Right to publish documents upheld

NEW YORK (UPI)—A federal court judge Saturday upheld the New York Times' right to publish secret U.S. documents on the Vietnam War obtained without permission from the Pentagon, but continued to restrain the newspaper from doing so until a higher court can rule on the case.

The decision by U.S. District Court Judge Murray I. Gurfein said the free flow of information was guaranteed by the Constitution "so that the public will be informed, about the government and its actions." Those in authority, he said, must suffer a "cantankerous press" whose existence helps preserve freedom of expression and the right of the people to know.

The U.S. Department of Justice, which last Tuesday won a temporary order prohibiting the Times from further disclosures of the study on how the United States got involved in Indochina, appealed Gurfein's decision to the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, whose three judges will hear the case at noon Monday.

That meant the soonest the Times would be able to continue publication of the controversial study would be in Tuesday morning newspapers, provided an appeals decision went its way.

The government has claimed that making the study public would cause "irreparable injury" to the United States.

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of the Times, said Gurfein's opinion "reaffirms the basic principles on which a free press must be based. This reaffirmation is what the Times sought in the court proceeding, and we are heartened that the great constitutional issues involved have been faced and resolved in favor of the citizens' right to know."

Judge Irving R. Kaufman of the 2nd Circuit said the restraining order against further publication of the study by the Times would remain in effect until his court hears the case Monday.

The Washington Post, similarly restrained Saturday morning by a U.S. Appeals Court, also goes to court Monday in an effort to continue publication of disclosures from the same report.

New Gem park rite conducted

By CHARLOTTE BELL Times-News Writer

GLENN'S FERRY — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus provided an "explanation" of recent fund cuts for the state park system during the dedication of the Three Island State Park near Glens Ferry on Saturday.

"We find ourselves in this particular year short of funds and in a financial crunch," Gov. Andrus said. "At the state level we had to determine priorities, living priorities versus some of the priorities that are of a physical nature such as we have here today."

"So, if your parks department is short of funds this year, it's not the fault of your parks board nor of any member of government. It's just simply because the funds were not available. He went on to say that "We will see that it will improve," referring to the funding dilemma facing state government.

"But in the meantime, we ask that you help us by participating positively in the creation of this park, the maintenance of this park, and the understanding that like anyone else when we find ourselves in a financial crunch we have to tighten our belts.

"But this is the newest of our state parks," Gov. Andrus said, "one that will grow with the green trees and green grass that will forever preserve and forever serve to remind people that this is where our forefathers crossed the Snake River."

"The island crossing that really brings about the name for our state park here today is a historical geographic location for the entire world. Some of you may be aware that there was an attempt made on my part, Frank Clark's part, and the part of many of the people of this area of the state to have a commemorative stamp proposal accepted by the federal government. To date we have been unsuccessful, but we will keep trying to bring about this stamp to commemorate this site," Gov. Andrus said.

O. A. (Gus) Kelker, Twin Falls, master of ceremonies for the occasion, commented that "It was just about 1811 that the first white man came to this area — members of the Wilson-Hunt expedition. The next year it was Robert Stuart. Together these men traveled what later became the old Oregon Trail. With the gold discovery in California, those who wanted money went to California; those who wanted a farm and a nice way of living came through Idaho into Oregon."

Kelker continued, "You are standing on a meadow right now that these pioneers used to get their wagon trains back together after they had crossed the Snake River at this point. On the Three Island Crossing, only two of the islands were ever used. The wagons came down off the hill with their wheels tied so they wouldn't gain too much speed, overrun the horses and plunge into the river."

Senator lauds new Idaho park

GLENN'S FERRY — In a personal message delivered by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, termed the dedication of the Three Island State Park an event of double significance.

Sen. Church said "Today's events have double significance. First, it makes the opening of the latest link in the growing chain of Idaho state parks, which are of great importance to our state. I'm pleased to see them grow in number, providing new recreational opportunities to both Idahoans and the growing number of visitors from other states.

"Secondly, this dedication commemorates a spot of great historical importance to our people. Year by year we become farther removed in time from our pioneer ancestry. As we do, I think it is important that we take time and effort to celebrate our history in ways that recall it for the present and the future.

"This park is one way of accomplishing that goal," Sen. Church concluded.

Gooding opens building

GOODING — The new Gooding County Court House was dedicated Friday in ceremonies attended by about 275 people with the notation that the county lost one distinction and gained another with the fire that destroyed the old court house.

Andrew James, Gooding County prosecuting attorney, said for many years Gooding County was the only Idaho county not to own its court house. The new facility is the only one of its kind in Idaho to be constructed without a bond issue, James said.

Financing for the new structure involved funds from insurance on the old building, destroyed by a fire in February, 1968; county reserve funds and federal contributions for construction of court and jail facilities.

Construction of the new court house began in 1970, with county departments moving into their new offices this past January. The dedication was attended by all five justices of the Idaho Supreme Court, with Justice Joseph McFadden as the featured speaker. Other guests included Bert Bowler, Gooding County's first clerk-auditor; Clark Hand and Richard Burns of the Idaho State Police; Jerry Renfro, an early-day county commissioner; Clyde Peterson, a former commissioner, and Sybil Stephens, a former clerk-auditor of Gooding County.

Salyut extends record

MOSCOW (UPI) — Three Soviet cosmonauts aboard the Salyut orbital station broke the U.S. spaceflight endurance record early Sunday and flew on toward overtaking the world record set by the Soyuz 9 cosmonauts last year.

At 2:30 a.m. Moscow time the Salyut cosmonauts had been in space a total of 13 days, 18 hours and 35 minutes, equaling the 1965 flight of Gemini 7. The Gemini 7 record had stood until June, 1970, when Soviet spacemen Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastianov spent nearly 18 days in space aboard Soyuz 9.

Scientific observers said there is every reason to believe the Salyut crew will establish a new record by staying aloft for least four more days.

A major reason for the Salyut flight was to test new methods of overcoming the ill-effects of weightlessness. Scientific Soyuz 9 so doctors can compare the two.

The Salyut crew demonstrated bubbling good spirits when one of them, Viktor Patsuyev, celebrated his 38th birthday Saturday. His colleagues gave him an onion as a present, but there were no vodka toasts — the first manned orbital station is dry.

Diversion endorsed

By JERRY HERRMANN Times-News Writer

BURLEY — Diversion of one cent of gasoline tax from the state highway funds was a significant step forward, Sen. Wayne Kidwell, R-Boise, said Saturday.

He told officials attending the Association of Idaho Cities Convention that he does not believe this action has hurt the Idaho Highway Department, as Gov. Cecil D. Andrus claimed Friday in addressing the same organization.

"I feel the amount of revenue being received by the highway department from the gasoline tax is more than had been anticipated," he said.

In fact, he said, the amount of revenue earned from the gasoline taxes is more than the state brings in from the sales tax.

on radio equipment than any other department," Sen. Kidwell said.

"Maybe it is time that the legislature takes a good look into the highway commission and the way the department is run," he said.

"During the last session of the legislature, I felt that the biggest crisis was in the condition of the streets in the cities. And I still feel this way," he said.

"With all the variables that were present during the last session, this was the best possible piece of legislation we could have passed. And I disagree with Gov. Andrus when he says this was detrimental legislation."

Sen. Kidwell also outlined some of the changes made in the probate code with the passage of the Uniform Probate Code. This code goes into effect Jan. 1, 1972. In it the informal probate has been streamlined.

Reds batter DMZ

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist gunners pounded a string of South Vietnamese bases near the Demilitarized Zone Saturday with rockets and mortars, including big Soviet-made 240mm rockets. But the Communists failed to disrupt a massive Armed Forces Day parade through Saigon.

Cambodian troops on the offensive in marshland near Phnom Penh clashed with Communist forces Saturday in the 19th day of heavy fighting for the swampy area east of the capital.

Wheeler heads AIC

BURLEY — Ralph Wheeler, American Falls, was elected president of the Association of Idaho Cities for 1971-72 here Saturday.

Other officers elected were Garis Robertson, Burley, first vice president; and Larry Merk, Moscow, second vice president.

Directors elected were: Harold Sims, District 1; Ron Jones, District 2; Richard Eardley, Boise, District 3; George MacDonald, Rupert, District 4; Henry Shirley, Rexburg, District 5; and Bill Ruskelly, Pocatello, District 6.

Feared lost

SALMON (UPI) — The body of Gary McGuire, 26, Mountain Home Air Force Base and a 1963 graduate of Twin Falls High School, is lost and believed drowned in a boating accident on the Salmon River Saturday. Lemhi County Sheriff William Baker said McGuire, his wife Suzanne and a friend, Bill Maxwell, 26, Salmon, were on a boat outing when their craft apparently struck a bridge pier four miles south of Salmon and overturned. Mrs. McGuire and Maxwell swam to shore. Rescue workers were searching the river late Saturday night.

Andrus visits

GOV. CECIL ANDRUS embraces two Indian children during the Three Island Park dedication Saturday, unaware at the time that the girl, about six years old, had broken out with chicken pox that morning. Times-News writer Charlotte Bell had the boy pose with Andrus, on the governor's request, but the girl cried because she wasn't asked. When Andrus invited her to join her brother, their father told him of the chicken pox. Andrus grinned, said he had been humiliated and wasn't afraid. (Times-News photo by Charlotte Bell)

Collisions injure 3 persons in T.F. area

TWIN FALLS — Three persons sustained apparently minor injuries in two widely separated traffic accidents Saturday in the Twin Falls area, according to city police and the sheriff's office.

Citations charging failure to yield the right-of-way were issued to one driver in each accident, officers said.

The Twin Falls County Sheriff's Office investigated a two-car collision two miles south of the city on Blue Lakes Boulevard South Saturday morning, involving cars driven by Mildred Tucker Blewitt, 58, and Robert Glen Evans, 79, both of Twin Falls.

A report said Evans, traveling south, turned left into the path of Mrs. Blewitt, who was traveling north.

Both were taken to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, where Mrs. Blewitt was listed in good conditions and Evans was said to be in fair condition later Saturday.

Evans was cited for failure to yield the fight of way.

A skinned knee resulted from a two-car collision Saturday at the intersection of Eighth Avenue East and Second Street East, involving cars driven by Dennis Keith Roan, 16, and Maxine Francis Bowen, 40, both of Twin Falls.

Linda Bowen, 14, a passenger in the car driven by her mother, was treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and released after treatment for a skinned knee.

Roan was cited by city police.

Grant set

TWIN FALLS — The South-Central Community Action Agency has been awarded a $21,035 grant for the Head Start program in the three counties covered by the CAA, according to Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho.

Rep. Hansen said the grant from the Office of Child Development will enable the CAA to continue its Head Start programs in Cassia, Jerome and Twin Falls Counties.

Student aid grant to CSI

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho has been awarded a $6,912 grant from the Bureau of Higher Education to provide work-study funds for six students residing in American Samoa and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Island who will attend CSI this fall.

Rep. Orval Hansen said the federal grant will provide 80 percent of the payroll for the students, under terms of the federally sponsored work-study program, with CSI paying the remainder.

The grant is in sharp contrast to recent federal action which trimmed the work-study allocations for all colleges and universities. As a result, CSI has had to lay off three-quarters of its work-study students and reduce the number of hours worked each week for the remainder.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet scholars have begun compiling a 10-volume history of the World War II that will be the definitive Soviet account and counter "distortions" made by the West.

"Historians in the bourgeois West distort the nature of the war, the reasons for it, and the contributions made to victory over the fascist bloc by various countries and peoples," the Tass news agency said Thursday in announcing the plan.

W. Hayes
SHOSHONE — W. Lindsay Hayes, 53, son of Mrs. Denina Rodeback, Shoshone, died at 1 a.m. Friday at the Veteran's Hospital, Spokane, Wash.

Though in ill health for many years, he had made a trip to southern Idaho and became ill en route to his home at Coeur d'Alene, and entered the hospital. June 14. He was scheduled to go on a dialysis machine this summer for treatment of a kidney ailment. He lived in Shoshone for a short time a few years ago.

He was born June 2, 1918, at Georgetown, Idaho, where he was reared and graduated from high school. He attended Idaho State University, Pocatello, and later became a watchmaker.

He was married to Jennie Ellingford on Oct. 17, 1940, at Logan, Utah. They were later divorced.

He was later married at Pocatello in 1958, and Mrs. Hayes had lived in Coeur d'Alene for about 10 years.

He has worked as a parts man for Mendenhall's at Pocatello, operated a cafe in Montpelier, and was proprietor of a garage and service station in Coeur d'Alene before his retirement due to ill health.

Mr. Hayes was a member of the LDS Church and was a leader in the Veteran's of Foreign Wars, having received many honors for his military and FWV services. Last summer he was named the All-American Commander of the VFW and along with other prizes, received a round-trip to Miami, Fla., the national convention site.

He was named captain for the All-State of Idaho Team Post Commander for 1970, also, was special staff officer of the state convention and had served as commander of the Coeur d'Alene post for two years, during which time he saw the membership increase to a total of 735.

In World War II, he was with the Army's 776 Tank Battalion, serving in major conflicts of the European theater of World War II. He received the purple heart and other merits of recognition. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Alfreda Hayes, Coeur d'Alene; two daughters, Mrs. K.D. Nungesser, Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Dennis (Dahl) Wheeler, Pittsburg, Calif.; his mother, Mrs. Denina Rodeback, Shoshone; a brother, Edgar M. Hayes, Bountiful, Utah; two sisters, Mrs. Glenyce Kelsey, Bountiful, Utah, and Mrs. Harrell (Melba) Thorne, Shoshone, three step-daughters, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services and interment will be at Coeur d'Alene Tuesday afternoon.

M. Willis
RUPERT — Maurice Edgar Willis, 86, died Friday at Minidoka Memorial Hospital of natural causes.

He was born Oct. 5, 1884, in Kirksville, Mo., and was married to Polly Nesbit there in 1906. She died in Rupert in 1927.

On April 26, 1933, he married Alma Gladys Ballard here.

Mr. Willis came to Rupert in 1907 from Kirksville and homesteaded a farm south of town. He lived there until the last few years which he spent in California. He belonged to the Rupert Masonic Lodge No. 65, Order of Eastern Star, Rupert, Chapter 39. He was a longtime Sunday school teacher at the Rupert Methodist church where he was a member. He was member and past master of the Rupert Grange.

Survivors include his widow, Rupert; one son, Galen Willis, Seattle; one sister, Mrs. Gertrude Young, Caldwell, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Walk Mortuary chapel by Rev. Fred L. Pickett. Masonic rites will be held in the Rupert Cemetery.

Pledge aid

BERLIN (UPI)—The East German Communist party ended its five-day convention Saturday with a pledge to help put down any counterrevolution in Eastern Europe.

Two thousand delegates to the convention in East Berlin's Werner Seelenbinder Hall unanimously approved a resolution calling for vigilance against all Czechoslovak-like attempts to undermine Communist rule.

The resolution also promised the people of Indochina support in their fight against "American aggression," expressed determination to cooperate more closely with the Arab states and condemned Communist China for pursuing an anti-Soviet policy.

Home for alcoholics planned in Twin Falls

By LORAYNE SMITH
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — A treatment center for alcoholics in Magic Valley may soon become a reality, thanks to a former Twin Falls man who heads a successful rehabilitation program in Oxnard, Calif.

Ed Talbot, former businessman here, has been in Twin Falls the past week meeting with judges, ministers, parole and law enforcement officers, all of whom are acutely aware of the need for some place other than the police station "drunk tank" for "drying out" of alcoholics.

Bruce Glandon, Twin Falls, is temporary chairman of the board of directors already formed from representative professional and business people, and the group is seeking an older house to rent.

More information, outlining the need for such facilities, will be given at a no-host dinner meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at the Holiday Inn. Glandon said anyone interested is asked to attend. Reservations should be made with Talbot at the Holiday Inn.

The advisory board of the planned home includes state legislators, attorneys, doctors, college personnel, county and city commissioners and is representative of the entire eight-county area in Magic Valley, Glandon said.

L. James Koutnik, Twin Falls, will serve as master of ceremonies at the Monday night meeting, and judges and a probation officer from Idaho Falls associated with a successful treatment center there will be among the speakers.

Talbot, who originally planned only to visit relatives in Twin Falls, says there are an estimated 3,000 alcoholics in Magic Valley.

Last year, the Twin Falls City police handled 274 arrests for drunkenness and recorded 79 drunk driving cases in the city alone.

Talbot, himself a member of Alcoholics Anonymous, declares, "We are still in the 16th century when it comes to treating persons suffering from the disease of alcoholism."

As an example he cited a man who spent four days recently in the Twin Falls City jail, unable physically to get to court or think of obtaining legal help and without money to get the medical attention he needed.

department can be expected to act as a hospital or provide medical treatment.

These people are sick, Talbot says, and need medical care, as well as help with their personal and economic problems. This is the philosophy which he credits for the success of Oxnard 12th Step House, Inc., now in its ninth year.

Talbot and his wife, who works closely with him, hope the Twin Falls operation can be patterned after the Oxnard facilities which now include Norman and Cooper Manor, a licensed hospital for medical treatment, and four live-in facilities totaling 70 beds.

"We started on $75 and a prayer," Talbot recalls. Entirely non-governmental as well as non-profit, the Oxnard 12th Step House is supported by charitable donations, fees charged the patients and manages to a great degree because of dedicated staffers who are not out to make money.

Of the 25 member staff, 23 are recovered alcoholics and probably the most convincing proof of the success of the institution is that 18 of them have been through the home as patients.

The staff borrows freely from the philosophy of AA, Talbot says, and they try to create a desire on the part of the applicant to want to help himself, recognized as the vital prerequisite of any cure for any type of addiction.

While money is necessary for such a home to function, Talbot and Glandon both stress, the important thing is for the staffers to have empathy for those coming for treatment.

Several lay persons associated with the planned Twin Falls home will go to Oxnard for training, Talbot said.

The Oxnard home contracts with government agencies, such as the public health department and works closely with mental health personnel, courts, law enforcement and schools in the area if serves.

Talbot lectures in five high schools and also has lectured at UCLA. His message to all groups is simple: the alcoholic is sick. He should be given medical attention, put in a hospital bed and after detoxification, be helped with understanding the problems which contributed to the alcoholism.

Another aspect of his work is training resident physicians in the county hospital at Oxnard in treating alcoholic patients. Talbot says a medical doctor should play the leading role in the detoxifying, then if psychiatry is needed, the patient should be referred by the medical doctor to a psychiatrist, but he feels the initial medical phase of recovery should never be treated by psychiatry.

The founder and director of the Oxnard homes feels strongly that tranquilizers should not be used, except in specific medical cases, since "they keep the system aroused and still provide a crutch to reality."

Let anyone think alcoholism is a problem peculiar to skid row occupants, Talbot says less than six per cent of alcoholics in the country come from this environment. Alcoholism, like most diseases, is no respecter of person, color or status, as shown by the many types who have gone through the Oxnard homes, including doctors, airplane pilots, housewives and movie stars.

The charge at the Oxnard facilities is $160 per week for the hospital, compared to $1,200 at most sanitariums, and $6 per day at the live-in homes.

Once the medical treatment is begun, staff members assist the patients in their personal problems. This may involve getting the Navy to give a man 30 days sick leave, Talbot said, or talking with a patient's boss.

Alcoholism is the No. 2 killer in the United States today, after heart disease, and 85 per cent of the alcoholics treated have a two-fold problem, "including drugs as well as drinking," Talbot said.

If anyone doubts the magnitude of the alcohol problem, Talbot is armed with facts to prove nine million Americans are chronic alcoholics, another six million on the borderline, and worse, the disease is increasing yearly by an estimated 500,000. "I always say, it's no disgrace to be alcoholic," Talbot says, "but it's a disgrace to stay one."

This Is "Scoop's Game Plan"

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — When Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson of Washington sat down to dinner last Wednesday night in a private room of the Nashville City Club, his shadow Presidential candidacy was visibly transforming itself into a serious, viable quest for the Democratic nomination.

Around the table were Democratic powers of the state legislature. Potent state Senators present (such as James H. Robertson, Jerry Agee, and Edward Blank) made clear they are ready to back Jackson all the way in the state's newly enacted May 4 Presidential primary. The election of a Republican governor in 1970 created a Democratic power-void making the lineup amassed at the City Club highly significant. With such aid, dispassionate politicians here feel Jackson will be favored in the Tennessee primary against the national frontrunner, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine. One key Democrat predicts a well-run Jackson campaign will carry the entire state and at least six of the nine Congressional districts (clinching approximately 36 of 49 delegates). What's more, a victory in Tennessee is a vital component of the newly-emerging Jackson game plan.

Scarcely realized back in Washington is the fact that the shadow candidacy days of Scoop Jackson wandering aimlessly around the country, garment bag over his shoulder and rambling speech in pocket, are over. He is ready to go for the Presidential nomination with a game plan that make him the most interesting of the dark horses.

Like all Democratic possibilities except the big three (Muskie, Hubert H. Humphrey, and Edward M. Kennedy), Jackson has no name identification. Unlike them, however, he has a distinctive line: heavy and overdue emphasis on President Nixon's economic failures, a strong national defense, and a strong anti-leftish, ideological tone. This distinction from his sound-alike leftish rivals, Jackson-men figure, will enable him to finish second to Muskie in some early primaries (with Humphrey and Kennedy not running) and actually win three Southern primaries: Florida, North Carolina, and Tennessee. From that beginning, Jackson would gain name identification for the critical later primaries.

On his five-hour visit here last week, Jackson played variations on this theme. Addressing a statewide collection of Democratic leaders, he attacked Mr. Nixon on the economy and the "absolute left" for "denigrating the country." Afterward, Tennessee Democrats concluded that only Jackson or Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas can beat Mr. Nixon here in 1972, but they do not regard Mills as a serious possibility.

To play out this game plan, Jackson is about to open a campaign headquarters in Washington and take on organizers, advance men, and speech-writers. More important, in contrast to imprecise speechmaking earlier this year, Jackson has devised a concise, oratorical pattern.

Jackson is far behind his rivals in organization and planning. He arrived in Nashville without thick intelligence reports about local politicians that Muskie would bring into the state. Thus, Jackson did not know enemies from friends, heavyweights from lightweights.

It was set forth in Jackson's May 20 speech at San Diego, Calif., bearing the unmistakable imprint of Ben J. Wattenberg (co-author with Richard Scammon of "The Real Majority"), a new volunteer

But what Jackson did show here was an appreciation, unique among Democratic Presidential hopefuls, that many rank-and-file Democrats (especially in the South but not limited there) are not all that liberal and worry more about inflation and jobs than Vietnam, the arms race, and J. Edgar Hoover. It means Scoop Jackson may be the longshot rival Ed Muskie should worry about most.

Beating The Heat

It is difficult to ignore the hot weather but easy to gripe about it, which helps in a way. Some of the more fortunately situated say the best policy is to take it easy, using a minimum of effort, and putting off until cooler times activities that aren't too pressing.

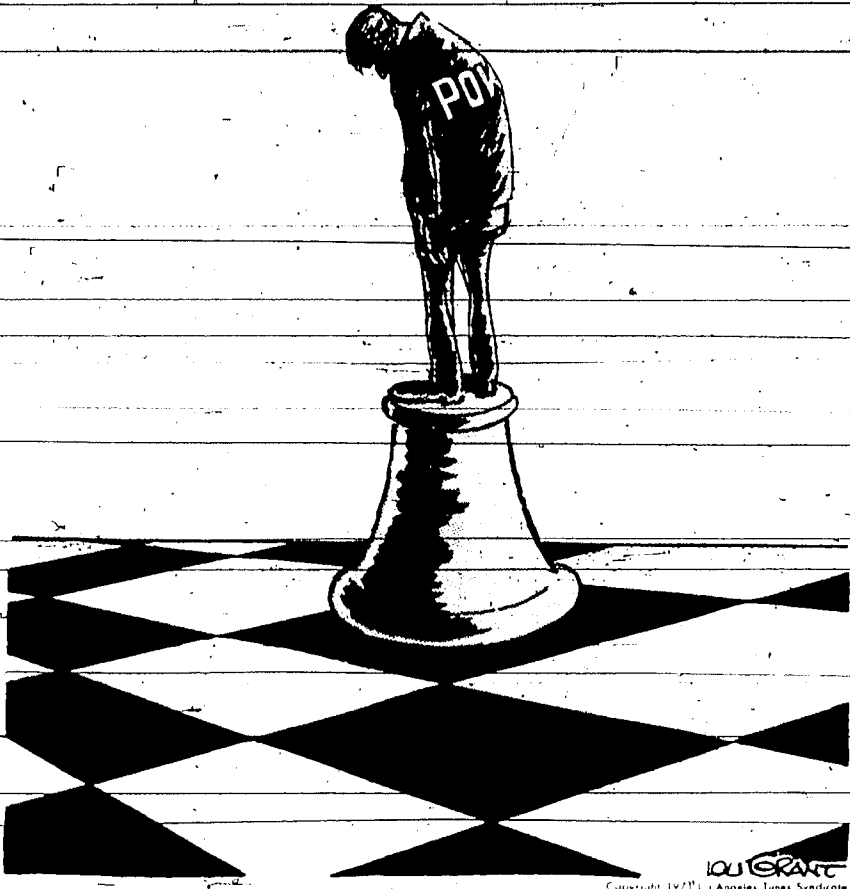

Some people, though, find it inconvenient to duck into air-conditioned areas and have no alternative but to put up with the heat. This drains the juices and the goodness from a man, and those not so unfortunate can help by not taxing unnecessarily the temper or the thought processes of this group after working hours.

A man gets to reading the weather maps more carefully, studying the movements of the fronts with extreme concentration. With a little help, a northern cool front might swing through, chasing a series of welcome showers ahead of it on the first days of summer.

On the other hand, if you want to really get away from the valley heat, then head to the hills — up in Sawtooth Valley or Stanley Basin, for instance. It's close to home, the roads in that direction are good and the outdoors is just the place you are looking for.

PAWN OF WAR

ROBERT ALLEN & JOHN GOLDSMITH

Anti-War Feud

WASHINGTON — Rancorous feuding is raging between leaders of the two major anti-war demonstration and disorder organizations — both communist dominated and Hanoi manipulated.

Outcome of this undercover vendetta will importantly affect their July 4 propaganda and agitational disruptions and antics.

At acrid odds over ideology, tactics and plans are the National Peace Action Coalition (NPAC), controlled by iron-disciplines doctrinaire Trotskyites, and the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice (PCPJ) ruled by radical activist Rennie Davis and his violence-addicted Mayday Tribe.

It was the Tribe's "shut-down the government" disturbances and trash and refuse dumping in key Washington sections that cost taxpayers more than $3 million in police overtime and clean-up charges.

Davis and his young communist and militant radical followers want to repeat these disorders around July 4.

He defiantly talks of again trying to "stop the government" and creating chaos and turmoil. A close lieutenant boasted, "Trashing cities is a very effective tool as it not only disrupts traffic and business but takes a lot of money out of government coffers to clean up and pay police overtime. It's a good way to consume public money for a worthy cause."

The hard-headed Trotskyite bosses of the National Peace Action Coalition disdain such "smear-them-up" operations as "juvenile and counter-productive." They contend all they accomplish is to emphasize the antics of the participants rather than the objective of ending the Vietnam conflict.

That's why NPAC planning is now centered on holding a giant anti-war conference in New York City July 3-4.

The aim is to have a number of headline officials and personalities — from Congress, business, law, Hollywood, labor, veterans, etc. — appear, orate and, presumably, make the front page and TV newscasts. Also several short, tightly-policed marches are contemplated.

And, above all, there will be fund collections from the expected throngs — to finance NPAC rallies and demonstrations in other cities.

Still undecided is whether an "anti-imperialist" note should be injected in the New York

NPAC moguls are divided over the advisability of raising a doctrinaire issue. Some feel the so-called conference should be confined to the stop-the-war agitation; that to introduce other matters could cause dissenting complications.

But NPAC leaders are emphatically agreed on one thing — they want no part of Rennie Davis and his Mayday Tribe slambanger. They got a bellyful of them in Washington.

Not unexpectedly, Davis and his PCPJ allies feel the same way about NPAC.

PCPJ leaders mutteringly hint they were gypped at the April 24 mass demonstration in the capital jointly staged by the two organizations.

Davis and PCPJ reluctantly agreed to co-sponsor this affair under strong pressure from pacifist groups and the Hanoi and Vietnam delegations in Paris. Davis' misgivings were well-founded.

The tightly disciplined and experienced Trotskyite NPACers stole the show.

They firmly controlled the speakers' rostrum and barred PCPJ personalities from taking part in haranguing. PCPJ's share of donations from the crowd and sales of peace buttons and other paraphernalia fell far short of PCPJ's contribution to the cost of the meeting.

PCPJ insiders indicate the organization wound up some $90,000 in debt after the Washington hulla-balloo.

Adding fuel to the grievances of Davis and his activist lieutenants was their indignation at the absence of disturbances. To them, the mass demonstration was "dull and listless." In response, NPAC moguls cited the failure of Davis and his rambunctious cohorts to "shut down the government," and their mass arrests by police.

"They talked loud and tough, but got nowhere," snorted one NPACer. "We talked sense and acted legally, and made a real impact."

It remains to be seen what happens next — between them and in their planning.

A question is being raised in the widely argued issue of federal revenue sharing that has stumped everyone so far — and probably will continue to do so.

It's simply this: Where is the revenue to share?

On the basis of indisputable figures, there is no revenue to share. Here is the reason:

The government is deeply in the red. It is winding up this fiscal year (June 30) with a stupendous deficit of $25 billion. The administration estimates next fiscal year will produce another huge deficit of $23 billion — for an eye-popping total of $48 billion for the two fiscal years.

And that isn't all of this stark story.

In the budget now being considered by Congress is an item, about which very little is said, for interest on the national debt of nearly $40 billion. That one item alone will cost taxpayers $21 billion in the new fiscal year.

That is approximately one-tenth of the national debt of nearly $400 billion. That one item alone will cost taxpayers $21 billion in the new fiscal year.

That is approximately one-tenth of the budget. In other words, this item amounts to a giant debt within a gargantuan debt.

Sen. Harry Byrd, D-Va., is a supporter of revenue sharing and would like to see it done — but realistically wants to know where the money is coming from. To him, the flood of pro-and-con rhetoric over the merits of revenue sharing is so much wasted talk because he has been unable to find any revenue to be shared.

Says Byrd: "Amid all the talk of revenue sharing, I would like to have someone answer the very pertinent and crucial question of where the revenue is to come from. The plain and grim fact is the federal government does not have any revenue to share. It is greatly in debt. It is in the hole by $25 billion in this fiscal year, and headed for an estimated $23 billion deficit in the coming fiscal year."

"And on top of that, the government has a national debt approaching $400 billion. On that debt alone, the American taxpayers are paying interest at the rate of $21 billion a year. It is also very relevant to point out that from May 1970 to May 1971, a one-year period, the national debt increased by $25 billion. So I say, for all this talk about revenue sharing, the federal government simply does not have any revenue to share. It is stupendously in debt and going in deeper all the time."

Also significantly noted by Byrd is the direct relation between the continuing giant deficits and soaring national debt and inflation. The two, he stresses, are immediately and inextricably intertwined. The former is the cause of the latter.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Flat Chest

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have freckles all over my face. I'm very self-conscious of this. It has made my life miserable for 19 years. Is there anything I can buy to lighten them or remove them completely?

Also I've had three children and I am very small chested. This is really the biggest problem. I'm very jealous of other girls. I don't mix with many people because of this. I'm so embarrassed.—Mrs. T.E.

A husband and three children? There must be at least four people who think you are pretty much all right the way you are, and I dare say that if you decided to mix with people more you'd find a lot of others who aren't as upset by your freckles and small chest as you are.

For the small chest there simply isn't much you can do except to try to gain a little weight, and to work on your posture to make the most of what you have. (Did you know that large breasts are virtually all fatty tissue?)

About the freckles—it's been my observation for years that there's some sort of psychological quirk involving them. People who have them are quite often self-conscious, whereas other folks just don't think about them. In fact, freckles can be quite attractive, although not many who have them seem to realize it.

There are only a few things you can do about freckles, anyway. You can't use an ordinary bleach, which wouldn't do any good and anyway might irritate the skin. There is a treatment (requiring supervision by a skin specialist) involving a resorcinol solution which causes the skin to peel. There is also an ointment containing hydroquinone which inhibits formation of the patches of pigment, or coloring matter, and that's all freckles are, of course.

Finally dermabrasion (skin-planing or skin-sanding, or whatever everyday term you may prefer) has been used. That is a delicate process of removing the outer layers of skin.

Note to Miss S.C.: Yes, sunshine in many cases does seem to reduce the severity of psoriasis. (But psoriasis is not "catching.")

MR. SPECTATOR

Hard To Grow Up

This is what people say: It is tough to raise a teenager today. Considering all the pressures and torments of modern society, seasoned with war, drugs and urban decay, it is hard for parents to keep a steady hand and low voice in bringing up young people. And the NOISE: That we did not have in 1936 or 1924. The racket of rock music and the roar of military conscription — both hard to avoid.

But it must be hard to grow up today, it must be difficult to be a child in a global cultural battered by so many conflicting, demanding voices. And our adult society does not solicit the words and hopes of children. Later, we say. But they are young only once.

Recently, the Christian Children's Fund of Richmond, Va., conducted an essay and poetry competition among its worldwide family. They care, with assistance from American sponsors, for nearly 100,000 youngsters. Several thousand entries were finally reduced to first prize. The winner was a 10-year-old Colombian boy, Anaur Gonzalez Pinzon, now under the care of Centro Socio Cultural, Col. The boy's father has disappeared, his mother suffers from cancer.

WHAT IS PEACE?

I do not know peace: Since before I was born — So they tell me. My father went off, leaving us alone and sad.

I do not know peace:

When I was still very little We struggled against hunger and against cold.

I have the scars.

I do not know peace: A wall of suffering separates me from my mother. A very high wall that I cannot get over in order to help her.

I do not know peace:

I will have to struggle by day and by night and to be a man against an army of men without love.

I do not know peace:

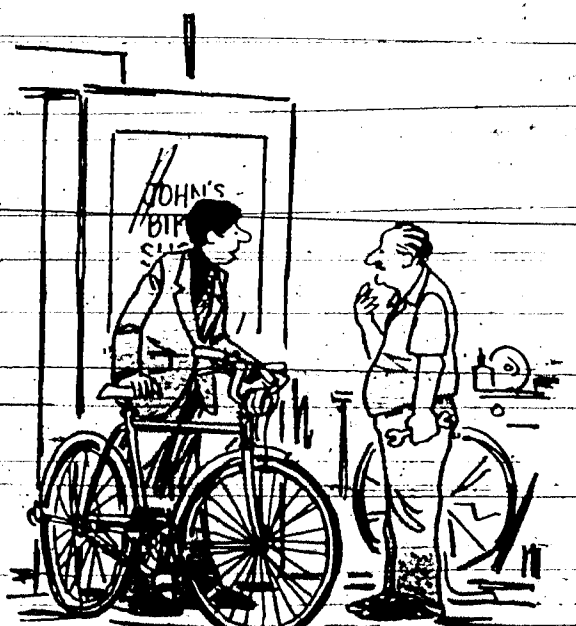

In everything I read, see and feel, is war of evil people. With no concern for their neighbor they tread us down and kill us. I do not know peace . . . But I want it.

End Of Hunting?

Editor, Times-News:

At the present time there is a bill before the House, (H. R. 6957) sponsored by Idaho Congressman Orval Hansen to put the greater part of the Sawtooth National Forest into a National Recreation Area in which hunting will be allowed, or permitted, under management of the U.S. Forest Service. This bill as it now stands, will without a doubt pass through the U. S. House of Representatives subcommittee that's chaired by Congressman Roy Taylor of North Carolina. However, what most people of Idaho don't know is that, besides this bill calling for a Sawtooth National Recreation Area, it provides federal funds for further study of a National Park concept within the National Recreation Area. If passed, it will invariably end hunting in that portion of the Sawtooth mountains. As a National Park the area would be closed to all hunting forever.

This bill is very important to the sportsman and outdoor people of Idaho because of the strong effort of several preservationist organizations to amend. We all know what is happening in Yellowstone Park under this type of management. Do you want the same thing in Idaho? Most Idahoans are in favor of the NRA multiple use concept, administered by the U. S. Forest Service. Congressman Hansen pulled one of the oldest political maneuvers, by asking for one thing that he knew the people of Idaho were in favor of, then slipped into his bill a stipulation providing federal funds for a further study of National Park concept, something that the Congressman wanted in the first place. However, I'm sure the good people of Idaho will see through this type of chicanery proposed by Congressman Orval Hansen and his contemporaries, who must of sat up nights burning the mid-nite oil to think this one up.

Aside from that, I wonder if the Idaho Fish and Game funds payed for Jack "Little Sir Echo" Hemingway's trip back to Washington to testify for Governor Andrus, who incidentally is in favor of a National Park? This is a good question that certainly should warrant some answers. The biggest laugh of "Little Sir Echo's" trip and testimony, was when he testified that he was only in favor of a National Park concept, providing it would allow hunting. Now how about that? Here is an outdoor writer, and northwest field editor for Field and Stream magazine, asking the House Interior Committee a question such as that.

The people of Idaho should by all means fight this bill. H. R. 6957 as it now stands, unless Congressman Orval Hansen strikes out the provision that allows federal funds to be used to study a National Park. As it now stands, and if passed, it lets that almighty "loophole", that provides opportunity to swing this whole area into a National Park, which the majority of Idahoans don't want in the first place. Apparently this was a well thought out plan before this bill H. R. 6957 was introduced.

I think it was President Abe Lincoln who said: "You can fool most of the people, most of the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time." And that's just the way this bill is being looked at. Under the guise of one external appearance we'll be saddled with another that we can't possibly get out from under. Besides that, we all know that once saddled with legislation that's unpopular, it may never be repealed.

The point is quite clear. Use your only power open to change unfair legislation and write your views, and opinions to either, or both; Congressman Orval Hansen, Room 312 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515, or Congressman Roy Taylor, Room 2240, Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

This bill is perhaps the most important legislature to be presented in years that can affect the future of Idaho's hunters. Our only tool to fight such infamous legislation is letter writing. Many people are of the opinion that writing letters to our congressman and senators doesn't do any good. Well, don't you believe that. The people who spread such gossip are generally people who favor this type of legislation, or perhaps are too lazy to write themselves, thus making excuses for their own benefit. No politician will ignore public opinion.

Traffic Safety

Editor, Times-News:

None of us want to be involved in a traffic accident yet as traffic increases more and more accidents occur. I think it is time we were trying to find the reason and do something about it.

In my opinion most accidents are caused not by carelessness or disrespect but impatience. Another reason is preoccupation in other problems than those of driving the car.

We all know that downtown Twin Falls is a traffic problem and is getting worse since our city fathers messed things up like they did, but the problem is there and we have to live with it. It is easy to see that such problems do create impatience. We must face these problems with patience and caution.

Although I have driven for 54 years, including 21 years as a school bus driver, I have never received a citation for careless driving but I have made some mistakes and I am sure you will agree with me that we all do things for one reason or another.

I would like to suggest some rules for safe driving as I see them.

Be sure your car is in safe condition. Always respect other drivers, never lock your brakes on slick roads, always signal your turns, never trust the other driver, never turn until you know you are clear, always be patient and courteous. We just never have time to get in a hurry.

I will always remember the highway signs which were posted cross country about 30 years ago. They read "you can beat a mile a minute but there ain't no future in it."

A current slogan says that the life you save might be your own. We might change that one to say that the wife you save might be your own—or it might belong to a child of yours or some other loved one.

Safe driving is everybody's responsibility. We should all help in being sure that the "nut" that holds the steering wheel is properly adjusted.

Twin Falls

A Restriction

Editor, Times-News:

On Sunday morning, 13 June 1971, my wife and I stopped in your city with intentions of having breakfast, visiting Shoshone Falls, and playing golf on your municipal course.

We drove to the golf course about 9:30 a.m., and when I had signed the register to play I was informed that women were not allowed on the course until noon or after. I was completely surprised and so incensed I buried something unprintable and walked out.

We are still outraged at this unfair restriction on your city owned municipal golf course and we will never stop in Twin Falls, Idaho again.

We mentioned this episode to several people who also don't understand the restriction, even though we all surmise the reason.

Inasmuch as your town is no longer on a main highway, it would certainly benefit Twin Falls if something was done to attract visitors rather than anger them when they get there.

Incidentally, your 18-hole golf course is attractive and inviting, but why bar women?

CECIL CALHOUN

Service Is Rewarding

Cecil Calhoun is a farmer. He lives on Route 4 down near Buhl and he has certain ideals as to public service, concern for community, nation, state and area.

He believes that leisure is a time for doing something useful. Although he takes part in many activities off his farm he sees to it that not one hour is taken away from running the farm.

"Which is more useful?" he asks. "Is it to serve on a board or attend a public hearing or spend the same hours shooting snooker in the pool hall or wallowing around in the underbrush trying to shoot some wild creature? I believe it is all a matter of personal preference. The time is the same."

As to farming he is not a believer in excessive use of commercial fertilizer. It is, and should be, supplementary to the natural fertility that can be produced on the land itself. He points out that before fertilizer in paper sacks was known, his farm produced 72 and one-half bushels of small red beans per acre with a six year average of 54 and three-quarters bushels. That same year his friend a Mr. Champlin, raised 69 bushels of Great Northern beans per acre. All of this, he points out, was without a dollar spent for fertilizer. On his present farm he has raised 103 and 104 bushels of wheat without applying commercial fertilizer.

Calhoun came to Idaho in 1934 from west-central Nebraska. He was forced out of dry land farming by drought and depression and, seeking better schools for his family of five children, he bought 40 acres in the Deep Creek district. In 1937 he joined the Deep Creek Grange in order to associate himself more closely with agricultural problems. While in that district he served as a member of the school board.

Moved to a larger farm in 1937, joined the Fairview Grange and as chairman of the highway committee proposed a grid system of rural highways that would place every farm within one mile of a paved market road.

To list all his activities would be impossible but among other things he has served as master of the Fairview and the Twin Falls Pomona Grange, has been overseer of the Idaho State Grange and served eight years as delegate to Grange conventions. He has appeared before the Senate Insular and Interior committees on hearings regarding power development at Hells Canyon and appeared before the Taxation Committee of the Idaho Senate during the sales tax debate. He has served on the county board of the Production-Marketing Administration and became concerned with Federal farm programs that forced farmers to participate, under penalty.

He wrote an article on this subject and it was published in Western Farm Life. It attracted national attention and resulted in a new farm program with voluntary participation as its keystone. Articles by him have appeared in the Times-News and the Buhl Herald and one of the Times-News articles was published in the Congressional Record.

He has filled numerous speaking engagements and received the Distinguished Service Award of the Buhl Jaycees. He was appointed to the State Grange committee on ecology and environment and is a member of the Twin Falls County Fair Board. He has served on the county Republican committee.

His service on the fair board, he states, is perhaps the most rewarding of all services. He says that to be associated with men of such dedication to the future of this enterprise is "worth all the time given."

He is of the opinion the greatest personal reward to come to the Calhoun family was to see three girls graduate with high honors from the Buhl High School and two graduate cum laude from Linfield College. Two boys joined the armed services and served in the Pacific area during World War II.

He believes that Idaho today is one of the brightest spots in this nation, despite all criticism to the contrary.

"This is the day of discovery of Idaho's great potential as a vacation land and as a land of good environment for family and business alike. The time is now, while Idaho is still a land of beauty and opportunity, to protect these priceless assets," he said.

THE WAY IT WAS

A Long Ways Back

On May 24, 1905 the Twin Falls Telephone Co. — practically a one-line affair — ceased to exist and became the property of the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone Company. The Bell Company purchased the franchise, pole line and plant of the "baby" local concern of that date.

Local residents in Twin Falls had been complaining of the poor service and this was further complicated while negotiations were going on between the two concerns. But as soon as the purchase was made the Bell officials announced the system would be enlarged immediately and a "first class" exchange was planned.

The lines of the Twin Falls Company extended from Blue Lakes, in the Snake River Canyon, to Burley with branches in Twin Falls, Shoshone Falls and Milner. The new owners announced that another wire would be strung immediately from Twin Falls City to Milner, mainly for use of the ditch riders.

A switchboard for the Twin Falls exchange to be ordered even before the transfer took place. An office for the new equipment delayed the installation.

With the transfer the first two operators were placed in charge of the new Twin Falls office. They were Miss Clyden Case of Bellevue and Miss Martha Billingsley of Carey. They were described in early accounts of the event as being "real good" but they also made some comments about the community.

They reported that they found the work surprisingly heavy and they were "not fascinated" by the dust.

In commenting on the changeover, the editor of the News said:

"In the upbuilding of Twin Falls the Twin Falls Telephone Company lines played an important part. They proved a great convenience and although overtaxed at times they answered their purpose well. "It is hoped that the Bell company will now take steps to give Twin Falls City first class long distance service. The local service has always been satisfactory but the long distance has been a sore trial to patrons."

"The trouble seemed to be beyond Shoshone but wherever it was it caused no end of annoyance and expense. Considering the high charges and the enormous amount of business, Twin Falls should receive more attention."

The honor of being the first settler on the Twin Falls Tract to haul lumber on his land and make improvements went to L. E. Prothero of Baraboo, Wis. When the first tract of 30,000 Acres was opened on the Twin Falls Land and Water project on June 10, 1903, many settlers came from various parts of the country. Prothero was among them.

But his little spot in history was assured when he bought a load of lumber, hauled it to his acreage, and started work.

He had secured an 80-acre tract about half way between Shoshone Falls and the town of Rock Creek. He had a large portion of his land cleared and ready for cultivation when the water arrived late the following spring. By mid-summer of 1904 he had a comfortable house built on the land.

Before coming to the Twin Falls area, he had traveled extensively in search of a place to "settle down." After looking over the land in this area and becoming acquainted with the project he decided to stay here. All this was prior to the land opening.

He pinned his faith to the development of Twin Falls and purchased a business lot on Main Street in Twin Falls City where he erected a business house and opened what was known as the City Restaurant. It was reported that his initial business was flourishing.

Atomic Blast

Editor, Times-News:

Are you concerned about the forthcoming atomic blast which will be 250 times more powerful than the bomb which devastated Hiroshima?

We are, and so are hundreds of other Canadians and organizations. Our government is also concerned.

The United States Atomic Energy Commission's plan to explode a five megaton bomb on Amchitka Island in the Aleutian Chain shows a complete lack of concern for life in all forms and the possibility of radioactive leakage. Environmental damage is one we are not prepared to accept.

Your protests stopped the testing in Nevada and we now urge you, the American people, to join with us in a unified voice to protest the Amchitka blast and all other nuclear testing which threatens our world.

Deeply Grateful

Editor, Times-News:

Public attention in Idaho should be drawn to the work done in Boise by the Boise Heart Institute. My late husband had open heart surgery performed in Salt Lake and again in Boise and the professional competence of the Institute team in Boise was of the highest order. I shall always be grateful for their skill and human understanding.

Like many undertakings the Boise Heart Institute is in need of funds and while the recent memorial donations have been a great help further support is necessary to continue this great work.

I am also deeply grateful to the Elks, personnel of the automobile companies and many others who donated blood to the Red Cross when it was so necessary.

It is a great comfort to me in this trying time to live in a town where such kindness is possible.

Open Season

Editor, Times-News:

Last night (June 11) "the establishment" broke loose at a local motel where I was staying. With fireworks, trumpets, drums and outlandish screams they violated others' constitutional rights to peaceful, uninterrupted sleep. By "establishment" I mean Elks in town for a convention.

The policemen came, but no arrests were made. Aren't there laws in the City of Twin Falls against disturbing the peace, drunk and disorderly conduct, illegal possession and use of fireworks?

Had it been the younger generation, they'd have been arrested and fined and most likely carted off to jail. But these were Elks and adults.

Justice was wearing earplugs as well as being blindfolded. No wonder the young people are disgusted with our generation.

TIMELY QUOTES

Those who use the environment as packaging for national self-chastisement in all fields of endeavor deny a better life to their children just as surely as did the whole-hog polluters and despoilers of our environment.

—Sen. Lowell Weicker Jr., R-Conn.

Our intention to operate with reality does not mean to accept it. We'll operate within the system so we can change it. It is wrong to say the system can't give us anything because it is just not true.

Huey Newton, cofounder of the Black Panther party.

Bob Hope large land owner

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Among the ranch and farmland owners in the West are motion picture and television stars who buy real estate as an investment and-or a place to retire.

One of the largest single land holders in Southern California is Bob Hope who owns thousands of acres of expensive real estate.

His pal, Bing Crosby is not far behind with ranches in Northern California and parcels in the San Francisco area.

Jimmy Stewart has a rambling cattle ranch only two hours from Los Angeles. Randolph Scott, long absent from the screen, has become a millionaire many times over through his real estate negotiations.

In the San Luis Obispo area Frank Sinatra, Lucille Ball, Fred Astaire and Robert Mitchum have extensive holdings. Mitchum runs a horse ranch on his property.

Some of the stars simply buy from 100 to tens of thousands of acres and allow them to lie fallow, selling them as prices rise.

Others make a profit on the land or lease it to farmers. Jim Nabors owns an immense farm in the fertile Coachella Valley south of Palm Springs which produces bountiful cash crops.

Buddy Ebsen is another television star who has turned his video earnings into real estate. Taxes are deductible. And so far as is known the FCC, networks, agencies and sponsors can't cancel a parcel of ground.

Robert Stack owns acreage in the Sacramento area, including a game preserve and duck club.

Eve Arden and her husband, Brooks West, own farmland an hour's drive from downtown Hollywood. They live on the ranch in preference to inhaling Los Angeles smog.

Jim Arness of "Gunsmoke" has more than a thousand acres of prime ranch country one range of mountains beyond the San Fernando Valley. His father ramrods the horses and cattle for him.

Joel McCrea was one of the first to discover the financial potential of Southern California real estate. His dealings in land dwarf his considerable earnings as an actor over the years.

Before becoming California's governor, actor Ronald Reagan bought hundreds of acres in Los Angeles County and since has purchased 771 acres in Riverside County where he plans to retire.

Many more stars buy property through corporate names.

TO MOST Americans, the Korean War erupted on June 25, 1950, and continued for 37 months. But there was an earlier Korean war—or, as it was spelled in 1871, Corean war. On June 10, 1871, American armed forces opened the doors of that Asian nation to the West. This painting by John Clymer, a World War II Marine, shows Marine Infantry and artillery storming a fort on Kangwha Island in the Han River. (UPI)

Westerns become victim of issue

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Actor James Drury believes the television Western has fallen victim of the nation's interest in social issues.

For eight years Drury played the title role in TV's "The Virginian," and last season portrayed the same character when the Western series was retitled "Men from Shiloh."

"The television Western is by no means dead," Drury said, "but it's festing. I think it's because young people are so involved with social issues that they're bored with Westerns in which everything is black and white, full of good guys and bad guys."

Drury, in Albuquerque, on a visit before returning to Hollywood, also said he expected a decline in the number of sex-oriented movies.

"Sex films are really a total bore," he said. "Sex as a spectator sport is about as exciting as fishing, as a spectator sport."

Although Drury admitted he'll probably never qualify for an Oscar, he said he approved of a decision by actor George C. Scott who refused his Oscar for portraying the late Gen. George Patton.

"If I'm ever in his (Scott's) position, which I probably won't be, I'll do the same thing," Drury said. "If Hollywood wants to have its pageant year after year, that's fine. I'm just not in sympathy with it."

Drury said being cast in the title role of "The Virginian," a Western loosely based on Owen Wister's classic, was the turning point in his career. But he wasn't sorry when the series was cancelled.

"I would have been happy to go on with the series," Drury said. "But nine years is far too long for an actor of my varied interests."

Drury said he was looking at the possibility of a new series but only if the format of the program revolved around several stars, instead of just him.

Forcing entry

Movie stars expected to star in TV series

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — There's much talk in the television industry over the fact that movie names like Anthony Quinn, Shirley MacLaine, Tony Curtis and Glenn Ford will star in video series in the fall. The talk centers around the belief that the snobbish attitude of motion picture stars toward the home screen medium is just about gone.

After all, some industry executives point out, John Wayne had a special this past television season that drew a whopping rating. And James Stewart will also have a series in the fall, as will James Garner and Dick Van Dyke.

And other movie names who already have weekly video shows include Doris Day, Henry Fonda, Dean Martin, Tony Randall, Shirley Jones and Fred MacMurray.

The television executives admit that most of these movie names who have turned to the home screen don't have the boxoffice appeal with motion picture audiences that they used to (which, frankly, is why many of them finally crossed over to video). But, still, their reputations are indeed identified with movies, and industry snobbishness is definitely on the wane.

Nevertheless, knowledgeable television executives are not at all sold on the theory that movie names are automatic guarantees for video success, and concede these performers are subject to the same pressures as most others—time slot, series competition, the writing and concept of their own shows, and so forth.

And, in fact, most tough-thinking video decision-makers would probably prefer taking a chance in a new series with an established television name than with a movie figure who isn't quite the potent star he or she once was. The thing is, television stars often have quite a different appeal to the home audience than movie figures. It is a more intimate, usually more friendly, kind of appeal.

And you never really know whether a star has it until the ratings are in.

Reason given for duke remaining in exile

LONDON (UPI) — The Duke of Windsor will be 77 on June 23 and once again millions of his former subjects will wonder why he cannot return to live out his remaining years in the land he once ruled so briefly as King Edward VIII.

Many of those who remember the handsome boyish figure he cut as Prince of Wales will attribute his self-exile to a quarrel inside the Royal Family over the status of his American-born duchess. They will be wrong.

It is not Queen Elizabeth who stands in the way nor is it Queen Mother Elizabeth whose husband, King George VI, was projected to the throne, despite his less robust health, when his brother gave up his birthright for marriage.

That has been long forgiven. Dowager Queen Mary, who could not bear the thought her son had placed his personal life before his duty, is gone. Time, in fact, has dissipated all the reasons usually advanced to explain why the Duke and his Duchess from Baltimore prefer to live in Paris when they are not jet setting elsewhere, rather than among his own folk.

Yet the way is still not open, in the Duke's eyes, for his return. And the stumbling block is not Buckingham Palace. It is Ten Downing Street, home of the prime minister.

In the new, democratic age the Queen and other members of the royal circle have long since recognized the Duchess, met and talked with her both in public and in private. She was in the Royal Family group where the Queen unveiled the memorial to King George VI.

When the Duke was recovering from an eye operation in London some years ago the Queen gave him the key to the Buckingham Palace Gardens and he and the Duchess used them. There is no doubt that if the Duke did decide to come back to his homeland the Queen, his niece, would help him settle down in every way she could.

Queen Elizabeth has strong family feelings and loyalty and has never forgotten her childhood affection for the Uncle

School bible reading backed

BOISE (UPI) — The Girls State governor called Friday for a return to prayer and Bible reading in schools; a kindergarten program, a park-recreation complex in the Sawtooths and physical exercise for the delegates themselves.

Anne Hagerman, Wendell, delivering her "state of the state" message to the day-long mock legislative session of 1971 Syringa Girls State, also called for more intensive vocational education programs, legislation to require road tests for persons over 60 applying for drivers licenses and a requirement that all persons must take driver education courses before being licensed.

Miss Hagerman also chided law enforcement practices in Idaho's smaller towns, noting "enforcement is not readily observed in smaller towns."

She said "between close friends and relatives 'loyalty seems to be defined as oblivious to right and wrong."

She said Idaho was "rich in beauty" and recommended park designation for the Sawtooth, White Cloud, Pioneer, and Boulder Mountain ranges with recreation designation for the surrounding areas.

The United States, she said, was settled and held together by people with strong religious beliefs, adding, "We are defeating our own purpose by leaving prayer and Bible reading out of our schools."

Turning to Girls State itself, the youth governor said there was a "very definite problem" with the lack of time set aside for physical fitness.

She recommended a portion of each day in the week-long yearly sessions be set aside for group exercises of competitive sports.

Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy, welcoming the delegates, encouraged the high school students to become more involved in the political process and in the "establishment."

"No longer can it be said there is no place for youth in the state," Murphy said, noting soon 18-year-olds would be allowed to vote and under legislation approved by Idaho's lawmakers 18-year-olds could serve as precinct committeemen and delegates to state conventions."

Inspection suspended

BOISE (UPI) — Gerald's Hunky Service Station, Nampa, has been suspended as a vehicle inspection station for allegedly certifying an unsafe vehicle.

Attitude sinks fleet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Helan Dellch-Bentley's opinion of the U.S. maritime industry is remarkably similar to her feelings, give or take an expletive or two, about the guy who sold her that expensive power mower that conked out after only two months' use.

It took 10 days to get the mower repaired, while the grass grew taller and taller. And the switch that stopped working on her automatic oven six weeks ago is still disabled, despite repeated complaints and promises.

"What kind of nonsense and service is this?" Mrs. Bentley demanded in an interview.

A former maritime reporter for the Baltimore Sun who holds the highest ranking position of any woman in the government—chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission—Mrs. Bentley believes the same public-be-damned attitude by management and labor is largely responsible for the decline of America's fortunes in world shipping.

She doesn't hesitate to say so, loud and clear, and often in the unprintable language of the sailors and longshoremen she has known for many years.

Speaking to the Rotary Club of shipping leaders in Baltimore, she said the U.S. maritime decline can be halted only "if we get off our fat, happy butts and put the American shoulder to the wheel."

Mrs. Bentley noted that the United States merchant fleet had dwindled to 719 mostly aged vessels compared to 3,700 immediately after World War II. The Russians, meanwhile, have 1,700 ships in world trade, many of them new, and are aggressively expanding their fleet.

She then asked her Baltimore audience with characteristic bluntness: "How many of you, knowing what you do about the track record of your own industry, would invest in 10 shares of stock of any American flag steamship line?"

Congress last year authorized subsidies to finance construction of 300 new merchant ships, but Mrs. Bentley has been in Washington long enough to know that authorizations are not automatically followed by appropriations.

The most urgent need, she says, is to reverse the industry's complacency about foreign sales and the intramural throat-cutting among American flag companies that borders on a determination to commit suicide.

It angers the petite, attractive blonde that manufacturers spend millions to advertise their products and almost nothing to see that "the public gets decent service after that product is bought and in-

Council clears study

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Legislative Council gave its permission today for a staff member to assist in gathering testimony state-wide on a proposed recodification of Idaho's ad valorem taxation statutes.

Overcoming its reluctance to endorse a study not specifically approved by the entire legislature, the council said it would allow a staff member to travel with members of the Revenue and Taxation Committee when hearings are held on the proposal.

Rep. William Onweiler, R-Boise, said one recodification had been prepared by the Legislative Council, but said the Revenue and Taxation Committee, worried about costs, decided not to print the measure until hearing opinions from county assessors, clerks, treasurers and commissioners.

Onweiler said present property tax statutes are a "hodge-podge collection, without definition, without order."

He said the Revenue and Taxation Committee simply wanted "some type of hearings" before the next legislative session and wanted the "blessing or urging" of the Legislative Council to give backing to the statewide meetings.

Rep. Harold Snow, R-Moscow, questioned the wisdom of endorsing a study not approved by legislative resolution. He said those opposing creation of a Legislative Council feared it would become a "small legislature" and said it would be a "dangerous precedent" to take up an unauthorized study.

Onweiler, however, said Revenue and Taxation Committee members felt a need to discuss recodification outside of the "hysterical 60 days" of a legislative session.

Some victims still not identified

Cholera victims

YOUNG PAKISTANI mother, holding a child she believes has cholera, seeks shelter from the rain under a tree with another child. Hospitals in the Krishnagar, Nadia district in India are still filled with cholera victims even though the peak of the epidemic seems to have passed. (UPI)

YUBA CITY, Calif. (UPI)—One month after the first hacked body was unearthed in America's worst confirmed mass murders, some victims still have not been identified and authorities say a few may never be.

Of the 25 brutally slain men—most of them middle aged white skid row itinerants—the names of seven still are not known. And officials are unable to locate any relatives of five victims who have been identified.

"There will be a few we will probably never identify," says Sheriff Roy Whiteaker of Sutter County.

This prospect is concurred in by two experts charged with the identifications—A.L. Coffey, chief of the State Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation; and Sacramento County Coroner George Nielsen, working in one of the most elaborately equipped morgues in California.

"Our main problem is the period of time the bodies were in the ground," says Nielsen. "There's only so much we have to work with," Coffey adds. "Some of the bodies have been pretty badly decomposed."

There also is another reason why identification has been so difficult. And it has a lot to do with why the victims could be buried in fruit orchards for up to two months without being missed. They had little or no family contact and frequently were on the move anyway.

"Sometimes just hearing a train whistle would make them move out," says the Rev. C.W. Renwick, who runs the rescue mission in Marysville's skid row across the Feather River. "Nobody knows them," adds Chris Bergtholdt, operator of a skid row day center for men. "They come from all over the United States—Idaho, Montana, Louisiana, Oklahoma. The unemployment is pushing them."

"A lot are alcoholics, but not all of them. Many are able-bodied, single men over 50 and our society has nothing for them." The first victim unearthed—exactly one month ago today—was not a skid row resident, but a transient farm worker who told an inquiring policeman two days before his murder he had just come to Yuba City for the "festivities."

For Kenneth Edward Whitacre, 40, of Alameda on the east side of San Francisco Bay, the "festivities" apparently was the peach thinning in fruit orchards along the Feather River five miles north of town. "He was a very gentle person. He wouldn't harm a flea," says Whitacre's sister, Mrs. Elva Bolich of San Leandro, Calif.

Whitacre, an ex-Air Force sergeant who never married, supported his parents until they died about a decade ago.

"When that was all taken care of he just decided to go," his sister said. "He liked the farm work very much."

Whitaker says bodies of the victims probably will be released to their families this week. Mrs. Bolich says her brother will be cremated and his ashes scattered at sea.

Some of the victims, like Whitacre and Jonas "Driftwood" Smallwood were easy to identify.

Smallwood, whose body with its "chop type wounds" was the 14th recovered, was identified from a slip of paper in his pocket. It contained the address and telephone number of a sister in Gainesboro, Tenn.

"He hadn't seen none of his kids in 21 years. He talked about his children all the time in his letters—how bad he hated to be away from them and how bad he missed them," says the sister, Mrs. Hazel Stafford.

"The last time I heard from him was three months ago. He told me, 'I ain't been able to work much in 10 years. I'm leaving from this place and you write me as soon as you can.' I wrote him and sent him a phone number, but never did get no answer."

Some of the other known victims: Sigurd Beierman, or "Pete Peterson," age 63 and Norwegian born. He was a frequent, mild-mannered guest of the Marysville police drunk tank.

"Pete used to come in here every day to drink the cold wine," says Lou Kerlotis, owner of a skid row liquor store.

Elbert Riley, 47, identified by multiple tattoos. "He drank all his life," according to a distant relative, T. W. Wilcox of Farmersville, Calif. "Elbert was always a guy who done as he pleased. When he took to wanting to do something he would just get up and do it."

Riley had a few drinks and got up and left home in Tulare County just before last Easter. James Wiley Howard, 64, a drifter for 20 years. "He was a pretty good worker; could pick two to three times as many peaches as I could," says his brother, Lloyd Howard, of Sacramento.

Donald "Little Red" Smith, 60, one of 10 children of a Kansas family. A former Army infantryman, he gathered up a bedroll and took to the road one day after returning home from World War II.

At a memorial mass for the victims as the body count still climbed, the Rev. Joseph Bishop of St. Isadore's Roman Catholic church said "These men were forgotten men who were hated by society but were loved by God."

Meanwhile, farm labor contractor Juan V. Corona, 37, is held without bail, charged with 10 of the murders and the only suspect in the other 15. He has pleaded innocent and a preliminary hearing is set for July 13.

"I wouldn't think there is any more mental stress on him than on anyone else in his position. After all, the people of the state of California are trying to kill him," says the defense attorney, Richard Hawk.

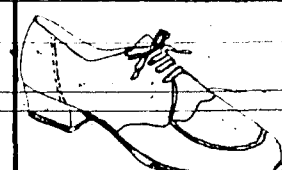

Trails linked

BANFF, Alta. (UPI)—A series of mountain trails are being linked together to make it possible to hike 500 miles along the Continental Divide on one of North America's highest walks.

Jean Chretien, Canada's Minister of Indian Affairs and Northern Development, has announced a plan to tie together existing trails in Banff, Jasper, Yoho and Kootenay National Parks, eventually extending them through Waterton Lakes National Park to hook up with the U.S. Great Divide. The Canadian Great Divide Trail, to be more than 360 miles long, is scheduled for completion by 1975.

Woman named to personnel post

BOISE (UPI)—Mrs. Emily McDermott, wife of a Pocatello attorney and mother of State Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, has been appointed to the State Personnel Commission effective June 25.

In a telephone conversation Friday, Mrs. McDermott said the office of Gov. Cecil D. Andrus notified her Thursday of her selection to the commission.

She succeeds Leonard A. Munther, Idaho Falls, who resigned recently.

Although she is the first woman to be appointed to the Personnel Commission, Mrs. McDermott said she could foresee no problem working with the male members.

"I think it will be a very pleasant experience," she said. Her appointment is effective until Oct. 1, 1975.

Mrs. McDermott served as vice chairman of the Idaho State Democratic Party from 1960-1962 and she was state registration chairman for the party in 1960.

She has had experience in personnel management in Washington, D.C., and also in San Diego, Calif., during World War II.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. McDermott has a son, Peter D. McDermott. Her son and daughter are in law practice in the Gate City with their father, Peter A. McDermott.

"She said her family thinks her appointment to the commission 'is great.'"

Asked what contributions she hopes to make to the Personnel Commission, Mrs. McDermott said, "I hope that we will render a fair decision on issues that come up based on the facts that are presented to us."

Kennedy center to open Sept. 8

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The $68 million John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts will open officially on Sept. 8 with a two-week festival of music and dance highlighted by the world premiere of "Mass," a major new work by composer Leonard Bernstein.

Center officials also announced Saturday that a number of artists will donate free performances during the festival to benefit a special fund to provide discount tickets for the elderly, low-income families and students at future events.

Among those contributing performances in the center's new, 2,700-seat concert hall will be violinist Isaac Stern, cellist

Leonard Rose and pianist Eugene Istomin in joint recital; The Fifth Dimension rock group; country singer Merle Haggard; opera tenor Nicola Gedda; pianist Gina Bachauer; singer Peggy Lee, and entertainer Leslie Uggams.

The concert hall will be opened Sept. 9 with a special concert by the National Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Antal Dorati.

The red and gold Japanese silk curtain will rise on the stage of the 2,300-seat opera house for the first time Sept. 8 for the premiere of what Bernstein calls "a theater piece for players, singers and dancers" based on the Roman Catholic Mass.

Amateur has 2-shot lead in U.S. open

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI)—Jim Simons, bidding to become the first amateur in 38 years to win golf's most treasured prize, upset the predictions of all the experts—including himself—to shoot a sizzling five-under-par 65 Saturday and grab a two-stroke third round lead in the U. S. Open Championship.

Simons, 21, the runner-up in the British Amateur just two weeks ago, wielded a hot putter to blast out seven birdies and two bogeys in a near-record performance that left him at 207, three-under-par, after 54 holes.

Tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, a two-time Open winner, was the only other player to complete the third round with a sub-par score after shooting a two-under-par 68 for a 209 total.

Before the tournament started, both Simons and Nicklaus said they didn't expect either the young players or the amateurs to have much of a chance over the short, but tricky, East Course at Merion Golf Club where, it was agreed, thinking well was a prerequisite to scoring well.

"I can't," Simons said in response to a question whether an amateur could win the Open. "But I think Lanny Wadkins would have a chance if he's playing well and gets the breaks."

Said Nicklaus: "I just don't feel that the young players will do well. It takes experience to win on this type of course. Many of the players who have come on the tour in the last five years haven't experienced a course such as this one."

Wadkins, the U. S. Amateur champion and a teammate of Simons at Wake Forest, was among the leaders for the first round-and-a-half but he shot his second straight 75 Saturday and was 11 strokes off Simons' pace, at 218.

The 65 posted by Simons was just one stroke off the course and the Open record, set by Lee Mackey in 1950, when Ben Hogan won the tournament. Tommy Jacobs (1964) and Rives McBee (1966) also shot 64's in the Open.

Bobby Nichols, with a 69 Saturday, and Bob Erickson, the co-leader at the end of the second round, with a 72, were at even-par 210.

Jim Colbert, who was tied with Erickson after 36 holes, shot a 73 Saturday and was at 211, along with Lee Trevino, who had a 69, and George Archer, who shot 70.

Ken Still, Larry Hinson and Bruce Devlin were at 212 while Ray Floyd, with a 67, headed five players at 213 and Arnold Palmer was in a group of five at 214. Palmer had a 73 Saturday.

"I wasn't too nervous today," Simons said. "My experiences in the British Amateur and with the Walker Cup team helped me concentrate. The first couple of days, I was a little nervous but today I settled down."

Simons, who lives in Butler, Pa., had made only two birdies in the first two rounds when he hit 30 of 36 greens in regulation but still shot 71-71-142.

"I felt good because I was hitting the ball well," he said. "I figured it was just a matter of time until the 12-to-14 foot putts started dropping."

They started dropping on the second hole Saturday where Simons made a 12-foot birdie putt. He made another 12-footer for a birdie at No. 6, put his approach shot at No. 8 just 15 inches from the hole and made that for a birdie, then hit a three-wood nine feet from the pin at the 179-yard ninth hole and made the putt for birdie and 32 going out.

On the back nine, Simons birdied the 10th hole with a 10-foot putt, birdied the 129-yard 13th when he hit a nine-iron six feet from the hole and made it, and made a 15-footer at the treacherous 430-yard 18th over an abandoned quarry. He made a six-foot putt to save a par at No. 18 after leaving his approach shot 60 feet below the cup.

He made bogeys at the 12th and 17th holes, each time hitting approach shots into sand traps.

AMATEUR JAMES SIMONS of Butler, Pa., moves to retrieve his ball from the cup after sinking a birdie putt on the eighth hole Saturday in the third round of the U. S. Open. Simons, who placed second in the British Amateur two weeks ago, carded a 65 to take the lead by two shots over Jack Nicklaus. (UPI telephoto)

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jackie Brown, recalled from the minors 18 days ago, combined with reliever Casey Cox on a six-hit shutout Saturday night to give the Washington Senators a 2-0 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Brown, who struck out five, gained his first victory by allowing five hits, walking six and hitting a batter in 7 and 1-3 innings. Cox finished up and allowed one hit. Ray Culp allowed five hits in eight innings of work while taking the loss as his record dropped to 7-5.

JACK NICKLAUS urges his putter into the hole for a birdie on the sixth during the third round of the U. S. open Saturday. Nicklaus stayed within two strokes of amateur leader James Simons. (UPI telephoto)

Fleckman's blow up on final 18 haunts young open leader

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI)—Jim Simons, a pink-cheeked 21-year-old kid amateur, is the U. S. Open leader with only one more round to go but the name you hear the most around here is Marty Fleckman.

There's a reason. "Marty Fleckman isn't even playing here but some people have long memories. They remember Marty Fleckman very well and in many ways Jim Simons reminds them of him."

Like Jim Simons, Marty Fleckman was a kid amateur in the 1967 U. S. Open at Baltusrol, N.J. Like Simons, too, he was out in front with only 18 holes to go. Those last 18 were a little rough.

He shot an unbelievable 80 and hardly anyone has heard of Marty Fleckman since.

"It crossed my mind," confessed Simons, who electrified everybody at the Merion Golf Course Saturday with his near record five-under-par 65 that put him two strokes up on Jack Nicklaus, the fellow he goes head-and-head against in Sunday's finale.

"I thought about Fleckman," Simons said. "I thought about him yesterday when I saw Lanny was leading. It made me think about how Fleckman was too far awhile, and what then happened to him."

Simons was talking about Lanny Wadkins, another 21-year-old amateur, who was going like Canonero II there for a while in Friday's second round and then fizzled out with a 75 Saturday.

Simons was the second youngest golfer ever to compete in the U.S. Open four years ago and he won't fall over in a dead faint if the same thing happens to him Sunday that happened to Fleckman four years ago.

"It's hard for me to imagine me winning the Open at this stage," he says. "Being an amateur I think is more of a problem for me than for most people, because I've never had too much confidence."

Should he upset all the dope and go on to win, the five-foot-10, 175-pound Pennsylvanian who started out at the University of Houston and then transferred to Wake Forest would become the first amateur to cop the Open title since Johnny Goodman did it way back in 1933.

Simons says he still is nervous about playing in the big ones like the Masters and the Open. He's so nervous and feels the need to concentrate so much that he was a little worried about being paired with irrepresible, wise-cracking Lee Trevino Saturday.

"I was a little hesitant about playing with Lee at first because I know how much he talks," confessed the youngster. "But I think he actually helped me. Yes, he talked to me. He told me how he used to fight a hook all the time, how he hit a thousand balls a day and how he practiced 11 hours a day. I said to him, 'I guess you had a hit 'em pretty quick.'"

Both Simons' parents said his father's slick 32-33 Saturday. Jim's father manufactures deodorants for a living.

The boy himself walks the course like a mountain climber. You see his shoulders first, then his chest and finally his head which is topped off by a rich thatch of blond straw colored hair.

Young Simons' face generally is expressionless whether he's knocking in a 14-footer as he did for his final birdie on the 18th or whether he's sending his second shot into the sand as he did for the first of his two bogeys on the 12th.

More than anything else, Jim Simons looks like what he is—a college student—rather than like what he does—plays golf. Strictly for pleasure... so far.

Arnold Palmer also went to Wake Forest a little bit before Simons.

"We're friends," Simons says about Palmer. "That's all. I'm not on one of his scholarships."

Simons made national TV for the first time Saturday when the camera focused on him leading all 64 competitors in. Palmer was among those who dragged behind with a 73 for 214—or seven shots in back of his young Butler, Pa., neighbor.

"Poor Arnie," commented one guy watching the action here on TV Saturday. "It's five o'clock already and he hasn't even made the tube."

Trainer gets suspension

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Noted California thoroughbred trainer Michael "Buster" Millerick was suspended for 15 days Saturday by the Hollywood Park board of stewards after the drug methamphetamine was found in a test on his winning horse Vitepost.

Vitepost won the sixth race last Saturday and a urine test taken after the race showed positive signs of the drug.

Millerick's suspension starts Sunday and runs until July 4. During his suspension, Millerick will be barred from working on the grounds.

After traces of the drug were found in the horse, other thoroughbreds condition by Millerick were placed under trainer R. W. Mulhall pending an investigation by the stewards.

Player plays under guard

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI)—South African star Gary Player, who was heckled in an earlier round about his country's racial policies, played the third round of the U. S. Open Golf Championship Saturday with an escort of four security men, including two who were armed. There were no incidents.

"This is a heck of a way to have to play," Player commented once to an official, but otherwise said nothing about the escort which he had not requested.

Player shot a two-over-par 72 in the third round, wrecking his bid for a par round when he had a double bogey six on the last hole. His three-round total of nine-over-par 219 left him far out of contention for the title.

In the opening round of the Open on Thursday, Player was heckled on two holes by two black men, who shouted at him about South Africa's racial policies. On Friday, he was accompanied by a single uniformed special policeman, and there were no incidents. There was no explanation why the escort was increased on Saturday.

Open leader

"That entered my mind," said Simons, who played in the Open for the first time in 1967 as a 17-year-old. "I thought about it yesterday when Wadkins shot a 75 after being near the lead."

Gary Player, who was heckled in a minor incident during the first round, was escorted by four security men—two of them armed—as he shot a two-over-par 72 for a 219 total, far down the list.

Sunday's final 18 holes will be televised nationally (ABC) beginning at 4 p.m. EDT.

Nicklaus claims Palmer was 'just needling' on slow play

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus said Saturday Arnold Palmer was just "needling" him with previous day remarks about slow play in the U. S. Open Golf Championship but the blond Ohioan came prepared with a defense just the same.

"It's so ridiculous," Nicklaus said after he finished the third round of the Open at the Merion Golf Club with a 68, to be two strokes off the three-under-par, 54-hole total of 207 posted by young amateur Jim Simons.

But Nicklaus was prepared for questions about Palmer's remarks when he walked into the press tent.

"Anticipated what was going to be asked," he said, "so I brought some ammunition" and he whipped out a piece of paper.

Nicklaus said that when Palmer went off at 9:38 a.m. Thursday in the opening round, he finished at 2 p.m., two minutes later than Nicklaus did when he went off the same time Friday.

And Nicklaus said that when he went off late Thursday, he finished 11 minutes later than Palmer did when he went off at the same time Friday.

Palmer had said after Friday's second round that he felt slow play in front of him was "unfair" and that "you've got to keep play moving early in the day."

Palmer, who made his remarks in response to questions about Nicklaus' earlier comments regarding "tricky and unfair" pin placements, said Friday he understood that Nicklaus was 20 to 25 minutes behind in Friday's morning round.

"That really slowed down things" in the afternoon, Palmer said.

Nicklaus said he and Palmer joked about the incident on the putting green prior to teeing off Saturday.

"It was a frame," Nicklaus said. He said Palmer was "just kidding about it" and putting the "needle" to him.

"Arnold and I settled that this morning on the putting green," he said. "It was two ends played against the middle," he added.

Nicklaus, who had a two-over-par 72 Friday, said he thought the pin placements Saturday were "easier."

Nicklaus said the fact an amateur was leading going into the final, pressure-filled round of the Open didn't "make any difference."

"A great many amateur play courses groomed like this one," Nicklaus said. "They are used to faster greens," he added. "The (the pros) generally play clubs that have greens groomed like the members play."

Sutton baffles Astros on one hit

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Don Sutton hurled the second one-hitter of his career Saturday night to blank the Houston Astros 4-0 as the Los Angeles Dodgers pushed across all of their runs in the sixth inning on five straight hits and a fielder's choice.

The only hit off the 26-year-old righthander was Jim Wynn's leadoff double in the top of the sixth inning. Left fielder Richie Allen said in the dugout he just missed catching the line drive, but that it trickled off the fingertips of his glove.

Sutton also yielded four walks while striking out three men in keeping the Dodgers 5-1-2 games behind the division-leading San Francisco Giants. Sutton's other near no-hitter was against the Giants when he beat them 5-0 May 1, 1969.

The key hit in the Dodgers' big sixth inning was Willie Davis' double. By going two for four in the game, Davis increased his National League leading average to .359.

The speedy Dodger outfielder now has hit in 10 straight games and in 39 of his last 42.

Loser Jack Billingham had limited the Dodgers to four singles until rookie Bill Buckner launched the Los Angeles sixth with a "bad hop single" to shortstop. Davis then delivered Buckner all the way from first on his double down the left field line.

Allen kept the inning rolling by beating out a slow roller, which moved Davis to third.

UCLA ace captures singles

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI)—Jim Connors of UCLA, using a tremendous serve and consistent placement, captured the 57th NCAA singles championship over Roscoe Tanner of Stanford Saturday.

Connors, the first freshman to win the title, handed the Stanford sophomore a 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 loss in humid, 90 degree heat.

The Bruins star, an 18-year-old Belleville, Ill. native, handed Tanner his second defeat in the NCAA finals in two consecutive years.

Connors, the top-ranking U.S. juniors player and second seed in the NCAA championship, lost his service only once in 19 games while winning his eighth match of the week.

Tanner, a member of the U.S. Junior Davis Cup team, lost his service three times and on each occasion it was a crucial setback. Tanner had seven double faults compared with only four for Connors.

Except for loss of service, Tanner and Connors traded point for point in the evenly contested title match until the decisive fourth set when Connors pulled ahead 5-3.

Tanner never regained an edge. "His serve was the best I've ever seen," Tanner said. "I was never able to put any pressure on him."

His margin over Tyrrell-Ford's Jackie Stewart of Scotland made experts forecast the Belgian, who is runner-up in the world standings, will close in on the Scotsman who is at the top of the table.

After three races, Stewart has 24 points from two victories and a second place. Ickx has 10 points from one second and one third place.

During the trials, Ickx clocked the fastest lap in 1:17.42 and Stewart's 1:17.64 was the third best time, after Mexican BRM driver Pedro Rodriguez who clocked 1:17.46. The Mexican is in eighth position on the world table with three points.

Ferrari driver Mario Andretti of Negareth, Pa., who holds third place in the world standings with nine points, clocked 1:18.85 for a seventh place in the grid.

Pontiac won by Son Ange

CHICAGO (UPI)—Calumet Farm's Son Ange, never worse than second in the one-mile dash, got a steady hand ride down the stretch from jockey Chuck Baltazar Saturday to handily win the $100,000 Pontiac Grand Prix for three year olds by two lengths at Arlington Park.

Son Ange, off at 9-1 in the betting by the 31,984 fans, came out of the gate in front but yielded to Gem Stable's Fast Fellow in the run out of the chute and down the backstretch.

But Baltazar kept him on the outside of Fast Fellow around the far turn and heading into the stretch, he came out of the middle of the pack and galloped home with ease.

Son Ange, scoring his first stake victory but his sixth win in eight lifetime starts, was clocked at 1:36 for the mile on a fast track, considerably slower than both the track and world record of 1:32 1-5 by F. Doctor Fager as a four-year-old in 1968.

The winner did not race as a two-year-old and Saturday's victory paid him $68,400 of the gross purse, his biggest purse.

Jockey Ray Broussard brought Greenbrier Stable's Mr. Pow Wow into second money in the last few strides to win $20,000 by a half-length over Annette Mann's Staunch Avenger who took third money of $15,000. Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French trailed by a length and a half.

Jim French, second in the Kentucky Derby and Belmont and third in the Preakness, went off as the 6-5 favorite while Fast Fellow was the 3-1 second choice and Mr. Pow Wow third choice at 6-1.

Mann, Liquori star but UCLA cops NCAA crown

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Marty Liquori proved he is the world's greatest miler when he sprinted out of a box with a lap to go Saturday to win his third consecutive title in the NCAA track and field championships.

The good-looking senior from Villanova, who already has won six ICAA titles and a flock of others including a big victory over world-record holder Jim Ryun a month ago, set a meet record in the process while clicking off a 3:57.6 mile, beating the mark he set two years ago by one-tenth of a second.

While Liquori and Ralph Mann of BYU, who became the first man to win three 440 hurdles titles were the indi-dual stars, UCLA with its depth came on in the closing events to win the team title for the first time in five years with 52 points, 11 more than cross-city rival Southern California. Oregon was third with 38, and BYU fourth with 35.

Mann pulled away in the final strides to win the 440 hurdles title in 49.6, well off his world, American and collegiate mark of 48.8, but good enough in a strong wind to hold off Melvin Bassett, the NCAA college division champ from North Carolina Central, and Big 8 champ Jim Bolding of Oklahoma State.

Liquori, though, was the man who captured the cheers of a fine crowd of 12,500 in Husky Stadium as he worked his way from sixth place with about 600 yards to go and came on in one of his patented finishes to win by 10 over Bob Wheeler of Duke, who helped set the pace before giving ground.

In winning the mile for the third year, Liquori joined Don Ghermann of Wisconsin (1948-49-50), Ron Delaney of Villanova (1956-57-58) and Dyrrol Burleson of Oregon (1960-61-62) as the only man in the 50 years of the collegiate championships to turn the trick.

But it wasn't easy for Liquori Saturday.

Cash bats Tigers by Cleveland

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Norm Cash belted his 15th homer of the year Saturday, equalling his total output of 1970, and Aurelio Rodriguez his sixth homer as the Detroit Tigers posted a 5-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

Joe Niekro, who came in on the third inning, blanked the Indians on three hits over six innings, but needed ninth-inning relief help from Fred Scherman who registered his 11th save.

Mets nip Phillies 6-5 in 15 innings

NEW YORK (UPI)—Don Clendenon homered with two out in the bottom of the 15th inning, Saturday to give the New York Mets a 6-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies and cut Pittsburgh's lead to 2-1-2 games in the National League East.

Playing before a sellout helmet day crowd of 62,171, New York had to come from behind twice to win the game. Clendenon caught a 1-1 pitch and sent it over the 374-foot sign in right field to end the four-hour-41 minute marathon, the Mets' longest game of the season.

Danny Frisella, the Mets' fourth-pitcher, yielded only four hits in his four innings of relief work to win his third game in four decisions. Billy Wilson, who served up a tying homer Ken Singleton in the 14th, was tagged with his second loss against no victories.

The Mets had tied the score 5-5 in the bottom of the 14th when Ken Singleton delivered his second homer in two days.

Cubs shred Cards 7-1

CHICAGO (UPI)—Ron Santo drove in four runs and Joe Pepitone continued his sensational hitting with four straight safeties Saturday to lead Bill Hands and the Chicago Cubs to a 7-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, who dropped their 12th game in their last 14.

Hand scattered five hits to pick up his eighth win against eight losses. It was his fourth victory during June.

Santo drove in his first run in the fourth-inning on an infield out, scoring Billy Williams who the Cubs' first run and drove in three more in the sixth with his 14th homer of the season.

Morton, Expos rip Pirates

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Cal Morton scattered ten hits and Ron Fairly drove in three runs—two on his fourth homer of the season—as the Montreal Expos cooled off the Pirates with a 10-1 victory Saturday.

The Pirates, who had won three in a row and seven of their last eight, continued to lead the National League's Eastern Division.

Morton, winning his sixth game against nine losses, was staked to a 5-0 led after two innings as the Expos struck early against losing pitcher Bob Mosse (5-4).

Fairly's homer came after a two-out first inning single by Rusty Staub. The Expos got three unearned runs in the second, aided by a three-base throwing error by Mosse on a bunt.

Boots Day and John Bateman opened with singles and, when Gary Sutherland bunted, Mosse threw to an un-manned third base, the ball going into leftfield.

Johnson meet set June 25-26

IDAHO FALLS—Pinecrest Golf Course professional George Orullian, today announced that signups for the annual Forde Johnson golf tournament are now open.

The tournament will be held on the Pinecrest course June 25-26. Golfers will play an 18-hole round and the round can be played either of the two days.

As in years past the tourney will have four flights with golfers in the 0.5 handicap bracket playing in the championship flight. Other handicap brackets are: first flight, 6-9 second; 10-13 and third 14 and up.

The first three flights are played on a gross basis with the third flight prizes being awarded on a net basis.

First place in each flight wins a new set of pro grade irons and second place will take home a new set of pro grade woods.

Golfers are urged to send their entries to George Orullian, Box 2052, Idaho Falls, 83401 to be assured of a place in the tourney, one of the largest in Idaho.

Twins nip Sox 2-1 in 10 innings

BLOOMINGTON Minn. (UPI)—George Mitterwald's bases-loaded single with two outs in the bottom of the 10th inning Saturday powered the Minnesota Twins to a 2-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Mitterwald's hit came off loser Terry Forster after Tony Oliva had reached base on a fielders' choice and Leo Cardenas and Rich Reese walked.

The victory was the Twin's sixth straight and came after rain had delayed the game for one hour after nine innings.

Chicago took a 10-lead on an unearned run in the second and maintained the lead until the ninth.

Smith and Mrs. Court take singles crowns in London tournament

LONDON (UPI)—Stan Smith and Margaret Court Saturday won their respective singles titles at the London Grass Court tennis championships.

Smith, the No. 2 ranked American from Pasadena, Calif., upset Wimbledon champion John Newcombe of Australia, 6-6, 6-3 in 68 minutes while Mrs. Court won a nervy three-setter from Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

Smith, seeded fourth for next week's Wimbledon championship, shut out the defending all-England title holder with brilliant serving and superb net play. He only dropped 11 points in the match, three to double faults, and only in the opening game was his service threatened, and then only briefly.

Three double faults by Newcombe in the 14th game put him 30-40. He deuced with an ace but Smith gained advantage when the Aussie dumped a backhand return into the net and then Smith hit a brilliant service return for the break.

A fourth game break, at 30, in the second set was all Smith needed.

Smith is ranked behind Australians Rod Laver, Newcombe and Ken Rosewall for Wimbledon. Many experts figure he has a good chance of winning and after his victory today his odds are expected to shorten from 8-1.

"I am very pleased with the way I served today," he said, adding: "It's good for my confidence with Wimbledon around the corner. Now I must keep my concentration and desire at peak for the next 12 days."

Mrs. Court and Mrs. King, the top two women's players in the world, had not met since their epic final at Wimbledon last year which the Australian won.

Both girls served double faults on crucial points; both made unforced errors, but in the end Mrs. Court's superior power got her through.

The girls are seeded to meet in the Wimbledon final with Mrs. Court favored to win the title for the fourth time. Mrs. King scored a hat-trick of wins between 1966-68.

In the first set both girls dropped their delivery but Mrs. Court eventually wrapped it up in the ninth game on her fifth set point.

In the second set the opening two games went against service. Mrs. King got the vital break in the eighth, helped by a double fault by the Australian, and then served out the set.

In the decider, with both girls serving better, games went with delivery to the eighth when Mrs. King served two double faults to trail 3-5. The Australian wrapped up the match in the next game on her second match point.

Cornell sprints into rowing crown

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Dark horse Cornell broke into an early lead and thwarted a strong finishing drive by favored Washington Saturday to win its first Intercollegiate Rowing Association Varsity Eight National Championship since 1963.

With junior Dave Wetherill in the stroke position for only the fourth time, the Big Red never trailed while becoming the first crew to come out of a repechage or second chance heat, to win the varsity challenge cup in 69 years of IRA racing.

Cornell finished in 6:06 flat, eight-tenths of a second faster than defending champion Washington. It was the 19th time the Big Red have won the IRA.

Washington started slowly but moved out of the pack to challenge Cornell at the midway point of the 2,000 meter course. The Huskies cut the Cornell lead to a half length at 500 meters and the two teams went neck and neck for the rest of the distance with the Big Red pulling out a quarter-length win.

Ten mile an hour winds which hampered earlier races had virtually died down on Onondaga Lake as the varsity eight competition began.

Pennsylvania finished third, Brown was fourth, Rutgers was fifth and Eastern favorite Navy was last in the six crew field.

Harrelson tries hand at golfing

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Ken Harrelson will hang up his Cleveland Indians baseball uniform next week and take a swing at the professional golf tour.

Harrelson, 30, winner of the American League's Most Valuable Player award when he was with Boston in 1968, told manager Alvin Dink Friday of his decision to quit baseball.

"It was the most difficult decision of my life," said Harrelson. "But pro golf is something I have always wanted to do."

Harrelson, who had been sitting on the bench since the Indians brought up hard-hitting Chris Chambliss from the farm system, believes he can make a living on the pro circuit.

Dark agrees. "If somebody will back him for three to five years I think he definitely can make it."

"I have several people who are willing to give me up to $50,000 a year for three years to learn the pro tour," he said.

"I have to try it," Dark said with Chambliss hitting at a 350 clip, there just wasn't any room for Harrelson.

"I really hate to see Ken leave the game but in our particular situation, we couldn't play him," said Dark.

Harrelson was hitting only .203 in 51 games with five home runs and 14 runs batted in.

Harrelson suffered a broken ankle in spring training and missed most of the 1970 season and never returned to form.

Stars sign Robbins and Combs

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Austin "Red" Robbins and Glen Combs, two of the starters in the Utah Stars' drive for the American Basketball Association championship, have signed their contracts for the 1971-72 season, the club announced Saturday.

Robbins, a forward, and Combs, a guard who came to Utah from the Texas Chaparrals in mid-season, came to terms with the club only a few days after another starter, forward Willie Wise, signed his contract.

Center Zelmo Beaty is under a long-term contract with the Stars, leaving only Merv Jackson of the starting five still unsigned just a month and a day after the Utah team wrapped up the ABA championship with a best-of-seven victory over Kentucky.

Control hunt regulations now available at vendors

The controlled hunt regulations are now available at local vendors and the Regional Fish and Game Office.

The deadline for submitting applications is July 13th and the first drawings for moose, sheep, and goat is July 29th. The first drawing for antelope, deer, and elk is August 11th. Hunters should make sure they read the instructions carefully, obtain a yellow application envelope and fill out the form correctly.

A new regulation requires that a cashier's check or money order for the proper hunt fees be included in all applications. Prior to this year it was only necessary to include money with some of the applications. If a person plans on applying for the second drawing he should include a new application form and check or money order because the previous one will not be returned in time to apply again.

There are several changes in the number of permits available for controlled hunts in the Magic Valley Region. This is the second year for controlled deer hunting in units 47 and 54 through 57. The largest reduction occurred in unit 54 where 500 less are available this year. Dale Turnipseed, regional game manager, feels this herd can be built up more rapidly by reducing the number of permits. The Soldier Mountain elk unit has been reduced to 100 permits each for the early and late hunt in unit 43. This may be increased in the forthcoming year or so if the herd builds up an anticipated.

The antelope and goat seasons and permits are about the same as last year but there has been a 3 week extension of the season until December 5 in some of the goat units. Bighorn sheep are now on a controlled hunt basis in Idaho so be sure and check your favorite area for the number of permits available.

When you close the gap in traffic, you're really setting the trap for a rear-end collision, says the Idaho State Police. Stay a safe distance behind the car ahead of you. You will be able to pass more safely because you will be able to see more of the traffic scene.

American Oaks won by outsider

NEW YORK (UPI)—Our Cheri Amour, the extreme outsider in the field, pulled away in the stretch Saturday to win the 53th running of the $131,625 Coaching Club American Oaks for three-year old fillies at Belmont Park.

Graffiti, the 8-5 favorite with the crowd of 40,261, was four lengths back of the winner in the field of eight starters. Inca Queen was third, 2 1/4 lengths farther back.

Deceit, seeking a sweep of the Triple Crown for fillies, after having won the Acorn and Mother Goose, finished a badly beaten seventh.

It was the first stakes victory for Our Cheri Amour, a $1,800 yearling purchase. The winner ran the one and one-half mile in 2:29 4/5 for a track record.

Our Cheri Amour, a shipper from Delaware Park, and ridden by Jack Kurtz, was never worse than second at any stage.

Spit and Polish, a stablemate of Inca Queen, rushed to the front under Eddie Belmonte and held a one and one-half length lead after going a half mile. Our Cheri Amour was second, followed by Sea Saga and Grantit.

As Spit and Polish began to drop back after the mile mark, Our Cheri Amour took over the lead by a half-length with Sea Saga in third place and Decet moving into fourth.

Kurtz, sensing a slow pace, moved his mount into a two-length lead turning for home as Graffiti ranged up to be second.

Boxers whitewash scandal

MADRID (UPI)—The European Amateur Boxing Union (EABU) Saturday found a loophole to avert disqualification of doped boxers and thus saved the finals of the European championships from scandal.

Six boxers entered in the championships have been found to have been using dope, Louis Blonstein, chief of the medical commission of the EABU said.

If the rules had been applied, all six would have been punished and the two among them scheduled to fight in tonight's final disqualified.

Blonstein said that the tests proving the six were doped have been declared invalid on a technicality by the EABU.

The loophole EABU protocol demands that bottles containing the urine of fighters submitted to a doping test be properly labelled with the athletes name, the date and time of the test, and have to be signed by the athlete.

The bottles containing fluid taken from boxers during the Madrid championships were only labelled with the athletes number, Blonstein said. Thus, the test were technically invalid.

Two of the fighters who, Blonstein said, were found to have been doped in championship fights, were boxers who qualified for the finals. They are welterweight Manfred Wolke of East Germany and lightweight Mate Parlov of Yugoslavia.

Blonstein identified the other four as Alain Victor of France, and Emulos of Greece, Constantin Gruescu of Romania and Michael Kingwell of England. Gruescu won the mini-flyweight bronze medal, and Kingwell the same prize in the superlightweight division.

Miller clears 15-1/4 to place fourth in meet

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Bill Miller, Twin Falls graduate, finished fourth in the pole vault division of the Golden West track and field championships here Saturday night.

Miller accomplished the same height as the third place finisher but was relegated to fourth place on fewer misses.

Roger Martins, San Jose, Calif., took the title with a 15-foot, 9-inch leap, and Michael White of Compton, Calif., was second at 15-6. David Sarrett, Hollywood, Fla., and Miller cleared 15 feet, one-quarter inch to account for third and fourth. Fifth wound up in a tie between Fritz Felzer of Glendale, Calif., and Ron Mooers, Palencia, Calif., who cleared 14 feet, 6 inches.

The result meant that Miller, who intended to pass until 15 feet when he left Twin Falls, cleared his initial height — but not on the first try. He then was unable to clear 15-6, although he had done it consistently in practice during the week. Miller was the second Twin Falls man to compete in the Golden West pole vault, the first being Scott Cryder three years ago.

The event was his final showing as a "high school" vaulter. Before concluding his career here, the youngster set the Idaho state mark of 15 feet, was the best junior vaulter in the nation last year, led the nation for a time with a 15-foot, 7-inch leap this spring and reached his all-time best in a practice session Wednesday night when he cleared 15-10. His 15-7 leap is the best ever recorded by a prepster in Idaho. Only Miller, Cryder and Nampa senior-to-be Larin Bailey have cleared 15 feet as high schoolers in Idaho.

Muniz wins to remain undefeated

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Unbeaten Armando Muniz of Los Angeles scored a knockout at 1:41 of the third round Saturday over Mario Marquez of Guadalajara, Mexico, in their scheduled 10-round main event at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

Muniz, 152, floored Marquez, 150, with a left-right combination to the head and referee Larry Rozadilla tolled the full count over the Mexican boxer. Muniz was well ahead on points at the time of the knockout which made his record 13-0-1.

It was Muniz' first fight as a junior middleweight and was expected to meet Gil King of Los Angeles in his next bout.

In the 10-round semi-main event, Jorge Gomez, 120 3-4, Los Angeles, scored a split decision victory over Jose Mendoza, 120 1-2, North Hollywood.

Coors-First Federal tops Turf Club for city slowpitch crown

Coors-First Federal, riding a seven-run first inning, defeated dog-tired Turf Club 13-7 Saturday night to win the Twin Falls city slowpitch softball championship.

It was the second championship in six days for Manager John Astorquia's speedsters as they won the Twin Falls Invitational Sunday.

In the quarterfinals, came back to win three straight and get into the finals. But a couple of Turf Club errors augmented the seven-hit batting of Coors-First Federal in the first frame and after that the teams traded runs.

Turf Club opened the day by eliminating Blitz Beer 13-7 with Frank Herbert cracking a three-run homer. The runners-up then nipped Royal Lounge 7-4 and went on for a measure of revenge in dropping the Alley 10-3. In that one, Bill Marlett and Keith Cheney hammered homers.

In the championship game, Coors got off to the big lead and held Turf Club off the board until the third when Marlett and Kendall Kinghorn crashed back-to-back solo homers. Turf Club succeeded in reducing the deficit to two runs but couldn't get closer. Gary Quesnell was credited with a homer when his rather routine fly to the outfield fell in safely when two Turf Club men collided while trying to catch it.

In Friday's action, Culligan-Caswell swooped from behind with seven runs in the fifth inning to eliminate Depot Grill 10-9. Blitz then ousted Culligan-Caswell 10-3 with Pete Peterson leading the way on homerun-Keehler Cookies ousted Olympia Beer-Ford Beer-Ford Transfer 10-7 before falling out of contention on a 19-4 drubbing at the hands of Varsity Barbershop. Thompson hit a homer and Walker was four-for-four in that one.

In the championship semifinals, Mark Brown delivered three hits and Kirk Williams drove in the first two runs with two of his three hits as Coors-First Federal bounced the Alley 14-2. The Alley's chance for an upset died in the fourth inning when three errors gave Coors four unearned runs. Coors then tacked on seven more in the seventh.

Niagara surprises in Cinema 'cap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)—Lightly-regarded Niagara put on a stout stretch run Saturday to capture the 26th running of the $67,400 cinema handicap for three-year-olds on the turf at Hollywood Park.

But Niagara was not to be denied in the stretch as he overhauled horses with long strides to finish a nose in front of Crimson Clem. Heavily-favored Triple Bend was third and Dr. Knighton was fourth in a field of 13.

Niagara raced the 1-1/8 miles on the turf in 1:48 1-5 just 4-5 of a second off the stakes record set last year by D'Artagnan.

Under the guiding of Fernando Toro, Niagara laid well in the pack for the first half-mile of the race as Petes Ruler cut out a fast pace for the sophomores.

It was not until the horses started into the final turn that Toro Niagara into a drive that ended with his surprise victory.

Triple Bend broke more alertly than usual and was in third place until the head of the stretch where he went to the front. But the late-closing Niagara and Crimson Clem overtook him in the drive for the wire.

Niagara rewarded his backers in the crowd of more than 40,000 with $17, $8.60 and $5. Crimson Clem paid $7.40 and $4.60 while Triple Bend returned $3. The victory was worth $40,400, more than double the entire previous career earnings of Niagara.

The winner is a son of Bold Lad and was bred in Kentucky. In 10 previous starts, he had scored but two wins and three seconds. Niagara, however, showed stakes running ability by finishing a fast closing fourth in the Violator in the Argonaut stakes last month.

The cinema is one of the major test leading up to the $100,000 Hollywood Derby July 3 and six of the last eight derby winners finished in the money in the Cinema.

Favorite wins test at mile

LIVONIA, Mich. (UPI)—Favored Native Royalty staved off a brutal early pace set by Metric Mile and zoomed down the stretch Saturday to take the $132,200 Michigan Mile at Detroit Race Course.

Jockey Ronnie Campbell, who had ridden the winner only a week earlier in taking the $25,000 prep race from No No Billy, tucked his 4-year-old colt in behind the leaders and didn't make his move until hitting the stretch of the mile and one-eighth race.

Native Royalty, a son of Raise A Native, closed one and one-half lengths ahead of runnerup Royal Harmony, which was two lengths up on third place Judgable.

The winner's time of 1:48 3-5 was a second off the track record set by Galandrito in 1969, was good for a return of $8.40, $5.20 and $3.00. Royal Harmony paid $7.80 and $4.60 while Judgable gave back $5.00.

The 23rd and richest renewal of the Michigan Mile was Native Royalty's third stakes win of the season. He captured the Carter Handicap May 1 and then the Roseben Handicap May 17.

Metric Mile shot out of the starting gate like he'd been burned, with Judgable just a degree behind. The two kept up their killing pace about a mile before the leader faded in favor of Judgable.

Stanford miss wins golf title

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Stanford's Shelley Hamlin came from behind to capture the women's intercollegiate golf championship Saturday by firing a fourth-round 76 for a 301 total.

Miss Hamlin of Fresno, Calif., shot 74-74-77 in earlier rounds of the tourney at the University of Georgia.

In second place was UCLA's Janet Webber, also of Fresno, who had a 73-74-73 but slumped to an 82 in the fourth round for a total of 305.

Peggy Harmon of Vanderbilt was third with 77-73-81-79—310.

In team competition, Miss Webber and Carol Ginder combined to give UCLA first place with a 620 total. Arizona State was next with 638 and Miami-Dade Junior College third with a 640.

The winner of the "B" division was Teri Rudolph of California State at Los Angeles with a 333, and the "C" division winner was the University of Georgia's Mary King of Summerville, Ga., with a 363.

Defending individual champion Cathy Gaughan of Arizona State ended in fourth place with a 78-82-74-77—311.

D. Moyer retains crown

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — Veteran Denny Moyer defended his North American middleweight championship Saturday with a unanimous 12-round decision over South American champ Jose Chirino.

The nationally televised bout was held in the Sahara-Tahoe Hotel overlooking Lake Tahoe. The bout drew 1,500 fans who watched Moyer, 156-1-2, take 10 of the 12 rounds.

Chirino, 158-1-2, continually attacked Moyer during the 12 rounds, but Moyer managed to outscore his opponent. There were no knock downs. It was Chirino's third loss in his last 40 bouts. Two months ago he knocked out Nino Benvenuti, the former world's champion.

Alou's triple lets Yanks edge Orioles in 11th

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Felipe Alou tripled in two runs with two out in the 11th inning off reliever Dick Hall Saturday night to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

After Horace Clarke singled with one out in the 11th, Jerry Kenney sacrificed him to second. Bobby Murcer was then intentionally walked and Alou tripled in both runners.

Gary Waslewski, the fourth Yankee pitcher, went the final innings to save Jack Aker's third victory. Hall took the loss.

Merv Rettenmund, who tied the game 3-3 in the fifth with a run-scoring single, tied it again 4-4 with two out in the ninth with a single off Aker. Don Buford singled with one out and moved to second on a groundout before scoring on Rettenmund's hit in the ninth.

The Yanks had taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the ninth on Clarke's single and Kenney's triple that knocked out starter Jim Palmer.

When it comes to pinching garden chrysanthemums most gardeners are hesitant.

This should have started when plants were about eight inches high, but there's still time to pinch.

Should you plant the florist or potted chrysanthemum outdoors? Some of these chrysanthemums will bloom for you outdoors, but most of them are late bloomers and are caught by frost first.

Control: Spray with malathion or Sevin. Aphids are soft-bodied lice which cause unsightly, twisting and curling of shoots.

When leaves start to turn brown at base and continue dying up the stem, this could be foliar nematode, the worst pest of chrysanthemums.

BE YOUR OWN PLANT DOCTOR: Here's how to diagnose some house plant troubles: If leaves are curled and twisted, look for red spider.

Leaf scorching on ferns, begonias and foliage plants may be a sign of lack of water, sunburn or not enough humidity.

water. Scorched edges or drying up along the edges is a physiological disease and is usually due to dry air.

GROUND COVERS: Here are some ground covers you can use around foundation plantings or in rock gardens.

WOODPECKERS: Many a homeowner believes that the woodpecker is an injurious bird. Not so. All woodpeckers render us a service by reducing the insect population of trees and forests.

Control: The rate of pecking may be as much as 100 per minute, enough to give any creature a headache.

QUESTION BOX. QUESTION OF THE WEEK: F.R. of Twin Falls: "I've read a lot about using mulches during the summer months, but no one seems to know which mulch is best."

First, I'll explain what a mulch is. It's any material placed around the base of a plant to keep weeds out and moisture in.

Here are some fertilizers that can be used to prevent yellowing of leaves when a mulch is used: Ammonium sulfate, ammonium nitrate, complete plant food such as 12-12-12 or 10-10-10.

Shell Oil leaving New York City at cost of $35 million

NEW YORK (UPI)—Is it worth $35 million for a corporation to divest itself of New York City and its problems of high taxes, crime, pollution, faulty commuter transportation and overcrowded streets and residential areas?

Like any common stock company, Shell has a vested interest in Wall Street, the big banks and the news media.

Planning began four years ago when space requirements were considered. Two years ago, after a firm decision to move had been made, the company turned to people problems.

Except for the marginal employee, the company invited everyone to go to Houston.

Anthropologists plans changed

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—A group of fledgling anthropologists who planned to study the Amerindians of Guyana this summer have shifted the project to neighboring Surinam, after the Guyanese government withdrew permission without explanation.

The study, sponsored by Inter American University (IAU) in San German, P.R., in cooperation with the Caribbean Institute for the Study of Latin America (CISLA), will run July 1-Aug. 8.

The project was designed as a cross-check against a similar, study conducted among the Kofan Indians of Ecuador by Prof. Charles Fugler, a biologist at Oklahoma City University, Okla.

When the Indians were given domestic animals, they turned the cattle loose then went out and hunted them when they wanted meat.

Mind Your Money

An increasing number of parents and students are considering the possibility of studying abroad. It costs less than you think.

For something in the neighborhood of $1,000 an academic year you can get: tuition, room and board, jet transportation and a number of extras such as vacation field trips.

Grants

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, has announced grants to Boise State College and the Lewis-Clark Normal School for library acquisitions.

which explains how foreign study programs and credits work. You can get the pamphlet, "General Memorandum For Those Interested In Foreign Study."

While you're at it, ask the institute to send another good pamphlet, "Some Major Reference Works on Study Abroad."

Wheat payments due soon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department announced Thursday it will send wheat growers preliminary 1971 support payments of $1.20 per bushel shortly after July 1.

The checks, representing about 75 per cent of the estimated total value of 1971 wheat payments, will provide about $700 million to growers who comply with federal crop controls. In addition, payments of about $1 billion to feed grain growers and about $800 million to cotton farmers shortly after July 1 will bring overall summer farm payments to about $2.5 billion.

Officials said final support payments due for wheat growers after Dec. 1 could possibly lift the overall 1971 total for the wheat, feed grain and cotton programs to $2.7-$2.8 billion. This would be $400 million to $500 million below last year's payment total of $3.2 billion.

The $1.20 per bushel preliminary wheat payment will be made under a law guaranteeing farmers total returns of 100 per cent of the "fair earning power" parity price on some 535 million bushels of wheat consumed for food in the United States.

Under the program, the preliminary wheat payment represents three quarters of the estimated gap between the full parity price as of July 1 and the average July-November wheat market price. The remainder of the wheat payment will be made in December after the actual July-November market price average has been determined.

If, for example, the July 1 parity price remains at the present level of $2.92 a bushel and the July-November market average is $1.40, the overall payment would be the gap between these figures, or $1.52 a bushel. Subtracting the preliminary payment of $1.20 a bushel would then leave a final December payment of .32 cents.

Weather favors fruit

BOISE (UPI) — Spring weather conditions in Idaho were generally favorable for fruit with temperatures near seasonal normal and minimal orchard heating required, state crop reports said today.

Idaho's sweet cherry production is estimated at 3,000 tons or about double last year's short crop of 1,600 tons, but six per cent less than 1969. The peach crop is expected to total 15 million pounds compared to nine million pounds last year and is the same magnitude as the 1969 crop.

Water tested

WATER IS ESSENTIAL in all environments and is one of the major problems in the war against pollution. Water quality can be determined by tests, these boys learn at the University of Idaho Environmental workshop. From left are Mike Humphries, Ted Benoit and Rick Reinstein, all Twin Falls County, and Dorrell-Larsen, Boise, University of Idaho extension irrigation specialist.

18 states have blight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reports that corn blight has now been detected in 124 counties in 18 states, but the nation's corn crop is still "in generally good condition."

Most of the cases, it said, have resulted from volunteer seedlings which sprang up from blight infested seed dropped last year.

Wanted: inspector

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — The old west isn't quite dead. Nevada advertised today for a brand inspector in hopes he can stop increased cattle rustling in the state.

3 named

BOISE — Goy Cecil Andrus announced today the appointment of three men to the Idaho, Pea and Lentil Commission.

Farm

Spuds for processing up

BOISE (UPI) — Potato processing in Idaho, plus Idaho potatoes processed in Malheur County, Ore., for July through May accounted for 41,475,000 CWT of raw potatoes, according to reports from processors compiled by the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Of this quantity, 39,673,000 CWT were used in manufacturing of food products and 1,802,000 CWT for starch and flour. Of the total processed, 39,430,000 CWT were Idaho potatoes and 2,045,000 CWT were shipped into Idaho from other states.

The quantity of Idaho potatoes utilized in processing during the first 11 months of this marketing season was four per cent above the amount used during the same period last year.

Usage for food products was three per cent more than last year. Starch and flour usage was less than last year, down 10 per cent.

Babies starve

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — An average of one baby a month each year dies of starvation in Houston hospitals and uncounted others die of malnutrition at home, a Baylor College of Medicine physician estimates. Dr. Buford Nichols, also chief of gastroenterology at the Junior League Clinic of Texas Children's Hospital, said by the time most starving infants reach the hospital they are literally skin and bones because their mothers do not understand what is happening to them.

Special milk program may continue

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Orval Hansen said today the U.S. Department of Agriculture has announced it will continue to operate the Special Milk Program as in the past, if the Congress votes to appropriate funds for this purpose for the year beginning July 1, 1971.

Hansen said the decision today by Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin followed discussions with President Nixon, and is being announced now to help the states in planning child feeding programs for summer schools, summer camps, year around day care centers and other outlets providing milk to children under the federal subsidy.

Under the Special Milk Program, nearly 100,000 schools and institutions serve fresh milk to children at reduced prices.

New roads opening up Brazilian Amazon wilds

XINGU RESERVE, Brazil (UPI) —They earn the minimum wage of 144 cruzeiros (less than $30) a month and they live in shacks in the jungle. The nearest place to buy a pack of cigarettes or a drink is 150 miles down the road they have cut out of the jungle. They rarely see an Indian because in Brazil's Wild West it's the Indian who must be protected from the pioneers.

The workers on the new roads cutting into the Amazon region don't bother much about the snakes that slither away as the men hack into the vines, roots, and branches. The men have more to fear from an unnoticed mosquito.

Last month we had to evacuate 30 men with malaria to a hospital in Góania (three hours flight in the two-engine plane that makes a daily run from the camp.)" said a short, hefty man with dark hair. Noelio Dos Santos Pereira, 34, is chief mechanic for the company building BR-80, the road to link Brazil's 11-year-old capital, Brasilia, with Manaus, in the heart of the Amazon.

BR-80 is just one of several roads being built at a priority pace by Brazil's military government. It was just a year ago, on June 18, 1970, that President Emílio Garrastazu Médici launched his most dramatic development project, the "National Integration Program," the trans-Amazon roads.

The main trans-Amazon link will run 1,200 miles from the western border of Brazil to the overpopulated, underfed northeast. Another road makes a cross from Santarem on the Amazon down to Culaba in the southwest. BR-80 will cut diagonally across the area.

Noelio and his crew have completed 150 miles of the BR-80 in a year, and expect to reach Cachimbo, approximately halfway to Manaus, next year.

"Malaria's not the worst," Noelio said cheerfully. "I've seen men break out in rashes and running sores from contact with some plant or insect bite. But no one's died."

A revolver bounces on the seat of the beat-up truck whenever Noelio heads down the new stretch of rust-red road. The gun, he explained, is to shoot an occasional deer or boar or jaguar which might cross the road and end up in the kitchen of the road camp.

There's not much of anything to do in the temporary camp where Noelio and some 200 men live as they work on the road. Sometimes the men play cards seated on the rows of lumpy mattresses in a long shack. "No gambling," Noelio said. But bets on the national sports lottery are flown into the capital once a week and the men follow the soccer games on their radio.

Soccer is another pastime, except when it rains. It rains for six months—from October to April, and then the work on the road literally bogs down to a standstill.

The road grows foot by foot as the tractors push into the undergrowth and as the men hack at it by hand. The width of the area cleared is 60 yards although the packed dirt road bed is only 10 yards wide. The space keeps the jungle from closing in too quickly. At rivers, the men build log ferries to take across the trucks and tractors. Periodically, they have to rebuild their camp further up the road.

Most of the men—only four of them among Noelio's 200 had their families with them—work an average of six months on the road. Some work less, others stay for years. When anyone leaves there are always a dozen men ready to take his place at the company's recruiting center in Góania, near Brasilia. They come, in spite of the isolation and primitive conditions, because by Brazilian standards it's steady work with good pay. Although the unskilled worker earns only the minimum wage, his room and board is free and there's overtime and bonuses, an extra-60 cruzeiros ($12) for every two months they stick it out. With no place to spend his pay, a man can walk out of the jungle with sizeable savings in several months.

Anthropologists' objections that the BR-80 would destroy Indian culture were overruled by government planners. The head of the government's National Indian Foundation, General Bandeira de Mello, said recently, "The Indian is not a museum piece" and thus he will participate in Brazil's progress.

The Indian Foundation sends scouts ahead of the road crews to make contact with the Indians, giving them presents and medicine to prevent incidents. The Indians usually flee. The white man doesn't need a gun to wipe out an Indian tribe in this area.

Rights panel to push 2 case probes

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Human Rights Commission decided to ask the Idaho attorney general's office Friday for assistance in continuing the investigations of two cases, including a suicide in the Bannock County Jail and an alleged discrimination by a Parma tavern.

The American Civil Liberties Union in Pocatello was said to be investigating the case, according to commission member Idaho Purce. The office of the Idaho attorney general will be requested also to continue the investigation in Bannock County.

The commission requested the aid of the attorney general's office in a case of alleged discrimination based on national origin brought against the Canyon Club in Parma.

reasonable cause for the action by four persons of Spanish origin, who were asked by the club's owner to leave because they were speaking Spanish in the club.

club's owner to leave because they were speaking Spanish in the club.

The commission noted in its list of case reviews the Naomi Divinney alleged suicide. She was a Fort Hall Indian woman who was placed in the Bannock County Jail for intoxication. The Fort Hall Tribal Council felt she should have been taken to the holding facility on the Fort Hall Reservation which is for potential suicide victims. She was instead taken to the Bannock County Jail, intoxicated and unconscious, where she later allegedly committed suicide after many attempts.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation made a report on the case and the U.S. attorney was asked to investigate the FBI findings. He found, however, no cause for prosecution on an anti-discrimination law basis.

Gem phone formula set

BOISE (UPI) — Starting July 1, the state will foot the bill for only one hour of long distance telephone calls per month for each Idaho legislator.

If any legislator exceeds his amount, he will be sent a bill for the difference.

House Speaker William J. Lanting, R-Hollister, explained to the Legislative Council members Friday results were in from hours logged by the lawmakers during April and May of this year. He said results showed about the same number of hours for each House — proportionately 64 for the 70 representatives and about 32 for the 25 senators.

But, he said, individual legislators showed great disparity — one making only one call and one making calls which cost around $119.

Because of that, Lanting said, a test formula to be used for six months would be to give each legislator one hour of talking time. The hour can accumulate and used in the next month if it is not used up within a 30 day period.

The telephone calls are made available under a new system under which the state can use all of the lines available to Mountain States Telephone. Lanting said the cost is only 10.8 cents per minute, considerably less than normal telephone calls, but warned the lawmakers are on the "honor system" to use the credit cards only for legislative business.

Governors seeking stronger voice

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A more powerful voice in national party affairs and a stronger stand on agricultural policies were the chief items of conversation Saturday at a caucus of Democratic governors and National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

The governors were expected to announce the first step toward a stronger voice in party affairs would be selection of a former governor to serve as liaison between the governors and the national committee.

O'Brien had earlier promised such a liaison man office space at the national headquarters in Washington.

The man named as liaison was expected to be former Gov. Robert McNair of South Carolina, whose term ended in January.

Gov. Robert Scott of North Carolina said the governors should start "giving more attention to agricultural policy."

Gov. Richard Kneip of South Dakota suggested that governors of both parties "band together and exert some influence upon Washington farm policy."

The farm theme was carried further by Gov. J. J. Exon of Nebraska, who outlined "a new house of agricultural policy."

Exon, in an address before the morning session, said the foundation for his program would be based upon the principle that "modern farming must receive a parity of income with other sectors of the economy."

Week's work

AN EXHIBIT of handiworks created during the past week is put up in one of the buildings at the Jerome County Fair Grounds by Girl Scouts from Neighborhood 18 Friday. Their handiwork was done during activity periods during a week long day camp attended by several score girls from several Magic Valley towns.

Blast laid to bureau

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee said Saturday the U.S. Bureau of Mines should have known the Finley Coal Co. mine in Hyden, Ky., was dangerous and must bear a "heavy burden of responsibility" for a Dec. 30 blast that killed 38 miners.

The House General Labor subcommittee, in a 118-page report, said it would hold hearings shortly into the bureau's general enforcement of the Coal Mine Health and Safety Act.

The Bureau of Mines said the explosion at Finley No. 15 and 16 mines took place when dust in the mines was ignited by an illegally used explosive. The Finley Company has been fined $53,600, and the Justice Department is considering possible criminal prosecution of the operators.

The subcommittee was most critical of the Bureau of Mines, saying it "should have been on notice as to the dangerous a typical conditions in the mine, should have inspected it with greater frequency, carried out more complete inspections and perhaps most importantly, been present to insure that cited violations were actually abated when required."

The subcommittee said its evidence "shows conclusively that it was generally known in the communities in which the miners lived that primacord, a nonpermissible and dangerous detonator for use underground, was being used in the Finley mine."

Not known

Three Boiseans, victims of a June 6 Air West DC9 crash, are among the persons whose bodies have not yet been positively identified by the Los Angeles County coroner's office.

Those still not identified include Mr. and Mrs. L. Johnny Johnson and Robert H. Vincent.

The coroner's office said 26 of the 50 persons killed in the collision of the passenger craft with a Marine F4 have been positively identified.

GOP head assails reports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman Robert J. Dole accused the Kennedy-Johnson administrations Saturday of "eight years of escalation and deception" in Southeast Asia, on the basis of "destructively irresponsible" disclosures in the New York Times.

After a week of high-level Republican silence on the content of a secret Pentagon study of U. S. involvement in Vietnam published in the Times, Dole delivered twin blasts at the Democrats and at "sensation-seeking newspapers" at a GOP fundraising dinner at Hot Springs, Ar.

Dole, a senator from Kansas, said that "from a political standpoint, I welcome the Times' stories." But he said the Times in publishing classified diplomatic documents had "endangered the sanctity" of negotiations on Soviet-American arms control, the Middle East, Berlin and a Vietnam settlement itself.

Post office changeover set July 1

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer
TWIN FALLS — The post office, which traditionally operates under a cash-on-delivery basis in selling stamps and parcel post, will give something away free for a change on July 1.

The post offices of the nation will come under the control of the new U.S. Postal Service on July 1, and are celebrating the event with open houses and giveaways, according to Lloyd Libert, officer in charge at the Twin Falls Post Office.

Libert, however, said he has been ordered to attend ceremonies in San Francisco, followed by a conference on policy and details of operation, on July 1 and 2, and he doubts if the Twin Falls Post Office has enough manpower for a full-scale open house.

Appointed

ONTARIO, Ore. (UPI) — William P. Bones has been named livestock theft officer and eastern Oregon brand inspector by the Oregon Department of Agriculture. Bones had been serving as a Malheur County deputy sheriff and fills the vacancy created by the resignation of Lee Hunsaker of Vale.

Envelopes commemorating the event will be given away at the Twin Falls Post Office and all post offices of the nation, on July 1, Libert said. A new eight-cent stamp honoring the postal service will be placed on sale, and patrons can purchase a stamped commemorative envelope for just the cost of the stamp — eight cents.

In addition, a series of posters four by five feet in size, each reproducing six to eight postage stamps from throughout the years of the "old" post office, will be put on sale at all post offices.

Four posters have been produced so far, with others to follow in subsequent months. Each depicts stamps concerned with theme of American life.

One poster reproduces stamps dealing with U.S. space science, ranging from an eight-cent stamp honoring Dr. Robert H. Goddard, the "father of modern rocketry," to the new familiar stamps saluting Apollo 8 and Apollo 11.

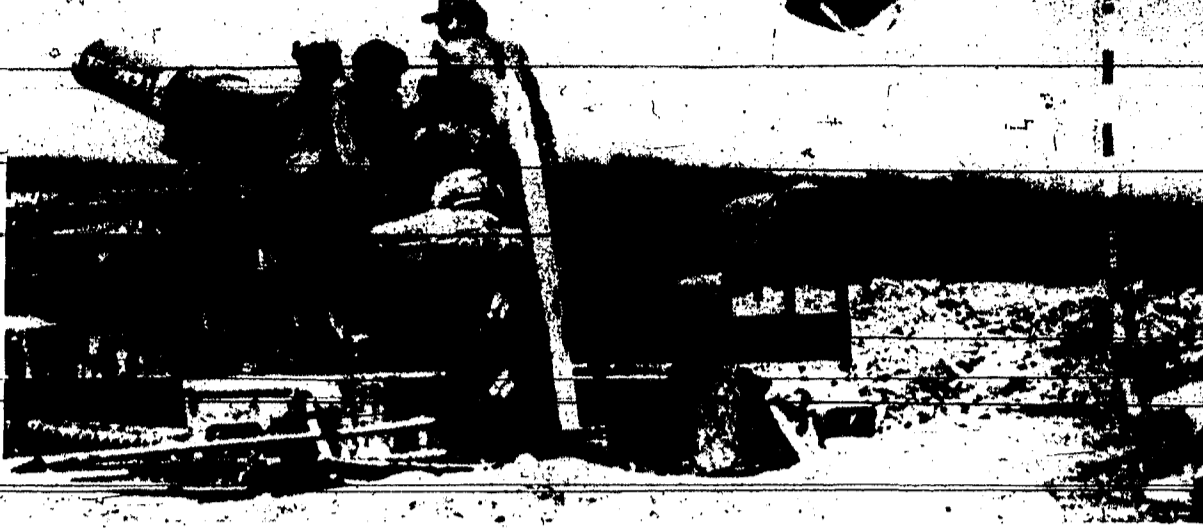

The posters, to be sold only through the post office, are expected to attract stamp collectors and the general public.

They will cost $1.50 each or $5 for the four.

In Jerome, the post office plans an open house on July 1, with the free envelopes offered to all interested patrons.

The changeover to the U.S. Postal Service will mean no immediate changes in routing or handling of mail, Libert said. "It's principally an organizational change, and won't change our ways of working for a while, at least."

The general public has already been hit with the principal change involved in the takeover by the newly formed private corporation — the increase in postal rates which took effect in May.

Nomination of Otepka wins nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved the nomination of Otto F. Otepka to a four-year term on the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB).

Otepka already has served a two-year term at the $36,000-a-year post. President Nixon renominated Otepka despite an intense political wrangle for Senate confirmation two years ago.

Good people make a good railroad

Union Pacific is recognized as one of the great railroads in America.

It offers unmatched power, the finest car fleet, the highest standard track and roadbed, computer operations, and the latest technology. All this is essential to match or stay ahead of competition in the highly competitive transportation business today.

But one of the major reasons for Union Pacific's position and reputation is its workers. It takes good people to make a good railroad. Union Pacific has good people.

Janet Tilley, Nail recite nuptial vows

MURTAUGH — Janet Tilley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin H. Tilley, Murtaugh, became the bride of Monte Nail, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Nail, Hansen, in rites at June 4 at St. Benedict's Student Center and Priory.

Rev. Father Simeon Van D'Voord officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a Lanz Original floor-length gown of white lace fashioned with fitted bodice and long sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion was held by a lace tiara enhanced with seed pearls. She carried a nosegay bouquet of pink baby Effe roses accented with flowing pink satin streamers.

Dianna Tilley, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Denise Tilley, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Ray Grant, Boise fraternity brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Guests at the wedding were grandparents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Savage, Mrs. T. V. Nail and Mrs. Anna Quesnell, all of Kimberly, and Mrs. Eula Tilley, Hansen.

After the ceremony, the bridegroom's parents hosted a buffet dinner at their home.

A reception was held later in the evening at the home of the bride's parents. Guests were registered by Angie Nail, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. It featured pink roses with silver leaves and was topped with white wedding bells. Pink tapers in candelabra flanked the cake. Mrs. Harvey Quesnell, aunt of the bride, and June Haggard, aunt of the bridegroom, cut and served the cake. Punch was poured by Mrs. Bart Quesnell, Moscow; Ellen Montgomery, Eden, and Mary Lou Dahmen, Colton, Wash. They are all sorority sisters of the bride.

Giftbearers were Matt Nail, brother of the bridegroom, and Coleman and Lisa Savage, cousins of the bridegroom.

Reception assistants were Mrs. Paul Quesnell and Mrs. Don Tilley, aunts of the bride, Mrs. Robert Howard and Mrs. Wayne Hogue.

After a wedding trip to Salt Lake City, the couple will reside in Moscow.

Guests attended from many Magic Valley towns. Special out-of-town guests included Mary Galano, Lewiston; Mary Lou Dahmen, Colton; Triss Fifer, Jim Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Bart Quesnell and Amie, Moscow; Rick Ladell, San Jose, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Grant, Boise; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gifford, Idaho Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moon and Gary, Jackpot, Nev., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Quesnell, Gooding.

Boosters club meets

TWIN FALLS — Members of the Union Pacific Boosters Club met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Ted Sutterfield.

It was announced that the annual July family picnic has been postponed. It may be held in August.

The club favor, furnished by Mrs. W. W. Holmgren, was won by Mrs. A. J. Richardson.

Mrs. H. R. Allred read the thought for the day. Games were played and refreshments furnished by the hostess.

A dynamic design in Community Stainless that distinctly says contemporary yet whispers the romance of Old Spain.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that if a person is in a deep sleep, if you speak to him quietly, and ask questions, he will answer truthfully?

Also is it true that if a person is sound asleep he could have something "drilled" into his head so that on the following day he would carry out the suggestions that were put into his head? I am not trying to do anything illegal or dangerous, but there are a few questions I would like my husband to answer, and he could too easily lie in his waking hours, and this other method would sure set my mind at ease.

NO NAME, PLS.

DEAR NO NAME: You are probably referring to questioning one who is in a "hypnotic state." Or trying to plant suggestions in the subliminal or unconscious mind of one who is sleeping. These techniques require great skill and I don't recommend them for your purpose—if indeed you could successfully pull them off, which is extremely doubtful.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a girl I'll call Irene. We have nothing in common except that our husbands were best buddies in the service. Irene has made it a habit to come over uninvited, around dinnertime with her two kids who are both on the bottle.

Last time she came, we had eaten early, but she stayed and stayed, saying every few minutes that she really should be getting home to fix dinner for herself and her children as her husband was eating downtown. I finally told them about 8 p. m. just to get rid of them.

Irene smokes constantly, and always my cigarettes because she doesn't want her husband to know she smokes. She doesn't discipline her children so I have to watch them every minute. She asks me for clothes that are too small for me because she knows I've gained some weight. She isn't poor, Abby. Just nerdy.

Before leaving she fills her babies' bottles with my milk. And she doesn't care if she takes the last drop.

My husband insists that I be nice to her because of his friendship with her husband, but I am at the end of my rope. What should I do about Irene?

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: Your problem isn't Irene. It's your husband. He has no right to insist that you be "nice" to a presumptuous, nerdy woman merely because her husband is his friend. Tell hubby that you'll be nice to Irene when it's a foursome, but you plan to discourage her frequent drop-in dinnertime visits. Then do it.

DEAR ABBY: I have two questions for you: Is it proper for a girl to ask a guy what she should wear when he asks her for a date?

Also, do you think it is okay for a girl to tell her date she thinks he looks neat? Or isn't it cool for a girl to compliment a guy on the way he looks? I am 15.

ELLEN

DEAR ELLEN: It's not only "proper"—it's sensible for a girl to find out how to dress for a date. Ask him what the "plans" are. A girl wouldn't dress the same for a dance as she would for a movie or a hockey game.

And yes, it's "cool" to compliment a guy on the way he looks. Guys have vanity, too.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady whose husband didn't think she needed a washer-dryer and suggested she do what the Indians did:

My husband used to tell me how his mother did things, so I told him I would try to live as his mother did if he would cooperate. Since his mother couldn't drive a car, his father made all the necessary trips to town, so he would have to do that. I would spend as much time cleaning the bathroom as his mother spent cleaning the outhouse, and since she didn't have a refrigerator, I'd never defrost ours. I also needed a few teen-aged girls to help me since he had three older sisters, none of whom could go to high school because they had to help at home.

Would you believe, I never heard a word about how his mother did things after that?

ON THE ROAD TO THE MOTOR VU

Current Cues

A WINN FALLS — From Mrs. K. D., Twin Falls: I have been thinking about buying an electric blender. What should I look for?

The blender introduces the homemaker to a new food preparation method. Foods are liquefied or chopped to any desired degree of fineness. Although a blender can perform some tasks that a mixer can do, it is not designed to substitute for a mixer. The blades are strong and designed for cutting rather than for incorporating air into the ingredients as the mixer does.

Features to look for before buying:

No. 1. Select a stable, well-balanced blender that does not tip or creep while in use. Have it demonstrated, if possible.

No. 2. Look for a powerful motor and removable stainless steel blades.

No. 3. A multi-speed push button panel will give you better control of blending speeds. Check to see if it is easy-to-clean.

No. 4. A large container of heat-resistant glass, with graduated markers for measuring should have a wide opening which makes it easier to add or remove contents.

No. 5. The container should fit securely into the base but still be easy to remove.

No. 6. A handle on the container and a pouring lip are important.

No. 7. A container that opens at both ends makes removal of heavy mixtures easier and also makes for easier cleaning. The blade end should be small so that foods are forced into the blades.

No. 8. Some brands come with various sizes of jars. This could be an advantage to some people. Do not use ordinary jars or canning jars because they are not made for high speed blending action and may break during processing.

No. 9. A self-sealing cover, which is resistant to absorption of odors and cooking oils, that has a center-cap so you can add additional ingredients while the blender is running.

No. 10. Is the motor permanently lubricated?

A few hints for its use:

No. 1. Read the instruction booklet carefully.

No. 2. Before using a blender, check location and operation of controls.

No. 3. Don't overtax the motor with extra-heavy loads such as stiff doughs. Most blenders operate more efficiently if the container is about two-thirds full or less.

No. 4. For best results, fill the container with enough liquid to cover the blades.

No. 5. Unless otherwise specified, put the liquid portion of the recipe into the container first; then add the dry ingredients.

No. 6. Place the cover firmly on the container and rest hand lightly on it before starting motor.

No. 7. Check to see that the container is firmly in place before starting the motor.

No. 8. Follow the recipe instructions; avoid over-blending. Remember the blender performs in seconds not minutes. It is better to stop and check the consistency than to overblend.

No. 9. Always stop the blender before scraping down the ingredients. Use a rubber spatula, not metal.

No. 10. Don't attempt to remove the container from the motor base until the motor has stopped.

Just a little care: Wash the food container and blades after each use. Put a little water and a drop of detergent in the container and run it for a few seconds, rinse. This makes cleaning a breeze. Clean the motor casing with a damp cloth, dry with a soft cloth. Leave the jar uncovered until thoroughly dry.

Keep your blender in a convenient spot so that it is ready for instant use.

Brothers receive doctorate degrees

ELBA — Ruel Barker, 34, and Ray Barker, 24, sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Barker, Elba, were both awarded doctorate degrees in June commencement exercises.

Ruel, former coach and teacher at Raft River High School, was granted a doctor of education degree during ceremonies at Brigham Young University, and the younger brother Ray, was presented the juris doctor degree at the University of Idaho.

Ruel Barker attended Raft River High School, Malta, where he was graduated as valedictorian in 1954. He received his B.S. degree from Utah State University in 1961 and his M.S. degree from Brigham Young University in 1964. He fulfilled an LDS mission in South Africa from 1958-60. In May, 1964, he married Kathryn Holt in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple. They are the parents of three daughters. Ruel spent eight years as head coach at Raft River High School prior to returning to BYU in 1969.

He accepted the position of assistant principal at Central Junior High School in Idaho Falls in January of this year, while still working on his doctorate degree. He has been appointed to the faculty at BYU in the college of physical education and will begin his duties there on Sept. 1. The Barker family will spend the summer in Elba, moving to Provo this fall.

Ray Barker also attended Raft River High School and was graduated in 1964. He enrolled at the University of Idaho, majoring in business. He joined the Marine Officer Training program at the university, receiving summer training at Quantico, Va. In 1966 he married the former Linda Jo Ponnack, Hope. In 1968 he received his B.S. degree in business and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

Shoshone OES discontinued for summer

SHOSHONE — Lincoln Chapter No. 42, Order of the Eastern Star, has discontinued meetings for the summer and will resume meetings on September 7.

Mrs. George Kenaston, worthy matron, presided at the final meeting on the summer at the Masonic Temple. She gave a report at the final meeting on the summer at the Masonic Temple. She gave a report on grand chapter held June 6-10 at Boise. Other Shoshone chapter members attending were George Kenaston, worthy patron; Beth Pendleton, grand representative of the Jurisdiction on North Carolina in Idaho; Mrs. Kenneth Crothers, grand page of the grand session, and Mrs. Snow Coffin, Golden Star 50-year member.

Mrs. Coffin, Mrs. Carolyn Walker, Mrs. Mary Jay Bennett and George Kenaston contributed to the ESTARL fund during the meeting.

It's a varied week in Gem State

By PHYLLIS J. HUFFMAN Idaho Dept. of Commerce & Development

BOISE — You haven't been anywhere until you've visited the National Oldtime Fiddlers Contest and Festival in Welter. Fiddlers are a special breed unto themselves — and once they start fiddling, they just don't stop. Idaho can be proud of the Welter Festival, for it is one of the finest of its kind in the world!

Festival activities for the general public begin Tuesday night at 8 with an international jam session followed by square dancing up and down State Street. Wednesday through Friday, contest hours are 10, 1, and 8 p.m. In the evening of each of these three days will be authentic century-old square dancing with all participants wearing costumes of 1870 and dancing to championship fiddlers playing post-Civil War tunes. American Legion Hall is home base for the "colorful and crazy" vigilantes that have a unique way of keeping order and "ruffling feathers" at the same time.

Fiddlers Hall of Fame and Historical Museum will be open each day of the festival and on Friday will feature the famous Arment collection of historical and antique guns. All judging and awards for best beards and oldtime costumes will be conducted at the museum. On Saturday, the last regular contest begins at 10 a.m. followed by historical parade 1 p.m. Jaycees barbecue in city park 1:30 p.m., Hall of Fame Jam Session 3 p.m., and national finals and grand championship awards beginning at 8. The entire festival concludes with a serpentine parade weaving in and out of the downtown area, fiddles and all, at 1 a.m. Sunday morning.

If you can't make it to Welter, consider visiting Smelterville, near Kellogg, and enjoying Frontier Days with all the trimmings. Softball tournament and carnival run the full three days (Friday through Sunday) while other events begin Friday at 5 p.m. with Demolition Derby in Fero Stadium.

The Frontier Days Parade starts at 11 a.m. Saturday, followed by rodeo, mucking and drilling, contest, motorcycle scrambles, Oldtime Fiddlers contest and prize drawings. The Sunday Chuckwagon Breakfast runs all morning with children's street games at noon — then a motorcycle hillclimb, soap box derby race, log sawing contest, and a big fireworks display.

Friday and Saturday, Moscow spotlights the famous choral director, Norman Luboff, directing choir concerts at the University of Idaho Recital Hall, 7:30 p.m. both nights.

It's Cherry Festival Time in Emmett, featuring two parades: Friday Children's Parade 7 p.m. and Saturday Cherry Festival Parade 7:30 p.m. In conjunction with the parades, the Squaw Butte Rockhounds hold their annual rock and gem show Friday through Sunday at the fairgrounds; and on Saturday, there's an exhibit by the Idaho Sports Car Association, and on Sunday a Sports Car Concourse Elegance Hillclimb and Gymkhana.

For a low-priced family vacation that's a little different and "off the beaten path," consider the Range Environmental Tour Thursday and Friday followed a family campout to fish and explore the beautiful Henry's Lake — Island Park area. If you're not impressed, let me explain. Be at the main lobby of South Fremont High School in St. Anthony for registration between 8 a.m. and 10 on Thursday. Prices of $21 for a couple and $5 for each additional family member include complete bus transportation, lunches for two days, and chuckwagon supper at Island Park on Thursday night. Tour buses travel to Sand Creek Wildlife Refuge, Sand Creek Burn, Shotgun Valley, Chief Joseph Battleground near Kilgore, Stoddard Creek and Buffalo Campgrounds. The no-hoek bean feed Friday night is $1.50 per plate extra, if interested. After the tour is over, you and your family can enjoy the magic of Sawtell Peak, Upper and Lower Mesa Falls, and the unusual Big Springs, where large "pet" fish protected from anglers put on quite a show for bread-crumbs handouts. Call John Kincheol in St. Anthony for further information, 624-7368.

Patricia Harmer, Bluth wed in temple ceremony

TWIN FALLS — Patricia Harmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon A. Harmer, Twin Falls, and John Frederick Bluth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wyman J. Bluth, Ogden, were married June 1 in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple.

The bride's great uncle, Hilton A. Robertson, performed the ceremony.

The bridegroom's parents honored the newlyweds and guests at a wedding brunch at the Mansion House in Ogden and that evening at an open house at the Edgewood in Ogden.

The bridal party received guests at a reception June 2 at the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls. The bride was gowned in a self-designed gown of cotton lace over Lutesong. The lace was fashioned as a coat dress, floor-length with empire waistline, long flared sleeves and a wide sash which tied at the waist and tapered floor-length. Her multi-tiered French illusion veil was held by a tiny matching bonnet. She carried two long-stemmed white chrysanthemums with satin ribbons.

Matron of honor Mrs. Chester Harmer, sister-in-law of the bride.

Best man was Jere Bagley. Ushers were Chester Harmer, brother of the bride, Ralph Dent and John Yurtinus. Bridesmaids were Nancy Hollowell, Kay Morris and Mrs. Lewis Stevens.

Crystal Lee Harmer, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She carried a white basket of button chrysanthemums and daisies.

The reception rooms were decorated as a spring garden, with white wicker screens and fences, a flower cart of daisies, flowering trees, and white wrought iron settee. Spring flowers in tall wicker baskets stood beside the bride's table, which was covered with a floor-length white lace cloth. A silver punch bowl and silver candelabra flanked the three-tiered square white wedding cake, decorated with hearts, daisies and cherubs, and topped with lace wedding bells.

Mrs. Max Brown, cousin of the bridegroom, poured. Mary Sheppard, Christine Jenkins, cousin of the bride, Cynthia Jensen and Mrs. Dan-Boyd served the guests. Mrs. Glen Leggett was hostess and Mrs. Sara Jenkins, the bride's maternal grandmother, was honorary hostess.

Gifts were arranged by Mrs. Larry Middleton, aunt of the bride. Dedra and Diana Brizsee were gift bearers.

Mrs. Preston Gustafson registered guests.

Pre-nuptial parties and showers honoring the bride were co-hosted by Mrs. Oscar Hellewell and Nancy Hellewell, by Mrs. LeGrande Nelson and Mrs. Max Brown, and by the bride's roommates, Kay Morris, Mary Sheppard, Pam Hochstetler, Betsy Hunt and Sharline Smith.

Out-of-state guests attended from Nevada, California and Utah.

For traveling and the wedding brunch, the bride wore a yellow polyester dress of her own design.

The bride was graduated from Brigham Young University in textile and design in May. The bridegroom is completing his Ph.D. in history at Brigham Young University.

Tri-cornered shawls, many fringed, and almost all quite large, will figure as a fashion accent for fall and winter.

June rites performed

KING HILL — Marie Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Trail, became the bride of Edward Simeson Jr., son of Edward Simeson Sr., Spokane, Wash., in rites June 13 at the Trail home in Pasadena Valley.

Rev. Edward Bawden of the King Hill United Presbyterian Church and the Glenns Ferry Methodist Church, performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a long sleeved street length aqua dress with a rounded neckline. She carried long stemmed white roses. Mrs. Robert Battles, Tacoma, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Edward Simeson Sr. was best man.

A reception was held following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a two-tiered wedding cake. The cake was decorated with roses and topped with an archway. Mrs. Max Clark, Brownlee, sister of the bride, cut and

BUHL — Susan Burkhalter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burkhalter, became the bride of Ronald Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, all Buhl, in a candlelight service June 5 at Clover Trinity Lutheran Church.

Rev. Thomas Johnson performed the double ring ceremony before background decorations of pink gladioli and Boston rose pink carnations. The altar was decorated with arrangements of pink pompons. Candelabra holding seven dark pink tapers flanked the altar. The aisles were decorated with white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace embroidered with sequins, styled in a modified empire style, accented with a full cathedral lace train. Her veil of silk bridal illusion was held in place by a Chantilly lace bow. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white roses with accents of baby's breath and green foliage.

Sharon Jones, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Ivan Schroeder, Lucinda Reinke and Mrs. Larry Burkhalter. Carla Schroeder was flower girl and Ernie Keith served as ringbearer.

Larry Burkhalter served as best man. Ushers were Fred

Jones, Rocky Burkhalter and John McVey. Fred Jones and Rocky Burkhalter served as taper lighters.

Bruce Lutz was soloist. Ivan Schroeder served as organist. After the ceremony, a reception was held for some 200 guests. Neva Jones was in charge of the guest book.

The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over pink. The table was centered with the four-tiered wedding cake, accented with pink roses and bells with silver trim. It was topped with a pair of white satin bells edged in pearls. Greenery and pink pompons encircled the base of the cake. Candelabra holding three dark pink tapers flanked the cake.

Mrs. John James and Mrs. Wilbur Ulrich cut and served the cake. Mrs. John McVey was in charge of the coffee and Mrs. Herbert Paul poured punch. Reception assistants were members of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League. Belle Burkhalter, Debby Baughman, Raxanne Keen and Debby Lutz were in charge of the gifts.

The bride was honored at showers hosted by Sharon Jones and Debby Baughman, and by Mrs. Larry Burkhalter and Lucinda Reinke.

The couple will reside on a farm southwest of Buhl.

T.F. men seek suit dismissal

BOISE (UPI) — Fourth District Judge W.E. Smith took under advisement Friday a motion to dismiss a lawsuit filed by two Twin Falls men seeking an order permitting them to dredge mine the Snake River near Thousand Springs.

The two men, Stan H. Detweiler and Keith Sligar, sought reversal of the 3-2 decision by which the State Land Board denied the permit.

A brief submitted by Attorney General W. Anthony Park said the Land Board wanted "judicial clarification" of the extent of its authority to deny mineral lease applications.

Park contended the board's action in denying the permit is not subject to the administrative procedures act under which judicial review may be obtained of a decision by a state agency.

He noted in his brief a hearing was held in Gooding Dec. 29 over the matter, but said its only purpose was to listen to objections to the lease request by Detweiler and Sligar.

A brief in opposition to the motion to dismiss argued wording of the administrative procedures act means the decision of any state agency, including the Land Board, is subject to review in court.

Sligar and Detweiler have contended the board acted "arbitrarily and capriciously" in denying them the right to dredge concrete aggregate and precious metals from the river on 15 state owned tracts in Gooding and Twin Falls counties.

No future date for additional arguments has been set.

Rodeo initial winners listed

BURLEY — Results of the first go-round at the Idaho High School rodeo which closed Saturday night at the Cassia County Fairgrounds are announced.

Final winners in the last performance will compete in the National High School Rodeo, slated Aug. 3-8 at the Cassia County Fairgrounds at Filer. The first three winners in each event will be eligible to compete.

First go-round top three winners are:

Calf roping — Dee Pickett, Nampa, 15 seconds; Joe Sagers, Gooding, 15.1; and Blake Jones, Idaho Falls, 15.9.

Steer wrestling — Jeff Cochman, Montpelier, 6.7 seconds; Mike Morrison, Buhl, 6.9; Bill Patterson, Richfield, 7.2.

Team roping — Dee Pickett, Nampa, and Kirk Webb, Nampa, 13.3 seconds; Pat McCarty, Idaho Falls, and Blake Jones, both Idaho Falls, 21.3; Bill Patterson, Richfield, and Bob Hayland, Buhl, 21.6.

Bareback bronc riding, unofficial, Brent Giesler, Fairfield, first; George Tallabos, Caldwell, second, and Steve Hall, Caldwell, third.

Saddle bronc riding — Mark Lee, Bliss, first; Bill Patterson, Richfield, and Randy Oloveson, Lorenzo, tied for second and third.

Bull riding — Bill Patterson, Richfield, first; George Tallabos, Caldwell, second, and Shane Morton, St. Anthony, third.

Girls barrel racing — Carol Baker, Kooskia, was first with 19.8 seconds; Glenda Griffith, Preston, 20.1; Holly McCombs, Gooding, and Suzette Neltzel, Blackfoot, 20.2 seconds each.

Pole bending — Diane Tender, Kimberly, 21.6 seconds; Glenda Griffith, Preston, and Linda Laudert, Wendell, 22.1 seconds each.

Breakaway roping — Marilyn Jeffries, Caldwell, 5.6 seconds; Cinde Bolen, Heyburn, 5.9, and Donna Basey, Homedale, 8.5.

Goat tying — Linda Laudert, Wendell, 14.5 seconds; Donna Basey, Homedale, 15.3 and Debbie Yousen, Garden Valley, 15.6.

Three Island park dedicated at G.F.

graves in this area, but only two of them are marked," Kelker added. "The rest of them must remain unknown."

Speaking of the pioneers who first came to Idaho, Kelker said, "They came here by hook and crook. We arrived here today by air-conditioned cars and buses and the Governor came here by airplane."

"I don't believe anybody walked," he commented wryly. He continued, "I am very serious in saying that if the discovering of the West were left up to me, I'm afraid we would still be east of the Mississippi because of the hardships involved."

Frank Clark, a Glens Ferry area historian and sponsor of the park, was commended by Kelker for his determination and "bull-headedness" in continuing to fight for the park in spite of heavy opposition.

Clark presented an authentic Conestoga wagon to the park. Gov. Andrus accepted on behalf of the people.

"It is a pleasure at this time to make a little sacrifice to this great state of Idaho," Clark said. "As you know, we contribute a paper poppy to the deceased of our wars. I feel in giving this wagon that I am giving it to the sons and daughters of the old pioneers that crossed this island to make the great Northwest what it is today that we might enjoy it."

Andrus replied that "I am very pleased that Frank Clarke was here today. Clarke is a man who has known this area longer than most of us and a man who is very aware of the troubles and problems it took to create this great park."

The program started Friday with an antique sale in the Glens Ferry city park. A rodeo followed, sponsored by the Patterson Rodeo Co, Richfield, with specialty acts highlighting the events.

A second rodeo concluded festivities Saturday night.

On Saturday, a parade wound through Glens Ferry and out to the park, where a historical pageant was held at the site of the pioneers' river crossing. A group of old-time fiddlers performed also.

A crowd estimated at more than 1,000 attended, despite the heat of the hottest day of the year. A large group of senior citizens gathered in the shade of the one large tree at the site of the speeches and festivities. An ambulance was made available, but it was not needed.

A free beef barbecue was scheduled at 5 p.m. in the park. Indian dancers entertained the crowd at length, seemingly immune to the scorching heat.

Snake R. Toastmistress conclave held in T.F.

By CHARLOTTE BELL
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The Snake River Regional Toastmistress Conference is underway this weekend at Holiday Inn. Mrs. LeRoy Arrington, Twin Falls, regional supervisor conducted the business session Saturday morning.

Some 125 women from northern Utah, all of Idaho, and eastern Oregon and Washington are attending the conference.

Honored guests are Mrs. Jean Weber, Idaho Falls, International Toastmistress president-elect, and Mrs. Thelma McClelland, Winnipeg, Canada, international vice-president, Northern Regions.

and then they demonstrated a drill.

Dick High, managing editor of Times-News, spoke to the group Saturday morning on the topic "How to Present Publicity to your Newspaper". He discussed time limit, available space, advance stories and follow up stories. A question period was held at the conclusion of Mr. High's talk.

Theme for the noon luncheon was "Swinging Toward the Stars." Dr. Sue Harry, Salt Lake City, was toastmistress for the luncheon. Featured speaker was Dr. Royal Garff, Salt Lake City, Utah. Dr. Garff told the women "How to Hold Your Audience Without a Rope." He suggested that you tell a good story, have fun and be alive, as ways of keeping the audience awake and thinking with the speaker.

During the afternoon workshops were conducted by Mrs. McClelland, Mrs. Margorie Brewer, Idaho Falls, assistant supervisor; Mrs. Weber and Mrs. Rose Davidson, Salt Lake City.

The speech contest with eight contestants was held Saturday evening. The winner will represent the Snake River Region at International Convention in July at Phoenix, Ariz.

The session will conclude Sunday with a brunch, final business meeting, and installation of new region officers. Mrs. Weber will be the installing officer.

Friday evening a reception was held under the chairmanship of Mrs. Olin Baker, Burley.

Magistrate court system study sought

By JERRY HERRMANN
Times-News Writer

BURLEY — A legislative study of the new Magistrate Court System was called for in one of the resolutions passed by the Association of Idaho Cities at its general business meeting Saturday afternoon.

In this resolution the AIC asks that the study be made in the areas of uniformity of the system in all districts; availability to the citizens; cost of operation; bonds, forfeitures, fines and court costs; and methods of financing the court, especially by local government units.

The association also delved into the public utilities question. It asked that the statutes guiding the relationship between municipalities and electric cooperatives not be any more restrictive than between municipalities and private power corporations.

It also asks that the consumers of electricity have the right to have the most economical supply possible.

The association also went on record as urging the continued support of Idaho's congressional delegates to provide a dependable railroad service.

In other areas the AIC delegates:

— Asked for vocational and technical training programs tailored to the individual needs of young men and women of high school and college age who have interest in developing skills related to city service occupations.

— Added a new clause in the finance and taxation area stating, "Property taxes, the principal source or revenue to local governments, can best be collected under the present system of county government. Since the county collects taxes for its own support, there should be either no charge made on other units for collection service or an equitable charge on all such units."

— Asked for the legislature to fund the state fire marshal. This position has been created by the legislature, but no funds provided for it.

— Decided not to make any policy statement calling for the increase in gasoline tax by one cent for highway construction.

— Approved three new resolutions on municipal bonds.

The first one calls for the enactment of industrial revenue bond legislation with the stipulation that any property purchased from bond proceeds be placed on tax rolls.

Two area men elected to state DAV positions

TWIN FALLS — Two Magic Valley men, including Gordon Geiger, Burley, and Arthur W. Patterson, Twin Falls, were elected to the two top positions in the state Disabled American Veterans organization during the state convention Saturday in Twin Falls.

Geiger was named state commander and Patterson was elected senior vice commander.

Other officers included James Edgings, Coeur d'Alene, junior vice commander; Robert Groer, Boise, chaplain; Daniel R. Rogers, Mountain Home, historian; Gene Palmer, Sandpoint, officer-of-the-day; John York, Twin Falls, judge advocate; Fred Raymond, Boise, treasurer; Russell J. Wilcock, Twin Falls, sergeant-at-arms, and Otto Rudolph, Pocatello, chief of staff.

Thomas G. Dehne, Fort Mitchell, Ky., national DAV controller, was a guest of the convention and installed the new officers.

The DAV auxiliary elected Mrs. Helen Thompson, Boise, as commander for 1972; Cecil Cargill, Burley, senior vice commander; Norma Rodgers, Mountain Home, chaplain; Ella Pottel, Idaho Falls, treasurer; Alma Austin, Boise, adjutant; Lorna Cook, Boise, hospital chairman, and Nellie Horejs, Twin Falls, conductress.

In Friday's business meeting, Larry Laughridge, commander of the Idaho Veterans Home, Boise, discussed Congressional action on behalf of veterans, noting that $55 million has been "unfrozen" and made available to veterans for home loans in the past year.

Veterans Administration Director Donald E. Johnson visited the Boise Veterans Hospital recently, commenting that the facilities of the unit rate is among the best in the nation, Laughridge said.

He urged establishment of a national cemetery in each state to supplement the overcrowded Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D. C.

Laughridge said the Veterans Administration in Idaho employs 20 service personnel to help all Idaho veterans, and urged "at least 30" to do the work adequately. He declared that "there are at least 150 veterans who do not get adequate care" in Idaho due to inadequate facilities.

He also urged an addition to the Veterans Home in Boise to provide nursing-home care for needy veterans.

William (Bill) Huett, representing the state employment service, commended the DAV for their charity work with Boy Scouts and handicapped youths. More than 85,000 youths throughout the nation are being helped by the DAV, he said.

He asked employers to consider the needs of disabled veterans, noting that more than 15,000 veterans throughout the nation are in need of jobs at the present time.

W. L. Robinson, past Idaho Department commander, Veterans of World War I, discussed violence and disrespect for the flag and for law that is rampant throughout the nation.

Likening the vandals to the "man without a country," he said that "Maybe if these that show disrespect to our flag were treated the same, it would give them something to think about."

Other speakers included George N. Stopas, employment representative for veterans' affairs; Dudley Smith, state service officer, and Cecil Detweiler, national service officer for the DAV.

Regional airport election slated

By LEE TREMAINE
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — An election to name a regional airport authority may be conducted in November, the Interim Regional Airport Board said during a meeting Friday at the Holiday Inn.

Petitions requesting authority for the election from the Idaho Department of Aeronautics have been completed in Jerome, Gooding, Blaine and Cassia counties. Some signed petitions have been completed in parts of Twin Falls and Mindoka counties, according to George Forschler, chairman of the interim board.

Forschler said he has received a ruling from Cassia County Prosecutor George Nielsen that an airport election could legally be held with the November municipal elections.

This would save each participating county considerable expense, Forschler explained.

The petitions are being collected by Clayton Stewart, Sun Valley, president of the South Idaho Chamber of Commerce. He will then send them to Forschler as airport board chairman.

Board members said they will make an "all-out effort" to solicit signatures for the petitions in Camas and Lincoln counties.

Cassia County is the only one of the eight counties involved in the regional airport proposal to have completed the petitions with the required number of signatures, which by law must equal five per cent of the registered voters in the county.

A total of 1,200 signatures have been collected in Cassia County, but only 387 signatures were certified as valid. This exceeded the minimum of 200 needed, however, Forschler said.

Each signer must be a registered voter in the county and a qualified resident of the county, Forschler said.

The time element is vital in scheduling the airport authority election to coincide with the November general elections, Forschler told the board. County commissions must verify each signature as valid; then must certify the petitions as having met state qualifications.

Then, the Idaho Department of Aeronautics must approve the petitions and order an election within 60 days after certification.

Worker escapes in accident

BURLEY — A Pocatello construction worker is lucky to be alive, Cassia county sheriff's officers said Saturday, after he came into contact with a 12,500 volt wire Friday while working at a construction site for the J.R. Simplot Co. near the Snake River.

Jack Stites, 42, was treated at Cassia Memorial Hospital and released after rolling from the top of the crane he was operating for the Mitchell Construction Co., Pocatello.

Fellow workers said Stites had climbed to the top of the crane boom and was using a board to lift the hot wire when apparently the board slipped and he was knocked down and rolled back down the boom to the ground.

He received head, back and arm injuries, and was taken to the hospital by ambulance. Attendants there Saturday said the man had been released.

Stites is one of a crew working on the new pollution control system the Simplot firm is installing in the area between the railroad tracks and the Snake River just east of the Burley city limits.

Firm low bidder on project

TWIN FALLS — A Pocatello firm, Bannock Paving Co., submitted the apparent low bid of $446,072 for a runway improvement project at the Twin Falls City-County Municipal Airport in a bid opening Friday afternoon.

City Manager Jean Millar said the other bid was received from Lone Pine Equipment Co., Burley, in the amount of $498,503.50.

The bid specifications will be studied for conformity with the bid call, and a recommendation will be made to the City Council in the council meeting Monday night.

A second bid call for a booster pumping station for the Water Department, apparently failed, Millar said. Only one bid, for $21,700 was received from Home Plumbing and Heating Co. of Twin Falls. The bid exceeded estimates, Millar said.

The bid will be studied and recommended to the City Council, Millar told the Times-News, however, that in view of the lack of interest in the bid, with only one firm bidding, he may recommend the Council refuse the bid and delay another bid call for several months.

Brighten up, Andrus tells car dealers

By WARREN GOSSETT
Times-News Writer

SUN VALLEY — Gov. Cecil B. Andrus told delegates to the Idaho Automobile Dealers Association convention here Saturday morning to, in effect, "look to the brighter side of life."

"I know during the past year the economic condition of Idaho has not been the best," Andrus said, but added he is sure this condition has been reflected in the number of sales made by the auto dealers.

The governor said the dealers should look for a little humor in their business situation.

"If I find when I look at the state balance sheet there is little humor in it," the governor said. He also touched on the current controversy over administration of the proposed Wilderness area in Idaho. He said the primitive area needs greater protection than a National Recreation bill could offer.

"We must have multi-use in the lower valleys, but we need greater protection in the higher altitudes and peaks. Once they are gone they cannot be replaced."

The some 300 delegates to the convention elected E.K. Portfors, Orofino, as new association president, succeeding Norman Lodge, Caldwell. Ray E. Lundahl, Idaho Falls, was selected vice president.

District 4 directors include Abbie Uriguen, Twin Falls; Gary Asson, Burley; Buster Goode, Rupert, and Thomas Northcott, Haxley.

The convention concludes Sunday morning with a luncheon. A barbecue was held Saturday night at Trail Creek Lodge.

Levy vote set Monday at Hansen

HANSEN — A second election, to obtain voter approval of a two and one-half plant facilities levy for the Hansen school district, is scheduled from noon until 8 p.m. Monday.

Supt. William C. Barnard said all the school trustees urge patrons to approve the levy which is only a half mill increase from the two mill levy which has been in effect the past 15 years.

This year trustees voted to increase the levy by one-half mill to overcome effects of inflation and other raises in costs, Barnard said. This would increase the amount of money collected for the next year to about $8,400, compared to the $5,200 raised last year.

This money is spent primarily for buses, Barnard said. Based on a seven-year depreciation schedule on the purchase of buses, the state pays one-seventh of the original cost of each bus for seven years. Four bus routes are operated, and between $8,000 to $7,500 is spent for replacement in three years out of five.

City officials discuss problems

BURLEY — City officials from the large and small cities present at the Association of Idaho Cities Saturday morning broke into groups to discuss areas of concern to them.

The small cities officials concerned themselves mainly with the transfer of responsibility for streets in cities under 1,500 to the counties or highway districts, and county-wide solid waste disposal system problems.

Norm Crossley, Idaho Department of Highways, told the city officials present that in some cases it might be more feasible for them to let the highway district or county do the physical work in keeping up their streets.

He told them to evaluate their operation and then decide if it would be more efficient to do the work be farmed out or to do it themselves.

In a contract with a highway district or the county, he said, it should state what maintenance is expected, snow removal policy, curb cuts, utility policy, traffic control and local improvement districts.

There should also be a provision for arbitration and a monthly report stating the itemized costs of work done, he said.

John Clark, Cassia County commissioner, told of the progress that has been made in his county in an attempt to establish to set up sanitary landfill sites.

He urged the cities and counties to cooperate with the state agencies involved to help solve this problem.

Robert Olson from the Idaho Department of Health told the city officials the basic steps to follow in setting up sanitary landfills are to examine the situation; establish objectives; design it accordingly; implement the program and then evaluate it.

To help the cities the State Department of Health plans to have a solid waste specialist who will be trained in sanitary landfill operation. He will then be available to train all personnel in these operations around the state.

Gets money

WENDELL — The City of Wendell has received a federal reimbursement of $738.96 from the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund for purchase of playground equipment and renovation of restrooms at the city park.

Harold T. Brown, Filer, chairman of the state Park Board, presented the warrant to the City of Wendell. The money pays half of the total cost of the equipment. Brown said the city of Wendell has spent more than $7,000 to develop the city park, receiving $3,500 as reimbursement from the government.

Four girls seeking title of queen for Rupert July 4 fete

RUPERT — There are four candidates seeking the new July 4th Rupert Rodeo queen title, Rex Rasmussen, queen contest chairman said Saturday.

The queen will be chosen on the basis of horsemanship, poise, appearance, and popularity. Three separate events have been scheduled giving the judges an opportunity to view and judge the qualities of each candidate.

Tina Delas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Costa Delas, Rupert, is reigning queen. She is a senior at Minico High School and has ridden the past year in parades at Salt Lake City, Oakley, Murtaugh, Caldwell, Jerome and Burley.

Debbie Gittens is 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gittens, Rupert. She graduated this spring from Minico High School and plans to attend Rick's College this fall. She will be riding a registered Anglo Arab named Chief. She participated in the Western Pleasure Competition at last year's Wrangler Horse Show. She lists her hobbies as singing and swimming. In high school she was a member of the Pep Club.

Gwen Evans, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Evans, Heyburn, is a senior at Minico High School. She will be riding a sorrel half quarterhorse and half thoroughbred named Oakie Star. While participating in the Junior Rodeo at Oakley she won first place for bareback riding, and helps break horses at home. She works on cars shown in 4-H events and fishes with her grandfather. She is a member of Pep Club and Future Nurses. Carolyn Cole, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cole, Paul. She will be riding a Palomino named Pixie's Mike and is a senior at Minico High School.

A member of the Rodeo Club, she has participated in the Fifth District High School Rodeo in Gooding and Bliss. She is a member of Girl's Athletic Association and Future Homemakers of America. Listed as her hobbies are swimming, sewing and skiing.

Kathy Crawford, 18, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Howard Crawford, will be riding a 5-year-old chestnut half thoroughbred and half quarter gelding named Diamon. Her horse is the grand champion of Southern Idaho in Western Pleasure Competition. He won four blue and one red ribbons at the Minidoka County Fair; and two blue and the purple champion ribbons at district.

A 4-H member she has shown on local and district levels in horses and cattle. She belonged to Jobs Daughters for several years and her hobbies are skiing and swimming and other outdoor recreation. She is a student at Boise State College pursuing a career as a dental assistant.

A queen and two attendants will be announced the final night of the rodeo July 4. The popularity voting will be held at the Chuck Wagon Jamboree and barbecue, June 26 at Rupert Civic Auditorium. The public is invited.

The candidates will be judged on their horsemanship at 2 p.m. June 27 and the public is invited to the free performance.

This is the first year the age limit has been set at 18 by Sept. 1 and not over 24 and unmarried, reported Rasmussen. This was set this year so the Rupert July 4th Rodeo Queen would be eligible to compete in the Miss Rodeo Idaho Contest, according to Rasmussen.

Winners

BURLEY — Special events of teams of four were played during the Burley Duplicate Bridge Club meeting at Burley Elks Lodge Hall.

Winners were Mr. and Mrs. Gail Wolf and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hunter, first and Max Hogge, Mrs. Nanette Woodland, Mrs. Val Gierisch, and Dan Johnson, second.

Idaho gets $2 million for recreation areas

By JERRY HERRMANN

Times-News Writer
BURLEY — Idaho will receive $2.24 million from the federal government to help provide more recreation areas and facilities in cities and counties in Idaho.

This money, Kent Ellis, state outdoor recreation director, told city officials at the Friday noon luncheon meeting of the Associated Idaho Cities state convention being held here, comes from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund.

"During 1970-71 fiscal year Idaho received $1.483 million or twice as much as it had during any previous year," he said. "This money allowed us to catch up on projects that had been in hibernation."

One significant change in the way these funds can be used in Idaho after July 1, he said, is that these funds can be used to construct swimming pools and golf courses.

"With the cut back in funds the state agencies received they now have very little state money for matching funds. In the past there used to be a 50-50 split. Next year 85 per cent will probably be available to the local government units and 15 per cent for state projects."

"However, I wouldn't be surprised to see 95 per cent allotted to the local governmental units and five per cent for the state projects due to the lack of state matching funds," he said.

"I hope you can take advantage of this situation so that we are able to use the funds allocated to Idaho under this fund," he said.

The funds from the Land and Water Conservation Program are furnished on a 50-50 matching basis. They can be used to acquire land and develop recreation areas on it or on land the local government unit owns.

For boating related facilities funds are available under the Waterways Improvement Fund, he said. Under this program the total cost of the project is paid from this fund.

The city officials were also reminded by Ellis that the Waterways Improvement Funds can be used as matching funds in a project where funds are being received from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund.

Steven W. Bly, president of the Idaho Recreation and Park Society, briefly explained what his organization can do to help the cities.

Two of the areas his organization can help cities; he said, are in helping in the planning of a recreation program and facilities; and the setting up of curriculum in public schools.

He also said, "The IRPS is very concerned about the effect of the cut in the Idaho Park Department's budget cut from $1.2 million this year to $450,000 for next year."

He encouraged the city officials to write letters to the governor and the legislators telling of their concern over the cut in this budget.

"Some of our state parks where 3,000 - 4,000 people use them each day only have one fulltime person in charge of them now," he said.

He also pointed out that over 90 projects in Idaho with a price tag of over $4 million have been completed with the assistance of this department.

To help solve the problem, Bly said, a State Department of Parks and Recreation should be established by the legislature.

Cowbelle state head gives talk

DECLO — Mrs. Mildred Smith, Caldwell, state Cowbelle president, told members of the Mini-Cassia group at their annual luncheon at Min's cafe here that the Beef Council is promoting beef and the Cowbelles are a vital part of the beef promotion.

Mrs. Keith Merrill spoke on her experiences during two years in Afghanistan with her husband who was an equipment developer and teacher.

Mrs. Esther Easton, local president, introduced the guests and officers. Mrs. Ann Bedke offered invocation. Luncheon arrangements were made by Mrs. Shirley Estes. Table decorations were garden flowers furnished by Mrs. B. Goode and Mrs. W. Patterson.

Planning study project outlined to delegates

BURLEY — The Planning Regions Study for the State of Idaho was outlined Friday for the city officials attending the Association of Idaho Cities state convention here.

Glen Nichols, State Planning and Community Affairs Agency director, and his assistant, Mike Wardle, told how it had come about and what the objectives are.

This study was made public for the first time last month, Nichols said. "We're here to get some reactions to the boundaries drawn in the study and the proposals made in it," he said.

The idea of this study — to have planning regions established in Idaho — has been endorsed by the federal and state agencies Nichols and members of his staff have contacted.

"This idea isn't anything new. Nor do political boundaries have any significance in this plan. But it is possible that state and federal administrative districts will come to have the same boundaries as the planning regions finally end up with," Nichols said.

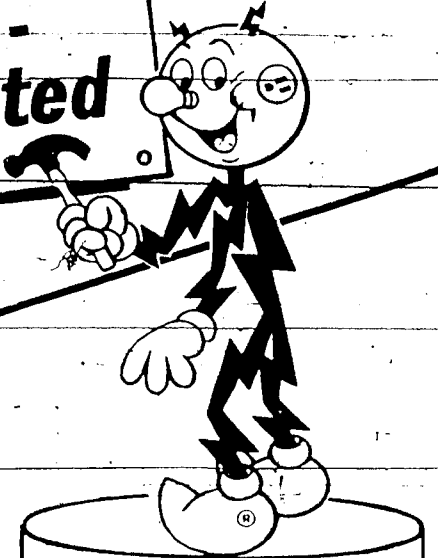

Wardle, who ramrodded the study, said that there is some confusion in Idaho now. In this study the problems were examined and then recommendations were made.

He also made it clear that this study was simply a proposal and that it will be revised after all of the remarks are in on it. However, he pointed out that the federal government requires "area wide" planning. Whatever area is affected becomes the area, he said.

The six regional boundaries drawn up in the study match closely the existing boundaries of the regional planning bodies being formed or presently in existence, he said.

This system will also form a coordination point for the flow of information up to the state and down from it through this clearing house, Wardle said.

Like electric heat, flameless electric water heating requires no energy-wasting chimney. The electric water heater, in fact, is almost 100% efficient. All of the heat goes into the water. That's why we call it "the neater heater." And it's one of the reasons almost everybody in the area served by Idaho Power chooses flameless water heating.

American cities doomed, Boston mayor thinks

BOSTON (UPI)—Kevin White, at the age of 41, is still, in his own words, "almost an incurable optimist." But he feels America's urban centers are doomed.

After three-and-a-half frustrating years as mayor of one of the nation's major cities, he can still look out the picture window of his plush City Hall office and see a rotting waterfront. And there's a spiraling tax rate. And high welfare. And high unemployment.

Why are the cities doomed? Not because the world's richest nation lacks the know-how of the money, but because—White is convinced—Americans are unwilling to pay the price to save them.

"I'm not sure we haven't passed that point already. And that's a hell of a thing for a mayor to say," he said.

White sees the country's bustling metropolitan areas from coast to coast decaying so fast they eventually will become sprawling ghost towns as city dwellers flee to the suburbs and beyond the countryside.

But not before some erupt into new racial violence.

"You know, I'm hoping that a president will get elected or something will happen that will wake everybody up," he said.

"Even if you're a drowning man you don't believe you're going to drown. It's just you don't believe it. And you don't, if you're a mayor, accept the fact that your city is going to die. I'm no Cassandra. I'm almost an incurable optimist."

"But the fact of the matter is I don't see any chance for it to survive. I don't see it coming back. I don't see anything happening to it. I really don't, I mean that sincerely."

"And I think by the time the American people wake up it will be too late."

In 1967, when White won election to a first term, he was one of a handful of liberal mayors bent, he says, on breathing new life into the cities, to rebuilding the slums and improving the lot of the growing black population.

The dire predictions he now utters were unthinkable then to a man who had grown up in one of Boston's most prominent political families and studied government at Harvard University after undergraduate work at Williams College (class of 1952) and Boston College Law School (class of '53).

"I didn't even know what an urban crisis was," he said, looking back. He does now.

At almost every turn he admitted he has found himself frustrated by lack of money, a middle class backlash and the time consuming routine of the office.

"You wake up every single day knowing that you cannot gain yardage. You just wonder how much yardage your city is going to lose," he said.

"But it's like having someone walk in and every day having a waste paper basket dumped in your desk. And when you get all through sorting it and piecing it together and trying to unravel it, you come in the next morning and someone dumps another waste paper basket on your desk. And you never have a sense of knowing what it leads to and whether you're developing a pattern that's contributing to anything."

The phone rings. A woman complaining about holes in her street. "I'll take care of it,"

White promises and hangs up. He shouted to a secretary to get the Public Works Department on the line. "There are two potholes at the corner of Newbury and Fairfield," he snapped. "Fix it. Fix it." And slammed down the phone.

"That's what I mean about a waste paper basket being dumped on your desk."

"This is the only profession I know of where you reach the pinnacle of it and people quit. You have everything you want—power, prestige, attention. You're a prominent part of your profession, influential, yet you quit."

"That's the only way I can tell you how a mayor's job is."

Despite his despair, White loves his job. He faces reelection this fall and he does not talk like a quitter.

"The fact of the matter is, surprisingly enough, there is no other place, frustrating as it is, where there's more action, more chance to do something even though you're never allowed to do it."

To look at the heart of downtown Boston with its narrow streets lined with expensive, picturesque town houses, modern government center of federal, city and state office buildings, new skyscrapers going up, it is hard to believe it is what White claims—a dying city.

Behind the facade, however, is another city, marred not only by its waterfront but by thousands of old decaying buildings; a city where one of five persons is on welfare, the highest rate in the nation; a city in such financial trouble White has put a freeze on wages and hiring, closed down his little city halls and even cut the budget of Boston City Hospital.

Theoretically, at least, White thinks the cities can be saved. But the federal government and the states, he says, will have to pump in the neighborhood of $50 billion into urban areas in the next decade to do it.

And, money alone will not be enough, he adds. Indeed, funds from Washington over the past 10 years have had so many strings attached "that we haven't been able to adequately spend the money we get."

The queen does not fall so play number one has failed. You can see also that both finesses are wrong. In spite of all that South can almost claim his contract at this point. All that is necessary is that West have the queen of clubs and the opening lead has marked him with that card.

Here is the sure-thing play. South leads a heart to dummy's ace; a second one back to the king; ruffs his last heart; plays dummy's jack of clubs and discards his trey of spades.

West wins the trick and is end played. A spade lead is up to the ace-queen. A heart lead allows South to ruff in dummy and discard his queen of spades.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You do double and West runs to two diamonds. This is passed around to you. What do you do now?

Answer Monday

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Here is another one of those so-called, laydown hands. West makes his normal opening lead of the King of clubs and South has no trouble counting to 11 winners. He also sees that he has three plays for his 12th trick.

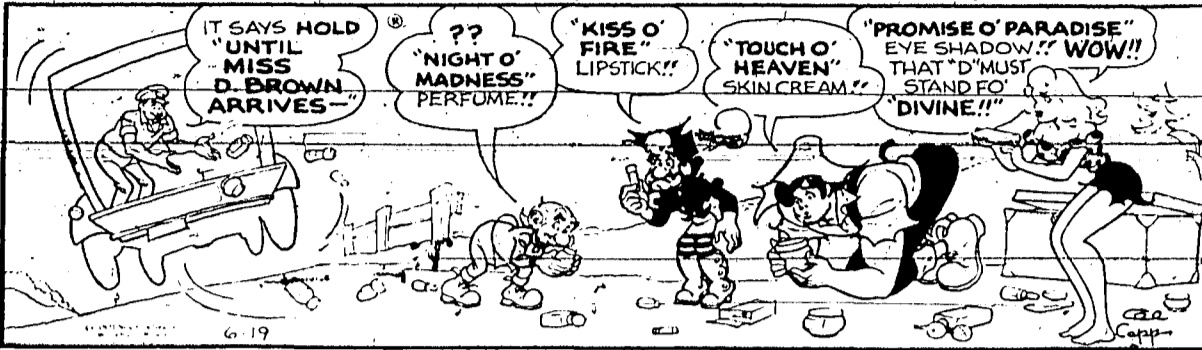

The first is that maybe he can ruff out the queen of clubs to set up dummy's jack. If that doesn't work he can lead a heart toward dummy and finesse the jack. If that fails he will still be able to fall back on the spade finesse.

He starts by ruffing a club at trick two. Then he plays the ace of trumps and notes that both opponents follow.

THE WIFE should get up in the morning before the husband so she can get breakfast started. That's not my motion. It's the majority opinion of 4,562 citizens surveyed on the matter. Not counting Saturdays and Sundays, however. Most of those polled expressed the odd belief the husband should arise first on weekends.

ALREADY MENTIONED Benjamin Franklin, the insomniac, slept in two different beds. No, nothing like that. He thought wrinkled covers kept him awake, so nightly switched from the mused-up nest to the freshly made-up bed. Historical records also reveal England's great Prime Minister Disraeli slept in four beds each night. He entertained the notion his body got overheated if he dozed too long in one spot. Or so goes the dubious report. King Louis XIV of France, however, wins first prize. He owned 412 beds—and-for-reasons-unexplained, picked whichever one suited him best of an evening.

IN ORDER, THESE are the best places to eat dinner: 1. Off the coffee table in front of the living room fireplace. 2. At the picnic bench in the backyard. 3. In the kitchen's breakfast nook. Just developed this opinion after reading a magazine article on the joys of a meal served in bed. A little whimsical hogwash by an ailing author. Dinner in bed is a mess. It even ranks below the formal supper by candlelight at the dining room table, though not much.

COULD BE the lad who suffers from hayfever is a particular breed. Clinical studies at a Los Angeles hospital indicate such. Allergic souls tend to demonstrate leadership ability, evidently. A check of the records of hayfever outpatients turned up an extraordinarily large number of professional specialists. Their accomplishments showed a knack for getting other people to work for them.

SIR, WHERE did you live on the day you first met your future matrimonial mate? And where did she live? Were your respective residences within 20 blocks of each other? That's the average, statistically. Studies prove the odds run 50-50 any bachelor can drive to his bride-to-be's home in less than 10 minutes. And our Love and War man insists that's not too long a drive, considering.

IF YOU DON'T have about 35,000 golf balls on hand, don't even consider opening a driving range this summer... NOBODY, not even the littlest angel, wore pajamas until 150 years ago... Indians plan war on drink, drugs

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Indians worried about the abuse of alcohol and —to a lesser extent —drugs among their kind have declared war on both in a self-help campaign aimed at all Indians throughout the country.

The Bureau of Indian Affairs places the nation's Indian population at somewhere in the range of 750,000-800,000. A total of 477,500 live on reservations but there is less certainty about how many more American Indians there are. The bureau estimates about 350,000.

The instrument for the Redman's war on drink and drugs is the newly organized American Indian Commission on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse, Inc.

A spokesman for the commission estimated that "from 60 to 65 per cent of the Indian people are in one way touched by or through alcoholism." Michael Joseph Raymond, 28, the commission spokesman who is part Cherokee, said the high rate of alcoholism among Indians is frightening. "It's kind of wiping us out," he said. The driving force behind the commission, believed to be the first of its kind and certainly the most ambitious in its aims, is 33-year-old Mark Small, a Cheyenne from Busley, a speck of an Indian town near Lame Deer, Mont.

Small, the commission's executive director, has divided the nation into 10 areas for the "Indian working with his brother Indian" fight against excessive drinking and its consequences.

Already the commission has been instrumental in the establishment of three alcoholic treatment centers. There is a

"The tragedy is that the critical areas for alcoholism are wherever our people are living in numbers."

facility for Sioux on the Pine Ridge Reservation in Nebraska; an Indian treatment center for the Northern Cheyenne, Crow and others in Montana, and a "model" facility known as the Twin Lake Recovery Center located at Ft. Defiance on the Navajo Reservation in northern New Mexico. Immediately plans call for a string of smaller "alcoholism centers" through Nevada.

The campaign also has special plans for instructing and then utilizing Indian youth on the perils of alcohol and drug addiction. The commission hopes to bring promising youngsters from the reservations to headquarters in Salt Lake City where they can attend special classes at local schools on alcohol and drugs and work with the Indian organization part time. Upon completion of training they would return to their home areas and utilize what they have learned in starting new programs.

"We want to ask them," Raymond said, "Hey, what do you see? Hey, what do you want, what do you think?" Ultimately the Indian group hopes to become a clearing house for "tailored" programs combatting alcoholism when help is asked, whether it be a group of 20 or a whole reservation.

Raymond said approaches to alcoholism problems for the Indian will be varied. "We have got to experiment," he said. "We utilize an AA (Alcoholics Anonymous) approach at times, but we use other ways. We will have to find out needs. If one thing doesn't fit (the program) we'll tailor something else."

What are the critical areas for alcoholic Indians?

"Just pick a reservation," Raymond said. "The tragedy is that the critical areas for alcoholism are wherever our people are living in numbers."

Pressure boosting interest

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is gathering evidence that the high cost of buying a home will go still higher in the last half of this year.

Various segments of the real estate industry are putting out the word — buy now. Even allowing for the industry's understandable bias, there is much to be said for its position.

"Heavy pressures on the capital markets have already begun to push interest rates higher," said Ross M. Blakely, vice president of the National League of Insured Savings Associations. "The last half of 1971 is going to see a turnabout in interest rates on mortgages." Blakely is president of Coast and Southern Federal Savings and Loan Association in Los Angeles.

Mortgage interest rates have declined sharply from the record levels that prevailed last year. But the downward trend appears to have run its course.

The falling interest rates have largely offset rising housing prices. There seems to be little chance of a break in the steady increase in the cost of houses.

National Property Outlook, a real estate market newsletter, recently commented: "Families planning to purchase a home this year will do better this spring and summer than they will in the fall when several factors may produce higher prices."

The newsletter predicted the cost of a new house would increase 8 per cent by the end of the year. It cited rising wage and material costs as the primary reason.

Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, predicted that output of privately-owned homes built without a government subsidy would increase 30 to 35 per cent this year.

He said the "large availability of mortgage credit" has stimulated home building. He credited increasing deposits at savings and loan associations and other financial institutions.

Blakely said, however, that a slowdown in the savings rate can be expected later this year. With homebuilding proceeding at a brisk pace, he indicated, mortgage rates can be expected to climb.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—Plastic bread bag clips are very useful as guitar picks. When not in use, the clip can easily be slipped over a string, and stay there without getting lost. When this breaks it is no trouble to get another one.—MARIE S.

EAT SO MUCH BREAD I CAN'T REACH THE STRINGS.

DEAR POLLY—A round, plastic net scouring bubble is always with the soap in my bath tub so I can more easily clean the tub after bathing. It also beautifully, quickly and efficiently removes dry rough dead skin from my heels, end of toes and soles. In fact, it does a better job than the traditional rough stone, is much less expensive and serves both purposes well.—MRS. D. R.

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—To make an adorable gift, or for one's own use, take a spice rack, put some nails on for spools of thread or machine bobbins. Hang somewhere near the sewing machine or wherever is convenient.—A SEWER'S DAUGHTER

DEAR POLLY—To crush a bouillon cube I place the cube in a garlic or a hamburger press.—COLLEEN

DEAR POLLY—When making a hand-knit or crocheted item for a gift, I cut out the laundering instructions on the label of the yarn, paste them on an index card and include with the gift. Whenever possible, I use machine washable yarns.—BARBARA

WHEN YOU LAUNDRER IT, CAN YOU STRETCH ONE SLEEVE AND SHRINK THE OTHER?

DEAR POLLY—As a windbreaker to go under a lightweight coat, zip out your fall raincoat liner and wear it under the light coat. This is cozy and money-wise, too.—MRS. W. A.

DEAR POLLY—Paint empty thread spools a color to go with the decor in some room, thread ribbons through the spools (or dyed shoe laces could be used) and use them as curtain or drapery tie-backs.—MRS. J. E. C.

DEAR POLLY—A grapefruit spoon is excellent for stemming strawberries.—MRS. Mc.

I HAVE A SPOON-- WISH I HAD STRAWBERRIES

6-20 © 1971 by NEA

DEAR POLLY—To make a piece of chamois soft and pliable again I soak it in warm water, to which a teaspoon of olive oil has been added.—MRS. W. C. J.

DEAR POLLY—If you don't have a doughnut cutter, use the lid of a starch can. Cut the sides down to the height of the middle portion and have a great cutter.—DEE DEE

DEAR POLLY—A quick way to steam brown bread is to slice the bread and put it in a colander. Place the colander over boiling water and it steams very quickly.—J. D.

UP FRONT

"THE MYSTERY OF THE MYNA BIRD'S OWNER WAS SOLVED WHEN WE PULLED UP TO A SMALL DOCK IN THE CAROLINAS... AND THE SIGHT OF THE OWNER GAVE MY HEARTSTRINGS AN UNGENTLE TWEAK."

DAD! THERE'S MAGOG!

MY WORD, SON! THE MYNA'S COMING HOME TO ROOST!

"THE BOY WAS TIM ATKINS AND WHILE KEVIN AND I GOT ACQUAINTED WITH HIS FATHER, THE BOYS DID THE ABOUT BOATS AND YOURS LOOKS ABOUT PERFECT!"

I'M BATTY EXCEPT FOR THE STUCK FLAG HALYARD ON THE FORE!

MAYBE I CAN REACH IT BY GOING UP THIS HEAD STAY. IT GOES ALL THE WAY TO THE TRUCK!

(GULP)... GOLLY, GEE WHIZ! WHAT SHOULDER MUSCLES!

YOU OUGHT'VE SEEN HIM, DAD! HAND OVER HAND!

SUCH A FEAT OUGHT TO BE REWARDED! MAYBE HE'D LIKE TO SPEND THE DAY AND SAIL WITH US? MR. ATKINS?

CALL ME PHIL... HE'D LOVE IT. BUT HIS HANDICAP... HE'D BE IN THE WAY!

IN THE WAY, MY EYE! WHY HE'S ALREADY SHOWN HOW HANDY HE IS!

YOU FOLKS ARE ALL MAINMAST! I'LL GET HIS BELONGINGS FOR OVER-NIGHT!

"THE NEWS SET THE BOYS AFIRE, AND MUCH LATER WHEN THEY WERE BUNKED..."

I'VE GOT AN IDEA!

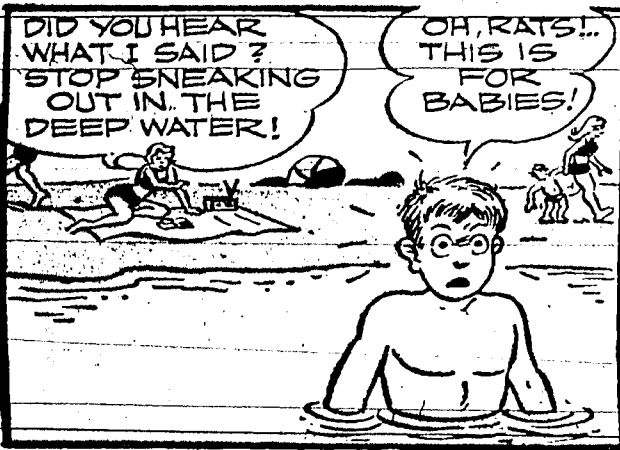

I READ YOUR MIND, LOVERBOY, AND I'M WITH YOU! WE CAN TAKE TIM WITH US THROUGH THE CANAL AND HIS FATHER CAN MEET US THERE BY CAR!

WE EXPECTED PROBLEMS, BUT NOT THE KIND THAT DEVELOPED.

OH, RATS!... THIS IS FOR BABIES!

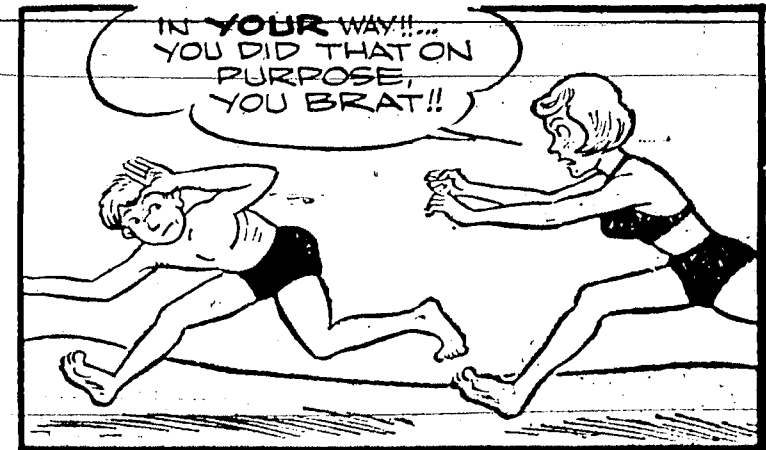

WILLIS! GET BACK IN THE SHALLOW WATER! IT'S DANGEROUS OUT THERE!

GOTTA DO SOMETHING ABOUT THIS... HMMM... SHE HATES BUGS...

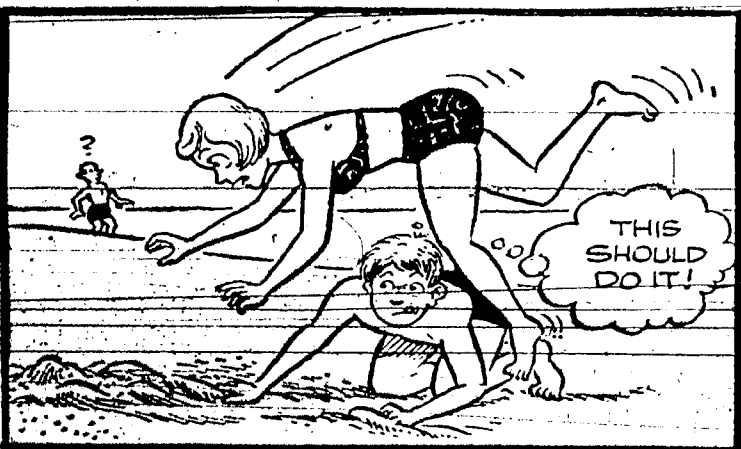

YOU'RE GETTING MY NEW SUIT WET!

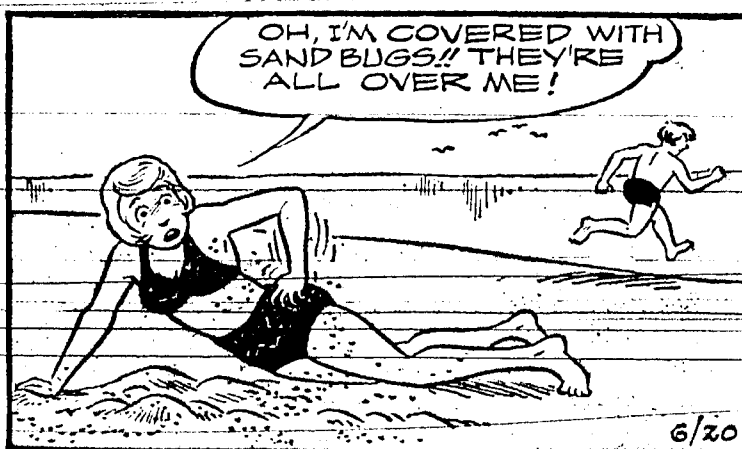

CAN I HELP IT IF YOU'RE IN MY WAY WHEN I'M TRYING TO SHAKE THE WATER OFF!

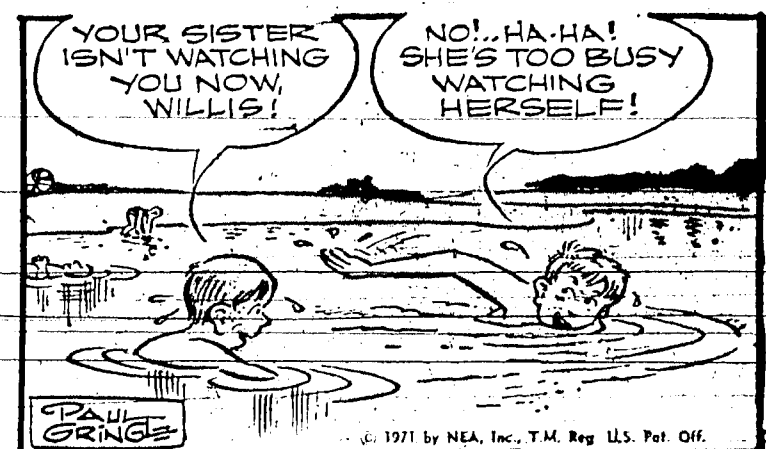

IN YOUR WAY!!! YOU DID THAT ON PURPOSE, YOU BRAT!!

THIS SHOULD DO IT!

OH, I'M COVERED WITH SAND BUGS!! THEY'RE ALL OVER ME!

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

SHERI FOSBEE OF BATESVILLE, MS., ASKS: "WHERE DO FRECKLES COME FROM?"

FRECKLES ARE THE TINY BROWN SPOTS THAT DOT THE SKIN OF SOME PEOPLE. ALMOST EVERYONE HAS A SPECIAL CHEMICAL, OR PIGMENT, IN HIS SKIN CALLED MELANIN, WHICH GIVES THE BROWN COLOR TO SKIN.

WHY DOESN'T EVERYONE HAVE FRECKLES, JOHNNY?

FRECKLES ARE INHERITED, JUDY. WE GET THEM FROM OUR PARENTS.

FRECKLES ARE JUST TINY SPOTS IN OUR SKIN THAT HAVE MORE MELANIN IN THEM THAN THE REST OF OUR SKIN. SUNSHINE GAUGES MELANIN TO DARKEN, WHICH MAKES THE SPOTS WITH MORE MELANIN POP OUT.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR SANDY KOUFAX

Do you feel that playing ball in Little League is harmful for a boy if he wants to be a pro later on?—Pete Moore, Milligan College, Tenn.

● I certainly do not. A young ballplayer needs all the practice he can get—and Little League is a fine way to get it. I know because I played in the Little League myself.

FOR BUCKMINSTER FULLER,

In a recent article you stated that pollution is a word meaning ignorance. If most pollution is by-products of the work of well-educated technicians, where does ignorance enter into the picture?—C. P. Miscavish, Los Angeles, Calif.

● I said that the word "pollution" manifests ignorance. Man has found that he can sell substances which can be separated from other substances, but being ignorant of the balance of the chemistry after using them, he casts them out ignorantly into the water or the air. For example, all the sulphur coming annually out of all the chimneys around our planet equals the amount of sulphur being taken annually out of the ground to keep industry going. Those who let the sulphur out into the sky or streams are allowing the valuable concentrates to become so diffuse as to be economically unrecoverable. Conversely, the sulphur collects in human beings to the detriment of humanity. The universe, in due time, will put that sulphur into useful recirculation, but possibly only after humanity has committed suicide.

FOR BOB HOPE

As the master-hand at gaining laughs and chuckles from others, what do you find makes you laugh yourself?—Leslie E. Dunkin, Bremen, Ind.

● I'm an easy audience for good comedy—what breaks me up is what breaks the world up. For instance, I saw Don Rickles on TV the other night, and I thought he was a riot. I love to laugh, and I love the people who make me laugh.

FOR REP. SHIRLEY CHISHOLM,

New York City

Do you think in our lifetime we shall see an American Negro as a President of the U. S.?—Gyula Hoffmann, Waterbury, Conn.

● No, I don't. Racism is still too deeply imbedded in the American culture.

FOR GEORGE BURNS

I understand it was you who first "discovered" Ann-Margret. How many other famous people were you first to scout?—D. J. Sullivan, Bakersfield, Calif.

● Actually I did not "discover" Ann-Margret. She was brought to my office by her agent. She had done some performing but not much. She auditioned for me, and I was so impressed by her poise and talent that I took her to Las Vegas with me. This helped to open doors for her, and in that way I suppose I did further her career. We're still very good friends.

I was also instrumental in furthering the careers of Bobby Rydell and Bobby Darin. Darin, I remember, had made a record called "Splish Splash" that was beginning to get quite a play. Somebody suggested that I take him to Las Vegas, and I did. To this day, I still think of Bobby Darin almost as a son.

FOR JAMES MACARTHUR, of TV's "Hawaii Five-O"

Is it true that you are the adopted son of Helen Hayes? Have you ever married?—Linda A. Phillips, Church Hill, Tenn.

● It is not true. She is my real mother. Yes, I am married to Melody Patterson.

FOR MAYOR JOHN LINDSAY,

What do you consider the urgent problems of New York City?—Mr. A. S. Kravits, Forest Hills, N.Y.

● Whenever any service that city government should provide does not work as well as it should, I regard it as an urgent problem. One of the most critical problems during the summer months is the collection of garbage and the related problem of keeping the streets of our neighborhoods swept. But, while the Sanitation Department is continually striving to increase the efficiency of its collection operation, the battle for clean streets will not be won unless the people cooperate.

FOR GLORIA STEINEM,

writer and women's liberation activist

Why do you feel that the Women's Liberation Movement is a healthy movement?—Mrs. L. E. Doherty, Green Bay, Wis.

● It's a very healthy kind of movement because it crosses race, lines, age lines, class lines. It's a sex-role revolution; it's not just for women. Feminism is a stage on the way to humanism. If we're going to have a more just and compassionate society, we all have to rise up together; and we can't leave anybody behind. We all need each other. It was a mistake of the last feminist revolution that it didn't go far enough.

In your extensive world travels, what country held the greatest fascination in your estimation?—J. Grady Stone, Oneonta, Ala.

● I found Tibet, as it was before the Red Chinese overran the country, by far the most fascinating place in the world. To begin with, there's the setting, far up there on that lofty Central Asian plateau, surrounded by the spectacular peaks of the Himalayas. There's also the fact that Tibet had a glorious civilization utterly different than anything else on our planet. By now, I'm afraid the Red Chinese have ruined it. They have been trying to wipe out the Tibetans as a race by forcing them to intermarry only with the Chinese.

FOR MARY BROOKS,

Director, U.S. Mint

What is meant by "seigniorage"? Christine Roloth, Lancaster, Pa.

● When coins are minted, there is a "profit" to the Treasury known as seigniorage. This seigniorage is the difference between the cost of the metal used in minting and the face value of the coins produced. Since coins contain their own intrinsic value, there is no need to record a liability for them when they are issued.

FOR WILLIAM A. NOLEN, M.D.,

author of "The Making of a Surgeon"

Your book is fairly critical of your profession. Aren't you bothered by the thought that it might cause many people to lose their confidence in surgeons?—R. M. Watson, Lewiston, N.Y.

● I don't think it'll shake anyone's confidence. My own confidence isn't shaken—and I know as much about it as anyone. If I send my kids or my wife or even myself to a surgeon, I have utter confidence in him, even though I know he's only human. And if something disastrous happens, it's just one of those things.

FOR RANDOLPH W. THROWER,

Commissioner, Internal Revenue Service

As I understand it, doctor and dentist fees are tax deductible. Are veterinary charges for farm animals and for pets also tax deductible? If not, why not?—Mrs. Leroy D. Collier, Kokomo, Ind.

● A farmer operating his farm for profit may deduct all of his ordinary and necessary expenses of carrying on the business of farming. The deductible expenses would include veterinary charges for farm animals other than pets. Veterinary charges for pets, however, are personal expenses and as such are not deductible.

By Andy Kim as told to Robert Wacker

Rock Singer Andy Kim (24): "My Father is 88— And My Closest Friend"

A Father's Day tribute to an old-world gentleman from a new-world superstar

Andy and his Pop: A son's success is not as important as a father's approval.

One day when I was 14, a gang of fellows was hanging around our home in Montreal. We were fooling-around, lifting weights. My father walked into the room. He picked up a 60-pound weight with one hand, lifted it over his head very slowly, then slowly put it down, and walked out, without a word.

That's pretty good, huh? Especially when you consider he was 78 years old at the time. He was 64 when I was born, and I'm not the youngest of his boys. I'm 24, and my brother Mike is only 21.

My Pop is a man of the old school: a barber, born in Lebanon. He believes in "spare the rod, spoil the child." But for him the rod was a barber's razor strop. Somebody would tell him I'd broken a window or got in a fight with another kid on the block or something and—Bang! I'd get it. There was no getting away from Pop—he could always outrun me, even when he was in his 80's. He was strict. But he was also outstanding. When I was 16 and wanted to try my luck with the New York music industry, I made a pitch to him. He thought it over, then said, "All right—you can go to New York for a week, provided you telephone home every night and tell us how you're doing." He gave me bus fare and a little to live on.

I upheld my end of the bargain. I telephoned home every night, and every night the news was bad. At the end of the week, I went home, disappointed and depressed, but he never said "I told you so." He knew what I was going through, and he had enough confidence in me to say, "If that's what you really want, okay." I made other trips to New York—but for four and a half years I kept getting turned down. At one point, he said to me, "I am not a rich man—but I will take out a mortgage on the house, if that will help you." I said no, of course, but it really broke me up. He was over 80 then.

Then came 1968, and I made the disc "How'd We Get This Way?" which sold 850,000 copies. Then Jeff Barry and I wrote "Sugar, Sugar" which the Archies recorded; it sold seven million copies. And I recorded "Baby, I Love You," which got me my first gold record. So far, in two and a half years of writing and recording, my records and songs have rolled up $12 million in sales, and I've got a new single "I Been Moved," and an album "Andy Kim" coming soon. I hope I'm repaying Pop's faith in me.

But my success hasn't changed Pop in the least. He still gets up at half-past five every morning and starts both the coffee and his narghile (water pipe). That's the sound that wakes us at home most days: the stuttering bubble of that pipe, with its strange Lebanese tobacco. He's a student of Kahlil Gibran and has often quoted to me one of his famous sayings: "Beware of what you want, for you will get it." I wanted success in the music world, and I got that, but that's not nearly as important to me as something else I wanted, and got: The approval of the greatest Pop in the world. ♦

Family Weekly Readers Note... *Special Limited Enrollment Ends June 30th, And Only $1 Covers Your Entire Family For 1st Month

Every Family Needs This Hospital Protection—Now, Every Family Can Easily Afford It!

PAID DIRECT TO YOU IN TAX FREE CASH $600.00-A-MONTH

When You Go to the Hospital—And Cash/Plus Pays You Up To $15,000.00

PAYS YOU TAX FREE CASH . . . at the rate of $600.00 a month for each accident or illness—starting your first day in hospital.

PAYS YOU TAX FREE CASH . . . at the rate of $300.00 a month when you're 65 or over, for first 2 months and $600.00 a month thereafter up to $14,400 for each benefit period—this in addition to Medicare.

PAYS YOU TAX FREE CASH . . . at the rate of $600.00 a month for each accident or illness of your insured wife, starting first day in hospital. (Same big benefits as yours are included for age 65 or over).

PAYS YOU TAX FREE CASH . . . up to $300.00 for Nursing Home Care.

PLUS: Your extra cash payments increase 5% a year, for 5 years—a total of 25%—to keep pace with the rising cost of living!

This plan pays so much and the $1 offer is so good, you probably have some questions—or even some doubts. We've put all the answers (including the minor limitations) down right here in black and white for Family Weekly readers so you won't miss the Enrollment Deadline for the Cash/Plus Hospital Income Plan. Ordinary hospitalization insurance just can't cut it now when your family is hit with a hospital stay. Especially with the bigger bills at home. It takes a hospital income plan that pays enough extra money—or you could end up draining your savings. Low-cost Cash/Plus is the answer, your Safest Answer. Pays more because it covers more. Helps out for both sickness and accident, the burdensome costs of Intensive Care and convalescence facility. Yes, even prepares for further inflation!

Now—for only $1—with no health questions asked and regardless of your age, or size of your family, you get your first month's protection.

Your policy will be issued to you on your application with No age limit for adults, No Physicals, No medical questionnaires, without the usual insurance investigations . . . without any red tape whatsoever . . . and no salesman will call!

All of your unmarried dependent children may be included under this plan between the ages of 1 month and 19 years. Both you and your wife—if neither has been hospitalized for sickness for more than a total of seven days, in the past two years—are eligible for coverage. There are no other qualifications! The few customary exclusions which help keep your premiums low are described in question and answer (Number 17) at right.

All This and Low Rates, Too! N-BF Life keeps costs down with no red tape and because many people are enrolled at one time through the U.S. mails. So after the 1st month ($1 only) you can continue your Cash/Plus protection at these very LOW MONTHLY RATES: Only $2.00 more a month covers All Your Children—NO MATTER HOW MANY. Sorry, only 1 policy per family.

*Premium based on age of policyholder and rate schedule on policy's effective date and at time of renewal. When husband and wife are insured, the husband is the policyholder.

17 Important Questions & Answers

Tell Why National Ben Franklin Hospital Cash/Plus Policy is your best protection for the lowest cost

- 1. What's my chance of being hospitalized? 1 out of 7 people do each year. Could be your wife, your children—even you. You can count on up to $15,000 with Cash/Plus!
- 2. $15,000? How come I'm paid so much? We pay longer than most—$600 a month, under age 65; up to 25 months for each hospital benefit period. No wait; pays from the 1st day, whether for sickness or accident.
- 3. What'll You Pay for My Wife? Same big benefit as yours, $600 a month (under age 65); up to 25 months, to $15,000 each hospital benefit period.
- 4. Are Maternity Benefits Included? YES! Pays $600 a month, up to 25 months, for your wife's hospital confinement for any pregnancy, or its complications, which begins while both are insured. No extra charge!
- 5. Does "Intensive Care" DOUBLE Benefits? Yes, for adults under 65. Pays $20/day up to 30 days. Up to $600 added to your hospital income dollars, a total of $1200! (Other generous benefits for other age groups.) Regular recovery room service for less than 24 hours not covered.
- 6. Does Cash/Plus Cover Nursing Home Care? Yes. Regardless of age, we pay up to $300—$10 a day for 30 days (each hospital benefit period) for confinement in a nursing home or hospital convalescent unit, starting within 7 days of a 3-day covered hospital stay.
- 7. What is the 25% Cost-of-Living Raiser? A person's original benefits increase 5% for benefit periods starting after he's insured a year; same increases for 4 more years. Totals 25% more cash for you!
- 8. Will Cash/Plus Take Care of Our Children? Yes. Each new baby is covered automatically and one low premium covers ALL your children from 1 month up to age 19.
- 9. Do They Get the "Plus" Benefits, Too? Yes! Up to $300* extra for Intensive Care; up to $300 Nursing Home Care. Cost-of-Living Raisers bring children's benefits to $375.
- 10. Just Who Can Get In On Cash/Plus? Any adult who has not been hospitalized for sickness for more than a week in the last 2 years. No Physical and No Age Limit for adults to apply.
- 11. What are We Paid at Age 65 or Over? Up to $14,400 . . . for up to 25 months for each hospital benefit period. $300/month, first 2 months; $600/month for 23 months more. This means more money when you need it most—when your Medicare stops. Cost-of-Living increases bring totals to $375 and $750.
- 12. Do We Get the "Intensive Care" Feature? Yes. At age 65 or over, up to $300, $10 a day, added to your hospital benefits plus cost of living increases.
- 13. What am I Paid for Less Than a Month? You're paid 1/30 of your monthly benefits for each day of confinement from the 1st day.
- 14. Can Premiums Be Changed or My Policy Cancelled? Your policy can never be singled out for change or cancellation. Rate schedule changes or cancellation—costs only occur for all policies like yours in your class and state upon proper notice.
- 15. When Do New Benefit Periods Start? Each eligible hospital stay for a new sickness or injury starts a new 25-month benefit period. Same or related causes are covered for 23 months; if not confined for that amount for 12 months, a new benefit period begins.
- 16. What About "Pre-Existing" Conditions? Even these are covered when hospitalization begins 2 years or more after protection starts.*
- 17. Let's Have It. What are the Exclusions? Only a few. Conditions resulting from declared or undeclared war or act of war; mental illness or nervous disorder; confinement in a federal hospital or federal convalescent facility. Maternity benefits apply only to insured wives.

"An old saying goes, there is a right way, a wrong way, and a Hawaiian way. More and more I'm beginning to understand the Hawaiian way"

Jack Lord: "Let Me Show You"

The other day I got a letter addressed to "Jack Lord, Hawaii." No fan letter I've received in the past 10 years could have pleased me more. Not because of the success of the show, and whatever it might have done for my morale and my ego, but because it identified me with this place that I now consider home—the "loveliest fleet of islands that lies anchored in any ocean." And as an actor, artist and former seaman who has dropped a few anchors in the harbors of the world, I think I can write with some authority.

To me, Hawaii is not just visual; it is the sounds, the fantastically clear air that smells of Pikake, night blooming Cereus, Plumeria. Most of all, Hawaii is its people—the beautiful golden people—and its relaxed way of life. These have all helped to change my own outlook and attitude as a human being.

By Hawaii I certainly don't mean the overpublicized and crassly commercial Waikiki Beach, where thousands of hotel rooms are jammed into less than one square mile, filled with beach boys and bikinis, and where the beaches are crowded and the living space is more expensive than in any city in the world. Tourists who see Waikiki get a very distorted view of the islands.

Yet, even on Oahu—of which Waikiki is the best-known landmark—there are fascinating things to see and do. For me, one of the most marvelous experiences is to get aboard a Honolulu Rapid Transit bus, which takes you from one end of the island to the other. When you see something interesting, get off. Every neighborhood seems different. Chinatown, downtown, Hotel and Maunakea Streets—which James Jones wrote about. The incredible open fish markets where you can get fresh Ahi, which means "fire" in Hawaiian and refers to a big and powerful tuna.

I love to browse in the Mama and Papa stores that are owned by Japanese or Chinese and are scattered through the poorer sections of town. A lot of the old-timers who own them had written to their homeland in the 1920's and '30's and brought back "mail-order brides." They often saved enough money selling seed, fish hooks, nets, flowers, food stuffs or drygoods, to send their children to Ivy League Colleges. These are young men and women who today practice medicine, law and other professions all over the U.S. The stores responsible for this are like the old general stores of the early West, stores that sell everything. The famous Hawaiian song, "Hasagawa General Store," immortalized one of them.

There is a marvelous section near the center of Honolulu, usually missed by tourists, that is charged with historical significance. There's the Iolani Palace where Queen Liliuokalani wrote "Aloha Oe." She was a captive in the room we now use as McGarrett's office in the "Hawaii Five-O" series. Nearby is the oldest church in Hawaii, built in the early 1800's, made of coral rock taken from the reef on the nearby coast. Any tourist can get a "Promenade Pamphlet," published by the State of Hawaii, that he can use for a walking tour. But the easiest way to explore Oahu or any of the islands—is to rent a car and simply drive around.

breath-taking drive through the Pali, the pass that divides the windward and the leeward sides of Oahu, through the lush banana groves over to Kailua and Kaneohe. Then drive through the miles of pineapple fields up to the northern tip to watch the huge waves we show you every week on the opening of "Hawaii Five-O." On the way, stop at the Polynesian Cultural Center, run by the good and industrious Mormons. Then head south, stop at Waimea Falls and Makaha. Makaha Inn is a new beach resort now being developed by Chin Ho, our leading Chinese financier, which some day might rival Waikiki as a tourist attraction.

If you don't want to drive, you can go on a hiking trip, free of charge, conducted every Sunday by a local club that meets downtown, uses the rapid transit bus into the mountains, then follows one of the trails. They often stop at private estates and parks profuse with hundreds of varieties of orchids and other exotic flowers. By now, you may realize that I'm a flower freak. You can find out about these excursions, as well as any other free attractions, by calling the Hawaiian Visitors' Bureau or checking the Beach Press, given free at your hotel.

Many tourists who come here make the mistake of wanting to see too much at one time. If I were visiting here for the first time, I think I'd pick the big island of Hawaii for my first stay. You can fly directly from the mainland to Hilo.

Jack Lord, known to millions of viewers as Five-O's "McGarrett", with his wife Marie: "Many tourists make the mistake of wanting to see too much at one time."

the Hawaii I Love"

By Jack Lord

If I had a family, I would hire a camper in Hilo that sleeps from two to six people and start by making a complete circle tour of the island. It can easily be done in a day and a half. Then take the side roads. Go down to the prehistoric areas at South Point where the first voyagers from the South Pacific Islands landed almost a thousand years ago. I'd spend time near Kilauea, an unbelievable and startling volcano that frequently spews forth molten stone. You can sometimes see molten lava of 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit shooting 25 and 30 feet up into the air. From a safe distance you can watch it stream down the Chain of Craters Road into the sea.

A short drive away is the top of Mauna Kea, which is often snow-capped (when it is, the skiing is good). Nearby is the Parker Ranch, the biggest individually owned ranch in the world. (The King Ranch in Texas is larger, but it is owned by a corporation.) The Parker Ranch is controlled by Dick Smart, whose descendants came here in 1815.

Then there's a black beach at Kalapana, formed by lava being disintegrated to the size of sand particles. Also there's a place called Hilea Beach that must be three miles long and 60 yards wide, on the island's windward side near Honuapo.

The loveliest beaches in the islands, certainly the most deserted, are on Molokai. Miles long, completely barren of people. If it's solitude you want, Molokai is the place to go.

There is a saying in Hawaiian, "Maui No Ka Oi," which means "Maui Is The Best." I am beginning to come around to that. This is a lovely green, unspoiled island. There's a 10,000-foot mountain on Maui called Haleakala, which means House of the Sun. Just why it is so named is obvious even from Oahu, thirty minutes away by jet.

On an early morning last December, when we were shooting at Makapuu Point on Oahu, I watched the sun slowly rising from this mountaintop on Maui, a large orange ball of fire. Then I understood why the ancient Hawaiians called this mountain the House of the Sun. You can take a car, preferably a jeep, to the top of Haleakala crater and then go down inside by mule or on foot. On the way, you will see the beautiful silver sword plants which grow in no other place on earth and which bloom only once before dying. Inside, the crater is big enough to hold the whole island of Manhattan.

Next to Maui, my favorite island is Kauai, where Captain Cook first landed. To me, the most beautiful spots on Kauai are Haena and the NaPali Cliffs and Waimea Canyon and Kalakau Lookout. Don't miss them. While all the islands have fresh-water streams, Kauai is the only one that has a fresh-water river, the Wilua, that can be navigated.

To me, one of the most enjoyable aspects of the islands is sampling the many native and Oriental foods. Try guava, papaya, sashimi, octopus and pickled seaweed. Among my favorite restaurants are the family places, like the King's Garden in Kaimuki or Chaco's Japanese restaurant in the same area. In my opinion, the best food and service is in the Maile Room at the Kahala Hilton Hotel.

Hawaii is informality, with climate that is perfect the year around. I was sitting in the Kahala Hilton the other day and heard a woman complain to her husband, "I am so sick of this rain. It's been going on for hours." The islands would not be so lush without it, and the rain isn't cold, as in New York or Boston. It's 80 degrees outside. There is nothing more beautiful than to walk along the beach and get soaked clear through and yet be warm.

But the most beautiful part of Hawaii is its people. The other day my wife Marie and I went shopping at the Ala Moana Shopping Center—the largest in the world—and a Hawaiian lady came up and said, "Oh, just a minute, just a minute. . . ." She came back shortly with two leis, one for my wife, one for me. Two bands of vanda orchids! This was a working woman who, I am sure, didn't make a lot of money. She was just expressing love as so many of these people do.

New York City and the big urban areas please take notice: this is what they call the Aloha spirit. Hawaiians just give you things as an expression of love because it's their nature. Coming from a tough New York City neighborhood, I was somewhat skeptical at first. I felt sure they wanted something from me. But they didn't.

I can see what the islands have done for me. I've lost a lot of tensions I brought with me. I guess I attribute this partly to the success of the series, which is consistently in the top 10. But mostly, I think it is the lovely experience of living and working here—the kindness these beautiful people have extended to Marie and me, and from which we learn every day.

Aren't there any drawbacks? Sure. The natives have a unique way of doing some things. Like the set painters we hired one day who took a four-hour lunch break while the company of 70 men stood around and waited for them to finish their job. Now, that's not the most economical way to do a television show on a budget! But, as people here say, there is a right way, a wrong way, and a Hawaiian way. More and more I'm beginning to understand the Hawaiian way.

Marie and I often walk out on our lanai at five o'clock in the morning when the sun is coming up over Koko Head. We never had a lanai in New York or Los Angeles. We never had this pure, sweet, clean air anywhere in the world. We never felt the trade winds blowing, never saw the sky charged with orange, purples, red, pinks and blues, all mixed up into a wild-man's palette. And we just sit there and thank God for this experience and hope that we can just stay here for the rest of our lives.

Aloha, my friends, and mahalo for looking at our show. ♣

How Much Do You Know About The Opposite Sex?

QUIZ/By John E. Gibson

True or False: Men may be the stronger sex, but they use more tranquilizers than women do (See answer number 2)

Men and women are different. Just how different provides a fascinating field for conjecture. This true-false quiz explores some of the more interesting differences.

1. Men give women a better break than women do.
2. Men may be the stronger sex, but they use more tranquilizers than women do.
3. Men who try to lose weight are usually motivated by entirely different reasons than women are.
4. Women are better read than men.

ANSWERS

1. True. In psychological studies at St. Louis University, students acted as judges, evaluating the offenses of other students—such as cheating on an examination or possession of marijuana. Findings of the investigation: "Both sexes prescribed similar punishment for males, but males were more lenient than females in prescribing punishment for females." Apparently men like women much better than women do.
2. False. A four-year study sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health, which included two nationwide surveys by independent research organizations, showed the use of tranquilizers to be about twice as high among women as men. Defenders of the distaff side, however, observe defensively that "men give women such a bad time, they need more tranquilizers."
3. True. A wide-scale survey, conducted by London University investigators, has indicated that most men who try to lose weight do so for health reasons, to avoid the assorted ills associated with extra poundage. Women weight reducers were apt to be more concerned about making themselves physically attractive. A survey of over 1,500 doctors, relative to the case histories of their overweight patients, showed that the women were less successful in losing weight despite their dieting. Conclusion of the investigators: their reason for trying to lose weight is not a strong enough incentive to make them stick to their diets—as compared with men who are reducing to save, or prolong, their lives.
4. True—according to the findings of a nationwide survey which assessed the reading habits of men and women of various ages and walks of life. The survey didn't go into the matter of literary tastes, but it did show that women read appreciably more books than men. Since studies show women are more interested in the feelings and emotions of others than men are, it's possible they may derive more pleasure and satisfaction from reading about the lives of characters portrayed in books—and perhaps have a greater capacity than men to participate in the action vicariously. ♦

We Staked Our Future On It Over A Decade Ago

THE FLOWER... the Pyrethrum Daley
WE The d-CON Company
THE STAKE..... Safer insecticides for you

When you buy an aerosol insecticide, we think you should know these facts about the kind that we make at d-CON.

We make and market only a certain kind of aerosol insecticide. We do not market "hard" pesticides...formulations containing pesticide ingredients that persist in the environment...that can seriously harm creatures other than the insects they are designed to kill.

We could have used DDT or any of the hard pesticides commonly available and used today. These chemicals are inexpensive to incorporate into a formulation.

But instead, we base our aerosol products on

How My Family Got Bitten By the Camping Bug

Pyrethrum—a substance derived from the African Daisy. Pyrethrum and its synthetic forms have the peculiar property of being deadly to insects... but relatively harmless to warm-blooded animals. Like you. And us. And pets and birds and...

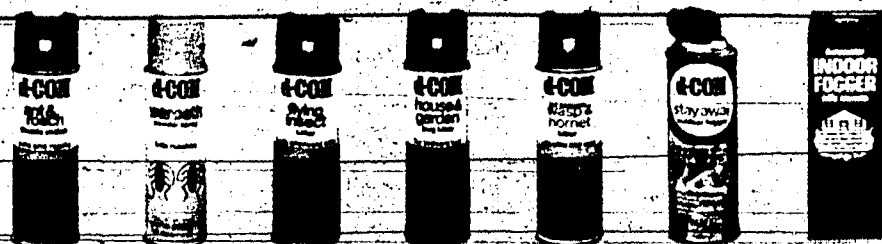

We think this is a better kind of insecticide to make and market. One that is safer for you to use. One that doesn't contribute to pollution of the environment. And that is the kind of aerosol insecticide we make at d-CON. (You can see the full line pictured below.)

WHAT YOU CAN DO

We hope you would want to do something, now that you have this knowledge of the d-CON line of aerosol insecticides. And that is, to choose them when you are selecting a product to kill insects. That way you can join us in doing something about the environment.

These birds—210 of them, of 20 different kinds—died after an area application of a "hard" pesticide in Calhoun County, Michigan. The application was aimed at the Japanese Beetle: it tragically missed its mark.*

HOW TO READ A LABEL: It is important, when you buy an insecticide, to know what you're buying. Inspect the section devoted to Active Ingredients. Look for these ingredients: Pyrethrum, or its two synthetic forms: (1) 1382 and, (2) d-trans Allethrin. You will find these ingredients in d-CON aerosol insecticides.

Every year, thousands of new campers hit the road, following an instinct that has taunted humanity for centuries. They wonder what it's all about, and they'd like to sample the great outdoors—at least once.

Some of them—the lucky ones—will rediscover that fragile link between human nature and Mother Nature that is often lost somewhere beyond the pleasant mists of childhood. Others will dip in a cautious toe and quickly recoil before giving themselves a chance for total immersion. One bad experience will be enough. Subconsciously they have steeled themselves against "roughing it," even in an age when, for many, camping is practically moving your home to a temporary place filled with neighbors.

~~We're part of the lucky group.~~ My wife Dorothy and I were latent campers. Our only regret is that we waited so long to take the plunge. We took it less than two years ago, but fortunately our children were still young enough to embrace Mother Nature without reservation.

We have always enjoyed nature, though we are not schooled in all of its ways. We revel at the sight and feel of a clean lake, even though we are not fishermen. And, since we are pushing 40 and haven't been physically prepared, we do not hike with gusto. But we love camping simply. And this is how it must be with everyone who has been bitten by the camping bug.

For us, camping is being together in a quiet place, doing what we like when the spirit moves us. It's pitching the tent and setting up our kitchen canopy. Each trip is as thrilling as that very first night in our tent, overcloaked by a veil of steady rain. Or our first open-air breakfast in the slanting rays of dawn. Or our first night staying up later than everyone else and staring into the magical afterglow of the fire ring.

Camping has become a mystique because, even with her kaleidoscope of moods, Mother Nature is delightfully predictable. We know there will always be an encore of that trembling summer night when we watched an overblown moon ride the dangerous spires of the high pines. We can expect a rerun of early-morning rabbits across a foot trail. We can reasonably predict the recurring splendor of autumn camp—when cool stars are almost touchable; when the golden flutter of afternoon leaves merges with the choreography of wild birds.

Camping has deepened our capacity to respect the natural environment and to be awed by its variety of tableaux. We can return, at least part way, to a life style that prevailed when man first huddled in the caves of an alien earth, peering out at its fearfulness and its glory.

As man begins his trek toward the stars, it seems especially good to take a long and leisurely look at our planet. For us, camping is the way to do it. ♦

Why Some Women Always Pick "Mr. Wrong"

We all know charming women who seem to have some unhappy faculty for falling in love with the men most likely to make them miserable.

There are the girls who love a succession of married men. There are those who respond only to men who are cruel, overbearing and sadistic. There are women who drag home a series of alcoholics. And there are still others who find homosexual men appealing.

Right now—in cities, suburbs and rural areas of America—thousands of girls and women are eating their hearts out over men who—to everyone but themselves—are patently unsuitable.

Some masochism, some desire for self-punishment, is natural to the female. But when it turns to the extreme, a deep, unconscious wish to be punished for whatever pleasure love brings, it is an illness and should be treated as such. And it is this wish, plus the lack of knowledge of male psychology, which explains the phenomenon of The Search for Mr. Wrong.

Often the girl who falls for the man whose character is full of insurmountable obstacles does not want to get married. She fears the roles of wife and mother. So she picks on males whose situation in life clearly makes marriage impossible. She may wail and cry to friends that she would do anything to find a husband, but secretly her neuroses continue to find for her the man we have dubbed "Mr. Wrong." And with untiring, relentless regularity

One hears that she has broken off with Sam, who is married and the father of four, and is now involved with a Navy officer with a wife and family in Minnesota. After he is transferred to another post, she finds a professor whose wife is said to be insane but who cannot obtain a divorce in his state. And then there are lovers who because of their ethnic background, religion, intellectual capacity, age, occupation, or whatever, present unusual problems.

This girl has gone out of her way to find the person likely to offer the most difficulties. And so she has—though not consciously. All of this, which seems only haphazard and erratic, actually answers a profoundly mixed-up need to be punished.

In order to break this destructive pattern, it is necessary for the woman to recognize her condition for what it is. She is seeking a return to her first Home Sweet Home, no matter how violent, how destructive, how truly miserable that home was. She resurrects those figures who loomed large and powerful when she was small and helpless. A girl whose father whipped her every two or three days would like to break away from this pattern but may not be able to do so without a doctor's help. Sometimes her condition works out in a strange-seeming marriage which satisfies both the husband and wife because they have interlocking neuroses.

If such a girl, untreated, marries a kind, mild man, she is likely to provoke him to become violent. This does not work for very long. She wearies of opposing her husband's goodness. Then she gets sick and goes to doctors who poke her with needles.

Eventually, there is a divorce. She next meets a man who smacks her around every 10 days or so. This is the kind of punishment she would accept only from her father. She marries this man, and the marriage thrives. She is never ill. She simply needs to be punished.

What lies behind the Married Man Syndrome, the girl who consistently gets involved with married men? This can be blamed on a woman's desire for a man already established in life (like her father) or her need for full-fledged rivalry with a woman, such as the rivalry she had with her mother.

When a woman consistently picks on alcoholic men as lovers, you will generally find that her father, or some older relative or family friend—someone she loved as a child—was alcoholic. Such a woman consistently breaks dates with more suitable men to seek out alcoholics because they—and they alone—can evoke in her a powerful response.

What can be done about such women? Can they be helped?

Yes, but it is no snap course.

Remember that something inside all of us is still involved in the dim, far-removed world of our childhood, where shadowy memories loom vast. Remember, too, that in this world there really is no place like that first home, be it ever so humble, so rich, so gentle—or so violent. The self-punishing woman may not be happy with her destructive pattern, but she feels safer with it because it is familiar.

It is never useful to blame one's parents after one is well out of childhood. Nor should a woman blame herself. She should simply decide to give herself a new chance in life. She may then be able to understand why she has rejected other possible partners to whom she was not initially attracted. The woman acting under a compulsion to get involved with Mr. Wrong probably is attractive to many men, but is not intrigued by the "right" ones. She should accept invitations anyhow—to dinner, movies and parties—with men other than the type she usually selects. She must talk with them and learn that such men can be good friends and more.

There are success stories. . . .

Take Adele. She maintained a hide-away apartment on a quiet street for her married lover's convenience. He was defying his wife, his church, his children, even grandchildren and his own conscience. But Adele's beauty, passion and devotion were too much for him.

It took therapy to show Adele that she loved him only because he represented her father—hard-drinking, gray-haired, paunchy and hail-fellow-well-met in manner. After seeing herself clearly as a woman enslaved by the past, she was able to break off with him. At the age of 40 she has found an eligible man, enough like her father to interest her, but with many good characteristics all his own. They plan to be married within the year.

A girl who cannot seem to find her way alone can obtain a list of qualified psychologists and psychiatrists by contacting her family doctor or a university or the county medical society. Some young women may be able to change their lives simply by reading and self-analysis. In any case, no one should remain enslaved by the past. Those who have shaken off their chains say it's like getting out of prison. What's sad is that the prison was of their own making.

Dr. Arthur N. Foxe is a former prison psychiatrist and author of "Studies of Criminology." At present, he has a private practice in New York City.

gift, too! ?

That's right!—you'll also receive a Mystery Gift as an extra bonus! We can't tell you what it is (that would spoil the surprise), but the moment your postman delivers it, you'll be glad you joined!

If you join the Club now and agree to buy as few as ten records during the coming two years (you'll have up to 300 records a month to choose from)

YES, IT'S TRUE—if you join the Columbia Record Club right now, you may have your choice of ANY 14 of these records for only $2.86. And all you have to do is agree to buy as few as ten records (at the regular Club price) during the coming two years. That's right!—two full years in which to buy your ten records. After doing so, you'll have acquired a sizable library of 24 records of your choice—at practically a 50% saving off regular Club prices!

AS A MEMBER you will receive, every four weeks, a copy of the Club's entertaining music magazine. Each issue describes the regular selection for each musical interest and almost 300 other records... hit albums from every field of music, from scores of America's leading record labels.

HOW TO ORDER. If you do not want any record in any month—just tell us so by returning the selection card by the date specified... or use the card to order any of the records offered. If you want only the regular selection for your musical interest, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. And from time to time, we will offer some special albums, which you may reject by returning the special dated form provided—or accept by simply doing nothing.

RECORDS SENT ON CREDIT. Upon enrollment, the Club will open a charge account in your name... you pay for your records only after you have received them. They will be mailed and billed to you at the regular Club price of $4.98 or $5.98 (occasional special albums somewhat higher), plus a mailing and handling charge.

FANTASTIC BONUS PLAN. As soon as you complete your enrollment agreement, you may cancel membership whenever you wish. If you continue, you will automatically become eligible for the Club's bonus plan, which entitles you to one record of your choice free (plus 25¢ for mailing and handling) for every one you buy thereafter!

TO RECEIVE YOUR 14 RECORDS FOR ONLY $2.86 just fill in the coupon and mail it to us, together with your check or money order for $2.86, as payment in full for your first 14 records. Also be sure to indicate the type of music in which you are mainly interested. Act today!

Lamb Chops Gratiné With Stuffed Mushrooms

Lamb chops are the main ingredient of an elegant summer dinner, served with salad, hot dinner rolls and tall glasses of iced coffee.

Filled mushroom caps and broiled lamb chops topped with a mixture of garlic-buttered crumbs, chopped mushrooms, and parsley become beautifully brown-crusted during the final moments of broiling.

BROILED LAMB CHOPS GRATINÉ

- 6 rib lamb chops, cut about 1½ in. thick
- Cooking oil
- 18 medium mushrooms, cleaned
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 large clove garlic, minced
- 1¼ to 1¾ cups coarse dry bread crumbs
- ¼ cup chopped parsley

1. Brush chops with oil and set on rack of a broiler pan. Broil 6 to 7 in. from heat 10 to 12 min. on each side, or until desired degree of doneness. After turning chops, season with salt and lemon pepper marinade.

2. Meanwhile, remove stems from mushrooms and chop them. Sprinkle inside of caps with Accent and set aside.

3. Heat ¼ cup of the butter or margarine in a skillet. Mix in garlic and chopped mushroom stems; cook about 5 min., stirring occasionally. Blend in remaining ¼ cup of butter or margarine and stir until melted. Mix in bread crumbs and parsley until crumbs are well coated.

4. Fill mushroom caps and top broiled chops with crumb mixture. Set caps on broiler rack with chops. Broil 2 to 3 min., or until crumbs are golden-brown.

Transfer chops and mushrooms to a heated serving plate. 6 servings

SLICED CUCUMBERS PIQUANT WITH RELISHES

- ¼ cup water
- 3 tablespoons sugar

- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 large cucumber, scrubbed and scored with a fork
- ½ cup white wine vinegar
- Snipped parsley

1. Combine the water, sugar, salt, and pepper in a small saucepan. Bring to boiling and remove from heat. Set aside to cool.

2. Slice the cucumber very thin and put into a bowl. Add the vinegar to the cooled liquid and pour mixture over the cucumber; toss lightly. Let stand at least 15 min. before serving. Sprinkle snipped parsley over top and toss.

3. To serve, accompany with a tray of assorted iced crisp relishes including zucchini, carrots, celery and radishes.

About 6 servings

If you'd bought a pound of Miracle Brand Margarine last week, instead of regular margarine, you could've spread 36 extra slices of bread.

Miracle Brand Margarine is whipped to give you 36 extra pats . . . two extra sticks per pound. And whipping makes Miracle extra light and easy to spread.

Division of Kraft Corporation

CHOCOLATE SOUFFLÉ

- ½ teaspoon butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar
- 6 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 oz. (3 sq.) unsweetened chocolate
- ½ cup sifted cake flour
- 1½ cups milk
- 6 egg yolks (about ½ cup)
- ¾ cup sugar
- 2 tablespoons vanilla extract
- 6 egg whites (about 1 cup)
- Confectioners' sugar

1. Butter bottom of a 2-qt. soufflé dish (straight-sided casserole) and sift the 1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar over bottom. Set aside.

2. Put butter or margarine and chocolate into a heavy saucepan over low heat, and stir occasionally until melted. Blend in cake flour. Add milk gradually, mixing thoroughly. Stirring constantly, bring to boiling over medium heat. Remove from heat and set aside.

3. Beat egg yolks, sugar, and extract together in a bowl until thick. Continuing to beat, slowly pour egg mixture into beaten egg mixture until thoroughly blended.

4. Using a clean bowl and beater, beat egg whites until stiff, not dry; peaks are formed. Spread egg yolk mixture over egg whites and gently fold together. Gently turn into the soufflé dish. Set soufflé dish on oven rack placed so that top will be at center of oven.

5. Bake at 350°F. 50 to 55 min., or until a knife inserted halfway between center and edge comes out clean.

6. Remove from oven. Immediately sift confectioners' sugar over top and bring to the table. Accompany with a bowl of thawed frozen whipped dessert topping and salted almonds or pecans. 8 to 10 servings

Lose 10 pounds in 10 days!

AND WATCH UNWANTED INCHES DISAPPEAR FROM HIPS, THIGHS & WAISTLINE!

Here's a laboratory-tested, weight loss and figure-trimming method you can trust... tests conducted by the Performance Physiology Laboratory of a major West Coast University proved that it is possible for some persons to lose as much as 10 pounds in 10 days following the Body Shaper 3-Way Plan. The average weight loss of all persons tested was one-half pound per day, every day during the ten day test. Some samples of the 20-day results are pictured above! Now you can enjoy this amazing discovery -- guaranteed to work for you, or your money back.

"The secret to losing weight is not a dramatic change in your eating habits..." Contrary to what you may believe, you need not starve yourself to lose weight. According to the world's leading medical associations and governmental agencies as well as The Body Shaper Plan, what you need is to eat smaller moderated amounts. With the complete Body Shaper Plan you can eat the foods your family eats, never "starve" or over-exercise, and yet still accelerate weight loss and direct inches removal!

HOW THE BODY SHAPER PLAN WORKS ITS WONDERS. There are three simple requirements to The Body Shaper Plan. The Body Shaper is a modern, carefully designed and engineered product. The combination of the Body Shapers food plan and body movement program work together to accelerate weight loss and inches removal. The Body Shapers themselves are not designed to affect weight loss; they do their part by creating a Sauna-like warmth and gentle massaging action to soothe and relax the hip, thigh, and waistline area. It's not magic; it's not trickery. The Body Shaper Plan will help you lose weight quickly, easily and more surely—it's actually guaranteed.

THE "SECRET" IS THE COMBINATION. The Body Shaper Plan is a combination which is designed to work, if honored together. The Body Shaper "combination" is made up of three items: your Body Shaper, the copyrighted Body Shaper Food Plan and the Body Shaper Movement Program — "exercises" which do not overtax you in any way. As is true of all successful weight loss programs, The Body Shaper Plan should be undertaken with the knowledge and guidance of your family doctor. The Body Shaper Plan will help you tone and shape your body... It will help you reduce your weight — all quicker and faster than you may believe possible. The actual number of pounds that you will lose depends upon your body structure, present weight, metabolism, and other factors.

ABSOLUTE SATISFACTION OR YOUR MONEY REFUNDED!
It's guaranteed—you have nothing to lose but weight and inches. Fill out the coupon below and enclose your cash, check or money order for just $12.95. Use your Body Shaper Three-Way Plan for 10 days, if you're not satisfied your money will be promptly refunded.

"I WENT FROM SIZE 16 TO 12"

... in just a little over 2 weeks with the Body Shapers 3-Way Plan. Just by jumping into my Body Shapers, I jumped into a whole new life style. I lost 10 pounds in the first 10 days. People I know are just floored at my results. I'm more confident. The pounds just seemed to melt away."

Carol Louise Cardin

"I LOST 14 POUNDS IN 20 DAYS with the Body Shapers 3-Way Plan. I feel it helped me take off excess inches in the "problem places" that just dieting alone never touches. I wanted to lose in my waist and thighs especially, and I lost everywhere — 7 1/2 inches total from waist, abdomen, hips and thighs! I'm very pleased."

Sandra Wolf

"I LOST 7 1/2 INCHES from my waist, hips, thighs and went from a 20 1/2 to size 16. I lost 12 pounds in 3 weeks on the Body Shaper 3-Way Plan. It really helps you lose in the right places, which encourages you to continue. I feel better now in every way."

Their garden? Just a window box on a city street.

But they're choosy. They want it splashed with color. All year round.

Their cigarette? Viceroy. They won't settle for less. It's a matter of taste.

What in the World!

STEWARDESS CYNTHIA ROBERTSON
Is she a "Flying Tiger"?

Meet the tiger lady, on a tiger, with a tiger. The only tiger that's real here is the baby Bengal with its paws out to Cynthia Robertson. She's one of 1,000 National Airlines hostesses who got together to design their own uniform instead of accepting what was offered by a name designer. It took a committee of the girls one year to interview their colleagues about likes and dislikes, to experiment, to redesign, and finally to computerize all measurements into just three sizes—tiny, typical and tall. (You may have noticed airline stewardesses don't vary much.) The tiger-skin coat, of course, is synthetic because conservationists want to protect real tigers from becoming an extinct species.

We tested some sports fans about what they knew about all-time football records. Many knew the leading seasonal rusher and passer (Cleveland Browns' Jim Brown—1,863 yards rushing, season of 1963; and the New York Jets' Joe Namath—4,007 yards passing, season of 1967). But not many could tell who had suffered the most fumbles or which team enjoyed the longest winning streak (Dallas Cowboys' Don Meredith, 16 fumbles in the season of 1964; and 17 games won by the Chicago Bears season of 1933-34). How did you score?

How much reading is "enough"? One hour and 45 minutes a day for newspapers, magazines and books is the minimum advocated by Dr. George Gallup, the famous public-opinion pollster. Otherwise, he observes, a person is not likely to go very far. Furthermore, by the age of 10, predictions are that pupils who devote most of their nonschool time to television may be on their way to dropping out. Those who enjoy reading are, and will be, the top students.

What? Let your infant design his own picture book? He'd love it, suggests a new mini-newsletter called "The Open Home"—and you would learn a lot about what he's thinking. With baby on lap, turn the pages of any magazine—FAMILY WEEKLY, for instance. He'll indicate his favorite photos (babies usu-

Covering early learning from birth to six, "The Open Home's" philosophy is that you don't need special toys or teaching talent to help baby learn. "All you need is in your head and in your home." You can get a year's subscription by sending $5.95 to "The Open Home," 159 W. 53 St., New York, N. Y. 10019.
