Tiny JoAnne loses battle

SALT LAKE CITY — Tiny JoAnne Springer, the last of four quadruplet girls born last Friday to Mr. and Mrs. William Springer of Twin Falls, lost a four-day fight for life Monday afternoon.

JoAnne died at 2:20 p.m. at the University of Utah Medical Center of hyaline membrane disease, the same respiratory ailment which claimed the lives of her three sisters.

The girls were born two months prematurely Friday at St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome, with two strikes against them at the start, according to physicians. Their prematurity made them susceptible to the nearly always fatal membrane malady, the same disease that took the life of the infant son of former President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

In addition the quadruplets were identical sisters, all growing from a single egg that split four ways, and this lowered their chances even more, their attending physician, Dr. James B. Sloat of Jerome, said.

In addition, the four deliveries were of the very difficult breech presentation, meaning they had to be delivered manually with considerable manipulation and handling, instead of being born normally, Dr. Sloat said.

Two of the four girls died Friday night and another died early Saturday morning at St. Benedict's Hospital before arrangements could be made to fly them to the Salt Lake City medical center.

Mrs. Springer was released from the Jerome hospital on Sunday, and was reported recovering at home. She had entered the hospital the previous Sunday. (Obituary, page 2)

Gooding schools tag boss

GOODING — James J. Muscat, Gooding High School principal the past year, was hired Monday night as superintendent of the Gooding schools.

Supt. Dea Keller previously has announced his resignation, effective in June. The newly named superintendent was superintendent of schools at Kendrick, Idaho, for nine years before coming to Gooding this past year. He was awarded a three-year contract.

Trustees also renewed contracts for Eugene Gibbons, grade school principal, and Louis Durfee, junior high school principal, and approved a $500 salary increase for each. Applications are now being received for the post of high school principal, Keller said, and these will be reviewed at the February board meeting.

Trustees took under advisement a request to institute a school bus driver's training course and another request to give student driver education courses during the school year. They now are given during the summer.

The board voted to accept recommendations from the Northwest Accrediting Association that 85 per cent attendance be required in academic courses. A faculty committee will be set up to review attendance problems, giving the school administrators more latitude in reviewing student attendance difficulties, Keller said.

Board members discussed a letter from the state attorney general's office saying it would not be practical for the district to purchase property for a school bus turnaround; but also that it is unsafe for buses to back up or turn around on public roads.

FHA cuts rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government today cut from 8 per cent to 7 3/4 per cent the interest on FHA and VA-backed mortgage loans.

The cut was announced jointly by Housing and Urban Development Secretary George W. Romney and Veterans Administration Donald E. Johnson.

It was the second cut in six weeks in the FHA-VA loan ceiling. The rate was reduced Dec. 1 from an all-time high of 8 1/2 per cent to 8 per cent.

The announcement said all applications for loans received by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and Veterans Administration (VA) after the close of business today will be subject to the lower rate ceiling.

The government insures loans through the FHA and guarantees them through the VA. The actual money is put up by private investors in both cases.

Fox heads blame commission
HAILEY — John Fox was elected chairman of the Blaine County Commissioners during a completion meeting Monday.

Ray Sweet, another commissioner, was named in charge of roads from Carey to Gannett and Jack Bennett will be in charge of county roads from Gannett to Alturas Lake area.

In other business county officials were sworn in by the commissioners. The county's only new official is Del Nicholson, assessor.

The council declared a moratorium on Blaine County on operating plans for 60 days; Fox said the county is expected to be zoned within the 60 days, so the moratorium was imposed.

RUPERT — A train-truck collision claimed one life Tuesday morning two and one-half miles east of Norland on the Union Pacific Railroad's main line.

No other details have been reported. The Mindok County coroner, Robert C. Walk, was called to the scene.

Pilot escapes
By ROBERT DANIELS

FAIRFIELD — A Boise pilot escaped injury late Monday afternoon when his light plane nosed over while making an emergency landing at the Fairfield airport.

Howard Lee Bryan Jr., who works with Trans-Magic Airlines, was flying his own Piper Tri Pacer from Boise to Hailey when he developed engine trouble over Camas Prairie.

He circled the town while a snowplow tried to clear the airport landing strip which had about four inches of new snow. When he found he could stay aloft no longer, he landed on the runway, which was only partially cleared of snow.

The light craft skidded and overturned, with damage confined to the prop and nose of the plane. The vehicle was righted and towed to a hangar. Bryan did not sustain the damage, but said while he has liability insurance, he has none for damage to his own plane.

Deputy Sheriff Harold Leo was at the scene when the plane landed.

Wendell woman killed
GOODING — Mrs. Carol Veenstra, 26, Wendell, was dead on arrival at St. Benedict's Hospital, Jerome, after being thrown out of her car at 8:30 p.m. Monday on the Clear Lakes Road, three miles south of the West Point store.

Gooding county sheriff's officers said Mrs. Veenstra's car went out of control on the slick road and went into a ditch. She was thrown out of the window of the right front door. Wendell Police Chief Dale Bunn and Gooding sheriff's officers investigated.

Bills, sorrow remain

TWIN FALLS — The death of three-day-old JoAnne Springer in Salt Lake City Monday afternoon left her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Springer, with a heartache and thousands of dollars in medical bills.

On Friday, the Springers were parents of quadruplet girls — seemingly healthy and lively; the only quad born in Idaho in recent memory. Congratulations flooded in — and then death entered the scene.

Hyaline membrane disease, the scourge of premature births, claimed first one, life, then two and three. JoAnne, the single remaining girl, was flown to the University of Utah Medical Center in a valiant but vain fight for life. She died Monday afternoon.

A trickle of financial help was reported, but only a trickle. Springer's employer, the J.H. Henry Produce Co. of Kimberly, set up a fund to help defray expenses, but reported today that only about $180 has been donated by community citizens. The Springer family reported a few small private donations in addition.

Call to austerity...

IDAHO GOV. Ceall Andrus stands before a joint session of the 41st Idaho Legislature Monday, delivering his "State of the State" address in which he called for austerity programs and proposed directions of progress for the Gem State.

Kidnap suspects nabbed in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — Two persons who allegedly abducted a Boise grocery clerk and a Jerome gas station attendant were captured early today in a Twin Falls motel.

Frank Barnett, Twin Falls chief of police, said Gary L. Hayes, 20, Boise, and a 14-year-old Boise girl are being held at the Twin Falls County jail on a charge of robbery. They are being held for Jerome authorities.

The chief said Hayes and the girl forced Earl Boorem, 27, Boise, to drive them to Twin Falls at gun-point. En route they allegedly stopped at Jerome and robbed Walt's Texaco station of about $70.

Solons back tight belt

BOISE (Special to Times-News) — In what may be the most important single decision of his administration, Gov. Ceall Andrus asked the Idaho Legislature Monday to halt the 20-year-gulping expansion of state services and expenditures.

Nearly to a man, the legislators concurred with the governor's judgment that the tax increase needed to fuel further program expansion is not politically possible.

Rep. William Roberts, R-Boise, expressed the sentiment of most legislators: "I'd like to see anyone try to bring a bill in here asking us to raise taxes."

Apparently as a result of their basic agreement that expansion must end the typical partisan pattern following a State of the State speech seemed muted.

Democrats predictably praised Andrus but regretted the need to pare services and the state's payroll.

Republicans voiced general agreement with the governor's goals, but withheld judgment until their party could formulate its alternative approach.

But no Republican interwove challenged Andrus' decision to cut back House Speaker William C. Andrus asked the Idaho Legislature Monday to halt the 20-year-gulping expansion of state services and expenditures.

He said he sees no signs that the session will degenerate into party hickering. He said the Republicans are now "waiting for the dollar sign" to be attached to Andrus' proposals.

"A priority system is great," Lanting said, "but it in itself doesn't generate new revenue."

Rep. Roberts said Andrus' address "was a concise picture of the situation in the state. But he objected to several of Andrus' suggestions — repeal of House Bill 304, and assigning the highest educational priority to kindergartens above other levels of education.

Roberts said he assigned highest educational priority to levels immediately preparing a person for occupation — vocational technical and college programs instead of kindergartens as suggested by Andrus.

Repeal of House Bill 304, suggested by Andrus, Roberts said, is popular among political units but unpopular with the taxpayers.

Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle: "He certainly did lay it on the line."

Ravenscroft questioned whether a proposed cutback to 15 per cent of sales tax receipts returned to local governmental units would be upheld by the legislature. The kickbacks to the local level, intended to replace revenues lost from wholesome interest in inventory tax phase-out, may be higher than the 15 per cent figure, Ravenscroft said.

Republicans also reportedly were maneuvering to retain the programmed percentage at 20 per cent.

Rep. Richard S. High, R-Twin Falls, Finance Committee chairman: "I certainly agree with the goals Andrus expressed, especially his efforts to organize for better efficiency." He said the former legislatures private kindergartens who need had pressed in the same direction, and Andrus was other groups," Ragland said.

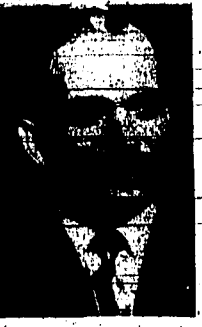

Nixon decries blasts

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon Monday condemned as "morally wrong" the bombing attacks on Soviet facilities in the United States amid threats by the Jewish Defense League to continue the assaults to win better treatment for Jews in the Soviet Union.

The President joined 73 American Jewish community leaders in mutually expressing "outrage" at the acts of violence and agreed that they "injure the cause" of Jews in the Soviet Union.

The Western White House released the texts of an exchange of letters between Nixon and the Jewish leaders in 27 cities, including his friend and Republican party contributor Max Fisher of Detroit, Arthur Herman Wolk and several rabbis.

"We are outraged by the bomb explosion outside the Soviet Cultural Building in Washington," the leaders wrote Nixon. "Such irresponsible and criminal actions must be stopped."

Stranded snowmobile party home

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS—Twenty snowmobilers, ranging in age from a 7-month-old baby to a grandmother, were back home today after an unscheduled night in the South Hills area where they were trapped late Sunday by a snow slide.

Twin Falls Highway District crews were cleaning up the slide area today clearing away several tons of heavy snow which blocked the road about 6:30 p.m., one-half mile below the Magic Mountain Ski Resort.

Lewis Munson, Twin Falls district forest ranger, said the slide was about 12 feet deep and some 200 feet long. He said a large bulldozer owned by T and W Construction Co., which was located at the ski resort, was pressed into action Monday and by 2:45 p.m. a path had been cut through the slide and the stranded snowmobilers were freed.

Malvin Quale, who with his 8-year-old son, Steve, had gone to the snowmobile area Sunday afternoon, estimated the time of the slide at about 6:30 p.m. He said a camper and pickup truck were stuck in the snowmobile parking lot when the group was preparing to leave for home and others assisted in pushing it out. This was the last vehicle to make it out, he said, and the others, leaving about 10 minutes later, ran into the slide.

Grant Erickson, Twin Falls, ran his vehicle into the slide but others were able to stop. They checked to be sure the camper and pickup truck tracks continued down the canyon and the vehicle had not been trapped. Quale said there were five children in the group who had a day-of-school vacation and three pre-school youngsters including the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Murphy.

All returned to the Murphy cabin in the Balsam Summer Home area above the snowmobile region and were able to spend the night in complete comfort, Quale said. He said the three story cabin had ample beds for everyone and enough food for two good meals.

He said breakfast was "bacon, eggs and hotcakes." Coffee was borrowed from the forest ranger cabin.

Families in the area included J. Col. Clyde Murphy who just returned from Vietnam. There, he said, he was in 97 degree temperatures a week earlier. Others included the LaVern Murphy family, Jerome Wayne and Larry Murphy and their youngsters, Grant Erickson and Quale.

Quale said they decided after they discovered the slide to go to the ranger station and call out to let families know they were trapped but all right. When they found the telephone was not in working order they returned to the cabin where four of the men rode out on snowmobiles as far down the canyon as snow permitted, pulling a sled with two trail cycles behind. When the snow ran out at Harrington Fork, two of the men mounted the trail cycles and continued to the first ranch with a telephone.

The two others stayed at the Harrington Fork picnic area and kept a fire going until the others returned. LaVern Murphy and Larry Murphy rode the cycles out while Quale and Erickson stayed at the picnic area.

Quale said after the group ate supper some of them went snowmobiling and enjoyed the evening as the snowstorm had begun to lift by late evening. More than a foot and one-half of new snow fell in the area during Saturday and Sunday storms with rain in the lower canyon. Ranger Munson said he did not believe there was any further danger of slides on the road as the area is not generally subject to sliding.

Mrs. Wayne Murphy, whose two children were with her husband, said the trail cycles were kept at the cabin for summer use but had no lights.

Few changes due in postal shift

TWIN FALLS—The U.S. Post Office Department rides off into the sunset this week as it phases out the legends of the American scene. Express, the "mailing snow nor hell" motto and other famous highlights of the American scene.

But nobody will notice. The U.S. Postal Service, described cryptically as "an independent establishment over the government," takes over, under the control of a nine-member board of governors, a chairman and an appointed postmaster general. Locally, however, no immediate changes are anticipated, according to Lloyd Libert, officer in charge at the Twin Falls Post Office. Service windows will stay open the same hours; deliveries will continue as always, and mail will be picked up at the same times throughout the city. The first major change to be felt by the public will be a substantial boost in postage rates, probably raising the first class letter rate to eight cents from the present six cents. This will probably take effect in May, Libert said. Other postage rates will be increased proportionately. The new postal service will probably issue more commemorative stamps aimed at stamp collectors — who purchase stamps by the thousands but do not require any service from the mailmen — than in the practice at present, to further balance the budget, Libert said. Even the name on the post office will remain the same, at least for the present, though the postal service will eventually issue new insignia.

Ford opposes car pricing changes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ford Motor Co. argued today against changing automobile pricing practices under which it said, most new cars sell at 17 to 21 per cent less than their "sticker" prices. "A suggested price in the automobile industry cannot be the exact price at which cars are sold," John J. Nevin, Ford vice president for marketing, told the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) in prepared testimony.

"In some substantial measure it must continue to be what the Congress intended it to be when it passed the Automobile Information Disclosure Act of 1965—a credible reference point from which bargaining can begin," he said. Nevin testified as the FTC opened public hearings on its proposed rule to make "sticker" prices—the manufacturer's suggested retail price, required under the 1968 law—be within 3 per cent of a level "at which substantial sales are actually made."

His testimony closely paralleled points made by General Motors Corp. in its written statement to the FTC. Both firms said prices vary widely from model to model, season to season, city to city and dealer to dealer, making it impossible to pinpoint a nationwide "right" price.

Besides the sticker price formula, the FTC proposals would impose new rules on auto price advertising. One would bar comparative price ads which don't disclose that formerly "standard" equipment has been made "optional." A second would bar ads picturing a model with "extras" but dishing a "stripped down" price. Under a third proposal, a car maker could not advertise a sale or discount unless he sold to dealers at the same discount.

Ford and GM suggested changes in these proposals but did not oppose them altogether. Professional men who need exercise check into the new Y.M.C.A. Health Club.

T.F. board studies bids

TWIN FALLS—Four bids for six-months operation of landfills and dump grounds in the county were taken under advisement by the Twin Falls County Commission Monday. Firms submitting bids include C. A. Parrott, Twin Falls, a flat bid of $10,675 for the six months including $4,050 for work on the grounds near Flier Mountain, Haggard Flat, Clover and Balanced Rock, $1,825 for the Kimberly-Hansen area and $5,000 for clean up and operation of the Black Bear area.

Other bids include G. Glen Clark, Route 3, Buhl, who submitted a flat offer of $14,400; T and W Excavating Co., a bid of $8,500 for all of the dumps in the county except Black Bear where he bid $400 but added "trenching and burying of garbage would be extra, and the bid of Fred McCoy, Twin Falls, $11,875 total.

Vice chairman of the commission, Heber Loughmiller, said it appeared the Parrott bid was the best offer but further study would have to be made. The county called for bids on operating and maintaining the dump grounds on a six-month basis in order not to be in conflict with possible new regulations which might be ordered by the coming legislative session.

Court approves welfare cutoff

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court ruled today that welfare authorities may cut off benefits if a caseworker is barred from entering a recipient's home. The decision, on a 6-3 vote came in the case of Mrs. Barbara James of the Bronx, N.Y., mother of a pre-school child.

The decision, on a 6-3 vote came in the case of Mrs. Barbara James of the Bronx, N.Y., mother of a pre-school child. Mrs. James, who resided in New York City, filed suit in New York City federal court in 1969 against the state welfare department (AFDC), for her caseworker would not be permitted to enter her home to visit. Benefits have continued under a court order pending the outcome of the lawsuit.

Speaking for the Supreme Court majority, Justice Harry Blackmun said "home visits are structured by the New York statutes and regulations as a reasonable administrative tool." He said as used in New York it is not "an unwarranted invasion of personal privacy."

Justice William O. Douglas, Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan Jr. dissented.

Jordan, solons in Boise caucus

BOISE (UPI)—Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, hosted Idaho's Republican state officials, legislators, and two congressmen Monday at a caucus luncheon to discuss Republican policies. Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, Senate majority leader, said the meeting was "really all of the titular heads of the party, simply to make sure we were on the same wavelength."

Both houses of the Idaho Legislature approved Monday a concurrent resolution affirming all rules, appointments and payments passed by the organizational session of the 41st legislature. Payments to attaches ranged from $35 per day for the Secretary of the Senate and chief clerk and parliamentarian of the House to $10 per day for chaplains.

The resolution also affirmed in the Senate the reduction from 22 to 10 standing committees established during the organizational session, held early in December. Earlier in the day, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus in his state of the state message suggested splitting Ada County and moving Elmore County into the second district. Kidwell, asked about Andrus' proposal, said "there seems to be quite a bit of discussion in the Republican party—and the congressmen realize this also—that it may be necessary to divide Ada County."

Kidwell said the Republicans also felt "voters are going to look to the elected officials for the policy of the party" and said those at the meeting must be able to "assume this responsibility." Lieutenant Gov. Jack Murphy and Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa were also present at the meeting.

Chicago teachers strike

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Teachers Union voted to strike the nation's second largest school system today, giving about 377,000 public school students the day off.

CTU President John E. Desmond walked off a bargaining session Monday afternoon and later received a unanimous strike vote from his union's 385-member House of Representatives. Desmond and school Superintendent James F. Redmond disagreed on how far apart the sides were in negotiations.

Service clubs shut after riot

SAIGON (UPI)—All U.S. Army enlisted men's clubs at Tuy Hoa, 240 miles northeast of Saigon, were ordered closed Monday in a move to cool tempers following a riot in which a hand grenade blast wounded 27 Americans.

The riot Saturday night was the second of two violent incidents involving American troops. In the first, three black soldiers were under arrest in connection with a shooting last Friday that killed a U.S. Army major and wounded another.

Official spokesmen at U.S. headquarters in Saigon denied there were racial overtones in either incident.

The bloodshed at Tuy Hoa, on South Vietnam's central coast, apparently stemmed from inter-unit rivalries which flared inside an enlisted men's club and turned into a fistfight involving scores of men who battled outside the club.

"When other methods failed, the deputy post commander directed the Military Police to use CS (tear gas) canisters to break up the fighting," one source at headquarters reported.

"Four canisters were used, but they were ineffective. Almost immediately following use of the canisters, a fragmentation grenade exploded in the crowd."

Of the 27 men wounded by the blast, 21 were treated and released at the base hospital. The six others were admitted for treatment but they were reported "not in critical condition."

The post commander ordered all Tuy Hoa clubs closed "to allow things to cool off," one source said.

The Army majors were struck by gunfire at the Quang Tri combat base just below the Demilitarized Zone in South Vietnam's far northern quarter.

Military spokesmen identified the slain man as Maj. Robert Degen, 34, of Newburgh, N.Y., operations officer of the 1st Battalion, 7th Armor, 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Division.

The identity of the wounded major was withheld pending notification of relatives in the United States.

Military sources said the two majors were returning to their quarters about 12:15 a.m. Friday and were passing an enlisted men's billet when they heard a stereo phonograph being played loudly. They stopped to ask the men to turn the volume down.

When they entered the billet, an argument began, and one of the enlisted men became angry and turned the volume up full blast. One of the officers pulled the plug from the phonograph.

The officers followed two enlisted men outside and the shooting followed.

A ballistics report indicated that from three to five shots were fired from a non-military .25 caliber weapon.

The wounded major managed to make his way to a first aid station. He was reported in satisfactory condition at an Army hospital.

Bid to cut road deaths set

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government announced a drive Monday to reduce the number of traffic deaths caused by drunken drivers, now estimated at nearly half of the 55,000 persons killed each year on U.S. highways.

The Transportation and Health, Education and Welfare Departments said they would develop joint educational campaigns on drunken driving and alcoholism in general. They said they would also provide financial aid to community level programs on alcoholism.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates alcohol is involved in as many as 50 per cent of all fatal traffic accidents, and some highway safety advocates complain there should be state laws to prohibit alcoholics from obtaining drivers licenses.

"It is illogical and inhumane to give a driving permit to a known alcoholic with repeated convictions for drunk driving as it is to furnish knives to homicidal maniacs," Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe told Congress recently.

41 per cent of the drivers killed in accidents lost their lives because the other guy was drunk.

Last year, according to government statistics, more than 800,000 persons were injured in accidents involving drunken drivers.

Chrysler strike deadline Jan. 19

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers Monday set a Jan. 19 strike deadline against Chrysler Corp., the only one of the big three auto makers which has not yet worked out a new contract with the nation's second largest union.

The 120,000 hourly rated and salaried UAW members at Chrysler plants in the United States and Canada will walk out on that date unless the two sides work out a new, three-year contract by that time, the union said.

Douglas Fraser, vice president of the union, said the UAW had done its best to bring negotiations to a head without a strike.

But he added that Chrysler appeared unwilling to bargain seriously "without the pressure point of a strike deadline."

The union Thursday rejected the latest company offer and no meetings were scheduled during the weekend between UAW and Chrysler negotiators.

Sales tax diversion cut asked by Andrus

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus called Monday for a 25 per cent reduction in the diversion of sales tax monies to local government in lieu of inventory taxes and the return of that amount to the general fund.

"Since the inventory tax phase-out law went into effect in 1968," Andrus told the legislature in his state of the state address, "it has been consuming much of the annual increase in revenue from the sales tax."

"In the current year approximately $4.5 million will be diverted to local government for inventory tax replacement — 15 per cent of the sales tax revenue," he said. "In the next fiscal year the diversion is scheduled to rise to 20 per cent."

"I recommend that you amend the law to limit the diversion to 15 per cent, while completing the phase-out of the inventory tax," Andrus said.

"This would leave an additional $2.3 million available for the state general fund in the next year."

Andrus said the move still would leave $7 million to local governments for inventory tax replacement.

"This is about $1 million more than the total amount of inventory tax revenue they were collecting when this law was enacted," he said.

"Sales tax revenue has increased faster than anticipated when the law was enacted. To go beyond actual replacement of local revenue means redistributing the peoples' sales tax dollars to local governments on the basis of their inventories, which do not always correspond to their real needs."

Andrus also recommended the legislators submit to the people a constitutional proposal eliminating the requirement for equal assessment of all classes of property.

"If the voters approve," he said, "it would be possible to tax a home at a lesser rate than income property."

"It would be possible to recognize that some property should be taxed at a lesser rate because it produces no income for the owner," he said.

Andrus said that while property tax relief has been given to inventory taxpayers and to utilities, "the widow on a fixed income with a modest home has seen her tax bill increasing."

"There is no true equalization when taxes are reduced for some with a good income and increased for others with modest, fixed incomes and modest means," Andrus said.

"For the property taxpayer with too little income equalization means raising its tax bill for the benefit of someone who is better able to pay."

Andrus plans cutback in state work force

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus told the first regular session of the 41st Idaho Legislature Monday he intends to cut back the number of state employees by some 10 per cent next year.

"By trimming here and streamlining there we can realize substantial savings," Andrus said in his "state of the state" address. "But beyond that there is much we can do to trim the sails of our ship of state without impeding her progress."

"Through a process of controlled attrition, we shall soon begin a substantial cutback in the number of state employees. This is a necessary economic move. We now have nearly 12,000 men and women on the state payrolls with additional members under contract to the state of Idaho."

Andrus said there will be "no mass layoffs" and that "no dedicated worker in our state government need fear for his job."

He said his intent is not to hurt morale but to help.

He said he intends to support the salary raises proposed by the State Personnel Commission, particularly for employees in the lower salary brackets.

"Some of our state workers are paid so poorly that they are eligible for public assistance," Andrus said. "We cannot allow such a condition to continue. I shall insist that our state employees be dealt with fairly."

In this regard, he said, he hopes the employees will be fair with the state and that efforts to move Idaho forward will not be impaired by what he called the "passive sabotage" of those who do not contribute their best efforts.

"This cutback, amounting to perhaps 10 per cent of the workforce over the next year (approximately 1,200 persons), can be accomplished by controlled attrition and normal retirement in a fairly short period," Andrus said.

Andrus added that out-of-state travel will have to be cut to the "bare minimum" and that job classification and control will be a "must" in all departments.

Emergency

NEWARK, Ohio (UPI)—Mayor James Alexander has declared a state of emergency in this central Ohio community of 45,000 because of a sick-out by 87 of the city's 66 policemen.

Alexander placed three captains, four sergeants, a detective and Police Chief Charles Spurgeon on 12-hour shifts. The policemen began calling in sick Thursday after the mayor refused to grant them a pay raise.

Environmental change creates new problems

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)—Many people think that enough money and more technology are all that is needed to clean up the environment, "but that isn't the way it's going to happen," says conservationist Dick Cooley. Cooley is chairman of the environmental studies program at the University of California's Santa Cruz campus.

He says the technological approach to solving environmental problems is like a man standing on a floor of wet paint "no matter where he goes to brush away his footprints, he leaves another mark." "We've got to begin to think out the whole chain of events when we try to manage the environment in one particular way," he said.

"We're talking about more than just cleaning up the air or water. We're talking about values and changing values systems," he said. "Our job is to help bring all the required fields of study to focus on a problem, then work together to solve it in the best interests of both man and the environment."

Student tourism booming

NEW YORK (UPI)—How many American families do you think would plunk down $1,099 plus taxes this year for a high school student's vacation? "A company in Boston is betting there will be at least 4,000 willing to pay that much this summer in spite of the recession."

While AITS, Inc., whose primary business is organizing de luxe convention tours for business and professional groups, has worked up an unusual de luxe "American Experience" tour deal for the teenager, it's not alone in the business. The late-teen American youth in touch with today's problems as well as yesterday's history.

Other educational travel agencies sell vacation tours for college and high school students costing several hundred dollars. The AITS tour is sold simultaneously in 20 departure cities. As the 45-day tour is planned, it will have to sell most of the planned 4,000 seats in chartered buses to "make a profit." The company feels sure it will.

The American Experience tour is being sold as a cram course in American history, geography, economics, sociology and ecology. Each bus will have its own social science teacher, who will spend part of the time on the road conducting classes and lecturing. Most of the educational work, however, will be done "on site" at the stops.

The tour will be great circle of the country from Boston to San Francisco, then back via the southern route through New Orleans. All the overnight stops will be on college campuses at leading institutions. There will be some short sidetrips to Canada and Mexico. Greyhound Co. will handle the actual travel.

The students will get a chance to study production control at General Motors plants in Detroit; talk with congressmen in Washington, see problem areas of Appalachia at first hand and visit many historical sites.

Crews find Ice puts no flooding buses in ditch

HANSEN. Al DeJors, Twin Falls Canal Co. manager, said today he and crews from the canal company were unable to find any flooding in the Hansen area from the canal or connecting ditches although a report of flooding had been received at the Twin Falls County sheriff's office.

RICHFIELD. Two Richfield school buses skidded from rural roads Monday morning while trying to complete their runs. Both went into borrow pits. One was able to get out without help while the other had to be pulled back to the roadway by Richfield Highway District equipment.

Debt creates modern mount led authorities to earmark about one-half of the 1971 budget to public works projects. But chances are, few, if any, of them will get done. Real-estate buries even urgent plans.

But as capital of Italy, center of Roman Catholicism and one of history's most honored cities, Rome cannot go broke. She just goes on, living in rags on handouts and hopes.

More serious suggestions include a formal declaration of bankruptcy. Former Mayor Atanagio Petrucci almost took the step in 1967 before the national government granted the city an emergency 13.5 billion lire ($216 million) to meet the payroll.

Every city agency is in debt up to its ears. The city bus company Atac alone is 50 billion lire ($80 million) in the red on its 1970 operations. How did a city of 2.7 million people get so far in debt?

A bankruptcy declaration would clear the books, but it makes a lot of bankers unhappy, hurt Roman credit in the future and set a potentially dangerous precedent for other cities. Besides, the national government might block such a move.

Rome has doubled its population in 15 years, but the newcomers were not taxpayers. They were mostly poor and often illiterate job seekers who still pour into Rome at a rate of 65,000 a year. Often unable to work, they drain millions of dollars from welfare agencies and impose severe strains on every public service.

Morover, slum dwellers, often joined by more affluent dissenters, are growing more militant in demands the city do something—anything—about the mess Rome is in.

Hoffa loses court appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Imprisoned labor leader James "Jimmy" Hoffa lost his appeal to the Supreme Court Monday from a pension fund conviction, confronting him with an additional five years in the penitentiary and possible loss of the Teamsters Union presidency.

Hoffa is already serving an eight-year sentence for jury tampering but would have been eligible for a parole bid in March. This could have brought his release before the 1.6 million member union holds its first convention in five years in Miami Beach in July and kept open his chances of being re-elected president.

However, with the additional sentence facing the fiery, 57-year-old union boss, prospects of his remaining in power are dimmed.

Technically, Hoffa could be granted parole on both sentences in March because the five-year term for the fraud conviction is what is termed by federal authorities as an "indefinite sentence."

Whether this would be done by the federal parole board is problematical.

The court rejected Hoffa's request for a new hearing without comment.

However, in another action, the court agreed to hear an appeal by former heavyweight champion Cassius Clay from his conviction for refusing induction into the Army. The legal delay insured that the multimillion-dollar title fight between Clay and present champion Joe Frazier in New York City March 8 will take place as scheduled.

Had Clay, who has adopted the Muslim name Muhammad Ali, lost the appeal, he probably would have had to begin serving his five-year jail sentence prior to the fight. The court agreed to hear arguments only on his claim that he was entitled to conscientious objector status because of his religious beliefs.

The court took these other actions:

- In an about-face, sent back to a lower court the question whether non-English speaking voters in 10 states can be required to use English in answering questions to register. The court voted March 30, 1970, to hear arguments in a case involving a group of Mexican-American farm workers in Yakima County, Wash., but reversed this apparently on grounds the justices unanimously upheld on Dec. 21 the right of Congress to outlaw all literacy tests.

Panel ousts solons

BOISE (UPI) — The legislature's Joint Finance Appropriations Committee voted Monday to exclude other lawmakers from its executive sessions, although other legislators will be invited to attend budget hearings.

The joint committee began its budget hearings a week ago and is faced with a $66 million gap between general fund budget requests and estimated income.

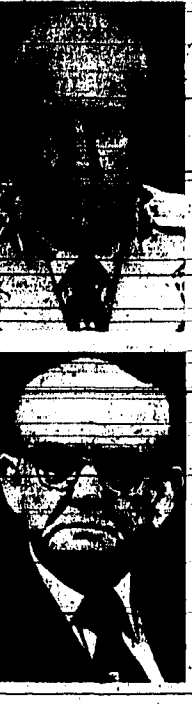

The tentative budget reached in executive sessions will be kept secret, and Rep. Wilbert Cammack, D-Blackfoot, noted if tentative figures are made public "we're going to have a whole lot of pressure from departments to change it."

Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Malden, a co-chairman of the committee, reminded the joint group it will be necessary to be unified once the executive sessions start, adding, "I can't overemphasize that."

Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, co-chairman of the committee, noted there is often a communications gap between party caucuses and the joint committee and suggested interested legislators be allowed to attend the executive sessions.

"No matter what we do here if the legislature doesn't buy our work then it's wasted," he said.

But other legislators felt the executive sessions should be closed to their colleagues who hadn't had the background of the budget hearings.

Russ vex Yanks

MOSCOW (UPI) — A U.S. diplomatic protest and a lull in anti-American vandalism did little to ease the tension for Americans in Moscow today. They took the attitude: "Stay home or watch your step."

The U.S. Embassy Monday delivered an "oral protest" to the Soviet government over its retaliations for anti-Soviet violence in the United States. The retaliations included five attacks by vandals on parked cars over the weekend and intimidation of Americans in the street by strong-arm men.

There were no new reports of return visits from the vandals who slashed the tires or shattered the windshields of five parked cars belonging to Americans Saturday and Sunday.

Most Americans nonetheless remained skeptical the harassment would stop so abruptly. Their actions showed it.

Men interrupted work to check their cars. Women who normally drive to work took taxis. Housewives teamed up to shop for groceries. People talked of little else, swapping tips on what to do in light spots.

An embassy spokesman said political counselor Thompson R. Buchanan "essentially protested the vandalism and the concept of reciprocity" as it applied to the retaliation campaign.

The spokesman said the immediate Soviet response was "low key." Diplomatic sources said the Soviet representative simply informed Buchanan it was tit-for-tat, "to the effect that none of these things would have happened if the American authorities were able to provide normal working conditions for Soviet officials in the United States."

A State Department spokesman in Washington said the protest delivered in Moscow demanded that the harassment be stopped and asked "adequate protection" for Americans at once.

NEWSMEN BRIEFED...

Nixon orders redraft of depreciation law

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon ordered new depreciation rules Monday which will shave billions of dollars in taxes this year in hopes it will be used to stimulate the economy and combat rising unemployment.

In a statement from the Western White House, Nixon said the regulations—retroactive to Jan. 1—will "help create jobs for the unemployed as well as young people joining the labor force."

Federal tax laws permit businesses, corporations and farmers to deduct from their taxable income an allowance for depreciation—the amount by which the value of equipment declines as a result of wear or the simple passage of time.

The new regulations Nixon ordered will permit the full value of the equipment to be deducted in a shorter period of time. The result will be to generate more jobs.

The new rules apply to all types of machinery except electric gas and water utility companies which were specifically exempted. Thus, it will produce a saving for farmers and individual businessmen as well as for big corporations. But the big savings will be for manufacturing corporations.

such as auto and steel makers, which use a great deal of expensive machinery.

Nixon's order does not need congress approval.

The Treasury Department, which handled administrative details of the plan, said in Washington that it would add $600 million to the federal deficit for the present fiscal year that ends June 30. Before the new action, the budget was believed to be about $15 billion in the red.

"The budget cost for the current fiscal year was relatively low because the book-keeping year is already half over."

The treasury said the measure would add $2.7 billion to the deficit—expected to be about $10 billion—for the fiscal year beginning July 1. The cost to the government will rise to $4.2 billion by 1972 before tapering off to $2.8 billion in 1980.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee said he had no major objections to the move. In a telephone interview from his home in Arkansas, Mills told UPI he did question whether the measure would be successful in stimulating the economy.

"If it works, it'll be to the good," he said. "I just don't know."

But the AFL-CIO said Nixon's "break-down" theory of picking up the economy "is helping those who need it the least and the expense of those who need it the most."

"It is incredible that the President can find no better action than to extend a tax windfall of several billions of dollars to the nation's corporations," said Lane Kirkland, secretary-treasurer of big labor organizations.

Arabs keep mum on Israel plea

By United Press International Arab diplomats at the United Nations maintained silence today regarding Israeli peace proposals, while U.N. negotiator Gunnar Jarring pursued his "quiet diplomacy" in an effort to get the indirect peace talks moving.

Jarring was meeting with Jordanian Ambassador Muhammad H. al-Farra to discuss the proposals presented Jarring during a weekend trip to Jerusalem.

A spokesman for the Egyptian Mission announced a meeting last night between Ambassador Mohammed Hassan el-Zayyat and said El-Zayyat would have no comment.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad would report to President Anwar Sadat of Egypt today that he found "encouraging reactions" in London, Paris and Rome to Egyptian suggestions that the U.N. and Big Four powers should intervene to "impose peace on Israel."

Riad returned to Cairo Monday night from a nine-day trip to discuss the Middle East crisis with foreign powers. He said the trip was "a good opportunity for contact with international opinion."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, in Cairo for political and industrial talks with Egyptian government officials, said Monday night it would be extremely difficult to bring Egypt and Israel together but that behind the belligerent statements of both parties there were areas of agreement.

In Jordan, fighting continued between Arab guerrillas and Jordanian government forces. Gunfire was heard throughout the night in Amman and parliament was called into session to discuss the five days of fighting.

Bahl Ladgham, chief of the Arab truce team for Jordan, went to London today to seek assurances from King Hussein that Jordanian forces would cooperate in ending the fighting. Hussein is hospitalized in London for a heartbeat irregularity.

Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny will arrive in Cairo Wednesday to head a high-level government and Communist party delegation for a secondary official visit to Egypt, the Middle East News Agency said.

Aids confer on war

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Adm. Thomas H. Moore, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, carried out a round of discussions today with Cambodian and U.S. Embassy officials on the deteriorating situation in Cambodia.

Moore, who flew from Saigon to Phnom Penh, was briefed by U.S. Ambassador Emory C. Swank, met for more than an hour with generals of the Cambodian High Command, and then went into a long luncheon meeting with Premier Lon Nol.

Although U.S. officials said Moore's visit had been planned well in advance and was not connected with any recent developments, the Cambodian military situation has been rapidly deteriorating. Communist forces have cut off most ground communications, forcing the rationing of gas and electricity in the capital.

Attempts to bring gasoline in by boat along the Mekong River have been stymied by Communist attacks on the boats.

Less than 12 hours before Moore's arrival, 186 trucks carrying and artillery rumbled through Phnom Penh on route to try to break the Communist stranglehold on Highway 4, the capital's only land road.

The two-week old Cambodian operation to clear the road has met with little success.

No U.S. ground actions were reported overnight, but American spokesmen said early today U.S. helicopters and fighter-bombers killed a total of 24 Communists in two separate engagements, one in the Mekong Delta and the other in the mountains just off the central coast.

Meat bill voted

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Agriculture Committee decided to send out for printing Monday a bill which would amend the state meat inspection act to allow slaughterhouses to work with both custom and inspected meats.

Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, chairman of the committee, said he felt the proposal was "good legislation" and said it would give slaughterhouse operators "greater flexibility."

Swenson said Idaho's present statute—which conformed with the federal Wholesome Meat Act—allows slaughterhouses to decide whether to process inspected meat or custom slaughter uninspected meats.

However, he said, the federal law has since been amended to allow houses to use inspected meat for commercial purposes but to also use uninspected meat for custom processing.

The proposal before the committee would amend Idaho's statute in the same way the federal law has been amended.

Swenson added non-inspected meats would not be sold commercially.

Solons, Andrus confer

BOISE (UPI) — Legislative leaders from both houses and both sides of the aisle met with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Monday to discuss procedures to be used in the first regular session of the 41st Legislature.

Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, Senate majority leader, said the legislators and Andrus discussed the "mechanics of making this session work" and added both sides wanted to be sure disagreements did not arise from a lack of communication.

Sen. David Bivens, R-Payette, assistant majority leader, said he felt after the meeting Andrus was interested in the "well-being of the state," and Sen. Walter Varbrugh, R-Idaho, caucus chairman, said he had the impression Andrus "wants real badly to work closely with the legislators and wants to work closely with the legislators."

Kidwell said Andrus, a Democrat who must work with a Republican-controlled legislature, "made it very clear that during the session his priority on time would be given to the legislators. His door will always be open."

School classes shrink

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Education Association (NEA) today released figures showing that public school enrollment declined in Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina during the last two years, even though the school-age population in those states increased.

NEA officials attributed the decline to the private, all-white academies formed to avoid meeting federal civil rights requirements for school integration.

"The reduction in student enrollment in the public schools in the four states is due in some school districts to white flight to inferior private segregated academies," George Jones, director of the NEA's "Bunyan Relations Center" told UPI.

"The NEA is deeply concerned about the education these children receive."

The NEA statistics are the most solid figures yet on the sketchy subject of private academies in the South.

U.S. joins British in U.N. pullout

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Britain and the United States have pulled out of the U.N. General Assembly's special Committee on Decolonization, it was reported Monday.

The main reason, the sources said, was what the British and Americans considered a "militant" attitude often displayed by the committee which was set up in 1961 and is dominated by Afro-Asian and Communist bloc nations.

The British and Americans were also said to have pulled out—of—the decolonization committee because the General Assembly adopted last year—a far-reaching program on decolonization which, they feel comes too close to supporting actions by armed guerrillas against the remaining colonial territories in Africa and elsewhere.

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Veteran U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge was booted from the stage amid shouts of "pig" and "fascist" Monday when he attempted to deliver an address at Stanford University.

Lodge later made his speech in a smaller room with an audience about one-fifth the size of the crowd that packed Dinkelspiel Auditorium where he originally had been scheduled to make the opening address at a conference on the performance and prospects of the United Nations.

Student body officers, the chairman of the faculty senate and President Richard W. Lyman deplored the incident and apologized to Lodge, who said the interruption of his speech "speaks for itself."

One young woman who took part in the demonstration said it was aimed at Lodge for his support of the Vietnam War.

"He is one of the prime movers of the Vietnamese War and still is," she said. "Unless he is going to talk about leaving Vietnam, we feel he should leave wherever he is speaking."

About 800 persons were crowded into Dinkelspiel Auditorium when Lodge arose to make his address. About 150 members of the audience then began booing and shouting, prompting Lodge to fold his prepared text and leave the podium.

About 45 minutes later he delivered his address to 150 persons in Channing's Auditorium, calling on the United States and the Soviet Union to avoid sarcasm and investive in the United Nations and "strive for agreement."

Lodge's address opened a three-day conference on the United Nations, which is celebrating its 25th anniversary. The Hoover Institution at Stanford is sponsoring the conference.

German freighter sunk in collision

DUNGENESS, England (UPI) — A German freighter hit what was believed to be part of the hull of the tanker Texaco Caribbean in the English Channel today and sank within two minutes.

Coast Guard officials said 20 persons were missing and feared dead.

The 3,605-ton freighter Brandenburg sent a garbled distress message before sinking. Fishing vessels picked up survivors and several bodies. There were 32 persons, including four women, aboard the Brandenburg.

A spokesman for Lloyd's, which insured the German freighter, said "it is apparent that the Brandenburg struck the wreck of the Texaco Caribbean tanker."

The Brandenburg went down only two miles from where the 13,804-ton Panamanian tanker Texaco Caribbean and the Peruvian freighter Faracos collided Monday. The Texaco Caribbean exploded and split in two and the Faracos suffered damage but stayed afloat.

The captain and seven Italian crewmen of the Texaco Caribbean were missing and feared dead.

A number of fishing vessels in the area also helped pick up survivors.

NEWSMAP SPOTS the area where the German freighter Brandenburg went down in the English Channel today after hitting what is believed to be the wreck of the sunken oil tanker Texaco Caribbean. British Coast Guard officials said 20 persons are missing and feared dead. (UPI)

Toni Couch, Watson wed in home rites

TWIN FALLS — An afternoon wedding Christmas Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Couch was the setting for the double ring ceremony uniting in marriage their daughter, Toni, and Wesley F. Watson II, son of Ann Watson, Somerville, N.J., and the late Mr. Wesley F. Watson, Twin Falls. Rev. Henry Gerhardt performed the ceremony. The bride wore a beige and powder-blue dress with matching accessories and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and pink roses. Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Bradley Blegert, Bend, Ore. Best man was Patrick McCurley, Boise and Twin Falls. A reception was held at the Couch home that evening. The bride's table was centered with the wedding cake which was decorated with white bells and blue roses and presented by Mrs. Irene Melton, Godmother of Mrs. Watson. Special guests were the grandmother and great-aunt of the bride, Mrs. Elva Olson and Mrs. Alice Woodley. Other guests were greeted from Oregon, Washington, Coosello, Boise and Magic Valley. Mrs. Robert Colner and daughter, Linda, hosted a bride's shower at their home for Toni. The couple resides in Pocatello, where the bridegroom is enrolled at Idaho State University. The bride was graduated from Twin Falls High School and attended one year at Boise State College. Watson was graduated from Twin Falls High School and recently returned from Vietnam, where he served with the Rangers in the 9th Infantry Division and was awarded two Bronze Star Medals, one Air Medal, four Army Commendation medals with oak leaf clusters and a Purple Heart.

Enthusiastic crowd welcomes recital

By MARY JANE KINNEY — A Special Review. An enthusiastic crowd welcomed the first "Mini-Recital" presented in the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Auditorium Sunday afternoon. Co-sponsored by the Music Department and the Twin Falls Federated Music Club, this unique concert inaugurated what is hopefully to be a program designed to present talented Idaho musicians studying in Idaho universities and colleges to audiences throughout the state. The program was introduced by Mrs. William Watts, program chairman of the Twin Falls Music Club, who explained that the Idaho Federation of Music Clubs has inaugurated a small-recital bureau whose responsibility is to present talented young Idaho musicians of the college level in recital before various music clubs and college and community audiences. The recital bureau functions on an exchange level, giving the young artists an opportunity to be heard out of his or her college area. The underlying purpose of these "Mini Concerts" is to afford much-needed audience experience to Idaho's young musicians on a professional basis with the over-all development of its youth. The efforts of the Idaho Federated Music Clubs are to be commended for any exchange between geographical areas of our state stimulates good public relations, especially between North and South, and also brings to all Idaho residents a better understanding of the aims of our universities and colleges. Sunday's concert was presented by advanced music students of the University of Idaho, and was arranged by Dr. Floyd Peterson, head of the School of Music at the university. Dr. Peterson introduced the three extremely talented students who were featured in this recital. Laura Turner, violinist, a junior at the university, comes from Boise. Gary Heidel, Castleford, a baritone of exceptional lyric quality is a graduate student at the university. Margaret Van Orman, Jerome, pianist and accompanist, is a senior music

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I try not to yell at my mother because she is 82 years old, but I am wondering if I should say something about this.

At funerals lately she will walk up to the casket and kiss the corpse! The first time I saw her do this, I couldn't believe my eyes. The second time I was less shocked. Do other people do this? And if so, why? I think it is a soap opera touch—my mother has picked up someplace. What do you think? NO KISSER

DEAR NO: When mourners lose control of their emotions, such behavior is possible, but if you suspect your mother of "soap opera" dramas (and even if you don't), ask her to discontinue the practice.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a wonderful person. She is a good cook, housekeeper, laundress, seamstress, mother and she also works part time. She is always doing nice things for the neighbors, the kids' school and the church. I am not bad myself, I am steady at my job, I do a lot of work around the house, take good care of the yard and the cars. I make out the income tax, do all the check writing for the bills, and I even help her with the dishes and hang out the clothes and do some of the shopping. I don't run around with other women and I don't spend much on myself. The wife takes good care of me as far as my clothes and food are concerned, but she falls very short when it comes to being as intimate as a husband and wife should be. When I complain, she tells me I have to "earn" that. What does a husband have to do to "earn" that? WIFE KEPT BUT UNLOVED

DEAR UNLOVED: Why don't you ask your wife? And when she tells you, please let me know. The best thing in life are supposed to be free.

DEAR ABBY: All those people who write to you and ask if they should report suspected infidelities among their neighbors reminds me of an incident which happened here in East Texas. A local husband occasionally jumped the marital fence and strayed into fresh pastures. This wife was tolerant of these actions because otherwise he was a klap, thoughtful and loving husband. One day Mrs. Nosy called the wife and said, "I think you ought to know that your husband was seen going into the apartment of a young widow!" The wife replied, "Don't be jealous, honey, he'll get around to you pretty soon." Sincerely, R. W. W.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, please stamp, address and envelope.

Lap-robe project announced

TWIN FALLS — Making lap robes for the local nursing homes, this year's project for the Morningside Club, will begin this month it was announced today. During the January meeting at the home of Mrs. H. O. Widener, plans were made for a family winter party to be held Jan. 28 at the Senior Citizens Recreation Room. Secret pal gifts were received by Mrs. C. W. Westbrook, Mrs. Lynn Harris and Mrs. Jane Pollard. The white elephant gift was given to Mrs. Eugene Sney. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Pearl Federico and Mrs. Westbrook.

Mrs. Beilin each summer throughout her university years. She will present her senior recital at the University of Idaho next month. At the conclusion of the afternoon's landmark "Mini-Concert," the audience seemed to agree that it had been a rare privilege to hear and see these outstanding young people perform. All three young artists displayed such a poised and graceful manner in sharing their talents with us, that we could not help but be proud of Idaho youth. The College of Southern Idaho Music Department and the Twin Falls Federated Music Club are to be congratulated for initiating this concert idea. Special credit must go to Mrs. Donald Youtz, scholarship chairman of the local club, who was active in promoting this event and the successful reception held later at the Blue Lakes Country Club, and to Mrs. S. W. Smith, president of the Twin Falls Music Club. Any project that brings Idaho residents closer together is certainly to be encouraged, and it seems that the arts and humanities of our state have taken a lead in bringing us together.

TWIN FALLS — Linda Hollenbeak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hollenbeak, Twin Falls, became the bride of Gary Ordway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ordway, The Dalles, Ore., in a double ring ceremony Dec. 26 at the Holiday Inn.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length, white velvet gown, fashioned with a matching satin collar and cuffs. She carried a bouquet of miniature pink carnations and burgundy-colored rosebuds.

Connie Frith, roommate of the bride, served as maid of honor, with Jim Mahan, longtime friend of the bridegroom, The Dalles, serving as best man.

Members of the wedding party greeted guests before a white Austrian drapery with pink accents, accented with pink carpet, and columned cherub vases holding pink gladioli, burgundy-colored carnations and holiday evergreens.

The bride's round table, covered with floor-length lace, was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with pink and burgundy wisteria and topped with three wedding bells enhanced with dainty lace and tiny Lillies of the Valley.

The serving tables, placed before a background of sheer draperies, were covered with lace over pink and centered with lighted candles surrounded by pink roses, greenery and gold ball ornaments.

Guests were served at quartet tables covered with lace and centered with cherubs holding floral arrangements in the bride's colors of burgundy and pink.

Mrs. Bruce Compton registered the guests and Mrs. Jim Ballard was in charge of gifts. Cake was served by Karli Hoover, with Peggy Morrison, Mrs. Gary Logan and Mrs. Jess Bidegana, presiding at the punch bowls. Coffee was poured by Jayleen Ullman.

Special guests included the bridegroom's mother and sister, Mrs. Lloyd Ordway and Susan; the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Walker, Hillsboro, Ore.; and Mrs. Pearl Depoe, Carson, Wash. Other out-of-town guests attended from Boise, Pocatello, Halley, Buhl and Idaho Falls.

The couple resides in Idaho Falls, where the bridegroom is employed by Intermountain Surgical Supply Co.

FILER — Using a turn chart to illustrate her four points of discussion, Mrs. Lauren Butts reported on the book, "Church Meetings That Matter," to Filer American Baptist Women at their January evening meeting in the church it was announced today.

She noted the importance of all church members to participate in church affairs if the church and its organizations are to be productive and rewarding. Mrs. Gene Kovar was host for the meeting and Mrs. Joe Miller, president, called upon each member for her favorite scripture passage. Mrs. Roy Watson, program chairman, read three letters from special interest missionaries in response to Christmas gifts sent them.

Mrs. Ray Rutherford, white cross chairman, reported on an extra white cross quota from Mrs. Mable Olson who is working with Indians in Montana. Mrs. Rutherford also has the patterns for knitted socks and crocheted gloves for the Leprosy Clinic in New York and volunteers are needed to make the articles.

Mrs. Everett Andrews, social chairman, announced a work meeting was held Monday to move and arrange the dishes and supplies from the old kitchen to the new one in the educational building.

Mrs. Eliza Prough presented the devotional thought and read excerpts of a letter from Esther Wiebe, American Baptist missionary in India. Hostesses were Mrs. Kovar and Debra, Mrs. Russell McCauley, Suzanne Johnson and Phyllis Peterson.

The Feb. 7 meeting is Family Night and will feature a potluck dinner at 7 p.m. Rev. Robert Smith, Twin Falls, area American Baptist executive secretary, will be guest speaker. Mrs. Clarence Edwards will be devotional leader.

Winter concert scheduled

POCATELLO (ISU) — The Idaho State University Concert Band, under the direction of R. David Missal, will be presented in the annual Winter Concert Thursday at 8:15 p. m. in Goranson Hall in the ISU Fine Arts Building.

This 75-member group will perform a varied program, including the "Liberty Bell March" by J. P. Sousa;

"Euryanthe Overture" by Weber; the "Songs of Abelard" by Norman Deljo Jojo for concert band and baritone voice; the "Third Suite" by Robert Jager; the "Passeacaglia and Fugue in C Minor" by J. S. Bach, and the "Gallant Boulevardier" by J. Casavias. Lonnie Cline, a senior music major, from Pocatello, and Mountain Home, will be featured soloist in the "Songs of Abelard" by Deljo Jojo. "This composition is one of the very few written for the concert band with vocal soloist using the voice as an instrument of the band as well as soloist," Missal said. "Cline is well known as soloist and student director with the ISU Concert Choir and several local church choirs."

1st benefit party held

HANSEN — Mrs. Cioe Weech and Norville Reynolds were high score winners at the first in a series of 10 benefit card parties co-sponsored by the Modern Woodmen of America and Royal Neighbor Lodge Saturday at Woodman Hall. Mrs. Mary Taylor and O. F. Jacobs, both Twin Falls, were second high winners. Arthur Adams, Twin Falls, won traveling prize and Roy Leedoiff was presented a special prize. Mrs. Jacobs won the cake. Another party will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday at the hall.

The ISU Concert Band will inaugurate its 14th season under the baton of Missal, an associate professor of music. "The public is cordially invited to attend the concert and there is no charge," he said.

Soviet bloc fighters superior over Europe

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Soviet bloc fighters outnumber those of the United States and its NATO Allies in the skies of Europe by a margin of 6 to 1 and are a cause of serious concern for the air planners of the Western Alliance.

This is the conclusion from a series of conversations with responsible Allied air officers who generally painted a bleak picture of the comparative state of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's air defenses.

One high ranking military source said that in the event of war "it could be a matter of days or only hours before our fighter defenses would be swept from the skies."

The basic deterrent to Russia, of course, is the nuclear might and missiles of the United States, stationed in the continental United States, in submarines under the seas and in Europe itself. However, the scenario of NATO's latest flexible defense strategy calls for conventional forces in Europe to face up to at least the initial stages of any conventional Soviet attack. Only later, according to that scenario, would a decision be made whether to use the nuclear missiles.

Recent Allied intelligence reports show the Soviet Union like the United States, possesses second strike capability. European theorists have pointed out that for a U.S. president this means any decision to use American ICBMs would ensure that large areas of the continental United States would inevitably be devastated by the second strike from the Soviet Union.

Many European officials have professed skepticism whether the American president would decide to use the ICBMs in the event of a localized attack across the Iron Curtain frontier. NATO analysts have to take account of the possibility that in some future situation Communist forces might decide that the risk of American ICBM retaliation was so slight that they could risk a conventional assault.

It is against this background that some European NATO experts are worried about the growing Soviet superiority in conventional forces in Europe. Russia and its Warsaw Pact allies have more than 3,000 first lie supersonic fighters in the central European area according to Allied intelligence reports.

NATO's fighter strength is put at 600. But Allied experts also said that numbers in themselves need not necessarily be determinative. "It's the quality of Soviet fighter aircraft that is outstanding. Some of our planes are not designed to fight at medium and low altitudes where most future combat would take place," a fighter pilot said. "And when I speak of medium and low levels, I mean from 75 feet up to, say, 10,000 feet."

According to Western intelligence sources nearly all Soviet bloc fighter units are equipped with various versions of the MIG 21. The delta-wing fighter, which can fly at mach 2, or twice the speed of sound at higher altitudes, is seen by experts as an ideal low-level fighter as well.

Intelligence reports said the Soviets are currently re-equipping the squadrons in their 24th Air Army in East Germany with the 'J-1' model of the MIG 21.

This latest version of the airplane also has been spotted in limited numbers in Egypt, flown by Soviet pilots, western intelligence reports said. It is said to have "highly sophisticated" electronic gear, a twin-barrel air-to-air cannon and four radar-guided air-to-air missiles. It is equipped with variable geometry air intakes, to split the supersonic shock wave at varying speeds for best engine performance.

Even more sophisticated Soviet fighters than the MIG 21, are stationed deep inside Russia with the mission to intercept any intruding bombers, intelligence reports said. So far they are not assigned to battlefield combat roles in central Europe.

Allied aviation experts pointed out that Soviet designers are turning out about three prototypes of new fighter aircraft every year, readying them for production if flight tests are satisfactory.

On the other hand, they said, the West has allowed its fighter arsenal to atrophy.

The United States only recently contracted with the Grumman and McDonnell-Douglas companies for development of a new generation of fighters, the Navy's F 14 and the Air Force's F 15. They are not to become operational for several years.

College money aid required

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American private colleges and universities need significant aid soon to arrest a trend which has plunged the average institution from the black into the red in a period of three years, a survey showed Sunday. The study by the Association of American Colleges (AAC) blamed the financial plight of private colleges upon rising costs of instruction, construction, maintenance and security in "a decade of growing inflation and increased demands for services."

The AAC said questionnaires distributed to 733 institutions showed the "average" private college finished 1968 with a funds surplus. One year later, it finished with a deficit; and during the next year the deficits grew by five times.

William W. Jellena, AAC research director, said private higher education in the United States incurred a "rough estimate" deficit of $370 million during the four years covered by the survey. "Private colleges and universities are apprehensive and they have reason to be," Jellena said. "Most colleges in the red are staying in the red and many are getting redder, while colleges in the black are generally growing grayer. Taken collectively, they will not long be able to serve higher education and the nation with strength unless significant aid is soon forthcoming."

Shipping cost hikes merchandise prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Getting that new refrigerator or sofa from warehouse to distributor to consumer sounds easy enough, but it's not.

Matter of fact, it's a major reason for today's soaring prices.

The warehouse industry, which has a big stake in the subject, figures that the consumer sometimes pays as much as $30 on a $200 item just getting it moved from factory to home. Fort per cent is a big bite. So the industry, which has about a quarter of a billion square feet of warehouse space in operation, is trying to get the job done cheaper to avoid consumer flak.

The D. H. Overmyer Company Inc., the largest public warehousing organization in the United States with 27 million square feet of space, has started sending its employees back to school. Robert D. Schmidt, Overmyer president, says the educational effort has, among other things, cut shipping time by 10 per cent.

George Ludwig, 32 and a warehouseman since 1965, is a typical student in the training program scheduled to "graduate" 800 this first year.

The Overmyer school involves on-the-job training. "That's fine for me. Going back to a regular school would be impossible since my wife and kids depend on that weekly pay check," said Ludwig. "This is a good way to learn more and have a chance of going to foreman."

The "school" teaches efficiency through better knowledge of the job and why it's being done a certain way. One example is the teaching of the way to unload canned food: A three-man crew working at a rate of $10 per man-hour should unload eight standard railroad box cars in eight hours, a normal working day. On this basis, the railroads allow 24 hours for unloading before a freight car customer is charged for demurrage.

The training course teaches ways to get that job done in eight hours. The system calls for eight warehouse doors used simultaneously for receiving common goods from eight box cars. The crew rotates from one door to the next, picking up goods as they are placed on the loading dock from the car, eliminating all waiting time. If there are no goods at one door, they simply move on to the next.

A simple improvement such as eight-door unloading, says Schmidt, can reduce man-hours as much as 30 per cent. The customer also avoids penalty charges by the railroad. Those savings mean lower prices for the consumer.

Color TV set taken

TWIN FALLS — Theft of a 21-inch color television from one of the rooms at the Holiday Inn was being investigated Monday by city police.

Motel officials told officers the unit was in the room when the room was cleaned Sunday morning but after a guest checked in later in the day he called to ask why there was no television set in his room and employees found it had been removed. The firm's manager estimated the value at $350.

Auto part theft told

KIMBERLY — Tom Flynn, Kimberly, reported to sheriff's officers Sunday someone stole a transmission from his Kimberly shop.

He said it is a 1966 Chevrolet transmission valued at about $300. He told officers he would be in to sign a complaint against two suspects Monday.

Jerome approves new dress code

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News Correspondent
JEROME — An amended dress code was adopted Monday evening by the Jerome school board.

John Campbell, superintendent, outlined the amended code, noting that the major change in the code was girls' skirt lengths. He said the lengths can coincide with style consciousness, design and propriety.

The trustees stressed that propriety is the key word in deciding the length of skirts. A sense of what's proper and fitting and decent should be taken into consideration with the style, they noted.

Campbell said the code says that girls are not allowed to wear boys' tight jeans, but slacks and pantsuits are now acceptable at anytime. No shorts are allowed and pantsuits may be worn if not shorter than a reasonable length for dresses, and only if they have pleats.

Baro feet are not acceptable at anytime, Campbell stressed, on girls' hair, the code states no bangs lower than the eyebrows.

The amended code states boys' hair cannot be over the eyebrows or ears and no longer than normal dress collar. No sideburns can be longer than the bottom of the ear and no mustaches or beards are allowed.

Campbell said socks must be worn with shoes or sandals for boys and shirts with tails must be worn inside the trousers.

The board decided not to change the code regarding boys' hair length, but Gordon Overfield, trustee, suggested that boys who wish to wear longer hair should personally check with teachers, counselors, principals and the school board to determine if allowed to wear hair longer.

Campbell said the penalties for this violation are: First offense, the student will meet with the principal and he may suspend the student; second offense, meet with parents and principal; may suspend, and third offense, meet with school board, may suspend or expel the student.

In other action the school board read a letter from D.F. Engelking, Boise, superintendent of public instruction, stating that beginning with the 1971-72 school year all teachers must have certification and letters of authorization before contracts can be signed.

The board approved two letters of authorization for Mrs. Mable Overfield, special physical education, and Mrs. Irene LeBelley, commercial instructor.

All Burley debt paid, mayor says

By GEORGIA LAYTON Times-News Correspondent
BURLEY — The city of Burley has paid all its current debt, compared to $127,000 owed a year ago, Mayor Garis Robertson told Burley Chamber of Commerce members at the weekly luncheon meeting Monday noon.

He said some of the bills dated back to 1968 when his administration took over. He said, however, the city is not completely out of debt, for there still are $130,000 in tax anticipation notes which are outstanding $100,000 of which were inherited from the previous administration.

Outlining some of the accomplishments during the past year, the mayor said the runway at the Burley airport was paved at a cost of $12,000. This project had to be done on the Federal Aviation Agency would have closed the runway, Robertson said. He said about $10,000 per year comes from the airport in tax levies, gasoline taxes and hangar rent.

Library board at Hailey set

HAILEY — The Hailey City Council appointed a new library board Monday evening.

Dale Peterson, council chairman, said Marge Jensen and Alva Arndt were re-appointed to the board. New members appointed were Betty Hull and Betty Stevens.

Dr. K. R. Plumber, Boise, contractor for the city's new sewer system, asked the council for a time extension on phase one because of the weather.

Jerome officials sworn in JEROME — Jerome County officials were sworn in Monday morning by John VanOrman, county commissioner, and Cleo Ambrose, commissioner chairman.

Jerome had only one change in its county officials. Gene Fredericksen, who was elected in November as a write-in independent candidate, was sworn in as prosecuting attorney, replacing S.A. Kolman.

Other officials sworn in for another term were Mrs. Ella McVey, clerk; Cleo Ambrose and Claude Bernard, county commissioners; Jay Howard Jensen, assessor; Dr. L. M. Neher, coroner; Carl Stephens, treasurer; and Charles J. Andrus, constable.

Hollenbeck heads Rupert commission

By JUNE DRAGE Times-News Correspondent
RUPERT — Wayne Hollenbeck was named chairman of the Minidoka County commission Monday evening in a swearing-in ceremony conducted by District Judge Sherman Bellwood.

Hollenbeck replaces Alex Roemer in the post. Roemer, a holdover member, will serve as vice chairman.

New among the official county family is Elmer Katterling, who was sworn in as second district county commissioner, a post formerly held by Burt Van Every, who was defeated in the August primary election. Katterling is a farmer in the Rupert area. This is his first political office.

Other county officials installed were Claude Bowman, assessor; Phyllis Norby, treasurer; August Bothke, auditor and clerk; Don Chisholm, prosecuting attorney; Robert Walk, coroner.

Shaud takes post

JEROME — Russell Shaud became Jerome county's official magistrate Monday. He was formerly the county's probate judge.

Judge Shaud was born in Anville, Pa., and served with the Army Air Corps in the Pacific Theater operations and took his pre-law schooling at Dixon College, Carlisle, Pa. He obtained the law degree from University of Idaho in 1961 and was admitted to private practice that same year.

He opened his first law office in Hazelton. Soon afterwards he established his law office in Jerome. From 1957-1962 he instructed business law and U.S. government classes at Jerome High School.

OFFICER FRANK LUMM of the Twin Falls Police Department investigates a two-car collision which occurred about 3 p.m. Monday at Second Avenue North and Third Street North. Driver of this car, Juan José Dominguez, 29, Jackson, stands in the background. Driver of the other car, Karen Booth, 25, Twin Falls, was taken by ambulance to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. She was treated and released. She received a citation for failure to yield the right of way after her vehicle attempted to cross Second Avenue North and drove into the path of the northbound car operated by Dominguez.

Distributive education plan OK'd

TWIN FALLS — Approval of a distributive education program for the Twin Falls High School, to start with the second semester Jan. 25, was announced today by Dr. Ernest Ragland, district superintendent.

Students an opportunity to combine classwork with on-the-job training and offer job opportunities for many of the students.

Ragland said tentative approval has been given an instructor although a contract has not yet been signed. The instructor will also supervise the young students on their jobs.

Dr. Ragland said the program is financed by state funds for about 30 per cent of the total cost with about $5,000 in equipment and teaching material also provided by the state. He said this will be part of the school's vocational training but is a complete new phase.

School chief retained

RICHFIELD — The Richfield School Board retained Superintendent Nell Anderson Monday night, giving him a two-year contract with an increase in salary for the first year.

Anderson's salary will be "open to negotiation" during the second year of the contract, the trustees said.

Anderson was also given permission to attend a meeting of superintendents in Boise this week.

Trustees also voted to purchase a new front door for the high school, to replace a worn-out door presently in place. The District Five basketball tournament will be played in Richfield from Feb. 25-27.

Elementary teachers were given permission to attend a workshop at Dietrich today. The elementary students will remain in class, with high school girls helping as monitors.

The board employed Jackie Rohwer as a library assistant at Harrison Grade School. Dr. Ragland noted this is the first personnel change in the program for the grade schools since the program began in 1965 and Mrs. Rohwer is filling the vacancy left by the death of Louise DePaul.

Wendell accepts billboard

WENDELL — The Wendell School Board accepted a billboard Monday evening during a meeting.

Doug Huff asked the board to accept the billboard advertising school activities. It is placed at Zollinger's American Service and was built and paid for by the Wendell Booster Club.

New grade building examined

HANSEN — A new elementary school building, mill levy and a new bus were discussed during the Hansen school board meeting Monday evening.

Supt. William C. Barnard said no action was taken on these matters and they will be discussed at future meetings.

Pilot finished

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Paramount Television completed production of its 90-minute feature television pilot, "Escape," starring Christopher George and Avery Schreiber.

The board accepted, Larue said, a recommendation by Jim Benson, vocational agriculture instructor, for on-the-job training for vocational students. Senior boys will be placed in work experience programs with local businesses.

3 contracts offered

SHOSHONE — Contracts were offered to all three school administrators at the Shoshone school board meeting Monday night.

Supt. Kenneth Crothers and Principals Carl Kinney, high school, and Jack Bowlin, elementary school, will have until April 1 to notify the board if they accept the contracts.

Trustees approved hiring of Joe Gonzales, Shoshone, as custodian at the high school, replacing Frank Lane, who retires Jan. 18, and Martin Lueders, as grade school custodian to replace Read Hansen, who resigned as custodian in December. The posts pay $4,650 and $4,300.

The board approved insulating the ceilings at the elementary school next year, at a cost of approximately $2,000. Members also allowed $500 toward the purchase of a new lawnmower, as a joint project with the city of Shoshone and Lincoln county fair board. The machine will be used by all three agencies.

Trustees decided to apply to the Idaho Department of Education for permission to hold an arc welding course for adults in the vocational education program.

Richfield budget approved

RICHFIELD — The Richfield City Board set the proposed budget for the year, named a dog-license deadline and retained city officials at their January meeting Monday night at the city office.

Library board at Hailey set

HAILEY — The Hailey City Council appointed a new library board Monday evening.

Dale Peterson, council chairman, said Marge Jensen and Alva Arndt were re-appointed to the board. New members appointed were Betty Hull and Betty Stevens.

Dr. K. R. Plumber, Boise, contractor for the city's new sewer system, asked the council for a time extension on phase one because of the weather.

Secretary selected by board

RICHFIELD — The Richfield Library Board named Mrs. Carl Paulson as new secretary, succeeding Mrs. Max Bohr, Monday evening.

Two Twin Falls librarians are presently cataloguing children's books in the Richfield Library. Including Charlene Orr, regional assistant librarian, and Sally Carpenter, Twin Falls children's librarian.

Changes in-rules sought

HOUSTON (UPI) — College football coaches Monday suggested an NCAA rule change to prohibit blocking below the waist on punt returns to cut down on knee injuries.

Coaches also recommended calling a touchback on any kick that lands in the end zone, regardless of whether it bounces back over the goal line.

The changes, recommended by the rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association, will go to the NCAA football rules committee this week for final consideration.

The coaches' association is meeting in conjunction with the 65th annual NCAA convention.

Under current rules, a kick that lands in the end zone and bounces back to die on the one or two yard line is put into play where it dies. The new rule would make it a touchback when it reaches the end zone and the ball would be put into play on the 20-yard-line. This rule already exists in professional football.

The rule to forbid blocking below the waist beyond the line of scrimmage on a punt was recommended in an attempt to cut down on knee injuries resulting from these blocks, according to Jack Curtice, chairman of the coaches rules committee.

Curtice, humane director for the University of California at Santa Barbara, said 75 per cent of all knee injuries in games occur during punt returns. If adopted, the new penalty would be classified as clipping.

The committee voted against a proposal to abolish the two platoon system, it was offered by coach Dave Nelson of Delaware, but did not get support, Nelson said.

Coaches also voted to change the touchback rule on offensive pass interference in the end zone. If a defensive back is interfered with in his own end zone, it is now ruled a touchback and the defensive team is given the ball on its own 20-yard line.

The coaches recommended the offensive team be allowed to keep possession but to be penalized 15 yards.

Webster named 'coach of year'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Alex Webster, whose job was in danger when the New York Giants lost their first three games, was named the United Press International Coach of the Year in the National Football Conference Monday for leading the team to a remarkable comeback.

After the bad start, the Giants rallied to win nine of their last 11 games and were in contention for the NFC's Eastern Division crown until they lost their final game of the season. The players credited Webster for the comeback because he never lost confidence in them.

Webster received 10 votes from UPI's panel of 36 writers in the 13 league cities to beat out Charlie Winner, the deposed coach of the St. Louis Cardinals, for the honor. Winner, who was fired after the

St. Louis has win over Tulsa

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Senior Guard Jim Irving scored 32 points and forward Harry Rogers added 21, both career highs, to give the St. Louis University Billikens a 79-65 Missouri Valley Conference victory over Tulsa Monday night.

Irving, who had only eight during a cold first half, ripped off 10 of the Billikens' first 12 points after intermission as St. Louis jumped from a 28-27 margin to a six-point lead. Irving now needs only one point to join the 1000-point club and currently ranks No. 8 among all-time Billiken scorers.

Reserve center Bob Wade came off the bench in the second half to provide 13 points for St. Louis, now 1-1 in the conference and 5-4 overall.

Dana Lewis paced the Golden Hurricane, now 1-3 in the MVC and 8-7 overall, with 21 points.

Eye record...
SECOND AND THIRD to Babe Ruth's 714 home run total, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, left, with 592 and Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants with 628 plan to compete in the fifth annual Astrojet Golf Classic on Feb. 5-7. The two were in New York Monday to sign up for the classic and to take a long hard look at Ruth's record to see if they can match it. (UPI)

Mays, Aaron eye Ruth's record

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willie Mays and Hank Aaron, No. 2 and No. 3 on baseball's all-time home run list, took a long, hard look Monday at their chances of cracking Babe Ruth's colossal career record of 714.

"I don't know if I can make it," said the 39-year-old Mays, who needs 86 more homers to tie Ruth's mark. Willie has hit 628 in 10 seasons with the Giants of New York and San Francisco.

"My chances are very good," said Aaron, who'll be 37 in February as he heads for spring training with 122 more to go to match the one-Ruthian-record old-timers keep insisting is out of reach. Hank has hit 592 for the Braves of Milwaukee and Atlanta.

Mays feels any chance he might have had to surmount the record was lost while he was in the Army in 1952-53, just about the time he should have been getting his feet solidly planted as a major leaguer.

"I was young and strong at that time," Mays said. "I should have added 50 or maybe 60 home runs to my total in those years. But now I don't believe in goals. I can keep playing as long as I can help the club."

"It's not embarrassing them yet."

Mays hit 28 homers last season, just over twice his output of the year before. He says he feels great and is looking forward to his 20th season but the year and, knows it.

Aaron is more optimistic about his assault on Ruth's record, as he should be with a two year edge in age on Willie and long balls still flying off his bat. Aaron clouted 38 a year ago.

"I'm more home run conscious than I used to be," said Aaron. "I suppose that happens when the corps start coming closer to you. But getting to 714 depends a lot on what kind of years Orlando Cepeda and Rico Carty have, too."

"If they're going good, the pitchers have to pitch to me. If they're going bad, they can pitch around me. That happened in 1968 when Rico was out

Air Force outscored by Lobos

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—New Mexico outscored the Air Force Academy 12-0 midway through the first half Monday, then held off a last-minute Falcon rally to score a 73-56 non-conference basketball victory.

The Air Force held a 9-5 lead with 13:35 left but did not score again until 0:06 remained in the opening half, while the Lobos ran off 12 points, six of them by 6-8 center Willie Long.

The stubborn Falcons got to within three points with 19 seconds left before two free throws by sophomore guard Tommy Roberts led the game for the Lobos.

Long led New Mexico with 17 points while Falcon center Ron Wellert hit 21, 14 of them in the second half.

New Mexico is now 1-3 and the Air Force is 2-3.

Western Kentucky wins 12th

BOWLING Green, Ky. (UPI)—Western Kentucky's fifth-ranked Hilltoppers raced to their 12th victory in 13 starts with an 85-43 win over Ohio Valley Conference rival Morehead State Monday night.

Western charged to an early 12-0 lead on the shooting of 6-foot-5 forward Jerry Dunn, who scored in 17 points in the first nine minutes of play.

Dunn led Western scorers with 24 points. The only other Hilltopper in double figures was center Jim Mc Daniels, who managed only 10 points, a career low.

Mc Daniels grabbed the game high in rebounds with 14.

The game's high scorer was Morehead forward Jerry Hueseman who connected on 11 of 19 shots from the field and added eight free throws for a total of 30 points.

Western improved their OVC record to 4-0. The hapless Eagles suffered their 10th straight loss and are winless in the OVC.

Cavs down Carolina

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI)—Virginia's Barry Parkhill hit a jump shot with six seconds left in the game Monday to boost the Cavaliers to a 50-49 upset win over sixth-ranked South Carolina, scoreless for the last seven minutes of the game.

It was the second straight one-point loss for South Carolina, which was beaten by Maryland 31-30 Saturday.

Carolina had the halftime lead Monday 32-28, but Virginia chewed it away, bedeviling the Gamecocks in the second half with ball control.

Parkhill, Virginia's talented sophomore, sank a pair of foul shots with 3:09 left to put the game within reach although the Cavaliers still trailed 49-48.

Lack of snow hits Alpine ski circuit

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland (UPI)—Lack of snow — the worst since the "dusty" Winter Olympics at Innsbruck, Austria, seven years ago — and a springlike sun in the Alps have caused complete confusion about the racing schedule for the Alpine ski circuit.

Woschitz are the famous Swiss resorts, Grindelwald and Wengen. There is not even enough snow for tourists, who all have left the brown mountain slopes.

"Snow fell only twice in October, and once shortly before Christmas. That's all we had this winter," a spokesman said.

Grindelwald had to cancel the downhill of its traditional ladies ski races, and will hold two special slaloms instead, one on Tuesday and one on Friday. But only Friday's event will count towards the World Cup.

The slalom course had to be prepared with the help of a snow machine and tons of water splashed over a sunprotected mountainside. As a result, the course is icy and stone hard.

The Lanzmann Classic for men has been switched from Wengen to St. Moritz, where reportedly there is enough snow to stage a downhill on Saturday and the slalom on Sunday.

St. Moritz organizers immediately took over when Wengen had to cancel the downhill, the blue ribbon of Alpine skiing.

St. Moritz is applying for the 1974 World Alpine skiing championships. A World Cup race on their new course approved by the International LET'S SAY a doodler's moon face is a circle with three dots in it. And let's say you sit down with a pad of paper and start drawing such moon faces. How long would it take you to get bored? Maybe 60 seconds? No, probably longer. Scholars at the University of California tried this boredom test on a sizeable batch of grownups and found the average citizen, that patient soul, kept at it for 17 minutes before tossing down the pencil. This experiment is supposed to measure your resistance to getting fad up. Might try it.

KLEINFELTERSVILLE in Pennsylvania is the longest one-word name of any town in the country, I think.

THE NAME JULIUS means soft-bearded. Or it did. In old Rome. But not anymore, of course. How could a mother know to call her newborn infant soft-bearded? Better the christen it Aquarius Terminus or some such. . . . A SWEDISH AUTHORITY on the arts insists the model for Leonardo da Vinci's Mona Lisa was not a woman, but a young man. The same young man, he contends, who modeled for the faces of John the Saint and Bacchus the Boozer.

IF A STRANGE BLONDE flirts with your gentleman friend, young lady, think nothing of it. A man expects a blonde to be flirtatious. He's ready for her. But if a strange brunette flirts with the old boy, look out. She can catch him off guard. Rare is the fellow who is prepared to deal with a flirtatious brunette. Besides, the blonde flirts hit and miss. Just a game. But when the brunette flirts, she zeroes in. Her campaign is underway. Or so contends another of our Love and War man's numerous highly experienced advisers.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "No doubt you're acquainted with Smoky, but have you ever met Gladly, the cross-eyed bear?" - A. Nope, never heard of him. - Q. "How many drops in a teaspoonful?" - A. Technically, 120.

WHILE IT LASTS, your old hair is always falling out and your new hair is always growing in, that you know. All right, it's a fact the new hair grows twice as fast as the old. . . . NOBODY, NOT a soul, contradicted old Abe Martin when he said, "I don't know of nothin' better than a woman if you want to spend money where it'll show."

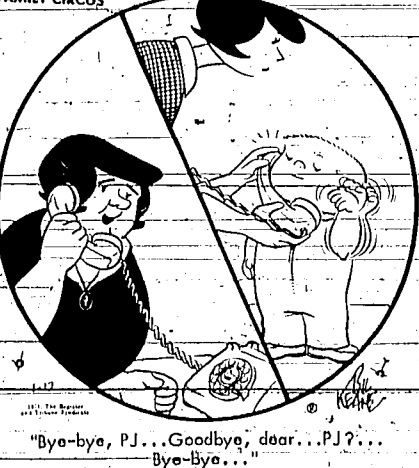

IN CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., the thoroughfare of the night ladies years ago was called Meyers Avenue, a most remarkable redlight enclave. The author Julian Street alluded to it repeatedly in his book, "Abroad at Home." This shook up the townsmen so greatly they called a mass meeting to devise revenge. Boycott, maybe. Or lawsuit. Something, anyway. But in the noise of their indignation, a councilman rose quietly and said, "Gentlemen, let's mark this man's affront for all time. I move the name of Meyers Avenue be changed to Julian Street." Whooop went the crowd. And so it was.

D & B's PEANUT DAYS

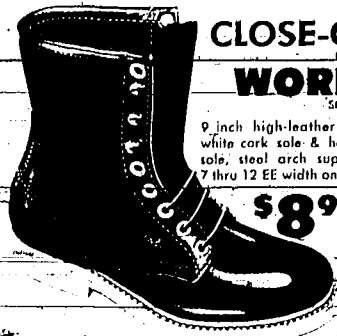

8 TH ANNUAL

JAN. 13-14-15-16

JAN. 13-14-15-16

Once a year we hold what we call our "Peanut Days." We have certain selected items we feature with Special Prices (we practically sell these items for peanuts). Some items that are not in season yet we take "pre-season" orders and have special incentives to place your orders at this time. There are also some new items we will have this coming year — and these will be featured with special introductory prices and will be on display! During Peanut Days we will have FREE — Fresh Roasted, Salted in the shell PEANUTS in large containers. Grab a handful and shuck 'em out and enjoy 'em while you shop. Just toss the shells on the floor!! We'd like to see how deep they get in 4 days!

ALSO while you're in the store be sure to register for the FREE Hawaiian Winter Vacation to be given away by the Twin Falls Merchants — We'd like to see one of our customers win it!!
