

Basque deaths upheld

BURGOS, Spain (UPI)—Capt. Gen. Tomas Garcia Rebull, commanding officer of the Burgos military region, today confirmed the six death sentences and jail terms against 18 Basque nationalists convicted two days ago. The action placed their fate squarely in the hands of Gen. Francisco Franco.

Workers in the industrial north went on strike today to protest the death sentences imposed on six of the defendants convicted of murder and banditry. In Madrid, Franco was deluged with petitions for clemency.

Francisco addresses the nation tonight in his annual New Year's speech and a decision on whether to commute the death sentences could come then. Hundreds of army men were reported to have asked for clemency, but the Spanish cabinet was reported divided.

Francisco is the only man in Spain with power to commute the death sentences. He was under pressure by many European governments including the Vatican to do so and faced with the threat of unrest in the industrial north if he does not do so.

Reports reaching Burgos said several factories in the Basque provinces fronting France had closed down and that others operated with half their normal work forces. However, the strikes were far less drastic than those marking the start of the trial of 18 Basques in early December.

The lawyers representing the six condemned Basques asked Franco for clemency a few hours before he was scheduled to address the nation. Another appeal came from Cardinal Fernando Quiroga y Palacios, archbishop of Santiago de Compostela.

An opposition source said several hundred generals and colonels had sent telegrams to Franco urging clemency. In Barcelona, 300 doctors met in an all night vigil to protest the sentences. Lawyers there have carried out similar vigils.

No more Stetsons

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Stetson, the firm that covered the heads of prairie ranchers and presidents, announced Tuesday it would end the production of hats "early in 1971."

The firm was famous for its cowboy star clientele who wore white hats when they were good guys and black hats when they were bad guys.

Stetson once employed 5,000 employes in its factory here.

Lincoln asks vote revision

TWIN FALLS — Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, said today he would sponsor an Idaho constitutional amendment to permit 18-year-olds to vote in state and local elections.

Earlier this month the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that 18-year-old persons could vote in federal elections. The ruling did not affect the Idaho constitution's 21-year-old vote for state and local elections.

Lincoln said the 18-year-old vote would be "one of the most important pieces of legislation to be considered" at the 41st Legislature.

"I will sponsor and work for the passage of such legislation," he said. "It is time we gave our young people the privilege and responsibility of voting."

"Those who oppose lowering the voting age point to campus unrest and violence as a reason for denying our youth a vote. I personally abhor this violence, and feel that those involved should be prosecuted the same as any other violator."

"At the same time it should be pointed out that only a small percentage of our youth are involved in such violence, and therefore the great majority should not be penalized for the sins of a few," he said.

"The lowering of the voting age was considered by the last session of the Idaho Legislature but it was the opinion of the majority of the legislators that if the proposed new constitution was adopted it would not be necessary to submit yet another amendment to the old constitution."

"The new constitution was not accepted, so in light of the recent action by the U. S. Congress and the decision of the Supreme Court, I feel this question should be submitted to the people at the earliest possible date."

Killer ice coats roads

By RUTH MILLER
Times-News Staff Writer
BLISS — Killer ice and slush made travel treacherous on Magic Valley highways today and were blamed for the death of a California man near Bliss on Tuesday.

Gooding County sheriff's officers said William M. Barber, 23, Alta Loma, Calif., was dead at the scene of a one-vehicle accident a mile and a half east of Bliss on State-Highway 25.

They said the victim was a passenger in a pickup truck which attempted to pass another truck. The vehicle went out of control in the heavy slush and overturned, officers said.

The victim and the vehicle's driver, Larry T. King, 22, Corona, Calif., and another passenger and owner of the vehicle, Lavoy Robert Grandpre Jr., 23, Riverdale, Calif., all were thrown from the truck.

The accident occurred about 11 a.m. Tuesday. Grandpre and King were taken to Gooding Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released.

Investigating officer was Deputy Bill Bunn, assisted by Sheriff Earl Brown and Deputy James Burke.

Elsewhere in Magic Valley storm conditions caused several serious accidents and many minor accidents.

One person was injured in a two-car collision at 1 p.m. Tuesday at the junction of Highways 83 and 25 four miles east of Jerome.

Jerome County Sheriff James (Pat) Burns said a car driven by Mrs. Jesse Schuyler, Jerome, was making a left turn onto Highway 25 from Highway 83 and collided with a vehicle driven by Edward Irving Dickson, 38, Concord, Calif.

A Twin Falls man was injured about 1:10 a.m. Wednesday when his vehicle collided with the rear end of a car parked on Eastland Drive North near Mary Alice Park.

Twin Falls County deputies said Harry Jones Peterson, 34, was taken by ambulance to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. He is in good condition.

Occupants of the other vehicle involved in the accident were Carl Freeman Wurster, 17, and Jan Haley, 18, both Twin Falls. They were not injured.

Officers said the Peterson vehicle skidded on ice-covered roads.

Strikes set Red trail 'popping'

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. jet fighters on a strike against a North Vietnamese supply convoy on the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos triggered the biggest secondary explosions in five years of allied bombings there, reliable military sources said today.

Earlier this week produced "well over 2,000 secondary explosions, indicating that large fuel or ammunition supplies were hit. They said it could have been the most successful bombing mission of the Indochina War.

The informants said the secondary explosions were "popping off" for more than three hours.

The White House disclosed last week that the Communists were moving supplies down the Ho Chi Minh Trail at a rate 30 per cent higher in preparation for a new offensive, possibly in Cambodia.

The B52 and fighter-bomber strikes against the trail have been the greatest sustained effort of the war—or any other war—but reports from Laos indicated vast quantities still were getting through.

U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has taken note of the big Communist push down the trail—really a mass of dirt roads hidden from aerial view by dense jungles—and has threatened to bomb supply dumps in North Vietnam if necessary to protect American lives in South Vietnam.

Military sources said an American forward air controller (FAC) spotter plane pilot sighted headlights moving down a section of the trail leading into Cambodia and South Vietnam and called in U.S. Air Force jets whose bombs got almost "instant secondaries."

The fighter-bomber attack was part of a three-month nonstop effort to block supplies. B52s have almost stopped bombing targets in South Vietnam as they could halt the flow of arms and permit continuation of the U.S. withdrawal plans.

The strikes were reported shortly before the Viet Cong's three-day cease-fire was going into effect at 1 a.m. Thursday (noon EST Wednesday). It hours before the allies begin their own 94-hour New Year's cease-fire.

Cox, who was the object of a search by Cassia County sheriff's officers and volunteers, telephoned Philo West, at the Pomerelle ski area, when he arrived at the Ellis Parish ranch, northwest of the Elba store, about 10:20 a. m. today.

His also notified his wife in Twin Falls of his safe arrival.

Officers began a search with a patrol of 16 snowmobiles Tuesday afternoon when Cox did not return as scheduled to the Pomerelle ski lodge at noon.

He had gone on a snowmobile about 9 a. m. Tuesday to the top of Mt. Harrison to make repairs on a radio relay station.

When he had not returned by 3:30 p. m. his father, Ver Cox, Twin Falls, notified the sheriff's office. Because of blizzard conditions the search was halted when darkness fell.

Snowmobilers left the Pomerelle lodge at 6 a. m. today to continue the search.

Sheriff's officers were en route to the Parish ranch to pick up the Twin Falls man.

Andrus Solons OK fills jobs troop ban

BOISE (UPI)—Governor-elect Cecil Andrus today named Robert Lenaghan, Pocatello, as the acting director of the Department of Administrative Services.

In other appointments, Andrus retained Maj. Gen. George Bennett as the adjutant of the Idaho National Guard and John Blaine as insurance commissioner.

The governor-elect, who takes office Jan. 4, also retained Fred Charlton as chief of the State Liquor Dispensary until his 76th birthday Feb. 8.

Tom McElownay was named acting director of the Department of Finance and Harold Cole, Nampa, was named commissioner of surplus properties.

Ray Ball Lewiston, was named acting special services administrator.

Andrus said the acting positions in the Department of Administrative Services and the Department of Finance will be subject to change after he makes proposals concerning those departments to the upcoming session of the legislature.

Bennett, Blaine, and Charlton are all holdovers from the Samuelson administration.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 91st Congress has overcome one of the major obstacles to final adjournment by reaffirming a ban on U.S. troops in Cambodia, but there was no break in the deadlock over the SST, and a last minute hitch developed in Social Security legislation.

Today, senators and representatives also turned their attention to the only other major issues they face—a compromise food stamp program, the $2.5 billion foreign aid bill and an emergency $100 million loan for the bankrupt Penn Central Railroad.

A compromise $68.8 billion defense procurement bill cleared both the Senate and the House Tuesday night after many differences in the House negotiators agreed to remove and Senate bills.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., the influential chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said it was "utterly, humanly impossible" to reach a compromise before adjournment because there were too many differences in the House negotiators agreed to remove and Senate bills.

language that would have weakened a previously passed ban on the use of U.S. troops and advisers in Cambodia.

But while passage of the defense spending bill inched Congress closer to adjournment before the noon Sunday deadline, there was a hitch in passage of Social Security benefit increases, which cleared both houses but in widely differing versions.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., the influential chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said it was "utterly, humanly impossible" to reach a compromise before adjournment because there were too many differences in the House negotiators agreed to remove and Senate bills.

U.S. 'unready' for clean-up

BURLEY — The vice president of a Boise engineering firm which has become an expert on handling potato processing waste products told a news conference Tuesday that President Nixon's anti-pollution orders may not be easy to implement.

Earl Reynolds, vice president of Cornall, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield, said that the Corps of Engineers would automatically have jurisdiction over the pollution problem, since the agency controls the nation's navigable waterways.

However, the Corps is "not prepared" to do the job at present, Reynolds said. The permit system, if enacted, would be handled by the federal Water Pollution Control Administration, since that agency "is designated to handle the water of the nation," Reynolds said.

The proposal from Nixon would require a designated agency to determine the total pollution load acceptable on any "navigable river," which, by definition, comes under federal control.

Death lifted from 15

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller Tuesday commuted the sentences of all 15 men on Arkansas' Death Row in an effort to "hasten the elimination of barbarism as a tool of American justice."

"He's a pretty cool dude," one condemned inmate of Tucker Prison said of Rockefeller when he heard the news.

"I thank Governor Rockefeller and God," said another.

The late-duck governor, who leaves office Jan. 12, urged "all other chief executives" to follow his lead and reduce to life imprisonment the sentences of those criminals in their states awaiting execution.

2 million may die

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A cyclone which killed 300,000 persons when it ravaged a region equal to Rhode Island and Delaware in East Pakistan, threatens the lives of 2 million others unless massive aid is continued, the U.S. ambassador to Pakistan says.

Ambassador Joseph Farland said in an interview Tuesday with UPI the great storm which swept out of the Bay of Bengal Nov. 13 destroyed all food crops and livestock. He said the survivors face long-range hunger and possible starvation. He said the survivors face long-range hunger and possible starvation. The storm has been described as the century's worst natural disaster. "I am afraid that now that Christmas is over people will forget," Farland said. "I am afraid that some other disaster somewhere else will divert public attention and the horror of East Pakistan will fade in the public mind into a problem of last year."

Farland is back in the United States on leave after directing American aid efforts in East Pakistan. He toured the stricken region extensively.

"At one point, the bodies of victims got caught in a riptide," Farland recalled. "They tossed to and fro and then stacked up for several miles. I simply couldn't believe what I was seeing."

Farland estimated 3 million persons in the low-lying delta region were now without the means of producing their own food.

In addition to destroying crops and livestock, the ambassador said, the storm smashed an estimated 9,000 boats, crippling the important fishing industry, and may have damaged the soil.

"We have no idea what all that water has done to the soil," Farland said. "It might be too saline, which could mean there would be no food crop there next year."

Farland said the region needs a steady, continuous flow of food and "at least 500,000 cattle and as many chickens" to replenish those lost in the cyclone.

A large proportion of the initial victims of the storm were children and women, he said.

"There are very few kids left there now," he said. "They couldn't swim and got washed away. The women couldn't hold on and simply vanished."

'No life'

U.S. defoliants ravage South Viet woodlands

CHICAGO (UPI)—American use of defoliant sprays has wiped out one-fifth of Vietnam's forests since 1961 and "virtually nothing remains alive" in some areas, a meeting of scientists has been told.

Tuesday's session of the 137th meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science was the third day in a row with protests from young radicals at the convention.

A panel on "crime, violence and social control" had a living demonstration of its topic when the wife of a University of California biologist, plucked by interruptions from a graduate student, jabbed him in the arm with her knitting needle.

Arthur R. Westing, a botanist at Wisconsin College, Putney, Vt., told delegates that "virtually nothing remains alive" in the defoliated areas of the mangrove forests along the coast of Vietnam's Mekong Delta.

A team sent to Vietnam by the association to study the effects of defoliant sprays also reported a higher number of still births in one heavily defoliated province for the years 1968 and 1969.

The team, members of the Herbicide Assessment Commission authorized for the study by an $80,000 grant, said about 35 per cent of South Vietnam's jungles have been destroyed in an attempt to eliminate enemy sanctuaries among the foliage.

A law professor attending the conference reported that the military's use of herbicides violates the 1925 Geneva Convention against chemical warfare. However, the United States never has ratified the agreement, he said.

During the crime and violence symposium, needle-wielding Mrs. Garrett Hardin who said she was knitting a sock for her husband—repeatedly jabbed Frank Rosenthal—who was shouting "What about Cuba?" and "What about Vietnam?" until he grabbed her arm to make her stop.

Mrs. Hardin then jabbed him again and drew blood.

It was the third day of interruptions by young radicals. Monday, a speech by William H. Pickering, director of the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, was interrupted. Sunday, hecklers jeered Dr. Edward Teller, "father of the H-bomb."

Ore-Ida near standard

BURLEY — Present waste-treatment facilities at the two Ore-Ida potato processing plants at Burley, largest of the firm's four plants, lack only four per cent of meeting state water pollution control standards, according to Lloyd Cox, process engineering manager for Ore-Ida.

Cox told a new conference Tuesday at the Ponderosa Inn that the overall biological oxygen demand (BOD) reduction achieved in the past year indicates that 81 per cent of the in-plant waste products are removed before the effluent is dumped into the Snake River.

The Idaho Board of Health has set an 85 per cent standard as the minimum for potato processors, Cox said.

The new waste-treatment facility announced at the press conference will raise the effectiveness to over 90 per cent. The resulting effluent will be clean enough to be used for drinking, but it will satisfy state demands, according to Earl Reynolds, vice president of the Bolse engineering firm known in brief as CH2M.

Cox reviewed the background of potato processing and the resulting waste-treatment problems, pointing out that "the potato processing industry actually got its start right here in Idaho," when Ore-Ida and the J. R. Simplot Co. built their large Burley and Hoyburn plants.

Ore-Ida owns and operates four potato processing factories: two interconnected plants at Burley, one at Ontario, Ore., and one at Greenville, Mich. The Burley factory complex was constructed in 1960, but little was known at that time about handling the waste products resulting from the potato processing.

In fact, Cox said, "at the time the factory started up, there were no waste treatment facilities, which was typical of most industries at that time."

The Idaho Board of Health took an interest in 1959, adopting a policy requiring removal of as much of the "settleable solids" as possible.

Pilot projects were conducted by the engineering committee of the Potato Processors of Idaho, "and by 1963 practically all of the potato processors had installed primary treatment facilities," Cox said.

Cox reviewed the development of techniques and assimilation of knowledge in the field of waste treatment, pointing out that "at the time the new standards were set there was no one who could design a system and guarantee that it would work as designed on potato waste."

The federal government entered the picture with a research and development grant to the R. T. French Co. for their plant at Shelley, near Idaho Falls. An experimental pilot plant was built, but completion of usable data was delayed by "design problems" until last spring.

The Boise engineering firm of Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Merryfield was retained last February to analyze "the problem and design the needed treatment facilities, Cox said.

After extensive testing and study, the new secondary-treatment plant was designed, and Nelsen-Miller Co. of Twin Falls was selected to build the half-million-dollar treatment plant, with completion scheduled by Oct. 1, 1971.

In addition to the current project, Cox said, "the company has budgeted an additional $550,000 in the years 1973-1976 for the Burley complex to upgrade the facilities as required to accommodate increased productivity."

Overall, Ore-Ida has spent about $1.4 million at all four factories for environmental control projects, Cox said. Another $925,000 is to be spent for projects such as the new waste-treatment facility and a new air-pollution-abatement unit at Burley.

"By 1976," Cox concluded, "Ore-Ida will have spent a projected $3.25 million on environmental control projects."

Questions answered

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Correspondent

BURLEY — A question and answer period was held prior to the closing of the press conference Tuesday at Ponderosa Inn sponsored by Ore-Ida Foods, Inc.

Question: How pure is the water that is discharged into Snake River after going through the proposed secondary waste water treatment facilities, would it be good enough for domestic purposes such as to drink and do other household uses?

The group was told it would not do for this purpose. What is being taken out of the water is potato waste, solids, and the water is then aerated to hasten the breakdown of what is discharged into the river so much less oxygen would be taken out of the water turned into the river, in turn making it much better for marine life in the Snake River.

Question: Is the storage in the proposed treatment facilities and settling ponds sufficient to handle the waste water from all three plants (Ore-Ida's two plants and A & P plant) to give the effluent time to go through the chemical action which was reported would take at least 24 hours?

From the data available from the R. T. French Co., Shelley, test plant the size proposed at Ore-Ida would handle the waste water for the proposed treatment time.

Question: Rather than discharge water to Snake River from the secondary treatment facilities could the water be stored some way and be used for irrigation during the summer for crops?

Yes, water at the Greenville, Mich., plant owned by Ore-Ida has a storage pond which covers 50 acres and is about 20 feet deep which is used for irrigation of some 600 acres of potatoes by pumping the water through sprinkler systems. The land is sandy and so far re-use of the water is working out well. However, at the Burley plants presently there is no plan to store or hold the waste water for irrigation, but it is still being studied.

Question: Can the solids and wastes taken out of the effluent from these plants be used as stock feed?

Yes, all of the waste is sold as a fattening ration to cattle feeders which is mixed with other feeds. There is a demand in this area for the solids for cattle feed.

Question: Are there any plans or money to take care of changes in the environment and law changes that might take place?

Ore-Ida has budgeted $1 million for projects planned from 1973-76 and by 1976 Ore-Ida will have spent a projected $3.25 million on environmental control projects.

Sludge storage major problem

TWIN FALLS — Regardless of how carefully waste products are handled, there will always be a final result — sludge — remaining which must be stored, consumed or buried.

Ore-Ida's new secondary waste-treatment facility will remove 90 per cent or more of the waste products generated during their potato processing, leaving a fine humus-like "sludge" as the end product, according to Lloyd Cox, process engineering manager of Ore-Ida.

"We still don't know just what to do with that sludge; there are about six different research projects going to find some useful disposal method," Cox told a news conference Tuesday at the Ponderosa Inn.

Gerald Herrick, vice president of operations for Ore-Ida, said the firm has acquired a 100-acre plot of land "across the river from the plant," and will use the land for disposal of the sludge.

Herrick and Cox were unable to estimate how much of the sludge will be produced during a year's operation, but said that compared to the plant's total waste output the final product is "only about one or two per cent" of the in-plant waste.

"We don't think there'll be any disposal problem; the sludge — more like humus, actually — will probably disappear much like fertilizer in the ground," Herrick said.

Due to the thorough treatment given the waste products to rid the effluent of any undesirable bacteria, "the final humus has very little nutrition value; cattle don't tolerate it very well," Cox told the news conference.

The disposal problem is not unique with potato processing plants; all cities and industries with the activated sludge method of waste treatment has a problem with disposal of the final product, Herrick said.

A DOZEN DROWN

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Police said today at least a dozen persons drowned over Christmas at Argentine and Uruguayan beaches as thousands sought relief from temperatures in the mid-90s.

Nine persons drowned in the Paraná River at Rosario, Argentina, officials said. Two other persons were missing.

Police in Montevideo, Uruguay, said three persons drowned. The mercury reached 96 Thursday in Buenos Aires and a rainstorm Friday night dropped temperatures to 87.

Signing law offered

TWIN FALLS — Two proposed ordinances, under study for several months by the Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission, have been completed and are ready for review by the city attorney.

Red Coulam, zoning board secretary, said the ordinances include one to regulate commercial signing in the central zone, which takes in the newly renovated downtown core area. The other is an updated ordinance on mobile home park regulations.

Jan. 25 has been set as the date for a public hearing, Coulam said, on establishing zones for land adjacent to the city limits and now under consideration for annexation. He said legal description and other information on the annexation areas will be published prior to the hearing.

Road toll

drop seen possible

BOISE — Idaho stands a good chance of having fewer traffic fatalities in 1970 than in 1969, Idaho State Police said Tuesday, while asking motorists to drive carefully as the year's end approaches.

As of Tuesday, the state's highway fatality toll stood at 319, compared with 332 at the same time a year ago.

Noting a long holiday weekend lies ahead, state police urged motorists to allow for extra driving time because of possible slippery and snow-covered roads and to practice courtesy and caution.

State police issued a special plea to students returning to classes and advised them to seek weather and road conditions before starting so as to allow plenty of driving time for a safe arrival.

The year-end holiday in 1969 saw one traffic death in Idaho.

Karate class promotes trio

TWIN FALLS — Three Magic Valley students achieved higher rank in the art of kaji-kumi karate at a recent promotion ceremony, according to Robert F. Tidd, karate instructor.

Rick Hills, Buhl, and Linda Anthis, Twin Falls, each received their yellow belts, and Hugh Joalyn, Twin Falls, was advanced to blue-belt rank, Tidd said.

In kaji-kumi karate, the practitioners proceed through nino stages to the coveted first stage of the "black belt," including white, yellow, blue, green, orange and three brown-belt classifications. Each requires more skill and understanding of the intricacies of karate than the previous rank, Tidd said.

The review board, which awarded the promotions, included Tidd as "sensei," or instructor; Jim Estlinger, holder of the black belt; his sister, Marjorie Estlinger, "third-kyu" or first stage, brown belt; Glenn Hermanson, holder of an orange belt, and Randy Ivie, a green-belt karate student.

Jordan supports repealer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, said Tuesday he supported a move by the Senate Finance Committee to repeal record keeping requirements with respect to the sale of .22 caliber rimfire ammunition.

The committee, of which Jordan is a member, favorably reported to the Senate floor a bill designed to eliminate the requirement of federal law that ammunition retailers keep records of the sale of such ammunition.

He said he was hopeful of favorable Senate action on the bill "because this reporting requirement creates a large and unnecessary administrative burden on firearm dealers and on the nation's sportsmen."

Minidoka donation reported

RIPERT — The Minidoka County Red Cross chapter has received a $200 donation from an anonymous donor, Bill Whitton said today.

The money will be used to help servicemen in Vietnam, he said. The official said the local chapter has been notified by the Red Cross' regional headquarters that unless financial obligations are met, the chapter will lose many of its programs, including the blood program, or will have to combine with another county.

The Minidoka Red Cross drive is now reaching the halfway mark in its $2,000 goal and will continue a few more days, Whitton said. Anyone wanting to contribute may notify Whitton or Mrs. John Simpson.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet That Needs No Prescription Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tender, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have talked to a lot of people who have had heart attacks and they all say they must not eat the yellow part of an egg because of the cholesterol.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Your reference to using photographs to show an alcoholic what he is like prompted this letter.

Egg yolk is high in cholesterol, but my attitude is that there's not much point in trying to prohibit cholesterol foods drastically unless tests show the patient has high cholesterol levels in his blood.

Note to "Desperate": That mole on your genitals is causing you much more worry than it warrants. Show it to your dhd—it's nothing to be embarrassed about.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My sister's baby breaks out in a rash if he drinks milk, so the doctor put him on a soy bean substitute. The problem is that my sister keeps feeding the baby baby ice cream and other things with milk in it.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of his helpful and comforting booklet, "Acne — The Teen-Age Problem."

Sometimes even quite small amounts of milk in ice cream or other dishes will cause trouble when a baby (or adult) is allergic to milk.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Nixon talks on TV

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon will be interviewed by four television network correspondents in an hour-long program Monday night between 9 and 10 EST, the White House announced today.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said the interview was initiated by the President and was intended to present his views "in perspective and depth."

Ziegler said there would be no restrictions on questioning by the panel of four during the interviews to be carried live from the White House. This would be the second such program. Nixon also was interviewed for an hour by three commentators last summer.

Ziegler said the questioners, selected by the networks, would be Eric Sevareid of CBS, John Chancellor of NBC, Howard K. Smith of ABC and Nancy Dickerson, representing the Public Broadcast Network.

Sevareid, Chancellor and Smith were the questioners on the previous program originating from Los Angeles last July 1. The noncommercial network representative, Mrs. Dickerson, formerly of NBC, was added for the Jan. 4 program.

The previous interview was limited to foreign policy. There will be no subject restrictions this time, Ziegler said.

"The objective is to have a very full and complete conversation with the President," Ziegler said.

Ziegler said the television interview would not be in lieu of a general news conference. He added that the possibility of a similar conversation with a limited number of newspaper and magazine correspondents had been discussed and "perhaps we will do that at some time in the future."

The White House and news media, both among themselves and between each other, have been discussing how to improve on the news conference concept for the benefit of both.

For his part, Nixon's communications director, Herbert G. Klein, says the general news conference "with 300 reporters clamoring for their moment on camera and with 30 million viewers watching—is not the ideal format to reveal policy to world leaders or to explain it in depth to the nation."

'71 housing outlook good

WASHINGTON (UPI)—After two bleak years, the outlook for housing in 1971 is good. It should be easier next year to obtain a place to live.

Most forecasters expect home building to increase next year—possibly to the highest level in 20 years. Mortgage interest rates are expected to decline somewhat and the supply of money for home loans should be greater.

It makes a happy contrast to 1969 and early 1970, when housing construction plummeted and mortgage money either was not available at all or was more expensive than it ever had been.

The two-years slump is generally blamed on efforts by the Federal Reserve to combat inflation by clamping a tight lid on the money supply.

Housing predictably was hardest hit by the tight money policy. Most business borrowers were able to pay high interest rates for loans they needed by passing the higher cost on to customers. Home loans were unable to compete for money.

Home building dropped steadily throughout 1969. The seasonally adjusted annual rate of housing starts fell to 1 million in January, 1970, about half the rate for January, 1969.

The rate began to improve in 1970—not fast enough to make it a good year but enough to provide a good springboard for 1971. Housing starts were at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.7 million units in November.

The National Association of Home Builders predicts private housing starts will total between 1.8 and 1.85 million units for 1971 as a whole. That would be about 14 per cent better than 1970's annual total of 1.45 million units and could be the second highest total on record, exceeded only by 1.95 million units in 1950.

Mortgage money was scarce for most of 1969 and during the first part of 1970. Last February, only 39 per cent of the regional offices of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) reported adequate supplies of funds available in their areas. By November, the figure was 81 per cent.

The interest ceiling on FHA and Veterans Administration home loans was cut from 8½ to 8 per cent on Dec. 1.

Allen P. Stults, vice president of the American Bankers Association, predicts that housing funds will become more readily available next year and that interest rates will decline a bit more.

Grade B movies ride on late, late shows

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Grade B (and below) movie rides again on the late, late show.

To those who either don't trust the television listings; or don't read them, some old movies can be confusing. The following guide might help.

World War II movies: Because of a phenomenon called the "foo's follow through," the viewer is advised to check only the date of production.

Before about 1947, the German officer, bloated, a duelling scar on his cheek, is a true heavy, with strains of Wagner thundering in the background as he cheerfully sips cognac while the Gestapo tortures an Allied spy (always played by Van Johnson).

But after the follow through date, the officer gradually comes to resemble a reflective Oskar Werner. "Va hia failed as human beings," he moans as he apologizes to the local priest for shooting 37 hostages.

In the Pacific Theater, there is always the "bullet-proof battalion," which manages to storm the beachhead, through Japanese artillery, riflemen, mine fields etc. and captures the objective, just before the tide comes in.

Campus movies: In the 1930's the plot usually revolves around the brawny ex-factory worker football hero who transfers from outtown college to Classy U. Determined to pursue his horticultural studies, he steadfastly refuses to join the Classy football team. Finally, in last ten minutes of the last quarter, of the big game, he saves in to the implerings of the dean's daughter. Flustered, he runs the winning touchdown, and gets the girl.

The musical: Unchanging and unforgiving plotless, the musical features the leading lady (who always seems to be Alice Faye) shing her way into the heart of the leading man, who is named Blackie Dingo or something.

Also worthy of mention are those many fine British movies; all made in dark cellars at midnight (don't touch that dial, folks). "There's been some unpleasantness on the crum-tiles." Inspector Worthington-Smith says as he attempts to find out who dissected Miss Jones in her bath.

Embassy guards wounded

ANKARA (UPI)—Two Turkish policemen guarding the U.S. Embassy were critically wounded by pistol fire Tuesday in another outbreak of anti-American feeling belovoked linked with widespread student disorders in Ankara and Istanbul.

Police said the shots came from a taxi which drove past the embassy entrance at 5 a.m. and that the two guards, Vahap Cinar, 28, and Nuri Selcuk, 30, were in critical condition from multiple bullet wounds.

A police spokesman said of today's shooting. "The incident may be related to the recent eruption of anti-Americanism within the leftist student community due to their killed friends."

Navy transfers fleet of vessels to Viets

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Navy today hauled down the Stars and Stripes on the last 126 craft of its "brown water" riverine force and raised the red and gold banner of South Vietnam, creating the world's 10th biggest naval power.

At a turnover ceremony in front of South Vietnamese naval headquarters on the Saigon River, a newly painted river patrol boat was handed over, symbolizing the transfer of title today of the last of the 650 boats which comprised the U.S. Riverine Navy in Vietnam two years ago.

Vice Adm. Jerome H. King Jr., commander of U.S. naval forces Vietnam (NAVFORV), who signed the transfer of title for the United States, said of the "brown water" fleet:

"They kept the enemy off balance and on the defensive with their 'board and search' tactics; inshore and coastal surveillance, river patrols, troop insertions and attacks on enemy base camps and supply points. They encountered difficult operating areas with heavy foliage, narrow and often uncharted waterways, but they covered them well."

"They demonstrated that coordinated river and coastal operations are not only feasible, but are essential in this war."

And they proved to the enemy that the has no sanctuary when faced with the combined efforts of water craft, air forces and ground forces.

"The Vietnamese people are now able to travel most of the waterways of the republic with far greater freedom and safety than before. Areas that once were enemy-controlled are now open to economic development. The enemy is no longer able to use freely these waterways. His supply traffic has diminished and the frequency and duration of his attacks are less than they were just a few months ago."

The South Vietnamese navy

has expanded from 2,000 men in six river assault groups and 30 ships in 1964 to nearly 1,600 combat and logistics vessels, manned by nearly 40,000 men this year. The result is that South Vietnam is the world's 10th largest naval force.

Rear Adm. Tran Van Chon, South Vietnam's chief of naval operations, accepted title to the boats under the U.S. Navy's accelerated turnover of assets to the Vietnamese navy (AC-TOV) program.

The riverine force operated in the Mekong Delta, the Saigon area and in the river network of the five northernmost provinces.

Solons back $35 pay

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — Rep. Robert Haakenson, D-Coeur d'Alene, said Tuesday results of a questionnaire he sent to legislators indicate most support a $35 per day expense account while in session and $3.50 per day interim expense.

Haakenson threatened during the organizational session of the legislature in early December to resign Jan. 4 unless legislative salaries were increased.

Tuesday, however, he said he had decided not to resign and instead would take action "necessary to see that any individual regardless of occupation or material wealth can serve in the legislature."

In the Nov. 3 general election voters approved a legislative pay initiative dropping the $200 per month office allowance, clipping from $35 to $25 the per diem allowance, and limiting pay to 60 days during the first regular session and 30 days during the second.

In a questionnaire sent to his colleagues, Haakenson asked whether they would support a repeal of the pay initiative, support a $35 per day expense allowance in session and $3.50 per day expense allowance, support re-establishing a legislative compensation commission to set expense allowance, or support removal of the 60 and 30 day limits.

Haakenson said a majority of those responding favored removing the time limitations and said a "large majority" of those responding favored the $35 per day in-session and $3.50 per day out-of-session expenses, or something similar to it.

He said he had also talked with persons who originally supported the initiative measure, but "who change their minds when they fully understood the facts of the issue."

"Many accusations have been made regarding how much we receive as legislators and the fringe benefits we get," Haakenson said.

"If these rumored benefits were fact then there would have been no problem and would have been no consideration of resignation."

Haakenson said he hoped for a non-partisan movement to change the legislative salaries to a level "acceptable to all," adding, "if this is the only issue the opposition can find to campaign against me in the next

872 to lose wheels

BOISE (UPI) — The driver services section of the department of law enforcement ordered suspension of 872 driver licenses during December, revoked three, and denied issuance of eight.

The suspensions included 387 for motor vehicle code violations and 565 for failure to comply with the safety responsibility act.

Drunken driving convictions accounted for 54 per cent of the suspensions ordered under code violations. Other suspensions were for reckless driving, violation of license restrictions, accumulation of traffic violation conviction points, and failure to take blood-alcohol tests.

Safety responsibility convictions included 230 for failure to show proof following an accident, 199 for failure to maintain proof, and 76 for failure to file a written report of an accident.

First couple wins divorce in Italy

MODERNA, Italy (UPI) — The first couple in modern Italian history to be granted a divorce legally became single today when their decree was registered at the city hall of the town where they were married.

Judge Aurelio Galasso, president of the Modena court, granted the divorce Tuesday to Alfredo Cappi, 28, and Gloria Luisa Benassi, 26, just 11 days after Italy's new divorce law took effect.

The decree was granted on what lawyers predicted would be the most common grounds for the estimated one million Italians eligible to seek divorce — separation for more than five years.

Custody of the couple's only child, Massimo, 7, was granted to the mother and the father was ordered to guarantee payment of $8,000 child support.

The Cappis were married in 1943 in Lovizzano di Castelvecchio, a few miles from Modena, and separated one year later. They obtained a legal separation in 1968. Without the court separation order the new law requires a six-year separation before divorce, or a seven-year separation if one partner protests the divorce.

Other grounds for divorce in Roman Catholic Italy include prolonged imprisonment, sex crimes against partners or children, and failure to consummate marriages.

Over the sharp protests of the Vatican and Pope Paul VI Parliament passed the divorce law Dec. 1. It was published in the official Gazette Dec. 3 and 15 days later automatically became law.

The Vatican registered an official protest with the Foreign Ministry that passage of the law was a unilateral abrogation of the 1929 Lateran Pact governing relations between Italy and the Holy See. The pact left the dissolution of church marriages in church hands.

Several prominent Roman Catholics have announced they will seek a national referendum in an attempt to overturn divorce.

Highway funds sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said Tuesday he had urged allocation of $1.5 million or public highway funds to improve U.S. Highway 21 between Idaho Falls and the National Reactor Testing Station.

In a letter to the administrator of the Federal Highway Administration, Hansen said there was an urgent need for immediate improvement on the road because of its "steady deterioration which presents a safety hazard to the public."

He said the Idaho Department of Highways had earlier given assurances of its readiness to allocate funds for the improvement of the stretches of land lying on non-federal lands.

Manson attorney hits 'lynching'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson's attorney, who has shown a disdain for decorum and tact throughout the Tate murder case, Tuesday called the trial a "lynching."

Irving Kanarek, a bull-shouldered man whom Manson has sought to have dismissed as his lawyer, took over the closing arguments of the defense and almost immediately handed the jury bloody color photographs of the bodies of the victims.

It was the first time the seven men and five women had seen the pictures close up. They passed them around quickly and one woman juror refused even to glance at them.

"What the prosecution wants to discuss with you in this case are these prejudicial photographs," Kanarek said.

"They are trying to lynch Mr. Manson. They are appealing to the rankest kind of prejudice that divides this country today."

With the defendants listening in adjoining rooms by loudspeaker, Kanarek attacked the publicity surrounding the case and accused the prosecution of terrorist tactics against witnesses. He said the district attorney's office had attacked him personally.

Chief defense counsel Paul Fitzgerald preceded Kanarek, telling the jury it was quite feasible that someone other than the "Manson family" committed the seven slayings.

Fitzgerald cast doubt on the truthfulness of the prosecution witnesses. He particularly ripped into the testimony of star state witness Linda Kasabian that she went to the Tate home with Charles "Tex" Watson, Miss Krenwinkel and Susan Atkins.

Mrs. Kasabian testified that she never actually entered the house but Fitzgerald pointed out that her knife was the only weapon found by police at the scene. Mrs. Kasabian had said she gave the knife to Miss Atkins.

Farms face drought

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — More than 1,500 acres of farmland in the East Greenacres Irrigation District north and east of here could be without water during the most important growing month of the year.

So contend members of the district after a ruling handed down Dec. 21 by the Idaho Supreme Court limiting the drawdown of water from upper and lower Twin Lakes to no more than four feet.

The Supreme Court ruling on an appeal brought by the irrigation district upheld the ruling of First District Judge James G. Towles which established high and low water marks and ended a suit which has been fought for 12 years.

According to Roy Bodine, spokesman for the district, the decision by the Idaho Supreme Court allows the irrigation district to raise the water to allow four feet of drawdown — approximately 80 per cent of what the district had been using.

"We have only one course to take now," Tom Mitchell, attorney for the irrigation district, said Tuesday. "We will have to sue every property owner on the lakes to prevent them from using water for domestic purposes during the summer months."

While the suit was tied up in the courts the irrigation district had not been limited by the amount of drawdown and had to

Legal aide mulls plea on suspect

ST. MARIES, Idaho (UPI) — Richard L. McFadden, attorney for Millard D. Mullins, said Tuesday no decision has been made whether or not to fight extradition to Michigan to face two counts of first degree murder.

Mullins, 28, is accused of shooting his wife of two weeks, Sophie, 22, and her father, Wasy Fenyn, 45, in Hamtramck, Mich., Dec. 18. He was arrested Saturday at the home of his father, Millard Mullins; four miles south of here on a fugitive warrant.

Michigan authorities say the two were shot to death as they arrived at Fenyn's service station at Hamtramck where Mullins was a part-time employe.

Mullins was arraigned Monday on the fugitive warrant before Probate Court Judge Sam Irvine who gave him 48 hours to decide whether or not he wanted a preliminary hearing.

Pocatello water plan endorsed

POCATELLO (UPI) — Pocatello's proposed water project for the upper east side was approved Tuesday by the State Planning Commission and the community Affairs Division, Idaho City Planner, Joel Anderson said.

Anderson said he will make the application before Feb. 1 to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for $370,000 or 50 per cent in matching funds.

He said that other 50 per cent will be paid by the present water rates which were recently increased.

The project is expected to improve water pressures for residences along the upper east side and provide for future development east of I-18.

Glamour-girl soprano slated for CSI concert April 6

TWIN FALLS — Mary Costa, the undisputed glamour-girl of American sopranos, will be presented in concert at 8 p. m. April 6 at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center Auditorium, sponsored by the Fine Arts Council.

Mrs. Costa has been dubbed by Patterson Greene of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner as "unreasonably beautiful with a voice like sunlight made audible." These innate attributes along with hard work and an unstinted devotion to her art have brought Mary Costa to the pinnacle of a remarkable operatic and concert career.

She was born in Knoxville, Tenn., of Italian and Irish heritage. Although her parents were not musicians, they made music and art an important part of their lives and transmitted this enthusiasm to their daughter from the time she was born. Her mother was a particularly avid opera buff and encouraged Mary to sing at an early age, sending her to a local teacher for both vocal and piano lessons. At nine she was all ready in the church choir and displayed her beautiful voice by singing solo.

In 1945 the family made a trip to California, and there, at a party, Mary sang for Mrs. Leland Atherton Irish, one of southern California's outstanding patrons of music. Mrs. Irish was so impressed that she urged the Costas to move to Los Angeles, where first-class musical training would be available.

While making a movie for Walt Disney, who was overheard by Jack Benny, who gave her her first important chance to sing opera. In the fall of 1959 she made her debut with the San Francisco Opera where she has become a leading soprano. During that first season in San Francisco, impresario S. Hurok signed Mary Costa to a $250,000 contract. She has since sung with nearly every major symphony orchestra and opera company in this country and many national television shows. It was "La Traviata" that tremendous impact on the Russian audiences that she was asked to extend her stay for three additional weeks.

She recently took a sabbatical of a few seasons to reshape her

Girl talk is not what it used to be

NEW YORK (UPI) — The status isn't quo any more and girl talk certainly is not what it used to be.

Even the familiar coffee klatch has changed its aura. Once it meant that women got together for informal conversation over coffee to talk of their children, formulas, housekeeping, new clothes and plain old gossip.

Now, the klatch is no longer just for coffee. It's a rallying point, a planning board, a war council, and underground railroad all rolled into one.

Dr. Spock has given in to Kate Millet and Betty Friedan, and all the frothy heroines of fiction to Simone de Beauvoir's treatise on the second sex.

What's caused the change? Women's Liberation of course, the feminine "revolution" of the late 1960s and '70.

Exchange of recipes is old hat to this new breed. They exchange slogans like "Starve a rat today." Housewife's knee has given in to housewife's syndrome. The marriage manual has been traded in for the Liberation Manifesto and sexual intrigue replaced with sexual politics.

The liberationists not only have created a new platform for promoting women's rights, but also have developed a whole new vocabulary to go with it.

All of which is going to affect the dictionary business: New meanings of familiar terms or new terms all with have their effect on the language, predict lexicographers for Merriam-Webster.

Just how much effect depends on how long the Lib movement maintains its drive and whether new groups will continue it, and David Roglogle, president of the G & C Merriam Co., the Springfield, Mass., firm, which publishes the dictionary.

Today's groups produce a more exciting word climate than, say, in the days of the suffragettes, because of instant communications.

Already a parts of today's talk, and possible inclusion in dictionaries to come, are words or phrases like these:

- Rap group. Meeting of women to exchange ideas and experiences.
- Sanitized. Acceptance of the male-oriented society.
- Sexist. A male who sees women only as sex objects.
- Anomie. A condition of individual characterized by disorientation, anxiety and isolation.
- Role crisis. An inability to find a meaningful identity, whether as a wife, in a career or both.
- Male chauvinism. Excessive or blind belief in male superiority.
- Feminist. One who advocates the removal of restrictions that lead to discrimination. A raging gut feminist is the really-ardent one.
- Girlicott. Opposite of boycott, that is, ostracism by ignoring.
- Herstory. A woman's view of history.
- Housewife's blight. Physical reactions, such as allergies, to too much housework.
- Option. What many women feel they don't have in a choice of career or marriage.
- Femme Lib. Short for Feminine Liberation.
- Fortnite mystique. The belief that all women are happy in the role of housewife and mother; also the title of Betty Friedan's book, Togetherness.
- Sexual politics. Men against woman, the battle of the sexes, affluence and discrimination based on sex, and the title of Kate Millet's book.

Couple marries in LDS Temple rites

TWIN FALLS — Nan Larsen, daughter of Mrs. A. E. Larsen, and late A. E. (Ted) Larsen, and Steven Rasmussen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rulon E. Rasmussen, Phoenix, Ariz., were married Dec. 18 in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple. After the ceremony, the bridegroom's parents hosted a wedding luncheon at the Lion House.

The couple was honored at a reception based on a Christmas theme held at the Twin Falls LDS Institute building Dec. 19.

The bride's dress, designed and made by her mother, was of white velvet with lace trim. The mantilla veil was trimmed with the same lace.

Attending the bride were Jori Spencer, Provo, Utah; Fontella Hargraves, Pocatello, and Linda Rasmussen, Kathy Rasmussen and Diane Rasmussen, sisters of the bridegroom.

Best man was Bryce Rasmussen, and ushers were Kirk Larsen and Dglo Hanson. An open house was held Dec. 29, at the home of the bridegroom's parents in Phoenix. The bride was honored at pre-nuptial showers by the Rasmussen family, Jori Spencer, and Jan Riser.

Beauty hint

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Choose eye makeup shades that flatter your hair and eye colors for the most beautiful and expressive effects suggests famed beauty-fashion authority Max Factor. Black mascara, eye pencil and eye-liner, he says, ideally suit the true brunette with naturally black lashes.

Brown is a better choice for blondes with fair lashes, and the brownish-black tones are perfect for women with in-between colorings. Although any touch of gold gives the eyes more importance, some shades of eye shadow specifically enhance certain colorings. Whether you select shades in the Shadow Play Brush-On Eye Shadow, Water Power or Shimmer Shadow formulae, choose the ones best for you.

Faded eyes are given a wicked and beguiling new gleam with soft brown shadows and all green tones. Blue eyes are flattered by soft blues and blue-greens. Green eyes are lit up with nuances of all greens as well as with brown tones overswept with blue or green powder shadow. Brown eyes look especially lovely when complemented by green or lilac shadows.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am only 13, and for a while I was looking forward to getting married some day, but since I've been reading your column, all those letters you get from married people who hate each other has made me change my mind.

Also, I really don't think it will be so much fun to be grown up because adults have so many problems, like income tax, employment and politics. I don't like school too much, but I think I would rather spend my life in school than be an adult in a world like this one. People all say they want peace and they kill each other.

What do you think I should do, Dear Abby?

AFRAID TO GROW UP

DEAR ABBY: I think I have tried just about all the advice that has ever been recommended for a successful marriage and nothing has helped. I am about ready to give up.

The only time her kitchen is not like a pigpen is when I help her clean it up. If I offer to take her out to dinner, she complains that it will cost too much. I buy her perfume. She doesn't use it. I buy her some sheer nightwear, she refuses to wear it. [She says it is not appropriate for a woman to be so vain.]

I am not demanding, but any affection she gives me is more from a sense of obligation than anything else.

She has more hang-ups than an art gallery. I have been 100 per cent faithful, but now I'm beginning to understand why husbands start looking around.

Any advice for me? If so, please put it in the paper. Everything else has failed. Thanks and God bless you.

TRIED EVERYTHING

DEAR ABBY: I have a 30-year-old son who for the last five years has been living common-law with a woman who must be around 50. This woman has had nine children (made by my son), the oldest is in her thirties and the youngest is 18.

Well, my son and this woman are finally going to get married, for which I am happy, but she is sending out wedding invitations! Now, that's all right, too, but a lot of people—especially my friends—thought they were married already.

She is having a big church wedding. Shouldn't this wedding be a quiet wedding with perhaps a nice reception later?

Is there anything that I, as the future mother-in-law, should do?

STEADY, READER

DEAR STEADY: The "bride" is engineering everything, so all the arrangements are up to her. Under the circumstances, a "quiet" wedding might have been more appropriate, but since you weren't consulted, you aren't responsible. Just go and don't "do" anything.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get 'em off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 8726, Los Angeles, Cal. Send for a personal reply unless stamped, addressed and enclosed.

Best speech award noted

TWIN FALLS — Kent Kirk received an award for giving the best speech Monday evening during the I. B. Perrine Toastmasters Club meeting at Kay's Supper Club.

Table topics winners were Martin Faust and Kirk. Both tied for first place.

Frank Robinson received the past president's pin.

Suggestion

TWIN FALLS — In the Fruit Pudding Cake recipe published in last Sunday's Times-News, Leona Williams, 1450 Elba Ave., Burley, suggests that if there is enough juice to cover fruit, the two-thirds cup boiling water should be omitted. This recipe is good served with whipped cream.

Riding club has election

TWIN FALLS — The Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary will meet in conjunction with the riding club on Monday at 8 p. m. Monday at the DAV Hall. Members are asked to bring refreshments.

Club officers elected are Ruby Gramer, vice president; Janice LaPray, secretary; Genie Ekert, treasurer; Ken Cramer, drillmaster; Buz Lyon, assistant drillmaster; Sharon Osterhout, reporter and Gayle Kuntz, Chef Fairchild, and Beverly Bartlett, board of directors.

Anyone interested in joining the riding club may call any member. New members should join as soon as possible, to prepare for a planned horseshoe square dance this summer, LaPray said.

Pity poor furriers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pity the poor furrier these days. There is the problem of ecology—which has replaced "escalate" as one of the most popular words in the American vocabulary. And even the furriers making coats for men are caught up in the battle of the hemline.

The ecology, or conservation, problem is being solved by using such furs as mink which is ranch grown and in no danger of extinction, muskrat which furriers say are unwanted rodents, bull and calf skin and wolf on which there is sometimes a bounty. And there are exceptions.

As for hemlines, the men called "fashion intellectuals" wear them down to their ankles or just below the calf. The fashion non-intellectuals (actually the conservative or timid types) wear them just below the knee. And for sports anything goes.

The authority for these statements is Fred Comperz who is much better known as "Mr. Fred" of Fit and Sport who also makes women's coats and is upset because he thinks women were "pushed" into mid-lengths before they were ready for them.

Mr. Fred started his fall production last spring with a full-fledged fashion show before an audience of such notables as Harold Reed, the socialite who arrived in a black Persian maxicoat, and Wyatt Cooper, who is a style leader invariably identified as the husband of Gloria Vanderbilt, and who wore a maxi-length cloth coat with seal collar, cuffs and a matching hat.

They are, of course, fashion intellectuals. Reed also wore a brown and white checked suit which might have been Bill Blass, matching brown and white checked socks with black patent leather shoes fastened with a brass buckle, and a white shirt with a big chain pattern that obviously was Palazzo, and a brown knit tie. Cooper was slightly less spectacular in a brown and blue window pane sports jacket with a slightly busted shoulder seam which no one dared mention.

Since this was an out and out fashion show there were some "runway items" which included all sorts of furs from a back-belted officers coat of gray curly lamb (mid) to a shiny leather vest of cobra leather trimmed with fox. For good measure there was a caveman cape worn with matching mukluks.

Life was simpler in those days and there was no hemline problem, which really started this summer with the Paris couture showings for women.

"To me the mini coat seems to be definitely outdated," Mr. Fred said. "That is with a hem at 36 inches, which is just below the calf. A mini coat that I'm not happy wearing the long coat and I ask what do all the men my height think? It is a situation compatible with the women's fashion dilemma."

Actually he solved that very neatly with a line of coats for men that had something for everyone—maxi lengths for the fashion intellectuals, shorter coats for the conservative and ski and outdoor sports jackets in everything from over-the-ear to waist length.

He showed a textured mink coat for men which is not at all the feminine kind worn by women. "It was pieced together like a jigsaw puzzle and had an oddly textured look which definitely was not feminine."

Another textured fur was Swakara which is a karakul from South West Africa.

POLLY'S POINTERS

From Diaper Stackers To Sweater Stackers

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Glenda that no-longer-needed diaper stackers can be used many ways. I know of several college girls who have bought them just to use for stacking sweaters and other clothing when dorm space is limited. Use in the bathroom to hold towels and wash cloths and for holding dust rags, polish, etc., in a storage area. Hung low in a little one's room he can use it for clothes storage, toys or as a dirty clothes hamper. In the linen closet they are great for stacking pillowcases, small blankets and comforters.—SANDI

DEAR POLLY and GLENDA—When my son outgrew his diaper stacker, I used it for his small books. He can easily remove them and then put them away. He is now four and his "book stacker" is still very much in use.—KARLA

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—The feathers in my down-filled comforter slide to the edges and leave the center thin. Can someone tell me how to prevent this?—MIPS, Ft. H.

DEAR POLLY—Valuable space can be saved by hanging that seldom-used phone book on a coat hanger in the closet.

If you have trouble with food in the freezer sticking to its walls keep your food in a dish drainer.

If you cannot keep track of your door stops, use some of those shoe horns that are probably lying around the house. They can be used for a better fit.

Hang a ball of twine on the wall by bending a wire coat hanger so the hook slips up through the opening in the center of the ball.

If you have trouble finding your thumbtacks, glue some fairly big corks to the side of a drawer in your sewing cabinet. Slip the thumbtacks over the corks and always know where they are.

In my spare time I do a lot of painting and after a few weeks' use my paintbrushes started to get out of shape. Now I clean a brush and shape it by cutting a V-shape in a plastic or paper cup, put brush cleaner in the cup and take the brush through the V cut to keep it in shape and clean it at the same time.—WAYNE

Wool becomes brilliant translator

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Wool has become the brilliant translator for the American way of wearing clothes. The spring collections of American designers boast sheer wools, lightweight wovens, and doubleknits, lending themselves admirably to the light, lightly-clinging lines of fashion.

The long, newly proportioned silhouette returns to woman an aura of seductive mystery. She is freshly attractive in brighter colors, more concerned with fabric and the originality of detailed workmanship. Whatever the measurement from the floor — maxi, midi, and below the knee — each woman is adapting to it, styling fashion shape and design control.

The softly shaped concept of clothes in its Spring 1971 guise includes many willowy dresses of sheer wool printed and pleated in knife or crystal style, producing a fascinating kaleidoscopic movement. The skirt is set upon a tiny bodice with neat shoulders from which sleeves emerge in many shapes: freely gathered and cuffed, narrowed and long, leg o'mutton, or rounded from enlarged armholes. Marvelously sleek, elongated wool skirts are combined with skinny ribbed wool knit sweaters creating a classic look which frequently substitutes for the elegant silhouette of the dress.

Many feature cutouts and bands of padded stitching, of which we have become so fond. Contrasting colored decorations make many a wool skirt a background in the manner of a painter's canvas. Monogramming of sweaters and solid colored challis shirts is a most becoming custom touch.

Knitted sportswear is unconventional such as the longshoreman's knitted top, cut to the waist and often baring the midriff. The little top worn with wool shorts has a shapely impact upon sportswear. Flowered knitted prints blossom as baring halters combined with slender pants or flowing skirts deeply ruffled at the hemline.

The peasant influence is strongly rooted in fashion. Fabric colors, textures and patterns mixed in a skillful manner convey a spirited fashion attitude. Sleeves are traditionally puffed, necklines widely U-scooped and skirts gathered in dinnal effect. The decorative, if sought, is tucking, embroideries and naive little bows.

Running after the sweet and simple fashions is the witty, wool workman's stylings such as gardener's aprons, mechanic's coveralls, busboy jackets and schoolboy blazers, all adapted for town wear in lightweight wool flannel, airy fleeces, denim-like tricotine and wool fancies. Combined with turtle-neck sweaters, one can add a sleeveless vest with shoulder straps balanced at the bone or shapely skiny tops.

Another of the great wool looks is the elegant walking suit worn with a widely brimmed wool felt hat and dashing printed scarf.

Wool pants are everywhere, purely tailored as in the late thirties seen with an infinite variety of sweaters, tunics and shirts, effectively combined with an unlined wool cape creating a costume look.

The classic suit and coat are newly figure shaping, defining the waist, releasing the skirt to a more stabilized hemline than of a year ago . . . just below the knee. Designers believe that pants with matching tunic-like dresses or overskirts color-keyed and coordinated with a fitted top will satisfy many women who love a new-look but will not wear the very long mid and shy away from the wearing of boots.

Spring evenings are warmed by the beauty and styling of wool fashions for dressier occasions. Backless knit dresses flow to high ankle bordered at the hemline by a giant ruffle or band of embroidery. Ruffles are seen on many coats intended for moonlit walks. Unlined and featherweight, flannel and fleece dominate the fashion scene.

The rising scale of color for wool predicts sunlit shades such as flesh pink, peach, apricot, apple green, bisque, lilac, marigold, baby blues to navy blue and stark white accented on occasion by black.

Snow packs roads

TWIN FALLS — State highway equipment was busy throughout the district today clearing heavy snow fall which piled up as much as a foot of snow in some areas.

Main highways throughout the entire district were listed as snow covered and extremely slick by officials at the Shoshone office. Plows and sanding trucks worked most of Tuesday night.

About one foot of new snow was reported at Galena and in the Stanley area with nine inches at Halley, five inches at Carey and snow floor elsewhere. Roads were reported snow covered and slick to both the Utah and Nevada state lines and in the King Hill to Boise area.

Burley reported about six inches of snow in town late Tuesday and in Rock Creek town about a foot was reported.

The Magic Mountain Ski area reported one foot of new snow Wednesday morning and roads there were also being plowed early Wednesday.

Ice, slush contribute to wrecks

Mrs. Schuyler and a passenger, Patty Ann Mason, Meridian, were taken to St. Benedict's Hospital, Jerome. Miss Mason was treated and released and Mrs. Schuyler did not require treatment. Dickson, his wife and 3 1/2-year-old son were not injured.

Three members of a California family were taken by ambulance to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Tuesday afternoon after their vehicle skidded while attempting to pass another vehicle about 10 miles north of the Idaho-Nevada border.

Idaho State Police reported Mrs. Joan Garaha, 26; Lori Garaha, 4 1/2, and Teri Garaha, 0, all Mountain View, Calif., were injured when a vehicle driven by Sherm Garaha, also Mountain View, went out of control and rolled three times. All three are in good condition at the hospital. Officers said the two children were thrown from the vehicle. They also said a St. Bernard dog owned by the family disappeared from the wreck site.

A Buhl teen-ager is in critical condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital with injuries received in a one-car accident Tuesday night eight miles northwest of Buhl.

Deputy Sheriff Curtis Fryer said LuAnn Hudson, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dell Hudson, was driving on a county road when the vehicle struck a patch of black ice. Officers said the girl became frightened and jumped from the car which spun around and ran over her.

Bank post to rancher

TWIN FALLS — John H. Breckenridge of Twin Falls has been named to the board of directors of the Salt Lake City, Utah, branch of the Federal Reserve Bank by the board of governors.

Breckenridge will succeed a Nevada rancher, Peter E. Marble of Deeth, Nev., in the post.

The appointment was announced by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco in the annual appointments to the boards of directors of the bank and its four branch offices. The appointments are effective Friday, Jan. 1, 1971. Each is for a two-year term.

Breckenridge is also a member of the boards of directors of Idaho Power Co., Boise; Mountain Bell Telephone, Denver, Colo., and the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce, Boise. He is a well-known Magic Valley rancher, and is president of a family-oriented corporation, the L. L. Breckenridge Co.

Other members of the Salt Lake branch board include Roderick H. Browning, president of the Bank of Utah, Ogden, and Roy W. Simmons, president, Zion's First National Bank, Salt Lake City, both reappointed by the San Francisco board of the Federal Reserve Bank, and Royden G. Derrick, president and general manager, Western Steel Co., Salt Lake City, appointed chairman of the branch board for 1971.

John LaMoine, Hagerman, representing both the Hagerman Chamber of Commerce and the Magic Valley Recreational Council, presented petitions—containing 300 signatures opposing the application. He said the chamber has sent a letter to G. C. Trombley, state land commissioner, opposing the request.

Snake dredge plan rapped

GOODING — Opposition to an application for dredging up the Snake River near Troutman Springs because it would harm both scenic and recreational uses of the river was expressed by the majority of those attending a hearing Tuesday afternoon in the Gooding courthouse.

Edward L. Middlemist, Boise, mineral lease inspector for the Idaho Board of Land Commissioners, conducted the hearing on the application from Stan Detweiler and Keith Slinger, both Twin Falls, for a permit to dredge for "sand, gravel and precious metals" in about 230 acres of the Snake River bed in portions of Twin Falls and Gooding counties.

The applicants plan to use the sand and gravel in making concrete. They were represented by Edward L. Bonalt, Twin Falls attorney.

Harvey C. Perry, general manager of the Pacific Dredge Equipment Co., Portland, the first witness, said dredging equipment would not damage fishing in the river because a suction method is used which draws the materials from the river bed as in a vacuum tube, later discharging them in a sand and gravel pit. The water taken from the river would go into a settling basin and when the solids are settled out, the clear water would go back to the river.

Thirty-six persons attending the hearing, with eight Hagerman residents in addition to those testifying, indicated they opposed the application and two others favored it.

Ed Shokel, Hagerman, suggested the $10,000 bond required by the state for such operations be increased to $100,000 as protection of citizens against possible damage resulting from the dredging.

Pope assails world disorder

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI said today the trials of Basques in Spain and Jews in the Soviet Union were among the causes contributing to a "disease of disorder" assailing the modern world.

The 73-year-old Roman Catholic pontiff, addressing his weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica in his last speech of the year, referred to "certain judicial proceedings."

Vatican sources said there was no doubt he was referring to the controversial Burgos and Leningrad trials.

The pontiff said the world is troubled and uneasy about "the persistence of war in various parts of the world, certain judicial proceedings which have so moved world public opinion, the state of social tension in various nations, delinquency and violence, the many cases of torture, extortions and crimes."

Because of all these things, the Pope said, "the world seems to be assailed by the disease of disorder, by false legality, by criminality, by the pseudo-politics of force, by demagoguery, by systematic protest and by the mercantile and military race of armaments."

"This is not peace, it is not civilization, it is not Christianity," the Pope declared.

Medical premiums increase

TWIN FALLS — The voluntary medical insurance premium older people pay for doctor bill insurance under Medicare will go up by 30 cents per month, beginning July 1, according to John K. Carlton, manager of the Twin Falls office, Social Security Administration.

Carlton said the new premium rate will be $5.60 per month, up from the current $5.30. The increase amounts to only six per cent compared to a rate increase of 32 per cent made last year when the premium was raised by $1.30 from $4.00 to $5.30, Carlton said.

Last year's increase was about double the amount that would have otherwise been required, he said, because the rate in the previous year had been kept at $4.00, an amount inadequate to finance nationwide program.

It was necessary, therefore, to in effect make two increases at the same time. Further, because the inadequate rate had depleted the trust fund, it was necessary last year to provide also for a higher margin for contingencies that in the base this year.

Speedy Arizona State has Peach Bowl nod over N.C.

ATLANTA (UPI)—Eighth-ranked and unbeaten Arizona State, the nation's No. 8 major college football team, is favored to beat North Carolina in the leading bowl in the country and tonight's Peach Bowl game. The Sun Devils, who averaged 514.5 yards and 35.7 points per game during a 10-0 season, are rated the fastest college team in the country and

Carolina Coach Bill Dopley insists that the Tar Heels only chance for an upset lies in controlling the football. "We've got to hang on to the ball," says the 36-year-old

Dooley who is finishing his fourth year as the Tar Heels' head coach. "We've got to ground out the yardage, play a possession game. Arizona State is an extremely good team that can score on you from anywhere. We've got to limit their opportunities."

To do this, Carolina, 8-3 in a runner-up season in the Atlantic Coast Conference, will depend mainly on senior tailback Don McCauley and his sophomore understudy Ike Oglesby. McCauley, gaining more than half of Carolina's ground yardage this past season, broke O. J. Simpson's single-season rushing record last Fall by running for 1,720 yards. Oglesby, the man Carolina is counting on to fill McCauley's shoes in 1971, gained 582.

However, although North Carolina threw an average of only 19 passes a game—and completed an average of only nine, the Tar Heels scored 15 touchdowns through the air. Arizona State, which has a 19-game winning streak going, features a host of runners with track sprinter speed. J.D. Hill, the Sun Devils' leading receiver and top prospect, has been clocked at 9.3 in the 100; sophomore tailback Monroe Eley at 9.5; fullback Dave Buchanan at 9.6 and slow-poke quarterback Joe Spagnola at 9.8.

It's little wonder that Dooley, in his pre-game appraisal, said: "We'll hit them—if we can catch them." Arizona State doesn't depend on its running game alone. Spagnola, an Italian native known as "Spaghetto Joe," passed for 1,991 yards and 18 touchdowns this past season and placed eighth nationally in total offense.

Oregon schools monopolize Far West meet finals again

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Oregon State held off a spirited Stanford rally in the latter stages of the second half Tuesday night, then moved to an 82-75 victory and jumped into the finals of the Far West Classic.

The Beavers, under their new head coach Ralph Miller, will meet arch rival Oregon, 64-48 victors over Washington State, for the championship Wednesday night. Stanford will tangle with Washington State for third place.

The Beavers held a four point lead at halftime, gradually increased the margin and seemed to be moving away to their sixth win of the year against two losses. Trailing 64-50 with nine and a half minutes to go, the Indians rallied back to within four points in the next three minutes, 64-60, as the Beavers went without a point.

But Gary Arbelbide, who sat on the bench for a good portion of the second half, put in two layins to boost Oregon State to a nine point margin, and the Beavers comfortably won. Transfer Sam Whitehead was high man for the Beavers with 23, followed by guard Freddy Boyd with 19. Stanford was led by sharp-shooting Cleud Terry who had 23 points.

Ohio State romped to a 103-87 victory over Harvard, and sophomore George McGinnis with 41 points led Indiana in defeating San Jose State 86-76 in consolation games Tuesday. Trailing 43-38 in the final period, Oregon reeled off 12 straight points in five minutes to take a 50-43 lead. The Cougars pulled to within three, 50-47, with five minutes left and scored once more with three and a half minutes left, but Stan Love, held to only five points in fouling out midway through the final half, sparked the Oregon comeback on two steals and key assists as the Ducks built their victory margin.

Top-ranked UCLA, winning its seventh in a row, scored the game's first 10 points and threatened to blow William & Mary off the court. But the Indians hung tough and, with Steve Dodge, Jim Worns and George Spack leading the way, they closed within a point early in the second half at 44-43.

Wicks took over, dominating the rebounds at both ends of the court, and pulling in repeatedly for uncontested layups to help the Bruins build their final margin. The 6-foot-10 Spack, who brought the ball up court all night with little difficulty against the famed UCLA press, received a standing ovation from the tournament record crowd of 10,000 when he left the game with 55 seconds to play.

St. Joseph's led 37-31 at the half and the Hawks led by as much as seven points four times in the second half.

Marquette, displaying a tenacious defense and strong outside shooting, defeated Dartmouth 86-55. Wisconsin, with five players in double figures and superior rebounding, downed Texas, 89-73.

Wisconsin and defending champions Marquette will play for the championship Wednesday night, preceded by a game between Dartmouth and Texas for third place.

Wisconsin led Texas 50-29 at halftime, largely due to the Longhorns' poor shooting—28 per cent—and the Badgers' 34-17 rebounding advantage.

Castleford and Rimrock gain tourney finals

FAIRFIELD — The Castleford Wolves and Rimrock Raiders moved into the finals of Camas County holiday tournament Tuesday night by defeating the host Mushers and Richfield Tigers.

Hansen outlasts Rimrock

HANSEN — The Hansen Huskies built up a 20-point lead early in the game but then had to weather a fourth-quarter full court press by the Rockland Bulldogs to post a 63-55 victory.

Walt Freestone hit three field goals and a free throw in the closing minutes to help the Huskies stay ahead as Rockland whittled a 50-30 deficit down to 56-47 and just before the buzzer to 61-55. Cliff Barnard, with Carl Crockett getting eight early points, provided much of Hansen's offensive power as he hit 23 points and his ballhandling kept Rockland's press from being a factor until he went to the bench in the final period.

Both teams showed the effects of Christmas turkey as they struggled through the first four minutes with a field goal each. But Crockett and Barnard hit shortly after that and the Huskies quickly mounted a 26-12 lead in the second period.

It was all Hansen until the final four minutes when Rockland pulled to within nine points. Freestone hit a sidecourt jumper and a free throw with Rockland coming back on scores by Munk and Nelson. Freestone got a cramp on the back end of Rockland's press and Crockett added two free throws to pull Hansen out of reach.

Rockland won the opener 58-40.

point second quarter by Larry Reese, dropped Camas County 52-40 while Rimrock, led by Rolie Woolsey, led most of the way but didn't have a 53-41 decision over Richfield's Tigers in hand until the final minutes.

Camas County took a 10-5 lead over Castleford in the opening quarter but the Wolves started dominating the backboards and moved away shortly thereafter. Reese hit eight of the Wolves' 20 points in the decisive second period and after Castleford mounted a 10-point lead, the Mushers could get to within eight only once.

Woolsey hit 13 points in the first half as Rimrock took a narrow cushion over Richfield and nursed it throughout the first three quarters.

But in the final period the Tigers cut the deficit to 40-38 early in the fourth period. Then Rimrock hit a flurry while Richfield went cold and the Raiders won going away.

Woolsey wound up with 23 points and 24 rebounds to offset 29 Rimrock turnovers.

Oakley defeats Kimberly

OAKLEY — The undefeated Oakley Hornets outscored Kimberly 18-2 in the final five minutes of the third quarter Tuesday night and picked up their 31st straight decision 73-49.

Kimberly, a decided underdog in this one, gave the Hornets some problems in the first period and put together a good scoring rally early in the third quarter before Oakley, switching to a zone defense, started moving away.

Big Randy Hardy put together a great first 20 minutes as he dominated the backboards, on both ends and scored 18 of Oakley's first 24 points. That helped the Hornets move from a 19-15 first quarter lead into an apparently comfortable 39-22 edge at halftime.

But Kimberly was at its best in the third period. Coach Noel Johnson's charges—hitting 10 unanswered points to reduce the margin to 39-32. Simmons, who turned in another steady, all-round night, broke the scoring ice for the Hornets and sparked the Oakley break-away.

Kimberly won the preliminary 47-45.

Borah jrs. surprise Wendell

BOISE — The Borah juniors turned to a half-court press to turn off the usually high point production of Kirk Dennis Tuesday night and surprised the Wendell Trojans 63-51 in the first round of the Borah tournament.

Earlier, New Plymouth downed Fruitland and advanced to Wednesday night's finals against Borah. Wendell will meet Fruitland at 7 p. m. Wednesday.

Wendell jumped into a 15-7 first-quarter lead and still had a seven-point edge at intermission. But the half-court press started bothering the Trojans in the third quarter. Borah trailing off 22 points while Wendell managed but 10.

Although Dennis was held to a season's low of nine points, he turned in a good job of assist passing. Adams canned 21 to lead the Trojans.

Young artist paints gift for invalid

By MYRTLE SCHRENK Times-News Correspondent
WENDELL — Everyone in the community should find a senior citizen to visit and do favors for, believes 11-year-old Annie Bertus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.J. Bertus, Wendell. Young as she is, Annie has discovered the joy derived from doing something unselfish for someone else. When she learned that Marjorie Shaw, a victim of multiple sclerosis the past 14 years, wanted a "brown horse" for Christmas, the young artist set about painting one in oils.

from Leo Parkinson, Salt Lake City artist. The young artist feels it was a privilege to be able to use her ability to make someone happy. Miss Shaw, who grew up in Stanley Basin and later lived in the Shoshone area, was an active horsewoman until contracting multiple sclerosis. One of her few pleasures is looking at her pictures of horses, and she calls all brown horses "Rowdy" as that was the name of her favorite horse. Miss Shaw has been a patient at Magic Valley Manor since it opened.

2 women hired in new program

TWIN FALLS — Two women, one in Shoshone and one in Buhl, have been hired in programs financed by the federal government under "Operation Mainstream," according to John B. Lajunen, manager of the Twin Falls Department of Employment.

Lajunen said the two Magic Valley women have been placed with the cooperation of the mayor of Shoshone and the Soil Conservation Service in Buhl. The program is designed to provide training for permanent jobs at decent wages for adults with a history of chronic unemployment, the labor department reports.

Under the program, The U.S. Department of Labor reports 90 Idaho citizens who are "chronically unemployed" will be provided with work experience by "Operation Mainstream."

The program is designed for rural areas and towns and projects will concentrate on work experience and training activities that will improve communities and low income areas where the projects are located. Typical are projects to decrease air and water pollution, park improvement, wild life protection, rehabilitation of alum house and extension of education and social and health services.

Egypt's new leaders urged to join talks

By United Press International Premier Golda Meir appealed Tuesday to Egypt's new leaders to join in sincere efforts to reach agreement in the Middle East peace talks which Israel has agreed to resume. She outlined a tough bargaining position and ruled out a return to Israel's borders before the 1967 war.

Sadat prepared Egypt for the possibility of renewed war and announced he would not agree to another extension of the current cease-fire without "serious progress" at the U.N.-supervised talks in New York. The Arab nations have demanded the complete withdrawal of all Israeli forces from territory occupied during the Six-Day War in 1967, including East Jerusalem and the West Bank of the Jordan River, Syria's Golan Heights, the Gaza Strip and Egypt's Sinai Peninsula.

Mrs. Meir's announcement Monday that Israel would return to the Middle East peace talks after a boycott of almost four months was received with suspicion by the Arab world. Sadat called it a "maneuver" to avoid censure by the United Nations and reaffirmed Egypt's determination to regain all occupied Arab lands.

Laabs said local people will be hired by the service. Currently one of the men already working in this area has had police experience.

Another was a security guard at the White House in Washington, he said.

Those interested in such a service may call Laabs at 733-5880.

Chairman named to post

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House leaders decided Tuesday to elevate Rep. Phillip J. Philbin, D-Mass., to chairman of the House Armed Services Committee in the waning days of the 91st Congress — about three days.

Philbin, after 28 years, was first in line of succession to the chairmanship on the death Monday of Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C. But Democrats in his congressional district denied him renomination this year. He ran in the general election as an independent, but lost.

That means the job in the 92nd Congress will go to Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., next in line behind Philbin.

The 91st expires at noon Sunday and although no business remains for the Armed Services Committee, Hebert suggested to House leaders today that they put Philbin up for election as chairman for the rest of the term.

The job will not be filled until after Rivers' burial on Wednesday. Philbin probably will be formally elected by the House on Thursday.

about the bad luck of running into a 4-2 club break and also finding the ace of diamonds in the wrong spot. He will undoubtedly point out that with good luck, he would have made 12 tricks.

An expert rubber bridge player will make his contract. He will draw only two trumps and lead the ace of diamonds. Then he will cash two high clubs; ruff a low club; get for dummy with the last two trumps to cash the last two clubs and finally lead the diamond.

He knows that when you miss five cards in a suit it will divide 3-2 some 88 percent of the time while the chance that six cards will split 3-3 is less than 40 percent.

The bidding has been:

Pass	3♦	Pass	3♦

You, South, hold:

♥ A 10 7 6 5 4 3 2
♦ K Q 4
♣ A Q J 3 2

What do you do now?

A—Bid three hearts. This is an all-purpose cue bid since it forces partner to tell you more about his hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid three hearts and your partner goes to three spades. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

Some declarers go after every trick that isn't nailed down. They make lots of overtricks that way and win many duplicate games, but they aren't very successful in rubber bridge play.

The winning rubber bridge player doesn't despise overtricks but his main concern is to bring home his contract. An overtrick is worth 20 or 30 points. A game contract is worth several hundred.

The man who wants overtricks will win the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts, run off four trumps to see if someone will be nice enough to discard clubs.

No one is likely to help him out that way so he will go after clubs himself. He will discard his losing heart on the third club and lead a diamond toward his king. West will top it with the ace and South will complain

THE GARDEN OF NEPAL is a fairly well-known spot in the town now called Istanbul. It was, according to one historical report at hand, the sultans' seraglio. Had to look that up. Seraglio means harem. Anyhow, frequent parties were tossed in the seraglio, so the record shows. And also a matter of record is these parties for centuries were illuminated by nothing more than candles attached to the backs of ambling tortoises. Quite a picture, that.

Molotov cocktails hurled at U.S. bus

Brick kills motorist

SAIGON (UPI)—A mob of about 100 students fire-bombed a U.S. Army bus in Saigon Tuesday and then stoned South Vietnamese and American military and civilian police until they fled with fear, authorities reported.

There were no reports of injuries either in the burning of the bus or the clashes.

It was the latest in a series of student demonstrations against the U.S. military and the Saigon government since an American GI shot and killed a Vietnamese youngster in Qui Nhon on the central Vietnam coast Dec. 7.

Police said the students hurled three Molotov cocktails at the bus just outside a student union headquarters on Minh Mang in the Cholon District, about one-half block from the main American Post Exchange.

The bus, heading for downtown Saigon after a stop at the PX, was empty except for the driver who jumped out and fled when the vehicle caught fire, they said.

Both American and South Vietnamese police responded to calls for help. When they arrived, the students, by then broken up into groups of 30 to 40, began tossing rocks, witnesses said.

The Vietnamese police responded by firing tear gas canisters at the demonstrators and they dispersed quickly.

The bus was heavily damaged.

U.S. military spokesmen said it was the second such attack on an American Army bus in recent days. The first failed, they said.

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI)—Four bricks dropped from highway overpasses in the past three days have killed one person and injured another in or near Wichita. The Sedgewick County sheriff began an investigation Tuesday after the fourth incident Monday injured a deputy sheriff. A woman died Sunday a day after a dropped brick caused her car to crash.

White House aide tells of Nixon's achievements

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A few years ago Jack Valenti, now president of the Motion Picture Association, said in a speech that he slept better because Lyndon Johnson was in the White House. Everyone laughed.

But Valenti's hero worship of the former President was no less extravagant than White House counselor Daniel P. Moynihan's swan song.

In a valedictory to the cabinet at a closed meeting in the East Room, Moynihan, "known as the house Democrat," delivered a panegyric on President Nixon's tenure at the White House.

The White House—understandably—later made the text of Moynihan's remarks available to reporters.

He is returning to his professorial post at Harvard University, having reached the deadline on his two-year sabbatical.

In his farewell address, Moynihan recalled the President's inaugural speech with its theme of reconciliation and restraint, and said those words of Jan. 20, 1969, were and remain the most commanding call to governance that the nation has heard in these troubled times.

"How, by that standard, would one measure the two years past?" asked Moynihan, "not, I think, unkindly. To the contrary the achievement has been considerable, even remarkable."

Moynihan said in foreign affairs, the nation has asserted the limit of its power and its purpose, has begun to dismantle the cold war and had moved convincingly toward "the prospect of a generation of peace"—Nixon's oft-quoted prediction.

On the domestic front, Moynihan said that Nixon has "moved on to new commitments to groups and purposes that had been too much ignored during that period and beyond that to offer a critique of government the like of which has not been heard in Washington since Woodrow Wilson."

Under Nixon, he said, "mass urban violence has all but disappeared. Civil disobedience and protest have receded. Racial rhetoric has calmed. The great symbol of racial subjugation, the dual school system of the South, virtually in two years has quietly and finally been dismantled."

"All in all," he said it is "a record of some good fortune and much genuine achievement."

"And yet how little the administration seems to have been credited with what it has achieved," he said. "To the contrary, it is as if the distrust and distrust in the nation as a whole had been eased by being focused on the government in Washington."

He urged cabinet members to "be of good cheer and good conscience" and told them they are "led by a President of singular courage and compassion in the face of the sometimes awful knowledge of the problems and the probabilities that confront him."

Moynihan seemed to be answering the Nixon critics who say the administration is "flat and pragmatic" and that the President has not pushed his programs such as welfare reform.

Protests

BERLIN (UPI)—The commandant of West Berlin's American sector, Gen. George M. Seignious, protested Saturday against East German Communists opening fire on a would-be refugee trying to scale the wall early Christmas Day.

West Berlin police who saw the shooting said the man fell to the ground as he ran toward the wall and was removed later in an ambulance. Seignious, in a statement, described the incident "as a further sign of the wanton disregard of human life."

Sen. Murphy may resign seat

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., said Tuesday he might resign his seat in order that Rep. John V. Tunney, the Democrat who defeated him last month, could gain seniority over several other senators-elect.

Murphy told UPI in an interview that he might resign before his term expires Sunday if the Senate completes action on several key bills—including funding of the supersonic transport (SST)—"and if there is an advantage to the state."

Murphy said he had previously discussed the possibility of resigning with Gov. Ronald Reagan and top presidential adviser Robert H. Finch, a Californian, and had decided against it at the time.

But he said "if the legislative program winds up in time" he would "consider it again."

If he resigned, Reagan could immediately appoint Tunney to the seat and thus give him seniority over at least four of the nine other senators-elect.

Fiddlers set events

WEISER, Idaho (UPI)—The 12th annual Fiddlers Festival and 9th annual National Old-time Fiddlers Contest will be conducted June 21 to 28 in Weiser, it was announced today.

Fiddlers and folk music fans from every state in the nation will gather in Weiser for the fiddle festival. Tryouts begin Tuesday June 22 and the fiddling continues until the 1971 champion is named Saturday night, June 26.

Registration for the festival and for housing begins in February. The festival is sponsored by the Weiser Chamber of Commerce.

Medal awarded 25 years late

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—Twenty-five years ago in January Clarence Cain was discharged from the Army after serving in Europe during World War II.

He was told then the Army was temporarily out of medals so he would have to wait. Last week, Cain received a Bronze Star.

And now he says it's been so long he doesn't remember what the award was for.

Boise council terminates lease

BOISE (UPI)—The Boise City Council terminated a lease agreement with the state Monday and made clear its intention to proceed with the Curtis Road extension through the old soldiers' home property.

To do so, the council terminated a 14-year lease signed in 1957 by Boise Mayor Jay Amyx and Robert De Shazo of the Idaho Department of Public Works which had held the city to use the land as a park.

Robert E. Gass, city attorney, said De Shazo had no right to "sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of state lands" and said because of that the lease agreement was invalid.

Gass said only the State Board of Land Commissioners can dispose of public lands.

The city officials also introduced a resolution petitioning the state to maintain the property as a state public park with the exception of "that portion of the property taken in condemnation" by Ada County and Boise for the extension of Curtis Road.
