Jerome gets giant Tupperware factory

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer
JEROME — The efforts of a number of Magic Valley civic leaders for several years to gain a new industry for the north side have proven successful, with the announcement that the manufacturers of Tupperware will locate a $5 million factory one mile south of Jerome.

330,000 square-foot factory employing 450 people at the outset along the railroad tracks south of Jerome, along Highway 79. John Ansley, Orlando, Fla., president of Tupperware International, said construction will begin "before July 1" this year, with completion within a year.

Tupperware is planning to offer. The plant will be located on about 90 acres of land owned by Jerome physicians Dr. Charles Parker and Dr. Wesley Rose, who sold the land to Tupperware for an undisclosed price believed in excess of $1,000 per acre.

shipment of raw materials and finished products, Ansley said. The plant will be similar in construction to the Tupperware facility at Halls, Tenn., and would be Idaho's largest single manufacturing plant.

region, including Idaho, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, North Dakota and South Dakota.

'Made in Jerome'

TUPPERWARE products such as this will be manufactured at the firm's new Magic Valley factory to be located south of Jerome on a 90-acre tract near Union Pacific trackage. The firm sells a wide variety of household items and plastic toys, and plans to add new lines, which will be produced at Jerome.

President sets TV war reply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon was expected to make his first public response tonight to a new round of public protests against his Indochina war policies.

Maiming suspect innocent

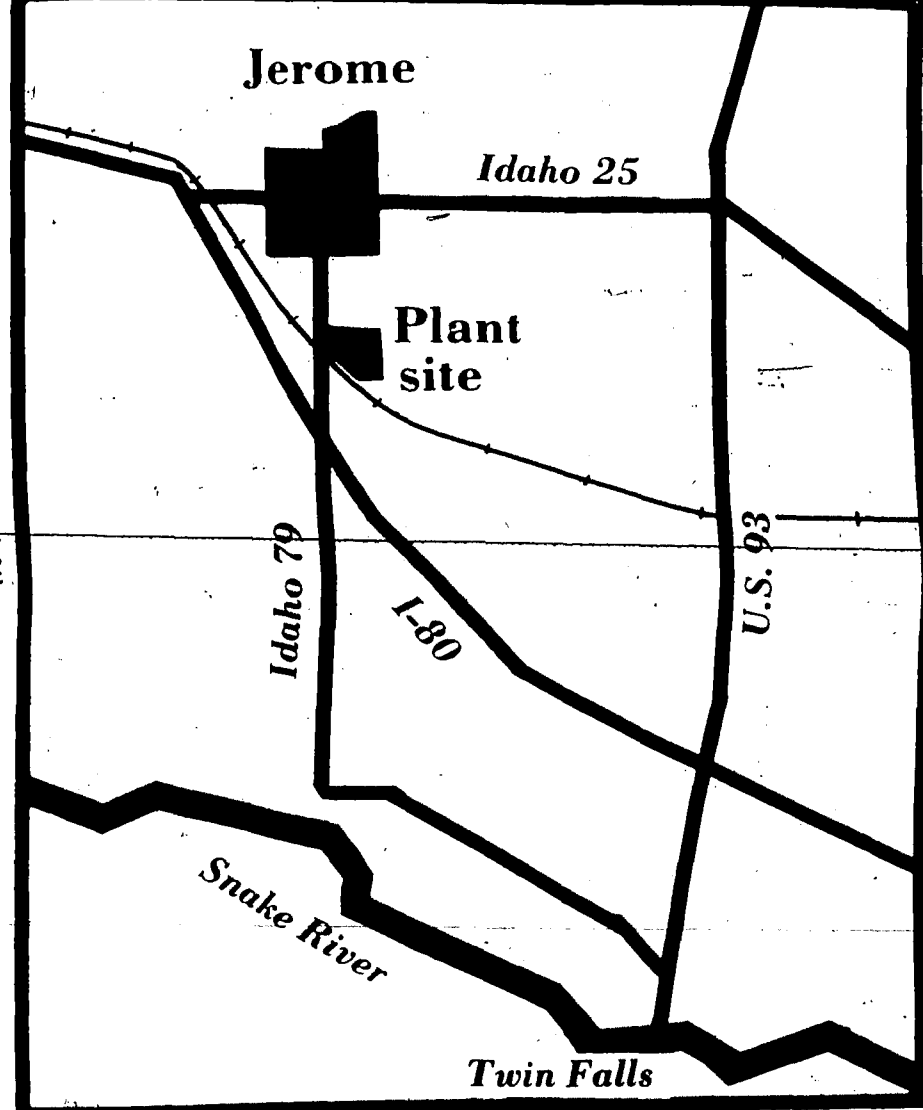

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI) — A jury of seven officers today found Army Capt. Eugene M. Kotouc innocent of charges he maimed a Viet Cong suspect near My Lai by cutting off his finger.

The jury returned its verdict at 12:01 p.m. EDT after only an hour and five minutes of deliberations. The jury rang a bell in the courtroom, indicating it had a request. Observers thought they wanted to go to lunch.

When the officers—all but one a combat veteran—trooped back inside the tiny courtroom, Col. Madison Wright, the judge, inquired if they had reached a verdict.

Maintain pressure

SAIGON (UPI) — B-52s struck in Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam for the second consecutive day today, concentrating most of their bombs on the A Shau Valley where a force of South Vietnamese moving in cautiously on the Communist sanctuary found a major stockpile of arms.

Factory location

NEW TUPPERWARE factory will be located a half-mile north of Interstate 80 and a mile south of the Jerome city limits, along the Union Pacific tracks and State Highway 79. The land on which the factory will be built is owned by Drs. Charles Parker and Wesley Rose.

Tupperware claims to be the world's largest manufacturer of plastic housewares, with plants in many countries, including Japan, Australia, Belgium, Greece, Mexico, the Union of South Africa, Spain, England and Canada. The firm has only three other factories in the United States and 11 overseas.

The decision to locate the new plant in Jerome culminates efforts of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce and the Jerome Development Corporation, in cooperation with the Idaho Department of Commerce and Development and many Magic Valley businessmen.

Representatives of Tupperware visited the area in the fall of 1969, conducting a survey of the labor market and shipping facilities. Gov. Cecil D. Andrus was acclaimed for providing vital assistance after he was elected governor, Ansley said.

Plant impact cited

JEROME — The impact of a new factory: For each 100 new employees who reside in the City of Jerome, the water department will have to pump 80,000 more gallons of water each day; the schools will have to absorb 100 new pupils, and there will be 107 more cars on the streets — with places needed to park them.

These statistics, issued by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, point to the strong impact of a new factory which brings new jobs to a community. The Tupperware factory plans to employ 450 persons at the outset, and anticipates maximum employment of 900 within a few years.

For each 100 new employees brought into a community, grocery store sales will increase $70,000 per year; eating and drinking establishments will have $30,000 more income; department stores will see $45,000 more in sales; clothing and shoe stores will have an increase of $25,000; auto dealers will enjoy $50,000 more in sales; gas stations will do $20,000 more business; lumber yards and building-material dealers will boom by $15,000 and other stores will do $105,000 more business, for a total retail sales increase per year of $380,000.

Each 100 new workers residing in the community will bring in a total of 284 new people to the city, with family members and others; 112 more households will be formed and bank deposits would increase by $270,000. Personal income to the city will rise by a total of $580,000 for each 100 workers, pointing to a total payroll for 900 workers of over $5 million per year.

Each 100 employees will bring 167 new vehicles to the city; four new retail stores will be built; and 178 new workers will find jobs in the city, making the new stores.

Go-between asked for prisoner aid

PARIS (UPI) — The United States and Saigon asked the Communists today to name a third party organization or country to handle the welfare and repatriation of prisoners of war in Vietnam. Stockholm reports indicated Sweden was willing if asked.

Andrus worried by 'underfunding'

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil Andrus told Twin Falls Rotarians Wednesday that the Legislature was "reasonably successful" but had left important programs such as health and education underfunded.

The problem is made worse, he said, because the state is in a "money crunch."

He was particularly critical of the legislators refusal to accept his proposal to hold at 15 per cent the fraction of sales tax money returned to localities as a replacement for the phased-out inventory tax.

The legislature had overruled the governor's request during the session to keep the sales tax refund to localities at the 20 per cent that had been programmed during previous sessions.

Andrus told the Rotarians that the 15 per cent compensated the local units of government for the money they had lost in the inventory tax phase-out, and that addition of the extra five per cent drained money from the state.

Andrus said the money would be best spent by the state rather than the localities because it could be directed toward education.

against a Southeast Asia Treaty Organisation (SEATO) communique blaming the Communists for stalling the Paris talks.

There was no immediate explanation if the offer of Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong chief delegate, to stop shooting at non-hostile GIs in fact constituted an offer of a general cease-fire in Vietnam.

She made the statement in the context of a Viet Cong announcement that the Communists would not attack U.S. troops "opposed to the war and who abstain from hostile actions."

The proposals coincided with Stockholm reports that Sweden already had held informal talks with the United States concerning possible repatriation of prisoners and had discussed the question in informal contacts with Hanoi diplomats.

He stressed that failure to adequately fund state-level programs throws the burden of taxation on the local political units. (See related stories P. 3)

Limited pact now 'enough'

By United Press International
Diplomatic sources in London said today the United States, and to a lesser degree, Britain, have agreed to try for a limited agreement in the Middle East because a comprehensive settlement has become improbable.

UPI diplomatic correspondent K. C. Thaler said the Soviet Union still insists on a comprehensive settlement but is not blocking Secretary of State William P. Rogers' efforts at compromise because Moscow is interested in an early opening of the Suez Canal.

Rogers and British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home and their top advisers consulted on the peace moves in London this week before Rogers left for a tour of five Mideast capitals.

Andrus worried by 'underfunding'

TWIN FALLS — Gov. Cecil Andrus told Twin Falls Rotarians Wednesday that the 41st Legislature was "reasonably successful" but had left important programs such as health and education underfunded.

The problem is made worse, he said, because the state is in a "money crunch."

Andrus told the Rotarians that the 15 per cent compensated the local units of government for the money they had lost in the inventory tax phase-out, and that addition of the extra five per cent drained money from the state.

Andrus said the money would be best spent by the state rather than the localities because it could be directed toward education.

He said the 20 per cent refund to the localities will be about $9.2 million dollars — about $3.4 million more than needed to compensate for loss of inventory tax revenues.

contains what he called "soft money."

He said the amount of money projected by the legislature as receipts to the department from such sources as fees charged to patients may be up to a half million dollars short of actual collections.

He said shortages may cause cutbacks: "We had hoped to implement regional health centers," he said.

"Because of funding," he said, the state was unable to do so.

"I only hope we can survive with some of these programs until the legislature meets," he said.

"We are in the money crunch. Ours is worse than many states, because we had been living off surpluses."

He stressed that failure to adequately fund state-level programs throws the burden of taxation on the local political units.

Airport rate hike proposed

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Twin Falls City-County Airport Commission Wednesday recommended rental and use rates be increased at the field, with the exception of charges made to general aviation hangar tenants.

By a vote of three to two the commissioners refused to recommend rate increases for the hangar tenants after Jean Millar, city manager, told them there would be no money available this year to put asphalt matting in front and in the area of these hangars.

Bill Powel, vice-chairman of the airport commission, said he would not support a rate proposal increase "unless we can actually do something for these renters and do it this year." When the matter of recommending the various rate increases came to a vote Powel, O. A. (Gus) Kelker, commission chairman, and George Colner voted against with Armour Anderson and William Bosworth voting in favor.

On motion of Bosworth the proposed recommended increases for general aviation tenants was deleted and the rate proposals then passed unanimously. By passage the board members have now asked the city council and the county commissioners to approve the rate increases as suggested. All are by lease and will be taken up with individuals and firms when lease changes come up. The airport commission had recommended that an item of $12,000 by included in the current budget for general aviation area asphalt matting but this was deleted at the time the city commission adopted their budget. The airport officers had anticipated that the raise in general aviation rates would pay for this improvement over a period of time.

Commission members also discussed long-range proposals for airport upgrading but no final action was taken. Chairman Kelker said the general aviation hangar rental proposals would be studied in more detail before any recommendation is made.

Army sets death probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. Army spokesmen say they intend to probe the report of a former enlisted man that an American squad killed 30 women and children in a Vietnamese village in April, 1969.

The story was told Wednesday to an unofficial House war crimes committee by Danny Spencer Notley, 23, of St. Paul, Minn., who said he was a member of a 10-man Americal Division squad which entered the village of Troung Kanh No. 2 in Vietnam's Quang Ngai province April 19, 1969. The province was the scene of the My Lai massacre.

Notley, a journalism student at the University of Minnesota, said that although the Americans met no hostile fire they began "shooting women and kids" ... they didn't say anything, they were just shooting.

Notley testified he tried to fire into the ground. He said the incident was brought to the attention of the lieutenant colonel who commanded his battalion but the officer did nothing about it. A Pentagon spokesman said the army would "make every attempt to contact Notley and elicit a statement from him."

He said Notley's story appeared on the surface to warrant an investigation because it contained so many specifics. The unofficial committee, made up of 10 House liberals and headed by Freshman Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., is attempting to force a full-scale congressional inquiry into alleged war crimes by U.S. servicemen.

John Cutter, a public relations spokesman for the Chevrolet division, said GM was unaware how 29 cases of microfilm disappeared from one of its warehouses.

Two suburban scrap dealers, Floyd Avery and Kenneth Simpson, discovered last month they had 19 of the cardboard boxes. The two said GM bought the 19 boxes to keep them from falling into the hands of Ralph Nader, the consumer protectionist who has been especially critical of alleged safety defects in the Corvair.

However, Cutter said Wednesday GM actually had only 16 of the 29, leaving 13 cartons still missing. The microfilmed letters were from 1964 to 1965, the peak years of Nader's attack on the Corvair? Cutter said, however, the letters were "a cross section of the type of owners correspondence which is normal in this business" and did not contain an unusual number about the Corvair.

He said some counties—such as Ada and Canyon—have chosen to expand the staffs of their assessor's offices.

But he said Gem, Washington, Valley, Bingham Bannock, Caribou and Bear Lake have signed contracts with private appraisers.

Ketchum founding told to Buhl club

BUHL — The story of the founding of Ketchum and the part played by Isaac I. Lewis, one of the first settlers of that area, was told Wednesday as O. A. (Gus) Kelker, editor of the Times-News, spoke to members of the Kiwanis Club.

It was the first exchange of money on what is now the site of Ketchum. He erected the first structure on the site—a tent—and then surveyed the town.

Kelker explained that the diary Lewis wrote will be printed in more detail in a forthcoming Progress Edition to be printed at the Times-News.

Kelker, a former trustee of the Idaho Historical Society and also a past president of the Twin Falls County Historical Society, read excerpts from the diary Mr. Lewis wrote in 1891 and 1892.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Fred A. Kallusky.

Corvair mystery deepens

DETROIT (UPI) — Thirteen cases of microfilm containing copies of complaint letters about the Corvair and other Chevrolet products, similar to those General Motors Corp. bought back from a pair of scrap dealers for $20,000, were reported still missing today.

John Cutter, a public relations spokesman for the Chevrolet division, said GM was unaware how 29 cases of microfilm disappeared from one of its warehouses.

Two suburban scrap dealers, Floyd Avery and Kenneth Simpson, discovered last month they had 19 of the cardboard boxes. BOISE (UPI) — State Tax Commissioner Luther Passmore says some counties are hiring professional appraising firms to do their tax appraisals rather than using deputy assessors.

Passmore said at least seven counties have hired private firms to do all or part of that work and eventually he believes the majority of the state's 44 counties will do so.

He said some counties—such as Ada and Canyon—have chosen to expand the staffs of their assessor's offices. But he said Gem, Washington, Valley, Bingham Bannock, Caribou and Bear Lake have signed contracts with private appraisers.

Britons to buy new 'bus'

LONDON (UPI)—Lockheed Chairman Daniel Haughton said today British European Airways (BEA) will probably buy Lockheed's new TriStar jet airbus.

"I am pleased to say that they are sending a team over to fly the aircraft, probably in May," Haughton told newsmen before returning to the United States. "They are still evaluating but I think we have a good chance of their contract."

Haughton said his two days of talks in London increased the chances that the TriStar will be equipped with Rolls Royce RB211 engines, as originally planned.

"We are going ahead (with the project)—make no mistake about it," he said. "I was optimistic when I arrived in London and I'm very optimistic now."

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus created by executive order Wednesday a nine-member Governor's Advisory Council on Mexican-American Affairs.

Andrus said the Mexican-Americans "represent a large and important segment of our population," but said too often they were "not properly heard and poorly represented in matters of concern to them and the state of Idaho."

Andrus said the commission would advise the governor on means to develop better communications between Mexican-American people and all governmental agencies, eliminate discrimination and misunderstanding, and make governmental agencies and programs more responsive to the needs of the Mexican-American people.

Andrus said the nine members would be appointed by and would serve at the pleasure of the governor.

GOV. CECIL D. ANDRUS signs autographs for students after his appearance at Twin Falls High School Wednesday afternoon. The students questioned the governor closely on his stand on a wide variety of questions ranging from the draft to abortion — to which Andrus voiced unwavering opposition.

T.F. high students quiz Andrus closely

By LEE TREMAINE

TWIN FALLS — An attentive audience of students at Twin Falls High School questioned Gov. Cecil D. Andrus closely on the draft, crowd-control legislation and the economy Wednesday afternoon, then gave Idaho's chief executive a rousing standing ovation at the conclusion of his half-hour appearance.

The students, respectful and listening carefully, applauded enthusiastically when Gov. Andrus declared that he favors an all-volunteer army in place of the draft, and were equally enthusiastic when he declared that he vetoed the crowd-control legislation.

The issue was raised with the first question asked, when a student asked why "you passed" a bill to clamp string controls on large crowds — a measure aimed specifically at preventing large "rock festivals."

Andrus answered that "Yes, the legislature did pass such a bill. But I vetoed it." After the prolonged applause from the students, he explained that he felt the bill violated the intent of the Idaho Constitution, which gave local governmental units, such as cities and counties, authority to control crowds. The governor was again applauded loudly when he pledged that "If they pass such a bill again, I will veto it again!"

Andrus spoke briefly to the audience of about two-thirds of the high school student body Wednesday afternoon, encouraging them to take an interest in government and in the fundamentals of citizenship.

The 18-year-old vote is likely to be approved as an amendment to the U. S. Constitution, Andrus said; and this gives each teen-ager a chance to "make yourself heard. Make your vote count."

He warned the students that "If our generation fumbles, you are going to have to pick up the pieces." He asked them to "participate from within; if you have the right to vote, let your voice be heard."

Commending his campaign workers, Andrus pointed out that "I'm living proof that young people do count. If it were not for young people working in my campaign, I wouldn't be here today."

Andrus offered a first-hand demonstration of the power of the teen-age vote, saying that "I've been told you're mine until 3:15 (regular time for dismissal of classes). But I'll give you a chance to vote ... how many want to be out of here by 3 o'clock?" The students, after a pause, clapped loudly. Then when he asked, "Now, how many want to stay until 3:20? there was silence."

"All right; you've voted, and I'll have you out of here by 3 o'clock," Andrus said. He kept his word, cutting off the questions precisely at that time.

In response to a flurry of questions from the eager, interested students, Andrus favored "administrative consolidation" of school districts in Idaho, but spoke against "consolidation of classrooms," saying the public wasn't ready for that move at this time. He explained that there are too many small, independent school districts for efficient administration, and that unifying the operation of smaller units would be advantageous. He explained, in answer to a question on pollution timetables, that large companies facing governmental controls on waste products must limit their spending in any one year; the state cannot require full compliance within a year or two, as that would be economically impossible.

Explaining the status of Chester (Chet) Moulton, state director of aeronautics who has been forced to resign, Andrus said state employees are listed as "exempt" and "classified." One class of executives cannot be discharged except through a formal procedure, while the other class, which includes the "top honchos of our government," serves strictly at the pleasure of the governor.

Andrus said the Moulton ouster was "the action of the aeronautics commission," but did not explain it further.

Blaye applauded

TWIN FALLS — John Blaye, student-body president at Twin Falls High School, was accorded a standing ovation by the students at the close of Gov. Andrus' appearance Wednesday afternoon, when the governor commended "Idaho's outstanding teen-ager."

The governor complimented the students for the "excellence" of the entire Magic Valley, saying that "I came here to honor Idaho's Mother of the Year (Helen Henderson), and find Idaho's outstanding teen-ager right here in your own school."

After a brief silence, a student in the audience asked "Who is he?" Andrus, a bit puzzled, asked "You mean you don't know?" Several students replied, "No, we don't!" "He's right here in your own school — John Blaye, your student body president," Andrus replied.

Blaye, who had introduced Andrus, came forward, and was accorded a standing ovation by the entire student body, to his apparent embarrassment.

Blaye was nominated as an "outstanding teen-ager" in a statewide competition for his service to the school and his scholarship.

Scores hit

TWIN FALLS — Senior citizens and agency representatives of Magic Valley adopted a 35-item policy statement calling for improved income, tax relief, educational programs and expanded medical and insurance programs for the aged, during a meeting in Twin Falls Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting, called by the local Senior Citizens Agency to prepare for a White House Conference on Aging May 28 in Boise, and the November national conference in Washington, D.C., was attended by about 75 senior citizens and representatives of agencies serving these citizens. It was in the Episcopal Church. Ray Pruett, director, Senior Citizen Agency, and Jack Carlton, Social Security Agency, both Twin Falls, conducted the meeting. Twelve area delegates to the Boise meeting representing all counties and agencies were tentatively selected. Carlton read 36 policy recommendations for a yes or no vote followed by open discussion of each. Those attending turned down only one recommendation — the suggestion of a national health insurance program to cover everyone of all ages. Instead, they proposed such assistance be limited to those who need such assistance. They endorsed recommendations for tax relief including reducing or eliminating property tax for the elderly and revising of the income tax program to exempt retirement and pension payments on which the individual paid tax at the time of earning and is often required to make a second payment at the time of collecting. Senior citizens attending the meeting indicated their desire to retain independence by endorsing proposals for housing assistance to maintain and repair their own homes rather than be provided with new federal housing.

They also supported better overall income and food programs rather than assistance in selected nutritious foods and free services. They called for increased Social Security payments, broadening Medicare to cover dental and eye care and asked for regulations on insurance coverage to force insuring firms to maintain policies after the insured reaches age 65. As for forced retirement at age 65, most of those attending voted to withdraw the requirement "as long as the individual is physically and mentally capable." The recommendation made no designation as to how the decision would be made on the capability. A recommendation for a gradual increase in Social Security and other income to bring the senior citizen's monthly income to the same amount he was earning before retirement received a cool reception but another to provide a minimum combined income to meet poverty standards as set by the government for all persons was approved. Recommendations further called for the inclusion of funds to cover transportation in all senior citizen programs federally supported. Many of the programs, Pruett said, are not reaching those who need them most because they are unable to go from their homes to the program centers. Senior residents recommended all federally financed buildings be architecturally designed with wheel chair ramps, hand rails and other benefits needed by aging or invalid persons. Policy recommendations were submitted by a committee of senior citizens and agency directors and drafted by students at the College of Southern Idaho. Delegates to the Boise meeting will include four to five members from the policy making committee, Carlton said.

Gem Mother of Year lauded during luncheon on her day

TWIN FALLS — Residents of all parts of Idaho, led by Gov. Cecil Andrus, met at the Holiday Inn Wednesday to observe Helen Henderson Day in honor of Idaho's Mother of the Year. Mrs. Henderson, Idaho youth rehabilitation officer for Twin Falls County and resident of Filer, received an official state proclamation in her honor from Gov. Andrus. He attended the luncheon arranged by the Lions Club briefly before leaving for two other speaking engagements. Mrs. Henderson will leave at 7 a.m. Monday by airliner for New York City where she will represent Idaho in the American Mother of the Year contest. She outlined briefly the schedule of activities for the week's visit in New York, noting a luncheon Friday, May 7, will conclude with the announcement of the national winner. Floyd Miller, program chairman for the Lions Club, introduced special guests including a number of former

Idaho Mothers of the Year who came from several other parts of the state as well as Magic Valley areas to help honor the 1971 title holder. Mrs. C. H. Higer, Emmett, state chairman, explained the qualifications for the contest and Helen Wilson, Boise, committee member, outlined plans for continuing the event in cooperation with Lions Clubs in the state. Gifts presented Mrs. Henderson included a dozen long-stemmed red roses from Twin Falls County, given by County Commission Chairman W. L. (Bill) Chancey; a check from the Idaho Mothers Association and another from the Filer Kiwanis Club, and gifts from the sponsoring Lions Club and the city of Filer.

WASHINGTON — Because everybody eats and few American voters have a food budget as substantial as Mrs. Jackie Onassis', President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers privately is not as sanguine as its public utterances suggest about the latest "good news" on the inflation front.

Quite naturally, Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the CEA hailed the figures showing that the climb in consumer prices receded to the lowest rate in four years during the first quarter of 1971. Unfortunately, however, the nine-tenths of one per cent increase in food prices contributed two-thirds of the overall three-tenths of one per cent rise in March. Almost every item on the American table went up — meat, fish, dairy products, poultry, fruits and vegetables. The price of truffles remained stable.

Politically, this is bad news, especially since prices also rose in men's apparel and all footwear. As every office-seeker knows, the electorate's tendency to vote its pocketbook is greatly if not wholly influenced by what Mama pays for a chuck roast and green peas dinner and for Junior's shoes. She couldn't care less about slight reductions in the cost of home mortgages and new cars, because her family can't eat or wear either of those statistics.

Thus although the inflation picture overall looks rosier, the Nixon administration is well aware that something must be done about arresting the continuing upward trend of food prices. It is a hard nut to crack.

Food costs to a large extent are determined by seasonal accidents — too much or too little rain, too much or too little sunshine, and so on. And in this era of processed comestibles, costs also are affected adversely by price increases in the processing machinery. Boosts in steel prices, for example, are reflected in the cost of frozen vegetables. So are increases in transportation rates.

So Nixon's big chore is to manage, somehow, to control price increases resulting from new labor-management contracts. If he cannot do so, the rise in the basic cost of living will continue. Based on the latest figures and information, mortgage rates will drop lower, but cheaper housing by itself does not reelect Presidents.

Meanwhile, there is a silver lining in the definite indication that Nixon's de-escalation of the Vietnam War is paying off. Without seasonal adjustments, the annual rate of increase in the Consumer Price Index in the first quarter was only 2.4 per cent, compared with full-year rates of 5.9 per cent last year and 5.4 per cent in 1969. Indeed, this annual rate is lower than the "3 per cent range" McCracken and his CEA colleagues had set as a target for the period ending in mid-1971.

Even Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Congressional Economic Committee, had a pat on the back for the administration. Recent consumer price figures, he said, were "the most encouraging indication in many months that the President's program of inflation control is beginning to work." Fellow Democrats looking toward November, 1972 could not have been cheered by that statement.

But Richard Nixon must also live with another worrisome gimmick. As a result of the rise in the cost of living since May of last year, nearly two million retired military and Federal civil service personnel will receive an automatic 4.5 per cent increase in their annuities, and about 43,000 workers in private industry will get pay raises pegged to the cost of living increase. By such items is inflation fueled.

Over-Reacting

Environmentalism is still a new phenomenon and a largely undisciplined one. Its importance in the scheme of life is unquestioned, but some of the emotionalism and panic associated with it ought to be.

A case arose in Connecticut recently which demonstrates the point. The Pfizer Chemical Co. of Groton, producing 40 per cent of the nation's penicillin, for 20 years has been dumping mold-like wastes into Long Island Sound — with the approval of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Then the Federal Environmental Protection Agency issued an antidumping order against the chemical firm. The agency does not dispute the contention by both the company and the Army engineers that the wastes are totally harmless; it simply says dumping is banned until a study can determine whether it can be safely resumed.

This order left the manufacturer with the choice of either shutting down production of penicillin or finding an alternate disposal method. The state of Connecticut prohibited dumping on land, further jeopardizing a primary source of one of the nation's most important drugs.

If penicillin should be in short supply as a result of the federal ban, which apparently is based on nothing more than a suspicion, real damage will have been caused by an over-emotional reaction. It is the type of action which could mushroom if practical considerations give way to irrational panic.

Work Lesson

Like sociology classes in other schools, the members of one Philadelphia high school class decided they wanted to do something more in observance of Earth Week than simply talk about the environment. They elected to clean up a creek which ran through a ravine adjoining the school's football field.

They expected to find the usual collection of cans and bottles in the muddy waters, but after hours of labor this is what they had deposited on the creekbank: 15 shopping carts, a rusted Volkswagen, a number of television antennas and bed-springs, a hundred feet of heavy cable, assorted metal sheets and bars and of course numerous cans, bottles and other scrap.

The senior class president summed up the sentiment of his fellow students when he said, "I think we learned a lot today — more than we would have in the classroom — about what has to be done to clean up our environment."

MR. SPECTATOR

He Likes Horses

Any of you folks need a wrangler?

Mr. Spectator has received a note from Joe Marino. He says he is looking for summer employment "working around and riding horses."

Joe says he is 23 years old and that he is teacher of wood and metal shop at a junior high school in Parsippany, N.J. He says that he has had some experience around horses, but is willing to learn what he does not know about them. He adds that he works "real hard" and "am handy enough to help with almost any kind of maintenance."

Joe would be willing to work for room, board and a small salary, "just to have an opportunity to learn to handle horses better."

So there you are, dear readers, if you are interested in Joe just write him at 51 Lee Street in East Paterson, New Jersey, 07407.

FADEOUT FOR SEX

Salty movies have apparently, over most of the nation, lost their box-office savor.

The bombing (as they say in show biz) of a number of x-rated films and the recent success of others rated for general audiences has led several companies to drop sexy films from their production schedules.

"Permissive films might have been successful six months ago, but they aren't now," says James Aubrey, president of MGM. He added that the "whole country has undergone a remarkable reversal in taste."

But you know what's going to happen, don't you, readers of Magic Valley? There will be a rush of family-type movies, attendance will climb for awhile, then begin to fall off again. Then somebody will bring out the sexploitation film and make a bundle and the cycle will start all over.

In fact, producers expect just that and, ever willing to please, have indicated that they are ready to swing back to explicit sex as soon as the public is sated with wholesomeness.

AN INVENTION

An invention by a Waterford, Va., engineer named Kenneth Lefaver could hold the answer to developing Alaska's vast oil potential without damaging the environment.

Lefaver has patented a triple-thickness pipeline. The innermost pipe could carry hot oil at 160 degrees above zero. This would be surrounded by a second insulating pipe. Then an outer pipe would carry liquified natural gas or petroleum gas, cooled to 240 degrees below zero.

The pipe could be placed underground for the entire 789-mile distance from the Arctic fields to the port city of Valdez, the hot oil would have no effect on the tundra, and even if an earthquake ruptured the line, the cold liquid gas would cool the oil so greatly that it couldn't flow.

The Interior Department is studying the idea. Chief objections to the triple-thickness pipe is that it would cost about $1-billion more than the conventional pipeline there has been so much controversy about.

But if it works, $1 billion in the long run would be a small price to pay for preserving an irreplaceable wilderness.

Mr. Spectator thought you might want to think that one over.

WASHINGTON — The world will not end with a bang or a whimper. It will probably end with a poli-American being polled to death at the moment and you can't leave your house without someone asking how you feel about something.

The other day I had to fly up to New York. As I adjusted my seat and got ready to snooze, the stewardess handed me a questionnaire. "Would you mind filling this out for our airline?" I looked at the questions. "Are you happy with our service?" "How many drinks did you buy?" "What is your color preference for our baggage racks?" "Why did you choose to fly this airline?"

I dutifully filled out the questionnaire and went to my hotel. After checking into the room I found a questionnaire on the nightstand.

"The management would be grateful if you will fill out the following: Did you find the room made up when you checked in? Were there enough towels in the bathroom? Wash clothes? How often do you plan to take a bath during your stay?" And so on and so forth.

I canceled my lunch so I could fill out the questionnaire honestly. After turning it over to the manager I went out to hail a taxi. A pretty girl in a mini skirt with a clipboard came up and said, "Would you answer a few questions for a survey our company is doing on New York tourism?"

"I'm very late," I pleaded. "It will only take a moment. How long have you been waiting for a taxi?"

"Just a few moments. There's one," I said.

"Please, sir. I still have some questions to ask you."

"Hurry," I pleaded.

"Why did you come to New York?"

"For meetings," I said anxiously.

"Then not for pleasure?"

"Well, I'm hoping to get some pleasure in, but I can't until I find out what they tell me at the meetings. There goes another taxi."

She stopped me from hailing it and continued, "What irks you the most about New York City?"

"Being polled while I'm trying to hail a taxi."

"I have only 20 more questions to ask, sir. When you walk around New York, do you look in the shop windows?" Afid so on and so forth.

I finally got rid of her, but there were no taxis in sight so I had to walk to my appointment. Ten blocks later I was stopped by a man with a briefcase who said, "I beg your pardon, but could you tell me if you think Mayor Lindsay is doing better, doing worse or holding his own in New York City?"

"I don't know. I'm a stranger here. I live in Washington."

"Washington?" He took another poll out of his briefcase. "Do you think President Nixon is doing better, doing worse or holding his own?"

"What gives?" I asked. "First you ask me about Lindsay, then Nixon?"

"Don't tell anyone," he said.

"But I'm moonlighting and working for two political pollsters at the same time."

I tried to get around him but he blocked my path. "Look, if you don't want to talk about politics, I'm also doing a survey for a market research company on chocolate-flavored cigars."

I started to run down the street and he followed me so I sought sanctuary in a church on Fifth Avenue.

The service had just finished and a minister handed me a mimeographed sheet of paper which said "In order to make our afternoon services more relevant would you kindly tell us whether you were: (a) Emotionally involved. (b) Spiritually fulfilled. (c) Satisfied with the musical number selected by our organist. (d) Did you have a good view of the altar?"

I filled it out and left. The man with the briefcase was standing in front of the church. "How about giving me your thoughts on hot pants?"

Jesus People

To an outsider, a newsman's desk usually looks like an unmade bed; sifting that accumulation is sort of like panning for gold.

We find more sand than gold. But then — sometimes — gold.

Headlines: "Jesus People Tuned in to the Word." This is not some purely religious publication. This was in the St. Petersburg, Fla., Times. "Orderly Students Jam Beaches; 'Sweet Jesus' Songs Fill the Air."

Now this was last Easter vacation, the annual migration of school-agers from everywhere to Fort Lauderdale Beach. But this year was no beer bust. This year was a singing for Christ.

There were self-described "freaks" wearing long hair and shoes and bells. But there were no narcotics, there was no lewdness; they were carrying

Bibles, being baptized in the surf, singing old-fashioned gospel songs such as "Sweet Jesus" and new ones like "Put Your Hand in the Hand of the Man From Galilee."

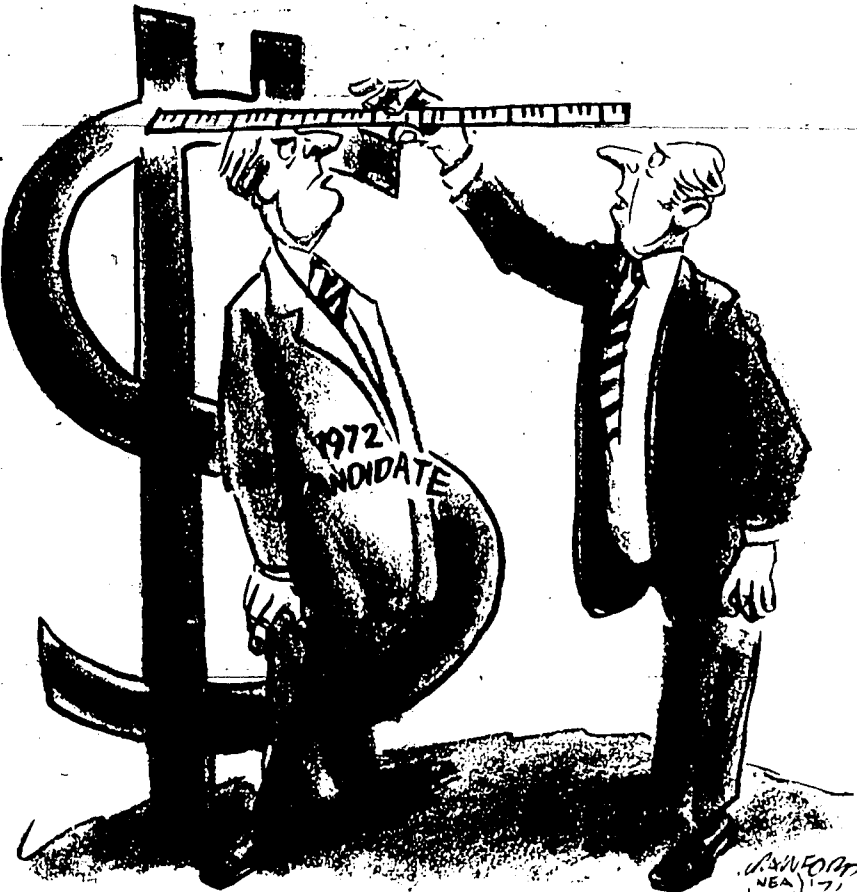

Now, what was this "demonstration" on Florida's beaches? A one-shot emotional binge — or a symptom of a trend?

The Jesus People have taken Hollywood's Sunset Boulevard away from the hopeheads.

In Owensboro, Ky., 300 school-agers are taking to the streets and shopping centers with their Christian testimony.

In Hot Springs, Ark., 20 junkies walked into the police station and handed over their supply of hashish and LSD, explaining quietly that they'd been "talked to" by another junkie in church last Sunday and "now we're enjoying the wonderful high from which there is no letdown."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

For A Cause

(1st of Two Articles)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that schizophrenia is a chemical imbalance in the body. Does this mean there is a cure for it? Can schizophrenia be passed on from father to son? Does a schizophrenic person realize something is wrong? Can you do a column on this? — G. K.

Let's begin by considering what schizophrenia is. It is the most widespread of the several forms of serious mental illness, and also, frankly, one of the most difficult to treat.

The name itself means "split mind," or "split personality." It means that the patient retires into a sort of dream world — for whatever reasons, he finds the real world an uncomfortable one in which to be, so he imagines the world to be different from the way it really is.

This, I warn you, is an oversimplification.

Schizophrenia comes in many patterns and many degrees of severity. There are patients who come under the category of "a walking schiz" — one who is schizophrenic but nonetheless retains enough contact with reality and gets along well enough in normal life so there's no need to consign him to a hospital.

And then, of course, there are the severe cases, with the patient so withdrawn into his imaginary world that it is difficult to achieve any meaningful communication with him. Sometimes the words such a patient uses have no meaning — except, of course, he thinks so. Or if the words are ordinary language, they may make no sense because he is thinking in terms of his world of fantasy.

He may indulge in any sort of bizarre behavior. He may think — like the stereotype of the patient who thinks he is Napoleon Bonaparte — that he is somebody else. Some patients retreat into such behavior as insisting on staying by themselves and praying steadily 15 hours a day or so.

"Schizophrenia" covers, as you see, a very wide range, and the above gives only a general idea of the extremes of its range. The one aspect in common is this matter of the patient's creating in his mind an unreal world which does not jibe with the real world around him.

Tomorrow I'll try to answer some of your specific questions, but the answers wouldn't mean much without the foregoing outline of schizophrenia.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a person has the mumps, can that person give the disease to another person? Can anyone have mumps twice? — M. D. G.

Yes, mumps is contagious — that's how the disease spreads, close contact during the infectious stage. This can be from one to six days before the swelling appears and throughout the period of swelling. The incubation period of mumps is 14 to 28 days.

Ordinarily having mumps produces immunity to subsequent attacks. Without doubt there are occasional instances of second attacks — but they are rare.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in the seventh grade and drink coffee. Not at meals, just at night. Several people have told me that coffee stunts a person's growth. Is this true? — T. J.

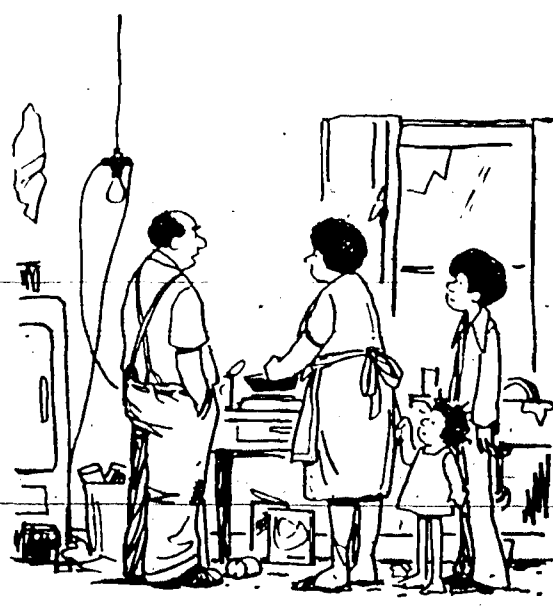

No, but coffee contains caffeine which is a stimulant, and young people don't need a stimulant. Too much can make you jittery or even interfere with getting to sleep.

Preferably I tell young people to avoid coffee — but at least, don't get in the habit of drinking a lot of it.

What causes "balance" trouble? What can be done to correct or overcome it? Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Dizzy Spells," discusses loss of balance, vertigo and nausea, Meniere's disease and labyrinthitis. For a copy of the booklet write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Times-News enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Sometimes I wish this dump was in Pakistan, so the government would have to evacuate us!"

Vermont 'dove' lashes radicals

Thursday, April 29, 1971 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 5
The newest art gallery in of Odyssey House, a facility for New York, Gallery Odyssey, is youngsters involved in drug operated by and for the benefit addiction.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Scolding at the five ragged young radicals, the 80-year-old dove senator from New England said, "Why the hell do you stay here if other countries are so much better?"

The statement from Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., came Wednesday during a bizarre two-hour confrontation between antiwar radicals and members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

The Vermontor, a longtime critic of the Indochina war who often has split with President Nixon on the issue, made the remark after the radicals had explained to him the American system of government must be changed and the government closed down by force if necessary.

He and other committee members permitted five revolutionaries involved in "May Day" antiwar protests in Washington to testify. Although the committee for years has been the central forum for congressional dissent over the war, its members bluntly told the protesters they had no sympathy with their tactics and some of their goals.

"I'll tell you one thing," said Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., "I'm not going to be intimidated."

The radicals charged that Sen. Hugh Scott, the Senate Republican leader, was "paranoid" and a "criminal" and that all the committee members, hawks and doves alike, were tools of the administration "strategy to prolong the war."

The hearing was arranged Monday when the demonstrators disrupted a committee session and committee chairman Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., promised them he would let them speak later if they would be quiet.

The witnesses included Chip Marshall, 26, a Cornell University graduate who has been indicted for conspiracy to bomb a government building in Seattle; John Scaglioni, 22, a "Gay May Day" organizer; Jay Craven, 20, a former Boston University student body president who has been in touch with North Vietnamese negotiators; Susan Gregory, 29, of Seattle, who recently met Viet Cong negotiators in Paris, and Cathy Sister, 18, of Washington, D.C.

Marshall said the committee had done "the dirty work of the administration" by providing an escape valve for rising national pressure to end the war.

When Marshall called Scott a "criminal," Scott said Marshall was being "deliberately provocative" and could only hurt the antiwar movement.

"We don't want sympathy, we want action," Marshall replied.

"You want revolution," Scott said.

"You don't like the U.S. government," said Aiken.

"But I love the United States," Marshall replied.

State plans pay boosts

BOISE (UPI) — Final plans are being drawn up to spread some $1 million over various state employe classifications where comparisons with private industry and surrounding states show Idaho workers are below average for salaries.

Edward V. Williams, administrative assistant to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, said terms of the salary increases would be contained in an executive order, which he said he hoped would be signed by the governor May 7.

Each agency, Williams said, will have to fund the salary hikes — and said the plan was to pick up by the funds by employee attrition or retirement.

But, he said, there are "still some things we have to work the bugs out of — unclassified positions and positions which are filled before we find out about it."

Williams said Wednesday the salary increases — which will total $1,000,056 — will be based on an extensive study done by the State Personnel Agency, which showed some classifications range from five per cent to 15 per cent below average salary.

Those in the lowest classification include nurses, maintenance men, engineering and engineering technicians, hospital aids, dormitory supervisors, psychologists, psychiatrists, professional medical and dental classes.

Williams said persons in the lowest categories of each classification would be the first to receive the pay hike — that is, bookkeepers will receive increases before bookkeepers II and III.

Williams also said another step the state may take will be to eliminate the "poverty steps" — the lowest classification in each category.

Williams said under the plan a person starting into a category would start at a higher salary, adding, without that the state would be "letting a clerk-typist step past the supervisor."

Williams said the big problem was that "we don't know that the department has hired these people until we get the applications up in administrative services and by that time the departments have hired the person."

"So we have to come up with some sort of cooperation from the departments or this plan won't work."

He said some agencies would react favorably to the plan, while others "will plead poverty, some will plead overworked staffs already."

The essential position control will be done by the division of the budget, which is authorized to approve any new employees.

Benefits approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed and sent to the Senate legislation for a 10 per cent increase in monthly pension payments and benefits for 1.6 million retired railroad workers.

The increase, retroactive to Jan. 1, matches the increase already given to the nation's Social Security beneficiaries. Railroad workers are not covered by Social Security but have their own pension system financed through similar payroll taxes.

The United Nations has designated 1971 as "International Year for Action to Combat Racism and Racial Discrimination."

Rogers, French review Mideast

PARIS (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers discussed Middle East developments with French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann for 90 minutes today and said afterward that he expects "no breakthrough" from his mission to the troubled area.

Rogers left immediately after the meeting for Ankara, Turkey, where he will attend a Central Treaty Organization (CENTO) conference. Elaborate security precautions were in effect in Ankara and a sixth of Turkey was under martial law.

The discussion between Rogers and Schumann centered on Rogers' trip to attempt to lessen some of the problems between Israel and the Arab world.

"We don't expect any particular breakthrough, any dramatic developments," Rogers told newsmen waiting in the main lobby of the foreign ministry. "We hope it (his trip) will contribute to the momentum which is already in the process of a peaceful settlement."

U.S. officials said the purpose of Rogers' trip to Paris was to brief Schumann on current efforts of the United States to promote a partial Middle East peace settlement.

Agency in future

BOISE (UPI) — A proposed United States Department of Natural Resources eventually will be approved, the U.S. commissioner of reclamation believes.

Ellis L. Armstrong, Washington, D.C., told an informal gathering at the Boise air terminal Wednesday the resources agency would be the first of four suggested to streamline the federal government's operation to be reviewed.

There now are seven principal agencies and Armstrong said "we've been getting along with a government that's patched together for a long time."

Reorganizations should prevent overlapping and permit better coordinated programs.

Armstrong said environmental influences must be included in planning but he added there is some confusion as to what constitutes a "quality" environment.

"We must get rid of some of these foolish notions about backing up," Armstrong said.

Tour hints unfounded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House reports President Nixon has no present plans to travel abroad.

Specifically, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied reports the chief executive is considering a trip to London in mid-July.

"The President does not have the possibility of a trip under consideration," he said Wednesday. "He has no plans for foreign travel at this time."

He gave the same reply to a report that Nixon was considering another Asian tour, including a stop at Taiwan. Ziegler also told newsmen that a review on U.S.-China policy still is under way and no deadline has been set for its completion.

Jackson blasts policies

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Wednesday the Nixon administration's Mideast policies have not faced up to the increased military activity of the Soviet Union in that area.

"The administration should stop asking Israel to accept a restoration of the unstable conditions that led to war in 1967," Jackson said. "This administration has offered no policy to cope with the escalating Soviet military presence in Egypt."

"On the contrary, it has entertained the possibility of an international force that would involve and thereby sanction a permanent Soviet military presence and constitute a threat to Middle East and world peace."

Jackson spoke to the American Zionist Federation celebration of the 23rd anniversary of the founding of modern Israel.

"A secure and stabilizing settlement lies in a negotiated map of Israel with secure and recognized borders whose defense can be assured by the Israelis themselves," he said. "and such a settlement would call for the phased withdrawal of Russian military personnel from Egypt."

Director has movie passport

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Milos Forman is a Czechoslovakian director with a passport which allows him to make movies in the United States.

This in itself is uncommon. Forman also has been nominated twice in the past for best foreign language film Oscars: "Loves of a Blonde" and "Fireman's Ball."

His newest film, "Taking Off," is concerned with runaway teen-agers and the frantic search by their parents.

Forman is an intense man with Slavic features, a firm grasp of English and a theory why more American youngsters run away from home than kids behind the Iron Curtain.

Plenty of Places to Run "In the United States there are plenty of apartments and houses and communes," Forman said.

"In Europe, especially in a country like Czechoslovakia, there is a tremendous housing shortage so there is no place for the kids to run and hide." "There is a generation gap in Czechoslovakia, too. Make no mistake about it. But it is less visible. Because the children must remain at home they have worked out a way to live peacefully with their parents. They have no alternative."

Forman's picture is essentially a comedy. But he is convinced the generation gap is more physiological and biological than a social problem.

"The gap between the generations has always been with us," he said, "and it always will be, depending on tensions, social and political conditions."

"I started out to make this picture from the point of view of the runaways. But I found them boring. I talked to hundreds of kids in Greenwich Village. They had no alms in life. They seem to think that running away was a great accomplishment."

"Otherwise they had done nothing else. Their faces and minds are vacant. Then I turned to the parents for story material."

"I found them more interesting in every way. So the picture is really centered on them."

Forman made the picture in New York for $810,000. He used new faces and a number of amateurs who had never acted before.

"I began using amateurs in Czechoslovakia because there are so few good professionals," he explained. "And the good ones are so busy they sometimes can only work two days a week because they are rehearsing for plays or involved in other films."

"I'd rather use a good amateur than a poor professional. To me, America is paradise because there are so many good actors in the unemployment lines."

Taylor decries craftsman plight

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Nick Pellegrino was putting the finishing touches to a suit when his 12-year-old son entered the tailor shop to deliver the garment.

The boy looked admiringly at his father's handiwork.

"Dad, I'm going to be a tailor, just like you," the son said.

"You tell me that again," shouted the father, "and I'll kick you out of the house. Tailoring today is the worst paid job in the country."

Pellegrino's plaint is echoed today by many craftsmen caught up in the swirl of mass production.

Pellegrino, 69, has been a tailor since he was 10, learning the skill in Italy at his father's side.

"Not Like It Was" "My father and I together put 129 years into this business," he said. "But our trade is not like it was."

Frank DeMarco, 74, a tailor since age 11, nodded agreement as he listened to Nick in Pat Lombardi's tailor shop.

"I don't know of anyone in Pittsburgh learning the tailoring trade today," said DeMarco. "The apprentice pay is very low. Carpenters and plumbers pay their apprentices far more."

DeMarco regards tailoring as a profession, not a trade. "We are artisans, creators," he said. "I spent 18 years with a master tailor who taught me design. A tailor who masters the profession can be a Michelangelo. And you also must be a psychoanalyst to fit clients." "Too many fitters today are chalk happy, go into extensive alterations that don't please."

Audio visual tools replace Guffey Reader

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Film and cameras are fast becoming what the McGuffey Reader was to school children 100 years ago.

More and more frequently grammar schools are turning to motion pictures as a teaching aid both as tool in the hands of youngsters for self expression and as a projection of the written word into action.

Students as young as 6 or 7 are given cameras and told to take movies of whatever interests them.

It beats finger painting. Then again classrooms are darkened and pupils are exposed to countless subjects taught by film instead of textbooks.

But according to executives at Technicolor, a leading force in the field of 8mm cartridges and projectors for schools, progress is still slow.

William Newbern, an executive of the company, says: "The textbook syndrome has advantages over film because it is a basic part of the curriculum. Film is still considered a frill in some places, used when a teacher hasn't prepared a lesson plan."

"Ideally, film should be integrated with text material. Publishers should augment texts with film instead of making them two separate elements of education."

Technicolor has perfected a small super 8 mm projector that can be shown the entire class at one time or utilized by a single student (with earplug) at his own desk while the class is otherwise occupied.

So far the company has manufactured almost 8 million cartridges with 15,000 titles for students from nursery-school to graduate school.

"Students are visually oriented, thanks to television," Newbern said. "They expect more than just the written word. This generation can handle the written word and films at the same time."

"Clearly one of the important elements of visual education is the result TV commercials have on children. Most kids can recite popular commercials from memory—due to repetition."

"The same thing can be done with important scholastic subjects: Mathematics, English and the sciences. By repeating the film several times students will retain what they see."

"This process is altogether easier for teacher and student alike as compared with reading the same text over and over again."

Pilot film on 'The City' slated on ABC for May 17

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: Anthony Quinn, who will star as the mayor of a southwestern town next season in a weekly series tentatively titled "The City," will be seen in the pilot film for that show May 17 on ABC... The pilot, also titled "The City," is a two-hour made-for-television movie in which the mayor's career is jeopardized by urban crises and an assassin.

Dick Cavett's nightly ABC series begins two weeks of broadcasts Monday from London, with David Niven appearing on the first show... Cavett's memorable show of earlier this season in which Fred Astaire was the only guest is scheduled to be repeated Friday, with the great entertainer singing, dancing and reminiscing about his career.

Ayn Rand, advocate of rugged individualism and author of the best selling novels "The Fountainhead" and "Atlas Shrugged," is a guest on NBC's "Comment!" series Sunday... Arte Johnson confirms he no longer will be a regular on "Laugh-In" next season.

The world middleweight championship boxing match will be televised live via satellite from Monaco May 8 on ABC's "Wide World of Sports," with Argentinian Carlos Monzon defending his title against Italy's Nino Benvenuti, whom he knocked out to win it last November... The female singing and dancing group known as "the Goldiggers" departs from Dean Martin's NBC series next season for its own syndicated show.

Controversial film nominated

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A controversial television documentary and a controversial actor have been nominated for television's top award, the Emmy.

The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences announced Tuesday that the CBS documentary "The Selling of the Pentagon" and actor George C. Scott, who rejected his Oscar for "Patton," were among the nominees.

"The Selling of the Pentagon," which became a political controversy when it was attacked by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and which now is the object of a congressional investigation, was nominated for outstanding achievement in news documentary programming.

Scott received two Emmy nominations, one for his narration of "A Man Called Lombardi" in the cultural documentary category and another in the entertainment division for his performance in "The Price" on the "Hallmark Hall of Fame."

The news and cultural awards will be presented May 7 and the entertainment Emmys May 9.

Appointed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said Wednesday he has been appointed to three Joint Committee on Atomic Energy subcommittees, including the one dealing with research, development and radiation.

Hansen, who was named to the joint committee earlier this year, will also serve on the subcommittees on communities and security.

The subcommittee on research, development and radiation conducts studies and hearings on programs in the fields of physical and environmental research, and research in biology, medicine, reactor development.

Patton son takes post

FT. KNOX, Ky. (UPI)—Brig. Gen. George S. Patton, son of the famed World War II general, Tuesday became assistant commander of the U.S. Army Armor School on this post where he was a junior officer 20 years ago.

Patton, 47, whose father Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. was known as "Blood 'n Guts" to his troops, reviewed the Armor School troops and the 194th Armored Brigade during welcoming ceremonies.

"This was the one assignment that I had always hoped for," Patton said. "I will do my best."

He assumed the post formerly held by Maj. Gen. James V. Galloway, who departs May 3 for Germany and a new assignment. Patton's last assignment was assistant division commander for support headquarters of the 4th Armored Division in Germany.

Chiang sees no changes

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chiang Kai-shek, president of the Republic of China, said Tuesday he did not foresee any great change in relations between the United States and Communist China despite the recent visit by the U.S. table tennis team to Peking.

Chiang said "such Chinese Communist tactics of external infiltration and subversion have borne their first fruits."

"If all of us are aware of this, I think there should be no substantial change in the relationships between the United States and the Chinese Communists."

Chiang was interviewed on CBS News' "60 Minutes" at his garden in Taipei. Chiang stipulated questions must be submitted in advance and no follow-up questions would be allowed.

Prince model ruler

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Crown Prince Carl Gustaf of Sweden is tall, blue-eyed and handsome and he gives every indication of some day becoming the very model of a modern Scandinavian monarch.

He doesn't mind saying, however, that if he had not been born to become king, he would rather have been a soldier or farmer.

He moves a step closer to the throne Friday when he turns 25. Under the constitution, the bachelor crown prince is then eligible to assume the duties of king, rather than having a regent assume what few powers remain to the throne.

But that day may still be far away. His grandfather, King Gustaf VI Adolf still is in good health at the age of 88.

When the prince does become the ruler of the eight million Swedes, he will hold no power over the affairs of state. The few remaining royal prerogatives which his grandfather still enjoys are likely to be removed in a constitutional reform now under discussion.

The future King Carl XVI of Sweden met some visitors at an informal tete-a-tete at the royal palace in Stockholm before his birthday.

The prince, dressed in a checked suit, a wide modern tie and lacquered boots, entertained his guests in a relaxed and easy manner.

The prince's father, Prince Gustaf Adolf—the heir presumptive—died in an air crash in 1947, when he was only a year old. Carl Gustaf was brought up by his mother, German-born Princess Silylla, and his four sisters, Princesses Margaretha, Birgitta, Dsirree and Christina.

Later, his grandfather entrusted three noblemen to take care of the prince's education and prepare him for his royal duties. But in the democratic Scandinavian tradition, he has had plenty of personal freedom and can be seen driving his light blue Swedish-made sports car or dancing the shair in Stockholm nightclubs.

After graduating from the Sigtuna Humanistic College, an upper-class boarding school, the prince entered the Swedish Naval Academy, made a cruise around the world with the navy's training ship Aelvsanabben, and studied political science at the University of Uppsala.

"I want to be a modern monarch, the crown prince has said. As to marriage, 'I have made no plans. Besides I have not yet met anyone I want to marry.'"

According to the constitution he cannot marry whoever he pleases until he becomes king. If he married a Swedish commoner before becoming king he would forfeit his claim to the throne. He may marry a Swedish nobleman's daughter or a foreigner, however.

The crown prince said he would celebrate his birthday on Friday with his family. The old king, just back from his traditional Italian spring holiday, may host a dinner for him at the palace.

Type of fine

CHICAGO (UPI)—If a Japanese pedestrian is caught crossing a street against a traffic light in some parts of Japan, he must go back to the curb, bow from the waist to the traffic signal to acknowledge its authority over him, wait for a green or walk light, and proceed. So reports Family Safety, a publication of the National Safety Council.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Backstairs at the White House: The next presidential election is 19 months away but already the Nixon White House is moving into a campaign posture.

There have been at least four recent additions to the President's image-making apparatus and more are in the offing.

And at 1701 Pennsylvania Avenue, a suite of offices on the second floor is rapidly filling with young men who until a few weeks ago were working a block away in the White House annex.

There is a tempo and rhythm to each national administration, and one senses that the Nixon administration is now moving to a faster beat.

Top-level Nixon aides are analyzing events with an eye to the political issues next year. Files of campaign contributors are coming out. Potential rivals are being dissected and analyzed.

To the people who work for him, there is no doubt that President Nixon is planning an eight-year tenure in the White House.

The committee to re-elect the President is the first formal campaign apparatus established for Nixon for the 1972 elections. Headed by Cincinnati publisher Francis Dale, a long-time Nixon political associate, its creation has not yet been formally announced.

But for some time now a small staff has been putting the office in order. They are located in the same building which houses the Washington offices of Mudge, Rose, Guthrie and Alexander, a New York law firm which until three years ago was Nixon, Mudge, Rose, Guthrie and Alexander.

Located in the same building, perhaps only coincidentally, are the offices of Murray Chotiner, a Nixon political operative for two decades, who left the White House staff several months ago to return to private practice.

Joining the White House staff are four persons with backgrounds in communications who will be helping make or explain Nixon administration policy during the politically dangerous months ahead.

John Scall, the former State Department correspondent for the American Broadcasting Company, is now a special consultant to the President on foreign affairs.

Richard Moore, a long-time political confidante who worked during the last presidential campaign, recently moved to the White House from the Justice Department where he helped polish the image of Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Mark I. Goode, a Hollywood television director, now has joined the White House staff to help arrange the President's television appearances.

Neal Ball, a former Chicago advertising and public relations man, has been named a deputy to Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler with responsibility for communicating domestic policies of the administration.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bridal shopping trips should be started at least three to six months before the wedding. Certainly not later than two months before. It usually takes six to eight weeks to deliver the gown, and there's also the time needed for making the wedding portrait.

Trucks said chief creators of noise pollution

Lifesaver

MICHAEL MARBLE, 2, looks into face of California Highway Patrol Officer R.A. Cox, who saved boy's life. Cox gave Michael mouth to mouth resuscitation after finding child — then 3 weeks old — face down in stream after traffic accident. Officer was cited by patrol officials for act, including saving lives of Michael's two sisters. (UPI)

Capitol blast witness nabbed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first break in the two-month old bombing of the U.S. capitol came Wednesday when the Justice Department disclosed that a 19-year-old woman had been arrested as a material witness.

The department said only that the girl, identified as Leslie Bacon, 19, had been arrested Monday in Washington and ordered held on $100,000 bond.

No permanent address was listed for Miss Bacon, but the FBI said that she had been arrested on the roof of a house in the northwest section of the city.

In Atherton, Calif., Mrs. John W. Bacon said her daughter told her by telephone that she was being held in a $35-a-night hotel suite by FBI agents who took her out to eat in a Cadillac.

Mrs. Bacon said her daughter told her that the FBI said it would present her to a federal grand jury in Seattle, but that she didn't know anyone there. Mrs. Bacon said her daughter denied any association with the capitol bombers and said she "has never told me a lie." She added the young woman had been recently working with organizers of the big April 24 peace demonstration that attracted a crowd estimated at 200,000 persons.

Miss Bacon was not accused of taking any part in the March 1 bombing on the Senate side of the capitol, but of having some knowledge of the incident that could lead to the arrest of those who committed the crime. A group calling itself the "Weather Underground" claimed responsibility.

Explosives left in an out-of-the-way restroom on the first floor of the building did extensive damage when they went off in the early morning hours.

Computer refuses to issue license

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—A computer in the Oregon Motor Vehicles Division did what programmers said it could not do—it issued the same driver's license, in the same name, to two different men.

It took nearly a month of hunting through bureaucratic jungles and the eventual help of the state ombudsman to clear up the mess and exonerate an innocent man whose driving privileges had been suspended.

Insurance firms eye merger.

BOISE (UPI)—Two Boise-based life insurance companies are negotiating a merger, according to an announcement by the presidents of the two firms. They are American Reserve Life Insurance Co. and Pacific Empire Life Insurance Co.

American Reserve Life was chartered Jan. 22, 1960, and is wholly-owned subsidiary of Gem State Securities Corp. of Boise.

Pacific Empire Life Insurance Co. originally was organized in 1973 as a mutual benefit association in Lewiston. It was converted to a stock life insurance company in 1964 and its home office was moved to Boise in January of 1970.

Stan Catlett, president of American Reserve, and Ray Bolland, president of Pacific Empire, said the companies will have insurance in force totaling more than $50 million on the lives of more than 10,000 persons in the intermountain region when the merger is completed.

Assets of the combined companies will be in excess of $6 million and total annual income will exceed $1.5 million.

Under the proposed merger Gem State Securities Corp. will continue as a holding company.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — No community should have to put up with the noise pollution it gets from trucks, according to Paul S. Veneklasen.

Veneklasen is a Santa Monica, Calif., scientist, who says trucks are the worst offenders among all the noise makers that plague us—worse than jet aircraft because they inflict distress on a broader scale and assall the eardrums of many more people.

But for 15 years, Veneklasen said at a meeting here of the Acoustical Society of America, mufflers have existed which could cut truck noise 75 per cent. They aren't being used.

The theme of the acoustical society's meeting was "Noise Pollution and Noise Control." Several speakers described in technical detail how it is possible to erect relatively quiet and "serene" dwellings or high-rise hotels or office buildings in noisy areas, even on top of railroad freight yards.

How do you build grand centers for comfortable living or working in the noisiest parts of town? You do it, according to W. E. Blazler Jr., a San Francisco acoustical engineer, by erecting buildings that "float on rubber." You insert thousands of two-inch rubber pads between the base of columns and the foundations to insulate against noise.

Kenward S. Oliphant, a San Francisco acoustician, described the myriad ways used to make inhabitable an office building erected 150 feet from the northern edge of the main runway of San Francisco International Airport. The result was that 92 per cent of the jet uproar just outside never penetrated to the inside.

According to Veneklasen, truckers have resisted mufflers because they think wrongly that mufflers cut engine efficiency and increase fuel costs. Truck buyers have been known to remove mufflers or destroy them.

Veneklasen counsels patience about aircraft jet noise, a much harder problem to solve than truck noise. He predicted it will be solved. But, he said, it might take 10 more years.

AMA hits health care bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Medical Association (AMA) said today Congress should not be lulled into the "attractive but totally impractical notion" that the problems of society could be solved by passing a bill to provide health care for everyone.

Dr. Russell B. Roth, Erie, Pa., speaker of the AMA House of Delegates, told the Senate Finance Committee the AMA preferred a system of government subsidies to enable the poor to buy health insurance, coupled with medical tax breaks for more well-to-do.

Several bills have been introduced to provide health care for everyone in the nation, including one by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that is backed by a quarter of the Senate membership, that would provide government-financed health insurance for all Americans.

A Nixon Administration bill would require almost all employers to provide health insurance for their workers.

But Roth cautioned against "uncritical acceptance of the statement that it is somehow possible to legislate American medicine into a system of 'health' care as opposed to 'sickness' care."

"We caution against the attractive but totally impractical notion that one legislative act can solve the problems of a profoundly troubled society," he said.

Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., also criticized Kennedy's bill, saying there is no point in using tax dollars to buy health care insurance for those who can afford it.

Gas source for power

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — The vast quantities of natural gas yet undiscovered is the answer to the so-called energy crisis, a Washington State University economist said here Tuesday.

Dr. William Iulo said "natural gas to harnessed electrical power producers is like water to a thirsty traveler: it is the answer to the problem if it can be found."

Dr. Iulo made the comments in a speech before the fifth annual WSU Pacific Northwest Regional Economic Conference.

Dr. Iulo said, however, the problem does not appear to be one of a lack of the basic resources, "since there is widespread agreement that there are vast quantities of natural gas still undiscovered."

Jerome Lions conduct Pre-schoolers survey

JEROME — Members of the Jerome Lions Club are conducting a survey this week to find out how many pre-schoolers there are in Jerome.

Lee McVey, Lions Club sight committee chairman, said the club will have a clinic to check the eyesight of pre-school children as soon as the survey is concluded. Last week the club checked the kindergarten class of Mrs. Lamar Butters.

McVey asked Jerome residents who have pre-school children who might not be included in the survey to call any Lions Club members and enroll the child for the eye clinic.

Monday evening, during ladies' night, new officers were elected.

Elected president of the club was Ray Baker, junior high school principal. Other officers are Sandy Piper, first vice president; Harold Jenkins, second vice president; John Perfect, third vice president; Fred Clubb, secretary-treasurer; Jerry Lawson, tall twister; Don Snow, assistant talltwister, and Jack Russell, lion tamer.

Directors elected were

Harold Stoltz, Gary Shellenbarger and McVey. LeVere Gooch is holdover director.

The Jerome club also is observing White Cane Week this week through Saturday and members have placed several canisters throughout the downtown area for collection of funds. Members also will sell white canes Saturday in the downtown area.

Proceeds from the sale of canes and from the collections will go to the Lions' eye bank for cornea transplants and for the pre-school vision clinic.

HARLEIGH WALLINGTON

Manager Motorcycle signup named 87 per cent in state by firm

JEROME — Harleigh Wallington, Jerome, will become the new manager of The North Side Lumber and Mercantile Co., in Jerome, May 1, it was announced this week by Theon Zahn, chairman of the board of directors for the firm.

Wallington, who has been with the firm for 24 years, replaces Bill Weigle who will retire May 1.

Wallington has been the assistant manager for several years. He is a past master of the Jerome Masonic Temple, a past commander of the American Legion, Jerome post, and is a director of the Intermountain Lumber Dealers Association.

He is past president of the Jerome Kiwanis club and the Jerome Country club. He is presently on the country club's board of directors.

He is married to the former Ruth Kambrich, Buhl. They have one daughter, Mrs. Frank (Joan) Odd, Boulder, Colo.

Wallington said that the same policies will continue at the firm.

BOISE — Registrations of motor-powered cycles have increased nearly 87 per cent in Idaho since 1960, reports the motor vehicle division of the Department of Law Enforcement, not including the hundreds more which are not operated on public highways.

Increased use of the two-wheeled vehicles and the nature of the vehicle itself has greatly increased the hazards associated with its highway operations, says the Idaho State Police.

Says ISP Supt. L. Clark Hand, Boise, "Compared with four-wheeled vehicles, they are less stable, harder to see and provide much less protection to driver or passenger in a crash."

In 1960, there were 3,534 motorcycles registered in Idaho, compared with the 26,778 registered in 1970. Each year a registration increase has been noted, the division says. Registrations increased by more than 3,500 from 1969 to 1970 with 23,056 being registered in 1969.

State police records show as motorcycle registrations increase so do the number of accidents, fatalities and injuries.

In 1970 there were 615 accidents involving two-wheel, motor-powered vehicles, which killed 18 and injured 518. The 465 motorcycle accidents in 1969 killed eight and injured 401.

The National Safety Council says possibility of death in a highway accident is four times greater for a motorcyclist than for the average motorist.

Accident records indicate inexperience on a motorcycle was directly related to the number of crashes to a far greater degree than for automobile drivers.

Says Supt Hand, "Motorcycles have the same rights on the highways as other vehicles. They are entitled to the same courtesies and protection as the rest of the motoring public.

"But they are in far greater danger, and deserve a little extra caution from the rest of the traffic around them."

"Motorcycle riders," the superintendent says, "should realize the hazards involved when cycling, act accordingly and realize a mistake can mean an accident."

Ketchum firm charged

BOISE (UPI) — The U.S. Labor Department has accused a Ketchum shopping center contractor of failing to pay employes time and one-half for work in excess of 40 hours per week.

In a civil complaint filed in U.S. District Court, the Labor Department seeks an injunction against Anstep Corp. and its president, Steven R. Giacobbi. The department alleges the violations began April 18, 1969.

Hearing due

WASHINGTON — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said Wednesday hearings will begin promptly on legislation he has introduced to help solve problems of juvenile crime.

The house committee on the judiciary scheduled the meetings to begin Wednesday on his bill to create an institute for continuing studies of juvenile justice.

Named

TOM WILSON, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, Buhl, and a Boise architect, has been appointed a member of the National Housing committee of the American Institute of Architects. He is a partner in the firm of Bush Wilson Architects, Boise.

Valley men appointed to board

BOISE — Two Magic Valley men have been named to the Idaho Commission on Federal Land Laws by Gov. Cecil Andrus.

Jack Pierce, Malta, was named to fill the position of Sen. James Stolcheff, D-Sandpoint, representing livestock interests. Rep. Jack Claiborn, R-Twin Falls, was appointed to fill the post of Sen. Charles Blyeu, D-Pocatello, representing agricultural interests.

Andrus chose Sen. H. Dean Summers, R-Boise, to fill the position of Sen. Darrell Manning, D-Pocatello, representing cities and counties.

The three Democratic senators resigned from the board, to which they were appointed earlier this year by Andrus.

Racist image becomes handicap down South

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Senior Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — To be known as an advocate of white supremacy and a defender of segregation used to be regarded as a great political advantage throughout the South. Today, in many parts of the South, a racist image is regarded by politicians of both parties as a serious handicap. It probably has done more than all the civil rights laws ever passed to insure black people of fair and considerate treatment. A recent sojourn in my native state of South Carolina convinced me there are two reasons for this historic shift in the climate of Southern politics. The first is the growing political power of black citizens. Negroes, who once were virtually disfranchised, now comprise about 35 per cent of the registered voters in South Carolina. The percentage is even higher in some of the other South Atlantic states. A less obvious but equally important reason for the new tone of Southern politics is the fact that vast numbers of white people now are repelled rather than attracted by appeals to racist sentiment. The double impact of a growing Negro vote and increasing white distaste for racist politics is clearly evident in recent political developments in South Carolina. Last November, the voters rejected a Republican candidate for governor, Albert Watson, who had tried to exploit racial feelings in his campaign. They elected a Democrat, John C. West, who had sponsored him, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. Thurmond himself will be up for reelection next year. His personal popularity in the state always has been great, and was enhanced this month when his pretty young wife presented him with his first child. But this asset is offset by the reputation for racial intransigence which Thurmond acquired during many years of filibustering against civil rights bills. Thurmond is trying hard to shake off that reputation before next year's election. His longtime friend and political associate, Harry Dent, says frankly that Thurmond is scrambling for "high ground on this race question." To win in 1972, Dent believes, Thurmond must get himself into "a position where he can't be attacked, as Watson was, as being a racist."

The most significant thing about West's pledge is that black leaders say he is faithfully adhering to it. "We really are beginning to have color blind government in South Carolina," said one. Frankly amazed black militant in Columbia. The lessor of Watson's defeat

Rogers, better weather arrive in Mideast

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
At about the same time U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers arrives in the Middle East on his quest for peace, the springtime sandstorms called the khamsins will be lifting, making it easier for the Egyptians and Israelis to wage war.

Both regard the secretary's mission with a mixture of hope and suspicion and whether a change in the weather is to see a renewal of the 1967 war may depend upon Rogers' ability to close a credibility gap.

The Israelis suspect the United States of being so anxious for a Mideast peace settlement and avoidance of a confrontation with the Soviet Union that it will be willing to sacrifice Israel's own future security to achieve it.

Contributing to Israeli suspicions was U.S. failure to prevent an Egyptian buildup of its defensive missile strength after the start of the ceasefire last Aug. 8.

forcement of the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.
Last August's ceasefire was a direct result of the U.S. secretary's initiative and thrust him into the role of honest broker which he now is trying to further by an on-the-ground visit.
A formula providing at least for reopening of the Suez Canal would be a mark of major success for his mission. Failure, in the eyes of many Mideast observers, inevitably would lead to a renewal of fighting which both sides are amply prepared to do.

Up until now the United States has taken comfort in the belief that the U.S.-supplied Phantom jets preserved the Mideast balance of power.
Possibility Seen
A possibility the balance may have shifted is seen in the arrival of Soviet-built Mig23 all-weather interceptors and the Sukhoi 11 ground attack fighters.
Along with the buildup of new Soviet aircraft and the presence of more than 10,000 Russian military personnel, is a further report of two new types of mobile air defense rockets.

These are the SA4 and SA6 missiles, similar to the SAMs placed along the Suez and around Cairo last year against Israeli air raids but with the advantage of being mobile.
It is the Egyptian viewpoint that in accepting the Rogers peace proposals of last June, and in agreeing to sign a peace agreement with Israel, President Anwar el-Sadat has gone further than any other Arab leader has dared to go.

And that, having played his highest card, the only alternative now is a renewal of the fighting.

Love knot

NEW YORK (UPI)—The expression "to tie the knot" as a synonym for getting married comes from the ancients. In olden days, the knot was a symbol of faith and young couples used the "true love knot" to indicate the tie of love and duty in a marriage that would never dissolve.

Prisoner's appeal denial upheld

BOISE UPI — The Idaho Supreme Court affirmed a lower court decision Tuesday which denied an appeal for post-conviction relief to a man serving a term in the Idaho penitentiary. Gerald Lipps entered a plea of guilty on March 20, 1969 to possession of a narcotic drug for sale and unlawful importation, sale or furnishing of a narcotic drug.

After he was placed in the penitentiary, Lipps petitioned under the Idaho Uniform Post-Conviction Act, alleging his guilty plea was not given knowingly and that he was not adequately advised of his right to appeal, a petition was a petition denied by the second district court.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband comes from a very large family and they are very clannish. The only social life anyone in that family knows is to get together with their relatives. They don't need any outsiders. I am not criticizing them, but I am not all that thrilled with a gathering of the clan every weekend for 16 years.

The Women's Liberation thing got me to thinking. Why should we restrict our entire social life to my husband's family? I have met several interesting, attractive women my age who have invited me and my husband over, but we've never gone because my husband chills the deal.

I have had it! I think more women could "liberate" themselves if they just told their husbands that they were through being pushed around.

That's what I intend to do. Starting Monday!

LIBERATED

DEAR LIBERATED: Good! And let me hear from you on Tuesday.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a wonderful Italian girl for the last two years. She not only has looks and personality, she is smart, thoughtful and kind. It's funny, I have no trouble writing this to you, but I can't tell her how I feel about her. That's my hang-up, Abby.

She is always after me to tell her I love her, give her a compliment, or show some affection. I am just not the type. I can't help it. I am no kid. I am 27 and she is 25.

She claims she loves me, but isn't love accepting a person the way he is? We were thinking of marriage, but she says if I am like this before marriage, what would I be like afterwards? She says she needs to know that she is loved and appreciated. She IS loved and appreciated. Can I help it if I am not the lovey-dovey type?

Am I wrong in just being myself? Or should I try to give out with the "I love you's" and compliments like most guys do?

My friends say if I call it quits with her I'd be giving up a good thing. She doesn't smoke or drink and she's saving herself until marriage. NOT DEMONSTRATIVE

DEAR NOT: Her needs are more normal than your hang-up. I suggest that you try to be more affectionate, and make a real effort to demonstrate your appreciation of her. A woman can live without hearing that she's loved and appreciated, but she'll soon grow to resent you. Right now you're a poor match. Get with it, young man!

DEAR ABBY: Am I wrong to be annoyed when a casual acquaintance asks me where I bought my dress, shoes, or some other article of clothing I happen to be wearing? Some even have the gall to ask me how much I paid for it!

I pride myself on being a well-dressed woman. I shop in the best stores—not in bargain basements so it's not that I'm ashamed to tell people where my clothes came from. By the way, I always give them the information as pleasantly as possible even tho I am boiling inside.

Maybe I'm too touchy, but I would like to know why so many women ask, "Where did you buy it?"

OFTEN ASKED

DEAR ASKED: They asked because they probably want to buy one like it—or similar. And possibly to get a lead on where to buy unusually good-looking clothes. I'd regard the "where" question as a compliment. "How much" is rude.

DEAR ABBY: Why does everyone discriminate against fat people? I love to eat, and since I got this way eating in restaurants, I think the very least the restaurant owners can do is put in chairs that are reasonably comfortable for a fat person to sit on. When I have to sit for an hour and a half on a little dinky chair that's not big enough for all of me, I'm sore the next day.

And while I'm complaining, I may as well mention booths that are so close to the table I can barely squeeze myself in.

Please print this. We fatties deserve a break.

A Lovelier You

BANDBOX LOOK UPDATED

By Mary-Sue Miller

The nicest thing that could be said of a lovely in the 1920s was, "She always looks as though she'd just stepped out of a bandbox."

Fashion lore has it that a bandbox was a beautifully made, much prized possession used for hats and precious baubles. But the word in time came to mean a faultless turnout. And it must have been quite a feat to achieve such groomed perfection with little more equipment than soap-and-water, rice powder, cake rouge and a curling iron heated over a gas jet. Yet she made the grade.

Obviously, with the myriad electrical beauty aids on hand today, slipshod grooming is inexplicable. Still a good deal of it is on the scene. Helps such as these are only a few of those available:

- Saunas, with controlled steam, for cleansing and stimulating the complexion to glow condition.
- Electrically heated rollers that set the hair in 7 to 15 minutes; electric combs and brushes to keep sets in shape and fluff up hair.
- Bonnet dryers with quick-dry air flow; some with facial mist features. Also traditional bonnet-type dryers that strap on so you can move around while drying.
- Electric manicure sets that assure professional results. Plus such personals as automatic toothbrushes, now available with up-down-across motions; pulsating hygiene units; electric shavers curved to fit contours.

And there's more for the asking. But do you know that none works perfectly on a less than clean surface? That brings us back to soap-and-water—always new.

GARY GREENER

son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Greener, Twin Falls, has been awarded the Bickel PTA scholarship. He is a senior at Twin Falls High School and was selected from four applicants. To be eligible a student must have attended Bickel School, complete a questionnaire and write an essay on why application is being made and listing intentions to pursue higher education. He plans to attend the College of Southern Idaho and later secure an education in pharmacy at Idaho State University. He plans later to become a physician.

Trophy winners

MEMBERS OF TWO TOPS Clubs in Twin Falls came home from State Recognition Days at Moscow with trophies and other awards. Mrs. Peggy Curry, left, Kimberly, member of Trimmer TOPS, has lost 70 pounds during the past year and received first place in the state. She also received the area award for Division 4. She wore a size 20 dress before her weight loss and now wears an attractive size 8-10. Mrs. Loretta Snow, Twin Falls, was first runner-up in stork division 1 of the state. She is a member of TOPS Measures-Up. She lost 15 pounds during her pregnancy and still delivered a healthy 7.5 pound boy. Since then she has lost 25 more pounds and hopes to drop another 60 pounds to win an award given for 100-pound losers. State Recognition Days will be held in Twin Falls next spring at the College of Southern Idaho. About 600 members from throughout Idaho will attend. Trimmer TOPS meets at the Y-WYCA on Mondays and TOPS Measures-Up meets each Thursday at the Bowladrome.

Church Sunday planned

CEDAR DRAW — Members of the Cedar Draw Grange planned a go-to-church Sunday May 16 at the First Baptist Church in Buhl when they met Monday at the Grange Hall. A picnic will follow church.

J. C. Hendrix, master, said several changes in the Twin Falls County Fair produce section will take place this year. There will be enlarged space for junior flower and vegetable gardeners.

It also was announced that Twin Falls County clean-up day will be May 8. Members of the Grange who will take part are asked to meet at the Buhl City Park at 8 a.m. Advance notice is needed if workers plan to eat lunch in Filer with the rest of the clean-up crew.

The U.S. Department of Employment has announced it will maintain an office in the old telephone company building in Buhl this summer to supply the needs of the area. Two days notice is suggested so that jobs can be filled by qualified local people, the grangers were told. Lilly Mefford, women's activity chairman, said sewing contest registration closes Friday.

A program of music by seventh and eighth grade girls chorus members from Buhl was presented. Annette Buckendorf directed and Carla Simons accompanied the group. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Perkins also gave a travelogue about their trip to Germany last summer to visit their 1969-70 exchange student guest, Rosemary Mathews, lecturer, was in charge of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Story, newcomers to the community, and their guest, wife of the founder of Shakley health and organically-grown foods, will present the program at the May 10 meeting.

Trudy Gibson says vows in April rites

JEROME — Trudy Gibson, daughter of Mrs. Thelma Hardy Gibson, Jerome, became the bride of Joe Terherst, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenford Terherst, Green Forest, Ark., in a double-ring candlelight ceremony April 10th at the First Christian Church, Jerome.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Jerry Nelson before a background of brass cathedral candelabra holding pink tapers. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Parke Butcher, Moore. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. J.U. Fort, and Randy Davis sang.

The bride wore a shell pink A-line satin-peau-de-sole gown fashioned with short sleeves, an inverted front pleat of lace and trimmed with a band of matching lace outlined with seed pearls. Her shoulder length veil was of bridal illusion with headdress of satin and lace petals outlined with matching pearls. The headdress and veil were designed and made by her sister, Mrs. Parke Butcher, who also made the gowns for the bride and her attendants.

The bride wore an heirloom cameo brooch fastened to her blue garter and a birthdate penny in her shoe. The brooch had been a gift to the bride's grandmother for her 10th anniversary. She carried a bouquet of cushion mums and daisies in the bridal colors. Matron of honor was Mrs. Butcher.

Serving as best man was Luther Tyree, Filer. Parke and Paul Butcher, Moore, nephews of the bride, served as ushers and candlelighters.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a three-tier wedding cake, trimmed with pink roses and bells, and topped with white wedding bells trimmed with pink tulle and lilies of the valley. Silver candelabra flanked the cake. Serving the cake was Mrs. H.P. Butcher, Sr., Moore. Mrs. Jerry James, Jerome, and Mrs. John Bryan, Gooding, served the punch and coffee.

Mrs. Barry Baumert, Twin Falls, registered guests and Sheryl Johnson received and arranged the gifts.

The couple is living in Filer until the first of May, when they will move to Arkansas.

BURLEY — The Ca-Doka Chapter of the National Secretaries Association held its annual dinner in honor of National Secretaries Week at Ramada Inn.

Mrs. Fern West, Secretary of the Year, was presented an engraved NSA compact. She is a past president and secretary of the Twin-Ida Chapter, parent chapter for the local Ca-Doka chapter and has held many chairmanships in the local chapter.

Mrs. Corinne Anderson was inducted as a new member.

becomes the eighth presidential daughter to be wed in the White House in June.

Thousands and thousands of words already have been written about Tricia's engagement to Edward Finch Cox. And scores of thousands more will be written before the 24-year-old son of a New York socialite family marries President Nixon's blonde, blue-eyed daughter.

"It's amazing how romance is still so much a part of our lives," said Mrs. Nixon, mother of the bride-to-be. "Everyone is so excited and wants to be invited."

Plans for 25-year-old Tricia's wedding still are not complete. But Mrs. Nixon says that once she begins planning the ceremony with Cox' mother, she hopes to make it "different" from the seven earlier White House ceremonies for presidents' daughters.

Although Washington newswomen are quipping "I wish they'd elope," they are generally completely caught up in the excitement that is building at the White House and would be disappointed if they didn't get a chance to cover the big event.

Mrs. Nixon laughingly said last week that the White House already has received 600 requests from reporters wanting to cover the wedding.

The first White House wedding on record was that of Thomas Todd, a Supreme Court associate justice, and Mrs. Lucy Payne, sister of Dolley Madison. They wed March 19, 1812, in the Oval Parlor, which later became the Blue Room.

The only presidential son married in the White House was John Adams II, son of President John Quincy Adams who wed his cousin Mary Hellen, Feb. 25, 1828, in the Blue Room.

Conservation officer is Declo speaker

DECLO — Bob Stackler, Idaho Fish and Game Conservationist was guest speaker at the Declo Kiwanis Club meeting at Min's Cafe, it was announced today.

A film titled "The Vanishing Streams" was viewed. "Man is the first organism to degrade its own environment," Stackler told the group.

"Glaciers gave birth to streams, and they are vital for the support, not only of fish, but many other kinds of wildlife," Stackler said. Changing channels of streams is sometimes devastating to the beds and such a practice has greatly reduced the percentage of fish in many streams. Idaho can ill afford to allow the devastation of its streams, but for some streams it is already too late, he said.

Diversion often leaves channels completely dry, and the demand for water exceeds the supply and some has to be reused, he reported. Hunters, fishermen and local residents are becoming concerned with the stream problems.

Everett Pärdev gave the opening prayer and Carl Osterhout, president, conducted the business meeting.

Calm greets changes

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
The American public seems to have taken with remarkable aplomb the sudden crumbling of policies which for more than 20 years divided the peoples of the United States and Mainland China.

But if the American public could greet with calm what Chinese Premier Chou En-lai described as a "new page" in relations between the two nations and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, more expansively, saw as the hopeful beginning of a "new chapter", other reaction was less than calm.

In the midst of the new thaw, Australia felt it necessary to reassert loyalty to its ties with Taiwan—a loyalty which may prove costly. The Chinese Communists have not renewed an order for Australian wheat and the Australians believe their ties with the Nationalists on Formosa may be responsible.

In Japan, Chinese Communist newsmen joined for the first time a party held by Prime Minister Eisaku Sato to view the cherry blossoms. Newsmen promptly dubbed their action "cherry blossom" diplomacy.

The Tokyo government worried about the effect improved U.S.-Red Chinese ties might have upon trade, especially if the end result should be diplomatic recognition between the two governments. Japan now supplies Red China with 20 per cent of its imports but the two nations have no diplomatic ties. Nor are the Japanese eager for them. Japan so far has paid out $4 billion in wartime reparations but nothing to China where she did most of her damage.

It is a question certain to be opened should diplomatic relations be established.

Taiwan saw the visit of the American table tennis team as "unwise" and "regrettable." Moscow's foreign affairs weekly newspaper, New Times, denounced the Chinese Communists "for quickly coming to terms with those with whom it had just called "enemies".

No matter what the reactions or the emotions they expressed, two things seemed obvious:

Before anything like good relations could be established between the United States and Red China, the Chinese would have to relax their unyielding attitude toward their claim on Formosa and the United States would have to relax its attitude toward a United Nations' seat for Red China.

Resort project pushed

By WARREN GOSSETT
Times-News Writer

SUN VALLEY — On the surface Sun Valley appears to be in hibernation, with the lull between tourist seasons full-blown upon this idyllic mountain resort village.

But if one listens quietly, the sounds of activity can be heard throughout the village, especially in the area of the Challenger Inn.

This world-famous hotel, for several years suffering from growing pains, is in the midst of being completely renovated inside.

Workers are tearing down walls and turning 54 private rooms into 34 individual units, each with private bath.

When the inn was constructed in 1937, guests had to share bathrooms with adjacent rooms. That was fine back then, when vacationers usually traveled in groups, but the scene has changed today and the facilities are not adequate.

Three years ago one wing of the inn was rebuilt, with aliding glass doors and new carpeting added. The change was pleasing and it was decided change should affect the whole of the interior.

The Tyrolean appearance of the inn's exterior will remain the same, with no changes in the plans.

Several other changes are being considered by Sun Valley officials, including a new lobby and entrance for the inn and a new restaurant which ultimately could seat 1,000 guests.

Aside from the work on the Challenger Inn, Sun Valley's transition to the summer season is a leisurely one, with small chores such as raking up winter's debris, checking out equipment and lining up summer activity.

Sun Valley's winter offerings are world-famous, but the village's summer activities are not to be shuffled to second place.

A list of available activities could go on and on, but among the most popular are golfing, tennis, swimming in a competition-size pool, an outdoor skating rink, horseback riding, fishing, hiking and shopping in the village mall.

Jerome joyous at plant word

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

JEROME — Announcement of the Tupperware plant to be built south of here was received with shock, followed by joy, Wednesday by Jerome officials, as well as expressions of the progress which they feel will result.

Disbelief was the first reaction, since rumors of the plant locating south of Jerome have circulated during the past year.

Many people doubted it would be built.

The news of the firm's location on some 80 acres of land owned by Dr. Charles Parker and Dr. Wesley Rose, Jerome optometrists, also was a surprise to the landowners. Dr. Parker said there had been an option on the land when talks started, but it had expired.

The Tupperware firm never has dealt directly with the owners, but a representative of the Union Pacific Railroad had called on Dr. Parker and Dr. Rose. Dr. Parker said he was under the impression the representative was dealing for the Tupperware people, but "he never said so."

After the option on the land was dropped, the doctors decided to offer the U.P. Aided an option of right of first refusal, under which terms he could have the right to purchase the land within five days notice.

The site is located one-half mile north of the interchange of Interstate 80 and the former Highway 79 one mile south of Jerome, on the east side of the old highway. The plant will be located 50 feet from the railroad tracks, and its proximity to the railroad was one of the principal reasons for the choice since the Tupperware products will be transported by rail.

Dr. Parker said this morning he still has not yet been officially notified by the firm, but he understood a letter was being mailed to him and Dr. Rose today. The land is adjacent to a farm owned by Dr. Rose and has been used by him for running his Charolais cattle.

Mayor Jack Russell said, "This is very good news for our community. It will definitely have quite an impact on the area and will create a demand for more housing. We're having a housing boom now and I'm sure this will mean even more."

Mike Sullivan, Bank of Idaho manager at Jerome, said 31 houses either are being built or have been built recently in Jerome.

The mayor also said the announcement "will be a shot in the arm for businesses — and I'm sure it will help the surrounding towns as well. I'm real happy about it. Property values and the tax base should both increase."

The need for more services, such as gas stations, was pointed out by Dale Vining, postmaster and chairman of the school board.

"I think this will mean quite a growth to the area, for even with local persons taking many of the jobs, it will still mean many other people coming to the area."

"This will mean quite a load on the service-type businesses, as it is estimated 75 per cent of the people wait on the other 25 per cent, and if you multiply that by 900, you have quite a need for more businesses such as restaurants and gas stations."

"The school board will now have to consider the possibility of additional families moving into town and the extra load of children in the system."

"One thing, we're going to have to give serious thought to building either a new high school or grade school and the possibility of purchasing 79 acres of land south of Fillmore."

"With this news, the proposed addition to the high school gymnasium is very much in doubt at this time, and to my way of thinking, won't be done," Vining said.

John Van Orman, county commission chairman and zoning board member, said the site where the plant will be located now is zoned for agriculture, and to his knowledge no request has yet been made for a zoning change, but this would create no problem.

The Rural Planning Development group already is planning for additional type of industrial development, and Van Orman said "we have some information and plans for this type of development we know is coming," indicating one such large plant as the Tupperware firm could well attract other new industries.

Walter Bentzinger, city councilman, said the only problem he could see as far as the city is concerned is if they need water "we'll have to provide it. If they dig their own well, there's no problem. If the firm wants city water, we'll have to lay a water line to the area and we don't have money budgeted for this."

The city has plenty of water, but only a shortage of money to install the pipe and pay for it. The plant is one mile from the city limits.

State aide sets talk

BOISE (UPI) — State Labor Commissioner Bartlett R. Brown will be one of the principal speakers at the spring meeting of the Idaho Safety Council in Burley May 7.

The councilman said in the early talks, representatives of the firm said they would construct their own waste disposal plant, so this should cause no problem with the city sewage facilities.

Jim Keith, chamber of commerce president, said, "This is just tremendous. We've been waiting and working on this for a long time, especially Leo Alftin, past chamber president."

Keith said many people in Jerome have worked long and hard and no one was ever sure if the plans would materialize or not. The industrial committee of the chamber has been trying hard to get industry into the area, he said.

Offices to join in May

TWIN FALLS — Consolidation of the Buhl and Twin Falls Selective Service offices with headquarters in Twin Falls becomes effective May 10, Faye Hoffman, executive secretary, announced today.

She said the Twin Falls office will then be serving the entire county and those registered or planning to register in the west end area will be required to do business from the Twin Falls office.

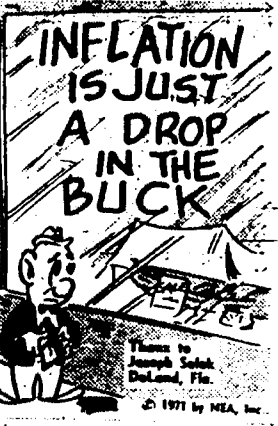

Mrs. Hoffman said the announcement is being made now to give Buhl, Castelford and other western county residents time to make plans for the change.

Incumbent on ballot

FILER — Filer's school trustee election will be held May 4 in the foyer of the high school, with one trustee to be named in Zone 1.

Lawrence Knigge, incumbent, has filed for reelection, and no other petitions have been received, Supt. Tom Turner said.

Today's FUNNY

Commission expects wine sale vote move

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — County commissioners in Twin Falls said today they expect some move within the next 30 days by wine distributors and possibly retail interests to instigate an election on the question of retail sales of table wine in the local county.

The comments followed a meeting Wednesday with representatives of seven counties of Magic Valley in which officials decided to let the people of each county decide the question in a special election.

Petitions with signatures of 20 per cent of the voters of the past election will be needed to force county commissioners to call such an election. In Twin Falls County there were about 13,000 votes cast last November. W.L. (Bill) Chancy, commission chairman, said.

Commissioners here said, following the meeting with other county officials, they felt such a question should be decided by the public because of strong feelings for and against wine sales.

Cost of a special election in Twin Falls County would be about $10,000, County Clerk Harold Lancaster said. He said it would be hoped, if residents are money saving in their thinking, they would ask the question be included on the next regular election ballot.

This would cut the cost to almost nothing but would delay sales for a year, he said.

The new state law, discussed in a valley-wide meeting Wednesday in Twin Falls by William Roden, Boise attorney and author of the bill, would legalize table wine sales in retail outlets where a beer license is held or could be obtained. Sales would not become effective until July 1, 1971.

The first regular election at which the question could be submitted along with candidate voting would be in August, 1972, or possibly not until November, 1972, depending on the provisions of new election laws, Lancaster said.

In the Wednesday meeting, Roden said the intent of the legislature in adopting the bill was to allow commissioners an opportunity to approve wine sales by resolution and save the expensive cost of elections.

He said the bill gives three alternatives — a county resolution to authorize sales in grocery stores; a right for voters to petition for an election to force county action if approved, or a right of voters to petition for an election to reverse the action of the commissioners.

By doing nothing, he said, commissioners would be prohibiting the wine sales until called for by an election if voters approved the question. This will be the route followed in Magic Valley according to action of officials of the seven counties.

Counties involved include Jerome, Camas, Gooding, Lincoln, Twin Falls, Minidoka and Cassia. Purpose of the meeting Wednesday was to follow a unified course and if possible to prevent sales in one county with a closure in an adjoining county. Action taken, however, may still leave the situation varying according to county lines, depending on the outcome of elections or the petitioning for elections.

"We all feel the people have this right and we don't want to take over the power of the people on an issue where there are definitely two sides," Chancy said.

Three counties were mentioned Wednesday by Roden as having adopted wine sales. He said the law provides a set $100 state license fee for retailers and gives counties and cities the right to set fees up to $100 each. In counties having already adopted the retail wine sales, he said, $25 fees for city and county, the same as required for beer sales, have been generally adopted.

State school slates session

GOODING — The Idaho State School for the Blind will conduct a two day institute for parents of visually impaired children on May 13-14.

Their children will not attend the institute because the school feels more can be accomplished if the parents are free to participate in every phase of the session, Supt. Ed Reay said.

Events will include a reception Wednesday evening, classroom visits and demonstrations and a musical program Thursday morning.

Guest speaker for the May 13 session will be Mrs. Donnise Shidler, a graduate of Willamette University, Salem, Ore., and the current parent counselor of the Oregon State School for the Blind in Salem. She will lecture on "Your Child's Development: A Comparison."

Events scheduled Thursday afternoon include lectures by Dr. E. J. Cutler, ophthalmologist, and Dr. Marion Klingler, school doctor.

Parents will also see a film and tour the campus.

On May 14 Mrs. Shidler will again speak. Her topic will be "Concept: Building Blocks for Learning." Other Friday events include panel discussions with the parents, and lessons on grooming, given by Mrs. Miriam Koester, homemaker teacher, and learning to travel independently, by Mrs. Ruth Ellen Parke, principal.

There is no fee to attend the institute except transportation to and from the school, Reay said. Meals will be served at the dining hall and parents will be housed at the school and in local motels, all at no charge.

Reay said notices of the institute have been sent to parents and to the county health nurses, and he hopes a large number of parents will attend.

New plant to aid area

JEROME — The new Tupperware factory, which will employ 450 area people at the outset, according to predictions, will help alleviate a reported "substantial unemployment" situation in Jerome County, according to the Idaho Department of Employment.

John Leinen, manager of the Twin Falls office of the employment department, said that the effect of employment opportunities offered by the new plant "is hard to tell," but that many people will be helped.

"I imagine there will be a lot of people willing to work in Jerome if the pay is adequate and they don't have to travel too far," Leinen said.

The Congressional Record reported in its March 30 issue that Jerome is regarded in federal employment statistics as an area of "substantial unemployment," with six per cent or more of the total estimated labor market unemployed at the time of the survey. Leinen said, however, that the figures are "only relative," referring to unemployment on a percentage basis. The large number of families in the area which have been brought in by construction of the Interstate link between Jerome and Wendell can alter the figures and make the situation seem somewhat worse than it is, Leinen said.

"We've had a surge of apparent unemployment here with the seasonal layoffs at Sun Valley, for instance," Leinen said. "A lot of people" have been added to the unemployment rolls with this and similar seasonal changes, he explained.

He said that, in the final analysis, the Tupperware factory will help the entire area's unemployment, as nearly all of the employees will be local people, and most will be women.

Bridge planned

HAILEY — Blaine County commissioners have invited comment concerning the "potential environmental impact" of the planned replacement of the East Fork Bridge, located about one-fourth mile east of the junction of Highway 93 with the East Fork road.

The route is also called the North Star Triumph Road, according to John Fox, chairman of the Blaine County commissioners. The said section of the road to be rebuilt is the bridge crossing the Big Wood River at Gimlet.

The existing structure is narrow and not capable of carrying current traffic loads. It is anticipated the bridge will be rebuilt to Federal Aid Secondary standards, Fox said, with a minimum design speed of 50 miles per hour.

The road services farm and grazing lands along with providing access to residential, mining and recreation areas. The route also provides access to part of the Wilderness area. Included in the project will be short approaches to the bridge. No major realignment in the road or bridge is anticipated.

During the design and construction of the project, consideration will be given to prevent soil erosion, stream pollution and other environmental effects which the road might create, Fox said.

State board studies funds

BOISE (UPI) — The State Board of Education will determine the status of a $103,942 contingency fund for Idaho's four state institutions of higher learning when it meets in Idaho Falls May 6-7.

Board members also will consider salary changes for the heads of the institutions under the board's control, according to Dr. Donald F. Kline, executive director of the office of higher education.

The contingency fund, held over from last month's meeting, will be considered for divisions among the four schools.

Also on the board's agenda is consideration of student fee charges at the four schools.

On the afternoon of May 6, the board will meet in executive session to discuss what President Joseph D. McCollum, Twin Falls, said will be "some personnel and land acquisition matters."

Topics up for action on the University of Idaho's agenda include a new graduate course in economics, sale of land to the city of Moscow and discontinuance of regulations over student women's hours.

A new program addition in education and psychology at Lewis-Clark Normal School also is up for consideration. So is the creation of a new department of political science at Boise State College.

Idaho State University is asking approval on behalf of the Associated Students for a message center addition to the scoreboard in the Minidoka, to be financed by student fees.

Appointed

BOISE (UPI) — Mrs. Dolores Sims has been appointed community coordinator for the Twin Falls area of the Idaho section of the Mountain States Regional Medical Program.

A nursing instructor at the College of Southern Idaho, Mrs. Sims recently was elected to the board of directors of the Mountain States Regional Medical Program.

Mini-Cassia

Idaho bills described

BURLEY — Sen. Robert Saxvik, D-Burley, outlined some of the bills passed by the 41st Idaho Legislature at the Wednesday luncheon meeting of the Burley Kiwanis Club.

The criminal code as passed practically rewrote Idaho's criminal code, he said.

With the help of Gordon Nielson, Cassia County prosecuting attorney, Saxvik said, he was able to debate the bill and try for revisions. "We felt some of the language was ambiguous. It will take the courts to state what the language in the bill actually says," he said.

Sen. Saxvik said, "As I debated the bill I was accused of nitpicking by some senators." He found out that his debate wasn't a completely futile effort on his part.

"During the second debate I pointed out a weakness. That weakness is: How can senators or representatives who have been involved with the drawing up of a bill really vote on it without being prejudiced?" Sen. Saxvik said.

This code becomes effective Jan. 1, 1972.

The Uniform Consumer Credit Code sets the maximum interest rate that can be charged. This code, he said, also sets the maximum interest rate on bank credit cards at 15 per cent.

"Idaho is the third nation to adopt this code. Utah and Oklahoma have already passed the code. We're hopeful this code will substitute for the Federal Truth in Lending Act," he said.

The new probate code simplified the probate of states for the benefit of the public, he said.

"The 18-year-old vote is going to cause many problems. The Supreme Court's ruling permitting 18-year-olds to vote in national and not state elections creates a problem for the county commissioners."

During the regular session the legislature agreed to put it on the 1972 general election ballot. However, since that time

Congress has passed a constitutional amendment. This amendment has to be ratified by 38 states.

"To date 20 states have ratified it. And in our next session it may be ratified by Idaho's legislature. By giving the vote to 18 year olds, questions are going to arise as to whether or not they are old enough to be responsible for their own bills," he said.

"Certain codes and laws in Idaho will have to be looked at to see if they need to be revised," Sen. Saxvik said.

A bill was also passed that gives residents of Idaho over 65 a fishing license for $1. This goes into effect Jan. 1, 1972.

The cougar, Sen. Saxvik said, was removed from the predator list. It was classified as a game animal and the Idaho Fish and Game Department will regulate season and take.

"The tag provision was taken out of the bill. This provision will have to be put back in," he said.

Under the law if a rancher is having trouble from a cougar on his property he can kill it, he said.

Another bill passed by the legislature limits the number of non-resident big game licenses.

"This bill may look like a closed door policy but it's not. The Idaho Fish and Game Department didn't want it as it loses revenue. However, once in awhile the legislature has to let the departments know who the boss is," he said.

The farm labor bill was a result of the trouble in Treasure Valley last fall, he said.

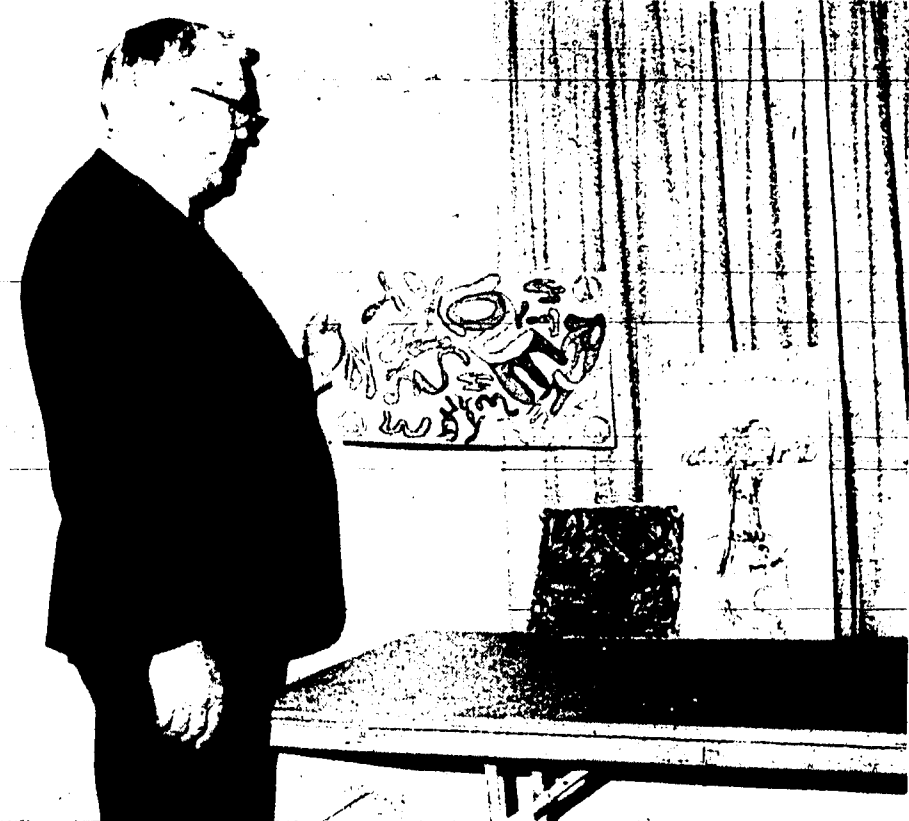

Sen. Saxvik said, "I feel this bill is needed. However, I wonder if it was necessary to rush into it like we did."

The original bill was drawn up by the food producers. However, the final bill didn't resemble the original bill, he said.

He also pointed out that this is the only state that has such a bill controlled by a department outside the Department of Labor.

Camp Fire Girls hold international party

BURLEY — The Sacajawea Camp Fire Girls group hosted an International Party Wednesday at United Methodist Church auditorium. Eight Camp Fire groups attended the event and Wendy Fernandez, exchange student from Chile, was guest speaker.

Miss Fernandez is attending Burley High School and is making her home with Mr. and Mrs. Hermon King and family, Burley.

She showed slides of her native country and told about each of the pictures in her presentation. She also displayed items of her native country.

The Camp Fire Girls were reminded to send in their subscriptions for the "Today's Girl" a new magazine published by the Camp Fire Girls organization. It contains a special section for leaders.

Portions of a newsletter from the Camp Committee Magic Valley Council of Camp Fire Girls was read regarding Camp Tawakan which is located in Rock Creek Canyon south of Hansen. The scenic beauty of the mountains and other natural features make this an ideal place for girls to learn outside skills. Three weekly sessions will be offered this year starting July 18.

The camp committee is planning a Camp Day July 15 to acquaint everyone with the camp.

Girls may attend one, two or three weeks. Summer camp is Birds, and also for those girls who are not now in Camp Fire.

"We want every girl in Magic Valley to have an opportunity to come to camp and enjoy the fellowship that only displays itself when everyone is enjoying themselves in the woods; sharing the fine nature is the real joy of living, let's share this joy with each other this summer," stated the camp committee.

Mrs. Gene Wright presented Miss Fernandez an honorary Camp Fire Girls life membership certificate and a Camp Fire pin.

Members of the hostess group were Sandy Drapeau, Kim Gutierrez, Krista Henley, Susan McNutt, Laurie Kunau, Teressa Murray and Carol Wright.

Cassia county youth center housed in Burley United Methodist Church

By JERRY HERRMANN
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Youths between the ages of 13 and 20 in the Burley area can do "their own thing" Monday through Saturday nights at the Cassia County Youth Center.

This center is located in the basement of the United Methodist Church in Burley.

The Rev. George Trobough of UMC, said the center is an outgrowth of the CCYC, which opened at a location further north on Overland Avenue on Jan. 1. It ran for a month at that location, he said.

He also pointed out that his church had held a "Youth Night" each Wednesday in the basement of the church since Sept. 9, 1970. When the other center opened the church discontinued its "Youth Night."

"We closed down because we didn't want to compete with the community program," he said.

However, when the other center started having problems the church invited it to use its basement. This offer was accepted after a vote was taken by the youth using the center, Rev. Trobough said.

On March 1, the center opened in the church basement. Since that time it has been open to all of the youth of the area from 4 to 6 p.m. and 7 to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Saturdays, Rev. Trobough said.

However, due to the lack of interest shown by the youth the center has only been open from 7 - 9:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Rev. Trobough said that the attendance at the center has ranged from a low of five persons to a high of 68 during one night's operation. The average has been around 15 youth a night.

For the youth using the center the rules are simple. No smoking or alcoholic beverages is allowed; no drugs can be brought into the center; no roughhousing is allowed and no one is admitted to the center who has been drinking.

These rules are enforced by the adult counselors who are at the center each night. These counselors are volunteers from the church and the community, he said.

"The counselors are there because they want to be involved with the youth if they want them to be," he said.

Activities the youth using the center can be involved in are pingpong, chess, checkers, games, billiards, card games, and they can also listen to a juke box. All of these activities are free to the youth.

The Rev. Trobough said some youth have also participated in other activities. One boy played a piano; a girl played a guitar and sang songs one night, and many youths have drawn pieces of art that are displayed in the center. Also, one boy used it as a place to study one night, he said.

He also said that there isn't any other gathering place in town for youth of this age unless they belong to some organization or church group.

Youth from all brackets of society use this center, he said.

"We hope to be able to communicate good enough with the youth using the center so that when they know of a job opening they can tell the youth about it that would fit the job," he said.

Right now the center is run by temporary nine man board of directors. The board consists of Jay Hodge, temporary chairman; the Rev. Barry Ball, Ken Barry, Gordon Nielson, Grant Fillmore, Calvin Triplett, Al Dawson, Lewis Sands and Larry Stephenson.

The board has received a proposed constitution for the group and is studying it at present, he said.

One problem the center has had since it opened, Rev. Trobough said, is the lack of funds. So far one Murtaugh club has donated $15 and pledged further support, one sorority in Burley is considering raising funds for it, the Civil Air Patrol held a fund raising event for it. "We hope eventually the group will be able to pay the church for its share of the utility bill," he said.

Rev. Trobough also said that it is hoped that the community will eventually provide the youth with a youth center. Until that time it will probably be housed in the basement of the United Methodist Church.

"SO WHAT'S IN it for you?" say the looks on the faces of these two friends, at the Dale Spelcher home, Route 1, Cedar Falls, Iowa. The Hereford cow and companion — a nearly 2 1/2-year-old deer — have taken to each other. Officials say the deer, an "unusual species", is not a native of Iowa. They speculate the animal was once domesticated. Plans are being made to move the deer to a wildlife refuge in Lodges state park near Boone to protect it from hunters. (UPI)

Corn blight center opens

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's new hopes to begin next week a series of regular weekly reports on progress of the blight disease which poses a major threat to the U.S. farm and food economy.

The information center, manned by a small group of agriculture department specialists, will assemble reports from federal and state agents. Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin announced recently the group would issue a regular series of "factual reports" designed to quell the spread of unfounded rumors about 1971 infestations of southern corn leaf blight.

Information center officials said today they had made no formal announcement yet, but were tentatively planning to issue the first of their weekly reports next week — probably on Monday, May 3. Future reports will probably be issued each Monday afternoon thereafter, a spokesman said. Later in the year, beginning about mid-June, the reports will include data from a planned "blight watch" program in which ground observations of selected test sites will be cross-checked with results of high-altitude aerial photography. The first reports, however, will be based on information from federal and state officials who have been checking conditions on the ground in the south and parts of the midwest.

Initial reports also will be based, an official said, on air sampling now underway in parts of the midwest to check for the presence of blight fungus spores. Last year, a combination of southern corn leaf blight in some areas and drought in others brought corn production down 15 per cent. Uncertainty about the potential effect of the blight on this year's corn crop has left grain farmers, government officials and the livestock industry with a big question mark about the outlook for animal feed supplies and meat prices. Agriculture department experts have speculated that with favorable growing conditions and blight no worse than last year.

Cold weather slows growth

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho crops are in good condition although growth has been slow because of cool weather, a federal crop report said today.

"Rain and shower activity greatly improved dry topsoils in the central and eastern sections," the report said.

"Irrigation water, which is in ample supply, is being made available for application in all areas of the state.

"Forage supplies are excellent on ranges and the winter wheat crop is in good condition. Warmer weather is now needed for all crops to grow."

The report said planting of spring cereal grains varies from about 25 per cent complete in the north and east to about 75 per cent elsewhere in the state.

Sugar beets are about 50 per cent seeded in the Magic Valley and more than 75 per cent in the Treasure Valley area, the report said.

Potato planting is active in southwestern Idaho and about 25 per cent of the acreage has been planted.

With the exception of a few early fields, however, planting in the southcentral and eastern Idaho potato counties has been minimal, the report said.

Pea and lentil seeding is under way in northern Idaho and about 50 per cent of the acreage has been planted.

About five to 10 per cent of the spring cereal seedings have emerged in the northern and eastern sectors of the state, the report said. In the southcentral and western valleys nearly 50 per cent of the spring grain plantings have come up.

Fruit prospects continue to be good, the report said. Development has been slow but satisfactory in terms of frost.

Salmon storage adequate

HOLLISTER — The Salmon Reservoir storage reading for this time of the year is the highest since 1921, according to Morris Huffman, manager of the Salmon River Canal Co.

Other years have seen higher readings in May or June but this is the highest for April as storage at the reservoir today was 90,275 acre feet and the reservoir gauge reading was 48.65, he said.

Precipitation for the month of April to date totaled 1.80 inches.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market showed a steady tone as trading turned the halfway point Thursday. Turnover was heavy.

Advances barely topped declines, 655 to 624, while key market indicators moved in both directions. A three-hour turnover of 12,640,000 shares compared with 15,410,000 shares traded at a comparable period in the previous session.

Analysts said the list was caught between profit taking and continued optimism about the economy.

Moody's Investors Service, in its publication, "The Stock Survey," said "rising consumer spending will be an important determinant of the duration and intensity of the economic recovery now in progress."

The firm said it expects consumer spending to continue in an uptrend, although with gains less dramatic than in the first quarter of the year.

In the meantime, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., introduced a bill Thursday to speed up scheduled tax and unemployment benefit changes he said were needed immediately to stimulate the economy.

Among the day's most active issues were Central & South West Corp. off 1/2 on 281,200 shares, Cleveland Electric down 1/4 on 206,900 shares, Texas Utilities down 1/4 on 184,600 shares, and Ling-Temco off 1/4 on 179,000 shares.

Less active General Motors and Standard Oil of California added a point apiece. Louisville & Nashville Railroad gained 5, Texas Instruments 3/4 and Paroid 3/8.

Milwaukee belts Bullets to take 3-0 series lead

A solid foundation in fisheries and an eagerness to understand big game and other problems sums up the new fourth district representative to the Idaho Fish and Game Commission, Jack Hemingway of Ketchum. Meanwhile, battle scarred veteran Ray J. Holmes, Twin Falls, who ostensibly is out of the picture now, can look back on 18 years of solid service to the state and this region — and the rumor persists there is a possibility that Holmes isn't out to pasture for long.

The appointments, announced Tuesday by Governor Cecil Andrus, (Glenn Stanger of Idaho Falls also concluded 18 years on the board) put the state in a position of a bunch of new men with a lot to learn in a near crisis period. The longest tenure now is two years and the intricacies of running a mighty volatile, politically coveted and legislative dominated department will take much more experience than that.

"We (Holmes and Stanger) can feel satisfied that we are turning over to these people and the state of Idaho a resource of far more quality and a department of much better efficiency than we inherited 18 years ago," Holmes said. "When we first came to the commission, it was between Idaho and Oklahoma for having the worst department in the country — and being rated with Oklahoma was serious. But now everywhere — but in Idaho — our department is rated among the top five in the nation."

Hemingway, a field editor for Field and Stream magazine, brings a pretty thorough knowledge of fishing and fisheries to the post with him because that has been his biggest bent through life. He has a better than average acquaintance with big game and small game but says "I hope to learn a lot more about them."

Although he has been a resident of Idaho only since 1967, he first became aware of Idaho around 1940. He spent 12 years in the service and later was a stock broker, living in Oregon, Cuba ("before Mr. Castro made it so tough to get in and out") and San Francisco. But Hemingway and his wife, who lived in Pocatello, Boise and Twin Falls while growing up, said "we always had it in our mind to come back to Idaho when it was possible."

He finds a necessity, of course, for game law enforcement, but subscribes largely to the theory that man's technology has put the environment and wildlife species in their special periled position and man's technology appears the best way out of the problem.

He is looking forward to a crash course in wildlife knowledge, beginning next week when he'll meet with regional department personnel to hear recommendations for seasons and limits. His first official act on the commission will be setting of big and small game seasons.

But the new commission is in a tough pinch right now. Fortunately, Governor Andrus has been wise enough to invite the old veteran, Ray Holmes, to sit in as an advisor. Among the knotty problems are (1) trying to satisfy department personnel although the legislature has removed $250,000 earmarked for salary increases and new positions and (2) try to replace the estimated one-half to three-quarter million dollars the legislature took out of anticipated revenue by setting limits on the number of non-resident hunting licenses that may be sold.

There are reports that Holmes has been or will be offered a special-type consultant situation in which he will advise the commission, continue his work on the Outfitter-Guide board and work for wildlife interests during legislative sessions.

However, knowing Holmes' fervent desire to keep politics (even governor's attitudes) out of wildlife management, before accepting such a position ironclad and satisfactory guidelines would have to be established.

After all, the old commission didn't tackle such behemoths as Idaho Power and Oregon and Washington power interests, mining, livestock and other politically and economically powerful public and private interests to give up on the deal now.

It is the feeling here that Ray J. Holmes deserves a standing ovation for his long work for Idaho resources and hopefully MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee Bucks toyed briefly with Baltimore, but then came back behind the scoring of Bob Dandridge and the rebounding of Lew Alcindor Wednesday night to beat the Bullets 107-99 and take a commanding 3-0 lead in the National Basketball Association championship playoffs.

Dandridge, who scored only 31 points in the first two games of the final playoffs, came through with 29 Wednesday night and Alcindor swept the boards at will against the game but undermanned Bullets as Milwaukee moved to within one game of clinching the 1971 NBA championship.

The task could have been made even tougher for the already injury-riddled Bullets, who will host Milwaukee Friday night in the fourth game of the series. Rebounding star Gus Johnson did not suit up for Baltimore because of a knee injury and the Bullets also suffered a scare in the fourth quarter when scoring star Earl

He returned and played briefly, left again and after a trip to the locker room came back to play another minute. Milwaukee was in control of the game throughout, despite the fact that Baltimore slashed a 18-point lead to two points at one point in the third quarter.

Bullets would like to win one

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — "I'd sure like to win at least one game from these guys," Baltimore Bullets guard Kevin Loughery said after the Bullets had suffered a 107-99 loss to the Milwaukee Bucks Wednesday night.

The win gave the Bucks a commanding 3-0 lead and made it necessary to win just one out of four remaining games to take the championship of the National Basketball Association.

Santo's freak hit lets Chicago win

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ron Santo's slow roller down the third base line, in the ninth inning, which the Montreal Expos' five-man infield allowed to roll in hopes it would turn foul, struck the bag for a single Wednesday and scored Don Kessinger from third base with the winning run in a 3-2 triumph for the Chicago Cubs.

The Expos' Carl Morton, who lost his third game against two wins, retired 14 consecutive batters going into the ninth and then got into trouble when Kessinger beat out an infield single and Glenn Beckert singled to left.

Morton tried to pick Kessinger off second but his throw was wild and went into center field for an error, the first for the Expos in seven games, and both runners advanced. Billy Williams was walked intentionally to fill the bases and bring Santo to bat.

Yellow light, body disposal studied in technology class

WASHINGTON (UPI)—How long the yellow traffic control light should be on, and what to do with all the dead people, are among questions discussed in some 300 high school science classes using an experimental course geared to an age of technology.

Known as the Man Made World, the course was developed under the direction of Dr. Edward E. David Jr., before he became President Nixon's science adviser, and Dr. John G. Truxal, member of the President's Science Advisory Committee and academic vice president of the Brooklyn (N.Y.) Polytechnic Institute.

In Aurora, Colo., students in the Man Made World course are collecting information on the city's death rate and exploring different methods of burial to solve a space problem vexing many communities.

In Racine, Wis., a math teacher and his students, using concepts from the course and some of the technical tools that go with it—analogue computer and an oscilloscope—figured out how to get a smooth ride over a new, bumpy road causing many citizens complaints. They found the road's expansion joints were causing the problem and the best way to get a smooth ride was to drive at or below the speed limit.

The textbook gets into the traffic light question by challenging students to determine how long the yellow caution light should be on to allow for safety and ideal traffic flow in a small town. The answer often turns out the light is not on long enough.

"This was developed from the need for a course that will turn kids on," explained Dr. Joseph Piel, who authored the book with David and Truxal. The National Science Foundation put up $1.5 million to develop the course, which has passed all its tests and is now available generally to high schools.

"It's relevant to the things kids are concerned about, not what top-flight scientists are concerned about," Piel said.

Ocean controls requested

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration, contending it would not be feasible to ban all ocean dumping at once, asked Congress today instead simply to authorize strict controls on what may be thrown away at sea.

William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), told a Senate subcommittee the administration wants to see "the creation of the farthest reaching and strongest authority that law and technology will allow" to control the dumping of wastes in the nation's coastal waters.

But Ruckelshaus said the EPA does not favor several bills now pending before the Senate Oceans and Atmosphere Subcommittee to prohibit all ocean dumping.

"It would not be feasible to ban all ocean dumping at once," Ruckelshaus said in testimony prepared for the subcommittee. "In some instances, waste disposal methods which are less damaging to the environment than ocean dumping are not immediately available...."

He said many communities that now dump at sea simply could not convert to land disposal immediately. And, he said, not all materials dumped into coastal waters are harmful.

"Some ... may actually be beneficial, for example the sinking of car bodies or other similar materials to serve as shelters for fish," Ruckelshaus said.

Duchess on her right was almost asleep. "If the club finesse is on or spades break 3-3 I have 13 tricks, but that cat looks too happy. He must hold four spades and the king of clubs. If he has five hearts also I may spoil his fun." At trick two she carefully ruffed a low heart. Then she started to run trumps. The cat followed to the first two and had no problem discarding the eight of clubs and a heart on the next two leads. The grin disappeared entirely when Alice played her last trump. The cat fumed, fumbled and finally dropped his king of clubs. He knew a heart or spade discard would give Alice her 13th trick. Alice showed her hand. The cat paused long enough to say, "She's too good for us and then followed his grin into oblivion."

"NEITHER was the man created for the woman; but the woman for the man." So it's stated in the Holy Bible. "Blessed art Thou, O' Lord, our God, King of the Universe, that I was not born a woman." So it's stated in the morning prayers of the Orthodox Jew. "Men are superior to women on account of the qualities which God has given them." So it's stated in the sacred text of Islam, the Koran. A disconsolate feminine subscriber submits the foregoing to prove women everywhere are persecuted, even in the faiths. Noted.

THE PEOPLE WHO do away with themselves outnumber the people who do away with other people hereabouts by three maybe four to one. . . . AGAIN, DEFINITELY, a man's fingernails grow faster than a woman's. . . . CLIENT WRITES, "You're so dumb you think Molly Bolts is a famous feminine patriot." Do not. . . . EVERY THIRD PEDESTRIAN killed in the traffic is over 65. . . . WHEN THE OLD BOY says he shot a stag, bear in mind he also could be talking about a seven-pound rooster.

YOUR COMPANY has a trademark? If so, what's its shape? A scholar who has made a study of the matter contends such shapes signify. Ovals suggest the desire for security, he says. Quite a few of those around. Hexagons symbolize an ambition to branch out. To diversify. Lot of those, too. And diamonds, he claims, reveal nothing more than a craving for profits. Money, money, money. Interesting. There are more than 9,000 diamond-shaped trademarks.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "Zsa Zsa Gabor says she was once Elizabeth Taylor's mother-in-law. Is that right?" A. Not exactly. Zsa Zsa divorced Conrad Hilton in 1946. Elizabeth didn't marry his son Nicky until 1950. . . . Q. "Quick, how many 3-cent stamps in a dozen?" Not 12? . . . Q. "That wild animal specialist on television, Marlin Perkins, does he have any pets?" A. A gray cat at last report, that's all.

THE OLD GREEKS liked brunettes. Much more than blondes. So, history shows, the ladies there and then dyed their hair with something called raven's egg shampoo. Put lampblack in it, probably. Nobody seems to know exactly what Anyhow, that was then. Modern Greeks prefer blondes. Surveys show that.

ARGUMENT CONTINUES over which beats faster, a man's heart or a woman's. A man's, claim several authorities. About nine beats a minute faster. But those doctors, Russell Myles DeCoursey and Thomas F. Morrison, contend otherwise. A woman's beats somewhat faster, they say. Now I'm all mixed up. How do you get a clearcut answer to a simple question around this firetrap anyhow?

Those of you who remember Alice in Wonderland will recall the grinning Cheshire cat. In the story we find the cat disappearing and the grin remaining.

Today finds Alice playing a seven-diamond contract with the Cheshire cat sitting West and the Duchess East. Alice had hoped to find a better dummy. After all her partner had jumped to two no-trump and then used Blackwood.

"Curiouser and curiouser" she mused. "Everyone bids too much here." She looked at her opponents. The Cheshire cat's grin seemed broader than ever while the

Are senior centers tomorrow's hotbeds for political action? Can they swing the next election?

Recently I attended the first Conference of the National Institute of Senior Centers where these questions stole the spotlight. To me, this promises important changes in our present image of senior centers as places strictly for social and recreational outlets.

In his address, "The Action Role of Senior Centers as a Vital Part of the Community," at the opening session of the Conference, Hobart C. Jackson, administrator of Philadelphia's Stephen Smith Geriatric Center, sparked the idea of senior centers moving ahead toward greater political influence.

Jackson stated that the problems of the aging are "but a microcosm of the problems of our nation" — war, poverty, racism, pollution. "We must make some real progress into the resolution of these problems," he said, "before we can expect to make essential progress into the solutions of the problems of the elderly. This calls for redefining and reordering our national values and priorities."

He strongly believes that senior centers should play a strong role in electing men and women to public office who "have insight and the courage" to fight our battles with us. How might we wield more power?

Senior centers could start by initiating massive coalitions with organizations outside the field of aging. These organizations would include the National Council of Churches, National Association of Social Welfare, and the National Urban League.

Next step: organizations specifically related to the field of aging. In addition, he suggested that centers search out organizations of youth — to coalesce with them, "uniting fervor and energy with maturity and experience." Jackson concluded, "We must develop political acumen and know-how, and translate this and our other resources into the kind of power that government cannot refuse to recognize and deal with... we must move to a position of such strength that instead of reacting to federal proposals, we will be initiating them, with government as a willing partner and ally."

The same theme was emphasized by workshops on "Mobilizing Senior Center Members for Action." Along with the customary discussions on administrative problems, transportation, housing and health care, I heard heated debates on whether or not senior centers should become more politically oriented.

Then came two popular suggestions to implement a more political role for us. One: centers should begin inviting political candidates and government officials to speak to their groups.

Two: centers should open study groups on practical politics. The format highly recommended (for a small fee) was "Action Course on Practical Politics" from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, 1615 H St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

How do you feel about this new trend to have political activities in senior centers? Has your senior center or Golden Age club incorporated any political courses in its programs? Drop me a line, c-o this newspaper, and let me know. It will be interesting to see how far and how fast this new movement may go.

Carp bears poor image

By Jim Humbird
Idaho Fish-Game Department
BOISE — Today's image makers are not good enough to restore the tarnished reputation of mud-grubbing carp to the niche occupied in the halcyon days when the species was called "Queen of the Rivers" and the angler who put a barb into one of them was envied for his luck in having C. Carpio piping hot.

In all truth some fishermen defy public opinion even now, because they have learned the artfulness and patience of this lowly species.

Numerous encounters reveal the gallant spirit incarnate in this valiant swerving gleam of amber and gold. Carp are dogged and enduring fighters when trying to throw a hook. Unless spawning, they are high strung, spooky and selective—especially when a barb is concealed in food offered to them. Baits range from worms to corn, peas to doughballs, though their diets include water vegetation, crustaceans, mollusks, insects, waste materials, plant debris and occasionally small fish.

That early pioneers went to the trouble of introducing carp into waters already teeming with several anadromous species of salmon and steelhead and freshwater trout is beyond question, yet seems little short of lunacy nowadays. But don't forget that inland lakes and streams were virtually without pond fishes. It seemed reasonable a century ago to stock them with a prolific Old World species of honest repute.

Carp, native to Asia, were introduced into Europe and hence into America. The first carp to reach the United States were planted in California in 1872. The earliest record of the introduction of carp into Idaho was 1886, when 31 applicants received 686 fish from the U. S. Fish Commission. In 1894, 2,000 carp were planted in Mud Lake near Paris.

Since its introduction, the range of the carp has spread until now it is found in the majority of waters tributary to the Snake River above the mouth of the Clearwater River and is widely scattered throughout the Bear River drainage. Highly esteemed as a food fish in Asia and Europe, the carp has proved to be a nuisance in America.

As a result of long cultivation, several varieties of carp have been established. These are known as scale, mirror or spiegel, and leather carp and are so designated according to the prevalence or absence of scales. The scale carp is the most common variety.

Carp are utilized to a limited extent in Idaho as a food item. However, some are taken commercially and shipped out of state, mostly on the West Coast.

Markets which purchase carp for human consumption prefer fish which are three pounds or larger in size. In the Mississippi River drainage, carp comprise a large segment of the fresh-water commercial fishery. As a result of the market demand, commercial fishermen exercise selective fishing methods, using seines with a large mesh. Consequently, commercial fishing merely harvests the crop and does little toward reducing the population.

Carp are prolific. A female weighing from 15 to 20 pounds will produce over 2 million eggs. Spawning takes place during April, May or June, depending on the temperature of the water. They spawn in the shallow bays of lakes or migrate into tributary streams where they spawn in shallow quiet-headwaters.

Carp are omnivorous feeders, eating some animal and much plant materials. The root up bottoms of streams and lakes, overturning plants and destroying the vegetation. If present in sufficient numbers, they may render the water turbid and unsuitable for the spawning of many of the warm water fishes. For these reasons, carp are classified as an undesirable fish species, along with suckers, chubs and squawfish, which are called nongame species.

Certain game fishes such as perch, whitefish, bass, crappie and even trout may be classified as "undesirable" when they fail to attain any size as a result of populations in excess of their food supply. The complete eradication of undesirable fish species, whether carp, suckers, chubs or squawfish, or whether the sometimes game species of perch, bass or crappie, started as an acceptable procedure in Idaho in 1948. This involves treating a body of water with rotenone.

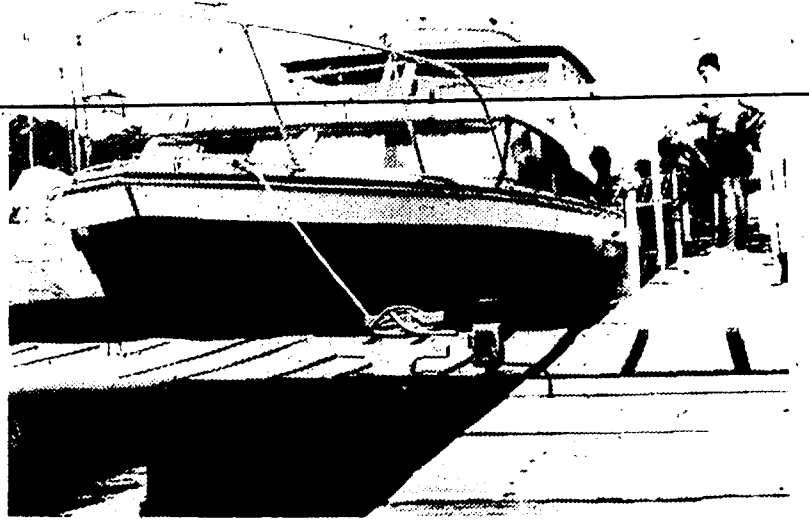

Partial control measures have been developed for waters that are too large for a maximum control method with rotenone or some other chemical. Such methods do not attempt complete eradication of fish present, but are designed to reduce undesirable fish populations to a level where game fish can compete for food and space.

These fish are most vulnerable during spawning time when they are concentrated in relatively shallow areas. This makes them subject to spot treatment with toxicants, seining or trapping, depending on conditions.

Carp and suckers are fairly resistant to rotenone treatment because its odor allows them to detect it in the water and these species often avoid the poison by swimming out of the way. A new development is "antimycin" or "fintrol" to the trade, which is odorless and colorless. Carp and suckers cannot detect it until it is too late.

Various control methods have been developed over the years to meet a serious problem in fisheries management. The problem of undesirable fish species has been present a long time and has been recognized as needing research, study and action. The Idaho Fish and Game Department has devoted considerable time and money to projects dealing with this problem.

The department will continue to spend time and money in the future evaluating results, equipment and techniques which will contribute to proper management and control of undesirable fish species.

Ad costs exceed water research

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Environmental Defense Fund (EDF) said today industry spends $225 to advertise detergents for every government dollar spent researching the water pollution they allegedly cause.

William H. Rodgers Jr., a University of Washington law professor testifying for EDF, urged the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to adopt a proposed rule under which phosphate detergents would have to include this message in labeling and advertising:

"Warning: Each recommended use level of this product contains (amount) grams of phosphorus, which contributes to water pollution. Do not use in excess. In soft water areas, use of phosphates is not necessary."

Rodgers accused detergent manufacturers of dragging their heels in research on phosphate substitutes. He said the industry's rate of phosphate reduction was so slow it would take until the year 2025 to eliminate the water softening ingredient.

"Discouraging use will not be a central theme of the industry's attack against phosphorus," Rodgers said in prepared testimony. "These skilled seducers of the public area without peer in the techniques of modern advertising."

"In all, the big three—Lever Brothers, Colgate-Palmolive and Procter & Gamble—spent over $452 million in advertising during 1969.

34 killed

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—The Journal do Brasil news service said an Air Force DC6 exploded Wednesday at Manaus airport in the Amazon basin, killing 34 of 80 passengers aboard.

An Air Force spokesman in Rio de Janeiro would only say "there was a disaster" at Manaus. He declined any details.

Rail setup attacked

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Sen. Frank Church said Wednesday the Transportation Department has designed a national rail passenger system that ignores the expressed intentions of Congress.

Sen. Church, testifying before the Surface Transportation subcommittee, of the Senate Commerce committee, said: "I do not support Amtrak as it is presently constituted. It is in clear derogation of the expressed purpose of Congress in passing the Rail Passenger Service action of 1970 that the system proposed by the secretary of transportation and established by the incorporators of Amtrak be national in scope," he said. Senator Church pointed out the system, as now designed, leaves six states bereft of rail passenger service. Moreover, Church said, Idaho is provided with "only token service" furnished to the town of Sandpoint in the northern Panhandle of the state. Left unserved, Church said, are such major populated areas as Boise, Pocatello and Twin Falls. Church said unless the system is rearranged in harmony with congressional intent, "I will oppose any funds for this system."

Sen. Church told the subcommittee members that he has introduced S. 1018 to counteract the impact of Amtrak as now proposed.

Church's bill would require transportation secretary John A. Volpe to designate and incorporate to implement — an extension of the basic system to include "at least one major population center in each of the contiguous 48 states."

Sen. Church also suggested consideration be given to incorporating into the federally-subsidized national Rail Passenger system. He made two proposals:

1. Directing the U. S. Post Office Department to use passenger trains to the maximum extent usable in transporting mail.

A section of the Rail Service Act authorized the network to carry mail, but railroads tend to favor freight over passenger trains for the mail they carry, Church pointed out.

2. A six month extension of existing passenger service in order to give Congress time to develop its views toward protecting states and workers who may be adversely affected by discontinued passenger service when AMTRAK goes into operation.

On this latter point, Sen. Church said, "The damage done will be severe if trains are discontinued before Congress can act upon these proposals."

A six-month extension of existing service would avoid the problem of starting again from scratch those discontinued services which might be reinstated when Amtrak goes into operation," he said.

Lunar materials pose no hazard, NASA says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency concluded Wednesday that "there is no hazard to man, animal or plants" from anything brought back from the moon by astronauts.

Accordingly, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said, it is abandoning the practice of putting astronauts, their spacecraft and lunar materials in quarantine after they return to earth from three future moon shots. The crews of previous Apollo missions to the moon were placed in sealed, mobile quarters moments after being taken aboard the prime recovery ship after splashing down from their moon missions.

The quarantine lasted three weeks during intensive tests to determine if there might be any contamination.

The lunar soil samples together with equipment they had with them during moon walks, and the spacecraft itself, also were kept in quarantine.

George M. Low, NASA's acting administrator, said in a statement: "The analysis of quarantine information from Apollo 14 has now been completed. On the basis of this analysis as well as the results from the Apollo 11 and 12 flights we have concluded that there is no hazard to man, animal or plants in the lunar material."

Yorty rips Demo 'radical' trend

NEW YORK (UPI) — Los Angeles Mayor Samuel Yorty said Wednesday Democratic Sens. Edmund S. Muskie and George McGovern are trying to make the Democratic party "radical" and all but said he will oppose them next year in a presidential bid.

Returning from a two-day "water testing" expedition to New Hampshire, the site of the first presidential primary, Yorty said he is "ready to serve" if called upon by the more conservative elements of his party.

"I'm not running because I want power or glory—if I run—but if my experience could be of use to the country, I'm ready to serve," Yorty said.

He said Muskie of Maine and McGovern of South Dakota were "very foolish" to attack the 76-year-old FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, and added the two senators' remarks were "very pleasing to left-wing radical organizations" intent on bombing and other revolutionary activities.

He defended the FBI's right to spy on political groups, saying "the FBI has to keep surveillance on all subversives and potential subversives to protect the American people."

Increase continues CSI sets commencement rehearsals for May 7

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's composite index of leading business indicators showed an increase in March for the fifth consecutive month, the Commerce Department reported today.

A spokesman said the report "suggests strongly that a balanced and broadly based economic expansion is developing."

The index, a statistical composite of eight reports which usually foreshadow future developments in the general economy, increased 0.6 per cent in March to 119.8 per cent of the 1967 average.

TWIN FALLS — All College of Southern Idaho candidates for graduation in the May 9 commencement ceremonies will meet for a rehearsal on Friday, May 7, at 4 p.m., according to Dr. Adele Thompson, dean of women at CSI.

Dr. Thompson, who is in charge of planning for the college's fifth commencement exercises, said the graduating students will meet in the Commons building for a run-through of details.

On Sunday, May 9, graduates will assemble at 1:15 p.m. in the Commons for the march to the Physical Education Building, where the ceremony is scheduled this year for the first time. Dr. Thompson reminded sophomores. The graduation march will follow the sidewalk from the front doors of the Commons to the Physical Education Building, entering by way of the ramp to the lower floor of the gym.

The processional order of march will be led by CSI President Dr. James L. Taylor and the board of trustees, followed, in order, by administration members and guests, members of the faculty, candidates for Associate of Arts degrees, candidates for Certificates of Applied Science, both one-year and two-year; candidates for Licensed Professional-Nursing (LPN) certificates, and recipients of two-year and one-year certificates of completion.

Following the graduation ceremonies, a reception is scheduled in the commons cafeteria for all graduates, their families and friends.
