Calley review backed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The military judge at the court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., supports President Nixon's intention to review and make the final decision in the case of the convicted mass killer.

In an interview Thursday with Patrick J. Sloyan of Hearts Headline Service, Col. Reid W. Kennedy said that as commander-in-chief of the military Nixon is part of the review system.

"That's the President's right," Kennedy said.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and some other administration critics have contended that the White House announcement that Nixon would make the final determination in the Calley case was politically motivated.

According to Kennedy, there was nothing improper in Nixon's actions.

"First of all, I agreed with freeing Calley from the stockade during the appeal process," Kennedy said. "I would have recommended the move to the commanding general at Ft. Benning."

Nixon's first intercession in the case was freeing Calley from the stockade. This was followed a short time later by the White House announcement of a presidential review of the case and a final determination.

"I see nothing wrong with saying that," Kennedy said.

"After all, he is the commander-in-chief of the military and he is part of the review system."

Kennedy also was critical of Capt. Aubrey Daniel III, the prosecutor at the lengthy court-martial that found Calley guilty of premeditated murder and sentenced him to life imprisonment.

"The trouble with Daniel," Kennedy told Sloyan, "is that he's a purist. He's a very intelligent young man. But he only sees good and evil. As you get a little older you realize that most people are in between the two extremes."

U. S. hikes Jordanian armaments

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nixon administration diplomatic officials report the United States plans a 50 per cent increase in military aid to Jordan during the 12 months beginning July 1—including about $45 million worth of modern tanks, rifles and possibly C130 transport planes.

During the current fiscal year Jordan is receiving $30 million in U.S. military grants as well as credits which permit it to purchase an additional $30 million in American military equipment. The officials said next year's aid increase was outlined recently by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird in a letter to Jordan's King Hussein.

2 'hotlines' hope to help

By JERRY HERRMANN
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls now has two rival "hotlines."

Two groups with widely differing philosophies have set up independent telephone call-in services to help people — particularly young people — who may have problems they would like to talk over with someone.

But aside from a belief that there are a number of people in Magic Valley with problems, the two hotlines have almost nothing in common.

One group, an offshoot from the Twin Falls County Mental Health Association, stresses its role as one of listening and reference to agencies or

Pakistan rebels claim victories

NEW DELHI (UPI)—The Bengal secessionist forces have claimed almost complete control of the western part of East Pakistan, reports in the Indian press said today. Heavy fighting continued in some Western cities and across the Brahmaputra River in the Eastern sector.

The government Radio Pakistan said Lt. Gen. Tikka Khan, martial law administrator of East Pakistan, was sworn in today as governor of the province. The rebels claim their forces killed Tikka Khan in a skirmish in Dacca, the capital city, on March 26, the day after civil war broke out.

The Press Trust of India (PTI) news agency said the liberation army of Bangla Desh (Bengal Land) claimed Thursday it had established command over most of the area between Saldpur in the north and Chalna port in the south, a distance of about 225 miles.

The government All India Radio said the Bengalis had total control of Saldpur and Rajshahi, another northern town, but that fighting continued in the southern industrial belt of Khulna. The liberation forces appeared to have the upper hand in the Khulna struggle, the radio said.

Firm hits tax order

BOISE (UPI)—The J.H. Henry Produce Co., Kimberly, filed suit in U.S. District Court Thursday alleging it was assessed erroneously for more than $230,000 in back taxes by the Internal Revenue Service.

The firm said the assessment, paid in three separate installments, included principal and interest the IRS alleged was owing for tax years 1956-67 inclusive.

The firm said it was assessed a total of $174,740 for principal and $56,394 in interest. The suit seeks recovery of the amount paid.

Viet war toll tops Korea's

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon said today casualties in Vietnam now exceed the death toll of the Korean war. Announcement of 88 deaths during the week ending Saturday—including 33 killed in the attack on Firebase Mary Anne—pushed the Vietnam toll to 54,284. The count started Jan. 1, 1961.

Korea claimed 54,246 American lives between Jan. 20, 1950, and July 27, 1953, according to Pentagon records.

The two totals include both those killed in battle and those who died for other reasons, such as illness or accident. Comparison of battle deaths is not possible because different bookkeeping methods were used in the two wars.

In Korea, 33,629 battlefield deaths were recorded. But these included only men killed in combat, and not those who later died of wounds.

Viets announce invasion 'at end'

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese command today officially announced the end of the Laotian invasion, 15 days after the last regular troops withdrew. Near the Laotian border, American B52s and helicopters pounded a North Vietnamese buildup near embattled Fire Base No. 6.

Military sources said the B52s hit targets within a half mile of Base 6 Thursday night and early today and giant C53 Chinook helicopters dropped barrels of napalm on the jungled hillsides in the area.

Such drums break open and spray the jungle canopy then rocket fire ignites the napalm, turning the jungle into a sheet of flame, military sources said. This removes the cover from Communist troop concentrations.

"The Communists are still there," a South Vietnamese military spokesman said of the situation around Fire Base 6. "They aren't attacking any more but there is no sign they are leaving."

Fire Base 6 is 12 miles from the borders of both Cambodia and Laos and serves as a barrier against North Vietnamese designs on population centers of the central highlands, notably Dak To. Although Fire Base 6 was not under ground attack, it was taking heavy ground and mortar fire, military spokesmen said.

An Army liaison officer who stayed behind to provide covering rifle fire for other Americans escaping from Base 6 when it was overrun by North Vietnamese March 31 walked into the base today after 10 days in the jungle. Because of heavy Communist bombardment, helicopters were unable to remove the officer, Lt. Brian M. Thacker, 25, of Hickham AFB, Hawaii.

Four Americans were killed when the North Vietnamese overran Fire Base 6 March 31. Although the South Vietnamese recaptured it the next day, two U.S. Army helicopters were shot down trying to rescue survivors of the fall of the base. The survivors said Thacker kept up rifle fire to cover fleeing troops.

Military spokesmen said President Nguyen Van Thieu ordered an end to "Operation Lam Son 719," the official name of the massive Allied drive to cut the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in southern Laos.

Easter services scheduled

Christ will arise again in the minds of Magic Valley Christians Sunday as they attend special Easter services throughout Magic Valley churches.

Special Easter sunrise services are being planned for Sunday in Twin Falls, Jerome and Burley.

In Twin Falls the Magic Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association is sponsoring the sunrise services at 6:45 a.m. in the Twin Falls City Park.

In Burley, the youth of the Church of the Nazarene will have sunrise services at 9:45 a.m. in the park near the Burley-Heyburn bridge.

The Easter Story of Christ's resurrection will be the theme of messages given in most all churches Sunday. There also will be special music and songs to relieve this great Christian happening.

Some churches will have special Easter services Sunday morning and some Sunday evening.

At the Rupert First Christian Church, an Easter Cantata, entitled "Easter Song" will be presented by a 30-voice choir at 7 p.m. Sunday.

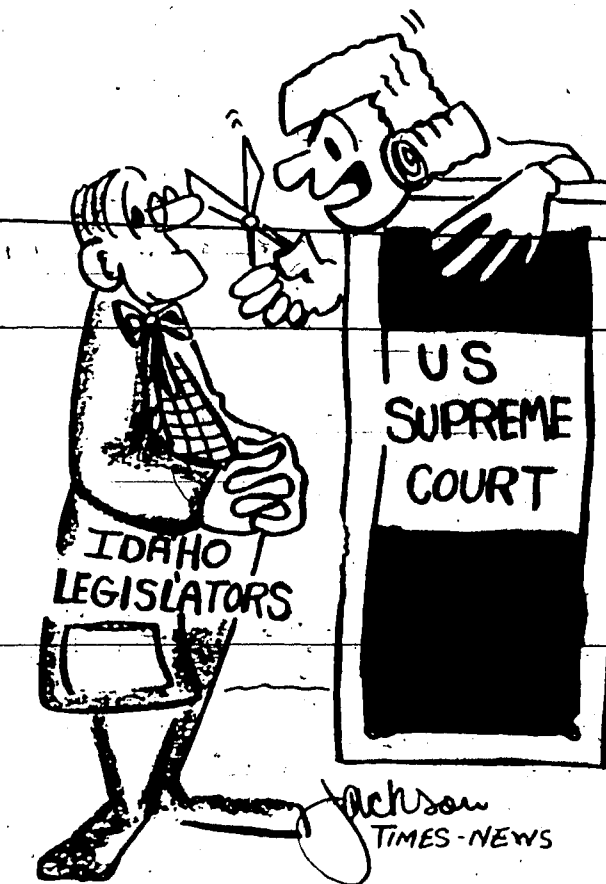

In Filer an Easter breakfast is planned for 7 a.m. Sunday by the Peace Lutheran Walther League.

The Twin Falls West LDS Stake will have an Easter Fireside at 8 a.m. in the stake tabernacle, 600 Harrison St. (See related stories, P. 10-11).

Pie cutting time

Gem solons carve state

By LINDY HIGH
BOISE (UPI)—As Idaho's 106 legislators began private life at home again today, their final reapportionment measure was already raising questions as to its ability to stand under a possible court test.

The 41st Legislature ended its 18-day session Thursday afternoon, a session slowed often by partisan disputes which for a while threatened to end with no reapportionment plan.

But the House finally voted 40-29 to approve the Senate reapportionment plan, one which most Republicans appeared to favor despite its 19.5 per cent deviation from the norm.

During Senate action Thursday, Sen. Dean Summers, R-Boise, served notice he would bring a test case the day the measure becomes law. He said he would do so for any bill with a deviation over five per cent.

Sen. John V. Evans, D-Malden, accused Republicans of using their superior numbers to "try to protect their own members."

"Their (reapportionment) plan doesn't meet the mandate of the courts and we would hope the courts would overrule it," he said.

He said the lawmakers were charged with reapportioning the state on a one-man, one vote basis, but said the final measure "will reapportion on the basis of politics."

But Senate President Pro Tem James Ellsworth, R-Leadore, said he felt the disparity could be justified in the courts as a "sincere effort" and one which took into account "certain geographic and socio-economic" problems found in Idaho.

The low area on the new map, Elmore and Camas Counties, was 10.6 per cent below the mean and the high area, Fremont and Madison counties, was 8.9 per cent above the mean.

(See related story p. 13)

With almost no debate, both houses passed the redistricting measure which had apparent approval of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, who suggested it in his state of the state message to the regular session, and to Idaho's congressmen.

The measure would move Elmore County and parts of Ada County into the second district, cutting the present disparity of 90,000 between the two districts to 394.

Golda hits UAR oratory

By United Press International
Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said today recent statements by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat "nearly destroys ever hope for peace in the Middle East."

Mrs. Meir, in an interview published in the Tel Aviv newspaper Yedioth Ahronoth, said that despite Sadat's pronouncements "I am ready to meet him at any place, any time."

She said "we want a peace that will constitute the beginning of the road to human coexistence in the Middle East. President Sadat, however, does not cease talking of resumption of the fighting, and he dictates such terms to us that will enable him to get rid of us in the future."

"We thought Sadat would settle down and begin to tackle the problems of the Egyptian nation," she said, but "it seems to me that one can now doubt if this assessment was correct. Everything Sadat has said ... nearly destroys every hope."

Mrs. Meir's statements came at a time Israel and the United States were reported at odds over plans for reopening the Suez Canal. Diplomatic sources in Jerusalem said the United States wanted Israel to withdraw its troops up to 25 miles from the Canal, blocked since the 1967 war, while Israeli military experts would only reluctantly support pulling back 10 miles.

Top T-N tipsters selected

Three alert persons have been chosen as news-tip winners for promptly phoning the Times-News when they saw something they believed would make a good news story.

C. L. Cramer, Buhl, will be awarded $5 for alerting the newspaper to the fact that the Cascade Commodities Corporation had continued to emit odors from its carcass processing plant near Buhl after the court appointed deadline to clean up the smells.

Mrs. Glen Palmer of Hansen told the newspaper of a bad wreck that occurred near her home south of Hansen. She wins $5.

And Mrs. Glenn Piercey of Twin Falls will be sent $5 for alerting the Times-News to an amusing incident in which a young boy — about to lose his front teeth — succeeded in loosening and removing them in the dentist's chair, just as the dentist was about to do the dirty work for him.

Swan Falls-Guffey job schedule set by board

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Water Resources Board director Dr. Robert Lee outlined for a legislative committee Thursday a tentative time schedule for proceedings on the Swan Falls-Guffey water project.

The committee was named to oversee all water board negotiations on the project, first suggested as a joint venture between the water board and the Idaho Power Company.

Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, D-Tuttle, asked Lee whether other customers, rather than just Idaho Power, would be available to buy the power.

Lee, however, said while the possibility had been discussed with the Bonneville Power Association it was "not likely" the BPA would purchase the power.

Chopper hushed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Hughes Tool Co. announced Thursday it has developed the world's quietest helicopter on a hush-hush basis.

The firm said military security prevented disclosure of the precise extent of the noise reduction in the modified Army OH-6A light observation helicopter but said high-ranking Defense Department officials described it as "dramatic."

The chopper is a four-place, turbine-powered craft which has been used for scouting in the Indochina fighting. It was developed as a research project by the company's aircraft division in Culver City, Calif.

Pilgrims take path of Christ

JERUSALEM (UPI) — An estimated 50,000 tourists flocked to the Holy Land today — Christian pilgrims to sadly retrace Jesus' steps to the crucifixion, Jews for the joyous feast of Passover marking the exodus of their forefathers from Egypt in 1300 B.C.

Chinese signal? Seen...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Red China's invitation to an American table tennis team to visit Peking is being viewed by the State Department as a serious signal the Chinese want improved relations with the United States.

Department officials say they expect no quick, dramatic changes in relations, but they believe Peking may make a new move in the future to follow up the invitation.

The team, which was competing at the 31st World Table Tennis Championships in Japan, was to leave today for Hong Kong. From there the team will travel to China and, presumably, fly to Peking.

U.S. officials privately disagreed with this theory, however, emphasizing their belief in the seriousness of Peking's gesture. State Department officials were keeping a close eye on whether Peking now will seek to resume the ambassadorial level talks with the United States in Warsaw.

Viet replacement rate cut planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An average of 15,300 U.S. troop replacements will be going to Vietnam each month by this fall, compared with 23,600 per month now, Pentagon officials say.

The lower rate of replacement will result from a new troop ceiling set Wednesday by President Nixon, the military officials said Thursday.

Nixon announced he would withdraw 100,000 more American GIs between May 1 and Dec. 1, lowering the number of U.S. servicemen in Vietnam to 184,000.

Procedure word due

TWIN FALLS — Fifth Judicial District Judge Theron W. Ward said here today he expects word by next Tuesday from the Idaho State Supreme Court on procedure district courts should follow on jury trials in view of the new law on jury selection.

He said, until some clarification is made or until complete new jury lists can be composed in each county there can be no jury trials.

Magistrate courts, he said, are especially hard hit by the new regulations as most have several jury trials on schedule. He said in his own court only one jury trial was scheduled during the next week and was postponed at the request of one of the attorneys rather than because of the new jury law.

The law, SB1140 was signed by the governor about March 20 to become effective immediately according to wording of the bill. This would mean, Judge Ward said, jury lists available for immediate call could not be used.

He said most county clerks estimate it would take one to two weeks to prepare new lists under terms of SB1140.

"I have been advised the supreme court is considering the matter and expects to issue recommendations or an official ruling early in the week," he said.

Air West to Sea-Tac 'home base'

TWIN FALLS — Hughes Air West jets, starting Sunday, April 25, will make the Seattle-Tacoma Airport at Seattle "home base" after using Boeing Field in Seattle since the line started.

Officials at the Twin Falls Air West office said today they were informed the 25-year use of Boeing Field would end on that date and that remodeling is underway at the Sea-Tac Airport. All facilities will not be completed before the change-over date, they said, but there will be no delay in flight or customer operations because of this.

Flying into Sea-Tac from Twin Falls will give passengers direct connections with 11 other international and domestic carriers which was not possible at the old Boeing Field.

College given rocks

BOISE (UPI) — Nearly 1,000 pounds of rock specimens, some of them "irreplaceable," were donated Thursday by State Mines Inspector W. Carl Griner to Boise State College.

On hand to receive them was Dr. Kenneth Hollenbaugh, associate professor of geology at the school.

The 60 rock specimens, some of them massive, have been accumulating in the capitol since 1923.

For years they were the center attraction in the rotunda, but a few years ago were consigned to racks near the huge dome.

"The students will clean them up," said Griner, noting that over the decades many of the ores and minerals had begun to accumulate dust and tarnish.

The rocks came from all areas of Idaho and many of the samples cannot be replaced, "at least with our limited budget," said Hollenbaugh.

They are worth "much more for our purposes than they would ever be to a straight museum."

The specimens will be used by the students to study ore mineralogy and to study mineral paragenesis.

Skiers have 3 weekend picks

TWIN FALLS — Skiers who want to get in one more weekend on the slopes will have three choices this week with two areas closed and two more operating for a final time this weekend.

Magic Mountain has closed for the season, Sun Valley and Soldier Mountain will close this weekend and Rotarun closed a week ago.

Good spring skiing is reported with snow depths still at near records for this time of year.

Sun Valley reports 78 inches at the top of Baldy mountain and six inches on the valley floor. South slopes have spring corn snow and north slopes normal winter conditions. Roads are bare and dry and temperatures are in the mid 40's.

Soldier Mountain reports 58 inches of snow at the top and 40 on the bottom. Roads are good and have been graded. Temperatures are in the 40's and good spring skiing is reported.

Pomerelle, planning to continue operating as long as crowds warrant it, has 96 inches of snow at the top and 72 at the bottom of runs. The road is rutted with muddy spots. Temperatures are in the 30's and the area operates Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Snowmobiling is reported good in all areas during early morning hours only.

Etna's eruption spectacular show

CATANIA, Sicily (UPI) — Mt. Etna, Europe's tallest active volcano, exploded in new eruptions Thursday, spewing rocks, ashes, steam and smoke high into the air as molten lava oozed down its slopes.

Thousands of tourists joined the approximately half-million Italians within sight of the 10,902-foot high volcano to watch the spectacular but so far harmless show. Some explosions rocketed lava more than 650 feet into the air.

"It is impossible to say whether the phenomenon poses a threat to the countryside and the cities," said Swiss volcano expert Alfred Tittmann, one of several scientists thwarted in efforts to get close enough to study Etna's eruptions.

The Etna cable car service was halted Wednesday night as a precaution, but officials did not order or advise residents of hamlets dotting the volcano's slopes to leave.

The fiery show was clearly visible 18 miles away in Catania, which was partly buried when Etna erupted in 1669.

History records about 90 eruptions since 475 B.C. but historians consider this an incomplete total. They also estimate more than one million persons have died in eruptions before this century. No victims have been reported in the 20th Century.

The last major eruption of Etna came in 1928, when lava cut rail service on the slopes, buried parts of the village of Mascali and forced officials to close highways and roads for miles around.

About 12 new mouths were opened in the latest series of eruptions, with lava, steam and smoke rolling out of them almost uninterruptedly.

at the top of Baldy mountain and six inches on the valley floor. South slopes have spring corn snow and north slopes normal winter conditions. Roads are bare and dry and temperatures are in the mid 40's.

WASHINGTON — First, this flat prediction — no, statement — from a top White House aide who has been an intimate of President Nixon since the ill-fated California gubernatorial campaign in 1962:
The President "positively" will commute the life sentence of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., convicted of murder at ghastly My Lai. Without presuming to speak the President's mind, the aide says there is "no alternative — Calley indisputably is guilty, but the mitigating circumstances are monumental. The whole moral question is too complex to permit the singling out of one soldier for punishment."

Now, where do we go from here? If indeed, as Calley has claimed, he was under orders to "waste" those My Lai civilians, the obvious next step is a full-scale inquiry to determine whether the murder of civilians was a part of the Vietnam War policy. The suggestion is not made lightly that such an inquiry would produce an argument for the indictment of assorted members of Congress, including the Senate's leading dove, Sen. J. William Fulbright. Fulbright, for heaven's sake! Well, why not? He was one of those who voted for the Tonkin Gulf resolution in August, 1964, which authorized President Johnson to take "all necessary measures" against North Vietnam to "prevent further aggression" and to protect the lives of American servicemen. Johnson subsequently poured more than 500,000 U.S. troops into South Vietnam.

Of course it sounds silly. But if the war is immoral, as Fulbright and Co. claim, then Congress bears some of the responsibility for waging it. The Tonkin Gulf resolution was only the first step. At any time thereafter, Congress could have stopped the war by refusing to appropriate the money for its waging. It could have impeached poor, well-meaning Lyndon Johnson for fighting it. It could have... well, you get the point.

We shall not, of course, ever see any members of Congress in the dock. That would only compound the absurdity. But it is necessary to mention such far-fetched eventualities to emphasize the painfully preposterous situation in which the American people find themselves. In the national effort to purge ourselves of sin, the demand of 11 Congressmen, led by Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D.—Tex., makes a little more sense, but the perils are awful to contemplate. The Eckhardt group would require a House Armed Services subcommittee to conduct hearings to determine whether "war crimes" resulted from deliberate military policy in Vietnam.
Whatever the outcome of such hearings, the result might well destroy the Republic's capacity to defend itself. My Lai already has wounded the Army cruelly. Hubert R. Rainwater, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is right when he says that "Those who might be weighing the pros and cons of military service now have one more reason for not serving." The Calley case has given a bad name to the duty of serving your country in combat, and thereby has besmirched the reputations of decent career military men, who are in a whopping and undisputed majority.
Without, I hope, being accused of finding a subversive under every anti-war individual's bed, I will argue that a United States without the will or the means to protect itself would please a lot of people all over the world who have never wished us well.

Pondering all this, let us not shed too many tears for Lt. William L. Calley Jr. He was convicted by a military court of murdering unarmed women and children. Given the brutalizing effect of war, he deserves compassion, perhaps, and certainly every ounce of understanding we can muster for a soldier who so succumbed to war's brutality that he committed the worst crime in the book. If we forgive him, we must not forget that hundreds of thousands of American soldiers never similarly capitulated to war's poisonous atmosphere.
Sure, let's have a Congressional investigation — not to discover more scapegoats, but to so revise command responsibility that My Lai can never happen again. That twilight zone in which soldiers now must unquestioningly obey orders must be fumigated, the loopholes closed, the vague gimmickry outlawed.
The Calleys in the armed forces are guilty men, but they are also victims of a command system that in time of war sometimes shares their guilt by its perfunctory approach to responsibility.

Auto Insurance

"No-fault" insurance is a concept which was rarely heard until recently, but it is under wide discussion today, largely because of the rapid increase in auto insurance premiums.
Motorists everywhere are complaining about the cost of their insurance, and in fact a number of insurance companies have indicated they would just as soon get out of the automobile business because, despite the high premiums, they cannot break even.
Adding to the pressure on the motorist is the fact every state has "financial responsibility" laws which require him to meet certain financial requirements in case of an accident. New York, Massachusetts and North Carolina specifically require insurance.
Many motorists are caught in the insurance squeeze with no apparent way out. The "no-fault" concept offers them an out, although there is little experience to indicate how efficiently the concept will work in practice.

The idea is simple. Issuing policies to insure a motorist against his own losses up to a certain point without attempting to affix blame, it is contended, would eliminate much of the overhead now involved in such insurance.
Data collected by the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee show 42 per cent of the auto bodily injury liability premiums paid in 1969 went to claimants. Thirty per cent went to lawyers and investigators, and 26 per cent to cover insurance company expenses.
Based on this experience, the "no-fault" concept appears to offer the motorist at least some financial relief. Given the present state of the auto insurance business, the financial yardstick overshadows all other considerations.

In The Bedroom

Are these scientists saying now what tomorrow's lawmakers will decree: That certain people may not have babies?
Black Americans are being advised now that 1 in 10 of them has an inherited blood disorder known as sickle cell anemia.
Government is understandably timid about any sensitive subject involving an ethnic minority, so government is letting the Chase Manhattan Bank Foundation dispense this information and open clinics for nationwide blood testing.
Sickle cell anemia, imported from Africa, affects mainly Negroes. It involves a change in the molecular structure of the blood's hemoglobin.
Nearly half the victims die by the age of 20; few live beyond 40.
Of the 5 million black Americans, 1 in 10 is a genetic carrier — likely to transmit the disease to his or her offspring.
The foundation will seek to make a simple blood test available to all Negroes, assuming that the 1-in-10 carriers may not want to have babies of their own.
The bedroom, freedom's last retreat, has been invaded.
Recent years it has been argued that medical science, keeping imperfect babies alive, is not doing them a favor.
Now, in 1971, the respected British Medical Journal publishes a first recommendation that genetic cripples be banned from having babies.
Dr. George Discombe says medical science has been concentrating on providing better care and treatment for cripples; instead it should discourage the spread of genetic abnormalities throughout the population.
He cites the example of hemophilia. This disease may result in uncontrollable bleeding from the slightest wound. It costs Britain's National Health Service $7,200 a year to keep each of these people alive.
All of the victim's female children and half his male children will be hemophiliacs, so the frequency of the disease could double in a generation, quadruple in two.

Dr. Discombe argues that if the hemophilic or his mate were sterilized, the disease would be eradicated in one generation.
Publication of this opinion elicited an immediate response from those opposed, but the reaction was less vociferous than in times past.
The medical correspondent for the London Times praised Dr. Discombe's "brutal frankness."

Many Americans, remembering Hitler, cringe at the idea of selective breeding.
Yet many geneticists ask why we thus improve our barnyard animals, horses and pet dogs and refuse the human animal this opportunity for improvement.
I don't know.
Maybe, inevitably, this is the shape of things to come. But more and more I am glad I lived when I lived.

Jobs Pinch?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — If President Nixon wants to find one reason for this nation's continuing high unemployment, he should look very carefully behind this set of statistics:
Capital outlays abroad by affiliates of U.S. corporations jumped 22 per cent in 1970. Another 16 per cent gain is expected in 1971.
By contrast, 1970 capital spending in this country advanced but 5.5 per cent. This year, the increase is projected at 4.3 per cent.
Industrial expansion creates jobs. Jobs create income. Income creates more jobs in the service industries.
The new investment abroad frequently pays for the most advanced technological techniques. U.S. investment in computer production in France, Germany and Japan is currently showing particularly heavy gains. The investment also generates funds for additional research abroad. All this makes these overseas American firms more able to undersell home companies in the U.S. market.
Now this foreign investment should certainly not be restricted. The free flow of capital is essential in a free world. Present restraints, in any event, do not seem to be effective, for the major capital expansion gains are in Western Europe (137 per cent jump in 1970, a projected 27 per cent increase in 1971), where restrictions on U.S. investment are the sharpest.

But this increased spending abroad uses some funds which could be committed to improve facilities and research in the United States, which facilities and research would, in turn, promote efficiencies and therefore directly and indirectly create more jobs.
(One point must be noted. When one talks of a 16 per cent or 22 per cent increase in investments abroad, this is a much smaller sum in dollars than a 4 or 5 per cent increase in domestic investments. And a considerable amount of the money is generated abroad by the profits of these American or part-American firms. It isn't all new money overseas.)
But the problem is serious enough so that the President should get his advisers to work on the problem of why this country is not more competitive, say, with Western Europe as an investment market.
It may be, for example, that U.S. industry should have greater rewards for improving technology and/or increasing production efficiency. But only thorough research into the problem will answer that question.
One reason, of course, for investment abroad is to get around foreign import restrictions. These barriers are something the government should have gotten tough on years ago.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Hysterectomy

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the reason for having a hysterectomy? Why do some women never have the operation? All the women in my neighborhood have had it except me. — R.A.
Lucky you! There are different reasons for hysterectomy, which specifically means removal of the uterus (womb). A large fibroid tumor (or tumors) probably is the commonest. Others are bleeding that cannot be controlled or, of course, cancer of the uterus.
Or, in some cases, Fallopian tubes and ovaries may be diseased in one manner or another, and have to be removed. The uterus is then useless, and technically it is much easier to take out the whole works rather than the tubes and ovaries alone.
On the other hand, if a woman requires removal of the uterus but the ovaries are healthy, and she has not yet reached menopause age, then only the uterus is removed and the ovaries are left in so she retains the benefit of the ovarian hormones produced by those organs.

is determined. It gets a bit complicated, but you'll find the various causes discussed in the booklet, along with appropriate treatment.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: You wrote that "people who do hard work with their hands almost never complain of brittle nails." With all due respect, I beg to differ. I have worked in a factory for 20 years and my hands get plenty of hard use, yet my nails are a mess. They tear, split, crack, come off in layers. They don't even grow enough to protect my fingertips.
I wish you could tell me how to grow nails that are at least adequate. I don't want to grow talons.
I might add, for what it is worth, that I have had anemia for many years. Any advice would be appreciated. — L.M.C.
I stick to my guns — people who do hard work with their hands seldom complain of brittle nails. You, however, are evidence that "seldom" doesn't mean "never."
Anemia is a common cause of fragile nails, so your remark, "for what it is worth," might be worth a lot.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you give me any information on "vertigo," what causes it and what is the cure? Do you have a booklet on it? — Mrs. L.W.
Vertigo is a disturbance of one's sense of balance and, yes, I have a booklet on it, "Dizzy Spells," which I will mail to you. Send 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send requests to Dr. Thosteson, care of Times-News.
Two types of ear condition are frequent causes of vertigo, but there are other causes, so the treatment can't be chosen until the cause of the particular case

There are different types of anemia, and the type should be determined, because different kinds of anemia are treated in different ways: pernicious anemia, anemia due to chronic blood loss (an ulcer, hemorrhoids, menses, etc.), nutritional anemia due to diet that is inadequate one way or another.
Those are the commonest types, but there are others, related to chronic infection or other factors.
If you've been anemic "for many years," have a doctor get at the cause, and correct it.

Drug Misuse?

Two more experts have joined the chorus blaming parents for the escalating use of drugs by youth.
"America is a drug-oriented society and adults have set the standard by their own behavior," writes Allen Geller and Maxwell Boas in a new book, "The Drug Beat."
Teen-agers have grown up in a world in which mood-changing substances are a fact of life, say the authors. Sleeping pills, stimulants, tranquilizers and depressants are a national habit.
"Thus reared on a diet of mood-altering drugs along with their Wheaties and sundaes, it was only to be expected that the youngsters would emulate their parents' habits and eventually sniff glue and raid their parents' medicine cabinets to obtain those chemical kicks that their parents seem to be experiencing."

Undoubtedly, parental example is a factor in the drug problem of some kids, just as undoubtedly there is a host of other factors involved. It may also be guessed — and even the experts are doing a lot of guessing on this subject — that some kids who are messing around with mind-blowing substances have parents who have never taken anything stronger than aspirin.
It would be enlightening if someone would do a really scientific study of the relationship between the contents of a family's medicine cabinet and their child's experimentation with chemical kicks to prove once and for all, or to lay to rest once and for all, this easy allegation.

Lowly Jackrabbit

I'm only one small rabbit, But I'd like to say a word About the kind of talking That just lately I have heard.
Some rabbits might enjoy the talk, But Jacks are not so vain; The limelight we have never sought. This trouble brings us pain.
The news is full of rabbit talk, The whys and wherefores, too, Of what to do with all the Jacks. What should a rabbit do?
Some think that we should travel While others wish us dead. Some like to blame the farmers For filling us with lead.
It's quite a controversy, It's raising quite a fuss The lowly rabbit hits the news, Now don't blame that on us.
I guess we do cause trouble, Our hunger makes us rougher. But if you have to kill us, Then, please, don't make us suffer. — A. Buhlite
YOW, YOW
Dear Mr. Spectator:

I know this letter might start a yow, yow, but I write this with all sincerity, with no intent to offend anyone. I really don't see how it will.
After many years of entertaining over the radio, in dance halls and at private parties, I retired from active participation in these activities. But I am still interested in country music and would like to say that my inspiration was the records I played on the spring-wound phonograph of Jimmie Rodgers and a little later those of Gene Autry.
Gene Autry has done as much as anyone for country music. I think he was late in receiving his nomination to the Country Music Hall of Fame. I am pleased, though, that he finally did receive that recognition.
Radio stations are missing a bet when they overlook playing the records of Gene Autry.

BERRY'S WORLD

"WHY, GRANDMA! Here's a picture of you taken in 1943, and you're wearing HOT PANTS!"

BOISE (UPI) — Key Democrats expressed disappointment Thursday in the results of the special session and Republicans themselves did not appear enthusiastic.

Sen. John Evans, D-Malad, accused the GOP majority of "trying to protect their own numbers. Their reapportionment plan doesn't meet the mandate of the courts and we would hope the courts would overrule it."

Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, majority leader, said he thought reapportionment was a "technical, legal concept which is solved, unfortunately, in a political, pragmatic arena."

Kidwell said presently the only guideline for reapportionment was "mathematical precision" but indicated he hoped future court rulings would take into account such things as geographical areas, socio-economic groupings, and "the community of interests."

Kidwell said with different guidelines "Idaho would be assured of heavy representation from every segment without the danger of a few urban legislators dominating a rural area or vice versa."

He added, referring to the reapportionment plan approved, "whether it will be finally acceptable only time will tell."

House Majority Leader Terry Crapo, R-Idaho Falls, said he felt the final reapportionment bill "is a fair compromise of all of the different competing interests."

"In areas where districts are eliminated or changed, Republican incumbents are being matched against Democratic incumbents in a head-on fight."

"There has been no effort to legislate any incumbent out of his district and the bill is certainly fair in that regard," Crapo added.

Senate President Pro Tem James Ellsworth, R - Leadore, said he would have preferred to wait another year to tackle reapportionment, and said during the intervening months tests in other states "would provide the guidelines that we could have needed to do a better job."

But, he said, the lawmakers had made a "sincere effort" and indicated he felt the courts would recognize that "certain geographic and socio-economic compatibility was of great consideration in those areas that were out of balance."

Senate President Jack Murphy said he felt the Legislature "although very tired at the close of the regular session proceeded to deal with the problems at hand and did so in a commendable and expeditious manner."

He said the "agony of reapportionment is always the most difficult of legislative problems."

"They did the job within the time limit allocated to them. This is to their credit."

Rep. Edward V. Williams, D-Lewiston, House minority leader, said he was disappointed the inventory tax payback could not have been restructured. Attempts were made to do so, but the bill was killed in the Senate.

The present formula, he said, "is very inadequate and to allow it to stand will complicate the problem."

Walking the plank

Return boxcars, PC asks

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—A tiny, 15-mile spur railroad in Illinois and a New Jersey businessman stole 277 boxcars valued at $1 million from the nation's largest railroad, the Penn Central charged Thursday.

The bankrupt line also accused two of its former high executives with losing millions of the railroad's dollars in a conspiracy to gain personal profits.

The trustees of the railroad, who are supervising its reorganization under bankruptcy laws, made the accusations in a petition and a suit filed in U.S. District Court.

The petition demanded return of the 277 boxcars.

Charged with stealing the boxcars in the petition were the 15-mile La Salle and Bureau County Railroad, of La Salle, Ill., Joseph C. Bonanno of Essex Falls, N.J.; Diversified Properties Inc. and Magna Earth Enterprises Inc., two companies controlled by Bonanno which lease property along the line, and Anthony Crisafi, employe of Bonanno.

The petition said the three firms and the two officials caused shipment of the boxcars to the La Salle Railroad, which interconnects with the Penn Central.

Bonanno and Crisafi already have appeared before a federal grand jury investigating the disappearance of the box cars. The grand jury has not indicted anyone.

Building blazes

WALL OF FLAME engulfs three story building in St. Louis, Mo., as firemen set up hoses. Blase was among series of multiple alarm fires this week, nearly all in vacant buildings. Arson is suspected in most of the fires, firemen said. (UPI)

Muskie supports protest

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the leading Democratic presidential contender, supports the large antiwar demonstration scheduled in Washington April 24.

Muskie gave his endorsement in remarks inserted into the Congressional Record this week.

"I endorse the efforts of those who are coming to Washington April 24," Muskie said. "I endorse and support this meeting on April 24 for it represents a commitment to an effective, impassioned and yet peaceful protest against the war."

The senator's aides, however, told newsmen Thursday Muskie was only endorsing the demonstration planned by the National Peace Action Group.

A more militant organization, called the People's Coalition for Peace, also plans April 24 demonstrations in Washington.

A spokesman for that group, Chicago Seven defendant Rene Davis, said Thursday the People's Coalition also planned demonstrations in the capital the week of May 3 and may block federal buildings.

Davis asked about 250 employes of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), most of them young people, "to join us in a strike of the U.S. government to end the war." "It would include, he said, "a limited incursion into the hallways of Congress" where peace demonstrators would show "those impotent old men" what is happening in Vietnam.

The peace action coalition claims the support of seven senators, 17 representatives, the Americans for Democratic Action, the American Civil Liberties Union, several labor unions and the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Network denies excerpt demand

NEW YORK (UPI)—CBS has refused to turn over to a congressional subcommittee certain material used by the network while making its television documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

CBS President Frank Stanton said the network would give the congressional group which issued a subpoena for the material the film of the documentary and a written transcript of what appeared on television.

But he said it would not provide "outtakes and other materials used in connection with preparing the broadcasts but not actually broadcast."

Stanton claimed protection under the First Amendment to the Constitution which guarantees free speech. He said the subpoena issued by the investigations subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee "raises an unprecedented issue in the history of the relationship between the federal government and the press in this nation."

The network president said, "No newspaper, magazine or other part of the press could be required constitutionally to comply with such a subpoena with respect to material gathered by reporters in the course of a journalistic investigation but not published.

"Unlike other instances in which a committee of the Congress has subpoenaed broadcasters' materials, this subpoena apparently involves no question of alleged violation of criminal law on the part of the broadcaster and no question of any governmental interest in whether the broadcaster has evidence pertinent to the criminal prosecution of third persons."

Judge denies prejudice

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI)—The judge in Angela Davis' murder case denied he was prejudiced Thursday and refused to disqualify himself.

"I am now, and always have been inalterably opposed to racial prejudice and segregation of any kind whatsoever," said Judge Alan A. Lindsay. "I unequivocally deny and repudiate any implications and assertions to the contrary."

Miss Davis' lawyers, who moved for Lindsay's disqualification April 1 on grounds he was "racist to the core," continued efforts today to have him removed from her murder, kidnaping and conspiracy case.

Margaret Burnham of New York City, one of the former UCLA instructor's five attorneys, said they are seeking agreement on appointment of another judge who will decide whether Lindsay is biased. Lindsay, the fourth judge assigned to the case, answered the charges against him in a 25-page reply which concluded: "I believe I can perform without bias or prejudice toward any party herein."

Miss Davis, 27, an avowed Communist, and Ruchell Magee, 32, a San Quentin convict, are charged in connection with a shootout Aug. 7 at the Marin County Courthouse in which four persons died, including a judge. Miss Davis allegedly provided the guns used in an abortive kidnap and escape attempt.

Under state law, Miss Davis' attorneys and the county counsel, representing the judge, have five days to agree upon a "reviewing judge" who will decide if Lindsay is biased. If they cannot agree, the California Judicial Council will appoint the outside judge.

"We will seek to make such an agreement," said Mrs. Burnham.

Weary Gem solons face constituents

Reapportionment, redistricting and changes in the state's election laws were included in the first call of the special session. The legislature approved bills to return to open primary elections, institute party registration as a requirement for voting in primaries, and to allow political parties to choose delegates to their political conventions according to party rules.

But eight days after the special session began, Andrus turned out an amended call including larger appropriation for schools and public health and ratification of the 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution which extends voting rights to 18-year-olds, and correction of other oversights or mistakes during the regular session.

The legislature suspended rules one day after the amended call to ratify the 26th amendment, becoming one of the first states in the nation to do so.

The lawmakers also corrected oversights from the regular session and approved a bill funding the public employes retirement system, although the Senate killed a bill authorizing the system to construct its own building.

But Republicans and Democrats tangled over funds for public health and schools, appropriations vetoed by Andrus after the regular session. With superior numbers, the GOP returned the measure again to Andrus in their original form, with $44 million for the schools and $9.1 million for health.

The lawmakers also approved a change in the formula for distributing liquor fund surpluses by putting $650,000 aside for use in supplementing payments for nursing home care and prescription drug costs for welfare recipients or indigents. Some $400,000 will be divided equally among Idaho's 44 counties, and objections to the measure came from those who noted the change would cut the counties' share from an anticipated $21,000 to just over $9,000.

The new reapportionment bill moves district nine—now composed of Adams, Gem, Boise and Valley Counties—into Idaho County to Lucile, nine miles north of Riggins.

Under the president apportionment, Elmore County comprises one legislative district, Camas, Gooding and Jerome Counties another, and Blaine, Lincoln and Minidoka still another.

This new plan combines Elmore and Camas Counties; Gooding, Lincoln and Jerome counties, and Blaine and Minidoka counties. Cassia County would be combined with a small portion of Minidoka County.

Major changes in the eastern portion of the state cut up the present long legislative district comprised of Butte and Power Counties and the western portion of Bingham.

Under the plan approved, Butte County is linked with Bonneville County by a narrow strip across the tip of Bingham County; Power County is combined with northern Bannock County, and the western portion of the county.

In the southwestern end of the state, Owyhee County was shifted from its present tie with Canyon County to a largely rural area in southern Ada County.

Deer population in the South has increased from 304,000 to 2,405,000 since the mid-1940s.

Thorough history of Idaho sought in university's collections area

MOSCOW — The journals of George L. Shoup, first governor of Idaho; 56 scrapbooks of the political career of William E. Borah, U.S. Senator from Idaho, 1907-1940; and the personal and congressional papers of Gracie Post, Idaho's first and only Congresswoman are among the archives and personal papers in the University of Idaho Library's Special Collections.

"But a person needn't be famous to have the library interested in preserving his diary or personal papers," commented Charles A. Webbert, head of the library's Department of Special Collections and Archives.

He explained that the Special Collections area is seeking to develop a thorough history of Idaho through books, documents, pictures, diaries and other archive material.

"The diary of an Idaho rancher, including his account of the Nez Perce War, would be as valuable in its own way as the political papers of a governor," Webbert said. Records of daily life, minutes of organizations and business transactions which show what things cost "way back then" are all part of Idaho's history, he added.

"Many people all over the state have old photographs of Idaho's towns and businesses that would make an important addition to our collection, but not knowing what else to do they throw the pictures away," Webbert noted.

A good view of Idaho's past is already being preserved in the collection which includes the records of politicians, miners, ranchers, bankers, engineers, authors and professors.

Letters to Borah from four presidents as well as from Bernard M. Baruch and Joseph P. Kennedy can be found in the Idaho Senator's scrapbooks.

The original location notice of the Bunker Hill lode claim signed by discoverer Noah Kellogg is in the library collection as a gift of the Shoshone County Court. Also in the collection, among 53 years of records from the First National Bank of Wallace, are the deeds for portions of the Bunker Hill Mine that Kellogg was forced to give the men who had provided his grubstake but had never been paid back.

Papers and records from an irrigation engineer for the Twin Falls Canal Co., an Idaho Mining Association secretary and presidents of several mining and lumber companies as well as from a judge and a clergyman offer a view of Idaho's business and professional life.

Several contributions to the collection are still sealed, according to the wishes of the donor. For example, the personal papers and official files of Abe McGregor Goff, a University of Idaho graduate who served as chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, cannot be opened until 1987.

Donating materials to the university's Special Collections is an excellent way to have them preserved. Books are catalogued and shelved in the Special Collections area on the second floor of the library. Loose material is filed and boxed for storage in a special basement vault.

All material that has been unsealed is available to researchers — for example, upper level and graduate students, faculty, writers and historians — 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Special Collections Room.

The university has been building its Special Collections materials for many years. It was not given a special room, however, until 1957 when it was moved into the new library from its cubbyhole in the basement of the old library, which was located in the administration building. Then in 1969 Webbert became the first Special Collections librarian with the task of seeking more material for the area.

Both he and Warren S. Owens, director of libraries, will gladly correspond with people anywhere in the state or with former residents living elsewhere who are interested in giving material to the library.

Cassia County Cancer Crusade set in Burley

BURLEY — The Cassia County Cancer Crusade for April was announced today by Mrs. Ted Smith, county unit chairman.

Mayor Garis Robertson has proclaimed the entire month of April as Cancer Crusade Month. Volunteers assisting Mrs. Smith with the fund drive are Mrs. Richard Pine, northside crusade chairman; Mrs. Peter K. Church, west of Overland Avenue; Mrs. Smith, east of Overland Avenue; Mrs. Robert Saxvik, public information; Dr. Hayden Ellingham, medical adviser, and Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority will canvass the business district.

Between Sept. 1, 1966, and Aug. 31, 1970, the American Cancer Society, Idaho Division, has given service to 664 cancer patients, with $56,315.20 financial aid. Nineteen of these Idaho patients were from Cassia County, with $2,044 services.

Four additional patients have received assistance from the Cancer Society in Cassia County since last September in the amount of $243.10, according to Mrs. Smith.

The 179 patients in Idaho for the year 1969-70 received a total of $33,449 for transportation, maintenance, dressings and sick room equipment supplied by the National Cancer Association.

The service policy requires that all service be controlled and approved by the family physician, and persons needing additional information can call Mrs. William Parsons, service chairman for Cassia County.

Mrs. William Morgan is public education chairman for the county. Educational information is available through films, film strips, pamphlets, posters, for the purpose of saving lives. Organizations or individuals interested in educational material are urged to call Mrs. Morgan.

The straight A students include nine ninth graders, seven eighth graders and nine seventh graders, Snow said.

Eighth graders receiving A grades are Sharon Blandford,

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a highly emotional man. Last evening we went to a very sad movie, and Dennis cried like a baby in all the sad parts.

When Dennis cries, he blows his nose a lot and his eyes get red, and it's very embarrassing to walk out of a theater with a man who looks like a little boy whose father just worked him over in the woodshed.

It doesn't have to be a sad movie, either. When we see funny movies, Dennis laughs so hard he cries. I knew he was emotional when I married him, so maybe I shouldn't complain, but I wish there were some nice way to tell him to please try harder to control his emotions in public. After all, it's only a movie.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Of the many "cultural refinements" in our present-day society, the notion that it's "unmanly" for a man to cry is one of the physically damaging. There is no reason why a man should feel more ashamed of expressing an honest emotion than a woman.

Those who consistently hide their true feelings suffer from a variety of ailments, chronic stomach disorders and skin diseases, to name two. Be grateful that your husband is able to give vent to his emotions. It's healthy!

DEAR ABBY: I have been married twice. My first marriage was miserable. My second, wonderful.

My problem is that my mother never throws anything away. She has the wedding gown from my first marriage hanging in the closet of her house. Every time I go over there I see it, and it bugs me. I've told her several times to please give it away, or throw it away. Just get rid of it because it stirs up such unpleasant memories.

She says, "Maybe one day your daughter will want to get married in it."

I said, "Over my dead body." Abby, my daughter is only 10, and besides that gown is 20 years old and yellow. What can I do?

BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: If the gown belongs to you [and it seems to me that it does—even if your mother paid for it], you can remove it from the closet and dispose of it any way you wish. It's difficult to believe that your mother has your best interests at heart, if she knows how you feel and keeps it hanging where you will see it every time you visit.

DEAR ABBY: I have been keeping company with a very nice gentleman for 17 years now. Al is 51, and I am 50. He is a wonderful man and very good-natured. Al recently bought a five-room house [two bedrooms] and we are living together, but not as man and wife. We get along so well and sharing one house is convenient for both of us. I feel I am doing no wrong, but the neighbors don't see it that way.

Al says he will marry me if I want him to, but I'm afraid it might spoil our wonderful relationship. We get along in every way, and we don't tell each other what to do. I have one bad habit which Al hates. Playing Bingo. I'm afraid if I married him he would try to make me quit Bingo, and I don't want to quit. What do you advise? UP NORTH

DEAR UP: Since you and Al are not "living as man and wife," don't marry him because of what the neighbors may think. You're right, a husband might insist that his wife quit Bingo, but a "pal" sharing the same house [separate bedrooms] would have nothing to say about it. Don't rock the boat.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the traveling salesman whose wife didn't like housework, fed the kids peanut butter sandwiches and potato chips, but she'd jump into bed with him anytime. Tell him I will take her off his hands.

With a woman like that to come home to, I'd have enough incentive to make millions, which of course would pay for a full-time, live-in maid.

I don't like housework, either. But I sure like to swing.

Barbershop quartet activities explained to T.F. Rotary Club

TWIN FALLS — Lloyd Steinkamp, administrative field assistant for the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, spoke for the Twin Falls Rotary Club at its regular meeting Wednesday.

Steinkamp explained the various activities and interests of the organization, which has more than 3,200 members.

He said that barbershop quartets visit military hospitals every month to entertain Vietnam veterans.

He added that barbershoppers have given hundreds of thousands of dollars to charitable organizations through their singing efforts.

"We sing so that they can speak," Steinkamp said, "is the organizations' main yearly project to raise funds for the rehabilitation of children with brain, hearing and speech defects.

The average man today is not singing, he said, but barbershoppers can sing to let out their emotions. And most of the songs have a message, he said.

The evolution of the barbershop singing came from the old piano bar, Steinkamp said, and even today, 75 per cent of the members can't read music.

Dick Huizinga heads Burley Rotary Club

BURLEY — The Burley Rotary Club elected new officers and heard a program on city of Burley finances during their luncheon, officials announce today.

Dick Huizinga was elected president of the Rotary Club and all the officers will assume their new duties in July. Other officers elected include Kent Church, first vice president; Al Kempton, second vice president; Merrill Atkinson, Gary Hubsmith and Lex Kunau, all directors. Retiring president Dave Barry will serve on the board of directors.

Mayor Garis Robertson and Jim Roper, councilmen, reported on the recently approved city budget, which was adopted after no one appeared or entered a protest at the hearing.

A report on the coming District 542 Rotary Conference, April 22 through 24 was given and about 100 has already registered for this event, Barry said.

Rock gardens discussed at T.F. meeting

TWIN FALLS — "Rock Gardens From Seed" was the subject of Mrs. Leo Gepner's opening report when members of the Twin Falls Garden Club met Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Gepner told the group seeding is less costly and more of a variety can be obtained, which leads to a great anticipation to what will be produced later. "Many of these rock garden plants can be placed in shady or semi-shady areas which could give an otherwise dreary spot life and beauty," she said.

Clara Walton gave the program on "Leaf Patterns all Around Us." She explained leaves have been used for food medicine and dyes throughout the ages. She spoke of the relativity among trees and plants, with something in common in the leaves of each grouping. Many pressed leaves were displayed.

Mrs. Sam Porter announced there will be an African violet show May 1 and 2 at the YM-YWCA, sponsored by the Magic Valley Saintpaulia Club.

Revisions of the State Garden Club bylaws were reviewed.

Members exchange Easter gifts

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Morningside Club of Twin Falls met Wednesday afternoon at the Depot Grill for a luncheon, then at the home of Mrs. Fred McWilliams for an Easter gift exchange.

Members answered roll call with Bible verses. Mrs. Jack Charlton, Seattle, was a guest. Mrs. Joe Berks and Mrs. George VanHouten were in charge of the program, with prizes going to Mrs. Eugene Stacey and Mrs. O. Widener.

Mrs. C. W. Westbrook won the white elephant gift. The next all-day meet is at the home of Mrs. Clara Harris April 21.

Relationship rifts seldom age result, minister finds

By COLLEEN TOWNSEND EVANS LaJolla, Calif.

My husband, Lou, as a minister, comes into contact with a lot of people, and different kinds of them. As he works with them and their knotty problems, he often encounters a gap, or rift, in their relationships with those around them — but seldom one that has to do with age.

It seems to be more a matter of personality: Some people maintain warm, open communication with a tremendous variety of people all through their lives. Others become more and more isolated, from relatives, from neighbors, from whole groups and classes.

What is it then, I began to ask myself, that makes the gap between people, and how can it be closed?

It was our own teen-age sons who provided me with a clue; and as in so many families, the issue was the familiar one of hair.

We think Dan and Tim wear theirs pretty long. Every few weeks there's a minor crisis at our home when Lou or I say, "Okay, guys, time for a trim."

We've made a deal, you see, that they can wear their hair long if they keep it neat. The problem is that their idea of neat and ours rarely agree. So off they tudge, grumbling, to the barber who gives the best nonhaircut haircuts in town.

But the last time around, Tim's answer really shook me. "I thought you always told us," he complained, "that it's what a person really is that counts, not how he looks."

That answer didn't change my mind about his needing a haircut, but it did start me thinking. Maybe the "outside" of things is the wedge that first drives people apart. And maybe, too, we are raising a generation today uniquely unimpressed with "outsides."

Dan and Tim have a custom surf-board shop in our garage. Of course our cars haven't seen the inside of the garage for years, but that doesn't matter; what's great is that it's given

Lou and me the chance to know a good many teen-agers besides our own.

A steady stream of surfers come to our house to look, buy and sometimes help with the designing, shaping, sanding and glassing of these beautiful (plug) boards.

One of the boys who is having a board made just now is Duke, a favorite of mine. Big, open, communicative, he has a shaggy mop-of-hair-and-the-wildest-looking collection of clothes I've ever seen on someone who could afford better.

Because of this, it is not uncommon for Duke to get hostile reactions from some older people. He is used to them and handles these encounters in a mature way, for he has had a real religious experience, and it has equipped him with the ability to forgive and understand people.

One day Duke and a friend were hitchhiking at a busy corner of town, standing on the sidewalk next to the bus stop. An old gentleman was sitting on the bench waiting for a bus.

Soon a bus came along, stopped and picked up other passengers, but Duke noticed that the old man, being feeble, was having difficulty getting up from the bench. Before he made it, the signal changed, the door swished shut, and the bus roared off — leaving a gush of exhaust and the old man desperately waving his arms in the air.

Duke's heart went out to the old man and, almost without thinking, he asked, "Say, would you like to hitchhike with us?" To his surprise, the old man answered, "Why, yes, thank you, I would."

So Duke, his friend (equally untidy looking) and the anonymous old man began hitchhiking together. One of Duke's friends drove by, picked up the trio and took the old man all the way to his home, many miles out of the way.

In telling about this experience later, Duke said, "You know, he was a great old guy. He even liked our radio music and asked us to turn it up louder so he could hear too." No generation gap there, because two human beings saw beneath the surface.

The story reminds me of what I read this morning during a brief time of quiet.

As soon as my family was fed and on their way for the day, I left a sink full of dishes and went to my quiet spot. There I picked up my favorite book, the one that speaks to me most clearly of life and our world today.

In James 2:1, I found these words: "My brothers! In your life as believers in our Lord Jesus Christ... you must never treat people in different ways because of their outward appearance."

"I thought of this whole generation-gap concept, of my own family, of Duke, of the old man — and I found myself praying, Lord, make me more like You."

How many of the external, superficial barriers that make up the gaps between us would simply disappear if those of us on both sides would be willing to look beyond the outward appearance to the real heart of the person beneath. Then we could stop seeing people as young or old, black or white, rich or poor. Perhaps then we could even see the big things — the hopes, the loves, the dreams — that make us all precious in the sight of the Father of us all.

Pentagon quits Viet trial bids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon said today it had given up trying to find ways to try former servicemen for atrocities committed in Vietnam.

Defense Department spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said joint discussions on the question by the Pentagon and the Department of Justice had ended. He said he understood the chief problem was one of jurisdiction.

The question arose earlier in the week after Robert F. Marasco, a former Green Beret captain, admitted killing a Vietnamese double agent and said the motive was suggested by the CIA.

Marasco, 29, was charged along with seven other Green Berets for the June 20, 1960, murder of agent Thai Khac Chuyen. The charges were dropped, however, because the CIA refused to present witnesses. Marasco was later discharged from the Army. Friedheim said he did not know how many other men, like Marasco, had been discharged from the service and later either admitted atrocities or were found to be involved in atrocities.

He said the Pentagon and the Justice Department had been working for 18 months in an effort to find some way of bringing these men to trial, as is required under the Geneva Conventions.

"I was advised yesterday there is no ongoing discussion between the two departments and the issue is moot at this stage of the game," Friedheim said. "The problem has not been resolved. As a practical matter, this problem is not being carried any further."

Friedheim said during the year and a half of meetings, between the two agencies, neither was able to agree on a method of prosecution.

annual meet would be at The Downtowner.

Keynote speaker will be Lynn A. Sandstedt, coordinator of foreign languages for the Greeley, Colo., public schools.

The foreign languages conference includes language teachers from colleges and high schools in Idaho, Montana, Washington, Oregon, Hawaii, Alberta and British Columbia.

Grant sessions lifts eyebrows

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UPI) — A skull session with a phrenologist when Ulysses S. Grant was about 12 years old raised eyebrows: The boy was destined for greatness. He might even be President.

So says a letter printed in the current issue of the Ulysses S. Grant Association Newsletter, published at Southern Illinois University.

SIU historian John V. Simon, who edits the newsletter, says the letter was written by Grant's father, Jesse R. Grant, and first published in the New York Ledger during the presidential campaign of 1868 — which Grant won to become the 18th U.S. President.

Jesse Grant's letter says a phrenologist (phrenology is the study of the shape of the head to determine intelligence and character) examined the young Ulysses and found his head "extraordinary." In the high-town language of the day, the letter says:

"When Ulysses was about twelve years old, the first phrenologist who ever made his appearance in that part of the country (the Grants then lived in Brown County, Ohio) came to our neighborhood. He awakened a good deal of interest in the science, and was prevailed upon to remain there some time.

"One Dr. Buckner, who was rather inclined to be officious on most occasions, in order to test the accuracy of the phrenologist, asked him if he would be blindfolded, and then examine a head. This was at one of his public lectures. The phrenologist replied that he would. So they blindfolded him, and then brought Ulysses forward to have his head examined.

"He felt it over for some time, saying scarcely anything more than to mutter to himself, 'It is no very common head. It is an extraordinary head.' At length Dr. Buckner broke in with the inquiry whether the boy would be likely to distinguish himself in mathematics?"

"Yes," said the phrenologist, "in mathematics or anything else; it would not be strange if we should see him President of the United States."

It's too bad the phrenologist really couldn't read ahead. He would have seen that while Grant proved to be an excellent general during the Civil War, his administration as president does not get high marks from historians.

English trouble no business bar

BOSTON (UPI) — For someone who couldn't get into one college because he couldn't speak English, and who took the easiest courses around when he finally got into school, "Rocky" Aoki seems to be doing okay.

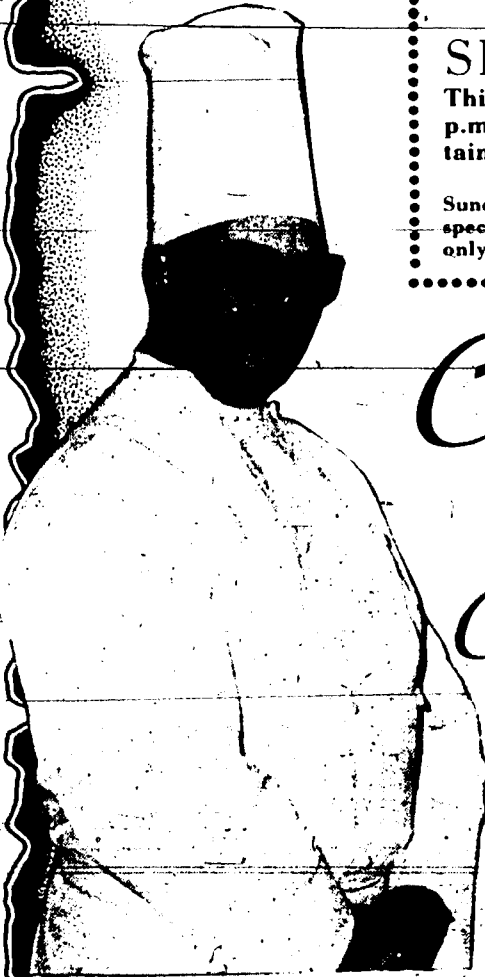

Aoki, 30, is a former wrestling champion who masterminds the Benihana of Tokyo steak restaurants which have sprung up across the nation over the last seven years. He plans to have about 20 opened within the year, regardless of the current lethargic economy.

"We use American ideas and we're geared to American dining," he said, sitting down to dinner at his Boston unit. "We serve steak, chicken, and so on."

Aoki, whose real first name is Hiroaki, "started with four tables in New York in 1964," he said. "I learned quickly what Americans wanted to eat—they only eat meat. They just weren't interested in raw fish or octopus. So I made the restaurant into a steak house."

Aoki, who claims he couldn't get into Cornell University "because I couldn't speak English" and later parked cars while studying "the easiest courses I could find" at New York Community College, has devised a cook-in style of restaurant. Everything is prepared on a grill-type table where the customer sits.

Good cooks

FILER — The large red-lettered sign stated "No Women Allowed" and for one evening, at least, none of the ladies tried to enter the kitchen of the First Baptist Church where the men of the congregation proved how well they could cook and serve a banquet to the members of the Baptist Missionary Society and their guests.

A delicious ham dinner, complete with all the trimmings, was cooked by the men and served by the young boys of the church, with a complete crew of clean-up men doing the dishes and cleaning after the meal. Rev. Roy Watson, pastor of the church, was chief cook, assisted by Keith Peterson. Cook's helpers and dish washers included Joe Miller, Ed Andrews, A. L. Lillibridge, Lauren Butts, Dick Morgan and Marshall Johnson. Pressed into service as waiters were Bob Wilson, J. C. Steelsmith, Lynn Peterson and David Nelson.

Each of the six tables at which the women were seated represented a different foreign country to which the missionary group sends money and White Cross gifts. The Vietnam table featured a large doll brought back from that country by Mike Schroeder. The placemats showed maps of missionary fields and individual favors were tiny dolls dressed as Vietnamese with hats made from field straw.

The Congo table held pieces of ebony and ivory brought from the country by Willard Nelson, a missionary teacher. The Japanese table featured a Buddha belonging to Mrs. Jerry Beau which her daughter had brought from Japan. Other countries represented with tables were North India, Mexico and Burma.

Mrs. Pearl Nelson, Mrs. Wilfred Herrett, Mrs. Stella Morgan and Diane Ransom were members of the decorating committee. The programs, in the form of small gray elephants, were made by Mrs. Lauren Butts.

Mrs. Roy Watson gave the welcome address and Mrs. Joe Miller, president of the group, offered the invocation. Musical numbers during the program hour included vocal selections by a girls' trio composed of Laura Butts, Pam Miller and Dianne Ransom, accompanied at the piano by Phyllis Peterson.

Easter present tense

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

The message of Easter is not past tense: Once upon a time, Jesus rose from the dead. It is present tense: Jesus is risen.

The distinction is important. Past tense statements about an event which is believed to have occurred 2,000 years ago obviously are not susceptible of hard-and-fast proof. The best that can be done at this point so removed in time is to show historical evidence for the actuality of Jesus' resurrection. This is more persuasive, to anyone who examines it with an open mind, than any alternative explanation that can be offered for His disciples' unshakable conviction that He had overcome death. It is very doubtful, however, whether anyone has ever been prompted to bet his life on Jesus simply because the arguments for the historicity of the resurrection seemed to him plausible.

Infinitely more stirring is the present tense assertion, Jesus is risen. For that means Jesus lives. He lives now. He confronts us today, not as a memory out of the past, but as a present fact and a present challenge.

His challenge is empirical: Try my way. See for yourself whether it will lead you to authentic, abundant life. It is possible to turn away from the challenge. Millions do every day.

The other response is vividly described by German theologian Willi Marxsen: "I take the risk of doing what He asks, contrary to all human reason. In the course of doing, I experience the fact: It is true. I do not need to save myself, but at the very point where I let myself go I discover that I am being held by something outside myself. One I wanted to live, but could not do so. Fear stopped me. Now I give up the attempt to live; in the sense in which I have hitherto understood living, and discover that now, suddenly, I am really living."

No human experience can be fully captured and explained in words. Marxsen's description of the way a person arrives at faith in Jesus may not be meaningful to everyone. Some will say, quite validly, that they reached the same point by another route.

But anyone who attempts to describe what it means to follow Jesus finds himself compelled to speak not of dogmas and rituals, but of risk, commitment and experience. The experience is open to anyone who will take the risk of making the commitment—and it cannot be had on any other terms.

Mite garden topic of Clover league

FILER — "Our LWML Mite Garden" was the topic of the opening devotional service of the Clover Lutheran Women's Missionary League at the school and was presented by Mrs. David Lutz, after which the mite box offering was collected and a prayer offered.

Rev. T. D. Johnston led in the topic study, "The Christian Looks Beyond Time or Into Eternity," assisted by Mrs. Johnston and daughter, Betty Ann.

A clothing drive is being held this month with children's clothing and blankets specially needed, according to Mrs. Ray Lassen, president. The group voted to give the proceeds from the Spring Fair country store booth to the Camp Perkins fund.

A Good Shepherd Thrift Store was discussed and Mrs. Wayne Schroeder offered to have it in her home. New and used children's clothing will be sold and all proceeds will go to the Good Shepherd Home of the West, Terra Bella, Calif.

Civil war film set at Grace Baptist church

TWIN FALLS — A 90-minute color film on the Civil War, "Red Runs the River," will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Grace Baptist Church, 211 Fourth Ave. E.

The true-to-life drama is not only a tale of secession and bloodshed but the powerful story of a soul in rebellion against God, according to Rev. Robert Seamon, local pastor.

He said the film is a production of "Unusual Films," the motion picture production unit of Bob Jones University, Greenville, S. C. Hundreds of references were consulted in the quest for authenticity of costumes, weaponry, scenery and makeup, according to Katherine Stenholm, director of "Unusual Films." She said leading experts on the Civil War were consulted and every facet of the story was examined carefully by a research team.

The film was more than two years in the making with some 600 actors, including students, faculty and staff of the university, participating. The story of Gen. Richard Ewell, hard-fighting hero of the Confederacy, and a soldier who sneers at religion until he is brought face to face with God on the battlefield, was written by Charles Applegate. Both are members of the university faculty.

Area Lutherans to attend meet

FILER — Delegates and guests from 11 Magic Valley churches will attend the 25th annual Utah-Idaho District Lutheran Laymen's League convention, to be held April 17-18 in Christ Lutheran Church, Murray, Utah, according to Wayne Schroeder, Filer, district secretary.

"One World, One Christ" will be the theme of the convention. The Utah-Idaho District is one of 43 divisions of the International LLL, an auxiliary organization of the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod. The league has more than 153,000 individual members.

President of the Utah-Idaho District is M. H. (Mel) Smith, Boise. James Gingras, Murray, is general convention chairman. Dr. Theodore Raedeke, St. Louis, Mo., will be featured speaker, using as his topic "Evangelism."

Area people who will take part in the conclave include Elmer Fischer, Filer, extension services chairman; Leo Gihring, Buhl, parliamentarian; Wilbur Bierman, Burley, television ministry of the zone, and Leo Moore, Burley, Camp Perkins zone trustee.

The LLL's major project is the Lutheran Hour, an international broadcast integrated with the church's mission program. The Lutheran Hour is the world's largest non-government sponsored radio operation and has an estimated weekly audience of more than 30 million persons in 125 lands.

The league also is co-sponsor, with the Missouri Synod, of a television ministry program, "This is the Life." The program, now in its 19th year, has been recognized in the television industry and today is carried on more than 450 stations.

Filming done at resort

SUN VALLEY — Another film company is on location at Sun Valley according to Dorice Taylor, resort publicity director.

Willy Bogner Films, Munich, Germany, has chosen this site as one of the settings for his new movie tentatively called "Benjamin." The major themes of the film are the troubles of a beginner skier, with many skiing shots in connection with various musical interpretations shown through Benjamin's musical theme.

Bogner has been called one of the best cameramen and directors in winter sports throughout the world, Mrs. Taylor said. He was a member of the German Olympic ski team for eight years and participated in the Olympics in 1960 and 1964.

Camera crews are nothing new for Sun Valley, with the first motion picture filmed at the resort in its opening year, 1937, when Paramount pictures made "I Met Him in Paris," with Claudette Colbert and Robert Young.

GOD'S ABUNDANT LIFE
(Resurrection Life)

"I am He that liveth, and was dead, and, behold, I am alive for evermore, amen, and have the keys of hell and of death." Revelation 1:18

In the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, we have the very guarantee that death is now conquered! There is only one group of people living today who do not dread or fear death, that is the Christian.

Because of sin every person who is born has this fear of death within himself. But, when one comes to Christ for salvation, this fear of death is removed because he now has the life of God within himself. (Hebrews 2:15) Here is the secret to a joyful, happy, and radiant life, the life of God within.

Do you have resurrection life? If not, why not? God made it possible that this life could be yours by accepting Christ as your personal Saviour. (John 1:12, 1 John 5:11-13).

Come to church this Sunday and you will hear more of this life that we can have in Jesus Christ. See you!

Greeks free 191 political prisoners

ATHENS (UPI)—A group of 191 political prisoners, held without trial for nearly four years, returned from the island of Leros Thursday to an emotional welcome from relatives who greeted them at the dock.

The government, fulfilling a promise by Premier George Papadopoulos, announced it was closing two prison camps and releasing all of the prisoners who had been held without trial since the military takeover in April, 1967.

Forty-three prisoners were being released from the prison camp at Oropos, 40 miles north of Athens, officials said.

Not included among those released were about 400 who were convicted by military tribunals and another 60 or more who were arrested more recently and are still under investigation.

A crowd of about 400, many holding red carnations symbolizing Communist solidarity, greeted the prisoners as they came down the gangway from the liner Esperos, which brought them from Leros off the coast on Turkey.

The arrivals included Nikolaos Ambatielos, brother of Tony Ambatielos who once led Greek seamen, and veteran Communist Party members Vassilios Nefoudis and Constantine Loules.

A government spokesman said 50 "unrepentant and dangerous" Communists would be sent into exile in isolated villages. One of these was Manolis Glezos, the Greek resistance hero of World War II credited with taking the German flag down from the Acropolis.

The spokesman said 27 non-Communists who had been in exile have now been allowed to return home, including former Brig. Gen. Andreas Bograhelmann, who spearheaded King Constantine's abortive counter-coup in December, 1967.

Speaker disagrees on probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Speaker Carl Albert said Thursday he could not agree with demands by House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs that J. Edgar Hoover resign as FBI director.

But Albert said he had discussed the possibility of a House investigation into Boggs' charges that Hoover's agents had kept congressmen under surveillance and tapped their telephones—charges denied by the White House, Attorney General John N. Mitchell and the FBI.

Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, meanwhile, said he did not mean to suggest in a Wednesday television interview that Congress should investigate the entire operation of the FBI. What he meant, Kleindienst said, was that it should investigate those FBI operations dealing directly with Boggs' charges.

At a news conference, Albert, the House's first-ranked Democrat, disassociated himself from the charges made by his No. 1 lieutenant. Asked if he thought Hoover should quit, Albert replied: "Not on the basis of what I know now."

However, he said he had discussed with Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., the possibility of an investigation into the charges by Celler's Judiciary Committee. Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., introduced a bill Wednesday calling for such an investigation to include an inquiry into the 76-year-old Hoover's fitness to remain as FBI chief.

In an interview, Kleindienst did not deny that he said on a CBS television interview that the administration would welcome a congressional investigation into "the whole operation of the FBI" to dispel fears raised by Boggs' charges.

But, he explained, "I intended to say that we would welcome an investigation by responsible members of Congress into Boggs' specific charges. That's all I intended to say."

Soviet Communists give leaders 4-year terms

MOSCOW (UPI)—The 24th Soviet Communist Party Congress, in a secret session closed to all but delegates, elected a new Central Committee and ruling Politburo Thursday to pilot the Soviet Union through 1975.

The results were not immediately announced. But Communist sources said the troika of party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny were reelected to the Politburo, the executive body of the Central Committee.

The votes were taken behind closed doors. Foreign delegations and newsmen were barred from the session in the Kremlin's Palace of Congresses.

Communist sources speculated that if the new Central Committee had voted to replace any one member of the old 11-man Politburo, it would probably be Alexander N. Sholepin. However, Sholepin was among Politburo members when they appeared on Moscow television attending a concert at the Palace of Congresses.

The concert was held after the elections, but observers said his presence was not conclusive evidence that he had been reelected.

The 53-year-old Sholepin is president of the Trade Union Federation and a former chief of the State Committee for Security, which includes the secret police.

Speculation about Sholepin mounted Wednesday when one of his subordinates, Vasili Prokhorov, and not Sholepin himself, addressed the congress on behalf of the trade unions. Sholepin was in poor health in 1970 and underwent major surgery.

The results of the votes were expected to be announced when the final session convenes Friday morning.

Natural mother wins child

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The natural mother of a baby given up for adoption 10 months ago and placed with a New York City couple has the right to regain custody of her daughter, according to a ruling by the state's highest court.

In a unanimous decision, the Court of Appeals held that the child, named Lenore by her new parents, must be returned to her mother, Olga Scarpetta, Miss Scarpetta, a financial secretary from Colombia, placed the baby for adoption last year but later changed her mind—after the infant had been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Nick DeMartino of Bay Ridge, Brooklyn.

Following the court ruling, Jacob Fuchsberg, attorney for the DeMartinos, said he planned to take the case into the federal courts "as a deprivation of the rights of adoptive parents." Fuchsberg said he would appeal "all the way to the Supreme Court" because of the importance of the questions involved.

Work law OK'd

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)—A bill allowing juvenile law-breakers to be fined or ordered to work for public or charitable organizations was approved unanimously Wednesday by the Nevada state Senate.

The measure, sent to the Assembly, permits juvenile judges to fine children up to $500. If put under their control, public or charitable groups are required to keep the youths busy and well supervised.

Valley legislators back new districts

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Staff Writer
TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley legislators voiced general approval of the reapportionment plan approved by the Idaho Legislature on Thursday after an 18-day special session, and saw no major problems in implementing the new legislative districts.

The plan will "no-doubt" be tested in the courts, due to a population disparity ranging from 10.6 per cent below the average of 20,350, in the new district encompassing Elmore and Camas Counties, to 8.9 per cent above the average, in Fremont and Madison Counties.

An Ada County legislator, Sen. Dean Summers, R-Boise, has vowed to file a test suit against the reapportionment legislation. The Legislative Council had asked that the districts stay within five per cent of the mean, either above or below the 20,350 average.

However, legislators of the affected districts approved the legislation, and predicted it would pass a court test.

Sen. J. Wilson Steen, R-Elmore, said a fluctuating but increasing population at the Mountain Home Air Force Base tends to confuse the picture, but could, under one interpretation, add 4,000 Air Force members and their families to the 18,000 "official" population of Camas and Elmore Counties, Sen. Steen said.

This would give the district a total somewhat above the average, but not as far above as the present population is below.

"Our growth in agricultural development is tremendous," Sen. Steen added. "The population (of Elmore County) will undoubtedly increase quite a bit in the near future."

Sen. Steen said "I'm quite satisfied" with the final reapportionment legislation. "I feel the division was done in an equitable and fair manner."

An Elmore County Democrat, Rep. Karl E. Koch, agreed, despite the political disparity, emphasizing Sen. Steen's feelings that the county will continue to grow substantially in the next few years. Elmore County's population alone has increased 160 per cent in the last few years, and further growth is indicated, Rep. Koch said.

"Some districts might be a bit heavy in population, but they have a downward projection in population, so it will all even out," Rep. Koch told the Times-News.

Under the reapportionment plan, Magic Valley legislative districts have a radically new look:

—Elmore and Camas Counties will become a single district, combining the former Districts 19 and the northern part of 22-1;

—Gooding, Lincoln, and Jerome Counties will form a single district, joining the former southern half of 22-A, all of 22-B, and the southern portion of 21-A;

—Blaine County and most of Minidoka County will form another district, continuing most of the former District 21-A, but eliminating Lincoln County;

—Cassia County will add a tiny portion of Minidoka County in a single district;

—Twin Falls County's two districts will remain substantially the same, with a minor precinct shift within Twin Falls.

Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, agreed that "There are some disparities between districts, but courts have held in other states — Nevada, for example — that in some legislative districts a larger than normal disparity would be acceptable."

Rep. Lincoln denied the charge of "gerrymandering" that was voiced by some disgruntled legislators about the new plan. "I don't believe there was any of the political gerrymandering that some have pointed out," Rep. Lincoln said. "In my opinion the reapportionment was done as fairly as possible."

Wood R. run-off studied

CAREY — Barring above-normal temperatures or rain a normal snow run-off and a good water forecast are in store for the Wood River Valley.

These predictions were made Friday night during a water forecast meeting held in Carey by the members of the Blaine Soil Conservation District.

Flooding potential also is there, with one Bureau of Land Management official stating snow depth in April is 50 per cent above normal. Terry Gulley, Burley, chief of river operations for the Minidoka project, BLM, said preparations have been underway to meet the water peak and that Little Wood River Reservoir has been emptied to accommodate run-off.

Gulley said he feels the district is in good order and any appreciable flooding in the valley will be prevented.

Reuben Bradshaw, Halley, snow surveyor for the Blaine Soil Conservation District, compiled snow depth and water content measurements and presented them during the Friday night meeting.

Following are figures compiled for April: Galena Summit, snow depth, 104.7 inches, water content, 35.2 inches; Galena, 84.2 inches snow depth, 27.9 inches water content; Mount Baldy, 84.8 inches snow depth, 27.8 inches water content;

Nascot Mine, 53.9 inches snow depth, 18.5 inches water content; Swede Peak, 78.8 inches snow depth, 28 inches water content; Garfield, 50.2 inches snow depth, 17.1 inches water content; Muldoon, 36.7 inches snow depth, 11.8 inches water content; Redfish Lake, 54.4 inches snow depth, 16.2 inches water content; Teller Ranch, 39.7 inches snow depth, 13.5 inches water content; Iron Mine, 49.5 inches snow depth, 15.9 inches water content; Couch Summit, 81.7 inches snow depth, 30 inches water content; Soldier, 44.4 inches snow depth, 17.9 inches water content; Dollarhide, 102.9 inches snow depth, 36 inches water content; Graham Ranch, 57.6 inches snow depth, 19.8 inches water content.

Decision supported

PAUL — An Idaho Supreme Court ruling, announced today, has affirmed a Fifth Judicial District Court ruling in favor of Joe Taylor, Paul, and involving an alleged breach of contract in regard to potato deliveries.

The case, brought by Taylor against Max Herbold and Max Herbold, Inc., claimed breach of contract on two counts. Judge James M. Cunningham, Twin Falls, heard the case in district court. A jury returned a verdict in favor of Taylor on both counts, but the court held Taylor should not be awarded statutory interest from the date of the contract.

In the high court ruling announced today, all decisions of the district court were upheld. Taylor and the defendant, Max Herbold, both appealed the decision to the supreme court. Taylor had charged the defendant with failing to take the 7,000 hundredweight of potatoes as contracted for and stated he was therefore forced to sell another 3,300 hundredweight at about one-third the contract price because of the delay and deterioration of the crop.

TWIN FALLS — Patchwork on the Twin Falls City-County Airport runway is slackening off since warmer weather and drying conditions began, City Manager Jean Millar said today. About 2,000 feet of runway length has undergone patching with a total of 6,000 feet of old runway in question.

Out-state hunt permit total cut

BOISE (UPI) — Ray J. Holmes, Fish and Game Commission chairman, announced Thursday non-resident big game permits for the 1971 season have been greatly reduced. He said Idaho would issue 9,552 elk and 3,821 deer permits to non-resident hunters during the year, a reduction of 3,474 from last year. Holmes said the action followed a period of general public resistance throughout the state to the growing number of non-resident big game hunters who find hunting conditions to their liking in the Gem State.

TWIN FALLS — Detweiler Brothers Inc., Twin Falls, is the apparent low bidder for heating, plumbing and air conditioning at a missile site near Grand Forks Air Force Base, N. D. According to Don Zach, purchasing agent for Detweiler's low bid of $2.54 million is for the plumbing, heating, air conditioning and process piping for the non-technical facilities at the Safeguard Ballistic Missile Defense Site.

Police nab youth

GOODING — A 15-year-old Gooding youth who fled officers by car and on foot was caught Thursday and named in three complaints. Gooding police officer Vern Esterbrook said the juvenile is charged with taking a vehicle without the owner's consent, driving while intoxicated and driving without an operator's license. He said the incident occurred about 2 a.m. Thursday. Police and the youth, driving a car owned by Nick Ruiz, Gooding, were involved in a high speed chase on Main Street and Orchard Street. Esterbrook said the boy drove over lawns and knocked over an evergreen tree before he was stopped at the doorstep of a house. The boy then allegedly jumped out of the car and fled. Officers chased the boy and found him hiding in a ditch, Esterbrook said.

Burley to lay park pipelines

By JERRY HERRMANN
Times-News Correspondent
BURLEY — City crews are expected to start laying the water lines in the Burley City river front park which is adjacent to the municipal golf course within the next month. Leon Bedke, Burley City engineer, upon learning Thursday the city will receive a matching grant of $25,000 from the Idaho Bureau of Outdoor Recreation said the work will begin on the park as soon as the city is officially notified. The city of Burley, according to Bedke, will have two years to complete the project. This will allow the city to raise its share of the funds in two budget years. "Due to the lateness of the release of these funds, we will probably only be able to install the water lines, sprinkling system, put down a layer of top soil and get the grass planted this spring," Bedke said. The last work done on the park was in January and February, 1970, he said, when city crews poured about 500 feet of retaining wall. This wall, which was paid for out of waterways funds, was built while the Snake River was at its low point. "The river was too high last winter to enable us to pour the remaining 500 feet of retaining wall," he said. Once the grass gets established, Bedke said the organizations in Burley — like the Jaycees, Elks, Girl Scouts, Rotary — which plan on helping beautify the park, can proceed. The Burley Elks Lodge No. 1384 plans to build a permanent covered patio about 30 to 40 feet wide and 40 to 60 feet long.

Barbecue pits will be installed at one end of the patio. In this section of the park, which contains about two and one-half acres of land, there will be 25 to 30 trees planted, two firepits, five picnic tables with power outlets and two shelters for about 100 persons each. Also lights will be installed along the river front, just behind the retaining wall, along the entire distance of the wall. The river front area, of about 850 feet developed so far, was used fully for the first time last summer, Bedke said.

The 150-foot wide boat ramp installed on the river front two years ago has become popular with boaters, he said, through the design of the ramp most boats can be floated off the trailers by the time they are fully in the water. Because of the location of the boat ramp, about in the middle of the river front the city is developing, use of the park is on the increase, the engineer said. Bedke also said that when this park is completed it will relieve some of the pressure on other city parks during the summer.

Coast flight tests setup

At any given time, for instance, the entire land area of Japan is defended by only eight F104 fighter planes and 12 squadrons of Nike missiles stationed around major cities. Officials say it would take at least an hour to scramble more aircraft if Japan came under attack.

Like most countries, Japan has built an air force within the past 20 years. Most of its veteran pilots received their early training while in the old imperial navy during World War II.

But unlike other countries, the growth of Japan's air force has been remarkably slow. There are currently in the ASDF seven squadrons of F104's—a total of about 130 planes—plus a grab bag of other aircraft, including F36's, now considered obsolete, and various helicopters, transports and rescue craft.

There are about 1,200 trained, active pilots. There are no reserve pilots.

The big news among the Japanese pilots now is that Japan is scheduled within the next two years to get two new squadrons of Phantom jets, the workhorse of the Indochina War. Two of the jet fighters will be imported from the United States and the remainder of the approximately 70 aircraft are scheduled to be build here under U.S. license.

Nevertheless, the ASDF can hardly be described as a powerhouse. Beyond the addition of the Phantoms, as well as the purchase of a few early warning planes, there are no long range plans to beef up the ASDF.

Under an upcoming defense build-up plan, which covers the years 1972-1977, Japan plans to build its own jet plane—the XT2—but it will be used strictly as a trainer and will have little combat value.

HYAKURI AIR BASE, Japan (UPI)—Twice a month, a Soviet bomber—nicknamed "The Tokyo Express" by Japanese air force pilots—flies down Japan's Pacific Coast from Siberia, apparently on a training run.

Two Japanese F104 fighter planes scramble when the Russian plan is reported to be making its run, but the Japanese never sight the plane. Instead, the Japanese fighters take up stations just off the coast in case the Russian plane comes within Japan's air space.

It's fortunate the Russian craft is only on a training run because the Japanese Air Self Defense Force—as the air force is officially known—is at best a fledgling organization that could do little more than harass a serious aerial invader.

TWIN FALLS — Color slides of North Africa, with commentary relative to the citizens and customs, were featured Thursday as R. K. (Bob) Bonnett, Moscow, spoke to members of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club at the Turf Club.

Bonnett, a former mayor of Moscow and a civic leader and businessman in the north Idaho community, is now retired and since 1950 has traveled extensively. He has visited every continent in the world at least twice.

He was introduced by his son, John Bonnett, now a resident of Twin Falls and a member of the local Kiwanis Club.

Trash fire, false alarm calls close

TWIN FALLS — Men and equipment returned from a trash fire only five minutes before another fire was reported at the Terry Addition of Duval Courts Thursday morning.

Capt. Jack Windsor said the call to the senior citizen's development was a false alarm. He said workmen constructing the project were burning trash behind one of the complexes. The construction site was the scene of a fire last winter which damaged one of the partially completed units.

At 6:50 a.m. Thursday one truck was sent to 333 Highland Ave. Trash in the back of a beet truck, owned by Marvin Molyneux, was burning. Windsor said. Hot ashes apparently were dumped into the truck, starting the fire.

Firemen returned to the station from that fire at 7:15 a.m. and at 7:20 a.m. the false alarm was answered.

Limits imposed on Valley highways

BOISE — The Idaho Department of Highways has imposed load and speed restrictions on several Magic Valley highways due to spring breakup and construction work.

E. L. Mathes, Boise, state highway engineer, said seven Magic Valley routes have weight restrictions of 350 pounds per inch width of tire with 10,000 pounds allowable on front axles if equipped with 10-inch tires or larger and 14,000 pounds allowable on all other axles.

These highways are Highway 23 from Bellevue to Carey; Highway 24 from Shoshone to Rupert; Highways 26 93A from Shoshone to Arco, Highway 27 from Burley to Oakley; Highway 46 from Gooding to junction of Highway 68; Highway 77 from Declo to Malta and Highway 93 from Hailey to the Pahsimeroi River.

Mathes said Highway 93 from Shoshone to Hailey is restricted to legal allowable weight.

He said due to extreme breakup, Highway 25 from Wendell to Jerome is restricted immediately to maximum speed of 60 miles per hour for all traffic in addition to truck weight and speed restrictions already listed.

23 receive $500,000 or more in farm subsidies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said Thursday that 23 big farm operators got federal farm subsidies of $500,000 or more in 1970—the last year the law will allow most of them to get such large payments.

Of the 23, nine big farmers got $1 million or more and the largest total payment went to J. G. Boswell Co., Corcoran, Calif., a large cotton producer who has led the subsidy list for several years. Most of the big payments went to giant cotton and sugar producers.

The records opened to reporters showed that 137,000 farmers were paid $5,000 or more last year, accounting for about 45.5 per cent of the total payments of $3.7 billion. The remainder of the money paid for acreage reductions and price supports was divided among nearly 2.3 million small farmers, renters or part owners of small farms.

The records for price supports and other programs for cotton, feed grains, wheat, sugar, meat and wool showed that the nine farmers who received $1 million or more received a total of $17.7 million, or about one-half of 1 per cent of the 1970 payments. The 14 farms in the $500,000 to $1 million category, received about $9 million.

All but six of the 23 farmers who got more than a half-million dollars will be affected by a law, effective with the 1971 crops, that a grower cannot collect payments of more than $55,000 on each of his wheat, feed grains or cotton crops.

The six who will not be affected are those who got big payments for sugar production. Congress, in writing the new farm subsidy ceiling, did not include sugar producers.

MALAD CITY (UPI) — Water content of the snow pack here is about 145 per cent of average, according to Jack Forbush, Oneida soil and water conservation technician.

Forbush reported that water levels in all reservoirs throughout Oneida County raising and all will "probably be filled to capacity."

Possible exception, he said, could be Deep Creek, which was drained last fall to allow repairs to the gate.

Outlook 'favorable' in Congress for new farm credit measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sources in the Farm Credit Administration today predicted a "favorable" outlook in Congress for a major new farm-and-rural credit bill which has drawn sharp criticism from some bankers.

The bill was introduced in the house last week by nine members headed by Rep. John L. McMillan, D-S.C., and in the Senate this week by Chairman Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

A bigger percentage share of the rapidly-growing rural credit market. Among other steps, the bill would authorize the federal land banks — one of three units of the farm credit system — to make mortgage loans for rural nonfarm homes. Farm credit administration officials say these loans would be made at normal commercial rates to families of moderate or higher incomes, and would be restricted to single-family housing in open country — outside of rural towns and small cities.

present, the banks can lend only up to 65 per cent of the agricultural value of a farm. Removing this ceiling would enable the banks to make larger loans and serve more young farmers with high skills but low equities.

departure from the system's traditional role of supplementing the farm loan activities of banks, insurance companies and other private lenders.

FCA officials, replying to these charges, contend that rural credit needs are growing so rapidly that all the resources of all lenders will be strained to keep up with demand. The new credit legislation, officials say, is basically only an updating of the FCS machinery so it can effectively serve the changing and growing needs of farm customers.

The 14 farms that received $500,000 to $1 million were: S. A. Camp Farms Co., Shafter, Calif., $903,650; Farmers Investment Co., Sahuarita, Ariz., $865,776; Delta & Pine Land Co., Scott, Miss., $814,646; Mount Whitney Farms, Five Points, Calif., $804,583; Kirby Hughes, Tucson, Ariz., $797,428; Westlake Farms, Stratford, Calif., $721,129; Boston Ranch Co., Lemoore, Calif., $677,225; State of Montana, Helena, Mont., $666,757; Telles Ranch Inc., Firebaugh, Calif., $632,779; C & V Growers Inc., Maricopa, Ariz., $543,577; Oahu Sugar Co.

The legislation was drafted after long study by leaders in the cooperative farmer-owned farm credit system, which is supervised by the government's Farm Credit Administration. The bill would broaden the system's lending authority and allow it to move into several new rural credit fields.

At present, the farm credit system provides about $15 billion of the $60 billion in long and short-term credit in use in American agriculture. Spokesmen say passage of the new legislation would allow the system to continue expanding, but would not necessarily give it

Other new developments under the FCA-backed bill would include: — Loans to nonfarm businessmen who provide farm services such as custom combining. — Authority for Production Credit Association — the second of the three groups making up the farm credit system — to cooperate with local commercial banks in making production loans to farmers. — New flexibility in terms for farm mortgage loans made by Authority for loans by the banks for cooperatives — the third group in the system — to co-ops in which two-thirds of the voting power is held by farmers. At present, 90 per cent of the votes must be in farmer hands.

Authority for sale to investors of a single farm credit system security to raise funds for re-lending through the three system groups. At present, each of the three groups — land banks, banks for cooperatives, and production credit banks — must sell separate bonds and debentures.

Critics of the new farm credit plan include the Independent Bankers Association which charged recently the program represents "an ambitious new farm lending program that threatens to destroy competition and to reduce the pool of loanable funds in rural America."

The new program, the IBA charged, "represents a radical

FHA personnel get training

BURLEY — The Farmers Home Administration concluded a two-day workshop Wednesday at Ponderosa Inn for training in appraisal, inspection, and construction.

The 15 representatives of this district toured construction sites during their session, said Fred Johnson, supervisor of the FHA, Burley area.

The definition of rural towns and communities was defined by the Farmers Home Administration as 5,500 population or under, but the new ruling increased the limits to 10,000 which makes it possible to include the city of Burley within these limits for loans. Dr. Don Winder, Boise, state director of FHA directed the workshops.

The representatives were divided into two groups. One toured construction sites for training in this area of work and the other group reviewed appraisal and inspection training; then the procedure was reversed to give all representatives training in all areas.

Special guests were Robert Harrison, Boise, chief of rural housing division and Leo York, Boise, chief of farm ownership division of the FHA.

FAIRFIELD — The importance of summer livestock fly control is being emphasized by Camas County Agent William Hazen. He suggests the use of dust bags for grazing cattle.

The common horn fly is a blood sucking ectoparasite that causes significant economic loss to Idaho cattlemen. From May until the first freeze, these flies rob cattlemen by reducing potential weight gains of grazing cattle. During the day cattle seek relief by bunching up, hiding in dark brush or standing in shaded areas instead of grazing, Hazen said.

"Bulls probably suffer the most from the flies. It has been found that some bulls carry over 2,000 of these flies on their shoulders and sides. These bulls run around to try and get rid of the flies instead of servicing the cows as they should. Trials have shown that there is greater bull efficiency in breeding season, if he is free of all external parasites, especially horn flies, Hazen said.

One of the newest and most effective methods of horn fly control is the use of dust bags. These bags are made of double burlap with a plastic sheeting draped over to help keep them dry. These bags can be purchased for around $2 and the insecticide in them runs from 35 to 80 cents per pound depending on the quantity purchased and the insecticide used.

The use of dust bags on grazing cattle has resulted in an average daily gain increase of around one half pound on yearling cattle, because they could spend all day eating. On the average, two to three pounds of insecticide will be needed for the 120 day period. It is essential that no less than one bag be provided for every 25 head of cattle. Hazen figures that 100 head of cattle would require an investment of about $158 for bags and insecticide for the season. With only a quarter pound per day increase for 120 days would result in 3,000 pounds of extra beef or a return of about $742 extra profit.

A cow-calf operation wouldn't produce as much gain, but would produce heavier calves at weaning, Hazen said.

Hazen said the dust-bags are easy to install and service. Besides the increased production, the control of the flies makes the cattle move easier, look cleaner and be more contented.

Magic Reservoir has 136 million acre feet

SHOSHONE — Magic Reservoir contained 136,000 acre feet of water Wednesday, said Leon Grievé, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co.

This compares with 92,000 acre feet last week after the water had been drawn down to that level.

Since more than 120,000 acre feet had been wasted and the season was getting late, the gates were closed Saturday.

Warmer weather increased the inflow considerably so that one of the gates was opened Tuesday and the other will be opened Wednesday.

The American Falls Reservoir is full with over 71,000 second-feet spilling at the dam.

At the present time the banks of the concrete flume, north of Shona, are being raised. For this reason water is being held out of the Milner Gooding canal. The plan is to turn the water on at Milner at least by April 15.

Conservation goal of T.F. soil district

TWIN FALLS — Conservation is the goal of the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District and this past year members have been busy in conservation.

Glenn Nelson, chairman of the board of supervisors, said some of this work the past year include brush control, lining ditches, installing pipeline, developing grazing management plans, and seed plantings, as well as many other conservation practices.

According to the annual report of the district, the cooperators in the district completed 1,136 acres of brush control work, 6,376 acres of conservation cropping system, 4,766 acres of crop residue management, lined 15,443 feet of ditches and canals, constructed 16,344 irrigation field ditches, installed 3,282 feet of irrigation pipeline and constructed nine surface irrigation systems.

Two irrigation sprinkler systems were installed last year in the district as well as 3,200 feet of pipeline for livestock use.

The district also constructed one irrigation regulating reservoir last year and seeded 1,863 acres of rangeland.

This past year the district sponsored two boys to the Alpine Conservation Camp and co-sponsored a tour of the Plant Materials Center at Aberdeen.

Nelson said, "It is our intent for the year 1971 to do everything in our power to forge ahead in the conservation field to conserve and protect the environment for the wise use and enjoyment of our posterity."

Irrigation loan OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $20,000 resource conservation and development loan has been awarded the Deep Creek Irrigation Company in Oneida County, Idaho, by the Farmers Home Administration.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, announced the loan and noted it will enable the association, comprised of 183 farm and rural families, to improve a canal delivery system.

It is the first resource conservation and development loan in the Gem State, said the senator.

New variety of wheat developed

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — Dr. Ronald Sunderman, research agronomist for the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) has developed a new semi-dwarf soft white spring wheat.

Released cooperatively by the agricultural experiment stations of Idaho, Washington and Oregon and the crops research division of the USDA's agricultural research service, the new wheat is to be known as twin.

"Twin is resistant to the prevalent races of stripe and stem rust but is susceptible to leaf rust and powdery mildew. Under irrigation twin has averaged 17 bushels per acre higher in yield than Lemhi 66," said Dr. Floyd Frail, acting associate director of the Idaho experiment station.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah-Idaho Sugar Co., reported earnings of $2,771,847 for the fiscal year ended Feb. 28, 1971, Rowland M. Cannon, company president, announced Wednesday.

An extraordinary item of $385,862 for the writeoff of assets due to the closing of the firm's West Jordan, Utah, Factory considerably reduced the year's earnings noted Cannon.

The earnings per share of common stock and common stock equivalent stood at $1.18 per share, down from last year's earnings of $1.44 per share and $3,421,201 total earnings.

"Contributing to the change from the previous year," Cannon said, "were heavy inflationary pressures in the economy, the unfavorable crop conditions of 1970, and the plant closing."

"Production of sugar from the 1970 crop of sugar beets by the company was 5,928,895 hundred-weight, which compares unfavorably with 7,271,576 hundred-weight for the preceding year from virtually the same total acreage."

Dividends paid during the fiscal year totaled $1,884,890. The annual dividend rate during the period remained at 80 cents per share of common stock.

Coody grabs 3-shot margin in Masters

THE TIMES-NEWS

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Charles Coody, the handsome Texan who let victory elude him here in the closing moments two years ago, was top gun in the opening round of the Masters golf tournament Thursday as he shot a hot-as-a-pistol six-under-par 66 and seized a three-stroke lead.

The 33-year-old Coody, from Abilene, was just one of the pack when he turned the front nine in 34, two under. But he came within one stroke of the back-nine record with a 32 that included a string of three straight birdies.

Way back, at what had been a leading 3-under-par 69 for most of the day, were four of pro golf's best tourmen—Bob Murphy, Ray Floyd, Don January, and Bob Lunn, and lanky Hale Irwin, who was a last-minute entry thanks to a recent change in the Masters' qualification rules.

Jack Nicklaus, pre-tournament favorite to win his fourth Masters title, had a low-pressure 70 to tie the Dale Douglass, who finished strong. Art Wall, the 1959 Masters champion who is now 47 years old, and Bert Yancey, who nearly always plays well on the Augusta National, were at 71 to round out the limited group of sub-par players on the opening day of the 35th renewal of this prestigious tournament. Coody, who recalls only too well how he let the Masters championship get away in 1969, came in looking a bit tired but insisting he'd like to turn the tournament into a "72-hole

First-round leader remembers how fast three-shot lead can evaporate

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—Charles Coody, who remembers well how fast three strokes can disappear on the Augusta National golf course, said after shooting his six-under-par 66 to lead the first round of the Masters Thursday that it "just put me in a real good position."

The 33-year-old Coody of Abilene, Tex., is the same young man who found himself in the lead in the helter-skelter final round of the 1969 Masters as he walked to the 16th tee. He isn't likely to forget what happened next—he bogeyed all three holes and finished two strokes behind.

"There's 54 more holes to go," said the tall, laconic Texan when questioned after taking his opening-round three-stroke lead. "Yes, I'm a little charged up about it," he admitted. "As a matter of fact, I felt so good there at the end, I said to my caddy that I wished it was a 72-hole marathon—you know, that we could play right through."

Coody, tall and dark-haired, has enjoyed indifferent success in his career as a player on pro golf's tour. He's won only two tournaments since joining the tour in 1963, and the last of those victories was in 1969. He admitted that, other than that 1969 Masters, he's never been a really strong contender in any major championship. "In a couple of PGAs and a couple of Opens, I was in pretty good position going into the final round," he recalled. "But I never got that big good round that you need to win."

"Sure, that three-stroke lead looks mighty good," said Coody. "But there's 54 holes to go and anything can happen." He should know. In the lead after 89 holes of the 1969 Masters, thanks to an eagle at No. 66 and a birdie at No. 69, Coody bogeyed all three of the remaining holes and wound up in a tie for fifth—two strokes behind winner George Archer. "I was just in too big a hurry to play those last three holes that year," Coody said. "I didn't think through my shots and I missed the greens on all three. I have hoped since that maybe my experience that day will stand me in good stead in some later tournament—like maybe here this week. You don't get many chances to win a tournament like the Masters and you have to take advantage. But I'm not the first guy to blow a tournament and I won't be the last."

Distance, hurdle domination let Shoshone win track meet

GLENN'S FERRY — The Shoshone Indians dominated the two longest events and got a double hurdle decision from Lowe to claim the team title in a four-way track meet Thursday afternoon. The Indians, who took four of the five two-mile places and went one-two-four in the mile, piled up 83 points to defeat host Glens Ferry by 12 points. Wendell was third with 48 while Gooding was fourth at 42.

Webb and Johnson paced Shoshone in the distance events, Webb taking the two mile with Johnson second and the two traded spots in the mile. Lowe took the high hurdles in 16 flat and the lows in 21.8. Gooding junior Gary Gorrell picked up a pair of firsts and a second in the field events. He won the shot at 46-1/2, the high jump at 5-10 1/4 — six inches under his winning mark last week — and was second in the discus.

For Glens Ferry the top individual was senior Rich Brown who picked up three firsts and ran on the winning 880-yard relay team. Brown threw the discus 140-10 and broadjumped 19-11 1/4 in the field events then switched to the track for a 23.8 decision in the 220-yard dash. Wendell's top point winner, as usual, was senior Kirk Dennis who was second in the high jump to Gorrell and won the 100-yard dash. The youngster's ankle injury still won't let him go in his specialty — the low hurdles — where he was the state record. Brother Kip Dennis was second in the lows and 220-yard dash. Glens Ferry will host Kimberly in a dual meet Thursday.

Salmon River big game trend counts show slight increase

The annual road game trend counts along the main Salmon River, in management unit 35A, and Herd Creek, in management unit 36B, were completed March 29, 1971.

The highway count along U.S. 93 from the mouth of East Fork to Sunbeam has been conducted for sixteen years, starting in 1949. A total of 272 deer and 60 elk were counted from the highway during this year's count. Last year's count included 295 deer and 13 elk. A sixteen year average has been 262 deer and 30 elk. Participating in the 1971 count were: Steve Hocks, BLM; Glen Southwick, local sportsman; Brent Nyborg, Idaho Fish and Game Department; and W. L. Millick, Forest Service.

The Herd Creek trend count includes all game observed from the Herd Creek Road in the immediate Herd Creek and Lake Creek drainages from the East Fork of the Salmon River to the narrows below Herd Lake. This count has been conducted for ten years, starting in 1959. A total of 346 deer were located during this year's count. The ten year average has been 214 deer, with 342 animals counted last year. Participating in this count were: Harold Sherritts, BLM; Perry Johnson, Idaho Fish and Game Department; Guy Pence, sportsman; and Dan Pence, Forest Service.

All wildlife observed appeared to be in good condition. South facing slopes have remained open most of the winter and animals have been able to get to good feed during most of the season. Forage utilization studies on these areas will be conducted in April or early May depending on how early game animals move off the winter range involved. Sportsmen are encouraged to participate in these activities. Those interested may obtain information from the Idaho Fish and Game Department, Bureau of Land Management, or Forest Service.

Wounded Bullets face playoff woes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Baltimore's chances of squaring the NBA's Eastern Conference playoff finals appeared meager when Kevin Loughery qualified for a pair of crutches Thursday and Gus Johnson's injured knee showed little inclination to heal quickly.

The bullets dropped Tuesday's opener here by one point, 112-111, as Johnson sat out the game in civvies. Loughery was forced to wear an ice pack on his bruised right heel after the game to ease the pain. New York's chances of taking a 2-0 lead Friday afternoon blossomed considerably after the latest medical communique was announced from Baltimore.

"Loughery had an injection before the first game to relieve the pain," a Bullet spokesman said. "But the pain became more severe and Kevin had to stay completely off his right foot today. We won't know whether he'll play until just before the game. The same is true for Johnson."

West-less L.A. tests Buck jinx

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers managed to beat the Milwaukee Bucks only once in five regular season National Basketball Association games—and they did it without Jerry West.

After absorbing four solid whippings at the hands of the Bucks, the Lakers went into the teams' final meeting determined to prove they could beat Milwaukee even without their star guard. The result was a 116-83 victory that turned out to be one of the few times during the entire season Milwaukee got a taste of its own brand of torture.

Friday night the two teams will clash again in the first game of a playoff series to determine the NBA Western Conference champion. And West is out of the lineup again, with a leg injury. The Bucks earned their berth by clipping the San Francisco Warriors four games to one in the first round playoffs and Los Angeles took the Chicago Bulls in seven games. Milwaukee has been resting up for the second round since last Sunday while the Lakers didn't finish off Chicago until Tuesday night.

Rentzel put on probation

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboy flanker Lance Rentzel Thursday received a five-year probation sentence on a charge of indecent exposure but said he did not intend to let the incident end his athletic career. Rentzel pleaded guilty to the felony charge involving the November 1970 incident and received the probation sentence from District Judge John Mead. Mead could have sentenced Rentzel to 15 years in prison.

13-year-old gets golf ace

Tom Crist, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Crist and an eighth grader at O'Leary Junior High School, put most of his golfing thrills behind him Thursday when he scored a hole-in-one at the municipal course. Crist, now in his second season of playing, used a five iron on the par three, 160-yard second hole. He wound up with a two-over 36 for the round. Witnessing the feat were Bob Benefiel and Mark North.

Minico wins prep golf meet

BURLEY — The Minico Spartans, with two men breaking 80 on the 72-par Burley golf course, defeated Twin Falls Jayvees and Burley in a three-way golf match Thursday. Minico had 330, Twin Falls 333 and Burley 352. However, Twin Falls provided the medalist in junior Mark Mueller who posted a 78. Scores for Minico were Charles Creason and Chris Goode 79, Larry Amen and Tom Toews, both 86; Twin Falls, Mueller 78, Dave Lawley 82, Moyal Wilson 83, and Rick Weidenbort 90, and Burley, Holmes 84, Burton 86, Nichols 90 and Beckham 92.

Matte has surgery to join Unitas

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Baltimore Colts running back Tom Matte underwent an appendicitis operation Thursday and joined Johnny Unitas at Union Hospital where the veteran Colt quarterback was recovering from heel surgery. Matte entered the hospital Wednesday night with what physicians believed was a case of bleeding ulcers which had plagued him for eight years. Examination showed his appendix was about to burst, doctors said. Matte, whose appendix was removed Thursday, joined Unitas, who underwent surgery Wednesday for a severed Achilles tendon in his right heel. Both players were reported in good condition. Matte was playing paddle tennis with Unitas Wednesday when the quarterback suffered the heel injury. Physicians expressed optimism Unitas will be able to play his 17th year of professional football next season despite the injury. However, he was told by doctors he would be in a cast for at least three weeks and unable to begin workouts for at least two weeks after the cast was removed. Unitas, who will be 38 next month, said "I feel fine."

T.F. rips Burley on early hits

The Twin Falls Bruins exploded for 10 runs on six hits in the first inning Thursday afternoon and cruised to a 12-0 decision over the Burley Bobcats. The Bruin sophomores rallied in the bottom of the fifth inning to nip the Burley underclassmen 2-1 in the nightcap. Three straight walks and a hit batsman shoved starter and loser Otte behind at the outset of the game. Wentworth, Eric Day, Mike Fries and Perry Hanchey then unloaded singles to plate five more and Tyke Hanchey sent in two more with a double. After an error, Wickham drilled a long double that set the final runs across. Meanwhile, four Twin Falls pitchers held the Bobcats hitless with Fries working the first two innings to get the win. He was followed by Sturgill, Harbour and Kevin Nelson. In the second game, Burley jumped into an immediate 1-0 lead on two consecutive hits. After Twin Falls was given a run and then had it taken away when the decision was corrected, the young Bruins tied it. The winning run came in the bottom of the last inning when Gary Irish led off with a single.

opportunities. The first was when East played the king of diamonds. South could have ducked. If East led back a spade they would have collected four spades and the ace of clubs and South would have made his contract on the nose.

The play for three no-trump would have been for South to play three rounds of diamonds immediately. This would put West on lead with the nine and his best play would be to lead ace and another club, but this would allow South to win two clubs, two hearts and five diamonds for a total of nine.

The chance for eight tricks occurred when West led the queen of hearts. South should let this hold. If West played his last heart South would make nine. If West shifted to ace and another club, South would only make one heart trick, two clubs and five diamonds for eight tricks.

Varmint hunting tests skill, patience of bow-armed hunter

By LORN IVIE
Times-News Correspondent
PICABO — Varmint hunting, epitomized by high velocity, flat trajectory rifles and high powered scopes, can test the skill of the most ardent hunter and dead-eyed shot.

Generally, shooting at chucks and squirrels is a long range proposition — one that requires good eyesight and the ability to spot minute targets by movement or color.

This long range shooting calls for specialized equipment rather than stealth in stalking and that's the reason change of pace varmint hunting is a great challenge.

To change pace, simply exchange rifle for bow, and as a result the whole complexion of varmint shooting changes. Now, one needn't be a dyed in the wool archery nut to enjoy the challenge of stalking varmints with archery tackle.

Basic tackle will suffice. A fiberglass bow, although lacking the stability of wood and glass laminates, will work effectively on varmints. Pull weights don't have to be excessive either. The rule in this choice is to go no heavier than you can pull easily and often without tiring.

For arrows we have the choice of field points, regular hunting tips or the bludgeon tip. Of the three the bludgeon tip is more effective because it kills by shock rather than penetration.

An arrow that penetrates leaves open the possibility of broken arrows if a varmint ducks down a hole and if this happens wounded, crippled animals result in slow death and suffering.

To the archer, success of a hunt depends upon the amount of shots that are acquired rather than how many kills are made. Delt stalking of any game animal or varmint is, then, absolutely necessary if we are to get shots. Varmints are small and the effective range of a bow diminishes accordingly with the size of the target.

definite aid to the hunter. Camouflage clothing, although not a must, has definite value. The hunters face would even be netted or made glare-proof to avoid telegraphing his presence to the target. The varmint hunter uses to his advantage the natural habits of the animals.

Often times a varmint that hastily scurries down a hole will check the safety situation after a short time so the hunter who remains motionless may get a shot by waiting.

Hunting for any animal with archery equipment requires that the hunter shoot where and when he can. As a result the archer cannot always get into the proper position to shoot. He must, therefore, shoot from awkward positions and he must do it quickly without sacrificing accuracy.

This type of shooting requires that the hunter practice in the various positions in which it may be necessary for him to shoot. Practicing in kneeling, squatting and cramped positions is all in his favor as is practicing in varying terrain and different light conditions. Being able to judge distance instantly is a trait that comes only with practice and then more practice. A stalk and shot is useless if at the last moment the hunter misjudges the distance a few feet.

A good supply of arrows will be needed as the rocks and other varmint habitat have an uncanny way of stealing or breaking these projectiles. Some qualities that are needed is the will patience and determination. These latter two in generous amounts.

MAGIC VALLEY

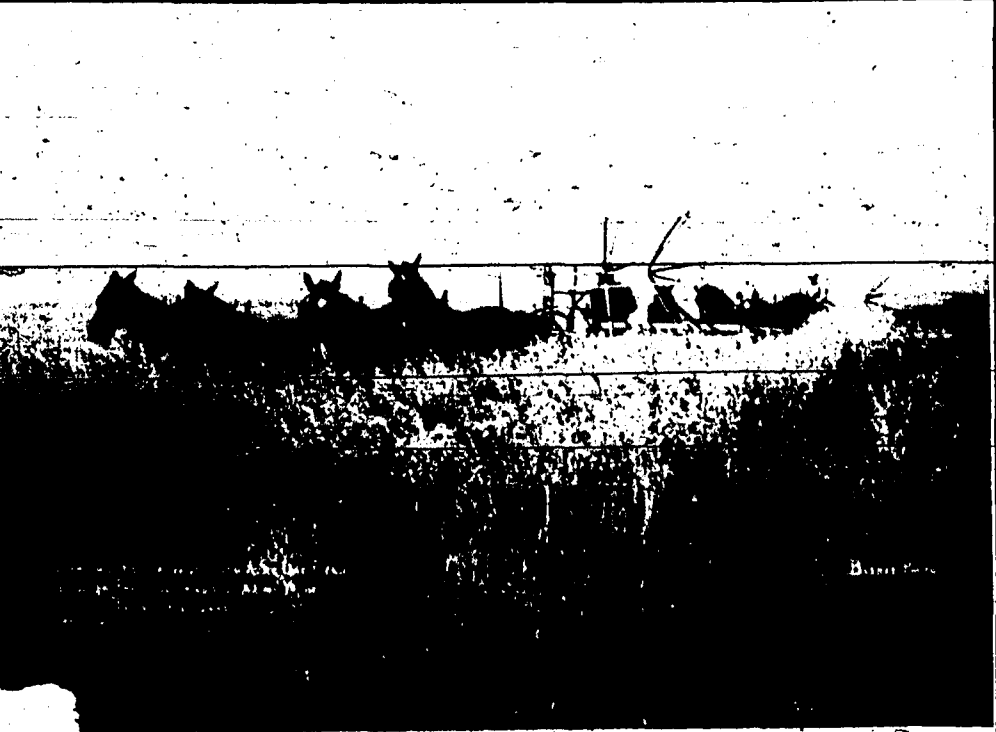

... Empire on the move!

Early day Harness Shop, Real Estate, Dentist, Physician offices.

First load of corn marketed in city of Twin Falls.

Beginning of harvest, 500 acre oat field near Buhl.

Rogerson Hotel Dining Room as it looked in 1908.

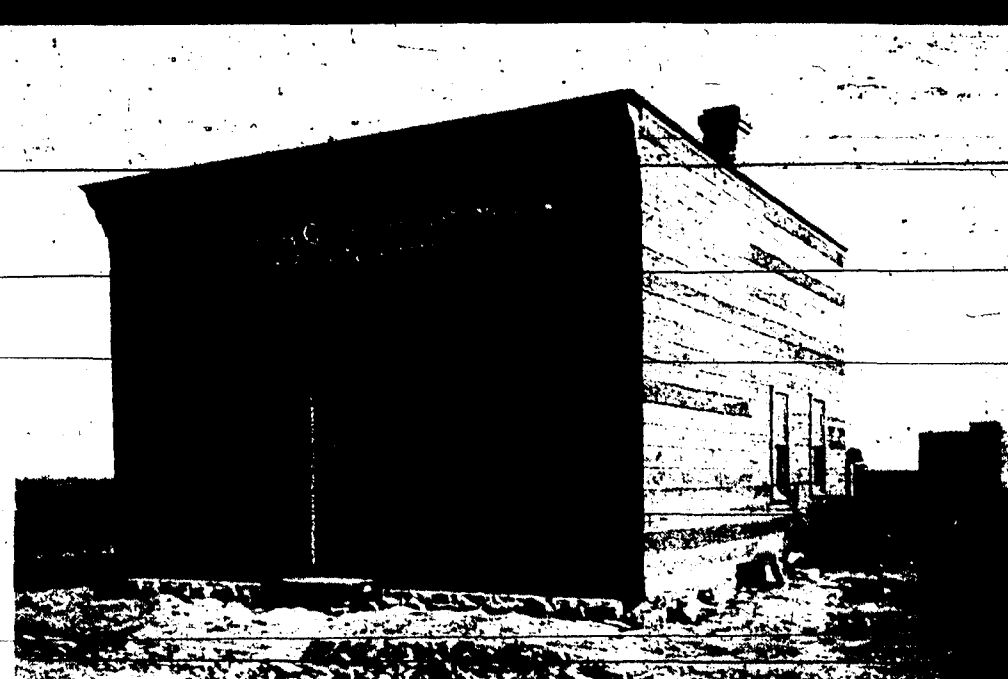

This is the theme of the 1971 Times-News Progress Edition which will be published Sunday, June 27, 1971.

We have a beautiful story to tell about the Magic Valley because it's such a beautiful place to live, to work, to raise a family. In addition to the spectacular scenery of the area, we have a beautiful economic future ahead of us with new industry, new services and new recreational facilities. You'll read about this great country — past, present and future — in the colorful 1971 Progress Edition.

aim High for the seventies

The 1971 Progress Edition is going to be the most ambitious, the most comprehensive and the most revealing issue ever published in southern Idaho.

It's an ideal time for you to tell your uniquely individual story in an editorial climate that smacks of success. No matter whether your objective is to develop sound community relations, attract new employees, enhance your prestige and develop new business — say it through the pages of the Progress Edition.
