Deep air blow may hit MIGs

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. spokesmen said tonight U.S. Navy jets "may have damaged" North Vietnamese MIGs on the ground in an air raid Thursday 150 miles southwest of Hanoi—one of the deepest air attacks since the bombing campaign against the North ended more than two years ago.

The disclosure came as the ground war in South Vietnam slowed and the U.S. command announced that the withdrawal of 100,000 Americans under the seventh phase of President Nixon's plan was starting eight days early, with 1,375 Marines ready to return to California. The U.S. command said two jets, escorting a photo-taking RA5 Vigilante reconnaissance aircraft were fired on by North Vietnamese surface to air (SAM) missiles and conventional antiaircraft weapons near the Quan Lang MIG airfield 185 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone and 150 miles from Hanoi. Spokesmen said the Navy jets returned the fire at the SAM sites with Shrike missiles which follow radar beams and "damaged or destroyed" two antiaircraft sites.

Spokesmen said later tonight that a study of photographs taken from the air indicated that "one or two camouflaged MIG aircraft near (the antiaircraft sites) may have been damaged on the ground."

In other air action B52 bombers and jet fighter-bombers struck the A Shau Valley and Chinook helicopters dropped homemade napalm bombs just north of the A Shau.

The much heralded drive into the A Shau Valley remained dormant aside from a few patrols.

UPI Correspondent Alan Dawson reported from the La Vang headquarters of Operation Lam Son 720, the A Shau Valley campaign, that more than one battalion of South Vietnamese troops is operating in the valley.

No contact has been reported yet in the drive.

Maj. Vo Van Tri, spokesman for the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division, said "We think soon we will have some contact. The North Vietnamese don't have enough forces to fight yet."

Gem aeronautics director resigns

BOISE (UPI)—Chet Moulton has resigned as state aeronautics director, effective June 30, Chairman Cliff Hinkley, Lewiston, announced after a special meeting of the State Aeronautics Board Thursday.

At the same time, Hinkley said the board postponed its April 27-28 meeting until May 3-4. At that time, he said, applications will be considered for Moulton's post.

Hinkley said city or airport sponsors who had appointments for the April 27-28 meeting can meet with the board at the May meeting.

In a prepared news release, given to reporters by the attorney general's office, Hinkley said Moulton's letter of resignation was read to the board by him.

"After discussion by the board members," the Hinkley statement said, "it was determined that Mr. Moulton's resignation would be accepted as of June 30, 1971, at which time Mr. Moulton will receive a lump-sum payment for his ac-rued vacation time, not to exceed 30 working days.

"Until the effective date of Mr. Moulton's termination, he will continue to serve at the discretion of the board," Hinkley said.

There was no advance notice of the special board meeting.

The action was disclosed Thursday afternoon when the attorney general's office notified the news media it had a press statement concerning the Moulton matter.

State balks on air

By LEE TREMAINE

BOISE — The Idaho Air Pollution Control Commission of the Idaho Department of Health will take no formal action against any polluters of the atmosphere, referring any protests to "local government" for legal action.

This decision was rendered in connection with the dispute over Cascade Commodities Corp. of Buhl, named as defendant in a nuisance lawsuit.

Alfred J. Elguren, administrative director of the Air Pollution Control Commission, in a letter to the Twin Falls County Commission and others concerned with the Cascade Commodities suit, said that the policy of the commission is three-fold:

The commission requires that the company "install the best technology commercially available for air-pollution control" and will maintain "contact" with the company "from time to time to insure that control equipment is being maintained and operated properly, that reasonable precautions are taken throughout the plant to minimize odors, and that the improved technology be used as it becomes available."

However, if the "operators" meet these requirements, and the "situation is still not totally satisfactory to nearby residents (this is a possibility in view of the nature of the operation), we will not press action for an injunction or relocation of the plant," Elguren said.

Any necessary remedies "are available through the basic legal concept of nuisance or interference with the reasonable use of private property."

Elguren said that the agency, "charged with carrying out the Idaho Air Pollution Control Act as it now stands," does not have the authority "to act as a state zoning agency." In addition, "funding and manpower sources" are lacking for state zoning control, Elguren said.

Elguren's statement said "We do believe that planning and zoning are absolutely essential for total control of all types of pollution. This is true because of the fact that certain operations by their very nature will be less than satisfactory to those living nearby, even if the very best available control technology is used."

These would include "feed lots, gravel-crushing operations and animal rendering plants," Elguren said.

The "planning and zoning function," however, has been left to the counties by the state legislature. "Under the present Air Pollution Control Act we believe we would be stretching our authority to become involved in such function," the commission's policy statement said.

Blasts off

Russ lofts space crew

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union today fired a three-man space ship into earth orbit for rendezvous with an unmanned Sputnik called Salute, apparently opening Phase No. 2 of its drive to build the first orbiting space station.

Moscow space sources said as many as three more manned ships could join them within the next few days. That would put more ships and more men together in space than has ever been attempted before.

The official Tass news agency said the manned ship, Soyuz 10, blasted off from Baikonur Space Center in Central Asia shortly before dawn and headed toward rendezvous with Salute for "joint experiments in near earth orbit." Salute was launched Monday. Soyuz 10 was manned by the most experienced space crew ever assembled—this was the third trip for two of its men—and the sources described it as part of a complex project to link the ships into the first manned orbiting station. The United States plans no such venture before 1973.

The sources said as many as three more manned ships could be involved within the next few days in an attempt to link up into a cartwheel-shaped orbiting laboratory. In the future, such stations will also serve as space launching pads, the Soviets have said.

In Bochum, West Germany, Director Heinz Kaminaki of the Bochum Space Research Institute said he expected one or two more ships to be orbited shortly.

"During a scheduled radio communications session from orbit, space ship commander Vladimir Shatalov informed earth that the crew had adapted well to the conditions of weightlessness and started to carry out the flight program," Tass said.

Ada jail outbreak quelled

BOISE (UPI)—It took about a dozen deputies armed with batons to quell a disturbance at the Ada County Jail Thursday night when eight inmates barricaded themselves in a third floor dining room.

The ruckus started when somebody threw pepper into the face of Deputy Mike Davidson as he was bringing one of the prisoners out of the dining room to have his hair cut.

Deputy Al Kullig locked the door to the room and assisted Davidson, who subsequently was treated at St. Alphonsus Hospital and released.

The prisoners then barricaded themselves in the dining room, turned on a water faucet and flooded the floor.

They and other prisoners elsewhere in the jail began yelling and banging on walls.

About midnight, Chief Deputy Robert King led a force of deputies into the dining room and removed the prisoners without further resistance.

Interest rate hike ires U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration is serving notice on the nation's big banks that it will not watch silently if there is a new round of interest rate increases.

In some of the toughest language the administration has aimed at business, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Thursday denounced the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York for increasing its prime interest rate.

"I was very disappointed at this increase in the prime rate of Chase Manhattan Bank," the Connally said in a formal statement.

Veterans march

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Anti-war veterans littered the steps of the U.S. Capitol with their combat medals today in an angry but peaceful climax to five days of protesting the war in Vietnam.

One by one, veterans walked to a wire barricade erected Thursday at the foot of the steps on the west side of the Capitol, announced their name and with antiwar shouts tossed them as far as possible up the steps leading to the Capitol.

Many shouted obscenities as they threw the shiny medals and ribbons, which covered the steps.

As each man flung his medals—some of them held handfuls—a crowd of some 800 onlookers roared approval with cheers and shouts such as "Right on!"

At the last minute, the planners of the demonstration changed tactics and decided to scatter the medals over steps beyond the fence that had been erected by Capitol authorities as a security measure in advance of a big peace rally Saturday.

The veterans had originally planned to place the medals in a "body bag" similar to the ones used to remove war dead from Vietnam battle areas.

In contrast to a subdued candlelight procession past the White House Thursday night, the demonstrators appeared tense and angry as they symbolically turned in their awards to Congress.

The disabled went by first. Some were on crutches, without legs; others walked with empty sleeves.

A demonstrator typically would march to a microphone set up on the steps, call out his name and say, "I am returning these medals because the war is bull s—."

Many of the demonstrators stood with fists raised over their head in a protest gesture as they waited in the long, single file line for their turn. The ceremony began with one man reading a group statement.

"We are the veterans who rose to the challenge of the nation, donned their uniforms," he said. "We are returning to Washington to tell our story—a story of Vietnamese people whose nation was torn by an Army not concerned with human lives but with body counts."

He added, "We now strip ourselves of these medals. We cast them away as symbols of shame and dishonor."

Hailey youth push clean community

By WARREN GOSSETT
Times-News Writer

HAILEY — Here, where nature has been kinder than in other areas, man's thoughtlessness becomes more evident.

A scenic highway winding between towering peaks and along a flowing stream is often spoiled by debris cast from passing cars. The streams are frequently paved with broken bottles and shimmering cans.

Such trespasses against natural beauty have long concerned Wood River High School students. Thursday they took action.

More than 100 youths, ignoring cold rain, carried garbage sacks along Highway 83 gathering litter. They performed the same chores along some secondary roads.

Some took paint brushes to school garbage cans.

Other groups scoured the town, cleaning windows and gutters. Still others presented skits about the environment to junior high school pupils. And some conducted a survey about environmental concerns among Hailey residents.

In several classes, poetry was written about environmental improvement.

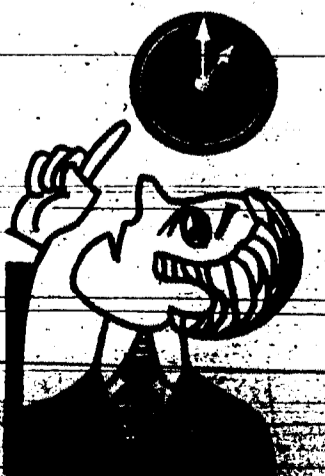

Sparkplug of the Earth Day activity was the biology class of Ray Grovesnor. He has long been an advocate of ecological concern. Several other teachers released classes to join the project. They included Bob Shey, Judy Oberg, See Calligan, Ann Fredrick, Jerome Smalley, Alan Hidy and Len Merriman.

Counties study new wine bill

TWIN FALLS — Commissioners from all Magic Valley counties and retail grocery outlet representatives are being urged to attend a meeting Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Twin Falls County Judicial Building to discuss the legalization of table wine sales in grocery stores.

County Commissioner Meri Leonard, Filer, said today he has arranged the meeting and is urging any interested grocer in the area attend along with county commissioners from all Magic Valley counties. He said it is hoped the county officials will be able to agree on a uniform plan either to approve table wine sales in grocery stores or disallow sales.

William Roden, Boise attorney, one of the initial backers of the new Idaho law which makes it possible to legalize table wine sales in grocery stores on a county-by-county basis, will attend the meeting and answer questions concerning the new law, Leonard said.

School trustee races attract 4 candidates

TWIN FALLS — The May 11 trustee election in the Twin Falls School District has four candidates for the two seats who have filed nominating petitions, and district officials said more may file by the deadline at 5 p.m. today.

Trustees in Zones 3 and 4, Dr. H.W. Ronk and Edward R. (Ted) Smith, are seeking re-election to three-year terms. In addition, Dr. Ronk will be opposed by Mrs. Marilyn M. Wright, 682 Cindy Dr. and Smith will be opposed in his district by Michael Bruce Spratt, 228 Harrison St., a salesman.

Zone 4, Dr. Ronk's trustee zone, includes the area three miles east of Blue Lakes Boulevard, north to the Snake River and south to Rock Creek. Zone 3, Smith's zone, covers the area west of Blue Lakes Boulevard, north of Addison Avenue and south of the Snake River. The western boundary of Zone 3 is about 4 1/2 miles west of Blue Lakes Boulevard.

Though new trustee zones are in the offing, they cannot be formalized in time for this year's election, according to school district clerk J.T. Anderson.

The school district must draw the new zones, submit them to the Idaho Board of Education for approval, then advertise a trustee zone election at least 30 days beforehand, then conduct the election. This will be done later in the year, and if the new zones are adopted, all trustees will have to run for re-election next spring.

Mrs. Wright's petition was signed by L. James Koutnik, Arnette Abernathy, Mrs. Marjorie E. Chupa, Rev. John M. Wallace, Ella M. Nelson, Roma Ricks, John O. Ricks, Sharon H. Rice, Mrs. Charles Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. David Mead, Richard S. High, Lloyd J. Webb, E. Faulkner, Mrs. R.C. Turner, Golden R. Bennett and Roger W. Abernathy.

Dr. Ronk's petition was signed by Esther Tucker, Jeanne Cover, Richard S. King, John Graybill, Mrs. Richard S. King, and R.A. Van Engelen.

Spratt's nominating petition was signed by Warren G. Bowen, Loren G. Benner, Cheryl L. Benner, Nancy Spratt, Barbara N. Allen, Mrs. R.S. Gregory, Roselle Likey and Monte B. Carlson.

Incumbent Ted Smith, who filed his nominating petition late Thursday, listed five signers, including John Honstain, Gordon Gray, Carl Weaver, Henry Woodall and Lucille Woodall.

Top man for year

Gem tax increase endorsed

MOSCOW (UPI) — A special assistant to Gov. Cecil Andrus says the future looks bleak for the budget of the state of Idaho unless there is a tax increase within the next year.

Dr. H. Sidney Duncombe, speaking Wednesday to a meeting of the University of Idaho Faculty Forum, said without the tax increase the universities are going to face the prospect of a budget cut by the legislature, probably within the next fiscal year.

He said this year the Idaho Department of Health suffered a budget cut because the state's revenues and expenditures are drifting far apart.

Duncombe, not optimistic about the prospects of a tax increase because of the elections this year, said he still feels that the best way to increase revenue will be to increase the income and sales taxes.

He said when the state's revenues and expenditures were compared during the budget meetings of the Joint Appropriations Committee, there was a deficit of $20 million and by cutting all budgets concerned with salary increments, new programs and the universities, the legislature was able to come up with a balanced package.

Lindsay read out

WASHINGTON (UPI)—New York Conservative Sen. James L. Buckley says New York Mayor John V. Lindsay is longer in tune with the GOP and "the natural place for him to go is in the Democratic direction."

Buckley told a news conference Thursday Lindsay has "no chance" of winning the Republican presidential nomination.

New wilderness crafts courses slated at CSI

TWIN FALLS — A "first-ever" series of courses, believed unique in college instruction throughout the nation, will give students a chance at living the outdoorsman's life first-hand while earning college credit.

The series, termed "The Wilderness Calls," offers eight weeks of intensive, hard-work classes, offering two college credits each week, and ranging from camping to mountain climbing and survival training.

Each week-long, two-credit course will involve at least 40 hours or more of training — ample "classroom time" to allow the collegiate credit, according to Marvin Glasscock, director of adult education at the College of Southern Idaho, sponsor of the course.

The wilderness series was developed by William Scruggs, a CSI math instructor and outdoorsman, and Ben Johnson, an instructor at Idaho State University, Pocatello. A similar series of classes will be offered later at ISU.

The classes, limited to 24 members each, are open to anyone 17 years of age or older. Registrants need not have high school diplomas, and do not have to be CSI students, Glasscock said.

Charges will be assessed depending on the number of courses taken; one course will cost $25.87 plus insurance; two courses, $43.34; three classes, $57.18; four classes, $67.18, and each additional class will cost an additional $10. Students must have either CSI student insurance or buy separate insurance at $14.40 per student.

Participants must furnish their own food, sleeping bags, boots, camping gear and transportation, while the college will provide canoes, paddles, rubber rafts and all climbing equipment for the mountaineering classes.

Each week-long class will meet for the first time at 9 a.m. on the Monday of that week in Room 115 of Shields Academic Building at CSI.

The first week, June 7-11, will cover basic camping techniques, including selection of equipment, campsite, shelters, fires and cooking methods. Each student will spend two to three nights sleeping out.

The second class, June 14-18, will cover advanced camping techniques, including backpacking into wild country, compass reading, foods in the wilderness and other skills. Three nights will be spent in the open. Students must have the first course as a prerequisite, or have permission of the instructor.

The third week, June 21-25, will turn to canoeing skills, progressing from calm to "white" water. No prerequisite is required; students can take a CSI math instructor and outdoorsman, and Ben Johnson, an instructor at Idaho State University, Pocatello. A similar series of classes will be offered later at ISU.

The third week, June 21-25, will turn to canoeing skills, progressing from calm to "white" water. No prerequisite is required; students can take several of these week-long courses independently of other classes. At least one night will be spent in the open.

The fourth class, however, is not for timid souls. Entitled River Running, it covers a week on the Bruneau River, with instruction given in handling river boats and rubber rafts on fast, rough water. Almost the entire week, five days and four nights, will be spent on the river.

The fifth week, July 5-9, heads for the hills, with a class in beginning and intermediate rock climbing, with most of the instruction at the City of Rocks. All climbing equipment other than boots will be furnished by the college.

Mountaineering is the subject for the sixth class, July 12-16, with students moving into high mountain areas for cliff climbing, spending four nights camping out. The course will add to the previous climbing and camping courses.

The seventh class, July 19-23, covers survival techniques, giving the students a week in "rugged and demanding" activities, the instructors warn. At least two nights will be spent "surviving" in the wilds.

Students who have survived the previous courses, and who believe themselves true outdoorsmen able to stand any test are invited to complete the final tough week, July 26-30, in a "survival expedition" that tests them to the utmost.

The course will combine all skills previously taught into a five-day, four-night traverse of a series of high mountain peaks. Students enrolling for this week-long ordeal must be in top physical condition.

The students will be given a starting point and an ending point with several objectives between. It will be up to them to negotiate the course as best they can — surviving in the meantime.

Economy costly for HUD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. William Scherle, R-Iowa, said today the Department of Housing and Urban Development spent more than $3,000 to save $1.

Scherle said the Williamsport, Pa., redevelopment agency was seeking federal funds for a project that would cost $1,127,222. HUD auditors discovered the cost exceeded the limits by $1.

The project manager, Scherle said, offered to put up the buck himself. But the auditors insisted on drawing up a whole new contract.

This, they did, Scherle said, taking more than three months at a cost of $3,000 to $4,000 to write the contract over the $1 error.

HUD officials reportedly said this would never happen again, Scherle said.

Firemen protest orders

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich. (UPI) — Firemen, supported by their picketing wives, today met with the police and fire commission to protest Mayor Phil Rahol's order to stop them from girl watching in front of the fire hall.

Rahol last week charged that the firemen have been "harassing" women as they walked by. He ordered them to stop sitting in front of the station and to move their chairs inside.

A dozen wives showed their support for their firemen-husbands by picketing the City Hall, where the firefighters were meeting with city commission and state labor mediator Walter Quillico.

The firemen are members of Local 55 of the International Brotherhood of Firefighters, AFL-CIO. They challenged Rahol's authority to issue such a rule, saying only the three-man police and fire commission, of which Rahol is a member, has that power.

Rahol, a state legislator for 16 years before becoming mayor, is running for reelection.

Dump change studied

TWIN FALLS — Relocation of the Clover area dumpground was discussed Thursday by Twin Falls County Commissioners and Robert Brock of the Bureau of Land Management during an inspection of the west portion of the county.

Brock told the commissioners he will consult a map of the area and attempt to find an area where the rock would permit trenching down to three feet in depth for landfill operation. Several areas were discussed but rock depth could not be determined.

Commissioner Merl Leonard said the county is attempting to relocate the Clover dumpground, one of the major dumps the county maintains, because of its close proximity to homes and farms in the area. He said it creates unpleasant odors and frequently a trash problem and should be located further from farm homes.

County officials hope to obtain another 40 acres, he said, and to be able to trench and cover it as trash piles up.

Brock said special permission will be given by the BLM to the county to burn off weeds and brush and some trash in the dump to improve the situation. This is one of the oldest dumpgrounds in the county, Leonard said, and has reached saturation status.

Hospital radio set bought

TWIN FALLS — Contract for furnishing and installing an emergency radio communication system at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital was awarded Motorola Radio, Boise, county commissioners said today.

The bid was one of two received last week and taken under consideration by county officials.

Chairman William L. (Bill) Chancey of the Twin Falls County commission said the Hospital Emergency Administration Radio equipment will be installed as soon as it is delivered, with a 120-day delivery time provided in the contract.

Amount of the bid was $7,271, Chancey said. The system will be operated for civil defense use and for any other emergency need providing communication between the county courthouse, hospital and ambulances, he said.

Cuts erase 4 teachers

LEWISTON (UPI) — Dr. Jerold O. Dugger, president of Lewis Clark Normal School, says he won't be able to hire four expected teachers this year and other cuts will have to be made because of allocations given by the State Board of Education earlier this month.

Dugger said Wednesday he does not expect to fill four new teacher positions needed to handle new enrollment and the school will be unable to add $25,000-$30,000 in new books to its library.

He said the cuts were necessary because the school was allocated only $1,403,307 by the state board instead of the $1,433,776 it had requested.

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls banker, Ivan B. Skinner, has been named to the board of directors of the Pacific Empire Life Insurance Company, Raymond L. Bolland, Boise, president of the firm announced today.

Oil label rules set by FDA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has tentatively approved labeling rules designed to encourage the use of polyunsaturated vegetable oils in food products, it was learned today.

FDA sources said the plan has been cleared by FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards and is now before his boss, Elliot L. Richardson, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

If approved by Richardson, the proposals would be published in the Federal Register. Following a period for comments by industry and consumer groups, the FDA would make a final ruling.

The move, a reversal of past FDA policy, responds to as yet unproved claims of many medical experts that saturated fats, mostly from animals, help raise the blood cholesterol level while polyunsaturated fats do not.

These medical authorities contend that high cholesterol levels in blood contribute to heart and circulatory ailments. With heart ailments killing about 600,000 Americans annually, many doctors have recommended diets substituting polyunsaturated for saturated fats.

the white belt of karate, indicating the lower degrees of skill, will compete against each other, while the graded karate students wearing the various colored belts will vie against each other.

The essence of karate is completely controlled motion through a series of formalized fighting movements, much as if the fighter were battling a crowd of opponents, Tidd said. Two combatants oppose each other in two-minute "fights," striking blows that would cause physical damage if they landed on the opponent — but they must not land. Judges and referees award points based on the skill of each opponent, and whether each touches the other. If a combatant is touched by his opponent, he loses points, and if a fighter causes pain to his opponent, the opponent gains points.

"Thus, a karate combatant must have the control to launch a severe blow or striking motion toward his opponent, yet be able to stop short of hitting him," Tidd explained.

The tournament will start at 10 a.m. in the Vera C. O'Leary gymnasium.

Chapter studies events

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Magic Valley Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons discussed upcoming meetings and events during the April meeting in the Bishop Rhea Auditorium.

Bertha Maxwell, vice president, said a meeting is planned for Wednesday in the Bishop Rhea Auditorium for anyone interested to formulate ideas and suggestions for the White House Conference on Aging.

It was announced that the Pocatello chapter was having a buffet dinner on May 13 and a bus will be available if enough plan to attend from Magic Valley.

Donors closest to need

TWIN FALLS — Volunteers who keep the Twin Falls American Red Cross blood program one of the most successful in the state are frequently those who are closest to the need, says Robert King, co-chairman of the coming drive.

The next regular blood mobile visit will be May 3 at 2 p.m. at the American Legion Hall, with donors accepted through 7 p.m. King said the drive is again seeking 150 pints of blood and in addition to the "regular customers" who have been donating over the years, he hopes to see some new faces.

Typical of the donors who have been supporting the program over the past decade are Frank Mogensen, state police officer, and Margaret Ralph, a nurse at the Twin Falls Clinic hospital.

Miss Ralph sees many of the patients who need the donated blood to survive surgery, illness or injury. She has been donating regularly for several years.

Mogensen has also seen many persons injured in accidents recover because their type of blood was available at a hospital when they needed it. He is now starting on his 11th gallon of blood donated since the beginning of the program in this area.

Larry Henman, chairman of the blood program, said the support of Twin Falls residents has been outstanding and the students at the College of Southern Idaho are doing their share to meet the quotas.

He asked everyone to take a few minutes to help save someone's life by calling at the American Legion Hall Monday, May 3.

Classes in child care set

TWIN FALLS — A Red Cross mother-and-baby-care course is being planned next month at the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital's second floor conference room, Mrs. Irene Basom, Twin Falls, Red Cross executive secretary, said.

Mrs. Basom said the course is for all expectant parents, including husbands. It will begin at 7:15 p.m. May 3 and continue for six weeks.

She said the first session will be mostly for registration, but persons must attend the first or second session and register to be eligible for the course.

The instructors will be Gigi Erdos, Phyllis Wagner and Delores Sims, all registered nurses. Some of the subjects to be discussed will be marriage, reproduction, maternal needs and changes, fetal growth and development, hospital admission, hospital maternity unit, labor and delivery, post-partum care, infant care and baby's first year.

Mrs. Basom said films, pamphlets and discussions will be used throughout the course.

About Schools

The National Association of Manufacturers, often decried by leftists as a stronghold of the conservative establishment...

For one example, big business is helping educate some 400 Chicago high school students...

It is an experimental departure from the old methods and is working well. Students help design their own courses...

John Naisbett, president of the Urban Research Corporation of Chicago, detailing its operations before a San Francisco meeting...

"If this concept could be adopted, I don't believe we would have to build another high school in the United States."

Naisbett's evaluation may be a bit optimistic but the idea of the integration of learning and business deserves the most serious study and consideration.

The plan meets many of the criticisms being leveled at the educational system. It allows the students themselves a voice in determining what they want to learn.

Good education derives from inspiring teachers rather than marble halls.

Such a system, or an elaboration of it, using the best of both the old and the new, might make "generation gap" and perhaps even "dropout" obsolete terms.

Immediate effect of the Metroplan could obviate construction of vocational schools. This alone would justify its widespread adoption.

WASHINGTON — In the furor over Sen. Ed Muskie's charges that the FBI did political spying at the Earth Day rallies across the country last year...

Mitchell's formal reply to Muskie's attack was confined only to the Washington rally. He noted almost off-handedly that the FBI does have "a most legitimate interest in the activities of persons whose known records reveal a likelihood of violence, incitement to riot or other criminal behavior."

Actually, as government records show, the FBI had advance information from informers that "more than 50" individuals awaiting trial on assorted riot-connected charges hoped to use the rallies to foment violence. Because of FBI surveillance, there were only minor incidents of disorder. Washington itself was relatively calm despite a speech at the rally here by Rennie Davis, convicted of inciting to riot as a member of the "Chicago Seven," in which he urged the audience to tear down the capitalist structure.

Muskie's understandable concern to the contrary notwithstanding, it seems to me the FBI merely was doing its perhaps distasteful but absolutely mandatory job in keeping track of potential troublemakers. Indeed, its surveillance came under the heading of that "preventive procedure" so often prescribed by the FBI's critics.

Moreover, the FBI would have gotten hell from these critics had there been serious outbreaks of violence. It requires no prodigious memory to recall that after the April, 1968 Martin Luther King riots, there were bitter outcries from various quarters asking, "Where was the FBI?"

Hoover's opponents now ask why the FBI should have been interested in peaceful rallies designed to focus public attention on dangers to the environment. The answer is that a lot of vicious revolutionary nuts use such respectable occurrences as a screen behind which they attempt to incite riots. No "peaceful" demonstration in Washington has passed without leaving behind its quota of broken windows and acts of looting.

It is all very well to say that 99 per cent of the demonstrators are decent, peaceful people. The FBI's job is to deal with the 1 per cent bent on trouble making. In doing so, the agency fulfills its statutory obligation to function as the intelligence arm of the nation's law-enforcement forces. Put simply, if the cops know who the potential rabble rousers are, they already have won half the battle to keep the peace.

These facts of life are well known to Ed Muskie, Sen. George McGovern, other candidates for President and assorted lesser politicians who have expressed varying degrees of sympathy for those subjected to FBI surveillance. Muskie, McGovern and most of the others, are decent, thoughtful, well-intentioned men, but they must know that their support can be construed by the calculated lunatics as quasi-official approval of an anything-goes policy.

Predictably, Rennie Davis is one of those who has been encouraged by the anti-FBI campaign. He told a University of New Hampshire audience last week that demonstrators in the march on Washington starting this Saturday "will occupy the halls of Congress... if the government doesn't stop the war, we will stop the government." I trust Hoover and his men have not been deterred by all the hullabaloo from keeping an eye-on that young man.

I also trust something will come of proposals by Muskie and Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., that Congress conduct a sweeping investigation of the FBI. If Presidential policies regularly can be inquired into on Capitol Hill, it is absurd to suggest that J. Edgar Hoover's tight little principality be labeled sacred. At the risk of committing lese majeste, I dissent from the doctrine that Hoover holds office by divine right.

ART BUCHWALD

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Birthmarks

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My first child, now three months old, was born with extensive "port wine stains" on her arms, legs, chest and back, and a mark on her forehead.

What can be done about them? What caused them? Can they be avoided in a future pregnancy? — Mrs. M. R.

Such birthmarks are hemangiomas, resulting from a defect in the pattern of capillaries (very tiny blood vessels) near the surface of the skin.

They may increase in size until the child is about a year old; then they usually fade and decrease in size. Usually they are gone by the age of 5 to 10 years. You can gauge the changes in the marks by using a ruler and keeping a record of the actual size.

Since, as I said, they have a tendency to fade in the early years, it is sensible to wait a little while and see whether, indeed, the marks do start to fade away.

If not, or if in the judgment of your doctor it would be wise to remove any of the marks early, that can be done by various methods.

Injections, a dry-ice treatment, and X ray all have been used, but surgical removal of the marks, by a plastic surgeon, dermatologist, or pediatrician skilled in this type of work usually brings the best results with the least risk of scarring.

These birthmarks are a cosmetic rather than a health problem. They are just a quirk in development, and there is nothing you can do to prevent them. However, there is no reason to think that if you have more children they necessarily will have this trouble.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is really meant by "silent gallstones"? I can't find anything in books about it — Mrs. W. G.

You'll find the answer in my booklet, "You and Your Gall Bladder." (Available in return for 25 cents and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send requests to Dr. Thosteson, care of this newspaper.)

"Silent" stones are stones that are present in the gall bladder but aren't causing any pain or other symptoms. The trouble is, there's no way to guarantee that they will remain "silent."

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I know many people would be interested in knowing this. When you lose quite a bit of weight, exactly where do all those lost pounds go? — M. W.

The same place pounds go if you work very hard and lose weight — away.

If you eat more than you need for energy, warmth, and supplying other needs of your body, the excess amount is converted into fat which the body stores for future needs.

Now suppose you go on a diet and eat less than you need. Your body will take a little of that stored fat, convert it into energy, and you'll use it up.

This is aside from the fact that it is possible to lose weight (but only temporarily) by losing moisture from the body — a "drying out" process. If your system really has too much water in it, treatment can advantageously remove some of it.

MR. SPECTATOR

They Have Wings

Cheryl Armga, a Twin Falls gal who looked up into the wild blue yonder and decided that was the place to go, received her wings today at Phoenix.

They were not the kind with feathers, of course, but were metal ones which snap on the uniform worn by the girls who are the stewardesses of Hughes Air West.

Miss Armga, who is on the left in the picture at the head of this column, had a rather unique roommate during the training period at the Air West school on the big International Airport in the Arizona City. She was Judee Schuster, on the right in the photo. She just happens to be the first married gal graduated from the Air West school for stewardesses. Her husband, a former army man, was stationed in Germany where she also resided. After his discharge they returned to Phoenix and she applied for the school, was accepted, and has thus broken the "barrier" of married women serving as a member of Air West crews. Her first "duty" station will have Phoenix as the home base.

On the other hand, Miss Armga will start her air career in Las Vegas after spending a few days in Both gals are thrilled, to say the least, and there was much giggling among all the young women in the class while Mr. Spectator lined up everything for the picture and talked with them in Phoenix a few days ago.

Biggest thrill for Miss Armga during the weeks of training was a special flight in an F-27 during which the pilot puts the plane through various maneuvers far and away above those to be experienced during actual flight with paying passengers. Cheryl told Mr. Spectator that Air West officials call these flights "mini-flights" but that the gals call them the "fright flights."

Being accepted as a stewardess is no easy task. Miss Armga was interviewed at the line's general offices at San Francisco on two instances, and underwent thorough testing before being accepted.

But now she has her wings and Hughes Air West has a new crew member.

Which all goes to prove that acquiring wings is one way to get up in this old world.

On Gin Rummy

WASHINGTON — "Good evening, comrades. This is Wo Pang of the Mao Tse-tung Broadcasting System in Peking. Seated with me in our studio tonight are the members of the People's Republic of China Gin Rummy team. Last week, in an unprecedented diplomatic move, the Americans invited our team to visit the United States to compete in the Gin Rummy Mixed Doubles Classic at Pebble Beach, Calif. This is the first time that citizens of the People's Republic of China were permitted behind the Nylon Curtain and we would like to ask them their impressions of what they saw in this most mysterious of all Western countries.

"Let us begin with Tai Bun, the captain of the gin rummy team. Comrade Bun, what impressed you the most about your visit to the United States?"

"The friendliness of the American people. Everywhere we went, people said, 'We may not agree with what your government stands for, but we really like Chinese food.'"

"Comrade Lo Song. Did you find the American people well-clothed?"

"The older people seemed to have enough clothes, but the young people were very poor. All the young people we saw had torn pants, dirty sweat shirts and none of them had any shoes. Our translator said that the young people in America preferred to dress this way, but we knew this was capitalistic propaganda. Why would people who could afford it walk around in their bare feet?"

"Comrade Bu Wong. Did the Americans let you see everything you asked to see?"

"No they didn't. They were very careful to let us see only the things they wanted us to see. For example, they wouldn't let us see Los Angeles."

"What reason did they give?"

"He told us that the American press and television networks were full of lies and they slanted the news and took things out of context so the American people never knew the truth. It was exactly what Mao Tse-tung had told us and we were happy to hear it confirmed from the lips of a high American government official. At the end of our interview, Agnew gave us a souvenir golf ball which he said he had personally played with. The ball had a slight dab of blood on it, but our translator refused to tell us why."

"Comrade Dan Gum. What were your impressions of the visit?"

"The thing that impressed me the most was the cult of Nixon we saw everywhere. It is like our cult of Mao Tse-tung with one major difference. In the People's Republic of China, we give credit to our beloved chairman Mao for everything GOOD that happens here. In the United States, they blame Mr. Nixon for everything BAD that happens there."

"Comrade Ro Po'll, what was the highlight of the trip as far as you're concerned?"

"I think the highlight of the trip was our private visit with Vice President Spiro Agnew. He was very friendly and he told us many things about the United States that no one else would talk about."

"Such as?"

"He told us that the American press and television networks were full of lies and they slanted the news and took things out of context so the American people never knew the truth. It was exactly what Mao Tse-tung had told us and we were happy to hear it confirmed from the lips of a high American government official. At the end of our interview, Agnew gave us a souvenir golf ball which he said he had personally played with. The ball had a slight dab of blood on it, but our translator refused to tell us why."

There was extraordinarily heavy deficit financing considering the size of the conflict. Analysts believe the resultant economic dislocations will continue for years.

The procurement of some major weapons was postponed and the development of some important new weapon concepts stretched out. There was a marked cutback in research and development.

While the United States was spending up to $22 billion a year in Vietnam at the peak, Moscow, annual contributions to Hanoi never rose above a billion to a billion and a half dollars.

It was this difference in Vietnam spending which defense analysts believe has in large measure enabled the Soviet Union to expand its missile, naval and land armament at a pace considerably faster than ours.

(The specialists do not contend the Soviet Union is ahead of the United States in military strength—only that present trends could put Moscow ahead a few years hence.)

Soviet defense spending is roughly equal to ours. This has meant that for virtually every dollar the United States spent in Vietnam, the Soviet Union had a dollar to spend on military development, improvement and expansion over and above what the United States had to spend in this field.

(The Vietnam war is not the only source of Moscow's ability to push a faster build-up than ours with the same over-all budget. U.S. military personnel costs now account for half the American defense budget. By contrast, man-power takes but a fourth of Soviet military spending.)

RAY CROMLEY

We'll Pay

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Preliminary White House and Pentagon studies indicate this country will be asked to pay heavily in the years ahead as a result of the heavy costs of the Vietnam war and the way that conflict has been financed.

These are partisan studies, of course, in part aimed at justifying the defense budget. But for all that, they should not be passed over lightly. The data can be checked.

In part, the problem dates back to the business-as-usual way in which the Vietnam war has been financed.

In most wars, the government has raised taxes significantly and has used the added income to pay for an important fraction of the war costs. Vietnam has been handled in a different way.

There was extraordinarily heavy deficit financing considering the size of the conflict. Analysts believe the resultant economic dislocations will continue for years.

Pullout linked to cease fire

PARIS (UPI)—Hanoi and the Viet Cong said Thursday that announcement of a firm date for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam was the key to an immediate cease fire and talks on release of U.S. prisoners. They hailed the antiwar demonstrations in Washington and claimed they were backed by most Americans. Communist negotiators pressed for a flat troop pullout date in a session of the Paris talks that indicated Hanoi and the Viet Cong had their sights set on the U.S. antiwar rallies in hopes they would influence the course of American policies.

Nguyen Thi Binh issued appeals of support for the war protesters, called them "courageous Americans" and expressed the hope President Nixon would "listen to the voice of the American people." Hammering away at their favorite theme, the North Vietnamese delegation chiefs made clear in conference speeches that a deadline for a complete U.S. troop withdrawal remained their top priority political objective. According to press releases of the conference speeches, both Communist delegates put emphasis on the need for President Nixon to offer a deadline for the evacuation as the No. 1 condition.

Spawning ground funds requested

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. James A. McClure, R - Idaho, asked the House Appropriations Committee Wednesday for funds to save the salmon spawning grounds in the headwaters of the Salmon River. Specifically, McClure requested $2 million in fiscal 1972 to enable the Forest Service to begin the watershed rehabilitation project on the river's south fork. McClure said the south fork has accounted for 20 per cent of the total salmon spawning redds counted in Idaho. "The majority of the summer chinook salmon which migrate into Idaho have been spawning drainages in Idaho and America," he said. Despite its potential, McClure said, there has been little timber production in the south fork drainage since the rainstorms of 1964-65 "which took everyone by surprise." He said that the management practices serving the area in the past were helpless to prevent the resulting damage. "If the rehabilitation program is funded, it will serve to restore and maintain this resource of national significance," McClure said. He added that the project will move in three directions: —Land treatment, consisting of the installation of gully plugs and reseeded. —Closure and or restoration of the roads in the drainage areas. —Removal of the sediment destroying the spawning beds, through the use of baxins which trap the sediment moving down the river.

Career plan set

BOISE (UPI) — The City Council has approved a career plan which would give Boise an all-college graduate police force within the next 10 years. The Police Department is applying for federal and state funds to help implement the program during the first three years. After three years the city will assume the total cost. Goals of the program are to be achieved in three phases. After it goes into effect all applicants for the police force must have completed two years of college in a police-related field. By 1977 all applicants will be required to have successfully finished three years of college in a police-related field and by 1981 all must have a bachelors degree. An incentive program will be utilized whereby each officer enrolled for a year of 32 credit hours of higher education will receive payment of $25 per month.

Panel OK's price freeze law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation extending President Nixon's power to freeze prices, wages and salaries was approved Thursday by the Senate Financial Institutions subcommittee. The bill, comparable to one that passed the House 381-19 on March 10, was sent to the Banking Committee, which is expected to approve it Tuesday and send it to the Senate floor. Last year the administration said it did not want such a bill and would not use it even if Congress passed it. This year, however, the administration said it would "accede" to passage of the bill, but said it would come back to Congress before imposing it.

The bill extends until Oct. 1, 1971, the President's authority to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at levels not less than those prevailing last May 25. The measure permits Nixon to apply price and wage controls to a single industry but only if he first finds that the rate of increase in that industry is "grossly disproportionate" to the average rate.

Biologists worry over chinook run

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Concern over the present conditions of the spring chinook run on the Columbia River was voiced Thursday by biological staffs of the Oregon Fish Commission and the Washington Department of fisheries. The commission said in a statement that both state agencies were apprehensive about permitting a spring commercial season until more information is available.

The two agencies meet here this afternoon to discuss the spring run. The commission cited these points: —Numbers of spring chinook passing over Bonneville Dam comparatively low. —Passage of adult salmon over other dams is poor. —Test fishing in lower river indicate an upriver spring chinook run of slightly below average size.

Young Desi nears stardom

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The birth of Desi Arnaz Jr. in 1953 was a national event as millions of television viewers awaited his arrival on the old "I Love Lucy Show."

Now 18, handsome, talented, confident and soaring on the crest of a career, young Desi may surpass the furor of his birth by becoming a superstar in his own right.

Heredity obviously is stamped on the young man.

A regular on his mother's show for the past three years, Desi has costarred in his first movie, "Red Sky at Morning," and come away with laurels aplenty.

Three proposed movies have been offered Desi on the strength of his performance as a Mexican-American teen-ager in the Hal Wallis film.

Above and beyond the youth's acting ability is his character and personality off-screen. It is startling when compared with his peers.

Desi may be hip, but he doesn't swear, drink or even indulge himself in the patois of his companions. So far as is known he has never been heard to utter "like, yeah, man," or "I gotta make more bread for this chick I dig," "heavy, baby" and the rest.

That's not to say Desi isn't successful with the ladies.

But he still lives at home with his mother and sees his father frequently.

"I saw the picture first with my father at a projection room here at Universal," Desi said. "We both were somewhat emotional."

Desi Sr. wept, shouted and laughed throughout the screening. He could not have been more proud of his son.

"Dad flipped out," Desi Jr. said, pleased.

Lucille Ball held a screening at home for friends. Less mercurial than her ex-husband, Lucy just studied her son's face intently and—unable to articulate her feelings—hugged him for almost 15 minutes, tears streaming down her face.

For a couple of working parents who were divorced when Desi Jr. was at an impressionable and sensitive age, Lucy and Desi Sr. have raised a remarkably uncommon young man.

Shoddy pools hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The swimming pool industry warned Thursday that thousands of Americans are being bilked by unscrupulous salesmen selling shoddy pools at inflated prices.

The National Swimming Pool Institute, an association of 1,500 manufacturers, distributors and retailers, predicted that the shady firms would pocket $15 million this year through deceptive "come on" ads coupled with "bait and switch" sales tactics.

Newspaper ads promoting above ground pools at "bargain" prices—typically $549 or $589—are "come ons" which prompt phone inquiries from the unwary, the institute said.

Salesmen then use a variety of tactics to switch the customer to a luxury pool, typically represented as a $4,000 model offered for $3,000 or less.

"The quality of the pools they sell, even for $3,000 is abominable," Ed Finkelstein, a swimming pool institute lawyer who formerly worked on consumer problems for the Pennsylvania attorney general, told a news conference.

Merle Dowd, the institute's director of communications, said reputable dealers sell good quality above ground pools for $300 to $1,300 depending mostly on size. Installation costs, an additional $300 to $400, he said.

Finkelstein said the unscrupulous firms often change their name and address yearly, negating guarantees on their pools. He said the primary victims are families of low or middle income attracted by the "bargain" advertisements.

Paul miss represents angel flight

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. — Judy L. Lindstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lindstrom, Paul, represented the University of Idaho Angel Flight during the 16th annual conclave of the national organization just concluded in Hollywood, Fla.

The Angel Flight is an honorary service organization for college women that supports the objectives of the Arnold Air Society (AAS). It meets annually in conjunction with the conclave of the honorary professional association for outstanding Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets. Miss Lindstrom, official delegate of the Eugene H. Beebe Angel Flight, was one of 137 coeds who met with 155 cadets to discuss organizational programs for the coming year and to hear addresses by noted aerospace leaders.

It marked the 23rd annual conclave of AAS, which is named in honor of the late General H. H. "Hap" Arnold, the first Chief of Staff of the Army Corps. Miss Lindstrom is an English major and member of the class of '73 at the university.

Four-day painting workshop slated

TWIN FALLS — Alexander Nepote, a noted artist who has exhibited his work in Brazil, Japan and New Zealand as well as throughout the nation, will conduct a four-day painting workshop next week, April 26-29, at the College of Southern Idaho, and will speak at a public lecture Monday night.

Nepote, who is currently professor of art at San Francisco State College, will present a talk on "A Theory of Art as Relationships," accompanied by slides and a film on "In and about water," at 7 p.m. Monday in the Fine Arts auditorium at the college.

The public is invited to attend, without charge.

The Nepote appearance is another in a series of cultural attractions enjoyed by college students, both at the college and on a field trip to San Francisco, during which the students heard the classical guitarist and lutenist Julian Bream. At the Berkeley Art Museum, the CSI students studied a collection of Hans Hoffman paintings, adjudged the "finest collection of Hoffman paintings in the world."

At CSI, students and the general public have enjoyed a concert by opera soprano, Mary Costa, and have benefited from exhibits ranging from Karsh portraits to the Leonardo da Vinci collection of inventions. Nepote's list of awards and exhibitions is impressive, including the third International Biennial at Sao Paulo, Brazil; Expo '70, Osaka, Japan; the American Art of Our Time exhibit at the Massachusetts Museum; American Painting — 1967, at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, and the Art of the Pacific Basin exhibition in Auckland, New Zealand.

His highly distinctive and personalized collage style utilizes subtle washes of color, combining torn paper shapes and carefully selected paint shadings.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I do not get along very well. In fact, if it weren't for the kids, I wouldn't live within 1,000 miles of this idiot. We are both artists and my husband specializes in Western art now, and he has been selling his paintings before the oil is dry on the canvas. I don't mean to put him down, but my work is much better than his even if it doesn't sell half as well. The public just happens to be going for gimmick art.

I can hardly stand it when my husband sells a painting. For one thing, he has a way of gloating that makes me want to put my fist right thru his face. I wish I knew how to get over this envious attitude. Can you help me?—ENVOIOUS IN MONTANA

DEAR ENVOIOUS: Of all the emotions, envy is the most difficult to control. Since you don't even like your husband, and are competing with him professionally to boot, it will be doubly difficult to curb your envy. Keep telling yourself that envy is an "acid" which does more damage to the container [you] than to the object of your envy [him].

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother recently remarried after having been a widow for a good many years. She is a dear, sweet woman, and I couldn't love my own mother more.

She and her new husband visited us last Christmas, and during the evening he made me a little uncomfortable just by the way he kept looking at me. He followed me into the kitchen once and said he wanted to give me a little Christmas kiss. I gave him my cheek but he grabbed me and said, "No, not THAT kind..." then he tried to kiss me on the mouth. I got away from him and kept my distance all evening.

Now he calls me on the phone when he knows my husband is at work. He says he wants to talk to me. I am afraid of him. He is 70.

Please tell me how to handle this. They live in another town not far from us, but we see them quite often.—PAPA PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM—Tell him that if he doesn't leave you alone you will tell your husband that he has been bothering you. And if that doesn't straighten him out, make good your threat.

DEAR ABBY: When my girl and I started going together, I asked her to please get her teeth fixed as she needed it badly. I even offered to pay for it. She agreed to see a dentist but she never did. I know she hasn't been to a dentist in a good many years.

We are planning to be married in a few months so last night I reminded her of her promise and told her to start right away so she would look nice for our wedding. She turned very cold on me and said she didn't want to discuss it.

Abby, she's a very pretty girl but her teeth are ugly when she smiles it spoils her looks.

She's a wonderful person in every other way, but her teeth are so bad I would even postpone our wedding until she gets them fixed. What should I do?—THE GROOM

DEAR GROOM: The only logical reason for your fiancée to duck the dentist is fear! She needs to be assured that dentistry has come a long way since she was a little girl. Offer to go with her, and let the dentist examine her mouth and explain exactly what must be done. A neglected mouth is not only unsightly, it's unhealthy. She may be a "wonderful" girl, but she needs to grow up and face reality. Help her.

DEAR ABBY: I heard that a doctor can lose his license if he prescribes birth control pills to a girl who is underage. Is that true?—ILLINOIS READER

DEAR READER: No. Birth-control pills are sometimes prescribed to underage girls to regulate their menstrual periods.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

MR. AND MRS. WESLEY L. FREY (Dudley photo)

Myrna Egbert, Frey wed in temple rites

TWIN FALLS — Wedding vows were exchanged by Myrna Louise Egbert and Wesley L. Frey in rites April 17 at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple.

The double ring ceremony was performed by President Hart.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Egbert, Jr., Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Larry Sabin, Twin Falls, and Lloyd Frey, Eden.

A wedding breakfast was given in honor of the newlyweds at the Westbank in Idaho Falls immediately after the ceremony. The couple was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Sabin, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Egbert Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Merl Egbert, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kump and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Rubert.

The newlyweds were honored at a wedding reception April 10 at the local LDS Stake Cultural Hall.

They greeted guests before an arch interlaced with a garland of green centered with a large pink bow. Pink and white gladioli and carnation arrangements flanked the arch.

The bride wore a floor-length empire-styled gown of white doeklin. An overlay of white lace on the bodice and sleeves enhanced the simplicity of the standup collar and wide cuffs on the sleeves.

Her floor-length lace veil was beaded with pearls and held by a pearl-beaded lace flower. The veil was made by Mrs. Robert Moore.

The bride carried a bouquet of pink carnations accented with tiny rosebuds and tied with pink and blue streamers.

Nan Whatcott was maid of honor, with Loa Egbert, sister of the bride; Susan Walker, Hazelton, and Mrs. Beverly Kump, Twin Falls, as bridesmaids.

Steve Webb was best man. Donald Egbert, brother of the bride, and Michael Frey, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

Maurice and Douglas Egbert, brothers of the bride, received the gifts, while Camille Hamilton unwrapped them, assisted by Linda Rubert.

The backdrop of the bridal group was a large pink castle mural, painted by Camille Hamilton, accented with twinkling stars. The mural enhanced a garden scene around a curved bridge.

The bride's table was covered with white net accented with bordered lace over blue. The pink and white wedding cake was topped with a miniature pink castle. A miniature bride and bridegroom in the center of the cake between four pillars, were standing at the bottom of a staircase that encircled the cake to the drawbridge of the castle. On each corner of the cake was a miniature white high-heeled shoe decorated with pink roses. Under the lattice work of hearts and other decorations were tiny Italian lights that were lighted to accent the beauty of the cake to its fullest.

At the serving table were Mrs. Harold Garrison, Mrs. Orvel Thompson, Mrs. Don Williams, Mrs. John Atkin, Mrs. Milton Rubert and Mrs. Gary Andreason, assisted by serving girls, April Arrington, Sheila Garrison and Sheryll Clawson.

Computers to help spud farmers with irrigation

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer
KIMBERLY — The scientific skill that once protected the life of astronaut John Glenn will soon be helping Idaho farmers plan their irrigation.

Glen Curtis, a Californian who has seen the full growth of computer technology, has moved to Idaho to form a unique new company devoted to matching computer skills with agricultural needs. The firm, Computerized Farming Services, Inc., will be headquartered at 301 Main St., in Kimberly.

William L. Floyd, a Kimberly businessman and acknowledged expert in the intricacies of potato marketing, will serve as president of the new firm. Other incorporators are Bob Skyles, Nampa, commissioner of the Idaho Potato Commission; Dick Kerbs, Blackfoot, a large-acreage potato grower; Del Raybould, Rixburg; Wallace Robinson, Newdale, and several other major Idaho growers. Both Kerbs and Raybould are past presidents of the Potato Growers of Idaho, Inc.

The firm will utilize skills first developed by Marvin E. Jensen, director of the Snake River Conservation Research Center, over the past few years, Curtis said. Jensen was working with the concept of utilizing the high-speed data-processing capabilities of computers to anticipate irrigation and other agricultural needs.

The first tests proved successful, and the concept of a firm devoted to providing a computerized service was developed. Computerized Farming Services, Inc., was the result.

The firm will utilize a series of four computer terminals throughout the Snake River Plain, linked to a master computer in California, used on a time-sharing basis. The four areas, each of which will be served by a supervisor-technician, include the area from Hammett west to the Oregon border; Area No. 2 covers the Raft River area west to Hammett; Area No. 3 includes Shelley south to the Raft River, and Area 4 will cover Ashton south to Shelley.

Each supervisor-technician will work with area growers, advising them on utilization of the computer information.

Each will gather the "raw data," including air temperature, wind speed, humidity, solar radiation, precipitation, and other pertinent meteorological data. The components will be relayed to the computer via the computer terminal, which basically is a teletype machine linked by leased wire to the master computer.

Curtis said a series of carefully timed cycles will be developed whereby data will be fed to the computer; a delay will be allowed for correction of the weather and other data, which often change rapidly, then the "readout" will be provided, when the computer has digested all relevant data.

Farmers will be advised on irrigation patterns; water amounts; soil conditions, and similar items of interest.

Curtis knows computers and their uses as few do; he has been affiliated with the field since 1954, when computers first came on the scene. He has worked for a number of industries and with the U.S. Office of Civil Defense. His computers have aimed Titan missiles at Russian cities, calculated defensive configurations, for American Civil Defense officials, and helped plot rocket trajectories for space exploration.

A "paper" he wrote for an international conference of scientists in Switzerland brought two letters of interest from Russian scientists. Though he was unable to attend the Swiss conference ("My employer couldn't spare me"), his thesis on biological effects of Beta radiation from nuclear sources stirred a good deal of interest among the Soviets.

"I didn't answer them, of course; my firm's contract with the government wouldn't let us confer with the Russians," he recalled.

Another project involved plotting the possible trajectories of the Redstone rocket which was to loft John Glenn into earth orbit. Space technicians, planning the capsule separation at the moment the booster ran out of fuel, noted that the rocket tended to fire intermittently as the last drops of fuel burned out.

Fearing the effect of a sudden surge of acceleration as Glenn's capsule pulled away, which could slam the Redstone into the capsule, they turned to computers.

"We plotted all possible trajectories of the Redstone by running them through our computers," Curtis recalled. "We found we were correct — the rocket could possibly surge ahead and collide with the capsule."

The solution was comparatively easy, once the possibility was confirmed. The "steerable" rocket engines were programmed to swing to one side at the instant of capsule separation, putting the booster into a tumbling motion that swung it away from the manned capsule.

The new Idaho firm will work to strengthen the new link between computers and agriculture, developing the data patterns needed and helping growers become acquainted with the concept of turning to computers for help.

Many growers have indicated an interest in the field already, Curtis said. "We've had really fantastic interest in Idaho; we feel the Idaho growers are far more ready to accept this almost futuristic concept than they are elsewhere in the country."

GLEN CURTIS, on left, formerly of California, and William F. Floyd, vice president and general manager of the J. H. Henry Produce Co., Kimberly, confer on plans for the new Computerized Farming Services, Inc., firm, of which Floyd will be president. Curtis, a computer expert, will lead his skill to the new service which links computers with agriculture.

Water confab planned

BOISE (UPI) — Two state and two federal agencies are sponsoring a conference on groundwater resources of the Snake Plain May 6 in Idaho Falls, State Water Resource Board director Robert Lee said today.

Lee said the conference will be put on by the Water Resource Board, the State Department of Water Administration, the U.S. Geological Survey and the U.S. reclamation bureau.

He said there will be presentations on the characteristics of Snake Plain aquifer data needs, Snake Plain aquifer development opportunities and relationship to spring flows, and Snake Plain recharge opportunities and effects on groundwater levels and spring flows.

Cattle on feed in Idaho down

BOISE (UPI) — There were three per cent fewer cattle on feed for slaughter in Idaho April 1 this year than last, the Idaho crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

The report said there were 215,000 head on feed this April 1 compared with 222,000 a year earlier. The number on feed showed the normal seasonal decline from Jan. 1.

Feeders placed 88,000 head during the Jan. 1 - March 31 period, the report said, 4,000 fewer than the number placed during that three-month period of last year.

Marketing during the first quarter of 1971 were down five per cent from the comparable period a year ago.

Election set

GOODING — Dairymen in five Magic Valley counties will be electing a dairyman to the Idaho Dairy Products Commission next month.

Ballots will be mailed by the commission to dairymen in Blaine, Camas, Gooding, Jerome and Lincoln counties before May 15 and dairymen must return them to the Department of Agriculture by May 31.

Automatic Solid Set Irrigation

SHUR-RANE LCV

A fully automatic Lateral Control Valve system that can be installed in hours ... paid for in less than a season!

To install, simply replace existing manually-controlled riser valves with Shur-Rane Lateral Control Valves ... install the automatic timer ... and run wire down length of field to connect timer electrically to each Lateral Control Valve.

To operate, simply set timer dial for desired length of each set and for number of sets ... timer then successively activates solenoid switch in each Lateral Control Valve on command for desired pre-set irrigation period.

To program, simply connect properly numbered plugs to timer wire, insert plugs in Lateral Control Valves, and timer then automatically activates all similarly numbered plugs. Low voltage operation assures safe, yet positive valve opening.

Muskie seeks pullout date

Narrow escape

HOLE ripped in side of helicopter by hostile fire near Fire Base 6 in South Vietnam is examined by Capt. Arthur Trujillo, left, and Warrant Officer Jess Findley, right. Armor plating kept bullet from causing more damage and saved lives of two fliers. (UPI)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, says Democrats are as eager as President Nixon to eliminate the Vietnam War as a 1972 election issue, and that total U.S. withdrawal by a definitely established date is the way to do it.

Muskie and four potential rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination argued Thursday night that President Nixon should set a firm, early date for a pullout.

Muskie, Sens. Birch Bayh, D-

Ind., George S. McGovern, D-S.D., Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien appeared in a half-hour television program on ABC to reply to President Nixon's broadcasts on administration Indochina policy.

Muskie, Humphrey, Bayh, McGovern and Hughes all advocated a definite date for withdrawal, saying this would open the way for negotiations with the Communists on release of American prisoners of war. Nixon has pledged that total U.S. withdrawal will not take place until POWs are freed.

Jackson, who has generally supported administration policies, did not advocate setting a withdrawal date but said greater effort should be made to negotiate a mutual ceasefire.

The six senators made separate statements, with O'Brien opening and closing the program. Muskie, the last to appear, said: "Some have said that we Democrats want the war as an issue in the 1972 campaign. That is nonsense. Every one of us here wants this war over before 1972."

He expressed hope that the war could be eliminated as an issue so that next year's presidential campaign could "be fought on the issue of how America should be led in peace."

McGovern, the only announced candidate so far, said current policy only "guarantees that our prisoners will remain in their cells, that our troops will remain in danger ... and that the killing will continue." Bayh accused the administration of attempting a "cruel hoax" by suggesting that POWs might be released "before we end our involvement in the war."

Hughes said "there is no honor in sacrificing American lives" in Indochina. "There is honor, I believe, in binding the wounds of our domestic society and making America a strong nation again."

Humphrey, who led off the separate presentations, said Nixon had unfairly implied that Democratic administrations were to blame for the Vietnam entanglement. "The responsibility for our involvement was a national responsibility—not a partisan one; and our disengagement, it seems to me, must also be the task of all of us," he said.

Boiseans OK check list

BOISE (UPI)—In the midst of charges and countercharges Thursday night Boise Model Cities neighborhood residents agreed to examine a "shopping list" of proposed projects rather than accepting a plan to divide recycled monies into set areas.

The citizens packed a meeting of the Model Citizens Advisory Board, apparently angered at a decision to spend over $300,000 gained from re-examining budgets of existing programs on four specific areas which were not approved by the citizens.

Kathryn Greiner, Boise, representing the Model Cities Mental Health Center, said it appeared the Department of Housing and Urban Development had directed a "mandate" toward the Boise program rather than letting the citizens themselves decide where to spend the money.

"Just who is running this?" she asked. "Is it the citizens... or are we told what we are to do?"

The dispute apparently arose over a decision to spend the money on extending the program's administrative capabilities, funding a resettlement project, funding a manpower project, and contributing $100,000 towards a new Boise public library.

The director of the Community Development Agency (model cities), George Schoedinger, said the library was part of a city "package" that required no model cities planning.

He said model cities was asked by the Boise City Council whether it wished to participate in the library project, and said HUD approved such a proposal.

But Eric Silberstein, Seattle, representing HUD, said HUD had only three priorities—extension of administration, relocation, and the employment project—and said any money left over would be spent on a "shopping list" to be drawn up by model cities task forces.

He said HUD would agree to the library proposal only if the usual route—that of citizen participation—was followed.

He said HUD was "under the impression (model cities) was under some pressure to get the library funded or there would not be a model cities program. If that was the game, we had to find some way to include it."

80 envoys pay homage to author

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England (UPI)—Ambassadors of 80 nations journeyed today to William Shakespeare's birthplace to pay homage to the bard on the 407th anniversary of his birth.

The flags of 139 countries flew in the streets as the envoys joined more than 500 guests from Britain and abroad in a traditional birthday lunch at Stratford's Royal Shakespeare Theatre.

Guides attack ruling

BOISE (UPI) — A group of professional outfitters and a Chamber of Commerce delegation met with the Idaho Fish and Game Commission to discuss the new ruling that restricts non-resident hunting licenses.

The outfitters told the commission that they feared the new restriction would hurt their out-of-state business.

The commission has just passed a ruling limiting the number of non-resident hunters to 10 percent of the total number of participants in any controlled hunt this fall.

The Salmon Chamber of Commerce delegation emphasized to the commission the importance of the hunting trade in their area.

The commission, chaired by Ray Holmes, Twin Falls, took the remarks under advisement until their next meeting May 20.

Rogers' Mideast efforts founder

By United Press International U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers is expected to visit the Middle East next month but signs were growing Thursday that his efforts for peace are in danger of foundering.

Gunnar Jarring, the Middle East peace envoy for the United Nations, is due back from his permanent post as Swedish ambassador to Moscow next week. But U.N. sources said he is likely to stay on in Moscow indefinitely, or until tangible developments warrant renewing his peace efforts.

No such developments were in sight Thursday. Israel reported killing eight Arab guerrillas at the Lebanese border, one of the heaviest tolls since the Middle East cease-fire took effect Aug. 8.

Indications from both Egypt and Israel were that neither sees much hope for an agreement on reopening the Suez Canal. The United States had been pressing for such an agreement as the possible first step toward an over-all Arab-Israeli political settlement.

But Minister without Portfolio Israel Galili told high school students outside Jerusalem Thursday chances of reopening the canal appeared slim because of the wide differences in the bargaining positions of Egypt and Israel. In Cairo, authoritative sources said Egypt has hardened its position because it feared an interim settlement might delay or even block a permanent settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said Egypt has in effect rejected the latest Israeli proposals on reopening the canal, blocked since the 1967 war. But western diplomatic sources labeled the report as "premature" and said as far as they knew the Israeli position papers had not yet been transmitted to Cairo by the United States.

Political sources in Cairo said Egypt's position now was that Israel, in agreeing to a partial pullback from the East Bank to allow the canal to be cleared, should also commit itself to eventual withdrawal from all occupied Egyptian territory.

Cost drops

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cost of borrowing money to buy a home has dipped to the lowest point in almost two years. It now costs about $15 less a month to borrow $25,000 on a conventional mortgage than it did last August.

Wrecking charges disputed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Roman Catholic priest who interpreted for Rep. Paul N. McCloskey in Laos took issue today with the California Republican's charges that the United States had "pursued a program of deliberately destroying Laotian villages."

The Rev. Matt Menger, director of Catholic Relief Services in Laos, said McCloskey's charges were not true. He also asserted that McCloskey was mistaken in assuming that American bombing was responsible for a large proportion of the 300,000 refugees in Laos.

Menger, pastor of the Immaculata Church in Vientiane, has been in Laos for 15 years. An interview with him was arranged by administration officials who suggested that he talk to a UPI newsmen.

McCloskey has said he may run against President Nixon in Republican presidential primaries next year to spotlight the necessity to end the war.

Menger said he had no connection with the government, was not employed by the United States in any way but had come to Washington for "consultations" on the refugee problem and other matters in Laos. He was here a year ago to testify before a Senate subcommittee on refugees.

The priest said McCloskey spent only a few hours one morning during a recent brief visit in Laos, talking with pilot Alfred M. Worden will orbit above them. Apollo 15 is due to blastoff for the moon at 9:34 a.m. July 26, and return to a Pacific Ocean splashdown at 4:46 p.m. Aug. 7.

Child loses to rabies

Death came to the 6-year-old at 2:30 a.m., 26 days after he went into a coma.

The youngster was bitten by a dog while in Mexico with his parents.

Had he survived, he would have joined Matthew Winkler, also 6, Lima, Ohio, as the only known survivor of acute rabies.

Matthew earlier this week sent Honofre a get well card, a dollar bill and newspaper clippings about his treatment and recovery.

Long lunar visit schedule listed

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Apollo 15 astronauts David R. Scott and James B. Irwin are due to begin man's longest stay on the moon at 6:15 p.m. EDT, July 30.

The space agency announced the latest lunar landing schedule Thursday for the Apollo 15 expedition, the most ambitious so far.

Scott and Irwin are scheduled to spend 67 hours on the moon and make three trips across the surface, each lasting six to seven hours. They will use a four-wheeled electric cart for part of the exploration and will be able to range up to 25 miles.

While Scott and Irwin walk on the moon, command module pilot Alfred M. Worden will orbit above them.

Apollo 15 is due to blastoff for the moon at 9:34 a.m. July 26, and return to a Pacific Ocean splashdown at 4:46 p.m. Aug. 7.

CITIZENSHIP CERTIFICATE is accepted by new United States citizen, Jean Etcheto during naturalization ceremony in Fifth Judicial District Court in Twin Falls. Presenting the certificate is Harold Lancaster, court clerk.

New citizen

14 accept citizenship

TWIN FALLS — Fourteen persons received their United States citizenship Thursday afternoon in one of the largest naturalization ceremonies ever held in Fifth Judicial District Court.

Judge Theron W. Ward welcomed the new citizens and signed the court order establishing their status as official citizens.

These receiving citizenship came from Japan, Spain, Germany, France, Canada, Mexico and Panama. They ranged in age from 5 years to 71 years.

State Representative Ray Lincoln, Twin Falls, addressed the group, reminding them citizenship rights must be exercised to be of any value. "Participate in your new government," he urged. "One of the best ways to take part is to vote in every election — school board trustees to presidential.

"This land is your land. Love it, protect it and enjoy it," he said.

The district court room was filled to capacity for the ceremony with a number of junior high school students attending to witness the special ceremony. Dale Patterson, representing the American Legion Post, presented each new citizen with a U.S. flag and Mrs. George Detweiler of the Daughter of the American Revolution, presenting special awards to each citizen including a handbook on citizenship.

New citizens include Jose Deoniso Gonzalez, 17, Twin Falls, formerly a citizen of Spain; Maria Marcelina Ugalde, Burley, formerly Mexico; Basilio Garcia, Burley, formerly Mexico; Julian Legarreta, Gooding, formerly Spain; Margaret Walker, Rupert, formerly Germany; Teresa R. # Panel examines spud promotion

MURTAUGH — Promoting Idaho potatoes was the main topic of discussion at a meeting in Boise of the Idaho Potato Commission, Jack Allred, Murtaugh, commission member, said today.

Allred said proposal from Botsford-Ketchum and Cline Advertising agencies for promoting all forms of Idaho potatoes was discussed and noted that this proposal included changes to help growers, shippers and processors sell next year's crop at a "premium price."

Allred said the tried and proven methods of "Potato Days," major convention displays, press food releases and support of three traveling fieldmen will be continued by the potato commission.

"Most important," Allred said, "is the flexibility of the new program with emphasis to be placed on the 'Idaho Premium Package' if desired. We could use radio ads and possibly television, if funds are made available next year.

"This package could provide temporary identity for Idaho potatoes, expand our sales with an advertising brand for all fresh shippers and fill the gap until a satisfactory system of stamping or branding each potato is developed.

Filer's chief OK in wreck

FILER — Police Chief Homer C. Clowers, 70, Filer, escaped injury when his new 1971 sedan, owned by the city of Filer, left Main Avenue West and crashed into a parked vehicle.

Sheriff's officers who investigated said the officer reported an unidentified car forced him from the roadway. The accident occurred about 4 a.m. in the downtown area of Filer. The city vehicle collided with a 1960 parked sedan owned by Jim Ward, Filer. Damage was estimated at $150 to each vehicle.

Assault hearing pending

JEROME — Gary Pooler, 20, Jerome, who last summer achieved some notoriety in Jerome for wanting to be the "world's longest-haired jockey," was arraigned Thursday before Magistrate Russell Shaud on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. Judge Shaud appointed Phil Becker, public defender, to represent Pooler and he will confer with his lawyer before requesting a preliminary hearing. Pooler is being held in the Jerome County jail in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Prosecuting attorney Gene Fredericksen said the complaint against Pooler was filed on March 29 by Clarence Bollingmo, Twin Falls, who alleges Pooler attacked him with a knife or sharp object in front of St. Benedict's Hospital March 28.

Pooler was on probation after pleading guilty to being an accessory after the fact in a grand larceny case this past August. At that time, the prosecutor said, Pooler accompanied Joe Allen Casey to California in a vehicle reported stolen at Jerome. Casey was indicted on a grand larceny charge, released on bond, then left town.

Pooler was placed on probation to his employer, William Kersey, horse owner and trainer at Jerome.

Students work on cleanups

TWIN FALLS — Students in three Magic Valley school districts have been busy this week in observance of Earth Week to make this country a better place to live.

At Buhl, high school students cleaned up highways leading into Buhl Thursday as well as two major highway junctions. Jon Jund, vice principal, said some students also went to Twin Falls to talk with businesses along Rock Creek to see what they are doing to combat pollution.

In the Eden-Hazelton area, grade school students were busy today cleaning up the school playgrounds, streets and alleys.

Thomas Turner, Filer superintendent of schools, said all students in the district are cleaning up around the schools this week as their part for ecology. Some are cleaning up the new track at the new elementary grade school in Filer.

Likely jurors questioned

JEROME — Mrs. Ella McVey, Jerome County clerk, today mailed to 320 registered voters juror questionnaires according to the method prescribed in Senate Bill 1140, enacted by the legislature this year.

The new bill became effective March 20, she said. Mrs. McVey said the questionnaires are to be returned within 10 days and she asks recipients to complete these forms and return them to the clerk's office promptly.

They will then be reviewed by the jury commission, which is composed of the district clerk and another person appointed by the district judge, as provided for under the new bill's provisions.

The names of qualified jurors will be placed in a jury wheel to be drawn. After that the jury calendar of court cases can proceed in Jerome County without further delay, Mrs. McVey said.

Space base survey set at Minico

By GEORGIA LAYTON Times-News Writer RUPERT — Rupert Chamber of Commerce officials will receive questionnaires within two weeks regarding possible location of a space shuttle facility in Idaho, William Strasser, president, said today.

Chamber members conferred with other chamber and mayors of southeastern Idaho towns Wednesday in Pocatello. Jerry Goffney, from Gen. Robert Curtin's office at the NASA headquarters in Washington, D.C., told the group 50 areas in the country are being studied.

Government officials want information on weather, environment, people, water, gas, soils, visibility, services and the labor market situation and recreation. It is estimated some 3,000 persons would be employed.

The Idaho site under consideration lies between Minidoka and Arco and is government owned. Information from the questionnaires will be used in compiling the report on the proposed site and the complete report is expected to be filed this fall with NASA officials, Goffney told the group.

BUHL — A horse owned by Ron Bailey, Jackpot, Nev., was killed and a driver suffered minor cuts in an accident at 12:46 a.m. today about two miles west of Buhl on U. S. Highway 30.

TWIN FALLS — A new organization for chemical dealers and representatives is being formed today at the Holiday Inn.

The Idaho Chemical Association is the new group and representatives from various chemical dealers in Idaho as well as University of Idaho extension personnel are meeting today to discuss bylaws of the organization and to elect officers and directors.

Wallace Peterson, Boise, area sales supervisor of the Stauffer Chemical Co. and temporary chairman of the new group, said the main reason for forming the group is to protect themselves against legislation that might hurt the agricultural chemical industry. He said later on the association will draw up legislative proposals that will help Idaho agriculture.

Japanese tour area

By PAULINE DAY Times-News Writer BUHL — Ten Japanese businessmen and two program coordinators from the Japan Productivity Center's United States Office toured the Thousand Springs Trout Farm Inc. Thursday morning.

The businessmen are members of a team studying all phases of business management and the socio-economic environments which affect their business. The project of bringing them to the United States provides them with an opportunity to meet with American business executives and leaders in order that they may obtain firsthand information about American business practices and problems for a better mutual understanding, according to Robert Erkins, of Thousand Springs.

The study team toured Boise Cascade during their stop in Boise and went on to Salt Lake City following the tour of the trout farm.

The team is primarily interested in the background information on the corporations they visit, the corporations' managerial philosophy, and the application of modern management techniques.

Members of the study team were Akira Kimura, Hideo Inoue, Megumu Murakami, Kojiro Iguchi, Masahiko Sanjyo, Yoshinori Ishizuka, Shigetaka Miyaki, Takayoshi Munetoki, Osamu Noma and Hikeki Ohki. Hiromoto Tanuma and Hisao Nishimura of the Japan Productivity Center accompanied the team as coordinators and interpreters. "While in Buhl the men were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Erkins.

Idaho lags in planning

By JERRY HERRMANN Times-News Writer BURLEY — Idaho is 10 to 15 years behind in planning, J. Wayne Cole, chairman of the Cassia County Comprehensive Planning Commission told members Thursday night at a progress report meeting.

"If we had had the comprehensive before the major industries located here, they likely would have been built in different locations," he said. "Right now the commission is in phase one of a three-phase program. Under phase one, the committee is gathering basic facts about the resources of the county."

The data on climate is nearly all collected, Cole said. This information is one of the items people in industry moving into the area want to know about. The Mineral Resources committee has nearly completed its work. But members were asked to notify the committee if they know of any mineral or oil claims in the county.

Walt Tollefson, chairman of the committee on people, said he would turn in his report at the next meeting. The committee on public and semi-public committee improvement also plans to have its report complete at the next meeting. Other areas covered are government finances, water resources, recreation, fish and wildlife, forest and range resources.

"This comprehensive resources plan, when completed, will be a big asset in the county's effort to get more industry here," Cole said.

Club operators nabbed in raid

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls men who operate the Crystal Clipper Club just west of Twin Falls were taken into custody in a raid on the club Thursday night and charged with indecent exposure of obscene exhibits.

County Prosecutor Leon Smith said the charge resulted from the showing of obscene movies at the club at the time the officers arrived.

Sheriff Paul Corder and his deputies had warrants for search of the club for obscene films and narcotics. A search of the property resulted in confiscation of two films, he said. No narcotics were found, he said.

About 25 persons, both men and women, were in the club at the time of the raid at about 9:30 p.m., officers said.

Arrested were Mitchell Ray Campbell and Roger Lynn Baisch, both Twin Falls, who operate the club. Each was released on $300 bond pending further court appearances, the prosecutor said.

Credit report act effective Sunday

By JERRY HERRMANN Times-News Writer BURLEY — A new consumer bill — the Fair Credit Reporting Act — will go into effect on Sunday.

This bill gives the consumer the right to visit his local credit bureau and review his own credit file.

"Apparently there were some places where people couldn't do this," said Ransom H. Brown, manager and owner of the Credit Bureau of Burley, Inc., in an interview with the Times-News. "I have always encouraged people to do this," he said.

"This bill was the result of consumers being abused in some areas of the country. However, I don't think the consumers were being abused anywhere in Idaho," he said. The provision allowing consumers to check their credit files is good, he said. "In case there is something in the credit bureau's file that could be disputed and he doesn't know it is there he can now find it out. This is important to him," Brown said.

The act also puts the responsibility on the calling party requesting credit information. "He must have a legitimate need for credit information on a person," Brown said.

Criminal punishment allowed under the act for people getting credit information on another person under false pretense is a fine up to $5,000 or imprisonment up to one year or both.

The same criminal punishment is provided for credit bureau employees and businesses making unauthorized disclosures of information in a person's credit file.

The same criminal punishment is provided for "any officer or employee of a consumer reporting agency who knowingly and willfully provides information concerning an individual from the agency's files to a person not authorized to receive that information."

This act, Brown said, provides for the legitimate free flow of credit information to banks and other lending institutions for legitimate credit purposes. "There is no need for the unauthorized flow of credit information," he said. Brown then gave an example of a request for credit information that his office turned down because it didn't know if the call was legitimate.

"A Utah businessman called the office wanting credit information on a person in this area given to him over the phone right then and there. We have no contract with him to give this information and we didn't know if it was a legitimate call or not.

"I felt that we would be invading this person's privacy and credit file if we had given this businessman the information he wanted at that moment.

"Therefore I referred him to his local credit bureau's office. If he has a contract with that bureau and it calls for the information then we would give it. But at that time we had no way of knowing for sure if the caller had a legitimate need for the information on that person's credit file," Brown said.

How will this act affect credit bureaus? Brown feels that it will make the public aware that credit should be handled in a businesslike manner. "I believe it will help credit bureaus and the whole credit industry," he said.

Another protection given consumers is the provision that no information except for bankruptcies can be kept on the file that is over seven years old. Bankruptcies can be kept on the file for 14 years.

"Previously information could be kept on a person's credit file forever," Brown said.

The businessmen giving credit will also be affected by the act. "They will have to be aware that their customers can request that they disclose why credit was refused them and where they got their information."

In this way, Brown said, the customer will be able to find out exactly why he was refused credit. However, he pointed out, the customer has only 60 days to request this information. After that time he has no right to request and receive an answer.

There is also a provision stating that the customer must give the businessman "a reasonable time" to give him this information in writing or verbally.

"The consumer can't just walk into a credit bureau office and demand to see his record immediately," Brown said. "He must wait until the office's employees can get to him."

Also, there is a provision in the act that states that a consumer has the right to have another person with him when he examines his credit file. This person must furnish reasonable identification.

This provision enables a consumer to bring someone with him that can comprehend what is in his file, Brown said.

Brown also stated that as far as he knew there weren't any hidden provisions in the act.

"This is a good bill. It was written by representatives of all segments of the population. It isn't trying to punish one group of credit institutions but to provide for the best possible legitimate credit information," he said.

Space station plan outlined at Rupert

By LEPAGE LAYTON
Times-News writer

RUPERT — William Strasser, president of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce, reported on a meeting at Pocatello Wednesday in regard to the space station to be constructed somewhere in the U.S. at a cost of some $6 billion, at the Thursday Chamber luncheon at Rupert Elks hall.

"A site between Minidoka and Arco in the desert is being considered and at this time things look quite encouraging," Strasser said.

Sam Grayson of Union Pacific Railroad told the chamber of the plight of the railroad.

"The Union Pacific Railroad system handles 25 per cent of all freight moved west of the Mississippi including bus, truck and air transportation," Grayson reported. "Without some drastic changes the railroad is at its end under private enterprise," he added.

A film entitled "U.P. Heart of Idaho" was shown. The film told the story of progress and development of railroading from 1869 to 1969 and in relation to developing industry throughout the western half of the nation.

Grayson stated, "The most critical problem in railroading today is its ability to find the money it needs for modernization and growth. This is due to currently depressed financial conditions and high rising interest costs," he added.

"I believe a single authority should be created to regulate all forms of transportation with an even hand," Grayson said. Nationalization of the railroads solves no problem, other than to cost a lot more money.

"If railroads are to keep pace with the times and achieve their full potential in service to the nation they must be brought into the transportation system and treated as equal partners. On this basis they can remain in private hands and continue as a great national asset," he said.

"Nationalization would convert this asset into a public liability. The Union Pacific Railroad system pays some $30 million in taxes in Idaho plus millions in other states," stated Grayson.

It was announced the Realtors Spring Clinic will be held May 25 at Ponderosa Inn.

Ecology club at Burley active

BURLEY — Four adults' interest in cleaning up the environment and getting students interested in this field resulted in formation of an ecology club at Burley High School.

George Wyant, president of the club and BHS student, said the club was organized about three months ago. At that time it was given the name of Burley High School Ecology Society.

"The adults' desire to start an ecology club at the high school was announced at an assembly. As a result about 20 high school members joined together to form the club," he said.

Since the BHSES was formed about three months ago its members have:

- Taken trips with the Cassia County Commissioners when they were looking at sites for landfill dumps. Helped in the Cassia County Cleanup project, held an hour long assembly Thursday at the Burley high school dealing with ecology. This was the club's Earth Week project.
- Held a cooked food sale last Friday in which $57 was raised.

This money will go to pay for club projects.

—Picked a seal which shows an eagle perched on a shield with stars and stripes on it.

"The club has standing committees on air, land and water," he said, "and we concentrate on these areas."

Club officers besides Wyant are Stephanie Martin, vice president; Laura Elliott, secretary; De Esta Lamb, historian, and Dee Dee Pullman, reporter.

Wyant also said that the club is different from other school clubs as it meets the year round and not just during the school year.

This club, he said, is open to any high school student. Dues are $1 a year. The club's school adviser is Ted Hanks, BHS biology teacher.

The four adults who started the club are Lanny Wilson, Bureau Land Management; George DeLung, Burley Rod and Gun Club; Jack Keen, Burley recreation director, and Mrs. H. Max Bruce of Burley, Wyant said.

Potato commission holds Burley meet

BURLEY — Promotion of Idaho potatoes for the coming year and advertising and merchandising programs were discussed at a public meeting held here Wednesday at the Ponderosa Inn by the Idaho Potato Commission.

Frank Floyd, commission administrator, conducted the session, assisted by Roland Jones, Rupert, and Joe Taylor, Paul, both commission members. Attending the meeting were representatives of potato growers, shippers and processors from throughout the valley.

Advertising in trade magazines, consumer magazines, radio, food pages in newspapers, selected markets, and produce trade publications all were discussed. Material which is available from the commission for display stores also was discussed.

Plans were made for trade conventions scheduled in May at Houston, Tex., and Chicago where the Idaho potato exhibits will be displayed.

A similar meeting was held earlier this week at Boise and the same material was presented Thursday evening at Idaho Falls during a public meeting.

CHRIS ANDERSON, "pastor" of the Twin Falls Christian Home, stands in front of the large fireplace which makes the commodious living room a cozy place on cool evenings. The comfortable home on Blue Lakes North is being operated as a haven for troubled teens.

Christian Home operates in T.F.

By LEE TREMATNE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — A unique "Christian Home" sponsored solely by voluntary contributions is giving Twin Falls teenagers a place to learn religion in a relaxed atmosphere apart from church edicts, according to the self-styled "pastor," Chris Anderson.

The Christian Home is located at 167 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. in a large, comfortable two-story home provided for the cost of rent by Dr. Donald E. Sonius, a Twin Falls dentist whose office is next door to the home.

Anderson, a young man with the fervor of a shining faith, maintains a "hot line" for troubled teenagers, and, indeed, for anyone with problems.

Anyone may call 733-9898 day or night and talk with Anderson, or merely recite his problems to a sympathetic listener.

"Frequently, I won't say more than a few words; the person calling will tell me his problems in detail, then say that it was so good to have someone to talk to," the young man said. Anderson survived many troubled growing-up years during which he admittedly smoked marijuana and "dropped LSD" while attending college.

"I was searching for the answers; everybody around me was searching for the answers, and we tried everything. But the answers weren't there," Anderson said. "The answer to all of life's problems is in the Bible."

Anderson said he has discovered that "Drugs are a tool of the Devil, designed to lure kids away from life and the Bible."

He studied the Bible in depth and finally realized his true mission in life — to help others as he has been helped. Coming to Twin Falls from Hermiston, Ore., he looked for a "Christian Home," but found none. He returned to Hermiston, but was called back to Twin Falls recently to serve as host for the new facility.

Several backers, including Dr. T. J. Wilkes, Richard S. King and Don Lambert, formed a corporation, Christian Home of Magic Valley, Inc., with the "franchise" for all Idaho. Other Christian Homes are planned in Southern Idaho, Anderson said. The home serves as a gathering place for teenagers seeking a relaxed atmosphere and religious guidance. Group religious discussions termed "Bible raps" are conducted by Anderson at 7 p.m. each Monday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. More than 30 young people have attended these meetings, he said.

No services are scheduled on Sunday. "We don't want to discourage the young people from attending their own church," Anderson said. "We want them to attend, and to show others their new-found faith."

Several Twin Falls pastors have visited the Christian Home and have conferred with Anderson, but no church is formally sponsoring the facility, he emphasized.

"Some people have said we're a branch of this or that church, and that is not true; we are strictly non-denominational," he said.

Anderson lives in the house, with an extension telephone by his bedside for the "hot line." Donations from supporters pay the rent and utilities for the home. An anonymous donor provided a refrigerator for which Anderson expressed reverent thanks.

Furniture is needed for the Christian Home, Anderson said, and all donations are tax-deductible, since the corporation is strictly non-profit in its operations.

Half gospel not enough, he says

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

The chief heresy of contemporary Christianity is the notion that the church should be concerned either with social action or with personal piety. Both activists and pietists have fallen into this heresy, and their resulting squabble has almost torn the church apart. Today there are hopeful indications that some people on both sides of the divisive controversy are beginning to realize that half a gospel is not enough—no matter which half you choose. In the teaching of Jesus, personal piety prompted by love of God and social action prompted by love of mankind are not an either-or choice, but a both-and commandment. No Protestant denomination has been more deeply and aggressively involved in social action than the United Church of Christ. Its executive council met in New York last month to decide what concerns should get priority during the next few years. Predictably, the council agreed that local congregations of the United Church should continue working for racial justice and world peace. But top billing was given to "the faith crisis of modern man."

A spokesman said the decision to give top priority to theological inquiry was prompted by a conviction that "modern man needs a faith by which to live," and there is a serious question whether this fundamental need is being met in many contemporary churches.

Dr. Elton Trueblood, the Quaker philosopher, has put his finger on the basic danger of going overboard in either direction. In his book "The New Man for Our Time," he says that intense activism without a life of devotion produces damaging results, "one of which is calculated arrogance." On the other hand, an exclusive preoccupation with personal piety is equally bad because one cannot truly love Christ while "forgetting those whom Christ loves."

It is not a new point. Jesus said the same thing, over and over. But it will bear repetition in the climate of controversy that is currently demoralizing the church.

Parish hall planned

JEROME — Jerry Johnson, president of the Holy Name Society of St. Jerome's Catholic Church, said that the group is working on plans to construct a new parish hall at an estimated cost of $85,000.

Members of the committee are Bill Last, Vince Alberdi and Dick Marshall.

Johnson said the new hall will replace the present building which is the original St. Jerome Church. "It is not practical to add onto the existing structure," Johnson said.

Ivan Stone, Jerome architect, has made a preliminary drawing of the new hall and it is being studied by the committee. Johnson said that the organization hopes to start construction on the new building later this year.

He said that the church owns the necessary land for the new parish hall, which will be located at the same place the present building now stands. Contributions are presently being sought from members of the parish.

Johnson said that the reason for the new building is that the present facility is not adequate to take care of students enrolled in catechism classes at the present time and this fact along with the closure of St. Edward's School in Twin Falls has prompted the interest in providing the new hall.

The present hall will seat about 90 persons and although there are kitchen facilities, there is no classroom space, Johnson said.

Popular music out in Catholic church

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—"Here Comes the Bride" is out in Roman Catholic Churches from now on.

The Vatican's Department for Divine Worship has advised that this and other popular wedding music should be replaced by something more sacred.

The department advised in its monthly news letter "Notitiae" that priests should prohibit "certain profane music during marriage ceremonies, which have been introduced by custom but which hardly conform to the spirit of the liturgy."

"This applies especially to the wedding march of Mendelssohn and to that which Wagner composed for the opera "Lohengrin."

Richard Wagner's wedding march is the famous "Here Comes the Bride," a tune to which millions of couples have been married in both Roman Catholic and non-Catholic churches.

Special services continue

TWIN FALLS — Special services with Evangelist Lester Summers, Houston, Tex., will continue through May 2 at the Twin Falls First Assembly of God church.

Rev. Summers will speak Sunday morning and also at 7:30 p.m. on the "Rebirth of Israel." Meetings were held nightly at 7:45 p.m. during the week except Monday and Saturday, according to Rev. L. I. LaMance, pastor.

Themes of the speaker will be on prophecy and related subjects about the Charismatic Revival today. The public is invited.

League meets

FILER — Arlyn Meier was in charge of the opening devotional service of the Clover Walther League in the school after which Rev. T. D. Johnston directed the topic study.

Bonnie Gier, Ron Gihring and Janet Horton served refreshments. Marvin Gartner, Susan Burkhalter and Jeff Burkhalter were in charge of recreation.

Loyalty campaign starts

SHOSHONE — An annual loyalty campaign is being carried out by the Assembly of God Church here, running to May 30. Theme is "Live It Like It Says," which gives emphasis to the Bible as a key to Christian living.

Weekly themes will remind Christians of the statutes of the Bible, be humble, be concerned, be gentle, be just, be loving, be honest and be joyful.

The campaign is under direction of the Rev. Wesley Johnson, pastor.

Rev. Johnson says "first time visitors" to the Church Sunday school in 1971 will receive a copy of the New Testament translation, "Good News for Modern Man." Those who are present all seven Sundays during the campaign will also receive copies of the translation.

Slides shown to league

FILER — Rev. T. D. Johnston spoke on the topic "Easter" and showed an accompanying film strip to Peace Lutheran Woman's Missionary League members at a meeting in the church. Mrs. Ernest Thaeete was in charge of the opening devotional service.

The group decided to have a Mother's tea May 5 and invite all the ladies of the congregation. The drive for good used clothing is still continuing and people having clothing they wish to donate may bring it to the church.

Spring confab slated

KING HILL — The spring presbyterial of the United Presbyterian women is scheduled for May 16 at the Caldwell church, it was announced by Mrs. Nathan Miller, president of the King Hill group, at the April meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Jones.

Mrs. Miller was in charge of the program, assisted by Mrs. E. B. Lawson, Mrs. H. J. McKee, Mrs. Karl Carnahan, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Arthur Greer.

Mrs. Carnahan used "The Pruning" by Akayo Hino of Japan for the ceremony of the least coin and reminded members of the Shirley Jones scholarship and urged subscriptions to Concern magazine.

The 1971 sewing quota was reviewed. The prayer cycle, using the Federal Republic of Cameroon for the ecumenical section and a Kansas institution for the national selection, was given by Mrs. Miller.

Mrs. Lawson read selections about work of Sak Bayeme in Cameroon for the Christian education report. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. McKee.

Wristwatch issued for Jesus People

ANAHEIM, Calif. — With the recent innovation of Agnew, Nixon and Reagan wristwatches, a prominent Anaheim, Calif., drug prevention group has just issued a "Jesus People" wristwatch for Christians.

The timepiece known as the "Witness Watch" is produced by the Melodyland Drug Prevention Center. It is made in Switzerland by six Swiss watch factories and retails for $14.95 which includes a two year guarantee. The four color watch face carries the words — "Jesus People" along with other copy indicating that the Jesus Movement is for youth and that Jesus is the only way and the only way for youth to solve their hang-ups.

"The watch was created because we feel it is an effective tool for young people in their Christian witnessing programs and activities," said George Wakeling, director of the Melodyland Drug Prevention Center. "It is probably the first caricature watch to come on the market which really has true significant symbolic value to a Christian."

AEC negotiating with firm

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The Atomic Energy Commission says it is entering into negotiations with Aerojet General Corporation and Allied Chemical Corporation for operation of facilities at the National Reactor Testing Station.

The AEC's current contract with Idaho Nuclear Corporation expires June 30 and the firm has advised the AEC it does not wish to continue as the operating contractor.

Idaho Nuclear was formed in 1966 as a joint venture of Aerojet and Allied and in 1969 the ownership of the corporation was reconstituted to include Phillips Petroleum Company.

The AEC said it will negotiate with Aerojet, the majority stockholder and managing partner of Idaho Nuclear, for the prime contractor role which includes major responsibility for activities at the NRTS.

The Idaho chemical processing plant would be the primary responsibility of Allied as a sub-contractor to Aerojet, the AEC said.

The change in contractual arrangements at the NRTS would not be expected to affect employment levels, the AEC said. Employees would be transferred from Idaho Nuclear to the new contractor and every effort would be made in accordance with AEC policy to see that personnel benefits, including pension rights, are protected.

Girl wins bicycle

JEROME — Christie Tillett, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Tillett, Jerome, received first prize of a bicycle in a special attendance contest sponsored by the United Pentecostal Church, according to Rev. A. W. Baker.

He termed the program successful and said it had increased church membership and attendance by about 35 per cent. Receiving Bibles for outstanding work in the church program were Deanne Butler, Leonard Luper, Ryan Roberts, Anita Butler, Phillip Hamsher, Deena Hamsher, Sammy Davis, Christie Davis, Melody Mitchell and Sherry Owens.

Nicklaus, Barber share first round lead in rich tourney

Indiana blasts Utah to keep series alive

ANDERSON, Ind. (UPI)—The Indiana Pacers Thursday night overpowered Utah, 127-109, to keep alive their hopes for the American Basketball Association's Western Division title.

Bogs posts lackluster decision

COPENHAGEN (UPI)—Tom Bogs of Denmark looked anything but a title contender when he jabbed his way to an easy ten-round decision Thursday night against a tame and unimpressive Art Hernandez of Omaha, Neb.

The blond Danish bricklayer, who has his sights on Carlos Monzon's world middleweight title, won every round except the first and fifth. But he completely lacked a destructive punch despite having by far the longer reach and superior physique.

Hernandez, 30, enjoyed a nine-pound weight advantage when he tipped the scales at 172 pounds although the agreed limit was 163. He shrugged his shoulders and claimed Bogs, who weighed exactly 163 pounds, had also broken the rules by coming 15 minutes late.

Sox erase errors, top Brewers

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—A three-run homer run by Carlos May in the eighth inning counteracted four Chicago errors Thursday to give the White Sox a 4-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

May's homer, his first of the season, came with two out and scored Lee Richard and Mike Andrews to give White Sox starter Tom Bradley his second successive win.

Stanford leads meet

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Tom Watson of Kansas City fired a four-under-par 67 Thursday to propel his Stanford University teammates into the first-round lead of the U.S. Collegiate Golf Invitational.

Watson had six birdies and two bogeys to finish two strokes ahead of a field of 192 players from 32 schools in the 54-hole event.

Gary Vanier, Watson's teammate and defending individual champion, was nine shots off the pace with a 76.

Only other golfer to break par on the first day was Clem Richardson of the Stanford junior varsity who shot a two-under 69.

Pat McDonald of U.S. International University of San Diego finished at even-par 71 for third place.

In a four-way tie for fourth with 73 were Mark Ryan of Stanislaus State, Steven Johnson of the University of Washington, Dave Christensen of San Fernando Valley State and Mike Sheely of San Diego State.

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Light heavyweight champion Bob Foster and challenger Ray Anderson have completed their training for Saturday night's title fight and both predict a win by a knockout.

Anderson wound up his training Thursday by sparring two rounds with Len Huchins. Foster finished his sparring Wednesday and went through some loosening up exercises Thursday.

"I'm not worried about Bob Foster," the talkative Anderson said. "But I won't say I don't respect him. I respect anyone with gloves on."

day. Snapping a two-game losing streak to the Stars, who outclassed the defending ABA champions in their two games at Salt Lake City last Saturday and Tuesday, the Pacers broke open what started out as a tight ball game in the second period by outscoring Utah 39-19 to take a 67-49 halftime lead.

Indiana led 93-75 going into the final period, and the closest Utah got was 14 points.

Indiana's balanced scoring attack was built around Bob Netolicky with 29 points, Mel Daniels with 27 points and 26 rebounds, Roger Brown with 23 points and Billy Keller's 22.

Willie Wise led Utah with 21 points, Zelmo Beaty canned 40, and Urv Jackson hit 19.

Records in trouble in relays

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)—With a host of potential Olympic starts on hand, the 62nd annual Drake relays gets under way here today.

The last of the big three spring relays offers a potential of 13 American and world records to be set, with the number increasing to 24, track officials said, if the weather is good.

On hand will be four world record holders, most notably Ralph Mann of Brigham Young and the Texas A&M 880-yard relay team.

The Drake Tartan track is not new to Mann.

It was here he won the relays 440-yard intermediate hurdles last year, then returned in June to capture his world record.

With both the Texas and Kansas relays behind, Mann will be making his last try for a spring track title.

Leading the Aggie's relay contingent will be Curtis Mills, who set a world mark in the 440-yard dash last year and was a member of the 880-yard relay team when that world mark fell.

Mel Gray, a two-time winner in the 100-yard dash will offer some stiff competition to Willie McGee of Alcorn A&M. McGee is the holder of a pending 9.1 world record in the spring event.

Clay-Wilt fiasco postponed because Wilt wants more $

HOUSTON (UPI)—Wilt Chamberlain, the pro basketball great, threw a knockout punch into a proposed heavyweight fight between himself and former champion Mohammed Ali Thursday by demanding a tax-free guarantee of $500,000.

Chamberlain, who was supposed to make his pro boxing debut in the Astrodome July 26, originally had agreed to fight for $500,000 or 25 per cent of the gross receipts, but decided a few minutes before the contract signing ceremonies Thursday that he wanted the sum after taxes.

Jack O'Connell, president of the group promoting the fight, said he would have to reassess the anticipated revenues before he could make such a concession to the 7 foot, 2 inch, 275-pound Chamberlain.

All, only 6-2, 215, appeared at the 3 p.m. news conference for the scheduled contract signing on time and freely discussed the upcoming fight, unaware of problems between O'Connell and Chamberlain.

Chamberlain and his attorney, Seymour Goldberg of Los Angeles, met with O'Connell at 12:45 p.m. and Chamberlain's accountant, Allan Levitt, also of Los Angeles, arrived by helicopter to join the meeting at 3 p.m.

After 75 minutes of discussions, O'Connell emerged and announced the postponement.

O'Connell said Levitt had advised Chamberlain to ask for the added concessions because of Chamberlain's income-tax status.

O'Connell said there was a 50-50 chance they could still work out the problems, but because reporters were waiting, he did not feel it was proper to continue negotiations at this time.

All was offered a $1 million guarantee or 45 per cent of the receipts for the fight. All, 29, lost a heavyweight fight to Joe Frazier last month.

All said 60 per cent of his purse would be taken by the government in income tax.

He said he was accepting the fight because there were no other worthy opponents in the heavyweight ranks.

"Who would come to see me fight Jimmy Ellis, Floyd Patterson or George Chuavalo?" Ali asked.

He said Chamberlain was worthy because of his "tremendous strength." He said he had been told a story about Chamberlain lifting up the end of a car so a tire could be changed.

"This is the world's greatest and strongest athlete," Ali said before the fight was cancelled.

"This ain't gonna be no ordinary fight."

All said Chamberlain was a more skillful boxer than Joe Frazier. "He's only a puncher and hooker," All said of Frazier.

"This fight will put me in an awkward situation," All said. "A man with such height, power and reach don't have to get sharp. He just has to hit you once with all that power. Wilt's fist is twice as big as mine."

L.A. owner opposed ring bout

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Los Angeles Lakers, said Thursday that he is opposed to having the club's star center, 7-foot-2 Wilt Chamberlain, fight former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali on July 26 in Houston's Astrodome.

"I'm not in favor of Wilt's engaging in the bout for two reasons," said Cooke, who also put up the money for the $5-million in guarantees last month when Ali lost to heavyweight champion Joe Frazier.

"First, Wilt is not a qualified boxer, and it may develop into a carnival sideshow. Second, he may be injured, impairing his tremendous basketball skill to the detriment of himself and his Laker teammates."

However, Cooke added, "At no time during our discussions did I forbid him to fight."

Chamberlain's contract with the Lakers expired and is currently being negotiated. The 34-year-old Chamberlain is still bound to the Lakers by the reserve clause, which has a year left to run.

Wiechers leads at Tallahassee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—Burlly Jim Wiechers shot an eight-under-par 64 Thursday to lead a hot Tallahassee Open first round before rain delayed play twice and eventually halted it.

Play was called at 6:15 p.m. with 24 players still on the 7,124-yard Killbuck Country Club course. The 24 golfers will resume their rounds Friday morning.

Wiechers, whose round equalled a course record, had the advantage of near-perfect weather in the morning as did Bert Yancey and Bob Dickson, who finished in a four-way tie for second with six-under-par 66s.

Afternoon players Gay Gay Brewer and youngster Randy Wolff joined Dickson and Yancey at 66.

Brewer was playing with Lee Trevino and Mike Hill, the last threesome to finish the round before the rains came. Trevino missed a short putt for a bogey on 18 and finished three-under at 69.

In all, 67 players shot under par. Tee and pin placements were credited for the low scores over the usually difficult par 72 layout.

Ben Kern, Alvin Odom and Wayne Volkmer had 67s. At 68 were Jack Lewis, Labron Harris, Rod Funsteh, Chuck Courtney, Rod Curl, Bobby Greenwood, Jim Jamieson, Hubert Green and Ted Hayes.

Wiechers was highly pleased with his record-tying round of 32-32-64. It included four birdies on each of the nine holes and no bogeys.

He said the key to the round was the 15th hole where he drove into the woods, but scrambled back out and sank a six-foot putt for par. He then birdied the 16th and 17th holes, giving him the lead.

Blue wins fourth for California

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Oakland batted around in the fifth inning to score five runs as Vida Blue became the first four-game winner in the American League Thursday night when the A's scored a 7-3 victory over the California Angels.

The A's drove Angel starter Andy Messersmith from the mound in the fifth with the second loss against one win. Messersmith gave up six hits and was charged with seven runs.

Blue allowed five hits and struck out nine men in his complete game victory. It was the A's third straight win here.

 Opening lead—♠ Q

How does he go about getting four diamond tricks? One way is to slap the ace on the table. If the singleton king drops he will be home. A better way is to finesse against the king so he must lead a diamond from dummy.

Which one should he lead? The answer is the nine. If the king covers, well and good. If the king doesn't cover he repeats the finesse with the jack and plays the 10 from his hand. This makes it possible for him to lead diamonds from dummy for the third time. Had he started by playing the jack he would not have been able to repeat the finesse the third time and East would have saved his king.

A simple play indeed, but one that is frequently missed.

Your partner opens one club. What do you do with:
 ♠ 7 5 4 3 ♥ 8 6 3 2 ♦ A K Q ♣ 7 4
 Answer Tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's very simple hand is taken from Dorothy Hayden's book, "Winning Declarer Play."

The bidding is straightforward. North doesn't bother with his six-card club suit because his ace and jack don't indicate any slam possibilities.

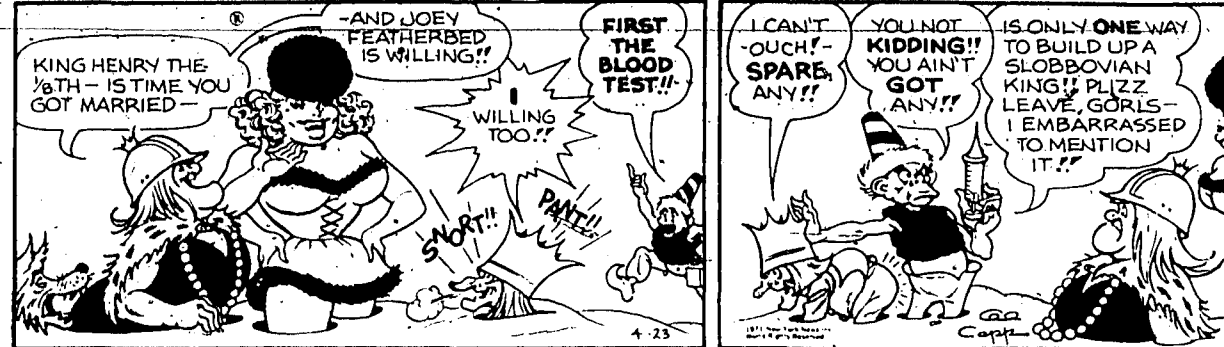

South wins the spade lead in dummy. He has no choice. Then he looks longingly at that six-card club suit, but sees that there is just about no chance to do anything with it. Then where can he get nine tricks?

He starts with two spades, two hearts, a club and some diamonds. If he can bring in all four diamonds he will have his nine. If not he will be down one.

Defend yourself.

Hedging is a way to protect your business against unfavorable prices whether you're a seller or buyer of cattle, hogs, beef, pork, potatoes, eggs, lumber or milo.

Hedging is the manly art of self defense, applied to economics.

Hedging commodity futures is what the Chicago Mercantile Exchange offers you—and it's very inexpensive. For instance, you can hedge a carload of live hogs (30,000 pounds) for a minimum commission of $35. Other commissions are similarly low.

If your business involves any of the commodities mentioned above, call the commodity man at your broker's. Ask him how you can defend yourself.

Or write to us.
