GI club corruption denied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole denounced today as "unproved, untrue and slanderous" sworn charges that he allowed corruption at servicemen's clubs and post exchanges during his Army career.

Cole, who was reduced to colonel prior to his retirement last summer, protested that accusations against him at Senate investigations subcommittee hearings destroyed his career. He threatened to go to the Supreme Court if necessary to clear his name.

During the subcommittee's hearings on alleged bribery and corruption in PX and club systems around the world, Cole's activities while in charge of such operations in Vietnam, and later in Europe, have come under close scrutiny.

Andrus airs funds plea

BOISE (UPI)—Idaho's governor outlined today $129.4 million in available revenues and asked the legislature to appropriate funds for public and higher education and public health at levels he originally requested.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus appeared before a joint session of the legislature to make a second budget address on the 59th legislative day.

His original executive budget request for the General Fund was for $128.1 million, but the Joint Finance - Appropriations Committee reduced that to $122.9 for its tentative figure. Andrus said the additional funds for public schools could help support a kindergarten program, but requested that the $2.8 million he asked for the pre-school program be put into public schools if the kindergarten are not approved.

Andrus came up with the $129,411,000 by adding his estimate of existing revenue for the fiscal year, income from measures approved by the legislature, income from three additional revenue measures he suggested, and a revised estimated cash balance which will be available at the end of the current fiscal year.

The three new revenue proposals outlined by the governor included: —Reconsideration of limiting to 15 per cent instead of 20 per cent the amount of the sales tax turned over to counties to replace lost inventory taxes. Andrus said the 15 per cent would "adequately" replace the lost taxes and would increase state revenues by $2.3 million in fiscal year 1972.

A similar measure was killed in the House earlier this session.

—A legislative approval of House Bill 43, which would eliminate the $500,000 per year set aside from the sales tax for the Permanent Building Fund.

—And, a new measure which would require corporations to file income tax returns and make quarterly payments during the taxable year based on the estimated tax due from the same taxable year.

Andrus said the measure would affect only 684 corporations in the state, would cost less than $7,500 each year to process, but would bring the General Fund an additional $3.8 million during the year. Andrus stuck with his original revenue estimate of $118.7, although other sources say available revenue may be as high as $116 million.

He said income from his proposed revenue measures which have already been approved by the legislature totaled $6.4 million for the General Fund.

Idaho AFB gets F-111s

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Lee J. Jordan, R-Idaho, said today Mountain Home Air Force base has been selected by the Department of Air Force as an F-111 base.

Jordan says the Air Force plans to replace the 37th Tactical Fighter Wing at the base and some 200 F-111 fighters should be available by

Vote at 18 may draw Senate nod

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A proposed constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 in all elections appears certain of final Senate approval.

A vote on the proposal was set in the Senate for 3 p.m. EST and there was little, if any, opposition. Eighty-seven senators were co-sponsors.

The House scheduled a vote on an identical amendment proposal next week. The amendment could be submitted to the states in a matter of days. Thirty-eight states must ratify the proposal before it could become part of the Constitution.

It was 29 years ago that Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W.Va., then a member of the house, first introduced the 18-year-old voting amendment. He re-introduced it in every session of Congress since.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief co-sponsor, shepherded it through his constitutional amendments subcommittee in record time this year. The Senate took it up the day after it ended a six-week filibuster on changing Senate rules.

Congress first approved the principle of universal suffrage for 18-year-olds last year.

Nixon asks rural revenue sharing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon proposed today a $1.1 billion revenue-sharing program for rural America, saying it would provide orderly development of rural areas and help stem migration to the cities.

The program, outlined in a message to Congress, would combine 11 present agriculture grant and development programs with $921 million with $179 million in additional funds.

The money would go in block grants to all 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam for distribution to rural counties with a population density of less than 100 persons per square mile. There are more than 2,800 such counties.

The $1.1 billion would be parceled out according to a formula based on a stated rural population, rural income compared to the per capita national average income, and the relative migration of state's rural population to urban areas.

Nixon also pointed out that rural areas would receive a share of $5 billion in general revenue sharing funds he already has proposed. These funds would be distributed to states on a no-strings-attached basis.

The program outlined today was one of six special revenue sharing programs Nixon outlined in his State of the Union message in January. The funds must be earmarked to general purposes such as rural development, but the states make the decisions on specific programs.

The President said his program "would do away with narrow aid categories, spending restrictions, duplication and red tape now surrounding these programs."

"It would make the money now devoted to them go further and would provide more money," he said.

The proposal, he said, recognizes that patterns of rural development vary widely within different states. He pointed out that no matching funds from the states would be required to receive the federal money.

In fact, the shared funds could be used to match some of the remaining federal grants-in-aid for rural assistance, he said.

Another possible use of the money would be to provide grant assistance to private firms which locate in rural communities.

Child center opens with 2 enrollees

By CHARLOTTE BELL, Times-News Correspondent

JEROME — The Jerome Community Action Agency's new day-care center opened its doors Tuesday at the Jerome Methodist Church with five adult employees but only two pre-school children enrolled.

Center spokesmen said more children are expected to enroll in the program shortly. Two children are being considered for enrollment now, according to Mrs. Susan Staple, center teacher.

The program is designed to care for up to 20 children aged 2 to 5 years. Applications for enrollment are being taken from Jerome area families.

There is no charge for the center, which is being partially funded with $10,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare through the CAA. Additional funds are provided by the Office of Economic Opportunity under the Head Start program, according to R. J. Reichardt, acting chairman of the Jerome CAA.

"Even with these funds," Reichardt said, "the Day-Care Center is going to need some local support. The center, he said, provides more than a sitting service. It provides social and educational assistance to the youngsters, and medical and dental checkups.

"In some respects, the program is similar to Head Start classes which were conducted in Jerome two years ago, except that the center operates on a year-around basis and full days from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. rather than half days.

Others employed at the center include Mrs. Hazel Norris and Mrs. Gwyneth Swensen, both of Jerome, as teacher's aides, and Mrs. Marian VanLeibout, as a part-time aide. Mrs. Joyce Easton will serve as cook.

Volunteer help is still needed, Mrs. Staple said. Interested persons who wish to help or to enroll their children are asked to contact her at the Methodist Church. For the present, the center will use the church telephone, 324-2961.

Reds shift trail's shipments

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. military sources said today the North Vietnamese have stepped up truck traffic over the Ho Chi Minh Trail by shifting their main routes to the west since the fall of the key supply junction of Sepon.

The sources said truck traffic was down only 20 per cent from a year ago despite the U.S.-backed South Vietnamese drive into Laos.

Communist supply traffic fell off immediately after South Vietnamese forces swept into Laos Feb. 5 in an effort to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail and "for three or four days" was down more than 50 per cent from what it was before the Laotian incursion, the sources said.

President Nixon apparently was referring to that low period when he gave his assessment in a news conference March 4.

The South Vietnamese command meanwhile reported 705 troops killed, 2,590 wounded and 164 missing in the month-old Laotian campaign. The increase of well over 50 per cent casualties over the last previous figure was the result of action "in the last six or seven days" and included the fighting for Sepon.

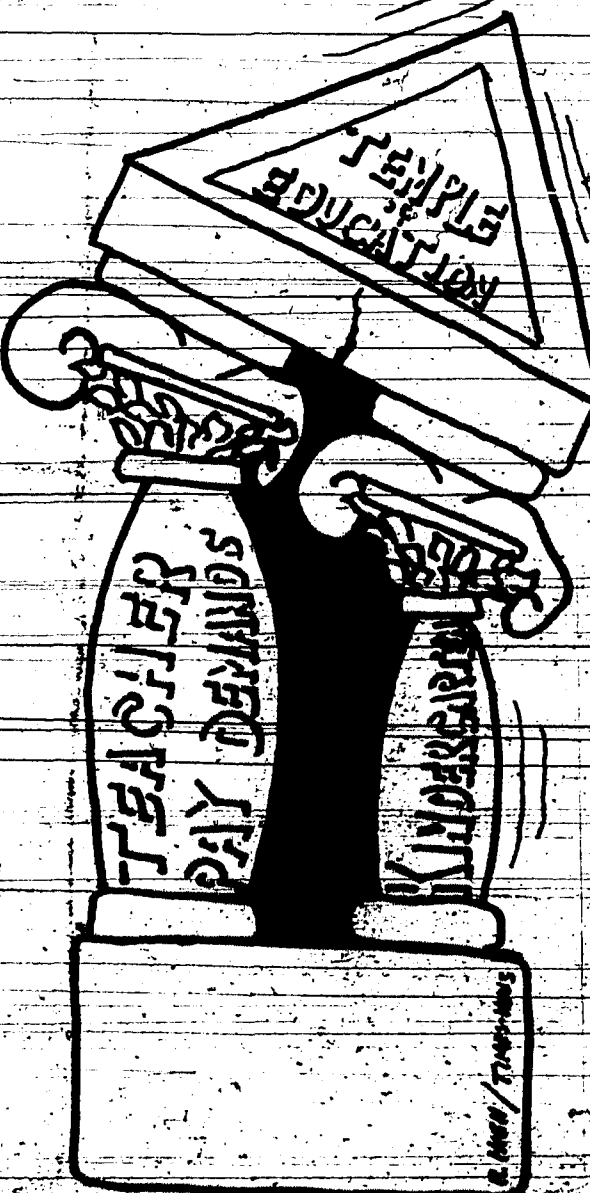

TWIN FALLS — Dr. James L. Taylor, president of the College of Southern Idaho, said today that the college would receive about $60,000 per year in additional income from increased tuition afforded by a bill now awaiting the governor's signature.

The Idaho House endorsed the bill allowing a tuition increase in Idaho junior colleges by a 52-15 vote on Tuesday, sending the measure to Gov. Cecil Andrus. The bill will allow Idaho junior colleges — CSI and North Idaho Junior College at Coeur d'Alene — to increase minimum tuition to $62.50 per semester from the present $50, and to raise the maximum from $75 from the present top of $100.

In addition, the colleges can charge counties outside the college districts $25 per year for each student attending either college, an increase of $125 from the present $50 level at CSI.

CSI, presently charging the minimum tuition of $50 for students in the district, will increase its tuition to $62.50, beginning with the fall, 1971, semester, Dr. Taylor said. The legislation, if signed by the governor, takes effect on July 1 of this year.

Counties will be charged the full $25 per student, as allowed by the law, Dr. Taylor said. The CSI president said he welcomed the news that the house had completed legislative action on the measure. The bill was sponsored by Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, and had been strongly advocated by the CSI president and board of trustees.

Medina tells of mercy order

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Capt. Ernest L. Medina testified today that he specifically directed his troops not to kill women and children at My Lai and denied that he ordered Lt. William L. Calley Jr. to kill or "waste" Vietnamese civilians.

The 34-year-old Army veteran, his Silver and Bronze Star medals ribbons showing on his tunic, testified calmly in direct refutation to many of the points Calley had made as his own star defense witness in the court-martial that could result in the death penalty with a guilty verdict.

Calley, 27, commanded a platoon in the infantry company that Medina led on a search-and-destroy sweep of the Vietnam hamlet on the morning of March 16, 1968. Calley is charged with the premeditated murder of an American man, woman and child that day.

Calley testified earlier that in a briefing on the evening before the attack, Medina told the platoon to "kill or waste any Vietnamese people."

children.

Holding a tiny microphone sometimes in one hand and sometimes between his clasped, twined fingers, the swarthy captain was led through a long narrative of events before My Lai and the assault proper.

The few questions asked were by Col. Reid W. Kennedy, the judge, on behalf of the six-officer jury which had called Medina as the first of three witnesses of its own who will end the military trial.

Medina told Kennedy he was asked questions at the briefing and one was: "Do we kill women and children?" "My reply to that question was 'no,'" Medina said. "I told them not to kill women and children; to use common sense. If they have a weapon and they are trying to engage you, you must shoot back, but you must use common sense."

But before the finished report, Kennedy asked: "at any time on March 16 or March 17, 1968, did you order or direct Lt. Calley to kill or waste any Vietnamese people?"

mine fields and booby traps at My Lai.

"Was it real bad?" asked the judge, Col. Reid W. Kennedy.

"Yes," Medina replied. "Even though we were warned how bad it was, we had not moved from Landing Zone Botti (the company location) more than 1,500 meters when the first individual detonated a booby trap."

Medina, commander of Charlie Company, the American infantry unit that swept through the Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai on March 16, 1968, was called by the Calley jury to tell his story of the alleged massacre of civilians there.

Calley, 27, who is charged with premeditated murder of 182 women, children, and men in My Lai, sat facing Medina, self-proclaimed former commander of Medina's platoon.

Under the questioning of the judge, in behalf of the jury, Medina, who also faces court-martial in the My Lai massacre, was allowed to go into a number of details of the attack on March 16, 1968.

Speaker explains photos

BOISE — Recent editorials and letters to the editor of the Idaho Legislature for expending funds for official photographs reflect a misunderstanding of the purpose of those photographs, Speaker of the House William J. Laning said today.

He noted that many Idaho newspapers carried editorials last week which, in effect, accused the legislature of frivolous and wasteful spending of public money.

"These statements are misleading," he said, "because they do not take into account the historical significance of the concept of legislative photographs."

"House and Senate journals from 1925 to this date record the approval of such photographs. The contract has been awarded on a bid basis and requires the successful bidder to provide a composite framed picture of the individual members. This composite is the property of the state of Idaho and hangs as an historical item within the statehouse."

"In addition," Rep. Laning continued, "each member is given a photograph of the completed composite as well as a 5 by 7 print of himself. Additional pictures may be produced at the expense of the individual legislator."

The speaker said that composite pictures dating back more than 50 years are now in the state archives and it is thought that the legislative photographs began prior to the turn of the century.

Rep. Laning also pointed out that expenditure figures used in some of the letters to the editor are erroneous. The actual cost this year is $2,423.16.

Rainmaker 'smokes' on as deadline arrives

ASPERMONT, Tex. (UPI)—Homer Berry, tugging the flaps of his brown hat over his ears today and squinting at the West Texas sun, admitted the rain would have to come again some other day.

"It's a real precious day today," he said. "If it doesn't rain today it will another day. I'll just rest up two or three days, go home and clean up, change clothes and come back. We're going straight on through until we fill all their cattle tanks."

Thirty days ago the drought-weary ranchers of Stonewall County hired Berry at $2,000 an inch to produce rain. They gave him exactly 30 days to produce five inches. "I just don't believe he can do it," said Enoch Wickware of Ellison's gas station. "I just don't think it'll rain until the Good Lord is ready for it to."

Berry, who was out at dawn, pulling his charcoal-smoking pot behind his pickup truck, trying to "smoke the rain out of the sky," disagreed.

"There are some people who think men shouldn't mess with the weather," he said. "They say it's the same thing as digging a hole in God's earth to get himself a drink. People have got to come off this high horse thing that you can't control the weather."

But Mrs. Sally Frazier of Frazier's Cafe, said, "It'll be a miracle if it rains now. If you still believe in miracles, I think we need some help from above."

With a deadline of midnight, she said she believes Berry cannot fulfill the contract he signed with ranchers 30 days ago.

Since then Berry has been smoking more than Joe Frazier. He drives around the back roads in his red pickup truck pulling a trailer that carries his smoke pot—the pot filled with charcoal briquets soaked in a secret chemical formula that "smokes the rain out of the sky."

"I can do it," he said Tuesday. "Just keep your eyes on the sky."

And he grimaced, patted his smoke-pot and jumped back in the cab of his pickup and drove off down the road.

"The poor old feller has worked so hard," said rancher

Ross Winters. "I hope it works out for him because he's the nicest fellow and he's going to be terribly disappointed."

With Berry was Charles Abernathy, the leader of the ranching cartel that has put up the $10,000 and who has now joined Berry with a rainmaking pot of his own.

T.F. Demos rap solon pay bill

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls County Democratic Central Committee today wired Gov. Cecil Andrus asking that he not sign legislation which would override the mandate of the people of Idaho on legislative pay initiatives.

Andrus signed the bill anyway. Vincent Smazal, county chairman, said about 40 members of the county democratic central committee met Tuesday night to discuss this and other legislative matters.

By unanimous vote, a resolution was passed calling on the governor to support the vote of the people and pointing out there is no reason for calling for a vote of the public if it is to be overruled by the legislators.

In the November election voters of Idaho turned down a pay increase initiative by a nearly two to one margin. Smazal said there are several bills pending before the legislature involving expense allowances and salaries for state law makers.

On Tuesday the governor signed a bill increasing expense allowances with the understanding state residents be given another opportunity to vote on law makers' pay.

Sale limit under fire

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon, according to congressional sources, is readying a statement that will criticize the voluntary Japanese agreement to limit textile sales to the United States.

Nixon, the sources said, reportedly overruled some of his cabinet officers, including Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, who were said to have favored the position worked out by Japanese textile makers.

Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's national security adviser, also was said to have favored the Japanese announcement.

The Japanese announced unilaterally Monday they would hold back sales of synthetic and woolen textiles to present levels over a three-year period, with moderate allowances for growth of the market.

Japan and the United States had been negotiating unsuccessfully for two years trying to reach a voluntary agreement before the surprise announcement. It has been reported that the Japanese voluntary restrictions developed in large part from prodding by Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, steered through the House last year a bill that would have put mandatory ceilings on textile imports. The measure did not pass the Senate.

Mills said he welcomed the Japanese announcement and hoped other Far East textile exporting countries would follow. If they do, Mills said, "it is my strong belief that the quota-type legislation which was considered in the Congress last year will not be necessary."

Mills has said privately the Japanese proposal should be given a chance to work before it is denounced. He urged the U.S. textile industry "to give the declaration a most deliberate review in the light of its own long run interest."

Nixon was said to be miffed at the way the Japanese announcement was made. His special assistant, Peter Flanagan, had been conducting the negotiations but it was reported the Japanese came to terms after dealing not with Flanagan, but with Mills, who is not a U.S. negotiator.

The United States wanted item-by-item restrictions, not the over-all limitations the Japanese announced.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's offer to resume diplomatic relations with the United States was contained in a message he sent to President Nixon last week before announcing he would not extend the cease-fire.

Sadat hinted at this in his speech announcing the cease-fire decision when he appealed to the United States "to do its utmost and to fulfill its pledge to Egypt that it opposes and will continue to oppose the principle of the acquisition of territory by force."

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said Sadat made it clear Egypt looks to Washington to use its influence with Israel to obtain a complete withdrawal from occupied Arab lands.

The Israeli parliamentary decision to persevere with the peace talks came when Prime Minister Golda Meir's ruling coalition defeated a motion by the right-wing Gahal Party to pull out of the talks. The vote was 40 to 25 with five abstentions. The party also had demanded an immediate debate on the political and military situation prevailing since Egypt refused to extend the cease-fire.

Mrs. Meir told a student audience in Haifa today that Israel will not withdraw to the demarcation lines that existed in the Middle East before the June 1967 war and that it will not accept Big Four power guarantees as a substitute for defensible boundaries.

Gorton out on own vote

CANBERRA (UPI)—The ruling Liberal Party ousted John G. Gorton as prime minister of Australia today and named Foreign Minister William McMahon to replace him. Gorton cast the deciding vote at the party meeting against himself.

McMahon immediately pledged Australia's continuing Allied support in Vietnam, and both the nation's foreign and domestic policy was expected to remain unchanged.

The opposition Labor Party called for national elections to determine the new prime minister. Australia's 27th, but Governor General Sir Paul Hasluck followed normal parliamentary procedure and named McMahon to lead the government.

McMahon also appointed Gorton as the defense minister in his new cabinet, a move seen as a conciliatory gesture aimed at cementing the cracks in the Liberal Party.

administered by the Australian Army in Vietnam were to be curtailed and eventually ended.

At today's caucus of parliamentary members of Gorton's Liberal Party the matter came to a vote on whether Gorton should remain as party leader and as such prime minister.

Gorton abstained, but when the vote came out at a 33-33 tie, as presiding officer he looked around the room, smiled, and then said: "I make the motion as a negative." With that, he stepped down from the leader's chair and left party members to pick his successor.

McMahon, 63, noted for being a hard worker, was chosen by a heavy majority over Bill Snedden, Minister for Labor and National Services.

Gorton, who became prime minister after Harold Holt was drowned Dec. 17, 1967, gave no explanation why he voted against himself but observers said he felt he probably could not hold his party together if the matter came to a vote of confidence in Parliament. They also noted he has a reputation as a loner who often does the unexpected.

McMahon, asked about his attitude to foreign policy and particularly Australia's role in Vietnam, said "Australia's government policy on Vietnam has never been more strongly pressed than by me. That will continue."

Gorton's ouster centered over charges by resigned Defense Minister Malcolm Fraser that Gorton had used his office to undermine the political effectiveness of those he found in disagreement with him, including senior members of his government.

Fraser specifically charged Gorton aided with the Army against the defense ministry over an issue as to how and when civil aid programs

Overtime pay bill vetoed

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus vetoed his first bill of the session Tuesday, one which would have clarified policy concerning overtime, holidays and vacation pay for state employees.

But in his letter to Senate President Jack Murphy, Andrus said one section of the bill "openly usurps the duties and responsibilities of a department head by having the personnel commission determine who shall be supervisory and administrative personnel."

The letter added it was the opinion of the governor's administration that the determination of supervisory and administrative personnel "be necessarily left up to the department and agency heads who are close to the situation and know the extenuating circumstances surrounding a particular position."

Andrus added the legislation vetoed would have put all state employees wholly or in part under the jurisdiction of the personnel commission.

Migrant education dropped

ONTARIO, Ore. (UPI) — The board of trustees of Treasure Valley Community College announced Tuesday the college would end its connection with the migrant education program at the end of the current contract May 1.

In a statement, the board said it could not continue after being told by officials of the Office of Economic Opportunity that it does not have full authority over the program.

The college had managed the program six years.

Appointed

BOISE (UPI) — Ewing H. Little, Boise, has been named chairman of the Idaho State Tax Commission, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus announced Tuesday.

Little replaces L. I. Passmore, whose term as chairman expired. Passmore will remain as a member of the commission.

Hearings planned

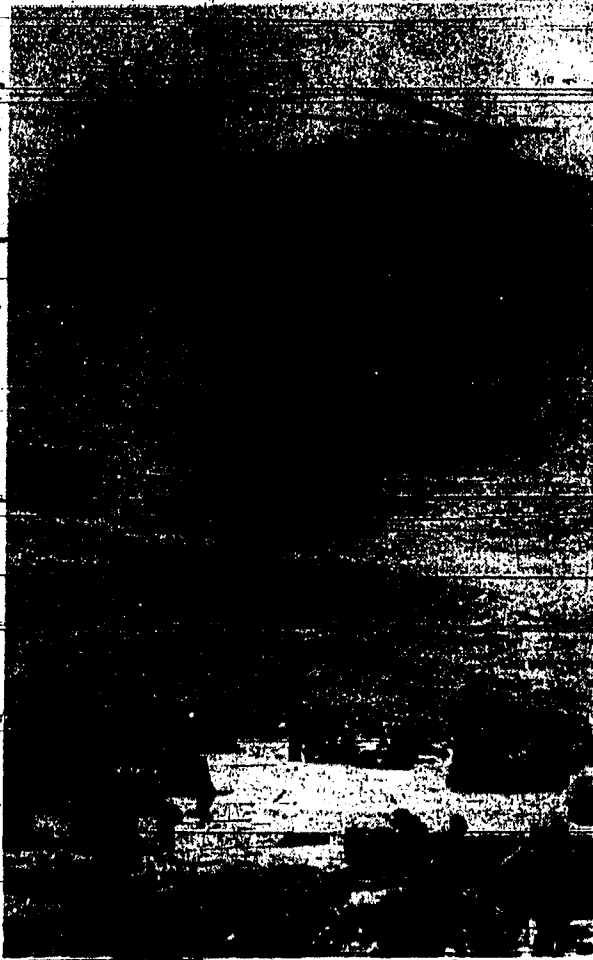

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church, R-Idaho, announced Tuesday special hearings will be held later this month to discuss the apparent disintegration of the Administration on Aging, a federal agency.

Church, who is chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, said the hearings will be held in conjunction with the subcommittee on aging of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, chaired by Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri.

Debt boost OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By an 8-4 vote, the Senate Finance Committee approved a bill Tuesday that would raise the ceiling on the national debt by $5 billion and permit the Treasury to sell long-term bonds at prevailing interest rates.

The action sent the bill to the Senate floor where a fight is expected when members take up the measure, perhaps later this week. The provision which would remove the existing 4.25 per cent ceiling on interest rates which can be paid on government bonds will be the major point of contention.

'City slickers' kill range bill

BOISE (UPI) — Corraling support with traffic statistics, "city slickers" in the House took the "cowboys" open range bill for a ride Tuesday and killed it, 30-57.

After rural-oriented legislators passed the measure, 36-32, during the noon hour, the city boys rounded up support during the lunch hour and came back with "enough" votes to reconsider the bill, 43-26.

Then they crunched it once and for all and sent its carcass back to the Senate which originated it.

"This is simply a little house-keeping measure that comes from the Senate," said Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, in opening the original, 33-minute debate. "All this does is update Idaho statutes to apply to conditions that exist."

He said that when the present law was drafted there were vast areas of unfenced range lands. He said the situation has changed.

This bill would redefine open range to mean "range land" that includes both enclosed or unenclosed livestock range lands outside cities, villages and herd districts.

Should a domestic animal and a car collide in such areas, this bill would specify there is no presumption of negligence on the part of the owner or person in possession of the animal.

Rep. Larry Loney, D-Coeur d'Alene, said the bill changes the concept of open range so that stockmen have no responsibility to keep their cattle off the roadways even though statistics showed during a one-year period domestic animals were involved in 79 per cent of the traffic accidents in Idaho.

Senate backs Casey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William J. Casey has convinced the Senate Banking Committee of his fitness to head the Securities and Exchange Commission despite an accusation that he engineered shady business deals and tried to mislead the Senate about his 1961 conviction on a plagiarism charge.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., in his effort to defeat Casey's nomination Tuesday, even produced the judge who sat at Casey's trial and a court stenographer's record which indicated Casey had slapped at a "needing" lawyer.

Proxmire contended that Casey's business career showed he lacked the ethics required of the chairman of the agency which polices Wall Street and protects 31 million investors.

But the committee voted 9 to 3 to reaffirm its earlier approval of Casey. The nominee argued that only a faulty memory had led him to give incorrect testimony about the plagiarism case four weeks ago and to neglect to mention two other civil suits in which he was a defendant. Both suits charged him with violating the law the SEC is responsible for enforcing. Casey, 58, a nationally known tax lawyer, a millionaire and a substantial contributor to President Nixon's 1968 campaign, admitted his testimony before the committee had been wrong.

The stenographic record of the trial had been sealed. Casey testified Feb. 10 that the sealing was done at the judge's own suggestion and said the judge had told lawyers for both sides that the jury's guilty verdict "was not supported by the evidence."

Pit checks scheduled

BOISE (UPI) — The state mines inspector and labor commissioner Tuesday announced the two departments would work jointly in safety inspections of sand and gravel pits in the state.

Bartlett Brown, commissioner of labor, said it showed that state departments could work together on mutual problems.

State Mines Inspector Carl Griner said the joint operation will allow for more frequent and careful checks of gravel pit operations, which, by federal law, were placed under the jurisdiction of the state mines inspector.

In addition, Griner said the department would become more involved in the total quality of the environment in which the laborer performs his job. He said future cooperation from the Department of Health would be solicited in this matter.

WASHINGTON — The continuing disarray inside mainland China is an important reason why the Nixon Administration now discounts the possibility of Chinese intervention in the Indo-China war.

A month ago we reported that a purge had reached into the top echelons of the Peking government in the wake of Mao Tse-tung's disruptive cultural revolution. We noted that two important members of the Politburo, Hsieh Fu-chih and Chen Po-ta were among those who had dropped from sight.

Now it can be added that another Politburo member, Kang Sheng, has been unofficially unnoted and unreported since mid-November. Like Hsieh, Chen and other lesser stature, he is now presumed to have been purged.

Kang Sheng had been an advisor to the Cultural Revolution Group within the Peking hierarchy. Like Chen he had been viewed by China watchers, until rather recently, as a member of the inner circle of Chinese Communist VIPs. One result of the purge, which is attributed here to the Red Chinese military asserting its strength, has been to remove from power (by whatever means) a number of individuals who had been responsible for Poliburo guidance in the development of propaganda policies.

According to the experts here, that has put Poliburo member Yao Wen-yuan in charge of the propaganda arm, New China News Agency. Sometimes identified as Mao's son-in-law, Yao had also been a member of the Cultural Revolution Group and a member of the party elite.

One outward evidence of the inner tensions in Peking has been the apparent cross-purposes of Peking propaganda and the foreign policies of Premier Chou En-lai.

Chinese propagandists have not helped, however. After Chou's careful diplomacy restored full and friendly diplomatic relations and returned a Peking ambassador to Poland, Chinese propagandists attacked the Polish Communist regime in mid-December. In January, an attack on Japanese Emperor Hirohito seemed to be designed to annoy Chou's friends in Japan.

More recently the Peking propagandists, after some apparent indecision, issued an intemperate blast charging that President Nixon was preparing to use nuclear weapons in Indo-China.

Another important aspect of the disarray on the mainland is continuing evidence of friction between Peking and local government units in the provinces. There are reports of reorganization in province governments with key civilian leaders being supplanted by military officers.

There have even been reports of violence directed against embassies from Peking by anti-Maoist elements in the provinces.

It is important to note that much of the reported unrest has centered in China's southern provinces. That is where any Chinese intervention in Indo-China would have to be based.

In these circumstances, administration policy-makers do not think China would be inclined to undertake any such intervention. Consolidation — not foreign adventure — looks like Peking's probable course of action now.

This view is supported by another line of reasoning in high administration circles. The point is very forcefully made that military manpower is not what is needed by those Communist parties involved in the Indo-China war.

When the Chinese Communists intervened in the Korean war, the North Korean homeland and government were threatened by invading troops, and it appeared that they might be over-run. That is not the case now.

The Decision

Maurice H. Stans, Secretary of Commerce, may have expected applause from the ecologists when he summarily canceled licenses for commercial hunting of three species of whales listed as rare and endangered. After all, there was only one commercial whaler still active in the United States.

However, the owner of the last whaling station, John Caito, was, as he put it, "flabbergasted."

"We have no notice that this was being considered," he said. "If the government wants us out of the business, let them buy us out."

Caito said the company has a $1.5 million investment in three ships, converted Navy auxiliary patrol vessels, and its plant at Port San Pablo, and planned to employ 40 persons for the eight-month season opening April 1.

His company had a 1971 quota set by International convention of 32 finback whales, 75 sperm whales and 52 sei-whales. It has been the only U.S. whaling company since 1967, operating in a 100-mile-radius of San Francisco.

Caito noted the company has made a contribution to the environment by removing dead whales washed upon the beaches.

Caito said he planned to appeal the decision. The appeal will be ruled upon by Secretary Stans, who will have the opportunity to reconsider his hasty action and should do so.

Stans' predecessor, Walter J. Hickel, placed the three species of whales on the endangered list, along with five other rare species, and barred importation of them but did not prohibit domestic hunting of them.

It hardly seems logical that Caito's three-ship fleet operating in a relatively small area could wipe out the three species. In any event, the U.S. will continue to import whale products from other species, chiefly from Japan.

The least that Secretary Stans should do would seem to be to give adequate notice or damages to the last of a vanishing breed, the American whaler, John Caito.

Strange Logic

Stanford University recently suspended English professor H. Bruce Franklin for disruptive activities, including an unruly demonstration which prevented Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge from making a speech he had been invited to the campus to deliver.

Some of Franklin's fellow faculty members, including Linus Pauling, who has used his eminence as a Nobel-winning scientist on behalf of campus militants, protested the suspension as unwarranted.

In Pauling's words, the suspension was "an extraordinary and unprecedented violation of the principles of academic freedom and individual rights — a really dangerous introduction of authoritarianism in the university."

The staged disorder that prevented Lodge from being heard, of course, was an exhibition of an only too familiar exercise of academic freedom with a completely illogical disregard of Lodge's right of free speech or the academic freedom of his audience to hear what he had to say.

The willingness of Professor Franklin, and presumably, of Dr. Pauling, to claim individual rights to destroy another's individual rights, is, in fact, "a really dangerous introduction of authoritarianism in the University."

Is the spirit of free and open inquiry and discussion in an effort to advance knowledge and truth served by violence or the silencing of any voice that may offer a different or opposing point of view?

We're all for free speech and academic freedom — for Lodge, as well as for Franklin and Pauling.

Those who would prevent the exercise of others' freedom in the name of freedom are obviously blind to the true meaning of free speech.

Freedom is not license, and its abuse justifies disciplinary action.

ART BUCHWALD

Demonstrations

WASHINGTON — What happened to all the antiwar protesters of yesteryear? Well, in spite of what you read in the newspapers, they're still around. Only they're a new breed and in many ways much tougher.

I went to an antiwar rally at the Washington Monument the other day with my friend Dumbarton who works on demonstrations for the Secret Service. Dumbarton was dressed in dungarees, had long hair and was carrying a guitar which was really a very sensitive tape recorder.

When we arrived at the Mall we saw five bearded students carrying a Viet Cong flag. "Hey, Dumbarton," I said, "they look like anarchists."

"Nah," said Dumbarton in disgust. "They're FBI undercover agents. I saw them last week at Harvard."

We walked around. There were six students, all with peace symbols painted on their navels, sitting in a circle smoking what surely smelt like grass.

"Look, Dumbarton," I said excitedly. "Communists!"

Dumbarton shook his head in disgust. "They're from the Naval Civilian Intelligence unit. The guy waving the photograph of Ho Chi Minh is really a lieutenant commander in the Seabees."

We walked away. Suddenly I said, "Dumbarton, we're being followed by those four girls in dungarees."

Dumbarton looked around. "It's okay. They're from the Air Force Intelligence Squadron at Andrews Field."

"But they're girls," I said. "The Air Force always dresses their agents in drag," Dumbarton said. "They don't want their people to be mistaken for Naval Intelligence agents."

A right broke out among 50 demonstrators standing near the speaker's platform. They were going at it thick and heavy.

"My God," I said. "That looks like real trouble."

"Don't get upset. Half the guys are from the Army Civilian Intelligence unit at Fort Holliard and the other half are from the Army Civilian Intelligence unit at the Pentagon.

"Each outfit claims they have jurisdiction in Washington. You should have seen the brawl they had at draft headquarters a few weeks ago. After it was over, both sides issued body counts."

"Why don't the police break it up?"

"Most of the cops here are from the Washington, D.C. undercover squad and they don't want to let on to anyone who they are."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

About Sugar

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last week because of a headache I went to a doctor. He gave me a physical examination, then had me drink a bottle of Blueola, and an hour later took a blood test.

Later he called to tell me to come back for a glucose tolerance test, as I had a large count of sugar in the blood, and he suspected diabetes. I have had large babies, and my grandmother did have diabetes in her 70s.

My aunts who are nurses said this non-fasting test (only one hour) is ridiculous and that anyone who drank a pint of this stuff would have sugar in the blood.

Before I go back and spend a lot of money, I would like to know what you think of this type of test. — A.

Your nurse-aunts must be confused in some way, because the type of test you had is good medical practice. Blueola is a flavored solution with a measured amount of glucose (sugar), and is used as a "test load" in checking for diabetes.

Everybody has some sugar in the blood. It's the amount, and the rate at which it accumulates or is used up, that shows when something is wrong.

The test as you took it is a screening test for diabetes. Another test is to measure the blood sugar two hours after eating a meal high in carbohydrates (which includes sugar).

When the blood sugar level is suspiciously high, the next step is a sugar tolerance test — that is, a series of blood samples after a "sugar load" to determine the rate at which your system disposes of sugar.

You have a couple of the known suspicious indications for diabetes — having large babies and some history of diabetes in the family — and there is no question about having a sugar tolerance test.

You should. And even if you "pass it," another such test every year or two would be a wise precaution, in view of your history and the fact that your screening test was suspiciously high.

Incidentally, the reason the Glucola was necessary is the fact that a fasting blood sugar is of little value unless it is high.

An early diabetic may have a normal fasting level — some hours after having last eaten — and show high sugars after a meal, or after a "sugar load."

And after all, it is the early diabetics that we need to find, because early treatment can prevent the damage that comes from untreated diabetes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: At what time must one stop driving? I have 20-50 vision and drive only in my immediate vicinity. — P.H.P.

Most driving regulations require that vision be at least as good as 20-40 — and yours is not that good.

Perhaps you can get a restricted permit allowing you to drive only in daytime, and in your "immediate vicinity."

I am quite aware that folks with defective vision, usually oldsters, can be greatly inconvenienced by being denied driving privileges, but we can't ignore the fact that poor vision makes them a hazard to themselves as well as others.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Thosteson regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

THE WAY IT WAS A Long Ways Back

MARCH 4, 1928
NEW YORK CITY — Frederick Woolworth, although sharing in a $15 million legacy left by his uncle, founder of the five and ten cent stores, lives as a recluse in a lonely cabin in the woods near Bedford Hills, N.Y., with a male attendant. He receives no visitors and is said to be suffering from a nervous ailment.

POCATELLO — Pocatello is the logical location for a smelter for ore coming from the rich mines in central Idaho. It was decided at a meeting in Pocatello last night of mining interests and business interests of the city at a special session called by the Chamber of Commerce.

TWIN FALLS — Hugh A. Barker of Rupert, one of the best known speakers of this region, is to deliver the principal address at the annual dinner meeting of the Southern Idaho Fish and Game Association Thursday evening at the Rogerson Hotel. The announcement was made by Alvin Harbour, president. Committees in charge of arrangements have been named as follows: A. G. Fisher and G. W. Shroot, decorations; J. W. D. Smith and Mr. Nuzman, Filler, banquet; R. K. Logan, music; W. G. Thompson and Alvin Harbour, program; E. Hollingsworth, H. R. Grant and L. A. Chapin, tickets.

TWIN FALLS — Frank C. Luch is to be installed as exalted ruler of the Twin Falls Lodge of Elks, succeeding L. A. Chapin. Other elected officers to be installed include esteemed leading knight Guy M. Kinney; esteemed loyal knight, Alvin Harbour; esteemed lecturing knight, C. O. Markie; Tyler, B. W. Mager; three-year trustee, Frank Mattison; L. A. Chapin, retiring exalted ruler, was elected delegate to the Grand Lodge with H. G. Lauterbach, past exalted ruler, as alternate.

NEW YORK — After obtaining specimens of some of the best game known to sport-men during 11 months of hunting in the wilds of India, China and Russia, Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his brother, Kermit, arrived tonight on the Persepolis with their wives and Kermit's children.

TWIN FALLS — George E. Sandholz and M. W. Pears are back from a visit to Boise where they attended the opening of the Idaho Steam Laundry, one of the largest and most modern establishments in the Northwest.

James McMillan returned Thursday from California. Mrs. McMillan will remain in Ventura for some time because of the illness of her sister who resides there.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Reams and family are moving this week from the Wendell district where they have lived for some years, to occupy the farm property owned by P. W. McRoberts, southeast of Twin Falls.

IDAHO FALLS — The local potato market suddenly took a jump today and at the close the russets were quoted from $3.35 in car lots with $3.10 offered the grower. Many inquiries from eastern points and California was said to be responsible for the rise, and an early slump is predicted.

FILER — H. B. Kerns of Twin Falls checked in today as manager of the Gem State Lumber Company yard here, succeeding A. A. Carlson who has been in charge of the yard for some years.

TWIN FALLS — A program of book reviews and music is being arranged to be given Sunday afternoon, March 21, in the Twin Falls High School auditorium under sponsorship of the Twin Falls Library Board. It is announced by Miss Jessie Fraser, librarian. This is the first in a series of such programs sponsored by the Library Board.

(Editor's note: The items in today's column were taken from the Twin Falls Weekly News on the date indicated.)

MR. SPECTATOR Yep—He's Wondering!

Robert Leazer, who lives at 403 Second Avenue West, is wondering whether he might be better off to change his address.

Not very long ago he heard a loud "crunch" out in front of his house. Rushing out to investigate he found that a driver had just smashed a pickup truck into the back of his new 1970 Ford Maverick.

Many tears, several hundred dollars and a week without transportation later he finally had all dents repaired and was back on wheels once again.

Then one recent Saturday night he was busy at his job of aiding to get out your Sunday edition of the paper when he received a phone call from his wife.

More than a little upset, she informed him that a woman driver had bounced across their front lawn, swerved just in time to miss the front porch, but had wiped out the kid's swing set and gouged a deep rut across the grass before coming to rest against a tree.

They say that the third time's a charm — and at last report Bob was waiting for it.

WE NEED HELP
Dear Mr. Spectator:
We are looking for the owners of a half-grown kitten that arrived at our house on Feb. 21 during a snow storm. Female, short hair, white face and paws — black and grey tiger stripes. We can not keep it and want the owners to have it back. We're in the vicinity of North Alturas and you can reach us by calling 733-1636.

House OK's probate law

BOISE (UPI) — Taking advice that the legislature must begin somewhere, the House completed action Tuesday, 44-14, on the Senate's 142-page bill redrafting Idaho's probate code.

The probate code does not go into effect until July 1, 1972, and there probably will be more amendments to it at the next regular session of the legislature, he said.

But Rep. E. Don Copple, R-Boise, said the measure has "too many defects" at this time to justify its passage.

He said it changes probate procedure, guardianship, repeals the maximum statutory limit on attorneys fees and cuts children out of separate property.

If elderly persons remarry late in life, he said, the decedent's family is cut out if there is no will.

"That's wrong and it's bad law," he said.

Copple said the measure changes the concept of the probate homestead, and authorizes what he termed a "dime store plug-in will."

He asked how many House members feel competent to write their own wills. He said that makes more business for lawyers. He is a lawyer in private life.

Both personal representatives, who replace administrators of estates in the uniform code, and guardians set their own fees, Copple said.

Many of their acts are justified as long as they are "reasonable," he added.

"Have you ever asked a lawyer what is reasonable?" Copple asked.

On top of all this, he said, the law assumes "everybody is honest."

"It's just not true," Copple said. "If it were I'd be out of a job."

Besides the known defects in the bill, Copple said, there are many unknown ones.

"To vote for this bill not knowing what it does is grossly irresponsible," Copple said.

Hearing due

TWIN FALLS — A man who was apprehended early Monday inside Buttrely Foods in Twin Falls was arraigned Monday in Magistrate Court.

Monte Joseph Sanborn, 27, is charged with first degree burglary. He requested a preliminary hearing and bond was set at $1,000. He remains in custody at the county jail.

School retains rating

HANSEN — Hansen High School has retained its full accreditation, Supt. William Barnard announced today.

He told school trustees that the school has been put on the approved list for the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools.

On Monday night, the trustees approved a request from Charles (Chuck) Daw, high school student; to use the school bus on weekends to transport school ski club members to Magic Mountain Ski area.

Expenditures for props for the all-school musical, "L'il Abner," to be given April 1-2, were approved.

Barnard reported light poles and fixtures for the football field have been ordered to forestall rises in prices. The PTA and community backers raised funds for this project.

Trustees approved a token payment to Arthur Bailey,

Staudaher explains position

TWIN FALLS — George Staudaher, who will become superintendent of schools in the Twin Falls School District No. 411, on July 1, said today that he is personally "diametrically opposed" to corporal punishment in the schools.

Though state law allows teachers to inflict punishment when deemed necessary, Staudaher said, "you don't have to obey the law to the letter as long as you don't go as far as the law allows."

Staudaher said that in his personal opinion "A teacher should aim for the head through learning rather than the seat of the pants by a paddle to enforce discipline."

Rites set

BOISE (UPI) — Funeral services are planned for 2 p.m. Thursday for W.L. (Bill) Gottenberg, 64, Boise, retired vice president of Boise State College.

Gottenberg, who also served as acting president of the institution, died Tuesday in a Boise hospital after a prolonged illness.

He retired in 1969 after 41 years of service to secondary and higher education.

Civil defense exercise set in T.F. Thursday

TWIN FALLS — Training for a civil defense exercise which will take place Thursday in Twin Falls started this afternoon, Cloyd Edwards, county civil defense director, said.

Edwards said the two hours of training will prepare participants for the exercise which will run from 8 a.m. to noon

Thursday. All segments of training and the exercise will be at the county civil defense headquarters in the basement of the courthouse in Twin Falls.

Edwards said about 25 officials from throughout Twin Falls County will participate in the program, which will concentrate on communications. The time span covered by the exercise will be from several days prior to an impending nuclear attack to several days after the attack.

Edwards said several officials from Rocky Mountain Region 8 also will be in Twin Falls to participate and observe the exercise. Students from Twin Falls High School will assist in the exercise, Edwards said.

County accepts 2 bids

TWIN FALLS — Purchase of one pickup truck and one auto for the Twin Falls County sheriff's office was approved Tuesday by the board of county commissioners.

Bids on another sedan were taken under advisement by the board, which received bids from four auto agencies.

County commissioners voted to award the bid for the truck to Magic Valley International Inc., low bidder in the amount of $1,390 net price, which included deduction for the trade-in vehicle.

Not convinced

OLD HARROW, England (UPI) — When the man in the dirty old raincoat pointed a toy gun at her Wednesday and demanded money, bank cashier Teresa Dellar, 22, started to laugh. She kept on laughing.

The man turned and walked out, making his getaway on a bicycle.

"I couldn't stop laughing," Mrs. Dellar said. "He looked so pathetic."

TWIN FALLS — A five-week course covering 15 hours of instruction in the basics of photography will begin at 7 p.m. March 16 at the College of Southern Idaho, according to Dan Johnson, instructor.

Interested persons should call Johnson at the college, 733-8554, extension 228, before registration. The course will cost $16, which will provide all essentials except an adjustable camera, which the student must have.

He said the first five-week course, also taught by Johnson, attracted a great deal of interest. Those students and others with advanced knowledge of photography may wish to consider a planned 13-week summer course in advanced photography, which will begin in June, depending on the interest shown, Johnson said.

RAIN BIRD makes it easy for you to install your own sprinkler system.

It's easier than you think. Rain Bird's "5 Steps to Installing A Sprinkler System" takes all the guesswork and expensive trial and error out of planning your system. Even helps you plan the total number of parts, pipe, fittings, and sprinklers you'll need. After you've made your plans, installation is easy. Save enough (by installing the system yourself) to take a vacation this year! That's easy, isn't it?

Do-It-Yourself. All you need is one weekend and a couple of tools (like a shovel and a hacksaw). Of course, you may need some questions answered, too. But that's why we're here.

Single word enables girl to attain dream

By NORENE JONES
Olympia Fields, Ill.

The September I was mother outfitted me in a scratchy blue- serge uniform and told me that I had been signed up for piano lessons at the convent school I attended. I hated the sight of our monstrous upright piano, but mother was firm.

The Tuesday of my first lesson, shaking with fear, I climbed the worn steps of the St. Carthage convent in Chicago and pulled the bell cord.

"You are here for a piano lesson?" a voice asked, and I turned to meet Sister Seraphica.

Sister was tiny and wore rimless glasses and had, as mother would say, "roses in her cheeks." The dreaded lessons soon became surprisingly pleasant for sister bestowed smiles and praise on her pupils along with gentle criticism.

On music days there was no time to run home after school before my lesson. Often as I sat at the keyboard, my stomach would erupt loudly from hunger. After several lessons with growing accompaniment, I arrived one Tuesday to find cookies and milk on the piano.

"I thought you might be hungry," was all she ever said, but every Tuesday there would be cookies waiting for me, often still warm from the convent oven.

I think that is when I began to love Sister Seraphica.

Along with God and music, sister loved her country with a deep passion and taught patriotism to her pupils. One Tuesday while trying to stretch my fingers over a long new chord, I moaned, "Oh, sister, I can't."

"Oh, yes, you can," said Sister Seraphica. "Now try again."

Was I hungry, crabby or just tired of the piano? Whatever the reason, the tears began. Between sobs I chanted my favorite litany, "I can't, I can't, I can't."

Sister handed me her linen handkerchief and said, "Now then, I don't ever want to hear you say 'I can't' again."

As the sobs subsided, she continued, "You are privileged to be an American, and that word ends in 'can.' Remember, my dear, if we want to do something badly enough, we can."

It may have been an old trick, but I was young and had never heard it. Thereafter, whenever I said, "I can't," sister would gently remind me of my error, with one word — "American."

When I was 10, I moved into Sister Seraphica's fourth-grade class, and she introduced us to a new word: aware. She taught us to see the pictures on the school walls, the difference between an oak and an elm leaf, to hear the songs of a robin.

Years passed, and I began to study hard, and the high school scholarships to be offered at our graduation. The work became more difficult, and often I wanted to drop out of the competition; but Sister Seraphica had done her work well, and I found I could not quit.

Then it was over — the scholarship testing and final exams. On graduation night the diplomas were given and the sermon delivered. It was time for the awards.

I heard the Mercy High School and the Loretto High School winners called. Then the priest said, "Aquinas Dominican High."

"This was the one I had worked for, prayed for, dreamed of. I closed my eyes and listened for the name. Then I watched Mary Collins walk proudly toward the altar and felt my stomach ache.

The recessional hymn was to follow the awards, but the priest held up his hand. "Since the girls' class was so close in points," he said, "I have decided to award a pastor's scholarship to the runner-up for the school of her choice." I heard my name called and couldn't move. Someone nudged me, and I stumbled down the aisle.

And then I saw a familiar face. It was a tiny, ageless face, wearing rimless glasses. Sister Seraphica was smiling and nodding her approval.

Then I saw sister's lips move silently. I knew each of the four syllables so well — A MER I CAN. She was still telling the little girl in the blue- serge uniform that if we want to do something badly enough, we can.

Elite force

MANILA (UPI)—Senator Benigno S. Aquino has suggested the Philippine government form an elite anti-riot police force armed only with wooden truncheons and patterned after the "Kidoal" of Japan.

I think that is when I began to love Sister Seraphica.

Along with God and music, sister loved her country with a deep passion and taught patriotism to her pupils. One Tuesday while trying to stretch my fingers over a long new chord, I moaned, "Oh, sister, I can't."

SONNY JAMES

Top-country artist due CSI date

TWIN FALLS — Sonny James, acclaimed as the top "country artist" in the nation, will bring his "Southern Gentlemen" to the College of Southern Idaho for a concert on March 27 at 8 p.m. in the CSI gymnasium.

The Sonny James concert is sponsored by the CSI Social Committee, which is bringing a series of artists to the college throughout the school year, according to Jack Sims, student affairs director at CSI.

Tickets will be available at $2.50 for the general public and $3.50 for CSI students at Helen's Record Shop, Peterson's Apparel, Sullivan's Music and Ames Stereo City in Twin Falls; Sullivan's Music in Jerome; Lloyd's Circle Market, Buhl; Roper's, Burley; Stock's Music Center, Rupert; at the college and at the door.

Sonny James has been acclaimed throughout the nation as "a million dollars worth of country talent." Ed Sullivan reported more mail from one appearance by Sonny James on the Ed Sullivan TV show than any other performer this year.

Comedian earns special spot

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Arte Johnson, the German soldier, the Russian looter and the dirty old man of "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In," will star in his own television special titled "Ver-r-ry Interesting."

One of the original zanies of the "Laugh-In," Johnson will follow Judy Carney, Goldie Hawn, Joanne Worley and others who have left the highly rated show.

"I don't know if I'll be with the series next year," the little comedian said.

"I've fulfilled my four-year contract and my obligations to the producers. This special I'm doing is a pilot. If it's sold as a series of its own, naturally I'll do it."

"But I can't walk away from Laugh-In blindy," Johnson, as in the case of all "Laugh-In" performers, is featured in black-outs, quick hits, one-liners and visual gags.

The pace of the show precludes long sketches.

"The special gives me an opportunity to say something beyond one or two lines," he said. "I have a chance to give my characters some depth and also to show audiences the real Arte Johnson."

"I'll be doing sketches with Elke Sommer and Bing Crosby using Rosmenko (the half-baked Russian), Tyrone (the dirty old man) and Wolfgang (the helmeted German yardbird) along with the professor."

"These characters are at least 20 years old. I was using them long before I came to 'Laugh-In.'"

Johnson has a quick wit and a sharp tongue in the give and take of repartee. He also is possessed of a paternal pride in such diverse idios as Tyrone, Rosmenko and Wolfgang.

He talks of new facets of their personalities surfacing on his special.

Joylefully he announced that Wolfgang would sing on the show.

He speaks of Rosmenko using the character's first name, Fyotr.

"Every character I play is an underdog," he said. "That's why audiences have taken to them. The public will get to know them better on my special, which is a return to the old form of variety show."

"The audience won't have to sit on the edge of its seat (presumably as they do to keep up with 'Laugh-In'). It's more like the old 'Ed Caesar' show."

UN political role impresses envoy

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—George Bush's first 10 days as the new United States Ambassador to the United Nations has convinced him that the world organization is first and foremost a political forum.

Before coming to the U.N. on March 1, Bush agreed with President Nixon that the strength of the United Nations lay in economic and social matters.

But even before he presented his credentials to Secretary General Thant, Bush was confronted with a Soviet demand for an immediate meeting of the big four ambassadors to criticize Israel for its refusal to withdraw from Arab territory and pat Egypt on the back for its agreement to enter Middle East peace talks.

Bush, who was appointed by Nixon after he lost a senate bid from Texas was criticized widely as being put in the U.N. post because of political favoritism.

Despite his lack of wide diplomatic experience, Bush spent three days staying off Soviet Ambassador Yakov Malik on the Middle East issue and sought to persuade a non-committal Thant to take action. He succeeded in both.

Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Wednesday, March 10, the 69th day of 1971.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

On this day in history:
In 1862 the first paper money was issued by the United States treasury in denominations from $5 to $1,000.

In 1945 B-29 bombers of the U.S. Air Force began incendiary raids on Japan in the waning days of World War II.

In 1964 Queen Elizabeth gave birth to her fourth child, Prince Edward, third in line for the British throne.

In 1969 James Earl Ray pleaded guilty to the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King and was sentenced to 99 years in prison.

A thought for today: President Dwight Eisenhower said, "In the final choice, a soldier's pack is not so heavy a burden as a politician's promises."

Federal welfare programs sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration plans to ask Congress to let the federal government take charge of welfare programs for the blind, disabled and the aged so they would be guaranteed incomes of at least $90 a month.

Such aid programs have historically used federal funds but have been administered by the states. The welfare payments vary from state to state.

A Social Security administration spokesman said the administration would take its proposal to the House Ways and Means Committee this week. That committee, meeting behind closed doors, reportedly has set up a $110 a month guarantee for the aged poor.

The administration proposal would not affect Social Security recipients. It would cover an estimated 2 million of the nation's 6 million poor people over the age of 65 whose welfare payments are not currently as high as $90 a month.

Taxicab damaged

TWIN FALLS — Damage to wiring and paint on a vehicle owned by the Yellow Cab Co. resulted Monday when the vehicle caught on fire.

Twin Falls firemen were called at 1:15 p.m. to Second Avenue East and Third Street East. Firemen said the blaze started under the hood of the taxi.

WENDELL — Ray Chugg, Jerome, and Tom Webb, Wendell, will represent the Snake River Racing Association at world championship competition in Pocatello March 20-21 and 27-28. Their teams placed first and second in competition at Burley Sunday.

At an awards banquet Bob Jaker, Buhl, and Sonny Ward, Twin Falls, won first place trophy for 2-year-old teams which was donated by the Snake River Lions Club, Twin Falls.

Ernie Stevens, Gooding, and Bob Robinson, Tuttle, were second with the trophy donated by Winn and Co., Buhl, and Humming W Ranch, Nelson Henderson, Glens Ferry, third, with trophy donated by Bill Stevens, Gooding, Ford salesman.

Other senior division winners were Ike Muir, Jerome, and Clyde Hansen, with trophy donated by Clemons Food Store

Gooding, Roseacre Ranch was fourth with the team being owned by Dr. Lyle Wonderlich, Twin Falls, and run by Harold Peterson, Filer.

Sportmanship award donated by Jerry's Cafe and Lounge, Gooding, went to Don Clark, Buhl; best dressed team trophy, donated by Rialto Bar, Jerome, went to Harold Peterson; most valuable member trophy donated by Idaho State Bank, Glens Ferry, a hand-tooled belt, and the appreciation trophy of the association both went to Dan Leach, Bliss, president and official starter.

Mrs. Leach, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Henderson and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lauband, Hagerman, received appreciation awards. Steve Ewing, Buhl, was presented a belt buckle as assistant starter. Ray Chugg got the traveling trophy from United Oil Co., Idaho, Twin Falls.

Knit fabrics class filled

WENDELL — Registration is filled for the first of four sessions of basic instructions and techniques of sewing with new knit fabrics to be conducted by Dorothy Grieve, home agent, March 23 in the Wendell High School home economics department for 4-H leaders and extension homemakers.

Mrs. Grieve has just completed two sessions in Gooding and will schedule another in the Gooding area for 4-H leaders and homemakers who presently are on a waiting list. She hopes to schedule instruction in the Hagerman area sometime this spring for 4-H leaders and other homemakers who have requested help this spring.

Mrs. Grieve states the lessons have been popular and so far she has a long waiting list and has set priorities for 4-H leaders who need the instruction before the new 4-H club year commences. She reports there is a small charge for the lessons which covers the cost of demonstration and education materials.

Mason to take oath

WENDELL — Mayor Eugene Soares reports Vernon Mason will take the oath of office as Wendell city councilman at a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the city office.

He said councilmen will work on the new city budget which is due April 1. A budget hearing is scheduled for March 25. The mayor said the budget will be about the same as last year, which was $157,809.

Ratings

WENDELL — Wendell High School freshmen are good mechanics, while the school's sophomores are good readers, apparently, to judge from a recent series of tests given the students.

The annual testing program delves into a variety of educational factors, including background knowledge, current reading and studying skills and mechanical ability.

The sophomores ranked high in reading and social studies, but lacked a social studies background. Freshmen rated well in mechanical and abstract reasoning, but low in numerical ability and grammar, according to Dick Thomas, Wendell school counselor.

Seniors choose '71 class play

WENDELL — Seniors of the Wendell High School class of 1971 chose "Flowers For Algernon" for their annual Senior Class Play and public presentation is scheduled for 8 p.m., March 26, at the Wendell Elementary School All-purpose room.

Mrs. Annette Eaton will direct the play with the assistance of Janet Callen, student director.

Mrs. Eaton says every member of the class will be involved with the play with various committees such as lighting, make-up, props, and costumes committees.

The cast includes 35 students. Bank displays paintings

WENDELL — Morris Perkins is a commercial artist who hopes that someday painting will be his vocation and his commercial work his hobby.

Several of his oil paintings are being shown at the Wendell branch of the Idaho First National Bank, following his selection as "artist of the month."

He has been dabbling in art since he was 9 years old, and recalls with a chuckle that he spent many extra hours in the classroom learning "the three R's" since most of his regular class time was spent drawing caricatures of teachers, classmates and events of the day.

Perkins' first job, at age 14, was as errand boy for a sheep shearing camp. His earnings of $25 went for the registration fee for a correspondence course in cartooning and illustration.

Perkins says he uses painting as recreation. At every opportunity, he and his two German Shepherds, Milo and Monty, "get away from it all" in some secluded place in the mountains or on the seashore.

Perkins has been a pilot for 20 years and holds the distinction of being the only pilot in Idaho who uses a German shepherd for a co-pilot.

Most of his paintings are done in oil, but he does use polymer — a fast drying plastic — in highway systems.

He said that under the act, each highway department should have a qualified inspector who prepares reports and determines ratings under the provisions of the act. Each structure is required to be inspected under standards of the federal act.

Perkins received his training in water colors while attending Eagle High School. A charter member of the Wendell Art Group, Perkins has studied under Olaf Moller, Paul; Lee Parkinson, Salt Lake City; Marilyn LaCroix, Gooding, and an Italian artist.

During the past winter he completed a correspondence course specializing in techniques and special effects.

Perkins said that through mutual love of environment, he and Archie Teater, Hagerman, have painted together many times.

Perkins' paintings have been shown in Boise, Twin Falls and Gooding. He has received honorable mention in competition. But none of his paintings that have been shown have ever been done in class or under a tutor.

Business changes noted

By MYRTLE SCHRENK
Times-News Correspondent

WENDELL — During recent weeks Wendell has gained a new business, a new family has taken over operation of two existing businesses and several construction and remodeling projects are nearing completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Hirrel have opened an office at 117 South Main where he will specialize in selling homes, farms and businesses in the Magic Valley. He has been associated with the real estate business the past 13 years.

Hirrel came to Gooding County 30 years ago from San Francisco and operated a farm before becoming a realtor. He has been active in civic affairs in the area for many years.

Mrs. Hirrel, former justice of the peace at Wendell, will sell insurance, serve as a notary and be in the office, located next to the Wendell Motel, to take appointments.

The Hirrels said they plan to remodel their office which has adequate room for a small apartment.

Joe Leeper, Leeper Mortuary, reports the remodeling of the Irrigationist building to include a chapel which will seat 250 guests is 90 per cent finished, but he does not plan an open house until later in the spring.

The building, which is 25 by 25 feet, has been completely redecorated in a modern decor, using paneling, soft colors and chandeliers. In addition to the chapel, the facilities will include an enclosed family room, new display room, slumber room and more storage space.

Leeper says as soon as the carpet is laid the chapel will be finished.

Another major remodeling project consists of the remodeling of the remaining upstairs area of the old bank building into another two-bedroom apartment. This portion of the building is owned by Doug Schrank, Wendell businessman, who has leased it to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lindsey, who recently purchased the Wendell Shoe Repair from Jay Hightower.

The Lindseys came to Wendell from Hinds, Ore., where they managed the Hinds Valley Country Club the past four years. Lindsey said he and his wife, Della, have worked as managers of country clubs the past 25 years.

Mrs. Lindsey operates the Motor Inn Cafe and said she hopes soon to provide better accommodations for residents and organizations in the area. She has supervised catering for groups for many years.

The Lindseys have lived in Buhl, Kimberly, Hansen and Boise before moving to Oregon.

Their son, Raymond, has worked under Hightower in the shoe repair store for the past year and presently is managing the store. In addition to shoe repair he has shoe accessories and makes keys.

Wendell boosters to provide buses

WENDELL — Ben Kobar, president of the Wendell Booster Club, announces his group will extend every effort to provide two buses so that all students and Boosters wishing to attend the state tournament at Rexburg Thursday may do so.

The varsity basketball players will be housed at the Muir Motel, according to Will Spalding, principal. He also said he is arranging accommodations for students who plan to attend the tournament.

The Wendell Trojans will play Hornedale at 3 p.m. Thursday. At a recent meeting of the Booster Club, at the home of Doug Huff, vice president, members, coaches and Pep club members discussed fund raising activities. The Pep Club sponsored a chili supper Tuesday night and other activities planned are a production entitled "Laugh In" by faculty members, a cake auction, pop-bottle drive and carwash.

All these activities are to help provide money so local fans can cheer the Trojans in the state tournament, Kobar said.

Debbie Scheer, Pep Club president, reported club members raised about $80 so they could attend the playoff in the district tournament at American Falls.

Association taps Wendell breeder

WENDELL — Larry C. Petersen, Wendell, has been accepted for membership in the American International Charolais Assn. Houston, the nation's fourth largest and fastest-growing beef breed, announces J. Scott Henderson, executive secretary.

Originating in France more than 200 years ago, Charolais has become well established in this country with about 50 breeders in the Magic Valley area, according to Bill Campbell, vice president of the association.

Registrations of Charolais in the association's herd book during the past year totaled 47,000 animals, a 66 per cent increase over last year's figures. Transfer of cattle also rose 24.9 per cent as more and more new breeders enter the production picture. Membership increased to 12,281, a 14 per cent increase of new members over the previous year.

Activities by junior breeders also showed a sharp increase during 1970, with 2,300 members — 18 per cent more than the number of new junior breeders added to the roster a year earlier.

There are now approximately 157,136 purebred and 394,394,225 recorded animals in the association's herd book and appendix, for a national herd of 551,533 animals.

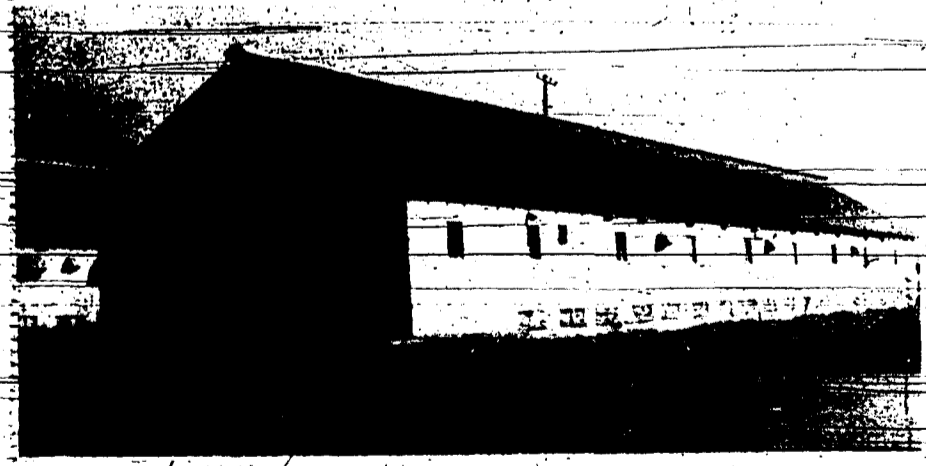

Highway aide gets certification

WENDELL — Lealie Wallace, supervisor of the Wendell Highway District, has received certification as a bridge safety and maintenance inspector, following attendance at a two-week seminar in Boise, sponsored by the maintenance division of the Idaho Department of Highways.

Wallace said the seminar is the result of action taken by Congress in the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1968 requiring the secretary of transportation to establish a national bridge inspection standard and to develop a program to train inspectors.

National bridge inspection standards apply to all bridge structures which have a clear span length measured along the centerline of the highway of more than 20 feet and are located on any of the federal-aid

Moving soon

THESE TURKEY breeder houses, owned by Gene Barrus, Wendell, which have stood on Avenue A for the past 40 years, will be moved soon. Barrus, a city councilman, said the removal of the buildings, which were used during the 1960's to raise turkeys, is part of a city beautification program.

WENDELL — Mrs. Jean Bertus, program chairman of the Magic Valley Friendship Club for Handicapped Adults, announces that the March 11 meeting place has been changed from the Wendell American Legion Hall to the Wendell 100F Lodge Hall on West Avenue A just west of the Maclow Meat Market.

The program will be supplied by the Charley Walters family from the Sugar Loaf District, Jerome. They specialize in waltzes music.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps if our culture didn't make so much of the female bustline, women wouldn't have such a horror of losing it. As an American Cancer volunteer, I drive patients to and from hospitals for X-ray treatments.

One woman I used to drive had neglected her problem for five years and was a terminal patient when I took her for a few final treatments. Imagine, putting off having a lump in her breast examined for fear it was malignant and she'd have to have her breast removed! It was, and she did. But it was too late.

I, myself, fell a victim to cancer, and had to have both breasts removed. The day I came home from the hospital, I helped cook dinner; two days later was in the school car pool again, and progressed from there to the full routine and housework and social activity.

The loss is minimal. Sign me, "BETTER THIRTY INCHES IN THE CHEST THAN SIXTY INCHES IN THE GROUND."

H. G. M.: HAMILTON, OHIO

DEAR H. G. M.: I wonder how many women are aware of the simple "self-examination" instructions, which are available at every local American Cancer Society office? They're free for the asking.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very sweet, elderly aunt of whom I am very fond. She lives alone in the country. About four times a year she invites me to dinner, and I know she goes to a lot of trouble to prepare a nice meal. But she always gives me chicken.

The problem is, Abby, I have chicken at home every weekend as I find it is more economical than meat.

My aunt doesn't know that chicken is no special treat for me because she always says, when serving it, "This will be a nice change for you."

Should I tell her it is not a change for me? I don't want to hurt her feelings.

SICK OF CHICKEN

DEAR SICK: Perhaps your aunt always serves chicken for the same reason you have it every weekend. Don't say anything. Eat the chicken and let her think it's a treat. Four more chicken dinners a year won't hurt you.

DEAR ABBY: Reading about "HURTS" problem, whose husband belittled her only in public, struck a familiar note with me. My father used to do that to my mother. She took it for 25 years, not wanting to create a bigger scene. Finally, fed up, she started giving him some of his own medicine. That surprised everyone, especially Father. Now nothing shuts him up quicker than a sharp come-back from Mother. Goes to show that he really didn't want to get by with it, after all.

HURT'S husband is probably just as fine a man as my father, but because of an inferiority complex he feels the need to bully his wife in the presence of an audience.

Your advice was great, Abby. Tell the old bully off, and he'll eventually back down. And don't worry about the audience. They'll rejoice to see the abused one finally give the browbeater his due.

IN YOUR CORNER

CONFIDENTIAL TO BIG BOB IN BRIDGEPORT: To err is human—to forgive is divine, but it's a lot easier to forgive an enemy after you get even with him. Try harder!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Series winner announced

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Floyd Broadhead, Twin Falls, received the trophy as winner of the six-week series at the Monday Afternoon Duplicate Bridge Club meeting.

Mrs. L.J. Robertson was second and Mrs. M. Hogg, Burley, was third.

North and south winners of this week's play were Mrs. H.L. Holmes and Mrs. Faren Faler, first; Mrs. V.R. Teasley and Mrs. H.G. Lash, second; Mrs. B.E. Standlee and Mrs. Gus Averset, third; and Mrs. John Hahn and Mrs. B. Higbee, fourth.

East and west winners include Mrs. L.J. Robertson and Mrs. Broadhead, first; Mrs. H.M. Wycoff and Mrs. Julia Brown, second; Mrs. William Von Bergen and Mrs. C.E. Thompson, third; and Mrs. Dudley Driscoll and Mrs. C.K. Brown, fourth.

Newlyweds honored

ALMO — Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ray Taylor, Almo newlyweds were honored Feb. 27 with a reception and dance in the Raft River High School gymnasium.

Mrs. Taylor is the former Katharine Miller, Almo. Vernon Spencer, brother-in-law of the couple, was master of ceremonies. Attendants for the couple were Sharon Cahoon and Ross Jones.

The bride was attired in a floor-length white wedding gown of nylon organza and delustered satin. The gown had long lace-trimmed sleeves and was scalloped at the wrists and held in place with self-covered buttons and white ribbon. The sweetheart neckline, hemline and bodice were decorated with pearl embroidery.

The bridal bouquet was of white carnations and an orchid. Guests were registered at a table covered with white lace, with Eloise Kassman in charge of the guest book. Gifts were displayed on a white lace-covered table attended by Mrs. Zennith Taylor, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Vernon Spencer, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride's table was covered with white lace and centered with a wedding cake designed as a bridal coil with a full skirted gown. A bridegroom figurine stood beside the bridal doll and the entire arrangement was displayed on a mirror. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Vernon Spencer, Brigham City, Utah, and sister of the bride, Mrs. Keith Hammer, Bountiful, Utah.

Guests were served at quartet tables covered with white lace and decorated with orchid chrysanthemums in brandy snifters and covered in orchid net.

Clark Ward's orchestra provided music. Out-of-town guests were present from Naf, Bridge, Almo, Elba, Burley, Bountiful and Brigham City.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will reside in Malta, where the bride will be graduated in May from the Raft River High School. Taylor, a 1970 graduate of the Raft River High School, is presently employed at the Interstate Feeders Vista Land and Cattle Co., Malta.

Party slated

TWIN FALLS — The birthday party for the Magic Valley Barracks and Auxiliary will be held April 12 it was announced during the groups Monday potluck dinner meeting.

The dinner is scheduled for 1 p.m. and will be held at the Odd Fellows Hall.

Mrs. Leona Rice became a new member and Mrs. Lola Pauls, Gooding, was welcomed as a guest.

Mrs. Ruth Linderman gave a report on pajamas made for the Boise Veterans Hospital.

Hospital equipment available

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 2136 and its Auxiliary voted to order new hospital equipment at the regular meeting held at the National Guard Armory Tuesday evening.

Hospital equipment is purchased from proceeds of the sale of magazines during the campaign held each year within the county. The equipment is loaned to veterans and citizens of the community who have need for its use. No charge is made and it is loaned on a first come, first served basis for no longer than 60 days without securing an extension of time.

This project has been sponsored by the post and auxiliary for the past several years as a community service project.

Quartermaster Robert A. Messenger announced that the Post Accident Insurance Program was renewed and all post members are covered when their 1971 dues are paid.

TALL GIRLS IN SHORT-PANTS

By Mary Sue Miller

Fashion rumor has it that grown girls will be wearing short-short pants, the shortest ever, on downtown streets this summer. Well, abbreviations were bound to make the scene. Chopping-off long pants in warm weather seems a natural development.

Much with us at present are beautifully cut pantsuits of regulation length in light wools, linens and "non-denim" denim. But, please note, the longer dress vies for the leading spot. Back in the two-legged department, knickers and gauchos still show strength both as complete suits and put-togethers.

As in every fashion category, successful pants depend on individually becoming selections. That means a rearview that neither spans nor sags, a flat frontview and legs hanging with nary a bulge.

All too frequently, it seems impossible to fit pants to a feminine figure correctly. Those short-shorts, for instance, demand gorgeous legs. Spotty weight on one's hips, tummy and thighs throw all types of pants out of line.

Right here is where to page pantie girdles—Do you know those figure shapers are available in all lengths from bikini to ankle? Yes, ma'am, there's a new leg-liner for long-pants that smooths from hip to ankle in a most natural and comfortable manner.

HIP-REDUCING ROUTINES

You can diet until you become feather-light and still be hip-heavy. Reduction in the hipline is assured only by exercise. For a set of quick and effective ones, send for my leaflet, HIP REDUCING ROUTINES. Mrs. Vallette received the award from the American Iris Society for the many services she has given to iris and the American Iris Society during the past years.

Carl Henschel Rupert, showed slides of his many flowers including azaleas, amaryllis, lilies, succulents and cacti growing in his greenhouse and two-acre garden.

Mrs. Al Kramer, Castleford, president, announced the Magic Valley Iris Society's June show will be held at the Buhl Moose Hall with the dates to be announced. She appointed Mrs. Sam Wonenberg as show chairman and Mrs. F. D. Dierksen, co-chairman, of the show.

Mrs. Glenn Draper, Burley, said that she can make the ceramic plates again this year, which will be awarded to the main winners of the show.

Mrs. Draper displayed a crystal plate with an iris design that she will offer as a prize to the member who obtains the most new members. She also offered to give a painted plate to the member who obtains the most former members.

Anniversaries boost silver market

NEW YORK (UPI)—Twenty-five years ago, right after World War II, 2.291 million couples got married in the United States, the largest number of weddings ever to take place in this country in a single year. This 1946 bumper crop of marital yearning is benefiting the jewelry, flatware and silver market areas of the U.S. economy in this silver anniversary year of those weddings. About 1.75 million of the couples survived marital storms. So they're in line for silver wedding anniversary gifts. Since the average couple receives at least 10 gifts from relatives or friends, 10 per cent of the nation's population is involved in giving or receiving silver gifts.

Flatware, holloware—bowls, cups, candlesticks, pitcher—and jewelry, including bar accessories, cigarette boxes, lighters and money clips are frequently given gifts, according to Morton R. Saret, president of the Jewelry Industry Council.

The Sterling Silversmiths Guild of America, New York, noted that the demand for silver gift items picked up late in 1970 and has held firm so far this year. John F. Ambrose, executive vice president of the guild, said the number of silver anniversaries celebrated in the U.S. this year is approximately 44 per cent higher than last.

The projected increase in sales of silver items may have impact in the financial community. Trading in silver futures on the Commodity Exchange (Comex), the principal market for speculation in that metal reached record proportions in 1970. Trading volume on the New York Exchange last year totaled 693,697 contracts of 10,000 ounces each, compared to 585,249 such contracts in 1969.

Stocks in the Comex warehouses amounted to 118.38 million ounces at the end of 1970, up from 111.6 million ounces at the end of 1969. Speculative investment holdings of silver bullion increased in U.S. last year was about 135 million ounces, according to Handy & Harman.

1970 for the fifth year in a row, according to Comex President Matthew S. Fox, and he predicted a bustling market this year. Despite all the silver going into gifts for the anniversary couples, no shortage of the metal is anticipated. Industrial consumption of silver in the Economy recovers slowly

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Businessmen are beginning to feel that the economy is coming out of a slump but the results of a government survey of spending plans do not point to a very rapid recovery.

The Commerce Department and the Securities and Exchange Commission said Monday the business community plans to increase its investment in plant and equipment by 4.5 per cent this year. The planned expansion was substantially more than the 1.5 per cent increase for the year projected in a similar survey three months earlier, but it still would be the smallest growth in plant and equipment spending since 1968.

The 1970 increase was 5.5 per cent and the 1969 figure was 11.5 per cent.

The quarterly survey is watched by economists as more of a gauge of business psychology than as a prediction of actual spending.

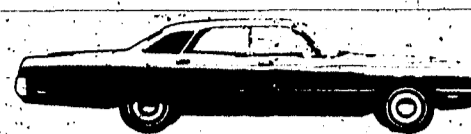

Manufacturing industries reported they plan little change in the level of investment this year. Nonmanufacturing industries projected a 7 per cent increase with the biggest gains coming in electric, utilities, communications and transportation—other than rail and airlines.

Every major manufacturing industry except aircraft reported it expects higher sales this year than last. Producers of durable goods anticipate an 8 per cent increase while producers of nondurable goods project 7 per cent higher sales.

U.S. Vietnam statements under fresh attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The credibility of official U.S. statements on its policies and progress in Vietnam once again is coming under heavy attack. Recent polls showing that about seven out of 10 Americans doubt the government's candor when it talks about Southeast Asia have highlighted a problem that has plagued three presidents and helped bring about the early retirement of one.

Not lost on the White House is the fact that the survey conducted by the respected Gallup organization, shows a greater crisis of confidence now than in February, 1967, midway through President Johnson's first full term in office. Several things have contributed to it:

The decision to use extensive American airpower and helicopter support in Cambodia after having given the impression such bombing raids would be rigidly limited. Use of such misleading terms as "protective reaction strikes" to describe bombing raids against supply buildups in North Vietnam and "unarmed reconnaissance flights" to mean flights by intelligence-gathering planes escorted by covets of fighter-bombers. The display of a pipe segment by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and one of his top aides at a Pentagon briefing which gave the incorrect impression that it was from the North Vietnamese pipeline ruptured during the current Laotian operations. The central conflict of trying to convince Hanoi it cannot gain by waiting while at the same time responding to domestic pressure for an American pull-out. In fairness to the Nixon administration, it should be pointed out that it inherited a vast reservoir of skepticism about the war. The history of the conflict is one of false hopes and optimistic assessments substantiated by questionable statistics.

And, of course, President Nixon cannot be entirely candid about what course he intends to pursue in Southeast Asia because to do so would be to give the enemy an invaluable advantage. Not all the fault lies with the government. Journalistic news conference last week unusually close on the heels of a similar session just two weeks earlier. Aides say he plans to continue holding news conferences more frequently than during his first two years in office when the average was about one every two months.

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller hinted Monday he would seek the presidency if President Nixon does not seek reelection. He promised to support Nixon if he runs. Rockefeller has made himself available for the Republican presidential nomination three previous times. He pulled out of the 1960 race early, lost a convention battle with Barry Goldwater in 1964 and challenged Nixon and lost in 1968. Each time, Rockefeller waited before actually making a decision. "I'm supporting President Nixon in running again,"

Rockefeller told a news conference. "I think the President is going to get us out of Vietnam, and that he's going to get the economy turned around, and with the Congress be successful in meeting some of these very difficult situations and that he is going to run and be reelected."

Senate panel studies kindergarten proposal

BOISE (UPI)—A Senate committee held for further study today a public kindergarten bill after the provision for ad valorem taxation to support the program drew criticism from committee members. The measure would have school district boards of trustees decide whether to begin the program and would authorize the boards to levy up to three mills to support the kindergartens. The bill also provides for elections to decide whether to begin or discontinue the program.

But members of the Health, Education and Welfare Committee criticized the bill on several grounds, including the added tax burden for property owners and on grounds all other education programs are wholly or in part state supported. Sen. Leon Swenson, R-Nampa, said he understood Gov. Cecil D. Andrus may include a kindergarten program in the agenda for the special session, expected on the heels of this regular session.

But Sen. Nels Solberg, D-Grangeville, said he believed Andrus may also mention kindergartens in his special budget address which he will make before a joint session of the legislature Wednesday morning.

Solberg said Andrus was "deeply disappointed" that another kindergarten bill, one to be supported by the state, was killed in the House.

Solberg, referring to the local taxation bill, described it as a "hollow bill" and questioned whether school districts would be willing to pick up the tab. Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewis-ton, said the measure was meant "to throw the people a little crumb to show we're behind kindergartens and added he would not support it.

Swenson said another alternative was a "voucher system" whereby such kindergarten-age child would receive money from the state and could use the funds to attend private kindergartens. He said under such a system the private kindergarten program would expand.

Party line bill passes

BOISE (UPI)—With everything to gain and nothing to lose, House Republicans helped the Democrats complete action 44-0 Tuesday on a Senate bill requiring the governor to fill legislative vacancies with persons of the same political party as the former office holder.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, a Democrat, said in his state of the state address that this would be his policy and suggested that the legislature pass a law to make certain other governors acted this way, too.

Snake water plan approved

BOISE (UPI)—The Senate approved 23-11 and sent to the House Tuesday a bill authorizing the Idaho Water Resource Board to proceed with plans for a water project in the Grandview-Guffey reach of the Snake River.

Still to come before the upper chamber is a companion measure which would name a legislative committee to review any contracts on the project.

Final disposition of any contracts would be up to the second regular session of the 41st Legislature.

Opposition to the bill came from Sen. Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, the proposal had not been given adequate study, he said. He was also critical of past moves made by the Water Resource Board and asked that the Senate move the measure into the amending order "so that the name of the board that has accomplished this be changed to the Idaho Hydroelectrical Power Board."

The motion was not approved. Sen. Ray Rigby, D-Rexburg, floor sponsor of the measure, told the senators the key issue was whether Idaho should participate in the project at all or to what extent.

But, he said, "without this bill they (the water board) are stymied. They have no authority to expend any money, application, no authority for no authority to make any negotiate."

Iowans ask movie ban

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—More than half of the members of the Iowa House Tuesday introduced a bill that would forbid the showing of X-rated movies in drive-in theaters.

The bill, sponsored by 53 of the 100 members, would prohibit drive-ins from showing any motion picture which had received an X rating from the Motion Picture Association of America. Violation of the measure would be a misdemeanor. The bill's chief sponsor, Rep. Tom Dougherty, said the legislators want regulation of films shown because it is impossible to regulate "who sees the outdoor movies."

Sought

MISSING 15-year-old Ogden, Utah, girl is being sought by her parents, according to Twin Falls sheriff's officers. The girl, Carol Taynton, is described as about 120 pounds, 5'4", light brown hair and blue-green eyes. The girl, missing for about three weeks, is thought to be in the Twin Falls area. Any information on her whereabouts should be forwarded to the Twin Falls sheriff.

Water permits backed

BOISE (UPI) — The Senate Resources and Environment Committee gave a "do pass" recommendation today to a bill which would provide a mandatory water right permit system for the state.

R. Keith Higginson, director of the Department of Water Administration, said he understood the delay of the measure already approved by the house was due "primarily to a question of constitutionality."

But, he said, he had been assured by the attorney general the measure is legal.

Higginson said the measure provided for publication of proposed diversions he said, would "give the public an opportunity to object to those developments which would interfere with prior water rights."

He added the measure was necessary to provide state control and administration of water resources.

The same committee also tabled two House approved bills, one which would prohibit carrying of loaded shotguns or rifles in vehicles and another which would remove from the unprotected bird list the kingfisher, pelican and cormorant.

Sen. Warren Brown, R-McCall, said he felt the resources committee was "down" and fish and game matters, adding, "Why don't you just pass a bill to do away with fish and game entirely?"

Brown said he had seen legislation "flying around on both sides of the hall that I think is just nit-picking." But Sen. C.C. "Cy" Chase, D-St. Maries, said he felt fish and game representatives were "lobbying behind the scenes instead of working with us. They won't cooperate. They don't even talk about it."

Job program grant OK'd

Extension of the Magic Valley employment orientation program for another 28 weeks through an appropriation of $43,683 from the U.S. Department of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare was announced today by John Leinen, manager, Idaho Department of Employment office here.

The program provides training and job orientation for a maximum of 15 unemployed persons at one time and has been in progress the past year. Leinen said the maximum 15 persons are currently enrolled.

Cooperating in the program are the local department of employment office and the College of Southern Idaho with assistance from a number of community employers, Roy Slotten, Twin Falls, employment agency representative said.

During the first year of the program about 65 persons received training lasting from a few weeks to several months. Slotten said the program has a waiting list of about 80 others.

All costs are paid by the federal government and the participants are provided a subsistence payment while attending.

Working with CSI, the department of employment screens the applicants and selects those qualified, Slotten said. During mornings these attend adult education classes to obtain high school equivalency certificates.

During afternoon periods they attend vocational sessions where they are exposed to various vocational trades in the hope of encouraging their efforts in acquiring skills sufficient to hold jobs.

They are also given an opportunity to meet with employers and school officials to discuss job attitudes and obtain a knowledge of job requirements.

BURLEY — District Judge Sherman Bellwood has received 11 1/2 pounds of mail regarding his sentencing last April of five boys and one girl from Minidoka County to the state penitentiary on drug charges.

All of the letters have been answered personally, the judge told Burley Chamber of Commerce members Monday at a luncheon meeting at Bryan's Cafe. Some of the writers still are corresponding with the judge.

"About 96 per cent of the letters favored his decision, but after the story appeared in Life magazine, letters ran about 80 per cent in favor and 40 per cent against the decision, Judge Bellwood said.

He said he has become greatly interested in prison operation through this correspondence, some of which has been from persons serving in state and federal penitentiaries.

"There is a great need for an institution for persons who need correction in the area between probation and the penitentiary," the judge said.

In other business, Clarence Parr reported on two bills in the legislature dealing with potatoes.

Decision brings comment

BURLEY — District Judge Sherman Bellwood has received 11 1/2 pounds of mail regarding his sentencing last April of five boys and one girl from Minidoka County to the state penitentiary on drug charges.

Dierke's park site grant OK'd

TWIN FALLS — U. S. Cong. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, today advised the Times-News of the approval of $2,500 from the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for the city of Twin Falls for purchase of additional land in the vicinity of Dierke's Lake.

He said the funds will be used to acquire 34 acres of land near Snake River and adjacent to the lake area.

The city will develop the land for a park for camping, swimming, boating and hiking. The land is one half mile upstream from Shoshone Falls on the south side of the canyon.

City Manager Jean Miller said the $2,500 approved by the federal agency represents a fifty per cent matching amount with city participation for purchase of the 34 acres. The land is privately owned and is presently the property of Antone Britt.

Miller said the city picked up an option to buy the land for $500 last summer and has until April 1 before the present option expires.

Granting of the application by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation is most timely, he said. City plans call for a long range program of developing city-owned land around Dierke's Lake for varied recreation uses.

The 34 acre piece of property owned by Britt is isolated and of little use to an individual because of city owned surrounding lands.

Miller said it is mostly lava rock and brush but will be adaptable to recreation purposes.

Application for the matching funds was submitted early last summer, Miller said.

Glenns Ferry levy reduced

GLENN'S FERRY — Patrons of the Glenn's Ferry School District approved a rare proposal Tuesday — they agreed to reduce taxes within the district by one mill.

Even so, 26 per cent of the voters opposed the move.

In a dual election, school-district voters approved new trustee zone boundaries and approved a two-mill plant-facilities levy to replace the current three-mill levy, which will expire at the end of this year. The two-mill levy will run for five years.

George Powell, superintendent of schools, said the trustee-zone vote tally showed 64 per cent in favor — out of 225 votes cast, 144 were favorable and 81 opposed the change. The majority of the opposition came from the King Hill and Hammett areas, since the new boundaries will have three trustees living within Glenn's Ferry and only one outside the city.

In Hammett, Powell said, 20 voters opposed the boundaries, to 12 in favor, and in the King Hill area, the tally was 23 opposed to 19 in favor.

The mill-levy vote was also opposed in the King Hill and Hammett areas, Powell said. Of 225 votes cast on the issue, 187 favored the reduction and 58 voted against the proposal, for a 74-per-cent favorable vote.

Powell said the two-mill levy will be used principally to buy new school buses to replace the old ones now in use. Each mill of taxation, returning about $7,000 to the school district, will buy one school bus per year, Powell said.

"We need to buy a couple of buses for a year or two to replace some of the buses we're using now — some of them are nine and 10 years old, and the maximum useful life of a school bus is only seven years."

The two-mill levy will "allow us to buy a new bus next year and finish oiling our playground; then we can double up and buy two buses a year," he said.

The reduction in taxation, from three to two mills, does not indicate any cutback in school operations, the superintendent said. "We're getting our playgrounds completed and other work finished, so we don't need the three mills."

The trustee-zone vote was called at the request of school district patrons, who submitted a petition with 50 signatures requesting that the trustee zones be redrawn in line with recent population changes in the district.

Minico to pay weedman

RUPERT — Minidoka County commissioners have agreed to pay the salary of an extension agent to supervise weed control in the county, provided the state agrees and fills the post.

Blaine Linford, Twin Falls district supervisor of agricultural extension service, and LaMont Smith, Minidoka County agent, met with county commissioners Monday to discuss the position.

Minidoka County has been without any weed administration since the county weed supervisor resigned Feb. 1.

Commissioners agreed to pay the salary, which will be between $7,200 and $8,000 for one year, and it is hoped the state extension service will assume additional costs.

The appointment will be filled if the University of Idaho extension officials and the State Board of Regents approve, Linford said.

Plans studied for Cassia Hospital beds

BURLEY — Questions from HEW and "comments" by the architect still remain as the final step before the Cassia Memorial Hospital can gain federal approval of a $177,000 federal grant which will help pay for a $702,000 expansion project.

Approval is expected soon, state officials said Tuesday.

The Idaho Department of Health is serving as a type of mediator in the interchange between the Seattle regional office of the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), which must give approval of the federal grant, and the architect for the project, located in Ogden, Utah.

Ray R. Reed, chief of the Health Facilities Construction Section of the health department, said HEW has issued a number of questions about the plans. The architect must "comment" on these questions satisfactorily before the $177,000 will be forthcoming, Reed said.

Cassia Memorial Hospital has petitioned for a total of $850,000 in HEW funds to help with the major expansion project. The $177,000 is the first installment of the federal help, Reed said.

The second installment of $173,000 has not received the final HEW nod, but has been awarded tentative endorsement by the Idaho State Health Facilities Advisory Board.

The hospital plans construction of a 40-bed wing for short-term hospital treatment, in which each patient would be given a private one-bed room.

A wide variety of up-to-date facilities would be included with each room, ranging from automatic beds, which can be raised and lowered electrically, to air conditioning and "plumbing" for oxygen and vacuum facilities. The vacuum outlet allows suctioning of patients' tracheas and nasal passages during and after surgical procedures to prevent strangulation.

Burglary reported

TWIN FALLS — Another home burglary was reported Tuesday to Twin Falls City Police, who are continuing investigation of a rash of home break-ins which occurred over the weekend.

The burglary reported Tuesday, officers said, apparently occurred sometime during the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Falkenberry, 640 Cindy Drive. Officers said the owners were away at the time the burglary occurred.

The house was entered through a bedroom window and the house was ransacked. Reported missing are about 10 silver dollars.

Wendell brochure authorized

WENDELL — Wendell Chamber of Commerce members today authorized the brochure committee to complete the pamphlets on the Wendell area by mid-April.

The brochures were designed by Sheriff Grounds, arts and crafts teacher at the Wendell High School.

A letter was read from L. G. Hough, state highway department official, asking for recommendations from the chamber as to placement of information signs for the Wendell community to be located a half mile from the interstate.

Clyde Peterson, Northside Communities president, said the group is asking local chambers for suggestions for work projects.

Suspect still held

BURLEY — Jesse Garcia, 26, Burley, remains in Cassia County jail without bond pending continuation of an arraignment on charges of first degree murder in the death last Friday of Anacleto (Chico) Diaz, 45, also Burley.

Garcia was returned by county officers from Rawlins, Wyo., to face murder charges in the Diaz death. Magistrate Court Judge Gleason Anderson continued arraignment of the suspect Monday to allow him time to consult with an attorney. No date for the continuation has been set.

Garcia was arrested in Wyoming shortly after the shooting death last Friday of Diaz. He died in a Cassia Memorial Hospital several hours after an altercation in the East Side bar.

Highway meet set at Bliss

BLISS — Representatives of six highway districts in three counties will meet in Bliss Friday afternoon to discuss awarding a transportation planning study contract for the Bruneau Plateau farm development area, Keith Anderson, Twin Falls Highway District engineer, said today.

He said several engineering firms have already been interviewed by a special committee and more will be contacted prior to the Friday meeting scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Bliss High School.

Anderson said the highway districts adjacent to or including the 100,000-acre farm development project in the Twin Falls, Elmore and Owyhee counties area along the Snake River have asked for the study as a basis of providing road service to agricultural lands and homes now developing in the new area.

Anderson said roads within the project at this time are being largely dirt without adequate drainage to prevent erosion and landslides during winter months.

The planning study is being called for to serve as a basis for three major phases of the transportation development, the engineer said. First, he said, the area would need direct access to existing properties for school bus and mail routes as well as other regular delivery vehicles.

Next would be feeder or collector roads to collect traffic from local roads and channel this into arterial roads, and third would be arterial roads to collect traffic from the local roads.

connections with routes of equal importance in adjacent areas where state road system routes exist.

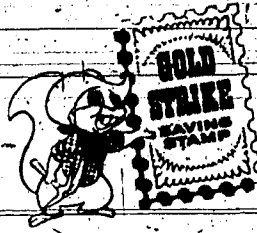

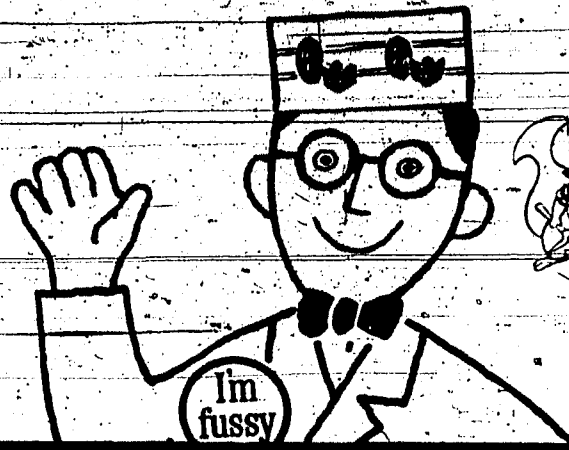

Anderson said the Twin Falls Highway District will begin construction in the near future on five miles of new road to cut the distance from the present paved roadway west of Bliss to the Griley Bridge in Regensburg, Valley to the project by 20 miles.

The district will provide for a gravel roadway at present with plans to hard surface it at some later time. He said it is hoped it will be used also in construction of the first spring break project in the area.

Today's hand finds Ely making one mild overcall with the West hand and then opening the queen of hearts against South's five-club contract. A sound bid and a normal lead.

South won in dummy and led a diamond to his queen. Ely was on lead with the king. The game was rubber bridge. Most ordinary players would simply lead another heart and force declarer to use up a trump.

Ely saw this play would be hopeless. South surely had seven trumps. Then how could South be hurt? Ely found the way. He played his king of trumps. Without this play South would have ruffed a diamond and eventually lost just one trump trick. After Ely's play he had to lose a diamond and a trump and was down one.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The late Harold Vanderbilt invented contract bridge in 1925. Six years later Ely Culbertson came out with his first book, "The Culbertson System of 1931."

This book was so advanced that even today you will find many of its principles as basic parts of every sound system—including JACOBY MODERN, standard American, British Acol, Roth-Stone and Kaplan-Sheinwold.

Ely was the first to suggest the use of four no-trump to ask for aces, the grand-slam force and asking bids which are used today. He was a great player. His bidding was sound. His play distinguished by brilliance.

HOW MANY VOLTS of static electricity do you figure your body can build up as you shuffle across a nylon carpet? Hard to believe, this. As many as 15,000 volts, the science boys say. Know one fellow who's so shy of static electricity he always carries a key in his fingers. At least at home. Touches metal with it everywhere he goes to ground himself out. Makes sparks, I've seen that, but with the clutched key, he says, he never feels the tingle.

IN CALIFORNIA, about 91 per cent of the citizens live in the cities. In Vermont, about 37 per cent of the citizens live in the cities. Remember that, young fellow. If you're looking for the wide open spaces, go east... THE WEST GERMAN government has legally designated the housewife as a skilled professional worker. That's not all. A new law there is about to qualify her for a retirement pension based on her years of service.

OPEN QUESTION - What's the difference in taste, if any, between a shark steak and a swordfish steak?

WRITE the numbers 1, 2, 3 and 4 on a pad of paper. Ask somebody to circle any one of these. Will bet you a quarter on the corner what's marked is 3. Try it. Repeated tests show that's the chosen number in this simple circumstance approximately 80 per cent of the time.

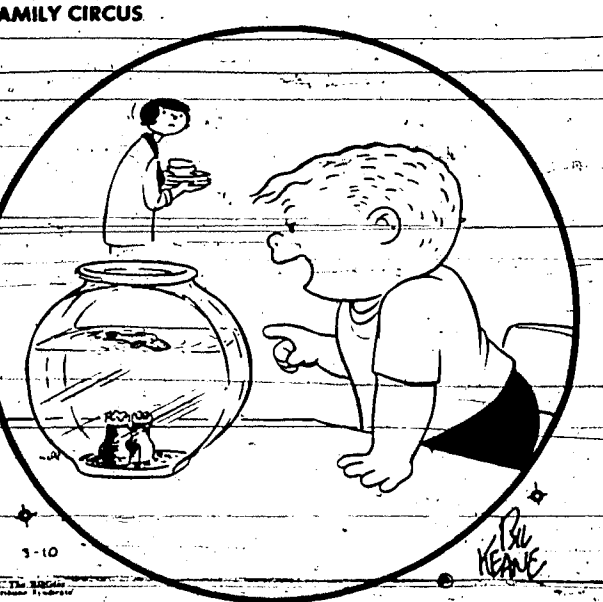

CUSTOMER SERVICE - "Who dreamed up the ridiculous way the French poole is clipped?" A. That goes back a way. Several centuries. French hunters used those poodies as retrievers. The clip protected them in the brush, but still let them swim easily... Q. "What makes bock beer darker?" A. The malt's roasted longer, that's all... Q. "Wasn't that Texas town of Post named after Wiley Post, the flier who died with Will Rogers?" A. It was named after C. W. Post, the Post Toasties tycoon. As a matter of coincidence, however, Wiley Post's widow lives right close by there.

"CONTRARY to your report that nobody can recite the alphabet backwards in two minutes," writes M. R. Sankey, "I can do that in five seconds. I also can 1. Touch the tip of my nose with my tongue. 2. AND IT HAS COME to pass, finally, that more motion pictures are made in South Africa now than in Hollywood, far more... IF 13 IS SUCH an unlucky number, how come there has been no major air crash on the 13th day of any month in the past 30 'some-odd' years?... Hegens, Behagen spark CSI into national meet

The renaissance of Steve Hegens and the continually amazing play of Ron Behagen keyed the College of Southern Idaho in a sparkling display Tuesday night as the Eagles swept past the Arizona Western Matadors 86-78 and into the national junior college basketball tournament.

The victory, which saw Hegens recapture the glamor that earned him first-team All-American honors a year ago, propelled the Eagles into a meeting at 2:45 p.m. Tuesday against Manhattan, N. Y., Community College in the first round of the nationals in Hutchinson, Kans.

Playing without 6-7 Ralph Palomar, the CSI top scorer out with a badly sprained ankle, the Eagles gave away a ton of height. But the short lineup, with 5-6 Vic Kelly and 5-8 Gary Quesnell at guard, Hegens moved to forward and Behagen and Tim Bassett, broke the game open with a zone defense in the opening two minutes of the second half.

The confident Behagen, who correctly predicted CSI backboard domination—24 hours before the game, poured through 33 points while Hegens, his 30-foot howitzers and fall-back jumpers smashing the net, added 24. Kelly pumped through 18 to join the parade.

It wasn't easy, particularly in the first half, but the second half was all CSI. The Eagles went into a delay game with five minutes to go and, it appeared, Western gave up. It could have been CSI's best performance of the year. Similar effort next week could carry the Eagles to the pinnacle.

But Western died hard in the first half. After some preliminary skirmishing, a pair of free throws by Lovard Coleman gave the invaders an 11-9 night lead and with the exception of a couple of ties, Western stayed on top.

It's biggest margin came with 8:30 left in the 29-24. But Behagen, who pored in 19 of his 33 points in the first half, then hit four points and, after seeing Wayne Williams get a freethrow, he tied it at 30-all. It was Behagen's pair of free throws with five seconds left that let the Eagles take a precarious 32-31 lead into intermission.

From the tenor of the first half, no one really expected to see the Eagles take charge so well in the second. Williams hit within eight seconds after the second-half tipoff to give Western its last lead at 43-42.

Then CSI shifted into a zone which caught the Matadors unprepared and off-balance for a minute. It was all the Eagles needed. Behagen hit to give CSI its head, Hegens came back with a howitzer and Kelly sparkled with a cripple off a steal and a driving bucket that brought raves. Tim Bassett topped it with a free throw and CSI was in charge at 51-43.

Lanky Bill Hagins, Western's 6-9 frosh star, placed his team together over the next two minutes with a couple of buckets and Candy LaPrince hit a jumper with 14:32 remaining to make it 56-50 and indicate that the game was not yet over.

But Bassett hit the next time down the floor on a tip and Behagen converted on the next two Eagle possessions to open it up to 12 points.

From then on Western was out of contention, although CSI's lead never passed 14 points.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Captain Jim Clemons poured in 30 points Tuesday night to lead Ohio State to a 91-75 victory over Indiana which wrapped up the Big Ten title for the Buckeyes.

Clemons, believed to be out for the season with a broken wrist less than two weeks ago, scored 20 points in the second half and called his young teammates after the rugged Hoosiers had cut a 19-point Ohio State lead down to 2 with 7:10 remaining.

Ohio State, which held a 42-30 halftime lead, built fit to 52-33 with 16:33 to go when the Hoosiers came up with an unusual five-point play.

Steve Downing hit on a jump shot for Indiana and at the same time Ohio State's Bob Siekmann was called for intentionally fouling George McGinnis. McGinnis made the first shot and his missed second attempt was put back in by Joby Wright, trimming the lead to 53-38. The Hoosiers then scored eight more points in a row before Clemons' freethrow broke the spell.

McGinnis, who led the Hoosiers with 25 points, was held to 10 rebounds as the Buckeyes beat the Hoosiers on the boards 53-35.

Ron Behagen's muscle shot

RON BEHAGEN (33) touches off a two-pointer over the shoulder of Arizona Western's Bill Hagins (52) during inter-collegiate play Tuesday night. Behagen hit 33 points as CSI won 86-78 and clinched a trip to the national tourney.

Tax leaves one-fifth of salary

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali both lost. Only the government won. That was the opinion of Ali, who was beaten for the first time in his career by Frazier Monday night in a 15-round heavyweight title fight.

Both fighters received $2.5 million for the bout, but by the time federal and state tax agents go through the bankrupt the two fighters will be left with less than one-fifth of that original sum.

"I'm not mad at Joe Frazier, and he's not mad at me. We're both mad at the government for taking all our money," said Ali. "Off the top comes $1.5 million for the Federal government, off the top comes $348,000 for New York State, and then there's another $255,000 for training expenses. I might go home with $370,000."

"Once in your life you get a big fight, something you hoped to get a piece of, and then the government comes in...what good is the fight even if I win? Black people figure the system works against them. I'm not worried about defeat. I'm worried about how they (the government) treat you. What kind of country is this? All that training, 10 years of building your body...and the bruising. Then they (the government) come up with some legal way of taking it away from you. Then in 10 years time people will say he made so much money and he's broke...oh, isn't it a shame he has no money now?"

All added that the government's tax structure has dampened his spirits about future bouts.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY
 Times-News Sports Editor
 "I hope we get a similar effort next week... it was as fine a game as any team could play."

So said CSI Coach Jerry Hale immediately after watching his Eagles drop — cripple past doesn't seem appropriate now — Arizona Western and advance to the national junior college tournament next week.

The victory proved that the team has heart. A ton of heart. And, don't forget, talent coming out its ears. It looked like nadir time. Big 6-7 Ralph Palomar was on the bench with a bum ankle. The man with all the credentials, Steve Hegens, was coming off six lousy weeks of playing — and was going to be pivotal. At 6-2, he was expected to complete the CSI rebounding trimvirate, guard a man five inches taller and still provide points. The Washington, D.C., youngster shrugged off a bunch of nightmare games and flashed everything — and perhaps more — that he had shown in winning junior college first-team All-American honors last year.

We think it would be an understatement to mention that the performance was far beyond expectations. We think it would be no over statement to echo the solemn statement — almost prayer — of Coach Hale in saying with Palomar available and similar effort from the rest, the trip to nationals next week could be totally enjoyable.

Flashing back about 24 hours earlier, however, Palomar was ankle deep in ice and the verdict of severe sprain or break hadn't been rendered.

Behagen, a playing demon since Christmas, looked across the dressing room at what must be the super half-Apache in the world. "Without Ralph it will be tough. But if the other guys can get the points, Bassett and I can control the boards," said the 6-8 New Yorker. He repeated the promise Tuesday afternoon.

And then he and Bassett, with 11 and 14 bounds, respectively, and Hegens, who had 10 takedowns, went out and made a prophet of him.

The American Indian, traditionally, is a stoic. He endures pain, heat, cold, etc., with no outward emotion or sign. Palomar, eliciting the statement "he must have a high tolerance of pain," worked out Tuesday afternoon.

In review, Coach Hale noted "Had he been playing for the Boston Celtics, he would have played tonight." But neither Ralph or Coach Hale was hot for the idea of a cortisone shot directly into the injury. The Eagles had a game to spend. An extra 48 hours of grace before it was do or die. Palomar stayed in civvies and his teammates picked up the burden.

Riding high

When the young El Paso giant came down from the balcony to sit on the bench just before game time, the crowd of about 3,000 gave him a big hand. It brought forth what might have been the longest smile in Palomar's life — for he is stoic. It also might have been the nicest thing a Magic Valley crowd has done in years.

In speaking of the injury, suffice it to say, the swelling was down at least one-third and Palomar will be available at no worse than 90 per cent next week.

To pick out heroes in the final home showing of this great bunch of sophomores would be foolhardy because each did his thing. But of happy note here is the fact that Gary Quesnell, the ex-Murtha star and one of the newest bridegrooms around, played his first entire game for the Eagles and contributed every bit as much as the others.

It was a game made for poets, but we can't think of a rhyme for Hutchinson.

Once around lightly for what little we know of the national alignment. The two (Brevard, Fla.) three (San Jacinto, Tex.) and four (Vincennes, Ind.) and defending champion) ranked regional and won't be around Hutchinson. Hutchinson and Tyler, Tex., the last team to beat CSI in nationals last year, will be. Playoffs for the event are continuing through this week, according to Carlyle Dean, Treasure Valley coach and region-18 director.

North Carolina carries top seed into bitter ACC tourney

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—Back before the start of the basketball season, North Carolina wasn't given much of a chance to be in the running for the Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

Coach Dean Smith had lost talented Charlie Scott to graduation, the reasoning went, and without a player of Scott's ability, the Tar Heels didn't figure to go far in the circuit.

Thursday the team that wasn't supposed to have a chance goes into the three-day ACC tournament with top seed, a 20-5 over-all record and 11-3 mark in the conference. The Tar Heels, ranked 14th in the nation, whipped presently seventh-ranked South Carolina early in the season but lost to the Gamecocks in a second meeting.

The Gamecocks faltered in mid-season for unexplained reasons, losing four conference games, but ended the regular season on a strong note behind the ball-handling of guard John Roche and many figure they have the momentum to sweep the do-or-die tournament.

"I don't think momentum means all that much," says Smith, once an understudy to Frank McGuire, the Gamecock coach. He points to the past record of the conference which is marked by upsets, like the 1970 tournament in which South Carolina won all 14 of its conference games but was almost whipped by lowly Clemson and then fell in the final game to North Carolina State, which had lost four of its last six regular-season games.

"Nothing that has happened so far means anything," said Smith. "The new season begins on Thursday."

Lacking a real star, Smith put together a fast-moving, aggressive team with a tough, pressing defense that has worked well in the season. Dennis Wuycik, 6-5, is leading scorer with a 19.8 point per game average, backed up by 6-6 Bill Chamberlain, who is averaging 13.7.

Smith has a hustling sophomore guard in 6-1 George Karl, the playmaker, who has good moves and averages 12.3 points per game, but has some rough edges. Roche, the dazzling ball-handler for the Gamecocks, has proved he can dribble circles around Karl.

Duke, a pre-conference pick as South Carolina's top challenger for the ACC crown and resulting berth in the NCAA Eastern Regionals, has had its problems this year, but ended on the upturn with a 92-82 win over North Carolina.

Roche not only can shoot, but feeds the ball well inside to his old high school teammate Tom Owens, the Gamecocks' leading rebounder, 6-8 center Tom Tiker, or burly 6-8 forward John Ribock.

Seven Magic Valley teams open state title quests

Seven Magic Valley teams — a record representation from this area — will open battle on four fronts Thursday in state basketball championships.

The Minico Spartans will meet the Capital Eagles at 7 p.m. Thursday in the A-1 meet at Idaho State's mindome. Gooding's Senators open the A-2 affair at Capital High School in Boise at 1:30 p.m. by playing Lakeland; Wendell picks up where it ended last year by meeting Hornedale at 3 p.m. and Glenns Ferry goes against IHM Academy of Coeur d'Alene at 7 p.m. in the A-3 tournament at Rexburg and in the A-4 affair at Coeur d'Alene, Oakley meets Nez Perce at 3 p.m.; Hagerman takes on Leadore at 7 p.m. and Camas County tests Plummer in the first-night wrap-up. Wendell, which gained the tournament through a playoff win over Grate, is the defending state A-3 champion while Oakley is going for a second straight title in the A-4 ranks.

Of the local teams, Oakley is given the best chance to succeed and of the remainder Minico expected to have the toughest row — largely because it is bracketed with Capital and Highland, both of whom defeated the Spartans.

The luck of the pairings set up an irony in the A-4 meet. Should both Hagerman and Camas County come through the first round unscathed, they will be playing the "rubber match" of a three-game series in the state semi-finals. They traded at-home wins during the season. In fact, with the exception of Oakley, Camas County was the only team to beat Hagerman during the regular season.

According to the form sheets from around the state, Gooding appears in the better bracket in the A-2, that is away from Preston and Sahmon, consistently ranked among the better teams in the state.

If there is an advantage for a local team in the A-3 Glenns Ferry has it in playing IHM Academy in the first round — or prior to the time that the day-long motel blues begin their attrition. Also in the A-3, the Wendell-Hornedale match is a replay of last year's finals, which the Trojans won.

All games start at 1:30, 3, 7:30 and 9 p.m. at each site.

T.F. sets trials for Grand jury's aim now clearer

Track goes outdoors for the first time this "spring" Friday afternoon when the Twin Falls Bruins host several area schools in some early season time trials.

The event, for which no team scores or individual race placements will be kept, will start at 3:30 p.m. Friday at Bruin Stadium.

Coach Jerry Kleinkopf said he did not know how many teams or individuals would show up. "I just sent out several letters inviting them. I think we (Twin Falls) will be the only one with a full team but some of the schools have said they will be bringing at least a few individuals."

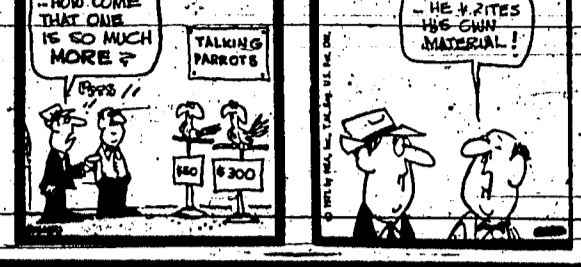

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The direction of the federal grand jury probe of possible antitrust violations by the National Football League became clearer Tuesday when it was learned all 26 teams were subpoenaed last Nov. 8 to produce records relating to any blacklisting of players.

The subpoena asked for "all documents which relate or refer in any way to ... stacking, boycotting, detention or blacklisting of a player or players."

The seven-page subpoena also asked for a copy of a standard contract and a copy of any contract negotiated with the assistance of the league or the NFL Players Association.

Appearing before the jury Tuesday were New York Jets Coach and General Manager Weeb Ewbank and New Denver Broncos Coach and General Manager Lou Saban. Saban spent three hours before the jury.

Clay figures he's still champ, doesn't think he lost

NEW YORK (UPI)—Muhammad Ali still believes he is the heavyweight champion of the world, even though Joe Frazier now officially wears the crown.

All, who was beaten for the first time in his career Monday night, said Tuesday he felt the judges were wrong in awarding a unanimous 15-round decision to Frazier.

"I think I won at least nine rounds. You watch the films and then look at his face. I'm sure I won the fight. I hit him three punches to every one he hit me. But it's nothing to protest about. It was a full 15 rounds of steady action. The crowd was pleased. That's the main thing," said Ali.

All, who greeted newsmen in his hotel suite where he spent the majority of the day resting, showed very few visible marks from Frazier's powerful punches. His jaw was slightly swollen on the right side and there was a black-and-blue mark on his right cheek. But his spirit remained undaunted from his first setback.

"People are expecting me to be crying today because I lost," he said. "But it's a good feeling to lose sometimes. It sets an example of how to take defeat by those who follow you. They see how cheerful I am and they are able to accept defeat better. A man with pride is an honest man." All was extremely respectful of his conqueror but insisted that, if they meet again things will be different.

"He's (Frazier) not skillful, but he's good in his style. He keeps coming at you. Boy! Joe Frazier's tough. He hits harder than anyone I ever fought. That was a helluva punch he knocked me down with. When you see me on my behind, you know that punch must have had something behind it," said Ali.

"Guys who fight like Frazier won't be in boxing too long, though," All added. "Your body can't take that much punishment."

All said that he probably lost the fight by "clowning" with Frazier during the middle rounds. In several of those rounds All openly taunted his opponent by poking playful jabs at him.

"I'm a funny type person. I like to defy the critics and experts. I just wanted to show people what a real fighter can do. I was just showing out," he said. "It was something I shouldn't have done. If I knew they would take those rounds away from me, I wouldn't have done that. The next time there will be no clowning."

All wouldn't say when the next fight with Frazier would be, but he said he would like to meet him again within five to seven months.

"I can't get in no worse a tax bracket. It wouldn't hurt if we fought again tomorrow, but I'm too sore to fight tomorrow," said Ali. "I would say that in five to seven months I'd be ready to take him on again. I don't like waiting."

"He said, however, that he might retire from boxing after one or two more bouts.

"Man wasn't made for fighting," he said. "It's a pleasure to get out healthy. This is a rough game. I want to get out of it someday with some security. All I'm thinking about now is security. I figure a couple of more, if I have any. I've got to talk it over with friends."

Fight take might exceed estimates

NEW YORK (UPI)—Early returns indicated Tuesday that the box office draw for the Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali heavyweight title fight might even surpass the $20-30 million net profit expected by backers Jerry Perenchio and Chertwell Artists.

"We did very well," said Perenchio as he waited in his New York hotel suite for more financial and attendance figures that have been pouring in from across the country and Europe.

"It's like election returns," Perenchio continued. "All the results aren't in yet. There are some states still to be heard from. The results are not conclusive yet, but I must say I'm not depressed. Everything is holding true to what we expected. We've done something over 10 million already."

Perenchio, who along with millionaire Jack Kent Cooke brought together the two undefeated fighters and offered Frazier and Ali $2.5 million each, expects to have all the results counted by late this evening or early Wednesday.

Locations in the United States that did big business were the New England area, the West Coast, New York and Texas. Some small cities experienced difficulty filling their closed-circuit outlets to capacity but it did not appear that the small gates in these areas would deter from the overall success of the operation.

"Without even the complete returns you know that all our outlets don't do well," Perenchio said. "The little towns are sporadic. Some do great, others poorly. Just as an example, someone told me today that Hampton Beach, Va., did extremely well. Now, who would have expected that?"

"It is very difficult to pinpoint the weaker areas. For some reason or another, one location will do poorly and another does fantastic in the same vicinity."

Generally, all of the New England states did extremely well, as did the West Coast and Texas. And I have to believe that New York was one of the better areas."

A crowd of 17,500 jammed Philadelphia's Spectrum to root for hometown favorite Frazier while another 40,000 fight buffs paid $25 a ticket to watch the slugfest on closed circuit television in other locations in Philadelphia and South New Jersey.

The fight was also viewed by an estimated 6,000 people who braved sub-freezing temperatures at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh. Another 3,000, 3,500 showed up in Birmingham, Ala. while the 24 locations in the New England area were expected to bring a gross of upwards of $1 million.

The only closed-circuit location in Europe was in London where according to Perenchio, "every single seat was sold." A record 90,000 Englishmen flocked out.

Newhouse, Glick cop ski wins

Bob Newhouse of Fairfield and Cheryl Glick of Wendell ran off with Class A honors in the Fairfield Chamber of Commerce Mitey-Mite ski races at Soldier Mountain Sunday.

Newhouse was caught in 1:33.5, edging Ted Carrico of Gooding by seven-tenths of a second for the boys laurels. Randy Choate of Fairfield was third in 1:36.8. Miss Glick had two and one-half seconds to spare over runner-up Judy Glick of Wendell in the girls division with Debbie Simon of Fairfield third at 1:45.7.

In the B division for boys, Brian Cloward of Twin Falls won in 1:25.2 with Bill Simon, Fairfield, second at 1:30 and Charles Newhouse, Fairfield, third, at 1:42.1 Leslie Cloward of Twin Falls won the B girls title with 1:35.4, followed by Sally Mobley, Jerome, 2:43.5 and Kerri Goechner, Wendell, 3:16.3.

In the class C boys, Ricky Choate of Fairfield had a 1:54.7 while Tim Hill, Twin Falls, had 3:01.2 and John Newhouse, Fairfield, 3:11.1.

AUTOMOBILES ARE TO LEASE

The trend today is to lease or rent a lot of items people used to buy. After all, why should people tie up their money in something they won't be using forever — plus having to maintain the things? Why not the same for cars?

For as little as $65 per month you can drive a 1971 MERCURY COMET. CALL 733-7700 ELVIN BROWN OR JULES HARRISON Theisen Motors

Political aid offered

LONDON (UPI) — Communist China has offered North Vietnam all-out political backing and more supplies, but no military involvement at present, qualified reports said Tuesday.

Chinese Premier Chou Enlai promised Hanoi all-out political support in his talks with the North Vietnamese leaders this week, they said.

Chou also offered wider and extended aid to North Vietnam, the reports said.

However, he steered clear of a Peking commitment to enter the war in support of North Vietnam at present, the reports said.

The composition of Chou's mission signified that "logistics rather than military participation" dominated the talks, the sources said.

Defense experts analyzing the level of the Chinese military advisers who accompanied Chou on the surprise trip to Hanoi said it indicates that questions of military supplies were under review rather than the entry of Chinese forces into the Vietnam conflict.

The diplomatic reports said the fact that Hanoi invited the Chinese, that it broadcast their arrival and that it gave wide publicity to the Chinese pledges of support, all suggest North Vietnam wanted to make the most of it to scare the United States and South Vietnam, leaving them guessing just how far Peking promised to go.

Enters plea

LONDON (UPI) — Author-composer Lionel Bart pleaded guilty Tuesday in a London court to possession of marijuana at his Kensington home and was fined $120, court sources said.

Bart wrote the book, lyrics and music for the stage production of "Oliver."

Grass cleans

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — A blade of grass has no moving parts, yet an average home lawn will release enough oxygen to supply the daily requirements of the average U.S. family.

Dr. James R. Watson, chief agronomist for Toro Manufacturing Corporation, producer of lawn care equipment, a blade of grass removes sulfur dioxide, ozone, peroxyacetyl nitrate, and hydrogen fluoride from the air. In place of these pollutants, it gives off pure oxygen.

News of Servicemen

CHING CHUAN KANG, Taiwan — U.S. Air Force Capt. Charles D. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Warner Howard of 435 Jefferson St., Twin Falls, has been decorated with four awards of the Ak Medal at Ching Chuan Kang AB, Taiwan.

Captain Howard, a navigator at Ching Chuan Kang, was cited for his outstanding airmanship and courage during sustained aerial flights. He is assigned to a unit of the Pacific Air Forces. The captain, a 1960 graduate of Twin Falls High School, received a B.S. degree in 1966 from the University of Idaho and was commissioned there through the Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Franzen of 1721 Pepper St., Alhambra, Calif.

Japan's first contact with the West came in 1542 when a Portuguese ship off course arrived in Japanese waters.

Andrus signs solon pay bill

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said Tuesday he had signed the legislative pay bill on grounds "this is a matter between an independent branch of government and the people of Idaho."

In a letter to Senate President Jack Murphy, Andrus said he had been requested by many persons to veto the legislation. The bill provides the constitutional $10 per day salary, another $25 per day for expenses, $10 per day for out-of-town legislators who must maintain a second home during sessions, and mileage for commuters and for trips home.

Andrus said he signed the measure into law "with the assurance of the legislative leaders that the people will be consulted in this matter at the next election."

Already introduced in the Senate are two proposed constitutional amendments, one which would set legislative salary at $4,800 per year and another at $5,500 per year.

Sen. William Crutcher, D-Orofino, caucus chairman, said the Democrats have also discussed the possibility of placing on the next ballot a proposed constitutional amendment which would set the compensation at a level determined by the legislature, but with the added provision any change would not affect the legislature which enacted the change.

Planting set

BOISE (UPI) — About three million coho salmon fingerlings hatched in Fish and Game Department facilities will be distributed and released in 14 Idaho reservoirs from the Idaho Panhandle to Pallasades Reservoir in the southeastern part of the state.
