Farm loss cited

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — The farmers of the nation paid out a total of $4 billion in 1970 just for the privilege of farming, in effect taking money out of their own pockets just to stay in business, according to an official of the National Farmers Organization (NFO).

John Kuch, a national director of the NFO who owns and operates a 1,000-acre farm in Michigan, was featured speaker at an NFO "sausage feed" and meeting Saturday night attended by several hundred NFO-affiliated families from six south-central Idaho counties in Twin Falls.

Kuch, who was born and grew up in Austria during the troubles of the early part of this century, related his experiences with galloping inflation in an hour-long flag-waving speech that brought most of the audience of several hundred to their feet in a standing ovation at the end.

The speaker said that the NFO provides leverage for American farmers in bargaining power that will allow the growers to "price our products the way we want them."

Explaining his figure that the farmers of America paid out $4 billion "for the privilege of farming," Kuch said that American farmers have a total investment of $244.4 billion. From this investment, they received $8.1 billion in gross income. If the total investment of $244 billion had been invested at six per cent interest, they would have received $12 billion, instead of the $8 billion they received, indicating a net loss of $4 billion.

"We make three per cent on our investment and get nothing for our labor," he told the enthusiastic audience that applauded frequently.

Speaking without notes in the Twin Falls High School gymnasium, Kuch recited a barrage of statistics on the prices received by farmers 20 years ago and now, pointing out that though farmers are held down in the prices they can get for corn, nobody complains about the cost of the liquor made from that very corn.

T.F. Council airs spending

TWIN FALLS — A public hearing on the $3.88 million proposed Twin Falls city budget for 1971 will be held at 7:30 p.m. today in the city hall auditorium.

The hearing will be the first business item to be taken up in the regular council meeting and all interested taxpayers are invited to attend.

The general fund budget is 16 per cent above last year's spending.

City Manager Jean Millar said of the total budget figure which includes anticipated revenue from federal grants and county airport participation only $975,000 will be derived from local property tax revenue.

This will require a total levy of $5 per each $100 assessed valuation this year compared to a $4.59 levy last year, he said.

Millar said the city is estimating the 1971 assessed valuation of the city at $19.5 million for budget purposes.

Gaullists hold power

PARIS (UPI)—French Gaullists held their ground against combined extreme leftist and rightist opposition in initial results of Sunday's nationwide city council elections.

Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas and several cabinet ministers won election against opposition tickets in the voting highlighted by a traditional political stability in local French elections.

Among the reelected majority tickets was one in Vannes, Brittany, headed by Interior Minister Raymond Marcellin, picked out by the leftists as the man to beat because of the alleged rough methods employed by his police against street demonstrators.

The breakdown of the first million of votes out of 29 million registered voters, showed the Gaullists rolled up 36.8 of the popular vote, the Communists 7.7 per cent, combined Communist-Socialists 22.3 per cent and other splinter leftist opposition factions 11.7 per cent.

Chaban-Delmas won re-election in Bordeaux.

Other cabinet ministers who were elected at the head of government coalition tickets were Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing, Post and Telegraph Minister Roger Galley, Minister of Regional and Economic Planning Andre Bettencourt and Deputy Ministers Jean Taittinger and Jacques Limouzy.

Other Gaullist leaders who won election were Defense Minister Michel Debre, ex-Premier Edgar Faure, Foreign Undersecretary for African and Malagasy Affairs Yvon Bourges and Union for the Defense of the Republic (UDR) Gaullist party secretary, General Rene Tomasi.

The first round of voting, to be followed next Sunday by run-offs in towns where no ticket won a majority Sunday, saw the political comeback of Jacques Soustelle, who had to spend several years in exile after attempting to block Gen. Charles-de-Gaulle's decision to give Algeria independence.

Hunter returns

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man who went rabbit hunting Sunday afternoon returned home about 9 a.m. Monday a few hours after his wife had reported him overdue.

Sheriff Paul Corder said Kenneth L. Jacobsen, 40, became stranded when his vehicle got stuck northeast of Twin Falls in Jerome County.

Pakistan crisis expands

DACCA, East Pakistan (UPI)—Awami League Leader Sheikh Mujibur Rahman took over administration of East Pakistan today in defiance of martial law imposed on the area by the national government.

Rahman's action apparently put East Pakistan on the verge of independence from government in West Pakistan—two areas separated by 1,000 miles of Indian territory.

President Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan flew from Karachi, West Pakistan, to Dacca to meet with Rahman in an effort to resolve the crisis.

Rahman called on the 75 million people of East Pakistan to resist "by all means possible" any force used against them. There are 55 million people in West Pakistan.

"We cannot be conquered because each of us is determined to die if need be to ensure that our future generations can live in freedom and with dignity as free citizens of a free country," Rahman said.

More than 300 persons have been killed in riots and clashes with government troops in East Pakistan in recent weeks.

Rahman said he was taking control on the basis of the Awami League's absolute majority in the Provincial Assembly and its dominant position in the National Assembly.

Ketchum ponders budget

KETCHUM — An anticipated 1971 Ketchum city budget of $182,172 — 36 per cent higher than last year — will be subject of a public hearing tonight in the Ketchum City Hall.

According to Betty Coles, city clerk, the 1971 budget approved by the city council at its last meeting, tops the 1970 expenditures of $136,220.92.

Proposed funding would be $15,920 to administration, $38,423 to the police department, $950 to sanitation, $44,306 to the street department, $8,801 to the fire department, $5,045 to recreation, $25,000 for new sewer treatment facility and $43,827 to the general fund.

Lasers aid tank kills

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. planes using laser beams and computer-directed air strikes knocked out 12 North Vietnamese tanks, but enough of the armor got through to shell the South Vietnamese fire support base of Lolo in Laos today, front dispatches reported. The North Vietnamese were reported sending a full division into the area.

Across the border in South Vietnam, the Communists carried out their heaviest mortar and rocket bombardment of the U.S. helicopter and support base of Khe Sanh since the Laos operation began Feb. 8. Khe Sanh is 12 miles from the border and just below the Demilitarized Zone.

Brig. Gen. Pham Van Phu, commander of the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division, said the Communists had blocked his troops trying to reach a suspected major supply dump area south of Lolo, which is nine miles southeast of Sepone. He said his troops fought off a two-hour attack today on Lolo's perimeter.

General Phu said the entire North Vietnamese 2nd Division was moving in to the south and southwest of Lolo where Phu said a major ammunition supply dump and a fuel pipeline were located. B52s bombed the area today and "very big secondary explosions" were seen by infantrymen at Lolo, he said.

He said during the drive from Sepone the Communist T-54 tanks fired on Lolo. U.S. Air Force AC130 gunships knocked out seven of the approaching tanks before dawn today.

A curtain of fire from Communist rockets, recoilless rifles and antiaircraft guns drove off American supply helicopters for the past several days, but today a 10-helicopter resupply mission made it to Lolo where 1,000 South Vietnamese infantrymen are stationed.

Pilots said five of the aircraft were hit by antiaircraft and ground fire today but none was shot down. However, they could not land and kicked off the supplies from six feet off the ground.

The U.S. Command reported four Americans were killed today when an Army UH1 Huey helicopter crashed from unknown causes at Tan Son Nhut Air Base in Saigon.

Seven of the Communist tanks were destroyed by Air Force AC130 Specter gunships based in Thailand which spotted them with electronic gear in the darkness early today four miles east-southeast of Sepone. Air Force F4 Phantom jets knocked out three tanks Sunday 12 miles east of the border and air strikes southwest of the border outpost of Lao Bao destroyed two others, bringing to 120 the number of Soviet-built tanks destroyed in the 36-day-old Laotian campaign.

American aircraft have destroyed 59 Communist tanks and South Vietnamese have accounted for 81 during the drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail, the main Communist supply route to South Vietnam and Cambodia.

Germans back Brandt's thaw

BERLIN (UPI)—West Berliners Sunday blocked a strong Communist attempt to win seats in the city's House of Representatives and gave West German Chancellor Willy Brandt the vote of confidence he requested.

Voters returned Brandt's Social Democratic party to power with a decreased majority in an election considered a referendum on Brandt's policy of reconciliation with the East.

In answer to the call of all democratic parties for a massive turnout to prevent the Communists from gaining house seats 86.5 per cent of the 1,668,506 eligible voters cast ballots on a clear, sunny day.

The Communists received only 2.3 per cent of the vote, compared to 2 per cent in the last election four years ago. Five per cent of the vote is needed to gain seats under the city's proportional representation electoral system.

Final provisional official returns gave the Social Democratic party 50.4 per cent of the vote and 73 seats in the 133-member house. This was a loss of 6.5 per cent and eight seats compared to 1967.

The tiny Free Democratic party, the Socialists old coalition partner, got 9.8 per cent of the vote and 11 seats, compared to 7.1 per cent and 9 seats in 1967.

The opposition Christian Democrats increased their percentage of the vote from 32.9 to 38.2 per cent, and its seats from 47 to 54.

The party attributed its increase to opposition to Brandt's attempt to conclude agreements with the Soviet bloc.

Indians boost Indira's power

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's new Congress party won a more than two-thirds majority in the lower house of parliament Sunday and gained the power to unilaterally amend India's constitution.

The returns showed that Congress candidates captured 350 of the 518 seats at stake in the general elections, with three more seats to be decided in later balloting.

The Communist party Marxist also sprang an election surprise, capturing 25 seats for a gain of six and emerging as the top opposition party in the new Lok Sabha. Most of the successes scored by the Peking-oriented party were made in West Bengal, which includes Calcutta. The pro-Moscow Communist party of India won 23 seats.

The two-thirds majority gave Mrs. Gandhi a clear mandate to carry out reforms which may include abridgement of basic property rights enshrined in the constitution.

Mrs. Gandhi has said an amendment may be necessary in her plans to reduce the gap between the rich and the poor by limiting both urban and rural property holdings.

The Supreme Court has already ruled that parliament can not amend fundamental rights, which compare with the American Bill of Rights, but Mrs. Gandhi, with a slenderer majority, may seek ways to evade the court.

Filer mother lauded

By BONNIE BAIRD-JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

FILER — Mrs. Helen Henderson, Filer, has been chosen 1971 Idaho Mother of the Year.

Mrs. Henderson is a youth counselor for the Idaho Juvenile Probation Division here and the wife of Filer farmer Kenneth Henderson.

She was selected from a large number of candidates Saturday in Boise. Mrs. Henderson was sponsored by the Twin Falls Lions Club in the state contest, and state selection was on the basis of material compiled and submitted to a board of judges.

Mrs. Henderson, the mother of a married daughter and married son, has devoted most of her life to working with youth from an early beginning in a grade school teacher and Camp Fire Circle leader in her hometown.

job which she has held the past 12 years as Twin Falls County and now state youth rehabilitation counselor and juvenile probation officer.

She is well known for her work as a volunteer in the Miss America pageant, having worked in the Miss Twin Falls Contest for many years and with local Miss Idaho candidates on numerous occasions.

She has gone to the national pageant in Atlantic City on four occasions, twice as a pageant official and twice with the Miss Idaho candidate when Twin Falls girls have been selected to represent the state.

Born in Kansas, she came to Twin Falls with her parents in 1912 and attended school at Carry in the former Union School, graduated from the Filer High School and College of Idaho. Mrs. Henderson taught school at Union School and Filer in 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920, 1921, 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925, 1926, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935, 1936, 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940, 1941, 1942, 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1948, 1949, 1950, 1951, 1952, 1953, 1954, 1955, 1956, 1957, 1958, 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964, 1965, 1966, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971.

School before her marriage in 1937 to Kenneth Henderson.

Mrs. Henderson served as executive director of the YWCA for five years, being the first such director in the Magic Valley area, and during World War II worked with the local Housing Authority while her husband was engaged in defense work in Nevada.

For 10 years the family resided in Burley where she became Cassia County Juvenile officer.

When her parents decided to give up farming near Filer where they had homesteaded, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson and their two children returned here. They now live on the farm where she was born. Her father was a pioneer farmer and her mother a former school teacher.

Shortly after returning here, Mrs. Henderson became Twin Falls County juvenile officer.

under former Probate Judge Dean Mosher. She has held the position since that time, and under the new court program is a state employee. In her present capacity she also works with CSI and ISU students interested in juvenile rehabilitation work.

Her daughter, Susan, is employed in Magistrate Court in Idaho Falls where her husband is personnel director for Idaho Falls city. She has one granddaughter in Idaho Falls. Kent Henderson, her son, is presently in charge of Child Protective Services with the Department of Public Assistance, Twin Falls. Kenneth Henderson farms and raises Charolais cattle.

Active in the First Baptist Church, Mrs. Henderson also serves as a director of Burley Home and is active in the Magic Valley Officers' Assn., State Education and Juvenile Officers' Assn.

Chile chief unharmed

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—An explosion ripped a hole in the ceiling above the speaker's platform Sunday minutes after Marxist President Salvador Allende had finished an address to 15,000 persons gathered in the indoor sport stadium for a Socialist party rally.

Allende had left the platform and was on his way out of the building when the explosion occurred but returned to help restore order and calm the crowd. He was not injured.

Firemen rushed to the stadium to extinguish a fire in the ceiling that the explosion started. A fire official said afterward the explosion was caused by an electrical short circuit. They brought the small blaze under control quickly.

The secretary general of the Socialist party, Sen. Carlos Altamirano, charged, however, that the blast was caused by "a Molotov cocktail" which he said had been placed in the ceiling "with criminal intentions." He did not elaborate.

Allende, the first popularly elected Marxist president in the Western Hemisphere, had no immediate comment on the explosion.

There were unconfirmed reports that two persons were injured in the stadium.

In his address, Allende said later this week he will reveal a plot against his government which he said has "international ramifications."

Allende did not clarify his remark, but he appeared to be referring to the so-called "copper plot" which has led to the arrest of two Chileans and five foreigners, including an American, Howard C. Edwards, formerly of the Miami, Fla., area.

Those being held for trial in the "copper plot"—which was an alleged scheme to drive down the price of Chilean copper on the world market—lost a bid Saturday to win release from prison when the court of appeals rejected their appeal. It now goes to the Supreme Court Monday or Tuesday.

Rules on campus slated

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education has issued a report urging adoption of procedures to both protect dissent and halt disruption on the nation's college and university campuses.

In considering campus unrest, the commission said a clear distinction exists between dissent and disruption.

"Dissent respects the rights of one's fellow citizens; it relies on persuasion. Disruption is based on disregard for the rights of others," the commission said.

Dr. Clark Kerr, former chancellor on the University of California and now chairman of the Carnegie Commission, released the report at a news conference on the eve of the National Conference of Education which opened in Chicago Sunday.

The 62-page report, signed by Kerr and 17 other prominent educators, business and professional men, will be discussed during the four-day conference.

Kerr said. The McGraw-Hill Book Co. will issue it in book form next month.

The commission called for guidelines to handle "unrest" through democratic processes in an atmosphere of reason.

Professor criticizes ISU program

KINGSTON, R.I. (UPI)—A University of Rhode Island professor warned Sunday dumping may soon pose a more serious threat to the Northeast's fish resources than foreign fleets.

Capt. James C. McCauley, an assistant professor of fisheries and marine technology who also operates a fishing boat out of Point Judith, said use of the ocean as a dumping ground has reached such proportions "it can no longer be ignored."

The fishermen in the Northeast region are fearful that increased dumping will soon cause more damage to our fishing stocks than the foreign fleets or any other influence," he said.

Vote scheduled on SST race

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House is tentatively scheduled to vote Thursday on whether the United States will continue its race with Russia, Britain and France to market a supersonic airliner.

There also may be final congressional approval before week's end of a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 in state and local elections, as well as federal contests.

The vote on the supersonic transport (SST) would be the first on this highly controversial issue in the new Congress. A resolution passed by the last Congress temporarily continued spending on construction of two SST prototypes, and that measure is due to expire March 30.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., the new assistant Democratic Senate floor leader, predicted Sunday that the final outcome this year would be "very close" in view of growing sentiment around the country for protecting the environment and the consumer.

Byrd assessed the outlook on Metromedia's profile radio program.

The voting-age amendment, passed 94 to 0 by the Senate last week, was expected to encounter no such difficulty even though it requires a two-thirds margin of approval in the House. The constitutional change then would need approval by three-fourths of the states.

The amendment was offered after the Supreme Court ruled that last year's statutory lowering of the voting age to 18 was valid for election of the president and members of Congress but not for state and local contests.

Critic predicts all-red Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., the House's most outspoken GOP war critic, said Sunday that all of Vietnam will probably be ruled by the Communists regardless of how soon American troops are withdrawn from South Vietnam.

The effort of the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese "to reunite Vietnam as one country is perfectly understandable to me," said McCloskey, who compared their will to win with that of the American colonies fighting Great Britain.

"And if we pull out of this country in one year or two years or three years," said McCloskey, "I suspect that that will fight that may remain latent in the South Vietnamese and the North Vietnamese is ultimately going to result in a single Vietnam probably ruled by the inheritors of the great national patriot recognized by both sides, Ho Chi Minh."

McCloskey said the late leader of North Vietnam "may be a Communist, but he was also the man that led an eight-year war to achieve an independent Vietnam."

The congressman also said in UPI Washington Window interview that he has requested permission to visit Laos where he hopes "to get into the CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) advance camps to see the nature of the war that they are conducting."

"I'm particularly interested in how they control the air strikes without people on the ground to tell those pilots who is enemy and who is friendly," McCloskey, who has pledged to run in next year's Republican primaries against President Nixon if he does not change his war policies, acknowledged the political risks were great, but "if I am retired to the practice of law in California, I think it will have been a cause well fought."

I. Q. Of 145 and Can't Remember?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports there is a simple technique for acquiring a powerful memory which can pay you real dividends in both business and social advancement and works like magic to give you added poise, necessary self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by remembering accurately everything they see, hear, or read.

Whether in business, at social functions or even in casual conversation, there are times when you can dominate each situation by your ability to remember.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in remembering anything you choose to remember, the publishers have printed full details of their self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Memory," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name, address and zip code to: Memory Studies, 835 Diversey Pkwy., Dept. 8333, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

Question...

Is it true that the Catholic Church has withdrawn its objection to cremation and that Catholics are now free to choose between burial or cremation?

Answer...

May 19, 1886, the Catholic Church issued Canon 1240 which forbade Christian burial to anyone who directed that his body be cremated.

July 5, 1963, Pope Paul VI, without approving cremation or altering the church's preference for burial of the dead, granted permission for cremation subject to a restriction that "... the accompanying public prayers may never be held at the crematorium itself." Recently this restriction was modified when Roman Catholic Priests in England and Wales were given permission by the Vatican to conduct services in a crematorium chapel.

The Vice Chancellor of the Diocese of New York quoted in the New York Times, said the decision to relax the restrictions on cremation was "another step in the updating of the church" and the decision regarding cremation "left the choice up to the individual."

Mum on plans

Nixon dines on fish caught by children

GRAND CAY, Bahamas (UPI)—President Nixon, dining on fresh fish caught by his children, relaxed today on a private island estate overlooking Mermald Beach.

The President, accompanied by his son-in-law and daughter David and Julie Eisenhower, arrived here Sunday afternoon for an overnight visit to the villa of New York industrialist Robert H. Abplanalp, a close personal friend.

While Nixon sat in the sun and swam in a private, palm-fringed lagoon, David and Julie were aboard the Sea Lion II, an 80-foot fishing boat owned by Abplanalp. Their catch included amberjack, yellowtail and one 15-pound grouper prepared for the President's dinner.

David and Julie stayed in a small beach house while the President, Abplanalp and C.G. (Bebe) Rebozo, another close Nixon friend, dined at the main villa.

The President was expected to return to the Florida White House late Monday and fly back to Washington Monday evening. Mrs. Nixon passed up the visit here and remained at their home in Key Biscayne.

Sidewalks slated at Shoshone

SHOSHONE — New sidewalks are being planned by the Shoshone Chamber of Commerce along Youth Rail Street.

Myron Johnson, chamber president, said Monday the sidewalks are needed and if the go-ahead signal is given, then they will be installed at the same time Highway 26 is reconstructed. Work will soon begin on the highway.

The Chamber spokesman said the present curbs and gutters will be taken out, and the sidewalks narrowed to about 8 1/2 feet and new gutters installed.

The Chamber also is investigating the possibility of erecting a sign at each of the entrances to the city with names and meeting dates of the city's various service organizations, Johnson said.

Nixon to okay concept

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration is expected to endorse this week the controversial "no-fault" auto insurance concept which is designed to pay accident claims without assessing blame.

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe will give the Senate Commerce Committee a final report on a two-year study of this type insurance. Under law, the federal government does not regulate the auto insurance industry, but Volpe is expected to recommend that the states make a gradual changeover to the no-fault system.

Under this plan, accident victims are paid by their insurance companies regardless of which party involved was to blame.

However, the system does not altogether rule out lawsuits. In most instances, victims can take their case to court if damages exceed a certain amount.

Area team places

TWIN FALLS — The Bob Juker-Sonny Ward cutter racing team placed second over the weekend in the world's championship cutter races at Tremonton, Utah.

The team of Sonny's Rocket and Star Bar Rocket had the fastest time Friday of 19.25 seconds for 35 yard and the second fastest Saturday with 19.34 seconds.

The team was driven by Jim Evans, Blackfoot. Juker has sold Star Bar Rocket to Doyle Roberts, Blackfoot. Juker is from Buhl and Ward from Twin Falls.

Other teams from Magic Valley placing in the All American Futurity for two-year-olds were the Bob A. Robinson-Ernie Stevens team, eighth; the Bob Juker, George Juker team, 17th and the Jerry Loveland team of Hagerman.

George Juker's team won one race and lost one race in the Three-Year-Old Derby.

Ward said the top 40 teams from the western states were competing in the finals.

Jane Fonda's antiwar revue plays to crowd

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (UPI) — Jane Fonda's antiwar revue, attended by military intelligence agents poorly disguised as hippies, played to packed audiences at its premiere near Ft. Bragg.

Nearly 500 soldiers greeted the troupe's jibes at the military and the Indochina War with cries of "right on" and peace symbol gestures at each of the three performances Saturday and Sunday.

The appearance by Miss Fonda, comedian Dick Gregory and actors Peter Boyle and Donald Sutherland at the Haymarket Square Coffeehouse was the first of 20 engagements the troupe plans near U.S. military installations.

Soldiers undeterred by telephoned bomb threats and the presence of military intelligence agents easily recognized in wigs and hippie garb, paid $12.50 each for a hard wooden seat or standing room along the black, poster-covered walls.

The GIs roared when Dick Gregory reported that Army intelligence agents had spied on him and then quipped: "The Army ain't got no intelligence."

Boyle, star of the motion picture "Joe" and Sutherland, star of "M.A.S.H.," turned sportscaster and gave an account of a Southeast Asian battle as if it were a baseball game.

"It's too bad the President wasn't here to throw out the first grenade," Sutherland said. Gregory drew another burst of applause when he suggested that actor John Wayne and other "old men" fight the war in Indochina.

The troupe turned to the loft-like coffeehouse and its crude corner stage when the Cumberland County Memorial Auditorium demanded a cash deposit.

Permission to use the auditorium had come on a last minute verdict by Judge J. Braxton Craven, a U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

The entertainers had planned originally to stage the show at Ft. Bragg, but Lt. Gen. John J. Tolson, commander of the post, reviewed the script and declared that it would be "detrimental" to the troops.

News of Servicemen

HEYBURN — Sgt. Felix Cantu Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Vantu, Heyburn, has received the Air Force Commendation medal for meritorious service in Vietnam. He was honored at Norton Air Force Base, Calif., where he now serves with a unit of the Aerospace audio-visual service. His wife, Juanita, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Davila, Burley.

FAIRFIELD — Airman Martin C. Cox, son of Paul E. Cox and Mrs. Audrey E. Cox, Fairfield, has graduated at Kessler Air Force Base, Miss., from the Air Force radar operator course. He is a graduate of Camas County High School. He is being assigned to Havre Air Force Station, Mont., for duty with the aerospace defense command.

Class Of '71

Idaho State Journal ONCE AGAIN it's the time of year when job recruiters from business and industry fan out to the nation's college campuses...

With the gradual winding down of the Vietnam war, fewer seniors are going into military service or entering graduate school to beat the draft...

On the basis of a survey of 1,000 firms, the College Placement Council predicted in mid-January that college recruiting visits would drop 21 per cent this year...

But Jack Shingleton, placement director at Michigan State University, calls the situation there "the worst job market in the 26-year-history of the placement bureau..."

THE JOB CRUNCH for 1971 graduates comes on top of the tightening employment market that confronted those who finished college last year...

Small liberal arts schools are being hit the hardest by the cutbacks in recruiting activity. Schedules of recruiter visits for February and March are down by 40 per cent at Amherst College...

University, the schedule is off 60 per cent. Some recruiters have dropped visits to the smaller schools because they furnish fewer prospects...

HIRING CUTBACKS have been most severe in the aerospace, airline and chemical industries, but job offers are down across the board...

Average starting monthly pay for the class of '71, reports a Northwestern University survey, will be: engineering, $885; accounting, $845; sales-marketing, $742...

The survey of 191 businesses indicates that more women will be hired from the class of 1971. Salaries for women will be higher, too...

The greater selectivity of job recruiters is having an effect on job seekers. Students are coming in for interviews "clean-shaven, wearing white shirts and ties..."

It may be disheartening for a graduate who has worked more or less diligently for four years or more, only to find his prospects uncertain at best...

WASHINGTON — To Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's deposition at a party the other night that President Nixon's employees "have got to change the Nixon image..."

It is Mitchell's position that Nixon's image makers "are not doing a thing for the President," and that therefore our leader is "the most misunderstood and underestimated President..."

I am sure Mitchell did not clear his remarks with Press Secretary Ron Ziegler, or Herb Klein, the President's director of communications...

Nixon is congenitally compelled to take a job, any job, seriously. Perhaps he would like occasionally to get off an Adlai Stevensonian BON MOT...

It wouldn't work because it would be alien to the basic Richard Nixon. The President is a reasonably amiable man and as good-natured as most of us, considering the circumstances of his position...

Nixon is congenitally compelled to take a job, any job, seriously. Perhaps he would like occasionally to get off an Adlai Stevensonian BON MOT...

me so sick to the stomach as the forced-civil utterings of certain Beautiful People.

When the atmosphere is right, as Sammy Davis once remarked, an Adlai Stevenson or a John Kennedy could get laughs merely by saying "hello..."

We tend to be a querulous people. In one breath we demand that our President possess great dignity, and in the next we complain because he is not Flip Wilson...

As a performer, Nixon might fall short of the term well enough, but I suggest that John Mitchell nevertheless leave it alone. The President may be a square, but as a personality he is believable...

Besides, sometimes Richard Nixon assumes a role that warms the cockles of a large segment of the population. Such an instance was his remark to a physical fitness bunch that he hated exercise...

"After Careful Consideration, We've Decided to Transplant Something or Other!"

PAUL HARVEY

The Monster

An elaborate expedition of bona-fide American scientists in Scotland has contacted the Loch Ness "monster" by sonar...

For centuries sailing ships adorned their bows with a likeness of a sea serpent such as no modern man has ever seen.

Was that image based on fantasy or fact? Is it possible that monsters of the deep, retreating before the advance of civilization, are yet alive?

Tales of a sea "monster" in Loch Ness in Scotland were first recorded in the most ancient Gaelic legends. There was a "published account" in 565 A.D.

But as recently as today, the Royal Air Force affirms that there is something, the RAF believes "a very large animal," in those waters.

Dr. Roy Mackal is a respected biochemist at the University of Chicago. During a vacation in Scotland in 1965 he became intrigued by all the prevalent public concern, the "armies of believers..."

Aware of recent innovations, sonar and other sounding devices, Dr. Mackal decided the "monster" legend was worthy of a proper scientific investigation.

The only evidence which will ever satisfy the skeptics is a carcass. He does not yet have that.

But the evidence he does "have," if inconclusive, is fascinating!

With assorted sonar devices for underwater tracking, Dr. Mackal and associates have maintained a fix on "something or something" for as long as 13 minutes at a time.

From sifted photographs and visual accounts and from sonar, the whatzit would appear to be about 25 to 30 feet long. If it's an eel, it would weigh many thousands of pounds.

Lending further substance to the "eel theory" is the discovery of larvae — eggs — up to six feet long which have been recovered from the sea off the Great Barrier Reef in the New Zealand-Australia area.

The ration of known adult eels to their respective larvae indicates that the adult of a six-foot eel might be as long as a hundred feet.

It is uncertain, however, whether these South Pacific findings relate to the whataits in Scotland.

Dr. Mackal is embarrassed by the word "monster" with its sinister implications. Whatever is in Loch Ness is not all that dreadful and, more than likely, is a harmless fish-eater.

Further, similar sightings have been reported in many lakes similar in ecology to the loch at Ness, Scotland. In each case, the lakes are close to the sea. And eels have been known to travel considerable distances overland.

Scientific evidence that there is something in Loch Ness is now sufficient to convince contributors such as Disney and World Book Encyclopedia. The ultimate objective of this year's quest will be "to capture a specimen alive."

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Even as national Democratic leaders are hailing the rise of moderates to governorship power in southern states like South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Arkansas, their party in Mississippi is going farther off the reservation than ever.

The surface print says the Mississippi Democratic party has adopted the McGovern commission reforms designed to make more open and representative the process of selecting delegates for the 1972 national convention which will choose the party presidential nominee.

This came easy, because the officially recognized party organization in Mississippi is thoroughly separated from the real political power-wielders, who regard the national party as poison.

The official party, composed almost wholly of blacks and a modest number of white liberal loyalists, makes no command decisions which in practice have compelling effect within the state on the dominating rebel party group presently in authority.

The recognized organization is led by two blacks, National Committeeman Charles Evers, mayor of Fayette, for a state convention to choose presidential delegates probably will be ignored by the strong national conservatives who run the state politically.

National leaders may say, "So what?" The consequence of such a boycott would be simply to assure the acceptance at the convention of a delegation chosen by the "official" party. The genuine power-wielders could gain a place only by mounting a successful challenge to this delegation before the credentials committee. It is not a likely prospect.

Yet it may not be all that cheering to have this neat observance of the new party legalities. For the split-off of Mississippi's actual governing Democratic faction is becoming so severe as to dim for a long time any hope of winning the state for the national party's presidential nominee.

The breach is being widened this year as Mississippi prepares to elect a new governor. The incumbent, Gov. John Bell Williams, cannot succeed himself.

Punt on the books in 1970 was a new primary law moving voting day from August to October and providing that all candidates run without party labels.

This means that Democrats, Republicans and Independents are to be tossed into a single, nameless hopper, with the top two vote-getters to compete against each other in the general election three weeks later.

Since the state party's conservatives led by Williams and others have been having trouble hanging onto the "Democratic" label anyway, the new primary law is something less than disturbing to them.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

A Question

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it all right to sleep in a room with an oil burner going day and night with no ventilation? — M.A.R.

No, it certainly is NOT. Doing that, some night you may go to sleep forever.

Almost anything that burns produces (or can produce) carbon monoxide, which is a deadly poison.

Most people by now are aware that the exhaust from an automobile is dangerous because it contains monoxide (although we still have people accidentally killing themselves by running the engine in a closed garage or sitting in the car with the motor running and the car closed up tight. Monoxide still seeps up into the car).

In the case of an automobile, the monoxide results from gasoline burning with only limited oxygen available.

You get monoxide from burning oil, wood, coal, or anything else.

You may get away with an oil burner in a room with no ventilation — that is, for a time. But you are running a terrible risk. Enough air may get into the room (through cracks, under a door, around the windows, etc.) when the burner isn't running very steadily.

But come a cold night, the burner runs harder, uses up more oxygen, produces more carbon monoxide. It takes only small traces of monoxide to make a person sleepy, perhaps give him a headache, and in a fearfully short time cause death.

No burners of any sort should be used without proper venting — that is, without a chimney or the equivalent to carry the carbon monoxide fumes outside.

You can smell some of the fumes from burners, of course — but the monoxide itself has no odor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About six months ago I thought my glasses needed changing so I went to have them checked and was told I have glaucoma and in one eye the vision is damaged some.

I am using the recommended eye drops four times a day and he says the pressure is under control but the damaged eye gets no better. Any advice is most welcome. — E.O.

Glaucoma isn't the kind of thing that can be cured. After it has caused damage to vision, it's too late to undo it. The important thing is to prevent it from doing any further damage — as it will, unless curbed. So keep on with your medication so your vision won't get worse. Untreated glaucoma can lead to blindness.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a very embarrassing and uncomfortable problem, pinworms. I am past middle age and didn't know that anyone my age could have them.

Through the day I am not bothered, but about 6:30 a.m. they start irritating, and make me so nervous I could scream. — Mrs. C.R.

Oh, yes, adults can have pinworms. The reason they bother you in the morning is that the ornery critters emerge at night to lay their eggs and you become aware of their activity.

These pests apparently bother some people more than others; with present medications they can be eliminated effectively; but if someone else in the family also has pinworms (but not know it) then the invisibly small eggs will continue to be in the household, and you go through the whole misery again. So everybody in the household should be treated at the same time.

Scrupulous hygiene of the hands is essential, particularly before eating or touching the mouth — scrub hands, keep nails cut short, and clean the nails often and carefully.

Years To Go

Pendleton East Oregonian.

For almost 21 years American troops have been guarding an 18-mile stretch which is the classic invasion route from North Korea to Seoul, the capital of South Korea. Americans have been killed each year along that line that divides South Korea from North Korea...

As of June 30 that will end. As of that date the United States will reduce its strength of some 63,000 men in South Korea by 20,000 and thereafter American troops will be responsible only for guard duties at the truce village of Panmunjom.

Even after that long period of substantial American presence in South Korea it was not easy for the U.S. to cut back. The South Korean government demanded and got a pledge that departing Americans will leave some $100 million worth of supplies behind, plus about 100 American military installations, plus some $140 million in U.S. military aid this year and continuing aid for the next five years...

...the sending of a wing of 54 Phantom F4 bombers from Japan to permanent stations in South Korea, plus an unspecified number of radar surveillance aircraft to protect the coastline and more Phantom F4s for South Korea's air force.

Phantom F4 bombers from Japan to permanent stations in South Korea, plus an unspecified number of radar surveillance aircraft to protect the coastline and more Phantom F4s for South Korea's air force.

In the Korean war and for many years thereafter the United States has paid a big price and the end is not in sight.

The United States has been involved in the Vietnam conflict for 10 years. It is the longest war in the nation's history. President Nixon hopes to have Vietnamized the war by mid-1972. Anybody who reads the history of our involvement in Korea and thinks we will be substantially out of Vietnam by mid-1972 is a dreamer.

The best hope is that the records of involvement in Korea and Vietnam will deter future presidents of the United States from committing Americans to fighting in Asia. — Pendleton East Oregonian.

Ski symposium LaCroix set for S.V. to head students

KETCHUM — Leif Odmark, former coach of the American Olympic Cross Country Ski team and veteran Sun Valley ski instructor, will head Sun Valley's first cross country ski symposium — scheduled for March 22 and 23. If there is enthusiastic response to the program, Odmark plans to institute a regular series of instruction in this fast growing recreational sport. Beginners classes will be held March 22 and advanced lessons on March 23. The gentle terrain of the Sun Valley Golf course provides ideal area for perfecting proper kick-glide technique.

GOODENO — Jeff LaCroix has been elected Gooding High School Student Body President for the 1977-78 school year. Mr. James Muscat, principal, announced. Jeff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold La LaCroix, is currently junior class president and a member of the varsity basketball team. Other newly elected student body officers are Joe Daniels, vice-president; Carol Zlatnik, secretary, and Julie Simis, treasurer.

Financing course starts Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — Frank Batten, vice president of the Bank of Idaho branch in Twin Falls, will instruct a 10-week course in Real Estate Finance, beginning at 7 a.m. Wednesday in the Idaho Power Co. auditorium. The course will be taught each Wednesday for 10 consecutive weeks from 7 to 9 a.m. in cooperation with the University of Idaho and the Idaho Real Estate Commission, as part of the commission's Certificate Program. Mrs. Joan Brawley, executive secretary of the Twin Falls Board of Realtors, said the course will cost $20, including the textbook, for realtors, or $25 for anyone not licensed as a real estate broker or salesman. Enrolees will register at the first class session. Mrs. Brawley said those attending must park in the Twin Falls Mortuary parking lot and not in the Idaho Power lot. Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Brawley at 733-9633.

Electrical power deficit predicted

BOISE — A major electrical power deficit in the Pacific Northwest could be felt by the winter of 1973-74, according to the 1970 Review of Power Planning in the Pacific Northwest, a publication of the Pacific Northwest River Basins

Commission's Power Planning Committee. The committee publishes an annual review tying together projections both of future Northwest power needs and future power potential. Veri King, Assistant Director of Development for the Idaho Water Resource Board, heads the committee. The report predicts a deficit even under favorable circumstances of 396,000 kilowatts in the Pacific Northwest within three years. By that time, total power resources in the area will amount to 22,418,000 kilowatts, but the expected demand should be around 22,814,000 kilowatts. The figures quoted are projected loads without interruptible power — low priority power claims which are shunted off circuits first in emergencies — and the deficit would be over 2 million kilowatts if interruptible power demands were met. The review blames delays in the installation of generating facilities — some caused by budgetary limitations — and the long lead time between recognition of a power need and construction of a plant to fill the need, as well as other factors, for the projected shortage, which it terms "substantial in both preceding and succeeding winters," along with 1973-74. Despite the undeniable specter of a power dearth, King remains somewhat optimistic, pointing out that the report covers only the Pacific Northwest and that power sources from outside the area are being investigated. This source might be able to supply power, although at a higher price than normal.

Cainsville, Mo.
My doctor ordered an operation to see if the tiny symptom was nothing — or an ominous early warning. "A specialist will do the surgery on Monday," he told me. "That's five days — so go home and enjoy them."
Five days! I had always been so confident that I had plenty of time. Suddenly it rushed by like jeweled hummingbird wings. As I stepped outside the doctor's office, every molecule in me seemed curiously more alive, tingling with a heightened sense of wonder. The sun seemed marvelously warm, each tree unique.
At home that evening I served dinner, using candles and flowers, goblets, the silverware I'd been saving for "later." The children's eyes shone with disbelief. Suddenly they were heartbreakingly dear to me. With boundless delight I watched their play, heard their laughter.
I did so many things those days. I planted flowers and fruit trees — a project I'd been planning for years. I took time to walk about our farm with the family, something I'd always been too busy to do.
We had a picnic and went swimming. I met my husband's eyes over the capering, splashing children, and it was like being newly in love again.
Sunday evening in church it was like hearing the sermon and hymns for the first time. I knew how wonderful my life was, how much I had to be grateful for. I loved it, my family and the whole world overwhelmingly.
Late Monday I awoke to the sting of a new incision. In my husband's relieved eyes I read that all was well.
So I go back to my demanding life, the love and work, the family and friends.
But I go back with a difference. I know now that to live richly and rewardingly, I must savor each moment, let no golden chance to do good slip by. Experience — children and friends now, live life gratefully one day at a time.

Longer surgery sought

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The University of Washington surgical research team that developed a deep-cooling technique which permits open-heart operations on infants is seeking ways to lengthen the time permitted for such operations.

Since the basic research began in 1963, life-saving surgery has been performed on 31 infants too tiny to tolerate a heart-lung machine used on older persons.

In the procedure of deep-cooling, the child is placed in an ice bath and his temperature is lowered to about 60 degrees. The body functions are slowed by the cooling so that the oxygen requirement of the brain is almost zero.

Surgeons then open the child's chest, stop the heart, make necessary repairs and restart the heart. It takes about 50 minutes to complete the operation.

The relative success of the technique has led the American Heart Association to approve additional financial support for the project so ways can be found of not only lengthening the time a heart can be stopped but also ways of doing the surgical repairs more rapidly.

Leader of the research team is Dr. Hitoshi Morhi, assistant professor of surgery.

The suspended animation technique is called "Deep Hypothermia." It is patterned after a method worked out in Japan about eight years ago. The first operation of this kind performed by the University team was done in August, 1965.

The heart-lung machine, a bio-engineering development of the 1950s, circulates a patient's blood outside his body, thus allowing the surgeon to operate directly on the heart. This device is used upon thousands of patients each year. However, babies with potentially correctable heart defects still die because they cannot tolerate the machine.

Rock group selects new home

MOUGINS, France (UPI) — The Rolling Stones have decided to live in the tiny village of Mottings, home of Pablo Picasso, on the French Riviera, the newspaper-Paris Jour said today.

Mougins, perched on a small rocky hill between Cannes and Grasse, isn't looking forward to it, the newspaper said.

Local residents fear their peace and quiet will be shattered by the constant invasion of pop fans.

"Mougins isn't another St. Tropez, you know," local councilman Jean Court was quoted as saying. "People who live here only want peace. No other village on the coast can guarantee such calm."

The newspaper, quoting estate agent sources, said no houses had yet been bought for the five Rolling Stones — Mick Jagger, Bill Wyman, Charlie Watts, Mick Taylor and Keith Richards.

Key fort

SHARM EL SHEIKH, the fortress with the Beau Geste name, which stands sentinel over the Tiran Strait on the toe of the Sinai Peninsula, is one of the territories Israel has no intention of withdrawing from. (UPI)

Israel insists on unhampered canal

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Diplomatic sources, having analyzed the peace proposals Israel published on March 7, say one point the Israelis did not ask of Egypt could become the stumbling block to peace in the Middle East.

In the proposals sent Feb. 26 to U.N. special envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, to be passed along to Egypt, Israel gave eight undertakings to Egyptians and asked for a similar eight in return.

The sixth point Israel asked for was this: "An explicit undertaking to guarantee free passage for Israel ships and cargoes through the Suez Canal."

Diplomatic sources said noticeably missing from this clause, and from the Israeli document, was a request for the free and unimpeded navigation of Israel ships through the Strait of Tiran to its Red Sea port of Eilat.

The inference, they said, was obvious. Israel clearly had signalled, once again, its no intention of withdrawing from Sharm El Sheikh, the fortress with the Beau Geste name, which stands sentinel over the Tiran Strait on the toe of the Sinai Peninsula.

The sources said Israel's refusal to withdraw from Sharm El Sheikh, even to make way for an international force, could in the next few weeks become a bigger hazard to peace than its refusal to withdraw all the way back to the 1967 pre-war lines.

Israel never has made any secret of its intention to stay in Sharm El Sheikh. Several weeks ago Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said, "I would rather have Sharm El Sheikh without peace than peace without Sharm El Sheikh."

In an interview with British television last weekend, Prime Minister Golda Meir said, "Peace without Sharm El Sheikh is no peace. We have had that before."

What the Premier was referring to was one of Israel's bitterest memories. After the 1956 war it relinquished Sharm El Sheikh to a United Nations force. In mid-May 1967 the United Nations relinquished it to the Egyptians.

This paved the way for the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser's closure of the Strait to Israeli shipping, and directly to the six day war.

Anti-American forces said behind Turk coup

By United Press International

Behind the downfall of Turkish Premier Suleyman Demirel's government stands a band of anti-American terrorists styling themselves after "urban guerrilla" movements in Latin America and the Palestinian commandos.

But the Turkish People's Liberation Army (TPLA) has little cause for rejoicing. In bringing down Demirel's civilian rule they now face the full fury of Turkey's pro-Western armed forces.

Probably no single factor is more responsible for Demirel's downfall than the kidnapping last Thursday by TPLA guerrillas of four American airmen from a radar installation near the capital of Ankara.

The airmen were released unharmed Monday night. Military commanders settled in the wings of the government's inability to crush the TPLA movement, which demands withdrawal of American forces.

The nation forms the key southeast flank in Europe of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). Soviet warships must pass through its coastal straits en route from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean.

Turkey's armed forces, the strongest military force in the Middle East, watched with growing concern as the TPLA grew over the past few months into a sophisticated terrorist organization.

Using the tactics of urban guerrillas in Latin America, the TPLA attacked police stations, hurled bombs and other explosives at American buildings and at the homes of American families.

The terrorists robbed banks with impunity. Turkish guerrillas crossed the border with Syria almost at will on their way to and from Palestinian guerrilla camps.

The TPLA's strength is not known. But its aim to undermine Turkey's standing as a staunch NATO member is clear.

Turkey's loss to NATO would rob the west of a steadfast ally, vital military bases of the Soviet Union's Southern flank and a military force that contributed some of the toughest troops in the Korean conflict.

Is U.S. foreign policy responsive to citizenry?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Events of the past year have demonstrated that a determined President can do almost anything he pleases in the field of foreign policy—including involve the nation in war—provided he's willing to accept the political consequences.

This basic fact about the American system of government is now acknowledged even by the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

Fulbright has been trying since 1967 to win a larger congressional voice in foreign policy. For a time last year, it seemed he might be getting results.

Only a few months later, however, U.S. forces were providing major air and logistical support for South Vietnamese troops carrying the war across the borders of both Cambodia and Laos.

Moreover, Nixon told a Feb. 18 news conference he would continue to use U.S. airpower wherever, whenever and to whatever extent he deemed necessary to "protect our remaining forces in South Vietnam". He declined even to rule out American support of a South Vietnamese invasion of North Vietnam.

policy, it is very rarely, determinative of a President's decisions on particular questions of strategy or timing.

But in the long run, public opinion can have an important impact on foreign policy.

His whole strategy of "Vietnamization" and gradual U.S. withdrawal is aimed at making the unpopular war a relatively minor concern of the electorate by the time of the 1972 presidential election campaign. He is willing to take risks now—both on the warfronts in Indochina and with public opinion at home—in order to minimize the danger that a major flareup in fighting will occur in the summer or fall of 1972.

U.S. backs Mideast U.N. force

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is understood to believe that a United Nations police force, including Soviet and American troops, could adequately guarantee Israel's security if she gave up the territory taken from Egypt in the 1967 war.

That is one of the reasons behind the intensified U.S. efforts to promote the acceptance of the idea of an international force under the control of the U.N. Security Council to support security guarantees contained in any Egyptian-Israeli peace agreement.

Such an arrangement would involve Israel relinquishing control of the Gaza Strip as well as the commanding strong point at the southern tip of the Sinai Peninsula, known as Sharm El-Sheikh. Israel, in a recent message to U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring flatly refused to return to the pre-1967 boundaries and specifically refused to withdraw from Sharm El-Sheikh.

London girls get birth pill

LONDON (UPI) — Health authorities have been providing girls under 16 with birth control pills and other contraceptive devices, government officials said Saturday.

The officials described as outdated a report in the London Sun which said the government is contemplating letting family planning clinics give contraceptives to girls under 16.

The officials said the government authorized local health authorities and family planning associations three years ago to supply such devices to girls under 16 if they were known to be promiscuous and had their parents' consent.

"Our feeling was and still is that this might well be the best thing for girls who were incorrigibly promiscuous rather than see them have endless pregnancies which could impair their physical and mental health," a Health Ministry official said.

The Senate sought to assert its authority by voting to bar use of military funds for U.S. operations in Cambodia. The House refused to go along with so sweeping a restraint. But Congress eventually passed, and President Nixon signed, legislation forbidding use of U.S. ground combat forces in Cambodia, Laos or Thailand.

Fulbright and other lawmakers felt Congress had clearly indicated its opposition to U.S. involvement in any widening of the Indochina War.

In theory, the U.S. Constitution vests in Congress the exclusive power to declare war, to raise and maintain armed forces, and to provide for the common defense.

But it also names the President commander-in-chief of the armed forces and entrusts him with the conduct of foreign relations.

The historic shift of the war-making decision from Congress to the President has been accentuated by the advent of intercontinental missiles with nuclear warheads. Should this country find itself in ultimate confrontation with another nuclear power, it would inevitably be the President, not Congress, who decided when or whether to press the red button.

As Fulbright admitted, there is little Congress can do about this situation. But observe his choice of words. He did not say that Congress could do nothing. Because it does have one formidable power with which every President must reckon—the power of the purse.

Congress may not be able to prevent a President from ordering the nation's armed forces into action anywhere on the globe, but it can eventually halt any military operation simply by refusing to vote funds to sustain it.

What role does public opinion play? Even when it is extremely articulate, as it has been in the dissent of students and others from Indochina

Wilbur Mills draft eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. James A. Burke, a Boston Democrat, says there is increasing talk in Congress about starting a nationwide draft movement to recruit Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., as a presidential candidate.

In addition there are reports for Mills' name in the New Hampshire primary one year from now.

Political observers doubt such a Mills movement would ever get off the ground, however, and the 61-year-old Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee says "I am not a candidate for president."

As a vice presidential possibility Mills would make more sense, some observers note, especially on a ticket with a northerner such as Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, or Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Mills is perhaps the most powerful single force on major legislation in Congress. His word often takes the shape of law on Social Security legislation, trade, taxes and welfare—all vote getting—or vote losing—issues.

Burke says a nationwide petition movement could get thousands of names from congressional state, local, business, labor, civic and other leaders. He also contends Mills has a groundswell of support in all sections of the country.

The discussion among House members, Burke says, originated not from the South, but from Northerners. Burke sits with Mills on the Ways and Means panel.

Mills is considered a Southern conservative on most issues. Burke says he is "a moderate." On the war, Mills has voted with both the Nixon and Johnson administrations for their policies.

Americans for Democratic Action gave Mills a 7 rating out of a possible 100 for the 2nd session of the last Congress. The conservative Americans for Constitutional Action gave him a 59 out of 100 score.

No president ever has been elected directly from the House. The last president elected who served in the House was Republican William McKinley. Ten former presidents were elected to both House and Senate.

McCarthy, San Rafael, Calif., said the Army wouldn't let him out of Vietnam until a week after his tour of duty ended because he wouldn't cut his hair. # Tests show adverse effects from fortified dog foods

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Clinical tests have shown adverse effects from exclusive feeding of all-meat dog food, and veterinarians also have raised questions about fortified meat dog foods promoted as a "complete" or "balanced" diet, it was learned today.

Two federal agencies, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and Federal Trade Commission (FTC), are investigating labeling and advertising claims for canned dog foods made exclusively of meat and meat byproducts, or of meat and its byproducts fortified with vitamins and minerals.

Heavily promoted, these products have seized a growing share of the pet food market, which itself soared to $1.16 billion last year.

"The public has been deceived," Dr. Mark L. Morris Jr., Topeka, Kan., said of advertisements claiming that dogs thrive on exclusive feeding of all-meat products.

"Some fellows sitting up on Madison Avenue dreamed up the all-meat dog food," said Morris, a doctor of veterinary medicine with a doctorate in animal nutrition. "It's a good way to sell a product because people think of the dog as a meat eater. But it doesn't happen to be scientifically true."

"Dozens of veterinarians have told me they were treating many dogs for conditions resulting from exclusive all-meat diets," he said.

Morris and two other veterinarians conducted a 12-week study comparing the health of five puppies fed exclusively of an all-meat dog food with four littermates fed a dog food containing grains and other ingredients as well as meat.

The results were published in the Feb. 15 issue of the prestigious Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association (JAVMA).

"A syndrome was produced in the experimental dogs (those fed the all-meat product) that included loose stools, reduced food intake, reduced weight gain, pain, lameness, abnormal body postures, behavioral changes, anorexia and death," the scientists concluded. Anorexia is loss of appetite.

In a telephone interview, Morris emphasized that the all-meat product he tested was not fortified with vitamins and minerals, as are many of the "meat and meat byproducts" dog foods now marketed.

However, in a March 2 letter to the FTC, Dr. Donald A. Price, a veterinarian who edits JAVMA, said this about meat and meat byproducts dog foods fortified with vitamins and minerals:

"There are unresolved questions about the advisability of feeding such a diet exclusively because of its high protein content, particularly for mature dogs who often have some degree of kidney impairment and for pregnant and lactating bitches. Controlled investigations are needed to settle these questions."

Civil rights leader's body brought to N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The body of Whitney M. Young Jr. returned Sunday to New York, headquarters of his years-long campaign for civil rights, to receive the last tributes of grieving friends and associates.

A hearse was waiting at John F. Kennedy International Airport when the U.S. Air Force jet President Nixon sent to Africa to bring the body home landed at 4:39 p.m. EST after a flight of almost 13 hours. Young's widow and some 150 friends and dignitaries met the plane.

Young, 49-year-old executive director of the National Urban League, died of a heart attack Thursday while swimming in the Atlantic Ocean near Lagos, Nigeria. He had been attending a meeting of African leaders there.

The plane returning the body stopped en route to New York in Dakar, Senegal, to pick up Young's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boles, and their young son.

Others aboard the jet included civil rights leader Jesse Jackson, Brig. Gen. Daniel James Jr., the highest ranking Negro in the U.S. Air Force, former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, and U.S. Reps. John Conyers of Michigan and Louis Stokes of Ohio, both Democrats.

George Bush, U.S. envoy to the United Nations, represented President Nixon in the group waiting at the airport. He termed Young's death "a tragic loss" and said that "in his quiet way he accomplished as much as anyone in this field."

Others on hand at the airport included Mayor and Mrs. John V. Lindsay, Edwin Ogbu, Nigeria's delegate to the United Nations and Jackie Robinson.

A wooden crate, covered by an American flag and containing Young's casket, was lowered into the waiting hearse which then proceeded to a Manhattan funeral home.

From the funeral home the casket will be taken to the Riverside Church on Manhattan's upper West Side in preparation for a succession of services culminating with interment Wednesday in Lexington, Ky., where Nixon will deliver a final eulogy.

The body will lie in state at the church from noon Monday until 10 a.m. Tuesday, when funeral services begin.

Dr. Benjamin E. Mays, president emeritus of Morehouse College in Atlanta; Dr. Howard Thurman, dean emeritus of Boston University's Marsh Chapel, and the Rev. Peter Samson, pastor of the White Plains (N.Y.) Community Church Unitarian, will participate in the services.

The family has asked mourners to omit flowers, suggesting that contributions be made to the National Urban League instead.

Study aimed at food disease

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The frightening possibility that a single new disease agent could destroy an entire U.S. food crop has spurred a study aimed at preventing such disasters, scientists said Sunday.

The National Research Council said that an investigation of the "genetic vulnerability" of major food crops will be made by a new committee of the council's Agricultural Board.

The committee will first study the 1970-71 corn blight infestation which destroyed about 10 per cent of the crop nationwide and as much as 60 per cent of it in some Southern states.

The epidemic in corn, a crop not generally subject to such attacks, apparently was triggered by a new and extremely virulent strain of the Southern leaf blight fungus. The disease has been discovered as far north as the Dakotas, Minnesota, and New York.

From the fact that superior kinds of hybrid seed corn used throughout the nation are genetically vulnerable to the new fungus strain.

Seed corn companies are turning as rapidly as possible to hybrids that do not have this susceptibility to fungal attack.

After studying the corn blight and making suggestions on how to ease the situation in 1971, the special committee will investigate the possible genetic weaknesses of other crops such as sorghum, wheat, and rice.

Costs of the current study will be met in part by a grant of $75,000 from funds assigned to the Research Corporation of New York City by Donald F. Jones, who patented a process for producing hybrid seed corn.

The research council is an arm of the National Academy of Sciences, which was created in 1963 to advise the government on science and technology.

Bill on schools tabled

BOISE (UPI)—Boise Republican Sen. Dean Summers, a Republican, says a bill tabled by the house could add millions of dollars to Idaho's Public School Endowment fund.

Since 1963, Summers and Pocatello Democratic Sen. Darrell Manning have been attempting to require advertising of state land leases as they expire, to stimulate competition for the leases and increase lease rates.

Last week their bill was approved by the Senate, but was tabled by the House by a vote of 37-29.

Summers said he has never seen a bill tabled during his five terms as a legislator and said it would require a two-thirds vote to bring it back for consideration.

Militants bomb Irish pump station

BELFAST, North Ireland (UPI)—The terrorist dynamiting of a sewage-pumping station near the Irish border was reported Sunday while Protestant militants pressed their drive to oust Prime Minister James Chichester-Clark.

About 600 troops sealed off the village of Banbury and surrounding areas of County Tyrone after the village pumping station was blown up late Saturday night. There were no casualties.

Political sources said the British government has rejected plans for an immediate withdrawal of all remaining British troops from the area.

th outlawed Irish Republic Army (IRA), blamed for killing three British soldiers near Belfast last week.

"Protestant militants predicted Chichester-Clark will be ousted within a week and replaced by a rightwing member of the governing Unionist party who will deal more severely with Roman Catholic extremists."

"The country is now against him," said John McKeague, chairman of the Shankill Defense Committee, a militant Protestant organization in Belfast. "He must go and we believe he will be gone before the week is out."

Army considering spying charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Army has indicated for the first time that it is considering filing formal charges against high-ranking officers and men involved in the military surveillance system that spied on millions of Americans.

The information came in an exchange of letters disclosed Sunday between Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., who is heading a Senate investigation into the Army's domestic intelligence network, and Defense Department General Counsel J. Fred Buzhardt.

Ervin said he asked the Pentagon to allow three generals to testify how they were involved in collecting information on such well known citizens as Illinois Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, the late civil rights leader Whitney Young and an estimated 7.6 million other Americans. The officers were Maj. Gen. Joseph A. McChristian, Maj. Gen. William H. Blakefield and Maj. Gen. William P. Yarborough.

In a reply dated March 9, Buzhardt refused Ervin's request.

"I am sure you will agree that in order to protect the due process rights of any persons who might be the subject of criminal or administrative charges as a result of current investigations, it would be inappropriate for Gen. McChristian, Blakefield and Yarborough to testify before your subcommittee on this subject at this time," Buzhardt said.

The Pentagon counsel also indicated that "two organizational units of the Army" were under investigation in the spying affair.

Governor raps housing lack

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has told a meeting of the state Office of Economic Opportunity there is a very severe housing shortage for elderly and low-income families in Idaho.

Speaking at a workshop of the state OEO, Andrus said "we are prepared to move in any direction that is necessary to bring about adequate, decent housing for the people of the state of Idaho."

Wendell Peabody, training and resources coordinator for the state OEO, said the purpose of the meeting was to acquaint workers involved in low-cost housing programs with the resources that are available. He says there are programs available for both urban and rural areas in the state.

Expenditures deceiving

BOISE (UPI) — Max Yost, executive manager of the Idaho Taxpayers Assn., said Saturday the total expenditures for the Department of Education are deceiving.

Why officer quits post

MIAMI (UPI)—At 2:02 p.m. last Tuesday, it began to sprinkle. A quick glance upward told motorcycle cop Andy Travis a downpour was just seconds away. He spotted a gas station in the next block, changed lanes and hunched behind the windshield on his just-tuned Harley Davidson police special.

A shot pierced the traffic noise on busy U.S. Highway 1. Travis looked over his left shoulder at a half-dozen rows of low-rent ghetto apartments that line the six-lane highway between Coconut Grove and Coral Gables.

He saw two black men step around the corner of one of the pink, two-story apartments. Another shot rang out. Travis saw the muzzle flash, but not the gun.

He screwed his right hand 90 degrees and his big Harley leaped forward. He skidded into the service station broadside, hollered for everyone to duck and grabbed his radio mike. Within minutes, half the motorcycle cops in Miami were combing the area for the snipers. They come quick when a buddy is in trouble.

The search proved futile. Travis—unhurt—thanked his buddies for their help, mounted his Harley and headed for his South Dade County beat.

Two days later, Andy Travis ended a distinguished 10-year career as a motorcycle patrolman with the Dade County Public Safety Department.

Sheriff E. Wilson Purdy called his resignation "another tragedy in the continuing assault on the police that is apparently designed to intimidate society into submission to the lawless element."

Andy Travis, a six-foot-one-inch, 200-pound father of a four-year-old daughter and 10-month-old son, explained his resignation, which came five days after Miami policeman Victor Butler was slain by an unseen sniper.

"Nowadays you kill a policeman and it's a joke—except to the families," he said.

Mrs. Judy Travis put it this way: "Our daughter cried herself to sleep Tuesday night because someone shot at her father. How do you explain this to a 4-year-old? This time they missed. But what about next time?"

Boatowners urged to check their insurance

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fitting out time for pleasure boat owners is just around the corner, making it an appropriate time to review insurance policies, especially if any changes are planned in a boat, its equipment or the way in which it will be operated.

This advice comes from Robert Lowry, manager of the Hull and Liability Department of MOXC (Marine Office-Appleton & Cox Corp.), who notes that only about one boat owner in 10 takes the trouble to update his policy.

"The nine who don't," he says, "may later regret the oversight."

Many owners, he says, acquire expensive equipment during the winter—depth finders, ship-to-shore radios, direction finders, etc.—install it on their boat in the spring but make no adjustments in the policies to cover the new equipment.

"They stand the risk of being out-of-pocket should their boat become a total or constructive total loss," he said.

Lowry also suggests that boat owners review their liability coverage.

"Injury awards in boating have followed the upward trend of automobile injury awards," he says, "and many boat owners unknowingly may be underinsured."

Lowry says a boat owner also should discuss with his agent insurance deductibles and credits which offer opportunities to reduce insurance costs.

For example, hull insurance on a boat under 10 years of age valued at $10,000 would be subject to a reduction of 25 percent of the hull premium if the owner elected to assume the amount of the deductible.

Credits refer to those special features which make one boat a better risk than others in its class and result in a reduced premium. Boats that have a diesel instead of gasoline engine, for instance, or a built-in approved fire extinguisher system, would usually qualify for a credit.

In another instance, if a boat is used only infrequently during the boating season and is worth over $10,000, its owner may be entitled to credit for each 15-day period the boat is laid up during the navigating season.

Lowry says insurance underwriters expect owners to take "reasonable care" of their property and adds: "Proper maintenance and care shouldn't stop with a fresh coat of paint and varnish."

True maintenance, in his opinion, involves a thorough inspection of all the inner parts of the vessel as well as a complete outside check of hull and fittings.

According to Lowry there are three areas for particular attention by boaters this season.

—Inboard owners should be familiar with the Coast Guard regulation on engine ventilation which carries a possible $125 fine for violation.

—Any owner considering replacing his water-closet system should be aware of the likelihood of a federal water pollution regulation which might make his renovation obsolete overnight.

—In view of the increasing number of thefts of boats and their equipment, locks should be checked.

Play now bound for U.S. tour

NEW YORK (UPI) — The highly unusual and commended Peter Brook production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" has wound up its limited engagement of eight weeks in New York and is now outward bound for a brief national tour. The production could have played here indefinitely, but there are limitations of time when one imports a repertory unit such as the Shakespeare Company. The players can stay only so many weeks away from home. If the production comes your way, be sure and see it. Brook's interpretation is like nothing you've ever seen in the way of a Shakespearean play. David Burns is a handy man to have available. This master of comedy playing has been hired for the forthcoming musical, "70, Girls, 70," as a replacement for Eddie Foy Jr., who had to bow out during rehearsals, because of illness. Burns, who was the original male lead in "Hello, Dolly," to mention only one of his many shows, came into town about two months ago as the colonel in the musical version of "The Teahouse of the August Moon."

Scouts to hear author

S. Dilworth Young, author, youth leader, Scout Executive, Church official, from Salt Lake City, Utah, will be the guest speaker for the Snake River Area Council's 50th Anniversary Recognition Banquet, March 19th at the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls. The banquet will feature the presentation of four Silver Beaver Awards, the highest award a local council can bestow on a Scouter as well as several other special recognitions and presentations. Young served as Scout Executive of the Ogden Area Council, Boy Scouts of America from September, 1923, until August, 1945. In 1945 he was called as a general officer for the L.D.S. Church in the First Council of the Seventy and holds that position today. The recognition banquet is for all adult leaders in Scouting. Cost is $3.85 per person. Reservations can be made by contacting the Council Service Center.

Blaine kids hear stories

Some thirty pre-schoolers are attending the Story Hours sponsored by the Ketchum-Sun Valley Community Library according to Mrs. Louis Mallane, director. The popular program emphasizes crafts, songs, games, and stories, and is available to all Blaine County 4 and 5 year-olds free of charge. It is held each Monday and Friday, 10-11 a.m. at the Ketchum Library. Mrs. Mallane reports the series will extend into April, with the final session set for Friday, April 2. # Kellwood plant now year old

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — The "baby" is now a year old, healthy and growing.

Just a year ago this month the Kellwood Co. manufacturing plant, largest of the recent industrial additions to Twin Falls, began turning its shiny new wheels. There were 225 employees, nearly all of them hired from Twin Falls and surrounding communities.

Bill P. Satterfield, who became manager of the local plant last August, says today there are 420 employees, still nearly all from the local area. This, he said, is about the growth the plant had hoped to obtain during its first year and depending on economic conditions of the northwest in the ensuing months some 200 more workers could be added.

Satterfield said the first year's operation of Kellwood, manufacturer of nylon stockings and panty hose for the Sears national outlet, has been marred by some cloudy conditions in the economic climate. Cutting down operation of large aircraft plants on the coast, such as Boeing, has curbed demand for the product.

Several weeks ago the plant was considering cutting to a four day work week and did try this briefly in some departments. Satterfield said reports have now been received indicating conditions are brightening somewhat and the plant continues to operate on a five day a week basis. This, he said is ideal although when demands fluctuate it is often necessary to run six or drop to four to keep the supply and demand even.

Many things hold impact on hosiery sales, Satterfield, a veteran of the industry, said. Pant suits have changed the style demand and have probably done something to cut overall demand. When a pair of panty hose develops a run, it can often be worn under a pant suit to hide the flaw.

Presently Kellwood is making women's hosiery ranging from the full panty hose, support hose and full length nylons to the just above the knee and just above the ankle self-supporting nylon.

Satterfield said plans are now being made to produce an all shear panty to wear under the new "hot pants".

These will be made with the same sheerness throughout the garment as is now featured in the leg of the panty hose.

Introduced only two to three years ago, the panty hose now makes up 85 per cent of the local plant's production.

Satterfield said when the Boeing plant in Seattle reduced its staff from 110,000 to 50,000 it did a great deal to cut the demand for nylon hose.

"When women are no longer working they do not require the same supply of hose and when the head of the household is no longer working it may be necessary to decide between groceries and clothing items in spending dwindling resources," Satterfield said.

The local plant supplies the west coast and Pacific northwest states. Satterfield says like other industries Kellwood has felt the pinch.

In spite of this, he said, the first year's operation in Twin Falls was better than had been hoped for.

Satterfield says in the hosiery industry every dozen contains 24.

Production is running about 20,000 dozen pairs per week of hose and panty hose, he said, and the first past year from last March through December, the firm's payroll reached $1.3 million. The manager predicted this will one day reach the $3-million mark.

Satterfield says the prime reason for the plant's successful operation to date has been the high quality of people who work there.

On March 23, the plant will hold a special observance of the first anniversary in the way of an employe appreciation program.

In connection with the March 23 event, Satterfield announced the local plant has been awarded the Sears Symbol of Excellency. Only one such award is given each year among the 20,000 suppliers to Sears.

"This is an honor for the workers of the Twin Falls plant," he said, "not the management and not the machinery of the work area."

Full details of the March 23 program will be announced later, he said, but a number of dignitaries from Kellwood and Sears will be in Twin Falls to pay tribute to the local industry and workers.

Among those planning to be here, Satterfield said, are John Lowe, Los Angeles, senior vice president of the Pacific territory of Sears; Maxine Nutt, Sears technical representative in the western territory; Fred Eaton, head of the West Coast Buying Department; Bob Wade, panty hose buyer; Sears; Bronson Lyon, hose buyer; R.B. McKinley, president of the Glendale Group, Kellwood, and Fred Wenzel, chairman of the board of directors of all Kellwood, who may attend.

Assisting in making arrangements for the employe appreciation event will be Ray Rostron, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Satterfield said the employe turnover has been reduced to almost nothing in the past few months. In the case of a new plant, he said, turnover is generally high and in the first few months of operation this held true but has now leveled off.

Among employees of the plant are those driving as far as Dietrich each day, summer and winter. Most others are from Twin Falls county communities and the Jerome area, he said.

Dean Witter and Co., Inc., Salt Lake City brokerage firm has just published a brochure on the Kellwood Co. in connection with stock sales which Satterfield says shows a most promising outlook for the Kellwood operation.

Witter says "Ingredients for growth of both sales and earnings are the unprecedented expansion of the medium priced sector of the consumer apparel market and the company's close alliance with Sears.

"From 1962 to 1970," the brochure says, "net income and earnings per share grew in annual compound rates of 11.8 per cent, 7.14 and 8 per cent respectively. Over the same period Kellwood's capacity has increased approximately 300 per cent to meet the Sear's needs of soft goods lines."

Stitches in time

RACKS OF WHITE nylon stockings that have not yet been to the giant dye vats at Kellwood are being stitched by some of the 420 plant employes. These women are sewing on elastic bands for a new popular knee-length nylon.

Realtors slate T.F. luncheon

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Real Estate Commission has called a meeting of all real estate brokers and salesmen in Twin Falls for a noon luncheon on Wednesday at the American Legion Hall.

The commission said the session will allow presentation of a "message" from the commission staff to clarify the state position on complaints, real-estate education, real estate law, trust account procedures and other local problems of interest.

A discussion and question-and-answer period will complete the afternoon session, which will be directed by Marion J. Voorhees, Boise, executive secretary of the Real Estate Commission; C. Julian Welke, assistant executive secretary, and Gladys E. Morrison, administrative secretary in charge of education. Reservations are necessary, and can be made by calling Globe Realty at 733-2623, or Joan Brawley at 733-9633.

Forest service hearing cancelled

BOISE — The annual Forest Service budget hearing, previously scheduled for March 23, had been cancelled, according to the Forest Service and federal Highway Administration.

Howard Thomason, chairman of a tri-agency group involving the Forest Service, Idaho state Highway Department and Federal Highway Administration.

Thomason said the federal budget, as proposed by President Nixon, would trim Forest Service highway funds by about $4 million, effective July 1. This would force a reconsideration of all spending requests, so the public hearing must be delayed until the federal appropriations are known definitely, Thomason said.

Crackdown eyed for Russian Jews

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Window on the World:

Soviet Crackdown:
Westerners in Moscow expect a new crackdown by Soviet authorities on Jews. They say recent protest petitions, mass demonstrations at government offices and threatened hunger strikes have harmed the Soviet image abroad. Granting of visas to several hundred petitioners, including vigorous activists in the past few months, appears to have encouraged others. Therefore it is possible the number of exit visas may be reduced, and at the same time efforts intensified to isolate Western correspondents both from pro-Israel Jews and general dissenters.

Tough Going in Vienna:
Defense experts and diplomats expect tough going at the resumed strategic arms limitation talks in Vienna next week between the United States and Russia. Contributing to their problems is the news that Red China now has an intercontinental missile. Any agreed Russo-American rocket freeze would not cover China, an aspect that may gain considerable weight by 1975.

Red Chinese Shifts:
The Chinese Communists gradually have been shifting their military might away from the coast opposite Nationalist China's island of Quemoy, site of the 1958 Formosa Strait war, military sources say. They say nearly half of the 1,200 artillery pieces the Chinese Reds once deployed on the Chekiang coast half encircling Quemoy have been moved to other parts of China, as have been some of the half million troops in Chekiang province.

The sources said the process began as long as five years ago at a pace so slow as to be hardly noticeable. They said Nationalists' military quarters do not consider the red withdrawal as abandonment of Peking's military ambitions in the Formosa Strait.

Hot Spring Expected:
The French government is bracing for trouble on the labor front this spring. The trade unions have decided not to sign a new labor contract for the army of 2.5 million civil servants. The leaders do not rule out the possibility of a massive strike in administration services ranging from post offices to schools. Such a strike wave could deepen the cracks in the ranks of the Gaullist coalition whose various factions increasingly are quarrelling over domestic and foreign policy issues.

GOP rests fund hopes on market

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican fund-raisers are watching the Dow-Jones averages and hoping that the bull market will mean money in the bank for their 1972 campaign. They already can show that they are off to a good start in their collections from small contributors. They will know more about the attitude of the fat cats when they count the house at their $1,000-plate dinner to be held in Washington March 24.

As usual, the Democrats are in debt but even they feel healthier than they did a year ago.

It was just last summer that candidates and campaign committees in both parties were moaning that money was tight for what proved to be an expensive campaign year when there was no presidential contest. The stock market slump was often cited as one cause of money-raising trouble.

Only recently, the GOP was worried about the outlook for the March 24 dinner at which it hoped to gross about $1.5 million and to net more than $1.2 million.

Now the ticket salesmen are more optimistic, although they are hearing gripes from businessmen upset by the size of the Nixon administration budget and a planned deficit. The profits will be split between the Republican National Committee and the Party's House and Senate campaign committees.

The National Committee already gets much of the money to cover its basic expenses from a successful sustaining membership program, which has been in operation for almost 10 years.

In recent testimony before a Senate subcommittee, Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole reported that the National Committee had collected $1,169,822 during January and February from contributors of less than $100, mostly from sustaining members. He said $74,790 had come from less than 200 contributors whose checks exceeded $100.

Jaycees hunting rabbits

TWIN FALLS — Like many individuals, the Twin Falls Jaycees are taking advantage of one of Magic Valley's most plentiful resources — jack rabbits — in an effort to raise club funds.

The rabbits are being captured alive to be sold to an Italian concern for export to that country to be used in hunting programs.

Key Hoyt and Tom Hundhausen, who direct the hunting project for Jaycees say the score is about even at this time between the rabbits and Jaycees.

A week ago about 80 club members, wives and youngsters staged their first hunt and captured about 70 rabbits. This past week end the method of catching the little wild creatures was revised and the Jaycees pulled ahead of the rabbits by a narrow score.

Hoyt said the Jaycees plan to continue catching the rabbits for sale until sufficient funds are obtained for several community service projects this year. He said some individuals have collected several hundred dollars from the live rabbits but have declined to disclose their secret of success.

Girls can join explorer scouts

TWIN FALLS — For the girl who has always wanted to be a Boy Scout, the Snake River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America has the answer.

Darl S. Gleed, executive director, said plans have now been announced to admit girls to membership in the exploring division of the Boy Scouts of America.

Gleed said there are no prospects in the local area at this time but with the announcement of several teenage girls are expected to seek membership in the action program.

Gleed said he received word today indicating action has been taken nationally in recognition of the chartered requirement to serve boys and young men and it would enable Exploring to more effectively carry out its mandate to meet the needs and interests of today's youth.

Until this year, Gleed said, Scout exploring has been an all-male program. A one-year trial of admitting young women to the program has proven successful.

The national executive board's action now makes it possible for coeds to become full fledged members and for adult women volunteers to act in leadership capacities.

Membership in a post or sea Explorer ship would be entirely at the discretion of the sponsoring organization, Gleed said. Age requirements for girls are the same as for boys. Members may enroll upon reaching 15 years of age and may remain through their 20th year.

Shoshone spending to rise

SHOSHONE — The tentative 1971 budget for the city of Shoshone is about nine times larger than the 1970 budget because of the new sewer project — but the general fund shows only a 13 per cent increase.

Mrs. Claude Chess, city clerk, said the 1971 proposed budget is $900,670 as compared to last year's expenditures of $105,949. This increase reflects the $793,436 proposed funding for the sewer construction, operation and maintenance fund.

However, Mrs. Chess said, the proposed 1971 general fund is $87,494 as compared to $77,203 last year.

The public hearing on the proposed budget, approved last week by the city council, will be held at 8 p.m. March 22.

The anticipated revenues for 1971 will be $34,350.25 from the tax levy; $846,800 from other revenues and $19,520 from cash balance as of Jan. 1, 1971.

The other revenues include water collection, anticipated to bring in $28,700; fines, $1,300; dog and bicycle licenses, $700; liquor licenses, $1,500; beer licenses, $375; state and county liquor funds, $7,500; state highway user's allocation, $5,500; miscellaneous permits, $175; miscellaneous revenues, $2,300; tax from highway district number 2, $4,000; city ditch assessments, $1,300, and funds for sewer, operation and maintenance, $793,450.

The anticipated expenses will be $87,494 in the general fund, $3,050 in the library fund, $7,041.25 in the fire department fund, $2,015 in the recreation fund, $6,200 in the street improvement and lighting fund, $793,430 in sewer construction, operation and maintenance fund, and $1,400 in the waterworks reserve fund.

Other than expenses for the development and operation and maintenance of the sewer, the city expenses are anticipated to run within a few dollars as they were in 1970.

Actually spent in the general fund last year was $77,203.50, though $87,348 was funded, said Mrs. Chess.

Administration is expected to cost $15,475, though $16,546.17 was spent and $18,175 was budgeted last year. Considerable cut is made in the flood control section, from $5,183.23 spent out of the $6,000 budgeted, to $1,100. This is due to the fact that considerable work was done last year in flood control work of Little Wood River and this need is not anticipated for the coming year.

Attorney fees for the city will remain the same, at $900, with $25 expenses allowed in that department. Salary for the treasurer will be $420 again with $25 for expenses, and salary for the park attendant will be $2,760 compared to $2,624 last year with $45.16 in the capital outlay and $75 in the other expenses. Last year there was a $600 fund in other expenses, with $378.76 spent.

In the sanitation department, salary and extra help is set at $4,856, while last year it was $5,021 with $4,707.90 spent.

Salaries and extra help in the street department is $11,768 this year while last year they spent $10,776, with $5,014 spent on capital outlay and $2,000 budget for the capital outlay this year, and $5,150 budgeted this year, in other expenses. Actually spent in other expenses of the street department last year was $3,467.14.

Salaries in the waterworks and shop department are set at $5,646 while last year $5,376 was spent. Waterworks power budget is set at $4,800, while $4,194.04 was spent out of the $5,200 budget. Capital outlay for that department this year is set at $200, compared to $500 last year with $507.74 spent. Other expenses of the waterworks and shop department are set at $4,075, with $3,485.62 spent from a budget of $3,700.

The city hall salary and extra help budget is $4,600 compared to $4,200 spent of the $4,600 of last year's budget. $200 is set in capital outlay with $182.85 spent on a $100 actual budget. Other expenses of the city hall are estimated to run $1,725 this year, up from $1,500 budgeted and $1,163.82 spent last year.

Salaries and extra help in the police department are set at $11,044, while last year it was $10,256, and $10,256 was spent. Capital outlay is estimated to be $4,000 this year, compared to $600 last year, and $600 spent. Other expenses are set at $2,275, compared to $1,242 spent last year.

A noted increase in the capital outlay from $600 to $4,000 is set up to allow for the purchase of a new car for the department.

WESTERN Auto Stores are stocked in preparation for the new Halley store's grand opening later this month by the owner, Harold J. Halley, agent. The store, which was recently opened on March 6, already has been well received. Halley said.

Gov. Andrus to speak in Jerome

JEROME — Leo Altin, president of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce, reports that Gov. Cecil Andrus will be guest speaker at the group's annual banquet at 7:30 p.m. March 24 at Woods, Cafe in Jerome.

It will be the governor's first official appearance in the community since his election to office. Election of officers and directors will be held also, Altin said.

Victim remains critical

BELLEVUE — Gary Marsh, 16, who was injured Saturday morning in a one-car accident Saturday south of Bellevue, remained in critical condition Monday at St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Marsh, Twin Falls, was transferred to the Boise hospital following the wreck. Gregg Hull, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hull, Twin Falls, has been transferred to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where he is listed in fairly good condition. Another companion, Douglas Warner, 17, son of Dr. and Mrs. George Warner of Twin Falls, has been released from Blaine County Hospital.

Bryce King, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hammond King, Twin Falls, the fourth youth in the wrecked vehicle, was treated for bruises and abrasions at Halley.

The vehicle, driven by Warner, was traveling north on U.S. Highway 93 when it went out of control and rolled. All the boys were thrown from the vehicle, according to Orville Drexler, Blaine County Sheriff.

Politico denies report

TWIN FALLS — Vincent Smazal, Twin Falls County Democratic Central Committee chairman, said today he has not voiced any public opposition to the appointment of Oscar Arnstein, Rupert, as Idaho Agricultural Commissioner.

He denied published wire service reports that he had opposed the appointment in a hearing last week in Boise.

"I was notified of the hearing," he said, "but did not attend. I told persons who called me objecting to the appointment I would advise them of the hearing if one was held and they could voice objections at that time but I did not attend personally," the Twin Falls Democrat said.

Smazal said prior to the appointment of the Rupert man by Gov. Cecil Andrus, local Democratic Central Committee members, including himself, had endorsed Bill Wiseman, Hamman, for the appointment. Some of the local members, he said, are objecting to the naming of the Rupert man, favoring the local candidate instead.

Jerome landmark goes down

JEROME — Valley Excavating Co. is in the process of tearing down the old Tate Furniture building and the former L and H Butcher's building this week. The buildings are located on West Main between King's and Harder's Furniture store.

Earl Jensen, manager of the M.H. King Co., and owner of the property, said that they have not made any definite plans for the space that will be available, "at this time we will just fence the area off and decide later what will be done with it," Jensen said.

On Dec. 22 an interior retaining wall between the two buildings collapsed causing quite a bit of damage. No one was hurt when the wall collapsed.

Jensen said that the wall collapsed from undetermined reasons but felt that the two buildings should be removed at this time to protect the wall of the King store from possible damage should more of the building collapse.

Harder's was at the time of the collapse using one portion of the building for storage and the other part of the structure housed Encore. Both businesses have now relocated in the former Wilson-Bates Appliance store in the 300 block on west Main.

Council to act on budget

Total anticipated revenue in the general fund is listed at $1.8 million compared to actual income last year of $1.6 million.

Tax levies are shown in the library fund with tax revenue anticipated at $97,500 compared to $77,132 received last year.

For the runway improvement program at the airport, the city anticipates $283,681 will be spent including county participation of $70,000 and a federal grant of $154,000.

City officials will discuss anticipated revenue and expenditures with all interested taxpayers and other citizens Monday night.

Petitioners attempt to note pay hike ire

SHOSHONE — A petition signed by over 300 Lincoln County residents was refused to the passage of Senate Bill 1160, which granted a wage increase for the legislators against the people's initiative and referendum.

Floyd Silva, Shoshone, who circulated the petition last week, protesting increased pay to legislators, said the petition will be presented on the floor of the House by E.V. McHann, Ketchikan, District 21A elected representative, under point of personal privilege.

But, Silva said, Lanting opposed to allow McHann to present the petition under rules of the house against reading the

Solons to act on general fund plan

BOISE (UPI) — Lawmakers returning to the 64th legislative day today must act on a $125.3 million General Fund budget for fiscal year 1972 outlined Saturday by a joint committee.

The joint Finance-Appropriations Committee ended its deliberations only after Gov. Cecil D. Andrus ended a dispute over responsibility for data processing operations by giving his approval to a plan to turn authority over to the Department of Administrative Services.

The joint committee tentatively gave the state auditor $301,500 to implement a uniform accounting and data processing plan and another $293,030 for computer operations.

But the committee supported a plan proposed late Saturday by Rep. Jenkin Palmer, R-Malad, a co-chairman of the committee, to turn the $293,030 over to Administrative Services, with the understanding the legislature supports a centralized system. Administrative Services can return the money to the auditor if it chooses to do so.

Palmer also outlined a plan for a five-member legislative interim committee composed of three Democrats and two Republicans to oversee computer operations.

Andrus' approval was relayed to the committee by acting budget director Dr. Sidney Duncombe, who said he had been trying all week to reach an agreement suitable to both the joint committee and to State Auditor Joe R. Williams.

The final budget is just under the $125.3 million anticipated revenue and includes $44 million for public schools, $27.7 million for higher education, $11.2 million for the Department of Public Assistance, and $9.1 million for the Department of Public Health.

The joint committee also picked $4.5 million worth of building projects for the permanent building fund, including $428,980 for a new classroom building at the state school for the deaf and blind at Gooding.

In the house Saturday, members voted 56-14 and sent to the senate a bill which would give cities revenue from one cent of a seven cents per gallon tax on gasoline.

House Democrats elected Rep. William J. Murphy, D-Wallace, to succeed Rep. Edward V. Williams, D-Lewiston, as minority leader when Williams resigns after the session to become administrative assistant to Andrus.

In the senate, members killed a measure which would have allowed private shooting preserves, after Sen. John Evans, D-Malad, noted sportsmen opposed the measure.

The senate approved a measure which would require the land Department to approve plans for reclaiming areas around surface mining operations before the operations are allowed to begin.

No word on Oakley pilot

OAKLEY — No new word has been received on Hyrum Barry Port, 23, former Oakley resident, who is reported missing in action in South Vietnam.

Port's grandparents, Mrs. Hyrum Poulton and Mr. and Mrs. Garnett Port, all Oakley, received word Thursday that the helicopter he was piloting was shot down over South Vietnam and is listed lost in action by the U.S. Army.

Port, who's parents live in Pittsburg, Pa., had been piloting helicopters in Vietnam since last fall.

Studs auctioned

JEROME — A total of 20 stallions was offered for stud service during the auction sponsored by the Jerome County Recreation Assn. here Saturday night.

Close to $1,800 was derived from the auction, Jim Rupert, co-chairman, said. The top bids were from those buying stud services from the Thane Lancaster Quarter Horse Ranch, Filer.

Bar Rocket, a quarter horse owned by George Juker, Buhl and Sonny Ward, Twin Falls, was also among the top three. Proceeds from the auction go to Jerome County Recreation Assn., for various projects they sponsor throughout the year.

and to help pay purses at the pari-mutuel races.

Among projects the association sponsored last year were the purchase of a calf at the 4-H fat stock sale, a trophy saddle for the Appaloosa Horse Show in Twin Falls, and prize money for the racing program.

More than 500 persons attended the auction held at the Producers Livestock Marketing Assn. sale ring. Auctioneers were Joe Roe, H.D. Witherpoon, Jim Messersmith, Rocky Goodhue and Bronson Ostic.

Theater beer case readied

HAZELTON — Today is the deadline for dog licenses in Hazelton, says Mayor Elmer Pyne.

He said, however, there is a five day grace period for owners to purchase licenses, but after the grace period, any dog without a license will be impounded.

JEROME — Preliminary motions in a case involving a Jerome theater operator and Jerome County will be heard Tuesday in Fifth District Court in Jerome.

Duane Foust is petitioning Jerome County and the three commissioners, John VanOrman, Cleo Ambrose and Claude Bernard, for a writ of mandamus which asks that the commissioners and the county be forced to perform their duties. Foust was denied a bear license in February by the county commissioners. He had sought the license to authorize him to sell beer in the Frontier Theatre in Jerome.

Balanced Rock park bids due

TWIN FALLS — Bids were to be opened today by Twin Falls County Commissioners for completion work on the county park at Balanced Rock.

Work has been in progress on improvements at the park for several years and the final phase includes restroom construction, picnic shelters, a water system and road and parking improvement in the park area.

Hazelton lass hurt in wreck

TWIN FALLS — A Hazelton teen-ager remains hospitalized in Twin Falls with injuries she received about midnight Saturday in a two-vehicle accident in Twin Falls.

Twin Falls Police said Cindy Reisch, 14, was a passenger in a car driven by Sam Florence, 16, Twin Falls.

Officers said their vehicle collided with a pickup truck driven by Stephen E. Sawyer, 24, Twin Falls, at Third Avenue South and Third Street.

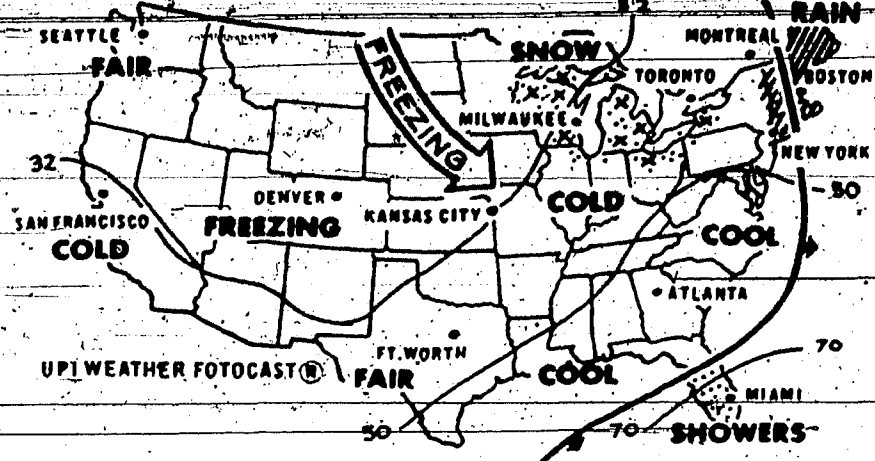

The pickup truck was traveling west on Third Street at the time of the crash. The car was traveling east on Third Street.

Others in the car were not injured. The car was damaged. The pickup truck was damaged. The car was damaged. The pickup truck was damaged.

yesterday and last night is dissipating near the Rockies. A westerly flow of relatively cool, moist and unstable air over the northwest has continued to produce partly cloudy to cloudy skies and scattered showers during the night. As high pressure builds more strongly over the area and the air becomes drier and more stable — clearing should begin tonight followed by mostly fair skies on Tuesday.

The extended outlook issued yesterday for the period Wednesday through Friday called for fair conditions Wednesday then a chance of some periods of precipitation and rather cool temperatures with highs mostly in the 40s. However, recent developments indicate the fair weather conditions may persist longer into the week and that temperatures will also be warmer than previously indicated.

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market extended its early morning advance as trading rounded the halfway mark Monday. Turnover was heavy. Electronic and computer shares were among the biggest favorites. Steels, motors, rails and copper stocks also attracted good demand. Strength in the copper issues was attributed to rumors of production cutbacks in Chile.

Airlines and oils traded in mixed fashion. Aircrafts showed a steady tone. Near 1:15 p.m., advances led declines by almost a two-to-one margin. The Dow Jones industrial average was up 5.41 at 903.75. If the uptrend holds the Dow would close above 900 for the first time since June, 1969.

A three-hour turnover of 10,470,000 shares was up from 8,550,000 shares traded at a comparable period Friday. Avery Products, by far the day's most active issue, was off 1 on 419,000 shares, most involving a block of 399,900 shares at 33 1/4.

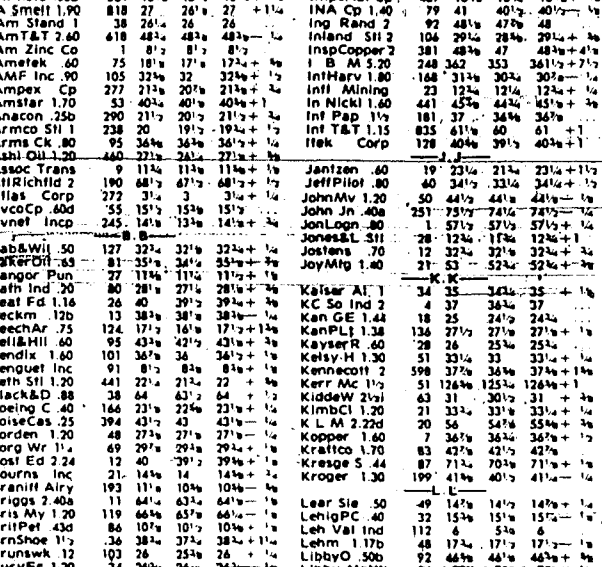

IBM was less active, but up about 7. Burroughs gained 4 1/2, Memorex 3, and University Computing 2. Inspiration Consolidated Copper gained 3. Among the issues up a point or so were U.S. Steel, Kerr-McGee, Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, Walt Disney and Polaroid. Xerox climbed 2 1/4.

Lost credit card bite lessened

Remember the horror stories about globe-trotting thieves running up thousands of dollars worth of furs, airline tickets and other goodies on some hapless cardholder's account? A new law practically erases this danger — at least for the cardholder. Now, the problem of lost or stolen credit cards is almost entirely in the lap of the companies that issue the cards. The law, which went into effect a few weeks ago, limits your liability to $50 for each card. If, for example, you have a bank card, two store cards and two gasoline cards, your total liability would come to $250 — not the thousands a thief could pile up on a spending spree. Even this $50-a-card liability on unauthorized charges will be most difficult for credit card issuers to collect. Before you ever have to pay anything, the credit card issuer must: 1 — Notify you of your new liability and your rights. 2 — Send you a self-addressed, stamped envelope or card you can use for notification in case of theft or loss. 3 — Provide a means of identification on all newly issued cards. This can be a space for a signature or a photograph. All previously issued cards must be exchanged for new ones with identification by next January. Such issuers as American Express and the bank cards already have a line for your signature. Most all company cards do not have any space for identification. A number of banks issuers are requiring bank cardholders to be photographed. If you notify a credit card issuer when your card has been lost or stolen, you are automatically off the hook for any liability. This is true even if unauthorized charges are made before the credit card issuer received your notification. It's when you send the notification that counts.

Although the new law doesn't say you have to have positive proof of the date you mail or phone your notification, it might be a good idea in case of a theft to have something to show. You can send your notification by certified mail or by telegram. If you phone long-distance, your bill serves as proof. If it's a local call, record the name and number of the person you talk to.

A number of credit card companies probably won't bother to try to get $50 out of you if there's a question of your legal liability. Because so much of the burden of proof is now on the credit card issuer, it's unlikely you'll ever be taken to court for $50. Some might pass the disputed bill on to a collection agency and your credit rating could get an unwarranted smear.

If you get into a scrape over unauthorized credit card charges, be sure to visit your local credit bureau to make sure nothing was entered against you. Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act, which becomes effective April 28, you have the right to inspect your records. If there is a negative comment, you can put your side of it on the record. It's a good idea to inspect your credit records at least once a year whether you have a credit card dispute or not.

Now that it's much more difficult for you to be held accountable for any unauthorized charges, there's less need for special credit card "notification protection" or insurance. A number of insurance companies say they probably will

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Investors should "sell their holdings in short-dated corporate and tax-exempt bonds and reinvest their funds in stocks," according to Moody's Investors Service. The heavy schedule of new debt financing, the firm says, should hold bond prices to moderate growth for the year. Moody's urges stock investment because the market is "buoyant in anticipation of a cyclical recovery of the economy" and the market's expectation has been supported by the recent gain in the index of leading economic indicators, durable goods orders and auto sales.

Soaring costs price houses out of market

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The president of the Mortgage Bankers Association says although millions of Americans are still poorly housed, soaring costs may soon make it difficult to sell new homes by pricing many prospective buyers out of the market.

Everett C. Spellman said a gap is widening between need and demand for new homes. Demand is defined as a combination of the desire and the ability to buy.

Spellman cautioned builders and lenders to keep an eye on demand when making their plans for home building this year. Government officials estimate that housing starts may reach the 2 million mark in 1971, a figure which might swamp the market, he indicated.

Unless there is caution, he said, "we will once again go through a housing cycle of overbuilding, declining prices, rising foreclosures, bankruptcies and failures of financial institutions."

Vet tells why he smoked opium

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—A hospitalized combat veteran, suffering from an injured back, said he smoked opium in Vietnam "to kill the pain—both physical and psychological."

The hurt was physical, 25-year-old John Pugh said, because he was wounded twice and "ruined" his back jumping 10-15 feet from helicopters while carrying a 40-pound weapon and 500 rounds of ammunition.

He said it was psychological because of "having to shoot people and seeing atrocities." Also, Pugh said, "a lot of the guys used dope because they knew they could die anytime and they wanted to grab as much life experience as possible while it lasted."

Whatever the reason, the former airborne Infantryman said he had his first experience with narcotics in Vietnam in 1966. He returned to Albuquerque in 1968 with his painful physical impairment—the reason for being hospitalized seven times in two years—and bitter memories.

But it could have been worse. If he hadn't kicked the opium habit before returning home, Pugh could also have brought with him drug addiction and the narcotics to feed it.

Many do, according to leaders of anti-drug efforts in New Mexico, and still other youths "get hooked" on hard narcotics to avoid the draft and Vietnam in the first place.

The Korean War made addiction a major problem in Albuquerque 20 years ago and now the Vietnam War is making it much worse, these sources agree.

Also contacted were police officials and the director of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Albuquerque.

GI's introduced to drugs in Korea and youths who emulated them when they returned home were the original major "market" for hard narcotics in this area, said Joe Fernandez, 41, former Quebrar director who is now board chairman of the organization.

Fernandez said the returning veterans brought the drugs with them. He said a sailor on the same boat that returned him from duty in Korea was arrested when he accidentally dropped two cigaret cartons full of heroin. "This was just one who got caught," Fernandez said.

"The best precautions," such as checks for needle marks and running soldiers through showers, couldn't stem the flow of drugs and GI addicts into the country undetected, Fernandez said.

When the soldiers' drugs from Korea ran out, he said, the demand still existed and was "gladly supplied by people mainly from across the border (Mexico) who are willing to provide whatever the market wants."

"The first death from a heroin overdose in Albuquerque was in 1954, just after Korea," said Fernandez who served as a sergeant in the Army Medical Corps for a year in Korea.

"Now we've got a list of over 250 guys" who suffered drug-connected deaths, he said. Dr. Leonardo Garcia-Bunuel, Quebrar Medical Director and Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at the University of New Mexico School of Medicine, agreed with Fernandez that there was a "levelling off" in the number of addicts just before Vietnam.

"In Albuquerque it appeared that the use of Heroin was going down," Garcia said. "But because of Vietnam, that kind of trend is now reversed. Without any question there is a very clear connection between the war and drug addiction," he said.

The psychiatrist also cited a sociological difference. Whereas "the poor Chicano used to have a monopoly, representing about 98 per cent of the known addicts," he said, the Mexican-American addicts were now about 80 per cent of the total here.

"Young, middle class Anglo kids were getting on heroin," Garcia said. "Among veterans, it was Anglos as well as Chicanos and blacks."

Both Garcia and Robert Campos, who replaced Fernandez as Quebrar director last Nov. 1, noted a considerable number of servicemen who got hooked in Vietnam and went AWOL seeking professional help upon being reassigned to the States.

Campos said this was especially true in California, where he was Drug Abuse Program Coordinator for the Santa Clara County Mental Health Services before coming to Albuquerque. "It was quite common," Campos said. "This indication in California was quite heavy—guys coming back from Vietnam addicted."

Paul Garcia, director of the Quebrar "colony" of addicts being treated here, also cited "many cases of young kids coming to us for help after getting hooked in order to keep from going to Vietnam."

Detective Lt. Mehl-Talaya, of the police force in Farmington, N.M., which has had its share of drug deaths and narcotics problems despite its isolation and small population, said "a lot of drugs" were introduced into the area from Vietnam.

government cannot solve housing problems by liberalizing credit terms.

"Buying and renting of houses through liberal financial terms and subsidies tend to discourage the industry from cleaning house," Colean said.

Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank board, said the government will continue to support programs intended to increase the supply of funds available for home loans.

Martin said in a recent speech that the new Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. will buy about $1 billion worth of FHA and VA mortgages this year, pumping that much money back into the market for new loans.

He said the board also is sponsoring an $85 billion program to lower mortgage payments by $20 per month on about 70,000 homes of moderate-income families.

Martin said his board, which regulates savings and loan associations, is remodeling rules and regulations to make it easier for the $170 billion savings and loan industry to meet the need for home loans.

Home building activity has been increasing in recent months following the severe slump of 1969 and early 1970.

Gets award

Adm. Wilkison presents Machinist Mate I.C. A.B. Hoag, Filer, with a letter of commendation for feats performed during extended deployment.

Filer navyman honored

FILER—Machinist Mate I-C (Submarine Service) A.B. Hoag, was recently presented a Sublant letter of commendation for feats performed during extended deployment. He is stationed abroad the USS Lapon, Nuclear Fast Attack Submarine, Norfolk, Va.

Hoag is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoag and entered the navy in 1963. In 1967 he reenlisted for seven more years. He received his boot camp training at San Diego and was assigned to the USS Constellation Air Craft Carrier. He spent two years in Vietnam and received the Navy Unit Commendation and the Armed Forces Expeditionary Awards.

On his return from Vietnam he attended an air conditioning and refrigeration school in San Diego, Calif., and was assigned to the USS Arlington communication ship.

Whitney rites slated Tuesday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday in New York for Whitney M. Young Jr., Executive Director of the National Urban League, who died of an apparent heart attack Thursday in Lagos, Nigeria.

The League said Friday that the services would be held at 10 a.m. in New York's Riverside Church, following the funeral, the body will be flown to Louisville, Ky., and then taken by car Wednesday to Lexington, Ky., for interment.

White House sources said President Nixon was "expected to participate" in the memorial services for Young.

A U.S. Air Force plane, sent by President Nixon to bring home the remains from Lagos, was expected to land at Kennedy Airport at 8:45 a.m. Sunday.

The body will lie in state for 24 hours at the church on Manhattan's upper West Side.

By request of the family, there will be no television coverage of the funeral permitted inside the church.

One-third of all U.S. married women living with their husbands now work outside the home either full or part time.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

In many cases Preparation H gives prompt, temporary relief from such pain and itching and actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. Tests by doctors on hun-

Now there's a new, small Pontiac with a small-car price for small-car lovers.

Wouldn't you know it would be fun to drive, stingy on gas, quick to service and built to last.

Of course you would. We wouldn't build a small car unless we figured it would give you more of what you want a small car for.

Take that low price. Ventura II is a small car, so it has a low, small-car price. But it's what you get for that small price that makes Ventura II worth a close look.

Ventura II is fun to drive. It should be. It's from the Wide-Track people. Which means you get a smooth, comfortable, Wide-Track ride.

The handling's quick. There's a nifty 111-inch wheelbase for easy parking. And both the 250-cu.-in. six and available 307-cu.-in. V-8 respond beautifully in city traffic or on the expressway.

Ventura II is stingy with your gas money. Both the standard six-cylinder engine and the V-8 you can order run beautifully on regular gas or the new low-lead and no-lead fuels. The carburetor on the six is an economical one-barrel, and the transmission for both six and V-8 is a practical 3-speed manual. Ventura II is quick to service. If you're a do-it-yourselfer, you'll like fiddling around with the new Ventura II.

New twist-lock lamp sockets let you make changes in seconds.

The engine is uncomplicated, and there is plenty of engine-compartment space, especially with the six.

If you ever need to have somebody else work on your car—well, you'll like Ventura II, too. Both the standard six and available V-8 are tough, time-tested designs. Same goes for transmissions. The standard 3-speed manual and the available 2-speed automatic. Turbo Hydra-matic or floor-mounted 3-speed are all rugged, dependable units.

Ventura II is built to last. There's nothing lightweight about this car. It's welded—not bolted—at hundreds of strategic points to help keep it tight and quiet.

The body is heavy-gauge steel. And it has double paneling in the deck lid, hood and doors. You could probably sum it up best with three little words. Body by Fisher.

So, come on. If you're a small-car lover, stop by your Pontiac dealer's today.

Tell him you want to see the new Ventura II. It's the small car that gives you more of what you want a small car for.

Pallas Athene awards presented

BURLEY — Second and third degree Pallas Athene awards were presented to four members of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority during the March meeting at the home of Mrs. Roger McBride. It was announced today.

Receiving the second-degree awards were Mrs. Glen Logan and Mrs. McBride. The third degree awards went to Mrs. Derald Schafer and Mrs. Ken Fronk.

Pallas Athene awards are made on merit points acquired by members through their committee work, services given to the chapter, community philanthropic hours, educational projects, rushing new members and attendance at sorority functions.

Pallas Athene is symbolic of knowledge, patron of the arts and the spirit of truth. The Greek goddess was chosen as the patroness of ESA.

The lesson, "How to Cope With Social Emergencies" and "The Art of Small Talk and Party Conversation", was presented by Mrs. Ed Hickman and Mrs. Doug Reinke.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gerald Mayes, Mrs. Jim Mai and Mrs. McBride, co-hostesses.

New hairstyles for spring and summer are pretty and romantic, reports the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association Inc. They are usually composed of supple waves that flow either in languidly sensual lines, or soft wavelets which are either highly defined or have just a suggestion of motion.

Merit points

Burley Soroptimists elect new officers

BURLEY — New officers were elected and reports were given during the noon luncheon meeting of the Burley Soroptimist Club at Bryan's Cafe.

Mrs. Glenn Bailey was elected president for the coming year. Other officers elected included Mrs. Edith Raustadt, vice president; Mrs. Wanda Jolley, recording secretary; Mrs. LePage Layton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Walter Povlsen, treasurer; Mrs. Raustadt, delegate, and Mrs. Ralph Butters and Mrs. E. C. Stephenson, both directors.

Mrs. Jeannette Chamberlain, projects committee, reported her committee members are still investigating several suggested projects.

Mrs. Harlow Cheney, ways and means chairman, presented proposed projects and the club voted to hold a rummage sale March 20, a cooked food and bazaar items sale in April and to continue its annual silent auction at the summer picnic.

Mrs. W. Gay Jones, president, announced the Rocky Mountain Regional Soroptimist Conference will be held April 23-25 at Wort Hotel, Jackson Hole, Wyo.

A letter was read giving the committee appointments made by Gov. Edythe D. Kooniz, Twin Falls, for the Rocky Mountain Region.

Burley members appointed were Mrs. D. C. Fullmer, chairman of international goodwill and understanding; committee members are Mrs. Wayne Konrad, education; Mrs. Gerald Bryan, public relations; Mrs. William MacKnight, youth projects, and Mrs. Ralph Thornton, awards for service objectives.

Opening exercises were conducted by Mrs. Helene Coffey and the thought for the day was given by Mrs. Chamberlain.

The gift award was presented to Mrs. George Carmody.

Literary club has speaker

BURLEY — Mrs. Lee Ann Walker was the guest speaker during a meeting of the Cameo Literary Club at the home of Mrs. Nan Shults.

Personology, the scientific study of 67 personality traits or characteristics was discussed by Mrs. Walker. Personology is the only personal science today which is based on previously established sciences, physiology and genetics, anatomy and mathematics according to Mrs. Walker.

Personology is based on the premises, she stated, that man is an individualized spirit and each man is uniquely himself. There is no one else exactly like you. As you are built so you will function; thus you fit comfortably into the best walk of life according to the inherent build.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bea Thaxton.

Assembly leader visits in Burley

BURLEY — Mrs. Norma Grube, Ashton, Rebekah Assembly president, made her official visit to Ruth Rebekah Lodge No. 10 at IOOF hall.

Members of the Rupert No. 19 Canton formed the guard of honor. Mrs. Birdie Kennedy, noble grand, conducted the evening session.

Mrs. Grube spoke to the group on "Happiness". Mrs. Wilma Messenger played "This Land is Your Land" prior to Mrs. Grube's inspirational talk.

A special tribute was presented Mrs. Ethel Nelson, chaplain of Ruth Rebekah Lodge. In charge of the special tribute written by Mrs. Hazel Janak, were Mrs. Molly Wolf, Mrs. Alta Weldon, Mrs. Edith Clevenger, Mrs. Hazel Osterhout, Mrs. Faye Gummow and Mrs. Agnes Satchwell.

Honored guests attended from Albion, Rupert, Bellevue and Burley.

Prior to the business session a covered dish dinner was served in the dining room, under the direction of Mrs. Clarice Toner and Mrs. Anna Laura Westrom. Members of the Theta Rho Girls Club served.

The tables were decorated in gold, yellow, blue and white the resident's colors, and included roses with candles encircled in net. Arranging the tables were Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Ina Blankenship and Mrs. Stella Peterson.

Mrs. Grube's traveling emblem is the butterfly, the symbol of renewed faith. Mrs. Weldon made daffodil nut cups and special butterfly favors for the distinguished guests.

Grace was given by Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Peggy Stoller sang two selections accompanied by Mrs. Amy Clark during dinner.

After the business session refreshments were served by the Pat Noble Grands. Serving at the tea table were Mrs. Clevenger and Mrs. Gummow.

Williams SHOES

Blacker T.V. APPLIANCE & STEREO REPAIR CALL 733-1804

DEAR ABBY: Am I burning! Mary, whose husband is a football nut, asks you what to do when her man has his eyes glued to the TV all weekend, and you say, "Bake a cake, clean closets, cupboards or drawers. Catch up on your reading or letter-writing. Do the ironing or mending or go visit your mother!"

Abby, my closets are clean. And so are my cupboards and drawers. We have cake coming out of our ears, and my mother is tired of seeing me and my two kids. I iron and mend during the week, and everybody I write to owes me letters.

I wonder what would happen if a wife spent the entire weekend pursuing her hobby and told her husband to find something to do?
ANOTHER MARY, BOSTON

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to Mary sure made points with my husband. He couldn't wait to wave it under my nose. Please tell your readers not to marry a football nut. You will never change him. If I had a heart attack during a game I would be left lying on the floor until the game was over.
FOOTBALL-WIDOW, ST. LOUIS

DEAR ABBY: It's apparent that your husband isn't a sports fan. Mine is. Our social activities, and even our church attendance depends upon what time "the games" begin and end.

Even my sex life has suffered. By the time my arm-chair quarterback has lived thru every play of the two (and sometimes three) consecutive football games, he has all he can do to feed his face and fall into bed.

If I blow in his ear, he says, "Please, I've had enough excitement for one day!"
DISGUSTED IN ZANESVILLE

DEAR ABBY: So you think a wife should keep herself busy all weekend while her husband parks himself in front of the television watching football?

You did offer a suggestion which I'm considering. "Go visit your mother!" My mother lives 100 miles from here.

I think I'll go anyway. If you use this letter please use my name—that's the only way my husband will know where I went.
NANCY IN N. M.

DEAR ABBY: That gal, Mary, says her husband is loyal, devoted and he's true blue. Great. Our dog has the same qualities. Sometimes I wish I were the dog. He spends more time with my husband than I do. Of course, the dog doesn't drink, and my husband likes to have someone to drink with him while he's watching football.

The next time my husband comes home I'll get down on all fours and bark. Maybe he'll get confused and let me sit on his lap, or he might even take me in the car with him.
HAD IT IN JOPLIN

DEAR ABBY: Poor Mary, the weekend widow, sounds like she could use some cheering up.

I'm 6 feet, 2 inches tall, not a bad-looking guy, 36 and I'm strong and healthy. I used to play football, but that's kid stuff. I now prefer more adult games. (Besides, it's more fun being a participant than a spectator.)

My wife plays cards every Saturday. I live in Minneapolis. Where does Mary live?
DEAN

DEAR DEAN: NOT in Minneapolis!

DEAR ABBY: For the first 45 years of marriage, I did what you told Mary to do while her husband watched football. If we ever drove anywhere with the kids we all had to shut up while Daddy kept the car radio on the whole way listening to a football game.

I finally woke up and said, "Listen, we're either going to pull this family together or you can move to the YMCA!"

He got the message. One day of the weekend he can have his TV football—but on the other, we all do something together.
BEAT THE GAME

DEAR ABBY: I'm with you, and shame on Mary. My husband travels 273 days out of 365, and when he's home I don't care what he does as long as he's happy. At least he's home.

I recently complained to a neighbor about how lonely I was because my husband was away so much. She commented, "At least you know he's coming home."

I had forgotten, Abby, her husband died last summer.

4-H club installs

TWIN FALLS — Officers were installed during a candlelight installation ceremony when members of the Happy-Go-Lucky 4-H Club met at the home of Christine Britt.

Officers installed included Mickey Baker, president; Molly McRoberts, vice president; Denise Wallace, secretary; Tracy Engelhart, treasurer; Diana Brown, reporter; Teresa Meyerhoeffer, prayer leader; Janet High, son leader, and Miss Britt, sergeant-at-arms.

Discussions were held on demonstrations, correct measuring, raking cookies and making sand ices.

A new member, Lisa Pfeiffer, was welcomed.

Bridge clubs meet

SHOSHONE — Mrs. Floyd Spraktes entertained OUR bridge club Thursday evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. Richard Baumann, Mrs. Morris Gerard and Mrs. Robert Haddock.

Wednesday bridge club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Frank Carothers with Mrs. Richard Baumann hostess. Mrs. Wayne Sorensen, Mrs. Delbert Gehrig and Mrs. Earl Cheney won the prizes.

OCHO pinochle club met Thursday evening at the Manhattan cafe. Mrs. Dale Chatterton was hostess. Score awards were won by Mrs. Frank Carothers and Mrs. Lee Sullivan. Mrs. Elva Chapman and Mrs. Carothers received pinochle.

Novel reviewed

TWIN FALLS — "The Un-sinkable Molly Brown," the popular novel by Richard Morris, Broadway musical and motion picture, was presented at the March Guest Night meeting of the Le Livre et La Plume Literary Arts Society meeting, it was announced today.

Mrs. Gordon Beckstead and Burt Hulsh presented the novel as a musical reading.

Mrs. Wesley Link was welcomed as a new member and members introduced their guests.

The guilded thought was presented by Mrs. Hulsh. Co-hostesses, Mrs. Blaine Molynaux, Mrs. Lynn Pettingill, Mrs. Jess Summers, Mrs. Hulsh and Mrs. Don Williams, served refreshments.

Magic Valley Favorites

IDAHO BAKED BEANS
2 1/2 cups Idaho beans, soaked overnight (Great Northern best)

1/2 cup finely chopped onions
3 dashes of hot pepper sauce
Salt to taste

1/4 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup molasses
1 teaspoon dry mustard
Few raisins can be added if desired

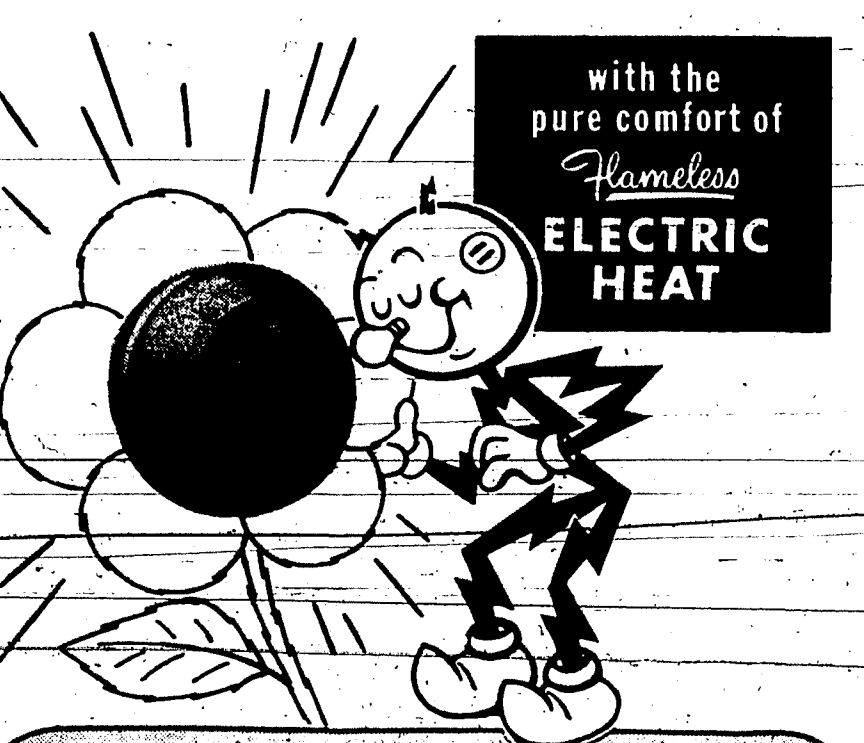

Put all ingredients in bean pot, earthen material, or Dutch oven. Cover with water and bake about four hours or until soft. Add water at intervals as needed.

Can be stored in refrigerator and heated again if necessary.

The Times-News will pay $5 each week for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.

Fun night event features stew

TWIN FALLS — You'd never believe it to look at George Kawamoto but his specialty is Irish stew and members and guests of the Robert Stuart Junior High School PTA will have an opportunity to sample it Wednesday night.

The first annual St. Patrick's Day fun night program will be held Wednesday beginning at 5 p.m. in the school's cafeteria.

Kawamoto's Irish stew will be just one of many highlights of the evening, promises Jack Muldoon, event chairman. Burt Hulsh, another "adopted" Irishman, will be master of ceremonies and will provide a number of songs in his tenor voice during the evening.

Irish dancers from the Beverly Hackney school will perform and Irish songs will be sung by the Robert Stuart school music department.

Mary Walker and Johnny Martizia will provide some Irish songs and Roland Devries will play accordion music.

Muldoon and school principal Jack Watts say plans are also being made for a Blarney Stone, wishing well and an Irish sweepstakes.

Muldoon said the PTA plans to make this an annual event to raise funds for the PTA programs during the year.

In addition to the genuine Irish stew the menu will include coffee, punch and dessert.

Oriental flavor

IRISH STEW with a slight oriental flavor will highlight the St. Patrick's Day fun night menu at the Robert Stuart Junior High School Wednesday. George Kawamoto, left, chef, says the secret is to use a lot of Irish potatoes. Kawamoto who will prepare the St. Patrick's Day stew offers a sample to students Debby Sharp and Carolyn Whitehead, and school principal Jack Watts, from left.

T.F. miss tours Europe with U of I Vandaleers

TWIN FALLS — One Magic Valley student, Susan Olsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Olsen, 236 Madison St., Twin Falls, was among the University of Idaho Vandaleers who left Saturday for a singing tour of Europe.

The Vandaleers, a well-known University of Idaho singing group, departed from Spokane Saturday with their initial destination London, England. They will spend the following three weeks on tour of nine countries.

Miss Olsen is a freshman at the university, where she is majoring in music. She is a 1970 graduate of the Twin Falls High School.

She and other vocalists from Idaho will perform in England, Holland, France and Germany. They will visit Parliament while in England, see the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace; visit Luxembourg, Paris, Berlin, Hanover and Darmstadt in Germany.

They will also be in Salisbury and Oxford, England, and in Amsterdam, Holland.

Time will be permitted for sight seeing and visiting of points of interest in each of the countries along the tour. They will leave April 4 from Paris to return to the United States by way of London.

Vandaleers plan to attend the Royal Ballet Giselle while in London and to visit Stratford on Avon as well as the Winchester Cathedral and the Salisbury Cathedral where they will perform.

Liberated

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—A men's restroom at San Diego State college was "liberated" Thursday by coeds who said it was closer and has better lighting.

Three girls, supporters of the women's liberation movement, said they could see better to comb their hair and adjust their makeup than in a nearby women's room.

"I had to go to the bathroom, so I came to the closest one," added one of the coeds, who identified herself only as Claudia.

A male sophomore in the men's room at the time of the invasion beat a hasty retreat. He said he was "minding my own business when I heard girl's voices. I got out of there quick."

An assistant dean of students said there was "nothing specific in the disciplinary rules against women using men's rooms and vice versa. But if this becomes widespread, I am somewhat sure that a specific rule will be drafted to prohibit it."

Bleach Bottle To Piggy Bank

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Thrifty Mother wanted to know how to make a piggy bank out of a plastic bleach bottle. Lay the bottle on its side with the handle up. Four spoons for legs. Cover the lid with a large button or round circle of pink felt and two little black felt circles for the pig's nose. Cut two triangles for ears and glue on. Glue on two colorful buttons for eyes. Curl a pipe cleaner around your finger to make the tail and attach it. Cut a slit for the money to slip through.—JANE, an 8th grader.

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Thrifty Mother how to make Easter baskets from 2-gallon plastic bleach bottles. Measure the height you prefer for the basket and cut part way round, leaving one-inch strips opposite each other for handles. Cut these strips all the way up to form the handles and fasten together at the top with a ribbon bow. The basket part could be scalloped around the top and then eyelet holes made with a hot nail to perforate each scallop. Small colorful detergent bottles can be used to make cute May baskets or favors for guests in nursing homes.—MARIE

DEAR POLLY—I am a young housewife with two children and another on the way. I am interested in taking up sewing as a hobby. I feel it will be of great benefit to my family and our budget, too. I am unable to locate beginner's instructions that will not put a hole in that budget. I hope someone can tell me how I can pursue this without a big investment.—MRS. L. M.

Infamous people's recipes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some recipes in a new and wickedly entertaining cookbook sound good enough to lend weight to that cliché about nobody being all bad.

"The Lucretia Borgia Cookbook" by Dorothy and Martin Blinder (Price-Stern-Sloan) is subtitled "Favorite Recipes of Infamous People."

The least appealing, at least to this writer, is the one attributed to Mata Hari, a World War I spy. Her recipe for curried prawns calls for artery-clogging quantities of butter and heavy cream—a pound of the former, a pint of the latter. The beautiful spy obviously was decades ahead of medical science in recognizing the heart-threatening possibilities of a high-cholesterol diet.

The authors, Blinder, a San Francisco psychiatrist, and his wife, show an equally macabre sense of humor in their other recipe selections and the amusing paragraphs preceding each. Cheese and honey cake, a kisser's cousin to traditional Jewish honey cake, is attributed to Herod I. Biblical history recalls him as the ruthless ruler who issued a deathbed order to slay all Jews in his kingdom so that he, in the authors' words, "might be ensured of widespread mourning."

Francisco Pizarro, Spanish conquistador, destroyer of the Inca Indian civilization and short-lived Spanish governor of Peru in the 16th century, is credited with cebiche de camarones, or prawns marinated news about the people you know

Palmer storms to stroke victory in Citrus meet

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—Gallery favorite Arnold Palmer stormed to a one-stroke victory over old pro Julius Boros Sunday in the $150,000 Florida Citrus Invitational golf tournament, setting a new record at 18 under par.

"I was a little dubious about Julius," said the sun-bronzed Palmer, picking up $30,000 for his second tournament title.

The gallery loves Arnie

THE GALLERY'S BEHIND ARNOLD PALMER, shown here coming out of the rough in the final round of the Citrus Open to baffle the third hole of the last round. Palmer ended with a meet-record 18-under total to shade old pro Julius Boros by a stroke for the title. (UPI)

The 41-year-old veteran birdied three of his first four holes on his way to carding a 68 to go with his earlier scores of 66, 66, 66. Bob Lunn, who finished this tournament at eight under par, beat Palmer by one stroke here last year in a 17-under-par performance.

Boros, the 51-year-old father of seven children, shared the lead with Palmer at the end of the third round, but came in with a 69 on the final round. Palmer, who had been consistently complaining about his putting earlier this year, said the 355-yard par four 17 hole "was the big one for me." With Boros threatening to throw the match into a sudden death playoff, Palmer got off a good drive and put it two feet from the hole with a sand iron.

"I very shakily got it into the hole," he said. Boros pocketed $17,100 for his second-place finish while Kermit Zarley picked up $10,650 for his third place performance. Zarley led the second round with a course record tying 64, and fired a 69 Sunday to finish at 15 under par.

Young Californian Jerry Heard and Tom Welskopf were six strokes behind the leader and one stroke farther back were Lionel Hebert, Dave Stockton, Frank Beard and Gibby Gilbert.

NAIA king Kentucky State hoping for berth to NIT

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Kentucky State's basketball team and 650 hip-wiggling supporters left for Frankfort, Ky., Sunday, still uncertain whether the basketball season was over.

It goes something like this: "La-la-la-la-la-la-la-la-la-la. Goodbye, Eastern Michigan." "I think we have as fine a ball club as you can find," Mitchell said. "It has the best front-line in the country, there's no doubt about it."

Giusti's 0.00 ERA bolsters Pirate mound staff, chance for repeat

By FRED DOWN, UPI Sports Writer. Dave Giusti's earned run average in spring training a year ago was 38.50. His era this spring is 0.00. If you think that tells you something, think of what it tells the Pittsburgh Pirates.

the Astros for seven innings ... Ed Kranepool's three-run first-inning homer paced an All-Star team of players from the New York Mets, Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-4 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds. Wayne Simpson, 14-3 before being sidelined last season, was the victim of Kranepool's homer.

Mann takes cycle event

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Dick Mann dodged several bad accidents and paced his big BSA perfectly Sunday to win the grueling Daytona-200 motorcycle race for the second consecutive year. Mann, a 37-year-old veteran rider from Richmond, Calif., pushed his factory-backed BSA into the lead on the 41st lap of the 53-lap scramble and roared across the finish line ahead of national champion Gene Romero and young Don Ende.

A 30-year old native of Seneca Falls, N.Y., Giusti was a confused man at about this time last spring. He was being clouted all over the field in exhibition games, knew he was not included in Manager Danny Murtagh's plans for starting pitchers and feared he was headed for the minors.

JOHNNY BENCH slides safely under Jesse O'Connell as Cardinal was unable to hold onto the ball hit to him by Willie South. In the ensuing tangle Bench was spiked slightly. The game was played with representatives of the Mets, Phils, and Cards, who won over the Reds 5-4. (UPI)

CSI to open on Tuesday

POCATELLO — College of Southern Idaho's baseball team will open its season — weather permitting — in Pocatello Tuesday afternoon against Idaho State. The game will be the home opener for the Bengals.

Mike Glenn's Golden Eagles took the Northern Division ICAC title last year before falling to powerful Mesa JC in the conference playoffs. Glenn's squad this year is solid on the plate but poses some questions on the mound, where three of the top four pitchers were lost to graduation.

Outlaw entrants

FILER — The Filer Outlaw Tournament begins Wednesday, but tournament director Lee Bartlett reported Monday morning that three more teams are needed as soon as possible to fill the field for the event. Any teams wishing to participate in the tournament should contact Bartlett as soon as possible and will be added to the field on a first-come, first-served basis.

Florida closes on Condors

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—The Floridians kept alive their hopes of making the Eastern Division playoffs in the American Basketball Association by defeating the Pittsburgh Condors Sunday night 117-114.

Augert defeats World Cup champion Theoni in last series event

AARE, Sweden (UPI)—World slalom champion Jean-Noel Augert gave the French some consolation for their defeat in the Alpine world cup by beating the world cup holder in Sundays slalom competition, the last event of the 1970-71 world cup series. The 23-year-old Augert, who has dominated the slalom market this season, flashed down the 510 meters course which had a drop of 220 meters and 63 and 68 gates respectively in the two heats, for a total time of 100.67 seconds.

Gustavo Theoni of Italy, who secured his world cup crown in Saturday's giant Slalom, was runner-up in 101.33 seconds while Edmund Bruggmann of Switzerland swept into third place in 102.19 seconds. Earlier Sunday, the new Alpine ski queen 17-year-old Annemarie Froell of Kleinarl, Austria, had proved her superiority by winning the ladies giant slalom.

Gooding's Godby has match win

GOODING — Dyrk Godby of Gooding won a unanimous decision over Brad Fullmer of Utah in the feature match of a Golden Gloves and AAU boxing program at Gooding Friday night. Fullmer is the son of former champion Gene Fullmer and dropped the decision in the 95 pound class. Walter Stone of Boise was the boxing commissioner in attendance among the crowd of 700. Billy Trujillo of Boise, Gene Turley of Boise, and Woody Turley of Twin Falls were judges.

Seattle edges by Bullets

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Player-coach Lenny Wilkens threw a "baseball" pass the length of the court for one layin and stole the ball for another in the final 20 seconds to lift the Seattle Sonics to a 124-121 NBA win over the Baltimore Bullets Sunday night. Baltimore had pulled to within one point, 120-119, on Fred Carter's tip-in with 20 seconds left. But Wilkens, in deep trouble with all five Baltimore players pressing in backcourt, tossed his court-length pass to Don Smith all alone under the basket for an easy bucket.

Phoenix pins loss on Bucks

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—The Phoenix Suns got Lew Alcindor in foul trouble and kept their playoff hopes alive by handing the Milwaukee Bucks their third loss in a row, 125-113, Sunday night. It was the first time since Alcindor joined the Bucks that they have lost three in a row. The victory moved Phoenix to within three games of the idle Chicago Bulls, who trail Milwaukee in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division standings.

Notre Dame's Carr eyes NCAA tourney score mark

HOUSTON (UPI)—The only thing it would take for Austin Carr to break every NCAA scoring record is four Notre Dame teammates good enough to help him to championship game.

Carr has scored 210 points, an average of 62.5 a game, in four NCAA regional playoffs the last two years. He started last year with 61 points, a single game NCAA record, then hit 52 in a regional loss to Kentucky and 45 in the consolation game against Iowa.

The 6-3 senior opened this year's NCAA competition with 52 points Saturday night as Notre Dame defeated Texas Christian 102-94 in the Midwest preregional tournament at the University of Houston. Host Houston defeated New Mexico State 72-59 in the other game. Carr, closing out a great collegiate career, holds the three-game NCAA tournament record with his 158 points last year. This also surpasses the four-game mark of 143 set by Jerry Chambers of Utah in 1966.

The Irish star could break Bill Bradley's five-game mark of 177 set in 1965 and the NCAA career scoring record of 358 held by Houston's Elvin Hayes. That's possible if Notre Dame can get by its next two games in the regionals and make the finals in the Astrodome March 25-27, assuring Carr of playing five games.

Notre Dame, 20-7, will open the Midwest regional in Wichita, Kan., next Thursday night against Drake, the Missouri Valley Conference champion. Houston, 21-6, meets Kansas, the Big Eight titleholder, in the other game. The two winners play Saturday night for the right to advance to the championship series.

Carr scored 18 points the last seven minutes of the first half against Texas Christian after the Southwest Conference champions had pulled to within one point, 29-28, with 7:07 to go in the half. Carr's spree gave Notre Dame a 56-42 halftime lead and TCU, 15-12, never caught up.

Houston, which missed 22 of its first 28 shots, had to come from 19 points behind to beat underdog New Mexico State, 19-8. The Aggies, which hit 40.5 per cent the first half to 27.3 for the Cougars, led 32-13 with 6:49 to go in the first half.

Brundage says IOC has veto against amateurs

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI)—Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee (IOC), Sunday warned the international federations that the organization would have the right to veto any athlete it believes has violated the amateur code.

Brundage, 83, said the rule 28 on eligibility had been completely redrafted and would be sent to the 75 members for a mail vote within 30 days, but warned: the Olympic games are our games and we interpret the rules.

Brundage said a sub-committee of from 3 to 5 men would discuss any suspect competitor and would have the final say on his participation, after consultation with the national federation concerned and the national olympic committee.

Brundage, who met with newsmen after the 9-man executive had waded through a 36-point agenda over the weekend, said the case of 10 skiers he had personally branded as professionals had not been discussed.

He was asked if this meant the 10 men, including world slalom champion Jean-Noel Augert of France, would be cleared to compete at the Sapporo Olympic games next year within the definition of the new rule.

Brundage said: "We will have to come to this bridge at a later date," but added, "my opinion remains the same. It was based on the advertising I saw in the United States and the skiers violated their amateur status by travelling thousands of miles to act as paid coaches."

Brundage said the committee would deal with special cases because "we cannot check five or ten thousand athletes."

"It will depend on the case in question whether the commission or the full IOC congress will be asked to make a decision," he said.

Brundage said it was still undecided who would serve on the sub-committee although he admitted they would probably be nominated from the executive.

Marc Hodler, IOC honorary general secretary and president of the international ski federation (FIS), has publicly warned Brundage and the IOC skiing will be removed from the Sapporo games if the 10 men classified as professionals by the president are not permitted to compete.

The IOC sent out a four-point questionnaire to the full congress for guidance on how the executive should vote on this question but Brundage would not release the figures: this information was for the private eyes of the three vice presidents and the executive board, he said.

Royals defeat Cavaliers

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The Cincinnati Royals kept their National Basketball Association playoff hopes alive Sunday night by outscoring the Cleveland Cavaliers, 27-12 from the foul line in the second half enroute to a 113-103 victory.

The Royals, who have now won four straight and six of their last seven, trailed 57-54 at halftime but reeled off eight straight points after the intermission to take a 62-57 lead and the Cavaliers never caught up.

Tom Van Arsdale, who paced the winners with 31 points, kept the Royals in the game with 11 first-quarter points and tallied in the second half.

The Cavaliers, who outshot the Royals 43-39 from the field, got a 24-point effort from Walt Wesley. Bobby Smith added 16.

The victory kept the Royals 1-2 games behind Atlanta in the battle for second place in the NBA's Central Division.

Atlanta coasts to easy win

ATLANTA (UPI)—Lou Hudson and Walt Hazzard keyed a second-half Atlanta surge and led the Hawks to a lulluster 108-101 victory over Philadelphia here Sunday before a national television audience.

The win was Atlanta's seventh in eight games and kept the Hawks a game and a half ahead of Cincinnati in the race for a playoff berth in the NBA Central Division.

Atlanta, playing its third game in 44 hours, had trouble getting untracked in the first half, but moved behind Hudson and Hazzard to get the lead for good in the third period. Hudson had 12 points in that quarter after scoring just three in the first half.

Atlanta trailed 46-45 at the half but led 80-72 after three periods. Pete Maravich led all Hawk scorers with 25 points.

3 records fall in track test

SOFIA (UPI)—The second European indoor track and field championships ended here Sunday with a total of three new world records and a thrilling five-hour battle in the pole vault, the top event of the two-day meet.

Wolfgang Nordwig of East Germany took the pole vault with a new indoor world mark of 5.40 (17-foot-9) meters after battling nearly five hours against world outdoor record holder Chris Papanicolaou of Greece, world indoor record Champion Kjell Isaksson of Sweden and Soviet champion Juri Isakov.

Isaksson, who held the previous indoor world mark of 17-4 1/2, took second place while Isakov came third with the new Soviet record mark of 17-4 1/2.

Papanicolaou, one of the top favorite for the title, suffered a leg injury at his first jump and had to withdraw.

The other two world marks were set by Soviet women shot-putter Nadezhda Chizhova with a 64-7 1/2 throw and by Margaret Beacham of Britain who bettered her own world record to win the 1,500 meter run in 4:17.2.

Soviet athletes took the lion's share of the gold medals with a total of eight title wins followed by West Germany and East Germany with four gold medals each.

West German athletes held a slight edge over the East Germans as they took five silver and two bronze medals compared to two silver and one bronze for their rivals.

Portland topples Buffalo

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The Portland Trail Blazers took advantage of a chilly 12-point Buffalo third period Sunday to race from behind for a 122-112 NBA victory.

The win, which guaranteed Portland the best record for expansion teams this season, tied an NBA record for expansion club victories at 25. The Blazers have lost 53 with four left to play.

Buffalo, which leads Portland 6-5 in head-to-head competition among the expansion clubs, had a 68-62 halftime lead. When Portland rookie sensation Geoff Petrie fouled out with more than nine minutes left in the third period, things looked rosey for the Braves.

Celtics cop 117-104 win

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Celtics scored 15 straight points midway through the third period and went on to defeat the Chicago Bulls 117-104 Sunday.

Trailing, 60-58, the Celtics began their 15-point string with a three-point play by Don Nelson with 8:45 left in the period. With 6:14 left, Boston was ahead 73-60 and Chicago never caught up.

Record Washington catch made by Jerome's Burton

For a salesman, Ted Burton of Jerome will go to about any lengths to prove his own merchandise. Since he sells sporting goods, the effort and the results are always enjoyable. But none probably ever top the catching of a steelhead that broke all existing Washington state records.

Burton, along with Bob Brackett of West Five Points Sporting Goods in Twin Falls, and Tom Jensen and Gene Burton, made a steelhead trip to Seattle and, under the guiding of Bob Mashmedt, tried their luck in the Quinalt River.

Fishing out of a canoe, Burton hooked onto a 32-pound brawler that gave the angler and his 12-pound test line all the fight they wanted for over one hour. The previous best was a 30-pound, two-ounce steelhead taken out of Washington's Skagit River.

Due to conditions of getting out, Burton and his fish lost a pound. It weighed in at 33 pounds when first taken from the river but it was two days before the party could get it to a notary public to have it certified. By then it had lost a pound due to dehydration.

Although Burton's was the best, the four-man party didn't come out empty. They took 11 of the ocean-going Rainbows, running from 14 to 32 pounds.

The largest known steelhead caught in the contiguous states was one taken in Idaho in 1960. Larger ones are believed to have been caught in Alaska.

Washington record fish
TED BURTON of Jerome holds the Washington winter-run steelhead he caught last month that broke the state record. Burton, who owns a sporting goods store, teamed with Bobson (Clark) and Gene Burton of West Five Points Sporting Goods in Twin Falls on the Quinalt River.

Petty drives Plymouth to Carolina 500 stock victory

ROCKINGHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Richard Petty drove his blue Plymouth to victory under the caution flag in the Carolina 500 at North Carolina Motor Speedway Sunday after a five-car crash with only three laps left in the race.

It was Petty's third major victory in six starts this season and earned the speedster from Randleman, N. C., $17,350. The victory boosted Petty's earnings to $81,115 for the year.

The win was Petty's 122nd in NASCAR racing and marked his 12th on the superspeedways, tying Fred Lorenzen's string of wins on the major tracks.

Petty, who led six different times for 198 laps, crossed the finish line after four hours 12 minutes and 55 seconds for an average speed of 118.696 miles per hour.

The final caution flag, seventh in the race, went up after a pileup going into the third turn involving Lorenzen, LeRoy Yarborough, Bobby Wawak, Elmo Langley and Wendell Scott.

Lorenzen, who was a lap behind Petty, slammed into Wawak as he headed for the infield after the initial impact which involved Yarborough, Langley and Wawak.

The race was thrown into a three-way dog fight between Petty, teammate Buddy Baker and defending grand national point champ Bobby Isaac when the front end of James Hylton's Mercury collapsed on lap 468 and caused him to skid into the infield.

Isaac finished second in a Dodge, Baker third in another Dodge, Lorenzen fourth in his Plymouth and Dick Brooks fifth in a Dodge.

Petty took the lead for good in lap 472 when the caution was lifted after Hylton's car was cleared from the track.

during the early stages of the race, when he only led for 57 of the first 313 laps.

"I led for a while, but the car wasn't handling good," said the curly-haired driver. "I made a slip and some of the others got ahead of me."

But Petty said his pit crew changed the racer's wedge during the next couple of pit stops.

Brave drives for basket

BUFFALO'S BOB KAUFFMAN (44) goes up between Portland's Dale Schluter (54) and LeRoy Ellis (25) for two points at Portland Sunday night. The Trailblazers beat Buffalo 122-112 with a third-period rally to insure themselves of having the best expansion NBA record. (UPI)

West champ Lakers rally past Pistons by 110-101

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—The Los Angeles Lakers continued to experiment for the playoffs Sunday night but their practice session was good enough to open up a close game in the third period and hand the Detroit Pistons a 110-100 defeat.

Coach Joe Mullaney used all his players including Earnie Killum, who scored his first NBA point.

Wilt Chamberlain, seeing only part-time duty, failed to take a shot until the 10:51 mark of the third period. But then he made four buckets in a row to spark the Laker surge.

In a five-minute span at the end of the third quarter and the beginning of the fourth, Los Angeles outscored the Pistons 19-6 to win only its second game in the seven contests since Jerry West was injured at Buffalo March 2. West is out for the season.

Oswald: "The basis of Stayman is that the two-club response to a one no-trump opening is artificial and forcing. In JACOBY MODERN the force is for one round only. Partner rebids two of a four-card major suit; with no four-card major he rebids two diamonds and responder takes it from there on.

Jim: "This hand shows two advantages of Stayman. Three no-trump goes down one trick since the defense takes three hearts and two clubs. If North plays at four spades a club lead by East will give the defense two club tricks and a ruff to start with and a heart trick later. When South plays four spades he makes it since defenders can't ruff that club.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "Tell our readers something about the development of the modern no-trump."

Oswald: "It started when I married the tennis champion of Texas back in 1932. She wanted to learn bridge in a hurry. Everyone used honor tricks but I decided to teach your mother with the use of point count. There was little difference between my 1932 no-trump and standard American of 1971. We played all responses except two no-trump as one round forces just as standard American does. The Stayman convention arrived some 10 years later."

Jim: "Anyone who doesn't use some form of Stayman today is not getting good

2-CARD SYSTEM

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2♣	Pass	1♥
Pass	4♥	Pass	3♦

You, South, hold:

♠ K 10 7 6 5 ♦ A K Q 9 4 ♣ A 2

What do you do now?

A—Bid four no-trump. Make sure your partner holds at least one ace before bidding slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner bids five hearts to show two aces. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

GASOLINE ALLEY

Have you talked to your father about this, Chipper?

I didn't see any reason to get him all worked up. Mom!

I may not be accepted...and if I am I won't start till fall!

You want to do this very much, don't you?

Your mother has company! Maybe I'd better come in another time, Clovia!

That's just my brother's jeep, Zip! I want you to meet him, too!

REX MORGAN

WITH THE KIDS AT YOUR MOTHER'S, LET'S GO OUT FOR DINNER, BETH!

I-I HAVE A HEAD-ACHE, I'M GOING TO BED!

I SAW DR. ADAM! HE PHONED ME AT WORK! PERHAPS YOU SHOULD HAVE LEFT TIMMY AT THE HOSPITAL OVERNIGHT!

PASS IT ON

by L.M. Boyd

MERCEDES-BENZ is making garbage trucks? Unlikely, most unlikely. But true... WHY IT'S HARDER for the Japanese to learn English than for the Chinese to do so I can't explain, but such is reported to be the case... ONE WOMAN in four gets gallstones. One man in 10 does likewise. Isn't fair, is it?

DO YOU REALIZE there are 18,000 catfish farmers? Long been thinking personally of running a trout farm upon retirement. As maybe I've mentioned once or twice. Or three. But these catfish farmers are getting 3,000 pounds of fish to the acre. That's $20 million worth of catfish a year. Just talked to one such farmer. "Like the married man with the girl downtown," he said, "trout are fun, but the catfish gets the dinner on the table every day." Something to that.

THAT COMMON BELIEF that the Ben-Hur personality cut off Samson's hair is wrong. What Delilah did merely was get the old boy to go to sleep. For 1,100 pieces of silver. It was the Philistines' men who handled the actual hair-cutting. A subscriber who has looked into the matter wants that made clear.

"I CAN ALWAYS spot a restaurant owner in my place, no matter how big the group he's with," reports one of same. "It's the man who surreptitiously turns his plate over to read the mark on the back."... A SHORTAGE OF electricity and an overabundance of garbage, that's what was wrong with the City of Milan in Italy. But it fixed that. Set up a power plant rigged to run on burned garbage. Excellent notion.

CUSTOMER SERVICE - Q "Can a whale jump all the way out of the water?" A. Can do. In fact, a lively specimen could clear a boat 10 feet high. Seamen have seen that... Q. "Why is it women in general tend to have much better teeth than men?" A. Women are more inclined to go to their dentists regularly, that's all. More women than men eventually lose their teeth, however. But that's just because women usually live longer.

YOUNG JEWS by the thousands are leaving the United States to go to Israel. You don't hear much about it, but the movement's massive. Their average age, 34. Their work, skilled mostly. It's not the antisemitism here, whatever it amounts to, that's not what's sending them. It's the crime, drugs in schools, riots, ghetto dirt, so on, they say.

AND IN THE ANIMAL world: Not every body realizes most all monkeys are nearsighted. The bug men say spiders grow about a million to the acre, uncultivated. Female frogs don't croak, it should be noted. Among Alaskan seals, it's the female, not the male, that goes wandering at over the Pacific. And a lion in the wilds daily eats about 15 pounds of exceedingly fresh meat.

OPEN QUESTION: Have the cosmetics boys yet come up with waterproof eyelashes that won't turn loose off the lady's lids in her shower?

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON, wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 17076, Fort Worth, Texas 76102.
