

Court reaffirms stiff desegregation stance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court issued four major decisions today upholding busing to achieve school integration and establishing up-to-date new guidelines for the courts to follow.

The decisions were unanimous. All were written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

The key opinion came in a North Carolina case where the state had challenged a federal district judge's order that busing be increased in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg area to bring about racially balanced schools.

Burger said transfers were an integral part of many desegregation plans and "to be effective such a transfer arrangement must grant the transferring student free transportation."

The court also upheld zone pairings and a certain amount of deliberately imposed "racial balance" if needed to eliminate "all vestiges of state-imposed segregation.

"School authorities have wide discretion in formulating school policy," Burger wrote, "and, as a matter of educational policy school authorities may well conclude that some kind of racial balance in the schools is desirable quite apart from any constitutional requirements."

"However," Burger said, "if a state-imposed limitation on a school authority's discretion operates to inhibit or obstruct the operation of a unitary school system or impede the disestablishing of a dual school system, it must fall."

"State policy must give way when it operates to hinder vindication of federal constitutional guarantees," Burger ruled.

The court discarded the administration's assertion that school assignment plans should be "color blind."

"That requirement, against the background of segregation, would render illusory the promise of (the original school 1954 desegregation decision)."

In the North Carolina opinion, the court upheld in its entirety the district court's orders requiring the busing of 23,000 more children than had been transported the previous year. He had been reversed on busing younger pupils by the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

District courts, it added, "must weigh the soundness of any transportation plan" in light of today's guidelines.

OK spending T.F. school budget tops $3 million mark

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — A crowded agenda involving a budget hearing, discussion of Head Start programs, leave of absence request from a school official, a closed-door discussion of salaries and other items kept the Twin Falls School District board of trustees busy late into the evening Monday.

The trustees approved a $3,053 million general fund budget encompassing a 9 per cent increase in total general fund revenue and a 9.5 per cent increase in expenditures through the general fund.

Total revenue reflects a six-per-cent boost, with total spending higher by eight per cent, Dr. Ernest H. Ragland, superintendent of schools, told an overflow audience in the school administration offices.

The total school tax levy is expected to rise from $3.53 to $3.90 per $100 of assessed valuation, Dr. Ragland said.

Discussing the budget before opening it up to questions from the audience, Dr. Ragland itemized the revenue increases, including three-mill emergency tax levy, estimated to return $90,000 — but only if the total assessed valuation of the school district reaches $30 million by the time the levy is certified; an increase in state aid of $102,000; increase in assessed valuation, $125,000, returned from the levy on the higher valuation, and the state sales-tax apportionment in lieu of the inventory tax, $25,000, for a total of $342,000 in increased revenue.

On the other side of the coin, however, the school district stands to lose $80,000 in funds brought forward from the previous year, and $45,000 in student fees forbidden by court edict, for a total loss of $125,000.

Dr. Ragland explained that in figuring the current year's budget, the district could include $140,000 in funds brought forward from the previous year.

This year, however, the district will have, at most, $60,000 in funds from the previous budget, indicating a loss of $80,000 in available moneys.

"And we'll be extremely fortunate if we have even that much; we will probably wind up with half that," Dr. Ragland said.

Thus, Dr. Ragland pointed out, out of the overall revenue increase of $342,000, the district can anticipate only a net gain of $217,000 for the 1971-72 school year.

Lon Nol resigns post.

Cambodia leader resigns

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian Prime Minister Lon Nol, who helped lead the overthrow of Prince Norodom Sihanouk and then suffered a disabling stroke, resigned today along with his entire cabinet.

Lon Nol's brother, Col. Lon Non, said the resignation was little more than a formality and probably would not be accepted.

Political sources said Lon Nol and his cabinet submitted their resignations at the office of Chief of State Chen Heng today. However, there was no immediate official announcement.

Lon Nol and Cheng Heng led the bloodless coup against neutralist Prince Norodom Sihanouk March 18, 1970. Sihanouk was out of the country at the time and has since set up a government in exile in Communist China.

On Feb. 8 Lon Nol suffered a stroke. He later went to a U.S. military hospital in Hawaii for treatment and returned to Cambodia several weeks ago. But he never fully recovered from the effects of the stroke.

Col. Lon Non told UPI "the majority of his (Lon Nol's) friends, including military men, civilians, youth and religious personalities do not wish him to resign. They have submitted a motion to the Chief of State asking him not to accept the resignations and to request Lon Nol and Gen. Sirik Matak to stay on and form another government."

Septic dumpings studied

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — Pollution-conscious Twin Falls City Council members have called for new regulations prohibiting septic tank cleaning firms from dumping their waste collections in the city sewer system.

Monday night council members heard a report on the situation from City Manager Jean Milar and asked the city attorney to prepare an ordinance prohibiting such dumping. The firms will be required to haul the wastes to the city sanitary landfill at regular per load fees or dispose of them in other suitable landfill sites in the county.

Milar explained the dumping of a load of such wastes, heavy with grease presents a problem for the city primary sewage treatment facility. While they can be handled, he said, they require additional manpower and chemicals. He suggested a monthly fee be charged each firm to cover this.

Milar also said when the proposed secondary treatment plant is completed within one to two years such wastes cannot be accepted. He said it does increase the pollution degree of the present city treatment plant effluent but could be handled.

Council members agreed the change may as well be made at this time and the pollution to Snake River cut by any possible degree.

In other action the council approved an ordinance to bring the city sanitation code and sanitation service contractor agreement into line on hauling of tree clippings and limbs. Under the new regulation residents must tie the limbs and branches in bundles and must have them in lengths of no more than six feet.

Viet politics led to strike

SAIGON (UPI) — A South Vietnamese senator said today the Allied operation under way in the A Chau Valley was ordered to prevent the possibility of a Communist offensive which would jeopardize the presidential election next fall and cause "the country to be lost by the end of the year."

The statement by Sen. Huynh Van Cao, first vice speaker of the South Vietnamese Senate, came as U.S. and South Vietnamese forces set up bases, secured supply lines for the biggest Allied operation in the valley near the Laotian border in more than a year and a half.

Gen. Creighton W. Brams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, said he could not rule out another incursion into Laos as part of the operation. No contact has been reported in the drive as yet.

American helicopters killed 12 North Vietnamese troops and spotted bodies of another 18 Communists killed in U.S. air strikes in probing operations in preparation for the main drive.

Cao said the new operation, designated Lam Son 720, was ordered because without it, the Communists would be able to launch operations in June or July to take over South Vietnam's two northernmost provinces, Quang Tri and Thua Thien as well as Kontum and Pleiku provinces in the Central Highlands.

Such a Communist offensive would "jeopardize" the scheduled presidential election in October and could cause "the country to be lost by the end of the year," Cao said.

"Lam Son 720 is proceeding well to destroy forever the Communist plot to cut off the central region of Vietnam," Cao said.

Trustee race set

TWIN FALLS — A school board race for Zone 4 trustee is shaping up between a doctor's wife who teaches school and a veterinarian.

Mrs. E. M. (Marilyn) Wright announced today she will enter the trustee race opposing incumbent trustee Dr. Howard Ronk.

No other trustee position is contested. Friday is the last day candidate petitions can be filed for the May 11 election.

Mrs. Wright is the mother of four children who attend elementary, junior high and high schools in Twin Falls.

She earned her B.A. in political science from Western Reserve University, Cleveland, where she did graduate work in political science and education.

She and her husband, Dr. E. M. Wright, have lived in Twin Falls for 13 years.

Mrs. Wright said she feels "there is room for a woman and a mother on the board. Since money is limited it is time to think about the best ways of using it."

"As a mother and a teacher I am concerned with what happens to students as well as what happens to buildings," she said.

Cascade stench pondered

TWIN FALLS — The Cascade Commodities Corp. of Buhl was scheduled to return to court today in another of a long-delayed series of hearings over an odor problem at the carcass processing plant.

Fifth District Judge James M. Cunningham had originally issued an order for the plant to correct a severe odor problem at the plant or cease operations. The order was not obeyed to the satisfaction of the court or the residents of the area who brought a lawsuit against the concern, and a show-cause order was issued, ordering the firm to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt of court.

Coach returned

HAGERMAN — Robert Chapman, Hagerman High School coach and teacher, has been reinstated coach and teacher by Fifth District Judge Theron W. Ward, Twin Falls, pending further court action.

Judge Ward has signed a writ of mandamus re-instating Chapman in his job and set May 7 as the time for a show-cause hearing on the action in Twin Falls.

Chapman was fired recently by the Hagerman school trustees.

The writ was filed in Gooding County by the law firm of May and May, Twin Falls, in behalf of Chapman, but Judge Charles Scoggin disqualified himself and appointed Judge Ward to hear the case.

Kenneth Black, high school principal, said "No comment," on the issue when contacted today. Chapman was unavailable for comment.

Policy assailed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., charged today that President Nixon's Indochina policy is "morally impoverished."

"The assumption is that if we can support the Thieu-Ky regime's continuing the war, but have fewer Americans die while Asian blood continues to be spilled, then this war is somehow less wrong, and more tolerable," Hatfield testified at new Senate hearings on the war.

2 boys arrested in crucifixion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Homicide inspectors have turned two young boys over to the juvenile division in connection with the "crucifixion" death of a 20-month-old boy whose bruised body was found tied to a makeshift cross.

The nude, sheet-draped body of Noah Alba, who had disappeared from a city park six days ago, was found Monday in a dark, cluttered basement by officers who were led to the scene by the two suspects, ages 7 and 10.

One officer called it "the most gruesome crime scene I have ever met. There were horrible bruises and something resembling scrape marks all over the body."

Homicide Lt. Charles Ellis said it appeared the child had been dead since last Wednesday. He said he had been bound hand and foot to the makeshift cross and the body was covered with bruises and scratches.

Ellis would not release the identities nor permit pictures of the two youngsters being held. As he spoke to newsmen, the

$2 minimum wage asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said today Congress should raise the hourly minimum wage for 9 million workers from $1.60 to $2 effective next February.

The board discussed different locations of the new vocational building but tabled any firm decisions until someone had been hired for the state.

In the president's report, Dr. Taylor said the school year is progressing smoothly to graduation and that a multitude of activities has been taking place on the campus. He noted that graduation will be May 9 in the gymnasium for the first time.

Dr. Taylor said the school's three years of accreditation ends this year and will have to be renewed. He said an accreditation team will be on the campus May 11-12 to evaluate the school's program.

CSI trustees hike tuition

By MIKE ROBERTSON
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — A $100 per year increase in tuition for students residing within the district was approved Monday night by the College of Southern Idaho Board of Trustees.

The raise was included in next year's tuition schedule approved by the board.

The cost-per-equivalent full-time student in 1969 - 70 was $1,068. A seven per cent increase was projected per student in 1970 - 71 or a raise of $78. The projected cost per equivalent full-time student went up to $1,161 with the seven per cent increase.

According to the new schedule, the tuition for 1971-72 will be $125 per year including the $100 increase for district academic students. In-district and out-of-district vocational students will also pay at $125 per year also.

Academic out-of-district student tuition is set at $200 per year.

Counties will be billed $25 per year for each academic student.

Dr. James L. Taylor, CSI president, said the college will receive $332 for each student from the state next year. This amount was appropriated by the legislature, based on this year's enrollment of 1,168 students.

Dr. Taylor said the schedule will have the taxpayer's load decreased by increasing slightly the cost of district students so the taxpayer's money can be saved.

He said when the cost to students is decreased, the cost to the county is increased because more students will come to the college.

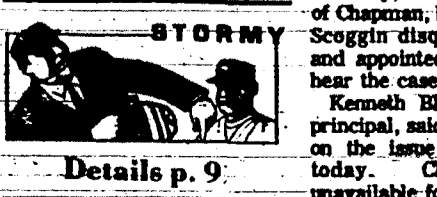

In other business, two new members were added to the CSI staff by the board on Dr. Taylor's recommendation.

Charles Vandfield, Creighton University, Omaha, Neb., was added to the physical education department as a new instructor by the board.

Louise Flowers, Twin Falls, was also employed as the personal secretary to Dr. Taylor to replace Bert DeWitt.

Dr. Taylor told the board the school received $42,000 from the legislature for vocational planning. He said that he asked for planning money so that next year he could ask for money to build what has been planned. Dr. Taylor recommended that the board propose to the state that they hire Ed Jones, of CTA, Architects, Engineers and Planners, to begin preliminary work on shop buildings and other vocational buildings on the campus. The board also named architects Harold Gerber and Ivan Stone to be considered by the state as planners.

DISPLAYING TOP JAYCEE award on the state level are members of the Twin Falls Jaycees. The local chapter received the Henry Gleason Memorial Trophy for being the outstanding Jaycee chapter in Idaho for 1971. The award is based on overall activities throughout the year and the award was presented this past weekend in Pocatello at the state Jaycee convention. From left are Doug Vollmer, state Jaycee director; Larry Utley, president of the local chapter, and Bud Phillips, external vice president. The last time Twin Falls received the award was in 1944.

By LINDY HIGH BOISE (UPI)—Chet Moulton, Idaho's director of aeronautics since 1946, said Monday he had told Gov. Cecil D. Andrus he would resign the post to make way for a new appointee. Moulton said he was asked to resign by Clifford Hinkley, Lewiston, chairman of the State Aeronautics Commission, who told him Andrus had promised the job to someone else "and he wanted to make the office available by May 1."

Moulton said he had met with Andrus last Thursday. But, he said, "I was told by the governor I was a big boy now and I knew these kind of jobs were traded around in campaigns and that's the way the ball bounces." Hinkley, contacted late Monday, said he had not yet received the resignation. He said, however, he would wait until the commission meets again April 27-29 in Boise to discuss the matter with the entire commission. Moulton said he had had "tremendous response" from pilots around the state who urged him not to resign, but added, "I've never known anybody who was asked for his resignation from a governor who didn't give it." Moulton made his statement several hours after Robert Lenaghan, acting director of the Department of Administrative Services, said he had studied and turned over to Andrus audit reports going back a decade. Andrus later turned copies of the audit report over to newsmen who questioned him, adding, "draw your own conclusions. I'm not going to make any accusations."

Lenaghan said he began studying the reports because "generally when you hear someone screaming like a cat whose tail has been stepped on you can calculate there's something more beneath the surface." He said it was "absolutely untrue" that Moulton would not receive retirement benefits if he were to resign. Moulton is less than two years away from full retirement age. Lenaghan said Moulton would receive only $30 less per month if he were to retire now than he would if he waited, adding, "besides, you don't have to put up with bad government just one guy can retire."

Finn seeks leave

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls English teacher, Ron Finn, yearbook adviser at Twin Falls High School, will head the Idaho Education Association as president for the 1971-72 school year.

RON FINN

Finn told school district trustees Monday night that the IEA delegate assembly in Boise last week adopted a resolution making the presidency a full-time position, beginning with Finn's year in office.

Previously, the post has required the IEA president to travel to Boise on organization business frequently during the year, but this is proving difficult as the work of the group expands.

Finn asked trustees for a year-long leave of absence, with the assurance that he would be allowed to resume his position in Twin Falls when his IEA term ends.

"This is a prestige position, and can bring a lot of honor to the Twin Falls district," Finn told the trustees.

John Wolfe, acting chairman of the school board, asked George Staudaer, incoming superintendent of schools, if he could fill Finn's position for a year. Staudaer agreed that he could, and Finn said he knows of "many teachers" who would be only too glad to accept a position, even if for only a year.

Carl Shaner, Twin Falls, a member of the IEA executive committee, told the trustees that they would be the first school board in the history of the state to make such a decision, since Finn's presidency is the first fulltime IEA position.

The trustees said in reply that perhaps they should consult the Idaho School Trustees Association on their opinion as to whether the IEA president each year should be allowed a year-long leave of absence.

The school board, lacking two absent members, Chairman Elmer Sommer and trustee Edward R. (Ted) Smith, agreed to take the request under advisement. Finn asked that a decision be returned well before July 1, when he is to assume the IEA presidency.

federally funded programs with which the district has been involved over the past few years. The trustees went into a closed session with the teachers' negotiation committee, chaired by Milton Barrus, at request of the committee. It was indicated, without confirmation, that salaries for the coming year were under discussion.

The trustees have yet to adopt a salary scale for next year. The teachers' committee has been discussing salaries for several months.

The CAA is going to "take a hard and cold look" at the Head Start program to determine its efficiency. "If we find the programs aren't being operated efficiently, we'll come down hard on them," Pratt said. The CAA board of directors will also determine if funds should be channeled into strengthening one or the other of the two Head Start programs, at the expense of the other.

George Staudaer, incoming superintendent of schools, who will succeed Dr. Ragland on July 1, said in his opinion the Head Start program is by far the most valuable of all 12

Annex action May 3

TWIN FALLS — Action on a proposed annexation ordinance involving properties south of the present city boundaries and fronting on State Highway 74 is expected to be taken in final form May 3, Mayor Frank Feldtman announced.

He told residents of the area attending the Monday night council meeting to protest annexation, the council is still reviewing protests and information submitted by property owners during a public hearing on the matter.

He said comments from residents on the west side of the highway as well as many on the east side will be given full consideration by the council before a final vote is taken. Mayor Feldtman said it will be possible for the council to annex only part of the area or all of it without having to present a new or amended ordinance for three additional readings.

Property owners attending Monday night's meeting said they object to being taken into the city because of tax increases and most feel they would have to invest sizable amounts for sewer lateral construction in order to obtain city sewer services. Many said they do not believe they could connect to the trunk line sewer at any cost because of their low property elevations.

4 receive club awards

TWIN FALLS — Four members of the I.B. Perrine Toastmasters Club received blue pencils Monday night at a meeting at Kay's Supper Club.

Ken Reid received a pencil for giving the best speech. For the table topics pencil, there was a three-way tie between Kent Kirk, Al Greenway and Robert Day.

General evaluator was Robert Day and Ron Finney was table topic chairman. Toastmaster was Duane Shrank. Other speakers were Wayne DeSpain, Harold Metz and Bill Foster.

Membership pens were presented to Shrank, Metz and Robert Brackett.

State's best

Budget adopted

(Continued from P. 1) The plant facilities fund will be hit hard by the projected roofing repairs on the high school and Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School, but ample funds are available at the present time for this work, Dr. Ragland said.

No formal protests were heard to the budget, but several persons questioned specific items. Rep. Ray Lincoln, R-Twin Falls, and Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, were presented as interested citizens and as state legislators.

Sen. Barker asked clarification of the three-mill emergency levy. The levy, allowed only when a school district records a five-per-cent or greater influx of students from one year to the next, would be for one year only, it was decided after a discussion. However, despite the additional 310 students expected from the closure of St. Edward's parochial school, the district will still need 28 more new students to qualify for the three-mill levy, according to trustee Frank De Luca. Based on the present total enrollment of 6,058, the five-per-cent level of increase would be 328 more students.

Answering a question from Rep. Lincoln about the level of state aid, in relation to the planned levy increase, Dr. Ragland pointed out that the Idaho Department of Education, in allocating state aid under the formula, considers the change in assessed valuation of the district. If assessed valuation increases substantially, Dr. Ragland said, the state tends to lower funds to the district.

The student increase in the 1971-72 school year would have a continuing effect on state aid — the influx may allow the three-mill emergency levy for the first year; then, in succeeding years, state aid would be increased in the "ADA," or average daily attendance formula.

Reid Pfefferle, a member of the teachers' negotiating committee, asked the trustees why the new budget indicated an increase in elementary teachers' salaries of about 15 per cent, but allows only eight per cent for an increase in secondary-level teachers. Pfefferle is a teacher at the high school, and represents the high school faculty on the negotiation team.

Dr. Ragland admitted that the budget figures are "only an estimate" of actual spending. John Wolfe, acting chairman of the school board in the absence of Elmer Sommer, agreed, saying that an increase in teachers' salaries is "definitely" indicated for the coming school term.

Following the hour-long budget hearing, the trustees heard a discussion of the Head Start program, administered by the South Central Community Action Agency (CAA). Dennis Pratt, executive director of the CAA, explained his agency's operations in detail, aided by Ann Kaster, Head Start director for the three-county CAA region.

Doyt Simcoe, director of special services for the Twin Falls School District, reviewed the school district's involvement in Head Start, saying that the CAA had been told funds would be cut by 7.5 per cent for the coming year by a economic stringency in Washington. Recently, however, Congress endorsed an appropriation which restores the funds, amounting to about $23,000 for the Magic Valley Head Start programs.

The decision on application of the restored funds will be made by the tri-county CAA board of directors, on recommendation from the Head Start directors and the allied Parents' Action Committee (PAC). The Twin Falls School District operates the half-day Head Start program at a cost of $75,000 per year.

Pratt said the Head Start program involves a two-pronged educational project, including the half-day Head Start classes for pre-school children of low-income families, and the full-day care program formerly known as Day-Care Centers.

The CAA is going to "take a hard and cold look" at the Head Start program to determine its efficiency. "If we find the programs aren't being operated efficiently, we'll come down hard on them," Pratt said. The CAA board of directors will also determine if funds should be channeled into strengthening one or the other of the two Head Start programs, at the expense of the other.

George Staudaer, incoming superintendent of schools, who will succeed Dr. Ragland on July 1, said in his opinion the Head Start program is by far the most valuable of all 12

County officials plan May wine sales meet

TWIN FALLS — Plans for a multi-county meeting early in May to discuss plans for legalized sale of table wines in retail grocery stores are being made here, County Commissioner Merl E. Leonard said today.

New legislation signed into law by Gov. Cecil Andrus, has made wine sales, similar to those in adjoining states, legal on a county local-option basis.

Commissioner Leonard said counties, including Twin Falls, are looking at the possibility not only as a convenience to the shopping public, but as a revenue issue in the face of rising property taxes.

He said most of the Magic Valley counties are playing a wait-and-see game, interested in doing what the citizens and merchants of their counties want them to do and what neighboring counties do. Under the law, citizens can petition to hold an election which could force the sales if the county commissioners do not take steps to make wine sales legal in grocery stores in their counties.

Leonard said many county officials feel this would simply be an additional taxpayer expense if a special election is held. It would thus be wiser to attempt to ascertain public sentiment and if citizens want the wine sales, to authorize them now. Most of the counties feel they should all follow the same course as it would be of no

Parks official sets T.F. talk

TWIN FALLS — John A. Rutter, director of the Pacific Northwest Region, National Park Service, will address the Twin Falls Rotary Club Wednesday on the National Park Service's park and recreation area concept.

After finishing high school in Twin Falls where he was born and reared, Rutter attended the University of California where he majored in forestry. He started with the Park Service at Yosemite National Park in 1935. Rutter served as a Park Ranger at Lassen and Sequoia-Kings Canyon National parks, as assistant superintendent at Rocky Mountain National Park. Rutter's park service career was interrupted by service as a naval intelligence officer in the Pacific during World War II.

In 1966, he was appointed director of the Park Service's Western Region, with headquarters at San Francisco. He has been director in the Pacific Northwest Region since 1968, with headquarters at Seattle.

The park and recreation area concept, a relatively new departure in recreation and resources management, has been proposed by several conservation and travel and tourism groups in Idaho for the Sawtooth Mountains region.

All seats taken for concert

TWIN FALLS — There will be no empty seats when the United States Army Field Band and Soldiers' Chorus appear in concert Sunday at 3 p.m. at the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium.

O. A. (Gus) Kelker, editor of the Times-News, said every available ticket has been distributed. The free concert is sponsored by the Times-News and the College of Southern Idaho Student Body.

The famed organizations will arrive in Twin Falls Sunday morning and will be housed at the Holiday Inn. The nearly 200-member group will leave here Monday morning for Boise for a concert there that evening. On a national tour, the band and chorus are making only the two stops in Idaho.

Ticket holders will be admitted to the auditorium starting at 2:30 p.m.

Exemption proposed

BOISE (UPI) — The director of the Idaho Air Pollution Control Commission said Monday small cities should be allowed a two-week exemption from open burning regulations, but larger cities, such as Boise, would not.

Al Elguren, Boise, said the commission felt the exemption for larger cities "would not be in the public's best interest."

"If everybody in Boise were allowed to burn during such a period, we believe that the air quality would be significantly affected," Elguren said.

Dietrich seniors return

DIETRICH — Nine seniors from Dietrich High School, the entire 1971 graduating class, are back from their "senior sneak" which took them all the way to Mexico.

The class, accompanied by school Supt. and Mrs. Wayne Perron and a teacher, John Sabala, and two of the Perron children, returned Sunday from an eight-day trip that has been planned for four years.

Members of the class began earning money for their senior class trip when they were freshmen in high school. With more than $700 collected from odd jobs and the sale of refreshments at school during the four years, they visited Nevada, California and Mexico.

Traveling in automobiles, driven by Perron and Sabala, they were able to stretch the $700 to cover the entire eight days except for some additional money for meals. Members of the class spent their first night in Virginia City, Nev., an early day mining town and now a ghost town preserved as a tourist attraction. They visited Lake Tahoe, Disneyland, Chinatown and saw a Los Angeles Dodgers baseball game. They also spent a day in San Diego, and then went to Tijuana, Mex., and home via Las Vegas, Nev.

As high school freshmen the class picked rocks, sold sweat shirts and did odd jobs, then used some of their money to purchase a snow cone machine. They used this throughout the four years to raise money by selling snow cones during school lunch hours. They sold the machine to the freshman class this year and added the proceeds to the fund.

Projects deferred

BOISE (UPI) — Diversion of state highway funds to the cities will force the highway department to defer some projects originally planned for the coming fiscal year, according to Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes.

Auto kills sheep

SHOSHONE — Eight ewes and six lambs owned by John Jones, Hagerman, were killed and an automobile damaged in an accident reported today by the Lincoln County sheriff's office.

The accident, Sunday morning on U.S. 93 six miles north of Shoshone, was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Bill Anderson.

Auto kills sheep

He said a 1970 sedan driven by Joyce G. Scoggins, Sun Valley, came over a hill and plowed into a band of sheep being driven to spring range.

No citations were issued, the officer said, and the driver escaped injury. A number of other sheep were injured, however, and officers said the loss may increase.

T.F. family nabs tournament honors

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls team, who happen to be members of the same family, won the largest Swiss Team Bridge Tournament ever held in Magic Valley, when they defeated players from several other states and Canada during the past weekend.

Richard and Mary Cook and their son and daughter-in-law, Bill and Cariye Cook won seven games and lost one to finish ahead of Salt Lake City and Boise players, each with six wins.

The seven table side game was also won by Twin Falls players with Mrs. Dudley Driscoll and C. K. Brown first. Second place was shared by Mr.

and Mrs. Tom Schmidt and Mrs. R. R. Williams and Mrs. A. L. Johnson, all Twin Falls.

Winners of the Open Pairs event were H. B. Bees, Jr., and Evelyn Moore, Salt Lake City, first; Kenneth Davis and Lee Smith, second, and Mr. and Mrs. David West, third. Rex Wood and Mrs. H. E. Burgess, Twin Falls, placed fourth. Consolation winners were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Haller, Baker, Ore.

Tournament committees apparently didn't expect four winners from a single family, Mrs. Mary Cook said.

"We won four clocks as prizes so we gave two of them away," she added.

Highway funding sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, announced Monday he has written to the Senate Appropriations Committee urging that unobligated balances of General Fund authorizations remain available for highway construction.

In a letter to Senate transportation subcommittee Chairman Robert Byrd of West Virginia, Jordan pointed out that public lands states, including Idaho, have based their highway programs on the assumption that the unobligated balances of General Fund authorizations will eventually be released.

A change in funding of forest highways and public land highways was made in the Federal Highway Act of 1970. These highways had been financed through general appropriations in recent years. Highway Trust Fund financing was provided for in the 1970 act in order to assure more stability and allow for longer range planning of these programs.

Jordan said "The recinding of these authorizations, which in the case of my own state amount to $3.8 million in Forest Highway Funds and $500,000 in Public Lands Highway Funds for fiscal years 1970 and 1971, would create a financial hardship to the states affected and be a severe setback to their highway programs."

Artifact hunters back home safely

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls residents agree it may be a little early for arrowhead hunting in the back country.

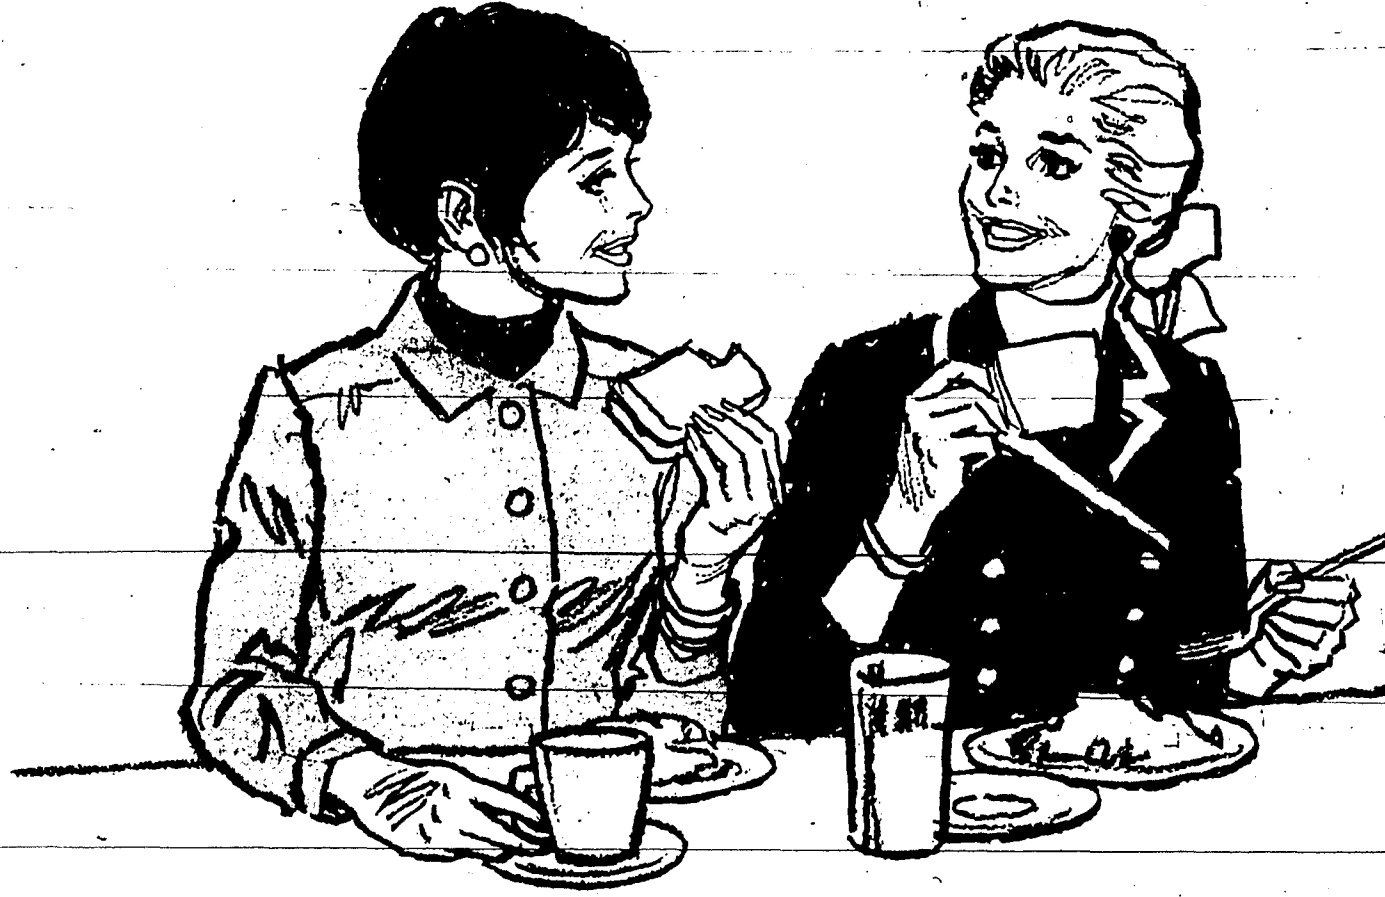

Lance Cantrell, 25, and Mike Mingo, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mingo, went into the Jarbidge, Nev., area Saturday to look for Indian artifacts which might have been uncovered during spring and winter rains and melting snow.

Instead of the one night out they had planned, they spent two nights in the area, one at Murphy's Hot Springs. The two said their vehicle became stuck in the area when they were unable to climb a grade from the canyon because of mud and slick roads.

They walked four miles in mud and snow Sunday to reach Murphy's Hot Springs where they spent the night. When they did not return by 6 p.m. Sunday as scheduled, a search was organized and started Monday morning.

Fathers of both of the missing arrowhead hunters went into the area and a plane was flown by Robert Harney over the area in which they were reported to have gone. About noon the two men picked up the missing pair at Murphy's Hot Springs and returned them to Twin Falls in good condition.

Pakistan

The civil strife which threatens the survival of Pakistan as it has existed in the almost quarter-century since Britain liquidated its Indian empire understandably may seem far away, confusing and of no real import to most Americans.

If anything, reaction may be of some relief that here, for a change, is an Asian crisis in which our own vital interest, and possibly resources and manpower, are not automatically involved.

It was not always so. In the early warm days of the Cold War, Pakistan was the chief U.S. ally in Asia and the link between the Middle East and Southeast Asia Treaty Organization alliances forged by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to contain the Soviet Union and Red China. Pakistan was a leading recipient of American aid, particularly military, and its armed forces were among the best-equipped in the world outside the major powers.

But times, power balances and diplomats change. Over the years, the anti-Communist alliances have become moribund. India has found Red China a dangerous neighbor and established a working if not always comfortable relationship with the United States, and Pakistan has looked around for other friends, notably Red China.

Moslems were not located in one area but at the opposite ends of British India, clumped around the Punjab in the West and in Bengal in the East. When the nation came into existence in 1947, it was united by a common religion but separated by nearly everything else — geography (1,000 miles of Indian territory), language (Bengali in the East and Urdu in the West), culture (West looks to Iran and the Mideast, East to Southeast Asia) and even diet (wheat and meat in the West, rice in the East).

Although smaller in area, the East has more people — some 70 million as against 55 million. But Westerners have always dominated the government and the economy. Although the East's jute and other agricultural exports earned the major share of foreign exchange, the profits, it is charged, went mostly to industrialize the West. The results have been increasingly strident Eastern demands for autonomy, if not full independence, and the eventual crackdown by the army.

Allah in this case would certainly appear to be on the side of the biggest battalions. The Pakistani army, drawn largely from the Punjab and now equipped with a melange of American, British, West German and Red Chinese weapons, still rates high in that part of the world. Guerrilla warfare in the humid river deltas of the East might, however, be a much different matter.

Whatever the outcome of the civil conflict, it would appear to mean problems not limited to Pakistan alone. Neither an Eastern breakaway state, which would be politically and economically shaky, nor unity maintained by a bloody Western military occupation of the East, could contribute anything to stability in Southern Asia.

The United States may be uninvolved, therefore, but it can scarcely be disinterested.

Signs Of The Times

These are signs of the times. These are three mail boxes. They are lined up along the curb.

The object is you drive up and put your mail in the right box. If you want it to stay in town you put it in the "Local" box. If you want it to go out of the city — by flight — then you put it in the airmail box.

The whole idea is it will speed your mail along the way. If you sort it when you put it in then it is not necessary for the postal people to sort it when they take it out. Tri-boxes like these are going to start to show up all around the United States. Don't try to cheat. When you drive up to post your letters do your part — put them in the right box.

In the hospital when a tracheotomy tube clogged, you used to strangle to death. Now, instead, an alarm sounds and help comes. Our space medicines devised the integrated circuitry which sounds that alarm.

Now there is an electric switch operated by the movement of the eyeballs. Developed for spacemen, adapted to make the helpless paraplegic less helpless.

Next time you hear some demonstrator demand that "the money we waste on space be spent helping poor people," remember the poor guy in that wheelchair.

And remember that our country already spends more than $77 billion on assorted welfare, which is 23 times what we spend exploring space, yet look at the dividends from the latter investment.

Not A Cure

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have arthritis. Someone has suggested that I go to a masseur who can cure you forever by working on your cords and muscles. I understand this could involve years of this particular treatment plus being costly, so I'd like your advice before I take the step. — Mrs. J.

Arthritis is a condition in the joints, not in the "cords and muscles." So my advice to you is: don't go. Massage won't cure arthritis.

I don't mean that massage does not have its uses in treating arthritis. When arthritis distorts joints out of shape, it can result in muscular distortion as well in some cases. (Not all, by any means.) Massage, properly applied, can relieve muscle spasms, and take some of the strain off the afflicted joints, but it can't cure the trouble in the joints.

Likewise there are various types of arthritis, some of which (like gouty arthritis) can be treated with great success. Different types call for different treatment methods. I suggest that you send for my booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which will give you a working knowledge of the various types, and what can help you, and what might be dangerous for you, and what can't help you. Send 35 cents and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Thosteson, care of Times-News for a copy of the booklet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can I take to get rid of pinworms? I reckon they are pinworms. They are about like a little white thread. — Mrs. J. W. M.

Well, that's what pinworms look like. I'd suggest that you have your doctor prescribe one or another of the medications effectively used for getting rid of these pests. Children in the family should be checked as well. Scrupulous cleanliness is essential, especially of the hands.

Of all the problems that pediatricians encounter in children, pinworm is the commonest. To learn the newest methods of treatment, write for the booklet, "The Commonest Pest, Pinworm," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

GOP governors get spoonful of calculated vote comfort

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI)—Calculating machines at Republican national headquarters have given GOP governors a spoonful of comfort by showing that they came close to matching the overall Democratic vote for governorships in 1970 despite their statehouse losses.

In the November elections, the GOP glumly watched its share of the 50 state governorships shrink from 32 to 21. It had gained eight in 1966, six in 1968 and two in 1969 to reach its highest total since 1920.

The Democrats welcomed their net gain of 11 governorships as a contribution to strengthening their state party organizations for the more important contest coming up in 1972 to elect a president.

A swing of no more than six governorships to the Democrats had been expected by the leadership of both major parties. In the 35 states electing governors in November, 24 had Republican governors and only 11 had Democrats.

Only two states—Mississippi and Kentucky—elect governors this year. The GOP has no hope of winning Mississippi, which last elected a Republican governor in 1876 during the Reconstruction years.

But the Republicans are very eager to elect the successor to Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky, chairman of the Republican Governors' Association, which is holding its semi-annual meeting in Williamsburg.

Only 21 states will elect governors in 1972. In those states, 12 now have Democratic and nine have Republican governors. In 1974, the Democrats must defend 22 governorships in 35 states and the Republicans 13.

While Democrats greeted their 1970 gubernatorial victories as part of a national trend, Republican leaders blamed their losses, with some justification, on local situations.

In a time of trouble for the states, governors are caught in a continuing crossfire between citizens who want improved state services and more state aid for local government and others griping about growing state budgets and frequent tax increases.

Still 1970 was the year in which Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York would win a fourth four-year term by a larger margin than in his previous elections. And another Republican, Gov. John Love of Colorado, won a third four-year term but by a reduced percentage.

In contrast with 1970, more Democratic than Republican state administrations will be on the defensive in the elections of 1972 and 1974.

Aero engineer top Swiss spy

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI)—The federal prosecutor claims that aeronautical engineer Alfred Frauenknecht was the best-paid spy in Swiss history.

If that is the case, Frauenknecht was part of yet another Israeli success story in defying the French embargo on arms shipments that has been in force, not always successfully, since the June, 1967, Middle East War.

For example, five French-built gunboats with Israeli crews slipped out of Cherbourg Harbor on Christmas Day, 1969, under the noses of French officials. Two French generals were suspended after the gunboats safely had reached port in Haifa.

Frauenknecht had no connection with this escapade. But federal Prosecutor Hans Walder says he had everything to do with providing the Israelis with almost a complete set of plans for the Atar jet engine used in French-built Mirage jet fighter planes, which also were embargoed from sale to Israel.

Frauenknecht was in an ideal position to do this, the prosecutor maintains, because he was technical director of the engine division of a Swiss firm manufacturing the French engines under license for the Swiss air force.

Frauenknecht, 43, allegedly turned over 22 packing cases filled with drawings—between 150,000 and 200,000 blueprints detailing not only the Atar's design but also that of the specialized machines needed to produce critical parts.

For this, the Israelis paid Frauenknecht $200,000, Walder said. Frauenknecht was arrested Sept. 23, 1969.

Frauenknecht confessed and has been confined in a Basle jail, Walder said. The Sulzer Brothers Co. in Winterthur, 12 miles northeast of Zurich, fired him.

Frauenknecht goes on trial Monday before a panel of judges at the Supreme Court. He faces two charges—economic espionage and violation of the Military Secrets Act.

Frauenknecht claims he acted out of "political conviction" and in protest against the arms embargo the late French President Charles de Gaulle imposed against Israel, the prosecutor said.

Railpax account to ad firm involved in landmark cases

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An agency involved in two landmark false advertising cases has been picked by the government's new Railpax Corporation to sell Americans on the joys of riding passenger trains, it was learned Sunday.

The firm, Ted Bates & Co., of New York, is the nation's fourth largest advertising agency. It has also handled many ad campaigns for which no deception was alleged, and it is by no means the only large ad agency facing government allegations of deception.

Catherine May Bedell, a member of the Railpax board which selected Bates from among several dozen competing agencies, emphasized that the corporation plans an honest advertising campaign. However, she said "hard sell" advertising would be "the name of the game" once Railpax has good passenger service available.

In a telephone interview, Mrs. Bedell said the board's eight members, all appointed by President Nixon, were unanimous in the selection of Bates.

She declined to comment on the agency's involvement in false advertising cases. However, another source close to the board said the members discussed the cases and decided "this would not interfere with Bates' ability" to do an honest and effective promotional job for Railpax.

Bates and Colgate-Palmolive Co. were judged guilty of false advertising in a 1965 Supreme Court decision concerning commercials for Colgate's "Rapid Shave."

The commercials portrayed sandpaper being shaved after a dousing with rapid shave. The court ruled that sandpaper actually had to be soaked 80 minutes before it could be shaved, and said the commercial used sand-coated plexiglass, not sandpaper.

Another Bates case, still pending, involves Federal Trade Commission allegations of false nutritional advertising for Wonder Bread and Hostess Snack Cakes, and false weight loss claims for Profile Bread.

All three products are made by ITT Continental Baking Co., a Bates client. ITT and Bates are contesting the allegations.

Also pending is an FTC case alleging false nutritional advertising for Ocean Spray Cranberry Juice Cocktail, another Bates account.

Congress created Railpax, formally named the National Railroad Passenger Corp., and gave it $40 million to start putting together a nationwide passenger train network by selecting the best of existing service and gradually improving it.

The corporation takes over the trains May 1. At that time four additional board members will be appointed by the railroads and three by Railpax stockholders.

"See anything suspicious?"

Queen turns 45 on Wednesday

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth will be 45 Wednesday and the camera is beginning to catch up to what the calendar has been reporting for some time—Middle age.

It doesn't seem possible to those who remember the young woman awakened in Africa in February, 1952, to be told her father, King George VI, was dead and she was queen.

The face, in outline, is much the same, the figure still slim. But time and laughter have combined in the 20th year of her reign to add the lines of unmistakable maturity.

From now on court officials will try even harder to slow down her determination to carry out all the duties of her office—in the palaces and in public engagements—without regard for her personal comfort.

There is a question how long she will continue to ride at the head of her military chiefs in the brave display of horses and uniforms that has traditionally marked the end of the great trooping of the colors pageant on her "official" birthday in June—a date chosen because the weather is better for outdoor ceremonies than on her real birthday on April 21.

This past winter the queen was confined to her room at Buckingham Palace for a week with a severe winter chill that turned into a heavy cold with a harsh cough. Her medical advisers made no secret of the fact they would have liked her to have a holiday in the sun but this is difficult to arrange at short notice for the sovereign. And there is the queen's highly developed sense of duty. She never delegates any of the commitments which fall to her lot as head of state. She would never agree to a council of state acting on her behalf except in the extreme case of incapacitating illness.

Future winters may find the queen occasionally visiting her sister Princess Margaret on the West Indian island of Mustique where she is building a home on several acres of land given her as a wedding present in 1960 by Colin Tennant, lifelong friend of the royal family.

One of the rumors destined for revival as the queen passes 45 is the theory that she may some day abdicate in favor of Prince Charles, the 22-year-old heir to the throne who for the next three years will be doing air force and naval training. This goes back to the days of King Edward VII who was an elderly man before he succeeded long-lived Queen Victoria.

According to this story when Charles is married and a father the queen would step down so he could rule the country in the full vigor of comparative youth.

Church ousts singer Boone for joining 'Jesus people'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Pat Boone disqualified himself as a Jesus freak, a member of the avant garde evangelists, but he has been turned out of his own church for joining the movement and has baptized a dozen neophytes in his swimming pool.

"I think the Jesus movement is real and legitimate," Boone said. "It may be a shallow experiment for many, sort of an in thing to do. Jesus people could be for real or it may be just a fad."

"Personally, I know it is a great deal more than that because such things as 30-second drug cures are happening."

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Two questions. Why does a wife want to know if there is another woman? Isn't the old fashioned way better? [I mean, not knowing.]

I suspected my husband had somebody else, so I investigated and found out I was right. She's a coworker. Not young, but middle-aged like us. When he knew I was wise, he told me it didn't mean anything, and he begged for my forgiveness and understanding, and said it was all over.

I took him back and believed him. I am not fat or ugly, and I always worked hard at being everything a good wife should be. After that happened, I tried even harder. I got on The Pill and turned on the sex appeal. I thought I had him back again when I accidentally found a love letter in his pocket. Now I know it wasn't me who had him so turned on.

He still stays with me, but I know he is seeing her, too. I was happier not knowing. Now I'm sorry I ever tried to find out. It does help to write to you, Abby. There is no one to talk to. —SADDER BUT WISER

DEAR SADDER: Don't blame yourself for "finding out." Your intuition told you. Your investigation merely confirmed it. If ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise. But ignorance is never bliss. A woman wants to know where she stands, even if she's standing outside. The truth hurts, but a lie hurts more.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't use my name, but DO print this because I think it needs airing. I recently sent out invitations which read, "Cocktails and Buffet, 7 p. m."

I thought this clearly indicated that we expected our guests to stay for the evening. Everything went fine thru the cocktails, then suddenly there was a couple-by-couple exodus, with the following excuses: [1] We have to play bridge later; [2] We have to go to a company party; [3] We left our children home alone; [4] We promised to stop by at another party; [5] We didn't know you meant for us to stay the whole evening.

Those who remained felt uneasy. We felt deserted. I think people should choose between invitations and not try to double up at the hostess's expense. What do you think? —LET DOWN

DEAR LET: I agree with you. If one has a conflict, he should telephone the hostess in advance and ask permission to leave early. But to accept an invitation and exit prematurely is rude.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower who is engaged to marry a woman who has been widowed twice. She has MY picture sitting on her mantle right between the pictures of her two deceased husbands. She says that after we are married, if I want to put a picture of my deceased wife up there, it will be all right with her.

I don't see the point of having such a gallery, but if you think it's okay, I'll go along with it. —PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Whose pictures are displayed there is a matter of personal preference. If it gives your lady a feeling of comfort or pleasure to have the likenesses of The Old Guard around, and if it's okay with you, then it's okay with me!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

United bids China runs

CHICAGO (UPI)—United Air Lines announced Monday it has asked for authority to fly commercial airliners to the Chinese Communist cities of Peking, Shanghai and Canton.

United President Edward E. Carlson said, "our request for authority to serve the Chinese cities is being made in response to President Nixon's leadership in efforts to bring about more formal trade and commercial relations with China."

Carlson said the application was made to the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) and would be subject to approval by the White House as well as the Peking government.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harold A. Iben. The bride was given in marriage by her father before an altar flanked by baskets of white daisies and yellow Spider chrysanthemums and candleabra accented with yellow tapers.

Wedding music was played by Herbert Einspahr, Twin Falls, Dean and Gene Ruhter sang. The bride wore a white dotted Chalet gown, fashioned with short sleeves; a fitted bodice and a lace enhanced V-neckline. The gown was fashioned by the bride's mother.

Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was held by a white daisy headband.

She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white daisies with yellow ribbon showers.

She wore a necklace belonging to her great-grandmother.

Maid of Honor was Cheryl Kuykendall, Twin Falls. Bridesmaids were Cynthia Mein, sister of the bride, and Linda O'Dell, Twin Falls.

Debbie Watson and David Watson, six-year-old twin sister and brother of the bridegroom, were flower girl and ringbearer.

Candlelighters were Randy and Rodney Watson, brothers of the bridegroom.

Collin Wray, El Cajon, served as best man for his friend.

The reception tables was covered with sheer white organza over yellow and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with yellow and white and topped with double wedding rings. Greenery encircled the base of the cake.

Guests were seated at quartet tables centered with yellow floating flower candles.

Marcia Watson, sister of the bridegroom, registered guests. Cutting the cake was Mrs. Lloyd Kuykendall, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Fernan Radtke, Hendley,

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD E. WATSON JR. (Shig Morita photo)

Neb. Pouring were Mrs. Elmer Dierker and Mrs. Elmer Aufderheide, all aunts of the bride.

Gifts were arranged by Sandi Watson and Darcia Watson, sisters of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Jim Kuykendall, cousin of the bride, and Mike O'Dell, Twin Falls.

Robin Mein, seven-year-old brother of the bride, carried a white Bible during the ceremony.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Jerome High School and joined the Navy in 1969. She is stationed at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

Watson is a 1968 graduate of El Cajon Valley High School, joined the Navy in 1968, and is stationed at Kunia, Hawaii.

After a honeymoon trip to California, the couple will reside at Honolulu.

Special out-of-town guest was Mrs. Hildegard Mein, Arapahoe, Neb.

HOLLISTER — Mrs. Ruby Dean and Homer Roberts were installed worthy matron and worthy patron for Hollister Chapter No. 47, Order of Eastern Star, at an open installation Saturday night at the Hollister Masonic Temple.

Other officers installed were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clark, associate matron and associate patron; Mrs. George Clark, secretary; Mrs. George McGregor, treasurer; Mrs. Donald Parrott, conductress; Mrs. George Wells, associate conductress; Mrs. Goldie Clute, chaplain; Mrs. Homer Roberts, marshal; Mrs. John Henstock, organist; Mrs. Clarence Stanley, Adah; Mrs. Lester McGregor, Ruth; Mrs. Joe Miller, Esther; Mrs. Bill Matney, Martha; Mrs. Richard

They include finance, Ray Clark, George McGregor and Lester McGregor; sick and visiting, Mrs. Ray Clark, Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Stanley; relief, Richard Brown, Mrs. Ruth Kunkel and Mrs. Dora Clark and ESTARL, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Parrott and Mrs. Wells. The worthy matron's emblem is "Open Holy Bible"; motto, "God Is Love"; flower, yellow, rose, and the blue bird. Her honored officer is the marshal. Refreshments were served in the dining area, with Mrs. Matney and Mrs. Ray Clark pouring coffee and punch, assisted by the officers.

Queen named for TOPS

TWIN FALLS — Viola Coontz was Division No. 4 queen of the Nix-On-Pix TOPS Club it was announced today. She recorded a 15 1/2-pound loss.

Christine Friel was the Division No. 2 queen with a 14-pound loss. This weight was lost in a three-month period. Each queen was awarded a corsage and a charm during the group's last meeting.

Sharon Debban was named best loser of the week with a 4 1/2-pound loss.

Elizabeth Greene named BPW district director

BUHL — Elizabeth Greene, Rupert, a five-year member of the Business and Professional Women's Club, has been elected director for the South Central Idaho District.

The action came during the annual election in conjunction with the district's spring convention hosted by the Buhl Club Saturday night at the R and R Cafe.

Mrs. Greene, who served as first vice director in 1970 and as second vice director in 1969, has also served two years as president of her native Rupert Club. She will be assisted this year by Clara Bubak, Jerome, first vice director; Wilma Buhler, Sun Valley, second vice director, and Melba Seal, Rupert, appointed secretary.

Nearly 70 BPW members from throughout the district met this week-end. Roberta McKercher, past district director, served as installing officer and told the new officers the green candle she lit was to signify the springtime of the year, a time for good seeds of activity to be sown.

Also during the buffet meal, the group accepted the invitation from the Burley group for the fall convention in October, with the definite date to be announced.

Margaret Loomis, Buhl Club president, was in charge of the convention and Vera Kauch, outgoing district director, presided. Seven past district directors and seven state officers were honored for their attendance this week.

Presidents of each club in the district reported on their group's activities, and the motion to change the by laws to provide the first vice director would visit the clubs during the year with the director and would then automatically become director the next year, was defeated.

The group also turned down a proposal to help pay the expense for the director and past district director to attend the national convention in July.

Lola Brock, state president from Orofino, reported on the state group's accomplishments during the year and announced a state meeting at Idaho Falls Sept. 17 and 18. She reminded the group of the state convention at Burley June 3 through 6. Each club is in charge of an event during the convention.

INSTALLING OFFICER during the candlelight ceremony during the Business and Professional Women's Club South Central district spring convention in Buhl, Roberta McKercher, helps the newly elected director, Elizabeth Greene, Rupert, light the golden candle. Looking on in back are Clara Bubak, Jerome, first vice director, and Melba Seal, Rupert, secretary.

Capacity crowds attend CSI play

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — One of the most unusual theatrical presentations ever attempted at the College of Southern Idaho, the combined Elizabethan Fair and Shakespearean comedy, was roundly applauded by capacity crowds Friday and Saturday nights at the CSI Fine Arts Center.

Phillip B. Rayher, associate professor of speech and drama at CSI, took a difficult multiple role in the comedy, "Twelfth Night," as director of the entire production, designer of scenery and costumes, and the demanding job of portraying Sir Toby Belch, a most energetic and jovial gentleman indeed.

The CSI Madrigal Singers, directed by Eugene Mildon, entertained theater-goers before the performance and during an intermission with typical Elizabethan songs done in beautiful a cappella style. Six dancers, garbed as 16th-Century entertainers, twirled and skirled in graceful patterns to the applause of the appreciative audience. The dances were designed by Beverly Hackney for the dancers, including David Bolster, Bunny Killen, Loren Nelson, Vicki Rayborn, Jim Soran and Gail Young.

Madrigal singers included Terry Becker, Valeta Burke, Wayne Corey, Larry Crookham, Steve Johnson, Terry Klimes, Farla McKinney, Larry Peterson, Debbie Robbins, Kerry Schmidt, Becky Shebley, Vicki Shobe, Connie Sinclair, Jim Soran, Linda Talley and Carol Watson.

Serving wench and vendors included Wanda Gallaher, Edith Robertson, Nina Shaddy, Sharyn Klausner, Lena Fil, Rod Horejs, Wes Frey, Charles Rayborn and Joe Cox.

The Shakespearean comedy "Twelfth Night," with the very apt theme, taken from the dialogue, of "This is very Midsummer madness," was a mad frolic indeed, combining the clever wit of Shakespeare and the slapstick comedy and sharp satire of the Italian traveling comedians of Shakespeare's day, the "Commedia del'Arte."

Rayher gets things off to a wild pace right at the beginning with a fast-moving preview of all characters in the comedy, running on and off the small stage, men chasing women, women flirting with men, guards gambling and wenching winking. The small "Cirque Theater," known during school hours as Room 119 in the Fine Arts Center, allows an audience of only about 90 for each performance, seated on three sides of the room, with the uncurtained stage and scenery in the middle.

The settings are, in a word, magnificent; the costuming is beautiful. Costumes and properties were obtained from the Antique Festival Theatre, the Twin Falls High School drama department; the Magic Valley Dilettantes and the Boise State College drama department. The imagination of Rayher and his assistants, including Glenn Newmaker, lighting; Loren Nelson, sound; James Langley, properties manager, and Tim Brown, stage manager, defies description in the overall beauty of actors and scenery. Credit is also due Venessa Ryall and Nancy Deleski, co-chairmen of costume mistresses, Elena Alldritt, Rebecca Shebley and Debbie Robbins. The scenery was constructed by Tim Bryson, master carpenter, assisted by Loren, Doug Brownfield and Tim Brown.

Serving wench

WANDA GALLAHER, a CSI student, was one of several "serving wench" attired in Elizabethan-style dress during the Elizabethan Fair at the CSI Fine Arts Center. The "fair" accompanies the CSI Drama Department's Shakespearean comedy, "Twelfth Night," which continues this Friday and Saturday evenings. The lobby entertainment starts at 8 p.m. each night, with "curtain time" in the unique non-curtained "Cirque Theater" at 8:30 p.m.

The acting is also, for the most part, superb; the casting, near perfect. Susan Fattig, as the dual Viola-Cesario, a lovely young lady who must, in turn, masquerade as a handsome young man, developed her complex role to the utmost. The intricate plot, full of subplots and counterplots, calls for the disguised Cesario as a servant to the lovesick Duke Orsino, to carry his message of love to the Countess Olivia, who has no interest in Orsino. Steve Webb as Orsino and Marcia Lickley as Olivia are also superb in their acting.

Young Viola, however, loves Orsino; but she must fulfill her duty. And, as one might expect, the Countess falls head-over-heels for "Cesario," thinking her (him) a handsome young lad. And so it goes... confusion resigns supreme throughout.

Rayher as the raffish Sir Toby Belch and H. Paul Kliss as the awesome Malvolio keep the confusion at an almost hysterical pitch throughout with their maneuverings, and Malvolio's passion for Maria, Olivia's serving woman, played by JoAnn Stuhlberg.

Others in the large cast of ruffians and busy mischief-makers include Ron Speirs as a sea captain; Jim Langley, as Valentine, an attendant of the Duke; David Bolster as the effeminate Sir Andrew Aguecheek; Tim Bryson as Feste, the clown, doing a magnificent job throughout; Robert Speyer as Antonio; Blue Winthrow as Sebastian, Viola's brother; Loren Nelson as Fabian, Olivia's servant; Tim Brown as the Priest; Doug Brownfield and Rocky Metts as the wraithlike monks, and Jess Olavarria and Ron Speirs as the officers.

Perhaps the only criticism that might be offered is to warn youngsters and others not familiar with Shakespeare's rather fantastic wit that the play might best be classified "R" in movie-theater style. The constant flow of humor — which, incidentally, carries over the audience in a very good and clear manner — is quite earthy in its derivations. But,

Shakespeare is ever Shakespeare; the lines cannot be expurgated without ruining his humor and the unequalled rhythm of his dialogue.

All in all, CSI's first Elizabethan Fair is an unqualified success.

Auxiliary delegates attend convention

TWIN FALLS — Leaving on the late Sunday afternoon Air West flight to Las Vegas were Mrs. Cleo Shaddy and Mrs. W. L. Claiborn, president and vice president of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, who are attending the 41st annual convention of Western Hospitals.

The convention began Monday, with headquarters in the International Hotel in Las Vegas and will continue through Wednesday. Of special interest to the local delegates was a youth panel Monday morning dealing with young volunteers. There will also be various workshops on the recruiting and training of regular volunteers. A full report of the conference highlights will be given by the delegates at the regular auxiliary meeting which will be held May 3 in the hospital auditorium.

Regular scheduled meetings for the balance of the month include the monthly board meeting on Monday, April 26, at 10 a.m. in the hospital board room and the sewing committee will meet Tuesday, April 27, beginning at 9 a.m. in the auxiliary room.

With small children in the family, seat belts become a must for parents to ensure better driving. They allow the driver to drive rather than hold down the youngsters.

State Garden Club meeting planned

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley District of Federated Garden Clubs met for a luncheon and business meeting Saturday and plans made for the forthcoming state convention in Moscow May 31, June 1 and 2.

A committee was appointed, with Mrs. Jim Reynolds as chairman. Mrs. I. Mink, Leaf and Petal Club, will make an abstract arrangement for the State Garden Club banquet program. This will be one of 10 arrangements which Mrs. Robert Hamel, Ignatius, Mont., will give instructive comment.

Twin Falls Garden Club won a cash award for selling calendars and the Leaf and Petal Club received second prize. Special prizes were won by Mrs. M. Knul and Mrs. S. Porter.

Election of officers was held with Mrs. Knul named district director; Mr. Mink, first assistant director; Mrs. V. Nelson, second assistant director, and Mrs. A. Powell, secretary-treasurer.

State contest winning poems read for writers

TWIN FALLS — Three poems by Jeanette LeMoyné, all state contest winners, were read recently by professional readers in Boise, before Boise and Caldwell writers, it was announced Saturday at the Twin Falls Writers' League when the group met in the Idaho Power Auditorium.

Color slides illustrating Mrs. LeMoyné's poems were taken by S. Z. Thayer, president of the Twin Falls Camera Club, and the program was part of the league's new "Idaho in Verse and View" project.

Congratulations were extended to Mrs. LeMoyné for her article, "Mighty Idaho Aquifer," in the spring issue of Incredible Idaho, with illustrations by Thayer.

Members responded to roll call with original poems on "The Quest," Pearl Campbell reported a poem, "Pollution," published in the Twin Falls Times-News.

The chapter cast its vote to retain the present state league officers for another year. Messages were received from Lora Fleming, Pocatello, in appreciation of response to her fine arts program held here in March, and from Sudie Hager thanking the group for flowers and cards sent during the illness and death of her husband.

Frances Harris presented a program on "Legal Rights of Writers," reading an article with that title from the April Writer magazine, and conducting a true-false quiz which brought out surprising quirks of the law as it affects writers. She gave a brief review of a juvenile book, "A Single Light," by Mala Wojciechowska, and discussed the author's controversial views about children's books. The program concluded with reading of a humorous article by Richard Armour. The next meeting is May 15 at the Idaho Power Auditorium.

Husbands feted

TWIN FALLS — Husbands were honored guests during an annual dinner party held by members of the Union Pacific Boosters Club Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Altred.

Invocation was given by Mrs. A. L. Richardson. Games followed the potluck dinner. Members will meet May 20 at the home of Mrs. Eugene Sabin

Market Review

Idaho Valley Weather Report National

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market turned lower in fairly active trading Tuesday. The setback was attributed to profit taking after two weeks of sharp advances. Near 1:15 p.m., the Dow Jones industrial average was off 2.60 at 946.25.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.18 to 402.73, while declines outscored advances, 805 to 480, on 1,644 issues crossing the tape.

A three-hour turnover of 11,850,000 shares was about even with the 11,490,000 shares traded in the same period Monday.

Among the day's most active issues were Southern Co. off 1/4 on 421,300 shares, and TRW, Inc. down 3/8 on 211,200 shares. TRW and General Battery put off their planned merger at the request of the Federal Trade Commission, which is completing an investigation.

Also heavily traded were Arlen Realty & Development down 1/4, Sperry Rand off 1/4, Ohio Edison off 1/4, Chrysler up 1/4, and American Telephone unchanged.

Monsanto was off 2 1/2 in chemicals, while Allied Chemical surrendered 1 1/2.

Other point-sized lowers included Honeywell down 3/4, Texas Instruments 1/4, Memo-rite, Wrigley Co. 2, and Itek 2 1/4. Itek reported lower first quarter earnings.

Steels gave up fractions. IBM, however, picked up a point.

MIAMI (UPI) — A record drought has parched and burned South Florida's Everglades to a brown and ash-gray wasteland, stung the vast cattle and citrus industries and threatened a water shortage for 2.5 million people.

"So far, though, we haven't even had enough clouds to seed," said Dr. Joanne Simpson, a co-director of the project. "And from the looks of things, we may not get any for quite some time."

"We're hovering on the brink of disaster," said Tom Huser of the Central and South Florida Flood Control District (FCD)—an agency that right now would almost welcome a flood. "It's the worst drought we've had in 25 years."

The sprawling Everglades swamp has virtually dried up and wildfires whipped by brisk spring winds have killed uncounted wildlife and devastated thousands of acres of sawgrass and tree island wilderness.

The tourist meccas of Miami, Miami Beach, Fort Lauderdale and West Palm Beach have been routinely blanketed with dense, acrid, eye-watering smoke from 'Glades wildfires for the past month. The smoke has caused chain-reaction traffic accidents and respiratory complaints.

The drought began last August. Since Jan. 1, 1971, South Florida and the Everglades have received less than a half-inch of rain. "And the worst part," according to Huser, "is that we're just now coming into the traditional dry season."

Lake Okeechobee, the 750-square-mile liquid heart of the Everglades and the prime filler of South Florida's drinking wells, is nearly three feet low and still dropping. That amounts to a 500-billion-gallon water shortage that has lowered the depth of the lake to 11 1/2 feet.

The FCD, which regulates water in most of Central and South Florida, called on county and city officials last week for a voluntary curtailment of lawn water, car washing, swimming pool filling and other such non-essential uses of water.

Wells that supply the drinking water to Fort Lauderdale, Miami Springs and Homestead are several feet below sea level and dropping several inches a day, triggering fears that salt water intrusion from the nearby ocean will render the water unfit to drink. The wells that serve Miami are hovering at sea level and not being replenished by surface water or underground flow.

Federal weather scientists, at the request of the FCD and agricultural officials, decided to launch experimental efforts at rain-making April 1, two months ahead of schedule.

Dr. William T. Pecora, director of the U.S. Geological Survey and assistant director of interior undersecretary, has stated the case for prospecting from space. He also has said: "Should we fail to step up our ability to find and efficiently utilize resources, we can expect the industrial civilization to begin crumbling within a scant generation or two."

Mineral resources said diminishing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In the past 30 years the United States alone has used more of the fuel and mineral riches of earth—their only source—than all of mankind did in all of previous history.

Industrial civilization will collapse in a couple of decades unless new raw material supplies are discovered and unless means are found for using the planet's bounty more efficiently.

Meanwhile, more and more people are being indoctrinated to expect more and more from modern, resource-devouring technology, and more and more people are being born.

For Americans, the most extravagant users of the world's resources, the augury for the future is not particularly reassuring. The United States in many respects is a have-not nation.

"The United States is almost totally dependent on foreign sources for such minerals as chromium, manganese, nickel, cobalt, industrial diamonds, and tin," according to a government report.

"Forty of 72 strategic commodities come from politically unstable areas ... domestic sources supply only a small part of other important minerals, including aluminum, zinc, and tungsten."

Must Intensify Search
"Politically unstable areas"? Does this mean that nations which have what we want may decide some day to export it to other nations who want it too?

One hope for such discoveries lies in the Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS), a project in which the Interior Department and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) are collaborating. The ERTS spacecraft, first of which is to be launched next year, would scan the earth with remote sensors for promising mineral fields.

Dr. William T. Pecora, director of the U.S. Geological Survey and assistant director of interior undersecretary, has stated the case for prospecting from space. He also has said: "Should we fail to step up our

Rail bill offered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Ida., announced today he has joined as a sponsor of legislation to expand rail passenger service under the Railpax system to include Idaho. Additional routes provided for by the bill would include two which would service Idaho. The joint resolution, introduced by Sen. Robert Taft Jr., Ohio, would authorize $250 million in additional appropriations for the purpose of providing adequate inter-city rail passenger service around the nation. Jordan said the Taft Pacific City of Portland route through southern Idaho and the route from Spokane, Wash., to Butte, Mont., through northern Idaho. "This would correct the serious deficiency in the present Railpax plan which provides for virtually no service to Idaho," he added.

Stanley given grant

STANLEY — Mayor Stan Iwakiri said today his city has received a $87,000 loan and a $42,500 federal grant from the Farmers Home Administration for a lagoon type sewer system. Stanley City officials still are awaiting word on additional grants from the state and federal government, the mayor said. If approved, the state grant would provide about $20,000 for 25 per cent of the cost for treatment facilities, with the federal funds totaling another $50,000. Total cost for the project is estimated at $180,000. Iwakiri said. Stanley has no sewerage disposal system. Construction is expected to begin this summer, the mayor said. Smith and Jewell, Preston, are engineers.

LOOKING OVER reports with Larry P. Hauber, right, Twin Falls, fifth district director of Youth Rehabilitation for the Idaho Board of Health, is Dale Walquist, new Cassia County youth rehabilitation counselor. He began his post Monday and replaces Duane Peterson, who has gone to Caldwell to become Third District juvenile probation program director. Walquist comes to Burley from Gooding where he was a case worker for the Department of Public Assistance. A navy veteran, he served in the Pacific area. He was graduated from Rigby High School and Rick's College and attended Brigham Young University for three years.

Richfield hearing tonight

RICHFIELD — Richfield residents will hear about the city's proposed new sewer and treatment facilities at a public hearing at 8 p.m. today in the city building.

City council members will conduct the meeting and Dale Riedesel and Jack Straubhar, Twin Falls, consulting engineers, will explain the proposed $221,800 aerated sewage lagoon treatment facility and sewer system.

Health department officials also will be on hand at the public hearing.

Salary transfer approved

RUPERT — The Minidoka County School Board Monday night approved a fund transfer to permit a 10 per cent hike in salaries of district maintenance workers.

It was also recommended that $10,000 be transferred from maintenance salaries to planned expenses salaries. This money would be used to give the custodial help a 10 per cent increase.

Assistant Supt. Doyle Lowder told the board that a salary schedule must be set up for the custodial help in the district. This the board agreed with, but didn't feel that a 10 per cent increase should be given.

Supt. Camden Meyer said he agreed in that the employees that had been with the district for a long time needed a bigger raise.

"We hire our people at a higher salary than others but don't give them any raise," he said. Meyer also said that he feels the teachers should come first in any salary raises given. The board was then informed that the district will receive $13,580.13 from the state for driver training. For this amount the district can train 264 students Lowder said.

He then recommended that 133 students in each junior high school in the ninth grade be given driver's training next year. Meyer then told the board that if all of the recommendations were carried out raises for the staff would be possible.

The board was then asked what it wanted to do. At this point the board chairman David Sprier said that he felt no action should be taken until the board member, Nile, Maricle, was present. It was decided to study the budget some more and hold another meeting next Monday evening.

Begins post

Minidoka budget action held up

RUPERT — The Minidoka County School Board Monday night delayed any action on the district's 1971-72 school budget because one trustee was absent.

However, a thorough review of the budget was made by the board. It also discussed recommendations made by the district's superintendent and his staff.

Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent told the board, principals and teachers present that when the proposed working budget was drawn up they were looking for additional money to be able to give raises to all the district's staff.

"We want to give a raise to the staff straight across the board," he said. The big problem facing the board once this assumption is made is where the funds will come from, he said.

"If the district is to qualify for the five per cent increase allowance as provided for by the legislature we would need an increase of 243 students."

This would bring $340 per student for a total $82,620 to the district," Lowder said. A second avenue the board might try, he said, is to try for a five mill migrant education levy. He anticipates that this move would raise $108,665.25.

"If the board decided to go with the five mill levy it won't be able to try for the five per cent increase or the three mill emergency clause," he said. This move if taken, would increase the tax levy by 1.108 mill according to Lowder.

Camden Meyer, district superintendent, said that if the five mill levy is the route the board chooses, the district staff can be given a pay raise.

"If this levy goes to the voters and the district staff doesn't help get it passed, they won't get a pay raise," he said. Lowder informed the board that he didn't think that the district would be able to qualify for the five per cent increase funds or the three per cent emergency levy due to changes in the law.

Meyer also stated that the five mill levy is one possible way to go. He said that if the district was to get an additional 243 students next year he wasn't sure exactly where they would go.

"The population in the Heyburn area is growing while the Paul area is standing still. We may have to add an additional teacher at Heyburn regardless of what decisions the board makes on the staff," he said.

He also said "the five mill levy route is the only fair way to go. The three mill emergency levy will have to be dropped."

Lowder then told the board that he recommends that the teaching staff be reduced by ten — five elementary and five secondary teachers.

This recommendation, Lowder said, is based on the board's decision to close Pioneer School. The board delayed any firm decision on closing Pioneer

School this year until its next meeting.

The board was then informed that the enrollment at the high school may be up next year. One elementary teacher also said that she has 28 students in her classes now. "What will the number be if Pioneer School is closed," she asked.

Lowder said that based upon this year's figures for the first 20 weeks of school the teacher to student ratio averaged out 1 to 26.

Meyer told the board that Acequia could have students transferred to it if necessary. He also stated that the district should hire teachers during the next year as they were needed and not on anticipation of how many students the district would have.

One teacher asked if there wouldn't have to be an equalization of loads. Lowder said that the district bus routes are going to have to be shifted next year.

Meyer said that the population in the district is getting to the point where it is dictating what the board can do with its busing routes.

Lowder told the board if it decides to close Pioneer School it will have to realign the bus route. "Also, if we are going from one bus route plan now is the time to change to the routes," he said.

In their recommendations, Meyer and Lowder also recommended that all purchasing be done on purchase orders with each principal responsible for the amount spent in his school.

Burley studies 3 bids

By LePAGE LAYTON Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Burley City Councilmen are studying three bids on street paving in Local Improvement District No. 17 in Northeast Burley.

The bids, ranging from $62,400 from Gordon Paving Co., Burley, to $84,490 by Holmes Construction Co., Heyburn, were opened at the council meeting Monday night.

Third bid was for $79,610 from Maverick Construction Co. Councilmen said they wanted two weeks, until the next council meeting, to study the bids to see if all specifications are included. They will award a contract at the May 3 council meeting.

Councilmen decided to investigate a suggestion from City Atty. William Parsons that they adopt a resolution calling for removal of vehicles from downtown city streets from 2 to 6 a.m. so that street cleaning can be expedited.

The matter was brought up by Wendell Campbell, downtown merchant, who said city crews are unable to adequately clean the streets because of parked cars.

Larry Stanley and several other residents from the southeast part of town expressed appreciation to the council for the city's help in covering the ditch on Hiland Avenue. They asked that lights be installed on 17th and 18th streets at the new intersection of Hiland Avenue, made possible by the covering of the ditch.

They also want stop signs installed on both sides of Hiland Avenue on the two streets. In other action, councilmen took under advisement a request by the Overlook Trailer Park, bordering the east edge of Burley, just south of 18th Street, to hook onto the city sewer.

Decided that after May 1 all trash, other than garbage, such as lawn clippings, tree limbs must be placed in containers, including cardboard boxes.

Decided to send a representative to a state planning meeting in Boise, upon invitation of Gov. Cecil Andrus.

Sanitary rulings studied

(Continued from P. 1.) It is now illegal in the city of Twin Falls to turn in a false alarm fire call. An ordinance adopted Monday night under suspension of the rules spells out the violation and sets a maximum fine of $300 and 30 days in jail.

City Manager Milar said several false alarms have been received and without the ordinance it would not be possible to prosecute those apprehended.

A letter from City Attorney William Langley was read indicating it is not legal for city employees to enter into union organizations for bargaining with the city on wages and other worker benefits.

Council members approved plans for vacating a street and alley near the Volco Builders Supply property and retained an easement for utilities. The plan is an exchange of rights of way to allow the firm to have all of its operation in one piece of land without being divided by a street or an alley.

The now defunct office of city police judge was officially abolished in a repeal ordinance approved by the council and a new dog regulation ordinance was approved increasing license fees. License fees each year are $2 for males and spayed females and $6 for unspayed females if purchased before July 1, and $4 and $8 respectively after that date.

Gooding ineligible for well funds

By PEGGY CHU Times-News Writer

GOODING — The city of Gooding is not eligible for federal funds to help pay for its new well because the residents' monthly water and sewage bill is not high enough.

Two Farmers Home Administration officials, Elwood Theuson, Boise, and Del Taylor, Gooding County FHA administrator, met with Gooding City Councilmen Monday night to answer questions on possibility of obtaining federal funds.

They explained that all funds have been used for this year, but even if they were not, Gooding could not qualify for funding on payment of the new well because the monthly sewage and water bill is under the $12 schedule set by the FHA.

The government will give a development grant up to 50 per cent of the total cost of a project providing the user costs are too high for the individual citizen to pay, Theuson said. This has been determined as $12 average monthly bill, and the Gooding average bill runs from $7 to $9.

He explained that if in the future, cost of the well causes the monthly bill to be more than $12, it is possible that federal funds could be obtained. Mayor Harley Crippen said he did not know if a bond election to raise funds would be feasible. The new well is already in operation. In other business the council:

Signed an easement agreement with the North Side Canal Co. so the city can put water pipes under the canal to get water to the new high school now under construction.

Took no action on a request of Francis Crane, owner of the Oh-So-Good Drive In, to redistribute traffic on the corner of Orchard Street and Main Avenue at his place of business. The Gooding Traffic Safety Council has determined more accidents occur at this corner than anywhere else in Gooding and voted at a recent meeting to recommend to the city council placing of curbing along one side of Orchard, or an island and installation of no U-turn signs.

Plats OK'd at Ketchum

By WARREN GOSSETT Times-News Writer

KETCHUM — Ketchum City Council Monday night approved two plat plans presented by Ralph Thomas of the Springer Land Development Co., comprising six acres, part of a 700-acre, $30 million condominium-golf course complex.

The project, known as Big Wood, located directly north of Ketchum, will contain 38 dwelling units and a golf course. Six model units and an office building were constructed last year as the first phase, with construction costs at $2 million. The two plat plans previously were approved by Blaine County commissioners. The council recommended that the county commission order a re-survey of land in the Ned Foster subdivision after it was brought out during the meeting that a plat never has been filed on the property.

Russ Horn, realtor, brought up the matter after he was refused federal funds for construction on the property until the land had been recorded.

A survey previously had been taken of the area, he said, but councilmen felt it wiser to resurvey the area.

Camas slates school vote

FAIRFIELD — Camas County School District No. 121 will have an election May 10 for a trustee for the Hill City district and also for an increase of five mills above the regular 30 mills maintenance and operation of the schools.

The present bond levy of 3.5 mills will be dropped as enough money has accumulated in the bond fund to pay the remaining bonds, according to Supt. Harold Stroud.

The 5 mill increase will be necessary to cover the proposed budget for the coming school year, he said. A hearing will be held at 8 p.m. May 6 in the high school study hall and all interested patrons are urged to attend.

To date Zane Harrison, incumbent, is the only one to file for the three year term as trustee for the Hill City district. Voter requirements are similar to those of a general election but only those residing in the district may vote for the trustee.

Voters from all the districts can vote on the levy increase. Voting will be held from 1 to 7 p.m. May 10 at the high school. There will be a public budget hearing the same day at 8 p.m. in the high school.

Stroud said the tentative budget calls for an operational expense of $2,400 over the previous year because of rising maintenance costs. One more person will be employed to assist the school custodians and supplies and utility costs have risen. Maintenance will be up $2,000 as plans call for the paneling of three school rooms that have broken plaster. Two of the school owned teacherages will have to be repainted and the hot lunch room will need to be repainted.

Transportation expenses will be up $1,000 for repairs, fuel and lubrication because of the inflation in prices.

Instructional expense will be up $7,000 because of the need for new supplies. The school has been holding back from buying the past years, Stroud said.

Stroud states that the income from state and county funds will be down $4,000 from the previous year and the Public Law No. 874 fund will be down $2,000 from last year. The proposed budget shows an overall increase of $13,000 over the 1970-71 budget and the increase in the levy will have to be voted in to cover it.

Driver's training will have to be dropped after this year because of the fund shortage. This has been a popular program with the students.

Health slash looms

BOISE (UPI) — Chairman Fred Humphreys of the State Health Board has drawn up a tentative 1972 budget for the Health Department that could mean personnel cutbacks. The Idaho Statesman reported today.

In a story signed by reporter Jerry Gilliland, the Statesman said Humphreys' tentative budget totals $15,513,923. That compares to the estimated $15,155,268 for fiscal 1971.

Humphreys' budget also is $774,817 below the amount appropriated for fiscal 1972 by the legislature. Robert Des Aulniers, assistant health administrator, said there appears to be a disagreement with the legislature on how much money the department will get from private sources.

Copies of the proposed budget, which was not released to the public officially, were distributed to division heads in the Health Department for study Monday.

The Health Board meets in Lewiston and Orofino early next month and at that time is expected to divide up the legislature's lump sum appropriation among various agencies under its jurisdiction.

Dr. John Marks, director of the Mental Retardation and Child Development Division, said his budget as drawn by Humphreys will mean a change in plans for the Idaho State School and Hospital.

"On the surface I would say it would have some limitations for the staffing positions we are trying to develop, particularly in regard to our new cottages," Dr. Marks said.

Dr. Myrick Pullen, head of the Mental Health Division, said it appears his budget will require personnel cuts.

"I think it's pretty safe to say the cutback in State Hospital North's budget is going to obviously mean a reduction of staff at that hospital," Dr. Pullen said.

Speakers set for PTA meet

KIMBERLY — Speakers for a panel discussion at the District PTA conference, scheduled for Saturday at the Kimberly High School, are announced by Mrs. Floyd Kialing, Dietrich, state president.

Theme for the one-day session is "Right to Read Rally." The panel will be moderated by Lee Childs, Rupert, administrator of the Idaho Youth Ranch. Participants will be Mrs. Marilyn Mechem, Mrs. Helen Henderson and Marvin Glascock, all Twin Falls.

Workshops are planned and district officers will be elected during the afternoon session. Assisting Mrs. Kialing with the meeting are Mrs. Jack Rice, Gooding; Mrs. James L. Wright, Rupert, and Clinton Bogg, Kimberly.

Members are asked to bring procedure books, displays and unit projects. Each PTA unit is to bring its banner. Mrs. Kialing said. Awards will be given for projects and displays. Pre-registration must be made with Mrs. Jean Bengtson, Burley, 5, Twin Falls by Wednesday.

Student injured as cycle hits car

TWIN FALLS — A 15-year-old high school student was injured Tuesday morning when his motorcycle struck an auto at the intersection of Blue Lakes Boulevard North and Flier Avenue.

Police officers said Blaine King, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard King, Twin Falls, is listed in fairly good condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital with a broken leg and ankle, cuts and bruises.

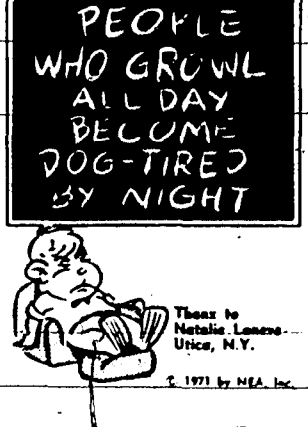

According to the police report, King was heading east on Flier Avenue about 8:40 a.m. and struck an auto driven by Mrs. Irene Kelley, 36, Twin Falls, which was making a left hand turn onto Blue Lakes Boulevard North. The Kelley auto was headed west and turned in front of King.

King was then knocked over into an auto that was stopped at the intersection for the red traffic signal. This auto was being driven by Zoe Marie Byrne, 42, Twin Falls, and was stopped on Blue Lakes Boulevard North.

Investigation is continuing.

BURLEY — Provisions of the new Uniform Consumer Credit Code drafted by the 41st Idaho Legislature were explained at the Burley Chamber of Commerce meeting Monday.

nation. "The states are trying for one uniform law in each field nationwide," he said. The code started out as HB 270 two years ago, Rep. Antonio said. It was then sent to interim committee for study. This year it was resubmitted as House Bill 19 and after a hearing was held it appeared HB19. This is the code with the House's amendments in it. The Senate later amended the code and this is the version that became law. It will go into effect in July of this year. Under the code it is anticipated that the competition will set the rate of interest under the limits set in it he said. The limit on interest under the code is one and one-half per cent interest per month on revolving credit accounts. On loans the limits are 36 per cent per year for the first $300; 21 per cent per year for the next $700 and 15 per cent per year on the remainder over $700. Bank credit cards will be able to charge only 15 per cent interest under the code. Also, all advertisements must state the annual rate of interest charged and the payment schedule must be stated, he said. Provisions of the code also states that an employer cannot fire an employee just because his wages are being garnished. Also, 75 per cent of the employee's wages are exempt from garnishment. In home sales, the buyer has the right to cancel the contract in the first three days under the UCC. The code also states loans with a "balloon payment" can be refinanced at the same rate. Fraudulent conduct is grounds for "no sale" under the code. Also, no deductions can be offered for sale made on referrals. The code will be regulated by the Idaho Department of Finance and the commissioner of finance to begin with, Rep. Antonio said. To become a lender under the code, a party must have $50,000 minimum balance and undergo an investigation. Rep. Antonio said "Idaho is fortunate to be one of the first to approve the code."

Western Hoedown set at Rupert

RUPERT — Tickets are now on sale by members of the Minidoka County Historical Society for the Western Hoedown set for 8 p.m. May 1 in the Rupert Civic Auditorium. The public is invited for the entertainment performance which will be followed by a dance, says Grover Newman and Bill Whitton, co-chairmen of the event. All proceeds will be donated to the historical society.

Presently the historical society is using the old city jail for their museum which needs show cases and other items. Mannie Shaw, Corral, and several members of the Old Time Fiddlers organization will furnish part of the entertainment and music for the dance. Several western groups from Magic Valley are expected to attend. Delos Pierce, Aberdeen, yodler and singer, will be here along with the musical Hale family, Pocatello, and Curley Clark, Blackfoot. The civic auditorium is being donated by the city of Rupert and the sound equipment is being furnished by Don and Jim's TV Service, Rupert.

Minidoka to alter school bus routes

RUPERT — School-bus routes may be altered in the Rupert area when a survey requested by the Rupert Traffic Safety Commission is completed. Chief of Police Ed Culver asked Dale Trantham, bus supervisor, to prepare a survey of bus routes and loading problems. Culver told Trantham and the commission that the buses should avoid loading near intersections because of the congestion problem. He suggested the buses could load their students at alleys and in the middle of blocks rather than at the intersections. In other commission business, Sen. John Peavey reported that the canal bank road near Memorial School would be traveled easier if the intersection were widened and the stop sign removed. City Council man Bill Whitton said the city will widen South F Street to the LDS Church, and First Street to the county line this summer. The city will also grade H Street, which is maintained jointly by the city and Minidoka County, Whitton said. It was also reported that the City Council has approved a recommendation that newspaper delivery boys be equipped with bicycle reflectors and that outer clothing include reflective strips. Commission members Delmar Hollinger and Elmer Eddington were appointed to notify newspaper officials. Charlene Spence and Tony Saras, Rupert students, were named to the commission. Mayor Wendell Johnson explained the work of the commission to the new members, who will serve one-year terms.

BUICK BARGAIN DAYS ARE HERE

Buick Bargain Days are saving days.

A bargain price on a stripped down car is no bargain. But a Buick or Opel at a bargain is something else again. Because we're not selling some special stripped down model. We're selling Buicks and Opels, the same great cars we've sold all year. With one difference. The deals have never been better. Which means that you can move out in a new Buick or Opel at a price that's hard to believe. When Buick talks about a bargain, we give you something to believe in.

Opel 1900 Sport Coupe. With a 1.9 liter engine that operates efficiently on low lead or no lead gasoline. Hydraulic valve lifters for quiet engine operation. Power front disc brakes, and more.

Skylark Custom. With Buick's exclusive nickel-plated engine exhaust valves for smoother operation on today's cleaner fuels. Comfort-Flo ventilation system and more.

Your Buick-Opel dealer will give you better reasons to buy a new car now than anybody else.

The business of auto safety.

Auto safety is everyone's concern. But it's our business. And we think the attention that's being paid to auto safety now is a good thing. Because it will result in better driving for everyone. And, frankly, better driving for everyone means better business for us. We say Buick is something to believe in. That's why we're trying to make it easy to be safe by putting in safety features that work by themselves. You don't have to do anything to make them work. Like side guard beams. And the energy absorbing steering column. And the cargo guard between the trunk and back seat. They start "working" even before you get in the car. But two safety features, two of the most vital, are worthless unless you do something first. Seat and shoulder belts. Unfastened they do nothing. And you've seen enough statistics to know what a difference they can make. So use them. But that's not all you can do. Because the most effective safety feature of all can't be added to our cars or anybody else's. That feature is you. And the way you drive. Which should be defensively. And rested. And sober. We're all in this together. And together we can solve the auto safety problem once and for all. And the time is now.

Jerome vision clinic set Thursday, Friday

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer
JEROME — A pre-school vision clinic will be held Thursday and Friday in Jerome. The clinic will be for the 24 children of Mrs. Lavar Butters' kindergarten class. The clinic is a project of the Jerome Lions Club and will be conducted by women from among the Lions' wives, the American Legion Auxiliary and others interested in the work, according to Harold Stoltz, Lions chairman.

The tests will be conducted for children three to six, to try and determine all vision deficiencies, the principal one being amblyopia, commonly known as "lazy eye," Stoltz said. Teams have been trained to conduct these tests and will be under the direction of Mrs. L. W. Sanberg and Mrs. Mac McKenny, co-captains.

Stoltz said after the completion of this clinic a second one will be scheduled, open to all children ages three to six, in the Jerome area.

Parents will be encouraged to take advantage of this free opportunity to have the eyes of their children checked.

Importance of this program cannot be overemphasized since "lazy eye" is prevalent among children in this age group," Stoltz said.

"This condition is usually easy to correct at this stage of a child's life, but after six becomes increasingly difficult. If not taken care of, blindness can occur in the one eye with the accompanying loss of depth perception.

"Should anything happen to the other eye, a person could become the victim of total blindness," Stoltz pointed out.

The project is made available to local Lions clubs by the Idaho-Oregon Lions' Sight Conservation Foundation.

Volunteers to serve on the teams include Mrs. Jerry Lawson, Mrs. Walter Thueson, Mrs. Ron Rogers, Mrs. Harold Jenkins, Mrs. Pete Schmidt, Mrs. Lamar Box, Mrs. Charles Parker, Mrs. Wesley Rose, Mrs. Oscar Fort.

Work begun

CONSTRUCTION of the new vocational-technical building at the College of Southern Idaho is proceeding at a rapid rate, with an unusual foundation provided by massive steel-reinforced cement columns set into the ground at intervals. Richard Bollin, foreman for the contractor, Neilsen-Miller Construction Co., instructs a back-hoe operator on digging a foundation pit. Though no massive excavation is required by the design of the building, its large size is indicated by the many foundation pillars being poured.

Pre-school children to register

VALLEY SCHOOLS — Pre-school registration for next year's first graders at the Valley grade schools will be Friday, says Harry Kurtz, principal.

Kurtz said all children who will start to school next fall will report to the Eden grade school and will spend the morning with first grade teachers. The youngsters will eat hot lunch at the school and parents can pick them up between noon and 1 p.m.

Kurtz also said first graders will not have any school on Friday because of the pre-school registration.

Students to pick up litter

VALLEY SCHOOLS — The Valley elementary school children will be picking up litter in both Eden and Hazelton on Friday, says Harry Kurtz, principal.

He said the children will pick up litter along streets and alleys as well as on the school playgrounds as their contribution to Earth Week.

Fire takes shed, calf

RICHFIELD — One calf and an old building were destroyed by fire Sunday morning at the Charles Maestas ranch, four miles northeast of here.

Fire Chief Lyle Piper said eight firemen responded to the fire call at 10 a.m. Sunday, but let the old structure burn while protecting other dwellings. A calf died in the fire, believed to have been caused by a heat lamp.

Walks laid at center

RICHFIELD — Piper Shopping Center was closed today while 80 feet of concrete sidewalk was installed.

Edwin Johnson, Hailey, contractor, said this makes 155 feet of new sidewalks installed this month for Piper's. He noted that the city will pay for one-fourth of the cost of new sidewalks in the business district of the city.

Albert available during vacation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert, second man in line of succession to the presidency, said Monday he could have been reached easily last week during his vacation if there had been a national emergency.

Idaho to receive 'Wrangler' award

TWIN FALLS — The State of Idaho will receive a special recognition "Wrangler" award at the 11th annual Western Heritage Awards presentations April 24 at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Oklahoma City.

Idaho will be recognized as one of the "Great Western States" during a special Salute to Idaho segment of the awards program. Dean Krakel, spokesman for the center, said

Idaho, the Gem State and the Potato State, will be cited as a "wonderful vacation state, with great historic, scenic and recreation assets, and an enviable record as an economic leader, especially in mining and agriculture."

Gov. Cecil Andrus is expected to be on hand to receive the award. Also scheduled to be honored are Cowboy Hall of Fame board members Albert Anderson, Burley, and Ross T. Clement, Roberts.

Idaho gets funds for youth program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Idaho State Board of Education has been allocated $368,000 in additional federal funds for extension of a summertime Neighborhood Youth Corp program, Cong. Orval Hansen reported today.

Hansen said the project will represent 930 additional work opportunities for disadvantaged youth. It will extend over a period of 8½ weeks, and trainees will be paid at the rate of $1.60 per hour.

The goal of the summer program is to provide earnings, work experience and supportive services to enable youths of poor families to stay in school and to encourage potential school dropouts to return to school in the fall.

Hansen noted that counseling and guidance will emphasize the completion of high school and higher education for a better future.

It will assist trainees to assess their skills and aptitudes, provide information on possible careers and opportunities for post-high school education and training, and to provide guidance on attitudes necessary to maintain employment.

Horseshoe students in want

TWIN FALLS — A class in horseshoeing may fall by the wayside unless more interest is shown and more students enroll, according to Marvin Glasscock, adult education director at the College of Southern Idaho.

Only eight students have paid the $35 tuition, but a minimum of 14 is required to conduct the class, Glasscock said. Six more enrollees are needed before next Monday, April 26, or the class must be canceled.

Details on registration and contents of the class may be obtained from Glasscock at CSI, phone 733-9554, Extension 221.

BPA picks managers

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — H. R. Richmond, administrator of Bonneville Power Administration, today announced new administrative heads for two BPA offices in Washington, D.C., and Idaho Falls.

William H. Clagett, Idaho Falls area manager, will become assistant administrator of the Washington, D.C., office, May 30. He succeeds George Toman who continues in the Washington office as assistant manager.

Emanuel G. Asp, Kallispell district manager, will move to Idaho Falls as area manager.

Wildlife hearing April 22

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Fish and Game Commission will hold a public hearing April 22 on matters concerning management of wildlife.

The commission will hold its regular quarterly meeting following the public hearing at the Fish and Game state headquarters building.

However, closing dates for big game hunting seasons as well as other regulation details will not be established by the commission until next month, with a special meeting to be called for that purpose.

Order issued

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commerce Department issued the final order Monday banning commercial whaling by U.S. companies after Dec. 31. All whales which have been sought by U.S. fishermen are now on the endangered species list and only one company, Del Monte of Richmond, Calif., still engages in whaling. Monday's final order follows a tentative decision March 1 and a public hearing in San Francisco March 29.

Monroe-led Bullets overcome New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—Earl Monroe scored 25 points and Fred Carter put in the deciding basket with one minute remaining Monday night to give the two-platopmg Baltimore Bullets a 93-91 victory over the defending champion New York Knicks in the seventh game of their Eastern Conference play-off final and the right to meet the Milwaukee Bucks in the National Basketball Association's $150,000 title round.

Frazier honored in celebration

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—World heavyweight champion Joe Frazier was the toast of his home town Monday.

The City of Philadelphia officially honored the champion on "Joe Frazier Day" with a motorcade and ceremonies at City Hall.

Frazier rode through center city in the eight-vehicle motorcade in an open car with his family and Mayor James H.S. Tate.

The champion shouted greetings to the noontime crowds on the sidewalks and alternately flashed two-fingered clenched-fist salutes.

Frazier, wearing a light brown suit, gold shirt, brown tie and tan boots, was 30 minutes late arriving for the City Hall ceremony with his wife, Florence, and four of their five children. Tate said Frazier was caught in heavy traffic.

Frazier received a plaque from Tate and a life membership in PAL, the Police Athletic League. The champion who climaxed his career with a title victory over Muhammad Ali on March 8 learned his first boxing lessons in a PAL ring in a police station at 22nd and Columbia in the heart of the North Philadelphia poverty pocket.

Cleveland slips past Boston Sox

BOSTON (UPI)—Roy Foster's two-run homer in the 13th inning Monday gave the Cleveland Indians a 5-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox in a Patriots' Day morning game.

Foster hit his first home run of the season following a walk to Graig Nettles as southpaw Bill Lee, the fifth Red Sox pitcher, suffered the loss.

Steve Mingori, the fourth Cleveland pitcher, gained the victory, though needing relief help from Ray Lamb when the Red Sox rallied for a run in the last of the 13th. Singles by Duane Josephson and Billy Conigliaro and a walk to Doug Griffin loaded the bases before Lamb took over to get out of the jam and gained his first save.

Former Boston outfielder Ken Harrelson hit his first homer off Red Sox starter Mike Nagy in the fourth following Vada Pinson's single and a walk to Nettles. The Red Sox, held to one hit over the first five innings, got to Cleveland starter Alan Foster for two runs in the sixth on a walk to Reggie Smith and singles by Carl Yastrzemski, Rico Petrocelli and George Scott.

Frazier grabbed the rebound of a Gus Johnson shot with 11 seconds remaining but Bill Bradley's last second shot fell short and Baltimore recovered at the buzzer.

A Monroe basket with 2:33 remaining put Baltimore in front for good at 89-88. Jack Marin gave Baltimore a three-point edge at 91-88 but Willis Reed's foul shot cut the margin to two points. Carter then hit a long jumper for a 93-89 margin before Frazier cut the deficit to the game's final two point margin with 45 seconds left.

Dave DeBusschere, who missed numerous shots during the game, tried a corner shot with 33 seconds left, but missed again and New York then missed on its final effort as Bradley's shot was off the mark.

Milwaukee hosts the best-of-seven final series beginning Wednesday night. The winner of that set gets $90,000 and the loser $60,000.

Reed, playing courageously with an injured right shoulder and on a left knee that required a shot of Xylocaine to kill the pain, scored 24 points for New York. Dick Barnett matched that total for the Knicks.

Baltimore, which lost the first two games of the series at New York, then won the next two before splitting the fifth and sixth games, effectively used a two-platop system in the seventh game as coach Gene Shue shuttled his players in and out.

The balanced Bullet scoring totals showed Wes Unseld with 17 points and Carter with 14. Carter, Monroe and Kevin Loughery alternated at the guard positions while Marin, Gus Johnson and John Tresvant took care of the forward slots and occasionally the pivot when Unseld was rested.

Killebrew leads Twin victory

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (UPI)—Harmon Killebrew drove in six runs—including three on his second home run of the year—to lead the Minnesota Twins to a 9-8 victory over the Kansas City Royals Monday which broke a six-game Minnesota losing streak.

The Royals were down 9-0 but picked up one run in the fourth and seven in the fifth, four on Bob Oliver's grand slam home run.

Earlier in the inning, Kansas City got three runs on four singles and an error by Rick Renick before Oliver homered 402 feet into the leftfield stands with Cookie Rojas, Armos Otis and Lou Pinella aboard.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI)—Charlie Scott and Ray Scott collected 30 points apiece Monday night to pace the Virginia Squires to a 150-137 triumph over the Kentucky Colonels, giving the Squires a 2-1 lead in their American Basketball Association Eastern Division final playoffs.

Charlie Scott gunned seven straight points during a vital nine-point spurt by the Squires which broke a 120-120 tie and finished off the Colonels in the last quarter.

The rough-and-tumble contest saw a new ABA playoff record set for most fouls in one game. Referees Joe Gushue and Ed Middleton whistled 79 fouls, breaking a record established in 1969 in a game between the Denver Rockets and the Oakland Oaks.

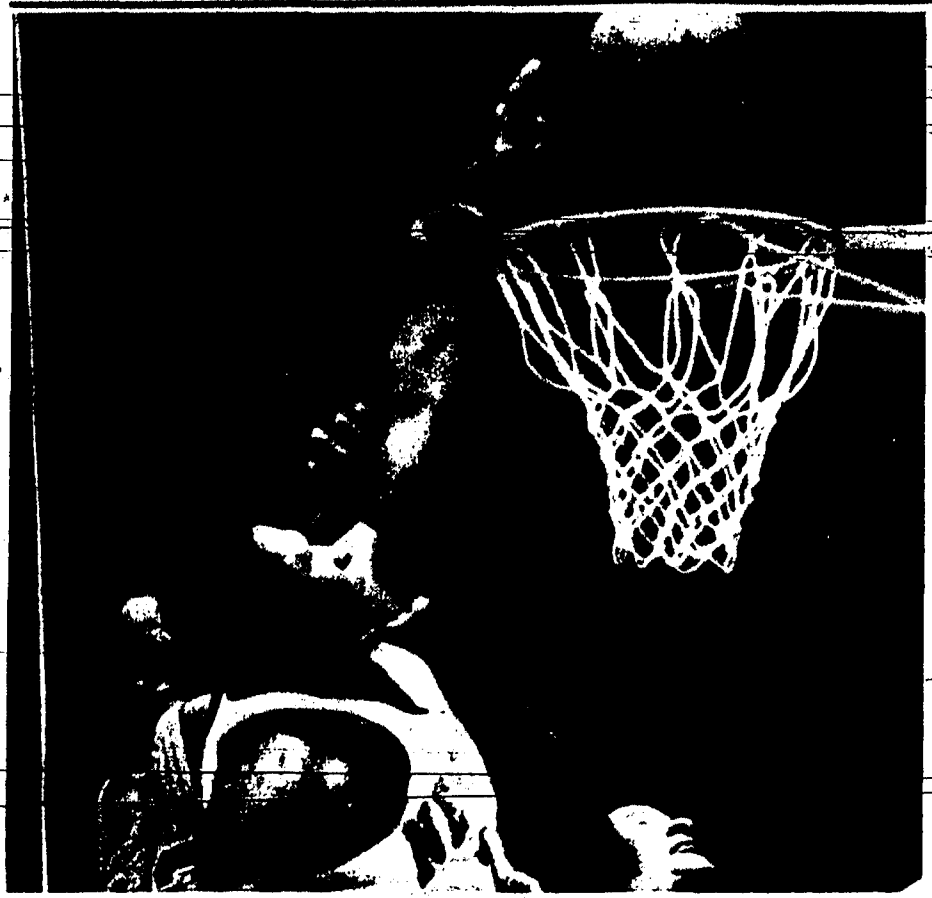

Seven players fouled out of the game. They were Dan Issel, Jim Ligon, Louie Dampier and Les Hunter of the Colonels and Jim Eskins, Neil Johnson and Roland Taylor of the Squires. The Colonels were led by Issel with 27 points, Hunter with 24 and Dampier and Cincy Powell with 22 each.

Powell hauled down 27 rebounds, two short of the Colonels' team record. The teams will meet here Wednesday night in the fourth game of their best-of-seven series, then travel to Hampton, Va. for the fifth game Friday night.

Mejia wins 75th annual Boston race

BOSTON (UPI)—Alvaro Mejia, a 30-year-old Colombian running in only his second marathon in the United States, pulled away from Ireland's Pat McMahon in the final 200 yards Monday to win the 75th annual Boston Marathon in the closest finish in history.

Mejia and McMahon ran neck-and-neck for the entire race but the Colombian, who said he almost dropped out at the halfway mark because of blisters, put on a late burst of speed to win by about 25 yards. The winning time was two hours, 18 minutes, 45 seconds, more than eight minutes over the record for the 26-mile, 385-yard course set last year by England's Ron Hill. McMahon,

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ron Bryant, taking over in the first after starter Frank Reberger hit a batter and walked one and then left with a sore shoulder, pitched an eight-hit ball game the rest of the way Monday as the San Francisco Giants defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 and extended their winning streak to nine games.

Dick Dietz drove in two runs with singles in the first and third and Bobby Bonds hit his fifth homer with the bases empty in the seventh to pace the Giant attack. San Francisco's fourth run scored when St. Louis reliever Chuck Taylor balked George Foster with the bases loaded in the fifth.

Third among the 887 starters was John Halberstadt, a 21-year-old South African attending Oklahoma State University. His time was 2:22:23.

John Vitale, a recent graduate of the University of Connecticut and the top American finisher, was fourth in 2:22:45. Byron J. Lowry of San Francisco was fifth in 2:22:50.

Vasquez bantam champ

NEW YORK (UPI)—Davey Vasquez of New York scored a technical knockout Monday night over Chuck Spencer of Cleveland and won the North American bantamweight title.

Vasquez, who weighed 117, stopped Spencer after seven rounds when the defending champion was seated in his corner suffering from a bleeding nose.

The smaller Vasquez started right from the beginning chopping up the 118 pound Spencer with numerous rights and jabs to the face and by the fourth round Spencer's nose began bleeding and soon his face was smeared with blood.

Petrie chosen rookie

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—"The whole year was like unbelievable. I couldn't have dreamed it any better."

That's Geoff Petrie of the Portland Trail Blazers, speaking after learning of the year, talking. He and Dave Cowens of Boston were named to share NBA Rookie of the Year honors.

"I was surprised, really surprised," he said. "I thought Cowens might get it. He got off to such a great start."

But when the final NBA statistics were posted it was Petrie's name, not Cowens, that was found among the leaders. He was the seventh rookie in NBA history to score more than 2,000 points, ranking seventh in the league with 2,031 and a 24.8 average.

He was 13th in the league in assists with 4.8 per game. Both Petrie and the Trail Blazers got off to a slow start in the NBA.

Eastern sportswriters were somewhat scornful of the new club as it went well into the season before winning a game from an established team and was once 0-19 against other members of the Western Conference.

Petrie, as a guard, had trouble establishing himself too. By All-Star game time, however, he was the only rookie named to the West team.

He said the attitude of the sports writers "actually helped motivate" the Blazers, who picked up steam in the second half of the season and came off with wins over all but five teams in the league.

"We lost a lot of close games this year," Petrie said. "Next year if we can win half of those close ones we'll be a contender for the playoffs."

The Blazers will be better next year and so will Petrie, said Petrie. Sidney Wicks, the Blazers No. 1 draft choice, "will help my game and it will help the team," Petrie said. "He can do everything—he's great."

He added, "I know I'll be a better player. I may not score as much next year but that's not the sole determination. The most important thing is winning."

Sox loss blamed on spectator

BOSTON (UPI)—A little girl leaning out of the stands watching pre-game practice was being blamed Monday for the 5-4 Red Sox loss to the Cleveland Indians.

The unidentified youngster, described as 10 or 11 years old, was watching spare pitcher Cal Koonce hit flies to Red Sox right fielder Reg Smith.

When a ball, caught in the stiff Fenway Park breeze, sailed toward the right field stands, Smith made a valiant effort to save the youngster from serious injury.

Reggie said he ran into the retaining wall trying to jump into the stands to keep the young girl from being hit. He didn't make it and though the ball hit the girl, she was not injured. Smith suffered a knee injury that took him out of the ball game in the eighth inning.

Baseball president succumbs

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Sam C. Smith Jr., president of the Southern Baseball League and a leader of minor league baseball in the South for 24 years, died Monday of cancer at the age of 50.

Smith, a native of Dothan, Ala., began his rise in minor league baseball with the old Alabama League in 1947 when he was assistant to the president. He spent 17 years heading up minor league organizations.

His widow, secretary of the Southern League, will continue to direct the circuit's operations here until club owners can meet to plan on a new president.

Early this year, the Southern joined a one-year merger with the Texas League, to form the Dixie Association, with Smith heading up the Eastern Division of the organization.

Bobby Bragan, president of the Texas League, said the sport lost a real "baseball man" in Smith's death.

"I'm sorry to hear of it, but we all kit."

"I'm sorry to hear of it, but we all knew it was coming, Bragan said. "Smith fought it to the very end. But he always was known as a battler."

Smith entered Auburn University under Coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan as a freshman football player. After four years in the Navy, he finished his degree requirements in physical education at Troy State.

He sold sporting goods for a time, and did some high school and college coaching. He also pitched in semi-pro baseball for a time.

But it was in baseball management that he made his mark in the minor league sport.

He worked with the Dothan entry for a time in the Alabama-Florida League.

Hansen smoker scheduled

HANSEN — Barry Espil, junior high school coach, announces a Smoker to be held at 7 p.m. April 23, at the school gymnasium. There will be 22 fights, boxing, with grades four through eight participating. There will be two battle royals, with the last one in as the winner.

Ribbons will be awarded to winners. Funds raised from the smoker will be used to purchase a new score board for basketball. The public is invited.

Belko resigns position

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Steve Belko is stepping down as basketball coach at the University of Oregon, Oregon Journal sports editor George Pasero reported Monday.

Belko has been head basketball coach at Oregon for 15 years and his teams have compiled a 179-211 win loss record.

Belko was in Springfield, Mass., attending basketball hall of fame ceremonies and unavailable for immediate comment. Other university officials also were not immediately available for comment.

Pasero said the journal had learned University of Pennsylvania coach Dick Harter might be Belko's successor.

Belko, 55, won 287 games in his varsity coaching career and his clubs at Oregon and Idaho State lost 283.

Belko, a standout guard in his undergraduate days at Idaho, came to Oregon after six successful seasons at Idaho State College, where his win-loss record was 108-52, and included four trips to the NCAA Regional playoffs and four conference titles.

He took the 1955-60 Oregon team to the NCAA playoffs, losing to California in the semifinals. Oregon also participated in the NCAA playoffs the following season, but was eliminated by USC.

Belko teams usually are noted for their tough defensive play and disciplined offensive patterns.

Belko is a vice president of the basketball coaches association and a member of the rules committee.

Game unit to hold hearings

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho fish and game commission will hold a public hearing April 22 on matters concerning management of wildlife.

The commission will hold its regular quarterly meeting following the public hearing at the fish and game state headquarters building.

However, closing dates for big game hunting seasons as well as other regulation details will not be established by the commission until next month, when a special meeting will be called for that purpose.

Opening dates for Upland Game Bird hunting seasons also will be fixed at a special meeting to be held in May. Closing dates for game birds will not be set until late summer when more information is available about this year's nesting and brood success of the various species.

Manson, women silent

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson took the death sentence almost serenely Monday, rocking slowly back and forth on his heels and staring straight ahead.

The three young women he sent out to commit seven savage murders followed his lead. They stood in silence with their hands clasped. They were a grotesque looking trio, their long hair cut off and heads shaved until only a fuzz showed on their skulls. They were following the lead of Manson, who earlier had shaved his head.

Manson spoke for less than a minute before Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older formally pronounced sentences of death in the gas chamber at San Quentin Prison for the Tate-LaBianca killings.

"I accept this court as my father," said Manson who has spent 23 of his 36 years in jails.

"I have always done the best in my life to uphold the law of my father. I accept the judgment of my father."

Judge Older ordered Manson removed to San Quentin and Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten to the California Institute of Women at Fontana, Calif., pending appeals expected to require from three to five years.

Manson and Miss Atkins, however, will be returned shortly to Los Angeles for another trial in the slaying of musician Gary Hinman and Hollywood stunt man Donald "Shorty" Shea.

Older turned down the pleas of the defense lawyers that he reduce to life imprisonment the death verdict handed down by the jury March 29.

"After nine and one half months of trial, all the superlatives have been used, all the hyperbole exhausted," Older said.

"All that remains is the stark fact of seven senseless murders, people whose lives were snuffed out by total strangers for reasons that may never be known to anyone but themselves."

"The death penalty is not only appropriate but almost compelled by the circumstances in this case. I must agree with the prosecution that if the death penalty as set forth by the Legislature of California is justified in any case, it is justified in this one."

CHARLES MANSON calm at death sentence.

Spiro swats China news

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has criticized U.S. participation in mainland China's "ping pong diplomacy" and objected particularly to what he views as excessive press coverage of the event, it was reported today.

The reports circulated at the spring meeting of the Republican Governors Association at which Agnew attended both a private dinner Sunday night and a private luncheon Monday. He has made no public remarks beyond a brief panel appearance.

But in a news story from the meeting, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch said Agnew, during an off-the-record session with a group of newsmen, criticized the visit to China by the American table tennis team.

In addition, some of the governors who attended the Monday luncheon said the Vice President attacked heavy news coverage of the round of "ping pong diplomacy" which went on while the Americans were behind the Bamboo Curtain.

One of the governors at the luncheon told UPI later Agnew said he felt the press gave too much instant exposure to the affair and the conditions encountered inside China. He reportedly referred to one press dispatch describing a family living in one 15-foot square room. Agnew said such living conditions in this country would be described as poverty.

The Post-Dispatch story was written by Thomas W. Ottenad, a reporter who was not among the nine newsmen who met with Agnew for three hours after midnight Monday. Ottenad said he "learned of the session elsewhere."

Writer's body found in field

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A body believed to be that of Catherine M. "Kate" Webb, United Press International Bureau Manager in Phnom Penh, has been found in a battle area 55 miles southwest of the capital.

Miss Webb, 28, and five other persons have been officially listed as missing since April 7. They were covering a battle on Highway 4 when Cambodian paratroop positions were overrun by Communist forces.

Advancing Cambodian troops found several bodies in the area last Friday. In accordance with Cambodian military procedure, all the bodies were burned on the spot but a Cambodian officer who had previously seen Miss Webb said she was among the dead.

Missing with Miss Webb were Toshihiko Suzuki, correspondent for the Japanese newsreel agency Nihon Denpa News; Ghim Sarath, UPI translator-driver in Phnom Penh; Cambodian freelance photographer Tea Kim Hieng and two Cambodian interpreters. Their fate was not known.

Several other correspondents, including Robin Mannoek of the Associated Press, escaped during the April 7 battle. Mannoek, who was wounded in the assault, said Miss Webb told him when they reached the Cambodian positions along the road "I'm just going up to have a look. And then I'm going back to Phnom Penh."

He said she moved forward several hundred yards and then the Communists opened fire on the Cambodian positions and minutes later overran the area.

Some other witnesses to the battle said they believed Miss Webb was captured by troops wearing North Vietnamese uniforms. However, all attempts to find if she was taken captive had proven fruitless.

Nine other correspondents have been killed in Cambodia and 17 previously have been reported missing.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss ... and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss ... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair ... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

Politics charged in firing

BOISE (UPI) — Chairman of Idaho's Republican Party said Monday the new administration was playing "partisan politics with one of the nation's most acclaimed state aeronautical programs."

Roland Wilber referred to recent reports Director of Aeronautics Chet Moulton had been asked for his resignation.

Wilber said Gov. Cecil D. Andrus and his "political allies" were attempting to oust Moulton and replace him "solely for political reasons" despite the fact "Idaho's program for the promotion of flying and flight safety under the direction of Chet Moulton has long been considered one of the finest."

Wilber said Moulton was first appointed director of aeronautics by Gov. Arnold Williams, the last Democrat to hold the office of governor before Andrus, and was retained by four successive Republican administrations.

"It is apparent that the governor's statements that he would not permit politics to enter into the determination of his appointments were empty promises, and that his political commitments will override his statements," Wilber said.

Railpax adds Ogden

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Rail Passenger System is to include Ogden, Utah, according to word leaked to Beehive State lawmakers Monday by officials of the National Railroad Passenger Corp.

"Ogden will be added for sure," said Rep. Gunn McKay, D-Utah, whose congressional district includes the state's second largest city.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, agreed, noting officials had reversed an earlier decision to route passenger service from Salt Lake City to Wells, Nev., around the south end of the Great Salt Lake.

Directors of the new system, to be known as AMTRAK, a contraction of "American" and "Track" said they would meet Wednesday.

Information given the Utah congressional delegation indicated the addition of Ogden to the passenger service.

By adding three miles to the route and running north of the lake, Bennett said, the metropolitan area of Ogden could be served at little additional costs.

Power off

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mysterious power failures clogged downtown streets with stalled trolleys and trolley buses Monday during both the morning and evening rush hours.

Municipal railway investigators were unable to say Monday night what caused either failure.

Electricity to overhead lines for buses and trolleys was off from 8:04 a.m. until 9:41 a.m. and from 4:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The Soviet base 19 miles north of Colombo represents the Russians' first military foothold in Asia beyond its own immediate spheres of influence. It also provides the Soviets with a land base in the Indian Ocean region, which Moscow has been trying to obtain and Western powers have been trying to block for the past three years.

Diplomats said there has been talk also of the possibility of the Ceylonese allowing the Soviet navy to use the naval base at Trincomalee, 160 miles northeast of Colombo.

Soviet Union sets up Ceylon base

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI) — The Soviet Union has begun setting up a jet fighter base in Ceylon at the request of the government of Prime Minister Sirimavo Bandaranaike, diplomatic sources said today. The base would be the first Soviet military installation in non-Communist Asia.

The sources said Soviet crews arrived in secret the past weekend and are staying in a remote hotel five miles from Colombo's military and civil airport where the MIG17 base will be located.

The first of the Soviet jets were expected to arrive immediately, the sources said. Diplomatic circles were uncertain of the details of the Moscow-Colombo agreement and whether the base was permanent or temporary.

Nor was it immediately clear what role the Soviets would play in the Ceylon's student uprising which Mrs. Bandaranaike's government was struggling against. Several other foreign countries have already sent arms and equipment to Ceylon to help put down the rebellion.

But it was known that one of Ceylon's most pressing needs was air support for the island nation's ground forces. Air support so far against the two-week-old rebellion has been limited to a handful of Indian helicopters and sorties by old Ceylonese cargo planes from which crewmen toss dynamite.

The MIG17 is an obsolescent fighter plane. Most of Egypt's MIGs, for example, are MIG21s. Recently Egypt has been reported to be receiving the new and revolutionary MIG 23s as well.

The rebellion Mrs. Bandaranaike's forces have been struggling to crush broke out among the island's thousands of unemployed university graduates who are impatient with the government's Socialist reforms and want a more radically leftwing regime.

Bengali ouster sought

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The Pakistani government asked India today to oust rebel Bengali diplomats from its mission in Calcutta. It said failure to do so would be interpreted as an "unfriendly act."

Pakistani High Commissioner (ambassador) Sajja Hyder delivered the request to the External Affairs Ministry in New Delhi. The note said Pakistan's Deputy High Commissioner (consul) in New Delhi, Mahdi Masud, was being assigned to take over the Calcutta mission.

A spokesman for the Indian External Affairs Ministry said the request "will be given due consideration." He had no other comment.

The appeal was Pakistan's first public reaction since about 50 Bengali staff members, headed by mission chief Mohammed Hossain Ali, declared their loyalty to the secessionist Bengalis of East Pakistan last Sunday.

The Indian government's position so far has been that there was no change in the status of the high commission in Calcutta because the Pakistani government had not informed it of any change. It has permitted the Bengalis to remain in the consulate.

All's staff hoisted the green, red and yellow flag of Bangla

Desh (Bengal Land) and affixed a new nameplate at the consulate, designating it the mission of East Bengal when they announced their allegiance Sunday.

The Pakistani note asked the Indian government to clear the Bengalis out and said failure to do so would be a "violation of international conventions and would be interpreted by Pakistan as an unfriendly act."

The incident and Pakistan's response were seen by diplomatic sources here as yet another step in the decline of relations between the two countries since civil war broke out in Pakistan last month.

Earlier today, official Radio Pakistan charged India with using centers for East Pakistani refugees from the war as a front for supply centers for the rebel troops.

Guard training set

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Adjutant General Maj. Gen. George B. Bennett said Monday more than 5,000 Army National Guardsmen from five states will be quartered at Gowen Field for annual training during May and June.

This year, Bennett said, the First Squadron of the 108th Armored Cavalry Regiment, Mississippi Army National Guard, will use the Idaho desert training facilities while the Second Squadron, 116th Armored Cavalry, Idaho Army National Guard, will conduct field exercises at Camp Shelby, Miss.

May 27, the bulk of Idaho's 116th Armored Cavalry and support units will convoy to Gowen Field.

Nevada units, comprised of the Third Squadron, 116th Armored Cavalry, and the 150th Heavy Equipment Maintenance Company, will arrive May 27.

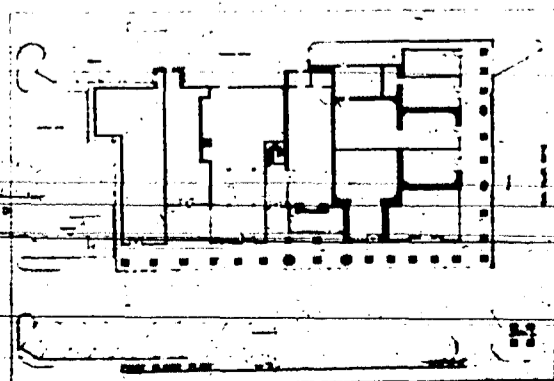

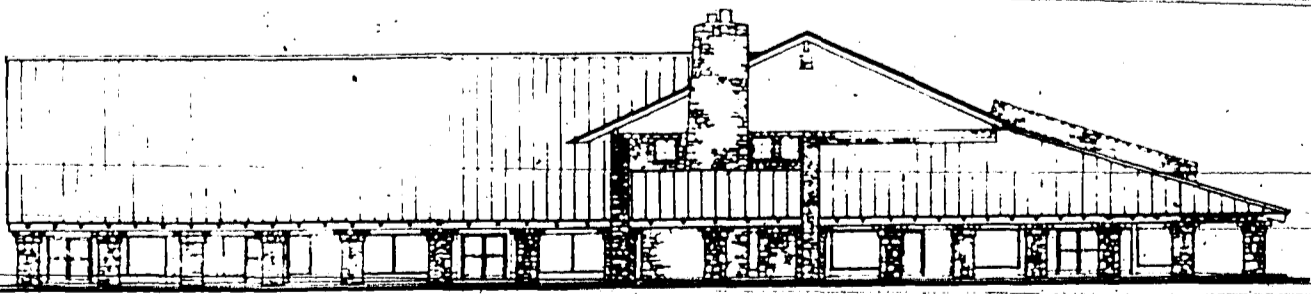

In addition, members of the 163rd Armored Cavalry from Montana and Oregon will be at Gowen Field between June 12-26, and the 116th Heavy Equipment Maintenance Company, Boise, will be at Gowen Field July 31-Aug. 14 for annual training.

We realize that recreation is the growing base for the economy of the Ketchum-Sun Valley area, and because of an increase of leisure time at hand, permanent residents have doubled in the past ten years. This has, in turn, created a need for a greater variety and better quality of services in this area.

The Christiania Colonnade is now offering prime commercial and office space in a rapidly expanding business community.

low. South won with the 10 and promptly led the jack. West had been taught to cover an honor with an honor and put up his king, whereupon dummy's ace plucked the king and queen together. After that start it was a cinch for the expert declarer to make the rest of the tricks.

He was sure that West would hold the ace-king of spades and king of clubs for his opening bid. In that case a one-way squeeze would be automatic. South ran his trumps to discard the deuce of spades and a club from dummy. Then he played out holding the ace-queen of clubs as his last two cards. West had to unguard the club king to hold a high spade and the queen of clubs made the 13th trick.

Here is a bit of whimsy from "Popular Bridge." The author is Victor Mollo. South is an overbidder who takes full advantage of mistakes that are continually made against him by his opponents.

Today he takes even more advantage than usual to collect all 13 tricks at a four-heart contract. He could easily have been set one or two tricks if the defense were enterprising and his own play not quite the best. A look at the bidding shows South overbid two tricks when he went to four hearts. West got off to the good lead with the three of hearts, but East was not going to waste his queen that early in the play. He tried third hand

TAKE A MOTHER with several young children. If you give her a puppy also, that adds up to about one-and-a-half children's worth of additional work around the house. No puppy? Understandable. But if you give her a female cat with a litter of kittens, that adds up to about two children's worth of extra work. Bear it in mind, young lady, when the youngsters plead for a pet. Tropical fish add only about one-fiftieth of a well-behaved child's worth of work.

THAT AGE AT which the average toddler stops sucking its thumb is 3 years 9 months... WHAT, PRAY, IS that gourmet delicacy known as Toad-in-the-Hole?... IN PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL, one out of every 20 players winds up a game without a bruise, statistics show... NOTE IT CLAIMED white-tail deer occasionally eat trout. Can't believe it... THE COMPUTER BOYS say there's only one chance in 50 million your teeth are exactly like anybody else's.

WOMEN SELDOM feel remorse. That's the claim of French writer Joseph Joubert. Many a man gone wrong feels guilty afterwards. But rare is the woman who does so. Men act up, then think it over to their sorrow. Women think it over, convince themselves they're justified, then act up. Or so this fellow contends.

AM ASKED IF any shorthand expert in the world could possibly keep up with that famous tobacco auctioneer L.A. "Speed" Riggs. Doubtlessly not. Mr. Riggs' chant has been clocked at 460 wpm. Fastest shorthand takers handle about 300 wpm.

TWO MEALS a day, no lunch, that's what we got. It was years ago on a two-week hike through the Olympic Mountains in the Pacific Northwest. The Works Progress Administration sponsored it. The several hundred youngsters remained unruffled. We got might hungry by dinner, true enough. And lost considerable weight. But the official policy was no lunch. How long ago that was! Repeat it today. What a storm there'd be! Hear the thunder of the fathers, see the lightning of the mothers! Just wouldn't be tolerated.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "What month do the fewest Americans die?" A. August, ordinarily. Those months in which the most Americans die, in order, are March, February and January... Q. "What's the hunters' favorite game bird?" A. Pheasant in the North, quail in the South, grouse in New England.

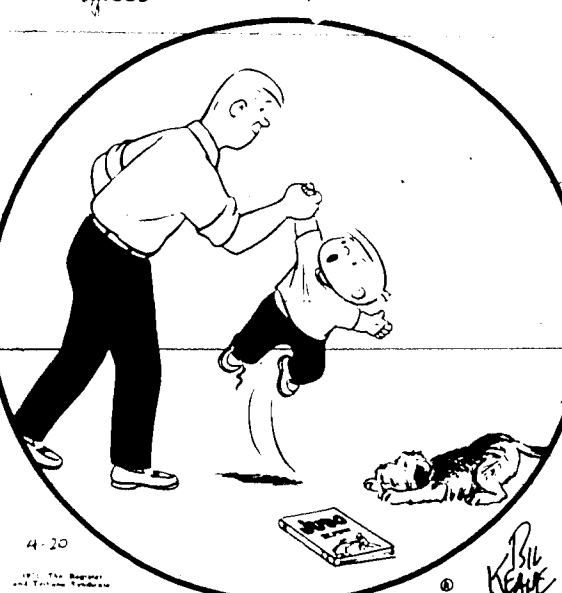

THOSE MEDICOES who measure brainwaves contend most of us are more chipper in the spring than any other time of year. In the fall, they say, we're fairly lively, too. In the winter, we're known to be just mediocre, relatively. And in the winter, we're said to be at our lowest and slowest. What, you already knew that?

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 17076, Fort Worth, Texas 76102.

MAJOR MOOPLE

This is no stop sign.

Helping others is an old American tradition. When we see someone hitchhiking along the road — perhaps a young man who could be on his way back to college — it's our natural inclination to stop and offer a lift. Unfortunately, it's a dangerous inclination. Time and again, the generous gesture of a motorist has turned to tragedy, with robbery, assault or murder the reward for a lift along the road. N.A.D.A. safety experts estimate it happens nearly 100 times every day.

The message is clear. Don't stop to pick up a stranger. A hitchhiker's appearance is no indication of his character — or intentions. In addition to the risk of robbery or attack, there is danger in stopping suddenly for a hitchhiker when other cars are on the road behind you.

We want you and your family to be safe whenever you travel by car. So next time you see a hitchhiker, leave him be. You'll still be doing someone a kindness. Your family and yourself.

FBI target of new shot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said Monday he believes the FBI has under surveillance "virtually every political figure, every student activist, every leader for peace and social justice" in the nation.

The Democratic presidential hopeful, in a strong new attack on the FBI and Director J. Edgar Hoover, charged that President Nixon was afraid to remove the 76-year-old Hoover even though "he has become irresponsible."

"The obvious truth is that Mr. Hoover is retained in office not out of a sense of confidence, but out of fear," McGovern said. "Out of political fear that the administration cannot afford to remove this 'sacred cow' from the public scene."

McGovern's fresh criticism of Hoover came in a speech at Lewis-St. Francis College in Lockport, Ill. He said documents stolen from an FBI office at Media, Pa., showed that FBI surveillance was widespread.

House Democratic Whip Hale Boggs, of Louisiana, who triggered the round of heated controversy over Hoover and the FBI, reserved an hour of time on the House floor Thursday for a speech amplifying on his claim that the FBI tapped congressmen's telephones. Boggs declined to tell reporters Monday what he intended to say.

Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole, a Kansas Senator, defended the FBI and Hoover before GOP governors in Williamsburg, Va., saying Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and other critics of the agency were making "a concerted and deliberate effort" to downgrade it into "an American version of the Gestapo."

On the House floor, a former FBI agent, Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio, also criticized Muskie indirectly for making public names of persons Muskie said were under FBI surveillance at 1970 Earth Day ceremonies.

Devine said "ambitious politicians and newspapers which act as fences for stolen documents" were violating the privacy of individuals by using names.

McGovern referred to some of the stolen documents—copies of which were sent anonymously to certain newspapers and portions of which were published—as presenting "clear evidence" of FBI spying on citizens: "those only crime seems to be a social conscience that moves them to social action."

McGovern then added: "There is no doubt in my mind that virtually every political figure, every student activist, every leader for peace and social justice is under the surveillance of the FBI."

"I am convinced that paid informers are the rule rather than the exception on college campuses, within civil rights groups, and throughout the peace movement. I have no doubt that elaborate files are maintained on thousands of political figures across the land."

Bulgaria Red party meets

VIENNA (UPI) — Bulgaria, the smallest and most loyal member of the Soviet bloc, opens its Communist party congress Tuesday with a goal of stimulating its economy while pledging fealty to Moscow.

About 2,000 delegates are to assemble in the sports stadium of the modernistic Universiada Hall to open a week of speech-making and resolution-passing.

The timing of the congress itself set the tone of the meeting. It begins two weeks after the end of the Soviet party congress in Moscow and, in both domestic and foreign policy, is expected to follow the lead of the Kremlin conclave.

Bulgaria, with 8.5 million people, has long been known as Moscow's most docile partner—so much so that a group of military officers staged a coup in 1965 to try to install a more independent—but still Communist—regime. The coup failed and Bulgaria has marched beside Moscow ever since.

The leaders of foreign delegations have not been announced yet, but it is expected that the Soviet party secretary, Leonid I. Brezhnev, will be the star guest. Brezhnev attended the last Bulgarian congress in 1966, and used it to announce his plans for the world Communist summit in Moscow.

There is no indication the Congress will change Bulgaria's pro-Soviet course. Located deep in the Balkans, sharing borders with NATO members Greece and Turkey, Bulgaria is pro-Soviet by both history and need.

World waits to read next Sino-U.S. page

HONG KONG (UPI)—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China has opened a new page in Sino-American relations and the rest of the world waits anxiously to read the next one.

The visit of the American table tennis team of Red China caught the world by surprise, but 90 and 180 degree turns are not unusual in the Orient.

Japan became the best friend of the United States in Asia following the bitterest and most devastating Pacific war in history; in 1965 Indonesia moved from the deep shadows of communism to look toward the West; Ceylon has alternately swung from the far left to the far right.

Following Red China's surprise diplomatic offensive came signs that perhaps there was a coordinated plan with the Communist camp in Asia.

Signs are faint

The signs were will-of-the-wisp. But some observers thought it significant that within a few hours after Red China's action Hanoi's chief peace negotiator in Paris, Xuan Thuy, announced his return to the talks, and the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris suddenly and inexplicably summoned a Waco, Tex., delegation to discuss the war prisoner situation.

One can only guess what is the thinking in Peking, but these possibilities must be considered:

—Red China finally feels that the Republic of China government based on Taiwan is down for the count of nine and on the verge of a knockout.

—The regime of Mao Tse-tung feels that now is the time to interrupt, if not counter attack, the growing relations between the Soviet Union and the United States.

—Following the convulsions of the cultural revolution, the Peking regime finally feels that Red China has developed two windows worth showing to the world.

Recognition Causes Gloom

There is no question but what Mainland China's diplomatic onslaught has pushed Taiwan into deeper isolation: Recognition by Canada, Italy, Belgium and a number of African countries has caused deep gloom in Taipei. The clamor in some question in the United States for admission of Communist China to the United Nations grows, but neither side is likely to accept a two-China policy.

But to many, the overriding reason behind Red China's recent moves is the stridency with Russia.

UPI's respected European diplomatic expert, K. C. Thaler, wrote this week:

"Peking's real intentions remain shrouded in mystery but informed analysts believe the Mao Tse-tung regime is putting out feelers to gauge the chances of some eventual understanding with the United States while putting the Soviet leadership on notice that Red China has a powerful political card to play against the mighty rocket-rattling Kremlin."

Peace chance at hand

By United Press International

U.N. Secretary General Thant warned Monday that the Middle East may be facing its last chance for peace "in the foreseeable future."

Thant's warning came in New York as Israeli Premier Golda Meir abruptly dispatched Deputy Premier Yigal Allon to Washington and summoned the U.S. ambassador to Jerusalem for urgent talks along with Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

The flurry of diplomatic activity followed announcement Saturday of the formation of the Federation of Arab Republics, linking Egypt, Syria and Libya in an anti-Israeli front.

The leaders of the three countries pledged there would be "no reconciliation and no negotiations with Israel." Sudan is expected to join the federation in the near future.

Thant referred to the federation in a message addressed to all powers concerned in the Middle East. He said:

"This development is another illustration of what I have been saying all along—that now is the last chance for peace in the Middle East. If this opportunity is not seized, I am very much afraid that all basis for peace in the foreseeable future may be lost."

Israel's ambassador to the United Nations, Yosef Tekoah, took issue with Thant however. He said "it never is and never will be too late for peace—efforts for peace, however, cannot proceed successfully if they are darkened by talk of last chances, deadlines and threats."

The urgency of Allon's mission to Washington was underscored by the fact that he left Tel Aviv aboard a non-Israeli airliner. All Israeli ministers have always flown El Al, the national airlines, since the 1967 war except in emergencies.

Israeli political sources said Allon would meet with "senior" U.S. officials and seek guarantees that Russian and Egyptian forces would not move into the vacated areas if Israeli troops are pulled back from the Suez Canal. Washington has been reported reluctant to make any such commitment, the sources said.
