Awaits lift

WEARY SOUTH Vietnamese soldier waits at a landing zone at Dak To, in South Vietnam's Central Highlands, for a helicopter to lift him and some of his buddies into besieged Firebase 5. A relief column trying to reach the firebase remained stalled half a mile from the base. (UPI)

Action hot near DMZ

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese gunners bombarded allied outposts near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) Thursday with the most concentrated mortar and rocket attacks in months, military sources said today.

Allied spokesmen in Saigon also reported continued heavy fighting around besieged South Vietnamese Artillery Base 5 in the Central Highlands. Heavy air strikes and ground fire Thursday killed 130 Communist troops near the Myung camp, spokesmen said.

At least five allied outposts strung along the DMZ, which forms the frontier between North and South Vietnam, took heavy shelling, military sources said.

A barrage of 290 mortar rounds killed seven soldiers of the Army of the Republic of (South) Vietnam (ARVN) and wounded nine at Fire Base "Fuller" near Cam Lo, the sources said.

ARVN marines making a search-and-destroy sweep near the abandoned U.S. base at Khe Sanh came under fire for the second consecutive day, taking about 100 rounds of mixed 82-millimeter mortar and 75-millimeter recoilless rifle fire. No casualties were reported.

The U.S. command said the American artillery base Charlie 2 was hit Thursday with about 65 120-millimeter rockets which caused "light" casualties. On May 29 a similar barrage killed 21 Americans.

ARVN spokesmen said Fire Base 5, 190 miles north of Saigon, reported killing 60 Communist soldiers 400 yards northeast of the outpost Thursday at a cost of eight ARVN dead and 10 wounded.

Senate passes draft

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate voted today to continue the military draft, refusing to cut off the chief supply of manpower for the Vietnam War.

Hawks and doves joined in voting to bury an amendment by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., to end conscription when the latest extension of the basic draft law expires July 1.

President Nixon's request for a two-year extension of the draft still faced a filibuster, however, and Senate leaders sought to shut off further debate via a cloture motion later in the day.

Many opponents of the Vietnam War, led by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., refused to go along with Hatfield's idea of using the draft as a tool to force an end to the war.

Kennedy contended that the tactic probably would not work and was not worth the risk of establishing a professional army which he said would be isolated from civilian society and largely composed of poor blacks.

Hatfield contended that conscription was a contradiction to democratic freedoms and was unnecessary to maintain a large standing army.

Prices upward in May

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government said today wholesale prices in the nation went up four tenths of one per cent in May as a persistent inflation continued to dog the economy.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said price increases for steel and other metal products, and for fuels, accounted for about 70 per cent of a 0.4 per cent rise in the key industrial commodity price index.

The more volatile index for farm products and processed foods and feeds went up 0.9 per cent in May following a slight decline in April.

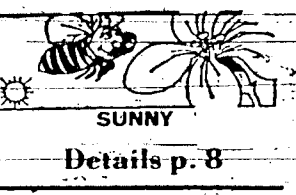

But the farm and food price increases were less than normal for May, and after seasonal adjustment those indexes were shown with declines.

The adjusted index for farm products, processed foods and feeds went down 0.2 per cent, while the adjusted index for farm products alone declined 1.1 per cent.

The overall rise of 0.4 per cent in wholesale prices compared with increases of 0.3 per cent in April, 0.2 per cent in March, 0.9 per cent in February.

After seasonal adjustments, the May increase was listed at 0.3 per cent, compared to an adjusted rise of 0.5 per cent in April.

But the May statistics showed that inflation, which the Nixon administration has pledged to curtail, is still plaguing the nation. The administration has set a goal of reducing inflation to an annual rate of 3 per cent by mid-1972.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said cause of death is not known and investigation is continuing.

By the police department and Cloyce Edwards, Twin Falls County Coroner.

President proposes 'clean' power plan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon announced today a broad program to assure the nation of enough "clean energy" in the year ahead, emphasizing new-generation nuclear reactors as the "best hope" for the future.

Nixon outlined in a special message to Congress approximately $100 million in new appropriations he said would be needed to put his program into effect.

The money will go for 1) research and development; 2) elimination of pollution from energy sources now in use, 3) expanded leasing of federal lands for new oil and gas supplies, and 4) to try entirely new sources of power.

Nixon administration officials acknowledged that money intended for some parts of the program have been partially frozen by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) in an effort to economize. But a spokesman told newsmen, "the OMB is on the bandwagon on this one."

Nixon's program had these broad goals:

—To facilitate research and development for clean energy by working to have a "fast breeder nuclear reactor" ready for use by 1980, by doubling federal funds for projects to remove sulphur oxide from fuels, by working to convert coal into clean-burning gas, and by supporting other research activities.

(A "fast breeder" reactor is one that creates nuclear fuel as a byproduct of its electric generation. The fuel is purified and changed into a form which can then be used for additional power generation.)

—To push more federal leasing for oil and gas, oil shale and geothermal (underground steam)—sources of energy.

Checks negatives

TECHNICIAN JOEL Huys checks infra-red color aerial negatives today that were made from a light plane flying over area where a mass murder victims have so far been unearthed near Yuba City, Calif. Sheriff Roy Whiteaker hopes highly-sensitive infrared film will be able to detect the slight heat emitted by decomposing bodies, leading to the location of other graves. (UPI)

Orchard yields another body

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—Another body was unearthed Thursday from the crude graveyard in peach orchards along the Feather River, bringing the toll to two dozen in America's worst confirmed mass murder.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said the body—the first dug up in five days—was found about 300 feet from the river in the orchard where most of the hacked and stabbed remains of itinerant farm hands have been uncovered. The site had been covered with irrigation water previously.

The sheriff said he would send a team of deputies back to the orchard to dig at another suspicious earth indentation which has been under water until today.

T.F. given new grant

TWIN FALLS—An additional $342,159 in grants and loan funds have been approved for the Urban Renewal Agency of Twin Falls by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, announced the grant in Washington, D. C. He said this award brings the total amount obligated by HUD to $1,744,834 for this project.

The second district Congressman said the grant and loan will be used to revise the project boundary to include four additional half block areas contiguous to the existing project area and to provide additional funds to complete the project which will revitalize the central business district of Twin Falls.

Evran Robertson, chief of Twin Falls by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, announced the grant in Washington, D. C. He said this award brings the total amount obligated by HUD to $1,744,834 for this project.

The second district Congressman said the grant and loan will be used to revise the project boundary to include four additional half block areas contiguous to the existing project area and to provide additional funds to complete the project which will revitalize the central business district of Twin Falls.

NATO ready for talks

LISBON (UPI)—The United States and its North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) allies today announced their readiness to open talks with the Soviets on east-west troop cuts in Europe "as soon as it appears practicable."

In a communique published at the end of a two-day meeting here, the foreign ministers announced their decision to——Summon a meeting of western allied deputy foreign ministers or senior officials in Brussels in the near future. Its purpose would be to plan allied strategy for future troop cuts talks with the Soviets. The U.S. representative will be Undersecretary of State John Irwin.

—Name one or more special representatives to hold exploratory talks with the Soviets and other Communist bloc governments.

—Agree on a date, place, organization and agenda for an east-west conference on mutual troop cuts.

The communique welcomed the recent Soviet offer to accept the west's proposal, made originally three years ago, to discuss east-west troop reductions.

"They expressed their intention as soon as it appears practicable to proceed to negotiations," the communique said.

The communique made these other main points:

—The ministers voiced satisfaction at efforts by NATO member countries to improve relations with members of the Communist Warsaw pact.

—They expressed hope the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT) would soon reach concrete agreements.

—The full council endorsed efforts by the United States, Britain and France in Big Four talks with the Soviets to improve conditions in isolated West Berlin.

—They expressed concern about developments in the eastern Mediterranean.

The ministers also reiterated the conditions laid down at Rome a year ago on which the West would agree to east-west force reductions.

These were that:

—Mutual force cuts should be compatible with the vital security interests of the alliance.

Raft River ruling due

By JERRY HERRMANN
Times-News Writer

BOISE—The course of action the Idaho Department of Water Administration will take in the case of new land being irrigated in the Raft River area won't be decided until later this month.

Keith Higginson, department director, said Thursday that in his meeting Tuesday night with farmers in the area the present status of the area was discouraged.

This area, Higginson said, was declared a critical water area in 1963. Under this status no new wells can be drilled and no new land except for that held by landowners with valid permits can be brought under irrigation.

However, this spring the department discovered that about 6,000 acres of new land had been brought under irrigation. "These lands have no visible source of water," he said.

Therefore, the department sent out letters asking the 16 landowners involved to explain where they are getting the water for this land. To date only four have replied. The rest have until the middle of this month to reply, he said.

Once all the replies are in they will be studied and then the state will decide what course of action it will take, Higginson said.

At the meeting Tuesday night Higginson told the landowners present that the state can take one of four courses of action.

It can do nothing; issue an administrative order asking why the irrigation of this land shouldn't stop immediately and then hold a hearing on the matter; go directly to court and have it decide the matter; or through petition request authority to go in and establish what the water rights are for each landowner and to regulate how much each landowner can use from then on, he said.

T.F. pair lead Boys' State

BOISE—Twin Falls delegates to Gem Boys' State captured the two top offices during elections Thursday.

Larry Anderson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Anderson Sr., was named governor and John Kinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kinney, was named lieutenant governor.

Others elected were David Lyman, Sugar City, secretary of state; Kevin Foley, Boise, state treasurer; Fred Hul, Mountain Home, state auditor; John Rogers, Boise, attorney general; Lindsey Inouye, Shelley, superintendent of public instruction; and Tom Bach, Boise; Ed Chess, Shoshone; Bill Lister, Boise; Fred Ochi, Idaho Falls, and Mike T. Hunter, Athol, supreme court justices.

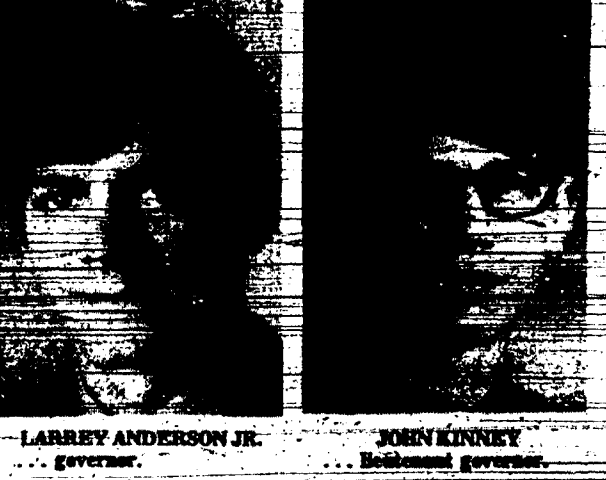

Anderson has held many offices during his school years. He was student body president at Robert Stuart Junior High School and was president of the sophomore class at Twin Falls High School, where he was just elected student body president for the 1971-72 school year.

Anderson also is serving as president of the Idaho Association of Student Councils and in this capacity has traveled to a convention at Newport News, Va., and will be traveling to Vermont in about two weeks for an international student leader meeting.

Kinney and Anderson also have developed governmental leadership training by participating in Youth Legislature. Both are debaters.

Gem Boys Staters will return to their homes Sunday. All the elected officials were serving in legislative sessions today and will continue Saturday.

Thursday, Gov. Cecil Andrus addressed delegates to the 24th annual session. Andrus said youth will have to become involved with the issues facing the country or else accept what the older generation leaves as a legacy. The governor said he would be "legs candid if I did not admit that if it were not for the young men in this room and other rooms like this I would not have been elected."

Water use reflects growth trend

BOISE (UPI) — "National trends toward big government and big business are reflected in the current trends in development and use of water resources," according to Harold E. Thomas, Mehlo Park, Calif.

Thomas, with the water resources division of the U.S. Geological Survey, opened this morning's session of the Snake River Basin Seminar at the Rodeway Inn and said these approaches, whether in comprehensive river basin planning or in the merger of many water diversity districts, can lead to more effective management of the resource.

that management also has to understand the social and legal difficulties, as well as the natural flow system and its responses to man's actions.

He said, in recognizing the rights of individuals to use water for specific purposes, our society has generally not defined the degree of responsibility of the right holder for the effects of use upon the water resources.

unwilling to assume responsibility for his own pollution, it is at least partly because his pollutants move downstream or down gradient, and thus he does not have to live with them.

In earlier addresses Thursday, the 50 delegates from throughout the drainage of the Snake River and its tributaries in Idaho, Oregon and Washington heard Huey D. Johnson, San Francisco, western regional director of the Nature Conservancy, and Phillip Schneider, Portland, Ore., of the National Wildlife Federation.

The speeches were features of the first day of the three-day Snake River Basin Seminar on Land and Water Use, sponsored by the League of Women Voters of the U.S. Education Fund. The group is meeting to seek a comprehensive view of their Snake River Basin's resources, their interrelationship, their present condition, the achievements and failures of the past and proposals for the future.

In his keynote address, Johnson said, "Concern for the land and its complex relationships can best be called a 'land ethic'. In the broadest sense, a land ethic is the same as the country's concern for its future."

He said the concept which is the answer to environmental survival is "social costs", for land use in agriculture, manufacturing or urban areas must include inputs of social costs. He said, for example, if a factory or house uses water from a river it can be returned to the river in clean condition, if clean-up expenditures were made.

Johnson recommended a land study for the Snake River Basin, saying that before any land development is completed, towns must realistically include all costs — real and social cost — those including roads, schools, sewers — as well as home development.

Schneider said Thursday night in his "Future of Two-Thirds of the Basin" address, that the Public Land Law Review Commission report had the basic objectives of dominant use and maximum economic efficiency.

He said the report, the fifth public land study made in the United States, and the base for his speech, was a comprehensive study.

He added that Idaho, with two-thirds of her area falling in public land status, is influenced by the practices employed in managing these lands and by their future destiny as charted in the report, if the recommendations are followed.

Schneider said with regard to mining, the report observes that "Public land mineral policy should encourage exploration, development and production of minerals on the public lands. The industry generally prefers amending rather than replacing the 1872 Mining Law."

With regard to the Forest Service and National Park Service administered lands, an estimated 100 to 200 years would be required to accomplish the watershed conservation measures reported to be needed based upon present efforts in this area.

He said some of the major questions of concern to the conservation community would include:

— The suggestion that a dominant use doctrine replace the multiple use concept.

— That public lands would be sold.

— The emphasis on the principle that public lands would be managed for maximum economic efficiency.

On federal land the federal government would have ultimate authority to manage wildlife.

Swisher traces Gem history, notes change in priorities

BOISE (UPI) — During a dialogue session at the Snake River Basin seminar at the Rodeway Inn Thursday, Perry Swisher, special services for Idaho State University, said the "whole political history of Idaho is an absurdity."

Swisher, a member of the planning committee for the seminar and former state senator, appeared with Edson Fichter, professor of zoology at Idaho State University. Swisher spoke of the human resources of the Snake River Basin, and Fichter covered the natural resources.

In comments on Idaho's political history being an absurdity, Swisher said the Idaho territory was created by President Lincoln in 1863 to provide for voters against the issue of slavery. He added irrigation was brought to the state only because the members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormons) thought the part they were irrigating was part of Utah.

Other absurd statistics he said show Idaho produces more children per family than other states, but many more of those children leave the state when they are grown.

He added Idaho is getting a great influx of population from other states, and "we are on our way toward becoming a suburb of California!"

In a question and answer session, Swisher said in the last year a change in attitude and priorities has appeared in Idaho.

He said, "the person who put environment second lost his power base." He referred to the defeat of former Gov. Don Samuelson, a Republican, and the victory of Gov. Cecil Andrus, a Democrat.

In answer to a question of what positive values can be emphasized about the ecological balance as opposed to negative arguments, he said the prevalent change in attitudes in Idaho in the recent past could be stressed.

For example, he said to look toward the increased role ecology plays in the lives of Idaho citizens.

Balance needed for protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chairman of President Nixon's Advisory Council on the Environment says a balance between predator control and conservation is necessary if such endangered species such as eagles are to be preserved.

Russell E. Train made the comment Thursday in testifying before a Senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo. McGee ordered the hearing to look into the deaths of eagles in his home state.

The bulk of the 48 eagles found dead in Wyoming since May I have died from thallium sulfate poisoning, a white, odorless, heavy substance used to kill coyotes, rodents and other predators.

"A convincing case can be made for prohibiting the use of thallium for predator control purposes," Train said.

But he added that "other poisons are available and some... have been found in eagles which have been poisoned within the past five years."

Train urged stricter federal laws over pesticides and said a proposed bill offered by the Nixon Administration would prevent a reoccurrence of mass deaths of eagles such as occurred in Wyoming. The bill would control and require permits for use of pesticides.

"The old idea that 'the only good varmint is a dead varmint' simply is no longer defensible," Train said.

"However... if the government protects predators while some of our citizens are, in fact, subjected to real loss through the activities of predators, the government has a responsibility to see that they are treated fairly."

McGee said he felt the major problem was in existing laws controlling poisonous materials and said one solution may be stricter laws on predator control poisons.

The Wyoming lawmaker said it was possible that the eagles were not the intentional victims of the poison, although golden eagles are considered predators in his state.

"The difficulty is proving the intent," he said. "That's the blind spot."

Downtown traffic studied in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — Traffic and accident counts are being watched closely at the intersection of Main Avenue and Shoshone Street to determine if traffic control measures are required there, City Manager Jean Millar said today.

Several merchants in the vicinity of the intersection have requested the city submit a request to the Idaho Department of Highways for a traffic control light at the intersection.

Millar said state figures indicate such a light is not required under standards of the department of highways. He said only one accident, aside from two involving drunk drivers, has occurred at the intersection in the past six months period. This compares with as many as five to seven accidents at nearby intersections.

Millar said he and department of highways engineers will continue to watch traffic and accident statistics before making a final decision as to a traffic light. Because State Highway 74 is part of the intersection it would be the responsibility of the department of highways to install a light.

Millar said he feels the state would want convincing evidence a light is needed before authorizing the expenditure.

Through traffic, he said, is using the one-way streets rather than Main Avenue and most traffic on Main Avenue is of a meandering nature. He said in recent checks at peak traffic hours the longest a city car has required to cover the distance from the fountain near the Rogerson Hotel to the school administration office, has been 4.5 minutes.

Millar said he believes the traffic pattern at the intersection has stabilized and there will be no major increase or decrease in months to come. A slight increase may result from downtown improvement work this summer which will close alleys during construction. This will be a temporary increase, he said.

Jobless hit 9-year high

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment edged upward to 6.2 per cent in May to equal a nine-year high, the government said today.

The rise of 0.1 per cent from April's 6.1 per cent of the nation's labor force left the jobless rate at the same 6.2 level as last December.

Although the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) termed unemployment "essentially unchanged" last month, the report was bad news for the Nixon administration. It had set a target of reducing unemployment to 4.5 per cent by mid-1972 — presidential election year.

Unemployment was only 3.3 per cent when President Nixon took office in January, 1969, but rose steadily to the 6.2 per cent level by the end of 1970.

The BLS pointed out that the rate has held relatively level for five months.

Officials said the actual number of unemployed Americans declined 300,000 in May to 4.4 million. But this was less than the normal decline for May. Therefore after seasonal adjustment, the statistics showed joblessness rose by 130,000 to 5.2 million.

The number of employed persons also went up, by 265,000 to a total just under 78 million to equal an all-time high in March of last year.

The average duration of unemployment increased from 10.9 weeks in April to 11.5 weeks in May. The number of persons without jobs for 27 weeks or more, rose by 150,000 to a total of 580,000 — highest in eight years.

Jobless rates for black and white workers remained unchanged, with the 10.5 per cent for blacks still at its highest point since November, 1963. The rate for whites was 5.7 per cent, highest since September, 1961.

The BLS said joblessness among construction workers, following a decline in April to 9.6 per cent, jumped in May to 11.2 per cent.

Unemployment among teenagers remained unchanged in May at 17.3 per cent.

Chef going ahead on wedding cake

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House master chef, after surreptitiously retesting the recipe that cooks over the country doubted would work, decided Thursday to go ahead with plans to start baking a 6-foot cake for Tricia Nixon's wedding.

The White House said it did not learn until late Thursday that Henry Haller had gone home after working late at the executive mansion Wednesday night and baked a sample cake in his own oven.

"It was delicious," a spokesman quoted him as saying.

The White House said earlier Thursday that Haller did not have time to retest his recipe in the White House kitchens because he was too busy.

Haller and pastry chef Heinz Bender had said Wednesday that they would double check the recipe, although they stood firmly behind it in the face of criticism from cooks and food editors around the country that it would never work.

But then before Haller's test became known, the Washington Post's Mary Lasker reported in Thursday morning's paper that she had tested it at home and made a delicious, light cake.

That's when the White House said Haller would start baking Saturday on the many layers necessary to create a 50-pound cake for Tricia's wedding.

Court refuses plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Thursday exempted a court created plan for reapportionment of the Mississippi state legislature from a provision of the 1965 Voting Rights Act requiring prior clearance by the U.S. attorney general or a federal district court in Washington.

The court refused to block a new reapportionment plan for Mississippi, except for Hinds County, in a five-page, unsigned opinion in which Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan dissented.

The plan was announced May 18 by a three-judge federal panel in Jackson, Miss., which previously had rejected a formula enacted by the state legislature as unconstitutional.

The Justice Department had supported the appeal of a group of civil rights lawyers, representing eight individuals and the Mississippi Democratic Party, for a stay of the federal panel's plan until it could be submitted to Attorney General John N. Mitchell or a U.S. District Court panel here.

The 1965 Voting Rights Act, since extended to 1975, required such prior approval for attempted changes in voting laws in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina, Virginia, 39 counties in North Carolina and one county each in Arizona and Hawaii.

The Supreme Court, however, declared Thursday that "a decree of the United States District Court is not within reach of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act." The prior approval section was included by Congress as a safeguard against possible racial discrimination in voting laws primarily in the Deep South.

NO INJURIES OCCURRED Thursday when this truck, driven by Bobby C. Johnson, 42, Cartersville, Ga., collided with the car at right. Driver of the car was Cecelia Steffens, 52, Buhl. Her passenger was Matilda Leahy, 82, Buhl. The truck was attempting to turn onto Second Street West from the center lane of Second Avenue west, Twin Falls, and the Steffens vehicle was too close to allow the turn, police said. Damage to the car was minor and there was none to the truck.

Mental health service fills need, aide says

TWIN FALLS — Mental health services at the local level in major Idaho communities would fill an important need and would also result in increased work load at the Children's Home Society, Boise, and State Hospital, Nampa, George Moussetis said Thursday.

Director of the Children's Home Society of Idaho the past 14 years, Moussetis was in Twin Falls to address the Kiwanis Club. He said following the luncheon meeting the home operates at a capacity load of 40 children from pre-school age to teen-agers. Most of the children brought to the home are teen-agers because emotional problems usually do not become critical until that time.

Moussetis said the home works with mentally disturbed children as opposed to the retarded or mentally impaired youngsters treated at the State Hospital, Nampa. He said rehabilitation would be much easier if the youngsters could be treated earlier.

The stigma of mental illness, he said, is beginning to disappear and parents are now more willing to accept the fact their child needs help and to come forth seeking expert assistance. This is the only way in which correction can be assured, he said.

Moussetis said most of the teen-agers treated at the home have had at least some drug experience, but he added drug use is not necessarily the result of their mental problems and the mental problems not necessarily the result of the drug use. He predicted drug use by young people in Idaho will soon reach a peak and begin to decline as it loses fascination.

Most youngsters who begin using drugs, do so, he said, in order to be "in" with their peers.

The Children's Home Society, supported partly by state funds but largely through volunteer donations, is governed by a volunteer board. Mrs. Robert Gos, Twin Falls, is a member of the board. Former members in this area include Mrs. Roy Shaub and John Breckeuridge.

Moussetis also addressed the Twin Falls Rotary Club Wednesday.

Summer Perils

Perils of summertime living are such that the average citizen has to be more on his toes than usual. A quick glance at weekend events proves this.

First, the accidents. There are more than usual. There are drownings and heart attacks as well as bumps and bruises from too vigorous participation in summer sports.

It bears repeating that the use of ordinary common sense can prevent most accidents.

Non-swimmers should never forget that they will drown if they venture into water beyond their depth, particularly if they are alone or with other non-swimmers. But still there are otherwise sensible people who risk their lives to keep cool.

Also worth noting are power lawn mowers. They should be avoided by those who do not know how to operate them. Children should be especially wary of them, but they will not be unless an adult is present to remind them.

And there are the avoidable disasters that come to people of all ages who suddenly become very energetic when warm weather arrives. It's wonderful to play golf, unless you have a bad heart that cannot stand the gaff or a long hill or a sudden temper tantrum after a missed two-foot putt.

Yes, summer can be wonderful, for those who know how to handle it.

Looking Good

Some economists are tentatively revising predictions of what's ahead on their front. They have been loath to make more than extremely guarded comment on the prospects for next year — for one reason, because it will be a "presidential election" year.

But they are now beginning to predict that next year's business volume — which means employment and prosperity generally — will eclipse that of this year, and some of the more bold say the increase will be substantial. They regard the current base so well anchored that political vicissitudes cannot affect it.

There are news items to buttress their position. Automobile sales are holding up well. Steel mills are operating at near capacity.

There is nothing on the horizon to indicate anything but upturn in business, and many indications of prosperity in the offing.

UNDERTAKING ESTABLISHMENT IN CONNECTION O. J. BRENNAN, Shoshone, Idaho

There's something about browsing through old issues of newspapers that is stimulating. It is sort of a deal that if you lived when the newspaper was published then there was nothing to it — but if you live now and the newspaper in question is an old one, that can sometimes shake you up.

Take one of the 1904 issues of the Twin Falls News. That's the first year for the town of Twin Falls. But today we've reproduced three advertisements from this old issue, thinking you might be interested.

For instance, in the Eureka Hotel advertisement. Who ever heard of a two-bit bed or a $4 meal ticket good for 21 meals or hot cakes and coffee for 10 cents? After reading the "ad" we rushed downtown to find the place — but it's all gone!

And the Palace Saloon is gone too — probably because, as the advertisement relates, they solicited family trade. Then the O. J. Brennan place in Shoshone, which was open for business, carried a full line of household furnishings and, we assume, if the low price shocked you then you just might need their other service — that undertaking establishment in connection.

So that's the way it was back in 1904. But, as we said, don't try to avail yourself of any of these offerings because the establishments are long gone.

WASHINGTON The kid's name eludes me, which should be excusable because fortunately it is not a household word. A college sophomore, he was on one of those interminable TV panel shows that feature mostly half-cooked goulash about The Meaning of Life, and he was shilling for a Great Idea.

Bolled down from the usual pot of yknows and I means, his proposal was that the government subsidize trips abroad by students so they could spread the gospel of peace and become soul brothers with the French, the Armenians and the Bulgars. Only by such ventures, he argued, could the United States convince the people of the world that all we wanted was to live in brotherly love with everybody. Perhaps accurately, he claimed that the cost of this project would be billions of dollars less than fighting a war in Vietnam. I do not necessarily knock the kid's idea — I merely wonder at it. To me it seems preposterous that even the sleazier campus freaks would be willing to sacrifice their ideological independence by taking President Nixon's shilling. Accepting a subsidy — from bad old Washington would be a rejection of everything the student protesters stand for, including the demand that all politicians be trundled off to the guillotine.

Some of these young people undoubtedly are brighter than those of my day. If a trifle gamey around the scruff, but their weakness is in their willingness to accept something for nothing from anyone with the wherewithal. It is hard to regard seriously a bunch that insists the community take care of them — that it owes them not only an education and a living but a month in Paris.

Adults are always insisting there is nothing new in today's student protests, but number me among the boys from Missouri. In my day, the adolescent protester wouldn't have been caught dead accepting help from a reactionary parent, let alone an imperialistic public treasury.

His goal was absolute divorce from such associations so he could be free to remake the world in the image of Marx or Bertrand Russell. You took a job at a gas station or in a journalistic sweat shop to earn the money to buy inflammatory books and tracts not obtainable at the local library. Pa was all right, but he actually believed Franklin Roosevelt was a liberal. Even if he'd been rich, no right-thinking boy would have relieved him of such tainted money.

When you dropped out of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, which was going to free Spain from the fascists, it was not because respectable folk had denounced it as radical but because there was a touch of jiggery-pokery about the demand that you deliver up your America passport upon reaching Madrid in exchange for a kind of international LAISSEZ-ALLER. This seemed a violation of your rights, or at least a touch furtive.

There was another difference in those bad old days. No one seemed interested in listening to your brilliant ideas, save an occasional teacher or unfrocked newspaperman. Today, the TV cameras are broken out every time a kid desires to deliver himself of an opinion on Vietnam, free love or the mental therapy inherent in LSD. Naturally, the moppets think they're important; had they received such attention in the old days they'd have worried about the soundness of their protests.

The adult world of that era, of course, was composed of individuals. They lived their own lives and cast their ballots for the candidates of their choice without waiting for the Word from Junior at Yale. If Susie posed in the nude for the college magazine, she was yanked out of school and put to work. If Junior wanted to smoke marijuana and move into a coed commune, he was free to do so on his own money.

That may not have been a better world, but I suspect the grownups were a lot smarter. At least they made a pass at running the show, and they would have found uproariously funny a proposal that they raise taxes so their offspring could sample the broken-English fleshpots of Rome or Bangkok.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Nature Trick

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The second and third toes on both feet are connected all the way to the top. My friends say I have webbed feet. They never give me any trouble, but I would like to know if this is abnormal. I have only seen one other person with this — D.G.

Nature plays odd tricks at times, and this is one that doctors see from time to time even if you haven't seen many cases.

This "webbing" is called syndactylism — learn to pronounce it so you can tell your friends: sin-DACK-till-ism.

Your feet are functional — they work all right. Therefore nothing needs to be done about the situation.

The same sort of "webbing" can occur with the fingers, and that's a different matter because you need individual movement with the fingers. In such cases the webbing may have to be cut, but not until X rays have determined the proper alignment of the bones in the fingers. This is to insure proper movement and also best appearance.

To get back to your feet, forget about it. You don't need anything done.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 18 and grit my teeth something fierce at night. My mother says she can even hear it at the other end of the house when I really get started.

I've had this habit as long as I can remember, but I don't know how to stop doing it because I'm asleep and don't even know it. I don't do it every night. K.A.

This is called bruxism, a matter of tension. On the nights you don't grit your teeth, you probably are more relaxed or in a deeper sleep. It isn't physically harmful, but it does seem like a waste of energy, doesn't it?

One possibility is that you may have a faulty dental "bite." That is, your teeth don't meet exactly the way they should. You might have the dentist check this at your next visit.

Unfortunately, I don't know what else you can do to break the habit, but it may subside as you grow older, or you may learn to be more relaxed about life in general.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a cure for dandruff? I have had it five years and used all of the medicated shampoos on the market. All they do is relieve the itching for a while. — Mrs. D.M.

Such shampoos are adequate for most dandruff, when they aren't the sooner you admit that you have a scalp condition and go to a dermatologist (skin specialist) the better.

Although cholesterol has been implicated in heart attacks and other circulatory troubles, it is also vital to human life. For this reason, Dr. Thosteson has entitled his booklet, "Control Your Cholesterol Sensibly." For a copy write to him in care of this newspaper enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Jackson TIMES-NEWS

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

On Wallace Land

MONTGOMERY, Ala — Although money in the tens of thousands is pouring into an unmarked office here to lubricate the political future of Gov. George Wallace, the prospect of another Wallace run for the Presidency next year is hedged with dangers for him. Wallace himself chooses to ignore these dangers, but some of his closest political aides do not. For example, they disagree over how grave will be his problem of getting on the Alabama ballot as the Presidential nominee of the Democratic party, running under the traditional party symbol of the rooster.

The Democratic party's new executive committee, headed by loyalist national Democrat Robert Vance, voted overwhelmingly last year to end the traditional election of Democratic Presidential electors in the spring primary. Instead, the executive committee will appoint the Democratic electors, who will then be placed on the Presidential ballot under the rooster, denying Wallace the advantage of being the nominee of the Alabama Democratic party as he was in 1968.

Wallace will push for a new law forcing a return to the old system of choosing Democratic electors in a primary election — an election he undoubtedly would win. But the new legislature elected with Wallace last November is overwhelmingly anti-Wallace and might reject Wallace's proposal.

Wallace has an answer for that, too. He would run as Presidential nominee of the American Independent Party (as he did in every state except Alabama in 1968) and give the entire slate of Congressional Democratic candidates a place on the ballot under his own party as well as the Democratic party. Voters could vote both for the Wallace electors and the regular Democratic Congressional nominees, headed by the veteran Sen. John Sparkman, in one column.

Wallace operatives here are skeptical of this, partly because this courthouse politicians might rebel against it, partly because the national Democratic party his domestic problems in might threaten the Alabama. Those domestic problems, quite apart from his ballot predicament, were evident the moment the legislature met this year. Wallace tossed it an impressive stew of populist legislation, higher taxes on trucks, new rate controls on the utilities, a manufacturers' franchise tax. The legislature rebelled, swallowing only a spoonful. Having barely eked out a victory in the primary election for governor last spring, Wallace has at least temporarily lost political omnipotence in his own state.

Even so, only a fool would write off the segregationist founder of the American Independent Party. The money is rolling in, helped along by out-of-state fund-raisers — one in Dallas, two others scheduled in Nashville and Toledo.

At heart, Wallace is the perpetual stump campaigner for whom the cries of the crowd are narcotic. He will count the money pouring in, bide his time and calculate the odds. In the words of one long-time aide, Wallace is a politician "who is not averse to rolling the dice no matter what the odds." But, warily eyeing the nagging difficulties in his Deep South homeland, Wallace's advisers hope he will not cast the dice this time.

U.S. clergymen discouraged

By LOUIS CASSELS, UPI Senior Editor

With some notable exceptions, America's clergymen are pretty discouraged. They haven't lost faith in God. And they remain convinced that Americans desperately need the spiritual values and the perspective on life that can be gained from true religion.

But a great many of them are frustrated because they feel unable to communicate their faith and concern to the laymen who make up their congregations.

A surprisingly large number—43 per cent of the Jewish rabbis, 32 per cent of the Protestant ministers, and 23 per cent of the Catholic priests—are so disheartened about their work they have seriously considered leaving religious life.

These insights into the attitudes and feelings of today's clergy come from a recent nationwide survey by the Gallup organization. The findings have been made available to religious leaders and commentators in a report entitled "Religion in America, 1971."

The demoralization of the clergy is reflected not only in the high percentages who have considered giving up the ministry, but also in their responses to a question about whether religion is an increasing or decreasing influence in American life.

Six out of 10 expressed the view that religion is a waning influence on human conduct.

When asked to give reasons for their discouragement, they cited declining church attendance; widespread evidence of public indifference to moral and spiritual values; growing materialism; and lack of public concern about righting the wrongs of contemporary society.

More than a third of the Protestants and Catholics and more than half the Jews who have seriously considered quitting their careers said they feel frustrated by their apparent inability to communicate with their people, or by a lack of interest and devotion among members of their congregations.

The crisis in clergy morale clearly does not stem from a collapse of personal faith. Belief in God was confidently affirmed by nearly 100 per cent of the priests, 99 per cent of the ministers and 98 per cent of the rabbis.

Putting it all together, it would appear that laymen who ask what's driving so many clergymen to despair can be given a brief and categorical answer: You are.

'Gang preacher' talks here June 17

TWIN FALLS — Dave Wilkerson, the famed author of "The Cross and the Switchblade," and known around the world as the "Gang Preacher," will be speaking in Twin Falls at the C.S.I. gymnasium at 8 p.m. June 17. The public is invited.

DAVE WILKERSON

Wilkerson is widely known for his successful work among drug addicts and gang members in New York ghettos. His book, "The Cross and the Switchblade," written about his work, has sold over five million copies.

In 1958 Wilkerson became famous in the New York area for interrupting the Michael Farmer murder trial. Seven young gang members were on trial for the brutal murder of polio victim, Michael Farmer. In an attempt to help the young gang members, Wilkerson interrupted the court session and was promptly dragged from the courtroom.

The ensuing publicity made the young minister from Pennsylvania a hero among New York's 350 teen-age gangs.

The gangs were soon allowing him to visit and speak in their hideouts, from which came the nickname, "The Gang Preacher."

Wilkerson is the founder of New York Teen Challenge, one of America's most successful drug addiction rehabilitation programs. Teen Challenge claims an amazing 74 per cent cure rate among heroin users who have completed its program.

In addition to his duties in New York, Wilkerson now travels around the world to carry his message to young people. He speaks on an average to 3,000 to 10,000 teenagers each week. His message is simple and relevant. His topics include drugs, sex, rebellion, loneliness and fear.

Rev. Wilkerson's visit to the Magic Valley is sponsored by the Assemblies of God churches of the area. Admission is free.

Drive-in church rites start Sunday in T.F.

TWIN FALLS — Drive-in church services begin Sunday at the Motor-Vu drive-in in Twin Falls, with Rev. Ray Jones of the First Christian Church speaking on "God is Real."

Rev. Jones said members of Boy Scout Troop 65, sponsored by the First Christian Church, are distributing posters to motels and other public places in Twin Falls inviting tourists and others to attend the "come as you are" services.

Members of the congregation remain in their cars throughout the services, and weather permitting, Rev. Jones and other guest ministers from the Twin Falls Ministerial Association preach from atop the refreshment stand at the theater.

Rev. Jones said services are from 8 to 8:45 a.m. each Sunday through the summer. A refreshment hour is held following the drive-in services, Rev. Jones said. He said the services have proved to be popular with tourists and residents of the city.

Special music this Sunday will be provided by Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Sweet, singing "In Times Like These." Their daughter, Mitzi Sweet, will accompany them.

Members of the Boy Scout Troop expect to be done distributing the 200 posters by this weekend. It is a project toward earning their God and Country badges.

Ray Roper of the Motor-Vu provides the facilities there at no cost to the ministerial association and also provides a sound technician, Rev. Jones said.

Southern Baptists approve abortion

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—The Southern Baptist Convention, despite predictions of a quiet meeting, Wednesday passed a resolution urging legalization of abortion and became embroiled in a controversy over the "Broadman Bible."

The abortion resolution, the first stand the convention has taken on the issue, urges the denomination's 11.6 million members to work for new legislation.

It specifically urges legalization of abortion in cases of rape, incest, clear evidence of fetal deformity and carefully ascertained evidence of the likelihood of damage to the emotional, mental and physical health of the mother.

The Rev. Kenneth Barnett, an Oklahoma pastor, unearthed the flurry over the Broadman Bible when he told the more than 13,000 registered delegates, "There are rumors floating around that we're going to be kept from saying anything about the Sunday school board."

Last June, in Denver, the convention voted to ask their publishing house, the Sunday School Board, to withdraw the commentary's first volume. The commentary on the Book of Genesis was written by G. Henton Davies, principal of Regent's Park College, Oxford, England.

Vacation school starting

TWIN FALLS — Vacation Bible School at the First Christian Church begins Monday and will continue through June 11, according to Rev. Ray Jones, pastor of the church.

Classes will be from 9 to 11:30 a.m. daily for children 4 years of age through the 6th grade. Nursery for younger children of teachers and visiting mothers will be provided, Rev. Jones said.

Theme of Bible School will be "Jesus Speaks to Our World." The school is open to all children regardless of religious affiliation, Rev. Jones said.

Children need not pre-register, but may do so this Sunday if they wish.

A closing program will be at 7:30 p.m. June 11 at the church sanctuary.

Russell pleases Magic Valley show goers

By NORMA HERZINGER
Times-News Women's Editor
TWIN FALLS — Andy Russell, currently appearing at Cactus Pete's in Jackpot, certainly has found the fountain of youth.

He's as good looking now as he was in the 1950's when we used to drool over him as he sang the current hits on Lucky Strike's "Your Hit Parade." Backed by a trio, The New Life featuring Hoyt Davis, bass; Timmy Hummcutt, drummer, and Jimmy Griffin, piano, Russell has greatly pleased Magic Valley showgoers this past seven days and will conclude his performances Sunday night.

A relative newcomer to the entertainment field, Carol Kai, not only pretty but talented, is Russell's relief singer. Carol adds her own special variety to the show and many have said it's her naturalness and simplicity that make her communicate so well with the audience.

Singing his latest recordings, "It's Such a Pretty World

Today" and "Bring Me Sunshine," Russell has a marvelous knack of highlighting the shows with his imitations of Clark Gable, Jimmy Stewart, Peter Lorre and Gary Cooper.

Not only is Russell an outstanding performer — he's a "health nut." Perhaps this is his "fountain of youth." Nevertheless, he doesn't drink or smoke and he watches his diet — with the help of his congenial and pretty wife, Ginny.

According to Ginny, she had a great talk about health foods with Mrs. Ted Smith while having lunch in Twin Falls recently.

Ginny travels with her husband most of the time and they plan to go to Buenos Aires for three months as soon as their engagement in Nevada is completed. Russell will be doing his own weekly 90 minute special, scheduled for three months, except for a one week engagement in Las Vegas. This is interesting, as he will be working with all local entertainers (rather than his own group) and all the dialogue will be in Spanish.

Carol Kai and the New Life Trio will go immediately to Honolulu, Hawaii, to Don Ho's territory.

Russell, born in Los Angeles, Calif., of Mexican descent, began his career as a drummer and singer. One of his first records for Capitol was "Besame Mucho," followed by "Whispering" and "A Day Made," "Amor," "Magic Is the Moonlight," "Without You," "Laughing on the Outside, Crying on the Inside," and many others.

Planning to extend his career into other countries of the world, he moved to Mexico and became an instant success throughout all Latin America, and is currently well-known on three continents.

Magic Valley residents have viewed him many times on the Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show and on the "Today" show, hosted by Merv Griffin, Steve Allen and Della Reese. His latest recording, "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," will be released soon.

Song star appears

Top stars book TV appearances

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:

The Headliners: Movie star Kirk Douglas will be the sole guest on Dick Cavett's late-night ABC-TV series June 29 ... Helen Hayes, who costarred with Jimmy Stewart last year in a New York stage revival of "Harvey," teams up with the actor again next season in an NBC-TV adaptation of the same play on the "Hallmark Hall of Fame."

The first of four motion pictures to be presented by ABC-TV as a series called "The Movie Classics of David O. Selznick" will be "Intermezzo," airing June 22, and starring Ingrid Bergman in her 1939 American film debut.

Mayors of six American cities — Philadelphia, New Orleans, Seattle, Indianapolis, Newark and Houston — will be the guests on a special one-hour edition of NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" June 13 ... Ex-heavyweight champ Muhammad Ali is planning to syndicate his own half-hour discussion series in which he talks with leaders in many fields in "an exchange of ideas on how to function under pressure and how to live with success and failure."

Pearl Bailey, whose variety series was canceled by ABC-TV is an example of gross misjudgment, has an excellent new album of ballads out on the RCA label, and listeners will recognize numbers that were memorable on her television show title of the album: "Pearl's Pearls."

The Programs: A widely-praised two-part, two-hour drama based on the Kent State Tragedy, presented on "The Senator" segments of NBC-TV's weekly series "The Bold Ones," will be rerun by the network on Independence Day, July 4, and July 11 ... title of the two-part, written by David Rintels: "A Continual Roar of Musketry."

Television coverage of the 12-day Apollo 15 lunar mission is expected to include the first live-color-video pictures from the lift-off of a spaceship from the moon's surface ... other expected video highlights: three moon excursions with the astronauts driving a tv-equipped lunar rover, an electric car in which they will cover about 25 miles of landscape.

Bullet dies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bullet, II, a German shepherd whose 11 years service made him the senior member of the police department canine corps, was buried Wednesday in a special police department plot at Aspen Hill pet cemetery.

Bullet, who joined the force when he was just 12 weeks old, died Monday in his sleep. He was 11 years old, the equivalent of 77 human years.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 17 years. We have a lovely family, but if you use my letter in your column, please do not mention their ages or what sex our children are.

I love my husband with all my heart and the thought of infidelity has never crossed my mind. Three months ago, I accidentally found out that my husband was having an affair with a young woman in her mid-30s. He is 48. I caught him flat-footed, so there was no denying it. He was terribly upset at having been caught, claimed he loves me, and it will never happen again. I am so broken up over this, I cannot tell you the agony I have suffered.

I am considered a very good-looking woman and would have no trouble at all doing to him what he did to me. This is the only way I know of hurting him like he has hurt me, so he will know what I have gone thru. I know two wrongs don't make a right, but at least we will be even.

Is there a better solution? LOVED AND LOST

DEAR LOVED: There must be, because there couldn't be a worse one! Don't kid yourself. Should you have a fling and announce it to your husband, he wouldn't suffer as you did. Men tend to view such things with far less emotion than women. (My mail shows 50 women to one man agonizing over an unfaithful mate.) If you love him, forgive him. And if you really want to hurt him, love him to death. He'll feel like the world's biggest fool.

DEAR ABBY: We have a son and a daughter whom we try to treat equally in all things.

Our daughter, who is a few years older, did not want to go to college. After graduating from high school she worked for a year and then got married.

Our son chose to go to college, and we are paying for his college education. If our daughter legally or morally entitled to the money we saved on her college education because she didn't go? She thinks she is entitled to cash in the same amount of money we are spending on her brother's education. JUST CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: If you had offered your daughter either the cash or a college education, and she chose the cash, she would be entitled to the cash. Since you offered her only a college education and she turned it down, she is entitled to nothing.

DEAR ABBY: I am not saying this to brag, but I am the favorite relative in a family where there is a lot of backbiting and petty fighting going on. A niece of mine invited me to attend the christening of her baby. She told me that I am the only aunt she is inviting, so if anybody in the family asks how come I went to the christening, I should say that I just happened to drop in at my niece's house unexpectedly that morning and she invited me to the christening on the spur of the moment.

I don't like lying, Abby, but I don't want to hurt my niece's feelings. All she thinks it's an honor for me to be the only aunt at her baby's christening. What would you do? FAVORITE AUNT

DEAR AUNT: Ed tell her that I appreciate the honor, but if I had to be in order to accept it, I would have to decline.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you got it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90066. For a personal reply, enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—The indicators were mixed as trading on the New York Stock Exchange moved past the halfway mark Friday. Turnover was active.

Declines held a 603,508 load over advances among the 1,556 issues on the tape. The Dow 311 industrial average of 80 selected blue chips edged 0.07 lower to 921.23 and the Standard & Poor's 500 stock index gained 0.16 to 101.17.

The three hour volume of 9,100,000 shares compared with the 12,160,000 shares traded in a comparable period Thursday.

Analysts generally felt the market's action was mostly a technical adjustment combined with profit taking. One analyst suggested the "validity" of the current trading range as a base was being tested.

Teamsters' post given to stand-in WASHINGTON (UPI) — After four years in prison, James R. Hoffa has stepped out of his job as president of the powerful Teamsters Union.

FRANK FITZSIMMONS

But he still leads two other labor organizations—and these positions—might hamper his chances for parole from the last eight years of his federal prison term.

Hoffa, 58, disclosed his decision to resign in a letter to the Teamsters' executive board. The board revealed the letter Thursday and endorsed Frank E. Fitzsimmons, Hoffa's hand-picked stand-in, to become new leader of the 2 million-member union.

Despite relinquishing the top post, Hoffa still retains the presidency of the 60,000-member Michigan Conference of Teamsters and Local 299, which he founded in 1933.

The imprisoned labor leader, who is serving the fifth year of a 13-year sentence for jury tampering and mail fraud, also retains the support of most union members.

Hoffa apparently resigned to improve his chances for parole. He was turned down twice, according to sources, because he has not relinquished control of the union that has the power to seriously affect the national economy.

But government officials reportedly are saying Hoffa did not enhance his likelihood of parole because he still heads the Michigan Conference, perhaps the most influential in the union.

Hoffa must appeal by June 30 for reconsideration of the parole request denied March 31.

Fitzsimmons, a long-time friend of Hoffa's who has been running the union as general vice president, announced Hoffa's decision to reporters after an exclusive board meeting here.

San Diego Nixon pick

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon discussed assaults on policemen with law enforcement officials Thursday, but two men not invited to the White House claimed the meeting had political overtones.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell told newsmen after the two-hour meeting that Nixon announced he would ask Congress to authorize payment of $50,000 to the family of every policeman slain in the line of duty.

Those not invited to the meeting by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover included Quinn Tamm, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) and Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy of New York City.

Tamm claimed Hoover was "playing politics with policemen's lives."

"It was with disappointment and dismay that I learned that the appearance of police of the greatest city in the world—contrasted by a major problem of violence by guns—was not wanted at the Washington conference," said Murphy, who once headed the capital's police force.

San Diego, which once withdrew its bid for the Republican National Convention in 1972, now appears to be President Nixon's choice for the convention site, according to GOP sources.

The sources said Thursday that San Diego "seems where it's going to be."

Nixon's seaside villa at San Clemente is just a short helicopter ride up the Pacific Coast from San Diego.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said that two White House aides, Robert Finch and William Timmons, had contacted San Diego officials and encouraged them to bid for the convention. But he said that the President had expressed no preference on a site.

School wins nod

BOISE (UPI) — The president of the University of Idaho reported the school of architecture has been recommended for accreditation by an out-of-state investigating committee.

Dr. Ernest Hartung, U of I president, told the state board of education that he expects the official announcement to be made soon.

Hartung also told the board that the school's Department of Communication has been divided into the Department of Journalism and the Department of Radio-Television, but with no change in personnel or salaries affected. Bert Cross will head the journalism Department and Gordon Law will be chairman of the radio-TV program.

In other action, the board approved the appointment of John H. Ehrenreich as dean of the University of Idaho's Forestry School at an annual salary of $25,000. Ehrenreich, head of the Department of Watershed Management at the University of Arizona, Tucson, will replace Ernest Wahletz, who will return to his position as professor in the Forestry School.

The board turned down a purchase request by the university for the Tamarack ski facilities in the nearby town of Troy.

Dr. John W. Swartley, Boise, chairman of the board's Medical Education Advisory Committee, reported to the board that the initial response from Idaho businessmen has been very good in financial support of a proposed student medical training program. Swartley said the study was still in the preliminary stages, though, and too early to ask the state legislature for funding of two clinical units.

The program, called WAMI

after the Washington, Arizona, Montana and Idaho areas, would provide additional clinical training for medical students at hospitals.

McCloskey tests antiwar feeling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Paul N. McCloskey will test antiwar sentiment this weekend in New Hampshire, a traditional stronghold for President Nixon which will host the first presidential primary in 1972.

McCloskey, who has said he will run against Nixon next year unless there is a change of policy in Vietnam, will make his first visit to what Rep. Louis C. Wyman, R-N.H., calls "Nixon Country" since he hitchhiked through the state 20 years ago while in the Navy.

The California Republican is to attend a reception Sunday hosted by attorney Robert Reno of Concord and speak to the Jefferson Club. Tonight he is scheduled to address the Lawyers Committee Against the War in Providence, R.I., and will spend Saturday meeting with friends in Rhode Island.

It was in New Hampshire in 1968 that former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., stunned supporters of President Johnson with an almost victory in the primary over the incumbent President, but Wyman doesn't believe McCloskey "has much of a chance."

"I can't conceive of it. I think New Hampshire is Nixon country," said Wyman, a personal friend and longtime supporter of Nixon whose popularity in 1968 forced then-Gov. George Romney to withdraw from the primary.

There has been speculation that Nixon might ask 71-year-old Sen. Norris Cotton to run as a favorite son candidate in his behalf. Wyman and other state Republicans believe Nixon is so strong he doesn't need favorite son help.

"I wouldn't think the Republican Party has to pay any attention to Mr. McCloskey and his group but it's still a free country," said Wyman. "If 100,000 (Republicans) voted I don't think he (McCloskey) would get 5,000 votes, but a lot depends on Vietnam in March of 1972 and the prisoner issue." McCloskey already has charged the administration with threatening an embargo on future GOP jobs for several young men who volunteered to investigate the political climate in New Hampshire for McCloskey.

Meanwhile, he has opened a Volunteers For McCloskey campaign headquarters in Washington and he says he is looking for a Republican "abler than I am" to challenge Nixon.

Treasury says tax loopholes costly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tax law provisions which give preferential treatment to certain forms of income—such as oil royalties—or to certain groups of people—such as homeowners—cost the government nearly $44 billion in revenue last year, the Treasury said today.

That sum compares with the $89 billion or so the government collects in income taxes from individuals. It is equal to about 20 per cent of all the government spends each year.

The summary was prepared by the Treasury and made public by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee.

Proxmire called on Congress to take a closer look at the tax provisions which grant preferential treatment. He called them "tax expenditures."

He said Congress should examine them "just as we do direct expenditures to determine whether their objectives are in the broad public interest and of a high priority."

"I am not presuming now to prejudge all of these special tax provisions," he said. "Some are highly questionable, in my opinion, while others may be desirable."

The Treasury report showed that the $3.35 billion loss to the government arising from the special tax provisions in fiscal 1971 was smaller than the $4.8 billion loss the previous year. The decrease results from enactment of the 1969 tax reform act, which tightened up on many tax preferences in the tax code.

came from the income tax provision permitting taxpayers to deduct from their taxable income the state and local taxes they pay. It accounted for a $5.6 billion tax loss last year, up $500 million from a year earlier.

The deductibility of interest on home mortgages accounted for $2.8 billion in savings to taxpayers. The deductibility of property taxes on homes saved them another $2.9 billion.

Investors in the oil industry saved $980 million in taxes last year due to the oil depletion allowance, which taxes income from oil at substantially lower rates than other forms of income.

The tax provision allowing taxpayers to deduct charitable contributions from taxable income accounted for a $3.55 billion tax saving.

State employees urged to be politically active

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — State employees were urged to become active in political affairs that govern their state.

Council at the noon luncheon meeting of its state meeting at the Holiday Inn that they have been inactive in this field too long.

He urged them to educate their members on political affairs. Jones noted that this subject is something that most state employees associations, mostly for historical reasons, have approached with apprehension because through the years state employees did not get involved in political affairs of any kind. He also said he personally believes that it is something that will affect all state employees and employee associations throughout the country.

"Even in more prosperous times when a rising economy is producing increased tax dollars the people who serve the people (referring to state employees) have ranked lowest on the priority list of many state legislators."

The grand council committees met and introduction of late resolutions were introduced after the deadline. Agreed to work on income tax elimination for all retirement pensions.

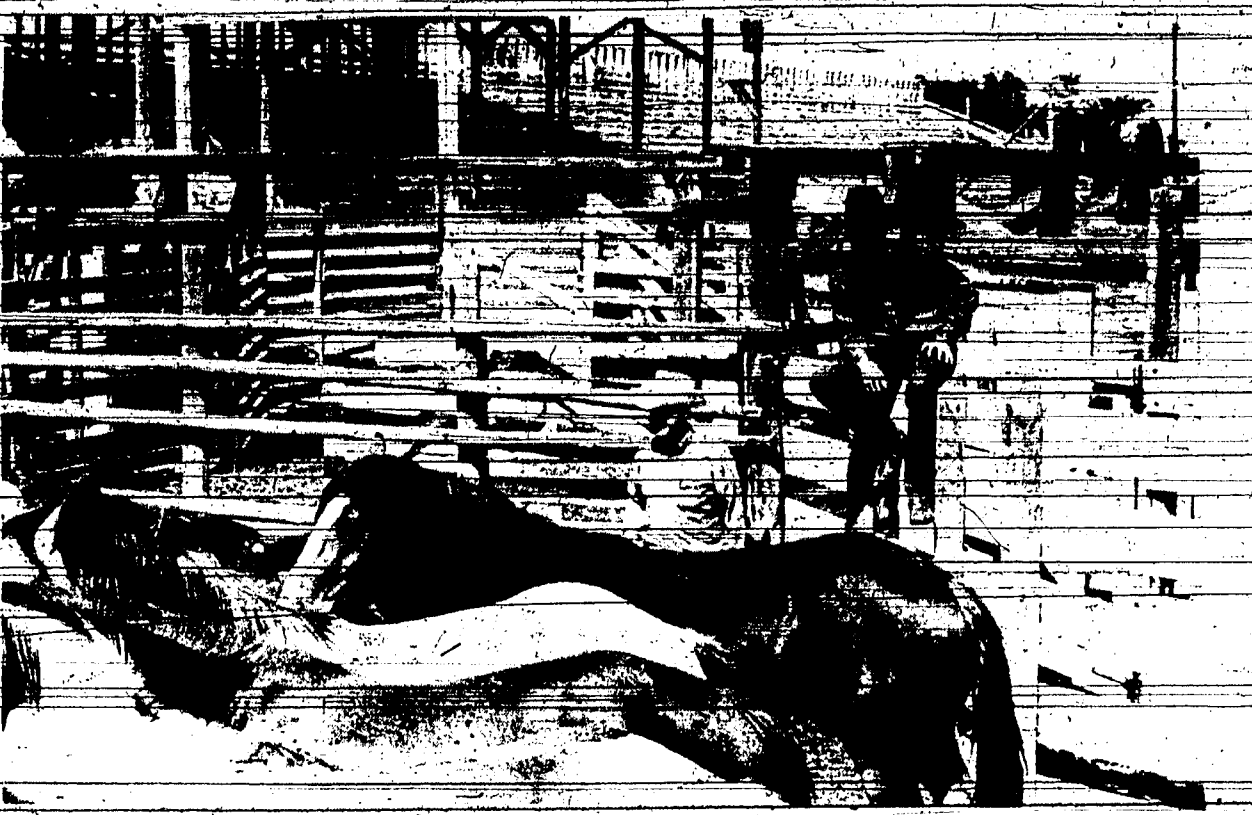

"In time of financial crisis which many states now face, public employs pay and fringe benefits requests most of the time are the last item considered by those powerful politicians who control the purse strings."

George Murphy, director, Idaho Personnel Commission, spoke to group on function of the commission. Tomorrow's meeting will include election of officers, adoption of 71-72 budget and final voting and debate on resolutions the association will present.

Firm denied rehearing on airline route

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Public Utilities Commission announced today denial of a petition for rehearing and stay of order stemming from changes in intrastate common air carrier operations between Boise and Halley-Sun Valley. The PUC said the petition from Trans-Magic Airlines sought the rehearing to submit additional evidence, but said Trans-Magic gave no reason why the evidence was originally omitted.

The PUC noted one rehearing was held March 19 and said Trans-Magic wished to present passenger load experience since March 19. But the PUC said it felt there was no reason to open the matter for the third time since the evidence would "at best be cumulative." The PUC said Trans-Magic's petition alleged the order would have a "adverse effect" on its ability to obtain necessary financing. But the PUC said except for the Boise to Halley-Sun Valley route Trans-Magic had been granted exclusive intrastate air carrier authority to all points in Idaho which had been requested.

Seminar planned on arts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Len Jordan and Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, today outlined plans for the Congressional Arts Seminar and Festival scheduled June 11 at Sun Valley. Miss Nancy Hanks, chairman of the National Endowment for the Arts, will be keynote speaker, Friday. She will arrive in Boise June 9 to meet members of the Boise Art Association and the Idaho Arts Commission and plans to hold a new conference at the Boise Art Gallery.

Others to appear include Mrs. Milton Eberhard, Blackfoot, coloratura soprano who toured several European countries earlier this year with the University of Idaho Vandaleers; Mrs. Gleen Cooper, Sun Valley, who has been working with Sun Valley owner William Janss to form the Sun Valley Creative Arts Center, Inc.; and Henry T. Hopkins, director of the Fort Worth Art Center Museum in Fort Worth, Tex.

Charles Clark, superintendent of schools in Halley, will moderate a panel on the environment and the arts.

Governor McIntosh named orders Head Start aide probe

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus confirmed Thursday a team of management analysts has been ordered to investigate the State Department of Health.

Andrus said the examination is not a "witch hunt" but the first in a series of investigations which will eventually cover all the larger state agencies. "All we're trying to do is find out where the soft spots are in state government and trying to get rid of some of this duplication of services," he said.

TWIN FALLS — Norman He is a graduate of the McIntosh, Kimberly, has been University of Portland and had named the new Tri-county director and administrative stores retiring after 30 years service. His offices will be in the Twin Falls office of the Community Action Agency. One of his first actions will be to select an educational coordinator for the tri-county area.

Labor legislation reviewed for club

SHOSHONE — The labor relations bills passed by the last session of the Idaho Legislature prevent people from coming into this state and creating havoc with its labor forces as happened in California. This was one of the points Sen. John Peavey, R-Rupert, brought out in his talk before the Shoshone Rotary Club Wednesday noon. He talked on the labor and reapportionment laws passed by the 41st Legislature. Howard Adkins said five signs had been ordered for the club to erect in various locations on the outskirts of the city, which will advertise the city and give directions. Discussion was held regarding use of the snow cone machine at Richfield Outlaw Days, and payment of $60 for Boys' State delegates was authorized. Douglas H. Hansen reported having received a card from Germany, telling of a visit there of Charles Neher, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. G. Neher, Shoshone. Gilbert Pierson announced the district workshop will be June 12 in Twin Falls. Guests were Douglas Rose, Lloyd Hansen, Peavey and Welliver/Miller.

New passenger link planned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Amtrak says a new link in its western passenger service will be added June 15. The increased service follows criticism by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that western states were slighted when the system was devised. The new service between Minneapolis and Seattle will go into operation without any contributions of state funds, Amtrak announced Thursday. The law turning passenger railroad service over to the government (corporation) on May 1 specifies that restoration of service on a specific route is possible if state governments affected pay two-thirds of the costs. Ohio paid the bill when service was restored between Cleveland and Toledo. There were no cost estimates available for beginning the service that will add hundreds of miles of new service in Mansfield's home state of Montana. Mansfield has charged the curtailed service of Amtrak when it began existing passenger service by private railroads was cut by one-third — would result in "a monumental transportation disaster." Mansfield also said that "as far as the state of Montana goes, it should be called half-track." The service that will be on a 15-month test basis will operate through Fargo and Bismark, N.D.; Billings, Butte and Missoula, Mont.; Sandpoint, Idaho; Spokane and Everett, Wash.

The location was moved to Boise to minimize travel for the growing membership in eastern Oregon, southern Idaho, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada. A non-profit corporation, its objective is the encouragement of multiple use management of public land. The national president is Dave Alnsworth of Salmon, Idaho, who owned and managed the Salmon radio station until his recent retirement. The conference highlight will be a luncheon address by Idaho Rep. James A. McClure. Starting at 10:15 a.m. the conference will open with a panel representing various groups with a special interest in natural resources. A second panel in the afternoon will present the views of state and city government, the public agencies, recreation, industry and the average citizen.

All sizes of bikes will be permitted in this rodeo and three overall trophies will be given to winners. Three new races in this year's rodeo include an egg race, boot race and a barrel crawl slalom. Entry fees for participants will be $2.00 and spectators will be admitted free of charge.

Air pollution index 69

The pollution reading was taken by the staff of the South Central Health District at the Twin Falls City Hill. The reading is expressed as the number of micrograms of particulate material per cubic meter of air for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today. Federal pollution regulation says pollution levels should be kept below 35 micrograms over any 24-hour period, and should not be permitted to rise above 260 micrograms per cubic meter at any time.

Today: Excellent
Tonight: Good
Tomorrow: Excellent

This forecast provided by the Idaho Department of Health indicates the ability of the atmosphere to disperse pollution. Burning is permitted by law should be curtailed when the air is poorly able to disperse pollutants.

Rockefeller charges inept administration

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and top state budget experts have claimed the city budget figures were $400 million off because of "extravagant" administration of Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Lindsay has caused a loss of confidence in the ability of New York City to handle its problems.

The statement was considered by many to be one of the sharpest public criticisms of Lindsay by Rockefeller, two Republican politicians who have been at odds for years but usually conduct their battles in private.

The statement, signed by Rockefeller, State Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges and State Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea, came in the middle of the city's annual budget crisis.

Lindsay said the statement was "in shocking tones beyond reason."

Legislative leaders have been irritated because Lindsay has refused to cut any of his proposed $9.1 billion budget. New York City's budget must be approved by the state legislature.

For weeks the legislative and state budget experts have claimed the city budget figures were $400 million off because of "extravagant" administration of Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Lindsay has caused a loss of confidence in the ability of New York City to handle its problems.

The statement was considered by many to be one of the sharpest public criticisms of Lindsay by Rockefeller, two Republican politicians who have been at odds for years but usually conduct their battles in private.

responsible choices" and threatened that public services would be the first to go if the budget is cut.

"It is of crucial importance that we do not take measures which could turn a transitory crisis into economic disaster," the statement said.

"Such measures are precisely what Mayor Lindsay insists on. The new taxes he seeks are on a large scale which could well destroy the city's own economy and endanger the state as a whole — driving out job-producing business and industry."

The statement said Lindsay made "every effort to avoid the reason."

and how to obtain funds.

Vern Hacking, district conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, spoke on "Uses of Soil Through the Ages."

"Soil has been abused from the beginning of time to present day," stated Hacking. "When this earth was created it was formed according to a plan of some eternal power, call it God if you may; if this plan is strictly adhered to the earth would remain stable," he said.

"This plan has been disrupted down through the ages by such things as soil erosion, water and air pollution and by taking far more out of the soil than was ever put back," said Hacking.

"Soil through its nature and organisms continually is trying to replace itself. But by misuse of the soil by removing the ground cover such as timber, grasses and various other types of cover, one windstorm or one rainstorm can blow or wash away in a few short hours top soil that might have taken millions of years to produce," he stated.

Hacking cited instances of whole ancient cities that have been found completely silted over by wind, water and other sources. At one time the ancient people were more nomadic and if a section of the country wore out they would move to another location that had not been destroyed.

"We must cleanse our air and water and stop our soil from being washed and blown away if we are to survive," he added.

"For this earth to replenish itself we must get rid of the gaseous poisonous air that envelops the earth, make the soil more stable as it takes too long to make new soil.

"Now is the time to do something as the next generation might be too late," warned Hacking.

New pope elected by Russ Orthodox church

MOSCOW (UPI) — A council of the Russian Orthodox Church Wednesday elected a new patriarch, Pimen, to rule its shrunken dominions as "the pope of the east."

Pimen, a 61-year-old ecclesiastic who joined the clergy in the bitterly antireligious 1920s, was elevated to the patriarchate by a council of metropolitans (Archbishops), bishops and lay leaders meeting at the Troitse-Sergievsky monastery in Zagorsk, near Moscow.

His formal enthronement was scheduled for Thursday morning in Moscow's Yelokhovskiy Cathedral.

Pimen has served as acting patriarch since the death of Patriarch Alexius in 1970, and his election had been expected. His official title had been metropolitan of Krutitsy and Kolonna.

Pimen succeeded to the primacy of a church that has dwindled, under communism, to a mere shadow of the riches, glory and fealty it commanded before the 1917 Bolshevik revolution.

In the great days of Russian orthodoxy, Moscow was called the "third Rome," successor to Constantinople as repository of what the believers regarded as the true faith. The czar himself led the church, holy icons adorned honored niches in every peasant's hut and princely palace, and more than 600 churches flourished in Moscow alone.

The hierarchy robbed itself in gold and wore crowns of diamonds, and the church treasury bulged under the protection of the state.

Priests ruled the cultural life of the countryside, a factor in bringing about the revolution that toppled the czar, according to some historians. But with the victory of bolshevism the church suffered, struggled briefly, and then dwindled.

As a metropolitan, Pimen made frequent trips outside the Soviet Union to attend international peace conferences where he championed Soviet foreign policies and denounced imperialism. He was honored for his efforts in 1969 when he received a diploma and medal from the Soviet peace fund.

It doesn't and you know it wouldn't. Now lead your last diamond and discard another club from dummy. West is on lead and can play any card he wishes, but you will wind up with nine tricks. Two spades, one heart, one diamond and five clubs. What happens if you don't get rid of those two clubs? You won't collect five club tricks. When you play the ace and king, you will be left with the 5-4-7 and dummy with 8-6. In other words, you will be blocked in dummy with a good club in your hand. You would go down several tricks on this line of play if the club queen failed to drop, but a few extra tricks down mean very little when you risk them to make your game contract.

Canonero in 'perfect health,' ready for triple crown sweep

NEW YORK (UPI)—Canonero II's trainer, Juan Arias, today declared the Kentucky Derby Preakness stakes winner in perfect health and ready for a new challenge—a chance to sweep the Triple Crown classics in the Belmont Stakes Saturday.

Also scheduled to be entered in the Belmont Stakes today were Jim French, Good Behavior, Bold Reason, Epic Journey, Hibinder, Purse Finder, Royal J.D., Salem, Twist The Axe and Pass Catcher.

The six other Belmont starters challenge Canonero for the first time and their trainers were counting upon the longer distance to make the difference.

"We do not run many races at 1 1/2 miles in the United States and it's a new experience for the starters. By and large, it's the horse that is bred to go 1 1/2 miles that gets the job done."

Canonero had an edge on his rivals in the Kentucky Derby. The colt, who cost $1,200 as a yearling and will be sold for $4 million after the Belmont, raced twice at 1 1/4 miles in Caracas, winning once. The Preakness was decided at 1 3/16 miles and now Canonero is faced with 1 1/2 miles for the first time, as are all the others.

U.S. tennis star ousted from French Open finals

PARIS (UPI)—Third seed Ilie Nastase of Romania Thursday eliminated American Davis Cup star Stan Smith in the men's quarter finals of the $100,000 French Open tennis championship to leave unseeded Frank Froehling the only U.S. hope against the Eastern European assault on the men's title.

The Romanian pro beat Smith, from Pasadena, Calif., and seeded sixth, 6-1, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 to meet Froehling of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in the top half of the semi final draw Saturday.

Arthur Ashe and Marty Riessen, both casualties in the singles, fought off two match points to win their semi final against South African Frew McMillan and Bob Fairlie of New Zealand 6-3, 6-3, 2-6, 3-6, 8-6.

Final burst to glory

FIELD OF TEN will be opposing Canonero II in the Belmont Stakes Saturday as this year's Cinderella horse goes after racing's elusive triple crown.

Horse captures public imagination

NEW YORK (UPI)—An especially proud father marched himself up to the local Civil Registry window in Venezuela the other day and without so much as blinking an eye, submitted the name he and his wife had picked out for their new born son.

Canonero Sagun, the father announced in English that translates rather easily to Canonero II, and it is of small moment that the clerk in Venezuela refused to accept the name and that the father thereupon substituted the name of the horse's jockey, Gustavo Avila, instead.

Canonero II is spotted, such great care and concern does Arias show him morning, noon and night. If Canonero II doesn't want to eat, Arias goes right into the stall with him, pets him, talks to him, does everything but chew his food for him, and then finally the horse eats.

There are those who aren't so sure that party will ever come off. They point out the Belmont is a mile-and-a-half and that's a big difference from the Preakness which is a mile-and-three-sixteenths and the Derby which is a mile-and-a-quarter.

Venezuelan jockey wins

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gustavo Avila, the Venezuelan jockey who has brought home Canonero II on top in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, made his first start at Belmont Park a winning one Thursday, riding Mr. Garfield to victory in the ninth race.

Avila's mount returned $12.00, $5.00 and $3.80 for covering the mile and one sixteenth in 1:45.45.

U.S. strong in British golf event

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (UPI)—As home hopes tumbled, Steve Melnyk, Jim Simons, Tom Kilo and veteran Dr. Ed Updegraff carried a formidable United States challenge into all but one quarter final at the British Amateur golf championships Thursday.

The three Walker Cup members and Updegraff, a former international player, won through the fourth and fifth rounds to give the U.S. a very strong hand in the final stages.

Among those eliminated during the day was five-time champion Mike Bonallack, the British Walker Cup captain who won the title for the last three years in succession, and five of the squad victorious at St. Andrews last week.

Fishing in Salmon to change

SALMON (UPI)—Increased pressure on the Middle Fork of the Salmon River is expected to bring an end to "fishing for keeps" for cutthroat, rainbow and young steelhead, according to a fisheries biologist.

Don Corley, regional fisheries biologist for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, told the Salmon Chamber of Commerce the change is being proposed to begin in 1972 in an attempt to save the cutthroat and rainbow fisheries.

Under the proposal, fish that are caught would have to be released and returned to the stream.

Fishing for salmon and steelhead "for keeps" will continue, and Corley said fishermen also may be able to keep dolly varden and whitefish.

Miller leads Atlanta Classic

ATLANTA (UPI)—Lean and erratic John Miller, so upset about the way his game had been going the last month he was considering taking a vacation from the pro tour, shot a 7-under-par 65 Thursday to grab a two-stroke lead in the opening round of the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

Eight more were at 69—Gary Player, Dale Douglass, Bobby Nichols, Tom Shaw, Bert Croome, Masters champion Charles Coody, Kermit Zarley and Larry Ziegler.

There were large groups at 70 and 71, as par on the 6,883-yard course took a tremendous tolling on a sunny and virtually windless day despite tough pin placements.

Lakers coach fired

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Joe Mullaney came close, but he failed to win the National Basketball Association championship with the Los Angeles Lakers for sports entrepreneur Jack Kent Cook so he was fired Thursday.

Lakers coach fired

Mullaney, 44, after 14 seasons at Providence University in Rhode Island, took the job as head coach of the Lakers in 1969. That first year the Lakers came within one game of winning the NBA title but lost to the New York Knicks.

Lakers coach fired

Mullaney had a 94-70 record with the Lakers, a team built around three aging superstars—Wilt Chamberlain, Jerry West and Elgin Baylor. All have been plagued by injuries during the past two seasons.

6-7 center dislikes Utah Stars

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI)—George Peoples, embittered at not being frozen by the Carolina Cougars, said Thursday he would rather retire than play for the Utah Stars.

6-7 center dislikes Utah Stars

The 6-foot-7 center, picked by Utah from the Carolina roster as partial payment for the rights to rookie Jim McDaniels, said he would continue in a business venture with Cougar Joe Caldwell.

Carolina froze three players on its roster, Caldwell and two others unnamed, but allowed the Stars to pick a man from the rest of the lineup in addition to money and a future draft choice.

Michigan, Oregon leading in college field championships

BILLINGS, Mont. (UPI) — John Smiley of Eastern Michigan threw the hammer 167 feet 3 inches Thursday night for a first place in the opening of the three-day National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Outdoor Track and Field Championships. Paul Oswald, Southern Oregon, placed second with a throw of 164 1/2 while Dan Bryant, Westmont, Calif., was third for his 162 1/2 effort in the first annual competition. The winning distance was well below the 1967 record set in 1968 by August Zilincar of Monmouth, N.J. Another Oregon athlete, Dave Stephens of Oregon College of Education was the leader in the decathlon after five events. Stephens scored 840 points in the high jump, his best event of the day, with a leap of 6-8 or 1.28 meters. For five events his point total was 3,910. In second was Bill Bakley, Westmont College, 3,787, and third was Bob Keys, Oregon College of Education with 3,719. The final five decathlon events will be held Friday. Willie McGee of Alcorn A&M showed his strength in the 100 yard dash qualifying heats with a time of :09.4, the fastest in the field of qualifiers. Another of the meet favorites, Rex Maddaford, Eastern New Mexico, ran the mile in 4:13.4 in the qualifying heats.

Tour planned

THREE MEMBERS of the NBA champion Milwaukee Bucks will leave soon to conduct basketball clinics in Algeria, Senegal, Mali, Nigeria and Somalia. Looking at a world globe in the lobby of the State Department in Washington are, from left, Larry Costello, coach, and the club's two top stars, Oscar Robertson and Lew Alcindor. (UPI)

Lew, Oscar anxious for cultural tour of Africa

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lew Alcindor confirmed Thursday that he was married there last Friday under his Islamic name of Kareem Abdul Jabbar and plans to take his bride with him when he and Milwaukee Bucks teammate Oscar Robertson tour Africa this summer. Alcindor appeared with Robertson at a State Department news conference with their coach, Larry Costello, and he said the two pro All-stars would concentrate on coaching and giving tips on basic fundamentals of basketball on their tour. The men will visit Algeria, Senegal, Mali, Nigeria, Tanzania and Somalia as part of a cultural exchange program the State Department conducts with other countries. Alcindor said his bride's name is Habiba and that their marriage was performed in a private home. He did not take out a District of Columbia marriage license, he said, on grounds this was not necessary under Islamic law. Alcindor, who led the Bucks to the NBA championship, also said that he had adopted a Muslim name in 1969 although he is still known as Alcindor in the sports world.

As for his upcoming trip, Alcindor said: "I want to see what it is like. I was a history major at UCLA, studying particularly African and Asian history. This is going to be a chance to go to the fountain-head." Robertson said, "I'm glad to see these countries. I've never had to the opportunity to go to Africa before. If I'm able to help, I'd be happy." Both players said they would like to travel to Communist China if they ever got an opportunity such as an invitation afforded recently to an American table tennis team.

Holtzman has no-hitter

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Ken Holtzman, who failed to survive the fourth inning in his last start, pitched the second no-hitter of his career and the first of the 1971 season Thursday night to give the Chicago Cubs a 1-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Holtzman, who entered the game with a 2-6 record, walked four and struck out six. He pitched his first no-hitter against the Braves on August 19, 1969, in Chicago. The Reds, who dropped three straight to the Cubs, didn't come close to a base hit off Holtzman. The toughest chance, perhaps, came in the seventh inning when Glenn Beckert threw out the slow-running

Tony Perez on a ground ball to the right of second base. Johnny Bench surprised Holtzman with a bunt, leading off the top of the seventh, but the ball rolled foul by inches. The last no-hitter in the major league was pitched by Oakland flash Vida Blue last Sept. 21 against Minnesota.

Braves beat Astros

ATLANTA (UPI) — Pitcher Hank Aaron slammed a bases-loaded double to break a fourth-inning tie Thursday night, giving Pat Jarvis his first victory after seven losses and propelling the Atlanta Braves to a 5-2 conquest of the Houston Astros. Jarvis, demoted to the bullpen after he was unable to win as a starter, came in with two Houston runs in and only one out in the first inning and proceeded to pitch 5 2/3 innings of shut-out ball until being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the sixth, the Braves helped his cause by scoring twice on wild pitches — there were three in all by the Astro pitchers.

Cardinals tromp Pirates 7-1

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Steve Carlton pitched a seven-hitter and cracked a two-run double, becoming the first National League pitcher to win 10 games this season as the St. Louis Cardinals ripped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-1, Thursday night. Carlton, who has lost only twice, struck out nine and walked two and was never in trouble after the Cardinals went ahead in the fourth inning. The victory matched Carlton's win total for all of last year when he had a 10-19 record.

Red Sox edge Yankees

NEW YORK (UPI) — Duane Josephson doubled with two out in the ninth inning and scored the decisive run on Ray Culp's single Thursday night as the Boston Red Sox edged the New York Yankees, 3-2, to snap a five-game losing streak. Culp's hit came off reliever Jack Akre and gave the Red Sox a 3-1 lead, but the Boston right-hander wasn't able to finish as the Yankees rallied for a run in the ninth and left the tying run on third.

Culp was replaced by Sparky Lyle after giving up a leadoff double to Horace Clarke. Lyle struck out Thurman Munson but gave up a single to Bobby Murcer, which scored Clarke. Roy White followed with a single and Lyle was relieved by Bob Doak.

Seeks office

Agnew's attendance at Idaho meet uncertain

BOISE (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy said Thursday he is still not certain whether Vice President Spiro Agnew will attend the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors in Sun Valley July 13-18.

Murphy said he had been in touch with Agnew's office earlier this week, but said he did not have a "complete commitment" from Agnew.

Murphy and Bart Brassey, Idaho Bank and Trust Co. chairman of the executive committee on the conference, met with the committee Thursday to discuss details of the conference.

Committee members include representatives from Sun Valley, law enforcement, the National Guard, business, communications, transportation and state agencies.

Herbert Wittsee, Atlanta, Ga., Council of State Governments, said about 40 to 44 lieutenant governors or Senate presidents are expected to attend with their staff members and families.

On July 10, Wittsee said, his office will move to Sun Valley and on July 11 members of the Idaho committee will meet for a "wrap up session."

Wittsee said flags of the 50 states and the four member jurisdictions will be flown to Sun Valley for display during the meeting.

He said delegates to the meeting will be seated at a large table during official sessions, flanked by news-media representatives.

He said additional seats would be provided for others attending.

"Should the vice president or someone of similar consequence come, then these matters will be subject to negotiation," he said.

Larry Mills, finance chairman, said he had received commitments of approximately $20,000, including $1,500 from Murphy's office.

Others reported on travel arrangements, printing arrangements, official cars, and other details.

Holiday event stirs worries in Kootenai

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — The possibility of a mass gathering at Farragut State Park north of here over the Fourth of July weekend has local officials worried, though the meeting would be of a religious nature.

Kootenai County Sheriff Stan Johnson says there has been a widespread distribution of pamphlets advertising a massive gathering of members of the Universal Life Church at the 4,500-acre state park which formerly held up to 38,000 Boy Scouts during the 7th National Jamboree in 1969.

Johnson said a request was received "some time ago" by park manager John Greig from the Church of the Rock for use of the facilities over the Fourth of July by about 200 persons.

However, the sheriff said, the brochures spread around the West Coast and Europe indicate the Universal Life Church plans a greatly enlarged festivity involving thousands of young people.

"There is a county ordinance regulating any festivals," Johnson said, adding, "So far no one has contacted myself, the prosecuting attorney or any of the county commissioners in regards to an application for a permit."

He said he and County Commissioner Ralph Cope have asked for help on the situation from the governor's office and law enforcement officials.

Johnson said various meetings with state officials have been scheduled in the near future to work on the problem and there is a possibility the National Guard will be asked to change the dates of its encampment to assist in enforcement of the county ordinance. Johnson said the assistance by the Guard would include sanitation, medical help and policing of the grounds.

Old violin brings price of $201,600

LONDON (UPI) — A 1721 Stradivarius violin described by experts as one of the world's finest was sold at auction Thursday for $201,600, nearly four times the highest price paid for any violin in the past.

"It is certainly one of about half a dozen greatest," said a spokesman for William Hill and Sons, violinmakers and dealers of London's Bond Street, who cast the winning bid at Sotheby's auction house.

"There is no use arguing which is greater," he said. "Let us say only it's a jolly fine instrument, one of the very very best of the Stradivarius line."

Known as the "Lady Blunt" Stradivarius because of its 30-year ownership by Lady Anne Blunt, granddaughter of the poet Lord Byron, the instrument was made in 1721, when Antonio Stradivari of Cremona was at his creative peak.

The "Lady Blunt" was offered for sale by California collector Samuel Bloomfield. Thursday's price was close to four times the previous world record of $52,800 paid for a Stradivarius at Sotheby's in November, 1968.

Rate boost requested

BOISE (UPI) — The Utah Power and Light Co. has asked the Idaho Public Utilities Commission for permission to raise its rates in Idaho.

E. Allan Hunter, president, said the requested 13.51 percent increase is necessary to keep up with the rising costs of materials, supplies, labor and cost of money. Hunter noted it would be the first increase since the 4.1 percent hike in 1964.

Since that time, Hunter said, the cost of living index has increased nearly 30 percent.

Crutcher quits seat

BOISE (UPI) — State Sen. William Crutcher, D-Orfino, announced Wednesday his resignation from his seat to become disability determination director for the Social Security Administration.

Crutcher, who will move to Boise, recommended State Rep. A.L. White, D-Orfino, as his successor in his letter of resignation to Gov. Cecil D. Andrus. The resignation was effective Tuesday.

Seaman cited for rescue

HEYBURN — Petty Officer Mark L. Hiedman, son of Mrs. Jack Dains, Heyburn, has been awarded the Navy Life Saving Medal for his actions in saving a woman being swept to sea off a beach in Hawaii.

Hiedman and a fellow seaman were on the beach when they saw two women being carried out to sea by large waves. The two men swam out and rescued both endangered swimmers.

Capt. E. A. Boyd, commanding officer of the USS Ticonderoga, congratulated the two men for action "becoming of a Navy man" and awarded the medals.

Hiedman was later nominated to represent his department in competition for selection of his ship's "Petty Officer of the Month" award. His nomination was made by his department head based on Hiedman's "exceptionally fine performance of duty, military conduct, initiative and attitude," according to Captain Boyd.

Yanks clear wood anew

HOBO WOODS, Vietnam (UPI) — War machines lie torn and rusting on the pock-marked landscape, reminders of battles of yesteryear when young and eager GIs believed they'd be home by Christmas — victorious.

Catcher's Mitt, Bowling Alley, Iron Triangle, Wagon Wheel and Hobo Woods were the names the fresh-faced kids threw around where they learned to kill in the name of keeping South Vietnam safe from communism.

In the desperate days of 1968, the names sprinkled the news dispatches that told in urgent terms of battles within a taxicab ride of Saigon.

Now the Americans are back in the Hobo Woods, six square miles of jungle so dense that the only way to clear out the Communists is simply to rip away the protective trees and bushes.

Massive tracked bulldozers called "Rome plows" after the city of Rome, Ga., where they're made are the only machines capable of the job.

The tactic is exactly the same as of old, but the aim of the mission now is, like all others in this war, another means of getting the Vietnamese to take over under the catchall program of Vietnamization.

A U.S. general commanding forces in the woods, 25 miles northwest of Saigon and beside Highway 1 linking the South

Vietnamese capital with Cambodia's Phnom Penh, echoes his predecessors when he states the jungle clearing recently begun is "for the last time."

"We're going to clear about 15,000 acres of this jungle so the Vietnamese can take over fighting in the area," he said.

"The farmer can move back in to cultivate the cleared areas so the Communists will be pushed further away. We're also training the Vietnamese to use the plows because we won't be here much longer."

Sixty of the "Rome plows" are tearing at the green foliage, clearing an estimated 200 acres a day except when they run into Charlie — the Communists.

Drivers Win Purple Hearts "That slows us down a bit," said Capt. John E. Wright, 25, Berkeley, Calif. "The plows have hit more than 140 mines since beginning the operation last Saturday. Just about every driver has won a Purple Heart."

And after a four-hour battle Tuesday morning when Communists attacked the plow operational base ringed by tanks and armored personnel carriers, at least another 19 Americans will get the award for battle-caused wounds.

Tonight IN THE GALA ROOM

Andy Russell

Andy Russell is called "The showman of the Americas" in Argentina; "One of the biggest hits in entertainment history" in the Far East; and "A Dynamo of a Performer who can Move Around a Stage with the Best of Today's Movers" in the United States!

This singing star of three continents, born in Los Angeles, California of Mexican descent began his entertainment career as a band drummer and singer. Early in his career, Andy made a test record for Capitol Records in Hollywood and the Tune, "Besame Mucho" was the first of a string of million record sellers. He quickly became one of Capitol's big name artists, scoring with such bi-lingual hits as "Amor," "What a Difference a Day Made," "Magic is the Moonlight," "Without You," "I Can't Begin to Tell You" and "Laughing on the Outside, Crying on the Inside."

Planning to extend his career into other countries of the world, he moved to Mexico and became an instant smash throughout all Latin America.

For a number of years Andy had his own award-winning TV show in Mexico... "The Kraft Music Hall" and he starred in several Mexican produced motion pictures. Meanwhile, his nitery engagements in virtually every city in Central America and South America were all so claimed successes. He also starred on television in Argentina, Brazil and had recording contracts with Orfeon and RCA-Victor in Mexico.

Andy also found time to entertain in Europe where he played the most famous niteries in Belgium, Germany and Spain. He appeared on television in these countries and also recorded bilingual albums in Belgium and Spain. While in Barcelona in 1965 he starred in "The Wizard of Dreams" for Macian Productions.

Further extending his career, Andy had tremendous success in Australia at the Chevron Hilton Hotel in Sydney, and recently headlined the Siam Intercontinental Hotel in Bangkok, Thailand where his performance was acclaimed... "Terrific... Wonderful... Captivating!" Other stops in the far East included The Philippines, Hong Kong and Tokyo where standing ovations greeted his performances and he was held over for an unprecedented three-week engagement.

Andy is packing the clubs and receiving rave reviews during his night club appearances in the United States in such clubs as the Fremont Hotel, Las Vegas, Shamrock Hilton, Houston, Texas; The Regency Hyatt House in Atlanta, Georgia; The Sahara-Tahoe at Lake Tahoe, Nevada and others. And he still makes frequent forays into Latin America having recently completed a series of his own television shows in Buenos Aires, Argentina and Caracas, Venezuela.

The Andy Russell recording career is climbing with these releases... "It's Such a Pretty World Today" which was number one of the "Easy Listening" chart of Billboard Magazine for 4 weeks; "More Amor" "Spanish Eyes" and such singles as "Bring Me Sunshine" and "Genesis."

Always a welcome guest of television hosts, Andy has been on Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show; on NBC's "Today" show; the shows hosted by Mery Griffin, Steve Allen, and Della Reese.

Blessed with a natural wit and a flair for showmanship, Andy's sensitive interpretation of ballads plus his vitality with up-tempo music has made countless U.S. fans true "Aficionados" of Andy Russell!

Featuring: CAROL KAI

A serious contender for the top solo attraction. The biggest thing going for Carol is a naturalness and simplicity which makes for eventual communication with a mass audience. Poised, assured, booming tuneful voice seems of comedy and energy that won't stop. All Hawaiian. All American in a class of what the medium considers showstoppers. Unbelievably talented.

The public is invited to the concert. There is no admission charge, but a free-will offering will be taken.

Arrangements of familiar hymns, contemporary world, chorales and spirituals will be included in the program. A slide presentation of the campus of Pacific Lutheran University will also be shown.

Big Wood handles heavy runoff flow

HAILEY — Thanks to cool May temperatures, the Big Wood River has handled the spring runoff water exceptionally well, according to Reuben Bradshaw, Blaine Soil Conservation District snow surveyor.

Bradshaw said the soil is saturated and with continued rains and/or warm weather, Big Wood River could remain high for some time. However, with normal weather conditions, no severe flooding is expected.

He said most of the snow at lower elevations has melted. Bradshaw and Paul Spitzer, U.S. Forest Service, conducted a snow survey Tuesday and recorded 54.6 inches of snow with a water content of 25.4 inches in higher elevations. According to reports, the next highest measurement for the month of June was 42 inches of snow and 19.1 inches water content in 1962.

Woodrow Watts, Bellevue, Big Wood watermaster, reported 136,127 acre feet of water at Hailey during May. This is about 30 per cent of the 480,000 acre feet runoff forecast by the Blaine Soil Conservation District for April through September.
