BRUSSELS (UPI)—The European Common Market Executive Commission recommended Saturday the six market nations allow their currencies to float free from the U.S. dollar to ease the international monetary crisis.

The proposal was expected to face opposition in a meeting of ministers of the Common Market countries, France and Italy already have declared opposition to any floating of their currencies, which under present conditions, presumably would increase their value while decreasing the value of the dollar in Europe.

West Germany had suggested at the meeting of the economic ministers Saturday that the exchange rates be set by supply and demand and the market members abandon support of the dollar. The commission at first stood with France against the proposal, but later switched.

A spokesman for the commission said floating the currencies "without limit in time or margin" would be "the most effective deterrent against speculation."

France disagreed with the West German proposal to float the currencies, but agreed to condemn the United States for policies that weakened the strength of the dollar and caused a wave of speculative selling of U.S. dollars in Europe this week.

"Europe is having to pay for the U.S. policy of growth and full employment," French Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing said, while rejecting the idea of floating the franc.

German Economics Minister Karl Schiller said "the U.S. deficit of payments can no longer be tolerated with benign neglect."

In effect, the ministers were accusing the United States of being more concerned with its domestic problems than with its balance of payments deficit.

West Germany's Central Bank stopped trading in the dollar last Wednesday after buying $1 billion in U.S. money in a 40 minute period. It said it would resume trading Monday.

Schiller said Germany would cut public spending, conserve government income and set a ceiling on government credit in conjunction with the floating of the mark in order to head off inflation.

Giscard d'Estaing said France could not join in any concerted floating action because "internal problems in France are totally different from those in Germany. France would have to pay with unemployment."

Italy, Belgium and Luxembourg joined France in its objections. But Dutch Minister Hendrik Witteveen, who said the basic problem was the U.S. balance of payments deficit, insisted he would go along with Germany.

The reported German intention to float alone if necessary threatened the basis of Common Market plans for economic and monetary union and a common currency by 1980.

The disagreement among the six also threw a shadow over Monday's meeting of the community's foreign ministers aimed at preparing a negotiating position to deal with Britain's application to join the market.

India accepts war prospects

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told opposition political leaders Friday India was prepared to face war with Pakistan if it were forced into it, opposition sources said.

A spokesman who attended the meeting between Mrs. Gandhi and opposition leaders also said the prime minister told them Pakistan has boosted its troop strength to 55,000 men in East Pakistan.

The spokesman said Mrs. Gandhi discussed the prospects of war when some opposition leaders suggested the government was hesitating in response to demands to recognize the rebel East Pakistani government because of fear of an armed conflict.

Mideast gap said narrowed

By United Press International Secretary of State William P. Rogers said Saturday his weeklong Arab-Israeli peace-seeking mission succeeded in "narrowing the gap" between Egypt and Israel. He sent his top Middle East expert back to Cairo for further consultations with Egyptian leaders.

Rogers said on leaving Tel Aviv for Rome following two days of talks with Israeli leaders that Joseph C. Sisco, assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern affairs, was returning to Cairo to present Egypt with "certain clarifications" of Israel's position on a pullback from the Suez Canal.

Sisco accompanied Rogers on his tour of Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Lebanon, Egypt and Israel which was delegated by President Nixon to reach an interim settlement on the canal and an "over-all accord" for peace in the tense Middle East. Sisco flew to Cairo from Rome where Rogers went to meet Italian leaders and Pope Paul VI before returning to Washington.

Rogers said "we think there has been some narrowing of the gap" between Egyptian and Israeli demands.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A crowd of about 14,000 persons cheered a telephoned greeting from Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam Saturday and roared approval of demands for a U.S. military victory in Southeast Asia.

Fundamentalist preacher Carl McIntire's "Patriot's March for Victory" down Pennsylvania Avenue ended at the Washington Monument, where—in view of the White House—McIntire urged President Nixon to "reverse your policy to give the world the leadership it needs in confronting and defeating communism."

Undaunted by an earlier rain and what McIntire called "fear of the hippies," an estimated 2,500 persons, from hard hats to Bible-carrying grandmothers, set out from the foot of the Capitol at noon. By the time the rally began at the monument the crowd had swelled to about 14,000, by estimate of the U.S. Park Police.

A cheer went up when a call came through from Saigon at 2:40 p.m. and Ky's voice was heard over the loudspeaker.

Satellite for Mars tumbles

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—A Centaur rocket carrying the first of two $65 million Mars satellites tumbled out of control shortly after launch Saturday night and failed in America's most ambitious attempt to explore the Red Planet.

The 48-foot upper stage rocket dropped off course about five minutes after launch, lost control and presumably carried its Mariner spacecraft to fiery destruction in earth's atmosphere.

"We have lost the mission, no question about that," reported a space agency spokesman at the launch control center 20 minutes after the flight started.

An identical Atlas-Centaur rocket and a twin Mariner spacecraft stood by on an adjacent launch pad ready for flight May 18. However, the nature of the problem was not immediately determined and it was not known if the failure would delay the second launching. The Mars launch opportunity ends for two years on June 6.

Project officials decided to launch two Mariners toward Mars as insurance against such a failure. The second Mariner will be reprogrammed to carry out part of both original missions.

The two Mariners made up a $153.6 million project to attempt an unprecedented orbit around Mars to map the possible habitats for life on the planet.

The 113-foot rocket, which alone cost $12 million, was launched after a flawless countdown, and appeared to work perfectly through the first five minutes of flight. Then, without warning, tracking stations received abnormal radio data from the Centaur upper stage.

The control center spokesman then reported that the twin-engine Centaur stage was tumbling out of control. The rocket at that point was off course and the mission appeared doomed.

X movie ads cut

Effective today, The Times-News will no longer accept advertising for X-rated motion pictures.

The Times-News has always been and will continue to be a family-oriented newspaper. We take considerable pride in the newspaper's large readership among young people.

It is impossible for staff members to review each movie advertised to determine its appropriateness. Instead, the paper will rely on the movie producers' own rating code and ban those rated "X."

Graduation rites set today at CSI

TWIN FALLS — More than 300 College of Southern Idaho academic and vocational students will receive their degrees in the college's fifth annual commencement ceremony.

The ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m. today in the CSI Physical Education Building, when the robed graduates, preceded by college officials, march from the Fine Arts Building to the gymnasium — weather permitting.

In the event of rain, the graduates will assemble on the lower level of the Physical Education Building.

CSI President Dr. James L. Taylor will present the diplomas to the graduates, Dr. Terry Smith, CSI academic dean, will present the candidates for Associate of Arts degrees, and Orval Bradley, director of the vocational school, will introduce candidates for Associate of Applied Science degrees.

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, a former governor of Idaho, will be the featured speaker for the commencement.

A highlight of the graduation ceremonies this afternoon will be the first formal "open house" in the new CSI library and learning resources center, according to Dr. Adele Thompson, dean of women.

Dr. Thompson said a reception is scheduled in the CSI dining hall, on the second floor of the Commons Building, immediately after the graduation exercises. At the same time, the library facilities will be opened in the southern half of the second floor of the Commons.

The library staff, under Dr. Bruce Harrison, director of the learning resources center, will be on hand to greet visitors and describe the new facilities.

Child care for pre-school children will be provided in the Shields Academic Building during today's graduation ceremonies, Dr. Thompson said. Any families with small children attending the graduation may leave the young ones with trained volunteers in the academic building.

Piscine the graduation ceremonies in the Physical Education Building affords nearly unlimited seating for the first time, according to Dr. Adele Thompson, dean of women and director of commencement planning.

Graduating students are to assemble in the Fine Arts Building at 1:15 p.m. today to prepare for the grand march at 2 p.m.

Members of Omicron Xi chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, the honorary scholastic society, and the Circle K sorority will assist with ushering during the services.

Top mom returns

New honors for top mom

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Helen Henderson of Filer, who captured first runner-up position in the American Mother of the Year competition Friday in New York City, refused to believe she came so close to the national title when she returned home Saturday.

"Oh, no; I didn't win anything special," she told a crowd of friends and family members who met her at the Twin Falls City-County Airport. "I was just one of the runners-up or something like that."

Mrs. Henderson said the judges named Betty Anthony Zahn of Oklahoma City, Okla., new American Mother of the Year, then "they announced they had six runners-up, including me." She did admit, however, that her name was announced first among the runners-up.

When convinced by her jubilant family that she was indeed first runner-up, or, in effect, "No. 2," she was genuinely surprised — and admittedly pleased.

"Mrs. Henderson, Idaho's Mother of the Year for 1970, spent a week in New York City, living in style at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel. She joined 51 other state Mothers of the Year for the national competition.

"That's a wonderful place to stay — that Waldorf Astoria," Mrs. Henderson said. She said the Duke and Duchess of Windsor make their home in the Waldorf Astoria, using a private elevator at the rear of the hotel for private access to their rooms. She didn't see either of the famous royal pair, she said.

Mrs. Henderson and her 31 co-compilers were given a somewhat frightening glimpse of a number of agitators while visiting the United Nations. Shortly after the women and their escorts entered the front doors of the UN Building, a large crowd of militants besieged the building.

"We were told to slip out by the back doors and avoid the crowd out front," she recalled Saturday.

"No, they weren't after us — just wanted to make a showing at the United Nations," she said in answer to a question.

Mrs. Henderson said she thoroughly enjoyed her trip, especially meeting the other state winners. "They're a wonderful, dedicated, Christian group of women, all devoted to good works in their home states," Mrs. Henderson said.

Idaho's Mother of the Year was greeted by her husband, Kenneth Henderson of Filer; her son, Kent, and daughter-in-law, Beverly Henderson, of Twin Falls, and their young daughter, and a large number of close friends and well-wishers. Mrs. Henderson's daughter, Susan Collins, was unable to come to Twin Falls to meet her mother.

Members of the Twin Falls Lions Club, sponsors of Mrs. Henderson, in her state and national competition, welcomed her candidate on behalf of the club, including club President Ernie Pike and members W.L. Chaney and Galen Erickson.

Mrs. Henderson swapped notes on details of the competition with Christina B. Peterson of Twin Falls, the 1967 Idaho Mother of the Year, who also competed in the New York pageant.

This is the first time in the history of the Mother of the Year pageant that an Idaho entrant has advanced to runner-up status, it was reported.

'Brain' influx rate increases

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. "brain drain" on scientific and engineering talent reached a 20-year peak in fiscal 1970, the National Science Foundation reported Saturday.

The foundation said 13,300 scientists and engineers immigrated to the United States in the year ended June 30, 1970. This was a 30-per-cent increase over 1969.

Of the 1970 total, 7,500 came from Asia, Indians led with 2,900. Filipinos were second with 1,500. Immigration of scientists and engineers from Europe declined from 5,000 in 1968 to 2,900 in 1970.

For many years the United States has been a mecca for scientists who felt opportunities were greater here than in their own countries. Some nations have complained about what they felt was siphoning away of their best minds by America.

The foundation report shows that 3,300 physicians and surgeons were admitted in fiscal 1970, an increase of 15 per cent over 1969. Again, more than half were from Asia.

The foundation said the main reason for the heavy influx from Asian countries was a change made in 1965 in the U.S. immigration law. Before 1965 national quota system. Large backlog of entry requests were built up in Asia.

Since 1965 immigrants have been admitted on a first-come, first-served basis. A procedural change dating from Feb. 4, 1971, apparently reflecting changed employment conditions here, is expected to affect the flow from abroad.

Auditor queries fund procedures

BOISE (U.I.) — Legislative Auditor James A. Defenbach has questioned procedures used in handling of a $225,000 appropriation made to Boise State College and Idaho State University for educational television.

In a letter to the state board of examiners, Defenbach asked the board to seek an attorney general's opinion concerning the legality of the transfer of funds to the schools and the method by which the funds were disbursed.

At the same time, he asked for temporary measures to prevent further expenditures of the funds until an attorney general's opinion is obtained.

Defenbach said the money was appropriated by the first regular session of the 40th Idaho Legislature and said on Dec. 2 and 8, 1969, the state auditor's office received vouchers from each school asking for $113,000 — or each school's portion of the appropriation.

Documents, Defenbach said, were signed by John Barnes, president of Boise State College, and William J. Bartz for Idaho State University. In addition, each document was signed by Donald F. Kline, director of the office of higher education.

Defenbach said the warrants were issued in each case on the next day with the facsimile signature of State Auditor Joe R. Williams, thus reducing the appropriation balance to zero.

On or about Dec. 12, Defenbach said, Boise State College deposited its $113,000 in the Idaho First National Bank, the endorsement reading in part "For Deposit Only — Boise State College — Local Funds."

On or about Dec. 18, Idaho State University deposited its share in the First Security Bank, Pocatello, Defenbach said.

Defenbach said between December, 1969, and now the funds have been invested in short-term securities along with other local, non-appropriated funds of each institution.

He said "substantially, if not all" of the $113,000 given to ISU had been spent, while of Boise State's share only $862, 800 had been disbursed.

He said checks issued by Idaho State University against the bank account carried the signatures of William Bartz and for Boise State College, Gordon Phillips, both men financial vice presidents of their institutions.

Defenbach said as of June 30, 1970 BSC had earned $4,613.70 through investment of its money, but said he was unable to determine amounts earned by Idaho State University.

Defenbach asked the board by what constitutional or statutory authority a warrant could be drawn and paid on a general fund appropriation without submission of a valid claim against the state.

He also questioned investment of state funds by an agency other than the state treasurer, questioned merging local funds with appropriations, questioned disbursement by agency checks signed by agency officers, and questioned whether the appropriation and allotment process could be relinquished by a executive officer of the state.

McGovern charges omission in plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern charged Saturday that the Nixon administration's report on a 10-state nutrition survey had glaring omissions. He said it actually undermined efforts toward a sound national nutrition policy.

McGovern said the report omitted an age breakdown; seven biochemical measuring values; dental immunization, height and weight records; and any reference to physical examinations.

He said all of these data were contained in the 5-state results made available to the staff of the Senate's Select Committee for Nutrition and Human Needs, which McGovern heads. The South Dakota Democrat,

Series on drugs starting

"Cold turkey isn't something you eat" is the title of a series of messages starting today in the Times-News. Hard, straight facts and some answers will be highlighted.

Cold turkey, of course, is the withdrawal one goes through when he can't get the heroin he's hooked on. Your head explodes. Muscles cramp. Suddenly you're freezing (like you're naked in a blizzard). And you're burning up with fever at the same time. It's like coming down with double pneumonia. You choke, you gag, you vomit. Cold turkey lasts three, four or maybe five days.

The series is educational, informative and stresses the need for parental talks with their teen-agers about drugs, their use and abuse. Authorities are mostly of the opinion, "If parents don't talk to their children about drugs, there's always a pusher who will."

Material for the drug information program has been gathered from government sources, Davis C. Lewis, M. D. and the Boston Globe among others. Dr. Lewis is the author of "The Drug Experience: Data for Decision-Making," a course for schools and community groups.

How do you keep the dope dealers away from your children? You start by being the kind of parent you should be. You get to know your children. Do things with them. Talk to them.

But before you start talking about drugs, make sure you know what you're talking about, or you will most likely find out that your children know more about drugs, their use and abuse, than you do.

To help individuals, parents, schools, church groups, civic and fraternal organizations, a special information package has been put together. This package answers the questions most frequently asked about drug abuse. It is available without charge, simply by writing the sponsor of the public service campaign appearing each week in the Times-News.

Meet set to form dump Nixon plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., and two other GOP critics of President Nixon's Vietnam policies will meet in Washington May 16 to plan a national "Dump Nixon" organization. It was learned Saturday.

Former Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., and Rep. Donald W. Riegle Jr., R-Mich., will join McCloskey in the meeting they hope will attract a broad spectrum of GOP support.

"A lot of prominent Republicans will be attending the meeting, which will be a fairly national representation of the party," the source said. "A few party leaders will send representatives in their place."

All three have been harsh critics of Nixon's war policies. Goodell was so outspoken that the administration opposed his campaign for re-election last year, and in March he said that Republicans who are opposed to Nixon's policies should make preparations to oppose him in next year's primaries.

McCloskey, who visited Vietnam earlier this year, has said that if others—such as Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore.—don't oppose Nixon, he will.

Several Republican groups, especially in California, have told McCloskey he ought to drop out of the party if he cannot support the President.

TWIN FALLS — Writing Aunt Sue or mailing a bill will cost eight cents May 16, when a temporary series of postage rate increases takes effect, according to Lloyd Liebert, officer in charge of the Twin Falls Post Office.

The temporary rate increases were allowed under terms of the postal reorganization law, pending formal review of a permanent rate schedule by the Postal Rate Commission. Under the new law, the governors of the U.S. Postal Service recommend postal rates to the commission, which must approve them formally. The governor of any state may enter a protest to the rate increase, the law provides.

The new rates would return a total of $2.125 billion per year to the Postal Service when fully effective, including all rates to be phased in over a period of several years. In the first year, $670 million of the total would be subsidized by Congressional appropriations, and this subsidy would be reduced in subsequent years as rate increases take effect, according to James W. Hargrove, assistant postmaster general.

The rates have drawn strong opposition from bulk mailers, notably publishers of magazines and weekly newspapers, who would pay substantially more under the permanent rate schedule. Court action has been considered in an effort to block the increases, which in some cases more than double present rates.

The new rate schedule, in fact, is designed to shift a large portion of the postal income onto the bulk mailers, including mail-order firms issuing large catalogs, according to Hargrove. Thus, second-class mail going outside of the county of origin now paying 3.4 cents per pound will pay 4.9 cents per pound under the temporary rates and 7.2 cents per pound under the permanent rate schedule — more than double the present rate.

The postal service has said that the steep increases would be "phased in" over a five-year period, to "soften the impact" on mailers.

Highlights of the rate schedule:

Airmail first-class rates would go up one cent, from 10 to 11 cents, and airmail postal cards would go up to 9 cents from 8 cents.

First-class postal cards will cost 8 cents under the temporary rate schedule and 7 if the permanent rates are approved.

"Priority mail," consisting of packages weighing more than 12 ounces but receiving first-class treatment, would cost more for smaller parcels under five pounds. For a five-pound priority-mail package sent clear across the nation, the rate will remain at $4.08, but a one-pound package would go up to $1 from the present 80 cents.

Regular second-class publications, mailed for delivery outside the publisher's home county, with certain exclusions, will be raised by 1.9 cents per piece. In addition, rates for publications containing advertising will be assessed higher rates ranging from 9.1 to 20.9 cents per pound. Non-advertising matter will be charged a new rate of 7.2 cents per pound.

Controlled circulation publications, usually periodicals without subscription fees mailed to specific audiences or markets, face an increase only in their minimum per-piece rate to 5 cents from the present 3.8 cents, while the per-pound rate stays the same.

Third-class mail will be raised in single-piece rates (often circulars or small parcels) to 6 cents from the first 2 ounces while the fee for each additional ounce would be doubled, to 4 cents from the present 2 cents.

Mailers holding bulk third-class permits would find their rates per pound raised from 16 to 22 cents per pound, and, in another category, from 22 to 28 cents per pound, with the minimum per-piece charge would be boosted to 5 cents.

Special delivery and registered-mail fees will also go up. The minimum fee for a special delivery letter will rise to 60 cents from 45, and the rate for registered mail valued at $100 would go up from 80 to 85 cents, with proportionate increases in fees for shipments rated at higher values.

Similar letter-mail rate increases to Canada and Mexico are also scheduled, according to the national mail volume of nearly 90 billion pieces in fiscal 1972 will be business-type mail, and the bulk of the increase will be borne by these users, Hargrove said.

Units set to pull out

SAIGON (UPI)—One-third of the 10,000 U.S. Marines in Vietnam began preparations for withdrawal Friday, the U.S. command announced.

The 3,085 Marines to be withdrawn at yet to be announced dates include the 600 remaining members of the Combined Action Program (CAP) which ran pacification programs in South Vietnam's five northern provinces.

The major units that began standdown Friday, in addition to the men involved in pacification, were the 1st Battalion of the 11th Marine Regiment, the 2nd Battalion of the 1st Marine Regiment and Medium Helicopter Squadron 262.

YMCA campaign halfway 'home'

TWIN FALLS — Teams working on the Magic Valley YMCA membership drive held a report meeting Friday morning which revealed about half the memberships sought have been obtained.

Leon Smith, president of the YMCA board of directors, said the workers have obtained about 70 memberships, half of the goal of 140 memberships. He said the drive, being conducted by four teams, will end May 15. The Kiwanis team, headed by Dr. John McNeese, is leading with the Rotary team, headed by Gary Standley, close behind. Following the two top teams are the Elks Club team, headed by Matt Smith, and the at-large team, headed by Dale Peterson.

There will be a progress meeting at 7:30 p.m. May 14 at the YMCA, Smith said.

Hanoi's Candid Admission

WASHINGTON — Evidence of declining morale among Communist troops in South Vietnam, coupled with new shortages of food and war supplies, is now under study here by cautious officials who regard it as the most significant indication yet seen of Hanoi's problems. If these new signs of trouble for the Communists are as accurate as indicated by their source — the top political general in the Communist command inside South Vietnam — they suggest this conclusion: that President Nixon's Viet-namization policy, now at an extremely delicate stage, is working.

The fresh evidence of trouble for the Communists is a remarkably candid clandestine broadcast by Cuu Long, a North Vietnamese general whose real name is Trai Do — the long-time political chief of all Communist armed forces in South Vietnam. The broadcast, routinely intercepted on April 29, came from the so-called COSVIN "high command," a floating headquarters which operates along the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border. Gen. Tran Do flatly stated that "every unit, locally, and individual" engaged in the south have been infected by "rightist phenomena" in one form or another.

Although filled with doctrinaire exhortations, the broadcast warns that the war has become "increasingly critical, difficult, and fierce," despite the fact that U.S. forces are down from 543,000 to less than 248,000. Reading between the lines, the political chief of COSVIN reveals his deepest concern: that the political side of the "people's war" is deteriorating.

Thus, he repeatedly refers to "rightist phenomena" afflicting Vietcong sympathizers and the underground Communist political organization in the South on which the invading armies of North Vietnam, and the Vietcong, are dependent. He warns that "deep vestiges of the old regime and the old society and the reactionary, had thinking of the U.S. imperialists and the rotten social regime in the south are still influencing our people." "Our people" include cadres, military and political, who run the war in the battle zones. Some have now become infected with "counter-revolutionary, negative, and non-progressive thoughts and acts." No harsher indictment could be made against Communist leaders.

The supply problem was referred to in bleak terms as "a shortage of everything." As for treating the wounded, the general paints this stark portrait: "Many surgical units, although they do not have a fixed area of operation, have succeeded in taking care of the sick and wounded combatants along with fighting and trying to find food for these combatants."

As translated here, that means food sources in hamlets and villages sympathetic to the Vietcong are no longer dependable. Coupled with that, hopeful interpretation are the results of the two major U.S.-backed incursions into Cambodia and against the Ho Chi Minh Trail. Despite controversy over their success or failure, the heavy emphasis that Gen. Tran Do placed on the supply problems strongly indicates that they had a harmful impact on the enemy.

The importance of these Communist difficulties is further heightened by the manner in which Gen. Tran Do chose to reveal them. Under normal circumstances, such frank talk would have been sent to cadres in the field by sealed pouch, not transmitted over Hanoi's easily-monitored "Liberation Radio."

The Kremlin

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In an essay written some months before he became adviser to President Nixon on foreign affairs, Henry Kissinger suggested that Moscow, in proposing talks on disarmament, might possibly use these overtures to lure the United States into a sense of security while the Soviet Union moved ahead on some other adventure. (He favored talks nevertheless.)

Americans, desiring peace and good will, would be loath to suspect a Russia which it was openly and actively seeking better relations. Under this umbrella, therefore, the Russians could make some aggressive move abroad, rapidly expand their armament, pull a Czechoslovakia, a Hungary or a Cuba, or spur on a Middle East conflict.

Now, three years later, a number of quite influential men at the Pentagon, the State Department and the White House fear that this has indeed been the Soviet lack.

While Soviet officials are very friendly indeed, while Soviet individual negotiators are, so far as can be told, "sincere" and "earnest" in their attitudes at conference tables, while the Soviet government talks over more glowingly of peace and cooperation, officials here note the following very real trends: The continued supply of ever-more-sophisticated war equipment to Egypt, despite reported urging by Secretary of State William Rogers for an agreement that would prohibit both the United States and Russia from supplying arms to either side.

This Soviet supply has increased in quality in the past several weeks.

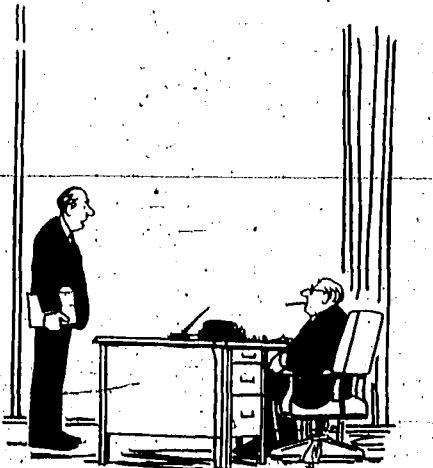

The growing evidence from satellite surveillance that the Soviet Union is not planning for simple nuclear parity with this country but is aiming at superiority. The data, admittedly incomplete and piecemeal, indicates the Russians are building intercontinental missiles in the numbers and with the accuracy and warhead yields which would give them a first-strike capability by the middle or late 1970s if present trends continue.

The lack of progress in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) despite what officials here describe as the ability and businesslike approach of the Soviet representatives at these discussions.

The trend of the talks and the gaps in the knowledge of the Russian negotiators indicate to the Americans that the Soviet delegates have not been given the data from their government necessary to arrive at a meaningful agreement or to develop acceptable proposals.

The apparent unwillingness of the Soviet Union to work in any significant way to help solve the Vietnam war.

X-Rated Movies

Effective at once, the Times-News will not accept advertisements for X-rated movies. It has been brought to the attention of the management of the Times-News by the paper's advertising department that various difficulties arise when the management is called upon to act as censors of what will or what will not be shown in the advertising appearing in the paper, particularly when it comes to this type of advertising.

In making the announcement that no more X-movie advertising would be accepted, Al Westergren, publisher, said that "the Times-News has always been, and will continue to be, a family type newspaper for all of Magic Valley. We take a considerable amount of pride in the readership of the Times-News among young people. It is therefore my conclusion, after due consideration, that the Times-News will not publish the advertising of any x-rated movie from this time on."

Hospital Week

Today marks the start of National Hospital Week and the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and other like institutions throughout Magic Valley will take part.

This year's theme is "Your Hospital Cares — but who loves a hospital?" This approach will be used throughout the year to emphasize that hospitals care enough about people to know they don't want to be hospital patients.

The first time an attempt was made to tell people more about hospitals was fifty years ago on National Hospital Day. The "day" was extended to a week in 1953, enabling hospitals to expand their public information efforts within the community.

National Hospital Week is celebrated during the week that includes May 12, the birthdate of Florence Nightingale, a pioneer in improving the hospital system. This year marks the 150th anniversary of Florence Nightingale's birth.

The purpose of National Hospital Week is to inform the public about its hospitals and about health care in general. Hospitals participate in various activities during the annual observance, including displays of informational material, recognition of employee accomplishments, and community orientation regarding hospital services. Often, several hospitals cooperate to inform the public about health care in the community.

The 1971 theme of "Your Hospital Cares — but who loves a hospital?" will be used throughout the year to help tell the hospital story. The theme was selected to point out that hospitals CARE about people even though they realize, most people would rather stay away from hospitals. One of the theme's implications is that people certainly don't love being sick, but when they are, they begin to appreciate the special services and facilities which the hospital offers.

Unsafe At Home

If not quite as dangerous as the highway, the American home is not the safest place in the world either. Roughly half as many persons die in home accidents each year as in traffic.

Among lethal hazards of the home are slippery floors, scatter rugs, poor lighting, stairs without railings and defective wiring. Absentmindedness, laziness and impatience are contributing factors, as they are in mishaps on the road.

Even sensible people who are alert to danger at the wheel of a car or crossing a busy street tend to relax when they gain the so-called safety of their homes. But that, according to the statistics, is just the time and just the place to watch your step, if you don't want it to be your last one.

MR. SPECTATOR

We Ain't Going

The news bureau of the Boise State College just has to be the most prolific in the world. Nothing gets by them.

And the news item we received last week is no exception — or, perhaps it is the exception. They are starting a new class up in Boise and it is a class Mr. Spectator just isn't going to get interested in because he has decided not to go.

Dr. David Torbet, who will be the class instructor, announces it will be the only college course of its kind on any campus. We believe him!

Know what the class is on? It's on DEATH.

Dr. Torbet says it is to be a three-hour night course — that ought to scare everyone out unless the lights are on high — and that he will host the class and introduce the speakers. Religious, economic, scientific, literary, historical and mystical aspects of death will be discussed by qualified representatives.

These fellows who will speak will include a mortician, lawyer, doctor, minister, scientist and a literature professor.

The course is to be built up so that it will "really give the subject to the people the way they want it." Therefore, the professor says, feedback from the students will be important.

Well, it ought to be some class.

But we just can't help but wonder if someone with real experience in the field wouldn't be the best speaker? After all there is no substitute for experience and we must assume that of all the folks who have crossed the divide there must be a few who would enjoy coming back to Boise and speaking.

Applications are now being accepted by Mr. Spectator.

PAUL HARVEY

4-Day Workweek

How would you like to work just four days a week? Are you sure?

When I first went to work at a radio station in Tulsa, Okla. — a part-time job after school hours — I was too young to work under the government's child-labor laws, but I managed to get a special work permit. I have forgotten the stipulations under which those permits were allowed. It has been a while. Anyway, I got one.

Now in those days almost everybody worked a six-day week. Even during the depression the Biblical formula of "rest on the seventh day" was custom and, in some places, law.

Then when unions became effective in the late Thirties and began agitating for "Saturday afternoon off," the nation was considered by most people to be pretty revolutionary.

It was not until after World War II that the big cities began to close down on both Saturday and Sunday, mostly due to pressure from suburban commuters.

Now there is agitation for a four-day workweek, a three-day weekend. Twenty-seven companies already have adopted the short workweek.

The C.A. Norgren Co. of Littleton, Colo., is one of them. Norgren has pioneered several previous social and industrial innovations. A manufacturer of air-processing systems, this company instituted a profit-sharing system 25 years ago.

Norgren was among the first industries to landscape and otherwise beautify its premises, to wire happy music into its airy lunchrooms.

Then last August, Norgren adopted the four-day workweek. Each workday has been lengthened one hour.

AP writer Paul Patterson, in a progress report on this experiment, concludes that results are altogether beneficial.

Applications for employment at that company have jumped 300 per cent.

So far, 40-hour production levels apparently are being maintained on a 37-hour workweek, though the productivity study is not yet complete.

What do the workers do with their increased time off? Some use the time for golfing or skiing. Women workers report having more time with their children. An executive is paneling his basement.

Rocky Mountain residents are likely to be pre-adapted to the outdoors. For big city workers, the shorter workweek is likely to encourage moonlighting.

The Labor Department

guesstimates that the number of Americans holding down two jobs is greater than the number of unemployed.

Thus the ambitious, energetic worker holding two jobs is likely to be punished with higher taxes to support the larger number of persons with no jobs at all.

Britain's Prince Phillip recently suggested that restiveness among workers derives mostly from boredom, from the monotony of their jobs, that higher pay is but a temporary palliative.

Idle hours with no place to go and nothing to do can be even more boring. Perhaps more industries first should move to within reach of the mountains, the woodlands or the sea.

ANDREW TULLY

The Creeps

WASHINGTON — After two weeks of messy, noisy and often violent anti-war demonstrations here, I wonder if it has occurred to Sen. George McGovern and other "peace" candidates for public office that the movement to end the Indochina conflict is too important to be left to the creeps.

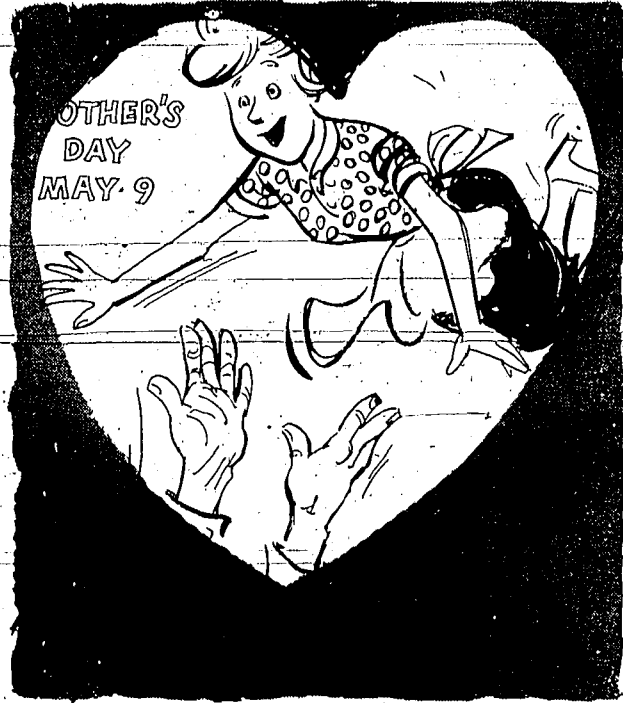

To be sure, McGovern early on warned that violence and destruction of property was "counter-productive" — the fashionable word these days. Unfortunately, if unwittingly, he also gave aid and comfort to the Rennie Davises, the David Dellingers and other vicious nuts by endorsing their right to protest.

The good Senator may have known, unless his naive passeth all understanding, that when anti-war demonstrations are led by violent and irresponsible men they will surely erupt into disorder and probably into physical rabidity. People like Davis, who promise to paralyze Washington, are not preaching the gospel of Gandhi; they know ruddy well that a mob cannot paralyze a city without challenging that city to a brutal collision. In effect, they promise chaos — and they get it.

I'm afraid George McGovern and other anti-war liberals, some sitting on judicial benches, have been carried away by the sanctimonious premise that protest is a proper part of the democratic process. Of course it is. But that doesn't excuse turning over the nation's capital to a spiteful, hate-filled rabble, many of them crazed by drugs, some publicly proclaiming they represent the enemy North Vietnamese regime. This is criminal irresponsibility on the part of our liberal leadership.

Almost incredibly, part of the blame for the wildness of the past two weeks is borne by the panel of four Superior Court judges, who decided in effect that the malignant weeds who tore down a temporary wall in the Health, Education and Welfare Department building were merely naughty

Upsy-daisy

He's the mayor of Twin Falls. But it has to be more for love than for money because of the way he must neglect his own business to stay up with the demands of city business.

Frank H. Feldtman likes the work, however. He first became interested in city politics and was elected to the city council in 1963. He took office in January, 1964 and is now in his second year as mayor.

When he was first elected he "dropped" many other community jobs and today he says it is just as well he did.

"There just isn't enough time for everything so city business takes first place, my own business second and recreation third. As a result, I'm now down to the point where the one outside activity I have is golf. On the good days I'm in the 80's and on the bad days I'm in the 90's," he commented.

His "own" business is real estate. Born in Boise he had moved to California but during high school and college he spent his summers in Twin Falls. Living with his aunt, Mrs. C. A. (Anne) Robinson. He liked the area and decided even back then to come here when he could make the move.

World War II interrupted his plans after college and he was in for four years, first in the army and then the army air corps. He was a pilot, flew a lot of places, among them over the "hump" in India.

Then back to California into the trucking business — where he "grew up" — and finally in 1950 he made the planned move to Twin Falls, entering the real estate business.

He has been active in many community activities, has held various offices in the real estate field, has been a member of the Elks for over 20 years and has been a deacon in the Presbyterian Church.

He and his wife, Mae, reside at 154 Eighth Avenue North. They have raised four children. Three are married and the fourth is still in college, under the GI bill after service duty.

As mayor, what does Mr. Feldtman think are the needs for the city?

The projects, not in any particular order, are repair and replacement of many of the streets. The Legislature has provided some funds which will help. The mayor says the streets are just getting old and will have to be replaced. Constructed years ago, the base just isn't strong enough to stand today's traffic pounding.

Then the city is facing — and needs — a secondary sewage facility. This will have to be constructed.

Also needed is a new police and fire station. Both buildings are now old, antiquated and completely obsolete.

Another project is the completion over a period of years of the anticipated work at Dierke's Lake. This is vital to the growing community and Mr. Feldtman says that although some people do not appreciate it now, they will as time goes on and they see the real worth and necessary.

So that's about the way it is for the mayor of Twin Falls.

FRANK H. FELDTMAN

Youth And Rebellion—A Touch Of Sad Humor In The Situation

By JULIE HOVE Student Writer

Why is our nation one of general unrest, high crime rates, defiance of law, and open challenge to authority and custom? Why are we, the youth of America, rioting, causing one more problem instead of solving any? Most students and protesters including those who riot claim that there is no other way to bring about social change. They are making themselves heard and attempting to alert the world to the conditions that they are trying to change.

Sometimes the radical efforts of these students are valid and I sympathize with them. But I can't agree with their methods although I'm not sure what I should be doing. I cannot sympathize with one who throws bottles and rocks, perhaps seriously injuring someone, causing a riot while demonstrating for world peace. This is irrational and I see a touch of sad humor in these situations.

Too often we seem to rebel without offering any solutions or we behave in the same manner that we are rebelling against. I am not against rebellion. But I believe rebellion can be positive and peaceful instead of violent.

O. If your beliefs are genuine, or serve in a medical corps. Instead of screaming at anyone who doesn't believe as you do, try listening.

Fight war with peace. Fight ignorance by increasing your knowledge and by sharing that knowledge with others. I'm all for fighting and rebellion, but why do we as youth have to be so violent? Perhaps we like the excitement. We are yelling and screaming because we want to be heard. Too often adults and even other young people claim to be open-minded and all for change. They say they think youth are really wonderful, so they listen to what we have to say, but they only listen with their ears and pat us on the head without listening with their mind and hearing what we have said. We all need to learn to listen and hear, and think.

Why do we seem to reject authority? Well, Reader's Digest 1970 Almanac informs me that the origin of authority is Parental. This is obvious. Children accept authority because they are dependent upon parents. As children grow older their dependence decreases and so does, it seems, their acceptance of total authority. At first it is taken for granted that parents know everything there is to know and because of the experience parents have had children wake up and realize they must learn for themselves through experience and can't depend so fully on that of their parents. Eventually they wish to make their own mistakes, hopefully learning from them with only occasional guidance from parents, when guidance is needed. In other words, kids want their parents to be there, but the parents are no longer strict authoritative figures. If the parents try to be, the children rebel. The rapid rate of advancement of our society makes past experience seem obsolete. Young people seem to refuse to accept the knowledge and experience of the past. This paper was written by Julie Hove, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hove, Kimberly, Miss Hove is salutatorian at the Kimberly High School. It was selected by the Editor of the Times-News from a number of like articles submitted by students of various Magic Valley High Schools. It is published at this time as an example of the in-depth thinking shown by a majority of the today's high school seniors. Decline of religion is one problem that youth faces today. Youth searches for God in semireligious cults, Scientology, astrology and other cults. We reject ritual and dogma, which is good. We search for a more meaningful relationship with God, but I feel we look in the wrong places and in the wrong ways. College campuses are becoming confusing. The number of students who cause the confusion may be a minority, but they are being heard and they are a problem of the government. Our country is based upon the right of the majority to express its will. A small minority of students take over the administration building of a school, or refuse to allow classes to be held during a certain period of time. What about the students who would rather be going to class than causing trouble? They are beginning to fight the extremists now. On many campuses students are forming groups to fight extremism led by left-wing radicals. Perhaps now the majority will be heard and people won't get such a bleak view of campus life. A sad fact is that no matter how peacefully campus demonstrations start out they usually end up in violence. Subversive organizations send people to peaceful demonstrations to cause trouble. It seems there is little chance for those who wish to express their views (a right guaranteed by the Constitution) peacefully anymore. It's a pity. I think we could live without many of the student rebels. Many want to express their views and want to have the speakers that agree with those views speak on campus, but they deprive fellow students of the right of listening to speakers and teachers who don't agree with them.

At Los Angeles City College, radicals succeeded in capturing the student council because only a small minority of the student body voted in the election. The council then joined an SDS-Black Student Union "strike coalition" and ordered the campus closed. Anyone who tried to go to class was beaten and "eight-foot" barricades blocked entrances. Then Stephen Frank and ten other students tore down the barricades. They launched a recall campaign with a record turnout of voters and unseated the radicals three to one. Today Frank leads Voices in Vital America, which is an organization of moderates having members in 120 high school and college chapters. At Berkeley moderates formed a Nonviolent Action Party and swept last year's campus elections by a three-to-one margin. Yes folks, things are looking up!

As a whole, students are against campus violence and are uniting to fight against it. Should authority be more fully enforced? Should punishment for violence caused on campus and elsewhere be more severe? Should the government take more action in curbing violence? I don't know the answers to these questions. I think people, including youth, parents, and governmental figures, need to do some soul searching and learn to listen to each other.

We live in a bored society. The frustration of the search for identity and security forces us into boredom which we can only escape through stimulation. Violence, like pornography and other sensory experiences, is one form of stimulation. We enjoy violence. We hurry to an accident, we run to a fire, we crowd around a schoolyard fight. We are present not to help, but only to join in the excitement of these situations. Violence is fun. . . . Violent subgroups threaten modern society. Jerry Rubin, author of "Do It!" addressed a crowd of fifteen hundred students at Kent State University two weeks before the tragedy that occurred there. In his speech he urged students to quit being students and become criminals. He stated that we must disrupt every institution and break every law. He said that the first part of the Yippie program is to kill your parents because unless you are prepared to kill your parents, you're not really prepared to change the country. He stated that our parents are our first oppressors. Rap Brown yells, "Burn, baby, burn!" Violence is fun. . . . Nobody is supposed to be passive anymore. Of course, passivity isn't the answer to our problems today. Youth is clamoring for answers, but we want total solutions, immediate solutions, and we aren't very idealistic.

We want instant gratification, perhaps because our future is so uncertain. At any given moment of any given day our whole world could blow! We feel urgency and express this in our lives and our demands. It is true that we seek instant gratification and insight and many of us try to get it through LSD, pot or hash. We have been called the most knowledgeable and articulate generation to be seen, and also the most inarticulate, having no more intelligent way to express ourselves than through violence. Everyday articles are written telling others what we, the youth of today are like, and why we act the way we do. We have been called sensitive and socially conscious. Yet we riot because — I don't know why. We are as hypocritical as the older generation sometimes. We want to solve hypocrisy and don't know how, but we have to try. The world is full of ironical situations. We put men on the moon and leave earth polluted. We fought against racial prejudice in Germany but we haven't done much about it in our own hearts. We fight wars and wars and wars and still there is no peace. America tries to educate everybody, even those who don't wish to be educated. Colleges are full of students who are there only to please their parents, or who should be in trade school or who want to get married or avoid the draft. That makes it harder for those who really want to be there to get in. The world seems to be in a state of chaos, and we youth are a part of it. A part of the cause. Some of us want to be a part of the answer.

There is hope. Take a look at nature. Animals honor treaties! Baboons don't wage suicidal war on each other. Lions and elephants restrict their number in order to avoid overpopulation. Our natural instincts should stop us from killing ourselves by total social disorder. The question is — as is the question concerning pollution, overpopulation, and war — will we wake up in time to save ourselves? Or will we refuse to compromise, refuse to listen to our fellow man instead of killing him, refuse to solve our problems of pollution and racial violence, and refuse to live as intelligent creatures? We should take lessons from the animals. Maybe we would learn something.

Editor, Times-News: Looks like someone was sleeping at the switch to let a "plum" like Tupperware get by the powers that be. Looks like Jerome was wide awake when said plum was up for grabs, but I'll venture a guess, the Tupperware people took one look at Twin Falls streets and made up their minds. I think it's time the Commissioners quit worrying about wine in the stores and take a hard look at the streets. I've traveled miles over the country, the Twin Falls streets are the worst in Idaho. Is there a law in Idaho that can permit me to claim damage on broken heavy duty 6 ply tires? I've broken down two of them on my Jeep this last winter, along with alignment of front wheels of this sturdy 4-Wheeler. The one street in mind is Blue Lakes Blvd. Hal! What a boulevard. It's time the people responsible for this dang mess to walk up or get someone in there to get things done. Lord only knows we pay enough taxes for road and highway maintenance. Let's get moving. J. Hoyer Twin Falls.

Editor, Times-News: The following is an open letter to Senators Jordan and Church and Congressmen Hansen and McClure:

After much study and discussion the Sawtooth Valley Association voted to support the new Sawtooth National Recreation bill you introduced in the United States Congress on March 30, 1971. They were pleased to see the inclusion of the Sawtooth Wilderness Area also and urge the passage of this bill as soon as possible. As you know the local people wish that the area could remain as it was. But that is not to be. Due to future development and increasing tourist travel each year. The Sawtooth Valley Association feels that the management of the Forest Service is the most practical method of preserving the area and at the same time not eliminate the way of life here. May we commend you on the efforts you have made to find a suitable way to do this.

Editor, Times-News: I am outraged! On Sunday, April 25th, my husband and I and two guests drove from Rupert to Twin Falls, an 80 mile round trip in the pouring rain, to patronize one of your local restaurants. While we were in the restaurant the city police department decided to capitalize on the inadequately marked parking area on the street directly north of the establishment and pass out a few tickets at $2.00 each. To add insult to injury they proceeded to argue amongst themselves whether or not to enforce the fine because of the inadequate posting of parking instructions. But at the insistence of the officer issuing the ticket they decided to go ahead since, to quote the officer, "Being from Rupert and knowing how they allow any kind of parking there you couldn't expect anything different."

I'm certain I speak for the people of Rupert when I say — if the City of Twin Falls wants to express their hostility towards good people who drive this long round trip to patronize their businesses, they have certainly found the way to do it. Right in the pocketbook where it counts, with the innards to go with it.

Editor, Times-News: This is an open letter to the guy that runs the taxi service in Twin Falls. Why can't we have taxi service on Sunday? I arrived home by bus at 11:35 Sunday night. I asked the station manager to call a cab but he informed me there was no cab service Sunday night, or even all day Sunday. I didn't know what to do. I had been on the bus five hours and, was dog tired. Anyway, I started walking carrying a bag, pants and sweater. Not a person in sight. I live on North Washington and half way home I had a blister on both heels and my legs were burning and I was dizzy. I thought a cop would come along and think I was drunk — but there was not a policeman in sight. Strangers were there also, some wanting cabs. I don't know what they did, but here they didn't have to walk on as I did. Lucille Thompson Twin Falls

School trustee hopefuls express divergent views

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls League of Women Voters has queried the six candidates for the Twin Falls School District trustee election next Tuesday on their background and position on important issues.

The questions were: (1) What is your educational background; (2) what is your occupation or experience in business; (3) what should be the educational goals of a school district; and (4) What do you feel the role of the school board should be in setting student disciplinary policies? (Replies were limited to 100 words or less on each question.)

TRUSTEE ZONE 3 EDWARD R. (TED) SMITH (Incumbent trustee)

(1) I am a graduate of Boise High School and the University of Idaho with a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering.

(2) I am a restaurant owner and operator and a realtor by profession.

(3) Educational goals of our school districts are many; however, in the process of obtaining these goals, school trustees must always strive to provide the best educational opportunity and experience possible within the bounds of our physical plant and our monetary budget. This educational environment is developed and improved upon by the prudent expenditure of district funds to secure high-quality instruction, modern and well-maintained plant facilities, well-rounded programs in academics and sports and plans for future needs.

(4) The school board has the power to enforce state and district regulations concerning attendance, moral conducts, insubordination, and conduct which may be disruptive to the educational process and others. These powers are quite often challenged by both the student and his parents. The courts have usurped board powers concerning personal rights as to dress and appearance.

I maintain the position that to learn to abide by and live by rules and regulations of discipline conducive to an orderly society is just as important a part of a student's education as the academic program. We need to prepare the student to take his place in our society and succeed in his job and endeavors. Discipline is important!

RUTH B. DAY
(1) I received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Utah in Salt Lake City in 1950. I was chosen a member of Mortar Board during my time at the university.

(2) Children's theater and knothole baseball coach for 10 years; worked on many youth groups in my church. I have been a teacher for two years in Logan, Utah. I have five children, all receiving their schooling in Twin Falls; including one graduate, one senior, a sophomore, eighth-grader and fourth-grader. I have been finance chairman of the Washington School PTA; co-vice president and president of the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School PTA, and co-vice president of the high school PTA. I was a member of the Task Force Committee, and in June, 1970, I worked on a regional assessment committee for the Idaho Department of Education.

TRUSTEE ZONE 4 DR. H.W. RONK (Incumbent)

(1) I was born and raised here in Twin Falls, attending Twin Falls public schools until my graduation from high school. I attended Kansas State University where I received a doctor of veterinary medicine degree in 1947.

(2) I have been a practicing veterinarian in Twin Falls for 24 years. During this time I have been active in my professional associations, church, PTA, Scouts and have acted in an advisory capacity in many activities, involving youth. I am presently a member of the school board where I have served for three years.

(3) I believe the primary educational goal of our school district is to provide every student within the district an education which will prepare him for college, advanced vocational-technical training or the world of work. In order to achieve this goal we must maintain an atmosphere conducive to learning and the highest quality of instruction in all areas. Our schools must stimulate students to develop to the best of their potential abilities. Additional vocational exposure in our present high school and cooperation with the College of Southern Idaho vocational program will virtually eliminate our "dropout" problem. We would like all of our students to become well-adjusted, responsible, productive adults.

(4) Matters of policy affecting the schools are the responsibility of the school board. This is stated by Idaho law and includes student disciplinary policies. These policies are formulated in consultation with school administrators, teachers, student leaders and often legal counsel. They are subject to review and revision periodically as needed.

MARILYN M. WRIGHT

(1) I have a bachelor of arts degree in political science from Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, and have completed graduate work in political science and education.

(2) Wife of a Twin Falls pediatrician; mother of four children attending elementary, junior and senior high schools; head pre-school teacher at Ascension Day School, and member of the Child Development Center advisory board.

(3) The district's educational goals should include the following: (1) curricula and teaching excellent enough to enable our students to compete adequately elsewhere in our country; (2) Opportunities for each student to learn at levels at which he can both be challenged and be successful (rather than be pre-doomed to failure to a rigid system); (3) Curricula designed by creative teachers, principals and others aware of the wide range of techniques and materials available and aware of current research on the effectiveness of various programs; and (4) Programs geared to the interests of the district's adults so that the expensive school facilities can receive maximum use during evenings and vacations.

(4) The board's role in student discipline should be that of setting general policies necessary to effective education and consistent with federal and state laws. To permit different schools in the district to establish varying policies inconsistent with the laws entangles the board with petty discipline disputes, wasting time and energy that would better be spent on improving the quality of education. Also, it is difficult for schools to teach students the importance of law and order if school rules conflict with the law.

TRUSTEE ZONE 3 LUDSELL WALDRON

(1) I have a bachelor of science degree from Utah State University in 1959 in accounting and have done post-graduate work at some university.

(2) I am a certified public accountant, and partner in an accounting firm with 12 years of public accounting experience.

(3) The educational goals should be: (1) To provide programs flexible enough to make maximum use of the varying abilities of all children; (2) To provide programs comprehensive enough to prepare students for any school of higher learning they choose to enter; (3) To provide the teachers capable of carrying out these programs — teachers who care about teaching students more than they care about teaching subject matter; (4) To do all the above within the present budget. I think that I can render valuable service in this area with my financial experience and training.

(4) To set strict disciplinary policies, including the dress code, and insist that school officials enforce them consistently.

(3) I am desirous of working as the trustee for Zone 3 in the Twin Falls schools because I want to be a part of education in this community. I believe the school board should be responsible for providing not only basic skills, but also good learning experiences for children and adults. I also believe the school board must see that all personnel are qualified and willing to work toward the goals established. Members of the school board should be aware that times and situations are constantly changing and gear their decisions toward this realization.

(4) I feel disciplinary situations should be handled by the school, the student and the parents. If these three reach an impasse, it should be the duty of the school board to hear all parties and then take the action necessary to insure that a good learning atmosphere will continue.

MICHAEL BRUCE SPRATT
(1) I attended grade school and high school in Nampa; Treasure Valley Community College, Ontario, Ore. and Idaho State University, Pocatello, majoring in speech and education.

(2) I have worked in newspaper advertising and management, and am presently employed by the Twin Falls Feed and Ice Co.

(3) To give every student the best possible fundamentals of a good education in grades one through eight. Junior high and high school students should be offered electives that lead in the direction the student wants to go and comprehensive courses for the above-average student or students who have plans to further their education, whether in college or vocational-technical schools.

(4) I think the school board's role in this area should be the arbitrary force between student, parent and administration.

LUDSELL WALDRON

Vote at Lincoln School

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls school district trustee election next Tuesday will require voters to cast ballots at Lincoln School on Second Avenue West, even though the school is well outside both trustee zones.

The reason is "tradition," according to school district business manager J.T. Anderson. Zone 4 voters will cast their ballots at Bickel School, which is in the trustee zone, but Zone 3 voters will go to Lincoln.

Purchase offer made

TWIN FALLS — Residents of southern Idaho who own less than 50 shares of Sage Oil Co. common stock have been advised of an offer of the company to purchase the stock shares.

Manual wins admiration

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Career military officers view with admiration the professional allam of a "tactical manual" antiwar militants put together for the attempt to halt government business here this past week.

And they suspect more than a little that the 24-page booklet is the product of one of their own, probably an ex-officer who got his training in troop movements and deployment from the Army.

Complete with photographs of the 21 key locations where protesters plan to block traffic during morning rush hours, the manual describes how to create "the specter of social chaos" in the capital and estimates the strength and nature of police activity to oppose this.

Copies of the manual were circulated through the Pentagon late last week — usually through unofficial channels — as officers tried to judge for themselves the potential for disruption. Many were surprised by what they saw.

"This was done by someone who had the best training available — the U.S. Army," said one infantry colonel.

"The flag was never used in a more beautiful and sacred cause than when flying above that tender, gentle army, the mothers of America."

It was in a 1962 session of the general conference of the Methodist Church that Andrews was formally recognized as the "Mother Church of MOTHER'S Day," with the recommendation it become a shrine.

Historic church in use

GRAFTON, W.Va. (UPI)— Services are held only once a year in the 88-year-old Andrews Methodist Church — on Mother's Day.

Andrews' former congregation outgrew the old building and moved to new quarters, but the church never will outlive its contribution to history as the "Mother Church of Mother's Day."

A nonprofit organization has been formed to raise funds to turn the church where Mother's Day began into an international shrine that will pay homage not only to the mothers of the world but also to Anna Jarvis, the spinster "mother" of the national Mother's Day observance.

Miss Jarvis grew up in Grafton, and the family moved to Philadelphia in 1902 after her father died. Miss Jarvis' mother died in 1905. It was shortly after Mrs. Jarvis' death that her daughter began her crusade to have one day a year set aside for honoring the mothers of the world. She was aided by the support of wealthy Philadelphia merchant John Wanamaker.

The first observance of Mother's Day was held in Andrews Methodist Church in Grafton on May 12, 1907, the Sunday closest to the anniversary of Mrs. Jarvis' death.

The tradition of wearing carnations on the day also began with Miss Jarvis, who sent some 500 white carnations to her home church on that first observance.

Through letters and personal appeals and unflinching perseverance, Miss Jarvis eventually persuaded President Woodrow Wilson in 1914 to declare the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day. Wilson ordered the flag to be displayed on all U.S. government buildings on that day and an Alabama congressman commented:

"The flag was never used in a more beautiful and sacred cause than when flying above that tender, gentle army, the mothers of America."

Voters need no property, kids

TWIN FALLS — A new state law which took effect last year will allow more Twin Falls voters to cast ballots in next Tuesday's school district trustee election.

J.T. Anderson, school district business manager, said voters must have resided in the state for six months and in the county for 30 days. No other qualifications are imposed, other than the usual age criterion. No longer does a voter have to own property or have a child in school in Twin Falls to be able to vote in a trustee election. The voter must, of course, reside within the zone in which he is voting, Anderson said.

No pre-registration is required. Voters will sign an affidavit of their age and residency at the polls before voting.

Absentee ballots may be obtained at the school administration offices: 201 Main Ave. W., any day this week, including Saturday, when the office will be open for the convenience of voters, Anderson said.

Trustee seats in Zones 3 and 4 expire this year. Incumbents Edward R. (Ted) Smith in Zone 3 and Dr. H.W. Ronk in Zone 4 have filed nominating petitions. They will be opposed by Ruth Day, Michael B. Spratt and Ludell Waldron in Zone 3, and FIVE OF THE 10 Twin Falls High School juniors who will be attending Boys State next month are, from left, Brian Katz, Grant Salisbury, Jim deGlee, Stephen Thompson and John Kinney. Boys State, sponsored by the American Legion, will be held in Boise.

Health funds divided

OROFINO (UPI) — Generally following guidelines set by its chairman, the state board of health Friday divided $15.5 million among its divisions, but postponed until later a decision on how to split funds in the mental health division.

At the same time, the board voted 4-1 with Dr. Merrill Sharp, Pocatello, dissenting, to accept a report on State Health Administrator Dr. Terrell O. Carver which was mildly critical but recommended no disciplinary action.

The board followed for the most part recommendations distributed earlier by Fred C. Humphreys, Boise, but liked the amounts going to the Idaho State School and Hospital at Nampa by $100,000 and that going to environmental improvement by $10,000.

Reasons given for the increases were to improve treatment at the institution and to set up the health department's surveying system for water pollution abatement.

Final allocations made included:

- Administration, $745,942.
- Preventive medicine, $673,501.
- Mental retardation, $3,915,840.
- Laboratory, $358,000.
- Improvement of environment, $689,100.
- Child health, $1,007,250.

—Youth rehabilitation, $355,270.

- Adult health and health facilities, $328,913.
- Local health districts, $2,039,234.

To total the final $15,513,923 allocation, the board approved a $5,381,774 lump sum appropriation to the division of mental health for its institutions and its community programs.

The report on Carver stemmed from his suspension for 30 days this winter at the order of the health board.

The report said "there is no evidence that there has been flagrant withholding of information from the board by the administrator, Dr. Carver, nor is there evidence that the administrator intentionally acted contrary to the explicitly expressed wishes on policy positions. Therefore no further disciplinary action is indicated.

But the report said there was evidence that Dr. Carver failed to keep the board advised on important policy, personnel and program matters.

"The report said 'there is evidence that a number of times where the board members felt the administrator had withheld information that in fact the administrator himself did not know what had transpired. The lack of communication to the board was not due to holding back information by the administrator.'

Speedy diplomas OK'd

ST. ANTHONY (UPI) — The Idaho State Board of Education concluded its two-day meeting Friday by approving a plan to allow high school students to graduate prior to finishing eight semesters of high school attendance.

The board said a student may petition the board and his school district if he has completed all of his high school course requirements.

The plan will allow students who have taken advanced credits to enter college earlier than their high school graduating class.

The board also allocated $90,000 in funds for the operational costs of educational television facilities at the three institutions of higher education. The University of Idaho and Idaho State University will each receive $39,300, while Boise State College will receive $19,600.

The last session of the legislature appropriated $180,000 for educational television operations.

The board also went on record as requesting the state department of education, in conjunction with the state vocational agency, to develop a statewide plan for vocational education. The proposal is to be submitted to the state board of education at a later date.

Superintendent of Public Instruction D.F. Engolking indicated after the meeting kindergarten legislation is a "sound idea" and he hoped it would be enacted at the next session of the legislature.

In other action Friday, the board granted Rulon Eillis, Pocatello, superintendent of schools, permission to open discussion with Idaho State University over the possibility of the Pocatello school district assuming operation of the university-operated campus schools.

Earlier in the day, Dr. John W. Swartley, Boise, a board member, said there was "absolutely no basis" to rumors the Idaho school for the Deaf and Blind would be moved from its present Gooding location.

Swartley said a study is being made as to what would be an ideal institution for the children, but added it was only a study.

The board also met with Wayne W. Rogers, director of the Eastern Idaho Vocational School, to hear a progress report.

Rogers said the school is currently operating eight programs for about 130 students, but expects an enrollment of 400 within the next five years.

Rogers said the only "stumbling block" is funding for the program.

By Frank Schell

From P. L. Kimberly: I have a real shiny coin about the size of a quarter. It is light in weight. On one side is a bird flying, and the words "Republica De Chile" and on the other side a wreath on each side and "10 Diez Pesos Un Condor 1956." What is this coin? What is its value?

Answer: You have a 10-peso coin of Chile. The coin is made of aluminum and the exchange value is about one cent. United States money. Collector value is quoted at 60 cents, for a brand new coin, but the actual selling price is much less than this. Probably about 15 cents would buy a new specimen.

From D. R. A. Burley: I have some Hong Kong money I would like to know about. One has a woman's head with the words Queen Elizabeth the Second around it, on the back Hong Kong Fifty Cents, and some Chinese characters in the center. The other coin is larger, real shiny, with the same woman's head and on the back a lion in the center. Above the lion, Hong Kong, and below, One Dollar. They are both dated 1960. Do these coins have any value?

Answer: The coins are current in Hong Kong. Exchange rate at the present time is .16 cents per dollar, American money. Collector value for brand new coins is about face value, although in the last few years a good many of these coins have come back to the United States by way of the armed forces, and value is small.

From F. A., Twin Falls: I have a coin which has a scalloped edge. One side has a woman's head, with Queen Elizabeth the Second around it. On the other side, "Mauritius, Ten Cents and a large '10' in the center. Where is Mauritius? What value does this coin have?

Answer: Mauritius is an island in the Indian Ocean about 700 miles east of Madagascar. It is a British Crown Colony. It was originally settled by the Dutch, then owned by the French until England acquired it during the Napoleonic Wars. The coin has no exchange value, but is quoted as a collector's item at about thirty cents, brand new condition.

From M. M., Burley: I have acquired some foreign coins, as follows: A little larger than a 50 cent piece, light in weight and shiny. On one side, a woman's head and the words: Republique Francaise. On the other side, 50 Francs 1951, and the words: Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite.

Another coin, with a head on one side and "Republique Francaise" and on the back 100 Francs, dated 1954, and the words "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite." Another one, dated 1943, with a large axe on one side, underneath "Etat Francaise." The back has "Travail Famille, Patrie" with a large 2. Underneath "France" with some leaves on each side. What can you tell me about these? Are they valuable?

Answer: They have little value. This is French money. The last you mention is wartime (1941-1944), the last two are still circulating in France. The French "Franc" is worth about two cents in our money so you can figure the value in spending money.

The two-franc piece is currently selling to collectors brand new condition, for about 35 cents. The other two coins would bring you about twice that amount, each, if in new condition.

China embargo partly lifted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States lifted some key restrictions of its 20-year-old embargo on trade with mainland China Friday and said it soon would unveil the list of goods that can be sold to the Peking government.

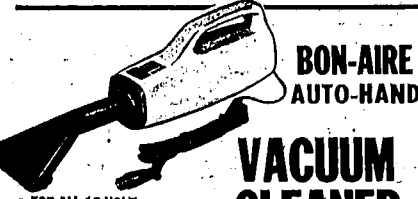

The Nixon Administration announced the removal of a virtual ban on dollar transactions between the Chinese Communists and American or foreign individuals, businesses and governments.

At the same time, it authorized U.S. oil companies abroad to fuel Chinese vessels except those bound for North Vietnam, North Korea or Cuba and it granted permission for foreign flag ships controlled by American firms to pick up or deliver goods at Chinese ports.

The three steps were among five that President Nixon outlined 23 days ago as part of an effort to improve U.S. relations with Peking. The President's action came while an American table tennis team was visiting China and followed previous relaxation of restrictions on travel to that nation. As Treasury Secretary John B. Connally was announcing the removal of the trade restrictions, the State Department said the Administration was preparing the list of nonstrategic goods that will be approved for direct trade between the United States and China. Charles Bray, the department's official spokesman, said the list was "under high level review" and would be ready "in coming weeks."

Treasury officials stressed that Connally's action did not remove prohibitions against exporting American-made items to Communist China or importing Chinese goods into the United States. But one Treasury official said the Chinese or any foreigner doing business with them now will be able to use dollars in financial transactions to expedite trade.

Concorde praised

PARIS (UPI)—French President Georges Pompidou flew twice the speed of sound aboard the Concorde supersonic jetliner Friday and said France was determined to pay whatever it would be needed to ensure the plane's successful commercial career.

"It's so quiet, so sweet, so silent a ride," Pompidou told the French nation over the state-run radio.

The 59-year-old president boarded the plane at Le Bourget Airport north of Paris and one hour and 38 minutes later landed at Blagnac airfield in Toulouse where the giant jet is being built in a joint venture with the British Aircraft Corp.

Pompidou made the flight to publicly affirm his trust in the plane which will not be on commercial lines before 1973. The United States recently scrapped its supersonic transport project when Congress refused to allocate additional money to the Boeing Aircraft Co.

The French president called on other nations to join Britain and France in building the 130-seat jetliner which will cut the travel time between Europe and New York by half.

RUPERT — Mack W. Crouch, Burley, was named Realtor of the Year during a breakfast meeting Friday of the Burley-Rupert Board of Realtors at the Rupert Elks dining hall.

He will keep the large travelling trophy for one year. He also was presented a small engraved plaque.

H. T. Breazeal, Rupert, last year's Realtor of the Year, made the presentation and outlined Crouch's activities. He said the honoree started in the real estate business in 1923 and was instrumental in getting the Burley-Rupert Board of Realtors organized in 1947. Crouch has served as president of the local group twice since its formation and also been mayor of Burley. During this time he was not in the realty business, but has since returned to operating the Crouch Real Estate and insurance firm in Burley.

Committee for the selection of the Realtor of the Year was headed by Breazeal, chairman; Adam Schell, Rupert; Lex Kunau and Mrs. Ruby Edmons, both Burley.

L. G. Jardine, president of the Burley-Rupert Board of Realtors, reminded members of the Realtors Spring Clinic scheduled for May 25 at the Ponderosa Inn. The local group will be hosts for the event. National Realtor's Week is May 23-29, Jardine said.

1,600 people help in trash drives

TWIN FALLS — Early Saturday morning about 1,600 people turned out in Twin Falls and Cassia counties to help their environment by cleaning up county roadsides.

It is estimated that 550 tons of trash and junk were picked up in Twin Falls County. The amount picked up in Cassia County was still unknown at press time.

Saturday was Twin Falls County's second annual Johnny Horizon cleanup day and the 800 plus persons used pickup trucks, large and small trucks, wagons, burlap sacks, garbage bags, trash bags, garbage cans, baskets, buckets and anything else that would hold trash in gathering the trash and junk.

It was first cleanup project in Cassia County. All kinds of trash, roadside litter, unauthorized dumps and old car bodies were picked up during the cleanup project.

It was a coordinated project with all parts of the county participating in it.

Chairmaning the annual project in Twin Falls County was William L. (Bill) Chancey, chairman of the county commissioners, and Bob Brock, Bureau of Land Management. Both Chancey and Brock were surprised at the number of people turning out to clean up trash and junk that was littering the roads, highways and public land in the county.

Brock said last year about 500 people participated because of adverse weather and between 350 and 400 tons of trash and junk was gathered then.

"But this year, we had a beautiful day and people are really helping to make this a better county to live in," the two men said.

The largest amount of litter picked up in Twin Falls County was in the Buhl area where about 450 tons were gathered by ecology minded people. Brock said about 50 tons was gathered in the Rock Creek area and then from along roadways, nearly 50 tons was gathered.

Brock said the largest group helping with the cleanup in his county, percentage-wise, was the Camp Fire girls. A spokesman for the Camp Fire Girls, said about 180 girls turned out and there are about 250 in the county.

Brock said several 4-H Clubs in all parts of the county also turned out Saturday morning to pick up the trash and junk. He said there were several other organizations as well as whole families, but the 4-H and Camp Fire girls were the largest. He noted many Boy Scouts and cub scouts also helped.

Although the largest items picked up were old car bodies and tree stumps, the bulk of the other litter was trash which included bottles, cans, paper, tree limbs, wire, string, and other garbage motorists have thrown into borrow pits.

After the morning-long project, all who participated were treated to a picnic at the county fairgrounds in Filer and at the Murtaugh LDS Church.

Aide urges work safety

By Georgia Layton Times-News Writer

BURLEY — The Idaho Safety Council held its annual spring session Friday at the Ponderosa Inn with Bartlett R. Brown, Boise, Idaho Commissioner of Labor, as luncheon speaker.

Brown told the group "Management, labor and government can reduce industrial accidents by working together to solve the problems. In 1969 there were 25,000 industrial accidents in Idaho and 600 fatalities, there were 25 per cent more agricultural fatalities than any other type of industry."

By the use of proper programs the number of accidents can be cut down and safety will be in the industry and the home. Safety codes have been written, but it takes management and labor working together to make safety and carry on the codes."

Brown reported that the Industrial Board and the Department of Labor codes have been revised. Other codes in the process of being revised include those affecting boilers, elevators and electrical facilities.

Neglect and poor housekeeping are the two main reasons for accidents in industry and the home, according to the records. More properly trained inspectors are needed to reduce the number of accidents in industry. Other speakers during the one day session were Michael A. Jerbonne, Ph.D., Audiologist, Idaho State University, who discussed "Noise Control and Hearing Conservation"; John Barrett, Boise, and attorney spoke on "The New Idaho Workmen's Compensation Law" and Roland Portman, Entomologist, University of Idaho, discussed "Agriculture Chemical Safety".

Sentence commuted

TWIN FALLS — A Three-year sentence in the Idaho State Penitentiary was ordered Friday afternoon by Fifth District Judge Theron Ward in the case of a man involved in a check charge.

The sentence was commuted, however, to four months in the county jail, with credit given for 86 days served after his arrest. Following sentencing the defendant, Glenn LaRoy Bennett, 33, was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

He had been free on his own recognizance after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of issuing a check without funds in the bank.

Deaf school rumors hit

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — A member of the State Board of Education said today there is "absolutely no basis" to rumors the Idaho School for the Deaf and Blind would be moved from its present location at Gooding. Dr. John W. Swartley, Boise, referred to fears expressed by some Gooding area residents that the institution would be moved.

He said a study is being made to determine what would be an ideal institution for the blind, but emphasized it was a study only and said no consideration is being given at this point to a move.

Swartley is chairman of the Board of Education's executive committee for the deaf and blind school.

The board also met with Wayne W. Rogers, director of the Eastern Idaho Vocational School, who said the school is currently operating eight programs and has an enrollment of about 130 students.

But, he said, when more funds become available, it is expected over a five-year period the school will have an enrollment of about 400. He said more than 100 applications for next fall have already been received.

Rogers said the only "stumbling block" to the school is funding, and added there had been "tremendous support" from the community.

Rogers said the school currently offers programs in licensed practical nursing, auto mechanics, farm diesel and hydraulics, farm management, mid-management training, nuclear technology, radio - television servicing, and welding.

The board planned to continue its meeting at the Youth Rehabilitation Center in St. Anthony. During the Thursday session the board approved a student visitation program for Idaho State University provided parents are notified.

Heart fails Heyburn man at crash

BURLEY — Dwight Skelton, 36, of Heyburn, was dead on arrival at Cassia Memorial Hospital Saturday morning following a one-vehicle traffic accident on West Main Street in Burley.

Cassia County Coroner Dr. Leale Fillmore said following an autopsy Saturday afternoon that the driver apparently died of a heart attack before the accident.

Police reports of the accident were unavailable, as the investigating officer, Glen Wilkinson, went off-duty without writing his report.

Burley Police Chief Ken Berry was also unavailable for comment, according to police.

Eye-witnesses said Skelton, driving a delivery truck east on Main, apparently lost control for an undetermined reason. The truck shot across two lanes of traffic and plunged into a corral of the nearby Whittle Livestock Co.

The vehicle stayed on its wheels. The victim was found on the floor.

Cassia vote set Monday

BURLEY — Residents in the Cassia County School District will go to the polls Monday afternoon to vote on the district's five mill maintenance and operation levy.

Also, residents in Zone 1 and Zone 2 will decide who will represent them on the district's school board for the next three years.

The five mill levy is the same levy that the district's voters have approved for the last several years, District Superintendent Harold Blauer said.

Only the residents in the zones where the school board vacancies exist can vote for a school board member to represent them, he said. The only restriction on the voters is that the residents by over 21, residents of the county for 30 days and a resident of the state for six months.

In Zone 1 Gerald Conrad an area rancher-farmer is running against W.B. Whitely, Oakley rancher-businessman, who is presently serving as chairman of the school board.

However, in Zone 2 there is no contest as board member Norval Wildman is running for re-election unopposed.

All polls will be open Monday from 1-7 p.m.

The residents in Zone 1 will vote at the Burley High School, Oakley High School and the Bean Growers Warehouse in Milner.

Club gets 2nd visit

TWIN FALLS — An amended beer-license revocation was served Friday night against the operators of the Crystal Clipper tavern west of Twin Falls, on order of Twin Falls County Sheriff Paul Corder.

The order supplements the original revocation served on the operators, Mitchell Campbell and Roger Balach, in April. The original order, signed only by county Commission Chairman William Chancey, failed to give the recipients 15 days to contest the action.

The amended order allows 15 days to contest the action, which charges if they do not contest the revocation, their county beer license will be suspended for six months.

The amended order was signed by all three county commissioners.

The charge alleges that the tavern is a public nuisance, that the operators were showing "lewd and lascivious movies," and that the state Liquor Law Enforcement officer had previously issued two warning tickets against the club's operators for infractions involving juveniles.

Livestock Nixon salutes U.S. farmers

CHICAGO (UPI) — Livestock prices were mostly steady, with a few gains in steer and heifer markets. Cattle markets were active, with prices for steers and heifers ranging from 23 to 35 cents per pound. Pork prices were also steady, with prices for hogs ranging from 42 to 48 cents per pound. Sheep prices were mostly steady, with prices for lambs ranging from 32 to 38 cents per pound.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon saluted the nation's farmers Friday and said they have not been fairly rewarded for their giant gains in productivity. Welcoming 240 farm leaders, agri-business executives, editors and their wives to the White House for a day-long program honoring farming, Nixon said increased farm output provided a firm foundation on which the nation can develop rural telephone systems.

Stand firm

TWO FARMERS near Waterloo, Ill., Conrad Kolmer, right, and his son, Earl, stand firm in their opposition to a proposed metropolitan airport which would be built about a mile east of their farm three miles north of Waterloo. The Kolmers are continuing a family tradition in farming that began in 1875. Under current plans the Waterloo airport, 10 air miles south downtown St. Louis, would replace most passenger operation Lambert-St. Louis field by 1980. (UPI)

Wheat markets remain steady in northwest

PORTLAND — The northwest cash wheat markets this past quarter held mostly steady in the white wheat classes and ordinary protein winter wheat while the high protein winter and spring wheat values were easier compared to the previous quarter. Leonard Orvold, USDA statistical reporting service, said in a report that strength in white wheat markets continue to reflect comparable export business compared to last year, but with supplies substantially less. Shipments of ordinary protein winter wheat were in enough volume to hold market levels about steady, Orvold noted in the quarterly report. The loss of a good portion of cash Japanese high protein winter wheat to Gulf ports tells the story of declining prices in this market. Spring wheat levels were as much as eight cents per bushel under the previous quarter, although exports were the best on record, and supplies were always in sufficient offerings to cover export and mill business.

Compared to a year ago this year's level were four and 12 cents per bushel respectively, higher. Montana spring wheat markets held steady after dropping five cents from January's high, but maintained a four and six-cent per bushel advantage over comparable dates a year ago. Exports of all classes of wheat from Oregon, Washington and northern Idaho during the January-March period totaled 52.2 million bushels, which is 19 per cent below exports in the comparable quarter of 1970. This represents a shift from two previous quarters when exports were higher than comparable periods of the preceding year. The experts of white wheat from the northwest during this year's first quarter totaled 27 million bushels, and were 31 per cent less than the same period a year ago. White wheat used for feed in the Pacific Northwest was estimated at 1.47 million bushels for the January-March period, 40 per cent less than the same period in 1970. "Many families in cities want to move to the countryside but lack opportunity to obtain home financing. Loans may now be made to families who lack adequate housing and will become owner-occupants in rural community, without regard to the location of their present residence or employment," Smith said in a statement. There was no immediate indication as to how many loans might be made to families moving from cities to rural areas, but it may be relatively

Resources board supports plan

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — The Idaho Water Resources Board unanimously adopted today a resolution supporting construction of a dam or dams in the Grandview-Guffey reach of the Snake River. The resolution referred to a dam or dams as may be licensed by the Federal Power Commission serving the public interests of the state. The resolution also stated the action constituted "optimum use" of the water in Idaho and that state participation in the project was "essential to future development of water and related land resources within the state." The resolution adopted said development of the Grandview-Guffey reach of the Snake River fits into and will be part of the overall state water plan now being formulated. The board took its action after hearing a complete summary of engineering studies, a staff review, and results of public meetings called to discuss the project. The report was presented by Verl King, assistant director for development of the water board. King said much of the area involved provides excellent duck and goose hunting, good fishing for bass and catfish and fair trout angling. King said project plans call for a boat landing facility immediately below Guffey dam, a

Research planned on vegetable oil

HAILEY — Word received by Blaine County Agent James Eakin points to some important research on vegetable oil to be conducted at the University of Idaho. An Idaho Dairy Products Commission research grant of $9,550 will finance a University of Idaho study to determine what happens to unsaturated fatty acids of vegetable oils as they are processed into imitation dairy products. Dr. John Montour, university food scientist, will be leader of the project. "Our work will involve analyzing regular dairy products and imitation dairy products to get their fatty acid fingerprints. These will be compared to see what differences, if any, exist," Montour said. Even though an imitation dairy product is manufactured from 100 per cent vegetable oil, it may not end up that way, Montour explained. Something must be done to change the liquid "oil" into a solid state. Hydrogenation, which consists of adding hydrogen to the unsaturated fat, a process needed to increase firmness of the product, is one method. It also changes the unsaturated fat to saturated fat. Other methods have much the same effect. Consequently, the consumer may not be getting the polyunsaturated product he thinks he is. Montour's research will determine how much this may be true and with what products. "Recent research indicates that saturated fats may not be as much of a culprit in respect to heart disease as indicated earlier. This, coupled with recognition by consumers about the type of fat they are getting in imitation products, may lead to use of milk fat as well as other animal fats in the development of new products more acceptable to today's dietary requirements," Montour said.

Butter & Eggs

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wholesale selling prices as reported by USDA: Butter: prices paid delivered to Chicago steady, 92 score 47.75; 92 score 47.50; 80 score 45.75. Eggs: prices paid delivered to Chicago steady, 28 cents per dozen (80 per cent A or better); Jumbo 34 1/4; extra large 30 1/4; large 29 1/4; medium 28 1/4; small 27 1/4. Prices to retailers (grade A in cartons delivered): extra large 38.00; large 35.00; medium 32.00; small 31.00.

Farm Farm loan terms given

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nixon Administration farm officials have broadened terms of a housing loan program which could help some needy families move from city slums to modest new homes in small towns. The Agriculture Department action, a further step in efforts to encourage "balanced" national growth by halting the country-to-city population drift, was announced by James V. Smith, administrator of the department's Farmers Home Administration (FHA). The FHA's housing credit program offers mortgage loans for homes in towns of 10,000 or less to borrowers who cannot get loans from other sources. In the past, the loans were available only to people already living or working in small towns or open country. But under Smith's new order, families can apply for the rural housing loans regardless of where they presently live or work. "Many families in cities want to move to the countryside but lack opportunity to obtain home financing. Loans may now be made to families who lack adequate housing and will become owner-occupants in rural community, without regard to the location of their present residence or employment," Smith said in a statement. There was no immediate indication as to how many loans might be made to families moving from cities to rural areas, but it may be relatively

Twin Falls repeats as league champion

Striking for 25 unanswered points in three late events, the undefeated Twin Falls Bruins turned back a sharp bid by the Borah Lions to win their second straight Southern Idaho Conference track and field championship Friday night.

Only two records were broken in the meet that saw a rain and wind squall 20 minutes before the start of the running events break the promise of good and more records weather. Paul Shaber of Idaho Falls turned the high hurdles in 14.6 to better by two-tenths of a second the standard he and Ron Imel of Borah shared. Borah's mile relay team, handing Twin Falls its first defeat, lowered that mark from 3:26.7 to 3:25.7.

Twin Falls, winning its 18th meet over a two-year span, wound up with 70 points against 55 for the Lions. But the Bruins trailed until the half mile and then ran away in the medley and 220-yard dash. Senior Jack Cooper, after an opening 57-second lap, won the halfmile in 2:00.5 while sophomore Gary Slevers boomed into third and didn't miss second far to give Twin nine points. The Bruins took the medley unopposed, thanks to a fine anchor by Call and then Mark Miller, Rocky Reece and Bill Woodson went 1-3-5 in the 220-yard dash for 10 more points. Borah was shut out in all three events.

Twin Falls won six first places with three of them coming in the relays. Borah won three but the two contenders took most of the second places.

Billy Miller failed to better his pole vault record of 15-3 although the crowd did see him clear 15 feet, 8 inches. But that was on his fourth attempt at the height. Nampa Junior Larin

Bailey came within an eyelash of becoming Idaho's third 15-foot vaulter.

Mark Miller won the 220-yard dash easily but bowed to Caldwell's Harry Price in a 9.9 century. Cooper took the other quartermile quartet out of a tight jam on the last leg. The medley was close until Call got the baton with about a five-yard lead and he pushed that up to about 30 yards before coasting in.

Idaho Falls produced a double winner in Parker who took both distances, beating Simmons of Borah and Stan Doten of Twin Falls to the line in the mile and two mile, respectively.

Pacing the 1-3-5 sweep

MARK MILLER takes the tape to win the 220-yard dash in the Southern Idaho Conference track meet Friday night. Burke of Skyline was second and Rocky Reece, Twin Falls, was third. The Bruins took three places out of the race and won their second straight league title.

Rambling around!

There is a sinking feeling in our stomachs as we view the happenings in the Idaho wildlife area.

At the "personal pleasure" of the immediate past and current governors the Idaho Fish and Game Commission now has less experience than at any time since the commission was formed. The member with longest tenure has two years. But compounding that, now, is the resignation of J. R. (Dick) Woodworth as department director. He is a capable man and his five-point program has been a key to such success as the department was able to muster through the cloistered Samuelson administration.

Further, we are informed that Bob Salter, the assistant director, does not intend to actively campaign for the directorship and, indeed, may not be interested in it.

It will require a lot of strong outside conservation help and knowledge to keep things going on an even keel in the next couple of years. The situation couldn't be riper for vested interests to make a move for control or influence.

Turning point for Bruins

Bold Reasoning cops Withers mile for fifth straight win

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cosgrove Stable's Bold Reasoning, a giant of a colt with no designs on next week's Preakness Stakes, overcame a bad start to win the $58,500 Withers Stakes at Aqueduct Saturday to keep his record perfect at five straight victories.

The towering son of Hall to Reason immediately sprinted to the front after getting out of the starting gate last and then led the rest of the way to win the 96th running of the mile race by two lengths.

Tartan Stable's Highbinder was second, four lengths ahead of Christiana Stable's Salem. Nell Hellman's Good Behavior, the favorite who went into the race with consecutive victories in the Swift Stakes, the Gotham Stakes and the Wood Memorial, was fourth.

Bold Reasoning, who did not start as a 2-year-old last season, scored his first stakes victory as trainer Nick Gonzalez tested him for class for the first time. For this was the best field Bold Reasoning ever faced and he came through with an impressive victory by covering the distance over a sloppy track in 1:35.45.

Victory was worth $35,100 to his owners, Charles Hargrove of Miami and William Kosnick of Detroit. It was worth $9.80, $8.80 and $4.40 across the board.

Highbinder, a full brother to Dr. Fager who set the 1:33.45 stakes record in winning the Withers in 1967, paid $11.80 and $5.80. Salem paid $3.80.

Bold Reasoning was not nominated for any of the triple crown races and will not be supplemented to next week's Preakness Stakes.

"No, we definitely will not supplement to the Preakness but we seriously are considering the Belmont Stakes for the colt," trainer Nick Gonzalez said.

Gonzalez wants to season Bold Reasoning a little more. The colt never has been around two turns.

Jacinto Vasquez, who is scheduled to ride Executioner in the Preakness, rode Bold Reasoning who cost $15,000 when purchased as a 2-year-old early in 1970. The colt did not run last season and made his first start this year at Gulfstream Park on March 8.

Vasquez admitted Bold Reasoning was slow getting out of the gate. "But he got in stride and was running very easy down the backstretch."

Field of 16 set for Preakness

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—The probable field for next Saturday's 96th running of the $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico Race Course stood at 16 Saturday with the likelihood that no more than 12 3-year-olds will start in the mile and three-sixteenths fixture.

Definitely set to go in the Classic are Edgar Calbett's Canonero II winner of the Kentucky Derby, and the three horses that finished closest behind him at Louisville last Saturday. They are Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French, W. A. Lovin's Bold Reason and Calumet Farm's Eastern Fleet.

Also slated as definite starters are Gustave Ring's South Of and October House Farm's Executioner, who ran one-two, with only a nose separating them, in Friday's Preakness prep at Pimlico, and Brookmeade Stable's Limit To Reason. The Brookmeade colt was beaten 1 1/4 lengths for first money.

"I like the way he ran in the prep," trainer Tommy Kelly said Saturday in talking about Limit To Reason. "I took the blinkers off for the race and it seemed to do him some good."

Among the probabilities are Christiana Stable's Salem, Vegas Vic, owned jointly by Charles Pritz and Betty Sechrest; Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Your Excellency, C. Oliver Goldsmith's Leematt, C. McCloy Davis' Royal J.D., Cosgrove Stable's Bold Reasoning, George D. Widener's Hardy Life, J. M. Lin's Northfields, and W. P. Russo's Impetobably.

Meanwhile, trainer Juan Arias announced plans to work Canonero II five furlongs Sunday morning if the weather clears up.

Trainer Raggie Cornell worked Eastern Fleet one mile in 1:42.2-5 and allowed him to run out the 1 1/8 miles in 1:57.2-5 at Belmont Park this morning. After the workout he

'Cap won by Fleet Surprise

INGLEWOOD, CALIF. (UPI)—Fleet Surprise, making one of his rare starts on the dirt, raced to a head victory in the 19th running of the $65,900 Los Angeles Handicap at Hollywood Park, richest sprint race in the country for older horses.

The grass course specialist was sent off at odds of 2-1 in the seven furlong feature but staged a determined rally from the outside to barely run down Inverness drive at the wire.

Master Hand was third and Prudal Land finished fourth in the field of 10.

The victory was the third straight for jockey Don Pierce in the Los Angeles Handicap. But the riding star of the day was Laffit Pincay Jr. who brought home five winners out of eight mounts but finished out of the money aboard Corn Off The Cob in the stakes.

Fleet Surprise raced the seven furlongs in the outstanding time of 1:20.45, just four-fifths of a second off the stakes record set by Native Diver in 1968. That also equalled the world record.

The longest victory was worth $47,200, $18,200 and $12,400 to backers of Fleet Surprise in the crowd of 46,000. Inverness Drive's prices were $14.80 and $10.40, while Master Hand was worth $15.

T.F., Caldwell share golf title; Minico places third

The Twin Falls Bruins steadied over the last nine holes to come from behind Friday and tie the Caldwell Cougars for the Southern Idaho Conference golf championship. The teams had some trouble on the front side, finished strong to take third place, 1 shot behind the co-leaders.

The Bruins, seeking their fourth straight title, fell three shots back on the front nine when one of the anchor men, Jim Blandford ran into tons of putting trouble and skied to a 40. But Blandford got himself back to 38 on the back side. Meanwhile, teammate Jeff Thomsen, reigning state amateur title, went out in 38 and home in 35 to share medalist honors. Steve Pietz brought a 40 back to 37 and the big reason for the share of the title was the 74 turned in by Tom Allen.

Thomsen and Pat Marmo of Idaho Falls shared medalist

Buckeyes show power in practice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Ohio State, which won all its nine regular 1970 football games only to be upset by Stanford in the Rose Bowl, showed similar power on tap for the coming season when the varsity walloped the reserves 42-13 Saturday in the spring tramping windup game.

Scouts from Iowa, OSU's opening opponent Sept. 11, were among the 25,000 fans at Ohio Stadium to see the intersquad game that annually ends spring drills.

Don Lamka, senior quarterback who replaced the graduating Rex Kern, led the Buckeyes' first offensive and defensive team to an easy win, racking up a 21-6 margin in the first half and rolling on at the same pace.

Lamka, who the past two years has been a defensive reserve for cornerback Jack Tatum after starting as a quarterback in high school, directed three second quarter touchdowns to start the sweep, after the reserves had stunned the first team on the opening kickoff. Sophomore Elmer Lippard had returned the ball 96 yards for a touchdown.

Individual scoring by teams include: Twin Falls: Thomson 71, Allen 74, Blandford 74, Pritz 77, Caldwell-Rodwell 72, Stanwood 74, Graham and Lodge 74, Minico: Arnes 72, Gode 74, Teus 74, Crason 83, Nampa: Bell 73, Neil 73, Placek 83 and Towery 84. ## Donohue coasts to auto win

LIME ROCK, Conn. (UPI)—Mark Donohue of Media, Pa., drove his Javelin to a runaway victory in the rain-soaked Schaefer Trans-American auto race, winning by five laps at an average speed of 76.04 mph.

The victory was worth nine championship points for the American Motors Corporation in the opening race of the 11 events series for manufacturers.

Donohue won more than $5,000 of the $30,000 prize money at stake. He led every lap of the 200-mile race run in a steady rain, taking the lead in the first turn of the opening lap from Parnell Jones, of Torrance, Calif. Jones, victor in the race last year, went off course later in the first lap, pitted his Mustang, returned to the race and retired after five laps with body damage.

Stage set for classic finish for Nelson meet

DALLAS (UPI) — Masters Champion Charles Coody clung to a one-stroke lead after three rounds of the $125,000 Byron Nelson Golf Classic Saturday, but the likes of Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, close behind, set up a potentially classic closing round.

Coody, refusing to completely collapse under the pressure of a steady day, fired a two-over-par 72 to finish 54 holes at three-under-par 207.

That put him one stroke in front of Homero Blancas, Trevino and Nicklaus, who missed a chance to blow the tournament open when one birdie putt after another skittered past, around and over the hole.

Palmer shared that position with Gene Littler, Frank Beard, Gibby Gilbert, Ted Hayes and Bob Stone. Hayes and Stone were the only two lesser lights to be below par after three rounds on the rugged course.

Collier places 43 gridders on college all-star roster

CHICAGO (UPI) — Coach Blanton Collier Saturday announced a heavyweight squad of 43 players, including 23 first-round picks in the professional draft, to the 1971 College All-Star football team.

The team will meet the world champion Baltimore Colts July 30 in Soldier Field in the 38th game of a series sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities Inc.

Collier gave heavy consideration to physical size in picking his players. The smallest lineman weighs 240 pounds and the shortest of the three quarterbacks is 6 feet 2 inches.

Bittick brings title home

BOISE (UPI) — A Middleton High School senior who won the world junior olympics heavy-weight freestyle wrestling champion title in Tokyo last week returned home Saturday to greet his parents, friends and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus.

Mark Bittick, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett N. Bittick, Notus, took the title with his fifth straight victory in world-wide competition.

He won that title bout by 5-3 decision.

Yanks nip Sox 2-1 in 11 innings

CHICAGO (UPI) — Thurman Munson tripled against the centerfielder — fence to open the 11th inning and scored the winning run on Bobby Murcer's one-out single Saturday night as the New York Yankees squeezed out a 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Munson's blow saddled the defeat on Joe Horlen, appearing in only his fourth game of the season.

Horlen relieved Sox starter Tom Bradley, who had allowed six hits and no earned runs in 10 innings.

USC stuns UCLA in dual meet

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — University of Southern California came through with five seasonal world best performances, 11 personal bests, five meet records and five school records Saturday to upset UCLA 75-70 in a Pacific-8 track and field meet at Westwood before a capacity crowd of 12,584.

Willie Deckard was the Trojans' big hero, by romping to world's best times in both sprints. He blazed the 100-yard dash in 9.2 seconds and came back to take the 200 in 20.2.

He opened his day's efforts by anchoring Troy's 440 relay team, which won by three yards in another world seasonal best, 39.3.

Deckard suffered a cramp in his right leg on the false start in the 100, Southern Cal coach Vern Wolfe disclosed after the meet. "That's why he was off so slow in the 100."

The Trojans' Edsel Garrison took the lead away from UCLA's John Smith, last year's National AAU 400 champ, 85 yards from home and went on to win the quarter-mile in a sensational 45.4, the fastest time in the world this year. It was his personal best, a meet record and a USC school record.

Dennis nabs four firsts in leading Wendell to district A-3 track title

MURTAUGH — Sprinter-hurdler Kirk Dennis scored his expected four first places and, ably abetted by two sophomores, paced the Wendell Trojans to the fourth district class A-3 track and field championship Friday.

Dennis won the low hurdles, both short dashes and the high jump to account for 24 of his team's 61 points. Glenns Ferry had 38, taking the runner-up trophy by finishing ahead of Kimberly in the last event — the mile relay.

Dennis, who earlier in the week signed a football letter-of-intent at University of Idaho, wasn't pressed in any of his races — which wasn't unexpected. The youngster had three firsts and a second and scored 22 points in leading the Trojans to the state A-3 title last year.

His chances of improving or equalling that record might get his first test in the regional in Twin Falls next week when he will be running against Rilmrock's Rollie Woolsey whose sprint times are almost identical.

Dennis was joined in the Trojans' first-place assault by sophomore brother Kip, who, running his third competitive flight — and into a wind — took the high hurdles in a good 15.3 time. He also got second in the low hurdles for a Dennis-Dennis finish which senior brother Kirk honored with a smile and handshake just across the finish line and Kip anchored Wendell's third place quartermile relay effort.

Stevenson, another sophomore, outdueled Camas County's Charlie Ashmead in the broadjump to win at 22 feet, 5 1/4 inches. Stevenson took the lead 15 21-9, Ashmead went 21-11, Stevensons 2-1 1/4 and Ashmead 22-2 1/4 before the Wendell youngster uncorked the winner.

The only other double winner was Gooding State's John Hunter who took the mile and two mile — a doubling system he can continue through state now that the mile run has been re-instated to its usual spot in the afternoon events rather than immediately after the morning two-mile.

One defending state champion already is done with Kimberly's Rod Rudolph, the A-3 quartermile king, being unable to run Friday due to a hamstring muscle pull.

Urrutia of Shoshone broke the pole vault record with a 13-foot, one-quarter inch vault, eclipsing a 12-10 standard set by Darrington of Declo.

Senior Rich Brown led Glenns Ferry into the runner-up spot. He won the discus but was unable to give the district mark the challenge expected.

He came back to place second in the 220-yard dash, third in the broadjump and started the Pilots' winning halfmile relay.

The top three in each event will advance to the regional finals in Twin Falls Saturday afternoon, probably between 2:30 and 3 p.m. Bruin Stadium is being used in the forenoon and early afternoon for the state girls' championships.

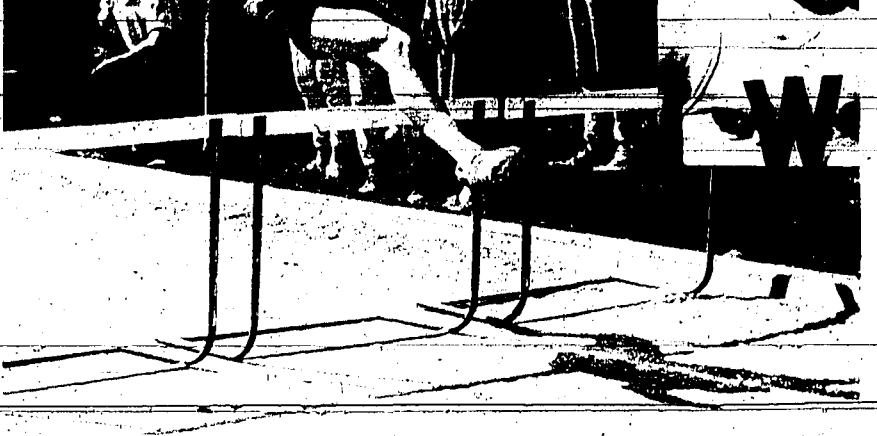

High jump — Dennis, WJ Morgan, WJ Darrington, RR; Hudson, KJ Crockett, H. 6-4.

Discus — Brown, GP; Flynn, M; Shrum, GP; Rush, Carey; Noddo, RR, 142-10.

Broadjump — Stevenson, WJ; Ashmead, CC; Brown, GP; Hopkins, H; Ramsley, K, 22-5 1/4.

Shotput — Rush, Carey; Harder, GP; Housen, WJ; Higgins, K; Pearson, H, 43-9.

Pole vault — Urrutia, SJ; Castillon, C; Young, K; Thompson, RR; Avellano, GP, 13-0 1/4.

Fourth of 4 firsts. STATE RECORD HOLDER Kirk Dennis leans over the last hurdle enroute to his fourth victory of the day during the A-3 district meet at Murtaugh Friday. Dennis won the 100 and 220-yard dashes, the low hurdles and high jump to lead Wendell to the team title.

Californians hand Indians fourth loss

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Rogor Repoz smacked his second homer of the year and Syd O'Brien drove in two runs with a triple to highlight a four-run sixth inning Saturday as the California Angels handed the Cleveland Indians their fourth straight defeat, 5-2.

After starter Rudy May walked three batters to force in a Cleveland run in the third inning, the Angeles tied it in the fifth with an unearned run on Sandy Alomar's run-scoring single and wrapped up their victory by scoring four runs off reliever Rich Hand in the sixth.

Ray Lamb hurried the first five innings for the Indians and allowed only four hits and one run. Hand, who was reactivated Friday after being on the disabled list took over and got the first two batters, but Repoz smacked one into the rightfield stands.

Ken McMullen singled, took third on John Stephenson's single and both runners rode home on O'Brien's triple which bounced off Chuck Hinton's glove in rightfield. May sent O'Brien home with a single to left.

Low hurdles — Kip Dennis, WJ; Dennis, WJ; Lower, SJ; Crockett, H; Urrutia, S, 20-3.

Shotput — Rush, Carey; Harder, GP; Housen, WJ; Higgins, K; Pearson, H, 43-9.

Battle of inches

SOARING Charles Ashmead of Camas County and Stevenson, a sophomore from Wendell, battled for the class A-3 district title in the broadjump and took turns lurching ahead of each other. Stevenson finally won it at 22-5 1/4, two inches ahead of Ashmead.

Meeks-led Tigers cop SCIC crown; Lierman and Gorrell sparkle

GOODING — Double hurdle winner Jim Meeks led the Jerome Tigers to the South Central Idaho Conference track and field championship Friday afternoon as teammate Randy Suter, for the first time in a long while, failed to get two distance victories.

Meeks, showing steady improvement in the hurdles, took the highs in 15.8 and came back to defeat teammate John Campbell in the lows in 20.7. Suter did win the two-mile but was defeated by Wood River's Ward in the mile.

The Tigers wound up with 68 points and won what was expected to be a tight race quite handily over runner-up Wood River. The Wolverines did take second but Buhl was close at 45.

Minnesota clobbers Senators

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Tony Oliva raised his American League batting lead to .385 with four hits, including a three-run homer, Saturday as the Minnesota Twins clobbered the Washington Senators, 9-2.

Oliva broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning when he followed two out singles by Rod Carew and Leo Cardenas with his ninth homer of the season, tops in the A.L.

Team scoring — Jerome 44, Wood River 40, Buhl 45, Piler 44, Mountain Home 40, Gooding 37.

While Jerome was getting a few more points than expected, Piler did probably the best job of increasing on its point total. The Wildcats went without a back injury sustained in broadjumping, and that cost them enough points to have been second. Daniels is expected back for next week's A-3 district meet at Twin Falls but isn't expected to broadjump anymore.

Braves take SF in eighth

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A two-run pinchhit homer by Clete Boyer and a three-run drive by Hank Aaron were the big blows of a five-run eighth inning Saturday that carried the Atlanta Braves to a 5-3 victory over San Francisco.

A walk to Marty Perez leading off the inning preceded Boyer's drive, his first of the year. Ron Bryant, who had held the Braves to four hits before Boyer's homer, left after Dusty Baker and Ralph Garr followed with singles.

Jerry Johnson came on and Aaron hit the first pitch for his 12th homer of the year and 604th of his career. It also was Aaron's first homer in San Francisco since 1968.

For Maya it was his sixth homer of 1971 and the 634th of his career.

Team scoring — Jerome 44, Wood River 40, Buhl 45, Piler 44, Mountain Home 40, Gooding 37.

While Jerome was getting a few more points than expected, Piler did probably the best job of increasing on its point total.

Tigers outlast Kansas

DETROIT (UPI)—Norm Cash hit two straight home runs and Fred Scherman balled out Joe Coleman with one pitch Saturday to give the Detroit Tigers a 2-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Cash lashed his fourth homer of the season in the fourth inning, 13 rows into the upper deck in right field, and made Wally Bunker's record 2-4 with his fifth homer, this one into the lower deck, his next time up in the sixth.

Coleman won his second game without a loss with his longest effort of the year, 7-1-3 innings, in which he allowed seven hits.

Kansas City's lone run came in the fifth inning on consecutive singles by Cookie Rojas, Paul Schaal and Bob Oliver.

Oliver led off the eighth with a single and advanced to third one out later on base hits by pinchhitter Gail Hopkins and Fred Patek.

Team scoring — Jerome 44, Wood River 40, Buhl 45, Piler 44, Mountain Home 40, Gooding 37.

While Jerome was getting a few more points than expected, Piler did probably the best job of increasing on its point total.

Twin Falls and Shoshone cop girls region titles

The Twin Falls girls won the last event of the day to beat back a strong bid by Buhl for class A regional honors while the Shoshone Indians ripped the thin but powerful Raft River

Trojans for Class B honors Saturday. Twin Falls, ahead only 39-38 going into the final race — the medley — had things to itself in claiming the victory as Buhl, which came within a couple of feet of winning the medley in district last week, dropped the baton on the first exchange and was unable to threaten. Meanwhile, Shoshone's sprinting livesome of the Churchman sister, Miss Berrichon, Miss Freeman and Miss Hadlock, just did outlast the Raft River team composed of five girls — four freshmen and a junior. The final score there was 32-31.

Pointing to next week's state finals, slated for 11 a.m. Saturday at Twin Falls' Bruin Stadium, the two titlists of Saturday may have trouble outlasting the runners-up as depth gives way to strength.

In the class A field, Buhl had three individual firsts and shared the quarter-mile crown with Twin Falls. Twin Falls had one individual first, the tie with Buhl and the medley win. Capital remained strong with three firsts that look like they definitely will remain firsts.

A tone of records on both sides were broken. The best in the class A came in the high jump, where Leslie Hamilton Fosbury dropped to 5 feet, 3 3/4 inches, and the half-mile which Capital's Miss Robertson toured in 2:27.5. The other Capital lass, Miss Young, took the 220-yard dash in a solid 26.5 and quarter-mile in a sharp 60.9 — both appearing untouchable at state next week.

Raft River took four firsts and a second from Miss Cooper and Miss Jones to put the pressure on Shoshone which had two relay wins and a title from Miss Freeman in the 75-yard dash. Miss Jones won the 220 and 440-yard events and Miss Cooper was first at 50 and 100 yards and second at 75. But Shoshone seconded them on almost all counts.

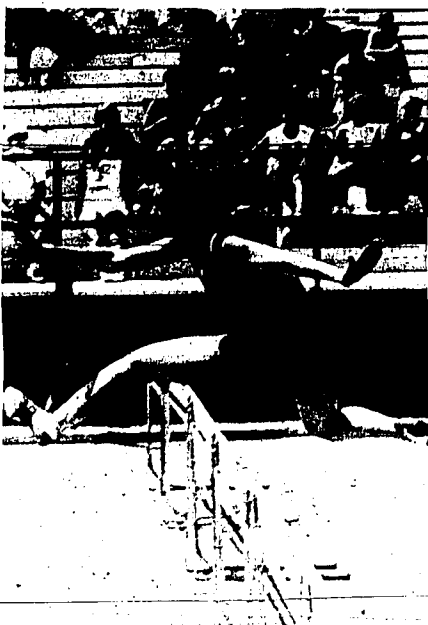

Miss Lattimer of Murtaugh got off the best field effort with a discus throw of 110 feet, 8 3/4 inches.

Only the top two in each event will go to state next week.

Holtzman Cubs blank Expos 3-0

MONTREAL (UPI)—Joe Pepton slammed a two-run homer in the sixth inning Saturday night as the Chicago Cubs shut out the Montreal Expos, 3-0, behind Ken Holtzman's three-hitter.

Pepton hit his fourth homer of the season and second in two games after Glenn Beckert reached first base on Ron Hunt's error.

The Cubs picked up their third run in the seventh inning as Ron Santo singled, took second on a wild pitch and moved to third on Danny Breeden's sacrifice. Holtzman, who added his own cause with two hits, then doubled home Santo.

CSI falls to fifth in meet

GRAND JUNCTION, COLO. — Ricks College of Rexburg strode easily into the Intermountain Collegiate Athletic Conference track and field championship Saturday while College of Southern Idaho, making its first appearance, wound up in fifth spot.

CSI was shutout in the first department with previously undefeated Fuzz Gunter dropping to third place although he cleared 5 feet, 5 inches. Fred Barga and George Wagner ran two-three in the 100-yard dash and Daryle James posted a personal best of 56.7 in placing second in the intermediate hurdles. James also claimed fourth in the high hurdles with teammate Dave Martin, running fifth at the time, falling after hitting a hurdle.

The CSI 440-yard relay team was third in 44 flat. Two records were set by the field. Buymen of Snow College ran the intermediate hurdles in 55.9 while James Stark of Ricks won the mile at 4:22.6.

CSI now will compete in the regional junior-college meet in Gresham, Ore., next week. Final meet scoring was Ricks 96, Snow 53, Eastern Utah 49, Mesa 47 1/2, CSI 22 1/2 and Dixie 0.

S. Haynie ups lead in tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Sandra Haynie of Dallas continued her masterful golf Saturday with a sizzling seven-under-par 66 for a 36-hole score of 135 and a larger lead in the $20,000 Alamo Ladies Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Haynie, shooting her fifth consecutive under-70 round, wound up 11 under par for the first 36 holes of the tourney that ends Sunday. She held a six stroke lead over Peggy Wilson who had a 71 for a 141 total.

The little Texan, who has won the last two events on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, blasted the 6,500-yard par 73 Olmos Basin course with eight birdies as she added to the one stroke lead she held over Miss Wilson after Friday's opening round. She had trouble only on the seventh hole, where she three putted from 35 feet.

Defending champion Kathy Whitworth, the all-time leading money winner, got back into contention with a 68 Saturday but was still seven shots behind the runaway leader with a 142.

Monzon retains crown, stopping Benvenuti in third round of match

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI)—Carlos Monzon of Argentina, having twice floored Nino Benvenuti of Italy, retained his world middleweight boxing title Saturday night when Benvenuti's manager threw in the towel in the third round of the scheduled 15-round fight.

Champion ready for Griffith

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI)—Carlos Monzon said Saturday night he would defend his world middleweight crown against American Emile Griffith within two months.

Monzon, who had just battered Italian challenger Nino Benvenuti into a three-round submission, said "Griffith will be next."

The 29-year-old Argentinian said he knew he could beat Benvenuti again. "In the first round I was very nervous because I was defending the title for the first time," he said.

Tito Lecoure, Monzon's trainer, told him to "take it easy" at the end of the second round. Monzon said "I told him no. 'I will win this round.'" He did. Lecoure said Benvenuti's manager, (Carlo Amaduzzi) was right to throw in the towel.

Benvenuti had just got up from being knocked down by a fierce left right combination from the world champion when Carlo Amaduzzi sent the white towel fluttering into the ring.

Benvenuti angrily kicked it out again, but referee Victor Avonzo of Argentina awarded Monzon the victory.

Benvenuti opened fast but never landed a telling punch on the Argentinian who weighed in at 159 pounds.

A vicious left hook sent Benvenuti, 159.6 pounds, to the canvas at the end of the second round, but seconds after he got up at the count of six, the bell saved him.

Monzon had the Italian backing away in the third round and another stinging left cross sent Benvenuti through the ropes. The Italian recovered but after just a minute of the third round another terrible combination to the head put him on the canvas again.

Amaduzzi took one look at his fighter and immediately threw in the towel at 1:05 of the third round. The 29-year-old Monzon boasted his record to 85 wins against three draws and nine losses. Benvenuti sank to an 82-1-7 mark.

The Italian fans who had swarmed into Monaco for the fight went wild with anger at Amaduzzi's surrender. They rushed the ring but police kept them back.

Only 6,000 persons turned out to see the match held in the open-air at Monaco's football stadium. It was the second time in six months that Benvenuti had lost to Monzon.

Benvenuti lost his title on Nov. 8 last year in Rome when Monzon's right hook decked the Italian for the count in the 12th round.

TWIN FALLS - DACOWITS!
Come again!

It's a name I have become very familiar with these past few months and stands for the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services. A group of 50 American women who advise the Secretary of Defense on the role of women in the military.

These 50 women, of whom I am fortunate to be a part, met recently in the nation's capital for their semi-annual meeting at the Pentagon, the Mayflower Hotel and a tour of a military installation.

What seemed to be right on the heels of the anti-war demonstrations in Washington, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird urged the women to increase understanding and respect for the Armed Forces as he greeted and extended the official welcome to the DACOWITS members, the ten directors of the women's military components, chief recruiting officers and other guests.

Top officials in the Defense Department urged the women in the first day-long session at the Pentagon to support changes anticipated by the transition to an all-volunteer force. It was pointed out by Assistant Secretary for Defense (Manpower) Roger Kelley that DOD is working toward "zero draft call by 1973."

The opening keynote speaker was Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, chief of Naval operations, who spoke on the possibilities of expansion of women's careers in the Navy. It was pointed out by Adm. Zumwalt and the directors of the Women's Military Components that in no other career areas are women guaranteed equal rights and equal pay as well as unusual opportunities for a variety of job assignments as in the military.

Such marvelous and distinguished speakers—all on one morning's program. It was almost too much. I was delighted, however, as at the noon luncheon, hosted at the Pentagon by Secretary and Mrs. Kelley, I was seated with

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff. Among other dignitaries attending the luncheon for the DACOWITS members were Gen. Raymond G. Davis, assistant commandant of the Marine Corps; Vice Adm. George M. Davis, Navy surgeon general; J. Fred Buzhardt, general counsel; Assistant Secretaries of Defense G. Warren Nutter, Barry J. Shillito and Daniel Z. Henkin. (I've never seen so much brass in one room before in my life.)

Mrs. Helen Leslie, St. Petersburg, Fla., chairman of DACOWITS, reviewed the role played by women in this advisory committee in extending women's rights and opportunities. Standards of housing have been improved from furnishings to rules of occupancy. In 1967, for example, due largely to the efforts of the committee, Congress legally removed restrictions on promotions for women in the military. As a consequence, two women have already been promoted to brigadier general, the first in U. S. history, Brig. Gen. Elizabeth P. Holsington, director of the Women's Army Corps, and Brig. Gen. Anna Mae Hays, Chief of the Army Nurse Corps. (Understand the Air Force has one in the mill to be announced this winter.)

Members of DACOWITS were given credit for helping the service directors to bring about other policy changes of benefit to women. They (military women) may even have the right to provide hospitalization for her spouse, the same as men have.

One of the highlights of the Washington meeting was a reception and tour of the White House, hosted by the nation's first lady, Mrs. Richard Nixon.

During the gathering, the committee presented Mrs. Nixon a gold medallion with the DACOWITS seal in recognition of her leadership in the field of volunteerism. She very graciously accepted the medallion and announced to all it would be displayed in the library where she does much of her entertaining.

After briefing sessions and subcommittee meetings in Washington, D. C., the 50 women were flown by the Air Force from Andrews Air Force Base to Glenview Naval Air Station and from there bused to the Naval base at Great Lakes, Ill.

Adm. and Mrs. D. I. Kauffman hosted a "red carpet" reception for the group at the base officers club and the next day toured the Naval facilities including the hospital corps school, WAVE bachelor enlisted and officers quarters, Naval hospital, service school commands, and the recruit training command.

This year DACOWITS will be 20 years old. On Oct. 3 to 7 members, past and present, will gather in the nation's capital to observe their anniversary and to survey the development of women's role in the Armed Services since DACOWITS' founding in 1951.

President Richard Nixon will offer greetings at a formal reception and banquet and a Congressional reception is planned so members can introduce their respective legislators.

DACOWITS was formed with clearcut goals; to increase public understanding and acceptance of military careers for women; to advise the Department of Defense on training, housing, health and recreation for women in the services, and to recommend better ways to utilize women's abilities in the Armed Forces.

Today there are 41,000 women in uniform. With the current drive toward a volunteer force, the Army hopes to augment the Women's Army Corps by up to 80 per cent, and similar increases are planned for the Navy, Air Force and Marines.

Idaho has been represented on the DACOWITS committee since its origin by several outstanding women including Mrs. Anna Hays, Twin Falls, and three Boise women, the late Mrs. Margaret Cobb Allshie, Mrs. Glenn Balch and Mrs. Randall Wallis. Committee members are appointed for three-year terms by Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird.

Women deputies back in uniform

Checking . . .

MRS. LAURA HAYNES, one of two women deputies who work in the drivers license bureau at the courthouse, runs a driver's license check on a new applicant. Her silver badge of office sparkles from the left side of her new uniform vest.

Filing . . .

MRS. J.D. (LEONA) Turner looks attractive, but all business, as she works on the files in the Twin Falls County Sheriff's office in her new uniform. She is a new member of the force of women deputies.

Women deputies

MRS. CLARENCE (FLORA) Wagner, a veteran of more than 15 years with the Twin Falls County Sheriff's Department, is chief civil deputy. She is experienced in many jobs in the department, including dispatching patrol cars which she is shown doing in this photograph at top. Mrs. Scott (Nadine) McMasters is shown photographing a driver's license applicant below. The four women members of the department have once again donned uniforms—royal blue skirts and vests and powder blue shirts. Their silver stars of office and silver collar bars blend prettily with the blue combination to create an attractive, womanly—but still businesslike look. The women deputies have not worn uniforms for about 10 years.

diamonds so he rose with the ace. Then he went back to dummy to lead a second diamond and the defense had three tricks.

We would have made the same play in rubber bridge, but in match-point duplicate would have played with the field and finessed.

The other expert ran up against another r a n k i n g player. This East played his king of diamonds when the suit was led. South felt that he just could not afford to win that trick with the ace. If that king were a singleton and South did put the ace on it then West would be sure to win a trick with the jack instead of making four or five no-trump South would be set one trick.

Therefore this unfortunate South let the king hold and made only 10 tricks.

KING LUDWIG of Bavaria hated waiters. Couldn't stand them bustling around. So he turned that suite directly over his kitchen into a dining room, cut a hole in the floor just a bit bigger than the tabletop, and rigged the table with ropes and pulleys to raise and lower it between floors. Up went dinner, down went the dirty dishes. King Ludwig liked it. A lot. World's first dumbwaiter. It's a matter of historical record he used to sit there all alone during dinner, intermittently kicking scraps of gristle, fat, bones and sundry garbage through the hole in the floor, expecting it to fall on the help below.

WHAT'S the name of that beetle? It stands on its head. And like a skunk, squirts volatile odoriferous liquid. Surprised toads freeze and hysterical mice retreat. Hangs around the deserts of Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico. What's the name of that beetle?

GERMANS SAY they drink to aid digestion. Frenchmen say they drink to enliven the conversation. Italians say they drink to enhance romance. Russians say they drink to forget trouble. Britlanders say they drink to preserve the pleasantness. Irish say they drink to feel the lift. And Americans say they drink to relieve tension.

BELIEVE I already mentioned the most widely-sold post card ever printed. Carried that famous cartoon wherein the young man asks the young lady, "What do you think of Kipling?" And she replied, "I don't know, you naughty boy, I've never kiplped." Comes to mind because a client inquires, "Who was Canoodling?" Nobody, turns out. Had never heard the word. But found it defined in the Random House Dictionary as a slang synonym for "caressing, fondling, petting." Going to have to ask our Love and War man about that. Expect he'll say, "Canoodling? Yes, indeed, fine writer. Read everything he ever wrote!"

MEN WHO DRINK so much they can't hold down steady work particularly like to take quick jobs with moving companies. Not as truck drivers, certainly. But as packers and loaders. Why is clear. It's technically illegal to transport liquor across state lines. At least private stock. So when liquor turns up missing, nobody complains. If he can land a few hours work unloading household goods from out of state, an old boy sick with thirst has just about a 50-50 chance of getting well on the job. And getting paid, too.

ARGUMENT CONTINUES over the whereabouts of that 12th street made famous in the elderly ditty known as "The 12th Street Rag." True, Euday Bowman, who wrote it, lived most of his life in Fort Worth, sometimes credited as the world's friendliest city. But he made it clear before his death in 1949 the song referred to Kansas City's 12th street.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 17076, Fort Worth, Texas 76102.

Mrs. Larry Duff announced Amy Wykes from the Beta Sigma Phi International office, Kansas City, Mo., will be attending the Idaho State Beta Sigma Phi convention.

The next meeting is set for 1:30 p.m. May 19 at home of Mrs. Baines.

MR. AND MRS. Everett Bonnicksen, right, begin their new reign as worthy patron and worthy matron of the Eiler Chapter of Order of Eastern Star, after recent installation ceremonies. Presenting the gavel to Mrs. Bonnicksen is Mrs. Rex Reed and her husband, the outgoing worthy matron and patron.

Convention planned

MAKING REPORTS at a recent committee meeting in preparation for the Idaho State Beta Sigma Phi convention are, Mrs. Don Faust, left, and sitting on high stools, Mrs. LaMonte Herbold and Mrs. Raymond Jeremy. The convention is set June 11 through 13 at the Burley Ponderosa Inn.

DEAR ABBY: My son is handsome, intelligent and could have married anyone he chose, but he married a fat, ugly slob who was pregnant at the time, and no telling whose child it was.

She walks all over him. He does exactly what she tells him to do like a child. She started him smoking, and everytime he tries to quit she pokes a cigarette in his mouth or gets him to light one for her. He is trying to finish college but he'll never make it because she keeps him up at all hours and he can't able to get to school half the time, besides working a 3 to 11 o'clock shift. She doesn't work, and sleeps all day herself. She humiliates him in front of others, but he remains loyal to her and defends her. He thinks she is "wonderful". She is destroying his health and his future.

Can you tell me why my son puts up with this? Is there anything I can do to help him? HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It is entirely possible that because of your intense hatred for the girl, your son is trying all the harder to prove you wrong. The more you knock her, the more fiercely he will defend her. It's also possible that in his eyes she is indeed "wonderful". Save your energy, Mother. You can't help him because he doesn't feel that he needs any help.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old girl with strict old-fashioned parents (especially my father). I am not allowed to accept a date with a fellow unless my father meets him first. But here's the catch, after he meets him, he asks a million questions, like what does he do for a living, and if he's going to college, which one, and does he live with his parents, etc.

Once my father suspected a boy was lying about his age, so he asked to see his driver's license. Abby, I could understand my father's asking all those questions if a fellow and I were getting serious about each other, but on the first date, it's embarrassing. What do you suppose a guy thinks when he is put thru a quiz like that? PROTECTED

DEAR PROTECTED: I'm sure he thinks you are one girl who doesn't go out with every Tom, Dick and Harry, and he's right. And he also probably thinks that if he gets the third degree on the first date, what would happen with a proposal?

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago, a four-year-old girl, the 10th in her family, was adopted by my niece and her husband. They provided this child (I'll call Pam) with love and a good home, and enrolled her in a public school when the time came. Pam didn't get along with the other children, fighting them on the school bus, etc., so they finally had to send her to a private school.

Now, at 14, Pam receives the lowest possible grades, makes no friends, lies constantly, has been caught stealing sizable amounts from her parents. She's even tried to set fire to the house. Tests showed that Pam has an I. Q. of 90. When asked why she doesn't attempt to get better grades, her stock answer is, "I don't care to."

My heart aches for my niece who teaches school daily, runs a competent house and is raising two well-behaved sons. I notice her nerves are ragged and she appears defeated.

Is there a school or some place where this child can be sent before it's too late? I would gladly help financially. WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: It's hard to believe that your niece hasn't been at least as "worried" about Pam's anti-social behavior as you. Let her know that if psychotherapy or a special school is needed, you are prepared to help finance it.

DEAR ABBY: Is there any special significance in wearing a carnation on Mother's day? CURIOS IN ABILENE

DEAR CURIOS: Yes. One wears a red carnation to honor his mother who is living. And a white carnation for a mother who is deceased.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Juvenile officer speaks for Kiwanis

FILER — Ron Strolberg, juvenile officer for the Twin Falls Police Department, spoke to Kiwanis Club members at their luncheon meeting in the United Methodist Church, telling them of drug abuse and drug problems in Idaho and more specifically in Magic Valley.

Strolberg was introduced by Rev. Walt Darby, pastor of the Missionary Church. He displayed some of the more common types of drugs such as pep pills and barbiturates and other pills found in most medicine cabinets. He praised the news media as being helpful in alerting people to the signs for detection of drug users and pushers and to watch for any of these signs which might indicate their children were under the influence of drugs.

Strolberg spoke on the new drug legislation now in effect, noting that his department did not yet know whether it would make it more difficult for them to apprehend those thought to be in possession of or selling drugs. Guests at the meeting included Bob Bailey and Dr. James Smith, Buhl, and Ron Jones and Ron Griff of the Key Club.

Mary Jackson, Chatfield wed

Club meets

SHOSHONE — Mary Lynn Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Jackson, Shoshone, became the bride of David C. Chatfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Faye Chatfield, Richfield, in rites May 1 at the Shoshone LDS Chapel.

Bishop LaMar Duffin officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar setting of tall baskets of gladioli and carnations.

The prayer was given by William Harris. Mrs. M. J. Dille played the prelude and wedding march on the church organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown with lace overlay. The lace lily point sleeves and high neckline completed the bodice effect while the train, fastened at the back waistline by a large bow, was chapel-length. Her bridal veil was of matching lace to the dress trim, and was caught at the crown by a pearl and rhinestone tiara. She carried a bridal bouquet of green tinted carnations and white rosebuds accented with green streamers.

A reception was held at the church recreation hall immediately after the ceremony. Lisa Bergeon, Shoshone, was maid of honor. Jeri Curry, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and Justin Wynn, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer. Brian Ward, Richfield, was best man.

Guests were registered by Christie Harris.

In charge of the gift table were Stacie Churchman, Patricia Saras and Diane Sorensen.

Serving were Mrs. William Harris; Imogene Jauregui, aunt of the bridegroom, Meridian; aunts of the bride, Mrs. Vivian Jackson, Shoshone, and Mrs. Viva Sauer, Hagerman, assisted by Candice Slatler, Jerome.

Guests were seated at quartet tables covered with white and decorated with green bows. Centerpieces were decorative candles.

The bride's table was covered with lace over a green background and centered with a four-tiered wedding cake. The cake was decorated with mint green flower arrangements and topped with silver wedding bells.

Special guests attended from Mackay, Soda Springs, Meridian and the Magic Valley area.

The bride will be graduated from Shoshone High School this month. The bridegroom was

A Lovelier You
ROUND FACE SLIMMED DOWN

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovely asks: How can I make my round face look less like a balloon? I have a slim enough figure. The weight that usually goes to female hips seems to go to my face.

The Answer: The main slimming tactic for a round face is cosmetic camouflage. Movie makeup men have always specialized in the art of camouflage and results truly fool the camera's eye. But not always the human eye in face-to-face contact. Too often the ruse then becomes apparent, owing to overages of color and density needed to remedy contours.

And here's where newsy supersheer medicated makeup could come to the rescue. The stuff seems transparent, yet there's just enough coverage not only to blur out tiny imperfections but to blank out unwanted facial contours. Formulas aim to keep the skin clear, too, so you can go sheer.

As for application methods, these are the ones the cover girls use: For a glowy base, swish on a film of supersheer creamy liquid in a shade that picks up your skin tones. Now blot with a natural tone of translucent pressed powder.

Next, recontouring... Use a browned-off peach shade of pressed powder blusher. Brush it in a triangle from hairline opposite eye to center of cheek and thence back to overlap jaw about one inch from ear. Fill in, blend well and feather edges. Finish by brushing eyebrows in the straightest line possible, and hair in upward directions.

With practice you'll look beautiful. Not balloonful!

"Serving Magic Valley Since 1935" With low, low in store financing. No Banks, No Finance Companies. Because we can do it for less!

"WHAT DID I DO?" seems to be the expression on Capt. Don Bennell's face as his secretary, Mrs. Glenda Monette, serves him with a subpoena. His frown turned to smiles after Mrs. Monette finished reading the legal appearing form, which is actually an invitation to the State Police officer to attend the Twin Falls Legal Secretaries Association installation.

TWIN FALLS — Unique invitations, worded like subpoenas, have been sent to bosses of members of the newly formed Twin Falls Legal Secretaries Association.

The bosses of the members all are invited to attend an installation dinner at 7 p.m. May 17 at the Holiday Inn. Actually, the wording is a little more persuasive than invited.

In invitations signed by Roselle Lekey, secretary, the bosses have been summoned to the banquet.

The invitations read: "In the matter of the installation and initiation of certain legal secretaries: The association sends greetings to: (boss's name) We command you, that all and singular business and excuses being laid aside, you appear and attend before our distinguished association at a session of said association to be held at the Holiday Inn at Twin Falls, Idaho, on the 17th day of May, 1971, at 7:00 p.m., then and there to participate in the above stated proceedings now pending before the said association, and for a failure to attend, you will be deemed guilty of contempt, and you will forfeit to the party aggrieved such relief as may be demanded, and all damages which she may sustain, emotional and physical, by your failure to attend."

Supreme Court Justice Charles Donaldson will be guest speaker. James J. May, Twin Falls attorney, will be installing officer and Pat Rainey, Idaho National Director of the National Association of Legal Secretaries, will be initiation officer.

Major project . . .

Another step noted toward goal

TWIN FALLS — Another step toward the final goal of the Twentieth Century Club of Twin Falls in an ecology and recreation project to cover the unsightly car-body dumping ground on Rock Creek into a public park will be completed by Saturday.

In connection with the county-wide Johnny Horizon Clean-Up Day, County officials will be working with the women's organization to provide available equipment to remove final rusting car bodies from the area and to install some drainage lines.

The park, expected to be completed to provide picnic and play area facilities for local families and tourists, has already seen some major progress, says County Commission Chairman William (Bill) Chancey. The land involves about eight acres in the canyon on Rock Creek.

Through Twentieth Century Club leadership and county financing, about 1,000 old car bodies have been crushed and removed from the future park area. A few scattered ones remain and should be removed Saturday in the clean-up drive.

County officials have also made plans to purchase about two acres of land on the canyon rim to provide parking, a view area and improved entrance. This area, too, has been covered in car body storage and is now being cleared.

Mrs. D. A. Jackson, president of the Twentieth Century Club said the area was probably one of the most deplorable in the area from a scenic standpoint, health hazard and waste. The clubs hopes to convert it into one of the most beautiful and useful in the county.

Rock Creek which winds through the canyon at this point can provide an asset, it was brought out in a planning meeting of the club and county officials last week, but pollution of the creek must also be cleaned up.

Secondary sewer facilities to serve the city and industries located along Rock Creek and recent industrial waste treatment facilities installed by the Amalgamated Sugar Co., will take most of the pollution from the creek. This should be accomplished by the time the landscaping, draining, planting and other work is completed, Commissioner Chancey said.

Members of the women's organization say they hope to gain support and voluntary assistance from other organizations and individuals in the community.

"We want to make this everyone's park and believe if we can get everyone to help in some way they will take greater pride in the project, once it is completed," said Mrs. LaVern Strong, project chairman.

Twin Falls Canal Co. manager Al Peters has volunteered equipment to help with drainage and the Army Reserve crews and equipment will remove remaining large junk items.

Something new set for story hours

TWIN FALLS — Something new in children's story hours will be tried this year through the efforts of the Twin Falls Public Library and City Recreation Department.

Library personnel will present story hours in two of the city parks for the benefit of children in specific neighborhoods. Tentative plans call for holding the outdoor story hours at 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. in South Park and the City Park across from the library.

Library officials say they have not decided which park will have the program at 2 p.m. and which at 3 p.m. but a permanent schedule will be announced later.

Large colorful umbrellas to provide shade for the story teller and books will mark the site of the programs.

Mixed Quartet performance set

Antique Festival Theatre adds member

BUHL — The Antique Festival Theatre has just been awarded $500 by the Arts and Humanities Council of the Federation of Rocky Mountain States, Inc. This award, part of the apprentice program operating within the six cooperating states of the region, must be matched equally for a grant of $1000.

Peggy Jean Dodson, Coeur d'Alene, a junior drama major at the University of Montana, has been named as the apprentice. She will design and construct costumes for the Festival Theatre's summer repertory, act as costume mistress, and play supporting roles in "Foster Dolster" and the Vaudeville Evening.

Miss Dodson is a member of the Montana Repertory Theatre Co. and has worked as an actress with the Red Door Players in Coeur d'Alene and with the Summer Palace Theatre in Pullman, Wash. Aldrich Bowler, producer-director, says "Regional recognition of the AFT as Idaho's most 'professional' theatre is founded on the fact that, like the Montana Rep, a salaried staff is augmented by experienced students on scholarship stipends." Bowler feels that in sparsely populated areas like Montana and Idaho, this may be the way to go until cities can support fully salaried performing groups. The Antique Festival Theatre has added to its staff a professional actress who will also assist with costumes, Anna Marie Boles, Caldwell, musical director James Cockey, Boise, and Director Brad Hickerson, Twin Falls.

Miss Dodson is the second student to receive an apprenticeship from the Rocky Mountain Federation to be a staff assistant with the Antique Festival Theatre. Last summer's grantee, David Siffel, has recently been chosen, 1 of 15 from over 400 applicants, to Yale University's Graduate Program in Theatre Arts.

Fashionettes

Togs ranging from shorty rompers over matching bikinis to buckskin vests and denim jeans will be the right vacation choice for this year's breed of girl—the young eco-traveler who searches out unspoiled lands and waters from Maine to Hawaii, predict Seventeen Magazine's fashion experts. Mail-lots emblazoned with ecology symbols and pants printed with messages—"Keep Our City Clean"—are among the items in the lineup.

T-shirts featuring cartoon characters make perfect team-mates for short or long pants or knickers. Denim gets the men's vote for spring, says the Men's Fashion Association. One coordinated outfit features zip-front jacket with pleated chest pockets, and brushed denim pants. Accenting the outfit is a bold striped shirt and leather belt—wide the way belts are supposed to be at this moment in history.

Members of Esquire's College Board, meeting with the men who make the ads for one shirtmaker, complained that shirts in the ads looked too perfect and ought to have a wrinkle or two. They also complained about the "hip" language copywriters used in an attempt to reach the youth market. The college Joes suggested that the ad makers use plain English. They also recommended that the ad contain information about what the shirt maker is doing for humanity—and to clean up pollution, saying that such information might lead them to buy the shirt. ### Pioneer spirit Americans are digging in to a pioneer spirit that shows in everything from environmental concern to what goes on milady's back in the fashion world; stores specializing in antique attire, cowboy and Indian clothes or individual handcrafts have taken their place right alongside the chic boutique. Even the French are in the act. Yves St. Laurent of Paris featured in his recent collection old-fashioned shawls in challs prints with plenty of fringe.

Aiming for fame in career world

NEW YORK (UPI)—They were headliners nearly 25 years ago when they were born. Now they're aiming for fame anew in the career world.

They're the Fullz quadruplets — Mary Ann, Mary Alice, Mary Louise and Mary Catherine — believed by those connected with their lives to be the only living Negro girl quads in the world.

Today, they live a sophisticated life in northern Westchester County, New York, their eyes on careers in music, as models and also in medicine.

The lives of these quads, now willowy, handsome and fashion-wise, began May 23, 1946, in the Annie Penn Memorial Hospital in Reidsville, N.C., when Dr. Fred Klenner, a general practitioner, delivered four babies who altogether weighed 12 pounds. They were a celebrated foursome in their early days and were written up in newspapers and magazines, photographed even with presidents. Sponsors who wanted the quads to lend their names to products were plentiful.

Book Review

By MARY ALICE FLORENCE
Twin Falls Public Library
TWIN FALLS — "Viva Chicano," a new book in the Youth Room of the Twin Falls Public Library, should prove a popular choice with patrons. First of all, it was written by Frank Bonham. Bonham is the author of "Durango Street," an American Library Notable Book of 1965, and "The Mystery of the Fat Cat," a particularly popular book with young Twin Falls readers in this year's Young Readers' Choice Awards. Second, as is obvious from the title, it is a story of a member of a minority group for whom most of us need greater understanding.

Frank Bonham was asked: "Is this story true? Did you really know Keeny Duran?" He answered that the book was true, in the sense that nothing in it is false. Keeny Duran is a blond of the boys he met in police stations, jails, detention homes, housing projects, and on the sidewalks.

As the book begins, Keeny Duran is looking down the hill upon the housing project where he must return. To him, the box structures, dozens of them, are laid out like a puzzle to test the intelligence of rats. "Even a stupid rat," Keeny thought "would have sense enough to stay out of them." But Keeny knows he must go down. He is on parole and this time he really wants to go straight and make it. He is determined to get along with his hysterical mother and unemployed "Anglo" step-father. But that very night a strange series of circumstances send Keeny on the run and into hiding again. He shares his most unusual and ingenious hiding place with a cardboard dummy of the Mexican Revolutionary hero, Millano Zapata.

The account of Keeny's days and nights escaping detection and his final decision is mixed with reality and humor. His friends, the Aztecs — "a group, not a gang" — add much to the understanding of young people in trouble. His friend and P.O. (that's parole officer to the uninitiated), Mr. Baker, represents the importance of having just one person who really cares and sees each boy as a worthwhile human being in need of help.

Kenny, Zapata, the Aztecs, and Mr. Baker add up to a really fine reading experience for young or old, black, brown, or white. Viva, "Viva Chicano!"

At Tufts University Experimental College in Medford, Mass., there is a "College Within" — a program allowing 120 students to divorce themselves from regular academic requirements and constraints to study on their own with mentor teams comprised of eight full faculty members and 16 graduate students.

Girls' League sponsors tea

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Correspondent
FILER — Pretty fashions on attractive models, spring flowers in a garden setting, daughters proudly introducing their mothers — this was the annual Mother's Tea of the Filer High School Girls' League, held in the home economics room of the high school, it was announced today.

Jeanne Chambers, general chairman of the event, narrated the style show of spring fashions from the Paris Shop which were modeled by Janie Snell, Marcia Meyer, Carla Obenchain, Pam Tegan, Sally Flenor, LaWana Hansing, Beverly Aslett, Christy Elliott, Lauren Reed and Janie Vincent.

The models were escorted by Ron Ghring, Dick Griff, Randy Gardner and Carl Joslin and displayed the pretty fashions before a background of wrought iron grillwork covered with entwining ivy, large planters of potted plants, and wrought iron tables and chairs all featured in an outdoor setting. Leslie Carder and Cindy Brennan were in charge of the decorations.

economics class also modeled clothes which they had made with Carla Obenchain doing the narration. They were June Hurley, Pam Kalbfleisch, Lois Slatter, Vivian Huddleston, Sonia Skinner, Linda Thaele and Miss Chambers.

Musical numbers during the style show were presented by Lucinda Reinke, Carl Joslin and Randy Gardner. Miss Reinke and Phyllis Peterson made the pastel-colored programs.

Future Homemakers of America members were in charge of the tea. The table was covered with a lace cloth over yellow and centered with arrangements of daffodils. Small decorated cakes and fruit punch were served by June Hurley, Mary Alice Ulrich and Mary Flinn.

The Girls' League sponsors a tea each spring with all the girls of the high school attending and their mothers as guests. Assisting in arrangements were Mrs. Harold Huston, Mrs. Kent Henderson and Mrs. Arlene Sommers, teachers at the school. Miss Chambers presented the three with appreciation gifts.

Wedding traditions take buffeting today

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wedding traditions take a buffeting these days when premarital living together is not uncommon and when young people are questioning society's rules and regulations.

Is the trip, then, to the altar necessary?

Several social commentators and clergy think so. Some of their comments on the subject speak frankly of the premarital arrangements. As one clergyman put it: "The (wedding) ceremony emphasizes and highlights the fact that now they are committed to each other and it's not just another experiment."

Many of the observers approved the pomp that goes with traditional weddings. As one of them said: "If you want a strong marriage, you are not going to get it by hiding away and stripping the marriage occasion of all its adornments."

Comments on keeping some of the traditions or the celebration came from clergy and others in response to queries from the Bridal and Bridesmaids Apparel Association.

"It is the most important decision you will ever make in your life," said Dr. Donald Szanthe of the Community Church of New York. "This is a subject for celebration ... to mark the profound importance of this act of transforming two single individuals into a married couple through whom the future will be created."

"If we downgrade such an important decision, it's like saying that the qualities that distinguish human beings from animals—namely the quality of being able to be aware of the importance of what we are doing—are not relevant."

TWIN FALLS — The consumer must be sure, before she makes a complaint to the dealer or manufacturer that she is fully familiar with the proper operation of the appliance which she has purchased. Very often dissatisfaction comes, not from faulty appliances, but from misunderstanding or insufficient knowledge of how to operate it. Since we have been discussing the range and since it is one of the most used of kitchen appliances, there are a few more points which are worthy of mention.

A number of things can affect the results the homemaker will get when cooking or baking. Besides a range that is in good operating order, the type of pans, altitude, time and temperature, the recipe used (cooking methods have been modernized and some of our old favorite recipes are hopelessly outdated), and bake positions should be considered.

Pans — Every type of material in which cooking is done will conduct, absorb or reflect heat and will give varying results depending upon the quality of the manufacturer plus the natural properties of the material. For example, medium-weight aluminum utensils head the list as the most desirable since they conduct and transfer heat evenly and respond quickly to temperature changes. On the other hand, cast iron heats slowly, absorbs and holds the heat. The difference in the material used in the utensil make it necessary for the homemaker to use different heat adjustments. This can be particularly noticeable when using an automatic temperature controlled unit. Whatever material you select, be sure the utensil is flathottomed, with straight sides and tight fitting covers.

Altitude — Vegetables, for example, generally take longer to cook at a high altitude, reason being that water boils at a lower temperature and therefore is not as hot. Using more water and boiling hard will not cook the food any faster and loss of vitamins and minerals, poor texture and flavor result. In baking, some recipes will have to be adjusted for altitude. Most good cook books will give instructions for these adjustments. Package mixes should be adjusted for elevations over 3500 feet. Most Magic Valley areas are over that.

Temperature — For top of range, the following temperatures are designed for specific purposes.

High — Bring water and water cooker to quick boil.

Medium High — Fast frying and browning and deep fat frying.

Medium — Slow trying such as chicken or pork chops. This is the highest heat used for dry products.

Low — Continues cooking foods which were started on higher heats.

Warm (Simmer) — To keep foods and beverages at serving temperature. Melts chocolate, butter and shortening.

Ranges may have rotary 5-heat selections which provide 5 measured heats or infinite heat switches which provide an infinite number of heat settings with the 5-heat areas indicated on the dial.

Other — Even baking and browning are the result of the even heat distribution provided by the lower bake unit. To prevent blocking oven heat, pans should not touch each other, the oven walls or the door.

Use tested and reliable recipes, follow instruction for recommended shelf positions for different foods.

Every range manufacturer provides a use and care manual with each range. The instruction book explains the basics of cooking on that range as well as the operation of the range's special features. Directions for the use of automatic timing, meat thermometers, rotisseries and other special features vary from one model to another. For this reason, a user will benefit from reading the manufacturer's instruction book, or if you have no instruction book, check with your utility home economist.

Mail questions to: Helen Walker, P. O. Box 8, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Many stained bottles can be cleaned easily by filling with vinegar and salt, letting stand for several hours, then shaking well and washing.

At the same time you give yourself a manicure, why not a pedicure also? Use a pumice stone to smooth out callouses and unlovely looking bumps.

To keep knives sharp, cut food on a wooden cutting board; not on a metallic or enameled surface. Avoid leaving knives in hot water. The best place for storage is a wooden wall rack. Knives stored in a drawer can be a safety hazard and such storage also dulls them.

Baking pans should be used for oven cooking only. They are not designed for the top of the stove. Most baking pans are of lightweight metal and will warp when used on a hot burner.

For a quick and tasty vegetable dish, combine 1 can of corn with 1-3 pound of sharp cheddar cheese. Place in a baking dish, cover with milk and bake until the cheese is melted and the dish bubbly.

Starched clothing resists dust and dirt. Starch everything that is practical.

Don't overlook the re-use of waxed cottage cheese containers for packing foods for picnics, mixing paints, storing nails and dozens of other uses.

Simple system

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Home makers will be able to keep their favorite family recipes and kitchen utensils if the United States adopts the metric system of weights and measures.

A member of Ohio State University's home economics department says the homemaker should have little trouble adjusting to the new system.

Dr. Fern Hunt, an associate professor at the school, did some of her own weighing and measuring on the proposal before deciding the consumer would have the easiest part of all—if a change were made.

The metric study bill in 1968 authorized the secretary of commerce to conduct a study on the feasibility of using it in the United States.

Dr. Hunt presented some of her information to the study conference on this matter.

She discovered learning the new system would be simplified for school children.

"They will only have to deal with one simple system based on tens rather than our present complicated one of pounds-ounces and feet-inches," she said.

"Figuring of quantities and costs in the marketplace for consumers should be simplified on a system of tens in comparison to the mental exercise currently necessary to convert pounds to ounces and figure costs per unit."

We think the average parent should know as much about drugs as the average pusher.

Sometime soon you'll want to talk with your teenagers about drugs. The sooner the better. We hope this page gives you something to start talking about. Because we want you to get to your kids before somebody else does.

THE OPIATES

When most people refer to "narcotics" this group of drugs is what they are talking about. Opiates are used medically as pain killers. On the street they cause pain for the user and society in general.

Opium—a white powder from the unripe seeds of the poppy plant. Opium can be eaten, but it is usually smoked in an opium pipe.

Morphine is extracted from opium. It is one of the strongest medically used pain killers, and is strongly addictive.

Heroin this strongly addictive drug is prepared from morphine. Outlawed even from medical use, heroin is the most commonly used drug among addicts. It can be snuffed, injected under the skin, or into a vein. Street slang for heroin includes "scag", "smack", "H", or "junk".

"On the Nod"—nodding. The state produced by opiates. Like being suspended on the edge of sleep.

Maimline or "to shoot up" injecting a drug into a vein.

"A Hit"—street slang for an injection of drugs.

Works—the apparatus for injecting a drug. May include a needle, and a bottle cap or spoon for dissolving the powdered drug.

A Fix—one injection of opiates, usually heroin.

Junk—heroin, so named because it is never pure as sold on the street.

Junkie—an opiate addict.

Skin Popping—to inject a drug under the skin.

A Bag—packet of drugs, or a single dose of an opiate. Amount of the drug in the bag is denoted by price, a nickel bag ($5), a dime bag ($10).

"Cold Turkey"—describes the withdrawal that occurs after repeated opiate use. The addict can become irritable, fidgety, perspiration increases, there is a lack of appetite. The main problem in discontinuing opiate use is not getting off the drug, it's staying off.

Overdose—cause of over 200 teenage deaths in New York City last year. Death is caused because the part of the brain that controls breathing becomes paralyzed.

Addiction—physical dependence on a drug, so that when the drug is taken repeatedly, and stopped suddenly, physical withdrawal occurs.

THE STIMULANTS

These drugs stimulate the system, or make a person more lively. While they are not physically addictive like the opiates, they produce a psychological dependence or craving.

Amphetamines—these stimulants are taken in tablet or capsule form, or injected into the blood stream. Among the widely used amphetamines are: Dexedrine or "dex" or "dexies"; Benzedrine or "bennies"; Methedrine or "speed"; or "crystal meth"; Biphramine or "footballs".

Speed Freak—person who repeatedly takes amphetamines or "speed", usually intravenously.

Mental Effects of "Speed"—amphetamines produce a decreased sense of fatigue, increased confidence, talkativeness, restlessness, and an increased feeling of alertness. As dosage increases amphetamines can produce irritability, distrust of people, hallucinations, and amphetamine psychosis.

Amphetamine Psychosis—a serious mental illness caused by overdoses or continued use of amphetamines. The person loses contact with reality, is convinced that others are out to harm him. The most frightening part this psychosis sometimes continues long after person has stopped taking the drug.

Rush—the brief heightened state of exhilaration at the beginning of a high.

Crashing—withdrawal from amphetamines, the swift descent from an amphetamine high to severe lows of depression.

Cocaine—another kind of stimulant, derived from coca leaves. It is snuffed as a white powder, or liquefied and injected into a vein. It produces a fast and powerful feeling of elation. Cocaine does not produce physical dependence (addiction), but does produce a strong psychological craving.

Coke—street slang for cocaine.

PSYCHEDELICS

The medical classification of all mind altering substances. "Psychedelics" change a person's perception of his surroundings.

Hallucinogens

Those psychedelics which cause hallucinations.

LSD

probably the most powerful psychedelic. Reactions to LSD are extremely unpredictable. Distortions in time and space. Brighter colors. Vivid sounds. Feelings of strangeness. A sense of beauty in common objects. Sometimes fear and panic. Sometimes even psychosis.

Flashback

a user can be thrown back into the LSD experience months after the original use of the drug. Other possible risks of LSD, which are being thoroughly researched, include brain damage and chromosome breakage.

Acid

a slang term for LSD. A frequent LSD user is an "acid head".

QUICKS

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell other grandmothers who do not have a high chair or high stool for visiting grandchildren how to make an easy and handy one. Tightly stuff a gallon milk carton with discarded newspapers. Wrap snugly in a brown paper bag. Cover with bright fabric and insert a tab in the seam to make it easy to pick up. This also could be used as a foot stool.—VIVIAN

THE NEEDLES DON'T CLICK SO LOUD AND DISTURB ME, EITHER!

DEAR POLLY—To extend the life of pants legs! When one leg springs a rip, cut with the scissors right down beside the center seam from the front, through the crotch and up the back. Save the good leg so it can be sewn by hand or machine (a large zigzag stitch is good), to the good leg of another pair of 50¢ the same color.—KATHLEEN

I CAN'T REMEMBER WHY WE EVEN WANTED HIM TO VISIT!

DEAR POLLY—Instead of dipping meat, fish, etc., in a dish of flour before cooking, keep the flour in a large salt shaker and dust it on such foods. This is easier and certainly less wasteful.—PAT

DEAR POLLY—Soft plastic detergent bottles are good to use for filling a steam iron. The large caps may be used on closet light pulls and Venetian blind cords.—FREDA

DEAR POLLY—When I sit down to read the newspaper or a magazine I always have the scissors handy for cutting out articles or items in your column.—CATHERINE

DEAR POLLY—Those who cannot remember how to set the table correctly might try the association method. The knife and spoon both go on the right side and they each have five letters as does the word "right." This association should help the memory and eliminate the embarrassment of setting the table incorrectly.—KLEONA

DEAR POLLY—Many people who wear panty hose are constantly aggravated by having their slips crawl up to the waist, but I discovered that turning most slips to the wrong side eliminates the trouble.—MRS. W. H. P.

DEAR POLLY—If you're traveling and don't want to carry a wig box, buy a balloon that can be blown up to the size of your head. When you take the wig off at night insert this balloon and inflate it. This keeps the wig in nice shape. The next morning, deflate the balloon and tuck it in any space in your suitcase. This also is good to use for hats.—E. L. M.

FOR ASTRONAUT STUART A. ROOSA

What was your reaction to the Russians' criticism of Apollo 13's exploration of the moon? — Thomas Brown, Utica, N.Y.

● I'd be making the same statements if I were in their spot. When you compare the data, you find there wasn't even a contest. They were beaten hands down getting a man to the moon, and they're just sore.

FOR BERNADETTE DEVLIN,

Northern Ireland's extreme activist

As I understand it, Angela Davis is being detained by the authorities because of her connection with some weapons allegedly used in a murder episode in California. Is it true then that you consider her a "political prisoner"? I understand you also have some criticism of the presence of our troops in Vietnam. —Henry Moore, Clearwater, Fla.

● Yes. I believe that if Angela Davis was not a black and a Communist she would not have been imprisoned by the authorities. Secondly, I think your troops do not belong in Vietnam, just as I think the British troops do not belong in Northern Ireland.

FOR PETE ROZELLE,

Commissioner, National Football League

Several ex-football players—Johnny Sample and Dave Magyeay, for example—have written books blasting pro football. How do the other players feel about these books? —J. J. Flynn, Atlantic City, N.J.

● Those I've talked with find it very distasteful. They feel that much of what these men have written is not fact. It's either opinion—and in some cases very exaggerated opinion—or it's some form of vindictiveness.

FOR HOWARD PYLE,

President National Society Council

Please tell me how many illiterates have been granted drivers' licenses? —Art Cromsky, Las Vegas, Nev.

● Data are not available on the number of illiterates who have been granted drivers' licenses. But various states do provide oral examinations if the applicant is illiterate or does not speak English. These states require that the applicant be able to recognize signs and that he knows and understands traffic laws.

FOR RICHARD BURTON

I read somewhere that you dislike actors and acting. Is this true? —

Diane Douglas, Lancaster, Pa.

● I can hardly say I dislike actors, being one myself. But, although many of my best friends are actors, I do think theatre people can be a bit of a bore. As for acting itself, to me it's a tedious profession. Not only are the hours long and the pressures severe, but it takes a tremendous amount of energy to perpetuate the ego-mania acting requires—energy that might be better spent elsewhere. Besides... well, acting seems like such a silly thing for a grown man to do.

FOR CHAD EVERETT,

TV's "Medical Center"

Do you have to know a lot about medicine to play Joe Cannon, M.D. —Mimi Perkins, Milton-Freewater, Ore.

● No, but I did study with real doctors and observed hospital procedures before we started work on the show. That at least made it possible for me to talk about complicated medical terms and act as though I knew my way around an operating room without stumbling.

FOR MILDRED ALFORD,

Director of American Airlines Stewardess College

What is the average age for stewardesses? How many are there? —Alyce Gilbert, Bakerville, Calif.

● The average age for American Airlines stewardesses is about 24. American has about 4,500 stewardesses, including supervisors and instructors, and we also have a number of stewards assigned to our Caribbean and South Pacific routes. In the entire U.S. airline industry, there was a total of 33,600 stewardesses, stewards and pursers at the end of 1969—three times the 11,000 who were flying at the end of 1959.

FOR MORT SAHL, satirist-lecturer

I have heard that you said that there was a reason, other than reporting the news, that caused the press to give so much coverage to the tragedy at Chappaquiddick. What is it? —T. M., Grand Rapids, Mich.

● Sen. Edward Kennedy is the one man who could lead a peace movement in the United States. Those in the war establishment who don't want peace set out to destroy him through excessive publicity on the tragedy.

FOR WILLIAM E. MILLER,

1964 Republican Candidate for Vice President

As a former National Republican Committee Chairman, you must have known President

Richard Nixon well. In view of this, do you think he will drop Spiro Agnew from his 1972 ticket as has been rumored? —M. L. Russell, Atlantic City, N.J.

● If Mr. Agnew is a one-percent liability at the time the 1972 ticket is formed, he will be dropped. If he is a one-percent asset, he will be kept. This is not a unique situation. Similar action would be taken with any Vice President. Knowing Mr. Nixon to be an astute politician, I think he will play the game according to traditional guidelines.

FOR JIM NABORS

What record have the Los Angeles Rams compiled in games at which you sang the National Anthem? —Joe Pauley, Santa Anna, Calif.

Want to ask a famous person a question? You can through this column, and we'll get the answer from the prominent person you designate. Send question, preferably on a post card, to Ask Them Yourself, Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We cannot acknowledge questions, but $5 will be paid for each one used.

● I think the only game the Rams lost this season when I sang was the New York Jets game.

FOR GEN. ELIZABETH P. HOISINGTON,

Director, Women's Army Corps

How many members of the Women's Army Corps have been killed in Vietnam? How many WACs are now in Vietnam? —Mrs. R. A. Czubernal, Laurel, Del.

● In Vietnam, as in previous conflicts, members of the Women's Army Corps (WAC) serve in noncombat positions. There have been no deaths among our women in Vietnam. WACs have been serving in Vietnam since 1964. At the present time there are approximately 25 officers and 100 enlisted women on duty there. They are located at the major headquarters in and around Saigon.

FOR ARTHUR HAILEY,

author of "Airport"

When will your next novel be published? What will it be about? —R. L. Gatpost, New Smyrna Beach, Fla.

● I am now finishing a novel called "Wheels," which is about the automobile industry. It will be published in the fall of 1971, probably in September.

FOR LUCILLE BALL

On your show, "Hara's Lucy," there is the sound of laughter at a humorous situation, but television viewers never see an audience.

Is the laughter canned? —Verda Ross, San Bernardino, Calif.

● No. With the exception of the shows filmed on location, all "Hara's Lucy" shows are filmed in front of a live audience. The laughter is real.

TRIM- JEANS

The Space Age
Slenderizer for MEN and WOMEN that is so effective it is...

Mary Lou Wilhelm

"I lost 11 excess inches using the remarkable trim-jeans and it happened so fast I could hardly believe it—but figures don't lie and here are mine: trim-jeans reduced my waist 2½ inches, my tummy 2 inches, my hips 2 inches and my thighs 2½ inches each. I ate normally—it took just 3 days—and best of all, the inches have stayed off."

THIS SUPER PRODUCT IS PRODUCING SUPER NEW SLENDERIZING FOR A HOST OF MEN AND WOMEN. HERE ARE JUST A FEW:

David Medeiros: "Just 3 days on the trim-jeans program and I trimmed off 13 excess inches; 5 inches from my waist, 4½ inches from my abdomen, 1 inch from my hips and 2½ inches from my thighs. No dieting—and my appearance has improved 100%."

Miss Marilyn Mackey: "Would you believe I lost 3 inches from my waist, 4 inches from my tummy, 1½ inches from my hips and 3 inches from each thigh for a total loss of 14½ excess inches in just 3 days? Well, I did—and I did it with trim-jeans—and I'm terribly thrilled about the whole thing!"

Mrs. Linda Seatez: "In just 3 days—my waist went from 29 inches to 26 inches—my hips from 39½ inches to 37 inches and my thighs from 24 inches to 21 inches with a total overall loss of 34½ inches with these wonder working trim-jeans—and all without the need for dieting."

Penny Dix

"Incredible! I lost 7 full inches from my waist, hips and thighs the very first day I tried trim-jeans. Altogether I used them just 3 times and lost a total of 11¼ inches. The inches melted off so rapidly and right where I wanted to lose them: 2 inches off my waist, 2½ inches off my tummy, 2 inches off my hips and 2½ inches off each thigh. No dieting, no discomfort and thanks to trim-jeans my figure has never looked better."

GUARANTEED TO REDUCE YOUR WAIST, TUMMY, HIPS AND THIGHS A TOTAL OF FROM 6 TO 9 INCHES IN JUST 3 DAYS OR YOUR MONEY REFUNDED

Here is how it works:

Miss Penny Dix slipped into her trim-jeans and is initiating them with the handy little pump provided. She is now ready to perform her "Magic Torso" movements, an exercise program designed specially for trim-jeans.

After a few pleasant moments—about 10 minutes or so—doing her "Magic Torso" movements, Penny is now relaxing for an additional 20 minutes while keeping her trim-jeans on. That is all there is to it.

Penny now slips her trim-jeans off and checks her "after" measurements. Remarkable! Penny lost 1 inch from waist, 3 inches from tummy, 1 inch from hips, 1½ inches from each thigh for a total measurement loss of 7 inches in just 1 brief session.

THE MOST REVOLUTIONARY GUARANTEE IN SLENDERIZING HISTORY. So many users of the trim-jeans obtain "instant reducing"—are inches slimmer, inches trimmer in from just 1 to 3 session with this super slenderizer—are actually losing as much as a total of 7 or more inches from their waists, tummies, hips and thighs in just 1 session and up to 14 or more inches from 3 sessions. This principle produces really fantastic results. There may be variations of speed and/or degree of results due to individual differences in metabolism and body response. Not everyone may lose 7 inches in just 1 session and 14½ inches in 3 days but remember this: No matter what your metabolism, no matter what your body type, if you do not lose a total of from 6 to 9 inches from your waist, tummy, hips and thighs in just 3 days, you may return the trim-jeans and the entire purchase price will be immediately refunded.

THE AMAZING TRIM-JEANS TAKE OFF INCHES WHERE THEY NEED TO COME OFF. Your trim-jeans are designed to give you just the reducing effect you need where you need it... and the price of the trim-jeans is just $13.95 and each pair carries a FULL MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. Here is the slenderizer supreme—trim-jeans—which we sincerely believe to be the easiest, fastest, most convenient, most sensationally effective waist, tummy, hip and thigh reducer ever discovered—with the most revolutionary guarantee in slenderizing history. # A Soldier's Story: "The Day I Was Killed in Vietnam"

Bronze Star winner Jacky Bayne: "I don't lack for much of anything."

"The doctors tagged the body and sent it to the morticians to be embalmed, placed in a rubber bag and sent home. Another statistic. Then the miracle began. . . ."

It was a sultry July day in 1967. Jacky Bayne, a 20-year-old Spec 4 from Fort Mill, S. C., was on patrol with his German Shepherd, Bruno, near Chu Lai, Vietnam. Suddenly there was a terrific explosion. The land mine sent both man and dog flying. By the time the evacuation helicopter arrived, Jacky Bayne was "dead."

Back at the field hospital, doctors carefully examined the body. The rescue team had spent 45 minutes trying to resuscitate Bayne, but to no avail. There was no audible heart beat, no respiration. Giving up, the doctors tagged the body and sent it to the morticians to be embalmed, placed in a rubber bag and sent home. Another statistic.

The miracle began a few hours later when the morticians began preparing the body. As preliminary six-inch slits were made in the groin, one of the men "drew back." Was it his imagination, or was that a quiver he had seen? At that moment someone gasped, "His heart is beating!" Quickly, excitedly, the embalmers worked to sew up the incisions. Jacky Bayne's death was over; now began his long return to life.

To look at his open, good-humored face now, it is difficult to remember that Specialist E4 Bayne began his resurrection with such a precarious grasp on life that doctors believed there was little hope for survival. And even if he did beat the odds, they predicted he would never regain the use of his faculties.

When informed of their son's condition and that his unconscious body was being sent from Vietnam to Walter Reed Army Hospital, Mr. and Mrs. Eb Bayne left Fort Mill at once for Washington. What they learned firsthand would have discouraged lesser folks. "This is the way Mrs. Bunia Bayne describes it:

"The doctor took Eb and me into his office and told us, 'I'll lay it on the line. Your son may live to be 50 years old, even 75, but he'll never be more than a vegetable.' I said, 'Doctor, I can't believe that. He came back for a purpose, or he'd have died on the battlefield. We have faith he'll wake up.'"

It took faith. The young soldier didn't recognize his parents. One leg had been amputated at the knee. He couldn't talk, eat or do anything for himself. But gradually he began to improve. One day, he said a complete sentence. A few days later, the feeding tube was removed from his throat, and he ate some gelatin dessert.

Jacky remembers none of this. He can remember only the pain, the distress at being away from his outfit, the anxiety that he might be court-martialed for being AWOL.

It was November 4, 1967, nearly six months after the Viet Cong had nine had blown him into living death that he was admitted to the Veterans Administration Hospital at Columbia, S.C., his home state. The Baynes rented a house not far from the hospital so they could remain near their son. "We didn't worry about the future," Mrs. Bayne says. "We knew he was going to get well."

But the VA hospital officials weren't so sure. John L. "Buck" Smith, Administrative Assistant to the Chief of Staff, says, "I wouldn't have bet you two cents on his recovery when he was admitted. He had suffered massive neurological damage, no doubt from a lack of oxygen during those hours he was unconscious. We had absolutely no idea what to expect."

But the miracle continued, inexorably, to unfold. From the moment he was rolled through the front door in his wheelchair, Jacky became the overriding pre-occupation of the Columbus VA Hospital staff. His case was discussed at conferences and private consultations. Did Jacky recognize his therapist today? Did he propel himself a few feet in the wheelchair? Each small point of improvement became cause for excited talk and general rejoicing in the canteen and along hospital corridors.

A star athlete almost six feet tall when he attended Indianland High School in Lancaster County, S.C., Jacky weighed only 90 pounds when he was admitted to the VA Hospital. He was spastic and suffered from continuous body tremors.

The Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation team began a course of treatment immediately. As Dr. Harry Zankel, then Chief of PMR put it, "We are not interested in what a man has lost, but in what he has left. That principle guided us in working with Jacky."

So the immediate goal was to tone up Jacky's skin and muscles. He was given whirlpool baths and heat treatment in a Hubbard tank several times a day. His limbs were manipulated to combat deterioration.

Just as his mother had prophesied all along, Jacky improved steadily. One milestone was reached a few months after he entered the Columbia VA Hospital when he was presented the Bronze Star. The citation described his "superior proficiency and courage which has earned him the respect and admiration of both superiors and peers." Another milestone passed when a South Carolina man, whose son was in Vietnam, gave him a German Shepherd puppy. Jacky promptly named him "Bruno." Some recollections of his past were beginning to return.

Quietly, solemnly, with each day that passed, the young man was building his new life with courage far surpassing any shown on the battlefields of Vietnam. Often confused and frightened, he faced each new day with resolution. He satisfied himself with small victories.

The most important milestone of all passed on November 4, 1970, when Jacky Bayne was discharged from the hospital, precisely three years from the day he was admitted.

"[Miracles come in acts like plays, this was the end of Act One. The VA granted him $12,500 toward the purchase of a special house adapted to accommodate a wheelchair. He receives $1,143 a month from the VA as compensation. "I don't lack for much of anything," he admits.

What will happen during Act Two? First of all Jacky wants to strengthen his limbs so he can move himself from his wheelchair to a stationary chair or bed. Then he would like to walk.

Small victories, and then? "I wanted to become a high-school coach and teach history on the side," he says. "Maybe I'll go back to college and study history. Of course, I have to learn to write first."

Don't try to tell Jacky Bayne he can't accomplish all that. You might get laughed at because he has heard it before. It's not easy to discourage a young man who is living his own miracle. ♦

A Love Letter For Mother's Day

By Vera Holding

The sweetest thing about a love letter from a daughter is that, even though there are things left unsaid, a mother can read between the lines

Dear Mother,

Today is Mother's Day, and I want to write you a love letter. Somehow what I have in my heart is too tender for speech. I feel that I am about the richest person in the world, having you. I recognized, even as a child, that you were the one woman in life that I must try to live up to.

It has been a hard climb, trying to get up to the place in the world where you are, Mother. I shall never quite make it, but it may comfort you to know that—at least in my eyes—you have reached the summit of all that is noble and fine. There hasn't been a single time in all the years we have been together that I have not felt proud to say, "That's my mother."

I remember, over at the little town of Anadirka several years ago, I found a faded old photograph of a group of people standing near a tent. Tacked above it was a sign that read: "First Christian Church." I was proud to point to a slender, dark-eyed lady standing there and say, "That's my mother."

The picture is down at the museum now, among all the other early-day relics of the people who made a raw new country into a homeland. You were one of those.

I love you because you have never at any time lost your sensitivity to beauty, your sense of humor and the song in your heart. I love you for your loyalty to all of us. No matter what we did, it has been all right with you. You have always found some excuse for our failure or neglect or heartache.

In these troubled days, you might think my dearest wish would be for wealth, for peace, for security. But that's not true. Deep down, my dearest wish is to leave to my children the wealth of character that you have tried to bestow on me.

The sweetest thing about a love letter to a mother is that, even though there are things left unsaid, you will read between the lines. You know me better than I know myself. But I just wanted to stop in for a minute and thank you again for being what you are—a living pattern, God-given, for my own motherhood.

Your youngest,

Vera.

Time-Saving Dishes for Busy-Day Cooking

Tomato-Sauced Chicken is served over raisin and nut-studded rice.

■ Because of the quickened pace of living these days, wise cooks will take advantage of the many fine convenience foods obtainable to help speed meal preparations.

Recipes for each course in the menu are provided for your use. From soup to dessert, each recipe utilizes at least one, sometimes more, of the modern convenience foods. They were created to lessen the cook's time in food preparation without sacrificing either flavor or nutrition.

Tomato-Sauced Chicken

- 6 lbs. broiler-fryer chicken pieces
- Flour for coating chicken pieces
- Salt
- Seasoned pepper
- ½ cup vegetable oil
- 1 onion, chopped
- 1 green pepper, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 4 cans (8 oz. each) or 2 cans (16 oz. each) tomato sauce with tomato bits
- 2 teaspoons curry powder
- ½ cup water
- Shipped parsley
- Hot cooked rice for 8 servings
- ½ cup seedless raisins, plumped
- ½ cup toasted slivered almonds

1. Coat chicken pieces with a mixture of flour seasoned to taste with salt and seasoned pepper.
2. Heat some of the oil in a Dutch oven. Add some of the chicken pieces, skin side down, and brown on all sides. Remove from Dutch oven and keep warm. Repeat with more chicken and add more oil as needed.
3. When all of chicken is browned, add onion, green pepper, and garlic to fat in Dutch oven; cook until onion is tender, stirring occasionally. Spoon off excess fat. Stir in a blend of tomato sauce with tomato bits, curry powder, and water. Return chicken to Dutch oven and baste with sauce. Bring to boiling, reduce heat, and simmer, covered, about 45 min., or until chicken is tender; baste occasionally.
4. Arrange chicken on a large heated serving platter and spoon sauce over all. Garnish with parsley. Accompany with a bowl of the hot rice tossed with raisins; sprinkle with nuts.

About 8 servings

Liverwurst Dip

Blend liver spread (about 5-oz. cans) and a small amount of instant minced onion with desired amount of horseradish, brandy, or sherry. Serve potato chips and crisp crackers for dippers.

Now turn your favorite soda pop into a wild and scrumptious dessert.

If you have a passion for a special flavor of soda let yourself go and freeze it into a creamy dessert. Orange, grape, root beer, lime, sarsaparilla, cola... any flavor you like. You'll zap them right out of their minds with this one and it's easy as 1, 2, 3. (See recipe at right.) The magic ingredient that makes it all happen is Borden Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk. It's a pre-cooked, nutritious blend of milk and sugar, condensed so it works and tastes like a miracle.

RECIPE

1. POUR one can Borden Eagle Brand® Sweetened Condensed Milk (not evaporated milk) and one 28 oz. bottle soda pop (or two 12 oz. cans of soda) into bowl and mix. Pour in ice cube trays or loaf pan.
2. FREEZE in the freezing compartment of refrigerator until a firm slush is formed.
3. BEAT till smooth. Quickly return to freezer. Freeze till firm. Makes a quart. For large families, double the ingredients. (If you have an ice cream freezer, combine the ingredients and just freeze as usual.)

Family Problems: As Parents See Them, As Kids See Them

The gulf between the ages may not always be so severe as we are told

By Jeann Adams

One of the most important issues of our times is the question of communication between parents and children.

While the research that I have been conducting (among 19 families who were selected as candidates for the All-American Search Award) is not a statistically sound analysis, it does at least give some indication of how the so-called "generation gap" is affecting today's average family.

Here is the way the parents and kids in my sample line up on the following topics:

—The Family Pocketbook
Three-fourths of the families give their children an allowance. Whether children receive an allowance or not, they are generally expected to do assigned chores around the house.

—Children's Choice of Friends
In our sample, parents exerted relatively mild influence on their children's choice of friends. When a difficult situation or a poor association with a friend does develop, parents attempt to work out these problems in a variety of ways, the best involving open discussions.

—Going Steady
Parents and children tend to agree that going steady is permissible. Parents, however, insist that age be a consideration.

—Today's Clothes and Hair Styles
As a group, my sampling of "typical" parents neither strongly agreed nor disagreed with today's youth trends. However, of all the factors looked at in our survey, the question of these trends gave rise to the sharpest disagreement within certain families.

Parents tended to go along with the new, long-hair styles for boys, provided that the hair was kept clean and neat. The children, of course, were more tolerant toward long hair.

—Marijuana
We talked about the question of marijuana. Parents are on the fence about its legal use. They tend neither to disagree strongly nor strongly agree about its legalization. Surprisingly, our sampling of children indicated they were much more intensely against the use of marijuana than their parents.

—Premarital Sex
Parental answers about premarital sex and its permissibility were typically that this should be left to the discretion of the individuals involved. But those parents who were opposed were very sharply opposed. Children's responses to this question tended to follow pretty much the same course as their parents.

—Conclusion
Although many modern observers agree that it's very "in" for parents to be "out," our All-American Families interviewed show a two-way respect that is admirable—and conducive to two-way communication. There may be a hint in this research that the average teen-ager feels "misunderstood" on some points, but the feeling is not as intense or widespread as some would have us believe. ♦

You start on a walk

Your problems vanish

Miss U.S.A., 1970: "I Grew Up In One Year"

Despite her indelible beauty, Debbie may be best remembered for her bluntness

By Ted Otis, of the Family Weekly Staff

Appearing much younger than her years, Mrs. John P. Shelton's face beamed with pride as she watched her daughter Debbie, Miss U.S.A. of 1970, on a recent showing of "Laugh-In."

It was reminiscent of the first time Mrs. Shelton had viewed Debbie on TV, almost a year before. She had been watching the same TV set on May 17th, 1970, as the moment of truth was about to descend upon the 51 long-limbed lovelies assembled at the Miami Beach Auditorium for the Annual Miss U.S.A. Pageant. Now Master of Ceremonies Chuck Zink announced the new queen.

The cameras zoomed in on Debbie. Her face burst with radiance as she realized the name Zink had pronounced was her own. Escorted gracefully to the platform, the jade-eyed beauty from Norfolk, Va., accepted her crown as the 19th Miss U.S.A. It was now obvious that, whatever Debbie's life is going to be, her former ambitions of dentistry and anesthesiology would play little or no role in it.

Vivacious Debbie is a far cry from the run-of-the-mill beauty queen. She has brains. A student at Old Dominion University in Norfolk, she ranks academically in the upper one-half of the first percentile of the student body, her major interest being art and languages. More important, however, she has the kind of pragmatic intelligence that allows her to be disarmingly honest and direct. On Women's Lib: "Girls who are out burning bras don't have anything better to do; it's like me burning their underwear." On the possibility of a movie career: "I'm looking for someone to write a role for me. That's the only way to succeed, not with a little pop-in role in a Dean Martin picture." On former Miss U.S.A. Wendy Dascomb (who complained that the pageant "used" her to sell merchandise): "Of course you have to sell merchandise. That's what the pageant is all about. I notice Wendy didn't gripe when she received the $5,000 mink coat, $5,000 cash, $5,000 salary and all expenses paid."

The personal sacrifices one must make in the beauty-pageant business would appear to be staggering, but Debbie seems to take them in stride. When her disgruntled boy friend told her it was either him or the pageant, she quickly settled on the pageant. There was little time for remorse. A now boy friend turned up at the pageant a few nights later.

Debbie with Mrs. Shelton: "Whatever Debbie's life is going to be, dentistry and anesthesiology will play little or no role in it."

She feels that education is important, but that it should be tempered by practicality. She wishes to return to Old Dominion U. but must consider the position in which the title has placed her. "If I take a year out of the public eye to return to school," she observes, "I won't be a valuable property any more." Valuable property she is, as evidenced by her recent appearance on the "Merv Griffin Show" and "Laugh-In." As one of the Miss U.S.A. judges said, "There isn't a movie actress I can think of who measures up to Debbie's perfection of face and figure. She is quite extraordinary."

Despite her indelible beauty, however, it may be that Debbie will be best remembered for her bluntness and total avoidance of cant:

On alcohol: "I think drunks are worse than old ladies who whisper behind your back about your skirt being too short. I drink liquor—but only because I'm expected to."

Regarding her measurements (39-24-36): "My bust isn't really that big. I have broad shoulders from swimming."

About being Miss U.S.A.: "Of course it's difficult. You see all those fellows gawking at you, and you know what's going on in their heads. But I like to make people happy. I guess that's the hippie in me."

On Vietnam: "In politics, I'm dumb."

On the over-all effect of the title: "The regimentation and discipline are good for me and have helped me. I entered the pageant as a girl. But when I finish this month, I feel I will really be a woman." ♦

This article told about a NEW, QUICK, SURE and SATISFYING METHOD that started in England and is presently sweeping through France, Holland and ALL OF EUROPE. People who were overweight, who have tried just about everything to LOSE POUNDS and INCHES and were always unsuccessful ... finally found the missing link as to why, no matter how or what they tried ... would not work to any degree. These fortunate people Stopped Starving Themselves, Stopped Counting Calories and STILL witnessed an unbelievable weight loss almost immediately. I began to follow this simple method and was started to see the weight disappear before my very eyes. In ONLY 1 WEEK 15 POUNDS MELTED AWAY. My clothing started to hang. # The Sorrows And Success Of Dick Sargent

"You're going to military school," his grandfather told him.
"That'll make a man of you."
Instead, it almost ruined his life

Dick Sargent and Elizabeth Montgomery of "Bewitched"

For the past two years Dick Sargent has appeared on ABC's television show, "Bewitched," in the role of Darrin Stephens, the long-suffering but ever-lovin' husband of the bewitching witch Samantha (played by Elizabeth Montgomery), and father of their little witch and warlock.

In real life, however, 38-year-old Dick Sargent wants no part of married life or fatherhood. "I used to think I wanted children and that I'd missed out on a lot because I didn't have any. But I've finally come to realize I wouldn't make a good father," Dick sighed as he made the admission. "I know that sounds terrible—but it's true—I don't have the patience any more."

Sargent tried marriage for a short time, but as he told me during lunch in the executive dining room of the studio where the series is filmed, "I was too young. Only 19."

Dick hates any form of regimentation, an attitude that dates back to his early days at a military academy. When he was 12, his father died and left a void in his life that Dick admits has never been filled. His young mother remarried six months later, and Dick's grandfather took over.

"You're going to military school," his grandfather told him in no uncertain terms. "That'll make a man of you!"

Instead, it nearly killed him.

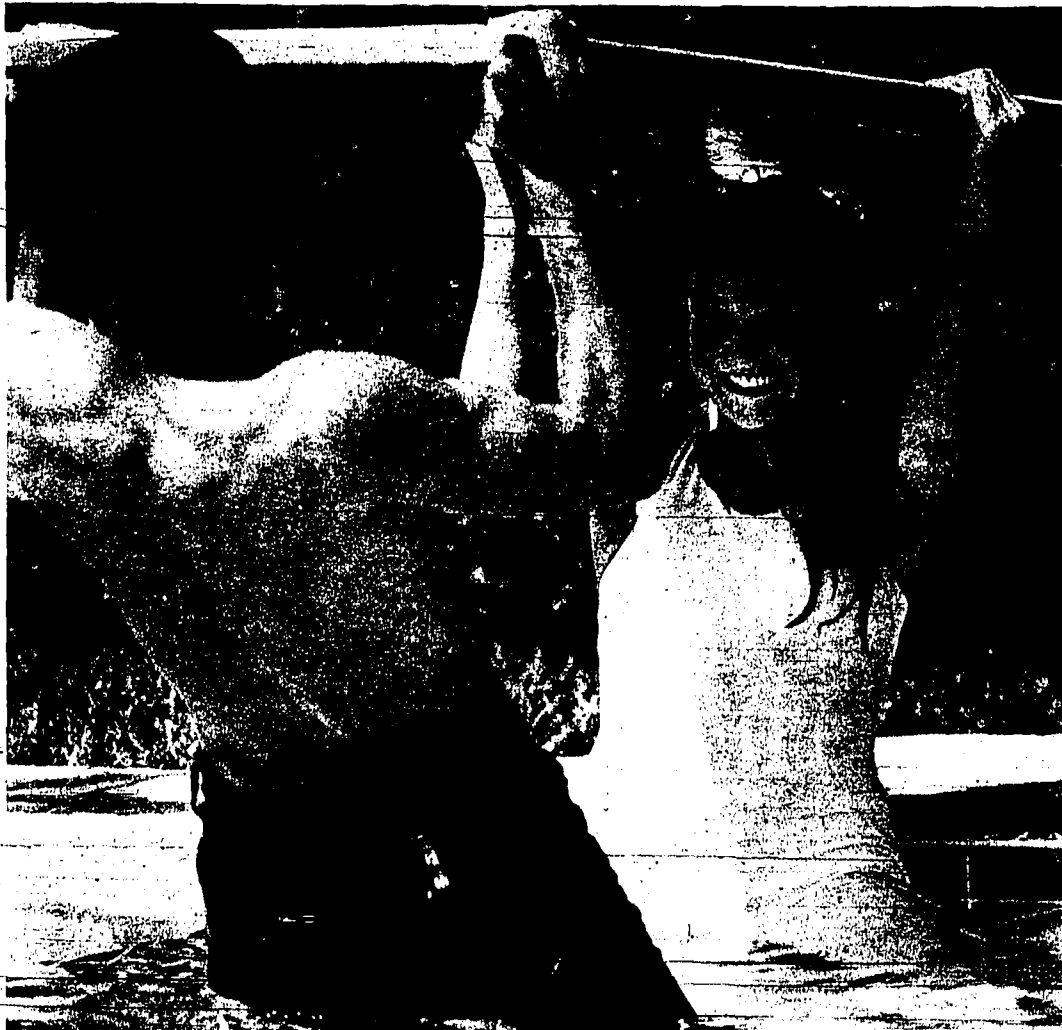

"It was a hideous experience," Dick recalled. He pleaded to come home, but his grandfather wouldn't hear of it. "So I finally let myself get tuberculosis and was sent home." His mother cared for him through his illness, but his grandfather saw to it that he went right back to military school as soon as he was well.

The fact that Dick became an actor is practically a miracle. In his military academy days, he was so shy and insecure that he couldn't open his mouth. At Stanford University, he says, he finally met people who liked him for himself. So he opened up and became a speech and drama major. But he quit school and went into movies, making about half-a-dozen films.

When ABC put "Bewitched" together, Dick York played Samantha's husband. Five years later, Sargent took over.

"I've never worked so steady in my life," Dick said. The wardrobe man interrupted: "Here are the shirts you wear this afternoon. This one has a 1/2 collar to fit your pig's head."

Dick grinned. "I turn into a pig today. That's the best part of this show. There's nothing snorty-I-like that. You never know what to expect next." ↓

When Ingrid Bergman opened recently in a Shaw play, two of her children were in the audience. Afterwards, she celebrated with her 18-year-old twin daughters, Ingrid (print dress) and Isabella, whose father is director Roberto Rossellini. The 54-year-old actress commented that if she were today the age of her girls, she'd never be an actress. "I am against violence and this obsession with sex that has crept into films. I would never take my clothes off. It's so embarrassing with the film crew all around you, watching. We made films for 50 years, and no one over minded that we were not showing our naked bodies." She added that there were some present-day films being made which she would not care to see. "I am easily shocked."

"Project Lifespan" had a recent conference which met at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions at Santa Barbara, Calif. On hand was Dr. Donald G. Carpenter, U.S. Air Force Academy, who suggested that research may soon lead to an average life span of 96 years. Unfortunately, because of the increase in elderly people, he also foresees a growing turbulence between the generations. One possible peaceful solution to this problem was suggested by another scientist, Dr. Robert W. Prehoda of the Bedford Foundation: a population of supercentenarians. "Anti-aging developments will enable older leaders to retain the mental flexibility of youth," he says, "and undertake projects unthought of today." Along with this, the scientist foresees the "one-child family," reducing the present overpopulated world of 3½ billion to a more livable 2 billion, by the 21st century.

A museum explanation of his revolutionary art is: "... Your "absolutely equal" talk I find a little thin. Or how come I can't grow a beard to hide a double chin?

The United States is such a large country that it seems that every other country touches it. —Anna Herbert

The thief stood bewildered before the judge, listening but not understanding the proceedings.

Finally his attorney explained to him, "You are acquitted."
"What does that mean?" asked the thief.

"It means that you are free. You're not guilty."

"Oh!—But—what about the stuff I stole?" asked the defendant. "Can I keep it?"

The new sailboat owner staggered to the marina under a load of paraphernalia for his first cruise.

Veteran skippers watched him put aboard food and drink, life jackets, chairs and a lot of miscellany. The one item which stood out was a very large pair of scissors.

The scissors looked like the kind used for gardening and clipping hedges. This so puzzled one old salt that he couldn't keep silent.

"Do you mind telling me, young fellow," he said, "what you'll be doing with those shears?"

"Well," replied the freshman mariner, "I was told that one of the first things I must learn is 'how to trim the sails.'"

—Dert Kruse

Fooled Again

I must confess I look askance
At plastic flowers, plastic plants,
The ones that look so very real
That I must sidle up and feel.
It really doesn't seem quite right,
And making false so much like true.

A big-game hunter was approaching camp one evening when an enormous tiger appeared out of the jungle not 20 feet away.

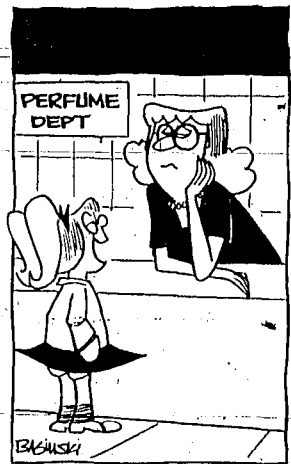

As the tiger was about to spring, the hunter fired his last cartridge—and missed.

But the tiger sprang too far and landed 15 feet beyond the hunter, who then ran for camp and arrived safely.

The next day the hunter walked behind the camp to practice a little shooting at close range. He heard a strange noise in the bush and went to investigate it.

It was the tiger—practicing short leaps.
