Gooding building 'needed'

BOISE (UPI) — Chairman Jenkin Palmer, R-Malad, told the House Thursday the Appropriations Committee believes a 60-year-old building at the school for the deaf and blind should be replaced.

Palmer made the statement in giving the House a brief report on a field trip Wednesday by the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee to state institutions in Gooding.

He said that although the building in question at the school has been condemned, portions of it still are being used. He said walls and ceilings show huge cracks and the wiring is antiquated.

Palmer also said that the committee is in a quandary about what should be done with the 13-year-old tuberculosis hospital one-half mile from the school in Gooding. The building now is vacant, the small number of cases having forced closure of it last year.

"It would make a good nursing home or extended care facility," Palmer said, adding the Land Board has not been able to get adequate bids for the property.

One of the problems he said is that it would cost more to remodel the building than to erect a new one. He said the joint committee recommends the State Land Board and Health Department continue their efforts to find a buyer or user for the structure.

Hair rules now just advisory

TWIN FALLS — Regulations on hair lengths for students in the Twin Falls school system were reduced to "recommendation" status today, Assistant Superintendent George Staudacher said.

In view of the Idaho Supreme Court ruling upholding contention of a Pocatello student that school administrators have no authority to force hair cuts, Staudacher said the local regulations are naturally void.

"We obey the laws," he said, "but we can continue to enforce state sanitation and health regulations and will require our students to maintain a clean and neat appearance."

Previously, the local regulations on hair styles for all students stipulated the eyes must not be hidden by hair length in the front. For boys, side and back lengths could not extend beyond the collar line of a shirt that would have a collar.

Staudacher said most Twin Falls students are reasonable and also take pride in their appearance and will probably continue to follow the school's hair and dress code recommendations.

He said there will probably be some who will let hair lengths grow but he does not anticipate any problems.

Explosives law effective today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The sale and use of explosives came under strict control today with new regulations aimed at curbing terrorist bombings in the United States.

Although aimed at the type of explosions which have hit federal and military installations, the rules also cover even the farmer who wants to dynamite a tree stump.

Rex R. Davis, director of the Internal Revenue Service's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division, said up to now "you could walk in and buy high explosives almost any place. All you had to have was money."

"The new law will make it much more difficult for a person who wants explosives

Unsafe loads

THE FAMED Perrine Memorial Bridge for many years was permitted to carry loads far in excess of its rated safety limit, the Times-News has learned. The bridge was discovered damaged after the overloading, and strict load limits have since been imposed.

Southern Quake-buried strategist chef survives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's former southern strategist will become the White House's only purely political adviser in a shakeup intended to "depoliticize" the Executive Mansion, it was learned today.

This, it was reported, is expected to become a fact when Murray Chotiner, a Nixon special counsel who led the heavy White House involvement in the 1970 campaigns, quits at the end of this month.

After that the only political adviser the President will have on hand will be Harry Dent, former aide to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., who has been the president's off-and-on southern strategist.

Symbolically, according to sources, Nixon is discarding his partisan political hat in hopes of being more of a non-partisan president.

Chotiner was brought in to head a White House involvement in the 1970 campaigning that went far beyond the publicized campaign tours and speeches of the President and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The president's crew heavily usurped normal functions of congressional campaign committees and of the Republican National Committee in handling finances, recruiting candidates and managing campaigns, according to GOP sources.

"The president's main goal was to capture an ideological if not a party majority in the Senate, to gain GOP votes in the House and to gain control of state legislatures and state houses.

There has been no dissatisfaction with Chotiner's role as strategist of the 1970 campaign but his departure will mean the White House sheds a symbol.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A bulldozer took a giant scoop of rubble from the earthquake-flattened San Fernando Veterans Hospital and workers momentarily froze.

Two feet protruded into the cleared area and rescuers thought it was a workman who had fallen into the debris.

Then Frank Carbonara, 68, scrambled from a tiny space beneath a metal sink where he had been trapped for two and one-half days.

"We found a live one," shouted one of the rescue workers.

Carbonara, a chef at the hospital, was fortunate. He had suffered only broken bones in his hands and a bruised chest and physicians pronounced him in good condition.

"I felt I was dead. I didn't sleep for 58 hours," Carbonara said later at the hospital where he was being treated.

Forty of the 59 known victims of Tuesday's devastating Los Angeles earthquake died at the hospital in San Fernando Valley, 10 miles from the epicenter of the temblor. Two bodies were pulled out only three hours after Carbonara was found.

"I ran and then I crawled underneath the basin," Carbonara told a doctor. The act probably saved his life.

An air pocket formed under the large sink as the three-story building crumbled into a 10-foot high mound of debris. There was enough air in the pocket to keep Carbonara alive.

"I didn't expect to find anything," said the driver of the bulldozer, Slim Ingerson of Inglewood, Calif. "But then I saw this metal sink with the legs still straight and I thought something was funny."

"Then I saw him and he came scrambling out — feet first."

Jenny Ketcham, chief nurse at the hospital, told Carbonara as he was brought out, "You look damn beautiful."

"Thank you, honey. Thank you, honey," Carbonara smiled.

Damage caused by the 6.5 magnitude quake was still being reported but county officials said it would top $1 billion. Buildings in a 40-mile area sustained some sort of damage.

Penney's founder dies at 95

NEW YORK (UPI) — James Cash Penney, founder of the J. C. Penney Stores, died today at Harkness Pavilion. He was 95.

Penney had been taken to the hospital after suffering a fall on Dec. 26. He suffered a severe heart attack Thursday night and died this morning.

Income rises at fast rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Personal income of all Americans rose in January at a rate more than double the monthly average last year, indicating some improvement in the lagging economy, the Commerce Department reported today.

The department said personal income was at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $825.4 billion last month. This was $7.9 billion more than in December and $7.8 billion higher than January, 1970.

Wages and salaries made up much of the increase, rising $6.8 billion to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $556.6 billion.

Survives burial

FRANK CARBONARA crawled from under tons of rubble at the Veterans Hospital flattened in Tuesday's temblor, an answer to prayers of his wife and daughters. Here he whispers to his wife, Rose, after making his "miraculous" appearance. (UPI)

Unsafe load limit OK'd for Perrine

By RICHARD G. HIGH
Times-News Associate Editor
BOISE (Special to the Times-News) — The Times-News has learned that the Idaho Highway Department permitted the Perrine Memorial Bridge to be dangerously overloaded.

Fortunately for the countless persons who have crossed the 476-foot-high landmark, the structure did not collapse.

But the bridge was damaged. A number of its members were discovered to be broken and many others permanently distorted and weakened.

The damage, along with the bridge's advancing age, has prompted the replacement of highways to seek a replacement — at a cost of about $8 million.

According to Idaho Bridge Engineer Robert B. Jarvis, the Perrine Bridge was designed 44 years ago to carry trucks weighing no more than 50,000 pounds.

Since then, he said, age and metal fatigue have lowered the bridge's capacity.

But until 1969 the Perrine Bridge was open to all traffic permitted to travel on state highways — including trucks weighing up to 70,000 pounds.

According to Idaho Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes, the overloading "ate into the safety factor."

start breaking — is 2.0 times the rated safe load.

According to Jarvis, the Perrine Bridge evidently was placed under loading conditions in excess of the 2.0-1 safety margin in order to break its members.

Jarvis attributed the limited bridge failure to "some combination" of metal fatigue — eventual weakening of metal through age and use — and overloading.

According to Jarvis, a bridge's maximum safe load gradually declines as the bridge becomes older and metal fatigue becomes more noticeable.

He said the bridge is now 44 years old, and nearing the end of its useful life. He said the state department of highways uses as a rule of thumb a 50-year life for a bridge.

Roy Tokereid, bridge chief of the Northwest Division of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, said there was no federal requirement until 1968 that bridges on U.S. highways be inspected and posted at their rated strength.

He said the Highway Acts of 1968 and 1970 provided for a program of detailed inspection of bridges to determine their safety.

The act's provisions were prompted by the collapse of a bridge over the Ohio River in which there was great loss of life.

Prior to 1968, however, the federal agency relied on the judgment of state highway departments to post their bridges.

Mathos told the Times-News that the blame for the overloaded bridge rests with the state legislature.

He said the legislature has repeatedly raised the load limits permitted for state highways. In many cases, he said, the limits exceed the safe limits of older bridges such as the Perrine.

But when asked whether or not the state department could post such bridges, he replied: "We can either post them or we can permit the overloads. If we post it we make a lot of people mad. People don't like it."

He said such overloading "eats into the safety factor," but insisted that there was little likelihood of a bridge collapse.

GIs rushed to border

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States rushed elements of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division into positions just south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today to "bolster security" against North Vietnamese troops, front dispatches reported.

The dispatches also reported an increasing toll of American and South Vietnam helicopters in Laos and in bordering areas of South Vietnam. Six U.S. helicopters were shot down today in Laos, bringing to more than 26 the American choppers lost in supporting the South Vietnamese drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

The air losses were the highest in years, exceeding those of the Cambodian operation last spring. Pilots reported heavy antiaircraft fire and new attacks against the 13,000 or more South Vietnamese troops operating in Laos.

The Communists also infiltrated the area around Route 9 leading into Laos just below the DMZ and officers at the scene said allied air bases were shelled and that two convoys on Route 9 were ambushed and left in flames.

Reports that the 101st Airborne had been moved into position below the DMZ followed reports Thursday that a force of 1,500 U.S. Marines were posted aboard an aircraft carrier just off the DMZ for use in an emergency.

UPI correspondent Robert E. Sullivan reported from Khe Sanh that Highway 9 had become too dangerous because of infiltrating Communists. He quoted Capt. Phan Nam Hien, commander of a South Vietnamese artillery battalion, as saying his unit would have to be airlifted into Laos because it could not travel by road.

General assumes Cambodia post

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Premier Lon Nol, partially paralyzed from a stroke, has turned over command of Cambodia's war effort to Gen. Sisowath Sirik Matak, the deputy premier and a cousin of deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

An official communique in Lon Nol's name was read over national radio Thursday night. It named Matak, 57, commander-in-chief of the armed forces.

"Following the decision of the doctor, I have to undergo thorough medical treatment for a certain period of time," the message said.

"While undergoing medical treatment from today on, I confide the position of commander-in-chief to Gen. Sisowath Sirik Matak whom you already know. I ask you all who are the combatants of the Khmer (Cambodian) Republic to continue to serve the nation with the courage you have shown under my command."

Lt. Col. Am Rong, the official Cambodian military spokesman, said "some American specialists" were helping in the medical treatment of Lon Nol.

"I saw Lon Nol last night and he was much better than the day before," Am Rong said. "He talked with us a lot and signed some papers."

Am Rong estimated Lon Nol would be out of action from one to two months. High level medical sources have expressed doubt that Lon Nol would ever be able to assume all his former duties.

Board turns down bid to rezone

TWIN FALLS — County Planning and Zoning Board members Thursday night recommended denial of a rezoning application by Lynn Hempleman for construction of a mobile home park and golf course on his property south and east of town.

The action was the second denial by the zoning group on the same application and came at the close of a meeting which continued in the county judicial building until midnight.

Residents, mostly farm land owners in the vicinity of Hempleman's property met with the board to protest the application. Hempleman had requested a change from agricultural zoning in order to establish a mobile home court.

Ed Woods, zoning board secretary and County zoning administrator, said the recommendation will be sent to the county commission. A hearing is scheduled before the three man board of commissioners March 4.

In recommending the application be denied, zoning board members said they felt it would, if allowed, constitute a conflicting zone and would create an island of agricultural residential use within an area of strict agriculture. They felt the locality is not likely to develop in the county's present growth pattern into anything other than agricultural use.

Residents protesting felt the concentrated population area would cause traffic problems, threaten irrigation water delivery, and create police and fire protection problems. Many attending objected to the proposed sewage disposal system outlined by Hempleman. An engineer attending with Hempleman said the system would not create any offensive odors.

Another application for a mobile park, this one proposed by Jim Bowden to be located south of Kimberly, was received by the board. March 11 was set as the date for a public hearing.

Another delegation of west-end county residents met with the zoning commission regarding control of odors from the old Carter Packing Co., now the Cascade Commodities Corp.

Litterbug blamed for trashy land

TWIN FALLS — A Coors brewery official told a Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce audience Thursday night the primary blame for America's littered landscape lies with the litterbug and not with the manufacturer of the discarded eyeglasses.

E. L. Barnhardt, vice president of sales of the Adolph Coors Co. told the 300 persons attending the annual chamber dinner "It is people who are the litterers."

"Do you think that the beer industry is responsible for every can or bottle that appears along a highway? They don't want it there. They didn't put it there. And they would rather not have it there," Barnhardt declared.

He said the solution of the nation's litter problem does not lie with further legislation. The three types of litterbug, he said, are not likely to respond to further anti-litter laws. Litterers are either "illegals" who discard items they would prefer not to be caught with, or members of the growing class of "rebellious litterers," or in the third category of "unconscious litterers."

The person who flicks his cigarette ash or butt from his car window, he said, is an example of the large group of persons who may be opposed to a trashy landscape but nevertheless litter without realizing what they are doing.

Instead of new anti-litter laws, Barnhardt called for education of the "unconscious" litterbugs to make them aware of their waste of trash and increased use of recycling items such as aluminum beer cans. He said Coors began purchasing aluminum cans in February, 1970, and by the year's end had paid $600,000 for over 6 million pounds of aluminum — or 150 million cans — returned to the company.

"This is only one company in one industry," he said.

Barnhardt cited a survey indicating that paper products represent 51 per cent of all litter; metal containers 28 per cent, and glass containers 7 per cent.

More than 90 per cent of all discarded metal containers are beer and soft drink cans, he said, and more than 80 per cent of glass containers are beer and soft drink bottles.

Over one third of litter of all types comes from the beer and drink containers, according to the report.

"I happen to represent an industry that is highly condemned for what appears by the side of the road," he said. "But how did it get there?"

Harvey new president of Twin Falls Chamber

TWIN FALLS — Robert Harvey, manager of the Mayfair Shop, assumed the presidency of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce Thursday night at the chamber's annual dinner.

Fred Wanzelried was named first vice president and John Rosholt, second vice president.

New directors named were Uriel Simmons, John Massey, Harold Gerber and Rosholt. Retiring president Holly

Houfburg called 1970 a "most successful year." He said it was highlighted by location of the Kellwood Co., Carolina Paper Box and Longview Fibre companies in Twin Falls.

The new industries, along with expansion of other existing employers created 600 new jobs, Houfburg said.

He called the growth of the College of Southern Idaho "almost unbelievable." He cited the arrival of jet service and the dedication of the downtown Twin Falls mall as other 1970 highlights.

Incoming president Harvey emphasized teamwork in the continued success of the chamber and told members that they could expect to be asked to help on chamber projects during the coming year.

Master of ceremonies for the event was John Christoffersen. About 300 persons attended the dinner at the Holiday Inn.

Poland asks halt to war's spread

WARSAW (UPI)—Poland appealed today to Britain and the Soviet Union, as co-chairmen of the 1962 Geneva Conference on Indochina, to help stop the spread of the Indochina War and prevent "further American aggression against the kingdom of Laos."

The Polish ambassador to Washington, Jerze Michalowski, was instructed to make a detailed presentation of Poland's views to the U.S. government, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

Poland, with Canada and India, is a member of the International Control Commission on Indochina (ICC) set up by the 1962 conference.

In an aide-memoire handed to the British and Soviet governments today, Poland said U.S. policy towards Laos would lead to "a serious extension of the Indochina War, to further bloodshed, untold sufferings of the population of the countries of the region and poisoning of world international relations."

"The Polish government hereby appeals to the co-chairmen of the Geneva Conference to use their utmost influence to prevent the United States of America from escalating military operations in Indochina and refraining from any further aggression against the kingdom of Laos."

The Foreign Ministry spokesman said

man said Polish ambassadors in Paris, Ottawa, New Delhi and Peking also had been instructed to join the diplomatic offensive.

Tern's Derivation

Chauvinism, a term for excessive and unreasonable patriotism, is derived from the name of Nicolas Chauvin, a French soldier who retained devotion to Napoleon long after the war.

Mid-East talks into new phase

By United Press International

United Nations diplomats said today the Middle East peace talks were entering a new phase with Big Four efforts to write guarantees for any Israeli-Arab peace settlement. But diplomats from the Middle East indicated no immediate prospects such a settlement was near.

Complicating the situation further was another outbreak of fighting in Amman between Palestinian guerrillas and Jordanian army forces that killed and wounded an unknown number of persons. One American was hospitalized with minor wounds.

In Amman, Al Fatah leader Yasser Arafat called on the Arab heads of state to take action to protect the guerrillas.

The ambassadors of the United States, Britain, Russia and France called their 55th secret meeting today at the New York residence of British Ambassador Sir Colin Crowde to discuss the possibilities of policing a truce when and if one is worked out.

The United States has generally supported Israel's stand against any Big Four intervention in a settlement but advised the other three powers last week it was ready to start discussing guarantees for a settlement.

Britain and France have announced their willingness to send troops to a U.N. Middle East force. However, Secretary General Thant has questioned the advisability of the use of American and Russian forces in such a group.

The Security Council resolution of Nov. 22, 1967, on the Middle East makes no specific mention of a U.N. peace force for the Mideast, but diplomats said this was covered in the resolution's call for measures to guarantee the territorial inviolability and political independence of every state in the area.

Automaker calls cars

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI)—Toyota Motors Sales U.S.A. is recalling 145,000 Toyota Corona autos manufactured from 1968 through 1970 for modification of a partition which could affect acceleration.

The Japanese carmaker said the recall would apply to models equipped with a package tray under the right dash panel used for the storage of small items.

"Under unusual operating conditions, an item may inadvertently fall over the protective partition and cause a possible malfunction of the accelerator linkage, preventing smooth accelerator pedal operation," Toyota said.

man said Polish ambassadors in Paris, Ottawa, New Delhi and Peking also had been instructed to join the diplomatic offensive.

Bail cancelled in liquor case

TWIN FALLS — Judge Daniel Meehl of Magistrate Court Thursday canceled bail for Charles G. Smith, Boise, when he failed to appear within allotted time for trial on charges of driving while intoxicated.

Trial had been set for Feb. 8 and the court granted additional time for defense attorney Golden Bennett to locate the defendant but the attorney was unable to locate the man by Wednesday. Bond was $305.

Joe Mondragon, also represented by Bennett, was found guilty by Judge Meehl Feb. 4 on one count of driving on a suspended license and a stop light violation, and on Thurday, after time for review of a second charge of driving while suspended was also found guilty on that count by the magistrate. Judge Meehl ordered fines of $100 each on the driving while suspended charges and $15 fine and $7.50 costs on the stop light violation. Robert Galley, assistant prosecutor, represented the state.

Jim Heffley, Twin Falls, entered a plea of guilty to a check charge filed Dec. 23, 1970. He was fined $217 and costs, and was given an opportunity to pay the fine at a rate of $25 per month. Judge Meehl said he would entertain a motion for dismissal after 75 of the fine has been paid.

FIRST SKIERS up the new Magic Mountain double chair lift are pictured here at about the midway mark of the facility. The lift went into operation last week end with record numbers of skiers trying out the equipment and now ski runs it serves. The resort now has three separate ski complexes, including Pike Mountain's beginners hill served by a Poma lift, the new chair lift area and the T-bar lift on Magic Mountain.

Runs icy, softer at area resorts

TWIN FALLS — Unless additional snow falls, weekend skiers may look for some icy conditions early in the day and softening snow in the afternoons in most area ski resorts. Only skiffs of snow have fallen this week, U.S. Forest service reports from various resorts show. Most areas will be in operation Monday because of the Washington's birthday anniversary holiday. By area the reports include: Pomerelle — Slopes have a total of 94 inches of snow at the top and 54 inches at the bottom with a skiff of new snow which has been scattered by 10 mile per hour winds. Resort officials say morning conditions are slightly icy but snow is softening later in the day. Packing is continuing. The area will operate every day during the coming week including Monday. The road is good but rutted at the bottom. Soldier Mountain has 75 inches of snow at the top and 50 on the floor with a light covering of new snow. Roads are bare and dry and temperatures have been averaging about 40 degrees. The area will operate Monday in addition to the regular schedule. Rotarun at Halley reports 40 inches of packed base and ideal weather conditions. Roads are bare and dry and temperatures have been averaging 40 to 45 degrees. No new snow is reported.

Baldy Mountain has 64 inches at the top, 60 inches at the Roundhouse with 30 on the valley floor. Roads are clear and bare and weather is warm and clear with 45 degrees in the valley and 31 at the top of Baldy. All runs and bowls are open.

Magic Mountain lists 50 inches at the base and 65 at the top with a skiff of snow only having fallen this week. Conditions somewhat icy in the mornings and softening in the afternoons. All facilities are operating including the new double chair lift. The road is good but has a snow floor in the upper canyon with snow tires recommended.

Forest service reports snowmobiling excellent in the Fairfield area, and good in the Ketchum, Halley and South Hills areas.

Muffler noise level proposed

BOISE — Law enforcement officers will be able to determine the exact amount of "excessive noise" made by a car or motorcycle with defective or modified mufflers under terms of a proposed law introduced in the Idaho House by Rep. Edward R. Rice, R-Boise.

The bill, House Bill No. 111, adds a specification to the existing law prohibiting "excessive or unusual noise" that sets the maximum of 92 decibels of noise as the maximum sound that may be made "by a passenger motor vehicle or a motorcycle at any time under any condition of grade, speed, acceleration or deceleration." The Idaho Air Pollution Control Commission is authorized by the proposed legislation to fix any lower level of permissible noise, as measured "at a distance of not less than 20 feet to the side" of the vehicle or motorcycle.

In addition, the new law prohibits modification of the exhaust system of a motor vehicle.

School mat meet Saturday

TWIN FALLS — Elementary school wrestlers will participate in a city-wide tournament beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, in the Twin Falls High School gymnasium, Chad Browning, city recreation director said today.

The third and fourth graders will compete from 9 to 10 a.m. followed at 10 a.m. by first and second graders. The fifth and sixth graders will compete from 11 a.m. to noon.

Browning said the tournament completes the four weeks wrestling program for the small fry in which about 350 youngsters have been taking part.

Steve Burrato, high school coach, has directed the wrestling for grade schoolers with the assistance of other school personnel. City recreation department and the local school district sponsor the program.

BOISE — Idaho hospitals will be assessed a fee for renewal of their state licenses under terms of a bill introduced in the Idaho House by the Health and Welfare Committee.

House Bill No. 112 provides that hospital licenses shall be issued if the facility meets state requirements. However, where existing law provides that the licenses are to be issued without charge, the new legislation adds a charge based on the size of the facility.

Hospitals with two to 50 beds must pay $50 annually for their license renewal; 51-to-100-bed hospitals must pay $100, and large hospitals, over 101 beds, would pay $150.

The licenses are not transferable, and must be posted in a conspicuous place on the hospital premises, the law stipulates.

Potato slash sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department Wednesday advised growers to cut planting of fall-harvest potatoes 9 per cent this year as part of an overall 8 per cent cutback in the 1971 crop.

Growers last year harvested a record 324.9 million hundredweight of potatoes. As a result, farm-level prices fell to $1.97 per hundredweight on Jan. 15, 1971, compared with $2.28 a hundredweight a year earlier. Agriculture Department experts said their recommendations for 1971 acreage, if followed and accompanied by normal conditions, would bring 1971 supplies into balance with consumer needs.

The recommendations included a proposal growers plant 1,012,720 acres for the fall harvest which makes up the bulk of the U.S. crop. In addition, experts proposed the late-summer harvest group be cut to 118,055 acres, 6 per cent below 1970.

These plantings, added to earlier recommendations for winter-harvest, spring-harvest and early-summer harvest potatoes would bring 1971 acreage to 1,343,075 acres, down 8 per cent from 1970.

Agency reports records

TWIN FALLS — In a report by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Spokane, Production Credit Associations in Idaho loaned more than $175.3 million to over 4,263 farmers, and ranchers in the state in 1970. This was 13.6 per cent over 1969, also a record year.

Wm. F. Barratt, president of the FICB, indicated that the growth stemmed from a number of factors. These include larger operations demanding more operating capital; reduction in agricultural credit by dealers, suppliers and commercial banks in some areas; competitive interest rates offered by PCAs; increased pressure of higher costs and inflation on almost everything producers buy without commensurate prices received on some commodities; plus the increased confidence that farmers and ranchers have in the PCAs to provide budgeting, record-keeping and counseling services.

"There was no shortage of money available from the PCAs in 1970," Barratt said. "We had no difficulty in getting the money, we just had to pay the going rate on the New York money market."

Barratt said "the wholesale cost of short-term money has been on the downtrend for six months.

HOLDING sheaf of Springfield, new soft white spring wheat, at Aberdeen Branch Experiment Station is Dr. D. W. Suderman, wheat breeder for U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Busy year ahead for fairgrounds

FILER — A number of events have been scheduled this year at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds, according to Tom Shousa, secretary-manager.

First of these is the Angus Bull Sale, set for Saturday. It will be followed Feb. 25 by the Southern Idaho Swine Breeders Sale. More information on this sale can be obtained by calling Doug Schroeder, Filer.

March 12 will see the Idaho Cattleman's Spring Bull Sale. Bob Hinderlider is executive secretary and may be reached at 2230 Main St., Boise. May 18 is the date for the A.K.C. Dog Show, sponsored by the Twin Falls Kennel Club with Bill Heard, chairman. His address is 100 Grandview Dr., Twin Falls.

Tax boost warning issued

LEWISTON (UPI) — Roland Wilber, Lewiston, chairman of the Republican party in Idaho, said the people of the state should be aware that the Anderson administration could force a tax increase on them. "It is plain to see that if we raise our level of spending in Idaho to $128 million as proposed by the governor, we will be placing ourselves in a position where a major tax increase will be required to run the state operations in 1972," Wilber said.

New varieties of wheat ready

MOSCOW — Several new cereal varieties adapted to Idaho have recently been developed by USDA in cooperation with the University of Idaho agricultural experiment station and exploring stations. Foundation seed of many of the varieties will be allocated to certified growers in February by the Idaho Crop Improvement Association.

Some of the new cereals are of particular interest to eastern Idaho, according to Howard B. Roylance, University of Idaho extension agronomist. Others are adapted to various areas of the state.

A hard red winter wheat called Idaho 27 has shown excellent resistance to dwarf smut in several nurseries. Yield and test weight are good and it has satisfactory milling and baking qualities. Researchers said it shows promise for southeastern dryland where dwarf smut has been a serious problem.

Bridger, a hard red winter wheat recently developed in Utah, is medium in height and maturity. It stands better than Cache at maturity. The straw is not so stiff as Delmar. It is susceptible to stripe rust but this disease is of minor importance in dryland. Bridger is released as a dryland variety and recommended as a possible replacement for Cache.

New soft white winter wheats are Paha, Luke, and Hislop. Paha — primarily for northern Idaho — is a low-protein, Omartype club wheat popular in domestic and Japanese markets. It has resistance to stripe rust and foot rot. It is superior to Omar in resistance to lodging and shattering but more susceptible to powdery mildew and flag smut.

Luke is a semi-dwarf variety similar to Gaines. It was released primarily as an alternative to Gaines and Mugalines which are susceptible to new races of dwarf bunt. Luke resists all known races of common and dwarf bunt. Winter hardiness, growth habit, and general appearance are similar to Gaines. Milling quality is unusually good for soft white wheat. Baking quality is similar to that of Nugaines.

Hislop is similar to Luke. It was released by Oregon State University and has done well in northern Idaho tests. Idaho release is expected in about a year.

Peak and Fremont are new hard red spring varieties. Peak has exceptional yield and quality when grown under irrigation in Idaho. It is not suitable for dryland. Peak grows about 35 inches high, resists lodging, has test weight of about 60 pounds, and in trials has been yielding about 80 bushels per acre.

Fremont is another semi-dwarf developed mostly for irrigated areas. Yields higher than 100 bushels have been recorded in Utah experiments. Fremont is a hard red bread wheat. It requires special attention to soil fertility, particularly nitrogen. It has relatively good milling and baking qualities. It is early to medium in maturity and has stiff straw.

Springfield and Idaho 15 are new soft white spring varieties. Both are semi-dwarf with stiff straw. They resist stripe rust and stem rust but are susceptible to leaf rust and mildew. Springfield is best adapted to irrigated areas of southern Idaho and eastern Oregon. Under tests for three years in Idaho its yield averaged 14 bushels higher than Lemhi 63. On dryland it produced more grain than Lemhi but less than Idaho 50. Test weight of Springfield is less than that of Lemhi 66. Foundation seed is available.

Idaho 15 — with proposed name of Twin — is similar to Springfield with greater yield potential and slightly better test weight. Seed will not be distributed in 1971.

In the category of feed barley, Woodvale, Caribou, Bonneville 70 and Vale 70 are recent additions. Woodvale is a six-row variety with a compact head. It is not for dry areas. It performs best on medium to heavy soils with good moisture and fertility. Woodvale has been one of the higher-yielding varieties in Utah nurseries.

Caribou was developed at the Aberdeen branch station as a cross of Pirolle and Munsing. It is two-rowed, white-kerneled and early maturing. This spring barley is recommended for dryland production in southeastern Idaho. Early maturity is expected to be an asset at high elevations. It may also be adapted to irrigation.

Bonneville 70 is an improved threshing strain of Bonneville, a feed barley that has been grown extensively but is losing ground to new selections. Bonneville 70 is a white-kerneled, six-rowed, smooth-awned spring barley.

Vale 70 is essentially the same as Vale, but is predominantly of a glossy type and matures later. It has a slightly yield advantage over Vale.

Directors selected by grazers

GOODING — Three directors elected for two-year terms by the Black Canyon Grazing Association are announced by Gooding County Agent Ed Koester.

Named at the annual meeting at the Gooding courthouse were Alan Cain, George Boetzel and Roy Mink.

The association makes range improvements on the public land which members utilize in cooperation with the Bureau of Land Management. Last year $1,000 was raised by the association to be used for spraying sagebrush, Koester said.

It was announced at the meeting that on March 10 bulls owned by members will be graded to see if they are fit to graze on BLM land. Good breeding and health conditions are the determining factors, Koester said.

Milk price starts up in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — Dairy product prices are on the rise in the Boise area.

Home Dairies, Inc., raised its prices because of a new labor union contract and other duties followed suit.

FDA prosecutes stock shippers for drug use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hit by charges of laxity, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has for the first time initiated criminal prosecution of farmers who ship livestock containing illegal drug and hormone residues, it was learned today. In addition, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), whose meat inspections provide the basis for FDA enforcement, told UPI it plans a sharp increase this year in random tests for residues, particularly of a widely used cattle growth hormone, DES, which has caused cancer in mice. Coupled with an industry self-regulation system scheduled to begin March 1, the actions signal a significant escalation of enforcement in an area which has traditionally received little attention from federal regulators. Although USDA inspectors checked 31 million cattle carcasses last year for freshness and cleanliness, only 250 — one of every 124,000 — were randomly tested for residues of DES, which stands for diethylstilbestrol. "Our statisticians would shudder at calling it a statistically valid sample," Dr. Joseph S. Stein, special assistant to the director of USDA's meat and poultry inspection program, said in an interview. Stein's boss, Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng, told UPI he has ordered "a substantial increase in the tests this year, particularly for DES." When USDA inspectors find an illegal residue in cattle, hogs or poultry, whether DES or any of a dozen regulated drugs and pesticides, it gives the findings to FDA. That agency has enforcement authority but has never given offending farmers more than a warning. Now, however, FDA has served notice it will prosecute transgressors under the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, which carries penalties up to a $10,000 fine and three years in jail. "Whenever we find a situation where we can document the fact that residues are present in the edible parts of a slaughtered animal we are prepared to prosecute the person that shipped that animal for causing food to be adulterated," FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards said in a private letter last Oct. 8 to W. D. Farr, a Greeley, Colo., cattle feeder who heads the American National Cattlemen's Association.

Dr. Lollis to speak at Buhl

BUHL — Dr. James A. Lollis, member of the staff of United Promotion of the Christian Church, Indianapolis, Ind., will be guest speaker at the Buhl First Christian Church Sunday. He is the second speaker in a series of four for the School of World Outreach, now in progress at the church, according to Rev. Harrie S. Young, minister. The sessions are slated each Sunday evening during February.

DR. JAMES A. LOLLIS

Dr. Lollis also will preach at the morning worship service at 11 a.m. Sunday. The evening session is at 7:30 p.m.

Unified Promotion is sometimes called the "Community Chest of the Christian Church," Rev. Young said. It is the agency which handles mission money and disburses it to the various agencies of the denomination, which includes colleges and seminaries, benevolent homes, Christian education and many other phases of work as well as home and foreign missions.

Dr. Lollis received his A. B. degree from Milligan College, Tennessee, and the B.D. degree from Yale Divinity School, New Haven, Conn. Prior to joining the staff of Unified Promotion, he served nine years as the founding pastor of the Crestwood Christian Church, Lexington, Ky., a church which grew to more than 500 members under his ministry.

He has served other pastorates in North Carolina, Virginia, Connecticut and Kentucky.

In addition to his appearance at Buhl, Dr. Lollis will meet with members of the stewardship and world outreach departments of the Christian churches of Magic Valley, at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the First Christian Church in Jerome.

Family night held

FILER — Rev. Robert Smith, Twin Falls, was guest speaker at the annual "family night" of the Filer American Baptist Women's Association.

Rev. Smith chose as his topic, "A Latin America," the theme for the American Baptist School of Missions this year. He began by asking the question, "How many states are there in the country of Mexico?" and pointed out that people outside of our country know a great deal more about the United States than its citizens know about other nations.

History shows the two Americas were settled for vastly different reasons, which accounts for the contrast between poverty and wealth in the Latin American countries.

A potluck dinner preceded the meeting. The new kitchen area was decorated in a Valentine theme with Mrs. Lyle Abel, Mrs. Ron Stokesberry and Mrs. Richard Tucker in charge. They were assisted by teen-agers Pam Miller, Rose Miller and Debbie Ransom. Laura Butts and Miss Ransom were in charge of the nursery during the meeting.

Mrs. Joe Miller, president, conducted a short business meeting. Mrs. Edward Andrews announced only 1,200 more General Mills coupons are needed to complete the stainless steel project.

Mrs. Arthur Hoag was named chairman of the nominating committee, assisted by Mrs. Andrews and Mrs. Ray Rutherford. Mrs. Clarence Edwards concluded the program with a devotional service on "Love Gift."

Mrs. Gene Kovar is program leader for the March 4 meeting, and Mrs. Charles Crawford will be in charge of the devotional service. Hostesses are Mrs. Marshall Johnson, Mrs. Arthur Herd and Mrs. Henry Shropshire.

Earn award

BRUCE LINCOLN and David Olson hold the Christian flag which they carried during the processional service marking Scout Sunday at the Filer United Methodist Church. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. William Olson and received the God and Country award.

Two Filer scouts earn God and Country award

By MARJORIE LIERMAN, Times-News Correspondent

FILER — Two Boy Scouts received their God and Country awards during the Sunday morning service of the United Methodist Church. To many people, these are the very highest awards in the scouting program.

The two are David Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Olson, and Bruce Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lincoln. The awards were presented by Rev. Elam Anderson, pastor, assisted by Scoutmasters Ronald Wyatt and Les Jones.

"The service opened with the singing of 'America', followed by the procession and posting of American and Christian flags by members of Scout troops 73 and 62. The pledge of allegiance was given by the entire congregation and Rev. Anderson presented the message on "Jesus and the Scout Laws."

Each of the two boys had been asked to write—a few words which could be included in the Sunday bulletin. In this day of rise of juvenile delinquency, drug abuse, copouts and hip-pies, it is encouraging and heart-warming to find many young people still dedicated to the purposes and aims of Scouting.

David Olson noted "A Scout is Reverent." He went on to explain that, "It means he's loyal to God. He is faithful in religious duties and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion. He respects God and asks him for help in time of need. He doesn't willfully break these rules of God. If he does, he asks for forgiveness."

"He also forgives others when they do wrong and forgets it. He pursues happiness all day and all week without forgetting God. He remembers God every day and not just on Sunday. He doesn't knock other people's religions because we believe in religious freedom. Sometimes we may not agree with them but their hearts are just as true, their faith just as sincere."

"God has a plan and we should all fit in harmony. All of America's great leaders believed in God and God helped them. He will help us too if we ask."

Bruce Lincoln spoke on "My Favorite Attribute," which he said was, "Blessed are the Merciful for they shall receive mercy." Many times we hear these words or some like them. Most of the time we think of being merciful in a great way—like the knight who spared his opponent in battle. But there is another kind of mercy—the kind of mercy you give when you spare a person from embarrassment, shame and sadness.

"There were some students who were working on a year book in their high school. To get some laughs they put a picture of a fellow student who was confined to a wheel-chair. Under it they put 'The Olympic record-holder of the 100-yard dash.' Well, they got a lot of laughs. Two days after the yearbook was out, a boy was found. The Olympic record holder had committed suicide.

"Now you know a second meaning of merciful," Lincoln said.

Youth meet scheduled at Jerome

WENDELL — All Presbyterian youth in the western part of the Kendall Presbytery will meet Saturday at the Jerome First Presbyterian Church at 10 a.m., according to Rev. John Steppert, Wendell pastor. He said those planning to attend should bring a snack lunch.

The youth council of the Kendall Presbytery has voted to divide the council into two identical regional councils, one in the eastern end of the region and the other in the western.

Rev. Steppert said delegates hope this change will add vitality to the council as well as alleviate some of the time and money being spent to travel to Pocatello for meetings.

2-day convention opens Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — Annual convention of the South Central Idaho Sunday School Association is scheduled in the Twin Falls Church of the Nazarene, 401 Sixth Ave. N., Wednesday and Thursday.

William Boyd, Twin Falls association president, said between 150 and 200 persons are expected to attend the non-denominational event which last year attracted persons from as far as Challis, Idaho Falls and Fairfield.

Principal speaker for the two-day conclave will be Rev. Mel W. Johnson, Minneapolis, Minn., outstanding radio personality and author, whose daily radio broadcast, "Tips for Teens," is now heard on a special network of 82 stations throughout North America as well as select overseas stations.

Boyd said Johnson's teen-slanted books and booklets number 25. He was selected as alumnus of the year in 1967 by the 38,000-member Moody Bible Institute, and he has spoken in churches and at youth rallies throughout the United States and Canada. He will address the opening session of the convention at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday on the topic, "Action in a Young World." Other topics he will discuss include "Is Everybody Doing It?", "Sound the Alarm Good—New—Ahead?" and "Whatever Happened to Good Ole Charlie and What's-er-Name?"

Others who will conduct workshops in Christian education, in addition to Johnson, are Rev. C. Eugene Cockrell, Marion, Ind.; Jay Beaumont, superintendent of Portland Christian schools, and Bruce Webb, Northwest Nazarene College, Nampa.

Their workshop sessions will cover the entire spectrum of church school education and administration with information for all age groups.

Auxiliary has meet at Filer

FILER — Mrs. Del Butterfield presented the opening devotional service of the Idaho unit of the Good Shepherd Home Auxiliary meeting in her home. She noted, "Our time is not our own but the Lord's and therefore we should make the best use of it, for the days are evil."

Mrs. Arthur Kaster, president, thanked the officers and committee members for their cooperation of the past year. She reported she and Mrs. Robert Adolph unit treasurer and member of the home governing board, Terra Bella, Calif., had visited at area meetings in Nampa and Rupert, and in Ontario, Ore., explaining the work of the auxiliary and the unit and showing a film about Good Shepherd Home, a home for mentally retarded children. New members for the Idaho unit were gained through their visits.

"Thank-you letters" were read from the home for Christmas gifts sent to the children and from the Anaheim Gift Shop, Calif., for articles sent for resale. Mrs. Marvin Mannie thanked the group for coupons and stamps sent her and noted the $3,500 had been realized from coupons the past year which will go to buy needed items for the home.

Last year the Burley LWML held an auction and Advent program with proceeds going to the Good Shepherd Home, and the Clover LWML sent the contents of their birthday bank and Christmas party to the home. The Peace LWML displayed and offered for sale items made by inmates of the home with proceeds sent there.

Mrs. Kaster announced there are 230 children now enrolled at Terra Bella with 265 on the waiting list. Plans are to begin building on the Northwest branch in Oregon this summer. There are already 30 on that waiting list.

BOYD PACKER

LDS meet slated at Malta

MALTA — Elder Boyd K. Packer, member of the Council of Twelve of the LDS Church, will speak at the Casita East Stake conference Feb. 13 and 14 in Malta.

An educator, he has been an Air Force pilot and a city commissioner. He holds a doctorate in educational administration from Brigham Young University and was formerly president of the New England mission.

At one time he was supervisor of church seminaries and institutes and also worked extensively in Indian education. He is on the administrative council of Brigham Young University.

The conference sessions are held at 10 a.m. Sunday. Joseph A. Gillett, DeLoe, stake president, said visitors are welcome.

Deanery officers listed

SHOSHONE — Names of officers for the South Central Deanery of the Idaho Council of Catholic Women are announced by Mrs. Louis Logosz, Shoshone, new president.

To serve with Mrs. Logosz from Shoshone will be Mrs. Wilson Churchman, second vice-president; Mrs. Joe Paganon, recording secretary; Mrs. Harold Williams, treasurer; Mrs. Patrick O'Maley, north Shoshone, auditor and Mrs. Leigh Kelley, historian.

Officers will be installed at the spring Deanery to be held March 31 at Buhl.

Reason for the officers being selected from Shoshone, Mrs. Logosz said, is that the full workshop will be held in Shoshone and it is a custom to select the majority of the officers from the town in which the Deanery will be held.

The South Central Deanery takes in a 12-town area, from Ketchum south to Rupert and Gooding on the west.

Easter center work outlined

FILER — The Women's Society of Christian Service toward Mrs. Merle Stoddard of the Twin Falls Easter Seal Center tell about the crippled children's program at the Thursday meeting of the group in the United Methodist Church. The Sarah Angle Circle was in charge of refreshments.

Jehovah's Witness meet set in Boise

TWIN FALLS — Jehovah's Witnesses of the Twin Falls congregation will meet with 15 other congregations from southwest Idaho and eastern Oregon, when they go to Boise for their semi-annual convention at the South Junior High School, Feb. 19-21.

In announcing the Bible training convention, Roy V. Shaw, presiding minister, told the congregation of various arrangements being made to care for the delegates needs. About 250 are expected to volunteer for the 18 departments to provide these services.

"Implanting of the Word" based on James 1:21 will be the theme of the gathering scheduled to begin at 6:45 p.m. Feb. 19.

William Young, district supervisor, will be in charge of the convention and serve as principal speaker. This will be Mr. Young's first visit to Idaho in his new assignment. He has represented Jehovah's Witnesses in the full time ministry for 24 years, the last nine years as circuit supervisor. He will be assisted by Douglas Rogers, Idaho circuit No. 3 supervisor.

Over 1,000 delegates are expected to attend according to Shaw and the department personnel and program will be announced soon he added. He also noted that all sessions are open to the public with no collections or admission charge.

WHO NEEDS FRIENDS??

You do! And the first step toward having friends, is that you show yourself friendly (Prov. 17:24). Many people today say they don't need friends, but most of those inwardly crave friendships. People let you down; friends stick with you. People don't care; friends prove that they do care. People love themselves; a friend loves at all times." (Prov. 17:17).

The Bible declares that "there is a friend that sticks closer than a brother." (Prov. 18:24). Jesus Christ is that Friend! He is the one who has promised, "I will never leave thee nor forsake thee." (Heb. 13:5).

How do you come to know this One as your friend? He becomes your friend when you accept Him as your personal Saviour. He died for you so that you might have eternal life. (1 John 5:11-13). The Bible says in John 15:13, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." This He willingly did for you and me. So when you acknowledge that as a sinner (Rom. 3:23) you need forgiveness, and you pray to Christ for that forgiveness (1 John 1:9). He then forgives you and becomes your eternal friend and Saviour.

We would love to introduce you to this Great Friend. This is our main purpose for existing as a church.

Homeless giant

Giant wooden plane ousted

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — The "Spruce Goose," the gigantic eight-engine wooden flying boat which Howard Hughes designed and piloted on its only flight in 1947, has been ousted.

The Long Beach Harbor Commission Wednesday refused to renew Hughes' lease on a 7.2-acre site where the plane has been kept in a guarded hangar for more than 23 years.

Port of Long Beach General Manager Thomas J. Thorley said the $28,000-a-year lease was being terminated when it expires Sept. 3 because the property can more profitably be developed as a marine terminal.

Hughes, who designed and built the craft at a cost of at least $24 million by his own estimate, piloted the huge plane

Nov. 3, 1947, when it flew at an altitude of about 70 feet for about one mile over Los Angeles harbor.

Whether the flight was successful is still being debated, but the plane was taken back to its quonset hut hangar for more studies and modifications and has not been seen by the public since.

The plane, 210-feet long and with a wing span of 320 feet, was badly damaged in 1953 when a dredging pipe broke near the storage site, flooding the hangar. Experts who examined the craft over Hughes' objections said it was damaged beyond repair.

Hughes denied the allegation and work continued. Officials of the Hughes Tool Co., which is the official leaseholder on the property, had no comment on the commission action.

If the action is not opposed, Hughes will have 180 days to remove the hangar, and the "Spruce Goose" from the property after the Sept. 3 deadline.

SAC air defense games set

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Air Force planes of the Strategic Air Command will participate with air defense forces of the North American Air Defense Command in a joint exercise during the evening of Feb. 16 and the early morning of Feb. 17, it was announced today.

The planes will fly over the northwestern and north central United States and southwestern and south central Canada.

SAC aircraft will overfly the Canadian provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario.

The planes, operating at high and low altitudes, will fly over cities and towns in Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

Two SR-71 reconnaissance planes will fly high altitude supersonic missions near cities and towns in Montana, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia, and Kansas. Supersonic missions flown in conjunction with the training exercise are planned no closer than seven nautical miles to the near edge of metropolitan areas.

The supersonic planes will fly over 60,000 feet altitude and their flights will be made during early morning hours to prevent interference with normal air traffic.

Some of the fighter interceptors used in the exercise may achieve supersonic speed, causing residents of the area to hear sonic booms.

Tories try Nock named Roll-Royce utilities commissioner rescue move

LONDON (UPI) — The government Thursday began pushing through Parliament a bill to nationalize parts of the bankrupt Rolls-Royce company. American and British labor unions sought government aid to prevent layoffs in both countries.

Jack Service, general secretary of the British Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Officials, said American union officials will fly here soon for talks on the Rolls-Royce collapse and its effects on aircraft plants in the United States.

"Thousands of jobs are at stake in both countries," Service said. "We want measures taken by the British and American governments."

The government hoped to get the Rolls-Royce nationalization bill through all stages in the commons by night, leaving it for approval by the House of Lords Tuesday.

The government said Monday it would take over only the defense, foreign aviation and marine engine sections of the company.

Nock named Lewiston attorney installed

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Senate confirmed by voice vote Tuesday appointment of Harry Nock to a six-year term on the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall, told the legislators Nock, a former state senator, had served on the commission during his tenure "with a great deal of ability."

Lewiston attorney installed

LEWISTON (UPI) — Michael C. Moore, 28, Lewiston, Wednesday became the city's new prosecuting attorney.

Moore replaces former city attorney William C. Stallman and four other attorneys who had been retained by the city.

The council, in announcing the move, said it felt the city needed a full time attorney rather than what time the other attorneys could spare from their practices.

Witness mum on kidnap

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Although granted total immunity from prosecution, a Roman Catholic priest and a divorced mother of three Thursday refused to answer questions posed by a federal grand jury investigating an alleged kidnapping-bomb plot.

The Rev. J. William Michelman of Baltimore, and Mrs. Patricia Chanel, 41, Silver Spring, Md., both risked contempt of court citations for refusing to respond to the grand jury's questions.

Michelman, who had refused to testify before the panel last month, said Thursday "priestly confidence was my base for the rejoinders." He had been asked seven questions by the grand jury in his one-hour appearance.

"The time was filled with the questions, and a dialogue about the seal of confidence and priestly trust," Michelman said. "It was an educational session for those unfamiliar with priestly confidentiality.

"I explained it and they seemed to comprehend. But it's hard to tell from faces."

Mrs. Chanel, who had refused to respond to the panel's questions Wednesday, said after Thursday's appearance: "I did not answer questions. Some of them I would not digly with an answer."

Other witnesses who had been offered immunity to testify before the grand jury answered the panel's questions.

Michelman was the first priest to refuse to answer although a Roman Catholic nun, Sister Joguev Egan of Tarrytown, N.Y., was cited for contempt last month and jailed for four days for refusing to respond.

She was ordered released from jail when her attorney filed an appeal with the U.S. Third Circuit Court in Philadelphia on grounds the immunity laws were unconstitutional. A ruling on the appeal is pending.

To date six persons have been indicted by the grand jury in an alleged conspiracy to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and bomb the heating systems of five government buildings in Washington. Seven persons, including Sister Joguev, have been named co-conspirators but have not been indicted.

Those indicted were the Rev. Phillip Berrigan, now serving time in a federal prison for burning draft records; two Roman Catholic priests, Neil R. McLaughlin and Joseph Wenderoth; Sister Elizabeth McAllister, a Catholic nun; former priest Anthony Scoblick, 67-

Southerner picked for Demo campaign panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats in the Senate have turned to a comer from the land of the Magnolia blossom and the soft draw to lead them to continued dominance over the GOP in 1972.

They elected Sen. Ernest "Fitz" Hollings of South Carolina as chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee.

It was, any window dressing notwithstanding, a hard-headed, political decision by the senators.

The fact is that more than half — seven out of 13 — of the Democratic Senators up for reelection in 1972 are Southern Democrats.

They are Sens. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana, James O. Eastland of Mississippi, B. Everett Jordan of North Carolina, John L. McClellan of Arkansas, David Gambrell of Georgia, John J. Sparkman of Alabama, and William B. Spong of Virginia.

Hollings speaks their language, knows their politics. No northerner or westerner could help them more. Certainly no eastern seaboard liberal. In addition, Hollings doesn't have to worry about the big industrial states where civil rights is a big issue and a Southerner could have a negative impact.

The other senators up for reelection are from states like Oklahoma, New Hampshire, Montana, Minnesota, Rhode Island, and West Virginia.

If the Senate Democrats have adopted a "Southern strategy," it makes, in this case, plenty of political sense.

It also makes a lot of sense for Hollings.

As chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee, Hollings will get more exposure to more party wheels in more states than he has before despite his long political career.

And Hollings is not a man without ambitions of his own. The speculation that the Democrats, after naming a liberal from the North or West for their presidential candidate, may turn South for a running-mate has not escaped Hollings. It's a long-shot but Hollings will be at the convention in 1972.

What would the Democrats get?

Hollings considers himself a "new breed" Southern Democrat, still tied in many ways to Southern politics but more moderate, more flexible, more responsive to human needs.

It can and is going down the line with other Southern senators in a lungful filibuster to prevent a weakening of the filibuster rule. In fact, he wants to make it even harder to break a filibuster.

Yet, at the same time, Hollings has become the Senate's number one (Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., would contest that) crusader against hunger and has written a book about the problem.

RR anti-strike extension backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Thursday he favored extension of the congressional ban against a railroad strike and thought it "not unlikely" that President Nixon would propose one.

The railroads are operating under an emergency law which expires March 1. The head of the largest rail union, the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, rejected a contract proposal on Tuesday and called a strike for March 1.

Scott said he favored at least a two-month extension of the emergency law passed in the waning hours of the last session of Congress.

Asked if such additional stop-gap measures were not an "evision" of responsibility, Scott replied that he thought it was "I would prefer passing the President's railway legislation," he said. "There should be some kind of national legislation worked out with agreement among the unions and management. The unions have been responsible and prefer to work rather than strike."

Sawtooth memorial rejected

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate defeated, 12-22, Thursday a joint memorial which would have urged congress to create a national park and recreation area complex in the Sawtooth Mountains and Valley.

The memorial was opposed chiefly by those who worked that a park would lock the area away from any multiple use and by others who felt the park would bring hordes of tourists and their attendant problems to the scenic mountain area.

A co-sponsor of the measure, Sen. Art Manley, D-Coeur d'Alene, lay in St. Luke's Hospital in Boise and was scheduled to undergo open heart surgery Friday. His wife, Margaret Manley, was sworn in to take his place shortly before debate began.

Earlier in the session, the upper chamber approved memorials calling for the recreation area and urging a five-year moratorium on mining claims in the Sawtooths.

The other co-sponsor of the measure, Sen. Bill Crookham, R-Caldwell, read a statement prepared by Manley urging approval of the joint memorial. The statement said Manley felt the combination national park-recreation area "offers the best hope — and admittedly it is the only hope — of preventing the destruction of the most beautiful scenic attractions in the state of Idaho."

But Sen. Joe Allen, R-American Falls, said the large masses of tourists expected would create "much worse pollution problems than we've ever dreamed of," and said "tourists on a 60-day basis during July and August is really poor economic condition."

If the area were opened up as a park, he said, "we really exclude the people of Idaho who want to go somewhere alone..."

He urged the senators not to "take our most scenic country and make a Coney Island out of it, if you please."

Another opponent, Sen. David Elvins, R-Payette, said Idaho could "not afford the luxury" of locking up more lands.

Sen. Fisher Ellsworth, R-Idaho Falls, said he lived close to Yellowstone National Park and during the summer season the cars were "bumper to bumper" throughout the area.

He said the Park Service could do nothing to prevent the "pollution and filth that's created in these national camping grounds to the tourists."

Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert — who backed both the recreation and mining moratorium measures — put before his colleagues a large map and carefully outlined the proposed borders of the parks.

He said the congressional delegation had proposed the park concept to "leave the options open."

But, he said, "the further you get away from the area the more your support grows, Magic Valley for the most part doesn't want it."

"The park is in my district—part of it, Peavey said. "I made it part of my campaign platform — I was opposed to a park, I'm standing here today."

Peavey said the election of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus had been hailed as a victory for those supporting the park concept, but said, "I think a far truer test will come today in this Senate."

Crookham said he felt both the recreation and recreation-park proposals "match beautifully. I see absolutely no conflict in these two resolutions."

Crookham told his colleagues, "We haven't got a park problem. We've got a people problem. I think we need a park someplace to spread these people out."

Crookham said he approved of the fact hunting would not be allowed in the area, adding, "I would like to take my family camping in the autumn of the year without worrying about getting my head blown off."

Castleford, Buhl area men cited

BY PAULINE DAY
Times-News Correspondent

BUHL — Four Buhl-Castleford area men were honored at the Community Service Award dinner sponsored by the Buhl Jaycees Thursday night at the R and D Cafe.

Two Castleford men, John Ensunsa and R. D. (Fritz) Bybee, won the junior and senior outstanding community awards.

Larry Haggitt was named outstanding young farmer. Marsh Bulner was chosen outstanding young educator. Both are from Buhl.

The junior service award winner, Ensunsa, is active in the Red Barrel Youth Center at Castleford, is program director of the Men's Club there and farms. He was honored by the Sigma Phi fraternity for service on the alumni committee on drug abuse.

Bybee, chairman of the Twin Falls County Waterways Commission, helped obtain lights for the Castleford High School football field, helped start the youth center and has been fire chief for many years. Haggitt farms 160 acres in the Buhl area, including row crops and a cattle operation. He is active in 4-H and the Grange.

State Sen. John M. Barker, Buhl, guest speaker, discussed current state legislation and explained a training program for prospective young "medics" now being initiated by the health, education and welfare committee of the legislature.

Young men who have had some medical training in the service currently are receiving a three months training in Washington and then will be sent into rural areas in Idaho to work under local doctors.

One of these men is expected to be sent to Buhl, Barker said.

Burley project pushed

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Correspondent

BURLEY — Construction has started on Ore-Ida Foods' secondary waste treatment plant. Lloyd Cox, manager of process engineering for the firm, said today.

The Nelsen-Miller Construction Co., Twin Falls, contractor, has moved equipment to the site and workers are taking advantage of the good weather to carry out the earthmoving phase of the project.

Cox, who works out of the firm's Ontario, Ore., office, said the round secondary clarifier site has been dug out to about 13 feet deep. It is 115 feet in diameter, and the concrete is being poured this week.

The clarifier system will handle 900,000 gallons of water. Cox said large equipment is preparing the holding pond, known as the aeration pond, in which nine large pumps will provide adequate oxygen, which feeds the bacteria which consumes the solids which in turn purifies the water.

The aeration pond will hold some five million gallons of water or water waste during a 24 hour operating period.

Daughter receives estate bulk

TWIN FALLS — The will of Mrs. Anna Laura Wilcox, 86, was read Tuesday in Magistrate Court, revealing much of the dead woman's estate was left to her daughter, Mrs. Helen Wilcox, 61.

Mrs. Helen Wilcox is charged with first degree murder in connection with the death of her mother on Jan. 2.

Mrs. Wilcox, whose estate was estimated at between $50,000 and $90,000 according to information read during the proving of the will, also made several philanthropic bequests.

The value of the real property owned by the murder victim is said to be $50,000 and securities, certificates of deposits, savings accounts and other personal property valued in excess of $10,000, but not more than $50,000.

Among beneficiaries listed are the Women's Society of Christian Service of Fairfield, Neb.; the Twin FallsYWCA; the Idaho Youth Ranch at Rupert; the Women's Division of Christian Service, Board of Missions, Methodist Church; Ruth Hawley of McConnells, S. C.; the Twin Falls W.S.C.S. and Mary Dougherty and Margaret Rude of Twin Falls.

All else was left her daughter. In the event the younger Mrs. Wilcox died before her mother, or both died at the same time, the philanthropic bequests were increased, with a substantial share, including the real property, reverting to the Twin Falls United Methodist Church.

The will, first drafted in 1964, was amended in 1965, changing the bequests in the event the younger Mrs. Wilcox died before her mother or they died at the same time.

Jerome agency elects

JEROME — Officers of the Jerome County Community Action Agency were re-elected Thursday night, with a new alternate added.

Mrs. Grover Hinton will be the alternate for the low income representatives who are Marlene Brown and Hazel Norris. Community representatives are R.J. Reichard and Mrs. Julia Sloan, with Ida Rasch as alternate.

Claude Bernard and "Ceo" Ambrose, Jerome County commissioners, also serve on the board. The four directors represent Jerome county on the Tri-County CAA board which will hold its re-organization meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Burley High School.

The Jerome group endorsed plans of the Jerome school board to hire a distributive education director who will work with students in on the job training.

One of the biggest problems among students who do not go to college, it was pointed out, is to get jobs when want ads say "experienced wanted." When it is difficult for students to get jobs they become apathetic and often end up on welfare, Reichard said.

He said both the county commissioners and agency directors agreed on the need for this training, which is expected to start next school year.

Reichard said all three of the county CAA boards are studying needs in their areas, and priorities will be set at the Burley meeting next Thursday.

Rates adopted

WENDELL — Wendell city councilmen Thursday night set irrigation rates for city property owners over the objection of one businessman who termed them "discriminatory."

Lawrence Adams, owner of the Wendell Implement Co., said he has to pay assessment for several lots in the business section which do not use irrigation water.

The rates, which were discussed at length at previous council meetings, are $5 per city lot and $8 per acre.

Councilmen Dale Bitterli and John Werts were appointed to investigate water pressure in the southwest and northwest parts of the city after two residents there, Roy Roast and Floyd Peterson, complained of no water pressure in their homes.

Bitterli also will investigate a request of Charles Miller to have a stop sign installed on the corner of Wallace Avenue and Third Street. The councilmen also will check other hazardous corners and suggest action at the next meeting.

Most Valley teachers sign new contracts

VALLEY H.S. — All contracts for teachers' staff in the Valley School District have been renewed, except for four teachers who will not return next year, Supt. Thomas Utterback said today.

They include Kathleen Marley, home economics teacher who is going to teach in the Salt Lake City district; Gwendolyn Schunten, math teacher; Marlon Furness, second grade teacher at Eden, and Robert Webster, high school counselor.

Supt. Utterback said Arlan Bodily, guidance counselor, has served as principal this year, but has asked to return to the guidance post. Dr. Utterback said he will serve as both superintendent and principal, with Bodily designated as assistant superintendent.

"We saved the district some money this way and it has worked satisfactorily in the past," he said.

Harry Kurtz, who has been parttime supervisor of the elementary schools at both Eden and Hazelton, will work full time in this post, Dr. Utterback said.

School trustees have authorized the superintendent to negotiate with state and federal government hot lunch agencies on a pilot project to provide free lunches for every youngster. This is in the planning stages, Dr. Utterback said.

The superintendent also was authorized to apply for two new ovens and a portable walk-in freezer for the school's present hot lunch program. The school now has a cooler, but no freezer. The federal government would provide 75 per cent of the cost of the appliances, Dr. Utterback said.

Burglar hungry?

TWIN FALLS — A burglar with a sweet tooth is a prime suspect in one of two break ins being investigated today by Twin Falls police.

Officers said a box car on a siding behind Utah Wholesale Co., 211 Fifth Ave. S., was forced open and several cases of cookies stolen. Value of the baked goods, including seven cases of sugar cookies, was listed as $19.87.

Also entered was the Big O Tire Co. warehouse on Addison Ave. W., where a front door lock was forced open. An inventory was being taken to determine the loss. Both burglaries occurred Thursday night or early today.

any qualifications or auditions for prospective members. Some groups advertise for members or employ other recruiting techniques. Throughout the country there is a membership of 33,000. Kenosha, Wis., is the international headquarters for the organization.

The number of these combined choruses will perform is "Barber Shop Medley," arranged by Ken Hopkins, a member of the National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D. C., who arranged the number especially for this orchestra.

There are three registered quartets within the Magchords and two in the Snake River Flats. As their numbers and techniques are perfected, each quartet performs for the other members of its own group before appearing in public.

Every chorus has an annual show, which finances the organization, and a district festival, which does not count in competition. Idaho is a member of the Evergreen District, which also includes Washington, Oregon, Canada (Calgary and the area west to Vancouver).

The last two years the Buhl Kiwanis Club has sponsored the Magchords for its annual project, and the past two summers they have appeared with the city band for an evening of entertainment.

Selections by the orchestra include: "Finlandia," by Jean Sibelius; "Love Duet" from the Opera "Merry Mount" by Howard Hanson; "Ballet Music from Casanova" by Deems Taylor; "West Side Story" by Leonard Bernstein; "Night Song" and "Hillbilly" from "Americana" by Morton Gould; and "Olliver" selections by Lionel Bart.

A guide used by drycleaners in settling claims gives these "life expectancies" on men's garments: Overcoats, four years; the same for winter suits, wool and wool-blend slacks and sports coats; sweaters, wool and wool-blend summer suits, suits, silk robes, three years; shirts and underwear, two years.

Among products typical of ones soon to come is a television set that can be turned off and on, tuned and adjusted by a wave of the hand. So say researchers at the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a man who has been promiscuous for 20 years can ever reform? My 22-year-old niece has just become engaged to a 37-year-old man who, by his own admission, has been with so many women, he lost count long ago. This isn't just talk because this is a small town and his reputation is well-known.

He now says he is tired of running around and wants to settle down with a nice girl and become a respectable family man. My niece is fully aware of his past, but is willing to accept his word that he will change. My question is, can he change even if he wants to?

He is a very successful professional man and could give her all the material advantages, but I wonder if it's worth the risk. My niece says she will give serious consideration to your opinion or that of any readers who may have had experience along this line.

DUBIOUS

DEAR DUBIOUS: If you're asking whether it's possible for a man who has been swinging for 20 years to "settle down," the answer is yes. Is it worth the risk? That's for your niece to decide. [There is always a "risk." He could be a poorer risk if he just came out of a monastery.] My opinion, and the experience of others, won't help your niece. Men are like snowflakes. Each one is different.

DEAR ABBY: Tell me if I am out of line. My mother in law thinks I am too "overprotective" of my 3-year-old child, who happens to be her only grandchild. Here is a typical visit:

When the grandparents come, the child is virtually attacked at the front door, smothered with kisses and tossed around like a sack of potatoes. I wouldn't mind if it were only a greeting, but the wild kissing and tossing continues until the child cries. Then Grandma reprimands him for crying.

If I rescue him occasionally I am accused of being overprotective, and "spilling her fun." Since when is it "fun" to leave a crying child?

The child gets along fine with his grandfather who approaches him slowly or waits for the boy to come to him. What's wrong with Grandma? Or am I out of line?

NO TOWN, PLEASE

DEAR NO TOWN: No, Grandma is. Someone should tell her to control her enthusiasm. Appeal to Grandpa since he shows better sense. If that fails, you tell Grandma as respectfully as you can.

DEAR ABBY: I am a psychotherapist who is presently working with a young woman who had precisely the same problem as was expressed by "Jessica's Mother."

My patient also had a boy friend who cried when she said she didn't want to marry him. He cried again when the girl's mother talked with him, and he told her he would kill himself if the girl didn't marry him.

The mother urged her daughter to marry him to "keep the peace," and so they were married. The five years they spent together were pure hell for the girl. Can you imagine being married to a crybaby for five years?

Of course, my patient blames her mother for talking her into the marriage, and she blames the young man for trapping her with such a pathetic performance. If there is any "blame" to be fixed, it's the girl's own fault.

Now that her divorce is final, she is being treated for stomach ulcers and an emotional breakdown. Some people have a hard time learning that they themselves must make the major decisions of their lives, and they shouldn't allow themselves to be talked into anything to "keep the peace" or to stop someone from crying. Respectfully yours,

A DOCTOR

Palmer among foursome tied for Classic lead

South was tempted to try the ♠ 11 and finesse. The game was match-point duplicate. East and West were playing preemptive jump overcalls and West had already shown up with a good six-card heart suit, but Mr. Lincoln could now count nine sure tricks and the contract looked like a very good one. He rose with the ace and cashed out.

"Nicely played, Mr. President," said Andrew Johnson who was dummy.

Thank you," replied Honest Abe. "In my youth I used to split rails, but I don't always split honors at this stage in life."

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of passing, East has bid two hearts over your partner's double of one heart. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

A great majority of the stories told about Abraham Lincoln give examples of his conversational ability.

We have just come across one that has so far been overlooked by historians. Perhaps the reason for this is that contract bridge was not invented until four score years after his death.

North was delighted to let the great emancipator play at three no-trump. His club suit might well produce six tricks and it is almost always better to try for a nine-trick, instead of an 11-trick game, when you don't hold a singleton.

West opened the jack of hearts and after slight study to analyze the lead and review the bidding, Mr. Lincoln let the jack hold.

West continued with the 10 and Abe was on lead. It was a simple matter to take the club finesse. It lost but since East was out of hearts the

Magistrate's court collects over $15,000

TWIN FALLS — First month's collections from the magistrate division of the district court in Twin Falls County exceeded $15,000, of which the Twin Falls County general fund received $4,709.37, County Auditor Harold Lancaster said today.

The court reform system took effect Jan. 11. It involves collection of all fees and fines through the auditor's office, with redistribution to proper taxing units. Lancaster said because the program is new it has been impossible to estimate revenue from this source but he had purposely set a low estimate of $10,000 magistrate court revenue to the county for the year.

If the first month can be considered typical, Lancaster said, it appears the county may realize about $50,000 in revenue during the year.

He said with the exception of the holiday period when there may be more drunk driving fines, revenue should hold steady throughout the year. Of the total collections, the auditor's office must channel fines and fees into state, city and county funds depending on state laws and ordinances involved in violation, location of arrest and arresting officers. Lancaster said while the accounting system is completed by necessity of the new law, it is working well in Twin Falls County. The court reform program, now covered in the budget of the district court and the clerk's office, along with work previously handled by these offices, shows the auditor's budget for 1971 is $95,750 compared to $63,765 last year and district court is up from $26,600 last year to $58,100 this year.

Last year probate court, now part of the reform system, budgeted $37,835 and justice court $28,150. Both of these budgets were eliminated this year. Lancaster said he believes over the next few years the system will save money for the taxpayers.

Combined budgets this year compared to last year show a slight reduction. In 1970 the district court, auditor's budgets plus probate and justice courts totaled $156,440.

For 1971, the proposed combined budgets of the auditor and district court total $153,850. Lancaster said it may be necessary before the year is over to add one more employee. Theron W. Ward, senior district court judge, has said another magistrate in Twin Falls County may be necessary in the future.

Anti-American feeling rising among Chinese

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

It could be, as the Taipei police department says, that a gas leak caused the explosion in the Taipei office of the Bank of America.

Less likely to be attributed to accident were the rocks that broke windows in the U.S. embassy's consular section on the second floor of a downtown commercial building.

As a close friend of World War II days and an exposed forward defense country on the perimeter of Asia, Nationalist China has become used to special treatment from the United States. In other lands, Yankees frequently were invited to go home. Not so on Nationalist China's island of Formosa. It comes as something of a shock, then, that times may be changing.

In Taipei, unenvious over the United States' future attitude toward Red China is accompanied by a rising anti-American sentiment.

Officials complain that the United States does not fill them in on how far it intends to go in making up to the Chinese Communists.

They mistrust what appears to be a growing advocacy among U.S. officials of a two-China policy.

And as evidence to support this growing mistrust they point to elimination of regular U.S.

Navy patrols in the Taiwan strait, the easing of the trade embargo against Red China and what they regard as a growing tendency in the United States to withdraw behind the ramparts of Fortran America.

In the years since World War II the Republic of China has received $2.7 billion in U.S. military aid, and in 1968 still received $117 million.

In fiscal 1969-70 the figure fell off to $25 million, most of it going to the expenses of the U.S. military advisory group.

Even so, the Nationalists have not been doing badly, either in the matter of continued U.S. military aid or in their island's economic growth.

Sales listed

STANLEY — The Stanley Ranger district sold 6.5 million board feet of saw timber during 1970, Dave Mathis, supervisory forester, reported today.

In addition, 3,500 lodge pole pine poles were sold and 18 permits for approximately 180 cords of fire wood were issued, Mathis said.

Woman chosen seminar aide

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Royal Slotten, president of the Twin Falls League of Women Voters, has been appointed to serve on a three-state committee to organize and conduct a Snake River Basin Seminar on land and water uses.

The seminar chairman, Mrs. Eugene Smith, Idaho Falls, former Water Resources Committee member of the League of Women Voters' National board, announced the appointment Thursday.

The committee, which met recently in Boise to plan the June 10-12 seminar, is composed of professional and lay leaders in land and water uses throughout Idaho, eastern Oregon and eastern Washington and members of Leagues of Women Voters in these states. Mrs. Slotten will serve as the seminar's public relations chairman.

"With the tremendously increased public interest in environmental issues which stem from land and water usage, there is now more than ever before, a need for informed and responsible leadership in attacking the interrelated problems of all river basins, including the Snake," Mrs. Smith said.

"The seminar's purpose is to bridge the gap of understanding between the experts in pollution, ecology and resource management and the citizens who are ultimately responsible for making choices and seeing that plans are carried out. The seminar has two special goals:

providing comprehensive information about the basin's many and often conflicting uses of its land and water, and training citizen leaders to take effective roles in the decision-making process concerning these uses and the alternatives to them. The seminar itself, however, will not support or oppose specific legislation," Mrs. Smith said.

The seminar is sponsored by the national League of Women Voters Education Fund under a grant from the water quality office of the Environmental Protection Agency and will be the 16th river basin seminar conducted by the league.

Some 50 participants, representing a broad cross section of civic and rural leadership in the three-state area, will be invited to attend the all-expense paid seminar. Each participant will agree to assume responsibility for continuing the educational aspects of the seminar in his own area.

Other committee members include: Wendell Smith, Idaho Power Co. ecologist, Boise; Jon Soderblum, office of pollution control, Idaho Department of Health, Boise; Livon Petersen, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, Boise; Mrs. Donald Oboe, Idaho League Environmental Quality chairman, Mrs. H. Tom Davis, Boise league environmental quality chairman, and Mrs. Sam Day, Jr., Boise league member, all of Boise.
