TEN CENTS

Bible club sought

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Trustees of the Twin Falls School District hired a new basketball coach, named a "high school" vice principal and heard a plea to allow a "Bible club" among students in Monday night's board meeting.
High school football coach Norm Thomas was named vice principal, succeeding Paul Ostyn, whose resignation will become effective at the end of the summer. Thomas discussed the problem of blending his coaching duties and the administrative work, telling the trustees that he believes he can handle both jobs successfully. He said he will complete summer-school classes this year to qualify him for an administrative certificate.

Don Haynes, 41, former head football coach at Kellogg High School and assistant at Wallace, was hired as high school basketball coach for the 1971-72 school year. Trustees considered a number of other applicants, selecting Haynes in a unanimous vote.

Haynes is currently basketball coach at Astoria, Ore., and will move to Twin Falls this summer with his family, including his wife and four children. He graduated from Coeur d'Alene High School in 1948, and attended Boise Junior College and Montana State College.

George Staudaer, incoming superintendent of schools, said Haynes will probably teach U.S. History at the high school, as he has a social studies major in his credit. He has also indicated an "eager desire" to work with younger students, advocating a summertime sports program Staudaer said.

Trustees also authorized an expanded coaching alignment for the junior high schools and high school at an overall additional cost of $3,200 per year. Athletic Director Bob Donnelly outlined his program which will provide for girls' track and volleyball coaching duties to be assumed to junior-high faculty members at a salary increment, and will strengthen and high school coaching staff.

Driver cited as drunk

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Marjorie D. Grieve, 43, Twin Falls, who was driver of a vehicle involved in a spectacular pedestrian accident Thursday in downtown Twin Falls was arrested Monday afternoon by Twin Falls Police.

Mrs. Grieve is charged with driving while intoxicated, according to Police Chief Frank Barnett.
Bond of $200 was posted after Mrs. Grieve appeared in Magistrate Court and entered a plea of not guilty.

Mrs. Grieve is charged in connection with an accident in which Jennifer Renko Carroll, 14, was injured at a city intersection. Mrs. Grieve's vehicle struck the teen-ager at Shoshone Street North and Second Avenue North.

The girl was carried for more than a block by the car, which went through two island planters in the middle of Shoshone Street. The girl was pitched off the car and flung to the pavement.

School vote today

TWIN FALLS — Spirited interest in the trustee race for the Twin Falls School District, with six candidates seeking two seats, and widened voting qualifications are expected to increase the turnout for today's election.

Polls will remain open until 8 o'clock at Lincoln School for voters in Zone 3, and at Bickel School for Zone 4 voters. For the first time in a Twin Falls trustee vote, property ownership qualifications have been dropped, and voters need not have children in school.

Voters must sign an affidavit that they are over 21 years of age and have lived in the state of Idaho for six months or longer, and in the county for 30 days, as well as living in their respective trustee zone.

Incumbents Dr. H.W. Ronk, in Zone 4, and Edward R. (Ted) Smith, in Zone 3, each seeking re-election to the three-year term of office, each face opponents in today's election. Mrs. E.M. (Marilyn) Smith is opposing Dr. Ronk, while Smith faces three: Ruth B. Day, Michael Bruce Spratt and LuDell Waldron.

Trading could be ended

TWIN FALLS — Idaho Sen. Len B. Jordan told the Times-News on Tuesday that the Idaho potato futures market may have to be eliminated if undue speculation cannot be controlled.

The Senator's comments were made shortly after the close of trading on the May futures market which ended at $5.82 — a sizable saving from the $7 that brokers had feared earlier in the month.

A commitment of 2,000 cars of potatoes — of 50,000 pounds each — may leave 900 to 1,000 cars undelivered at the legal end of the delivery period on May 31, according to Alex Sinclair of Ritten and Co., Twin Falls.

Sen. Jordan said the futures market is regulated by the Commodity Exchange Authority of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, but said that "it's pretty hard to draw rules to differentiate between hedgers and speculators."
"We might have to take measures to do away with the potato (futures) market," Jordan said.

Service cancelled

TWIN FALLS — Another tradition is being bypassed by changing times.

W. W. Frantz, veteran American Legion officer and Memorial Day observance chairman for many years, said today the annual services on that day have been abandoned. Frantz said holidays now fall on Monday, causing most people to be out of town. He said attendance has dwindled in the past few years.

Cancer attack pledged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon announced today "an unprecedented attack" on cancer and said he would personally take a hand in its over-all direction.

Nixon's announcement came as Congress appeared ready to approve $100 million the President requested in his State of the Union message toward finding a cure for the disease.

The president told newsmen he was confident the money would be appropriated, and if that proved insufficient, he would request more funds.

"It will not fail because of lack of money," he told newsmen during a visit to the White House press room. "If $100 million is not enough, we will provide more money."
Nixon said he believed "direct presidential interest and presidential guidance" might help conquer cancer and that he was therefore announcing a "presidential program for cancer cure."

Tupperware tells why

By CHARLOTTE BELL

JEROME — Jerome was chosen as the site for the new Tupperware plant because of the availability of good transportation facilities, electrical power and labor.

The president of the firm, John Ansley, Orlando, Fla., outlined the reasons for the selection at a dinner at Wood's Cafe Monday night. The dinner was attended by city and county officials, Jerome city and chamber of commerce representatives and the owners of the land where the plant will be built, Dr. Wesley Rose and Dr. Charles Parker.

He said Jerome is similar in size and economy to Halls, Tenn., where the firm has one of its finest plants.

Ansley said products from the new Jerome plant will supply the West Coast area.

"We will make an all out effort to have the first building constructed and in full production by Jan. 1, 1972, with 450 employees," the president said.

Jim Hagan, Tupperware, vice president for industrial relations, who will handle most of the arrangements for construction of the plant, said the group will be here until Wednesday morning.

Today they were meeting with Mel Morris, city engineer, and officials of the Idaho Power Co. and the Union Pacific Railroad Co., and other city officials to formulate plans to begin construction.

Capital shutdown try scored by Sen. Jordan

TWIN FALLS — Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, said here Monday that recent demonstrations in Washington, D.C., intended to shut down all governmental operations had gone "beyond legitimate dissent."

He said the disruptors had become isolated from other segments of the antiwar movement, as evidenced by the fact that only blacks, few veterans and few ones "Senate doves" participated.

The main impact of the attempted disruption at the Nation's Capitol was that many people were "alienated from a violent form of protest," he said. "It was very distressing to see people in town with the avowed purpose to close Congress down," Sen. Jordan said.

He said the bulk of the people involved in the demonstrations were "influenced" by a core of "troublemakers" who had chosen the tactics of disruption. Jordan estimated that only about 10 per cent of the demonstrators could be classed in the category of the radical activists.
For them, he said, "getting

Dollar stable after plummet

BONN (UPI) — The ailing American dollar gained a little strength on a thin and nervous market today but speculators gave no sign of converting their West German marks back to dollars.

Even so, the shift downward of the dollar's value over the weekend, by from 2 to 7 per cent, appeared to have put an end to the worst currency crisis in two years—even though it left the dollar at its lowest exchange rate in two decades.

In Holland, the dollar opened at 3.545 guilders—the best level it had reached all day Monday. In Belgium, the dollar opened at a high of 49.30 francs today, against a closing price of 49.10 Monday.

In Switzerland, where the dollar underwent its most stringent devaluation in relation to the local currency, 7.07 per cent, and thus made dollars that much cheaper, there was a light demand for dollars that pushed up the rate slightly, to a high of 4.1175, compared to yesterday's high of 4.1100.

In Germany, storm center of the week-long crisis, special government measures to dampen speculation were beginning to take hold, but just barely. Officials said it might be months before speculative pressure against the dollar ended. But it was already easing up.

During the opening hours of trading in Frankfurt, Duesseldorf and Hamburg, the American dollar, as elsewhere, actually increased slightly in price, to about 3.6475 marks, compared to Monday's median rate of 3.525.

In France and Britain, however, whose currencies are none too strong themselves, the dollar was holding steady.

It appeared to be all over but the shouting—and most of that was between the French, who had demanded that the Germans revalue the mark upward, and the Germans themselves, who instead of revaluing, simply let the mark find its own level.

That level, as it turned out, dropped the dollar to about 3 per cent less than its value a week ago in relation to the deutschmark.

The Netherlands, like Germany, suspended its official exchange rates and allowed the guilder to float free in relation to the dollar.

Belgium maintained the previous rate in official exchange dealings, but set its franc free to float upward—in ordinary commerce.

In both cases, the dollar sank 2 to 4 percent below its level of last week.

Mail hike looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge today cleared the way for a temporary 33-1-3 per cent increase in postal rates effective Sunday.

Judge William B. Bryant denied a request by newspaper and magazine publishers for a preliminary injunction to block the new U.S. postal service from implementing the increases, the publishers contended they are illegal.

Under the new rate schedule announced for May 16, the cost of mailing a first-class letter will be raised from 8 cents to 8 cents, air mail rises from 10 cents to 11 cents, and other classes by approximately one third. The postcard will rise from a nickel to 6 cents.

The American Newspaper Publishers Association and the Magazine Publishers Association argued that the law prohibited initial use of the temporary rate-making procedures until after permanent rates were established for the first time.

Otherwise, they argued, "we have no other way to get a hearing on either the amount of the increases or the method of assessing them because the post office seeks to make the increases before the postal rate commission can carry out proper administrative process."

GEN. TURNER sentenced.

Ex-Army top cop sentenced

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) — Retired Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner, once the Army's top law enforcement officer and chief J.S. marshal, was sentenced to three years in prison Monday on charges of illegally obtaining 138 guns from the Chicago Police Department.

Turner, 58, was sentenced by U.S. District Court Judge Oren H. Lewis. Execution of sentence was postponed one week.

Turner had pleaded guilty April 9, to the charge. At the time, eight other charges involving firearms violations were dropped.

He still must face trial June 7, however, on four counts of income tax evasion.

Turner, provost marshal of the Army from 1964 to 1968, was a central figure in a Senate investigation.

France yields on mart

BRUSSELS (UPI) — France gave ground Monday on two major outstanding issues of Britain's membership in the European Common Market but held fast on two others.

The apparent softening of French terms for British entry into the European trading community came on the eve of crucial talks here Tuesday between Britain and the six member-nations.

In what French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann described as an "effort of imagination," France Monday dropped its demand that Britain cut by half sugar imports from Commonwealth Caribbean nations on joining the Common Market.

The reasoning behind the French demand was that Britain would then have to make up the difference by buying sugar from former French colonies in Africa.

France also submitted proposals for calculating Britain's contribution to the community budget if she joins.

French Finance and Economics Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing, on entering the meeting, said actual figures could not be discussed because it could not be known how much the common agricultural budget would cost when Britain joins.

Giscard d'Estaing said the problem of British sterling would be discussed by the finance ministers in private. He described it as a "fundamental" problem.

Spud delivery crunch hits

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — A "potato delivery crunch" apparently has developed that could force an end to potato futures trading in Idaho—and has left growers literally "holding the bag," containing a half-million sacks of spuds which have been contracted for but cannot be delivered.

Alex Sinclair, a partner in the Twin Falls office of Louis N. Ritten and Co., Inc., market brokers, said today that May futures trading ended Monday morning with an "open commitment" of 2,000 cars of potatoes under contracts which must be sold or satisfied by delivery by May 31.
Only about half that many cars can be delivered. Ordinarily, in futures trading, the commodities are not actually delivered as called for in the contract. The trading is done through the contracts, which are bought and sold much as securities on the open market, through the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

A potato grower or shipper will "hedge" by buying a contract to deliver a specified amount of a commodity such as potatoes at a specified date — May futures trading calls for satisfaction by May 31. Then, as the price fluctuates, the owner of the potatoes may sell the commodity on the open market and use the proceeds to liquidate his market position.

This month, however, many sellers are up in the air.

Though the price closed at what Sinclair said was a "light but respectable" $5.82 per hundredweight, the fact remains that of the 2,000 cars under contract, "we can pack and ship only about 1,000 to 1,100 of these."

The remaining 1,000 carloads of potatoes exceed shipping capacity of railroads and handling capacity of shippers. The contracts cannot be sold, since the market is closed and trading has ended for the month. Without swapping of contracts, the unusual has happened and delivery must ensue, according to strict market regulations.
If the contracts are not fulfilled, the buyers have all the force of contract law at their beck and call — prices can be "negotiated" at the will of the buyer or legal action can result.

Sinclair said that "at one time, only six or seven people owned all 2,000 cars on the 'Board,' he said today. During the month, about 620 cars were shipped, leaving the commitment of 2,000 car lots. Each carlot, by market regulations, includes 50,000 pounds of potatoes in 100-pound sacks.

The J.R. Simplot Co. may face a loss through ownership of "many or most" of the unshippable cars, Sinclair said. "He (Jack R. Simplot) may institute legal action, but personally I don't think it will be necessary."

Simplot offered to put $50,000 into escrow earlier in the month to help growers hurt by the price squeeze, and had offered to meet a $60,000 margin call at Ritten and Co. at a cost of two cents per sack, or $10 per carload, for "handling the money." The market changed before the offer was accepted, however, the deal was not consummated.

All in all, Sinclair said, "We don't like what has happened. The price is out of line." He declared, however, that he believed that "nobody has been hurt too badly."

But there are still half a million sacks of potatoes that somebody has purchased and will want delivered.

Andrus signs property lease

BOISE (UPI)—Gov. Cecil D. Andrus signs final papers today giving the Idaho Association for Physically Handicapped Adults a five-year lease on one building at the old soldiers home for $1 per year. Owned by the state, the property is under jurisdiction of the State Parks Department. The building involved is directly east of the largest building on Wayland Muffley, president of the association, said the IAPHA plans to develop a pilot project on the property. He said the purpose is "to provide adequate private residence for severely physically handicapped adults who are intellectually able and emotionally stable." "We want to ensure that these people who require assistance for daily living, can live with dignity and independence free from a sense of futility as experienced in an institution," Muffley said.

Question...

Funeral processions to a cemetery seem to be a traffic hazard in addition to being old-fashioned. Most funeral customs have been updated — why has this remained unchanged?

Answer...

Throughout the country many innovations have been applied to funeral processions in an effort to reduce their potential traffic hazards. Two new trends are becoming evident in the heavily populated eastern states. In the New York City area many interments are private — only the family goes to the cemetery. In some New England cities it has become customary for the committal time to be announced at the conclusion of the funeral service. Friends who go to the cemetery do so individually; they convene at the appointed time and thereby eliminate the funeral procession. Both of these plans effectively update funeral customs, and at the same time reduce traffic hazards. There is much to recommend either procedure: if it is anyone's wish to eliminate the procession to the cemetery, we easily can arrange to do so.

Top award

ACHIEVER OF THE YEAR award is presented to Sharon Jorgensen by John Lawrence, principal of the Twin Falls High School and director of the Twin Falls Junior Achievement. Miss Jorgensen received the top award during the program's annual awards dinner Monday evening.

Youth companies cited at dinner

TWIN FALLS — A young woman who served as treasurer of a Junior Achievement company known as Imagination, was named the "Achiever of the Year" during the Twin Falls Junior Achievement's annual awards dinner Monday evening at the Turf Club.

Miss Sharon Jorgensen received the trophy from John Lawrence, Twin Falls High School principal and a director of the Junior Achievement program.

Sen. Frank Church and Rep. Orval Hansen were invited to the awards event, but because of Congressional business, they were unable to attend. They did send telegrams praising the Junior Achievement program. Sen. Church's telegram said, in part, "...Junior Achievement is an outstanding program and your banquet has become another excellent instance of its fine tradition of mutually rewarding civic services."

Cong. Hansen said in his telegram, "I salute Junior Achievement's goal to strengthen the private enterprise system and to channel the talents and energies of youth into constructive endeavors. Junior Achievement of Twin Falls is providing an outstanding contribution toward training the business leaders of tomorrow and is deserving of community support."

Phil Finley, program manager, presented several other trophies.

Top salesmen of each of the four companies receiving trophies were Rocky Reece, Aeneas; Janet Rapp of Imagination; Garry Bortz, B.O.S.S. Co., and Gary Freeman, Mobeteco.

The safety director trophy went to Richard Englehart of B.O.S.S. Co., and Toni Edwards of Mobeteco received the personnel director award. John Dean of B.O.S.S. Co. was named the purchasing manager award winner and the treasurer of the year award went to Shirley Davis, also of Mobeteco.

Jacqui Walker of Imagination received the secretary of the year award; Jay Bryan of Mobeteco, vice president of manufacturing; Polly Kennedy, Mobeteco, vice president of sales; Garry Bortz, B.O.S.S. Co., president of the year award; Rocky Reece, Aeneas, salesman of the year; Carol Crossaint, Aeneas, officer of the year, and Barbara Carlton, Mobeteco, essay contest winner.

The company of the year award went to Mobeteco and B.O.S.S. Co. received an award for the best annual report.

Tom Moore was master of ceremonies and the entertainment during the evening was provided by Ben Kerlin, Terry Becker and Becky Shelby.

The advisers of the four companies also received awards for their contributions. The advisers are Pete Olson, Gene Seele, Joe Humphrey and Ed Barker of Imagination; Dick Clark of Aeneas; Albert Smith, Glenn Miller, Doyle McBride, Ernie Smith and LeRoy Gelat, of B.O.S.S. Co., and Tom Wojcik, Lyman Davis and Ray Delek of Mobeteco.

Cleared flanks on roads asked

TWIN FALLS — Rural residents in the Twin Falls Highway District have been advised all illegal encroachments must be removed from district right-of-way because the district is enlarging its maintenance program to include road right-of-way work. Engineer Keith Anderson said the plan will provide a higher level of service to the traveling public, improve appearance, safety and drainage of roadways in the district.

To facilitate this work, encroachments will have to be removed. Anderson said over the years rural residents have used the right-of-way along their property for extending their lawns, erecting electric fences, waste water ditches, planting trees and shrubs, driveways and large massive mail box supports.

The district official said illegal encroachments which must be removed from public right-of-way include waste water ditches, fences, shrubs and trash piles. Utilities which are authorized to occupy the right-of-way subject to regulation of the highway district will not be included in the group unless improperly located.

Another category of encroachments, Anderson said, are not specifically authorized or banned by Idaho Code and are permitted if they meet the highway district standards. This group includes lawns, approaches and other private facilities.

Anyone intending to use the right-of-way for any purpose should call on the district for approval, the engineer said, to avoid having to remove improvements. Any right-of-way encroachment is subject to district approval, he said.

Jet runway plan speeds

TWIN FALLS — The $100,000 provided by the Idaho Department of Aeronautics will permit completion of a full-jet runway at the Twin Falls City-County Airport this year rather than carrying over into a two-year project, O.A. (Gus) Kelker, chairman of the airport commission, said today.

Kelker said he was informed by City Manager Jean Milar and City Engineer George Michael that it is planned to make immediate application to the Federal Aviation Administration to increase the scope of the runway project already approved for this year. FAA officials were expected in Twin Falls late this afternoon to discuss the enlarged project. It is anticipated, Kelker said he was informed, that the increased scope application could be accomplished in about two weeks and that there would be no appreciable delay in completion of the full runway.

Until the extra state grant was received, the project called for new construction of 5,900 feet of Runway 7-25 in a center strip 35 to 40 feet in width. If the new plan is approved it will permit completion of the 5,900 feet. This, plus the 1,200 feet of new runway on the 25 end of the main runway, will provide the field with some 7,200 feet of jet runway capable of handling commercial jets much larger than the DC-9 90-passenger planes now used by Hughes Air West.

Kelker said Milar said any money left over from the state's $100,000 grant would go toward matching funds required next year to provide for replacement of taxiways and a ramp at the field.

At the present time the federal funds are being matched with local and state funds on the basis of 55 per cent for the federal money. As it stands now the improvement of the field will represent expenditure of $403,580 "outside" money, and $260,000 city-county funds.

Officials are also of the opinion the main runway will not have to be closed to the big jet planes during the whole period of construction. At first it was thought the closure would be from six to eight weeks this late summer and early fall but now the thinking is that by working on the end of runway 7 to start, the jets can use the remainder of the runway two or three weeks longer than anticipated.

Milar pointed out completion of the full-jet runway will mean adequate landing and takeoff facilities will be available to the jets for at least 15 or 20 years.

The terminal building at the field was enlarged last winter and provisions were made for baggage handling at the east end of that building. Other work this summer will include the oiling of the new parking areas in front of the terminal building.

2 grants for CSI approved

WASHINGTON — Idaho Rep. Orval Hansen announced today grants totaling $70,966 have been awarded to the College of Southern Idaho.

Hansen said the grants, from the department of Health, Education and Welfare, were made for college work study and educational opportunity programs.

Amount of the HEW funds received by CSI in educational opportunity and work study awards respectively are $50,371 and $20,595.

CUMBERLAND, Md. (UPI) — Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., was reported to be making a routine recovery Monday after undergoing an emergency appendectomy at Sacred Heart Hospital here Sunday night.

'Sassy' home after mishap

TWIN FALLS — "Sassy," the little black dog who disappeared after his mistress was injured last week in a pedestrian accident in Twin Falls, has returned home.

Keith Saville, city humane officer, said "Sassy" who is mostly poodle, showed up about two days after Jennifer Renee Carroll, 14, was injured when she was struck by a car.

Jennifer was carrying "Sassy" when she was struck by the vehicle driven by Mrs. Marjorie D. Grive, 43, Twin Falls. Witnesses to the accident said they did not see the dog after Jennifer was scooped onto the car hood and carried for more than a block before being pitched to the pavement.

Saville talked to Jennifer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnan Tipton, Monday and they said the dog came home by himself. He is skinned and bruised but not seriously injured.

Jennifer's parents told Saville that the girl probably will be taken to a Boise hospital for further treatment. She is reported in improved condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Park board drops day use fee plan

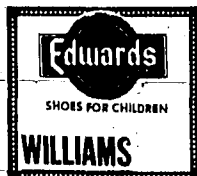

BOISE (UPI) — The State Parks Board has decided to cancel its plans to charge a $1 per day use fee at state parks because of the difficulty of collecting it, according to Director Wilhelm Beckert.

However, Beckert said overnight camping fees established by the board earlier this year will remain in effect.

These amount to $2 per vehicle per night plus charges of 50 cents for electrical and water hookups and 50 cents for a sewage hookup.

Because of the board's decision to cancel the daytime use fee a court hearing involving Heyburn State Park has been cancelled.

Several business firms in Heyburn State Park earlier received a temporary restraining order against the use fees and sought a permanent injunction on grounds that when Heyburn was established it was designed "for free public use."

A delegation of junior high and high school students presented a request through their spokesman Tom Lambert for permission to organize a "Bible club" next fall either before or after school hours.

Lambert, speaking not only for the students present at the meeting, but he indicated, for "all Christian youth" in the area, said a religious revival is sweeping the nation, and is making itself felt in Twin Falls.

Claiming that he and others have "found the answers to life" in religion, Lambert admitted to having a "rebellious" and troubled attitude in past year. "Many young people are searching for the answers today and a few are finding them in the Lord," Lambert told the trustees.

"The schools are designed to educate the entire person," he charged, indicating that religion should be considered, albeit not as a formal part of the school curriculum.

The group would need a room to meet in and "access to the school's daily bulletin, so we could let others know," Lambert said. A faculty sponsor would also be required, as with any school organization, trustees added. Several faculty members have indicated an interest in the proposed organization.

Ada aide to state crime war

BOISE (UPI) — Attorney General W. Anthony Park has hired Robert M. King, 51, Ada County chief deputy sheriff, as a special crime and narcotics investigator.

Park said King, chief deputy in Ada County for the past 15 months, will work under Deputy Attorney General Fred Kennedy who heads up the newly organized crime and narcotics division.

Trustees said they would have to look into the legal angle, in light of the U. S. Supreme Court rulings on separation of church and schools. Trustee Frank DeLuca, a member of the executive committee of the Idaho School Trustees Association, said national trustee conventions he has attended at Philadelphia and San Francisco usually open with an invocation, indicating at least tacit approval of the religious aspect.

Lambert said other schools in Idaho allow religious groups to operate on a permissive basis. The trustees said they would take the matter under consideration. With only two weeks of school left in the current term, no decision is required immediately, they agreed with the students.

In other board business, trustees agreed to set May 25 as the date to open bids on extensive roofing repairs needed at Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School and the high school. Architect Harold Gerber said two alternate proposals would be put up for bid — an asphalt re-roofing process and a new urethane foam process in which plastic foam is blown onto the roof much like insulation into a home, then covered with an opaque protective coating.

The contract, when awarded, will call for a completion date of July 16, assessing a penalty of $50 "for each and every calendar day" beyond that date for noncompletion.

This announcement is not an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy these securities. The offering is made only by prospectus.

Well, Bully For Bill Blass

WASHINGTON — Bully for Bill Blass, I said to myself the other day...

that recent pariah of the haberdashery dodge, gray flannel slacks. I salute Bill Blass and hope that his campaign to transform me from a Restoration coxcomb into a grownup male will include endorsement of the bowler.

sort, easily swayed by the latest in fuchsia belted and morning suits of purple and green polka dots, but oblivious to tradition.

Prince Phillip, whose job is husband to Queen Elizabeth, has bowlers of many shades, and so does Princess Margaret's consort, Lord Snowden.

Here in the U.S., the term "iron hat" has been hauled at the bowler, or derby, as a form of derision.

Al Smith's brown job was the most famous of all. A Hollywood restaurant was built in its image and prospered for years.

Males in the U.S. were slower to adopt the bowler, but once they did it became an elegant craze that lasted from the turn

To The Indians

Everybody agrees that the American Indian got a raw deal from the fork tongued white man, who paid pennies an acre for valuable land he took from its original owners—when he paid at all.

But amends are being made and have been for some time. The new militancy of the American Indian in asserting his rights is not really so new.

The American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers has issued a table of more than 100 cases involving tribal claims for compensation in the 1960s.

Indian Claims Commission settlements have resulted in the Indians receiving an average of 37.6 per cent of the value they claimed. In seven cases where the tribes employed institute experts, they received 46 per cent.

This does not sound very good.

Yet the commission's holdings also averaged several times higher than the government's appraised value. In two cases, they were as high as 1,700 per cent of the government's appraisals.

The Indian Claims Commission reported at the end of 1969 that 150 money judgments totaling $305 million had been processed, with 301 remained to be adjudicated.

The appraisal problem in all these cases is highly complex because of the requirement to appraise land values at a particular time in history, sometimes more than 100 years ago.

Of course, if the white man had done right by the red man in the first place, none of this would be necessary today.

Not Any Drop

In a massive, 700-page report, a Nader's Raiders task force has severely indicted the quality of America's drinking water. It warns of a "potential crisis in national health" because tens of millions of Americans are drawing their drinking water from "poisoned lakes and streams."

There is a vague awareness, says the report, that toxic chemicals from industrial sources, pesticides, hormones in animal feed, human sewage and thousands of other contaminants are going into the waterways. Most Americans assume that "somebody" is removing this junk.

"This is not the case," charges the report. "Chemicals and viruses can — and do — pass through municipal purification systems to the household water user."

These contaminants carry not only the risk of disease, but can cause cancer, birth defects and genetic damage.

If this drives you to drinking bottled water, don't be too hasty.

Calling America's community water supplies the safest in the world and claiming that much bottled water on sale today does not meet U.S. Public Health standards, Eric F. Johnson, executive director of the American Waterworks Association, recently lashed out at some bottled water companies.

He charges THEM not only with potential health hazards but with fraud.

Many utilities, says Johnson, report that bottled water being sold in their areas is nothing but tap water. In some cases, tap water that costs one cent for 22 gallons is simply passed through a cellulose filter and then sold for 70 cents a gallon — a mark-up of 1,600 times.

Well, there's always frowwater.

MR. SPECTATOR

Those Retiring Folks

People tell us that when a person retires he (or she) had better get something to fill in all that extra time he (or she) will be up against because if they don't they will just dry up and blow away.

So be it!

But Mr. Spectator has a suggestion to those folks who are nearing retirement or have retired. Why not get yourself hooked up with the American Association of Retired Persons? There just happens to be a very active chapter of that association right here in Twin Falls and this just happens to be the month set aside to recognize that fact.

For instance — lot's of "senior" citizens like fishing. It is a fine sport but who wants to fish all the time? So, in between trips, the people who are the "wheels" at the local AARP chapter say your help is needed, and they add that "it is the giving that makes life more interesting."

Right now there is a need at the local level for those "senior" citizens who might wish to be among the children at the child care centers. The youth programs are equally eager to have "listeners" for the under privileged. There's also an urgent need to talk and visit with understanding elders.

You do not need to be "ancient" to join up. In fact those 55 or older are all eligible and you don't need to be dragging to get in. In fact, you can still be gainfully employed. Getting attached now will enable you to get ready for those "wonderful years ahead."

There is no reason to dry up, to get out of the habit of doing beneficial things, just because you are approaching or have arrived at the "senior age."

Belonging to the AARP is a real challenge. Interested to learn more and to get a list of the real benefits of belonging?

All you have to do is to get in touch with Ardis Rose who lives at 157 Washington Street North in Twin Falls. She has all the dope and she says the other members will be glad to meet you.

Huzzah! Huzzah!

WASHINGTON — No matter how hard we try, the press can't do anything right as far as the Nixon Administration is concerned.

I am happy to report that the attacks of President Nixon, Spiro Agnew and John Mitchell have not fallen on deaf ears. A sincere group of journalists and TV commentators have formed an Ad Hoc Committee to Make the News More Palatable to the Administration.

The first meeting was held last week in the Georgetown basement of a famous cartoonist.

"Gentlemen," a syndicated columnist said, "the Administration is fed up with the way the nation's media are reporting the news. It is our duty as Americans to change our ways."

"Huzzah! Huzzah!" everyone shouted.

"Are there any suggestions?" "How about coming out for Judge Carswell?" someone said.

"It's too late unless there is a new opening on the Supreme Court," an editorial writer replied.

"What about refusing to report the unemployment figures in the United States?"

"That would please the Administration," a White House correspondent said.

"How about pulling ALL our correspondents out of Indochina and accepting only the word of the Pentagon briefers?"

"It's a step in the right direction," a TV correspondent agreed.

"It isn't enough," a columnist said. "This Administration deserves more than a few bones."

"I've got it," suggested a reporter. "Suppose we agree every week to turn over all our notebooks and films and radio tapes to the Justice Department?"

An editor said, "John Mitchell would like that."

"And suppose we make an agreement not to report any news from Red China without clearing it with Spiro Agnew?"

"Huzzah! Huzzah!" everyone shouted.

Vietnam demonstrations?" "Or demonstrations of any kind?" someone else said.

"We could do it if we put our hearts in it," the cartoonist said.

"These are all good suggestions," the editorial writer said. "But we owe this Administration more than just suppressing bad news. We have to print the good news about what President Nixon is doing."

"Huzzah! Huzzah!" everyone cried.

"Let's hear a few suggestions."

There was dead silence in the room.

The woman reporter finally said, "Nixon's marrying off his daughter to a very nice young man."

"He kept Henry Kissinger from being kidnaped," someone else added.

"He got Congress to vote on the SST."

"He made Spiro Agnew into a household word."

"He brought Martha Mitchell to Washington."

"He made everything perfectly clear."

"That's enough to start with," the syndicated columnist said.

"We're all agreed then that we're going to lay off the Nixon Administration until after the election."

"Huzzah! Huzzah!" everyone cried.

Unfortunately, at that moment 100 federal marshals, who had been tipped off by an FBI informer, crashed into the basement and arrested everyone for conspiring to overthrow the United States government.

"That does it," said an editor. "No more Mister Good Guy."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

She Reduced

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have followed your "Lost Secrets of Reducing" and have lost 10 pounds in less than three weeks. That's great but I have never been so constipated in my 65 years. I have tried plenty of prune juice and milk of magnesia but am still bound up and fear colitis or bowel obstruction. Should this diet of yours cause constipation? — D.R.

No, it shouldn't, and I doubt that it has. By the way, I don't recommend trying to lose weight at the rate you describe, which doubtless contributes to what you call "constipation."

The point is that I question whether you are really constipated. You have cut down your food intake drastically. The result is not only that you have reduced the calories you absorb but also have greatly reduced the amount of bulk, or residue, that is left over and to be discharged by your colon.

A well-regulated bowel doesn't automatically operate on a timetable (although, other things being equal, a regular habit of evacuating is good). The bowel expels the residue when enough has accumulated to require it.

With your reducing program, you can't say that other things are equal. They have changed! With less material in the colon, why should you expect to have the bowel act as often as before?

You may, if you wish, take one of the various bulk-producers; you can eat more low-calorie foods to provide bulk without gaining weight; you should in any event drink plenty of water (or very low-calorie fluids).

But possibly your best solution is to realize that you aren't "constipated," but merely require less bowel action. "Lost Secrets of Reducing" will be sent in return for 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address requests to Dr. Thosteson, care of this newspaper.)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been eating a pint of yogurt daily, but am told that it causes cataracts. Could it cause my eye twitching and dizziness? — Mrs. D.S.

I think you are jumping to conclusions — along with a lot of other people when that bit of news was published.

There were some experiments showing that rats, fed exclusively on yogurt, could develop cataracts. This is thought to result from the high galactose content of yogurt — yogurt being made from defatted skim milk. If the fat was left in, the rats did not develop cataracts.

So far, this applies only to rats, fed rigidly on that diet. It is unlikely that humans, eating a normal diet otherwise, would develop cataracts from yogurt added to their diets. Indeed, the question perhaps is this: In the rats, did the yogurt cause the cataracts, or did the cataracts develop from lack of what wasn't included in their food?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: After reading your article about winter itch, I want to tell my experience. I would scratch till I was sore all over. I got rid of it by leaving off fleecelined underwear. — B.S.

I pass your experience along to those who may benefit by it. My guess is that you happened to be allergic to something in the fleecel or the fabric.

Not all itching comes from the same cause, and therefore it can't all be cured the same way.

PAUL HARVEY

Taking Hold

The most acute threat to our survival as a nation is not the Communists dropping the sky on us, not the home-grown criminals moving in on us, not pollution — which eventually could suffocate or strangle us.

Those problems could all be resolved and our nation go down if our money rots out from under us.

Inflation is a malignancy. Your dollar has cancer. But if it's not curable, it is beginning to appear controllable. Give Mr. Nixon his due: The brakes are taking hold.

In 1969 the cost of living was soaring — your money was shrinking — 8 per cent per year. In 1970, 6 1/2 per cent. In 1971 your dollar continues to shrink but presently at an annual rate of only 2.7 per cent. We can live with that.

Two things have happened to retard the growth of this cancer.

The recent recession pruned from industry payrolls a lot of unproductive people and prodded the remainder to increased effort.

More output per man tends to hold prices down.

When each man produces more gizmos, each gizmo costs less.

Also, our phase-out of Vietnam is reducing our dollar drain in that direction to half what it was. Last year almost $18 billion went thataway; this year $13 billion; next year less than $9 billion.

President Nixon anticipates some further ups and dips but he's confident the roller-coaster ride will be less hair-raising from here on.

Let the record read that his judgment prevailed against that of a lot of so-called "experts."

Less than six months ago economist Elliot Janeway said Nixon policies would "work in reverse," would "worsen inflation."

He's wishing I had not remembered that quote.

Nixon praised for "Salute to Agriculture Day" event

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The head of the nation's largest general farm organization today commended President Nixon's "Salute to Agriculture Day" and expressed the hope it means a recommitment by the administration to the market system as the best way to improve not farm income.

"Friday's program properly recognized agriculture as a growth industry and as an important contributor to our national economy," William J. Kuhfuss, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said. Kuhfuss attended the "Salute to Agriculture Day" at the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the White House.

"If agriculture is to be a full partner in America's competitive enterprise system, government farm-policies must place greater reliance on the market system instead of requiring farmers and ranchers to depend on federal subsidies for a substantial part of their income," Kuhfuss said.

The national farm leader said he was encouraged by President Nixon's May 2 radio address on agriculture in which he said in part, "...we are continuing our search for better methods — of maximizing our receipt of farm income from the market. After all, some 60 per cent of farm income comes from commodities that are not price supported and have not been supported in the past. Moreover, the major supported commodities are now selling well above loan levels. It seems to me that the brightest future for agriculture lies in actions that stimulate new energy in the free market system."

Kuhfuss said Farm Bureau supported the President's annual farm export goal of $10 billion, and his promise to "continue efforts to lower trading barriers to our farm exports around the world."

Kuhfuss said his own personal observations on foreign trade missions coincided with the President's expressed opinion "that American agriculture can compete successfully whenever it has a chance."

"It was heartening to hear the President say that 'this administration can work closely with farmers, with farm organizations, and with the Congress to serve agricultural America more effectively,' and '...resolve difficult issues involved in pesticide control, farm labor, farm bargaining legislation, other complex matters, as well as the many aspects of other national policies that bear directly on the lives of farmers.'"

"President Nixon was correct in recognizing today's 'high cost of farming' as 'over two-thirds of agriculture's gross income goes right back out again to pay for farm expenses.'"

"Farm Bureau is committed to the fight against inflation. President Nixon accurately pointed out that 'inflation hits farmers in two ways. It drives up both the cost of farming and the cost of living.'"

The United States acre yield for wheat has doubled since 1930, from 14 to 28 bushels.

Sheep-producer referendum set

SALT LAKE CITY — A nationwide sheep producer referendum has been called for June 7-18 by U.S. Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin.

The referendum, conducted by mail ballot, will decide whether or not the sheep industry wants to continue promotion of its products through the American Sheep Producers Council.

For approval, this promotion program for lamb and wool requires a "yes" vote by more than two-thirds of the individual producers voting, or producers owning more than two-thirds of the sheep represented in the referendum by those voting.

With sheep raised in almost 3,000 counties in the U.S., the national referendum will reflect the desires of almost every sheepman in the nation. All sheep producers and feeders are eligible to vote if they have owned sheep or lambs, six months of age, or older, for any one period of at least 30 days since Jan. 1, 1971.

During four past referendums — 1955, 1959, 1963 and 1966 — sheepmen have expressed overwhelming approval of the ASPC's promotion program, and the majority supporting this self-help program has increased with each referendum.

Sheepmen contribute to the promotion program through a deduction from their incentive payment on wool. The incentive payments amount to 1 1/2 cents for each pound of shorn wool and 7 1/2 cents for each 100 pounds of unshorn lamb. This gives an equitable distribution of contributions from all sheep producers according to the size of their operation.

'Cool' pigs eat, gain better

CHICAGO — The pig that "keeps his cool" eats better and gets more food from what he eats, agricultural engineers were reminded in a session on hog and dairy housing systems at the meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers in Chicago.

It takes very little water sprayed on pigs to cause significant increases in rate of gain and improvement in feed conversion, if the spraying operation is properly controlled, according to a study of four researchers.

Results of the study by S.R. Morrison, associate professor of agricultural engineering; H. Heltman Jr., professor of animal science, and R.L. Givens, USDA agricultural engineer, all University of California, and T. E. Bond, research investigations leader for the USDA at Clay Center, Neb., showed the "spray application of only .09 gallon of water per pig resulted in a significant increase in rate of gain and improvement in feed conversion" under the conditions of the test.

The tests were conducted at Davis, Calif., for 70 days from July to September both in 1969 and 1970. Seven pigs in one pen were sprayed for one minute every hour and seven in another for one minute every 30 minutes, when temperatures were above 70 degrees.

In two other pens, seven were sprinkled for one minute every hour and another seven for one minute every 30 minutes beginning when the temperature reached 85 degrees.

A fifth pen of seven pigs, the control group, was not sprinkled.

"It was found that one minute of sprinkling was sufficient to wet all of the pigs to the point where water was running off them," the study showed.

"Sprinkling appeared to influence the pigs' eating habits," the four researchers said.

"Wetting enabled pigs to eat during the hottest part of the day, whereas unsprinkled pigs were rarely at the feeders then."

Operation of the sprinklers beginning when the temperature reached 70 degrees gave "highly significantly better results" than when the sprinkling began with temperatures above 85 degrees, the study showed, and operation at 60-minute intervals was significantly better than the 30-minute intervals.

The better results with a 60-minute rather than a 30-minute interval were perhaps because the "initial evaporation after sprinkling is from the outer walls and surface by the air rather than the body."

Later during the period, the four researchers said, water in intimate contact with the skin is being evaporated, with most of the heat of evaporation supplied by the body.

This stage is not reached if sprinkling is too frequent.

Agriculturalists plagued by animal waste disposal problem

NEW HOLLAND, Pa. — For years, the farmer and his manure spreader have been the brunt of many a joke from non-farm people. But manure is not a joke to farmers, nor to suburbanites who have moved in close to farms. In fact, animal waste disposal is becoming the number one problem of farms and feedlots across the continent.

The increasing number of agricultural engineers, ecologists, soil men and crop men who have considered the problem in recent years agree it is becoming one of the most serious problems in agriculture. These experts predict the problem of disposing of waste will become even more serious in the coming decade because of several recognizable trends. These include the increasing squeeze on farmers as suburbs expand into farmland and non-farm people seek a home by the road in the country.

Also adding to the problem is the increase in livestock numbers needed to feed a growing population, the increase in size of individual livestock and poultry operations, coupled with the trend toward confinement housing.

There is also a gradual decrease, in many areas, of easily available crop and pasture acreage where manure can be spread efficiently throughout the year, and increasing the use of commercial fertilizers that can supply most of the major plant nutrients, which farmers once depended on manure to provide.

In short, there will be more waste produced as a result of increased livestock production and less land on which to dispose of it. Agriculture researchers across North America have been studying the problem and have come up with some interesting observations, if no clear cut solutions.

Odors and possible pollution problems from animal wastes have become so prevalent in some areas where farms, towns and suburbs intermingle, that teams of experts have joined forces to help farmers find a solution.

Near Plainfield, N.J., wastes from a huge 2,300-cow dairy operation, formerly dehydrated and sold as garden soil conditioner, have triggered protests about odors from new home owners in the area. No less than 23 local, state, federal and private agencies are concentrating on the problem, with Rutgers University providing a research task force under the leadership of agricultural engineer Harry Besley. Their findings and recommendations will provide some additional answers for nearly every dairy and livestock operation in the populous states.

In Canada, L.R. Weber and Tom Lane of the University of Guelph in Ontario have done some work in determining the acreage needed to handle manure from various farming operations.

In studying the manure output of various poultry, swine, dairy and cattle feeding installations, Lane and Weber have calculated maximum crop utilization of manure.

For instance, the pair found that for maximum crop utilization of the manure from a 100,000-capacity broiler operation during a 10-week period, 100 acres of corn land is needed for spreading. In further study the Canadians found similar acreage is needed for a 365-day operation of 10,000 layers, 1,000 hogs, 200 feeders or 100 dairy cattle.

A variety of other studies is under way to find how to best handle the growing mountain of animal waste from large centralized livestock operations.

Along with pits, lagoons, tanks, and the like, the researchers are working on methods for composting the solids and injecting the liquids into the soil by various means. Some of the engineers and soil men have figured out how to handle and distribute them through irrigation channels and sprinklers.

But J.D. Bickie, Ohio state extension engineer, cautions not to sell the manure spreader short. He, along with most other extension people, think it will be used on farms for quite some time.

Researchers at the University of Delaware agree. They found manure spread from barns and feedlots, not only improves the tilth of the soil, it also reduces the amount of fertilizer needed on the sandy soils of their state, and increases nutrient availability to plants.

Equipment manufacturers are giving some of the answers to help farmers satisfy complaints of their rural non-farm neighbors. Engineers at New Holland, the farm equipment division of Sperry Rand Corporation, have developed a spreader equipped with special rubber seals on the bottom and sides of the engauge to keep manure in the spreader when traveling to and between fields. The design not only keeps roads and highways clean; it saves the farmer money by eliminating loss of manure.

At the University of Wisconsin, a three-man team of agricultural engineers studied the cost advantages and disadvantages of three different methods of handling manure from stall barns and free stall housing.

In Kentucky, livestock grown in the state produces a mountain of manure — about 18 million tons. Based on its nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium content, University of Kentucky researchers estimate its potential value at more than $47 million.

Half or more of this accumulates in barns, feedlots and loafing areas, the researchers say. If manure can't be spread frequently, light-walled manure pits, deep, well-packed piles with straight sides should be used. Where spreading is done infrequently, they recommend plowing or disking the manure into the soil immediately after it is spread. This will also help cut nutrient losses sharply, researchers point out.

Stanley Witzel, University of Wisconsin agricultural engineer, says the growing need for modern structures and methods for animal manure storage could further raise dairymen's already rich cost of operation. He thinks this is an unfair burden to place entirely on the shoulders of the farmer, and advocates government cost sharing and a unified approach to the pollution problem by industry, government, urban groups and agriculture.

Witzel proposes the government help farmers with the waste storage problem in much the same way it shares the cost of dams, terraces, ditches, special cropping methods and other soil and water conservation structures and practices.

A step in this direction already has been taken in Deaf Smith County. There the county

A Lovelier You FOLLOW THE BOUNCING BALL

By Mary Sue Miller

Following the bouncing ball at a movie songfest is a snap compared to keeping track of summer's upsy-downsy skirt lengths. Or so mall readers reveal.

The ladies can't seem to settle on where to turn the hemline. Well, you don't have to "settle." Hems bounce up and down with the time of day, the locale and the leg. Here's the way it averages out:

Lengths fall to just below the knee for day. Coats and capes finish a few inches longer — at the top of the lower line of the calf. A few raincoats drop to the ankles, but not as many as once wins.

The rumor about the revival of minis is way out. Only a few designers show them and then only one or two in beach and tennis dresses. Rather abbreviations occur in hotpants which more often than not go under cover of a midi skirt. It is safe to turn separate skirts from calf to knee.

Evening lengths swish from below knee to ankle to floor. The line is often uneven — handkerchief points, scallops and the like.

Chacun a son gout! Be guided by your taste and what's flattering. Knee lengths are generally becoming; a calf length should be turned at the most flattering spot. A half-inch can make the difference between a graceful and an awkward line. It takes a pretty foot and ankle to wear ankle skirtings. Go higher or lower if trim looks are the stake.

This go-round, it's purply up to you.

news about the people you know

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: This is my first letter to a column: How should one react to the news that their friends have had an "abnormal" child? I think I can answer that because we had one. We were lucky enough to be told immediately of our baby's condition, and did not have the agony of the slow realization that "something was wrong."

Feeling it best, to face the problem, we freely told our friends and relatives about our "special" child. Altho we knew very little about what to expect, he was our baby and we knew we wanted to keep him with us. He is now a lovable, mischievous 11-year-old Mongoloid, going to a special school, and we have never regretted our decision.

Perhaps "congratulations" are not in order, but to ignore the presence of a new baby in a home, when you would normally express interest in, I think, cruel. To this day I remember the pleasure I felt when someone came to see our baby, to hold him, and to let me talk about him.

One of the burdens a mother of a retarded child has is not having anyone with whom to compare notes about her child's progress. Every tiny gain has a tremendous important meaning for the mother of a handicapped child.

So, do acknowledge the birth of a special child. Or send a little gift. Or send flowers to the mother. Continue to show an interest (not curiosity), and encourage the parents to get in touch with their local society for retarded children for help with mutual problems. It will be rewarded with much love, affection and gratitude.

—EDITH

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote asking you if they should send a gift, or a card of "congratulations" to a mother who has given birth to a Mongoloid child. Thank you for saying, "By all means, yes. To a mother, a child is a child."

I know your advice was sound because I had a Mongoloid son. Friends called. They stopped by. They even gave me a surprise baby shower when he was a month old. Here is the message on one card which meant so much to me:

"God gave this child to you to guide,
To love, to walk thru life beside.
A little child so full of charms,
To fill a pair of loving arms.
God picked you out because He knew
How safe His child would be with you."
God bless friends like that.

—MRS. C. B.: BEACON, N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to the person who wanted to know if she should acknowledge the birth of a Mongoloid child, or out of kindness ignore the "tragedy."

I will always be grateful to friends who sent cards and gave us the feeling of "normalcy" when our Mongoloid son was born. He is now a happy 6-year-old, and a great source of joy to us. He goes everywhere with us, and is so full of love, we wouldn't trade him for any other child in the world.

Not all Mongoloid children are severely retarded. No one knows at the time of his birth what his potential will be if given a chance. He deserves better than to be written off as a "tragedy." An investment of love and care and a little work can be returned tenfold.

There are organizations all over the country to guide and counsel parents who share this experience. Anyone interested may write to The Mongoloid Development Council, 1810 S. 31st Street, Kansas City, Kas. 66106. —RUSTY'S MOTHER

New requirements issued for sugar beet producers

TWIN FALLS — Farmers participating in Sugar Act payments this year must meet new wage compliance requirements, Kenneth Poe, explained to members of the Twin Falls Pomona Grange in a meeting Saturday night in the Buhl Grange Hall.

He said sugar beet producers have been issued new requirements with "piece work" rates now ranging from 50 cents to $1.50 higher and hourly wages up 10 cents per hour to a minimum of $1.85 per hour this year.

Poe told sugar beet growers the law makes them responsible for keeping wage records on individual workers whether they are directly employed by the grower or are furnished by a labor contractor, crew leader or work as a family group. Records must be kept for three years and this year workers are to be furnished a statement of earnings at the end of their work period, Poe explained.

In other business, Pomona Grange members heard a report from J. B. Christy, Buhl, concerning preserving the old Perrine Bridge as a historical

Mortgage rates hit low point

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Preston Martin of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board advised prospective home-owners Monday to buy now because mortgage rates aren't likely to continue their decline.

Many families, said Martin in an interview, have been waiting for money costs to drop before buying a home—and that time has now arrived.

"Now's the time to buy," he said. "... rates don't look like they'll fall much farther."

Martin, whose agency regulates some 4,500 savings and loan institutions which supply much of the home mortgage money, said a nationwide survey showed that interest rates are about 7.25 per cent for a house. A year ago, they were 8.5 per cent or higher.

The current rate level, Martin predicted, would remain stationary for awhile, but he declined to estimate for how long. At any rate, he said, the rates are not expected to reverse their trend and climb as they did in the last decade.

Martin said there was a tremendous inflow of money into savings institutions between January and March of this year during which their accounts gained by a record $7.4 billion.

"They've got money to lend," he said. "That's one reason why we feel rates won't go up."

Also, he said, the Home Loan Bank Board intends to keep pumping money into savings and loans institutions to keep money rates low. "We'll make sure there's a hell of a lot of money around," Martin said.

He also reported that small builders, who had been aching away from the housing field because of high interest rates, are now resuming home construction.

Through a series of regional banks, the Home Loan Bank Board makes loans to lenders as a means of ensuring the availability of mortgage money. This also tends to prevent increases in the interest rate.

Wyoming to lose airlines

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — A vice president of American Airlines said Monday there was no possibility of Frontier Airlines taking over Wyoming service when his company and Western Airlines merge.

Charles Strickler said Frontier had applied to the Civil Aeronautics Board for the Wyoming flights, but he said the motion had been denied.

"We have gone on record as opposing the motion of Frontier and will continue to oppose this motion," Strickler said.

He also said when American did absorb Western, an extra flight will be added that would pass through Casper on to Salt Lake City and the West Coast.

Western Airlines director of market planning, Hugh Early, said his airline was merging from a position of strength.

"We see the opportunity to strengthen our position in the air transportation industry," he said. "We will continue to provide Wyoming with good air service."

The statements by both men came after a meeting with representatives of Casper, Sheridan, Choyenue, the Wyoming Aeronautics Board and Gov. Stanley Hathaway. The three cities are the only ones in the state served by Western.

Hathaway said he could not speak for the three cities, but he said he felt generally they would be in favor of the move.

Hathaway said with the merger, he hoped to see improved north-south and east-west transportation in the state.

The hearings on the merger will begin June 8 before the Civil Aeronautics Board. Strickler said there had been no government opposition to the merger thus far.

He also said the primary reason for the merger was to give American access to its Hawaiian market from the Western States. It presently has no outlet in California or the mountain states, particularly Denver.

Last year, Western was third of eight in the Hawaiian market and, first during the summer months. American will still be the second largest airline in the U.S. behind United.

Strickler said if approved, the merger should be complete by the spring of 1972.

Boy Scouts take interest in ecology

NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — Going to the dumps should be a last resort, if the Boy Scouts of America have any influence in calling attention to the drain on America's natural resources and to environmental problems.

Scouting has instituted a major conservation service program for 1971, SOAR (Save Our American Resources). Attention will be focused on the need for recycling solid waste, the sort of material that the centuries has ended in local dumps.

More than 6 million Scouts and their leaders will observe Scouting Keep America Beautiful Day on June 5. One objective is to win greater attention to the idea that re-use of solid materials in trash is not only a partial solution to the solid waste problem, but a major step toward avoiding depletion of the nation's natural resources.

On KAB Day, those involved in the project will walk along streets, highways, streams, parks and other recreational areas picking up litter of all kinds in the country's most massive cleanup campaign. Efforts will be made to recycle as much of the trash as possible by separating glass, aluminum, steel and other materials that can be reprocessed and then re-used.

Conservation of natural resources is an important aspect of the recycling efforts.

The special collectors coins will have about 40 per cent silver and are being minted in hopes of keeping numismatists from snapping up all the new coins intended for general circulation.

The Mint will be working on the collectors sets for some time and there is as yet no scheduled date for the first minting of the cupro-nickel dollars for general circulation.

The silver dollars minted before 1935 contained 90 per cent silver and 10 per cent copper.

Unkissable 'queen'

KENNETH BENSON, 22, is undoubtedly the fuzziest "Carnival Queen" ever elected at Southern Methodist University in Milwaukee. The bearded student, named the school's first male "queen," says he may consider running for the Homecoming Queen's title this fall. He said he entered the carnival competition as a write-in candidate because he thought the affair was outdated. (UPI)

Senator voices youth concern

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William E. Brock III, R-Tenn., is telling listeners that President Nixon can win a majority of new young voters in 1972 through emphasis on issues of interest to voters in all age brackets.

Brock, a pragmatic conservative elected from the House to the Senate last year three weeks before his 40th birthday, has a special concern for the youth vote.

He organized 23 fellow Republicans in the House in 1969 to visit 50 colleges for talk sessions to search for the causes of campus unrest. The group's report to the President recommended lowering the voting age to 18 and other steps to cool student discontent.

"This generation is pleading for maximum individual freedom and responsibility," Brock told a reporter. "They see enormous growth in government as a threat to individual freedom."

"No President in 40 years has matched the record of this one to make government more responsive."

He referred specifically to Nixon Administration proposals for government reforms and cabinet reorganization and for sharing revenue to strengthen state and local government.

Brock also said U.S. troops would be out of Vietnam before the 1972 election, fulfilling the Presidential commitment to end the war, and meeting an issue of basic concern to youth.

And with all the optimism of Administration spokesmen, he foresaw "full employment with a vibrant economy" by then.

"The President will be able to run on a peace and prosperity theme," he said. He expressed hope that, whatever the national Republican organization does to persuade young people to vote for the GOP, it will "recognize that most youths are neither radical nor revolutionary."

"They are concerned and want a chance for meaningful involvement," he said. "That means more than stuffing envelopes."

Nixon faces dilemma in fostering Chinese trade

By STEWART HENSLEY, UPI Diplomatic Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is walking a diplomatic tightrope in his effort to improve relations with Communist China without incurring the displeasure of the Soviet Union.

The continuing ideological and geographical dispute between China and Russia causes each to be suspicious of any evidence of collaboration by the other with the United States.

Nixon fears that if he appears to be moving too fast in his effort to snuggle up to Peking, this may damage prospects for reaching agreements with the Kremlin on such major issues as limitation of strategic nuclear weapons and a better agreement on access to Red-encircled West Berlin.

That was the reason for his recent statement concerning better relations with Peking, "progress is not helped in this sensitive area by speculation that goes beyond what the progress might achieve."

It also was why he ordered all government spokesmen to avoid any statement that might give the impression the United States considered better relations with China a potential lever against Russia.

The difficulty Nixon faces in this respect was pointed up in an official Soviet radio commentary late last week. The Russian speaker said Peking was trying to sabotage efforts of Russia and other Communist countries to help the Viet Cong and added: "It is common knowledge that the policymakers of U.S. imperialism have planned their hopes on the Chinese leaders."

Late last year he made specific overtures through the Rumanian, French and Pakistani governments to try to convince Peking of his good faith. This led to a breakthrough on the people-to-people level, but the Chinese government has made it clear it will be a long slow process to real breakthrough at the official level.

"It requires an effort of imagination for the London commuter who enjoys being bullied by his wife to go and dig the garden when he returns on a winter evening from his office to realize what it means to a Glen (Highland Valley) farmer in my constituency to have to send his small children off on the long journey to school an hour and a half before dawn," Bruce-Gardyne said during the campaign.

Finally the issue was brought to debate in the House of Commons. On a free (non-party) vote, the House decided the BST experiment had produced more cons than pros. And so, at midnight, Oct. 31, the clocks will be turned back one hour to the famous Greenwich Mean Time.

The anti-BST lobby, predominantly Scottish, worked feverishly, wooing organizations as diverse as the Girl Guides Association and the Federation of British Kipperers, herring merchants and herring trade quick freezers.

The Scots argued that the only genuine beneficiaries of BST were telephone-happy businessmen, while Scottish school children faced greater perils on the roads.

The Russian speaker said Peking was trying to sabotage efforts of Russia and other Communist countries to help the Viet Cong and added: "It is common knowledge that the policymakers of U.S. imperialism have planned their hopes on the Chinese leaders."

Late last year he made specific overtures through the Rumanian, French and Pakistani governments to try to convince Peking of his good faith. This led to a breakthrough on the people-to-people level, but the Chinese government has made it clear it will be a long slow process to real breakthrough at the official level.

"It requires an effort of imagination for the London commuter who enjoys being bullied by his wife to go and dig the garden when he returns on a winter evening from his office to realize what it means to a Glen (Highland Valley) farmer in my constituency to have to send his small children off on the long journey to school an hour and a half before dawn," Bruce-Gardyne said during the campaign.

Finally the issue was brought to debate in the House of Commons. On a free (non-party) vote, the House decided the BST experiment had produced more cons than pros. And so, at midnight, Oct. 31, the clocks will be turned back one hour to the famous Greenwich Mean Time.

The anti-BST lobby, predominantly Scottish, worked feverishly, wooing organizations as diverse as the Girl Guides Association and the Federation of British Kipperers, herring merchants and herring trade quick freezers.

The Scots argued that the only genuine beneficiaries of BST were telephone-happy businessmen, while Scottish school children faced greater perils on the roads.

avoid any statement that might give the impression the United States considered better relations with China a potential lever against Russia.

The difficulty Nixon faces in this respect was pointed up in an official Soviet radio commentary late last week. The Russian speaker said Peking was trying to sabotage efforts of Russia and other Communist countries to help the Viet Cong and added: "It is common knowledge that the policymakers of U.S. imperialism have planned their hopes on the Chinese leaders."

Pastor favors nudity

TREWSOWES, England (UPI) — The neighbors don't like it but the Rev. Charles Roach smiles with approval as men and women frolic in the nude together in his swimming pool.

Roach, 62, drew the neighbors' ire when he sent out brochures advertising a pool he owns in this quiet hamlet in the south of England as an "enclosure which affords complete privacy where bathers may dispense with their costumes (bathing suits) if they so desire."

Since the brochures went out last month, the Anglican clergyman has been doing a brisk business renting the pool to nudists and tourists in general who prefer to swim together in the altogether.

"I have been called a filthy beggar by one of my neighbors because of the fact I allow nude bathing in my pool," he said. "The person must have a warped mind."

"There is nothing evil about the naked body — it can be a very beautiful thing," he said.

He also said the primary reason for the merger was to give American access to its Hawaiian market from the Western States. It presently has no outlet in California or the mountain states, particularly Denver.

Last year, Western was third of eight in the Hawaiian market and, first during the summer months. American will still be the second largest airline in the U.S. behind United.

Strickler said if approved, the merger should be complete by the spring of 1972.

Minico board freezes teachers' increments

RUPERT — A freeze was placed on the increments given to members of the Mindoko County School District's certified staff, other than principals.

This action was taken by the district's school board at its meeting Monday evening.

The board decided the principals will get the same increment as proposed on the board's teachers pay schedule if the teachers get a pay raise.

In other action the board: — Heard a request from Earl Griffin to approve the district's industrial art curriculum at the junior high schools and high school.

Griffin told the board the industrial arts course in Idaho is only an exploratory course. It lets the students see if he likes any of the many careers available, he said.

This program is wood oriented at present, he said. "I think we need to broaden the curriculum to include plastics, electricity and metal courses in the industrial arts curriculum."

In the high school, he said, unless the district spends money in the electricity and woodworking programs it's not doing the job it's suppose to. He also reminded the board that less than one-half of the district students go to college. Yet the curriculum is academically oriented, he said. "We're not doing justice to the youths. We can do more for the students."

In the junior high schools a minimum of $1,000 should be spent in each school on industrial arts curriculum, he said. In the high school, $2,000 needs to be spent on electricity curriculum and $2,000 on woodworking.

The junior high schools need equipment to let the students learn a trade, he said.

When asked by the board

what he recommended, he said, "The first semester, have industrial arts students divided up between plastics, lapidary and leather. Then have nine weeks of electricity, welding and woodwork. Between $300 and $400 in each school could set up a good basic electricity course."

"More could be touched with a broadened base in the junior high schools. This will help them in the high school. If we can continue to correlate as we did last year, we could continue to make gains in this area," he said.

Supt. Camden Meyer told the board, "I know the teachers in this department can handle an expanded program. We're going in the right direction. Now we have to spend some money each year in this field."

Board member Nille Maricic said, "I'd like to see some long range plans done on this area."

This matter was taken under advisement by the board.

Authorized the district to borrow $50,000 to pay the bills and another short-term loan of $150,000 for payroll from First National Bank at 3.5 per cent interest.

These loans would be paid back by anticipated tax receipts.

Jordan backs plans

TWIN FALLS — Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, said here Monday that prospects are good that Congress will approve the long-delayed Salmon Falls Reclamation Development in Twin Falls County.

But the Senator was less optimistic on the prospects for funding the project.

"I think it will be approved on the Senate side," he told the Times-News. "We expect to get it through the House."

But funding prospects were less promising. "It may take some time to fund it when we've got this business of a $17-18 billion deficit," he said.

He said the fact that the project was not entirely intended to bring water to new land instead of adding supplemental water to land already under cultivation could hurt the project's chances in the funding squeeze.

He said he had asked hearings on the project be postponed last year when it became apparent that the Bureau of the Budget would present testimony critical of certain aspects of the project.

He said the hearings were rescheduled for June 9 after the Budget Bureau expressed satisfaction that the project was sound.

The $47 million project would irrigate about 64,000 acres of land in Twin Falls and Cassia counties. About three fourths of the land affected would obtain additional water supplies of water while the remaining fourth would receive water for the first time.

Annual benefits were estimated at about $5 million a year.

KIMBERLY — Janet Lee Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Murphy, is valedictorian of the Kimberly High School, and Julie Hove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hove, is salutatorian.

Miss Murphy was homecoming queen and has been a member of the high school drill team, Pep Club, girls' track team and attended the Youth Legislature in Boise. She was secretary-treasurer of her sophomore class, is active in Job's Daughters, Bethel, No. 43, Twin Falls, and plans to attend Idaho State University, Pocatello, this fall and major in education.

Miss Hove was elected as a forum member to the student council in her sophomore year and was vice president of the band this year. She has been active in the Methodist Church youth groups, belongs to Job's Daughters, Bethel, No. 43, and plans to major in special education at Boise State College.

Budget hike approved

By JERRY HERRMANN
Times-News Writer

RUPERT — Mindoko School trustees approved a budget containing a 17 per cent increase in district spending for next year following a public hearing at which patrons questioned district salaries.

The budget calls for a general fund spending of $2.76 million, compared to $2.35 million in the current year.

The mill levy would remain at 47.77 mills if the district voters approve a five mill migrant levy on May 25.

At the public hearing most of the patrons' concern centered on salaries.

There wasn't a salary in the budget that wasn't questioned. Critics started off on the administration salaries and went on through to the custodians and bus drivers.

Some of the people at the hearing were surprised to find out the cooks weren't going to get a pay raise this year.

Also the patrons questioned the "other expenses" category in the budget. They seemed surprised to find out the federal and state governments required these categories and not a full breakdown of expenses.

The patrons at the hearing also were informed that the teachers and other district staff wouldn't get a raise this year unless the five-mill migrant levy was passed.

It was also pointed out that only a part of the five mill levy will go toward the salary increases.

Some of those attending wanted a merit system used for paying the teachers. They felt this would get the good teachers, pay for their work and tend to weed out the poor teachers.

There also were some questions asked as to why with a teachers surplus the district was keeping teachers on who didn't have a degree. Meyer said most of the 17 teachers in the district without a degree fall in the three-year category and have a lifetime teaching certificate.

"The only way they can be fired is for incompetency," he said. The board also was queried about what decision had been made on starting time for school next year.

Dean Spreler, board chairman said, "We have been discussing the one-bus run vs. the two-bus run system as we now have. So far, the board favors one bus run."

"This may mean we have to go to a six or seven hour day," he said. "However, the cost of one run vs. two run system hasn't been found."

He admitted that a one bus run system would mean the district would need more buses, but would save money on less mileage.

Meyer said by using the buses more frequently, other districts have shown this is the cheapest route.

"It looks like the cost of drivers and gasoline for a one or two bus run would be about the same. Also, if the district goes to a one bus run, it will need 12 additional buses," Meyer said.

"Right now the district has about the cheapest cost per student in the state for operating its buses," he said.

One of the mothers in the audience said that since the high school and grade school children were going to school separately there have been fewer problems on the buses.

Camas OK's tax increase

FAIRFIELD — A five mill increase in the maintenance and operation levy for the Camas County School District was approved 213-55 by voters in the district Monday.

The levy will finance an increase of $11,000 in the district's maintenance and operation budget for 1971-72. The total mill levy increase is from 33.5 to 38.5 mills.

Supt. Harold Stroud said the maintenance and operation fund is up from $177,225 to $188,528 and the total budget is up from $204,065 to $233,001.

Stroud said the increase includes a bonded indebtedness payment which is up from $12,160 to $30,493.

He said the increase in the bond indebtedness fund will be paid with excess funds which have accumulated in that fund. The large payment will be the last to be made on the consolidated district's gymnasium, built in 1952.

Stroud said the bonds had not been scheduled to be paid off until next year and the early payment will save taxpayers of the district about $1,000 in interest.

In the Hill City trustee district, Norman Tate, Corral farmer, was elected to the school board. Running unopposed, he received 43 votes. Zane Harrison, Hill City, incumbent, received 26 votes resulting from a last-minute write-in campaign. Frank Wolfe, Corral, received 1 write-in vote.

On Monday evening, the school board met and approved the budget for 1971-72 and also hired Eugene Sullivan, Iowa City, Iowa, as mathematics and science teacher in Camas County High School.

Chairman returned in Cassia

BURLEY — Incumbent trustee and school board chairman, W.B. Whitley, Oakley, defeated his opponent Gerald Conrad in a heavily contested election here Monday to return to the school board for at least another year.

The total vote was 388 for Whitley and 181 for Conrad with Whitley winning in the Oakley district 347 to 135 and Conrad taking the majority of the votes in the smaller district of Milner 44 to 3 and in the Burley district, 135 to 38.

In the second trustee district, Norval Wildman was elected with 81 votes. He ran unopposed but a write-in candidate, Bill Matthews polled five votes.

Voters of the entire district approved a special five mill levy with a total of 785 yes votes to 111 no votes or 87.6 per cent approval. The levy will be used for maintenance and operation of the district and is beyond the regular 30 mill maximum authorized by law without a special election.

In a school board meeting Monday night, trustees approved the election results as official and also voted to adopt the school budget for 1971-72 in the amount of $2,496 million. This is an increase of 5.7 per cent over the $2.36 million last year.

Board members proposed a new trustee district boundary system and set June 7 as the date for a district wide election to approve the new boundaries. In March, voters of the district turned down a proposal on a special ballot. Trustees revised the boundaries to represent a true and equal population division of not more than five per cent variance based on the 1970 census, Whitley said.

If the new boundary system is approved by voters in June, the trustees elected Monday will represent the various trustee districts for one year. On June 12, 1972, all will be up for election in a district wide trustee election for representation from the newly established district areas, the chairman said.

Board members discussed a payroll computer and authorized purchase of such equipment. Board Chairman Whitley said over a period of years it will represent a saving to the district.

Plans for the routine summer maintenance program were discussed and Superintendent Harold Blauer was authorized to prepare a list of needs at the various schools including paving of parking lots and driveways and to itemize anticipated costs.

Summer school schedules were also discussed and the superintendent asked to select class topics and set fees.

2 Rupert hopefuls withdraw

RUPERT — Two candidates — both Rupert businessmen — seeking posts on the Mindoko County "district" school board have withdrawn from the race.

The announcement of the two men dropping out of the race was made at the school board meeting Monday night.

Glyde Wilcox, Rupert businessman, who was seeking the post now held by Leo Moore in Zone 1, has withdrawn, leaving Moore unopposed.

Ferrell Catmull, also Rupert businessman, who was running for the seat in Zone 3 held by David Spreler, also has withdrawn. Spreler is still opposed by Mrs. Fern Hunter, business manager for the Mindoko News.

Moore is the only one of the five trustees who does not have an opponent. The other four board members each have one opponent.

All five board members are up for election because of the recent re-zoning ordered by the county court.

Artist gets special gift

BLISS — Nationally renowned artist, Archie B. Teater of Hagerman Valley was back at his studio here Tuesday afternoon what he termed an "overwhelming" 70th birthday anniversary highlighted by a special gift from Gov. Cecil Andrus of Idaho.

The birthday anniversary celebration held during the past weekend at the Rodeway Inn in Boise, featured a benefit art exhibit by Teater for the newly created Archie B. Teater Handicapped Children's Fund. All proceeds from the exhibit and the sale of a large painting, still being negotiated, will go to the fund for handicapped children.

Gov. Andrus presented the state's highest award to be bestowed on a citizen Saturday night during a special party honoring the Idaho artist and his wife, Patricia Teater. The award is a silver replica of the state seal and is about one foot in diameter. This is the first time Gov. Andrus has presented the award since his election and he said while it has no official name he refers to it as the governor's Distinguished Citizen Award.

In addition to the governor, many distinguished guests who honored Teater on his 70th anniversary were Mrs. Frank Church, wife of Idaho's senior senator; Dr. Worth Clark, former congressman; Louise Shaddock, former head of the Department of Commerce and Development, now with U.S. Congressman Orval Hansen; Albert Carlson, president of Idaho Power, and friends of the couple from Wyoming, Italy, Canada and throughout Idaho. Former Gov. and Mrs. Robert Smylie also attended.

Teater announced plans to continue the fund program for the handicapped children of Idaho as an annual event.

Koopman re-elected

HAGERMAN — Louis Koopman was elected unopposed in the Hagerman School District election Monday. He received 22 votes for the seat in Zone 5.

Koopman will replace Oscar Anderson, who did not seek re-election. Five write in votes were cast for Ralph Sullivan and one for Kenneth Hulme.

Fight fair

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — The Boone County Extension Center is sponsoring a short course for married couples in the area. The course, consisting of five one-week classes, is called: "Fighting Fair in Love and Marriage."

Hansen voters turn down levy

HANSEN — The 2.5 mill school plant facilities fund levy for the Hansen School District was defeated by district voters Monday.

According to Supt. William C. Barnard, the vote was 47 yes and 41 no on the issue of $3.4 per cent for the measure. He said that a two-thirds majority was needed for it to pass.

Robert Pettigrove, chairman of the school board, said that the defeat of the school plant facilities fund was a great disappointment to the school board.

"The half mill increase over previous levies is hardly enough to keep up with ever-increasing costs," he said.

Just as the 3 mill maintenance and operations levy, to be voted upon May 24, is essential to the already limited curriculum, the school plant fund is essential to the maintenance of safe, modern transportation equipment, he said.

Four years out of five, school plant money has been used to replace buses. Any money not used for this purpose has been used to bring the existing facilities up to state code, according to Pettigrove.

"The lack of this source of revenue would necessitate an ever-increasing expenditure of money needed for the educational program," he said.

Since the school plant fund is vital to the operation of the Hansen district, the question will have to be submitted to the voters again in the near future according to Pettigrove.

In other election results, incumbent trustee Everett Norris won the Zone 3 seat with 24 votes. He was unopposed.

In Zone 4, Pettigrove retained his seat with 9 votes. Gary Miller received 3 write-in votes opposing Pettigrove.

No Jerome school decision

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

JEROME — Jerome school trustees failed to reach a decision on whether to build a new school or not at a meeting Monday evening.

Discussions centered around whether or not to go ahead with preparations to build a new school or add on to the present high school gymnasium or purchase the 79 acres of land south of Fillmore Street for future development.

Vice chairman, Gordon Hollifield, told the board in his opinion the athletic and wrestling program is growing and there is an urgency to add on to the high school gymnasium at this time.

"We hired Roger Michner two years ago as athletic coordinator and at the rate the athletic program has grown, this should be our top priority. We could have the new gymnasium within two years."

Chairman Dale Vining said in his opinion the primary concern should be replacing of Lincoln School which is in the top priority of the board since has been open on the board.

He feels the board should borrow $1.6 million to construct a new high school and by replacing our students, "we could eliminate Lincoln School."

Clair Fife, school trustee, said the board should be real conservative this time and go for the addition to the gymnasium.

Gordon Hagler, trustee, said they should acquire some land to put a new building on. He felt the board should purchase a large acreage and they could in the future sell off the land they don't use for the new school.

Supt. John E. Campbell said he wants the board to establish an orderly disengagement of the Lincoln School and replace it with a new building.

After much discussion and two motions that were not seconded the board decided to have a special meeting Friday evening after the budget hearing to try and settle the issue.

Barbara Mechem, spokeswoman for the Jerome Education Association, requested a policy change in the teacher's sick leave. She said the teachers wanted an eight-day sick leave, which is state law, plus three to five days for business purposes as other schools in the valley now have.

Mrs. Mechem noted that as the policy is now, teachers can only get off without being docked in pay if they are sick.

The board took the request under advisement.

A letter from Mrs. Benson was read requesting the board wait until school is out before announcing a decision on here and Mrs. Robinson's contract.

The board agreed to do this.

A letter from David E. Wilson, vice president of the First Security Bank, explaining how the board can buy bonds for building a new school will be 10 mills per year. At the present time the board has a 10-mill levy of which only six is collected and will be paid off at the end of the 1971 taxable year.

A letter of thanks was received from A. E. Gates from the Idaho State Electrical Board, thanking them for arts and crafts room for classes this past winter.

The board approved the hiring of Mrs. Billie P. Phipps to replace Mrs. ...

Cassia residents asked to keep roadsides clean

BURLEY — Cassia County commissioners Monday issued a plea to the residents of Cassia County to keep the roadsides clean.

On Saturday during the first Johnny Horizon cleanup, about 800 people picked up about 420 tons of litter. This amount included 109 car bodies which were picked up Saturday, Jim Gabettas, Bureau of Land Management spokesman said Monday.

A total of 414 miles of road on one side or 207 miles of roads on both sides were cleaned up Saturday, he said.

"We made a real good start in cleaning up the county. And at the same time made the people aware of the problem," he said.

Gabettas also said, "Those who helped were surprised by the amount of litter on the roadside."

"A lot was accomplished by the people who participated in the cleanup project," County

Commissioner Weldon Beck said. "But the public still went out and tossed their litter right where it had been picked up Saturday morning."

"It's everybody's problem to clean it up and to keep it clean," he said.

County Commissioner John Clark said about 150 people had turned out to help clean up the road and unauthorized dumps in the Oakley area.

"Overall I thought the project was highly successful. About 40 or 50 junk cars were hauled off from the Oakley area Saturday," he said.

He also thought the people of the county had cooperated with those in the project.

"The biggest result of the cleanup project," Clark said, "was the education the people who participated got out of it."

Beck said he hoped the parents would discuss the problem of littering with their children so they will "learn to not litter the countryside."

Gabettas pointed out the county commissioners are designating new landfill areas in the county. There could be as many as 13 when they are finished, he said.

"Some of the landfill dumps are already dug and in use. Others are to be designated in the near future," he said.

In two of the areas, heavy equipment was used to clean up some of the unauthorized dumps. This was in the Marlon area near Oakley and the Jackson area, just east of Rupert, he said.

He also said the equipment was donated by government agencies on all levels, businesses and local merchants.

Commissioner Beck said the commissioners thank those who participated and those who donated men to help make this project a success.

"The real concern of the commissioners right now is to get new dump areas established so residents can use them," Gabettas said.

The commissioners also pointed out the BLM is now making up name plates for the landfills. Also, the commissioner said, there will be signs from the main highways directing people to the landfills.

By the establishments of landfill dumps throughout the county, the commissioners hope that some of the unauthorized dumping can be ended.

However, the county is looking to the city of Burley to help. They hope the city's policy of closing its dump at 5 p.m. weekdays and being closed on Saturday will change.

With this policy in effect, the working man doesn't have a chance to haul anything out to the dump; they said.

Nurses aide program starts

RUPERT — A certification nurses' aide training program began today at Minidoka Memorial Hospital for all nurses' aides already working, announces Ed Richardson, hospital administrator.

The course is sponsored by Idaho State University through cooperation of the Minidoka County School District. Mrs. Elaine Pate, Rupert, is instructor for the six-month course with classes two days per week.

Richardson said the course will be about 90 hours shorter for these nurses as they are already working as nurses' aides. This course is available only to those nurses with at least six months training and has been approved by the Idaho State Nurses Association and the Adult Vocational Education Association.

It is correlated by Roland A. Pywell, Pocatello, area supervisor of vocational education for southeast Idaho, and is serving as a pilot program for future classes throughout the state, said Richardson.

The classes will be taught from 12:45 to 2:45 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m. to give all working aides an opportunity to attend.

Additional information is available from Richardson at the Minidoka Memorial Hospital.

Trustees learn about program

RUPERT — Roger Sathre, state supervisor of distributor and cooperative education, told Minidoka School trustees Monday night that distributive education is more than "a work experience" program.

It is a program that leads to business careers and the districts are being encouraged by the Idaho Department of Education to incorporate the program into the curriculum.

Sathre said the distributive education differs from work experience programs in that it is a cooperative program. This program uses the business community and its facilities to provide education for the students, he said.

"There are some things that can be best learned in classrooms and others in the business laboratories downtown," he said.

The teacher coordinator is one who makes the program click, he said. He works with the area's businessmen and students. During the school year he acts as a go-between for the two parties.

"The cooperative education idea has been developed through the distributive education program. In it students receive pay for the work they do and credit for the course at the same time," he said.

Also, under this program, students can only work where they will learn marketing and distribution. This would be possible at an implement dealer, downtown merchant's business or other merchandising business.

In this area, an agricultural-related program would be effective as the economy is largely based on agriculture, he said.

However, students can't be given a job on the assembly line at a potato shed and qualify for this program, Sathre said. Also, he said, this program must be sold as an educational one and not one for providing the businessman with cheap labor. One of the duties of the teacher coordinator, Sathre said, is to see that the student working for the businessman is given a chance to participate in the activities found in that store or business.

To have a good program, there must be 15 to 20 students in the senior course. To assure that there will be this many, usually there will have to be about 40 students in the first year course.

"If the kids in the program aren't better than the ones businessmen can hire off the street, something is wrong with the program," he said.

Irrigation uses will deter runoff problems

By JERRY HERRMANN Times-News Writer

BURLEY — If farmers in Idaho begin to irrigate in the near future, the excessive runoff will not cause any problems.

This is part of the message that Glenn H. Simmons, Burley, superintendent of the Minidoka Project, told members of the Burley Chamber of Commerce Monday.

He said the level of the Snake River would be higher last night than it has been previously as additional 1,000 second feet of water had been turned into the Snake River.

"We passed a lot of water down the river all winter," he said. Since April, a flow of 16,000 second feet had been released from Pallaades Reservoir and a flow of 19,000 second feet has been running from the Island Park reservoir.

"The runoff this year is 10 days earlier than usual. And the rest of the state hasn't cooperated. Last week between Idaho Falls and American Falls there was only 500 second feet of water being pulled out for irrigation purposes."

He also pointed out that Jackson Lake has room for 400,000 acre feet of water and one million acre feet can still be stored in Pallaades.

"Actually we're in pretty good shape. It all depends on the type of weather we get. There is still 4.18 million acre feet of water in the hills to come down yet," he said.

He also told chamber members about some of the Bureau of Reclamation proposed projects for the Minidoka Project. The lower Teton Dam, which will be located seven miles upstream from Rexburg, is a good project, he said.

In recent testimony the bureau has replied to ecologist's charges about the proposed dam. First, he said, it showed the dam would be no threat to the Grand Teton National Park which is 20 miles away.

On the charge that a virgin trout stream would be lost, he said by having the dam built, more people would be able to use the area.

This makes up for the lost stream, he said. He also reported that bids for the drilling of five observation wells in the Oakley Fan project had passed over his desk in the past week.

These five wells will be drilled from three to 15 miles above Oakley, he said. They will be used in studies of the water table. The new farmland developed under this project can only benefit Burley, he said.

Chamber members also were informed that a project on the lower Raft River is being planned. This will be in the valleys below Malta and will provide new supplement water for 12,000-16,000 acres of land.

All of these projects, Simmons said, depend on the bureau being able to use water from the Snake River and having this water replaced by wells further along the Snake River.

Twin signs Haynes as new basketball coach

Twin Falls high school went the complete circle in basketball Monday night with the hiring of Don Haynes as the head coach.

Haynes, who might best be remembered in Twin Falls as coach of the Kellogg team that defeated the Bruins in the finals of the 1964 state tournament, is completing his second year at Astoria, Ore., high school and has seen head coaching duties at Kellogg and Moscow.

Haynes is a native of Coeur d'Alene where he excelled in three sports. He took his bachelors degree at Eastern Washington College before going into coaching. He has 137 wins and 41 losses in his head coaching career.

His forte in basketball reputedly is generating great enthusiasm in his players and outstanding public relations work between his sport and the outside community.

"We feel," said Athletic Director Robert Donnelly, "that Coach Haynes will do a lot for our basketball program and work well within everyone at the school and within the athletic department. He added Haynes would have another athletic assignment, probably in the area of seventh grade football.

In addition to hiring Haynes, the board okayed recommendations from Donnelly to establish seven new coaching positions in the junior and senior high school levels. These would include addition of an assistant coach for the girls track team; assistant for cross country team and basically to work with Jayvices; establishing wrestling programs in the two junior high schools for seven, eighth and ninth graders, and establishing a volleyball coach for girls high school.

Terrell decisions Pires in ten

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ernest Terrell, former World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, punched out a unanimous 10-round decision over Brazilian champion Luis Pires Monday night in the opener of a triple header closed-circuit television fight show.

Terrell was cut over the eye in the sixth round, but his seconds stopped the flow of blood between rounds and he was not impeded by the injury.

Terrell's best round was the ninth when he caught Pires against the ropes early and left him staggering and dazed in the center of the ring. But Terrell couldn't take advantage of his opponent to end the bout.

It was the 42nd win against seven defeats for Terrell and his fourth win in a comeback campaign attempting to regain the world heavyweight crown. He was idle for three years before beginning his comeback last December. It was the seventh loss in 32 fights for Pires.

Judge Harold Marovitz gave Terrell the bout by a 50-44 count while both Referee Stanley Berg and Judge Bill Doty scored it 48-43 for Terrell.

Donahue heads Indy 500 drivers

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Thirty-nine drivers chased after speedy Pennsylvania Mark Donohue Monday in the busiest day of practice yet at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Donohue, 34, a mechanical engineer from Media, Pa., led 11 drivers in the 170-mile-an-hour category and continued his place as the fastest runner in preparations for the May 29 500-mile auto race.

The club picked up three new members and a handful of other drivers were on the threshold of entry. Mario Andretti, the 1969 race winner from Nazareth, Pa., raised his best average in his second day of running to 174.520 m.p.h. in an Andy Granatelli McNamara-Ford.

Wyoming holds intrasquads

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — Wyoming's new head football coach, Fritz Shurmer, didn't see much scoring in an intrasquad spring game in Casper over the weekend, but he still said he was pleased.

The Browns beat the Golds 7-0 in the Saturday contest, and Shurmer wasn't so much concerned with who won as how the game was played. He said he was happy with the few penalties and the timing of his charges.

The only score in the rain-marred contest came in the third period when sophomore defensive tackle Gary Holland fell on a fumble in the end zone. It was just one of four fumbles for the Gold team, which lost three of the bobbled balls. Despite the fumbles, the Golds beat the Browns in total offense, 247 to 135 yards.

Leading ground garner of the contest was Larry Garcia with 106 yards in 21 carries for the Browns. Jeff Howe led the Golds with 67 yards on nine carries.

Otis leads Orioles by Royals

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Amos Otis supported the five-hit pitching of Bruce Dal Canton with a perfect four-for-four, including a three-run homer in the seventh inning, Monday night to pace the Kansas City Royals to a 4-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Otis, who also collected two singles and a double in addition to his homer, knocked in all four of the Royals' runs. He singled home Kansas City's first run in the fifth inning following singles by Fred Patek and Cookie Rojas.

Jerry Mauer doubled to lead off the Kansas City seventh but was thrown out attempting to go to third on Dal Canton's grounder. Rojas then walked and Otis unloaded his fifth homer of the season. The blast came off southpaw Dave McNally and tagged him with his second loss in seven decisions.

Dal Canton, boasting his record to 3-1, blanked the Orioles for seven innings but lost his bid for a shutout in the eighth when the Royals made a pair of errors.

Ryun favored over Liquori in Martin Luther King games

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jim Ryun will defeat Marty Liquori Sunday in the International Freedom Games "Super Mile" at Philadelphia's Franklin Field.

Harold Jardine, an assistant slow pace, but concurred that coach at Montclair N.J. State Ryun would win.

That, at least, was the consensus of coaches polled Monday at a luncheon here of track and field writers. The basic argument presented by the Ryun-supporters was that the world record-holder wouldn't be making the trip East if he was not ready for Liquori, both mentally and physically.

Steelhead catches revealed

BOISE (UPI) — Final tabulation of random sample returns indicate 27,750 anglers purchased steelhead permits in 1970, and the Idaho total catch approximated 20,500 of the big ocean-going rainbow trout.

This take exceeded the 1964-65-66 and 1969 Idaho catches, but was some 4,000 steelhead below the 1967-68 harvests, according to James F. Keating, fishery research supervisor of the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

T.F. horse captures top spot

TWIN FALLS — A two-year-old Quarterhorse owned by B.L. (Sonny) Ward of Twin Falls captured the top spot in the Treasure Valley Horse Breeders Racing Association Quarterhorse Futurity Sunday and netted a $2,800 purse for his owner.

Sonny's Rocket by Bar Rocket, owned by Ward and George and Bob Juker of Buhl, placed third in his time trials and then went on to win the futurity during the event at Emmett Sunday. Way Bar Rocky, full brother to Sonny's Rocket, owned by Sharon Harper, Twin Falls, and leased to Ward, placed second in his race.

Sonny's Rocket ran an 18.27 triple A time for the fastest 350 yards futurity. The horse was badly injured two weeks ago in Oregon when the trailer in which he was riding flipped twice. Driver of the car, the horse's trainer, Carl Conquest of Pocatello, was not injured.

Chuvale falls to Ellis by decision

TORONTO (UPI) — Fast punching Jimmy Ellis, using a powerful overhand right and speed afoot when he needed it, pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over game Canadian champion George Chuvale Monday night at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Chuvale to gain added speed. In the Frazier fight, Ellis was not able to stay out of range of Frazier's left hook but against Chuvale he proved able to move quickly.

Although he tired in the late rounds, Ellis built up a large enough lead to win the nod of the officials. The crowd, delighted with hometown favorite Chuvale's last round rally, booed the decision.

Ellis, former World Boxing Association heavyweight champion, instead of jabbing and running as he was supposed to, came out slugging in the opening round. He hit Chuvale repeatedly with overhand rights and left-right combinations. By the opening minute of the second round he had opened a one inch gash over Chuvale's left eye.

Chuvale, coming in constantly, was cut again at the hairline and under the left eye in the next round but his handlers were able to stem the flow of blood and the cuts did not bother the Canadian champion for the rest of the fight.

Chuvale staged his first rally in the fifth round but Ellis, the faster puncher, came back in the sixth to once again pound the Canadian with right hands, weighed in at 218 1/2 pounds to Ellis' 191. Although the added weight gave Chuvale the edge in clinches, Ellis used his speed to get out of trouble.

Ellis, of Louisville, Ky., who just over a year ago was knocked out by Joe Frazier in his bid for the undisputed heavyweight title, deliberately came in lighter for his

Hoerner to have physical

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies ordered another complete physical check-up on pitcher Joe Hoerner after he left a game between the Phillies and the Chicago Cubs Monday night in the ninth inning, suffering from a "slight recurrence of rapid heart beat and high blood pressure."

Hoerner, who took over for Chris Short in the eighth inning, walked Dan Breen in the ninth and then suffered a flareup of his heart problem after tossing out Breen at second on an attempted sacrifice. He was relieved by Darrell Brandon.

Cubs shut-out Phillies 3-0 games this season Monday night as he hurled the Chicago Cubs to a 3-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

N.Y. takes slim win from Astros

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bud Harrelson's two-run, two-out single in the seventh inning gave the New York Mets a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros Monday night behind the fourth-hit pitching of Gary Gentry and Tug McGraw.

The big righthander, who outduelled lefty Chris Short, got batting support from Jim Hickman, who singled to build the Cubs' first run in the sixth and stroked a two-run homer in the eighth.

Jenkins shrugged off a first inning double by Denny Doyle and eased out of trouble in the second after a pop-fly double by Tim McCarver and a passed ball by catcher Danny Breeden on a strikeout of Don Money put runners on first and third with one out. Jenkins got out of the inning by striking out Joe Lis and tossing out Short.

The Cub ace then retired 17 in a row after Larry Bowa opened the third with a single and stole second.

Loser Wade Blasingame, who went into the game with a 9-0 lifetime record against the Mets, had a three-hit shutout for the first six innings. But Jerry Grote doubled with one out in the seventh and moved to third on Don Hahn's infield hit. Pinch-hitter Tommie Agee grounded out as Hahn took second and Harrelson followed with a two-run single that gave Blasingame his fourth loss against two wins.

Gentry went the first seven innings and allowed three singles while evening his record at 3-3.

Foreman, who weighed 218 1/2 pounds to Peralta's 196, stunned his older foe from Argentina early in the 10th round and was unable to finish him off.

After Foreman landed three hard rights to Peralta's head on the ropes, referee Elmer Costa separated the two and made Peralta take the mandatory eight count in his own corner.

When they came out to fight again, Foreman unleashed a half a dozen punches to the head and this time Costa stepped in and cut it off. The action was stopped at 2:52 of the 10th but under California rules it goes down as a knockout instead of a TKO.

The victory kept Foreman's record unblemished with a 22-0 record in 28 fights without a loss. It was the 14th loss in 23 fights for the 36-year-old Peralta, who is the Argentine heavyweight champion.

It also was the 22-year-old Foreman's second victory over Peralta. He outpointed him 15 months ago over 10 rounds in a disputed decision at Madison Square Gardens.

Foreman was unable to land a real solid blow until the sixth round when he backed Peralta into a corner and connected several times with hooks to the body and rights to the head.

Peralta suffered a cut over his left eyebrow late in the third round and bled from the nose in the ninth.

Pitching enables Tiger win

DETROIT (UPI) — Dick McAuliffe hit the first home run off California pitching in 61 2-3 innings and the generous Angels pitchers wild-pitched home three additional runs Monday night to hand the Detroit Tigers a 5-2 victory.

Starter Andy Messersmith lost his fourth game against two wins for the Angeles when he wild pitched two runs home in the first inning. Jim Northrup started it all with a two-out single and went to third on a wild pickoff throw by Messersmith.

Norm Cash walked and both runners advanced on Messersmith's first wild pitch. Dalton Jones struck out to seemingly end the inning but reached first when catcher John Stephenson couldn't hang on to the wild pitch. Cash scored on the play.

McAuliffe's fourth homer of the season came in the fifth inning and three singles by Cash, Jones and Gates Brown produced another run in the sixth. Jones, then scored on relief pitcher Mel Queen's wild pitch.

Dean Chance started for the Tigers in quest of his first victory against five losses but threw seven straight balls with two out in the fifth inning and was removed in favor of Fred Scherman with a 2-3 count on Jim Spencer.

S.F. takes Reds to widen lead
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tito Fuentes' fourth inning single drove in the run Juan Marichal needed Monday for his fifth victory as the San Francisco Giants widened their lead in the National League West to seven games with a 3-2 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

Marichal gave up only four hits, three to Pete Rose, and one to Tony Perez as he went the distance for the fifth time and registered the 2,000th strikeout of his career along the way.

Rose's second hit, a homer, and Perez' fourth homer netted the Reds their two runs in the sixth.

Marichal struck out five batters in all and did not walk a man as he ran his record to 5-2.

The Giants scored single runs in the first, third and fourth innings.

Orr awarded Hart Memorial trophy

MONTREAL (UPI) — The National Hockey League announced today that Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins was awarded the Hart Memorial Trophy; Johnny Bucyk, a veteran Bruin left winger was given the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy and Gilbert Perreault of the Buffalo Sabres was awarded the Calder Trophy. Orr received his award of the Hart Trophy as most valuable player in the NHL during the 1970-71 season at a luncheon.

He was also awarded the Norris Trophy "to the defenseman who demonstrates throughout the regular season the greatest all-around ability in that position."

He is only the second defenseman to win the trophy at least twice as he tied a record with his fourth straight James Norris Memorial Trophy selection.

Orr, who was runner up to Phil Esposito in the scoring race with 139 points, including a record 102 assists, was the player closest to being chosen unanimously in the four awards — Hart, Lady Byng, Norris and Calder — decided by polls among the members of the Professional Hockey Writers' Association in the 14 NHL cities.

Orr gained 208 of a possible 210 points in the Norris voting. The runner-up was Brad Park of the New York Rangers with 57 points, followed by J.C. Tremblay of the Montreal Canadiens with 35 points.

Perreault, who came out of junior 'A' hockey into the NHL, led Buffalo with a total 38 goals and 72 points, both records for a rookie. He won the Calder Trophy as the league's most outstanding rookie.

Expos take loss from Cardinals

MONTREAL (UPI) — Joe Hogue belted a pair of homers and winning pitcher Jerry Reuss sparked a five-run seventh inning with a two-run double Monday night to pace the St. Louis Cardinals to an 8-5 victory over the Montreal Expos.

Hogue connected for his second homer of the season off losing pitcher Steve Renko in the second inning to give the St. Louis a 1-0 lead and he put the Cards ahead 3-2 in the sixth with another homer following a walk to Jose Cardenal.

The bidding went the same way at the other table until the five-club bid came around to Bobby Goldman who held the East hand for North America.

Bobby thought about doubling five clubs, but came to the conclusion that he wouldn't set it more than one trick and possibly five clubs would make. In any event there was a very good chance that five hearts would breeze home. Therefore, Bobby bid it.

South doubled that and as you readers can see five hearts would make easily but at this point Gabriel Chagny who played magnificently for Brazil throughout the entire tournament made the brilliant decision to go to six clubs. That decision saved something from the wreck, but we scored 550 at one table and 100 at the other for 12 IMPs.

The bidding has been:

Pass	1♠	Pass	4♥
Pass	4♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold: ♠K543 ♥K632 ♦AKQ ♣74

What do you do now?

A—Bid six hearts. Your partner is trying for a slam beyond game. You have enough to bid it.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding one heart your partner has rebid three clubs over your one diamond. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby

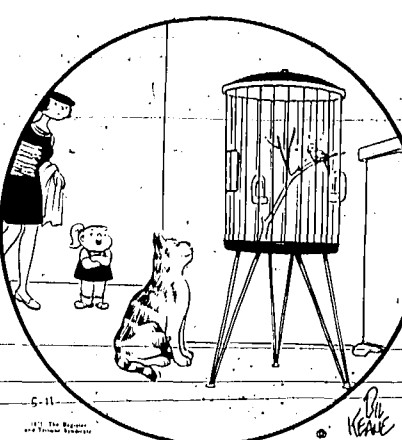

Here is another hand from our match against Brazil in the World's championship. The bidding in the box is what took place when Jim Jacoby and Bobby Wolff held the North-South cards for North America.

The Brazilian East player elected to double five clubs. He held two aces and felt that his good spades in back of North's spade suit would give South some trouble. He turned out to be wrong since South held just one spade and with 12 trumps in the combined hands there was no problem about handling any potential losers except for one heart and one diamond.

DRESS ALL young women in uniforms. That's the counsel of a Harvard anthropologist. Says he, "By clothing the girls identically, you'd convince men that in truth all women are alike, and consequently there's no hurry about grabbing any one of them for a lifetime partner. Innumerable replicas will always be forthcoming." Our Love and War map is studying this recommendation.

OPEN QUESTION: 1. Ever notice you never see a painted wooden ladder? Why is that? ... 2. An observant client says he has reason to believe nobody with emphysema ever gets the hiccoughs. Can you verify?

MR. WILSON didn't like his first name, Thomas. So he insisted on using his middle name, Woodrow. Mr. Maugham didn't like William, his first name. He preferred his middle name, Somerset. Mr. Cleveland rejected his first name, Steven. And called himself—by his middle name, Grover. And Mr. Coolidge couldn't stand John, his first name. So chose his middle name, Calvin. Odd how tastes vary. Given these choices, I would have taken Thomas or William or Steven or John, anytime.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "Does a mother giraffe ever have triplets?" A. Never. Twins occasionally. But loss of offspring mostly... Q. "How long does the average mosquito live?" A. The females survive nine days. The males konk out in just a few hours... Q. "Which is the smarter, the raccoon or the housecat?" A. The raccoon, the raccoon.

BACTERIA, how they do multiply! Take an ordinary glass of milk. Under favorable conditions, the bacteria therein could double their population in 20 minutes. They die, luckily. If they didn't, that glassful of living matter could get bigger than the world itself within five days. Just contemplate that! While trying to doze off tonight, maybe.

IT WAS CALLED pygs, that clay. Most earthenware was made of it. Centuries ago. Women kept their money in such. Long before said pots were shaped like hogs. And they were called pygg banks... NOW THE SLIDE-RULE BOYS figure if costs you 73 cents to run a load of clothes through your own washer and dryer. Detergent, electricity, original cost of equipment, whatnot. If you do three loads a week.

ADD NOMINEES to the Proper Job Club: Of San Luis Obispo, Calif.; Mr. Plantz, a florist. Of Grover City, Calif.; Mr. Tyreman, a car wheel expert. Of Kansas City, Mo.; Mr. C. Sharp, a tuba player. Of Sacramento, Calif.; Dr. T. Toe, a podiatrist. Of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Sleeper, a bedding saleslady. And of Longmont, Colo.; Les Mess, a flywaller.

RAPID REPLIES: 1. Correct, Mrs. G., the medical records show far more women than men have high blood pressure... 2. No, sir, the average trial lawyer only wins 50 per cent of his cases. Doesn't that figure?

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 17076, Fort Worth, Texas 76102.
