Shorter term looms

BOISE (UPI) — Delegates to the annual Idaho Education Association delegate assembly departed Boise Saturday, leaving in their wake the threat of a shortened school year and a teacher sanction hanging over Idaho.

The sanction resolution, presented by Bob Gould of the Pocatello delegation, was passed by near-unanimous approval. It requested the IEA legislative committee to "define these sanctions and place them in effect as soon as possible."

Mrs. Louise Jones, New Meadows, outgoing IEA president, said the executive and legislative action committees would meet in Boise in about two weeks to formalize action on the proposal.

She said committee members first will visit school districts to get firsthand opinions from teachers on "the kind of sanction they would like to see put into effect."

The possibility of a shortened school year came in the form of a "sleeper" from the legislative action committee list of recommendations, and was approved with no discussion.

It read: "That the IEA request the State Board of Education to establish the cost of quality education per day per child in Idaho and then annually set the number of days rather than the quality of education be reduced."

Asked about the significance of the recommendation, Mrs. Jones said it "definitely could lead to a shorter school year if the legislative appropriation to public schools is inadequate to assure a quality education for the full 180-day school year."

In an apparent effort to strengthen the organization's effectiveness in the political and legislative area, delegates voted to make the position of president a full-time position during term of office. Ron Finn, a Twin Falls High School teacher, will assume the responsibility in July.

The group also have No. 1 priority on the hiring of a full-time professional communications director. The two-day assembly at Capital High School delegates approved a committee recommendation asking for a $10-million increase in public school funds to support the present school program.

Crash hurts officer

RUPERT — An Idaho State Police officer, Chuck Peugh, was seriously injured when he was struck by his own patrol car while standing in front of it when another driver slammed into the rear of the police car late Friday south of Rupert on Highway 24.

Minidoka County Deputy Sheriff Robert Vasquez said Peugh had stopped a truck driver, Juan Madarietta, Rupert, to check on the truck's clearance lights. Peugh and Madarietta were standing between the police car and the truck when Willard V. Barnes, Rupert, driving a late-model pickup truck, hit the back of the police car, driving it forward against the two men.

Both sustained multiple fractures. Peugh was hurled upward by the force of the collision and thrown onto the hood of his car, where his head broke the windshield.

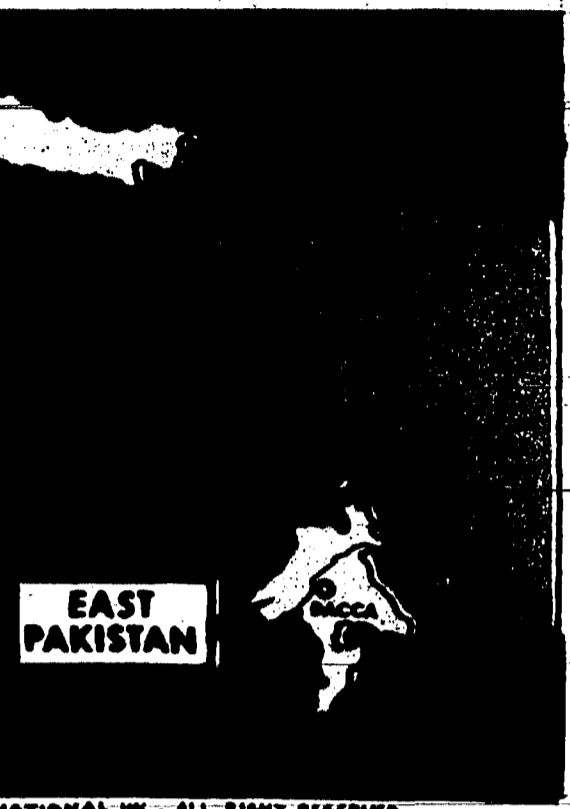

Vasquez said the state police car had all its lights on, including the roof flasher and blinking tail lights, at the time of the collision.

Barnes was cited for drunken driving by Vasquez, after he was taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries. He was released after treatment.

Two passengers in Barnes' pickup truck, Ralph Barnes and Stella Dean Lockridge, both Rupert, were hospitalized with undetermined injuries. Their conditions were not known Saturday afternoon.

Peugh and Madarietta were listed in serious condition at Cassia Memorial Hospital Saturday night.

Peugh's condition was listed as satisfactory Saturday night by a hospital spokesman.

REBEL leaders in East Pakistan Saturday declared independence from Pakistan, but fighting between Bangla Desh forces and Pakistani army continued. Battle reports indicated that Pakistani units were holding upper hand in three week old civil war, controlling most district towns, important trade and communications centers. (UPI)

Freedom declared

Cleaner world Earth week goal

By United Press International
Fifteen blocks of New York City's Madison Avenue will be made into a part-time pedestrian mall with motor traffic banned as the nation celebrates Earth Week this week.

President Nixon declared April 18-24 as Earth Week and named April 21 Earth Day—a time of emphasis on environmental activities. Several governors issued earth week proclamations for their states.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay announced that Madison Avenue will be closed to traffic from 42nd Street to 57th Street in midtown Manhattan from noon to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday as part of his program "to give the streets back to the people."

Most planned activities were scheduled for college campuses. As final plans were made Sen. Edmund S. Muskie accused the FBI Wednesday of spying on Earth Day rallies last year.

"If antipollution rallies are a subject of intelligence concern, is anything immune?" Muskie asked in a speech on the Senate floor. "Is there any citizen involved in politics who is not a potential subject for an FBI dossier?"

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said if FBI agents were at the Washington Earth Day rally April 22, 1970, they were there only to "observe persons who have records of criminal violence."

Ohio State University planned rallies at which J. Michael McCloskey, executive national director of the Sierra Club, and consumer advocate Ralph Nader were scheduled to speak.

Chabot College in Hayward, Calif., scheduled an ecology festival for Wednesday through Sunday with Paul Erlich, author of "Population Bomb," as keynote speaker. Displays at the college and community included organic foods and nonpolluting soap.

Former Interior Secretary Stewart Udall was scheduled to speak at the University of Rhode Island and at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Gov. Dale L. Bumpers of Arkansas and Gov. Edgar Whitcomb of Indiana proclaimed April 19-25 Earth Week

Jerome trustee race draws pair

JEROME — The May 4 trustee election in the Jerome School District has attracted two nominees and may draw one more contestant.

Leroy Weigle, a Jerome County farmer, has filed a nomination petition to seek the seat now held by trustee Gordon Hagler in Zone 4, who has indicated he may seek re-election, but has not filed a petition of candidacy.

Gordon Hollifield, vice chairman of the board of trustees, has indicated that he plans to run for re-election in Zone 5. He is seeking a second term as trustee.

The trustee election is scheduled from 1 to 7 p.m. May 4 at the high school. Nominating petitions must be filed within 10 days of the election.

Weigle was born and raised in Jerome, graduated from Jerome High School in 1951 and has farmed for the past 18 years on a ranch north of Jerome.

He belonged to the National Guard for nine years and is presently a member of the Jerome Fair Board and an active member of the Jerome Booster Club.

His wife is the former Barbara Stauffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stauffer, Jerome. The couple have three children.

Troops encircle prison

KINGSTON, Ont. (UPI)—Combat troops, armed with rifles and gas masks, surrounded Canada's largest prison Saturday as a citizens committee negotiated for rebel inmates holding five guards hostages.

The 100 members of the Royal Canadian Regiment, most of them veterans of United Nations peacekeeping duty on Cyprus, moved into the open space between the center block of Kingston Penitentiary and the 25-foot wall which surrounds it.

The soldiers, normally armed only with ceremonial long oak clubs and heavy wire mesh shields, carried semi-automatic rifles with fixed bayonets and were equipped with gas masks.

"Whew! That last shipment is on it's way to Italy."

Yanks join Viet drive

SAIGON (UPI) — Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, said Saturday American ground troops would join the South Vietnamese offensive now under way through the A Shau Valley near the Laotian border.

Abrams said the campaign could be broadened with South Vietnamese units actually crossing into Laotian territory to attack Communist bases along the Ho Chi Minh Trail. President Nixon has barred American foot soldiers from Laos but okayed U.S. air and artillery support for such incursions.

U.S. B52 Stratofortresses flew two missions near the A Shau Valley Saturday, and American spokesmen in Phu Bai, 35 miles east of the valley, said "American forces have been committed to the support" of the South Vietnamese offensive.

That statement apparently applied to air and artillery support U.S. headquarters in Saigon said there were no American troops in the A Shau Valley as of Saturday night.

Creighton's statement that U.S. ground units would be committed came as a surprise. U.S. commanders have been trying to reduce American participation in South Vietnamese offensives to a minimum under the program to Vietnamize the war and send more Americans home.

Abrams spoke with reporters at the old imperial capital of Hue, near the A Shau Valley, where President Nguyen Van Thieu renewed his threat to send South Vietnamese troops against North Vietnamese forces in North Vietnam itself and said that Hanoi "really fears" such a move. He said the Communists were losing the war and that South Vietnamese troops intended to keep the pressure on the enemy in both Laos and Cambodia.

South Vietnam's new offensive through the A Shau Valley began last Wednesday and Saigon headquarters shrouded details of the campaign, named Lam Son 720. Asked about its size and purposes, the official spokesman for South Vietnam headquarters said: "We have nothing further to say about this operation because there has been no contact."

The new drive followed Lam Son 719, the 45-day South Vietnamese offensive into Laos which ended April 3 and reportedly inflicted heavy damage on Communist supply areas. The A Shau Valley lies near a Communist supply dump known as Base Area 611 which has been the target of two South Vietnamese commando raids since the main Laos drive ended.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam Saturday, battlefields were reported quiet. Gen. Ngo Duc, commander of South Vietnamese troops in the strategic Central Highlands, said his men defending Fire Base 6 had their quietest day since a North Vietnamese siege began March 31.

Candidacy disavowed

LONDON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Saturday he would not be a candidate "under any circumstances" in the 1972 presidential elections.

The Massachusetts senator, arriving in London from Bonn, told newsmen "You won't find me in the contest for 1972."

"I have indicated that I would not be a candidate under any circumstances," he said.

Force hunts Seen... explosives

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British troops mounted large scale searches for arms and explosives Saturday in the wake of new extremist bombings.

More than 500 soldiers using metal detection gear, mechanical diggers and drills hunted extremist munitions caches in an effort to head off weekend violence.

Early Saturday, a bomb blew out windows and door of shops along half a block of one downtown Belfast street. Flying glass injured a young man and woman standing in front of one salesroom.

The blast on Franklin Street followed by about an hour an explosion at the home of Magistrate John Fox who on Friday remanded in custody three men charged with possessing loaded firearms.

Political sources said the three men were known to be prominent in the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), which seeks to divide Northern Ireland from Britain and unite the province with the Irish Republic to the south.

Army searches focused on two areas of Belfast and near the village of Ballyreagh close to the Irish Republic border.

Attending the meeting in Helena, Mont., Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be City Manager Jean Miller, City Engineer George Michaels and Jerry Morse of the engineering department as well as Airport Manager Harry Merrick.

Miller said about 100 to 150 public works officials usually attend the meeting. Next year it will be held in Twin Falls, he said.

Twin Falls Police Capt. Tim Qualls said Dennis Jacobs, 19, was originally arrested for driving while under the influence. He said a packet of marijuana was observed inside Jacobs' vehicle.

The arrest occurred about 1:30 a.m. Saturday.

BURLEY — Gary Allen Brethauer, 28, died of injuries received in a one-car accident Thursday afternoon 20 miles east of Rupert on Interstate 15.

Yank team heading homeward

TOKYO (UPI)—Members of the U.S. table tennis team arrived in Tokyo Saturday night en route home from an historic visit to Communist China that left them convinced their "ping pong diplomacy" had opened the way toward friendlier U.S.-Chinese relations.

The 15 Americans returned to Hong Kong earlier Saturday, wearing Mao badges and laden with souvenirs of their one-week visit to Peking, Shanghai and Canton. They said they found a "genuine friendship" in China for the American people, and said the Chinese had been gracious and hospitable.

"It's the beginning step toward the direction of friendship between China and the United States," said the team coach, Jack Howard of Seattle, Wash., of the tour that ended a 22-year deep freeze in Sino-

American relations.

An American table tennis official, Ralph Harrison, of Wilmington, Del., said he had invited the Chinese team to play in the United States, and they "reacted favorably."

In Tokyo, Graham B. Steenhoven, president of the U.S. Table Tennis Association, told newsmen: "I want a Chinese team to come to the United States. We asked them in many ways and times. If the Chinese accept, the U.S. Table Tennis Association will host them—as they did us."

Steenhoven, of Detroit, Mich., said the Chinese wanted the Americans to stay longer. "They regretted our leaving so early," he said. "They said this was too short. But we had a schedule and we followed it."

Steenhoven said he and a first group of team members would leave Tokyo Sunday morning (Japan Air Line Flight 52) and were scheduled to arrive at Los Angeles at 11:50 a.m. EST Sunday. Some other members will leave on a second flight (JAL 2) due in New York at 6:50 p.m. EST Monday.

But individual reactions to life in China ranged from enthusiasm to a feeling of depression. One player liked it so much he asked to stay on, but was turned down by the Chinese. Another said it was a good place to visit, but he wouldn't want to live there.

One woman member was dismayed at the drabness of life under Communist rule. Another noted that men and women were rarely seen together. And another was in tears as she crossed the border into Hong Kong. But all agreed it was an unforgettable experience.

"It's like a dramatic movie," wrote Mrs. Geraldine Resek of New York City in a diary she kept of the trip.

After lunch in Hong Kong the Americans flew to Tokyo on two airliners for an overnight stop before flying on to the United States Sunday.

An Air France jetliner with eight of the 15 Americans arrived at Tokyo International airport shortly before midnight Saturday. A Japan Airlines flight with the other seven Americans landed a few hours later.

The U.S. table tennis officials, players and wives spent the night in Tokyo's famed Imperial Hotel before their flight home from the trip that saw Chinese Premier Chou En-lai say a "new page" had been turned in relations between the United States and China.

Theirs was the first group visit to Red China since the Communists drove Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek from the mainland in 1949. The Peking regime also allowed a small group of newsmen into China to report the visit. They remained in the country to cover the Canton trade fair.

President Nixon, who announced an easing of some of the longstanding restrictions on trade with China during the team's visit, said in Washington Friday night he hoped to be able to visit China some day but said formal diplomatic relations with Peking were still a long way off.

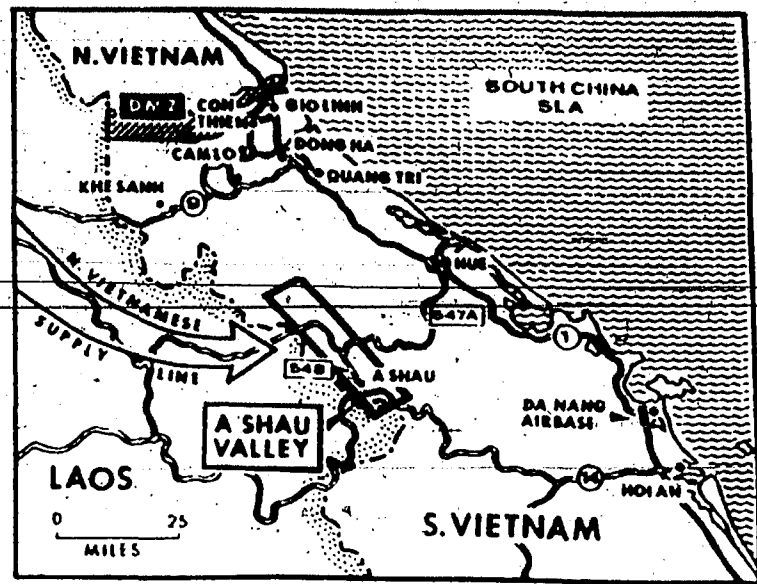

The Americans arrived in Hong Kong by train from Canton, where they had spent a final hectic night that included attendance at a ballet staged and directed by Chiang Ching, wife of Communist party chairman Mao Tse-tung.

"Everybody was enchanted by this trip," said Errol Resek. Olga Soltesez, 16, Orlando, Fla., said the visit was a real eye-opener and it might do other American young people good to go there and see how good they have it at home.

"I was a little depressed," Miss Soltesez said. "The countryside was really desolate. They have had poverty problems."

John Tannehill, 19, Middletown, Ohio, had nothing but good to say about Communist China. "China is great—it is all Mao thought," he said.

Glenn Cowan, a 19-year-old Santa Monica College student, whose shoulder length "hippie" style hair created a sensation among Chinese, described the experience as "new, different."

Warehouse destroyed in Friday night fire

TWIN FALLS — Charred ruins were all that remained Saturday of a warehouse at Sound Ltd., which burned Friday night, causing an estimated $60,000 damage.

Ron Victor, owner of the firm on Blue Lakes Boulevard North, was in the store when the fire started in the warehouse east of the store about 11:20 p.m. He said "within two minutes the whole place was on fire."

Three trucks from the Twin Falls City Fire Department and large crews of men, including 13 who were called in from off duty, responded to the blaze. It was brought under control in about 30 minutes, but the last truck did not leave the scene until 1 a.m. Saturday.

The fire raged through the wood frame storage building, and ate into the rear of the store proper.

Firemen said it is believed the fire was started by a spark from a trash fire on the lot. The fire began in lumber piled in the former lumber yard now occupied by Sound Ltd.

The wind-whipped blaze quickly consumed the warehouse and firemen used streams of water to keep the damage in the store to a minimum. The rear of the store was charred and equipment in the rear of the building was lost. Tubes from stereo equipment were melted by the intense heat and broken glass melted into the carpets.

Victor, who owns the building with his father, Paul Victor, said the building was partially covered by insurance, but lost equipment was not.

Victor said the store will remain open and he plans to rebuild the warehouse.

Driver hurt when car flips at turn

TWIN FALLS — The driver of a car which failed to negotiate a turn at a city intersection early Saturday morning was reported in fairly good condition Saturday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Dennis G. Pounds, 20, was charged with driving while intoxicated, Twin Falls Police said. They said his vehicle was traveling east on Heyburn Avenue when it attempted to turn north onto Buchanan Street. The vehicle rolled twice, officers said.

Passengers in the vehicle, David Montgomery, 19, Twin Falls, who was treated and released from the hospital, and Terry Ochsner, 19, Twin Falls, who was not injured, were charged with illegal possession of beer. All three have posted bond.

Militant pair get life terms

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI)—Black militants David Rice and Edward Poindexter were found guilty Saturday of the bombing death of Omaha Policeman Larry Minard Sr. They were sentenced to life imprisonment.

The jury of nine women and three men deliberated 25 hours before reaching a verdict.

Rice, 23, dressed in a yellow turtleneck shirt and slacks, and Poindexter, 26, clad only in denim jail garb, were expressionless when the verdicts were read.

The trial began April 1. The prosecution called 32 witnesses and the defense summoned 14 during the case.

Minard died and several other police officers were injured when they answered a phony distress call at a vacant house on Omaha's near North Side last Aug. 17.

A suitcase rigged with three sticks of dynamite, which partially blocked the open doorway to the house, exploded when Minard apparently picked it up or touched it.

The key prosecution witness in the trial was 16-year-old Duane Peak, a member of a black militant group, the Nebraska Committee to Combat Fascism, in which Rice and Poindexter were officers.

Peak said he helped Rice and Poindexter rig the suitcase to explode when touched, and admitted it was he who made the call which lured the officers to the vacant house.

Peak, who also faces first degree murder charges, is expected to be given a lesser charge for turning state's evidence.

Gem Jaycees elect

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce selected new state officers Saturday in their annual convention here.

Fred Manthey, Mullan, was selected president. Manthey will replace outgoing president Jim Heath, Meridan.

Other Jaycee officers include Ray Voxz, St. Anthony; Lee Judy, Cascade; and Bob Bosworth, Bonners Ferry. The three members were selected national directors for Idaho.

The Idaho Jaycettes picked Mrs. Jean Miller, Boise, to replace Mrs. Rich Cretton, Caldwell, as the president of the wife's auxiliary. The new state treasurer is Mrs. Jack Botts, St. Maries.

The yearly session was attended by 250 Jaycees and 125 wives. The state officers were to be installed Saturday evening at the inaugural dinner and dance at the Bannock Motor Inn.

Guilty plea filed

TWIN FALLS — A plea of guilty to a charge of second degree burglary was entered Friday in Fifth District Court by Monte J. Sanborn, 27, Twin Falls.

Sanborn was originally accused of first degree burglary in connection with a break-in at Buttreys Foods on March 8, 1971. On motion of Prosecuting Attorney Leon Smith, the charge was reduced during arraignment Friday before Judge Theron Ward.

Sanborn earlier had waived preliminary hearing in the lower court and was bound over to district court. His plea of guilty was accepted by Judge Ward who ordered a presentence investigation open motion of Sanborn's defense counsel, Rudy Barchas of the public defender firm of Rayborn, Rayborn, Webb and Pike.

He was returned to custody at the county jail pending sentencing.

In adopting the Finance and Administration Committee recommendation for increased aid during the 1972-73 school year, the delegate assembly also called for some type of statewide tax increase to pay for it.

However, the assembly did not spell out just what type of tax increase should be made to come up with the necessary money to finance the boost.

WASHINGTON — It is more evident each day that making peace in the Middle East will be, in the words of a knowledgeable diplomat, "a process and not an event."

That is to say that, after centuries of hatred and unrest, early argument and instant amity are not in the cards. That comes as a blow for some officials, especially in the State Department, who had envisioned a quick Middle-East settlement as a Nixon Administration master stroke.

The slow and uneven nature of the peacemaking process was very apparent last week. Statements in Cairo and Jerusalem seemed to set back the prospects for a Middle East agreement and increase the already substantial risk of renewed fighting.

From Cairo came warnings that this month will be decisive as to whether there will be peace or war. That was a threat to Israel in support of the new proposal by Egypt's President Anwar Sadat for a reopening of the Suez Canal.

Syria and Lebanon. Israel, according to knowledgeable sources here, is also willing to proceed for a while through the indirect offices of UN intermediary Gunnar Jarring, though direct talks with Arab leaders have been a recurring Israeli demand.

From Jerusalem came a flat rejection of Sadat's latest Suez proposal. Israel's President Golda Meir declared that Egypt should not be rewarded for reopening the waterway, which was closed by Egypt's actions. In all of this it should be noted that things are not as bad as they appear. Bluster is a part of Egypt's game plan, and some specifics of Sadat's new proposal, which would station Egyptian troops east of the canal, are less attractive to Israel than those of the Suez plan he advanced in February.

Moreover, Mrs. Meir's tough talk was made to keynote the national convention of the United Israel Labor Party. Since the principal opposition to Mrs. Meir's government is militantly hawkish, it is understandable that her home-consumption, politically-oriented comment was made of very stern stuff.

In any event, despite appearances, it is reliably reported here that Israel is willing to negotiate its differences with the Arab states, over borders, Palestinian refugees, the canal and such, on a phased basis — that is — negotiating one subject at a time rather than talking about overall packages.

Since Egypt is the most powerful of the Arab nations, and has Moscow as a very present ally, the Israelis are reported ready to deal first with Egypt and assume that acceptable arrangements could later be concluded with Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

It is important to understand that a settlement of what has been called the Middle East "crisis" would be just the beginning of a long-range peacemaking process as the diplomats understand it. A real Middle East peace may take generations.

That is why the Israelis are adamant about the need for boundaries which are secure and, if necessary, defensible. They fear that the old 1967 borders would be an open and continuing invitation to new aggression by new Arab regimes. They know from experience that international guarantees lose force — one way or another — after a while.

On Insulin

Dear Dr. Thosteson: As a recent diabetic, I must take insulin but the pharmacist refuses to fill the prescription because the doctor did not write which insulin strength should be used. He only wrote, "NPH 30 units daily."

instruments and several amplifiers constantly play bone-shattering music (?) in his small home.

The doctor says either type of insulin can be used, and the pharmacist says no, he must have better directions and advised me to change doctors. Will you comment, please? — H. M.

My daughter-in-law is seven months pregnant. These young men try to make up in volume what they lack in talent and it is making my daughter-in-law nervous and sick to her stomach.

Unless there's more to this dispute than meets the eye, your pharmacist is correct in saying that the strength of the insulin should be specified.

If she complains, he gets angry and turns the volume even higher. I have heard that this ear-piercing music can even affect the unborn child. Would you comment? — Mrs. B. L.

Usual strengths are U-40 (bottle with red label) and U-80 (green label), although other strengths are sometimes used for special cases.

I don't know of any reason why the racket should affect the unborn child, but I'd say your son's manners could stand some improving. If it bothers his wife, why don't they take their amplifiers to somebody else's house?

While either U-40 or U-80 ordinarily can be used, the appropriate amount must be measured out. Insulin syringes often have two scales, a U-40 scale on one side, a U-80 scale on the other.

And just what does your son expect to do after the baby is born and needs sleep?

BERRY'S WORLD

"I agree, Charles. We SHOULD think twice about future international commitments, too, but is this 'neo-isolationism' thing the answer?"

A Hell Of A Way

Around the turn of a century, during a railroad controversy, one official was quoted as saying: "That's a hell of a way to run a railroad."

Here it is nearly three-quarters through this century and the quote can still stand, with slight modification.

Today we are forced to say: "That's a hell of a way to run the Idaho Department of Aeronautics."

We have reference to the rather juvenile attempt to get rid of Chet Moulton, who has been director of the department for around 25 years. It seems that Cliff Hinkley, Lewiston, chairman of the State Aeronautics Commission, went to Mr. Moulton and asked that he resign. He asked him a second time. Both times Mr. Moulton neglected to give up.

Now we find that Mr. Hinkley's action was taken without conferring with the other four members of the Board and apparently after conferring only with Governor Andrus.

Mr. Hinkley's action is uncalled for. When the State Commission was named it was with the understanding they would work as a unit. No one individual would have any more "power" than any other member. The five members would decide what to do in any instance. No one member would make the decisions.

Now comes Mr. Hinkley. By his action in the Moulton situation he just has to be one of those individuals who lets a little power go to his head. These are the fellows who want to make all the moves, make all the decisions without conferring with anyone.

Like we said that's a "hell of a way to run the State Department of Aeronautics."

At this point in time it seems to us that if anyone should be moved out of the Department of Aeronautics it should be Mr. Hinkley. The Department of Aeronautics has been involved in enough controversy down through the years without getting involved in more of the same.

While we have disagreed with Mr. Moulton's policies from time to time, we resent the way in which the attempt was made to get rid of him. He has less than two years to go before retirement. Why not let him remain? The board has the final control of all things done within the Department so there will be no complications.

We hope that this juvenile step taken by Mr. Hinkley does not mean that is going to be the policy from now on out. If it is then we couldn't be more serious than when we call for the resignation of the Board Chairman.

We are not alone in our feelings. Opinion of airmen over this section of Idaho fits right in with the opinion we have expressed. It is our understanding that the full Commission will meet later this month. At that time the action taken should be to let Mr. Moulton remain where he is until his retirement.

And the board should run the show. It should not be run by Mr. Hinkley acting as an individual.

Mute Threats

H. Ross Perot, the Texas multimillionaire, continues to insist that the pressure of public opinion will eventually force North Vietnam to release its American prisoners of war.

"We hold the key to the release of these men in our hands," he told an audience at Baylor University in Waco the other day.

From a cultural point of view, he explained, the North Vietnamese don't think we should want these men back. But the good will of the American people is so important and the POWs so unimportant that the North Vietnamese are reluctant to anger the American public.

He notes that 85 per cent of the mail that has been received from the prisoners has come since pressure from the people began.

"You've got to couple persistence with patience to secure their release," says Perot.

In view of this, it may be unfortunate that President Nixon has begun warning Hanoi that some U. S. troops will remain in Vietnam as long as any Americans are held prisoner. "Face" is also important to the North Vietnamese.

It will be many months yet before U. S. troop strength in Vietnam approaches a residual token level. Until that point is reached, perhaps we ought to mute the threats and give public pressure that much more time to work.

Soviet Pacts

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — It is difficult to describe how very concerned high officials in the Nixon administration are over the present state of relations with the Soviet Union.

missile developments only after the first missile (or prototype) is displayed or put in its silo. This could be dangerously late.

There is a real desire here, clearly evident when one talks with any official dealing with the problem, for some sort of relaxation of tensions with Moscow.

ANDREW TULLY

A Solution

President Nixon, like President Eisenhower, in whose objectives Nixon has very great faith, believes that he would secure his place in history if he could achieve any sort of reasonable accommodation.

WASHINGTON — It is not surprising to learn—from high and impeccable White House authority—that President Nixon has a solution for what some administration aides irreverently call "the problem of Pope J. Edgar Hoover the First."

Equally important, if some working agreement is not achieved, it is difficult to see how the President can solve a host of other problems which plague the country and therefore plague his administration.

In short, Democratic critics of Hoover are now saying to Richard Nixon: "Let's you and J. Edgar Hoover fight."

Chief among these are a reasonable defense budget to make possible a step up in domestic programs, and end to the draft and real peace in Vietnam and the Middle East.

The President's plan is all tied up in fancy wrappings. It calls, not for the retirement of the FBI chief, but for his "promotion" to the special assistant to the Attorney General. In that post, the 76-year-old No. 1 gangbuster would preside over a huge office at the Justice Department, travel in a bullet-proof car and function as "the President's adviser to the FBI director."

It is not the attitude of the Russian negotiators at SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Talks) or on Berlin or the Arab-Israeli war that concerns the White House. The Russians are tough negotiators looking out for Moscow's interests and they fight, as expected, on every point.

The President wants to "elevate" Hoover, not give him the sack. Moreover, Nixon sincerely believes that in thus "rewarding" Hoover for his long and distinguished service the country will continue to benefit from Hoover's experience and law enforcement know-how.

The problem is that no arms or nonaggression agreement is worth the paper it is written on unless both countries have the will to enforce it.

In this treading gingerly, Nixon seems unaware that he is the one President who probably could get away with retiring Hoover. The President still has gilt-edge credentials with most of the citizenry in the middle-to right area of the political spectrum. Those in this area at least would try to understand if Nixon "elevated" Hoover; the move might even win the President a scattering of liberal votes.

There are cases where a means exists for quick, effective action against a violator, as in the accord on Cuba. In that situation, the Soviet Union has made a series of attempts to establish a missile-submarine base at Cienfuegos in violation of the agreement with President Kennedy. But they have been restrained by a combination of almost instant air intelligence and the ability of the United States to react.

There is another, more practical, consideration from the Nixon viewpoint. Even he cannot be absolutely sure of winning reelection, and he shrinks as from the plague from the thought that Hoover's successor might be appointed by a Democratic President.

In the case of a strategic arms agreement with Russia, it is virtually impossible to devise a sure means for enforcement. We discover advanced strategic

All this Byzantine maneuvering is concerned with two political facts of life: 1. J. Edgar Hoover has become a controversial figure who threatens Nixon's reelection. 2. The FBI boss still packs so much muscle with the general public that any move to replace him must be approached with the utmost prudence.

There is an amusing irony in the situation. Most of the demands for Hoover's head have come from Democrats. Yet during their recent eight years of power, both the late John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson paid the homage to Hoover which had become a tradition in the White House. Kennedy's first act upon assuming the Presidency was to reappoint Hoover. Johnson waived retirement requirements to keep the over-age director on the job.

MR. SPECTATOR

Electric Trousers?

Wear for men has come a long way. But the item of clothing which gives Mr. Spectator the most trouble are those new double-knit trousers.

They feel good, they look good and all that stuff but they generate so much electricity that we are practically a walking storage battery. Trotting back and forth over the Times-News wall-to-wall carpeting eliminates the need for anyone to sweep up the area. Why? Because the static electricity in the trousers has picked up everything not nailed down.

We heard that one manufacturer of men's socks was now putting out a "static free" article which would permit the double-knit trousers to hang at a graceful pattern over the legs of all men.

Be that as it may, this still doesn't say whether the electricity in the trousers will be reduced so that everything floating, or on the floor, will not be picked up.

A COAT IS FOUND

Anyone lose a jacket at the tennis courts on Pierce and Shoup Streets? We had a visit from Ward Bolster and he said he found one there and hauled it home for safe keeping. It is a green windbreaker and should fit a boy of about 12 years. If this answers the description of your lost jacket then give Ward a call at 733-4556.

Words Of Praise

Editor, Times-News:

May we place on record our sincere appreciation of the tremendous help we received from the police and the doctors and nursing staff of Magic Valley when we were called to Twin Falls as a result of a fatal road accident to Glenn Spicer and Bruce Wise.

We would especially like to thank Dr. W. H. Kramer and Dr. Harry F. Brumbach, Jr.

However, a most unhappy chain of events occurred which prevented us from reaching Glenn's bedside before he passed away and we mention it in the hope it will not happen to someone else.

Because the Twin Falls airport was closed because of runway repairs, it was necessary that we land at Boise. There (at Boise) the Air West ticket counter displayed no interest in our frantic attempt to reach Twin Falls, saying they were "too busy" and could not make alternate arrangements.

We then had to hire a taxi at the Boise airport. This taxi then proceeded all the way through Boise to the Hertz garage for a spare tire. Because of the delay it took us three and one-half hours to reach Magic Valley Hospital and by then it was too late.

We feel strongly that Air West, after taking an extra $20 unnecessary fare from us, should at least have tried to help us get to Twin Falls. They knew that was the original destination of our journey and they knew the desperate urgency.

EARL FAULKNER

A Golfer At Heart

He's a golfer at heart—but his score is a well-guarded family secret. It isn't even on the Blue Lakes Country Club board!

With Earl Faulkner that's the way it is. Golfing is just about his only hobby because most of his waking hours are engaged in the merchandise business in Twin Falls. The long hours are typical of those of a merchant and yet, like others and in addition to golf probably once a week, he finds time to devote much effort to the betterment of the community in which he resides.

He came to Twin Falls in 1949 as manager for the then new C. C. Anderson Co. store. Previous to that he had been with Montgomery Wards for more than 20 years and had been here and there across the United States. In Twin Falls he found a place to settle and so in 1952 he purchased The Paris from Milton Lehman. He and his wife, Hazel, took over the business on January 1, 1953. She was a former teacher at the college at Gooding.

The business prospered and in 1963 they opened The Paris, Jr., in the Lynwood. They sold out that store on June 1, 1970, and started an enlargement program in the downtown store. This enlargement is still going on and Faulkner admits to "many ideas" coming up in the immediate future.

During World War II he roved over the South Pacific as a master sergeant in the United States Army. His "hops" of duty included the Marshalls, New Caledonia, the Philippines and Japan.

His community work program is varied and extensive. He was one of the "pushers" behind the Mall development in downtown Twin Falls and says "this has to be, without question, the best thing that ever happened to Twin Falls since the first water arrived." He has been president of the Chamber of Commerce, led two fund-membership drives of that organization, and believes the Twin Falls City-County Airport is the "life blood" of the community.

He has—and still does—take an active part in Christmas decoration plans. He is keenly interested in city and state government, is a member of the Republican party and thinks everyone should get interested in politics so they will "really know why things happen."

Although he's traveled extensively, he didn't settle down far from his first home because he was born in Boise.

He's for a balanced economy for the community and against heavy industry but for light industry.

As an aside, it might be pointed out that if you are content with walking from point to point, don't bother to follow Faulkner because his normal gate is a dead run.

He and his wife live at 1740 Maplewood Drive—when they are not community working, that is.

It Is So Typical

By PHYLLIS K. COLONNA
Times-News Writer

Nestled deep in the French countryside, unadvertised and almost unknown, is a small village named Oradour-sur-Glane.

So typical is it of other villages in the area that the tourist is almost inside before he has time to remark it at all.

Only two simple signs, one as you enter and one as you leave, catch your attention and admonish: "Silence, souvenirs." Be Silent, and Remember.

Remember what, for Heisen's sake, you wonder. And then it begins to dawn on you that this village is different, and there is indeed, a profound silence.

The small houses look the same as all other small French country cottages. Or they did once. They stand, many of them, with doors open. Inside, tables are set for dinner, and children's toys are strewn, abandoned in haste, upon the floor. Bicycles stand ready at the door.

But others are roofless facades, still others mounds of rubble.

one man, woman or child, except the occasional tourist who happens into it.

More than 25 years ago, it was explained to me, two German officers were killed, several miles away, by unknown members of the French Resistance. In retaliation, another German officer swept into the town, with soldiers under his command.

First he ordered all men, from boys to those in their late 80's, against the wall. There they were machine-gunned before their shocked and disbelieving families.

Then he herded the rest of the townspeople — the women, children, and babies of the village — into the small church, sprayed it with gasoline, and burned them alive.

Afterwards planes were called in to bomb the empty streets and houses.

Horrible. Unbelievable. But then (it's easy to say 6,000 miles and a quarter-century away), war is war.

Burley. Originally from Denmark, she spent World War II under the German occupation.

"These people (who say there is no cut-off point for what is acceptable or necessary in combat), they have never been in a war," she said, obviously close to tears.

"They just don't have any way to know what it is really like. Denmark was not the hardest hit, and I was not so unlucky as most. But when you have seen members of your family, who did nothing, beaten or killed in front of your eyes...

When friends and neighbors you have known all your life are dragged away to be tortured for days, or to die under circumstances you can't even imagine... You feel differently.

"The men who did these things, they didn't have to. It wasn't because they had orders. They didn't have to do that."

I've heard it argued fervently and sincerely, by an idealistic Buhl high school girl, that what Lt. James Calley did was no different or more wrong than dropping a bomb on a military objective, a bomb which also "wastes" civilian lives.

I was discussing this a few days ago with Ruth Steiner. I have heard it argued just as

THE WAY IT WAS A Long Ways Back

MARCH 24, 1921
TWIN FALLS — To fund financial obligations with J. K. Mullen, capitalist in Denver, the Twin Falls Canal Company has arranged to issue notes dated April 1, 1921, payable annually. The total amount owing by the company to Mr. Mullen is $330,000. All notes will bear an 8 per cent interest. There are five of these notes on hand.

HANSEN — H. T. Henderson, Denver, civil engineer who has hitherto been engaged for about eight months in making surveys and estimates in anticipation of the Murtaugh Irrigation District to reclaim approximately 50,000 acres of land situated between Hansen and Murtaugh, will continue his activities in this direction.

TWIN FALLS — The new light-six Studebaker was advertised by the J. A. Barrett Auto Sales Co., located in the Masonic Temple Building. (Editor's note: this building was later purchased and used for years by the Times-News before moving to the present new location.) The touring car was listed at $1495; the Landau-Roadster at $1650, and the Sedan at $2150. This was F.O.B. South Bend, Indiana.

TWIN FALLS — With the adoption of a constitution and by-laws and the election of officers, organization of the Central Civic Association of Twin Falls was effected at a meeting Tuesday night of the delegates of a number of Twin Falls organizations assembled in the high school building. C. E. Wright was elected president; Mrs. W. H. Cloucheck, vice-president; Mrs. Merlin Batley, secretary, and Mrs. H. E. Deiss, treasurer.

Purpose of the organization is to promote and discuss general and intelligent questions affecting the welfare here.

TWIN FALLS — Miss Lucy G. Stricker and Mrs. Bernard Stricker motored over from Rock Creek Wednesday for a visit.

TWIN FALLS — A legal advertisement of Independent School District No. 1 in Twin Falls, showed, among other things, that Rose Murray (later Mrs. North) received a salary of $150 as school principal; Juanita Sutcliff, teacher, $130; Clara Billiar, teacher, $110; Alma Benoit, teacher, $110; Hattie Jenkins, teacher, $100; J. T. Bainbridge, teacher, $72.50.

TWIN FALLS — Through the efforts of H. E. Powers, county farm bureau agent, farmers in the draught stricken sections of this district will get the benefit of nearly twice the amount of federal money allowable under the terms of the federal farm loan act.

TWIN FALLS — Mr. and Mrs. A. Brossseau have returned from California where they spent the winter.

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — Mrs. T. J. Foster, Twin Falls, who underwent an operation the first part of this month for removal of an ulcer, will have to undergo a second operation in the immediate future for removal of her appendix.

MARCH 31, 1921
TWIN FALLS — Those who care to drive to Shoshone Falls this evening about 6 o'clock will have an opportunity of witnessing the passage over the falls of the largest body of water to go over in a good many years. Released from Milner Dam in order that headgates can be repaired, it is estimated that 6,000 second feet of water will start over the brink at that hour.

SALT LAKE CITY — Ira Dern last night won two of three falls from Mike Yokel in a wrestling match.

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. E. C. Lavering entertained the Wednesday bridge club at her home in the Colonial apartments. Members in attendance were Mesdames V. H. Ormsby, C. H. Burton, L. T. Wright, A. P. Senior, W. H. Greenhow, George Easley, Wilbur Hill, H. G. Thorpe, R. R. Spafford, L. F. Morse, E. B. Williams and Miss Cora Greenhow. Mrs. L. T. Wright won the club favor.

TWIN FALLS — (From an Editorial) — No question of more vital concern to Twin Falls has ever been presented than that on which the electorate will be called upon to pass judgment on April 8 when they must determine whether or not the Board of Trustees shall be authorized to issue school warrants in the sum sufficient to keep the schools open until the end of the school year. We must vote to authorize the payment of the schools' debt on April 8 or we must confess ourselves of too small calibre to continue any longer a city and community such as we have boasted Twin Falls to be. (Editor's note — the proposal was approved by the vote of April 8.)

TWIN FALLS — In an advertisement, the Electric Shop of the Idaho Power Co. offered $10 for "your old washer during April toward the purchase of a new automatic electric washer and you can buy it on special terms of $10 down and $10 a month."

(Editor's note: The items in today's column were taken from issues of the Twin Falls Daily News on the dates listed.)

ferently and sincerely, by an idealistic young German student, that gassing six million Jews in concentration camps was no different from executing Barbara Graham or Caryl Chessman in American gas chambers. Both were ridding their country of unwanted inhabitants, he said.

Do all Germans feel this way? Did all German soldiers do these things? Certainly not. No more than all Americans would do what it is said Lt. Calley did. And therein lies the point.

One more memory keeps pushing to the surface of my mind, insisting it is relevant. It is of an old family dog named Tip, and a troubled boy from a neighboring city. The dog had been a beloved companion of my brother almost from the time both were born. But the time came when, old and blind and feeble, Tip had to be put out of his misery.

My brother was told to get the .22 rifle and take him on one last walk to the rimrock.

The boy was a concern of some friends in Salt Lake City. He was so unreachable, had been in so many different kinds of trouble, that they asked us to let him spend the summer on our farm. He went along on the walk.

When the time came to aim the rifle and pull the trigger, my brother found it almost impossible. So the boy from the city offered to do it for him.

If my brother had done it himself, old Tip would have died as fast and as cleanly as it is possible to die. But the city boy didn't share my brother's sense of values.

So Tip died yowling and cowering, blindly trying to escape an uncomprehended assailant, while the boy — laughing and shouting and running after him — pumped bullet after bullet into every part of his body, except a vital area that would put an end to the dog's life and his own pleasure.

Was Lt. Calley guilty of premeditated and brutal murder? I don't know. I didn't hear and see the evidence. Those who did say he was.

I do know there are men who kill — other men; old dogs; and even terrified, trapped children — not because they HAVE to, but because they LIKE to.

And there are others, that have gone before them, will come after them, and are standing right beside them — who do not.

There is still another group — perhaps not so bad as the first, perhaps even worse — who consider anyone different from themselves as somehow less than human. Who don't really think or feel about anyone of a different race, religion or appearance at all.

The issue is not whether American presence in Vietnam is justified, or whether any action in any war is justified. The issue is not whether there is a better way of determining a man's guilt or innocence than bringing him to trial before a jury of his peers.

The issue is to determine to which of these three categories of men Lt. Calley belongs.

As to the infallibility of mass public sentiment, it might be well to keep in mind so near the Easter Season that 2,000 years ago public opinion was unanimous in its outcry for the full pardon of a prisoner named Barrabas.

Talent Is Here

Editor, Times-News:

We, the people of Magic Valley, are very fortunate to have the talent we have available to entertain us. Believe me, they are above average. It seems some people just don't know how to make good use of what we have. That's my opinion after talking to countless people.

I base this opinion on the fact I attended the Country Western Music Jamboree all three nights and was amazed at the large attendance. I was also alarmed at the apparent dismay of the performers. So I began talking to people and the longer I talked the more confused I became.

Some of the answers were: "There aren't just enough good bands playing this year," and "it's just an all-voluntary, no pay deal, so what do you expect."

If there are better bands and performers around why are they not here? Perhaps they are too busy to participate in such a cause. At least half the people I talked to knew what they were talking about. The people who told me we had excellent talent around the valley were right.

On April 6 a benefit dance was given for a disabled fellow musician (Kurt Smith). A friend wanted me to attend this with him because performers from this immediate area were performing. I got the surprise of my life that night.

When the Walden Brothers made their brief but wonderful appearance, I took notice. As the different bands were making their contributions on stage, I started to really enjoy the evening. I will agree the McBride Brothers were fabulous.

But everyone had their favorite performers and we had a wide choice. Besides the Walden Brothers and the others there was Slim Dossey, Penny Callen, David Starr and the Misfits, Jay Hightower and the Beltones, just to name a few.

I don't want to misguide the public or make anyone angry at me. There were some good performers at the Jamboree. It's just that it could be so much more interesting and use some upgrading. I am sure that if it continues the same course as the last performance, it will lose its popularity. That would be a shame because it is such a worthwhile cause.

A Real Problem

Editor, Times-News:

Idahoans have always been proud of their state. The natural beauty of its outdoors gives them every right to be proud. Thousand Springs area, Shoshone Falls and Ice Caves, Coeur d'Alene Lake, Red Fish Lake, Sawtooth Mountain Range and Bruneau Desert, just to name a small number.

With all this scenic beauty few have imagined the nationwide move toward ecology as being alive in Idaho. A few of the students at Wendell High School, moved by the Student Council's S.C.O.P.E. program (Student Council On Pollution And Environment) decided that Idahoans do indeed have a problem with pollution. If the citizens realize the dirty air around Pocatello and Lewiston they can see not enough has been done.

Few realize that our Snake River is 65 per cent polluted in some places. What is even more disastrous is that in our conservative state the general opinion, when it comes to protecting our environment, is complacency. Our citizens don't really blame for this attitude because no one has ever really had to worry about the saving of our state.

But instead of publishing more high statistics on polluted air, spending more money to develop our parks, just to spend even more to clean them up, then blaming it on someone else, let's all seriously consider our part.

Consider how much money would be saved in the long run if we spent a little now to put pollution controls on a few of the thousands of smoke stacks in the state. If everyone stopped throwing litter out of their car windows, we could save enough money by not having to have clean-up crews to put a lot of money in other departments of pollution control.

If we must, let's stop thinking of our pocket books and start thinking of the irreplaceable beauty of our state.

To get the ball rolling, April 22 has been designated by S.C.O.P.E. as clean-up day. Students at Wendell are hoping to have a program in memory of our polluted state.

Then we are going out to clean up our area. Don't let Wendell show the rest of Magic Valley up. Everyone in every town, please do your part! It's your fault if our state doesn't continue to be one of the most beautiful places in the world to live.

The Letter

Editor, Times-News:

I wish to thank Mr. Calhoun for his letter in Sunday's Times-News Forum. Every sentence in his letter was not only absolutely true, but also well expressed.

I would like to add this question to Mr. Calhoun's fine letter.

"When the restraints of God's law are cast aside, it is found that the laws of man are inadequate to hold in check the powerful tides of human passion and the nation is swept on to revolt and anarchy."

"Government leaders, clergy and all law enforcement agencies are compelled to submit to the atrocities of an excited and maddened people."

Prayer For This Time

God, I wasn't going to get scared at every little pain. I slipped again. I could see myself with ulcers, heart attack or cancer. How foolish I am! Knowing you said, "As your

Childhood special eyed

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Parents, ever alert for information and enlightenment on the complexities of raising offspring, may tune in "Childhood: The Enchanted Years" Thursday, April 22.

The hour-long NBC-TV special is devoted to the very young child, from birth to the time he toddles off to kindergarten.

Producer-director Nicolas Noxon, who has two youngsters of his own, said the show reaches no hard and fast conclusions but offers new and exciting scientific studies of the human baby.

"There seems to be a definite relation of pre-natal influence that affects a human being's temperament as much as heredity and environment," Noxon said.

No authority himself, the producer went on to say, "We show development of babies from time of birth to three years old and a consistency of characteristics."

"Various scientific studies which are touched on in the show offer the universal concept that a child receives from nature a certain set of directions on how to use the human equipment."

... some of these fundamental basics are not related to learning at all.

"They conclude that a child left to its own devices isolated from other human beings, would learn to walk upright of its own accord."

"Essentially our show is all about how the human-being comes to be. The newborn infant has none of the human qualities as defined by an unbridled dictatorship."

"Personally, the contents of the show are fascinating to me. There are new ideas and theories advanced by authorities in developmental psychology."

Noxon said scientists are taking a close look at the interactions of environment, heredity and pre-natal influences.

The show itself is guarded in the age-old dispute between environment and heredity.

Be wary of . . .

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Things to be wary of on television:

Doris Day giggling. Esther Williams' old movies. The Osmond Brothers, who mistake physical movement for talent, as indicated by their singing performance Wednesday night on ABC's variety special, "Changing Scene."

"The Brady Bunch," an incredibly tasteless series about a widow and widower who get married and live together with all their noisy brats.

"Let's Make a Deal," which makes "The Brady Bunch" seem like elegant entertainment.

"The Interns," a series about poorly-paid, richly-dressed, gorgeously-coiffed young doctors who look as though they couldn't deal with a hangnail.

The Merv Griffin show.

The young European singing sensation, Helntje, who appeared on "Changing Scene" Wednesday night, and whose weepy songs (about how wonderful mamas are—and so forth) make Lawrence Welk's music seem wildly contemporary by comparison.

Fears Chinese

DAL JOON LEE, four-time Open Table Tennis champion of the U.S., regrets he is not in China with the U.S. team. A native of South Korea and strong in his anti-Communist feelings, Lee says he turned down an invitation to accompany the team, fearing the Chinese would not let him leave. (UPI)

Integration on TV waning

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Program integration of blacks on television appears to have been a phase or a fad of two or three years which is now on the wane.

Show business, one of the most bigot-free industries in this nation, apparently discovered it was too far ahead of viewers.

The 1971-72 season has fewer black regulars scheduled for the tube than any time in the past four years.

Only Flip Wilson, with his own show, Clarence Williams of "Mod Squad" and Rupert

Crosse in "The Partners" co-starring with Don Adams will be especially visible on the tube in the coming season.

Returning with black cast members are "Room 222," "Mannix," "Ironside," and "Mission: Impossible." But that's about it.

It is difficult to assess the whys and wherefores of the diminishing number of black faces on the tube. Can it be ascribed to changing attitudes in American life, the economics of television or is it the all American predisposition for fleeing "in" causes?

'Partridge Family' star has own brood at home to match

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Shirley Jones, Oscar winner and star of "The Partridge Family," has a brood at home to match the family she heads on the television series.

Her three sons are Shaun, 12; Patrick, 9; and Ryan, 5. Her step-son, David Cassidy, is the star singer on the show.

Shirley is blonde, pink and beautiful off-screen as well as on. Better still, she is as devoted to her offspring as she appears to be toward her make-believe youngsters on the show.

Every weekend when the ABC show is in production Shirley plans special projects for her sons. They go out for lunch, attend movies, go bowling, visit the beach or enjoy a picnic in the park.

"When I work all week the least I can do is spend my days off with the boys," she says.

She also finds time to be the wife of actor Jack Cassidy. They met while Shirley was starring in the film version of "Oklahoma!" and have been married more than 15 years.

The Cassidy home is English Country style in an exclusive area of Beverly Hills. It is not, however, typical California neo-Gothic.

The house is of the type commonly found on the outskirts of small towns in Massachusetts or Connecticut with a plentiful of fieldstone and white wood siding. Inside there are four fireplaces.

Cassidy holds a professional decorator card and is responsible for the lived-in, comfortable furniture. He made much of it himself, including a fireside bench, bar stools and the like. He designed and helped rebuild a sun room with a barbeque and pool table.

Jack and Shirley both laugh at the reaction of visitors who remark they have brought New England to California. Shirley is a native of Pittsburgh and Jack comes from Long Island.

Shirley is handy in the kitchen but holds no blue ribbons for culinary perfection.

She and Jack prefer plain foods. If she is proud of a single dish it would be corned beef and cabbage.

"We love kid food," says Shirley, "hamburgers, hot dogs and french fries."

Shirley and Jack had a one-day separation after a spat earlier this year. After a single night in a hotel, Jack returned to stay.

One of the reasons the Cassidys bought their home was the absence of a swimming pool. They didn't want their toddlers taking unsupervised dips. But the yard is spacious enough for softball games.

Shirley's working day begins at 6:30 at the Columbia Pictures ranch where she toils until 8 p.m. By the time she arrives home either Jack or the governess has fed the children and laid out a snack for Shirley. She refuses to attend social functions during the week.

Shirley is discontented about only one feature of the Cassidy life style: Jack must spend several months a year on the road in stock company productions.

"Right now Jack is making a pilot for a new series," Shirley says. "I hope it sells. If so, Jack will be home all year long."

Sentenced

BOISE (UPI) — Fourth District Judge Alfred C. Hagan has sentenced Phillip Allison, 18, Reno, Nev., to five years in state prison for possession of marijuana.

However, Judge Hagan retained jurisdiction of the case for 60 days, pending a recommendation for eventual disposition by Idaho Prison officials.

Police said when they arrested Allison last Oct. 26 near Boise Municipal Air Terminal, he was carrying a suitcase containing seven pounds of marijuana.

Singing soldiers

UNITED STATES Army Soldiers' Chorus from Washington D.C. will be featured in Twin Falls along with the United States Army Field Band at a concert set for the Fine Arts Auditorium at the College of Southern Idaho. Sergeant-Major Gene Coughlin is director of the soldiers' chorus. The concert starts at 3 p.m. and admission is by free tickets which have been distributed to persons requesting them. The concert is sponsored as a public service by the Times-News and the Associated Students of CSI.

Army field band, chorus appearing here April 25

TWIN FALLS — The United States Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus will play to a "full house" during the public concert at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium Sunday, April 25 at 3 p.m.

O. A. (Gus) Kelker, editor of the Times-News, one of the two sponsoring units, said Friday morning only 100 free tickets were left and distribution of these on a first come, first served basis will completely fill the auditorium.

The other sponsoring organization is the Associated Student Body of the college.

The band and chorus will visit Twin Falls on one stop in a nationwide tour. Twin Falls and Boise will be the only stops in Idaho. The 125 members of the band and the 30 members of the chorus will arrive the morning of the concert and will be housed at the Holiday Inn. They will remain in Twin Falls until the next morning when they leave for Boise. Three large passenger buses, three large transport trucks and three squad cars are used to move the organization. The band and chorus are based at Washington D.C.

Commanding officer and conductor of the band is Lt. Col. Hal J. Gibson. Sgt. Major Gene Coughlin is director of the chorus.

Although admission is free, tickets have been distributed so that all available seating space could be utilized, Kelker said. He said the hall will open at 2:30 p.m. the day of the concert and ticket holders will be seated first.

After that, any vacancies that might exist will be filled by non-ticket holders.

Disappearing dice problem in California school's 'math lab'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—One problem in the "Math Lab" at Wilson High is that the classroom dice keep disappearing.

But teachers in the informal math courses at the predominantly black high school would rather make new extra-large dice than face some of their old problems.

The dice are used along with games, phone books, maps, football scores and pool table trajectories in individualized, project-oriented classes for youngsters who don't plan to go to college.

In one class, a dozen teenagers work alone or in pairs at tables and desks scattered haphazardly around the room while one boy's tape recorder thumps out rock music. One youth sleeps through it all, and a teen-age girl feeds lunch to a small brother and sister brought to school for family day.

Clarence "Zack" Taylor, the math department chairman, wanders from student to student, asking if any need help. If the answer is "no," he asks enough questions of his own to make sure they know what they're doing.

Every Friday is game day. The 400 "Math Lab" students compete with each other and their teachers in a half dozen games donated by the 3M Company or play homemade math games put together by the instructors.

The lab started a year ago, replacing all general math and pre-algebra courses.

"We had all the traditional problems of traditional programs in ghetto schools: fights, a complete lack of interest, no control, and kids stomping out of class," Taylor said in an interview.

"Several of us got together and asked, 'What can we do to give these kids some experience in math?' We decided we had to get rid of the school things—books, desks in straight rows, the teacher standing in front of the class.

"So we developed our own materials. Teachers wrote up the projects so we can take students where they are and teach them what we can. There's no drilling, no set curriculum and they can take the course as many times as they want."

The teachers' first goal was changing attitudes and motivating students to study math. That's why they wrote 3M asking for the games, which are used to interest students in attending class. The $100 worth of games is about the only outside help the experimental effort has had.

Taylor quickly admitted that after two semesters, no great change has been noticed in math test scores.

"But we've changed attitudes

Fund eyed for priest

PACIFICA, Calif. (UPI)—Parishioners of an excommunicated Roman Catholic priest who was secretly married for seven years collected funds today to provide him with an income until he decides on a new career.

The Rev. Robert Duryea, 49, the father of a 5-year-old son named after Pope Paul VI, agreed Thursday to allow a committee of parish members at St. Peter's Church in this San Francisco suburb to seek donations.

"About 100 persons interested in helping in some way have given us their names and addresses," said Robert Verdeckberg, a recreation supervisor who announced formation of the committee to provide Duryea with financial assistance.

"We will meet Sunday to decide how best to go about this. We've received several checks—totaling about $100—but all we've asked for so far are names. My goal is to provide Father Duryea with financial independence for a year. The others will decide Sunday how they feel about it."

Members of the parish voted support for the ousted priest at a special farewell meeting Wednesday night, indicating they wanted him to remain as their pastor—which is impossible under church law.

Archbishop Joseph McGucken, who removed Duryea from his post Monday when learning of the marriage, indicated Thursday he was willing to receive a delegation from the priest's 4,000-member parish.

Self-helpers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)—Illinois became the first state in the nation to train 1 million persons in the practice of Medical Self-Help, according to the state Department of Public Health. The training involves 11 lessons offered to the public and designed to prepare persons to meet medical emergencies when a physician is not available.

Presbyterian Church elects two teen-agers

SAN ANSELMO, Calif. (UPI)—Two teen-agers here are believed the youngest officials of a Presbyterian church in the United States.

The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church formally elected Doug Harnsberger, 16, as an elder for a three-year term on the session, the church's lay governing body, and Michael Faw, 15, as a deacon.

Both high school students say they feel the Presbyterian Church is "probably the most progressive in demonstrating concern" for the problems of society.

And they say the older church members feel "the necessity for the ideas and the participation of youth" in meeting the church's obligations to society.

"I want to bring the church's generalized concerns about the war, the draft and other problems into the congregation's level," Harnsberger said.

"Another problem is that the pattern of worship doesn't communicate with me. I hope to work with the session on making the services more meaningful to youth."

The way the sermon is introduced turns young people off, regardless of the point the minister is trying to make," Faw said. He called for "restructuring the whole service to express the message." Faw suggested a series of short sermonettes by congregation members with differing viewpoints because "a great deal of the worth of our sermons is lost because they're one person's view."

He said he would like to see the church explore "different ways of worship—with music, with dance and other ideas—as a way of relating to other ways of life."

The Rev. John O. Najarian, the church's pastor, said the two youths were chosen by the congregation because they showed commitment to the church, not because they were vocal spokesmen for youth.

Getting ready

Full pay ordered for rail workers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson Friday ordered railroads to provide full wages and fringe benefits up to six years for any employee laid off or cut to lower paying jobs by discontinuance of passenger trains under the new Railpax system.

Hodgson, expressing "regret that the railroads and unions involved could not themselves" agree on a proposal, said his plan provided "fair and equitable protection" for adversely affected workers.

The labor secretary's plan, announced after weeks of negotiations between railroads and rail unions, was a compromise between what the two sides demanded.

Rail union sources said the unions probably would contest Hodgson's order in court and demand a prohibition against any employees being discharged because of passenger train cutbacks under the new National Railroad Passenger Corporation, a semipublic agency set up by Congress to save the passenger trains.

Hodgson's plan was more liberal for employees than the railroads had wanted. The Interstate Commerce Act now requires carriers to provide up to four years protection of employees discharged or demoted because of mergers or consolidations of railroads.

Hodgson's decision means the proposed Railpax contract may be submitted to the railroads, who now must decide whether to join the system. The other contract provisions already have been worked out. Railpax is scheduled to take over service on May 1.

If a railroad refuses to join Railpax, it must continue to operate its present passenger service for at least three years. The Rock Island Railroad, which was not included in any major Railpax route, has announced it will not join. The Southern Railway Company, which operates Washington to New Orleans passenger service, also is known to be seriously considering staying out of Railpax.

The Railpax plan, would reduce the present 285 intercity passenger trains to 184. Commuter service would not be affected.

Under the Hodgson plan, a worker's payment from the railroads would be reduced by an amount equal to any amount of money he may receive from another job.

The labor secretary gave dismissed workers the option of taking a lump sum payment of up to one year's salary in lieu of monthly cash payments. Any fringe benefits provided by the carriers will continue during the protective period, and dismissed workers will also benefit from any pay increases during his protective period.

Another bird has thin eggs

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—A University of California scientist says still another bird has started laying thin-shelled eggs—and thus is danger—because of DDT.

Robert W. Risebrough of the UC Institute of Marine Resources says he has found that eggs of the murre, a small penguin-like bird on the Farallon Islands, are 13 per cent thinner and the species "might be expected to experience lowered reproductive success."

Earlier research by Risebrough blamed the chemical for lack of births among brown pelicans on Anacapa Island off the Southern California coast.

The Farallon Islands, about 30 miles west of San Francisco, hold the largest sea bird colony in the continental United States, according to John Small who heads a bird observatory there.

Student efforts endorsed

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—An Oregon organizer of ecology groups Thursday urged students at the University of Utah to take the lead in the fight to preserve the environment.

"With direction and coordination and the support of the community, they (students) can handle problems which government finds too costly and too time consuming," said Brent English, a Oregon State University student.

English has been on a tour of Utah campuses. He spoke at Utah State University, Brigham Young University, Westminster College and Weber State College earlier.

He said a statewide organization using money from student funds should be set up to hire economists, lawyers, engineers and scientists to research environmental problems.

A $1 fee increase for each student would provide enough funds, he said.

China, FBI lead news

By LeROY POPE
UPI Business Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—The policeman's lot may become safer if not happier because of a new lightweight plastic body armor.

It also might be used by infantry soldiers as protection against mortar fire, the largest single cause of battle casualties.

For years, makers of law enforcement equipment and the defense industry have been trying to produce an effective body armor—light enough so policemen and soldiers could wear it without losing mobility and agility.

Now, Imperial Protector Co. of Compton, Calif., says it has perfected such an armored vest made of polycarbonate produced by Rowland Products Inc., of Kensington, Conn. The vest weighs only three and three-quarter pounds and can be worn under clothing without discomfort. It is being tested by 80 police departments in California and by the Army. Imperial Protector says the vest is effective against all pistol fire except a high velocity magnum, and few criminals use magnums.

"The vest can stop up to five bullets landing close together without harming the policeman," said Henry Nagahori, president of Imperial. The vest costs less than $50.

According to Federal Laboratories division of Breeze Corporations at Saltsburg, Pa., and Bangor Punta Corp., major marketers of law enforcement supplies, police departments are concerned about getting an effective lightweight body armor.

The firms presently sell laminated steel vests weighing seven to 38 pounds and complete armored suits for bomb demolition squads. The steel armor costs $75 to $350. It will stop even magnum bullets but a cop can't run very fast or grapple with a suspect easily if he's burdened with 10 to 30 pounds of armor. Consequently sales of steel body armor are not large.

Pinkerton's, Inc. has come up with a lightweight bomb suppression blanket made of fireproofed high-tensile nylon guaranteed effective against almost any kind of bomb made by amateurs. It weighs 23 pounds and sells for $150.

Pinkerton's has sold it to manufacturers, retail stores, hospitals, universities, police departments, schools, airports and even a racetrack. Since there were more than 5,000 bombings in the United States last year, Pinkerton's foresees a good market.

Rowland Products first attempted to introduce a transparent polycarbonate shield to be carried by police cars as a bullet stopping device. But they found modern police couldn't use a shield the way medieval swordsmen did.

But Imperial Products and Rowland are convinced they will have a big market with polycarbonate armor. In addition to mortar fire, the vest probably would protect soldiers' burp guns and other automatic weapons at some angles and ranges.

U.S. awaits red reaction over trade

TOKYO (UPI) — President Nixon has freed the American businessman to go back to China—provided the Chinese agree to let him in.

Trade with the Chinese mainland in "non strategic" goods was the most important of the five steps the President took Thursday to improve relations with Communist China.

The Chinese response remains to be seen, but it seems certain no large volume of cargo will be leaving American ports for Shanghai or Tsingtao soon.

Under communism, China has looked inward and has not been a great trading nation. Her total exports and imports have bobbed along at about $4 billion a year for the last five years. The U.S. Department of Commerce believes the figure rose to about $4.4 billion in 1970, the highest in several years. China usually sells slightly more than she buys.

In contrast, America's foreign trade runs around $70 billion a year, Japan's about $35 billion.

With a Communist government completely in control of foreign trade, China today is a far different place from the disordered, mysterious land where foreign businessmen were aristocrats before World War II.

China has been an unknown land to American businessmen for more than 20 years; Americans have no contacts there, and little knowledge of market conditions.

Nevertheless, many countries have contrived to do business with China and make money—Japan, Britain, Canada, Australia and West Germany, to name a few.

China's biggest purchases are factories and factory equipment, wheat, chemical fertilizers, and certain raw materials she does not produce herself. She buys about two million tons of steel a year, most of it from Japan, which can offer it at lower prices than the United States.

The raw materials include copper, rubber and items like platinum and diamonds for industrial use.

Many of the products China has to sell already are surplus in the United States—rice, soybeans, textiles and small consumer goods.

Missing U.S. marine adopted by town

BREA, Calif. (UPI)—The city of Brea had adopted a missing-in-action U.S. Marine. The reason is to spur a community-wide effort to learn what happened to him and, if possible, get him back.

In a proclamation approved by this Orange County suburban community, Mayor Edward L. Jackson declared that the city had formally adopted Stephen Hanson, a former high school football coach, who was shot down over Laos on June 3, 1967, and has been listed as missing in action ever since.

Jackson said "all residents and businesses of the city of Brea (are urged) to use all means at their disposal to secure information regarding the well-being of this brave American, and to assist his family who have waited so long to know his fate."

"I'm just real pleased," Hanson's wife, Carole, said. She has never received any word of her husband and his name has not been included on any list of prisoners of war.

Tourists not asked to stay

SANDPOINT, Idaho (UPI) — Idaho's Department of Commerce and development doesn't encourage tourists to remain in the state, according to one of its high officials.

Dick Renstrom, State Tourism director and second in command of the department, said, "We don't encourage tourists staying here...we want them to come and spend their money and go home."

Renstrom made the comments Thursday at a special tourism workshop sponsored by the Sandpoint Chamber of Commerce.

He also said his 1971 advertising budget had been cut by the Legislature by 25 per cent following Governor Cecil Andrus' recommendation.

Renstrom said this would adversely affect the coming year's national advertising campaign but that his department

Ex-military policeman trains dogs to guide blind persons

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (UPI)— During his four years as a military policeman, Ray Underwood trained attack dogs to crush an enemy's forearm with a single snap of the jaw. Today, as a civilian, he is one of only 21 men licensed by the State of California to train the same breed of dog to guide blind persons.

Underwood, a husky 28-year-old Californian, is on the teaching staff of Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., the largest training school for guide dogs and blind persons in the West.

Five of his colleagues on this 11-acre San Rafael campus also worked with attack dogs in the military.

The breed of dogs they trained then are the same they train now—Alsatisans, better known as police dogs or German Shepherds.

"Our dogs have to learn to help lead blind people, and they do their job just as well as the guard dogs did theirs," Underwood said.

Guide dogs for the blind also trains two other breeds—Golden Retriever and Labrador Retriever.

"The Golden Retriever is mild mannered and steady—a slow but very accurate dog," says Hap Haymen, a school representative. "The German Shepherd is on the other end of the scale, fast moving and active. And the Labrador sort of fits in between. We try to match the dogs to the student's age and personality." Classes of 150 blind men and women graduate annually after going through an intensive 28-day course. A typical class has included a professional football player blinded in an accident and now practicing medicine in Reno, Nev.; a city judge in southern California; a housewife in Walla Walla, Wash.; a student from Portland, Ore.; and an insurance salesman from Texas.

A student can't be any younger than 16, but old age is no handicap. One active student is now in his 90s.

Guide Dogs for the Blind began in 1942 as a charitable organization supplying dogs for veterans blinded in the war. Now, any blind person capable of handling a dog is eligible. The training, room and board are still free.

As soon as possible upon arrival, new students are introduced to the dogs they will live and work with, and take home after graduation.

The student is taken into a small room and seated a few feet across from the instructor. A third person then opens the door and the dog bounds in alone.

The animal recognizes the instructor and runs to him expecting an affectionate pat through an intensive 28-day course. A typical class has included a professional football player blinded in an accident and now practicing medicine in Reno, Nev.; a city judge in southern California; a housewife in Walla Walla, Wash.; a student from Portland, Ore.; and an insurance salesman from Texas.

"We have to transfer the dog's affection from the instructor to the student," Haymen said. "The animal will perform for the trainer but is not going to obey the student until they get better acquainted."

Much of the training takes place amid the crowds and traffic of downtown San Rafael.

"The dogs are already trained to stop for all up and down curbs, avoid holes, low overhangs and other pedestrians," Underwood said.

"They won't step onto a street if cars are coming and

Water decade critical

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 1970s will be a critical decade for water conservation, according to the head of a water treatment company.

"While population growth in this decade is expected to be less than 1.3 per cent a year, the lowest since the Great Depression, the 25 to 34 age group resulting from the postwar population explosion is expected to grow a spectacular 46 per cent, or four times the growth of this age-group in the 60s," says Walter A. Everrett, president of the Met-Pro Water Treatment Corp. of Lansdale, Pa.

"Since this is the prime age group for family formations, new homes and young families—largest potential users of water—are expected to put a huge strain on our water resources for the next decade and beyond."

Campaign area heads announced

TWIN FALLS — Area leaders for the Johnny Horizon clean-up campaign in Twin Falls County and starting locations for volunteer work crews were announced Saturday.

An area chairman has been named in each of seven areas of the county with assistant leaders working in each area to coordinate communications, pick up vehicles and work crews.

Commission Chairman William L. (Bill) Chancey said the program is shaping up as an even bigger event than last year in which 400 volunteers covered the county in a whirlwind battle against trash and litter.

The clean-up day for the county is May 8, Chancey said, and one final planning meeting will be held April 29. Working with Chancey as co-chairmen of the program are Robert Brock, Bureau of Land Management, and Commissioners Merl Leonard and Heber Loughmiller.

Herb Thorne has been named area leader for Murtaugh. Assistants are Garry Lee and Ed Uhlig. Workers in this part of the county will complete their area and meet at noon at the LDS Church lawn for a picnic lunch.

Other workers of the county will meet at the fair grounds in Filer for a picnic following work details.

In the Kimberly-Hansen area, chairman is Mrs. Robert Stradley assisted by Mrs. Ed King and Mrs. Bob Rhinesteln. Robert Bradshaw, Kimberly Advertiser will assist in Kimberly and Dick Stafford, A. F. (Swede) Lundy, Lew Munson and Frank Mogenssen will work in the Rock Creek recreational areas.

In Twin Falls, Emil Pike and Bill Nutting will be co-chairmen with Richard Shotwell, Al Peters of the canal company, and Dean Bennett and Ralph Sifford, Idaho State Police, assisting.

Organizational leaders will include Mrs. Sally Shillington, Camp Fire Girls; Karen Schow, Twin Falls High School; Jane North, CSI, and Dick Fuehrer, 4-H Clubs.

Filer Kiwanis will work in the Filer area with Richard Schweitzer, William Heaps and Harvey Maxson in charge.

Working in the Castleford and Buhl areas will be Bob Carnie, Buhl Highway District; Don Kramer, Jennings Pierce, both Castleford and Pat Turner, Jaycees, Buhl.

Hollister directors are Dave

Chadwick and Mrs. Steve Pastoor.

Volunteer crews will meet at the old hospital building in Twin Falls, the fair grounds in Filer, the city park in Buhl, high school in Castleford and in the center of town in Hollister.

High school students will meet at the high school in Twin Falls, with John Blaye, student body president and Miss Schow making arrangements. In Murtaugh workers will gather at Herb Thorne's market and in Kimberly and Hansen at the Kimberly Advertiser.

Commissioners said soil conservation districts, Boy Scouts, American Legion members, Bureau of Land Management staff members and trucks equipped with communication radio equipment, Twin Falls Canal Co. equipment and workers, highway districts, National Guard and Army Reserve units, Civil Air Patrol, schools, Camp Fire Girls, 4-H Clubs, U. S. Forest Service, churches and other organizations have already agreed to assist in the project.

By Frank Schell

From O. J. W., Jerome: Is a dime with a woman's head, facing left, LIBERTY around the top, worth anything. It is dated 1938. What Lincoln pennies are valuable?

Answer: The dime you have is called a "Mercury" dime, from the wings on the head. It was first minted in 1916 and continued until 1945, when it was replaced by the Roosevelt dime. Issues of 1936 are common and can be bought from dealers in brand new condition, for about $1.50. They were minted at Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco, and the San Francisco coinage is worth slightly less than the others. There are many Lincoln cents which command over face value. To quote them, briefly: 1909 — about 55 cents; 1909-S, from $11.50 to $20; 1909-S, VDB, from $75 up to $100; 1910-S, $1.40 to $3.75; 1911-D, 65 cents to $2.25; 1911-S, from $3.50 to $7.50; 1912-D, from 65 cents to $3.25; 1912-S, from $2 to $5; 1913-D, 35 cents to $2.40; 1913-S, $1.65 to $3.75; 1914-D, from $17.50 to $55; 1914-S, from $2.25 to $5; 1915-S, from $1.75 to $4; 1922-D, $1.25 to $3; 1922 (no D) $1.50 to $55; 1923-S, 40 cents to $2.75; 1924-D, $4.25 to $10; 1924-S, 25 cents to 1.35; 1926-S, $1.50 to $3.75; 1931-S, $10 to $20; 1933-D, 90 cents to $1.60.

All of these values depend entirely upon condition; the quotations given you range from good grade to very fine grade. (Good grade is most often found in circulation and indicates a coin with considerable wear. The date must be clear but Lincoln's bow-tie and ear are worn, and no grains show in the wheat stalks on the reverse.)

Many other early date Lincolns range in value from 5 to 25 cents, depending upon condition.

From A.V.S., Twin Falls: Can you tell me how much silver is in a silver dollar? How much can I get for silver dollars?

Answer: The United States coin standards for silver dollars are: Diameter, 1.5 inches, Thickness, .114 inches, Troy ounces, .859375, Grains, 412.5. Closing price for silver, on the market, as of March 31, 1971, was 1.837 1/2 per troy ounce. Dealers are currently paying from $1.90 to $2.25 each for circulated dollars, but the price fluctuates with the silver market. Uncirculated dollars are slightly above that, depending on the scarcity of the date and the current demand for the coins. Our former silver dollars were 90 per cent silver.

All silver coinage brings slightly over face value now, since it can be legally melted down into bullion.

Late coins (since 1964) contain only 40 per cent silver, and are therefore not particularly worth melting down, since face value would exceed the reclaimed value of the bullion.

Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o The Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Mind your money

By PETER WEAVER

Many readers have asked about party-plan purchasing — a "social" form of door-to-door selling. Products are usually sold at some friend's home with a coffee klatch or cocktails.

Is this a good way to buy? Yes — if you want entertainment and some convenience.

No — if you want the best price. If you are buying something like cosmetics or costume jewelry, price is less important. You can probably get the same type of product for less at a store, but the convenience and entertainment value of buying it in your own home or a friend's makes up for it.

When you get into the party-plan big leagues, price becomes much more important. You can easily sink $250 into a set of stainless steel pots and pans during the conviviality of a kitchen party.

To find out more about this unique type of selling, I asked Marilyn Reeves, researcher at George Washington University center for responsive journalism, to check into prices, product quality and the legal aspects. Here's her report:

There's a big price spread between most party-plan pots and pans and those top-line sets you can buy in stores. For example, West Bend stainless steel sets sell for $239 (26 pieces) at parties. Saladmaster sets sell for as high as $380 (26 pieces, plus a hope chest or flatware). Ekco-home-sale-sets sell for $249 (25 pieces). All are good quality.

But compare these prices with similar quality stainless products, such as Farberware, which is sold in stores at around $117 for 26 pieces and Sears' top-line which sells the same number for around $95. Ekco products are also sold in stores and are considerably less expensive than those sold in homes. Why? An Ekco salesman says the pots and pans sold in homes "have a 30-year guarantee, while those sold in stores have only a 15-year guarantee."

Length of guarantee is often a party-plan big selling point. So be careful with the wording of guarantees and make sure the manufacturer is well known and can be easily reached if something goes wrong years later. Tupperware, for example, has distributors in most major cities and they're authorized to exchange any products that rip or break.

Government lawyers claim party-plan sales are legally the same as door-to-door sales. An increasing number of states have laws which give consumers a "cooling off period" of three days after buying a product at home.

If there was high-pressure selling at the party and the consumer has second thoughts during this period, the seller must take back the product and refund the money. The Federal Trade Commission is proposing to make this "cooling off period" a national trade regulation affecting all interstate sales.

So far we've been talking about the buyer's side. Many women (and some men) go into party-plan selling as a means of making extra money. Novice entrepreneurs should be extra cautious in taking on party-plan sales projects. The Uniform Commercial Code holds the seller equally responsible (with the manufacturer) for guarantees. If the handle falls off a neighbor's frying pan in a couple of years, you could be held legally responsible.

Some companies offer prospective party-plan agents a special gift or a big discount if they invite friends or neighbors over for a sales party and a sale is made. This kind of deal is called "referral selling" and is illegal in all states. If your gift or discount depends on an actually making cash sales — look out — it's a warning signal.

Any prospective party-plan buyer — or seller — with questions about the ins and outs of this business or with complaints about any specific company should write: National Assn. of Direct Selling, 1730 M. St., N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036. You can also get the association's membership list and a new booklet with advice on making wise selections at home.

Wiring brings suit

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Manhattan mother is seeking $4 million in damages because she did not know the room where she told a psychologist the "intimate details" of her sex life was wired for sound.

Mrs. Jan Karp, in a suit filed Thursday, said when she learned her remarks could be overheard in another room she became "seriously distraught and overwhelmed, sick, emotionally distressed, inordinately embarrassed and sustained serious impairment of her well being."

The suit was filed against Columbia University, where the interview took place; the university's teacher college, and the interviewing psychologist, Gerald Berenson.

Mrs. Karp said she was alone with Berenson in an examination room Jan. 6. She said she was asked personal and confidential questions about her life and her "sexual proclivities, desire, behavior and experiences and her relations with her husband."

The suit claimed the room was mechanically equipped and she was observed and overheard by visiting graduate students during the consultation.

Jerome as Cathy is the first student from Jerome High School to participate in this family living experience, according to Mrs. Warren Kays, YFU local representative. Miss Aizawa will also attend Girls State shortly before she leaves for Japan the last of June and will return the end of August, according to Mrs. Kays. Emphasis is placed on a family living experience and Miss Aizawa will live with one family and learn the customs of the people in the area in which she is placed.

Miss Aizawa has not yet been notified who her host parents will be or what area she will reside.

Her father has two sisters living in Japan and it is hoped she will live within visiting distance of her relatives.

Each year YFU sends hundreds of American high school youths to other countries, according to Mrs. Kays.

To be eligible, students must have completed their junior year in school. Personal qualifications include good scholastic record, active participation in school and community affairs, good health record.

Miss Aizawa is a member of the National Honor society, belongs to Pep club, Spanish club, International club, Literature club and FBLA. She is a member of the Annual staff, on the YMCA pre-legislative youth council, has been on the student council for five years.

City officials chart convention

BURLEY — City officials from all Magic Valley communities will meet at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley, June 17 through 19 for the annual district convention of the Association of Idaho Cities.

Plans for the convention were drafted at a meeting Friday at the Ponderosa.

Chuck Shaddock, Burley city clerk and general chairman of the convention, told mayors and councilmen present from seven cities in the district that a barbecue will kick off the convention June 17.

Representatives from Jerome, Gooding, Twin Falls, Rupert, Burley, Murtaugh and Paul were present at the meeting.

Harold Wilson, Mayor of Paul, who is in charge of the barbecue, told those present that they have retained a musical group, "The Commentators," for live entertainment and are considering offering boat tours around the islands in the Snake River, and may have some fireworks displays at the barbecue.

The cities of Murtaugh, Gooding, Heyburn and Rupert each volunteered to host a coffee break during the convention, at an estimated cost of $35 each. On Friday and Saturday, the Burley golf course will be made available for the delegates to use, Shaddock said.

Also, on Saturday night, awards will be given to some of the golfers.

Mrs. Ted Smith, general chairman of the ladies' events, said there will be "well-manned" hospitality rooms this year. "We are also trying to get a golf tournament set up for the ladies," she said.

Other activities planned for the women include a style show, bridge tables, swimming pools, shopping tours and free time.

"We are also trying to plan activities for the children," she said.

Shaddock told the group that this year, even though Burley is the host city, it is up to all of the members of the District to help make the other delegates "feel at home."

Fair plans made

JEROME — John Steile Jr., chairman of the Jerome County Fair Board, said Saturday that plans for the 1971 Jerome County Fair are proceeding on schedule.

Steile said that the Fair Board has already signed with Ray Cammack Shows for a carnival.

Two nights of rodeo events will be held on Aug. 25-26; a contract is expected to be signed shortly for a night of featured western entertainment on Aug. 27, and the Idaho State Jamboree is planned for Aug. 28, Steile said.

Also, a night of special western entertainment is being sponsored and arranged by the Jerome Boosters club.

Steile said that improvements at the Fairgrounds are already underway and pointed out that Ernie Peterson, groundskeeper, is rebuilding the calf roping chutes.

Other members of the Fair Board are Ted Peterson, vice chairman. A new member of the board, Bob Henry, Eden. Henry replaces Mrs. Walter Shouse and was appointed by the county commissioners. Ralph Scott, Hazelton, Jim Rupert, Leroy Weigle and County Commissioner John Van Orman, all Jerome. Carl Stephens is secretary-treasurer.

Clinic's advances reviewed

HAILEY — Accomplishments of the Wood River Mental Health Clinic during the past year were reviewed Saturday during a policy planning session with all agreeing that the clinic had made "tremendous strides" in community service.

Fifteen persons were present to hear clinic Director Dr. Fred Kolouch say that the clinic's patient load had increased by 200 per cent during the past year with court referrals up from one in 1968 to 12 in 1970.

Present during the meeting was Magistrate William Grant, who said that before instigation of the clinic he had no alternative to but to confine persons needing consultation. He can now turn these people over to the clinic for help, he said.

Plans were discussed for a youth "hot line" whereby troubled youths could contact the clinic in time of trouble for consultation. The need for a place where youths can gather and converse, along with a youth recreational center, were stressed. Volunteer services from the clinic including groups working with senior citizens and psychological testing teams were also highly successful, Dr. Kolouch said.

The impact of drug and alcohol problems on the county was pointed out by Blaine County Sheriff Orville Drexler, a board member.

This year's program is about 10 times larger than last year's. He pointed out that money, time and weather will determine additional projects.

Morris said that F Street from Lincoln to Fillmore will be widened and oiled. This project was started last year but bad weather prevented completion. Lincoln north, from Main to the city limits and the entire length of Fillmore and about 100 other blocks will be sealed.

A new product will be used in the sealing projects which is designed for fast setting.

East Sixth from Lincoln to Buchanan will be reconstructed, due to the heavy damage done to the street from flooding in January when the canal that runs along the street overflowed.

Jerome buys new machine

JEROME — The Jerome City Council has accepted a bid of $10,146 from Elliott's, Inc., Burley, for a new backhoe and loader combination.

The council received eight bids on April 6 and took them under advisement until all bids could be gone over by Mel Morris, city works director, and Councilman S. N. Weeks.

The bid from Elliott's was not the lowest bid received but was considered to be the best on the basis of city needs, according to Morris. The action came at a special council meeting.

Morris also outlined the city's 1971 street construction and improvement programs to begin soon with completion to be sometime in September.

This year's program is about 10 times larger than last year's. He pointed out that money, time and weather will determine additional projects.

Ricks clubs Eagles for sweep of three-game set

Ricks College completed a three-game sweep over the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles Friday and all but ended CSI's hopes to win the ICAC northern division crown for the third straight year. Roger Howell drove in five runs with two homers to lead

Ricks to a come-from-behind, nine-inning 10-8 decision in the first game and Williams stopped the Eagles 4-1 in the second. CSI will travel to Ricks next Thursday and Friday for another three-game set. The winner of the best of six series will advance to the In- and hits by Will Ward, Steve McClain and Don Meyer. Howell unloaded a two-run homer against starter-loser Grinnell in the second but an error and two walks set up a two-run hit by Meyer to re-establish the CSI margin at five. Ricks added runs in the fourth and five, Meyers singling in the first and a throwing error and Howell's sacrifice fly plating two more in the fifth. Will Ward walked and eventually scored in the bottom of the fifth on a wild pitch but an error and a walk, followed by Howell's second homer, tied it at 8-8. A double, error and intentional walk loaded the bases in the ninth and an error let Ricks push across the winning two runs. Ricks coasted through the nightcap, getting two runs on a double by Jim Harris in the third and another on a passed ball that let Harris score. Meyers cracked a solo homer in the fifth. Losing pitcher Tim Soran broke the shutout bid in the third when he led off with a solo homer.

Dead heat at midpoint

OVER THE HURDLE everything was practically even among, from left, Dave Hamilton of Twin Falls, Toby Harding of Minico and Rick Spriggs of Twin Falls. But Harding hit the next two hurdles and fell to third place in the opening event of the Twin Falls - Minico dual Friday with Hamilton taking the decision.

Miller, Doten, relays record 'bests' as T.F. downs Minico

The Twin Falls Bruins, showing their best efforts in the relays and getting a 22.1 time in the 220-yard dash from double winner Mark Miller, rolled over the Minico Spartans 119-18 in a dual meet Friday evening. Minico was able to win only one event, Wilcox taking the quartermile in a good 51.7. But the Bruins were too deep and strong for the Spartans as they swept all four relays (scored 5-0 in duals) and went one-two-three in the 100-yard dash, Mile run, 880-yard run, 220-yard dash, two mile, long jump and pole vault. Twin Falls' two sprint relays teams announced they were going for school records but missed both. However, the 880-yard relay team turned in a good 1:32.5 and the quartermile relay hit 44 flat. Miller won the 100-yard dash in 10.1 and then posted the strong 22.1 in the furlong. The century saw a surprise with Bruin sophomore Bill Woodson nipping senior teammate Robert Warner for second. Stan Doten pushed himself to an outdoor best of 10:05.0 in the two mile after hitting the first mile in 4:56. "I wanted to be under 10 minutes today," he said afterward. In another mild surprise, sophomore Bruce Cooper, who has been fighting leg and foot problems all spring, won the mile in 4:44 and came back for second in the half. His senior brother, Jack Cooper, who had the flu all week, dropped out of his specialty in the half but anchored the mile relay to victory in the face of a strong Minico challenge. He also started the winning 880-yard relay team. Twin Falls continued strong in the field events although Minico had two of its best efforts there. Decker and Fiel went two-three in the shot, behind Dennis Kegan's 51-7 effort, and Ketterling and Rulon Barlow got two-three in the high jump. Probably the tightest race was the high hurdles where Bruins Dave Hamilton and Rick Spriggs and Spartan junior Toby Harding went almost step for step through six hurdles. Harding took a slight lead into the seventh hurdle but hit that one and the last one to drop back into third spot.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY Times-News Sports Editor While a lot of Idahoans are hailing the legislature's recent decision to curtail the number of non-residents allowed in the state for big game hunting, they would be well advised to understand the action has a hook in it.

Since then enough outcry has been made that the chance of the mile being returned to its regular position in the order of events is good. It was, after all, an oversight on the part of the planning board. However, it will take a vote of the board of control.

Educated guesses estimate the total loss of revenue to the Idaho Fish and Game Department at about one-half million dollars per year. The financial squeeze is on the department right now to the point that it is pondering the question of whether it can afford the usual summer help that provides the basis for much of the studies and field work accomplished. The upshot can only be an increase in resident hunting and fishing licenses. If the nearly for certain raise is decided to come entirely from hunting and not fishing, the resident licensing and probably tags will have to be about doubled simply to hold the line during an inflationary period. Curtailment of non-resident hunting by states is viewed with a jaundiced eye here for the simple reason it opens the door to federal intervention, particularly in big game. Most of the Idaho wildlife is found on nationally owned lands. A national license could be the result with the current Golden Eagle tag being perhaps a harbinger of sorts. That takes management and financial remuneration away from the state. Chances of the state revising its schedule for the state track meet appear likely. Last week we discussed the state's contradictory judgements that distances runners would be allowed to run in two events and then effectively slammed the door on the idea by placing the mile and two-mile back-to-back in a morning session.

Tim Bassett, CSI's all-American JC center, has visited four campuses to date and likes the looks of University of Georgia best. He plans one more visit, to Coach Eddie Sutton's Creighton University, before making a decision. Meanwhile, Idaho Coach Wayne Anderson, who is trying to get Ralph Palomar, Bassett and Ron Behagen, considers the three to have vast potential in hosting a school into prominence. "I feel that with those three we could win our (Big Sky) conference and go to the NCAA tournament," Coach Anderson says. The numbers game of percentage is something the Idaho Fish and Game Department would like to see work out according to theory for the Pahsimerof steelhead run. C.R. "Bob" Quidor, superintendent of the Niagara hatchery, notes that two years ago he and his crew marked three per cent of the total fish planted. This is their year to return. So far, some 450 fish have been caught in the Pahsimerof weir and 20 to 30 of them have been the marked fish. If the rule of percentages were accurate, Quidor notes there should be about five thousand spawners in the holding pens now. In the meantime, Quidor notes steelhead fishing has been pretty good in the main Salmon River despite some high and roily waters. How long that will last with some warm days finally starting to show up can't be determined.

Team scoring — Twin Falls 119, Minico 18. Discus — Borah, TF; Greener, TF; Decker, M; 147.10. Shotput — Keenan, TF; Decker, M; Fiel, M; 51.7. ### Jund gets Buhl grid, AD posts

BUHL — John Jund, vice principal former and assistant football coach at Buhl High School, has been named the school's new football coach and athletic director. Jund, who came to Buhl five years ago from North Dakota and has served as head wrestling coach, replaces Rod Hofmhorst who resigned earlier this spring to accept an assistant football coaching job at Boise State. His appointment leaves the school with only the head basketball position to fill. Board members said it could be from one to three weeks before a final determination is made.

Saturday Gooding held a meet on its course with the same seven schools attending. Gooding was first with 337, Jerome 353, Filer 375, Buhl 383, Blenns Ferry 414, and Valley 448.

70 cars to battle for Indy spot

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—A field of more than 70 cars is expected to battle for the 33 starting positions in the 500-mile Speedway auto race May 29. The official entry list stood at 68 Saturday, but officials said they knew of several additional nominations in the mail. All entries postmarked prior to midnight April 15 will be accepted, the management said. Last year 84 cars were entered but 90 were nominated in 1967 for a record. The field is headed by four former winners — defending champion Al Unser and his brother, Bobby; three-time champion A. J. Foyt and Mario Andretti. Bobby Unser won in 1968, Andretti in 1969, and Foyt in 1961, 1964 and 1967. The only foreign driver nominated so far is New Zealand's Denis Hulme, the former world Grand Prix champion. No foreigner has won the "500," the world's richest auto race, since England's Graham Hill in 1966. The "500" had its first million-dollar payoff last year.

Starting the relay

MOVING AWAY from the outside slide of Ricks' Meyers, CSI shortstop Terry Newlin prepares to relay a throw to first base in an attempt for a double play. Looking on is second baseman Steve McClain and outfielder Vic Rodriguez. CSI missed on the double play and dropped the three-game set to Ricks.

NNC nips CSI to win college meet

ONTARIO — Northwest Nazarene Christian College took five points out of the last event — the triple jump — Saturday afternoon to nip College of Southern Idaho 50-47 in a five-way track meet. CSI, which took only seven men to the meet, dominated in first places with six individuals winners but was unable to enter men in five of the events. Meanwhile, NNC dominated the middle and long distances and took points out of the weights to erase the CSI first-place edge. With the triple jump still going on, CSI coach Frank Herbert could see he was in trouble and sent high jumper Clayton "Fuzz" Gunter into the competition to try and avert the NNC decision. Gunter, who had triple jumped only once before in his life, managed to take fourth place worth one point but the Crusaders got the decisive first place. The all-fresh CSI won the two relays, taking the 440-yard event in 45.7 with George Wagner, Fred Barga, Daryle James and Zane Briggs. Briggs, Dave Martin, James and Wagner came back to win the mile relay in 3:38.6. Gunter claimed first in the high jump at 6-2 and just missed three times at setting a stadium record at 6-5. Jack Robertson, last year's state pole vault champion, won his specialty at 13-4 and just missed on his second effort at 12-8 for a stadium mark. Briggs won the quartermile in 53.3 and James, despite a pulled hamstring, won the intermediate hurdles in 59.8. Injuries perhaps kept CSI out of the winners circle as its hurdlers, Martin, with a strained ankle and James, with that muscle pull, could get no better than third and fourth in the 15.7 finals. Porter of Blue Mountain won the 100-yard dash in a solid 9.8 with Wagner and Barga following him home in 10.1 and 10.2 respectively. The final team scoring ran NNC 50, CSI 47, Blue Mountain 46, Treasure Valley 42 and Big Bend 2.

Blandford, Thomsen pace win

RUPERT — Seniors Jeff Thomsen and Jim Blandford each carved out two-under par 69s Friday to share medalist honors and lead the Twin Falls Bruins to a seven-way high school golf victory. Blandford hit 16 of the 18 greens on the Rupert Country Club course while Thomsen, defending state amateur champion, hit 13. The other Twin Falls scoring came from Brad Wilha at 79 and frosh Kevin Packard at 84. The Bruins, who haven't lost a match since the state tournament three years ago, would up with 301 stroke while Highland had 308, Pocatello 309, Aklville 316, Minico 324, Elko 325 and Idaho Falls 335. Twin Falls puts its long winning streak squarely on the line this week when it participates in the BYU invitational

Skyline, Rush stars

REXBURG (UPI)—Skyline High School of Idaho Falls won the Class A championship here Saturday in the 18th annual Ricks College Invitational Track Meet, but was hard-pressed by Star Valley of Wyoming.

It was a repeat win for Skyline, last year's Class A champions. In the Class B competition, Butte High School of Arco won the championship trophy with 32 points, followed by Jackson, Wyo., with 24, Richfield with 22, and a tie between Mackay and Lima, Mont., with 20½ points.

Dennis Rush of Carey was a team all by himself and scored 19 points as the only man representing his school. He won the low hurdles and the discus, and placed second in the 100-yard dash and third in the shot-put.

In the Class A section, Kelly Diest, Skyline, won the 100- and 220-yard dashes. Skyline topped the Class A schools with 50 points, while Star Valley garnered 41, Beaverhead of Montana 26, Idaho Falls 24 and Burley 22.

Astros nip L.A. 5-3 in eighth

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Doug Rader's two-out triple in the eighth inning drove in Bob Watson with the winning run Saturday night as the Houston Astros posted a 5-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Astros got an insurance run in the ninth on Joe Morgan's sacrifice fly after singles by Jack Hiatt and winning pitcher Wade Blasingame.

Blasingame registered his second victory against one defeat. He was slightly shaken up running the bases in the top of the ninth inning and Denny Lemaster finished up.

The lefthanded Blasingame allowed just six hits, three of them off the bat of Richie Allen, who broke out of a 5-for-36 slump. Allen clouted a three-run homer for the Dodger runs in the sixth.

Utah's victory gives it a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven playoffs.

The fourth game will be played here Tuesday night and a fifth game at Anderson, Ind. If a sixth game is needed, it will be in Salt Lake City and a seventh game back in Indiana.

The crowd, the largest paid audience in ABA history, saw the Stars run up a 15-point lead at halftime and then play even with the Pacers in the second half.

The Stars, who shot 53.3 per cent from the field to 41 per cent for Indiana, got 27 points from reserve Ron Boone and 24 each from Merv Jackson and Willie Wise.

In addition, the Stars limited Indiana to six, three-point baskets while recording two themselves. Glen Combs and Boone hit Utah's three-pointers, first for the Stars' in the playoff series.

Combs, who did not play well against Indiana in the first two games, was assigned to guard Bill Keller. Keller had scored 10 three-pointers in the first two games, but Combs held him to one Saturday night as the Pacers shot only 27 per cent beyond 25 feet.

Another factor in Utah's victory was rebounding. The Stars hauled in 71 to Indiana's 49. In Wednesday night's game, the Pacers outrebounded Utah, 65-52.

The Stars, shooting 60.5 per cent in the first half, had a 33-22 lead at the end of the first quarter and a 65-50 lead at intermission. The Pacers outscored Utah, 31-28, in the third period as they pulled to within five points at 85-80. But then Boone and Jackson guided the Stars to another 15-point lead.

Roger Brown led Indiana with 25 points, and Mel Daniels scored 20 and grabbed 20 rebounds. Keller hit 17 and Rick Mount 13.

Michigan men rule Ohio relays

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Athletes from the state of Michigan dominated the 34th Ohio Relays in Ohio Stadium Saturday taking 11 of 21 events and setting three of four meet records.

Eastern Michigan's relay teams swept to victory in four events on this overcast day, and Michigan State chalked up three first places and tied for another one.

The Ann Arbor Track Club came through with three first place victories, including record performances by M.

The Ann Arbor Track Club came through with three first place victories, including record performances by Mike Bowers in a high jump and Paul Lightfoot in the three-mile run.

In all, four records were broken and one tied in this enlarged track and field meet staged by Ohio State University.

In addition to the Ann Arbor's track performance, Ken Sparks of the Chicago Track Club sped to a record in the mile in 4:08.8 to break last year's 4:10.4 mark held by Ohio State's Dave Prysefki. Wayne State of Detroit cracked the mile relay college division record with a 3:18.1 performance.

Bowers, a former Michigan athlete, broke the high jump record he set here in 1970 by a quarter inch, leaping 7 feet one-half inch. Earlier, Lightfoot took the three-mile in 13:36.6 which was five seconds better than the old record set by Doug Scorrar of Ohio State a year ago.

Andy O'Reilly of Illinois, running unattached, tied the 1:58.8 record in the 880 run. Ralph Schultz of the Chicago Track Club, who set the mark last year, finished second in 1:51.9.

Prothro likes Ram rookies

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Tommy Prothro, new Los Angeles Rams head coach, took a look at a group of 26 pro rookies Saturday and said, "Boy, I wish I had some of these kids when I was at UCLA."

The rookies ran through non-contact drills under Prothro's scrutiny and also indulged in sprints. Isiah Robertson, No. 1 draft choice, from Southern University, was timed in 4.7 for 40 yards. He is a 6 foot 3 inch, 225-pound linebacker.

Russell Harrison, a running back from Kansas State who was a 13th round choice, was timed in 4.6. He has good size to go with his speed — 6-1 and 215.

"I'm still not sure what it takes to play in the National Football League," Prothro said. "These kids look like pretty good athletes but it's difficult to evaluate them on the kind of practice we had."

The rookies wore neither pads nor helmets.

Military to honor Eckert

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Lt. Gen. William Eckert, the former commissioner of baseball who died Friday night in the Bahamas, will be buried in Arlington with full military honors on Friday, April 23.

There will be a brief chapel service at Fort Meyer preceding the rites at Arlington. Bowie Kuhn, who succeeded Eckert as commissioner in 1968, will lead a contingent of baseball notables at the funeral.

"Baseball has lost a friend," Kuhn commented Saturday. "Spike Eckert gave us total devotion and fair-minded dedication to the interest of players, fans and clubs. At a critical time of change, he brought baseball effective, long-range planning and a far sighted program for growth."

A selfless, career public servant, I think he would most like to be remembered as a man who loved his country and served it well."

Eckert, victim of an apparent heart attack, was 69-year-old. A 1930 graduate of West 006, he held an MA in business administration from Harvard. In World War II, Eckert was commander of the 452nd Bomb Group in Europe.

After his retirement from the military as a lieutenant general, he was chosen as baseball commissioner on Nov. 17, 1965, succeeding Ford Frick.

Squires square Kentucky series

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—The Virginia Squires evened their playoff series with Kentucky at one game apiece Saturday night, romping over the Colonels, 142-122.

For a quarter and a half of play it looked as if the Colonels were on their way to their second straight American Basketball Association playoff win, but ten minutes later, the tables had turned and the Western Division titlist Squires were on their way.

At 10:18 in the second period the Colonels were up 49-36. But then Virginia Coach Al Bianchi did what he has done all season whenever his Squires were in trouble. He went to his bench.

Reserve Ray Scott picked up the slack Virginia offense, dumped in 14 of his 22 game total points, and bulleted the Squires into a 74-65 halftime lead they were never to relinquish.

Doug Moe and Charlie Scott

gopped in 12 and 11 points respectively in the third quarter and the Squires turned the game into a rout. After three periods it was the Squires by 111-86.

The home team emptied its bench and coasted in for the win in the final chapter.

Moe and Charlie Scott each finished with 28.

Dan Issel managed 32 in Kentucky's losing cause.

The two teams travel to Louisville for games Monday and Wednesday. The fifth contest will be back in Virginia at Hampton.

DeLo Wickham and Mrs. Pat Resch won the Twin Falls roll-off Saturday April 17 in Brunswick Bowladrome "Bowl Your Way To Europe" tournament.

Eddie Chappell, manager of Brunswick's Bowladrome, said the two local champions will represent this center in the national tournament finals in Washington, D.C. May 28, 29 and 30.

Wickham, 210 Fourth St. N. topped 19 other men to capture the title. He rolled 244 in his second game, 75 pins over his 169 average.

Mrs. Resch, 336 Jackson, won the woman's title on a 181 game,

50 pins over her 131 average. Finishing second in the men's division was John Bahr who bowled 191, 33 pins over his 158 average. Francis Kohtz who bowled 156, 43 pins over her 113

In the finals, these monthly winners compete to see who will go to the national finals. The men's division had two classes, 150 and under, and 151 and up. For the women, the classes were 0-130, and 131 and over.

Wickham said "I'm really overjoyed I never thought I could do anything like this." Mrs. Resch said "I can't believe it. I've never even been out of the west."

Geiberger, Rudolph share Monsanto tournament lead

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)—Lean and lanky Al Geiberger shot a 4-under-par 67 Saturday to tie 69-shooting Mason Rudolph for a one-stroke lead at the end of the third round of the $150,000 Monsanto Open Golf Tournament.

Geiberger, a 6-foot-2, 165-pound Californian who won the 1966 PGA championship, put together a round that included five birdies and one bogey over the sun-swept Pensacola Country Club course, to come from five strokes back to a pace-setting 5-under-par 208. Rudolph, a stocky, bespectacled veteran from Clarksville, Tenn., had forged to the top of the leader board by making four birdies in a six-hole span but three-putted the final green for a bogey five that backed him into the tie with Geiberger. Second-round leader Larry Wood was headed for a tie with the front-runners going into No. 17, but he three-putted from four feet to fall to 4-under and a closing 73-209 that left him in a five-way tie for third place with defending champion Dick Lotz (70), former Masters champion George Archer (68), former U.S. Open champion Gene Littler (71) and Billy Maxwell (69).

Whitworth tops LPGA golf meet

RALEIGH, C. (708)—Kathy Whitworth, who won the tournament in 1967, posted a 72 to keep her one-stroke lead after the second round of the $20,000 Raleigh Golf Classic here Saturday.

Miss Whitworth, the LPGA's all-time leading money winner, has a 143 total, one under par, going into Sunday's final round of the 54-hole event. She holds a one-stroke edge over Charlotte native Pam Burnett and Alabama lady pro Kathy Maxwell (69).

The field is tightly bunched after 36 holes. Two shots off the pace is veteran Kathy Cornelius, who turned in a five 70, two under par, for a 145 total. Tied at 146, three strokes back, are Gerda Boykin and defending champion Sandra Haynie.

Only Miss Whitworth could break Raleigh Country Club's par-72 in the first round, but four golfers managed the feat Saturday. Miss Barnett and Miss Farrer and Mrs. Cornelius all had 70s, while Miss Haynie turned in a one-under-par 71.

Three other golfers in the field of 66 equalled par figures. They were Miss Whitworth, Mrs. Boykin and veteran Betsy Rawls, who came back with a 72 after opening with a 78.

WBA withholds Clay's ranking pending Supreme Court ruling

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The World Boxing Association voted Saturday to delay action on Muhammad Ali's ring rating until after the U.S. Supreme Court decides the former heavyweight champion's legal status.

In executive session with representatives from throughout the world, the WBA also sanctioned a middleweight championship fight between champion Carlos Monzon of Argentina and former champion Nino Benvenuti set for May 8 in Italy.

In other action the WBA ignored Bob Foster's claim to the light heavyweight title and set in motion a plan for boxers' pensions.

The WBA has withheld recognition of Ali since he was indicted in 1967 for refusing induction into the Army. The former champion was later convicted, and his appeal is pending before the Supreme Court. No ruling is expected before June.

Alli, who scoffed at the WBA's refusal to recognize his title, lost whatever claim he held on it when he was defeated by Joe Frazier last month.

A WBA spokesman said Saturday if Ali is exonerated by the court the association will probably rank him as the No. 1 contender for Frazier's title.

That ranking is now held by unbeaten newcomer George Foreman of Los Angeles.

Bill Brennan, WBA president, said the rating question will be moot if the high court upholds Ali's jail sentence, since he will not be able to fight anyway.

In a letter to Brennan an attorney for Foster declined a scheduled hearing before the WBA executive committee Saturday.

The letter said Foster is still the light heavyweight champion and will risk his title against Ray Anderson of Akron, Ohio, Monday night in Tampa, Fla.

The WBA responded by voting unanimously to reaffirm its position that Vincente Paul Rondon of Venezuela is the light heavyweight champion by virtue of his fourth-round knockout of Jimmy Dupree of New York last February.

Rondon's manager, Felix Zabala, told the WBA a promoter had offered Foster a fight against Rondon in July or September.

"But," said Zabala, "the fight must be held in Venezuela, and Foster must come in as the challenger."

The WBA withdrew recognition of Foster's title because he failed to defend it against the leading WBA challenger for two and a half years.

And Bob Murphy, shooting his third straight 70 and Homero Blancas, with a 71, were at 210 as nine golfers were bunched within two strokes of the lead for Sunday's finale.

"This makes the tournament a little more interesting," said the 33-year-old Geiberger who finished no higher in the past several years than his fifth place finish in 1970 at San Antonio.

The pre-tournament favorites, Billy Casper and Lee Trevino, were both far back in the field. Casper shot a 71 Saturday for a 217 and Trevino was three strokes further back than that after shooting a 74.

Jim Colbert, who won this tournament two years ago, wound up with a 76-222 after taking a triple bogey on the final hole.

Grelberger had three birdies in his first six holes Saturday with putts of 15, 8 and 5 feet to make the turn in 3-under 32 and placed his approach shot only one foot from the pin at No. 10 for another birdie.

He fell behind on the very next hole when he missed the green and then missed his first putt after chipping to within 10 feet of the cup but regained his share of the lead at No. 16 when he rammed home a 40-footer.

"The key to playing well here is to drive it well," Geiberger said. "The course is much drier this year. The greens are hard and slick and it pays to be close to the pin."

Rudolph wasn't even close until he started his birdie binge at No. 11. He sank a 15-footer there and then really got things going with his play at No. 12.

There he put his tee shot in a trap and blasted out a short-but sent his third shot, a 178-yard five-iron shot, flying up to one foot from the cup.

"After that, I knew I was on the move," Rudolph said.

He sank a 20-footer at No. 15 and needed only a five-footer for another birdie at No. 16.

"I never go into a tournament thinking about winning until the final day," Rudolph said. "Then if I have a late tee time I really start taking chances."

There were eight golfers at 1-under-par 212 including 51-year-old Julius Boros who could become the second oldest man ever to win a PGA tournament. Sam Snead, who won the Greater Greensboro Open at age 52, is the oldest.

That means there were a total of 17 golfers among the 80 still in the tournament through three rounds and were under par for 54 holes.

Ten others were at even-par 213.

Rematch clause draws fire

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A return bout contract between welterweight champion Billy Backus and former champ Jose Napoles brought a strong reprimand Saturday from the World Boxing Association.

"Return bout contracts are in violation of WBA championship regulations," said Arch Hindman, chairman of the association's rating committee.

Backus had to agree to a return bout clause as a prerequisite for a crack at Napoles' title last December.

Backus won the fight in Syracuse, N.Y., with a four-round technical knockout.

The new champion then said he wanted to defend the title before a hometown crowd in Syracuse before meeting Napoles in Los Angeles.

The New York Boxing Commission has held that Backus must first carry out his contract and defend his title against Napoles.

Sanders will attend ISU

POCATELLO — Pocatello High School's 6-5 shot blocker Russell Sanders has signed a letter of intent to attend Idaho State University.

Sanders, who gained statewide acclaim for his defensive prowess, played center for the Indians, scoring in double figures over the latter half of the 1971 season.

His finest game was in the state tourney in Pocatello where he grabbed off 20 rebounds, the state A-1 high for the season, blocked nine shots by taller opponents, and almost pulled Pocatello H.S. into the state semi-finals.

ISU Assistant Coach Phil de la Porte said about Russell, "Head Coach Jim Killingsworth and myself feel Russell is about two years away from becoming a good college player. However we feel Russell has great jumping ability to go along with good coordination and timing."

Non-derby horse stuns candidates

NEW YORK (UPI)—Neil Hellman's Good Behaving, the spoiler who was not nominated for the Kentucky Derby, once again cut loose with a tremendous stretch run at Aqueduct Saturday to win the $112,200 Wood Memorial by a length and throw the Derby wide open.

With jockey Chuck Baltazar in the saddle, Good Behaving unleashed a tremendous run as the field left the backstretch just as he had in winning the Swift and the Gotham Stakes earlier in the year. He beat Calumet Farm's Eastern Fleet, the Florida Derby winner, in New York's final prep race for Kentucky Derby hopefuls.

October House Farm's Executioner, the favorite and winner of the Flamingo Stakes was third with Jim French, the Santa Anita Derby winner, fourth.

Good Behaving, coupled in the betting with Jim French paid $7.00, $3.40 and $2.20 in picking up a winner's purse of $67,320. The son of Ambehaving now has earned $102,612 this year and owner Hellman plans to use part of it to make Good Behaving a supplementary nomination to the Preakness Stakes. No supplemental nominations are permitted for the Kentucky Derby.

Bold and Able, a second Calumet horse, took the lead shortly after the start with Executioner and Eastern Fleet right behind him. Good Behaving, meanwhile, dropped back to last as he had done in his two earlier victories this spring. Jim French also was up close and the crowd of 51,103 thought they would see a battle among the winners of the winter and early spring classics.

But as the field rounded the final turn Baltazar had Good Behaving in high gear.

Louisville picks UCLA cage aide

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Denny Crum, who helped UCLA Coach John Wooden mold national championship basketball teams, Saturday was named head basketball coach at the University of Louisville.

Crum, 34, succeeds John Drogo who resigned after he suffered a severe heart attack last Jan. 3. Louisville turned in a 20-9 record last season and finished second to Drake in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Crum said he plans to install the UCLA offense and defense patterns at Louisville. He had been UCLA's chief recruiter and assistant coach since 1968.

The trustees of Louisville University will make Crum's appointment official at their regular monthly meeting Monday.

Crum, picked from 30 applicants, said he was impressed with Louisville's tradition. "They've had good basketball teams and great players like Wes Unseld and Butch Beard," he said.

A native of San Fernando, Calif., Crum played guard for two seasons at UCLA after transferring from Los Angeles Pierce College.

"I like to run offensively, play good defense and use the press," Crum said. "It's been a wonderful relationship at UCLA with John Wooden but I'll have to accept the challenge at Louisville."

UCLA won the national championship six out of the last seven seasons, including five consecutive seasons.

Kentucky Derby has new entry

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI)—Favored Unconscious landed a spot in the Kentucky Derby Saturday by outclassing half a dozen three-year-old rivals to win the $125,000 California Derby at Golden Gate Fields by three lengths.

"He was still running strong at the finish," said winning jockey Laffit Pincay Jr. of the California-bred son of Prince Royal 2nd.

The rangy chestnut colt paid $3.40 while winning the richest thoroughbred horse race in Northern California before a crowd of 18,077.

Frank McMahon's Triple Bend finished second and Richard Buc's Crimson Bend was third in the mile and an eighth test. All three are eligible for the Kentucky Derby but only Unconscious appeared certain of heading for Louisville, Ky., next week.

"I'm looking forward to the Kentucky Derby," said Pincay who made up most of the 121 pounds carried by Unconscious. Steal A Dance, the other Kentucky Derby eligible in the field of seven, finished fifth after forcing the pace to the stretch.

Time for the mile and a furlong was 1:47 1-5, fastest ever in the race which was inaugurated in 1873 and only two-fifths of a second off the track record set in 1950 by Noor.

South nips north in cage game

ERIE, Pa. (UPI)—The South defeated the North, 128-122, Saturday night in the seventh annual SOS (Save Our Sports) All-Star basketball game at Cannon College.

The game, featuring senior stars from college throughout the country, was close all the way.

The score was tied, 61-61, at halftime, and South led by 99-97 after three periods.

Rick Rinaldi of St. Peter's College, Jersey City, N.J., the game's most valuable player, was one of three players scoring 29 points. He and Marv Roberts of Utah State each scored 29 for the South and Bryan Mahoney of Manhattan scored 29 for the north.

Willie Sojourner of Weber College, Ogden, Utah, had 26 points for the North and Ken May of Dayton 25 for the South.

Bucky Walters of Duke was to have coached the South but was prevented by illness. His place was taken by coach Jim McDonald of Edinboro (Pa.) State. Al Maguire of Marquette coached the North.

Mays ends career with Chiefs

DALLAS (UPI)—Kansas City Chiefs' defensive end Jerry Mays announced Saturday he is retiring from professional football to devote his time to his father's construction business in Dallas.

"I am looking to the future and I have been planning for some time to give my full time to the family construction business," Mays said. "Especially with my father having decided to devote his full time to serving the people of Dallas."

Mays' father is a runoff candidate for mayor in Dallas. Mays played for Southern Methodist University in 1958-59-60, then for the short-lived Dallas Texans for two years. He has played for Kansas City for the past eight years, earning all-pro honors six times and playing in six all-star games during his career.

"My association with professional football has been tremendously rewarding," Mays said in his retirement announcement. "And I shall remember these past 10 years with great pride and satisfaction. But now I look forward to the challenge of business in Dallas, my hometown."

N.Y. nips Orioles in 10 innings

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Felipe Alou and Danny Cater each drove in a run off reliever Eddie Watt in the 10th inning Saturday night as the New York Yankees rallied to defeat the Baltimore Orioles, 5-3, after tying the game in the ninth inning.

Baltimore, which is now 7-2 this season, seemed on its way to its eighth victory of the season when it headed into the ninth inning with a 3-2 lead behind Dave McNally. But the Yanks tied it 3-3 and then called on starter Fritz Peterson in relief before they won it with two runs in the 10th.

Reliever Pete Richert walked Horace Clarke to open the New York 10th and Watt took over and wild pitched Clarke to second. Clarke moved to third on Thurman Munson's ground-out and scored on a Baltimore chop-base-hit in front of the plate by Alu.

Alou stole second and came home with an insurance run on a bloop single to right field by Cater.

Chiefs and Dallas swap receivers

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The Kansas City Chiefs Saturday traded wide receiver Goster Richardson, who had been on their active roster since 1967, to the Dallas Cowboys for wide receiver Dennis Homan.

Homan, the Cowboys' No. 1 choice in the 1968 draft, will be entering his fourth year of pro football and has been used primarily in a relief role for the Cowboys.

He had his best season in 1969 when he caught 12 passes for 240 yards, an average of 20.0 yards per catch.

During his four years with the Chiefs Richardson caught 62 passes for 1,358 yards and scored 12 touchdowns, averaging 21.9.

Homan, in his three years at Dallas, caught 23 passes for 437 yards and scored one touchdown. Described as an intense competitor, the 6-1, 181 lb. native of Muscle Shoals, Ala., was a standout receiver for Alabama's Crimson Tide. During his collegiate career he caught 87 passes for 1,495 yards and scored 18 touchdowns. He is married, has one child, and is 25 years old.

Ketchum miss places second

NORDEN, Calif. (UPI)—Cheryl Bechdolt, a Tahoe City, Calif. teenager, whipped through the gates in 1:27.8 Saturday to take the women's title in the 29th annual Silver Belt Giant Slalom at Sugar Bowl.

The 19-year-old skier won the last nationally sanctioned ski event of the season over defending champion Marilyn Cochran and co-favorite Sandy Poulsen, both of whom fell within 150 yards of the finish line.

Deep powder left by continuous snow flurries produced slower times for the 43 women and 71 men in the two-day competition.

Whit Sterling, with a first-run time of 1:24.3, held the lead in the men's competition which concludes Sunday with a final heat.

Results: WOMEN 1. Cheryl Bechdolt, Tahoe City, Calif., 1:27.8; 2. Susan Corroch, Ketchum, Idaho, 1:28.7; 3. Jane Rollins, Mammoth Lakes, Calif., 1:29.2.

18-year-old wins Spain golf title

BARCELONA, (UPI)—Eighteen-year-old Dale Hayes, playing his first pro tournament outside his native South Africa, Saturday clinched the $28,550 Spanish Open Golf championship in a controversial finish with Argentine veteran Robert de Vicenzo.

Hayes won by a stroke after 48-year-old de Vicenzo, one of the grand old men of golfing, nonchalantly missed a three-foot putt on the last hole.

"I do not think Roberto tried very hard," Hayes said afterwards. "Just before my last putt, he walked up to me and said, 'knock it in, boy—I do not want to play another hole.'"

De Vicenzo denied he deliberately missed the putt and the $7,140 first prize money. "I tried hard to hit that last putt hole," he said. "But my putting was awful all the way in. I certainly would have liked a play-off."

Bradley pitches shut-out

CHICAGO (UPI) — Tom Bradley struck out 10 Oakland batters Saturday and allowed only four hits as he pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 4-0 victory over the Athletics, ending the Sox losing streak at seven games.

It was the first shut-out of the season for the Sox staff, and the defeat ended Oakland's winning streak at five.

Bradley, who ran his season mark to 16 hits and only two earned runs in 26 innings, got his first win and ran his strikeout total to 22. He struck out the side in the fifth.

The Sox gave him enough runs to win in the second when Bill Melton and Rich McKinney opened with singles.

Washington defeats Indians

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Frank Howard beat out a bunt to trigger a four-run seventh inning Saturday and Dick Bosman, with relief help from Darold Knowles, picked up his second victory as the Washington Senators defeated the Cleveland Indians 5-3.

The Senators took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on Jim French's run-scoring double but trailed 3-1 going into the seventh.

Howard led off the Washington seventh against Cleveland starter Steve Hargan with his bunt single and took second on Tom McCraw's single. French grounded to second and McCraw was called out for running out of the baseline with French reaching first. Tim Cullen singled Howard home from third and Richie Shelbloom batted for Bosman.

Detroit edges Boston

DETROIT (UPI)—Willie Horton after hitting two earlier homers, slashed a bases-loaded two-out single in the 10th inning for his fifth straight hit and sixth run batted in Saturday as the Detroit Tigers edged the Boston Red Sox, 10-9.

Horton entered the game hitting .138 on four hits in 29 at-bats but wound up at .257 with his 5-for-6 performance which included his sixth career grand slam a solo home run and three singles.

Jim Ryun runs world's fastest mile in three years with 3:55.8 time

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Jim Ryun's comeback appeared complete Saturday when he ran the fastest mile in the world this year, 3 minutes, 55.8 seconds, to delight a crowd of 22,000 that turned out to welcome home the world record-holder.

Ryun, now living in Eugene, Ore., ran the fastest mile since Kenyan Kip Keino uncorked a 3:55.5 in August of 1968. Ryun's time also was the fastest he has run since he set a world record of 3:51.1 at Bakerfield, Calif., on June 23, 1967.

set and two more tied under cloudy skies and 64-degree temperatures. Randy Matson, the world shot put record-holder, hurled the 16-pound ball 68 feet, 3 1-2 inches. Matson repelled Al Feuerbach, his chief challenger in the world, who tossed the steel ball 67-5 3-4.

Ryun's victory in the Glenn Cunningham mile was his fourth. He was sixth in the nine-man field after the first lap, took the lead on the second lap and kept it, whipping Tom Von Ruden by 15 yards. Ryun ran the last quarter-mile in 55.3 seconds. His first three-quarters were 61.2, 60-1 and 59.2.

Von Ruden and John Mason, both representing the Pacific Coast Club, also broke four minutes. Von Ruden was second in 3:57.2 and Mason third in 3:57.9, which was his personal best.

Texas A&M, equaled the second-best time ever in the 880-yard relay, 1:22.1, with Curtis Mills carrying the anchor leg. The Aggies' time was four-tenths of a second over their world record set last year at the Drake Relays.

A&M, with Rockie Woods running anchor, also set a meet record in the 400-yard relay with a 39.9 clocking. Matson's series of six tosses was 67-8, 68-3 1-2, 67-6 1-2, 66-11 1-2 and 67-8 1-2. Behind Feuerbach were Kansas' Karl Salb and Steve Wilhelm with tosses of 66-10 and 66-3, respectively.

One of the better records set was by Frank Shorter of the Florida Track Club, who won the three-mile run in 13 minutes, 8.5 seconds. Shorter's time equaled the 12th fastest ever-run in the event.

Other records were set by Prairie View (Tex.) A&M in the college mile relay, 3:07.1; Conrad Nightingale, Mid-America Track Club, in the 3,000-meter step steeplechase, 8:40.8; Bill Penny, Kansas, in the open hammer throw, 195-5; Larry Young, Columbia, Mo., College, in the open mile walk, 6:49.3; and Maj. Larry Means, U.S. Air Force, in the master's mile, 4:25.8.

Tying records were Baylor's Danny Bradham in the long jump, 26-2 1-2, and Colorado's Cliff Branch in the open 100-yard dash, 9.3.

Kansas State, with Jerome Howe anchoring, won the university distance medley relay in 9:43.2; Illinois, anchored by Lee LaBadie won the two-mile relay in 7:23.4, and Rice, with Chip Grandjean carrying last, took the mile relay in 3:07.1.

Dallas Baptist dominated the college relays, winning the distance medley, 4:40 and two-mile.

Utah screening applicants

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The decision on a new head basketball coach at University of Utah is not expected to be made until early next week.

The university's athletic selection committee was still in the process Friday of conducting interviews of candidates to succeed Jack Gardner.

Sliding into third base

ERIC DAY, Twin Falls, leftfielder, slides into third base as the Mountain Home third baseman gets the ball too late to tag him out Saturday in a doubleheader. Twin Falls swept the Tigers 3-2 and 9-0.

Knickerbockers relying on defense to gain finals

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The New York Knickerbockers apparently are going to rely on the National Basketball Association's best defense to carry them into the playoff finals.

The Knicks, with an offense that has become non-productive, took a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven series against Baltimore Friday night with an 89-84 victory. They try to wrap it up Sunday afternoon in Baltimore, where they suffered humiliating defeats in their last two outings.

New York has failed to pass the 90-point barrier in its last

Stan Love will sign with Texas

DALLAS (UPI)—University of Oregon star athlete Stan Love, who was the No. 1 draft choice of both the Texas Chaparrals of the American Basketball Association and the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association, has come to terms with Texas.

Chaps Vice President Bob Briner announced his club and Love reached agreement Friday night on a three-year, no-out contract. The amount of the contract was not disclosed, but local sources estimated it to be about $500,000.

That would make Love, 6-9, who averaged 25 points a game at Oregon, three times as expensive as any previous Chaps player.

The formal contract signing was postponed until the middle of next week.

The Love deal marked the first time in the four-year history of the ABA team that the club came out on top in a dollar war with an NBA club.

Texas lost two of its top draft choices earlier this year to NBA rivals—Sydney Wicks who went to Portland and Steve Patterson who signed with Cleveland.

Briner said he was "elated and relieved" with the Love agreement. "Everyone was happy," he said. "Love is the kind of player who can at least begin the job of turning things around for us."

Unbeaten Bruins sweep pair from Mountain Home

The Twin Falls Bruins ran their season baseball record to 7-0 Saturday when they swept a double header from the Mountain Home Tigers 3-2 and 9-0.

The Bruins now face a tough week, opening Tuesday at home against the Minico Spartans and entertaining Idaho Falls Thursday. Both game start at 3:30 p.m. Saturday the Bruins travel to Pocatello to play the Indians and the Highland Rams.

The Bruins jumped on starter and loser Kidd for five runs and five hits in the third inning to nail down the opener while Jerry Sturgill and Kevin Nelson were holding the Tigers to one hit. Dave Dollinger opened the big inning with a double and Nelson's blooper to the infield fell in for a hit. Perry Hancy walked to load the bases and Tyke Henchey bounced a two-run hit through the drawn-in infield. Eric Day sent another run across with a single and Rick Wentworth then spanked a double over the centerfielder's head for the final pair.

Twin Falls added two in the fourth on an RBI single by Perry Henchey, and Paul Clark's dropped fly in the outfield. In the first game, three errors and a bunt gave Mountain Home a quick 2-0 lead against the Twin Falls Juniors. Ginnette, Kirby and Johnson lived on the miscues which scored on run and Day's bunt got in the other.

But the juniors clinched it in the third when Gary Ward opened with a triple and rode home on Jerry Barbour's hit. Larry Ward sacrificed and Brewster drew a walk before Bowyer ended the game's scoring with a double off the leftfield wall.

ISU lands Georgia cage star

POCATELLO—Possibly the finest basketball player in the state of Georgia has signed a letter of intent to attend Idaho State University. He's 6-5 scoring machine Chris Grier of Augusta, Georgia's T.W. Josey High School.

Grier was the leading scorer and rebounder in his region of the state. Grier hit 27.8 points a game and averaged 19.3 rebounds despite playing a lot of the time at guard, as well as forward.

He was selected to his all-conference team and was also picked all-regional. In high school during his junior year he was the teammate of ISU frosh star this past season Leroy Gibbons.

Groth put on Utags' grid staff

LOGAN, Utah (UPI)—Rich Groth was named as assistant football coach at Utah State University by the executive committee of the USU Institutional Council.

Groth, a former All-Western Athletic Conference quarterback at the University of Utah in 1965, is currently a coaching assistant at Wilson High School, Portland, Ore.

The 27-year-old native of Idaho Falls, Ida., graduated from Utah in 1966. He received his M.S. degree in 1969 while working as Utah head ski coach and assistant football coach.

Groth led the Redskins to the WAC football title in 1964 and a 32-6 victory over West Virginia in the Liberty Bowl.

Braves sweep past Phillies

In the third, he allowed singles to Ken Singleton and Bob Aspromonte, but struck out Jerry Grote to end that threat. In the fifth, Ken Boswell led off with a double, but Bass bore down to get the next three batters. The mets rallied in the eighth after two out on singles by pinchhitter Dave Marshall and Tommie Agee, but Bass got Bud Harrelson on an outfield fly.

The Knicks have a serious injury problem of their own in Willie Reed, the league's Most Valuable Player last season and the most vulnerable this year. Reed, troubled with a chronic knee injury and intestinal problems, has been playing against the Bullets with an injured shoulder. He scored only six points Friday night and his shooting has been off throughout the playoffs, but the Knicks are a vulnerable team without him.

"I got kind of emotionally involved at the end," said Reed, who grabbed a key rebound near the conclusion of Friday night's game. "I completely forgot about my shoulder. Dr. (Andrew) Patterson

Bucks can end L.A. series on own court

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The Milwaukee Bucks can seal the lid on the coffin of the Los Angeles Lakers Sunday afternoon when the two teams meet at the Milwaukee Arena.

The Bucks, by virtue of a smashing 117-94 win over the Lakers Friday night, hold a 3-1 lead going into the fifth game of the best-of-seven game semifinal series in the National Basketball Association series.

If the Bucks win, and they are heavily favored to do so, they will advance to meet the winner of the New York Knicks-Baltimore Bullets series for the championship of the NBA.

The Knicks and Bullets also meet Sunday afternoon in Baltimore with New York holding a 3-2 edge.

Friday night the Bucks came through with that offensive "explosion" promised by coach Larry Costello before his team headed west for the third and fourth games.

Lew Alcindor, the NBA's scoring leader and most valuable player, finally shook off whatever doldrums were bothering him Friday night and ate

The Bucks' young center scored 31 points and hauled down 20 rebounds and he played at both ends of the court. Chamberlain, who had played Alcindor to a standstill in the first three games, finished with 15 points and 16 rebounds.

After the game, Costello told his team "I don't want to come back" to which Alcindor replied "we won't be back." back for the Bucks would be Los Angeles where they would have to travel if the Lakers win Sunday.

But Milwaukee seems ready for Sunday's game.

Oscar Robertson, who has been bothered by a pulled stomach muscle throughout the playoffs, was almost his old self Friday night. He ran the team and contributed 19 points. Bob Dandridge found the range for 20 points and reserve Bob Boozer added 16.

Alcindor has been quoted as saying "we'll beat the Knicks in the playoffs," and the young giant is not likely to let down before he even gets that chance.

Los Angeles managed one brief flurry during the playoffs, when with just eight men dressed for the game, they won

Royals overcome Brewers

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Ed Kirkpatrick and Amos Otis homered in a 13-hit Kansas City attack Saturday as the Royals defeated the Milwaukee Brewers, 5-3 with ninth inning relief help from Ted Abernathy.

Dick Drago had a four-hitter going into the ninth when Milwaukee rallied for two runs on Tommy Harper's single, a triple by Mike Hegan and Dave May's sacrifice fly. Abernathy then came on to record his third save of the season.

Kirkpatrick's homer off Milwaukee starter Marty Pattin opened the Kansas City scoring in the second inning and Otis ended it with his ninth inning homer.

the third game. But the physical condition of the Lakers—with Jerry West, Keith Erickson and Elgin Baylor out of action—and the rest of the squad playing without rest, is beginning to tell.

The Bucks' game is running, and when they do it right, nobody can stay with them. Milwaukee had the running going Friday night and figures to keep going Sunday, and the Lakers probably don't have the stamina to keep it up. adv for ams sunday april 19

Experts slated at Burley forum

SHOSHONE — Experts in their field will speak at the environment forum to be held from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. April 21 at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley, reports Mrs. Ervin Braun, Shoshone, Farm Bureau district women's chairman.

The program is on environment and natural resources and will be presented with a $3.50 per person registration fee, to cover the cost of the luncheon and packet. All interested persons are urged to attend, Mrs. Braun said.

Theme is "It's our world too." Topics to be discussed include "Impact of soil and water management on the environment," by Dr. Glen Lewis, University of Idaho; "Impact of Fertilizer Use on Water Quality," by Dr. David Carter, USDA; "Pesticides, Heroes or Villains," by Roland Portman, University of Idaho; "It's Our World, Too," by Leonard Johnson, American Farm Bureau assistant director of natural resources.

A panel entitled "Public Lands Management as it Affects the Environment" is planned. Members are Larry Jackson, talking on fish, wildlife and recreation; Roscoe Rich, speaking on range resources; Robert Lee, speaking on water resources; Joe Frickman, speaking on timber resources; Al Teske, speaking on mining resources. Personnel from the Farm Bureau will be present to conduct the forum meeting.

Humphrey attacks Viet war

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said Friday the Vietnam war is an "act of national violence" which infringes on every American's right to peace.

Humphrey made the assertion in a speech to an AFL-CIO convention of utility workers, spelling out what he called a "new bill of rights."

"The first of these new rights I wish to discuss is the right to peace," Humphrey said. "We in America are presently at war—a war that we must withdraw from as soon as possible."

"Every American's right to peace is being infringed upon by this continuing action of national violence."

Noting there were presently about five million persons unemployed, Humphrey said the second right was "an absolute right to a job."

He listed a clean environment as a third right.

"What good will it do us to be at peace with each other, what good will it do if we are gainfully and productively employed," he said, "if the air isn't fit to breathe, if the water is too foul to drink, if the food is too contaminated to eat, if the noise of technology gone mad deafens us, if we have paved over the country?"

More witnesses to face probe

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—At least 17 additional witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear before a federal grand jury which reconvenes here Monday to resume its investigation of an alleged plot to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

J. Thomas Menaker, a Harrisburg attorney and a member of the defense team representing six persons indicted earlier by the grand jury said the 17 persons were subpoenaed during the past two days. He said he would represent four of those subpoenaed when they appear before the grand jury Monday.

He identified the four as Richard Drimon, 46, chairman of the history department at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa.; J. Thomas Phillips, 61, and Mrs. Abraham Diamond, all of New York City.

The subpoenas were dated April 12 and were signed by William S. Lynch, a U.S. attorney in the Justice Department in Washington, Menaker said.

Irritated

PATERSON, N.J. (UPI)—The Rev. John Catoir, presiding judge of the marriage tribunal in the Roman Catholic Paterson Diocese, takes a dim view of the Vatican announcement that songs like "Here Comes the Bride" should be eliminated. He said: "The world burns and Rome is worried about 'Here Comes the Bride.'"

The grand jury earlier this year indicted the Rev. Philip Berrigan and five other persons on charges of plotting to kidnap Kissinger and blow up the heating systems of five government buildings in Washington. Menaker said the government was attempting to "beef up a defective indictment" by issuing the latest subpoenas.

Hotel subsidies planned

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—The Puerto Rican government will make a major cash investment in San Juan tourist hotels to ease financial problems that have closed four of them in a year, it was announced Friday.

Manuel A. Casiano, economic development administrator, said the commonwealth government would loan $500,000 to the owners of the Dorado Hilton, latest plush hostelry to announce closure, to allow the hotel to reopen in the fall.

He said the government would also provide up to $1 million each to "four or five" other hotels currently in financial trouble. In addition to the Dorado Hilton, scheduled to fold June 11, other hotels already closed at the Miramar, Le Petit and the Condado Beach. The San Jeronimo Hilton was sold at auction last Monday and may also shut down soon, trade sources said. Hilton International will terminate its management contract with the eight-year-old Dorado Hilton June 11, according to hotel manager Arnold Orenstein. The hotel will close the same day.

He identified the four as Richard Drimon, 46, chairman of the history department at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa.; J. Thomas Phillips, 61, and Mrs. Abraham Diamond, all of New York City.

The subpoenas were dated April 12 and were signed by William S. Lynch, a U.S. attorney in the Justice Department in Washington, Menaker said.

Twin Falls joins nation in Library Week

Young reader

EVERYONE HAS a right to read, says the theme of National Library Week, and little Daria Nutsch, Jerome, is no exception. She finds plenty of reading hours ahead on Twin Falls Library shelves.

Amnesty given . . .

Get acquainted with local library

TWIN FALLS — A telephone number from a town in Illinois, a French grammar book, a road map of a foreign country or just a good book to read in leisure time — whatever the need, the public library can usually supply the answer.

And staff members of the Twin Falls Public Library say National Library Week April 18 through 24 is a good time to get acquainted with the many library services and for the regular patrons to enjoy some special privileges.

Librarian Robert Bruce has announced the week is also "Amnesty Week" at the Twin Falls Library and all books which may be overdue can be returned in full forgiveness. He said the staff will forgive whatever overdue fines are owed during the one week's time.

Observances of Library Week have been proclaimed on the state and city levels with proclamations issued by Gov. Cecil Andrus and Mayor Frank Feldtman.

Displays will be featured in recognition of the special week in Boy Scout building window and in the Rogerson Hotel lobby. Book marks will be given out by grocery and sporting goods stores and beauty salons. Restaurants in Twin Falls will feature a brief folder on the local library history and facilities tucked inside each menu during the week. Numerous special displays are also being placed in the library to encourage patrons to take advantage of material and equipment in the library.

Theme of the week's observance is "Everyone has a right to read," and special emphasis locally is on material available to students, children and those desiring resource materials.

Bruce explained the Twin Falls Library, now making plans to convert magazine and newspaper files to microfilm, provides the only magazine file of any size between Boise and Pocatello.

Young passengers will remember

By DALE STEWART
Times-News City Editor
(Editor's note: A train watcher and railroad buff since boyhood, Times-News City Editor Dale Stewart took his family on a one-day excursion aboard one of south Idaho's last passenger trains. On the completion of the trip, he put down the following impressions.)

SHOSHONE — Like many other Idaho youngsters, three children in the Dale Stewart family took their first — but, hopefully, not their last — train ride on a cold, windy Saturday in April.

With the Union Pacific Railroad scheduled to drop passenger service through the Magic Valley at the end of the month, the family decided to devote a Saturday to a trip by rail from Shoshone to Boise and return in order that the younger branches of the family tree could some day say they had ridden a passenger train.

From the number of other families and groups of children boarding at various stations along the line to the Idaho capital, the idea of an excursion by rail is popular this spring as the time nears for the last runs of four trains.

As a result, a lot of children who otherwise may never have thought seriously about traveling by rail have been introduced to that method of transportation as it passes into history.

After May 1, passenger trains in reduced numbers will continue to operate along selected routes, but the Magic Valley won't be among them. In this area, rail traffic will be freight only.

Arrival at the Shoshone station nearly an hour before train time allowed an unhurried purchase of tickets, followed by a short visit with the station agent. The wait for the west-bound Portland Rose was broken by the thundering passage of a long eastbound freight.

When the three car train glided in, five members of the Stewart family and about a dozen other passengers climbed aboard. We found seats in the lead coach and settled down. Before Gooding was reached, questions started flying. The dialogue ran something like this:

"What's that rack up there?"
"It's for coats and baggage."
"Hey, did you see the train in the picture on the wall?"
"Yes, I did."
"Who's the man with the red cap?"
"He's the attendant for the car."

"What does he do?"
"Helps people with their baggage, helps them find seats, or whatever else he can do to make their trip pleasant."
"Who was the man who took the ticket?"
"He's the conductor. He's in charge of the train."
"How fast are we going?"
"It's hard to say. Why don't you ask the conductor?"

(That suggestion wasn't acted on until somewhere between Boise and Mountain Home on the eastbound trip that evening. Then the answer was, "About 55 miles an hour right now.")

"Why are we slowing down?"
"Probably going to stop at Gooding."
"Where else will we stop?"
"Glenns Ferry and Mountain Home, probably."
"How long until we get to Boise?"
"A couple of hours yet."

"A high point for the youngest member of the family came early in the trip. The conductor, with a twinkle in his eye and mock ferocity in his voice, asked, "Did you break that window?"

The reply was a smile and a negative shake of the head. (The double glassed coach window had been cracked by a missile hurled at the car from the outside some time prior.)

There were other first ride experiences for the youngsters — the startling blur of a passing train on another track, a greeting from a passing train crew-member, getting a drink of cold water from the dispenser in the passageway at the end of the car, the sway of a coach rounding a curve, and seeing familiar scenes along the highway to Boise from a new angle.

At last came the approach to Boise — and a couple of inquiries about where the depot was. Finally, it was pointed out to the inquirer. He spotted it and then several other places familiar from the approach by highway.

When the train rolled to a stop at Boise, the brick platform was jammed by several score adults and children. Some were traveling. Others were obviously going for a short train ride.

About seven hours after stepping down to the platform of the Boise station, the family returned to the depot for the homeward trip. The intervening time was spent visiting, shopping, and walking about downtown Boise.

Then came one of those deviations in plan — a late train.

The wait stretched to an hour before the eastbound arrived.

"But," he asked, "how late will we be getting home?"
"Probably about an hour. Or however late the train is when it gets here. It's somewhere between here and Portland. There's not much we can do but wait."

"Well, gee . . . how come it's late?"
"Some sort of mechanical trouble, probably."
The ride from Boise to Shoshone after dark provided more new experiences.

There was the discovery that lights over seats can be switched off. There were views of red and green signal lights gleaming along the tracks ahead. A brakeman walked through a darkened car carrying a lighted lantern, checking passengers' destinations. And the moon climbed into the sky behind a thin layer of clouds.

"Can I put my seat back?"
"Sure. Go ahead. You might even nap."

"No, I won't."
"Can I put the foot rest down?"

"Don't need to, do you? You found out how they work this morning. Why don't you leave it be?"

"Oh . . . okay."
"Can I pull the blind down?"
"Leave it up. We might see something."

Later, the coach is darkened completely. Outside, the moon provides enough light to see the landscape clearly as the gently rocking coach sweeps along the Snake River. On the nearby highway, headlights mark the passage of vehicles. One zips past with red light flashing.

After a couple of stops, the children drop off to sleep. A bit later, rousing them required the full leg of the trip from Gooding to Shoshone — but they were awake enough to climb down to the platform at the journey's end without help.

Riding in a completely darkened coach, watching valley and upland sweep past, the rhythm of some piece of equipment beneath the car stirred our memories of other trains on other railroads — some ridden, some watched, some drawn by steam engines and others hauled by diesel electric power.

And as the Portland Rose rolled past the loops of the Little Wood River, our journey near an end, a final thought came as reverie gave way to reality; these children taking their first rides aboard trains may never have known what it was like to ride the rails in the days when passenger service was at its best, but at least they will have had a chance to know the sound and the feel of a passenger train.

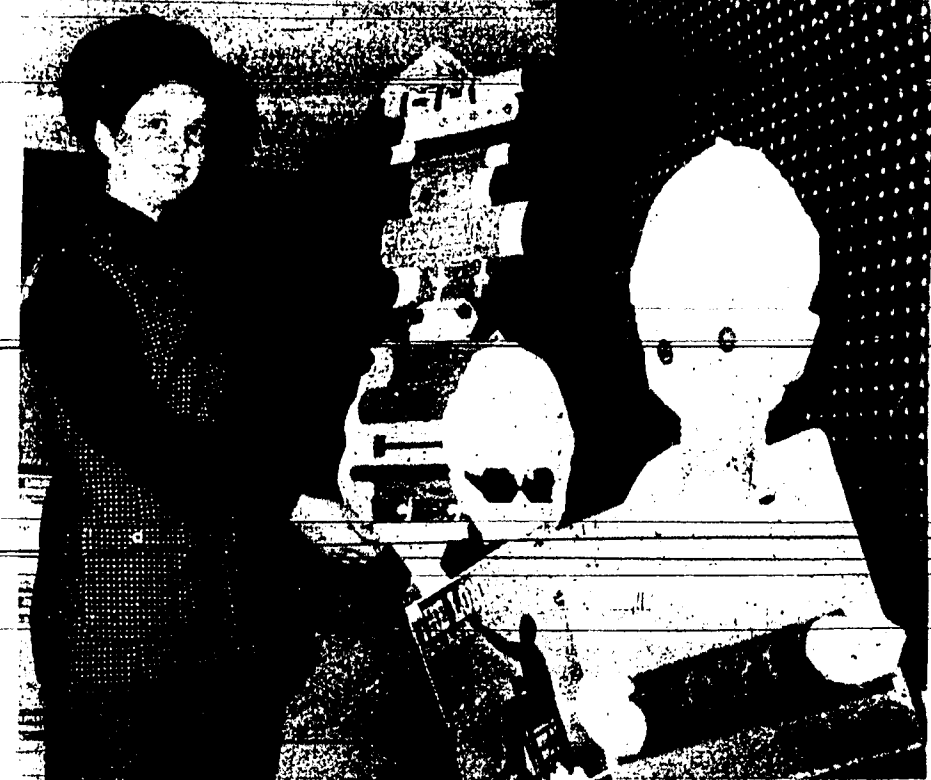

First trip . . .

ACROSS the aisle, other passengers' activities catch the attention of Ronnie Stewart, 7, making his first trip by train.

Train view

BROTHERS Ronnie and Jimmie Stewart, 5, right, find seats confining but sister Kathy prefers to watch southern Idaho slide past window of railroad coach.

Current Cues

(Editor's note: To be a better informed customer is a wish of every homemaker and through this weekly column written by Helen Walker, home service representative for the Idaho Power Co., you will bring your objective and unbiased information of interest to all.)

By HELEN WALKER
TWIN FALLS — In the past few years manufacturers have been emphasizing convenience and easy care features in appliances. This has led many homemakers to wonder about these new innovations.

Are you confused about the new self-cleaning ovens? Every oven described as automatic cleaning uses one of two cleaning systems: pyrolytic or catalytic. What do these terms mean?

Pyrolytic — soil from cooking is decomposed by heat. ("Pyro" means heat, "lytic" means to dissolve.) To do this oven temperature is raised above 750 degrees.

Catalytic — a chemical coating, or catalyst is bonded to the oven walls, intended to lower the temperature at which food soil will decompose.

Do they really clean? Pyrolytic — at the end of the cleaning cycle the oven is sparkling clean — like new. A trace of light ash may remain to be wiped away. Catalytic — food soil is never completely decomposed at normal bake temperatures. If spill overs smother catalyst, it may become even less effective. For better soil removal, heat oven to 500 — 550 degrees for two hours.

Can you tell the difference by looking at them? Pyrolytic — the oven controls include "clean." Interior is a light, shiny porcelain.

Catalytic — oven interior is a dull finish, dark in color and with a rough, porous texture. How much heat is generated during the cleaning cycle? Pyrolytic — internal oven temperature may be 850 — 1050 degrees, depending on the brand. Extra insulation generally keeps the outside surface about the same as an ordinary oven at baking temperature.

Catalytic — less insulation — the amount of heat will depend on oven temperature used.

Is any manual cleaning necessary? Pyrolytic — the interior oven is completely self-cleaning except to remove light ash. Areas, outside, which are not exposed to the heat will need hand cleaning.

Catalytic — you will need to clean oven racks, window, oven floor, inside door panel and rack guides. Any part that is not coated with the chemical will need hand-cleaning.

Is any special care necessary? Pyrolytic — oven surface needs no special care. Care should be used in handling the gasket on the oven door.

Catalytic — chemical coating is fragile and should not be scratched or scrubbed with anything that may damage it. Scratching or scouring will reduce the cleaning action of the catalyst.

What does it cost to operate? Pyrolytic — about 7 cents per cleaning.

Catalytic — nothing, except for cleaner used for racks, doors, and parts not covered by catalyst.

What about initial cost? Pyrolytic — usually comes with a higher price tag.

Catalytic — will probably cost less than pyrolytic, but more than a range with no self-clean method.

Is the pyrolytic range safe? Yes. It was given exhaustive tests by the Underwriter Laboratories before it was marketed. Oven is locked during cleaning cycle and cannot be opened until it has cooled to baking temperature.

Can I buy these in every brand? Almost every range manufacturer has one or both methods of cleaning. Each homemaker will need to ask herself some questions?

No. 1. How soiled does the oven get when I cook? No. 2. Do I want a spotless interior after the oven is cleaned? No. 3. How much time do I have to spend cleaning the oven? No. 4. Do I really mind cleaning the oven? No. 5. Will I be sorry that I didn't spend the extra dollars for the self-cleaning feature?

Every family must assess its own needs, desires and budget and, armed with information, they are more apt to be better satisfied with their purchase.

Beauty hint

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — Are you occasionally embarrassed by a nose that suddenly turns red or shiny, thereby marring an otherwise attractive makeup? If you are one of the many women who have experienced this embarrassment, beauty-fashion authority Max Factor suggests you solve the problem before it appears.

To do this, stroke a light film of Erace, the original cover-up cosmetic, on your nose prior to applying your usual foundation. To tone down redness, choose it in a beige shade that blends with the makeup. Touch-up during the day with pressed powder or one in a color that matches your foundation.

Lora Garner, Lee marry

TWIN FALLS — Lora Garner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Haynes, Kimberly, and Charles A. Lee Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lee Sr., Twin Falls, were united in marriage in evening rites April 3 at the Twin Falls First Christian Church.

Rev. Ray Jones performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of branched candelabra holding seven lavender candles and baskets of white chrysanthemums and lavender carnations.

Given in marriage by her mother and step-father, the bride wore a white floor-length gown, fashioned with a rounded neckline trimmed with lace and full puffed sleeves enhanced with wide lace cuffs. She carried a bouquet of small white chrysanthemums and lavender carnations.

Bridesmaid was Shauna Garner, sister of the bride, Jackie Lee, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and Cory Ochsner, nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer. Ushers were Rickey Garner, brother of the bride, and Greg Hills, friend of the bride.

The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered white wedding cake displayed on a round mirror. It was decorated with white swans and carried out the bride's colors with pastel green leaves and lavender flowers. The cake was topped with two white satin bells enhanced with doves and ribbons. It was baked and decorated by Ilene Day, Twin Falls.

The couple reside at 223 1/2 Borah Ave. W. The bridegroom is employed at Wilson-Bates.

Library visits urged during special observance

KETCHUM — In officially proclaiming April 18 to 24 as National Library Week in Ketchum, Mayor Kenneth Richey joined Mrs. Daniel Hart, librarian of the Ketchum Community Library, in urging every child and adult to visit the library during that week.

DEAR ABBY: You recently wrote that there is more fighting going on in the average American home because of hair than anything else. I am a girl, 19, and I want to know why adults are so quick to judge a person by his outward appearance? If a boy has long hair he is taken for a hippie, radical, pot smoker, homosexual or freak. Why?

DEAR ABBY: I agree, it's what a person is on the inside that's important. But we can't go around with X-ray eyes bypassing appearances in order to look into a person's heart, soul and motivations. So, I ask you, why would a respectable girl want to get herself dressed up to look like a streetwalker? And why would a recent productive young man want to look like a shiftless, unwashed, bushy-headed bum?

DEAR ABBY: Many pregnant, unmarried girls have never heard of Florence Crittenton Services. We offer girls a place to live with other girls who share the same problems. We give them good medical care, an opportunity to continue their education, plus other services the expectant mother may need. We charge according to how much the girl and her family can pay.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who said her husband never gives her children compliments, only criticism, prompts this letter. My father is the same way. But we know he loves us. His idea of a compliment is, "Well, it's about time you did something right, dummy!"

Carolyn Olmstead, Peterson say vows

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown fashioned of silk illusion with a center front panel edged with alencon lace and enhanced with lace florettes. The florettes were repeated on the full Juliet-style sleeves and on the long fitted cuffs. The chapel train which fell from the fitted waist of the gown, was also edged with alencon lace and embroidered with seed pearls. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a crown of lace flowers outlined in baby pearls.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli and yellow roses. The bride also wore her Grandmother Brickell's engagement ring. Maid of honor was Pat Lang, Mequon, Wis., a sorority sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Cynthia Ronk, Linda Davis, Twin Falls, and Janey Casey, Salt Lake City.

JoAnn Hammond, Wahington, D. C., and Ann Wright, Salt Lake City, sorority sisters of the bride, presided at the gift table.

A reception was held at the Twin Falls Blue Lakes Country Club. The cake table and serving tables were decorated with yellow silk cloths with white nylon flounces, accented with white roses and garlands of white elegance and daisies. The tables were accented with candelabra holding yellow candles.

The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with yellow roses and white interlacing and topped with the traditional miniature bride and bridegroom backed with a lace heart edged with baby pearls.

The cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Uba Allen. Baskets of white gladioli, yellow chrysanthemums and white pompons completed the floral arrangements. Mrs. Ralph Olmstead and Mrs. Tom Olmstead, aunts of the bride, presided at the cake table.

White House aide raps spying charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House charged today there was a "blatantly political effort" to spread fear and intimidation among Americans through creating the false impression that the FBI is spying on law-abiding citizens. Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler issued the strongest rebuttal yet to charges made by Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., that the FBI spied on his personal life, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's allegations that the FBI was improperly using its powers to spy on people. "There appears to be an attempt to create an attitude, an impression ... by those officials who are raising this issue that this administration and the FBI are indiscriminately spying on and conducting surveillance of law-abiding citizens," Ziegler said. He said it was being done "with the object of creating a feeling of fear and intimidation among the people of this country."

Ziegler made the comments as Muskie, an unannounced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, renewed his attack on FBI surveillance of Earth Day activities last spring, and urged full disclosure of the extent of it. Questioned about Muskie's charges, Ziegler said they could be "so clearly placed in the political category" that nothing would be served by an investigation. Ziegler also suggested that a congressional investigation be made into the charges made by Boggs which he said were "wholly unsubstantiated." "I'm quite confident of what the outcome would be," Ziegler said of an investigation. Ziegler, asked about a New York Times report that the FBI conducted surveillance on a telephone conversation held by Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., referred newsmen to the Justice Department for specific information. But he pointed out that the policy of the Nixon administration "is that we do not tap the wires of congressmen and senators." Ziegler said the FBI has specific areas of responsibility relating to national security and its job as a law enforcement agency, but repeated several times that its surveillance was not indiscriminate. Ziegler said he was speaking for the administration in charging that the critics of the FBI were politically motivated. Muskie, on a two-day speaking tour of New England, said in Manchester, N.H., in reference to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover that if Muskie was president, "using the inevitable northern New England tact and diplomacy, I suppose I would invite him to resign."

4 Yanks remain in China jails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mainland China, which has emphasized a thaw in its relations with the United States by giving a warm reception to a U.S. table tennis team, still holds four Americans in its jails. Two of them have been there almost 20 years. State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said Thursday the United States is seriously concerned about the four Americans. They have not been released despite repeated official U.S. appeals. A pair of civilians, John Thomas Downey of New Britain, Conn., and Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., have been in Chinese custody the longest. Both were civilian employees of the Department of the Army when their plane went down Nov. 5, 1952, while it was being flown from Korea to Japan. This was during the Korean War, and the Chinese contended Downey and Fecteau were engaged in espionage. Downey was sentenced to life in prison and Fecteau was given 20 years. The Chinese did not reveal publicly that they were holding Downey and Fecteau until November, 1954.

East Minico FFA unit installs new officers

RUPERT — New officers of the East Minico Future Farmers of America were announced Saturday by Vernon MacNeil, chapter advisor.

Van Stutzman is president; Doug Saylor, vice president; Joe McClure, secretary; Mark Stutzman, treasurer; Rocky Hammons, reporter, and Dudley MacNeil, sentinel.

Officers were installed at the annual awards banquet at the Ponderosa Inn with Keith Merrill, recently returned from two years in Afghanistan as a machinery advisor, as speaker.

Tom Grisenti was presented a watch from Hanna Jewelry by Merle Hanna for being the high point individual in the chapter. Farmer of the month awards were presented to Andy Studer, Grisenti, Marlin Eilers and Dee Hunsaker.

Farming in Afghanistan is done 99 per cent by bullock, stick plow and a stick harrow, with 15 acres considered a large farm, Merrill said. Everything is government owned and farmers make from $50 to $60 per year with $4 considered top monthly wages for farm labor.

He said in a country of 15 million, only about 400 students attend the one agricultural school. They use an old shop the Morrison-Knudsen firm, Boise, left after the company built a dam in the country in 1947.

Some 60,000 acres are watered from the dam, through dike irrigation, Merrill said.

There are no chairs either in the classrooms or one-room mud huts where most of the people live. There is no wood in the country and the main food is bread and tea, with a few vegetables, he said.

There is no sanitation and all water must be boiled, Merrill said, noting most of the people eat with their hands and very few have even seen silverware.

"Sheep and goats graze on gravel and gain weight," the speaker said. "Perhaps this is the only country in the world where livestock does this."

He said camels are used for transportation and some four million people move back and forth with camel herds.

Americans send farm machinery to Afghanistan for the government-operated farms, Merrill said, but the people do not understand how to care for it. Repair and maintenance is unheard of.

He said 10 combines arrived just ahead of his arrival in the country and within three weeks not one was in working condition. He took parts of the 10 machines and built three combines, but soon they were not usable either.

The Afghanistans people take the oil and sell it and just leave the old oil in a tractor, Merrill said. He also built a thrasher which, he said, "looked like something our pioneers used 400 years ago."

He urged FFA members to set goals, work toward them to make their lives interesting and worthwhile.

Letter writers were presented to John Fortier, Dudley MacNeil, Arlen Woodbridge, Rock Hammons, Earl Wood, and Bill Timmons, all first-year. Joe McClure, and Dee Hunsaker, both second year; Mike Mahler, Harold Mohlman, Tom Grisenti and Andy Studer, all third year, and Marlin Eilers and Pat Merrigan, both fourth year.

Project awards included Dairy: Andy Studer, trophy (17 head operation during the past year), first place and Tom Grisenti, second place; Livestock: Pat Merrigan, trophy and first place, Andy Studer, second place; Crops: Andy Studer, trophy and first, Steve Young, second place; Poultry: Tom Grisenti, trophy; Farm Machinery: Doug Saylor, a junior, first place; and Star Greenhand: Wayne Shank, (outstanding freshmen).

Amalgamated Sugar Co., each year awards gifts to the first, second and third place FFA members in the county for sugar beet crops. This year the gifts were presented to Harold Hohman, second place and Pat Merrigan, third place. The first place winner is a member of the West Minico FFA Chapter and will be announced later.

Honorary member degrees were presented to Lee Moore and John McClure by the chapter officers. They each received a plaque.

Proposals help poor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New rules proposed by the Agriculture department would liberalize benefits for many of the 10 million needy Americans receiving food stamps and establish a uniform national eligibility standard.

The poorest of the poor would get stamps absolutely free.

But the proposed regulations also would slash aid for families close to the eligibility ceiling, impose a work requirement on some adult recipients and ban stamps for many college students and "hippie" families living on communes.

Under the national eligibility standard, any family of four with a net "take home" income up to $360 a month would qualify for the stamps, which can be used like cash to buy food at participating grocery stores.

The new rules, designed to comply with a Food Stamp Reform Act passed by Congress last year, were disclosed at a news conference. Assistant Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Ling predicted that the proposed national standard would have "tremendous impact."

In all but three of the 45 states which offer the food stamp program, families now must earn less than the $360-a-month proposed federal standard.

The new regulations would boost the monthly food stamp allocation for a family of four by $2 to $108 and provide the stamps completely free to any family with an income of less than $30 a month. Families in this lowest category now pay $2 for $106 worth of stamps.

Livestock dealer complies on order

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Malad, Idaho, livestock dealer has complied under order with the bonding requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Calvin C. Dredge, who purchases livestock from southeastern Idaho, northern Utah and western Wyoming, consented to the order when he answered an administrative complaint issued by the USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration.

USDA judicial officer Thomas J. Flavin ordered Dredge to cease and desist from engaging in business or in commerce in any capacity for which bonding is required under the act without filing an acceptable bond or its equivalent.

Farming affected by trade

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Possible future trade relations between the United States and Communist China would have a "very great influence on agriculture in the Northwest," according to Carl Hobson, Washington State University agricultural economist.

Hobson, speaking on a program on radio station KWSU, said China needs to import a large amount of grain to help support tremendous population and the need for imports will grow as the economy progresses.

American-Chinese relations have been encouraged recently by both governments and Hobson said there will be a "great potential here in future years."

However, he warned the United States must be willing to buy industrial goods from Communist China without restriction, claiming the potential Chinese trade situation would be similar to that of Japan, a major market for Northwest wheat.

Case for actress continued

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Actress Jane Fonda has obtained a three-month continuance of assault and battery charges brought against her last November by a policeman at Cleveland Hopkins Airport.

Miss Fonda, who was given three continuances previously, was to have appeared in Municipal Court here April 19, but Judge Edward F. Felghan permitted her a fourth delay Thursday at the request of defense attorneys.

Felghan said her attorneys wish to postpone the hearing until the outcome of possible federal charges against her are determined.

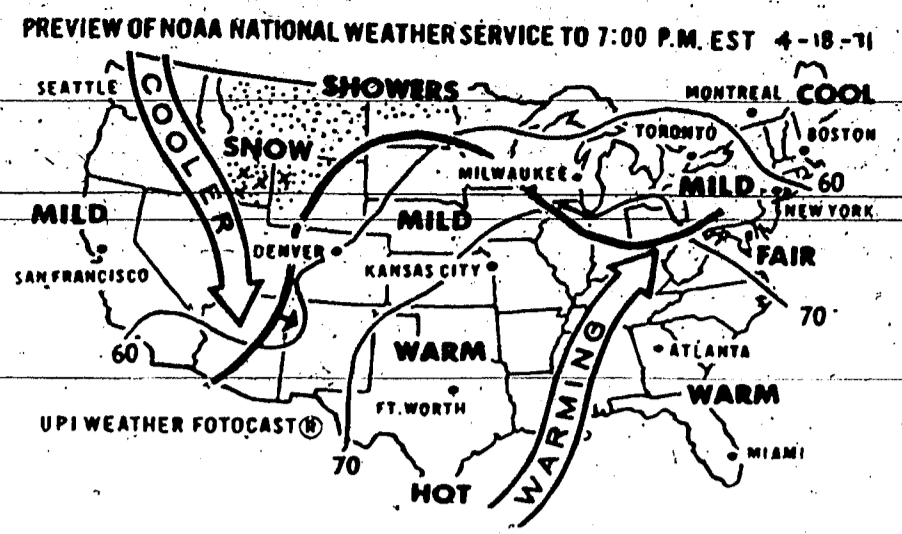

Patrolman Robert S. Pieper charged Miss Fonda kicked him last Nov. 3 while he was trying to detain her after she arrived on a flight from Canada. Customs officers ordered her held after they discovered a large quantity of pills in her luggage.

Valley Weather Report

Light rain, cooler in Magic Valley

Weather synopsis: Low clouds with rain in the valleys and snow at higher elevations was the weather outlook Saturday afternoon in Eastern Oregon, while east of the Blue Mountains clouds were higher and temperatures rose slightly in Southwestern and Eastern Idaho. A frontal system which dominated the weather picture in Central Oregon, was primarily responsible for the weather pattern. Circulation around the weather system tended to keep temperatures and ceilings down.

Low readings Saturday morning gave the entire area a tendency to be about 10 degrees or more higher than Friday morning's lows, due to heavy cloud cover. Mid-afternoon temperatures were also much lower than on previous days.

Precipitation varied from a trace at Soda Springs and .42 inch at West Yellowstone. The extended outlook, for

Snow due in West's mountains

SNOW is predicted for the higher elevations of the Rocky Mountains in Wyoming, Montana and Idaho today, while rain showers are expected across the upper portion of the Great Plains. Warmer weather is expected across the southern states, with fair skies over most of the United States. Cooler air will flow into the western states.

Southern Idaho and the Magic Valley for the period of Tuesday through Thursday calls for variable cloudiness with a chance of scattered showers at times throughout the period. Temperatures will remain slightly on the cool side, with highs in the mid-50s to mid-60s, and overnight lows in the upper 20s and 30s.

The Easter lily is this holiday's most popular plant. It likes lots of water and good drainage, so punch a hole in the bottom of the wrap to make sure water does not build up around roots. Grow in bright, cool window.

Remove the yellow floral parts (male elements or anthers) to keep the white blooms from becoming soiled with yellow pollen. This also helps to make the blooms last longer (we think). After the plant has finished blooming, plant it (pot removed) in the garden and leave it permanently. You'll be surprised to find it will bloom again for you in fall.

Normally we don't recommend forcing it again for another Easter indoors, although many gardeners tell us that they have brought the lily indoors and it has bloomed in the home.

The florist's hydrangea is a water hog, so give it plenty of water — daily doses. If leaves and blooms wilt from lack of water, the plant will spruce right up if you submerge the pot in a pail of water for 30 minutes or so.

After it has finished flowering, the tops should be pruned back to two or three inches, and the plant re-potted. In May, plunge the plant, pot and all, in a semishady spot in the garden. Leave it there all summer. In September, bring the plant in and keep it in a cool place, such as the cellar. Water it just enough to keep it alive and in spring you can set it outdoors where it'll bloom.

Flower buds are tender and will usually winterkill if plant is left outdoors in winter, unless protection is provided.

Calcceolaria or Pocketbook plant likes ample moisture, and a bright window. After flowering is finished, cut the plant back about half its size and it will send out new growth. Most gardeners discard the plant after flowering. Must be grown cool or the buds won't form.

TO DE-ICE SIDEWALKS: Here's a tip to remember next winter: "To de-ice walks and driveways, we've found that chicken "grits" or shell hardener to be the cheapest and most satisfactory. It won't melt ice but reduces the sld, can be bought cheaply and rather easily at farm centers. It can easily be swept off carpets or rugs and is very good for shrubbery and lawns. Try it!"

Another reader "prefers sawdust to sand because "when the ice melts, on warm days, the sand sinks to the bottom, and when it refreezes there's nothing to protect from slipping. Sawdust will float when the ice melts and when it refreezes, the sawdust will still float to the surface and prevent slipping."

Good tips, but let's not talk about winter for a while.

HAMBURGER ONIONS: Why is it that the so-called Hamburg onions do not keep well in storage? A reader thinks it's the way they are stored or cured. He writes: "Some years ago a neighbor told me about cutting off the tops — just about an inch from the onion, after they are dug. Then I pack them only one layer high, with the roots on top, and the cut part down. That way any moisture that might be in the onion goes down and does not stay in to cause rot. I take a box, place a layer of paper on bottom and place the onions in a row over the whole bottom. I lose a few not many. Still have 18 good onions from last year. We keep them in the utility room where the temperature is about 65 degrees."

The Yellow Sweet Spanish, jumbo or namberger onions are large, late and usually good keepers, especially if you cure them as our reader suggests above.

CHRISTMAS CACTUS WON'T BLOOM: Several readers tell us they have a Christmas Cactus which never blooms. What's the reason?

It's a matter of light, as one reader suggests "My plant never produced blooms while it was in the living room where electric lights burned. To get it out of the way, it was relegated to a southern exposure on a heated but unlighted third floor landing when brought indoors after a summer of watering and feeding. In November or December it was setting buds and in January had 41 blooms at one time, with half the number of buds yet to open. This was the first time it had ever bloomed. Last fall I gave it an eastern exposure where lights were used only three or four nights for short periods. Won't you agree that it's a matter of light?"

You're right. Like the chrysanthemum and poinsettia, the Christmas cactus blooms when the days are shortest. It should be shaded from full sun light and also protected from artificial light. To set buds in fall, the plant must receive no artificial light from September until the buds set.

TINY GARDENER'S TIP: Here's one to add to your bulletin on Tiny Gardens for Tiny Tots. Cut the root end of cabbage and lettuce and keep the core in water. Watch the new sprouts appear. Works fine with carrots also. Just cut the top off and place in a flat dish of water.

REPELLING CATS AND DOGS: We've had good luck using the repellent rope for keeping cats and dogs away from evergreens. The rope is treated with a coal tar by-product with an offensive odor. You wrap it around the bush and it keeps the pets away. Anyone have a better suggestion? Please send them along.

QUESTION BOX: D.R. of Aberdeen: "I have a Moon Valley Plant and do not know what care it needs. Please help."

I'm always baffled when common names are used, and am not sure what a Moon Valley Plant really is. There's a new one out with that name and it's a Pilea, in same family as the Aluminum Plant (there goes that common name again!). As I understand it, this plant

Soil moisture makes record

TWIN FALLS—Soil moisture conditions throughout Magic Valley in the valley and foothill elevations are the highest experienced, according to the Soil Conservation Service.

A report prepared by the SCS and released Saturday said, because of the saturated soil in most areas of southern Idaho, there will be excellent forage production for 1971.

The report said for the first time in many years, small desert reservoirs are filled to capacity.

In the Raft River area, the soil moisture is 9.2 inches at Conner Pass, 9.9 inches at Howell Canyon, 6.6 inches at Sheep Hollow and 6.3 inches at Sublett. Last year the soil moisture was 9.2 inches at Conner Pass, 7.2 in Howell Canyon, 6.2 at Sheep Hollow and 6.0 inches at Sublett.

On Goose Creek the soil moisture as of April 1 was 7.0 inches as compared to 6.4 a year ago.

In the Salmon Falls Creek drainage, the soil moisture is 7.4 inches on Deadline as compared to 6.6 inches a year ago, 6.9 inches at the Rolland Patrick Ranch as compared to 6.6 a year ago, and 9.0 inches at the Pole Creek Ranger Station, compared to 4.6 inches a year ago.

Also noted in the report was the increased volume forecasts of streamflow for the April through September period in Idaho from three to 25 per cent as a result of the heavy storms during March.

Demonstration set on Gooding farm

GOODING—A tree planting demonstration will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Robert Bolte, Jr. farm, three miles west of Gooding on the Old Bliss Highway.

The demonstration is being sponsored by the Gooding-Soil Conservation District, the University of Idaho Extension Service, and the Soil Conservation Service.

There will be a discussion on windbreak planning and tree varieties, under the direction of Vernon Burlison, University of Idaho Extension Forester and Mel Carlson, forester with the SCS.

Calf making history

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—A 190-lb. calf at the University of Utah is providing valuable new medical data and making medical history by living longer than any other experimental animal with an artificial heart.

"This has never happened before. It's the first time, and there's no way to predict how long she could live," he said Thursday. "As of now she's in excellent condition."

Named "Latina," a Cherokee Indian word meaning "long-life," the calf has survived over 150 hours with the artificial organ pulsing in its chest. The experimental device was implanted at 2 p.m. April 9 in a five-hour operation performed by Dr. Willem Kolff, director of the Division of Artificial Organs.

There is no way of knowing how long the calf could survive, according to Dr. Hans Zwart, chief investigator for the experiment.

Grazing areas opening

SHOSHONE—Grazing units for the Shoshone district of the Bureau of Land Management are opening, William T. Mabbutt, BLM district manager, said Saturday.

The Star Lake West unit will open for cattle on Monday, and on Tuesday Laidlaw Park will open for both cattle and sheep grazing. Four units opened Friday, including Crater-Butte, Walcott, Lake Channel and Dietrich Butte. These are for cattle only.

The Shoshone cattle allotment will open April 24.

Waialeale, a peak in Hawaii, has had as much as 52 feet of rain in one year.

Africa has surprises

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

DAKAR, Senegal (UPI)—If you look at a map of the world you will notice the big bulge on Africa's Atlantic Coast. But it still comes as somewhat of a surprise that Dakar is only about seven hours jet flying time from New York.

There are other surprises for the first-time visitor to West Africa, not the least of which is the modernity of its major cities.

I made my first visit to Senegal with other travel writers as guests on Air Afrique's inaugural non-stop DC8 flight from New York to Dakar. The multi-national African airlines already flies the largest network in Africa, serving 33 cities there as well as seven in Europe.

The capital city of Senegal, Dakar, sits on Cape Verde, the westernmost point of Africa. As befits a major gate-way between the continent and the Americas, it is a bustling metropolis of gleaming white skyscrapers, crowded streets and appalling slums.

Senegal was part of French West Africa until granted independence in 1960 and the French influence is still strong. But the Senegalese have not forgotten their African heritage.

As one result, Dakar can offer Americans an intriguing melange of Afro-European cultures.

A tour of the city unveils highrise apartment houses and palatial mansions, and squat thatched-roof huts and hovels of flattened tin and scrap timbers; neat supermarkets, department stores and boutiques, and noisy, smelly and unkempt street markets and bazaars; elegant French restaurants with uniformed waiters who serve gourmet-type meals on piping-hot plates, and street stalls and itinerant food sellers who plopp meat pies and other native viands into your hand.

Late-model American and European cars and huge 10-wheeled trucks maneuver through the crowded streets alongside rickety carts hauled by decrepit donkeys and men and women balancing heavy burdens on their heads or backs.

There are people dressed in the latest Western fashions and others in traditional garb — women in varicolored "pagnes" — full blouse and long wrap-around skirt, often as not with a baby straddling their mother's back or cradled in a scarf in front, and men in "bou bou," full-length robes with intricate embroidery.

Headgear ranges from round skullcaps and fezzes (Senegal is predominantly Moslem) toedoras and derbies for men. Women wrap their heads in bright print bandanas or beautiful turbans of yards of shocking pink or other vivid-colored gossamer materials.

Not all wear shoes but most adults carry umbrellas as a shield against the sub-tropical sun. Sun glasses are as common among Africans as Westerners and come in all shapes and sizes.

Americans should have little language difficulty in Dakar where a surprising number of Africans we met spoke English as well as French.

It's different in the interior. But no visitor, if possible, should pass up a trip into the countryside where many Senegalese still live as their ancestors did long before the Europeans came centuries ago. Tours can be arranged through your travel agent or Senegal Tours, 5 Place de l'Independance, BP 164, Dakar.

At present, there is only a handful of Western-type hotels so advance reservations are a must. We stayed at the Grand Hotel de N'Gor, on a beach eight miles from Dakar, which has about 500 rooms in the main highrise building and some 150 thatched-roof cottages on its grounds. (Rates start at $13 double a day in the cottages and $17 in the main building, including continental breakfast, taxes and service). Construction on a new 200-room wing is scheduled to start soon.

Other hotels popular with Westerners are the Croix du Sud and Majestic in Dakar, with similar rates. At least two more hotels are in the planning or negotiating stage.

Air Afrique's current schedule calls for one non-stop flight weekly, Saturdays from New York and Fridays from Dakar. An airlines spokesman said services would be expanded if traffic warranted.

American tourists need a valid passport, visa (two photographs must accompany the application), and certificates of inoculation against smallpox, cholera and yellow fever for entry. The official currency is the CFA franc—pegged at about 270 to $1 U.S. There is an air departure tax (about $6) and leftover CFA currency can be converted only into French francs.

Agnew okays antiwar rallies at Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has given two groups permission to hold antiwar rallies on the grounds of the U.S. Capitol next week, but refused to authorize a third such gathering.

Agnew told the Vietnam Veterans Against the War they could use areas at the Capitol's west front for a rally Monday, and gave similar clearance to the National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC) which claims 50,000 will march on the same spot April 24.

But Agnew, acting in his capacity as president of the Senate, turned down a request from the veterans to use the area April 23 when the group wanted to turn in their medals and ribbons to members of Congress. Agnew said the date was not feasible since the authorities would have to get the grounds ready for the larger rally on the following day.

Both orders specify that no more than 100 demonstrators may actually be on the steps which lead to the Capitol, and that the rest must remain on the large circular lawn area downhill from the building in the case of the NPAC and on the sidewalks in the case of the veterans.

Social Security hike seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Social Security benefits—and the payroll taxes which finance them—will continue to rise in the years ahead.

That's not a prediction. It's a statement of what will happen as a result of legislation already enacted by Congress.

The Social Security checks which 26.2 million beneficiaries will find in their mailboxes June 3 will be exactly 10 per cent fatter than the checks the same people got in May.

Later in June, all recipients will get an extra check, covering the amount due them as a result of applying the 10 per cent boost retroactively to payments they've already received since Jan. 1, 1971.

President Nixon, who signed the legislation authorizing the increase on March 17, had urged Congress to pay for it by increasing the Social Security "wage base" from $7,800 a year to $9,000 a year, also making that retroactive to last Jan. 1. But Congress voted to postpone the tax base increase until the start of 1972.

The tax base is important both in terms of how much payroll tax you and your employer pay and the size of the benefits you'll collect when you retire or are disabled or otherwise become eligible for Social Security checks.

This is how it works: The government now levies a tax of 10.4 per cent—half of which is paid by the employer and half by the employee—on the first $7,800 of each covered worker's total annual wages. Income beyond the $7,800 limit is exempt from payroll tax—and also is ignored in computing the amount of benefits a worker eventually will receive. This means the maximum benefit of any individual this year will be $405.60.

Next Jan. 1, the wage base will rise to $9,000. The rate will remain at its current level of 5.2 per cent each on employer and employee. Because this rate will be levied against a larger sum, the maximum payroll deduction will rise to $468 in 1972.

This means anyone earning $9,000 or over will pay $63.40 more in Social Security taxes next year.

Under the recently-enacted law, the wage base is scheduled to remain at $9,000 indefinitely. But the tax rate is scheduled to rise to 5.65 per cent in 1973 and to 5.85 per cent in 1976.

Before those raises take effect, however, Congress is likely to adopt President Nixon's recommendation to peg both taxes and benefits to an automatic escalator system. Under this system, benefits would go up when the cost of living rises, and taxes would go up when the average wage rises. The adjustments would be made simultaneously every two years.

Moulton agreeable

LEWISTON (UPI) — Chet Moulton seems agreeable to a suggestion that he resign his post as State Aeronautics Director, according to Cliff Hinkley, Idaho Aeronautics Commission chairman.

Hinkley said here Thursday, "There are a few things to work out, such as leave, transition pay and retirement" but that the matter would be discussed at the Aeronautics Commission meeting in Boise April 27-29.

Moulton had been asked by Hinkley earlier this month to resign the position he has held for 25 years and is within two years of retiring.

some of the commissioners knew he was going to take the action.

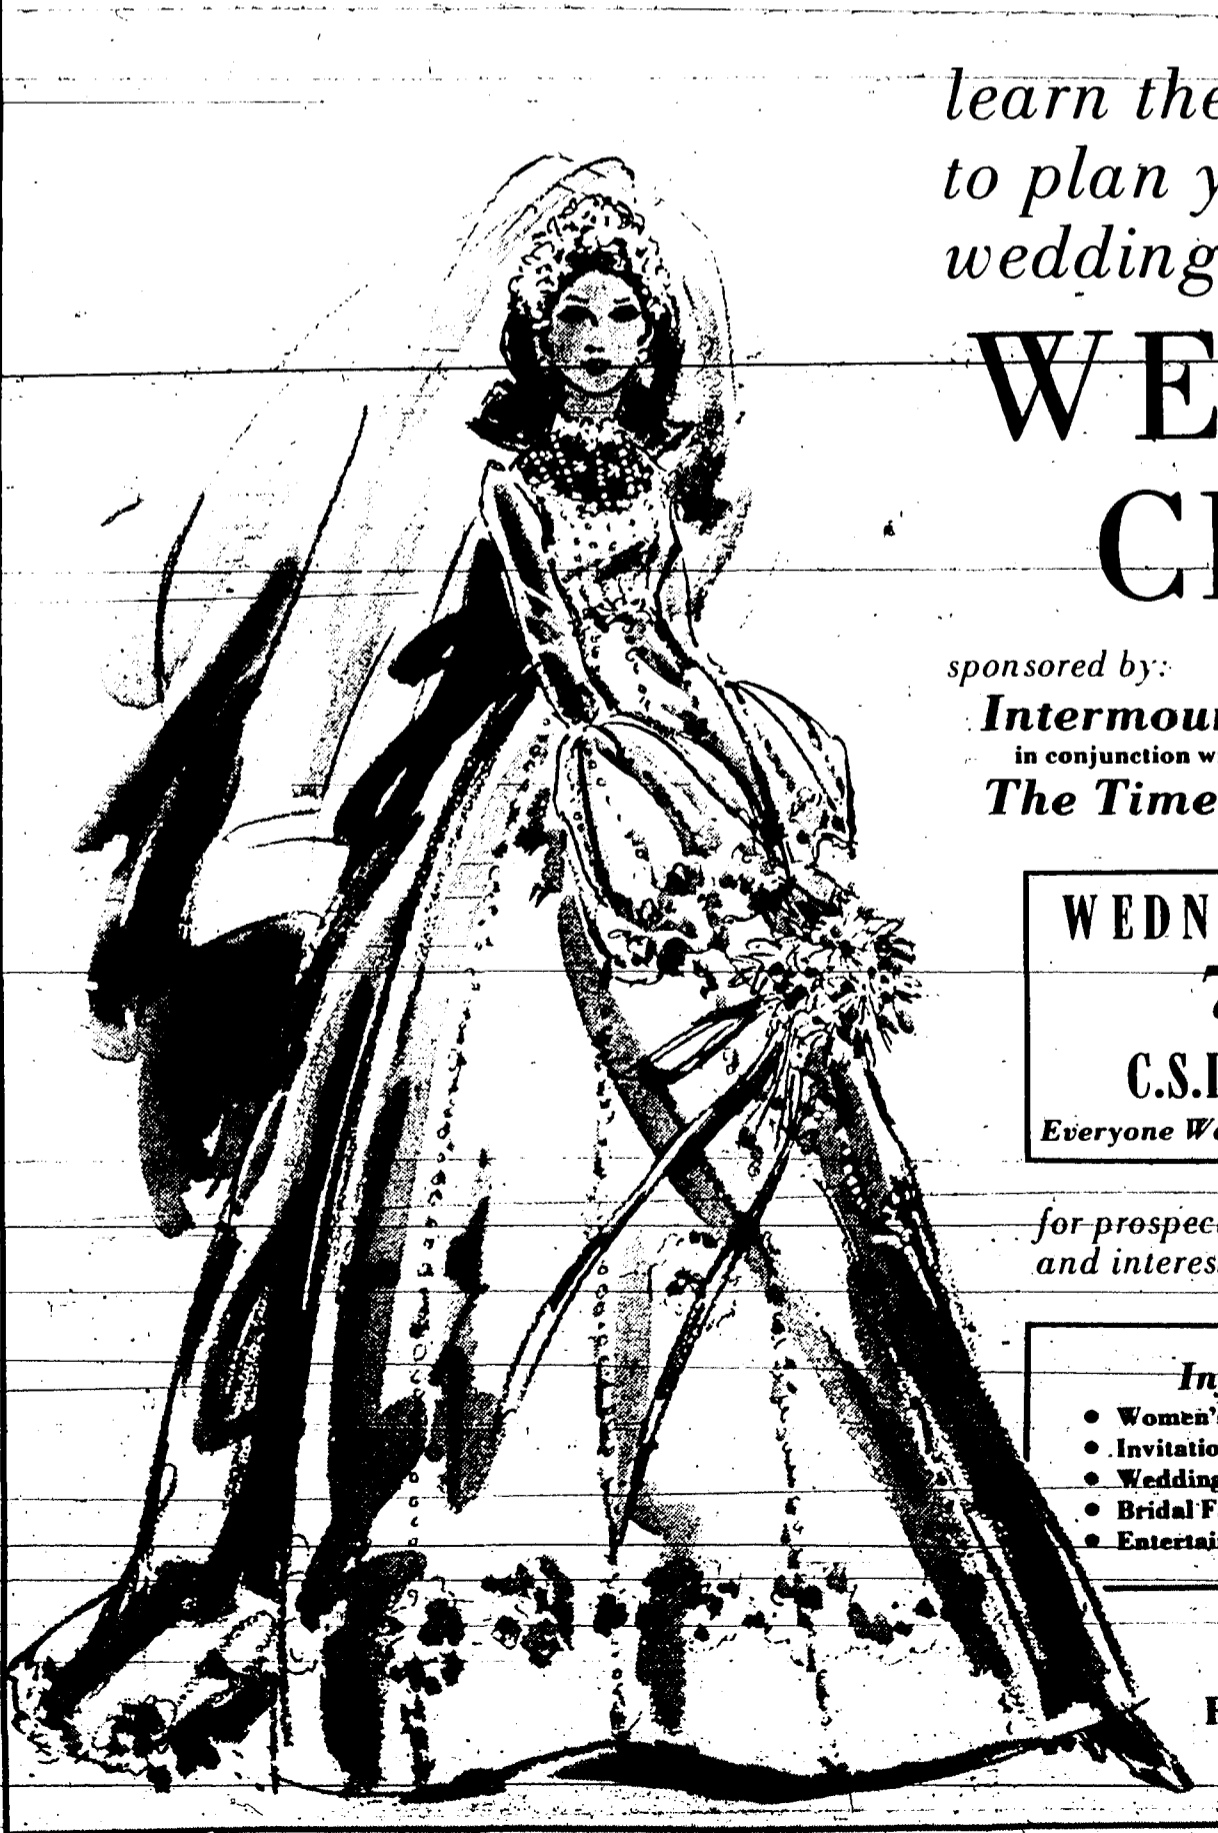

When asked recently if the resignation request was strictly a political move, Hinkley said, "All department head jobs are political in nature." He said three applications are being considered a possible replacement for Moulton. They are Melvin E. Hirschi, University of Idaho faculty member; State Sen. Darrell Manning, D-Pocatello; and Pete Hill, Idaho Falls.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—If you have hanging flower pots, get some corks to fit the bottom drainage holes. When the plants need a good soaking, especially when using liquid plant food, put corks in the holes. When plants have had their soaking remove the corks and let the excess water drain off. Be careful where it drips.—MRS. H. W.

ARE YOU USING SOME KIND OF PLANT STARTER?

DEAR POLLY—Put a red scarf on the radio antenna on your car. Pull it up as far as it will go, to have a banner that will make your car easy to find in a crowded parking lot. It's also a nice way to direct friends to your car when the need arises.—RUTH

AND HE SAID HE NEEDED THE MATTRESS TO WORK!

DEAR POLLY—To form those little ringlets that so many like to wear to the front of the ears, use small curlers from a doll hair set. They make ringlets just the right size.—ANNETTE

DEAR POLLY—I keep an electric fan sitting on my dresser during the winter. As I get up each morning I throw the sheet and blankets back over the end of the bed, turn the fan on and let it blow on them for about half an hour before remaking the bed. This keeps it fresh-smelling between sheet changes.—MRS. S. D.

DEAR POLLY—Walnuts will come out of their shells whole instead of in pieces if the walnuts are first frozen.—KATHI

DEAR POLLY—I have a board about seven or eight inches wide and the width of my bath room wash basin. When I am ready to apply my make-up I lay the board across the top of the sink and spread out all the jars and bottles without any danger of them falling in the sink and breaking.—NANCY

DEAR POLLY—If your husband has some favorite ties too narrow for today's styles, open the seam on the wider end of the tie for about 12 inches and insert a triangle of plain material to make it the desired width, hand-sew in place and press. Quick and easy!—MRS. A. T. K.

DEAR POLLY—I use translucent powder over cream eye shadow to set it, and find this is especially good in warm weather.—SANDY

DEAR POLLY—Use ribbon instead of wire to hang pictures in a child's room, and cover the tack with a bow of the ribbon to add to the decorative effect.—MRS. AL

FOR JOHN INGERSOLL,

Director of the Bureau of Narcotics & Dangerous Drugs

On "Meet the Press," you said when a drug pusher is arrested, he is booked and then released on bail. Sometimes it is a year before his trial comes up in court and that you know he goes right back to pushing dope, but you don't bother to arrest him again. Is this true?—Mrs. James Becroft, Franklin, Ohio

I think it is possible that you misunderstood me. If drug traffickers released on bail between their arraignment and trial, which can be sometimes as long as a year, begin to sell drugs again, we do arrest them, providing we can collect sufficient evidence for prosecution which will stand up in court.

FOR LYNN SCHROEDER,

coauthor of "Psychic Discoveries Behind the Iron Curtain."

Do you feel the Russians are trying to put their psychic discoveries to use to help their military program?—John Forbes, Salt Lake City, Utah

When you see that the Russian military is providing most of the funds, you have to conclude that they are headed in that direction. One of their hopes is that they will be able to use mental telepathy to communicate with astronauts.

FOR MORT WEISINGER,

author of "The Contest"

After reading your book about beauty pageants, I would like to know if you discovered any unusual facts about the Miss America contest.—Claire Berger, Teaneck, N.J.

Not one Miss America has ever achieved the fame of three rejected contestants—Shirley Jones, Dorothy Lamour and Joan Blondell. No redhead has ever won the Miss America title. The most embarrassing moment in Miss America history occurred in 1969 when Judith Ford won the crown, although the pageant's sponsor was Oldsmobile.

FOR DINA MERRILL, actress

Why did you decide to put out a line of cosmetics? Have you always been very interested in this sort of thing?—Ruth Loehrig, Dayton, Ohio

Since make-up is so vital to an actress—both in the interpretation of her role and the effect it has on her skin—I naturally am interested in make-up that

FOR BILLY GRAHAM, evangelist

In a recent article, you wrote that there are 25 signs of the coming of Christ now in the process of being fulfilled. Will you please tell us what a few of the most important ones are?—Mrs. George C. Meiron, Abingdon, Va.

Among the signs of the second coming of Christ are: (1). The "distress and perplexity of the nations, Luke 21:25. (2). The wickedness and a moral breakdown would be evident and rampant upon the face of the earth, Genesis 6:5 and 13, Luke 17:26 and 27. (3). False religions and false teachers will appear in the religious life of the world, Matthew 24:11, I Timothy 4:1. (4). There shall be a falling away from the spiritual standards and sin shall be more rampant, II Timothy 2:3. (5). There shall be wars and rumors of wars over the face of the earth, Matthew 24:6. These and many more signs are now appearing on the horizon as being definite evidence of the second coming of Christ.

is pure and easy to use. Both as an actress and a woman fussing with a lot of cosmetics never appealed to me. Fortunately, a cosmetic company was interested in my ideas, and so my line of cosmetics came into being.

FOR DANNY THOMAS

What is your position with the St. Jude Hospital for children with leukemia? Where is this hospital located, and approximately how many patients are treated there at one time? Is significant progress being made toward a cure for the disease?—Elsie Simon, Trenton, N.J.

I am founder and president of the St. Jude Hospital for children in Memphis, Tenn. The hospital is a research center but does have facilities (beds) for 36 patients. I've every hope that eventually a cure will be found for leukemia, but my approach to the subject is one of cautious optimism.

FOR WILLIAM M. PETERS,

President of National Association to Keep and Bear Arms

Does your Association claim credit for the defeat of Senators Tydings, Dodd, Gore and Goodell to Congress on the basis of their pro-gun registration views?—Mrs. L. W. Moore, Roseburg, Ore.

Millions of Association informed Americans now stand as a bulwark of patriotism with the demand that those who would lead the United States of America must return to God and country and to the United States Constitution as it is written and not as it is, I believe, far too often communistically interpreted by many persons in "positions of trust and leadership. It is because of this bulwark of patriotism that I am convinced the dedicated and tireless efforts of Association members throughout our country were not only instrumental in the defeat of Senators Tydings, Dodd, Gore and Goodell but also greatly aided in the defeat of many other anti-gun politicians at state and local levels throughout our country.

FOR HILDEGARDE, singer

I read your book, "Over 50—So What," a few years ago. Are you still so frank about your age, and if so, what is it?—Isobel Dennison, New York, N.Y.

My dear, I celebrated my 65th birthday on Feb. 1, during my engagement at the Rainbow Grill in New York City. I must admit it was a day I dreaded, but it wasn't bad at all. If antiques get more valuable as they get older, why shouldn't I?

FOR MELVIN LAIRD,

Secretary of Defense

Are there any other countries besides the United States that draft men under penalty of prison?—Mrs. Ella Kram, Langdon, N.D.

FOR BOWIE KUHN,

Commissioner of Baseball

Why are we privileged to see four football games on Sunday but no baseball games? And only a choice of one on Saturday, a day that many fans have other things to do. That may explain why football leads baseball.—R. D. Ludwig, Fairmont, Ind.

All our clubs televise their games, both home and away, ranging from a small number of their entire schedule. No other sports can claim such a service to the public. You are mistaken in your assertion that football leads baseball.

FOR JACQUES-YVES COUSTEAU, aquanaut

Do aquatic mammals, such as seals and walrus, drink fresh water, sea water or no water, at all?—Mrs. Paul C. Smith, Stateline, Nev.

As a rule sea mammals do not drink water. Their water comes from the metabolic breakdown of foods, resulting in CO<sub>2</sub> and H<sub>2</sub>O. Some of this water is used to replace that lost in urine. The kidneys are extremely efficient and retain much water resulting in a very concentrated urine.

A Man's View: What Women Really Have To Complain About.

By Sloan Wilson

As the father of three daughters and of a son who is soon to present me with a daughter-in-law, I have a complaint: our kind of civilization is too tough on women, and it's getting tougher all the time.

No matter what a young woman does these days, a lot of people try to make her feel bad about it. If she is a quiet, prudent girl who believes she should not try to grow up too fast and that sex can be frightening when it is urged upon her without love, responsibility or thought of marriage, many of her peers jeer at her as a square or some sort of old-fashioned, neurotic nut. On the other hand, if she tries to become a real swinger, she reads condemnation in the eyes of her parents and in the faces of many of her more conservative friends. Girls are asked to make decisions about their life style at a much earlier age than was common in my youth, and because there is more confusion about what is right in the hearts of most people, there is no course a young woman can follow without self-questioning and regret.

exerts more of a strain on girls than it does on boys for the simple reason that girls risk more than boys do when they make love. They risk more physically, as is evidenced by the great number of juvenile pregnancies, despite all the talk about easy birth control. For many reasons they risk more emotionally. Even if girls don't get pregnant, they can make themselves miserable worrying about it, and no pill has yet been invented which will prevent a girl from expecting that a man or boy who makes love to her will treat her with a kind of love and consideration which never will go out of style.

When a modern girl finds that she is being taken casually and without responsibility, she is hurt just as much as women all through history have been in similar circumstances. The main difference between the girls of today and those of prior generations is that the young are not protected any more. Gone are the chaperones, gone is the parental supervision much of the time, gone is the generally accepted code of conduct which allowed a girl to be indignant if she were asked to break it. We live in an age which expects young girls to control their own passions and those of young men with very little help. This makes no more sense than it would to give adolescents control of large amounts of money or to put them at the wheels of powerful automobiles without any speed limits or traffic rules. I am astonished not by the amount of misery which results from this failure of adults to help the young, but by the fact that so many young women have the sense and the strength to grow up triumphantly anyway.

If a young woman survives the chaos of growing up in a world with no clear guidance lines concerning sex, she faces another dilemma: should she concentrate on making some man a good wife or on a career? Many magazine articles, newspaper news and television experts assure her that she does not have to make a choice, that she can, if she is any sort of a woman at all, do both. Countless young women believe this and feel they are failures if they do not become a beloved wife and mother while at the same time achieving dramatic success in a profession, in the arts or in business. I believe that it is long past time to point out the obvious truth that almost no woman can find the energy and time to make headlines on her own, and at the same time to fulfill the needs of a husband and of young children.

No matter how "liberated" women may become, men who have demanding careers of their own usually need a full-time helpmate at home. In this age, when it is almost impossible to find domestics, the all-important job of rearing children cannot easily be delegated to anyone. The more successful a man becomes, the more he needs a full-time wife as a partner who can make his home an island of order in a sea of confusion. I do not think I am the only man in the world who simply could not exist without a wife who can keep the world off his back while he works and who makes a home pleasant enough to be worth all the struggles and frustrations we all must endure.

Of course, there will always be a few glossy career women who will appear on television and in colorful magazine layouts with tales of how they scaled the heights of their profession while at the same time keeping a husband and several children marvelously happy at home. I have known several of these frantic ladies, and most of them are keeping up a pathetically fragile front. The few who do manage to achieve real success in a career without making their husband and children feel short-changed have been lucky enough to find an extraordinary man to marry, a male animal so strong, so self-sacrificing and so without needs that he can permit his wife to give a large amount of her time and energy to a career without resentment at all.

The trouble is that not many of these paragons exist. Many who try to play the part are men who feel so unable to cope with the world that they welcome a wife who will fight the battles for money and for prestige for them. Women strong enough to win real distinction in the arts, in science or in business rarely are satisfied with weak men for long, and become more and more frustrated when they find that strong men usually demand a full-time wife.

Of course, I don't say that it is absolutely impossible for any woman to combine an exciting career with a satisfying marriage, but I cannot imagine a goal more difficult to reach. After all, few people have the requirements for success in a career, even if they devote all their time and energy to it, and few people are able to create a truly happy marriage even if they are unhampered by the distractions of a demanding job. To ask a young woman to do both these things and to meet all the needs of young children at the same time, is unbelievably cruel and unrealistic.

Yet many women nowadays feel inadequate if they have devoted themselves fully to their home and equally inadequate if they have given themselves fully to a career. If a career woman is married, she often tortures herself by comparing her part-time efforts as a homemaker with the full-time endeavors of her sisters who do not have jobs. Women who, as they say, "have settled" for being "just a wife and mother" torture themselves equally by comparing their appearance to that of professional models or actresses and their earning capacity with that of experienced female executives. In such a game almost no woman can win.

The "Women's Lib" enthusiasts, it seems to me, increase all this confusion and frustration, for they appear to denigrate women who do not find it demeaning to work full-time at raising healthy children and keeping a man happy and strong enough to realize his full potential, both at his job and at home. Old-fashioned advocates of the theory that a woman's only place is in the home also add to the bewilderment because they do not take into account the obvious fact that not all women can get married, happily or otherwise, and that many women who can simply prefer a career of their own to the responsibilities of being a wife and mother. It is pointless to ask whether it is better for a woman to choose a career or the equally demanding role of a housewife. Obviously some individuals are better suited to one kind of life, some to another, and regardless of personal preferences, the world often has a way of reducing choices and handing a woman a situation she has to manage as best she can. Neither career women nor full-time wives should be criticized, and it is criminal, I think, to make each feel guilty because she has not succeeded in living two kinds of life at once.

Men never are subjected to this kind of attack because the role of a father and husband has never been conceived as a conflict between the demands of a job and the demands of a home. It is theoretically possible, I suppose, for a husband and wife to have equally demanding jobs and to divide equally the tasks of cooking, cleaning the house and rearing children. In such an establishment, the husband would find it difficult to compete with men whose wives did not make such demands on their time and energy. Perhaps that is one reason why one almost never sees such a situation exist. If the wife works, our society still gives her the full responsibility for the home and children. That is unfair, but it's the way it works out, and it's hard to see how the situation can be changed.

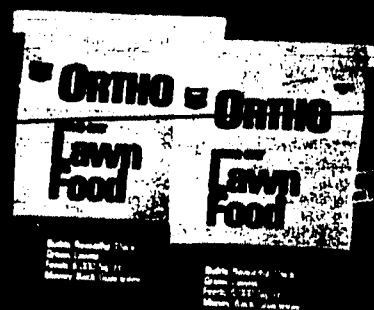

If, as I believe, a lot of young girls are made unhappy by being left almost completely unprotected in a world which cannot seem to agree on questions of morality or custom, and if a lot of women are made unhappy by being made to feel that it is not enough to be a full-time wife or to have a demanding career, we men have a problem because I don't think many men are happy for long if they are surrounded by unhappy women. Perhaps this problem is largely of our own making because many of us tend to lecture our daughters on high standards of morality without much sympathy for the problems they face when they go out with youngsters their own age without any supervision. Perhaps too few husbands feel grateful to their wives for giving up jobs that might be more fun than housework sometimes, and perhaps it is time for male executives to stop making career women feel as though they are less than feminine because they decided not to try to add the responsibilities of a husband and children to the demands of their job.

The main reason why America is so tough on women nowadays is that American men keep trying to have everything both ways at once. They want to be modern enough, and perhaps lazy enough to give full freedom to their adolescent daughters, but at the same time they are often terribly disappointed if those young girls are confused by that freedom or use it to be any different from their mothers and grandmothers, who rarely had to contend with such a lack of guidance.

They want their wives to be on hand whenever they or their children need them, and they also want their secretaries and other women in their office to be on hand whenever needed, but they cling to the notion that really superior women ought somehow be able to keep everybody happy at once.

If we men want the happiness of living with a contented wife and daughters, and of working with contented women in the office, we are going to have to demand less of them and to respect them more for surviving in a world that is even tougher on them than it is on us. ♦ a simple plan of hearty eating and gentle body toning that

Turns up your "Digestive Furnace" and burns flab right off your body!

From the office of the "body-slimming specialist" whose patients have lost from 26 pounds to 148 pounds each, without a single moment's hunger!

A doctor who is so successful—who has produced so many incredible weight losses for men and women of all ages—that new patients are often forced to wait as much as several months to see him!

And—most astounding of all—a doctor who forces his patients to lose weight by eating! By eating three full meals a day—all with second helpings, and with "fill-em-up snacks" at bedtime (if they still have room for them)!

Because this doctor has discovered an "upside-down" way to reduce! A way to lose weight (to repeat this all-important fact once again) by eating, and not by starving! Because the foods he feeds you—and the simple "body-toning exercises" he recommends for you—automatically make your "inner furnace" burn hotter—so that flab turns into fuel—and you can lose 20...40...60...80...even 100 or 120 ugly pounds in the most delightful way you've ever dreamed possible!

Revolutionary? Yes! Controversial? Yes!
But It Works! Hundreds Upon Hundreds Of Personal Patients Follow This Simple Plan
Every Month! AND We'll Let You Prove At Our Risk That It Can Work For You!

So here it is: A new way to lose the kind of weight you've always thought it was possible for you to lose. And do it—not by starving—but by eating as much as you want wisely!

Yes, this is a diet—an eating diet! That forces you to eat at dinner, even though you may actually feel full from breakfast and lunch and the hearty snacks you've had in between!

Yes, there are certain foods you can't eat, because they're poison for your weight. But this doctor pays you back for passing by those "poison foods"—by letting you take another second helping of other foods you love instead! And you keep right on burning off the weight!

Yes, you have to stick to the diet every day if you want to keep on melting off those pounds. And you have to stick to the diet even if you've lost 40 or 60 or 80 or 100 pounds—so you can keep that weight off for good! But who wouldn't want to stay on a diet that lets you fill up your plate with delicious delicacies over and over again! And snack in the morning! Snack in the afternoon! Snack delightfully every night before you go to bed!

And One Extra Point: This Diet Has A Second
Giant Benefit For You! It Drains THE EXCESS
FLUID Out Of Your Body, That You May Never Have Been Able To Lose Before!

This second way of evaporating ugly flab from your body is perhaps equally as important as the first. For medical science now knows that a huge portion of those ugly bulges on your waistline, hips, thighs, buttocks and elsewhere is nothing but plain trapped water! And that even when you melt away the fat itself, too much bulge remains until you get the trapped water out with it!

You probably already know this. But did you know that most of the ways you use to lose weight today—most of the so-called "diet foods" you use to try to starve that weight off your body—actually increase the amount of trapped water in your tissues!

This includes the Number One "reducing fruit," eaten by millions of men and women when they want to go on a "crash diet"—and that is so effective at retaining water in the body that the armed forces uses it to keep men from bleeding to death when they have no plasma handy!

This also includes the Number One "reducing cheese"—and the Number One "reducing hot drink"—and every single one of the so-called "no-calorie" or "low-calorie" soft drinks! They are all "super water holders"! And unless you know when and how to use them—and when not to use them at all you'll simply swell up like a balloon, even if you're conscientiously starving yourself twenty-four hours a day!

In Just Fifteen Minutes With His New Book,
This Doctor Teaches You How To Drain Out
That Excess Fluid—As Well As That Ugly Flab—
And Do It Without Destroying Your Face!

At this point, we must quote the doctor himself. Here is what he says: "The results of this diet will never be seen by your friends in sunken cheeks, hollow eyes, folds of unfilled skin, or other evidences of the typical starvation diet. If you stand before a mirror, you will have nothing but memory, and perhaps an old photograph, to tell you where you carried the weight before which has now disappeared."

At the same time, he also says: "My patients find that soon enough their clothes will become frightfully loose; even their shoes become too big. If you stick to my diet, you might even have to have your bowling ball redrilled."

And he quotes patient after patient, like this: "I am very happy with the results. I can wear a size 12 dress (was 20) or suit, and some size 10 dresses. Weight was 183, now 136... I feel 10 years younger too."

No wonder prospective patients wait as much as several months to see this man—to learn how they can lose 20...40...60...80...100 and even 120 pounds with a diet that forces them to eat and eat again—and that drains excess fluids right out of their bodies at the exact same time!

But YOU don't have to wait a single minute! All you need to do to try this revolutionary diet—AT OUR RISK—is simply send in the coupon below! It must work for you, or every single penny of your money back! Why not start losing that ugly flab—for good—today!

Star Profile/By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Mary Tyler Moore: From Mini-Slump To Big Comeback

Says a friend, "Mary is ambitious, but she has never been a bore about it."
And that's the saving grace. . . .

After spending most of her 33 years trying to deal with a lonely childhood, a rebellious adolescence, a disillusioning first marriage when she was 17 and the interim years of struggle for recognition, Mary Tyler Moore is convinced she's finally happy.

Being secure as the wife (since 1963) of Grant Tinker, ex-television executive-turned-producer, and mother of 15-year-old Richard (by her first marriage), has a lot to do with her contentment. But most significant is the fact that Mary—star of the highly rated TV series, the "Mary Tyler Moore Show," a product of her own MTM Production Company—is now the success she has always dreamed of being.

When Mary first captured TV audiences as Laura Petrie, the very human and very vivacious wife of Dick Van Dyke on "The Dick Van Dyke Show," she suspected her success was due to Dick's charisma. "He was so fantastic, I thought his glow had just rubbed off on me." For five years she felt like a spill-over from Dick. She wanted to know whether she could succeed—really succeed—on her own.

When Mary was offered a seven-year contract at Universal at the closing of Dick's show, she took it, and was miscast as the shy darling in "Thoroughly Modern Millie." It was a devastating experience. "I am simply not geared for movie-making."

So Mary decided to tackle Broadway. She got a year off from the studio, moved to New York with Grant and Richard and nearly killed herself trying to make a hit out of the disastrous "Breakfast at Tiffany's." Richard Chamberlain, another refugee from TV, was her costar in the ill-fated play.

Thanks to a tenacious streak that has never let her deviate from her desire to be a success, Mary mended quickly. "At first I blamed myself for the 'Tiffany's' fiasco—probably because I never had confidence in myself and my ability."

She returned to Hollywood and remained dissatisfied with herself in such films as "Don't Just Stand There," "What's So Bad About Feeling Good" and "Change of Habit." When CBS asked Mary to star in her own series, she could hardly believe it. "I wanted to—but I wasn't sure whether I could, or whether I should! I certainly wasn't going to turn them down!"

Once production started, however, Mary began to relax for the first time in years. Referring to her production unit, Mary said, "We respect one another, and we have a lot of fun. I could sense the same feeling building on the set that we had on Dick's show, and that made that one work well for so long."

Mary's life has always pivoted around her career. In a way, it is an obsession. Said a friend, "Mary is ambitious, but she's never a bore about it." And that's the saving grace.

Mary's nagging ambition was noticeable when she was a child and pleaded to be allowed to take extra dancing lessons after school. The harder she worked to assure herself she was the best, the less time she had for friends and family. A few years after the family moved to Los Angeles from Brooklyn—Mary was eight at the time—she was convinced her parents really didn't want her. Both of them worked, her mother as a telephone operator and her father for the Edison Company. When her father was home, he was an adamant disciplinarian. Her mother tried to compensate by being overly indulgent. As a result, Mary didn't know what was expected of her, so when she was 14, she moved in for a while with an aunt.

Even the night of graduation, when a girl usually thinks about her new dress and a date for the prom, Mary was more concerned about getting a good night's sleep because she was to audition the next day for a TV commercial.

She gave up the party, got the job and received $2,000 a day for dancing around some kitchen appliances.

Once she graduated and was receiving such an astronomical salary, Mary thought she had life pretty well under control. She decided to marry Richard Meeker, "the boy next door." Looking back, she admits that, in a way, it was an act of defiance aimed at her parents. A year later her son was born. Neither squelched her ambition. Mary still wanted a career in show business.

Mary's first break came when she was cast as Sam on "The Richard Diamond Show," back in 1959. As a gimmick, only her legs were seen. After 13 weeks of that, Mary, fed up with nobody knowing the appendages were hers, left to do guest shots on "77 Sunset Strip," "Hawaiian Eye" and "Bachelor Father." Finally she landed the role of Laura Petrie. But even that five-year success didn't satisfy her. Like most TV actresses, she wanted a crack at making movies.

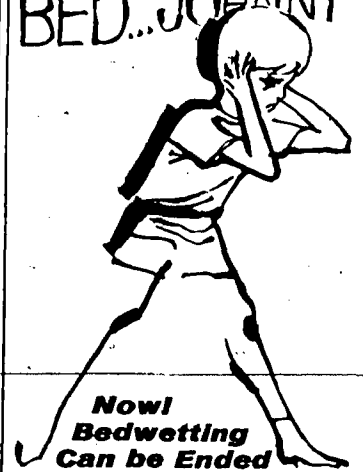

It was disappointing for her to discover that she didn't click on the big screen as she had on TV, and it was also a shock for her to realize that she really didn't like making movies: "But I had to make movies before I learned what it was about making them I didn't like."

Grant Tinker fell in love with and married Mary while she was doing "The Dick Van Dyke Show." Although he doesn't feel that Mary's career should be the center of their lives, he is content to stay in the background.

Right now, everything is coming up roses for Mary. "I enjoy life more than I ever did," she says. "I've always taken things to heart, but I am very resilient, and I've learned to put things in their proper place and forget them."

As Mary's show steadily climbs on the rating chart, she says, "It is as if I've come back to life. I feel I am fulfilling a real function: I am making people laugh. And I am proud of what I am doing. I spent too many years being unhappy. No more!" ♦

When children discover that a playmate wets his bed, the result can be merciless teasing and serious psychological problems.

The entire family can be affected. The cost and work of taking care of a bedwetting child can cause friction and irritability among parents.

It is quite possible that your child will EVENTUALLY outgrow bedwetting, but what happens until that time comes? Medical authorities have stated that a bedwetting child feels that he is a disgrace to his family. Statistics prove that a bedwetting child achieves below his real ability in school. And the child is embarrassed and ashamed. But, now, bedwetting, when not caused by organic defect or disease, can be ended. Safely. Permanently.

What Dr. Richard Van Gelder, Chairman and Curator, Department of Mammalogy of the American Museum of Natural History, has to say about "The Illustrated Encyclopedia of the Animal Kingdom"

... Here in these books is source material for the future of man. He is a relative newcomer on the evolutionary scene, and he has attempted to dominate and to destroy the environment. It is now clear that his concept of altering nature is leading only to disaster. The evolutionary message is clear: he must either change his methods or face extinction from his own folly. There are many examples in these books of how he might adapt to his environment, rather than attempt to adapt the environment to him. Instead of "man against nature" he must choose to be "man with nature," and to come into harmony and equilibrium with the natural world around him."

Recipes for a Tight Family Budget

By Melanie De Proft
Food Editor

■ Wise homemakers keep the family budget in mind when shopping for food. They eagerly take advantage of supermarket specials on "marked down" items. They check local newspapers for stores offering attractive weekend "buys." Purchasing some foods in quantity often effects a sizable saving. Foods in season are usually plentiful, and therefore, priced within reach of most budget-minded shoppers.

Here are several recipes which should be cost-satisfying as well as palate-satisfying, although prices for many products may differ from one area of the country to another.

Pile the Mustard-Sauced Carrots and Mashed Potatoes to side of kraut at opposite corners. Drizzle melted butter or margarine over potatoes.
3. Set under broiler with top 6 to 8 in. from heat until franks are browned. Turn franks and continue broiling until franks and potatoes are lightly browned. Serve on the plank. 4 servings

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Pidgeting, loss of sleep and a tormenting itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms... ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily, and painlessly.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge—small, easy-to-take tablets... special sizes for children and adults.

How You Can Make Your Gasoline
Go Farther By Richard Trubo

Most automobile manufacturers claim that their cars get more miles-per-gallon than their competitors. But no matter what kind of car you drive, you can help determine just how far your gasoline dollar will go.

Whether you own a domestic or foreign car, an automatic transmission or stick shift—there are certain driving techniques that you can adopt to increase your gas mileage.

1. Avoid quick starts. When you move away from a stoplight, do it smoothly.
2. Anticipate upcoming stoplights. Don't rush to a red light only to have to stop quickly. If you think a red light is about to turn green, slow down only enough so that you'll arrive at the intersection when the signal changes.
3. Use the gas pedal gently and smoothly. Don't pump the pedal. When you pass other cars, allow yourself enough clear road so you can make the move smoothly. Abrupt acceleration eats up gas.
4. Avoid excessive speeds at all times. You use up 10 percent more gas at 60 m.p.h. than at 50 m.p.h. Speeds higher than 60 m.p.h. drain your gas tank even more.
5. When the car is stationary for an indefinite period, kill the motor. If you are waiting to pick someone up, you're only wasting gas by keeping the motor running.
6. Learn to maneuver hills properly. Since speed costs less on a flat road than on an incline, accelerate slightly before the hill, and let your momentum help you ascend the hill more economically.
7. Keep your tire pressures at the levels recommended in your owner's manual. If one tire is "softer" than the others, it will tend to drag. As well as causing uneven tire wear, your gas mileage will decrease substantially. Check your tire pressure about once a week.
8. "Back off" of the gas pedal slightly when you're driving on high-speed freeways. Accelerate to the speed you desire, then ease off the pedal slightly. Usually your speed will remain the same, but the decreased pedal pressure will send less gasoline to the engine.
9. Avoid panic stops. Leave plenty of safety space between you and the car in front. Tail-gating only increases the chances of quick stops—and accidents—and eats up your gasoline dollar, too.
10. Experiment with different brands of gasoline. Run about three or four tanks of a brand through your car, keeping accurate tallies of the gallons, mileage and costs. You may find that a particular gasoline is more economical for your particular car. ♦

Constipated Today?

You wouldn't be if—

...you realized that as you get older your system naturally slows down and the laxative you have been taking may no longer be best for you. So, if you've been taking magnesium, salts, oils or harsh chemical laxatives once a week or more and you're still not satisfied—here's a better way to end constipation worries. Take medically proven Serutan. It's different!

Unlike other laxatives that may cause irritation or griping, Serutan, taken daily, forms a soft gel which moistens food wastes and shapes them into a well-formed stool. Serutan produces the proper amount of bulk needed to help bring peristaltic stimulation to your sluggish colon. This is utterly different from forcing your system with harsh chemical laxatives which may dry you out. You can take gentle Serutan every day because it is a pure, non-irritating vegetable hydrogel and contains no harsh roughage, no chemical laxatives. Take Serutan every day to get regular—and keep regular.

Delicious Fruit Flavor

Serutan now comes in a delicious fruit flavor. Get Serutan regular powder, fruit flavor or toasted granules today. When you read Serutan backwards, it spells "natures." And nature's way is best. Get Serutan today.

I was the 320-pound "Baby" of the family.

By Martha Nick—as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

You can see from the crack that I used to jam my "320-pound pictures" at the back of a drawer.

DON'T misunderstand. At 320 pounds, I was no cradle baby. The fact is, I was in my twenties and so heavy that even my nieces and nephews noticed how I waddled. So they called me Baby Huey, the fat duck. It was embarrassing all right, but it actually took the threat of an operation to make me lose 175 pounds.

Of course, all that weight wasn't put on overnight. From the time I was twelve, I ate enough to feed my four brothers and three sisters. My parents, being dutiful, took me to doctors for tests, but the conclusion was that I had a normal thyroid and an overactive appetite. I simply liked food and nobody stopped me from eating. Maybe because I was the baby of the family and everybody spoiled me.

Anyway, by the time I'd left my teens, my appetite was enormous. My breakfast consisted of 12 fried eggs, a pound of bacon, a package of buttermilk biscuits, a quarter pound of butter and a quart of milk. I got so big, my mother often used upholstery material (and a size 60 pattern) to make me dresses.

Difficult as the clothing problem was, job hunting was even worse. At one place, they said I just wouldn't fit into their office. So I finally stayed home and ate myself into an acute gall bladder attack. But when the surgeon saw me, he refused to operate. Instead, he grabbed my belly and said, "Get that off or you won't live six months."

Like me better like I am now? So does everyone I know. They can hardly believe it. But that's what getting down to 145 pounds can do for a girl.

I sometimes wonder what I'd have done, if my mother hadn't discovered Ayds®. you know, that vitamin and mineral reducing-plan candy.

It had worked for her, but I'd never given it a fair chance, as I hadn't with anything else. And let's be honest. To reduce, you just can't keep stuffing food into yourself. Like getting up in the middle of the night and gorging on cold cuts or leftover pork chops.

But this time, I was in earnest, so I bought some vanilla caramel Ayds—at the drugstore, though my mother often kept a box of one of the other flavors in the cupboard.

At first, I just substituted Ayds candies for between-meal snacks. And when you're used to eating a dozen crunchy-nut donuts at one clip, you can see how many calories I cut out of my day. Before too long, I began to see results, so I decided to follow the Ayds Plan properly. I took one or two Ayds before each meal with a hot drink (for me, tea) and those little candies really helped curb my appetite. Without harmful drugs, too.

It was around Christmas, I remember, and it was the first year that I hung more cookies on the tree than I ate. Of course, on the Ayds Plan, I ate lots of proteins and greens and I not only dropped pounds, but my blood pressure went from 220 to 125. The doctor was so amazed, he postponed my operation until July.

Meanwhile, I began to take up sports. I wanted as much exercise as I could get to let my muscles catch up with my skin. Besides, I wanted my social life to make up for my wasted years. You see, I'd been imprisoned in all that fat for so long that I needed to feel totally free. That's why I took up sky diving. Just the elements and me! A really super feeling.

Today, at 145 pounds, I've come completely out of my shell. I have a great job at Indiana Bell Telephone Company in South Bend, and these days I go out more than I stay in. What's more, for the first time in my life, I can face women on an equal basis. I'm not afraid of them anymore. In fact, I even feel secure enough to have a steady boyfriend. As for getting married, that can wait awhile. You see, thanks to Ayds, I still have a lot of living to do.

Are You A Good Judge Of Human Nature?

Your happiness is determined to a very large extent by your ability to understand people.

The more sensitive your insight into the personalities of the people around you, the better you are going to get along. People who lack the ability to see others as they really are, constantly are "disappointed in human nature" and place their confidence in the wrong people. Since understanding people—getting an accurate "feel" of their personality characteristics and how their minds work—is so important to us, you'll enjoy taking this true-or-false quiz which lets you in on science's most significant findings on this interesting subject.

1. Women are better judges of human nature than men.
2. A wife is a shrewd judge of her husband's character.
3. People who are good judges of other people are usually good judges of their own character.
4. A wife is a better judge of whether her spouse is telling the truth than a husband is.
5. A man can make a pretty accurate judgment of a girl's capacity for warmth and affection simply by taking her out to dinner.
6. The only way you can tell how good you are at sizing up people is by checking your track record—how many bull's-eye judgments, how many misses.
7. If you're a poor judge of others, there's nothing you can do about it.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychologists have found that in social situations women are far quicker than men to sense the other person's thoughts and feelings, much more acutely aware of the nuances of manner and the tone of voice which reveal another's under-the-surface feelings. As Rutgers University studies have shown, in interpersonal relations, women are more keenly sensitive to what is going on, more astute than men in telling the difference between what people say and what they mean.
2. False. Regardless of how expert a woman may be when it comes to seeing others as they really are, she tends to lose perspective and objectivity when it comes to judging her husband or anyone she feels close to. Psychological studies at the University of California have shown that though a wife may feel that no one understands her husband as well as she does, her judgment is distorted by blind spots.

3. False. Psychological studies show the people who have the keenest perception when it comes to sizing up others are likely to have difficulty in seeing themselves clearly. On the other hand, people who have the best insight into their own strengths and weaknesses, tend to be the poorest judges of others.

4. True. Even though a woman may look at her husband through rose-tinted glasses, minimizing his faults and exaggerating his virtues, she is far more expert than he is in judging whether her spouse is lying or telling the truth—just by his voice. In tests at DePauw University, psychologists found that women are much more proficient than men in judging whether a person is lying or telling the truth from the sound of the voice.

5. True. If she's a picky eater, doesn't like this and can't abide that—give her a negative rating. Studies at the University of Texas have shown that people who are finicky about their food, tend to be similarly inhibited in the love and romance department, too.

6. False. Findings of a study by Colorado State University researchers provide a handy yardstick. Psychologists found that people who made the best scores in judging the character and personality traits of others tended to have these traits in common: they had well-balanced personalities, were tolerant of others, exhibited poise and self-control. Those who made poor scores in sizing up others tended to be lacking in emotional stability and in their self-control.

7. False. Just make it a practice not to make snap judgments. Cultivate the art of drawing the other person out. Most people, when encouraged, love to talk about themselves. And the more they talk, the more completely they reveal themselves to you. Learn to be a good listener. People will tell you a great deal more about themselves than they realize if you listen carefully. ♦
