for most teams and a 14-game regular season grind, the third season—the National Football League playoffs—open with doubleheaders Saturday and Sunday.

Cincinnati (American Conference Central) is at Baltimore (American Conference Eastern) at 1 p.m. EST Saturday in a duel of division champions while Detroit, the NFC central runnerup, plays at Dallas, the National Eastern clamp, at 4 p.m. EST.

On Sunday, Miami, the AFC Eastern runnerup, meets Oakland, AFC Western champion, at 4 p.m. EST and San Francisco, the NFC Western winner, takes on Minnesota, NFC Central titlist, at 1 p.m. EST in Bloomington.

Of the eight playoff contenders, three have been "all the way" before and all three have failed. Oakland lost to the Green Bay Packers in the 1968 Super Bowl, Baltimore bowed to the New York Jets the following year and Minnesota lost to Kansas City last January in the fourth Super Bowl.

Detroit and Dallas are other old faces. The Lions were one of the powerhouses of the National Football League in the 1950s and the Cowboys have been constant visitors to the playoffs in the last five years.

The new faces belong to San Francisco, Miami and Cincinnati. San Francisco won its first division title in 25 years this season and the Dolphins and Bengals are both expansion teams who have struck gold.

Baltimore, which finished with an 11-2-1 record during the regular season, is a 6-1-2-point favorite over the Bengals. Don McCafferty, Baltimore's rookie head coach, has two well-seasoned quarterbacks in John Unitas and Earl Morrall, a pair of 15-year veterans, and a solid defense anchored by end Budba Smith and linebacker Mike Curtis.

Dull UCLA defeats St. Louis

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—No. 1 ranked UCLA, still showing the effects of a 10-day break for final exams, pulled away in the second half Wednesday night to score an unimpressive 70-45 win over St. Louis University at Pauley Pavilion.

The Bruins, who trailed throughout most of the first half and led only 25-33 at the intermission, got 14 points in the second half from forward Curtis Rowe who wound up high man for both teams with 20.

Sidney Wicks had 18 and Steve Patterson 18 for the Bruins. The win made it six in a row for the season and 11 straight since they lost to the University of Southern California last season.

Guard Jim Irving led the St. Louis scoring with 18, although he was held to six points in the second half. His backcourt mate, Carlos Martinez, had 13. The Billikens, now 4-4, appeared poised and disciplined in the first half but wilted under UCLA's pressing defense after the break and fell to 66-47 deficit with more than seven minutes left.

W. Kentucky, McDaniel's top Jacksonville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Jim McDaniel's poured in 46 points Wednesday night to lead 11th-ranked Western Kentucky to a 97-84 win over third-ranked Jacksonville before 17,402 fans at Freedom Hall.

The 7-foot McDaniel won his heralded battle with Jacksonville's 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore as Gilmore tossed in 20 points, but Gilmore had the rebounding edge, 18-11.

McDaniel's early second half heroics increased Western's lead to 14 points and Jacksonville could never get closer than seven points.

Most of McDaniel's points came on medium range jump shots as he and Western avenged their loss to Jacksonville in the semi-finals of the NCAA Mid-East Regional last year.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — New University of Illinois Football Coach Bob Blackman, making no small plans, said Wednesday he aims to lead an Illini team to the Rose Bowl as champions of the Big Ten conference.

Fitzpatrick third in nation

A couple of hours would have made a lot of difference for eight-year-old Casey Fitzpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Fitzpatrick, Twin Falls, but the youngster's participation in the Ford pass, punt and kick competition has come to an end.

Casey, representing the Denver Broncos in the regional finals in the American Football Conference at San Diego last week, not only has the knowledge he won third in the nation, but also has a roomful of trophies, a Denver Bronco uniform and a couple once-in-a-lifetime trips with which to remember it all.

Things look good for the youngster Sunday morning when, during an elimination competition, he defeated his other 10 competitors with a total of 204 yards. (Aggregate of his pass, punt and placekick distances, minus accuracy.) That sent Casey and a boy from Massachusetts into the finals at halftime of the Kansas City-Charger game.

There's no question that one goal is to return someday to the Rose Bowl," he said. Blackman, the most successful coach in the East, left Dartmouth College after 16 years to accept the challenge of reviving Illini football fortunes, a job ousted coach Jim Valek had failed to accomplish in four seasons.

Briscoe leads AFC receivers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marlin the Magician turned from an also-ran passer to the leading pass receiver in the American Football League Conference.

Marlin Briscoe, who broke into pro football as a quarterback, grabbed 57 passes this season for 1,038 yards and scored eight Buffalo touchdowns with some miraculous catches.

Floyd Little, bothered by a back injury in his last few games, won the conference rushing title with 501 yards on 209 carries. The Denver speedster's 80-yard touchdown run was the second longest from scrimmage among the top-20 ground gainers in the AFC.

Second hand low is good general policy but this is one time when East had nothing to gain by holding back his king of diamonds. It couldn't do him any good later. It would have been worth its weight in gold if plunked right on the table.

TAKE a lonely man. And a lonely woman. Put them together into an ordinary conversation. At, say, a holiday party. Do they strike up a romance? Sometimes. But more often they don't. So what prevents them from getting together? Our Love and War man has been studying this question in great depth. He concludes that single thing most apt to stop the man is the fear he'll look foolish while that single thing most apt to stop the woman is the fear she'll appear cheap. He suggests the pair each devise a few flattering phrases to counteract these fears. The most successful of such phrases, he says, will be recommended here after further field tests. Around the first of the year, maybe.

Anyhow, the list comprised one-fifth of the town's female population, and that's a preponderance, I think.

Lionel scores return

By BOB MILLER
ATLANTA (UPI)—Lionel, once the biggest name in toy trains, is back in the market but with a new merchandising concept aimed at the whole broad field of leisure-time activities.

The electric trains are still there under the Lionel name to stir nostalgia in the "over 30" age group, but now they are just part of a huge display at two specialty discount stores here known as Lionel Leisure City.

The stores represent a supermarket-type approach offering everything from dolls to ski equipment to bicycles. In addition to the two here, there is one in White Plains, N.Y., another scheduled to open next spring in Charlotte, N.C., and others planned for the Southeast.

"We sell almost anything you could want for your leisure time," a company spokesman said.

And in the supermarkets, piled 30 to 40 feet high in a display room the size of a football field, are electric trains, toy cars, telescopes, children's and adult parlor games, cameras, stereo equipment, guns, bicycles, and a variety of seasonal equipment.

From snow globes in the winter to camping equipment in the spring to water skis in the summer.

There also are barbecue and picnic needs, pools, lawn and garden supplies and party supplies.

Ed Culver, southeastern manager of the stores, said they are based on merchandising patterns and discount pricing policies of the 17-store Kiddie City chain at Philadelphia.

"We're a specialty store," said Culver. "Usually when you go to a specialty store, it's small—and the prices are high. I believe we're the first in the country—and I know we're the first in the South—to have mass displays in a specialty store with discount prices on every item."

The store, said Culver, designed to give the customer the impression that leisure items are stored "in the display area instead of in the stockroom."

But beside the huge display areas, there's more than 15,000 feet of stock-room at each store, and a warehouse in Atlanta has more than 52,000 square feet of storage space.

The diversity of Lionel, famous for its toy trains since the turn of the century, came in the late 1950s when interest in electric trains appeared to diminish.

In the mid-1960s the manufacture of Lionel trains was shifted to Japan, and by 1968 all production had stopped.

Now, for the first time in several years, Lionel trains are on the market for Christmas, and, though Lionel no longer makes the trains it made famous, it sells them at its Leisure City stores.

Mother learns son on POW list

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI)—For Mrs. Harold C. Shively, learning that her son was on the "official" list of prisoners of war was a bitter-sweet experience.

Mrs. Shively's only son, Air Force Lt. James R. Shively, was shot down over North Vietnam May 5, 1967. She said Tuesday she was glad to be among the "Lucky ones," who know her son is alive, but also expressed frustration over the infrequency and timing of communications from Hanoi.

"They seem to delight in updating us at Christmas time," she said.

"But I have seen this list two times now, and each time I feel the frustration renewed among those who see the names of their loved ones...and also the dashed hopes of those who are looking for a new name, a husband, a father, a fiancé, a son," she said.

"We only receive communications at times of celebration—Thanksgiving, Christmas, and so on. It seems so cold and calculated."

Mrs. Shively said the only difference between the list released Tuesday and one brought back from Hanoi in June by a peace group was that the latest list included names of those who had died as prisoners, the dates of death, and when the POWs were captured.

"One significant factor is here, however, which has not arisen before," Mrs. Shively said. "This list is an official one from the North Vietnamese government."

Mrs. Shively first learned her son was alive when she saw an official Hanoi film clip showing American prisoners of war being paraded through the streets of the North Vietnamese capital. One of them was her son.

After that, she started receiving six-line form letters signed by her son. She has received 17 to date.

Last June Mrs. Shively and two other women who had close relatives missing in the war toured world capitals in order to gain information about their loved ones and plead their trip in Paris, where their effort to get an audience with some high-ranking North Vietnamese delegates to the Paris peace talks failed.

Vietnam POW list blasted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers today condemned as a contemptible maneuver "North Vietnam's release of a list of names of American prisoners. The secretary said Hanoi was using the prisoner lists simply to divert attention from the inhumanity of its treatment of POWs and smacked of "barbarism" because the action raised hopes of prisoners' families that more names might be included than were on previous lists.

Rogers told a State Department news conference that the lists given in Paris to representatives of Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., added nothing not already known about prisoners being held by the North Vietnamese.

Nixon opens door for four inmates

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (UPI)—Two of four inmates granted executive clemency by President Nixon leave federal prison Monday.

The four were told Monday about Nixon's action, the first since the Kennedy administration.

Lonnie Bryant, 43, of Denver, Colo., and William Hughes, 44, of St. Louis, Mo., were to be released today. Bryant and Hughes were sentenced to 30 years in prison on narcotics convictions. The clemency actions reduced their sentences to 20 years.

Prison officials said Botello Garza, 40, of Miguel Aleman, Mexico, would be released as soon as arrangements were completed with Immigration officials. Garza also was convicted on a narcotics conviction. His clemency cut two years off his 10 year sentence.

The clemency for the fourth prisoner, T. J. Jones, 44, of Memphis, Tenn., left him with a year to serve on a kidnapping charge. The clemency reduced the life sentence to 20 years.

Bolivia releases Marxist

IQUIQUE, Chile (UPI)—Bolivia released French Marxist Rogla Debray today two days before Christmas after he had served three years and nine months of a 30-year prison sentence for participating in the guerrilla campaign of Ernesto "Che" Guevara.

A Bolivian air force plane flew Debray and Argentine painter Ciro Bustos from the capital of La Paz to freedom here in neighboring Chile.

Debray, 30, a theoretician of guerrilla warfare in Latin America, and Bustos were captured in April, 1967, in southern Bolivia after leaving Guevara's guerrilla band. Several months later, Bolivian army units tracked it down, and Guevara was killed.

The measure which freed Debray and Bustos also freed four Bolivians who were members of Guevara's band—Antonio Dominguez Flores, Orlando Jimenez Bazan, Jose Castillo Chavez and Eusebio Tapia Arbuti.

Debray was flown out of La Paz under a strict military secrecy.

The left-leaning Bolivian government of Gen. Juan Jose Torres, who himself was an army leader during the campaign against Guevara, published the decree freeing Debray in the early hours of the morning. Debray was put aboard the air force plane, which landed here at 9:05 a.m. after a three and a half hour flight from La Paz.

In the Bolivian capital, informed sources said Debray's release came after long conversations in which Torres persuaded other army leaders that his confinement should end. Some of them, and some of his jailers, were reported to have vowed previously that he would not leave Bolivia alive.

Let's get down to basics...

Bread and butter isn't particularly glamorous; it isn't especially exciting, and it isn't prohibitively expensive... and it is basic to all of us in our everyday life.

Bread and butter means different things to different people.

To the hungry boy or hard-working man, it means exactly what it is... food... and no meal is complete without it.

To the football coach, it's the play he can count on to gain the needed yardage for a first down... the power play by the fullback... and no team is victorious without it.

To the advertiser, it's the way he keeps his name before the buying public... and his business is successful without it.

Some businessmen think their advertising has to be glamorous... has to be exciting, and, of necessity, expensive. Such advertisers are invited to get down to basics... Classified Advertising! A small ad running frequently and consistently in the Classified section is your power play... the simple, easy, low cost way to keep your name before the buying public and to insure the success of your business... Classified Advertising is your bread and butter advertising.

Silent Night Holy Night

Once again we celebrate the glory of this coming this Christmas Day. Everywhere joyful voices are lifted in songs of praise, church bells resound the glad tidings and we are united in brotherhood and in love.

At this season of peace and joy we wish to thank you for your faithful support and devotion to our newspaper.

"And, lo, the Star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young Child was. When they saw the Star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy." So today let the peace and joy of Christmas shine throughout our daily lives, bestowing the blessings of the season upon one and all. In the glad tradition of this most beloved holiday, the merchants and individuals represented in this section join in the wonder and rejoicing, and say a heartfelt "Merry Christmas" to their many good friends, everywhere.

Christmas parable

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

Once upon a time, there was a man who looked upon Christmas as a lot of humbug. He wasn't a scrooge. He was a very kind and decent person, generous to his family, upright in all his dealings with other men.

But he didn't believe all that stuff about an incarnation which churches proclaim at Christmas. And he was too honest to pretend that he didn't. "I am truly sorry to distress you," he told his wife, who was a faithful churchgoer. "But I simply cannot understand this claim that God became man. It doesn't make any sense to me."

On Christmas Eve, his wife and children went to church for the midnight service. He declined to accompany them.

"I'd feel like a hypocrite," he explained. "I'd—much, rather stay at home. But I'll wait up for you."

Shortly after his family drove away in the car, snow began to fall. He went to the window and watched the flurries getting heavier and heavier.

"If we must have Christmas," he reflected, "it's nice to have a white one."

He went back to his chair by the fireplace and began to read his newspaper.

A few minutes later, he was startled by a thudding sound. It was quickly followed by another, then another. He thought that someone must be throwing snowballs at his livingroom window.

When he went to the front door to investigate, he found a flock of birds huddled miserably in the snow. They had been caught in the storm, and in a desperate search for shelter had tried to fly through his window.

"I can't let those poor creatures lie there and freeze," he thought. "But how can I help them?"

Then he remembered the barn where the children's pony was stabled. It would provide a warm shelter.

He quickly put on his coat and galoshes and tramped through the deepening snow to the barn. He opened the doors wide and turned on the light.

But the birds didn't come in.

"Food will bring them in," he thought. So he hurried back to the house for bread crumbs, which he sprinkled on the snow to make a trail into the barn.

To his dismay, the birds ignored the bread crumbs and continued to flap around helplessly in the snow.

He tried shooing them into the barn by walking around and waving his arms. They scattered in every direction—except into the warm, lighted barn.

"They find me a strange and terrifying creature," he said to himself, "and I can't seem to think of any way to let them know they can trust me."

"If only I could be a bird myself for a few minutes, perhaps I could lead them to safety."

Just at that moment, the church bells began to ring.

He stood silently for a while, listening to the bells pealing the glad tidings of Christmas. Then he sank to his knees in the snow. "Now I understand," he whispered. "Now I see why you had to do it."

Toast led to marriage

One wonders at the foolishness of the weaker sex, on occasion, especially when a member of the so-called stronger sex is under the spell of aprils.

The wassail bowl and the Christmas toast were both started in the same gesture, so the tale goes, by the daughter of an early Germanic chieftain, then on a campaign in Britain. Offering a garlanded bowl of wine to her father's princely host, she said "Wasshell," or "Here's to you." The prince responded gallantly and, one thing leading to another, they were soon married.

For the common people of the Middle Ages, wassail was a mixture of hot ale, sugar, nutmeg, and ginger. The nobility, however, used the finest in the cellar. In later times, a popular base for the wassail bowl was Spanish sherry grown from the grapes of Andalusia and fortified with brandy.

The word "toast" however, emerged from the fact that early wassail bowls sometimes had pieces of toast (as well as fruit) floating around in the top.

In medieval days the wassail was often accompanied by roasted peacock, re-stuffed in its feathered skin, and with a small fire (lighted brandy) playing about its nostrils. Her ladyship always served this dish herself.

Santa Claus has aliases

Santa Claus is a wanted man. But he won't be easy to track down — he has too many aliases!

In one part of the world he pops up under the name of Julenissen; in another, the Abbot of Unreason; and in a third, as Saint Nicholas.

Santa's arrival date depends strongly on local customs.

In Holland, the custom of leaving secret gifts for children on St. Nicholas's birthday became popular centuries ago. Even today, presents are exchanged on this day, Dec. 6, rather than on December 25. A bale of hay is often laid out for the benefit of Santa's horse, not his reindeer.

In Spain and Italy, Santa arrives a whole month later, on Jan. 6, Epiphany. This day seems very appropriate, for it is the day on which the Three Wise Men delivered the very first Christmas present, in Bethlehem. In Italy, incidentally, Santa is a she.

In France and Scotland, Santa arrives on Jan. 1, New Year's Day. In England, where gifts were once distributed exclusively on the day after Christmas, Santa is seen more and more often on Christmas Eve, as he is here. This change is believed by some to be the result of increasing American influence on British customs.

In England, too, the kinds of gifts that Santa brings are also becoming more and more like American gifts. A generation ago, Englishmen tended to be a lot more "practical" than today. Husbands gave their wives a new cooking pot or a pair of new overhaoses far more often than they do now.

Happily for English womanhood, Englishmen are learning fast that scents like Shulton's Tajl, inspired by the beauty-and-mystery-of-India's temple of beauty, the Taj Mahal, are even more "practical" than a pair of overhaoses in the long run. And like their American counterparts, English sweethearts and wives are increasingly on the receiving end of Tajl in the form of matched toiletry sets, and are finding their presents equally scent-sational!

Here is a "rogues' gallery" of Santa's aliases around the world:

Saint Nicholas. In the 4th century, he was modeled after the original Saint, St. Nicholas who lived in Turkey and whose deeds of courage and kindness earned him the title of patron saint of children. The legend of the good saint as a gift-giver was later spread to Russia, Scandinavia, Holland, Belgium and Germany.

The Abbot of Unreason. In the Middle Ages, the gift-giver became an officer who directed the festivities of the holiday season. Dubbed the Abbot of Unreason by the Scots, and the Lord of Marule, he held office from Christmas till Jan. 6, and his word was law. Either elected or appointed, he ruled over holiday activities in royal households, cottages, and inns. The English called him King of the Bean, and to the French he was the Boy Bishop.

Christkindlein. In Germany during the 18th century, Martin Luther, a religious leader who also invented a lot of new German words, substituted Christkindlein, or the Christ Child, for St. Nicholas as the bearer of gifts.

He wanted to make the act of giving gifts a symbol of the Wise Men's visit to Bethlehem bringing gold, frankincense and myrrh. So the Christ Child came secretly to German homes on the Eve of Christmas.

Kris Kringle. In the 18th century, a German colony settled in Pennsylvania, and again Santa's name changed! The settlers had brought the Christkindlein with them, but somehow it got transformed into Kris Kringle.

Santa, himself. The Dutch nicknamed St. Nicholas "Santa Claus" for short, but his image as a fat little man with rosy cheeks and white beard comes down to us from a poem written in 1822 by Dr. Clement C. Moore, an American minister.

Dr. Moore based the poem on a colorful old Dutchman he had once met, and named it "The Night Before Christmas." He recited it to his children, who were delighted. Then he threw it away. A lady visitor rescued it from the waste basket and had it published in the Troy Sentinel. It has become a literary classic and now almost every American child knows what goes on when Santa comes on Christmas Eve.

Yule log

An important ceremony of Christmas in many countries of Northern Europe was that of burning the Yule log. Log's large enough to burn for twelve days were used, and the fire was tended constantly to prevent its burning out before the end of the twelve days. In Lithuania, now a part of Russia, the word for Christmas meant literally "log-burning."

Julenissen. That's what the Norwegians call him, and he works overtime in the land of the Fjords. He brings gifts to good kids (only) before they go to bed on Christmas Eve, not after, and in the week between Christmas and New Year's he totes his sack to the "Jultrefest" — a community party for all the kids.

La Befana. In Italy, Santa is a lady, and a tough one! Kids who have been bad are apt to find coals in their shoes instead of presents.

Customs may change, but one thing remains the same. Santa Claus is a much-wanted spirit around this time of year!

Decorate with cards

When children need a change from the toys on Christmas day, a promising project could be to let them see what they can do with the family greeting cards.

Here are some suggestions from Jannette Lee, art director for Hallmark.

Tap or staple cards to lengths of ribbon and hang them on walls or doors.

Make a Christmas wreath by attaching cards to a circle of cardboard.

"Frame" cards with construction paper.

Decorate a screen with cards.

Holiday blends many customs

Anybody found feasting of observing Christmas day in any way shall pay a fine of five shillings.

And so, throughout New England Puritan settlers had to treat Christmas as just another working day. Governor Bradford noted that "no man rested all day" on December 25, 1620, say the editors of Encyclopedia Americana.

Today, in the United States and Canada, Christmas celebrations are a colorful blend of customs from many lands. The main features of the holiday festivities are much the same everywhere—Santa Claus, Christmas trees, gifts, greetings, feasting, family visits, carol singing.

Each of these customs has its own history, and for the student of holiday lore and legend, the fascination lies in the variety of traditions brought by settlers from other lands and assimilated into what is now a truly American, or truly Canadian Christmas.

Displaying Trees

The custom of the Community Christmas Tree began in the early 1900's with the people of Pasadena, Calif., who decorated a tall evergreen on Mount Wilson, with lights and tinsel.

Madison Square in New York and the Common in Boston were the scene of trees set up in 1912. In 1914 Independence Square in Philadelphia had its first holiday tree.

Around much of these trees, choirs gathered and sang carols.

The custom of lighting the National Community Christmas Tree in Washington, D.C., began in 1923 when the University of Vermont sent a large tree to President Calvin Coolidge.

France gave Canada the "creche," gatherings after midnight Mass with family and friends, savory pork pies called "tourterons," collecting gifts from door-to-door for the less privileged persons of the community.

After mass on Christmas Eve, the people of Quebec gather at homes of loved ones to participate in a night-long feast called "réveillon."

Churches grace greeting cards

As jubilant bells ring out the good news of Christmas, churches of this community stand as symbols of the true spirit of the season.

Landmarks in the history of Christendom, these churches are the living center of current activities, especially at Christmas, when choral programs, sermons and other special services express holiday joy.

Across the country, and in other lands, singing steeples and ringing bells beckon worshippers to "Come to Church on Christmas."

Small wonder, then, that churches are a favorite subject for Christmas greeting cards. This year, the 88th anniversary of Christmas cards in the United States, is no exception.

The oldest of these church buildings is Westminster Abbey, a national shrine and the Mother Church of the Commonwealth of Great Britain.

In 1066 the Abbey celebrated its 908th anniversary, and thousands of people from all over the world visited the church where "both commoners and royalty have worshipped for centuries."

In commemoration of the event, Westminster underwent a 10-year program of cleaning and repairs that cost $1,120,000.

It was on Christmas day that William the Conqueror was crowned at Westminster, and buried there are Newton, Darwin, Keats, Tennyson, Browning, and royal personages such as Queen Elizabeth I and her rival for the throne, Mary Queen of Scots, Richard II, Henry VII and St. Edward, whose shrine is the most sacred spot in the Abbey.

In September 1965, a tablet was added in memory of Winston Churchill.

CHURCHES, long a symbol of the Christmas season, have appeared in innumerable ways on Christmas cards. Here is Westminster Abbey.

Manger theme of Latin yule

Though Santa and gaily decked trees often appear nowadays in Central and South America, Christmas is traditionally a time for religious observances.

Mass, at midnight on Christmas Eve or early Christmas Day, forms the heart of the holiday in Latin America, and the creche or manger scene marks the season throughout churches and homes, say the editors of the Encyclopedia Americana.

Bountiful feasts, processions and other special events may provide a festive note, but custom says that gift-giving time is Three Kings Day—Twelfth Night, January 6th, when the Wise Men brought their gifts to Jesus. Children put their shoes under the bed or in the window, hoping to have them filled with toys and gifts. Water and hay are set out for the Three Kings' horses or camels.

While many Latin American countries share these traditions and celebrate Christmas in similar ways, each country also has its own special festivities.

In Venezuela

Hallaen, a native Venezuelan dish, is an awaited delicacy during the Christmas season. It is made of corn meal with pork and chicken stuffing and numerous other ingredients, and then wrapped in plantain leaves to form a type of pie.

In Peru

Peru in Lima, Peru, Christmas day is not exclusively a church holiday. Because it also marks the greatest bull fight of the year.

In Costa Rica

In the island country of Costa Rica, "portals" are set up in homes. These are elaborate Nativity scenes sometimes filling an entire room.

In Guatemala

An ancient custom in Guatemala is to "light the road to Bethlehem" by placing lanterns in windows and doorways for nine nights before Christmas.

Facts about Christmas

Everybody thinks that space travel is something very new, but an elderly gentleman in a rather unique "space-suit" set the pace years ago. His name: Santa Claus.

Now is the season when he's taking off again, for it's Christmas.

How much do you know about Christmas and Santa Claus? Here are some questions, developed with the help of the editors of the Encyclopedia International, to test your knowledge. The answers are at the bottom.

1. The first known Christmas card was designed in 1843 by an Englishman named:
  - (A) Charles Dickens
  - (B) Sir Henry Cole
  - (C) John Calcutt Horsley
2. The first Christian Nativity feast, celebrating the birth of Christ, occurred in the fourth century on:
  - (A) January 6
  - (B) July 4
  - (C) December 25
3. Christmas did not become a legal holiday in the U.S. until:
  - (A) The Puritans arrived in New England
  - (B) 1856
  - (C) Santa's Helpers' Union went on strike.
4. The original name of the gentleman we know today as Santa Claus was:
  - (A) Sir Henry Cole
  - (B) Clement C. Moore
  - (C) St. Nicholas

1. (C) is correct. Artist Horsley designed the first known Christmas greeting card for his friend, Sir Henry Cole, a wealthy London gentleman. Charles Dickens had his share in Christmas 1843, too. His book, "A Christmas Carol," was published that year.

Holiday lore varied forms

Santa's white beard, red suit come from cartoonist who gave Santa his red suit, broad girl, white beard, ruddy cheeks and nose, fur-trimmed hat and coat?

In this children's classic of 1823, the right jolly old elf, who looked like a peddler with a pack on his back, was first described in print.

First drawing...

'HELLO, LITTLE ONE' was title for this famed drawing of Santa by Thomas Nast from Harper's Weekly.

The figure of Santa that Nast drew in 1863, and perhaps earlier, has proved to be the definitive one, and even today the figure as drawn by Nast appears occasionally on Christmas greetings.

Yule fun prompts games

Christmas gatherings just naturally turn into parties, friends and relatives drop in with holiday greetings, and all of a sudden it's a party!

At the time of Nast's Santa Claus drawings the nation was at Civil War, and families were separated. In a note to cheer both soldiers and their waiting families Nast drew 'Santa Claus in Camp,' for Harper's Weekly.

Born in 1840 in the tiny hamlet of Landau, Bavaria, Nast probably picture Santa as the long-imagined Saint Nicholas of his childhood.

The belief that Santa has a reindeer-drawn sleigh and enters homes through the chimney may have come from Scandinavia.

One possibility is that egg-nog came from the Old English hot drink, sack-possot, which was also made of eggs, milk, nutmeg and sugar.

'Silent Night, Holy Night' was written in 1818 by a village priest in Hallein, Austria. Father Joseph Mohr wrote the words, to an accompaniment created by his organist, Franz Gruber.

Appropriately, tradition says that cattle and other domestic animals should have a special feast on Christmas Eve. It's legendary, too, that cattle are given the power of speech for a few moments at this time.

Christmas means cookies to bake

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Christmas means cookies, whether you bake them at home, buy them or wait impatiently, as I did in childhood, for packages to arrive from my aunts the bakers.

They weren't professional bakers, but I was sure they could have been if they'd wanted to. The cookies they sent each Christmas tasted better to me than anything money could buy.

There were spicy, rocklike pfeffernusse, honeyed lobbuchen and patterned, anise-flavored springerle, all a heritage from my German grandmother. But my real favorite was a fruit and nut bar cookie we called Onie's Christmas cookies, the possessive being Aunt Lena's nickname. As the years have passed, I've learned about many different kinds of cookies traditional for Christmas around the world. A few are bakery specialties but most are well within the skills of the average home cook. Nuts, fruits and spices play a large role in many of them.

BRANDY SNAPS
English-brandy snaps originally were made on a griddle. This recipe calls for baking. Resist 1 1/4-cups of sifted flour with a pinch of salt, 2 teaspoons of powdered ginger and 1 teaspoon of ground nutmeg. Combine 1/2 cup of sweet unsalted butter, melted, with 1 cup of brown sugar, firmly packed, 1/2 cup of dark molasses and 2 tablespoons of brandy. Stir liquid into dry ingredients. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto lightly buttered cookie sheet, leaving 2 1/2 inches between cookies. Bake in preheated 300-degree oven 10 to 15 minutes. Cool only until cookies can be handled, then roll each warm cookie around a wooden mixing spoon handle to form "cigarettes." If cookies harden before you can roll them, reheat in slow oven. Cool completely before storing in airtight container. Makes about 48.

WREATH COOKIES
Denmark's vanillekranser and Germany's berlinerkranzen are buttery wreath-shaped cookies containing ground almonds. Cream 1 1/4 cups of sweet unsalted butter with 2 cups of sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in 2 eggs, lightly beaten; add 1/2 cup of ground unblanched almonds and teaspoon of vanilla and stir well. Gradually add 3 1/4 cups of sifted flour, stirring well after each addition. Put dough in pastry bag or cookie press and press onto buttered and floured baking sheets in wreath shapes, each about 2 inches in diameter. Use a tube that will give a fluted, ropelike pattern or roll dough into 8-in-long ropelike strips, twist into rope pattern and form wreaths. Bake in preheated 325-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until light golden brown. Makes about 48.

ROLLED COOKIES
Italy's Cavallucci di Siena are rolled cookies that can be baked plain or printed with springerle molds. Combine 1 1/4 cup of sugar with 1/2 cup of water in a heavy-bottomed saucepan. Bring to boil and cook rapidly without stirring until mixture forms a thread when spoon is lifted from it, or until it reaches 230 degrees on candy thermometer. Quickly fold in 1/2 cup of finely minced candied orange peel, heaping tablespoon of anise seeds, crushed, 1 teaspoon of cinnamon, 1/4 cup of ground walnuts and about 2 1/4 cups of flour, or enough to make a smooth dough. Turn onto a lightly floured board. When mixture is cool enough to handle, knead until smoothly blended, adding more flour only if necessary. Roll to 1/4 to 1/2-inch thickness and cut into ovals about 1 1/2 inches long and 1 1/2 inches wide, or stamp design with molds and cut cookies apart. Bake on buttered, floured cookie sheets in preheated 275-degree oven about 40-50 minutes. Cookies should be dry but pale, and moist in the center. Store in airtight container. Makes 4-5 dozen.

Gingerbread

The spicy gingerbread man was one of the earliest ornaments used on Christmas trees. At first, German and Austrian bakers gave them to children as a holiday treat. Realizing what attractive ornaments they would make, mothers soon baked them in quantities large enough to help trim the whole tree.

BAKER'S MOBILE HOMES

HOME PLUMBING & HEATING

Customs cherished from past

The tree may be aluminum instead of spruce or fir. Santa may arrive by helicopter instead of reindeer-drawn sleigh. And, the children's gifts will probably reflect the space age and the wonders of electronics.

No matter. However modern the celebration of Christmas may seem to be, its spirit is still old-fashioned, and though customs may appear in contemporary guise, they are still the cherished traditions from the past.

These treasured customs are the heart of Christmas, growing dearer year by year, as memories of "what we did last Christmas" add to every family's own special, traditional way of celebrating Christmas.

'Heathen' idea

Did you know that the first Christmas tree erected in an American church in 1851 shocked its Cleveland congregation? It was considered too heathenish to be put into a church building.

Candles traditional

Candles have long been a part of Christmas.

In medieval days, Yule candles, like Yule logs, were of tremendous size. Holes were chiseled in the stone floors to act as holders, and Christmas dinner was traditionally supposed to last as long as the candles burned.

'Happiest woman' makes pinatas by thousands

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mrs. Felicia Cruz says she is the happiest woman in Mexico these days, even though more than a thousand of her products will be smashed to bits during Christmas parties.

Mrs. Cruz owns the oldest factory in the nation which manufactures pinatas, the clay and paper-mache forms that are filled with toys and suspended from ceilings to be shattered by Christmas party-goers.

"There is nothing nicer in the world than to make something that gives such tremendous satisfaction to children and adults," she said.

Mrs. Cruz has another reason for smiling; she expects to sell at least 1,000 pinatas in December, ten times the average in other months.

The pinatas range from tiny 40-cent horses to a six-foot black bear, priced at $8. Pinata specimens stars and automobiles crowd her workshop.

"Pinatas are sold empty. Buyers cut open the paper-mache tops to pour candy and toys inside.

Because of their clay base, pinatas are hard to break. A sharp thwack with a broomstick handle is required to crack a pinata and send its contents cascading to the floor.

Mrs. Cruz and a handful of artisans in this capital are turning out variations on a theme that originated in Italy some 500 years ago.

According to the Mexican National Fine Arts Institute, the first pinatas were simply bowls of fruit. The Spanish Conquistadors introduced the pinatas to Mexico in the 16th century.

The earliest Mexican pinatas are made from hollowed pineapples. The Mexicans adapted the name of the fruit for the new ornament.

In colonial times, pinatas were broken during the first Sunday of Lent. Researchers are baffled as to why the pinatas were converted into a Christmas tradition.

Mrs. Cruz and her 10 employees work out in a shack in the grimy San Rafael industrial section. Her multi-colored pinatas dangle like tropical plants from the walls and ceilings.

Delaware crossing re-enacted yearly

WASHINGTON CROSSING, Pa. (UPI) — It is a clear, brisk Christmas evening. The band of 30 tired, hatted men huddled on the river bank are dressed too lightly for the winter cold. A soldier puts a sword into the hand of an officer and quietly the men jump into their 40-foot cedar boat. They face a 10-minute ride across the Delaware River.

The year is 1776. In minutes George Washington, his tri-corn in place, will lead a drive to oust the enemy Hessian soldiers from their Trenton encampment on the opposite shore.

Embarking on the same probable spot on the Pennsylvania side, a group of businessmen, actors and politicians will don Revolutionary-period costumes and re-enact that famous crossing exactly 194 years later.

On Friday afternoon — Christmas Day — (Washington departed Christmas evening to avoid detection) 30 men, performing under the auspices of the Washington Crossing State Park and Foundation, will begin a re-enactment of the crossing.

When Washington made the trip, a war was raging and the dangers he and his band of hearty soldiers faced on the New Jersey shore were uncertain. Friday's crossing is more predictable.

E. Wilmer Fisher, park superintendent, is directing the re-enactment, the 18th in a series.

"We try to pick a spot where they can get the boat into the shore and get out," Fisher said. "I imagine Washington had the same problem."

St. John Terrell, producer of the Lambertville, N.J., Music Circus, will play the role of George Washington. Accompanying "Washington" will be 11 crewmembers and 18 other persons, mostly soldiers.

"Terrell will be dressed in a typical officer's Revolutionary outfit," Fisher said. "Of course he'll have on a white powdered wig, tan britches, boots and gloves."

"He'll wear a tri-corn (three cornered hat), a blue cape with red lining, and a jabot (ruffled material) worn underneath a waistcoat."

The first re-enactment was made in 1952 in a boat supplied by Terrell. In 1965 the park was given a replica of a boat that once plied the Delaware River in Revolutionary times.

A crowd of nearly 10,000 persons was expected for re-enactment of the 1776 crossing, which historians say led to the first major American victory of the Revolutionary War.

Christmas tree notes

Hessian soldiers had introduced the Christmas tree to Americans during the Revolutionary War, but it was 1856 before the first tree was put in the White House, by President Franklin Pierce. Several thousand years earlier, the Egyptians brought date palms indoors during their winter solstice rites, to demonstrate life triumphant over death. The Romans trimmed trees with trinkets and masks of Bacchus during the Saturnalia.

Children never tire of exciting party games, while the adults may need a rest. One game that is loads of fun for kids-to-play-and-adults-to-watch is a seasonal version of "Pin the Tail on the Donkey." This one is "Pin the Star on the Christmas Tree."

Yuletide stories

The good St. Nicholas would often make his appearance . . . riding jolly among the rooftops, or over the roofs of houses, now and then drawing forth magnificent presents from his breeches pockets, and dropping them down the chimneys of his favorites.

Carols tell story of reverence, joy

"O come, all ye faithful, joyful and triumphant, O come ye, O come Ye to Bethlehem!

Come and behold Him, born the King of Angels!" "Adesto Fideles" or "Jingle Bells," "Silent Night" or "White Christmas" — across the years; hymns, carols and songs have been mankind's way of expressing the joy of Christmas.

From simple melodies sung in the family circle to the majesty of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," music and song seem to be the natural way to celebrate Christmas.

Singing of the first Christmas carol is attributed to St. Francis of Assisi and his followers, in the 13th century.

St. Francis arranged a Nativity scene and led the singing of songs of praise to the Christ Child.

Subjects and themes for early carols were many and varied.

English people sang of the holy and the ice and the wasal bowl. More religious in theme were the English songs traditionally sung between scenes of mystery and miracle plays.

In Germany, France and Belgium, the visit of the Magi was a popular theme for carols. Other carols told stories from the Bible or legends from nature.

From the 15th to the 18th century, Christmas music found a particularly eager audience in Germany. Martin Luther, who believed music was a form of worship, helped to encourage the composition and performance of Christmas hymns.

Luther himself wrote the words for "Away in a Manger," and the music for "Unto Us a Boy Is Born" and "Good News from Heaven." Grouped into a choir, his children sang these songs.

The joyous songs of Christmas fell upon hard times in 17th century England. An act of Parliament in 1644 forbade the observance of Christmas as a feast day.

Long after the custom of Christmas was revived, the art of carol singing languished.

A happy change occurred when, in 1719, Dr. Isaac Watts wrote and introduced to his congregation the carol, "Joy to the World." This was the forerunner of modern Christmas carols.

Christmas music for the concert halls began to be created after the Reformation.

Italy introduced the Christmas concerto, during the 17th and 18th centuries. Corelli's "Christmas Concerto" is perhaps the best-known of this kind of Christmas music.

In Puritan England, the oratorio became a popular form of music, thought to represent the righteousness in man. Handel's "Messiah" was performed and admired for this expression of pious sentiment, with little consideration for its relationship to the story of the Nativity.

It was not until about 1900 that "The Messiah" began to be performed primarily at Christmas time.

In America, the composition of carols began to flourish during the 1800's, and three favorite carols sung today are from that period.

"It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," one of the earliest American carols, was written by the Rev. Edmund H. Sears (1810-1876) as a poem. It was later set to music.

Christmastide time for togetherness, rejoicing

Through the years, the way of celebrating Christmas have taken on many different forms. Today's Christmas tree is apt to be plastic or aluminum, rather than nature's own fir, spruce or pine. The glow of tiny beeswax candles on a tree is only a memory, replaced now by strings of twinkling electric lights.

Jolly Santa, once transported only by reindeer-drawn sleigh, may now arrive by helicopter or jet plane.

But in spite of changes, the essence of the season, the basic spirit of Christmas, stays the same.

Christmastide is, above all, a time for togetherness and rejoicing. And a modern Christmas, just like an old-fashioned Christmas, calls for gathering of family and friends, with much merriment, fun and feasting.

Right now in this community families are celebrating the holiday with just such gatherings, such merriment, fun and feasting.

Like families of yesteryear, they celebrate with gifts and greens, with the warmth of a glowing hearth and the gleam of a lighted tree, with stockings hung by the chimney with care and even with candles, though these beckon brightly from candleholders rather than from the tree.

All these ways of celebrating are part of the legend and lore of Christmas. Exchanging gifts at Christmas is one of the most time-honored of customs, and toys, dolls and games for the children have always ranked high on the gifts list.

In the not-so-long-ago, however, just one important present — a doll for the little girl perhaps, and a toy accordion for her brother — was all that youngsters might expect at Christmas.

Though Santa is more bountiful nowadays, the gifts he brings are like those of yesteryear in at least one way. They reflect the interests and fashions of their times.

Dolls, yesterday and today, dress in the favorite styles of the moment. Toys, too, show the influence of current events.

Toy racing cars, for instance, came in with the automobile, while today more complex types of wheel toys take advantage of modern technological developments.

Many of the traditions of pagan festivals were later merged with the celebration of Christmas, and evergreens, because they stay green throughout the year, came to be regarded as the Christmas symbol of eternal life.

Many ancient legends associate trees with Christmas. One is that on the first Holy Night all the trees of the forest blossomed and bore fruit.

May all the bounty, blessings of Christmas be yours.

Yule symbols defeat Reds in Europe

VIENNA (UPI)— Christmas has won the battle with Communism in Eastern Europe.

While Stalin lived, Communist authorities in the Soviet bloc tried to replace the Christmas symbols of the birth of Christ with Russia's secular "Grandfather Frost." That attempt has now been abandoned.

Instead, Christmas, 1970, will be celebrated in Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary—the nations of Eastern Europe—in the traditional way, with all the trimmings.

Starting Dec. 24, official life in the three nations comes to an almost complete halt.

State-owned radio stations turn off marches, turn on Christmas carols. State-run offices and factories close down to give all employees enough time to celebrate Christmas—although workers work extra shifts before and after the holiday to make up for the lost time.

In Romania and Bulgaria, the religious holiday is delayed until Jan. 6, because the predominantly Eastern Orthodox Church still abides by the old pre-revolutionary calendar. Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland join the rest of the Christian world in celebrating Christmas.

Christmas shopping in Eastern Europe is a bit more complicated than in the West. Although the consumer goods situation is improving, shops often have more customers than gifts and it may take many expeditions until all the presents are bought.

On Christmas Eve, decorated Christmas trees are lighted. Millions of children, who are "Young Pioneers" or "Lenin Youths" the rest of the year, wait anxiously for the slow tinkling of the bell calling them into the family living room to get their gifts.

It is not Santa Claus who brings the presents, but the Christ Child himself—or Jezisek (Ladok Jezek), as he is called in Czechoslovakia—who flies from house to house loading the tables with gifts.

All gifts are given on Christmas eve, so there are no stockings to fill.

After the gifts, families gather for Christmas Eve dinner—a feast of fish soup, fried carp with french salad and vegetables, followed by many tiny cookies which mothers bake the week before.

Midnight Mass always fills the churches with persons who do not go to church the rest of the year. In mountain regions such as Czechoslovakia's High Tatras, the faithful often must walk for miles through high snow to get to church.

Villagers in the Hungarian countryside stage costume plays depicting Christmases of long ago.

Christmas is a family affair in Eastern Europe.

There is much visiting of friends and relatives. On Christmas Day itself, the tables are filled with goose or turkey, dumplings and cabbage, all washed down by wine and local liquors.

Is Mankind trying to reach too far?

Two years ago three human beings spent the first Christmas in space—the first Christmas that Man has spent away from the planet that was nurtured civilization since time began.

A few short months later two other human beings set foot on the virgin moon—the first time that Man has explored a world other than his own.

Tomorrow promises to bring Man in direct contact with other planets; someday perhaps the very stars will become the venue of Man's exploration.

He is reaching for the very Heavens.

Technology—Man's technology—is conquering the universe.

There is talk of science—Man's science—unlocking the secret of life itself.

All of which prompts many thoughtful people to ask—particularly at a time of year when we celebrate the birthday of the Prince of Peace—whether Man is reaching too far, attempting to usurp the role of the Creator.

It's an age-old question. Science vs. religion. It was asked of the Wright Brothers, who upset the known natural law that if God had intended Man to fly, He would have given him wings.

It is a question that has engaged eminent scientists and philosophers. Albert Einstein wrote that "science without religion is lame; religion without science is blind."

The conclusion, generally, has been reassuring. Cornell University's first president, Andrew Dickson White, put it this way:

My conviction is that science, though it has evidently conquered Dogmatic Theology based on biblical texts and ancient modes of thought, will go hand in hand with religion and that, although theological control will continue to diminish, religion, as seen in the recognition of a Power in the universe, not ourselves, which makes for righteousness, and in the love of God and of our neighbor, will steadily grow stronger and stronger.

But this was before the Apollo moonships.

The implications of manned space flight are so enormous that the theological questions inevitably rise again.

Man understands the world. It is finite. Only God understands the universe. It is infinite.

Or is it? Will spacemen someday explore its outer end, chart its boundaries, map its wonders—with the precision of the surveyor's transit and mapmaker's compass?

is creation in danger of becoming Man's handiwork?

Most of our nation's astronauts—the men who have actually ventured into the void—are religious men. And evidently they have seen and felt nothing to shake their faith in the one Creator of this universe we are now beginning to probe.

The words are once again words of reassurance.

On his return from the moon, astronaut Noll Armstrong visited the Vatican, addressed the Cardinals and bishops at the Roman Catholic synod then in meeting. How, he was asked, had his moon-walk affected his personal relationship with God?

"Today as I looked around this building," replied Armstrong, "and looked up at the ceilings, I saw the best of Man's art work and it left a profound impression on me.

"But as we traveled between planets and saw with our eyes the views that are rather poorly seen by means of television and film, I was profoundly moved by the best of God's art work."

The lesson of Man's first hesitating steps into space shines perfectly clear to these men. And, from all accounts, it runs something like this:

Man can learn to explore the universe, can achieve the ancient dream of breaking free of his own planet. But we cannot conceive a universe that had no Cause, or an intellect that had

Card custom noted

According to one source, the origin of the relatively modern custom of sending Christmas cards is sometimes ascribed to the English Royal Academy artist, W. C. T. Dobson. In 1845 he sent friends lithographed copies of a sketch he had made to symbolize the Christmas spirit.

The first English printed cards were very simple; a robin, a sprig of holly or mistletoe, plus a conventional greeting. Pioneers of Christmas card printing in the United States were mostly Germans such as Louis Feing, who opened a shop in Roxbury, Mass., in 1874.

Happiest Yule ever planned

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Karyn Prestwich, critically wounded by a high-powered deer rifle, will celebrate her sixth Christmas in a hospital bed — but her family says, it will be the happiest yule ever.

The blonde, blue-eyed first grader will eat traditional turkey dinner with her family in a hospital cafeteria at the University of Utah Medical Center.

Officials say the little girl is apparently winning her struggle for life after being shot down Nov. 6 as she waited for a school bus on a rural highway near her home in North Fork, Idaho.

The little victim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Prestwich, was rushed to a flatiron Idaho hospital and later transferred to the Salt Lake City facility, where she remained in critical condition for almost a month with a bullet wound in the stomach.

"It's taken quite a while for her to bounce back," said her mother, "and it will be at least another month before she can be released."

"She's getting terribly bored and keeps asking to get back so she can go back to school, which she loves."

But she hugged them to her bosom and managed to say, again, "My hair grows so fast, Jim! You'll see!"

Jim had not seen his present. She held it out to him eagerly. The precious metal seemed to flash with a reflection of her own ardent spirit.

"Give me your watch, Jim," she said. "I want to see how it looks."

Jim tumbled down on the couch and a flickering smile wandered around his mouth.

"Dell," he said with a sigh, "let's put our Christmas presents away for a while. Look, honey, I sold the watch to get the money to buy your combs. And now suppose you put the chops on."

Perhaps these two young people were, after all, the wisest. They are the magi.

The magi? They were wise men, as you know, who brought gifts to the Babe in the manger. Being wise, their gifts were no doubt rooted in wisdom; possibly their gifts bore the privilege of exchange.

Among the many gifts Karyn has received during her ordeal is a doll sent by Roy C. Wells, 82, of Torrance, Calif., who was charged with assault with a deadly weapon in the shooting. The deer hunter has pleaded innocent to the assault charge and guilty to a charge of careless use of firearm.

She keeps telling me that she thinks he (Wells) is a very nice man," Mrs. Prestwich said. "She's glad he still thinks about her."

When Karyn was first being treated she told the doctor: "That man didn't mean to shoot me. He thought I was a deer."

He has also contributed $500 to a Karyn Prestwich fund, which has been set up at a Salmon bank to help defray medical expenses. Officials said it has reached $7,000.

Gift of Magi recounted

Adapted from the famous story by O. Henry

In the early years of the 20th century, twenty dollars a week was considered quite a decent salary. A furnished flat could be had at eight dollars a week. Even so, a dollar and eighty-seven cents seems a very paltry sum, especially to a young wife desperately facing a forlorn Christmas, just a day away.

For Della Young it was enough to drive her to tears; she so wanted to buy a gift for her young husband, Jim, and the prospect was, to say the least, bleak.

You see, Della could not compromise with the occasion. Only something "fine and rare and sterling" would do for her Jim.

Suddenly, amidst her tears she was struck by a thought.

Standing before the mirror her eyes shone brightly but her face suddenly lost its color. She pulled down her hair and let it fall to its full length.

It was a gorgeous sight. In fact Della's hair was one of the two possessions the Jim Youngs took a mighty pride in. The other was Jim's gold watch that had been his father's and his grandmother's.

And now Della's beautiful hair fell about her shoulders rippling and shining like a cascade of brown waters. It reached below her knees. The thought that had penetrated her mind was too horrid for her to contemplate. She did it up again quickly. A tear dropped on the worn red carpet.

But the thought persisted. With grim determination she put on her old brown jacket,

Then he drew a package out of his coat pocket and set it on the table.

"Take a look, Della — then you'll see why you had me going at first."

She quickly tore open the package. There were the combs, the set of combs, pure tortoise shell, with jeweled rims, that she had craved for months without the least hope of possession. And now the tresses they should have adorned were gone!

Then he drew a package out of his coat pocket and set it on the table.

Chinese observe Christmas

According to the manager of a large department store in Hong Kong, Christmas no longer belongs to Christians only. "The Chinese population" says he, "has made it a fest of their own."

Muslims, Shintoists, Taoists and all other mer of good will express in some way the spirit of the season.

In South Korea Christmas Eve is a night for revelry. The midnight to 4 a.m. curfew, imposed because of any North Korean threat, is lifted. Koreans in the thousands flock to tea houses, night clubs and hotels.

In Japan, the year-end bonus is enjoyed by all employees of Japanese firms and the government, including the Prime Minister.

First yule tree

The first Christmas tree was a palm from Egypt. Or it was a huge tree in a forest, symbolic of mankind. Or it was the Paradise Tree of medieval miracle plays.

Though holiday legend and lore offers many an explanation for the origin of the Christmas tree, nobody knows for sure exactly when and where the first decorated tree appeared.

And who cares? It's fun to hear the legends of the past, with all their mystery and magic, but the thing that matters most is that the tradition of the tree is here, adding joy to Christmas.

Christmas comes twice yearly for dutch children

Donner, Blitzen and all the rest of that squad of flying reindeer which Dr. Clement Moore immortalized in his famous poem might get "in Dutch" with the children of the Netherlands who traditionally get a different image at Christmas. And the timing is different: Christmas comes twice a year for the children of Holland. They get their presents on the evening of Dec. 5 or the following morning. Three weeks later, with the rest of the world, they celebrate the festival in a religious way.

St. Nicholas (the originator of all the Santa and Snowmen figures all over the world) arrives in Holland from Spain in the middle of November. From then until Dec. 6, the Saint's birthday, Dutch children may put their shoes by the fireside every evening, together with a carrot or a slice of bread for the white mare which the saint traditionally rides over the roof-tops in Holland.

In the morning, if the children have behaved themselves, they may find a little toy or some goodies in their shoes.

From the middle of November the misty Dutch air is filled with the sound of children's voices singing the traditional St. Nicholas song, completely secular. After Dec. 6 there is a switchover to Christmas carols.

Piñata-Fun Gets Break

A joyous Christmas tradition for Mexican boys and girls is the breaking of the piñata, a decorated earthen jar.

Sometimes, the piñata may be a caricature of people or animals. The piñata is suspended by a rope that can raise or lower it. Each child is blindfolded and usually given three chances to poke at the piñata with a stick.

When it's broken, the piñata releases a bounty of delicious fruits, sweets, nuts and toys.

The children scramble to claim as many goodies as possible.

Except for the words of St. Matthew, legend accounts for the little that is known about the wise men. One of the legends says that the star appeared to them once more, near the end of their lives.

Stained glass shows wonder

Biblical stories and personages come to life in a blaze of color. Light and color combine to create an ever-changing mosaic. From dawn to day to dark patterns vary with the light. Designs seem to live and move as colors change in intensity.

While Christians around the world gather to celebrate the holy festival of Christmas, these dazzling effects add to the beauty and solemnity of the celebration, as stained glass windows shed their radiance throughout churches large and small.

The art of creating stained glass windows is ancient — known in the ages before recorded history began, say the editors of the Encyclopedia Americana. Yet the windows themselves seem always new.

As light plays upon the colors of the glass, the living beauty of the windows is constantly renewed and reborn. Appropriately, the age-old yet ever new story of the Nativity is a favorite subject for these windows.

Through the centuries, artist craftsmen have preserved the spirit of the first Christmas, in stained glass.

Thus for countless worshippers this Christmaside, the light that shines through the stained glass windows of their churches illuminates the wonder of Christmas.

The "why" of using stained glass windows in churches — and secular buildings, too — is simple and logical. Like all windows they're intended to admit light and keep out wind and weather.

Colored glass helps in controlling both the amount and the quality of light admitted to buildings. And the combination of light and color forms patterns appealing and restful to the eye.

Traditionally, stained glass windows complement the architectural design of the building where they appear.

The "how" of creating stained glass windows is complicated — in some respects as difficult and time-consuming as it was in the Middle Ages, although modern methods and equipment do give today's stained glass artist certain advantages.

The rainbow-like effect of the windows comes from pieces of glass — sometimes, hundreds of pieces — fitted together and held together with strips of lead.

Today's artists don't have to make their own glass, leads and pigments. That's one advantage they enjoy that was denied to the early artist craftsman.

But they do have to plan and work painstakingly, from the beginning of a scale drawing in print of actual-size paper patterns and on to such final steps as firing, glazing and cementing.

The art of stained glass windows reflects nearly every artistic style and movement of the past several centuries, including Romanesque, Byzantine, Gothic, Renaissance, Romantic and modern.

Until the late Gothic period, artists believed that a stained glass window should be decorative rather than pictorial. With the Renaissance came a trend toward illustration rather than design. In succeeding years, the balance has shifted between the traditionally decorative and the more practical styles.

A relatively small band of artists keeps the art of the stained glass window alive.

In a discussion of stained glass art in North and South America, the Americana lists some 24 artists working in stained glass.

Greetings FOR CHRISTMAS

DON BROWN'S SAFETY SERVICE

Excitement of season shown by greetings

By ANNA MANG
"Merry Christmas, one and all."

With this simple and sincere greeting, all the warmth and excitement of Christmas reaches its peak.

In this community, as in cities and towns throughout the nation and around the world, days and weeks of list-making, gift-shopping, home-decorating, party-planning and Christmas program rehearsing are reaching a happy culmination.

The spirit of Christmas starts with thoughtfulness. It begins in the hearts of each of us. It grows with a hope, a wish, a prayer.

It shows itself, outwardly, in such manifestations as merry songs and bountiful gifts, and in the festive decorations and glowing lights now adorning local streets and stores, homes and churches.

It expresses itself, most deeply, in private devotions and in special services such as those scheduled by local churches.

It is a spirit abounding in legend and lore, in customs and traditions honored through the years. And most of all, it is the spirit of reverence and joy that shepherds and wise men know.

To capture that spirit is to keep Christmas truly and well, for it enriches all the things this wonderful season stands for.

Christmas is for children. Candles and cookies and all those holiday goodies, trees gaily adorned and brightly lighted, Santa's pack stuffed with surprises — all these things are planned and prepared just for the children.

Or, at least, so the grown-ups say, and who's to doubt them?

In a still more special way, Christmas is for children. The manger scene in homes and churches ever reminds us that the Child born in Bethlehem was He who later said, "Suffer little children to come unto me."

Christmas is for rejoicing. Since first the herald angels sang, this rejoicing has most often found expression in music and song.

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men" — the angels sang.

Now as in earliest times, the spirit of joy and wonder comes anew in the hymns and carols of Christmas.

Christmas is for giving. The eagerness of children waiting for Santa, the excited plotting and planning that goes into the choosing and wrapping of gifts, the packages heaped beneath the tree happily symbolize the spirit of Christmas.

Even the Wise Men gave of their most precious treasures, to honor Him, so people give generously at Christmas, and true generosity stems from thoughtfulness — giving with open heart as well as open hand.

Christmas is for sharing. Thus giving to the less fortunate is a traditional part of the Christmas spirit.

In 1850, Dr. John Henry Hopkins Jr., an Episcopal rector, composed the words and music for "We Three Kings of Orient Are."

The carol "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was inspired by a trip to the Holy Land, and was composed in 1868 by Phillip Brooks, also an Episcopal official. The music was written by Lewis H. Redner, an organist in Brooks' church.

It is curious that one of the best-known "carols," Charles Dickens' famed "A Christmas Carol" — the story of Scrooge and Tiny Tim — is to be read, not sung.

Romans enjoyed fruitcake

One of the most-favored delicacies of the holiday season is the fruitcake.

Many a loving homemaker will start months in advance and make the cake from an old family recipe, wrap it in a rum- or brandy-soaked cloth and store it until the Great Days come.

Most of us envision a dark, red-brown cake so filled with fruit and nuts that it can hardly be cut ... so aromatic with spices that we could stand over it all day and 'drink in' its redolence.

However, the term "good fruitcake" has as many variations as the singers of its praises.

Such discrepancies arise, says an expert in bakers' matters, "because no one appears to have decided exactly what constitutes fruitcake." Not even a super-fussy Department of Agriculture of a certain state has attempted to define the delicacy.

It's not difficult to see why. Over the years, fruitcake has had as many recipes as cats. To the ancient Romans, according to a well-known cookbook, it was Satura, a mixture of a well known barley mash, dried raisins, pine kernels and pomegranate seeds "laced with condiments and honeyed wine."

To Elizabeth of England it was spice cake, containing, according to a recipe of the time, "good ale barme ... eight eggs with two yolks ... and seedos bruised ... (and) a little rose water."

Most modern recipes appear to descend from the old Pennsylvania Dutch cake and British plum pudding cake. The latter was notable for its considerable brandy content, an ingredient missing from many commercial products.

Santa Claus owes name to 'gift-giver'

Santa Claus is a tradition—a pleasant one, indeed. And, traditionally, he owes his name to a gift-giver of the past.

St. Nicholas, a fourth-century bishop who became the patron saint of children, was noted for his generosity. His Dutch name was "Sinter Niklaas," which gradually changed to Santa Claus.

Even today, Santa is also known as "St. Nick."

"Big Bird" big ...

PAPER-MACHE version of one of the Sesame Street characters, "Big Bird," really lives up to his name as he dwarfs this group of youngsters who paid a visit to Valley Decorators in

Pasadena, where he and other Sesame Street characters are being built for the Chrysler Corp. float that will be in the Tournament of Roses parade on New Year's Day. (UPI)

Birds, animals play important Yule parts

One legend tells us that the barnyard animals show their adoration of the Child by falling on their knees just at midnight on Christmas Eve.

When the American Indians learned of the Baby Jesus, quite naturally they believed that the deer knelt at midnight on Christmas Eve.

The people of Norway honor all animals, even fish, at Yuletide. Cattle, birds, fish are assured of safety during the time which is known as the Peace of Christmas. No snares are set during this period. The farmers feed their cattle salt from a cow-bell in the belief that they would be able to find their way home at night.

In old Italy on Christmas Eve a curious ceremony often took place in the farmer's barn. The farmer and his shepherd would carry lighted candles into every corner of the animals' shelter holding the tapers high so that light was shed into every dark corner.

In Scandinavian literature there is a story of Jesus as a boy helping His playmates to make clay birds. When he had finished modeling his bird, He would clap His hands and the bird would take wing and fly off into the skies.

Even the bee has his niche in Christmas lore. In England long ago it was believed that the bees sang to the Christ Child

Ho, ho, ho, y'all

By LEE MUELLER NEW YORK (NEA)

Once upon a time (for that is when all such things happen) a small boy stood at the end of a row of small boys, thrusting forward his tinseled cardboard, "S"—an integral part of "C-H-I-R-I-S-T-M-A-S."

"S," he recited, flawlessly, "is for Santa, so lively and quick. Without him, us kids would be pretty sick."

There are no reference journals available to designate the origin of this verse, mostly because I wrote it. But the passing years have not dulled its poetic sentiment.

Santa Claus is important to small kids. So important that a lawyer friend temporarily decided to become a Santa for one of New York's largest department stores.

It was not that simple, of course. Charlie Rose is national sales manager for an organization called Western Girl, Inc. Among other things, Rose hires and assigns some 300 department store Santas throughout America.

"We don't just hire anybody," said Rose, looking at my friend sternly. "We're very choosy about our Santas. You've got to have a twinkle in your eye. You have to like children and have a feel for the job."

Rose paused and looked my friend over. "Hmmm," he said. "Name all eight of Santa's reindeer."

"You're kidding!" my friend exclaimed. "Not at all," Rose said. "Kids always ask you to name your reindeer. That's a must. It's as important as a twinkle in your eye any day."

As it happens, my friend knew "Twas The Night Before Christmas," by heart. He rattled off the reindeer and flippantly finished off with a jolly, "Ho, ho, ho!"

"Don't do that!" Rose cried. "Our Santas never say, 'Ho, ho, ho.' It scares the children. Just be nice and gentle and ask them if they've been good and what they want for Christmas. Don't get fancy."

Rose agreed to try my friend for a couple of hours. The organization runs a first-rate outfit, he found. No scraggy beards here. All hair, including wild, beard and bushy eyebrows, is white and fluffy and flowing. The boots are leather and they use real feathers in the pillows.

The finishing touch, though, is rouge, spread thickly across the nose and cheeks to provide a healthy, nose-like cherry effect. My buddy looked in a mirror and loved himself. "Ho, ho, ho," he said.

"Don't do that!" Rose cried. Santa's chair in the department store was on the seventh floor where they keep the toys. Going up in the elevator, a nice-looking girl in her early 20s smiled at him. "Maybe he thought they'll let me keep the outfit."

The chair was kind of a throne with little kids lined up to pay their respects. "I'm going to like this job," my friend mused. "Maybe when the real Santa retires."

The first little kid, about 4, was black-haired and wore thick glasses. He tugged at Santa's beard. "Ouch!" he said. Santa smiled. "Why do you come down chimneys, Santa?" the kid asked. "Why don't you come in the door like everybody else?"

My friend's mind reeled. Never trust a kid with thick glasses. "You don't think I'm dumb enough to walk around the streets in an outfit like this, do you?" he asked, playing Freud. "I'd be arrested on the spot."

Rose, standing nearby, shook his head sadly. "Things went smoothly until the last kid, a blond little girl, got personal. It happens that my friend speaks with a distinct eastern Kentucky accent and the whickers pestered around his mouth only made it worse. "You talk funny," the little girl said. "Is there something wrong with your voice, Santa?"

He looked at Rose. He shrugged. "No, dear," he said, on his own now. "I have a Southern accent."

She looked skeptical. "I didn't know Santa Claus was from the South."

"Mrs. Claus and I live at the North Pole," my friend said, twinkling his best twinkle. "but I grow up at the South Pole."

Thieves having big spree

NEW YORK (UPI) — Shoplifters will have their greatest spree in history this Christmas, says a security expert.

Henry C. Neville, investigations vice-president of Pinkerton's, the security and investigative Inc., organization, estimated retail losses to shoplifting during the pre-Christmas season would reach $800 million. This total would represent a 174 per cent increase over what holiday shoplifting amounted to a decade ago.

The increase was attributed to the self-service displays of merchandise and leniency in dealing with shoplifters who are apprehended. "We are urging store owners to keep open displays to a minimum, and we also are asking merchants to prosecute those who are caught shoplifting," Neville said.

Penalties for convicted shoplifters range from a fine of $5 and 10 days in jail in Rhode Island for the first offense to a fine of $10,000 and 10 years in jail in West Virginia, depending on the amount stolen.

"Merchants are discovering that fines and embarrassments which accompany convictions are the most effective weapons in curbing shoplifting," Neville said.

The security executive pointed out that juveniles are among the worst offenders and cited recent surveys which showed 47.2 per cent of high school students say they participated in shoplifting at least once.

"Some common sense security measures will help store owners avoid serious losses," Neville said.

He listed some precautionary measures retailers can use:

- Post signs conspicuously in the store stating that shoplifters will be prosecuted.
- State management's right to inspect all packages, and list the penalties for shoplifting offenses.
- Keep gondolas at a reasonable height (4-5 feet) so they won't obstruct employees' view of the store.

- Do not stack merchandise on counters above eye level, supervisors and clerks should be able to see over a wide area.
- Eliminate "blind spots" in displays.
- Shoplifters like to work where they can conceal themselves in dark corners, in dead-end aisles or behind high display racks.

- Be wary when one engages a clerk in conversation while a companion browses.
- Require all bags to be sealed if customer purchases are made in several store locations. Locate cash register near the door. This gives the opportunity to inspect packages as the customer leaves the store.

- Work closely with security personnel of their stores, exchanging information when feasible.

Yule card etiquette

NEW YORK (UPI) — Christmas cards provide some of the happiest moments of the holiday season. When preparing your Yuletide greetings, don't forget Christmas card etiquette.

The National Association of Greeting Card Publishers offers these tips on the right way to handle the project:

- On cards to close friends and relatives, signatures should be as gaily informal as possible. Only when they are addressed to formal acquaintances or business friends should your full name be used.
- The husband's name always comes first and also, when children's are added, father's name always comes first. A widow or a married woman uses her husband's first name. A divorced woman would use her own first name. In a card to someone in mourning, be sure to obtain special title greetings with messages of sympathy created for just this purpose.
- Have your return address, with zip code, on the flap of each card envelope. And remember, Christmas seals belong on the reverse side of the envelope, according to the Post Office Department. Make sure to avoid conflicting with the postage seal on the face of the en-

Iconography art work of Bible scene

Iconography is a system for representing Christian subjects by means of pictures or images. Originally, the term meant "portrayal," and especially to portray the figure of Christ, the Madonna and Child, or some scene from the Bible according to the Grotto Book of Art.

In the Greek Orthodox Church icon technically means a movable religious painting. However, iconography often refers, more broadly, to wall paintings and mosaics as well as portable icons.

Going Iconoclastic

The art of the Byzantine—or Eastern Roman—empire first flourished under the rule of Justinian, in the 6th century A.D.

But trouble loomed ahead. When Emperor Leo III came to power, he brought with him a deep hatred of all images, especially icons, say the editors of the Encyclopedia Americana.

As an iconoclast—hater of icons—Leo forbade the creation of religious figures and images, and the Iconoclastic Age began in 726.

less works of art destroyed.

Comics Get Help

When icons returned to favor in the 9th century, the Iconoclastic Age had been responsible for the loss of much religious art—but it had some benefits.

Secular art gained by it as artists of the monastic schools began to work under the patronage of the nobility.

Even modern comic strips owe something to the iconoclasts. The monastic artists who turned to secular work brought with them the Byzantine method of telling a story through a continuous series of drawings.

There's Inspiration

As in all forms of art, the story of the Nativity has been a source of inspiration to iconographers through the ages.

The Madonna and Child have long been favorite subjects for icons, while Byzantine triptychs often showed Christ, Mary His Mother and John the Baptist.

Other early iconographers turned to St. Nicholas, bishop of Myra, as a subject worthy of attention. The good bishop is known in legend as the forefather of Santa Claus.

Merry Christmas

At Yuletide, we extend to you our wish that merriment may brighten your happy hours, all season long.

Paintings Show Sacred Message Lives Anew

YESTERDAY AND TODAY, Byzantine icons tell the Christmas story. Like that sacred story, the style of Byzantine art is changing through the centuries, and these paintings illustrate.

Warm Christmas

From a letter Horace Walpole wrote to his friend Sir Horace Mann, Strawberry Hill, December 26, 1748:

"Did you ever know a more absolute country-gentleman? Here am I come down to what you call keep my Christmas! Indeed it is not in all the forms; I have stuck no laurel and holly in my windows; I eat no turkey and chine, I have no tenants to invite, I have not brought a single soul with me. The weather is excessively stormy, but has been so warm, and so entirely free from frosts the whole winter, that not only several of my honeysuckles are come out, but I have literally a blossom upon a nectarine-tree, which I believe was never seen in this climate before on the 26th of December. I am extremely busy here planting

Iconography? It's Part Of Today

The ancient Byzantine art of iconography is a contemporary art, too, and very much a part of today.

So declares John Pappalopoulos, leading iconographer and owner-creator of the Byzantine Icons Studio, New York.

He points out that the turn of the century Art Nouveau technique, which has influenced much contemporary art, is related to Byzantine religious art. A non-realistic use of color and flattening of perspective are typical.

As an iconographer, Mr. Pappalopoulos leads the development of a "Byzantine art of the 20th century."

Assisted by the artists of his studio, he has decorated some 30 churches in the United States. In his native Greece, he has decorated 19 Athens churches.

Like Byzantine artists of centuries past, Mr. Pappalopoulos works with traditionally authentic egg tempera. He makes his own tempera from egg, vinegar and ammonia. To this emulsion, coloring agents are added.

He makes extensive use of gold leaf, another traditional element in Byzantine art. His work shows his own personal touch but always follows the pure Byzantine style.

PAGAN SYMBOLS

Many Christmas greens used today were once pagan symbols. Flowers and leafy boughs were used in Roman rites, while the Saxons used holly, ivy and bay-leaves in their religious observances.

Nativity scene. The figures, Joseph and a shepherd, are shown with historical accuracy, as a cave in a rocky hillside. This icon is the work of John Pappalopoulos of the Byzantine Icons Studio.

Superstition formed many Yule beliefs

Superstition has long colored our concept of history and particularly its religious tenets. Frequently in countries where literature and the arts flourish, so do "old wives' tales," for good or ill.

In Scotland some people believe that to be born on Christmas is to have the power to see spirits—and even to command them. According to Sir Walter Scott the Spaniards attributed the biggest looks of Phillip II to the terrible visions he was able to see because he had been born on Christmas.

By contrast, in Siloesa a baby born on Christmas will become either a lawyer or a thief.

English mothers used to take sick babies to the door Christmas Eve midnight, when Mary was expected to pass with her child. If the baby recovered it was a sign that it had been touched by the Child with healing fingers; if it did not, it was believed that He had called the baby to be His playmate in Heaven.

In the duchy of Swabia girls went to the woodpile on Christmas Eve to draw sticks. If a long one, their future husband would be tall; if a thick one, he would be fat; if crooked, he would also be crooked in figure. If she wanted to determine his business the girl would drop melted lead into a pan of cold water. The lead would congeal into a shape suggesting an occupation. No matter how odd the shape, the old wives would come up with an occupation which seemed to satisfy the girl.

On Christmas Eve a maiden would set a bowl of water in a form which the ice took would dictate her future husband's business.

In Northern England girls placed holly under their pillows and chanted:

Good St. Thomas serve me right
And send me my true love tonight
That I may gaze upon his face,
Then him in my fond arms embrace.

Some girls make an indigestible cake of flour, water and salt. They eat this on Christmas Eve and it is expected to make them dream of their future husband.

Not speedy enough . . .

CAREY SPEED, 12, a sixth-grader at Wichita, Kan., was not speedy enough (despite his "fast" name) when he ran eight miles from his home to school recently to be in a Christmas program—but he got there after everyone had left. He was to have ridden with friends, but mislaid connections. He is pictured with his teacher, Mrs. Genevieve Allsberry, and the autoharp he was to have played in the program. (UPI)

'Most famous crib' Located in Rome

What is said to be "the most famous Christmas Crib in the world" is on view in the Basilica of Santa Damas and Damiani near the Coliseum in Rome.

This presepe, truly a work of art and the only one of its kind, was created in Naples over 200 years ago.

A certain St. Cataldo Ferricelli and his wife, who had inherited the Crib from ancestors, presented the scene to the third order Regular of St. Francis.

This unique display is 45 feet long, 21 feet wide, and 27 feet high and contains hundreds of wooden, hand-carved figurines.

They are the work of several artists of the 17th century and portray various phases of Neapolitan life of that period.

The blue sky is alight with stars, the moon, a comet, and several angels hover overhead. A shepherd who has fallen asleep near his flock in the background is on hills, valleys, the river Jordan, and lighted villages.

On the balcony of his palace is Herod, pointing out to the Magi the way to the manger in Bethlehem.

The surrounding scenes portray life as it must have been in Naples over two centuries ago.

The most important part of the Crib is, naturally, the Holy Family. The Marys are dressed in colorful Oriental garments, and kneel before the holy infant, offering him rich gifts.

Traditional dessert is mince pie

"What's for dessert?"

At Christmas, the traditional answer to this question in England, the United States and Canada is, "Mince pie and plum pudding!"

One legend says that it brings good luck to eat mince pie on Christmas Day. In earlier times, mince pies were baked to represent the Manger.

Plum pudding, too, has its legend of luck, but her the good luck comes in the making of the pudding. Every member of the family must stir the pudding while it's being made if good fortune is desired, says the old English tradition.

Don't make vows in light vein

Don't go through the motions of making New Year's resolutions unless you have serious intent of making them work.

In fact, according to psychologists, you may be doing your psyche harm by experiencing another defeat. You'd be better off not making resolutions at all.

One expert suggests we make resolutions aimed at self-improvement, rather than promising to do things which would require a sharp change in our habits or activities.

Here is a four-point guideline: 1. Never let pressure of a calendar date of friends' well-meaning nudges cause you to make a resolution.

2. Stop and take inventory of your problems. (Oh, yes, you have them.) Try to trace the source of the trouble, not merely the symptom. If necessary, get professional advice.

3. When you have located the source of the problem, find out how important a change is to you. Do you really want to effect this change? Would you really work at it? If you cannot honestly say "yes" to both these questions, you probably won't achieve the change.

4. Don't set too high standards for yourself. Keep your goals reasonable. Keep in mind that many mental problems as well as lost resolutions are due to your making unreasonable, unattainable demands on yourself.

Bells ring in tradition of Yuletide

Ringling across the ages and around the world, bells are part of the traditions of Christmas. Zurich, Switzerland, has long been noted for its beautiful bells, say the editors of the New Book of Knowledge.

Every Christmas Eve, the Zurich bells ring out loud and clear, calling families to church.

This same tradition is repeated in thousands of other cities, where chimes and bells ring out at midnight from the steeples and spires of churches. Bells contribute to the nights as well as the sounds of the holiday season. They are a popular decoration and are used as ornaments on trees.

Tradition has it that bells inspired Clement C. Moore to write his famous poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas." In the merry jingle of bells on his horse's harness, as he drove along on a frosty winter night,

On a note of good cheer, we greet our many friends with best wishes and appreciation.

Greeting cards popular

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Christmas-card sending has become one of America's most important holiday traditions.

This year, the 94th anniversary of the American Christmas card, it is estimated that 50 million American families will send their friends and loved ones more than two-and-a-half billion Christmas cards.

Christmas 1970 designs and illustrations will be more colorful than ever, reports the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, whose members account for over 80 per cent of all Christmas cards produced. Not only are the designs and illustrations more exciting and unusual, the association said, but many of the cards are produced on a wide range of colorful papers, including sparkling foils and other special materials.

Industry spokesmen agree that the most popular designs are still the traditional ones—Santas, Christmas trees, holly, snow scenes, wreaths, Christmas bells and ornaments. The spokesmen said, however, that more and more cards will feature religious themes and the subject of peace than in previous years.

The universal plea for "Peace on Earth" they reported are expressed by illustrations of numerous peace motifs such as the dove, the angel of peace, the lion and the lamb, children of different races, the olive branch, praying hands, and the peace symbol.

The words "Peace," "Love," "Hope," "Salom" and "Brotherhood" are used interchangeably in many of the illustrations and in the greetings on the peace year cards.

Man's first moon landing is presented in one design. It bears the message "We came in peace for all mankind." The illustration shows the American flag planted on the moon's surface, the planet earth in the distance and the Christmas star shining over all.

The most popular religious design will probably be the Madonna, but the Three Holy Mon, the Christ Child, the Holy Family, the angels and the shepherds, the Nativity Scene and the star in the East will still be favorites.

The modern approach toward the holy season is expressed in designs showing churchgoers attending Christmas services, surprised choirs singing joyous hymns, colorful stained glass windows, church bells and lighted candles.

So, whatever you want your Christmas greeting to say, something reverent, something cheerful of something sentimental, there will be a new, exciting and almost endless variety to meet the demand.

Dreadful Dicks Dilemma or Santa's Fright Before Christmas

Taos Indian Christmas most colorful

One of the most colorful celebrations of Christmas in America has been the rites conducted by the Taos Indians in New Mexico.

Commemorative Indian dances originated, long before Spanish priests brought the Roman Catholic religion to the isolated pueblos of New Mexico in the 1600s. But with their conversion to Catholicism, the Indians blended the new and old, and the outgrowth was the Christmas dance.

The practice of Christmas dances originated when Spanish explorers and priests asked the Indians to perform whatever dances they thought would be appropriate for the religious holiday.

Customarily, either the Deer dance or the Matachines Dance is performed on Christmas day. According to the Indians, the Deer dance was chosen hundreds of years ago because the Indians thought the deer was one of the animals that might have been present when Christ was born.

The Matachines is a dance honoring the mother of Christ. According to an Indian spokesman, the dance was developed by the Indians from their interpretation of Spanish Catholic teachings about the Virgin Mother.

Religious events are plentiful in this predominantly Catholic state, although many of the services are no different (save for the setting, the adobe buildings and the cultural heritage of the people) from services held elsewhere.

Visitors now have to look long and hard to find any shepherds' watch-fires twinkling on the hills to light the path of Mary and Joseph. Once, such fires were common.

Ghosts

Souls of dead persons may wander abroad on Christmas Eve. Or so it was believed in both Yugoslavia and Norway. A lighted candle placed in a window was thought to have power to keep ghosts outside a home and to light them on their way. Yule candles are still placed in cottage windows.

FACTS AND FANCIES THAT HAVE GROWN WITH THE FESTIVE TREE

One of the most joyous elements of the Christmas is the Evergreen tree. Yet it is a fact that they were first brought into homes at a time of fear. And primitive man thought that they harbored beneficent spirits.

In the North, primitive man watched with mounting terror the decline of the life-giving sun. Lengthening winter nights carried the threat of unending cold, darkness and hunger. Frozen fields held no promise of another harvest. Fruit trees stood bare, apparently lifeless, deserted by the spirits.

Alone in the bitter cold and gloom, the evergreens stood as a document of faith in the revival of the sun god and the return of light and life to the frozen world. Living conifers in tubs were brought indoors to prop the householders' courage and to shelter the sylvan spirits. These earliest trees of the winter solstice ritual were not ornamented. They were a testament of life, not mere decoration.

The frivolous elements in the social behavior of the Christmas holidays came not from the North but from the Mediterranean countries. In Rome, the celebration of the winter solstice was an imagined return to the simplicity and brotherly goodwill of the Golden Age. During the week of the Saturnalia which began on Dec. 17, all class distinctions and rules of decorum were suspended. No official business was transacted, children were released from school and truces were imposed on battlefields. Houses and public buildings were garlanded with flowers and evergreens. Gifts were exchanged, feasts were rampant and masks and mummery roamed the cobble streets.

holly was venerated by ancients

Modern man is apt to take holly for granted, although it is much admired, and used, during the Christmas Season. Yet even before the coming of the Christchild, holly held a niche unique in the history of man's relationship with plants.

Writings of the Greeks and Romans record the giving of holly branches and wreaths on happy occasions. Wedding guests brought holly to the newly married couple as an expression of their good wishes, and bouquets were frequently given as gifts to friends to signify goodwill. Its lustrous leaves and glossy berries enlivened pagan revels throughout Europe, most notably the notorious Roman festival of Saturnalia.

Householders from the frozen North to the Mediterranean isles, brought holly into their dwellings to protect themselves from evil spirits. They considered it a haven for friendly fairies of the forest during the winter's cold, dark days. Branches were put in the barns, too, because its cheery brightness was believed to make the cattle thrive despite the bleak weather.

Persia's followers of Zoroaster believed the holly tree casts no shadow. They made a tea of holly leaves for use in religious ceremonies. In Germany, holly was called Christ-dorn, for it was thought that the crucifixion wreath was made of holly. In England, he who trod on holly berries was cured with bad luck, for the robin who loves these berries was said to have plucked the thorns from Christ's brow. This was how he got his red breast, according to ancient legend.

When they had heard the king, they departed; and lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was.

—St. Matthew 2:9

Wreaths had pagan start

During this holiday season, a wide variety of colorful wreaths deck the doorways of homes in this community.

The use of wreaths at holiday time stems from the customs of Advent season—the four Sundays before Christmas. Traditionally, Advent wreaths are made of evergreens, trimmed with ribbons, and hold four candles to be lit during the Sundays of Advent.

The wreath, which has no beginning or end, represents eternity, and the evergreens symbolize growth and life, according to the editors of the New Book of Knowledge.

Like many other Christian holiday customs, the Advent wreath originated in pagan ceremonies.

During the dark days of the winter solstice, the sun worshippers of northern Europe sought to please their absent god, the sun, and persuade him to return, by using a wheel trimmed with greenery.

Yuletide customs spread around globe

Mistletoe, Santa Claus, letters to Santa, Christmas customs galore — where did they all begin?

The customs of Christmas come from many lands and many eras. They evolve from pagan ceremonies into Christian rituals. And they stretch from West to East, from North to South, as each country contributes something special and traditional to the celebrations of the holiday.

When seasonal gaiety rings out in Canada, the merriment is echoed in Mexico. When North or South Americans gather for Christmas festivities, the people of Sweden are doing the same — and so are the peoples of Holland and France and Italy and Spain and countless other European countries.

In the far East, Christian communities spread the customs of Christmas, which mingle with the year-end ceremonies observed by those of other faiths.

That the legend and lore of Christmas knows no boundaries is illustrated in the following round-up of Yuletide customs, based on information provided by the editors of the Encyclopaedia International.

In England
From the north of England comes the happy custom of the kissing bough. A large hoop, twined with greens, is decorated with apples and candles. And in the center there's mistletoe — signal for exchanging kisses.

In Italy
From Italy comes a most poetic addition to Christmas lore. For three weeks during the Christmas season, children traditionally go from place to place reciting Christmas poems. They expect coins in return, to buy holiday goodies.

In Austria
Custom of writing letters to Santa Claus may have begun in Austria, where, long ago, it was an Advent tradition for children to write letters containing lists of what they'd like to receive on St. Nicholas' Day.

In Sweden
An ancient custom that is still observed in some Swedish households today is that of "dipping bread into the pot." Each person dips a piece of bread into pork and sausage drippings and eats it for good luck.

In Holland
For St. Nicholas season, it's traditional in Holland to make the cookies called Klases. Once exclusively made in the form of the bishop, St. Nicholas, Klases now take any form of bird, beast, or fish.

In France
At Bales in central France, old-time tradition calls for a king and queen to rule over Christmas festivities. Rulers pay for the privilege, since they are "elected" by bidding at an auction held on the church steps.

In Germany
A procession which blends pagan and Christmas customs is part of the holiday in Ruppini, Germany. A rider on a white horse, symbolizing the horse of the pagan god Wotan, leads the parade.

In Switzerland
A Swiss custom that dates back to the Middle Ages is to start the New Year free of debts, December 6th, the feast of St. Nicholas of Myra, the first Santa Claus, is the day set to meet all monetary obligations such as rents and mortgages.

Scholars study shining star

"There shall come forth a Star" — Numbers 24:17

In this Old Testament prophecy by Balaam, was a real star meant, or does "Star" refer to a great person?

For centuries, Biblical scholars have considered this question. Many believe that the prophecy led the wise men to watch for and follow the "star in the east," of which St. Matthew wrote in his story of the Nativity.

The star itself is the source of many theories. Perhaps the best of all is that it was a miraculous appearance and no such needs no explanation.

However, astronomers through the ages have sought to connect the star seen by the wise men with other reported celestial objects — a comet, perhaps, or an especially brilliant star that only appears at long intervals.

Still another theory suggests that the star may have been a configuration or grouping of planets. In 1604, the German astronomer Johannes Kepler theorized that Jupiter, Saturn and Mars might have occurred in such a configuration at about the time of Christ's birth.

The fact that the star and the visit of the wise men were described only by St. Matthew has led to still another question. Did only the wise men see the star?

That they were so privileged is sometimes explained by the legend that the wise men were astrologers whose special interest helped them to notice the unusual brilliance of the three planets grouped together.

Let us follow the Star of Bethlehem, in search of that peace that passes understanding. May Christ's love abide with you and yours!

live. The individual expressions of the holiday are rooted in tradition and religious practice, in most places. Following is a United Press International look at Christmas, 1970 around the world.

WEST GERMANY
Students and youth organizations in Cologne campaign against war toys under West German Christmas trees. In the past decades, and even after World War II which turned this nation into rubble and ruins, many German parents still could not resist placing war toys under the trees. They included fighter planes, tanks, rockets, tin soldiers and other things "glorifying war" — as the students and youth organizations say. This year the youths spare no effort finally to bring this "evil tradition" to an end.

HOLLAND
Christmas in Holland differs from Christmas in other Western countries. Much emphasis is on religion, family meetings and dinners and not on the gift-giving under the Christmas tree, though the tree stands in many homes. ITALY

Santa Claus and the good witch, Befana, are still there but Christmas in Italy entered the computer era this year. A Milan department store is making a computer available to parents who don't know what presents they should buy for their children. You feed the computer such data as the child's age, sex, and tastes, and out comes instant advice. Most Italian children still get their gifts on Epiphany Day, Jan. 6. They are brought by broom-riding, chimney descending good witch, Befana. Santa Claus, advancing on the wings of advertising and American comic strips, has gained considerable ground since World War II but still is not absolute master in the country

As in many warm spots, trees wave and surfers play, in those Latin-American countries south of the equator, Christmas celebrations stimulate the traditional wintry scene. During December it's summer, and Santa most likely will have a temperature-control undersuit beneath all that red velvet and ermine. In Colombia, government authorities have prohibited the chopping down of pine trees to help preserve the nation's forests. So, many Colombian families will be using aluminum and plastic Christmas trees, even as their North American neighbors do.

Polish husbands should buy their wives a food-mixer or a washing machine for Christmas this year, and spend less on the Christmas goose, according to President Marian Spychalski. As Poles stepped up their search for Christmas items in the stores, Spychalski appealed to the consumer to spend more on industrial goods and less on food. Most Poles, however, are unlikely to be deterred from their tradition of making Christmas the biggest feast of the year. A display of carp, roast goose, meat dishes, savory cabbage, mushrooms, noodles, pickles and an assortment of pastries is an annual highlight in the usually humdrum diet of the average Pole.

MOSLEM ARABS
Most of the Moslem Arab world marks Christmas as an official holiday but Islamic adherents do not celebrate in a religious sense. Some Moslem families put up a tree and exchange presents but only so their children will not feel out-many courses, roasting evening meals with champagne and kissing under mistletoe at midnight.

The home ritual includes the plucking of small-surprise gifts from the Christmas tree.

In Brussels and several large cities, Christmas is also the excuse for electrical garland decorations of increasingly commercial kind. In Flanders and to a lesser extent in Wallonia it is still the Roman Catholic midnight mass which is the highlight of Christmas. The Christmas crib in the homes — sometimes an heirloom handed down through generations — is as essential as the Christmas tree.

SWEDEN
When the virgin maid, Santa Lucia, wearing a golden crown with lighted candles, slowly walks into every home to spread her light in the winter darkness Christmas celebrations officially start in Sweden. This is on Dec. 13, when there is no light at all in northern Sweden and the sun hardly rises over the horizon in other parts of the country. Santa Lucia is the queen of light.

Heat control suit needed in Brazil

As in many warm spots, trees wave and surfers play, in those Latin-American countries south of the equator, Christmas celebrations stimulate the traditional wintry scene. In Colombia, government authorities have prohibited the chopping down of pine trees to help preserve the nation's forests. So, many Colombian families will be using aluminum and plastic Christmas trees, even as their North American neighbors do. Christmas is more of a family affair and often quieter in Latin America than in the more developed, industrialized northern countries. Families eat a large, intimate dinner. Gifts are exchanged, but on a somewhat smaller scale. The more devout attend midnight mass.

Legends abound about origins of yule tree

Trees have been friends of Man for as long as recorded history. But not always are they associated with the coming of the Christ Child, and the day which Christians (and other sects, too) celebrate.

Another legend concerns St. Boniface in the 8th century. On Christmas Eve, while the famous Man of God was hewing down the sacred oak that had been the object of idolatrous worship, a tornado blasted it. Just behind it stood a young fir tree pointing a green spire heavenward.

St. Boniface turned to the pagans and said, "This little tree, a young child of the forest, shall be your holy tree. It is the wood of peace, for your homes are built of it. It is the sign of an endless life, for its leaves are always green. Let this be the tree of the Christ child."

Legends abound about the origin of the Christmas tree. One is based on the three trees near the manger — the olive, the date and the pine tree.

To honor the newborn king, the olive gave its fruit and the palm its dates as an offering, but the pine tree, forlorn, had nothing to give. Some stars seeing this from above, gently descended from the heavens and rested upon its boughs as an offering. The Christmas tale is said to be the origin of the decorated tree.

Luke paints Madonna Puritans frowned on Christmas festivities

"And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us. And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph and the babe lying in a manger." Luke 2:15-16

During the early 17th century any formal observance of Christmas was ruled out by the rigid code of Puritanism. Yuletide was forbidden as emanating from the Devil. And the Devil was very much a personage in those days. This rule persisted until 1681 when it was repealed. Probably the influence of the Dutch and German settlers had prevailed, and their customs of Christmas feasting and merrymaking softened the hearts of the strict Puritans.

"We enjoyed a merry Christmas during the day & evening until nine. In northeastern Wyoming it was rumored that one of a pioneer's Christmas trees had a calming influence on a wounded Sioux Indian who burst in to a widow's cabin seeking help and food. She was decorating a small tree for her two children. Its beauty aroused the Indian's curiosity and through sign language, the woman was able to explain in part some of the tree's significance. She fed and cared for the Indian and was able to take him back to his tribe. It is part of the legend that he, having learned the spirit of Christmas, rewarded her with many gifts.

Never a Christmas Morning ...
Never the Old Year ends,
But Someone thinks of Someone
Old Days, Old Times, Old Friends

Traditionally, St. Luke did still more to preserve the spiritual treasures of the Christmas story. He literally pictured the Madonna. According to this tradition, St. Luke was an iconographer as well as a physician, and as such he created the first image of the Madonna, a painting that became the guide for many icons in later centuries. As legend has it, Luke's icon of the Madonna and his other paintings were the forerunners of the style of artistic expression known as Byzantine art. Oppressed and suppressed in some eras, Byzantine religious art has returned and distinctive a style that it returned again and again, to thrive throughout 12 centuries. Today, it is enjoying a rebirth, through the efforts of dedicated iconographers.

Wait till Jan. 6

Mexico is a country where Santa Claus and the Christmas legends have apparently lost a battle to win acceptance. Children are told that gifts come from "ñiño Jesus," the boy Jesus, and in most cases must wait until Jan. 6, the day of the Three Wise Men, before they get their presents.

The plenty of the new land provided abundant foodstuffs for the holiday table. And the woods' greens, boughs and assorted cones were used for decorative trim.

In 1804 the explorers Moriwether Lewis and William Clark rested from their journey westward to celebrate Christmas Day somewhere in the vicinity of what is now Bismarck, North Dakota. Captain Clark wrote in his journal,

Freedom yule gift in 1776

Our religious freedoms are sometimes lightly regarded by certain Americans today, but back in the days when our country was very young, the freedom to worship as we pleased was one of the hard-fought victories of the Revolution.

George Washington and his men won the battle at Trenton ... that was the beginning of a long line of victories that eventually led to ultimate victory and total independence, along with complete religious freedom.

The foundation for the preservation of the freedom to celebrate such beliefs as Christmas — this was the gift to our country on that very day in December 1776.

Treasure hunt fun

The simplest searching game is one in which one person leaves the room while another hides a small object that has been agreed upon beforehand — a small package, some wrapped Christmas candy. When "it" comes back, he hunts for the object and the other person indicates that he is near by clapping loudly or saying, "You're warm." When "it" moves away from the object, the other person claps softly or says, "You're getting cold."

Guessing game with tree fun

A Christmas Tree game that everyone can play is a guessing game. In "Christmas Tree" the person who is "it" leaves the room while the other players decide on a secret word. It must be a verb, or a word showing action, such as run, eat or swim. When "it" comes back, he tries to guess the word by asking questions using "Christmas Tree" in place of the word. He may ask, "Do children Christmas Tree?"

No record known of birth date

There is no record of Jesus' birthdate. Some early church scholars urged that it be celebrated in January. Others pressed for March, April, or September. If, as Luke reports, shepherds were in the fields at night watching over their flocks, the Nativity must have occurred during a warm season. In winter, the sheep slept in folds.

Ornament firms work way ahead

While you're busy selecting the perfect ornaments for your family tree, the manufacturers of them in all likelihood, are vacationing on some southern sands, or otherwise far away from the bustle unless they, too, are admiring the ornaments selected for their trees.

Glass balls, less than 4,000 out of 200 million glass balls produced last year were broken. An excellent performance!

Glass ornaments, which are produced by only three companies in this country, are usually only five thousandths of an inch thick and are quite fragile.

Most ornamental balls for the Christmas tree come in the popular size of 2 1/4 to 2 3/4 inches. One firm makes balls ranging from one" to 3 1/4".

Currently a major portion of holiday ornaments comes from Japan, with more and more being imported from Hong Kong and Taiwan in recent years. Italy, Germany and some of the countries behind the Iron Curtain also supply these products to the United States. In fact 8 to 10 per cent of all glass ornaments comes from outside of this country.

Over 80 different designs are offered by one leading U.S. maker, which fashions about 40 million ornaments a year from American-produced glass.

Most glass decorations today are manufactured by machine but a limited number are still made by hand.

"We try to emphasize the meaning of the holiday, the light for freedom and relate it to modern history. I make latkes — we light the menorah, we have close friends over. We try to give our children a feeling of unity, that there are other Jews around, too — that all of us have a part, together, in this holiday season."

Many would like to believe in Santa Claus, too. Some Jewish parents bridge the Santa Claus gap.

Explained one Jewish mother, "Santa Claus visited our house and brought presents. We also celebrated Hanukkah, both the fun and the religious part. But at Christmas, the religious part was completely disregarded. The giving and the Santa Claus part is American, not Christian."

Another mother disagrees. "One of the local rabbis said that it's an imposition to celebrate Christmas if you're Jewish and he's right," she said. "I think our neighbors appreciate it and respect us more for observing what we believe in. We can all live together, Christians and Jews, with mutual respect, for our customs, in America."

To that we say, Amen.

A PRAYER FOR THE NEW YEAR

We pray... that strength and courage be given to all who work for a world of good will... that the scourges of poverty, disease and callousness will be driven from the earth... that the spirit of the Season may live among us, for always.

Decorating tree once questioned

Decorating the tree and the home was not always an innocent pastime. In the very early days of the Christian Church the Pope took a cautious stand on the matter of decorations and festivities. They felt that some of the emerging customs were too pagan in origin.

Shoemaker starts use of candles

Here is an appealing story that focuses on Man's old friend, the candle. Back in the Middle Ages, any light, no matter how fragile, was much prized, and a candle, though perhaps common to us, was a possession of great value.

A shoemaker lived in a cottage on the edge of a village, near the dark woods. Although a poor man, he placed his candle in the window each night to guide travelers. Despite wars, hardships and illness, by some miracle, some mysterious grace, his light never wavered.

This inspired the villagers and during the Christmas season most of them placed a candle in their windows. The custom grew and became universal.

Word Yule has pagan origins

The ancient northern Europeans, acutely conscious of the peregrinations of the Sun, formed definite theories about it.

They thought the sun was a wheel revolving around the earth, and they observed that on one particular day in midwinter its appearance and disappearance marked the shortest day of the year.

This cycle was known to them as the Hwyl, and it was a time of celebrating.

As the pagan Yule celebrations were replaced by the feast of Christmas, the festive season extended from Christmas Eve to the Feast of the Epiphany. This meant that the Yule log had plenty of time, big as it used to be, to flame and flicker before the last of it had smoldered to ashes.

In the agricultural economy of the pre-Civil War South here in our own country, the Yule log was the means of procuring a true holiday for the field hands.

Is the real Christmas man St. Nick or Santa?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Is the authentic figure of Christmas St. Nick — or Santa Claus? Are the two one and the same?

It depends on which Christmas tale you believe.

St. Nicholas, bishop of Myra in Asia Minor in the year 300, was famous for his generous ways. People of the time figured surprise gifts came from him.

At one time, persons in the Netherlands selected St. Nicholas as the patron saint of children. He got credit for bringing them good things.

St. Nicholas also is the Christmas spirit in France (Pere Noel), in Italy (La Befana) and in Switzerland (Christkindli). Whatever he's called, in many places in the world he's the equivalent of the American Santa Claus.

It was the Dutch settlers in New York who called their St. Nick Sinter Kloss. This is said to have been the start of the name Santa Claus.

Santa's traditional outfit — beard and fur-trimmed red suit — first was described in 1823 by the American minister and poet, Clement C. Moore.

Children in houses or apartments with no fireplaces may have a time worrying about how Santa's going to get into their abodes Christmas eve.

Why in such cases, children, Santa comes through a window, the front or back door, or maybe uses the fire escape.

He does it ever so quietly when everyone's sleeping.

Hanukkah event fosters respect

Maybe some Jewish parents enjoy the image of Santa as much as their children do. Said one mother, "The children believe in Santa to not hurt my feelings. I sometimes try to save the big presents for Christmas day. They put some socks by the fireplace, but they stay empty. Santa Claus belongs to all sets, the children don't believe he's a religious figure."

They go to synagogue and at Hanukkah the house is decorated with stars of David. The family eats potato pancakes, and the children got a present every night. But, every year, the children ask for Christmas lights outside the house.

Behind all the Christian and Jewish symbols — the tree, the star of Bethlehem, the menorah, the star of David — is the effort by the parents to be sure their children understand the basic differences.

Said one mother, whose Jewish family is one of about 30 in her neighborhood, "There's such an abundance of Christmas in school."

Make Room for Him Today

It is ironic that, in the midst of putting our house in holiday array—in decking "the halls with boughs of holly"—and, doing all the other happy chores of Christmas, we are often bereft of the inner spiritual grace that can light our lives!

Let us continue to make merry—to add swag of greenery to our front door, and wreaths high and beautiful. But let us also open our hearts and minds to the true meaning of Christmas. Let the shadow of these wanderers grace our homes in every way. Let us make the Virgin Mother, the kindly Joseph—yes the donkey—and their precious cargo welcome, today and always!

Mistletoe, holly, star all have yule reason

NEW YORK (UPI)—Christmas means mistletoe, Yule trees, bright lights, holly and a star. All of these holiday symbols have a reason for being on the scene. Worldwide, the star is used as a Christmas symbol to represent the Star in the East referred to in the Bible. "Behold, there came Wise Men from the East to Jerusalem, saying, Where is He that is born King of the Jews? For we have seen His star in the East and we come to worship Him." Christmas lights stand for Christ as light of the world. The first lights on a Yule tree were believed used by Martin Luther. They were candles, of course. He said the brightness called attention to the Christlight belief and also the beauty of the stars in the sky over Bethlehem at the time of Christ's birth. Mistletoe is believed to date from the Druid custom of giving sprigs of the plant as a charm. Of course, the custom of being subject to a kiss while standing under the mistletoe extends the warm feelings men and women of good will are supposed to feel at Christmas. One legend about the first Christmas tree holds that the really first tree was seen in a vision experienced by an English missionary named Winfrid. Later he was called Boniface. The time was 1,200 years ago and Winfrid was going through northern Germany. It is said he came upon a group on non-believers huddled about an oak tree. They were getting ready to sacrifice Asulf, a little prince, to the god Thor. The missionary stopped the ceremony and chopped down the oak. As the great tree fell, a young fir tree appeared. The missionary interpreted this as the tree of life, saying it must represent Christ. The custom of decking the halls with holly and green branches is a throwback to the days before Christ's birth. Romans exchanged tree branches for good luck at the beginning of January. The English picked up the custom and associated it with Christmas. An old English rhyme of the time explained it this way: "Holly and ivy, box and bay, put in the church on Christmas Day."

Ivy was crown of wine god

The term "Bacchanalian revelry" often applies to holiday celebrations. Ivy is intertwined in the history of Bacchus, for ivy was the Wine God's crown. Legend tells how it was introduced into Ireland. When Bacchus was traveling through the western lands—he visited Ireland and fell in love with its lush green, charm and beauty. When the time came for him to leave the country, he decided to plant the ivy as a living souvenir of his affection for the Emerald Isle.

Trees started in plays

The decorated Christmas tree as we know it developed from the miracle plays of the Middle Ages. The plays originated as liturgical cantatas sung in Latin in churches with very slight dramatization. Scenery was held to a minimum. The Garden of Eden, for example, was designated by a fir tree hung with apples. This Paradise tree, as it was called, represented the Fall of Man, not the Nativity. As the miracle plays gained popularity they became more elaborate, with more characters, more scenery, even live animals—until their staging outgrew the limits of a church. Moved outdoors, the plays became increasingly secular until, about 1450, their performance was banned.

The tree of Eden, the Paradise tree, somehow survived in the public mind after its play was forbidden. It was set up in the house as an object lesson for children: the evergreen tree was an emblem of immortality, while the apples stood for sin. Round wafers were hung on the tree to symbolize redemption. The strictly moralistic character of the Paradise tree gradually faded into pure decoration as apples were replaced by glittering ornaments, and plain wafers took on the shapes of moon and stars, of men and animals. The ornamented glitter of modern Man's Christmas trees had evolved from this basically religious beginning.

Card history dim

Americans exchange billions of Christmas cards every year. There are conflicting reports of who sent the first one. According to one source John Calcott Horsley designed the first card for Sir Henry Cole in 1843. It is a triptych, the central panel of which shows a well-fed family at table.

Christmas in West

The famous landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted was visiting far from home, in Texas during the Christmas season in the early 1850's. Evidently his preconceived impressions of the wild West bore out. In his diary he noted that from his hotel window he could see the Christmas Eve celebration in San Augustine was noisy and boisterous. The town only had about 50 houses and 12 shops, but its citizens gathered into a band of serenaders who went about the small village beating on tin pans and being very boisterous. This was in sharp contrast to Olmsted's New England upbringing. Throughout Texas and the West, Christmas Day was often spent in wild turkey shoots, followed by a tremendous feast with the bird as featured fare.

Yule time of sharing

Christmas is: A time for sharing and surprises, a time for magic and merriment, and a time to say, "Glad greetings, one and all." Christmas is: The season of song and celebration, the season of little children and love and laughter, and the season of worship and rejoicing. Christmas is: For fellowship and feasting, for family and friends, for home and happiness. But Christmas, too, is for remembering the stranger within the gates, for cheering the lonely, comforting the sorrowful, befriending the needy. Christmas is: For everyone—for those of Christian faith who celebrate the Day as a holy time of highest importance, and for those of other faiths, who love and observe the Yuletide as a holiday dedicated to good will and good cheer. Peak of all, Christmas is: Here! Throughout this community, plans and preparations reach their peak. Every joyous surprise is at the point of revelation. The tree lights go on, the carols ring out, the gaily-wrapped gifts are delivered. With gleeful smiles, the children welcome Santa's bounty, while the grown-ups greet one another, and talk and laugh and even shed a happy tear or two, rejoicing in the deep and tender meaning of the Christmas spirit. If there was a bit of haste—and even some hassle—about the getting-ready process, all is now forgotten in the glow and glory of Christmas. The quickened pace of modern living seems to make it almost impossible to prepare for the holiday without setting, at times, a somewhat hectic pace. Be that as it may, the glad, true spirit of the season is always with Christmas planning, and Christmas reality, in all their wonder and warmth, more than make up for the
