TEN CENTS

Man arrested for 9 machete murders

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—A stocky farm labor contractor was arrested early today and charged with the mass murder of nine men whose bodies were found buried near the Feather River.

The suspect, identified as Juan V. Corona, 37-year-old father of four, was arrested without resistance at his residence in a quiet middle-class neighborhood and booked on nine counts of homicide.

Clad in gray work pants, green sweater and cowboy boots, the suspect was brought to the county jail early today.

He was picked up within hours of the discovery of the bodies buried in an orchard and nearly riverbank undergrowth on the big James Sullivan ranch about five miles north of Yuba City.

Rain and exhaustion forced an end to the search for a few hours, but it was to resume today. There were at least two more dug-up areas which could be graves, deputies reported.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker declined to comment on a possible motive for the killings or on the clues that led to Corona's arrest.

Shortly before Corona was arrested, deputies brought in two boxes containing tools such as pliers, an axe, knives and a four-foot shovel caked with dirt. Whiteaker said only that Corona's wife was in no way involved in the slayings and that Corona, who was scheduled for arraignment later in the day, would be interrogated and advised of his rights in Spanish since his knowledge of English was sketchy.

The victims—all middle-aged Caucasians who apparently were transient field hands—had been stabbed and hacked to death with a "machete or a large, heavy knife," Whiteaker said.

All were killed by the same person over a period of five or six weeks, he said.

The first two bodies—one found last Thursday and the other early Tuesday—were buried in a peach and prune orchard.

Discovery of the second body triggered an inch-by-inch search under spotlights by deputies, who unearthed seven bodies Tuesday night and early today.

The first of the bodies was identified as Kenneth Edward Whitacre, 40, Alameda, Calif. The sheriff said a second identification made today was of Pete Peterson, 63, Marysville, Calif., a farm laborer who had been reported missing for a month.

Whiteaker, the sheriff and coroner of Sutter County, said the other victims, who were not identified, seemed to range in age from 40 to the 60s.

"There's no question that all the murder victims have the same type of wounds in the back of the head, the chest and the facial area," he said. "I would rule out an axe as the murder weapon; it could have been either a machete or a large heavy knife."

He said each of the victims had been hacked severely in the back of the head, that some had heavy facial lacerations, and that most had been stabbed in the chest.

All were buried three to five feet beneath the ground, lying on their backs with their arms extended above their heads and their shirts pulled up over their bloody heads.

Two of the graves found near the river appeared to be fresh, "probably dug within the past 48 hours," the sheriff said. The rest seemed to be a little older, maybe as far back as five or six weeks, he said.

The graves along the Feather River were found in heavy brush and wild grapevine about a dozen feet from the stream. Three bodies were unearthed a few feet apart, two others were discovered nearby and another pair were found a quarter mile away.

Minico levy defeated

RUPERT — Minidoka County school patrons defeated by a 74-vote margin a proposed five-mill migrant levy for the next year — and killed hopes for a teacher pay increase that had been tied to passage of the levy.

The vote by zone was: Minico, 69 yes, 59 no; Heyburn, 64 yes, 62 no; Haslam (Jerome County), 19 yes, 20 no; Paul, 67 yes, 136 no; Lincoln, 171 yes, 167 no; Acequia, 44 yes, 50 no; Cassia County, 8 yes, 20 no. This brought the total to 514 no, 440 yes.

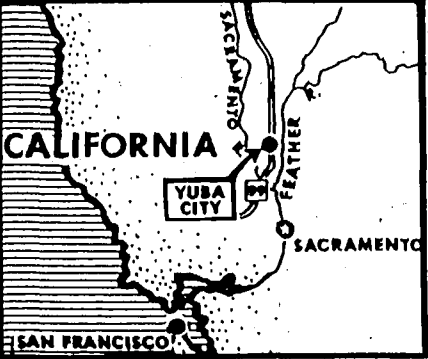

Trustee Leo Moore said "This was a surprisingly small turnout by district patrons at this election."

The board will decide at its next meeting whether it will resubmit the issue to the voters.

If the board doesn't resubmit the question, teachers and non-certified personnel won't get a pay raise as proposed in the district's budget. The raises had been contingent on approval of the levy.

However, the board will take a look at putting custodians on a salary schedule. At present they aren't on any set schedule.

This schedule, Doyle Lowder, assistant district superintendent, said, would fit this year's revenue.

Russ supports Israeli ouster

CAIRO (UPI)—President Nikolai V. Podgorny assured the Soviet Union will continue its economic, political and military backing in the fight to oust Israel from lands occupied in the 1967 war, the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said today.

Podgorny arrived Tuesday seeking assurances from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat that there will be no change in the close relations between the two nations after Sadat's purge of pro-Moscow government figures. They met only hours after the Soviet president arrived and continued their discussions today.

Al-Ahram said the two presidents "discussed means to strengthen cooperation between the two countries towards the elimination of the consequences of the Israeli aggression." It added that Egypt and the Soviet Union "emphasized their commitment to work for the liberation of all occupied Arab territory."

In addition, Al-Ahram reported, "the Soviet Union emphasized its economic, political and military support to the United Arab Republic."

Political sources said Podgorny's swift reaffirmation of continued support indicated the recent political upheaval in Egypt would not stop Moscow from continuing its support.

Spring cleaning

TWIN FALLS — About 400 public school students in Twin Falls School District No. 411 were spending their last day in school Wednesday before being dismissed for three months of vacation.

More than 400 seniors finished classes last Friday. The rest of the students continued classes this week and they will be dismissed early today — at 3 p.m.

Report cards can be picked up at 1 p.m. Friday at the students' respective schools, according to George Staudacher, assistant superintendent. He said there will be no bus service on Friday.

Spring cleaning

Students who are not able to pick up report cards Friday may deliver a self-addressed envelope to their schools sometime within the next two weeks, Staudacher said, and the cards will be mailed to them.

There has been no lunch served at the district's schools this week.

Air base violence 'cultural'

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. (UPI)—Major Gen. William G. Moore Jr., a World War II combat pilot who heads the 22nd Air Force, thinks violent disorders at this air base are the military's inheritance of America's "overall racial dilemma."

Airman I.C. Bill Wilkoff, 23, of Beaver Falls, Pa., says it's not that simple.

To the beribboned, handsome Moore and his senior officers, the riotous brawl that erupted Monday among more than 400 airmen was a puzzling, abrupt thing. He respects the obvious grievances of black airmen, he said, "but we have been unable to find out what they are."

To the airmen, even those who considered the disorders senseless, the problems at Travis and in the Air Force go deeper than mere racial friction — although everybody agrees some of that was involved.

There are surprising complaints among the traditional gripes soldiers always have had — surprising to a traditional military officer but probably not surprising to a college president; the right to wear long hair, freedom from regimentation, even the right to demonstrate.

All concerned agree, too, that the disorder appeared to be the culmination of an incident Saturday when a white WAF was kicked by a black woman airman in a barracks fight.

Combat bonus okayed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's $1 billion plan to raise military pay and eliminate draft calls by 1973 has survived its first Senate test.

But Democrats are determined the voters should find out whether the plan works — before, not after the 1972 election. A vote was set for this evening on an alternative $2.6 billion plan that, according to its sponsors, would answer the questions in one year — before Nixon seeks re-election.

Tuesday, over protests that Nixon was luring poor men to fight rich men's wars, the Senate accepted the administration's proposal to give a $3,000 bonus to young men who enlist as combat soldiers.

The bonus is the keystone of Nixon's novel effort to raise a force of volunteers large enough to reduce draft calls to zero by mid-1973. Without it, military manpower experts have conceded the whole idea will fail, since few men choose hazardous infantry, armor and artillery duty voluntarily.

The bonus, which has been rejected by the House, was approved 49 to 25 Tuesday.

The vote came on an amendment by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to strike the bonus from pending legislation to extend the draft two years.

Kennedy said the idea was no better than the $300 bounty the government paid to immigrant Irishmen during the Civil War to enlist in the Union Army in place of rich men.

He said it was "a blood bonus" that "seeks not only to entice men to join the military but to assume the greatest risk of death as well."

Also rejected, 52 to 21, was an amendment by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., to stop assigning draftees to combat roles in Vietnam after Dec. 31 unless they volunteer for the duty.

The vote signaled basic congressional acceptance for raising pay and allowances of military personnel to induce more volunteers and to eliminate the need for draftees.

Panther charges dropped

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—Conspiracy charges against Bobby G. Seale and Ericka Huggins were dismissed because the Superior Court judge decided the two Black Panthers could never again get an unbiased jury.

The jury had said they could not reach a verdict.

Judge Harold M. Mulvey freed Mrs. Huggins, 23, Tuesday after his ruling. Seale, 34, faces charges in connection with disorders at the 1968 Democratic National Convention and will stay in jail at least until Thursday, when his bail request will be reviewed by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The Superior Court jury of seven whites and five blacks said Monday they could not reach a verdict on several charges against Seale and Mrs. Huggins, which included murder conspiracy and kidnap conspiracy in the death of Alex Rackley, 25.

Mulvey ruled a mistrial.

"The state has put its best foot forward in presenting its effort to prove its cases against these defendants," he said Tuesday in dismissing the charges. "They have failed to convince a jury of their guilt."

Jury selection in the trial, which started Nov. 15, 1970, lasted four months.

Viets locate missile cache

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops sweeping a battlefield near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Vietnam today found a cache of heavy Communist "mystery missiles" which allied officers were unable to identify.

The cache of 98 rockets was found by South Vietnamese infantrymen about three miles below the DMZ following fighting in which they killed at least 60 Communist soldiers, UPI correspondent Stewart Kellerman reported.

The infantrymen located in the same area 120 rounds of 140-millimeter rockets, about 1,000 Bangalore torpedoes, and more than 1,000 recoilless rifle rounds, officers said.

Kellerman said the khaki-colored mystery rockets were six feet in length and without their warheads. A score of allied officers, including two Vietnamese generals and a group of U.S. colonels, were baffled by the missiles.

Gem spuds must come from Idaho

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration will stop retailers from selling inferior potatoes as Idaho potatoes and thus stop a threat to the reputation of the Idaho variety.

Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho, said the FDA ruling will prohibit use of misleading representations of the geographic origin of foods.

Jordan said many dealers from other areas had labeled their potatoes as "Idaho potatoes" in order to charge the premium prices he said the consumer was willing to pay for Idaho potatoes.

Injured man found in alley

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Police are investigating the case of a critically injured Salmon man who was found lying in an alley late Tuesday in Twin Falls.

Capt. Tim Qualls identified the man as Clarence E. Dressler, 37, Salmon.

Qualls said a Twin Falls resident found Dressler lying face down in the alley of the 100 block of Main Avenue North. He was taken by ambulance to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where his condition is listed as critical.

Qualls said Dressler had been staying at the Central Rooms, which is just above where he was found.

A Twin Falls resident came to the police station about 11 p.m. Tuesday and told officers he had found the injured man.

Qualls said Dressler had extensive head wounds and other injuries.

Troops to leave torn city

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI)—City officials lifted a dusk-to-dawn curfew today in troubled Chattanooga, plagued by five nights of street violence, and Gov. Winfield Dunn said he would begin phasing out the 1,500 National Guard troops here.

"We have experienced marked improvement and the curfew will be lifted," Mayor Robert K. Walker said. "Civil emergency orders have been rescinded."

"National Guard units will be withdrawn throughout the day, but regular (Guard) patrols will be on tonight."

Children saved

BELFAST (UPI)—A British soldier and an Irish policeman threw themselves between a terrorist bomb and several young children Tuesday night just before it exploded in a police station. The blast killed the soldier and wounded the policeman and 21 other persons. Police withheld the identity of the soldier, the eighth killed this year in the sectarian violence between Northern Ireland's Protestant majority and Roman Catholic minority. Police said they had not made any arrests and were continuing their investigation. But they said one witness told them the bomber was "just a wee fellow. He looked like a schoolboy."

The bomb, a suitcase packed with about 25 pounds of gelignite, was hurled through the front door of the two-story stationhouse in the Protestant quarter of Springfield Road about 8:25 p.m., an army spokesman said today. The building also is used by the British Army as a command post.

The explosion wrecked most of the ground floor, blew out windows in surrounding structures and damaged five cars outside. The injured included one soldier, seven policemen and 14 civilians, three of them children. All but three of them were released from hospital today after treatment.

Accident rate cut for city workers

TWIN FALLS — Increased emphasis on safety by all Twin Falls city department heads during the past month has shown results, City Manager Jean Millar said today.

Earlier this year, city council members approved action calling for more safety meetings for all departments, at the recommendation of the Twin Falls Accident Review Board.

In April, Millar sent a directive to all department heads explaining the council's proposals and asking that instead of one long meeting each month, a few minutes each day be devoted to a safety suggestion or a review of some condition or problem in the department which could constitute a safety hazard.

At the May meeting of the accident review board, Millar said, reports for April showed there were fewer accidents than in recent months with only one off-work accident recorded for the entire city force.

Refuse crews out for early start

TWIN FALLS — City Manager Jean Millar said some misunderstanding has occurred this spring among residents regarding trash and garbage schedules.

He said beginning Monday the contractor moved his pickup schedule up to 7 a.m. and has added one additional truck in order to reduce work hours for employees. More yard clippings and brush and tree prunings, because of spring work by home owners, have created longer hours for trash haulers.

Because of this, the contractor, Parks and Sons, will be working from 7 a.m. each day in the future. Millar said residents who want to dispose of household furniture, old car bodies and large tree limbs or other rubbish are reminded this is not covered in the city's garbage contract. That refuse must be hauled to the sanitary landfill by the property owner or it will be picked up at an extra fee by Parks and Sons.

All other trash and garbage will be picked up during the normal schedule providing it is properly packaged or in bundles of proper size, and no more than 75 lbs. each.

Launching Viet drug stores placed off limits

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (UPI)—Adverse weather conditions forced postponement Tuesday until mid-September of a space agency experiment to determine effect of magnetic and electrical fields of barium on high altitude clouds.

A JNASA spokesman said today unfavorable weather over tracking stations in the United States and South America had prompted the delay. It was the latest in a series of postponements during the past two months, all for the same reason.

The experiment, to be launched in a Scout rocket, is designed to eject a chemical into space, producing a glowing barium cloud 20,000 miles above earth.

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S. military command announced today it has put all Vietnamese drugstores off-limits to American servicemen as part of the effort to "solve the drug problem that exists" among GIs.

The command estimated earlier this year that more than 65,000 American servicemen in Vietnam, or roughly one in five, were involved in illegal drug use last year.

The figure included use of drugs such as marijuana and heroin. Some observers put the present rate even higher than one in five.

Up to now barbiturates and amphetamines (which are known as "uppers" and "down-ers" in drug-user slang) have been freely available without prescription in Vietnamese pharmacies.

The off-limits ban on pharmacies is just one approach to the problem, military sources conceded, and may not be a very effective one.

Question ...

My wife and I have no children nor parents but we both have brothers and sisters. If we should die in a common accident who would be responsible for our funeral arrangements?

Answer ...

Most states now have a "Simultaneous Death Statute". If there were insufficient evidence that either of you died otherwise than simultaneously the property of each person would be distributed to his heirs. Property held in your name or in your spouse's name alone would go to his or her own relatives.

Property held jointly or in common would have the effect of being distributed one half as if one had survived and the other half as if the other had survived. In the absence of written instructions your family would arrange your funeral and your wife's survivors her funeral.

You and your wife should have a plan recorded with us detailing what should be done concerning your funeral arrangements. You should also consider some form of estate plan with your attorney.

Roofing contract awarded

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — Rutledge Brothers, Inc., Boise roofing contractor, was awarded a $26,538 contract for roofing repairs at Twin Falls High School and Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School by the school district board of trustees in a special meeting Tuesday night.

Trustees also approved hiring of 27 new faculty members for the 1971-72 school year, including an elementary physical education supervisor, endorsed a petition from Ronald (Ron) Finn, new IEA president, for a leave of absence, and approved the retirement of a veteran teacher, Mrs. Ruth Barkdull.

Mrs. Barkdull will retire at the end of the school term due to ill health, completing 25 years of teaching in Twin Falls and a career total of 42 years in the educational field.

Finn will assume the IEA presidency on July 1 on a full-time basis as the first head of the teachers' organization to do so. He had requested a leave of absence from the district for a year with a guarantee that he could return to his position as English and Journalism instructor. Trustees have debated the issue at great length, since their action would in effect bind all other Idaho school boards to allow succeeding IEA presidents the same guarantee.

George Staudacher, incoming superintendent of Twin Falls schools, pointed out during the debate that he could not hire a teacher to fill Finn's position at the high school for one year with the likelihood of being discharged when Finn returned. Trustees granted a leave of absence with the stipulation that Finn could return at the end of his IEA term of office only if a vacancy allowed his return without displacing other faculty members. Then, after long debate Tuesday night, a motion by trustee Dr. H. W. Ronk to reconsider was passed by a bare two-to-one majority with Ronk and Edward R. (Ted) Smith in favor and John Wolfe opposing, while board chairman Elmer Sommer and trustee Frank DeLuca abstained from voting.

However, despite the move to reconsider, Finn's petition was again endorsed by the trustees without further debate.

The roofing repairs on the high school and junior high will be started as soon as the contract can be formally signed and the crews formally dispatched. Garry Tolley, owner-manager of Rutledge Brothers, was present at Tuesday's bid opening. The work is scheduled to be completed by mid-July.

Two alternate bids were prepared for contractors, including an asphalt roof coating and a new foam product that is being used with increasing acceptance, architect Harold Gerber told the trustees when bids were prepared. The foam would be blown onto the roof, then covered with an opaque coating.

Mr. and Mrs. Soper have one daughter, Lois Paler, Pocatello, and a grandson, Carl.

$26,538 was low enough to allow both projects. Rutledge also bid a total of $30,560 for the foam coating. Trustees voted to accept the bid for the asphalt coating, as not enough is known about the durability of the other.

Other bidders included Hamilton Insulation and Roofing, Twin Falls, quoting a total of $31,196.75 for the foam roofing; Quality Products Insulation Co., Twin Falls, quoting $30,329 for asphalt; and Skul-Miller, Inc., Ogden, Utah, asking $29,893 for asphalt roofing. The Ogden firm sent a telegram to the board of trustees which was received just before bids were opened, reducing its bid by $1,200. No reason was given for the reduction.

A Chinese instructor, William Wei-Tang Lang, who has a bachelor of arts degree from Taiwan University, Formosa, and a master of arts from San Jose State College, was hired as industrial arts teacher at O'Leary Junior High School for the 1971-72 school year as trustees approved 27 appointments.

The new instructor has three years of teaching experience. Other new faculty members formally approved by the trustees included the new high school varsity basketball coach, Donald L. Haynes, who will also teach social studies at the high school and will direct the school district's weight lifting program, and seventh-grade football and will assist in grade at Harrison.

coaching girls' track. Haynes, who has 14 years of experience, will receive $6,850 in base pay for his teaching, plus coaching increments of $900, $95, $275 and $200, for a total salary of $8,230. A teaching couple, Paul D. Epperson, formerly physical education instructor at O'Leary, and his wife, Rebecca L. Epperson, who have been granted a leave of absence to further their education, will return this fall. Epperson will become elementary physical education supervisor under a federally subsidized "Title I" program in which the federal government pays part of his salary. He will direct physical education activities in all Twin Falls grade schools.

Mrs. Epperson will continue with her work in special education, a position she held previously.

Other faculty members hired include Jack Allison, who holds a bachelor's degree from Southern Utah State College, as industrial arts teacher at Robert Stuart Junior High School; Nancy Anderson, with bachelor's and master's degrees from Idaho State University, special education; Darwin Becklund, bachelor's degree, Colorado State College, fifth grade at Lincoln School; Mrs. Beverly Crotts, bachelor's degree, Campbell College; junior-class English at the high school; Georgina Eaton, bachelor's degree, Oregon State University; and master's degree, University of Denver, fourth grade at Harrison.

Also Steven R. Budge, bachelor of science, Brigham Young University, senior high biology and physical science, plus coaching sophomores football; John D. Heckert Jr., bachelor's degree plus 30 hours University of North Dakota, high school distributive education; Mrs. Jackie Rohweder, bachelor's degree, Washington State University, half-time in teaching commercial subjects at O'Leary.

Soper to close firm, live in Hagerman home

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

TWIN FALLS — Harold H. Soper, Twin Falls business man the past 40 years, has announced plans to retire and close Soper's Trailers and Trailer Rental, 251 Fourth Ave. W.

The business, which has operated in the same general area since Soper decided to become his own boss in 1930, will be closed and the building, leased to Magic Valley International, located across the street. Soper sold the building and large fenced storage lots will be utilized for storage and possibly provide expansion for the firm later.

He and his wife, Mary D. Soper, will move to Hagerman, where they have built a new home and a large building in which he plans to display his large collection of old buggies, wagons, antique cars and one of the oldest and most complete sets of blacksmith tools in the area. He also has a collection of mounted game animals and is an avid outdoorsman.

While he does not plan the new project as a tourist attraction, it will be open to any interested persons. Soper says he especially invites his many Twin Falls friends, customers and employees to visit it.

Soper plans the new undertaking as a hobby but also something of a tribute to others in the area who appreciate good workmanship, hand operated tools and fine quality equipment and material of years past.

"I plan to take care of those things that meant so much to some of us years ago and to preserve some of the outstanding hand workmanship," Soper says.

In 1925, Soper came to Twin

OLD-TIME EXPERTS in the blacksmithing and mechanic trades in Twin Falls include Warren Skinner, Sr., left, early day blacksmith; Harold H. Soper, and O.G. McRill, right, mechanic. The three met at the Soper Trailer shop Tuesday to discuss many years of association.

Falls in a Model-T Ford. He still owns one of the durable little vehicles. He said he came here after hearing about irrigation in this area. Since jobs were scarce, he thought he might be able to do some type of work such as building dams for irrigation.

Instead, he went to work for the Twin Falls Canal Company. "I learned a lot about irrigation," he commented.

He had previously lived in Montana and found the fruit producing Magic Valley with irrigated farms much to his liking. The local businessman recalls during the depression he and his wife were out for a drive and passed a farm with grapes for sale.

"I told the lady I only wanted a quarter's worth and anticipated a few hand tools. Instead she handed me a large size cardboard box filled to the top," he recalls.

During the depression, he could only find part time work so he decided to go into business for himself. He began making things for which there was a demand in the agricultural area and built his ideas into a leading business.

Soper formed his own one-man chamber of commerce. The forerunner of the present day travel trailer was a small, beetle shaped trailer with a bed inside and a little storage space. These he painted with slogans promoting Idaho and sold them throughout the country. Each had a name ranging from "Miss Idaho" to "Miss Rock Creek" or "Miss Salmon Dam."

Two men who helped Soper learn his trade in mechanics and blacksmithing are Warren Skinner, Sr., and O. G. McRill. Skinner, now nearly 90 years of age and one of the pioneer blacksmiths in the area, worked for Soper after retiring from his own business. McRill assisted him as a mechanic and helped teach him the trade.

Soper became best known for trailers and trailer hitchers which he designed. During World War II, when iron was hard to get, he used salvage material from old cars and scrap iron. Some of the ideas he developed to "make do" with what he could salvage developed into methods which were permanently adopted.

Soper employed 12 men in his shop during peak years but in recent years cut the force to three or four to give him time out from supervising to do some of the work he enjoyed most.

Many old wagons and buggies in his collection were obtained from local families who had retired them from service but kept them for many years for sentimental purposes.

He still has a 1924 Model T Ford which he purchased in Rogerson a few years back from Duda Henstock.

"I saw the old car there and decided to buy it. My daughter was graduating from high school that day and I needed to be in Twin Falls as soon as possible.

"When I told my wife I planned to drive that old car to Twin Falls, she was sure I'd never make it in time for the graduation, but it went the entire distance without stopping and still runs perfectly," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Soper have one daughter, Lois Paler, Pocatello, and a grandson, Carl.

46 years a Priest and all that time spent in Idaho

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor
(Note: The following article is the result of an exclusive interview between Mr. Kelker, the Times-News editor, and Monsignor Edmund R. Cody, pastor of St. Edward's Catholic Church in Twin Falls. Msgr. Cody will retire June 22 after 46 years as a Priest. The interview took place in the office of Msgr. Cody and he did not know the nature of the questions which would be asked until the questioning started).

Q—How long have you been a Priest?
A—46 years.
Q—How long in Twin Falls?
A—12 years.
Q—In Pocatello?
A—22 and one-half years.
Q—Where did you start?
A—In St. Marles, Idaho.
Q—Then you've been in Idaho most of your life as a Priest?

A—J have spent my whole Priestly life in Idaho.
Q—Were you born in Idaho?
A—No, I was born in Bridgeport, Conn.
Q—Now the question is, how did you get from Bridgeport to Idaho?

A—I went from there to Maryland where I was ordained. The seminary was there. My first assignment was at St. Marles. It was on July 15, 1925.

Q—Do you favor some of the recent changes in the Church, such as the Mass in English and changing the Altar so that the Priest faces the congregation?
A—Yes I do, very much. I think it's better for the people and better for the Priest. It requires the Priest to be more careful in his gestures and to adopt a more reverent attitude than he might otherwise adopt. And the people understand now what he is saying. When the Priest was talking in Latin a few might understand it but the vast majority did not and so I think this is much better. In fact I think it was awfully late in coming.

Q—How do members of the congregation feel? Do they like the change?
A—Yes, they like it very much. Most of them do. There are always some, especially the more elderly people, who do not like any change, and so they wouldn't like this. But the vast majority do like it.

Q—What is your opinion on divorce?
A—I agree with the church heartily. If it is a valid, sacramental marriage, Jesus said that it cannot be dissolved. When someone asked our Lord "Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife for any reason?" and our Lord said "In the beginning God made them male and female, and therefore what God has joined together let no man put asunder." Then it was asked "Well, Moses said to give a bill of divorce." But the Lord said "Because of the hardness of your heart Moses will give a bill of divorce, but in the beginning it was not so." So, of course, I approve of the church's stand on divorce.

Church that a divorce is permitted?—Oh, yes, of course. A divorce in the Church can be permitted. We are speaking of a party who has been validly sacramentally married. However, they cannot marry again while either the husband or the wife are still living. But if the situation gets impossible and two people simply cannot live together, they can be permitted to get a civil divorce. But as I have said, in the church they are not allowed to remarry. We do know, of course, of cases where divorced people in the Catholic Church have remarried. Well, there is always something the matter with their first marriage. It has been invalid for some reason. Perhaps the other party was married before and this party innocently married them.

Q—And are there other reasons?
A—Yes. It also depends on baptism. For example, two unbaptized people would definitely not be Christians. They would be pagans, in this case for marriage only. They can be good people, they believe in Christ, they live a good and decent life, but for marriage, unless they are baptized, they are pagans. This marriage could be a valid marriage but it would not be sacramental. This is a marriage these people can have their marriage dissolved and they can be allowed to marry again.

Q—What do you think about abortion? Do you think the Church should approve it?
A—Definitely not. Abortion is murder. It is the taking of an innocent life and the reasons they give, like the health of the mother and they cannot afford another child and the child might be defective and all that old stuff, has absolutely nothing to do with it.
Some used to claim that the child was an unjust aggressor, but this is pure nonsense. The child is not there of its own volition to start with. And so we do not approve of abortion under any circumstances.
Q—What if the doctors say the mother is ill?
A—I will give examples. A woman is pregnant and they discover she has cancer of the cervix. Under this circumstance it would be possible to remove the entire uterus. All this can be removed because it is not a direct attack on the fetus. The mother is entitled to her life unless the condition is due to her pregnancy and if it is then she can do nothing about it.

Q—What does a Priest do when he retires?
A—Well, I've been asked that question by a great many. Having never had any experience, I really don't know. I personally hope to play considerable golf and take things easy, of course. But I'll always keep my hand in. In other words I will offer Mass in some of the parishes in the place in Florida where I'll live. Or, if the Priest is ill, and I can assist, I will hear confessions or preach on Sunday. In other words there is no question of just dropping this completely. You just don't.
Q—About Florida. Is there a home for Priests where you are going?
A—No, my sister lives there. I'm going to live with her. It will be in Clearwater, Florida. That is in central Florida and it's on the Gulf side rather than the ocean side.

Q—Are there any Catholic high schools in Idaho now?
A—Yes, Kelly High in Boise and there is one at St. Gertrude's in Cottonwood.
Q—What is the outlook for Church schools in the future?
A—The outlook is rather dim. I think there is a sense of resignation among the Bishops, the officials and the people that the Catholic schools simply cannot be as they were before. For example, in the archdiocese of Detroit they are closing 56 Catholic schools this year. This lack of our schools will offer many problems. It is going to be a real hard job. In this particular area of Idaho two

Q—What was the happiest and most fulfilling time of your life as a Priest?
A—This was the first time I offered the Sacrifice of the Mass. This is the once in a lifetime thrill. Then I must say that perhaps the second thing would be the 12 years I spent right here in Twin Falls. I have been well received by this fine community and my own people have been wonderful, just wonderful. If the Priest who comes here doesn't realize what he's got then he's missing the boat.
Q—Along this line would you like to say a word to members of your congregation and to all citizens of Twin Falls?
A—This I will do when I make my farewell speech. As things stand now this will be June 20. That will be my last Sunday to officiate here. I will speak at all the masses that day.
Q—Now, if I want to come and hear you and am not a Catholic, will I be welcome?
A—Oh, yes, everyone is welcome. There will be three Masses that day. They will be at 8 a.m. and 10 a.m. and then the evening Mass at 7:30 p.m. And, of course, we now have a Mass on Saturday night at 7 o'clock. This is really something new. In this case it would be the last Mass at which I would officiate so far as those who attend that evening and then do not come Sunday are concerned. So I'll probably say farewell to some Saturday night, June 19, but to most of the fine people during one of the three Masses on Sunday, June 20.

Q—What is your opinion on the future of the Church?
A—The outlook is rather dim. I think there is a sense of resignation among the Bishops, the officials and the people that the Catholic schools simply cannot be as they were before. For example, in the archdiocese of Detroit they are closing 56 Catholic schools this year. This lack of our schools will offer many problems. It is going to be a real hard job. NEW PASTOR
Father Thomas Lafey, a priest since 1943 and pastor at Geneseo, Idaho, for the past year, will become pastor of St. Edward's Catholic Church in Twin Falls June 22.

He has previously served both Parishes in Pocatello and other Parishes in Boise, Salmon, Grangeville and Coeur d'Alene. An associate pastor for Twin Falls will be named in the near future. A new pastoral assignment will be announced later for Father Thomas Taylor.

The assignment of Father Lafey to succeed Msgr. E. R. Cody was announced by official notice from the Chancery office.
Q—Well then, will you be doing a little fishing too?
A—Not really, because I do not care for fishing although I might try a little deep sea fishing if I have the opportunity. I will do some bowling, of course.

Q—Is the life of a Priest harder to follow today than it was when you started?
A—In certain ways, I think so, yes. It is more difficult now because of outside distractions

Progress but no cure

By DAVID HENDIN
NEA Science Editor
CAREFREE, Ariz. — (NEA)—This year in the bodies of more than a half-million Americans, at least one cell will undergo a drastic and unfortunate change.

In some mysterious way these cells, the tiny bricks that form every living part of the human body, become malignant—cancer cells.

The cancer cell reproduces by dividing into two cells. The two become four, the four eight and so on. All resultant cells will be malignant and the end result is a cancerous tumor. If the abnormal growth and spread of malignant cells is not controlled, the victim will die.

In 1971, about 335,000 Americans—920 a day—will die of the disease. Of the approximately 200 million Americans alive today, more than a fourth of them—52 million—will eventually hear a physician pronounce the words all men have learned to fear:

"You have cancer."
Although there is some evidence that certain types of cancer more frequently strike persons of particular age, occupational or socioeconomic groups, the malignancies can strike anyone.

In 1971, more men will die of cancer than women by a margin of 55 to 45. In the 15- to 45-year-old group more than 200,000 will die of cancer. Last year more than half of all cancer deaths were among persons older than 65.

Cancer will cut short the lives of some 4,000 children under 15 years of age. And of the unaffected youngsters under 18, some 300,000 have already lost their fathers to cancer and more than 250,000 have lost their mothers.

Many cancer victims will not die of the disease. More than 200,000 will be saved this year, according to the American Cancer Society (ACS). The ACS considers a cancer patient "cured" if he remains without symptoms of the disease for five or more years.

Many of those rescued from cancer would have certainly died terrible, lingering deaths five or 10 years ago. But many of those saved still won't consider themselves lucky. They will have undergone painful or disfiguring therapy by the knife, the X ray or chemical agents in an attempt to rid their bodies of the savage cells.

The bodies of others will retain parts of the malignancy and the disease will linger for weeks, months or years before it ends in death.

Several times in years gone by Americans have been led to believe that miraculous cures for some, or all, types of cancer were in sight. But there is no real "cure" for cancer, the catch-all term that is commonly used to describe what some scientists believe to be 100 or more separate diseases.

To be sure, advances have been made against this relentless and indiscriminating enemy. Now, perhaps for the first time, scientists and clinicians are as much on the offensive as defensive.

• If a localized cancer that has not metastasized, or spread, is detected and treated early enough it can almost always be "cured."

• Between 85 and 95 per cent of the victims of Hodgkin's disease, a cancer of the lymph glands, can now be successfully treated by radiation and chemicals. Until recently Hodgkin's disease was fatal in the vast majority of cases.
• Great strides have been made in the treatment of leukemia, a cancer of the blood-forming tissues. "Today, in some medical centers, survival times (for leukemia patients) are improving dramatically and patients have longer symptom-free periods with near-normal blood pictures. Some drugs, in combinations, have prolonged the life of leuko-mia patients for more than 10 years," the ACS says. With the help of huge expenditures of time and money significant strides have also been made in treating other forms of cancer. Still, this fact bears repeating: There is no cure for, or vaccination against, the disease in sight.

Cancer strikes hard. It's no wonder that last year private citizens gave about $65 million to ACS. In the realm of public funds, the National Cancer Institute annually gets the biggest single slice of the federal medical research pie.

"The present state of scientific knowledge relating to cancer is sufficient to support a full-scale research attack to produce practical methods for control of all the various forms of cancer," said ACS President Dr. Marvin Pollard at a recent ACS seminar for science writers in Carefree, Ariz.

He was responding to critics of the proposal to create a federally financed authority to administer an all-out attack on cancer.

There is evidence of "extraordinary new results of research related to the cancer problem," Dr. Pollard said.

Indeed, amidst the gloom projected by statistics, the scientists battling cancer have engaged the enemy on new fronts. They are closer than ever to unraveling the mysteries surrounding the causes of the creation and proliferation of the diseases of the savage cell.

Disillusionment quick for enlistee, leads to 'split'

By LUCINDA FRANKS and PETER FREIBERG United Press International Copyright, 1971

On Aug. 23, 1967, John Picciano arrived at Fort Dix, New Jersey, a sprawling complex of old green barracks and newer brick buildings. He had not wanted to go into the Army. Nevertheless, he was curious about the new life which awaited him in the New Jersey military training camp, with its sandy target areas, blattering mess halls, spit-shine shoes, and poker-faced young men training for high duty.

He thought that military life might even give him a chance to be somebody, maybe teach him a new skill, at least provide an alternative to his life in Lodi, New Jersey, which he considered a drab dead-end street.

John hadn't been in basic training more than three days when he found difficulty performing certain duties. On marches, the men would often sing one song:

I am a knucklehead, dumb dumb knucklehead
Marching down the avenue
Eight more weeks and we'll be through

"I just couldn't sing it without my cheeks turning red," he says. "We'd be marching, singing that song, with the sergeants poking and shoving you and pretty soon you got to think, boy, I must be a knucklehead."

Then there were the mornings, when the men left the barracks. As part of an informal exercise, they had to yell "Kill!" every time their left feet touched the ground.

"At first I laughed at the absurdity of it," says John. "Then it got to me. At night I would start to shake all over, feel sick and have nightmares. I kept dreaming about all these soldiers running helter-skelter with bayonets yelling 'Kill!' and then a thousand different voices, even kids' voices, shouting and crying somewhere."

Two of John's school friends, Gary Trippodi and Sammy White, both of whom enlisted and trained at Fort Dix the same time as John before going to Vietnam, laughed off the "kill" drills and "knucklehead" songs.

"I found you couldn't let it get to you or you'd crack," says Trippodi. "It's like having a nagging mother who continually says do this and do that and do it right. If you were home, you'd probably leave. But in the military you can't, so you try to ignore it."

John's nature did not let him ignore it. After one week in Company E-43, he walked off base.

"I wasn't really thinking of deserting at that point, but I knew I had to get away quick, even for a few days."

John went back to his home in Lodi. His parents tried to persuade him to return and three days later, his father drove him back to Fort Dix.

The penalties for John's first AWOL were light. He got extra KP duty and later became regular latrine cleaner.

"That wasn't so bad," he says. "It was nothing compared to the conflict which was beginning to obsess my mind."

While John was in basic training, the anti-draft movement was gaining momentum; draft resistance unions were cropping up throughout the country and plans were being drawn for a massive "Stop the Draft" week in October, 1967.

He says all of his fellow trainees were generally negative toward the war. He remembered boys he knew who had come back from Vietnam; most were unable to give him a definite answer about why they had fought. In camp, there were rumors that bad behavior or rebelliousness during basic would be punished by assignment to "Nam."

Just a few days after he returned from his first AWOL, John decided to desert. For the second time, he packed his bags and left for Lodi. His parents were distraught and the family—cousins, aunts, uncles—was assembled to try to convince him to return.

His parents put him on a bus the next day, thinking their persuasions had been successful. But John, who had agreed only to pacify them, jumped off at the next stop, withdrew the $2.00 in his savings account and headed for Toronto, Canada.

In Toronto, John put the money into a Canadian bank and on the advice of the local anti-draft union, applied to the Canadian Immigration Office for asylum. Immigration informed John that Canada was granting asylum only to draft dodgers, not deserters. They imprisoned him and turned him over to military police in upper New York state.

Back at Fort Dix, John was put into the stockade for two weeks. Evenings in the stockade were spent in small cells and during the day, if the men were lucky, they would do odd jobs around the base. When no work was available, they would march around in circles inside the barbed-wire confines or pull up grass and then plant it again.

The day John got out of the stockade, he went back to his barracks and found the whole platoon lined up in front of the latrines.

"Get in line, Picciano," yelled the platoon sergeant. "This is the last chance you'll have to use it today."

John says the sergeant had declared that toilet functions would be rationed after one of the men, afflicted with diarrhea, had asked to be excused from an exercise.

"I felt like either I was mad, or everyone around me was engaged in some sort of surrealist drama," John says. John felt if he deserted a third time, there must be no turning back, no second thoughts, no getting caught. He had to be absolutely sure of what he was doing.

He sat down on his bunk and refused to obey orders until he was allowed to see the lieutenant colonel of his battalion. He was taken under guard to the colonel's office. John told the colonel about his difficulty in adapting to military life and his illness at night. John says the conversation ended with the colonel saying something like this:

"Now look, I don't want to hear any more. You finish your training without any more trouble or you'll get six months in the stockade and then a court-martial and then five years in jail. Do what you're told. That's all."

Later that night, John, who had broken with the Catholic Church while still in high school, went to see the Army chaplain for the first time. He confessed his difficulties and his misgivings about the Vietnam War. The chaplain told John to pray that God make him a good soldier.

Next: Toronto, Seattle and Stockholm.

Nixon given warm reception

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Buoyed by a warm reception from more than 150,000 persons in Alabama Tuesday, President Nixon had reason to be encouraged that his popularity in the South has not seriously been eroded by a speedup in school desegregation.

Largo, enthusiastic crowds turned out in humid, 90-degree weather to see him in stops at Mobile and Birmingham.

He responded to this gesture of Southern hospitality and a gracious welcome by Gov. George C. Wallace by praising the South for accomplishing a "peaceful, relatively quiet, very significant revolution" which has resulted in more black children attending predominantly white schools than in the North.

And he criticized Northerners who "point their fingers" at the South on the racial issue.

"I know the difficult problems most of you in the Southern states have had on the school desegregation problem," he told a gathering of approximately 150 news executives in an hour-long meeting at Birmingham.

"I went to school in the South, so therefore I am more familiar with how Southerners feel about that problem than others ...

"And I have nothing but utter contempt for the double, hypocritical standards of Northerners who look at the South and point the finger and say 'why don't those Southerners do something about their race problem?'"

Citing progress in school integration during the past three years, Nixon said 38 per cent of all black children in the South attend predominantly white schools while in the North the ratio is only 28 per cent.

"There has been no progress in the North the past three years in that respect and there has been significant progress in the South," he said.

He attributed the achievement to "far-sighted leaders, black and white" who recognize their responsibility to obey the law of the land.

The President's six-hour-long visit took him first to Mobile to dedicate the Alabama-Tombigbee Waterway, a $386 million project that will connect the mid-South and Midwest to the Gulf of Mexico.

Encouraged by the novelty of the first presidential visit in 58 years, a crowd estimated by police at 80,000 persons lined a two-mile stretch of Main Street to cheer the President.

Yank C5A arrives for show

PARIS (UPI) — The world's biggest airplane, the American C5A Galaxy, and the Anglo-French supersonic Concorde landed today to join the Soviet supersonic TU144 at the Paris air show which opens Thursday.

For the first time, the largest aircraft and two of the fastest aircraft were side by side.

The Concorde returned today from Dakar, Senegal, where it flew Tuesday in 2 hours and 20 minutes on a 2,794-mile trip that normally takes five hours.

Chief test pilot Andre Turcat said the plane behaved "magnificently" on the trip that was equal to a trans-Atlantic flight.

The Concorde landed ahead of the C5A, gliding in gracefully and taking up a position near the TU144. It differs from the Russian aircraft in that it has its engines under the wings and the TU144 has them under the fuselage. Both appear like birds with long necks, and banks.

The 76-foot-long C5A Galaxy, a four-jet Lockheed, made a low pass over the field for the benefit of spectators and came in for its landing, black smoke trailing and jets whining from its drooping wings. It was led to a parking area half the size of a football field.

The U.S. Air Force uses the Galaxy for transport between Travis Air Base, Calif., and Charleston, S.C., to fields in Southeast Asia and Europe. Its arrival shortly after that of the Concorde marked its first landing in France.

Lava flow diverted

CATANIA, Sicily (UPI) — Molten lava flowed to within 200 yards of the village of Fornazzo today, then struck a lava ridge from a previous eruption and turned aside.

Scientists said it appeared the village, for the moment at least, had been spared.

Other fingers of lava moved down the slopes of Mt. Etna, burned fruit and chestnut trees and threatened a section of a principal road up the mountain.

Marlo Coco managed to take about half of the chestnuts from his trees before lava set his orchard aflame today. Then he fled the fields he had planted 30 years ago, vowing to return.

The lava flow came from a new mouth which opened last week halfway up the 10,902-foot volcano. Another new crater at an altitude of 9,500 feet spewed hot sand into the sky.

Fornazzo was one of eight towns and hamlets threatened by Etna, where Greek legend said one-eyed cyclops forged thunderbolts for the god Jupiter.

Europe's tallest active volcano has claimed an estimated one million lives in 500 eruptions over the ages.

The purchase price or remaining purchase price of the Univac 404, which is now being replaced with another machine.

However, he said, there were some questions about the contract. He said the purchase was not made through the state purchasing agent, as it should have been, and said further Sperry-Rand's bid was the "third lowest" of those submitted and was about $600,000 more than the lowest bid.

The brief telegram from Sperry-Rand said a more detailed response would be sent through the mail.

Univac eyes suit

BOISE (UPI) — The Univac Division of Sperry-Rand served notice on Idaho Tuesday it may sue the state for canceling a contract for its Univac 404, according to Chief Deputy Attorney General Clarence Suttler.

"They're saying that they're going to go ahead with further action and one can only assume they mean court action," Suttler said, referring to a telegram from Sperry-Rand delivered Tuesday. "We're going to get sued."

But Suttler indicated the state itself planned legal action over the contract between the now-defunct Division of Management Services and Sperry-Rand.

If court action is brought, Suttler said, "We will not only resist the action but we will employ all means available to recover for the state of Idaho monies we feel were erroneously and unlawfully paid to Sperry-Rand pursuant to the purchase agreement which appears to be not in accordance with law."

The telegram said Sperry-Rand would not "acquiesce" to acting Director of Administrative Services Robert Lenaghan's cancellation of the agreement.

Lenaghan notified Sperry-Rand of his March 31 decision, and Sperry-Rand repudiated the state could not cancel what it termed a "binding contract."

The attorney general's office then replied for Lenaghan, pointing out the agreement was made with the Division of Management Services which had received no appropriation from the legislature with which to make any purchase.

"We pointed out to them those areas we felt were faulty and we indicated the contract would not be honored and no further payments would be made pursuant to the contract," Suttler said.

Suttler said it appeared the state was about to be sued for the purchase price or remaining purchase price of the Univac 404, which is now being replaced with another machine.

No backing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Speaker Carl Albert says he does not intend to endorse Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., for the Democratic presidential nomination, although he concedes it's nice to have a potential White House candidate in the House.

Brown, who said he was going to contact Idaho's congressional delegation "for help in this area," said immigration officials felt there were well in excess of 200 more illegal entries in Idaho, but added Chicanos "figure 1,000 or more."

Brown said he met last week with Chicanos, Immigration officials, the Bureau of Land Management, the Forest Service and a representative of the

Pocatello wins air job fund

BOISE (UPI) — The State Aeronautics Commission Tuesday allocated $100,000 to the Pocatello Airport to lengthen its runway under a Federal Aviation Agency matching fund program.

Pocatello Airport administrators had requested $157,000 for the project, but State Aeronautics Director Darrell Manning was optimistic the remaining funds would be allocated by next spring.

The commission also discussed the possibility of a statewide airport systems plan.

Manning said such a plan is long overdue if Idaho is to fully develop its aviation resources. He said he will discuss the feasibility of the plan with neighboring states with particular emphasis on physical facilities, air corridors and communications.

A joint meeting tentatively set for the end of June between the aviation commissions of Idaho and Washington will explore the possibility of a systems plan for northern Idaho and eastern Washington.

In other allocations made Tuesday, the commission granted $10,000 to the Boise Municipal Airport for taxiway improvements, security fencing and airport lighting. The Lewiston Airport also received $10,000 for the same type of improvements.

The commission allocated $10,000 to Idaho Falls for the installation of an instrument landing system and Nampa Airport was granted $10,000 to lengthen its runway.

St. Anthony Airport received $5,000 for an upgrading project, and the board also reviewed the program for possible lengthening of the McCall Airport.

Security foremost

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel would give up U.S. financial support if it came to a choice between aid and accepting a peace agreement endangering its security.

This theme emerged in an interview with Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir, the man who recently presented Israel's request for another $500 million in grants and loans to Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The interview, the first for the record session, granted a foreign newsmen by one of the Israeli participants in the Rogers talks, came amid reports Washington might hold up aid to Israel if Jerusalem was not more "forthcoming."

"I don't think it's justified, but if the United States would decide—for the time being, I cannot say there's any pressure—but if they try to pressure us, we will give it (U.S. support) up," Sapir said.

During a recent visit to Washington, he said, "nobody gave me any indication or hints that they are going to put pressure on us."

But, he added, if it came down to choosing between security and U.S. support, "we think our existence is more important than support. Then we would tighten our belts ..."

Workers returned

BOISE (UPI) — Commissioner of labor Bartlett Brown said Tuesday between May 1 and May 18 immigration officials returned to Mexico 114 persons who had illegally entered the United States.

Brown, who said he was going to contact Idaho's congressional delegation "for help in this area," said immigration officials felt there were well in excess of 200 more illegal entries in Idaho, but added Chicanos "figure 1,000 or more."

Brown said he met last week with Chicanos, Immigration officials, the Bureau of Land Management, the Forest Service and a representative of the farmers. During the meeting, he said, "it developed that Idaho has a serious problem in the number of illegal entries."

Brown said the immigration men had found illegal entries working full-time in some of the business and industries of the state.

Noting there were only two immigration officials in Idaho; Brown said those officials "feel they could do a much better job if they had a larger staff."

He said he felt "all of these jobs should go to the citizens and those who are in this country legally. This could help our overall employment situation in the State of Idaho."

West Point's founder might approve changes

EDITOR'S NOTE: Opposition to the Vietnam War has brought the nation's armed services under much public criticism and caused them severe morale problems. What has happened, in this period, to the U.S. military academies? How have they been affected? This is the first of three articles reporting on how things are today at the three schools—West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force Academy.

By RICHARD CHADY
WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI)—Col. Sylvanus Thayer couldn't recognize the sounds of hard rock music booming out across Grant Hall, but he would probably approve the rest of the changes at the Army engineering school he molded 150 years ago.

For the nation's oldest military academy is alive and well at West Point.
The sounds of jackhammers and concrete mixers rattle across the famed parade ground now, with the Academy in the midst of a $150 million building program that will double the enrollment from the early 1960's.

Along with the Corps expansion, the Academy of the Vietnam era has recruited more black students, shifted the curriculum slightly toward the humanities, and loosened the once-rigid discipline for cadets.

No Campus Unrest
Other than a minor incidence of drug use, West Point, with its well-motivated student body, has not suffered the campus unrest of other colleges.

"What has stood," according to the current superintendent, Maj. Gen. William A. Knowlton, "are the West Point standards—just as the words 'Duty, Honor, and Country' remain on the stained glass windows of the chapel."

Besides the facilities, the curriculum and the discipline have changed since Knowlton, a decorated veteran of World War II and Vietnam, graduated in one of the speeded up classes of 1943.

"When I was here, I never wanted to quote 'communicate' unequally with the superintendent," he said, making quote marks in the air. "Now all they want to do is communicate."

Knowlton, a qualified paratrooper, has graying hair but remains trim at 50. A captured Viet Cong AK47 submachine gun hangs on the wall in his large, paneled office. And, sitting surrounded by portraits of his predecessors, he rattles off history, statistics and plans in conversation as if getting a presidential briefing.

Getting More Blacks
"In the top two classes, we only have five black students," he said, "but in the bottom two there are 40."

Expansion has seen the destruction or remodeling of the older buildings. The new, six-story barracks cut down the size of the school's grassy plain; but were built in the same grey, military gothic style of the 1900-era structures.

More important to the cadets, relaxations of rules in the late 60's have provided more free time and leaves for the top three classes. Seniors get unlimited weekend leaves, restricted only by having to live within the same $225 a month allowance paid all cadets, with which they must buy uniforms and pay-board.

The first, plebe year is still rough, but there is less bracing and more leave time than was the case for Robert E. Lee, Douglas MacArthur, John J. Pershing and Dwight Eisenhower.

A major change for cadets is that they can now fall out once for revolve and go straight to breakfast. There used to be two formations.

One indication that the youth culture has infiltrated the crowded, spartan barracks, however, is that seven cadets have been dismissed in the past three years for possession of marijuana.

Liquor is not permitted in the barracks, although seniors may drink at officers' quarters on the post.

The social center is Grant Hall, where portraits of famous grads stare down at the clusters of soft couches and chairs. A jukebox sounds across the room from the snack bar. Cadets have dates with secretaries on the post, and girls from home or nearby women's colleges. Women are not allowed in the barracks, though, and the dates consist of sight-seeing, playing tennis or watching movies.

And, particularly since the L. Calley case, officials are wary of allowing unrestricted contact between newsmen and cadets.

"Every once in a while, some newspaperman comes up here, talks to a couple of cadets, and goes back and writes a big story about dissatisfaction in the corps," Superintendent Knowlton said.

More Communications
"I think cadets vocalize more, and articulate more, than when I was here," he said. "But what I tell the old grads is that questioning does not equate with rejection. It often evidences a desire to be convinced that the traditional values are correct."

In their adjustments of those traditional values, the West Point administrators have two recurring phrases: the "explosion of knowledge" and "the whole new concept."

The curriculum changes began through a post-Sputnik analysis under Superintendent Gar Davidson (1956-59).

Aiming at "the officer 20 years from now" the Academy altered the standard courses to give cadets more elective courses in later years.

Thus the class of 1974 is getting the same small classes, frequent grading and give-and-take atmosphere set up by Thayer.

First classes are at 7:30 a.m. daily. At 3:15 p.m. the well-trimmed cadets in dark grey uniforms pour out of Thayer and Bartlett halls, the academic buildings, and head for the athletic fields.

The intramural competition inaugurated by Superintendent Douglas MacArthur (1919-21) still is stressed. The playing fields become jammed with varsity and intramural (IM) teams.

Joins Jaycees

DAREDEVIL CYCLIST Evel Knievel has joined the Twin Falls Chapter of the Jaycees. In signing up Knievel, at left, Tom Hewlett discovered a well-guarded secret—the membership was signed "Robert C. Knievel." Jaycees assisted at motocross races held last weekend at Knievel's Snake River Canyon Jump site—where he will jump the canyon by jet-powered motorcycle next year. Knievel was inducted into the Jaycees at a meeting Monday night.

Military training keystone of study

WEST POINT, N. Y. (UPI)—Military training is still the keystone of a West Point cadet's four-years of study.

The cadet has two hours of military-related instruction each semester, and other classes have applications to Army careers.

However, the training is concentrated during summer camps.

Incoming plebes, the freshmen, are given a rigorous, two-month shakedown at the Academy during New Cadet Barracks before their first year.

The following summer, cadets get their first real field training by spending two months at Camp Buckner, 10 miles from the Academy. They learn the military basics of marching, communications, first aid, hand to hand combat and experience under fire.

The last two summers the upperclassmen spend either supervising new cadets at New Barracks or Camp Buckner, or working one month with Regular Army units at domestic or overseas bases.

The final summer includes

2 1/2 weeks touring major Army posts.

The senior year also includes the course "the U.S. Army in Stability Operations", which covers military operations "in a counter guerrilla environment."

Cadets get an early integration into military life, both because the faculty of 600 is 85 per cent officers with advanced degrees, and because each cadet is assigned to a faculty or administration officer for counseling.

The superintendent, Maj. Gen. William A. Knowlton, said the use of officers for faculty is designed "to confront the cadets with someone who has achieved success in the field."

One of the military instructors now is Maj. William Carpenter, the famous "Lonesome End" of the football team, now back after a tour in Vietnam.

Another instructor for three years was Maj. William Polo Dawkins, a Heisman Trophy winner and Rhodes Scholar. He now is working out of the Pentagon, promoting the volunteer Army concept.

GAS DOES THE BIG JOBS BETTER FOR LESS!

Take the work out of barbecuing. It's ALL PLAY with gas. Now you can eliminate messy dirty charcoal with stone briquettes that never burn out... never need replacing. Turn on the Gas Grill... wait for short warmup... barbecue indefinitely. Sizzling juices drip over the stones. Smoke wafts up thru the meat. It's the smoke that gives the same delicious barbecue flavor... not the charcoal. Think of the time you'll save... shopping and hauling. Think of the needless charcoal smudges you'll avoid on your clothes... the dirty charcoal ashes in the air. Make barbecuing ALL PLAY.—NO WORK with gas... the only way to barbecue!

Gooding housing reaction divided

By PEGGY CHU
Times-News Writer

GOODING — Reaction was about evenly divided at a public hearing Wednesday night on the proposed housing development which the American Pacific Corp. had planned to build in Gooding.

About 120 persons attended the hearing held in the Gooding Grade School. Previous objections raised at a hearing held May 3 were played down. At the initial hearing, the fear of "undeirables" and lowering of property values were raised in objection to the proposed development of 42 homes which would be built east of town adjacent to the Fink addition.

Following the earlier hearing the afternoon of May 3, city councilmen indicated in an informal poll at a council meeting that night they would not approve the plat submitted by the firm. So the firm withdrew its request.

Mayor Harley Crippen said both he and Andy Anderson, Boise, division manager for the firm had received requests for another hearing to reconsider the proposed construction.

Persons favoring the project Wednesday night, emphasized lack of adequate housing in Gooding, and stressed the need for this size and price range of homes. The homes would be three bedroom and cost from $18,000 to $17,500.

One of the most vocal opponents, Dr. M. V. Klingler, said "The Lord helps those who help themselves." He said he didn't like to see someone be able to get a house without even a down payment which expressed the "getting something for nothing idea." This sentiment prevailed among opponents.

Another main point of opposition was fear. The project would create a "congested area of homes all looking alike, which could be vacated at any time and left in shambles."

Anderson said the homes would be sold before they were built. Lot sizes, of 11,000 square feet with a minimum of 25 feet from the house to the street and 30 feet apart, are larger than most homes in Gooding, he said.

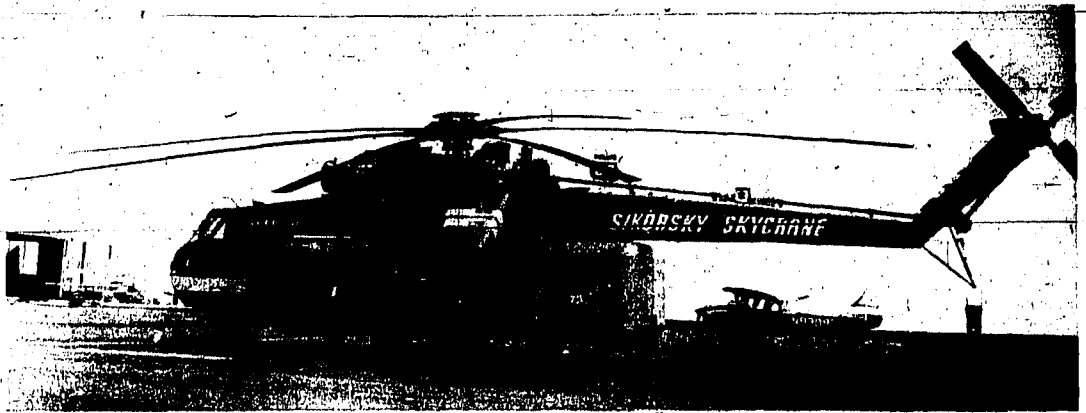

Dell Taylor, FGA official, reiterated assurance that if the FHA okayed the plan the houses would have to meet three inspections. The occupants would have to be "solid citizens with jobs" he said, and if a house is left vacant, the FHA would buy it back and make improvements.

Taylor said the state FHA office has said the plat is a "well planned development."

When asked if the closeness of the vote taken Wednesday night would influence councilmen in their opposition to the development, Mayor Harley Crippen said, "If the people don't like what the council decides they can vote them out in November."

Originally the American Pacific Corp. had planned only to rough finish the streets and asked the city to build a lift station to get water to the site, but objection was raised at the May 3 hearing about the city having to pay for these improvements.

Mayor Crippen told councilmen at the council meeting the evening of May 3 that Anderson had said his firm would provide these improvements at no cost to the city.

Oakley reservoir draining

OAKLEY — Officials of the Oakley Canal Co. were delivering water Wednesday on a free basis to anyone in the system who has use for it, in order to reduce the level in the Oakley Reservoir.

Mrs. Raddon Layton, secretary in the Oakley office, said the offer was on a rotation basis and many farmers were taking advantage of the surplus to complete early irrigation.

The reservoir is now at 125.5 feet with a rise of two feet over the weekend, Mrs. Layton said. The Oakley dam has a capacity height of 134 feet and with the creeks still running at capacity every effort possible is being made to maintain the water below the 134 foot level.

Creeks dropped slightly Tuesday, officials said, but warmer weather could again increase the flow.

Sewer grant awarded

RICHFIELD — Idaho Rep. Orval Hansen announced today that the Farmers Home Administration has approved a loan of $129,500 and a grant of $22,500 to Richfield for improvement of its sewer system.

Hansen said the funds will enable the city to carry out needed expansion of its waste-disposal system in order to provide proper service to 128 homes and other establishments in the community.

The Idaho Congressman said that the project's budget anticipates an additional grant of $71,400 from the state and the Environmental Protection Agency.

Workshop hears changes needed

By JERRY HERRMANN
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Realtors from Magic Valley were told that despite the many changes made in the Idaho Real Estate Commission over the past 15 years, many changes still need to be made.

Marion J. Voorhees, executive secretary of the IREC addressed about 100 Realtors who attended the 1971 Realtors Spring Clinic in Burley Tuesday.

One recent headline said "Better Buy Now," he said. This article then went on to state that a $26,500 house will be worth $147,000 in the year 2000 if the value keeps increasing as it is now.

On a house of this value there will be a downpayment of $29,400 and mortgage payments of $914.

He then asked, "Why do we celebrate Realtor Week?" The general public, attorneys, and some of the press don't realize difference anyway.

"Therefore, we've got to have a good image for all the real estate salesman and not just the realtors."

Some of the problems facing realtors now that can't be solved without new laws, he said, are:

— "Developers aren't real estate brokers as a rule. They are coming in and developing recreational lots and not selling people what they thought they were getting," he said.

Also, a lot of good sites are being developed so as to destroy the good features it once had.

"The out-of-state developers coming in here are also gyping a lot of the purchasers. They then come to the commission and there isn't anything we can do to help them," he said.

"Condominiums are here. They are good if operated properly. If not, the complaints come to the commission again. We can't help them either."

Some of the bad aspects of the industry that Voorhees thought could be corrected were:

— "The use of untrained salesmen. We have to provide training, and supervised salesmen.

"Also, there are too many part time salesmen in our industry that are out selling. Most of these people are unsupervised and maybe only come into the office once a month or once every few months. This must end," he said.

"Also, we must end the great turnover we have in salesmen. Most of those licensed in 1969 and 1970 were the ones not renewing licenses in 1971," he said.

Voorhees said that some of the turnover was due to the constant bickering between brokers and between brokers and salesmen. There has to be better communication between all parties, he said.

He also re-emphasized the fact that Idaho is one of the last states with wide open spaces and as a result the pressure is on for recreational sites.

"We've got to get involved in the development of these sites and not leave it for the county zoning boards or health boards to decide on them alone," he said.

He also foresees a big increase in the property management business realtors will handle.

Also, with the increase in mobile home parks, modular homes, prefab homes, zoning changes the realtors are going to have to keep up on all these areas or find the public going elsewhere for help and guidance.

The commission needs to start on long range planning for what the role of realtors should be, he said.

He also said there needs to be some provisions made so it is easier for brokers to get together and pool their talents on an operation than is now possible.

The realtors were also informed that California has now adopted the master plan for the professional development of the real estate industry in California. This came after two other drafts had been drawn up and discussed thoroughly.

2 incumbents picked at Buhl

BUHL — Two incumbents were returned to seats on the board of trustees of the Buhl School District Board of Trustees in voting Tuesday.

Dr. Harold Hammerquist was named to a three year term and John Honck was elected to a one-year term. Darrell Surber, former school teacher and administrator, defeated a third incumbent, Howard Hopkins. Surber will serve a three year term.

Dr. Hammerquist received 17 votes in Zone 4. Mrs. Charles Cullings received 5 write-in votes in that district.

Surber was elected in Zone 3 with 61 votes to Hopkins' 27. Honck was elected in Zone 1 with 30 votes to Marlin Arford's 12.

Honck was appointed earlier to fill the unexpired term of Harold Traxler. He was elected to fill the one year remaining in that term.

Sawtooth council elects

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — John Merriman, Pocatello, has been re-elected president of the Greater Sawtooth Preservation Council.

Members of the council, an organization active in the attempt to prevent open-pit molybdenum mining in the White Cloud Mountains, also reaffirmed opposition to currently proposed legislation which would create a national recreation area in the Sawtooth and White Cloud Mountains.

The statement said the proposed bill would allow full-scale mining on all existing mining claims.

Other officers include Russell Brown, Idaho Falls, vice president, and Mrs. Susan Miller, Idaho Falls, secretary-treasurer.

Council directors include H. Tom Davis, Boise; Pat Bartholomew, Sun Valley; and Richard Miller, Gerald Schled, and Malcolm Carnes, all Idaho Falls.

He has also been associated with the Ada County Sheriff's Department in Boise. He spent eleven years in the U.S. Navy. He will reside in Hailey with his wife, Donna, and two sons.

Jerome man sentencing postponed

JEROME — Sentencing of DeWayne Foust, owner of the Frontier Theater, who was found guilty last week by Fifth District Judge James M. Cunningham on charges of disseminating material harmful to minors, has been postponed for two weeks.

Foust was scheduled to be sentenced Tuesday on the indictable misdemeanor. Judge Cunningham ruled the man was guilty of permitting two 15-year-old girls in his employ to view previews of X-rated movie films scheduled for showing at his Jerome theater.

Delmar Hardy, commander of the Richfield America Legion will be in charge. Blahop Ken Dixon will be speaker. Alfred Whitty will command the firing squad. The services will be at the Richfield Cemetery.

Jury pay policy set

RUPERT — Employees of the Minidoka County School District who are called for jury duty will be paid their regular salary less the amount they receive for jury duty.

This was decided as the policy of the school district by the school board Tuesday night.

The reason the school board had to decide what to do was due to the fact that teachers are no longer exempt from jury duty.

Doyle Lowder, assistant superintendent, said, "If the district pays the district's employees their salary less the jury duty fee they wouldn't be penalized or benefit from it."

This recommendation was followed by the board.

In other action the board:

— Approved a suggestion from the central office staff that overtime be made harder to get.

This matter came up after Camden Meyer, superintendent, told the board that the district had lost money this year due to the time cards. "Overtime is too easy to get," he said.

Meyer suggested the board not have the bus drivers punch in on the time clock next year.

Lowder said this would be possible if the district had someone ride with the bus driver and time his run at the first part of the school year.

This would then be the amount of time allotted to the driver. Any request for overtime would have to be made on a form in the central office and then approved by the board before payment made, he said.

This suggestion met with the approval of the board.

— Was informed that representatives from the Idaho Vocational Education Department would be at the board's meeting June 14 to discuss with it the type of program that could be initiated in the district.

— Heard a request from board member Leo Moore that no poles be sent home with the school children on elections the district has.

No formal action was taken. However, the board felt that if the note was a reminder to get out and vote it wouldn't object to it being sent home with the children.

— Tabbed a request for the elimination of the district's transportation director position until recommendations on the matter can be made by the district's new superintendent.

Meyer told the board he felt it wouldn't save any money through the elimination of this post. He also pointed out that if the position was eliminated it would mean more work for the district's central office staff.

He told the board that if it wanted to save money it could do so by correcting its bus routes.

— Placed on the agenda for the June 7 meeting discussion of a policy change.

The proposed policy states: "Any person hired as an administrator, counselor or department head not be given additional jobs such as driver training or any other assignment that would conflict with their primary duties."

— Were informed that proposed salaries and salary schedule for the custodians will be ready at the next meeting.

The proposed salary schedule would put custodians into three categories, with the third step being a merit raise.

Meyer asked the board who would decide what merit payment individual custodians would receive. Lowder said the deciding committee would consist of William Galt, superintendent, supervisor of the principals, and members from the central office.

Air pollution 75 index

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hall. The reading is expressed in the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

Federal pollution regulators say pollution levels should be kept below 75 micrograms over any 24-hour period, and should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms for even a short period of time.

Forecast

Today:	Excellent
Tonight:	Good
Tomorrow:	Excellent

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning as permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse air pollutants.

Cassia bank given award

BURLEY — The Cassia National Bank, Burley, was presented the special 4-H Silver Clover Award during the Monday chamber of commerce luncheon at Bryan's Cafe.

Rex Gardner, executive vice-president of the local bank, received the plaque for the bank from J. Wayne Cole, Cassia County agent.

The citation is presented only to those banks subscribing a pacesetter sum to the Nationwide 4-H Bank Campaign. This is the Cassia National Bank's first Silver Clover citation.

The Idaho campaign was conducted under the leadership of Curtis T. Eaton, vice president of Twin Falls Bank and Trust. Emmett G. Solomon, chairman of the board of the Crocket-Citizens National Bank, San Francisco, was the nationwide 4-H Bank Campaign Chairman.

The National 4-H Club Foundation was created in 1948 to complement the youth educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service. It operates the National 4-H Center in the nation's capital and conducts among others 4-H citizenship short courses, 4-H leaders forums, and the International Farm Youth Exchange. The 4-H Foundation serves about 20,000 people through its complete educational curriculum annually.

Guest speakers were from Twin Falls in connection with the National High School Rodeo. Lynn Cook, chairman of promotions for the national event announced it will be held Aug. 3-5 and introduced other members of the project from Twin Falls and Kimberly.

Cook reported that some 500 high school students are expected to compete in the various events and will be representing 24 states in the nation. The rodeo is billed as the largest of its kind in the world. There will be 11 performances, two per day except the final day and one only in the evening, Cook said. Three events will be going on at the same time. John Huston and Don Harrington will be the two announcers, and Tim Oylar will be the clown.

Cook asked the Burley chamber to consider sponsoring a saddle which cost $295 which would be given away Aug. 7 in the chamber's name. Also Aug. 7 is being planned as Burley Day at the national event, according to Cook.

Bob Harvey, Twin Falls chamber president, reported that program booklets will sell for 50 cents and will include news stories of the area, what to do and see in Magic Valley, and will list the sponsors.

Season tickets for the week-long event will be $17; or $2 per adult or $1 per child. Box seats are being sold to the state high school rodeo associations on a first come, first served basis. Any box seats left will be offered to the general public. A coin is being made which will be valued at $1 and these are to be available in all Magic Valley Towns.

Leonard Fisher, Kimberly, treasurer for the national rodeo, announced an $80,000 budget has been set and the funds are to be raised from tickets, concessions, display booth and advertising throughout southern Idaho.

Ray Rostron, Twin Falls chamber manager, reported the Magic Valley can expect four adults per student contestant or about 2,000 people for the 10 days. Housing is being handled by the Twin Falls Motel Association and they will be contacting the motels in the Burley-Rupert area for housing.

In a question period it was reported that 45,000 seats are available at the Flilor fairgrounds and 13 saddles will be given away during the National High School Rodeo.

Kip Horaburger, who is promoting the Magic Valley Cowboys Baseball team, displayed a poster which lists the Cowboys' schedule for the coming season. Tickets are available in the Burley area at Ponderosa Inn, he said.

Award given

Cassia hospital lists appointments

BURLEY — Two department heads have been appointed at Cassia Memorial Hospital. Robert Barton, hospital administrator, said today.

Mrs. Norma Edgar has been appointed executive housekeeper and laundry manager and Mrs. Clara Picknough is director of a newly created department of hospital accounts.

Mrs. Edgar was originally employed by the hospital in 1969 as a ward clerk and recently began her new assignment to fill a vacancy when the former executive housekeeper resigned for maternal reasons.

Mrs. Edgar is a native of Burley and she and her husband, Frank, who is a farmer, are the parents of five children. She is enthusiastic about her new role at the hospital and desirous of maintaining the high standards already established, Barton said.

The Hospital Accounts Department was created to broaden the scope of the business office, according to Barton. He pointed out that the term "account" is used to describe the department and position rather than "credit" because the hospital is not a credit institution, nor can it afford to be.

Mrs. Vickinpaugh attended college at Billings, Mont., until she married her husband, Ross. Through various family relocations she has obtained experience in bookkeeping, credit and collection, and secretarial work. Her husband is a lineman with the BPA with the Bureau of Reclamation.

BURLEY — The South Central District of Business and Professional Women will host the 50th state convention of the Idaho Federation of Business and Professional Womens Clubs June 3-6 at Ponderosa Inn Convention Center, Burley.

Mrs. Myra Ruth Harmon, national representative, a past president of the national foundation of Business and Professional Womens Clubs, will be the guest speaker during the convention.

Friday and Saturday. A banquet will be held Saturday evening and Mrs. Harmon will speak on "Womens Real Liberation." Also that evening she will install the new state officers.

Tours and time for shopping is in the schedule Saturday afternoon.

An emblem breakfast and memorial service will be held Sunday morning, followed by adjournment of the state convention.

Environmental concern noted

BURLEY — Bonneville Power Administration's Environmental Statement for fiscal year 1972 is now available to the public, Don Hodel, acting administrator, said today.

The Environmental Statement is required by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and covers the environmental impact of BPA's construction and operations and maintenance programs for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1971.

"The greatest emphasis has been placed on incorporating environmental concern into procedures, designs, and processes, so that they have become an integral part of BPA's program," Hodel said.

In preparing the Environmental Statement, BPA solicited comments from 15 federal, 35 state, and 66 local agencies. The document records the comments of the responding agencies, as well as those obtained at a series of public meetings held last September and October at which individuals and groups were given the opportunity to present their views on BPA's proposed program.

Persons interested in reviewing the Environmental Statement may do so at the BPA Headquarters, Portland, Ore.; at the information office of the Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C.; or at any of the BPA area or district offices located throughout the Pacific Northwest. In this area Idaho Falls is the district office.

Copies have also been sent to the 41 libraries in the Pacific Northwest which are designated depositories for federal documents. In addition, a limited number of copies of the statement is available on request to the public and to organizations concerned with conservation and the environment.

Jaycees event said successful

BURLEY — Proceeds from the Jaycees Fly Day will be used for community service projects, Larry Stephenson, project chairman, said today in commenting on the success of the event.

He said about 33,000 pounds were weighed in during Sunday's activities at the Burley airport, with three single engine Cessna planes used throughout the day, owned by Skyways, Inc., of which Phil Payne is owner and manager.

Passengers ranged in age from pre-school to senior citizens, Stephenson said, and for many it was the first air ride. Passengers paid according to their weight.

Saturday's activities were cancelled because of the rain, but a large crowd attended Sunday's event. The hot air balloon owned by Lee Moyle, Hoyburn, was not able to go up because of the wind, Stephenson said.

Girl dies in mishap

WILDER (UPI) — Idaho's traffic toll rose to 89 for the year when a 19-year-old Caldwell girl apparently lost control of her vehicle and crashed through a guardrail north of here.

Killed instantly was Catherine Anne Houk.

Workshop held for headstart

BURLEY — The Head Start training session was concluded this weekend at the Ponderosa Inn. Attending were Headstart teachers, aides and parents.

Instructors for the workshop were Robin McCurdy and Jim Clark, both Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. McCurdy discussed room designs, and pointed out it was not necessary to buy items for decorating, but urged the teachers and aides to make their decorations. She demonstrated finger painting, and clay work.

Also she discussed story telling which is an art within itself and ways of handling discipline problems.

Clark discussed the volunteer program, which becomes a part of the community activities.

Other topics that were discussed were teacher-aide relationship, creative arts, development of the child and pre-school program of education.

Theme of Rupert fete announced

RUPERT — "To Me Happiness Is..." will be the theme of the Rupert Independence Day celebration July 4.

That theme submitted by Mrs. Vern Hacking was chosen from among 12 entries. Larry Edgar, spokesman for the sponsoring Rupert Chamber of Commerce, said today.

Contestants are still being sought for the queen contest, for which the first practice is scheduled Monday evening. Rex Rasmussen, chairman, said, contestants must be 18 years old by Sept. 1, single, and must live in Minidoka County, the Jackson area, or the east end of Jerome County.

At the last chamber meeting in Rupert, it was announced the Greyhound bus depot will be moved to the Ted Aston Machinery Co. on Highway 24.

Generation gap? Jim Beam never heard of it.

Orson Welles and his daughter, Rebecca.

Orson Welles, acclaimed actor. Rebecca Welles Moede, aspiring actress. Different generations. But very much alike when it comes to their craft. They live for it. And work for it. And love it.

The Beams, too, have a craft—the distilling of Bourbon. And for six generations now, son has followed father at that craft. Living for it. Working for it. Loving it.

It's a proud record. It's a proud Bourbon—smooth and light and mellow. With a rich aroma full of promise.

Market Review

STOCKS NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices were higher on the New York Stock Exchange as trading rounded the halfway mark Wednesday.

Most of the firmness was attributed to bargain hunting following the market's recent sharp setbacks.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 selected blue chips was up 3.79 at 910.48, and advancing issues led declines, 765 to 449, among the 1,558 on the tape. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index gained 0.55 to 100.22.

The three-hour volume of 8,570,000 shares fell from the 11,260,000 shares traded in a comparable period Tuesday.

Analysts said the market also was receiving a boost from the Commerce Department's report that the government's index of leading economic indicators climbed in April for the sixth consecutive month. The index is considered a harbinger of broad movements in the economy.

Utahn on spot for pulling rank on rookie driver

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Baldie Dick Simon is on the spot in Saturday's 500-mile Indianapolis auto race. He pulled rank on a rookie he picked to drive his second car and will start in his place.

It's rarely done in the holiday classic and Simon, a father of seven competing here for only the second time, was apologetic for robbing the fastest rookie in "500" history of a starting spot.

"I know I will be looked upon as a bum for doing this, but I had no other alternative," said the former sky jumping and parachute jumping champion. He said he had contractual obligations with a sponsor to fulfill, among other things.

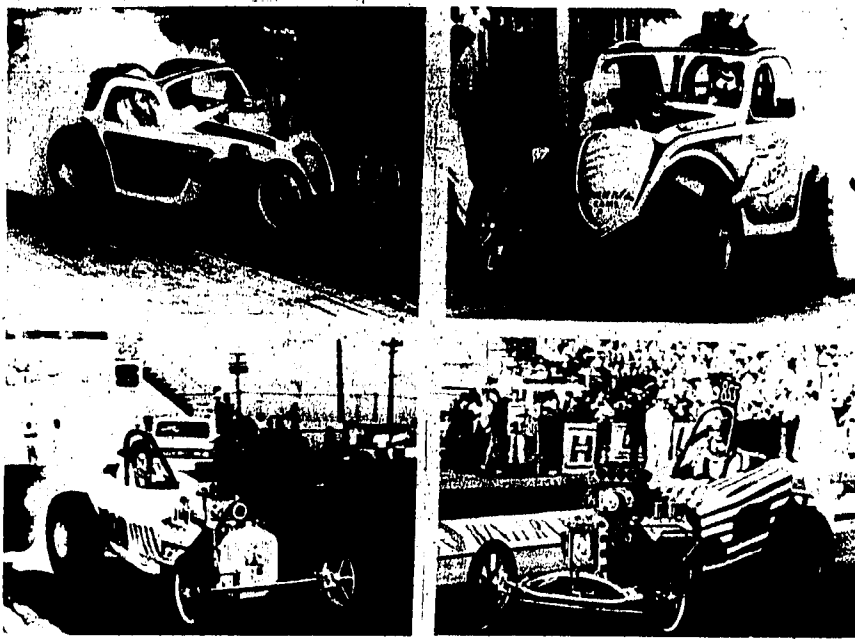

His move shut the door for John Mahler of Bettendorf, Iowa, who had qualified Saturday in Simon's second car for the outside spot in the ninth row at a speed of better than 170 miles per hour.

Simon, 37, a Mormon who hails from Salt Lake City, qualified on the first day of the trials at a slower speed. His car was "bumped," to his embarrassment, on the final day of qualifications Sunday and he was unable to qualify another machine before time ran out.

Thus, exit Mahler. The rules provide that in such a case, the car must start the race in 33rd or last place. That's all right with Simon—as long as he is in the race.

Originally, Simon said he had planned to let Mahler start the race and replace him on the first of three mandatory pit stops. He changed his mind upon realizing that points based on the car's finish in the race are awarded to the starting driver only. And Simon hopes to finish high in the final USAC big-car standings.

He finished third at Ontario in the inaugural "California 500" last year and 10th in the final standings for 1970 and is not downcast by the fact he starts last Saturday. He was 14th last year and hopes to do much better now.

Top dragsters

California fuel altered to drag at Firebird Raceway

BOISE — After giving the asphalt a chance to cool down, Firebird Raceway will re-open for its fourth major drag racing event Sunday during the long Memorial Day weekend.

Originally planned as a daytime event, the race has now been changed to run under the lights that will see the time trials begin at 3 p.m. and the first round of eliminations getting kicked off at 7:30 p.m.

Highlighting the holiday festivities will be the wild California AA fuel altered, pro stockers and a return of the famous "Chuckwagon" wheel stander that will be driven by Chuck Poole.

Since Firebird has been open, area-wide drag fans have been treated to almost every type of drag racing machine with the exception of the AA fuel altered, which for many years have been one of the most popular attractions at the big tracks in Southern California.

Heading up the list will be Mike Sullivan, San Bernardino, in his beautiful blue and white Fiat bodied altered which, according to his record of accomplishments, is one of the fastest in the country. Mike's little Fiat is only 85 inches long but carries the horsepower to have reached an astounding 7.21 elapsed time for the quarter mile at 212 miles per hour.

Sullivan's most recent big win was at Bakersfield, California in March, at their annual Fuel and Gas Championship meet.

Not to be outdone in the performance department, his fellow Californian Dave Hough, who drives the famous "Nanook" AA fuel altered which is a 1923 "T" bodied roadster that has established an identical E.T. to Sullivan at 7.21 seconds at 211.7 miles per hour for the quarter mile. Hough has held the fuel altered records at Irwindale, Lions, Orange County International, Fremont, Chrisbad, Pontana, and Tucson, Ariz. "Nanook" is powered by a blown 392 cubic inches Hemi Chrysler that runs on 92 per cent nitro methane.

In yet another Fiat will be Randy Bradford, who is the driver of a father-son combination that runs out of Anaheim, Calif. Randy drives one of the newer fuel altered from Calif. and is definitely showing promise in becoming a leading contender. He has been running consistently in the 7.30's at 210 miles per hour on the Southern California tracks.

Bradford's coupe is likewise powered by a big blown 392 cubic inches Chrysler Hemi.

Coming in fresh, after a big win at Tucson, Ariz., will be Ed Moore who drives the feared "Mob" "T" roadster bodies altered that runs out of San Bernardino. When not behind the wheel of the awesome 200 miles per hour Roadster, Ed Moore rides about in a squad car, as at 28, his full-time profession is as a policeman.

Probably one of the biggest reasons for the success of the fuel altered is nostalgia. When drag racing got started 20 years ago, it began with roadsters and coupes known as street hot rods. The fuel dragsters and funny cars were not even heard of in those days and it was the coupes and roadsters that started it all, running at speeds near 100 miles per hour in the quarter mile.

The fuel altered of today look basically the same as their forerunners of yester year but all things being considered, they have made what many feel to be the biggest gain in performance over all other types of drag racing classes.

When you consider that they will run almost as fast as a funny car but yet are only half as long, it's an amazing feat of engineering and driving skill.

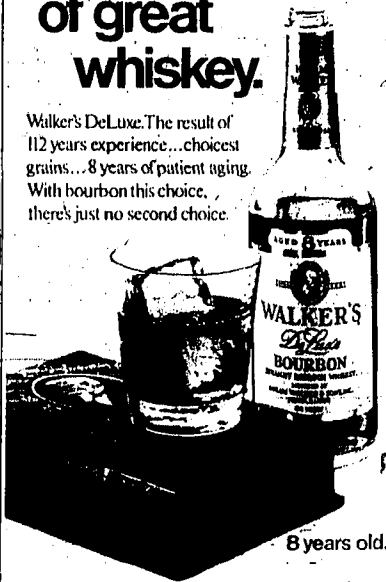

Outfielder has surgery

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Cincinnati Reds outfielder Bobby Tolán underwent surgery on his achilles tendon for the second time Tuesday at Christ Hospital and team physicians said he was in good condition following the operation.

Dr. George Ballou said Tolán would have his ankle in a cast for about four weeks and then begin therapy.

Russians coming to Utah for basketball game

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Russian national basketball team arrives in Salt Lake City Thursday afternoon in preparing for a Saturday game with the Utah College All-Stars.

The Russians, with five men from their 1968 Olympic team, will take on an 11-man team of collegiate stars from six Utah colleges.

Mike Newlin, University of Utah; Marv Roberts, Utah State; and Willie Sojourner, Weber State, will lead the All-Stars against the visiting Russians in their ninth game against American college teams.

The 12-man team from the Soviet Union plays tonight in Albuquerque against a team of Southwestern collegiate seniors, including Newlin Roberts and Sojourner.

The three Utah players will then fly with the Russian team to Salt Lake for the 7:30 p.m. Saturday game in the University of Utah Special Events Center.

The Soviets are led by Olympians Aljan Zhamukhamidov at center and Alexander Boloshev at forward, both 6-9, with 6-3 Sergie Belov at guard.

The other starters include 6-5 Modets Paulauskis at forward and guard Prit Tomson at 6-4. They are undefeated in seven starts against American amateur squads.

Bill Sharman and Larry Creger, coaches for the American Basketball Association Utah Stars, will act as mentors for the Utah All-Stars.

Along with Newlin, Sojourner and Roberts, Sharman said he plans to start Ken Gardner from Utah and Steve Kelly from Brigham Young University.

The other six players on the All-Stars team include Early Laster and Jim Mahler from Utah, Jim Miller from BYU, Ed Epps from Utah State, Roger Chentham from Westminster and Southern Utah State's Al Winfield.

The Russians figure to have a height advantage on the college team, plus they will be playing under International AAU rules which the Soviet team is used to.

The international rules allow players to handle out-of-bounds plays on their own without having the referee control the ball first. And, if the ball is taken out in the backcourt, the player throwing in the ball can run down the sideline to midcourt before passing the ball in.

The foul situation also should favor the Russians. A player can only shoot free throws when he is fouled while shooting or during the last three minutes of the period. And if a player makes a basket and is fouled he doesn't get a free throw.

In the last game the Soviets played there were 75 fouls committed, about double the number of a normal college game, and five players fouled out.

Sharman plans to use a fast-break offense and a fullcourt press on defense to disrupt the Russians' patterns. In the past seven games the Russians have had difficulty adjusting to these "American" tactics.

Marathon bowling record 1,220 games

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—The world's new marathon bowling record holder finally went home Tuesday afternoon after rolling his 1,220th consecutive game 98 hours and 45 minutes after he had begun.

The blistered, weary, but very happy 43-year-old machinist, Richard Dewey, broke the former consecutive game mark when he bowled his 1,206 game about 10:30 a.m. (EDT) Tuesday. That game shattered the record set in 1966 by Bill Hollander at Tampa, Fla.

Dewey began the extravaganza Friday morning on a schedule of six hours of competition and 30-minute rest periods in an effort to raise funds for the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra.

"I want to raise the money to keep the Philharmonic here and to establish an endurance test," he said.

In accomplishing the feat, Dewey threw about 82 3-tons down the Lucky Strike Lanes alleys via the eight-pound ball he used. He alternated hands and used gloves and bandages to ward off the inevitable blisters.

Dewey, who usually bowls in the 180s, averaged 128.45 for the 1,220 games. He spilled a total of 165,520 pins.

Killebrew, Twins beat Brewers 8-5

Daniels, Patterson set fight

Mets beat Phillies in 12

By LARRY HOVEY Times-News Sports Editor

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Harmon Killebrew drove home four runs with a double and his 492nd career homer Tuesday night to lead the Minnesota Twins to an 8-5 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Killebrew's home run in the first scored Rod Carew ahead of him and pushed him to within one of a 10th place tie with Lou Gehrig on the all-time home run list. It was his fifth this year.

The Twins added a single run in the third with Cesar Tovar's leadoff triple the key and then, after the Brewers tied the score 3-3, they exploded for five runs in the sixth.

George Mitterwald's three-run homer with none out started the inning and Killebrew clinaxed it with a double to the top of the wall that scored Carow and Tony Oliva.

Norm Cochran of Jerome is getting a lot of mileage out of his 60-foot, 10-inch toss of the eight-pound shotput. Track and Field News has duly chronicled it as a new record and now it appears that Sports Illustrated will give him a shot in the "faces in the crowd" section of that magazine.

Cochran is a 15 1/2-year-old eighth grader who possesses good potential in all sports and the best part about him from the Jerome standpoint is that he will be 19 through half of his senior year. He was held back a year so he and a younger brother could be in the same class.

Second only to "who killed Cock Robin" the question in Twin Falls the past few weeks has been "who fired Charlie Farmer" as Bruin cage coach. No administrator or board member has claimed any knowledge of it. And Farmer wasn't officially notified until a couple of weeks ago when he received his new teaching contract with the basketball assignment left out.

However, a group has stepped forward to take full responsibility for Farmer's ouster. It is a meet-twice-a-month bridge club of women. Of course, the names aren't changed much from the original five or six fathers the Times-News noted were behind the ouster at the time of the controversy. One of the women's daughters, whose brother was on the team last year, has been spreading the word in the halls of the school. "My mother's bridge club got Coach Farmer fired." Ah! The hand that rocks the cradle... shakes the school board.

J.D. Claborn got the first hole-in-one of his career during a practice round Thursday for the annual Blue Lakes Country Club Invitational. Tough luck for the state senator.

Everybody was down there practicing for the same tournament and the rule is the hole-in-one getter stands the rounds in celebration. As of early Thursday evening the senator's bar tab had reached $150 and was still climbing.

An interesting note. CSI has had two major college coaches speak at its past two athletic banquets — Tex Winter of Washington and Phil Johnson of Weber State. Both now are coaching in the NBA. Winters with San Diego and Johnson reunited with his high school coach as assistant with the Chicago Bulls. Look for John Vlasscher to get the Weber post now.

A rumor floating around high school circles now indicates there will be an opening in coaching in the Magic Valley Conference with the coach forgoing teaching-coaching to become superintendent at another school. The first resignation reportedly is written but as yet unaccepted — but that school board knows of the situation and is ready to move almost immediately.

Tigers 7, N.Y. 4 DETROIT (UPI)—Norm Cash keyed Detroit's two big innings with run-scoring singles as the Tigers recovered from blowing a 3-0 lead to post their seventh straight win Tuesday night, 7-4, over the New York Yankees.

New York took a 4-3 lead in the seventh when Bobby Murcer beat Aurelio Rodriguez's throw to the plate on Danny Cater's grounder and Rog Hansen's sacrifice fly produced the tie-breaker.

But singles by Al Kalino and Jim Northrup off Lindy McDaniel in the seventh put Detroit in a position to tie the game on Cash's sharp line single to right. Cash's single was the seventh hit in the last nine batters faced by McDaniel, now 2-6. Fred Scherman, 3-0, picked up the win in relief of Joe Coleman.

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Both former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson and up and coming heavyweight Terry Daniels of Dallas predict knockdowns, if not knockouts, in their fight tonight at the Cleveland Arena.

"He can punch and I can, too, so the possibility's there for a knockout," Patterson said. "There should be at least a knockdown."

Patterson, 35, making his fourth comeback try after a two-year layoff, has won 49 of 57 professional fights, 38 by knockouts.

Daniels, 24, a former resident of nearby Willoughby with one semester to go for a pre-law degree from North Texas State, has had 24 wins in 27 fights, 22 of them by knockouts.

"One punch could end the fight and knockout is the most likely result," said Daniels. "Patterson's famous for his left hook from a crouch and my best punch is a right cross. These two combine to make the possibility of a knockout excellent."

NEW YORK (UPI)—Bob Aspromonte lined a run-scoring single off reliever Jim Bunning with two out in the 12th inning Tuesday night to give the New York Mets a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The run off Bunning, making his first relief appearance of the season after nine starts, was unearned because Larry Bowa booted Tim Foli's leadoff grounder.

Tommie Agee walked and Donn Clendenon hit a grounder to Bowa, who forced Agee at second. Cleon Jones then rapped a grounder to Bowa, who threw out Foli at home plate before Aspromonte lined his single to right field that scored Clendenon with the deciding run.

BALTIMORE (UPI)—The Baltimore-Cleveland game was rained out Tuesday night and rescheduled as part of a Labor Day doubleheader.

The Orioles held a 2-1 lead in the top of the second inning when rain halted play for 54 minutes before the game was called. Frank Robinson had homered for the Orioles and Ken Harrelson for the Indians.

Cardinals scored a 4-2 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Cardinals allowed all six hits in the first three innings before retiring 14 men in a row.

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—The Cincinnati Reds took advantage of three Pittsburgh errors to score seven runs in the first two innings and defeat the Pirates, 7-4, Tuesday night, giving left-hander Ross Grimsley his first major league victory.

The Reds scored three runs in the first inning, getting just one hit, and scored four more times in the second. All the runs came off starter Bob Moose, who contributed to his own downfall by throwing a bunt into center field.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I am an airline stewardess, 30 years old, and happily married. I am a very friendly person, but I don't think I am overly friendly. I have been eating with my group at a certain airport restaurant which is very conveniently located and has good food at sensible prices.

During the last few months I noticed a bus boy (not young) being very attentive to me. The others in my group noticed it, too, because they mentioned it. I say hello and smile at all the people who work there, the waitresses, cashier, etc., and bus boys, too, but I never gave this one bus boy any reason to get the wrong idea.

Last week, just as I was leaving, this bus boy ran up to me and handed me a letter. I opened it and it was a love letter, declaring he was "in love" with me, and my eyes told him that I loved him, too!

I haven't been back there since. It's the best restaurant in the airport, but I'm scared to go back. I don't want to get him fired, Abby. How should I handle this?

PUZZLED STEWARDESS

DEAR STEWARDESS: Go back, and pointedly ignore the bus boy. He will get the message. If he makes any more overtures, report him to the manager.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is violently opposed to drinking. My husband and I keep beer in our refrigerator as we enjoy it occasionally, and so do some of our friends, but we certainly don't overdo it.

My husband agreed not to drink in front of my mother. The problem is that my mother refuses to come to our house if beer is even in the refrigerator. My husband told me that my mother doesn't have the right to dictate the contents of our refrigerator, and his agreeing not to drink in front of her is as far as he will go. My husband has already taken a lot from my mother, and I'm not sure if I have the right to ask him to back down on this point. So who should be told what?

NAMELESS PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Your mother should be told that you keep beer in your refrigerator, so if she chooses not to visit you for that reason, you will miss her visits.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a substitute teacher. She told me that when the principal telephones her to come to work, he always ends his conversation with, "See you later, baby!" (Or "sweetie," or "darling.")

The principal is about 35 years old and my wife is 37 and very attractive. She says she is sure the principal means nothing by it, and she's probably right, but we have a 15-year-old son who has a phone in his room, and if he were to accidentally hear this it would be difficult to explain.

How should this matter be handled? HER HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Your wife should tell the principal that she prefers to be called, "Mrs." And not only because your son might "accidentally" hear it either.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to Football Widow, who wrote, "If I had a heart attack during a game, I would be left lying on the floor until the game was over." Don't believe her. She was exaggerating. A dedicated football fan wouldn't wait that long. He would pick her up at half time so she could get back to the TV set and watch the rest of the game undisturbed.

STATEN ISLAND

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

"Lots about laundering" program set in Jerome

JEROME — Do you know the difference between an enzyme pre-soak product and an enzyme detergent? Should you use a starch or a fabric finish? What does a fabric softener do for launderable items?

These questions and many more will be answered in the open lesson entitled "Lots about Laundering" to be presented today at 8 p.m. by Sharon LaFray, extension home economist for Jerome County. The lesson will be offered to anyone interested in learning about laundering at the Jerome County Courthouse.

Miss LaFray will discuss many topics related to laundering including why-where-what-how we wash clothing; selecting washable clothing; basic steps to good laundering; careful sorting; pretreating; choosing the right product for the job; soaps and detergents; enzyme pre-soak products and enzyme detergents and bleaches.

Also to be discussed are water softening agents; fabric softeners; starches and fabric finishes; reading package directions and following them; using correct water temperatures; know your washer and how to use it; choosing the right wash action; rinsing and drying.

Miss LaFray will also demonstrate how to test the bleachfastness of colored fabrics, how to test colorfastness of colored fabrics, and will show how soaps and detergents make water wetter, or reduce the surface tension of water enabling it to penetrate fabrics faster and more thoroughly.

Mint green, lilac chosen

The gowns are of layered silk organza and will be identical except for variations in color. The attendants' organza hats will match their gowns. The wedding party's dresses were designed by Priscilla of Boston, who also designed the bride's gown and attendants' dresses when Julie married David Eisenhower in December, 1968.

Movie Review

By DAVID COX
Orpheum Theatre Manager
TWIN FALLS — The film industry has been very successful the past few years in promoting motion pictures. Even though public attendance has been on the increase, the quality of a large share of movies has left a great deal to be desired. Five, maybe six times a year, a movie will be released that is worthy of comment. "Little Big Man" is one of these.

"Little Big Man," starring Dustin Hoffman and Faye Dunaway, just has to be one of the few motion pictures that "tells it like it is." It is a humorous western that tells the other side of the story about the conflict between the Indian and the "white man." "Little Big Man" shows the patience, courage, and the many trials and tribulations of the American Indian instead of the glorified "fearless savage image" that is very standard with the film industry.

For Hoffman (who holds two Academy Award nominations for "The Graduate" and "Midnight Cowboy") "Little Big Man" is his most challenging assignment as an actor. To test his versatility, Hoffman not only undergoes an incredible screen aging process (appearing alternately as a young man and a prune-faced 121-year-old survivor of the calamities of the west) but also proves his dramatic skill in a series of deft characterizations as Jack Crabb, a "vagabond" of the west who lives more than a lifetime of lifetimes.

Faye Dunaway portrays a frontier preacher's wife who later becomes Wild Bill Hickok's mistress, preferring him to his hymns.

The picture opens with Little Big Man telling a reporter of his life's adventures. The story is extremely interesting and (for a change) truthful about how the West was really won.

"Little Big Man" won the Blue Ribbon Award for March. This award is given each month by the National Screen Council on the basis of outstanding merit and suitability for family entertainment.

This G rated film can be recommended very highly. It is not only entertaining, but educational. The whole family should see this one!

Northside chapter of AARP organized

JEROME A. — A northside chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons has been formed in Jerome, according to Edith Nancolas, member of the Twin Falls Chapter, who was instrumental in organizing the new group.

Officers include William King, president; Mrs. Leata Hull, vice president; Mrs. King, treasurer, and Mrs. Charlotte Roberson, secretary.

Mrs. Nancolas said directors will be elected later. There is sufficient interest among the local group to apply for a charter from the national AARP, but it will take a year before the charter will be granted.

The national group is open to persons 65 years of age or older who either have retired or are contemplating it soon. The organization works to secure fair treatment for all retired persons, she said.

The next meeting is scheduled for 2 p.m. June 11 at the Heritage Home Recreation Hall in Jerome and all persons 55 years or over who live anywhere on the north side are welcome, she said.

Tough year

BONN (UPI)—West German marriages that end in divorce tend to break up during their third year. An analysis by the Federal Statistical Office also revealed the highest rate of divorce is in West Berlin, the lowest in the Saarland on the French border. While West Germany's divorce rate is higher than in the nations of Central and Southern Europe, it is much lower than in the Communist or Scandinavian states, the Statistical Office said.

I-80 project moves on STEEL and wood forming the girders and concrete forms of an overpass across the Interstate 80N route under construction between Wendell and Jerome are silhouetted against the sky. Work on the project is moving ahead rapidly, with several bridges under construction and surfacing crews putting down asphalt on the new segment of the highway. After the forms being replaced on these girders are ready, a concrete deck will be poured.

Salmon air aid asked

BOISE (UPI) — State Rep. Helen McClintock, R-Salmon, asked the Idaho Aeronautics Commission today to place an air navigational aid in the Salmon area, using part of its fiscal 1972 appropriation.

"The safety of aviation in that part of the state will be greatly enhanced," she told the board.

"But board members decided to wait for results of a survey done on the area before making its decision, although aeronautics director, Darrell Manning said there was a 'very strong case' for placing the instrument in Salmon.

The problem, Manning said, was that although $33,000 for such a unit was included in the department's budget, the unit had been promised to more than one area. The other contender appeared to be the Halley area, where the unit would be used to assist let-downs.

Carroll Jarvis, Salmon, owner of the Salmon Taxi Service, said the unit placed in Salmon would give complete air navigation service for that entire portion of the state.

Now, he said, "as soon as you cross the Sawtooths from here it's a complete blank."

"What gets most people in the most trouble is trying to find an airport," he said.

Dam halt hearing stated

SPokane (UPI) — Federal District Judge William N. Goodwin has set June 2 as the date for hearing on a motion by the federal government to dismiss an amended suit aimed at stopping construction of Lower Granite Dam on the Snake River in southeastern Washington.

The suit was filed against the Army Corps of Engineers by the Northwest Steelheaders Council of Trout Unlimited. It was first filed in March, 1970, but was amended April 29 of this year to broaden its scope.

The amended suit is more specific in its allegations and, besides attempting to halt construction of Lower Granite and the proposed Asotin dams, it complains about other dams and proposed dikes in the Lewiston, Idaho-Clarkston, Wash., area in the proposed pool of Lower Granite Dam.

The steelheaders contend in their suit that the dams are ruining the anadromous fish run in the Columbia and Snake rivers.

South was willing to jump to two hearts with his six-card suit and two kings. It might even be reached if South just bid one heart, but we are sure that many charity game players didn't reach slam.

Strangely enough, the slam only makes because West does not have an opening bid. Give East the ace of clubs and a club lead toward that ace would send South into the slough of despond when hearts failed to break evenly.

With the actual layout it doesn't matter what West leads. If he opens the ace of clubs South ruffs in dummy, catches the ace and queen of trumps and leads diamonds. If West leads anything else South must go right after diamonds, although he can afford to cash one or two trumps first.

DO NOT CALL them bird watchers. Call them birders. They prefer that... IT'S A RARE BEER DRINKER who realizes his plunger glass invariably is bigger around at the top than it is tall... JUST-IN, latest figures on moose meat. It costs the average hunter of same $436 per pound now... THE COPYRIGHTED songs entitled "I Love You" outnumber the copyrighted songs entitled "I Loved You" by 900 to 300... WHEN Henry David Thoreau wrote down all the reasons he was grateful, No. 4 on that list was "People trust me."

JUST ABOUT all those gentlemen who call themselves recovered alcoholics contend a drinker either can handle it or he can't, there's no in-between. At hand, however, is a letter from a citizen who says: "After 20 years of hard drinking, I was labeled a confirmed alcoholic by my family, by the police, by a couple of doctors, and eventually even by myself. So I quit. For two years. Completely. Then seven years ago, I started to drink whiskey again. Daily. With one small difference. I never take two drinks in succession without drinking a little milk in between. In those seven years I've lost no work, not even been late, actually never been drunk." Fascinating, if factual.

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q. "Anybody ever make a study of how many men marry girls for money?" A. Such research was undertaken by the matrimonial experts about five years ago. They claimed then 13 out of every 100 bridegrooms are more interested in the financial assets than the feminine attributes.

AT THE TURN of the century, Denmark had about 4,000 pairs of breeding storks. Now it's only got 65 pairs. The birth rate of human beings there then was 3.2 per 100. Now it's down to 1.38 per 100. So you see? Overtime killed off almost all of those storks, obviously. And the storks still left are just snowed under, I imagine.

SEN. HENRY JACKSON recently described Russia as a burglar tiptoeing down the corridors of the world, trying doors. Whether truth or poetry, don't know, but am submitting it to the Digest anyway as a picturesque speech and patter... THAT TIME a troubled citizen is most apt to commit suicide is not right in the middle of what the psychology specialists call an emotional crisis. But afterwards. Usually about three months afterwards, the record shows.

FAT WOMEN tend to think they're really fatter, thin women tend to think they're really thinner. Extensive studies at the Michael Reese Medical Center in Chicago are said to indicate that. In fact, it's not uncommon for such girls in the extreme, I'm told, to fail to recognize themselves in photographs.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used in PASS IT ON wherever possible. Please address your letters to L.M. Boyd, P.O. Box 1-7026, Fort Worth, Texas 76102.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

From 1931 to around 1969 any expert paly would have no trouble getting to six hearts with the North-South cards after West opened one club. North would make a game-forcing, two-club cue bid. South would respond three hearts to show some values and North would go the rest of the way.

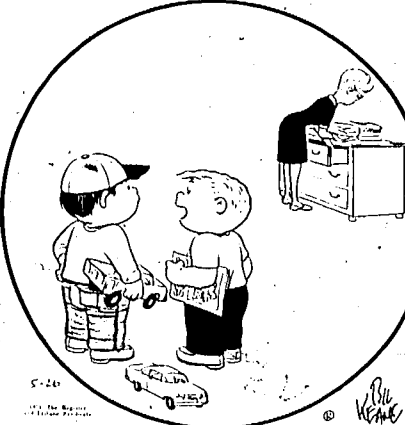

The average bridge player uses that same bid today and would get to the slam the same way, but some modern experts might have trouble because they use the Michaels cue bid to show majors against a minor-suit opening and not to show a rock-crusher.

Those North players would have to double the opening club bid. Slam should be reached easily provided NAMPA, Idaho (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church today announced plans to endow a $500 scholarship in the field of American history at Northwest Nazarene College.

Church disclosed his plans in an appearance before a government affairs class at NNC. His announcement brings to four the number of scholarships Church has furnished Idaho colleges in recent years.

Earlier, he endowed scholarships at the University of Idaho,

Idaho State University and Ricks College.

He said he was following his customary procedure in setting up the scholarship. In June of 1970 when he was commencement speaker at NNC and received an honorary doctor of laws degree he was given an honorarium of $450.

"It has been my practice, when tendered a fee by an Idaho school, to return the money through scholarships for worthy students," he said.
