Court eases libel shield

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court ruled today that private citizens have no more protection from libel by the news media than public officials or public figures if they are involved in matters of public interest.

WILLIAM ROPER

William Roper passes

BURLEY — William Roper, 87, a pioneer Idaho businessman and founder of the Roper Clothing Co., died early today at Cassia Memorial Hospital following a short illness.

Mr. Roper opened the first store to bear his name in 1912 in Burley, after moving to Burley from Boise in 1911. The chain has since expanded to six outlets, including stores in Burley, Rupert, Buhl, Twin Falls, Idaho Falls and Boise.

He was also instrumental in forming the Burley Municipal Golf Course, and was a 50-year member of the IOOF Lodge; the Burley Elks Lodge No. 1384, BPOE; Burley Lodge No. 68, AF & AM, and the Scottish Rite Lodge, in which he had attained to the 33rd degree and was awarded the lodge's honorary KCCB Degree.

Mr. Roper was also a 50-year member of the El Korah Temple of the Shrine, representing the Shrine on the board of governors of the Intermountain unit, Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children, Salt Lake City, from 1938 to 1970. He was recently made an emeritus member of the board.

He also served on the Cassia County Fair Board for many years, was a trustee of the Burley School District, and was a charter member and past president of both the Burley Chamber of Commerce and Burley Rotary Club. For the past 12 years, he had been a director of the Idaho Youth Ranch.

Survivors include his wife, Burley; a daughter, Mrs. Henry (Maurine) Grohosky, Declo; two sons, John W. Roper, Twin Falls, and James H. Roper, Burley; two sisters, Mrs. Carl (Nora R.) Davis, Union, S.C., and Mrs. Roy (Ruby) Stracke, Waco, Texas; one brother, Earl Roper, Houston, Texas; four grandchildren and one great-grandchild. He was preceded in death by one brother and one sister.

Funeral services will be announced by Payne Mortuary, Burley.

Appeals in Philadelphia which had thrown out a $275,000 libel judgment against a radio station in that city.

George A. Rosenbloom, a former distributor of nudist magazines, had won the punitive damages in a case argued by former Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

He contended he was defamed by Metromedia Inc.'s station WIP when it reported his arrest for possession of obscene literature. He was acquitted of criminal charges.

In a split opinion, the Supreme Court extended the constitutional protection of its landmark New York Times and Saturday Evening Post rulings to cover all persons whether "famous or anonymous."

"We ... hold that a libel action, as here, by a private individual against a licensed radio station for a defamatory falsehood in a newscast relating to his involvement in an event of public or general concern may be sustained only upon clear and convincing proof that the defamatory falsehood was published with knowledge that it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or not," the court said.

This was the same limited definition of libel the court had used in restricting the right of political or public figures to collect damages in the Times and Post decisions.

The majority opinion by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., was joined by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun.

Brennan said: "If a matter is a subject of public or general interest, it cannot suddenly become less so merely because a private individual is involved, or because in some sense the individual did not voluntarily choose to become involved."

"We honor the commitment to rebut debate on public issues, which is embodied in the first amendment, by extending constitutional protection to all discussion and communication involving matters of public or general concern, without regard to whether the persons involved are famous or anonymous."

Propjet crashes

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI)—An Allegheny Airlines propjet with 29 persons aboard crashed and burned today when it apparently struck overhead wires during a runway approach in heavy mist at Tweed-New Haven Airport.

At least 20 persons were killed. The twin engine Convair 580 veered to its side and plunged into five unoccupied waterside cottages after striking the wires.

"It was flying too low," one woman witness said.

Another resident, Philip Frederico, said he saw the plane come in low over a tennis court at the nearby Colony Beach Club. "If he was any higher, it could have been my house," he said.

Senators ponder Laos war

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate convened a rare closed session today to talk about Laos, with the Nixon administration defending its involvement in the Southeast Asian kingdom as vital to ending America's role in the Vietnam War.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said the secret afternoon session would examine the "increasingly grave" U.S. role in Laos, one which he claimed costs "hundreds of millions of dollars" instead of official estimates of about $52 million for the current year.

Stiff air quality rules hit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—At least two federal departments strongly are pressing the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to ease its clean air standards. Shortly after announcing the clean air rules on April 30, EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus was summoned to the White House to hear complaints from agencies including the Commerce Department and the Federal Power Commission (FPC), administration sources said.

Commerce Department officials argued that the EPA's standards, which every industrial facility must meet by mid-1975, were too strict and costly for business.

The FPC contended the rules would require industry to use so much "clean" fuel that costs would soar and natural gas supplies, already short, would be overtaxed. FPC officials also said the standards might force some electric power plants to shut down, blacking out both consumer and industrial users.

At the White House meeting, sources said, Ruckelshaus defended his air standards on the grounds they were required by the 1970 Clean Air Act, which stipulated that the rules must be based only on public health needs.

and Pioneer Mountains.

At the same time, in testimony presented for him to the House Interior Committee by Jack Hemmingway of Sun Valley National Recreation Area. He asked that the Alpine areas be deleted from the recreation area and proposed immediate enactment of an indefinite mineral withdrawal for the high peak areas.

Andrus said a recreation area proposal now before the committee is "significantly different" from proposals presented for testimony in a hearing at Sun Valley last August.

"The present proposal greatly ignores the national park national recreation area complex which received two-thirds of the favorable testimony at Sun Valley last summer," he said in his prepared testimony.

"The proposal before this committee creates the image of protection for Idaho's scenic treasures," he said.

Rogers asks trade expansion

PARIS (UPI)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers called today for the Western countries to set up special machinery to further expand world trade and avoid trade conflicts.

Rogers made the appeal at the opening of a two-day session of the Ministerial Council of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD).

Rogers also announced the American government's readiness to improve Western cooperation in combating recurrent monetary upheavals due to uncontrolled movements of short-term capital.

TF girl drowns in rescue try

TWIN FALLS — A 15-year-old Twin Falls girl who could not swim died Sunday while attempting to rescue her sister from the Snake River at Shoshone Falls.

Sheriff Paul Corder identified the victim as Sheila Trevino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Euilio Trevino of the Twin Falls Labor Center.

The sheriff said Sheila's sister, Nati, 14, was wading near the boat docks at Shoshone Falls when she apparently stepped off a ledge and sank. Nati also could not swim, the sheriff said, so Sheila jumped in after the girl.

Both girls sank and a friend, Mary Lou Sanchez, 13, who also could not swim, attempted to save the two girls.

Her mother, Mrs. Rosa Linda Sanchez, went into the water to help her daughter and when she got into trouble in the water Mrs. Josephine Trejo went into the water and pulled her to safety.

Two members of the outing, Romeo Trevino and Julio Trevino and two unidentified men were able to get the three girls from the water. They were placed in a car and rushed to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital where Sheila was pronounced dead on arrival.

The other two girls were hospitalized and are in good condition today. The sheriff said it is believed the victim was in the water for about 10 minutes. He said members of several families, including the dead and injured girls, were on an outing at Falls when the accident occurred about 6 p.m. Sunday.

Lava advances

SANT'ALFIO, Sicily (UPI)—A new river of lava rushed toward this off-threatened farm village today four days after scientists thought Mt. Etna had ended a two-month volcanic rampage. Volcanologists said if the new lava flow kept up the speed it showed when it started Sunday night it could reach Sant'Alfio today.

Gem-bound jetliner plummets

AZUSA, Calif. (UPI)—An Air West DC9 jetliner collided Sunday with a Navy fighter plane 12,000 feet over Mt. Bliss, killing 50 persons, including two infants. A radar officer on the military craft apparently was the only survivor.

Heavy fog and low clouds prevented search and rescue units from moving into the rugged and nearly inaccessible area today until the sun had burned through the overcast.

The two planes plowed into the rugged mountain in the Angeles National Forest, spewing wreckage a mile over the almost inaccessible terrain.

The known survivor was a Marine first lieutenant who parachuted to safety seconds after the collision. The pilot of his Navy Phantom F-4B apparently was killed.

Sheriff's deputies quoted witnesses as saying the military craft apparently ripped into the side of the DC9, opening a gaping hole. Witnesses said articles apparently streamed from the big jet as it plunged toward the mountainside.

Deputies said pieces of paper flew out the hole in the side of the jetliner. Several were recovered and officers said they were marked with Sunday's date and the name Air West.

Witnesses said other objects, possibly luggage, fell out of the hole but none was recovered.

County Fire Division Chief Dean Russell, who flew over the wreckage several times, was asked by newsmen if there were any other survivors. "If there are, it will be the greatest miracle I've ever seen," he replied.

"There was no room for it (the DC9) to skid, it just went straight in. When it hit the ground it broke all to hell," a sheriff's spokesman said.

There were 44 passengers and a crew of five aboard the DC9, which split in two major pieces in a wooded area about 20 miles northeast of Los Angeles. Sheriff's deputies flown to the crash area said the bodies of nine persons.

The plane was due to land here at 9:52 a.m. EDT.

At least one fireman was injured in fighting the flames that could be seen for miles around.

Emergency vehicles were hampered in reaching the scene by spectators.

8 skipped homeward jet trip

BOISE (UPI)—At least 11 of the 48 passengers who died in the collision of an Air West DC9 and a Marine fighter near Los Angeles Sunday planned to deplane at Boise, according to Air West.

But four Boise couples returning from a Las Vegas, Mexico, vacation decided at the last minute to take another flight to Las Vegas and escaped the crash.

Those listed by Air West as passengers planning to get off at Boise were Mrs. R. Bird, with infant; A. Esitia; J. Esitia; K. Gable; Mr. and Mrs. L. Johnson; Miss L. McCroden; Miss M. Rangel; P. Rangel, and R. Vincent.

Initial reports did not list hometowns or other identifying factors about those passengers.

Escaping the crash were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mulvania, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Cobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hughes, all Boise.

They decided at the last minute not to take the ill-fated plane but to board another for Las Vegas. They were reported safely in Las Vegas Sunday evening.

Strikers clog N.Y. arteries

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thousands of striking municipal workers tied up traffic on heavily traveled commuter arteries today by stalling city-owned trucks on highways and opening drawbridges over the Harlem River.

A police spokesman said the department was taking "all necessary action," including towing away the stalled trucks but he urged drivers to leave their cars at home. Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy surveyed the tleups from a police helicopter.

As of 7:30 a.m., police reported, 19 roadways were blocked by stalled vehicles and 24 to 25 drawbridges left open over the river which runs between the boroughs of the Bronx and Manhattan. The drawbridges carry part of the flow of commuter traffic from suburban Westchester County into midtown Manhattan.

Heflin suffers attack

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Van Heflin, 60, who suffered a heart attack while taking his regular 20-lap morning swim in his apartment pool, was listed in critical condition today.

The veteran character actor had no pulse and was not breathing, witnesses said, when the fire department rescue crew arrived Sunday morning. Rescuers administered oxygen and external heart massage and Heflin began breathing.

A spokesman at Cedars of Lebanon Hospital said early today that Heflin remained in critical condition in the intensive care ward.

J. W. Parks, superintendent of the Sunset Marquee apartment complex, said Heflin swam 20 laps around the pool every morning "like clock work."

Sunday morning apartment handyman Emmitt Jecks, 62, saw Heflin gasp and grab a rung of the swimming pool ladder. Jecks pulled him out of the water and Parks called the fire department.

Heflin's most recent role was of a World War II demolition expert determined to blow up a plane in "Airport." He won an Academy Award as best supporting actor in 1941 for his portrayal of a drunk newspaper man in "Johnny Eager."

Dickens' character, Mr. Wilkins Micawber, is said to be a portrayal of his father and Mrs. Micawber to represent his mother.

Selective strikes upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court let stand today a decision that unions may call strikes selectively against a few railroads in order to pressure for a multi-employer national agreement.

The immediate effect of the brief order is to leave the way clear, barring other legal moves, for the United Transportation Union to strike against the Burlington Northern and the Seaboard Coast Line railroads in about two weeks.

The strike would be possible under a ruling last may by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia that such work stoppages were permissible after the federal machinery for avoiding strikes had been exhausted.

The appeal of about 170 carriers was rejected without comment by the Supreme Court.

The appeals court had said the union must prove it was acting "in good faith" and not attempting to whipsaw individual lines with the aim of destroying national bargaining.

The opinion also called for a "reasonable notice" of two weeks before a walkout could take place. The carriers had contended in an appeal of the lower court action that if the ruling were allowed to stand, prospects of preventing wages from skyrocketing beyond all reasonable limits and of revising work rules so as to permit the efficient operation necessary if the railroads are to remain competitive while paying reasonable wages will diminish almost to the vanishing point.

Drive opens on Lockheed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon administration opened its drive today to convince an increasingly skeptical Congress to take a quarter billion dollar gamble on saving Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from bankruptcy.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally called before the Senate Banking Committee, argued the administration's belief that neither the nation's economy nor its defenses could tolerate collapse of the country's largest defense contractor.

The committee plans to investigate President Nixon's proposal to back $250 million in bank loans to Lockheed with a government guarantee that they will be repaid from the treasury if Lockheed defaults. The hearings could last two or three weeks.

Connally hoped to find support from outside the government for the loan program, but so did opponents. They expected to draw opposing viewpoints from Lockheed's chief competitors, McDonnell Douglas and the Boeing Corp., as well as from more impartial members of the business community.

"Let Lockheed fail," was Sen. William Proxmire's advice to Connally. He argued that Lockheed's bankruptcy merely would transfer the firm's management to court-appointed trustees until they could straighten out Lockheed's finances enough to return the company to a new private management team.

"Congress has no right to provide hard-earned tax dollars to bail out a private corporation from the consequences of their mistaken judgment in producing a strictly commercial product," Proxmire said.

But Connally already has countered with the contention that Lockheed's failure would send ripples throughout an economy struggling to turn the corner from its recent slump.

Question...

I am the beneficiary on an insurance policy I own upon my brother's life. I have got heard from him for several years. Is he considered legally dead when I cannot locate him within 7 years?

Answer...

This is a legal question and we suggest you discuss it with your attorney but it does have some interesting general aspects that may apply to others. The presumption that someone is deceased when he has not been seen within seven years has been written into law by several states. Not only is an insurance settlement involved in these situations, but also the transfer of property belonging to missing persons.

The insurance company should be advised that your brother has dropped from sight. Your attorney will discuss contractual responsibility with them and project the possibility of a settlement at some future date. In the meantime you should continue to pay the insurance premiums as they become due. Taxes on property that may be involved should be paid and the property maintained in good order until your brother is declared legally dead.

Russ crew links with space unit

MOSCOW (UPI)—The crew of Soyuz 11 today linked up with and boarded the orbital scientific station Salute, establishing the first manned orbital scientific station, the official Tass News Agency said. Tass said the combined vehicles weighed more than 25 tons. "The onboard systems, units and scientific equipment of Salute are functioning normally after its lengthy flight in automatic regime," Tass said. "The cosmonauts have started to fulfill their flight program."

Tass said the three cosmonauts entered the Salute through a passage after docking. "The task of delivering the crew to an orbital station by a transport ship has been solved for the first time," Tass said. Tass said the Soyuz made an automatic approach to within 100 yards of the Salute and the cosmonauts completed the docking manually. After the two vehicles were rigidly mechanically coupled, their electrical and hydraulic communications were connected, Tass said. The crew then checked the connecting tunnel for air tightness and entered the Salute, it said.

Moscow Radio and Soviet television interrupted regular programming to flash the news. Tass said "an important step has been made in developing space technique and manned flights. The use of the new space complex—orbital stations with transport ships to service them—opens broad prospects for further studies and the utilization of aerospace in the interests of developing science and the national economy."

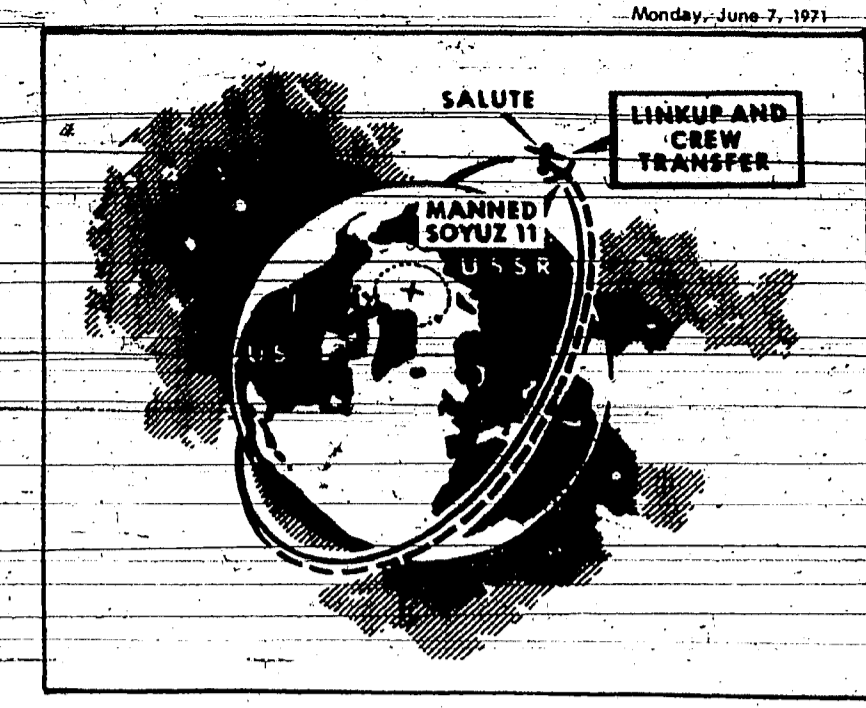

Tass said the crew would carry out scientific and technical experiments to test the space station, study the earth's surface and phenomena in outer space and study the effects of space flight on the cosmonauts as they performed their duties. The report did not indicate how long the crew would remain aloft. A commentary in Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, said today, "The construction of permanent orbital laboratories and observatories manned by crews of specialists means the start of the epoch of the regular use of outer space for the needs of science and the national economy."

The Soyuz 11 team of Lt. Col. Georgi Dobrovolsky, 43, a space rookie; flight engineer Vladislav Volkov, 45, who was flight engineer on Soyuz 7; and test engineer Viktor Patsayev, 37, a pilot-trained design engineer, soared into orbit early Sunday in the second manned launch of the Soviet Union's space station construction program. The first mission, Soyuz 10 on April 24, was cut short unexpectedly. There had been predictions of more launches, and Western space experts speculated that something went wrong to force a delay in completing the program until now.

Soyuz 10 docked with Salute just over 24 hours after launch, and flew coupled with it for 5 1/2 hours. The Soviet news agency Tass, in announcing the latest launch, did not give the specific assignment of the Soyuz crew except to say they will make a "joint flight" with the Salute station, which has been orbiting since April 19. Patsayev said in a pre-flight news conference that "piloted orbit stations are now being created and this is a substantial step in the development of space studies and space technique."

Given the secretive Soviet approach to the Space Program, Patsayev's careful statement left little doubt Soyuz 11 was creating "piloted orbital stations." Scientific sources predicted that if Soyuz 11 succeeds in docking with and testing Salute, one or more Soyuz-type manned ships will be sent aloft to join the project. The Soviets have not published pictures of Salute, nor have they described its physical characteristics. The best guess of Western experts is that the finished space station would be a wheel-shaped affair with three or more Soyuz ships as spokes and Salute as the hub.

In such a configuration the Soyuz ships would dock nose-in and put men on board Salute either through docking tunnels or by sending them into open space.

Solons could act on river

BOISE (UPI)—An attorney for the Environmental Protection Agency said Saturday the legislatures of Idaho and Oregon could designate the Middle Fork of the Snake River as a wild and scenic river. Theodore R. Rogowski, assistant general counsel for the water division, office of general counsel, Environmental Protection Agency, told the Snake River Basin Seminar if such action was taken, the governors of either or both states could then apply to the secretary of the interior for inclusion of the river in the national system. Rogowski said that no congressional action would then be required and noted that while the Snake was not included in the original list of wild and scenic rivers, it does qualify in part as a scenic river and in part as a wild river area. He also outlined the Federal Water Pollution Control Act to the meeting, sponsored by the Idaho League of Women Voters. Rogowski said the act requires applicants for federal licenses or permits to obtain certification of reasonable assurance of compliance with water quality standards for a state. Because of provisions in the Idaho standards, he said, the State Board of Health apparently "has presently determined for Idaho that the Middle Snake shall be maintained as free flowing."

2 considered for Mitchell's post

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, a key campaign aide to both President Nixon and Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, appears to have a strong inside track to succeed John N. Mitchell as attorney general. White House aide John D. Ehrlichman went out of his way last week to remove his name from consideration as a possible successor when Mitchell resigns to direct President Nixon's reelection campaign. Though Mitchell publicly maintains he has no intention of resigning, he has said he would do whatever Nixon asked. As the architect of Nixon's 1968 victory, Mitchell seems certain to direct the President's 1972 re-election campaign, probably resigning late this year or early next year. A native of Arizona, Kleindienst is highly regarded by Mitchell and has played a key role at the Justice Department. The other official whose name comes into consideration is also a close friend of Mitchell—Jerris Leonard, new head of

Bear shot to free visitor

NEW YORK (UPI)—When Oliver Jones poked his arm into the cage, Skandia, a polar bear, grabbed at it. This resulted in Skandia's death and a broken arm and lacerations for Jones, who had climbed a restraining fence, a violation of Central Park Zoo rules. The five-year-old bear was shot Saturday by patrolman Charles Dlugokecko who heard Jones' screams and ran to help. Police said the patrolman killed Skandia with a shot in the left shoulder only after being unable to frighten the animal with shots into the air and numerous thrusts at him with a cane. Jones, 29, was held at a hospital overnight and released. Zoo officials were angry about the whole affair. "The cop should have got the guy instead," said one zookeeper. "He was the one who provoked the attack."

Forest fire blacks area

JEMEZ SPRINGS, N. M. (UPI)—A forest fire rapidly crackling through 4,000 acres of timberland backed some 750 firefighters against an area of summer cabins early today in the Santa Fe National Forest. The fire was first spotted Saturday, and several summer homes in this North Central New Mexico village have been evacuated.

The leader... any way you look at it.

Cadillac for 1971 will be your best car buy, any way you look at it. Styling. It's a carefully created combination of styling continuity and contemporary flair. Comfort. A longer wheelbase and new suspension system mean an even smoother ride. Performance. The proven 472-cubic-inch V-8 is amazingly responsive—on regular gasoline or no-lead and low-lead fuels. Luxury. In the incredible quietness inside, in the beautiful standard appointments and in the many features you can order. Choice. The first Cadillac luxury you enjoy. There are nine models from which to choose. Value. A Cadillac traditionally returns a larger portion of original investment than any other car built in the land. Cadillac is the leader—any way you look at it. And now is the time to look at it—at your authorized Cadillac dealer's showroom.

Cadillac 1971 The leader... any way you look at it. Cadillac is doing something about traffic safety, but some things only you can do. You might be surprised by the scope of our involvement in advancing the cause of safety. Did you know, for instance, that Cadillac was the first to install safety glass in cars? And introduced the triple braking system? Today you can see evidence of the magnitude of our concern. The 1971 Cadillac incorporates a host of recent safety developments, including an energy absorbing steering column. Padded instrument panel. Seat belts for all passenger positions. Side-Guard steel beams in the doors. And the work goes on. But all our efforts will not be enough, unless you do your share. Here are five ways you can help: 1. Always use your seat and shoulder belts. 2. Make sure your car is in good running order. 3. Never drive when you're tired or under the influence of alcohol. 4. Support driver training and uniform traffic codes and enforcement. 5. Drive defensively. Please. Will you do your part?

Welfare

Idaho State Journal The cost of welfare in the United States has increased to about $1.7 billion annually...

AT THE SAME time, there have been 10 federal salary increases since the fall of 1962...

Since mid-1969 alone, the basic annual cost of the 4.3 million white-collar employes and servicemen has risen by about $6.2 billion...

generated an increase of about $15 billion in the unfunded liability of the military and civil service retirement systems...

EVERYONE IS for comfortable pensions, of course, but the other side of the employe "gift" is a hidden public debt of enormous proportions...

Welfare a problem? Just a small one, by comparison.

WASHINGTON — Sen. Hubert Humphrey is firmly convinced only one man stands between him and another try for the White House — Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Despite Kennedy's disclaimers, in Humphrey's opinion not only is Kennedy just as much in the Democratic presidential race as the numerous other aspirants...

(President Nixon has long been of the view that Kennedy would be the 1972 Democratic standard bearer.)

Humphrey does not discount the prospects of Sen. Muskie, Harold Hughes and Henry Jackson. He takes them seriously, and regards them highly personally and politically. At the same time, Humphrey feels each has certain potentially fatal built-in shortcomings and liabilities that in the end will cost him the prize.

Humphrey shrugs off Sens. Bayh, McGovern, Proxmire, Mayor Forby, etc. Despite their clangorous hooplah and other antics, Humphrey considers them "just along for the ride" and anything they can get out of it — running mate, cabinet job in the event of a Democratic administration, fancy lecture fees, enhanced re-election prospects.

That's why as Humphrey sees it — after all the stormy state

Humphrey is one thing — certain about one thing — Kennedy. Humphrey is emphatically certain about one thing — Kennedy is constantly and actively promoting his own candidacy.

The other aspirants also are sure of that. It is highly significant that all of the Democratic hopefuls consider Kennedy a formidable contender. Not one puts any credence in his disclaimers.

Most of them deem Kennedy the man to beat. Kennedy's disclaimers are rated as crafty strategy. As one liberal sardonically remarked, "I haven't heard him take a Sherman yet. And I'll give 100 to one odds that he never will. Until he does that, he's running in my book."

Said another, "Under the circumstances, the best way for Kennedy to run is ostensibly not to run. That enables him to avoid a whole mess of problems, while at the same time still be very much in the picture. You will note, he has never said he would not accept the nomination. That's the real test of whether he is or isn't running — and you can put it down flatly that he is running."

There are a number of telling reasons for this widespread disbelief among Democratic politicians.

1 — Kennedy's persistent high standing in polls throughout the country. These popular ratings are closely followed by him and his lieutenants.

2 — Kennedy's staff is definitely campaign manned and oriented. For its size, it is the most high-powered, experienced and effective staff of any of the candidates so far. In contrast to that of Muskie's and some of the others, it misses few bets.

3 — Kennedy is doing a lot more electioneering than is generally realized. He speaks frequently at Democratic affairs, all are carefully hand-picked, and every appearance is meticulously stage-managed and organized.

4 — Wherever Kennedy goes, he expressly makes it a point to talk either personally or by phone to local Democratic officials and other leaders. Invariably, these chats include influential women, blacks, and other minorities.

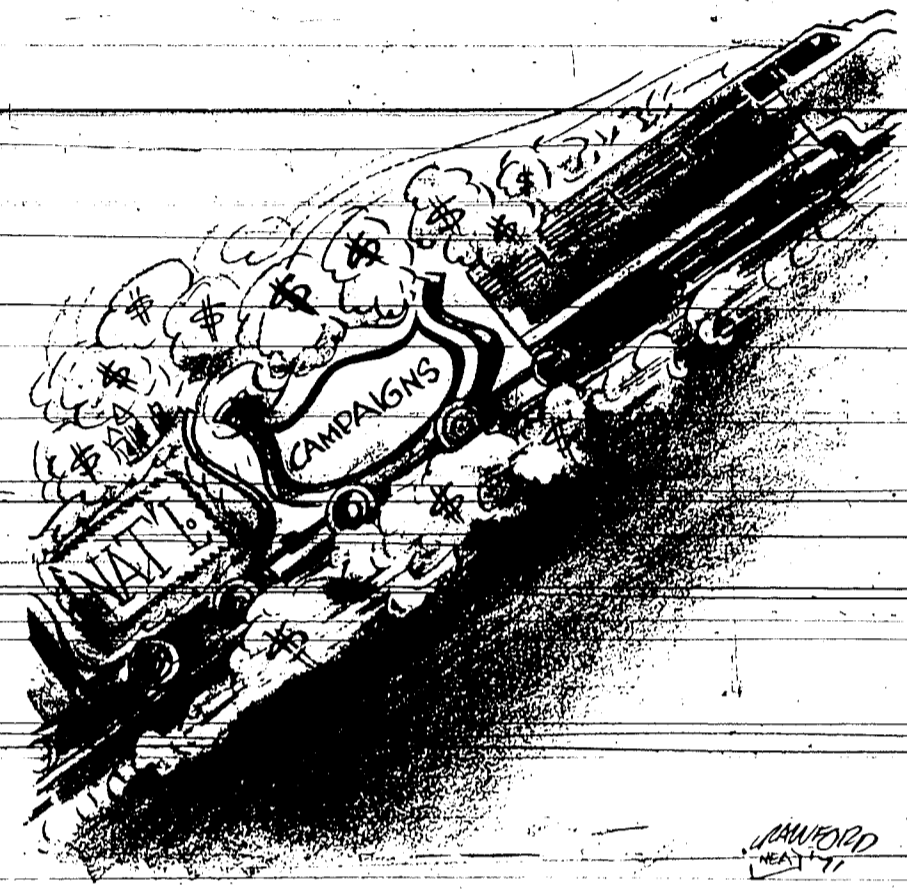

5 — A Kennedy staff member with a lot of know-how and wide political contacts is quietly traveling about the country urging party leaders "not to commit themselves," "to keep their options open," and "not to count Ted out of the picture."

None of the runners are. They are acutely aware he is very much in the picture. And they also know why — that Kennedy is running just as strenuously as they are, even though he says he isn't.

As Senator Humphrey realistically observed last week on his 60th birthday:

"I certainly do take Kennedy seriously as a convention rival. He doesn't intend to campaign or run in any of the primaries. But you can be sure he will be in the running at the convention. And he will be running hard to win. So will I."

Some Trains Are Never on Strike!

PAUL HARVEY

Hurry, Worry!

Records are crashing; this is not just rain on the way, it's thunder and lightning and thunder warning. And it's the worst drought and the most pollution and the recession is a depression and don't just sit there worry!

There's no way things can be as bad as they sound. The late Joseph Wood Krutch was a personal friend, but he never read these columns because he did not take a daily paper.

Dr. Krutch, whose great depth perception allowed him to see today from 30 years away, said he could not allow every hour-of-the-hour crises to preoccupy him or he'd have no time to "think."

So he purposely deafened himself to the newscasters' insistent percussion. He discovered that after a few days most potential explosives proved to be dud duds anyway.

He watched trends as they were sifted by reliable periodicals, but he refused to sit constantly on the edge of his chair, sweating over nothing. The performing weatherman is likely to rename every rain a "thunderstorm." In winter it's not "zero" any more; he has to add that the chill factor is 40 below. He thinks he's protecting us; he's driving us nuts.

Leave early, icy streets — maybe. Broadcasters in helicopters report expressway jamups. When those snows melt, look out.

It's not just a dry spell in West Texas and Florida; it's an ecological disaster from which mankind may never recover. Man alive, no wonder I in 20 Americas 14 in a mental hospital and 1 in 10 should be.

And with increasing competition for your attention from a multiplicity of media, the agitation is steadily worsening. Beaches are inviting but look out, the pollution count is six and seven eights.

Don't eat — food is contaminated! And don't drink water with chemicals in it and for heaven's sake don't drink water without chemicals in it.

Don't have a baby; there won't be enough food, he'll starve. The human nervous system can't take all this dissonance. It's driving a whole sleepless generation to booze and pills and worse.

External crises piled on crises create an inevitable internal tug-of-war which causes suicides to soar 160 per cent in 10 years.

Saving your money you contribute to depression; spend it you worsen inflation. Cities are bankrupt; do something. Campuses too quiet, we must expect riot. The flu bug next fall is sure to get us all.

And I don't know what to do about it. My own professional efforts contribute to it. A cartoon in a recent Wall Street Journal showed a youngster handing over his report card saying "Now remember, Dad, they just print the bad news."

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Rigid-Libs

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There's a pretty sizable bunch of liberals around today who work hard at giving liberalism a bad name.

It's also true, of course, at the conservative end of the spectrum. So why pick on the liberals? Simple. They're making the clamor and getting the attention, as the conservatives did in the Goldwater era.

We're talking here about one very special kind of liberal, marked by doctrinaire rigidity, by an arrogant attitude, which says "there's only one way to do it and we're telling you," and by a powerful urge to embarrass, demean, penalize and even punish adversaries.

In this town they bear a charmed life. They seem to gain their credibility from knocking the credibility of others. They get a season pass from the journalistic fraternity. Seldom are their assertions and arguments subject to the same level scrutiny which reporters' hand at an incumbent administration. Skepticism in Washington is selective.

The rigid liberals tout absurdly bad books like Charles Reich's "The Greening of America." They often manage to overstate the horrors of the war in Indochina, which isn't easy. Looking at the frustrations of the young, the black, the brown and others, they condone rage but deplore violence it can lead to. Their criticisms of the police and the military, which can be immensely useful when specific and pointed, frequently are cruelly ambiguous. Delivered sweepingly, they appear to suggest we could well do without an Army and a police force. What does it really mean to be "anti-military" in a country that surely is going to have an Army for long, long years?

The doctrinaire types are supposed to have the smarts. Nobody, it is contended, can match them for intellect, insight, etc. Why, then, do so many of them spend so much time shouting schoolboy slogans, flushing with joy when somebody cries "Fire J. Edgar Hoover!" and putting the rap on the people who don't subscribe to their narrow little catechism?

Not too many weeks ago, a frail publication called The New Democrat listed the fellows it thought were fit to have the 1972 Democratic nomination for president. Pointedly missing was the name of Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, top contender. What's the matter with Big Ed? Critics say he's "indecisive." He says he sees a lot of sides to things and takes time to make up his mind. The Marching and Shouting Society scorns that kind of nonsense. What's your decision, fella? We wait it now!

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

About Milk

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son suffered stomach pains and loose runny stools. Tests and X rays showed nothing. Out of sheer desperation I took him off milk. He immediately improved.

Later I tried him on half milk, half water but this made him ill. The same with skimmed, powdered, or 2 per cent milk.

What should I give him to supplement the milk? He has eaten cheese until it is running out his ears. — Mrs. S.F.

Poor kid! But some youngsters just can't tolerate milk, and you have to find other ways of giving them what they need. This, fortunately, can be done.

Cheese is a good source of two of the valuable items in milk, protein and calcium, but enough cheese is enough cheese, no doubt.

Soy bean milk or products made with it is a pretty good substitute when there's an intolerance to cow's milk. Soy beans contain a good deal of calcium, although not as much as in cow's milk. Still, he gets calcium from other foods: cereals, fruits, vegetables. Usually milk substitutes also have calcium added. If necessary, your physician can recommend calcium preparations that can be taken by mouth.

The other ingredients of milk can also be added up from other foods, but the calcium is the big item.

You've been very logical in giving him cheese, but don't push the cheese so rigorously that he can't stand the sight of it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please clear up a question for me. Food experts advocate drinking milk, and they emphasize calcium and protein.

Most vitamins are present with heat, so what happens when milk is pasteurized? I was told that the protein is still there but there was no mention of calcium. — E.R.

The calcium and protein both remain in full quantity. As to vitamins, I wouldn't say that "most" are destroyed by heat. Some are; some aren't affected.

The principal vitamins in milk are some of the B group, C, A and D.

True, the heat destroys vitamin C, but that is readily available from citrus fruit or juice, tomato juice, and other fruits and vegetables, and milk just isn't a significant source of C.

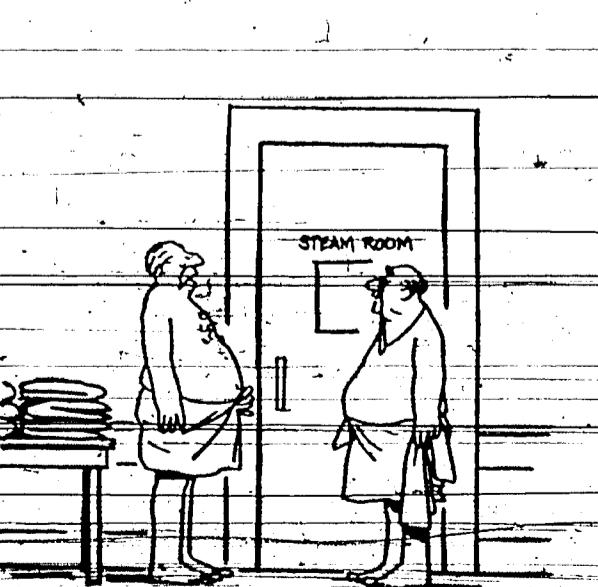

The B vitamins, present only in small amount, aren't affected.

The A and D vitamins in milk are lost not from pasteurization but from being rancid — if you are drinking skim milk or 2 per cent milk. Much of the cream (the fat) has been removed and that was where the A and D vitamins lodged.

Therefore in skim or 2 per cent milk, 400 units of vitamin D are added per quart. As for vitamin A, other fats in the diet (plus yellow vegetables) provide ample amounts for all of us unless we have some need for extra quantities. That can be given in capsule form if need be.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

BERRY'S WORLD

"If I didn't have as many shares in this company as I do, I could have a sense of social responsibility, too!"

China's Choice

The Oregonian

As almost everyone knows by now, it was Ping-Pong players that made the break through the bamboo curtain of Red China for the United States. The Chinese made that choice of pioneers from the West, because Ping-Pong is in high repute in Mao country. Reporters and photographers followed the trail-broken through the curtain, and U.S. businessmen are next on the Peking invitation list.

A State Department spokesman said in Washington last week that China had issued a number of visas to American businessmen. As with Ping-Pong, the Peking government is making its own choices in extending the privilege of a visa to visit mainland China. It is noteworthy, therefore, that one of the first of these has gone to representatives of the Xerox Corp., a major manufacturer of photocopy products with subsidiaries elsewhere in the world.

Peking is limited in the amount of trade it can generate with the United States because of its lack of dollar exchange. Thus it must be selective in its encouragement of sales of U.S. products in its territory.

That Peking should give such precedence to photocopy machines should be reassuring to those Americans who fear that resumption of trade with mainland China will help the latter build its military power. All those copies do not fit in with Chairman Mao's celebrated precepts for making guerrilla war.

Council to study rezoning request

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council will consider a zoning variance and rezoning request in a combined public hearing Monday during its meeting.

A lengthy agenda of business includes the public hearing on a request from the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau to allow expansion of their present building on Jefferson Street to the property line, and on an application from Audrey Walton to allow rezoning from residential low-density to residential medium density of a tract of land.

Other items on the agenda include the third reading of an ordinance to prohibit dumping of septic tank waste into city sewers; second reading of an ordinance to accept the street right-of-way on Locust Street North from Falls Avenue East in the Shoshone Acres subdivision; consideration of a petition to authorize the adoption of the articles of association of the South Idaho Resource Planning and Development Association, and discussion of a curb, gutter and pavement policy on Falls Avenue East.

Councilmen will also consider a request from the Idaho Department of Highways to upgrade the traffic signal at Blue Lakes Boulevard North and Filer Avenue and will study several other annexation and zoning ordinances.

Bronze keys to students achieving top grades for the first time, went to Marsha Brumbach, Meg Rayborn, Suzanna Thomas, Brent Oswald, Russell Shaner, Connie Dawson, Claudia True, Mike Fulker, Betsy Katz, Cathy Walker, Kristine Kendall, Candy Braley and Karen Clark.

Silver keys, awarded to students earning all "A" grades during two years of school, went to Sally Soran, Kathy Coleman, Melva Nussbaum, Sharon

Time for living

By ROGERS FRANKLIN

Are you still using colored paper towels and tissues? Did you toss a can into the trash today? When gardening this morning, did you spray with a pesticide?

I hope your answers are "No." Otherwise you're overdue for a little ecology brainwashing. Pollution has exploded into one of today's most serious problems. Yet, unfortunately, many people still say, "Pollution doesn't bother me," or, worse, "I can't do anything about it."

If this is your reaction, too, let me strongly recommend the June issue of Harvest Years magazine, which contains the article, "Ecology: What We Must Do Now."

We can't dispute that we're the people most adversely affected by pollution. As the article points out, "While younger people may yet become masters of their environment, we're victims of it — right now. We must do something about it before it's too late!"

We all know that air pollution increases the mortality rate among older and disabled persons. Research also gives evidence that pollution accelerates the aging process. Aging hallmarks — pneumonia, tumors, nephritis, heart and arterial problems — appear more often in a germ-filled environment.

It takes more, however, to clean up pollution's mess than merely to be aware of its horrors. What can you and I do about it? Plenty. The article gives over forty-five ways gleaned from ecology experts, showing how you, the individual, can help in the "four R effort" — reduce, recycle, reuse, reject. For a copy of the June issue which includes this essential list of "Do's and Don'ts," send 50 cents to Harvest Years Publishing Co., Dept. EG-104 E, 40th St., New York, N.Y. 10016.

Some pointers on the list's guidelines aren't easy to follow, I admit. They involve changing our lifestyles — our habits in everyday living. But in general we cannot choose to remain indifferent or careless to the pollution problem. We know that many environmental projects fail, not because they are strongly opposed, but simply because too many of us ignore important conservation helps.

It's becoming more apparent every day that if we, and certainly our children and grandchildren, are to survive on this earth, we must do something — and now!

Let's begin today to demonstrate our "senior power" in neighborhood recycling drives, state and local beautification committees, campaigns for cleaner air, block associations for cleanup, etc. Benjamin Buntio, 74, a retired artist who's been active in the ecology movement for many years, believes: "It's up to us to instill in the young people a basic respect for laws of life and nature."

"The earth is a precious gift, a legacy for the old to give to the young. But we must first be enjoying it ourselves, too. That's why we have to fight to preserve its beauty."

School board to open bids today

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls School District No. 411 will open bids today at 8 p.m. for purchase of 2,750 gallons of asphalt seal coating.

J.T. Anderson, school district clerk, said the bid call specifies a seal-coating product which can be applied with a tight-weight machine which will not damage existing pavement, and that a hand-operated machine "may be advisable."

Trustees authorized district officials, including Anderson and Superintendent Dr. Ernest H. Ragland, to open the bids and take action as necessary. If any action by the trustees is needed, the bids will be held until the June 14 board meeting, Dr. Ragland said.

T.F. man sole bidder on land

TWIN FALLS — Ewing Skinner, Route 1, Twin Falls, was the sole bidder for purchase of 80 acres of land in a public land sale conducted last Wednesday, according to the Bureau of Land Management, Boise.

Skinner bid the appraised price of $2,300 for the 80 acres, located southwest of Hollister.

He was formally declared high bidder since he was the only person to bid.

Adopted Year Later Congress adopted a design for a national flag on June 14, 1777, almost one year after approving the Declaration of Independence, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Bids called for pumping station

TWIN FALLS — Sealed bids for the purchase of a pumping station for the City of Twin Falls will be received until 4:30 p.m. June 16 in the City Clerk's office.

The bids will then be "opened and publicly read" in the City Council chambers by City Manager Jean Millar, then referred to the Council for formal approval.

All bidders must be licensed as public works contractors under state law, and must furnish bid security of five per cent of the total amount of the bid. In addition, according to the bid call, the successful bidder will be required to furnish 100-per-cent performance and labor-and-materials bonds to insure faithful performance of the contract.

The City of Twin Falls reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to select the one which best serves the interests of the city in the opinion of the Council. The Council may also postpone the award of the contract up to 30 days if needed.

Actor likes Yank roles

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI/Hollywood Correspondent
He would have made an excellent spy for Germany. Instead, he is an actor. Originally his name was Hans Gudegast when he played the Nazi officer in the "Hat Patrol" television series. Now he is called Eric Braeden after the town in which he grew up, Braedenbach, Germany.
As Braeden he can be seen in "Escape From the Planet of the Apes." He recently starred in "The Forbin Project."
Braeden, who immigrated to the United States when he was 18—and since has become a citizen—has accomplished what few foreign actors ever achieve: roles in movies playing Americans.
Praises Vivien Leigh—Englishmen, Welshmen and Irishmen have pulled it off, but few Continentals.
Perhaps, the best example of a performer making the transition among Britons was the late Vivien Leigh as

Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind."
Ray Milland, Richard Burton and others were passingly acceptable as Yankoes, but one could always detect a tinge of accent.
The French, Italians, Germans, Spaniards and Scandinavians have been spectacularly unsuccessful at playing Americans. It is inevitable, then, that Charles Boyer, Louis Jourdan, Oskar Werner, Paul Henreid, Horst Buchholz, Max Schell and all the rest play foreigners.
"That is because most of them make their home base in Europe," Braeden said. "Others came to America when they were older than I."
"But the real reason I can play Americans is because language has always come easy to me. It's a matter of picking up the vibrations and the psychological motivations of the characters I play."
Thinks in English
"Since coming to the United States I have absorbed my surroundings. I've picked up the attitudes and the idiom. I do the same thing when I work in England for a month or in Spain."
Braeden said he, thinks in English without first translating from his native German.
"I enjoy playing Americans because they generally are the better roles. More than that, I think I understand Americans better than most foreign-born. They are more straightforward, easy-going and less complicated than Europeans."
"Remember, a lot of us grew up in Europe trying to emulate Americans especially in Germany where we admired the lack of rigidity in the people and the customs of the United States."
America's contribution to victory in World War II was a factor, too, Braeden agreed. He still recalls the bombings.

Death suit appealed

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI)—An unsuccessful $416,000 lawsuit filed against a Salt Lake City man in connection with a 1969 highway crash near Laramie, Wyo., has been appealed to the U. S. 10th Circuit Court of Appeals.
Mrs. Valera Sanford lost her original suit against Edward Donley in connection with the March 17, 1969, crash which killed her husband Eugene.
The suit alleged Donley's vehicle rammed into the rear of a car halted on I-80 near Laramie and it flew forward into the back of another parked car, crushing Sanford who was standing between the two autos.

'Ironsides' loses one

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—When "Ironsides," one of the top 10 Nielsen ratings, returns to the air next year it will be without Officer Eye Whitfield played by emmy-winner Barbara Anderson.
Barbara, a blonde with a tinkling bell voice, may be the first actress to quit a hit television show in its bloom of popularity.
Pernell Roberts and David Canary departed "Bonanza" for greener fields that never materialized. Dennis Weaver walked away from "Gunsmoke," the longest-running drama on the tube. Bob Horton exited "Wagon Train" at its peak.
None of the actors admitted regretting their decisions. But one seldom sees the names of Roberts, Canary or Horton adorning marquees or television series of their own.
"They wanted out to do more important, challenging things," Miss Anderson asked for her release out of fatigue.
"I underwent a serious operation last September," Barbara said, "and was back on the set in three weeks."
"Then, instead of taking its usual hiatus, the series began another 10 weeks of shows for next season. So I asked to be removed from the show. And that was that."
Or was it? Barbara was growing restless on the show anyway.
"I couldn't see where my contribution was as important as it had been in the first two years of the series," she said.
"The scripts were concentrating more and more on guest stars."
"That left the three regulars on the show—got counting Raymond Burr—more or less as window dressing."
"I want to play different characters and feel I'm creating something original," Barbara said. "As Officer Whitfield in 'Ironsides' the character was becoming alien to me. And when that happens it's time to get out."

Sherman latest singing idol

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Thirty years ago distraught parents thought Frank Sinatra's voice would ruin their daughters, 15 years later they were certain Presley's gyrations would spawn a generation of nymphomaniacs.
Then came the Beatles and mothers could only pray for guidance.
Enter Bobby Sherman, 1970. Not a peep from parents. In fact they take their daughters from age 6 to 60 to Sherman concerts.
Compared with Sherman, Mr. Clean is a dirty old man.
Not since Presley has a soloist set the recording charts afire.
Bobby has recorded five albums: Sales: 4 million.
Bobby has recorded seven singles: Sales: 10 million.
And those figures don't count a cereal company's promotional gimmick of Sherman's records on their boxes for another 30 million records.
Less splashy and flashy than Sinatra, Presley and the others, Bobby Sherman appears to be the vocal idol for the 1970s.
Non-Sherman fans may recall him as the stuttering youngest brother of the television series "Here Come the Brides" which left the air last season.
Next fall Sherman will star in his own show, "Getting Together."
For a preview of the younger generation's newest hero Sherman heads a half-hour musical special June 4 on ABC.
He defines his music as "soft rock." At 25 he appears a half-dozen years younger. His face is open, his hair medium length.
Bobby appears to be somewhat shell-shocked by his impact on young people and old alike. He made 50 concert appearances in the past year, playing for some 2 million persons.
"My first concern is for the kids," he said. "They're honest and loyal. My music doesn't have any hidden lyrics about drugs."

Corridor closed to machines

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Earth moving equipment has been banned from the corridor area between Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks as a result of U.S. Sen. Cliff Hansen's request to prevent more work on placer mining claims in the area.
A total of 33 claims have been filed. Bob Safran, supervisor of the Teton National Forest, told Hansen Thursday the closure would apply until further notice against crawlers, tractors and earth moving equipment.
The senator asked the regional forest headquarters in Ogden Utah, for the closure Tuesday. Earlier, he had asked the federal government to withdraw the land from mineral exploration until the Department of the Interior and the Agriculture Department could determine the area's future.
"While the withdrawal would prevent validation of future placer claims it would not legally prevent work on the existing claims," Hansen said.
"It was necessary to secure the closure to prevent further work on the 33 claims already in the corridor."

Health aide now laid off

BOISE (UPI) — Roy A. Frakes, assistant director of the health facilities program in the Adult Health Division of the State Health Department, confirmed Saturday he has been laid off effective July 1.

Frakes said he was laid off because of department apathy and ineffectiveness which he said interfered with his duties to update nursing home and hospital licensing requirements.

He said he was invited in 1969 to come to Idaho to update rules and regulations for licensing of nursing homes and hospitals, but "because of apathy and ineffectiveness within the State Health Department, I have been unable to do this."

He said nursing home patients are the real victims of the situation. He added he was relieved, however, that his tenure in the position was over because it was frustrating not to be able to do a job which needed to be done.

But Dr. Orville E. Merrell, Adult Health Division director, said he received a reduction in allocated funds and had to reduce forces. He said Frakes' lay-off was strictly an action to bring expenses within available funds.

Merrell said he had his proposed budget for fiscal year 1972 cut by 50 per cent and that he will have one-third fewer state funds than he had this year.

Merrell said Frakes is the only division employee who has had to lay off so far, but added he was not sure if he was studying possible results of an impending pay increase for the state employees.

Audie laid to rest by unknown soldier

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Audie Murphy, America's most decorated hero in World War II, was laid to rest today in front of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery.

Murphy, who died along with five other men in a plane crash near Roanoke, Va., was given full military honors including a 21-gun salute as the flag was lifted from his steel gray casket, folded and presented to his widow, Mrs. Pamela Murphy, of North Hollywood,

Boise food prices up

BOISE (UPI) — Food prices in Boise rose 1.4 per cent during the first quarter of 1971 as compared with prices on Dec. 31, 1970, according to a "market basket" survey released by the Greater Boise Chamber of Commerce.

The survey was compiled by the center for business and economic research at Boise State College, and presents the retail food prices in Boise for December 1970 and March 1971, on more than 80 items. A comparison is also made with other western cities and an index lists food consumed at home price changes.

Proposal would keep mental unit

BOISE (UPI) — A recommendation to reduce the role of State Hospital North to treatment of about 60 "acute" mentally ill rather than closure of the institution will be presented to the Board of Health June 16.

Myrick Pullen, Mental Health Division director, confirmed Saturday his recommendation will be presented to the board in Boise when it meets to split up the $5,381,774 appropriation to his division.

Dr. Pullen said he also will have two alternate proposals for board study, the closure of State Hospital North, Orofino, and an across the board budget reduction for all mental health institutions.

Pullen said there seemed to be a legal question as to whether the board of health can close State Hospital North. He added retaining the hospital in this new capacity would "do the least destruction to our overall program" of three proposals. The hospital has 159 patients.

If Pullen's plan is approved, he will likely close McKelway Hall at the institution, retaining only Southall for the 60 patients. He said those 60 persons are those who require no more than three months of care and will be treated and released.

Chronically ill patients would be transferred to State Hospital

South in Blackfoot, as would the "forensic" patients requiring maximum security.

Pullen said he did not know how many employees would be laid off at Orofino under his proposal. It is tied, he said, with the recently announced pay raises for state employees, ordered by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus. Andrus also ordered a 10 per cent cut in the number of state employees.

Red rockets fall among DMZ posts

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist AHQ Cobra helicopter gunships were raking the area in the Da Nang early today and fighting broke out again in an area near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) where the allies reported killing 308 Communists in heavy weekend fighting. Military spokesmen said U.S. AHQ Cobra helicopter gunships were raking the area in the Cam Lo sector 4 1/2 miles south of the DMZ in support of government troops. U.S. command spokesmen reported three B52 bomber missions Sunday and early today in the area and a fourth to the west near the Laotian frontier.

President eyes Chinese trade

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon today was putting the final touches on a document designed to establish U.S. trade with Communist China, amid the strongest indications that the '72 presidential election — and his expected candidacy in it — is on his mind.

Nixon spent the weekend at his Camp David mountain retreat, planning to return to the White House today to start a busy week that will culminate with the wedding Saturday of his daughter Tricia.

Aides said Nixon was busy reviewing a list of non-strategic items suitable for trade with China. The list, covering a broad range of products, was expected to be made public later this week.

With Nixon at the wooded hideaway were his wife and both daughters.

While Nixon was concerned with international affairs Sunday, one of his closest friends and advisers, White House Counselor Robert H. Finch, revealed that Nixon will enter at least six Republican presidential primaries.

Nixon has not announced he will seek a second term although it has been widely assumed he would. Finch said there are six states that require a president give his consent or affirm that he is a candidate before his name can be put on the ballot.

"He will of course be a candidate in those states," Finch said. He made the comment on the ABC-TV program, "Issues and Answers."

Nixon is likely to face primary opposition from "Dump Nixon" forces within the party, including Rep. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey, R-Calif., who has indicated he would do some primary campaigning. The intraparty opposition to Nixon centers mainly around his war policy.

The rocket attack on Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, was the third in eight days. Twenty civilians have been killed and 29 wounded but there have been no casualties or damage at the air base.

Allied spokesmen said three 100-pound rockets hit Da Nang and three others hit the nearby air base 370 miles north of Saigon just after midnight. Ten civilians were wounded in addition to the three killed.

At least six South Vietnamese soldiers died and 52 were wounded Saturday and Sunday in four battles near the DMZ, allied spokesmen said. The South Vietnamese said they killed 250 Communists in the fighting and U.S. spokesmen said American helicopters killed 58 east of the abandoned Khe Sanh combat base Saturday.

The U.S. command reported an American soldier killed Sunday in a Communist mortar barrage.

Prince Philip reaches 50 Thursday but his appearance is less than 40

LONDON (UPI)— Prince Philip turns 50 Thursday (June 10) and his family says his best birthday gift may be that he does not look 40.

It is Philip's gift to himself. He has never been fat; his admiral's uniform is the same size he wore as a destroyer officer a generation ago.

The queen's husband still plays polo while most of his childhood friends now restrict themselves to croquet or a huffing-puffing set of tennis.

His only badge of age is his hair. It is still blond, but is thinning. Willpower can do nothing with growing hair and

Appeal filed

BOISE (UPI)— One of two men charged with an Aug. 27, 1970, murder in Boise and sentenced to life imprisonment appealed the conviction Friday to the Idaho Supreme Court.

Robert A. Atwood said despite pleading guilty to first degree murder he did not wield the knife with which John William Jacoby, 21, allegedly was killed.

Michael L. Williams, 21, was also sentenced to life imprisonment, and his conviction has not been appealed.

Philip is no man for a wig, his friends say. So, they say, he laughs it off and devotes himself to doing what he can. And this is how he does it.

Rising shortly after dawn, Philip immediately exercises 10 minutes with equipment installed in his bathroom. He shaves in the bathtub, a time-saving habit. Daily he swims in Buckingham Palace's heated basement pool or, when the royal family is in Windsor Castle, in an indoor pool with a sliding roof he opens at the slightest suspicion of sun.

Polo's his favorite participating sport. He watches cricket on television (although it is said to bore his wife). He hunts through his timetable daily schedule weeks in advance to find time for open sea sailing in small craft. Hunting companions in Norfolk and Scotland say Philip cares far less for shooting than for simply hiking miles upon miles. His addiction to fresh air is not a family-wide custom.

Asked once if her brother-in-law had returned to Buckingham Palace, Princess Margaret signed and said, "If all the windows of his suite are wide open, he has." (Like most British gentry, reared in stately homes bare of central heating, many members of Philip's family keep their windows shut.)

Philip's diet is what the doctors tell us all to follow. He enjoys for breakfast two eggs, bacon and one piece of toast.

Lunch is light. His favorite supper foods are roast beef and lamb, tomatoes (the English grill them and serve them with meat), cheese and most fresh fruits.

But he ignores the English ritual of afternoon tea which is a British ritual including the brew, biscuits, cakes, cookies, jams, heavy cream and a treasure chest of calories. Philip prefers coffee to tea, anyway.

Money giveaway difficult task

NEW YORK (UPI)— Giving away money can be a tough job.

Four people at Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee work many hours each year trying to locate people who are unaware they have dividends and policy benefits due them.

"We average about $50,000 a year in such payments," said a company spokesman, "and sometimes it takes Sherlock Holmes techniques, plus luck, to track down the people so we can send the checks."

Increased mobility and the fact that many people are unaware they have money coming to them are the principal reasons for this unusual dilemma. The company estimates that 15 per cent of its 1.2 million policy owners move each year.

One case involved an agent in a small midwestern town who usually ate at a local YWCA where he often sat at the same table with a middle aged lady. She mentioned casually that her husband once had a policy with the agent's company but illness had prevented his retaining it. Curious, the agent checked the files. He learned that the lady had $2,500 due her and a week later presented her with a check.

In 1960, NML lost track of an American school teacher who had worked in Europe for several years. The mails produced no leads until the American Embassy in Paris reported that the lady had returned to the U.S. The NML search team got lucky on the first try, contact with a teachers' organization. She had checked in with the group the day before. After eight years of searching, the company was able to hand over a $4,000 check.

Among the search tools are 3,500 telephone books, insurance application forms, birth registrations, post masters, fraternal groups, labor unions, churches, library facilities, banks—and a goodly amount of imagination sprinkled among NML's armchair detectives.

Sometimes an investigation has happy fringe benefits. Two sisters who were beneficiaries of their father's policy had been out of touch with each other for 20 years. One had disappeared after an argument with the family. An old Social Security card and the clue that the missing woman suffered from certain allergies helped the NML team to turn up her address. Some useful letters from the company reunited the sisters who shared $2,000.

Sometimes NML learns that a disappearance is deliberate. After her husband had been missing seven years, the wife of a policyowner had him declared legally dead and filed a claim. NML and outside investigators found him in another city. The wife dropped her claim when she saw photographic evidence that her "dead" husband was very much alive.

Investors drive market higher

NEW YORK (UPI) — Investors, buoyed by rising bond prices and showing less concern about recent advances in short-term interest rates, drove the stock market higher this week ending a month-long decline.

James J. O'Leary, vice chairman and economist of U.S. Trust Co., said the concern being expressed in the securities markets over the outlook for rising interest rates "is exaggerated." He said the federal reserve's policy generally is aimed at promoting a healthy and sustained recovery in business and employment, which means "it will certainly keep credit easy until the recovery of business is well under way and assured."

William C. Freund, vice president and economist for the NYSE, said he looked for short-term interest rates to be higher six months from now than they are today. But he said he doesn't believe the administration will allow interest rates to rise so far that they will stifle economic recovery.

Stanley A. Nabi, director of research for Schwelckart & Co., said many of the factors that had weighed on the market in recent weeks, including the flare-up on the world money market, have dissipated, and "the market advance will gain momentum and get much stronger."

"The consumer, who has been a drag on the economy the past two years, is beginning to show signs of life," Nabi said. But, he said, "more important is that home building is by far the brightest spot in the economy, and now is pulling the economy up."

Nabi said he believed home building would continue at a good pace for the next two or three years at least, given reasonably steady interest rates.

Corporate earnings will show a "decent" increase in the second quarter, which should at least match the 11 per cent gain of the first quarter.

For the holiday-shortened week, the NYSE common stock index registered a gain of 1.03 to 55.95. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index rose 1.67 to 101.30, while the Dow Jones industrial average moved ahead 14.24 to 922.15. Advances outscored declines, 1,162 to 496 among the 820 issues crossing the tape.

Volume aggregated 62,876,390 shares, down from 68,068,170 shares a week earlier, and also traded during the year ago period.

Helping substantiate the belief among some analysts that consumer spending is picking up were reports of higher car sales last month, and a federal reserve board report that outstanding consumer installment credit increased by a seasonal amount of $1.1 billion in April, the largest advance in almost two years. Economists have stated repeatedly that increased consumer spending is vital if the economy is to recover.

However, not all the economic news was encouraging. The government reported that the nation's businessmen are cutting back their expansion plans this year. It said corporations now plan to spend $1.8 billion on new plant and equipment this year, down from a planned $3.1 billion in an earlier survey.

Nixon Administration officials conceded the cutback in spending plans suggests that many businessmen doubt the economy will show sharp improvement this year. But they pointed out it also could mean that businessmen haven't seen enough of a pickup yet to justify broadening their spending plans.

Herbert G. Stein, a member of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, said the unemployment figures do not indicate the need for any major changes in economic policies. But he said "this subject of the state of the economy and its probable course is under constant review."

Stein said the administration has not changed its goal of reducing the jobless figure to 4.5 per cent by the middle of next year.

Point-plus gainers were spread throughout the list, but oils and rails were about the week's strongest features.

Viner & Co. was among the Wall Street analysts convinced that it will take longer than expected for the economy to move into a period of rapid growth. "It's moving in that direction," he observed, "but it's going to be a slow process."

The government reported wholesale prices went up four tenths of one per cent last month, indicating that inflation still is plaguing the economy. It also noted that unemployment moved up to 6.2 per cent in May from April's 6.1 per cent to equal a nine year high.

Oxford has one top team

OXFORD, England (UPI) — The cricket team had a woeful season, the tennis team did no better. The crew went down to humiliating defeat against its ancient rival, Cambridge.

But one Oxford sporting team is bringing glory to its alma mater on the field — or table — of battle. The wine tasting team.

Wine tasting a sport? You'd better believe it. At sniffing, sipping and, ultimately, spitting the wine, Oxford's team claims the finest taste buds in the Ivy League.

It is, said one red-nosed authority, "the fastest-growing sport in Oxford."

In addition to clobbering Cambridge, 381 to 210, the Oxford wine tasters have defeated five other university teams as well as tasting societies from Sussex and Kent. The Oxford squad is now in training for the season's finale in London against the Wine Merchants Association.

Wine tasting can be an exacting sport. Contestants must name the country of origin, area (bordeaux, burgundy, etc.) commune, vineyard, vintage, and, if they can, the actual name of each wine offered. A normal match involves the classification of ten wines, five white and five red.

Before actually sipping the wine, a seasoned taster holds the glass to a flame or a white card.

"In red wines, color is very important for deciding vintage," explained Sarah Stewart-Brown, Oxford team member and the only woman ever to taste in the Oxford-Cambridge match. "The wine becomes browner as it gets older."

After examining its color and testing its bouquet, a competitive wine taster sips slowly and rolls the wine in his mouth. The liquid is never swallowed, however, since this would gradually dull taste.

"You spit it out after each taste," Miss Stewart-Brown said. "One aims vaguely at great silver spittoons. No one gets drunk — at least not during the matches."

Strange catch

BROADSTONE, England (UPI) — Skipper Tony Pearce hooked a catch to beat any fisherman's story — a World War II rocket.

Pearce said he pulled up the eight-foot-long rocket, complete with warhead, when he hoisted anchor on his fishing boat.

"I knew what the thing was straight away," Pearce said. "I had seen them during the war. It was bloody scaring."

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD Drake stand in front of their home and new business, "Chalet Antique" at Shoshone. Among their merchandise are hand-painted pitcher, linage, from France; grape and cable fruit bowl of pattern glass made in the States, English china pitcher, from France; soapstone from China; sewing and music box table, all in inlay, from England, and cut glass vase from Canada.

New antique business opens in Shoshone

SHOSHONE — "The Chalet Antique", a new business has opened in Shoshone. It is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Drake, formerly of Moses Lake, Wash. The business is housed mostly in the basement of their home, the former Gary Kissler home, on the west edge of the city. Design of the house itself influenced the name of the business, as it is in the typical Chalet pattern. The antiques come from many places, including Seattle, Spokane, Canada, England, Germany and France. To say just which series of items they most prize would be difficult, the Drakes state, but they do point with considerable pride to their cut glass from Canada. It is much heavier and better than the late style cut glass. They have furniture, medium and small items, such as an English smoking cabinet in original fine finish, china cupboards, old-fashioned table and chairs, corner tables in ornate design, trunks, including an old automobile type that opens down in front. There are ivory items from China, also an ivory glove stretcher, novelty in itself, a pin cushion made in 1901. Amethyst vase showing unusual hand crafting of the post Civil War era. A Swedish telephone in use in the home now draws comment from all visitors and even got a bit of doubt as to its workability from the telephone service man who was called to do the installing.

Clocks of various types and shapes are heard chiming or striking at times in the house. They, too, are part of the business. There are lanterns, luggage, razors, jewelry of all sorts, music boxes in novel sizes and shapes and an Indian pine-needle basket that carries the pine scent. Mrs. Drake is the former Sally Kramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kramer, Gooding. Mr. Drake, too, is originally from Gooding. His mother is Mrs. Gus Drake, now living in Twin Falls. Prior to living in Moses Lake, the Drakes lived in Montana. He is a Korean War veteran and a war injury confined him to the Veteran's hospital in Spokane the better part of the past two years. He worked for Forest service and Bureau of Reclamation prior to his hospitalization. They have three teenage sons who have taken great interest in 4-H and this year are beginning a business of their own, that of selling "night-crawlers" to fishermen.

Artificial tree now available

NEW YORK (UPI)—Can you envision a gorgeous 30-foot shade tree that can't be damaged by the gypsy moth, never drops leaves to be raked up and is immune to the ravages of drought or freezing? Sam Spiegel can make one out of steel and plastics for you, if you're willing to pay for it. He doesn't recommend it as a substitute for a natural tree, but if the soil on your lot is poor and doesn't get enough water and sun, or if you just can't wait 20 years for a natural tree to grow, Spiegel, who heads American Technical Industries, Inc., of New York, may have the answer. His company is the largest maker of artificial Christmas trees and in the past three years has become a leader in the new plastic shrub manufacturing business. Americans spend $5 million a year on natural shrubbery and small trees bought from nurseries. Artificial shrub sales so far are only about $5 million ($12 to $50 per plant) and growing. "But it would be wrong," Spiegel said, "to say we are nibbling at the nurseries' market. We don't want to replace natural plants. We just want to fill up the bare spots where the natural plants won't grow or where air pollution damages them, like around a swimming pool where the chlorine from the water damages natural plants." The home market for the plastic shrubs is just getting off the ground. Nurseries, garden centers and department stores are just starting to stock them. Mail order sales have been best up to now because the color catalogs can depict them to advantage.

Cattle demand strong

BURLEY — All feeder cattle were in strong demand, with cows and calves still on the weak side in Thursday's Burley Livestock Commission Co. sale. The weak demand for cow-and-calf combinations forces splitting of the pairs, bringing $310 to $330 per head. A total of 1,064 cattle, 140 sheep and 561 hogs were sold. Fat hogs, 17.20-18.70; weaner pigs, 4.00-14.00; sows, 9.00-13.00; fat lambs, 27.00-29.80; feeder lambs, 26.00-28.40; breeder ewes, 11.00-16.00 per head; killer ewes, 4.00-6.20; feeder cows, 17.00-18.60; canner and cutter cows, 18.00-20.50; utility and commercial cows, 20.10-23.60; whiteface heifer cows, 22.00-25.10; whiteface feeder heifers, 28.10-30.20; common feeder heifers, 27.00-29.10; whiteface steer calves, 37.00-42.60; whiteface feeder steers, 32.50-35.80; common feeder steers, 29.90-31.60; light Holstein steer calves, 33.00-35.60; Holstein feeder steers, 26.50-27.80; Holstein milk cows and heifers, 35.00-41.00 per head; baby calves, 70.00-81.00; whiteface stock cows, 210.00-230.00; feeder bulls, 24.50-26.10; killer bulls, 26.00-27.80; light Holstein heifers, 34.00-41.00, and cows and calves, 280.00-310.00.

'Watering down' expected on bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House farm leaders are preparing to water down a key section of the Nixon administration's proposed new pesticide control bill. The pending move involves a proposal giving the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) power to classify pesticides into three groups: for unrestricted general use; for use only by, or under supervision of licensed applicators; by permit only. House sources said the House Agriculture Committee has directed its staff to prepare a new working draft of the pesticide bill including the "general use" and "restricted use" (by licensed applicators) categories—but leaving out the "permit only" category. Final committee decisions on the issue still lie ahead. But the plan to omit the permit section from the working draft was understood to reflect opposition to the idea among most committee members. EPA officials say the "permit only" classification had been designed to deal primarily with long-lived pesticides like DDT. Under the proposed system, officials said, such chemicals could be used in individual situations where they were urgently needed for insect control. But the new control system would prevent needless applications which could pollute the environment. "Under the EPA plan, a pesticide put in the permit only class could be used only with the written approval of a pest management consultant licensed by a state under standards approved by EPA. The consultant would have to give a written prescription for each application of a "permit only" pesticide. Critics, however, contend the system could be too cumbersome to be practical. Farmers facing the need for fast action against an insect pest could be tied up in red tape until heavy damage had been done, critics say. The EPA, meanwhile, apparently is planning to wait and see specifically how the house agriculture committee drafts the new bill before saying much more about the fate of the permit only plan. One EPA official, asked if the plan was regarded as a "vital" section of the bill, said it was important. But, he added, it may be that the committee can come up with "some other means that could be equally good."

Redistricting bill goes into effect

BOISE (UPI)—A redistricting measure and a provision for an open primary were among the six bills going into effect Sunday. All were passed by the first extraordinary session of the 41st legislature. The redistricting bill puts Elmore County and parts of Ada County in the Second District. The open primary will allow voters to pick the party candidates for elections. In the past candidates have been selected at state party conventions.

Tiny island wants tie with England

THE VALLEY, Anguilla (UPI)—Four years ago, the tiny Caribbean island of Anguilla made history by staging a revolution demanding colonial status instead of independence. Residents of this scrubby little atoll about 175 miles east of Puerto Rico, who without much ado seceded from St. Kitts and Nevis in July, 1967, when Britain gave the three-island federation semi-independence, now seem on the brink of attaining the direct tie with Britain they wanted all along. The fourth anniversary of the mini-revolution is Tuesday. Discovered by Columbus in 1493 and colonized by Britain in 1650, Anguilla's legal status has been an anomaly since it kicked the 17-man St. Kitts police contingent off the island and declared itself a republic governed committee-style by a 12-man council with a British commissioner "in full consultation and cooperation." Ronald Webster, the island's political leader, says things are better since the break with St. Kitts. "All we need now is a permanent political settlement, then everything else will follow." "Everything else" means telephones, industry, running water, and tourism—all the amenities of modern life to remove Anguilla from its Robinson Crusoe-like stage. The British are helping.

Chevrolet's Summer Sale on all Chevelles and Camaros.

Chevrolet's Summer Sale ends the end of June. It's a sale on every model of our mid-size Chevelle and sports-size Camaro. It's a simple sale to help you save money. Simply order your Chevelle or Camaro with four features we think you'd want anyhow. They are white stripe tires, the deluxe seat belts, a set of wheel covers and an AM-FM radio or any stereo equipment. (Stereo available only on Chevelle.) By buying the package, you start summer by getting a great deal on America's most popular mid-size car or the one the readers of Car and Driver magazine picked as 1971's Best Sporty Car—the Camaro. Which, you've got to admit, isn't a half bad start.

Impala. The big family car a family man can afford. Impala delivers you and your family more standard equipment than any other car at its price. Turbo Hydra-matic transmission with any V8 and power steering are now standard. And that's not all. It has built-in power front disc brakes, a built-in power ventilation system, a built-in double-panel roof that's stronger and does a better job of absorbing sound. It has built-in side-guard door beams, built-in steel cargo guard in the trunk and more built-in room than any other car in its field (so says Automotive Industries magazine). Not only is Impala traditionally America's No. 1 seller, it's traditionally high in holding its resale value. See the U.S.A. in comfort, and at reasonable prices.

Nova. Mechanics say it has the "least mechanical problems." Or how about a Nova? You know, a lot of people talk about how trouble-free and economical their cars are. But Motor Service and Service Station Management magazines asked garage owners and mechanics what they thought—which ones really have the least mechanical problems and are easiest to maintain. Nova came out on top, right at the very top. Nova is small enough to fit neatly into garages and tight parking spaces. Big enough to seat five in the coupe, six in the sedan. It's economical in city driving; yet hefty enough, with standard Six or V8 engine, to give you a solid ride on any highway. Remember, buckling your seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with.

Now, have a great summer. Chevrolet

Seed industry sets S.V. meet

SUN VALLEY — More than 200 representatives of the seed production and processing industry of Idaho and Oregon will convene here Thursday for the 27th annual convention of the Idaho-Eastern Oregon Seed Assn.

U.S. Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, will address the convention Saturday, final day of the three day meeting. He is scheduled to speak at 10:30 a.m. following a showing of "Miracle On the Land" a three dimensional showing on ecology.

Thursday will be devoted to registration at the lodge followed by a board of directors meeting at 5:15 p.m. A dinner is planned Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Duchin Room.

On Friday convention sessions open at 10 a.m. with a meeting featuring discussions of garden seed problems and new information. Bill Nylander is chairman of the garden seed section. At the same time a meeting will be held under chairmanship of Jess Blice on field seed matters.

Friday will also feature an informal luncheon for the delegates and their wives followed by a golf tournament for the women. The remainder of the afternoon will be devoted to sports activities and free time.

Friday night a no host cocktail hour will be held followed by a buffet supper and dancing.

On Saturday delegates will hold a general business meeting at 9:30 a.m. in the Opera House. Luncheons will be held for delegates and wives with a golf tournament in the afternoon for the men and other sports activities and free time for both men and women.

The president's reception will be held in the Redwood Room at 7 p.m. followed by a dinner featuring presentation of golf tournament and other sports awards. Dancing will follow in the Duchin Room.

Joe Fix, Twin Falls, is convention chairman and Don Stivers, Twin Falls, is public information chairman.

Don Simis, Gooding, is president of the Idaho-Eastern Oregon Seed Assn., and other officers include Chet Welch, Caldwell, first vice president; Ted Young, Boise, second vice president and Ronald Robinson, Moscow, secretary-treasurer.

Suburbs to stay shut off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's new policy on housing — segregation, to be announced next week after nearly a year in the making, will oppose racial discrimination as defined by law and the courts but will reject any breakthrough efforts to open the suburbs to the poor.

In steering clear of a suggested assault on economic rather than strictly racial barriers to improved housing for the needy, the President has once again taken the counsel of his trusted friend and political adviser, Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

The apparent loser in a Cabinet-level debate over the administration's official position on housing is George Romney, secretary of housing and urban development.

Unable to agree on a joint statement both could support, Mitchell and Romney submitted separate policy drafts from which the White House is writing the final version. It is expected to come much closer to Mitchell's narrow approach than to Romney's broader proposals.

Romney generally wanted the administration to help the poor, regardless of race, to gain entry to the kind of suburban housing that has been the traditional preserve of the middle class. He envisioned the government paying the difference between the cost of such housing and the amount a poor family could afford.

Mitchell argued the government should enforce the laws Congress has enacted but should not assume any responsibilities beyond them.

In siding with Mitchell's arguments, Nixon's new policy will emphasize enforcement of the 1968 Open Housing Act, which prohibits racial or religious discrimination in the sale or rental of homes and apartments.

The President tipped his hand at several news conferences in the past six months when he said there would be no "forced integration of the suburbs" and no government efforts to change "the economic pattern of a neighborhood."

Nixon made it clear in February that his administration would not subsidize efforts by the poor to move into well-to-do neighborhoods.

Mideast powers mark time

CAIRO (UPI) — The fourth anniversary of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war has come as parties to the conflict mark time on political developments.

A Foreign Ministry official said that "as yet no end to the dispute is in sight."

As far as the Egyptians are concerned, the ball is in the American court.

They feel Washington must make a positive move to persuade Israel to withdraw from occupied land so the Suez Canal may be reopened as a first step toward an overall settlement.

Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad recently outlined to the American representative in Cairo, Donald Bergus, the Egyptian attitude as defined by President Anwar Sadat in a speech to the national assembly. No moves are expected until the United States replies.

In an historic move last week, Egypt signed a 15-year friendship and cooperation treaty with the Soviet Union. The pact commits the Soviets to continued assistance of all kinds and assures them of a continuing role in the Arab world.

It is the first agreement of its kind that any Arab country has concluded with a Communist power. Some analysts predict it will be the forerunner of others, perhaps involving Syria and Iraq.

But Egypt has taken pains to give assurances that the treaty will not deflect it from its drive for peace and the pact spelled out Soviet Egyptian determination to pursue the quest.

Sadat's peace initiative still stands.

Egypt intends to continue its efforts for a settlement and, despite the pact, will continue them through the Americans.

"There is implicit recognition here that the United States holds the key to peace," one official said. "It depends on Washington."

Sadat's initiative to date has produced positive but not practical results. He got the United States to say that Israel should withdraw from practically all Arab territory occupied in 1967.

Automotive avalanche grows daily

By LOUIS CASSELES
UPI Senior Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here is a fact to ponder next time you're fighting your way home through a rush-hour traffic jam: By this time tomorrow, there'll be 8,000 more cars, trucks and buses on the road. Admittedly, that is not a cheerful thought to roll around in your mind as your car, bus or taxi inches forward. But it's a fact whose implications Americans sooner or later must face.

equipment, we are spending upwards of $15 billion a year for new highways and streets. This huge outlay enables us to pave the equivalent of 1 million acres of land each year. We now have one mile of road for every square mile of land. Look at it another way: Americans, who comprise only 6 per cent of the world's population, drive 53 per cent of all the passenger cars and 38 per cent of all the trucks and buses in the world. To get around, we need, or feel we need, an average of one motor vehicle for every two persons. The British and West Germans get along with one vehicle for every five persons, the Italians with one for every seven persons, and the Russians make do with one vehicle for every 50 citizens. If the quality of men's lives can be measured by the abundance of motor vehicles they possess, we Americans can lay undisputed claim to the world's highest standard of living. But is there, could there be, more to life than ceaselessly going and coming in rubber-tired conveyances propelled by monoxide-belching gasoline engines? If Americans don't begin to wrest seriously with that very basic question, they'll wake up one day to find it has been answered for them by default. Our cities increasingly are designed for the convenience of cars rather than people. The motor vehicle lobby already is so powerful that the nation's capital cannot obtain funds for a desperately needed subway system without throwing in a new network of freeways for autos. Obviously, no one in his right mind would propose a ban on production of motor vehicles. They play a vital part in our national life, and their manufacture and distribution is a major industry whose economic welfare is properly of concern to all. But to acknowledge these facts is not tantamount to saying that a large and continuing annual increase in the number of motor vehicles operating in America is necessary and desirable.

Former T.F. man to speak

BOISE — A former Twin Falls dentist, Dr. Arthur Alban, will speak during a convention of three dental associations in Boise June 19-23 at the Rodeway Inn. Dr. Alban, now a pedodontist in Lakewood, Calif., will be the featured speaker at the joint conference of the Idaho State Dental Association, the Idaho Society of Dentistry for Children and the Idaho State Dental Assistants' Association. Other speakers will include: Dr. Norman Korn, Minneapolis, Minn., a nationally known member of the dental profession, and Dr. Edgar S. Gordon, Madison, Wis., a consultant to the National Aeronautics and Space Agency and the National Institutes of Health. Dr. Gordon is also an active physician, a professor of medicine and chief of the metabolism and endocrinology division of the University of Wisconsin.

Complex affects Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some of its members fear Congress is suffering from an edifice complex. It started building its quarters in 1793 and hasn't finished. Since World War II the lawmakers have built a second (or new) Senate Office building ($26 million); a third (Rayburn) House office building ($90 million); an extension of the east front of the Capitol ($24 million); and two blocks of underground garages for the House ($13.5 million plus $3 million for land). The Senate is planning a $23 million underground garage of its own, and has in the back of its mind a third office building. Meantime, it has taken a small apartment building in its back yard, and connected it up with its office complex. The House is about to take over the Congressional Hotel, across the street from its oldest (Cannon) office building. A $45 million extension of the Capitol's west front was put on the backburner when an outside engineering firm crossed up the lawmakers and said it was nonsense that the old west front was about to fall down. But this project is simmering and at any time could be returned to a boil. (The new price tag, of course, will be higher.) Now Speaker Carl Albert is talking about a fourth House office building. Even the House Appropriation Committee, which funded all those other projects, was shocked at Albert's proposal. Albert asked the committee to halt a $90 million Library of Congress project and save the $5.8 million site for another office building for House members and their committees who need more space. Appropriations Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., said there wasn't enough support for Albert's proposal at the committee's closed session even to test it.

Sir Winston Churchill was buried in a small country churchyard in Bladon, 20 miles northwest of London.

Oswald: "Everything turns out fine. South loses the club finesse, but still scores game and rubber while East and West have had to sit back and watch South operate."

Jim: "Without weak two-bids South would pass. West would open one heart and East would take strong action. South might back in or might stay entirely out. Should he stay out West would make four hearts with an overtrick. Should he back in East and West would take the push to five hearts and the best North and South could do would be to sacrifice at five spades."

PASS IT ON

A FEMINE CLIENT is romping on me "It's your duty as a purveyor of public information," says she, "to explain the contamination in our ecology. Readers believe what they see in print. Just tell them, and they will stop infecting one another." Really think so? All right, consider kissing. Bacteriologists know the mouth is one of the least clean of the body's orifices. Kissing is terribly unsanitary. Just awful. Don't do it anymore. There, that ought to put a stop to it.

IT'S A SCIENTIFIC FACT that brown-eyed girls see better in the dark than do blue-eyed girls, did you know that? ... THE TRAGIC STATISTICS prove each month of each year the most dangerous day of your life is the first day after you're born ... WHEN A COUPLE'S income passes $10,000 a year, what the wife spends for clothes just about doubles. When it passes $15,000, her clothing costs just about double again. It's a matter of record.

OPEN QUESTION: Why is it even those Japanese who drink heavily almost never get hangovers?
IT'S NO NEWS to gardeners that what happens to a lot of seeds is they're eaten by birds, vermin, whatnot before they ever sprout. Now, though, some ingenious fellow has fixed that. He put seeds, perfectly spaced, in a roll of fancy tape. You dig a furrow, plant the unrolled tape, cover with dirt, and water appropriately. The tape dissolves, but not before the seeds take hold. Pretty handy. Understand these tape gardens are turning out half again as much celery, cucumbers, whatever.

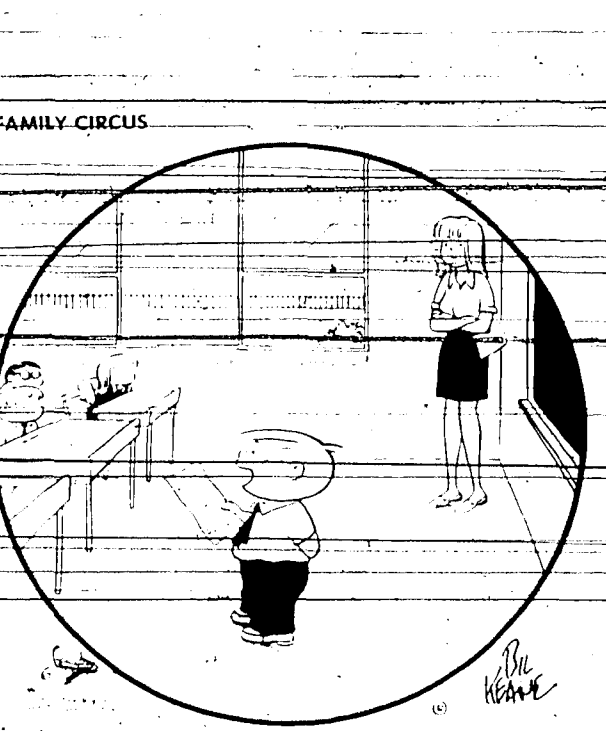

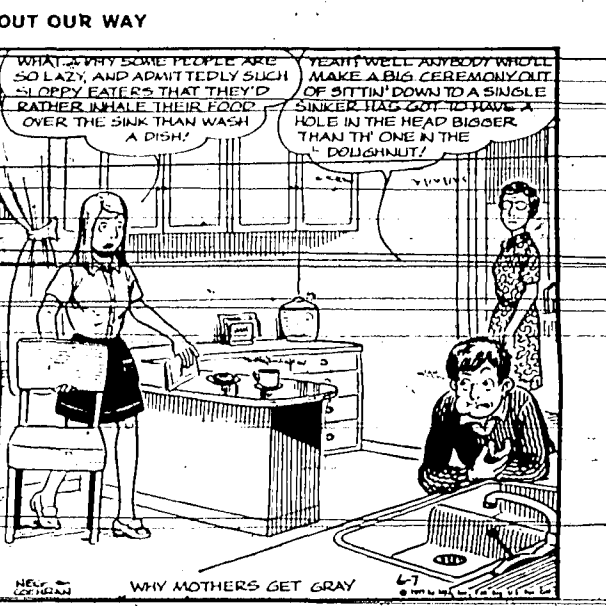

CUSTOMER SERVICE: Q "Is it true a starving man stops feeling hungry after a few days without food?" A That's fiction. Q "Did I understand you to say nobody ever suffered a nervous breakdown because of overwork?" A Such is the contention of numerous medicos.

OUR CHIEF PROGNOSTICATOR sadly predicts the return of knickers for stylish men this fall. With knee-length socks. And the old newsboy cap. Everybody up for the Charleston! ON THIS MATTER of clothing, might mention that while everybody's talking about hot pants, it's the denim blue jean that's really got the grip on the market now. Did I tell you the word denim came from DeNimes, that South of France town where the blue dye originated? ... ONE THING MORE, average age of those classy citizens in "Who's Who" today is 58.

A NEW YORK PSYCHIATRIST sends a lot of his customers into permanent residence at mental hospitals. As might be expected. Out of curiosity recently, he took a long look at his own records over 15 years. They show June is when the fewest of his patients seem to come unraveled. March is when the most appear to do so. He said he checked out this discovery with professional compatriots and found to his surprise the pattern was consistent.

Jim: "We have certainly had a wonderful response to the JACOBY MODERN weak two-bid. How about some more discussion on it?"
Oswald: "We use two clubs as our only forcing opening bid. The other suit two-bids show a six-card suit headed by at least two of the four top honors, 7-10 points in high cards and in general a 6-3-2-2 or 6-3-3-1 distribution."
Jim: "South's hand is a classic example of a weak two-bid. He has 9 high-card points; the right distribution and the right suit holding. North's jump to four spades is a gamble. He doesn't know if South can make it but he knows he won't be doubled and he is pretty sure that

Camas honor students

FAIRFIELD — Supt. Harold Stroud has released the honor roll for the second semester of 1971 for Camas County High School.

Senior Lucinda Osborne received all "A's" as did sophomore Bill Stroud. Those receiving "A's and B's" include seniors Shirley Gazzle, Toni Cox, Dick Bauscher and Randy Basucher. Juniors — Shane Sweet, Bevvy Kevan, Mark Johnson, Bruce Funk, David Coates and Becci Barron. Sophomores Lyndon Osborne, Kim Fields, Lynn Cox and Janet Cluer, and freshmen — Kathy Fields, Roxanne Gaskill, Brent Giesler, Clare Olson, Layne Osborne and Davis Wells.

Hope is watchword of medic

NEW YORK (UPI) — "We are involved here with every aspect of life and death and that's what medicine is all about."

The words are those of Dr. Denis R. Miller, a 37-year-old physician whose whole professional life is geared to chronically ill children, many of whom are facing death.

To talk with the doctor in his office at the New York Hospital complex is to find cheer and hope, not a dour and doomed outlook for a child who has one of the hundreds of diseases of the blood. It would be the fatal leukemia, the lifetime afflictions of disfiguring thalassemia (Cooley's anemia), sickle cell anemia or hemophilia.

Dr. Miller's one big watchword is hope; his whole staff operates on it. For instance, of leukemia, which 20 or 25 years ago was the quick killer, he says: "We don't laugh anymore when a physician tells us he had a patient, who lived 15 years."

Causes of leukemia still elude researchers but there's been much advance in treatment, especially in the development of drugs that do what Dr. Miller calls a "holding action," adding years in many cases to a child's life.

In the whole sphere of childhood blood diseases, the physician says he's "getting more and more encouraged with better diagnosis, better research ... maybe there's some light at the end of the tunnel."

Miller, married and the father of two small children, is director of the Children's Blood Foundation (CBF), a non-profit independent agency that functions as the Division of Pediatric Hematology at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

CBF is one of the few places in the world where treatment of the entire spectrum of the blood diseases of childhood is carried on simultaneously with research and teaching on these diseases. Its clinic serves also as a training center for pediatric hematologists from all over the world.

The Pulitzer Prizes are awarded by the trustees of Columbia University, New York City.

Ketchum-Sun Valley home tour slated

KETCHUM — The annual tour of homes, sponsored by the Ketchum-Sun Valley Community Library Association, will be held Aug. 14, states Mrs. Gary Rogers, chairman of the ways and means committee.

At the May board of directors meeting, Mrs. Rogers revealed tentative plans calling for a tour of some of the newest homes and condominium units in the area. The popular fund-raising event traditionally attracts large crowds from throughout southern Idaho.

A summer series of the Children's Story Hours will be held in July, Mrs. Louis Mallane, who conducts the preschool program, announces. Increasingly large attendance and enthusiastic response to the fall and spring series prompted the addition of this third series. Schedule and hours will be announced at a later date.

Mrs. Daniel Hart, librarian, reported new summer hours for the library are now in effect. They are Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 3 to 8 p.m.; Wednesday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon, and 1 to 6 p.m.; closed Sundays, Mondays and holidays. During the past month, 717 adult books, 828 juvenile books and 42 musical records were circulated. One hundred twenty-five books and 36 records were added to the collection.

Mrs. Hart expressed appreciation to the faculty of the Hentingway Grade School whose cooperation during the school year resulted in a successful "library use" program for the students.

The summer reading club program is set for July and August, she said. Named "Mission Possible Force," it is open to any "agent" from grades one through six. Assignments progress from five books for a private eye on through detective, secret agent, master detective to super sleuth, with a total reading of 30 books. Mrs. Hart recommended children register at the library for the program.

Helen's Record Shop has donated wooden shelves to be used in a section of the library for a paperback book exchange now in operation. Patrons can trade their own paperback books for a like number from the library collection.

MRS. ELIZABETH (Libby) Slindee holds the Governor's trophy presented to her by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus as second place winner in a state painting contest. She painted a watercolor portrait of an old man depicting a senior citizen for the National Conference on Aging contest. Mrs. Slindee has been painting watercolor since she was eight. The painting is presently hanging in the office of Sen. Frank Church.

Cook book publication scheduled

Book Review

PARIS (UPI)—The third member of that three-woman team who wrote a famous book on French cooking is back at the front burner again with a cook-book all her own.

The publication in the United States in 1961 of "Mastering the Art of French Cooking" was the work of Julia Child, an American, and Louise Bertholle and Simone Beck, both French-born. An immediate hit, the book may have done for French cuisine what spaghetti did for Italy.

Mrs. Child burst onto the U.S. television scene with a program to teach the masses how to cut truffles and blanch green beans and even got some of the credit for starting the wine-drinking trend in America. Mrs. Child, by now practically a household word in America, and Mrs. Beck last year published a sequel to "Mastering" but Mrs. Bertholle's name was missing from the cover.

By ROBERT R. BRUCE
Twin Falls Public Library
TWIN FALLS — Here is another important book by the author of the much-read and much-praised "Guns of August," Barbara Tuchman. Like its predecessor, this book is scholarly, meticulous in its research, and at the same time highly readable.

Unlike its predecessor, this has a very interesting central figure. General Stilwell was one of the most controversial figures produced by World War II. The American public long ago accepted the highly unfavorable opinion of him relentlessly broadcast by the unimpaired Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin and by a still widely read columnist. All the support and praise from President Roosevelt, General Marshall, and practically every person who worked with Stilwell was powerless against the "big lie" and the picture of "Vinegar Joe" pounded home by his enemies.

Mrs. Tuchman does not conceal the complexity of Stilwell's nature that created many problems for his associates. He centered his life on his family, but he could only stay with them a few months at a time. He ardently supported the cause of the "common" people but in American politics he was a rigid conservative. Socially, he could be the highly polished gentleman at home in the top circles of international society, or he could be an impossibly rude boor. He had the greatest patience with people who honestly tried to do their duty, and was bitterly impatient with and intolerant of phonies and self-servers. A difficult man, but a man dedicated to his country and the welfare of the men under his command.

Mrs. Tuchman coldly surveys the ignorance and incapacity of the American politicians who were, and probably still are, charged with the conduct of the United States' foreign affairs. She ruthlessly exposes the incapacity of Chiang Kai-shek. With the exception of Madame Sun Yat Sen, she is very cold toward the legends about the Soong sisters that have been popularly accepted.

Stilwell knew, and to a considerable extent understood, the Chinese, but he clearly recognized the impossibility for the Chinese to think like Westerners or to understand American motives. He never did understand the British and disliked most of them. This was unfortunate since he had to work closely with them. In turn, the British found Stilwell a complicated puzzle. Claire Chennault, commander of China's Air Force, fought Stilwell at every turn. In the background, the Japanese kept pounding away at the Chinese armies and the Communists kept up their campaign against Chiang Kai-shek. Innocent American diplomats had no chance.

The most important part of this book is the carefully developed story of how China and Japan had arrived at their respective positions. The author is not concerned with the people of these countries. She does not share John Toland's interest in the Japanese people and their reactions to war. She is concerned with major events and the reasons for them. Stilwell won Mrs. Tuchman's interest and respect. She does a fine piece of work in presenting the man and his achievements for re-evaluation. Her primary interest is in the great historical developments in her chosen countries.

Gen. Stilwell, the general who saw more active duty than any other of the war's commanders was present at the surrender ceremony on the Missouri and left a really acid comment on that event. His interest in China was still active, but he was not allowed to return to that country because of Chiang Kai-shek's hostility. He died just one year after the war's end.

A Lovelier You YOUTHFUL EYE DRESSING

By Mary Sue Miller

A Lovelier asks: Do you think false eyelashes are appropriate for a grandmother, even for a young one like me? My eyes look sort of unfinished. The upper lashes are very sparse and the lower lashes are non-existent.

I suppose nothing can be done for the lowers. But what advice have you about the upper tiers?

The Answer: By all means wear false eyelashes — two sets, upper and lower. These now come teamed for color, length and density. In order to avoid exaggeration, look for silky lashes of normal length and thickness. Either black or dark brown, depending on the shade of your eyebrows, makes a safe color choice.

An equally important requirement is an invisible backing or band — transparent and delicately knotted at long intervals. If possible have the expert behind the cosmetic counter show you how to apply your new lashes.

Be sure in any case to keep and read the instructions in the package until you become the expert at applications. When's that? Why, when you can attach lashes in a trice to look exactly as though you grew them. Then your eyes will look wide, wide open and filled with youthful allure.

Appropriate? Now really!

SHOSHONE — First meeting of the year for the Kooky Kookers and Sewing Suzies 4-H club will be at 7 p.m. June 14 at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Sturgeon, leader. Registration was held by Mrs. Jeannette B. Annett, home demonstration agent, earlier this week.

Be in top summer form

NEW YORK — If you want to be in top form this summer, at your physical and mental best, take yourself in hand now — and firm up, slim down and shape up!

And if the traditional idea of exercise turns you off, remember that exercise need not be the calisthenics that call for knee bends and toe touching. Choose a form of exercise you really enjoy and be sure you can fit it easily into your daily routine. The pleasurable options range from modern dancing, horseback riding and bowling to volleyball, swimming and tennis and bicycling, jogging and just plain walking.

No matter what your choice, be moderate, but resolute in your approach. Build up to exercise gradually. Walking can be a good start to get into proper condition. Map out some walking tours that will take you to interesting areas you've never explored on foot. Make up your mind to walk ten or twenty blocks every day instead of driving or taking the bus. Walk, don't ride, at every chance you get.

Joining your local gym class is another way to get into blue ribbon form. The exercise momentum will increase little by little and after a toning-up session you can reward yourself with a refreshing plunge in the pool.

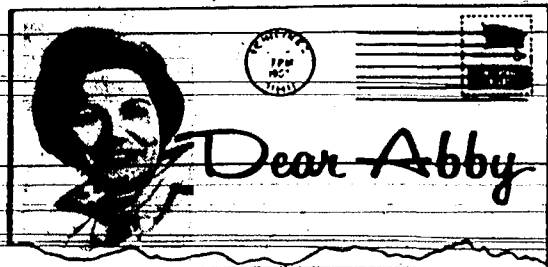

Bicycling has become a favorite sport for women concerned with keeping a slim, trim figure. Pedal pushing requires a lot of energy to keep going, but it has its payoff in health and beauty benefits. Experts recommend a smooth and steady pedaling, not the pedal-and-coast routine that will wear you out in no time. If you get tired, stop. Don't go too far the first times out, for the return trip looms ahead. And if some of those 600 muscles in your body begin to ache in protest to unaccustomed use, soothe them with two aspirin and a hot tub.

Tennis is increasingly popular with women — with more than three million amateur players at present — and it's splendid for running, jumping and stretching. Bowling is good for leg, arm and muscle coordination. Jogging is beneficial — and it has the approval of the American Medical Association and the American Heart Association. However, these groups caution you to be examined by your doctor before starting a jogging program. Running and swimming are both excellent conditioners. Whatever sport you pursue, keep in mind that exercising regularly, preferably everyday, is of prime importance. Don't try to cram your sports activities into a big weekend effort. Medical authorities agree that excessive concentrated activity on the weekend can set you down the path to coronaries at worst, seriously strained muscles at least.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter (I'll call her Cindy) has just graduated from high school, and for years she has been waiting until this summer to get her nose fixed. Everybody says Cindy would be a beautiful girl if it weren't for her nose, which has a large bump on it.

The other day Cindy's best friend was over and I heard the two of them talking. This friend, who is a natural beauty, was telling Cindy that the "natural" look was always best, and nobody liked "phony" people who tried to be something they weren't, so Cindy would be making a big mistake to get her nose fixed.

Later, I told Cindy I heard the conversation, and I tried my best to convince her that there was nothing "phony" about improving one's appearance. Cindy became very defensive about her nose and her friend, so I just gave up.

Now Cindy doesn't want to have her nose fixed. How should this be handled? CINDY'S MOM

DEAR MOM: Keep your nose out of it. What Cindy's friend is trying to accomplish is as plain as the nose on Cindy's face. And unless all Cindy's brains are in her nose, she will realize that her girl friend doesn't want any competition. And so far, the natural beauty is ahead — by a nose.

DEAR ABBY: This is something that has been bothering me for a long time. My daughter's boy friend came home on leave. They stopped to see me for an hour, then they and her sisters and her brothers and their wives went to a nice restaurant and had dinner. I wasn't invited along. I mentioned this to another daughter, and she said they didn't want "old" people along.

I'm not that old, and I have nice clothes and have my hair fixed. I don't expect to go along everywhere or too often, but I think I could be asked when it's only for dinner with my own children. I am a widow.

I had them all for Christmas dinner, and on New Year's they all went out to dinner and left me home.

Am I wrong for thinking I should be included in these family get-togethers? HURT FEELINGS

DEAR HURT: No. And now that one of your daughters knows how you feel I hope your feelings will never be hurt this way again. God bless.

DEAR ABBY: I heard a good one the other day and would like to share it with you: A hippie couple were walking down the street. They both had long hair and were dressed in typical hippie attire, complete with beads, sandals and Indian headbands.

The fellow said to the girl: "I'm going over and pick up my unemployment check. Then I'll drop in at the university to see what's holding up my check for my federal education grant. After that I'll pick up our food stamps. Meanwhile, you go over to the free clinic and check your tests, pick up my new glasses at the health center, then go to the welfare department and apply for another increase on our eligibility limit.

"Then I'll meet you at 5 o'clock at the federal building for the mass demonstration against the rotten Establishment."

DEAR OVER: Thanks for sharing. And now I'll share it with a couple million of my dearest friends.

DEAR ABBY: Tell your husband he has competition [ha, ha] because my three-year-old grandson just can't wait to find "DEAR ABBY" when the paper comes.

He just loves your picture. He can find it in a minute, and believe it or not, he can even read a little bit. Right now he's got the paper and just said, "read Dear Abby. Grandma. She's telling Grandpa he's a mess."

Sincerely yours,
MARGIE PUCKETT

Canal opening may deter war

By THOMAS CHEATHAM
 TEL AVIV (UPI) — The attempt to reopen the Suez Canal offers what Israeli officials consider the last chance to head off a war approaching or even surpassing the ferocity of the one that began June 5, four years ago.

Nothing else had borne fruit when the United States stepped in as a peace-broker willing to mediate a settlement, arousing not only the suspicions of Israel but also of the Soviet Union about its accompanying gesture to the Arab world.

And where does the move stand now?

For Israel, inveterate player of diplomatic tennis, "The ball is in Egypt's court," since Cairo has not yet formally replied to the Israeli plan as explained to Secretary of State William P. Rogers and relayed to Cairo by his aide, Joseph T. Sisco.

Israel's three main conditions: That any settlement include an unlimited cease-fire, that no Egyptian troops be allowed to cross the canal, that Israel not be bound to further pullbacks from the waterway.

The reaction in Cairo was to ask Washington in public to "squeeze and wring" Israel until it softens the demands. Egypt said it must have troops on the east bank, it cannot agree to an open-ended truce and that Israel must eventually withdraw completely from the occupied Sinai Peninsula.

Then come reports, unconfirmed, that Washington was hinting it might withhold more money and weapons from Israel, whose leaders said they would resist any such pressure and, if necessary, go it alone without Washington's help.

This is a nation willing to fight another war should the Egyptians refuse consideration of the Israeli stance, abandon

Big splash in bottled water sales

NEW YORK (UPI) — There was a day when only hypochondriacs and the snobbish regularly drank bottled water. No longer.

Booming sales in bottled water and filtration systems and gadgets prove that the American housewife is increasingly disturbed about the quality of the water running from her kitchen faucet.

If government reports are accurate, she has good reason. The Division of Water Hygiene of the new Environmental Protection Agency reported last August that 969 municipal water supplies in the U.S. had substandard ratings.

Such reports, coupled with the increasing din from ecology groups, have been money in the bank for 300 or so bottlers around the country who sell water at 39 to 42 cents per half gallon. Their sales have bubbled up a cool 60 per cent in three years, hitting the $80 million mark in 1970.

"Right now it's a $100 million business," said Raymond Zetell, an executive at Eagle Springs Water Co., a division of Foremost-McKesson and supplier of about 20 per cent of the bottled water sold in the U.S.

Blind Utah girl wins B.A. degree in French

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Leslie K. Hutchings graduated from the University of Utah with honors today with a B.A. degree in French, and that's not surprising.

Miss Hutchings, a 21-year-old senior from Bountiful, Utah, attended the university, on several academic scholarships.

Last week she was named to Phi Beta Kappa, America's oldest honorary scholastic society, which requires its liberal arts majors to have at least a 3.6 grade point average for their entire college careers.

Leslie also graduated seventh in her high school class of 400. What is surprising is that Leslie is totally blind.

Born with an inoperable eye condition she suffered deterioration of the retina, and as early as the fourth grade had to use large print books in school. At the end of the sixth grade she entered the Utah State School for the Blind.

For four years she prepared for inevitable total blindness, learning Braille and other skills she would need. She is now completely blind.

Leslie usually enrolled for a full class load of 16-18 credit hours each quarter at the University of Utah. She did most of her homework from tapes, records and Braille. She took class notes with a slate and stylus, and wrote papers with a six key Braille typewriter.

Her mother said studying is usually time consuming for a blind person, but they often learn faster because their memories are highly developed.

But Leslie said "My memory is no better than anybody else's. I just use it better."

Leslie usually put in about 40 hours per week studying and prefers to study with Braille books, which are difficult to buy, especially in French. Her mother and friends often read to her.

For an honors thesis, required for graduation, she analyzed Andre Gide's "La Symphonie Pastorale," a classic novel about a blind girl.

She wants to teach high school French and has applied to several of Utah's smaller school districts.

Easing her feet

STANDING ON stool with shoes off, Kate Webb, UPI correspondent, tells National Press Club luncheon in Washington, D.C., of experiences after she was taken prisoner in Cambodia in April. Miss Webb, held for 23 days, said her captors were highly disciplined, health conscious persons who paid great attention to decency. "They did give me special treatment," Miss Webb said of her time as a prisoner. She was the only woman among group of six. (UPI)

'Pattern' of baldness showing up in women

LONDON (UPI) — Women are beginning to develop a type of baldness which bears a resemblance to the so-called "pattern baldness" considered normal in mature men, according to Dr. Irwin I. Lubowe, who is Clinical Professor of Dermatology at New York Medical College.

Prof. Lubowe stopped off in London on his way to deliver one of the first reports on the condition at the symposium on the biopathology, disorders and treatment of the pilosebaceous system at Crans in Switzerland.

He said it was a far more serious condition than baldness in men because of the psychological effect of losing her hair on a woman—an effect far more dramatic than the fatalism with which most men accept the inevitable.

"Excessive hair fall and thinning of the hair in the female is no longer to be considered a cosmetic defect," Dr. Lubowe reported. "Serious medical complications may occur such as severe mental depression, neurosis and psychosis. These may result in alienation from her family and even attempts at suicide."

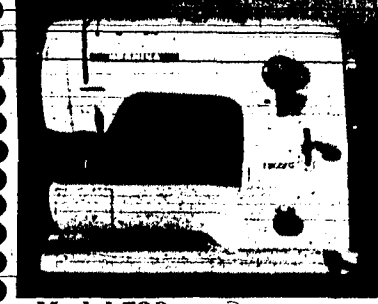

"In a woman excessive hair fall must be treated as a medical disorder."

Dickinson wins classic in sudden death playoff

ATLANTA (UPI)—Veteran win his third consecutive tournament. Dickinson won the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic on the first hole of a sudden death playoff Sunday when favored Jack Nicklaus missed a two-foot putt.

The 43-year-old Dickinson, who finished in the top 10 only once in his other 14 tournaments this year, made a par putt of his own from two feet out on the first hole to capture the $25,000 first prize.

Dickinson and Nicklaus, neighbors just outside Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., both shot 2-under-par 70s in Sunday's final round. Dickinson's regulation play tied at 13 under par 275.

That was one stroke better than South Africa's Gary Player, who had led until one hole before the end, and Lee Trevino. Nicklaus, Dickinson and Player were all tied at 12 under going into the 72nd hole of the tournament.

Nicklaus had a 20-foot putt for an eagle but came up inches short. Dickinson and Player were both in a trap in front of the green on their second shot to the par 5 hole.

Dickinson blasted out to just two feet from the cup and Player was only five feet away. But Player lipped the cup and had to settle for an even par 72 and a total of 276.

Dickinson rammed his putt home to force the playoff and he and Nicklaus immediately headed back to the first hole of the Atlanta Country Club course.

Nicklaus, who won $14,300 and has now won more than $146,000 this year, was trying to

Defending champion Tommy Aaron shot a 5-under-par 67 Sunday for a 10-under-par 278, three strokes higher than his winning score last year. That birdie at the second hole, lost the lead back when Player birdied No. 4, and then tied it up again at No. 8.

Nicklaus, Player and Dickinson were all tied at 12 under when the field made the nine-hole turn.

Player seemed en route to what would have been his third victory in 10 tournament appearances this year, when Dave Eichelberger, with a 70, stood alone at 280.

Nicklaus and Dickinson started the final round one stroke behind third-round leader Player. Nicklaus caught the muscular little South African with a

Whitworth wins at Carling

TOWSON, Md. (UPI)—Veteran Kathy Whitworth shot a two-under par 71 Sunday in the final round of the $25,000 Lady Carling Open to win her second consecutive LPGA tournament by six strokes with a nine-under-par total of 210.

Jane Blalock finished second with 216, followed by Margie Masters and Mary Mills tied at 217.

Miss Whitworth, who has yet to win the LPGA championship, coming up June 10-13 at Sutton, Mass., shot previous rounds of 71 and 68.

The LPGA tour's all-time leading money winner, Miss Whitworth previously won the Suzuki Internationale and the Raleigh Classic this season.

Five golfers tied for fourth place at 218. They were Carol Mann, Sally Little, Sandra Haynie, Jan Ferraris and Chako Higuchi of Japan.

Unser wins Rex Mays 150-miler

WEST ALLIS, Wis. (UPI)—Al Unser followed up his Indianapolis 500 victory last week by winning the 150-mile Rex Mays Classic Sunday with a record average speed of 114.858 miles per hour.

The victory was his fourth in five U.S. Auto Club speedway car races this year and gave him an almost insurmountable lead in the point standings with the USAC season barely underway.

Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., started the race in the fifth row after qualifying at 116.868 miles per hour while his older brother Bobby, also Albuquerque, had the pole position with a qualifying turn at 118.894 miles per hour—about 7 miles per hour off the record on the one-mile paved oval.

Al Unser finished just five seconds ahead of teammate Joe Leonard, San Jose, Calif. Leonard was driving the same type of car, a Colt-turbo charged Ford and had started the race in the front row next to Bobby Unser.

Billy Vukovich, Fresno, Calif., won third place in his Brabham turbo-charged Offenhauser and Wally Dallenbach, East Brunswick, N.J., took fourth before the crowd of 36,104 racing fans.

Dallenbach was driving a Kusma turbo-charged Ford.

The purse totaled $86,350.

Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., piloted his Scorpion turbo-charged Ford to fifth place.

Czech seed wins men's singles at French nets

PARIS (UPI)—Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia squashed a late comeback by Romanias Ilie Nastase Sunday to win the men's title at the $100,000 French open tennis championships for the second straight year.

Kodes, a 24-year-old economist student from Prague, beat Nastase, Romania's top ranked pro, 6-6, 6-2, 2-6, 7-5 in a tough battle between two masters of the clay court game.

Kodes, runner-up to Rod Laver in the Italian championships, displayed the talents and tenacity that made him the top seeded player in these championships. Nastase just could not match the Czechs tireless running and gifted anticipation.

The women's title went to Evonne Goolagong of Australia in her first visit to Paris. The 19-year-old part-aborigine girl from Sydney beat Australian Helen Gourlay, 8-3, 7-5, to win her first major title.

"I think I was more tired this year—but more happy," said Kodes as he stepped up to take his silver trophy once again.

Kodes had to fight for every point against Nastase, who earlier this year had beaten him in the final of the Nice Open in the south of France. The pair were locked 6-6 in the first set before Kodes won his service and then forced the Romanian to sed a backhand into the net on set point to take it 8-6.

Nastase showed little enthusiasm for the next set and quickly went down 2-6. But Nastase, who combines his pro tennis with an officer's career in the Romanian army, began a great comeback in the third set, breaking Kodes serve three times to win it 6-3.

He led 3-1 in the final set before the wiry little Czech broke back after a sensational rally on game point. Both men rushed the net simultaneously and Kodes dived full length with outstretched racket to save a volley and then sprung up out of nowhere to hit Nastase's return as the crowd of some 8,000 went wild.

Kodes won his serve at 5-5 to make Nastase serve to save the match. Two cross court volleys put the Czech at 30-30 after he failed to return service. Then his passing shot landed on the line, and the volatile Nastase argued angrily that it was out. He saved two match points before a scorching forehand by Kodes made his title safe for a second year.

Miss Goolagong, from Sydney, seeded third, earned $3,000 for her first major title victory in her very first visit to the French championships. Miss Gourlay, the 24-year-old Tasmanian, won $1,545.

Miss Goolagong playing with the intelligence that has brought her game to the front of the international pro circuit, took only an hour and 20 minutes on the red clay center court of Roland Garros Stadium to master Miss Gourlay.

On a cool, overcast day with the stadium only half filled, the Sydney girl broke Miss Gourlay's serve in the second game to go 2-0 up.

But the blonde Tasmanian, who never gave up and ran after every ball, came straight back to level it 2-2.

The vital game came in the eighth game. Miss Goolagong trailed 0-40 on Miss Gourlay's serve and it looked like the set would be tied up 1-1. But Miss Goolagong's great speed over the court pulled back the points one by one and she then clinched the break through with a superb backhand passing shot down the line. She held her service under pressure to take the first set 6-3.

Miss Gourlay, pinning Miss Goolagong to her backhand on the baseline, romped to a 4-1 lead in the second set before the Sydney teenager changed her tactics.

Gem coaches clinic set at Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY—The 1971 Idaho Coaches Association Clinic will be held Aug. 27 in Sun Valley, Dick Stickle, Boise, clinic chairman, announced Sunday.

The football session will be held Aug. 28 and the morning of Aug. 29. Speaking will be John Ralston, head football coach at Stanford University and two of his assistants, Mike White, offensive coach, and Bob Gambold, defensive coach.

Under the leadership of these three, Stanford scored an upset victory over Ohio State University in the Rose Bowl. This was Stanford's first Rose Bowl victory in 30 years.

The wrestling session will be Aug. 29. Speaking will be Mike Young, Boise State College, and member of the U.S. team to Russia, 1971. He was third place, 1970 U.S. National AAU champion.

Jack Gardner, former basketball coach at University of Utah, will speak during the basketball sessions, set for Aug. 28. Gardner is one of three coaches to take his squads to the final round of the NCAA Championships four times.

He has conducted basketball clinics throughout the U.S., Europe and the Orient.

Also speaking during the basketball session will be Charley Bills, Skyline High School in Idaho Falls.

Slow pitch meet set

TWIN FALLS—All slow pitch managers or team representatives are to meet at 6 p.m. today at Harmon Park Recreation Building, says Chad Browning, Twin Falls recreation director.

Browning said drawings for the city tournament will be held. Also those games rained out last Tuesday will be played today at 7 p.m.

Record set at sports car race

LEXINGTON, Ohio (UPI)—George Follmer of Arcadia, Calif., set a track record of 1:41 driving his Mustang to victory in the trans-American sedan championship race at mid-Ohio sports car course Sunday, his second straight trans-Am win.

Follmer, who started the race in the pole position, dropped to fifth place on the first lap as Mark Donohue starting in second position, quickly pushed his Ams-Javelin into the lead as rain drenched the track.

Donohue pulled a lead of over 30 seconds over the nearest car, Bob Tullius' 1964 Pontiac midway through the race, but as the rain stopped, he began to lose ground.

Follmer gained steadily on Donohue and passed him on the 57th lap to take the lead for good as he repeated his winning performance in the last Trans-Am race by Bryar, N.H.

Donohue, who dropped to fourth place after a pit stop on the 69th lap of the 75 lap contest, eventually finished second, 38 seconds behind Follmer.

Follmer's teammate Peter Gregg finished the race in third place to keep the Ford Mustang in the lead in the SCCA Trans-Am point standings.

Donohue's crew headed by car owner Roger Penske indicated after the race that the Javelin begin losing its brakes at about the 47th lap, apparently due to a master cylinder failure, forcing Donohue to slow his pace.

Two other Javelins entered and driven by Indianaplis 500 runner-up Peter Revson and Tony Adamowicz were running in the top five through the first 40 laps only to go out on the same 45th lap.

Revson blew an engine in qualification Saturday and had to start in last position, but another blown engine put him out Sunday.

Adamowicz lost his car on a turn and hit a guard rail.

Classic winner

VETERAN GOLFER Gardner Dickinson, Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., slams out of the 18th hole sand trap putting the ball two feet away from the hole and forcing leader and neighbor, Jack Nicklaus, into a sudden death playoff Sunday in Atlanta. Dickinson won the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic on the first hole of the playoff, when Nicklaus missed a two-foot putt. (UPI)

Canonero missed two days of training reason for loss

NEW YORK (UPI)—Canonero II's trainer blamed two days missed in training for his colt's defeat in the Belmont Stakes Saturday when unheralded Pass Catcher smashed dreams of a Triple Crown victory by winning the last of the classics.

Canonero, who had won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness impressively, finished fourth in the Belmont Stakes to become the sixth horse since Citation went all the way in 1948 to blow the triple crown after winning the first two legs. Jim French was second and Bold Reason was third with Canonero four and one-half lengths behind the winning Pass Catcher at the end of the leading mile and one-half race.

"He's still the best 3-year-old in the United States," insisted Juan Arias who said there were tears in his eyes when he saddled Canonero for the race.

"I knew what a difficult task was ahead of him. He was trained right to the line and I hoped against hope that nothing would go wrong in the race," Arias said, adding, "But there was no reserve and unfortunately Canonero was rank (difficult to handle) early in the race. When I saw that happen, when I saw him expending himself needlessly that early in the race, I knew he was in trouble. It was too much to ask," the trainer said sorrowfully.

A fungus growth was discovered in Canonero's right rear hoof nine days before the race. A Veterinarian cut it out, sealed the hoof and treated the infection. But two days of training were lost, including a scheduled 1 1/2 mile workout on Saturday, a week before the Belmont Stakes.

Arias believes Canonero picked up the disease, in Miami when the colt arrived in this country on April 20 and placed in quarantine shed for four days.

"The horse was unattended. The groom was not allowed in to take care of him," complained Arias.

Canonero's future remained in doubt. He will stay at Belmont Park for four or five days while owner Pedro Baptista studies the eight offers he has had for the colt, ranging from three to four million dollars.

Trainer Eddie Yowell, who now has won the Belmont Stakes twice in two tries, shipped Pass Catcher back to Monmouth Park early Sunday morning where that colt will rest for a few days before he and owner Peter Kiesel decided where and when Pass Catcher next will start. It probably will be either the Travers Stakes at Saratoga on Aug. 21 or the Monmouth Invitational Handicap on Aug. 29.

Yowell also won the Belmont

Stakes with Hall To All in 1965. It was the first victory for Kiesel who said after the race: "Canonero is a great thing for racing. I hated to break up a Triple Crown. But of course I was rooting for my own horse."

Not many in the record crowd of 81,036 helped Kiesel root, and even those who collected $71,000, $21,000 and $10,800 across the board did so quietly. The horse the people had adopted as their own had failed them.

Arias would like to stay with Canonero even if the colt is sold—but both will return to Venezuela. The trainer has a few other horses in Caracas and has an obligation to them.

Canonero was brought here on a six-month import license and must be reimported if he is to stay here permanently.

Baptista is seeking the best deal he can for his horse. He favors keeping him in the United States for he believes the colt will get the best chance in stud here when the better mares are available. But he wants to retain an interest in the horse, too, so that fellow Venezuelan horsemen can send their mares to him from South America.

Californian leads bowl tourney

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—Bowling in only his 10th event, burly Bob Hood, Daly City, Calif., clung to his lead Sunday afternoon in the $50,000 Bally's-Valsair Open Bowling Tournament.

Hood, a 24-year-old rookie, packed another 1300 pins onto his total and with the 18-game qualifying phase in the books, the lefthander showed 3976 to hold an advantage of 26 over another southpaw, Earl Anthony, Tacoma, Wash. Anthony who owns two Professional Bowlers Association titles—Hood is looking for his first—knocked down 1307 pins in the third six-game bloc to run his total to 3950, an average of just one pin less than the 220 posted by Hood.

Still another lefthander—Gary Madison of San Bernardino, Calif.—moved into a contending role for the $6,000 winner's purse when he registered 1264 and ran his total to 3884.

Rounding out the top five were Fred Riccilli, Westminster, Calif., and E.G. Mock, Lynwood, Calif.

The high 24 scorers from a starting field of 144 returned later Sunday night for the start of the match game finals.

There will be three eight-game blocks in all with the winner of each match receiving a 30-pin bonus.

A champion will be crowned Monday at the Wonderbowl here.

Don Carter, Tarzana, Calif., making his first PBA appearance in more than a year, came up with his first 200-plus average bloc in the third round but with only 3440 pins in 18 games wound up in 98th place.

Two T.F. drivers win climb

BUHL—Winners of the Banbury Hill Climb Sunday have been announced by the Magic Valley Sports Car Club. Rick Boriase, Twin Falls, in a Deserter GT won the dune buggy class.

Winner of the A Corvette class and best time of the day was Jerry Wilmos, Boise. Tim Wren, Boise, won the B Corvette class and Don Woods, Boise, in a Porsche, won the sports car class.

Chris Oswald, Boise, in a mini-Cooper won the A sedan class, while Ken Newman, Twin Falls, in a Chevy II, was the winner of the B sedan class.

In the women's class, Denise Lee, Boise, in a 427 Corvette, was first, and Jody Campbell, Boise, in a 350 Corvette, was second.

Tests passed

CHICAGO (UPI)—All of the Chicago Bears passed their first test in preparation for the 1971 pro football season Sunday, beating the permissible time limit of eight minutes in running the Halas mile.

The entire team, which attended a team meeting Saturday night, showed up to run the mile, named for owner and former coach George S. Halas under the supervision of coach Jim Dooley and his staff.

Padres win two

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Nate Colbert clubbed a grand slam home run in the fifth inning of the nightcap to give San Diego to an 8-4 win over Montreal after the Padres, with left-hander Dave Roberts spacing nine hits, trimmed the Expos 8-0 in the first game of a doubleheader Sunday.

The roundtripper for Colbert was his 11th of the season and the second grand slam of his career. It enabled San Diego to sweep its first doubleheader in seven tries this season.

Chicago 8, Tigers 2

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jay Johnson drove in three runs with a pair of home runs Sunday to back up rookie Tom Bradley's pitching in leading the Chicago White Sox to an 8-2 triumph over the Detroit Tigers in the first game of a doubleheader.

Bradley, picked up his sixth win against four losses and walked only one man. After giving up a leadoff homer to Dick McAuliffe, his seventh of the year, he settled down in out pitching four Detroit hurlers until lifted in the ninth.

The second game was postponed by rain in the top of the fourth inning with Detroit leading 2-0. Gates Brown led off the inning with his first homer of the year and then the downpour came. After a 35-minute delay, it was postponed. No new date was set. Joe Horlen of Chicago and Dean Chance of Detroit were working the game.

Angels 5, Bosox 2

BOSTON (UPI) — Winning pitcher Clyde Wright climaxed a two-run rally in the seventh inning with a run-scoring triple Sunday to lead the California Angels to a 5-2 victory over the slumping Boston Red Sox.

The Angels, who took two out of three from the Red Sox this weekend, were nursing a 2-1 lead in the seventh when Tony Gonzalez singled and went to second on an infield hit. He scored when Rico Petrocelli threw away Ken Berry's infield hit and Wright followed with his triple to the base of the centerfield wall that knocked out loser Sonny Siebert.

Reds 4, Cards 2

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Lee May slammed a three-run homer and Pete Rose chipped in with four straight hits Sunday to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Joe Gibson blanked the Cardinals in the final two innings to preserve 21-year old Don Gullett's sixth victory against two losses.

Gibson took over in the eighth after a walk to Gerry McNertney and a double by Ted Sizemore put Cardinals runners on second and third with one out and the Reds leading 4-1. McNertney scored on pinch hitter's Ted Simmons's sacrifice fly.

May's homer, his 11th of the season, came with Rose and Tommy Helms on base.

Cubs 6, Braves 3

ATLANTA (UPI) — Bill Hands pitched a seven-hitter and light-hitting Paul Popovich belted a two-run homer Sunday as the Chicago Cubs beat the Atlanta Braves, 6-3, despite the 609th homer of Hank Aaron's career.

Hands breezed to his sixth victory in 13 decisions and had difficulty only in the seventh when he had to pitch out of a two on, none out situation. Jim Nash was the loser.

Orioles 4, Brewers 3

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — A pair of towering 300-foot home runs by Frank Robinson and Ellie Hendricks' second homer of the year propelled Dave McNally and the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Sunday.

Robinson's homer — the first hit of Milwaukee starter Marty Pattin — came in the fourth inning and gave the Orioles a 1-0 lead. His second in the seventh inning tied the score at 2-2 and Hendricks immediately gave the Orioles their final lead with his 360-foot blast to right field.

Chicago 8, Tigers 2

A's 8, Senators 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It looked like a long season ahead for Oakland's Vida Blue after the Washington Senators beat him, 8-0, here on opening day back on April 5.

Although Blue had pitched a no-hitter and a one-hitter after being called up by the Athletics from Iowa in the American Association in the final month of the 1970 season, the Senators knocked him out in the third inning to win their first opener in eight years.

But the skies have been mostly blue for Blue since then. After the opening day loss, he ran up a string of 10 straight wins before losing to Boston. He then whipped New York to come back to Washington Sunday with an 11-2 record.

And revenge was sweet as he beat the Senators and their ace pitcher, Denny McLain, 8-1, for his 12th win, tops in the majors. He now has a 14-3 lifetime record in the majors and has never been beaten twice by the same club.

Giants, Phillies split twin bill

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Willie Mays hit his 15th homer of the year and 61st of his career with one out in the bottom of the 12th to give San Francisco a 4-3 victory over Philadelphia Sunday after Rick Wise pitched the Phillies to a three-hit, 1-0 triumph in the opener.

The split snapped a five-game losing streak for the Giants and left them eight games ahead of Los Angeles in the National League West.

The Phils carried a 3-1 lead into the ninth of the nightcap but the Giants tied it with two runs on a double by Mays and singles by Ken Henderson and Bobby Bonds.

Rich Robertson, the last of six pitchers the Giants used in the second game, gained the victory with two shutout relief innings as he evened his record at 2-2. Mays hit his homer off reliever Joe Hoerner who took over the 11th and suffered his second defeat in four decisions.

A double by Willie Montanez and a single by Ron Stone in the sixth needed the only run of the opener as wise gained his fifth victory in nine decisions. Steve Stone suffered the loss, his fourth compared to four victories.

Yankees 5, Royals 2

NEW YORK (UPI) — Exploding for their biggest inning of the season, a five-run third, the New York Yankee salvaged the final game of their series with the Kansas City Royals Sunday with a 5-2 victory.

The Yankee victory snapped the longest winning streak in the Royals' history at six games.

Luis Aparicio's 444 career stolen bases gave him a big edge over Bert Campaneris in the American League lifetime records among active players. Campaneris had 334 thefts, good for second place, while Tommy Harper's 246 put him third.

Dodgers drop Mets

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bill Russell, a last-minute replacement for the vanished Richie Allen, knocked in one run with a triple, scored another after doubling Sunday to pace the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-3 win over the New York Mets.

Allen was on the original lineup card, but manager Walt Alton couldn't find him when it was time for the Dodgers to take the field. So Russell, batting just .207, went in for him and promptly responded with three hits.

Later it was learned Allen had ducked into a hallway to talk to a friend during a preliminary oldtimers game. He could not be found and returned too late to start.

1950 Dodgers beat 1960s Dodgers 1-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Andy Pafo's two-out single scored a winded Duke Snider from second base in the fourth inning Sunday as the 1950s Dodgers beat the 1960s Dodgers 1-0 in an old-timers game.

In a prelude to the regular season, Pafo's hit sent Snider, who watched Manager Roy Campanella's Brooklyn stars best the younger Dodgers, who were coached by Casey Stengel.

The 50s team managed four hits, three in the last inning by Gil Hodges, George Shuba and Pafo. Fittingly, their first safety came off the bat of the Cookie Lavagetto, famous for breaking up a no-hitter in the 1947 world series.

Larry Burright and John Roseboro collected the only two hits for the 1960 Dodgers, who relied on such pitchers as Don Newcombe, Joe Black, Clem Labine, Sam Maglie and Carl Ersikine.

Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, and Johnny Podres were among the pitchers for the 60s team.

The country highlight came when a temporary screen, reminiscent of the wall when the Dodgers played at the Coliseum, was installed in left field for Wally Moon.

Moon gained fame by hitting pop fly homers over the 50-foot high screen, only 250 feet from the plate.

Hank gets diamond ring

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron's bat won him a diamond ring Sunday.

The Atlanta Braves presented him with a ring Sunday at a game commemorating his home runs, and the Braves gave away 10,000 baseballs autographed by Aaron.

The ring has six small diamonds, one for each hundred home runs he has hit, and a seventh in the center which represented the home runs he needs to reach the 714 lifetime total hit by Babe Ruth. Aaron now has 608 career homers.

The diamonds totaled 3 1/2 carats.

Murtaugh back as Pirates manager

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Danny Murtaugh, 10 pounds lighter but still wise-cracking every chance he gets, resumed managing the Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday.

The 35-year-old Irishman was in uniform for the first time since May 20, when he complained of chest pains just before the Pirates were to play a game in Cincinnati.

After weeks of intensive testing, doctors found no recurrence of Murtaugh's history of heart problems. Murtaugh was discharged from a hospital last Thursday, spent the past few days with his wife at the apartment here and will be with the Pirates when they leave Sunday night for a 10-game road trip.

Murtaugh was in the dugout before Sunday's game with the Houston Astros, chewing tobacco as usual. As the Pirates came by for pre-game practice they stopped to shake Murtaugh's hand and welcome him back.

"I was listening to the good you've been doing for us while I was out. Dock," Murtaugh said to Dock Ellis, the Pirate right-hander who pitched three strong games during the manager's absence.

"But you know what, the night you got a single with the bases loaded, I didn't hear it, because they interrupted the broadcast on account of the President was speaking."

Impishly, Murtaugh caught the eye of a nearby usher.

"Now don't be selling my tickets today," he said. "Because my wife is coming to the game."

The visitor asked if Murtaugh had heard from his old friend, Jimmie Dykes, during his hospitalization.

"Hell, no," Murtaugh said, "but you know, I don't know Dykes can't write."

Even while he was in a hospital undergoing a battery of tests, Murtaugh was up to his old tricks. One day he asked a nurse to get him a copy of one of the Pittsburgh newspapers.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks were slightly higher on moderate turnover as trading rounded mix-session Monday.

The Dow Jones industrial average was ahead 0.28 at 922.45. Advances led declines, 728 to 524, among the 1,568 issues crossing the tape.

Volume at 1 p.m. amounted to 8,890,000 shares, compared with 9,100,000 shares traded at a like period last Friday.

Sybron and United Brands were the day's trading features. The former traded an early block of 225,900 shares at 35 1/4, down 1 1/4, in a cross-transaction for institutional traders.

United Brands traded a block of 149,500 shares at 150, down 1/2, also crossed.

Also among the day's most active stocks were Continental Telephone off 1/8, Del Monte up 1/4, and Control Data 3/4 lower.

Less active Louisville & Nashville Railroad gained 2 1/2 (ex-dividend), while Corning Glass and Du Pont each rose a point or better. Among the soft spots, however, were Eastman Kodak down 1 1/4, IBM 4, Burroughs 3/4, Memorax 2, Walt Disney 2 1/4, and Bausch & Lomb 3.

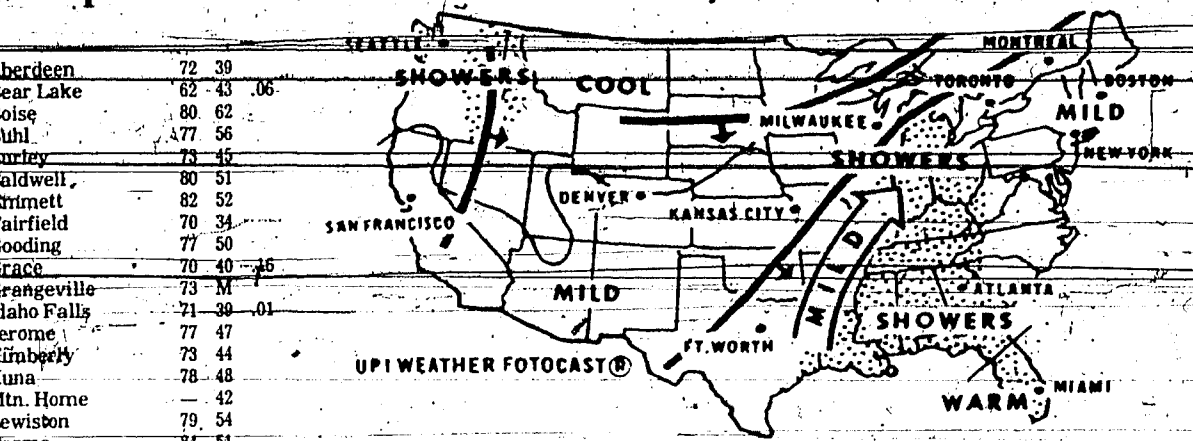

Steels and motors traded in narrowly irregular fashion.

Idaho Valley Weather Report

More showers

SHOWERS are expected along the northwest Pacific Coast and over the northern Rockies. Showers and thunderstorms are forecast from the Gulf Coast and Florida northward through the Ohio-Tennessee Valley to the Great Lakes. Temperatures will remain cool in the northwest and mild over the rest of the nation. (UPI)

Cloudy, windy with cooler temps

Twin Falls, Northside, Burley-Rupert area: Increasing clouds this evening becoming partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday. Increasing winds tonight and Tuesday. Highs cooling to 70s. Tuesday. Overnight lows 40s. Outlook for Wednesday, mostly fair with little temperature change. Probability of measurable precipitation 10 per cent tonight and tomorrow.

Camas Prairie, Hatley and lower Wood River Valley: Increasing clouds this evening. Mostly cloudy tonight then partial clearing Tuesday. Slight chance of showers tonight. Gusty winds tonight and Tuesday. Highs 60s-Tuesday. Overnight lows 35 to 45. Outlook for Wednesday, partly cloudy. Synopsis: A weak cold front located in eastern Oregon is expected to push slowly into Southern Idaho tonight and Tuesday. Little moisture will accompany the front but should be sufficient for increasing clouds in eastern sections tonight with a chance of a few showers over the central Idaho mountains, mainly near the Salmon River. Temperatures are expected to cool behind the front Tuesday and Wednesday with some gusty westerly winds tonight and Tuesday.

The extended outlook for Friday indicates mostly fair weather through the period as the next Pacific front system appears to be breaking up in the Gulf of Alaska.

Prison anniversary marred by mystery

ATTICA, N.Y. (UPI)—The Attica state correctional facility observed its 40th "birthday" June 1, faced with a mystery that may never be solved.

The mystery began on Good Friday, April 9, when Joseph Sullivan, 32, accomplished something no other prisoner had managed to do since Attica was opened in 1931. He escaped.

What bothers officials at the prison now is not that he escaped—he's back in custody now—but the question of how he did it. They won't say it outright, but they certainly hint at it: Somebody fooled.

Even Willie "The Actor" Sutton, the famous bank robber who spent 17 years in Attica, was unable to break out.

Sullivan, the son of a former New York City policeman, was

When Sullivan was reported missing from a storehouse work detail on the afternoon of April 9, authorities assumed he was hiding somewhere inside the facility. They argued for a time he couldn't have escaped.

After an intensive five-day search of the prison grounds, Superintendent Vincent R. Mancusi finally admitted that Sullivan "may have" escaped.

When Sullivan was reported missing from a storehouse work detail on the afternoon of April 9, authorities assumed he was hiding somewhere inside the facility. They argued for a time he couldn't have escaped.

After an intensive five-day search of the prison grounds, Superintendent Vincent R. Mancusi finally admitted that Sullivan "may have" escaped.

"I have ideas how he got out, but it's only speculation on my part," Mancusi said later.

On May 12 the state Court of Appeals dismissed an appeal by Sullivan on the grounds that he was not available to obey a decision. His attorneys claimed their client was killed in prison.

Some of the questions were answered the morning of May 18 when Sullivan was arrested in New York City on a Greenwich Village street corner by a team of parole officers.

How did Sullivan manage to escape the confines of Attica? If someone aided him in the escape, who? and why?

"He won't say," said John McCarthy, head of the Correction Department team that recaptured Sullivan.

TV action series adds 3rd beauty

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—It is a beautiful, well-rounded school of actresses. Moreover she is notwithstanding, that if you're a feminine lead in a series and not beautiful then you'd better be a very funny lady.

Movies have abandoned the beautiful, shapely female for the most part in the mistaken belief an actress cannot be talented and extraordinarily pretty at one and the same time.

A beautiful, non-funny, addition to television this fall will be Lynda Day George, seen briefly this year in "The Silent Force", as a regular member of the "Mission: Impossible" cast.

She is the third beauty to grace the show.

Her predecessors were Barbara Bain and Leslie Warren. Lynda is an exponent of the beautiful, well-rounded school of actresses. Moreover she is aware that if she'd been born homely the chances of her joining the CBS series would be nil.

"What good does being pretty or having a good figure do a girl if it's not put to good use? I know I'm not the most beautiful girl in the world. Far from it. But too many girls, especially actresses, aren't making an asset of their natural appearance."

"Mission: Impossible" will not restrict Lynda's role to scenic background.

She will play a cosmetologist, specializing in "disguises" and make-up for the undercover espionage group comprised of Peter Graves, Greg Morris and Peter Lupus.
