State funds CSI building

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — The "lost" funds have been found and the long-awaited $550,000-plus vocational-technical building at the College of Southern Idaho will be built.

The contract was to be signed today, according to Ray Neilsen of Neilsen-Miller Construction Co.

legislature, funneled them back to their starting point, the board of education. The CSI building program was further jolted by a report early last month that Gov. Cecil D. Andrus had asked the legislature to transfer $2.07 million from the permanent building fund into the state general fund to pay for expanding spending requests from state agencies. The transfer, if approved, would drain about 40 per cent of the building fund's income each year — and could conceivably result in CSI having to abandon plans to build its vocational building. This blockade has since been removed; the contract has been approved by the state and the building will be built.

Miller said he was told by a spokesman for the Permanent Building Fund Council in Boise Thursday that the contract was being put into the mail that day. It will be formally signed by Neilsen and Dr. James L. Taylor, president of CSI, when it arrives, Neilsen said.

The building will be located east and north of the State Academic Building. Construction will start "probably in about a week," when all details of the contract are ironed out, Neilsen said.

The two-story building, designed along the same lines as other academic buildings, will be finished in about a year, Neilsen said. The building will allow consolidation on campus of the vocational courses now taught at the vocational school on Kimberly Road.

Neilsen-Miller's bid of $562,490 for the vocational-technical project was accepted by the CSI board of trustees in mid-January, without an alternative $14,200 landscaping offer. The trustees said college maintenance personnel could do the landscaping at less cost.

Funds for the new building are compiled from six sources, involving federal Office of Education grant and supplementary appropriation, state office of education funds and CSI construction money.

The start of construction was delayed nearly two months by a bizarre snag in state funding, when fund requests submitted to the state by CSI and North Idaho Junior College apparently vanished. It was subsequently discovered that two key state agencies simply refused to forward the fund requests according to routine procedure.

The state board of education referred the requests to the Idaho Permanent Building Fund Council, which, instead of forwarding the petitions to the

Area tutors join drive

BOISE — Magic Valley teachers and school administrators joined other Gem State educators today in a verbal assault on the state capitol in the interest of public education.

Cassia County schools were closed throughout the district with two busloads of teachers, including Supt. Harold Blauer, Norman Hurst, instructional director, and Lovell Turner, junior high principal, leaving at 5 a.m. for Boise.

Other schools were operating despite absence of some teachers designated to represent their local chapter at the Idaho Education Delegate Assembly.

Some 800 teachers turned out at Capital High School Friday morning for an emergency delegate meeting at which Mrs. Louise Jones, New Meadows, IEA president, advised fellow teachers to "play it cool while in the capitol city and not display anger or push too hard."

The teachers went into caucus this morning to discuss legislative educational funding problems and resolutions which will be acted upon this afternoon.

Many teacher groups were arranging to meet with their legislative delegations at noon and throughout the day. The teachers were to act on the proposed resolutions later this afternoon.

Twin Falls district was represented by 28 instructors, including 16 from the high school, selected at a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the high school. Substitutes look over the delegates' classes.

Teachers are considering methods of convincing legislators of the funding needs of Idaho schools and also are discussing a controversial proposal for a 75 per cent state funding of schools — a proposal opposed by smaller school districts, including the Cassia County district.

Telephone loan OK'd for Albion

BOISE — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission Thursday approved a request by the Albion Telephone Co. for a $975,000 loan from the Rural Electrification Administration.

The loan, which has an interest rate of 2 per cent, will be used to provide new switchboard equipment at Albion, Elba and Malta, install 30 miles of buried cable in all exchanges to provide one-party service in Albion, Elba, Malta and Raft River and four-party service in Hildbrook.

A new combined central dial office and commercial building will be constructed at Albion at a cost of $44,000 and new central dial office buildings at Elba, Malta and Raft River, as well as other station equipment.

U.S. unveils city sharing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon unveiled today details of his revenue sharing plan for urban development—a $2 billion a year program spread over 247 metropolitan areas but focusing chiefly on decaying big cities.

The plan would give city halls almost total authority to decide how to spend federal money. It also would eliminate as identifiable categories most of the urban aid programs originated in Democratic administrations of Harry S. Truman, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

Nixon said the bulk of the money—$1.6 billion in the first full year—would be distributed among urban areas with a city or cities of 50,000 population surrounded by identifiable suburbs.

The formula, Nixon said, would "take into account the number of people who live in an area or city, the degree of overcrowding there, the condition of its housing units, and the proportion of families whose income is below the poverty level."

Most of America's population lives in standard metropolitan areas, but Nixon said the formula would insure that most of the money would be channeled into the cities which need it most.

Folded into the revenue sharing program would be funds now earmarked for urban renewal, model cities, water and sewer grants, and rehabilitation loans.

Nixon's budget for the fiscal year that begins July 1 calls for about $1 billion in spending authority for the various categories of programs in the first half of the year and $1 billion for revenue sharing which he wants to put into effect next Jan. 1.

Downtown schedule reviewed

TWIN FALLS — Financing of the 1971 $470,000 downtown improvement program in Twin Falls, and a time schedule for completion of work were reviewed Thursday night for members of the four sponsoring agencies and given general approval, City Manager Jean Milar said today.

For most of the members of the Twin Falls Coordinating Committee, Off-Street Parking Corp., and Urban Renewal Agency and some of the city council members the information was heard for the first time.

Milar told the group the two major improvements of the 1971 program call for parking lot surfacing and metering and placing all utility lines underground.

Parking lot improvements will cost $258,000 while utility change over will require $212,100. Milar said the Urban Renewal Agency will pay $35,000 on parking lot work and $106,000 on utilities; Local Improvement District #4 will pay $15,000 on parking lots and the Off-Street Parking Corp. will contribute $146,000 with $20,000 from the city. Utility payments will include $45,000 from the Off-Street Parking group; $50,000 from Idaho Power; $9,000 from Mountain Bell and $2,100 from Cable Vision.

The Thursday night meeting was the first in a series which will be required to maintain the improvement time schedule. Next step, Milar said, will be for the city to prepare agreements with the various agencies for their share of the costs and work. The city will be the single contracting and coordinating agency for the purpose of handling federal funding.

Street aid asked by mayor

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Mayor Frank Feldman today urged city residents to support a proposed one-cent increase in state gasoline tax to be used for improving city streets.

Feldman urged residents to send telegrams to legislators in support of the measure, H. B. 204, now before the Idaho Legislature.

The bill is scheduled for a vote today in the Idaho House. He said it would give Twin Falls about $280,000 in funds for street improvement and construction, compared to the $30,000 provided annually as the city's share of the highway user's fund.

The proposal calls for the additional gasoline tax to be divided among cities on the basis of population and to renew the one cent tax due to expire this year, which had been used to assist cities.

City Manager Jean Milar said each one cent in gasoline tax would yield about $3 million per year. Under the proposed measure, he said, the burden of street costs would be placed on the motorist rather than on the property taxpayer.

Rail talks resumed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Railroad union and management negotiators called a new bargaining session today in an effort to prevent a walkout by 150,000 train crewmen.

Jets loose huge bombs

along trail

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. military sources said today the United States was using 15,000-pound blockbuster bombs in Laos to blast out instant landing zones for helicopter-borne South Vietnamese closing in on Sepone, a Ho Chi Minh Trail road junction and missile site.

The blockbusters, biggest conventional bombs in the U.S. arsenal, were parachuted from the rear doors of C-130 Hercules planes and fused to explode several feet above the ground. The bomb's sideways blast creates a landing area the size of a football field for helicopters.

Military spokesmen said 2,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen were within three miles of Sepone and would see the city that has been virtually destroyed by U.S. bombing attacks. Sepone, 27 miles inside Laos, was announced as a major objective of the drive across the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

On Thursday, the U.S. Defense Department disclosed that the North Vietnamese had moved surface-to-air SAM missiles into the Yepone area for attacks on American planes — first known Communist use of the missiles outside North Vietnam.

Military sources said the 7½ ton blockbuster bombs, only one of which can be carried aboard a C-130, were dropped several days before the South Vietnamese resumed their push into Laos Thursday in the first forward movement in weeks. The bomb has been used in South Vietnam but today's was the first disclosure of their use in Laos.

There was no indication of the number of Communist troops in the Sepone region or whether the Reds had abandoned the junction on French colonial Route 9, the axis of the South Vietnamese drive into Laos. But heavy fighting was reported elsewhere in Laos.

Some military observers had predicted the Communists would put up their heaviest fighting of the campaign to save Sepone, a road and supply junction where mountain passes from North Vietnam enter Laos.

Shooting fatal for Burley man

BURLEY — A Burley man, tentatively identified as Chico Diaz, died early today at Cassia Memorial Hospital of gunshot wounds received in an East Main Street bar Thursday night and officers are looking for a male suspect.

Burley police were notified of the shooting at the East Side Bar, 133 East Main St., at 10:45 p.m. and when officers arrived at the scene, Diaz was lying on the sidewalk outside the door, with three wounds in the upper part of his body, according to Rex Maddon, police officer.

He was rushed to Cassia Memorial Hospital by ambulance and died in the operating room there at 1:17 a.m.

An autopsy was being performed this morning at Cassia Memorial Hospital by Dr. B.N. Carle, Twin Falls pathologist.

Perrine funds sought

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce has sent a letter to John Volpe, U.S. secretary of transportation, requesting the Perrine Memorial Bridge be placed on high priority in receiving funds under the federal bridge replacement act.

The letter, signed by Bob Harvey, president of the chamber board, urged that the Perrine Bridge, which has been subject to a 22-ton weight limit, restricting heavy traffic, is on the state's principal arterial highway serving north-south traffic through the central portion of the state.

The 41-year-old bridge, the letter points out, is in need of being replaced, a replacement now in the planning stages by the Idaho Department of Highways. The letter is the second written to federal officials about the Perrine Bridge and is one of a series of efforts on behalf of the chamber to get the structure replaced. A letter was drafted last year, urging passage of the bill under which the chamber is now requesting funds for a new span across the Snake River Canyon.

The chamber includes some figures in its letter, including a survey of 28 local businesses, which show an increased operating cost of $226,903 for 1970 because of extra miles which freight haulers must travel to reach the local markets.

The Idaho Department of Highways also had spent $24,000 in enforcing the 22-ton limitation. Letters from the Twin Falls City Council and the Twin Falls County Commission were included in the information sent to Volpe.

For emphasis

GESTURING, President Nixon tells Thursday night news conference South Vietnamese forces have proved themselves superior to North Vietnamese units in Laos. He quoted Gen. Creighton Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, as saying South Vietnamese "by themselves can hack it." (UPI)

'72 key year for pullout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has underlined the political as well as the military stake he has in the success of the Laotian operation by emphasizing 1972 will be the critical year for withdrawing U.S. ground forces from South Vietnam.

The president told his news conference Thursday night that he planned to continue withdrawals at the current rate of 12,000 per month for a few more months. By May 1 this will have reduced U.S. ground forces from a total of 545,000 to 284,000 within the past two years. The President said he would announce in April the withdrawal rate for the next few months.

He added, however, that more important result of the U.S.-supported South Vietnamese invasion of Laos would be how it affected the withdrawal schedule in 1972. That will be the time when he and the Republican party must seek reelection on the basis of their record in winding down the Vietnam war, along with other critical issues.

Nixon obviously was somewhat irritated by questions predicated on the assumption that the invasion of Laos was not going too well and might actually widen the war and slow down the American rate of withdrawal.

He made it clear he did not entertain such fears himself.

However, it seemed equally clear the President was not prepared to say yet that it would make it impossible for Hanoi to mount an offensive next year, which probably would delay withdrawals. Nixon marched up almost to the brink of predicting that the Laotian operation might increase the withdrawal rate, but concluded by saying he was "not prepared to say that now."

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon said Thursday night the invasion of Laos has proved the South Vietnamese army can "hack it" and insured continued withdrawal of U.S. troops. He said his goal remained to get all Americans out of Vietnam as soon as we can.

During a sometimes emotional defense of his Indochina policies at a televised news conference, Nixon also declared the United States has considered no plan to support a South Vietnamese invasion of North Vietnam.

None has been considered and none is under consideration," Nixon said. But the President said he did not rule out the use of air power "against military complexes on the borders of North Vietnam" if he concluded actions of the Hanoi regime endangered withdrawing American forces.

Asked about statements by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu about a possible attack into North Vietnam, Nixon said he would not speculate on what position Thieu might take in the future "in order to defend himself—the right of self defense—in view of the fact that he is being attacked."

Nixon contended the three-week-old South Vietnamese thrust into the Ho Chi Minh trail complex in southern Laos, backed by U.S. air power, has "seriously damaged" North Vietnamese military capabilities. He quoted Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, that the drive already had cut Communist truck traffic by 55 per cent on the trail.

While there was "hard fighting ahead," Nixon said, "the decrease in traffic meant 'that those trucks that do not go south will not carry the arms and the men that will be killing Americans."

Nixon said that during the current operations the South Vietnamese "on the ground by themselves" had taken on the best units the North Vietnamese could put into the field. "General Abrams tells me that in both Laos and Cambodia his evaluation after three weeks of fighting is that, to use his terms, 'The South Vietnamese by themselves can hack it' and they can give a better account of themselves even than the North Vietnamese units."

While the operation has been in progress, Nixon said, American troop strength in the war zone has fallen by 10,000 men.

"Our Vietnamization program is a success and can continue on schedule and we trust even ahead of schedule assuming that there is more progress in Laos," Nixon said.

The United States is scheduled to cut its forces in South Vietnam to 284,000 men by May 1. Nixon said he intended to make an announcement about further American troops withdrawals in April. Asked about the possibility 50,000 to 100,000 U.S. troops might remain in Vietnam at the time of the 1972 election, Nixon declined to speculate about the numbers.

"As long as there are American POWs in North Vietnam, we will have to maintain a residual force in South Vietnam," Nixon said. "That is the least that we can negotiate for: As far as our goal is concerned, our goal is to get all Americans out of Vietnam as soon as we can—by negotiation if possible."

Trip off

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has canceled his trip today to Rochester, N.Y. because of a snowstorm which snarled road and airport facilities.

The White House said the visit would be rescheduled. The President had planned to meet with state and city officials to discuss the urban development aspects of his revenue sharing proposals.

President Manson, drugs endorses Rogers created 'robots'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon says Secretary of State William P. Rogers always has been and still is both his chief foreign policy adviser and foreign policy spokesman. He called allegations to the contrary by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a "cheap shot."

Symington said early this week Rogers had taken a back seat to Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's foreign affairs adviser. But the President told his news conference Thursday night:

"As to whether either Secretary Rogers or Dr. Kissinger is the top adviser, as to who is on first, the answer to that, of course, is very simply, that the secretary of state is always the chief foreign policy adviser and the chief foreign policy spokesman of the administration."

"At the same time the assistant to the President for national security affairs (Kissinger) does advise the President and I value his advice very much."

He said Symington's attack "frankly, was a cheap shot. I say that not in condemnation of him for making this statement, but I say it only because he knows the relationship between secretary Rogers and me."

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Fort was called as a witness for defendant Leslie Van Houten and said her use of LSD and the use of the drug by other members of the "Manson Family" undoubtedly swayed them more to Manson's personality.

Manson's attorney, Irving Kanareh, then asked Fort, "Are you telling us a school for crime can exist?"

"I'm indeed telling you that, although the way you're putting it is a rather absurd oversimplification," Ford replied. "Minds of men are indeed molded in totalitarian societies or by totalitarian individuals. LSD can make a person more malleable, more easy to program."

Store meet draws 100

TWIN FALLS—More than 100 representatives from the 19 IGA stores throughout Magic Valley attended the annual awards dinner for area stores Wednesday night.

Cash awards were presented to many of the stores for exceptional performance in promotions, sales, store operation and store improvement.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the Magic chords barber shop singing group and the Com-montaters quartet.

BEIRUT (UPI)—Negotiations started Thursday between the U.S.-owned Trans Arabian Pipeline Company (Tapi) and the Lebanese government to reach a new agreement increasing Lebanon's oil transit royalties.

Finance Minister Elias Saba and Minister of Economy Saeb Jaroudy represented the government. Jaroudy said the talks aimed at increasing Lebanese royalties in the same ratio as Syrian royalties were increased.

Saba said the government was asking for $9 million for settlement of old accounts.

Houston physician Martha's target now

HOUSTON (UPI)—The doctor who treated Martha Mitchell's daughter recently admits he may not have waltzed into the hotel lobby that night dressed in a tuxedo "but you damn sure wouldn't call me sloppy."

The wife of Attorney General John N. Mitchell visited the Manned Spacecraft Center two weeks ago and also was honored by the Rotary Club as its Valentine's Day sweetheart. But at 1 a.m. one morning her daughter Marty, 10, complained of a sore throat and a fever so Mrs. Mitchell had her FBI escort call a doctor.

The physician who answered the summons was Dr. Henry W. Withers, the brother-in-law of oil millionaire John Mecom and the doctor on call for VIP guests who become ill at the plush Warwick Hotel.

"He looked like a bus boy,"

Mrs. Mitchell said of the doctor. "His hair was frazzled. He had on funny-looking clothes. I said to my FBI agent: 'Who is this creature? Where did you get him?'"

Mrs. Mitchell also called him "a seedy-looking character" and a "hotel hanger-on of a doctor."

Withers told his version Thursday. "I think you wouldn't call me dapper, but you damn sure wouldn't call me sloppy," the doctor said. "I thought I looked awful nice. I had all new clothes, my hair wasn't ruffled, and besides, I haven't got enough hair to ruff. I had a beautiful sports coat and new slacks on."

Mrs. Mitchell told Withers Marty was examined earlier in the day by a doctor at the Manned Spacecraft Center and she wanted him to call that doctor back in to examine the 10-year-old girl again.

"Then she said, 'I'll call the President,'" Withers said. "I feel he doesn't practice very good medicine either. In the back of my mind, I just kept thinking how corny it would be to call the president at 2 a.m. and find out what Dick is doing at this time of the morning. 'That is when the insults started.'"

Stuffing project

Conservation lesson taught special class

TWIN FALLS — Youngsters enrolled in the special education school in Twin Falls learned an important conservation lesson this week with a special project of preserving a golden eagle, said Mrs. Charles Ratcliffe, school director.

"One thing we can count on," she said, "none of our youngsters will ever kill a golden eagle."
The students spent several days preparing and mounting a large golden eagle found by one of the teachers in an area southeast of Hansen. At first it was believed the large bird had been electrocuted by flying into a power line, but gunshot injuries were found.

Darrell Bourner, former instructor of the school whose hobby is taxidermy worked with the children to preserve the bird which will be on display in the school's all purpose room.

School officials found just having such a bird in your possession is no simple matter. When it was found by June Haggart's father near their Hansen home, they immediately notified the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

It was kept in a freezer by the department until a letter of permission could be obtained from the U.S. Department of Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D.C., allowing the school to keep it for educational purposes.

The letter specifically states the golden eagle shall not be given away, sold or otherwise disposed of by the school without permission from the department.

Hansen backs law aid bill

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Cong. Orval Hansen said Thursday he will support the Law Enforcement Revenue Sharing Act of 1971 proposed this week by President Nixon.

payments would be allocated among the states according to population.
Hansen said the LEAA was created by the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 to aid state and local law enforcement agencies in funding programs for police, courts, correction, control of organized crime, civil disorders and other related problems.

The Idaho Congressman noted that the payments would replace the block grants which LEAA presently makes to the states for implementing law enforcement programs. Funds appropriated by Congress for special revenue sharing identify their enforcement problems, and to set the priorities and develop the means to solve these problems," Hansen said.

T.F. man heads anti-drug unit

LONG BINH, South Vietnam — A Twin Falls man, Lt. Col. Clyde L. Murphy has been named commander of a new all-services customs system designed to control smuggling of narcotics and other contraband by American soldiers.

smuggling of marijuana, heroin, weapons and explosives into the U.S. from Vietnam.
To staff the teams of trained inspectors, Army military police and Air Force security police are receiving training at Camp Alpha. They are also studying Vietnamese in order to converse with local customs officials.

Col. Murphy will command a military police customs unit at Long Binh which is part of a joint customs group involving the Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force, with detachments at Cam Ranh Bay, Da Nang, Saigon and Long Binh. Col. Murphy's command includes the entire group.

Customs inspectors at various stations have caught several soldiers in smuggling attempts. A small cache of narcotics was located in the stereo speakers packed inside one GI's luggage; another serviceman had 10 pounds of heroin concealed inside a false bottom of his duffel bag, and another, returning from leave, had U.S. currency taped to the bottom of his feet.

The new procedures have been initiated by military authorities to combat increased

Army Post Office postal locations will become a part of the new customs system so that parcels may be opened in the search for contraband.

Addition job nets 3 bids

TWIN FALLS — Three bids were received Thursday by the Idaho Department of Employment office in Twin Falls for extensive remodeling and construction of an addition.

John Leinen, office manager, said the bids will be sent to the Idaho Department of Public Works for study before the contract will be awarded. "We can't even say there is an apparent low bid until we hear from the state agency," Leinen said.

The bidders, all of Twin Falls, were Earl Peck Construction, $53,920; Otis Hall Construction, $55,426, and Ullman Construction Co., $57,426.

The project involves remodeling the office and constructing a 30 by 76 foot addition on the east.

Rodeo, campaign outlined

TWIN FALLS — Two reports, one on activities of the local Easter Seal Center and the other on the National High School Rodeo set for Filer in August, were given to members of the Kiwanis Club Thursday noon.

The Easter Seal report was made by Merle Stoddard, director. The rodeo report was given by Armour Anderson, Kiwanis member and rodeo chairman.

Mrs. Stoddard said more than 50 children are now enrolled at the center, some coming two and three times a week. She also pointed out work has now been undertaken with adults including some stroke victims. Financial setup of the center was detailed by the director who said amount available was not enough to care for all the children who should be cared for.

Anderson said the high school rodeo would be the "biggest in the world." It will be held at Filer Aug. 3-9, will attract some 500 contestants and will actually be 11 full rodeos with two rodeos going on simultaneously. Revenue to sponsor the events, he told Kiwanis members, will have to be generated in the neighborhood of $80,000 with $30,000 going for rodeo stock.

It is estimated that 3,000 people will come to Filer and this area and will be directly involved in the contests in addition to the contestants.
Twenty-four states will be represented, he said, and the queen contest will involve the same number of girls seeking the coveted title of Miss High School Rodeo.

Collisions injure 4 in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls people were treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Thursday following a two-vehicle collision at Fourth Avenue East and Second Street East.

Twin Falls police said vehicles driven by Helen Colner, 56, Twin Falls, and Thomas J. Moschetti, 24, Twin Falls, collided at the intersection. Both Moschetti and his wife, Sandra, 22, received minor injuries.

Mrs. Colner was issued a citation for failure to yield the right of way after the 11:53 a.m. mishap.

Two other Twin Falls residents received minor injuries but did not require treatment late Thursday in a two-car accident at Morningside Drive and Addison Avenue East.

Officers said a car driven by Redgie Hall, 24, Twin Falls, and one driven by Sally Jo Dean, 18, Twin Falls, collided when Mrs. Hall was unable to stop because of slick road conditions.

Officers said Mrs. Hall was traveling south on Morningside Drive North and slid into Addison Avenue East into the path of the Dean vehicle. Miss Dean and Shanna Dean, 16, both received minor injuries, officers said.

Eye care in focus for special week

TWIN FALLS — Thousands of children in Idaho who need eye care will be in the spotlight of the Idaho Optometric Assn., March 7-13, which has been designated "Save Your Vision Week."

Local doctors of optometry will be participating in the 45th annual observance, said Dr. Dale D. Miles, Twin Falls. One of the purposes of setting aside a specific week is to publicly call attention to the need for eye examinations for persons of all ages, Dr. Miles said.

He said good vision plays a vital part in everyone's life and children who may suffer defects are handicapped in their progress in school and other opportunities to develop into an achieving adult.

Dr. Miles said recent national findings have prompted state optometrists to emphasize good eye care and examinations for any vision defects during the one special week.

Dr. Theron D. Nelson, Caldwell, state public information chairman of the Idaho Optometric Assn., said President Nixon's message about concern over the health of the nation's children showed

Writ gains new judge

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — A temporary writ has been issued barring a Wood County Common Pleas Court judge from hearing a case because he is too old.

The U.S. District Court of Appeals here approved the writ Thursday which prohibits Judge Floyd A. Collier, 71, from hearing the cases of Ronnie and Thomas Woodbury and James Falls, Bowling Green policemen charged in connection with a series of thefts.

Collier 71 ran for re-election and won after his 70th birthday. The writ filed by the three men charges such candidacy by a man over 70 years is barred by the Ohio constitution.

A hearing on a permanent writ was scheduled for April 19.

Curbing Miranda

Emergence of a conservative bloc on the U.S. Supreme Court led by Chief Justice Burger has put the brakes to further broadening of the Warren Court's Miranda doctrine.

he takes the stand and tells a different story. Chief Justice Burger carefully considered the equities in writing the majority opinion, weighing the opportunity for police abuse against the possibility that Miranda could serve as a "license for perjury."

The liberal bloc, Justice Brennan speaking, took the opposite view, seeing in the majority's view a license for police to disregard Miranda, knowing that the information might ultimately become usable anyway.

The major significance of the Burger decision lies in its signaling an end to the era of liberalizing the rights of defendants in criminal cases, often through tortured interpretations of the Constitution, at the expense of just prosecution and respect for the law.

Such a stop sign is not only warranted by excesses of the recent past, but is justified on sensible grounds of what is basically right — and wrong.

Later the court extended the ruling to apply to any "custodial" situation, thus obliging a police officer at the instance of confrontation, to proceed with a recitation of the suspect's rights, lest any information subsequently obtained be found inadmissible at trial.

Now the Burger Court has ruled that such information, if obtained unconstitutionally, is not "per se" useless but may be used to contradict a defendant's testimony if

Good Decision

The decision reached by members of the Twin Falls School Board and teacher members of the Idaho Education Association to keep local schools open today instead of closing so who wanted to could go to Boise to seek more school funding was a good one.

would have caused undue hardship on the parents.

Business does not operate this way with employes going off to a meeting and closing up shop, so there is no good reason why it should be undertaken by citizens of professional status such as teachers.

And there is another good reason why a mass march on Boise would be a mistake. The teachers will get further with Legislative heads in small groups carrying on serious discussions than would come about by force of numbers. The Legislators are not so dumb but that they realize what the teachers seek and mass "pressure" will not change anything.

There is not enough money for all requests.

In the end we are sure the teachers will get their just share of the amount available. Any other situation which might develop would only take from others who are probably just as bad off as the teachers say they are.

moves, involving short distances within the same city or county, but at least one-fourth of all moves will be to a new state.

Although frequent cross-country transfers have become a way of life for upward-bound young executives, the "corporate gypsy" does not do most of the moving. The American Movers Conference says that 30 per cent of all interstate moves involve military personnel and another 30 per cent are families who move for individual reasons. The remaining 40 per cent are corporate moves.

According to the conference, of those families who pay for their own interstate moves more than half move away from the Middle Atlantic and North-Central states. Only two-fifths of moves are into those regions. Most people move into the Southern, Pacific and Mountain states.

May 1 may be traditional moving day, but 60 per cent of all moves are made in June, July, August and September. For some reason, most of them bunch up between the 25th of one month and the 4th of the following month. Could be because the first day of the month is rent-day.

If you plan on moving this year, Mr. Spectator suggests that you might want to schedule it accordingly.

Think that would be terrible? Well, it might not be but what is so "nice" about seeing "ads" about scanties worn by women, about people pouring spray into their noses, about men rubbing shaving preparations over their faces and then taking it all off with a razor, about men and women fighting for use of underarm deodorant, about corn pads for those bunions?

All these things — and many more we should not mention because of a possible "X" rating — appear on TV all the time.

Come to think of it, there's even one which shows a gal stealing a puff from a cigar.

So what have they against false teeth.

Denture wearers arise! You are being discriminated against!

WASHINGTON — It's all set but the timing — Mayor John Lindsay is switching to the Democratic party.

The 49-year-old New Yorker will do that for the express purpose of running for President next year — despite the usual pro forma disavowals, and the already crowded field of Democratic aspirants.

As one Lindsay intimate puts it, "Running as an independent is wholly unrealistic. The Democratic party is where the action is."

Also definitely signaling this long conjectured move, Deputy Mayor Richard Aurelio, closest and most influential Lindsay adviser, is saying, "Put in a nutshell, it's simply this: We would rather switch, and then fight."

Timing of Lindsay's shift to Democratic registration depends on a study being made of the laws of states with presidential primaries.

Staff insiders think the change will be made by September.

Reason for that deadline is that Lindsay will have to be registered as a Democrat by Sept. 16 in order to qualify for Oregon's May 28, 1971, presidential primary. His palace guard is convinced he will run there. They claim he has "a lot of support" in that state.

They also cite as "highly significant" that in 1968, then-Sen. Eugene McCarthy took Oregon from the late Sen. Robert Kennedy. According to the Lindsayites, that tellingly demonstrates the "interdependence" of the state's voters.

In the opinion of the City Hall strategists, Lindsay will not run in all the 17 presidential primaries. He will "pick and choose", with the choice determined by various factors — local and national.

Apparently not of decisive moment are campaign funds.

Says one insider flatly, "We'll have all the money we need. That will not be a problem. We have absolute assurances on that. And that isn't all. We will have full access to the mass media. We are certain of that, too."

Lindsay intimates brush off as "unimportant" the fact that six or more Democratic candidates already are busy in the presidential arena. Says a key partisan:

"The Mayor is as well known as any of them, and much better known than some of them. Look at the polls; they show that conclusively. And just about everything else is in his favor. He is a seasoned and experienced campaigner; has excellent contacts with political, business, labor and other leaders all over the country. And he has a crucial issue — the desperate plight of the cities. Lindsay personifies their vital fight to save themselves and the millions of people living and struggling in them."

While publicly continuing to disclaim particular interest in the 1972 presidential contest, Lindsay privately is very busy to the contrary.

Virtually everything he now does is geared to his forthcoming Democratic switch, and preparing to run for the White House. Among themselves, his staff make no bones of that. With elated satisfaction they call favorable developments to the attention of newsmen, and zestfully encourage friendly articles and conjectures.

Illustrative of these "plants" and disclosures:

That Lindsay's official staff and close advisers "unanimously" favor his changing to Democratic registration, and actively becoming a presidential candidate.

That Alex Rose, boss of the New York Liberal Party, is strongly urging him to do that. Rose played a key role in Lindsay's re-election two years ago after he lost the Republican nomination. Rose persuaded him to run as an independent, and lined up the Liberal Party to support him with votes and funds.

Andrew Mulrain, former commissioner of sanitation under Democratic Mayor Robert Wagner, after a talk with Lindsay, is saying, "He's coming over to us, and we're coming over to him. It's bound to be good for both of us." Lindsay is carefully cultivating big city mayors throughout the country, many of them potent figures in their states as well as communities.

more than your fair share of trouble with polyps. But we all have our own individual problems, don't we?

Your questions are all discussed in the booklet, but for right now: if it were my nose, I'd continue having the polyps removed rather than having my nose stopped up by them. Polyps of the nose seldom if ever become cancerous, however.

It is not always easy to discover what is causing polyps, to develop, but chronic infection is one, and allergy is another frequent cause. (Again, you'll find that in the booklet.) If you can identify whatever is bothering you allergically, it may be mighty useful in avoiding more polyps.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had chest pains most of the summer and thought it was heart trouble, but the doctor said it was nerves. (I'm 24 with no heart trouble history.)

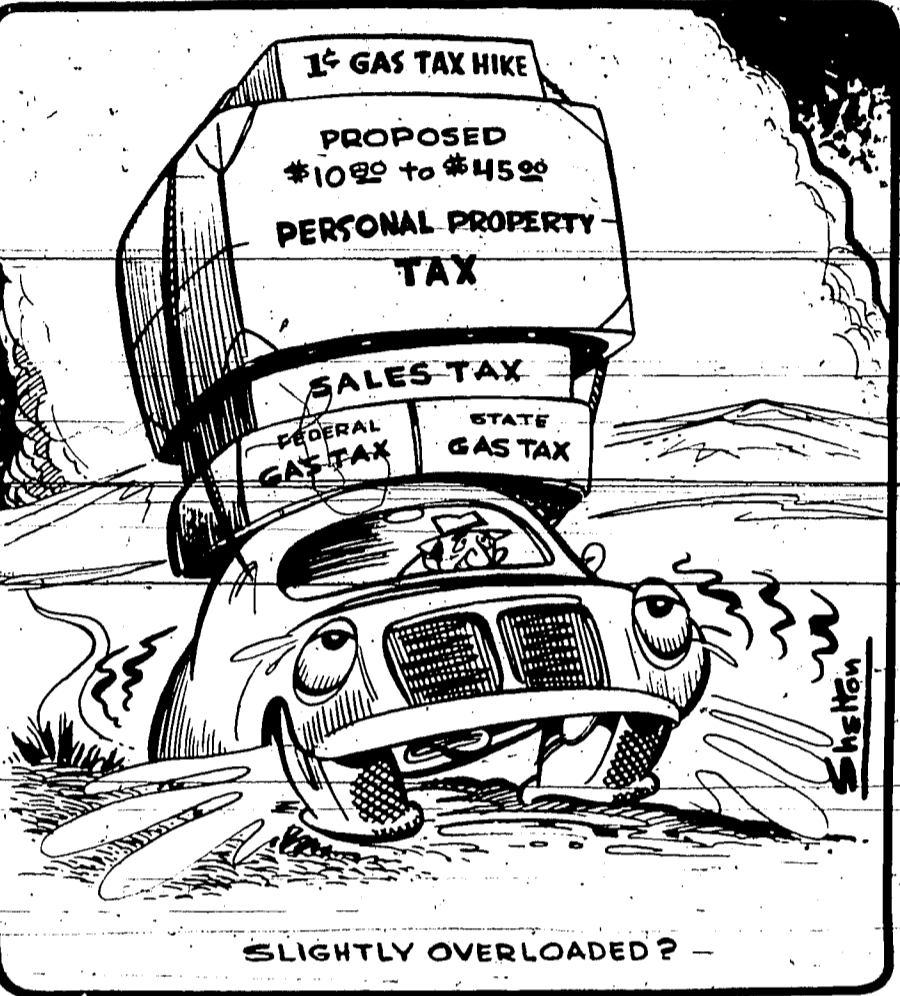

It's about 80 per cent better now because I've learned to relax, but if I get the least bit excited it feels like a constant pressure on my whole chest.

I've taken nerve pills but they don't help that much. Any suggestions? — Mrs. V.

If in a few months you've learned to relax enough to get rid of 80 per cent of the trouble, I don't think you need any suggestions — except to keep on doing it. Maybe by summer you'll be 90 per cent over it. Or even 100.

Are you having a gall bladder problem? To find out how the gall bladder works and what types of trouble to look for send for Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "You And Your Gall Bladder." ANDREW TULLY

Strong Language

WASHINGTON — "Monstrous," said Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan, Jr. He was denouncing a 54 ruling by the highest bench that illegally obtained evidence otherwise inadmissible at a criminal trial may be used by the prosecution to discredit a defendant if he takes the witness stand.

This is pretty strong language, even allowing for the extreme importance of the case. One reason for its use by Brennan, a member of the liberal bloc on the Court, may be the short tempers that mark the struggle between Brennan's bunch and the conservative bloc, led by Chief Justice Warren Burger. Under Burger, the ideological quality of the Court is slowly shifting to the right, and whenever there is change in any direction, there is discord.

There are leaks even from this most austere branch of the government, and they tell of increased bickering among the justices. As leader of the strict constructionists, Burger is opposed to what has been called the liberals' attempt to rewrite the Constitution. Brennan and Justice William O. Douglas have accused Burger of ignoring precedent.

Thus it is not surprising that Brennan has called the decision in a narcotics case an invitation to police to break the law. Specifically, the decision upheld the use, in cross-examining the accused, of incriminating statements taken by a policeman without fully warning the prisoner of his rights.

Said Brennan, "The Court today tells police they may freely interrogate an accused incommunicado and without counsel and know that... any statement they obtain... may be introduced if the defendant has the temerity to testify in his own defense." Such a ruling, he added, undermined efforts to conform police methods "to the Constitution."

Nonsense, replied Burger, in effect. He said it was only a "speculative possibility" that police misconduct was being encouraged. He also disavowed any intention to overturn the so-called Miranda decision of 1966, which held that incriminating statements can't be used as evidence unless the prosecution proves that the defendant waived his privilege against self-incrimination after full warning of his rights.

For a very important reason, it is hard to take sides on this one. That reason is that the decision is not confined to cases involving hardened criminals, but to all accused. It could inversely affect the law-abiding citizen who may unjustly be arrested for murdering his wife or as the villain of a fatal automobile crash. Thus, the ruling emphasizes the tight rope courts must walk in protecting both the victim and the accused. Too many bums have been treated with overweening kindness by soft-headed courts, which have seemed to justify perjury on the grounds the accused was knocked about by the cops. The Burger ruling seemed to be asking courts to exercise better judgement.

China Wars

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A letter from Hong Kong has just brought additional information on internal troubles in Communist China's southern provinces.

These reports on dissension deserve special attention at this time, of course, because insecurity in these areas adjacent to Laos, Burma and North Vietnam could make Peking leery of serious foreign adventures in the next few months.

The most significant part of the message from Hong Kong concerns the huge border province of Yunnan (whose capital is Kunming), stronghold of southwest China and entryway into Laos and Burma and thence to northern Thailand.

According to these late reports a bitter fight is now in progress for leadership of the Kunming Military Region, a struggle that may have most of the top ranks of the party and military involved on one side or another.

Vying for power are Chou Hsing, Chen Kang and Wang Ficheng, deputy commanders of the Kunming Military Region, and Chou Hsing, a former party secretary and governor. The present infighting was set off by the death of Tan Fu-jen, political commissar of the Kunming Military Region and chairman of the Yunnan Provincial Revolutionary Committee on Dec. 18, 1970, from an unreported cause.

What is at stake is the control of the vast areas of southwest China. Tan was a Lin Piao man. If Lin Piao is to hold on to his place as Mao Tse-tung's titular successor as ruler of mainland China, he must keep one of his own men in this crucial post left vacant by Tan's death.

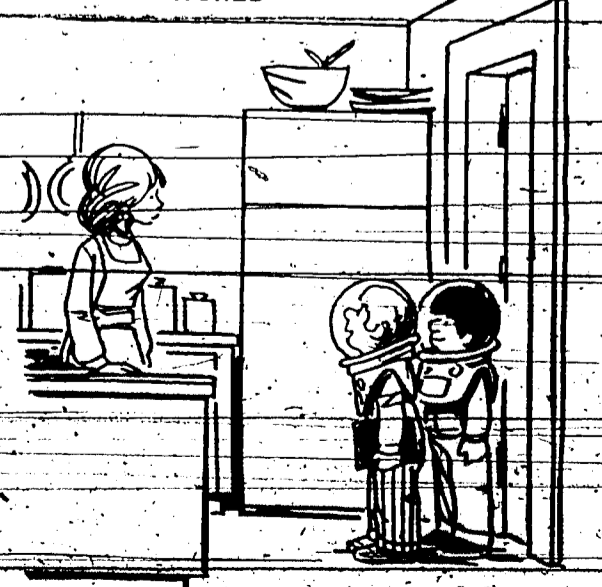

Historically, when internal problems have threatened their leadership, Mao and Lin Piao have inevitably put the solution of local internal problems first and left foreign activities on the back burner. This was particularly noticeable in the major days of the cultural revolution, when Red China called home virtually every ambassador abroad and kept most of them home in this very trying period.

The situation in Yunnan is especially touchy. The death of party military strong man Yen Hung-yeu in the winter of 1968 brought 18 months of factional conflict.

Some newspapers claimed 160,000 died in this fighting. Mao himself put the death figure at upward of 80,000.

The appointment of strongman Tan in the summer of 1968 put the lid on this hot box until his death. But it was an uneasy truce. Tan's death may have blown the lid.

Red Cross legal experts believe that as long as a combatant openly wears a weapon he should receive full protection as a prisoner of war regardless of the type of conflict. As long as there is no such year ever since 1965," committee spokesman Alain Modoux said. "Strangely, Hanoi does not really have the right to refuse such permission but neither is it violating the conventions," he said.

The first reason why this is so dates back to 1957 when Hanoi signed the conventions. It presented a reservation to Article 85 of the Third Convention on prisoners, just that article which involves Red Cross visits.

North Vietnam claimed its reservation that any person captured within its territory is not a prisoner of war but a "criminal." "The second major problem which makes the situation so

Actor Ramos scores

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Rudy Ramos joined the cast of "The High Chaparral" this season without a single professional acting credit to play an itinerant Indian lad.

Rudy is, in fact, part Cherokee. He was born and raised in Lawton, Okla., in near poverty. He is of Mexican descent and proud of his heritage.

A bachelor, Rudy lives in a two-bedroom Spanish house in the Hollywood hills. His favorite companion is his German shepherd, Jake. The house is luxuriously furnished by the standards of his youth.

"I rented the house furnished," he explains. "It's the only comfortable place I've ever lived in my life, so I stick around home as much as I can."

Another factor in Rudy's homebody attitude is the lack of transportation. He doesn't own an automobile.

Rudy hitchhikes to work, to the beach and to visit friends. Most of the girls he dates own cars. Those who don't hitchhike with him. On special occasions they take a cab.

The young actor has simplified his life as much as possible. He is unware of any social hardships because he is a member of the Mexican-American minority. He belongs to no organizations which fight racial discrimination.

He believes individual behavior and attitudes determine one's place in society.

Now that the NBC series is on hiatus Rudy is organizing a musical group specializing in country-blues-rock songs to take on tour. Two members of the group are friends of his from Oklahoma.

Rudy is an accomplished guitar player himself and would rather perform for live audiences than for movie or television cameras.

He spent four months in Tucson, Ariz., on location for "The High Chaparral" last year, working six days a week from dawn until nightfall.

When the troupe returned to Hollywood Rudy found it necessary to rent an automobile to get to work at Warner Bros. every morning.

Almost every day Rudy finds time to take Jake for a run in a nearby park, an activity that also keeps the actor in top physical shape.

During football season he spends both Saturday and Sunday glued to the television set watching as many games as possible.

Rudy leads a frugal life, saving money for a first rate automobile and for an uncertain future. He recalls his childhood as difficult.

Aide quits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today accepted with a "very special and deeply personal sense of regret" the resignation of his long-time political adviser Murray M. Chotiner as one of a special counsel.

The White House said Chotiner resigned, effective Saturday, to join a private law firm in Washington.

Chotiner has been Nixon's chief political operative since 1952. There have been reports that he may become closely involved in Nixon's 1972 presidential re-election campaign, working outside the White House.

Regional theaters creative
NEW YORK (UPI)—Regional theaters across the country are becoming steadily more active and enterprising in creating productions of new plays.

The emphasis more often than not is on the unconventional. This applies to subject matter, writing and staging.

Not all such productions wind up on New York stages, but such arrivals have increased in the past five years, and the trend is growing.

The Washington Theater club in the nation's capital presented in February "The Web and the Sock," a drama by Dolores Sutton based on the late Thomas Wolfe's novel of that title. It is no secret that the lengthy, rambling novel is semi-autobiographical, dealing mainly with Wolfe's tortured romance with the late Althea Bernstein, noted stage designer.

Adapting any Wolfe work to the stage is no routine job. It calls for imagination and inventiveness at all levels because of the prolix nature of the writing and the labyrinthine thinking of the author.

Berenice Weiler, who is associated with the American Shakespeare Festival Theater, already has acquired New York production rights to the play for her Altamont Productions firm.

The notable Arena Theater of Washington, D.C., has just launched a month's run of a play by Stanley R. Greenberg. Entitled "Pueblo," it deals, of course, with the U.S.S. Pueblo seizure by North Korea, the long imprisonment of the sailors and the subsequent American investigations of the affair.

This one is in the style of factual-documentary writing and staging that is a growing thing. In Washington, Sheppard Strudwick, popular Broadway veteran, has the role of Commander Lloyd Bucher, master of the Pueblo. Sylvan Markman and Roger D. Hess, who commissioned Greenberg to write a Pueblo drama a year ago, plan to bring it to New York later this year.

It was the Arena Theater that sent Arthur Kopit's highly regarded "Indians" to Broadway two seasons ago.

Medical aid measure wins Senate approval

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate approved, 34-8, Thursday a measure which would allow minors 14 years of age or older to request medical treatment for communicable diseases without consent of parents or guardians.

Opposition came from Sen. Ray Rigby, D-Rexburg, who said it was about the fourth time in the session he had seen legislation "where somebody wants to take away the rights of these parents to these kids."

Sen. Joe Allen, R-American Falls, floor sponsor, pointed out that venereal disease was on the increase in the state.

"Too often, he said, "youngsters report to a hospital for treatment and are told their parents will have to be notified...they leave and do not get treatment."

Sen. John Barker, R - Buhl, chairman of the Health, Education and Welfare Committee, said he planned to write a letter to the Idaho Medical Association reporting it is legislative intent to "try in every way" to involve parents in such problems.

children, adding "they (children) know darned well that when all the places they can go are closed, the home is still not the place where they want to go."

Allen said he agreed with Rigby, but added, "Try as we may we cannot keep this contract (with children) 100 per cent of the time and in 100 per cent of the situations...and this is one of those glaring situations."

"They'd almost rather commit suicide rather than go to Mom and Dad," he added.

Cougar bill to Senate

BOISE (UPI) — Tracked through debate by a sheep grower, a bill to make cougars game animals stalked through the House 50-10 Thursday and into new hunting grounds in the Senate.

Rep. Aden Hyde, R-Idaho Falls, the measure's chief guide in the House, said the bill would provide "some degree of legal protection for that vanishing animal."

School bill voted out

BOISE (UPI) — Central funding of Idaho's public schools moved a step closer toward floor debate in the House Thursday when the tax committee voted it out for technical amendments.

If the bill is amended and then moved through its normal course of House business, it could be possible to bring it up for final debate by Tuesday.

Some of the amendments are designed to meet objections raised at a public hearing on the bill Wednesday night.

Others are to calm fears it might encourage school consolidation by its wording.

Rep. Robert Haakenson, D-Coeur d'Alene, a member of the subcommittee that drafted the bill, expressed concern at the Thursday afternoon meeting of the Revenue and Taxation Committee about the amount of General Fund money going into the formula proposed by the bill.

"The way this bill stands right now I'm going to fight it on the floor," Haakenson said.

"We're building in too many tax increases now the way the funding is," Haakenson said.

Chairman Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, said once the bill is out on the floor, it may prod the Appropriations Committee into considering more General Fund money for the schools.

'Closed door' bill proposed

BOISE (UPI) — Minority Leader Edward V. Williams, D-Lewiston, made a tongue-in-cheek appeal to the House Thursday for help in introducing a bill designed to keep Idaho for Idahoans.

Williams said he has become "increasingly concerned about the trampling down of Idaho land by rich Arizonans, Californians and Coloradans."

"We need to keep these people out of here," he said, a ghost of a smile on his face.

He suggested legislation that would limit Idahoans from selling more than 10 or 15 acres to any person from out of state.

"This is no more than fair," he said. "We're going to be overrun by these people."

Williams noted that the U.S. constitution provides for "ingress and egress" between states.

"I'm willing to let them ingress," he said, "but I want them to egress as fast as they ingress."

Residents of his home town, he said, fear these non-residents may buy land from Idaho citizens.

"Doggone it, fellas, I don't think we ought to let our people sell to out of staters," Williams said.

He told the house that Idahoans came to the state as early as 1890 "in hand carts" and by other means and these "pioneers" cleared land and built schools and such.

"Now, we've even got some California kids in our schools," he said.

Snoopers' net spread wide, senator claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army surveillance was so pervasive in one major city that "anybody who seemed to be a little out of line and didn't express the orthodox point of view" was spied on, according to Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C.

Ervin revealed the extent of Army intelligence operations in Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., Thursday as his Constitutional Rights Subcommittee wound up its second week of investigation into government snooping.

Ervin produced a small brown box kept by the Army intelligence unit in Minnesota containing 3-5 index cards with the names of students and teachers at the University of Minnesota, plus community leaders and organizations. The file was kept for 18 months, until January, 1970, as part of the Army's reaction of civil disorders. It was resumed again after last spring's Cambodian invasion disruptions.

Malcolm Moos, president of the university, said unorthodox statements made within the confines of the classroom sometimes were taken down and filed. The practice, he said, is one which suffocates learning and free speech.

There was one card in the file on Harry Davis, who was a Democratic-Farmer-Labor party candidate for mayor, Eugene Eldenberg, an assistant vice president at the university, said Davis was "one of the most respected and distinguished leaders of the black community. Somehow he got caught up in the fishnet."

Law wire net bill requested

BOISE (UPI) — The House Transportation and Defense Committee decided Thursday to seek introduction of a bill establishing a statewide teletypewriter network for law enforcement.

John Bender, commissioner of law enforcement, said the measure would cost the state coffers nothing for the next three years. He said the charge would be underwritten by county and federal funds.

Should the federal government pull out of the program after the next three years, he said, in response to questioning, somebody would have to make up its present share of $147,000 per year.

If all 44 counties paid an equal charge, he said, it would cost each $75 per month under this bill during the next year.

To oversee the network the bill would create a five-member board on which the commissioner of law enforcement would be an ex-officio member. Others, appointed by the governor, would include two sheriffs, two police chiefs and a member of the state police.

Sen. Darrell Manning, D-Pocatello, said he understood some health department officials opposed the bill but added he also understood there were "certain people who said they could sneak it through the legislature anyway because we're sort of dumb — that was the inference."

However, he said, the measure was protecting "all time periods in which legislative sessions and legislative functions are performed," the bill says, "it is necessary to exempt such sessions and functions from the ordinary fiscal operations applicable to other operations of state government."

"The legislature has unique constitutional duties and responsibilities that do not lend themselves well to the fiscal time periods and operation schedules established for other operations of state government," it adds.

Bill edges by Senate

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate approved 18-15 Thursday a bill providing for involuntary sterilization of mentally incompetent persons even though opponents questioned whether the persons to be involved were protected.

Sen. Darrell Manning, D-Pocatello, said he understood some health department officials opposed the bill but added he also understood there were "certain people who said they could sneak it through the legislature anyway because we're sort of dumb — that was the inference."

However, he said, the measure was protecting "all time periods in which legislative sessions and legislative functions are performed," the bill says, "it is necessary to exempt such sessions and functions from the ordinary fiscal operations applicable to other operations of state government."

"The legislature has unique constitutional duties and responsibilities that do not lend themselves well to the fiscal time periods and operation schedules established for other operations of state government," it adds.

Legislative fund bill introduced

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation creating a million-dollar revolving fund for legislative expenses was introduced in the House Thursday by the appropriations committee.

"Because of the nature of legislative operations and the time periods in which legislative sessions and legislative functions are performed," the bill says, "it is necessary to exempt such sessions and functions from the ordinary fiscal operations applicable to other operations of state government."

"The legislature has unique constitutional duties and responsibilities that do not lend themselves well to the fiscal time periods and operation schedules established for other operations of state government," it adds.

Reds boycott Paris talks

PARIS (UPI) — The two chief Communist negotiators boycotted the Vietnam peace conference session Thursday to protest alleged U.S. preparations for a "military adventure" against North Vietnam.

The U.S. negotiator, David K. E. Bruce, and South Vietnam's ambassador, Pham Dang Lan, told second-ranking North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates the boycott was a maneuver exposing the Communists' refusal to negotiate a peace agreement.

Hanoi's veteran negotiator, Xuan Thuy, and the Viet Cong foreign minister, Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh stayed away from the meeting to dramatize their earlier charge the United States is threatening the security of North Vietnam.

Hanoi's deputy negotiator, Nguyen Minh Vy, and his Viet Cong counterpart, Nguyen Van Tien, launched attacks at the meeting against the Nixon administration's alleged expansion of the Indochinese War. Tien reiterated Communist charges that the United States was planning a "military adventure" against North Vietnam.

The American delegate responded to the Communist accusations by saying they indicated the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong "are still not interested in a negotiated settlement" and continued to use the peace meetings for propaganda.

"Instead of treating the real issues here, you waste everyone's time with maneuvers, polemics and propaganda," Bruce said.

DENVER (UPI) — U.S. District Judge William Doyle says he thinks it was just a mixup in words.

A businessman told the judge Thursday that the cause of justice is not served "when you get promiscuous on the bench."

"I knew he meant permissive," the judge said later.

Inspection bill held

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate voted 17-16 Thursday to excuse the Senate Transportation Committee from reporting out a bill to repeal the annual vehicle inspection law.

Sen. James Ellsworth, R-Leadore, admitted it was "blackmail" which first caused the legislature to approve the yearly inspections, but said there is still the threat Idaho will lose part of its highway funding from the federal government unless it continues the inspection.

Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, said the entire situation was "pretty ludicrous" and said "we sit here and say we've got a bad law on the books but we'll keep it because we want to keep our hands in the federal till."

Price set

BOISE (UPI) — A bill providing for taxes on aircraft engine fuel inadvertently sets the price of such fuel at 2 1/2 cents per gallon, a house committee discovered Thursday.

Saying it appeared as though a "lawyer drew this bill," Rep. William Roberts, R-Buhl, pointed out this and other errors in the measure to a state tax commission attorney during discussion of it.

As written, the bill states that "said aircraft engine fuel may be sold at the rate of two and one-half cents per gallon and a credit or refund will be allowed the retailer by the distributor of such fuel for the additional tax use the peace meetings for propaganda.

"Instead of treating the real issues here, you waste everyone's time with maneuvers, polemics and propaganda," Bruce said.

Funeral director, clergy meet set

TWIN FALLS—A clergy-funeral director seminar will be held in Twin Falls March 18, one of five planned in Idaho during the week of March 15, according to Ronald Hamilton, Twin Falls, president of the South Central Funeral Directors Assn.

"The funeral—relic or resource?" will be the theme of the seminars which will be attended by clergymen of all faiths and funeral directors from throughout the area. The keynote presentation for each seminar will be given by Dr. Edgar H. Jackson, pastor, author and lecturer from Corinth, Vt. He has specialized in the study of grief and bereavement and is the author of eight books, including "For the Living," "You and Your Grief," "Understanding Grief," "Telling a Child About Death" and "The Christian Funeral." Moderator for the program will be Robert C. Slater, professor and director of mortuary science, University of Minnesota. He also is the clergy consultant for the National Funeral Directors Assn. and has conducted more than 180 such seminars throughout the United States, with an attendance of more than 20,000 clergymen representing more than 40 denominations.

Much interdisciplinary thought is currently being directed toward funerals and the processes of grief and bereavement which surround them, Dale Patterson, Twin Falls, chairman of the local seminar, said.

Theologians, sociologists, psychiatrists and psychologists are increasingly concerned with research in this area. The seminars will provide opportunity for evaluation and discussion of the value of the funeral in relation to bereavement, grief, and mourning.

Similar seminars are scheduled March 15 in Coeur d'Alene; March 16 in Lewiston; March 17 in Pocatello, and March 19 in Boise.

They are sponsored by the Idaho Funeral Directors Assn. This is the first time the seminars have been held in Idaho, Hamilton said.

BUHL — Dr. Daniel E. Taylor, Boise, will be the guest speaker at the Lenten service at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Buhl United Methodist Church, according to Glenn Waltman, pastor.

Lutherans launch compassion plans

FILER—"Project Compassion," a new project of Lutheran churches in Magic Valley, is being undertaken by 12 churches in the area with a special training workshop set for 2-8 p.m. March 20 in the Immanuel Lutheran Church, Twin Falls, according to Mrs. Elmer Fischer, Clover Lutheran Church representative.

all the area nursing homes each month to bring them friendship and companionship and share with them the message of Jesus and His love.

Rev. Willard Pultz, Gooding, will be in charge of the workshop as area trainer of volunteers. Mrs. Melvin Pflughoeft, Rupert, is area recruiter. Mrs. Robert Worstel, Twin Falls, is captain of the Twin Falls area.

Minneapolis man talks at church

RICHFIELD—Only 30 percent of the population belongs to any church, Murray Payne, Minneapolis, Minn., Methodist lay speaker, told Richfield Lions and their wives Tuesday night at the Methodist Church.

He said mankind now has too low an opinion of God. He also urged club members to protest the theory of evolution now being taught in universities.

Payne was accompanied by Rev. and Mrs. Hardy Thompson, Shoshone, with whom he has been staying the past week as part of the Methodist Church conference-wide "Operation Concern." The local club will sponsor a

Archaeologists find basilica

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Greek archaeologists have discovered the remains of a basilica built in the fourth century on grounds venerated by Christians as the site where Jesus Christ was crucified and buried.

Archaeologist Athanasio Economopoulos said Tuesday the remains were uncovered Feb. 18 under the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, erected during the time of the Crusades. The church is in the old city of Jerusalem that contains the Moslem, Jewish and Armenian quarters.

Economopoulos said the remains are part of the church that Queen Helena, mother of Constantine I, had built in 335 A.D., two years before her son's death.

Constantine, called the Great, made Christianity the official religion of the Roman Empire in the year 313.

Economopoulos, who is in charge of restoration work on the Church of the Holy Sepulchre for the Greek government and the Greek Orthodox Church, said the find was made below the ground-floor level of the present church. The original basilica was burned by Persian invaders in the year 614. A reconstruction was destroyed in 1900, and the present church has gone through periodic fires and an earthquake in 1927. Economopoulos said the current repairs should be completed next year.

Stake honors past presidents

BURLEY—Past presidents of the Burley Stake Relief Society were paid a tribute during a visiting teachers' convention held at the Burley Stake House, Mrs. Mary Bateman, president, said Thursday.

Honored were Mrs. Arnes C. Hoggan, who served from 1941-1945; Mrs. Bertha P. Hill, 1945-50; Mrs. Merna E. Marchant, 1951-1960; and Mrs. LaVerne D. Darrington, 1960 until the Burley and Cassia East Stakes were divided.

Life histories of each of the past presidents were read by Mrs. Deaun Weed, Mrs. Mildred Waters, and Mrs. Bateman.

A history of the Burley Stake organization from July, 1919, was presented by Mrs. Bateman. She challenged the women to "Remember When" as each event was reviewed.

Mrs. Florence Dilworth, stake leader, arranged the program and spoke to the group with emphasis on services of visiting teachers in the Relief Society.

A musical reading with words written by Mrs. Carol Ann Lee was sung by Eleene Gruwell. Two selections were sung by the ward organists and choristers with Mrs. Bonnie Christensen, stake chorister, conducting.

Prayers were given by Mrs. Gwen Sutton, stake education counselor, and Mrs. Pearl L. Lee, a board member.

Churches at Filer slate contest

FILER—Last year a Sunday School attendance contest among Filer churches proved very successful, and the churches are holding one again this year, with last Sunday the starting day.

Each Sunday School turned in the average attendance for the month of January, and this will be used as the average with the percentage increase to determine the winner. Last year the First Baptist Church was high point winner with the greatest increase in attendance.

Rev. Roy Watson, pastor of the First Baptist Church, urges everyone to attend every Sunday, bring someone else with you, and look around and find someone not attending any Sunday School and invite that person to attend with you. The contest will close Easter Sunday.

Rev. Watson noted the advance is much more than a contest, rather is meant to bring to the forefront the Sunday Schools of the community, which he feels are very important tools of Christianity. No denomination is trying to take people away from other churches, but instead, each is trying to reach the unchurched of the community, he added.

Morality basic, club told

FILER—"Morality is the heartbeat of the nation's life," stated Rev. Myron Sherrard, pastor of the Coeur d'Alene United Methodist Church, as he addressed Filer Kiwanis Club members at their Tuesday noon luncheon meeting in the United Methodist Church.

Rev. Sherrard is in the area conducting Methodist "Operation Concern" meetings and workshops. He has been a Kiwanis member for 26 years. He noted that solutions to ecology and pollution problems are acts of personal responsibility for every person. The speaker was introduced by Rev. Elam Anderson, Filer Methodist pastor.

Roger Vincent sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. A. Beem. Patricia MacKay was introduced as "Miss Intellectual" and Cindy Brennan as "Miss Energetic," both Girls of the Month from the Filer High School.

Guests were Dale Williams and Clyde Schroeder of the Key Club.

Western Charolais Classic to feature 3,000 lb. bull

CALDWELL — Three thousand pounds of Charolais bull is a lot of bull to come face to face with, especially when you come face to face with it in the lobby of a "plush" hotel. But that is exactly what will happen on Tuesday when Bourgeois, a full-French Charolais bull will be displayed at the Rodeway Inn, Boise. This is all part of the high-jinx surrounding the Western Charolais Classic ("Charolais Days in Idaho") at Caldwell, Monday through Thursday. Bourgeois, a 1966 import from France, belongs to the famous Kane, Red Lodge, Mont. is a popular sire and has been widely exhibited around the country. There will be a ladies' guessing contest for those who wish to speculate on the exact weight of the bull, with prizes to be presented at the conclusion of the Western Charolais Silver Bull Awards Dinner at the Rodeway Inn, scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday. Events are being crowded thick and fast into this seventh annual classic, the latest being a Ladies' Luncheon to be held Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. complete with strolling fashion show at the Naimpa-Caldwell Karcher Mall. Simultaneously, a ringside luncheon will be served at the Field House facilities at Caldwell, also featuring entertainment. This follows the audience computer placing of sale animals by the spectators. This is a contest, done here for the first time, to see how nearly the judges and audience concur in the placing of animals. Noon Monday is kick-off time for the Western Charolais Classic, when entries from 10 western states and three Canadian provinces will have to be in place. The female sale will follow at 1 p.m. and a fun night will conclude the opening day's activities at the Caldwell Elks Club.

Andrus keeps promise; meets with spud growers

BOISE (UPI)—Keeping a campaign promise, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus met Idaho potato growers on the statehouse steps when they came to Boise Wednesday. Primarily members of the National Farmers Organization (NFO), the estimated 100 growers sought support for a proposed marketing order procedure. And they objected to proposed increases in the potato advertising tax to five cents from three. Andrus recommended the farmers gather individually with their legislators to tell them of their desires. "Make certain that any legislation that is drafted is drawn so that it is to your benefit," Andrus told the spud growers. Later, the farmers clustered outside the chambers of both houses and talked with Lt. Gov. Jack M. Murphy as well as many legislators. One group met in a committee room on the fourth floor with their legislators.

BOISE (UPI)—The president of the Idaho Wool Growers Association has questioned the qualifications of the men named to represent agriculture and livestock on the Idaho Public Land Commission. In a letter to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, R. J. Rich asked that the two members be replaced "with some of these well qualified individuals in order for the commission to do the best job for the whole state of Idaho." Andrus dismissed eight of the nine members of the commission and named seven Democratic state senators and a Pocatello attorney to the commission. Sen. James Stolcheff, D-Sandpoint, an educator, was named to represent livestock and Sen. Charles Bilyeu, D-Pocatello, a professor at Idaho State University, was named to represent agriculture. Rich, however, said the men "may be well qualified in their fields, but their credentials for the specific assignments given to them are not satisfactory to the livestock and agricultural interests."

Berlin access talks stalled until Soviet party session

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is little if any possibility of progress in the allied talks with Russia over access to Red-encircled Berlin until after the Soviet Communist Party Congress in April, according to high officials in the Nixon administration. They base this view on past experience which shows that Moscow usually freezes its position in international negotiations at a time when it is engaged in inward looking—concentrating on problems in Russia and the Soviet bloc. The Western allies—the United States, Britain and France—are seeking agreement to guarantee unhindered access of civilians and civilian cargo from West Germany to West Berlin. They also are seeking some agreement to lessen restrictions on travel to Communist East Berlin and East Germany by West Berliners who have been barred from those areas for five years. U.S. officials expressed disappointment at lack of progress during meetings so far in Berlin of Soviet and Western ambassadors. They did find some reason for hope in the fact that Russia had not rejected an Allied proposal for a draft agreement submitted Dec. 5. It calls for permitting civilians to move freely in the 100-mile corridor through Communist territory from West Germany to West Berlin on the basis of a simple identification procedure. That would prevent East German officials, considered by the Western allies to be mere agents of the Soviet Union, from barring anyone from travel on the basis of being an undesirable or arresting them for any reason. The Western ambassadors also would do away with time-consuming inspection of rail and highway cargoes by providing for sealing of shipments at the western end of the corridor. Soviet officials in a number of Western capitals have been telling newsmen that unless the Western powers come up with something better there can be no agreement, and relations between Russia and West Germany will revert to the Cold War atmosphere of the 1950s. That pressure was tied on the fact that West Germany's chancellor, Willi Brandt has said that he would not submit the pact—which ratifies Polish possession of former German territory and gives the Communists other concessions—to the West Germany Parliament for ratification until there was a Berlin agreement. The assumption here was that the Russians were trying to prod Brandt into pressuring the Western allies to settle for less on Berlin. Brandt has not done so.

Medical benefits non-taxable

Taxpayers who received certain payments because of medical expenses, permanent injury or sickness during 1970 may not be required to pay federal income tax on such amounts. Amounts received under workmen's compensation acts as compensation for personal injuries or sickness, or damages received on account of personal injuries or sickness, are not taxed. Amounts received through accident or health insurance or through an employer's health and accident plan as reimbursement for medical expenses or for personal injury are also excludible. Otherwise, amounts received for personal injuries or sickness are taxed to the extent they are paid for by an employer or are attributable to contributions made by an employer to a plan. If wages were received for a period during which an employee was absent from work due to sickness or injury, such amounts, within limits, can be deducted on Form 1040. To figure your sick-pay exclusion under the sick-pay rules, you must first determine whether your sick pay was over 75 percent of your regular weekly rate of pay. If you received over 75 percent of regular weekly pay for periods of absence from work because of sickness or injury, there is a 30-day waiting period (even if you were hospitalized) before you qualify for the exclusion. After 30 days, you can exclude up to $100 per week. If you received 75 per cent or less of your regular weekly pay, there's a seven-day waiting period if you were not hospitalized and the exclusion is limited to $75 per week. There's no seven-day waiting period if you were hospitalized at least one day during the absence period. After 30 days, the exclusion rises to the $100 limit. Where the exclusion is limited to $100 per week and the payments exceed this rate, you figure the exclusion by multiplying the amount received by 100 and dividing by the weekly rate of payment. Where the exclusion is limited to $75 per week and the payments exceed this rate, you figure the exclusion by multiplying the amount received by 75 and dividing by the weekly rate of payment. The 7- or 30-day waiting period applies to each period of absence.

A statement should be attached to your tax return in support of a claimed exclusion for sick pay. Form 2440 (one for each period of absence) may be used to explain the exclusion. If the period of absence extends into a second year, a statement containing the information required by the form, not Form 2440, should be used. Where an employee retires because of disability, the disability payments qualify as sick pay until he reaches the normal or mandatory retirement age. Also, the sick pay exclusion is applicable to regular wages paid under wage continuation plans to employees working past the normal retirement age.

TRACTOR MOVE SPRINKLER SYSTEM

A tractor move system enables you to take advantage of the low operating costs of a hand move system—and, at the same time, cut labor costs.

One man can move a quarter-mile of lateral line in less than 15 minutes. That's something to think about! Just keep in mind...

ONLY TEX-FLOW OFFERS SO MUCH.

One tractor move system may look like another, but upon closer inspection you find many differences that make a difference to you:

- Tex-Flow sprinkler pipe is thick wall and made of the hardest aluminum alloy available. The separate, one-piece coupler is designed to permit the use of a pressure regulator. Automatic quick drain valve is extra large and completely protected against trash. Skid is small and compact, presenting a low drag profile.
- Furthermore... Tex-Flow offers a pan and coupler clamp that requires no holes in the tube and can be installed in the field without even a wrench; and exclusive threadless, slip-out risers with automatic water shut-offs that enable you to remove a riser without shutting down the entire line.

This diagram shows one of several ways in which a tractor move system may be set up, depending upon the available location and the length and the location of your laterals. When the main line is in the middle of the field, it can be left in a straight line, allowing the tractor move line to go over the mainline without damage.

Market Review Idaho Magic Valley Weather National

NEW YORK (UPI)—Volume boomed and prices rose sharply as the stock market passed the halfway point Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips was at its highest point in 20 months and threatening the 900 level with a gain of 5.62 to 896.98. Advancing issues outnumbered declines 1,024 to 557 among the 1,604 issues on the tape.

The three-hour volume of 14,520,000 shares soared from Thursday's 9,510,000 traded at a comparable period.

Friday's surge was generally attributed to carryover momentum from Thursday's sharp advance, but a government announcement that the jobless rate declined for the second straight month apparently helped fuel the advance.

The Labor Department reported the national jobless rate dipped to 5.8 per cent in February from 6 per cent in January.

Successful Investing AUCION

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q—I own 300 Crowell-Collier & Macmillan, Inc. Preferred. Do you think it will ever get back up to former highs? S.P.

A—Last year was a discouraging one for this and other publishing companies; consequently, earnings dropped sharply, despite a moderately higher level of sales. There are, however, several factors which should contribute to recovery this year. A probable increase in federal aid to education — Congress budgeted for a one-half billion dollar increase to $4.4 billion in 1970 — as well as higher state and local spending should help boost textbook sales.

This segment, which contributes about 47 per cent of Crowell-Collier's sales, was soft in 1970. Thus, last year's underbidding by schools should be partially recovered this year.

Q—I purchased Northside Natural Gas 8 1/2% of 1974 assuming these were bonds. When the certificates arrived I discovered I had debentures, which are nothing but promissory notes. I cannot afford to speculate. Is this investment safe? P.M.

A—You are correct, these debentures represent no lien on corporate property. In fact, Northern Natural has close to $700 million in various unsecured debt outstanding. However, under terms of indenture, each issue would be secured equally and ratably should any company or subsidiary property be mortgaged or pledged. Your debenture carries an A rating and interest is amply covered by earnings. On balance, the majority of issues could undergo a few relax — your short-term debentures have a good margin of safety.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—The recent downtrend appears to be "a minor correction" which could move to around the "840-850" level on the Dow Jones industrial average, TPO Inc. believes. The firm says some of the leading performers have "already shrugged off the setback" and are at new highs.

On balance, the majority of issues could undergo a few relax — your short-term debentures have a good margin of safety.

Best bet CHICKEN (UPI) — Vaccination against rubella (German measles) is still the best of options currently available for preventing maternal-fetal rubella.

Dr. Barry M. Meyer Jr. and Paul D. Parkman reported in the journal of the American Medical Association.

The doctors, from the Laboratory of Viral Immunology, Division of Biologic Standards, National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Md., said if enough children are vaccinated the cycle of rubella may be broken, bringing a prompt reduction in fetal deaths associated with the disease.

Economists predict slip in farm income

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government farm economists are predicting for the record that net farm income will slip again this year. But some of them privately feel the forecast could be too pessimistic.

The current official forecast, delivered at the Agriculture Department's annual outlook conference here last week, said: "The increase in farm production expenses probably will exceed the expected advance in gross farm income. Thus, a further small decline in total net income is now indicated for 1971, even though the farmer's income situation probably will improve as the year progresses."

Rex F. Daley, head of the department's Economic and Statistical Analysis Division, delivered that forecast without using any specific figures to indicate how far the projected "small decline" might go.

Other figures used by Daley and other economists would appear this year. Daley himself said gross income was likely to rise by about $1 billion, while another economist said estimates of farm costs indicated they would rise by around $1.5 billion.

On the basis of these individual income-cost projections, net farm income in 1971 could be forecast at around $15.2 billion.

But it may not be that simple, Daley said, explaining in an interview why he limited himself to the loose phrase "small decline" in his official summary last week.

"There's a tremendous uncertainty about the 1971 crops," Daley said. "And in view of the possibility of another outbreak of corn blight, we felt we needed to be a little cautious."

If blight strikes hard enough to keep corn prices high, Daley explained, gross farm income could conceivably be higher than now expected.

Another source, conceding that the only available figures on which "hard" projections can be based today add up to some decline in net farm income this year, stressed that the picture could change.

"I'm still not sure whether farm income will really be down or not," one veteran economist said. "There is a strong underlying demand for farm products."

Aggressive administration action in expanding general economic activity could moderate or even eliminate the projected decline, the economist speculated.

'Crusaders' plague F.S.

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

TWIN FALLS — "There is a new element of frustration the U.S. Forest Service faces in the concerned public, a faction of people who have no direct use of the forest but attempt to dictate conservation and ecology practices," Dean Thad Box of Utah State University, said here Thursday.

Dean Box addressed the annual winter meeting of Sawtooth National Forest rangers and personnel held Thursday in the Holiday Inn. He said the image of the forest service is relatively good compared to other governmental agencies.

But, he said, the agency is at a loss to cope with the new crusaders who probably have never seen or will never visit a given area of the forest such as the White Clouds, but who, he said, will storm forest offices with protests and opinions on its administration.

He said the forest ranger and the rancher have drawn a more common alliance in recent years because of imposing regulations from Washington, D.C., which work hardships on both.

Recreation users, he said, who are interested only in having fun at the expense of the public as a whole often present a major problem and he mentioned snowmobilers as an example of one of the forest service's most recent headaches.

Don Nebeker, U.S. Forest Service Regional Office, Ogden, coordinator of the White Cloud-Pioneer-Boulder Mountain Study, told forest employees the preliminary report from the study will be available to the public by early summer.

He said public contributions of views and suggestions will be welcomed at that time.

There are about 25 different phases of the in-depth study, he said, and the final report will be some time in coming.

C. M. Whitlock, assistant director, Idaho Bureau of Land Management office, discussed the cooperation between federal agencies in administering adjoining public lands. He also listed some of the major problems BLM administrators face.

Among the most prominent, he said, are the solid waste control and meeting demands of the changing public needs.

Former judge H.B. Turner, Twin Falls, discussed court reform as it applies to trespass citations and other matters in which forest service personnel may be involved.

Jobless rate continues drop

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Joblessness declined for the second straight month in February, dipping to 5.8 per cent of the nation's work force, the Labor Department reported today.

Although the decline was concentrated among teen-agers and persons seeking part-time work, Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said the figures "continue to show further promise" of overall improvement in the nation's employment picture.

The national jobless rate reached a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent in December. It dropped to 6 per cent in January and Hodgson said the two-month decline "is indeed heartening." He said it showed "the economy is moving in a favorable direction."

A total of 5.4 million persons were out of work in February, the same as in January. However, after adjustment for seasonal variations, unemployment declined 185,000 during the month, with the rate dropping from 6 per cent to 5.8 per cent.

The 5.8 per cent is identical to the rate recorded last November.

Rupert eyes fund balance

By GEORGIA LAYTON
Times-News Correspondent

RUPERT — Rupert city officials are looking for an additional $14,500 to balance the proposed 1971 budget.

Mayor Wendell Johnson, speaking at the Rupert Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting Thursday, said officials still are working on the proposed budget, but at present there is $824,700 estimated expense, with only $810,200 estimated revenue.

He asked chamber members for suggestions on ways to increase the city's revenue. Suggestions already being considered, he said, are increasing the irrigation rate by $1-per-100, increasing sewer rates to $1.50 per month and garbage collection fees by 50 cents per month.

Increasing the rates of these services would bring the city an estimated $36,000 revenue, Johnson said. Another suggestion is increasing the city water rates which would bring in an estimated $15,000 in a year's time, the mayor said.

Additional sewer lines are needed in the areas of the city where new homes are being built and the present sewer lines are becoming overloaded.

A water line is needed to the Valley Ball park area, Johnson said.

The police department's budget is $3,000 less than last year, because a car was purchased for the department last year.

Another problem facing the city is the necessity to adopt a no-burning ordinance to conform to the state law prohibiting burning, Johnson said.

Mrs. Charles Klinkenberg, city clerk, and other city employees were guests at the luncheon, said William Strasser, chamber president.

Direct campaign

APPOINTMENT of Paul Taber, Twin Falls, seated, as new delegate to the Idaho Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults is announced by Ray Larson, standing, executive director of the society. The 1971 fund campaign is now in full swing and will continue through April 11.

Funds shift in Gooding

GOODING — The Gooding city budget for 1971 of $294,157 is just $75 less than last year.

But the small change in the total hides considerable shifts among various departments.

An appropriation for the city clerk's office this year is $10,386 compared to $12,577 in 1970. A decrease was made in this department in order to provide more money for some of the other departments, according to George Silva, city clerk.

The appropriation for the street department is $58,000 compared to $50,000 last year. This increase is for street repairs and to purchase more gravel for paving. A three-year gravel supply was purchased. The police department shows a 1971 budget of $47,007 compared to $43,000 in 1970. The increase of $4,000 is the city's share of financing the 24-hour radio in the sheriff's office at the county courthouse, according to Mayor Harley Crippen.

Garbage appropriations are $11,000 for this year, a $12,000 decrease from 1970's figure of $23,000. Last year a garbage truck was purchased by the city accounting for the higher figure in 1970.

Street lights were decreased slightly this year from $9,246 in 1970 to $9,200. Library appropriations also showed a slight decrease — $7,600 for 1971 as compared to $7,700 in 1970.

The airport budget is up $368 from last year's figure of $4,632, for an appropriation of $5,000 in 1971. This increase is attributed to the need for repairs and a new roof at the airport, Councilman Ed Leach said.

A decrease of $400 for the fire department is shown in the 1971 budget. Figures were $5,400 in 1970 and $5,000 in 1971. This decrease is based on the small number of fires so far this year and the expectation of not many more. Irrigation stayed constant with budgets of $27,500 for both 1970 and 1971.

Last year's budget for the department of recreation was $15,000 compared to $17,400 for 1971, an increase of $2,400. More money will be needed this year to make park improvements, including seeding and a sprinkling system for the west park and to provide lighting in the parks, Councilman Ed Leach disclosed.

Capital improvements for 1970 were $3,077 and $3,063 for 1971. Water works budget and sewer budgets remained the same in 1970 and 1971 with appropriations of $32,000 and $41,000 respectively for both years.

Total tax revenue for 1971 is $75,075. This includes $45,187 from taxes on the general fund plus taxes on the various departments except irrigation, garbage, sewer and water.

In 1971 the city of Gooding expects to receive $13,600 in county liquor revenue and $11,000 from the state; $4,800 in revenue is expected from county highways and $11,700 from the state highways, $3,600 in revenue is expected for 1971 from police fines as compared to $3,300 in 1970.

Mobile home court decision due soon

TWIN FALLS — Decision on the development of a mobile home court and golf course southeast of the city will be made by the Twin Falls county commissioners within 10 days, following a hearing Thursday night on the application of Lynn Hempleman.

Ed Woods, county zoning administrator, said between 60 and 80 persons attended the hearing called by the county commissioners. Most of them are residents of the agricultural area where the proposed development would be located and most opposed the application.

Attorneys for both the applicant and neighboring land owners brought out technical questions. Commission Chairman W.L. Chancey said, which commissioners wish to discuss with the county attorney before making a decision.

Members of the county zoning board have recommended the application be denied.

Residents presenting objections listed four major points: They objected to increased traffic a mobile home court would bring, difficulty in providing police protection outside of the city, the proposed sewage disposal system.

Kimberly firm wins siphon job

HOLLISTER — The Long Pine Equipment Co. of Kimberly outbid Neilsen-Miller Construction Co. of Twin Falls by only $264 to win a $28,573 contract to construct a siphon across Deep Creek for the Salmon River Canal Co. when bids were opened Thursday.

Morris E. Huffman, manager of the canal company, said Long Pine's bid of $28,573 was the lowest of three bids received. Neilsen-Miller of Twin Falls entered a bid of $28,837, and Galey Brothers, Boise, offered to do the job for $31,190.

The project involves construction of a lateral "A-line" siphon to bring water to an area south and west of Hollister. The 48-inch siphon is to be completed within 90 days after construction is started, according to terms of the contract, Huffman said.

Revised hearing plan set

TWIN FALLS — Revised procedure for public participation in city council meetings to be effective at the March 16 council session was announced today by city manager Jean Milar.

He said the city will follow a plan used by many of the public hearings and by legislative bodies to maintain a better system of order, and to facilitate public participation.

Persons attending the meeting and wishing to discuss various issues with the city council will be asked to register at a table at the rear of the council room and state their name, address and the topic in which they are interested.

These slips will then be given the mayor, who will be able to identify the persons speaking. The mayor will also be able to call on the person at the time the item in question is being discussed.

Milar said no one will be denied the privilege of speaking at a public council meeting. He said the city is not discouraging public participation, but is anxious to be better informed and conduct meetings in the most businesslike way.

Spud tax bill held by panel

BOISE (UPI) — Chairman Jack Claiborn, R-Kimberly, of the House Agricultural Affairs Committee saved by a parliamentary maneuver Thursday a potato tax increase bill that appeared doomed in debate.

After 85 minutes of debate on the bill, Claiborn asked unanimous consent to return the measure to his committee for further study. He did so after the floor sponsor of the bill, Rep. Allan F. Larsen, R-Blackfoot, yielded the floor to him for that purpose.

As written, the bill would increase the potato advertising tax on the grower by one and one-quarter cents per hundredweight and on the first handler one and one-half cents per hundredweight. At present, they pay two and one-quarter cents per hundredweight.

"The increase in tax is substantial," Larsen admitted at the start of the lengthy debate when the measure came up for final consideration of the house.

But he said that "advertising costs have gone up terrifically" as well.

Oakley victim critical

BURLEY — Mrs. Penola Hale, Oakley, remained in critical condition today at Cassia Memorial Hospital from injuries received in a two-vehicle collision Wednesday night in Oakley.

Her husband, Wallace A. Hale, is listed in good condition. Two other persons injured in the crash were treated and released.

Copter crew detained

JACKPOT, Nev. — A routine overnight flight from Ft. Greeley, Alaska, to Stockton, Calif., has turned into a lengthy bus trip for five Army airmen and a lengthy "paid vacation" for two others.

The seven fliers, shuttling a huge Boeing "Vertol" helicopter — known familiarly as a Chinook — when flying in Vietnam — from Alaska to California, landed at the Jackpot airport Wednesday night on a routine overnight stop. The crew is allowed by strict Army regulations to fly no more than six hours per day — and Jackpot was the closest airport when they ran out of time Wednesday.

However, when they tried to fire up the aircraft's two engines Thursday morning, only one would start, the other wouldn't come to life. Fuel control trouble was diagnosed as the culprit, and repair parts, along with a repair crew, were ordered from the Sharp Army Depot in California.

Col. George Borchers, Sacramento, Calif., Army aviation officer for the California National Guard, recipients of the copter, told the Times-News that Thursday's heavy snow prevented the "rescue mission" getting to Jackpot — so the crew holed up in a motel and waited... and waited.

Today, the repairs still had not arrived, so five of the crew went on to Stockton — by bus. CWO-B. Campbell, crew chief, said he and one other crewman will wait at Jackpot until repairs arrive — "probably not until Monday," he said. The helicopter is being turned over to the California National Guard by the Army as part of the modernization of the guard, being carried out nationwide. Col. Borchers said. The huge tandem-rotor "chopper" is of the type used extensively in Vietnam to hoist heavy loads ranging from artillery to medical supplies and food.

Meanwhile, Campbell said, "Maybe I'll run for mayor of this place." He added, however, that he and his fellow airmen will at least "have a paid vacation."

Women's panelist cited

TWIN FALLS — Norma Herzinger, women's editor for the Times-News, will join women from the 49 other states in the nation as a member of the Department of Defense's Defense Advisory Committee on Women.

The special advisory group works with the Department of Defense to advise officials on matters pertaining to women in the military services including the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps.

Two meetings are held annually in Washington, D.C., and the Twin Falls delegate will leave next month for her first such meeting. She and other members will be guests of the U.S. Navy in the meeting April 25 through 29.

Another meeting will be held in October, tentatively scheduled for Oct. 10 through 14, which will mark the 20th anniversary of service of the committee. The Department of Defense will be host for the fall meeting. Known as DACOWITS, the committee of women leaders from throughout the nation meet with Department of Defense officials for briefings and suggestions on women in the service.

The second portion of the meetings include trips in the nation's capital with women obtaining first-hand information on programs and training provided for servicewomen. This also affords an opportunity for the committee to meet and talk with those in the women's service branches. Mrs. Herzinger was nominated for the honor by Mary Brooks, currently director of the United States Mint, and formerly a state legislator in Idaho. The appointment was endorsed by U.S. Sen. Len B. Jordan and U.S. Rep. Orval Hansen, Idaho Republicans, and announced by Melvin Laird, secretary of defense.

Mrs. Herzinger has served as women's editor for the Times-News the past eight years and has served as hostess for two Times-News sponsored tours including a trip to Spain and most recently, the tour of Hawaii.

Active in many organizations including the Altrusa Club, Idaho Press Women and National Press Women, Twentieth Century Club and First Baptist Church, Mrs. Herzinger is the mother of two teen-age daughters, Vicki and Susan. They reside at 1037 Sunrise Blvd. She is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys Martin and the late Ben Martin, Twin Falls.

During her work as women's editor she has been awarded a number of national and state honors. The appointment to the Defense Department committee for three years and the Twin Falls woman is one of 25 new members named this year to serve with the 38 holdover members.

In addition to the appointment, Mrs. Herzinger will be named to one of the major sub-committees responsible for the work of the group. These sub-committees include:

A Lovelier You DANDRUFF OR DERMATITIS?

By Mary Sue Miller

Flaking is a universal scalp problem. It is usually called dandruff, but it can be anything. A small amount of flake is normal, the scalp's way of shedding cuticle. Shampoos and brushing remove it from the head.

A case of excessive flaking, harboring harmful bacteria, is dandruff for real. Unless it is checked it can spill over onto the eyebrows and face. The known checks at present are:

1. Wash hair twice weekly with medicated anti-dandruff shampoo. A tar product is recommended for oily scalp; for dry conditions, shampoos with hexachlorophene and the pH factor are specific. Thorough rinsings with cool water prove as vital as proper sudings. Although without therapeutic benefits, an alkaline after-rinse brightens oily hair.

2. Avoid torrid dryers, over-tinting, excessive sunning (a bit is fine), wearing hair over cheeks and forehead, eating scads of sweets and fats.

Now hear this: Never, but never, self-treat eruptions on the scalp. Widespread irritation signals a serious dermatitis, a threat to both hair and skin. Get thee to a doctor! By the same token, be sure to keep everything that touches your head—from scarves to rollers and combs—in hospital-clean condition. Really, you cannot be too careful.

Joyce Guyer wins voice auditions

JOYCE GUYER

TWIN FALLS — Joyce Guyer, Twin Falls, won the district Students Auditions in Woman's Voice held in Provo, Utah, it was announced today.

The audition is held every two years for student musicians between the ages of 16 and 25. On Saturday, Feb. 13, Miss Guyer was named winner in woman's voice for the state of Idaho in Boise, enabling her to participate in the district audition which is held for the state winners of the National Parks District, Utah, Montana and Idaho, of the National Federation of Music Clubs. She was the only winner from Idaho in the district competition.

Auditions are based on standards reasonably expected for students. Only candidates of superior talent can be winners. Miss Guyer was also recommended for consideration in the Irene Muir Voice Scholarship competition. This $1,000 scholarship is awarded every other year by the National Federation to a student between the ages of 18 and 25.

She will immediately send a taped recording of her required program, as will the winners from the other 13 districts in the United States, for the national competition. Joyce has been a student of Mrs. David Mead, Twin Falls, for the past five years. She has had a superior rating for the past four years in the Twin Falls Junior Music Festival, and was awarded a scholarship by the Twin Falls club to attend the University of Idaho Summer Workshop in 1967.

She has been a member of the cast of four of the Dilettante Group of Magic Valley's productions. She sang the role of Lisl in "The Sound of Music." This group awarded her the Gene Todd Memorial Scholarship in 1968, which included four weeks at the Sun Valley Music Camp.

At O'Leary Junior High School, while in the Eighth grade, she sang the leading role in Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial By Jury." She has been a soloist for the last three years in the Twin Falls High School Chorus and is a member of the High School Madrigals.

She was a soloist for the choir clinic held in Pocatello last year and has been chosen two years to sing in the All-Northwest Choir and last year in the All-State Choir.

Last year Joyce represented Twin Falls county and was an upper division winner in talent for the March of Dimes Telethon in Salt Lake City. She has also been very active in dramatic activities at the Twin Falls High School, performing leading roles in "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Freedom," a rock musical written by Bradford Hickerson, Twin Falls High School drama director. Last year Joyce was chosen "Best Actress of the Year" by the Thespians of the Twin Falls High School.

Hints

Tumble drying is recommended for permanent press clothes, but don't overload the dryer since garments must tumble freely to avoid wrinkles. Drying smaller loads helps to avoid wrinkles too.

One way to help cut winter heat bills is to make sure furniture does not block registers or radiators and shut them off in unoccupied rooms. Close bedrooms if windows are opened for fresh air.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine told me something that has upset me terribly. She wouldn't tell me who had told her, so there is nothing I can do about it. I suppose that is why I am so upset.

She said she had heard that my husband and I were splitting up. Abby, my husband has had to travel more lately for his business and I can't go with him, but we certainly have never been happier, and this splitting up "rumor" couldn't have shocked me more.

I know there is nothing you can do about it, Abby. I just had to tell somebody how heartsick I am. How does a person go about proving something is a lie? HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: One shouldn't have to. But be aware that a real friend would not bring you gossip or any hurtful "sorry-I-can't-tell-you-who-told-me" tales. Since you are helpless to do anything about gossip (real or possibly dreamed up by the one who told you she had "heard" it), disregard it. A word of consolation: Carriers of such tales are usually jealous and miserable and take pleasure in chipping away at the happiness of others.

DEAR ABBY: Once again I've had an argument about this business of children sleeping over at the homes of friends. The ages of mine are 13 and 16.

I always have wanted my children in their own beds at night, and for that reason I seem to be waging a constant battle with my children, and worse yet with the mothers of their friends.

Am I such an oddball to think that I am right? MRS. J. R.

DEAR MRS. J. R.: You're no oddball. Most mothers prefer to have their children in their own beds at night. But the sleeping over experience is a part of growing up. It's an exciting, maturing adventure for all kids, and it's fun. So don't deprive yours of it after you've checked out everything, and are satisfied that there is nothing to worry about.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the mother who wanted to know how much to charge her son room and board when he came home from Viet Nam sent cold shivers up my spine.

Tell that mother that she should get down on her hands and knees and thank God for sending her son home to her. Our son went to Viet Nam, too. We never charged him room and board before he went, and we wouldn't have charged him anything when he came back. Unfortunately, we didn't have to make that decision because he came home in a sealed casket. A MOTHER, KINGSPORT, TENN.

DEAR ABBY: About the husband who complained because his wife looked like a slob in the morning and her sister (who stayed with them) always came to the breakfast well-groomed, sweet-smelling and cheerful. [The sister had to go to an office job.] The husband said he had started to make comparisons and wondered if maybe he didn't marry the wrong sister. He also said his wife didn't have to work. Did he mean he provided his wife with a cook and housekeeper?

I have a suggestion for the wife. Stay in bed all morning. Then your husband won't have to look at you. MARGE IN HOUSTON

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 89796, Los Angeles, Cal. 90089. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Burley eliminates Twin Falls from A-1 tourney

BURLEY — The Burley Bobcats got balanced scoring from four men and used a sticky zone defense to shut off Twin Falls' inside game Thursday night and went on to eliminate the Bruins from the region three A-1 basketball tournament 70-64.

Burley now must beat Minico twice to win the trip to the state tournament at Pocatello.

Friday night's game will be played on the Spartans' home court — where they will be seeking to clinch their second straight district title and third consecutive trip to the state finals.

The Bobcats — in eliminating Twin Falls for the second year in a row — won their first game since Dec. 30. Before Thursday night Burley had sustained 14 straight losses.

Burley's shifting zone defense held usually high-scoring John Van Engelen to just four points from the line and no field goals. Wait Sinclair and Mike Crandal, playing only his second game after a late-season illness which slowed him down three weeks, were the only Bruins in double figures.

The Bobcats, meanwhile, got 24 points from Corey Kidd and some great scoring balance in the first half to forge ahead 30-22. Kidd got eight points in the first 16 minutes and Sager six. Burley had led 15-10 after the first quarter.

In the third frame Twin Falls fell behind by as much as 14 points before rallying within eight at the rest, but Nielsen and Carlson got some clutch points in the fourth period to hold off the Bruins — who wasted a 22-point fourth quarter in the loss.

Burley outrebounced the Bruins and its defense kept most of Twin Falls' shots from outside — and the Bruins aren't known for their outside shooting.

Humes still third in scoring

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Neumann of Mississippi is on the threshold of becoming the third point-a-minute scorer for an entire season in college basketball history.

Neumann, now averaging 40.1 points a game, needs only 37 points at Auburn Saturday to finish with an even 40.0 points per game average — a level reached only by LSU's Pete Maravich the last three years and by Frank Selvy of Furman in 1954.

However, Neumann missed his team's last two road games because of his father's critical condition and might not take the trip to Auburn. If he doesn't play, he's assured of the 40.1 mark.

Neumann was held to 17 points by LSU's slowdown last Saturday in the only game he's played since Feb. 20. He's now averaging only 29.4 in his last five games and his average has dropped three full points.

Notre Dame's Austin Carr has averaged 41.0 points in his last six games and is now up to 37.4 for the season. But Carr would have to average more than 60 points a game in the NCAA tournament to catch Neumann and that's rather unlikely.

Willie Humes of Idaho St., George McGinnis of Indiana and Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky round out the top five.

Dennis Wuychik of North Carolina is tops in the nation in field goal percentage with a .635 mark and fourth in free throw percentage with an .861 mark. Greg Starrick of Southern Illinois leads with a .911 free throw percentage.

Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville is tops in rebounds with a 23.2 mark per game.

Jacksonville leads in team offense with a 101.0 points per game average and Fairleigh-Dickinson and Army are 1-2 in defense with figures of 54.1 and 58.2. Army seems destined to lose the defense crown it has won the last three years.

Shrum, Pilots defeat Wendell to force A-3 meet into extra game

SHOSHONE — Glenns Ferry scored the first eight points of the fourth quarter and got eight big points in that frame from Bob Shrum Thursday night to break open a see-saw battle and knock off the Wendell Trojans 57-46, forcing the fourth district A-3 basketball tournament into an extra session Friday night.

The winner of Friday night's game will advance to the state A-3 championships in Rexburg, and the loser will playoff with Grace at American Falls Saturday night for the final berth in that meet.

The Pilots, who played inspired ball Wednesday night against top-seeded Valley, looked flat in the opening minutes and couldn't put the clamps on fleet Kirk Dennis.

But after falling behind nine points after the first quarter and trailing most of the first half as Dennis — playing his last season for the defending state champions — pumped in 14 points and generally controlled the tempo of the game.

Glenns Ferry began to hold its own under the boards and stayed at least within two points before the last-period breakout. Dennis could get just nine points in the second half, but still the Trojans — passing well and working for good shots — stayed in the think of things, but they only held the lead once in the third quarter, 36-34 after Brad Sisson's corner shot.

Ted Black hit the first bucket of the last period to shove Ferry in front 41-38, their biggest lead of the night up to that point. Harley Hanke swished a 20-footer from the corner and re-headed senior Bob Shrum hit for the Pilots the next two times down the court for a 47-38 advantage.

Rod Adams trimmed that to seven points and Dennis converted one of his patented thefts into a crible to pull the Trojans within five points with 2:40 left, but Ferry went into a deep delay and Bob threw in two cribles to wrap it up. His second lay-up turned into a four-point play when he was fouled and converted the one-and-one.

That gave the Pilots a 65-44 lead and wrapped it up. Dennis got 12 points in that first quarter when the Trojans looked especially sharp, including the last six of the frame to give Wendell the nine-point lead.

Wendell's junior varisty swamped Kimberly 80-43 to win.

Tourney slate — Friday Region 3A-1 Burley at Minico, 8 p.m. Dist. 4A-2 Gooding at Jerome, 8 p.m. Dist. 4A-3 Glenns Ferry vs. Wendell at Shoshone, Dist. 5A-2 Camas County vs. Carey at Gooding State (Victories by Burley, Gooding, and/or Camas County will force tournaments into extra nights.) Saturday Hagerman vs. District 4 champion 8 p.m. at Mountain Home for state A-4 tourney berth. Loser Glenns Ferry Wendell plays Grace at 8 p.m. for state A-3 tourney berth at American Falls.

Two New England teams added to NIT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Massachusetts and Providence, two of New England's outstanding basketball teams, Thursday were added to the field for the 34th annual National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 20-27.

Massachusetts, coached by Jack Leaman, has a 22-3 record with one game remaining. The Redmen will be making their second appearance in the NIT, having lost in the opening round to eventual champion Marquette last year.

The addition of Massachusetts and Providence to the field brings the total number of selections to five this far. Tennessee, Dayton and St. Bonaventure were chosen last Tuesday. There are still 11 berths to fill but no more are expected until next Monday.

Kobayashi retains ring title — TOKYO (UPI) — Hiroshi Kobayashi of Japan retained his World Boxing Association Junior-lightweight title Thursday night on a unanimous 15-round decision over Mexico's Ricardo Arredondo.

The two fighters started cautiously, confining their tactics to jabbing and seldom opening up. They kept up this pace for the first six rounds and when they occasionally did elect to trade punches they missed with their effective blows.

Kobayashi began piling up points after the sixth round.

Gooding defeats Wood River, meets Jerome for A-2 area crown

JEROME — Gooding turned to its big men for double scoring and shook off the cold Wood River Wolverines 51-37 to gain the finals of the fourth district Class A-2 basketball tournament Thursday night.

The Senators, staying alive in the losers' bracket, will go against the undefeated Jerome Tigers at 8 p.m. Friday needing two victories to unseat Jerome and claim the only state tournament berth available to the meet.

Gooding managed only three points in the first period when the Wolverines' 1-2-2 zone took the ball away from them several times and the Senators couldn't hit anything when they did get a shot off. But Wood River, although it managed 10 points, couldn't muster offensive punch enough to ice it during the early going and Gooding caught up with 46 seconds left in the half and then tucked it away in the third period.

Frank Krahn hit 19 points and Gary Gorrell added 10 but a key to Gooding's success was the fireman role performed by junior Doug Reinke who came off the bench to hit 14 points.

Both teams showed the pressure of facing extinction as the first field goal didn't go through for four minutes and 26 seconds. Monte Funkhouser of Gooding hit that one, pulling the Senators to within 4-3. But Gooding then subsided again as Jeff Isom, Pete Gutches and Ed Bowlden shot Wood River ahead 10-3.

The second quarter was scoreless for 2:14 before Krahn hit a three-point play, Reinke a long jumper and Krahn another free throw, cutting Wood River's lead to 10-9.

The Wolverines rebuild it to 16-11 but then ran into a three-minute point drought. Gorrell's shot with 46 seconds left in the half gave Gooding its first lead at 17-16 and Krahn hit twice from the four line to make it 19-16 at intermission.

Reinke hit once and Jeff LaCroix twice to open the second half and Wood River never was able to get closer than seven thereafter. Consecutive buckets by Gorrell opened up a 12-point lead late in the period and Gooding coasted home.

A team spokesman said West, whose loss dims the Lakers' hope in the National Basketball Association playoffs, was resting comfortably and is eager to try out his crutches.

The 6-3 guard, who has averaged 27.1 points a game this year, will remain at Centinela Valley Hospital for several more days. It will be months before he can resume athletic activity.

West was injured Tuesday night in a game with the Buffalo Braves when he collided with 6-foot-8 Bob Kauffman. The surgery was Wednesday night.

Lakers' General Manager Fred Schaus said about the injury, "Jerry took it real tough. He's such a tough competitor. He wanted so badly to be in the playoffs."

West has never played on an NBA championship team.

Dickinson seizes Doral Open lead

MIAMI (UPI) — Gardner Dickinson, already thinking about qualifying for next year's PGA championship after missing the event last week, shot a four-under par 68 Thursday to take a one stroke first-round lead in the $150,000 Doral Eastern Open golf tournament.

Dickinson, who battled early morning winds of 25 miles an hour and chilly 50-degree temperatures, led a group of five pros by a shot. In at 69 were Homero Blancas, Ted Hayes, Bobby Nichols, Gibby Gilbert and George Knudson.

J.C. Snead and young Brian Allin were another shot back at 70.

PGA champion Jack Nicklaus shot a 74 on the par 72 "Blue Monster" Doral course and admitted he always "feels like a wet washcloth for two weeks" after a major win. Arnold Palmer renewed complaints about his putting after shooting a 75.

Dickinson commented, "I want to get enough points to get into the PGA next year," indicating his disappointment in failing to qualify for the tournament last week, which was played just a few miles from his home in North Palm Beach, Fla.

Dickinson, whose last win was the 1969 Colonial Invitational in Fort Worth, Tex., credited a whippy driver and a feathery putter for his low score.

Dickinson didn't get going until the seventh hole when he sank a 35-foot putt for a birdie three. "It turned disaster into a one-under round for the front nine," he said.

On the ninth hole he sank a 20-footer for a birdie two, he canned a five-footer on 11, another 20-foot putt for a birdie four on 12 and hit from eight feet away on 15.

Dickinson said a more limber putter helped him get more distance and he was able to master the slow Bermuda greens with a light putter, a step recommended by him by Ben Hogan.

Hayes, in his second year on the tour, was another early starter and shielded himself from the cold by pulling a red stocking cap over his ears. Despite the cold and wind, "it was one of the best putting rounds I've had this year," he said.

Gilbert, who finished sixth last week after briefly threatening Nicklaus in the PGA, admitted, "Really I was lucky to shoot a 69. I had 15 bad holes and four birdies." He bogeyed only one hole, but several pars came on long putts.

West's condition excellent

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Jerry West, who is lost to the Los Angeles Lakers for the season, was in "excellent" condition Thursday following surgery to repair torn ligaments in his right knee.

Dr. Frank Jobe said that he "is particularly pleased that Jerry has not required post-operative pain medication."

A team spokesman said West, whose loss dims the Lakers' hope in the National Basketball Association playoffs, was resting comfortably and is eager to try out his crutches.

The 6-3 guard, who has averaged 27.1 points a game this year, will remain at Centinela Valley Hospital for several more days. It will be months before he can resume athletic activity.

West was injured Tuesday night in a game with the Buffalo Braves when he collided with 6-foot-8 Bob Kauffman. The surgery was Wednesday night.

Lakers' General Manager Fred Schaus said about the injury, "Jerry took it real tough. He's such a tough competitor. He wanted so badly to be in the playoffs."

McDowell inks pact with Tribe

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Sudden Sam McDowell, the Cleveland Indians' only 20-game winner last season, agreed to a new contract Thursday club officials announced here.

Terms of the agreement were not revealed, though it had been reported McDowell was seeking about $80,000.

The agreement left only one player, utility infielder Larry Brown, unsigned for the 1971 season.

Outfielder Vada Pinson signed his new contract Wednesday.

McDowell, 29, ended last season with a 20-12 record. His American League record in 301 mound appearances with the Indians is 109-92, for an ERA of 2.95.

Gonzaga shatters Vandals — SPOKANE (UPI) — The Gonzaga Bulldogs dropped the University of Idaho Vandals 79-55 in the last Big Sky Conference game of the season for both teams Thursday night.

Larry Carter paced the Bulldogs with 17 points and 11 rebounds as the home club ran up leads as high as 30-20 at halftime.

Idaho's Malcolm Taylor led the losers with 15 points and 10 rebounds.

 R stands for Review of the bidding. South should have tried to figure out what East had for his vulnerable opening bid. South was looking at every point-count card except the ace and king of hearts and the king and queen of clubs. East needed all those four cards for his opening bid.
 This made an automatic end play against East a cinch. South could play out two, three or four rounds of trumps and the three top diamonds. He should make sure to stop in dummy. Then a low club lead would handle East.
 East would rise with a club and have no leading to keep South from gathering in the rest of the tricks.

North's two-heart call was one of those cue bids. With a sound opening spade bid opposite his partner's vulnerable double he wanted to force his partner to bid so as to be sure to reach some game contract.
 East cashed two hearts and shifted to his singleton spade. South's singled four rounds of trumps and the three top diamonds. Then he led ace and another club. East took his two top clubs. Down one!
 South was bitter about the whole thing. "Why does it always happen to me?" he moaned. "I never get any breaks."
 "You might try playing a little better," suggested

Kissinger-Rogers hassle simmers on

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Kissinger-Rogers affair currently agitating Washington is of considerably greater importance to the public than the usual bureaucratic hassle.

It revolves around two major issues which have to do with the ability of the Nixon administration to conduct an effective foreign policy that reflects the will of the electorate as represented by Congress.

The matter of the Executive branch's responsibility to Congress on its foreign policy moves, giving the legislators some advance opportunity to express their opinions on contemplated actions.

The question of whether the State Department can continue to function with maximum effectiveness in dealings with 177 foreign countries when some of its more important prerogatives appear to have been taken over by advisers in the White House accountable neither to Congress nor to the public.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., reflected congressional irritation when he charged Tuesday that presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger had "usurped" the policy prerogatives of Secretary of State William P. Rogers, thus acquiring a "unique and unprecedentedly authoritative role in foreign policy."

President Nixon's immediate adviser that Rogers was his No. 1 adviser in foreign affairs. He described Symington's claims as "misleading, totally inaccurate and unfair." Rogers, after a lengthy talk with the President at the White House Tuesday night appeared to be considerably cheered by whatever the President told him.

But observers do not believe this can be the end of the controversy, particularly because the conditions persist which sparked the general impression of Rogers' decline.

The factors which give rise to the dispute over whether Kissinger has edged Rogers out of his rightful place are two:

—The question of personality, with Kissinger's aggressiveness in marked contrast to Rogers' low-key approach.

—The structural set-up, which has resulted in the creation by Kissinger of a "little State Department" of 110 persons within the White House.

The second factor is the more important because Kissinger acted directly in accord with Nixon's wishes when he gathered into the White House a group of experts on all phases of foreign policy, serving as an information gathering group for the National Security Council. He emerged increasingly as the administration's principal spokesman on foreign policy.

Some foreign ambassadors, meanwhile, who by tradition are supposed to take up any important questions they have with the Secretary of State, began going to Kissinger. They said he was able to get them to see the President, while Rogers could not.

Rogers, in talks with associates, sometimes disclosed irritation at Kissinger's actions. The Secretary felt Kissinger had exceeded the grounds on propriety when he went on a television show last week to explain foreign policy as outlined in the President's global strategy report. Kissinger took pains to make it clear he had a great deal to do with writing the report.

Sending bills costs creditors

CHICAGO (UPI)—With higher postage rates going into effect, it might be some consolation to know it's costing your creditors more to send those bills. And if it hadn't been for Sir Rowland Hill, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, you might even be paying the postage on them.

In 1835 Hill tried to figure out where England's surplus of revenue was coming from. In studying the tax situation, he noted that reducing taxes sometimes reduced the income from them. But reducing the tax on coffee by one-half had produced a net increase of income by one-half.

He also determined that postal revenues were falling despite increased rates.

Hill's investigation revealed that since most letters were mailed with postage to be collected on delivery, a lot of folks refused to accept them. Then they had to be returned and were often unclaimed or refused by the people who originally sent them.

That hardly made for a revenue-producing enterprise for the government. In addition to the records that had to be made at every step of the two-way trip, a letter made two journeys for no postage.

But Hill's big discovery was that the cost of transport per letter was often less for a long journey than for a short one. More mail went on long trips than on short local journeys.

It was obvious to Hill that the time had come for a radical change.

In 1837 he issued a pamphlet for private circulation. In it he proposed that letters be carried any distance within Great Britain and Ireland at a fixed rate. Postage was to be prepaid. He further suggested that

Colombia knows much violence

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

When 44-year-old Misael Pastrana Borrero took office as president of the Latin American republic of Colombia in August, 1970, it was in an atmosphere of military siege.

Battle-dressed soldiers, recoilless rifles and troop trucks filled half of Bogota's broad Plaza de Bolivar. Military policemen barred the public from inauguration ceremonies in the Capitol building.

On a continent noted for the violence of its politics, Colombia has known its share. In the decade from 1948, now known as "The Violence," between 75,000 and 200,000 men, women and children were killed in a rural civil war fought between two traditional parties, the liberals and the conservatives.

In 1958, the two parties brought an end to the violence in a condition which has ruled ever since—the two parties alternating the presidency.

In a further inducement of peace, the term of President Carlos Lleras Restrepo, just preceding Pastrana Borrero, had been marked by significant economic gains.

In the country's 18 most important cities, construction activity had jumped by nearly 25 per cent. The gross national product nearly doubled.

Yet there also were causes for unrest.

In a work force of some seven million persons, about one million were unemployed and the number was increasing. A birthrate of 3.4 per cent was among the highest in Latin America. Incomes in the countryside averaged only about half that for the industrialized cities. Literacy in the countryside ran less than 50 per cent.

It was not necessary to look far to find the elements willing to exploit the unrest.

In the countryside, vying with each other for influence are three principal organizations, smallest of which is known as the Army of National Liberation. It has a membership of about 80 and is said to be torn by internal dissension. Another is a Maoist group known as the Army of Popular Liberation. It is said to number about 150 and to prey on wealthy cattlemen.

A third and largest is the Colombian Revolutionary Armed Forces. It is a peasant group numbering about 400 men under leadership of the Colombian Communist party.

The Colombian army reported that its anti-guerrilla campaign in 1970 netted 134 killed, nine wounded and 201 captured. Twenty-two others, it said, deserted.

Among individuals the most strident opposition to the government comes from a man once known as one of Colombia's most ruthless dictators. Gen. Gustavo Rojas Pinilla, who ruled from 1953 until he finally was expelled in 1957.

BOISE (UPI)—Sideburns and mustaches may be worn by inmates of the state prison.

Raymond W. May, director of correction, told an inmate council Wednesday hair styles at the prison may be lengthened within prescribed general dimensions.

These rules stipulate, he said: Sideburns may be worn down to the ear lobe, trimmed and not bushy.

Mustaches may extend to the corners of the mouth but must be trimmed regularly.

Hair must be neat and trimmed at all times but may extend to the upper part of the forehead.

My Lai order: spare villagers

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Testimony that a specific order had been issued at My Lai to spare villagers and their homes jarred jurors in the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Thursday and brought requests for testimony from high Army brass.

Col. Reid W. Kennedy, the judge, said the testimony of Maj. Charles C. Calhoun had "opened a Pandora's box" of requests, and the jury now wanted to hear Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, Col. Oran K. Henderson, Brig. Gen. Andrew A. Lipscomb, Capt. Ernest L. Medina, and others.

Before issuing any orders, Kennedy told the prosecution to check to see whether Henderson and several others would testify voluntarily if summoned.

Medina was Calley's immediate superior on March 16, 1968, the day Calley is accused of killing 102 South Vietnamese civilians while leading his infantry platoon on a search-and-destroy mission in My Lai. He has admitted killing civilians, but said that was the "order of the day."

Calhoun said the order not to hurt civilians or unnecessarily burn their huts came from Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker Jr., the task force commander at My Lai who later was killed in a helicopter crash.

The witness recalled that Barker had been observing the operation from the air most of the day, as had Koster and Henderson. Calhoun said toward the end of the day Barker returned to his headquarters and he, Calhoun, took Barker's place as an observer. "During the overflight that day I got a call from Col. Barker to call Capt. Medina for him and make sure his troops were not hurting civilians or doing any unnecessary burning," Calhoun said. "I passed this on to Capt. Medina, and he rogered it."

Calhoun also testified that Koster, commander of the Americal Division and in overall charge of the operation, countermanded an order from brigade level for Medina to return to My Lai and "check out whether any civilians had been killed and by what means they were killed."

Col. Henderson, facing court-martial for allegedly trying to cover up the My Lai affair, was brigade commander, Calhoun said, and he (Calhoun) relayed the order for Medina to return to My Lai, but that Medina never did.

"Why?" asked Kennedy, who had been relaying a series of questions posed by the six officers hearing the case.

"Capt. Medina requested he not have to go back," Calhoun responded. "He said it was getting near night ... and he would have to go through minefields and booby traps to get back."

"I told him he would have to go whether he wanted to or not, regardless of his feelings," Calhoun continued.

INJURED POLICEMAN was one of six policemen injured in Milwaukee when a Latin American protest march erupted into violence. Here, the injured policeman is helped by fellow officers. Fifteen demonstrators were arrested. (UPI)

18-year-old vote advanced

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Judiciary Committee, moving with uncommon speed, unanimously approved a constitutional amendment Thursday that would give 18-year-olds the right to vote in all elections.

In a rare display of agreement on a constitutional question, conservatives and liberals, Republicans and Democrats got behind a bill to straighten out what they felt was certain to become an electoral mess next year without the amendment.

The House Judiciary Committee approved the same amendment 32-2 Tuesday. Congress gave 18-year-olds the vote last year, but the Supreme Court said it had no power to extend them—the vote except for federal elections.

So, they have the right to vote for President, senator and congressman, but could not vote for state governor, mayor or school board member unless the states changed their laws to allow them to.

Election officials across the nation set up a cry that dual voting standards would throw their procedures into confusion. Many petitioned Congress to adopt a constitutional amendment making the voting age uniform for all elections—federal, state and local.

Otherwise, there would have to be separate ballots and voting machines, two sets of registration books and dual counting of returns in the 1972 elections, they said.

The unanimous vote in the Judiciary Committee on the amendment, written by Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., and co-sponsored by 85 other senators, virtually assured its approval in the Senate.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who handled the amendment in the Judiciary Committee and will lead the floor debate.

Nixon selects new HEW assistants

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon said Wednesday that he will nominate Robert O. Beatty and Stephen Kurzman as assistant secretaries of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

Kurzman, a Capitol Hill staff assistant for 10 years, will succeed Creed C. Black, who resigned last September to become a Philadelphia newspaper executive.

Beatty, who has been director of communications for the Boise Cascade Corp. since 1965, will fill a post that has been vacant since the start of the administration.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Kurzman will be responsible for legislation and Beatty for public affairs. Each will earn $38,000.

Kurzman, 39, of New York, was a staff member for the Senate Labor Committee and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. He has practiced law in Washington since 1966.

Beatty, 38, a native of Chicago, formerly was conservation director of the Isaac Walton League of America.

BEHIND EVERY PUSSYCAT, THERE'S A GREAT BOURBON.

Only Early Times makes the Pussycat perfect. Because Early Times is just about a whisker smoother than any other Bourbon you'll ever taste. O.K., so what's a Pussycat? It's the national prize-winning drink that's made when you shake a packet of "Instant Pussycat Mix," water and Early Times. This orange-sweet-sour mixes up as quick as a cat. But remember; it only happens with Early Times. Without it the Pussycat just doesn't purr.
