Probe mine ...

FEDERAL INSPECTORS prepare to enter the gorge of a shaft at the Finley Coal Co. coal mine near Hyden, Ky., to seek the cause of an explosion that killed 38 men last week. Although many miners have expressed concern over working in the mines, the majority continue with their work. "What else is there for us to do?" said one. (UPI)

Stadium design cited Coal dust blast tore death mine

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI)—Fighting back tears, a member of Parliament today inspected the playing field where death was the only victor and said sports stadiums must be remodeled to handle fans, not animals.

Turning away from the Ibrox Park Stadium where 66 persons were killed and about 200 more injured when ramp railings gave way Saturday, M.P. Maurice Miller told newsmen: "I think the soccer clubs should make civilized accommodations available for their fans—give them seats under cover instead of herding them into areas where they are pushed and jammed like animals."

The scene behind him made for tears, he said. Buckled steel barriers and bits of clothing showed what happened when, just at the end of the 1-1 tie game, two crowds—one departing but attracted by the stadium noise of the tying score, the other surging out after seeing that score—met on a high ramp, which burst under the pressure.

Violence has a season ticket to Ibrox Park.

For generations the bitterness between the Celtics, champions of the Roman Catholic minority of this unruly Scottish city, and the Rangers, darlings of Glasgow's Protestant majority, has made their matches something like regular mass meetings of the Hatfields and the McCoys.

HYDEN, Ky. (UPI)—Federal investigators said Sunday an explosion that killed 38 miners in the Finley Coal Co. mine was set off by a charge of explosives, causing a "particle by particle explosion of coal dust ranging through the tunnel."

James Westfield, assistant director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines, said the explosion occurred 1,600 feet deep inside the hillside mine last Wednesday. The miners apparently were killed instantly.

"We believe the explosion was initiated by blasting at a 'boom hole' in the first left of the main entry of the No. 16 mine," Westfield said in a joint statement issued with H.N. Kirkpatrick, state commissioner of mines and mineral resources.

"After the initial blast it was a chain reaction—a particle by particle explosion of coal dust ranging through tunnel," Westfield said.

No Speculation.

Westfield declined to speculate whether the miners died from the impact of the explosion or by suffocation. Some of the men were found as far as 1,000 feet away from the blast site.

The mining officials, who led a team of 18 experts into the mine Saturday, also refused to say what type or quantity of explosives were used to set off the blast. Black powder and dynamite are banned by federal law.

Westfield said the explosion was set off by an electric blasting cap in the "boom hole," which is a section of the mine roof blown out to allow the miners clearance to put the coal on a conveyor belt.

The boom hole was blasted 30 inches higher than the 30-to-32 inch seam of coal, he said. The miners had just started mining the seam when the accident happened.

Loose Term

Recovery crews who brought the bodies out of the 2,600 foot deep mine said they believed the blast was caused by dynamite. Westfield said "dynamite" was a term used loosely around mines to mean any kind of explosives.

Governor Andrus takes Gem helm

BOISE (UPI)— Cecil D. Andrus became the 25th governor of Idaho today, urging the people to form a "grand alliance" against empty pockets, empty stomachs and empty minds.

The decade of the seventies is a time to speak out and insist that the enemy within is not the young of America," the 39-year-old governor told a crowd from the statehouse steps.

"I propose a new beginning," Andrus said. "We must assemble a dedicated team to rewrite traditions, to redesign methods of achievement and to remake the wayaged lands we have so brutally abused."

He said the environment shows signs of blight but urged the people not to dwell upon the post or what might have been. Instead, he said, the seventies simply should be a decade of rebirth.

"We can examine our government, our schools, our economy and ourselves," Andrus said. "We can retain and make better the good and the sound" (Continued on p. 11)

New Governor ...

"Rather, the enemy is many things: mismanagement of government and resources, disease, poverty, inadequate education, shrinking employment and other ills that afflict our society," Andrus, first Democrat elected governor of Idaho in 26 years, said that "during the decade of the seventies we must address ourselves to what unites us rather than to what divides us."

"There are those who would tear down the state and nation, or more popularly, burn it down," Andrus said. "Instead, we must gather ourselves to improve rather than destroy."

"If there is any burning to be done, let us burn the clichés that have kept us from each other, kept us from forming a grand alliance against empty

Kellwood employees return

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

TWIN-FALLS — About 400 employees of the Twin Falls, Kellwood plant returned to work today after a two-week layoff brought on by a year-end economic slump in the western states region and holidays.

Bill Satterfield, general manager, said today layoffs are common in the hosiery industry when supply catches up with demand.

The 400 workers missed seven days of pay, he said, because most are eligible for holiday pay for Christmas and New Year's day and there were two weekends during the lay off period.

Satterfield said there is a general lull in the economy nationwide at year-end. He said the Twin Falls plant serves the western states where the shutdown is felt most strongly.

He said the Boeing layoff of some 60,000 workers has hit the Seattle area hard and Los Angeles, another big market for the local plant, also is feeling an economic pinch.

"There are no further plans here for a shutdown in the coming months," Satterfield said. Because of the assembly-line nature of the plant operation, he said, it is not possible to lay off a few people in a department. He said it is better business to close the entire plant for a given period.

Workers except maintenance workers were given the non-pay vacation, he said. Most of the employees in the hosiery industry are women, he said, and by planning the shutdown over the holiday period women workers are better able to plan holiday activities for their families.

Since the plant opened in Twin Falls last March, the 10-month payroll has been about $1.3 million with full capacity of the plant next summer expected to increase this rate. Satterfield said this, of course, will depend on the national economic climate and an anticipated leveling off in the market decline.

Many stores at this time have cut back their buying for inventory, he said, and will be increasing purchases when inventories are completed.

Murder hearing pending

TWIN FALLS — No date has been set for a preliminary hearing for a Twin Falls woman charged Saturday with first degree murder in the strangulation death of her 86-year-old mother.

A preliminary hearing was requested Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Helen Evelyn Wilcox, 64, was arraigned in Twin Falls Police Court, according to Capt. Tim Qualls of the Twin Falls Police Department. He said court appointed attorneys, Rayborn, Rayborn, Webb and Pike, made the request.

Mrs. Wilcox, charged with the death of Mrs. Laura Wilcox, remains in Twin Falls County jail. There is no bond set in first degree murder charges in most cases.

Twin Falls Mortuary, which initially contacted police about the death of the elder Mrs. Wilcox, said funeral services for the murder victim still are pending.

Capt. Qualls said investigation into the case also is continuing. It was reported the victim was lying in an upstairs bedroom when police arrived at the scene early Saturday.

Mrs. Wilcox was arrested at 9:19 a.m. Saturday, less than an hour after authorities were notified of the death.

Filibuster reform eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate leaders frustrated by a series of filibusters that crippled the body in the closing days of the 91st Congress, are mapping a new assault against rules which allowed the slow-down.

The move will trigger a new filibuster when the 92nd Congress convenes Jan. 21.

At least seven effective filibusters made a shambles of the late going in the 91st Session, which ended Saturday. Reformers have announced plans to reduce from two-thirds present and voting to three-fifths the number needed to choke off a filibuster. The attempt will be countered by the usual filibuster by small state conservatives and Southerners.

Early action has been promised by Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, on the increases in Social Security benefits. The increases will be made retroactive to Jan. 1.

President Nixon's proposal for welfare reforms, which would include a $1,000 guaranteed income to every family, also has been promised early by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee.

Other important issues in the backlog of legislation include a plan to revamp the Selective Service System to provide an all-volunteer Army, import quotas, and revenue sharing with the states.

In addition, the administration is working on a new health insurance recommendation. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the Republican leader in the Senate, has said he would like the 92nd Congress to be known as the "health rights Congress."

House Democrats will meet to choose new leaders. Speaker John McCormack of Massachusetts retired at the end of the 91st Congress. His job will go to Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, now the majority leader, who will not be opposed.

But there will be a battle for the majority leader position. Among the candidates are Reps. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, B.F. Slak of California, James G. O'Hara of Michigan, Morris K. Udall of Arizona, Wayne L. Hays of Ohio and Edward P. Boland of Massachusetts.

Burglars get cash, jewelry

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls police are investigating two burglaries that occurred this weekend — one at a residence and the other at Frederickson's Ice Cream and Chocolates.

Police said the Earl Hornbaker residence, 653 Cindy Drive, was entered through a glass sliding door and screen and about $1,000 worth of jewelry, coins and other items were reported taken.

At the ice cream firm, police said entry was gained through a storage room door and $10 in change and $25 in a bank deposit bag were taken.

Both burglaries were discovered Sunday.

Sardine deaths ...

Crash victim succumbs

EDEN — A former Eden farmer, Emil S. Falk, 82, Mountain Home, died of injuries he received in a one-car accident Aug. 2 in Burley. He died Saturday in Mountain Home.

According to the Burley city police report, Falk was a passenger in the auto driven by his wife, Mrs. Florence Falk, 84, on Highway 27 in Mindoko County, but inside the city limits of Burley.

Mrs. Falk told police she had lost her husband take the steering wheel for a second. The auto then bumped the curb and struck a light pole.

Skeleton reveals old crucifixion

JERUSALEM (UPI)—The skeleton of a man nailed to a cross about 2,000 years ago shows crucifixion may have been different—and even more painful—than the method depicted by history.

Dr. Avraham Biran, director of the Israel Department of Antiquities, said the skeleton was "a very, very important discovery" but said it would be "mere fantasy" to think it might be the remains of Christ.

"It cannot be Christ for the man's name is Yehohanan and it was chiseled into his vesuvry (tomb)," Biran said Sunday.

As generally depicted by paintings and historians, crucifixion—including that of Christ—was with the outspread arms nailed to the crossbar through the palms of the hands and the two feet nailed to the upright with the feet pointed downward and the nail going through the top of the foot.

Instead, from the bones found by Israeli scholars, the arms were nailed to the crossbar through the forearms. The feet were placed together and turned sideways, with the spine driven through the two heels and into the wood. This left the man with his body twisted to one side in the case of a Yehohanan with his knees pointed to his right. A small wooden beam called a sedcular was on the cross to give him added support and reduce the agony of dying.

Dr. Nipu Haan of the Anatomy Department of Hebrew University Medical School, in an article in the latest issue of the Journal of the Israel Exploration Society, detailed the 1968 discovery of the 2,000-year-old remains in three burial caves at GIVAT Hamivtar in northeastern Jerusalem.

The bones of the crucifixion victim were placed in the John D. Rockefeller section of Jerusalem's Israel Museum, which also received a stone fragment, stonary, vesuvry, tere and other artifacts from the burial caves. The bones are not on display because they are still being studied.

Muskie begins jaunt

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the Maine Democrat, many consider front-runner for the party's 1972 presidential nomination, began a two-week European and Middle Eastern tour today to broaden his knowledge of world affairs.

Muskie and his party were to fly from Frankfurt to Munich on a special West German Air Force plane. Muskie then was going by helicopter to the winter home of Foreign Minister Walter Scheel in the Austrian alps village of Illertal.

Muskie has expressed interest in Communist affairs. Last week his office announced he hoped to visit Moscow during this trip.

The U.S. Embassy in Bonn said it did not know whether appointments Muskie sought with Soviet Communist party First Secretary Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin had been granted. The schedule also will visit Israel and Egypt.

Student answers IRS calls

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Pretty Rita Ann Galyean's telephone number is in all of the new 1040 federal income tax manuals — much to the chagrin of the Internal Revenue Service.

Rita, 17, a high school student, is having a ball, or she was, until the IRS moved in to rectify its mistake listing of her number for its regional office at Greensboro.

"I've been getting calls from everywhere," Rita said. "I've been getting more than a hundred a day."

The calls started Tuesday. They came from such distant points as Chicago, Key West, Fla., New York and Ft. Wayne, Ind. to Rita's bewilderment, all of the callers wanted information regarding federal income taxes.

Finally, a representative of the IRS visited Rita and explained that her telephone number, inadvertently was printed on the income tax manuals out of Washington and distributed nationally.

Besides the publicity, Rita is reaping something every teenager would dream about — having her telephone bill paid for a full year, compliments of Uncle Sam, for all the inconvenience he has caused her.

She said the telephone company would fix it so that future calls would go to a special operator who would ask the caller whether he was trying to reach Uncle Sam or Rita.

Rita said the IRS number here is 288-7670. Rita's is 276-9222 — not even close.

Plane crash kills 2

MINNAPOTA, Utah (UPI) — A Minnegota couple died when their propeller light plane crashed on a small hill near here Saturday night after heavy traffic thwarted attempts to land on U. S. Highway 50-6.

Killed in the mishap about 6 p.m. were Errol Arthur Sorenson, 34, the pilot, and his wife, whose authorities identified as Eloyce.

The two children, LeAnn, 11 and Brian, 6, were listed in poor condition at Puyson City Hospital Sunday. LeAnn reportedly suffered fractures of both legs and ankles and a shoulder injury in the crash. The boy sustained a concussion and fractures.

The Sorensons, of Moorhead, Minn., left Delta, Utah at 5:30 p.m. and were due to arrive at Salt Lake City by 8:30 p.m., according to the Flight Service Station of the Federal Aviation Administration.

Deputy Sheriff Greg Newton, Juab County Sheriff's Office, said the single-engine Beechcraft Musketeer went down during the showstunt after the pilot had apparently attempted to land on the highway and was prevented by traffic. The pilot then headed east from U. S. 50-6 and crashed some two miles away at this nearly abandoned ghost town.

Rocky fears major crises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Sunday there might be "major breakdowns" in American cities this year unless the federal government agrees to share its tax revenues with the states.

In a television interview, Rockefeller said there might be "major outbreaks of violence" if services to the people are allowed to deteriorate.

"I don't think people realize how serious it is," he said.

Rockefeller said specifically that his own state needs at least $10 billion in federal funds, retaining the call for revenue-sharing he has made several times before.

"It's their (taxpayers') money," he said. "Two-thirds of it goes to Washington (states and cities) no longer can deal with their own problems."

Rockefeller was asked whether he thought revenue-sharing, while helping the states, might cause a deficit in the federal budget.

"I can't print money. They can," he replied. "Perhaps a federal deficit at this time would be stimulating and would be useful (to the economy)."

Liberal navy backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Navy Secretary John H. Chafee Sunday threw his weight behind Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr.'s liberalization of naval regulations.

"One's ability to fight isn't affected by the length of your hair," Chafee said.

Since Zumwalt became chief of naval operations several months ago, he has decided to hire professional custodians to spare sailors from some housekeeping duties, changed traditional rules that sailors must wear dress whites when their ship arrives in port.

Another new regulation will permit beards and mustaches as long as they are neatly trimmed, and sideburns down to the earlobe.

The new regulations have come to be known as "Z-Grants" and Chafee was asked whether they would affect the Navy's fighting ability.

"Actually, it's going to improve our fighting ability," Chafee said. "In that being a more attractive Navy, moving with the times, we'll be able to keep more of our good people."

"Our people are willing to work hard on things that are important, like anybody is, but they don't want to spend their time on things that you might consider 'headless,'" Chafee said.

Chafee, former governor of Rhode Island, was interviewed by Metromedia Radio news.

Pope asks compassion

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI called on Christians Sunday to find a new source of moral energy by showing compassion to victims of disasters such as at the Glasgow soccer stadium.

"How can one forget the innumerable victims of the civil war in Pakistan and the very unhappy survivors? How can one not think today of the dead and wounded in the frightful calamity of yesterday in the Bronx Park at Glasgow?"

The Pope asked referring to the stadium tragedy in which 60 persons were killed and more than 200 injured.

"A Christian soul cannot remain unmoved by these calamities and the suffering which they cause."

S.L. man has chill birthday

KAMAS, Utah (UPI) — A Salt Lake City man spent his birthday trapped overnight in estimated 10 to 15 degree below zero weather when his snowmobile was stranded in a timbered and rough terraced side canyon.

Wasatch County Sheriff Floyd L. Witt said a commercial helicopter rescued Er L. (Dan) Patch about 9 p.m. Sunday. Witt said Patch, 51, suffered no apparent ill effects from his overnight stay in the side canyon 10 miles east of here.

"This was my first exposure to severe cold," Patch said. "I know I had to keep moving."

Companions found him Saturday afternoon but were unable to get his snowmobile out of the rough terrain. Witt and a party of 10 volunteers made visual contact with Patch late Saturday night, but couldn't get to him.

Patch said he placed a bunch of boughs on the snow under a tree and walked back and forth all night to keep warm.

Spiro blames bad press

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Sunday editorial bias in favor of liberals is partly responsible for criticism he is a divisive force in politics.

Agnew said some of the things he has been called "hire much worse than the utterances I've made," but that he saw no "editorials spout into being" in his support.

Agnew was interviewed by conservative commentator William F. Buckley Jr. on Buckley's television program, "Firing Line." It was taped in New York Dec. 8 and shown Sunday. Agnew was scheduled to return to Washington today from a six day California vacation.

Manson defense nears end

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Attorney Irving Kanarek was expected today to wind up his final effort to save Charles Manson from the gas chamber on charges of plotting the seven Tate-Tablanta slayings.

Kanarek began his final arguments in the six-month trial last week and told Superior Court Judge Charles Older he would finish today.

Attorney Maxwell Keltz, who was appointed to represent Leale Van Houten in the case after her lawyer, Ronald Hughes, disappeared on a camping trip Thanksgiving, was to follow Kanarek with his final arguments.

Question . . .

My brother and I have an aged uncle who has no other relatives and has made no provision for his funeral. When he passes away will we have to pay these costs?

Answer . . .

There are very few people in our present day economy who do not have some kind of benefit to defray funeral expenses. If your uncle has private funds of his own these costs will be paid by his estate. If he is a Social Security annuitant he will receive three times his monthly annuity up to a maximum of $255.00, if he is a retired Civil Service employee the amount varies as it does also under the Railroad Retirement Pension plan.

Veterans of any war are entitled to $250.00 and other benefits. Under certain circumstances your uncle may also be entitled to some form of burial assistance of the local government level such as an old age benefit or medicare reimbursement. We have funeralists in all parts of the state, therefore, the burial benefit will usually cover most of the cost at our Mortuary.

1971 hijacking has same script

Boise man drowns in river

MIAMI (UPI)—The first hijacking of 1971 came, three days into the new year. The script has changed very little since the first hijacking almost 10 years ago.

In each instance, the craft was a National Airlines plane, the hijacker was armed and quickly took control of the flight. Sunday's occurred as a flight from Los Angeles prepared to land at Tampa.

"This man walked into the cockpit with a big cannon and said we're going to Havana—and that's what we did," said Capt. Carl Weiss, the pilot.

The DC8 jet carried 97 persons, considerably more than the National airliner with 11 persons aboard that was diverted to Cuba by an armed Cuban during a flight from Miami to Key West on May 1, 1961—the first hijacking.

The hijacking Sunday was carried out by a Negro armed with a pistol, but when the plane landed in Havana, another black passenger waved a pistol and escorted two women and three children—apparently the wives and children of the hijackers—off the plane.

The passengers remaining in Cuba were listed only as Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

The Jones couple had children, 4 and 6, and the Johnson family was listed as having a non-ticketed infant.

The first gunman asked stewardess Dorothy Amato for a drink of water as the jet approached Tampa on a flight from Los Angeles to Miami.

"When I brought him the water, he pulled a cover off his lap and he had a gun underneath it," she said.

"He grabbed my arm and marched me up the aisle and got the key to the cockpit from Janice (stewardess Janice Lovelady) and went into the pilot's compartment."

Weiss said the pilot was a 28 or a 350 Magnum, and he held it "about a foot from my head all the way."

"The first thing we did was to check the fuel," Weiss said. "The hijacker said, 'You'd better have enough because if you don't we're going to land in the ocean.'"

The pilot said the hijackers gave no reason for wanting to go to Cuba.

The jet was in Cuba more than four hours while Cuban authorities questioned the passengers, who said they were well treated. It returned to Miami late Sunday morning.

GRAND VIEW, Idaho (UPI)—Divers from the Ada County Sheriff's Office failed to find the body of Greg Dewey, 23, Boise, Sunday, who drowned Saturday in the Snake River while duck hunting.

Elmore County Sheriff Earl Winters said Dewey and a companion, Dana Moyer, 23, Nampa, were hunting ducks from a canoe on the Snake River near here Saturday, when their craft overturned.

Moyer was rescued after the pair was sighted by other hunters. Winters said one man stayed behind to watch the canoe go down the river as the others went for help.

The canoe and the hunter were blown by the wind toward a congregation of hunters on the bank of the river, four miles upstream from here.

Explosives blamed for tragedy at coal mine

HYDEN, Ky. (UPI)—Explosives set off a "chain reaction" dust explosion that killed 38 miners deep inside the Finley Coal Co.'s Hillside Mine, federal officials said Sunday.

"We believe the explosion was initiated by blasting a 'boom hole' in the first left (tunnel) of the main entry of the No. 16 mine," said James Westfield, assistant director of the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

Westfield and H.N. Kirkpatrick, state commissioner of mines and mineral resources, issued a joint statement after 18 mine experts explored the shafts where the miners died Wednesday.

"After the initial blast it was a chain reaction—a particle by particle explosion of coal dust ranging through the tunnel," Westfield said.

Charles Finley, owner of the mine, said he was surprised a dust explosion had been blamed, because precautions had been taken against such an eventuality.

"We had it well rock-dusted," he said, "right up to the face." Rock dust normally is mixed with the coal dust after mining is concluded in a particular spot to reduce the explosive potential of the dust.

Westfield said the blast happened 1,600 feet inside the mine, but some of the bodies were found as far as 1,000 feet away from the explosion. He declined to speculate whether they were killed by the impact of the blast or had suffocated.

The type and quantity of explosives used was not disclosed. Westfield said they were not black powder or dynamite, both banned by federal law.

The explosion blew dust and debris out all eight portals of the mine, according to the federal official.

The mine, dug 2,600 feet into the side of an Appalachian hillside, may never be opened, according to Finley.

A joint hearing into the explosion deaths by federal and state mining officials was to begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday at the Leslie County Courthouse. Sixty other miners employed at the mine were asked to testify.

Hearings begin today on budget

BOISE (UPI)—State agency budget hearings will begin today for the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee of the 41st Session of the Idaho Legislature.

The committee decided early in December to work one week before the regular session starts Jan. 11. They broke this morning for the inauguration of Governor-elect Cecil Andrus.

Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, committee co-chairman, said by working the week before the start of the regular session, the committee could find enough time so appropriation bills could be introduced before the session's 45th day, the deadline for the introduction of money bills.

The committee agenda for Jan. 11 includes hearing all educational budgets, including those of the state colleges and universities, Jan. 12-14, and the department of public health, Jan. 15.

Today, the joint committee will hear budgets from the Boise Children's Home and the soil conservation council.

Tuesday's agenda will feature the Idaho Water Resources Board, water administration, department of public lands, commission on federal land law, parks department or lands, human affairs and commission for the blind.

Woman, 91, dies alone in blaze

MERIDIAN, Idaho (UPI)—A 91-year-old Meridian woman died in a house fire Saturday afternoon as she apparently started a fire in her bedroom in an effort to keep warm.

Meridian Police Chief Gene Hiner said Mrs. C. H. Carter, who lived alone in the seven-room, wood-frame farmhouse in an old residential section here, succumbed in the blaze apparently started in her bedroom.

She was believed to have started the wood fire in a metal suitcase, and was overcome by the smoke as she laid in bed.

The bedroom and kitchen were extensively damaged as flames shot through the ceiling, attic and roof. The fire took 30 minutes to contain.

Fire Chief Roger Welker said the body of Mrs. Carter was recovered from the bedroom by firemen during the blaze.

Tourist income slumps

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—The people here who live off tourism are proving to be "lousy" northern weather and a healthy stock market to pick up a sagging tourist industry.

"Nobody can come up with significant figures but hotel operators and tourism officials have a gut feeling that serious trouble is not far off. This was somewhat tempered Christmas week when hotel reservations picked up a bit.

An official in charge of luring tourists to this city said prospects look "very, very favorable." He admitted another stock market slide could change the picture.

Waitresses, bartenders and cab drivers worry more about the quality of the tourist than the quantity. They claim today's visitor isn't as free and easy with his lips.

"We call them tenners," said one hardened barmaid. "They come in with the Ten Commandments and $10 and leave with both intact."

Other indications that tourists have cut down on spending were the late arrival and early departure dates of Christmas visitors and a big drop in money bet at Tropical Park in Miami.

With all the sobering signs, there are indications things may improve.

Eastern Airlines, which jets more than half the tourists who fly into south Florida, said its passenger rate is up over last year. Florida's welcome stations for tourists also are booming. On Dec. 20, the all-time record was broken when 10,593 persons visited the stands for information and free orange juice.

"It looks very, very favorable on through January and into February," said Elliott Roosevelt, head of the Miami Beach Tourist Development Authority. "The travel industry is strongly affected by the economy, and right now we're keeping fingers crossed."

"We believe we can get 5 to 6 per cent (of the 7 to 8 per cent last year) back if the market continues to climb and they have lousy weather up north," said Bill Matthews of the Miami Beach Publicity Department.

Hal Cohen, also a Miami Beach publicist, thinks the December tourism is down slightly. But he thinks January will be up because of the Super Bowl football game. "That's always a shot in the arm," said Cohen.

Allen Margulis of the Fountainbleau Hotel agreed. "We sold out 1,300 rooms for Christmas, and it is picking up for January," he said. "We have conventions beginning the first part of January and, of course, with the Super Bowl, we're sold out for the 15th to 18th already."

"A spokesman for the Club, Restaurant Employes and Bartenders' Union, Local 133, expressed concern about employment.

"Right now it's quiet," he said. "We expect it to pick up, but it's way off and tourists are spending less money."

A Collins Avenue bartender said not many bartenders he knew were out of work but some had been cut back to part-time.

"The single guys make it," he said. "But the girls, especially if they have kids to support, must eat nothing but bread and butter."

'Weak' economy predicted in '71

WASHINGTON (UPI)—AFL-CIO President George Meany and Carl H. Madden, chief economist of the business-oriented U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said in New Year messages that the economy may be weak in 1971.

Meany, in a gloomy assessment, said labor looks to 1971 with apprehension and "grave concern."

Madden, in a more cautious statement, said the recession of 1970 was the mildest since World War II, but noted that "there is a noticeable lack of zip in all sectors of the economy."

Meany called on President Nixon to take additional and firmer steps to stop inflation. He said labor is willing to sacrifice some wage gains, but only if other sectors of the economy also are required to make sacrifices to stop inflation.

The Labor Department reported Thursday wholesale prices rose 2.3 per cent in 1970, less than half the 4.9 per cent advance recorded in 1969. The figure means it cost $117.00 to buy the same quantity of wholesale goods in December that could have been obtained for $127.70 in November, $115.10 a year ago and $104 a little more than a decade ago.

Prices of industrial commodities, considered a better barometer of inflation than the overall index, which includes highly-volatile farm prices, increased 0.3 per cent in December. Industrial commodity prices were 3.5 per cent in 1970.

Veto issue flares

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon and some of his congressional critics have found a new issue for a constitutional quarrel between the executive and lawmaking branches of the national government.

This issue, involving a presidential "pocket veto" of a bill when Congress is not in session, is less likely to shock the nation than debates about shared and sometimes conflicting power over defense and foreign policy.

Bill from George Washington to Richard M. Nixon, Congress and the President have often accused one another of usurping constitutional authority.

The White House announced the day after Christmas that Nixon had pocket vetoed a bill to encourage the training of more family doctors, a measure which originated in the Senate.

A constitutional provision gives the President 10 days, plus Sundays, to act on a bill from Congress. If he fails to sign it within 10 days while Congress is in session it becomes law unless he returns the legislation, with a message of explanation, to the house where it originated. His veto can be overridden by a two-thirds vote of the House and Senate.

If Congress has adjourned for the year, however, a president can pocket veto a bill merely by refusing to sign it. James Madison first used this power to kill two measures in 1812.

Of 2,250 presidential vetoes through 1968, there were 957 of the pocket type. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who served a record 12 years and eight days in the White House, also holds the record for both regular vetoes, 635, and pocket vetoes, 283.

When Nixon pocket vetoed the family doctor bill, the Senate was in recess for six days over Christmas. Congress had approved a routine resolution authorizing its officials to exchange messages with the White House during the recess.

When the Senate reconvened Dec. 28, Senate Democratic Whip Edward M. Kennedy and retiring Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, a sponsor of the family doctor bill, protested that the President had abused the pocket veto power. Yarborough cited three Supreme Court decisions which he thought made the veto action invalid.

By Wednesday four colleagues from the House and Senate had joined their protest, including the "strict constructionist" conservative, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C. Ervin said he thought constitutional scholars would agree that the bill had become law Dec. 25 or 26 without the President's signature.

All six suggested that the President should have sent a veto message to the Senate secretary and that Congress should have been allowed to vote on overriding. When originally passed, only one vote in the Senate and two in the House were cast against the bill.

In his pocket veto announcement, Nixon said the bill represented the wrong approach and that, anyway, there were already four federal programs which could accomplish the aims of the family doctor training bill. He also recalled that he had promised to send a broad medical care program to Congress early in 1971.

Yarborough complained that there was an urgent need for more family doctors and that two years would be consumed in any congressional action on a far-reaching health program.

The American Academy of General Practice, representing family doctors, announced that it would take a legal test of the veto to the federal courts. A lawsuit on the issue might take two years but a Supreme Court decision also might define more clearly the pocket veto power.

Yarborough noted that the House and Senate seldom meet on Saturdays. By Nixon's reasoning, he said, any bill could be pocket vetoed if the 10-day period allowed for approval or disapproval by the President expired on a Saturday.

Messy business . . .

'Unfair'

Negro situation said 'devastating' in U.S.

By DONALD E. MULLEN
NEW YORK (UPI)—In the opinion of Whitney Young, Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, the Negro in America still isn't getting a fair shake. He hopes it may be better in 1971, but isn't especially sanguine about it.

When one of the country's most respected civil rights leaders was asked in an interview how the first year of the 1970s has treated black Americans and what he thinks is in store in 1971, he answered in the tone of someone determined not to give in to pessimism.

Young termed the current economic situation "devastating" to black people, and urged the administration to work with support established black organizations.

He described his single conversation with President-elect Nixon the day after the 1968 election, and the silence from the White House since.

He talked about the President's "failure to appoint a black person as an cabinet member or even an undersecretary — even James Farmer was not appointed to a position requiring Senate approval, so there was obviously not a common role for blacks in policy-making positions."

Asked if there had been any progress in civil rights in 1970, Young thought for a moment and then replied:

"There have been credits and debits, but far more debits than credits. We had a series of rather significant setbacks largely in the area of a weakening of the enforcement divisions of civil rights legislation that was already on the books and in some elements of the poverty program."

There was noticeably reluctance to issue guidelines that would strongly recommend positive action, I'm thinking of both the desegregation of the schools and the title six withholding of federal funds to segregated schools. The voting rights here again got legalistic interpretation . . . reassurance to southerners there would be no effort to move beyond the letter of the law.

"The Equal Employment Opportunities Commission had its budget cut back and we had to rush them to get the Civil Rights Commission refunded, and in the whole equal opportunity divisions of the federal government you had an obvious softening of aggressive implementation."

"On the positive side I think the family assistance plan as originally conceived was a forward step — not in terms of the income floor, which was ridiculous — one half as much as the government itself said was poverty — but the conception of the national floor was a step forward."

"The concept of providing assistance to the working poor was terribly important, because the majority of black people who are in poverty actually are working."

"I don't think most people have ever understood the fact that poverty exists among people who are working full-time at a job."

In describing the current recession as "devastating" to black people, Young added:

"You can multiply anywhere from two to two-and-a-half times the overall black unemployment by what it is for the blacks. This means it's 12 to 15 to 18 per cent for the blacks. It means for adult blacks in the cities it's anywhere from 20 to 30 per cent. According to the government's own figures, for black youth between the ages of 18 and 25, it's around 35 per cent. So we're talking about a major depression for black people."

"The training programs of course are effected in the sense that nothing is more discouraging to a fellow than feeling he's being trained for a kind of dead-end situation. When you see people who have been trained now out of work it's terribly depressing."

"The major problems we face today is that organizations like the Urban League who are committed to a philosophy of direct service and effective programs and nonviolence are being severely weakened by decreasing private resources. We face the possibility of having to cut back 35 per cent. It really contrasts with the fact that four times as many people are coming into our offices for services because of unemployment and government cutbacks in domestic programs.

"Black G.I.'s, who four years ago were re-enlisting at the rate of 60 per cent are now enlisting at rate of about 20 per cent. They're coming back in untold numbers, and they're angry."

"I happen to be one of the people this year who tried hard to find something positive in what the administration has done. When the administration came out and said it was against tax exemption for those private schools in the South and said it was going to send lawyers down to enforce the guidelines, I came out in my column and pointed these things out as straws in the wind, and said maybe the administration was changing."

"Not only did the administration not call me and say 'thanks, appreciated, what you're trying to do' — they can call every football player who kicks an extra point — but I got absolutely no support or encouragement. In fact, the other thing happened. The administration in a week or so said the guy in the 'New' didn't know what he was talking about."

"The training programs of course are effected in the sense that nothing is more discouraging to a fellow than feeling he's being trained for a kind of dead-end situation. When you see people who have been trained now out of work it's terribly depressing."

"The major problems we face today is that organizations like the Urban League who are committed to a philosophy of direct service and effective programs and nonviolence are being severely weakened by decreasing private resources. We face the possibility of having to cut back 35 per cent. It really contrasts with the fact that four times as many people are coming into our offices for services because of unemployment and government cutbacks in domestic programs.

"Black G.I.'s, who four years ago were re-enlisting at the rate of 60 per cent are now enlisting at rate of about 20 per cent. They're coming back in untold numbers, and they're angry."

"I happen to be one of the people this year who tried hard to find something positive in what the administration has done. Viet's 'little war' may still be lost

By BARNEY SPIBERT SAIGON (UPI) — A U.S. advisor in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta area remarked recently, "The big war is won. The little war remains and it could be lost."
All the evidence and statistics indicate as 1970 ends that the Vietnam phase of the Indochina conflict is breaking to a slow crawl with both sides like two tired prizefighters — weary of the bloodshed but neither ready to be the first to quit.
The Communists have ordered an early in South Vietnam. It might quartertake. Experts on North Vietnamese affairs think it will, if only "because they've got to do something." But orders for Communist offensives during the U.S. Cambodian operations last spring were not carried but by the units in the field.
And despite the rejections by Hanoi and the Viet Cong of proposals for an extended truce from Christmas through the Tet Lunar New Year Jan. 26, and the ridiculing of President

Nixon's stand in place cease fire offer, Communist leaders have been ordered to prepare flags for display for an imminent cease fire.
The "little war" the U.S. advisor referred to is civil unrest, small guerrilla actions, economic problems and the failure of the Saigon government to capture the imagination and loyalty of the mass of the populace.
High U.S. officials have estimated that fewer than 20 per cent of South Vietnam's 17 million citizens are Communist sympathizers but no more than one-third actively support the government. The remainder are uncommitted but anti-Communist.
Vast areas of the country remain in Communist hands — the western two thirds of the five northernmost provinces, large sections of the central highlands, the U Minh rain forest along the Gulf of Thailand on South Vietnam's southernmost peninsula.
But the government claims it controls 99 per cent of the people and nearly 97 per cent of the hamlets in South Vietnam. The claims, based on the hamlet evaluation system HESZ ratings, may be somewhat over-optimistic, but are largely true.

U.S. Troop strength in South Vietnam declined 27 per cent in 1970, achieving an end of the year target of 344,000 three years earlier. It was the lowest total since the fall of 1965 and down 200,000 from the total at midsummer of 1969, when there were 543,400 Americans fighting in Vietnam.
The U.S. Navy virtually completed its program of accelerated turnover of boats, ships and other facilities to the South Vietnamese navy, making the latter the world's 12th largest naval force. By year's end the U.S. Navy Riverine force had returned to an almost entirely advisory role.
The South Vietnamese air force virtually doubled its helicopter strength during 1970 and acquired its first squadrons of big OH-17 "Chinook" troop and supply carriers which multiplied its air mobility capability.

The biggest change occurred in the South Vietnamese army. It did not substantially expand its 400,000 man strength but it added to artillery and armor and the victories it won in Cambodia almost overnight turned it into a tough, professional, self-reliant fighting force.

U.S. casualty figures in 1970 reflected the increased Vietnamization of the war. American battle deaths were the lowest since 1965 and fewer than half of the 1969 total of 4,436.

IN THE GALA ROOM THE HYDE STREET IV

THE HYDE STREET II is best described as one of the most talented and promising of the new musical groups to emerge from San Francisco in recent years. Led by John Mouille, who plays 12-string guitar, they spent 35 weeks at Land's End Club in San Francisco, where they broke attendance records. Their latest record is "THE HYDE STREET IV." They also appeared for 2 months at the Purple Onion.
Mouille is a native San Franciscan, who is one of the group's composers and singers. He and James MacIntyre are baritones who also write the unique vocal and instrumental arrangements which are hallmark of the foursome. MacIntyre plays bass. Norm Lausten plays lead guitar and contributes his tenor voice to the vocals.

Adam and Eve did their job much too well

By CAROLYN A. BOWERS — NEW YORK (UPI) — Adam and Eve did their job too well, some modernists say. Population experts tell us that the mandate to them — "be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth" has reached epidemic proportions.

They point out that large families may have been necessary "in the beginning," but today, many many "begots" later, reproduction doesn't mean more persons on earth means more consumption. The obvious consequences of too many people getting and spending are pollution, famine, depletion of natural resources, despoiling nature, pestilence, overcrowding, noise, crime, social chaos and warfare, say experts on population control.

If present trends continue, conservative estimates are that the world population will double by the year 2000. In the United States, George H. Brown, director of the Census Bureau, recently announced that due to a substantial drop in the national fertility rate the "baby bomb" here is being defused.

Brown said that in the 1950s American women of childbearing age averaged 3.45 children, which by the early 60s dropped to 2.75. At present, he said it's about 2.45.

Even with the reduced rate, however, the nation's population is expected to increase close to 50 per cent or by nearly 300 million persons by the year 2000, up from 185 million 50 years ago and 200 million last year.

Most demographers agree that a fertility rate between 2.11 and 2.2 would, without immigration, achieve zero population growth.

In other words, in order to let the next generation achieve population stability, beginning now couples just starting families would have to limit their children to two.

There are those, however, who object to this proposal. One is Dr. Giles Newton, associate professor of psychology at the Northwestern University Medical School in Chicago.

Newton feels there is "the need to individualize, rather than play a game of mathematical averages, in regard to fertility control."

"The idea that every woman should have two babies, period," is an insult to the diversity of feminine personality and capabilities," he said.

"It overlooks the fact that there are many women who would be far happier and more useful to society with no children at all and that other women are such gifted mothers that they should have more than the usual two."

Many population organizations, however, argue that couples who want larger families still can help stabilize the population by limiting their natural children to two and adopting others.

Zero Population Growth (ZPG) advocates adoption and encourages whites to adopt minority children who not only have the least chance of finding a home but who are also more plentiful than white children.

For a long time, in many places the Planned Parenthood League was the only voluntary organization providing information on population control. Now many other groups have been formed, among them the Population Council, Population Reference Bureau and Population Crisis Committee.

PG, with its main office in California, has offshoots across the country, one being STOP (Society Toward Optimum Population) in Dallas.

Many conservation groups such as the Sierra Club and Friends of the Earth also are emphasizing population control.

From those groups, solutions have been proposed as far out as requiring marketable licenses to have children and compulsory sterilization for any parents with three or more living children. Rita Hauser, U.S. representative to the United Nations Human Rights Commission, has even urged the legalization of homosexual marriages.

Couple marries at Idaho Falls temple

GOODING — Karla Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Robertson, Gooding, and Steven Wonacott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Wonacott, Costa Mesa, Calif., were married Dec. 18 in a double ring ceremony at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple.

Officiating at the rites was President Roy Wood, grant-uncle of the bride. The couple was accompanied through the temple by the bride's parents; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Staley, Twin Falls; her aunt, Mrs. Darrell Field, Boise; Bob Evans, Provo, and Mrs. Roy Wood, Idaho Falls.

A reception honoring the couple was held that evening in the Gooding LDS Cultural Hall.

The bride wore her wedding gown of white velvet which she fashioned. It was styled with an empire waistline and rose medallions of lace trimmed the rounded neckline and long sleeves. Her floor-length veil of tulle was held in place with a headpiece of white flowers and pearls. Her bridal bouquet was of white roses and blue poms.

Bridesmaids were Glarin Robertson, sister of the bride, and Phyllis Gessell, Seattle, college roommate of the bride. Bob Evans was best man.

The reception table was formed in front of a white Austrian drapery enhanced with blue lights and blue tapers linked with crystal trees.

The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with blue flowers encircling each tier and topped with a white filigree heart and three dolls. Dainty icing rope draped from each tier. The bottom layer was encircled with fresh fern and blue chrysanthemums. The bride's memory candle adorned one end of the refreshment table.

A white cherub floor vase, filled with blue flowers, decorated one end of the stage behind the refreshment table. Guests were seated at quartet tables covered with blue lace muslin an opportunity to be heard out of his or her area. The purpose of this is to afford much needed audience experience to our young musicians on a professional basis with acquaint our state with the over-all development of its youth. This will stimulate good public relations between areas of our state and a better understanding of the aims of our schools and colleges.

Dr. Floyd Peterson, head of the school of music at the university, has arranged a very fine concert to be presented by three advanced students, Margaret Van Orman, pianist; Iron Jerome; Laura Turner, violinist; Bolje, and Gery Heidel, Castleford, vocalist, as guests of the College of Southern Idaho and Twin Falls Music Clubs.

Linda Bristow, Flores exchange nuptial promise

GOODING — Linda Rose Bristow exchanged wedding vows with Alberto Flores in rites Dec. 19 at the Gooding Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Bristow, Gooding, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eusebio Flores, Moirico, Guipuzcoa, Spain.

Father James F. Shinnick performed the double ring ceremony before a background of Ivory Spider chrysanthemums, red carnations and candelabra. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white caplet stem silhouette gown of peau de sole with beaded and scalloped Chantilly lace outlining the empire line, cape and hem of the removable watead chapel train. Her veil of bridal tulle was held in place by a headpiece of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red carnations and roses enhanced with red velvet streamers.

She wore silver earrings a gift from the bridegroom.

Maid of honor was Sandra Bristow, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Patti Estep and Connie Jones. Flower girl was Joanne James and ringbearer was Doug James.

Sandra Bristow was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Don Sims.

John Joe Guarrochena was best man, with Joseba Guarrochena and Pete Elchar serving as ushers.

The color scheme of the Basque country's national colors, red, green and white, were carried out through the wedding and reception which was held after the ceremony at the IOOF Hall.

Mrs. Lita Harbaugh was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. Hazel Schutte, Brenda Estep, Kathy Walker and Kathy Locke displayed the gifts.

At the refreshment table, Dorothy Strickland and Almarosa McHargue served the wedding cake. Coffee was poured by Virginia Estep and Virginia James served punch.

The couple will reside in Gooding. The bride is employed at Green Acres Terrace.

The bridegroom was graduated from R. P. Mercaderis, Guipuzcoa, Spain, and served in the Spanish Marines on the ship, F. R. Rayo, stationed at Cartagena, Spain.

Out-of-town guests attended from Washington, Texas, Boise, Twin Falls, Bligg and Gooding.

Miss Barnes, Warr name wedding date

MALTA — Ronda Carlene Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean Barnes, Bridge, will wed Melvin (Skeet) Warr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warr, Malta, in a ceremony Jan. 7 at the Logan LDS Temple.

The young couple will be honored at a wedding reception and dance Jan. 8.

Miss Barnes and Warr are graduates of Raft River High School. Warr attended the University of Idaho and served two years with the Army in Vietnam, where he received two Purple Hearts.

Miss Barnes studied nursing at Ricks College, Rexburg. The young couple will reside at Malta, where the bridegroom is engaged in the dairy business with his father.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I do stenographic work in an office which employs 28 women. Last week, word came down from the brass in the front office: "Women are not permitted to wear pants in the office." Some of the women here wouldn't wear pants if work if they were permitted to, but that's not the point.

I believe in the democratic system, and think a vote should be taken, and let the majority rule. A word from you might help.

DEAR FOR: I'm for democracy, too, but a word from me wouldn't mean a thing to the brass in your office. If you'll forgive the analogy, "the inmates are not running the asylum."

Most employers want their employees to keep the help happy but since it's not that way where you work, hitch up your trousers and look elsewhere.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in regard to your book entitled "Dear Teenager." It was in my opinion an interesting and helpful book because I could see myself in those letters you got from teenagers. I think your advice was wonderful and I am going to try to live up to all the things you talked about, especially with my parents and boys.

Thank you for writing it. LUCY L. ASHVILLE, N.C.

DEAR LUCY: Your letter delights me, because I wrote "Dear Teenager" 10 years ago and now I am more convinced than ever that we don't need "new" rules to live by, we just need the common sense and strength to live by the old ones.

DEAR ABBY: I gave my husband a toupee for Christmas. (He had to go down to have it fit and cut, but I paid for it, and it wasn't cheap either.)

I think it looks great on him and so does everyone else, but here's my problem: He wears it during the week, but he refuses to wear it on weekends. He says it's not comfortable, he just wants a rest from it for a couple of days. I think it's more important for him to wear it on weekends because that's when we go out together. If he really wants to leave it off for two days a week, would you think he should pick two days when he is not with me? The reason I bought him the toupee in the first place was because I wanted to be with him when he wears it.

DEAR LILAS: What you say makes sense to me, but my advice to you is to stay out of his hair. Store-bought and otherwise.

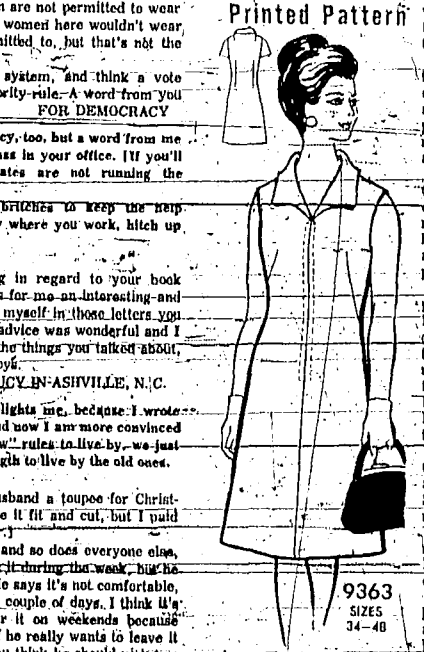

DEAR ABBY: I hope you don't mind the dirt on this paper but it can't be helped because you believe that I am sitting here in the jungles of Viet Nam writing this?

To tell you the truth, Abby, I don't have one big special problem, I just feel kind of lonely out here, and you're second best to my mother.

It is raining now and everybody is soaked to the skin, but the oldtimey tell me I'll get used to it. Maybe I will. I would like to make a wish that when this war is over, none of my friends or the new generation will ever have to go anywhere to fight.

Geo, I wish I were going to be home for Christmas. G. I. FROM BREMERTON, WASH.

Reds hit Cambodian operation

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist troops using heavy mortars bombarded the southern portion of the DMZ separating North and South Vietnam over the weekend.

In Phnom Penh, it was learned that a battalion of government troops were routed from Highway 4 at Sre Ambel, 82 miles southwest of the capital, when their unit was overrun Christmas Eve by an estimated 600 Communists. About 100 of the understrength, 300-man unit were killed and others dispersed, the survivors said.

It brought to six the number of Cambodian battalions overrun in little over one month.

Military sources today said that eight truckloads of troops sent along Highway 4 to try to retake Sre Ambel were ambushed New Year's Day and there were no known survivors. They did not say how many men were involved.

Jobless rate may increase

LEXINGTON, Mass. (UPI)—An economic adviser to former President Johnson Sunday predicted a sharp rise in the nation's unemployment rate this year together with a marked slowdown in rising prices.

In a detailed five-year economic forecast, Otto Eckstein, a former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, predicted the number of jobless workers would rise from 5 per cent in 1970 to 6.7 per cent over the next 12 months.

The rate is not expected to fall below 5 per cent again until 1973 when it will dip to 4.9, he said, predicting the yearly average would be down to 4.4 per cent by 1975.

At the same time, Eckstein, now a Harvard University economist and president of an economic analysis firm, said 1970's 5.3 per cent inflation rate would dip to 3.1 per cent by 1975.

Unemployment among blacks will likely remain over 7 per cent and over 18 per cent among young people through 1973, he said.

Wage increases, which averaged 7 per cent in 1970, will slow to a yearly jump of 5.25 per cent by 1975.

The Gross National Product, the value of all goods and services produced each year in the country, will jump from $975.6 billion in 1970 to $1,450 billion by 1975, Eckstein predicted.

Escaped bound for trial

BOISE (UPI)—A 24-year-old inmate at the Idaho State Penitentiary has been bound over to district court for a preliminary hearing in justice court.

Johnny Salazar, a life termer at the prison, escaped from his guard while he underwent treatment for a kidney ailment Dec. 14 at St. Luke's hospital, police said.

He was found and arrested Dec. 21 at a Boise home, and two Boise men were accused on separate charges of harboring an escaped convict.

Mineral reported in ocean

HONOLULU (UPI)—A researcher said Sunday he has discovered a deposit of manganese on the ocean floor which may be worth billions of dollars.

"This constitutes an economically important reserve which is relatively easy to get at," said Maury Morgenstein, assistant in geophysics at the University of Hawaii.

Morgenstein said he found the deposit in the Kaula Channel off the island of Kaula at depths of 5,000 to 8,000 feet. He said it was surprising to find the ore so shallow and so close to shore because most manganese deposits are believed to be at depths of 20,000 feet or more.

He said the deposit covers an area of about 150 square miles.

Howe 'sells' Idaho

BOISE (UPI)—Lloyd Howe, Boise, was appointed Saturday as the acting director of the department of commerce and development.

Governor-elect Cecil Andrus said Howe will serve as acting director until he can determine what action will be forthcoming from the legislature regarding the department's operation. At that time a permanent director will be named.

The state planning and community affairs agency and the coordinator of federal programs will function until their fiscal positions can be determined.

Andrus said Purchasing Agent Ted Cramer and Department of Public Assistance Chief Bill Child will temporarily retain their posts.

Cramer will present recommendations to the legislature; and Child will present the budget for his department to the appropriate finance committee.

Replacements for the men will be named after the legislative session.

Nixon to answer reporter probes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon scheduled a mini news conference for tonight with four television correspondents in what apparently was one of a series of efforts to widen contacts with the press.

The hour-long "conversation," announced last week, follows a surprise social get-together with a handful of reporters on New Year's Eve.

The television interview, billed as a discussion of the presidency "in depth and perspective," will be staged in the ground floor library of the White House, a new setting for television audiences.

Nixon will be questioned by Eric Sevareid of CBS, John Chancellor of NBC, and Howard K. Smith of ABC. A fourth panelist, Nancy Dickerson, will represent Public Broadcasting Service.

There will be no limit on the subject of the questions, but the White House was hoping Nixon would have time to philosophize about the presidency and his personal approach to decision-making.

Nixon's last television conversation was held July 1 at the ABC Studios in Beverly Hills, Calif., and was limited to questions about foreign policy. The newsmen were on that panel, but not Mrs. Dickerson.

The White House soothed the writing press by giving assurances that tonight's show would not be in lieu of a news conference. Aides hint he may hold more news conferences in the future, but made no promises of regularity.

Utahans commemorate 75th year in union

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, civil and religious leaders will begin the observance today at noon of Utah's 75th anniversary of her admission to the Union.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, standing in front of the Brigham Young statue in Washington, D. C., is to throw the switch which will light up a giant diamond in lights atop the state capitol.

Kennedy, a Utah native, will represent President Nixon in the noon lighting, commemorating the diamond jubilee of the admission of the Beehive State on Jan. 4, 1896, when President Grover Cleveland proclaimed Utah the 45th state in the Union.

The Utah National Guard will supply artillery fire to salute the state's birthday.

The four lights of the corners on a diamond-shaped structure 10 feet high and six feet wide on the south side of the Capitol dome will be visible 40 miles away at night.

The lighting begins a week-long celebration in Utah which follows at noon today with a Statehood Day address by Dr. G. Homer Durham, Utah commissioner of higher education.

Elder Richard L. Evans, Council of the Twelve, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) is to give the invocation at the noon observance.

Rampton and former governor George D. Clyde, Salt Lake City, and Herbert B. Maw, are to be special guests.

Miss Florence Wells, will represent the state's first governor, Heber M. Wells, who was inaugurated with other state officials on Jan. 6, 1896.

The stroboscope lights atop the Capitol are to continue flashing throughout the diamond jubilee "Progress Week" celebration which will end with Government Day, Jan. 11.

Utah achieved statehood after trying for nearly a half century to win approval from Congress.

The territory drafted a constitution and appealed for admission and was rejected at three times.

In 1894, four years after the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints ended the practice of plural marriage, Congress invited Utah to apply for admission.

A constitutional convention met March 4, 1895, and by May 8, had drafted a plan of government, which the people accepted Nov. 5, and named state officers.

Pope's assailant ruled sane

MANILA (UPI)—A Manila judge ruled today that Bolivian painter Mendoza Yantoro, 35, was sane enough to stand trial. The first witness said he saw Mendoza's dagger strike Pope Paul VI twice on the chest last Nov. 27.

The first witness was Jolly Bergara, director of the Philippine National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) who was present when Mendoza allegedly tried to murder the Pope.

When he arrived at Manila International Airport at start of a Pacific and Asian tour:

Bugarin identified Mendoza in the courtroom as the man dressed in a priest's attire who rushed towards the Pope during airport reception ceremonies and "made a plunging move to the Pope."

"It was so fast I just saw the glint of a knife striking twice on the left portion of the breast of the Pope," he testified.

Bugarin later identified a black-tinted curved dagger, presented as evidence in court, as the weapon.

Asked on cross-examination whether the Pope was hurt, he replied in English: "After I turned him (Mendoza) over to the constabulary sergeant, I saw the Pope already on the stand to see if he was damaged. To my surprise there was none."

Pressed on the same question, Bugarin said he did not know whether the Pope actually was hurt.

Mendoza's trial proceeded today without further delay after the judge, Pedro L. Bautista, of suburban Pasay City, ruled the accused "can readily stand trial."

Bautista, however, made no ruling without prejudice to the findings of a three-man psychiatric team assigned to examine Mendoza's mental condition.

The psychiatric team has asked until Jan. 11 to submit its formal findings. Bautista said he had received "preliminary reports" from the team that Mendoza was able to answer questions "sensibly" despite some inconsistencies in some of his statements.

Mendoza, wearing a light orange long-sleeved shirt and dark green pants, was escorted into the courtroom by two armed constabulary officers. He was not handcuffed.

Speaker lauds FDR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Feeling Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said today President Franklin D. Roosevelt had "a love of mankind" and President Harry S. Truman "the strongest sense of intuition of any man I have ever seen."

McCormack was interviewed on NBC-TV's Today Show. On another television program during the weekend, he said that when he was next in line for the presidency he prayed nightly "that the good lord would spare president Johnson."

McCormack was majority leader in the House during the latter years of the Roosevelt administration, and he said the late president was "a great humanitarian." He gave the people hope and brought the nation back to life.

Roosevelt's meetings with the congressional leaders lasted 1 1/2 hours he said, while Truman's went for only a half hour.

The interviewer asked McCormack what had given him the most satisfaction during his time in congress.

He told of a woman who came to him during his years as majority leader after he had done her a favor. He said he got embarrassed when she became profuse in her thanks and called him "a great and good congressman."

"If I had to choose between being either great or good, I had rather be good," he said.

UAW tactic shifts

DETROIT (UPI)—The long holiday recess and heavy layoffs may have changed the United Auto Workers' strategy in its contract talks with Chrysler Corp., the lone member of the automotive big three without a new labor agreement.

The union and company returned to the bargaining table today for the first time since before the Christmas-New Year holiday. Before the break, UAW Vice-President Douglas Fraser said the union expected to set a strike deadline against Chrysler when the talks resumed.

But heavy layoffs by the company during the holidays and through this week may change union strategy.

The decision on the strike deadline was expected to come at a meeting this morning between top UAW officials, including the presidents of 63 Chrysler locals in the United States and Canada and the 13-man negotiating team.

The talks at Chrysler's headquarters were to resume in the afternoon after the 17-day recess.

All Chrysler plants were closed during the New Year holiday except one, and nearly 26,000 workers in five assembly plants will remain off the job this week while the company continues its inventory adjustments. In addition, tentative shutdowns are scheduled next week at two more assembly plants, affecting more than 8,000 workers.

Unusual Group

The group of men known as the "Knights of the Golden Horseshoe" consisted of the gentlemen who accompanied Gov. Alexander Spotswood of Virginia on his journey to the Blue Ridge in the summer of 1733. Spotswood's companions were presented with miniature golden horseshoes.

Year brings new holiday schedule

WASHINGTON (UPI)—This is the year Americans will begin enjoying those long three-day weekends provided by Congress more than two years ago with a liberal juggling of federal holidays.

And 1971, the year the holiday-juggling law takes effect, is a bonus year. Four holidays Congress didn't tinker with already fall on or adjacent to weekends, giving Americans eight long weekends.

From now on, George Washington's Birthday, Memorial Day, Columbus Day—a new federal holiday—and Veterans Day will be celebrated on Mondays, regardless of the date.

The other four holiday weekends this year are for Christmas, New Year's, July 4 and Labor Day.

Although the law only affects federal employees and federally operated and controlled institutions, most of the U.S. businesses were expected to go along with the plan. At least 45 state legislatures have created state holidays on one or more of the federal dates.

I would estimate that more than 90 per cent of American employees will get the new Mondays off," said John W. Linderman, information director for Discover America Travel Organizations and a leader in the effort for long holiday weekends.

The only holiday not providing a long weekend is Thanksgiving, left untouched as the fourth Thursday in November.

Here's the holiday weekend

lineup for 1971:

- Washington's Birthday, (actually Feb. 22) third Monday in February on Feb. 15.
- Memorial Day, last Monday in May but formerly May 30, on May 31, 1971.
- Independence Day, left untouched on July 4, a Sunday this year.
- Labor Day, always the first Monday in September, Sept. 6 this year.
- Columbus Day, second Monday in October, Oct. 11 this year.
- Veterans Day, fourth Monday in October, Oct. 25 this year.
- Christmas, Dec. 25 on a Saturday this year.
- New Year's Day, of course, was on a Friday this year and the first day of 1972 will be on a Saturday.

Japan Romeo links 3,000

TOKYO (UPI)—Surely Gen. Ichihiko, 73, qualifies as a super expert in marriages.

In 45 years as a professional matchmaker, he has arranged 3,000 weddings. He claims that only five of them ended in divorce.

Ichihiko says the secret of his success in matching brides and bridegrooms is totally honesty.

"Marriage go-betweens usually praise the bride and groom in exaggerated fashion," the elderly man told the Asahi newspaper. "But I consider it a secret of success not to tell a lie about the couple."

"Boys can be poor at the time of marriage, but if they have good futures I consider that's all right."

Ichihiko started out as a traveling salesman in Jaquerware. Moving about Japan, he would be asked to find suitable mates for young men and women.

Love marriages were almost unheard of in Japan until after World War II. Even today, many marriages, particularly in rural areas, are arranged by go-betweens.

The Japanese hold two theories on marriages arranged by outsiders. First, if the match falls, the parents alone are not to blame. More important, Japanese believe that love will develop after the wedding.

In this spirit, families go to a matchmaker to seek suitable partners for their children. When a match tentatively is accepted by two families, a miai (first-meeting) is arranged at which the young man and woman see each other—but do not necessarily speak.

The miai, attended by family representatives, might be held in the matchmaker's house, in a restaurant, theater or other public place.

If the young man and woman are pleased with each other at the miai, yumo (engagement gifts) are exchanged.

Stock market makes recovery

NEW YORK (UPI)—A dramatic recovery in the last two months of 1970 enabled the stock market to finish mixed for the year on record turnover.

Harold Passer, assistant commercial secretary for economic affairs, told UPI 1971 looks like a pretty good year.

"Basic factors of strength in the economy in '71 will be the rise in consumer spending as the consumer saving rate returns to more normal levels, a strong rise in home building and good gains in state and local government spending."

Passer concluded that "in contrast to 1970 when we had a slowdown and then a very long auto strike that had a very depressing effect on the economy, we should be making some good economic gains."

After tumbling to 631.16 on May 26, the Dow Jones Industrial Average of 30 selected blue chip issues did an abrupt about-face to finish with a gain for the year of 38.58 at 894.82. The DJ Utility Average rose 11.76 to 121.84, and Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index edged up .09 to 92.15. But other major market indicators generally closed lower, as did most of the exchange's widest moving issues.

The New York Stock Exchange Index of all common stocks dropped 1.30 to 5.23, with NYSE Industrial and transportation indexes also lower. Its utility index, however, finished higher.

Of the 1,844 issues crossing the tape 1,009 declined, 742 advanced.

Turnover for the year swelled to 2,037,359,448 shares, up from 2,850,784,641 shares in 1969, and surpassing the 1968 record of 2,031,555,041.

In all, there were five days when more than 20 million shares changed hands. The busiest session was on Sept. 24, when 21,345,000 shares traded, and the lightest on May 11, when turnover totaled 6,050,710 shares.

The 1968 record, however, was made despite the fact the NYSE curtailed trading as a means of dealing with unprecedented activity. There were the fewest number of market days then since 1914.

All-time record turnover for a single day took place June 13, 1968, when 21,351,000 shares traded.

"The strength exhibited by the market in the final weeks of 1970, reflected a number of constructive developments not the least of which was the mounting improvement in investor psychology as witnessed by increasing public participation," Shearson, Hammett, Brokerage commented.

And as the new year comes into focus the firm observed that investor psychology continues to be influenced by the flow of economic and business news.

The Labor Department reported at the weekend wholesale prices rose 2.3 per cent during the year, compared to 4.9 per cent in 1969. The figures were greeted with some satisfaction by government inflation fighters. But prices for industrial commodities, considered the most accurate barometer of overall wholesale prices, increased 0.3 per cent in December 0.2 per cent after seasonal adjustments.

Nevertheless, Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, in a year-end statement, predicted inflation will decline in the new year, and that business conditions will improve.

Paul W. McCracken, Dis president's chief economist, said, "It's quite a clear we are looking at a year ahead which is going to be quite prosperous and one with strong gains in economic activity."

Russian 'beauty' top taskmistress

MOSCOW (UPI)—The unofficial Miss Soviet Union might not win a beauty contest but she can bang a herring with the best in the business.

After 53 years of Marxist-Leninist disdain for anything akin to a bourgeois beauty pageant, the Soviet showed Friday they have found a way to pick a lady fair on proper Communist principles.

Six girls in modest miniskirts, blouses and brunettes from 18 to 24, faced through a series of domestic chores and tests of social grace in a nationally televised contest for "Television Coheast Winner of 1970."

The winner and the closest thing the Soviets have ever had to a national talent queen, was 24-year-old Nina Romanenko, a five-foot-six, 114-pound brunette from Moscow.

Miss Romanenko, a kindergarten teacher with shoulder-length tresses, won the judges nod for best overall score in tasks that included making a herring salad from scratch in five minutes, being a cake, adjusting a television set, dancing to both rock and waltz time and answering personal questions with poise.

Her prizes included a free trip around the Soviet Union, a camera and diploma.

U.S. gets monetary allowance

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The International Monetary Fund has allocated the United States $713 million in special drawing rights, the Treasury Department announced Friday.

It said the allocation was made possible on Thursday when President Nixon signed into law the foreign aid appropriations bill which increases the U.S. quota in the IMF by $1.54 billion to $8.7 billion.

The drawing rights are international reserve assets. They become part of the U.S. reserves which also includes its gold and foreign exchange.

The allocation was part of $3 billion provided for the 109 nations that participate in the IMF's special drawing account.

Judge holds 45 trials

RUPERT — Fifth District Judge Sherman J. Bellwood, said Monday he conducted 45 trials during 1970, each ranging in duration from one to 10 days.

Judge Bellwood said this number of trials is a 15 per cent increase over 1969. In the Burley and Rupert courts, he granted 181 divorces — up 12.5 per cent — and wrote decisions on 241 contested motions for a variety of reliefs — up 12 per cent, he said.

There were decisions in 251 matters where one party did not contest the claims or where the parties submitted the matters on statements of agreed facts — up 28 per cent. Judge Bellwood said the criminal appearances or hearings other than trials — up 83.5 per cent.

Judge Bellwood said, "1971 looks like even a bigger court year."

"From the time the lawyers say they are ready to prepare for trial," he said, "six months or less elapse until the case is tried. This compares favorably with waiting periods of up to five and six years in some jurisdictions."

Red Cross slates course Jan. 18

TWIN FALLS — First session of a six-weeks Red Cross mother and baby care course will be held Jan. 18 at 7:15 p.m. in the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. It was announced today by local Red Cross officials.

The sessions, held in the conference room on the hospital's second floor is open to all expectant parents and husbands are especially urged to attend. There is no charge for the training program and persons may register at the first evening's class session or at the second if unable to attend the first.

Instructors are Gyl Egdala, Phyllis Wagner and Dolores Sims, registered nurses. Topics covered include marriage, reproduction, maternal needs and changes, fetal growth and development, hospital admission, hospital-maternity unit, labor and delivery, postpartum care, infant care and baby's first year.

Films will be shown during the instruction program and pamphlets are available on the various subjects. Discussion periods will be held during each class.

Double chair lift readied at Magic Mountain ski area

TWIN FALLS — Final phases of construction of a new double chair lift at Magic Mountain are now in progress and the equipment is expected to be in operation within the next one to two weeks, Claude F. Jones, resort owner reports.

Workers of the T and W Construction Co. have finished attaching chairs to the cable. A representative of Heron Pointe Co., Denver, Colo., is expected in Twin Falls this week to make a final inspection of the installation.

Work on the lift began early last summer with an entire new ski area cut from timber south of the Magic Mountain T-bar lift. Bulldozers have cut several new intermediate and expert runs in the vicinity of the new lift. Actual construction of the lift began in late summer with the hope of completing it in time for at least part of the 1970-71 ski season. Jones said he believes this can be accomplished within the very near future.

Completion of the new facility will give the resort four separate uphill transportation facilities for area skiers. The T-bar, Poma and rope tow will continue in operation and it is expected the new lift will have a capacity of 700 skiers per hour will greatly reduce the long lift lines on the Poma lift and T-bar lift which have resulted this year.

Jones said use of the Magic Mountain area in the past several seasons has grown greatly and ski school classes each weekend are more than double last year's and ski patronage in the area has increased this year by 30 to 40 per cent over last year although snow conditions have been excellent both years.

Pavement of an additional six miles of the road into the canyon has contributed to the area use, Jones said.

"Magic Mountain will be operating Thursday, Saturday and Sunday beginning this week, with Friday operations to be added later this month."

HAILEY — Mrs. Everett Campbell of Bellevue met the train Saturday — the single train each week that runs through the Hailey area.

But she met it in an unexpected way — broadside. She drove in front of the train Saturday afternoon and her car was struck broadside and shoved a good half-block down the track, according to police.

Mrs. Campbell rode it out, sustaining only about $500 in damages. She was treated for a sprained wrist at Blaine County Hospital and released.

High snowbanks on either side of the tracks may have prevented more serious damage, police said.

Zero temperatures, U.S. Forest Service reports Sunday morning indicated a low of 11 degrees below zero at 7 a.m. at the resort with slight warming trends during the day. Snowmobiling and riding attracted record numbers during the weekend to all forest resorts.

Emergency landing ends safely in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — Emergency precautions were taken Sunday evening at the Twin Falls City-County Airport when a jet commander reported a trouble light flashing and returned to Twin Falls for landing.

Henry Merrick, manager of the airport, said the plane, which reportedly had picked up Sun Valley vacationers at Twin Falls, was about 20 minutes out of Twin Falls when it turned and headed back.

The pilot, whose last name was Bowman, said there was a warning light in the craft and thought it might be a fire warning. A fire truck from Twin Falls was sent to the airport to stand by while the plane landed.

Merrick said a problem in the electrical system apparently caused the difficulty and the plane landed without incident and took off after minor repairs.

The plane is owned by the Aircraft Leasing Corp., Oklahoma City, Okla.

T.F. plans interim budget

TWIN FALLS — The city council will be asked to adopt an interim budget to cover city operations for the first quarter of 1971 when it meets today at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall auditorium.

This will probably follow closely the expenditures of 1970 for the same period and will allow the city to meet financial obligations, including city salaries, until the 1971 budget is approved in April.

Also on the agenda will be the presentation of certificates of appreciation to three city employees who are retiring. These include City Clerk Constance J. Lelzer who has served the city about 20 years; Lloyd A. Nelson, sanitation officer, and Lee F. Spence of the water department, both with long service to their record.

Proposals for forming a city irrigation district which will allow residents using ditch water for irrigation purposes to administer their own program through small assessments against their property.

Appointment of an architect to go ahead with preliminary study plans for a city-county law enforcement complex and naming of a member of the Twin Falls Housing Authority Board are also on the agenda.

A public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. of a zone variance request of Mardon F. Talbot for off-street parking on his property near West Five Points.

Chair lifts . . .
ONE OF FINAL STAGES on construction on a new double chair lift at Magic Mountain was completed this past weekend as construction workers attached chairs to the cable. Ed Berg, top, fastens the ball structure of the chair to the cable, while co-workers attach the seat framework. The new lift is expected to be in operation within the next two weeks.

Meet

HAILEY — Mrs. Everett Campbell of Bellevue met the train Saturday — the single train each week that runs through the Hailey area.

But she met it in an unexpected way — broadside. She drove in front of the train Saturday afternoon and her car was struck broadside and shoved a good half-block down the track, according to police.

Mrs. Campbell rode it out, sustaining only about $500 in damages. She was treated for a sprained wrist at Blaine County Hospital and released.

High snowbanks on either side of the tracks may have prevented more serious damage, police said.

HANSEN — Two people were treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital following an accident about 4 p.m. Saturday on the Rock Creek Road south of Hansen.

Twin Falls County sheriff's officers said Shirley Sommers, 20, Boise, received minor injuries when their car and another vehicle collided head on 22 miles from Hansen.

Shirley Sommers was driver of a vehicle which collided with one driven by Mary Conner Tugaw, 39, Salt Lake City, Utah. Passenger in her vehicle was Jim Craner, 11, San Jose, Calif. Officers said the mishap occurred when Mrs. Tugaw's vehicle rounded a curve and skidded.

TWIN FALLS — Three young men were treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital about midnight Saturday after they were injured in a car-train collision on the Sugar Factory Road.

Idaho State Police said Ted W. Elmsley, 22, Jerome, driver of the westbound car, apparently failed to see an Amalgamated Sugar Co. switch engine on the tracks at the crossing a mile and a half southeast of Twin Falls.

Others in the vehicle were Ronald H. Dillon, 27, Lander, Wyo., and Gary D. Murril, 21, Kimberly.

Engineer of the train which included four cars loaded with sugar beets, was Paul Marlow, 54.

Chief executive.

To win election Andrus had to beat incumbent Republican Don W. Samuelson who just four years ago took the oath of office after beating Andrus in the 1966 general election. Each man had a victory margin of about 10,000 votes.

It was cool, clear and frosty when Andrus and the other officials took their oaths on a bunting-draped platform at the top of the Statehouse steps. Capitol Boulevard and Jefferson Street were blocked off in front of the Capitol to make room for thousands of onlookers.

Jet fighters and helicopters flew over the Statehouse and National Guard howitzers boomed a 19-gun salute to the new chief executive.

On hand for the ceremony were both of Idaho's United States Senators, Democrat Frank Church and Republican Len Jordan.

Tonight, thousands are expected to attend two inaugural balls honoring the new first family and other officials. One begins at 8 p.m. at Boise State College and the other at 9 p.m. at Boise High School gym.

There will be a grand march featuring marching bands and bands.

Andrus' inauguration will be a both state.

Minidoka gets New year baby

RUPERT — A six-pound 3/4-ounce boy is Minidoka County's New Year's baby.

The infant, Richard Shan Quansstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Quansstrom, Hayburton, arrived at 8:38 a.m. Sunday at Minidoka Memorial Hospital.

Richard is the Quansstroms' fifth child and several gifts from Rupert residents will be given the child and his parents.

Dallas beats 49ers to cop NFC title

Thomas paces brutal ground game, Cowboys notch 17-10 victory

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Workhorse running back Duane Thomas ran 13 yards for one score and sore-armed Craig Morton threw five yards to Walt Garrison for a second Sunday as the bridemaid

Dallas Cowboys scored a 17-10 victory over the San Francisco Forty Niners to win the NFC championship and gain a Super Bowl berth opposite Baltimore.

Both scores came in the third quarter to break a 3-3 halftime tie and both came after Dallas fanned Doomsday Defense picked off two John Brodie passes.

Lee Roy Jordan made the first interception at the San Francisco 17 and ran it to the 13 from where Thomas, whose bulllike rushes through the line and sweeps around the San Francisco front four kept numerous Dallas drives rolling, took it in, breaking four tackles en route.

Mel Renfro came up with the second interception, picking off a Brodie bomb intended for Gene Washington at the Dallas 19 and running it to the 38. Morton then took the Cowboys, who lost out in two previous title games, 62 yards in eight plays for the winning touchdown, completing the drive with his flip to Garrison.

The Forty Niners, who won the West title and were three-to-four point favorites in their first over title game, came back as Brodie hit Dick Wither with a 26-yard scoring strike, to cut the lead to 17-10. A 16-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett for San Francisco and one of 21 yards by Mike Clark for Dallas created the first half tie.

The two defensive units dominated the first two quarters but in the second San Francisco's defense gave ground with Thomas and Garrison taking turns carrying the ball as the Cowboys controlled the play and the tempo of the game.

Brodie, who led all NFC passers with 24 touchdowns and nearly 3,000 yards, dominated Morton, hitting on 19 of 40 for 282 yards. But the Dallas defense shut off San Francisco's running game and kept the pressure on the Forty Niner quarterback from the opening whistle to the final gun.

Morton threw the ball 22 times and hit only seven for 101 yards but on his touchdown throw to Garrison he caught the San Francisco defense going the wrong way and hit his fullback all alone in the left corner.

Thomas carried the ball 27 times and gained 143 yards. The Cowboys went over 200 yards rushing for the fifth time this year and the touchdown the Dallas defense gave up in the third quarter was the first touchdown against the Cowboys in 24 quarters.

The Dallas defense had San Francisco backed up on its own 21 when Jordan picked off Brodie's pass as teammate Dave Edwards was sacking the San Francisco quarterback and the NFC's Player of the Year for 1970.

Garrison and Thomas took turns carrying the ball, and a Morton to Garrison screen pass on a three-man San Francisco run put the ball on the Forty Niner 40. Thomas ran twice to the 29, but the drive seemed to have lost its zip until Mel Phillips was called for interference on Bob Hayes at the five.

With that break, Morton hit Garrison on the first play and that score stood up as the margin of victory.

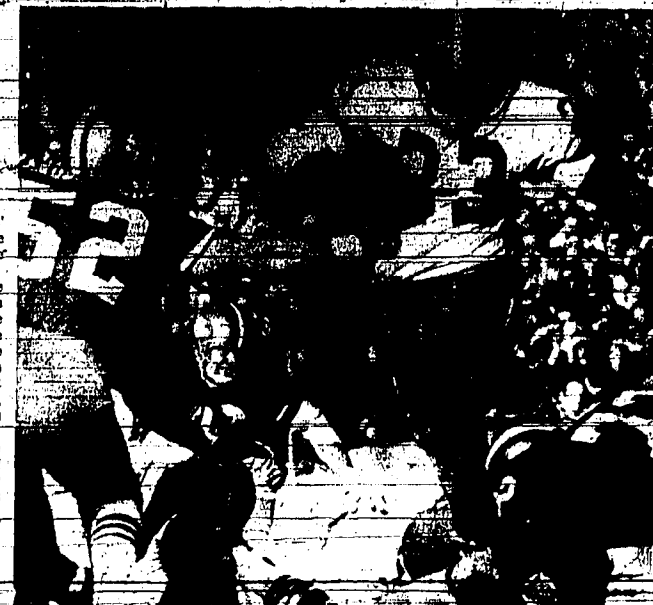

The Forty Niners got their hands on the ball twice with a little more than four minutes left but couldn't get any closer than midfield. Earlier in the fourth quarter, Gossett missed a field try of 46 and Clark one of 24 yards.

Clark also missed one from 40 yards in the second quarter when the score was tied 3-3. The victory was the 12th of the year for the Cowboys, who won the NFC East title with a 10-4 record and then beat the Detroit Lions, 5-0, in the first round of the playoffs last Sunday.

They lost out twice to the Green Bay Packers in previous title games and twice more to the Cleveland Browns in first round playoff action.

The victory was worth $5,500 to each Cowboy, and now they get a chance to pick up $15,000 each if they can beat Baltimore in the Super Bowl on Jan. 17.

Each Forty Niner received $5,500 for Sunday's loss.

Cowboys concentrated on weak side of 49er line

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The smile on Tom Landry's face said it all. The coach of the Dallas Cowboys, frustrated in four previous attempts at winning a championship, didn't have to say a word Sunday. In a chilling Pacific Ocean breeze at Kezar Stadium the Cowboys earned the right to represent their conference in the Super Bowl by downing the San Francisco Forty Niners 17-10. "You can't imagine how we feel," Landry told a packed Dallas dressing room. "You just can't imagine how much we've suffered the last four years."

Landry, like most coaches, declined to tip his hand on preparations for the Super Bowl encounter.

"We've played them before and we look forward to playing them again," he said. Then, almost as an afterthought, added, "It should be a fine game."

As he did in the Cowboys' last five games—critical ones they had to win to capture the NFC's Eastern Division title—Landry shuttled in his own play selections.

"It was obvious from the outset what he had in mind. And that was to run against the Forty Niners' right side; or in simpler terms, the more inexperienced side."

"We ran left because we wanted to stay away from the Forty Niners' All-Pro," Landry said. "We didn't want to test (tackle Charlie) Krueger (linebacker Dave) Wilcox, and (cornerback Jimmy) Johnson too much. We know what they could do."

The victory represented a brilliant comeback for the Cowboys.

Seemingly out of the title picture with only five games remaining on the schedule, the Cowboys picked themselves up and won their last five games to make it to the NFC championship.

"Isn't it great?" Landry said. "Six weeks ago I thought our chances were nil, but we sure came a long way didn't we?"

As the championship game's turning point, Landry singled out linebacker Lee Roy Jordan's third period interception which helped put Dallas ahead 10-3.

Jordan himself thought it was a pretty big play and he credited defensive end Larry Cole for making it possible.

"Cole pressured San Francisco quarterback John Brodie and I don't think he saw me," Jordan said. The pass, a short flip over the middle, was picked off by Jordan only inches off the ground on the Forty Niners' 17 and run back another four yards.

From there, sensational rookie running back Duane Thomas put six points on the score board with a cut back run over right tackle.

As it turned out, Thomas was the game's top rusher, picking up 143 yards on 27 carries. The Forty Niners' lone touchdown—the first given up by the stout Dallas defense in 24 quarters—came on a zone breakdown.

The committee was made up of former presidents of the football writers. They are Arnie Burdick of the Syracuse Post Standard, Furman Blaser of the Atlanta Journal, Marjory White of the Des Moines Register, Blackie Sherrod of the Dallas Times-Herald, and Jon Mooney of the Salt Lake City Tribune.

CSI returns to action with 3 games

College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles, 10-0 and sporting the eighth place national NJCAA ranking, returns to action from the Christmas break this week with three games.

The Golden Eagles, tied with Casper, Wyo., a team they rolled over earlier this season in Twin Falls, for the eighth rating, host Idaho State's freshman night in the opening of the three-game week. Friday night CSI entertains Idaho's freshmen and then Saturday will play Jim Boatwright and the Utah State frosh.

"Jerry Hale's charges, who averaged close to 90 points per game in roaring through their first 10 contests, will then be panned toward defending the IACAC championship and honor they've captured the past two years. Hale thinks Dixie College will be the team to beat in this season's loop race. "They've got the most people back and did beat us last year in St. George," says Hale. "Snow College looks like it might be tough and Mesa will probably have something to say before it's over."

In Idaho State Wednesday night—a team CSI beat 106-82 earlier in Pocatello—the Eagles face basically a run and shoot team. Pete Miller, a 6-3 guard, lanked 26 points in the Mini-

Dome against the Eagles and Cary Toome, former Pocatello High star, net 18 as ISU hurt the Eagles with some fine outside shooting in the early stages of the game. But the Eagles' height was too much for the Bengal freshman that night and it figured to be just as formidable Wednesday.

Idaho's frosh did have the seven-foot center, but the Golden Eagles' board strength negated him almost completely in the two squad's first meeting in Moscow—where CSI took in a breeze, 86-59.

Saturday night's game with Utah State will be the big one with probable half the town of Rupert in attendance to watch Boatwright. The 6-8 Minico top star—who came within an eyelash of leading the Spartans to the state A-1 basketball championships the last two years—is averaging over 20 points per game for the Utah frosh.

Utah State has traditionally given the Eagles some good battles—especially in Logan and the addition of Boatwright will give the game added sparkle.

Individually, the first half of the season pointed out a couple of things for the Eagles. One was that All-American guard Steve Hegens and little freshman sensation Victor Kelly could work smoothly. Another was the outstanding play underneath of the three big men for CSI—Tim Bassett, Ron Bohagen and Ralph Palomar.

Palomar, the key to the Eagles' tough win against North Idaho in Coeur d'Alene, blossomed into a consistent scorer and joins three other Eagles in double figures. He's hitting right around 17 points per game, as is Bohagen, with Hegens averaging the 20's and Kelly around 11 points per contest. Bassett and Palomar are both in double figures in rebounding.

JOHN BRODIE, in the grasp of Dallas' Jethro Pugh, gets off a hurried pass that was intercepted by Cowboy Leroy Jordan in the third quarter. Duane Thomas went in on the next play for the winning touchdown as the Cowboys won the NFC title with a 17-10 win. (UPI)

Ball control was key for champs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—To a man, the San Francisco Forty Niners agreed the bruising running game and steady ball control of the Dallas Cowboys carried them into the Super Bowl.

"We couldn't stop their running game at first and then we had to gamble from the middle of the third quarter," said Forty Niner coach Dick Nolan. "That turned out to be the ball game."

"Dallas has one of the best running attacks in the game. They are very tough to stop because they execute so well. But if we eliminated the second quarter in which Dallas controlled the ball for 10 of 15 minutes, we would have been alright."

"We met a good team and we're a good team. We'll be back."

Nolan, who was in attendance to Cowboys' coach Tom Landry before coming to San Francisco in 1968, said breaks that went in the direction of Dallas sealed the Forty Niners' fate in the second half.

"We had to go for that ball and it bounced back to them in the third and fourth quarters."

He referred to two fumbles by Duane Thomas which were recovered by the Cowboys.

Despite the loss in the final pro football game at rickety

Kezar Stadium, the Forty Niners completed the most successful season in their 25-year history. Nolan brought the team from a 4-8-2 season in 1965 to 10-3-1 and the Western Division championship plus an NFC playoff at Minnesota.

San Francisco's John Brodie said dejectedly the Forty Niners should have gone all the way.

"They took away a few of the things we did best and a lot of people got the feeling we shouldn't have been here," said Brodie. "But we never laid down."

"And I'm just not very happy about the outcome because I felt all along we should have gone all the way."

One of the turning points of the game came early in the third quarter when Brodie was dumped for a seven yard loss on his own 14. It was only the 10th time in 10 games this season that Brodie was the runner for a loss.

Of the next play, Cowboy linebacker Lee Roy Jordan intercepted a Brodie pass on the 15. Then Thomas ran into the end zone to give Dallas a 10-3 lead it never lost.

"I was trying to dump the ball on the 14 or 15," said Brodie. "Jordan made a helluva play in reaching to his shoetaps to catch it."

Fullback Ken Willard, who led San Francisco rushers with 42 yards in 13 carries, saw the turning point of the game in the first quarter when the Forty Niners got to the Dallas nine on a 42 yard pass to Gene Washington. But SF was unable to move the ball and Bruce Gossett booted a 16 yard field goal.

"We could've turned the game around right then," said the burly fullback, "but we didn't take advantage of it."

Washington said he fell down when he caught that long pass because "at the last minute the wind blew the ball back over my head."

All-Pro cornerback Jimmy Johnson, who usually never wastes a word, summed up the feeling of his teammates by saying: "It was their running game that did it. It was just too much."

CLAYTON WELCH (49) of the Cowboys is surrounded by 49er fans after he intercepted a ball yard in the first half. Bruce Taylor (25) Jim Suladacki (58) and Frank Nunley (87) apply the pressure for San Francisco, but it was an inability to stop the run that led to the 49ers' 17-10 defeat. (UPI)

Nebraska chosen for Rice award

RALEIGH, N.J. (UPI)—Undefeated Nebraska has been chosen winner of the outstanding college football team, it was announced Sunday by Dick Herbert, president of the Association.

The Cornhuskers, who completed an 11-0-1 season with a 17-12 victory over LSU in the Orange Bowl, missed by only two points of being a unanimous choice in the voting of the five-man selection committee. Notre Dame finished second, Texas was third.

Four of the five committee men rated Nebraska first, with Notre Dame getting the other No. 1 vote. The Irish were second on four ballots, Texas got four votes for third, with Arizona State getting one.

The committee was made up of former presidents of the football writers. They are Arnie Burdick of the Syracuse Post Standard, Furman Blaser of the Atlanta Journal, Marjory White of the Des Moines Register, Blackie Sherrod of the Dallas Times-Herald, and Jon Mooney of the Salt Lake City Tribune.

Cheney helped the Celtics put a away in the third quarter when he scored 13 of his 31 points.

Atlanta helped out by shooting a cold 40 per cent from the field and turning the ball over 15 times.

Issel sparks Colonels win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Dennis Rooks Dan Issel's 36-point performance Sunday night lifted Kentucky to a 124-119 victory over the Floridians in an American Basketball Association game.

Mack Calvin, the ABA's scoring leader, poured in 31 points and led the Floridians to a seven-point halftime lead, 68-61, which Kentucky slowly eroded in the final period as three of the Floridians' big guns got in foul trouble.

The loss dragged the Floridians 12.1-2 games behind the Eastern Division leading Virginia Squires and kept Kentucky 4.1-2 games back in the second place.

Baltimore coasts into Super Bowl

Bulaich, Unitas team to spark Colts past Oakland by 27-17

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Rookie quarterback Johnny Unitas applied the crusher with a 66-yard touchdown pass that sent the Baltimore Colts into the Super Bowl with a 27-17 victory over the Raiders Sunday in the American Football Conference's championship game.

Bulaich scored two touchdowns to help the Colts hold off Oakland. George Blanda's desperate efforts at another miracle to give them the AFC crown. The Colts are the first team to win a title in both conferences. Blanda took over for the Raiders midway through the second period when starter Daryle Lamonica, the AFC passing leader, was forced out of action with a pulled muscle in his left thigh. The 43-year-old Blanda kicked a 48-yard field goal and passed for two touchdowns, but interceptions by Rick Volk and Ray May inside the Baltimore 10-yard line in the final seven minutes doomed the Raiders to their third straight playoff defeat.

Although Blanda completed 17 of 32 for 271, a better effort statistically than Unitas, the Colts' quarterback got most of his completions when they counted in the second half. Unitas set up a go-ahead field goal and Bulaich's second TD in a five-minute span of the third quarter by completing passes of 30 and 17 yards to Eddie Hinton and seven and 13 yards to Roy Jefferson.

Bulaich scored the game's first touchdown on a two-yard run in the second period and scored on an 11-yard run in the third. Unitas' long bomb of 66 yards to Ray Perkins accounted for the final touchdown early in the fourth quarter. Bulaich finished the game with 71 yards on 22 carries.

Blanda threw a 38-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff in the third quarter and a 15-yarder to Warren Wells at 1:34 of the fourth period.

Wells' touchdown, which was contested by the Colts, who claimed he fumbled at the goal line, made the score 20-17 and it began to look as if Blanda might pull Oakland through again as he had done five times during the regular season.

But just three plays following the ensuing kickoff, Unitas dropped his bomb to Perkins. Defender Nemrah Wilking came up, apparently thinking the pass might fall short, left Perkins uncovered, and then lost a frantic race for the goal line.

Colts peaking instead of fizzling in big games

BALTIMORE (UPI)—More than three months ago the Baltimore Colts, new to the American Football Conference, were beaten 44-24 by the Kansas City Chiefs, the defending pro football champions. Sunday, they vindicated that loss and by a 27-17 beating of the Oakland Raiders kept the old AFL out of the Super Bowl, where the Colts will try to avenge their embarrassing loss to the New York Jets two years ago.

"I never thought we'd be here," said linebacker Mike Curtis. "We're peaking now. We stunk all season and we never smashed anybody really well." Bob Vogel, an offensive tackle who bore the blame for the early season loss, said Sunday, "This year we're improving going to the Super Bowl. We were on a downward trend in '68."

The Colts' explosive offense, which carried them to an 11-2-1 season mark, Sunday featured quarterback Johnny Unitas throwing a 66-yard touchdown pass to Ray Perkins, a 43-year-old Eddie Hinton that set up a scoring plunge by Norm Bulaich and handling to the rookie running back on a statue-of-liberty play for a third touchdown.

Unitas, who at 37 outduelled 43-year-old George Blanda, subbing for the injured Daryle Lamonica, said he thought the "halfback, statue left" to Bulaich would work.

Bulaich, who broke several tackles steaming into the end zone from 11 yards out with what proved to be the winning score, said simply, "I just ran around left end and that's all. He knows what to call."

Hinton, who caught the long pass from Unitas setting up the first touchdown, said the quarterback gave him the confidence he needed to outplay all-pro cornerback Willie Brown, master of the bump-and-run defense.

"Unitas is a great asset," said Hinton. "He knows the defense, he knows what the game is all about and he knows you. You get a lot of confidence when you play with a man who almost invented the game."

Coach Don McCafferty, who won a game ball for his leadership in his rookie year, said, "They're the greatest. But Bubba Smith, the bulwark of the Colts' vicious defense, said, "everybody wanted to win for Mac. It was more for him than anything else."

Blanda praises old pro Unitas

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The veteran-disoriented Oakland Raiders didn't have much to say in their gloomy dressing quarters Sunday but when they did talk they all talked about one man.

You're right, Johnny Unitas. All the Oakland players, from Blanda to Willie Brown, considered among the finest cornerbacks around, were in their admiration of the man who guided the Baltimore Colts to a 27-17 victory and put them in the Super Bowl.

"I wish I had the better team and I wish they had the luck in the Super Bowl," said Blanda, who passed for two touchdowns and actually "out-statistic-ed" Unitas by completing 17 of 31 aerials.

"You can't say enough about Johnny Unitas," Blanda went on. "He's still the best. You saw the job he did today. How can you possibly knock it? He was absolutely great."

Earlier down the room, Brown also was talking about Unitas.

"He's been around a long time, he's smart," Brown said. "He just sat back and did what he had to. You can't fool him. You can play up or you can play back, it doesn't matter. You can't fool Unitas. Unitas knows. No matter what you do, he just knows."

Dan Connors, the Raiders' middle linebacker, agreed there was no way to outwit the Colts' 37-year-old celebrated field general.

"We had the proper coverage, but he's the greatest," Connors said of Unitas. "He has the experience and he put it to good use. He utilized everything as his command."

The Colts scored first on Jim O'Brien's 16-yard field goal in the opening period, his first of two in four attempts. It followed a short drive set up by Mike Eischeid's 23-yard punt.

Midway through the second period, the Colts got another break as George Atkinson, who had returned only four punts all season, fumbled a punt and San Havriluk recovered for Baltimore on the Oakland 45 yard line.

On second down, Unitas threw to Hinton for 43 yards after, faking a draw play. Bulaich scored from the two on the next play for a 10-0 lead.

The Raiders took advantage of a penalty to score their only first-half points on Blanda's 48-yard boot, an AFC championship game record. Baltimore's Jim Duncan was penalized for running into punter Eischeid to keep the Oakland drive going.

O'Brien missed two field goals in the second period, a 33-yarder following a long drive and a 40-yarder after Jerry Logan's interception just before halftime.

Blanda got Oakland even for the only time in the game on an 80-yard drive following the second half kickoff.

Biletnikoff got the touchdown when cornerback Charlie Stokes fell down.

On the first play after the next kickoff, Unitas threw to Hinton for 30 yards when the ball bounced out of the hands of defensive back Dave Grayson and Hinton plucked it off. A 17-yarder to Hinton followed and the O'Brien kicked a 23-yard field goal for a 13-10 Colts lead.

When the Raiders were unable to move after they got the ball again, Unitas marched the Colts 65 yards in nine plays for Bulaich's second score.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Sophomores Mike Bantom and Pat McFarland combined for 43 points Sunday at St. Joseph's defeated Boston College, 78-70, in the second game of a college doubleheader.

Tennessee State, led by Lon Robinson's 29 points, finished 85-68 ahead of Philadelphia Textile, the nation's No. 2 college team, in the opener.

St. Joseph's now 7-4, led by 14 points on three different occasions and then had enough left to hold off several Boston College rallies.

Boston College was behind by only three points at 62-59 with 7:33 left but the Eagles then went over three minutes without scoring and the Hawks went back in front at 65-59.

Bantom finished with 23 points to lead the winners while McFarland had 20 and senior John Connolly had 14.

Frank Fitzgerald was high for Boston College with 16 and sophomore Rich Boulas came off the bench to score 11 of his 13 points in the second half.

Nation mourns worst sports catastrophe

GLASGOW, Scotland (UPI)—Mourning Scotsmen Sunday identified the bodies of relatives among the 68 persons who died Saturday in the worst disaster in Britain's spectator sports history.

Three of the dead remained unclaimed more than 24 hours after being trampled or suffocated under a massive pileup of soccer fans at Glasgow's Ibrox Park.

The Condors tip Nets 115-109. Pittsburgh (UPI)—Stew Johnson and John Brisker each scored 26 points as the Pittsburgh Condors put down two big rallies to defeat the New York Nets 115-109 Sunday night in American Basketball Association game.

The Condors took control early in the game and never trailed again, holding a 65-35 advantage at halftime.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss and grow more hair.

For years they said it couldn't be done. But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss, but is really growing hair!

They don't ever ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the Treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped. But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc. will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

NO OBLIGATION COUPON. To: Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc. Box 6001, 311 West Main St., Houston, Texas 77006.

I am submitting the following information with the understanding that it will be kept strictly confidential and that I am under no obligation whatsoever. I now have or have had the following conditions:

Do you have dandruff? Is it dry? or Oily? Does your forehead become oily or greasy? Does your scalp itch? When? How long has your hair been thinning? Do you still have any weak hair on top of your head? How long is it? Is it dry? Is it oily? Attach any other information you feel may be helpful.

Virginia has 135-124 nod

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—Charlie Scott's 37 points and Mike Barrett's playmaking fueled the hot Virginia Squires to a 135-124 win over the Carolina Cougars Sunday night in an American Basketball Association game.

The Squires shooting better than 80 per cent from the floor, shot off to a 12-point lead in the first period. The Cougars, on Joe Caldwell's shooting, rebounded to narrow the gap to 65-63 at the half.

It was Virginia's fifth win in a row and the 18th in the last 18 games.

Accurate Bidding Gives Good Score

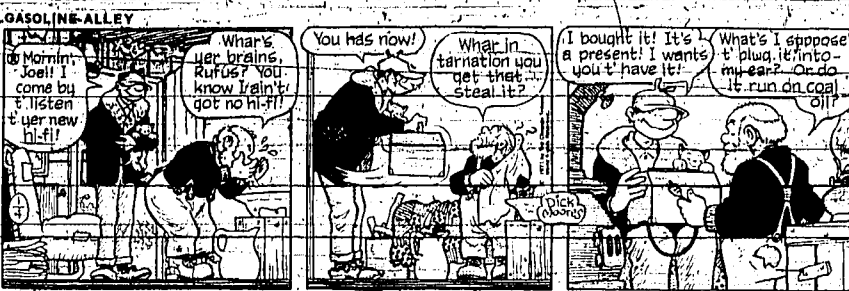

lose one ace and a trump trick. Jim: "East won the spade lead with his ace and led the suit back in the hope that his partner had led a singleton. Caroline won and proceeded to play ace and another club, which she ruffed in dummy. She started after trumps and when they broke 3-2 she was home. She could enter dummy with the last high spade and discard her last three clubs on the ace, king and queen of hearts." Oswald: "It wasn't difficult to play and it doesn't look difficult to bid but six diamonds bid and made was worth 10 match-points out of a possible 12." Jim: "Other pairs stopped at game or bid the impossible heart slam, thus their accurate bidding gave them a good score." (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Jim: "It was indeed. I must be getting old because they both appeared in tournaments after I started." Oswald: "Here is a hand that helped him. George sat North and, as frequently happens in mixed pair games, took control of the bidding." Jim: "However, he took control in a rather unusual manner. After checking for aces he gave up his five-six-card heart suit and let Caroline play the slam in one of her suits." Oswald: "If he had insisted on hearts they wouldn't have won. PASS IT ON
by L.M. Boyd

DO YOU SUFFER from basophobia? That's fear of walking. Our language man says the silent, now epidemic originated in Detroit. "DON'T YOU REALLY KNOW WHY a woman always closes her eyes during a kiss?" writes a Lewiston, Ida., gentleman: "It's because a woman just can't stand to see a man have any fun." "APPROXIMATELY HALF the new salesmen any given firm hires this year will be off said firm's payroll by next year. Or so the statistics indicate.

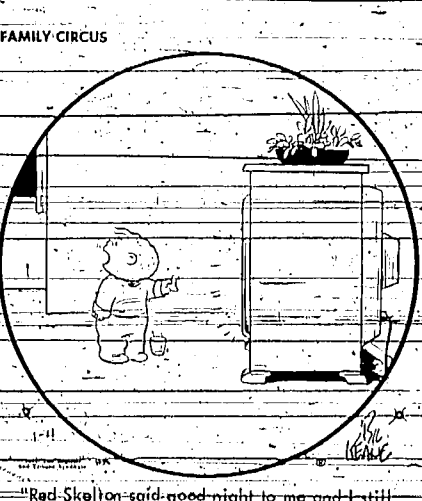

BEST PLACE now for an unattached woman between 30 and 40 years of age to find an eligible man, it's said, is New Zealand. No doubt said unattached woman will want to know what kind of citizen she can expect to find there. All right, the typical New Zealand fellow is tall and fairly thin. He's quiet, a Gary Cooper type, and pretty industrious. What he likes most in a lady friend is the ability to sew, cook and keep house. If he finds such a matrimonial mate, he tends to be a highly devoted husband, not inclined to horse around much; by horse around, I mean wink at waitresses, pat grocery girls, flirt with salesladies, you know, the sort of thing the Los Angeles man, for instance, so enjoys. Plane fare from the Coast to New Zealand, madam, runs $492.

A CAB DRIVER of long experience says the average man needs about a half a minute to pay his fare and get out of the taxi while the average woman takes about two minutes to do likewise. "ODD BUT TRUE," claims a Virginia girl who says she has worked in a checkroom for six years, "is the fact that when donning their coats, most women put the right arm into the sleeve first while most men put the left arm in first."

IF YOU WERE BORN between 1910 and 1940, you showed up when a different sort of death was going on. In those 30 years, the bodies of approximately 50 men a week, average, were found near railroad tracks. Killed in jumps of, and onto freight cars. Or clubbed down by guards. Or knifed by the original hijackers. Clean-up crews listed these dead men by number, not by name. And little publication was made of it all. Not until years later did the researchers find the facts in old casualty files.

HE'S JUST not a topnotch bartender if he can't mix at least 26 drinks from memory. . . . HOW MANY DIFFERENT ways can you make change for a $5 bill? Exactly 2,305,009,213,693,951 ways, that's all. WTFY I DON'T know, but it's a statistical fact that the suicide rate among men who go to sea is extraordinarily low.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 99068, Seattle, Wash. 98199.

T.F. student earns top college marks

FORT COLLINS, Colo. Janet K. Russell of Twin Falls achieved a straight "A" average for the fall quarter in the College of Humanities and Social Science at Colorado State University, Fort Collins.

A total of 433 students, each carrying 12 credit hours or more, were listed by the university's eight colleges in the quarterly honor roll.

Every year the earth is dusted by 4 million pounds of meteorites, mostly sand-sized.

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — When you work with air, light and water, you've got to come up with something significant in environmental knowledge. That's the motto of Dr. Ben Soldano of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

Soldano, a native of Utica, N.Y., who has been at Oak Ridge about 20 years, is working with W. T. Ward of Toledo, Ohio, a 25-year-old native of this research center on a project he hopes will get the backing of the National Science Foundation.

Their work together started about two and a half years ago when the Atomic Energy Commission asked for a safety program to wash dangerous radioactive particles out of the air in the event of a nuclear reactor malfunction.

"The iodines were no problem," Soldano said. "They dissolve readily in water. But the organic iodides are difficult to pick up." So the problem was to find additives—reducing agents, ions of nickel and others things—that could be used to make a safety wash effective.

They found the answers, in league with other research efforts round the nation. But in doing so, they found some interesting things going on in the wind tunnel they built for the project.

The basic device they used is a 12-foot high transparent tower made up of a three-foot shaft in the top, a graduated shaft connected to a closed circuit with an air pump creating a wind tunnel that forces the air up the shaft at 30 feet per second.

That's the speed required to suspend a drop of water inside the column of air so it neither goes up nor down but hangs there to be bombarded by and to absorb any chemicals tunneled into the air stream.

The water comes from a mechanical dropper in the center of the tunnel and the researchers are able to add chemicals down to the water and to the rushing air as demanded by their research.

What they hope to study are more effective scrubbing procedures with basic limestone solution or sulphur dioxide emissions from coal burning power plants, and ways of dealing with auto emissions.

Already their research points to a number of possibilities. They have found, for instance, that the absorption characteristics of water are affected by chemical additives, by the size of the droplets, and by such factors as relative humidity.

Up to about 70 per cent relative humidity, the absorption increases, then drops off slightly as humidity continues upward.

They also have found evidence of decomposition of certain chemicals as a result of light and temperature factors. Photochemical effects are considered particularly significant. "It's still just a pipe dream," says Soldano, "but it is certainly possible that something might be added to gasoline so that when auto emissions hit the light harmful chemicals in the exhaust could be broken down into harmless materials."

Communists Blame Themselves

Official Communist commentators are conceding that the party itself—which in the past could do no wrong—is in effect responsible for the recent riots in Poland which overthrew the leadership. With words such as "illness still exists in the (political) organism" and "there is no individual who does not make mistakes" the Polish political magazine, Polityka, admitted that faults do lie in the regime. It urged the new leadership to adopt a new style of decision making. The eventual response of those in power is yet to be seen, but the soul-searching is in itself a novel development that will certainly be followed with interest.

China Summits
Japanese businessmen in touch with Peking say that Communist China's National Peoples Congress may meet around Jan. 15 for the first time in six years. It is Peking's highest lawmaking body and in theory is supposed to sit every year, but has not since early in 1965, just before the Cultural Revolution. China announced last October that the congress would be reconvened, but observers think there has been difficulty in reestablishing Communist Party authority in many provinces since the revolution.

Vietnamization worries Communists
The Communist delegations at the Paris talks on Vietnam no longer try to hide their growing concern about the possible success of President Nixon's Vietnamization policy which is turning more and more of the fighting over to the South Vietnamese. Publicly the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong say "no comment" when asked whether they will try to stop the Vietnamization policy by launching a new offensive against Allied forces, but the Paris newspaper Le Monde reported from Hanoi recently that columns of fresh North Vietnamese troops are heading south.

Hirohito's Tenure
If he lives until June 30, Emperor Hirohito will have reigned longer than any Japanese emperor in the history of the Chrysanthemum Throne which dates back 2,630 years to 660 B.C. He will be 70 on April 29 and has been titular chief of Japan since Christmas Day 1926. Hirohito is mum, per tradition, but his household says the emperor has never smoked, drinks sparingly and takes a walk every day. Despite an end to emperor worship, Hirohito is held in high regards by most Japanese and in Japan, where demonstrations against something or another are frequent, no one has ever demonstrated against him.

French losing influence in Africa
France's efforts to maintain cultural influence—largely diminished in spite of its departure from Algeria, Tunisia and Morocco—is coming under growing attack from the three former French colonies. Local intellectual circles in Algiers claim continued teaching of the French language and civilization leads to a split cultural personality among students and they are demanding a major effort to "Arabize" completely the curriculum.

Romulo to carry on
Despite speculations about a revamp in Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos' cabinet, Foreign Secretary Carlos P. Romulo is expected to remain in his post. The 71-year-old author-soldier-statesman-diplomat, is probably the most well-known Filipino overseas and is highly regarded. Current talk in Manila is that Romulo might be persuaded to return to his old post as ambassador to Washington, but reliable government sources say if there would be any cabinet changes, Romulo is not expected to be affected, mainly because of his prestige he packs in his job as foreign secretary.
