

Daughter said 'well-liked' girl

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The father of one of the convicted Tate-LaBlanca killers described his daughter Monday as a girl with a prize collection of stuffed animals who sang in the church choir and was so well liked by their neighbors that she was always welcome in everyone's home.

Joseph L. Krenwinkel, an insurance agent in his late 40s whose face was lined with worry, testified in a husky voice in the penalty phase of the trial that his daughter had never been a disciplinary problem in all the years that she had lived at home.

Krenwinkel was the first witness called by the defense in an attempt to persuade the jury that the young woman and two other family co-defendants of Charles Manson should not be sent to the gas chamber but given life imprisonment instead.

Krenwinkel's divorced wife, Dorothy, broke into sobs as she sat in the rear of the courtroom while the father began describing the childhood of the young woman who was accused on the witness stand of plunging a knife repeatedly into the body of coffee heiress Abigail Folger and also participating in the LaBlanca killings.

Under questioning by defense attorney Paul Fitzgerald, Krenwinkel said that his daughter had been an "exceedingly normal child."

"She entertained herself and didn't need a floorshow to keep her happy," he said. "She loved animals and was very gentle with them. She had a collection of stuffed animals which she prized very highly."

As her father testified, Miss Krenwinkel paid little attention but whispered and giggled instead with the other two female defendants, Susan Atkins and Leslie Van Houten.

Krenwinkel said that his daughter once won a prize for memorizing and reading an excerpt from the Bible and that "it hung in her room for many years."

"Do you feel that she was close to you and your wife?" Fitzgerald asked.

"In my estimation, yes, I'm sure of it. We enjoyed going places together."

"How did she get along with her classmates and friends?" Fitzgerald asked.

"She got along very well. Neighbors were always asking us to let her spend time with them."

Krenwinkel said that in September, 1967, his daughter abruptly gave up her job in an auto rental firm and called him to tell him she was going on vacation with two other girls.

He said she left that very afternoon without picking up her paycheck and leaving her own automobile behind.

"Did you ever find out who she actually left with?" Fitzgerald asked.

"I found out at last."

"Who was it?"

"Charles Manson."

The father said he did not see his daughter again until 25 months later on Oct. 17, 1969, two months after the Tate-LaBlanca killings.

He said he made arrangements at that time for her to go to Mobile, Ala. She was arrested in that city in December, 1969.

The state rested its case Monday morning after calling only two witnesses in its demand that the convicted defendants be sent to the state gas chamber.

Court case may stop storage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., believes a court case brought by conservationists could prevent Lake Powell in the Colorado River storage project from becoming a "feasible project," an Aspinall spokesman said Monday.

"Congressman Aspinall was about to sponsor a bill clarifying the situation, but he is holding off for the time being because the matter is in litigation," Sidney L. McFarland, staff director of Aspinall's committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, told UPI.

Ex-T.F. resident touring world on Chinese junk

TWIN FALLS — A former Twin Falls resident and graduate of the local high school in 1953 is currently on a world tour with her husband aboard a Chinese pleasure junk they built and designed especially for the tour.

Maureen Tatge Roberts and her husband, Jack Roberts, left Hong Kong in December on the extended tour. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mal Tatge, Portland, Ore., formerly of Twin Falls, and a sister of Mrs. Charles D. Daniels, Boise.

Mrs. Roberts, born in Twin Falls and educated here and at the University of Idaho, Moscow, had resided in California since her marriage until two years ago. At that time the couple moved to Hong Kong where both are employed by an electronics company.

They purchased an old junk two years ago and began remodeling and rebuilding it to meet their own specifications to convert it into a luxury ship. The two left in December alone on a world tour. First stop was Manila in the Philippines where they spent the Christmas and New Year's holidays. From there they sailed to Borneo and Singapore.

Their ship, the Intrepid Dragon II, operates with modern diesel engine and a unique automatic steering system which can be operated from any part of the craft. It also contains all modern conveniences of any home.

Maureen and Jack took the junk on many shakedown cruises to test its ability and durability before starting on their long voyage.

Burglary trial to continue

TWIN FALLS — The first degree burglary trial of Steven Whitehead, 24, Twin Falls, was scheduled to continue at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in Fifth District Court before Judge Theron Ward.

The trial began just before noon Monday after a 12-member jury was selected. Whitehead is charged in connection with the theft of two mattresses from a camper at Gateway Trailer Center last August.

State's witnesses called included several Twin Falls police officers and employees at the trailer center.

Whitehead, called in his own behalf prior to recessing of court Monday, was on the stand for about an hour and a half. He contended in his testimony that the mattresses were not taken from a camper, as the state alleges, but that he found them on the ground at the trailer center.

Judge Ward recessed the trial prior to closing arguments by defense attorney Golden Bennett and prosecutor Leon Smith.

Winter concert set Wednesday

BY LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS — A lively musical treat is in store for those attending the 1971 Winter Concert of Twin Falls High School at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the CSI Fine Arts auditorium.

A widely varied program of choral, band and orchestral music will be presented by the school's many talented musicians, ranging from medieval choral music to contemporary selections from a Broadway musical, and including an "exciting" review of Civil War selections, according to directors, Richard Smack, choral instructor, and Del Slaughter, band and orchestra mentor.

As with the last concert, the high school choir will open the program with a traditional number, "Ave Maria" by Thomas Luis de Victoria, followed by a religious number, "Salvation Is Created" by Paul Tschernokoff.

Aaron Copland's tongue-twisting "Ching-A-Ring Chaw" will pick up the tempo a bit with a fast-moving, lively test of the students' tonal talents. Two "Choruses" from Opus 08 by Vincent Persichetti bear a deceptive title, hinting of a classical nature, but the titles of the Choruses tell the tale: "Maggie and Millie and Molly and May," a brief tale of four children who go to the seashore for a day of fun, and "Dominic

Has A Doll," an equally attractive young folks' yarn.

The concert choir will wind up their portion of the program with a familiar number to many: "Wand'rin' Star," from the musical "Paint Your Wagon" by Fredrick Loewe. The talented pianist Jennine Berry will accompany the choir in all but the a cappella numbers.

The choir's Madrigal Singers will present three "typical Madrigal numbers," according to Smack: "With Drooping Wings Ye Cupids Come," by Henry Purcell; "While the Bright Sun" by William Byrd, and "I Love My Love," arranged by G.T. Holst. The madrigal singers have worked long and hard on these intricate numbers, even coming to the school early Saturday morning for several hours of practice, and working after school.

Smack said he complimented the students on their devotion to musical excellence — choir and madrigals both.

The high school symphony orchestra has only two numbers on tap, but both are designed to display the many talents of the young musicians. The "Symphony in F Major" by a relatively unknown musician, Carl von Dittersdorf, is a longer number, with four movements. Dittersdorf was a contemporary of Mozart, and has been overshadowed by Mozart's genius until only recently, Slaughter said.

Dittersdorf's talent is monumental, however, and his "Symphony" reveals his true greatness.

Two Welsh nursery tunes by Alun Hoddinott, "Suo-gan (Lullaby)" and "Peddl (Shoering Song)," conclude the orchestra's work. The Nursery Tunes include one oboe solo passage by Marilyn van Noy, and are pleasant, lovely tunes for all to hear.

The symphony band's repertoire, Slaughter said, is "excellent; much of it will simply take your breath away." Based on the theme of honoring the "patriotic" month of February, the band's program of four numbers includes a Spanish theme "Symphonic Dance No. 2" by Clifton Williams; the thundering selections from the Broadway musical "1776" by Sherman Edwards, which includes some "very important oboe work" by

CSJ auditorium.

Shuttle service planned

TWIN FALLS — Bus shuttle service on a limited basis may be available to residents of Twin Falls in the near future.

James Hopkins met with the city council Monday night to ask what steps are necessary to establish such a service. As yet, he said, plans are tentative but he plans to use one or more 12-passenger van type vehicles and to pick up passengers throughout the city.

He said he hopes rather than running a regular schedule, to answer calls but to make arrangements to pick up several persons in the same general area on one run. If necessary, he said, he would go outside of the city limits but would generally run services to shopping centers and to the downtown area.

Hopkins was advised to make regular application for a taxi cab license for city operation.

Funds needed

Alton Robinson, chairman of the benefit program, said only $75 has been collected by the club to date.

Whatever we can do for them is helpful," he said.

Contributions can be sent to Robinson at 282 Caswell Ave., or given to any Jaycee member.

Senate rejects tax exemption proposal

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate rejected a property tax exemption bill Monday, but only after lengthy debate on conflicting interest questions posed by two legislators.

The bill would have exempted from ad valorem taxation newly constructed improvements on real property during the year in which the improvements were substantially completed and during the succeeding tax year.

Officials confirmed by Senate

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate confirmed Monday Tom McEldowney as acting commissioner of finance, H. Fred Garrett as director of the Department of Employment, and Lloyd Howe as acting secretary of commerce and development.

Sen. Lyle Cobbs, R-Boise, said the measure was "truly a people's bill" and said it would "tip the scales" when businesses consider locating in Idaho.

Following the vote, Minority Leader John Evans, D-Malad, rose on a point of personal privilege and said both legislators "should have stood up and told the people why they shouldn't vote."

Farm labor bill due

BOISE (UPI) — The House Agricultural Affairs Committee agreed Monday to introduce anti-strike, controlled picketing legislation its sponsors say will take farm labor disputes out of "the law of the jungle."

been overcome had such legislation been on the books there during the grape growers' dispute with Chavez.

"We certainly need some relief in this area," said former state Sen. Phil Batt, R-Boise, one of four who spoke on its behalf. "We need to have a set of rules... we can't have the law of the jungle prevail as we did last summer on our farms."

He said the measure "obviously is not satisfactory from the standpoint of labor and will require considerable revision."

Gordon Thatcher, Rexburg, legal counsel for the Idaho Cooperative Utilities, said "we think this is a move to impose the will of private companies on these rural-owned, consumer-owned rural electric cooperatives."

The bill introduced by the committee provides for a ban on secondary boycotts. It would prohibit strikes and it contains provisions for injunctive action to enforce its provisions.

He was supported by Doyle Symms, Sunny Slope; John Batt, Caldwell; and Lewis Lepper, Boise, director of research for the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation.

Lepper, apparently anticipating a somewhat rocky road ahead, told the committee he felt "you ought to start from the best vantage point of agriculture and then start negotiating" provisions of the legislation. He recommended the committee not weaken agriculture's position by too many preliminary concessions to labor.

It permits picketing only under certain conditions and then only by persons in a farmer's employ for at least 30 days.

"Mass picketing," whereby ingress or egress from a farmer's property is blocked also is prohibited by the measure.

Nobody appeared to speak against the bill they submitted but it was understood the committee will conduct public hearings after it is printed.

Meantime, the committee held for further study a measure proposed by Washington Water Power Company to put rural electric cooperatives under the public utilities commission.

Phil Batt said he felt organized labor will oppose the bill, particularly on the picketing, strike and quick relief (injunctive) provisions.

"I feel the farmers are making quite a concession to bring themselves under collective bargaining," Batt said. "I've asked organized labor to come forth with alternatives to this bill. I have seen none at this point."

Rep. Lester Hartvigsen, D-Malad, showed surprise at some of the provisions of the bill when he saw a copy of it after the

Connally facing legal fees probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John B. Connally, President Nixon's choice for secretary of the Treasury, faced questioning today on $225,000 he received as fees while governor of Texas for serving as executor of the estate of a legendary Texas oil millionaire.

Times disclosed Monday that he had received three payments of $75,000 from the Sid W. Richardson Foundation, which received the bulk of Richardson's $105 million estate following his death on Sept. 30, 1950.

At Connally's request, Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., opened to the press and public what was scheduled to be a customary closed-door examination by Long's Senate Finance Committee of Connally's financial status and interests.

The Texas Constitution prohibits its governor from receiving any "salary, reward or compensation" for services "performed during the time he is governor."

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, he said, has stated he will veto any "right-to-work" legislation that hits his desk.

The trend is among those cited in a new report issued by Chase Manhattan Bank on "Food - Prices and - Marketing Trends in the United States."

Connally was expected to explain that the $225,000 was for services performed before he became governor. He served as Texas governor from 1963 to 1969.

He and others speaking on behalf of the bill discussed in general terms labor strife on farms in the Canyon County area last summer and suggested it was instigated by Cesar Chavez or some other members of his farm labor movement in California.

He said one of the more controversial provisions from the farm employer's point of view is the provision for a union shop is agreed to be the employer in a contract.

The statisticians said the trends in eating habits will be coupled with a 2.5 per cent per year increase in food prices. The food budget, they said, will represent a smaller portion of the average American family's income in 1980 than it does today.

Senate approves water use terms

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate approved 33-2 Monday a measure adding more definitions of beneficial uses for the purposes of obtaining water rights.

seriously concerned about keeping Idaho's water in Idaho for the use of Idahoans, the more specific purposes are spelled out the better."

The legislation provides that beneficial uses of water may include but are not limited to domestic, agricultural, mining, manufacturing, electric power generation, municipal, industrial, fish and wildlife propagation, recreation, artificial ground water recharge, transportation and water quality control.

Manley said the bill did "little more than recognize an existing situation," and said there was an attorney general's opinion which said the constitution does not limit beneficial uses to those specifically spelled out in the constitution.

Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, said an identical measure was approved a year ago, but was held in the House Agriculture Committee.

Sen. David Bivens, R-Payette, and Wall Yarbrough, R-Grandview, opposed the measure, Bivens on grounds any change in appropriation of water was one of the main objections to the revised constitution, which was rejected by voters in the Nov. 3 general election.

Manley said the legislation would "not be harmful since it changes nothing," and said the constitution would still provide for priority use of water. But, he said, "if we are

Environmental council raps plan

IDAHO FALLS—The Environmental Council has joined the Idaho Fish and Game Department and citizens in the Twin Falls and Gooding areas who have asked the Idaho State Board of Land Commissioners to not grant a permit for dredge mining in the Snake River in the Thousand Springs area, Gerald A. Jayne, president, said today. The permit is sought by Detweiler and Silgar to dredge for gravel, sand and precious metals.

Dredge mining in the gravel beds in this scenic stretch of the Snake River would destroy much-needed fish spawning areas and in general would be detrimental to existing recreational values, Jayne said.

The environmental council believes that when a proposed dredge mining operation poses such an obvious threat to its one, the state land board should make denial of the application a routine matter.

President relaxes on beach

CANEEL BAY, St. John, V.I. (UPI) — President Nixon put in a final day of relaxation in the tropic Virgin Islands Monday, plus a big of beachside work on additional messages he plans to send Congress this week. He and Mrs. Nixon fly back to Washington tonight. The President, who sent his annual economic report to Congress today, will submit three more special messages on successive days. One on improving the executive manpower situation in the federal government is set for Tuesday; his renewed recommendation for legislation setting up better public interest machinery in event of transportation disputes will be made Wednesday, and a detailed explanation of his proposed revenue-sharing plan is set for Thursday.

Time for Living

Does it surprise you to realize that everytime you buy a 5 cent pencil you've made a contract? Or you go into a store to buy anything from a pillow to a pound of meat. Each situation is linked. They all involve what lawyers call "contract."

Most of us are under the impression that a contract must be a formal document-bristling with complicated language (most of which we don't understand). Not so. As consumers, you and I probably make 100 contracts a month! A contract is simply an agreement between two or more people to do something for each other. Pick up the pencil again. It means you've agreed to give the store five cents; in return, the store has agreed to give you the pencil. You've each made a contract. More, a contract also must have consideration and what's called warranty. Consideration is both the money you pay and the product. Each person must get what was intended.

Back in 1901 in London, hundreds of people rented rooms to watch Edward VII's coronation parade. But there was no parade; the coronation had been canceled. All those people got their money back — because there had been a failure of consideration. I've been enjoying learning these down-to-earth facts from an article by attorney Jonathan L. Alpert who has, among other degrees, his LL.M. from Harvard Law School. He's been published in the American Journal of Legal History and American Bar Association Journal.

Teachers poor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Children in poor neighborhoods often suffer because their school teachers are badly trained and would rather be teaching somewhere else, the U.S. Office of Education says today. About 350,000 of the nation's 2 million public school teachers are working in schools populated by poor children, the report said. "The majority of these teachers are young, inexperienced and often poorly prepared for the culture shock of entering a classroom of poor children," the third annual report on education professions said.

"Even more important is warranty. A warranty is the legal guarantee implied in the law which you get with any produce. One warranty is that the product is merchantable — up to the usual standards for such products. For example, a new pair of socks rips after only a few wearings. You're entitled to some money back." But not if it's new nylon stockings for your wife — because nylon hose have a tendency to rip with minimal use.

Another warranty implied by law which all of us should know is the warranty of fitness for particular purpose. (This struck me personally; I was recently a victim.) If you're relying on the merchant's skill in choosing what you need, there's an implied warranty that the goods are fit for your purpose. Take an air-conditioner. The salesman sells you one he says will cool the room you describe. But it cools only half the room. You're entitled to your money back because the implied warranty of fitness for particular purpose has been breached.

Mr. Alpert urges all of us to understand our legal rights in any contract, written or unwritten. Closely examine written contracts and watch out for these words: "I promise ... covenant ... agree ... stipulate." They may make a contract binding — even though the salesman says it isn't. And look for these danger phrases: "Waiver of statutes of limitations ... confession of judgment ... assignment of wages ... skip-tracing fees ... brokerage charges ... waiver of exemption ... homestead right."

2 youths charged on theft

RUPERT — Juvenile petitions were signed Monday against two Minidoka County youths, ages 12 and 13, charging them in connection with a break in last Thursday night at West Minico Junior High School. The sheriff said the junior high school was entered through a window which was broken out. Money, totaling about $125, was taken from five candy and apple machines the sheriff said. He said an ice pick used on the machines caused considerable damage. That same night the Pioneer School was broken into and about $500 worth of tape recorders, record players and projectors was taken. The sheriff said he does not believe there is any connection between the youths and that burglary.

Mercury threat from fish or animals real, growing

By LORNIVIE

Times-News Correspondent PICABO — Many hunters and sportsmen have wondered, since announcements by the Idaho Fish and Game Department, just how serious is the presence of mercury in pheasants? Some have called it simply a scare campaign. Others are afraid and most are puzzled.

Since concentrations of mercury toxin was first identified in fish in Ontario, Canada, a great deal of study has been given the subject by United States health organizations, game departments' and university researchers. Here are some interesting facts about the lethal fungicide: The Federal Food and Drug Administration sets 0.05 parts per million (PPM) of mercury as a tolerance level in foods containing the metal. This guideline is a temporary estimate, conservative perhaps, pending further study. Pheasants tested in Magic Valley proved to contain approximately one PPM. If pheasants were contaminated from treated grains it seems highly probable that other upland game — including rabbits and native waterfowl — were also exposed. The mercury problem does not end with contamination by ingestion of treated seeds, however.

This fungicide which is sold under various brand names and which is used to control fungus growth on planted seeds can also leach into the soil and eventually find its way into streams and lakes. Here the obvious result would be mercury contamination in fish. Experts in Michigan have given these cycles as two possible ways fish contamination can take place. Algae take on mercury from the water, they furnish food for plankton which in turn are eaten by fish such as minnows, shiners, etc. and are in turn eaten by game fish where the mercury is deposited in muscle tissue where it cannot be removed by cooking. The other route is from small worms or crustaceans getting the elemental mercury from stream sediment, converting it to methyl mercury which is passed on to bottom feeding fish that depend upon worms and other bottom dwelling creatures for food and eventually on to game fish when they eat the bottom feeders.

The primary source of water contamination in our area is from the fungicide. Another source of mercury contamination is by waste dumpage from plants which manufacture chlorine gas and caustic soda.

Mercury is dangerous — have no doubts about this. One recent report from U.S. Public Health officials documents a case in New Mexico of an unknown illness which crippled three children in Alamogordo. It was found, upon investigation, that a hog had been fed mercury treated seed, was butchered and the children contracted fungicide poisoning from eating the meat.

In Japan over a 17-year period ending in 1960 more than 100 people were either killed or crippled by this type of poisoning. Contaminated sea food has been blamed for these Japanese occurrences. The symptoms of mercury poisoning are not pleasant to think about. The victim first loses his appetite or alternately is extremely hungry then the breath becomes foul smelling with heavy saliva secretions, vomiting and diarrhea. The mental capacities are greatly retarded — loss of memory — co-ordination is impaired and manic attacks often follow. The kidney and brain are damaged.

Polisoning from mercury, depending upon its severity, can cause death, crippling or insanity. It can also cause miscarriages in women and affect reproductive glands of the male. Yes, the mercury threat is real — not fully understood — and growing every day. It has been estimated by ecologists that if no more mercury was dumped into our rivers it would still take 50 to 100 years to cleanse them of this heavy metal — the latest threat to our well being.

Power hike costs outlined in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — New power rates granted Idaho Power Co. by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission will mean an additional 3.8 to 5.25 per cent in costs to city taxpayers for electrical power.

Street lighting costs will increase about $14 per month in peak months. City Manager Jean Milar said today. In a meeting with officials of the power company he was advised the new higher rate will increase street lighting in a peak month such as December, from $3,740.40 to about $3,892.40.

Another major city power cost is for operation of pumps to provide well and Alpheus Creek water to the city distribution system. This will increase about 5.25 per cent, Milar said. July, a peak month in which the bill was $5,700 in 1970, will be about $6,000 in 1971, Milar was informed.

Other city power costs include lighting of city buildings and night lighting of parks such as the new softball diamonds. Milar said information provided by the power company on cost increases will be helpful at this time in preparing the 1971 budget.

Businesses burned

Brazilian military pays back terrorists

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—The Brazilian military, smarting under past propaganda humiliations by kidnapers of diplomats has finally found a way to give the terrorists a taste of their own medicine. Key military decision makers turned propaganda to their advantage last month when leftist guerrillas seized Swiss Ambassador Giovanni Enrico Bucher, the fourth diplomat kidnaped in Brazil in 15 months. Newspapers were prohibited from publishing the communications of the terrorists. Negotiations were deliberately stalled to show the bargaining strength of the government. Terrorists accused of murder and kidnaping, and those whose sentences were "elevated," were denied release as a part of the ransom exchange. Sometimes the methods used were heavy-handed. Thus, the army leaked to newspapers and wire service a report alleging 22-year-old coed Nancy Mungabein Unger, a Brazilian-U.S. dual national, of being "a double-agent for secret agencies of the North American government." The army's propaganda counterattacked the night the prisoners were to leave for Chile.

Four of the 10 terrorists who declined to be traded for Bucher—arguing they preferred to stay in Brazil although in prison—were paraded on national television. The army postponed the departure of the 70 prisoners to Chile so it could show them the television show and chip away at their morale. Earlier the same day the army paraded seven of the 10 "dropout" terrorists before reporters in a room in a military installation in the Gaven neighborhood of Rio de Janeiro. The presentation was apparently unrehearsed because three of the seven claimed they were innocent. The other four "repented." Army officers later called reporters aside to tell them that as far as they were concerned all were guilty of terrorism and would stand trial. Their chances of getting lighter sentences or reprieves are good. In the past, terrorists who have repented have received favorable treatment from military courts. "I have always lived for myself, for my family and for Brazil," said one of the men, Manoel Lima, former mayor of the town of Jacupiranga who claimed he was innocent.

Consequences urge cease-fire

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
A good reason for the continuation of the Mideast expiration date is a knowledge on both sides of the consequences of a renewal of the fighting. Whether it also would involve a direct confrontation between the United States and Russia remains; thankfully, at the moment an academic question. Prodded by the United States, the Israelis still are talking although publicly professing little hope for ultimate success. Mideast dispatches indicate the Russians also are instructing their Arab clients to play it cool. Position papers put out by the Israelis and their principal opponents the Egyptians and the Jordanians, at least have slammed no doors and may even have left slight openings for maneuver. And, as talks got under way, U.N. Secretary Gen. Thant was able to express "cautious optimism," a mood shared by Gunnar V. Jarring.

special U.N. representative. Israel placed before Jarring a 14-point proposal which it said could establish the just and durable peace sought by U.N. Resolution 242, of Nov. 22, 1967, starting point for the talks. Point No. 5 provided for "withdrawal of military forces from territories lying beyond positions agreed in the peace treaty." It came under immediate Egyptian and Jordanian criticism. Both declared the statement inadequate and the question of Israeli withdrawal from occupied territories non-negotiable under the U.N. resolution. It left basic differences unchanged. As through the many years of Arab-Israeli hostilities, there was a continuing clash on the matter of refugees. Egypt invoked the U.N. General Assembly resolution declaring the refugees "inalienable" right of self-determination, meaning their right to return if they so desired to that part of Palestine which is now inside Israel.

Model shop

"LIKE FATHER, like son" holds true with this scale model machine shop which was built more than 20 years ago by Reuben Llerman for his son, Don, and now is being used by his grandson, Christopher. The family's dog "Mimi" thinks the shop doubles for a doghouse.

Kids love Filer man's toy farm machine shop

FILER — About 20 years ago, Reuben Llerman built a large machine shed and shop on his farm southwest of Filer, and decided to build a scale-size model shed for his small son, Don.

The building was an exact replica of the larger one, complete with machine stalls; shop with overhead sliding doors and smaller latched door in back. The small sliding boards were cut to scale-size and the outside was painted white with the roof stained green.

After playing with the shop for a number of years, Don outgrew it and passed it on to his two younger sisters, Janet and Karen, then, later it was handed down to Kent and Brent Llerman, two cousins. When they tired of playing with the building, it was taken to the Neal Allen home where their daughter, Tamara, enjoyed it for several years. This winter the little shop was repaired, given a new coat of paint, and brought back to its original owner for his son, Christopher Llerman, 5, to play with.

Egypt turns down Israel peace bid

By United Press International
Egypt has turned down Israel's latest Middle-East peace plan because it does not include a firm commitment for Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab territory, diplomatic sources in Cairo said Monday. The rejection deepened the threat of resumed war after the current cease-fire expires on Friday.

in the occupied Gaza Strip Monday, the Israelis reported Arab guerrillas blew up the main post office in Gaza City and wounded at least 61 Arabs, six of them seriously. The bombing came only hours after helicopter-borne Israeli commandos struck twice into Lebanon to wipe out guerrilla hideouts, according to Tel Aviv military spokesmen. Israel accused Egypt of sending its Soviet-made MIG21 jet fighters across the Suez Canal line twice on Monday in violation of the cease-fire—the 12th such charge filed with the United Nations since Nov. 22. The Egyptian planes are believed to be carrying out photographic missions over the Israeli-occupied east bank. President Anwar-Sadat and other Egyptian officials have warned Egypt would not agree to an extension of the cease-fire past the Feb. 5 deadline unless there was tangible results at the U.N.-supervised peace talks in New York. The Cairo sources said Egypt told the major powers and other members of the Security Council that it sees no progress in the talks being conducted by U.N. Mediator Gunnar V. Jarring. They said U.N. Ambassador Mohammed El-Zayyat had been instructed to convey Egypt's position to U.N. Secretary General Thant. Israel has said that renewal of the cease-fire, which began last Aug. 7 and was extended on Nov. 5, is a prime condition for continuation of the Jarring talks. Israeli political sources have viewed the Egyptian warnings as propaganda designed to pressure Israel into concessions in exchange for a continuation of the truce. But reports from Cairo and other Arab capitals struck a somber note.

Cites pessimism ...

WALTER H. HELLER, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers in Democratic administrations in the '60s, told the House-Senate joint economic committee that President Nixon had no chance of restoring the economy to full employment by the end of 1972 without reigniting inflation. He termed Nixon's forecasts "wishful." (UPI)

Egypt already has alerted its troops for a possible resumption of hostilities, reimposed some of the wartime blackout restrictions and ordered hospitals prepared to take care of casualties in the event fighting does erupt. The armed forces of Syria, Jordan and Iraq also were reported on full war footing. Syria called up army reserves as Premier Lt. Gen. Hafez Assad flew to Moscow for talks with Kremlin leaders on military and economic assistance. Israel reports said Syria already had reinforced its defenses with Soviet-supplied SAM2 anti-aircraft missiles.

They intrude French bedroom

BRUSSELS — The long tentacles of the Brussels Commission are about to intrude into one of the traditionally most private areas of the Common Market—the French bedroom.

And this despite outraged protests of innocence from Paris.

The problem concerns the size of French blankets and various other bed-coverings, which are apparently out of line with standards in other Common Market countries. The commission has given France one month to repeal its regulation on the mandatory size of blankets or face the possibility of proceedings in the Common Market Court of Justice.

For three years or so, blankets and sheets sold in France have had to conform to one of eight sizes laid down by the French government. Three of these sizes do not exist in any of the other Common Market countries, and none of them exists in all of the five.

The commission claims the French regulation involves an illegal barrier to trade, and asks why, if bedclothes are to be standardized in the community, they should necessarily be adapted to suit the French.

Dutch blanket exporters have been particularly aggrieved by the French action.

The French have replied that Dutch exports have increased regardless. They have also pointed out the difficulty facing people who buy blankets folded in a package—how can they tell how big they are?

To this the commission has a no-nonsense reply—label them better. It also points out the consumer would be better protected if similar standards applied for beds and sheets as well as blankets.

DEAR ABBY: Do you have any suggestions on how to get an 18-year-old daughter to shave her legs? She thinks hair is "natural."

It may be "natural," but it looks awful to me. No doubt in other countries around the world hair on women's legs is taken for granted, but this hasn't been the case in the United States for a generation or two. Is there a new trend developing?

Our otherwise pretty daughter looks like a lady wrestler. I am beginning to believe that you are the only one she will listen to.

DEAR DAD: Get with it! Your daughter need not conform to my idea of good grooming, esthetics or whatever. She's doing her own thing, and if she chooses to shave the hair on her legs or shave it, it's no skin off my shirt. Or yours either, dad.

DEAR ABBY: For 11 years I have put up with being married to a man with two faces. Now I have decided to seek an answer. My husband is kind and considerate when we are alone, but as soon as we are with other people he turns into a cruel, arrogant man who bullies me and humiliates me in every way possible. Not wishing to make those present feel more uncomfortable, I just sit back and take it.

When we are alone again, I ask him why he always insults me in public. His standard answer, "Can't you take a joke?"

Well, if this is a "joke," I guess I can't take a joke anymore. I have stopped going out with him, but I can't stop people from dropping in. I know that you can't solve my problem, Abby, but if you can tell me what makes a man act that way maybe it would be easier to live with.

DEAR HURT: If you want an authoritative answer as to why your husband feels the need to humiliate you only in public, ask him. Possibly he doesn't know, but with professional help, he can find out. But as long as you sit back and take it, why should he? If you were to stand up to him when he insults you, those present might feel less "uncomfortable" than seeing you submit like a whipped animal. Try it. You've nothing to lose but your misery.

DEAR ABBY: Hi! My major problem is that I am only a half-inch taller than my girl friend. She is a pretty girl, and I would never give her up for this reason, but if you know any growing secrets I would sure like to have them.

I tried putting shoeblack in my shoes one night when I took her to the movies, but when we were about halfway home I had to take it out because my feet were killing me.

She doesn't wear heels because she doesn't want to be taller than I am. So what advice have you for me?

SHRIMP
DEAR SHRIMP: You don't say how old you are, but if you have not as yet reached your full growth, you might ask your doctor if there is anything new in "growth control." (I am not recommending—only suggesting.) Other than that, look into elevated shoes if you want a lift.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69780, Los Angeles, Cal. 90068. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

POLLY'S POINTERS Storage of Leather Items Is Her Problem

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have invested in a leather jacket, a coat and a few more leather things. No one seems to agree as to how they should be stored. My space is limited and garment bags or cleaner's plastic bags would be ideal. I have heard that plastic ruins leather and that garment bags smother the skins. Please help me as I cannot afford to lose my investment.—MISS S. B.

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. C. S. that I found rubbing a stone over rust stains on a cement floor will remove them and crayon or other marks. Keep rubbing until the stain disappears. I love the column and do wish it was longer.—THERESA

DEAR POLLY—Please tell Mrs. C. S. to try a strong oxalic acid (poison) solution for removing those rust stains on her basement cement floor. This worked fine on my son's new white T-shirt after he climbed a rusty pipe in our well.—MYRTLE

DEAR POLLY—I made a wig case for my sister out of a round potato chip container. The inside and outside were both covered with adhesive-backed paper. I took the lid apart and covered the band and circle separately so it would be neatly finished. I braided handle with heavy rug yarn in a color that goes well with the paper. This was attached through holes punched on opposite sides of the container. I reinforced the holes with extra circles cut from the paper to prevent tearing. This pretty container will neatly hold a wig head and a wig if it is not too full.

These containers also make nice wastebaskets when covered with such paper on the outside and then a plastic bag can be placed inside.—A STEADY READER

What do people see in 'Love Story'?

NEW YORK—(NEA) A line of people in front of the theater on New York's East Side stretched for half a block, then disappeared around the corner. Frosty breath turning the crystal-clear night air into fog bore witness to the cold.

Cars were left double-parked on Third Avenue as young men, middle-aged men, old men raced out to buy tickets and dashed back to tell girlfriends, wives, daughters that this show was sold out.

"Love Story" was packing them in.

The movie earned $2.5 million in its first three days of showings across the country. That is more than it cost to make the film.

There has been talk that the movie heralds a return to romantic/sentimental movies, to the days when June Allyson got the boy and the audience brought boxes of tissues.

All MacGraw, co-star of the film, is being hailed as the new symbol of chandler-lit ballroom elegance and ermine-enshrouded mystery that marked the 1930s era of filmmaking.

"I read the book, 'Love Story,'" said Jacqueline Torrance, a secretary in New York. "I loved the picture as much as the book, except that in the movie they changed the ending so that Oliver (played by Ryan O'Neal) didn't cry and hug his father. It took away a little bit from the emotional reaction, you know?"

"I liked the movie because I know Cambridge men and I've lived in New York," said a Vassar graduate. "I didn't really like All MacGraw, but then she wasn't playing a really likable character. I thought the movie was pretty and I guess when you get right down to it, the movie was schmaltzy and so am I."

"Artistically, it was a very bad movie," said John Florea, who is working on his doctorate in psychology. "A person would have to respond with very personal emotions to the film. There were things that made it meaningful to me that I could identify with, such as the age of the characters, the fact that they were both students."

"Their circumstances were not radically different from my circumstances. And I identified with them as a couple. I kept thinking about how I would react if something happened to my girlfriend, Pat."

And Pat Munson, a student, said, "The movie was like a coloring book where you had the outline and had to go back and fill in the colors by projecting your own values onto the screen. But I didn't mind doing it because they were contemporary figures I could enjoy."

Kay Nolte Smith, an actress who also does theater commentary, evaluated the movie and reaction to it:

"The first thing about the movie," said Mrs. Smith, "is that it is practically without content—there is no characterization to speak of. The story isn't a story at all and telling the audience, at the start that the girl is going to die at the end is a cheap way to get an emotional reaction from them."

"In a way, the movie was a Rorschach test for each person, where he could project his own situation onto the screen. Because he is projecting, he doesn't notice the shortcomings of the film."

"What the general public is saying through their response is that they're fed up with the so-called 'realistic stories' of dope addicts and drunkards. It's a pleasure for them to see people on the screen who are not depraved."

Gooding told flood insurance not available

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Correspondent
GOODING — Ken Dunn of the Idaho Department of Water Administration discussed details of the federal flood insurance program with the Gooding City Council Monday night, pointing out that no Idaho city or county qualifies at present for the program.

Dunn said that the city of Orofino and Ada, Bannock and Blaine counties are in the process of submitting applications.

Under the federal program, provided by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, private underwriters may provide flood insurance at a lower rate with a federal subsidy taking up the slack.

A governmental subdivision must qualify for the insurance by adopting ordinances controlling construction of homes on areas which might be endangered by flooding, Dunn said. The city or county must also submit applications which include maps of the flood-endangered areas.

Under the federal program, a homeowner whose house is seriously damaged by a flood may sell his property to the government and be repaid by the insurer for his loss. He must reconstruct somewhere else than on the flood plain, or lose his flood insurance, however, Dunn said.

Idaho communities may qualify on an emergency basis during 1971, if they pledge to adopt the proper ordinances by early 1972, and provide the necessary zoning laws, Dunn told the council.

Under the federal program, a homeowner would pay a maximum of 40 to 50 cents per $100 valuation on his home for the flood insurance, with the exact amount to depend on the specific risk to the home. This maximum would apply only during this year; a survey of the hazard in later years would determine later rates, but it would not be larger than 50 cents, Dunn said.

Idaho communities and taxpayers pay at least $3 million each year for flood damage, and the loss is rising steadily, Dunn said in advocating the insurance program.

The council authorized Dick Goody of the Soil Conservation Service office in Gooding to draw up preliminary city and county maps to qualify for the insurance.

THESE FIVE MEN are the new officers of the Magic Valley YMCA who were elected during the organization's annual membership dinner meeting Monday evening. From right are Leon Smith, president; Richard Shotwell, first vice president; Tom Howard, secretary; Harold Brown, treasurer, and Rev. Herbert Morris, chaplain. Brown also received the Evangeline M. White award for his outstanding work with the YMCA.

Burley tops blood quota by 85 pints

BURLEY — Area residents donated 235 pints of blood Monday during the Red Cross bloodmobile drawing at the Elks Lodge, topping the 150-pint goal by a generous margin.

This is the largest amount of blood ever donated at one time in Burley, said Mrs. Bob Halouska, blood drive chairman for Cassia County. She said of the 258 persons registered to donate blood, 11 were rejected and 12 had to leave after registering because of the long waiting lines. It was about 8:30 p.m. before the last donor was processed.

Many other persons came to the lodge hall to give but went away after seeing the long lines, Mrs. Halouska said. Since the last drawing the county had used 149 pints and many of the donors were replacing blood for friends or relatives, she said.

Burley area residents usually have made their quota, but never by such a large margin.

Mrs. Alice Wood, Hoyburn, was awarded a five-gallon donor pin. Three gallon pins went to Roger C. Ledtke, Douglas Shill and Norman Lee. Receiving two-gallon pins were Mrs. Audrey Vanek and Mrs. Arla Glaesemann. One gallon donors were Marvin Blades, Van Warwood, Lolita Hephworth, William Walker Jr., John Erickson, Duane Hansen and Kendall Dayley.

Working at the registration desk were Mrs. Halouska, Mrs. Dave Barry, county co-chairman; Mrs. Virginia Watson and Mrs. Cecel Brimn; Typists were Mrs. Peggy Newcomb, Mrs. Alyenne Lotridge and Mrs. Frank Spencer. Temperatures were taken by Mrs. Bonnie Hess and Mrs. Roscoe Rich. The numbering table was operated by Mrs. Martha Holcomb and Mrs. W. D. Taylor and Mrs. S. H. Kuna served juice.

Other volunteers were Mrs. Rebecca Street, Mrs. Max Bruce, Mrs. Lex Kuna, Mrs. Alyenne Hayden, Mrs. Hattie Sprague, Mrs. Florence Crouch and Mrs. Estelle Davis.

Dr. Charles Terhune was the attending physician. Nurses included Mrs. Fred Sherrod, Mrs. T. F. Nielsen and Mrs. Karen Taylor. The canteen was operated by Mrs. Helen Coffey, Mrs. George Carmody, Mrs. Robert Merritt, Mrs. Harlow Cheney, Mrs. Gerald Bryan, Mrs. Joe Hinz, Mrs. Ralph Buttars, Mrs. Walter Povlsen, Mrs. William MacKnight, Mrs. LePage Layton and Mrs. Ralph Thornton, all members of the Burley Soroptimist club.

Mrs. Glenn Bailey served as babysitter. The equipment was loaded and unloaded by Leo Henschel, Grant Fillmore, Glenn Bailey, Gerald Bryan, Ray Bound, Gary Hollinger, Andy Wilson, Blaine Jones and Jim Cheney, members of the Burley Exchange Club.

Regional airport plans discussed

BURLEY — Cassia county's costs for a regional airport would be between 10.6 to 16.3 per cent of the total costs, Neil Weir, Rupert, chairman of the Interim Regional Airport board, told Burley Chamber of Commerce members Monday afternoon at Bryn's Cafe.

Twin Falls county's share would be about 30.9 per cent to 36 per cent he said, with costs depending on which of three sites is selected, he said.

Weir, who spoke after Ed Elliott gave a brief background of the regional airport project, said the recommendation for a regional airport is the result of two studies made in recent years, one by the state at a cost of $45,000 and another costing $14,000 paid for by Twin Falls city and county.

The interim board members visited five regional airports throughout the country and after reviewing the two local studies, decided in favor of a regional airport, Weir said. Three proposed sites are under consideration and the decision is pending the appointment by Gov. Cecil Andrus of two vacancies on the interim board.

During a question period, it was brought out that the Twin Falls City-County Airport cannot be designated as a regional airport without a vote by property owners, Grant Fillmore, president said.

Mrs. Dale Dammarer announced that Alpha Zeta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi is raising funds to replace the public address system at Burley High School auditorium and purchase books for the children's section of the Burley Public Library.

Clive Holland invited chamber members to visit the new recreation center which has opened on East Main Street. It is known as "Playmore Center."

Oakley slates drawing

OAKLEY — "There is nothing more satisfying than knowing there is blood at any hospital waiting for you when you need it," comments R. Hilton Critchfield, Oakley farmer, who used three pints at Cassia Memorial Hospital last October when he was seriously injured in a farming accident.

Critchfield was changing a front tractor wheel when the front wheel fork slipped from the jack, breaking both bones in his lower right leg and ripping all the tissue and muscles. He spent 33 days in the hospital and has worn a cast for three months and doctors estimate he will have about nine more to go.

The Red Cross blood mobile will be in Oakley Wednesday at the American Legion hall from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Seventy-five pints has been set as a quota with 25 replacement pints needed.

The Oakley City Council is sponsoring the canteen and the American Auxiliary members are serving luncheon for the workers.

Vandals break windows

OAKLEY — Five windows were broken in the Oakley Elementary school Monday night, Marshal Gerald Jenson said today. Damage was estimated at $500.

He said large rocks, used by the vandals, were found in the sixth grade room on the top floor where two windows were broken, and in the kindergarten room on the middle floor, where three windows were smashed. The building was not entered. A reward is being offered for any information about the incident. The marshal said it was foggy Monday night and it would have been difficult for residents to identify whoever was involved.

The kindergarten class was out of school today on a trip but sixth graders continued their classes braced by fresh air from the "open" windows.

A SPACIOUS, COMFORTABLE "reading room" in the magazine section highlights the modernistic and attractive furnishings of the new College of Southern Idaho Learning resources center on the second floor of the Commons building. The center encompasses the new CSI library and allied resource materials which are to be added.

Restraining order filed against Ford

SALT LAKE CITY — U.S. District Judge Willis W. Ritter has signed a temporary restraining order against Ford Motor Co. and three Ford officials.

The order was granted in connection with a civil suit filed by Ross Lee Ford, Jerome, claiming Ford and its officials tried to force him out of business.

The suit is seeking $750,000 treble damages plus preliminary and permanent injunctions to prevent the defendants from rejecting purchase of retail contracts on new and used vehicles, from failing to comply with terms of a wholesale agreement on vehicles, allowing unauthorized dealers in the plaintiff's primary locality, preventing Ross Lee Ford from selling the business and entering into agreements that would restrain free trade to the detriment of the plaintiff.

A hearing on a preliminary injunction will be held by Judge Ritter at 2 p.m. Feb. 5.

Defendants in the action are Ford Motor Co., Ford Motor Credit Corp., Ford Marketing Corp., Salt Lake City district; Richard T. Unger, assistant district sales manager, and D.A. Anderson, branch manager, Ford Motor Credit Co., Salt Lake City.

Doctor injured

KETCHUM — Dr. Jon D. Wilmoth, 31, Jerome, is in serious condition at Sun Valley Hospital with injuries received Saturday evening in a snowmobile accident in the Beaver Creek area of Sawtooth Valley.

Personnel at the physician's office in Jerome said Dr. Wilmoth will be transferred to Jerome as soon as possible.

Red Wilson, forest ranger in the Sawtooth Valley, said Dr. Wilmoth suffered severe facial and hand cuts when he ran into a guy wire while riding his snow machine.

Ketchum to invest $35,000

KETCHUM — The Ketchum City Council authorized investment of $35,000 in surplus city funds at Monday night's brief council meeting.

City Clerk Betty Coles was authorized to invest the funds in 90-day U.S. Treasury bills.

In other council business, the sewer superintendent was instructed to call for bids for purchase of a truck, tank and pump for the city sewer plant; further action was tabled on purchase of gasoline and diesel fuel when only one bid was received; and a public hearing was scheduled for March 1 on proposed zoning changes for condominiums in the city.

Andy Schernthanner presented a design of a proposed housing project to the council, which authorized adoption of an ordinance changing zoning on Schernthanner's property to general residential.

Arraigned

TWIN FALLS — Ray Vanderalice, 40, Omaha, Neb., requested preliminary hearing Monday when he was arraigned in Magistrate Court before Judge Dan Meehl.

Vanderalice, who was transported from Omaha to Twin Falls late last week, was arrested on two 1969 warrants charging him with issuing checks without funds in the bank.

Vanderalice remains in custody at the county jail under $1,000 bond.

Approval given for Burley LID

BURLEY — The Burley City Council conducted a protest hearing on forming a Local Improvement District Monday night during the regular council meeting.

The LID would be formed in northeast Burley. A total of 24 residents attended the protest hearing, all voicing approval of the proposed LID. Four letters were read opposing the proposal, but were overruled by the council, which endorsed the LID.

The ordinance will be drafted for the first reading at the next council meeting, Feb. 15.

Representatives from a Twin Falls engineering firm met with the council to discuss a proposal that they be retained as city engineers for Burley. The council agreed to investigate the proposal further.

The council voted to release the Burton property to the administrator of the estate, ending a lengthy debate over a will.

The council denied two requests for rezoning from an apartment house complex on Par, Avenue and at Albion and Fifth Streets. Both are zoned as residential.

Jack Keen, city recreation director, reported that the recreation programs are growing rapidly in Burley, and that he will need additional help. He said Twin Falls and Mindoka counties both participate in community recreation programs, and suggested that Cassia County could do likewise.

The council approved the removal of four parking meters on Main Street. Parking spaces will be repainted.

The council approved an ordinance on speed limits on Highland Avenue, Main Street, Overland Avenue, Park Avenue and East 16th Street. The new speed limits will go into effect following publication and proper signing of the streets.

The council also approved a request from the Burley Elks Lodge to blacktop their parking lot; approved a beer license for the Burley golf course, and approved plumbers' licenses.

Gooding names city treasurer

GOODING — The Gooding City Council approved the nomination of Margaret F. Clements as city treasurer to succeed Charles Shaw, who was named Gooding County Magistrate, in Monday night's council meeting.

In other council business, an unidentified Boise couple, who had sought permission to place a mobile home within the city, was told that the council is still studying ordinances in other Idaho communities. Eight queries were sent out, and "four or five" have been received, Mayor Harley Crispin said.

The couple, who asked to remain unidentified, said they purchased land in Gooding with the understanding that they would be allowed to place a trailer house on the property. The council has not yet given permission.

Councilmen also instructed city attorney Cecil Hobday to file suit against a Salt Lake City, Utah, firm which owns an old, abandoned theater, demanding that it be torn down as a public nuisance.

Fog causes Lincoln accident

SHOSHONE — Heavy fog over the area in the past few days has contributed to a number of traffic accidents, according to Deputy Sheriff Bill Anderson.

In addition to the fog, heavy ice has formed on some of the highways, making driving conditions treacherous, since highway surfaces often appear ice-free and dry, Anderson said.

A California driver's car was demolished early Sunday 11 miles north of Shoshone on Highway 93 when a car driven by Mrs. Lois K. Jenkins, Jerome, collided with the rear of a car driven by Kenneth Herbert Hill, listing a California address.

Hill's vehicle was estimated as a total loss, while Mrs. Jenkins' car sustained $500 in damages. Mrs. Jenkins was cited for failure to obey the basic rule. She received cuts and bruises, while Hill and his three passengers reported whip-lash effects.

A-4 tournament site shifts to Burley; teams seeded

BURLEY — The Sixth district A-4 tournament site was shifted entirely to Burley and the teams were seeded for first pairings Monday night at a coaches meeting in the Ponderosa.

Previously, the tournament was slated to be divided between the Burley and Murtaugh gymnasiums, due to conflict with Burley's participation in the A-1 tourney.

The tournament will open Feb. 23, 24 and 25 with all action starting at 5 p.m. After a day's rest, the meet resumes Feb. 27 with three junior varsity games and one varsity battle, beginning at 4 p.m.

After a weekend layoff, action resumes at 5 p.m. March 2 with two jayvee and one varsity match and could conclude March 3 with the finals in each division. That season begins at 7 p.m. If a sudden-death playoff is necessary, it will go at 8 p.m. March 4.

The seeding for the first round was based on the final standings in the Rocklaway Conference with Rockland becoming the seventh team. It also indicates that with Hagerman, Hansen and Oakley all showing the ability to beat one another, the choice spot might be second — even considering that the championship team gets a first-round bye. First and third places were put in the bottom bracket with second in the upper and the toughest opponent being the fourth-place club.

The upper bracket pairings include second place vs. Rockland and fourth place vs. sixth place; lower bracket, third place vs. fifth place and first place byes.

The jayvee tournament will be a single elimination meet without consolation bracket.

Earlier in the day, Ford said he didn't think a stadium would be built in downtown Detroit. He would neither confirm nor deny that he was ready to move the NFL team to Pontiac, about 28 miles north of Detroit, but indicated he would make a public statement outlining his own stadium plans in the near future.

Leaders of the effort to build a new domed stadium on Detroit's waterfront said they intend to build the stadium with or without the Detroit Lions.

The Downtown Stadium Working Group has been working for more than two years making feasibility studies and lining up financial and civic support for the riverfront site.

Ford has said the Detroit Tigers, owners of the present Tiger stadium near the downtown area, are prepared to join him in another stadium venture away from the 80-acre site on the Detroit River.

John E. Fetzer, owner of the Tigers, was not immediately available for comment.

Duke upsets South Carolina

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI) — The outside shooting of Rick Katherman and inside work of Randy Denton Monday night gave Duke an 82-71 upset ACC victory over South Carolina.

The Blue Devils, who had only two wins in six previous ACC games, led most of the way against the cold-shooting Gamecocks, who suffered their fourth loss of the year, all in ACC competitions.

After a brief initial lead by South Carolina, Duke took over on the strength of rebounding by Denton, who finished the night with 15 points, and the sharpshooting of Katherman.

The Blue Devils held a 33-27 lead at halftime, but saw South Carolina come roaring back behind Tom Riker and All America John Roche to tie the game at 37-37 with 16 minutes left.

Duke began slowly pulling ahead again and in the final minutes South Carolina began intentionally fouling in a frantic effort to get the ball. Duke's accuracy from the free-throw line kept the lead.

Roche finished with 28 points, Riker with 20 and Tom Owens, who was overshadowed by Denton in rebounding, finished with 12.

Richte O'Connor hit 18 points for Duke, Katherman had 16, Denton 15 and Jeff Dawson 12.

Vanderbilt runs over Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Vanderbilt Commodores took over second place in the Southeastern Conference Monday night with a bruising 65-40 win over the Tennessee Vols.

Vanderbilt went 10-0 and 6-2 in the SEC with the win and the Vols dropped to 6-3 in the league and 13-4 overall.

Leading the Commodore rush was Van Oliver with 17 points. Rod Freeman and Ralph Mayes had 15 points for the Commodores who came out of the game as Kentucky's chief challenger in the conference.

Pacers, Rockets end swap

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Indiana Pacers and the Denver Rockets have completed a four-player trade, Pacers' General Manager John Weissert announced today.

Denver sends Don Sidle, a 6-foot-9 forward, and Wayne Chapman, a 6-foot-6 guard, to Indiana.

In return, the Rockets will receive 6-foot-8 forward Art Beckert and 6-foot-1 guard John Barnhill. Indiana also gives up an undisclosed 1972 draft pick and an undisclosed amount of cash, Weissert said.

Pacers' Coach Bob Leonard said, "Naturally it is difficult to lose players like Art and John who played major roles in Indiana's championship season of 1969-70. But we see the trade as strengthening our club. We needed a big guard and got one in Chapman."

World tennis tour to start next week

DALLAS (UPI) — World Championship Tennis Monday announced that its 20-city million dollar tennis tour will start next week in Philadelphia and wind up Nov. 8-14 in Houston with the "eight-top winners" meeting in a separate $100,000 tourney in New York late in November.

Each of the 20 tournaments will have a $50,000 prize list and points will be awarded for each round won in the tournament with the top eight point-getters earning a berth in the World Championship of Tennis, Nov. 19, 20, 21 and 26 in New York with a $50,000 first prize.

Mike Davies, the former British Davis Cupper who is executive director of millionaire Lamar Hunt's stable of 32 contract pros, said that it was felt the tournament plan was the "fair way" to determine a champion.

"Two weeks on grass at Wimbledon or on clay in Paris makes for a good tournament, but not a true world championship," he said.

Davies pointed out that Australian Rod Laver, who won $201,453 last season, failed to win any of the so-called "big four" crowns, but that his earnings spoke for themselves.

Ten points will be awarded for each championship, seven for finalists, four for losing semifinalists and one for second round losers.

The complete tournament schedule:

Feb. 9-14 — Philadelphia International.

March 8-14 — Dunlop Australian Open, Sydney.

March 22-28 — Sportface International, Chicago.

March 29-April 4 — Aventura Tennis Classic, Miami, Fla.

April 28-May 2 — Rawlings Tennis Classic, Dallas.

May 3-9 — Italian Tennis Championships, Rome.

May 10-16 — Aryamehr Cup, Tehran, Iran.

June 7-12 — Wills West of England Championships, Bristol.

July 12-18 — Washington Star International, Washington, D.C.

July 19-25 — First National Tennis Classic, Louisville, Ky.

July 26-Aug. 1 — Rothmans Quebec International, Quebec City.

Aug. 2-8 — U.S. Professional Championships, Boston.

Lorenzen to drive car for Granatelli

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Fred Lorenzen, one-time glamour boy of stock car racing, signed Monday to drive a 1971 Plymouth sponsored by Andy Granatelli's STP Corp. on the 1971 NASCAR circuit.

Lorenzen's Plymouth will be prepared by veteran car builder Ray Nichols and will see its first action in the Feb. 14 Daytona 500. Former NASCAR ace Paul Goldsmith will be the crew chief on the flame-red Roadrunner.

Nichols has also entered a 1971 Pontiac GTO in the Daytona 500 which will be driven by Charlie Glotzbach of Georgetown, Ind.

Lorenzen, the first NASCAR driver to top the $100,000 single-season mark, returned to NASCAR racing on a limited basis last year after a three-year retirement. He holds the record for super-speedway victories with 12.

Nichols is an experienced hand with Pontiacs as he set up many of the factory-backed Pontiacs when they were a dominant factor in NASCAR racing in the early 1960s.

Granatelli's entry into the NASCAR field will add even more spice to the $200,000 Daytona 500, already enlivened by the entry of Mexico's Pedro Rodriguez in a 1971 Chevrolet Monte Carlo prepared by veteran builder Bill Ellis of North Wilkesboro, N.C.

Rodriguez, the dark-haired little road racing champion, teamed with England's Jackie Oliver to win the 24 hours of Daytona in a John Wyer Porsche Sunday.

Other drivers checking into the speedway Monday included moonshiner Pete Hamilton, the defending champion, Buddy Baker, 1970 rookie of the year Bill Dennis, and James Hylton. Baker will drive a factory-backed 1971 Dodge, Hamilton will pilot a 1971 Plymouth. Hylton will run a 1969 Ford and Dennis will drive a 1969 Mercury.

Qualifying for the pole position for the 500-mile race over the 2.5-mile tri-oval will be held Saturday.

If West led a third diamond, South would make the hand with a ruff and discard. If West led a club, South would let the lead come around to his queen-10-five and score four club tricks. If West led a low heart, South would let it ride to his king. East would have to play the jack and West's queen would be a dead-pigeon.

West could lead the queen of hearts if he were that good a player and South might go wrong, but at least South would have given the cards a chance.

 A—Bid four spades! If your partner is inclined to overbid you might just go to three. Remember, your one-spade bid showed nothing at all.

TODAY'S QUESTION
 Instead of bidding two spades your partner has jumped to three spades. What do you do now?
 Answer Tomorrow

South wanted no time going down at his six-spade contract. He won the diamond lead and cashed the ace and king of trumps. So far, he had done nothing wrong. There was no way to pick-up that trump-queen and no reason not to play trumps as a starter.

Once the trumps failed to break, South went right after the clubs. East showed out on the third club. South remarked, "I guess I'm the unluckiest player in the world! Maybe the queen and jack of hearts will drop if I play the ace and king. If they don't, I'm down one trick."

North said, "I know I'm the unluckiest. It's too bad that you didn't use the Jacoby-Transfer so that I could have played the slam."

Actually, it doesn't make any difference which hand plays the slam as long as declarer doesn't give up.

AM ASKED IF the Soviet Union levies an inheritance tax. Not at last report. And it is the contention of an expert on money matters, incidentally, that any socialistic nation without such a tax inevitably will turn capitalistic. Interesting theory.

STENOGRAPHERS read more books than any other kind of workers. More than schoolteachers, more than librarians. And far more than the employers of stenographers, as a rule. That's the report from the survey-takers. Can believe it. As to the sort of workers who read the fewest books, I nominate the owners of bookstores. It's a fact people who sell books rarely know what's in them.

Stroke 'shield' cited

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—A heart specialist here says initial data show that somewhere between 20 and 40 per cent of persons who suffered strokes could have had stroke-preventing treatment.

Dr. James M. Curtis, working out of Harborview Medical Center, said he is testing a program he contends can screen out potential stroke victims by checking for possible obstruction of the arteries to the brain.

The arteries, which run near the skin surface on the neck, are tested by an ultra-high-frequency sound device. Results show the direction, speed and volume of blood flow through the carotid arteries, Curtis explained.

He noted that stroke is the third leading killer, accounting for about 200,000 deaths a year in the United States alone.

"The test we are researching is an important one because carotid obstruction is known to cause many strokes when the blockage pinches off the blood supply to the brain," Curtis said. "These arteries are surgically approachable and treatable, and as such, early detection would result in a great decrease in the number of strokes."

Patients have been tested when entering Harborview Hospital. During the first 2 1/2 months of the hospital screening program, 393 persons over 50 years of age were given the test. Of these, 14 patients had carotid arteries 30 per cent or more obstructed and were candidates for a stroke.

Curtis said currently the only method of testing for obstruction is by arteriography, in which X-ray pictures are taken of the arteries after a dye has been injected into the bloodstream.

Graham defends friendship

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham Monday defended his friendship with President Nixon as having "nothing to do with politics." He said he spent more time with President Lyndon B. Johnson.

"I'm certainly not as close as some people think I am," Graham told a news conference in which questions were raised about his relationship with Nixon.

"I try to keep my total independence," Graham said. Graham came to Washington late Sunday to spend two weeks in the nation's capital. He said he would meet with small groups of congressmen and with presidential assistants and make only a limited number of public appearances.

One will be Tuesday at the annual Presidential Prayer Breakfast. Nixon and most high officials of the government are expected to be present.

"I don't intend to discuss politics this week or next with anybody. I want to talk about God," Graham said. He refused to comment on questions relating to deficit spending, the Supersonic Transport plane and the moon shot. Rather, he reiterated his constant assertion that "there is a need of spiritual and moral awakening in this country."

A reporter asked whether Graham's close association with President Nixon has hindered his speaking out as a prophet on the great questions facing the nation.

"I've had to face this ever since Eisenhower," Graham replied. He said both Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy contacted him in advance of their inauguration, and he spent more time with Johnson than with Nixon. He said he and his wife spent a weekend in October with the Johnsons at their Texas ranch.

Graham said he got acquainted with Nixon's parents in their hometown of Whittier, Calif., in 1948 at a Youth for Christ rally at which he preached. He said he met Nixon at lunch in the Capitol two years later at the time Nixon was a senator—and Nixon invited him to play golf that afternoon with him and Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla.

"In the years that he was vice president I was with him very often. We developed a personal friendship," Graham said. "I suppose we have played 50 or 60 games of golf ARTIGAS, Uruguay (UPI)—Police said Friday they are convinced there is honor among thieves. They said a prisoner receiving a pair of pants from a gift package from the United States found $17, equivalent to 4,250 pesos, in a pocket and turned it in to the warden. The warden was so impressed he let the prisoner keep the money.

Laotian reds charge massive invasion pending in south

SAIGON (UPI) — Laotian Communists charged Monday that "tens of thousands" of U.S., South Vietnamese and Thai troops are massing for an invasion of southern Laos. It said the number of deep "intelligence forays" into Laos had been increased to prepare for the campaign.

There was no comment on the Communist charge in either Saigon or Washington. In the Laotian capital of Vientiane official government spokesmen said they knew nothing of such a move by Allied forces. The chief spokesman for the Laotian military command, Gen. Thongphan Khocksay, said, however, it was possible that it was possible that South Vietnamese troops supported by U.S. warplanes had intruded into Laotian territory briefly to destroy Communist supply depots or harass sanctuaries used by North Vietnamese troops.

At the same time, Laos has tacitly approved the U.S. air campaign against the Ho Chi Minh trail in eastern Laos, saying that it is a matter between the United States and North Vietnam. Hanoi troops have controlled that area of Laos for years and Laotian forces have made little effort to contest them.

More than 400 U.S. warplanes, including B52 Stratoforcesses, attacked the trail Monday in the 118th day of saturation bombings designed to stop the flow of Communist war material into Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam.

While attention was turning toward Laos, Communist forces in South Vietnam slightly stepped up the pace of the war. Communiques reported seven Americans killed and seven wounded in an attack near Chu Lai on South Vietnam's upper coast. It was the heaviest bloodshed for any U.S. unit in more than six months. An eighth American was killed in a separate attack. The Communists also blasted the U.S. air-base at Da Nang, inflicting some light casualties and struck at five other positions in the central highlands and coastal plains of South Vietnam. Airfields and supply bases were attacked.

Andrus seeks duty on sulfur

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus proposed Sunday that a duty be placed on imported elemental sulfur from Canada to make it more competitive with the material produced in the United States, including the material produced at the Bunker Hill Mining Operation in Idaho.

He made the proposal during the second annual Sawtooth Symposium on the Boise State College campus Sunday afternoon. He appeared with representatives from major groups including the Sierra Club, the Park Service and the Greater Sawtooth Preservation Council. The U. S. Forest Service reportedly declined to attend the function.

A packed auditorium in the liberal arts building heard Andrus' proposal, which is related to mining and removing pollution from Idaho's air and water environment.

At the Bunker Hill operation in the Kellogg-Wallace area, an air pollution control system was installed to remove sulfur dioxide from the air. But by removing the air pollutant, the by-product sulfuric acid is created up to 700 tons per day.

The company must find a market for the acid because only 50 days' supply can be stored at any one given time.

Canadian industries are able to export to the United States elemental sulfur duty free to such outlets as the Simplot Plant in Pocatello, which takes the material in great quantities and converts it to sulfuric acid. This practice is crippling Bunker Hill's potential market.

Andrus said Idaho legislators should sharpen their pencils and start applying pressure on the congressional delegation in Washington to have a duty placed on Canadian elemental sulfur.

He said in that way Canada would have to compete with American-owned companies for business in American industry.

He said by raising the price of elemental sulfur and making it more expensive than purchasing it from the Kellogg-Wallace area operation, conservationists could "extend the olive branch to industry and help them improve our environment."

Troops massed

COMMUNIST PATHET LAO said Monday the U.S. and its allies are massing "tens of thousands of Saigon and U.S. troops" in the northern part of South Vietnam around Khe Sanh near the Laotian border. Widespread speculation indicates a South Vietnamese strike into Laos, with strong U.S. air support, to cut the Ho Chi Minh trail. (UPI)

Committee hears mine inspector

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate State Affairs Committee heard three more appointees of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus Monday, including State Mines Inspector W. Carl Griner, 41. Griner told the committee, which must recommend to the Senate whether to confirm gubernatorial appointees, he felt the main responsibility of the post was mine safety. Griner told the committee he spent 3 1/2 years as president of Local 18, United Steel Workers of America, and in 1967 was appointed an advisor to the secretary of interior to assist in formulating first-federal metal and non-metallic mine safety standards. Kenneth Anderson, Roberts, appeared before the committee to discuss his appointment to a five-year term on the Soil Conservation Commission.

Anderson said the purpose of the commission is "to instruct, to inform and to help the 52 districts of Idaho in any way we can." Marvin Misner, appointed acting director of the State Planning and Community Affairs Agency, said he was named principal planner of the agency in 1970. Sen. Walter Yarbrough, R-Grandview, noted a recent legislative audit of the agency showed outstanding liabilities exceeded fund balances by $21,013 and asked Misner whether his position as principal planner involved any bookkeeping. Misner said it did not, adding, "I worked in a rather narrow area and I was real happy that I did." Misner said he had asked Legislative Auditor James Deffenbacher to make management recommendations to the agency.

The committee also voted to introduce a bill which would strike reference to females in the Employment Security Law. Sen. James Ellsworth, R-Leadore, said "I don't know whether this is part of the women's lib or not." The bill would disqualify from unemployment compensation any claimant who leaves work voluntarily to marry, maintain a household, or leave the locale to live with a spouse unless the claimant is the main support of himself or immediate family. The present law disqualifies only female claimants who leave work for those reasons. The 41st legislature began the fourth week of its first regular session today, still undecided on the financial course it will take for the fiscal year ahead.

Sensible rules asked by agricultural aides

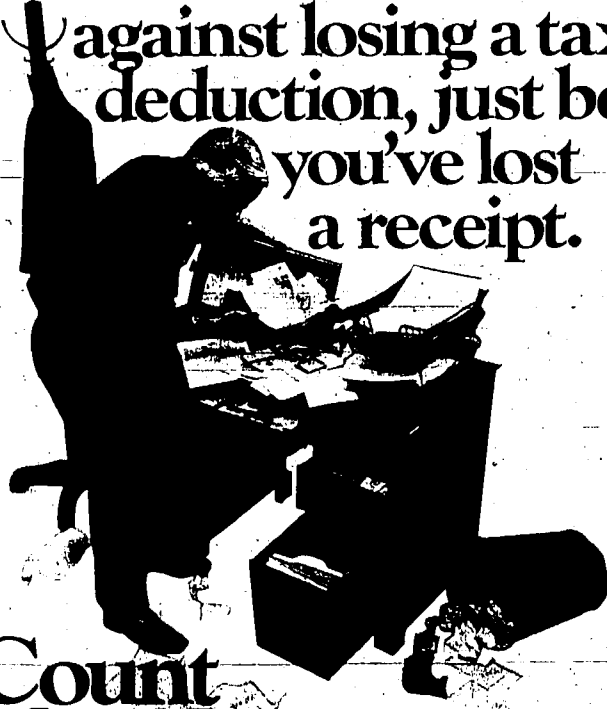

BOISE (UPI) — Four spokesmen for agriculture urged the legislature today to impose "sensible rules" of collective bargaining and take farm labor negotiations out of "the law of the jungle." "At the same meeting of the House Committee on Agricultural Affairs, a spokesman for Idaho's cooperative utilities asked the legislature not to put rural electric co-ops under the Public Utilities Commission. "We think this is a move to impose the will of private companies on those rural-owned, consumer-owned rural electric cooperatives." Gordon Thatcher, Rexburg, the co-ops legal counsel, said. Later, after a brief discussion, the committee on motion by Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, voted to introduce the farm labor bill for printing and hearings. The committee voted to refer the REA bill for further study. Former State Sen. Phil Batt, R-Willard, a hop grower in private life, led off the discussions of the farm labor bill, saying, "We know that this is a controversial measure — one which will generate interest both pro and con." But he told the committee he felt the measure — drawn up in consultation with representatives of some 30 farmer organizations — is a superior bill to four proposals now under Senate consideration. "We need to have a set of rules," Batt told the committee. "We can't have the law of the jungle prevail as we did last summer on our farms." He said the measure provides for a closed shop if the farmer-employer agrees to it in writing but that it allows the farmer to hire from whatever source he wants. It also provides for "quick relief" measures such as temporary injunctions to protect crops which are in a critical harvest stage and sets down certain rules for picketing and strike warnings. He added it prohibits "secondary boycotts" within the state of Idaho. Supporting Batt in his presentation of the bill were Doyle Symms, Sunny Slope fruit grower, John Batt, Caldwell-area farmer, and Lewis Lepper, Boise, director of research for the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation. Both Batt and Lepper said that had such a proposed law been an the books in California Cesar Chavez would not have won the contract he did with California grape growers... Batt said some persons object to the bill because it does not contain a "right to work" provision prohibiting a closed or union shop on the farms. He said a closed shop was left to the discretion of the employer and the bargaining table because of political realities. Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, he said, has stated he will veto any right to work legislation. Lepper urged the lawmakers to begin with agriculture's "strongest vantage point." He asked them not to weaken the farmers' position by too many preliminary concessions to labor. "You ought to start from the best vantage point of agriculture and then start negotiating," Lepper said.
