TEN CENTS

WAITING FOR WEATHER to clear to resume operations in Laos are American and South Vietnamese troops at Khe Sanh, South Vietnam. Skies were darkened by low clouds. Photo was one of last taken by Kent Potter, UPI photographer, before helicopter he was aboard was shot down over Laos by Communist ground fire. (UPI)

Battle lull

Troops link inside Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese paratroopers linked up with armored columns inside Laos today and opened a ground supply route to the South Vietnamese border. U.S. helicopters hauled heavy artillery guns to the new Laotian bases.

Military spokesmen in Saigon and reports from the field said there was as yet no indication the South Vietnamese had reached Tchepone, the primary objective of the drive into Laos. Tchepone is 27 miles inside Laos and has long been a major staging area for stockpiling of Communist arms on the Ho Chi Minh Trail complex.

Brig. Gen. Phum Van Phu, commander of the 1st South Vietnamese Infantry Division, said the South Vietnamese airborne units had uncovered a quantity of 122mm rockets, mortars, six Soviet-built trucks and other materiel.

Phu said his units reported "no large contacts" with Communist troops as they linked up on Highway 9 near Ban Dong, 12 miles inside Laos. Field reports said American helicopters were carrying scores of heavy guns on slings from the newly activated former Marine base of Khe Sanh in South Vietnam.

U.S. Air Force F100 Super-nore jets struck Communist tanks and antiaircraft sites menacing the Allied advance, officers told UPI correspondents Kenneth Braddock and Robert E. Sullivan at the border. The returning pilots said they destroyed two tanks and two Communist 37mm antiaircraft guns.

Soldiers charged in bomb blast

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal grand jury today indicted three Army enlisted men on charges of blowing up an electric substation and telephone exchange and damaging the water reservoir at Camp McCoy, Wis., last July 20.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell announced that a four-count indictment was returned in U.S. District Court at Madison, Wis. It was believed to be the first instance of soldiers being allegedly involved in recent bombing incidents.

Named were Spec. 4 Stephen G. Geden, 21, of Milton, Mass.; Spec. 4 Danille E. Kraps, 21, of Torrance County, Calif.; and Spec. 4 Thomas M. Chase, 21, Glenrock, N.J.

The three are stationed at Ft. Carson, Colo., the government said.

N. Viets cite U.S. 'invasion'

PARIS (UPI)—The North Vietnamese accused the United States today of massing troops on the border and preparing to launch "new military adventures against North Vietnam."

The charge came in a midnight statement from the Hanoi delegation to the Paris Vietnam talks and apparently outlined what the Communists would say in the 102nd session of the talks today.

"With the concentration of an important force in the proximity of the 17th parallel and the invasion of regions situated near North Vietnamese frontiers, the United States is preparing to undertake new military adventures against North Vietnam," the statement said.

Thousands of young Parisians marched through the streets Wednesday night in a protest against the Allied incursions into Laos. The demonstration was called by 41 French Communist and socialist organizations and various pacifist groups.

Huge debt predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., says the Nixon administration will ask Congress to increase the national debt $40 billion and raise the interest rate on U.S. bonds.

The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee said the $40 billion proposed increase in the $305 billion ceiling reflects the $18.6 billion deficit in the fiscal 1971 budget and the projected $11.6 billion deficit in the fiscal 1972 budget proposal.

Anti-bias funds said misused

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In an unusual confession of "errors," Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare has admitted the government sent special desegregation funds to school districts which have been charged with using the money to perpetuate segregation.

Richardson said new investigators have confirmed at least some of the charges leveled by six civil rights groups which looked into how 295 southern school districts were using the $75 million provided by Congress last year to help them overcome the burdens of desegregation.

Their report said in only 29 districts was there no "evidence of illegal practices."

It said the schools, even after receiving the government's money, still segregated pupils by classroom, dismissed or demoted black teachers, violated HEW or court-approved plans for the assignment of students or gave aid to private segregationist schools.

After Richardson testified Wednesday before the Senate education subcommittee, HEW identified 11 mostly rural school districts in Alabama, Florida, Georgia and South Carolina which have been told they violated the law and will receive no more of the special aid.

"Because of the dispatch with which funding determinations were made, errors did occur, which we readily concede," Richardson said.

Undersea N-pact signed

By United Press International

The United States, Russia, Britain and 57 other countries today signed a treaty banning nuclear weapons from ocean floors. President Nixon expressed hope it would prove a stepping stone toward curbing the strategic arms race.

Nixon spoke briefly during a ceremony in Washington, at the State Department, in which the United States gave its formal endorsement to the seabed treaty.

"We hope," Nixon said, "we will be meeting some time in the future, in this room, or in some other capital, for the final great step—the control of nuclear arms on earth."

At a similar ceremony in Moscow, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin called the treaty "the first important step towards the complete demilitarization of the seabed."

Another 24 GIs killed

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. command said today 24 Americans were killed on Vietnam battlefields last week, the lowest weekly combat death toll so far this year.

U.S. spokesmen reported another 10 Americans dead from accidents, illness and other non-bombard causes last week.

Astronauts touch U.S. soil again

ABOARD USS NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Apollo 14's astronauts set foot on American soil today for the first time since they blasted off toward the moon 11 days ago, then start a 7,000-mile flight nonstop to Houston.

Plans called for the three astronauts, dressed in clean flight suits and germ-proof masks, to leave their quarantine trailer aboard this recovery ship and fly by NAVY helicopter at noon to American Samoa.

There a C141 jet transport containing an identical isolation trailer waited to start the 12-hour, 15-minute flight nonstop to Houston. Arriving in the early morning hours Friday, the astronauts will enter a $18 million quarantine laboratory where they will live for 15 more days on the off-chance they picked up harmful moon organisms.

A separate aircraft carrying blood samples from the astronauts and part of the 96 pounds of moon rock and soil gathered during their two hikes across Fra Mauro valley was due in Houston at 5:30 p.m. EST.

The flight of Apollo 14 was the most scientifically rewarding flight yet. A $25 million science station left behind by the moon explorers has been radiating valuable information back to earth.

It recorded a 307-degree temperature drop during a total eclipse of the moon Wednesday. In its first five days of operation it also picked up one "moderate" shock—believed to be a meteorite—and three minor tremors in the lunar surface.

Gem court protects hair

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Supreme Court has ruled that long hair is no grounds for dismissal from school. It overturned a Sixth District Court decision which upheld the suspension of a Pocatello High School student.

Chris Murphy, a student at Highland High School in Pocatello in 1969, was dismissed from school for refusing to get his hair cut to conform with school hair standards.

Murphy, through his father, John C. Murphy, filed suit against the Pocatello School District, its Superintendent Rulon Ellis, and school Principal Lionel Bowser, claiming his constitutional rights had been violated.

The lower court ruled in favor of the school district, and Murphy appealed the decision to the Supreme Court.

In the majority opinion, the court wrote that the right to wear hair in different styles is a constitutionally protected matter of personal taste; "not to be interfered with by the state unless the state can establish that some societal interest has been substantially impaired by an individual's exercise of personal taste."

The court wrote that that authority of the local school board over a student's conduct and status is limited to that which is properly related to its educational function.

In a dissenting opinion, Justice Allan G. Shepard wrote he had doubts about the merits of investing judicial time in long hair controversies. He said that given continual changes in hair styles and the refusal of the U. S. Supreme Court to hear such cases, this court ought not to decide the case in broad constitutional terms.

He also raised a point that the decision may allow discipline and regulations to be challenged by any school child who feels his privacy or personal taste has been disturbed.

In a separate dissent, Justice Clay Spear wrote that he felt the question was an important one.

He wrote, "Children are not adults. They do not come to life fully equipped with knowledge and wisdom."

He said certain rules and regulations were not only permissible, but perhaps mandatory in a school system in order to teach children how to live within society.

Nixon asks new regulatory units

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today made public a proposal to shake up the federal agencies that regulate transportation, power, trade practices and financial security.

Unlike earlier recommendations for reshuffling cabinet-level departments offered by the President's Advisory Council on Executive Reorganization, the proposal to change both the form and operations of the so-called "independent agencies" did not have Nixon's general endorsement. It also had the open opposition of one of the council's six members.

The plan would:

- Merge the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC), Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) and Federal Maritime Commission (FMC) into a single transportation regulatory agency.
- Break up the present

Federal Trade Commission (FTC) into two agencies: a federal trade practices agency dealing with consumer protection and a federal antitrust board assuming FTC's responsibility for enforcing part of the federal antimonopoly laws.

- Replace the present Federal Power Commission (FPC) with a federal power agency and the present Securities

Exchange Commission (SEC) with a new securities and exchange agency.

—Speed up decisions of the agencies and refer appeals from the administrators' rulings to a new federal administrative court instead of the present system of appealing to the regular federal courts. There would be up to 15 judges with 15-year terms of office.

Quake fear keeps hoards homeless

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The possibility of a vicious aftershock kept 120,000 persons out of their homes today as rescue workers dug for more victims of the devastating Los Angeles earthquake.

Residents evacuated from their suburban houses beneath a cracked earthfill dam were ordered to remain away until Friday afternoon by Mayor Sam Yorty, who acted on the advice of quake experts.

In the city of San Fernando, 17,000 residents were without water because of damage to wells. Nine tanker trucks provided supplies for basic needs and 200 portable toilets were set up. Crews hoped to have the wells repaired by Friday.

Two days after Tuesday's quake smashed the northern San Fernando Valley and shook the entire Los Angeles area, the death toll was still growing.

Rescuers used cranes, ladders and jackhammers to probe the flattened rubble of a veterans hospital where 35 of the quake's 51 known victims died. At least seven others were missing in the ruins.

The cost of the quake was still being tallied, but county engineer John A. Lambie said "a quick estimate would be that it will be in the billions."

City officials said structural damage in Los Angeles alone was estimated at $160 million.

Yorty extended the mandatory evacuation of an 18-square-mile section of the suburban valley after Dr. Charles Richter warned that most quakes were usually followed by an aftershock which approached the severity of the original earth tremor.

Burley behind measure

By MIKE ROBERTSON

Times-News Staff Writer

BURLEY — Mayor Garis Robertson said that legislation passed by the Idaho State Senate Tuesday is necessary to enable Burley to sell its excess electrical power.

Under the proposed legislation, Burley may be able to dispose of its excess power through the Bonneville Power Administration.

Burley has its own power distribution system through which it delivers power purchased from the Bonneville Power Association.

Under present law, a city with its own power system can sell power at retail only. It can not sell at wholesale.

The BPA will now sell Burley's excess power.

Burley buys its power on a percentage basis from a system that covers Montana, Washington, and Idaho.

At present it doesn't use the entire amount of electricity in its percentage allotment.

In the future, Robertson said, the area will need all of the power. But in the meantime, Burley must have some way to dispose of the excess.

Burley started its own distribution system and began buying power in 1963 when Minidoka Dam couldn't supply enough power for the area.

There are 13 towns and cities in Idaho with their own electrical distribution or generating systems affected by the legislation, Robertson said.

The earthen levee, shored up by sandbags while city crews drained its three billion gallons of water, was not considered in danger unless it is hit by a second big temblor.

Police barricaded off the 25,000 homes near the dam, but allowed some residents to return on 1/4-hour passes for emergency purposes. These ranged from feeding pets and getting money to a young woman who said she needed her birth control pills.

Jordanian force hits

AMMAN (UPI)—Palestinian guerrillas said 600 Jordan army troops supported by tanks launched a dawn attack on the Jabal Himlan area of Amman today and killed and wounded a number of civilians.

Command sources said it was the biggest outbreak of fighting in Jordan in nearly four weeks.

A government statement said security forces moved into the area, arrested persistent violators of cease-fire agreements and confiscated weapons.

It said the detainees would go on trial. The statement, on official Amman radio, made no mention of fighting.

The official spokesman of the ranking Central Committee of guerrilla groups, Ibrahim Bakr, said Palestinian leaders opened up arms caches in which weapons were stored under the latest truce and handed out guns to militiamen.

Urban negroes increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the past decade the Negro population of the United States' 67 largest urban areas grew by an estimated 2.2 million. The white population declined by 1.87 million.

The figures issued Wednesday by the Commerce Department illustrated an acceleration in the flight of whites to suburbs. Other statistics for the period showed there was little suburban integration despite new federal and state open housing laws.

Federal surveys showed white populations declined during the 1960s in all the dozen largest municipalities except Los Angeles. The number of whites increased by 5.3 per cent in Los Angeles to 2.17 million.

When the decade started, only Washington, D.C., among major urban areas, had more blacks than whites. By 1970, there were four — Washington, with 71.1 per cent Negro population; Newark, N.J., 54.2 per cent; Gary, Ind., 52.8; and Atlanta, 51.3.

The number of whites living in suburbs increased by 12.43 million during the decade. The Negro increases was listed as 783,000, but the percentage of blacks in the suburbs declined in 25 of the 67 areas.

Seers predict new 'great earthquake'

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — For two years, Californians have heard predictions from both soothsayers and experts that a "great" earthquake was due to hit the state.

An assortment of astrologers, religious fanatics and hippies predicted it would snap the state like a stale cookie and drop most of it into the Pacific. The more sober earthquake experts scoffed at that picture — but warned the 600-mile-long San Andreas fault was due for one of its periodic movements similar to the one that caused the San Francisco quake of 1906.

To the 10 million residents of the Los Angeles area who were jolted awake by Tuesday's devastating tremor, the predictions seemed to have come true as the quake killed more than 50 persons and caused damage that will run into the billions of dollars.

They're wrong, according to Dr. Clarence R. Allen, professor of geology and geophysics at the California Institute of Technology.

"It is certainly not a great earthquake in the sense of the San Francisco quake," he told a news conference Wednesday. Allen echoed the predictions of other geologists that a great quake — one with a Richter reading of 8 or higher — would hit along the San Andreas fault in Southern California sometime within the next century.

However, he said, knowledge of quakes and their causes is not sufficient to allow a prediction any closer than that.

Allen said Tuesday's quake, which measured 6.5 on the Richter scale, did not occur along the San Andreas or any known fault system. "We don't understand entirely what happened," he said. "It is not an area that has had a great deal of seismic activity and there is no recognized active fault."

McGovern terms Hoover 'liability'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., Wednesday called FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover "a liability to law enforcement" who should be held in contempt of Congress for a letter to an Atlanta newspaper. The FBI "said McGovern was 'confused in his facts.'"

McGovern, the first declared candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, charged that Hoover refused to give information to a Senate subcommittee about a dispute involving a former FBI agent, pleading the case was in court, and then commented on the case in a letter to the newspaper.

An FBI spokesman said that "Mr. Hoover committed no contempt of Congress."

He said Hoover had written the letter to the editor of the Atlanta Journal and Constitution on Jan. 28 concerning criticism of Hoover by agent John I. Shaw, who resigned rather than accept disciplinary assignment to a lesser post.

The day after Hoover wrote the letter, Shaw filed suit seeking reinstatement in U.S. District Court in New York — without notice to the FBI or the Justice Department — and the newspaper did not publish the letter until Feb. 7, the FBI said.

In the meantime, the FBI added, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, chairman of the Senate administrative practices and procedures subcommittee, wrote Hoover at McGovern's urging on Jan. 29 asking him to testify about the Shaw case.

Hoover replied Feb. 2 — five days before his letter was published in Atlanta — saying he could not testify because the case was before the court, the FBI said.

Demo hopefuls spell out accord

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien says his party's potential presidential candidates have agreed to campaign between now and 1972 against the Nixon administration — not against each other.

O'Brien said the major candidates, announced and unannounced, joined him and House Speaker Carl Albert and Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield at a "secret dinner" earlier this week.

They reached an agreement, he said, under which the contenders "will concentrate on emphasizing Democratic alternatives to the Nixon administration, and not against each other."

Attending the meeting were Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma.

Sen. Birch D. Bayh of Indiana was unable to make the meeting, O'Brien said, but he agreed earlier to the moratorium on intraparty scraps.

Killing 'felt good'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Susan Atkins said Wednesday she felt no remorse for killing Sharon Tate because it felt good.

"It was death and life in one motion," the 22-year-old convicted murderess told the jury in the penalty phase of the Tate-LaBianca trial. "It felt good. How could it not be right if it's done out of love?"

The willowy brunette said she and other "Manson family" women conceived the death plot because they wanted to convince police to free "family" member Robert Beausoleil, who had been jailed for the earlier slaying of musician Gary Hinman.

Miss Atkins said it was she who fatally stabbed Hinman. She said she had once seen a television movie where police realized they had the wrong man after eight more murders were committed, so the "Manson family" decided to commit "copycat" murders.

"I did it because I believed it was the right thing to do," Miss Atkins said. "I would do anything to get my brother out of jail, and I still believe it was right."

2 botulism victims OK

DRIGGS, Idaho (UPI) — Two men, one from Idaho and the other from Utah, are recovering from botulism poisoning, hospital spokesmen reported Wednesday.

The pair, Dick Dartsch, Alta, Utah, and Ron Davis, Rexburg, Idaho, were admitted to the hospital early Wednesday. Both are in good condition.

Anne Hillan

GOODING — Anne C. Hillan, 79, died late Tuesday evening at the Gooding nursing home of a short illness.

She was born July 5, 1891, in Smithfield, Utah, attended school in Ogden and was married to Elmer Vaughn Nov. 14, 1917, in Ogden. He died in 1922. Later she married Charles E. Hillan Aug. 30, 1925, in Challis.

They lived in Los Angeles until 1933 when they returned to Ogden. Later they were separated. She came to Idaho in 1935 and to Gooding the next year. She operated the Flynn Cafe from 1936 to 1961.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Lloyd (Virginia) Simonton, Gooding; two brothers, Austin Chatland and Clyde Chatland, both Ogden, and one sister, Mrs. Lawrence (Vera) Nyland, Ogden.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday at Thompson Chapel by Rev. Harold Hake. Final rites will be held in the Elmwood Cemetery. Friends may call at the chapel all day Friday and Saturday until time of services. The family suggests contributions to the American Cancer Society or Heart fund.

Utah utility gets license

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission said Wednesday Utah Power & Light Co., Salt Lake City, had applied for a new 50 year license to operate its Onedra hydroelectric power project.

The project is on the Bear River near Preston, in Franklin County, Idaho.

Russ ships near Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon says three Soviet submarine tenders, a cruiser and a merchant vessel — have entered Cuban waters.

A spokesman declined to say, however, whether any of the ships has docked at a Cuban port. The sub tender was reported to be of the same make as the vessel which operated near Cuba last fall, raising speculation at the time that the Russians were building a nuclear submarine base at Cienfuegos.

Miners safe

KITAKYOSU, Japan (UPI) — Thirty-three coal miners made their way to safety without injury following a cave-in today at a mine near this city on Japan's southern island of Kyushu. Police said the accident occurred at the Wakamatsu mine of the Nippon Coal Mining Co. A major rescue operation had begun when the men made their way out.

Four persons arrested for break ins in Twin Falls area

TWIN FALLS — Two burglaries, a car theft and an attempted break in occurred Tuesday night or Wednesday morning in Twin Falls County and four people are under arrest in connection with one of the break ins.

Twin Falls County sheriff's officers said they have arrested Michael J. Bean, 25, and Greg E. Lockard, 18, both Twin Falls, and Wayne R. Hotchkiss Jr., 21, and Charles H. Raney, 18, both Rupert, in connection with a burglary at Ermen's Food Store on Blue Lakes Boulevard South.

The break in was discovered by Jim White, merchant policeman, about 3:15 a.m. Wednesday.

A car containing the suspects was observed a short distance from the store. When officers approached the scene, the car left and city and county officers chased it for about a mile, stopping it at Five Points East.

Taken in the burglary were cigarettes and various items of food, including milk, soda pop, eggs, about 50 pounds of fresh meat and margarine.

The Rapid Texaco station on Main Avenue North in Twin Falls also was entered during the night. Two window panes were broken out and a window unlatched, allowing entry. An undetermined amount of change, a gum ball machine and tools were reported missing.

City police also are investigating an attempted break in at Havener's Camera and Sound on Main Avenue North. Entry apparently was not made.

A car owned by Jim Erickson, Twin Falls, which was reported stolen from a parking area on Main Avenue North, was recovered later on Third Avenue East where it was apparently abandoned, city police said.

More eggs?

A RATHER UNPOPULAR competition, to judge from the crowd, was the egg-eating contest, first of a week-long series of Homecoming events at the College of Southern Idaho, Mary Parks, on right, chokes down another hard-boiled egg while an unidentified fellow gourmet, on left, prepares to dive in. The results of the "contest," which was attended only by a few compatriots of the contestants, were not announced.

Hearing slated tonight

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Zoning and Planning commission members have scheduled a public hearing for Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in the Twin Falls County Judicial Building on a zone change request from Lynn Hempleman.

The property owner has asked for rezoning on his agricultural property south and east of town to residential-agriculture to allow for development of a mobile home court. He previously was denied an application following public protests before the zoning commission and the county commission.

Ed Woods, zoning administrator, said the applicant has modified his request to allow for some changes in the court design and has agreed to install a separate sewage disposal system for the development.

Change has no effect

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley will not be affected by a change in mail-handling procedures scheduled for adoption in the Boise area, according to Lloyd Libert, officer in charge at the Twin Falls Post Office.

The change calls for Boise Valley mail to be "centralized" with mail from outlying areas, such as Nampa and Caldwell, sent to Boise for sorting and routing. Some postmarks of the smaller towns may be eliminated, with a postal number substituted for efficiency, according to the U.S. Postal Service.

Under the plan, mail from Nampa to Caldwell would go first to Boise for sorting, then back to the Caldwell addressee.

Libert said that "As far as I know, there will be no changes in mail handling in our area for a long time to come."

It Will Cost The Taxpayers

Total cost of this payhike is put at $5,034,000—for an overall UN salary and wages budget of $86,186,500 for this year. Total UN budget for 1971 is $192,140,300. U.S. share of all UN expenditures is 31.82 percent. The pay raise was quietly put through the UN General Assembly shortly before it adjourned last month. The virtually unreported vote was 57 to 10 with 4 abstentions. The U.S. was one of the abstainers. It opposed an eight percent increase, favoring five percent instead. The U.S. abstained on the final vote. Many of the 57 countries that supported the raise are in arrears in their payments to the UN—in a number of instances running into the millions of dollars. Total payments owing the UN are $190,849,889. Foremost among the nations in default are (on the basis of latest available official figures): Russia, $84,530,888; Nationalist China, $22,870,696; France, $21,328,662; Ukraine, $10,363,031; Poland, $6,893,692; Czechoslovakia, $5,684,052; Hungary, $2,896,996; Argentina, $2,157,878; South Africa,

$1,886,735; Mexico, $1,641,410; Rumania, $1,613,322; Bulgaria, $783,974. With a few exceptions, these defaulting countries almost invariably denounce and oppose U.S. policies. Secretary General U Thant concluded the General Assembly session with an urgent plea that nations in arrears pay their obligations. He warned that failure to do so would undermine the organization's credit and more importantly its integrity. That is in danger of being seriously compromised.

The General Assembly took no action on this appeal—which it has heard many times and done nothing about. U Thant, who strongly advocated the pay boost, was not included in it. He gets $50,000 salary, plus $22,500 so-called "representation allowance" and another $12,000 as "post adjustment allowance." In addition, he is furnished with a house in a fashionable section and a chauffeured limousine. As a consequence of the sizable pay hike and the $190 million owed by UN members, the proposal for the U.S. to contribute $20 million for the construction of an $80 million new UN building in New York faces rough going in Congress. A measure authorizing such a handout was steamrollered through Congress in the hectic closing hours of the recent session. But a House Appropriations subcommittee, headed by Representative John Rooney, D-N.Y., early turned down a State Department request for the money. That ended the attempt for the last Congress, but it's certain to be renewed in the one now getting underway. From the opposition encountered previously, it's sure to be intensified the next go-round.

Graphically illustrative are two scathing charges by Representative H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, vigilante "Treasury watchdog" and a ranking member of the Foreign Affairs Committee: (1) U.S. Taxpayers actually will put up $64 million for the proposed $80 million building and not $20 million; (2) Much of the space of the costly new structure will be occupied by numerous clubs and entertainment facilities for United Nations delegations and employees.

"Don't let anyone tell you," says Gross, "that the proposed $20 million grant is all the money involved. It isn't even a third of the amount American taxpayers will wind up paying for these luxurious additions to the UN."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Tests First

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been taking thyroid medication for almost two years for underactive thyroid. I just don't feel like I am improving very fast, as I am still physically and mentally sluggish, with dry skin, puffy face, and terribly thin hair.

Do you think the pills are helping me? Would you suggest some other treatment? I am 50 and going through menopause. Would like a comment from you before I go back to my doctor for another thyroid test. — Mrs. L.J.

You're putting the cart before the horse — you want answers BEFORE you have another thyroid test. Furthermore, I would be presumptuous to suggest some other form of treatment without knowing what such test results might be, or knowing some other things about your condition.

Reading between the lines, I gather that you've noted some improvement, but not nearly as much as you expected or, doubtless, should have. The symptoms you mention all are typical of underactive thyroid.

Thus my guess is that perhaps your dosage may need to be adjusted — but that doubtless will be obvious enough once you've had some new tests. Remember, it's one thing for a physician to find that a person has a slow thyroid and needs medication to perk it up. It is quite another to be able to tell, first crack out of the box, just how much medication the patient needs or can use.

Many a patient, we know to our sorrow, has been disappointed, and started shopping around with other doctors, because treatment didn't happen to bring perfect results the first time.

Rather, instead of trying a new doctor, or insisting on a different treatment, your wise course is to report back to your doctor and see whether adjustment of the treatment isn't the right answer.

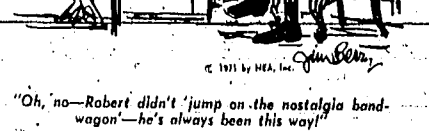

For an added thought, remember that thyroid deficiency doesn't come on suddenly, and your medication may still be in process of catching up for perhaps quite a few years of low thyroid troubles. Subtle thyroid deficiency is a commoner trouble than most people suppose; medication often can show prompt results in such cases. But when the deficiency has continued long enough to affect skin, hair, and general body function, it takes time to catch up.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had my tubes tied 11 years ago because I was too fertile. Now I get diarrhea and a splitting headache and I am very uncomfortable at my periods and nothing helps. I would like to have my tubes untied and my husband wants one more baby. He hopes for a boy; we have three girls. I am 35. Is the operation possible? — Mrs. B.G.

I don't believe the tying of your tubes has anything to do with the troubles you've mentioned, except that your nerves might be involved. As to an operation to "untie" tubes, sometimes it succeeds but quite often it doesn't. That's why I express so much caution about these surgical methods of preventing pregnancy. People sometimes change their minds, and sometimes it's too late, so other methods of birth control deserve consideration. I suggest you discuss such an operation with a gynecologist.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated into his column whenever possible.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Oh, no—Robert didn't jump on the nostalgia bandwagon—he's always been this way!"

Space Risks

Many Americans seem surprisingly disposed to take manned moon flights as routine but the record, despite two grand successes, emphasizes the awesome risks.

Apollo 14, engaged in the most ambitious voyage to the moon thus far, was troubled by difficulty in rejoining lunar module and the spacecraft, the key to success in the mission.

After achieving the linkup on the sixth try, NASA control decided the risk need not abort the landing. Some 33 hours later, the maneuver became a life and death matter for Alan B. Shepard, Jr., and Edgar D. Mitchell as they rejoined Apollo 14 for the long voyage home.

The docking mechanism apparently was undamaged by the unexplained failures and seemed to work perfectly once it had succeeded.

Their 33-hour stay on the moon's surface had some hazards in that they landed in rough terrain. Unknown risks abound along with the recognized perils.

There are 2,149 man-made objects in space, the balance of the 4,900 sent aloft having burned out. This number in the wide reaches of space does not constitute a traffic jam, yet does mean an added risk. However, the Aerospace Defense Command keeps track of each man-made satellite and would provide warning of any possible collision.

Despite the infinite precautions taken to insure the safe voyage and return of the Apollo 14, it ill becomes the earthbound to downgrade the risks of the heroism of the men who venture into space, or to forget the brave men who have given their lives in the effort to expand man's knowledge beyond this world.

Gains from the space effort have proved its value in important developments on earth. The promise of the future is beyond imagination. Exploration of space, now hardly beyond the comparable stage of air travel when the first flimsy planes began to fly, is a challenge to man's insatiable desire for knowledge and must continue.

MR. SPECTATOR

Napoleon's Waterloo?

Ever been to Waterloo? Not where Napoleon met "his" some 156 years ago but rather a town by the same name in the state where the tall corn grows. Iowa, that is!

That name and that community will remain in the minds of nearly 100 Twin Falls and Jerome area farmers — and their wives, if they were along — all because of a little thing like lack of kerosene. Little thing? Don't fool yourself — lack of fuel can develop into a circumstance that just can't be circumvented.

To get right down to the meat of today's column we will point out that the people involved in this thing — which ultimately turned out to be an enjoyable comedy — were on a jet flight from Twin Falls to Waterloo and then on to Moline, Ill., to inspect John Deere farm equipment factories at those two points. The jump was made on one of those big United Airlines 727 planes, under charter, and there were 103 souls aboard including members of the crew.

Without incident was the flight from Twin Falls to that place by the name Napoleon made famous. Enjoyable, too, was the luncheon as guests of John Deere, the tour through the big Waterloo plants, and the drive back to the airport. With the temperature hovering around 15 or so below zero, it was a fast sprint from the buses to the plane. In fact, the passengers got on ahead of the crew.

Then the plot started to thicken. The captain — or John Peterson from United Airline Sales, Portland, along to superintend the jaunt, made an announcement.

It seemed that the big jet needed fuel. There was more than enough aboard for the flight to Moline but government regulations required enough for an alternate airport in case of bad weather. So, without more fuel, the jet could not be moved.

The fuel? When the plane first settled into Waterloo the captain requested fuel to be delivered sometime before takeoff in later afternoon for Moline. The order was confirmed. Just before the passengers came back from the tour, a check by the crew revealed no fuel had been delivered. Why? Well, said the airport service; it just happened they were out of kerosene — that's what jets burn — and a truck was enroute from Des Moines, more than 100 miles away.

So to while away the time until the truck arrived, the captain and crew invited the 90 plus farmers and wives to come forward and inspect the flight deck.

It was during this inspection tour that another announcement was made. Seems as though the truck from Des Moines had broken the transmission somewhere along the way. No other trucks were available. Now what?

Then Mr. Peterson went to work in earnest. It was getting dark and he could see the crowd would never get to Moline in time for the banquet the Deere organization was throwing. So, Mr. Peterson said, he had made arrangements to feed everyone a dinner at the Waterloo terminal restaurant, as guests of United.

So everyone went from the plane to the restaurant. By now it was about 18 below zero and the walk from the plane to the terminal couldn't be called a stroll.

And what a nice meal. But Moline was still 40 minutes away by air. How did the farmers get there? Mr. Peterson had that answer too. United was sending in another 727 jet from Omaha to pick up the crowd. Must have been around 9 o'clock or so when it came wheeling in. Passengers loaded and baggage transferred and away to Moline went everyone.

Mr. Spectator has been on a lot of trips in his day but this one just had to be the highlight — sort of a comedy of errors situation all because there was no kerosene.

But it proved one thing. Take 90 or so farmers and their wives, three pretty United stewardesses, three polite and efficient flight crew members, a knowledgeable and energetic United official from Portland, got them all together and what do you have?

You have a swell bunch of people who turned what could have been a disagreeable situation into one of humor and (perish the use of the word) enjoyment.

You have a bunch of Idaho farmers who will always remember Waterloo — their Waterloo!

Sunday we'll have a story in on the more serious side of the trip and perhaps in addition, a picture of interest. In Mr. Spectator tomorrow.

But we just had to tell you today about the kerosene that never got to Waterloo in the state where (we said before) the tall corn grows!

American Women

WASHINGTON — American women, even of the relatively peaceful majority, may find comfort in the tip from a White House aide that President Nixon has some people working on a kind of Bill of Rights for the population's weaker vessels.

It is the President's intention, apparently, to employ the "moral suasion" of his office to induce certain states and communities to give females a better break legally. He also probably will ask legislation to invalidate state laws which now make men more equal than women, on the grounds those laws violate the Constitution.

Nixon would seem to have a point. The demands of such movements as Women's Lib for a redress of their wrongs are not always shallow and lacking in substance. Even men, as customers they are to a life of suffering and bill-paying, would rebel against some of the laws — written and unwritten — that discriminate against the female sex.

For example, statutes in four states still place a woman's money under the complete control of her husband. Special court approval and in some instances, her husband's consent are required before a wife may legally open her own business in Florida, Nevada, California and Pennsylvania. In many communities a woman may not enter a bar or a restaurant without a male escort, and has no legal right to rent a hotel room or an apartment. Unwritten laws make it hard for women to get bank loans, mortgages and credit cards.

Texas, with its traditional he-man approach to almost everything, even flouts the well-known consequences that are the violent resort of a woman scorned. Although the fury of Hell pales beside that of a female whose man has deserted her, the Lone Star State does not permit the same "unwritten law" defense extended to a wronged husband.

Such discrimination lends credence to the argument that feminist demands are almost identical with those presented in 1848, when a Women's Right Convention met in Seneca Falls, N.Y. — equal opportunities in jobs and education, and an end to legal discrimination against females.

Statistics lend validity to women's case. In 1969, the median salary of women chemists was $9000; male chemists made $13,200. The median wage for the average woman is $7684; for the average man it was $4456. After all that blood, sweat and tears, woman's share of what the experts call the total job market in professional and technical fields was down from 45 per cent in 1940 to 37 per cent in 1970.

Women represent only 3 per cent of the lawyers, 7 per cent of the scientists, and 1 per cent of the Federal judges. Margaret Chase Smith is the only woman member of the Senate.

PAUL HARVEY

Silent Black

For more than a decade now, with new laws to back them up and white empathy to urge them on, America's blacks have been feeling their oats, flexing their muscles, burning old barricades — and sometimes smashing some new store fronts, too.

Mercenary self-appointed black misleaders, fanning the flames, got rich at the expense of the poor blacks to whom they promised more and more and more.

But even they are sobering up now. Even Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver has disavowed the "drug culture" which he once espoused.

And while these few noisy ones have been making headlines, the black silent majority has been making some real progress. I remember after the 1054 Supreme Court decision, a Negro man was stopped for running a red traffic light in Gadsden, Ala. To the arresting policeman he protested, "You can't arrest me; I'm EQUAL now!"

There was that much misunderstanding among unenlightened blacks about the relationship of "rights" and "responsibilities."

A new generation has been born and has matured in the years since. The new generation has heard about the "black rage" and the "ghetto revolts" and has read the many books by angry authors.

Yet while instances of extremism and confrontation have been center-stage, behind the scenes these past dozen years the percentage of Negro families earning $8,000 or more has increased from 10 per cent to 32 per cent. While militants have been swaggering from camera to microphone threatening "violent revolution," a "quiet revolution" already has been accomplished.

In all top job categories, blacks have made proportionately greater gains than have whites.

Negro clerical workers more than doubled, from 400,000 to more than a million.

Negro craftsmen and foremen increased from 380,000 to 700,000.

Negro managers, officials and proprietors increased from 140,000 to 250,000. And during that dozen years the number of Negroes holding professional positions increased from 250,000 to 700,000!

Sociologist Gary Marx asked blacks, "Do you think things are getting better or worse for Negroes in the United States?" Eighty per cent said "better."

It can be argued that the belligerent ones have served a purpose during the past decade; that their shouted demands intimidated whites while this black silent majority was silently infiltrating industry, business, politics and the professions.

If that is so, then it is timely that the raving and ranting has been subdued — that it engendered repentment and resistance and into the social and economic homogenization already accomplished.

Street-corner surveys of slum-dwellers have misled the sociologists. They fail to see that around the corner and off the street the adult, married black is working at a better job for more money, schooling his children, buying his home, paying his way.

And he's as worried about crime and prejudice as fearful of and prejudiced against troublemakers as the rest of us.

Budget adoption due Friday

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners said today they hope to be able to adopt the 1971 county budget at the end of the day Friday, permitting the public hearings to continue until then.

Chairman W. L. Chancy said taxpayer interest in the proposed expenditures for the coming year is continuing, with a number of interested taxpayers calling at the commission office each day.

Four taxpayers, two of them members of the county Tax Equality Committee, met Wednesday afternoon to ask some specific questions not covered in the day long hearing Monday.

Lyle Abel, Ted Masoner and Max Galley questioned the solid waste item budgeted at $100,000 and the tax ad valorem budget of $85,000. As for county solid waste, Harold Lancaster, clerk, recorder and budget officer said he is hopeful this amount will not be needed and in this case it will not be levied for.

This is the case in many of the areas where new state legislation has called for new or changed programs, he said. Most county officials are at a loss to know how much these programs will cost in the first year and have estimated a liberal amount. By the time levels are set to raise the amount needed in September, he said, a better guideline will be established and the amounts on the budget will be cut if at all possible.

In the assessor's budget, Abel said the increase from $73,099 in 1970 to $96,595 in 1971 plus a new ad valorem budget of $85,000 needed further explanation.

Commissioner Heber Loughmiller said the county, under order of the state tax commission, must carry on the continuing re-evaluation program for which the $85,000 contract has been awarded.

Assessor Thompson, who was not present for the Wednesday afternoon hearing, said today the 1971 budget of $73,099 was reduced as three of his employees last year were assigned to ad valorem work under the belief it could be handled by the regular office staff. The $24,550 1970 ad valorem budget brought the assessor's total to $97,649.

These persons are now back on the regular assessor's staff, and their salaries are under the $96,378 regular budget this year. Thompson said this makes his 1971 budget about $1,000 less than last year.

The new auto licensing program, on a staggered basis,

Thompson said, is costing Twin Falls County more money and one additional employee is being hired this year to work in that department. Most counties, he said, find this system requires more accounting, filing and office work. Instead of once a year the licensing offices now face a deadline business each month.

Taxpayers attending the Wednesday session also objected to the farm machinery manual being used by property appraisers. Abel said, for example, a tractor he paid $8,200 for and which is still being advertised by the local dealer at that price, is listed in the book at $10,000 and is thus being appraised at $1800 more than he paid and his tax will be based on this higher evaluation.

A $100 SCHOLARSHIP was presented to Oscar Cadena, Burley, left, welding student at the College of Southern Idaho Vocational-Technical school, by Charles Wait of Gem State Welders Supply of Twin Falls. The scholarship, the first to CSI by the supply firm, was presented to Cadena for being the most outstanding of about 25 students in the welding program.

'West Side Story' pleases reviewer

TWIN FALLS — "West Side Story," the second venture into music theater by the CSI music department, can best be described as a fast moving, well directed, and generally superior show.

The musical will be presented at 8 p.m. tonight, Friday and Saturday at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center.

From prologue to final curtain, there are relatively few moments which can be faulted, and several scenes which are real "show stoppers." One in the latter category is the Jets' portrayal of the song, "Gee Officer Krupke."

The redshifted Jet gang includes John Robinette, Larry Crookham, James Soran, John Mathiesen, Mark Boman and Larry Peterson. Associated with the gang is Anybodies, played by Violeta Burke. Miss Burke plays her character to the hilt every second she is on stage and proves that what might seem like a small part can still be made one of the hit roles of the show.

Linda Talley, who takes the part of Marla, has not only a pleasing solo voice, but also one which blends well in the duets with Tony and Anita. The most demanding dramatic scene for Marla is the emotionally charged final scene of the show, and Miss Talley plays it extremely well.

The role of Tony is sung by Steven Johnson who played the part of King Arthur in last year's production of "Camelot." Those who saw "Camelot" should be impressed by the considerable improvement in both his voice and his character portrayal.

LARRY ANDERSON JR. Anderson appointed delegate

TWIN FALLS — Larry D. Anderson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Anderson of Twin Falls will be the Idaho representative to the Williamsburg Student Burgesses in Williamsburg, Va., next week.

Anderson, a junior at Twin Falls High School, is president elect of the Idaho Association of Student Councils.

Taxpayers 'prompt'

TWIN FALLS — Despite property taxes being high, taxpayers in Twin Falls County are prompt with their payments, County Treasurer Ruth K. Jones said today.

She said the December, 1970, collection of real property taxes reached the highest percentage of amount due on record in the past seven years.

A total of $3,787,311.56 was collected by the Dec. 20 deadline, or 70.29 per cent of the total 1970 tax bill. This nets the county an increase of 1 per cent above the collections on real property at the same date a year ago.

The tax collector's books have been balanced and now show an outstanding balance due of $1,648,908 due by the second half payment deadline of June 20, Mrs. Jones said.

Total taxes to be collected in the county for the 1970 fiscal year, Mrs. Jones said, is $5,387,997.22. Taxpayers were billed a total of $63,731.78 more in 1970 than in 1969.

Mrs. Jones said tax money collected has been disbursed to the various taxing units of the county with additional payments to follow as the balance of the tax is collected.

Delinquent taxes yet due for 1969 total $34,004.70, and for 1968 another $14,317.17 is yet due. On real property taxes a full three years delinquent, state law requires the county tax collector take tax deeds in the name of the county, the treasurer said.

Mrs. Jones said her tax books are open for payments of 1970 taxes and for prior years' delinquent taxes now, Idaho law also requires, she said, her office collect a two per cent penalty and eight per cent interest to date of payment. This is added to the amount of the original tax bill, she said.

Center builds shaker

RICHMOND, Calif. (UPI)—The University of California has gone into the earthquake simulation business with a machine capable of shaking a 52-ton structure at an intensity twice the strength of California's strongest recorded quake.

The nation's largest earthquake simulator, a hydraulically driven shaking table, will be in full operation this summer and will give researchers a new means of predicting the behavior of a structure under quake conditions.

"In the past, research has been primarily theoretical because of the lack of experimental facilities such as the simulator," said the Earthquake Center's director, Joseph Penzien. "But now we've reached the point where we must shift our emphasis more toward experimental research."

The table is supported by a 1.5 million pound box-shaped, 10-foot deep reinforced concrete foundation and is shaken horizontally and vertically by an oil pressure system salvaged from a surplus Titan I missile also. It weighs 230,000 pounds fully loaded, yet floats on an air cushion of only four pounds per square inch.

The information it is capable of giving researchers may be channeled into industry for construction of more collapse-proof structures and updating building codes.

Penzien says past theoretical studies to predict the dynamic response to earthquake motion of fixed structures such as buildings, dams and bridges were based on idealized mathematical models. He said these models are questionable when predicting how a structure will truly behave during an actual quake.

Beams, columns, frames and other building components can now be tested under simulated conditions for their dynamic response and failure characteristics through various degrees of shock and stress. The final result will be improved materials and better designs.

In practical terms, a building must be able to sustain some damage during a quake in order to prevent major damage to the point of collapse.

The simulator, currently getting its initial tests, is located in a hangar-type building at the university's field station in Richmond, Calif., not far from the Berkeley campus.

The $250,000 building, as well as the simulator facility, was financed primarily by the National Science Foundation.

Even though there were several outstanding performers, the ensemble as a whole set the mood, held it, and brought it to a successful conclusion. The director, Eugene Milton, assistant professor of music at CSI, merits a resounding "Bravo" for the production. He has functioned not only as musical director, but also as stage director and set designer.

— Mrs. Marshall LeBaron.

The orchestra score for "West Side Story" is not one of the simpler ones. The orchestra which has been assembled includes CSI students, townpeople and three members of the Boise Philharmonic. In spite of little rehearsal time, the players manage most of the score well.

The debate team third place in a national collegiate debate tournament that included teams from 48 colleges from all parts of the nation. Gene Hull, CSI debate coach, accompanied the debaters on their trip.

Others on the trip were Dean Pennington, Gary Copeland, Steve Webb and Kelly Francisco. They failed to place in the tournament, however, Hull said.

Talks gain little

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite lengthy negotiations, the United States and Russia are as far apart as ever on two critical issues — access to Berlin and limitation of strategic nuclear arms.

U.S. officials see no possibility of early progress on either of these issues.

The Berlin talks have resumed after a recess of almost two months. The Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) will get underway March 15 in Vienna after a three-month recess.

In the interim, the Russians have been trying to saddle the United States with blame for lack of movement on either problem.

Soviet diplomats say that in December they offered the United States, Britain and France an agreement which would provide for unrestricted civilian trade and communications between West Germany and Red-encircled West Berlin, and between West Berlin and Communist East Berlin and East Germany.

U.S. officials say this is true but there is a joker in the Russian deck. The allies would have to agree to release Russia from all responsibility for communications and agree that East Germany would have the final say on controlling the trade and communications.

The allies refuse to concede that because it would in effect amount to diplomatic recognition of the sovereignty of East Germany and make it impossible to hold Russia responsible for the behavior of its agents.

The U.S. position on the SALT talks appears, on the basis of information available so far, to have somewhat less merit than the American stand on Berlin. This could be due to the fact that the issue is more complex.

The United States opposes a Russian plan to begin with an agreement to limit defensive antiballistic nuclear missiles, without trying to include offensive intercontinental missiles. It also refuses to consider the Soviet position that if offensive weapons are included in any agreement, the 500 American fighter bombers based in Western Europe and on aircraft carriers close to Russia should be included.

The second point is the more complicated of the two. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has suggested that the U.S. fighter bombers should not be included in the SALT agreement but in a separate agreement between the NATO powers and the Communist Warsaw Pact countries in mutual reductions in tactical forces.

Asia peace conference proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George D. Aiken, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, proposed today that an all-Asian conference, including Communist countries, be held to promote peace in war-torn Indochina.

The Vermont Republican said in a Senate speech: "The time has come for someone other than the President of the United States or the great powers of Europe to convene a conference of nations concerned with Southeast Asia to consider collective action in support of the people there."

Auto bags pulled

DETROIT (UPI) — There may not be an air bag in your automotive future after all.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration originally set a standard that all cars built after Jan. 1, 1975, should be equipped with exploding air bags on the passenger side of the front seat to protect against injuries in 30 m.p.h. barrier crash. It later modified the standard so that any method could be used to provide such protection provided it was "passive," that is, did not require action on the part of passengers such as snapping on seat belts.

But the auto companies have run into difficulty in trying to develop an air bag that would be totally workable and reliable and which would not actually be dangerous under some circumstances. It also is an expensive proposition. "The tear up costs to put in such a device would run into the millions," said one auto executive.

At a recent General Motors seminar on safety and emission, GM President Edward Cole said the company could not meet a commitment made earlier to install a limited number of air bags beginning with 1972 models. Instead, he said, GM was intensifying efforts to improve car interiors in the hope this would meet the modified safety standard.

Cole said the interiors of some 1971 GM cars "come close" to meeting the requirements. He specified the company's "H" body such as on the new Chevrolet and Pontiac Catalina, and the "C" body on the big Oldsmobile and the Buick Electra. Both were redesigned for 1971 models.

He said the cars have improved collapsible steering columns for driver protection in a crash, that they have new windshield glass which when hit can stretch substantially without rupturing, improved instrument panel padding and better protection from impact with the pillars supporting the windshield and the side doors.

Hinchard — S. — Bright, vice president of product development at Chrysler, says his company's new safety cushion system is superior to the air bag. According to Bright, it offers residual protection in a subsequent impact such as might occur a second or two after the initial impact. It restrains the knees by guiding them into the lower part of the safety cushion, limits forward motion and absorbs most of the occupant's crash energy, the company said.

At Ford, Williams Innes, executive vice president, said his company was building about 40 mercury cars to take air bags for experimental use within the company. But Innes said the company is not installing air bags in them because it has no satisfactory air bag system yet.

It was Henry Ford II who last December called air bags "a lot of baloney." He said they were costly and "I don't think they'll work."

Vagrancy law ruling appealed

BOISE (UPI) — City Prosecutor Frank Stoppello has appealed to Fourth District Court a magistrate's ruling that Idaho's vagrancy law is unconstitutional.

Magistrate Edward A. Johnson last month threw a complaint against a 28-year-old woman out of court. She was charged under a section of the law dealing with prostitution.

Last June, while a city magistrate, Johnson declared Boise's vagrancy ordinance unconstitutional.

In his latest ruling, as an Ada County magistrate, Johnson held the state law contains the same defective, vague language as the city ordinance did and violates the principle that a person is innocent until proved guilty.

Stoppello is a brief supporting his appeal maintained the state law "is not unconstitutionally vague in describing every common prostitute as a vagrant and punishable by law."

Eden, Hazelton area served by department

By ROSE MARIE CRIDER
Times-News Correspondent
EDEN — "Many people in our community aren't aware that the First Segregation Fire Department has a rescuator," said Jim Lulow, district fire chief.

The rescuator has been used many times in the past on individuals who have stopped breathing. In many cases such as heart attack, drownings or suffocation the machine is capable of starting the victim's breathing process that will save his life. "The rescuator is kept in top condition and has two bottles of oxygen ready to be used on a moment's notice. Eight firemen were trained in an eight-week course to use the rescuator. They are Jim Lulow, Archie Sellers, Terry Burnett, Harold Fitzpatrick, Donn Russell, Boll Harnal, Elmer Stephenson and Jerry

2 Idaho banks included

TWIN FALLS — Two Idaho banks with branch operations in Twin Falls, are included in the industry's 300 largest banks, according to a report from American Banker, the official daily publication of banking.

Those included on the publication's list of top banks include the Idaho First National, now operating the former Fidelity Bank in Twin Falls, which is listed 125th, and the First Security Bank of Idaho, 170 on the list.

Year-end deposits, traditionally the year's peak period, show the 300 largest banks in the nation have a total of $324.3 billion in deposits, compared to $290.2 billion for the end of 1969. The banking firms posted an 11.8 per cent gain in deposits in 1970, the publication says, making it the largest such advance since 1967.

A total of 59 of the banks reported deposits exceeding $1 billion compared to 51 in the previous year.

Area men complete courses

TWIN FALLS — Several Magic Valley men have recently passed the State Board of Engineering examinations in Boise.

The successful candidates as engineers in training were Howard A. Kelly, Twin Falls and Joseph Michael Kerbs, Burley.

Eugene Durell Moon of Heyburn passed his examination in geological engineering.

Jim W. Koonce, Bellevue passed in mining engineering; George Leroy Baker, Twin Falls in mechanical engineering, and Martin Foss, Twin Falls, in electrical engineering.

Auction set for airbase

MOUNTAIN HOME — The Defense Surplus Sales Office will auction off 172 items at Mountain Home Air Force Base Feb. 17.

Almanac

By United Press International
Today is Thursday, Feb. 11, the 42nd day of 1971.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aquarius.

American inventor Thomas Edison was born Feb. 11, 1847.

On this day in history:

In 1937 General Motors agreed to recognize the CIO United Auto Workers Union as bargaining agent for GM workers.

In 1965 American and South Vietnamese planes staged the first bombing raids on North Vietnam in retaliation for a Viet Cong attack.

In 1968 New York City garbage workers ended their eight-day strike.

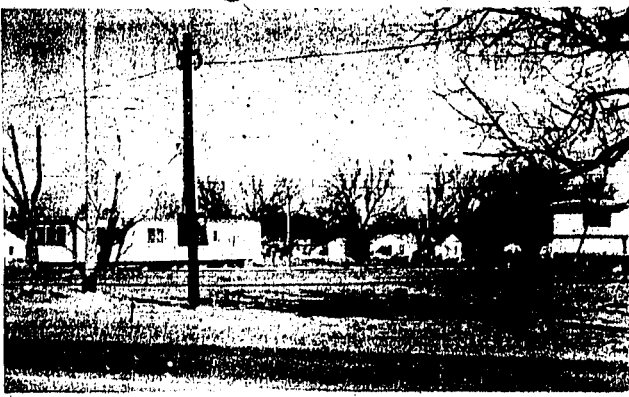

A thought for today: Thomas Edison said, "There is no substitute for hard work."

Snake River region's water supply excellent

IDAHO FALLS — There's still plenty of water along the Snake River watershed, according to the Feb. 8 water report of the Geological Survey of the U.S. Department of the Interior.

A report compiled from surveys by the Geological Survey, Bureau of Reclamation and cooperating agencies, shows 63-inches of snow on the ground at Island Park, and .91 inch of precipitation the past week.

Moran reported .32 inch, and Fallsades Lake Divide listed .34 inch last week, while the snow-pilow reading indicated the snow at Lewis Lake had 39.8 inches of water content, compared to 32-inches last year.

By station, the water-flow and storage report:

Jackson Lake, 598,600 acre foot, compared to 626,000 a year ago; Moran, 400 cubic feet per second (cfs), compared to 394 cfs a year ago; Pallsades Reservoir (usable storage), 953,400 and 888,700 acre feet; Island Park Reservoir, 116,900 and 129,100 acre feet; Henry's Fork, below the dam, 568 and 104 cfs; Grassy Lake (as of Feb. 1), 12,200 and 8,350 acre feet; Halse, no report, and Shelley, 6,440 and 2,870 cfs.

Also Blackfoot (as of Feb. 6), 6,220 and 2,630 cfs; American Falls Reservoir, 1.27 million and 1.28 million acre feet; Neeley, 9,350 and 1,890 cfs; Lake Walcott, 58,300 and 37,400 acre feet; Snake River near Minidoka, 9,500 and 3,220 cfs; Milner Lake, no report this year, 4.10 cfs last year, and Snake River at Milner, 10,300 and 3,100 cfs.

Proposal would change teacher certification

BOISE — Highly qualified teachers may obtain contracts in Idaho school districts without meeting certification requirements under terms of a new law, introduced in the Idaho House of Representatives by Rep. Patricia L. McDermott, D-Postleto.

House Bill No. 122 stipulates, as does existing law, that the Idaho State Board of Education must set standards for teacher certification.

However, a new provision allows the state to waive the requirements when a person seeking certification as a teacher "has exceptional qualifications to teach in his field, based on experience and education not otherwise qualifying him for certification."

Presently, would-be teachers must meet specific certification standards imposed by the state. An out-of-state teacher, under the present law, must meet these standards regardless of his background or training.

The new law would recognize his training and background and allow him to teach in Idaho without delay.

House introduces bill on divorce

BOISE — Divorced persons receiving child support would lose the support if they remarry, under terms of a new law introduced in the Idaho House by the Health and Welfare Committee.

House Bill 113 reiterates present law, which stipulates that a court may provide "for the custody, care and education of the children of the marriage" in a divorce case.

However, a new provision is added that "Any obligation imposed by the court... which prescribes child-support payments to a parent of a minor child or children who has custody" shall end "when the parent having custody marries, and the responsibility for support of the child or children shall become the sole obligation of the parent having custody and his or her spouse."

Under present Idaho law, child-support payments must continue even if the one having custody remarries.

Safety trophy awarded

SHOSHONE — William (Bill) Mabbitt, Shoshone BLM district manager, has received the BLM's 1970 Idaho Travelling Safety Trophy.

William L. Mathews, Boise, state BLM director, awarded the trophy to Mabbitt for having the lowest combined accident frequency ratio at the end of the year. The total vehicle miles driven and the total man hours worked are used to compute the combined frequency ratio.

Shoshone district personnel traveled 251,890 miles with 99,296 man-hours of work during 1970.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something about married on the prowl who lie about their marital status.

Speaking for myself and half a dozen of my friends [all widows, divorcees and unmarrieds, fairly attractive and under 40—we don't want to get involved with married men. But what can we do when coworkers, customers, salesmen, etc. introduce us to a "nice, eligible man," only to find out after three or four dates that this rat has a wife and family in the suburbs?

Does an unmarried woman have to turn into a private investigator before accepting a date with a man who poses as a nice, eligible bachelor?

So what should we do about these rats?

HOODWINKED

DEAR HOODWINKED: Which rats? The ones who introduce married men as "nice, eligible bachelors"? Or the married men who try to pull a fast one? The only protection a girl has against being "hoodwinked," is to be a little more fussy about whom she dates.

A good rule to follow: Never accept a fixed up date unless you know you can trust the fixer-upper.

DEAR ABBY: I could love you for your answer to "In Need of Sympathy," the woman who was worn out from having nursed a sick husband for so many months. She resented being asked constantly, "How is your husband?" She wrote to you saying she wished someone would ask her how she was. So you asked her how she was.

That reminds me of the two old friends, Manny and Max, who hadn't seen each other for 20 years. When they met again, the first thing Manny asked Max was, "How's business?"

Max replied, "Is that the way to greet an old friend after 20 years? Why don't you ask me how my health is?"

Manny said, "I'm sorry, Max. How's your health?"

Max answered, "Don't ask." CORDIALLY, SOL

DEAR SOL: You bring back memories. My father used to tell that story 35 years ago.

DEAR ABBY: We were interested in the letter from the waitress in Dover, Del., who complained that customers sometimes under tip. She mentioned that her regular wage was 75 cents per hour. Perhaps she would be interested to know that employers of restaurants with sales of $250,000 or more a year are protected by the federal minimum wage law.

The law requires that restaurant employees, including tipped employees, receive a minimum hourly wage of $1.60.

The $1.60 minimum may be a combination of both wages and tips. However, not less than 50 per cent must be regular wages paid by the employer. If tips don't amount to half the minimum wage, the employer must make up the difference.

The Wage and Hour Division in Dover will be happy to provide her with further information about minimum wage provisions that concern hotel, motel, restaurant and food service employees.

Please tell your readers that there are Wage and Hour Divisions in 250 cities, including Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, to answer questions and provide information on minimum wage, equal pay, overtime pay, child labor, wage garnishment and the Age Discrimination in Employment Act.

Special work day scheduled

JEROME — A special work day to make stuffed animals for the Idaho State School and Hospital in Nampa will be held at 1 p.m. Feb. 18 at the home of Mrs. Mary Arbaugh, Highland Road. It was announced today by the Jerome Association for Retarded Children.

Mrs. Geraldine Tanner, publicity chairman, said the association also is planning a country music jamboree to be held in Jerome to benefit the special education classes at Lincoln Elementary School in Jerome. There are 13 students enrolled in the program. The date and place of the jamboree will be announced later.

The next meeting will be at 8 p.m. March 8 at the American Legion Hall. Meetings are open to the public.

Will Notre Dame go co-educational?

BUHL — The biggest question confronting the Notre Dame Alumni Association is whether or not Notre Dame will go co-educational, announced Robert A. Erkins upon his return from their recent meeting. There are presently more than 2,000 women students either on campus or enrolled at St. Mary's College "across the street" who are attending Notre Dame classes.

If St. Mary's is taken in as an integral part of the university as Erkins hopes it will be — Notre Dame will be for the first time in its 129 year history, a completely co-educational institution.

Erkins was elected president of the Notre Dame Alumni Association last Dec. 31.

ROAMING BUFFALO DJAKARTA (UPI)—Villagers in the Semarang region of Eastern Java will have to assume financial responsibility for the actions of their water buffalo.

Regional authorities have decreed a $1.25 fine for anyone whose water buffalo damages any of the 1 million shade trees being planted to help rejuvenate barren land in the area.

Couple recites vows

MR. AND MRS. ROGER DEBOARD

TWIN FALLS—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kopp, announce the marriage of their daughter, Cindy, to Roger DeBoard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne DeBoard, all Twin Falls.

The double ring candlelight ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Chastain Jan. 27 at the First Church of the Nazarene, Twin Falls.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of crepe-back satin, designed and made by her sister, Debbie Metcalf. Her waist-length veil of bridal illusion was held by a lace tiara accented with a large pearl in the center with aurora borealis crystals adorning the sides.

The bride's sister, Debbie, served as maid of honor, with Sandra and Helde Metcalf as flower girls. Jimmy Mason served as ringbearer.

Larry DeBoard served as best man for his brother, with Bob White and Denise Boyd as ushers.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the church reception hall, with Cheri Mason registering the guests. Gifts were displayed by Sherrie Qualls, Vicki Wahl and Cathy Mink. Refreshments were served by Debbie Kopp and Susie Metcalf.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Boise and reside at 425

Hoyburn Ave., Twin Falls. The bride will be graduated from Twin Falls High School this year and the bridegroom is employed at Buttrey's Super Store.

A rehearsal dinner was given for the bridal party by the bridegroom's mother at the church reception hall.

Honor society invited

WENDELL — Chris Hagerman, president of the Wendell Chapter of the National Honor Society, announced that Jeri Eaton, Janet Callen, Helen Maltz, Doug Anderson, Debi Gilbert, Debbie Scott and Leslie Sullivan, seniors, have been invited to join the Wendell Chapter. Carolyn Simerly was the only junior to qualify for membership at the end of the fall semester.

During the meeting, members discussed Youth Congress which is scheduled for Saturday at the College of Idaho, Caldwell. Due to conflicting schedules none of the Wendell Chapter will be able to attend.

The group also discussed the selection of the Best All Around Boy and Girl in the junior high, which is an annual project of the group.

Mrs. Ellen Cox, adviser, announced that Pat Scheel and Chris Hagerman have been chosen by the Chapter Advisory Council to apply for the National Honor Society Award which is $1,000.

1970 QUEEN of the Filer Slim-Jems TOPS Club is Mrs. Reva Simmons. She has also been named to KOPS.

Queen crowned for Filer Slim-Jems

FILER—Mrs. Reva Simmons was crowned 1970 TOPS queen at a meeting of the Slim-Jems in the telephone building, it was announced today.

Mrs. Orville Sackett, president, presented the winner a tiara and a red rose corsage. Mrs. Simmons was also named a member of KOPS. The "no-no" for the coming week is sweets and Mrs. George Kimmet gave a reading of diet foods. It was announced the current contest will end Thursday with the one receiving the most red hearts as points named winner.

Chicken listed on month's plentiful food list

MOSCOW — Chicken is on this month's list of plentiful foods, so take advantage of prices and serve it often. To keep meals interesting, buy different types of chicken to prepare in different ways, suggests Esther Wilson, University of Idaho extension nutrition specialist.

House bill discussed by lodge

HANSEN — House bill No. 25 was discussed when members of the Royal Neighbor Lodge met Tuesday at Woodman Hall. Members were urged to write their representatives asking them to vote against this bill.

Pro tem officers were Mrs. A.F. Daw, Mrs. Ethel McFarland, Lydia Mae Pyron, Mrs. Elsie Henry and Mrs. W.E. McFarland.

A thank-you letter was read from the Elks Rehabilitation Center in Boise for contributions and from Mrs. Irene Johnson, a member residing in Tacoma.

A list of the fraternal activities, and contributions was made to Easter Seal, Idaho Youth Ranch, Heart Fund, March of Dimes, Cancer Fund and Elks Rehabilitation Center, besides other local activities.

Mrs. Henry and Mrs. McDonald were hostesses and Mrs. Ruth Wright and Lena Bohm were in charge of the recreation hour. The next meeting is Feb. 23, with Mrs. Mary Taylor and Mrs. Arthur Adamson as hostesses.

A stewing hen costs less per serving than other types of chicken, weighs from two to three pounds and has a hard, little breastbone. Long, slow cooking with plenty of moisture brings out its flavor and tenderness. Serve with dumplings or noodles cooked in the broth, or use in casseroles and salads.

To stew chicken, put it in a kettle that has a tight fitting lid, add one half teaspoon of salt per pound of chicken and add enough boiling water to halfway cover the pieces. Cover and simmer until the thickest pieces are fork tender, which takes from two to four hours.

New hospital personnel feted

RUPERT — The Minidoka Memorial Hospital Guild sponsored a tea in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Don Pates and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thompson, new Rupert residents.

The event was held in the hospital lobby and according to Mrs. Dottie Burton, publicity chairman for the Pink Ladies, "there was a good crowd, we were pleased."

Dr. Pates is Rupert's newest physician and has started his practice at the Rupert Medical Center. Thompson is the new certified registered nurse anesthetist at Minidoka Memorial Hospital.

The Pink Ladies presented their annual service awards at a meeting preceding the tea. Service awards for 100 hour services went to Phyllis Bott, Eris Denton, Donna Hodges, Ruth Jolley, Edith Lowder, Hazel Miller, Ginny Newcomb, Barbara Rodgers, Margaret Smith, Betty Spaulding, Mary Lou Truxall, Muree Phillips. Two hundred hour bars to Ethel Brown, Karalyn Hymas, Betty

Spaulding, Juanita Klinger, Betty MacNell, Barbara Rodgers, Margaret Smith; 300 hours to Ruth Bailey, Mary Crawford, Olga Fisher, Olive Haynes and Bonnie Dalley; 400 hours to Evelyn Honsinger, Grace King, Mary Rogers, Wilma Workman, 500 hours to Wanda Gullett and Alma Knapp; 700 hours to Virginia Larimer and Vonu McBride;

800 hours to Mary Ziemitz, 1000 hours to Dottie Burton, Mildred Markland and Deloris Moller; 1100 hours to Lucille Kealey; 1600 hours to Norma Ptughoelt; 1800 hours to Ruby Workman, Volva Moller and Gerry Pulwyler, and 1900 hours to Charlotte Manning and Maude Moller. High honors went to Theresa Henscheid with 2700 hours.

Boy Scout breakfast scheduled

SHOSHONE — All Boy Scouts in Lincoln County and their father or a guest father or guardian, are invited to the annual Boy Scout breakfast to be served from 8:30 a.m. to 9 a.m.—Sunday at the Lincoln School Cafeteria, announced Myron D. Johnson, president of the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce. The chamber sponsors the event each year.

For a special program at the Tuesday noon chamber meeting, superintendent of schools, Kenneth Crothers, outlined the program of cooperative vocational education. He stated this program is now in effect in many area schools and plans are being made to try to incorporate it in Shoshone.

This is carried on through the school in cooperation with merchants of the community, in training high school seniors through a vocational job.

Golden Anniversary Week observed by Burley DOES

BURLEY — Mrs. Pat Miller, president of the Burley DOES Lodge No. 206, announced that Mayor Garis Robertson has signed a proclamation declaring this week as "Golden Anniversary Week of the Benevolent, Patriotic Order of DOES."

The announcement was made during the group's February meeting at the "Burley Elks Lodge Hall. The DOES meeting was a make-up meeting as the group had to postpone its meeting last week due to the long Red Cross bloodmobile drawing.

It was announced that members will reveal their secret sisters during a social after the regular meeting Feb. 15 at the lodge hall. Names for new secret sisters will be drawn.

The Grand Lodge has chosen the theme, "50 Years of Patriotism to America," for the organization's Golden Anniversary year.

The BPO DOES was founded

Feb. 12, 1921, at Omaha, Neb. The national observance of its Golden Anniversary began with its national convention in Hollywood, Fla., in June, 1970, of which Mrs. Wayne Rogers, local president at that time, Mrs. Helene Coffey and Mrs. Rodney Murphy, all Burley, attended. The observance will conclude with special ceremonies during the 50th Anniversary Convention, June 20 through 25 at Omaha. The Burley unit is an affiliation of the national order, being chartered Nov. 30, 1968.

The charter was draped during regular business session in honor of the late Mrs. Pauline Simonsen Smith.

Mrs. Miller announced committee chairmen will be named and announced next week.

It was reported Mrs. Derrall Butcher is in the hospital. The annual Mother-Daughter tea will be held in March.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Jim Sidles.

Newlyweds honored at open house

TWIN FALLS — Newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Ray Lewis, were honored at an open house Jan. 10 by the bridegroom's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Lewis, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hoggan.

The bride is the former Connie Ann Van Ostran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Van Ostran, Twin Falls.

The afternoon wedding ceremony Jan. 23 was performed by Rev. Mr. Toews. Shirlee Ball, Pocatello, served as maid of honor, with Mrs. Terry Van Ostran, sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Dave Pedersen and Mrs. Tom Walker Jr. as bridesmaids. Kristi Jancik was flower girl and Timmy Lynn Van Ostran was ringbearer.

John McQuary, Pocatello, was best man—with Jim Thomas, Long Bench; John Remple, Pocatello, and Terry Van Ostran, Filer, as ushers.

The couple resides at 423 University Drive, Pocatello.

Piano presented to high school.

TWIN FALLS — Ernest H. Ragland, superintendent of schools, expressed appreciation today to the Magic Valley Symphony for its generous gift of a new Everett Church Model piano to the Twin Falls High School Orchestra Department.

"This is a most generous gift to the school and will serve the students well for many years," he said.

Del Slaughter, Twin Falls High School instrumental music director, said the piano was delivered to the school Monday.

ALBION — New officers are announced for two 4-H clubs in Albion.

Angela Tuttle is president of the Junior Domestic-Dates, with Patricia Eck as vice president. Carol Amende is secretary-reporter; Colleen Reed, treasurer; Jean Long, songleader, and Ilene Reed, recreation chairman.

Beverly Eck heads the Domestic-Kates club; Julianne Jolley is vice president; Vikki Redman, secretary; Susan Amende, treasurer; Bonnie Yeaman, reporter, and Charlett Eck, recreation chairman. Mrs. Odeen Redman is club leader.

To remove water marks from furniture, use several drops of spirits of camphor on damp cloth and rub over mark.

CONNIE BRASHIER

Fall date planned by Hansen pair

HANSEN — Mr. and Mrs. John Brashier announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Connie, to Robert Bourn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bourn, all Hansen.

Miss Brashier is a senior at Hansen High School and plans to attend the Cliff Mann School of Design in Denver after graduation.

Bourn was graduated from Hansen High School in 1962. He served seven years in the Navy, with six of the seven years spent aboard the USS Kitty Hawk as a radar technician. He was discharged in May, 1970, and is currently attending the College of Southern Idaho.

A fall wedding is planned.

Heart mending job? Do it with Valentines

NEW YORK (UPI)—Whether you have a heart mending job to do or are just "in the mood for love" when Valentine's Day comes around, you can run the gamut from the sublime to the ridiculous when it comes to selecting greeting cards.

Second only to Christmas as a popular occasion for sending sentimental and friendly wishes, Valentine's Day will be celebrated this year by an exchange of more than 500 million cards.

Steve Shannon, executive director of the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, reported that a large percentage of these cards will feature humorous designs and messages with many incorporating pop-up mechanical actions and other surprises.

Shannon said these fun-type Valentines lean heavily on greetings that are short and incisive. There's one, for example, that states simply: "I don't care much about who's lover's festival on Feb. 14. Then, for 200 years more, Valentine's Day was a very serious occasion calling for weeks of painstaking preparations.

As church opposition gradually declined, new problems arose to plague love-smitten swains. Composing new verses, year after year, became a problem.

The Greeting Card Publishers Association reported the familiar "roses-are-red, violets-are-blue" theme was not only in use in the 1700s but popular young ladies already were beginning to complain that it was getting hackneyed.

It is only during recent generations that "modern" valentines have developed — gay, whimsical, and cleverly designed, with special sentiments appropriate for brothers and sisters, parents and friends, as well as the more familiar, elaborate valentines for sweethearts and wives, the association said.

a nice Story

One time there were a fairly ugly girl who were Saderly because of this. No one ever had a decent word for her and she passed her time dreaming about making kisses with Cary Grant, Rock Hasbeen and Jack Lemming. She were not even a good dreamer and so this whole bit made her even more Saderly. To lift her sunk spirits, she went and had her hair permanented. But when she reflected herself in the mirror she could easily see that she were just a fairly ugly girl with very curly hair. As a last resort, she bought a real keen dress from Paris No Sooner did she put it on, when a big cigar with a man behind it stepped up.... "Lucky you," say the man behind the huge cigar, "I are a big-time talent scout for the famous motion picture maggot, Run A. Demille. That real keen dress look to be just what he need to star in his next epic.... You must come to Hollywood for a screen test."

She went.....and they tested her screen.

The dress were a sensation and was signed to an impressive long-term contract with lotsa options. They gave the fairly ugly girl with very curly hair a plane ticket home and a big sack with a bunch of money in it. Thereafter she were happy as a lollipop. Several people had decent words for her and whenever she went to the movies she could see Cary Grant, Rock Hasbeen and Jack Lemming make love to her dress (in color and wide screen yet). She were the envy of most anybody.

I are the richest, happiest fairly ugly girl with very curly hair in the whole town." Say she proudly "and I owe it all to

...and she did. You know.

TWIN FALLS — Validity of mining claims must be closely checked before development and access road construction can be authorized, Sawtooth National Forest rangers and staff members were reminded here Tuesday.

About 30 district rangers their assistants and selected supervisory and administration personnel attended a day long minerals management training session here.

William Johnson, regional office, Ogden, who is in charge of minerals management in the Intermountain forests, and Vern Dow, zone minerals examiners, Twin Falls, conducted the training program.

The two stressed management of mining claims and development must protect other resources and uses of the forest. Responsibility of the rangers is to work with the mining interests in surveying mine roads as needed and in checking validity of the claims to make certain the road is warranted.

Burglar won't get any kick from pill

TWIN FALLS — A burglar who entered the Twin Falls Public Library Tuesday night and took part of a drug display there won't get "much of a buzz" if he pops the missing pill.

Capt. Tim Qualls of the Twin Falls Police Department detective division said the pill, labeled "LSD," was part of a police department display at the library.

He said the label, however, is the only relation which the missing pill has to the illegal drug — that the tablet is not LSD or any other narcotic.

He said means of entry to the library is not known. The burglar also took keys from the cash register at the library.

Burley man gets appointed

BURLEY — Grant Richins, Burley, has been appointed to the newly formed Mental Retardation and Child Development Advisory Council.

Ecology unit backed

BOISE (UPI) — The House Health and Welfare Committee introduced Wednesday legislation recommended by Attorney General W. Anthony Park for creation of a State Department of Ecology.

In a preamble, the bill states it is the policy of the state of Idaho that "it is a fundamental and inalienable right of the people...to live in a healthful and pleasant environment and to benefit from the proper development and use of its natural resources."

It further recognizes that as the population of Idaho grows the need to provide for increasing industrial, agricultural, residential, social, recreational economic and other needs will require planning and regulation of the natural resources.

The proposal would establish a single state agency with authority to manage air and water resources in an orderly, efficient and effective manner and to carry out a coordinated program of pollution control involving these and related land resources.

A director appointed by the governor for a six-year term with the consent of the Senate would head up the department and during his incumbency would be prohibited from taking an active part in political party management or political campaigns.

This director's salary would be established by the governor and those of his deputies or assistants would be established by him.

The bill also would create an ecological commission of seven members chosen by the governor. These commissioners must have a general knowledge of and be qualified in environmental protection.

No more than one member of the commission could be from any one county and no more than four from any one political party.

Eventually the commissioners would be appointed for staggered terms of four years.

Commissioners would have the duty of providing advice and guidance to the director on:

— Any position to be taken by the department on behalf of the state before interstate and federal agencies or federal legislative bodies on matters relating to or affecting the quality of the environment of the state.

— Any comprehensive environmental quality plan, program, policy proposed for adoption by the department as a state plan or policy pertaining to an environmental management activity.

— Any procedure for financial assistance, grants, proposals to be given municipal, regional, county or state organization for environmental quality purposes.

— Any procedure for considering applications for granting variances.

— Any proposal developed for submission to the legislature.

— Any other matter pertaining to the activities of the department when the director seeks advice and guidance.

Mrs. Manley takes ill solon's post

BOISE (UPI) — Mrs. Art Manley, Coeur d'Alene, has been nominated to take her husband's seat in the Idaho Senate while he undergoes heart surgery.

Sen. John Evans, D-Malad, minority leader, said Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, would enter a Boise hospital Friday for the surgery early next week. Manley nominated his wife to take over the position and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus is expected to send the Senate notice of the appointment Thursday.

Lieutenant Governor Jack Murphy said the appointment would be read across the desk as are all other gubernatorial appointees, but Evans said the appointment is not subject to Senate confirmation.

Panel eyes check-up

BOISE (UPI) — The House Transportation and Defense committee agreed Wednesday to introduce legislation requiring local units of government to account for how they spend highway user monies.

Chairman John O. Sessions, R-Driggs, said the bill requires the local units to certify to the county auditor and the State Highway Department just how monies are spent from funds restricted by law solely to highway-related matters.

Sessions has said lawmakers are concerned that some local units of government, especially cities, are spending highway user funds for other than highway or street matters.

Meantime, his committee voted also to introduce legislation reinstating the seven cents per gallon state gasoline tax when it expires next Dec. 31. There are some changes, however, in statutes defining distributors and licensed dealers.

Governor scans new literature

BOISE (UPI) — High level policy decisions aren't the only noticeable changes in the Andrus administration — there's even a difference in the reading matter available in the gubernatorial waiting room.

Now, while you're willing away your time waiting to see the governor, you can leaf through the pages of "Ebony," a life-like magazine by and about black people, as well as the Atlantic and Harpers.

Mrs. Jean Taylor, office receptionist, said she is contributing her copy of Ebony and others on the staff the other two.

On another table may be found Sports Afield, but it is soon to be replaced by Field and Stream, which endorsed Andrus' candidacy.

"We've ordered that for eight years," Mrs. Taylor said with a long look to the future.

Mrs. Taylor admitted the reading material is somewhat of a departure, but she pointed to several other publications scattered around — including the American Legion, Mining and Engineering and Forbes — and said, "This balances it out."

Solon hits VA hospital abortions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, Wednesday criticized military hospitals for performing abortions in violation of state laws.

The Idaho congressman said he was opposed to a new Pentagon policy permitting abortions on service personnel and their dependents regardless of laws against such operations now in effect in the state where the hospitals are located.

McClure said he has heard from "hundreds of Idahoans" on this subject and not one of them has supported the new military policy.

Therefore, he said he was submitting a bill outlawing the abortions contrary to state law.

"It is a very dangerous procedure to allow federal administrative rules to take precedence over state criminal laws," McClure said.

Municipal power sale gets boost

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate approved 25-0 Tuesday legislation to permit cities owning electrical power distribution systems to dispose of the power through the Bonneville Power Administration.

Sen. Fisher Ellsworth, R-Idaho Falls, floor sponsor of the measure, said there are a number of cities which own electrical distribution systems and two which generate their own power.

But, he said, the northwestern part of the nation will need thermoelectric sources to meet all electrical power requirements, and said under present statutes the sale of thermoelectric power is not allowed.

Ellsworth said the legislation would allow distribution of "low cost power to serve the future needs of the cities."

Gas tax transfer for cities OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — The House Revenue and Taxation Committee voted Wednesday to introduce a bill which would allow off two cents of the state gasoline tax and dedicate it to city street improvements.

Chairman Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, said the bill was brought to him for committee consideration by Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello.

It would extend indefinitely the present seven cents per gallon tax on gasoline — scheduled to expire next Dec. 31 — but would change the formula for distributing the revenues.

It would take two cents off the top and give 99 percent of the revenue from that portion of the tax to incorporated cities. It would give one per cent to the Waterways Improvement Fund.

Of the revenue raised by the remainder of the state gasoline tax it would give 70 per cent to the state and 30 per cent to the counties.

At present, the state gets 70 per cent of what the seven cent tax brings in and the counties and cities split the rest — the counties getting 83 per cent of the local units' share and the cities, 15 per cent.

Addict aid bill passed

BOISE (UPI) — Overriding fears it will destroy the basic family unit, the House approved 50-9 Wednesday and sent to the Senate a bill providing for treatment of drug addicts with synthetic drugs.

Rep. John Edwards, R-Council, a physician in private life, steered the measure to passage. "I ask you to support this bill which we feel will help the addict and not punish him," Edwards urged the House.

Provisions of the bill providing for anonymity of the drug addict, however, brought an attack on the measure from those who felt it would hurt both law enforcement and the family unit.

As written, the bill provides for treating the addict without notifying law enforcement officers and, if the addict is a minor, without informing his parents or asking their permission.

Rep. Wayne Loveless, D-Pocatello, called this a "cheap substitute" for the basic family unit. He said there are three forms of evidence, the document, the witness and tangible evidence.

Guidelines suggested

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's National Industrial Pollution Control Council (NIPEC) told him Wednesday that the government should ban or limit pollutants only when they are shown to be harmful.

Making interim reports, the council warned against proposals under which chemicals and other pollutants would have to be proved harmless before they could be dumped or discharged into the air, water or land.

At a meeting with the council, composed of about 200 industrial leaders appointed by the President last April, Nixon complimented industry for its voluntary efforts. He said that frequently these efforts are "even in advance of government efforts to control pollution."

Criticizing those who would "destroy the system" that has produced the nation's wealth, Nixon said he "welcomed the opportunity to say to the American people ... that American industry is also against pollution."

Gravity called quake 'trigger'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A full eclipse of the moon entertained persons willing to keep late hours early Wednesday in North America but a scientist said the perfect alignment of the earth between the moon and sun "quite probably triggered" the California earthquake.

Overcast skies prevented viewing of the eclipse in some parts of the United States and Canada.

The eclipse was caused by the earth's long shadow, which trapped the moon briefly as it moved in orbit around the parent planet. The eclipse started at 12:53 a.m. EST, and the moon became entirely immersed in the earth's shadow at 2:04 a.m. The moon started emerging from the shadow at 3:27 a.m. and freed itself

Shooting preserve bill out

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation providing for operating licenses or permits for privately-owned and operated shooting preserves was introduced in the House Wednesday by the Ways and Means Committee.

The bill would put such preserves under direction of the State Fish and Game Department which would be given authority to make such rules and regulations as may be necessary.

Each shooting preserve would contain a minimum of 100 acres in one tract of leased or owned land but could not be larger than 1,000 contiguous acres — except that reserves confined to releasing of ducks only would be authorized to operate with a minimum of 50 contiguous acres.

Budget ballot bill on floor

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate's Local Government and Taxation Committee sent out without recommendation today a measure which would provide means for taxpayers to vote on any proposed taxing unit budget.

The measure, as outlined by Sen. James Stoltcheff, D-Sandpoint, would provide that an election on the proposed budget will be held if such an election is supported by a petition with signatures of 10 per cent of the registered voters in the district or 10 per cent of the number of persons voting in the district in the most recent election.

In the event the budget is rejected by a majority vote, the taxing unit would be required to adopt a lower budget than the original proposal, but no other election would be allowed on the substitute budget.

Ford calls in trucks for check

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. has advised the owners of more than 30,000 buses and trucks to return their vehicles to dealers for inspection and correction of possible safety defects.

The firm said an "improperly machined brake booster assembly" may have been installed on 12,300 1971 model trucks and buses; about 9,500 1970 and 1971 trucks may have a valve malfunction; 10,300 buses and 800 trucks may have been equipped with a brake lining which rubs against the transmission housing; and brake lines in about 850 diesel trucks may rub against the starter motor-solenoid.

New series

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob Denver, star of the defunct "Gilligan's Island," will star in a new half-hour mystery comedy television series, "Scared Stiff."

Surface mining rules proposed

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation was introduced in the Senate Wednesday outlining regulation of surface mining operations for all lands within the state.

The legislation said it was intended to "allow mining operations which are in the best long-term interests of the nation and the state of Idaho."

The legislation, which originated in the Senate Resources and Environment Committee, defined surface mining as those operations which produce more than 10,000 tons of minerals or ore with a one-year period or more than one acre of land which is disturbed within a year.

Under the proposal, any operator must present to the department of health a written "reclamation plan," which would include:

- Proposed practices to protect adjacent surface resources.
- Plans to restore the surface and the manner and type of revegetation or other surface of the disturbed area.

A statement of the proposed subsequent use of the land after reclamation and satisfactory evidence that all owners or interest in the land concur with the proposed use.

- Location of access roads and fire lanes.
- And a method of controlling groundwaters so as to protect water quality, public safety, and ecological values.

New name for college endorsed

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Health Education and Welfare Committee gave a "do pass" recommendation today to a bill changing the name of Lewis-Clark Normal School to Lewis-Clark State College.

At the same time, the committee also approved a measure changing institution names in a bill which distributes proceeds of sale of land or sale of timber from the land to normal schools under an 1890 law approved by Congress for lands granted to Idaho.

The Southern Idaho College of Education at Albion closed its doors over a year ago.

School officials study better building use

TWIN FALLS — Better utilization of school buildings and other educational facilities for the benefit of adults and youth through community school programming was discussed here Wednesday afternoon by school superintendents of the fourth district.

Dr. Ernest Ragland, Twin Falls school superintendent, said about 30 officials met here for the regular February superintendents' meeting. Dr. Israel C. Heaton, director of regional center for community school development, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah, met with the group to outline community school programs.

He told area superintendents the idea which developed in Flint, Mich., several years ago, is now working successfully there and in many other communities.

Through the plan, school plants are made available when not in use during regular school hours, for community use such as adult education, special youth educational and recreational programs and even to introduce new community vocational programs. These services would cover weekend time, evenings and summer months, Dr. Heaton said.

Dr. Ragland said Twin Falls schools have been following this type of school use to some extent for several years although no planned and managed program is in effect. Adopting a general plan, he said, would involve hiring one person as director with additional assistants. Several districts, he said, have expressed interest in at least a limited community school program, but he said other taxing units such as municipalities and counties would have to be brought into the program for financial support.

Allen Jeffries, director of statistical services, Idaho Department of Education, Boise, met with the administrators to discuss pending school legislation. He said the kindergarten measure is not totally dead but does not appear too encouraging. He said proposed re-distribution of the state school money to Idaho's 100 school districts will not mean any more money in the program but will simply be a shift in present allocations, taking from some schools to give to others.

Lawrence LaRue, Wendell, Fourth District Superintendents Assn. president, conducted the meeting in the local school administration offices. Zane Harrison, Fairfield, school board chairman there and former president of the Idaho School Trustees Assn., also attended. Eight counties are included.

PLOWS have cleared the deep layers of snow left by winter's storms on Galeana Summit, and Highway 93 is generally free of ice. But the roadway is flanked by banks of snow two to six feet deep on either side, a reminder that winter still holds Idaho's high country in its icy grasp.

Classroom building rates first priority

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Correspondent
GOODING — A new classroom building for the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind is a first priority request of the Board of Education, Sen. Richard High said here Wednesday.

He was among the members of the Joint Finance Appropriations committee of the Idaho State Legislature visiting the state school Wednesday to see if the requested improvements are needed.

The school has asked the legislature for $389,000 to construct a new classroom building and another $37,000 for additional storage facilities, for a total appropriation request of $426,000, according to Ed Reay, school superintendent.

He told the visiting senators the building inspector of the Idaho Department of Labor had condemned the old classroom structure last fall. The building, which was constructed in 1910, was condemned because of deterioration of the walls and unsafe electrical wiring, Reay said.

The superintendent told the visitors the classrooms are small and inadequate, also. If the fund request is granted, the new building would have 10 classrooms, Reay said, and be used for blind students.

Sen. Don Fredericksen said he thought the request would be approved as "the legislature has always responded to the needs of the state school."

If the legislature approves the request, the appropriation for the classroom building would come from the Permanent Building Fund, Sen. High said. Among the questions considered by the visiting legislators, the Times-News learned today, is whether or not the blind-training program at Gooding should be transferred to some other location or retained at Gooding. The matter was not discussed during the visit.

Committees appointed

WENDELL — John Wert, president of the Wendell Chamber of Commerce, appointed committees at a meeting at the Motor Inn Cafe Wednesday.

Mrs. Myrtle Schrenk and Mrs. Eleanor Freeman were named to advertising and publicity; Warren Chandler, E. Parr, Joe Roe and G. M. Gerke, agriculture; Marshal Howland, Charles Ireton, Jim Freeman and E. A. Taylor, Christmas lighting; Doug Schirank, Rev. John Steppert, Gerald Pierce and Charles Miller, civic affairs and public relations.

Marcus Koll, Doug Schrank, Joe Leaper and Ed McNutt, commerce and development; Jim Benson, John Coble, Woodrow Harris, Jim Freeman, Gene Soares and L. W. Parr, finance, budget and dues; Clyde Petersen and W. W. Whitehead, Northside communities; Charles Ireton and Marcus Koll, South Idaho Chamber of Commerce; William Duggan, Neal Ambrose, John Coble and Denton Adams, highway.

Eugene Burrus, Phil Ilrrel, Ray Ward and Clyde Petersen, legislative; Charles Freeman, Harold Simerly, Durrell Drake and Bill Cooper, tourist promotion; Dr. Harold Holsinger, Dr. Richard Hagerman and Dr. M. E. Scheel, health and welfare; Bob Simerly and all merchants, merchant promotion; Dale Bunn, Easter egg hunt and Halloween; Arnold Runyon and Al Molstad, Christmas lighting contest.

Vacant hospital costly

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Correspondent
GOODING — It costs the state $42,000 per year for maintenance of the former Idaho State Tuberculosis Hospital at Gooding which was vacated last summer, legislators said during an inspection visit here Wednesday.

Members of the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee said they wanted to see if the Idaho State Land Board is protecting the value of the state property, and queried John W. Miller, who is in charge of maintenance at the hospital complex, about the operation costs.

Miller said the water pipes in the building are installed in such a way they cannot be drained, so the building has to be partially heated and every week someone has to flush all the toilets and check the water taps.

This was in answer to the question from the visitors as to why all the utilities could not be turned off and only a guard hired.

Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, said he would like to see the facility used as a nursing home, not necessarily operated by the state. Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, wondered if the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind could not utilize the first floor of the empty hospital.

Other legislators, Sen. Nels Solberg, D-Grangeville, and Rep. Wilbert Cammack, D-Blackfoot, said they would like to see the empty facility bought by a private organization and "taken off the state's hands."

When told some Gooding residents would like to see the facilities used as a vocational school, Senator High said it would be better to use such money to enlarge and improve the vocational school at College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls.

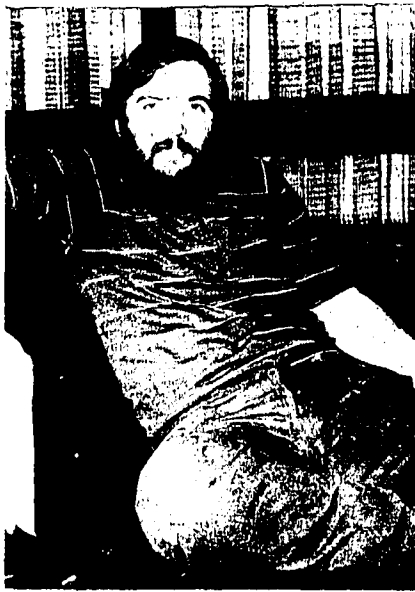

All tuberculosis patients were moved to Spokane last summer and one of the hospital buildings housed Gooding County courthouse offices until recent weeks when the new courthouse was completed.

Booklets available

BOISE — Special booklets designed to answer the questions taxpayers ask about preparing their income tax returns are now available from all Internal Revenue offices.

New editions of "Your Federal Income Tax" and "Tax Guide for Small Business" booklets are available for 70 cents.

A new "Farmer's Tax Guide" may be obtained free of charge from IRS and county agricultural agent's offices.

Candidate

BEHIND THAT SHRUBBERY is the face of the potential "homecoming queen" of the College of Southern Idaho. Archie Quenell is the willing candidate of the Girls' Circle K Club in this week's Homecoming festivities. He would be doesn't know what his chances are, but was willing to campaign and have other campaign for him. Meanwhile, CSI roed Becky Howard gained a strong lead in the school's "ugly man" competition.

Hagens purchase Leader interest

GOODING — The interest of Tom Miller in the Gooding County Leader has been purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Al Hagen, it was announced today by Al Mencher and Blake Patterson, Jerome, co-owners.

Hagen retired from the Air Force last month and was associated with several newspapers during his military career. He served in Alaska, Korea, Japan, Greece, Turkey, Saudi Arabia and completed nearly three tours in Vietnam. Mrs. Hagen, a native of Lyons, Colo., was employed at the North Side News, Jerome, during her husband's last tour of duty in Vietnam. She is the sister of Mrs. Patterson, wife of the co-owner of the North Side News.

The Hagens reside at 942 Montana St., Gooding. Mr. and Mrs. Miller plan to remain in the Gooding area.

Program future decision pends

TWIN FALLS — Whether or not high school administrators wish to continue the high school vocational exploration program through the College of Southern Idaho next year is expected to be decided within the next two weeks, Nell Cross, assistant vocational director, CSI said today.

Superintendents and other school administrators from area districts met with CSI vocational officials Wednesday afternoon to discuss the program. Many of the more distant schools are finding transportation costs and time difficult to provide, Cross said, and while nearly all value the program, tight financing may force some to withdraw.

Under the exploration program, students more suited to vocational training are given an opportunity at the high school level to participate in introductory vocational programs on a semester basis to decide their future plans.

About nine high schools are participating in the program and while a large share of the cost is carried by CSI, each student or school district must pay a part of the costs.

Superintendents and high school principals Wednesday decided to meet with their school boards at the earliest opportunity, Cross said, and return for a group meeting within the next two weeks to decide if they wish to continue program participation. If sufficient schools are interested, the program will continue but if not it will be dropped, Cross indicated.

Commerce facility work set

FAIRFIELD — Camas County High School has been awarded a $3,150 grant through the Department of Vocational Education for office occupations, Supt. Harold Stroud said today.

The money will be used to change the commercial department room to look more like a modern office.

Stroud said the plans will include changing the old desks, putting acoustical tile on the ceilings and paneling the walls of the room. There has been a moisture problem in the room and he feels that the paneling will correct it. He hopes that some kind of carpet can be put on the floor. Additional plans include some new wiring and a copying machine if the funds hold out.

Rupert shooting charge pending

RUPERT — Charges of assault with a deadly weapon were expected to be filed today against Larry Schneider, 20, Hayburn, in connection with a shooting incident early Tuesday which injured Charles O. Clark, 22, Rupert.

Sheriff Theo Johnson said he believes the charge will be assault, but action is pending further conference with Pros. Atty. Don Chisholm.

Clark was reported in critical condition at the Twin Falls Clinic Hospital, where he was transferred from Mindoka Memorial Hospital, Tuesday. The sheriff said Schneider told him the two men were visiting a friend when they became involved in an argument prior to the shooting.

Camas meet set Feb. 22

FAIRFIELD — The Camas County school board will hold a special meeting at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 22 to make plans for the next school year, Supt. Harold Stroud said today.

Contracts will be prepared for the faculty and the curriculum for next year will be discussed. Rising costs of operation may necessitate some changes, Stroud said.

Valley men on board

BOISE — Two Magic Valley area men, Harry Holmes, Sun Valley and James H. Roper, Burley, were elected directors for the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce.

The members of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce elected 15 directors, representing nine cities and a variety of economic interests throughout the state.

The new directors join 10 holdover members of the 25 member board.

Road work bids asked

SHOSHONE — The Idaho Highway Department will open bids in Boise March 9 for a project in Lincoln County.

To be opened are bids on the construction of roadway, paving, curb and gutter, sealing and lighting on Middle Fork of the Salmon approximately 5.14 miles of U.S. 20-26 west of Shoshone, department officials said today.

Stanley visitors increase

STANLEY — Visitors to the Stanley Ranger, District increased 20 per cent during the summer of 1970, District Ranger Tom Kovalicky said today.

Traffic counters, visitor registries, and other information resulted in an estimate of 461,000 visitors during the summer of 1970, up from 389,000 during 1969.

Bill James, district forestry technician, said the major increase occurred in use of developed recreation sites, including the Stanley Lake recreation area and campgrounds along the Salmon River.

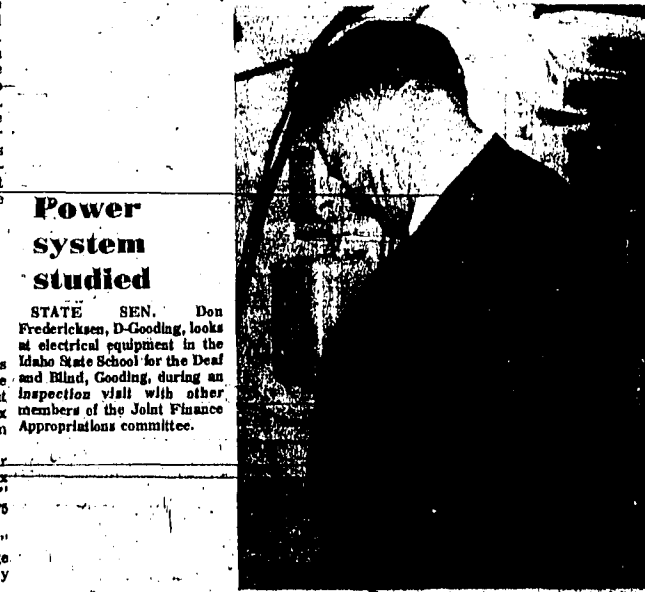

In the portion of the Sawtooth Primitive Area administered by the Stanley District of the Challis National Forest, a 14 per cent increase in visitor registrations was recorded. The district's portion of the Idaho paving, Middle Fork of the Salmon recreation area and campgrounds along the Salmon River, showed a 19 per cent increase in visitors with 7,169 registered.

British put title tag on match

Valley ends Class B race, A division still tossup

RUPERT — The Valley Vikings blew the lid off the class B title chase but Twin Falls, Minico and Jerome stayed in a deathlock for class A honors in the combined fourth district class A and B wrestling tournament Wednesday night. The finals begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Minico gymnasium.

Valley surprised by shoving six men into the finals and boomed from 12 points Tuesday night to 63. That gave the Vikings a 20-point edge over Raft River. Meanwhile, favored Declo ran into a ton of trouble and came up with only three points — falling to third in team total with 35. Wendell had 32, Kimberly 31, Oakley and Shoshone 25, Glenns Ferry 13 and Castleford 3.

In the tight A division, Twin Falls moved ahead with seven finalists and a total of 60 points while Minico, breaking back into life with a couple of big upsets, moved into second spot with 64 while Jerome had 59. It was a long drop from there to Burley at 20, Wood River 25, Piler 17 and Buhl 13.

One bone of contention was raised when Gooding did not weigh in their men for a possible wrestle back, disqualifying them. In one weight, that moved Minico into third for two placement points with the argument being whether it is a forfeit (an additional point) or an advancement (another additional point).

The wrestle-backs, which opened at 3 p.m. Thursday, loomed very large in the class A event with Minico getting all six of its defeated men back, Jerome returning five and Twin Falls three. Both Minico and Jerome were expected to reap big benefits from that with victories ranging from five to six points.

Although the leading three provided three-quarters of the finalists, they don't most often. Jerome and Twin Falls meet head-to-head only at 135 pounds, Minico and Jerome twice at 105 and 141 and Twin Falls and Minico three times at 148, 188 and heavyweight.

Twin Falls, with seven finalists, is favored in three with one toss up and with the possibility of only one wrestle-back help in points could be hard pressed to keep its lead. If it comes down to a battle between Minico and Twin Falls, the last two matches will be barn-burners with the Spartans holding the No. 1 seed in both places.

Valley came on like gangbusters in the Class B division and posted three big reversals of seeds to put a deathlock on that crown. Declo, which will pick up a lot of wrestle-back points, dropped three No. 1 seeds during the disastrous session.

Going into the finals, the lineup read class A, Twin Falls seven finalists, Minico six, Jerome five, Burley and Wood River two, Buhl and Piler one. On the class B side, Valley had six, Raft River four, Declo, Kimberly and Wendell three, Oakley and Shoshone two, and Glenns Ferry one.

Results of the semi-finals include:

- Class A: 101 pounds, Jefferson, WR, dec. 11-11; 115 pounds, Burley, R, dec. 11-11; 135 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 155 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 175 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 195 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 220 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 265 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 300 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 350 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 400 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 450 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 500 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 550 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 600 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 650 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 700 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 750 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 800 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 850 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 900 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 950 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11; 1000 pounds, Declo, WR, dec. 11-11.

Soviets like Fosbury flop now that they have expert

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russian coaches once banned the "Fosbury Flop" but now they have a man who could break the world high jump record employing the same technique — and while he is in the United States, at that.

American indoor track circuit this winter. Russian coaches, as well as many in the U.S. and Europe, frowned when Dick Fosbury introduced his "flop" during the late 1960's but they lost their arguments when he won the 1968 Olympic gold medal at Mexico City.

Shapka has added one vital ingredient to the style — consistency. For that reason, he is tipped as a likely successor to Valery Brumel, who set the official world record of 7 feet, 5 3/4 inches, at Moscow on July 21, 1963, in a duel meet against the U.S.

(Ni Chih-Chin jumped 7 6-1/4 at Changsha, China, Nov. 8, 1970 but the record remains unratified because mainland China does not belong to the International Amateur Athletic Federation).

In the past month, during a series of warmup events prior to the American tour, Shapka recorded leaps of 7-1, 7 2-1/4 and 7-3. Not since the days of Brumel's peak has there been such consistency by a top man.

When Shapka went 7-3 at Kaunus, Lithuania, he broke Brumel's stadium record. Brumel, himself, reached 6-3 1/4 that day in one of his first outings since a motorcycle accident five years ago cut short his brilliant career.

Brumel, who has undergone two operations in a fight for fitness, said afterward, "I like this fellow Shapka. He has the right outlook. My record could go this year to him, Valentin Gavrilov or perhaps to one of the leading American or European jumpers."

Yuri Chistyakov, who trained Brumel and now also has charge of Gavrilov, said of Shapka, "I admire him greatly. He is very gifted and hard working. He only lacks in the psychological aspect of competition. Experience will give him this. Then everyone had better watch out."

Russian coaches normally are not given to building up their prospects' publicly. Shapka, perhaps, is something special.

Penn brings biggest name to Ivy League

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Everyone knows who put Ivy League basketball on the map in recent seasons. Bill Bradley.

The disciplined Quakers are No. 10 in the nation in defense, with an average of 64.9 points a game against them, and they have had only two really close calls all season.

One was against Princeton, when Corky Calhoun, a 6-7 junior and the team's best defensive player, made a 25-foot jump shot with two seconds left to tie the game. Penn won in overtime.

Pseudo Smith was KO victim

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Jack Gibbons, secretary of the Minnesota State Athletic Association, said Wednesday he has evidence that the man knocked out by George Foreman in a fight here Monday night was not Phil Smith.

A fighter using the name "Phil Smith" was knocked out in the first round by Foreman, a top heavyweight contender, but Gibbons said he had reason to believe the man was really Charlie Boston, Winston-Salem, N.C.

Gibbons said he planned to meet Thursday with the Ramsey County Attorney's office about possible criminal charges.

All boxing cards in the state must be approved beforehand by the Athletic Commission, and Gibbons said he and promoter Emmett Weller thought the man was Smith.

"However, I got a call from Smith's trainer last (Tuesday) night that it wasn't Smith," Gibbons said. He said he then conferred with Bill Brennan, president of the World Boxing Association who gave him further information and "more or less verified" that the man wasn't Smith.

A Washington, D.C., attorney who accompanied the fighter and the fighter accepted $1,000 for the fight plus two round trip travel tickets.

NIT finals moved back

NEW YORK (UPI) — The date of the finals of the 34th annual National Invitation Basketball Tournament has been changed from Sunday, March 21, to Saturday, March 27, it was announced Wednesday.

Bet Carnovale, president of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association, which sponsors the NIT, said the change was necessitated to conform to National Collegiate Athletic Association rules which require that no post-season tournament be conducted following the NCAA University division championships.

In addition, the commission can suspend for an indefinite period any boxer or handler who uses another boxer's name. Gibbons said Weller thought Smith would be a good opponent since he lost only four professional fights.

Duke outlasts Wake Forest

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI) — Randy Denton's 33 points and key rebounding in the final stretch helped Duke overcome a Wake Forest comeback and take an 83-78 Atlantic Coast Conference victory Wednesday night.

Denton pulled down two key rebounds and blocked a Charlie Davis layup near the end to keep the Blue Devils ahead. Denton, a 6-10 senior, snagged 18 rebounds, a season high and connected for 33 points to lead all players in both categories.

The Rebels, who had lost 11 of their last 13 games, dimmed the National Invitational Tournament hopes of the Commodores as well as the hope of taking the Southeast Conference crown from Kentucky.

Neumann hits 46 in Reb win

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — The nation's leading collegiate scorer, Johnny Neumann, led the University of Mississippi with 46 points Wednesday night for a 94-58 basketball upset over Vanderbilt.

The Rebels, who had lost 11 of their last 13 games, dimmed the National Invitational Tournament hopes of the Commodores as well as the hope of taking the Southeast Conference crown from Kentucky. Ole Miss took an early lead 14-12 on a basket by Neumann who piled up 29 points in the first half. The Commodores tied the game at 36-36 and at 38-38 before Mississippi took a 49-47 intermission lead.

The Rebels never trailed in the second half, widening their margin to 86-74 with 3:04 remaining in the game. Vandy was paced by Thorpe Weber with 18 and Rod Freeman with 17.

Tenn. State stuns No. 1

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Lloyd Neal hit a seven-foot jump shot with 17 seconds remaining Wednesday night to give Tennessee State University a 95-94 win over the nation's No. 1 college division team, Kentucky State.

Clay's idea for tuneup squelched

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali's suggestion that he meet former sparring partner Jimmy Ellis in an exhibition tuneup for his March 8 heavyweight title fight with Joe Frazier was met today with the threat of a law suit.

Virginia rips Maryland

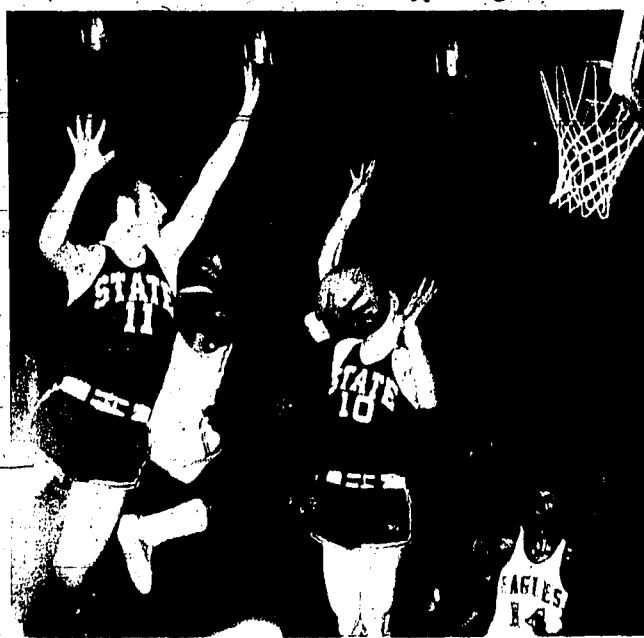

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — With sophomore Barry Parkhill leading the way, the Virginia Cavaliers outgunned Maryland Wednesday 78-63 in an Atlantic Coast conference game.

Monzon will meet Benvenuti

ROME (UPI) — Argentina's Carlos Monzon will defend his world middleweight title in April against Nino Benvenuti, from whom he won the crown last November, handlers announced Wednesday.

Victor's on a typical drive

VICTOR KELLY, CSI's 5-8 frosh sparkplug, flies between Utah State's Palley (11) and Erickson (10) for two points during action Thursday night. Kelly hit a season-high of 27 points and put on a show, for the largest crowd ever to see a basketball game in Twin Falls. Estimates placed the crowd at 5,000. The Eagles won 106-91. CSI winds up its home game Friday and Saturday, entertaining Mesa College and College of Eastern Utah. A sweep of that series would give the Eagles their fourth consecutive Intermountain Collegiate Athletic Conference championship.

Victor's on a typical drive

Hegens, Kelly point CSI past Utah State by 108-91

TWIN FALLS — Steve Hegens put on a torrid second-half scoring spree and little freshman Vic Kelly staged his greatest offensive show of the season Wednesday night as the nation's top-ranked team — the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles — raced past talented Utah State 108-91.

For the Golden Eagles, who were announced as the nation's number one junior college unit Wednesday morning, it was win number 23 against a single loss. CSI plays its last two home-court regular season games Friday and Saturday nights, hosting Mesa Friday and Eastern Utah Saturday in the school's Homecoming battle.

A completely jammed house — in excess of 4,000 people — saw Jim Boatwright, Glenn Hansen and company give the Eagles a battle royal for the better part of 30 minutes, but all-American Hegens was unstoppable in the second half — he tanked 25 points — and Kelly was simply too quick for the Utahs.

Virginia rips Maryland

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) — With sophomore Barry Parkhill leading the way, the Virginia Cavaliers outgunned Maryland Wednesday 78-63 in an Atlantic Coast conference game.

Parkhill spurred a first half rally for the Cavaliers and scored a total of 21 points for the evening.

The game was tight during the opening phases, and the score was knotted 23-23 with 4:18 left in the first half. Then Virginia broke free and outscored the Terps 17-3 before intermission.

Gooding eyes title, Oakley and Musers still chasing

The Gooding Senators can clinch a share of the Big Six Conference championship and the Oakley Hornets and Camas County Musers continue chasing titles as Magic Valley's high school teams enter their second to last weekend of the long season.

Gooding will play host to Wood River Friday night and Shoshone Saturday and by winning those two would have only a game with runner-up Wendell on deck. Wendell will have to stay in the running by defeating Shoshone at home Friday and traveling to Filer Saturday. A combination of two Gooding wins and a Wendell loss would end the race. However, should both win, a title showdown would be served up next Friday. Wendell forfeited to Gooding in what was to be their first meeting.

Meanwhile, Oakley will entertain the Raft River Trojans and a win there would pull the Hornets to within one game of a share of the crown. Camas County, which got its nose in front of Richfield in a head-to-head duel Tuesday, tries to stay there against Bliss at Fairfield. The Musers move to Twin Falls Saturday to play the Twin Falls Juniors.

The Burley Bobcats will be home for a pair of games, Coach Ivan Davls' Bobcats meeting Blackfoot in an EIC battle Friday, and Buhl in a non-conference rematch Saturday. Buhl won the first meeting. Jerome, trying to shake a four-game losing streak and the 1971 drought, faces a pair of tough tests. The Tigers will travel to Mountain Home Friday and entertain Bishop Kelly Saturday. Both defeated Jerome in earlier meetings.

POCATELLO—Idaho State University is back in the Big Sky pack and now must try and move back into title contention against two of the most improved basketball teams in the conference.

Twin Falls entertains Minico, Highland in year's last home games

The Twin Falls Bruins make their final appearance at home this weekend and they and the Minico Spartans take on two of the top three teams in the Southern Idaho Conference Saturday.

Pocatello Indians. After that, Minico goes to Highland Wednesday and winds up at home Feb. 19 against Skyline. Twin Falls ends its on the road next weekend, at Pocatello and Skyline.

Highland has 6-1 Rick Cutright, who is averaging 32.5 points per game from his guard spot and hitting over 50 per cent. Skyline boasts Wynn Wilkes, one of the leading scorers and a 6-5 pillar on the boards.

Fleckman shoots 6-under par 66 to lead in Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Marty Fleckman, who faded from view after a brilliant start as a pro in 1967, shot a six under par 66 at La Quinta Wednesday for a one stroke lead over five players in the first round of the $140,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic.

The 24-year-old Fleckman had seven birds and one bogey on his card as 50 pros shot sub-par rounds over the four desert courses used in the 90-hole Hope Classic.

Fleckman, who finished 120th on the money winning last last year after winning the Cajun Classic shortly after turning pro in 1967, had putts of 25, 15 and 10 feet among the seven birds he notched on a perfect day for golf in the Southern California desert country.

Palmer, who complained of putting problems in the Hawaiian Open, made some good ones here and while he expressed satisfaction with the round, he said it could have been better.

Bloodied Moyer nabs ring title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Boxing master Denny Moyer, with blood dripping from the corners of both eyes from the second round on, scored a unanimous 12-round decision over Art Hernandez to win the North American Boxing Federation middleweight championship Wednesday night.

Moyer, 159, Portland, Ore., won over his 160-pound opponent from Omaha, Neb., by 58-50, 58-52, and 57-51 scores on the cards of the three judges. Hernandez was down in the seventh for a mandatory eight count from a left hook to the jaw. Moyer, 31, connected with a big right hand in the closing moments of the round but was unable to put his foe away.

Moyer's left eye dripped blood badly in the eighth round but he continued to outbox his opponent to win handily. Moyer lost the title to Nate Williams of Las Vegas, who later was defeated by Hernandez in Omaha. The win gave Moyer an 83-22-4 record while Hernandez, 29, is 45-14-2.

South Carolina nips Davidson

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)—South Carolina, behind the late free throw shooting of John Roche and Kevin Joyce, held off Davidson's second half comeback Wednesday night to take a bruising 70-62 victory.

Ocean floor laboratory planned

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas, V.I. (UPI)—The U.S. Virgin Islands is planning a permanent ocean-floor laboratory in Great Lameshur Bay, St. John, to provide a low-cost method of charting "the untracked jungles" of the world's oceans.

The habitat, a large, tubular twin-chamber cylinder, would be modeled after the one used in the recent tekite program and be financed by the Virgin Islands government and private industry, according to David

Allen, public relations director for the governor's special assistant for undersea programs.

The tekite experiments, which ended two months ago, proved scientists could live and work safely for extended periods of time at depths up to 100 feet below sea level. The tekite habitat was anchored to the ocean floor, and aquanauts had to enter a separate decompression chamber before surfacing.

Allen said the new habitat would be mobile, rather than anchored to the ocean floor as in the tekite program, and would have a self-contained decompression chamber allowing aquanauts to commute back and forth from the surface to a depth of 100 feet.

"The laboratory would be the beginning of a low-cost program to chart the 'untracked jungles' of the world's oceans," he said.

Allen said satellites would photograph the ocean over the habitat, and scientists below would issue a detailed report on depth and general sea-life conditions at the same instant the picture was taken.

"The photos could then be compared to photos of previously uncharted areas, and if they compared, we would have all the information needed at a small cost," Allen said.

"Carried on by computers, and with continuous satellite photos, we could chart all areas in the world with similar features and marine life," Allen said the Virgin Islands government had appropriated $250,000 for the project, and an additional $100,000 would be obtained from private companies. He said the habitat was expected to be in operation by the end of this year.

Computer expert simplifies complex

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lewis Robins, a computer expert from Westport, Conn., has made a lot of money by simplifying the complex for industry and government. Robins, 38, also has helped young school children with reading problems.

The Columbia University graduate has worked his simplification magic on executives and salesmen at Litton Industries, IBM, Union Carbide and National Cash Register. He had his most notable success at NCR, which in 1962 hired him to train Air Force personnel in the use of the NCR 490 computer. The government had purchased 174 of them, the largest single order in NCR history, to ease the work in Air Force paymaster offices around the world. But the sale was contingent upon training the individuals who would use them.

Robins was called "Mr. He simply produced an audio tape, which guides the operator through the various steps as he works at the console. All the complex, technical vernacular was reduced to language the average person can understand, and it worked for NCR.

That same year Robins started working on a problem which always had interested him, "teaching non-reading," "problem" elementary school children to read. Working through a small school in Bedford Hills, N.Y., Robins learned that method and materials had little to do with the overall problem.

So Robins decided to devise a system that would motivate a problem reader by allowing him to measure his daily progress. He invented a programmed unit which basically was a small, toy-like record player, color-coded to cards imprinted with a few simple words.

"By giving measurable proof of daily progress," said Robins, "we're showing the child accustomed to failure that he's succeeding."

U.S. plans withdrawal of troops from Korea

By PHIL NEWSOM UPI Foreign News Analyst Americans impatient with the pace of Vietnamization of the war in Southeast Asia and the withdrawal of American troops might take a look at Korea.

For most of 21 years American troops have been standing along a line dividing South Korea from Communist North Korea. Each year a few of them died as the Communists probed the line or sent infiltrators southward to disrupt the government of President Chung Hee Park.

As of June 30 all that comes to an end. The American 2nd Army Division which has been guarding an 18-mile stretch along the classic invasion route to Seoul, South Korea's capital, will be brought home and disbanded at an anticipated saving of some $500 million a year.

It is part of an agreement whereby the United States will reduce its authorized strength of some 63,000 men in South Korea by 20,000.

The United States agreed to shift a wing of 54 Phantom F4 bombers from Japan and place them on permanent station in South Korea.

Included in the military aid would be an unspecified number of radar surveillance aircraft to protect the coastline and, presumably, more Phantom F-4s for South Korea's air force.

While the Koreans agreed to the move, it did not alter the fundamental disagreement between the two sides.

The United States argues that the North Korea cannot attack the South again because neither of its chief allies, Red China and the Soviet Union, wish an armed conflict with the United States.

The South argues that the U.S. move will be interpreted as a sign of weakness and that the North not only can, but might, attack again.

Over 90 per cent of all transactions involving money are paid for by check, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Henceforth American troops will be responsible only for guard duties at the truce village of Panmunjon, that symbol of the longevity of Asian wars which once entered are difficult to escape.

Vice President Agnew underwent his baptism of fire in Seoul last summer, learning just how tough Asian bargaining can be.

President Park and his aides sought modernization of the Korean forces, much of whose equipment was 20 to 25 years old.

They sought public assurance that further cutbacks in U.S. troop strength now would be deferred a number of years.

Over a five-year period they sought new equipment worth between $2 and $3 billion.

What they got is some $100 million worth of supplies to be left behind by the departing Americans, plus about 100 American military installations, a promise of $150 million in military aid in addition to regular military aid coming to about $140 million this year, and continuing aid for the next five years.

Shares in Rolls drop to 3 cents

LONDON (UPI)—Shares in Rolls-Royce plunged to as low as three cents each on the London Stock Exchange today but a government spokesman said the firm's RB211 jet engine project is worth saving.

Rolls-Royce, a name in luxury cars for years, was forced into receivership last week by skyrocketing costs of a multibillion contract to build RB211 jet engines for the projected Lockheed TriStar passenger plane.

Shares in Rolls-Royce, at one point selling for $15 each, leveled off at around six cents each today as investors unloaded them.
