Combat end set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird have set May 1 as the deadline for removal of all American ground combat troops from Vietnam. The administration said today that it would not launch major operations, although they still might mount patrols around U.S. bases. But this cautious talk was far less optimistic than Laird's actual plans, the Washington sources said. The May 1 date has been set, they said, unless the administration's troop withdrawal plans are upset by some unforeseen contingencies. The end of the U.S. ground combat role will not end the American presence in Vietnam, however. It will end American casualties. A significant number of U.S. combat advisers will remain for a time with Vietnamese units, and American troops will continue to conduct air operations and, probably, long-range artillery activities.

Coal shortages loom in Valley

By LEE TREMAINE and ROBERT VANAUDELN Times-News Staff Writers
A severe coal shortage in Magic Valley threatens to force shutdowns of coal-burning furnaces and industries — including the Amalgamated Sugar Co. and the Buhl School system. The shortage of coal forced rationing at many coal suppliers. The situation was made worse by unseasonably cold weather that holds the valley in its grip. Many Magic-Valley coal dealers reported, "We're out, we don't know when we'll get anymore." The Buhl schools bought 10 tons of coal from the Amalgamated Sugar plant at Twin Falls, but the plant itself may run short before completion of the winter processing, according to Arnold Croft, factory superintendent. The Clover Lutheran school near Buhl may have to close its doors to 60 students, according to Bill Rupprecht, school principal; the school will be out of coal after today. However, a Buhl coal dealer, Wright Fuel, who supplies the school, told the Times-News today that "We have a car coming in today and should have two in tomorrow." Darrell Loog, owner of Wright Fuel, said "We haven't had anyone cold yet."

plants have been using far more than usual with the continuing cold spell, according to Don Hicks, owner of Don's Coal Buhl. Hicks said his firm is "out of coal; it's a bad situation." He said mine officials place part of the blame on federal mine safety legislation which has forced many marginal mining operations to shut down, cutting down on the overall coal supply. Magic Valley schools, most of which burn coal, report varying supplies, but generally will continue operating, at least for the immediate future. Buhl schools report the most critical situation; the 10 tons acquired from Amalgamated Sugar will keep the schools open until a shipment promised by Saturday arrives, according to Rex Engelking, superintendent. Twin Falls schools are "getting low, but we're not hurling," according to George Sandaker, assistant superintendent. Kimberly schools were recently supplied and can operate for at least 10 days. At Hansen, Hazelton and Jerome, school officials reported "no problems" unless coal supplies are further hindered. The vagaries of people, who won't buy coal when supplies are plentiful in the summer and fall, but wait until the first snow falls, were blamed by a spokesman for Intermountain Fuel Co., who said that "We had 20 cars (about 400 tons) in the yard in November and no place to put any more, but people weren't buying then. Now they want coal and we can't get any."

Bombs said ineffective

By KIM WILLENSON SAIGON (UPI) — Military sources said today the U.S. Air Force has experienced little success in its three-month bombing campaign against Communist truck convoys along the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos. In Phnom Penh, the second ranking U.S. commander in Vietnam conferred today for three hours with Premier Lon Nol as part of a first-hand look at that military sources have called a "deterioration" of the Cambodian situation. Military sources said typical results of a full day's bombing against the Ho Chi Minh trail, in which 30 B52s and 300-400 smaller jets drop 2,500 tons of bombs, are less than 20 trucks damaged or destroyed. The sources said that considering the North Vietnamese have deployed as many as 5,000 trucks on the trail capable of hauling 10 tons of cargo and ammunition each, the results were less than encouraging. The assessment reportedly took into account one massive hit made by Air Force jets late in December which produced more than 7,000 secondary explosions in eastern Laos.

Talks begin third year

PARIS (UPI) — The Vietnam peace talks entered their third year today with allied negotiators complaining that serious negotiations had yet to begin and a peaceful settlement of the war was not in sight. U.S. ambassador David K.E. Bruce told the Hanoi and Viet Cong delegates their peace demands were "incompatible with any real kind of negotiations," and urged them to reconsider their approach to the two-year-old talks. Bruce's South Vietnamese colleague, Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, opened today's 8th session with the comment: "The Paris meetings are now entering their third year without having yet produced any concrete result which would permit us to foresee that peace will soon come."

Andrus retains officer

BOISE (UPI) — L. Clark Hand has been retained as superintendent of state police by newly inaugurated Gov. Cecil D. Andrus. Hand served as a state patrolman in the Burley area for a number of years and later joined the district staff headquarters in Twin Falls where he was promoted to district lieutenant in charge and approximately 10 years ago transferred to Boise. He was appointed superintendent by Gov. Don Samuelson's appointment on the retirement of former Supt. A. E. Perkins, also a former Twin Falls area officer. Hand has some 20 years in law enforcement experience with the Idaho State Police.

Mediator flies to Israel

By United Press International U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring interrupted the Middle East peace talks today to fly to Jerusalem where Israeli military sources accused Egypt of another violation of the ceasefire and said that Egypt may try to cross the Suez Canal this year with Russian help. Diplomatic sources at the United Nations in New York said Jarring was making the trip to Israel with Israeli Ambassador Yezzer Tabor to satisfy demands he meet with such Israeli leaders as Premier Golda Meir and Foreign Minister Abba Eban before "meaningful" peace talks can be held.

U.S. plans DDT limits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new government crackdown on DDT is expected within a few weeks. But it probably will fall short of the complete, across-the-board ban demanded by environmentalists, government sources predicted today. The new action, sources said, is expected to be a cancellation of federal registrations of DDT for a number of specific uses on crops — including cotton, citrus fruits and a number of vegetables. The action, which sources said is due during January — possibly by midmonth — will come from the new Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). It will be the third major step since the White House announced in November, 1969, its intention to cancel all "nonessential" uses of DDT by Dec. 31, 1970. That deadline, set as part of a broader administration campaign to reduce environmental pollution by reducing use of DDT and other long-lived pesticides, was not met. But the forthcoming action may bring the administration to, or close to, the end of the process of reviewing all individual uses of DDT and of discarding those not ruled essential.

Most dealers buy coal from mines in Utah, and the mines have been having a multitude of problems, including extreme cold that has frozen oil in machinery, according to a spokesman at McCoy Fuel. In addition, the mines have contracts with coal-burning power plants to supply them before anybody else; and the

Possible DDT cut questioned

By ROBERT VANAUDELN Times-News Staff Writer TWIN FALLS — Local reaction to the prospect of severe federal restraints on the use of DDT were questioned today by the chairman of the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District and a Key University of Idaho researcher. Glenn Nelson, Twin Falls farmer and chairman of the soil conservation district, said "It's going to be rough without DDT. It will create a shortage of crops, but then maybe the price of crops will go up."

Nelson said DDT is the only effective pesticide that is really effective against the Western Bean Cutworm, which is the bean industry's major enemy. About eighty per cent of the world's garden bean seed production is in the Magic Valley. Marshall LeBaron, Kimberly, superintendent of the U. of I. Twin Falls Branch Experiment Station and a bean expert said "we need something with a residual, such as DDT. This is important to bean production. He said nothing else developed so far has a residual which is necessary for cutworm control." Nelson said substitutes developed for DDT are not long-lasting, needed for cutworm control, and are more dangerous than DDT. He said to date there has not been one reported human death from DDT usage, but from one of the substitutes, there have been several deaths. "Yet," he said, "this substitute is marked 'safe.'"

U.S. eyed opium crop

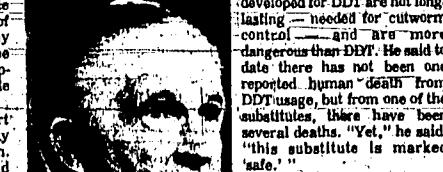

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government officials once considered a $5 million yearly outlay to buy the entire Turkish opium crop, but rejected the idea for fear it would stimulate opium production in other countries, according to the House Crime Committee. Turkish opium is the source of an estimated 80 per cent of the illicit heroin distribution in the United States. Turkey is one of 12 nations where opium may be grown legally. The United States imports nearly 800,000 pounds of opium each year to make morphine and other pain-killing derivatives. The committee recommended, however, that all legal opium imports be stopped because nonaddictive synthetic painkillers have been developed that could take the place of the opium derivatives.

Growth key synthesized

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — University of California researchers have announced the synthesis of the human growth hormone — a development they said could provide a major research tool in the treatment of cancer, heart disease, diabetes and problems associated with growth. The hormone, secreted by the pituitary gland, controls body growth, size and shape, regulates production of mother's milk and has been used successfully in the treatment of a form of dwarfism which afflicts thousands of youngsters each year in the United States. Dr. C.H. Li, 57, who headed the research team which reproduced the hormone in the UC Hormone Research Laboratory, estimated it would take 10 to 15 years for commercial drug manufacturers to provide large quantities of the synthetic human growth hormone (HGH). Li said a long range goal of his research was "possible development of a modified hormone which would inhibit the growth of breast and other cancers. He said several apparent attributes of HGH would be studied when sufficient quantities of the hormone are available. These include repairing bone fractures, promoting healing, lowering blood cholesterol levels, enhancing resistance to infection, and improving the actions of male and female sex hormones. Dr. Philip R. Lee, chairman of UC, hailed the test tube duplication of the complex hormone as "a great basic research breakthrough with possible applications ranging from the study of growth and development of human beings through the possible treatment of cancer and arteriosclerosis." The eventual beneficiaries of the synthesis probably will be the 10,000 to 50,000 children suffering each year from hyperpituitary dwarfism. They could grow to normal size with HGH treatment, but supplies of the hormone will remain too scarce for years.

Suspect nabbed inside

TWIN FALLS — A 30-year-old Jerome man identified as Leslie McNeil Bell, was in custody of Twin Falls city police Thursday charged with first degree burglary after he was apprehended by officers while inside a local business. City police received a report from the Twin Falls County sheriff's office at 2:18 a.m. Thursday saying they had received a telephone call from a person saying he thought he saw a man enter Hunter's Hardtop lot, 523 Addison Ave. W. Police found footprints in the new snow leading into the building. A door on the west side of the building was found unlocked and officers began a search of the building which resulted in the arrest of the suspect who was found seated at a desk in the office area. Officers also recovered a .22 caliber revolver from the floor of the office where the suspect was arrested. Bell was scheduled to be arraigned before Police Judge Harry Turner today. Officers said nothing had been removed from the building. HOUSING Secretary George Romney acknowledged Wednesday "suspect" cases of shoddy building were uncovered in government housing subsidy program for year. Agency alleged the being investigated, he said. (UPI)

Russians demonstrate TV chopper ad 'fraud'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, angered by harassment of Soviet diplomats in the United States, today pursued a fit-for-fat retaliation against Americans in Moscow. For the first time in more than four years Soviet authorities permitted a "spontaneous demonstration" to take place in front of the U.S. embassy before 20 young persons' good before an embassy gate and chanted slogans for 15 minutes Wednesday evening. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) issued false advertising charges today against the makers of "Veg-O-Matic," a food cutter, and Telex hearing aids. The FTC said Telex hearing aids, contrary to their advertising, neither are nor advertised as having new research and scientific principles, and are invisible when worn, and will not restore many people with hearing disabilities. The FTC said Veg-O-Matic television commercials claim the product will cut and slice raw carrots, ripe tomatoes and similar foods, but the packaged instructions warn: "Don't slice raw carrots, raw field, lemons, oranges, ripe or overripe tomatoes. Veg-O-Matic is not intended to slice these foods." My Lai trial pushed

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI) — The Army pushed today for completion of a jury panel for the My Lai court-martial of Sgt. Charles E. Holt... Holt, 22, of Tallahassee, Fla., is charged with intent to commit murder or assault by firing at not less than six civilians during the My Lai operation on March 16, 1968, in which between 102 and 310 South Vietnamese allegedly were slaughtered... Holt was brought to trial in the incident... A fifth juror tentatively was seated in the Holt trial Wednesday after a second seven-man panel had to be summoned upon exhaustion of the original 10-man panel... Four of those prospective jurors are to be questioned today and each side has only one peremptory challenge left, indicating that the panel would be completed sometime during the day... and Community Affairs Agency. Herb Derrick. The state auditor's office said there had been no change of status for Derrick, and his staff said a letter of resignation was mailed Dec. 21, since Gov. Andrus requested "all agency heads appointed" by Gov. Don Samuelson to turn in their resignations.

Derrick is a former Twin Falls city manager. Andrus said he had not received an official resignation. Chief Agency Planner Mike Misner said Derrick returned to the office Monday and again Tuesday to conduct a staff meeting.

He said Derrick did not show up at the office Wednesday, as he went before the Finance Appropriations Committee to explain the agency had received only $5,000 or $30,000 promised to it by the Department of Commerce and Development.

Gov. Andrus said he placed the State Planning Agency and the coordinator of federal programs under his office until their fiscal positions could be determined.

Misner told the legislative committee there apparently was some friction between Derrick and former Commerce Secretary Al Minton.

Andrus said the appointment of a director for the planning agency would be held up because with existing funds a salary could not be paid.

Agency closing hinted

BOISE (UPI)—Mike Misner, a staff member of the State Planning and Community Affairs Agency, said Wednesday the agency might shut down operation if it does not receive needed funding.

He told the legislature's Finance Appropriations Committee only $5,000 of $30,000 promised by the Department of Commerce and Development had been received.

The planning agency was separated by the last legislature and some $120,000 was to be turned over to it. Misner said some "sensitivities" apparently developed between the two directors and there was difficulty getting the $5,000.

Planning Director Herb Derrick and Commerce Secretary Al Minton left state service Jan. 4, when Gov. Cecil Andrus was inaugurated.

Misner asked for $50,000 from the state General Fund, which would be met with local and federal matching funds, for a total budget of $300,000.

In other committee business, Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa asked for $168,953 for expenses including the cost of new election law manuals, travel and salaries and wages.

The State Tax Commission asked for $2,379,815 from the General Fund, for new positions among other expenditures.

Board of Pharmacy and Drug Control Representative Clifford Barrett asked for $244,800 for funding to include the addition of six investigators for the department.

Buhl officials renamed

BUHL — All Buhl City department heads were reappointed Tuesday evening during the city council meeting.

Reappointed were Peggy McArthur, city treasurer; Starr, city clerk; Richard Frazier, police chief; Primo Gabardi, fire chief; Ray Thompson, gas inspector; Lawrence Fawcett, street and water superintendent; Clyde Mills, cemetery sexton and Evelyn Karatoff, city librarian.

The firm of Hopworth, Nungester, Felton and Walker was retained as city attorneys and the Buhl Police Department was named dog catcher.

Starr said the council also hired the firm of E. W. Wilson, Twin Falls, to audit the 1970 books and to prepare the 1971 budget.

An ordinance pertaining to the interim budget for $87,353.24 was adopted by the councilmen.

A bid by Bob Reese Motor Co. of $1,988 was accepted for a new police car. Starr said the transaction involves a trade-in.

Medical and hospital bills are expected to continue their steep rise in the years ahead, partly because of inflation, partly because of increasing demand, and partly because selfish interests are willing to gouge the government.

Meantime, inflation has taken care of any "peace dividend" that might have accrued from winding down the war in Vietnam.

The outlook, therefore, is for another record federal budget for the new Congress to act upon. Indications are that it will be as loath as its predecessor to slash expenses and raise revenue to balance the budget.

And the public, fighting its own battle of the budget against inflation, does not want to see new and higher taxes.

The Nixon administration has been forced to give ground against inflationary pressures to ease the pinch of deflation, i.e., unemployment.

Deflation certainly hurts politicians' chances for re-election. And the voters who elect the generous spenders instead of the budget-balancers will foot the bills in the end, willy-nilly.

Hardest to take, probably, is the creeping disintegration which seems to affect sectors whose stubborn stability has been the saving hope in at least a few cities.

Know an enclave like this in a midwestern city. Just a few square blocks in dimension, it still has the surface air of promise. It has been integrated for years, and the key word has been balance. Blacks and whites have struggled to keep it stable.

But not long ago a burglary and murder broke the tranquil peace. Recently a fire, evidently set by an arsonist, gutted a supermarket. A similar store has been hit with lesser fire damage shortly before.

The compact oasis of well-built houses now has, I find, a "reputation." Cab drivers try to shun it. Walking the streets at night is unwise, though by day their fringing green lawns make one think back to the calm, warming, deceptive safety of 30 years ago.

If areas of this sort can't make it, then hope is indeed thin. Perhaps only the barricaded fortresses of the very rich can endure in these crumbling arenas; we still call cities.

A fortnight back, I was talking with a veteran urban observer about the emergence of black leaders in the politics of the big cities, noting especially the rising number of black mayors. His challenging comment was: "Yes, but unfortunately they only get them when they're almost hopeless."

This may be too gloomy a view, but I don't see much to provide any streaks of cheering light.

Those who speak glibly of "rebuilding the cities" from the "peace dividend" drawn from a winding down of the Vietnam war don't know what the hell they are talking about.

Or at times he may keep dragging along until some unmistakable sign appears.

The "draggy" or gradual symptoms are such things as weight loss, loss of appetite, weakness, being easily fatigued.

A large pot belly; if not due to fat, may be from an accumulation of fluid in the abdomen; due to the cirrhosis.

The patient has a shallow complexion as a rule.

(First Three Articles)

WASHINGTON (NEA)—There are 10 million handicapped children in the United States.

Mentally retarded, emotionally disturbed, deaf or hard of hearing, blind or with other sight problems, crippled, chronically ill.

Seven million are of school age. Only one of three is receiving some sort of teaching tailored to his special needs.

Numbers of the other 4.7 million will somehow find a decent future. But many unable to get jobs or adjust are headed for a lifetime of hospitals or on welfare. Or crime and prison. Or for a lifetime dependent on their families or working and living far below their capacity.

As one mother puts it: "Children with learning difficulties become upset when they must sit in a normal classroom where they can't function. They limp along until they are allowed to drop out of school. . . by then they have definite patterns of self-defeat and behavior . . ."

"At what horrendous cost in heartbreak to the individuals and their families—and what great cost to society.

Yet if the handicap is discovered early enough and a child given the special training he requires in his early years, some experts estimate that 90 per cent can live normal, productive, happy lives.

Many handicapped in fact have great innate ability. A deaf Collierian Lawrence R. Newman was named the state's Teacher of the Year.

Judge Charles Vimpson of the U.S. Tax Court, Washington, D.C., was born with impaired vision and has been totally blind since he was 14.

Dr. James R. Slagle, though blind, is known as a pioneer in computer technology at the National Institute of Health.

Two blind students, David S. Mischel of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., and James Winford Selby III of Tulane, who last year were graduated at the top of their classes, were congratulated by President Nixon at the White House.

A girl severely brain-damaged at birth is now 44 and when she speaks her body strains with effort, her jaw juts, her hands twitch. But she is a successful poet.

A severely disturbed boy went on to a doctorate at Harvard and is now the associate director of the institution in which he lived as a patient for eight years.

There is some evidence that early discovery of a handicap may be crucial—at least in many cases.

There is apparently a time in each child's life when, if he does not learn certain things, he never catches up.

One-and-a-half to 3 or 4 are the developmental years for language, and therefore critical for a child with inadequate hearing. The child with poor hearing and without language is cut off from learning during a crucial time of growth for the mind and the sooner therapy is prescribed the better. Even 12 months is not too early an age for hearing aid and for training from a special teacher or at least from the family at home. Yet a county-sponsored diagnostic center reports: "Most of our referrals don't come from doctors but from gymmen."

In some localities early search for handicaps is routine in hospitals and in schools. But these are the exception.

In Roanoke, Va., for example, hospitals routinely test babies at birth for hearing defects. Many hospitals don't.

But in the long run, the cost of testing and special training is low.

The pay-off is great in the prevention of human tragedies.

But there's also an economic pay-off. A handicapped but trained adult earning only $60 a week will in a 40-year work life contribute $120,000 to the economy; a handicapped man or woman who spends his life in a public institution will cost the taxpayers $150,000 to $200,000.

BRUCE BIOSSAT

The Ailing Cities

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The decline of many of America's great cities is written, of course, in the dreary data the federal agencies amass steadily. But you need to move around in them to feel the full impact of this awful decay.

Anyone with eyes and a little memory of the past has to be shocked at the spread of ghetto conditions in city after city.

Traveling in 30 states in 1970, I saw this urban desolation with disheartening regularity.

Once-shriving commercial streets in towns like Detroit have the look of a deserted mining community, with blocks and blocks of stores standing empty.

The tumbleweed in these places is the clustering litter which defaces not only ghetto areas but main and bus stations and a host of other public gathering spots. The sight is painfully stunning, even allowing for this country's failed lack of neatness.

Hardest to take, probably, is the creeping disintegration which seems to affect sectors whose stubborn stability has been the saving hope in at least a few cities.

I know an enclave like this in a midwestern city. Just a few square blocks in dimension, it still has the surface air of promise. It has been integrated for years, and the key word has been balance. Blacks and whites have struggled to keep it stable.

But not long ago a burglary and murder broke the tranquil peace. Recently a fire, evidently set by an arsonist, gutted a supermarket. A similar store has been hit with lesser fire damage shortly before.

The compact oasis of well-built houses now has, I find, a "reputation." Cab drivers try to shun it. Walking the streets at night is unwise, though by day their fringing green lawns make one think back to the calm, warming, deceptive safety of 30 years ago.

If areas of this sort can't make it, then hope is indeed thin. Perhaps only the barricaded fortresses of the very rich can endure in these crumbling arenas; we still call cities.

Tina Who?

WASHINGTON — One of the most fascinating things that is taking place in America's youth culture is that no one knows anybody else's last name.

The fact that American children consider last names irrelevant seems to drive parents up the wall.

"My friend Zimser tipped me off to this phenomenon. His 15-year-old daughter was giving him a hard time in his living room the other night when I came to pay a holiday visit.

It had something to do with a ski trip she wanted to take but she dished out in tears before I could discover what the argument was about.

Zimser filled me in: "I guess I'm one of those old-fashioned parents of the non-permissive school," he said. "The argument you just walked in on concerns a rule I've laid down that Ellen cannot go skiing for more than 24 hours with any boy whose last name she does not know."

"That's a tough rule," I admitted.

"The question arose," Zimser said, "because Ellen wanted to go on a three-day ski trip with Steve, Theresa, Randy and Steve. But all she knows about Randy is that he lives in Virginia, and Steve lives in Baltimore. For two days we've been arguing about 'Randy of Virginia' and 'Steve from Baltimore.' You might say I'm having an identity crisis."

"I guess it's tough on a father not to know a boy's last name," I said.

"It probably wouldn't be a problem if she just knew one Steve. But she knows three. There is also Steve Who Works in the Carry-Out Shop and Steve the Cousin of Tina."

"Tina who?"

"That's the problem. She doesn't know Tina's last name either."

"Maybe Ellen isn't good on last names."

"It isn't just Ellen. My 15-year-old daughter, Mitzi, is just as bad. The other night she asked to sleep over at the house of a girl she goes to school with named Karen. I suggested, we call Karen's parents to see if it was okay. Mitzi said she didn't have Karen's telephone number. I said we could look it up in the telephone book, but Mitzi said she didn't know Karen's last name. As a matter of fact the only thing she knew about Karen was that her family had a house in Nag's Head, North Carolina."

"So now we have to refer to Mitzi's friend as 'Karen Whose Family Owns House at Nag's Head, North Carolina.' You have to admit that's a mouth full."

"My son Chris," said Zimser, "is not any better. He went up to New York last week with 'Bruce Who Owes Him $15' and 'Jim Who Plays the Drums in Some Band' and 'David Who Got Kicked Out of School.'"

"Does Chris use his last name?" I asked.

"I don't believe so. The other night I picked up the phone and the person on the other end of the line asked if 'Chris Whose Father Works for the Government' was home."

Zimser's 15-year-old daughter, Ellen, came back in the room. "His name is Steve Jackson," she said angrily.

"And what's Randy from Virginia's last name?" Zimser asked.

Ellen started crying again. "I know you wouldn't let me go skiing in the first place."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D. Cirrhosis

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the symptoms of cirrhosis of the liver? I have been a heavy drinker for 25 years. — E.K.

Others recently have been asking that same question. Maybe, at last, we are making people more aware of what is, after all, a pretty serious disease which we ought to guard against.

Cirrhosis of the liver can and does occur in some people who have never touched a drop of liquor in their lives.

But it is far more prevalent among folks who have, over the years, lived in such a way as to make themselves likely victims—that is, heavy drinking.

Over the years can affect the liver so that it finally begins to fail. This is even more likely if the drinker does not eat properly—particularly the drinker who goes on periodic spurts when, for a whole day or perhaps for several days at a time, he keeps on drinking and eats only enough to subside his hunger for food. The "alcohol gives him calories, but it does NOT give him the protein and other nutrients his body needs."

Anyway, cirrhosis doesn't always, in fact doesn't often, come on all of a sudden. It's the kind of condition that creeps up gradually, and after the patient has been feeling rather dismal for maybe weeks or months, he finally comes to the conclusion that he's sick.

Or at times he may keep dragging along until some unmistakable sign appears.

The "draggy" or gradual symptoms are such things as weight loss, loss of appetite, weakness, being easily fatigued.

A large pot belly; if not due to fat, may be from an accumulation of fluid in the abdomen; due to the cirrhosis.

The patient has a shallow complexion as a rule.

More dramatic symptoms, which usually indicate that the cirrhosis is pretty well advanced, are tenderness and enlargement of the liver; jaundice (that is, yellowness of the whites of the eyes and skin, although this may be from other ailments involving the liver), and bleeding from ruptured veins in the stomach or the esophagus.

It's far better, of course, to start treating cirrhosis before these—dramatic—symptoms appear.

If you are concerned about yourself, there are certain tests of liver function which show chemical abnormalities before the more generalized symptoms start appearing. Chief of these is a BSP test (bromsulphalein) which involves a simple injection of dye into a vein. Then the patient is tested to see how rapidly the dye disappears, or conversely, is retained, which shows how effectively the liver is functioning. There are other tests of liver function as well.

It's a "pretty good" idea for someone who has been drinking heavily as long as you have to let the doctor make such a test. Cirrhosis, detected before it has become too advanced, responds quite well to treatment. Let it proceed too far, and it can't be touched and go.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I thought you might be interested to know that I snored when I weighed 168 pounds, but after I lost 28 pounds, the snoring disappeared. It just might help somebody else. — L.M.H.

Maybe not help everybody, but as you say, it could help some.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am nearly 17. After my menstrual period I have a bloody tissue which I use behind, so in the middle of the month I have an odor. Would it be all right to start using a douche in the middle of the month? — C.L.W.

I wouldn't. The vagina cleans itself. Douching, in the absence of some condition requiring medication, is not necessary, and it can upset the chemical and bacterial balance of the vaginal tract. Therefore it is a bad habit to acquire. A mid-cycle discharge very likely is related to ovulation, which takes place at that time, and it does not indicate anything wrong. A little more careful bathing at that time should answer the odor problem.

May I say who's calling, so I can find out if he's a flake?

MR. SPECTATOR

That Right Is Yours

Freedom of the press is for the citizen. What makes this important is that it involves the right of the citizen to be informed about what his government is doing.

It is inherent in the nature of government, especially when its daily chores are performed by a huge bureaucracy, to try and hide facts from the public. But people have a right to these facts, within the limitations properly imposed by military secrecy.

The function of the newspaper is to give them such information. The most important facet of press freedom is the people's right to know all the facts they need to debate the issues and participate intelligently in government.

REASSURING THOUGHT Recently a group of newsmen who write for a nationwide audience visited the headquarters of the Strategic Air Command in Omaha to inspect the newest wrinkles in America's defense picture—an airborne computerized command post.

In addition to the official briefings along the predictable lines—the function of SAC, the needs of the future and the spiraling arms build-ups of the United States and Soviet Union—the discussions between press and military included some private and very human thoughts on war, peace and man's survival.

One general mused at length to a reporter about "job justification" and the ultimate end of the military power struggle, matters that he and other SAC officers often are forced to consider.

It is reassuring that men at this high level of military power and responsibility share the hopes of so many average Americans for a world without war, without the constant threat of nuclear annihilation.

IT'S DEEP If you like Sawtooth Valley and Stanley Basin in the winter, then now is the time to get up that way. Highway 93 is in good shape (check before you go over Galena, however) and facilities at Smiley Creek—now Sawtooth City—and at Stanley are open and running. Don't say we didn't tell you.

Long line
 NEW YORK (UPI)—If genetics is anywhere near the exact science it is reputed to be, Peter Sellers couldn't help being a great entertainer. The co-star with Goldie Hawn of the film comedy, "There's A Girl in My Soup" is the son of a musician (father) and variety entertainer (mother) and at one time had seven uncles working in various capacities in the theater.

OLD-TIMERS who remember when the only toys they had were the ones they made will take heart at this picture of New York City youngsters. After a week's ambitious effort, the boys came up with this "fire truck" patterned after a real one housed in their neighborhood.

Shoe 'nuff
 DETROIT (UPI)—Women's lib groups which still believe in marriage would decry one old wedding tradition, that of casting a shoe after a bride, if they knew its origin.
 In Anglo-Saxon times, according to "Curious Questions," published by Gale Research Co., the father delivered the bride's shoe to the bridegroom, who touched her on the head with it to show his authority.

Fowl trial

WARREN, Ohio (UPI)—Jury selection began today in Trumbull County court in the trial of a man arrested because he befriended a wounded bird. Bernard Nemodsky of nearby Courtland found an injured brown thrasher struck by a car near his home last August. He took the bird home and nursed it back to health. Two game wardens later went to his house, freed the bird and charged Nemodsky with possession of a bird other than a game bird.

Wordy defense drags on

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Charles Manson's attorney told the Tate murder trial jury that it might be more interesting if he recited the Gettysburg Address, but that his job was the "struggle" of going "over the record." Irving Kanarek was as good as his word. On the sixth day of his "final" arguments Wednesday, he reached page 14,950 of the 20,000-page transcript with no end in sight.

Even so Kanarek was speaking, Manson and his three female codefendants filed a formal motion to fire all their lawyers. Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older turned them down. "To wax poetic," said Kanarek, "I am no Horatio at the bridge. But to paraphrase Lincoln, they won't remember what we say here, but they will remember what we do here." Kanarek, who previously has evoked the names of Richard Nixon, George Wallace, Robert Welch, Mr. Magoo and Charlie Chaplin, as well as the French Revolution and the My Lai massacre, was expected to keep talking until Older orders him to halt.

The lawyer Wednesday ridiculed the testimony of key state witness Linda Kasabian that she went to the Tate home and was afraid the next night to refuse Manson's orders to accompany him to the home of Leno and Rosemary LaBianca. "After dropping off the killers at the LaBianca home, she tells us she went walking on the beach with Mr. Manson, holding hands, eating peanuts, telling him she was pregnant and feeling just wonderful," Kanarek said.

"Do we really believe that?"

MANILA (UPI)—The Philippines, 15th most populous country in the world with 37 million persons, has an annual birth rate of 3.5 per cent, or 45.5 per 1,000 of the population. Statistics show the average Filipino woman at 45 has borne six or seven children.

So he says

COLLEGE, Alaska (UPI)—Doug McGloom, co-operator of a barber shop on the University of Alaska campus since he moved here from Montana, insists there is a barber in Custer, Mont., named Sam Nickum and another in Billings, Mont., named Dan Druif.

Crackdown

MANILA (UPI)—Health authorities have threatened to close 515 small hospitals in the Philippines unless they meet minimum requirements provided by law. Officials said the hospitals, representing 70 per cent of the total 737 hospitals in the country, have bed capacities lower than 50, in some cases below 25, which, they said, is undesirable.

Coors re-buys bottles

GOLDEN, Colo. (UPI)—The Adolph Coors Co. announced Wednesday a new program to recycle empty beer bottles. Coors will pay one cent a bottle for all Coors beer bottles that are returned. The bottles will be broken up and sent back through the bottle-making plant to be melted down and made into new bottles.

"We believe this move is essential to help maintain the kind of environment we all want for America," brewery president William K. Coors said.

The returnable bottle program will be effective in Colorado immediately and will be put into operation throughout the company's 11-state marketing area within the next several weeks. Last year Coors used 616 million bottles.

Capitol crumbling, but stands firm

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Quit worrying about the U.S. Capitol falling down. A new engineering survey shows that its sandstone west front—usually referred to as crumbling—is in poor shape and needs big repairs but it isn't about to collapse.

The survey, by the New York engineering-architect firm Praeger Kavanagh Waterbury, temporarily at least, stymies plans of congressional leaders to bypass the restoration job by replacing the wall with a marble one up to 88 feet further west.

Congress had appropriated funds to start planning the 4 1/2-million extension, but in a compromise settlement with the plan's opponents agreed that the money could not be spent until an alternative proposal to restore the wall as it stands had been proved unworkable by an independent engineering survey.

Coors re-buys bottles

Nobody thought the survey would turn out as it did. Instead of supporting the extension plan, as expected, it found no engineering grounds to warrant that project, and said the west front could be restored safely and at one-third of the estimated $45 million cost of the proposed building extension.

The report, being circulated today among key lawmakers by the capitol architect's office, contends all five conditions laid down by Congress can be met by restoring the wall.

The firm said the repair job will be safe and durable; that it can be accomplished with no loss of office space during construction; that the job can be so defined as to allow competitive bids; that the cost won't exceed $15 million; and that it won't take any longer than extending the building.

Gem GOP leaders draft own goals

BOISE (UPI)—Results of the Nov. 3 general election notwithstanding, Idaho's Republican leaders are formulating their own program for state government the next two years.

While they lost the governorship when Democrat Cecil D. Andrus defeated GOP incumbent Don W. Samuelson by more than 10,000 votes, the Republicans still retained control of both houses of the legislature—the House 41-29 and the Senate 19-16.

Lt. Gov. Jack M. Murphy, who also serves as president of the Senate, won re-election. He is a Republican and this will mark the first time since 1968 that the governor and lieutenant-governor have been from different parties.

Murphy and Senate President Pro Tem James Ellsworth, R-Leadore, said they hope to work constructively with the new administration. But they also said they intend to preserve the traditional check and balance system among the three branches of government—executive, legislative and judicial.

Additionally, they also said they believe that since the people chose the Republicans to run the legislature they, too, have a major responsibility for the programs the state adopts in the next two years—the term for which legislators are elected.

Both men made it clear they will listen to what Andrus has to offer for state administration. But they admitted they also are preparing their own programs so they will be able to offer constructive alternatives should they find Andrus' proposals unacceptable to them in any way.

"When he is right we intend to stand up and be counted with him," Murphy told United Press International. "When he is wrong we'll play the role of the loyal opposition."

"We're working on a program, many points of which he may encompass in his (state of the state) speech and some he may not," Murphy added.

Murphy and Ellsworth agreed the GOP is dead-set against one thing—tax increases. They cannot foresee the GOP going along with any increases in taxes to balance the general fund budget for the next fiscal year.

Andrus has said he does not favor a tax increase, either, and during his campaign said he felt many problems could be solved by a shift in priorities. Murphy said he does not agree with Andrus' contention. "I don't agree that all the problems of the state can be solved by the words 'assignment of priorities,'" Murphy said. "There were many statements made in the course of the campaign by many people which I personally thought were incapable of being executed even through use of assignment of priorities under existing revenues."

Both he and Ellsworth noted that general fund budget requests total some $160.8 million for the forthcoming fiscal year.

while anticipated revenues are slightly more than $114 million. Spending during the present fiscal year is expected to reach $116 million unless Andrus cuts it back.

"I did not make any such pledges during the course of the campaign," Murphy said, referring to promises of aid for kindergartens and other programs, "recognizing full well that revenues were not available."

"At this point in time—in view of the assessment ratio and the property tax increases created out of that problem—I would be foolhardy to initiate any new massive tax program," he said.

"The people will not, cannot and should not tolerate any new massive tax during this most difficult period of transition of the ratio of assessment problem."

Lockheed turns down loss offer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lockheed Aircraft Corp. rejected today a Defense Department proposal that the firm accept a $200 million "fixed loss" in order to continue production of the huge CSA transport for the Air Force.

Daniel J. Haughton, Lockheed board chairman, told a news conference he might be willing to accept "some loss" but not the $200 million suggested by the Pentagon on Dec. 30.

Haughton said he thought Lockheed could obtain a better financial arrangement through further negotiation and possibly litigation in the courts.

Lockheed's refusal, left in question the release of $200 million appropriated by Congress, which Defense Secretary David Packard said must be allocated to continue production of the CSA after February.

Haughton, however, said he is confident that production can be continued and an agreement reached on releasing the funds.

Haughton said he believed the company could do better than the government's offer in the courts. Lockheed could win more than $500 million if all issues were settled in its favor.

"I think we will get enough to pay the lawyers and have something left over for the stockholder," Haughton said.

Acceptance of the "fixed loss" would have eliminated the possibility of any profit on a production program costing more than $3.5 billion.

Haughton acknowledged that the litigation probably would take two to five years, starting with the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals, then going to the U.S. Court of Claims and possibly to the Supreme Court.

Only 30 of 81 planes ordered have been completed.

Hansen departs

TWIN FALLS—Rep. Orval Hansen, Idaho's Second District Congressman, will not be able to visit constituents in the Magic Valley in the brief interval between sessions.

Hansen's secretary in Twin Falls, Mrs. Howard Allen, said Rep. Hansen will visit briefly in Idaho Falls, but must return to Washington promptly to prepare for the next congressional session, which begins Jan. 21.

Additional study of mercury slated

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho technical advisory committee on mercury contamination has agreed further study is needed before it can make any recommendations on recently received data.

The committee met Tuesday in Boise to begin evaluation of reports on 700 samples received.

Committee Chairman Dr. Darrell Brock of the State Health Department said the data was received in the form of 35 pages of numbers and codes pertaining to a wide variety including animal, vegetable and water samples. The committee agreed to meet next week after members evaluate the data.

Brock said after that meeting, the committee might have recommendations to make to the heads of the Department of Health and the Fish and Game Department.

Other subjects discussed during the meeting were the current status of the feeding study with pheasants and discussion of reports on pheasant samples taken during the opening day of the hunting season.

Movies spark TV changes

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Two major motion pictures—"Ben-Hur" and "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid"—brought about several provocative television developments Tuesday.

"Ben-Hur," it was announced by CBS-TV, will be presented for four hours on Sunday, Feb. 14—the network's only prime time program of the night. It will be shown from 7 to 11 p.m. EST.

It is not, of course, the first time a commercial network has put on a four-hour prime time production. In 1967, for instance, aired a much appraised study of Africa which took four hours.

Nevertheless, the "Ben-Hur" showing will indeed be a rather unprecedented entertainment step for CBS-TV, pre-empting such series as "Lassie" and the Ed Sullivan and Glen Campbell hours.

"Ben-Hur," a 1959-MGM presentation starring Charlton Heston, Jack Hawkins and Stephen Boyd, and famous for its spectacular chariot race, won 11 Oscars, including one for best picture of the year.

According to CBS-TV, the film's network debut will mark "the first time that a motion picture numbered among the top 10 all-time cinema box office champions will have been shown on television."

As it turned out, "Alas Smith and Jones," while frankly similar to "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," was also funny on its own, a well conceived tale of two outlaws who feel modern times are catching up with them, and try with difficulty, to get out of the bandit business.

What was provocative and potentially significant about "Alas Smith and Jones," however, was not the 90-minute tale itself, but the fact that it was simply an introduction to an hour weekly series of the same name which begins on ABC-TV Jan. 21. If successful, the regular series version could mark a pivotal change in long-dormant video Westerns.

Funny Westerns are not new for video. ABC-TV had a big hit years ago with "Maverick." But it has been some time since television has had a new and successful Western. One reason is that there was a sharp setback on video violence after the killings of Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King, and networks just avoided new Westerns.

In a nutshell, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" solved the generation problem with its cool, hip, contemporary tone puncturing the traditional Western form. It's only logical that "Alas Smith and Jones" jumped on the bandwagon. Happily, it succeeded in rollicking fashion. If the series clocks, it could give video Westerns new life.

Chairman HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Elmer Bernstein, Oscar-winning composer, was voted chairman of the movie Academy Awards Policy Committee for 1970-71.

UNUSUAL AD appeared in Alexandria, Va., Gazette, listing adult education courses offered in Alexandria school system. Spokesman for school system said his telephone is "really ringing" with prospective registrants interested by appeal "For adults only..." (UPI)

May return

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The half-hour daytime series starring Lennon Sisters may return to television in a show titled "Living with the Lennons," a Japan has one of the highest literacy rates in the world, about 98 per cent. Book sales are high in part because public libraries have not been established as extensively as in Western nations.

Huge sale slated

TWIN FALLS—A quarter-million dollars worth of merchandise ranging from gems to yachters will be put up for sale this weekend in a unique nine-store "garage sale" in Twin Falls. The event is scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the former Bill Workman Ford garage on Second Avenue East, according to Merv Edson, chairman of the event, which may be the largest of its kind ever held in the state. Varied sale hours are scheduled; noon to 6 p.m. on Friday; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, and 1 to 6 p.m. on Sunday, Edson said. Cooperating merchants include the Idaho Department Store, Edson's, the Mayfair, Claude Brown's, Krengel's, Shirley-Wyatt men's store, Shano's, Jensen Jewelers and Hudson's Shoes. Edson said the merchants joined in the event to conduct a total clearance of salable merchandise usually held this time of year by each store individually. In some cases, prices will be marked down as much as 75 per cent from retail. Edson said the nine merchants agreed to the Sunday opening for convenience of customers. "The sale merchandise will be taken from each store's regular stock, with some special purchases made for greater savings," Edson said.

Idaho's best 'Mom' sought

BOISE — Who will be the Idaho Mother of the Year for 1971?

The search for the mother who best represents the high ideals of motherhood and the home will begin officially Sunday, and will end March 10.

Any civic group may nominate any mother who meets the criteria established by the American Mothers' Committee, Inc., for the national competition, according to Helen H. Wilson, Boise, Idaho chairman.

Application blanks for nominations may be obtained from Mrs. Wilson by writing her at 518 Front St., Boise 83702; telephone 384-3271.

The nominations must be returned by March 10 or before.

Idaho's Mother of the Year is chosen from names sponsored by organizations, church or civic, throughout the state and submitted to a selection committee comprising prominent church, civic and educational leaders.

The Idaho Mother of the Year will attend the annual meeting of state mothers scheduled the week before Mother's Day at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York City. The Idaho winner will also be eligible to enter the American Mother of the Year competition.

Idaho's 1970 Mother of the Year was Mrs. Minnie Keim of Bowmont.

Qualifications for nomination include:

- She must be fully qualified to represent American mothers in all responsibilities attached to her role as "Mother of the Year";
- She must be a successful mother and homemaker as evidenced by the character and achievements of her children;
- She must embody those traits highly regarded in mothers, including courage, cheerfulness, patience, affection, understanding and a homemaking ability;
- She must be an active member of a religious body;
- She must have a sense of responsibility in civic affairs and be active in public service to society;
- She must not be a divorcee;
- Her youngest child must be over 15 years of age;
- Any adopted children may be included with her own for qualification as step or national winner.

THICK FIDDLERS of national renown, Lennie Malone and her father, Russell Dille, Twin Falls, will be among those performing Jan. 23 in Filer in the Oldtime Fiddlers Association jamboree for the benefit of the local American Red Cross Chapter. Through years of practice the two have worked out a routine where they interchange fingering while playing a duet on their violins.

T.F. sets fiddle fete

FILER — Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers, including a number of national champions, will be here Jan. 23 for an American Red Cross benefit jamboree and dance.

Held in the Filer High School auditorium, the program will begin at 7:30 p.m. with a dance to follow in the school gymnasium and continuing until midnight. The event is open to the public and persons are invited to take part in both events or to stay for only the program if they wish.

Marnie Shaw, Corral, well known Idaho fiddler, will be master of ceremonies and Fred Craig, Twin Falls, will be in charge of the Twin Falls area group's participation.

Musicians from Idaho Falls, Blackfoot, Malad, Aberdeen, Pocatello, Burley, Rupert, Albion, Jerome, Shoshone, Mountain Home, Gooding, Bliss, Boise, Meridian and all of Twin Falls County have indicated plans to take part.

Some nationally known fiddlers who will be performing include Vivian Skeans, woman's National Fiddler Champion, and Lennie Malone and her father Russell Dille, national trick fiddlers. David Frisbee, one of the top fiddlers in the nation will also perform. Sam Daniels, Gooding, and Fred Craig, Twin Falls, many times national award winning fiddle makers and favorite players will be taking part.

In addition to fiddles, guitar, banjo, mandolin, and piano music will be featured.

Sponsored by local fiddlers in conjunction with the area Red Cross programs, the event will provide proceeds to be used for purchase of film for teaching first aid classes in the local area. A portable oxygen tank for use at first aid stations for such major events as horse shows, fairs, antique shows and others will be purchased if funds permit.

Hazel Wilder, public relations chairman for the local Red Cross Chapter, urged residents to support the event and help in obtaining the much needed equipment for local Red Cross First Aid programs.

Cassia liquor charge upheld

BURLEY — A Fifth District Court jury found Kirt Butcher, Burley cafe operator, guilty of selling liquor without a license after completion of a two-day trial before Judge Sherman Bellwood here Wednesday.

The verdict was returned at 1 a.m. today after jurors asked for clarification of part of the testimony. Judge Bellwood had portions of the testimony read to them at 4 p.m. The case went to the jury at 2:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Testifying for the state Wednesday were Stan McKenzie, liquor law enforcement officer, and James Stephenson, Jerome County deputy sheriff. Defense witnesses were Mrs. Martha Grant and Jess Bonzales, who were at the Casa Bonita bar-cafe last July when the sale took place.

Butcher also testified in his own behalf. Judge Bellwood has not set a date for sentencing. Butcher is free on his own recognizance.

One new face in Minidoka

RUPERT — Minidoka County will have only one fresh face among its county officers when

Other commissioners are Wayne Hollenbeck and Alex Roemer, both incumbents. Roemer, whose term is not expired, has been chairman.

County officers to be sworn in include Claude Bowman, assessor; Phyllis Norby, treasurer; August Bethke, auditor; Don Chisholm, prosecuting attorney and Robert C. Walk, coroner.

The new magistrate, LeRoy Blacker, will be sworn in Monday. He is former probate judge.

Hearing tonight

BURLEY — A public hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. today in the Burley High School on the Blue Gulch critical groundwater area.

Higginson also said a discussion is planned on the closure of that area to further groundwater appropriation.

County-city plans aired

By GEORGIA LAYTON Times-News Correspondent
BURLEY — The court reform, which goes into effect next week in every Idaho county with the initiation of the magistrate system, and maintenance of sanitary landfill were discussed at a special meeting of city and county officials here Wednesday night.

Meeting in the Burley Chamber of Commerce office were all members of the Burley city council and the three Cassia County commissioners.

Cox named road chief

FAIRFIELD — Donald Cox has been named new road superintendent by Camas County commissioners.

He replaces Harold Brooks who has retired after 22 years in the post. Cox is a World War II veteran and is married to the former Doris Hobday. They have five children.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks are continuing to live in Fairfield and plan on doing some traveling.

Residence damaged

RICHFIELD — The Richfield Fire Department was called to the Theo Ollius residence Wednesday morning after a fire on the outside of the house filled the home and basement with smoke.

Fire Chief Lyle Piper said the fire was started when Ollius was attempting to thaw out a furnace oil line.

Firemen had to cut into the side of the house to put out the fire. No estimate of damage has been determined yet, Piper said.

John Clark, Oukley, county commissioner chairman, presided.

The officials discussed the fact that under the new court reform, the magistrate for Cassia County, who will be Gleason Anderson, will replace the former justice courts throughout the county, the city police court and probate court. He will work directly under the district judge.

Clark pointed out that Oakley residents, for instance, now will have to come to Burley on any court matter, such as a traffic violation. Burley has had two justices in the past, one to handle small claims and the other for traffic violations.

Garis Robertson, Burley mayor, said the officials decided that since there are no guidelines for the new system, they will simply have to "ride it out" and when a problem arises, will hold another joint meeting with Judge Anderson.

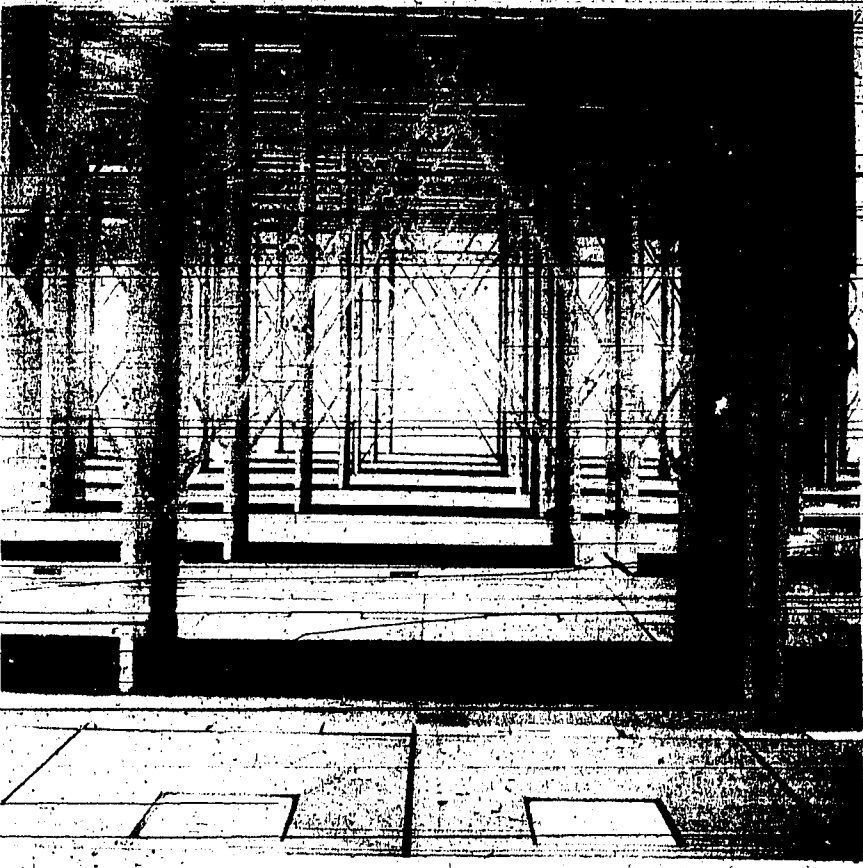

Mayor Robertson told the officials what Jerome County has done in assuming authority for the sanitary landfill formerly operated by the city of Jerome. State law provides that each county must maintain a land fill, or more than one, if necessary.

Jerome city and county officials have worked out the transfer of administration from the city to the county commission, Robertson said.

Cassia county commissioners have several sites under consideration, Clark said.

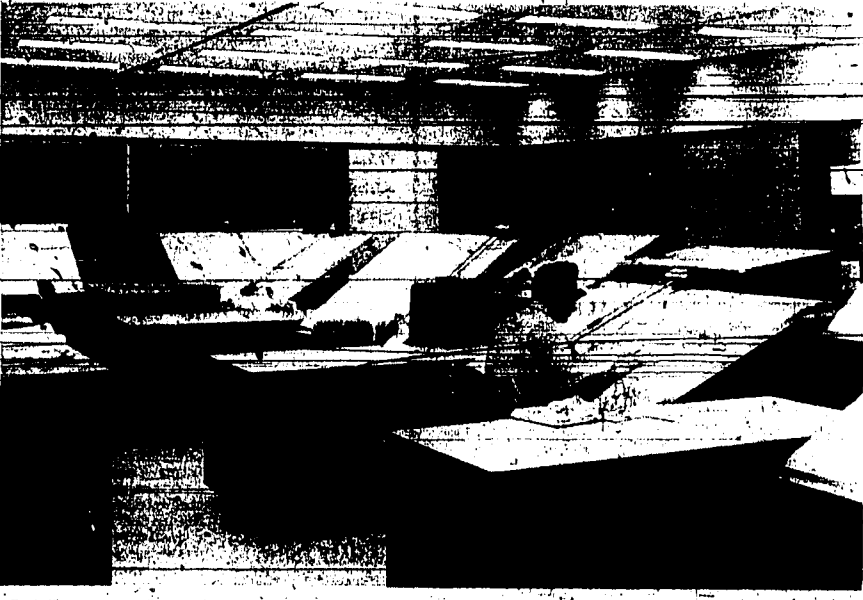

Death ruled 'natural'

Director asked to remain

Death said 'natural'

TWIN FALLS — Sheriff Paul Roderger said the death of a Rogerston man whose body was found at his home Wednesday has been declared to be the result of natural causes.

Acting as coroner in the absence of coroner Cloyce Edwards, the sheriff said Albert Francis Goodyear, about 65, apparently died in his sleep Tuesday night. His body was found about noon Wednesday by residents of Rogerston who became worried about him.

The sheriff said the dead man had been seen about noon Tuesday. The body was taken to the funeral home where services are pending.

BOISE (UPI) — A spokesman for Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has confirmed reports Andrus has asked Robert V. De Siano to remain as director of public works until after the forthcoming session of the legislature.

An aide to Andrus said De Siano was asked to stay on temporarily to present his budget to the legislature. He said Andrus probably will name a new director of public works after the legislative session.

Surfing addicts talk own 'lingo'

TWIN FALLS—If you're my "gun," man, and let's hit the "waves" on Waikiki. The "soup" is fine for "hot doggin," but let's try for a "quasimoto" in one of the "big-daddies" without a "wipe out."

That's surf talk, folks. In Honolulu, in this surfer's valhalla, everyone who is really in the swim has a smattering of basic surf-ese. A "gun," for example, is a big-wave surfboard which the pros prefer to the 20-pound fiberglass slabs used by beginners.

The "heavies" or "big daddies" are the giant breakers which have been known to lower up to 35 or 40 feet before crashing into the beach. The "soup" is the foam from broken waves—ideal for novices, and "hot dogging" is stunt riding, usually in the foam. The "hot doggers" who try a bold stance as the board takes the wave are doing a "quasimoto" if they don't make it, they do a "wipe out" or "take gas," or to put it bluntly, they get dunked.

A "ding" is a dent in the board, and a "tube" is the hollow section in the wave. There are all sorts of terms, too, to describe ways to maneuver the board—spinners, standing islands, cut backs and so on.

Surfing addicts not only talk their own language, but subscribe to surfing magazines, belong to surf clubs and sport surf togs.

There was a time when surfing had its share of bad publicity, thanks to a cult of oddballs who threw tin cans at old ladies and staged beer brawls on the beaches. Today, however, surfing is as respectable a sport as skiing, and nowhere is it more respectable than in Hawaii with its fine surfing beaches at every turn, reports Pan American World Airways.

Surfing lessons are readily available along the sands at Waikiki and at beaches throughout the Outer Islands. An hour's instruction at about $3.50 will show you how to get on from the side, and how to lie along the center-line of the slab with the nose of the board about two inches out of the water. You paddle with hands slightly cupped and arms bent at the elbows. You steer with your arms as you would with the oars of a rowboat.

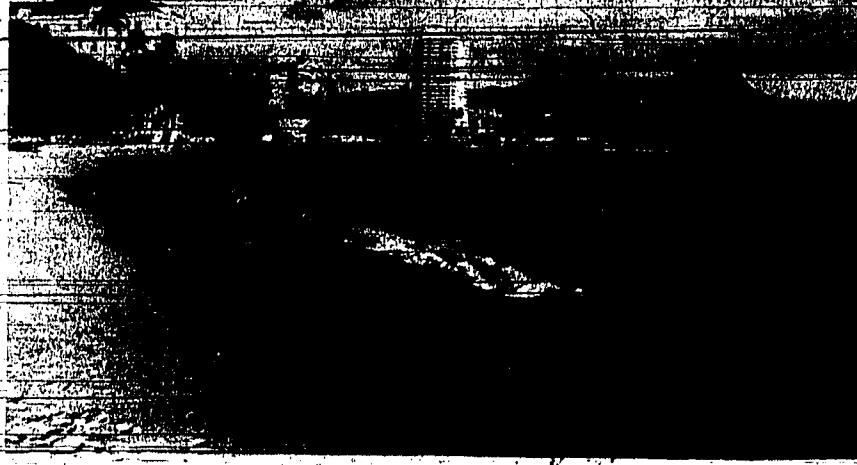

So what's holding you back? It's a sport any beginner can learn in short order, and the sea and weather conditions are good enough to attract top surfers as well as beginners. Surfing is part of the whole, wonderful world of Hawaii—and some lucky couple is going to win a trip to the Paradise of the Pacific by entering the Twin Falls Times-News "Magic of Hawaii" tour. Enter now. It could be you!

Hints

To get optimum results, manmade knits should be dryer dried. Use a warm air setting and avoid overdrying, which can cause shrinkage. Dry the clothes until they feel damp to the touch. Remove them immediately and hang them up. You won't have to touch them with an iron.

Before washing a knit anything, make sure it is washable. Read the labels, including information about trimmings and bindings.

Wash the children's toys every now and then. Baby's toys, which frequently find their way into clothing or sucking or licking position, ought to be washed thoroughly on a regular basis.

Waikiki Beach... SWIMMING, SURFING and outrigger canoeing are enjoyed the year through in the shadow of Diamond Head volcano, seen at background. These things will be enjoyed by some lucky couple winning the trip to the Paradise of the Pacific, along with the others on the Times-News "Magic of Hawaii" tour. POLLY'S POINTERS

Use Solvent to Remove Crayon from Clothes

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My answer is for Gloria who had crayon on her clothes in her dryer. I had the same thing happen with red crayon which left marks on everything—mostly white clothes. The heat of the dryer actually melted the crayon.

My advice is to send those clothes to the dry cleaner and tell them what happened. They will put them in a grease or wax solvent which will dissolve the crayon. Mine came out beautifully. Crayon is a wax and needs to be dissolved with a solvent.

The next thing to be done is to clean the dryer before using it again. Wipe the inside with a grease solvent until all traces of crayon are removed. Paper towels are great for wiping this up.—FRANCES

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I would like to know how to block a piece of needlepoint after the work is finished. Mine is all out of shape and I do not know what to do about it.—MRS. E. E. J.

DEAR POLLY—When putting windows I always found the putty pulled away on to my fingers. Now I first dip my fingertips in a little talcum powder and can smooth the putty nicely.—MRS. W. P. B.

DEAR POLLY—I baby-sit with small children quite often. Since they take bubble baths I dreaded trying to rinse the bubbles away until I found a way to wipe them up. After the children are dried, the towels are ready for the wash. Take one of these towels and lay it on the bubbles and then wipe the tub out. It is clean and the bubbles are gone at the same time. The children are amazed at watching the bubbles disappear like magic and this gives them added fun before going to bed.

Pamela Ward, Teeter wed in Almo rites

ALMO—A double ring ceremony in the Almo LDS Ward Chapel Jan. 2 united in marriage Pamela Kay Ward and Golden Teeter.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Harold K. Ward, Almo, and Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Teeter, Yost, Utah.

Bishop William Jones officiated at the evening nuptials, with the bride given in marriage by her father, before a background setting of an arch entwined with green fern and lilies of the valley. The arch was decorated with white wedding bells and accented with large, red satin bows. Beauty baskets of white chrysanthemums and red carnations flanked the arch.

The bride repeated her wedding vows wearing a floor-length white net gown with lace overlay designed with a fitted bodice, a lace-trimmed bouffant skirt and a long train. The bodice was accented with lily point sleeves and a scalloped sweetheart neckline trimmed with seed pearls and sequins.

Her lace-trimmed mantilla-styled, floor-length veil of bridal illusion was held by a satin bow accented with sequins, seed pearls and crystals.

She carried a cascade arrangement of baby-rod roses surrounded with white carnations accented with white satin streamers.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Danny Neddo, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and the bride's nieces, Ethel Ann Davidson and Sharon Davidson, as bridesmaids.

Michele Taylor, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She carried a white basket filled with red and white carnations, carrying the rings on a salmon-pink satin pillow.

Reggie Teeter was best man for his brother, with Douglas Ward, brother of the bride, and Danny Neddo, brother-in-law of the bride, serving as ushers. JoAnn Tracy played the traditional wedding music.

The LDS Cultural Hall was the setting for the reception and dance held immediately after the ceremony.

The wedding party greeted guests before the same background setting as used for the ceremony. White wedding bells with pink streamers and boquets of Christmas poinsettias decorated the hall.

Guests were registered by Dobbie Booth. Gifts were displayed on a table covered with lace and attended by Mrs. Zennith Taylor, aunt of the bride; Mrs. Eddie Davidson, sister of the bride; Mrs. Arland Thompson, Joann Zaharias and Carolyn Teeter, cousin of the bridegroom.

Gift carriers were Tammy Davidson and Brad Davidson, niece and nephew of the bride; Wendy Jo Zaharias and Stacy Ann Zaharias.

The bride's table, covered with white lace over satin, was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake placed on a large round mirror.

The cake was decorated in the holiday colors of the wedding, featuring white icing trimmed with red roses, green leaves and pink rosobuds. The traditional miniature bride and bridegroom, surrounded by white wedding bells, topped the cake.

The large crystal serving bowl, placed on a crystal pedestal and flanked by deep rose tapers surrounded at the bottom by clusters of deep rose-colored roses and greenery, was centered on a long table covered with white lace.

Assisting with serving were Chris Baron, Tamara Davidson, Mrs. Bert Tracy and Mrs. Richard Barnes.

Clark Ward was master of ceremonies for the program which included musical numbers, a reading and a dance routine. Clark Ward's Orchestra furnished the dance music.

Guests attended from Boise, Washington, Utah, Albion, Malta, Elton, Yost, Soda Springs and View.

Post Holiday SPECIAL 2/53

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: A wonderful Jewish friend of mine recently passed away, so I went to the funeral parlor to pay my respects. (I am of the Protestant faith.)

While there, many others came to pay their last respects. I was shocked to see a Roman Catholic woman, who should have known better, come in, kneel down beside the casket, make the sign of the cross over the casket, say a prayer and make the sign of the cross again.

She surely should have known that Jewish people do not kneel, nor do they wish others to kneel before them. And to have made a sign of the cross over a Jew, I think was in the worst possible taste. What is your opinion? APPALLED

DEAR APPALLED: Under those circumstances, a more sophisticated person would have known the Jewish customs and observed them, but the Roman Catholic lady was praying to her way, and should not be criticized. She did not make the sign of the cross "over" a Jew. The sign of the cross is simply a salutation to the Lord prior to offering a prayer. And the sign of the cross is made again after the prayer to close it.

DEAR ABBY: Is it ever proper to eat chicken with your hands? I went to a restaurant with my wife's family and I ordered fried chicken. When I picked up a leg and started to eat it, they all stopped and stared at me. Boy, was I ever embarrassed! Was I wrong or not? LOVES CHICKEN

DEAR LOVES: You need not feel embarrassed for eating anything with your fingers, if it's easier to eat that way. (What a mess you'd have made had you attempted to cut up crisp fried chicken!) It is okay to use your hands provided you use your head!

DEAR ABBY: My heart went out to "A Reader" who felt that her laughing days were over because the next morning she was having a breast removed. I felt just as she did 18 months ago when I had both breasts removed. I was 48. Six weeks later I shocked my family and friends when I learned to swim and dive! I am also learning to play the organ. Presently I am planning a trip to Australia to visit my daughter.

The surgery wasn't easy. There were moments of depression and plenty of tears. But there were compensations, too. Now I realize that I am more than my breasts. I am myself, a complete person, regardless of how many parts of me may be missing. Now I have a leaner look than in my "38D" days. My $50 prosthesis is on my closet shelf, never worn since the day I got it.

My family knows I am flat-chested, and why try to fool strangers into believing that I have more than meets the eyes?

Tell "A Reader" that a breast, or breasts are nothing compared to her well-being and happiness. I am luckier than she because I have my husband. I agree, the road she is walking is lonely. A trip to surgery is always lonely. I've been there many times. Thanks, Abby, for listening. "G" IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR ABBY: You are wrong. The reason housepapers run pictures of brides and not grooms, is because people are interested in seeing the winners, not the losers.

BURT THE BACHELOR

DEAR BURT: If that's the way you feel about marriage, please give the girls you know a break, and stay single.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Mini-Cassia farmers join Japanese training program

BURLEY — Farmers in the Mini-Cassia area will again participate in the Japanese agricultural training program with nine youths scheduled to come to this area.

This is the third year for farmers in the Mini-Cassia area and the state of Idaho to participate in the program. The training program is in its fifth year.

Host farmers this year will be Joe Studer, Vernon A. Hansen, Halph Jurgensmeier, Lyle

Woodbury, all Rupert; Decker, Kendall Bingham, Burley and K.R.L. Enterprises.

The program is sponsored by the National 4-H Club Foundation in cooperation with the U.S. Branch of the Japanese Agricultural Training Council, the U.S. Department of State, Labor and Agriculture.

The cooperative extension service of the state land grant colleges and universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture provide training and assist in selecting host families.

Japanese youths between 18 and 30 years come to the United States for two years of schooling and on the job experience in the agriculture profession. They are all single, mostly in their early twenties, from agriculture backgrounds and with a desire to pursue agriculture occupations.

Last year 10 youths trained in Idaho with seven in Cassia and Minidoka counties. This year the state total has been increased to 12 and nine will be in the Mini-Cassia area.

Upon entering the United States the young men attend school for one month, then work in groups for three months. They return to school for another two months and then start a 12 month uninterrupted period of on the job training.

After the 12 months of work is completed they attend school for another three months and return to their host farmer for three more months.

The program is entirely self sufficient and is not subsidized by the U.S. government in any way.

The state employment service locates the participating farmers with the assistance of the county extension service.

Credit guarantee set with new law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A little-noticed new law will produce an increase in government-guaranteed credit to help small towns build city-wide water and sewer systems.

Nixon administration officials say.

The law, passed in the closing days of the last Congress and signed by President Nixon last week, authorizes the Farmers Home Administration to insure local water-sewer bonds from small communities and resell them to private investors.

Under this arrangement, the investors get the going market rate of interest — currently about 7 per cent — while the communities pay only 5 per cent.

Any difference between the two rates is paid by the Farmers Home Administration in form of interest subsidy.

The FHA, an Agriculture Department agency, had to halt its insurance of local water-sewer bonds several years ago when Budget Bureau officials objected to federal insurance of tax-exempt bonds. Under the law signed by Nixon last week, however, income from federally-insured bonds will be subject to federal income tax.

Communities which sell their bonds directly without federal insurance can continue to offer them as tax-exempt paper. But provision for taxing bond earnings when they are backed by FHA guarantees has opened the way for the agency to resume its old practice of insuring this credit.

The new measure "will channel more private resources into the development of water and waste disposal systems throughout rural America," Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phil Campbell told an environmental seminar Tuesday.

Campbell said improved water and sewer systems are among the areas of greatest need in developing rural areas. Some 60,000 small American communities currently lack modern water and sewer systems, he said.

The Farmers Home Administration's credit and grant programs for water and sewer development, operating since the early 1960's, have already been approved by Congress for the current 1970-71 fiscal year.

Congress has authorized $180 million in loans compared with $125 million proposed by the administration and $146 million actually made in the last fiscal year.

Officials said passage of the new law affecting insured bond sales will permit more lending than they had planned earlier.

Portland stock sale slate cut

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Starting this week the Portland Livestock Market is holding auctions on Monday and Tuesday only.

Market officials said the new sales schedule resulted from a sharp increase in fixed overhead expenses which they said they felt could not be passed to producers who use the market.

Cattle will be auctioned on Monday and Tuesday. Sheep will be auctioned Monday only to May 15 and Mondays and Tuesdays from May 16 to Nov. 20. Hogs will be auctioned on Monday only.

Price hiked

VISALIA, Calif. — The Visalia Times-Delta has advanced its street sales price to 15 cents a copy for the newspaper.

BLM sets land sale at Hansen

MURTAUGH — The Bureau of Land Management will sell 80 acres of public land situated on Hansen Butte three miles west of Murtaugh. The public auction will be conducted Jan. 29 in Room 380, Federal Building, 550 West Fort St., Boise.

The land is zoned for agricultural use under Twin Falls County zoning ordinances. The sale will be conducted under provisions of the Public Land Sale Act which gives any individual the right to participate. The appraised value of the land is $5,200.

Shoshone unit sets meeting

SHOSHONE — The advisory board for the Bureau of Land Management, Shoshone office, will meet at 9:30 a.m. Jan. 14 at the American Legion Hall.

Purpose of the meeting, according to William T. Mabbitt, district manager, is to hear protests against initial recommendations, consider late applications, and other business current at this time.

QUOTATIONS ARE provided as a service to both farmers and buyers. Quotations are given in the Times-News daily by each buyer. The newspaper, in addition, re-checks each firm twice weekly. Responsibility for the price listed is solely the buyer's. NQ indicates the buyer does not wish to quote a price.

Safety efforts endorsed

WASHINGTON — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe will advise Congress this week to give private industry a maximum of five years to cut the rate of farm tractor accidents, which now claim up to 1,000 lives annually.

If industry's voluntary safety standards do not improve the situation by that time, "uniform federal safety standards should be required," Volpe will recommend when he submits a report on the problem by the National Highway Safety Bureau.

The report was drafted at the request of Congress, which asked Volpe to develop and apply safety standards like those of automobiles to all tractors sold in interstate commerce.

The Safety Bureau reported that 85 per cent of the fatalities involving farm tractors were traced to accidents in which the vehicle overturned.

Volpe will recommend that the tractor industry step up its efforts to reduce tractor accidents, deaths and injuries, by promoting the use of safety devices and installing safety equipment as standard rather than optional equipment.

The report said the tractor industry should take immediate steps to phase out tractor cabs and canopies that "serve to crush or trap operators when a tractor overturns."

Palomar and Bassett lead CSI past ISU frosh 90-73

Sophomores Ralph Palomar and Tim Bassett took charge of the boards and contributed most of the scoring Wednesday night to carry the College of Southern Idaho to a 90-73 decision over the Idaho State frosh.

CSI, ranked seventh in the nation and now 11-0, remains in action at home by hosting University of Idaho frosh Friday night, University of Utah frosh Saturday and Treasure Valley Community College of Ontario Monday. CSI topped Idaho in December but this will be the first meeting with the other two. TVCC knocked off Ricks College and Columbia Basin JC this week. Coach Jerry Hale presented a new lineup Wednesday night with Palomar and Bassett going with Gene Strobel, Gary Quessell and Allen Howa. Three usual starters sat most of it out, Ron Deagan being ill and Kelly and Steve Hegens just returning from the Christmas break.

The starters used a patterned offense and turned in strong defensive efforts to about blow the thing open early. ISU's Gibbons hit two early buckets for a brief 4-2 lead but Quessell and Strobel shoved CSI ahead at 6-5. Bassett picked up seven points and Strobel added three as the Eagles moved ahead 34-14 with 6:27 left in the half.

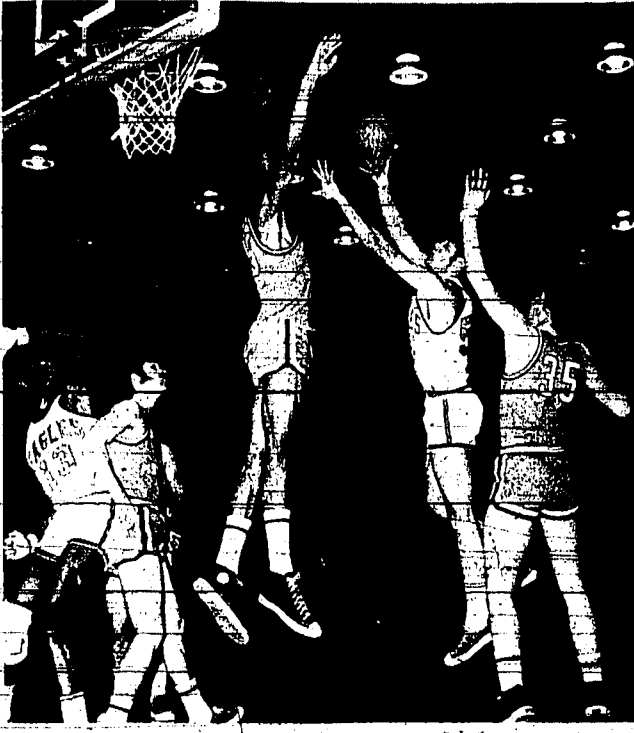

Then Coach Hale went with another five that, putting it conservatively, had its problems. In the last five minutes ISU cut the deficit to 39-32.

The young Bengals stayed in the ball game through the first 12 minutes of the second half on the shooting of Nick Yauris and Pete Miller and with 1:33 left trailed only 64-56. But CSI ran off the next 16 points with Palomar hitting four and Kelly turning on a crowd-pleasing show that got 12 points in three minutes. At one stretch, the 5-4 frosh canned nine straight, six of them on driving layups through the tall timber.

With 5:30 remaining, CSI mounted an 80-56 lead and coasted in.

Winner is fired in wake of Cards' collapse in stretch

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Charley Winner, the 46-year-old head coach of the St. Louis Cardinals for the past five seasons, was fired Wednesday, following the club's collapse in the final three games of the National Football Conference's eastern division race.

Winner's cumulative record with the Cardinals was 35-30-5. Charles W. (Stumpy) Bidwill made the announcement shortly after noon, following a meeting with Winner.

Bidwill said the decision was "a combination of things. It wasn't made overnight, but after a lot of conversation."

But the major reason was the collapse during the final stages of the division scramble after the Cardinals had led the way much of the season.

"You get a shot at the title very few times," Bidwill said. "The team didn't hold together and there was nothing to stop it."

Tom Landry held the (Dallas) Cowboys together when they were catching criticism from everybody," he added. "Now that's a head coach."

Bidwill said the club planned to "accept all applications" for the head job.

The Cardinals, after an opening season loss to Los Angeles, 34-13, proceeded to win four straight before dropping a 35-17 verdict to the Giants in New York.

Then the team rebounded for three consecutive shutouts, 44-0 over Houston, 31-0 over Boston and 38-0 over Dallas, — the second victory over the Cowboys — and then managed a 6-6 tie with Kansas City. It then beat Philadelphia 23-14 and seemed to be in command heading into the final stretch of the 1970 campaign.

Still, it was a vast improvement to finish 8-5-1 for 1970, nearly a complete reversal from the 1969 finish of 4-0-1.

And the Bidwill decision took Winner by surprise.

"I was shocked when this came about," he said. "The coach had arrived in his office about 9 a.m. to work on the upcoming college draft."

"I had been in to see Stumpy Bidwill about another matter in the morning," winner said, "and then he called me in at noon and told me he had bad news."

The coach said he was formulating plans for next season.

"I thought we had our problems straightened out with the team and the team had showed progress this year. I'm sorry I'm not going to be here to see it develop."

Winner said he had no future plans, but "I'd like to have the opportunity to be a head coach."

Texas ends Ft. Worth schedule

DALLAS (UPI) — The Texas Ginnarals Wednesday cancelled their remaining seven "home" games scheduled in Fort Worth and moved them to their home court in Dallas after Tuesday night's game there drew less than 500 fans.

The Chaps had changed the name of their American Basketball Association team to the Texas Ginnarals this season and scheduled 12 games in Fort Worth and five in Lubbock to carry out the area theme.

Bob Briner, just named executive vice-president of the club, said that he felt "as Texas' only professional basketball team we remain anxious to represent the entire state."

The fate of the three remaining games scheduled for Lubbock has not been definitely determined, but Briner indicated the South Plains city would be given at least one more chance to prove it would support pro basketball.

"Really, we are just waiting to see on Lubbock," he said. "We feel that we have given the Fort Worth situation a good try, but that we have not yet done so in Lubbock."

"We averaged less than 2,000 for the two games we played in Lubbock, but one of the games was played the night before the Texas Tech football team played in the Sun Bowl and the other was during the Thanksgiving holidays while Tech students were gone from the campus."

Briner, who formerly operated Lamar Hunt's World Championship Tennis pro stable, said that he felt Dallas "is where we're going to make it as a team" and for that reason he would concentrate on improving the image here.

The team is averaging about 3,500 fans for its home games this year despite trouble winning on the road.

Frenchman wins ski specialty

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany (UPI) — World alpine champion Jean-Noel Augert of France had to fight the German Bundeswehr (Army) first before winning his specialty at the Berchtesgaden World Cup ski races Wednesday.

The 21-year-old French alpine grist was dancing through the gates at breathtaking speed when suddenly a German soldier appeared on the course.

"He was so close to the pole that I had to hit him with my stick to get through that gate," the mop-haired Frenchman said after finishing his second run.

Despite the human obstacle, Augert won the slalom by a wide margin and took the lead in the World Cup standings with 31 points. He clocked 56.90 and 52.85 seconds in his two runs for a total one minute, 59.75 seconds.

Australian veteran Holm Measner, 31, finished second, 2.45 seconds behind, while West Germany's Max Rieger was third in 2:02.78.

The sensation of the race was 20-year-old American Tyler Palmer of Kearsarge, N.H., who came out of nowhere to take fourth place despite an unfavorable high starting number.

Palmer, who started with number 46, totaled 2:03.21.

The icy course on the Jenner Mountain course again took its toll as only 18 out of 73 starters finished. In Tuesday's giant slalom, only 24 skiers got through.

Among those who fell or missed a gate were Gustavo Thoen of Italy, the leader after the first heat, World Cup holder and world giant slalom champion Karl Schranz of Austria, world downhill champion Bernhard Russi of Switzerland and previous Cup leader Patrick Russel of France.

Ailing Morton to miss drills

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys walking wounded list was struck from a new angle Wednesday when quarterback Craig Morton was felled by a sore throat that will keep him from practicing this week for the club's Jan. 17 Super Bowl date with Baltimore.

Coach Tom Landry reported that Morton was "pretty sick" and had gone to a doctor for treatment with antibiotics in hopes that he will be able to join the team in time for their flight to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Sunday.

"We're concerned about his voice and the doctor may put him on a silence regimen," Landry said.

"At any rate, he won't work out any this week because he can't talk above a whisper."

"I'm sorry that he's sick, because he could use the throwing," Landry said. "I don't think it will hurt his mental preparation for the game, but he could sure use the throwing."

"He wasn't too effective against San Francisco (7 of 22 for 101 yards), but he was throwing all right."

Landry said that Morton's elbow, which had been of prime concern prior to the Forty Niners game, was "probably okay" but mentioned that his quarterback had hurt a knee "a bit" in the game.

Sox chief sees better ball team

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Red Sox Manager Eddie Kasko, here for meetings with club officials, said Wednesday he believed his ball club was better in "speed, defense and pitching" for the 1971 season.

Kasko also admitted he might be tougher on the players during his second season as Boston manager and said he had limited his disciplinary action against the 1970 team to several fines of a day's pay and some of $100.

Kasko, who said most of his rookie season fines were for curfew violations or off-field behavior, said he didn't anticipate a number of larger fines this season but that his pre-season training camp in Winter Haven, Fla., would be "different" than it was a year ago.

Kasko said he had several areas he planned to concentrate on during the pre-season workouts. He said that among them would be to try and improve new second baseman Doug Griffin's bunting and that he would also stress bunting for outfielder Billy Conigliaro.

Dennis earns grid award

Kirk Dennis, senior halfback and all-around athletic star at Wandell High School, is one of six Idahoans to be given honorable mention in the annual Sunlight high school all-American football poll.

Dennis, who passed Wendell to an undefeated season and has been a state champion in track and member of a state championship basketball team, was the only Idaho ball carrier so selected. Wide receivers dominated the Idaho choices. Given honorable mentions were Nick Nand, 6-4, 180-pound end from Coeur d'Alene; Steve Miller, 6-3, 215-pound tackle from Borah; Gene Blymeier, 6-2, 205-pound end from Borah; Kelly Deist, 5-11, 160-pound flanker from Skyline; and Ted Tomlinson, 6-3, 210-pound light end from Highland.

Cowboys, Hayes not talking

DALLAS (UPI) — Dallas Cowboys President Tex Schramm said Wednesday he definitely would not be talking contracts with star receiver Bob Hayes, or Hayes' attorney, prior to the Cowboys Super Bowl game in Miami Jan. 17 against Baltimore.

Schramm was commenting on local press reports that Hayes' Miami attorney, Steve Falk, had said that "if the Cowboys leave Miami without signing Bobby, they won't have him for next season."

Hayes took the automatic 10 per cent salary cut and played this season without a contract under the National Football League's option rules when he couldn't come to salary terms with the Cowboys to summer camp.

"I'm not about to distract Hayes' thoughts on the eve of the Super Bowl with any contract talk," Schramm said. "We're going to Miami to win and I don't want anything to disrupt any of the 40 players we're depending on — and I don't think he (Hayes) would either."

Hayes, who had asked for a new contract at an estimated $70,000 per year in light of his productivity as a receiver, was believed to be playing out his option at about $32,000 salary.

Hayes was one of several starters benched by Coach Tom Landry early in the season because of what Landry termed failure to play up to "four performance levels."

Hayes started the last 10 games, however, and his play has been one of the key factors in the club's turnaround performance that won the Eastern Division and beat Detroit and San Francisco in the playoffs.

Schramm has said repeatedly that he thought Hayes would be signed for 1971. But, Falk said he wasn't so sure.

As far as I know, he was quoted as saying, "there is no truth to it."

Ali offers to spar with Russ

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kamo Saroyan, a Russian heavyweight, has been invited by Cassius Clay to box two rounds with him on Jan. 19 at the former heavyweight champion's training camp in Miami Beach, Fla.

The invitation was sent to Moscow by Dr. Ben Becker of Albany, chairman of the National AAU Boxing Committee.

Saroyan, who will be accompanying the Russian team of 13 boxers to the United States for the team matches against an American squad at Las Vegas Jan. 23, has boxed in 15 international tournaments and has lost only nine of 88 bouts.

Saroyan, a 29-year-old Army regular, won a match in the second dual meet between the U.S. and USSR in February of 1970 at Minsk. Noted as a good boxer and a hard puncher, Saroyan will meet the American heavyweight — expected to be Ron Lyle of Denver — in one of the 11 bouts on the card in this year's competition at Caesar's Palace.

Clay, who is meeting Joe Frazier in New York on March 8 in an attempt to regain his heavyweight crown, defeated Russian Gennady Shalynov in Rome in 1968 en route to winning the Olympic gold medal in the light heavyweight class.

looked doubtful since the 10-spot lead appeared to be the top of a doubleton. Anyway, George ducked the first diamond, but won the second when West continued the suit.

The ace of spades and a spade to dummy's king accounted for all the adverse trumps. Now George was ready to try a new suit. Clubs! He led dummy's three-spot and stuck in his jack after East played the seven. West won and led a club right back. He had nothing better to do since he was sure he could not afford to lead from his king of hearts. East had to play the queen, whereupon dummy's 10 of clubs gave George a parking place for his six of hearts.

Nothing sensational, but most expert play isn't sensational. It merely consists of giving the cards a chance to work for you.

Not a Walter Cronkite, nor a David Brinkley, nor a Howard K. Smith, he was not that kind of dignitary. Spero was an informal hero. For instance, as he sat down to the microphone every night to broadcast, he would hold his belt. Breathed deeply. Spoke with intensity. Personalized everything. And as he got up from the microphone every night at the end of each broadcast, his pants fell off. It was ritual.

Chill provides good skiing

TWIN FALLS — Cold temperatures of the past week have kept valley residents shivering, but skiers have been confident the snow on area slopes was not melting and can look forward to some excellent conditions for the weekend.

Zero and below temperatures last weekend sent skiers to the coffee counters at resorts at frequent intervals, but all areas reported temperatures had begun to climb late Wednesday afternoon. Areas to the north report new snow over the week, but Pomerelle and Magle Mountain have received several inches of new light powder.

Sun Valley has 60 inches of snow at the top of Baldy, more than ever for this time of year, the sports center there reports. Other depths include 62 at the Roundhouse and 32 on Dollar and on the valley floor. Officials at the resort said today temperatures are warming up and have climbed to 16 degrees, which is an improvement over the past weekend. All runs are open including Duff and skiing is listed as excellent.

About 550 skiers from the Los Angeles area will be arriving next week on a special ski trail, Magle Mountain has received five inches of new light powder during the past few days and is now open Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. The junior ski program of a special three week package program opens this Saturday for several hundred young skiers. Road to the area is icy and snow tires or chains are required. Buses leave for the area each Saturday at 9 a.m. from Lynwood shopping center.

Soldier Mountain has from 45 to 60 inches of snow on ski runs and is now operating Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Skiing is reported excellent and the road to the area is good. The ski school will begin there Saturday and run for three weeks with instructors available each day. Weather Wednesday was reported clear, sunny and warming up.

Rotarun lists 40 inches of snow for a total depth with no new snow but cold, clear weather. Roads to the area are well packed and in excellent condition. Night skiing is offered each Tuesday and Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. Ski lessons begin this weekend with registration from 11 a.m. to noon at the area and classes from 1 to 3 p.m.

Pomerelle reports snow depths ranging from four feet at the bottom of the lift to five and one-half feet at the top. Weather is listed as sunny, clear and cold. All runs are packed and skiing is reported excellent. The area road is slick and will again be posted for all vehicles traveling to the area to have chains or snow tires. A deputy sheriff will be stationed at the canyon entrance to assure compliance.

Accuracy counts...

STEEL LAMINATIONS which will form the core of an electric motor are put together at Westinghouse Electric Corporation's new harmonic motor plant at Athens, Tenn., by Julia Forbett. The rotating table in front of Julia automatically selects the correct number of laminations, counts them, and assembles them in the proper alignment required for the motor core. Each lamination is accurate in thickness to half the diameter of a human hair. (UPI)

Dale Trumbo, deputy case supervisor; Louis Givens, information specialist; Arnold Wallace, state fiscal supervisor, and John Franklin, accountant-auditor, all of Boise.

Utility plans service boost

BOISE — Idaho Power Company announced Wednesday it will invest nearly $22.5 million in new service facilities during 1971 as construction starts on the 1.5 million-kilowatt Jim Bridger steam generating complex.

"In spite of steadily rising costs now at record levels, Idaho Power has no choice but to move forward with its expansion so that we can continue providing the essential and reliable energy supplies required by our customers' growing demands," said company president Albert Carlsen.

"Among the most critical of those growing demands that must be met," he noted, "is the use of clean electric energy to help improve environment and our quality of life."

Carlsen announced the utility's spending plans in a report on its accomplishments in 1970 and its construction program this year.

Idaho Power's 1971 investment, he said, is the second step in a five-year expansion that will see it spend an estimated $250 million — equal to more than $1,800 for each of the same 134,500 domestic customers the company is presently serving.

Nearly $9 million of this year's outlay will be used to launch actual construction of the Bridger complex, being built jointly by Idaho Power and Pacific Power and Light Company.

Preparation of the new plant's site some 30 miles northeast of Rock Springs, Wyo., already has been completed and its structures are scheduled to start taking shape by the end of 1971. The first unit at the coal-fired plant, estimated to cost $300 million with related transmission facilities — and coal-field development, is due to go on the line in 1974 to supply Idaho Power customers.

The company's 1971 budget also earmarks nearly $3 million for transmission lines and substations and more than $8.6 million for distribution lines and substations. Another $1.6 million will go for general yarding and equipment.

Carlsen pointed out that while other sections of the U. S. "suffered" through power Change. That's what it's all about this year. And that's what we mean by putting you first.

These are uneasy times. There are major concerns. About pollution. About safety. About your hard-earned dollar. We know.

For the past 10 years Chevrolet research people have questioned thousands of people on every subject from rising taxes to the size of the glovebox in their cars.

We've found that price and maintenance costs, trade-in value and quality have become tremendously important.

Your car has to work. It has to last. And each new model must have more built-in value.

At Chevrolet, we understand. You want meaningful change. You want improvements that are not just skin-deep, but deep-seated.

And one of those, among the many that you'll find in the 1971 Chevrolets, is new emission controls to help bring back clean air. In every model, we've made further substantial reductions in both the discharge of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide.

All 1971 Chevrolet engines run efficiently on the new no-lead or low-lead gasoline, too, which not only decreases air pollution but increases the life of your spark plugs, exhaust system and other engine components.

Caprice. The biggest, most luxurious Chevrolet ever. A complete change.

Rigness in itself is nothing. But if it allows you to lengthen the distance between the front and rear wheels (which we did), then you've got something.

You've got a smoother ride.

The idea in the 1971 Caprice was to give you the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, without asking you to pay anywhere near that much for it. And above all, to build in as much dependability and security as possible.

So we changed the body structure, too.

We made it stronger. And we made it quieter by putting a double layer of steel in the roof.

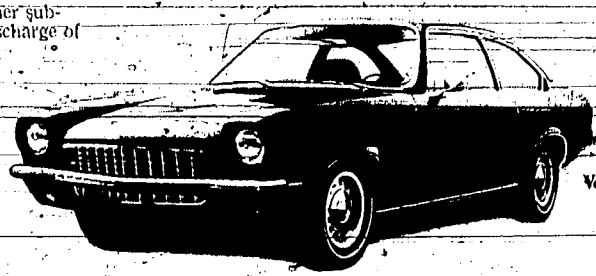

Caprice, as you can see below, is a lot of luxury at a Chevrolet price.

Vega. The littlest Chevy ever. It wasn't changed from anything.

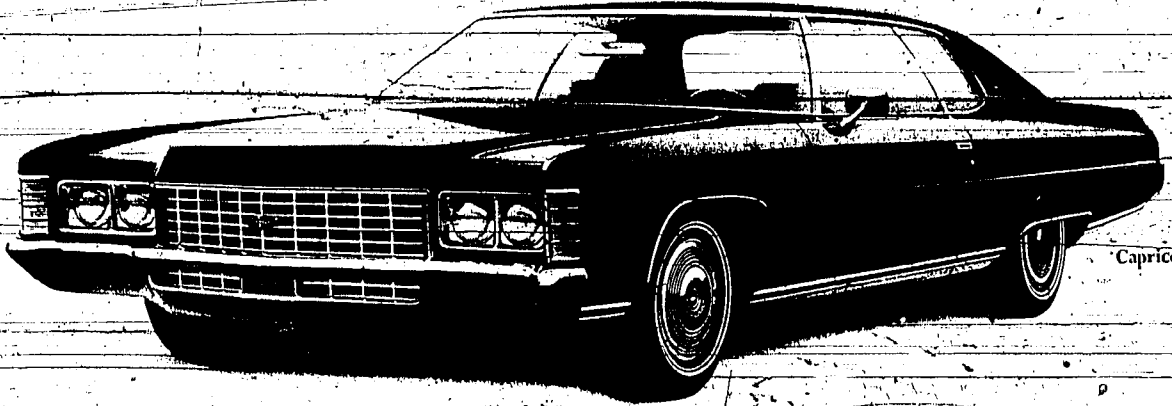

Before building Vega, we read everything we could get our hands on about little cars. We talked to owners. We studied little cars 'up one side and down the other and, literally, tore them apart. We found out what made them tick, or why they didn't tick.

What ticked were gas economy and dependability. What didn't were underpowered engines, cramped quarters and getting blown around in the wind.

In our little Vega, everything ticks. It's not just another little car. You didn't want that. It's one little car that does everything well.

Monte Carlo. Changed? No, refined. The classic fine-grid grille is one refinement. Another, Power-Beam headlights are spaced wider apart. There's a tasteful new hood ornament. Refined. Because most people liked it the way it was.

Camaro. We've made just a few changes to make America's best-liked sporty car even more so: 1) Given the front bucket seats higher backrests by building in the head restraints; 2) Cushioned the steering wheel center for added protection; 3) Modified the engine for new no-lead or low-lead fuel.

Chevelle. How do you change America's most popular mid-size car? Very carefully. We contoured a new grille. Gave you new single-unit Power-Beam headlights. Resculptured both bumpers. Carefully. Very carefully.

Vanishing tailgate. A big change in our big wagon to make life easier. The window goes up into the roof, the slide-away tailgate disappears under the floor. Out of sight. Out of your way.

Nova. We changed our attitude about change and gave you only what you asked for. New colors and fabrics, new Power-Beam headlights, a more responsive standard engine. Nova, still America's not-too-small, not-too-big car. We wouldn't change that for the world.

See what we mean by putting you first? Now at your Chevrolet dealer.
