REP. ORVAL HANSEN, Idaho's "Second" District Congressman, spoke to students at Twin Falls High School during a one-day visit to Twin Falls on Tuesday. High School principal John Lawrence had to interrupt Hansen's talk midway to ask a large number of unruly students to pay attention, but other students showed a lively interest, asking many questions of Rep. Hansen.

Annexation protested

TWIN FALLS — First reading of an ordinance to annex lands south of Twin Falls along State Highway 74 drew protests from about 60 property owners at a special city council meeting Tuesday night.

The property owners objected to being brought into the city because of increased taxes and services they said most do not need or want. Many said they now have city water and their own sewage disposal systems which are functioning well and they feel it would be several years before they could hook on to city sewers and the cost would be extensive.

Mayor Frank Feldman and Councilman John Christoffersen said most are now using city water but are paying double the rates they will pay as residents of the city. With this water rate reduction and lower fire insurance rates on their property, Councilman Christoffersen explained, most will pay as little as $2 per month to be part of the city and to have benefits and services such as street lights, police and fire protection.

Proposed effective date of the annexation is Dec. 31, 1971, to put the property on the tax rolls for the following year.

Asked when such services as water and sewer would be available to residents of the new area, property owners were advised water lines are already in the areas as is the main trunk sewer line. As soon as property owners construct their own sewer laterals they can make connections and as soon as they wish to connect to the water lines they can do so.

They were also advised animal regulations would require complying with the dog leash law and told they could keep a number of horses or cows on their property if they meet sanitation and health standards. One man who said he had an acre of land and wished to keep 10 horses in connection with his work in breaking and training was told he might have problems complying.

The ordinance will be on second and third readings at following city council meetings before a vote is taken and residents may continue their discussion, Mayor Feldman said.

He advised property owners their protests and the petition from property owners opposing annexation will be taken into consideration by the council before a final decision is made.

Another resident, Robert Willis, appeared before the council to ask for annexation of property he hopes to develop on a 10 acre site on Falls Avenue East at Locust Street. He said he needed city services and facilities to qualify for financing and other development plans. He plans multiple dwelling units along Falls Avenue, Willis said, with single family units on interior streets.

In other action the city set March 15 as the date for a public hearing on application of Daniel Brehm and Robert Brehm for rezoning of their property in the Cathedral Heights Subdivision in the northeast part of town. The request is to change from low density to medium density residential zoning. A planning and zoning commission hearing is scheduled on the request for March 3.

Council members approved a plan for furnishing city water to Robert Willis for his mobile home subdivision south of the city. Cost to the city to furnish the water under pressure at a specific source where it will be picked-up by the developer is $11,800. That sum will be recovered through water rates in about five years, council members said. It was suggested the developer install six inch plastic pipe in order to install fire hydrants at a later time.

CSI nursing class start set June 1

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho's long-awaited two-year nursing course, leading to an associate of arts degree, will begin June 1 with a class of 40.

Mrs. Judith Roberts, director of nursing, said the college has received authorization from the Idaho State Board of Nursing to initiate the course on a "provisional accreditation" basis for the first two years.

After graduation of the first class of nurses in 1973, the college will report to the state board of nursing for final evaluation and full accreditation.

Golfing season opens

TWIN FALLS — Golfing season is officially open in Twin Falls, Howard Johnson, city parks and recreation superintendent said today.

The course was opened to the public over the weekend and from now through the summer and fall months, it will be open daily except Mondays.

Johnson said the course was busy both Saturday and Sunday with a smaller crowd Monday because of the weather. All 18 holes are open and other facilities are operating, but golfers are not permitted on the greens early in the morning until the frost has melted, Johnson said.

Fees this year are the same as last year, he said, and a recent survey shows they are well below those charged in other Intermountain communities.

Lincoln Day fete planned

TWIN FALLS — Appointment of a committee to arrange a Lincoln Day dinner on Feb. 27 was announced today by Douglas Kramer, chairman of the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee.

W. L. Chancey, chairman of the board of county commissioners, will serve as chairman of the committee. Other members are Dave Munroe, Buhl, Don Zuck and Harold Cook, both Twin Falls.

The speaker and other details will be announced later, Kramer said.

Rate hike hearing set

BOISE — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission will meet 8 a.m. Wednesday, March 3 in the Industrial Administration Building in Boise.

Application of Wycoff Co. and City Delivery Service to increase their rates and charges of all Idaho shipments will be considered. Changes in rules and classifications in tariff publications of the Idaho Motor Tariff Bureau, Inc., and Pacific Inland Tariff Bureau, Inc. will be discussed.

Idaho Grew In 1970

The nation as a whole in 1970 experienced a recession caused by inflation and higher interest. However, despite the business slowdown nationally and in neighboring states, commercial activity in Idaho continued to grow.

Figures show that Idaho reached the highest employment level on record in the third quarter of 1970 with an average 313,500 workers. Estimates reveal that the year's average is approximately 302,000, indicating an increase of some 3.2 per cent over the 1969 average of 292,000.

A cataract operation (actually, the removal of the lens of the eye if it has become too cloudy to see through) doesn't involve extensive cutting. But it also is in a delicate part of the body, it needs time to heal firmly.

Indeed, surgery in many other parts of the body often needs less caution afterward, because a firm row of stitches holds the cut tissues in place. (That's hardly practical for cataract surgery.)

Headaches? You can beat them. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for a copy of the booklet, "How To Tame Headaches." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Suez opening hopes revived

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

After nearly four years of stalemate there does seem some hope that a formula may be found to reopen the Suez canal, freeing the trapped ships rusting there and saving the world's shipping nation hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

That in itself would be a step of vast importance but of even greater importance is the suggestion that this could lead to step-by-step solution of other problems and finally to a firm Mideastern peace.

Egyptian President Anwar al-Sadat seemed to open the door a crack when, in agreeing to an extension of the Mideast ceasefire to March 7, he said Egypt might agree to reopen the canal even if the Israelis did not withdraw from all occupied territory as previously demanded. It seemed to mark an important switch in the Egyptian position.

Early in the winter, Israel was described as ready to propose a limited withdrawal from Suez banks up to 20 or more miles, establishing a new buffer zone which would permit Egypt to resettle canal cities and reopen the waterway for general use. It never reached the formal stage.

Until now the official Egyptian position has been that by accepting the United Nations Security Council resolution of November, 1967, the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser agreed that Israel would have the use of the canal as part of an overall peace package.

On their side, the Israelis have declared that any vague Egyptian promise for the future is not good enough. They point out that for 21 years, despite U.N. resolutions and international appeals, the Egyptians prevented Israeli ships from passing through the canal.

Furthermore, the Israelis say, once Soviet warships are able to enter the canal, Israel will have forfeited its strongest card for securing its navigational rights through the canal.

It may be assumed that the military advantage accruing to the Russians from free passage from the Mediterranean to the Indian ocean also has not been lost upon the United States.

Nonetheless, the Soviets have demonstrated they can operate in the Indian ocean without benefit of the canal, and the economic pressures are great.

For Egypt, closing of the canal meant the loss of more than $200 million per year in canal tolls, a loss made up by subsidies from three oil-producing Arab states, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya.

Worldwide increases in fuel oil costs come to $1 billion per year, most of it falling on Britain, France, West Germany and Italy.

Oilmen believe that if the canal were open and the tolls not too high, they could meet west European oil demands which by 1975 are expected to double.

Washington already has had a chance to study a plan not only for reopening the canal but improving it as well, to the point where it could accommodate ships of up to 250,000 tons.

The improvements, it is estimated, would take up to five years and cost as much as $800 million, with participation by world governments and such other institutions as the World Bank. For immediate purposes it is believed the canal could be opened to tankers of under 87,000 tons within a matter of a few months.

House approves road measure

BOISE (UPI)—Acting under suspension of rules, the House Approved, 81-1, Tuesday a bill to speed up the naming of new highway district commissioners in Kootenai County.

The last legislature passed legislation enabling the public to consolidate highway districts which have become too prolific in an area. But in doing so they made ambiguous the language providing for appointment of commissioners for new or consolidated districts.

This bill would outline procedures for county commissioners to certify names to the governor for appointment.

Rep. Robert Haakenson, D-

Coeur d'Alene noted that eight highway districts and a county district in Kootenai County were consolidated into four districts under legislation passed at the last session.

But he said so few new commissioners have been named.

"We have roads breaking up and the old district commissioners don't feel they can allocate equipment or allocate funds," Haakenson told the House.

The bill goes now to the Senate.

—Rep. Lester Hartvigsen, D-Madison, cast the only dissenting vote on the bill. He did not say why.

Grand jury indicts barber union leader

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal grand jury Tuesday indicted the president of the International Barbers Union and two others on kickback charges in connection with loans from the union's pension fund.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell announced the indictment was returned in U.S. District Court in Chicago against Joseph DePaola of Indianapolis, president of the International Journeymen Barbers, Hair Dressers and Cosmetologists Union, and chairman of its pension fund.

Also indicted were Thomas A. Shaheen Jr., 38, an investment consultant to the union who formerly lived in Chevy Chase, Md., and now resides in London, England, and Max Block Jr., described simply as a New York attorney.

The Columbia Financial Corp. of Chevy Chase, which is owned and controlled by Shaheen and Block, also was indicted.

Named as a co-conspirator but not indicted was the Winthrop Lawrence Corp. of Chevy Chase. Fifty per cent of the corporation is owned by the Columbia Financial and the other half is owned by Lamont Dupont Copeland Jr., heir to the E. I. Dupont Nemours family fortune.

Block was listed as an officer in both the Winthrop Lawrence Corp. and Columbia Financial.

Both Winthrop Lawrence, a holding company established in the 1960s, and Copeland have filed in bankruptcy courts for re-organization.

According to the indictment, Shaheen, Block, DePaola and Columbia Financial conspired with Winthrop Lawrence to get fees, kickbacks, commissions and other things of value from Millerton-Lake Development Corp., a California company, to give to Shaheen in order to influence his decisions regarding the pension fund.

In a second count, Shaheen, Block and Columbia Financial were charged with conspiring to pay fees and commissions to DePaola, chairman of the barbers union pension fund, in order to influence his decisions about the fund.

DePaola was accused in 14 counts with soliciting and receiving a total of $29,000 in fees, kickbacks and commissions from Shaheen, Block and Columbia Financial in order to influence his decisions.

In 14 other counts, Shaheen, Block and Columbia Financial were charged with giving $29,000 to DePaola to influence his decisions.

In addition, Shaheen was accused of soliciting and receiving commissions and fees from Millerton-Lake in the amount of $112,597, negotiable notes with a face value of $25,000, 100 acres of land, and two consultant agreements which would pay him $4,000 per month for 36 months.

DePaola was charged with 13 counts of soliciting and receiving a kickback, Shaheen and Block were charged with 13 counts each of giving a kickback, Shaheen was charged with five counts of soliciting and receiving kickbacks, while Shaheen and Block were charged with two conspiracy counts and DePaola with one.

Maximum penalty for conviction of conspiracy is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine while the maximum penalty for soliciting and receiving kickbacks is three years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

DDT endorsed

GENEVA (UPI)—The World Health Organization (WHO) said Tuesday it would be "dangerous and unjustifiable" to stop using DDT indoors to fight malaria. The outdoors use of the pesticide, however, should be avoided as much as possible, WHO said.

The organization said DDT has preserved more than one billion people in various parts of the world from malaria for more than 25 years, although it has contaminated fish, birds and other wildlife.

'Numbers game' players score

BOISE (UPI)—Motorists who like to play the "numbers game" got a break from the House of Representatives Tuesday.

By a vote of 42-26 the House sent back to the Transportation and Defense Committee a measure which would repeal the preferential license plate law.

Under that law, by payment of a 50-cent fee, a motorist can require the county assessor to reserve a specific license plate number for him.

Rep. John Sessions, R-Driggs, chairman of the Transportation and Defense Committee, moved to put the bill back into his committee after a 25-minute floor debate brought out indications many members would prefer to keep the law but raise the fee to $1.

Floor sponsor Larry Jackson,

R-Boise, told the House the present law works a hardship on counties with large populations, such as Ada County. He said Ada has some 80,000 license plates issued to motorists and receives some 2,000 requests for reservations.

This, he said, causes considerable delay in issuance of license plates and added it costs the assessor a lot more than the 50-cent fee he gets in order to reserve the plates.

Rep. Wayne Tibbetts, D-Lorenzo, led off opposition to the bill, noting his own wife has had plate number 18 in her county for 20 years and he would face problems at home if the bill were passed.

He also said he felt motorists would be willing to pay more for the plate reservation if the costs are that troublesome.

Rep. Steve Antone, R-Idupert, opposed the bill on grounds that persons with more than one car might want to buy all their plates at one time and therefore — under the new, staggered system of issuing license plates — would have to have them end in the same number.

But Rep. Walter Carr, D-Emmett, called the bill "a real good piece of legislation" for the larger counties.

Rep. Edward Rice, R-Boise, took note that Americans today are living in a world of numbers, including those on credit cards. He said eventually it might be helpful to have automobile license plate numbers on credit cards and the present law would assist in this regard.

Examiners ask review of payment

BOISE (UPI)—The Board of Examiners agreed Tuesday to draft a letter asking the legislature to review the current $7.50 per diem allowance for state employees travelling outside the state on approved business.

The action came after board members, Attorney General Tony Park and Sec. of State Pete Cenarussa, raised points that the allowance is unrealistic, especially when state employees are sent to East Coast cities.

Park suggested that actual out-of-pocket expenses be approved, noting that on a recent trip to Washington, D.C. it cost nearly $7.50 to purchase one meal.

In other action involving travel expenses, the board stuck to its guns on an earlier ruling that requires department heads to get prior approval from the board before picking up travel expenses of non-residents interviewing for jobs in state government — including with the state's institutions of higher education.

In reaffirming the earlier decision, it was noted that in some departments, especially health and higher education institutions, quality in-state personnel cannot be found necessitating seeking applications from other states.

Education aide named

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Cecil Andrus announced Tuesday that Don Watkins, public information coordinator for the Department of Education, has been named education liaison advisor to the governor's office.

Andrus said the position is non-salaried and will deal primarily with public school education matters.

Andrus said Watkins will remain at his current position while serving in his new assignment.

Governor backs Alaska pipeline

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Alaska Gov. William A. Egan said Monday the prosperity of his state and its people hinged on approval of the controversial trans-Alaskan oil pipeline.

Alaskan Eskimo and Indian representatives, however, joined conservationists in opposing the $1 billion pipeline. It would carry oil 800 miles south from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez for shipment by tanker to the U.S. West Coast.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton, hosting a public hearing on the project's environmental hazards, promised to weigh the value of Alaska's Arctic wilderness as heavily as the potential riches of petroleum development before ruling on the issue. He promised "stringent safeguards" but added: "I cannot endorse the philosophy that we must impose a moratorium on resource development forever in the Arctic."

Egan said oil revenue was the state's sole hope of providing services and opportunities for its people. He said the $900 million Alaska got from oil lease sales in 1969 would be gone by mid-1976.

"We must have royalty oil flowing before that time or face bankruptcy," Egan testified. "Many of the Eskimo, Indian and Aleut people of Alaska live on a level of poverty below that of any of our other Americans."

"... We cannot lock up all the vast natural resources of the state of Alaska in every corner of the land, ignoring the cry of poverty, of human want, of human ignorance and disease which it is in our power to cure."

But Richard Frank, second chief of Minto, an Indian village 20 miles from the pipeline site, and Charles Edwardson Jr., executive director of the Arctic Slope Native Association which represents 5,000 Alaskan Eskimos, argued that the pipeline could ruin the trapping, hunting and fishing which supports their people.

"The Eskimo is the forgotten man," Edwardson said. "... Why is it that western civilization worries about things and does not worry about people?"

Edwardson said the pipeline must be built Eskimos should share in the profits and be paid $15 for every gallon of oil spilled.

Frank said Minto's 160 residents feared the oil men would damage Indian lands and streams like prospectors did in the Arctic gold rush of decades past.

Reps. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., and Les Aspin, D-Wis., testified that the Interior Department's safeguards against rupture of the pipeline and other hazards were insufficient.

Committee keeps road use bill

Wednesday, February 17, 1971 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 7

BOISE (UPI)—Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, served notice Tuesday he would call a bill out of the Transportation Committee Wednesday, but later reconsidered after he was assured the committee was studying the proposal.

Kidwell referred to Senate Bill 1062, a measure he and Sen. James Stocheff, D-Sandpoint, sponsored, which would revise the highway user distribution formula to give cities a larger share.

Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, chairman of the Transportation Committee said SB 1062 and two similar measures had been discussed in the committee earlier in the day, but said since so many persons appeared to testify the committee had not had a chance to discuss the proposals.

"I think it is the prerogative of the chairman to set the agenda and I certainly think we should have the time and the opportunity to look at the bill," he told Kidwell.

Kidwell said he understood the committee was no longer studying the measure and said he "simply felt it was essential some attention be given to this problem."

The three bills discussed by the committee included one which would take one cent of the gasoline tax and give 99 per cent of the return to cities and one per cent to a Waterways Improvement Fund.

Another bill would distribute the county funds under a formula which would give city streets a heavier weighting.

The third measure would change from 50 per cent to 100 per cent the portion of the highway tax levies applied to districts for construction and maintenance of roads and bridges.

Earl E. Reed, Nampa, attorney for the Idaho Association of Highways and Good Road Districts, objected to the change in the portion of highway tax levies, adding, "At no time have the city proponents suggested that the county road system has too much revenue, but merely that the plight of the cities begs relief."

"No city can remain an island in itself," he said. "It is served and grows with the county secondary road system. Being a part of the county, it has a burden to support such a system."

Reed said the bill sponsored by Kidwell and Stocheff "arbitrarily assessing to city streets twice or double the value of rural roads."

He said proponents constantly reminded everyone of the plight of Boise and of Ada counties, but said legislation "should not penalize the rest of the state for the benefit of the capital city."

Ellis Mathes, state highway engineer, said the Board of Highway Directors objected to the change in the one cent gasoline tax since it would remove the money from federal matching funds.

Ralph Olmstead, chairman of the Twin Falls Highway District, said he felt proposals would be "very damaging" to the program of the Twin Falls highway district.

Fund talks still closed

BOISE (UPI)—The Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee continued to meet behind closed doors Tuesday pending further interpretation of a decision which outlawed its executive sessions.

The committee removed the press from its meeting Monday despite a Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee ruling that the Idaho Code provided any standing committee of the Senate or House which considers appropriations measures must consider the budget in open sessions.

The Judiciary and Rules committee made its decision on the basis of a Senate rule which holds constitutional provisions superior if there is any conflict with a Senate rule.

However, Tuesday, Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and thus a co-chairman of the joint committee, asked Senate President Jack Murphy whether the Senate committee had the right to waive a constitutional requirement for a House committee.

High referred to Article 3, Section 9 of the Constitution, which gives each house of the legislature the power to make its own rules which are not subject to court interpretation.

High noted the Finance-Appropriations committee appears to be the only committee prohibited from holding executive sessions, inquired whether it is "equitable and proper" to establish differing rules of procedure for differing senate committees.

Murphy agreed the Finance and Appropriations Committee are the only ones named in the statute and agreed the Senate had no power to write rules relative to the House.

However, he said, under Mason's Manual — the rules of procedure used in the legislature — Senate rules prevail under the absence of a joint rule and said he would temporarily uphold the decision of the Judiciary and Rules committee.

Murphy said he would refer High's questions to the Judiciary and Rules committee for further interpretation.

Cable TV witnesses swap words

BOISE (UPI) — A series of witnesses from the broadcasting industry told the House Business-Committee Tuesday passage of House Bill 18 would give the Public Utilities Commission authority to regulate cable television.

A series of Community Antenna Television (CATV) witnesses appeared in opposition to the bill. Each side charged the other was motivated primarily by self-serving interests.

The broadcasters, James A. Jontz, Jr., assistant general manager of KBOI Television; and Mrs. Georgia Davidson, president of KTVB Television, both of Boise, told the committee the Federal Communications Commission does not regulate cable television completely, and local cities cannot do it effectively because they do not have the money or expertise. They contended state regulation is necessary to insure good quality broadcast standards and an adequate financial base and proper rate-of-return for CATV companies.

Murphy agreed the Finance and Appropriations Committee are the only ones named in the statute and agreed the Senate had no power to write rules relative to the House.

However, he said, under Mason's Manual — the rules of procedure used in the legislature — Senate rules prevail under the absence of a joint rule and said he would temporarily uphold the decision of the Judiciary and Rules committee.

Murphy said he would refer High's questions to the Judiciary and Rules committee for further interpretation.

Kindergarten bill offered to Senate

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation was introduced in the Senate Friday which would provide for establishment of public kindergartens and give school district boards of trustees authority to levy a tax for the pre-school program.

The measure, which came from the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee, would allow the boards of trustees to levy a tax not to exceed three mills upon each dollar of taxable property in the district in addition to any other levies authorized by law for the cost of educating the children.

However, the program may be discontinued if there is insufficient property in the district to provide for the costs of the kindergartens.

The measure provided a means for petition and election for the kindergartens and similar means for petition and election to discontinue of the program.

Appointment bill defeated

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate killed, 13-22, Tuesday legislation which would have required the governor fill a vacancy in an elective office from the same party to which the former office holder belonged.

The bill would have covered vacancies in the state legislature, in state elective offices and for the U. S. Senate offices. Opponents to the measure objected to inclusion of the Senate seats.

Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, the bill's floor sponsor, urged approval on grounds the "wishes of the people in selecting someone from the same party should be adhered to."

Kidwell said Gov. Cecil Andrus made the recommendation in his State of the State message, but admitted Andrus' proposal extended only to legislative vacancies.

The original bill included U.S. congressmen, but was later amended to delete congressmen and insert U. S. senators.

Rep. Darrel Manning, D-Pocatello, told the Senate "there is no doubt in my mind this bill does not do what the governor asked to do."

Manning said the Constitution outlines procedure for temporary appointments, and said the legislature is allowed to set statutory requirements for elections to fill the posts.

Sen. Ray Rigby, D-Roxburg, said under the 17th Amendment to the Constitution, the legislature may empower the executive to make a temporary appointment until the people fill the vacancy by election as the legislature may require.

"When it comes to state policy and a governor has been elected, I believe he has the prerogative to fill an office until a special election," he said.

Sen. Bill Crookham, R-Caldwell, said he opposed the measure and said it was a "serious invasion of the separation of power concept" which "forges an unnecessary link between two of the three branches of government."

Kidwell conceded the issue was not clear from a legal standpoint, but said "If the people of Idaho speak on the party level... I submit we would be keeping faith with the people if we fill the office with people of the same political persuasions."

Fines pass half million

BOISE (UPI) — More than one-half million dollars was levied by the courts in 1970 as a result of the 47,192 arrests made by the Idaho State Police, it was reported in the agency's annual report.

The fines, amounting to $681,395, are distributed to the highway users fund, counties and cities, including county general school funds, depending on the type of violation and where it occurred.

According to the report, about half of the citations issued by state troopers in 1970 were for moving traffic violations, 22,887 out of 47,192. Moving traffic arrests last year ran 1,148 ahead of 1969.

Comedian's son dies

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—W. C. Fields Jr., a corporate attorney and the only son of the late comedian, died Tuesday at the age of 66 following a long illness.

Fields, who physically resembled his famous father, was a guest on several television talk shows where he did impressions of the comedian and recalled anecdotes. The senior Fields died Christmas Day, 1946.

Fields Jr. died at St. John's Hospital where he was admitted Feb. 2. He is survived by his widow, Anne and five children.

Calley termed stress victim

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. William L. Calley Jr., his defense contends, was so overcome with the stress of the moment of My Lai that he was like a man who stands transfixed at the sight of a speeding car bearing down on him, unable to move to safety.

The defense called two psychiatrists today to state — out of the presence of the jury — that their expert opinion was that Calley suffered diminished mental responsibility so great that he did not have the capacity:

—To premeditate murder.

—To kill persons without justification or excuse.

—To determine the legality or illegality of orders given by his company commander, Capt. Ernest L. Medina, who allegedly told his men to wipe out everything in the Vietnamese hamlet.

—To form the specific intent to kill someone.

The purpose of the hearing was to get the answers of the two doctors to hypothetical questions posed as to the four foregoing points so the judge could rule on government objections to their testimony before the six-officer jury.

Calley, 27, is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 civilians when he led an American infantry platoon on a search-and-destroy sweep of My Lai on March 16, 1968. George W. Latimer, chief defense attorney at Calley's court-martial, Tuesday told Judge Reid W. Kennedy that "the combat stresses and strains and fears and all the emotion impaired Calley's mental processes."

Many witnesses have testified Calley's men encountered no combat that day, and the prosecution charges he shot civilians "down dead in cold blood."

Latimer explained the defense contention of mental impairment to Calley under stress like this: "I'm faced with an accident. I'm so fearful I can't move. I have the capacity to know a car is coming, but I don't have the mental processes or abilities to get out of the way."

Latimer said Calley did not have the mental capacity during the four-hour My Lai sweep "to make a determination of any legal question."

Tight security set

ANKARA (UPI)—U.S. authorities today imposed strict security measures on 14,000 U.S. servicemen and their families in Turkey in an effort to head off further anti-American violence.

The action followed Monday's incident in which an air force enlisted man was abducted at gunpoint, held for almost 17 hours and then released. Officials said it was the first kidnapping of an American in Turkey.

In Istanbul, the scene of anti-American riots and attacks during the past several weeks, the U.S. consulate ordered servicemen to observe a midnight curfew, stay out of nightspots, keep their cars off the streets and avoid areas threatened by Turks.

Both Turkish and American officials said these were the strictest security orders they could remember being placed on Americans in Turkey.

Although Turkey is a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, there has been growing anti-Americanism among leftwing groups in the country.

The most dramatic gesture was Monday's kidnapping of Air Force Airman 1st Class James Ray Finley, 26, of Fort Worth, Tex., who had arrived three months earlier to take up duties as a special law enforcement agent at the Balgat compound, about 10 miles west of Ankara.

Finley said seven Turks took him from the compound at gunpoint, blindfolded him and finally released him. They gave him about a dollar in change so he could take a taxi back to the American compound.

"They gave me bread, cheese, olives and tea for lunch," he told Turkish police. He said he was treated well but told authorities he could not identify any of the kidnap gang.

Rupert woman's project outgrows home location

By JUNE DRAGE
Times-News Correspondent

RUPERT — A people-to-people project of a Rupert woman has outgrown its location in the basement of her home, and additional help is needed.

Hazel Dean Hunter, an insurance agent, has collected and dispensed clothing, bedding, cooking utensils, food and furniture to an average of 10 families over the past 15 years; but the volume has grown to where she can no longer house the articles.

The people she has helped mostly are not on welfare, but are having temporary financial problems, and their children have grown faster than their budgets, Mrs. Hunter said.

She has worked closely with many church groups in the community as well as the Department of Public Assistance.

Man joins NOW

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Michael Adler, 27, and a bachelor, sees nothing unusual in his status as the only male member of the local chapter of the National Organization for Women (NOW).

"The name, National Organization for Women, is a misnomer," said Adler. "If it were National Organization for Equality, I think more people would accept it."

Adler said he decided to take an active role in NOW with the belief that the liberation of women would lead to the liberation of men.

"The day of the boring wife is over," he explained. "If husbands and wives would each have their own circles of interest, then they would involve each other."

"There would be less restrictive divorce laws as a result because women wouldn't be so helpless. If a woman has a career, a man wouldn't be burdened with helping her."

"In the long run, the young women will have to take more aggressive roles because they have less to lose," he said. "They are the ones who will benefit by it."

Adler said he visited the first meeting of NOW here "basically as a disinterested party."

"There were two other men there and we automatically sat together," he said. "We were on one side of the room, the women on the other. I guess you could call it unconscious discrimination because we felt uncomfortable. Then I realized we were there for the same thing."

"Men, too, have to be willing to put their heads on the chopping block. Men are afraid of ridicule from other men if they work for women's liberation because women's lib supposedly takes power away from men."

"I don't see women taking over the world. I just see more of sharing equally."

Adler maintains that women should be allowed total freedom of expression.

"It's a shame that a woman has to spend her whole life and never have the opportunity to express herself," he said.

Minicomputer creates mirages

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—A minicomputer that creates and controls "electronic mirages" is taking the place of actual test-firing of missiles on a proving ground to determine if guidance-and-control mechanisms are working accurately.

The computer is the Varian 622-1 and it is being operated in the unique terminal guidance simulation laboratory at the Boeing Space Center.

The mirages actually are signals emanating from one end of an anechoic chamber which represents the returning microwave radar target reflections to the missile's guidance sensor.

Because radar-directed missiles must continuously and precisely locate targets, a sensing system that can handle a large number of variables is required.

To accomplish this, Boeing built an intricately instrumented simulation laboratory in which the minicomputer controls all the dynamic conditions which must come into play in the static testing of a missile sensor system.

The alternative, according to Jerrel Bland, Boeing guidance specialist, is to duplicate actual missile firing and radar sensing conditions at a proving ground and that would "prohibitively expensive during early stages of missile development."

In the Boeing laboratory, a sensor-under test is mounted in one end of the anechoic chamber on a gimbaled flight table which simulates angular motion. The sensor is aimed at the other end of the chamber.

When the minicomputer takes over control of the test, it selects any four of the antennas, thus positioning a "reflective signal" being sent to the sensor. The relative amplitudes of the signals from each antenna determine the exact centerpoint of the simulated reflections and by activating successive antenna square the "target" can be made to move smoothly in evasive actions.

DEAR ABBY: What does a teen-aged son do when he knows his father is having a back-street affair with his secretary?

I've planned to say so many things, but always end up in a cold sweat and say nothing.

My mom is a fine looking woman. She is pretty, dresses well and can hold her own on any subject, so why did dad turn to a cheap nobody? He sneaks around like a common thief to meet this woman at a motel on Wednesday afternoons (his day off).

Dad used to be such a great guy. Now I can hardly look at him without feeling sick to my stomach. I just have to do something, Abby, but it scares me. I can't go to our rabbi with this rotten mess because he is a friend of the family. My father is a professional man and everybody in town thinks well of him. Please help me. I don't want mom hurt.

BROKEN-HEARTED SON

DEAR SON: Tell your father what you suspect, but don't be surprised if he denies it. And don't be disenchanted either. He may have "problems" you know nothing about. Be patient. At least your father will be alerted to the hazards in his conduct—for your mom's sake if not his.

DEAR ABBY: My inlaws are the world's greatest. Often they take a widow friend along when they go out to dine. This little lady is on a rather tight budget, and after eating, she unobtrusively slips the remainder of her meat into a little plastic bag which she carries in her purse for that purpose.

I can tell this embarrasses my inlaws, altho they have never said anything about it.

With the price of most nowadays, it's a shame to waste it, but don't you think someone should tell the little lady to ask the waiter for a doggie bag? DAUGHTER IN LAW

DEAR DAUGHTER: You're doggone right. Somebody should ask the waiter for a doggie bag, and it doesn't matter who asks. Most fine restaurants not only provide them, they offer them.

DEAR ABBY: Let me tell you about the divorce in our family. When our son divorced his wife, we continued to love our daughter in law and their four children as we always had.

Our former daughter in law maintains close and loving relations with us because she loves us, too. How can love suddenly stop because there is a divorce?

Now she is remarried and so is our son, and we love the "new" spouses, and they love us.

It takes a lot of patience and understanding when divorce comes, but love remains for those concerned, if there was love there to begin with. Why can't others see it this way?

THE THOMASES

DEAR THOMASES: Because when divorce comes, there is usually a lot of ugly talk on both sides.

DEAR ABBY: Contrary to what others may feel, I, for one, am not outraged when I see a young mother give her child a good sound whack if he misbehaves in the supermarket or anywhere else in public. If the child sets up a bloodcurdling howl, I don't even mind the noise. I secretly applaud that mother. Children who are not disciplined when young grow up to be tomorrow's criminals. OLD TIMER

Kimberly PTA will have pancake supper Friday

KIMBERLY — A pancake supper will be held Friday at Kimberly to raise funds for the annual scholarship presented to a Kimberly High School senior by the Kimberly PTA.

Mrs. Jack Wright, publicity chairman, said the supper will be from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Kimberly hot lunch room. Pancakes, eggs, ham, coffee and milk will be served. She said the first pancake supper was held in 1969 and 1971 prices remain the same. Tickets will be available at the door.

The scholarship presented by the Kimberly PTA is given to a person to further his or her education in the teaching profession. The amount given is usually $150. Past recipients have been Lynda Callon, Carolyn Sudweeks, Sharon Harper, Dennis Erikson, Penny Shropshire and Mike Loveday.

Other projects which the PTA sponsors include a chili supper in the fall which is used to defray costs of the annual teacher's reception; furnishing coffee for the teachers each year; sponsoring a delegate to Girls' State, and this year, hosting the District PTA Conference on April 24.

Last year's project was a donation of $200 to help with installation of new sinks for the lunch room and replacing tables which were purchased in 1955. All funds raised by the PTA, Mrs. Wright said, are given to the school in one way or another.

Betty Crocker award made to T.F. student

She was chosen on the basis of her score in a December written knowledge and attitude examination in which 850,000 senior girls from throughout the country participated.

From General Mills, sponsor of the annual education program, Miss Jensen will receive a specially designed award. Her selection also makes her eligible for state and national honors, including one of 102 college scholarships totaling $110,000.

The 1971 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be awarded a $5,000 educational grant. She will be selected this spring from 51 senior girls representing each state and the District of Columbia.

Wedding promise repeated at Almo

ALMO — The home of Mrs. Gladys Taylor was the setting for the Feb. 5 marriage of her son, Clayton Ray Taylor, Almo, and Katherine Louise Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Miller, Leelo.

Bishop William Jones performed the marriage before family and friends of the couple.

Forming the background for the double-ring ceremony were white wedding bells and doves and orchid satin streamers.

The bride wore a floor-length white wedding gown of nylon and delustered satin. The A-line dress featured long lace trimmed sleeves scalloped at the wrists and fastened with self covered buttons and accented with white ribbon.

The round neckline in front tapered to a sweetheart neckline in back. Lace trim, enhanced with seed pearls and a large bow were featured on the dress.

The lace yoke was also accented with seed pearls. Bordered the neckline was a deep band of scalloped Venice lace in a floral design trimmed with a row of white satin ribbon.

The bride wore a corsage of orchid roses and split white carnations.

Petals of nylon lace accented with pearls, rhinestones and jewels formed the headpiece for her elbow-length veil of white net.

The bride's table was covered with an ecru lace cloth and centered with a wedding cake designed as a bridal doll with a full skirted old fashioned dress. The cake was accented with orchid roses. A small bridegroom stood beside the bride.

These were designed and decorated by Mrs. Vernon Spencer, Brigham City, and Mrs. Keith Hammer, Bountiful, both sisters of the bridegroom.

A Lovelier You COME JOIN THE FIGURAMA

By Mary Sue Miller

(This is the first in a series of five special columns on reducing by spring fashion time.)

When you take off excess weight, of course you look lovelier. You feel more alive, too. We now know that normal weight increases our chances of a long, vigorous life. Losing weight, in consequence, seems worth any amount of struggle. But do you know that struggle is unnecessary?

Successful reductions come from eating a sufficient amount of well-balanced foods. Plus mild exercise. One such program begins today. Follow it and you can lose up to 10 pounds and 2 inches within a month. Just in time for the undulating spring fashions.

Get started by using menus and exercises as they appear. The average daily menus total 1200 calories, a safe and satisfying number. Here goes.

Breakfast. Sliced orange, 1 tsp. honey; toast; bran muffin, half pat whipped butter; unsweetened coffee or tea. Lunch. Cup beef consomme, open-face grilled cheddar sandwich; raw apple; hot or cold unsweetened beverage.

Dinner. Half broiled baby chicken; 1/4 cup rice with tsp. sliced almonds; portion steamed broccoli; lemon garnish; small dipper coffee ice cream; black coffee. In-betweens. Glass skim milk, morning and evening.

Menus squared away, consider exercise. With a hip problem, perform this trimmer for 5 minutes daily: On back, grasp knees to chest; repeatedly roll across upper hip. Then sit up, legs straight out, and roll again; balance with hands.

Reducing Tip: Weigh in once a week, at the same hour. Subtract 2 pounds for clothes when worn. Otherwise the picture is false and discouraging.

Tomorrow: Figurama Spot Trimmers.

LEANER, LIGHTER AND LOVELIER

SCRIPT of first production to be presented late in April by the newly organized Little Theatre group at Wendell is discussed by Lana Haagland, Tracy Simons, Saml Drake, Jerry Crawford and Sherrill Grounds, director. The first play, "Cleanest Town in the West" will be presented in the round.

First play slated Drama group names aides

WENDELL — Officers have been elected for the newly formed Little Theatre group, Sherrill Grounds, director, reports.

Jerry Crawford is president, with Tracy Simons vice president; Lana Haagland, secretary, and Ernest Sites, treasurer.

The group has selected two plays, with one to be cast this week. Members meet each Monday night at the United Presbyterian Church.

Grounds said the one-act play, "Cleanest Town in the West," by Earl J. Dins will be presented late in April in the round.

The advantage of this type of set is that performers can perform anywhere in either a large or small group. The play is a farce of the Old West, and a production which can be presented without a stage, a minimum of props and space with costumes creating the illusion of authenticity, Grounds said.

An added attraction is that in theatre in the round productions, the audience surrounds the actors and thus become more involved in the action.

The other play chosen for presentation later is Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," a satire on English life around 1895.

The two plays selected are royalty free and were chosen partly for this reason.

The goal of the Little Theatre is to involve amateurs in the community in the performing arts. Grounds said he hopes organizations will invite the theatre members to present productions for their own membership.

This would be on a donation basis, with any proceeds to be used for supplies and royalties for future plays. Part of any proceeds will be earmarked to assist with finances for the new McGinnis city park, the director said.

Park donations at Wendell hit $500

WENDELL — More than $500 in cash has been donated to date for the McGinnis City park which is planned east of the city. Mrs. Phyllis Bunn, Wendell Recreation Commission member, said today.

Federal matching funds of $30,000 have been approved from the Land and Water Conservation fund through the Idaho Department of Parks for the park which will be built on seven and one-half acres of land donated by Neal Ambrose, local businessman.

Donations include $200 from the Country Store, operated by Mrs. Nelson King; $50 from the Methodist Youth group, and an additional $241 from individuals in the area.

Pledges of funds and labor have been made by the Thousand Springs Veterans of Foreign Wars post, Wendell FFA chapter, Wendell Education Assn. and St. Anthony Altar Society of the Catholic Church, Mrs. Bunn said.

The Catholic group has pledged a portion of proceeds from its annual public dinner and the junior class pledged one day of labor per student.

Ground for the swimming pool will be broken in the next few weeks and work is expected to start soon on the entire project. The park will include a putting green, swimming pool, ball diamonds, picnic and playground area, miniature golf course, basketball court which also will serve for volley ball, tennis and roller skating, and a horseshoe area, as well as parking facilities.

Mrs. Bunn said the pledges of labor will be counted toward reaching the goal of the matching funds.

Church adopts patients

WENDELL — Residents of nursing homes and senior citizens in the Wendell area have become the special "home mission" project of members of the Wendell United Presbyterian church.

As the result of an in-depth study of the Christian witness conducted a local church committee, members found that senior citizens often receive little or no ministry at all, so they decided to do something about it, according to Rev. John Steppert, pastor.

After consultation with Mrs. Pauline Degler, administrator at Magic Valley Manor, plans were made to have women from the church go to the rest home twice monthly to fix hair for the women patients, write letters and run errands as well as visit with occupants there.

This became so successful the project was expanded to include the youth group of the church. The youth, under direction of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dieperaleet, have begun monthly visits to the Manor where they conduct songfests, and also generally make themselves useful to the senior citizens by visiting, writing letters or reading to them.

The church's ministry recently has been expanded to include recreational activities under the direction of Mrs. Lois Carpenter. She and her committee conduct games two Fridays each month.

Ex-Wendell man plans year in New Zealand

WENDELL — A former Wendell man will spend a year with his family in New Zealand under an educational exchange financed by a Fulbright-Hays grant.

Dr. Clarence Hulet, research physiologist of the U.S. Sheep Research Experimental Station at Dubois, was selected for the grant by a board of Foreign Scholarship under the Mutual Educational Cultural Exchange Act, whose basic purpose is to increase mutual understanding through change of students, teachers, lecturers and research scholars.

Dr. Hulet was graduated from the Wendell High School and served in the U.S. Navy from August, 1944, until April, 1946. He earned his B.S. degree in animal husbandry at Brigham Young University and his master's and doctor's degree in physiology, genetics and animal husbandry from the University of Wisconsin.

While stationed at Wellington, New Zealand, Dr. Hulet will help determine methods of diagnosing multiple vs. single pregnancies in sheep, improved techniques of storage of ram semen and artificial insemination of sheep and also explore possibilities of two lamb crops a year.

He also plans on lecturing on physiology of reproduction in sheep.

Dr. Hulet's seven children and wife, Donna Mae, will accompany him on the tenure in New Zealand which will run from this May through March, 1972.

The Hulet's oldest daughter, Ladell, 17, will complete her senior year while in New Zealand and will be required to take American government and other required senior courses by correspondence from the U.S. Department of Education. She will return home in time to graduate with her class in Dubois in May, 1972.

Dr. Hulet said there's only one flaw in the trip as far as his children are concerned — they will have no vacation from school for the next two years. The family will arrive in New Zealand about the time the school year begins there, and school will continue through May, 1972, when they leave.

Senior class at Wendell sets play

WENDELL — The Wendell senior class has chosen "Flowers for Algernon," better known as "Charley" for the annual senior class play, to be given at 8 p.m. March 26 at the Elementary all-purpose room.

The play is the story of a mentally retarded man, Charley, whose life is interwoven with a laboratory mouse. The drama includes 27 characters with Charles Rodriguez playing the lead.

Other cast members, according to Mrs. Annette Eaton, senior class advisor and director, include Mike Strickling, Rick Thompson, Kirk Dennis, Don Sites, Lyle Adams, Jim Hoshour, Fred Blackburn, Randy Jacobson, Earl Jones, Suzanne Francis, Jeri Eaton, Bennis Mink, Barbara Smith, Dixie Robinson, Linda White, Vikki Pepper, Loy Ann Casper, Pat Schael, Debbie Schoer, Lorna Johnston, Chris Hagerman, Vickie Lynch, Helen Maltz, Dobi Gilbert, Leslie Sullivan and Chris Bertus.

Participating in the party scene are Pam Stockham, Vickie Peterson, Chris Hughes, Rob Ross, Doug Anderson and Brad Sison. Janet Callen is student director.

FIXING HAIR for Mrs. Marjorie Martin, resident at Magic Valley Manor, Wendell, is Mrs. Harold Holinger of the United Presbyterian Church, while in background Mrs. John Steppert, wife of the pastor, works on Nettie Hall. Church members have expanded their ministry to include many activities at the rest home.

Job hunters OK some traveling

RAHWAY, N.J. (UPI)—Most job-hunting college graduates would be willing to take a job involving at least "moderate" travel, according to a study of 2,600 grads.

Placement Research, of Rahway, said a sampling of those receiving degrees in June from Maryland, Michigan State, Rhode Island and Rutgers universities showed 14 per cent said they would travel "extensively" if needed on the job. An additional 14 per cent had "no preference," and the rest wanted "very little," the survey showed.

Placement Research, a division of Placement Publications, Inc., said 19 per cent of the women answering were willing to travel extensively, but only 12 per cent of the men agreed.

Spokesmen see success in Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration says the one-week-old allied thrust into Laos has the makings of success—both on the Indochina battlefield and the domestic political scene.

That was the word from two top White House officials who briefed newsmen Monday on separate occasions.

One, aboard Air Force One as President Nixon returned from Florida, said the military aspects of the Laotian drive were going according to plan. He said it probably would continue until the rainy season starts in May.

The cuts across the Ho Chi Minh Trail, he added, have forced the Communists to resort to a time-consuming "end run" which is disrupting their war supply line to the south.

The second official, speaking to newsmen in Washington on a not-for-attribution basis, stressed the political assets of the Laotian move. He said cabinet officers, White House aides and other administration officials who have been making public appearances across the country believe the mood of the people is behind the drive into the Laotian panhandle.

This official conceded that some students and members of anti-war groups are upset over the spread of war to Laos, but he said the depth of their feelings does not compare to the anger triggered by last spring's thrust into Cambodia. And he said prominent Democrats, including potential presidential contenders, will lose public support because they jumped too soon to denounce the Laotian effort.

In particular he mentioned opposition from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn.

The official said Nixon is being kept informed on what his aides see as the public mood, and he added there are rising hopes that the military operation may benefit both the South Vietnamese elections of 1971, and the U.S. presidential election of 1972.

His reasoning here was that an interdiction of Ho Chi Minh Trail, plus discontinued use of the port of Sihanoukville, will leave the Communists without a way to get supplies into South Vietnam—and lessen the chance they will be able to disrupt the elections planned by the Saigon government this fall.

Soviet plans grand

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
For the long-suffering Soviet citizen the promise of more consumer goods is an oft-told tale.

Since 1928 up to the present the Soviet Union has had nine so-called five-year plans, all looking toward the same goals—development of industry, a solution to the agricultural problem, most of them at least giving lip service to mounting demands for consumer goods.

Stalin instituted the first five-year plan. It was to develop industry and bring an end to NEP, the "new economic policy" set up by Lenin in 1921 to overcome economic paralysis and sabotage by the peasants.

Under the 1928 plan, Stalin began his war against the peasant. Millions were killed and others deported in a mass tragedy comparable to Hitler's later extermination of the Jews.

One five-year plan lasted only about two and a half years. Another ran seven. All were on a grand scale.

Nikita Khrushchev opened up the virgin lands to the east as a solution to the Soviet Union's agricultural programs, and reaped dust storms because he acted without regard for weather or soil conditions.

He also promised the long-suffering Soviet consumer his living standard would equal the United States' by 1970.

At the end of March, Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin is scheduled to place before 24th party congress the new five-year plan for 1971-75 whose details now are being presented to the Soviet people.

As others before it, it is on a grandiose scale.

For the first time, light industry, that portion of industry devoted primarily to development of consumer goods, is given priority in the percentages.

The figures are misleading since Soviet heavy industry comprises 75 per cent of all Soviet industry and will continue to dominate the over-all economy.

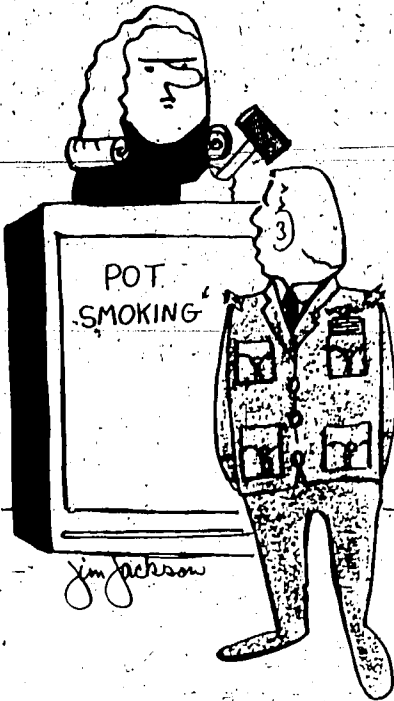

The goals seem relatively modest and attainable, but with exceptions that could lead to new disappointments.

The plan which foresees a 44 to 48 per cent increase in production of consumer goods, is to reach its goal, according to the Soviet news agency Tass, through a "high pace of development of production, the rising of its efficiency, scientific and technical progress and accelerated growth of labor productivity."

Pilot program set

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Heart Association and the Truss Jost Corp. are sponsoring a pilot program in Idaho to give persons 18 and older some indication of heart disease possibilities.

Operating the testing program in the capitol city is Miss Patty

Interviews require the "patient" to fill out a computer card to obtain answers to 34 questions.

Mexicans create tourist routes

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Mexico has begun to convert colonial church buildings into romantic revenue-earners to get a larger slice of the highly-competitive tourist trade.

Drug use sentence imposed

SAIGON (UPI)—A general court martial today found Air Force Col. Gerald V. Kehrl guilty on charges of marijuana abuse and sentenced him to three years in prison. Kehrl is the highest-ranking officer ever tried on narcotics charges by the armed forces.

In addition to the prison term, Kehrl was fined $15,000. But he was allowed to keep his rank, pay and pension benefits—doubly important since he will be past the mandatory retirement date of 30 years service by the time he has served his sentence.

The verdict against Kehrl, 46, of Willmar, Minn., came after two hours and 32 minutes of deliberation by the eight-member court. They met again to determine the sentence.

Before they began their deliberations, Kehrl went before the court to make his plea: "I ask you to consider my record and my problems in deciding on punishment. I have dedicated my life to the Air Force and my country."

After deliberating for one hour and 20 minutes, the court handed down the sentence.

"The tourism department has restored the monastery of Acolman and the convent of Monserrat and plans to restore and adapt other colonial monuments which will be integrated into the established tourist routes," explained tourism official Ricardo Moreno.

At the behest of the Tourism Department, millionaire businessman Carlos Trouyet has established a restaurant—after thorough restoration—in the refectory of the San-Augustin Acolman monastery.

The 16th century building is just off the road from Mexico City to the pyramids of Teotihuacan and now serves as an excellent halfway house for Mexican and foreign tourists.

In Mexico City, the Tourism Department, working closely with the Institute of Anthropology and History, restored the old convent of Monserrat and rented it to private interests who also turned it into a restaurant.

In neither case was anything done to alter the authenticity of the structures. Trouyet decorated his restaurant in accord with the Spanish colonial style and waiters' and other attendants are garbed in 16th century fashions.

Mexico boasts 11,410 religious buildings constructed during the 16th through the 19th centuries. These include convents, cathedrals, churches and chapels.

Before and after Mexico gained its independence from Catholic Spain, the Franciscan, Dominican and Augustinian orders worked diligently at converting the Indians from their pagan beliefs. In the process, they became great builders.

It is a rare town in Mexico that does not have its own church, usually located in the main square.

Former Albion college library goes to state

NOISE — The Idaho State Land Board has instructed Idaho Librarian, Helen M. Miller to recall all of the books, except the juvenile collection, at the now defunct Albion Normal School, before an arts group begins use of the facility this summer.

The children's books have been promised to the city of Albion for use in Albion elementary schools.

The Oregon Trail Festival of Arts, Inc., which will utilize the Albion school site this summer, had asked the land board to leave the books as reference materials. Miss Miller, however, said the state library could provide the arts group with a more extensive and appropriate collection on a loan basis during the several months it is in session.

In addition, Idaho State Lands Commissioner Gordon Trombley told the board that by taking custody of the books, the board could free about $10,000 in unexpended state funds now held to cover payments for custodial care of the books and a collection of furniture still at the school site.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction D.F. Englekling was instructed to assist Miss Miller in removing the books from the library and in taking furniture from the buildings.

Freight only

FREIGHT SERVICE, such as this train eastbound through Shoshone on the Union Pacific "high iron," will be the only use of the road's main line across southern Idaho after passenger trains are discontinued May 1.

Shoshone economy will be hurt by cut of passenger service

By MELBA THORNE Times-News Correspondent

SHOSHONE — The economy of Shoshone cannot help but be hurt if all passenger service is withdrawn through Idaho by the Union Pacific Railroad May 1 as planned.

This is the opinion of civic leaders here who feel the loss of this form of transportation will have serious effect on the town's economy.

Mrs. Myrvin Cole who, with her husband, owns the McFall Hotel, said, "It will hurt us real bad." The hotel has many guests who stay overnight after coming in on the train, and there are many who often spend some time at the hotel.

It will also hurt the Boston Cafe, next door, because most of the travelers eat breakfast there, Mrs. Cole said. This is in addition to railroad employees who also patronize the cafe.

She asked residents to write to their legislators to try to get the decision changed.

The loss of service through four scheduled daily passenger trains is a result of the start of the Railpax system which becomes effective May 1. The system will take over passenger service from most American railroads, operating under congressional authority.

Lines which do not join the system will have to continue passenger service for five years, possibly incurring high losses in the process.

Idaho will lose passenger service across the southern part of the state, and also from Salt Lake City through Pocatello to Butte, Mont.

Dennis Everett, UP agent at Shoshone, said he has not received any word of the change and declined to give any statistics of the number of trains currently passing through the town or estimate the volume of boardings here.

"I would hate to see this happen and don't see how it could help but hurt the economy not only of Shoshone, but all of southern Idaho," Everett said.

Gilbert Pierson, owner of a drug store, said business houses will be harmed to some extent because passengers eat and buy items while waiting for trains. But, he said, there are not a great number of local citizens who use the train.

Several mothers have indicated the removal of passenger service will complicate transportation problems for their children away at college.

Ordinance studied by council

By GEORGIA LAYTON Times-News Correspondent

BURLEY — Burley city councilmen heard the first reading of an ordinance forming a Local Improvement District in Northeast Burley Tuesday night.

The new I.I.D. district, located between the railroad tracks and the Snake River, will cost about $100,000, Mayor Garis Robertson said. This will be spent primarily to pave streets in the section which presently are gravel or dirt.

Councilmen directed William Parsons, city attorney, to draw up an ordinance outlining truck routes in the city and restricting trucks from residential areas.

Councilmen also:

- Approved a request from Mountain Bell Telephone Co. to cut the curb-south of the firm's building. The lot will be used for parking of company trucks.
- Approved a rooming house license for Charles Day.
- Authorized Mayor Robertson to sign a contract hiring Earl Simmons as golf pro. It was reported the golf course opened last Saturday.

Department heads are to meet with councilmen Monday at the council rooms to work on the new budget.

Power bill okayed

NOISE (Special to the Times-News) — Action by the Idaho House of Representatives this morning authorized cities, including Burley, to sell excess electrical power back to other distribution agencies.

The bill passed the Idaho House by a vote of 57-7, would mean Burley and similar cities could re-sell power to the Bonneville Power Administration if their demand does not meet the present power allocation.

The law would mean the proposed BPA nuclear plant which may go into operation in 1975 or 1976 could utilize such excess supplies.

Richfield infant revived

RICHFIELD — Richfield firemen were called out about midnight Tuesday to provide a resuscitator for a two-month-old infant who was having trouble breathing.

The infant boy was revived and was taken to a Twin Falls hospital by Lincoln County Sheriff Thomas Conner. The resuscitator was taken in the sheriff's car to help breathing on the trip.

The infant's father, John Williams, was recently injured in a traffic accident in the Richfield area. He used mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on his son, but was unable to revive him. The firemen were credited with saving the infant's life.

Memorial on rails approved

NOISE (UPI) — The Senate approved by voice vote Tuesday a joint memorial urging congress to provide for continuing rail passenger service in Idaho.

Tickets left

TWIN FALLS — Some tickets are still available for the final performance of the Country Music Jamboree tonight in the CSI Fine Arts Building, association members said today.

The Tuesday night show played to a capacity audience with a few chairs moved into the auditorium to accommodate fans who had traveled from other towns and were unable to obtain tickets at the door.

Persons wishing to purchase tickets at the door are advised to arrive early as the supply is limited.

Judge seeking defeat of bill

TWIN FALLS — Fifth Judicial District Judge Theron W. Ward and James M. Cunningham Tuesday called on Sen. John Barker to assist in defeating a Senate bill which would move one of the two district judges from Twin Falls to Jerome.

Judge Ward said the proposed legislation was brought about without proper study and would cost taxpayers additional amounts of money in travel expenses.

It proposes a residence chamber be established in Jerome for one of the present two judges. Judge Ward said at the present time either he or Judge Cunningham go to Jerome to handle court cases one day a week.

"If one judge was permanently established there, he would have to travel to Twin Falls four days a week to conduct court at a much greater cost to the taxpayers," Judge Ward explained.

He told Sen. Barker there were 82 court cases on the calendar the first two months of 1971 in Twin Falls and 11 in Jerome County, or 88 per cent of the total in Twin Falls County.

For all of 1970 there were 695 cases completed in district court in Twin Falls County and 97 in Jerome County, again for 88 per cent of the court work here. There are 48 practicing attorneys in Twin Falls County and five in Jerome County, he said.

Judge Ward and Judge Cunningham said their courts are already working at capacity or above and the move would be one more feature to slow down their work schedules and create another burden for court clerks and office staff.

The bill, which passed the senate, is now scheduled to go to the House Judicial Committee for recommendation. Judge Ward said Sen. Barker said he would visit the chairman and members of the judicial committee and explain statistics obtained from the district judges Tuesday in hopes of killing the bill.

Minidoka school board eyes rezoning request

RUPERT — Minidoka County school trustees are studying a request from a group of parents and students to shift school population in the county's two new junior high schools and rezono trustee zones.

The group, represented by Atty. William Goodman, met with trustees Monday night to urge transfer of more students to the West Minico Junior high between Paul and Heyburn and rezoning of the trustee zones within the county-wide district.

The parent-student group includes Dan Cowell, Bill Cowell, Dale Loveland, John Wiggins, Dale Conner and Ritchie Donner. They filed a suit in Fifth District Court last fall seeking rezoning of the zones and the board took action on this, Supt. Camden Meyer said.

The proposed rezoning was approved by District Judge Charles Scoggin, but the plaintiffs in the case are not satisfied with the action and last month filed a second suit.

Named in the action are Minidoka County school trustees, Leonard Martin, Nile Miracle, Dave Spreler, Leo Moore and Sherrill Stallings, and Supt. Meyer.

They claim the proposed rezoning does not meet the qualifications of the Idaho code and no population surveys were taken to show the number of persons in each zone. They also questioned the method used in determining the zones and claim the distribution of population in the proposed zones does not equal the actual population.

Superintendent Meyer told the group he had visited the district using the 1970 census figures and by studying on his own, with help from Minico High School government classes. Goodman said if the figures are correct he believes his group will accept the rezoning.

Trustees will discuss the problem at their March 8 meeting.

License application withdrawn

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News Correspondent

JEROME — Wayne Foust, owner of the Frontier Theatre here, has withdrawn his application for a beer license at the theater, Mrs. Mable Beveridge, city clerk, told Jerome City Councilmen Tuesday night.

She said his $50 application fee has been refunded. County commissioners earlier denied Foust a county beer license and he has to have both to be of any value, Mrs. Beveridge said.

Councilmen approved the reappointment of Mrs. Charlotte Jacobson to the Jerome Housing Commission for a five-year term.

All building permits were approved with the exception of one for the O-K Tire Shop to remove curbing in front of the store on East Main. Councilmen delayed approval on this request until the Idaho Highway Department approves the removal of the curbing.

Three city employees reported on attendance at water and sewer schools at Idaho State University, Pocatello. Bill Taylor and Eugene Jenks attended the sewer school, and Richard Payton, of the Jerome water department, said the water seasons deal mostly with pollution.

Jerome residents are lucky, he said, to have their water supply come from deep wells rather than reservoirs.

Councilmen Walt Bentzinger said the new police car should be delivered soon.

Woman injured

JEROME — Mrs. Edna Burks, Jerome, 83, was listed in fairly good condition today at St. Benedict's Hospital with injuries received in a two-car collision Monday afternoon at the intersection of Buchanan and East Third Street.

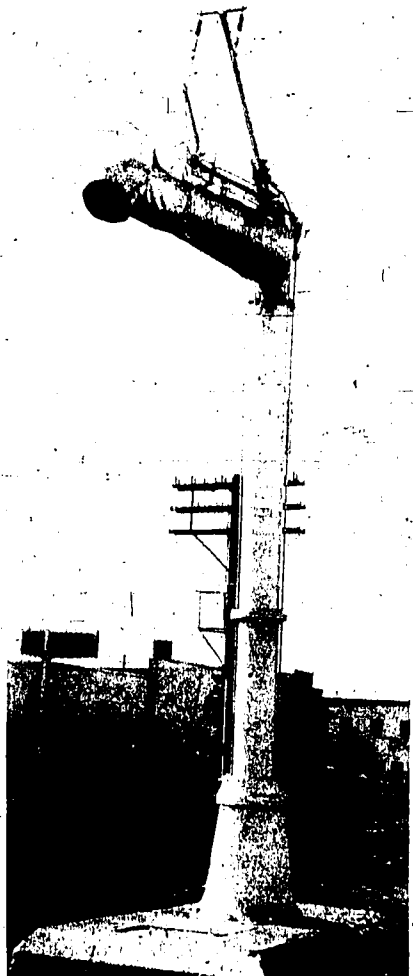

Her car collided with one driven by April Johnson, 17, Jerome. Miss Johnson was unhurt, police said. Mrs. Burks was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Police have cited Mrs. Burks for failure to yield the right of way.

Meeting set

FAIRFIELD — Mary Schmidt, Gooding attorney, will be special guest speaker for the Camas Club meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the grade school annex. Miss Schmidt will speak on "Law and Women."

The meeting for this month that was scheduled for the Soldier Mountain Ski Lodge will be held next month instead of the hostesses listed will serve. Hostesses will be Mrs. Pauline Merrill, Mrs. Robert Newhouse, Mrs. Dwight Osborne, and Mrs. Otis Deal.

Water

SELDOM if ever used in the day of the diesel-electric locomotive is this water hydrant once used to fill tender tanks on Union Pacific steam locomotives at Shoshone. It may be joined in railroad limbo in a few weeks when passenger service across southern Idaho ends. Then both passenger trains and steam power will be only a fond memory.

Lease planned

TWIN FALLS — City council members of Twin Falls Tuesday night authorized the city manager to prepare a lease for land at the old filter plant, site offering the entire 15 acres with water rights and the bonus for rent for the coming year.

The action was decided after a review of the two unsuccessful attempts to sell the property at public auction as required by state law for disposal of public property. City Manager Jean Miller said no bids were received and law does not permit negotiation of a sale.

City Attorney William Langley told the council they could call for another appraisal which might be lower than the present figure of $23,500, the lowest figure at which the city can now sell the property. This would mean the city would atain pay for an appraisal and for advertising and sale attempts.

City Manager Miller said he would not recommend the city take any action to rehabilitate the old plant building for storage or other use.

Heyburn man held on charge

RUPERT — Larry Schneider, 20; Heyburn, is in Minidoka County jail in lieu of $2,000 bond after being arraigned before Magistrate LeRoy Black Tuesday on charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

He asked time to consult an attorney. Schneider is held in connection with the shooting Feb. 9 of Charles O. Clark, 22, Rupert, who is still at the Twin Falls Clinic hospital.

GOODING — Arrangements are complete for the 11th annual Idaho Hereford Assn. show and sale, which opens Thursday at the Gooding County fair grounds, chamber of commerce members were told at their membership meeting Tuesday.

Doh Carrico, chamber member in charge of arrangements for the Hereford event, which concludes Saturday, reported at the chamber meeting at the Lincoln Inn.

He said showing of cattle and trading will start at 11 a.m. Friday and the sale is slated for 11 a.m. Saturday.

principal, described plans for the new Gooding High School and courses to be offered. Excavation for the building has begun and it is hoped the new structure may be ready for occupancy by the second semester next year, in January, 1972, he said.

The present curriculum is mainly geared to the collegebound student, he said, and administrators are trying to expand the vocational department. He noted there will be no shop or agricultural building in the new high school so students will have to be transported to the present building, unless a pre-fab building can be utilized for these courses.

All classrooms in the new school will be built so closed circuit and a public address system can be installed when economically possible, and there will be an audio visual room.

The principal said school officials are trying to work out a cooperative program with local merchants for on the job training, and two new classes, business English and an office practices class, are planned for next year.

The new high school will be carpeted throughout and will include an individual study center in the library.

Several Swenson, chamber president, said he will write Art Linkletter asking him to speak at the annual chamber dinner to be held this spring.

Medal of Honor given to 12 posthumously

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon looking on, the Medal of Honor was presented today to the families of 12 more men killed in Vietnam.

The ceremony was completely private, with no reporters or photographers permitted, in the White House East Room.

The recipients of the posthumous awards and their exploits: Marine S. Sgt. Kurt G. Taylor, Laurel, Md., charged across an open rice paddy toward a machine gun position "in full view of the enemy" Dec. 8, 1969, and silencing the machine gun fire with a grenade launcher moments before he fell mortally wounded.

Marine Lance Cpl. Thomas P. Noonan Jr., Brooklyn, N.Y., attempted to rescue four wounded men Feb. 5, 1969. He was dragging the most seriously wounded man away from an area under heavy fire when he was wounded and knocked to the ground. He got back up and again tried to drag his comrade off the field, but died before they could reach safety.

Marine Lance Cpl. Lester W. Weber, Hinsdale, Ill., overcame four Communist soldiers in hand-to-hand combat and moved toward a fifth attacker Feb. 23, 1969. He was killed before he could reach the fifth man, but forced the Communists to break contact with his platoon.

Marine PFC. Daniel D. Bruce, Michigan City, Ind., caught an enemy explosive charge that had been thrown toward his mortar position March 1, 1969. Realizing that it endangered his companions he clutched the shell to his body and tried to move away. The charge detonated and killed him, but his action saved the lives of three men.

Army 1st Lt. Stephen H. Doane, Beverly, Mass., on March 25, 1969, attempted to rescue three of his men who were pinned down by enemy fire near the Cambodian border. Though twice wounded he attacked two enemy bunkers, and deliberately pulled the pin on a grenade and lunged with it into the second bunker, eliminating it but dying in the process.

Army 1st Lt. Robert L. Poxon, Detroit, was seriously wounded June 2, 1969, after his unit landed by helicopter near the Cambodian border. Despite his wounds he charged an enemy bunker with a hand grenade. He succeeded in silencing enemy guns but was mortally wounded.

Army Sgt. 1C William M. Bryant, Fayetteville, N.C., during 34 hours of incessant attack in March 1969, directed fire, distributed ammunition, helped the wounded and provided leadership. During the last attack, Bryant charged an enemy position and killed its three defenders but was killed while regrouping his men for another attack.

Sgt. Charles C. Fleck, Petersburg, Ky., threw himself onto a grenade and absorbed its blast to protect his comrades during an ambush May 27, 1969. The citation said his gallantry undoubtedly saved the lives of eight men.

Army Sgt. John N. Holcomb, Richland, Ore., took charge of his outfit as its last surviving leader during a combat mission Dec. 3, 1968. During three waves of enemy attacks, he returned withering fire and crawled through grass fire to move members of his squad, everyone of whom had been wounded, to more secure positions before he died.

Army Corp. Terry T. Kawamura, Wahiawa, Oahu, Hawaii, threw himself on an explosive "completely disregarding his own safety" on March 20, 1969. An enemy demolition team had infiltrated the camp and had lobbed an explosive into Kawamura's quarters. The citation said his action prevented serious injury or death to several members of his unit.

Army Spec. 4 Donald R. Johnston, Columbus, Ga., saved the lives of six comrades when he hurled himself on explosives when his company came under attack in Tay Ninh province March 21, 1969.

Army PFC. Daniel J. Shea, Norwalk, Conn., made four trips to an open rice paddy under enemy fire to carry wounded comrades to safety. Seeing a fifth wounded buddy, he made another trip and was wounded fatally himself.

Mind Your Money

By PETER WEAVER

Q— I heard that spray foam rug cleaners leave a waxy residue which causes the rug to soil easily. Is this true? What's the best cleaning method? — Mrs. C.S., Superior, Neb.

A— It's true, some spray cleaners do leave a waxy residue. An accumulation of this stuff makes it difficult even for a professional to remove.

To test for residue, spray some of the cleaner on a clear Pyrex dish. Either heat the dish for a few hours at 200 degrees or let it sit for several days. If there's any residue left after the evaporation, that's what will remain on your carpet.

According to the Carpet Cleaner's Assn., the best home care for rugs is shampooing with a gentle household detergent or a formula which will eventually dry to a powder to be picked up by your vacuum cleaners.

Q— We recently purchased some thick shag carpeting. We have been advised that our old upright vacuum cleaner will not clean this carpet. Is this true? What kind of vacuum can we use? — Mrs. T.A.L., Anaheim, Calif.

A— That old upright vacuum won't work. The long fabric shag tends to get caught in the beater bar and then lets go suddenly to make the machine hop ahead. This leaves unvacuumed spots. Some canister-type vacuums won't work well either because dirt sinks deep into the pile of the shag and the air isn't strong enough to suck it up.

You'll have to get a new vacuum cleaner. Most manufacturers now have special shag adjustments on their new machines. Even with a new machine, some shag carpets change appearance after a few cleanings because they don't have enough face fiber.

I have received $87.50 reimbursement from United Medical Service Inc. under the Medicare program for doctor's fees totaling $215. This is not 80 per cent reimbursement after the $50 deductible. Why am I getting short-changed? — B.B., Malverne, N.Y.

A— Your insurer must have decided that your doctor's charges were too high. You get 80 per cent reimbursement only for "reasonable charges."

In the future you can avoid this problem by asking your doctor to put you on "assignment billing." Doctors can bill Medicare patients; this way if they want to. You assign your benefits to the doctor and any disagreement over the charges becomes a matter between the doctor and the insurer. Aside from unsticking you from higher costs, this billing method saves you a lot of paper work.

If your doctor is unwilling to participate in this type of billing plan, I suggest you find one who will.

Q— I am highly disappointed with the quality of foam rubber used in chair cushions. Each time we sit in our chairs, yellow foam rubber dust flies all over the place.

I am afraid to buy other chairs because of this foam problem. How can I be sure it won't happen again? — Mrs. E.G., Silver Springs, Md.

A— The Rubber Manufacturer's Assn. feels your chairs were probably standing too close to a heating unit at some point in their history. Too much heat causes foam to dry up. Oxidation will also cause some cheap foam to break up but real latex foam should have a life span of at least 20 years.

The next time you buy, be sure to check the content of the cushions. Make sure they have real latex foam, not an inexpensive substitute. And keep the furniture away from excess heat.

Nixon to discuss foreign issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: The State of the World message President Nixon sends to Congress next week will analyze the myriad foreign problems facing the United States and the government designs for coping with them.

If length is any indication of how serious world matters are, things are going downhill. At 62,000 words it is half again as long as the report he made last year.

Separate sections will be devoted to each geographical area of the world. Each section will contain a discussion of past

U.S. relationships, a statement of America's goals and assessments of the chances for achieving them.

Those who have seen the report say it contains no surprises. It sweeps into one document the trends and policies that have emerged during the past year.

Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, the White House national security adviser, spent most of the past weekend at Key Biscayne, Fla., putting the finishing touches on the report.

Weeks earlier, it was circulated among top-level officials of the government. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, whose advice on foreign affairs extends far beyond defense matters, made several suggestions.

The President makes no secret of the fact his main interest lies in foreign policy. His aides estimate he has spent considerably more time on foreign problems than on domestic issues during his first two years in office.

A source of great pride to him is the Nixon doctrine of 18 months ago which called for gradually lowering America's profile abroad and bringing its foreign commitments more in line with its capabilities.

He sees this policy as a sensible and acceptable answer to a frightening trend toward isolation.

The report this year will dwell at some length on the conflict in Indochina and explain in more detail than ever before the reasons for geographically expanding the conflict in Vietnam at a time when American troops are withdrawing.

Sugar act change needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Congress wants the Agriculture Department to change a system which allows five big Hawaiian sugar firms to have their holdings treated as 23 separate farms, it apparently will have to rewrite the Federal Sugar Act. That probability emerged Tuesday as Tom O. Murphy, head of the department's sugar division, told a House committee why the agency has long treated the holding company farms as 23 separate units — a ruling which allows the holding companies to get bigger federal sugar subsidies than if they were considered as five big blocks. Under existing law, Murphy testified, federal sugar subsidies are to be paid to "farms," and, Murphy said, the law directs the Agriculture Department, in defining a "farm," to consider whether the unit involved operates with a separate and distinct labor force, separately implements and separate management. In the case of the Hawaiian plantations, officials have said many times in the past; the 23 units operated by five holding companies are actually run with separate labor, separate equipment and separate day-to-day plantation managers. "Clearly a farm with substantial separability under those criteria is not the same as a farm on another island with separate workstock and day-to-day management," Murphy told Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill. Findley had raised the question because, he said, the separate-farm treatment given the Hawaiian plantations resulted in "undercutting the purpose of the sliding-scale provisions of the sugar subsidy program. The payment program is designed to give small farmers a bigger per-pound subsidy than large operators. Grower subsidies begin at 80 cents per hundred pounds on the first 350 tons produced on a farm and scale down in steps to 30 cents a hundredweight on production above 30,000 tons. If a single owner operates two or more large units classed as one farm, all sugar produced by the operator above 30,000 tons gets only the minimum 30-cent-a-hundredweight payment. But if the units are treated separately, all the production on each unit up to 30,000 tons gets a higher payment.

plantations; Alexander and Baldwin with nearly $1.8 million from three farms; American Factors with about $2.3 million from six separate farms; Castle and Cooke with $1.4 million from three farms; and Theo H. Davies with $1 million from three farms. The House agriculture committee's hearing, at which the Hawaiian issue arose briefly in Findley's questioning, was the start of what is expected to be a lengthy series of sessions by the panel on the Sugar Act. The law, which regulates U.S. sugar marketing, is scheduled to expire at the end of 1971. The committee is expected to draft proposals for extending it.

CSI remains No. 1 in national ranking

The Weber frosh hardly hurt the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles with that one-point upset victory 10 days ago as the Eagles remained No. 1 in the nation according to the latest National Junior College Athletic Association poll.

In fact, the loss cost the Eagles only two total points and no first place votes as they racked up 161 points and nine first place votes.

With Vincennes, Ind., losing twice last week, undefeated Brevard College of Florida, boasting a 20-0 record, climbed into second place with two first place votes and 134 points overall.

Vincennes, which lost to Robert Morris of Illinois and Moberly, Mo., went to third with two first place votes, 117 points and a 19-3 record.

Golden Eagle stars

TWO REASONS for College of Southern Idaho's No. 1 ranking in the nation are Tim-Basset (13) a 6-8 sophomore from Washington, D.C., and Ron Behagen, 6-8 sophomore from New York City. Both rank in the top eight in the Intermountain Collegiate Athletic Conference in scoring and rebounding.

Twins give $100,000 to Killebrew but want to wait before raising Oliva

By United Press International
The Minnesota Twins finally have signed their first $100,000 player and now they'd like to wait a while before they sign their second.

Harmon Killebrew, who hit 41 homers and drove in 113 runs for the Twins, agreed to the $100,000 pact over the phone, club president Calvin Griffith announced Tuesday.

The Twins slugger said he will report to the Orlando, Fla., camp of the Twins a week from Tuesday and said that he doesn't feel he's going to need any rest this season. Killebrew, who'll be 35 in July, said he still can play everyday.

But while Killebrew signed the six-figure contract, the Twins are trying not to give Tony Oliva one. Oliva figures he's worth it after hitting .325 last season and driving in 107 runs.

Pitchers start money battle against Milwaukee Brewers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Milwaukee Sentinel baseball writer Lou Chapman reported Tuesday that rebellion has seeped into the ranks of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Chapman reported that two lefthanders, Dick Ellsworth and John Morris, have informed the club they won't report for spring training unless they get more money.

Frank Lane, the Brewers' director of play operations said "both pitchers were offered very fair contracts. They may be late, but the season will open April 6 with or without them. I hope to have them with us."

Ellsworth reportedly drew a $40,000 salary with the Cleveland Indians before joining the Brewers in mid-summer. He pitched 16 innings for Milwaukee, all in a relief role.

Murtaugh staves off Castelford

CASTLEFORD — The Murtaugh Red Devils broke the back of a fourth-quarter Castelford rally with a three-point play by Rob Wright Tuesday night and went on to claim a 65-54 Magic Valley Conference victory.

Murtaugh, with Mark Howard hitting 26 points, zipped into a 13-point halftime lead when it outscored the Wolves 19-9 in the second period. But Castelford started coming back immediately after intermission, narrowing the count to four points.

Oakley explodes past Declo

DECLO — The Oakley Hornets exploded their fast break for 62 points in the second half Tuesday night and defeated the Declo Hornets 107-56.

Oakley was comfortably ahead at 45-25 at halftime and its fast break blended tremendously thereafter. It marked the second straight game the Hornets had over 100 points scored on them.

Drake has chance to open race

By United Press International
The Drake Bulldogs, who haven't had much success on the road, try to throw the Missouri Valley Conference basketball scramble back into wide open status Wednesday night when they invade Peabody Hall to meet the Louisville Cardinals.

Technically, the race is already wide open with all eight teams still mathematically in the running and with five of them two games or less behind the front-running Cardinals.

Bulls retain Hawk mastery

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jerry Sloan pitched in 82 points Tuesday night to lead the Chicago Bulls to a 118-102 victory over the Atlanta Hawks in a National Basketball Association game. The Bulls' third win over Atlanta without a loss.

Atlanta Braves announced that Sonny Jackson, the shortstop who's been hampered by injuries the past two seasons, will come to camp five days early to work out in centerfield.

The Atlanta Braves announced that Sonny Jackson, the shortstop who's been hampered by injuries the past two seasons, will come to camp five days early to work out in centerfield. The Braves now have Marty Perez, acquired from California, to play short.

Stall results in boredom

ATLANTA (UPI) — Last month, Oglethorpe College played Tennessee A&I in Nashville and got squashed, 82-43. Tuesday night Oglethorpe hosted the fourth-ranked small college Tigers and planned a surprise, but it didn't work.

Oglethorpe went into a stall from the opening jump but much to the dismay of the crowd and the Petrels, A&I didn't react. The Tigers were perfectly willing to stall, too.

Despite the victory, the Bulls retained one game behind Detroit and only half a game ahead of fourth place Phoenix in their scrap for second place and a playoff berth in the Midwest Division. All three teams have won 39 games.

At the end of the first half, A&I held a 4-0 lead on field goals by Ron Dorsey and Boyd Neal. As the game dawdled to a close, Oglethorpe became relatively frantic and committed four fouls—the only fouls of the game. The Tigers cashed in on three of them.

Oglethorpe was paced by Terry Schell and Larry Walker with a field goal apiece.

But, since the Cardinals have four of their five remaining games at home, it will take a home court defeat to serve as an equalizer for the other contenders.

That's a big assignment since home clubs have won 30 out of 37 home games played so far.

Thereafter, the Bulls moved to a 63-51 lead at the half and Atlanta never closed by more than 7 points.

Stillwagon surprises Green Bay—signs big contract with Toronto

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—All-American middleguard Jim Stillwagon says he will play in the Canadian Football League because the Toronto Argonauts made him a "fairer" offer than the Green Bay Packers.

"They made me a deal I couldn't afford to turn down," the UPI Lineman of the Year, said after disclosing he had signed a two-year contract with the Argonauts.

"Being drafted so low upset me and upset my financial status," he said. "The Argos came up with a fairer offer and that's why I signed. Now I just want to play football."

Louisiana okays bid on domed park

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A construction firm founded by Postmaster General Winton Blount submitted the apparent low bid of $84.5 million for construction of the Louisiana Dorned Stadium Tuesday.

However, it is expected to be two weeks before the Louisiana Dorned Stadium Commission awards the contract to one firm or to a series of smaller firms.

About 175 firms from 30 states submitted bids on various segments of the proposed 80,000 capacity stadium and convention complex. Only three submitted overall bids for the entire project.

Richfield defeats Redskins

RICHFIELD, Ind.—The Richfield Tigers, down 14-13 at the end of the first quarter, put four men in double scoring figures Tuesday night to sweep past the Gooding State Redskins 73-47.

The Tigers, who wind up their season at Bliss Friday, managed only an eight-point lead at intermission but pulled steadily away in the second half. Smith paced Gooding State with 17 points while Jim Yarbrough had his biggest night of the year with nine.

A combine of Blount Bros. Construction Co. of Montgomery, Ala., and Huber, Hunt and Nichols of Indianapolis, Ind., was the lowest of three bidders on the complete project. Blount Bros. was founded by the current postmaster general as a family business but he withdrew from the operation when he joined President Nixon's cabinet.

Members of the stadium commission said they were optimistic they would be able to build the stadium within the projected $93.5 million cost.

"It looks like we're in the ball park," stadium coordinator Mark Carigan said after the long reading of bids was completed.

The commission, which has already sold $18.5 million in bonds to Louisiana banks, plans to put its remaining $77 million bonds up for sale in March.

Suns defeat Celts 119-116

BOSTON (UPI)—Connie Hawkins' 27-point effort paced the Phoenix Suns to a close 119-116 victory over the Boston Celtics Tuesday afternoon.

Hawkins and Clem Haskins combined for 12 points each in the first half to give the Suns a slim 58-53 halftime margin over the Celtics. The Suns added three points to their margin in the third quarter and managed to hold off Boston in the final period.

John Havlicek of Boston led all scorers with 30 points, 10 of them coming in the first half. Rookie Celtic center Dave Cowens had 26 points.

Directions

HONOLULU (UPI)—The directions north, south, east and west are seldom used by Hawaiian police departments. Instead, they use "mauka," meaning toward the mountains, "makai" for toward the ocean and other terms.

suit might not develop a trick for him; but South could still have worked on the diamonds.

At trick two South would have played a club. Should the defense played another trump. South would win in dummy and ruff a club in his own hand. Then he would draw the last enemy trump to leave two more trumps in his own hand.

Next he would lead a spade to dummy and ruff another club. Both opponents would follow. South would return to dummy with a second spade, ruff another club with his last trump, enter dummy with the ace of diamonds and make his contract trick with the last club. All other lines would lead to the same ending.

South looked over the dummy in the most improved fashion before playing to the first trick. Then he went up with the ace of trumps, led the queen, overtook with his king and drew a third round of trumps.

After that there were several more huddles as South struggled to make his contract, but he was down one "What were you thinking about at trick one?" asked North.

"I was trying to figure out why you hadn't bid three no-trump. There are nine top tricks," was the reply.

"Too bad you didn't find out how to make 10 tricks at hearts," continued North.

"I did," said South. "But the diamonds lay wrong."

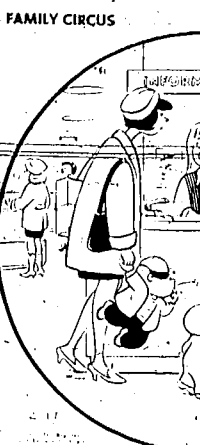

South was right, but as North pointed out, South could have made his 10th trick if he had worked on the club suit first. The club

STATISTICALLY, it's seven times more likely a wife will visit her parents than a husband will visit his. SO FAR UNEXPLAINED is why a disproportionately large number of girls called Karen marry at such an early age. SPEAKING OF a long time between drinks, some spiders can go 17 months without taking any nourishment. WHY DO YOU suppose that fine fellow named Byron Barr when he took up acting as a career decided to label himself Gig Young? DOUBT EVEN MANY Southlanders know the American Marat Grés originated, not in New Orleans, but in Meigs.

ONCE REPORTED you can tell roughly how long an oldtimer has worked in a shingle mill by counting the number of fingers he has lost. And a seasoned bricklayer develops a peculiar callous on each shunbone where the ladder rungs hit below the knee. And if you want to get rich, tie up the trouser concession for the carpet layers union, because these professional gentlemen wear out more pants than anybody that's among men. Among seals, an Alaskan trapper will tell you he can always pick out the beatholes because the married mates get scarred up with teardrinks.

CUSTOMER SERVICE Q "Is it true that natural blondes will be extinct in the next 100 years?" A Some scientists so aver. Q What animal eats the most? A All-I can tell you is the hippo has the biggest stomach. After dinner, it's about the size of the bathroom.

THE "PROFESSIONAL GAMBLERS" at the Nevada casinos would rather see a lady customer show up in flats than in high heels. They took some hidden-camera surveys recently. The average woman in high heels could only play the slot machines for two and a half hours at a stretch. But in flats she could stick it out for four hours. THE RECORD SHOWS George Bryan Brummel, that Englishman known as Beau, upon occasion gussed up his bathwater by robbing in the yolks of 100 eggs. Doesn't make sense. No doubt he needed a bath after his bath. Brummel was a little peculiar, however. He was the old boy who always shined the soles of his shoes.

AT HAND IS a questionnaire study which purports to prove that football is 26 times more dangerous than basketball and 130 times more dangerous than boxing. Is that possible? WHY THE YOUNG LADIES to crave long eyelashes is a mystery. Two of the world's ugliest creatures have the longest eyelashes of all: the hog and the camel. LAWYERS WHO have made a study of the matter estimate the bigamists who don't get caught outnumber the bigamists who do get caught by 200 to 1.

More wrecks, fewer deaths recorded

DETROIT (UPI)—More Americans in more automobiles drove more miles and had more accidents in 1970 than in 1969, but there were fewer highway deaths.

Perhaps the most important reason for the dropoff in fatalities is that safety features built into autos are beginning to show results.

At least one third of the cars on the road today are equipped with some safety features applied since the National Highway Safety Bureau began establishing standards. Safety features such as seat belts, now used by about 30 per cent of the driving public, collapsible steering columns that protect drivers, better interior padding and windshield that resist penetration are examples.

Safety officials cannot pinpoint the causes of reduced traffic fatalities, but one study turned up the fact that not a single fatality had occurred among persons who were wearing seat belts in a series of accidents investigated. If nothing from the outside penetrated the passenger compartment, one person wearing a seat belt was killed. In that case, however, the side of the car was sheared, exposing the victim to exterior impact.

The National Highway Safety Council says motorists traveled during 1970 more than 1.1 trillion miles, four per cent more than the 1969 mileage. Four million more cars were on the road and 3 million were licensed drivers. There also were about 170,000 more accidents in 1970 than in 1969. Yet traffic deaths from those accidents declined from 56,400 in 1969 to 55,300 in 1970.

Nobody is claiming that the overall effort is good just because 1,100 fewer people were killed. But it is the first significant decline in more than a century.

Safety officials insist that better highways, better environmental features such as break-away light poles, better driver education and stricter law enforcement, especially against drunken drivers, probably contributed to the reduction.

But there is only one inescapable conclusion. Deaths are down despite more accidents, so cars must be safer.

The National Safety Council noted that the death rate in traffic accidents in 1946, just 25 years ago, was 9.8 per 100 million miles traveled. In 1970, that rate was cut almost in half, five deaths per 100 million miles.

The trend seems to be continuing. In the first month of 1971, traffic deaths appeared to be significantly lower than last year.

Michigan, which cut its death toll more than 10 per cent in 1970, was about 25 per cent under the January figure of last year.

Priests' rights endorsed

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—Priests have a right to speak against the war in Indochina, but not from their pulpits, according to a Roman Catholic bishop.

"This is a serious moral issue. The silence of church leaders on Vietnam is really scandalous," said the Most Rev. Bernard M. Kelly, auxiliary bishop of the Providence diocese.

Kelly's statements came after about 65 parishioners walked out in protest at Our Lady of Mercy Church in East Greenwich when a guest priest, called on the congregation in a sermon to resist the draft. The appeal was made by the Rev. Raymond J. Tetraault, diocesan director of the Latin American Apostolate.

Kelly said churchgoers had a right to walk out on a sermon they didn't like.

"There are other ways in which church leaders can be heard," he said.

Time for Living

Washington is listening! Many of you have written to me, expressing your opinions of problems that should be resolved at the forthcoming White House Conference on Aging. As I promised, I've been forwarding all your views to the White House Conference staff, and from what my Washington friends tell me, your letters are causing a stir.

Here's one letter I recently received from V.L. Butler, Fort Worth, Texas, which certainly sums up a real frustration. It was sparked by what many consider to be the "outrageous" raise in the presidential pensions from $25,000 to $60,000 a year. V.L. Butler comments:

"Since this and other survivor annuities will cost the government $6.5 million annually, it will further pinch our welfare and income by taxation of people on fixed incomes.

"Everybody from the President down to congressional members and state, city and county employees have had huge salary increases, while we seniors — who have paid property and school taxes all our adult lives — have had no "across the board raises." Yet, we have the same inflated prices for living expenses: soaring property and school taxes; dental, doctor, eyeglass and eye care bills; high food and clothing bills; ever-mounting utility bills; gasoline raises; doctor overcharges, etc.

"If the government wants to show any mercy to us seniors who have managed through the years to be homeowners and tax-payers, they should exempt us at least from school taxes after age 65 and give us reasonable cuts on home taxes.

"Also unfair is the income tax levied at single adults — many of us widows are not even allowed the "head of household" category on income tax rolls! If we are not the head of our household, who is?"

"We even pay income tax on our pensions — in my case a meager teacher's pension. Let us hope that this White House Conference will do something for us."

"That's just a sample of the mail I've been forwarding to Washington. And you can rest assured that the White House planners and government officials are getting the message. Remember, we're coming to an election year; the politicians know that folks 65 and older cast over one-third of the votes in any election. They know that we — voting as a bloc — can defeat any candidate or issue. You can bet they'll be listening, and hopefully, acting to make life easier for us older folks.

Keep sending in your ideas and I'll keep forwarding them to Washington. They're listening over there — you're coming in loud and clear!
