Pro-SST forces claim vote edge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Pro-SST forces in the House claimed a narrow advantage for today's delayed showdown on reviving the supersonic transport project.

They believed they would have won had the vote come Tuesday as originally planned. But 10 or more pro-SST House members had out of town political engagements that pulled them away before the issue could be put to a test.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford conceded the delay gave opponents a chance to firm up their ranks and possibly bring back missing members against the SST.

But, he said, he remained optimistic the House would reverse its March 18 decision to halt government financing of the Boeing-built jet designed to fly 1,800 miles per hour.

The test was on an amendment by Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., to convert a proposed $35.3 million contract termination payment into a fund for continued development and eventual production of two prototypes of the controversial airplane.

House Democratic leaders teamed with Ford in support of the revival effort, which was engineered with President Nixon's approval. White House lobbyists reportedly were at work not only in the House but in the Senate, where the battle could be tougher.

Work on the SST was halted after the House on March 18 voted 215 to 204 against further federal funding and the Senate one week later affirmed this decision, 51 to 46.

Since that time, pro-SST forces argued, the unemployment level has risen, the French-British Concorde SST has been flight tested by French Premier Georges Pompidou, and the U.S. dollar has come under heavy pressure abroad.

$2 wage floor backed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon Administration today endorsed raising the minimum wage to $2 an hour for adults, but proposed a cut-rate youth minimum of $1.50 to help reduce high unemployment among teen-agers.

Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson, in testimony prepared for the House labor subcommittee, proposed that the present $1.60 minimum wage covering some 46 million teen-age and adult workers be raised to $1.60 an hour in January and $2 in January, 1974.

Under the administration proposal outlined by Hodgson, the present $1.60 rate would be retained for all workers under 18, or 18 and 19-year-olds who are full-time students and for 18- and 19-year-old workers during the first six months of their first jobs.

They said more than $1 billion will have been sunk in the American SST effort by the time contracts have been settled. For an additional investment of about $300 million, they said, the development work could be finished and two planes built for testing.

BUMPER providing protection in crashes up to 20 miles an hour is shown to Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., right, chairman of Senate Commerce Committee, by developer, Douglas Taylor. Using field amplified spring shock absorbers, bumper is installed on 1971 station wagon. Taylor told committee device would surpass government standards for 1973 cars at extra cost of about $25 per car. (UPI)

Postal shakeup readied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Postmaster General Winton N. Blount announced today a major reorganization of the 750,000-employee U.S. Postal Service, eliminating 10 of 15 regional headquarters offices.

Better bumper

Capitol Hill sources said the reorganization would eliminate 3,500 white collar jobs and wipe out jobs of many political appointees.

'Quake shakes Turkey

ANTALYA, Turkey (UPI)—A powerful earthquake rumbled across western Turkey today and spread a trail of death and destruction.

Dam action awaits reply

Residents protest park lot

TWIN FALLS — Petitions from a number of residents on Wiseman and Borah avenues in the vicinity of Harry Barry Park have been filed at the office of the Twin Falls City Clerk protesting the addition of a parking area at the playground and park.

Supreme Court rejects carcass company plea

BUHL — The Idaho Supreme Court, meeting in Lewiston, notified its Boise office Tuesday that it had denied a request for a writ of review in the Cascade Commodities Corp. case of Buhl.

The court also denied request for a writ of prohibition against a district judge and 24 private citizens involved in the case.

The requests to the state's high court were in the odor abatement proceeding surrounding the Buhl rendering firm.

The denial leaves in effect a temporary restraining order issued last month by District Judge James M. Cunningham against Cascade Commodities Corporation, Carter Packing Company and Melvin W. Carter.

Officials said first reports indicated at least 65 dead. But they feared the death toll would soar far higher because the quake shook the entire southwest Anatolia region, which is heavily populated.

Red jet attacks over Laos

SAIGON (UPI)—A supersonic North Vietnamese MIG21 jet fighter fired on an unarmed U.S. Air Force observation plane over Laos Sunday in the first aerial attack against an American aircraft over that nominally neutral country in the Indochina War, U.S. military spokesmen said today.

Lee reviewed progress of the joint reclamation-power generation project for the 1971

Parks department crews and equipment have removed a section of grass at the west end of the park between the two avenues to provide off street parking for those attending knothole baseball games and other park activities during summer months.

The plaintiffs then brought a motion for contempt proceedings against the company, alleging it had not complied with the previous order abatement.

On April 20, Judge Cunningham conducted a contempt proceeding and amended his temporary order to specifically tell the defendants to cease all rendering activities, including but not limited to heating, boiling, and cooking any portion of animals, tallows or fats or to store any parts of dead animals on the premises.

They said U.S. intelligence sources reported the North Vietnamese were going to considerable lengths to beef up their military strength at home as well as in areas from which they could launch attacks against the South Vietnamese highlands.

The United States, while professing neutrality in the October elections, has a major stake in their outcome. Should results lead to political chaos and uncertainty, it could have a major effect on President Nixon's troop withdrawal scheduled.

Russ Jews 'confess'

MOSCOW (UPI)—Two more defendants in the Leningrad trial of nine Zionist Jews confessed today that they plotted to hijack a Soviet airplane, the Tass news agency said.

The official Soviet news agency said defendants Mikhail Korenblit and Viktor Stitilbans admitted complicity on the stand. Defendant Hillel Butman, had done so at Tuesday's opening session, according to Tass.

South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu is virtually convinced, U.S. officials said, that the Communists will attempt a major military assault, combined with Viet Cong terror attacks in some cities, in an effort to discredit his government just before the critical elections in which he will seek a mandate to continue governing his troubled country.

The new U.S. Postal Service won court approval Tuesday for a temporary, across-the-board, one-third increase in postal rates effective Sunday. A U.S. district court judge denied a request by newspaper and magazine publishers that the increase be delayed, and the publishers said they would appeal.

Red attack feared during Viet vote

WASHINGTON (UPI)—High administration officials said today evidence is mounting that Hanoi may attempt a major military offensive just prior to the October elections in South Vietnam.

Red jet attacks

Both MIGs flew off toward North Vietnam after five minutes. There were no other American planes nearby.

It was not known whether the attacking MIG fired its 30-millimeter cannon or its air-to-air missiles, or both.

The Swan Falls-Guffey joint venture project between the Water Resource Board and Idaho Power is undoubtedly one of the most imaginative and far-reaching plans ever developed to insure sound utilization of Idaho's water, and for reclamation of large areas of arid and fertile desert, Lee said.

TF woman unseats trustee

DR. H. W. RONK

RUTH B. DAY

TWIN FALLS — Mrs. Reed (Ruth B.) Day, the mother of five children who "just loves kids," unseated incumbent Edward R. (Ted) Smith in Tuesday's Twin Falls school district trustee election to win a three-year term.

Mrs. Day garnered 160 votes to 96 for Smith, while challengers Michael Bruce Spratt and LuDell Waldron trailed well out of the running, with six and 36 votes, respectively.

Mrs. Day said in her campaign that she is "dedicated to improvement of communication between students, parents, schools and the board of education." She will "work toward educating the whole individual," she said today.

Before the U.S. strategic bombing halt of Nov. 30, 1968, they were kept busy fighting American aircraft over North Vietnam itself.

Labor force aid preparations made

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

JEROME — Ken Baumgartner, manager of the Idaho State Department of Employment, Jerome, said today that Milton Alonzo has joined the staff to coordinate bi-lingual activities.

Alonzo is from Eagle Pass, Tex., but has been in Jerome for about three years. His wife, the former Glenda Guerra, is from Raymondville, Tex.

Baumgartner said Alonzo has completed a two day training conference in Boise for rural outreach interviewers and farm placement representatives.

Department personnel were told that creative state experiments in providing employment and other supporting services to Mexican-American migrant families during their seasonal stay in the Pacific Northwest is the basis for plans to organize at Seattle, Wash., a regional migrant committee of federal agencies to coordinate programs that will improve services to migrant farm workers and their families.

Baumgartner said that Vince Brings of Seattle, manpower technical service specialist with the U. S. Department of Labor's northwest regional manpower administration office, was among guest speakers from federal, state and local employment groups.

John L. Chamberlin, director of the Employment Service division, said the two-day course emphasized methods of delivering manpower services and other assistance to Mexican-American migrant families during their stay in Idaho.

He said the use of mechanization and automation in farming operations across the nation is creating a gradual decline in the need for seasonal migratory workers.

He added that the community services to the migrant's program is a preliminary effort toward establishment of a long-range program to assist migratory workers in making the transition from the migrant stream to permanent employment.

Jesse S. Beraín, with the Idaho Commission on Human Rights, Department of Special Services, state of Idaho, said today that with the establishment of the committee in Seattle it is a start to help the Mexican-American migrant that comes into Idaho each year. As it is in the Jerome-Hazelton area and across the state, fewer farmers are now raising sugar beets and many are now using automation for weeding beets.

The migrant workers are slowly being moved out of the picture but we cannot overlook them while they are still in our state, Beraín said. A real and necessary problem does exist and many of the labor camps in Idaho are in such poor condition they are not fit for anyone to live in.

"The camps face the problem of less and less money to work with, as fewer sugar beets are being raised in the state. The labor camps get their money by assessing the beet grower so much per acre of beets. The money is used to make improvements at the camps and to pay the wages of the crew leader. No one seems to have the answer as to how we can solve the problem but efforts are now being made to do so," Beraín said.

A special meeting was held last week in the office of Gov. Cecil Andrus in an effort to acquaint Gov. Andrus and his staff with some of the problems at the different camps in Idaho.

Gov. Andrus said after the meeting that more visits will be made to camps around the state by health department officials, especially sanitarians, and that additional legislation is needed to strengthen the state's position. Andrus plans to tour some of the camps in the near future.

Rep. Jack Claiborn, R-Twin Falls, chairman of the House Interim Agricultural Labor Committee, which studies agricultural working conditions in Idaho, said the committee will meet Friday and Saturday in Boise, with tours of labor camps in the Boise Valley on the agenda.

The committee will confer with officials of Amalgamated

Sugar Co. in Nampa and visit labor camps in the area on Friday, then meet on May 15 to correlate their findings and determine if action needs to be taken.

A bill which would have given the board of health clear authority to operate a migratory housing standards program was introduced in the last session of the legislature. (It went to the House Agricultural Committee on Jan. 29 and remained there. This was House Bill 75 and the Committee Chairman was Rep. Claiborn, according to Jerry Brown, information specialist of Idaho Department of Health.

Brown said the health department is not completely powerless. "We do have rules we can enforce at this time but we do need additional legislation to strengthen our position," he said.

Dewight Board, assistant attorney general said that new regulations scheduled to go into effect July 1 will give the state fire marshal the power to close down dwellings that in his determination are dilapidated and a fire hazard. This could affect some of the labor camps in Idaho.

In an interview with the Times-News, Mrs. Julia Sloat, an active member of H.O.P.E., Jerome, who has been for the past three years trying to improve the living conditions at the labor camps.

Mrs. Sloat told the Times-News she has letters from the migrants, requesting certain changes in the operation of these camps but for fear of not having a place to live or not having work they will not speak out to officials who run the camps. "They do not seem to have any authority and yet they are the ones who are directly concerned," she noted.

A maintenance man should be hired full time to help the migrants with repairs and problems. All of our own homes would be in a state of collapse if we did not constantly maintain them. I do not want these camps closed nor do the migrants. They must work to survive but it is imperative that changes be made in their operation in order to express our great respect for some wonderful friends who are responsible for the assistance in harvesting our crops," Mrs. Sloat said.

20 Iowa troopers hurt in clashes

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—At least 10 persons were arrested and 20 Iowa highway patrolmen injured by rocks and debris thrown from an unruly crowd early today on the University of Iowa campus.

About 200 patrol officers had moved into the Iowa City area Tuesday afternoon. The patrol, acting under orders from Gov. Robert D. Ray, was given full police powers and authority to remain on the scene until the campus is calm.

The height of the demonstrations—the fourth in a week—came between midnight and 2 a.m. Up to 1,000 young persons had congregated on the Burlington Street bridge over the Iowa River about midnight, then moved toward the men's dormitory area—where 40 persons were arrested when young people engaged in a rock-throwing battle with police and received tear gas in return.

As the highway patrolmen moved up the main street leading to the dormitories, they became the targets of rocks, bottles and chunks of cement—many of them hurled from upper floors of dormitories. Of the 20 officers injured, spokesmen said eight required hospital treatment.

The protesters retreated to the dormitories, highway patrolmen used a small quantity of tear gas—far less than was used Monday night—to disperse the crowd. "Good night, boys," shouted Capt. Lyle Dickinson, the field commander.

Authorities and campus spokesmen have been unable to determine an exact cause of the turmoil, which started during a nationwide tribute to four students killed by Ohio National Guard bullets last year at Kent State University. However, no specific incident was reported to set off the week of unrest.

Lava boils from Etna

CATANIA, Sicily (UPI)—Lava boiled from a new fissure on the slopes of Europe's tallest volcano today and flowed to within one mile of a village damaged by eruptions in 1850. Officials expressed concern for villagers.

Scientists watching the spectacular show at the 10,902-foot tall Mt. Etna, which began rumbling and fuming April 3, said lava was burning trees as it inched towards the village of Fornazzo.

Suit dismissed

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI)—A $5-million damage suit filed by the widow of astronaut Virgil "Gus" Grissom was dismissed in federal court Tuesday on the ground that it was filed after the statute of limitations expired.

The suit by Betty Grissom, filed Feb. 18, charged North American Rockwell Corp. and several of its subsidiaries with negligence in the death of her husband in a launch pad fire at Cape Kennedy.

New pool units go in place

TWIN FALLS — Installation of new heating, filtering and cleaning equipment at the city swimming pool at Harmon Park is now in progress, City Manager Jean Millar said today.

The city purchased new equipment several months ago and plans to have it installed for scheduled opening of the pool for summer months. Millar said the old equipment has been removed and some cleaning and alteration is being completed now to make way for installing the new items. He said the pool is expected to open in June for swimming classes and general use by the public.

With the new equipment it will be possible to bring the temperature of the water up to a higher level within a short time and to maintain comfortable temperatures on a constant basis.

Source was anonymous

TWIN FALLS — An article printed in Tuesday's Times-News attributed statements made by an anonymous market source to Twin Falls commodities broker Alex Sinclair.

County GOP rips stand

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Republican Central Committee has taken exception to a statement from Gov. Cecil Andrus that he was instrumental in obtaining a $100,000 appropriation for the Twin Falls City-County Airport.

GOP Chairman Douglas Kramer said that "Gov. Andrus is taking credit for an appropriation for airports in this state totaling $320,000, of which $100,000 was received by the Twin Falls City-County Airport. The truth of the matter is Gov. Andrus did not request any money for airports in his budget message and the appropriation came about as a direct result of the efforts of the Republican legislature."

"Andrus would now have us believe that he is personally responsible for Twin Falls County receiving $100,000. Not only is this a direct attempt to mislead, but it is an obvious attempt to divert people's attention from the fact that he fired the aeronautics commission director, Chet Moulton, after 18 years of faithful service for the purpose of appointing a political henchman in satisfaction of a political debt."

Kramer said in addition that "This is but one example of the tactics being used by Gov. Andrus to attack the Republican-controlled legislature. If people are to know the truth, it would appear that Republicans must form their own 'truth squad' to maintain an honest statement of the facts."

"The Republican party in Twin Falls County does not intend to permit these continuous attacks upon the legislators when Twin Falls County's legislative delegation consists of the leadership it does in the state legislature," Kramer concluded.

STUDENT NURSES from Magie Valley board a chartered bus to Salt Lake City to visit the hospitals in that area. The group left Tuesday and is visiting the Primary Childrens Hospital today and the LDS Hospital Thursday.

Student nurses make Utah trip

TWIN FALLS — Practical nursing students from Magie Valley Memorial Hospital and College of Southern Idaho are visiting hospitals today in Salt Lake City.

Today the group is visiting the Primary Childrens Hospital. During the tour of the hospital, the student nurses will visit the birth defect clinic, pre-school cerebral palsy area, meet and work in the new admissions area.

Thursday a tour of the LDS Hospital is planned. There they will observe some of the special heart studies done prior to heart and chest surgery, the radiation therapy unit, the hyperbaric oxygen chamber and spend time in their neurological, chest and coronary care units.

A spokesman for the nurses said these "field trips" are part of the one-year practical nursing program and enhance their learning experience in areas additional to those at the local hospital.

Those on the tour are Wanda Arseny, Marie Fuller, Pat Hollibaugh, Patty Lattin, Polly Moeven, Roberta Napierala and Marilyn-Blackburn, all Twin Falls; Connie Thometz, Cathy White and Marcella Povelowski, both Buhl; Donna Kerr, Kimberly; Louise Marshall, Jerome, and Martina Koch, Wendell.

Recreation Newsman aid act offered

TWIN FALLS — Registration is now open for a number of summer programs offered by the Twin Falls City Recreation Department, Director Chad Browning said today.

He said youngsters wishing to participate in the swimming program may register at the building at Harmon Park from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily. First classes will be held June 21 with the pool opening delayed about a week this year because of installation of new heating and filtering equipment.

Knobole baseball and girls' softball teams are also being prepared with registration accepted at the same Harmon Park building. These programs begin June 15 when the playgrounds are officially scheduled to open.

Browning said the adult golf clinic will be held May 18, 19, 20 and 21 at the municipal golf course and adults may register now for the clinic. Registration is also at the golf course.

Fees are charged for the swimming programs and golf clinic but other programs are free to city residents, he said.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, has co-sponsored the Newsmen's Privilege Act, which provides that newsmen may not be forced by any federal official to disclose confidential information or the sources of the information.

Hansen said the act seeks to clarify certain First Amendment free press rights and to guarantee against any infringements of those rights.

The Idaho Congressman noted that the privilege may be invoked before federal courts, grand juries, departments, commissions and the Congress, but that the privilege shall not be available in certain defamation proceedings when proceedings required by law to be kept secret have been published or when a genuine overt threat to the security of the nation shall be shown to exist.

A number of cases on this question have been pending in the courts, Hansen said.

Driver charged in death

TWIN FALLS — A citation charging failure to observe the basic rule was issued the driver of a car which was involved in a fatal car-pedestrian accident Sunday night in Twin Falls.

Frank Barnett, Twin Falls Chief of Police, said Jerry W. Rosencrantz, 26, Twin Falls, was issued the citation Monday afternoon.

The chief said grounds for the complaint are that Rosencrantz allegedly did not operate his vehicle in a manner appropriate to the conditions. Addison Avenue West, where the accident occurred, was rain-covered, the chief said.

Victim of the accident was Mrs. Rosalie Airhart, 50, Plains, Mont., who was walking across the street when she was struck. The victim was not in a crosswalk, officers said.

Building standard adopted

TWIN FALLS — Regulations and standards required on all new subdivision construction within the Twin Falls Highway District were announced today by district board members.

In conjunction with a county subdivision ordinance giving the individual districts authority to regulate road constructions and standards in their own districts, the local district is the first to adopt official regulations.

Keith Anderson, engineer, said all subdividers must provide right of way to a minimum of 100 feet for major collector roads; 80 feet for minor collector roads; 50 feet, residential streets; 50 feet, cul-de-sac streets and 60 feet for cul-de-sac turn arounds.

The resolution also requires proper drainage grades with a maximum not to exceed 7 per cent and a minimum with curb and gutter of .5 per cent to .3 per cent with a ditch section.

Culverts crossing the roadway must be of corrugated metal pipe with a minimum of 12 inches in diameter and a minimum length of 30 feet. At intersections the culverts shall be increased in length to meet specific conditions, the resolution states.

Approach pipe culverts must have a minimum length of 20 feet and a maximum length of 30 feet.

Roadway surfacing must be 30 feet wide in ditch sections and 36 feet in sections where curb and gutter is installed and the same widths apply where gravel surfaces are provided.

All construction must conform to current Idaho State Highway Department specifications for road and bridge construction, the resolution states.

The new subdivision ordinance for the county provides highway districts may require various types of surfacing as the situation demands and as seen by the individual highway districts.

New Southern Strategy

WASHINGTON — Behind the seemingly routine appointment within the next two weeks of a prominent Democrat to fill a new and long-vacant U.S. District judgeship in South Carolina lies a calculated White House strategy aimed at the 1972 Presidential election that is certain to infuriate Southern Republicans.

Treasury, is that building strong Southern Republican parties takes second place to building a strong political base for Richard M. Nixon. As for South Carolina, after 11 months of delay, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell finally gave an appointment to last Thursday to Democrat Sol Blatt, Jr., a well-known attorney in Barnwell, S.C.

Thus, Edens and Powell, with other powerful party figures, will be out for revenge when they discover that Mitchell quietly decided to name Blatt. That revenge could take the form of a primary opponent against Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond, who is up for reelection next year and has cleared the Blatt nomination. Thurmond would be unbeatable in any primary, but the political ripples from the still unannounced Blatt appointment could conceivably cause him trouble in the general election.

Party anger at Thurmond stems from a suspicion, not widely held, that one political result of the Blatt appointment, given the Byzantine politics of South Carolina, could be the presidency of the University of South Carolina for former Democratic Gov. Robert McNair. That would remove McNair as a possible opponent against Thurmond in this 1972 Senatorial election.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Heart Attack

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In a heart attack, what causes the damage to the heart? If an artery is blocked, does it usually open by itself? To understand what happens, you have to visualize what the heart is. Think of the heart as, primarily, a large, strong muscle, but hollow. Inside, the space is divided into four chambers, with one-way valves. As the heart (muscle) contracts, blood is forced forward through the valves, routed into the lungs to pick up oxygen, then brought back to the heart, and finally distributed, through the aorta, or main artery, to the body generally.

First Step

The trouble with celebrating an event like the 200th anniversary of the United States is: Where do you start — or stop? The official bicentennial year, of course, is 1976, the 200th year since the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

But the war to achieve that independence was touched off at Lexington and Concord in April 1775 and lasted for more than six years until October 1781. The war continued in the west for two more years before peace came.

It can even be argued that American independence was not finally secured until the War of 1812, when Britain relinquished her claims to the lands beyond the Alleghenies.

As for the movement toward independence, it began long before 1775 or 1776 — at least as far back as 1765 with the passage of the infamous Stamp Tax. Then there was the Boston Massacre in 1770, the burning of the British revenue ship Gaspee off Rhode Island in 1772, the Boston Tea Party in 1773.

It is one of the ironies of history, however, that the first instance of the colonists actually taking up arms against British rule found Americans pitted against Americans. This was the so-called Battle of Alamance in the back country of North Carolina 200 years ago.

Some historians hold that the defiance was not against England herself but was a dispute between the western and eastern portions of the colony. The grievance of the westerners, who called themselves "Regulators," was what they felt to be unequal taxation and the resulting confiscation of poor men's farms.

On May 16, 1771, more than 1,000 royal militiamen under the command of Gov. William Tryon marched against some 2,000 Regulators. In his ultimatum ordering the Regulators to disperse, the governor proclaimed that "... you are at this time in a state of war and rebellion, against your king, your country and your laws."

According to a contemporary account, the rebels lost 20 dead in the two-hour battle; total royal casualties in dead, wounded and missing were 61. A modern historian puts combined losses for both sides at only nine, with six of 15 prisoners hanged for treason. "A state of war and rebellion."

Though it was a minor incident and happened four years before Lexington and Concord, the Battle of Alamance looms in our two-century perspective as one of the major and irreversible steps toward American independence.

ROBERT ALLEN & JOHN GOLDSMITH

About Medicare

WASHINGTON: Provisions designed to prevent the covert siphoning of Medicare refunds to millions of needy beneficiaries will be included in the Social Security legislation being drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The key committee is doing this at the behest of Rep. Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., who has been vigorously crusading for this reform.

As disclosed in this column, the twice-decorated World War II Navy veteran and former mayor of Schenectady, N.Y., discovered some months ago that the Social Security Administration was paying only about 50 per cent of the cost of doctors' bills instead of the 80 per cent required by the Medicare law.

The Social Security Administration instituted this practice without announcement last fall.

Stratton uncovered it and demanded an explanation from HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson. After a long delay, Stratton finally got an answer from Richardson that enclosed a memorandum from Social Security Administrator Robert Ball admitting the secret policy of cutting Medicare refunds.

Ball justified it on the ground of soaring Medicare expenditures.

Stratton, caustically denouncing both the steep reduction and the secrecy surrounding it, declared this was "economizing at the expense of elder citizens least able to bear the brunt of it."

To force the Social Security Administration to halt the practice and prevent its repetition, the veteran legislator drafted a four-point bill which he submitted to Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. The latter assured Stratton his measure would be considered in the framing of the Social Security revisions being formulated.

Stratton's bill would do the following:

- (1) Rescind the secret administrative action taken last year and restore the 86 percentile figure for determining "reasonable" doctors' costs. (2) Require that "reasonable" charges should not be computed on figures more than six months old. (3) Make it mandatory that the basis of determining "reasonable" charges be publicly announced so that patients and doctors will know where they stand. (4) Give Congress veto power over any changes in the schedule of "reasonable" charges, upward or downward, which the Social Security Administration may propose in the future.

In a detailed memorandum explaining these provisions, Rep. Stratton told Chairman Mills they are urgently needed for the following reasons:

"Millions of Social Security beneficiaries are being denied the Medicare refunds they expected and have every right to expect. They feel, and quite rightly so, that they are being cheated. The plain fact is that by secretly reducing Medicare refunds, those least able to bear the brunt of that are being asked to absorb the full burden of inflation."

Stratton stressed the underhandedness of the Social Security Administration's conduct in the matter.

"These unwarranted, and in my opinion, wholly unauthorized cuts," he said, "came about without any prior notice to the patients or the doctors, and in a manner which had all the earmarks of deliberate secrecy and concealment. The changes were accomplished through a remarkable example of administrative legerdemain."

"The key to Medicare payments is the 'reasonable' charge for such services in any locality. Until the middle of 1970, these charges were based pretty much on fees charged by a wide majority, 83 per cent, to be exact, of the medical profession. But sometime in the middle of 1970, the Social Security Administration, without prior notice to anyone, suddenly determined—that 'reasonable' charges should be those being charged in 1968 rather than in 1970, thus making the first drastic rollback in what would henceforth be paid on Medicare doctors' bills."

This secret axing of refunds was followed by another covert change that still further reduced payments to beneficiaries.

"Sometime in the fall of 1970," Stratton told Mills, "the Social Security Administration went another step further and substituted the 75th percentile for the 83 percentile, which had been determined prior to that time in determining 'reasonable' charges. Their excuse is that the pending 1970 Social Security amendments, which were supported by both houses of Congress even though the bill was not finally enacted into law, contained a 75 per cent provision.

"The consequence was still another sizable cut in what the government would pay as compared with what the Medicare patients could reasonably expect them to pay, and, once again, the change was made without any public announcement or any private notice, either to Medicare enrollees or to doctors."

The result of all this, Stratton pointed out, "has been chaos and confusion." He and other members of Congress have received hundreds of complaints and protests from all parts of the country.

Acting on some blunt congressional advice, the Pentagon has abandoned its plan to divert hard-won funds from the Safeguard antiballistic missile into the Army's scandal-riddled commissary system.

The plan was quietly proposed by the Army early this spring. Involved was a reprogramming of $42 million in money appropriated last year for research and development on the controversial Safeguard ABM. In such reprogrammings, the Pentagon can shift approved funds from one object to another by notifying the cognizant congressional committees.

In this instance, the Army wanted to put together $150 million from such diversions to provide additional financing this year for the Army maintenance and operations account. One of the projects in that category was extending the hours at army commissary stores.

The proposed shift of funds from Safeguard into the pot which would, among other things, assist the commissaries, was particularly unfortunate. Safeguard funds have been under attack in the Senate and House for a couple of years, and some congressional leaders have been bloodied in the battles to defend them. Irregularities in the commissary system have been under scrutiny by congressional investigators.

It should, therefore, have come as no surprise to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird when the proposed Safeguard reprogramming came under fire in the Senate and House. The plan has now been junked, and the Army is trying to find other funds which can be reprogrammed into the $150 million pot.

MR. SPECTATOR

Wrong Target

Computers sometimes make marvelous enemies. Perhaps there is nothing strange about a taxpayer receiving two sets of form 1040 from the Internal Revenue Service. Even tax auditors make mistakes.

Nor is it unusual for the concerned taxpayer to complain. After all, he doesn't want to pay his taxes. Nor is the reply that such a mistake is impossible and therefore cannot be corrected unusual, coming from a computer.

But when all this happens to the Assistant Treasury Secretary for tax policy, the situation is complete. Taxpayers now have a champion in high places who knows how it feels to sit on the receiving end of an errant computer.

AID AND COMFORT

Canadians are properly aroused over the award of $3,500 to a leader of the communist party of Canada for a doctoral thesis on the development of Marxism in the country. The award was given by the Canada Council to Mrs. Phyllis Clarke, a former chairman of the Metro Toronto communist party.

"What irony," said the Toronto Telegram, "for those in the jobless lineups, for the taxpayers, for those who know how the regimes Mrs. Clarke reverses would deal with such a situation. The Canada Council is rubbing it a bit too hard into the faces of Canadians. It's time someone re-examined their ground rules."

The same could and should be said for some of the grants Washington has made to revolutionary and New Left groups over the years, with one exception. The $3,500 which has brought the Canadians to their feet in public outcry wouldn't even pay for the paperclips involved here.

MEDICAL CREDIT CARDS

An appendectomy on a credit card? Yes, indeed, reports the publication American Family

Physician. More than 7,000 banks now offer cards which can be used for medical costs, including anything from routine checkups to emergency care.

Not all physicians or hospitals at present will accept credit card payment. But the magazine predicts that within the next 15 years credit cards will be as commonly accepted for medical treatment as they are now for numerous other purchases.

That is good news for an individual who may be caught short financially when a major illness or accident strikes. With medical costs rising as they are, the medical emergency does not have to be of major proportions to tally a sizable bill.

Conversely, the doctor or hospital honoring credit cards receives immediate payment for services rendered. Presumably this procedure reduces medical overhead involving bookkeeping and collection costs.

Even so, checking into an operating room with credit card in hand may not be the easiest trick to learn.

GIVEAWAY DEPT:

We have five eight-week-old pups who need good homes. The mother is mixed breed and we think part coyote. Father is a miniature collie (Shetland sheepdog.) They can be seen anytime after 5 at the Joe Williams residence, on Sawtooth Blvd. between Eighth and Ninth Street in Buhl.

Remember the picture we had last week of the peculiar potato? We didn't get the name of the fellow who found it because the photog lost his notes! Well, we got a call Saturday which put the matter straight. It was found in October, 1970 by J.A. Ash who lives at 261 Alexander Street in Twin Falls. And he still has the spud to prove it.

I feel that if Gunter had been a "puppet" to the administration, and would have done what ever they wished, he would have been allowed to run for office. But since his wishes are different from the ancient administration, and he will fight for what he believes in, he was not permitted to run for office.

The article also said that Gunter's long hair had no effect on the decision. If it was not important then why was it mentioned? Or why didn't Supt. Bernard allow male students to wear their hair long before the supreme court ruling?

I find it sickening to realize that so many people in our community are blind! If a boy has long hair, he is instantly labeled a communist, radical or a dope-freak, or both.

In closing, I only wish to say to Supt. Bernard and so many others like him — may God forgive them, for they are blind not only in sight but also in their hearts.

Pained

Editor, Times-News: I was pained when I saw beautiful downtown Twin Falls, as your residents call "The Mad Mad Maul." The reason I felt pained was that I started laughing and must have become hysterical because a short time later I noticed some ribs out of place.

As I drove the length of this "No Man's" land, I was almost slammed into about five times. I shudder to think of the results if a person was asleep and attempted the drive alone.

There are advantages to this beautification plan. If a person is able to parachute in he don't have to elbow crowds for position and there is several clerks to help select the items at your leisure. It will also provide shade for the hippie gatherings.

I doubt the great thinkers and planners were trying to put one over on you, so all of this has not been in vain. In time the merchants can return to a fine stand of timber. This building material can be felled for the harvest.

I am trying to think of that old saying. It goes something like, "One can not see the forest for all the trees."

Split post, clerks say

TWIN FALLS — Pressed with increasing duties resulting from legislative changes of recent years, Idaho's county clerks and auditors have called for a division of duties and the election of separate auditors and district court clerks.

Twin Falls County Auditor and Clerk, Harold Lancaster, said today the feeling expressed in the annual convention of the Idaho Association of County Auditors was nearly unanimous for dividing the present office into two separate offices. Clerks met this past week in Salmon and adopted a resolution endorsing a clerk of the district court and county auditor as two separate offices.

Lancaster, who moderated a panel on court reform procedure, said the counties seem to be operating well under the court reform systems and some improvement in court operation has been accomplished at this point.

The court reform measure in 1970 brought a marked increase in the work load of the clerks' offices. It also increased many county clerks' budgets to provide new bookkeeping and cost accounting equipment and systems.

Lancaster said there were some 100 bills adopted by the most recent legislative session which involve the procedure and work loads of the clerks' and auditors' staff members.

Examples, he said, are the complete revision of election laws and the new jury selection method. Lancaster said only Tuesday he received a directive from the Idaho Supreme Court ordering the use of drivers' license application lists of persons over 21 years of age, and utility billing lists for jury selection in addition to registered voters of the county. He said about 13,000 new jurors have already been listed for the local county cases and workers will now have to go through all lists to eliminate duplication, then add new names from the additional sources.

This, he said, is typical of the constantly changing laws which county clerks are required to follow.

The new law also requires questionnaire cards be sent to all of these prospective jurors. "This will cost several thousand dollars in postage alone," Lancaster said, "and of course budgets made up months ago did not cover this additional cost."

Under the new election laws, most procedures will change, he said, which also means more cost to print new material, change procedure and supplies on hand under existing methods.

Lancaster said it will now be the responsibility of the clerks to select registrars and election officials. Previously county commissioners handled these selections, each making appointments from his commission district.

Election laws and new tax regulations including the new school apportionment formula were explained at the annual convention, Lancaster said. Idaho Tax Commission members attended the convention, he said.

After a review of the new school formula, he said, clerks concluded the new formula is simply moving the assessment ratio for school districts up to the full 20 per cent now rather than waiting until 1982 as has been planned for all tax agencies.

In the coming year, auditors will calculate district taxes on the basis of 20 per cent to give an indication of the amount of money which can be raised and will also use the current ratio of the individual counties.

Troop cut vote looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., says Senate prospects for his proposal for a 150,000-man cutback of U.S. troops in Europe are "encouraging."

Mansfield introduced the cutback measure as an amendment to the draft extension bill Tuesday and moved it into a line for a Senate vote, perhaps this week. The action ended five years of discussion, in which a majority of the Senate threatened to vote for a substantial cutback in Europe but never took any action.

"You can have so much patience," the majority leader declared.

Mansfield's amendment, unlike resolutions he has been introducing since 1966 with the enthusiastic support of his colleagues, would carry the force of law. If passed, it would require the administration by the end of the year to withdraw 150,000 of the 309,000 troops now stationed in Europe—a garrison that has existed since the end of World War II.

Last year's Mansfield resolution calling for a "substantial" reduction attracted 51 cosponsors—a majority. The Democratic leader said he believed most of the cosponsors, and others, now would vote for his amendment.

Lawyers ask stay of execution wave

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawyers for 27 death row inmates have asked the Supreme Court to ward off a possible sudden wave of electrocutions and gasings by agreeing to examine more issues dealing with capital punishment.

In a special brief filed Tuesday, 42 attorneys cited several undecided issues—including the ultimate question of whether the death sentence constitutes the "cruel and unusual punishment" forbidden by the constitution.

On May 3 the Supreme Court ruled a jury may decide both guilt and punishment in death penalty cases in a single setting. It also refused to set down guidelines for a jury to use in determining whether the decision was interpreted as evidence the court was moving toward upholding capital punishment.

The lawyers who filed the brief Tuesday represent 27 of about 150 condemned men and women whose cases are now in the high courts. They are among the 624 persons now confined to the death row cells in the 41 states which have capital punishment.

District changes proposed

BOISE (UPI) — A member of the Public Schools Task Force for Legislative Planning told a meeting Tuesday that Idaho's local public school districts need to be reorganized before other educational problems can be solved.

Robert L. Montgomery of Pocatello, said he was not proposing another study on school reorganization, but rather, "how to get a plan through the legislature."

He added: "we're not going to solve our educational problems until we resolve this single issue."

The task force, meeting in Boise to discuss educational problems, elected Byron Johnson, Boise attorney, chairman to replace Dr. J. F. Munson, of Sandpoint, recently appointed by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus to the state board of education.

Roscoe Legreay of Kootenai, was selected vice-president. New Members of the task force elected were Jerry L. Evans of Caldwell; Mrs. Louise Jones of New Meadows; and Mrs. Marilyn Shuler of Boise.

The group will appoint subcommittees to explore five areas of education and make recommendations to the state board of education for action the next session of the legislature.

Areas to be studied include vocational education, finance, school district organization, kindergarten and accountability.

New Gem drug law attacked

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — Controversial Idaho House Bill 261 — the "Uniform Controlled Substance Act" — came under fire Tuesday, this time from Kootenai County Prosecutor Gary M. Haman.

Haman attacked legislators' interpretations of the bill which took effect May 1 making possession of any "controlled" drug a misdemeanor. Such charges had formerly been considered felonies in Idaho.

At a meeting here Saturday, Rep. Robert Haakenson, D-Coeur d'Alene, indicated that the portion of the bill permitted a person convicted of a second or subsequent offense to be fined or sentenced to prison for up to twice the term otherwise authorized.

"It is apparent to anyone who bothers to read the act," Haman said, "that the possession of controlled substances is not covered by the double fine or imprisonment to the new law as it applies to the possession of narcotics or hard drugs with intent to deliver," Haman said.

"We maintain our disagreement as to the provision of the new law providing that mere possession of any narcotic or dangerous drug — whether it be heroin, LSD, marijuana or otherwise — is a misdemeanor," he said.

Haman said there is no provision in the law for increased penalties for each subsequent conviction for possession.

The prosecutor said neither his office nor any other law enforcement agency in Kootenai County was contacted by a legislator prior to the law's enactment and he attacked legislators for voting for a bill "they obviously have not read."

SALT key lies at White House

VIENNA (UPI) — Talks going on now at the White House level in Washington will determine the immediate future of the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) with the Soviet Union, diplomatic sources said Tuesday.

Gerard C. Smith, leader of the U.S. delegation to SALT, returned to Washington Monday for talks with President Nixon and other leaders. The sources said the Vienna round of SALT will end late this month unless Smith brings back a new American initiative. Despite continuing meetings on technical matters, the talks have been hung up since the round began March 15 on a conflict between the Soviet and American positions.

The Soviets have proposed a treaty limiting anti-ballistic missiles (ABMS) to 100 each around Moscow and Washington. The United States has submitted several versions in the past of a "comprehensive" treaty embracing both offensive and defensive weapons.

Candy warning issued

BOISE (UPI) — Burke Cannon, Health Department food and drug coordinator, said Tuesday the Food and Drug Administration has issued a warning against a nationally marketed brand of imported candy beads.

Cannon said the beads contain high levels of a toxic metal, cadmium, which presents a moderate to - severe health hazard to children.

He said the product, sold as a novelty under the brand name "Candy Love Beads," is manufactured in Hong Kong and has been distributed in the United States since Jan. 1. He said more than 600,000 of the beads have been distributed.

Latest polls show experts right: Nixon popularity slips

By EUGENE V. RISHER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: The latest polls tend to substantiate what the experts at the White House and the President himself have known for some time—that Richard Nixon is slipping in popularity.

Dissatisfaction with the war in Vietnam and stubbornly high unemployment have added to the President's woes and taken away some of the promise of the "new American revolution" which he announced in his state of the union message last January.

The latest Harris poll shows Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, the frontrunning Democrat, favored in April by a whopping 47 per cent to 39 per cent over President Nixon with George Wallace of Alabama receiving 11 per cent and 3 per cent undecided.

Even without Wallace in the race, Nixon fared little better, picking up 5 points to 44 per cent. Muskie picked up three points to 50 per cent and 6 per cent were undecided.

There is nothing like panic spreading through the White House, but there is a grim realization that some deeply ingrained trends must now be reversed if Nixon is to win a second term in office.

As a consequence the President can be expected to pay greater attention to the middle American constituency that won him the election in 1968.

Almost as if to dramatize this redefined sense of priorities, brightly colored tents housing a day-long salute to the nation's farmers began springing up on the south lawn of the White House while remnants of the antiwar protesters who massed by the thousands in Washington last week still were in town.

Although the Vietnam War and its constant drain on the nation's resources and energy are the source of many of President Nixon's problems, he is said to be convinced that his policy of reducing the American involvement will have substantially eliminated Vietnam as a negative issue by the time the 1972 political season rolls around.

The President virtually ignored the protesters, turning over to aides the job of coping with them. While they were peaceful, he expressed sympathy for their desire to end the war, but bluntly told them they would not change his policies.

When they got rowdy, he praised the police for cracking down on them.

The President now appears more interested in pushing his domestic reform program than in explaining once again his Vietnam policies in hopes of assuring some of his critics.

In recent speeches before the Chamber of Commerce and the Daughters of American Revolution he has emphasized the conservative aspects of his policies.

President Nixon's basic approach is that nothing is wrong with the American social, economic and governmental system that some reforms and smart management won't cure. And he seems convinced that most people agree with him.

Food label changes proposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government, prodded by five law students, took action Tuesday that could lead to more informative labeling of food products.

The Food and Drug Administration announced it would publish in the federal register the students' proposal that processors of standardized foods, ranging from enriched white bread to peanut butter and jelly, be required to list their ingredients on the label.

Standardized foods are those for which recipes are fixed by FDA regulations. Although they account for 20 per cent of U.S. food products, they are currently exempt from the ingredient disclosure required of non-standardized products.

Publication in the federal register invites comment, pro and con, from those who would be affected by the proposal, permitting the FDA to weigh the evidence and make a decision.

Nabors plans variety tour

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — No matter how big the star, there is a traumatic aftermath — about $9.5 on the Richter Scale seismograph — which leaves the performer numb when his show is cancelled.

This year's victims include Tim Conway, Andy Williams, Don Knotts, Tom Jones, Pearl Bailey and Jim Nabors.

Most performers nurse their wounds, lie low for a while and either return to the air with a new show, hit the nightclub circuit or join the unemployment lines.

Not Jim Nabors of Sylacauga, Ala. No siree, Bob. Ole Jim is off on an ambitious roadshow, heading a troupe of 25 singers, dancers and comedians.

From May 20 through the month of August, Jim and his company will play Lake Tahoe, Dallas, Baltimore, Washington D.C., St. Louis, Indianapolis, Detroit, Kansas City, Chicago and stops in Connecticut and Rhode Island.

"We'll spend a week at each city," Nabors said during lunch in his imposing Bel Air mansion.

"It's singing, dancing, jokes and a lot of fun. We've timed it out at about two hours. The show has some things in common with my television series, but we have a lot of new things too."

Mentioning his CBS series brings a puzzled expression to Jim's face. "His ratings were healthy, more so than many shows that were renewed.

While Nabors is not embittered by the cancellation, he does resent the way in which the network notified him his show was axed. He read about the cancellation in the newspapers.

Asked if he had regrets about his cancellation, Nabors shook his head.

Red troops odd mixture — tough, thoughtful

EDITORS: Kate Webb, UPI bureau manager in Phnom Penh Cambodia disappeared on April 7 while covering military action on Highway 4. Tuesday, she told about her capture by the Viet Cong. In the following dispatch, the second of four she tells about the long march to the place of captivity.

By KATE WEBB

(Our acquaintance with the Communists began at rifle point and ended 23 days later with handshakes and whispers at a pre-dawn release point. Throughout, I found in them an odd mixture of toughness and thoughtfulness. They called themselves the "Liberation Front of Cambodia," with the same conscious humor that the Americans in South Vietnam call themselves a "Military Assistance Command." They were Vietnamese, from the North and South of Vietnam, and like American GIs listen to the Armed Forces Vietnam Network (AFVN). They complained that Cambodian tea was not as good as the tea from the plantations in the North. They sang Vietnamese songs, and as we walked through villages at night, we sometimes heard Cambodians kids calling out "Viet Cong Vietnam," much the same as I have heard South Vietnamese youngsters calling "O.K. GI.")

My notebook entries for the day of our capture were lost when the book was "confiscated," but those first moments will take a long time to forget. The two soldiers who had captured us tied our arms behind our backs with tape, vines and ropes. They ordered us into a nearby bunker and a few moments later approached with a green sack. "It's plastique (an explosive widely used in Indochina)," I thought, and tried to scramble out, passing the word back to the others. We all thought we would be blown to pieces. But the sack was for our cameras and personal effects. One of the soldiers sat methodically taking inventory of our gear and money. They counted the money each of us had and noted the makes of our watches and the details on our ID cards. They brought water, in round North Vietnamese military canteens, but it was not enough. We grabbed at the canteens, drained them and pleaded for more. They brought more from a nearby command post that we had passed without seeing.

Running silently on his thick rubber Ho Chi Minh sandals, one of the soldiers returned with the first—officer—we were to meet. He wore no rank insignia. Only a pistol on an American belt identified him as a superior. His uniform, drab brown shirt and green trousers, was the same as those of the common soldiers.

"You are invited to go to my place where there will be food and water," he said, checking the blings on our arms. "It is a short walk from here."

It was the first of many walks which were never short, always long. It was the worst. Still parched with thirst, tied individually and roped together in a chain with armed guards in front and behind us, we were pushed swiftly along a winding jungle trail.

The trail was one we had crossed several times while trying to elude the Communists, and led back to the Kirirum road "branching off" from Das Kanchor, the Cambodian outpost that had been our hoped for rendezvous point with government troops.

It seemed about two hours before the first rest stop. We lay against a roadside bank. There were yells from nearby trees and soldiers appeared. They stood over us, cocked their rifles and prodded us. Our shoes and Suzuki's glasses were ripped off and the soldiers retied the men with wire, tighter this time. Mine were left alone.

One of the guards walked away and the other sat smoking. I motioned my head at a soldier's canteen and asked for water. The soldier laughed and clicked his AK breach again. Too tired to care, I closed my eyes. "American," I heard the soldier say. "No, no, Anglaise, English," Sarah insisted. Jimmy nudged my shoulder with his. "Water, Miss," he said.

They carry their water in the jungle in ponchos tied by each end to a wooden pole. There must have been two gallons and we drained it as the guards stood by laughing.

Finally, we stopped. Soldiers appeared from the forest and grouped around. I had four cigarettes left and smoked two, which the soldiers lit for me. The other prisoners were taken behind a nearby tree.

They were led off one by one, the Cambodians first. "Food and water; my foot, shot one by one," I thought.

I knew that Charoon, still clad only in his shorts, was thinking the same thing and I tried to move nearer to him. But a guard moved him behind the tree with the others and motioned me to stay where I was. I lay in a hollow by the roadside, dozing.

Nationality Questioned
Many times, a soldier would ask "American?" Many times I repeated, "Anglaise." Night fell. The soldiers appeared like shadows, all clad in the dull blues, browns and green of the Communist "line" soldier—equivalent to the American "grunt" in Vietnam.

A Cambodian wearing a bright blue shirt and civilian trousers appeared from somewhere and soon the other five captives were brought back. They whispered that they had simply undergone questioning by the Vietnamese. The Cambodian, prompted by Vietnamese, announced in Cambodian that we were prisoners of the Cambodian Liberation Forces.

He said we were not to fear for our lives and would be taken a short way to another place. He said the Liberation Armed Forces were "humane."

Our ropes were replaced with green plastic covered wire. Mine, I noticed, were looser than the others. Tied in a chain and warned not to run from the planes, we marched off into the night.

I remember little of that walk, except that we had no shoes. We were passed by shadowy groups of troops, some girls with pony tail hair styles.

Sometime in the middle of the night, we stopped at a military camp which had flimsy shelters over deep bunkers. A Vietnamese, speaking English with extreme difficulty, questioned me... name, age, rank... we were to hear the same questions often during the coming days. This night, the others were questioned separately, in the dark and closely watched by their guards.

They brought us a basket of rice and thick pork fat soup, our first meal in about 40 hours. I ate about a half bowl of the mixture, gagged and threw up on my sleeve. The others didn't seem to notice and continued eating. I drank some tea instead.

Later, I was put in one bunker and the others in another and we slept the few remaining hours until dawn.

I emerged from the bunker streaked with the red dust of its walls. A group of soldiers was eating. I asked if I could wash, pointing to a piece of soap each soldier carried in a strip of plastic. One soldier, amused, took me to a stream and watched as I splashed water over myself and my clothes. I took off my jeans and scrubbed them with sand. I happened to be wearing psychedelic colored Pucci underwear. He stared, fascinated, and motioned with his rifle that I should wash my shirt, too. I grinned at him and shook my head, no.

We were given the breakfast that was to become our staple diet—rice with fatty pork in a salt sauce.

Heang's feet looked like pulp. A soldier threaded them with needle and thread leaving the thread in the swollen places to allow the pus to run out. The Vietnamese knew about sore feet; all had gaping ulcers and scars from their toes to their knees.

Early the same evening we moved again, and again were warned: Don't be afraid of the bombing. Don't run or you'll be shot. There is no reason to be afraid of the planes. We had six guards, two of whom were to stay with us until the moment of our release.

They gave us (with the exception of Charoon) shower shoes which they said were taken from the bodies of paratroopers on Highway 4, which we crossed that night.

We stopped at another camp, a large one right on the highway. The bombs crashed only 50 to 100 yards away but the soldiers, some of them women, stood around casually smoking cigarettes and talking. They laughed at our fear of the planes.

"You-pee-eye," (U.P.I.) said one of the guards. The soldiers laughed. With Suzuki translating, one asked, "Are you afraid of the planes?" "Very," I said. They all laughed again.

It was a long march that night and I found myself dozing off in mid-sleep. Water was rationed and we gave most of it to Moonface. Rest stops were frequent but brief.

The land became flatter, sandier and the trees thinner—similar to the area where eastern Cambodia meets the southern section of South Vietnam. We crossed dried mud pan paddy fields and passed villages, many of them bombed out. Before dawn we stopped at a vacant house. There were mats on the floor and we slept.

We set off at dawn and traveled about an hour to another cluster of bunkers with crude shelters over them. We decided to call the place

"Phum Take!" (Lice Village) because of the huge lice that got into our skin and clothes. It was at "Lice Village" that we had our first lengthy interrogation, and our first real rest. It was April 10. We lazed around during the day and night, dozing and talking to each other, the "first time" we had had any "privacy" since our capture. The guards lay in their hammocks, listening to Radio Hanoi and watching us idly.

Suzuki ripped the pockets from his already ragged trousers and made bandages to tie up my torn toes. We fashioned a crude fan out of a forked stick and rag. Moonface said nothing; his feet looked bad.

An officer interrogated us, one by one. We guessed he was high ranking. He spoke only when necessary and we could not determine whether he was a northerner or from South Vietnam. I nicknamed him the "Bird-man." About 60, pale, very thin and fine featured, he sat at a table covered with a green checkered cloth. He spoke softly and occasionally took notes. They placed me on a log in front of the officer, who was flanked by an interpreter and the most senior of our guards. A piece of camouflaged parachute silk was stretched above their heads and a canteen of tea on the table. I was given half a coconut shell filled with sweet palm-sugar juice.

The interrogation lasted, by my reckoning and a study of the shadows, about two hours. It was exhausting but civilized. I asked, "Why were we on the road, what we know about the road. Was I English? Was I CIA? Did I visit the high command in Phnom Penh? Did I visit the American embassy?" I told the officer there were daily briefings by the Cambodian high command for journalists, and weekly briefings at the American embassy. They found out that I had been a reporter in South Vietnam for two and one-half years. Why did we operate with the Lon Nol puppet troops? The Bird-man asked. I said we followed them—and that we wanted to find out for ourselves what was really happening on the battlefronts. This was the pattern of the questioning. I was told not to fear being killed. I joined Suzuki and the interpreter came by and told us he thought we would go to Hanoi.

Money shortage becomes major problem facing college group

EDITORS' NOTE: Today's students, like their elders, are having serious money problems. Part-time jobs are being taken by the full-time unemployed. The number of students who need financial aid from the government has outstripped the money supply—and a sizeable number of banks are refusing to grant student loans. This is the first of a three-part series examining the situation.

By JOAN DEPPA
United Press International
Carol Sims, 18 and black, sat in a community center in Chicago's South Side ghetto and listened to the counselor outline possible alternatives if none of the nine colleges to which she had applied came up with enough financial aid.

"I've wanted to be a neurologist since I was in the fourth grade, but my family can't help—not at all," the high school senior said.

Her tall, lanky frame slouched in the folding chair, but her dark brown eyes showed determination. She ran a hand over her short cropped hair and accepted the counse-lor's suggestion that she look through catalogues of smaller schools with more money available to help minority students.

Paul Durham, 20 and white, walked across the campus of New York University and told how he was turned down when he applied for a federally guaranteed loan in New Jersey.

"They decided we were not in need," he said. "Somebody in the middle upper income bracket, even though all the money was spent, doesn't have a chance."

The journalism junior said he commutes from his home in Tenafly, N.J., and pays for his tuition—recently raised to $1,500 a year—from magazine work he does in his spare time.

Carol and Paul come from different backgrounds, financially and socially, but they have a problem in common. It is one they share with thousands of their contemporaries across the nation: how to pay for college.

Despite efforts by Congress, the federal government, state legislatures, colleges, foundations and private donors during the past decade, the supply of financial aid has not been able to keep pace with the needs of a mushrooming student enrollment in economically troubled times.

Increasing tuition, declining part-time job markets, the pressures of inflation and "tight money" all have contributed to students' financial problems.

In many cases, the very programs set up to help them—economic opportunity grants, work-study, low-interest national defense loans and higher-interest federally guaranteed loans—either have not worked or become so overburdened they do not function properly.

That is why Carol had to shop around for a college or university not so much on the basis of its pre-med curriculum as on the amount of financial aid it had left to help her through school.

It is why Paul, who planned to take advantage of the federal guaranteed loan program, found his bank had allocated a set amount of its funds for such loans and decided it must give top priority to the neediest applicants.

Carol and Paul probably will manage to get through college one way or another. Thousands like them may not.

Increasingly, low-income students are being forced to try the same route as those better off financially—seeking a federally guaranteed bank loan—because their schools have exhausted the supply of government money for the other aid programs.

Such federal loans carry a 7 per cent interest charge. The federal government, sometimes in cooperation with a state agency, served as co-signer. Theoretically, a student can borrow up to $1,500 a year, although many states limit him to $1,000 annually.

If his family income is less than $15,000 a year, the government pays the interest while the student is in school.

Mammoth body found

MOSCOW (UPI)—The body of an ancient mammoth—complete with bones, skin and hair—was found frozen in Siberia by a Soviet farm worker, the news agency Tass said Tuesday.

Tass said the worker, K. Struchkov, discovered parts of the huge elephant-like mammal jutting through the hard-frozen earth near a tributary of Siberia's Indigirka River.

Loan bid hints given

By United Press International
Here are some hints, gathered in interviews with bankers, college financial aid officers and students for students preparing to apply for a federally guaranteed loan.

—You must be accepted or enrolled in an accredited college or technical school and the loan can be used only for educational expenses.

—Check with your college's financial aid officer to see what other sorts of help you can expect, so that you go no deeper into debt than is absolutely necessary.

—If you qualify for federal subsidy of your interest payments during school (under current law, if your family's yearly taxable income is less than $15,000, the government will pay the 7 per cent interest), your parents will have to fill out a confidential statement, and send it to the financial aid officer of your school.

—Try the bank where you or members of your family have accounts first. A few banks require student borrowers to be customers for six months before the loan; a sizable number lend only to students whose families are regular customers.

—If that fails, try other banks in your hometown or neighboring vicinity. Generally speaking, you must borrow from a bank located in the state where you reside although there are a few exceptions to this rule.

—If the answer is still no, confer with your financial aid officer, state education officials or with the U.S. Office of Education nearest you. They may be able to help or suggest someone who can.

—Remember the loan will be to you, not your parents. It will be your responsibility to repay it, so discuss the size of the debt and how you will repay it with your banker when he grants it—even though you do not have to negotiate the payments formally until you finish school.

Stanley snow off rapidly

STANLEY — Tom Kovalicky, Stanley district ranger, reports that snow is beginning to disappear in the Stanley Basin. Campgrounds along the Salmon River are almost bare of snow and should be ready for use in about two more weeks.

Campgrounds in the district's high country will probably remain blocked by snow until about the first week in June.

Snow measurements taken by district personnel on April 3 show six feet of snow at the Capo Horn Guard Station, seven feet at the Lola Creek Campground, and 10 feet six inches on Vanity Summit.

Kovalicky estimates that snow depths were reduced about two feet in most areas during April.

Warmer weather crop aid

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho farm crops are reacting very favorably to warmer weather, a federal crop report said today.

Crusted soils, the results of heavy rains the past few weeks, are causing a few problems in the Magic Valley, however, by hindering sugar beet and small grain emergence.

In northern Idaho, heavy night frosts caused some heaving in wheat fields, the report said.

Moisture conditions are good in all areas, the report said, and irrigation is fully under way in the southern and western areas of the state.

Range and pasture forage supplies are excellent and hay is being fed only in the higher elevations, the report said.

Are Weeds A growing concern with you?

To weed without feeding...

All it takes is an easy spreader application of KANSEL. It provides the same positive weed control as Scotts PLUS-2—without the fertilizing. So if dandelions, clover and similar weeds are a growing concern, but your lawn doesn't need fertilizing, spread KANSEL now. It will take care of the weeds before they can crowd out any more good grass.

To weed as you feed...

Simply spread Scotts TURF BUILDER PLUS 2. It goes right to work on English daisy, dandelions, clover and most other common lawn weeds. PLUS-2 makes them gradually curl up and disappear—roots and all. At the same time PLUS-2 supplies a full feeding of Scotts Turf Builder. Makes grass grow greener and sturdier, filling in those places where the weeds used to be.

"A good athlete must be willing to sacrifice time and effort to reach his goal and win accept a challenge and pay a great price to succeed," he said. He noted that being a good athlete is not easy and takes a very special type of individual who must accept responsibility, put forth courageous effort and performance, and show self-discipline and a good attitude both on and off the playing field.

Musser wished retiring principal, Arthur Chaburn, the best of luck in his retirement years.

Awards were presented by James Blakely, Jerry Kuykendall, Bill Heaps, Gordon Larson, Noel Ruhter, George Trenkle and Marshall, all members of the coaching staff. Jim Daniels received the award for most improved in track, and also took the most valuable football player trophy and one of the most valuable track awards. Brent Lierman received the other most valuable track trophy.

PLAY IT SOFT AND SAFE

By Mary Sue Miller

The number of allergy incidents resulting from eye makeup has been increasing for the simple reason that more women are using more eye makeup. Although regular products are completely suitable for the great majority of women, the sensitive person is not a rarity.

Like the "damsels" who get a strawberry rash. Then there's the matter of contact lenses. Complaints about irritation can often be traced to cosmetic sensitivity rather than intolerance to lenses. So, what's to do? Give up the enhancement of filmy shadow, pencil accents, mascara?

Fortunately there's a generally recognized Rx. It takes the form of hypo-allergenic products that are first off unperfumed. And that takes care of the No. one culprit in cosmetic allergies. Such other suspect ingredients as lanolin, soap, lacquer and dyes are also omitted. But never fear, what's left in adds up to eye-style glamor.

Like? Like roll-on mascara, stick and brush-on shadow in soft, with-it shades, brush-on brow and liner pencil. Then, there's removal. The process is essential. To the sensitive, this essential must be non-irritating. Hypo-allergenic remover pads are at hand.

Fashion dictates a softly madeup eye. The plus here is a safely madeup eye.

THE EYES OF YOUTH

You are not lost to youthful beauty because of dark circles, puffiness, or wrinkles around the eyes. These problems can be brought under control by proper skin care, cosmetic applications, health habits and facial expressions. Methods are detailed in my leaflet, THE EYES OF YOUTH. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of this newspaper, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Highlight of the district meeting was a speech by Dept. Cndr. Glenn Phillips, Arco.

TWIN FALLS — Shannon Marie Irish, a graduate of Twin Falls High School, was named this week as one of 25 winners of scholarships to Stevens Henager College, Salt Lake City and Ogden, by Jack M. Stevens, president.

She was selected from among 136 high school seniors from 77 high schools throughout the Intermountain area who competed for the scholarships.

Miss Irish is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Irish, Twin Falls. She is registered for an executive secretarial course at the Salt Lake college.

While attending Twin Falls High School, she was active in Girls' League, Pep Club and church activities.

"We congratulate Miss Irish on this outstanding achievement," Stevens said.

"Competition for the scholarships was keen, and winners were selected on the basis of their scholastic records and examination scores. They were chosen not only for their ability, but for their character and all-around balance and achievement."

The wreaths will be made May 29 at the home of Elnora Sept, president, to be placed at the cemetery during the Memorial Day services. Committee members include Emma Stone, Elta Pulsipher and Mrs. Sept.

A letter was read stating the department convention is scheduled June 3, 4 and 5 at Lewiston. Three delegates were elected, Mrs. Pulsipher, Mrs. Charles Smith and Mrs. Sept, with Mrs. Stone, Doris McAnulty and Mrs. Grant Kunkle named as alternates. Mrs. A.E. Williams is department chaplain.

The Flag Day Tea was discussed. Since the June meeting is scheduled for June 14, which conflicts with the tea, the barracks and auxiliary will meet at 7 p.m. that evening with refreshments served instead of a potluck dinner. Further information concerning the events can be obtained by calling 733-0059 or 733-2701.

Mind Your Money

By PETER WEAVER
Listen to this tale of woe from a reader who describes in minute detail how much money he lost on a lemon-flavored, imported, sports car.

Shortly after the warranty was up, he had to pay for: steering column repair ($32.40), tire bubble ($37.84), broken fuel pump ($18.28), short in electrical system ($40.48) and so on down to the grand finale — rebuilt engine ($589.38). All this occurred in less than two years' ownership.

Admittedly, this is an unusually sour case. But too many new car owners suffer similar problems with out-of-warranty repairs. Hoping to advise the reader on how to avoid being trapped in his next purchase, I checked with automobile fleet managers, independent garages and government transportation experts.

Here are some personal opinions formed from the interviews:

SELECTION: If you're looking for a foreign car, Volkswagen and Audi (same company) get high marks for service. Competitors claim this is because the Volkswagen company delivers only as many cars as each dealer can sell. Because they aren't pushed with manufacturers' quotas, few VW dealers will give you a discount off the sticker price. This gives them a good profit and they can afford to adhere to the company's relatively costly rules aimed at giving customers good service.

You hear all kinds of pros and cons about new-car service — American and foreign. For example, a number of taxi fleet managers like a 6-cylinder, 225 cu. in. engine that goes in Dodge Dart and Plymouth Valiant cars. They say this engine was developed 10 years ago and hasn't been changed much since. This is because the fleet managers demanded the same engine year after year. It needs little service and is a money-saver on repairs.

INSPECTION: A new automobile should get careful make-ready service by a dealer when it comes from the factory. Some dealers do a good job on this. Some just wash the car and sell it without checking to see if it's in proper operating condition. Improper make-ready advantage of this clinic," Stoltz said. It is designed and the materials furnished by the Idaho-Oregon Lions Sight Conservation Foundation.

Stoltz asks that children ages 3 and 4 be brought in on Thursday. Those 5 and 6 years old should be brought on Friday, if convenient, he said.

Letters to parents of children in this age bracket have been sent home with their older sisters and brothers from school.

The checking of these children's vision will be done by trained and experienced teams of women under the direction of Mrs. L. W. Sandberg, who is acting as team captain.

The purpose of the clinic is to find vision deficiencies in the children, particularly amblyopia, more commonly known as "lazy eye."

Stoltz said that this slight problem usually occurs in children in this age group, often unknown by their parents.

At age 3 to 6 "lazy eye" usually is easily corrected with professional assistance.

After 6 it becomes increasingly difficult, if not impossible to correct. It can and sometimes does, result in complete blindness in one eye, with accompanying loss of depth perception.

Stoltz said that the findings of the clinic will be recorded on a card for each child and furnished to parents.

"If a vision deficiency is found it will be suggested on the card that the child have a professional examination," Stoltz said.

service can cost you dearly in repairs.

Sen. Phillip Hart (D-Mich.), who has held extensive hearings on auto repairs, recently introduced the "motor vehicle information and cost saving act." If passed, a section of this legislation would make it mandatory for every new (and used) car to be thoroughly inspected by a third party (not involved in auto sales or service) before transfer of title.

The inspection would probably cost a car owner around $5, but it could eliminate as much as $140 in later, needless, repair bills. Hidden malfunctions could be spotted through diagnostic equipment and the dealer would have to put the car in proper operating order before closing the sale.

If you think inspection-before-sale has merit, send your comments to: House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee; Washington, D.C., 20515. The Senate has a good start on this legislation — the House has not.

RENTING: The Bureau of Public Roads, in a recent study, found that the average owner of a medium-priced car spends around $1,200 a year on maintaining his "wheels," providing nothing goes wrong. If there's an accident or some major engine repair needed, the cost can shoot up to $3,000.

Why own a car if your true costs (depreciation, fuel, insurance, repairs) run so high? Why not rent? Some car owners could combine taxis with public transportation in and around most cities and rent a car for weekends or other special trips. Make your own cost comparisons.

You might be able to save considerable money by not owning. You wouldn't need insurance (an increasingly costly item), you wouldn't have to worry about warranties or repairs and you would have the flexibility of being able to pick any kind of transportation (taxi, bus or rent-a-car) to suit your special needs.

Top doctor replacement due

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Nixon administration will announce a candidate this week to replace Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, the government's top doctor, a federal health official told UPI today. The post is subject to Senate confirmation.

The nominee is Dr. Merlin K. Duval, dean of the University of Arizona Medical School in Tucson, the source said. Egeberg is being eased out of the job of Assistant Secretary for Health, Education and Welfare Department (HEW) but will remain with the government. "There is no question he (Duval) will be coming," the source said. "It's just a matter of when they can get him here for the announcement." He said the announcement would be made at a Washington news conference.

'What happened?' in Gem saga, magazine asks

TWIN FALLS— "What really happened on Sawtooth Mountain?" True Magazine asks this question, but offers no further speculation, in detailing the saga of Robert Bailey and Joe Conquest and their 53-day ordeal in the Idaho wilderness last winter. The magazine will be on the newsstands Wednesday in the Magic Valley.

The True Magazine recounting of the Bailey-Conquest epic is the second report authorized by Bailey and Mrs. Joe Conquest, widow of the hunter who failed to survive the subzero cold and the loneliness while awaiting rescue. Life Magazine printed the first report in March.

The True Magazine story, entitled "One Lived — One Died," goes into much more detail than had been released previously by Bailey to any reporters, including the Life Magazine team who interviewed him earlier this year. Bailey and Charles Fox, associate editor of True Magazine, went back into the Idaho wilderness to trace the route the surviving Bailey took in his walk to safety, after he and Joe Conquest were stranded by deep snow in the Pioneer Mountains of the Challis National Forest.

The article features a two-page blue-tinted photo of the "gray and white 1953 Ford panel truck" in which the two men were heading for a hunting trip last November. The photo shows only the top of the truck, mired window-deep in snow.

A photo of the men's joint diary accompanies the article... a page carrying the stark notation "Dec. 27 Sun. 29 days... awake most of night. Worried about Bob. Wind blew all night and day. Snow most of day. Out of food. Just soup bones enough for 3 pots. Spent most of the day making 1 pot soup and praying for Bob."

In vivid detail, Fox's article recreates the scene, and points up where Bailey and his companion took a wrong turn which not only stranded them far from help but led rescuers astray when they searched where they thought the two men might be. They were stopped by a cattle guard "drifted over with snow," but surmounted the obstacle and continued heading for their rendezvous with fate until, "Twenty miles beyond the guard, the Ford's headlights picked up a second drift blocking the road. It didn't look much more than a foot deep, so Conquest dropped his speed to 15 mph and churned into the snow. Ten feet short of a clear road on the far side, the truck ground to a halt on the hump-backed center of the road, its rear wheels spinning uselessly."

The men spent the rest of the night trying to dig out the car, without the shovel they had forgotten, but in vain; then worked all the next day with no success. They shot a "two-point buck" for food, then, the second morning, found that a heavy overnight snowfall had dumped two and a half feet, according to Bailey's estimate, over the entire area.

"The Ford was buried to the door handles and the road had vanished. It was Sunday, November 29," the account said.

The author continues to paint a story of tragedy — tragedy nearly averted when searchers riding snowmobiles could be seen by the stranded men; but who failed to look their direction, and nearly averted again when a small plane flew 150 feet directly overhead — and again the would-be rescuers looked the other way.

And so they waited, as the saga now well known unfolded amid "60-below-zero" temperatures and freezing flesh. The holidays came for civilized folk, safe in their warm homes; in Muldoon Canyon "a few mountain men kept looking. On Christmas Eve Lon Jarvis and his two sons stayed out from their ranch at the East and North Fork river junction. They intended to search the Burma road as far as the entrance to Muldoon Canyon, but one of their snowmobiles broke down and they had to turn back."

And so the tale goes... the long wait, the decision to walk out, and Bailey's incredible journey through the Idaho wilderness winter. The journey, however, "was made not only possible but also much more pleasant with lengthy sojourns in the Copper Basin Ranger Station and other shelters along the way."

"At the end of the journey, according to the detail-minded writer, "... he found fresh snowmobile tracks beside the river.

the base's command post and radio communications bunker were destroyed.

Capt. Victor P. Ferraris, 28, Bryn Mawr, Pa., who was in the command post, said that three mortar rounds hit its roof and he attempted to trip the warning siren but it had been knocked out. Then he attempted to telephone to order firing of parachute flares to light the attack scene but found the phone line out.

Soldiers who survived the attack said there were gaping holes in the barbed wire concerning protecting the perimeter of the fire base. The holes were wide enough to allow returning infantry patrols to walk through, the men said.

Survivors said sappers with their explosive charges of TNT apparently were hiding in the barbed wire when the Communist mortar barrage began. In the first moments of the attack

Red raid report readied in Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—The U. S. command said Tuesday it is preparing a report requested by congressmen on the Jan. 28 Communist raid in which 33 American soldiers were killed and 76 wounded at Fire Support Base Mary Ann.

Military sources said the congressmen made the request after receiving complaints of lax security at the base from relatives of the men stationed there. The base was in the process of being closed down at the time.

The casualties at Mary Ann, 32 miles from the South China Sea and 330 miles northeast of Saigon, were the worst inflicted on an American unit in nearly two years.

A U.S. command spokesman said the inquiry was "confidential." Military sources said the American Division was making its own investigation into the incident.

Lt. Col. William Doyle, 39, the commander of the fire support base, said in an interview three days later that three of his four companies were searching the hills outside the base when the pre-dawn Sunday morning raid occurred.

Doyle said the base's 105mm howitzers and half of its mortars had been removed prior to the attack.

Nearly half of the men at the base were killed or wounded in the attack, including Doyle who has since been taken to the United States for treatment.

Choral groups slate concert

TWIN FALLS — Choral music at its best, as the skilled artisans of the Twin Falls Junior and senior high schools perform it, is on tap Thursday evening in the Twin Falls High School Gymnasium.

Students from the seventh grade through high school, all under the direction of music instructor Richard Snack, will open the concert at 7:30 p.m. with a combined seventh-and-eighth grade ukulele group playing a variety of folk songs, including "Tom Dooley," "You are My Sunshine," "I'll Never Fall in Love Again," "Edelweiss," and "Green, Green."

The concert is presented as a part of the national Music Week commemoration. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students with children under 12 admitted without charge.

The Vera C. O'Leary Junior High vocal ensemble, which earned a "one-plus" rating at the District 4 Junior High Music Festival last weekend at Gooding, will offer three lyrical numbers, accompanied by Lynette Berry, including Roy Ringwald's arrangement of a 1899 London air, "Tobacco is a Wasting Weed"; "Clap Your Hands," and "Go 'Way From My Window."

Sue Coleman will accompany the high school girls' chorus in five numbers, including

Servicemen

BRIAN JACOBS
TWIN FALLS — Airman Brian L. Jacobs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Jacobs, Twin Falls, has completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., and has been assigned to Lowry AFB, Colo., for training in the supply field. He was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1968 and attended the College of Southern Idaho. His wife is the former Brenda Potter, Twin Falls.

KIMBERLY — Airman Gene R. Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton D. Kerr, Kimberly, has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill., for training as a parachute rigger. He completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. He attended Kimberly High School and is married to the former Sharron Davis, Pasco, Wash.

"Daffodils," "If You Stand Very Still," "A Girl's Garden," "Where Do I Begin," from "Love Story," and "Give Me Your Throat, Your Poor," by Irving Berlin.

Lynette Berry will then return to accompany the O'Leary choir in a familiar series of numbers, including "Fa Una Canzone," "All Day I Hear," "Climbin' Up the Mountain," "Consider Yourself," from "Oliver," and an arrangement of The Pledge of Allegiance by Alfred Reed.

Moving up the scale in grades, the high school madrigal singers will next take the stage with Jeannine Berry, Lynette's sister, in her familiar role as accompanist. Mel Morrison will add a touch of percussion to the madrigals' music, which will include a Russian folk song, "Fireflies"; "Where the Bright Sun," by William Byrd; Harry Simeone's arrangement of "We've Only Just Begun"; an arrangement of "Both Sides Now," and the familiar "Put Your Hand in the Hand."

Jeannine Berry and Mel Morrison will remain onstage for the concluding portion of the musical extravaganza — the high school concert choir: "The elder brothers and sisters" of the musical world, gaining valuable experience in public musicmaking with their several concerts throughout the school year, will offer a variety ranging from soft madrigals to rhythmic percussion-background numbers.

Their portion will begin with three madrigals: "O Mistress Mine, Where are You Roaming?" "Take, O Take Those Lips Away," and "Sigh No More, Ladies, Sigh No More." An unusual "African Mass" by Kyrie, featuring baritone Nathan Howard in a solo, will speed up the tempo. Others on the agenda include "Make A Joyful Sound"; A Robert Shaw version of "If I Got My Ticket," featuring tenor soloist Bill Braun, who was applauded recently as "The Artful Dodger" in "Oliver," and, as a concluding number, a melodic, moving "Father, Lead Me Day By Day."

Anti-war leader hits Nixon view

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Common Cause Chairman John W. Gardner said Tuesday President Nixon is playing with "social dynamite" by refusing to recognize that public opinion has shifted dramatically against the Vietnam War.

And Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., said he was convinced after a recent trip to Vietnam that the administration actually has no plan for the complete withdrawal of U.S. troops from Indochina.

Both Gardner and Eagleton told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Americans of all persuasions were rapidly uniting against the war.

As evidence, Gardner said his citizen's lobby had pledged from 139 House members—110 Democrats and 29 Republicans—to support a total troop pullout by Dec. 31, 1971.

Bighorn to keep section of land near Challis

BOISE (UPI)—Deciding the highest and best use of the land was for a bighorn sheep habitat, the State Land Board Tuesday rejected land sale applications for 640 acres of state land northeast of Challis.

Instead, the board decided to lease the land to the Fish and Game Department for $180 per year.

George and Joyce Hammond of Salmon asked that the land be sold but the Land Department recommended the board reject the application.

The department said it felt the land was best suited for a bighorn sheep habitat and that a recent helicopter survey turned up 27 to 28 bighorn sheep in the section of land involved.

Board members, meantime, approved a joint management agreement with Kaniksu National Forest for the Selkirk Crest area between Priest Lake, Priest River and part of Kootenai River.

This area, which Land Commissioner Gordon Trombley said is rugged alpine country containing 15 mountain lakes, numerous alpine meadows and well-known peaks, includes 14,500 acres of state land, 19,000 acres of federal lands and 1,300 acres of private land.

Of the state land only 1,854 acres are classed as marginal commercial forest land, Trombley said in a memorandum to the board. He said adoption of the plan will not reduce the allowable timber cut on state lands in the area.

Primary classifications of the land will be for such recreational uses as hunting and fishing "with due consideration for protecting watershed values."

In other action, the board:

— Approved subject to inspection and correction by the attorney general's office a $1 per year lease of a building at the old soldiers home to the Idaho Association for the Physically Handicapped Adults. The association plans to use the building for a pilot project.

— Approved four land sale applications covering 360 acres in Owyhee, 320 acres in Butte and 162 acres in Cassia Counties but rejected proposed sale of 2,800 acres in Owyhee and 640 acres in Jerome counties.

— Approved renewal of a sand and gravel lease of Vernon E. Sandy on the Kootenai River bed in Blaine County for one year with the understanding the board may adjust the rate during the lease. At present it is 10 cents per cubic yard.

— Directed mineral examiner Ed Middlemist to report to the June board meeting on his findings regarding mineral leases with an eye to raising rates on all of them.

— Agreed to help the Ada Development Council plan for soil surveys but refused to put any money into them on grounds the budget is too restricted.

— Accepted the invitation of Aquaculture Industries, Inc., Hagerman, to tour its fish ponds on an estuary below Bridal Veil Falls and discuss an alleged trespass there.

— Discontinued after May 15 maintenance of the former Southern Idaho College of Education campus at Albion and asked that $10,000 left for that purpose be spent on upkeep of the vacant Tuberculosis and Chest Disease Hospital at Gooding.

Board members also discussed but took no action on requests from motorcycle clubs for off-highway trail riding lands in the Boise Valley.

Balkan links closer

ATHENS (UPI)—By restoring its diplomatic relations with Communist Albania, Greece has brought its ties with other Balkan states to a point unparalleled since the outbreak of World War II.

Greece's neighbors include Bulgaria, orthodox Communist and one of Moscow's most satellites; Romania, with a strongly anti-liberal domestic policy, but flirting with both Communist China and the United States; Yugoslavia, with its own brand of communism since its break with Moscow in 1948; and Albania, its borders closed to most foreigners, whose Communist bosses are the only Stalinist ruling group in Europe and also the only non-Asian satellite of Communist China.

Yugoslavia was the first Balkan country to establish relations with Greece after its break with the Soviet Union in 1948. The two countries rapprochement was promoted by the fact that Yugoslavia's were Greece's only neighbors never to be at war with her.

Greek-Bulgarian relations have never been so warm as they are now, especially considering the hatred they have shared for each other over the centuries. Speaking during the 10th congress of the Bulgarian Communist party, Bulgaria's Communist chief, Todor Zhivkov, said that relations with Greece continue to advance satisfactorily and he expressed his country's desire for further friendly ties.

During the same congress, Bulgaria violently criticized Albanian leadership. "Albanian leaders have sunk into the quagmire of opportunism and anti-Sovietism," Zhivkov said.

Greek diplomatic sources said that Bulgarian vehemence against Albania may be due to indications that Communist China is trying to create a pro-Peking axis in the Balkans extending from Tirana to Bucharest through Belgrade. The same sources said that a senior Peking official was expected to visit Albania for this purpose early this summer.

Romania seems to be only Balkan Communist country which enjoys good relations equally with Greece and its fellow Communist neighbors.

"We have nothing to divide us," a Greek official said, meaning that the two countries shared no common frontiers and therefore had nothing to worry about in the way of nationality or territorial problems—the root cause of friction among other Balkan countries.

In addition, Greece and Romania are enjoying increasing trade relations, and their 1971 commercial agreement provides for exchanges of $30 million, an increase of 40 per cent over the previous agreement.

Diplomatic observers expect that the establishment of Greek-Albanian relations will be welcomed both in Yugoslavia and Romania, and that it could aid the stability of peace in this area.

8 testify at Burley trial

BURLEY — Eight witnesses were called to testify Tuesday in the first degree murder trial of Jesse Garcia, Burley, charged with the March 4 shooting of Anaclito (Chico) Diaz, in a main street tavern. Gordon Nielson, Cassia County prosecuting attorney, called a number of witnesses to the shooting who delivered their testimony in Spanish with George Galvan, Twin Falls, serving as interpreter for the court. Testimony by state witnesses resumed Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. with Fifth District Judge Sherman Bellwood hearing the case. A 12-member jury was selected Monday. Witnesses called to the stand by Nielson Tuesday included Ernest Ybarra, bartender at the East Side Bar where the shooting occurred, and Sebastian Garcia, who was in the bar at the time. Both told of a grudge between the defendant and victim and of an argument in the bar prior to the shooting. Ybarra said he called the police after the shooting occurred. Barbara Nelson, a nurse at Cassia Memorial Hospital reported the condition of the victim at the time of his arrival at the hospital. He died several hours after being wounded. Gary Raamussen, a customer, and Lois Ybarra, wife of the bartender, both in the vicinity, also testified as to conversations they heard and Nicholas Rosallas, a patron in the bar substantiated their testimony. Ambulance driver, Roger Porter, told of being called to the bar on March 4 and taking the wounded man to the hospital. Pathologist Dr. Robert Maier, Twin Falls, reported on an autopsy and stated death was caused by the bullet wounds. Tom Church, Jr., has been retained as counsel by the defendant.

CAA head returns from plan session

TWIN FALLS — Dennis Pratt, director of the South Central Community Action Agency, returned Tuesday night from Boise where he attended the Governor's Conference on Planning. Pratt said those attending the conference came from many government and public agencies. Purpose of the conference, attended by other Magic Valley officials, was to set out some guidelines to coordinate planning in the state, he said. Pratt said there are now more than 160 agencies in the state which are involved in planning and that it felt coordination could eliminate overlapping of planning. He said six regional areas for planning are proposed. One will be essentially for the Magic Valley. Pratt said the number of people served in each district ranges from about 80,000 in North Idaho to 235,000 in the district surrounding Boise. The Magic Valley district will serve over 100,000 people, he said. Pratt said one suggestion made at the meeting was to set up a state clearing house for all proposed planning projects. He said the purpose would be to encourage area governmental bodies to work together on planning in their areas. He said some follow-up work on the state planning proposal will be done.

Level up, flow cut on Snake

COEUR D'ALENE (UPI) — The Idaho Power Co. began reducing the flow of water in the Snake River Tuesday, but the river was expected to continue rising through Thursday because of increased runoff. The company said it is gradually reducing flow over its Hells Canyon Dam to 401,000 cubic feet per second because of a request by the Army Corps of Engineers to help control near flooding conditions on the Snake and Columbia rivers. Meanwhile, the Washington Water Power Company said the level of Lake Coeur d'Alene was expected to remain high for the next couple of weeks, but is not expected to reach flood proportions.

Doctor in wreck

SHOSHONE — A car driven by Mrs. Mary Saras was demolished when it collided with a 1969 car driven by Dr. Paul Jacobson at the intersection of East 3rd and U. H. Highway 93, in Shoshone. Mrs. Saras and her passenger, Charles Saras, were treated by a Shoshone physician and released. Dr. Jacobson was not injured. His car received about $200 damage in the Monday mishap, according to investigating officers.

Incumbents returned

RICHFIELD — A school trustee election Tuesday afternoon in Richfield saw no contests with both incumbents returned to office. Burl Akins received six votes in Zone 1 and Mrs. Peggy Robinson received 14 votes in Zone 2. Each will serve a three-year term.

KING HILL — Two incumbent trustees and three new trustees were elected Tuesday in balloting in Elmore County School District No. 192. In Zone 1, the east Glens Ferry and King Hill areas, Bud Allen was returned to the board for a two year term. He had 32 votes, while write-in candidate Mrs. Ralph Gluch received 19 votes and write-in candidate Allen Daniels received 10 votes. Incumbent Dick King received 47 votes in Zone 5, southeast of Glens Ferry, to defeat his opponent Dick Anderson, who received 27 votes. King was elected to a two-year term. In Zone 2, in the Hammett and west Glens Ferry area, Mrs. Jack Handley, who received 27 votes, narrowly defeated her opponent, John Solsabal with 21 votes, for a three-year term. Bert Walker, with 37 votes, won a three-year term in Zone 3, northwest of Glens Ferry. Larry Maxwell received two write-in votes for the three-year term. Gerald Bybee received 47 votes for a one-year term in Zone 4, southwest of Glens Ferry. His opponent, James Carpenter, received 37 votes. There were 311 votes cast.

Talk set

ST. MARIES (UPI) — Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, is scheduled to keynote the annual spring meeting of the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce here Friday night.

Jerome visit closes

JEROME — Tupperware officials left Jerome this morning after a two-day visit to begin concluding details toward the construction of the $5 million plant, which is planned south of town on old Highway 79. John Ansley, Orlando, Fla., president of the firm, said this morning it will probably be early spring 1972, before the plant can get into production. He said the first step will be the rezoning of the site on land owned by Dr. Wesley Rose and Dr. Charles Parker, part of which is now agricultural, to industrial. The two optometrists this morning submitted the application for the change to the county zoning board. Dr. Parker said he has been assured by county commissioners that the zoning change should be approved soon. The lawyer with the Dart Corp., of which the Tupperware firm is a subsidiary, is expected in town later this week to sign papers with the owners of the land. Ansley said the firm will drill its own wells on the site and local bids will be solicited on the construction of the plant. The firm will not begin hiring until about three months before the start of production. Interested persons are asked to leave their names with the employment office in their own community. The Tupperware officials said while in Jerome that their firm is active in community affairs wherever a plant is located.

Richfield returns canvassed

RICHFIELD — Trustees of the Richfield School District met Tuesday afternoon to canvass votes from the trustee election and tour the district's buildings in preparation for the summer work program. Plans were made to paint several of the class rooms and other portions and to improve the lockers in the high school. The cafeteria will also be painted this summer. Superintendent Neil Anderson announced a vocational education program to be conducted at the Carey High School this summer will be open to Richfield students. Courses to be offered in auto mechanics and welding. The Richfield School District will provide transportation. Trustees tentatively approved the 1971-72 school budget and authorized a public hearing late in May. A definite date and budget figures will be announced in the near future, Anderson said. New equipment purchased for the business department, home economics classes and hot lunch program was inspected by the trustees.

Students pick slate

HANSEN — Mark Barnes has been elected student body president of Hansen High School, it was announced today by school officials. Roger Stevens will be vice president; Holly Johnson, secretary; David Lockwood, treasurer; and Bonnie Larson, assistant treasurer.

Gooding trustees kill bandroom alteration

GOODING — The Gooding school board has rejected a request from Joe Goss, Gooding High School music director, for changes in the proposed band room in the new high school. With Goss were three students who asked him to remain with the school and the board not accept his resignation which has been submitted by Goss. Goss had announced at a concert last month the new proposed facilities for the band room were not adequate and also that he was going to resign. Goss said the new high school

Cycle race, jump slated

TWIN FALLS — About 1,000 motorcyclists are expected to participate May 22 and 23 in Motocross races at the Snake River Canyon jump site, according to Euel Knevel, who is connected with Snake River Canyon Enterprises, organizer of the event. Knevel will give an exhibition motorcycle jump Sunday, leaping across 13 cars lined up door-to-door. Knevel said he plans to make his motorcycle jump across the Snake River Canyon at the jump site either on July 4 or Labor Day, 1972. He said a motocross race pits drivers against each other on a natural terrain track. The track will go around lava rock, across irrigation ditches and will lead across his jump ramp on each lap. Knevel, who returned to Twin Falls Monday night after a tour promoting the motocross races, said 10,000 spectators are expected in Twin Falls for the event this month. The race site is off of Falls Avenue East near the Park Ranch. He said the site is being signed this week.

Addition finance explored

By MYRTLE SCHRENK
Times-News Writer
WENDELL — Wendell school trustees are exploring possibilities of financing an addition to the high school to provide for an expanded vocational program. Supt. Lawrence LaRue said two representatives from the Idaho First National Bank, Charles Ireton and Jerry Nowlin, discussed details of funding with trustees at the Monday night board meeting. He said at present the school offers only vocational agriculture, and trustees would like to add other industrial arts classes, but this would necessitate a separate building to house the vocational classrooms and extend the physical education facilities. LaRue said the board members are not sure enough money could be raised until after one bond is paid off July 1, 1972, and plans also hinge upon their being able to purchase land close enough to the present building, and at a reasonable price. He said trustees will interview architects to further explore all facets of the proposed project. In other business, trustees decided to operate just one driver education class next year instead of two as in past years, because of lack of state funding. Yogi Behrens will assist LaRue in working out details. Trustees also: — Approved purchase of an oven and tables for the hot lunch program under the state hot lunch program which provides 75 per cent funding. — Approved a maintenance program outlined by LaRue which includes seal coating of part of the high school roof, repair of playground equipment, new furnace at the high school and hot lunch equipment. — Approved the attendance of Jim Benson, Dorothy Berni and Ellen Cox at a state vocational educational meeting in Moscow in June. — Adopted the 1971-72 school calendar with classes to begin Aug. 23 and end May 19, 1972.

Teacher, aide due on staff

TWIN FALLS — The South Central Community Action Agency will hire a Head Start teacher and an educational developer with part of $23,000, refunded to the agency by the federal government. Dennis Pratt, agency director, said the educational developer will be working with all Head Start programs in the tri-county area served by the CAA. That person will work with curriculum development and several other facets of Head Start programs in Twin Falls, Cassia and Jerome counties, Pratt said. He said portions of the $23,000 also will be used in other ways in Head Start.

Easter Seal given money

Members of the Kimberly-Hansen MIA have presented the Twin Falls Easter Seal Center with $75 collected from their community. Mrs. Merle Stoddard said the collection represented the work of four girls during one day's time. She said this is typical of the generous efforts of the MIA groups from LDS churches throughout the county. In Murtaugh where the MIA was the only group making solicitations a total of $94 was raised. In Twin Falls the group collected $284 and in Piler, $25.71 with girls collecting $25. Mrs. Stoddard said the funds will help direct programs in therapy for children using the local center.

Kimberly firm bids

BOISE — Lone Pine Equipment Co., Inc., Kimberly, was apparent low bidder among three for furnishing aggregate for road-mix pavement and cover coat material, the Idaho Department of Highways said today. The firm submitted a bid of $44,705 for stockpiling materials on U.S. 20-28 and on State Highway 88 in Lincoln, Butte and Blaine counties.

Rupert gets federal aid to remodel Legion hall

By JERRY HERRMANN Times-News Writer
RUPERT — Approval of an application for federal funds by the city of Rupert to further a community wide Senior Citizens program was announced today by Terry Duffin, city parks and recreation director.

He said funds will be used to remodel the Rupert American Legion Hall as a center of activities for the program and to introduce various activities and projects for the group. The hall will also continue to serve as headquarters for the American Legion.

in turn looked to the Idaho Office on Aging for help in setting up the program for the first three years.

This is just one way the senior citizens of this area will be able to participate in worthwhile activities during their leisure time, Duffin said.

Duffin said current plans include recreation programs, leisure time activities, adult education and social and community services.

As a result Will Overgaard, chief of the Idaho Office on Aging, visited Rupert and discussed the program with the Senior Council and Duffin.

On one visit to Rupert, Overgaard said he might make Rupert a model for other cities to follow on this program.

He also said, "The city of Rupert is proud to be initiating this most needed program for its senior members. With the continued support of the community this program cannot be anything but a huge success."

Once this council was formed it directed Duffin to try for federal funds from Title III of the Older Americans Act of 1964.

"Title III of this act provides for the distribution of federal funds to help senior groups get started with the needed activities and facilities."

"Funds are provided for three years with the federal share being 75 per cent the first year, 60 per cent the second year and 50 per cent the third year."

"After this period of time the organizing agency is supposed to assume complete financial responsibility for the project," Duffin said.

The next regular business meeting will be June 7 in the Jerome or Wendell area with time and place to be announced. Wives of the members were guests for the dinner meeting and installation program.

In this case the city of Rupert is the organizing agency and the city's park and recreation director is its acting agent to deal with the federal government on this program.

Duffin also said that in the state of Idaho there are now 15 active senior citizen groups which have received Title III assistance in starting programs for the senior citizens.

Husbands of the members were special guests, and a social hour was held prior to the banquet.

Wendell Work begins on mobile park

WENDELL — Work has begun on a 36-unit mobile home park in the southwest corner of the city and will be ready for use June 1, according to Dr. M. E. Scheel, owner.

Dr. Scheel stated the park will be called Valley View Mobile Home Park and is destined to accommodate the new modern 14 and 16 foot and double width mobile homes.

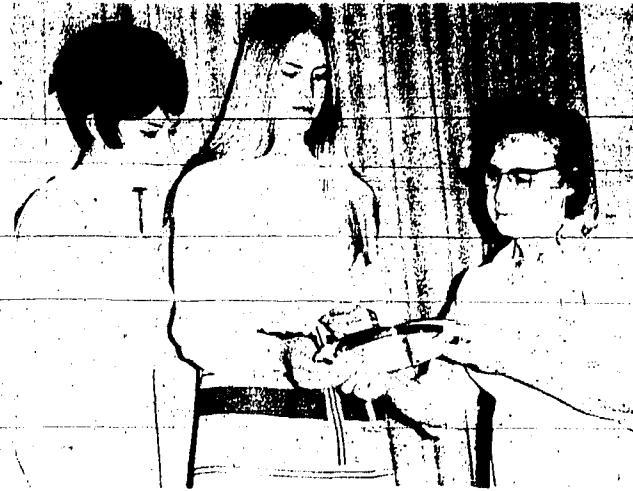

The facility is for permanent homes and when finished will include a recreational area, complete with sewer, water, gas and telephone hookups.

Mark Koll, Wendell Realty, representative of Star Craft Homes, Boise, announced that four new homes will be built in the coming weeks on double lots in the northwest part of the city on land formerly owned by John Wert.

Koll and Wert, salesmen, say there is a plan available to fit the need of all home buyers. Star Craft homes are fully carpeted, come with or without a basement, feature three large bedrooms, a bath-and-a-half. Work has begun on one foundation and others will be started within two weeks.

The houses have VA and FHA approved loans.

Wendell teacher quits after 33 years work

WENDELL — After 33 years of public school teaching, Mrs. Frances Lamb has resigned from the Wendell school system with the intent of spending the winters with her husband in Mexico and the summer months working in her yard.

Mrs. Lamb, journalism advisor and librarian of Wendell High School, was named Advisor of the Year at a convention this spring. She began her teaching career in 1929 at Baker, Ore., where she taught the first four grades.

Before coming to Wendell in 1945 she taught in Salmon, New Meadows and Mountain Home in both secondary and elementary schools. During her 28 years at the Wendell schools she has taught as well as instructing at both the secondary and elementary levels. She has taught journalism, English and one graduate library class a year for Idaho State or University of Idaho for teachers since 1961.

She has served as advisor for the Trojan Echo, school paper and the high school annual for many years.

Mrs. Lamb, a native Idahoan, was born in Salmon in 1909 and is a graduate of the Lewiston Normal School with a degree in primary education, University of Kentucky with a B.S. in English and the University of Oregon with a M. S. in library science.

She has received scholarships to study at University of Minnesota, Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge, Pa.; and at Washington State.

She married Herschell Lamb in 1935 and they both taught until the time of his retirement in 1965. The Lambs have a son and a daughter and three grandchildren. Stanton is a lieutenant commander in the U. S. Navy, stationed at Portsmouth, Rhode Island. Linda is in Chicago.

Students and personnel of the Wendell school state they are happy that she is able to retire and travel but in the next breath

Curriculum updated

WENDELL — Will Spalding, principal of Wendell High School, has received word that a curriculum he has developed for use beginning the fall semester of the 1971-72 school year will be featured in the next year's Northwest Accreditation Manual.

Spalding stated the new curriculum will be on a semester rather than a yearly basis. New courses with more descriptive titles will be offered in hopes of attracting more interest.

He explained in English, for example, courses such as creative writing, expository writing and contemporary literature will be offered.

In vocational agriculture welding, small motor repair, animal husbandry and crop production will replace the old Ag. I, II and III concept.

This modernization will encompass all other areas of study in the high school, Spalding says. The project originated because of the feeling a number of the courses were archaic and not meeting the needs of the student because of low enrollment, apathy and a lack of relevance of the contents of the courses, he said.

Spalding said after talking to state department officials, college and high school faculty members, students, farmers, ranchers and other patrons, the total curriculum of the school was evaluated, revised and hopefully streamlined and modernized.

Starting next fall, general graduation requirements will declare Wendell High School will "never be the same without her."

They say they have lost something very valuable, something which will be very hard to replace as they are losing a friend, teacher and librarian all in one blow. As they say good-bye to Mrs. Lamb they also express appreciation and thanks to her for the many years of service to the youth of Wendell.

be 34 credits instead of 17 units. Students will register twice a year, in the fall and early in the year and over a period of four years, a student will be exposed to 30 or 40 different areas rather than 20 as has been the case in the past, Spalding said.

One of the advantages of the new program, he said, is it will be implemented with little or no cost to the district. Some minor changes in literature and English books will be made but the board was planning to spend some money in this area anyway.

Spalding reports faculty members are enthusiastic about the changes and an increased enrollment in some areas is very noticeable on the pre-registration forms.

Students place in contest

WENDELL — Three members of the Wendell High School commercial class, Earl Jones, Paul Smith and Valaune Peterson, were named third place winners at the 22nd annual Ricks College Bookkeeping contest.

Ten high schools participated and this is the first year that members of the Wendell commercial classes have entered the event.

Kathryn Serr, Wendell, placed high in shorthand competition with 80 words a minute.

So what's new?

NEW YORK (UPI) — A museum which exhibits fashions dating back to 1862 is housed at the Traphagen School of Fashion. Many of today's "hot" styles can be found among the collection, completing a full cycle, says Wanda Widowka, the school's director.

Artists of month

Paintings displayed

WENDELL — Paintings of three Gooding artists are hanging in the Idaho First National Bank, Wendell Branch, and the women are being featured as artists of the month, according to Mrs. Lois Hama, Wendell, president of the Gooding County Sagebrush Artists.

The three — Mrs. Barbara Durfee, Mrs. Rita Byram and Mrs. Bonnie Holloway — all belong to the Sagebrush Artists. Mrs. Durfee first became interested in painting when a sixth grader in Twin Falls and received some training in the use of oils and pastels from her teacher, Cleo Riggs.

During her school years, which were during World War II, art was set aside for Home Economics, school activities, dating, marriage and a family. It was just four years ago that she was able to again pursue her interest in arts. While her husband was working on a master's degree she enrolled in an art history appreciation class.

After her daughter who was a sixth grader won a Christmas Art contest, both she and her daughter began a course of study under Marilyn LaCroix. Mrs. Durfee has also studied under the direction of Nadine Rice and Lee K. Parkinson.

Mrs. Byram started painting a year and a half ago, fulfilling a "life" long desire. She has studied under the direction of Charlotte Duggan, Wendell; Marilyn LaCroix, Gooding, and Jane Hill, Wendell, as well as profited from advice from other guild members.

She stated that her husband is her greatest critic and with his assistance she enjoys every minute of her painting and wishes she had started lessons many years ago.

She is the niece of Grace Gill, Kimberly, a local artist.

Mrs. Holloway says that she worked with charcoal and pastels while she was in school more than 30 years ago but the only painting she had done in oil prior to 1968 was a few paint "by number" she and her husband had worked on together.

Her painting began when she painted a horse's head on the back of a ruined canvas with left-over paints.

DEAR ABBY: I see a lot of your readers are "sports widows." That's rough. But until a woman has become a "stamp widow," she doesn't know what misery is. Sports are seasonal and there is a limit to the amount of time and money they take, but a stamp collector is something else.

We have stamp albums, stamp literature and stamp hinges all over the place. Also, cigar boxes filled with loose stamps. He corresponds with stamp collecting pen pals all over the world, and he reads their boring letters to me.

I didn't know he was a stamp collector until after I married him. Then it turns out he's been collecting stamps since he was 8 years old. Not only does he collect stamps, he buys collections from other collectors. It's like a disease. How can I stamp out stamps? —STAMPEDED

DEAR STAMPEDED: Why try to stamp out stamps? It's the only hobby you can lick!

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if the day before your birthday your husband said to you, "Honey, do me a favor and go buy yourself a birthday gift and a card to go with it. I'll give you the money for it."

I told him I really didn't need anything, so I said, "Why don't you just pick up some roses for me?" Then he said, "Aw, heck, they don't last, and you know the price of roses nowadays."

So, Abby, I didn't buy myself anything, and he didn't get me anything either. And to top it off, he didn't even wish me a happy birthday. So what would you do next birthday? —PUZZLED BUT HAPPY

DEAR PUZZLED: I am glad you are also, "Happy," because there is no way of injecting "sentiment" into a spouse who is utterly devoid of it. You could try to make him understand how delighted you'd be with just a card of his own choosing, but if you have to hit him over the head to remind him to "remember" you—forget it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband made sure I didn't miss your column about the wife who is constantly mistaken for hubby's mother. That's our situation.

I wish I could get together with the woman who wrote it. We could have a good cry together. I, too, am fat and gray. I have had 10 children in 14 years, so it's no wonder I have aged so. My husband never believed in birth control. He also never believed in giving me any help once they were brought into the world. He thinks that because he supports them [financially] his duty is done.

I have known for a long time that my husband is ashamed of the way I look. We hardly ever socialize. I do get an occasional invitation to the movies, but if they ever devise a way of showing movies with the house lights on, I'm a dead duck.

I keep a clean house, am a competent mother, and I work part-time to supplement our income. [With 12 at dinner every night, I have to.] I also have a sense of humor. How else would I have survived? —SIX MONTHS YOUNGER

U.S. winter wheat crop down

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The agriculture department today estimated the 1971 winter wheat crop at 1,020,566,000 bushels, down two per cent from the December 1 estimate and down nine per cent from last year's crop.

The forecasts by the department's Crop Reporting Board, based on May 1 estimates, compares with 1970 production of 1,118,039,000 bushels.

The estimated winter wheat crop, added to the potential spring wheat crop of about 367,000,000 bushels, would produce a total all-wheat crop of 1,387,566,000 bushels. Total production in 1970 was 1,378,465,000 bushels.

Winter wheat plants dipped this year, partly because the crop had to be seeded last fall at a time when farmers were still uncertain about precise details of the 1971 farm program. Spring wheat growers, however, were able to take advantage of new farm program features permitting increased planting flexibility.

Government economists, meanwhile, reported earlier that a sharp increase in export demand will boost overall wheat sales in the current 1970-71 marketing season to nearly 1.57 billion bushels—some 185 million bushels more than farmers produced in the 1970 crop. As a result, the carryover supply of old-crop wheat on hand when the 1971 crop is harvested this summer will be down to perhaps about 700 million bushels, the smallest carryover since 1968.

The Crop Reporting Board estimated this year's winter wheat yield at 31.4 bushels per acre, compared with 33.4 bushels last year and 31.2 bushels in 1969.

The board also estimated pasture conditions at 74 per cent of normal compared with 86 per cent at the same time last year.

The board predicted 32,494,000 acres of winter wheat would be harvested this year compared with 33,453,000 acres a year ago and 38,723,000 acres two years ago. It estimated that 85.3 per cent of the 1971 planted acreage would be harvested for grain compared with 87.1 per cent a year ago and 85.2 per cent in 1969.

Hay stocks on farms were estimated at 22,345,000 tons compared with 24,302,000 tons last year and 23,873,000 tons in 1969.

The crop board also made these estimates of 1971 potato production: winter, 3,099,000 hundredweight compared with 3,582,000 hundredweight last year; early spring, 4,196,000 hundredweight compared with 4,757,000 last year; late spring, 21,067,000 hundredweight compared with 21,104,000 last year.

The board estimated 1971 production of peaches in nine Southern states at 565.4 million pounds compared with 616.5 million pounds last year and 730 million pounds in 1969.

The report added, however, that much of the Texas-Oklahoma loss was offset by improved prospects in Kansas, Colorado, and the Pacific Northwest.

Filer Grange plans potluck

FILER — The Filer Grange members made plans for a potluck supper at 7:30 p.m. May 21 in the Grange Hall, at their May meeting, it was announced today.

Mrs. Raymond Thomas read a letter from the Twin Falls County fair board noting several changes in Grange displays at the fair this year. Two wheat sheaves will be required instead of one as in former years, and must include one of winter wheat and one of spring. A sheaf of malting barley also will be required on the displays.

New additions this year in the fruit department are European white grapes and blue plums. Junior exhibitors may compete in flowers this year as well as vegetables. The junior department is agriculture is a comparatively new one and was added just two years ago.

Mrs. Clinton Dougherty reported on the recent 4-H Club luncheon. Mrs. Clyde Vanausdell read an article on slogans for safe driving. Clifford Thomas read an article on pesticides.

Mrs. Harley Williams presented a program on Mother's Day, giving the origin and history of the day. Mrs. Alfred Theener received a prize for the mother with the most children and with her own mother still living.

Measure to end farm discrimination

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Legislation to end discrimination against the family farmer and small business was introduced in the House Tuesday by Congressman Orval Hansen (R-Idaho).

Hansen's bill provides that estate taxes on family ranches, farms and small businesses be computed on the property's earning power instead of inflated sales prices based on speculative land values.

"Too often today the federal estate tax has combined with economic conditions to mean the death of the family farming operation or the family owned, small business," Hansen said.

Hansen added that to meet the nation's growing demand for food and fiber, agriculture must be made financially attractive to young Americans.

"The average age of the American farmer is over 52. Without economic incentive we are in danger of losing the most efficient and productive man in our entire economy—the family farmer," he noted.

Hansen said his legislation could be a major step in our efforts to halt the rural migration to overcrowded cities and to achieve a more even distribution of the nation's population.

Ranch at King Hill purchased

KING HILL — The Pitch Fork Ranch, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen and family, has been sold to the Shelby Land and Cattle Co. Inc., Twin Falls.

This ranch was originally homesteaded by Victor Walker in 1897. He built a railroad and house and started bringing water up through a six-mile ditch from King Hill Creek he dug with a pick and shovel.

In 1900 the little house burned. He then built another one that is still standing at the ranch. It is decorated with his handmade tools.

The ranch did not change ownership until 1951 when it was sold to the W.W. Knox family. Since that time the ranch has grown from a 60-head cattle operation to about 900 cows and calves and 1,200 acres.

Of the 1,200 acres, 315 is under cultivation, 200 is desert land and buildings, corrals and grazing land take up the rest of the acreage. There are a guest house, bunk house and tenant houses on the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Shelby, Burley, will live on the ranch and operate it. Assisting Shelby in operating the ranch will be his brother-in-law Ladell Handy.

The Jensens will move to their River Ranch, one mile west of King Hill, where a new house will be constructed.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q— My husband works for and is considering investing in Illinois Central. What are its prospects for capital appreciation over the next few years?—C.M.

A— Illinois Central Industries, a railroad holding company, has diversified into real estate, manufacturing and bottling. In 1970, 78 per cent of pretax earnings was derived from nonrail activities.

Although 1970 sales were up, earnings were lower at $2.56 a share from $3.02. Aided by higher nonrail profits and reduced losses on passenger traffic, earnings should recover sharply this year.

The proposed merger of Central's rail subsidiary and Gulf Mobile & Ohio would save approximately $1.25 a share and would eventually eliminate the passenger deficit which was 74 cents a share in 1969.

The merger, although approved in principle by the ICC examiner, has been opposed by the Justice Department. Your husband's confidence in his company is justified; shares are an excellent growth investment.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The goal of the Medical Self-Help program is to train at least one member of every American family in emergency health care. To date over 12 million students have taken the course administered by the Division of Emergency Health Services of the Public Health Service.

Illinois recently became the first state to have 1 million graduates from the course. The self-help program is designed to teach people in care for their emergency health needs when the services of a doctor are not available. The course consists of 11 lessons on such subjects as artificial respiration, bleeding and bandaging, burns, shock, transportation of the injured, and emergency childbirth.

Also it is reported permits have been approved as of April 28 by Idaho Department of Water Administration for all remaining water in the Box Canyon—Ecologists say this ruins the area as a wild fishery spawning ground and a wild bird rookery.

The flow is reportedly among the 11 largest springs in the United States and is the one remaining spring of the Thousand Springs complex that has not been polluted or altered by progress and development.

The canyon is completely wild and holds an appeal for nature lovers.

During the spring months artifact hunters look for arrow heads. The more vigorous take the narrow path that leads into the canyon. In season the canyon provides the fishermen with a limit of trout on each excursion.

Dean Durfee, Shoshone, Bennett Hills Resource Manager for the Bureau of Land Management, stated the situation surrounding the spring and the demand for its water is complicated.

He said Richard Kester, Buhl, fish farmer, and George Lemmon, Hagerman, would like to divert water from the spring for a fish farm development and processing plant to be located in Twin Falls county.

Further, the Idaho Parks Department is seeking to

Cage players snub owners, set own inter-loop game

NEW YORK (UPI)—Players of the National and American Basketball Associations struck back at the club owners Tuesday by announcing they will promote and stage a "Super Game" in the Houston Astrodome on Friday night, May 28.

Initiated without the knowledge of either league commissioner, this will mark the first time ever that teams from the two rival leagues will meet on the same court. The game will be televised nationally by an independent network, TVS Television Network, starting at 8:30 p.m. (EDT).

The format of the game will send 10 leading players from the NBA against 10 top players from the ABA. Oscar Robertson, president of the NBA Players' Association, in making the announcement, said there was no present commitment to make this an annual event.

Players who will take part in the game from the NBA include Robertson and Lew Alcindor from the league champion Milwaukee Bucks, Dave DeBusschere and Walt Frazier of the New York Knicks, Bobby Jones of the Philadelphia 76ers, John Havlicek of the Boston Celtics, Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets, Nate Thurmond of the San Francisco Warriors, Earl Monroe of the Baltimore Bullets and Dave Bing of the Detroit Pistons.

Andrus stuns field with ace

BUHL — Diminutive Monty Andrus made a determined bid for the Valley High School golf coaching job during the fourth district administrator's golf tournament when he scored a hole-in-one on the par three seventh-hole at Clear-Lakes Country Club.

Andrus used a seven iron off the hilltop tee-box and watched the ball strike earth once, then dive into the hole at the end of the bounce.

Bugner given split decision over Blin in European match

WEMBLEY, Eng. (UPI)—Joe Bugner of Britain made a first successful defense of his European heavyweight title Tuesday night with a 15-round split decision over Jurgen Blin of West Germany.

The scrambling bout and neither man ever looked like he was going down. Blin received a cut under his chin in the third round while Bugner suffered a nick above his right eye in the fifth.

The crowd of 6,000 at the Empire Pool in suburban Wembley gave both men the slow handclap in the eighth round while the frustrated audience was yelling "Henry...Henry..." for former idol Henry Cooper by the 12th.

Orioles nip Royals in 10th to end three-game loss spell

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Merv Rettenmund's fourth hit of the game, a 10th-inning single off the glove of shortstop Fred Patek, scored Brooks Robinson from second base and enabled the Baltimore Orioles to snap a three-game losing streak by nipping the Kansas City Royals, 5-4, Tuesday night.

Reliever Ted Abernathy, 1-2, opened the 10th by walking Robinson and got Boog Powell to fly out before Dave Johnson walked. Rettenmund, who had singled on three previous attempts, eluded a bouncer toward the hole that bounced off Patek's glove and into short left field.

The Orioles took a 4-3 lead in the eighth inning on a double by Johnson, an infield out and a sacrifice fly by pinch-hitter Andy Etchebarren, but the Royals bounced back to tie the score in the ninth on a two-out run-scoring triple by Amos Otis.

Indians 7, A's 5

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Steve Dunning belted his first major league home run on a grand slam that capped a five-run second inning but reliever Phil Hennigan picked up the victory Tuesday night as the Cleveland Indians defeated the Oakland Athletics, 7-5.

Rain slows practice for Indianapolis 500

Fish movement

PORTLAND (UPI)—The Columbia River system fish count for May 10: Bonneville — chinook 1,187; steelhead 48.

White Donohue was burning up the course, rookie David Hobbs of England gained six miles an hour in Donohue's team car. Hobbs turned one lap at 167.691 m.p.h. His previous best speed had been under 162.

The crowd boomed when referee Arado raised Bugner's hand

in token of victory and reserved its cheers for the challenger. The 21-year-old Hungarian-born Bugner was only a shadow of the man who took the title and the British and Commonwealth crowns, from the veteran Cooper in the same ring March 16.

Sox 5, Twins 4

BLOOMINGTON (UPI)—Two-run homers by Duane Josephson and Carl Yastrzemski plus an unearned run on an error by Rick Renick in the sixth inning enabled the Boston Red Sox to beat the Minnesota Twins, 5-4, Tuesday night.

Josephson's third home run, following a walk to Billy Conigliaro, gave Boston a 2-1 lead in the second after the Twins took a 1-0 lead on Cesar Tovar's triple and a single by Harmon Killebrew.

Dunning, who became the first Cleveland pitcher to hit a grand slam home since John O'Donoghue hit one against Detroit on June 1, 1967, helped stake himself to a 5-0 lead but the 21-year old fireballer walked across an Oakland run in the third and Rick Monday's three-run homer capped a four-run fifth inning that knotted the score at 5-5 and sent Dunning to the showers.

Members of the state department of education, Boise, and Idaho State University were guests. Merchandise and golf balls were donated by Sherwood Sporting Center, Twin Falls; Idaho Sporting Goods, Boise; Kiefner Sporting Goods, Boise; Caxtons Limited, Caldwell; and Master Enterprises, Nampa.

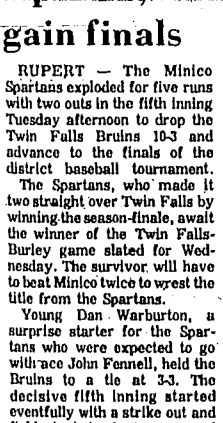

Donohue, the Meila, Pa., ace who finished second in last year's Indianapolis classic, had about 10 "hot" laps in the 175 miles per hour bracket and turned the course once at 176.125 m.p.h.

Last week Donohue turned the fastest unofficial lap ever at the Speedway—177.901 m.p.h. The official one-lap standard is 171.953 m.p.h. by Joe Leonard in 1968—a record which probably will go by the boards in Saturday's first day of qualifications.

Official speeds are recorded only during qualifications and during the race itself.

Escaped harm when his car spun in the number two turn, added 400 feet and stopped in the infield grass. The car was not damaged.

T.F., Jerome favored in combined district meets

The Twin Falls Bruins, who open their quest for a second straight state championship, and the Jerome Tigers appear the favorites in the combined class A-1 and A-2 regional track meets Friday night at Bruin Stadium.

Twin Falls will run against Brule and Minico and is expected to run up over 100 points. Jerome won the South Central Idaho Conference title last week and since just about the same teams are running again, the Tigers should win again.

The A-2 event will begin at 2 p.m. with running preliminaries, 3 p.m. for field events and 6:30 p.m. for running finals. The A-1 field events and running preliminaries will start at 5 p.m. with the finals on the track going at 6:30 p.m.

Poor health dampens Utah's prospects in fifth ABA game

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Signs of poor health among three key Utah Stars starters casts a dark cloud over Wednesday's crucial fifth game in the best-of-seven series with the Kentucky Colonels.

And, before Stars' Coach Bill Sharman will make any decisions on the status of Zelman Beatty, Merv Jackson and Red Robbins, he wants a full doctor's report.

Beatty, who scored a series high of 40 points last Wednesday in leading his team to its second series win over the Colonels, is suffering from headaches.

Canadiens tie series with Hawks

MONTREAL (UPI) — Vvan Cournoyer scored two goals and added an assist Tuesday night as the Montreal Canadiens evened their best-of-seven Stanley Cup final series at 2-2 with a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

Chicago, which won the first two games at home, will host Montreal in the fifth game Thursday night. The sixth game will be played here Sunday afternoon.

Montreal was leading 3-1 in the second period before Cournoyer put the game out of Chicago's reach with his two goals. He came out of the penalty box and stole the puck from Chicago's rookie defenseman Rick Foley before beating goalie Tony Esposito with a hard drive for his first tally.

Cournoyer netted his ninth goal of the playoffs with a power play goal at 15:53 of the middle session. His shot was wide of the net but struck Hawks' defenseman Paul Shmyr and landed behind Esposito to make the score 3-2.

Peto Mahovich tipped in a drive by Terry Harper as Montreal opened the scoring after just one minute of play. Jean Beliveau added a power play goal less than six minutes later and Guy LaPointe tallied the third Montreal goal in the opening period with a blue line drive while both clubs were one man short.

Stan Mikita's goal, while the Canadiens were short-handed in the opening period, tied the score 1-1 but after Beliveau's marker, Montreal never trailed. Chicago's final goal was scored by Dennis Hull in the second period on a 20 foot slap shot. Rookie goalie Ken Dryden of the Canadiens was spectacular in the middle session when he made 16 saves.

Buckner, Davis spark Dodgers to 6-1 victory over Atlanta

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Bill Buckner hit a three-run homer and Willie Davis collected four straight hits Tuesday night to pace the Los Angeles Dodgers, to a 6-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Buckner's homer came in the fourth inning when the Dodgers scored four runs to assure Claude Osteen of his fifth win against two losses.

Bill Russell tripled in the fourth with one out and Osteen walked before Buckner hit the second homer of the season into the right field stands.

Pat Jarvis then replaced Braves' starting and losing pitcher Jim Nash, 2-3, and gave up a triple to Davis, who scored on Richie Allen's single.

Atlanta vs Los Angeles box score table with columns for AB, R, H, E, and individual player stats.

Giants 6, Reds 1
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Home runs by Willie McCovey, Bobby Bonds and Dick Dietz backed the six-hit pitching of Gaylord Perry in San Francisco's 6-1 win over Cincinnati Tuesday night.

The Giants collected all of their runs off starter and loser Jim Merritt in the first and third innings. He exited at the end of the sixth after giving up eight hits.

Perry, claiming his first win since April 17, stretched his record to 4-1 while striking out eight and allowing six hits.

After winning his 20th game last season on Aug. 26, Merritt hurt his left elbow and has yet to win a game since. He is 0-4 this season.

Mets 8, Astros 1
NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave Marshall greeted reliever George Culver in the sixth inning with a grand slam homer to back the three-hit pitching of Nolan Ryan Tuesday night as the New York Mets routed the Houston Astros, 8-1.

It was the Mets' 12th victory in 14 games.

The Mets were nursing a 3-1 lead in the sixth when Dave Boswell and Jerry Grote led off with singles. After loser Larry Dierker, now 5-1, retired the next two batters, he walked Bud Harrelson and Tim Lincecum in a run. Culver then replaced Dierker and Marshall slammed his 1-1 pitch for the second grand slam of his career.

Cards 10, Expos 4
MONTREAL (UPI) — Joe Torre's two-run homer in the first inning broke a 3-3 tie and led the St. Louis Cardinals to a 10-4 win over the Montreal Expos Tuesday night.

Torre's homer, his fifth of the season and second of the game, came after Lou Brock singled and gave the Cardinals a 5-3 lead. They clinched the victory for reliever Reggie Cleveland by adding four runs in the ninth.

St. Louis scored in the first inning when Brock singled, took second on Carl Morton's balk and tallied on Ted Simmons' double. In the fourth inning, Joe Hagge singled and Dick Schofield hit a two-run homer over the right field fence.

Hagge started the game-clinching ninth with a walk and Bob Burda hit a pinch-hit single, while batting for pitcher Steve Carlton.

Cubs 6, Phils 2
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Bill Hands, given a boost by three early home runs, hurled the Chicago Cubs to a 6-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night on a five-hitter.

John Callison slugged a two-run homer, his first of the year, in the second inning off loser Rick Wise following a single by Ron Santo and Billy Williams clouted his seventh homer after a double by Glenn Beckert in the third.

Wise was lifted after walking Jim Hickman with one out in the third and lefty Woodie Fryman got Joe Pepton to pop up to third, but then Santo whacked his fifth homer over the right-center-field fence.

Washington gets McDole
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins acquired defensive Ron McDole from the Buffalo Bills Tuesday in exchange for several undisclosed future draft choices.

McDole, an eight-year veteran and was defensive captain for the Bills last season, played his college ball at Nebraska and was selected on the all-pro team for the American Football League byUPI for 1965, 1966, and 1967.

Recognized
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Missouri Park Board has announced a special award to recognize campers' interest in state parks.

Joseph Jaeger Jr., parks director, says an "All Missouri Camper Award" will be presented to persons who camp in five different state parks during the season from March 1 to Oct. 31, and who make 10 different camping trips during that period.

While Jerome has to be the favorite, a couple of things could make it close in the A-2 team standings. Wood River was second in the SCIC and was hurt a couple of times by Mountain Home which won't be here. However, Filer could battle for the runner-up spot if Jim Daniels comes back to full health and can win the two hurdle events. That would hurt Jerome's point total since Jim Meeks and Roger Campbell turn the hurdles into a Tiger power play without Daniels there to break it up. In addition, Filer has a probable three-first man in Brent Herman in all three classes. Those two men through as expected, a strong delegation to the state next week where depth gives way to quality.

Randy Suter, stunned in the mile last week by Wood River's Ward, should get back into his two-win category. On defending champion, Ben Allen of Buhl, isn't expected to enter his 880 specialty due to injury.

Gooding has a double winner in Gary Gorrell in the high jump and shotput and he should make his presence felt in the discus, which, other than Gorrell, will be a Buhl power play.

The A-2 field will qualify two relays, three individual track and two field men for each event at state next week. The A-1 has one relay, three individual and two field spots available in Boise.

Buchanan cut but still wins

LONDON (UPI) — World lightweight champion Ken Buchanan's blood streaming from a severe cut over his left eye, blotted Carlos "Morochito" Hernandez Tuesday night in the eighth round of a non-title bout.

The injury may require as many as six stitches to the champion's eye, and it is unlikely Buchanan will be able to go through with his June 9 title defense against Israel Segura in New York's Madison Square Garden.

The 25-year-old Scott had Hernandez, a 31-year-old former junior welter champion, in trouble three times in the seventh and only the bell saved the South American, who had cut the champion in the sixth round. In the eighth, Buchanan blazed into Hernandez with a succession of hard blow to the head and, when the Venezuelan was helpless on the ropes, referee Sid Nathan called a halt.

Buchanan weight 135 1-2, Hernandez 173 1-2.

mond contract. Hearts were opened and continued. Hsieh ruffed the second heart—in dummy—cashed the ace and queen of trumps, came to his hand with the king of clubs, drew East's last two trumps and claimed the balance.

At the other table the Chinese East-West pair put on even more pressure. M. F. Tai opened three hearts, Bob Hammann doubled, Pat Huang went to four hearts and it was up to Mike Lawrence to do something.

He knew he was being fixed, but decided to follow the principle of being fixed, but getting a sure plus score. He doubled four hearts. The best Tai could do was to gather in six tricks so Mike and Bob were plus 700 to give us a 7 IMP gain.

Looking back at the other table China might well have bid the slam, if Billy had kept quiet.

What do you do now?
A—Bid four no-trump. You plan to go to a slam. If your partner shows two aces.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You do bid four no-trump and your partner replies five diamonds to show just one ace. What do you do now?
Answer Tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby

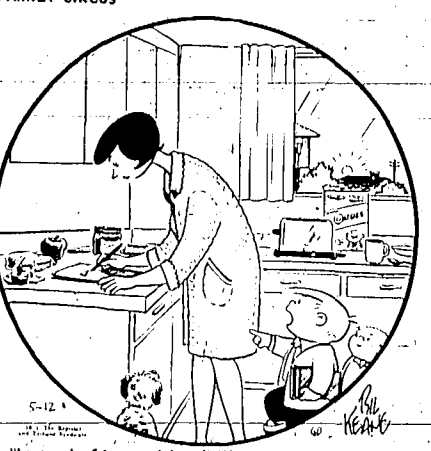

We don't recommend West's two-heart bid as a steady diet, but in top-flight competition it pays to keep pressure on your opponents and Billy Eisenberg elected to bid it. He did have six points for his weak two bid, but had to count three jacks to get to that six points.

The hand came up early in our match against China. It didn't shut out Conrad Cheng. He doubled, Elmer Pano, sitting South, responded three diamonds. Cheng cue bid three hearts and Bobby Goldman doubled to show something in his partner's suit. The bidding continued with both Chinese considering a slam, but finally settling for a five-dia-

BEST WAY to ship live fish is get them drunk. Cold sober, they'll thrash around considerably. Pour a little liquor in there, however, and they'll simmer right down. A fish shipper told me so. Remember that, next time you ship a fish. Peculiar thing.

YOU, TOO, MAY FIND this difficult to believe. A vice president of a certain New York City bank goes to work every day barefoot. He also wears a sizable red beard. Still, he's a highly respected executive, I'm told.

EVERY YOUNG LADY in the nation should undergo compulsory military training. So contends a Harvard scholar. "The military experience," says he, "would help the girls to get rid of localized, fatty deposits and thus enable them to wear pants without creating a repellent spectacle."

THE THEORY that rattlesnakes always rattle before they strike is erroneous. Snake experts in Arizona claim their studies indicate only one rattlesnake in every 25 so sounds off. As a warning, at any rate. They confirm the long-known fact these snakes are apt to make a lot more clatter when it's hot than when it's cold, however.

NOTIONS: WHAT'S ODD is there's a whole generation out there that can't spell the word "beetle".... NEVER MET a girl called Sue who wasn't a lively conversationalist.... HAVE NOTED the American philanthropist, like the Japanese pickpocket, is forgiven if he returns part of what he steals.... NO ASHTRAY less than a foot in diameter is worth the price.... SOME PENNED ANIMALS get neurotic. Wild animals never do. Why is that?

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "Name the U.S. President who was unopposed for a second term." A. Which one? Both Washington and Monroe were unopposed. Q. "Quick, what's Africa's largest city?" A. Cairo, Cairo. Q. "How long does it take a woman to recover from a complete face lift surgical operation?" A. Four days in the hospital maybe, another month at home.

AS TO THAT matter of how much Deillah got paid for arranging Samson's haircut, am now advised it was 5,500 pieces of silver. That's 1,100 pieces of silver from each axis, lord of the Philistines. And a biblical scholar claims there were five such lords. Rulers of Gaza, Ashkelon, Ashdod, Ekron and Gath. What's still unknown, however, is how much 5,500 pieces of silver would buy today. Research goes on.

WHAT'S the world's smartest dog? How about a cross between a Saint Bernard, mastiff, Great Dane and European wolf? That's what one dog expert, Dr. Dan Maris, thinks will be the brightest of all canines. Toward that end he has been breeding dogs. Says he'll have the perfect animal in another eight years. Some dog. Expected to weigh about 250 pounds.
