Perfect launch

APOLLO 14 spacecraft lifts off in perfect fashion Sunday afternoon after a short delay. But shortly into the mission the rosy picture turned gray, as the astronauts reported difficulty in linking the lunar lander with the command module. Despite the final successful link-up, the moon landing was still in doubt. (UPI)

Apollo latches may abort trip

(SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—The Apollo 14 astronauts probed and jiggled the docking mechanism of their lunar-lander today searching for what caused its malfunction, while experts on the ground huddled to decide whether the problems were serious enough to abort the moonwalk.

As Alan Shepard, Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell hurried toward the moon, space agency officials in Houston said they might wait until the last minute—2:40 a.m. EST Thursday—to decide whether to let the team explore the hilly Fra Mauro sector of the lunar surface.

The trouble developed Sunday night, when for a lunar hour and 44 minutes the astronauts struggled to lock the Kitty Hawk command ship and the Antares moon lander.

On the sixth try the space pilots gave an extra hard shove with their steering rockets and linked the two craft. But the tricky latching procedure raised questions about risking Friday's scheduled moon landing. The two ships would have to link up again Sunday for the return to earth, and a recurrence of the docking problem could endanger moonwalkers Shepard and Mitchell.

The astronauts asked Mission Control if they could go to sleep 20 minutes early—and settled down at 7:45 a.m. for a scheduled 10-hour rest period.

Before that, they exchanged information with ground control about the oxygen flow in the command module. Authorities said the oxygen flow was "higher than normal but not excessively high." An open valve in the waste management system was blamed for the flow and was fixed before the astronauts bedded down.

Although the space pilots were hounded by some problems, their course was so true that an early morning correction was canceled.

Shepard, America's pioneer astronaut, and rookie Roosa and Mitchell blasted off at 4:03 p.m. EST Sunday after black storm clouds over Cape Kennedy forced a 40-minute delay in the countdown. The next difficulty was the docking, an event handled routinely on six previous Apollo missions.

Bob Gordon, a space agency spokesman, said a final decision must be made on whether to scrub the moon landing sometime before the maneuver Thursday that puts Apollo 14 into orbit around the moon. Space agency officials said they weren't rushing themselves.

Roosa clambered into the tunnel connecting the Kitty Hawk and the Antares just after 3 a.m. EST today. After 65 minutes of probing, twisting, jiggling and pushing, he told ground controllers he could not find what caused the docking problem.

"We've cycled it four or five times and it just goes in so easily," Roosa said.

Although the latches worked manually when Roosa fiddled with them, there was no guarantee the docking problem would not recur at the critical period the astronauts were trying to link up again for the return flight to earth Sunday. Ground experts weighed the danger of a repeat malfunction against the importance of the mission's success.

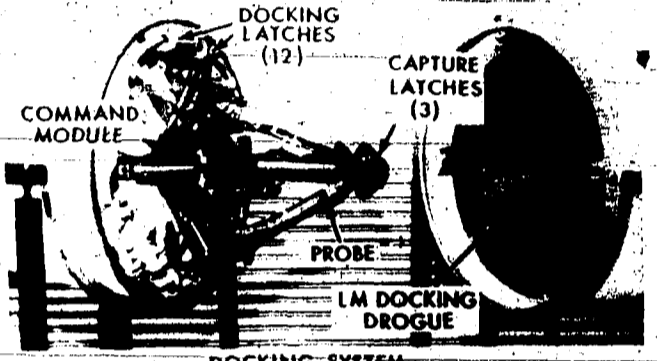

Although Roosa could not pinpoint the problem with the lunar lander latches, he discovered six scratches on the docking mechanism, ranging in length from 3/4 of an inch to two inches. "They are very definite scratches—very rough to the touch," he said.

The astronauts telecast their jiggling of the mechanisms back to Houston, where the ground experts tried unsuccessfully to spot the reason for the malfunction.

"We've cycled it four or five times and it just goes in so easily," Roosa said. "It holds it."

The astronaut did find some small scratches on the lunar landing part of the docking mechanism. The six scratches ranged from 3/4 of an inch to

One dies in L.A. rampage

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—One man was shot and killed and at least 45 other persons were wounded or injured in violent skirmishes Sunday between sheriff's deputies and Mexican-American youths following a window-breaking, looting rampage in a business area in the East Los Angeles barrio.

A 10-acre area was declared in a state of emergency. The county Board of Supervisors put a 6:20 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew into effect.

The violence erupted following a peaceful demonstration by 5,000 Chicanos at Belvedere Park to protest alleged police brutality against Mexican-Americans.

A sheriff's spokesman said at least 50 persons were arrested on charges ranging from failure to disperse to assault on an officer.

The windows of at least 60 businesses were smashed and several stores were looted.

Nine buildings including a bank and an automobile dealership were set ablaze by firebombs. A liquor store and ball bonds building were gutted while damage to Pan American National Bank was estimated at $15,000.

Sheriff Peter Pitchess said the shooting death resulted when six deputies near the bank were confronted by about 500 to 600 demonstrators who hurled missiles and advanced on the officers. Pitchess said the deputies fired warning shots over the heads of the crowd with shotguns and also fired shots into the ground.

Shortly after darkness came to the area, Pitchess said deputies were in control of the situation. He said 500 officers were used in the area at the peak of the violence.

Israeli commandos stage raids

By United Press International

Helicopter-borne Israeli commandos struck twice into Lebanon during the night and attacked Arab guerrilla hideouts, Israeli spokesmen reported in Tel Aviv. Guerrillas struck twice in the occupied Gaza Strip, wounding 61 Arabs in an attack on a post office and attacking an Israeli truck.

The ceasefire still held along the Suez Canal and Jordanian frontier but Syria joined Egypt in calling up reserves as four Arab nations went on a full war footing. With the cease-fire expiring on Friday, Egypt once more emphasized its hard line negotiating stand.

The target of the Israeli attacks were the town of El Khayam, four miles inside Lebanon, and the nearby village of Qila, due north of the Sea of Galilee and about 25 miles inland from the coast. It was the first Israeli strike into Lebanon since a raid Jan. 15 against a guerrilla frogman base on the coast.

An Israeli military spokesman said the raids Sunday night and early today were in retaliation for 10 raids against Israeli border villages by Palestinian guerrillas based in Lebanon.

Watch for shadows

For those not quite ready to accept the judgment of weather satellites to foretell the weather, that time-honored prophet of the elements will make his appearance Tuesday. Tuesday is Groundhog Day. If the old varmint sees his shadow, folk wisdom has it, he is so frightened he goes underground for six more weeks of winter.

Of course many children of the age of space exploration and the bomb may doubt the prophet's judgment.

But just to be on the safe side, the Times-News urges you to check how the groundhog fares with his shadow tomorrow.

Hit-run balloon smites car

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—A hit-and-run balloon was blamed Sunday for a balloon-automobile crash near here—perhaps the first in history.

Two participants in the St. Paul Winter Carnival balloon race were sailing along at about 50 feet, when a strong downdraft sent the balloon skidding onto the ice of White Bear Lake.

Nixon modifies price, job goals

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today abandoned his hopes for full employment with stable prices by mid-1972, and substituted an election-year goal of a 4.5 per cent jobless rate coupled with 3 per cent inflation.

The President's annual economic report to Congress said an effort to push unemployment now at a nine-year high of 6 per cent of the workforce down to the full employment level of 4 per cent or less by the middle of next year would risk runaway inflation.

Although he toned down his earlier goal of prompt return to full employment, Nixon optimistically predicted "1971 will be a better year (than 1970), leading to a good year in 1972—and to a new steadiness of expansion in the years beyond."

"The rate of unemployment should decline as fast as is consistent with a reasonably steady and durable decline in the rate of inflation," the report said. "We believe that the numbers we have proposed—an unemployment rate in the

TWIN FALLS — Winner of the Times-News-sponsored "Magic of Hawaii" tour is Mrs. Polly Skurtzoff, 1617 Poplar St. The entry was from Van's Department Store.

The winning entry was drawn Monday morning by Little Kelli Stewart, daughter of Mrs. Pat Stewart, Twin Falls.

The winner will receive two expense-paid trips for 10 exciting days in Hawaii and the merchant also will receive two free trips. The group of Idaho travelers will leave Twin Falls Feb. 15 and return Feb. 25, with Norma Herzinger, Times-News women's editor, as tour host.

Hijackers demand prisoner release

RAWALPINDI (UPI)—Two demands. The passengers and crew returned to India by road today.

The Pakistan government granted political asylum to the hijackers Sunday, but the youths said their major demand was the "release of all political prisoners rotting in Indian jails for refusing to succumb to India's repression to accept its sovereignty over Kashmir."

A foreign office spokesman said the hijackers' demand had been conveyed to the acting Indian high commissioner in Islamabad.

T.F. woman hit, killed in road

TWIN FALLS — An inquest may be called into the Saturday night death of a young Twin Falls woman who apparently was killed instantly in a car-pedestrian accident south of Twin Falls.

Coroner Cloyce Edwards said today he is awaiting further investigation into the matter before deciding whether to hold an inquest in the death of Marie Adamsen, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Adamsen, 666 Madison St.

Sheriff Paul Corder said the victim was struck by a car about 10:30 p.m. Saturday as she was standing in the northbound lane of U.S. Highway 74 near the Twin Falls Labor Center. The driver of the north-bound car was Harold Henry Daniels, 42, Ogden, Utah.

Witnesses said the girl did not attempt to evade the oncoming car. Miss Adamsen had reportedly been in a vehicle which was parked near the Labor Center.

Chris Huddleston, 19, Twin Falls, one of the vehicle's occupants, said members of the group missed Miss Adamsen and looked up just in time to hear the "brails" of the car squeal and see the accident occur.

Coroner Edwards pronounced the victim dead at the scene. He said death was caused by multiple internal injuries.

The rapidly rising cost of nearly everything needed to produce and deliver your newspaper has forced the Times-News to raise its monthly rates by 25 cents.

Despite the slight increase, there is still no other daily and Sunday newspaper in Idaho priced less.

Beginning today, your carrier will collect $2.50 each month—less than a penny a day more than you now pay.

Your hard-working newspaper boy or rural carrier will be given 20 per cent of the increase.

At a little more than 9 cents a day, the Times-News is still the biggest bargain around.

E. Germans ease road harassment

BERLIN (UPI)—West German customs police reported today the East Germans apparently had ended their semiblockade of Berlin highway traffic. They said after a "catastrophic" night at border checkpoints the East German border guards began about 9 a.m. to process traffic normally. Until then trucks were waiting as long as 18 hours for clearance and passenger automobiles 12 hours. Early today there was a line of trucks four and one-half miles long at the East German Marlowborn checkpoint. The East Germans began their slowdown at 8 a.m. Wednesday, in protest visits here of West German President Gustav Heinemann and Chancellor Willy Brandt and a meeting of the West German Free Democratic Party Friday and Saturday. The Russians, in a protest to the Western allies, called the West German political activity here a violation of Berlin's status. The Western allies, in a protest of their own, warned the interference could endanger the Big Four ambassadors talks on Berlin. The telephone communications restored Sunday between East and West Berlin continued to prove inadequate. The 10 lines were so overloaded that the West Berlin post office announced at 10 a.m. it would accept no more bookings until midnight. The telephone service was resumed Sunday after a lapse of 19 years but the Communists restored only 10 lines of the 3,010 lines they cut on May 27, 1952.

Environmentalists hits Idaho Power 'arrogance'

IDAHO FALLS (UPI)—Gerald Jayne, president of the Idaho Environmental Council, said Sunday Idaho Power Company's refusal to consider the restriction of advertising electric power, while exerting pressure for more dams in Hells Canyon, must be regarded as sheer corporate arrogance. He said in a recent talk to the Boise Ad Club, the president of Idaho Power ridiculed a suggestion that electric utilities cut back on advertising, and labeled a proposal that Americans use electric power more conservatively as "stupid." Jayne said last year the Federal Power Commission reported that 17 states had taken action to restrict or prohibit utilities' promotional practices and that 26 states had investigated the promotional practices in their jurisdiction. He said recently, Sen. Leo Metcalf of Montana noted that the private utilities of the nation spend more than seven times as much on advertising as they do on research and development. Jayne said electric power consumption is doubling in the United States about every 10 years and going to increase. He said the growth inevitably is going to come to a halt. An article in the March, 1970 issue of Environment Magazine, entitled "The Space Available" states that "present projections show that by the year 2,000 we will be in serious environmental trouble unless the increase in power generation is slowed, and that if the increase is to be halted in time we must begin to act immediately."

Jayne said the Idaho Power Co. should start to think along the lines that the era of unquestioned exponential growth in electric power has come to an end, and the future course of expansion will be determined by the public's estimate of costs versus benefits. He said the Idaho Power Co. should start to think along the lines that the era of unquestioned exponential growth in electric power has come to an end, and the future course of expansion will be determined by the public's estimate of costs versus benefits.

'Trigger' Seen... escapes

HOPKINGTON, N.H. (UPI)—State police are seeking a mystery motorist who touched off a 38-car pileup that injured 26 persons, one critically, then drove off with only a dented bumper. "If we could find the car I suppose the driver would be charged with leaving the scene," said Police Lt. Leslie Menzies. "But we don't know what to look for. All we know is that it was a station wagon. The car stopped in blinding snow whipped by high winds Saturday along Interstate 89, triggering the chain reaction collision that blocked the northbound lanes for six hours. By the time police arrived, the car had disappeared in the storm. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Luther and children, Roberts, enjoying weekend with relatives... Return of tax forms requested
JEROME — J. Howard Jepson, Jerome County assessor, has asked county personal property owners to mail back to his office personal property forms. Jepson said that under state law any property not reported by the taxpayer can be assessed at three times the value. "Our office does not want to place three-times value on any property, but if Jerome County residents fail to return these forms we will have no choice in the matter at all because it is a state law," Jepson noted. So far only 35 per cent of the forms have been returned, Jepson said. The mailing saved considerable taxpayer money by eliminating personal visits from fieldmen, Jepson said. Jepson said the voluntary disclosure is based on the honesty of the person reporting. "We urge all personal property owners to be cooperative and send in the forms because it will be to their financial advantage to do so," he said.

Nixon rests
CANEEL BAY, St. John, V.I. (UPI)—President Nixon relaxed in the warm Caribbean sun today, winding up a long weekend of swims in the blue green waters and strolls on white sand beaches. The President originally had planned to return to Washington Sunday, but decided to extend his stay by another day to enjoy the quiet of his Ingoon-side villa.

Question...

What is the difference between a Veteran's pension and Veteran's Compensation?

Answer...

Pensions may be paid to honorably discharged wartime veterans who are credited with 90 days or more service and are permanently and totally disabled for reasons not traceable to their service. This is a subsistence or living allowance payable on the basis of need, when a veteran's income falls below a certain level. Compensation is payable to veterans who suffer from a disability incurred or aggravated by their service in line of duty. This is payable regardless of the veteran's income. Pensions and compensation also may be payable to surviving widows, children and parents who qualify to receive them. If you have any questions concerning Veterans' benefits please pick up a copy of the new Veteran's Fact Sheet available without cost in our office.

Two employes receive awards

TWIN FALLS — Two employes in Idaho Power Co.'s southern division office here have won awards for "outstanding" marketing accomplishments in 1970.

They were Mrs. Helen Walker, home service representative, and B.N. Schmidt, commercial marketing representative, according to J.W. Coryell, division marketing manager.

Mrs. Walker won her award for the best home service marketing performance in Idaho Power's entire service area of southern Idaho, eastern Oregon and northern Nevada. She is one of five representatives in the area with responsibility for helping housewives to make the best use of electricity in their homes.

Last year, Mrs. Walker gave more than 240 demonstrations on electric heat, ranges and ovens, washers and dryers, refrigerators and freezers, indoor-outdoor lighting and small appliances to nearly 6,500 homemakers throughout the division. Schmidt's award was for the best performance in the commercial and industrial field in the utility's area.

Coryell said the two employes received their awards at the annual southern and eastern divisions marketing conference held recently in Twin Falls.

Learn skills

T.F. girls learning office practice skills

TWIN FALLS — While most students must look years into the future to try out the many job skills they acquire in school, a group of 22 Twin Falls girls are using their training every day — and earning money to boot.

The girls are enrolled in the Office Occupations Class taught by Mrs. Dorothy Pressy at Twin Falls High School. The girls take regular classwork each school day until 2:30 p.m., then move to various area business offices where they finish the day. In some cases, their "day" lasts well into the night, depending on the business hours of their employers.

This week, Feb. 1-5, has been designated as National Vocational Education Week — a week devoted to honoring the thousands of students throughout the nation who are seeking vocational education, rather than college education. The Twin Falls High School office class is a cooperative effort by the school and the community to give students a realistic experience in the work-a-day world, placing students in everyday job situations.

There is a two-fold purpose in the work, Mrs. Pressy said; the girls get first-hand experience while at the same time their suitability for the work is being tested most effectively. "The program makes it possible for students to work in order to learn what it takes to hold a job, to learn the value of earning a dollar, and to learn personal habits needed for job success as well as learning to work with other people," Mrs. Pressy said.

Professional businessmen and expert tradesmen serve as supplemental instructors for the students, and their equipment allows the students to fit themselves to the task, and learn whether they can handle the work.

The girls must meet a rigid twofold set of standards: they must maintain a good academic record and an attractive appearance, and then meet all obligations of their employers for reliability, regular work attendance and loyalty to their employers, Mrs. Pressy said. Many businesses participate in the program each year, including Mountain Bell Telephone, Cahn's Appliances, School District No. 411, the bank Data Center, Kellwood Co., Parry, Robertson, Duly and Larson; Reliance Credit Corp., J.C. Penney's, Kluney's Shoe Store, Idaho Typewriter Exchange, Sears, Roebuck, Idaho Power Co., Safeway Stores in the Lynwood; Bertie's Poultry,

Twin Falls Clinic and Hospital, which employs two girls; Hazel Del Manor, Twin Falls Bank and Trust, Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Idaho First National Bank; Stan Snow, CPA, and the Twin Falls Water Department.

An advisory committee of businessmen confers twice each school year to offer suggestions for improving the course content and to help in any other way possible. The committee this year includes William Miller, Idaho First National Bank, chairman; Neal Garrison, Twin Falls Bank and Trust; Mike Gray, Twin Falls Title and Trust; Louis B. Melgs, Twin Falls Clinic; Jerry Shane, Shinn's Furniture; Royce Williams, Kellwood, and Rosalie Brennan, personnel manager for Mountain Bell.

Mrs. Pressy, as teacher-coordinator for the program, confers frequently with the supervising employers for an evaluation of her students. Any employer wishing to sponsor one or more of the girls is invited to contact her for details.

Council to meet

TWIN FALLS — Business on tonight's agenda for the regular meeting of the Twin Falls City Council will again include formation of an irrigation district within the city limits. The matter has twice been scheduled and postponed pending additional information requested by members of the council.

Proposals include organizing residents who use ditch water or irrigation of their gardens and lawns into an irrigation district and allowing them to form their own organization. Officers of the organization would administer business such as assessment of fees to cover maintenance and operation.

Council members will also consider zone classification changes on Shoshone Street North and East to conform with existing uses.

Other business on schedule includes a proposed ordinance prohibiting drag racing within the city of Twin Falls, and an ordinance to bring city laws into line to conform with the state beer statute. An ordinance to create a local improvement district on South Locust Street for sewer service for some 12 properties will be on second reading.

The meeting opens at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall auditorium and is open to the public.

TWIN FALLS — An organizational meeting is scheduled today at 7 p.m. in Room 115, Shields Academic Building, for a vocational photography class at the College of Southern Idaho.

The class will be taught by Dan Johnson, former Times-News photographer, on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The time and place will be determined at tonight's meeting, Johnson said.

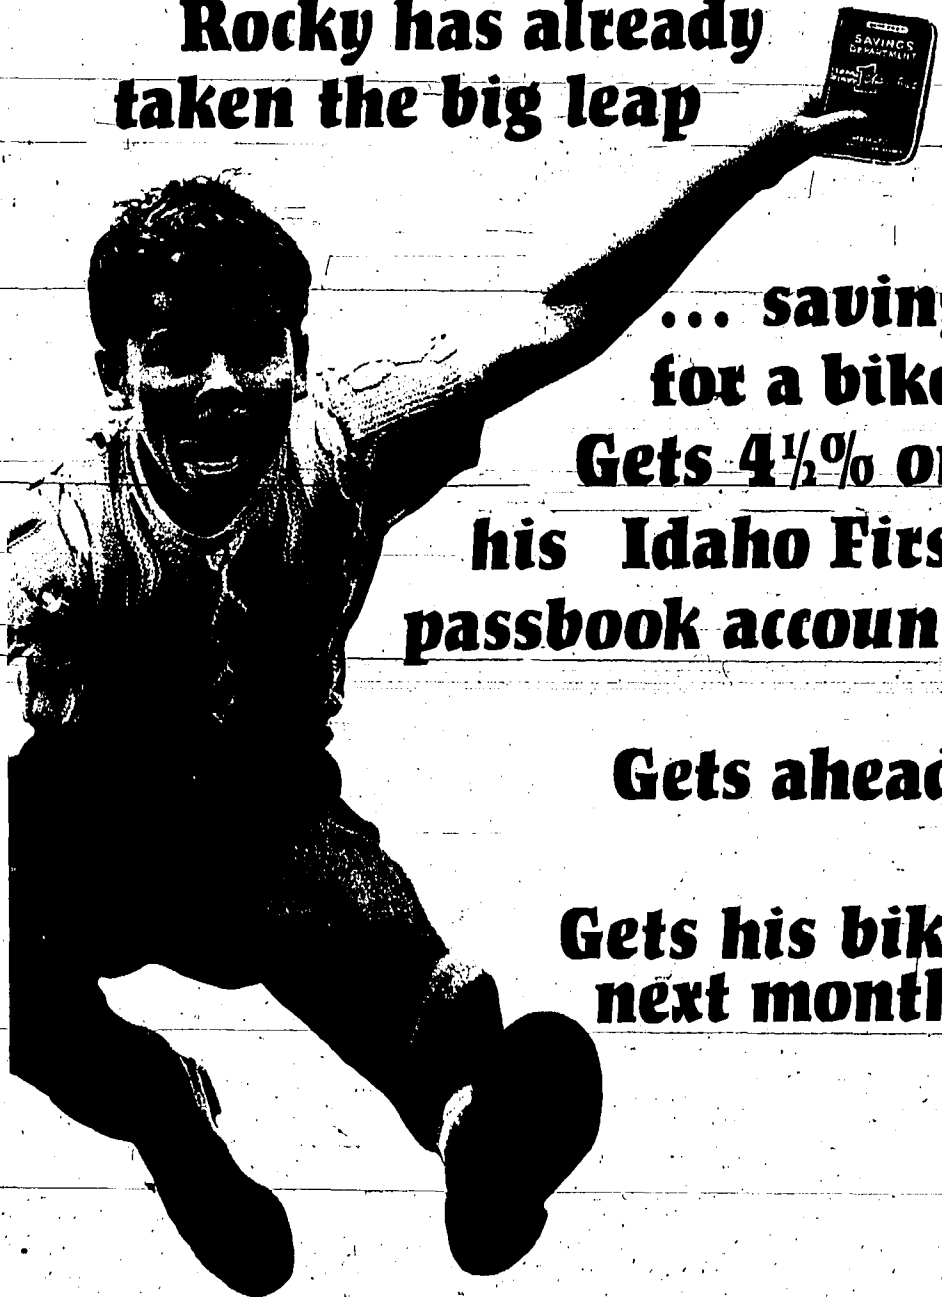

The photography class is designed to acquaint amateur photographers with the skills necessary to take high-quality photos, and to process the film used. Students in the course must have an adjustable camera, while the college will provide all necessary processing chemicals.

The class will cost $11, plus $5 for registration. All persons interested should attend today's meeting.

COMMENT

Both Need Funds

Idaho State Journal
C. Ed Flandro, chairman of the Idaho Highway Board, raised two spectres before the Joint House and Senate Transportation Committees Tuesday.

One was real — the threat to divert federal highway funds to mass transit systems. This would divert funds from badly-needed highways in such states as Idaho to such uses as subsidizing commuter trains serving large cities.

Idaho has a backlog of $525 million in needed improvements on the State Highway System, and can ill afford to lose millions in federal funds to other forms of transportation. So we join Mr. Flandro in urging the U.S. Department of Transportation not to take highway trust funds for rapid transit systems.

We take issue with the Highway Board, however, in its argument that Idaho cities should not get more funds for streets because the state is more deserving or has a greater need. The Highway Department has waged a strong campaign against any cutback in its portion of the state Highway User funds, and even raised a bogeyman that if there is any diversion funds to cities and counties, the state will cut back its construction and maintenance in the cities.

It should be clarified that the state does not work on city streets, as such — but only on state highways that run through cities. So the state has a responsibility for these routes and related items such as interchanges and overpasses.

Threatening reprisals against the cities by cutting back on state highway projects in urban areas is foolish. The cities, strapped for funds to build and maintain all the other miles of streets in municipal limits, certainly would find it difficult to take on the urban state highway jobs as well.

The state presently gets 70 per cent of Highway User funds, compared to 25 1/2 per cent for counties and only 4 1/2 per cent for cities. The Association of Idaho Cities wants a larger portion of the gasoline tax earmarked for use by the cities, pro-rated on a population basis.

The state gas tax was hiked one cent per gallon three years ago because, it was explained to the legislature, Idaho would lose millions of dollars in matching federal funds without the added state revenue. However, the matching federal funds never were forthcoming. In effect, then, the state collected the extra cent without getting the benefit for which it originally was imposed. That one-cent levy is due to expire this year, and the cities want the legislature to keep it in effect, and earmark the revenue for cities.

We would go even further, and suggest adding another cent to the gasoline tax and give two cents to the cities — thus enabling cities to lighten the burden on property taxpayers, who presently pay not only for their own city streets, but for a good portion of county roads as well.

The Association of Idaho Cities quotes State Highway Department figures to show the state's annual road budget of some $68 million would have only $250,000 less the first year if the cities won their proposal.

If that is the case, a two-cent diversion would vastly assist cities (Pocatello, for example, would receive about $618,000) while scarcely causing serious damage to the state program. For example, major state projects recently announced for urban construction in 1971 include Bonners Ferry overpass, $2 million; North Sandpoint railroad separation and approaches, $2 1/2 million; Yellowstone and Oak intersection in Pocatello, $900,000, and Second Street in Nampa, $650,000.

The legislature must consider carefully the fairest and most productive means of spending dollars on streets and highways. It would indeed be harmful to cut back the State Highway Department by any substantial amount. No one denies the crying need for improving many highways. But it seems possible to find a way to help the cities without hurting the state, and at the same time, relieve city property taxpayers from an obligation rightfully owed by vehicle owners.

About An Island

Christian Science Monitor
We need to keep our sense of proportion over reports that the Russians are doing this and that in building up their naval strength in various parts of the world's seas. It is easy to inflate these reports out of all relation to their actual substance.

Some such "verbal inflation" has concerned the island of Socotra in the Indian Ocean. A former Royal Air Force staging post, this strategically situated outpost in the Gulf of Aden is now owned by the People's Democratic Republic of Yemen (South Yemen).

The reports have asserted that the Russians were engaged in some kind of construction work at Socotra, building either a submarine base, a communications center or shore facilities there.

In recent days the South Yemen Government not only vigorously denied these reports but took a party of diplomats and journalists to the island, so they could see for themselves. A correspondent of The Times of London, who was one of the group, reported there was no sign of recent construction or of any military activity at all on the wholly undeveloped island.

It is important to get the facts straight, and to stop scare stories from running the rounds.

Exhaust

New York Times
It is not unusual to try to hide offensive odors, but lavender perfume in diesel fuel? This is being resorted to by the San Diego Transit Corp. to try to disguise the fumes emitted by its diesel-powered buses, after both customers and motorists had complained.

"Lavender talcum powder" is the way the company's general manager described the new exhaust. A bystander said "It smells like a bus with perfume on."

Whichever description is more accurate, bus riders and trailing motorists are going to be looking at one another until someone explains the source of the new aroma. Hundreds of buses spewing lavender talcum powder may be no improvement.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Though no public announcement has been made, it is certain that President Nixon is not going to let Cambodia go down the drain.

Sources at very high levels indicate the President is prepared to pay a very high price — in dollars, plane tickets and in congressional and public dissent at home.

(But, as noted before in these columns, he will commit no American ground combat forces.)

Nixon will not be limited by the funds Congress has voted for Cambodia. Supplies, weapons, ammunition and dollars in or earmarked for South Vietnam will be diverted to Cambodia as required.

There is a remarkable agreement on the save-Phnom-Penh strategy at State, Defense and the White House — despite some hot dispute over "inlets."

The key prize is the "right" to continue the Cambodian blockade.

If the North Vietnamese can oust Cambodia Premier Lon Nol and set up a pro-Hanoi government in Cambodia, that new regime would certainly declare the U.S. blockade of the Cambodian coast — both unwelcome and illegal.

Talk privately on this point with men at high levels in the Nixon administration and they make no secret of their belief that if there is a new Cambodian government and if it does declare the blockade illegal, then we will have to withdraw our ships from the Cambodian coast.

They say the same political considerations which prevent the United States from blocking North Vietnam's port of Haiphong would then prevent us from continuing the blockade of southern Cambodia.

But a free South Vietnam may hinge on that blockade.

As long as U.S. or South Vietnamese warships patrol the Cambodian coast, North Vietnam has almost no chance for a military victory in the south — even after American ground combat troops have come home.

Without the blockade, the situation could be touched and go, after a period of the North Vietnamese to rebuild their strength in the sanctuaries and the Delta.

The reasoning behind this analysis is simple. Almost all North Vietnam's supplies in the Vietnam Delta war have come by sea and river — first along the South Vietnamese coast and up the Mekong, then later, primarily across the Cambodian coast.

What North Vietnam can send down the Ho Chi Minh trails can supply no major war in the southern third of South Vietnam where most of the people live — certainly not for long.

Especially is this true when the "trails" are subject to sustained bomber and guerrilla attacks. As Americans withdraw, the bombing may lighten. But the anti-North-Vietnamese guerrilla harassment will increase.

Anti-guerrilla theory here thus holds that the North Vietnamese southern invasion armies, deprived of the South Vietnamese and Cambodian coasts, will slowly strangle.

All of this argument, of course, comes down to one thing: If the North Vietnamese armies are weak enough in the south (because they lack arms, ammunition and supplies) the South Vietnamese, without major hitches, can take over the complete defense of their own country in a reasonable period of time.

Then U.S. troops can continue to come home at a steady pace. But upset that blockade and it may be a whole new ball game.

Country Money

President Nixon says the cities are stagnating, depriving the taxpayers "out in the country" are going to have to build them out.

As Gen. McAuliffe said at Bastogne, "Nuts!"

With big cities protesting that they can't support themselves without picking your pocket — and with President Nixon running scared from the big cities voters — let me tell them for you how we Americans "do for ourselves" out here in the magnificent nine-tenths of this country that's still country.

Our example is worth more than a thousand theories.

Roscoe, Texas, is a flatland town of 1,500 mostly happy people, but not without problems.

For a tiny town to keep the next generation from straying away requires some extra effort. The Boys Club in Roscoe is one such effort. So are the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts and the Future Farmers. And when these need money, where do you go for it in a town of 1,500? And when a local lad is paralyzed in a car smash-up and his family can't pay the big medical bills, where do you find the $1,000 they need?

Well, in Newark, N. J. they'd holler for help from Washington.

In Roscoe, Texas, people make do with extra effort.

Mechanical cotton pickers are fine for their purpose. With fewer people wanting to do stoop labor, the only way we can harvest cotton economically is mechanically. But these mechanized monsters strip a stalk naked, the green bolls with the ripe ones.

When Roscoe's local newspaper mentioned that green bolls, tossed aside in ginning were "worth something" if somebody would tend them until they ripened — the local Boys Club made a deal to "harvest the leftovers."

The first year they salvaged one bale, next year two, then four and eight and 12 and this past cotton pickin' season they rescued 96 bales of green bolls.

After paying for the ginning, the Boys Club had $8,194.50 to divide, among youth organizations and desperately needy individuals in their community.

And there'll be enough left over for a Fourth of July fireworks celebration.

Perhaps this mention will suggest a fund-raising formula elsewhere in cotton country where the green bolls are still being buried or burned.

But this one facet of one tiny town's willingness to help itself seemed to me the sort of example which needed spotlighting right now.

I don't know the answers to the problems of the big cities.

The mayor of Newark, N.J., admits that his city is first in erime, first in venereal disease, first in infant mortality, first in student dropouts, near first in unemployment — and that one-in-three houses there is in desperate need of repair.

I won't presume to tell them what to do in Newark, but I'll bet I know what unemployed people would do with houses that needed fixing in Roscoe, Texas.

They'd fix 'em!

ANDREW TULLY

The Candidate

WASHINGTON — Now that he is a full-fledged Presidential candidate, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., must learn to live in a certain ambivalent atmosphere, and the camp of Sen. Teddy Kennedy already is contributing its bit to that atmosphere.

This is in the form of rumors that McGovern has promised the "Kennedy people" now supporting him that he will throw his strength to the young Massachusetts Senator if his own candidacy flops. In the strategy of politics, the floating of such rumors is not considered ill-mannered. The non-candidate of today seeks to make certain his supporters won't stray if he decides to run tomorrow.

McGovern people deny their tyger is a stalking horse for anybody. This is par for the course, except that McGovern is such a completely honest man the denials have more credibility than usual. That is to say, McGovern himself is absolutely sincere in his candidacy, if only as a means of forcing a shifting of national priorities. Nevertheless, the Kennedy rumors make a certain rade sense.

The chairman of McGovern's National Citizens Committee is former Assistant Atty. Gen. John Douglas, a 1968 Bobby Kennedy man. McGovern's campaign director is Gary Hart, a Denver attorney and onetime Kennedy campaign organizer. It is no reflection on George McGovern's integrity or sincerity to suggest that both Douglas and Hart received assurance from someone in the McGovern camp that McGovern at least would not oppose a Kennedy candidacy in the home stretch.

After all, the odds on McGovern making it are long. He trails far behind Maine's Sen. Ed Muskie at this point. And the South Dakotan's own campaigning may destroy the principal plank in his platform — the Vietnam War.

That plank already is McGovern's biggest weakness. President Nixon's program of troop withdrawal had proceeded to such a point that Vietnam was not an issue even in the 1970 Congressional elections. By 1972, Vietnam may have been eliminated as a debating point — unless of course the situation worsens over there, a development one may be sure the earnest McGovern would be the last to welcome.

McGovern promises that if elected he would "announce a definite, early date for the withdrawal of every American soldier." In the meantime, Nixon in effect might beat him to it, even though there is little likelihood the President would set a withdrawal deadline.

Nevertheless, because McGovern is relatively unknown, his early announcement for the Presidency was smart tactics. It gives him all of 1971 to become a familiar figure to the American voter. He'll reap national publicity merely because he is a candidate, with frequent mention in the media and in the polls. The Democratic National Committee, which must at least appear to be neutral, will be forced to consider McGovern as an equal among equals in such matters as fund raising, equal time and the roles of party spokesmen.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Cortisone

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Your informative comments on rheumatoid arthritis and use of cortisone were the clearest I have read on the subject.

One question remains: After using cortisone for several years, if signs of side effects should appear, would discontinuing the cortisone reverse the damage or would it be permanent?

What of indomethacin or other drugs, as to effectiveness and side effects? — M.B.J.

There's been excessive concern about "side effects," in my opinion, but that remark doesn't apply to today's letter. So many times I've been told, "The doctor prescribed —" but I read so much about side effects that I never took any."

Today's question, however, is a reasonable one. Blind fear of "side effects" is unreasonable, but reasonable awareness of them is only good sense.

Cortisone is useful for some cases of arthritis, when a small maintenance dose brings results. This often can be continued for a long time. With small dosage, side effects, if any, will not be either sudden or catastrophic.

Thus if such things as water retention may in time begin to appear, they will subside when the cortisone is stopped. (This medication should be withdrawn gradually, not abruptly.)

Therefore, there is ample time to avoid the more serious possibilities which develop with large and continued dosage — bone fragility, mental disturbance, and the like. It is the excessive use, not the moderate use, that can lead to permanent damage.

The same principle, in general, applies to other potent medications which are effective in combating rheumatoid arthritis. Indomethacin (and even the widely-used aspirin) can, in some patients, cause stomach irritation and intestinal bleeding. In either case, taking the medication immediately after meals lessens the possibility of this trouble.

It is the doctor's responsibility to watch for signs of any of the rarer side effects. But for a patient to try to learn all the remote possibilities does no good and makes him usually into a worry-wart.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Congratulations. You have at last discontinued that wretched "Dr." and used the proper "M.D." Any quack or cult member can call himself "doctor." I am 80 years old and have seen ignorant people die from going to some of these self-styled "doctors" and getting no care for a serious condition. — E.R.

It's a problem. I always write the M.D. after my name, but some editors switch it to a "Dr." because it's just a shade shorter, and makes my name short enough to stay in one line, of type.

I'd prefer that they shorten it by using just my initials; G.C. Thosteson, M.D. If necessary, because I think readers deserve to know that I am a Doctor of Medicine. A fair number have written to ask me. For the record, I'm an M.D., board-certified specialist in internal medicine, and F.A.C.P. — that last meaning fellow of the American College of Physicians.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am considering taking birth control pills and was wondering what the effect would be, if any, on a woman who is unknowingly pregnant when she begins the pills? — Mrs. J.T.

Very early in pregnancy, the pill could affect the baby. To be on the safe side, why not do what many women do? That is, start the pills right after a period so you know you aren't pregnant then.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Dr. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related (joint diseases) as well as outlining effective treatments and medications. For a copy of "How You Can Control Arthritis" write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Blizzards cut number of fishermen at lake

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department
PARIS — The silvery horde of small fish moved into the shallows as usual, starting Jan. 10.
But this year there were few anglers waiting for them, instead of hundreds hip deep in icy waters or fishing through holes in the ice netting Bonneville cisco as they circle toward the shore along the spawning grounds on the east side of Bear Lake, the huge body of water that straddles the Idaho-Utah state line.
Blizzards that closed access routes to Bear Lake with snowdrifts and rock and mud slides early in January were bad news not only for sportsmen but also for all eastern Idaho if not the Intermountain West.

heavily on sculpin during certain season.
The Utah cutthroat trout is the only trout native to Bear Lake. Early introductions included Yellowstone cutthroat trout, probably other subspecies of cutthroat trout and rainbow trout.
Two circumstances — three stockings of mixed species of Salmo, and the fact that all species of spring-spawning Salmo apparently hybridize freely in Bear Lake — have produced today's Bear Lake cutthroat trout.
This information comes from a monograph on Bear Lake published cooperatively by the state departments of fish and game for Utah and Idaho, and the Wildlife Management

"Peaknose" can be taken by Idaho and Utah dipnetters under special reciprocal regulations from Jan. 1 - Feb. 15, and in such quantities that there is a ready-made story and small industry. Press and electronic news media, research papers, even national outdoor magazines have disseminated much information and piqued the curiosity of millions of people.
Bear Lake is the only inland body of water offering such a winter recreational interlude. It is somewhat comparable to smelt runs on small coastal streams of the Columbia River.
Bear Lake historically produced enough fish to bring Indians to the feeder streams to catch and smoke spring-run native lake trout; and enough to support commercial seining. The first mackinaw plantings on record in Bear Lake were made 1940-41, and natural spawning has been established. Several different persons have been photographed with mackinaw catches reportedly weighing 26 pounds.
Bonneville cisco is one of three members of the whitefish family in Bear Lake that are found no place else in the world. The other two are Bonneville whitefish and Bear Lake whitefish. The Bonneville whitefish is the only one of the three whitefish normally taken by hook and line.
Bonneville cisco, which have long sharply pointed snouts, projecting lower jaws and measure only seven and one-half inches, were first legally dipnetted in 1860. There are a few thousand Bonneville whitefish taken every year by hook and line. Since there is no commercial fishery in Bear Lake, the main economic value of the Bear Lake whitefish is forage.
Studies show that the two most numerous fish by Bear Lake are Bonneville cisco and Bonneville mottled sculpin. Like the whitefish, this species of sculpin exists nowhere else in the world. It is indigenous to Bear Lake, is present at all depths, and is an undescribed form of Cotius.
However, it always is on or near the bottom. Food habit studies of mackinaw and other large trout show that sculpin are an important food item. Bonneville whitefish also feed

Department of the Utah State Agricultural College.
This fish really is a mixture of several subspecies of cutthroat and rainbow trout. Relatively few of the Bear Lake trout were judged to be pure cutthroat. The dominant cutthroat trout type is this hybrid, and ecologically is different from the stocked rainbow trout and other wild fish. It grows faster and to a much greater size than the rainbow trout of Bear Lake.
Probably no other body of water in the west has been the subject of such broad intensive fishery surveys as has Bear Lake.
The Egyptians used painted furniture for cabinets, stools and thrones.

Speeding limits placed on roads

BOISE — Load and speed restrictions have been placed on several highways in Magic Valley by the Idaho Department of Highways, states E. L. Mathes, state highway engineer.
Mathes said area highways restricted to 350 pounds per inch width of tire with 10,000 pounds allowable on front axles if equipped with 10-inch tires or larger and 14,000 pounds allowable on all other axles include:
Highway 20-26-93A from Shoshone to Carey, Highway 24 from Shoshone to Rupert, Highway 27 from Burley to Oakley, Highway 46 from Gooding to junction of Highway 68, Highway 68 from Cat Creek Summit to junction of Highway 46 and

Destruction of winter range creates hazards

By LORNVIE
Times-News Correspondent
PICABO — Winter survival of big game animals is a prime factor in maintaining a huntable population. Destruction of wintering areas by increasing civilization, land clearing and so on has destroyed much of the low land browse areas for elk and deer.
Many areas where heavy snow falls drive elk to lowland wintering spots have an abundant summer range; but not nearly enough feed for successful wintering. Where only a few years ago small farms and ranches existed the land now has been cleared of browse, tall grasses and summer homes have been built. Here, too, only a few years ago, deer and elk could supplement their regular winter feed by feeding on hay with the ranchers livestock or stealing from his stack.

Before the encroachment of civilization ruined great quantities of winter feeding areas winter was the prime stabilizing factor on big game animals. The sick and weak were weeded out and the herd was naturally thinned. In some cases, after a few mild winters, the winter kill was drastic, but necessary to sustain balance of herd to habitat.

On particularly severe winters the smaller game animals succumbed through competition. Elk, the largest game animal, could reach higher on willows, aspen and other browse plants thus leaving little food within reach of young elk and deer. They could also dig deeper in crusted snow for covered food.
Once an animal becomes weak death soon follows unless some sustaining food is found. Hunting pressure and natural predation also keep herds within manageable numbers to some degree; but not necessarily the proper animals are taken by either.

Winter feeding of big game has long been a hot controversy between sportsmen and the Fish and Game Department. Department officials have been opposed and still remain so. Some winter kill has taken place despite feeding operations and studies many years ago have led biologists to believe that hay alone is detrimental to browsing animals.
On one occasion hay was fed and the animals either refused to eat it or died when they did. Straight alfalfa is not the best fodder for big game animals either, being much better and more palatable when tall grasses are present.
Death loss through feeding of straight alfalfa has caused many to believe that any type of feeding will kill. The prime cause of death after artificial feeding has been due to the fact that animals were in a highly weakened condition before feeding operations were started.

Mountain farmers and ranchers can testify that big game animals not only do well but thrive on harvested forage. Grass hays are best but mixed grass and large portions of alfalfa will suffice. Many tell of how elk and deer have fed consistently year after year with domestic stock and have all survived.
The Fish and Game Department now holds the policy of what they call "emergency feeding." This is defined to mean that feeding will only be done to prevent starvation in existing herds and not to maintain more animals.

Inconsistency eyed

BOISE (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy recommended the Legislature study the problem of the inconsistency between the Idaho Constitution and Code with the standards set forth by the U.S. Supreme Court concerning bond elections.
In a letter to State Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, chairman of the State Affairs Committee, Murphy suggested the legislature amend the State Constitution and the Idaho Code to conform with the recent high court decision.
His recommendations came as the result of the controversy over a bond issue in Canyon County School District No. 139. The present Idaho Constitution and the Code require a two-thirds vote of the real property owners, even though the U.S. Supreme Court — and most recently the Idaho Supreme Court — has struck the provisions down.
Murphy said he was bringing the matter before the state affairs committee "for the purpose of suggesting that such legislation as may be needed and desirable be initiated making the Idaho Constitution and laws conform to the U.S. Supreme Court decision and the decision of the Idaho Supreme Court."

Bad day

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Some days it just doesn't pay to get up. Ask Nathaniel L. Bailey and John Alex.
Bailey was arrested for possession of marijuana and carrying a concealed weapon after authorities stopped a car in which he was a passenger.
Alex, the driver, was booked for having an expired driver's license. When Bailey was asked for his identification, it was discovered he was wanted for contempt after failing to make a court appearance in another case.
Shipworm burrows never meet. The animal seems to be aware of the nearness of another burrow and turns aside to avoid it.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)

—Gov. George Wallace and his acting public safety director have voiced opposition to a proposal that would set up a secret elite police dressed in black, operating only at night and supported by federal funds.
"This sounds like something out of a comic book," Walter L. Allen said, disavowing any knowledge of such a proposal.
Wallace said he also was opposed to the plan submitted to a federal agency that was drawn up before he took office earlier this month.
The idea was set out in a request from the Alabama Law Enforcement Planning Agency for $47,100 in federal anti-crime funds. The request proposed:
"The creation of a detail which would operate only at night, keeping constant check on the whereabouts of suspects for practical and psychological reason, officers of this detail will drive only black, unmarked patrol cars. They will be attired in black uniforms, shoes and caps, with no bright or reflective buttons, badges or buckles visible."
"The primary impact of this detail on the criminal community will be psychological — and to this purpose officers will make maximum use of the opportunity to question suspects during the hours of darkness. In addition, officers will range as far as possible during each night's operations to create the impression that the detail's number are much greater than is actually the case."
The Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA), which allocates funds under the 1968 Safe Streets Act, received the request Wednesday and promptly turned it down.
"To have groups running around in black uniforms could be dangerous," said the agency. "LEAA will not give funds for that project."
Officials of the agency said they agreed the proposed unit would have a psychological impact, "but it had one on law-abiding citizens, not on the criminal element." A spokesman said the agency opposed the mere idea of "just questioning suspects at night."
Allen said he had no knowledge of such a proposal, which was drawn up before Wallace succeeded Albert P. Brewer as governor. Wallace also criticized the proposal.

Indigent legal aid proposed

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation introduced in the Senate Friday would authorize prosecution and defense of suits by indigent persons without cost.
The bill, which came from the Judiciary and Rules Committee, would allow any person to prosecute and defend in all trial and appellate court without previous or current payment costs of bond if he is unable to pay the costs because of his poverty.
The services would extend to all required by law in legal proceedings, by sheriffs, clerks of court, court reporters and witnesses in any county.
Attorneys representing the clients would charge a fee commensurate with the client's ability to pay, and where it is determined a client is unable to pay any fee, shall provide his services without charge.

Gets rights

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — American International acquired United States' rights to Japan's Toho International production "Monster from Space."

Wins delay

BOISE (UPI) — John Baugh, 26, Boise, the folk-singing National Guardsman, received another 10-day extension Saturday to allow the U.S. Sixth Army commander time to respond to his petition of habeas corpus.

A hearing on the petition was originally scheduled Monday before Judge Roy Mc Nichols. It has now been postponed. Named defendants in the petition are Idaho Adjutant General Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett and commander of the U.S. Sixth Army Lt. Gen. S.R. Larsen.

New floodwaters pour into stricken country

LOURENÇO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI)—Fresh flood waters poured into Portuguese East Africa's cyclone-stricken lowlands today, hampering rescue efforts for thousands of flood victims already marooned for four days.

Africans overcame their fear of helicopters and planes to plead for food from Portuguese army craft crisscrossing the flooded district. The central government said 135,000 persons lived in the worst-affected area around Quelimane, the administrative capital of the Central Zambezia province. Only 24,000 have been rescued, but Zambezia Gov. Lt. Col. David Ferreira declined to estimate the death toll.

Communications are difficult and sometimes impossible, he said. "Only when the level of the water subsides will we be able to question the native tribal chiefs who are the only ones who can accurately estimate the number of inhabitants."

A government spokesman said earlier 20 bodies had been recovered from the area. Ferreira said fresh flood waters from the interior highlands of Mozambique near the Malawi border hampered the rescue operations of the portuguese army. Cyclone "Felice" struck late Thursday and Friday. It was preceded by 48 hours of torrential rains which swelled the normal seasonal flooding. UPI correspondent Michael Keats flew over the area Sunday and said Quelimane was isolated in a vast lake stretching 25 miles inland from the sea and 20 miles up the coast.

Reds strike U.S. bases

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist forces hit four American bases with rockets and mortars today, but U.S. military spokesmen said damage and casualties were "light."

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist forces hit four American bases with rockets and mortars today, but U.S. military spokesmen said damage and casualties were "light."

Wake of cyclone PARTLY submerged homes and tops of trees dot the Mucelo, Mozambique area in the northern part of the country after the Portuguese East African province was battered by a cyclone. Estimates of the huge death toll were difficult pending recession of the floodwaters. (UPI)

The road was declared open after a joint South Vietnamese-Cambodian operation to clear it of Communist forces, but the gasoline convoy Saturday was the first to try to make the trip along the highway since then.

Other fuels have been in short supply since the Communists cut Highway 4 Nov. 21. U.S. spokesmen in Saigon said that an Air Force OV10 Bronco observation plane failed to return Friday from a mission over Cambodia. The plane and pilot have not been located, they said, and were listed as missing in action. It was the 54th U.S. aircraft downed on a Cambodian mission since last April.

Budget showdown predicted

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's 41st Legislature begins the fourth week of its first regular session Monday and the Republican majority appears headed for an imminent showdown with the Democratic governor over finances.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has proposed a $128.1 million general fund budget for the next fiscal year, bringing it into balance through existing revenue sources, fund transfers, holdovers and similar means.

There is some $14 million difference between Andrus' total budget for the general fund and the revenue normally expected to accrue to that fund this next fiscal year.

Republicans in both houses have caucused on the budget question — but so far have reached no hard and fast decisions.

But House Speaker William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, said certain things are becoming obvious about what may happen.

"As I read the attitudes of the legislature," he said in an interview this weekend, "if they don't accept his budget proposals it will be some figure less than he has recommended."

"This is not a partisan or a caucus opinion," Lanting added. "I can't find anybody who in the campaign said he would be for an increase in taxes."

Andrus has said he does not favor increasing taxes to balance the budget for the forthcoming fiscal year and has said he put a balanced budget before the legislature — a budget balanced without any tax increase.

Lanting, however, said some of Andrus' proposals are "being viewed by some as an increase in taxes." He said some legislators believe the proposal to take one-fourth of the inventory tax phase-out monies — some $2.3 million — and put them into the general fund will force taxes up at the local level.

Lanting said a local property tax increase is inevitable if the loss of the phase-out monies is to be replaced.

Disallowance of capital gains in filing of corporate income tax returns, as suggested by Andrus to pick up nearly $500,000, also amounts to a tax increase for corporations, Lanting said.

mate approval of the legislature, he indicated, although it may include a feature to which some Democrats object.

Put into the bill by the tax commission, this feature does away with the $10 sales tax refund to which persons 65 and older are entitled when they file their state income tax returns.

Under a law now on the books if an elderly person does not have sufficient income to use up all that credit he may file a refund for the remainder. Since that portion of the law was enacted, however, the federal Congress has enacted legislation permitting persons 65 and older to make up to $1,700 a year before having to pay taxes.

Evergreen chapter honors aides at meet

BURLEY — The Evergreen Chapter Order of the Eastern Star honored their wardens and sentinels during the regular session at the Masonic Temple. Honorees included Mrs. Chan Knodle, Mrs. Hazelle Hobson, Mrs. Glenn Simons, Mrs. Len Eklund, Mrs. J.L. Driskell, Mrs. Wayne Konrad, Mrs. John Lee, Mrs. Roland E. Willis, C.C. (Pop) Baker and Mrs. Louise Talbert. Each was presented a gift.

It was announced that Harold Carl Moeller, who is studying for the ministry will be the chapter speaker Monday, Feb. 1 meeting at the Masonic Temple. Moeller received the highest award from the ESTARL fund for the State of Idaho during the June Grand Chapter session in Twin Falls. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Talbert, worthy matron. Refreshments were served.

Burmah club holds quilt work session

RICHFIELD — The Burmah Club two day quilting session ended Friday at the home of Mrs. LeRoy Magoffin. The Easter Seal quilt on which the women are working is made of reversible ducron in colors of deep rose and avocado green. A morning glory design is being quilted. Mrs. Jean Annett, home extension agent from Lincoln County, was a luncheon guest on Thursday. The club Feb. 11 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Glen Ross.

OUR club meets at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Charles Pendleton was hostess to OUR bridge club Thursday. Prizes were won by Mrs. J.F. Christensen, Mrs. William Thomason and Mrs. William Trammell. Mrs. Violet Oneida entertained Grand Slam bridge club at her home Thursday. Prizes were won by Mrs. Bea Kislung and Mrs. Frank Carothers with Mrs. Kislung and Mrs. Oneida receiving pinocchio.

Designer Calvin Klein feels the naturals have taken over in fabrics. The sturdy fabrics of farm and frontier life are in the fabrics of the season, he said, but only the knowhow of the 70s could have given them this year's fresh, revitalized ways.

Mrs. Carl Schuppenles entertained Grand Slam bridge club at her home Thursday evening. Guests were Mrs. J.E. Potter and Mrs. James Canine. Mrs. Canine won high prize with Mrs. Arthur Marlin and Mrs. Potter the other prizes.

Richfield slates film

RICHFIELD — The Richfield PTA-sponsored movie will be "The Mia-Adventures of Merline Jones," a comedy Walt Disney production in technicolor. The film will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday at the high school gymnasium auditorium, as a fund raising project.

Mrs. Ken Dixon, Mrs. Max Behr and James Thomas served on a committee to select the family film. The public is invited.

Road: The Winter Consort (A&M SP 4249)
The Winter Consort, a six-man contemporary classical rock group, writes and performs some of the most stupendously important music being created in this generation. They are, in a sense, truly classical composers. Yet their music is fresh and beautiful, irresistibly attractive to music fans whose tastes range from pure classical to pure rock. They are the epitome, the apex, the summit, the pinnacle of classical rock. No one past or present has performed music of this nature which would even begin to approach the purity of technique and style which the Winter Consort possesses. Their new album manages, inexplicably, to top the group's second album, the astounding creative and beautiful "Something In The Wind" (A&M SP 4207). This album largely consists of new work by the group, although it includes a medley consisting of a tune by Spanish composer Alonso Mudarra, another by J.S. Bach and an original piece, and Dufay's "Ave Maria Stella" and a combination of two traditional tunes. The rest is new music from the group, including two highly original works. "Come To Your Senses" is a free form musical happening in which nothing is planned and everyone does just what they feel like doing with their instruments. "Requiem" is a shockingly original work for cello, which is dedicated by composer David Darling to a friend who died in Vietnam. It is so intensely personal a work that it leaves the stunned audience sitting in mute silence for several moments after the work is completed.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The second home is an accepted fact of American life today, and with it the recreation community. It is estimated there may be as many as 3,000 recreation communities in the mainland United States, Hawaii and the Caribbean, and the number keeps growing as families, weary of urban and suburban crowding and pressures, seek a bit of "God's country" for themselves. When you rent a place for the summer, a poor choice can spoil a vacation, but you can chalk it up to experience; the financial loss is limited and there's always next year. Purchasing a second home, or a vacation homestead, is a different matter. It's a question that calls for considerable thought. Sam R. Donaldson, of the Recreation Communities Group of Boise Cascade Corp., a leader in the recreation community field, offers some guidelines to help a family choose the most suitable homestead for its needs and pocketbook: —Location. "Take a long, hard look at this," he advises. "Easy accessibility is important. Usually it's desirable to locate in a community within three hours' drive of your primary home." —It's a good idea, Donaldson suggests, to study locations of and roads to recreation area within, say, a 150-mile range of your home. Then spend weekends exploring. Get the feel of traffic at various hours, note road conditions, check on local shopping and health facilities. —Climate. "Why buy property if you're not sold on the weather?" Sometimes," Donaldson said, "a 24-hour visit to a locality may give you a good idea of the climate. A location that is quite hot during your midday inspection, may have cool and energizing mornings and evenings, with nights great for sleeping." —Ecology. The less industry and automobile traffic in the area, the better chance of clear air. Adequate grass or a reseeded program helps to cut down on dust particles in the air which can cause smog, to say nothing of housekeeping problems. Preservation of trees, too, should be a must, even to the extent of planning roads and other facilities to spare especially fine old trees. It is important that a community have the right sewage system for the type of soil and the density of housing. It is essential, too, that lakes and ponds be pure and that there be a safe, sure supply of pure drinking water, and that provision be made to assure that these will remain pure. Roads should be at least equal, if not surpass, county standards. If they are really good, they will last for years, important if the second home eventually becomes a retirement home. Also, values go down where roads are poor. Prices of homesteads, Donaldson said, may run from $3,500 to $7,500 or more, with an average price range of, perhaps, $6,000 to $15,000. "One caution," admonished Donaldson. "Never buy a homestead without seeing and standing on it. Make sure it's what you want. Too many people have been disappointed buying land by mail." Finally, Donaldson urged, "always check before you sign on the dotted line." If a community appeals to you, then check with the experts on such things as ecology and engineering. Also check with people who've bought homesteads in the community, with people in the nearby town.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Why did you tell the young mother who wanted to get rid of her 3-week-old baby girl to talk to her doctor about it? Would you go to your dentist for legal advice? Does your rabbi give you flu shots? Who cuts your hair? A garage mechanic?
Doctors, lawyers and ministers may be expert in their own line of work, but they are not social workers. Occasionally they might place an unwanted baby with the right couple, but, believe me, doctors (especially) have made some serious blunders. Their idea of a "good home" is one in which there is a lot of money.
Please, Abby, correct your advice and tell Unhappy in South Carolina that if she wants to get rid of her baby girl she should go to a licensed adoption agency—not to her doctor.
WELFARE WORKER
DEAR WORKER: You [and many other welfare workers] missed the point. The young mother said she "hated" her infant daughter, had considered killing her and even contemplated suicide. The poor woman was so clearly psychopathic that I wanted first and foremost to get her to her doctor without delay so he could see how disturbed she was. That is why I advised her to talk to her physician about getting rid of her child.
DEAR ABBY: There is a lot of talk about letting barbers charge double for cutting the hair of those shaggy-maned hippies. I'm all for it. How about you, Abby? LEXINGTON
DEAR LEXINGTON: Only on the condition that they'll give half-price haircuts to their bald-headed brothers.
DEAR ABBY: I have a problem which irks me to no end. I have a friend whom I like a lot and see quite often in the day time. When I give a party, I always invite her and her husband. Whenever she gives a party, she leaves me and my husband out. But she asks many of our mutual friends, whom she has met at our place. She even has the gall to ask me for their phone numbers.
The only time she has ever invited my husband and me over is to help her and her husband entertain some bores. What would you do in my place? I hate to be anyone's...
SECOND CLASS FRIEND
DEAR SECOND: If you "like her a lot," invite her as you have always done, but if it's going to "irk you," do without her company, at her house as well as your own.
DEAR ABBY: I have passed my 85th birthday and am still quite active, but I need some help.
A nice, kind lady has lived in my house for years, taking care of my general welfare. She cleans and cooks for me and also looks after some rental property I have, collecting the rent and so on. I don't pay her any money, but she lives in my house and pays no rent.
She has promised to stay with me until the end. I would like to leave this woman one of my houses to show my appreciation for all she has done for me, but my friends tell me that my letting her live here for free is enough.
I am alone and have no relatives. What shall I do? Your advice has always been highly regarded by this reader.
UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: Your instincts are good. Leave the lady one of your houses as you had intended.
What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6796, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Weekly papers honored

BOISE (UPI) — The Valley News-Times, Meridian, topped all other newspapers in the state in the Idaho Press Association's better newspapers contest for 1970.

Awards were presented Friday during the association's annual winter meeting in Boise. The presentations were made by Bert C. Cross, chairman of the department of journalism at the University of Idaho.

The Meridian newspaper also won the third annual secretary-manager's award for newspaper excellence, based on a point system.

In addition, the paper, published by Ralph W. and Jean Hunter, was awarded top prizes in the feature story, correspondent material and illustrative material contests, plus second places in photo, local comment and general excellence in circulation category more than 1,700.

The Fremont County Chronicle News, St. Anthony, tied down three first place awards in photo, advertising campaign and general excellence in the circulation category of 850-1,700.

The St. Maries Gazette-Record won two first places — one in the special edition and the other in general excellence for newspapers with more than 1,700 circulation.

Here are the complete results:

General excellence (less than 850 circulation) — Ashton Herald, Lincoln County Journal, Shoshone; Kimberly Advertiser.

Russ tries to assuage visit fear

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's official tourist agency has offered written assurance that American visitors need not fear the retaliatory harassment that U.S. residents of Moscow have suffered, an American travel agent said Saturday.

He said this assurance responded to a warning from travel companies that the U.S. tourist trade—a major dollar source for the Soviets—could fall off as much as 50 per cent in 1971 because people fear backlash from the anti-Soviet actions of U.S. Zionist extremists.

E. Wallace Lawrence, president of a New York-based company that specializes in Soviet tours, said he delivered a letter Tuesday expressing concern on behalf of seven American companies to the president of Soviet Intourist, V. K. Bolchenko.

IT'S OFFICIAL. Signing of a special use permit has paved the way for a new $1.5 million winter recreation development. Participating from left were E.A. Fournier, supervisor; Butch Harper, John Combs, all Sawtooth National Forest, and Ralph Thomas, Big Wood Project; Fred Sprenger, president, and Robert L. Kress, executive director, both of the Sprenger Land Investment Company.

Permit signed for Ketchum winter recreation complex

KETCHUM — Development of a new $1.5 million winter recreation complex 16 miles north of here was signaled with the signing of a special use permit for the area Friday between officials of the Sawtooth National Forest and Sprenger Land Investment Inc., Ketchum.

The permit covers the area around Butterfield Creek where the Ketchum firm has been granted permission to develop a ski area to be known as the Butterfield Ski Resort.

Signing the permit were

Edwin A. Fournier, supervisor, Sawtooth National Forest, and Fred Sprenger, president; Sprenger Land Investment Inc. Others participating in the ceremony at the Ketchum Ranger District offices included John Combs, Ketchum ranger; Butch Harper, snow ranger and surveyor; Ralph Thomas, vice president and general manager, Big Wood River Project, and Robert L. Kress, executive director, Butterfield division, Sprenger Land Investment Inc. Robert Hoag, Sawtooth Forest recreation officer, said the investment firm plans to have the resort in operation in December, 1972. At that time it will have completed at least minimum requirements of the forest service for one mile of ski lifts, accompanying runs, parking area and a day lodge. Hoag said although planning is still being done, it is tentatively planned by the company to have another chair lift and a restaurant at the top of the one mile point at Elk Flats and possibly some overnight accommodations. He said eventually the development will include other lifts and expanded lodging accommodations. This winter representatives of the developing company are marking lift locations, ski runs and trails and sites for other development. Two seasons of planning have been allowed, Hoag said, to give the firm time to develop a master plan, scheduled for completion in one year, and to begin construction. The permit issued Friday covers a 30 year period and is subject to renewal at the end of that time.

Farm, ranch managers slate T.F. convention

TWIN FALLS — Both sides of the Public Land Law Review Commission report will be discussed during the annual meeting of the Idaho Society of Farm and Ranch Managers and Appraisers in Twin Falls this week.

About 150 members and guests are expected to attend the two-day meeting Friday and Saturday, according to David Mead, Twin Falls, past president of the group.

Among featured speakers will be Donald M. Carmichael, Boulder, Colo., professor of law at the University of Colorado. He will give the Sierra Club's response to the public land law report. His speech will be at noon Friday.

The opposite side of the picture will appear during a speech at 10:45 a.m. Saturday by John E. Martin, Priest River, executive director of the Idaho Commission on Federal Land Laws.

The convention opens at 8:30 a.m. Friday with registration at the Holiday Inn, convention headquarters.

The schedule of Friday's meetings and speeches is: 10:30 to 11:15 a.m., Harold D. Johnson, Boise, deputy state tax commissioner; 11:15 to noon, Merlin Young, Boise, federal referee in bankruptcy; noon to 1:30 p.m., Carmichael; 1:45 to 2:15 p.m., Robert Galbort, Chicago, of Mayer-Galbert and Associates of the Chicago Board of Trade; 2:15 to 3 p.m., Judge Charles Scogglin, Fairfield, Idaho District Judge; 3:15 to 4 p.m., Rod P. Johnson, Boise, of Johnson and Pifer Real Estate Appraisers and Counselors; 4 to 5 p.m., continuation of a short business meeting which will run from 10 to 10:30 a.m., with officers to be elected during the afternoon session; 8:30 to 7:45 p.m., cocktail hour; 7:45 p.m., dinner with Ray Lincoln, Twin Falls, state representative as toastmaster and speech by Johnny Lister, Sun Valley astrologer.

Saturday's activities will be: 8 to 9:45 a.m., no-host breakfast; 9 to 9:45 a.m., Sen. D. DeLoe Ellsworth, Mesa, Ariz., president elect of the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers; 9:45 to 10:30 a.m., Virgil D. Kennedy, Boise, University of Idaho Extension Service; 10:45 to 11:30 a.m., Martin; 11:30 to 12:15 p.m., L. James Kounlik, Twin Falls; 12:15 to 12:30 p.m., final business including installation of officers and directors, who will meet following the final business session.

All phases of the convention are open to the public, Mead said, and many of the speeches will be of general interest.

Crossing on canal closed

HANSEN — Closure of the Twin Falls Canal crossing on the pumpkin road south of Hansen will remain in effect for approximately one month while the bridge is being replaced. Keith Anderson, engineer, Twin Falls Highway District said today.

The bridge was closed last week and the old wooden structure has been removed. It will be replaced by a concrete structure, Anderson said, which will be completed as soon as possible depending on weather.

Arrington Bros., Twin Falls, hold the contract for the new structure. Anderson said work is in progress now to allow opening of the road by spring farming time. He said the road serves most of the land south and east of Hansen irrigated by wells and residents of that area must now detour either south of the bridge or north, depending on their destination. The road closed for construction is the only paved route to the area.

Jeep at Gooding stolen

GOODING — An Idaho National Guard Jeep was stolen between 5 and 10 a.m. Sunday from the armory at Gooding, according to Deputy Sheriff Jim Burke.

Burke said a chain had been broken or cut to free the Jeep. He said a key in another Jeep also had been turned on.

Tracks which officers believe to have been made by the missing Jeep were followed as far as road conditions would permit Sunday morning near the Gooding Packing plant.

Chamber at Shoshone sets drive

SHOSHONE — Membership drive for the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce will be this month.

Donald Everett is chairman of the drive with Myron Johnson, chamber president, and Roy Hubert, vice-president, as committee members.

Salaries still in question

TWIN FALLS — Salaries for city employees in Twin Falls for the current year are still in question, City Manager Jean Miller said today.

A proposed salary ordinance was postponed two weeks ago and the city manager said it will not be ready for this week's council meeting. Several proposals have been submitted, he said, but city council members are still attempting to reach an agreement on the salary amounts in view of costs to taxpayers.

Ex-Area resident wounded

RICHFIELD — A former Richfield youth, Kenneth Patterson, 20, was the victim of an accidental gunshot wound in Utah.

The former BYU student and another youth had been hunting when one of the two guns in the car fell against the other and discharged. Patterson was struck in the hip.

After hospitalization the bullet eventually lodged in a muscle and was not removed.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Hlatt, Richfield, parents of Patterson's wife, the former Marla Hlatt, have gone to Utah to help the couple move to Blackfoot where Patterson will be employed in social welfare work, his college major. He is the son of Mrs. Norma Patterson, Crem, Utah, and the late Elmo Patterson, Richfield.

Effort pushed on elk feeding

By ROBERTA DANIELS Times-News Correspondent. FAIRFIELD — A petition is being circulated by interested sportsmen requesting the Idaho Fish and Game Department start a feeding program for the remaining elk on the South Fork of the Boise River drainage. D.E. Hallowell, who is circulating a petition, said he already has at least 250 signatures.

The petition is addressed to the governor of Idaho, the Sawtooth National Forest, and the Idaho Fish and Game Department. It states the Soldier Mountain elk herd has been depleted through heavy winter, kill and hunting pressure. A heavy winter loss was sustained in 1968-69 and that similar conditions exist at this time.

It further states there is lack of a feeding program available for such an emergency and also lack of proper management by the Idaho Fish and Game Department. Severe conditions in November and continuing on through December and January have further confined the elk and limited their natural movement necessary for survival. The petitioners ask that an emergency situation be declared and that a feeding program be started to prevent further depletion of the herd.

Hallowell said the Soldier Mountain elk herd is an artificial herd, having been trucked into the region years ago. It plays an important economic role to the Fairfield area.

Big game were fed in severe winters in the period around 1955-60 in this region with one of the feeding ground being near the confluence of Big and Little Smoky Creeks. At that time a hay storage shed was maintained in the region.

Snowmobile tour ends in tragedy

RED LODGE, Mont. (UPI) — A snowmobile tour over one of Montana's highest mountain peaks ended in tragedy Sunday when one of the 16 members of the party died while the group was caught in a storm and forced to take cover in a snow cave.

The victim was identified as Hugh D. Galusha Jr., 52, a native of Helena, Mont., and president of the 9th Federal Reserve District in Minneapolis. The cause of death was undetermined.

The snowmobile party, including Minnesota Vikings football players Jim Marshall and Paul Dickson, left Red Lodge Saturday on a four covering a 65-mile route over the rugged Beartooth Highway to Cooke City at the northeast corner of Yellowstone National Park.

According to Park County Sheriff Don Gulinton, Minneapolis newsmen Jim Klobuchner — who organized the party — said the group became trapped in a storm on the mountain and were forced to take cover in the snow cave Saturday night.

Latch problem perils mission

"We'll give it a good ride," Shepard, 47, America's first man in space, said shortly after blastoff.

"They are very definite scratches, very rough to the touch," Roosa said.

The astronauts telecast shots of the mechanisms back to Houston on live television. Authorities on the ground examined the pictures to see if they could spot the malfunction.

"We've exhausted our imagination for right now on the troubleshooting," Mission Control finally said. "We'll work on it some more over night and get back to you in the morning."

There was no immediate indication after the efforts by Roosa to pinpoint the trouble whether the moon landing would be scrubbed. Ground experts appeared to be willing to give the matter plenty of thought, since manual operation of the mechanism would be impossible after liftoff from the moon when the critical second docking between the command module and the lunar lander takes place.

Despite the delays and the docking problems, the Apollo 14 was moving so accurately toward the moon that its first mid-course correction, scheduled for 3:40 p.m. EST, was canceled.

Shepard announced there had been "a good hard dock." The two vessels had sped 20,000 miles through space during the fumble attempts at link-up.

The 40-minute delay in launching will be made up during the flight to the moon. The speed of the Apollo 14 will be increased slightly during a mid-course maneuver tonight to put the lunar activities back on schedule.

The countdown hold was ordered because of the danger of lightning from storm clouds above the launch pad.

Cheers rang out in the Houston control room when Shepard announced there had been "a good hard dock." The two vessels had sped 20,000 miles through space during the fumble attempts at link-up.

Fish studied for mercury

JEROME — Fish in seven reservoirs, two streams and two fish hatcheries in Magic Valley will be analyzed by the Idaho Fish and Game Department for mercury residue.

Robert Bell, Jerome, regional fisheries biologist, said today mercury residues have been found in several species of fish in a number of Idaho waters, but the extent of the occurrence exceeding the .5 parts per million tolerance limit set by the Food and Drug Administration is unknown. Thus additional monitoring stations have been set in 73 locations in the state and six fish hatcheries.

Officials will test 1,450 fish; 78 water samples, 24 bottom sediment samples and 12 invertebrate-plankton samples, hopefully by May 1, Bell said.

The eight area reservoirs are Lake Walcott, Milner, Murtaugh Lake, Upper Salmon Falls, Oakley, Salmon Falls, and Magic.

The two streams are the Big Wood River and the Big Lost River and the two hatcheries are the Hagerman state hatchery and the Niagara Springs hatchery.

Bell said species to be checked include rainbows, perch, suckers, kokanee and some carp. He noted the testing will start this week in this area.

Timetable

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — The timetable for the flight of Apollo 14. (All times EST and subject to change).

Today

8:03 a.m. — Astronauts begin 10-hour sleep.

8:03 p.m. — Crew awakens. 7:03 p.m. — Crew tells Mission Control about the launch and describes any problems encountered during the blastoff.

10:30 p.m. — Apollo 14's main engine fires, switching the astronauts from a "free return" course to one that will not bring them safely back to earth without additional engine firings. This course is required to reach the lunar landing site.

During this midcourse correction, the spacecraft will increase its velocity to make up the 40 minutes lost during the delay of Sunday's launch.

10:51 p.m. — Astronauts take pictures of the dark side of the earth.

Tuesday

1:03 a.m. — Astronauts eat first meal of the day. 8:03 a.m. — Following a series of checkoffs and routine tasks, the astronauts have their second meal of the day. 8:23 a.m. — Crew begins 10-hour sleep period. 8:23 p.m. — Rest period ends. 7:03 p.m. — Astronauts eat their third meal of the day.

Truck collision causes big damage

COTTEREL — More than $5,000 damage resulted Monday morning when two tractor-trailer units collided 14 miles north of Snowville, Utah, near the Cotterel Port of Entry in Idaho, according to Idaho State Police.

Patrolman Gordon Mills said the accident occurred about 12:15 a.m. when trucks driven by Vern R. Hoar, 54, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Blaine E. Edwards, 34, Provo, Utah, collided. Mills said the truck operated by Hoar was struck from the rear by the truck operated by Edwards, resulting in about $5,000 damage to the Edwards vehicle.

Edwards was charged with inattentive driving. About $600 damage was done to the other truck.

Crash injures 2 men

RUPERT — Two men were treated and released from Cassia Memorial Hospital early Sunday after a head-on collision at 500 South and 650 West.

Idaho State Police officer T.C. Thompson said the accident occurred at a narrow bridge near Rupert. He said Paul N. King, 19, Paul, was driver of one car and Gene B. Montgomery, 24, Heyburn, was driving the other vehicle.

King was charged with driving left of center after the accident at 12:40 a.m. Sunday.

Two T.F. women given awards

BOISE — Two Twin Falls women were among the 22 Idaho women receiving special awards during the Idaho Presswomen's Convention this past weekend in Boise.

Norma Herringer of the Twin Falls Times-News, received a special award and recognition in quality articles on women-oriented pages, and Annette Jenkins of the Boise Statesman for developing a new newsbeat and coverage of news.

Named newspaper woman of achievement was Mrs. Betty Person, longtime women's and travel editor of the Idaho Statesman.

Other awards, all special awards presented during the Sunday brunch at the governor's house, went to Nancy Bedingfield, Ketchum, who started the Sawtooth Mountain Star; JoJane Hammes, partner with her husband in the St. Maries Gazette Record; Anita Jo Nisholka, Boise, editor of Cascade's 12-page employe magazine; Sylvia Harrel, industrial news reporter of the Lewiston Tribune; Joan Marez, Nampa Free Press; Alice Deller of the Intermountain Observer, Boise; Lindy High of UPI, Boise; Phoebe Lindsay, information director for WICHE — Mountain States Regional Medical; Helen Williams, information consultant with the Boise School District; Mary Jane Williams; McCall, feature writing and photography, Idaho Statesman; Shirley V. Mix, Moscow, who writes for the Lewiston Tribune, Moscow, Idahoan, Spokane's Spokesman-Review and the Idaho Statesman; Phyllis Huffman of the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development for her statewide "Where to Go in Idaho"; Sylvia Wood of the Idaho Statesman for her "All About Art"; Jo Morrison, Pocatello, imaginative cover page layout; Miriam Barr, Veteran Service, Caldwell; Bev Swanson, longtime communications expert with KRLE radio, in Lewiston; ERIC Meckstroth, society editor of Lewiston Tribune, and Rosalyn Barry, city editor of the Caldwell News-Tribune.

A newsmen's panel was a highlight of the Saturday sessions at the Rodeway Inn, along with Johnny Lister, Boise, Sun Valley's nationally-known personality, who was luncheon speaker.

Speaking on "Responsibility in Community Reporting," Bill Hall of the Lewiston Tribune, served as moderator on the news panel. Participants were Ken Robinson, editorial page editor of the Idaho Statesman; Richard Charnock, UPI; Bob Selter, Boise Radio KATN, and Sam Day, editor of the Intermountain Observer.

Lister entertained the more than 80 Idaho Presswomen with his astrological viewpoints concerning the women writers.

Idaho's first lady, Mrs. Cecil (Carol) Andrus, was a special guest at the opening banquet Friday night and hosted the brunch Sunday morning.

Given awards

TWIN FALLS WOMEN receiving special awards during the three-day Idaho Press Women's convention in Boise this weekend were Norma Herringer, society editor of the Twin Falls Times-News, and Annette Jenkins, who edits the Idaho Statesman's news bureau in Twin Falls. Twenty-two special awards were presented during a brunch Sunday morning at the governor's house.

Human rights unit meets Thursday

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Human Rights advisory committee will hold its regular meeting in the probate courtroom of the judicial building, Thursday at 8 a.m. During the meeting, the committee will hear any charge of discrimination brought by a person who believes he has been discriminated against. Robert Stradley, committee chairman said discrimination in employment, education, real property transactions and public accommodations because of race, color, religion, sex or nationality is prohibited by the Idaho anti-discrimination act.

Devout angler's mind turns to ice fishing

By LOHNIVIE

Times-News Correspondent PICABO — Inevitably at this time of the year the really devout angler's thoughts turn to fishing. Whether this be from desire to have a meal, try out a Christmas gift or to combat cabin fever, it's true and many now hang up their shotguns and pursue cold weather trout. Fishing through the ice is a favorite pastime for many anglers and offers a different change of pace than regular stream or river fishing. Plenty of water, fish and cold weather. Special seasons on Little Wood Reservoir and Fish Creek also pamper the ice fisherman. When we fish through the ice we are basically confronted with the same problems that confront us otherwise. That is, finding the fish to begin with and then selecting the proper lure or bait. We are handicapped somewhat insofar as we cannot read the water but we can learn by those that know the area or better yet we can become familiar with the area before ice sets in. At any rate the problem is to first locate the fish. Perch, a long time favorite with the ice fisherman is not only a prevalent species but also a welcome one. They furnish activity when nothing else is available and at the same time offer fine table dinner. To find perch we must stick with those areas that furnish natural habitat. Weed beds near shore for example where food is available and also protection from larger predator fish. Around pillings of boat docking areas is another good place to look for these pan fish. Trout through the ice to many is the ultimate winter sport. The presence of trout along with pan fish offers the angler a chance at a smorgasbord so to speak. During the winter months the metabolism of fish is slowed down greatly. Cold water makes them much less active and so we fish accordingly. Fish won't travel the distance in the winter that they do in warmer weather to take a bait. Minnows are a good producer through the ice as is chunks of non-game fish. Salmon eggs sometimes work well as do the various spinners and ice flies on the market.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks were strong in heavy trading after about three hours Monday.

President Nixon, in his annual economic message to Congress, set his sights on more modest mid-1972 targets of 4.5 per cent unemployment and a 3 per cent rate of inflation. A few months ago, top administration economists were predicting a jobless rate of 4 per cent—which they considered full employment—by mid-1972.

However, Nixon did not retreat from his earlier optimistic forecast of general economic improvement, predicting that "1971 will be a better year (than 1970), leading to a good year—in 1972—and a new steadiness of expansion in the years beyond."

Near 1:15 p.m., the Dow Jones industrial average was ahead nearly 8 points at 876.44. Advances were leading declines, 943 to 398. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.48 at 86.36.

A three-hour turnover of 12,240,000 shares compared with 13,070,000 shares traded at a like period Friday.

Increasing clouds becoming partly cloudy tonight. Windy tonight. Mostly fair Tuesday. Highs up to 40s and low 50s. Overnight lows 25 to 30. Probability of precipitation 10 per cent or less tonight and Tuesday.

Outlook for Wednesday, continued fair but cooler.

Company slashes auto wreck rate

NEW YORK (UPI)—When a private company adopts a program to cut the accident rate of its cars—and reduces it more than 50 per cent in two years—there may be a lesson for other companies and the general public.

C.I.T. Financial Corp., which has 3,000 people driving company cars 70 million miles a year out of 1,400 offices in the United States and Canada, did it. Aside from the injuries and deaths avoided, the company figures it saves $100,000 a year.

A letter from C.I.T. President Walter S. Holmes Jr. to the head of each subsidiary company got the "preventive driving" program rolling in late 1968. Bulletin board reminders and company pep talks were and are part of the effort. But strong pressure from top management and a 115-page programmed-instruction manual, which every company driver must read as the basis of an examination, make it effective.

Prepared by Porter Henry & Co., a New York firm specializing in this field, the manual takes the reader-driver through every phase of driving from starting the car to putting it in the garage. The reader must fill in blanks in answers to questions raised in the manual. Questions were prepared after a series of eight safety training meetings with Safe Driving Committees set up in each C.I.T. subsidiary.

It sounds almost too simple, but results have been dramatic. In 1967, before starting on the program, C.I.T. accidents occurred at a rate of 1.6 per 100,000 miles. For policy year 1970 they were down to 0.89... and the last quarter of 1970 down to 0.68.

The program cost less than $15,000 to initiate, not counting executive time, and is being maintained for under $1,000 per year.

Latest statistics for fiscal 1970 show C.I.T. saves $70,000 annually in out-of-pocket accident costs, plus a $30,000 reduction in insurance premiums because of the lower accident rate. This $100,000 doesn't even figure in the money saved in absenteeism, medical payments, workmen's compensation and liability.

A case in point. In Tutuville, Tenn., a C.I.T. car traveling at 65 m.p.h. on a state highway hit a car that ran a stop sign from the left. No loss of life, but the car is "totaled."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—"The tough demands and our 'weak bargaining position, make it ever harder to do business" with oil-rich nations.

Despite the dramatic rise and the "growing fears that the list is too high, the market shows no technical evidence of a correction is imminent," according to T.F.P.O. Incorporated.

The company is bullish because odd lotters continue to sell heavily, the majority of stocks are not technically overbought, and stocks "are beginning to overcome important lines of resistance in preparation for major advances." T.F.P.O. says the bulls are in command and not likely to let go.

WIND TO BRING SOME CLOUDY SKIES

Magic Valley, Twin Falls and vicinity, Northside, Burley-Rupert area:

Increasing clouds becoming partly cloudy tonight. Windy tonight. Mostly fair Tuesday. Highs up to 40s and low 50s. Overnight lows 25 to 30. Probability of precipitation 10 per cent or less tonight and Tuesday.

Outlook for Wednesday, continued fair but cooler.

Company slashes auto wreck rate

NEW YORK (UPI)—When a private company adopts a program to cut the accident rate of its cars—and reduces it more than 50 per cent in two years—there may be a lesson for other companies and the general public.

C.I.T. Financial Corp., which has 3,000 people driving company cars 70 million miles a year out of 1,400 offices in the United States and Canada, did it. Aside from the injuries and deaths avoided, the company figures it saves $100,000 a year.

A letter from C.I.T. President Walter S. Holmes Jr. to the head of each subsidiary company got the "preventive driving" program rolling in late 1968. Bulletin board reminders and company pep talks were and are part of the effort. But strong pressure from top management and a 115-page programmed-instruction manual, which every company driver must read as the basis of an examination, make it effective.

Prepared by Porter Henry & Co., a New York firm specializing in this field, the manual takes the reader-driver through every phase of driving from starting the car to putting it in the garage. The reader must fill in blanks in answers to questions raised in the manual. Questions were prepared after a series of eight safety training meetings with Safe Driving Committees set up in each C.I.T. subsidiary.

It sounds almost too simple, but results have been dramatic. In 1967, before starting on the program, C.I.T. accidents occurred at a rate of 1.6 per 100,000 miles. For policy year 1970 they were down to 0.89... and the last quarter of 1970 down to 0.68.

The program cost less than $15,000 to initiate, not counting executive time, and is being maintained for under $1,000 per year.

Latest statistics for fiscal 1970 show C.I.T. saves $70,000 annually in out-of-pocket accident costs, plus a $30,000 reduction in insurance premiums because of the lower accident rate. This $100,000 doesn't even figure in the money saved in absenteeism, medical payments, workmen's compensation and liability.

A case in point. In Tutuville, Tenn., a C.I.T. car traveling at 65 m.p.h. on a state highway hit a car that ran a stop sign from the left. No loss of life, but the car is "totaled."

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—"The tough demands and our 'weak bargaining position, make it ever harder to do business" with oil-rich nations.

Despite the dramatic rise and the "growing fears that the list is too high, the market shows no technical evidence of a correction is imminent," according to T.F.P.O. Incorporated.

The company is bullish because odd lotters continue to sell heavily, the majority of stocks are not technically overbought, and stocks "are beginning to overcome important lines of resistance in preparation for major advances." T.F.P.O. says the bulls are in command and not likely to let go.

Jim: "The false-card play is the play of a high card when you can just as well play a lower one. Most false-cards are useless, but there are occasions when it's your only chance."

Oswald: "There are a few situations where a false-card can win and can't lose for you. We might call these plays 'automatic' false-cards."

Jim: "South lets West hold the first two spades but to win the third one. He discards a club from dummy and East drops a heart. In spite of 27 high-card points in the two hands, things don't look promising. South can count only seven top-card tricks. He can get to nine by playing clubs, provided East holds both honors, but South decides to go after diamonds. He leads a diamond toward dummy and finesses the jack. When it holds, South is up to eight tricks. He cashes dummy's ace of diamonds." Oswald: "Here is the spot for the automatic false-card. If West plays the 10 of diamonds, South will make his contract. South knows West has the queen. If West false-cards with the queen, South will have a real problem. He won't know whether to play East for both missing diamonds or play that the suit will divide 3-3."

Jim: "He will probably play out three rounds of hearts. West will shed a spade on that third heart and South will know that West started with six spades, two hearts and five minor-suit cards."

Oswald: "He will probably try to drop the 10 but he may not. West's false-card has given him a problem and no one solves all bridge problems."

PASS IT ON
 by L.M. Boyd

IT IS THE WOMAN not satisfied with her own looks who intermittently switches the furniture around in her house, contends Theodor Reik. ... IN SIZE, the body of the average man, it's said, is about halfway between a tom and a star ... ADVISED BILLY SUNDAY, that Love and War man of yesteryear, "Try praising your wife, even if it frightens her at first."

THE LADYPRIEND and I are on the road. Would not wish to slow you with a travelog, but must report the temperature between Flagstaff, Ariz., and Albuquerque, N.M., as we passed through the other night dropped to 30 degrees F. below zero. The scatter of stalled cars, dead at unpredictable angles like dry bones in the desert, looked crazy, as though the cars had gone out of nature. Can hear him now, my reader in Fairbanks, Alaska, saying, "That's nothing, buddy." Still, although I've lived in the north country mostly, by peculiar chance it is New Mexico in the Sunny Southwest where I've seen it coldest, so far. On to the Gulf Coast.

IF YOU ARE between 55 and 65 years old, it's not likely you can be hypnotized. A scholar who has made a study of putting people to sleep says only seven out of 100 citizens in that age bracket can be talked into a trance. The other 93 out of 100, he contends, are too stubborn.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q. "Isn't pepper in food a preservative?" A. Certainly is! What's noteworthy about that is the science boys only proved it to be such 20 years ago ... Q. "How many of the girls who go to college actually get their degrees?" A. Little better than half.

WHEN A GIRL'S father is away from home a lot, it's not apt to shake her up greatly. But when a boy's father is absent from the household much of the time, that tends to make the young fellow unsure of himself. Or so says a team of scientific researchers who looked into the lives of seamen and their families. Sons of sailors, they claim, are liable when young to get into more schoolyard fights than most, then later marry bossy women.

MET A UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR at the motel in Barstow, Calif., who reported not one of his students in a class of 132 was able to answer his query, "Who was 'N Duce'?" Does that make you feel old? ... NOTE QUITE A MANY mobile homes on the road now. People who live in them average a move every 28 months ... A GAS STATION MAN in Lubbock, Texas, yesterday said of his boss, "Man, he's so contrary, if he'd drown, you'd have to look for him upstream."

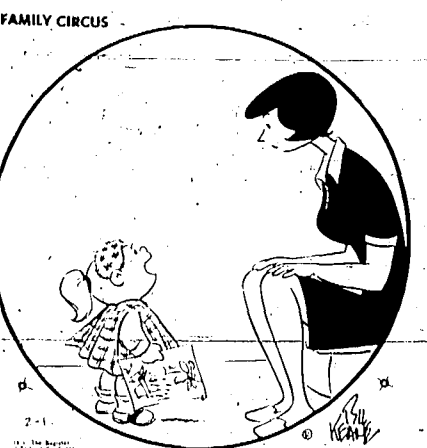

EVERY WOMAN needs at least one hat, two girdles, three handbags, four sweaters, five slips, six pairs of shoes and seven dresses. So suggests a fashion expert. Mister, does your wife possess her appropriate quotas of the aforementioned? ... IN PRISON, the men convicts seem to be more troublesome than the women convicts. But once they're released on parole, it's likely the men will simmer down to become fairly easy to deal with, while the women may get all riled up to become impossible to control. Such is the claim of an experienced lawman who can't explain the why of it.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 99068, Seattle, Wash. 98199

Memo spells out Nixon 'open door' to GOP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House staff members have a memo in their files reviewing President Nixon's proclamation of an "open door" for admission to the Republican party. Circulation of the memo suggests that Nixon is very serious about recruiting more Republicans.

The authorship of the memo is uncertain, but it refers to the President's Jan. 15 speech at dedication of the new Eisenhower Center, which now houses the party's national headquarters.

Nixon noticed the center's door was open despite wintry weather, the memo says, discarded notes for his intended speech and talked instead of a GOP open door for all who would join.

With exaggeration which should cause even a politician to wince, the memo calls the incident "one of those rare moments in history when a seemingly small, insignificant fact prompted a meaningful change that can alter history."

If rapid expansion of the GOP changes the course of U.S. political history, it will not result from a flash of insight on the part of the President in a January morning of 1971, Nixon and other party leaders have been talking for years of the need for the GOP to enroll more members.

Rogers Morton, who retired the same day as Nixon's open-door speech as national party chairman, was worried about recent evidence of an increase in the number of independent voters who shun allegiance to the political parties. He said the future of the two-party system was in danger.

But survey findings collected by the GOP National Committee indicate that the party is in slightly better shape now than in some past years, compared with Democratic and Independent voters.

Norse sat up

LONDON (UPI) — The London Times Friday printed the following letter from Mrs. Elizabeth Tindall-Lister:

"Sir, when I was in Norway many years ago I was told by the curator of a museum when I commented on the extreme shortness of the early Norse beds that the old Norsemen, although a tall race, always sat up in bed, believing that to lie down flat meant death. Yours Faithfully."

Jet test set

TOULOUSE, France (UPI) — A prototype of France's supersonic jetliner will make a test flight early next month to Dakar on the West African coast at twice the speed of sound, it was announced Friday. The National Industrial Aerospace Corp., builder of the plane, said the flight was intended to test the effect of the sonic boom.
