Traveler Still stinks ... But carcass plant officials deny odor

TWIN FALLS — A young California man died Tuesday night when the vehicle in which he was riding struck a concrete abutment on the Low Line Canal about two miles south of the U. S. Highway 93-30 intersection.

Idaho State Police identified the victim as Bruce David Wise, 22, Ericino, Calif. Driver of the Volkswagen bus was Glenn Clifford Spicer, 20, Van Nuys, Calif., who is in critical condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Investigating officer William Green said it took two wreckers an hour and a half to free the victim's body from the wreckage. The driver was thrown from the vehicle.

Green said a gust of wind apparently caught the vehicle and forced it into the abutment.

The accident occurred about 10:45 p.m., Green said. He said Spicer was en route to Bozeman, Mont., to college and that the victim was accompanying him on the trip. He said Wise had been riding in another vehicle which was traveling to Bozeman, but had changed to Spicer's vehicle at Jackpot.

Russ sets consumer good hike

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Communist Party has for the first time ordered production of consumer goods expanded to keep ahead of the rising standard of living of Soviet people.

"Saturation" of shops with television sets, washing machines, milk, eggs, butter and similar goods is the ultimate goal of the new program, Party Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev told the 24th Soviet Communist Party Congress Tuesday.

"Consumer goods production must go up at a higher rate than the cash incomes of the Soviet people," Brezhnev said. Emphasis on more and better consumer goods was the key domestic feature of Brezhnev's six-hour address to 6,000 delegates to the Congress at the Kremlin.

T.F. canals get water

TWIN FALLS — Water has been turned into the Twin Falls Canal Co. system, says a canal firm spokesman.

Water turned into the system at Milner Monday should reach the lower end of the system by the middle of next week.

BUHL — Cascade Commodities Corp. claims the odor from its rendering plant process is under control.

Buhl residents, however, say it isn't. Neighbors of the plant say today that it is as bad as ever.

And Judge James M. Cunningham in Fifth District Court said an order has been issued requiring officials of the firm to appear Monday to show why they should not be held in contempt for violation of a court order.

The order, issued March 19, took effect Monday. It ordered

Noted Buhl businessman dies at 50

BUHL — Jack Joslin, 50, noted Buhl businessman, died early this morning at his home of an apparent heart attack.

Joslin, who was born July 4, 1920, at Boise, came to Buhl as a youth. Between 1940 and 1950, he was in the Army and attended a school in Los Angeles.

He had since lived in Buhl and owned and operated the Joslin Appliance and Television firm at the time of his death.

Cascade Commodities to refrain from "committing acts which would produce odors preventing residents of the area near the plant from continued enjoyment of life and property."

Buhl residents went to court in an effort to have the smell abated.

Gordon Carter, plant manager, told the Times-News today that a new steam cooling process has "eliminated" any "offensive odor." Steam from animal cooking pots is cooled and condensed in a water bath, with the "odor flushed down the drain," Carter said.

Carter and his brother, Boise attorney Ronald G. Carter, both said today that the order "has been complied with."

Ronald Carter said "We think we're within the state's anti-pollution requirements quite easily." Idaho Health Department regulations required a cooling tower to condense the steam from the rendering process, eliminating the resulting odor.

"Nothing is escaping into the air that can be construed as an offensive odor," the Boise attorney said.

"We agreed with the people (plaintiffs in the case) that we'd have to do something," Ronald Carter said. "We agreed in court that we would certainly clean up our process."

He added, "We're trying to do our best to conform to the feelings of the community. We think we've done it."

Meanwhile, in Buhl, the plaintiffs in the case disagree. Mrs. Robert Day, wife of plaintiff Robert Day, said the odor is still "very strong" at her home a short distance from the plant.

Times-News photographer Mike Robertson, who visited the area on Tuesday, said that "The smell from the plant downwind was enough to make me gag."

Robertson described his experiences: "At 4 p.m. Tuesday, standing to the southwest of the rendering plant, the odor coming from the plant was as bad as the first time I photographed the dead animals several weeks ago."

On the back side of the plant was a large pile of animal carcasses. Near the county road to the east, carcasses were piled inside the plant behind a closed gate. At 4:10 p.m., a truckload of carcasses drove up and parked by Carter's plant. At about 4:30 p.m., the workers from the plant began to unload the animals, taking the carcasses already there farther into the plant.

Robertson added that "While I was photographing the plant and dead animals, the plant was apparently in low operation, with the boilers down, but the heavy, gagging odor was still very much present downwind."

Democrats set '72 pullout goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats went on record 138 to 62 today for ending U.S. involvement in Vietnam not later than the end of 1972.

In effect the action paralleled that of Senate Democrats who recently voted 38 to 13 (with 2 abstentions and 2 reservations) to work for an American withdrawal "in a time certain." Senate leaders said the language meant during the 92nd Congress.

But at a party caucus preceding today's session, House Democrats rejected the Senate language, which they considered ambiguous, by a 120 to 81 vote. They substituted the phrase "during the 92nd Congress," which runs through 1972.

They then substituted that language for a proposal by the party's most vigorous antiwar forces to seek an end of U.S. participation in the Indochina War by the end of this year.

House Democratic leaders originally had opposed putting any specific date in any resolution lest it be construed as unfairly tying the President's hands in his effort to negotiate a successful end of the war.

Neither House nor Senate resolution has any binding effect. However, Democrats comprise a majority in both houses and the stand could be reflected in later legal restrictions.

Any such action by the House would come as a sharp reversal of its previous stands which have tended to support presidential actions in Vietnam. First tests of the new antiwar sentiment were due in the House later today and Thursday on proposed restrictive amendments to a bill to extend the draft law. One such proposal would bar use of draftees in Vietnam.

On the Senate side where debate on the Nixon administration's Indochina policies appeared to be heating up again, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., challenged claims that the allied operation in Laos was a success.

Life term for Calley

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—A military jury sentenced Lt. William L. Calley Jr. to life imprisonment at hard labor today for the My Lai massacre murder of 22 Vietnamese women, children and old men.

The verdict came after five hours and 48 minutes of deliberation on the sentence, which the jury began considering late Tuesday. It took the six officers 13 days to arrive at a verdict of premeditated murder

Monday. The sentencing in the landmark case came at 2:36 p.m. EST with the 5-foot-2 convicted mass murderer standing at attention facing Col. Clifford H. Ford, the court president.

"First Lt. William L. Calley, it is my duty as president of this court to inform you that the jury began considering and upon secret written ballot, three fourths of the members present at the time the vote was taken concurring sentences you:

"To be confined at hard labor for the length of your natural life, to be dismissed from the service, to forfeit all pay and allowances." Ford told the defendant.

The judge, Col. Reid W. Kennedy, announced at 1:05 p.m. EST that the jury had decided upon a sentence for Calley, whose trial—which began Nov. 12—was the longest in U.S. military history.

Earlier the jury had asked again to inspect journals kept by intelligence and operations units on the American infantry sweep through My Lai on March 16, 1968.

Natural gas rate to rise

BOISE (UPI) — Natural gas rates in southern Idaho are going up 7.1 per cent April 15 because of actions by federal and state regulatory authorities.

Idaho's Public Utilities Commission was expected to issue an order today giving Intermountain Gas Co. authority to boost its rates 7.1 per cent to bring in $1,583,312 in revenue.

A spokesman for the PUC said the increase results from a Federal Power Commission action granting a rate increase to El Paso Natural Gas Company. El Paso supplies natural gas to Intermountain.

With the latest increases, the increases approved for Intermountain Gas during the past year amount to 15.6 per cent. The PUC approved an 8.5 per cent boost Jan. 1.

S. Viets attack Red base

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese commandos today attacked a Communist base camp inside Laos in what President Nguyen Van Thieu called an "encouraging" new phase of the campaign to cut the Ho Chi Minh supply trail. Fifty U.S. helicopters carried the 300 troops into battle.

Before announcing the new incursion in Laos, Thieu told South Vietnamese troops at Dong Ha near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), "We attack Cambodia, Laos and we can attack North Vietnam."

Thieu did not say how long the South Vietnamese planned to remain at what he termed "Communist Base Area No. 611" but an earlier, canceled operation into the same area, 33 miles south of Khe Sanh and west of the upper half of the A Shau valley, was supposed to last three days.

Thieu said the combat assault by elite Black Panther troops of the 1st Infantry Division of the South Vietnamese Army was preceded by massive American bombing raids.

The Communist base area is 18 miles south of Highway 9 in Laos.

Verdict assailed

BOSTON (UPI)—Capt. Ernest Medina, Lt. William Calley's commander at My Lai, said Tuesday all Americans share in his guilt by the way in which the murder case was conducted.

Medina, who faces murder charges himself, felt "bitterness" at the conviction, which he said was "very harsh and very severe." But he said again as he testified at Calley's court-martial, that he did not order a slaughter of unarmed civilians at the South Vietnamese village in 1968.

"Lt. Calley and myself didn't dictate policy on how the war was fought," Medina said. "I think we all, as American citizens, must share in the guilt of Lt. Calley. I think every member of the United States Army and each member of the jury as a member of the Army also shares in that verdict of guilty."

Burley man rides China hijack jet

MANILA (UPI)—A Philippine Air Lines (PAL) jetliner hijacked to Communist China by six young Filipinos returned to Manila today with 24 crew and passengers, including four Americans.

Passenger Eldred Fewkes, 58, Burley, Idaho, said they were treated "very courteously" by the Chinese during their overnight stay at Canton, 90 miles from Hong Kong. He said the Chinese officials were "very surprised" because it was the first time a hijacked plane had been flown to that nation.

The twin-jet BAC111 airliner, on a flight from Manila to Davao City, was hijacked Tuesday morning by six long-haired youths who said they were Maoists. Armed with pistols, a carbine and scissors, they took the plane to Hong Kong for refueling and then on to Canton. Original reports said there were only five hijackers.

The plane carried 45 passengers, including an 18-month-old baby not included on the passenger list, and a crew of five. Twenty of the passengers, including the baby, were released during the Hong Kong refueling stop.

Bank rates cited

TWIN FALLS — Frank Batten, manager of the Bank of Idaho, said today that consumer installment loan interest rates have changed little over the past 12 years.

However, commercial loan interest rates have changed and have not remained steady as was reported in Tuesdays Times-News.

Campaign fund limit asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration proposed today that an overall limitation be set on the amount of money a political candidate for federal office could spend on advertising, but did not recommend a formula to fix the amount.

Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Klienendienst testified that President Nixon recently made it clear that he favored a limit on expenditures and added it must be comprehensive and it must not give an advantage to those in office over those seeking office."

Klienendienst told a Senate Communications subcommittee that spending limitations should apply to both broadcast and nonbroadcast media but that there should be one comprehensive limit, leaving it to the candidate how to allocate his advertising budget.

A bill sponsored by Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., would set a spending ceiling for a presidential, senatorial or congressional candidate of 21 cents per vote cast for that office in the last previous election. Of this, seven cents could be allocated to television.

But Klienendienst, on behalf of the administration, rejected a formula based on the number of voters in the previous election. He said that "would limit today's campaign to yesterday's performance."

"Further, the formula used for the 1972 election would not take into account all persons 18, 19 and 20 years old who were recently enfranchised by the 1970 Voting Rights Act amendments," he said.

Klienendienst also said different requirements of candidates in different parts of the country must be taken into account and that Congress must resolve to what extent expenditures of individuals and organizations not directly connected with a candidate should be included in the office seeker's allowance.

Klienendienst said the Justice Department "strongly opposes" a limitation on individual contributions, telling the subcommittee that present limitations "have proved to be ineffective, unrealistic and incapable of enforcement."

"Rather, the main emphasis at this time should be on full disclosure and reporting," he said.

Klienendienst also recommended total repeal of the equal time provision for all federal offices and backed a requirement that media services provide time and space at the lowest unit rate charge.

Nixon views plan for swift pullout

Chosen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Mountain Home High School senior, Joseph A. Podrabsky, has been selected for appointment to the U.S. military Academy.

The announcement came from Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho. The appointee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Podrabsky.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon studied reports of his military strategists today to determine whether to accelerate the U.S. troop withdrawal rate from Vietnam beyond the present 12,500 men a month.

The chief executive plans to announce his troop cut decision next Wednesday during a live radio-television broadcast to the nation in which he will also assess the results of the Laos invasion.

The Western White House

already has served notice the next announcement will be "at least" at the current, 12,500 monthly level.

In a move expected to take some of the heat out of antiwar criticism, Nixon moved up from mid-April the date of his Vietnam policy statement.

Mother of Navy men honored

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Kirby Newman Sr., Twin Falls, mother of "Newmans' Navy," has been selected for honors by the San Diego, Calif. Armed Services YMCA, it was announced today.

Mrs. Newman was advised by telephone Tuesday she has been selected mother of the year by the YMCA organization. The mother of seven Navy career men, she was selected by the Naval forces in San Diego to be honored as the mother of the year on a basis of performance and characteristics of her son, Seaman Recruit Raymond Newman, stationed at the Naval Training Center, San Diego.

Raymond is the latest member of the family to join the U.S. Navy having entered in February and scheduled to graduate from the training center May 7. The enlistment of Raymond in February brought to eight the members of the family to have entered the Navy services. Eldest of the sons, Kirby, Jr., was killed in an air crash in February, 1970. Raymond and six other brothers are currently serving on active duty.

Mrs. Newman who said she was surprised and honored with her selection will leave by airliner for San Diego May 7 to be met by an official reception committee consisting of military and civic leaders. Chamber of commerce, county, city and YMCA officials will welcome the Mother of the Year to San Diego. She will then be given a whirlwind four-day schedule of sight seeing, receptions and special entertainment.

Mrs. Newman will be honored during a reception, luncheon, attend naval center ceremonies in which her son will be graduated, and on Saturday will be given a day-long visit to Disneyland.

Mothers' Day, Sunday, will include church services, a luncheon at the naval station and a visit to the San Diego zoo. She will be a guest of honor Sunday evening during the Armed Services YMCA supper forum. Monday will include breakfast with the YMCA board of directors and a return flight to Twin Falls.

During the entire four days, her son will accompany Mrs. Newman and have an opportunity to show her points of interest around San Diego. Both will be provided hotel accommodations in San Diego during the stay.

Obituaries

Jack Joslin

BUHL — Jack Joslin, 50, 909 Broadway St. N., died early this morning at his home of an apparent heart attack.

He was born July 4, 1920, in Boise and came to Buhl as a youth. He was graduated from the Buhl High School where he was a varsity football player. Mr. Joslin entered the Armed Forces in 1940 and attended officers training school at Ft. Benning, Ga., in 1943.

He served in the European theater as a first lieutenant with the 104th Division. On Oct. 19, 1943, he married Billie Fait at Ft. Benning.

He returned to Buhl after the war and attended the National School at Los Angeles in 1948-49. He had lived in Buhl since and was active in the appliance and television business, owning the Joslin Appliance and Television firm at the time of his death.

He belonged to the Fairview Grange, Kiwanis club, Buhl Chamber of Commerce and the Snake River Valley Electrical Association.

Vandals rip Scout camp

HAGERMAN — Between 40 and 50 Boy Scout leaders who will gather this weekend at Camp T.E. Roach on the Snake River are hoping it won't rain. The camp, completed and dedicated last October, has been the target of vandals several times since then and if it rains, the roof will leak. An axe smashed several spots on the geodesic dome, main structure at the camp, and holes were chopped in the dome. Damage, which is estimated at less than $1,000 began late in October, 1970, according to John Hill, director of programs for the Snake River Area Council. He said two holes were chopped in the roof and doors damaged in October. Then in late January, vandals struck with full force, chopping more holes in the roof, smashing restroom facilities and battering kitchen appliances and sinks and counter. The camp, built mostly with donated labor and materials, was constructed on a site in Gooding County donated by the Idaho Power Co. It was dedicated in honor of T. E. Roach, president of the board of Idaho Power Co. Information signs around the camp, which was constructed primarily for use as a leader training center, also were damaged. Hill said the remote area was posted "No trespassing" and was barricaded from travel by a large cable strung across the road. The vandals knocked down the cable and went on axing their way around the camp. Hill said members of the Boy Scout troop from the State School for the Deaf and Blind at Gooding have repaired signs and plans call for repairing other damage. Much of the damage cannot be repaired, however, and some equipment will have to be replaced, he said. Officers in Gooding County, with the cooperation of Twin Falls County officers, are investigating the vandalism. In an attempt to thwart future attacks at the camp, Hill said the Scouts are attempting to find someone who might be willing to park a trailer home at the camp. The Scouts will furnish facilities for the trailer home, water and utilities.

Legality of Idaho remap panel asked

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston, asked for an attorney general's opinion Tuesday on whether the legislature could designate a bipartisan commission to reapportion and redistrict the state. Mitchell also questioned whether it could be necessary for the legislature to approve any reapportionment or districting plan drawn up by such a commission. Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, Senate majority leader, suggested such a commission on the floor of the Senate Monday after threats of a gubernatorial veto were made in a State Affairs Committee meeting. Sen. John Evans, D-Malad, warned during the meeting the governor would veto any plan which by gerrymandering gave an advantage to Republicans. Kidwell later told the Senate such a state of affairs could lead to an impasse and said other states were using bipartisan commissions for the chore.

Paul girl in surgery on Tuesday

PAUL — Cindy Gutierrez, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Gutierrez, Paul, underwent surgery to rebuild her hip socket at the Shrine Hospital in Salt Lake City. Cindy's hip socket has a bone deterioration, which was discovered when she was four years old, her mother said. The girl has been under care of doctors at the Shrine hospital for the past four years. At one time, she wore a cast for eight months.

Car show on mall starts Thursday

TWIN FALLS — Spring is here and Twin Falls' auto dealers plan a "Million Dollar Car Show" Thursday through Saturday in the downtown shopping mall. Emmett Harrison, new car dealer, said all of the new auto dealers in Twin Falls have banded together to present this special spring showing of new cars. He said the dealers have purchased special cars with spring-like colors for this event. He said one block of Main Avenue North between Shoshone Street and Second Street North will be blocked off and new automobiles will be on display in this block. Harrison said auto dealers will be giving away prizes from 1-5 p.m. daily during the three-day showing. He said there also will be live entertainment in the one block of autos. Harrison invites everyone in Magic Valley to come to the special showing of new automobiles for spring.

Vicious visit

SMASHED SKYLIGHT at Camp T.E. Roach on the Snake River near Hagerman shows part of the damage wrought by vandals since the camp was dedicated last October. An axe was used on the skylights, roof and interior of the new geodesic dome, causing hundreds of dollars worth of damage.

Ditch use remains unaltered

TWIN FALLS — City residents of Twin Falls who use Twin Falls Canal Co. water through irrigation ditches will continue this summer on the same system they have used in the past even though the city has adopted an ordinance to create a city irrigation system. Jean Milar, city manager, said creation of the district will not be complete until next year. This summer will be something of a study program with persons who use the ditch water for irrigation called during the coming months to determine how many wish to join the city system. Based on this survey and the sign up of persons visited, he said, the district boundaries will be established and assessment rates determined. No assessments will be made until next year and it is anticipated costs will run about $2 per share per month for the ditch water delivered through the city maintained system. Milar said announcements will be made during the coming months regarding the survey of water users and a time will also be set up for those not called to call or visit city hall to sign up to join the new system. Milar said persons who do not wish to join the district need not do so unless they use water delivered to them by city maintained ditches. Persons in areas where property owners provide and maintain their own ditches need not join as long as they continue to follow this practice.

A poor sport is a fellow who can't appreciate YOUR practical joke.
A well-trained youngster is almost impossible to find these days, considering the state of the railroads.

A satisfied employe is one who hasn't seen the other fellow's check stub.

The Big Lift

Last fall, Sharon Decker, a 10-grade student at Cameron County High School in Emporium, Pa., read her history class a newspaper article about the work of the International Rescue Committee.

After discussing the worldwide refugee problem, the class decided to stop talking and try to do something — to sponsor bringing a refugee family to Emporium. They asked their teacher, Max Narby, to call IRC headquarters in New York for information, and the IRC immediately alerted its caseworkers in Europe.

In January, Stefan Nowak (not his real name), his wife and 10-year-old son arrived in New York en route to the little community in the heart of the Allegheny Mountains. They had gone from Communist Poland to Yugoslavia as tourists and from there escaped to Italy where they were sent to a refugee camp.

Emporium high school students found an apartment for the Nowak family, furnished it, arranged for English lessons and found Nowak, a metal worker and auto mechanic, a job with a local automobile agency. A townwide fund-raising campaign was started to obtain funds for the final resettlement and integration of the family into the community until they become self-supporting.

The Nowaks were only three of more than 8,000 refugees who fled

Communist East Europe last year. Close to 3,000 of these were resettled overseas, 1,900 in the United States. But some 5,100 were still on the IRC caseload at the beginning of 1971.

Unlike most organizations making annual reports at this time of year, the International Rescue Committee regrets to say that it had more customers than ever in 1970 — more, in fact, than in any other year since it was established in 1933. Even the crisis following the 1956 Hungarian revolution did not equal 1970 in terms of the massive number of refugees assisted.

In addition to those in Europe, it aided more than 11,000 Cuban refugees entering the United States through Miami and elsewhere. Many of them were children sent away by their parents before they reached 15 — the draft age in Cuba.

Despite intense surveillance by Red Chinese authorities, more than 10,000 refugees managed to escape mainland China to Hong Kong. IRC gave material assistance to 1,300 of them. During a single three-week period last October, 300 Chinese attempted to swim the three-mile-wide bay separating the mainland from Hong Kong. Many of them drowned.

In all, about 125,000 refugees on every continent benefited directly from IRC programs in 1970.

Business promises to be just as good — and as bad — in 1971.

WASHINGTON — To the immense relief of Republican politicians across the country, the decision has finally been made for John Mitchell to resign as Attorney General and manage President Nixon's campaign for reelection in 1972. Mitchell has begun preliminary planning for 1972 and may leave the Justice Department as early as September. But the move is not an easy one. Mitchell has grown to love being Attorney General and has agreed ("kicking and screaming," says one associate) to leave only at Mr. Nixon's specific request. The reason the choice finally boiled down to Mitchell is simple enough: nobody else has the confidence of both state party leaders and the President. Indeed, anybody as campaign chairman but Mitchell would have further dampened the soggy morale of state politicians. They were apprehensive over reports that Presidential counselor Robert Finch, regarded by them as overly liberal and insufficiently decisive, has been doing advance campaign planning. Hot-tempered Mayor James Tate of Philadelphia led fellow mayors in a lobbying blitz for revenue-sharing and wound up offending potential allies — particularly his home state delegation from Pennsylvania. Tate, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, arrived at the Pennsylvania delegation meeting fuming because Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine had just opposed President Nixon's revenue-sharing. "Muskie's no damn good, he really laid an egg," stormed Democrat Tate, while Republican Congressmen present snickered and Democrats frowned. "He's lost my support," added Tate. Plugging revenue-sharing, Tate demanded the delegation be polled in full sight of the Pennsylvania mayors present. Veteran Democratic Rep. Daniel Flood broke in angrily to reject such pressure tactics. A written poll later, yes; an oral poll right then, no. Flood was strongly backed by Rep. Thomas Morgan, delegation chairman. Tate's response was to lose his temper at Flood, furthering the anger of the Congressman.

Tate finished his day's work by meeting the two most important House foes of revenue-sharing; Reps. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas and John Byrnes of Wisconsin, chairman and senior Republican on the Ways and Means Committee. Once again, Tate's hard-sell probably did more harm than good.

The terrible tongue of Rep. Bella Abzug, exceptional in New York City's superheated Democratic reform politics, has now attacked the man second in line for succession to the Presidency: soft-spoken Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma.

Mrs. Abzug had planned on anti-war speech at a House Democratic caucus March 17. But the vote on an anti-war resolution was postponed the night before, and only 78 Democrats showed up. Declaring the lack of quorum, Caucus Chairman Olin Teague of Texas promptly gavelled adjournment — and sent Mrs. Abzug into a rage.

Ignoring the respect freshmen members traditionally show for the venerated office of Speaker, she tongue-lashed Albert for insensitivity to the war issue and muzzling war critics. The Speaker took it in silence.

MR. SPECTATOR

Mrs. Comer Asks

Mr. Spectator received a note from Mrs. John R. Comer of Twin Falls the other day. We find out she is wondering about what Mr. Spectator has been wondering about for some time now.

"I would like to know," she wrote, "why there are signs on both sides of the intersection of Main and Shoshone Streets that say no left turn. I've noticed that most people disregard them completely.

"Besides that, it is very inconvenient. The planning department of Twin Falls must have had a wierd sense of humor to make such a mumble-jumble of the traffic pattern in this town."

So there's the question. Why the left turn signs at the Main and Shoshone intersection? Any city officials want to answer the question and we will give them equal time. If we receive no answer then we will have to assume that they just don't know.

So we will wait!

ABOUT EASTER

Dear Mr. Spectator: I thought perhaps you could use the rule for determining Easter in your column so am sending it to you.

I noted in a recent Times-News under the title "Fixed Easter Date" that the rule given was not complete nor precise.

Easter is the first Sunday after the PASCHAL full moon on or after March 21.

That is the correct and complete rule for determining the date of Easter. One seldom sees it stated correctly and in its entirety, often not qualified by the "paschal" full moon, nor by "on or after March 21," which need to be included to make it right.

According to the rule generally given, Easter in 1954 would have been April 25 instead of April 18, as it was. April 18 was also full moon by the calendar (astronomical full moon) but not the "paschal" full moon.

Easter is always any date between March 22 (including 22) and April 25 (including 25). It can never be earlier than March 22 nor later than April 25.

"Paschal full moon" is the 14th day of the moon. The first day of the moon is on the date of the new moon.

The Council of Micaea, in 325 A.D., designated March 21 as the vernal equinox as far as setting the date of Easter is concerned.

Manager Wanted

WASHINGTON — Sen. Harold Hughes is looking for a top-notch campaign manager to direct his drive for the Democratic presidential nomination. But the former Iowa governor is not yet ready to announce his candidacy, has no intention of doing that for some time. Says Hughes, "Sure, I'm interested in the presidency. There is no secret about that. But why rush to formally proclaim it. There is plenty of time for that."

However, he is so enthused by the personal and political response he has evoked in a series of speeches in different parts of the country that he has decided to start organizing to make a race for the 1972 nomination.

Already a small staff has been assembled to work on that. In preparation for expanding it, opening a headquarters and initiating other steps, Hughes feels an experienced campaign manager is essential and is considering some possibilities suggested by friends.

Foremost among the prospects is a leader of Sen. Hubert Humphrey's 1968 presidential campaign.

Significantly, one of his attractions to Hughes is that he is not a "doctrinaire" liberal. Hughes considers himself a liberal, but draws the line at what he calls "doctrinaire" liberals. Asked his interpretation of them, he replied:

"Those who think with their mouths instead of their heads."

In Hughes' speeches, he has little to say about specific issues and controversies. Mainly, he discusses ethical and moral values and factors, and the crucial importance of personal and national faith and regeneration. He particularly stresses the need to seek the help and support of higher forces.

Hughes' inspirational theme not only strikingly differentiates him from all the other Democratic hopefuls, but apparently has a powerful appeal to audiences. Everywhere he has gone he has won an unusually warm response.

In practical politics, this has

A generation of cynics insisted that "nice guys finish last."

And for proof they cited assorted lecherous actors, multimarried singers, corruptible politicians and carousing athletes; all almost all bad but each doing all right.

Then along came Perry Como. Whether his "conduct becoming" triggered the transition or was incidental to it, no matter. Suddenly all over the entertainment pages and the financial pages and the sports pages we see nice guys out front.

Gold is a cold god. Egocentric public figures usually have to discover that — before they begin searching elsewhere.

It is my observation that those least frantic, least depressed, are those who pray that God will direct their lives — and then let Him.

Singer Anita Bryant went through the valley of the shadow with newborn twins and came out herself newborn.

The ranks of professional golfers are dominated by individuals of prayer, good works and self-discipline: Gary Player, Billy Casper, Arnold Palmer, winless last year, quit smoking and drinking Jan. 1 and won two tournaments in three months. Such an example is of no small significance, especially among the malleable young.

As when Johnny Case went from the heights to the depths and then — on his knees — back to the heights.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Bell's Palsy

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 43 and just found out that I have Bell's palsy. It scares me when I get up in the morning and see the right side of my face swollen. My eye seems to swell more than the rest of my face. My doctor says there is an operation behind the ear to correct this affliction—but my husband is a little leery. — Mrs. G.S.

Bell's palsy is a one-sided paralysis of the muscles of the face, resulting from damage to the controlling nerves. Yes, it can distort the face quite considerably.

Surgical procedure to treat it depends on the duration of the disorder, and its failure to respond to conservative treatment.

About 80 per cent of patients recover within a matter of several weeks. Electrical stimulation of the affected nerve is a guide to knowing when surgery is wise. If the nerve responds to such stimulation, then treatment other than surgery usually is continued. (Recovery of patients has been known to occur after a longer lapse than the several weeks I just mentioned.)

If there is complete lack of response by the nerve to electrical stimulation, then surgery may be considered. You do not say how long you have had the trouble, nor what tests have been made, so I am in no position to say whether your particular case warrants surgery.

Bell's palsy comes on rather commonly with exposure to a cold draft as the only specific instigating cause. It is possible, though, that in such cases, the nerve, for some reason, already is overly sensitive.

Other causes of the disorder are infection; physical injury to the nerve — usually a head injury; disturbed blood supply to the nerve; or pressure on the nerve from a tumor or other cause.

Physical therapy is very important in treating Bell's palsy. This consists of one or more of such procedures as heat by local application, infra-red lamps, ultrasonic treatment, massage of facial muscles, periodic electrical stimulation of the nerve trunk. Cortisone or ACTH may be used.

If the eyelids are affected (they may or may not be) meticulous care of the eyeball is important. Warm salt solutions or other eye washes are used. An eye pad frequently is worn to keep out wind and dust, and "artificial tears" may be necessary to keep the eye moist.

To repeat, if the nerve shows some conductivity (response) to electrical stimulation, I would doubt that surgery will be necessary.

But keep in mind that you can't force things with this disorder. Continued conservative treatment is the first choice, but it takes some time as a rule, so patience on your part is paramount.

Your surgeon, knowing the details in your case, really must have the final say as to whether the operation is advisable.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any difference between cold sores and fever blisters? — K.K.

They are the same thing. Technical term is herpes simplex. Caused by a virus. No positive cure. Sometimes one remedy works, sometimes another. Having a series of smallpox shots has helped in some cases.

Note to Mrs. R.E.H.: We don't know why, but we still know that anxiety, and tension, and "wanting a baby too much" can be a factor in preventing pregnancy. Some folks give up trying, adopt a baby — and then have one of their own. I've known it to happen.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my newly revised booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is and encouraging sinus sufferers to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

BERRY'S WORLD

"A tear gas pen! For cryin' out loud, lady; don't you know that's illegal?"

Mint starts turning out cartwheels today

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The government will start minting "silver" dollars again today—the first since 1935—but collectors may have a long wait to get them and Nevada gamblers may get none.

The first strike of the new Eisenhower dollar took place at 11 a.m. PST at the United States assay office here.

The bright new coin will not be solid silver. About 60 per cent of it will be "cupra-nickel," an alloy of copper and nickel. Until 1935 a silver dollar contained 90 per cent silver and 10 per cent copper.

The government plans to turn out 150 million of the new "cartwheels," and expects they will be grabbed up almost immediately when available by coin collectors. Provisions will be made to keep away any collector from making a "corner" on the market.

Spokesman for the Bureau of the Mint, which is operated by the U.S. Treasury Department, says a mail order system will be set up on June 1, but application forms for coins will probably not be acceptable until July 1.

Director of the Mint Mary T. Brooks and Eugene T. Rossides, Treasury Department assistant secretary for enforcement and operations, will be present when the first Eisenhower dollars are struck.

Minting of the coins will continue until the end of the year, but no definite schedule on daily rates of turn-out have been made until the production line actually gets going.

The mint also plans to make available, as it does with other coins, special "proof sets" of the new dollar by which it expects to fatten the treasury by several million dollars.

Proof sets are perfect sets of coins, polished to a jewel-like brilliance and issued in plastic holders. They are double-struck at the mint and are of the highest possible quality.

These proof sets will sell for $10 each.

A collector's "uncirculated" dollar, struck only once, will at so be minted, selling for $3 apiece. Of these two varieties, only five will be permitted to a customer who fills out an application form.

A total of 20 million proof dollars will be minted, and 130 million uncirculated dollars.

There will then be an unlimited run of metal dollars containing only cupra-nickel but no silver will be distributed through banks to the general public.

den was more economical and shorter than routing west from Denver to Salt Lake City and then on to the West Coast.

U.S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., has urged that all Railpax funding be frozen and that hearings be conducted on the choice of routes.

In addition, Wyoming's senators and congressman are supporting a bill now pending before Congress requiring that Railpax serve at least one major population center in all 48 contiguous states.

Gov. Stanley Hathaway—angered at the decision to exclude Wyoming from Railpax—also said the Union Pacific did not give much help to the state's efforts, and apparently wanted to drop its passenger service.

Historic era end due Wyoming route

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—The Union Pacific railroad announced Monday its last passenger trains would pull through Wyoming May 1, thus ending an historic era.

The National Railroad Passenger Corp. is expected to assume all responsibility for intercity passenger-trains service on that date.

The UP said it has given notification as provided by law of its intention to discontinue operating all its passenger train services on that day.

However, the railroad said trains or buses departing from points of origin before May 1 would be moved to their scheduled destinations.

The first Union Pacific passenger train arrived in Cheyenne Nov. 14, 1867—one day after work gangs laid the west-bound tracks to the infant town.

President Lincoln had approved a bill creating the Union Pacific Railroad Co. July 1, 1862, and work on the railroad began shortly thereafter.

The UP and Wyoming history are closely intertwined with the railroad becoming the state's primary industry and long providing its law and order and political influence.

Wyoming was not included in the Railpax routing from Denver although state officials argued the route west from Cheyenne over UP trackage to Ogden was more economical and shorter than routing west from Denver to Salt Lake City and then on to the West Coast.

U.S. Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., has urged that all Railpax funding be frozen and that hearings be conducted on the choice of routes.

Jobless benefits sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate has been asked to vote on immediate financial help to 300,000 jobless workers whose unemployment benefits have been exhausted and to hundreds of thousands of voters who face that bleak prospect.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said he would seek a vote before the day is over on his proposals to make it possible for workers who have been laid off to collect unemployment compensation for 39 weeks instead of the existing 26 week period.

Bayh had 10 Democratic and two Republican co-sponsors, but it appeared questionable that the House would go along even if the Senate accepted his plan. There have been no hearings on Bayh's bill, which could add an additional $1 billion or more to the federal deficit.

Seeking a shortcut around the laborious congressional procedures, Bayh planned to offer his proposal as a rider to a House-passed bill extending the interest equalization tax, which expires at midnight Tuesday. The tax is used to prevent Americans from investing dollars abroad when European interest rates exceed those paid here.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, would have the most to say on whether the House accepts the bill. His attitude was not known.

Goldwater to remain in Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., said today his father has no plans to retire from the Senate and that his own comments on that possibility had been misinterpreted.

The younger Goldwater was reported to have said at a news conference in Upper Montclair, N.J., that Sen. Barry Goldwater Sr., R-Ariz., planned to retire at the end of his term to make way for a younger man.

Rep. Goldwater said he had no intention of suggesting that his father would retire, but merely had said the senator was "interested in seeing a young person succeed him when he does leave."

"Unfortunately, my comments were taken completely the wrong way," he said. "My father has no plans whatsoever to leave the Senate."

At the news conference in Upper Montclair, N.J., Monday, the younger Goldwater said of his father: "He's a firm believer in moving aside and making way for younger people."

Cavett, Paar shows earn assessment

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There's little question that ABC-TV's Dick Cavett has carved out a very niche audience on his late-night talk show, but those of us who once compared him to Jack Paar might well reassess this evaluation.

Paar, of course, is still considered the unquestioned all-time master of the video talk show, and even many young, ultra-contemporary show business performers continue to pay homage to him when they privately discuss what they would like to do on television. Cavett, it is true, has a passing resemblance to Paar in his dry wit, his wasplish and honest reactions when a foolish guest gets way out of line or tries to tread on him, and also in his literate approach to topics that range far beyond showbiz.

There is, however, an essential and enormous difference between Paar and Cavett, and because of this difference Paar remains in a class by himself. For what made Paar unique, and continues to be the underlying reason for his appeal—even to today's young performers—is that he was not afraid to expose his inner self on the home screen. He was not scared of risking extremes and even errors. Risk is the key word. If you're afraid of it, you're just another guy-punching a time clock.

Paar is a dignified man who respects restraint at the proper time. But, instinctively, he did not fear to lay bare his very personal feelings, however emotional, on subjects he felt really mattered.

Some were important, and some didn't seem to be, but in the end that aspect was secondary. For what emerged above all was a person you really seemed to know, someone who cast aside ultra-cool showbiz protocol, and therefore burst right through the home screen as a human being, using television as a direct communicating device with an effectiveness that no other entertainer has ever achieved.

In short, Paar let it all hang out before the young generation was given credit for the idea. Cavett, on the other hand, seems so private about himself that he knows one is seeing only the public man. And it defeats the sense of exhilaration a viewer can feel when he knows a distant idol has dropped the showbiz facade and honestly tried to reach him personally. If you're singing and dancing, impersonality is unimportant. But if you're discussing the ideas on as vast a medium as television, the public is entitled to know about you so it has a true frame of reference.

When Cavett had Orson Welles on his show, the veteran actor shrewdly needed him by reversing the interviewing, joshing Cavett on being so private about himself and, eventually, embarrassing him a bit by trying to get him to talk about himself. Like many of us, Welles admires Cavett, but he made clear that he, too, wanted him to drop the facade.

Federal rules better

BOISE (UPI) — An attorney from Washington, D.C., says regulation of cable television (CATV) is better at the federal than at the state level.

way for states to try to define CATV as a public utility when it isn't. "Federal regulation is here to stay," Corazzini said. "CATV people feel the less regulation the better so when confronted with a choice the national level regulation is best," he said. "CATV is already thoroughly regulated at the national level so regulation should be continued there."

Aunt directs child's future

By ANGIE BROOKS
Former president,
UN General Assembly

How well I remember the day my father asked me if I'd like to live with a foster family. This was not an unusual idea, in Liberia where we lived.

My father was a clergyman, and though his income had been enough to support his nine children in our home in the interior, when we moved to the capital city of Monrovia, we found there was not enough to meet the needs. So when a lady named Adelaide Anderson asked me to come live with her, it was agreed that I should go. "You'd be a playmate for Mrs. Anderson's little girl," father said to me.

Until I was 14, then, I lived with Aunt Tootoo, as I called her. Aunt Tootoo was relaxed in most things, but she was adamant about two rules. One, you never told a lie; and two, you always went to church on Sunday.

Her influence on me continued right up until the minute of her death. She became ill and was confined to the hospital. One day on my regular visit I was astonished to see how feeble she had become. "Come close, Angie, so you can hear," Aunt Tootoo whispered. I stood next to her. "Angie, will you promise that you will go to the United States to study and then work with your people?"

Aunt Tootoo gripped my hand. Then her grip relaxed, and she was silent. A nurse came in and felt Aunt Tootoo's pulse. "Mrs. Anderson is dead," the nurse said.

The next Sunday in church after the rest of the congregation had left, I sat alone in my seat and made a pledge to myself that I would at least try to live up to Aunt Tootoo's dream.

No sooner had I whispered this pledge than I felt crushed, for the goal seemed far too big for me. Our minister came by and sat in the chair next to mine. "What's the trouble, Angie?" he asked.

When I explained, he told me that he knew some people at Shaw University in North Carolina. He offered to send a letter of recommendation along with my own letter requesting a scholarship.

Weeks later I got a letter back and could hardly believe it when I saw that I was really being offered a scholarship! But then my heart fell. For there was an "if." I could have the scholarship if I could pay my transportation.

In Liberia in those days it was possible to see the president of our country about such a problem. I did so. I explained my needs, and the president replied, "The government allows grants to medical students. Are you studying medicine?"

I suddenly remembered Aunt Tootoo and knew she would never want me to go the United States because of a lie. "No, Mr. President. I want to study law."

The president was silent for a long time. "Perhaps we could make an exception," he said. "Would it help if we gave you $500?"

My spirit singing, I left the president's office. The $500 was to allow me to settle my affairs and buy my ticket. When I paid my debts and settled some medical bills my parents had incurred, I had $200 left, the price of my ticket, plus $5 for spending money. With this in my hand I went to the dock.

There I learned the fare had gone up $100! I stood on the pier crying. Around me moved my countrymen who had come to the docks to sell their raw rubber. One young man came up to me, his brow wrinkled.

"Sister, why are you crying?" I told him my story.

"Maybe I can help," he said. "Do you want me to try to sell that chain?" A little hesitantly I gave him the gold chain from around my neck, and he disappeared.

By then a small crowd had gathered. One man — better dressed than the rest — was especially interested. His name, he said, was Charles Escaron. "Here, take this money," he said, reaching into his pockets. The total came to $37.50.

The boy who had taken my chain ran up. He held a bill in the air — ten dollars. So now I had $47.50, nearly half the money I needed.

Together the crowd of my new friends nudged me into the ticket office. Outside I could see stevedores casting ropes from docks to the ship railing.

Now another man walked up and shoved money into my hand. He said his name was William Sherman. "I was going to send this money to my daughter. I'll find money for her, somehow."

A cheer rose. We spread the money out and counted it. There was a moan — $3 short.

Then a very tall man tapped my shoulder. "Hee, let me have that money," he said. "I want to show my friends how close you are to going to America. Maybe we can get the rest."

I hesitated for a moment, then handed the tall man my bills and coins and watched him run off into the trees at the edge of the pier. He stayed there until the ship's crew — now part of the drama — reluctantly began to raise the gangplank.

At the last minute, just as the ship's engines were beginning to shudder, the man came back. "I have it!" he shouted.

We all counted the money together. It came to just over the amount of the ticket. Several hands pushed the bills and coins under the bars of the ticket window, and the agent hurriedly issued my precious passage.

Just as the boat was pulling away from the pier I jumped into the arms of welcoming crewmen and turned to look at my friends.

They waved and shouted and cried, sensing that they were a part of my adventure.

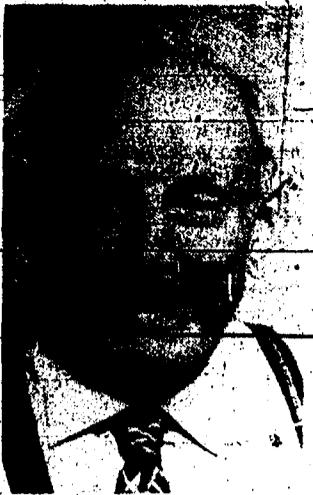

And, of course, they were. My parents, Aunt Tootoo, the pastor from our church, our president, the boy who sold my chain, Mr. Escaron, Mr. Sherman, the unknown tall man — those and many others helped me at every step, just when I needed help.

They are all responsible for my being in the United Nations today, and a little of each of them works with me here, continuing to share their wonderful African spirit of concern with the people of our world.

Greek aid hints Pentagon victory

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Six months ago the United States resumed full-scale military aid to Greece, and the U.S. State Department declared:

"The trend toward a constitutional order (in Greece) has been established."
A small note of regret saying the United States had "hoped for a more rapid return to representative government" suggested a victory for Pentagon "realism" in the U.S. action over the forces of democratic idealism in the State Department.

In any event, as the United States resumed its shipments of tanks and airplanes, these have been some of the tangible results of Greece's reported "trend toward constitutional order."

Prime Minister George Papadopoulos's government released some 300 political prisoners at Christmas time but followed it with a new wave of arrests of opposition members of the political left and center. Greece ended its agreement with the International Red Cross permitting Red Cross representatives to visit political prisoners.

Greece also implemented some sections of the constitution adopted in September, 1968, but never put fully into effect. Others, it was said, would go into effect in coming months. Included were guarantees of privacy of correspondence, relation of restrictions on trade unions and right of assembly, and establishment of civilian judges and juries.

Retention of martial law, however, nullified most of the reforms.

Critics of the Papadopoulos regime declare that its main objective is to appease the United States and that it has no intention of restoring real civil liberties now or in the foreseeable future.

Whatever the intentions of the Greek military regime, there also are other considerations.

The case of Greece is not the first in which the United States, under both Democratic and Republican presidents, has supported a military regime against a possible alternative of chaos and a take-over by the political left.

A current example is Brazil. In Greece, the threat is the growing strength of the Soviet Union in the eastern Mediterranean and the Middle East.

And as the Greek military government approaches the fourth anniversary of its bloodless coup on April 21, 1967, the nation can demonstrate an impressive economic growth.

Greece traditionally is an agricultural nation, exporting tobacco and other farm products. But now industrial investments made in the 1960s are paying off, and exports of textiles, metals and chemicals are responsible for nearly half of last year's $620 million export revenue.

Tourism is on the rise, unemployment is declining,

Pantsuits

NEW YORK (UPI)—The female pantsuit phenomenon seems to have hit just about everywhere. You see workers wearing them in banks, insurance firms, ad agencies, brokerage houses and — you name it.

Policewomen have been requesting the change to pantsuits, too. And in Michigan, Supreme Court justices okayed pantsuits as proper courtroom attire for lady lawyers.

RAIN-BIRD makes it easy for you to install your own sprinkler system.

It's easier than you think. Rain-Bird's "5 Steps to Installing A Sprinkler System" takes all the guesswork and expensive trial and error out of planning your system. Even helps you plan the total number of parts, pipe, fittings, and sprinklers you'll need. After you've made your plans, installation is easy. Save enough (by installing the system yourself) to take a vacation this year! That's easy, isn't it?

Do-It-Yourself. All you need is one weekend and a couple of tools (like a shovel and a hacksaw). Of course, you may need some questions answered, too. But that's why we're here.

Environmental proposal would hamper farmers

By ROBERTA DANIEL Times-News Correspondent
FAIRFIELD — Several proposals of the Environmental Protection Agency would hamper many winter calving operations as well as feedlot operations, William Hazen, Camas County agent, said today.

contain all products of livestock wastes within the property boundaries where they are produced. This would mean not only liquid waste confinement, but also confinement or elimination of dust as well as odorous, poisonous and flammable gases.

into effect, it is possible that the laws will make it easier for someone to bring a lawsuit against livestock operations, Hazen said. Such incidents as movement of liquid manure, cattle creating dust or manure gases moving into neighboring yards could all be grounds for a lawsuit.

FARMERS

SS 36 SHORT MIX GRAINS

Both 2 Way & 3 Way... varieties that will mature at the same time. (Two of these varieties are not normally raised in this area).

These SS36-Short Mix Grain seeds are adaptable to all areas of Magic Valley... as proved by 16 farmers with over 350 acres planted last year.

You can expect EQUAL or BETTER YIELDS than with taller mix grains PLUS the SS36 Mix Grains are ideal for cover crop with alfalfa or grass seed. (Not ONE FAILURE last year with SS36 Mix Grains)... BUT there were failures with taller mixed grains.

MATURITY 1 to 2 weeks earlier with SS36 Short Mix Grains than with taller mixed grains — NO LODGING.

Due to the quantity available this seed is available this year on a first come first served basis.

young people present. Girls in the group made pizza and records were played.

Tropical fruits available

TWIN FALLS — For those of you who have never been to Hawaii and would like to taste the tropical fruits and vegetables you've heard so much about — many of the southern Idaho grocery stores are making the sampling available.

Much of the produce is flown straight from Hawaii and will be offered locally this weekend at Albertson's retail grocery store, with free sampling for all. You can choose from such things as macadamia nuts, papayas, coconuts, passion fruit, avocados, kiwi fruit, water cress, mint, pineapples, bananas and limes.

Several recipes were made available the Times-News and include pointers on handling, choosing, preparing and serving avocados.

A classic way of eating avocados is to spread mayonnaise on half after peeling and removing the seed, and then sprinkle with salt and a splash of fresh lime or lemon juice and serve as a salad.

A fruit, the avocado has no starch and contains 137 calories per half, along with 11 vitamins and 14 minerals.

Avocado can be mashed on breakfast toast in place of butter or chunks of the fruit can be added to scrambled eggs just before they "set."

Darkskin or green avocados should be soft for the most flavor. Harder avocados may be purchased to soften at home for later use. Once soft, keep them in the refrigerator. Unused portions will keep for only a short time. For a sandwich, use one slice of French bread, four to six slices of crisp cooked bacon, one-half avocado cut into slices and one slice cheddar cheese. File the ingredients on the bread in that order and place under a broiler until the cheese melts, then serve.

DEAR ABBY: My wife's sister [I'll call her Myrtle] married a bum who has been AWOL from the sagvice several times. Myrtle spent time on two different occasions, in a mental hospital, and this last time when she came out, she decided to go back to her no-good husband.

My wife and her whole family tried to talk Myrtle out of it, because this guy will have Myrtle back in the mental hospital in no time. He runs around with other women. [He is a regular sex maniac.]

Myrtle won't listen to anybody. Here is where I come into it: When my wife was trying to tell Myrtle what a louse her husband was, Myrtle said that I was no better—that I had made several passes at HER. This is a dirty, rotten lie. Myrtle is ugly as a bullfrog, and I wouldn't spit on her if she was on fire.

My wife believes her sister. How can I prove to my wife that Myrtle is lying?
TRUE BLUE

DEAR TRUE: You can't. It's your word against Myrtle's. It seems to me that your past record [and Myrtle's] should speak for both of you.

DEAR ABBY: Stan had a beard before we were married so my father was against our marriage from the start, but he decided to be friends with Stan when he shaved off his beard for our wedding.

Well, after five months of being married, Stan decided to grow another beard, so my father told us he wanted nothing to do with me or my "hippie" husband.

Here is my father's reasoning: My younger brother got the courage to let his hair grow long because of Stan's beard. My husband's beard is not a bushy, wild one. It is neat, well trimmed and looks very nice.

Is my father being fair? He doesn't have to kiss my husband or even like the beard on him. I'm the one who has to live with it, and I like it. We would like your opinion and the opinions of others.
STAN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your father is being grossly unfair. But I must admit that I am prejudiced. I find well-manicured beards extremely attractive.

DEAR ABBY: I have three sons under four, and I have a lot of laundry to do. I have no basement or clothes dryer so I hang my clothes outside. It is all right in the summer and spring, but in the winter it's no good because my clothes freeze when it snows.

My husband says, "My mother didn't have a clothes dryer and neither did Columbus, so when it snows, why don't you do what the Indians did?"

My question: What did the Indians do when it snowed?
FROZE OUT

DEAR FROZE: They let it snow. But that's an old joke, and doesn't solve your problem. Tell your husband to skip the comedy and take you to the laundromat.

DEAR ABBY: If you could give the young parents of today just one piece of advice, what would it be?
NEW MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: Start early! A child must learn that no means NO! It doesn't mean maybe. And maybe doesn't mean yes.

Two film showings slated in Burley

BURLEY — Tickets sales for the premiere showing of "No Substitute for Victory" are moving rapidly according to George Johnson, chairman of the Mini-Cassia Train Committee which is sponsoring the show.

The event is scheduled for two showings at 7:30 p.m. and at 9:15 p.m. Thursday at Burley High School Auditorium.

The film is produced by Chuck Keen, president of Alaska Pictures, as a result of 19 trips he made to the war zone in Vietnam. Convinced that most Americans were not receiving an accurate account of the conflict, he decided to make his own film. He quickly learned that others, including a number of well-known military leaders, were anxious to help. John Wayne, Academy award winner, serves as host and narrator for the film, and introduces such distinguished commentators as Lowell Thomas, Gen. Mark Clark, Adm. Grant Sharp, Gen. Albert Wedemeyer, Gen. Paul Harkins, former secretary of agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson and popular entertainer Martha Raye.

Tickets for the full two-hour color film are available at Paul Drug Store, Paul; Gillette's Grocery, Declo; Thriftway Drug, McCaslin Lumber, Shelby's Foodliner, and Skaggs Furniture, all Burley; Hoggan's Leather and Canvas and East Side Barber Shop, both Rupert; Red's Trading Post, Camera Center, Greenawalt's in Lynwood Shopping Center, and Health Ways Food Store, all Twin Falls.

Twila Gallaher, Maddox recite vows

BUHL — St. John's Lutheran Church was the setting for the marriage of Twila Kay Gallaher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gallaher, Buhl, and Richard Dean Maddox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thane Maddox, March 16.

Rev. R. J. Scholz performed the ceremony before arrangements of yellow carnations and white Spider chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a street-length gown of white satin featuring a lace bodice and lily point sleeves. The waistline was accented with a satin cummerbund forming a bow at the back. Her shoulder-length veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a flower headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow carnations and spider chrysanthemums.

Wanda Jo Gallaher, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Dan Maddox, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Randy and Allan Maddox, brothers of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Orville Graesch was organist and Mrs. Jim Hopkins soloist. After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parish room. Guests were registered by Kathy White, Sharon and Susan Maddox, sisters of the bridegroom, and Mary Lewis, cousin of the bridegroom, were in charge of the gifts.

The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with hearts and bells in yellow and white and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom under an arch of seed pearls and net. The base of the cake was surrounded by yellow carnations. Crystal candelabra with yellow tapers and arrangements of yellow carnations flanked the cake. The crystal punch bowl and silver coffee service completed the table appointments. The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Leonard Walcott, Buhl.

Sheryl Johnson, cousin of the bridegroom, and Carol Vecera cut and served the cake. Terry Johnson, cousin of the bridegroom, served punch and Carol Lewis, cousin of the bridegroom, poured coffee.

Reception assistants were Mrs. Fred Opplinger, Mrs. Al Dais and Kitty Lete, cousin of the bridegroom, Mrs. Elva Maddox, Louise Messenger and Ellen Johnson, all aunts of the bridegroom.

The couple took a wedding trip to Salt Lake City. They reside in Jerome while attending CSI and will move to Pocatello this fall to continue their education at ISU.

Special guests were Mrs. Stan Workman, Moscow, sister of the bride; Mrs. Bertha Calvert, Twin Falls, great-aunt of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Lewis and Mrs. Marcella Maddox, grandparents of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Eva Newlan, great-grandmother of the bridegroom. Other guests attended from the Magic Valley area.

Guardian honored by Bethel No. 43

TWIN FALLS — Bethel No. 43, International Order of Job's Daughters, honored the grand guardian of Idaho, Mrs. Helen Barkley, at their Monday meeting.

A luncheon was hosted by the Guardian Council at the Colonial House. Later Mrs. Barkley met with the girls for a school of instruction at the Masonic Temple.

Jobs and parents honored Mrs. Barkley at a dinner.

Janice Cook, honored queen, presided at the meeting. Special introductions were given to Mrs. Barkley; Kathy Thomason, grand Bethel honored queen, Bethel No. 14, Jerome; Mrs. Erma Scott, vice grand guardian; and Art Wylie, grand inner guard. Also introduced were Mr. and Mrs. Wylie, guardian and associate guardian of Bethel No. 43; Larry Nielson, associate guardian of Bethel No. 12, Wendell; Carolyn Wylie, guardian, and Paul Moseley, associate guardian, Bethel No. 56; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Jensen, guardian and associate guardian of Bethel No. 19, and Barbara Ball, queen of Bethel No. 19. Members of Bethels No. 19, 56, 12, 14 were also introduced.

Initiation was held for Peggy Graybill, Cheryl Hack, Valarie Murphy and Susan Benefiel. Kathy Cryder, librarian, gave her report on "Friendship."

The rummage sale set for April 9 and 10 was discussed. The sale will be held in the small building next to the Idaho Department Store parking lot. All girls will have their sale items there on Thursday afternoon, April 8.

"Jobie of the meeting" was Sue Johnson.

Relaxing colors

In nature, neutral colors are snow, sand, rock and bark colors. The same cream, tans, grays and browns used so much in nature work well inside a home. These colors are relaxing, easy to live with. They make handsome background of ceilings, walls, floors, and woodwork for small touches of bright colors in furniture and accessories.

Buhl's budget approved

By PAULINE DAY
Times-News Correspondent

BUHL — Buhl city councilmen adopted the 1971 city budget Tuesday night after a public hearing which no one attended but councilmen.

The budget of $324,610 is 15 per cent higher than last year's expenditures of $275,371, according to Bernard Starr, city clerk.

The general fund reflects a 10 per cent increase with $140,918 budgeted this year compared to $128,273 expenditures last year.

Other items are water works fund, $86,000 this year, compared to $85,995 last year; street lighting, $11,618 compared to $8,193; library fund, $6,583 compared to $5,778; special street fund, $29,239 compared to $24,354; airport, $1,415 compared to $1,143.

Cemetery fund $9,641 compared to $9,739 and perpetual care fund, $2,230 compared to $2,239.

The biggest increase in expenditures is in the water works fund where $104,384 is budgeted compared to $78,960 last year. The extra money will be used to purchase additional property and drill a supplementary well, Starr said. This project is expected to exceed $35,000 in cost.

John Hepworth, city attorney, was instructed to write an ordinance raising sanitation fees from $1 to $1.50 per month for residents within the city.

Cyclist injured near Bliss

BLISS — Richard P. Stanke, 55, Bruneau, was transferred to the Veterans Administration Hospital, Boise, after being injured in a car-motorcycle accident four miles southeast of Bliss Tuesday afternoon.

Deputy Sheriff Bill Bunn reported Stanke pulled to the right side of Highway 25 and then made a U turn in front of a car driven by Edward G. Mencilmer, 26, Ogden. Stanke's leg was injured, according to attendants at Gooding Memorial Hospital where he was first taken. Mencilmer was not injured.

Kids blamed for Oakley house fire

OAKLEY — Children playing with matches were blamed for a fire about 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Andy Goodine residence four and a half miles north of Oakley, according to Arlo Garrard, fire chief.

The fire started in baled straw around the base of the house, Garrard said, and damage was confined to a scorched partition on a utility room.

On Monday firemen were called to extinguish two tree fires. One was in a pasture at the Rodney Martindale residence and the other was at the Margarete Whittle home. Both fires were caused from spreading weed fires, firemen said.

Burley aide cites FFA changeover

BURLEY — The Federal Aviation Administration will execute a reorganization plan Friday that will bring local aviation activities under the jurisdiction of the newly created northwest region, according to Leo E. Pierce, chief of federal aviation administration, Burley flight service station.

The northwest region consists of the states of Idaho, Oregon and Washington, and will be under the direction of C. B. Walk, Seattle, Wash.

Purpose of the reorganization is to co-locate regional headquarters of various agencies of the executive branch of the federal government to allow closer coordination between these agencies.

Little or no change is expected in the Cassia field facilities. However, communications formerly directed to Federal Aviation Administration area office in Salt Lake City, should be sent to the regional office in Seattle, Wash.

Ordered down

STILL STANDING after its roof was collapsed by heavy snow two years ago, the old Odd Fellows Hall in Hailey is now the subject of condemnation action filed by the Hailey City Council against Ernest Fife, owner. He was ordered to demolish the building by July 31. The roof building was damaged Feb. 9, 1969.

Winds down lines

High winds Tuesday night and Wednesday morning caused power and telephone outages and was blamed for at least one wreck in Magic Valley.

Visibility was near zero about 8 p.m. Tuesday when vehicles driven by Leland Gorringer, Oakley, and Larene Scofield, Oakley, collided about seven miles north of Oakley. Both were northbound when the accident occurred.

Jarrod Jeppeson, Oakley marshal, who investigated the accident, said Gorringer's sportscar collided with the rear of the Scofield car when Mrs. Scofield stopped because of the dust storm. Neither driver was injured.

Jim Johnstone of the Idaho Power Co. office in Twin Falls said there were several outages in Magic Valley.

Most, including one in Twin Falls in the Kimberly Road area, lasted only a few minutes. Some sections of the Clear Lakes area were without power from about 8 p.m. until about 10 p.m. because of trees blown onto power lines. Johnstone said several trees were blown into lines in the Hagerman area.

He said trouble spread from the Hagerman-Thousand Springs area east to the Artesian-Milner area. Johnstone said there was no trouble of a major nature and all service had been restored by Wednesday morning.

Ken Mann, manager of the Twin Falls office of Mountain Bell, said telephone poles near Curry and on Eastland Drive in Twin Falls were blown over. He said telephone service interruptions were widespread, but there were no major interruptions.

Declo budget hearing today

DECLO — A public hearing on Declo's proposed $28,403 budget will be held at 8 p.m. today in the city's office, says George Schrenk, council chairman.

Schrenk said the 1971 budget is a one per cent increase over 1970 budget of $26,110. The proposed general fund budget is set at $22,043. The city's culinary water system revenue bonds budget has been set at $4,400 and the general obligation culinary water system bonds will be $1,600.

Included in the proposed general fund budget are power purchases, $5,300; electrical supplies, $1,000; employes taxes, $525; employes retirement, $230; irrigation water, $375; office expense, $250; office salary, $2,100; electrical labor and mileage, $1,375; labor collecting trash, $1,000; irrigation labor, $750; streets and parks, $1,200; fire department and telephone, $500; culinary water expense, $500; insurance and bonds, $600; capital expenditures, $1,500; police salary and mileage, $1,350; culinary water sinking fund, $2,848; and miscellaneous, $1,000.

Hailey budget for '71 OK'd

By WARREN GOSSETT
Times-News Correspondent

HAILEY — Hailey's 1971 city budget of $102,113 became official Tuesday night after a public hearing which drew no protests. The budget is $63,000 less than last year's expenditures.

Mrs. Virda Allred, Hailey city clerk, said several savings certificates were purchased last year at a cost of $25,000 each. This, plus the purchase of a new fire truck and several items which are not included in the new budget, account for the decrease, she said.

This year's budget for administration is $14,029, compared to last year's expenditures of $14,416. Other items include: street department, $18,700, compared to $14,557; police department, $14,345 compared to $8,784; library, $1,503 compared to $1,501; municipal water works, $45,525 compared to $46,890; fire department, $3,372 compared to $10,964, and bond retirement, $4,639 compared to $29,256.

Ketchum sewer aid OK'd

WASHINGTON — Cong. Orval Hansen announced today the city of Ketchum has been awarded a $15,690 supplemental grant for construction of an interceptor sewer and sewage treatment plant.

The grant brings to $193,830 the amount of federal funds committed to the project by the water quality office of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Shoshone man guilty in murder

By MELBA THORNE
Times-News Correspondent

SHOSHONE — An 18-year old Shoshone man left this morning for Boise to begin serving a sentence of life in prison for the Nov. 13, 1970, slaying of Mrs. Melba Gray, 33, whose beaten and dismembered body was found on the railroad tracks just east of here, Nov. 14.

Danny Howard Williams entered a plea of guilty to a reduced charge of second degree murder in a surprise hearing in Fifth District Court in Shoshone Tuesday afternoon and was sentenced by Judge Charles Scoggin.

At 10 a.m. today he was taken to Boise by Sheriff Thomas Conner to be turned over to state penitentiary authorities. He had been charged with first degree murder and was scheduled for district court trial April 27 in Shoshone. Through an agreement of attorneys and the court, the unannounced appearance was arranged for Tuesday afternoon. Judge Charles Scoggin pronounced sentence after hearing testimony from several state witnesses and after Williams took the stand himself as the first defense witness, and entered the plea of guilty to second degree murder.

Lincoln County prosecuting attorney, Howard E. Adkins and defense attorney Phillip Becker, Gooding, presented witnesses. Testifying for the state were Don Williams, father of the defendant; County Coroner R. G. Neher, and Bill Anderson who was Shoshone chief of police at the time of the crime.

Williams told of his son's behavior and problems over the past years. Dr. Neher reported on the cause of death which he said was a blow or blows to the head of the victim by a blunt instrument. He also presented color slides taken at the crime scene, a desert area one and one quarter miles east of Shoshone near the railroad tracks. Slides of the victim's body after it had been left on the tracks and run over by a train which severed one leg and one arm, were also shown as were slides of the beaten face and head.

Deputy Sheriff Anderson, former police chief, told of the investigation and the arrest of Williams on the afternoon of Nov. 14 in Twin Falls. He also presented evidence taken at the crime scene and in the woman's home from where she disappeared sometime during the night of Nov. 13. He said the front door of the home was open, lights were on and the woman's coat left behind.

Williams, called to the stand by Becker as the first witness, told of events of the night of the murder. He said he had been to Richfield and attended a drinking party and had been drinking. He said Mrs. Gray left her home with him of her own free will and said he remembered striking her with his fists.

The woman's small car was found about a quarter of a mile from her body, mired in mud and caught on a fence with the motor still running.

Mrs. Gray had been planning to leave early the morning of Nov. 14 for California and was to drive from Shoshone to Twin Falls to meet a sister at about 4 a.m. Her 15 year old son, James, the only one of her children at home at the time, discovered her missing when he got up to awaken her for the trip at about 3 a.m. He became alarmed and summoned friends. The body was found by a railroad crew while officers were beginning a search.

She had last been seen alive about 10 p.m. the night of Nov. 13 by Bill Anderson as she was filling her car's gasoline tank at a self-service station in Shoshone.

Williams has been in custody in the Lincoln County jail since Nov. 14 when he was arrested. He was arraigned in district court Jan. 23 and a trial date set for April 27.

Deputy Anderson said the defendant remained calm during the hearing and sentencing.

Trailer rulings assailed

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Correspondent

GOODING — Gooding is not going to enact any ordinance regulating mobile homes and trailers, Mayor Harley Crippen says, because "Gooding needs new residents and does not feel it is in a position to dictate terms to people who would like to move here."

He made the statement at a meeting of the Gooding County Planning Commission here Tuesday night during which the group set priorities for future projects.

Severt Swenson, chairman of the industrial development committee for the county, said he has learned from Lloyd Howe, state director of commerce and development, there are no prospects for new industries settling in this area at this time because of the state of the economy.

First priority of the group is to encourage a countywide cleanup and beautification campaign, with the help of the Johnny Horizon program conducted by the Bureau of Land Management.

County Agent Ed Koester was directed to look into the feasibility of growing water cress commercially in the Hagerman Valley and the Gooding Soil Conservation district was told to encourage the acceleration of irrigated pasture management by area farmers.

The Gooding County Planning Commission works in cooperation with the Wood River Resource area, a four-county group which acts as a clearing house for the Idaho Planning and Community Affairs Agency.

Minico Jaycees plan cycle race

RUPERT — The Minico Jaycees are sponsoring a 45 mile cross-country motorcycle race Sunday on the desert north of Paul.

D. L. Burget, Rupert, chairman of the race, said starting time for the three-lap race is 1 p.m. sharp. Racers may register at the race site from 9 a.m. to noon and all pre-registration may be mailed to Minico Jaycees, P. O. Box 597, Rupert, before Saturday.

A trophy and $75 cash will be awarded to the over-all winner. Trophies and $50 cash will be awarded to the first place winners in three classes. Trophies will be awarded to second and third place winners in the three classes. Racing divisions will include 0-125 cc for one class; 126cc to 250cc for another class, and 250 cc and up for the final class.

Two entries have already been received from racers in Boise and information requests have been received from motorcycle racers at Big Piney, Wyo., and Thane, Wyo., Burget said.

There is no charge to see the race. The Minico Jay-C-Ettes will be operating a chuck wagon at the race parking lot.

Additional information is available from Larry Halstead, president of the Minico Jaycees, or Burget race chairman.

Kimberly mail delivery grows

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Cong. Orval Hansen announced Tuesday that 43 Kimberly families, representing 159 individuals, will be provided with mail delivery services for the first time under an order from Postmaster General Winton M. Blount.

Hansen said that under the new order, individuals need to live only a minimum one-quarter mile away from the post office to be eligible for rural delivery services.

Former standards required that residents live at least one-half mile from the post office to get the service.

Hansen noted that many additional persons are qualified but service has not yet been extended because the advantages of the new program are not fully understood in some communities. Under the new order, those desiring the service in qualified areas need only contact their postmasters.

Meeting will air new Richfield sewer plan

RICHFIELD — Plans for the proposed $221,800 aerated sewage lagoon treatment facility and sewer system for Richfield will be discussed April 20 at 8 p.m. in a public meeting in the city building.

Dale Riedesel and Jack Straubhar, Twin Falls, consulting engineers, have completed preliminary studies and reports on the project and will present project information as to estimated costs and construction schedule.

City council members will conduct the meeting and others taking part will include representatives of the Idaho Department of Health and the Farmers Home Administration.

In a preliminary report last week to city council members, engineers explained funding would be provided through a combination of federal grants-in-aid from the Federal Water Quality Administration, the Idaho Department of Health and revenue bonds guaranteed by the FHA at five per cent interest for a 30 year period. Local repayment would come through user fees.

Straubhar said the proposed system consists of a network of eight-inch collection lines located within the streets of Richfield. This network would collect sewage from individual homes and convey it to the treatment facility.

Sewer service connections would be constructed to the individual property owner's property line as part of the project. From the home to the property line, connections would be the financial responsibility of the property owner.

Treatment facilities would consist of an aerated sewage lagoon using mechanical aerators, a primary sewage lagoon and a secondary sewage lagoon. Final effluent would be treated with chlorine and discharged into Little Wood River. The engineer said it can be virtually guaranteed there would be no undesirable odors emanating from the lagoon and the system would meet all regulations for municipalities imposed by the health department as to water pollution control.

In addition to accommodating between 350 and 400 persons, the system would be designed to handle the wastes of the Richfield cheese factory. There are now about 330 persons residing in Richfield. Land for the treatment facility would be acquired in sufficient size to accommodate expansion should the population increase or the cheese factory expand.

Straubhar said sewer services would extend to all properties within the city and be available to some areas contiguous to the city boundaries. Proposed mainlines and treatment facilities would accommodate any other wastes within the city of Richfield. Cheese factory wastes are compatible with other sewage collections, Straubhar said and the factory is the largest single source of waste in the city. Payment on monthly rates will be based accordingly, he said.

Straubhar said there are 128 water users in the city and billing would be on a basis of water and sewer services. It is estimated a monthly charge of $6.90 would cover individual property owners with $125 per month charged to the cheese factory. Straubhar said these figures are proposed guidelines only and not definite costs. Final rates would be set after construction costs are definite and it is hoped they would be reduced, he said.

Council members have an all residents of the city in mind at the April 20 meeting and will answer to questions the city council will discuss the treatment facility.

Vote bill past House

BOISE (UPI)—After a seven-minute debate the House approved 57-11 and sent to the Senate Tuesday a bill to ratify a U.S. constitutional amendment lowering the minimum voting age to 18.

Only Rep. John Reardon, R-Boise, spoke against ratification. He considered this method of lowering the voting age to be a violation of "state's rights" introduced Monday after Gov. Cecil D. Andrus added ratification of the 26th amendment to his call for this special session of the legislature, the joint resolution was considered by the House under suspension of rules.

House majority leader Terry Cray, R-Idaho Falls, explained the measure—noting that if the legislatures of three-fourths of the states ratify it the amendment is approved.

He pointed out that ratification of this amendment is an action somewhat different from the proposed amendment to the Constitution in that it would require a vote of the people to do it.

"You are not submitting this to the people," Cray said. "You are acting on behalf of the people."

He said it was a serious matter for the legislature to consider, although he said he personally favored the ratification.

Reardon said that while he felt the voting age should be lowered he did not believe this was the way to do it.

"Government exists in two ways," Reardon told the House, "either by those powers the people delegate to it or it takes by force and subterfuge."

He said state's rights are an intrinsic part of government in the United States and by "being a party to this you will be usurping those powers delegated to the states."

"This should be submitted to the people of the state of Idaho," Reardon said. "I can't condone it."

British slate taxing changes

LONDON (UPI)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber announced today in his budget speech that the sales tax and the selective employment tax would be abolished in April, 1973, and replaced by the value added tax favored by the Common Market countries of Europe.

"This will involve the most fundamental change in our scheme of indirect taxation since purchase (sales) tax was introduced just over 30 years ago," Barber said.

Conservatives cheered, shouted and waved papers at this announcement. When the din subsided the chancellor said: "This will help in the fight against inflation. It will have a direct influence on prices to consumers and prices which enter industrial costs."

Barber also announced that income tax and surtax would be replaced by a single graduated tax. He described the existing system as "absurd" in many respects. Under the new tables giving specifics of the graduated tax, the top rate on earned income would be 75 per cent, reached at the level of about $48,000 a year.

Under the present system the top rate is close to 90 per cent. The chancellor said the selective employment tax would be halved from July 5. This was a tax paid on each employee in such service industries as restaurants, hotels and retail shops. The idea was that this would force a reduction of staff, and surplus would be absorbed by industries involved in manufacturing for export.

Barber said it was an "unfair, arbitrary and indefensible" process of taking $4.8 billion with one hand and distributing $3.6 billion of it with the other to the export industries. "But it was a massive revenue producer and the loss to the government will be $696 million in 1971-1972."

The chancellor said food, newspapers, periodicals and books would be exempt from the value added tax.

X rays trees

NEW YORK (UPI)—Woodman, spare that tree. Electrically.

A non-destructive testing device has been designed to X ray a tree to determine what ails it and save it from possible death. The equipment, developed by Picker Corporation, can detect and locate infection, woodborers and rot in trees and wood products. Such early detection can help save residential trees, telephone and other utility poles, say the developers.

Indian laments passing of way

NEW YORK (UPI)—"The wild horse has been enslaved behind the plow; the vast primeval forest cut down; the eagle shot from the sky; the clear rivers, streams and lakes have been polluted and the wilderness—choked with poison covering for a ball of mud contaminating space."

Chief Red Fox, who will die in June, is the nephew of Crazy Horse, the Sioux Indian chief who defeated Custer at Little Big Horn. He has just published his memoirs "The Memoirs of Chief Red Fox" (McGraw Hill, New York, $6.95) of a century in which, he writes, "Almost everything I knew as a child has passed away, leaving the world empty of the arts and culture of the red man who lived on the plains, deserts, and mountains."

Chief Red Fox is a diminutive, spry man with an extraordinary memory of his "wild and free" childhood in the Dakota Territory, of government Indian schools and his years in William "Buffalo Bill" Cody's wild west show.

He attributes his longevity to "not giving up and not letting anything worry me." His encyclopedic memory, he says, is a result of not relying on paper and pencil. "Out on the plains, we do have signs saying '10 miles to such and such.' When I think of something I fix my eye on it. "Mentally and physically," he writes, "I have found enjoyment, but spiritually I have been a mourner at the bedside of a dying race."

Dressed in elkskin and a feathered bonnet tinted red and orange, Chief Red Fox recently sat in his room at the fashionable Algonquin Hotel talking about his life which he carried him far from the tepees and bearskin blankets of his childhood in the Dakota Territory.

Red Fox traveled around the United States and Europe with Cody. He remembers meeting Thomas Edison and Alexander Graham Bell; he met Theodore Roosevelt when Roosevelt was police commissioner of New York City. In London, he brought an English audience to its feet when he pulled Edward VII who volunteered to participate in the show, from the stagecoach and applied the tomahawk.

Red Fox also remembers the "treachery and deceipts which drove Indians onto poor reservations. In 1870, when gold was discovered in the Black Hills, "we were driven like cattle across the badlands down where we are today."

"It was not for the gold or for their hunting grounds that the Indians fought the miners, squatters, speculators and blue-coated soldiers who invaded their territory like a swarm of locusts," Red Fox says. "But they fought in defense of this shrine that had been sacred to them from time immemorial."

Asked why the Sioux finally were subdued by the white man, Red Fox said it was because the Indian trusted the white man and because the great herds of buffalo, on which the Indians depended, were slaughtered for sport and for profit.

But what is past cannot be retrieved, Red Fox believes, and the Indian is doomed to disappear as he is assimilated into white culture.

Muskie backs pullout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, said he often wished he had spoken out earlier against the Vietnam War and now believes the United States should withdraw all its troops by Dec. 31 "to challenge them (the South Vietnamese) to prove that they are a country."

The front-running contender for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination made his remarks during the taping of the David Frost television program, scheduled for broadcast in New York Wednesday night.

Muskie said the presidential and congressional elections in South Vietnam scheduled for the autumn give the Saigon government an opportunity "to establish a solid political base that their people will support."

He said the United States should "tell them clearly, we're getting out fully by such and such a date, the end of this year, say," to give the South Vietnamese the chance to "take maximum advantage of that election."

Muskie, who ran for vice president on the Democratic ticket in 1968, said the United States had fully equipped the Saigon army and that "they ought to be in a position, it seems to me, to defend themselves, if they've got a country that the people are willing to defend."

The Maine senator said he first expressed reservations about American policy in Indochina privately to President Johnson after a trip to South Vietnam in 1965. He said Johnson had resisted pressure to invade Cambodia and Laos.

During the 90-minute interview Muskie also made these comments:

—On becoming a candidate for the presidential nomination: "You have to play coy with this, David."

—On admitting Mainland China to the United Nations: "We ought to indicate that membership of Red China in the United Nations is an objective that's consistent with the objective of the organization, and that we ought to pursue it."

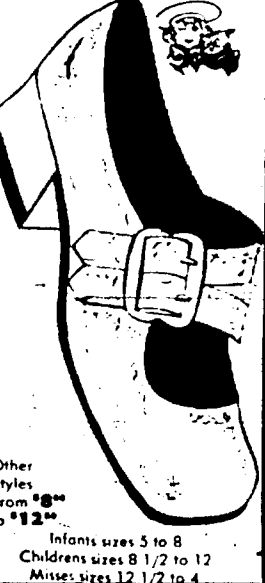

—On a volunteer Army: "If we truly get a professional volunteer Army, what we'd end up with is an instrument that presidents might find it easier to use than an Army which would require him to go to the sons of citizens to draw his manpower... We may lose the benefit of that restraint upon presidents, if we were to substitute for a citizen Army a volunteer professional Army."

Group promotes 'alert' system

TWIN FALLS—The Idaho Life Underwriters Association has taken as its public service project the promotion of awareness of Medic Alert.

The Southern Idaho Life Underwriters Association has started the program by purchasing a Medic Alert bracelet for Kelly Heppner, 10-year-old son of Mrs. Georgia Heppner, Twin Falls, Kelly, a student at Washington School, is the victim of cystic fibrosis.

Faren C. Faler, CLU, and Jay O. Butler, both Twin Falls, said young Kelly received his bracelet in Boise recently from Gov. Cecil Andrus who has designated the week of April 5-10 as Medic Alert Week.

During that week members of the insurance association will distribute canisters and Medic Alert pamphlets.

Medic Alert is dedicated to preventing inadvertent medical ministrations that could have fatal effects. This amulet, worn as a bracelet or necklace, alerts doctors, nurses and other personnel attending emergency cases to the wearer's hidden or special medical problem.

Carries message

GOV. CECIL ANDRUS places a Medic Alert bracelet on the wrist of Kelly Heppner, 10-year-old son of Mrs. Georgia Heppner, Twin Falls. The bracelet for Kelly, who has cystic fibrosis, was purchased by the Southern Idaho Life Underwriters Association. Representing the group in ceremonies in which Gov. Andrus gave the bracelet to Kelly was Faren C. Faler, CLU, left, and Jay O. Butler, center background, both from Twin Falls. Gov. Andrus has proclaimed the week of April 5-10 as Medic Alert Week, sponsored by the Idaho Life Underwriters Association.

Bottle, barrel squabble rages

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Should beer come into Puerto Rico in bottles or barrels? Should rum leave the island in barrels or bottles?

These questions have created a major legislative controversy in the spirits industry here that could affect the availability of Puerto Rican rum on the mainland and the export of U.S.

and foreign beer to the island. The local brewing industry, which has steadily been losing ground to imported U.S. and foreign brews in the Puerto Rican market, is supporting a bill that would restrict beer imports to tanks of at least 1,000 gallons.

Meanwhile, the Bacardi Corp., the world's largest rum distiller, is seeking repeal of a Puerto Rican law forbidding the export of rum in barrels for mainland bottling.

Senate denies benefits

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate rejected today, 45 to 40, a proposal to extend 13 additional weeks of unemployment compensation to workers whose benefits have been exhausted.

Legislative sources say the local brewers are likely to get their way, despite opposition from mainland brewers and local distributors. Repeal of the law banning barreled rum exports, however, has little chance of passing despite the fact that Bacardi producers 71 per cent of the Puerto Rican rum sold abroad. All other island distillers oppose repeal. In both cases, it boils down to protecting local jobs.

Opponents argued that the plan was so poorly drafted that residents of only 10 states would have benefitted.

Banning canned and bottled beer will force mainland and foreign brewers to establish bottling plants on the island, according to the bill's sponsors. Local brewers have charged their mainland counterparts are unfairly absorbing shipping and other costs in order to put their beer on the Puerto Rican market at prices near those of Puerto Rican beer. They say competition will be more equal if the law is passed.

The Senate approved a motion by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., to kill the proposal, advanced by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

Bayh acknowledged after the vote that the plan did have flaws and said he would have the proposal redrafted to correct them.

The existing prohibition against exporting barreled rum forces Puerto Rican distillers to do all their bottling on the island.

Seeking a shortcut around the laborious congressional procedures, Bayh offered his proposal as a rider to a House-passed bill to extend the interest equalization tax, which expires at midnight Tuesday.

According to Bacardi President Juan Bosch, the law also prevents Puerto Rican rum distillers from capturing a larger slice of the U.S. liquor market.

After rejecting Bayh's amendment, the Senate approved the tax bill by voice vote, sending it to a House-Senate Conference Committee to draft a final version.

Bacardi is building a $4.5 million bottling plant at Jacksonville, Fla., which will open in January whether the law is repealed or not, Bosch said.

The tax is used to prevent Americans from investing dollars abroad when interest rates paid by foreign countries exceed those paid here.

Bayh proposes to make it possible for workers who have been laid off to collect unemployment compensation for 39 weeks instead of the present 26-week maximum.

Housing project due May finish

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — The $314,000, 32 unit senior citizen housing complex being built by the Twin Falls Housing Authority will be complete near the end of May, according to Larry Harper, Twin Falls Housing Authority director.

The U. N. Terry Addition complex will contain 18 efficiency apartments for single elderly persons. These units are 425 square feet in area with one bedroom. The remaining 14 units have one bedroom and are especially designed for elderly couples. They have 525 square feet of floor space. The complex is located at 200 N. Maurice St. near the Valley Christian Church.

Each unit is supplied with an electric range and hot water. The rest of the apartment is unfurnished. The rent is based on the housing authority program of 21.8 per cent income ratio.

The minimum rent will be $39 a month and the maximum, $55 a month. The rent includes all utilities. The ratio of rent to income is based on a $3,000 a year or under maximum income.

At present there are 69 applications for housing units. They will be filled on a first come, first served basis, Harper said.

The complex was built under the housing authority act with federal government bonds. Harper said there is no local, state or county obligations financially.

This project is the third such complex in Twin Falls built by the housing authority. Sunny View Courts, a 30 unit layout was built in 1963. Duvall Courts with 50 units, was built in 1967 under the same program.

The Twin Falls Housing Authority also built a 50 unit project in Jerome in cooperation with the Jerome Housing Authority.

Drug education course slated

PAYETTE (UPI) — A drug education course for 511 junior high school students in Payette, Fruitland and New Plymouth is to start Thursday.

Entitled "Drug Decision," the course places students in the roles of community leaders who must fight a drug problem.

John W. Campbell, superintendent of the Payette School District, said the 20-hour course gives students the facts on drugs and then places them in roles of community leaders who must use their knowledge to combat a simulated community narcotics crisis. The program was requested by Payette Chief of Police Stan

Sower and is to be financed with a grant from the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

"I think the program is a good one," Campbell added, "So I've sent invitations to other educators in the area to observe the program while it's being given."

Ray of hope

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Like most countries, Denmark is having financial problems, but the Finance Ministry brought a ray of hope—it reported the government saved $67 million in the year ended April 30, 1971.

Long hair gets boost

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The impetus to long hair was given another push when St. Louis County bars when to raise the price of a haircut 25 cents. On a 714-287 vote, Barbers Union Local 102 voted Monday to charge $3 for adult haircuts and $2.50 for children's haircuts.

Suspension protested

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — John E. Melberg, an inmate at Waupun State Prison, has filed a federal court suit because his visiting privileges were suspended for 30 days for "excessively hugging, kissing and petting his wife." Melberg, complaining he was penalized without a hearing, said his wife had moved to Waupun and got a job at a hospital "so we could make use of the visiting hours each day."

Astronaut rescue system developed

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—A five seat rescue craft in one or two days. For the first time in America's manned spaceflight program, the U.S. space agency has devised a way to rescue astronauts stranded in space. But it only will work for the Skylab space station set to fly in 1973.

The plan calls for building a special emergency kit that would convert a three-man Apollo command ship into a station while its three astronauts live and work in the roomy, two-floor assembly. When their mission is complete, they will return to earth in the Apollo, leaving the Skylab in orbit for the new crew to visit.

The rescue plan would go into effect if an Apollo became disabled while linked to the space station. The astronauts would remain in the well-provisioned Skylab waiting for help from earth. Engineers at Cape Kennedy would remove stowage lockers from the command module being prepared for the next Skylab ferry flight and substitute two additional couches, providing space for five men.

The modified Apollo and its Saturn-IB rocket would then be readied for launch as soon as possible. Two astronauts would fly up to the stranded space station crew, dock at an extra port being built into the Skylab and retrieve the three pilots.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said the total time it takes to rescue a stranded Skylab crew would depend on the state of preparation for the next Apollo and its rocket. This would be anywhere from seven to 50 days according to present planning.

The Skylab, however, is expected to be capable of sheltering astronauts for that length of time.

The rescue plan was explained to Congress recently by Dale D. Myers, associate NASA administrator in charge of planned spaceflight. He said a rescue could only be made if the astronauts were in the Skylab and not in a disabled command ship that could not dock with the station.

The plan also would not be quick enough if fire swept the space station or it was seriously damaged by an explosion. But the Skylab crew will have portable oxygen bottles that might enable them to reach their command ship in such a case and abandon the station.

"This approach, although it does not provide rescue for all failure situations, does provide coverage for the most probable ones" NASA said.

Listening builds business

CHICAGO (UPI)—A nationwide business can be built upon telephone calls. That is, if you know how to listen.

Alan B. Anixter and his brother, William R., president and executive vice president respectively of Anixter Bros., Inc., were good at listening. They now run a multimillion dollar business.

Both were in the wire and cable business in the expanding years after World War II and, William explained in a recent interview, the pattern that emerged from the telephone orders and inquiries was clear: There wasn't any one place that a manufacturer or processor or builder could go to get his needs for a specific type of wire or cable connection filled quickly.

"We knew there was a need for a real service in this field, and we began looking around for ways to fill it," Alan Anixter explained.

They were working in the early 50's, for a successful company, but one that showed signs that it could not grow to meet the demand for the ever increasing needs for a variety of wire and cable connections and electric systems.

Automobile wiring; telephone cable; mining, shipboard and marine cable, railroad signal, even supply cords for appliances and power tools. The demand was almost unlimited. In 1957, they branched out on their own.

"We had the inventory," William explained, "in that we knew where to go for what the customer wanted. No one place had had it, previously. And we had $250,000, and we didn't have an order on the books."

"Then, we called everyone we knew and told them we were in business."

Alan took up the story. "Our 'standard package' is the customer's requirement," he said. "Our salesmen are not out in the field, but they are located where a customer can reach them by phone. They are engineers, someone in the wire and cable industry who has developed knowledge about it."

Anixter warehouses across the United States and Canada.

What makes the business, the Anixters believe, is that there are more than 400 electrical wire and cable manufacturers in the United States, but not one makes a full line of products.

Big bird

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—According to recent sightings, there are about 60 giant condors in Southern California.

The condor, North America's largest land bird, is a prehistoric vulture dating from the Ice Age. The large, ugly, bare-necked bird is beautiful in flight. It was the "thunderbird" of the Indians of the Southwest.

Love shoots Bulls into tie with L.A.

Intra-ABA war looms as Kentucky signs one of Utah's draft picks

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI)—The Carolina Cougars Tuesday signed Western Kentucky star Jim McDaniels to what General Manager Carl Scheer said was the fastest contract ever paid a professional basketball player.

The 7-foot McDaniels signed the contract at a news conference, but there appeared to be a big question as to whether the Cougars had the right to sign him.

McDaniels, who averaged 27.8 points a game and 10.5 rebounds for Western Kentucky, was picked in the American Basketball Association draft by the Utah Stars.

Scheer acknowledged that he had no agreement with Utah to release its rights to McDaniels, but he said "what we did was in the best interest of 11 ball clubs in the ABA."

"Utah definitely has some equity in McDaniels," said Scheer. "We have made what we feel is a substantial offer to them. If they don't accept, we are prepared to let the ABA Board of Governors make the decision."

Scheer would not disclose terms of the contract, except to say it was "the largest contract ever paid to a professional basketball player."

McDaniels was star of the Western Kentucky team that finished in third place in the NCAA championships. He averaged more than 50 per cent of his shots from the field in his career in college.

"I'm happy to be here, and I'm looking forward to playing here," said McDaniels. "This is where I wanted to play."

Utah General Manager Vince Boryla, contacted at Salt Lake City, was quoted by a local newsmen as saying "Jim McDaniels either plays with the Utah Stars or he won't play in the ABA. If the Cougars sign McDaniels, they are in complete violation of the ABA bylaws. As far as we're concerned, McDaniels is still our property."

Scheer refused to say whether McDaniels was signed to a standard ABA contract or a "personal services" contract. Scheer said he reached agreement with McDaniels Sunday at a meeting in Louisville, Ky. McDaniels, a native of Scottsville, Ky., said he didn't want to play for any other ABA team.

Boryla said Utah "played the game according to the rules" in earning the draft rights to McDaniels and "we don't intend to let any board of trustees, any commissioner or anyone else take our property away from us."

Bullets take 3-1 edge over 76ers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Jack Marin scored 15 of his 27 points in the last quarter Tuesday night as the Baltimore Bullets defeated the Philadelphia 76ers 120-105 to take a commanding 3-1 lead in their National Basketball Association best-of-seven playoff series.

Porter denies signing

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Did he or didn't he? Even his agents don't know for sure.

Twenty-four hours after the Pittsburgh Condors announced Howard Porter's signing, Porter's future in pro basketball remained in question Tuesday.

"We believe we have an agreement with Howard Porter to play with the Pittsburgh Condors," said Donald Bezahler, president of the club.

"I think if there's going to be an announcement it should come from Howard Porter and at the moment, I don't know where Howard Porter is," said New York attorney Norman Blass, one of several agents involved in the in-fighting to represent Porter.

The only man who could settle the dispute was nowhere to be found.

Porter ducked out of sight after attending a banquet in Philadelphia Monday night but before he did, he denied signing with the Condors.

"I have not signed a contract with the Condors," Porter said. "I have not signed a contract with anyone."

Scheer refused to say whether McDaniels was signed to a standard ABA contract or a "personal services" contract. Scheer said he reached agreement with McDaniels Sunday at a meeting in Louisville, Ky. McDaniels, a native of Scottsville, Ky., said he didn't want to play for any other ABA team.

Knicks drop Atlanta 113-107 to take 3-1 NBA series lead

ATLANTA (UPI)—The defending champion New York Knicks, getting stellar last-

Campbell, Suter pace Tiger win

JEROME — Roger Campbell took three firsts and a second and Randy Suter posted his usual two distance victories Tuesday afternoon as the Jerome Tigers defeated Wood River, Kimberly and Valley in a four-way track meet.

Campbell won the 100-yard dash in 10.5, the high jump at 5-8, the 140-yard low hurdles in 16.8 and was second in the furlong. Suter, hammering his times down again, took the mile in a good 4:37.2 and the two-mile at 10:11.9.

With those two individuals tossing in 28 points, the Tigers picked up 96½ while Wood River had 78, Kimberly 55½ and Valley 5. Hurting Wood River's hopes was the lack of the pole vault, usually one of the Wolverine's strong points. It was cancelled due to non-arrival of the foam rubber pit Jerome has ordered.

State champion Rod Rudolph of Kimberly picked up three victories, taking his quarter-mile specialty in 51.9 and coming back to win the 220-yard dash and the broadjump.

quarter play from guards Walt Frazier and Dick Barnett, beat the Atlanta Hawks 113-107 Tuesday night to take a 3-1 lead in the NBA Eastern Conference best-of-seven playoffs.

The Hawks, now only one game away from elimination, had the score tied 101-101 with 4:24 left to play but the Knicks ran off eight straight points to pull out to reach.

Frazier and Barnett led New York with 26 and 22 points respectively each while Dave DeBusschere, who fouled out late in the final period, had 19 for the winners.

Atlanta's Lou Hudson scored a game-high 30 points but six of those came after the outcome was no longer in doubt.

Walt Bellamy scored 25 points for the Hawks while Atlanta's guards, Walt Hazzard and Pete Maravich, had 18 and 17 respectively.

Frazier and Hudson each scored 12 points in the opening quarter, but the Knicks, taking advantage of Atlanta turnovers, held a 32-28 lead at the end of that period. The Knicks widened their margin to six points, 63-57, at halftime after having led by as many as 10 points during the second quarter.

The Hawks caught up early in the third quarter with balanced scoring and the lead saw-sawed back and forth until the closing minute and a half of the period.

Russians whip U.S. team 7-5

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI)—The United States put up a valiant battle for one and a half periods against Russia, leading the world champions twice, then lost 7-5, in a world ice hockey championship game Tuesday night.

The superior conditioning of the eight-time world champions, heading for a likely ninth world title here, made the difference in the end.

The young and inexperienced U.S. club was in the game until 11:05 of the second period when Alexander Maltsev put the Russians into the lead, 3-2, for the first time. After that, the Russians took over, scoring three goals within two minutes.

But the gutsy Americans came back in the third period, scoring a pair of goals within half a minute midway through the period.

Then Bob Weiss and Love sparked the Bulls as they outscored the Lakers 13-2 in the first three and a half minutes of the final period to open up a 6 point gap which Los Angeles could not close.

Jerry Sloan tallied 23 points for Chicago.

The Bulls, trailing throughout the first period, earned a 52-51 lead at the half even though Walt Chamberlain blocked seven of their shots and pulled in 17 rebounds.

But the Lakers, sparked by Gail Goodrich, with 10 of his 32 points in the third period, rallied for an 83-78 lead with one quarter to go.

Bowladrome tourney will end Sunday

The annual Brunswick Bowladrome's adult-junior tournament heads into its final weekend of competition. The last squad will bowl Sunday evening.

Going into the last weekend, Art Brown and Tom Turner are leading the senior division with a 1,216 total. Dick and John Irwin, a father-son combination, lead the junior division at 1,141 while Addie Wolfe and Mark Fisher posted a 1,156 to pace all bantam division entries.

Milwaukee maintains mastery of Warriors with 114-102 decision

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—The Milwaukee Bucks choked off a San Francisco rally with a dazzling fast break attack in the final minutes and kept their hex on the Warriors 114-102 Tuesday night to take a 3-0 lead in their National Basketball Association playoff series. It was the 12th victory in a row by the Bucks over the Warriors over two seasons.

The Bucks led by as many as 14 points midway through the third quarter, but the outside shooting of Ron Williams and Lucas' tough inside play brought the Warriors to within 8 points at 86-78 when the third quarter ended.

Haywood row settled by clubs

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Spencer Haywood's dispute with the Denver Rockets was finally settled Tuesday and a federal court jury trying the breach of contract case was dismissed.

The Warriors, who trailed most of the game, pulled to within one point of the Bucks 96-95 and could get no closer than two points at 100-98 on a Nate Thurmond basket.

Shoshone wins dual at Wendell

WENDELL — The Shoshone Indians struck heavily in the hurdles, field and distance events Tuesday afternoon to defeat the Wendell Trojans 72-63 in a dual track meet.

The faster Bucks then turned on the speed and pulled away. Lew Alcindor was the high scorer of the night with 33 points, while Bob Dandridge added 23 for the Bucks. Jerry Lucas led the Warriors with 25 points and teammate Thurmond had 23.

Haywood's attorneys reported that the settlement frees the star forward from any contractual obligations to the Denver team. Denver attorneys confirmed the settlement.

The two teams meet in what could be the final game in Oakland Thursday night.

Haywood will now be free to play for the Seattle SuperSonics, the team with which he signed after tearing up his purported $1.9 million contract with Denver.

Redskins swap draft choice for Mason

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Los Angeles Rams traded 31-year-old running back Tommy Mason today to the Washington Redskins, now coached by ex-ram headman George Allen.

Haywood met with U.S. Dist. Judge Warren J. Ferguson Tuesday afternoon and emerged from the meeting pleased with the outcome of the settlement. Terms of the settlement were not divulged but Rockets' attorney Frederick P. Furth said he believed the case was settled on "fair terms."

The Redskins gave up an undisclosed draft choice for Mason who has been plagued by knee trouble through much of his 11-year career in the National Football League.

The Rockets had sued Haywood for breach of contract when he jumped to the NBA and signed with the Seattle team. He reportedly signed a $1.5 million contract with the Sonics.

Green Bay signs Hunter, 3 agents

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers today announced the signing of rookie quarterback Scott Hunter of Alabama and three free agents.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd and Floyd Bennett were the first persons to reach the north pole by air. They flew to the pole and circled it on May 9, 1926.

McRoberts, Feeler to defend crowns

Phil McRoberts and Carl Feeler will defend their championship when the Twin Falls Men's Golf Association's spring best ball tournament begins this weekend.

Professional Clyde Thomsen reports the field will have two weeks in which to complete the first round and one week for each succeeding match thereafter.

The pairings include: Championship flight McRoberts and Feeler vs. E. Masoner and B. Bacon; C. Dodds and D. Irwin vs. D. Rupert and K. Fullmer; B. Young and R. Pope vs. P. Ingram and R. Wight; D. # New bill would ban blackout

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Five Republican house members — all former athletes — Tuesday proposed a bill to prevent closed circuit television monopolies of championship sporting events such as the Frazier-Alf fight, the Super Bowl and the World Series.

The bill was sponsored by Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr., R-N.J., a former amateur boxer. Co-sponsoring were House Republican leader Gerald R. Ford, Mich., Reps. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, R-N.C., and Robert B. "Bob" Mathias, R-Calif.

Ford played Big Ten football at Michigan; Kemp played football with the San Diego Chargers and the Buffalo Bills; Mathias was a former U.S. decathlon champion, and Mizell was a major league pitcher. The measure would require promoters of championship professional sports events to secure a permit from the Federal Communications Commission.

Full name for school

TWIN FALLS - Trustees of the Twin Falls school district approved a motion to change the name of O'Leary Junior High School to add the full name of the pioneer educator honored by the school, Vera C. O'Leary. The school will be known formally as Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School, much as the other Junior High, Robert Stuart, contains the full name of the pioneer honored by the school.

During the special board meeting Monday night, a number of items of business were cleared from the agenda, including approval of a contract with Dave Church, social studies teacher at Robert Stuart, who will serve as track coach for the remainder of the school year at a salary of $300.

The school district's operation of the Head Start program, a federally funded project to help low-income families, was discussed. It was agreed, on a motion by trustee Dr. H. W. Runk, and seconded by John Wolfe, to leave the final decision on whether to continue sponsorship of Head Start up to George Staudacher, who will become superintendent on July 1.

Elmer Sommer, chairman of the board, and trustees Wolfgang and Frank DeLuca were authorized to attend the National School Trustees Association convention in Philadelphia, April 3 through 6. Each will be allowed $225 by the district as expenses.

Extensive roof repairs are planned for Twin Falls High School and the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High. Architect Harold Gerber is preparing plans and specifications, and bid proposals will be announced in the near future, the trustees were told. Work will begin immediately after the close of schools on May 24.

The April school board meeting was scheduled for Tuesday, April 13, instead of Monday, since schools will be out for the Easter vacation on Monday. School board meetings in spring and summer months will convene at 8 p.m., instead of 7:30 p.m., the trustees agreed.

Summer driver course cut out

TWIN FALLS - Driver training will not be offered this summer in the Twin Falls school district.

This decision was reached after a discussion at a special school board meeting incoming superintendent George Staudacher said Tuesday.

Trustees said the Idaho State Board of Education has been too slow in reimbursing the school board for the driver training program, which is funded entirely with state appropriations.

During the first half of the school year, Idaho school districts had to operate their driver training programs on a deficit basis, pending a delayed reimbursement from legislative appropriation. The Twin Falls district spent more than $14,000 of its own money before the legislature approved an emergency supplemental appropriation for driver training.

Staudacher said a decision on whether to operate the driver training program this fall will be made later, depending on final appropriations by the legislature.

Gov. Cecil D. Andrus has vetoed the school appropriations bill, so the entire financial picture is clouded, Staudacher said. School districts must wait until the level of state support is known before salaries can be set and plans can be made for fall spending.

The trustees also examined tentative plans for receipts and expenditures for the 1971-72 school year, but had to delay the annual public hearing on the district budget, due to the governor's veto.

Voting age, registry bills pass

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's legislature ratified the 26th amendment to the U. S. Constitution Tuesday, an act one senator said would "show the young people of Idaho we respect them, we want them, and we need their assistance."

The amendment was first approved, 57-11, by the House, and then was sent to the Senate where the rules were suspended and the bill passed, 32-0.

The House also approved two bills making major changes in election laws, while legislation was introduced in the Senate which would limit the counties' share of the sales tax monies used to replace lost inventory taxes.

Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewisville, urged approval of the constitutional amendment, adding, "What we have here is people who are ready to be active and to make a contribution."

Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, floor sponsor of the proposal, said it was "fortunate" the Idaho Legislature was in special session and therefore able to ratify the amendment.

The House took only seven minutes of debate to complete action on the constitutional proposal, introduced Monday after Gov. Cecil D. Andrus added it to his call for the special session.

Then, the House took it up under suspension of rules Tuesday and, without ceremony, approved it. It would lower the minimum voting age nationwide to 18 for all public elections.

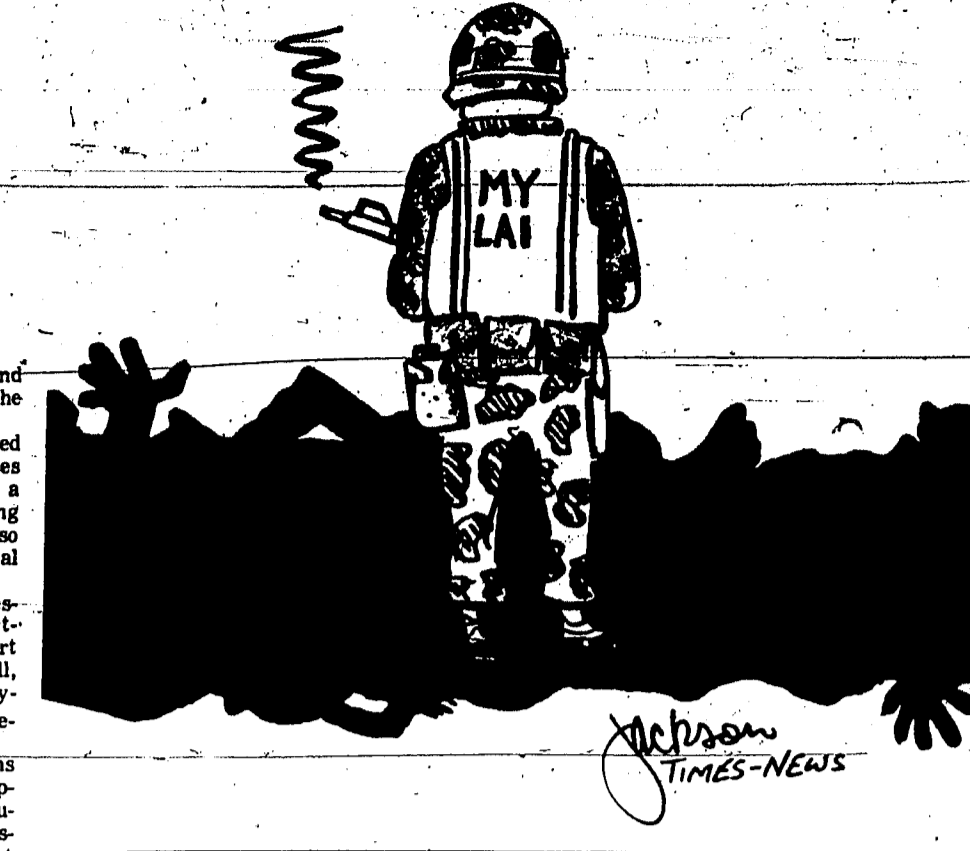

After approving this measure, the House passed, 38-29, a bill substituting the open primary election for the present pre-primary convention system of nominating candidates for high public office.

It also okayed, 41-27, a measure requiring party registration as a requisite for voting in a primary election.

Both these bills — subject of three Republican caucuses and one democratic caucus in the house Tuesday — drew more debate than the constitutional proposal.

After passage of these bills, the House amended still another election plan — this one combining primary election for congress, U. S. senator, gover-

Who suffers most?

Critic hits Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., has challenged the Nixon administration's contention that the Allied operation in Laos was a success.

He said that assessment was either a "massive deception of the American people" or "a massive misjudgment on the part of our political or military leaders."

Fulbright, in a Senate speech Tuesday, suggested the original goal of the mission was to cut off Communist troops in Cambodia and Laos from their supplies, causing them to "die on the vine." But he said the operation was crushed long before it could achieve any of these or other goals set by the administration.

The Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee spoke out on the subject for the first time since the operation began. The committee decided Tuesday to hold hearings after Easter on means to end the war. They are expected to explore proposals to set a Dec. 31, 1971, deadline for withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam and could inspire a major congressional controversy over administration war policy.

Fulbright said he had been reluctant to speak because he might be accused of "gloating at a South Vietnamese disaster."

But Fulbright said further silence would "make me a party to deception or would imply an acceptance of the administration's judgment."

He said the Laos incursion was "another example of the profound lack of wisdom and judgment in the affairs of Indochina."

And, like its predecessors, the Nixon administration is "telling it how it wants it to be" instead of "telling it how it is."

Trust lack cited by club official

SPOKANE (UPI) — A Sierra Club officer from San Francisco told U.S. Forest Service recreation managers here Tuesday environmentalists generally do not trust them.

Speaking before the Forest Service's recreation seminar, held in conjunction with the 33rd Intermountain Logging Conference here, Mike McCloskey, said his organization is working to deny funds to the Forest Service "until we can be sure that you spend it correctly."

McCloskey, executive secretary of the Sierra Club, said commodity interests such as lumbering and mining have been given 90 per cent of the forests, while the public has been given what is left.

Wendell Actor freed

SALERNO, Italy (UPI) — American actor William Berger, who gained local fame for his bad guy roles in Italy's "spaghetti Westerns," was arrested last August when police found a fraction of an ounce of marijuana at his rented seaside villa.

Tuesday evening, a Salerno court acquitted him of all charges. In the meantime he spent nearly nine months in a jail-insane asylum and his wife, actress Carol Lobravico, died while being held in another jail.

The Italian press said the whole thing was "absurd," "unbelievable," and the proceedings were something out of Kafka.

Wendell youths back in custody

WENDELL — Two Wendell youths have been returned to the State Industrial School at St. Anthony and another one is under the supervision of the State Board of Health, Wendell Police chief Dale Bunn said today.

The officer said the three confessed to vandalism in the Wendell area and running away to Nevada where they were apprehended in Lovelock by police officers. Gooding county officers picked them up there and returned two of the boys to St. Anthony, Bunn said.

He said the youths had taken a panel truck belonging to Claude Snoderly, Wendell, and drove to the Francis Gunning ranch where they broke windows in two trucks belonging to Bob Taylor, Jerome, who had been hired to move two houses on the Gunning ranch. They also broke windows in two houses before returning to the Snoderly auto.

Auction planned

WENDELL — LaRay Johnson, publicity chairman of the Wendell Future Farmers of America, said the Wendell FFA Chapter and the Wendell IOOF Lodge will jointly sponsor an auction to raise funds for McGinnis Park.

Joe Roe and John Wert, auctioneers, will donate their commission for the fund. Anyone having sale items should contact a member of the FFA or the IOOF. Johnson stated FFA members would pick-up items starting this week and that donations would be accepted.

Idaho's best

CONGRATULATIONS ARE offered by Dr. James Taylor, president, College of Southern Idaho, to Randy Stephens, Soda Springs, and Kent Henstock, Twin Falls, all from left. The DECA public speaking and advertising campaign team placed first in the Idaho contest with three other colleges and will represent the state in national competition April 17 through 20 in San Antonio, Tex.

Building in Idaho declines

NEW YORK — Construction in Idaho this year is down 24 per cent from last year, according to the F. W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co., New York.

George A. Christie, vice president and chief economist of Dodge, said the first two months of construction this year in Idaho for nonresidential buildings total $5.95 million down 64 per cent from $16.09 million a year ago.

For residential construction, the total this year is $7.21 million up five per cent from last year's $6.84 million and for nonbuilding construction, this year's total is $7.14 million up 81 per cent from last year's $3.94 million.

Christie said nonresidential buildings include commercial, manufacturing, educational, religious, administrative, recreational and other buildings not designed for shelter.

Residential buildings include houses, apartments, motels, dormitories, and other buildings designed for shelter.

Nonbuilding construction includes streets and highways, bridges, dams, reservoirs, river and harbor development, sewage and water supply systems, missile and space facilities, airports, utilities and communication.

Christie adds that all of the definitions do not apply to Idaho, but across the country.

CSI students slated to enter Texas meet

TWIN FALLS — Two College of Southern Idaho students are making plans to attend the national DECA public speaking and advertising campaign contests next month in San Antonio, Tex., as winners of the Idaho contest.

Randy Stephens and Kent Henstock returned Monday from Boise with the first place trophy following a workshop, public speaking contest and advertising campaign and sales representative contests held in the State Business Administration Complex.

Henstock placed second in the public speaking contest and Stephens placed first in the sales representative division. The two, working as a team won first place in the advertising campaign by presenting a complete brochure of a campaign utilizing all advertising media.

They competed with DECA teams (Distributive Education Clubs of America) from Boise State College, North Idaho College, North Idaho College, Lewiston, and Lewis and Clark Normal College, Lewiston.

This is the fourth year the CSI team has won state competition and during the past three years the Twin Falls team has also returned with a national first place trophy, the only Idaho school to win a national DECA contest.

Renewal deadline announced

BOISE — Holders of cosmetology licenses are reminded by the Occupational License Bureau of the Department of Law Enforcement that such licenses expired Jan. 1 and must be renewed prior to April 1 to avoid a penalty payment.

Marvin Gregersen, Boise, bureau director, said license holders who fail to have licenses reinstated prior to the deadline will be assessed a $10 penalty.

Gregersen said at the end of last year there were the following number of cosmetology licenses in good standing:

Session at base reviewed

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Air Force Association members are making plans for participation in a special symposium to be held May 14 in Boise.

Plans for the symposium, sponsored by the Air Force Association, were discussed Monday night in a meeting of the Magic Valley organization in the American Legion Building. Col. Gene Hull and Armour Anderson, president, discussed the event.

Kenneth Colner spoke on statements of retired army officer, Arch E. Roberts, during an appearance in Twin Falls last month, whose topic was "Coming World Revolution."

North Viets set elections April 11

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnam has scheduled its first legislative elections in seven years April 11.

Despite some hints of a crack in the power structure in Hanoi since the death of President Ho Chi Minh, North Vietnamese experts in Saigon say the candidates will be drawn from the same group that currently controls the country.

Truong Chinh, chairman of the powerful national assembly standing committee and representing the city of Hanoi, will stand for re-election to the national assembly. So will Le Duan, secretary of the central military party, and Premier Pham Van Dong, whose constituency includes the port of Haiphong. The assembly leaders generally hold dual membership in the party and the legislature.

They were all in the lineup to greet Communist China's premier, Chou En-lai, when he visited Hanoi in early March apparently to advise them that China probably will not intervene in Indochina unless North Vietnam were invaded or seriously threatened, or the fighting in Laos approached China's border.

Under the North Vietnamese constitution, national assembly delegates are elected every four years for one term. Each delegate represents about 50,000 persons.

Gem silver mining project hits snag

WALLACE, Idaho (UPI) — The Caladay project, a $10 million combine effort to develop a new silver mine near here, has been ordered slowed down because of "continued sluggishness in the silver market. The project, a joint venture of the Callahan Mining Corp., Day Mines Inc., and American Smelting and Refining Co., was started last year to try to explore for silver at deep levels in the Coeur d'Alene Mining District or northern Idaho. Combine spokesman said if silver prices don't move higher by September, further delays are probable.

Introducing a new idea in frozen french fries.

Frozen french fries that actually fry in the oven.

When you put them in the oven, Deep Fries sizzle and bubble. Get crispier and browner. And actually fry.

All because Deep Fries frozen french fries are sprayed with vegetable oil.

Which is why they fry in the first place. Frozen french fries that actually fry.

They've got to taste better than frozen french fries that don't.

Save 10¢ on any bag or carton of Deep Fries French Fries

GROCER: Send this coupon to ORE IDA FOODS, INC., BOX 54, PITTSBURGH, PA. 15230 for 10¢ reimbursement plus 3¢ handling. Invoiced proving purchase of sufficient stock of Deep Fries frozen french fries to cover coupons must be shown upon request. Failure to do so will void all coupons. Coupon non-transferable. Sales tax must be paid by consumer. Void wherever prohibited, taxed, or restricted. Cash value 1/20¢. Any other use constitutes fraud. REDEEMABLE ONLY ON ANY BAG OR CARTON OF DEEP FRIES-FROZEN POTATOES. Offer expires Oct. 1, 1971 - 9.

STORE COUPON

Deep Fries. That's what they're called because that's how they taste. And now it'll cost you 10¢ less to taste them yourself.

the queen of hearts. He would also be sure of nine tricks against the actual distribution provided he played low from both hands. He would still be in trouble if that 10 of hearts had been a singleton but then there would be no way to bring the contract home.

Incidentally, the defense must have played very carefully while South was trying to work out of the hole he had put himself in.

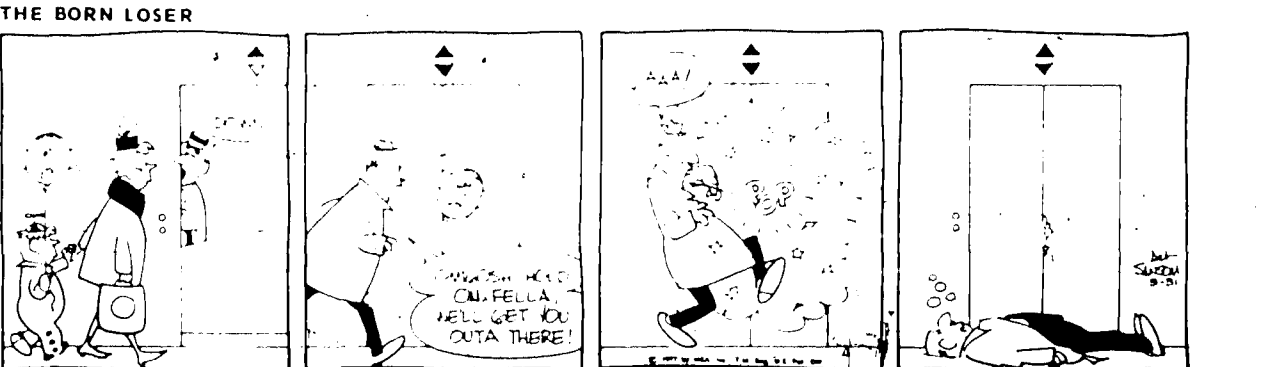

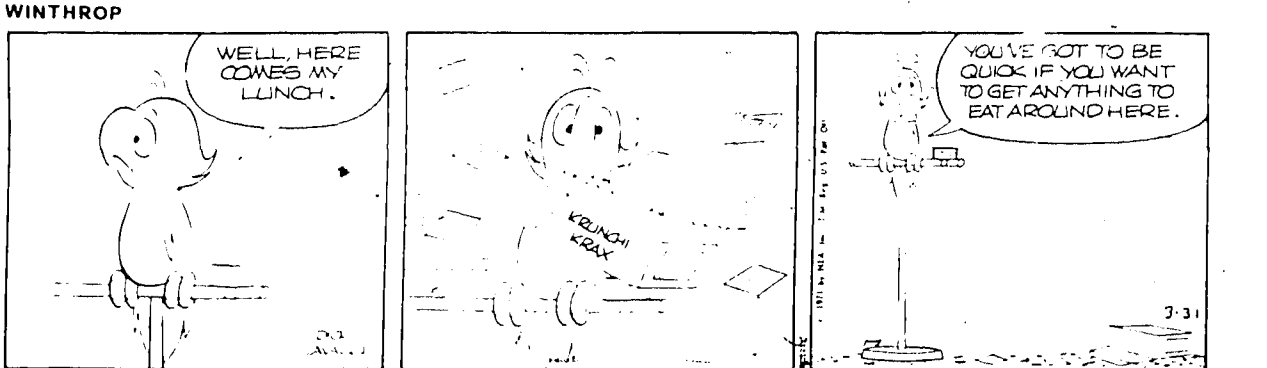

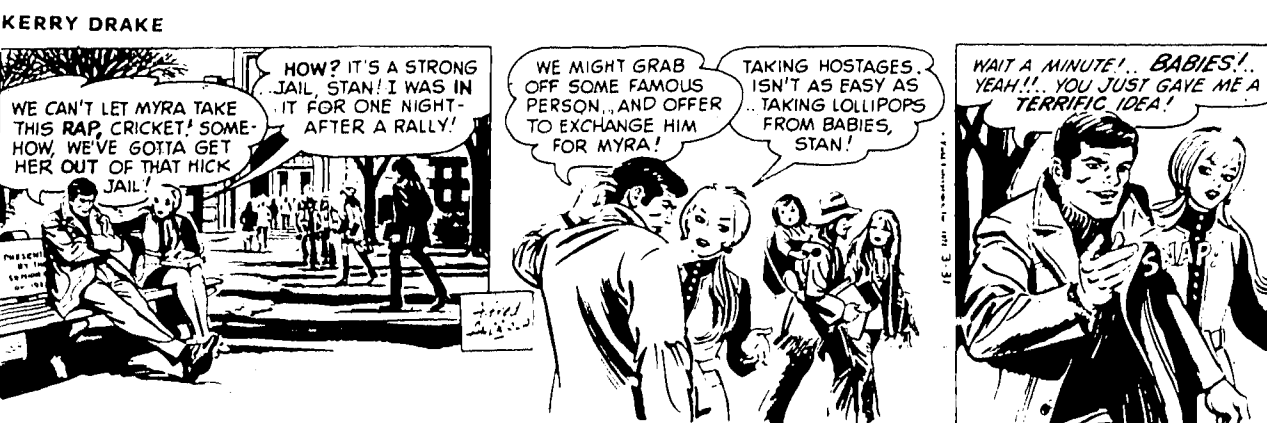

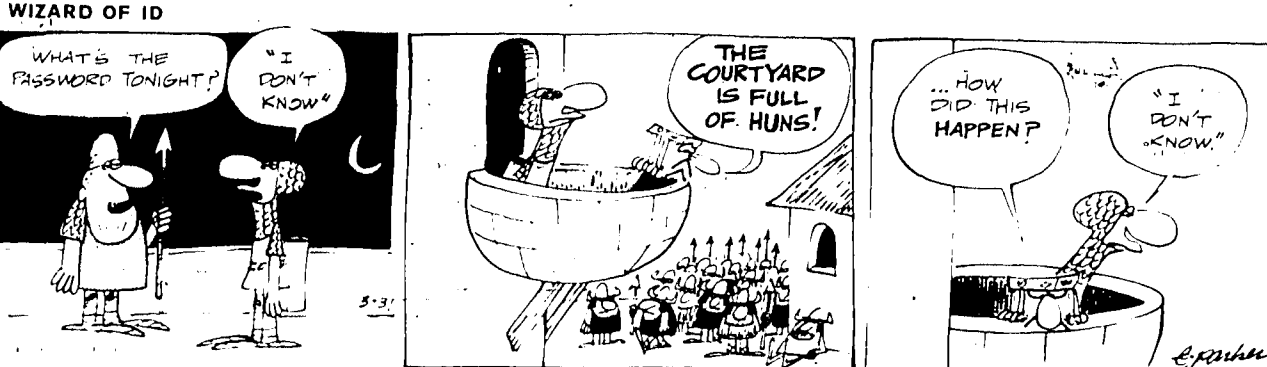

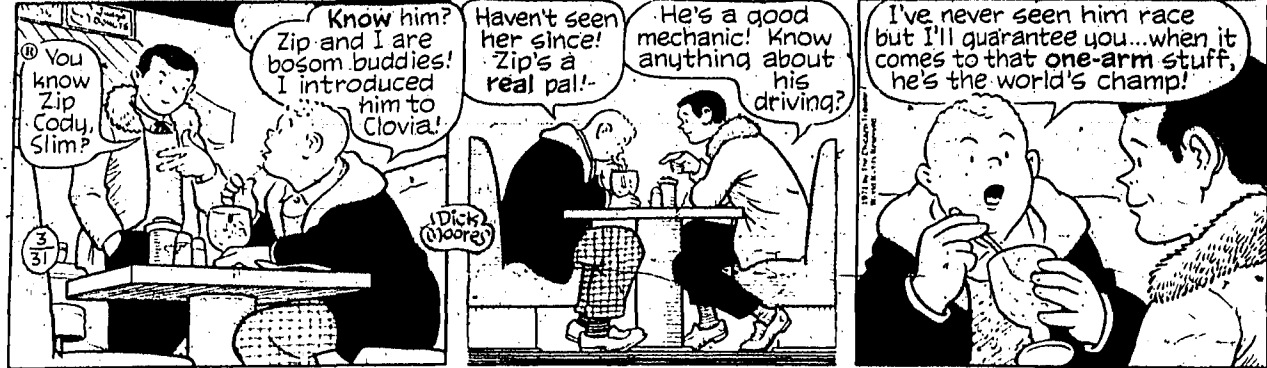

We can't give South any laurel wreaths for his bidding either. He might well have tried a two-heart call at his second turn to bid instead of leaping into no-trump. North would have raised hearts and we doubt if South could have found a way to go down at four hearts. In fact, we believe that he might well have come up with an overtrick if he just played his top two trumps as a starter.

PASS IT ON
by L.M. Boyd

AT LEAST HALF A DOZEN souls have paddled rowboats across the Atlantic. To achieve fame forever. Can you remember the name of even one? ... WILD GAME EXPERT Don Hunt seriously contends the best way to catch a cheetah is to grab it by the tail and throw it into an open box. Might try that, might not, don't know ... AMONG MEN who learn to use the typewriter, the record shows, those who stutter tend to become more proficient typists than those who don't.

ONE OUT OF FIVE WIVES likes her husband just as he is, even hairless, bulbous and beery, if such he be. Other four out of five say they could do with a few improvements. Ernest Burgess, the scholar, found that out. It saddens our Love and War man. Only 20 per cent of the women like what they've got, as is. He will not be at ease until at least 50 per cent are satisfied. He is rereading himself toward that end. Support him.

OPEN QUESTION: Can you name any reptile, even one, that's limey?

MYSTERIOUSLY, THE RESEARCHERS still insist the average ballerina eats approximately twice as much as the average professional football player. Doubtful, doubtful ... THE ROYAL POINCIANA GOLF CLUB of Naples, Fla., has 550 members. Of these, exactly 360 live on one street, Gulf Shore Blvd. That's odd, isn't it? ... NOTE A WRITER of magazine fiction portrays a young lady of Dublin, Ireland, as counting her rosary beads in St. Patrick's Cathedral there. Interesting. St. Patrick's in Dublin is a Protestant church.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "In reading you from time to time, I gather you resent the nickname 'Louie' Frankly, I don't blame you. What a lousy name! Now to the point. I've got a cat called Pedro who has never been known to purr. Is that unusual?" A. Believe so. Highly unusual. About Louie, you figure it's really that bad? ... Q. "What's the fastest fish of all?" A. The Atlantic sailfish; some scientists say Others contend the Mako shark is faster, though, inasmuch as sailfish meat has been found in Mako sharks' innards.

THAT DRIVER least apt to be injured in a serious car crackup is the tall thin young man. Most apt to be injured is the short heavy older woman. Has to do with the configuration of the car's interior, whereabouts of the steering wheel and windshield. The report is from researchers at the University of California.

COUNTLESS WILD DUCKS and geese die of birdshot. Not birdshot wounds. Just plain birdshot. They eat the scattered pellets and succumb to lead poisoning. Game men are worried about this. They say the bad shots out there in the marshes are killing more birds than the birds on target. Far more.

RAPID REPLY: True, the Santa Fe Railroad was named for Santa Fe, N.M. Still say it has never run through that city, however.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 17076, Fort Worth, Texas 76102.

Clean, Uncluttered Stores

Buttrey uses the services of a professional cleaning service to thoroughly clean each Buttrey Food Store ... every night! By day, our store personnel give constant attention to neatness ... continually tidying up, and seeing that our wide shopping aisles are kept free of clutter! At Buttrey, neatness counts!

Fresh, Top Quality Foods

Buttrey Food Stores maintain a strict standard for high quality throughout each store! Buttrey meats are fresh and wholesome, and always extra-value-trimmed! Buttrey produce is trucked directly to each store, for absolute freshness! Our baked goods couldn't be fresher: they're baking while you shop! We guarantee the quality of everything we sell!

Complete Selection, Storewide

Buttrey Food Stores offer you a vast choice of merchandise! We stock a full selection of nationally advertised products for your particular tastes and needs. This outstanding selection extends through every department: meats, produce, and especially Buttrey's in-store bakeries ... with over 20 varieties of bread alone!

Friendly, Courteous Service

At Buttrey, we offer many extra services to make your shopping nicer: the convenience of a courtesy counter ... special orders on meat cuts and baked goods ... and carry-out service! And Buttrey offers: appreciable savings, with storewide low Budget Prices every shopping day ... plus extra savings with Buttrey Bonus Specials! Whatever you want in a food store, shop Buttrey ... the complete food store!

Low, Budget Prices!
