Invasion ban asked in Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and William B. Saxton, R-Ohio, have introduced legislation that would ban any U.S. ground invasion of North Vietnam or supply and air support for any such invasion by the South Vietnamese unless Congress gives its approval.

"I think there are signs that such an invasion may be under consideration," Mondale said Thursday. "The South Vietnamese are openly advocating it. The President refused to rule out U.S. support for an invasion." The bill was endorsed by 17 cosponsors.

In other legislative action Thursday: —Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., introduced legislation designed to give control over Indian education to the Indian people.

State finds tiny saving

BOISE — Special to the Times-News — The Idaho Department of Health has discovered a way to give Governor Andrus another $6,000 for his general fund budget.

Simply don't spend all of the $10,000 plus requested for the salary of a handy man at the Twin Falls Child Development Center.

Don R. Bybee, head of the department's Health Education and Training Section, told the Times-News that the salary request of $10,769 was an error. He said the request for the maintenance craftsman should have been for only $4,968 — not quite $6,000 less than requested.

Bybee gave two different explanations for the mix-up: 1. The maintenance craftsman had only been employed for two months last year, he said. When the person computing anticipated salaries for the department's budget request saw the figure, he assumed incorrectly that the figure was for only one month — thus giving a figure double the correct salary, but still not quite as high as requested.

2. Bybee said there are two employees with the same last name, the maintenance craftsman and a professional engineer who makes over the $10,000 figure. Bybee said the two names were confused by the person compiling the budget request.

At any rate, Bybee said, the correct figure was relayed to the governor's budget officer. Bybee said he did not know if the figure had been relayed by the governor to the legislature.

Commander allegedly covered up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army announced today that Col. Oran K. Henderson, a field commander in the My Lai area at the time of the alleged massacre there in 1968, would face court martial on charges of attempting to cover up the incident.

At the same time, Lt. Gen. J. O. Seaman said similar charges against Capt. Dennis H. Johnson had been dismissed "because of insufficient evidence."

Henderson was commander of the 11th Infantry Brigade at the time of the slaying of South Vietnamese at My Lai March 16, 1968. The company headed by Lt. William E. Calley, currently on trial on murder charges in the case, was a part of Henderson's brigade.

Johnson was an army intelligence officer at the time. Gen. Seaman is commander of First Army headquarters.

S. Viets battle to retake post

SAIGON (UPI) — Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of South Vietnamese forces in Laos, said today his men had counterattacked Hill 31 and were fighting the Communists in hand to hand combat in the battle for the Ho Chi Minh trail. U.S. aircraft were using heat-seeking rockets against Communist tanks there.

A column from the South Vietnamese 1st Armored Brigade was reported moving northward from Route 9 through difficult and enemy infested terrain to give added fire support to the beleaguered troops six miles above the highway. U.S. military sources close to Lam said the column commander refused to leave Wednesday on grounds he lacked sufficient air support.

Heavy fighting was reported at three other forward South Vietnamese bases today. At Hotel 2, a base 12 miles southwest of Lang Vel, the South Vietnamese said they won, killing 57 Communists at a loss of two dead and four wounded. They also reported a victory nine miles south of the border town of Lao Bao where they said they killed 45 Communists at a loss of five wounded.

But at landing zone South, in the same general area as the Hill 31 battle, the South Vietnamese abandoned the base today under heavy fire, leaving their mortars and recoilless rifles as they boarded U.S. helicopters to fly to safety. U.S.

planes later bombed the area in hopes of destroying the weapons.

Hill 31 is seven miles inside Laos, 15 miles northwest of the U.S. fire support base at the border village of Lang Vel and six miles north of Route 9. It fell to the Communists Thursday with the apparent loss of a battalion of South Vietnamese paratroopers (450 men). Another battalion of ARVN rangers was virtually wiped out last week at nearby landing zone Hanger.

The South Vietnamese have established a series of landing zones and fire support bases inside Laos on the network of jungle roads and trails which make up the Ho Chi Minh trail supply route from North Vietnam through Laos to South Vietnam and Cambodia. Forward columns remained only 16 miles inside Laos — under protection of U.S. artillery — three weeks after the operation began.

Invasion of north 'unlikely'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's national security adviser, Dr. Henry Kissinger, said today an invasion of North Vietnam was not "the dominant probability at the moment."

In response to allegations by Hanoi that the United States had invaded neighboring countries. The idea of anyone invading North Vietnam would have been unthinkable a year ago. This certainly indicates an evolution in the balance of strength in Indochina.

"It's a novel problem because now it is North Vietnam that has invaded neighboring countries. The idea of anyone invading North Vietnam would have been unthinkable a year ago. This certainly indicates an evolution in the balance of strength in Indochina."

But he added that an invasion "is not the dominant probability at this moment" and said South Vietnam "could not involve us in any military move" of that type without the expressed approval of the President.

Kissinger was interviewed on a CBS-TV news program.

Kissinger made the statement about the "dominant probability of an invasion when asked if the reports from both Hanoi and Saigon about such a move might evolve into "reality" soon.

Hanoi's representatives at the Paris peace talks have charged that the South Vietnamese and Americans were preparing an invasion of North Vietnam in the wake of the Laos incursion.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was quoted Thursday by his government's news agency as having said a drive into North Vietnam "is only a matter of time." Today, however, the Thieu government took the position that it could "neither confirm nor deny" that Thieu had made such a remark during a speech earlier in the week.

Egyptians see hope in speech

By United Press International Israel and Egypt gave cautious approval today to President Nixon's Middle East statements in his State of the World message, but Israeli Premier Golda Meir said Thursday night no American pressure will make Israel budge from its current Mideast position.

In Cairo, the semi-official newspaper Al Ahran said Nixon's statements showed the "traditional American bias to Israel," but it said they contain "new indications worthy of attention" and that Egypt would make a comprehensive study of the message.

The reaction in Israel was almost as reserved. Officials called it the clearest statement Nixon has yet made on the Arab-Israeli conflict, and Israeli newspapers welcomed his call for secure Israeli boundaries but questioned such things as his projected Big Four role in a settlement.

Israel Gallili, a cabinet member without portfolio and a close confidante of Mrs. Meir, told the Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv today that the Israeli response to the latest Egyptian peace initiative will be flexible enough to permit negotiations to continue.

Kindergarten plan draws Rupert ire

RUPERT — The Rupert Chamber of Commerce Thursday voiced opposition to a bill which would establish a system of voluntary state-financed kindergartens.

The bill was approved Thursday in the Idaho Senate over the opposition of the Magic Valley delegation.

The Rupert chamber vote was made without discussion by chamber members.

The show-of-hands vote was taken at the request of Rep. Steve Antoine, R-Rupert, during a telephone conversation with Rupert legislators.

Gunmen rob area motels

Young armed robbers were busy last night, robbing at gunpoint one motel in Twin Falls and two Burley motels.

Twin Falls Police Chief Frank Barnett said a lone young gunman robbed the Fairways Motel in Twin Falls shortly after midnight.

Burley police said the Ponderosa Inn was robbed about an hour later. The Y-Dell Motel had been robbed earlier in the night.

A single young bandit struck at the Fairways and the Y-Dell. Two young robbers were involved in the Ponderosa hold-up.

Officers said it was too early to tell if the three incidents can be linked.

Jack L. Answorth, manager of the Fairways Motel, told police in Twin Falls a man about 18 to 20 years of age entered this office about midnight and asked for a room. While the manager was getting the key to a room the man placed a gun on the counter and asked for all the money.

Answorth said he told him to get only the bills — no checks and no silver. The manager said he opened the cash register and removed about $150 to $200 and the man stuffed it into his pocket. He told Answorth to go into the next room and then left the motel. The manager told officers he believed the man walked east on Falls Avenue East.

Burley police said two men entered the office of the Ponderosa Inn about 1:10 a.m. and asked the woman clerk on duty to empty the cash drawer.

The woman told officers they were armed and threatened to use a gun but took the money and left immediately without harming her. She said they obtained $145 in bills. Officers said the two apparently left on foot. Both men were described as young, about 18 to 20 years of age, and weighing about 150 to 160 pounds.

At the Y-Dell Motel on East Main Ave., Burley, a 12-year old girl was forced to turn over about $60 to an armed robber.

Jacqueline McCloskey, daughter of the motel owners, Mr. and Mrs. John McCloskey, said a young man entered the motel about 9 p.m. and registered for a room.

The girl's father told officers the man then pulled a gun and told the girl, "Give me all your money."

McCloskey said his daughter gave the robber about $90 in bills and asked if he wanted the change too but he declined. McCloskey said the man told the girl he would shoot her through the large window if he called the police and he walked from the office, past the large window and disappeared on foot.

The girl told officers he was young, about 20, and was of slight build. McCloskey said he and his wife had gone to a meeting and the girl and her 13-year old brother, John, were watching the motel desk. He said the children had done so many times without trouble.

The girl rapped her voice, he said, hoping to wake up someone in the upstairs room but the bandit told her to keep quiet.

House OKs Cassia bill

BOISE — A bill allowing creation of sub-districts within the Cassia County School District was passed by the Idaho House of Representatives Thursday, 49-11, and sent to the senate.

Rep. Ernest Hale, R-Burley, said the bill allows the district — which contains four high schools — to create sub-districts which may propose bond issues for improvements or new buildings which would be financed by the sub-district and not by the entire district.

He said several bond issues for Burley school improvements have been defeated by voters in outlying sections of the county.

GIs now can search inside Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Small teams of U.S. infantry men will be sent into Laos as part of search and rescue teams any time they are needed to protect the lives of downed American pilots or their rescuers, Nixon Administration officials said today.

"If we had an air crew downed we would do whatever was necessary to recover that crew," a Pentagon spokesman, Jerry W. Friedhelm, said.

Friedhelm said that to date no U.S. infantrymen had been sent in as security forces to protect search and rescue teams. But he said it was possible it could happen in the future.

Both Friedhelm and the White House insisted that this would not violate the Cooper-Church prohibition against American ground combat forces in Laos.

"If we used any security forces as part of a search and rescue team, we would have them as rescue forces and not as combat troops," Friedhelm said.

Newswires to sound warnings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Broadcast officials, attempting to avoid repetition of last weekend's false announcement of a national emergency, have given the two major U.S. news agencies temporary responsibility for sending weekly warning system test messages.

The change in the system was announced Thursday by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) on the recommendation of the National Industry Advisory Committee, a broadcast council. Starting Saturday, United Press International and the Associated Press will send the test messages over their broadcast teletype circuits.

Last Saturday, a message moved over the circuits announcing the President had declared a national emergency. It was sent by the National Civil Defense Emergency Warning Center in Cheyenne Mountain, Colo., and an investigation showed it moved because a man on duty used the wrong teletype tape. He was supposed to use a test tape.

About 2,500 specified radio stations were supposed to go off the air immediately. Some did. Another 2,500 stations were supposed to stay on the air to broadcast government messages.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said Thursday there should be a study of the entire national emergency warning system not only to guard against another error but also to determine why the message was ignored by many stations.

Bawdy ban begins for Nevadans

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — A state ban on bawdy houses near Las Vegas was in effect today, but brothels are still legal elsewhere in Nevada.

Gov. Mike O'Callaghan signed an emergency law Thursday which prevents legalization of houses of prostitution in the southern Nevada gambling mecca.

The law, which took effect immediately, does not affect Reno or the rural areas of the state where prostitution is legal on a local option basis.

Black solon cites U.S. Army 'coup'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Has the United States already "been taken over by a military coup?"

If not, asked a black legislator from Texas, why then was he placed under Army surveillance for 10 years — his telephone bugged, his speeches monitored, his activities followed and his dossier placed in a "subversive file" at Army intelligence headquarters?

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights and a champion of the First Amendment, did not have the answer Thursday. It may come next week when Army witnesses tell why an estimated 1,500 undercover men have been keeping files on thousands of Americans, snooping into their personal lives and political activities.

But for the time being, Ervin and the witnesses who unfolded the Army spying story in detail this week said they are certain of this: There is no deliberately repressive pattern by military or civilian personnel involved; that there is no military coup past, present or planned; and that the Army's leaders would not and did not consciously trample on the rights of Americans to speak freely and petition their government without fear.

Former undercover men who testified almost uniformly agreed that the situation is a result of overzealous reaction to the civil violence of the 1960s, incredible bureaucratic buffoonery, the traditional military penchant for keeping 100 men busy on one job, idle curiosity by commanders, and the career soldier's inability to comprehend civilian life.

Oil firms negotiate

NEW YORK (UPI) — Continental Oil Co. and Burmah Oil Co. Ltd. of England, which have combined assets of $5 billion, are negotiating for a merger which would be the largest in the oil industry.

But the negotiations announced Thursday, are expected to be extended because the merger would require approval of the governments and the stockholders of British Petroleum Co. in which Burmah owns 23 per cent common stock. That stock, which is included in Burmah's $2 billion assets, would have to be exchanged for BP physical assets, particularly oil and gas reserves and exploration rights.

RR unions hope for settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Parties involved in contract talks with the last of four railroad unions which waged a one-day strike in December said they were hopeful a settlement can be reached before a strike deadline Monday.

The United Transportation Union is the only one of the four unions which has not reached agreement with the nation's railroads in a dispute largely involving work rules.

Chief railroad negotiator John P. Hiltz said, "I'm more optimistic than before. We've leaped several hurdles, but we have some more to go."

A union spokesman added, "We're hopeful that an agreement can be reached, but we're not necessarily optimistic."

Union and management negotiators met for seven hours before recessing early this morning until later today.

The two sides have agreed tentatively on rules proposed by the railroads to allow overlapping work assignments between road train crews and yard crews, according to one source close to the talks.

But there was reported disagreement on a carrier proposal to allow train runs across divisional lines without a crew change for special extra pay, and disagreement on rules governing the use of radio for communications between engines and men on the ground.

The transportation workers union was one of four which staged a one-day strike Dec. 10 — a walkout ended by an act of Congress which expires at 12:01 a.m. Monday. The other three unions have settled in the interim, including the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, which signed a 42-month pact Thursday retroactive to Jan. 1, 1970.

The U.S. Postal Service announced today it had devised a permanent contingency plan to ensure delivery of mail during any railroad strike. The plan would utilize air and highway transportation.

Calley had no brain malfunction

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI) — Two psychiatrists have testified that Lt. William L. Calley Jr. had no brain malfunction at My Lai three years ago and that right now, in his ability to explain proverbs, he is functioning as a normal American.

The two doctors, Lt. Col. Franklin D. Jones, assistant chief of psychiatric services at Walter Reed Army Hospital, and Maj. Henry E. Edwards, chief of the consultation service of that mental unit, testified for the government as rebuttal witnesses Thursday.

They said Calley was free of any mental impairment during the American sweep of the Vietnamese hamlet, was not confused, suffered no behavioral disturbance, and had the mental capacity to perform the alleged acts that brought him to court-martial. He is charged with the premeditated murders of 102 Vietnamese civilians.

Their testimony directly contradicted that of two defense mental experts who said Calley suffered such combat stress on March 16, 1968, that he could not form a specific intent to kill anybody — that he just pulled the trigger in response to orders of a superior he adored.

The government called today, in the windup of its mental case, the psychiatry chief of Walter Reed, Col. Arnold W. Johnson, who picked the other two to serve with him last month on a sanity board that found Calley was "normal in every respect" at My Lai.

Draftee diverts jet to Canada

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI) — A teen-age Army draftee on his way to basic training hijacked a Western Airlines jet Thursday and forced it to fly to Canada.

Chapin J. Paterson, 19, of Shingle Springs, Calif., surrendered to Royal Canadian Mounted Police after the Boeing 737 touched down at Vancouver International Airport.

The hijacker, who first ordered the plane flown to Cuba, was one of 69 Army inductees among the 92 passengers on the plane, which was en route to Seattle, 120 miles south of here.

Pilot Bruce Despain told authorities the youth approached a stewardess carrying a satchel and told her it contained a bomb. She notified Despain, who had her bring the inductee into the cockpit.

The hijacker told the captain he wanted the plane diverted to Cuba. Despain said the jetliner didn't have enough fuel to reach the Caribbean.

Nixon aide defends school plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Education Commissioner Sidney P. Marland Jr. went before a Senate education subcommittee today to defend President Nixon's appeal for $1.5 billion to help schools meet desegregation orders.

Marland, who first testified before the group 16 days ago on the President's plan, faced some hostile questioning by subcommittee members who do not think the administration proposal goes far enough to end racial discrimination in the classroom.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said at a subcommittee hearing Thursday that Nixon's desegregation efforts thus far have been "a national scandal, an outrage."

He referred to a study by six civil rights groups last fall — later largely substantiated by a Department of Health, Education and Welfare report — that much of the $75 million Congress has already funneled to local school districts to help them defray integration costs was used illegally to perpetuate segregation.

Insurance

If anyone is looking for a fresh issue to rank right up there with the environment, health care and the economy as a focus of concern and controversy during the '70s, insurance is certainly a prime candidate.

Specifically, auto insurance, which as an institution is already displaying those symptoms of crisis and political and social complexity which can keep public debate going, usually bitterly and inconclusively, for years.

Superficially, the problem is financial, one of profit and loss for the insurance companies who find they are not taking in sufficient money in premiums to balance rapidly escalating payments on claims.

The way the insurance industry puts it, companies over the past 10 years have had to pay out something like $2 billion more in claims than they have received in policy premiums.

Cancellation as a result of an accident is understandable enough, but increasingly being over a certain age—60 or 65—or living in high-risk states such as New York or New Jersey...

The situation has everyone concerned and discussing solutions, with the "no-fault" plan which went into effect in Massachusetts the first of this year, over almost literally the dead bodies of major insurers, currently the prime topic of conversation.

Well, not quiet everyone. Curiously enough, a poll on the subject by the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center showed that the great majority of those most immediately affected, the car owners themselves; was either satisfied with (65 per cent) or indifferent to the present insurance system. Only 22 per cent were openly dissatisfied.

Most simply put, under "no fault" an insurer pays off a client involved in an accident immediately—at least up to a certain amount—no matter who is at fault.

Other than numerous dissidents within the insurance industry, major organized and outspoken opposition comes from the legal profession, which has a very direct and obvious interest in the issue. Some spokesmen have termed "no fault" delusive as a way out of the bind for insurers and motorists, contending that up to 98 per cent of accident cases are already settled out of court, that at best savings on the average policy would amount to only a few dollars per year and that a major deterrent to accidents—the threat of raised rates or cancelled policies—would be removed.

All of this is only the beginning of a long and involved debate. Through it all, one point hopefully will be recognized: The eventual solution, whatever its details, must be tailored not to the convenience or profit of the courts, the legal profession or even the insurance industry but to the needs for American motorists in their millions who have become, thanks in part to virtual abandonment of public transportation, the major and absolutely essential element in the national transportation system.

MR. SPECTATOR

I think I'm in big trouble. I was going through my pockets today and I found something I can't explain.

A Dollar. Yes, a whole dollar. I've paid my income tax, my state tax, I've paid amusement tax, sales tax, hospital tax and gasoline tax.

I've paid taxes for Medicare and for old age benefits.

I've paid the liquor tax, the cigarette tax, the automobile tax, the school tax and the tax to put up a bridge at the other end of the country.

When I pay my lawyer 600 bucks, I pay tax on that—and so does he. I pay tax on the money I pay the baby sitter and the real estate salesman and the man who makes out my income tax form each year.

So how come I've still got a dollar?

Obviously, I've made a mistake somewhere and overlooked a tax. I wouldn't dream of going fishing, owing a dog or getting married without first paying the tax.

I pay taxes on the toothpaste I use when I get up in the morning and the pillow I rest my head on when the day is over.

How come I've got this dollar in my pocket?

I'm not sure. But I know the government is going to be sore when they find out I've got it.

(This bit of humor—which we have printed in part, was brought in to Mr. Spectator by Mrs. Herbert Lang, Filer. It first appeared in the Des Moines Register)

The Extremist In Chile

WASHINGTON — An avowed disciple of Fidel Castro and the late Che Guevara is emerging as the dominating power-house behind the increasingly revolutionary regime of Chile's Marxist President Salvador Allende.

The militant spark plug is Carlos Altamirano, new secretary-general of the Socialist Party headed by Allende.

Altamirano's capture of this key party post, with the backstage support of Allende, has been virtually unnoticed in the U.S. But it is one of the most significant developments since Allende's ascent to control in Chile despite winning only 38 per cent of the popular vote in last year's election. A so-called unity coalition of Communists, Socialists and Radicals in Congress installed him in the presidency.

Like Allende, Altamirano also was able to gain the secretary-generalship with the aid of leftists and revolutionaries. He defeated Aniceto Rodriguez, a moderate, whom Allende lidded for the Socialist Party nomination for president.

Altamirano's election took place at the party's first congress in three years. His victory over moderate and conservative elements means the control by the revolutionary faction in the party—and in national affairs.

Illustrative of what that portends is Altamirano's open espousal of the peasants' armed expropriation of farms and ranches.

These spreading seizures are causing mounting alarm and distress throughout Chile. President Allende, while advocating agrarian reform, has voiced concern about the peasants' revolt. He has sought to impose some restraints by declaring the government will not permit the forced expropriation of holding less than 250 acres.

But Altamirano is openly championing the take-over of all private agricultural properties. When Chilean newsmen asked

Allende about that, he replied, "If Senor Altamirano believes we should be going faster, I asked him 'Why should we do that?'"

Shortly thereafter, a three-hour meeting took place between Allende and Altamirano. Afterwards, the aggressive SP secretary-general declared, "There is no substantive divergence between us on policy."

Significantly, however, peasants are continuing to grab farms of all sizes. Although a member of an aristocratic family, Altamirano, 47 has long been a political and economic activist. He visited Castro and Guevara when they were waging guerrilla war against the Batista regime in Cuba, and after their seizure of power he sought to organize a similar movement in Chile. This resulted in his arrest and imprisonment under an internal-security law.

Actually, Altamirano is closer to the communists than the Socialists whom he now rules as secretary-general. He openly espouses what he calls the "radical restructuring of Chilean society," with drastic, rapid and large-scale agrarian reform as the first objective.

Other primary aims are the nationalization of all "copper mines, in which U.S. interests long have had dominant holdings, and the socialization of major industries and banking.

Castro's Cuba

WASHINGTON — Fidel Castro's Cuba, its economy a wreck and its workers and students increasingly rebellious and sabotage-bent, could become the Czechoslovakia of 1971—with the Russians taking over after a "popular revolt" and installing a puppet government.

This startling bit of prophecy is the gist of reports submitted over the past several months to a group of wealthy former proprietors of Cuba's Big Business establishment, now living in exile in Miami. The reports come from well-paid spies and agents-provocateurs—some of them Americans—who make regular clandestine visits to Castro's island to observe conditions.

Through an old friend from the heady days of Castro's "peoples revolution," I met and lunched with one of these cloak-and-dagger mercenaries in Miami during the Washington's Birthday weekend. I am not qualified to certify the authenticity of what I was told, but my friend of the 1959 fighting does so, unreservedly. The story also checks out with knowledgeable Cuban exiles here. Its salient details follow:

Both students and workers are "ripe" for revolt. In factories and in the fields, worker absenteeism is increasing and so are production slowdowns. Rebellious students collect to jeer almost every public appearance of Castro and members of his government.

A series of such arrests was made in late January after students and workers tried to disrupt a queue waiting to purchase rationed food. Subsequently, 84 offenders were sentenced to prison terms of up to five years as "enemies of the revolution."

Recently, informers for the Soviet community in Cuba have managed to infiltrate these dissident groups. The Russian aim is not so much to turn in the rebels to the police as it is to establish their informants as bona fide members of the anti-Castro forces against the day when a popular internal revolt may become inevitable.

Then the Russians would take over and make certain that the "revolutionary" government was pro-Soviet. There are signs that the Russians, now established in numerous "advisory" posts in the Castro regime, have become disillusioned with their protege, the onetime romantic Fidel.

No such democratic procedure is in the Russians' game plan. If they decide Fidel Castro must go, they will endeavor to mastermind his overthrow by a "popular

Oldsters' Jobs

WASHINGTON (NEA) — We talk a great deal about the underprivileged. Consider the man (or woman) over 45.

According to recent studies, less than 10 per cent of our federal-state job training and retraining is aimed at these oldsters.

Yet they probably provide most of our actual long-term unemployment.

Figures are difficult to come by. Many of these middle-aged-and-older men and women have given up trying to find work. They are, therefore, not counted in unemployment statistics.

But there are guesses. Add some recent government estimates on this hidden joblessness to the official published figures and you get some startling totals—a real 4.4-million, an effective unemployment rate close to 15 per cent.

We are talking about men and women who need work. Many need it desperately. Out of this group we are talking only about those who want to work, and are capable of working full- or part-time either today, or with suitable training or retraining.

Many of these people saved money all their lives so they would not be a burden on others. They now find their small incomes gnawed to the bone by inflation.

revolution" in order to protect their investment in the island, which now amounts to more than $1-million a day.

If they can't lead the revolution, the Soviets have a viable alternative. They already have placed their people in policy-making positions in the Cuban police, and military establishments, in communications, in the vital sugar industry.

ween four and five million men and women 55 and older would be interested in working as part-time community service aides.

A number of older men and women have been spectacularly successful in the Peace Corps, and in the "punch corps" for retired businessmen.

This column has reported before on business studies which show that, contrary to popular opinion, selected older men and women have proved themselves highly reliable.

Of course this isn't the whole story. There are many older men and women so disabled, so old or so beset by illness they cannot work.

Overall, as published recently, one out of five men and women over 65 live in poverty—almost five million in all. And nearly eight million 45 and older fall below the poverty line.

We read with horror of those barbaric peoples who left their elderly out in the open so that they would die and not be a burden on the younger population.

But there is something equally barbaric in this half-living, half-dying. Here are men and women. Many want to work. Many have something to contribute. Many have proven their reliability, their integrity and their talents. Most are not asking for charity. What are we telling them, except to die (unless they've saved enough money)?

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

"The Pill"

Dear Dr. Thosteson: So much has been written on birth control pills, but I have never heard of my problem, although my doctor says it is common. Eight months ago I stopped taking the pill after having used it for three years. I have not had a menstrual period since.

Medication to start my period and stimulate the ovaries has not been effective. I am alarmed. Need I be? — Mrs. R. M. This can happen for a variable time after discontinuing "the pill." It is more common in women whose menstrual cycle was irregular prior to taking the pill, but it is not confined to them.

You've tried medication to start your cycle and it didn't work; you'll just have to bide your time.

You may be disappointed, but you shouldn't be alarmed, because this is not a harmful situation to your health. Just relax and wait.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am troubled with uric acid. Would you send me your list of foods that I can eat, and anything else pertaining to high uric acid? Is there any simple remedy for uric acid? — Mrs. A. F.

Your answers (foods, as well as medications) are in my booklet, "Gout: The Modern Way to Stop It," gout being the foremost (although not the only) consequence of too much uric acid in the system. Send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope for a copy of the booklet. The medication (there are more types than just one) is effective and simple so far as the patient is concerned, but a physician has to prescribe it, and also regulate the proper dosage.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there really a medication known as "El Dopa" which is supposed to add years to a man's sex life, or have I been misled?

I am not a silly young girl but a woman of 40 contemplating marriage to a man 20 years my senior; I am interested in knowing the facts because my fiancé has been talking about it, and I wouldn't want to risk impairing his health just for me. I love him exactly the way he is. (Got the message?) — K. R.

Yes, I get your message. Hope you intended does, too. You're willing to have him wear his, and don't expect him to turn into a panting and passionate young buck. That's sensible of you.

To answer your question, the medication he's talking about is L-Dopa, developed to treat Parkinson's disease. One of the side effects is some sexual stimulation in perhaps one case in 50.

That fact got much more publicity than it should have—the medication costs too much and requires too much medical supervision as to dosage for anyone to monkey with it for the sake of a problematical sexual stimulation. Your gentleman friend obviously hasn't asked his doctor about it, else he'd know that the doctor isn't going to prescribe it for such a purpose—and with no more than a 2 per cent chance of any results anyway.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any way that inverted or retracted nipples can be corrected, and if so, how? — Mrs. K. K.

Yes, plastic surgeons can correct this condition, but I understand that it is not done frequently, because milk ducts may be severed which, of course, would interfere with nursing a baby if you are in that age range.

If the retraction is recent, then a thorough examination should be made to rule out the possibility of diseases which cause some of these cases.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper for his booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Campaign curbs sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate Republican leaders introduced today different bills to curb election campaign spending, but both had the same goal in mind: To eliminate the prospect of another veto by President Nixon.

Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Conference, said his proposal was backed by about 50 Republicans and Democrats of varying viewpoints. He said it was tailored to overcome objections Nixon raised when he vetoed such legislation last year.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott offered a bill which would eliminate all limits on spending but would insist on full, detailed disclosure of how money was spent and where it came from.

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, said the President favored legislation on campaign spending and would offer specific proposals in the coming weeks. He would not comment on the specifics of the congressional proposals.

The National Committee for an Effective Congress, a bipartisan citizens group, said Anderson's bill "may be the most practical yet offered."

It would limit the amount citizens could contribute to presidential, Senate and House campaigns and limit the amount a candidate could spend for radio and television time, newspaper and magazine ads, billboards, postage and telephones.

It also would provide for a 50 per cent tax credit on contributions up to $50 annually, require the federal government to subsidize a certain amount of TV time for candidates, provide mail subsidies for Senate and House candidates and require full disclosure of names and addresses of contributors and vendors of campaign supplies.

The bill Nixon vetoed Oct. 12 would have set limits only on radio-TV campaign spending. Nixon complained that it would plug "only one hole in a sieve," and might lead to more rather than less campaign spending.

Fishing boats seized

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)—State agents and the Coast Guard, after a jurisdictional squabble on the high seas, seized four Cuban fishing boats Thursday, arrested their skippers and brought them to port to face charges of fishing in U.S. waters.

The Coast Guard seized the 75-foot Cuban boat "Landa" and was escorting three other Cuban boats back into international waters when the Florida Marine Patrol intervened and arrested the masters of the three smaller Cuban vessels.

Florida Natural Resources Director Randolph Hodges said the state arrested the skippers of the three smaller Cuban boats after Key West fisherman Joe Fitzgerald swore out affidavits saying he witnessed all four Cuban boats fishing inside the 12-mile U.S. territorial limit.

The Coast Guard knew of only one violation.

Fitzgerald, skipper of the "Glassbreaker," swore out a second affidavit charging the skipper of one of the Cuban boats attempted to ram his vessel.

Florida Marine Patrol Lt. E. G. Little said the three smaller Cuban fishing boats—two 60-footers and a 50-footer—were seized by two armed Florida Marine Patrol boats, the 32-foot Barracuda and the 23-foot Senbird.

Little said when the two Florida Marine Patrol boats moved in to arrest the skippers of the three smaller Cuban boats, "the Coast Guard cutter Dilligence took aggressive action" toward the state boats.

The Coast Guard cutter Cape York, meanwhile, arrived at its Key West base with the Cuban boat "Landa" and its crew about 10 a.m. EST.

The Florida Marine Patrol escorted the three smaller Cuban fishing boats to a marina on nearby Stock Island.

In Miami, meanwhile, the head of the Cuban exile group "Committee of 100," Dr. Jorge Roberlo, began negotiations with the Cuban Embassy in Madrid to attempt to work out a swap with the Fidel Castro regime for the return of the fishing boat crewmen for the release of some political prisoners being held in Cuban jails.

Nixon proclaims steps for 'two china' policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon indicated Thursday that the United States is moving toward a "two Chinas" policy under which it would agree to admission of Peking to the United Nations so long as this was not done at the expense of Nationalist China, the government of Formosa.

In the China section of his massive report to Congress on the international situation, the President also made further gestures to demonstrate the willingness of the United States to try to ease some of the tensions existing between Washington and Peking.

There also undoubtedly was some psychological significance in the fact that the Peking government, in this report, was called by its official name, "Peoples Republic of China" for the first time in any official presidential document.

Nixon said, "I wish to make it clear that the United States is prepared to see the Peoples Republic of China play a constructive role in the family of nations."

But he added that Peking should not be "permitted to dictate to the world the terms of its participation" in the United Nations.

He pointed out that for a number of years efforts had been made to throw Nationalist China out of the United Nations and give Peking its seat.

"We have opposed these attempts," he said. "We will continue to oppose them."

The President said that the continued hostility between Washington and Peking was "serious indeed in view of the fact that it determines our relationship with 750 million talented and energetic people."

The President said that "in the coming year I will carefully examine what further steps we might take to create broader opportunities for contact between the Chinese and American peoples."

Nixon asks steps against hijackers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon urged international cooperation Thursday in the fight against illegal narcotics traffic, aircraft hijackings and diplomatic kidnappings.

"The need for international cooperation to solve (these) types of criminal problems has become increasingly clear in recent years," he said in his second annual foreign policy message to Congress.

"The explosion in international travel and intercourse has had the unintended effect of greatly reducing the ability of national societies alone to control such old criminal activity as the illegal narcotics traffic, and such new criminal forms as hijacking and terrorist attacks on diplomats," Nixon said.

Narcotics addiction, he said, is spreading with "pandemic virulence and is currently worse in the United States than in many countries... but no country is immune and any country could be next."

The President said the hijacking and destruction of four airliners in the Middle East last year, continued hijackings to Cuba, and now hijacking of Soviet and eastern European aircraft had "brought the world to an awareness of the fragility of the network of international air traffic... but the world cannot permit the boon of air travel to become the tool of criminals."

U.S. N-rank drops

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Soviet Union has surpassed the United States in some categories of strategic nuclear weapons and may be preparing for a "first strike" capability.

He said the Soviet Union overhauled the United States in 1969 in the number of intercontinental ballistic missiles and is gaining rapidly in numbers of submarine-launched ballistic missiles.

"By any standard, we believe the number of Soviet strategic forces now exceeds the level needed for deterrence," Nixon said in the "state of the world" message.

"Even more important than the growth in numbers has been the change in the nature of the forces the U.S.S.R. chose to develop and deploy. These forces include systems—particularly the SS-9 ICBM with large multiple warheads—which, if further improved, and deployed in sufficient numbers, could be uniquely suitable for a first strike against our land-based deterrent forces."

Guards uncover passage

BERLIN (UPI)—East German border guards discovered today a 393-foot long tunnel built under the wall between East and West Berlin, police reported.

The guards detected the tunnel built under the wall on the French sector's Bernauer Strasse only one day before 17 Eastern residents were to crawl through it to West Berlin, police said.

The tunnel was dug about 21 feet under the ground from a ruined West Berlin building near the wall.

West Berlin police on border duty said they did not know a tunnel was being built until they observed feverish activity on the Eastern side of the wall this morning.

Lunar trip record due

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The Apollo 15 astronauts are scheduled to set out for the moon July 26, spend a record six days on or around it and return to Earth 12 days after launch.

The two surface explorers, David R. Scott and James B. Irwin, will stay on the moon 87 hours—twice the time logged by Apollo 14's pilots—and spend a record 20 hours each walking and driving an electric car there.

Scott, Irwin and Alfred M. Worden originally were scheduled for launch July 25 on an 11-day mission, but the space agency said Wednesday plans have been revised and are subject to more changes.

The launch now is scheduled for 9:34 a.m. EDT Monday, July 26, with the Pacific Ocean splashdown coming 12 days and 8 hours later, or about 5:30 p.m. EDT Saturday, Aug. 7.

Lenten Guideposts

By GLEN CAMPBELL.

One day not long ago when I was looking at my three children, soaking up the California sunshine, I thought back to my own childhood which was so different from theirs. And I wondered to myself, they have adventured I never had at home, but are they growing up with the feeling of inner security that I had.

Home for me was Billstown, Ark. Even today Billstown is more of a place than it is a village or town; all there is to it is a couple of shacklike stores and a couple of farms, one of which was ours. Generally, I find it easier to tell folks I come from DeLairt, Ark., six miles from a hilly dirt road in Billstown, because DeLairt enjoys a population big enough to put it on the map — 440.

Like my four sisters and seven brothers, I was born in our white frame house there in Billstown house the seventh son.

I had a beautiful boyhood. It was beautiful because it just about overflowed with beautiful things.

Most of our greatest pleasures came from being outdoors. We all loved the woods. We loved to hunt and fish, and, as farmers, we all grew up knowing about the gifts of the earth.

With such a big family, everything we did was a scramble: At dinner you had to fight for a place at the long table with big benches along each side for the kids, and Mom and Dad sitting on the end.

The food on that table was worth fighting for though, and I'd gladly fight for it today because it's what I still love: turnip greens, corn bread, butter beans heard with music. And having grateful for everything we put in our stomachs and we always thanked God for it.

We never missed church on Sundays, and that was a scramble too. We had to get cleaned up, and that meant taking our weekly baths. We didn't have Sunday clothes. After our baths we'd put on again and in summer we'd even go to church barefoot.

With regular attendance and with what our parents taught us, we Campbells grew up knowing that God the Almighty was with us all the time.

We accepted Him as naturally as we accepted the sun in the morning. Looking back, I realize that the security I felt as I left home didn't come just from having grown up in a cocoon of warm family love. It also came from knowing that God was going to be there watching me wherever I went.

Music was another reason why I was secure about leaving home at an early age. I knew what I was going to do in life. I was going to be a musician.

I was 4 when Dad sent off to a mail-order house for my first guitar. It was three-quarter sized so my arms and fingers could reach around it. I never took lessons in the use of it — none of us did — we just picked it up.

What special help I got came from over at my grandparents' house near DeLairt where I was a regular visitor. My Grandpa Campbell was a really great musician. He was a showman. He knew more about the guitar than anybody and he taught me all kinds of skills and tricks I still count on today.

About this time some old friends of my folks came through Billstown and took a liking to me. Mr. and Mrs. Boyl were living in Lindrith, because I was in Grade 11, N.M., and they said I could go black-eyed peas, butter beans heard with music. And having grateful for everything we put in our stomachs and we always thanked God for it.

My mother really didn't want me to go, but she could see I was determined. When I kissed Mom good-bye, I didn't feel scared about leaving and I knew for sure she wasn't worried about me. Each of us had a sense of security.

I never have never been worried about the future and I often wonder about people who worry too much, especially people who say they've got religion. Some religion. They must have a pretty poor idea of God's power if they feel so shaky in His hands.

Soon after I left Billstown I was playing weekends at a place in Lindrith called Coon Holler. Gradually my little career widened, and I began wandering through the Southwest until, in time, I ended up in California. But whenever possible, I've gone back to Arkansas.

The other day, just as I was wondering about the way my children were growing up, I saw my wife, Billie, gather them around her for story time. She started talking about God, and then she read them some Bible stories. Billie goes about religion in a sensible way. She doesn't force it, she just lets the kids know, for sure that God is there and that he loves them. And then on Sundays when we

National parks in trouble

EDITOR'S NOTE: This concludes a series reporting on the national parks of the United States, and the problems involved in preserving them.

By JOHN LEIGHTY
 United Press International
 America's vast national parks encompass some of the most spectacular and beautiful "wide open spaces" left in the United States, beckoning to all who yearn on occasion to enjoy what's left of the country's natural wonders.

And many of them are in trouble, largely due to their accessibility in this age of fast and easy transport and the increasing millions of Americans who visit and use them. The most popular parks—Yellowstone, Yosemite, the Great Smoky Mountains National Park among them—are in the most trouble, largely due to overcrowding and under-policing.

Experts have warned that as things are going the entire national park concept could be in a mess by the year 2000.

Preventing such a crisis takes time, money, patience and cooperation among federal, state and local governments. More land is needed, better use of existing space is a must, along with pollution control and more "nature-oriented" cities.

In order to keep remoter areas from being overrun and relieve pressures from the most heavily used parks, the National Park Service is pushing for "urban parklands."

The Interior Department last September named 13 major urban areas that should have open land available for public recreation.

"There has not been sufficient federal emphasis on providing funds for recreation and space preservation in and around our large cities, where we believe the needs are greatest," the department said. Many of the parks that have room are too far away for most people to visit and poorer families virtually have no chance to travel to a national park.

Around the country, several new park and recreational areas are being developed but progress is slow because of a tight congressional pocketbook. National Park Director George B. Hartzog Jr. set the value of land needed for expansion last year at a minimum of $322 million. Congress appropriated $28 million.

President Nixon gave the program a major boost last February, saying, "plain common sense argues that we give greater priority to acquiring now the lands that will be so greatly needed in a few years."

But despite the presidential endorsement, Interior Department officials say privately that the park expansion idea got shunted aside in the land acquisition monies because of the administration's desire to cut inflation by holding down federal spending.

Conservationists think acquiring and preserving land already is a crisis issue and have launched their own fight to expand parks.

In California, the Sierra Club is actively seeking the expansion of Kings Canyon and Sequoia National parks. Club Director Michael McCloskey said the two parks have been expanded three times since 1911 because of conservationists and "while the park service has ended up as custodian of those areas, they are not the prime movers."

The goal of getting people to the parks and parks to the people will get a lot of attention in coming years, but the NPS isn't losing sight of another goal just as important—the preservation of the great natural areas.

"The national parks were not set aside basically as recreational areas but rather to preserve some part of our natural heritage—and preserve it in the way it was prior to the arrival of European man," said Bill Dean, an NPS official in Omaha, Neb.

The master plan concept for "staying ahead" of the problems enveloping the national Park Service and the growing awareness that recreational land must be set aside before it's too late show a glimmer of hope for the future.

The proper use, management and preservation of existing parks and the establishment of urban relief valves can assure that tomorrow's "outdoor experience" will be as pleasant and hopefully more so in some places as it is today. But if that is so to be so, money will have to be spent and plans carried out. It is no small challenge:

Services held

Rev. T.D. Johnston will present the Lenten messages.

EEC approves

BANGKOK (UPI)—The European Economic Community has agreed in principle to permit Thailand to export handicrafts to member countries without duty, the Foreign Ministry reports.

Administrator to conclude sessions

BUHL — Jay S. Frost, administrator of Northwestern Christian Home, Beaverton, Ore., will speak at the closing session of the School of World Outreach at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Buhl First Christian Church.

Frost will show pictures of the Beaverton home, which serves 65 senior citizens from Christian churches. It is one of 11 homes for the aged operated by the National Benevolent Association of the Christian Church, according to Rev. Harrie S. Young, Buhl pastor.

The association also operates eight homes for children. Frost has been administrator of the home since 1962 and is an active Christian layman, Rev. Young said. He has had business experience in real estate and property management.

He will speak of the entire operation of the National Benevolent Assn. as well as about the Beaverton Home.

Offering planned at Filer

FILER — The First Baptist Church of Filer will receive a special offering for home missions March 14, according to Rev. Roy Watson, pastor. It will be known as the "America for Christ" offering.

Roy Watson pointed out that missionary work is not confined merely to foreign fields but also does a great deal on the home field, such as assisting in mission work in Alaska and Hawaii, working with the Indians in this country as well as in Central America and the West Indies. Home mission funds also supply the chaplaincy ministry in the prisons, hospitals and the armed forces of the United States.

Lawsuit pending in dogs' deaths

BURLEY — Legal action against a federal agency in connection with the deaths of three valuable hunting dogs last December is being prepared, Lenn Garner, trainer of the dogs said today.

He said the owners of the animals and their attorneys are attempting to determine the true value of the animals so a claim can be presented to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Services, Division of Wildlife Services. If the claim is not approved, he said, the owners and their attorneys have indicated they will file suit to recover the loss.

The dogs, including one national champion chukar derby winner of 1970, were originally listed at about $7,000 in value. Garner said he would not be able to state if this is the true and correct value, as he did not own the dogs but only trained them.

He said they died after getting into coyote poison put out on Bureau of Land Management land by the Fish and Wildlife Department for control of the animals. The dogs had been worked in the Buckhorn Canyon area south of Burley, Garner said, and on returning them to the kennel he discovered one was ill. All three died within two days although taken immediately to a Burley veterinarian.

Tests made in a laboratory in Boise and also in Denver showed the dogs died of poison used to kill coyotes.

Owners of the dogs are Dick Taylor, Butte, Mont., and Larry Walton, Nampa. All were English pointers.

Senators kill bills on liquor

Senate passes pay hike bill

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate killed two liquor proposals Thursday — one to extend until 2 a.m. the hour for sale of liquor by the drink or beer during daylight savings time and another which could do away with stamps on liquor bottles.

Sen. James Stotcheff, D-Sandpoint, served notice he might ask for reconsideration of the bill which would give the Commissioner of Law Enforcement authority to decide whether or not packaged liquor bottles must have an official seal on them. The bill was defeated, 7-22.

Sen. William Crutcher, D-Orofino, asked for the extended hours during Daylight Savings Time to give the bar owners back the hour they lost when Daylight-Savings Time was enacted, but the measure was defeated, 10-22.

Crutcher said during Daylight Savings hours, the bars were practically empty between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. but said there was an economic hardship since bar owners were still required to pay employees.

He said persons living in towns on the Oregon and Washington borders cross over to take advantage of the later closing hours when the Idaho bars close at 1 a.m.

He said the migration "sends Idaho money to other states" and "puts drinking drivers on the road when they could have stayed in their home towns."

Sen. John Mix, D-Moscow, asked for the other measure which would have allowed the commissioner of law enforcement to do away with the stamps on liquor bottles. He said the stamps were instituted after prohibition was repealed to stop bootlegging from other states.

Since then, he said, there has been "nothing to show this particular stamp has helped law enforcement officers do their job better in the field of liquor enforcement."

Church asks benefit hike for aged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, proposed a 15 per cent increase in social security benefits Thursday instead of President Nixon's proposal for a 6 per cent boost.

Church said Nixon's request was "unrealistic and symptomatic of a growing attitude within the executive branch of neglect, benign or otherwise, to aged and aging Americans."

He noted that the costs of medical care, transportation and property taxes have been rising steadily in the past year with "special relevance to the elderly."

Because government efforts are aimed at stimulating the economy next year, Church said, "it is reasonable to expect that economic growth will increase contributions to the social security trust fund, making it possible to finance an added 15 per cent without increases in payroll taxes."

House would bring wine into stores

BOISE (UPI) — After a marathon debate that showed its sponsor "where the grapes of wrath are stored," the House passed 36-33 Thursday a bill permitting sale of table wines in grocery stores.

"It took one hour, 39 minutes of debate to send the measure on its way to an uncertain fate in the Senate. The last time the House passed a bill similar to this it was squashed in the Senate."

Rep. H. Ferd Koch, R-Boise, opened the debate — longest in the House so far this session — by stating the legislature through passage of the bill would "demonstrate it does respect the judgment of its local officials."

Under the bill, sale of table wines by the bottle would be permitted in grocery stores and other places where beer is sold for off-premises consumption on a county-option basis. County commissioners by resolution could ban such sales or they could call an election to let the people decide directly whether they wanted them.

Koch pointed out the measure permits sale of wines in grocery stores but not liquor. He said the bill refers only to wines produced by natural fermentation and having an alcoholic content of not more than 14 per cent.

Rep. E. V. Mc Han, R-Halley, said he likes wine but said this bill will cost the small businessman too much for a license and contended it is a bill for the "big chain store."

Just as the tension was beginning to mount in the House, Rep. Jack Kennebeck, R-Boise, recalled some childhood memories of his parents stomping grapes to make wine in the basement.

Then, turning to an old science book he once used as a teacher he quoted Louis Pasteur as once saying that wine was the most healthful of all liquids and a "natural cure for man's ills."

Stricter tipsy test level OK'd

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate State Affairs Committee gave a "do pass" recommendation Thursday to legislation to lower the blood alcohol level for drunken driving charges from .10 to .08.

Sen. Art Murphy, D-Mullan, told the committee there was one "basic flaw" in the legislation in that "there's no man who's going to be able to tell when he has .08 per cent in his blood."

But Sen. James Ellsworth, R-Lendore, said the legislature constantly passed restrictions for vehicles in an effort to lower the highway fatality toll "and completely ignore the principle cause of accidents."

Solon eyes health care alternative

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, has introduced a bill which he said was an alternative to the national health insurance system being proposed by the President and others.

McClure said he still opposed national health insurance because he felt it would lead to socialized medicine, but felt that his bill will avoid that pitfall.

He said his bill proposed programs for the financing of health care for low income persons, cash incentives through tax credits for the acquisition of comprehensive health insurance coverage, and a structured state wide system for peer review of utilization, charges and quality of service.

The bill provides that the federal contribution to insurance for individuals with a tax liability above $300 would be scaled in favor of low-income taxpayers, from 98 per cent down to 10 per cent, McClure said.

"For example, if in 1970 a family of four had an income of $6,500 and used the standard deduction its tax liability would be $493," he said.

"Under my plan, the family would receive a tax credit of 75 per cent of the cost of the premium. If his premium is say $600, the taxpayer could reduce his income tax payment from $493 to $35."

Probate code wins approval

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate approved, 31-1, Thursday the Uniform Probate Code which floor sponsor Edith Miller Klein, R-Boise, said would "serve the people of Idaho efficiently and well."

The 142-page code was the result of several months of work by an interim committee chaired by Sen. Klein, and was presented after extensive hearings before the Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee. Later the upper chamber passed, 27-0, a series of amendments to the code drawn up following the hearings.

Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, a member of the judiciary and rules committee, described the bill as a "landmark piece of legislation that all citizens of Idaho will benefit from."

"If you fail to pass this you will make a great mistake," he said.

Money panel nears tentative budget

BOISE (UPI) — The co-chairman of the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee said Thursday the group had almost arrived at a tentative budget but needed further direction on the future of the Division of Management Services.

Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Malden, said the tentative budget would be between $121 million and $123 million — compared with Gov. Cecil D. Andrus' proposed executive budget of $128.1 million.

Since Andrus outlined his program, however, the legislature has eliminated about $4 million in revenue needed to balance the executive budget for general fund spending for fiscal year 1972.

Palmer said the committee needed to hear from Andrus as to "who is going to be responsible for data processing."

Data processing has been under the control of management services along with centralized printing and some auditing, but Andrus asked that the division be abolished.

Andrus was expected to return to Boise Friday from Washington, D.C., where he attended a national governors' conference. Palmer said it would be Monday or Tuesday before the joint committee would set the budgets for the management service functions.

Palmer said the committee had "three or four" general fund budgets to set along with dedicated funds for the Fish and Game Department, the Highway Department, and the Department of Agriculture.

Problems with your irrigation ditches? CONSIDER THE ADVANTAGES OF INSTALLING TEX-FLOW GATED ALUMINUM PIPE

Convert from this... to this for greater all-around efficiency

Erosion, weed control, loss of water through seepage and evaporation, extra labor, wasted crop land and interference with field operations are all recognized problems associated with an open ditch irrigation system.

Lightweight aluminum pipe equipped with quick-coupling, self-sealing couplers and adjustable gates not only solves these problems, but also offers many other advantages. Here's what happens when you install Tex-Flow gated pipe:

- Seepage and evaporation losses are reduced or eliminated.
- Crops can be produced on land that otherwise would be required for ditches.
- Turn rows can be kept smooth, thus reducing danger of damage to equipment during cultivation and harvesting.
- Since pipe does not need to follow the ditch level contour, most point rows are eliminated.
- Because pipe can easily be moved, there is a minimum of obstruction to tillage and harvesting operations.
- Corrugations do not need to be shoveled open.
- Check dams and siphon tubes are eliminated.
- Water can be carried over hills and under depressions to serve areas which would be difficult or impossible to reach with ditches.
- Water can be closely controlled because the gates are adjustable.
- Weed problems associated with open ditches are eliminated.
- Pipe can easily be moved from one field to another.

For complete information on how you can use gated irrigation pipe, together with a cost estimate.

Grain program sign-up period begins Monday

SHOSHONE — Feed grain and wheat producers in Lincoln County who wish to qualify for program benefits through the ASCS, must sign up to participate during the period, March 1 through April 9, reports Eugene Alexander, chairman of the Lincoln County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The 1971-crop-set asides will be 20 per cent for feed grain and 75 per cent for wheat, according to government decision, Mr. Alexander said.

These set-aside percentages were announced as tentative in December and based on preliminary estimates of acreage required for this year's production to meet U.S. domestic and export needs. The preliminary estimates now appear to be satisfactory, Alexander said.

The 20 per cent diversion requirement for feed grain establishes a preliminary payment of 32 cents per bushel for corn and 29 cents per bushel for sorghum. The yield established for the farm times one-half the corn or sorghum base. Participants in the feed grain program will be guaranteed a national average of $1.35 a bushel on the production from half their corn base, and $1.24 a bushel on half their sorghum base. Payments to participating feed grain producers will begin as soon as possible after July 1.

The certificate payment rate for wheat will depend on the final parity price for wheat and actual market price received during the first five months of the marketing year. The loan level for wheat will be $1.25 per bushel, national average, producers to get about 75 per cent after July 1, the rest in December, 1971.

Gem milk output up

BOISE — Total milk production on Idaho farms during 1970 look an upswing and was the highest since 1964.

The Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said a record milk production per cow of 9,551 pounds coupled with a small gain in milk cow numbers was responsible for this increase.

The milk cow herd for Idaho which averaged 156,000 cows produced 1,400 million pounds of milk — four per cent above 1969.

Spud growers may tax selves for promotions

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Potato growers may soon join the ranks of farm producers who tax themselves to promote their product, an Oregon official of the National Potato Council said Tuesday.

Edwin J. Stastney, Mallin, past chairman of the Oregon Potato Commission and now a member of the NPC steering committee, said the way has been cleared to submit such a proposal to potato growers nationally.

If they approve, under a new law and recently adopted regulations of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, a collection system would go into effect to finance promotion research aimed at expanding the market for potatoes.

This year again there's another tax to worry about when preparing your federal income tax return.

Senate OK's Snake project

BOISE (UPI) — A Senate committee voted today to introduce a bill authorizing the Idaho Water Resource Board to plan and construct a state-owned water project in the Grand View - Guffey reach of the Snake River or enter into some form of a joint venture.

But at the same time the Senate Resources and Environment Committee approved for introduction a concurrent resolution which would establish a legislative committee which must review and by majority vote either accept or reject any final contract the board wished to present to it.

The bill referred to the proposal by Idaho Power Co. to enter into a joint project with the Water board to construct and maintain dam and power facilities on the Snake, but since the beginning of the session some legislators have questioned whether a totally state-owned project would be preferable.

The bill would state that the legislature finds development of the area of the Snake River to be in the public interest. The board would be instructed to: — Maximize the recreational potential, development of fish and wildlife habitat, and uses of the water resources of southwest Idaho.

— Facilitate irrigation of the arid lands of southwest Idaho by providing means of utilizing the water resources of southwest Idaho.

— And meet future power needs of the state of Idaho and its inhabitants by contributing to the development of necessary electrical energy use in the Ada-Canyon County area of southwest Idaho.

Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, voted against introducing the measure and said more study was needed before the legislature approved any action.

(The House Health and Welfare Committee reported out with favorable recommendation a bill calling for a mental health facility at the state prison.

While the members favored the proposal they expressed concern about possibly creating a "new institution" in simply enabling legislation. Some said perhaps more comprehensive legislation should be drawn if that is the desire.

Meantime, another constitutional proposal was introduced in the house. This would allow the State Board of Regents to charge resident students tuition for attending institutions of higher education.

Two members of the House of Representatives appeared before the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee to propose and oppose an accountability measure which was approved by the House 35-33.

Rep. Larry Looney, D-Coeur d'Alene, said the bill would require teachers to set up specific goals that the students must achieve before they successfully complete a course.

UF money allocations to match needs here

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls United Fund campaign will continue to determine agency needs on a local basis, despite a statement by an official of the National United Community Fund Council that the Boy Scouts should be downgraded in favor of "the ghetto."

Dari Gleed, executive director of the United Fund in Twin Falls, said that the national UF Council provides guidance and publicity for local community campaigns, including the Twin Falls United Fund, but has no control of fund allocations.

Laurence Bolling, a Negro businessman and chairman of the national council's allocation committee, said that the Boy Scouts do not need the funds raised by community campaigns as much as ghetto children.

Gleed defended the local United Fund effort, saying that the allocation of funds is determined by "local people for local agencies, based on strictly local needs."

The national council director, who lives in San Francisco, "is speaking for his area only; he doesn't have any idea what our local needs are," Gleed said.

"The Scouts have done more themselves than practically any other group to reach out toward the ghetto youth," Gleed said.

"We are affiliated with the national council, but they don't control our local allocations," he emphasized.

Man asks preliminary

TWIN FALLS — Wayne Jolley, 22, Twin Falls, requested preliminary hearing on a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon when arraigned Thursday before Magistrate Court Judge Daniel Meehl in connection with a shooting earlier in the day.

Jolley was represented by Rudy Barchas of the public defender law firm of Rayborn, Rayborn, Webb and Pike. He is accused of shooting Nicholas Stephens, 22, Heyburn, early Thursday morning in the apartment of Jolley's estranged wife, Geraldine Jolley.

The defendant was also arraigned Thursday before Judge Meehl on two misdemeanor charges arising from the Thursday morning incident. He is charged with disorderly conduct and malicious destruction of property. Judge Meehl reduced bond of $2,000 on the felony charge and set $50 bond on each of the two misdemeanor charges. Jolley was remanded to the custody of Sheriff Paul Corder in lieu of bond.

Attendants at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital said today Stephens is in fair condition with a bullet wound in the abdomen. The bullet entered near the man's waist and passed out the back, traveling in a straight line.

Judge Meehl said a preliminary hearing date will be set by the court in the near future. The defendant waived his right to a jury trial on the misdemeanor charges and Judge Meehl said they would be taken care of as soon as possible to clear the way for the more serious charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Robert Galley pointed out in arguing against reduction of bond the defendant "already faces a fourth charge in the court."

Jolley was charged with disorderly conduct Jan. 26 following an incident in which he is alleged to have threatened his estranged wife.

Ghetto to receive aid from community chests

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — From now on, local "community chest" funds will be giving less to the Boy Scouts and more to groups which help drug addicts and black orphans, an official of the National United Community Fund Council said today.

The new policy in United Fund administration is being tested this year in the $17 million United Bay Area Crusade. A $1.5 million kitty for "new directions" projects was creamed off the top.

This action touched off bitter protests from the agencies which historically received all the money. Many of them are getting less this year than they expected. Some were cut off altogether.

"We are no longer going to be just a federated fund-raising organization," said Laurence Bolling, chairman of the national council's allocation committee. "That was fine 10 years ago but doesn't mean anything today. We are out there to take care of people where the need is."

In an interview with UPI, Bolling, 52, a black businessman, said community funds have operated in the past as if they were owned by the agencies for whom they collected money.

"What we are saying now is that this charity belongs to the public and we should make sure the public gets real value," he said.

Traditionally, United Community Funds have allocated money mostly on the basis of what the various agencies received and spent the year before.

"The Boy Scouts are exactly an example of what I am talking about," Bolling said. "How long can we continue to justify maintaining several troops in an affluent suburban area when there is nothing for the child in the ghetto?"

In the Bay area this year the "new directions" money will go to drug programs, services to the Spanish-speaking poor, minority race adoption programs and similar good works which received little or no Community Fund help previously.

Rupert CD meet solves 'problems'

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Correspondent

RUPERT — Transportation of food supplies and people were among problems worked on during a city-county civil defense exercise at Rupert Thursday.

George Falkner, Minidoka County Civil Defense director, said 27 persons participated in the exercise.

Some of the problems which the participants worked on were moving personnel from fallout shelters to other housing; transporting victims from blast areas; shipping food out of the county; furnishing food and moving it to various places in the county; caring for persons requiring medical attention in fallout shelters; fighting fires and road repair.

Falkner said all of the situations were simulated by a team of local residents, working in an upstairs room at the Civic Auditorium. Battery operated telephones were used to communicate with another team located in a basement room. The latter group made decisions and issued orders to solve problems.

Observing the exercise were four civil defense officials from the University of Idaho, Moscow. Russell W. Cooke, assistant coordinator, said all of the maps, information forms, and other items will be left in Minidoka County for use in other training exercises.

Assisting Falkner in directing the session was Royce Jenpen, assistant county director. Agencies participating were county, school, public assistance, medical, city, police and Bureau of Reclamation officials.

Blood drawing set at Jerome

JEROME — The Red Cross bloodmobile will be in Jerome from 2 to 8 p.m. March 8 at the Moose Hall, with a quota of 125 pints of blood.

The blood drawing is sponsored by the recently organized Veterans of Foreign Wars as the post's main project of the year, according to VFW officials.

Jerome has not reached its blood quota the past two years and residents are encouraged to donate blood March 8 so the goal will be reached this time, according to Mrs. Gene Overfield, district health nurse.

She and Mrs. H. L. Prescott and Mrs. Jerry Diehl are members of the volunteer bloodmobile committee. Letters urging participation in the drawing have been mailed to business firms, organizations, lodges, churches and civic groups.

Wendell council appoints Mason

WENDELL — Vernon Mason was appointed to the Wendell City Council Thursday night, replacing George Benson who resigned for personal reasons.

The council position will be filled in the municipal election in November, for the completion of the two year term, according to Gwen Collett, city clerk.

Earl Wood, city building inspector, reported on cost of materials for improvement of restrooms in the city park and city workers were authorized to paint the city pump houses.

Councilman Dale Bitterll was appointed to investigate a request from Dee Collins, Wendell resident, for a street light on the corner of Wendell Street and Third Avenue West.

A public hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. March 25 on the new city budget and at 7:30 p.m. March 11 a board of correction will be held for the irrigation assessment rates.

Wine sale bill hit at Rupert

RUPERT — Rupert Chamber of Commerce members are opposed to a bill in the Idaho Legislature which would permit wine to be sold in grocery stores.

The vote was in response to a request from Idaho Sen. John Peavey and Rep. Steve Antone, both R-Rupert, during a telephone session at the Thursday chamber meeting at the Elks lodge.

Sen. Peavey estimated the legislative session will continue into the middle of March since much work is yet to be done on the budget, he said.

Other topics of discussion included bills on flood control, natural resources and water, uniform probate court code, criminal code and school formula.

Rupert Mayor Wendell Johnson will discuss the city budget during next week's chamber meeting, William Strasser, chamber president, said. He announced nine new members joined the chamber during the membership drive.

Chamber directors will meet at 8 p.m. Monday and a merchant's meeting is scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday, both in the chamber office.

Victim's body sent to Oregon

GOODING — The body of Mrs. Clara Mickelson, 65, Eugene, Ore., found in a stream near Hagerman last Sunday, has been sent to Springfield, Ore., for burial, Deputy Sheriff Jim Burke said today.

The deputy said Oregon authorities first suspected foul play in the woman's disappearance from Eugene March 6, 1970, when it was discovered money also had been taken from the motel where she worked.

Officers there believe the woman was murdered, Deputy Burke said, since she took no belongings or her medicine with her when she left. Her car was found the following day in Blackfoot and her purse in the Gooding area.

Capitol antics

THE MARBLE-CLAD SOLEMNITY of the Idaho Statehouse is occasionally shattered by the antics of school children visiting the 41st Legislature. Here a coed flings a handbag from the second floor to the first floor to a waiting friend who stands directly beneath the massive capital dome.

Rocks, mining mercury source, survey shows

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Mercury in rocks or related mining appeared to be responsible for most of the mineral accumulated by Pacific Northwest fish, an Oregon State University biochemist said Thursday.

Dr. Donald R. Buhler, biochemist of the OSU Environmental Health Sciences Center, told a mercury workshop that the major source of mercury contamination of Oregon pheasant apparently is mercury-treated seeds used in agriculture.

He directed both the fish and pheasant studies.

He said, "Approximately 75 percent of northern squawfish, 85 percent of brown bullhead, 47 percent of largemouth bass, 64 percent of channel catfish and 11 percent of white sturgeon examined contained mercury concentrations exceeding 0.5 parts per million set by the Food and Drug Administration for human food."

He said chinook and coho salmon and other fish that spent most of their life in the ocean showed the lowest concentration of mercury in a study in Oregon, California, Idaho and Washington. Specimens were collected in rivers, lakes and bays and muscle tissue analyzed for mercury by flameless atomic absorption.

"Mercury was found in all samples tested," Buhler said, "with the highest concentration — 1.22 parts per million — in northern squawfish taken from the Columbia River near Camas, Wash."

"Chlor-alkali plants at Longview and Bellingham, Wash., represented major sources of mercury discharge into Pacific northwest waters."

Crayfish from the Columbia just downstream from the Longview plant contained an average mercury concentration of 2.18 parts per million, compared to 0.18 for those a few miles up stream. Crab, sand sole and English sole from Bellingham bay near a chlor-alkali plant accumulated mercury concentrations eight times greater than those found in the nearby San Juan Islands, at 2.5 parts per million.

Concentrations of mercury in pheasant breast muscle exceeded background levels in about 69 percent of the 187 ring-necked pheasant checked in Malheur, Umatilla, Benton, Lane, Linn, Marion, Polk and Yamhill, Ore., counties. The average mercury concentration in breast muscle was 0.11 parts per million.

The YWCA has given this class for 10 years to girls who are seeking employment by babysitting or are responsible for younger brothers and sisters at home. It is one of the most responsible occupations and probably employs more individuals than any other business, said Sally Motynoux, YWCA director.

It is most important the babysitter know automatically what to do in case of emergency, she said. Through adequate education and continual renewal of necessary information such as telephone numbers of the doctor, police, fire department, and location of the parents, many tragic events can be avoided.

Registration for the class will be taken by phone at the YWCA office, 733-4384. The course will be four weeks and can be counted as credit for those in Camp Fire and 4-H. There will be a nominal charge for the course. This course is given in cooperation with the Twin Falls Police Department, Fire Department and Public Health Department.

Couple repeats vows in rites

FILER — A double ring ceremony Feb. 12 in Peace Lutheran Church, united in marriage Countess Jean Lutz, daughter of Mrs. Wanda Lutz, Filer, and Robert Lutz, Royal City, Wash., and Rodley Dean Berry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Berry, Sr., Filer.

Rev. T.D. Johnston performed the rites before background decorations of large baskets of yellow chrysanthemums and white gladioli, with a matching altar arrangement.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white velvet gown with long lily point sleeves. Seed pearl embroidery enhanced the neckline and cummerbund.

Her elbow-length veil of illusion was held by a tara of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white orchids and roses with yellow satin streamers.

Carol Lutz, twin sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Tom Lutz, brother of the bride, lighted the tapers.

Rick Sharp, Filer, was best man, and Steven Lutz and Ron Berry, brothers of the bride and bridegroom, were ushers.

Mrs. Gary Schroeder was organist and accompanied Maurine Hopkins and Dublin Glavin, who sang a duet. Mrs. Ellis Linn made all the bouquets and corsages.

A reception for 100 guests was held in the fellowship hall. Marjorie Lutz was in charge of the guest book, and Leta Berry and Sue Lutz displayed the gifts.

The refreshment table carried out a yellow and white color theme and was centered by a wedding cake baked and decorated by Effie Paschen.

Trina Harrison poured coffee and Jean Porter served cake. Both are cousins of the bridegroom. Punch was served by Rita Kuest, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride and bridegroom both attended schools in Filer. They will make their home in Filer.

The bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower hosted by Marcella Schroeder, Carol Lutz and Leta Berry.

Guests attended the wedding from Rathdrum, Boise, Shoshone, Spokane, Wash., and neighboring towns.

A Lovelier You

LOVELINESS ELBOWS WAY IN

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovelier writes—What can I do to smooth and whiten my elbows? They feel like sandpaper and look grubby. I do not know why. They are not abused. I work at a desk all day and have been wearing long sleeves all winter.

Nothing helps, neither pumice stone nor hand lotion.

The answer: First off you have to break the habit of leaning on your elbows—leaning on your desk, the arms of chairs, table tops. You do lean, you know. Otherwise the skin would not be in such a fix.

Child "ell" pressure's off, elbows respond to a variety of treatments:

1. Cleanse the elbows with a firm brush and facial quality soap several times daily. Dry briskly with a terry towel and massage in body lotion.

2. To cleanse, dry elbows apply a scuff remover. This is a fluid cream, originally designed to create pretty feet from a mass of calloused spots. The action on the elbows is much the same. You simply rub it in until rough skin is loosened, when you whisk away particles. As only a little scuff comes away with each treatment, keep at it. At least three times a week.

3. Pale the skin with a prepared skin bleach or a homemade lemon soak. But do avoid using either on the same day as scuff remover. For a soak, halve and hull out a lemon leaving a little pulp inside. Then oil your elbows and soak them in the cups for 15 minutes. Rinse pat dry and apply lotion.

Nix on Pix names 1970 TOPS queen

TWIN FALLS — Marlo Wheelan is queen of the Nix on Pix TOPS Club of Twin Falls, according to Vonda Wagner, leader.

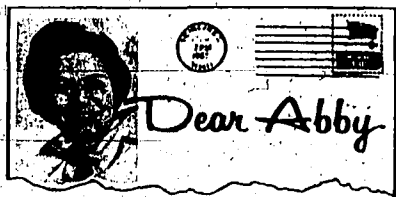

The new queen recorded a weight loss of 42½ pounds and received a bouquet of carnations and a trophy.

Minerva Smith, with a weight loss of 35 pounds, was named KOPS queen and was also given a bouquet and trophy.

Four members were given charms for recording 10-pound weight losses and officers were also given charms for holding office for one year.

DEAR ABBY: I was having trouble with my TV set so I called a TV repairman who lives in my neighborhood. I called him at his place of business and he came right over and looked at the set. I asked him to tell me how much it would cost to fix the set, and he smiled and said, "That all depends on how nice you are to me."

We both laughed, and, of course, I thought he was joking. Then he took the set to his shop and said he'd bring it back in a week. Well, after two weeks I called him and asked when he was going to bring my set back and he said, "When your husband isn't home." That's where we stand. How do I get my set back without causing a lot of trouble? If my husband knew about this he would take that punk apart.

KENWOOD

DEAR KENWOOD: Call that self-styled Casanova and tell him if he doesn't have your set back today, you will tell your husband and report him to the Better Business Bureau. I don't think you will have to wait long.

DEAR ABBY: I have the worst problem of them all. I am only 21 years old, have been married for six years and we have three children. My husband is a responsible, hard-working young man. He works a swing shift all the time. That's not bad, but he also works weekends every chance he gets. When he isn't working weekends he looks for spare jobs, and when he isn't working he is too tired for anything else.

We don't have any friends and he doesn't care to go any place. We are financially well off as he doesn't have any hobbies and likes to save his money.

I find myself lonely and bored. I am not asking for an overly exciting life, but I would like to be with people or go dancing once in a while. I love him and my family very much, but does married life have to be so dull? He used to be alive once. He is only 24. Please tell me what to do.

EXISTING IN CONN.

DEAR EXISTING: First, you will have to set your workhorse down and tell him to unhook the harness. Talk to him and find out what is driving him out of the house. Let him know that before rigor mortis sets into your marriage you need a little social life. [It's usually up to the wife to make the friends and arrange an evening "out"—or in with others.] Don't just let time pass, without making an effort to sharpen up your dull lives. It's your move.

DEAR ABBY: Will you be kind enough to remind your readers that when a husband dies, his widow does not lose the right to his full name?

It makes one feel that those who address her as "Mrs. Mary Jones" ignore the fact that Bill Jones ever lived and could be very much alive in her heart!

It is my understanding that a woman becomes "Mrs. Mary Jones" only when she is divorced. When widowed, she remains "Mrs. Bill Jones" unless she remarries.

For more than two years I've been receiving correspondence from friends who have dropped the use of my husband's first name. And in the church bulletin, whenever my name is included with married women, they are referred to as "Mrs. John Smith," and I am "Mrs. Mary Jones."

This may seem like a small thing, but when a woman has had a good marriage, it is like a slap in the face to have his very existence denied.

I know many people who read your column are unaware of this slight, and am hopeful this gentle reminder will enlighten them. Respectfully and proudly,

MRS. JOHN JONES

DEAR MRS. JOHN JONES: I'll remind my readers again. Many a widow is sure to sigh silently, "I don't care what people call me—as long as they call me. Gee, I'm lonesome."

Oakley gains A-4 finals; Hansen, Trojans ousted

BURLEY — The Murtaugh Red Devils and Hagerman Pirates stayed alive in the losers' bracket while top-seeded Oakley had to overcome what can now be called the sixth district A-4 tournament shakes to beat Castleford 47-32 and become the only undefeated team in the meet. In fact, the victory assured the Hornets of two shots at a state tournament berth since even if some team does pull off a miracle and beat them twice, the Hornets can finish no lower than second and that would put them in a playoff with the winner of district eight.

Murtaugh, getting good defensive work from Wayne DeGeorge and Rob Wright plus scoring punch from Mark Howard, stayed just ahead throughout the second half to eliminate Raft River 70-63. Hagerman, for the third straight time this year, sent a good Hansen outfit to the sidelines 83-71 in another scoring duel.

Castleford, the Cinderella club of the meet, gave the highly touted Hornets three quarters of anxiety before big Randy Hardy and Simmons broke them loose in the last period for a 47-32 decision. Oakley went three minutes without a point and four more before getting its second bucket. As the Wolves had a chance to break away there. However, they could manage only four points each from Lynn Reese and Ron Kaercher. By the end of the period, Oakley pulled into a tie and then took the lead in another lean-scoring second period when Castleford went dead and managed only three points — all by Lynn Reese.

The tournament is off Friday night but resumes Saturday along with the Jayco portion. The junior crews will play three games starting at 4 p.m. with the lone varsity game pitting Murtaugh against Hagerman. The winner of that one will play Castleford in a single game Tuesday night.

In the first game, Nick Neddo and Jim Wickel hit 16 points in the first period as Raft River racked up a quick 11-3 lead but couldn't maintain the pace. Howard, who hit 29 points, got seven and Wright five as Murtaugh closed to within two and Howard, with nine, and Wright with four points, shoved the Devils ahead slightly in the second period and the Devils remained there. Thompson kept Raft River within five points in the third quarter but the Trojans' hopes for a rally and victory died on poor shooting in the final eight minutes. They managed only one field goal by Thompson and got their other 11 points from the foul line from Wickel, Neddo and Shorzman. Neddo and Wickel went without a field goal in the second half.

lers in double scoring figures while Hansen had four of five with 12 or more points.

Nicklaus nabs early lead in PGA meet

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI)—Bronzed, blond Jack Nicklaus, striving to become golf's first double grand slammer, took the opening round lead in the prestigious PGA Championship Thursday with a "wild and beautiful" 3-under-par 69.

That was good enough to give the 31-year-old reigning British Open champion a one-stroke lead over former Masters champion Bob Goalby, New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles and virtual unknown Bobby Mitchell from Danville, Va.

Nicklaus facing 145 professional rivals at the PGA's home course, is the only golfer ever to have a shot at a double "grand slam", for only he has already twice won the U.S. Open, Masters and British Open and also won previously in the PGA (1963).

"I don't recall having played a wilder 69," Nicklaus said with a wide grin. "But, to score on this golf course, you're going to have to scramble to beat this golf course."

The pre-tournament favorite was only even with par after he three-putted from 30 feet at No. 11 Thursday. But then he rolled off three birdies in the span of the next four holes.

"I saw a real champion in action today," exclaimed playing partner Gene Sarazen who is appearing in his 50th PGA Championship. "He could have closed with two bogies but managed to turn both into pars. That's the mark of a champion."

Mitchell, now in his sixth year on the pro tour but never better than last year's second-place finish in the satellite Azalea Open, was even with Nicklaus on the leader board until he fluffed his drive at No. 16.

Goalby got his 70 in an entirely different manner, sinking a pair of 20-foot birdie putts on the final two holes and Charles needed a birdie at No. 17 to throw the runnerup spot into a three-way tie.

Arnold Palmer, now 41, and anxious to add his first PGA crown to his collection of 56 other tournament victories, shot a 3-over-par 75 Thursday and, to add injury to insult, had to play the last two holes in a driving rain that came up briefly during the late afternoon.

Palmer's putting was, by his own admission, "atrocious." He two-putted from eight feet at No. 8 and No. 8 and then three-putted from a little more than four feet at No. 9 "when I was a little bit carelessly," to turn the front side in 4 over.

Defending champion Dave Stockton, enjoying the shortest reign of any PGA champ because this tournament was switched from August to February on a one-time-only basis, had a 73 Thursday, four strokes off Nicklaus' pace.

There was a logjam at 1-under-par 71 and an even bigger one at even-par 72.

South Africa's Gary Player, who has won the "grand slam" once himself, was in that 71 group along with U.S. Open champ Tony Jacklin of England, Masters champ Billy Casper, and 58-year-old Sam Snead, the last man (1951) to repeat as a winner in this coveted tournament.

Anderson, 71 included Bradley Anderson, Johnny Miller, Larry Hinson, 50-year-old Julius Boros, Australian Bruce Devlin, Dean Berman and Bert Yancey.

Most of the leaders were among the early starters who benefited from not having to battle the brisk wind that came up around noon or the later rain.

Still top-rated, Eagles hit road

The College of Southern Idaho goes on the road for the last time this weekend with a chance to clinch the "given" national championship and the Eagles' best season ever.

The Eagles, still ranked No. 1 in the national junior college poll, run into a couple of tough windups as they play at University of Utah frosh Friday night and Brigham Young University frosh Saturday. Their record is 28-1.

The latest national poll shows the Eagles picked up a little ground as second-place and previously undefeated Brevard, Fla., was topped by Miami-Dale in its final outing. San Jacinto, Tex., climbed to third at 32-3 while Casper moved up to fourth and Vincennes, Ind., dropped to fifth.

Meanwhile, Tim Bassett has jumped into the Intermountain Collegiate Athletic Conference rebounding lead with an average of 14 inkedowns per game but would have the title easily on total. He replaces Charles Anderson of Eastern Utah who has 132 but Bassett has the total lead 407-356.

In ICAC scoring, Eastern Utah's Sid Hansen is out of reach with a 22.2 average but Ralph Palomer is fourth at 10.0, Ron Behagen is fifth with 18.4, Steve Hagens sixth with 17.6, Bassett eighth with 15.0 and Vic Kelly 18th with 10.0.

Following this week's action the Eagles will be pointed toward the regionals in Coeur d'Alene. They will have to win twice there and then fight through an inter-regional best of three series in their home gym before getting the chance to participate in national again.

Going into the weekend, Mesa, Ariz., appeared the No. 1 team from the 16th region.

Marquette wins in overtime

NEW YORK (UPI)—Second-ranked Marquette, paced by 6-11 center Jim Chones' seven points in an overtime session, defeated ninth-ranked Fordham, 85-80, Thursday night for its 22nd victory of the season and 34th consecutive triumph over a two-year span.

Manhattan beat Connecticut, 80-83, in the opener before a capacity crowd of 19,500 at Madison Square Garden as Brian Mahoney scored 30 points for the Jaspers and Ron Manning added a career-high 28 points.

Chones, who scored 22 points to pace a balance Marquette attack, broke a 68-68 tie with a jump shot just 10 seconds into the overtime period and got the Warriors a five-point lead less than a minute later when he scored a three-point play.

Fordham, losing for only the second time in 22 games, got no closer than three points after that.

The Rams had a chance to win the game in regulation time when George Vanbottel was fouled by Gary Brel with 30 seconds left to play and the score tied at 68-68. But Vanbottel missed the first of a one-and-one situation and Marquette held the ball for the last shot.

Al McGuire, son of the Marquette coach, took the last shot with seven seconds to go but missed to send the game into overtime.

In the conference, both against Gooding State, meets Richfield in the 8:30 p.m. nightcap Friday night. In the first game at 7 p.m. the Northside Conference champion Camas County Musers bow into the meet by taking on Carey. Saturday night the four losers will play.

The Bears, after falling behind 9-2 early in the game with Dietrich, rallied behind Mark Lee and pulled into a 29-28 halftime lead. In the second quarter Lee hit eight of eight from the line to bring Bliss from behind and into the one-point margin.

But the third quarter decided the game as the Blue Devils could come up with just two field goals and one from the line. Meanwhile Bliss got four points apiece from Mathews and Patterson, and five from Ray Tschannen to move into a 10-point bulge at 45-35.

Dietrich rallied in the last four minutes and pulled within a point with 1:20 left in the game but Tschannen hit a pair of free throws after the Bears went into a slow-down to ice it. The Blue Devils were hurt earlier in the frame when Ken Measery fouled out with a game-high 21 points.

In the first game the Redskins stayed with Carey the first eight minutes and only trailed 9-6, but Murdock and Simpson warmed up in the second quarter and shot the Panthers into a 25-13 lead. The pair combined for 12 points over the eight minute span and Carey coasted well away after that.

Thoeni pads cup lead
SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI)—Riding his skis on glare ice with solid rhythm, Gustavo Thoeni, of Italy carved the two top-album runs at Heavenly Valley Thursday to easily take first place and add five more points to his world cup lead.

The slim, dark-haired 20-year-old Italian put together runs of 48.83 seconds and 56.06 for a one-minute, 44.89-second total, lopping by 1.67 seconds Christian Neureither of West Germany, who popped up from a sixth place first run to take second.

Neureither, 21, of Garmisch-Partenkirchen, skiing with smooth strength, posted a 49.90 and 56.66, totaling 1:46.56 and 20 world cup points for his country.

North's three-heart bid was a limit raise. His hand was worth 12 points in support of hearts and he wanted to be in game unless his partner had a rock-bottom minimum. South's hand was far from it! In fact it was almost strong enough for an opening force. South checked for aces and bid six hearts after finding one missing. He ruffed the second spade and played his ace of trumps. He was going to claim if both opponents followed; but West was unkind enough to discard a spade. South paused to study the future play.

There is a special kind of bridge player's assignment that causes them to overlook the possibilities of the dummy and concentrate on their own cards. If South had this disease he would have worked on the club suit by leading to the king and ruffing. East would overruff and return a diamond whereupon South would go down two tricks and complete-of-had luck. South didn't fall into this trap. Instead he looked at dummy's diamonds. South cashed the ace and king, entered dummy with the ace of clubs and played the queen of diamonds.

This left East stone-cold dead in the market. If he ruffed, South would overruff; draw trumps with one left in dummy; cash the king of clubs; ruff another club with dummy's last trump and make the last two diamonds. If East didn't ruff, South would continue the diamond parade until all losing clubs had been thrown away and then finess against the jack of trumps.

Care of aged Laymen active

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Europe can set a good example for the United States in caring for older citizens, according to the Rev. John M. Mason, director of the Department of Services to the Aging of the American Lutheran Church.

Mr. Mason told a conference on services to the aging: "You may travel from country to country and you will find that care of the aged is entrusted to the nonprofit homes—where love for and concern for the right of an old person to be a real person with a sense of personal value and integrity is held high—and no place is allowed for the program that permits proprietary operators to exploit the aged to their own advantage."

George Washington was inaugurated president in New York City in April, 1789.

Idaho cultural aspects noted

By LORAYNE SMITH
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — Immigration from the south and Midwest in the early days of Idaho; plus the Mormon influence, all have contributed to the conservatism and stability of the Magic Valley area, a Methodist clergymen said here Wednesday.

Panel members during a convocation on evangelism held at the Twin Falls church discussed these influences during an orientation session on "Psychology-Culture and Needs of Idaho."

Participants included Erwin Schwelbert, Caldwell; Rev. Ed Stanton, Gooding; Rev. Ralph Folbergill, Rev. Keith Mills, district superintendent, with Rev. Earl Riddle, Portland, conference program director, as moderator.

Members pointed out that in recent years a more liberal element has come into Idaho with the AEC operation at Idaho Falls.

The panel was part of a two-day training session for ministers from throughout the state as part of the Oregon-Idaho conference "Operation Concern." About 35 ministers from throughout the United States were here to assist in the training and inspirational sessions, then work with local churches for the next few days.

Dr. Charles Whittle, Nashville, Tenn., Dr. James S. Chubb, Grand Island, Neb., and Bishop W. Maynard Sparks, Seattle, were leaders of the special convocation on evangelism.

Methodists are becoming more inclusive in style, Dr. Whittle said Wednesday afternoon, noting it was a welcome sign that all styles, from Gothic architecture to hamburger stand type ministries, are now being accepted.

He said another encouraging sign among the denomination is that "We have developed an authentic human concern, moving from passion to compassion."

After a decade of vocalizing what is wrong with the church, Dr. Whittle said, church people now are beginning to affirm what is right.

There is a Methodist church in every county in the United States, he said.

Indoor camp meet slated

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley indoor camp meeting, sponsored by Nazarene churches of Magic Valley, will be held at the First Church of the Nazarene, 401 Sixth Ave. N., Tuesday through March 7.

Services will be held at 7:45 p.m. week nights and at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday through Friday and at 7 p.m. on Sunday, according to Rev. Joe Chastain, pastor.

Dr. Hugh C. Benner, general superintendent, emeritus, will be the speaker, and Rev. and Mrs. Herb Steele will be in charge of the music for the services.

Nazarene churches will participate from Buhl, Gooding, Jerome, Rupert, Burley, Kimberly, and Filer, as well as Twin Falls.

Quilts made at Kimberly

KIMBERLY — It was reported that 15 small quilts are finished and ready for the Day Care Center, Twin Falls, and that 10 more are ready to finish, when the Women's Society of Christian Service met Wednesday at the United Methodist Church.

Some Gold Strike stamps and books were brought to help the Mountain View Convalescent Center, Kimberly, purchase a projector.

The WSCS accepted the responsibility of sending courtesy cards to church members.

Honoring high school seniors also was discussed and some plans will be announced for honoring those church members who are among the graduates.

Mrs. Ralph Nelson presented the lesson study on "A Study in Reality and Risk." She gave a review of the book, a background on Cuban women. One of the problems brought out was that although some women do come to the United States, others who have teen-age children can't as teen-agers are not allowed to leave Cuba.

Mrs. Grace Durk, Mrs. Edith Patterson and Mrs. Mary Orr assisted in the program.

The rug has been laid in the fireplace room and the walls have been painted a lighter shade of green. New drapes and possibly new furniture will be added.

Mrs. Joe Laughlin and Mrs. Orville Allen were hostesses. The next Hansen Circle meeting will be a 1 p.m. luncheon March 3 at the home of Mrs. W.C. Klutz with Mrs. Durk assisting the hostess.

Projects

MANILA (UPI) — In 1968-69, the Roman Catholic Church in the Philippines sponsored about 2,000 social action projects throughout the country, ranging from credit unions to cottage industries.

Child care also will be offered to younger families during the March 1 and 2 preaching services at 7:30 p.m.

Valley Briefs

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Women's Bowling Assn. annual meeting will be at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Idaho Power Co. auditorium. Officers for the next two years will be elected and tournament trophies and checks will be given. Players who earned 200 pins and did not get them at the tournament will receive them at this time.

Rupert church sets meeting

RUPERT — The Rupert United Methodist Church is participating with other churches in the Oregon-Idaho conference in "Operation Concern," and a series of meetings began Thursday and will continue through Tuesday.

Rev. Bob Groat, pastor of the United Methodist Church, Arkansas, Kan., is providing leadership for the project, according to Rev. Everett H. Gardner, local pastor.

Meetings are being held each evening at 7:30 p.m. and during the day sessions are planned with neighborhood groups, youth group and the WSCS. Rev. Groat will meet Sunday morning with the Methodist men.

The high school youths are serving a pancake supper from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to raise funds to send delegates to the conference youth convocation in March, Rev. Gardner said.

Visitation planned at Filer

FILER — The Filer United Methodist Church is joining 125 other Methodist churches of the Oregon-Idaho conference in observing the six-day "Operation Concern" Sunday through March 2.

Rev. Myron Sherrard of the United Methodist Church, Coeur d'Alene, will be in the area to assist with some of the workshops and meetings to prepare for the visitations to be made on families in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lincoln, family life chairmen, are in charge of a family night supper Sunday which will feature fellowship, singing, table fun and entertainment by the UMYF quartet. Rev. Sherrard will present the message. The UMYF girls will provide child care.

Child care also will be offered to younger families during the March 1 and 2 preaching services at 7:30 p.m.

Warning signs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Heart Association reports the usual warning signs of heart attack include prolonged, oppressive pain or unusual discomfort in the center of chest, behind breastbone; pain radiating sometimes to shoulder, arm, neck or jaw; pain sometimes accompanied by sweating, nausea, vomiting and shortness of breath also may occur.

The warnings call for action as follows: Call the physician and describe the symptoms. If the doctor is not available at once, get the patient to a hospital emergency room quickly.

Muddy lookout

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fashion industry is in the mood for "unpolluted" colors for spring and summer.

Collections from New York manufacturers feature bright and clear tones, wiping away the "muddy" or muted tones of other seasons. Look for orchard pastels, mint greens, purples and peachy tones on the light side.
